Two Greenville Men At Inauguration

Their Backs Were Turned When President Passed By

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Two Greenville men who stood along the parade route in Washington, D.C. as Pres. Eisenhower passed after being sworn in for a second term last Monday barely had time to see the nation's chief executive.

"We were busy," says Lt. Tom Brown, executive officer of the State Highway Patrol Troop "A".

"As the president rode by we definitely had to turn our backs on him," agrees city Police Officer Clyde Stubbs.

The reason the two officers were working when thousands of others were watching the elaborate procession was because they were among five officers from North Carolina and 90 police officers from throughout the United States and its possessions chosen for special duty with the Secret Service during the inauguration.

Officers were chosen by congressional recommendation for the special police detail and they worked under supervision of the Metropolitan Police Department. They were among the thousands of uniformed and plain clothes officers who guarded the president and watched over the safety of visitors during the many events of the day.

Military personnel were stationed in front of the crowds, Brown says, and the officers in plain clothes remained behind the spectators.

The special officers watched the crowd in their section for pickpockets or for any suspicious acts.

Urges President 'To Speak Out'

ATLANTA (AP)—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, has asked President Eisenhower to "speak out from his high office" against what he described as lawlessness and violence against the Negro in the South.

Addressing a rally last night, Wilkins said the President can see the plight of the Negro, he gives the Negro a personal attention, but he "chooses to remain silent while American citizens are being bludgeoned out of their freedoms and their rights."

Poll Shows Many Legislators Undecided On Highway Change

By NOEL YANCEY

RALEIGH (AP)—Indications are that many Tar Heel legislators have not made up their minds about a study commission's proposals to revamp the State Highway Commission. At present, the reorganization plan seems to have stronger support in the House than in the Senate.

This was shown today in the tabulation of questionnaires sent legislators by The Associated Press.

Recommendations of the study group call for a seven-member highway commission to replace the present 15-member commission, and a number of other changes. Gov. Hodges has given the plan his hearty endorsement.

The poll showed 11 House members favored the recommendations, one was inclined to favor it, four were opposed, one was undecided. Of the Senators, 28 favored the plan, two opposed it and three were undecided.

The study group said its recommendation for a seven-member highway commission was made in the hope that its members would look at the needs of the state as a whole, rather than from a sectional point of view.

Under another of the study group's proposals, the executive officer of the highway department would be called "director of highways" and he would not be a member of the highway commission.

At present, the commission chairman is the executive officer. Other recommendations would give counties greater voice in the improvement of secondary, or farm-to-market roads; would call for more state-wide planning; and would restrict political activities of commission personnel.

Comments of legislators participating in the poll included Rep. John W. Umstead of Orange, who said, there are "some minor details... which I do not agree but on the whole I favor the program."

Rep. J. Roy Parker Sr. of Hertford said he was undecided as to the number of members the highway commission should have, but favors other recommendations of the study commission.

Dulles Sidesteps Spending Query On Mid-East Sum

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary Dulles pleaded today that Congress trust President Eisenhower to make good use of the 200 million dollars the administration asks for military and economic aid to Middle East nations.

Pressed by Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) for more information on how the money would be spent, Dulles told a Senate hearing:

"If we have to pinpoint everything we propose to do, this program will not serve its purpose."

"If Congress is not willing to trust the President to the extent he asks, we can't win this battle."

Dulles said too that the Middle East situation could end in "a great disaster to the United States" if Eisenhower was not given the military and economic powers he asks.

Eisenhower asked authority to send in U.S. troops against any overt Communist aggression in the Middle East, and approval for spending up to 200 million dollars out of available funds this year on economic aid.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said Senate opposition "is beginning to disintegrate" despite "grave doubts some of us have about what the administration proposes to do."

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said in a separate interview that support for the administration's resolution

Hodges Raises Questions On N.C. School Program

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges raised many questions last night which he said need to be answered "in a long-range campaign to awaken our citizens to the problems and opportunities of our public schools."

Hodges told the North Carolina Citizens Committee for Better Schools that "school people, including teachers and in many cases superintendents, are so burdened down with frills and extra stuff, there is too little time for real educational planning."

The governor said "We should take time... to raise questions and to get the answers" on how North Carolina's schools can be improved.

"What are the objections on the part of any of us for testing teachers to their fitness for teaching special subjects or teaching at all?" he asked. "I am not suggesting that those who don't rate very well be pushed out, I am simply saying that the principle ought to be recognized and we ought to know and use modern testing methods, to do the best we know how."

"What," he added, "are the objections to testing the product, the child, as to whether he is ready for college? Whether he can really read and write? Whether he knows English and math?"

The governor spoke at the organizational meeting of the committee which he appointed recently. In an afternoon session, the committee heard several talks and then divided into three discussion groups before reassembling to report on the discussions.

Holt McPherson of High Point, committee chairman, told the group he did not share the belief that "there's nothing wrong with the schools that money won't cure." He said he was concerned "at some disturbing trends in schools in recent years."

In his talk, the governor pointed out that the 31-member committee "has nothing to do with, nor will it have anything to do with the problem of segregation." Several Negroes are on the committee.

Hodges recommended that the committee not "become involved with school budgets, proposals or other such matters which may come before the 1957 General Assembly." The committee, he said, is not to make a report to anybody except the public.

The governor said, "You should ask yourselves the questions: 'What does the modern child need? Are we taking care of these needs? Have we become too modern? Have we forgotten and left behind some of the fundamentals that proved so well in our beginning?'"

Another question he raised was, "How are we to build the 400 million dollars worth of buildings in North Carolina that we estimate we will need by 1960?"

"Why," he added, "Aren't teachers paid on a more practical dignified, year round basis...?"

Israeli-Egyptian Positions Harden As Deadline Nears

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Rival Israeli-Egyptian positions on a Middle East settlement hardened today as the midnight deadline neared for Israel's troop withdrawal from Egypt and the Gaza Strip.

Israel again told the U.N. it would not quit the Mediterranean coastal strip and the area controlling the Gulf of Aqaba without concrete guarantees of protection.

That continuing stand was seen in Cairo as an urgent sign the U.N. must act swiftly to avert another violent explosion in the Middle East. Egypt and the other nations of the Asian-African bloc expected to demand that the U.N. impose economic penalties on Israel to force withdrawal from the two areas on the Egyptian side of the 1949 armistice line.

The 80-nation General Assembly set the midnight deadline for a report from Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld on Israel's response to the U.N. demand.

Hammarskjöld was not expected to announce his findings until tomorrow, but Israel's reiteration of its stand seemed to make obvious what he could report.

The latest Israeli statement, delivered to Hammarskjöld in a seven-page memorandum, apparently set the stage for another major Middle East debate in the Assembly starting Monday. Diplomats said it would deal not only with Israeli troop movements but also would go into the whole future of the U.N. Emergency Force in Egypt.

Most delegates felt a resolution amounting to a call for a boycott of Israel would have trouble clearing the Assembly.

Reports from Cairo said Egypt might halt the clearing of the Suez Canal if the U.N. turned down a demand for sanctions. They declared the situation would then become more critical than the period that preceded the October invasion of Egypt.

A slowdown in canal clearance work already was reported by some Egyptian and U.N. sources in Egypt.

The Cairo newspaper Al Messaa also warned Egypt may resort to military action as well as clearance delays to force the Israelis out.

Believe Russians Fly Over Canada

OTTAWA (AP)—Competent Canadian officials say they believe Russian planes occasionally make reconnaissance flights over northern Canada and Alaska.

They say that as far as they know no Canadian or American plane has ever been able to intercept such a flight. The United States has jet fighters, stationed in Alaska but Canada has no interceptors based that far north.

Thus there has not been positive identification of a Soviet plane flying over northern Canada. Generally only vapor trails of aircraft have been seen, so high that the planes themselves were not visible.

Such vapor trails have been spotted over the unpopulated northern archipelago—a time when it was known that no Canadian or American planes were in the area. Therefore it was assumed the vapor trails came from Russian reconnaissance planes. It was also assumed that the intruders did not penetrate deeply over Canadian territory.

Authorities say they believe the only purpose of such reconnaissance flights is to take high-level photographs of terrain where the DEW Distant Early Warning radar line is being built along the 70th Parallel. There is an airfield at each major Dew Line station.

No particular alarm is expressed in Ottawa about the Russian reconnaissance flights, if that is what they are. It is believed the Russians can gain little or no valuable information from them.

The Canadian officials declined to speculate whether the U.S. Air Force makes similar high-level flights over Russian territory. They indicate privately, however, that the Americans do.

Fifteen Killed In Fighting Over Village 'God'

NEW DELHI (AP)—Fifteen persons were reported killed in clashes between police and followers of a self-styled "God" in a remote village 100 miles east of New Delhi.

Official reports gave this account:

About three months ago a handsome young man arrived in the village and said he was a religious man. His striking appearance and speech soon brought him many followers and he assumed the "God" title.

Last Sunday two strangers wandered into the village. Inhabitants tried to force them to pay homage to the "God." The strangers refused and were beaten.

They escaped, contacted authorities and a police unit was sent to the village. The "God's" followers ambushed and killed seven policemen, taking their firearms to replace their staves and pitchforks.

The armed villagers subsequently held off reinforced police forces for a time, but finally were overcome in a fight in which eight townspeople were killed and eight police wounded.

New Crackdown Inside Hungary

BUDAPEST (AP)—Premier Janos Kadar's Soviet-supported government cracked down today with additional arrests of "counterrevolutionaries." Among those seized recently, it was learned, are eight well-known Hungarian newspapermen.

The government-controlled press reported at least 13 new arrests as the Communist secret police spread their dragnets to catch people with hidden arms or suspected of antigovernment activity.

The new arrests of newsmen brought to at least 15 the number of prominent literary and journalistic figures jailed for having participated in the October anti-Soviet revolt.

Only one of the new arrests, that of journalist Gabor Foly, was reported in the controlled press. He was accused of getting "children 10 to 12 years old to collect military information."

The arrests are part of the government's announced campaign to "liquidate the remnants of the counterrevolution" and to "settle accounts with our enemies."

A Communist-controlled newspaper in Miskolc charged that the counterrevolutionaries now were aiming their antigovernment attacks to the farms, where they are driving to smash the Soviet-style collectivized agriculture.

It was three months ago yesterday that student unrest sparked the Hungarian revolution.

Secret police nipped any repetition by sending warnings to the schools. Teachers were instructed to tell their classes that "unpleasant things" might happen if students appeared on the streets with the red, white and green Hungarian emblem in their lapels.

Chest Directors Delay Continuance Decision

Directors of Greenville's Community Chest yesterday afternoon delayed for 30 days final decision on whether to discontinue the Chest's annual fund-raising efforts for eight local agencies.

Deference of action came after report on the 1956 fund campaign showed that the efforts fell $800 short of its goal.

Last March directors of the organization passed a resolution calling for the Community Chest to cease its fund-raising efforts if the campaign for funds did not reach its goal. 1956 marked the fourth consecutive year that the Chest has failed to reach its goal in the annual campaign for funds.

Although six new members were named to the board of directors of the organization at the meeting yesterday afternoon, election of other officers of the new year was deferred until the next meeting of the board. Named to the board of directors yesterday were Mrs. H. L. Ormond, L. S. Ficklen, J. B. Kittrell, Jr., Dave Whitchard, J. G. Clark and W. H. Watson.

W. H. Watson, co-chairman of the 1956 fund campaign, reported to the board a total of $13,746.84 raised during the campaign period and an additional $328. has subsequently been pledged for the fund, making a total of $14,075 raised or activities of Community Chest agencies during the current year. Watson praised the efforts of those

Eight Accused Of Hiding Reds In Labor Unions

CLEVELAND (AP)—Eight persons accused of plotting to conceal Communists in labor union jobs were ordered before a federal grand jury today.

A federal grand jury yesterday returned an indictment, first of its kind in the country, accusing the eight of plotting to evade the Taft-Hartley law by lying, or persuading other persons to lie, about Communist affiliations. It charged the eight conspired to fake resignations from the Communist party, and conceal the plot by using aliases, secret codes and other devices.

The indictment said the conspiracy was hatched in May 1949 and is still going on.

Eight other persons, some of them national leaders of the Communist party, were named as "co-conspirators," although they were not indicted.

Federal Judge Paul C. Weick set bond at $10,000 for each of the eight defendants.

Police Concede Woman Keyed Bomber's Arrest

Kennedy, under pressure from reporters, held a news conference yesterday and discussed several discrepancies in accounts of the break in the 16-year-old case.

"Commissioner, in view of being informed of this file on Friday, and having a check made by Connecticut police on Saturday, was it good police work, in your opinion, that nothing was done until Monday night?"

The commissioner gave an explanation of why his detectives did not go to Waterbury until Monday night, although police got Metesky's name and address from the phone from Consolidated Edison late Friday and on Saturday got confirmation from Waterbury police that Metesky had just been interviewed at his home there.

Fatal Crash On Motor Scooter

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A 14-year-old boy riding a motor scooter that had no lights was killed in a collision with an automobile here last night.

The victim was David Eugene Watkins, of Rt. 4, Charlotte. The boy from whom he had borrowed the scooter said it had just been rebuilt and he had not yet put lights or a license tag on it.

Huskins said Watkins was hit when a car driven by Stonewall J. Harrington overtook him as both vehicle were headed toward the Charlotte airport. Harrington swerved to the left and collided head-on with a car driven by William M. Smith. Huskins said one of the autos then hit the scooter, throwing Watkins some 50 feet through the air.

NEW YORK (AP)—Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy has conceded that it was an employee of the Consolidated Edison Co.—not one of his detectives—who turned up the documents that led to the arrest of George Metesky as the Mad Bomber.

Kennedy also concedes that police did not personally examine the documents until Monday morning, although they were notified Friday afternoon of the contents of the discovery.

Metesky, 53, was arrested Monday night at his Waterbury, Conn. home by New York and Waterbury police.

Consolidated Edison, the metropolitan area's giant electric and gas utility, credited Miss Alice G. Kelly, a 25-year employee, with finding the file of letters that led to the Bomber's arrest.

Metesky, a disgruntled former employee of Consolidated Edison, had written letters to the company complaining that he had not received sufficient compensation for an alleged incapacitating on-the-job injury he claimed to have received in 1931.

The question of who found the vital clue will have direct bearing on disposition of the $26,000 reward offered in the case.

Police sources maintained Tuesday that Detective Bertram Scott picked the Metesky letters from the Consolidated Edison files. Members of the Police Department are not allowed to accept rewards such as the one posted. It was asserted yesterday at

Club Program On Milne's Life

Mrs. Wyatt Brown presented a sketch of author A. A. Milne's life at a meeting of the Inter Se Book Club Tuesday.

Mrs. Plato Evans was hostess to the club at her home.

At Cambridge Milne was editor of the college paper, according to Mrs. Brown's talk. He became assistant editor to the magazine "Punch" at 24 years of age.

After serving in World War I, he devoted his time to writing, using his son at age three as source material for one of his famous children's books.

Plays written by the author include "Michael and Mary," "Brenda" and "Mr. Pim Passes By." Death came to Milne January 31, 1956.

Mrs. Brown concluded her program by reading some verses from a Christopher Robin book.

Members were invited into the dining room, after the program, where a salad course, coffee and accompaniments were served by Mrs. E. H. Willford and Mrs. Guy Evans.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. L. B. Harris, Mrs. Van Fleming Sr., Mrs. Hoover Taft, Mrs. Guy Evans, Mrs. D. A. Blue and Mrs. Grover Everett.

Book Reviewed At Club Meet

"No Wings In The Manse" was reviewed for members and guests of the Sans Souci Book Club by Mrs. J. B. Spilman at their regular meeting Tuesday.

The book, by Betty Frist, is "a story of life and laughter under the preacher's roof." The author was a preacher's daughter and a preacher's wife.

Many humorous events in the author's life were cited by the speaker.

Mrs. Fred Forbes and Mrs. C. S. Forbes were joint hostesses for the meeting held at the Woman's Club.

A three course luncheon was served followed by a short business session presided over by Mrs. C. S. Forbes in the absence of the club president, Mrs. J. T. Cheatham.

Guests for the occasion were Mrs. Spilman, Mrs. T. T. Hollingsworth, Miss Elizabeth Copeland, Mrs. Percy Upchurch, Mrs. W. M. Howard Jr. and Mrs. Marvin Blount.

Mrs. Larkin Gives Program

"Among all the religions by which men seek to worship, Christianity is the most widely spread, embraces the largest number of adherents and makes the most stupendous claims for the most of its founder and the finality of its teaching," Mrs. E. W. Larkin Jr. told members of the Lector Book Club Tuesday.

The program was one of a series presented the club on the outstanding religions of the world.

Mrs. Larkin told the story of Jesus—His teachings, His life, His death, His resurrection and His followers.

Through Peter and Paul, particularly, Christianity develops as an institution and as a teaching, a theology and a faith, the speaker said.

"If Christianity is not right, then nothing matters; if Christianity is right, then nothing else matters," Mrs. Larkin concluded.

Mrs. Powell Speight was hostess to the club at her home.

During a business session presided over by Mrs. Travis Flanagan, a nominating committee was appointed and also a planning committee for the club's Valentine party.

Upon arrival, members were served a dessert course with coffee by Mrs. Speight, assisted by her mother, Mrs. W. N. Sprull.

Guests included Mrs. Sprull, Mrs. Kermit Tyson, Mrs. R. H. McLawhorn Jr., Mrs. Jack Dail and Mrs. Bill McLawhorn.

Team Produces Record Album

Take a hubby-wife team, their 8-year-old daughter, several French language enthusiasts, and a few child psychologists. Mix well.

The result? A new record album, "French for the Younger Set," just released. The album, designed for youngsters from 3 to 8, includes eight songs and games aimed at introducing small fry to a second language in a happy, playful way.

The music was written by Israel Ross; performed by his wife, Sylvia, a nursery school teacher, and their daughter, Elise, who sings a traditional French lullaby on one disc.

The lyrics are the work of Dr. Zeldia Klapper and Deborah Johnson, both child psychologists.

Included in the album is an instructional booklet, complete with game suggestions, French vocabulary used in the songs and a pronunciation guide done by Alex de Joia, French master at an exclusive private boy's school.

JURY OBJECTED

DALLAS (AP) — Robert Townson, 18, was given a three-year suspended sentence and $5 for a haircut. The jury foreman told Townson's attorney "we don't like his Elvis Presley haircut and want you to see that he gets it cut." The youth was charged with breaking into a cement company.

Patient Circle 2 Holds Monthly Meet

The newly organized Patient Circle 2 of The King's Daughters held its monthly meeting January 16 at the home of Louise Smaw.

Highlight of the evening was a program entitled "Lost and Found," presented by Miss Smaw.

Devotional was conducted by Carolyn Tripp. Theme was "The Forgiving Spirit."

Jane Fuller, president, presided. The treasurer's report, given by Mickie Sumrell, showed a total of $21.85 on hand.

Sara Upchurch, ways and means chairman, announced plans for a bake sale to be held in February.

A visit to the County Home January 21 was decided upon as this month's project.

A letter of thanks was read by the president from the Shawnee Indian Reservation Hospital in Oklahoma. This was in response for Christmas gifts sent.

Officers of the group include Miss Fuller, president; Miss Tripp, vice-president; Barbara Conway, secretary; Miss Sumrell, treasurer; and Ronita Respass, reporter.

Here's a leftover tip for skewers: alternate cubes of leftover lamb with pineapple chunks and 1-inch pieces of bacon, brush lamb and fruit with melted butter or margarine, and slide under broiler.

AAUW Fellowship Program Discussed

A question-and-answer program on fellowships for advanced study by women, long a project of the American Association of University Women, was the feature of the local AAUW meeting Monday night.

It was led by Mrs. Ruth Garner, chairman of the Fellowship Committee of the Greenville branch, and contributed to by a dozen or more members, including the state chairman of the fellowship work, Mrs. Luther Herring.

The group voted to contribute $100 again this year to the national fellowship program. Before this part of the evening, Mrs. Hugh Patterson, the president, presided at the regular business meeting.

For the social hour, enjoyed by thirty or more members, the hostesses were Misses Louise Williams, Torah Larsen, Lella Higgs, Emma Hooper and Lois Grigsby. The question-and-answer period brought out the information that the AAUW program of fellowships for women is the oldest such project in existence, as it began in 1890 and has awarded grants to women for advanced study every year since; that the Association raised $1,000,000 for such fellowships between 1927 and 1953; and that this academic year 49 women, including two from North Carolina, are studying on such fellowships.

It was pointed out, also, that two types of fellowships being awarded have contributed to international understanding — the Latin-American one, begun in 1917, which has aided women scholars from 14 South American countries; and the International Fellowships, open to properly qualified women from any country that belongs to the International Federation of University Women.

This year 30 women from 20 countries are carrying on advanced research in the United States.

Mrs. Daniel Taylor reported on arrangements for a dinner meeting to be held the third Monday in February.

The guest of honor and speaker will be a national leader of the AAUW, who attended the meeting of the International Federation of University Women this past summer. Members are asked to make reservations early with Mrs. Taylor.

Clothing Accepted For Hungarian Relief

Persons interested in giving used clothing for Hungarian relief may deposit it at the clothing center located in Eighth Street Christian Church.

The center is a joint project sponsored by the Greenville Ministerial Association and the Greenville Council of Church Women. A spokesman for the center said this morning that an attendant is on hand at the church to receive the clothing "most of the time." Interested persons may call 2745 for definite arrangements in depositing the clothing.

Club Hears Goldsboro Speaker

Mrs. Lamont Edgerton of Goldsboro was guest speaker for the Athenaeum Book Club meeting Tuesday.

As the afternoon's subject was "Women in Religion," Mrs. Edgerton chose to review "The Sure Victory" by Madame Chiang Kai-shek, an outstanding figure in Christian work.

Mrs. K. B. Pace was hostess for the luncheon meeting. Shortly after arrival, guests were seated at tables in the dining room and den of the Pace home where they were served a three course luncheon by Mrs. Pace, assisted by Mrs. J. D. Messick.

Mrs. Edgerton explained that the Christian religion has done more to elevate women of the world than any other.

She gave a summary of Madame Chiang's life history and the effect of prayer on her life. Mrs. Edgerton read portions from the book showing the appeal for faith, prayer and brotherhood as the only sure way of victory for the peoples of the world. In closing she said, "To those who persist in prayer there will come a greater faith and an inner joy."

Mrs. Faison Thompson of Goldsboro was also a guest of Mrs. Pace.

Mrs. Little Gives Club Demonstration

Pitt Home Agent Little gave the demonstration on "Planning Family Living" at the monthly meeting of the Timothy Home Demonstration Club.

Devotional was given by Mrs. Glenn Wall.

Mrs. W. R. Wall, club president, presided over the meeting. Leader reports on "How To Plant Your Garden" and "How To Care For House Plants" were given by Mrs. Irene Wall and Mrs. Herbert Taylor, respectively.

Mrs. Glenn Wall was hostess to the club at her home. Five members and two visitors were present.

Following the meeting, roasted pecans, coffee and pineapple cake were served.

Heat leftover cooked carrots with butter and a little sugar.

Bus Wrecks Are Item Of Concern

Fortunately the rash of accidents involving school buses in Pitt County within the past few weeks have not resulted in injuries to any children. Nevertheless, the very fact that school buses have been involved in an abnormally high number of accidents in recent weeks is cause for concern for the entire county.

Accident prevention and highway safety are everybody's business. In the case of school buses, where about 30 youngsters are riding in each vehicle, it is even more important that accidents be avoided.

The number of accidents would suggest that both school bus drivers and drivers of other vehicles on the highways of the county might exercise even a greater degree of caution in an effort to prevent other accidents involving these buses with their precious cargo.

Each day that the schools of Pitt County are in operation approximately 148 school buses take to the highways to carry several thousand youngsters to and from school. Because of the very nature of their work, each of these school buses makes numerous stops along its route to pick up and let off children. Under such circumstances it is important that every driver on the highways exercise extreme caution to prevent accidents in which these buses might become involved.

Were the current rate of accidents involving school buses to continue (three in two days) it would be only a matter of time before the law of averages would thrust the tragedy of a serious school bus accident upon Pitt County.

North Carolina's school bus safety record is one of the best in the country. And so far as serious accidents with school buses are concerned, Pitt County has one of the best records among the counties of North Carolina.

It behooves all the people of Pitt County to do everything in their power to keep it that way.

We're Preparing For That Fabulous Future

Aviation Pioneer Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker painted a fabulous picture of the future in a talk in Charlotte a few days ago. So fabulous in fact, it is difficult to imagine, must less to grasp and understand.

New York to Miami in 30 minutes by air! Across the continent in little more than an hour, fly the Atlantic in two hours and the Pacific in four. These things are sure to come, but it is difficult for one not conversant with the details of aviation progress to be able to visualize them.

It is difficult indeed even to visualize that only three years hence the speed of giant transport planes will be boosted from today's 350 miles per hour to 600 miles per hour.

Such predictions from men who are qualified to look into the future of their respective fields makes one realize just how rapidly we are progressing in this hurried and confused world. In a sense the prospects are appalling. In another sense it is thrilling to see that yearly science and engineering are opening countless new doors which lead the people of the world to a new and better life.

Progress in aviation will leave no phase of life untouched, just as progress in every other field now touches every phase of life in every part of the nation.

Aviation progress is bound to affect the people of Pitt County and Eastern North Carolina just as it will affect the metropolitan centers of New York, Chicago, San Francisco, London and Paris.

Whether this area is prepared to accept and benefit by this progress in aviation depends largely upon whether its people are sufficiently wise and willing to take the first step in that direction—the construction of the proposed Mid-East Carolina Airport which will bring adequate air service into the section.

Realistic View In 10-Point Plan

By LYNN NISBET

TRAVEL — The 10-point program adopted by the Travel Council of North Carolina, Inc., at its annual meeting this week, is a realistic approach to the problem of co-ordinating promotion of one of the state's major industries.

Travel business, including out-of-state tourists and vacationers, in-state commercial, sight-seeing and visiting trips, constitutes the second or third major "cash crop" for North Carolina. The annual take has been estimated all the way from $300 million to half a billion dollars.

To promote and develop this industry the State advertising division spends upwards of a $100,000 a year of taxpayers' money. Local chambers of commerce, resort areas, individual hotel, motel and other caterers, spend many more hundreds of thousands of dollars of non-tax money to boost their business.

Because there was no agency in government or of private enterprise to co-ordinate activities there has been a good deal of duplication of effort and lost motion. To correct this lapse the Travel Council was organized more than a year ago with the blessing of Governor Hodges.

With the brassiness incident to youthful inexperience, the Council projected an overly ambitious program. Experiences of the first year taught a more realistic attitude. The program adopted for 1957 is much less expensive in dollars, perhaps will require a bit more personal effort, but in opinion of its sponsors will go far toward eliminating wasteful duplication, and will accomplish more.

The new plan calls for the Travel Council to supplement and support established promotional agencies, governmental and private, rather than launch an independent campaign.

PROGRAM — The program contemplates committees to work with State and Federal governments for adequate highways with reasonable speed and access regulations, for clearer informational and direction signs on public roads, for roadside beautification and similar projects. It suggests cooperative surveys of travel facilities and recreational needs and joint effort to supply demand where it exists.

Perhaps most important in the Travel Council program is the recognition that every community in the state benefits from the travel industry, and locally staffed "travel host schools" should be held at which department store sales people, filling station attendants, street corner cops and bank presidents should be impressed with the obligation of knowing something about their community and the ability to pass along that information with courtesy to even the casual visitor.

As late as one decade ago "tourists" attractions in North Carolina were confined to the beaches and the mountains. These areas have lost none of their charm and still draw patronage from all parts of the country. But the restoration of Tryon's Palace at New Bern and Old Salem, the art museum at Raleigh, the Morehead Planetarium at Chapel Hill and the renaissance of historic interest at other points, plus the labyrinth of good highways and the growing disposition of Americans to go places in new automobiles, has made every community in North Carolina a tourist attraction.

The third of a billion dollars derived from travel this year may well go to more than half a billion in the near future and it is conceivable that travel might become the No. 1 industry in North Carolina and in the United States.

PLAIN TUX — Supreme court justices and government big wigs must share their worries about proper garb for the inauguration exercises with the common people. Witness the letter received by the inauguration committee from a troubled young lady. She wanted to know if her escort at the pre-inaugural ball would have to wear a tux with tails, or if he could get by with just a plain tuxedo suit. It appeared the boy friend had a tux and black tie outfit, did not have tails and white tie accessories. He was told that for his part of the program participation the plain job would suffice.

LOCK? — Do dentists and municipal officials have a lock on the position of Red Cross chairman in Beaufort county? The question is suggested by a news report from Washington that Dr. Zeno Edwards, a dentist and city councilman of Washington, has succeeded Dr. W.T. Ralph, a dentist and mayor of Beaufort, as head of the Beaufort county Red Cross chapter.

OBEIENT SONSHIP

The statement is often made that we are softs and daughters of the living God.

This is true, but it is one of those truths which calls for further examination.

There are differences between God's children. Very properly we maintain that these differences do not arise as the result of race, color, wealth, culture, or social position. But they do arise because of the moral conditions of men's souls. The prodigal son, before he left his father's home, was a son and he was also a son when he was in a far country wasting his substance in riotous living and later sitting among the pigs and eating carob pods. The difference was between a son who lived in obedience and a son who lived in sin. They were the same person in the flesh but they were two absolutely different people spiritually.

So we are all the sons and daughters of God, but that does not mean at all that there is no difference between God's children. There is a whole universe of differences between those who are living in moral obedience to God and those who are living in willful disobedience.

We are not saved on the basis of sonship alone but on the basis of obedient sonship.

Tribulations Department

The trials and tribulations a reporter has to endure at times might make him wonder seriously if the job is worth the trouble.

Yesterday, for instance, we received word that a school bus had been struck by an automobile in Grifton. An immediate check with the State Highway Patrol didn't turn up any information other than a suggestion that we check with Patrolman Dick Tayloe in Grifton.

A call was made to Tayloe and after getting a wrong number on two occasions Tayloe was finally reached. He advised us that he had seen the accident but since it was within the Grifton town limits he had not handled it. He referred us to Grifton Police Chief J. R. Parker.

The Police Department in Grifton informed the operator that the chief had gone home for lunch (it was shortly after noon by the time we got through to the Police Department). The operator was requested to get the chief's home phone number but the chief's exchange (which handles Grifton's telephone service) said he had no phone listed.

That left us just about where we started. So, we started going down the same road again. Patrolman Tayloe was called again, in hopes that he would be able to contact Chief Parker and have him call us. There was no answer at Tayloe's home. Another call to the Grifton Police Department went unanswered.

Almost in desperation, we placed a call to Grifton High School, hoping we would find somebody there who would know something about the accident. There was no answer at the high school. Deadline time was uncomfortably close, so one would go to lunch and there were very few suggestions about what to do next.

We thought about calling the Highway Patrol headquarters and having them contact Tayloe by radio. A check of the duty sheet showed, however, that Tayloe had gone off duty at 11 a.m. That explained the reason we had not been able to contact him at his home with the late calls we had placed.

We decided to check with the Police Department again and got an answer. The chief had not returned from lunch but we found out when he was expected to be back in his office.

We eyed the clock, held our breaths and hoped he'd get back in time for us to get the information for use in yesterday's paper.

He did. But it was a long wait.

Cop's Story Told

By REILMAN MORIN
NEW YORK (AP)—"Spring 3100" is a magazine about the life of a man you see every day. It shows him playing many parts, even, on occasion, the role of a midwife. Mostly, though, he appears as a soldier in a war that never ends. Usually, he is a family man, but he never knows when he goes to work whether he will come back.

Want to come into a policeman's world?
"Spring 3100" is the journal of the New York police, but the man it mirrors is the good cop in any town.

He has terrific pride in his uniform, his mission, and his outfit —

"Memo to the new men in the command: the 5th precinct is always first."

"Frank Duca did it again while off duty on his way home. Captured three men after a two-mile, movie-style chase at 60 miles an hour. Good work and the kind that will reduce the amount of auto larceny cases."

He is anxious to qualify for promotion —

"The department once again receives its most severe test this month when about 11,425 patrolmen compete for the rank of sergeant. This represents almost half the total force. The study will not be lost or wasted because such effort makes patrolmen 'better cops.'"

His esprit de corps extends to his family —

"The two sons of a police lieutenant proved the adage 'Like father like son' Nov. 12 when they ran into two youth breaking into a clothing store. Edward and Walter Marks, sons of Lieut. Marcus Marks, grappled with the two burglars, one of whom stabbed Edward in the abdomen with a switch blade knife. Walter held the other until police arrived."

He never knows what the next moment may bring —

"Saw Herman Perry this morning; had his face splashed with acid last night. Answered a family fight and this female met him at the door with a jar of lye."

"Patrolman Burnett Harris, noticed a man brandishing a revolver in a grocery store, quickly overpowered him. The thug's gun was more than 100 years old."

"Deputy Chief Inspector Michael Ladden stopped a suspect in Corona who had some 65 gallons of 190-proof booze in his auto."

Few men enjoy as much camaraderie in their work —

"Our precinct is forming a debating team. The first two applicants were Fognhorn Walsh and Honeytones Mammola."

"An arm wrestling match we would like to see! Vince Roberts versus Stanley Finkelstein, the winner to take on Salior Magee."

Muscle and fast reaction are no longer enough —

"Browsing in the Library" advises him to study "density and refractive index, their application in criminal identification," and "the police and the public."

He likes to kid himself and his buddies —

"What new sergeant, meeting Sgt. Cerrone in civilian clothes — asked, 'Look here, sonny, is that your car parked outside? Wow!'"

"Definition of the Word Cop: It does not mean Caught Off Post. The word stems from the gaslight era, meaning Constable On Patrol."

And he feels it when there is a gap in the ranks —

"The posthumous award went to Patrolman William G. Long who was killed when shot by a man tampering with an auto. Patrolman Long left a widow and three children."

He is a soldier in the war without a cease-fire who would be embarrassed if you called him a hero.

Opinions In Brief

'TEEN-AGERS'

(New Orleans Item)
The term "teen-ager" has become synonymous with "juvenile delinquent," says a Wyoming newspaper publisher. He has banned the use of the term "teen-ager" in stories concerning crime, to try to head off the unfavorable association.

It looks like this publisher has the right train but is on the wrong track. Most news reports here about teen-agers still, happily, pertain to praiseworthy things like school and club activities.

The term "teen-ager" could use a bit of rehabilitation in the public eye. The way to do it is to accentuate the positive.

FRANKLIN, IND., REPUBLICAN: "Independent of all alliances and other division of the world into rival camps, the United States and India together can make strong cause in behalf of a higher world morality."

Decision's Effect On Prosecutions

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court's overriding of Pennsylvania's Anti-Communist Statute in the famous Steve Nelson case has had the expected effect of preventing States' prosecution of violators of the Pure Food and Drug and the Federal Anti-Narcotic Acts.

These lawbreakers must now be prosecuted only in Federal Courts, with the accompanying delays of several years before a final decision. Meanwhile, the 48 States are powerless to protect their citizens against foods harmful to health or against drugs, acknowledged to be the most dangerous of crimes.

Legal records show that State Courts dispose of such serious prosecutions in far less time than it requires in the Federal Judiciary.

THREATENING EFFECT OF DECISION Numerous State jurists have complained against this far-reaching and threatening effect of the Steve Nelson decision in letters or visits to Capitol Hill. They have urged their Representatives to sponsor remedial laws preventing the high tribunal from what they call an "alarming invasion of State sovereignty." They now know how their Southern colleagues feel on the question of the Warren abolition of school segregation.

Representative J. Howard Smith of Virginia, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, introduced such a measure because, as the author of the Federal Anti-Communist Law, he felt that the Supreme Court had misread and misinterpreted the intent of Congress. But so far he has not been able to persuade the House Judiciary Committee to act or report on it favorably.

Representative Emanuel Celler, of Brooklyn, head of the Judiciary Committee, is an enthusiastic champion of Civil Rights Bills, and a bitter foe of the Virginia Congressman's attitude on this question. And the Brooklyn Democrat, like all Committee Chairman, carries his group around in his vest pocket.

CRITICISM, INDIGNATION AGAINST HIGHEST COURT Nobody on Capitol Hill remembers when there has been such severe criticism of and indignation against the Supreme Court on the part of State judges. The revolt amounts to an act of judicial heresy, which is why the names of the leaders cannot be listed here.

Legal and judicial circles were shocked when the Supreme Court held that Steve Nelson could not be prosecuted by Pennsylvania merely because Congress had passed the Smith Act for action against suspected Communists and subversives. But they did not dream that this preemptive doctrine would be invoked by the Supreme Court in such vital and everyday matters as health and crime.

HARMFUL DRUG CASE Soon after the overriding decision, members of the Medical Society of a great Eastern State consulted Representative Smith. They explained that they felt that a certain drug being sold in their state was deleterious to health, and they set out to investigate its ingredients.

But the manufacturers objected successfully on the ground that Congress had stripped the State of jurisdiction by passing the Pure Food and Drug Act, about 50 years ago. The makers took the position that the State statute had been repealed, not by the State Legislature, but by the Supreme Court. The drug is still being sold.

STATE'S DILEMMA The State of Alabama faced the same sort of defense when it sought merely to inspect a stock of renovated butter considered below health standards. Here again, the Supreme Court held that Alabama did not have the right to confiscate the butter to prosecute the manufacturer, or to "inspect" the product.

The Supreme Court's prohibition of mere "inspection" by medical and State authorities has an especially dangerous result, and it cannot be exaggerated.

The Federal government, in its prohibition days and due largely to Congressional misjudgment on appropriations, does not have enough agents to check on violators of these protective laws. It needs all the help it can get from the States and medical experts. Moreover, the Federal Courts are clogged by "the law's delay."

Seek Law Aimed At Shoplifters

RALEIGH — The General Assembly which convenes here next month will be asked to enact stronger laws to help Tar Heel merchants deal with the problem of shoplifting.

This was decided yesterday by the Board of Directors for the North Carolina Merchants Assn. Under the association's proposal merchants, their employees and peace officers would be given the right to arrest or hold a suspected shoplifter for a reasonable length of time without becoming liable for false arrest, unlawful detention or false imprisonment.

Shoplifting has become worse, it was pointed out, as more firms convert to self-service operation. Some stores have suffered a 3 per cent gross loss due to shoplifting, according to Thompson Greenwood, executive vice president of the association.

The directors decided not to put a blanket endorsement on the tax package proposed by the Tax Study Commission. Instead, it was agreed that each tax proposal will be examined "on its individual merit" when all of the 40 merchant bureaus in the state have had opportunity to confer with members of the state board of directors.

TIME ON HIS HANDS — Concentration is mirrored on face of Hungarian boy as he works with modeling clay in an Austrian refugee camp while his future home is determined.

The board decided to hold its 35th annual convention in Greensboro May 5-7. The North Carolina Assn. of Credit Women's Breakfast Clubs will be invited to meet with the association.

The Bolsheviks, with Lenin as premier, ruled Russia from 1917 until 1924. In that year Joseph Stalin came into power.

One Good Turn Earned Another

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — The local Community Chest fund is $5 richer on the theory that one good turn deserves another.

Vacationing H. C. Krook of Clinton, Minn., enlisted the aid of the Joliet Boy Scouts to help him locate his hat. "I don't know the name of the restaurant," he wrote, "but we stopped at a place on Route 30 on the right hand side of the street going west and about three doors from the corner."

Budget Director Summoned To Discuss Appropriations

WASHINGTON — The House Appropriations Committee summoned Budget Director Percival Brundage today for a detailed discussion of next year's federal budget.

But members expected as little help from Brundage as they claimed to have received yesterday from Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey in their announced efforts to find cuts which can be made safely.

President Eisenhower last week proposed a $71,800,000,000 spending budget for the year starting July 1. At that time, Humphrey said cuts could be made. He predicted a future depression unless the upward trend of spending is reversed. But he defended the budget as the best that could be offered at this time.

Eisenhower, at his news conference yesterday, discounted the possibility of a major depression but agreed with Humphrey that congressional committees can find places to cut the spending figures "it is their duty to do it."

Neither Eisenhower nor Humphrey suggested specific places for cuts, and Humphrey took the same approach before the committee yesterday.

"His testimony was educational and interesting but of no practical advantage to the committee in processing this budget," Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) told newsmen. "We're just as much at sea as we were before we heard him."

He didn't point out where we could cut the budget one cent. I'm in favor of cutting everything we can but until I find out more about it I'm not setting any figure."

Rep. Taber (R-NY), senior GOP member, said, "Mr. Humphrey indicated that it (the budget) should be lower but did not say where it could be cut."

Taber himself expressed the opinion "it can be cut from one to three billion dollars."

Humphrey told newsmen after his testimony he still hoped Congress and the executive departments would find ways to cut spending but declined to pinpoint where economies could be effected.

In the Senate, Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) said that if Secretary Humphrey couldn't support the President's budget he ought to resign.

Eisenhower's news conference remarks seemed to squelch any such possibility, but they also pointed up a difference between him and his Cabinet member over how to meet any threat of a depression.

Eisenhower told his news conference "there would be no limit to what the government would do to combat a serious economic downturn, so long as it acted within the Constitution."

Previously, Humphrey had said he would contest any tax cut that would create a deficit—a means suggested by many economists to fight a depression.

Car Rolled Over Embankment

The car shown in the above photo overturned on a steep highway embankment just west of Grimesland around 1 a.m. this morning. Two persons were injured in the crash.

Investigating patrolman James W. Boykin identified the driver as Marvin Earl Buck, a Greenville police officer, whose address was given as 1522 Broad St.

A physician said Buck received a back injury, internal injuries and lacerations and abrasions.

A passenger in the car, Leslie James McRoy, of Greenville Rte. 2, received multiple lacerations and abrasions, a physician said. McRoy is a sergeant in the army.

Each of the two men told Boykin that an approaching car ran their vehicle off the highway. Investigation of the accident is continuing, the patrolman stated.

Flying Farmers' Tour Is Growing

MCALLEN, Tex. (AP) — More members of the National Flying Farmers Assn. were expected today to join the 60 already here in a tour of Mexico.

Craig Wilson, vice president, said more than 125 from the United States and Canada are expected to make the private plane trip. They will meet with Mexican agriculture officials.

Doris Dillingham, Elva Worthington, Boyce Cox, Richard Gorman, Sue Worthington, Peggy Craft, Joy Jackson, Betty Guy, Frankie Whichard, Calvin Hardee and Barbara Hines were among the high school crowd that attended Ray Jackson's birthday party Monday night. The guests enjoyed playing games, dancing, talking and eating.

Paphne Little, Mary Jane Gerkins, Margaret Case, Ernest Gerkins, Louella Mills and Corbitt Joyner attended a party Monday night.

East Carolina College entrance examinations were taken by a group of Winterville High School students Saturday.

Among those taking the examinations were Jimmy Moore, Graham Crawford, Sidney Baker, Alfred Earl Garris, Betty Jean Mobley, Frances Gold, Pete Mills, Janice Worthington, Alice Waters, Pat Hoyle, Carolyn Evans, Doris Crawley and Barbara Evans.

Margie Lou Nichols celebrated her fifteenth birthday with a supper Tuesday night. Among the guests were Irma Sue Worthington, Judith Mobley, Elizabeth Carroll, Brenda Wall, Romana Nobles, Sue Ellen Hunsucker and Ellen Hill.

The annual winter concert at East Carolina College, an event which each year attracts a large audience from the campus and elsewhere, will take place Friday, February 8, at 8 p.m. in the Wright auditorium. The program will be presented as an attraction of the Eastern Division of the All-State Band Clinic, which will be in session during the weekend with high school bands from the eastern part of the state in attendance.

WHALE OF A FIRE
BLOCK ISLAND, R.I. (AP)—Town officials have figured out what to do with the 60-foot whale blown ashore last Monday night. Because there isn't enough beach to bury it, authorities decided last night to baste it with kerosene, pile drift wood around it and burn it. But they'll wait until the wind is blowing the other way.

For a really good-tasting plain muffin, use four tablespoons each of butter (or margarine) and sugar for two cups of flour.

'Alumni' Rally In Jailer's Defense
DANVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Eight self-tagged "Veterans of Jails and Penal Institutions across the United States" have rallied to defense of their host—Boyle County Jailer Joe Edwards.

"We know what we are talking about," they wrote in a letter to the editor of the local Advocate-Messenger, answering criticism of jail conditions made by the county grand jury.

"Mr. Edwards is one of the best jailers we have ever seen," they wrote. "He does his job to the best of his ability and handles the prisoners with human respect. This is one of the cleanest jails we were ever in. The food here is a lot better than over at the workhouse. The grub over there is so rough you have to wear gloves to eat it."

Movie Bandit Asked First
DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—A downtown theatre was robbed of $550 in cash here last night by a bandit who first inquired what time the feature began.

Mrs. Doris Black, cashier at the Criterion Theatre, said the man walked up to the box office and asked the starting time. She rang for the theatre manager, Bill Kirkland, who came to the box office with the information but then left.

She said that as the manager left the man told her, "Lady, hand me all of your money."

He had a hand under his coat "like he had a gun," she added.

CAA HEAD—James T. Pyle, 43, of Denver, Colo., is the new administrator of the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Administration. He succeeds the late Charles J. Lowen.

Monks Are Constructing New Secluded Monastery
SNOWMASS, Colo. (AP)—In a silence and servitude. The monastery will be ready next summer to provide austere accommodations for 170 men.

The Trappists acquired 3,800 acres by purchasing three ranches from private stockmen. The major product of the monastery lands, at altitudes from 7,500 to 8,000 feet, will be beef cattle. The owner of one of the ranches, Gordon Lamoy, has been retained to teach them how to punch cattle, cut alfalfa, operate irrigation ditches and other chores of ranching.

Raising cattle is an unusual undertaking for the Trappists who vow never to eat flesh—meat, fish or fowl. They will use proceeds from the marketing of their cattle to purchase the necessary provisions for their monastic existence.

The decision to establish Our Lady of Snowmass Monastery, as it has been named, was reached at the Trappist monastery at Spencer, Mass. It had become overcrowded with men seeking lives of silence, prayer, labor, penance and solitude.

The Spencer monastery will provide initial funds to put Snowmass on its feet. Once in operation, the girls spent the afternoon with Margie and went to the Winterville-Bethel basketball game Tuesday night.

Third year Home Economics students, presently studying sewing, went to Rocky Mount recently to examine patterns, materials and other items. They also made some purchases to assist in their classwork.

The massive structure is the 12th monastery to be founded in the United States by the Cistercian order of La Trappe. Since 1098 members of the order have turned their back to the luxuries of the world to live a life of contemplation,

Beta Club Initiates Eight New Members

BY ANNETTE HUDSON
Stokes-Pactolus Reporter

The Beta Club initiation ceremony was held at the Pactolus Community Building Monday night with eight new members participating. After the initiation, refreshments were served and members of the club danced until 10 p.m.

Highway Safety was the subject of a talk made by Patrolman Jim Boykin of the State Highway Patrol Monday. He distributed pamphlets outlining safety procedures which should be followed by pedestrians and bicyclists who use highways.

During recess and lunch periods the gym is usually filled with students enjoying and dancing to music from a juke box. Dancing and other activities in the gym are always supervised by members of the faculty.

Home Economics students are looking forward to using their new kitchen equipment, including a Youngstown unit. Use of the new appliances has been delayed because of inadequate wiring in the classroom.

Word has been received that copies of the school annual will be delivered in the near future.

More Walking, Or Go To Jail

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A 17-year-old boy will do a lot of walking in the next three years—or go to prison. That was the choice given Willis Gilbert of Sand Springs by District Judge Eben L. Taylor as a condition of his probation on a second degree burglary count.

Taylor made the unusual requirement after observing an automobile was where Gilbert got into trouble with four other boys who went on a drinking spree last Nov. 10. It was climaxed by a burglary and setting fire to a stolen car.

Probation Officer Al Reed said Gilbert will be permitted to ride in an automobile only with his father or mother.

The weed tree, scorned as a nuisance in Canada, is now discovered to be a valuable source for newsprint and corrugated board.

Strong Field Of Nominees Pondered For Presentation Of Teague Award

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The Carolina AAU awards committee today pondered a strong field of nominees as it sought to narrow the list for the 17th annual presentation of the Teague Award.

Included in the 20 male nominations are eight All Americas, three Olympic team members, including two champions, and the national amateur golf champion. Nine women were listed.

Oka Hester, chairman, announced the nominations from the first balloting of press, radio and television of the Carolinas as final ballots were sent out.

The list of men: Bill Barnes, Wake Forest, All America football and baseball; Jim Beatty, North Carolina, All America track; Jim Boyd, Rocky Mount, Olympic boxing champion; Lee Calhoun, North Carolina College, Olympic track champion; Andy Cockrell, Duke, All-Conference baseball; Dick Faden, N.C. State, All America swimming; Darrell Floyd, Furman, All America basketball; Wade Garrett, Canton, All - Southern football; Charles Krepp, North Carolina, All America Swimming; Jack Murdock, Wake Forest, All-Conference basketball and All-Southern softball.

Larsen's Feat Will Cost Yankees Money

By ORLO ROBERTSON

The perfect game Don Larsen pitched in last fall's World Series is going to cost the New York Yankees more money than the world championships have offered their glamor pitchers.

While most Yankees have signed 1957 contracts without any noticeable kicks, the club's two showpieces — Larsen and Mickey Mantle — are asking no bones about wanting more money.

Larsen, who posted a 11-5 regular season, said from his San Diego, Calif., home that he had returned his contract and wants $27,500.

He declined to say how much he received last year or how much the Yankees offered this time. It's a safe guess the $27,500 is close to twice the value of his 1956 contract. Unofficially it was believed the Yankees offered him $15,000 this year.

"If they don't do better than the offer they sent me," Larsen said, "I may end up tending bar."

Mantle is waiting for a talk with Yankee General Manager George Weiss, probably within 10 days. Mickey, honored in Milwaukee last night as the Associated Press Male Athlete of 1956, has indicated he wants at least double the salary he received last year when he won baseball's triple crown: hitting (.353), runs batted in (130) and home runs (52). He is believed to have received around $35,000 last year.

The Yankees did sign two more players yesterday, however, when shortstops Billy Hunter and Jerry Lumpe sent in their contracts.

Other clubs also continued to line up their players without too much trouble.

The Brooklyn Dodgers ran their list of satisfied players to 33, with seven to go, with the signing of three rookies — first baseman Jim Gentile, infielder Jasper Spears and all-around Mike Napoli.

Bob Cerv, a former Yankee, signed his Kansas City Athletics contract. Right-handers Tom Brewer and Frank Sullivan, aces of the Boston pitching staff, signed up quickly after talking with Red Sox General Manager Joe Cronin.

Jim Hearn, also a right-hand pitcher, agreed to Philadelphia Phillies' terms. And St. Louis reduced its list of unsigned Cardinals to six with the signing of pitchers Don Liddle and Lloyd Merritt and first baseman Glenn Nelson.

Elon Tramples High Point By Score Of 94-62

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Christians of Elon College last night reveled a previous setback of 82-63 in swamping High Point College 94-62 in a North State Conference basketball game.

East Tennessee State College downed Appalachian State Teachers College 74-60 in a game at Boone.

Dee Atkinson, with 29 points, and Jimmy Krump, with 28, led the hot Elon offense which made good on 51 per cent of its shots from the floor. It was Elon's fifth victory in eight starts.

Honor Patterson And Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Boxing Writers Assn. of New York honors Floyd Patterson, world heavyweight boxing champion, and Frank Graham, veteran sports columnist, at the organization's 31st dinner tonight.

Patterson will receive the Edward J. Neil Memorial Award as Fighter of the Year, a plaque awarded annually in memory of the former Associated Press boxing writer who was killed while serving as a war correspondent in Spain in 1938.

Cochrane Sees Fall Of A Record

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mickey Cochrane, his namesake, Mickey Mantle, "will break Babe Ruth's record of 60 homers in one season — there's no doubt about it."

"Black Mike," Cochrane of Philadelphia and Detroit Tiger fame made the statement last night after Mantle received the Frederick C. Miller Memorial Trophy as the Male Athlete of 1956 in an Associated Press poll.

The former star catcher, who has a sports show on a Chicago television station now, described the 25-year-old slugger as "a natural hitter."

"He is the greatest switchhitter I ever saw," said Cochrane, for whom Mantle was named. "He has tremendous power no matter what side of the plate he swings from and a great pair of wrists. 'In my opinion, there is no end to what Mickey can do. I believe he'll break Ruth's record. There's no doubt in my mind of that. He's 25 now and far from his peak. In baseball you're at your peak from about 29 to 32 or 33. He's still got a long ways to go. After all, Ruth was over 30 when he hit his 60 homers, wasn't he?"

Humbled Phantoms Host Tomorrow To New Bern

Greenville high school, suffering from a 76-34 Tuesday night lashing by the powerful Kingston Red Devils and the loss of two regulars, will play host to New Bern tomorrow night at the ECC gymnasium.

Coach Boley Farley, who has been sick with a throat infection, was unable to be present at the GHS-Kinston bout. He is expected to be on the bench tomorrow night. If not, assistant Coach Bob Howell will take over again.

Centers Joe Wingate and Steve Noble, top cogs in the Green machine, were absent from the Phantoms lineup Tuesday night and are not expected to be in shape for the New Bern game. Wingate was burned in a recent gas explosion and is out indefinitely. Noble has a virus infection.

Greenville's 4-2 Northeastern Conference record will be placed on the line against the Bears, Friday night. The G-Men already hold one victory over New Bern, a 59-48 affair on the New Bern court earlier this season. Greenville will be ranked seven-point favorites to top them again.

New Bern will bring a 1-4 mark to Greenville. They have lost to Kingston, Washington, Elizabeth City and the Phantoms. Their only win has come against Jacksonville.

Expected to start for the Phantoms will be Mack Roebuck and Wayne Edison at guards, Dick Walker and Peanut Nunn at forwards, and Albert Crawford at center. Alternating with that team, will be Charlie Smith and Billy Cox at forwards, Dick Evans at center, and Wesley Hudson and Walker Allen at guards.

The GHS Jayvees will tangle with the New Bern Baby Bears in the preliminary contest, beginning at 6:30. The varsity game will start at 8:00.

The games will take place at ECC's Memorial gymnasium.

Seek Privileges For Assistants

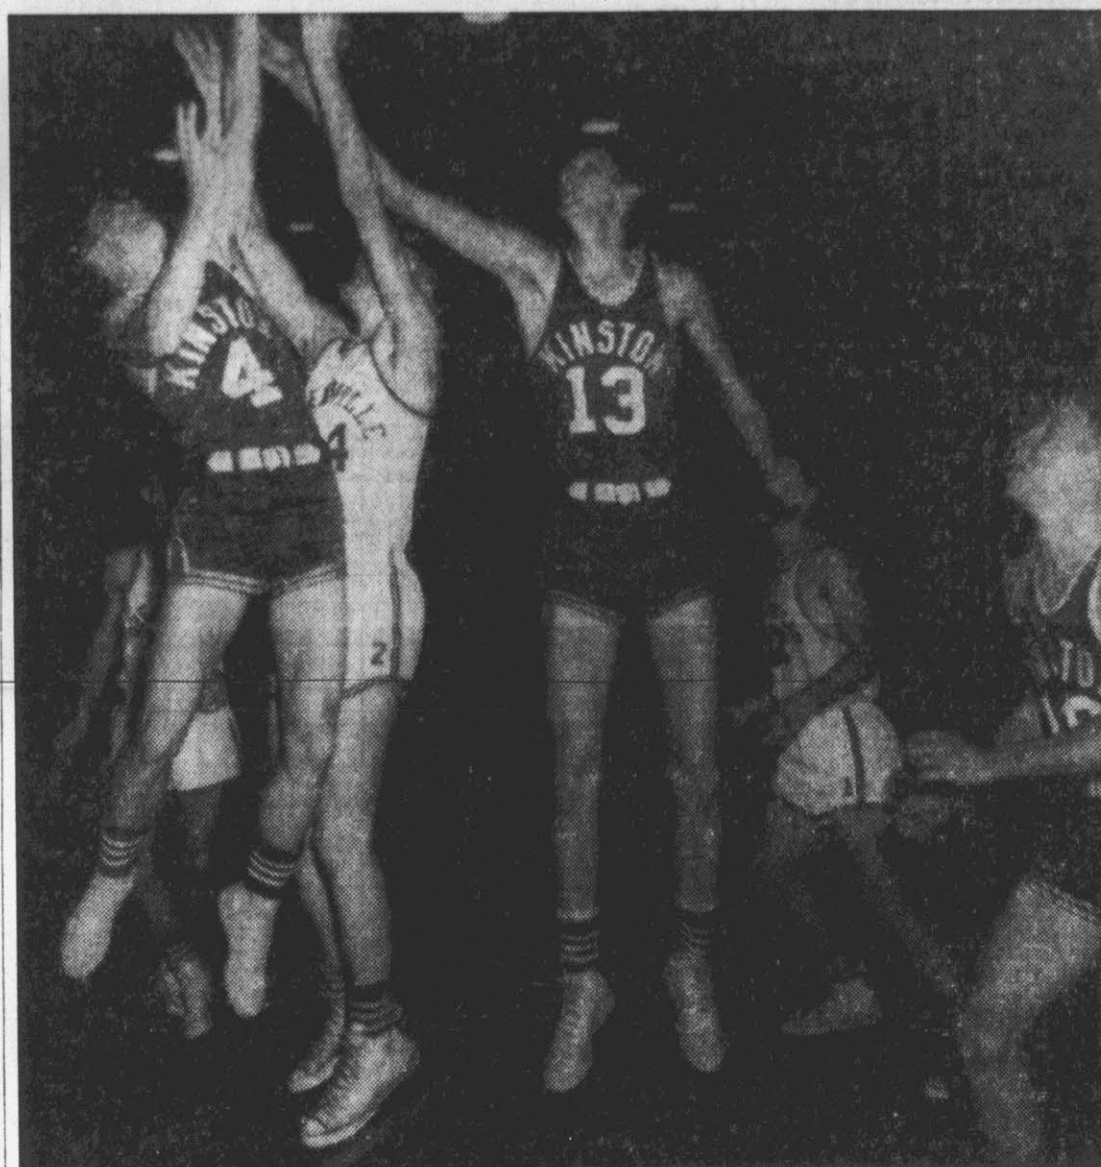

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — It remains to be seen whether Frank Broyles gets as much sleep here as Missouri's head football coach as he did while an assistant at Georgia Tech.

Among his effects received this week from Atlanta was a well-worn mattress on which he used to catch cat-naps in a secluded corner of Tech's athletic plant.

With the mattress was a note from his former colleagues which read: "We hope you'll permit your assistant coaches the same privileges you enjoyed as an assistant at Tech."

WHO'S GOT IT?—In Tuesday's GHS-Kinston encounter at ECC gymnasium, Red Devil height was a big factor in the 76-34 victory over the Phantoms. Above, that height is demonstrated by 6-8 sophomore Roger Hobgood (13) and forward Bob Anderson (4). Greenville's Al Crawford (34) competes with the other two for a rebound. The Greenies play host to New Bern, here, Friday night.

East Carolina Cagers To Play Belmont Abbey Saturday Night

Coach Howard Porter's East Carolina Pirates travel to Belmont Abbey Saturday night for a non-conference game with the Crusaders.

Though they have already defeated the Abbey club 84-61 earlier on the ECC court, the Bucs have been tagged six-point underdogs to the Crusaders. East Carolina's losses to Western Carolina and Lenoir Rhyne on the recent road trip, plus the constant shoulder trouble by forward Nick Nichols, are two big factors in the ranking.

The Abbey club, coached by former Furman All-America Neil Gordan, is strong this season — they hold a victory over Lenoir Rhyne — and boast a fast, tall team.

About Nichols

Coach Porter, in a talkative mood today, stated that advice by medical specialists at Duke University has given Nick Nichols the OK sign on his shoulder troubles.

"Dr. Baker assured us that no permanent injury would result from Nick's playing," Porter said. "Of course," continued the Fox, "this does not mean that he will have no more trouble. The doctor said that he (Nichols) could dislocate his shoulder climbing out of bed as easily as in a game. When it happens, he's just lost to us for that game."

Porter also pointed out that losing Nichols is like forfeiting about 20 points in each game. "When you lose a starter in basketball," he said, "you lose 20 per cent of your club."

Commenting on the North State conference race this year, Porter said today that "the conference is considerably stronger than last season. Lenoir Rhyne has gotten off to a good start and will probably end up first in the regular-season race. As for the other clubs, there probably won't be more than a game or a game-and-a-half difference between the second and sixth place teams."

He also said that though Lenoir Rhyne, which is undefeated in conference play in seven contests, will probably take the regular-season title, the loop tournament is a different matter. He reminded that "only twice in the history of the conference has the top-seeded team won the tournament." The tournament decides the conference championship.

Back to Belmont Abbey, the coach said that "they have a good, tough club and they're hard to beat up there at Belmont. It should be a good game."

Mantel, McCormick Are Given Top Sport Awards

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Two great, but humble athletes — Mickey Mantle and Mrs. Pat McCormick — last night received silver trophies signifying their eminence in sports.

The baseball star and the queen of divers were honored for having been selected the male and female athletes of 1956 in the annual Associated Press poll.

A crowd of 1,000, including Air Force Gen. Emmett (Rosie) O'Donnell, attended the Fraternal Order of Eagles-Frederick C. Miller Awards Dinner. The trophies honored the memory of Miller, a local sportsman.

O'Donnell, an outstanding athlete in his own right in the late 20s at West Point, mixed praise of Mantle and Mrs. McCormick with a plea for an ever-alert America.

He also congratulated the sports writers and broadcasters who participated in The AP's yearend poll for showing "discernment and good judgment" in selecting Mantle and Mrs. McCormick.

Earlier, O'Donnell said he thought Mantle, 25, the American League's Most Valuable Player, could better Babe Ruth's 60-homer record "if he can get some of Mickey Cochrane's determination and will to win." Cochrane, former Philadelphia and Detroit star catcher, said a few words and wished Mantle well.

ECC Invitational Meet To Be Held

The second annual ECC Invitational Swimming Meet will be held at the Memorial Gymnasium pool Saturday.

Six of the state's most powerful and most colorful high school swimming clubs will be represented in the affair. They will include defending champion Greensboro, Chapel Hill, Wilmington, Myers Park (Charlotte), Raleigh, and Fayetteville.

Qualifications will begin at 10:00 Saturday morning.

The finals will take place at 2:30 that afternoon.

Winner of the big annual event will be awarded a trophy by local jeweler John Lautares. The meet is sponsored jointly by East Carolina College and the North Carolina High School Athletic Association.

Rupp Predicts 'Better' Rules

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The top collegiate basketball powers are resting between semesters but outspoken Adolph Rupp, coach of fifth-ranked Kentucky, is still on the attack.

Rupp, never one to let success stop the search for improvement, has leveled a blast at rules he feels cut spectator interest.

He believes professional basketball is "way ahead of the colleges in progressive rules and I predict the next great development and growth in sports will be that of professional basketball. It has been forced to make progressive rule changes to hold spectator interest."

One rule Rupp would have the colleges pick up from the pros is the 24-second limit on ball-possession before a team takes a shot. But the change he wants most is elimination of the bonus free throw — where a player is given a second free throw for making the first.

"It has no place in a competitive game," he said in outlining suggestions he has made to the NCAA for rules changes.

"The Big Ten has taken not only a sensible but a progressive step to clean up this cheap way of winning a game," he said. He referred to the Big Ten's "six-foul" rule. This disallows the bonus free throw on the first six fouls committed by a team in each half.

"When one half of the score in a game is from free throws, it's time to check on the spectator interest," he said in an interview.

"The delay in the game and the parade from one end of the floor to the other has little appeal."

Near-Upset By Tennis Hopeful

MELBOURNE (AP)—Mike Green, one of America's young tennis hopefuls, almost turned in the greatest triumph of his career in the quarterfinals of the Australian national tennis championships at Kooyong Stadium yesterday.

Pitted against Australia's top star, Lew Hoad, the 19-year-old Miami Beach, Fla., lad won the first two sets and led 2-0 in the third before Hoad rallied to pull out the match, 4-6, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

The University of California student, a member of the U. S. Davis Cup squad, said later he was very happy he had carried Hoad to five sets.

"But, sad to have won you know," he added with a smile. "I lost some good chances."

CHAPTER 35

Spring is like a tonic. It cleanses a man's blood stream. It clears his brain. It is the fulfillment of nature's promise that the death which winter brings is not the eternity it seems; that life returns even to the prairies. But it was more than all that to Chad. The great river was no longer silent. It moved, and the hope was high in him that any day a boat would arrive with letters from Elizabeth, and food.

Chad finished his paper work by midmorning, impatient to be outside. He wondered how Randall had possibly found enough to do to keep him in his office as much as he had. He wondered, too, what General Sherman would think of the thin envelope of reports which would go to St. Louis signed "Lt. Chad Endicott, Acting Commander, Fort Butterfield." There were reams of reports signed by Colonel Randall. Much of it, Chad knew, was about trivial matters which General Sherman could skip and probably would.

He went outside, leaving the office door open, and walked through the sparkling May sunshine which filled the quadrangle. Isabella Randall was sitting in front of her quarters. Chad hesitated, thinking that he should talk to her. There was something that had to be said, but he knew it was not wise to approach her. As far as he knew, there had been no gossip among the men since Randall's death. He had seen to it that no one had any grounds for talk. And there was something else, too. He could not forget the moment when he had been in his arms and he had kissed her. He felt a little guilty about it. He had been a fool. It did not mean he loved Elizabeth any less, but she would not understand if she ever heard.

"Chad," Isabella called. He turned toward her, wishing he had kept on walking. When he reached her, she gave him her smile, murmuring, "I think it's all right, as long as we're out here in plain sight of everyone." She leaned her head against the back of the rocking chair. "Or is something else, Chad? Are you afraid to talk to me, afraid of yourself?"

He took off his forage cap and stood stiffly before her, his face red with embarrassment. "I suppose I am," he said. She was thinner than she had been, the same as everyone else in the fort, but it did not detract from her beauty. She would go back to St. Louis and she would find a husband, and, God willing, she would be far happier than she had been with Randall.

"You have given me no chance to talk to you since the day of the funeral," she said. "Sometimes I wish you weren't quite so — well, circumspect."

"I have to be," he said. "Of course," she smiled again. "I've had a lot of time to think, living alone as I have for the last few weeks. I can't help wondering what our future would have been if you had never met Elizabeth." She gave him a direct look, her face very grave. "But there is no sense in thinking about the might-have-beens. When I get back to St. Louis, I'll call on your Elizabeth and tell her she is a lucky girl. The second thing I'll do is to call on General Sherman and tell him about the fine job you've done here. You deserve a promotion, and it would give me a great deal of pleasure if I could help you get it."

"That's kind of you," he said. "Isabella, what I came over to say was that a boat should arrive any time. I hope you'll be ready to go back on it."

"Why, you sound as if you want to get rid of me, Chad," she shrugged. "I'll be ready. I'll be glad to leave, but I wonder about you. You wouldn't be satisfied to go back to Jefferson Barracks, would you?"

"No, I belong here," he said. He turned and walked rapidly away toward his quarters. An exclamation from one of the guards brought Chad's attention to a man running for the metal triangle used as an alarm. Chad rushed into the stockade and hit the ground, running before his lathered mount could stop. He jabbed a finger vigorously in a down-river direction, shouting, "It's happened. Looitnant. They've got a boat hung up on a sand bar and all the Indians in tarnation is trying to board it."

"How far?"

"A mile or two by land. You'd heard the shootin' if the wind was blowin' this way. I heard the commotion and got up to the ridge to look. Cut Lip, I reckon. He must have a couple hundred bucks. Purty well gunned, from the racket they're makin'."

Chad spun on his heel, barking, "Mullyvane, Anderson. Get the men ready. Double issue of ammunition. Get those small mountain howitzers out and mount them. I'm leaving ten men here to hold the fort. That will give us more than forty. All right now, on the double."

Frantically the men prepared for battle — filling canteens, loading ammunition belts, readying their guns.

Within twenty minutes of Zack's arrival, the fifteenth marched out of the fort. As the news of the attack on the steam-boat spread through the ranks, there was a mountain murmur of anticipation. Now as the men surged forward, their eagerness was unconcealed.

In a few minutes they heard firing ahead, then they topped the ridge and looked down upon the

Industry Bids For Art Grads

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio State University dean says liberal arts graduates, including those with "non-technical" training, are being placed in good jobs by industry.

"Industry and business are waking up to the fact that they've been overlooking a bet in their recruitment programs," says Prof. James F. Fullington, dean of OSU's College of Arts and Sciences.

He said industry and business find that a liberal education, regardless of the major field of study, develops capabilities that they need and can use "in management, sales, and believe it or not, production."

Discussing the functions of the college of arts and sciences, he said the college "is dedicated to the conviction that the primary aim of undergraduate education should be the development of the man, and that specialized technical training should be secondary." He added that "this is not a matter of the exclusion of specialized technical training, but of relative emphasis."

"The college believes," Dean Fullington said, "that the man who is broadly educated in the sciences, social sciences, arts, and humanities may become a happier man, a better citizen, and a better leader in his vocational field than the narrowly trained specialist."

stranded steamboat.

From the decks, small red needles of flame leaped out as those aboard kept up a steady fire against the Indians. From time to time a deck gun barked, throwing grape shot at the Indians who whirled up and down the bank, now splashing their ponies belly-deep in the water as they tried to close the distance, now veering off and racing up and down the water's edge, firing steadily.

Chad swept the area quickly with his glass. Apparently the steamer had suffered heavy casualties, for the decks were dotted with grotesquely twisted figures. It was hard to determine the number of Indians, for they were a swarming, rapidly moving mass.

Before he could decide upon the strategy which the situation called for, Chad saw that a body of Indians had managed to drive their ponies to the steamer's deck. The braves swung from their mounts and swarmed over the vessel's lower deck, engaging in a hand-to-hand struggle with the defenders. Other Indians converged on the weakened spot at the boat's side.

There was no time to lose. Chad led his men down the slope at full charge, firing as they ran. The men who manned howitzers remained behind at a higher elevation to cover their comrades.

The Indians had not seen the soldiers. Now, caught in a cross-fire between the men aboard the steamer and Chad's force, they scrambled off the boat, those who could regaining their mounts, the others wading ashore, holding their guns high over their heads.

For a time the Indians were disorganized completely, surprised by their attack from their rear. Then Zack, running at Chad's side yelled, "Look out, Looitnant. They're gonna hit us."

Stole Radiator From Wrong Car

HONG KONG (AP) — Chan Pak-hing, 20, stole the radiator from the wrong auto. The car belonged to the Commissioner of Police K.A. Bidmead.

Bidmead reported the radiator missing and police hid out for seven days in the area, finally catching Chan in the act of dismantling another radiator from an auto.

Chan pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 14 weeks in jail.

The British government abolished the slave trade in its African colonies in 1807-11.

Move To Stamp Out 10-Year-Old Mine Fire

CARBONDALE, Pa. (AP)—A "dig couple died of carbon monoxide poisoning caused by fumes which escaped from the mine fire during a drilling operation. The community's young pharmacist mayor, Frank P. Kelly Jr., declared a "state of emergency."

A city planning commission and a redevelopment authority were set up. The Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency granted nearly a million dollars to start the program.

According to plans, the fire will be attacked from three directions at once. The average "cuts"—the area actually will be strip-mined—will reach a depth of 90 feet and a width of 270 feet.

The first job is to contain the blaze and prevent its spreading across a line which borders the approaches to the downtown business district.

The fire, fed by rich coal deposits, originally affected only a 15-acre area. It began in an abandoned strip mine on the west side of town in August 1946.

Today, inspectors maintain a round-the-clock check on gas concentrations in West Side homes. Residents are forced to keep windows partly open, even in winter, and they use circulating fans in their cellars to prevent the deadly gas from gathering there.

The over-all redevelopment plan also includes study of new housing development, traffic conditions, industrialization and other municipal improvements.

A portion of the cost of the project will be paid off by an estimated $425,000 in royalties on coal unearthed in the course of the work.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AN EXPANSION ATTIC offers the most economical way to enlarge a house. Mere finishing of extra rooms usually does the job. This house, covering only 1,200 square feet without garage, has space for three additional bedrooms and an extra bathroom upstairs, adding 835 square feet of floor space. This is plan B-2967AP by Alwin Cassens Jr., architect, 145 So. Franklin Ave., Valley Stream, N. Y.

Roast Beef And Chicken Are Good Weekend Buys

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Roast beef and chicken will be featured in many of the nation's supermarkets and neighborhood stores this weekend.

The beef items, ranging from chuck to sirloin and porchouse are no surprise, for beef prices have been low lately. Indications are, in fact, that beef eaters can expect to have their favorite meat often in the next few weeks, for it's expected to remain plentiful and cheap.

The big splurge on chickens by the supermarket meat experts is more unexpected, although chickens actually have not been in short supply for some time. They are advertised this week for stewing and frying both. Normally, the big push on fowl comes during the summer months.

Turkey, ham and lamb also will be featured as bargain specials by some stores, but pork is conspicuously absent in most places. Reason: price boosts in many areas, ranging from 2 cents to 10 cents and as much as 24 to 26 cents in certain places.

Combination deals also are popular. One chain, for example, has lamb for both chops and stew at 33 cents a pound. Another is tying together beef liver at 25 cents a pound and bacon at 49 cents a pound.

The vegetable counters in most stores will present some familiar faces as the best buys—cabbage, onions and potatoes. Where cabbage is still available from nearby fields, it is rated an outstanding buy. Most of the cabbage, however, is the new crop from fields in Florida, Texas and Arizona.

Potatoes from the fall crops were a shade higher, but still a good buy. The start of the Florida crop is still light.

Beets, carrots, parsnips and white turnips, known to market men as the "hardware items," also are on the good buy list. So are peppers, sweet potatoes and iceberg lettuce, although the latter is slightly more expensive this week.

Broccoli and squash are reported somewhat lower this week, but still a trifle high for the bargain hunter. Corn falls into roughly the same category. Beans and celery, on the other hand, are reported more expensive this week, along with cauliflower.

Oranges, tangerines and lemons are reported the best buys among the fruits. Grapefruit also are good buys, but a bit more costly. Apples are mostly good, but well-ripened and at widely-ranging prices.

Says Lawmakers Are Now Tidier

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A man who has been cleaning up after members of the Texas House of Representatives for 61 years says the lawmakers are tidier these days.

"I remember when most of them were long beards, stained with chewing tobacco and beer," says "Uncle" Henry Blair, head porter of the House and the oldest Texas capital employee.

"Last session I had only four tobacco chewers, but, of course, we still provide cuspidors and I have two cuspidor men."

Uncle Henry began work at the Texas Capitol in 1895.

Burglars Invade Actress' Home

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Jeanne Crain and her husband Paul Brinkman have reported to police the third burglary of their home in the Hollywood Hills in recent weeks.

Mrs. Brinkman said a chair and a desk, valued at $380, were taken sometime between Jan. 17 and 22 while they were away.

On Dec. 27 rifles and shotguns valued at $3,000 were reported stolen. Four pistols were reported taken in an earlier burglary.

The Brinkmans, involved in a bitter divorce row last year, have been reconciled since New Year's Eve.

Non-Farm Employment Shows Gain Of 5,000

RALEIGH — Nonagricultural employment increased by approximately 5,000 employed in North Carolina between November and December, the State Department of Labor reported today.

State Labor Commissioner Frank Crane said the State's total non-farm employment climbed from 1,063,900 in November to 1,068,900 in December. That December employment figure was almost the same as that of December, 1955, Crane said.

A seasonal job rise of 10,200 in retail trade accompanied the Christmas business season in December, bringing total retail employment in the State to 173,200. Wholesale trade increased only fractionally, Crane reported.

Total factory employment in the State dropped 4,700 during the month, totaling 465,100. Minor job decreases occurred in the lumber industry, stone, clay and glass over time work in several industries.

Average hourly earnings of 22¢, 200 Tar Heel textile workers, which had increased eight cents between September and November, dropped a penny to $1.41 in December due to a slightly shorter workweek than that of the preceding month.

Earnings of 37,200 furniture workers increased from $1.32 an hour in November to $1.34 in December due to an increase of more than two hours in the average workweek, which included substantial amounts of overtime work.

SEATTLE (AP)—Franklin High school students are selling shares in international understanding at 25 cents apiece. The bargain rate is five shares for $1.

The money will help pay the fare of a foreign student to come to Franklin to attend school next year.

In 1955, $250 was raised toward the fare of Kurt Ahrens, a 17-year-old German boy who is now a Franklin senior. The American Field Service paid the remainder of his travel costs.

Chevrolet shows you some important differences in low-priced cars just by the look on its face!

Wouldn't you say that most of the '57 cars look good from 50 feet away, but what about from 50 inches away?

What does a close-up of the grille tell you, for example? Is it solidly made like the new Chevrolet grille? Or, in comparison does it look less rich in design—feel less strong and solid? Compare the quality and construction of the bumpers and headlights, the fit of the chrome trim.

The more closely you look all around the car, the more clearly you'll see that Chevrolet has the edge in the way it's put together. You'll find, for instance, that Chevrolet is the only car in its field with a lacquer finish... that only Chevrolet Bel Air models give you foam rubber cushions in front and rear seats as standard equipment. These are just a few of the advantages of Body by Fisher. And Chevrolet, you know, is the only low-priced car that has a Fisher Body.

We'll be glad to give you a close-up, comparative look at this new Chevy any time you care to come in. This week, maybe?

Only franchised Chevrolet dealers display this famous trademark

Uncover Revival Of Child Slavery

HONG KONG (AP) — The government recently uncovered the first case of "Mai Tsai"—sale of children for slavery—since the British authorities stamped out the ancient Chinese practice many years ago.

A 14-year-old girl and her 10-year-old brother were kidnapped from their home, the Social Welfare Office reports and sold to an elderly farmer for 200 dollars (35 dollars U.S.). The case had an odd ending.

Welfare officers awarded the boy to the farmer after the youngster said he wanted to remain with the old man.

The girl was returned to her parents.

Bottle Message Takes Long Trip

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — On the spur of the moment one day in October, 1953, the LaVerne Sutton family of Alvo, Neb., placed a note in a bottle and tossed it into the Missouri River near Rulo, Neb.

Three years later the bottle turned up on the shores of the Eider River in North Germany, probably 8,000 water miles away.

The surprised Suttons learned about it in a German postmarked letter from one Otto Andersen, who said "your bottlepost" was found on the Eider's shore "by the peninsula Eiderstedt, Germany, near the town Tonning, sharp by the village Vollerwiek on the mouth of the Eider."

Be sure to add paper-thin slices of orange or lemon when you are cooking prunes. The citrus gives just-right flavor.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. SAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

By ANDREW C. LANG AP Newfeatures

Few persons give enough attention to the proper selection of wall materials when it comes time to build a finished room in the attic or basement, add an extra room to the house or put up new walls in an old room.

Most of the time the choice of a particular material is made because it looked good in someone else's house . . . or in a show-room . . . or because a neighbor or a relative used it and recommended it.

These reasons are all right in their way — and should have some bearing on your decision — but the ultimate selection should be based on your own needs. The room you are finishing may be used for the an entirely different purpose than the one you admired, which might make the wall material in the already-completed room highly impractical for you.

Many on Market

There are many dry wall materials readily available to the retail purchaser these days. Each has its own characteristics and it's the wise buyer who knows why he is spending his money for a particular type of product.

Gypsum board, the least expensive of these materials, is a form of plaster covered on both sides with strong paper. It is sometimes erroneously referred to as plaster board, a term which accurately describes another kind of material used by professional plasterers. Besides being inexpensive, gypsum board has the greatly desirable feature of being fire resistant. Although durable under normal usage it can be dented if a hard object is pushed against it. Most kinds of gypsum board must be painted or papered and the seams filled with tape and cement. Gypsum board boasting a bit more can be obtained with special finished surfaces which require neither paper nor paint.

Asbestos cement board is a first cousin of gypsum board, but is priced about twice as high, which is still less than many other wall materials. This is made of asbestos fibers and portland cement pressed into rigid panels. It is fire-proof and water resistant, making it excellent for laundry rooms, bathrooms and furnace enclosures.

Second Family

Next we come to fiber or insulating board. It looks something like gypsum board, but has no plaster in it. Its base is composed of wood fiber, sugar cane residue or some other fibrous material.

The driver of the other car, Phil Eisenhour, a former policeman, also jumped out ready for anything.

They were set with some pretty hot words when they recognized each other as old police buddies. When accident investigator Bill Lewellen arrived at the scene, Perrine claimed he was at fault, forgetting to stop at the corner. Eisenhour said he was going too fast and went through a red light. Lewellen, faced with such a situation for the first time, scratched his head and finally gave both men accident forms to fill out after they had more time to think.

On the island of Sardinia in the Mediterranean there grows a herb which is believed to make anyone who tastes it to laugh himself to death. Thus, the phrase, "sardonic laughter."

is on hand at your local dealer, as you sometimes can get a good buy on a type of wood which happens to be available in large quantities at the moment. To some persons, nothing has the warmth and homey appearance of solid wood paneling.

Hardboard is made of wood fibers bonded in hydraulic presses. It has a smooth surface without grain, but is of great strength. The tempered variety, only a couple of cents more than the standard, has an exceptionally hard surface which resists moisture and will stand up under almost any kind of pounding. While it can be nailed or screwed or glue to another surface it does not serve as a nail or screwbase itself. Slightly more expensive types of hardboards come with a leather finish, simulated file or with perforations to serve as a utility panel or wall.

There are many other dry wall materials on the market . . . with plastic facings; striations or irregular grooves, flake veneers and others. In fact, it's a difficult matter to keep up with the many different varieties. That's why it's so important to look around before you make your choice.

Wide Price Range
 Solid wood paneling also has a wide price range. Look over what

Chicken Processing Plant Construction Is Underway

PROCESSING PLANT CONSTRUCTION—Construction of the new Austin Farms, Inc. plant formerly of Wendell, is showing much progress in Robersonville despite inclement weather during the first part of January. The foundation, contracted by E. L. Rackley of Raleigh, is near completion to pave the way for the Strand steel to be erected, weather permitting, in the next 30 days. Pictured above are two scenes of the building that were taken earlier this week in the Martin County community. The plant is scheduled to be completed sometime during the month of May. Broiler chickens will be processed for commercial use and will be contracted and sold to points throughout this and neighboring states. (Reflector Staff Photo).

ROBERSONVILLE — President Vance L. Roberson of Austin Farms, Inc. of Robersonville announced yesterday that the Martin County chicken processing plant should be ready for operation sometime during the month of May.

Jackrabbits Are Firefighting Aid

GORHAM, Kan. — McKean Carter helped organize a drive to rid a farm area of crop-destroying jackrabbits. Twenty hunters took part—and found an unexpected use for the game. A backfire from Carter's truck started a grass fire. The hunters beat out the blaze—by swatting the flames with dead jackrabbits.

Construction on the foundation, contracted by E. L. Rackley of Raleigh, has been delayed for a considerable length of time due to inclement weather conditions. The foreman stated that his crews were able to work only about five hours last week.

The contract for the Robersonville project has been divided into three parts by the Raleigh architects. The steel contract went to Piedmont Steel Buildings of Raleigh who will erect the Strand steel type prefabricated construction. Depending on the weather, the steel should be up within thirty days according to corporation officials. The steel contracted on a five week basis arrived January 11th.

Roberson stated that the remainder of the contract will be let on the 31st of January. The building and land will finally cost the Austin Farms, Inc. $150,000. For the entire project a sum of $325,000 will be spent, including operating capital, equipment and other expenses.

Approximately 98-per cent of the stock has been distributed among the 170 stockholders of the concern. President Roberson states that only a few out of town businessmen and farmers have not received their stock and that distribution will be complete in a short time.

Several Robersonville farmers are now making plans to construct broiler raising houses. Thus far there are six houses operating with a 5000 chick capacity on the Durad B. Mobley and Herbert Highsmith farms.

Most of those songs which Jimmy Durante warbles in night club and movie appearances are composed by himself, including such classical lyrics as "Inka Kinda Doo."

Spring Hope Native Joins School Staff

BY HAZEL MAY
Grimesland School Reporter

The English Department has welcomed a new addition to its staff, Miss Raye Winstead of Spring Hope. A graduate of Spring Hope High School, Miss Winstead has one sister, a junior at East Carolina College, and two brothers who are students in Spring Hope.

Report cards were issued last Wednesday. Honor Roll students include (third grade) Glenda Boyd, Johnnie Ennis, Kenneth Grimes, Glenda Rose Hardee, Chris Hodges, Elaine Minton, Nancy Sauls and Ronald Taylor; (fifth grade) Nelda Hudson; (sixth grade) Dorothy Hardee and Wanda Grimes; (seventh grade) Laura M. a. D. and Mary Joe Mills; and (eighth grade) James Brown Smith.

Principal's List students include (third grade) Jimmie Little and Tim Mills; (seventh grade) Jeanette Roberson, Billy Barrington, Carol Haddock and Sandra Jackson; (eighth grade) Sue Sutton and Lois Reel; (tenth grade) Janice Hudson, Sue Morgan and Peggy Arnold; (eleventh grade) Sophia Clark, Shirley Singleton, Faye Morgan and Elaine Gurganus; and (twelfth grade) Joyce Whichard, Patricia Morgan and Peggy Taylor.

The Junior Class, chaperoned by Mrs. J. E. Venters and Mr. A. E. Sauced, sponsored a March of Dimes Dance Saturday night. In addition to dancing, the program also included appearances by Betty Jean Brinson, George Mizzelle and Billy McLean of "Teen Canteen".

The first-year typing class, under supervision of Mrs. Clara Carr, is having a contest for control in typing. The class has been divided into teams, the "Doo Flappers" and the "Wildcats", and team members score by having the smallest number of errors on a particular exercise. Scoring is similar to that used for basketball and each team has a "goal" on the class bulletin board.

Fungi Harmful To Rockets, Too

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N.M. — A specialist in fungi says a careful watch is necessary to keep such plant growths off rockets in tropical climates.

Howard Aronson, experimenting with tropical fungi at this rocket test base, says the growths appear on missiles after unpacking in tropical climates, much like mold on bread.

Hopes Of Better Understanding With Reds Dim

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON — The prospect for a better understanding between the United States and Russia, a declared aim of President Eisenhower in his second term, is dimmer today than four years ago.

Diplomatic officials give two principal reasons: (1) hopes which soared after the death of Joseph Stalin have not been realized, and (2) crises in Eastern Europe and the Middle East have sharpened East-West tension.

Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday that at the outset of his second term, "everything else fades to unimportance" beside the need for better understanding among nations. He mentioned particularly better understanding with the Russians. East-West understanding, he said, could lead to "agreements in which we could all trust."

But even before the need for understanding with the Russians he placed the need for stronger accord among free nations based on the certainty "that their economic and military strength is equal to the test."

In his replies to questions, he declined to say that the Russians are hardening their attitude toward the United States. But he did remark that "we are dealing with people who are rather unpredictable and, at times, they are just practically inexplicable."

In dealing with their own setbacks in Hungary and with United States plans for strengthening the Middle East against communism, the Russians are conducting a hate campaign against the United States to an extent unknown since Stalin's day.

They are trying to convince the peoples in the Middle East and South Asia as well as North Africa that the United States has launched a "new colonialism" aimed at taking over Egypt, Syria, Iraq and the like.

Officials here think that the Russians may really be seriously worried about the possibility that United States military power will be established in the Middle East. The Soviets do not worry so much about being held in check as they do about real or fancied threats to the security of their own vital areas, including the Baku oil fields north of Iran which are vulnerable to attack from the Middle East.

Secretaries List Ideal Qualities

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles chapter of the National Secretaries Assn. says these are some qualifications of the ideal boss:

Always remember your secretary has your best interests at heart.

Turn your back when she comes in late and think of all the hours she has worked overtime.

Don't shout.

Don't ask her to work on her day off; she probably needs the rest.

When dictating, don't shave, have your hair cut, shoes shined, chew gum or smoke a cigar.

And above all, take her to lunch once in a while—she can't afford to eat out on her salary.

BRIDGE ANNIVERSARY

SAN FRANCISCO — The Redwood Empire Assn. is going to hold a huge celebration May 27 to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the opening of the Golden Gate Bridge. Police record 163 suicide leaps off the span.
