President Agrees, Sec. Wilson Unwise In Statement On Guard

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today Secretary Wilson made a very unwise statement in saying that draft dodging developed in National Guard enlistments during the Korean War.

But Eisenhower told a news conference he is sure that Wilson's main interest—just as it is his—is to try to assure that the guard is a well-trained military unit in event of any emergency.

Eisenhower also said he is standing by his statement of several months ago that Secretary of State Dulles is the greatest secretary in that field in history.

Commenting on attacks on Dulles by Democrats in Congress, Eisenhower said Dulles has wisdom, experience and knowledge possessed by no other man in his field.

The latest controversy swirling around Wilson was touched off two days ago when the secretary of defense said before a House committee that "a sort of scandal" a "draft-dodging business" turned up in National Guard enlistments during the Korean War.

Asked today whether he shares Wilson's view on that, Eisenhower shot back that his questioner knew better than that.

The President said Wilson was short-cutting when he made that assertion. It was Eisenhower said, a very unwise statement made by Wilson without thinking.

Although criticized by Guard spokesmen and some members of Congress for his Monday statement, Wilson declined to back away from it yesterday.

Instead, when interviewed after a call at the White House, Wilson in effect repeated his statement and told newsmen he saw no reason whatsover to apologize for it. Wilson said then it had not figured in his meeting with Eisenhower.

In talking about the matter today, Eisenhower said he wanted to emphasize that anything the National Guard has done has been done within limitations of the law.

He went on to note that youths aged 17 to 18½ may enlist in the Guard. Eisenhower said he long has struggled to make the Guard an efficient, well-trained outfit capable of protecting the nation.

Then, defending a new Pentagon policy, Eisenhower backed Wilson in saying that Guard recruits should get six months of basic military training instead of the 11 weeks the Guard favors.

Eisenhower said he was not pointing a finger at the Guard, and that he was sure Wilson was not doing so.

It was at that point that Eisenhower remarked that Wilson was short-cutting in discussing the situation, and that in doing so that he made a very unwise, unthinking statement.

The President concluded his discussion of the Wilson episode by saying that members of the National Guard are not slackers. Wilson himself said on Monday that the Guard is not now "a draft-dodging" position.

Eisenhower, wearing a dark gray suit with a white shirt, was nearly four minutes late for this second news conference of his second term. With a smile, he announced at the outset that he had no announcements and would go directly to questions.

The first question dealt with protests in some quarters in this country against the current visit by King Saud of Saudi Arabia and reported plans for a possible visit by President Tito of Yugoslavia.

A reporter asked what Eisenhower thought of such criticism in the light of what the newsman termed the importance of the visits to American foreign policy.

Eisenhower replied that he deplores any discourtesy shown to foreign dignitaries. He said with much emphasis that you don't promote the cause of the peace by talking only with people with whom you agree. That procedure, he said, is merely a yes-man performance.

Visits of foreign officials to the United States, Eisenhower said, are arranged in the interest and the hope of promoting world peace.

He added the visits do not necessarily imply that this country approves the internal policies of the other nations.

'Snub To' Visitors Deplored

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he deplores any discourtesy shown to an official visitor to the United States. Eisenhower obviously referred to New York City's snub of King Saud yesterday.

Eisenhower told a news conference he is always obliged to any government head who will come here and talk to him in the interest of better understanding among nations.

His remarks were made in response to a question which covered not only the chill reception given the Saudi Arabian King by Mayor Wagner of New York but also bitter denunciations of President Tito of Yugoslavia which have been made in Congress.

Reports from Belgrade say Tito has decided against visiting Eisenhower because of the criticism.

The news conference broke up just an hour ahead of Saud's scheduled arrival on a state visit and an unprecedented Eisenhower trip to the airport to greet him.

Eisenhower did not name either Saud or Tito. Nor did he refer directly to either demonstration of hostility. But he said he wanted to get one thing clear about chiefs of state or government who come here.

You don't promote the cause of peace, Eisenhower said, by talking only to people with whom you agree; that would be simply a yes-man performance. You have to meet people from time to time with whom you disagree, Eisenhower added.

The visits of heads of state are dictated by the need for eliminating misunderstanding and promoting peace and the prospects for disarmament, Eisenhower went on. He said he would always welcome anyone who would come here to talk with him for such purposes.

In this light, Eisenhower said, he is always obliged to any man who is willing to come to Washington and confer.

He therefore deplores, he said, any discourtesy applied to a visitor who comes here to see if any better understanding can be gained. This does not necessarily imply approval of any internal development in any country, he said; it means simply that the work for understanding and peace are the most important work he is engaged in today.

Saud was flying in from New York where he was warmly greeted by federal and United Nations officials but snubbed by the city government yesterday.

The Columbine was preceded by three Military Air Transport Service planes carrying the King's party of about 50.

Saud rode from the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel to the airport in a State Department automobile, accompanied by a police escort of 15 motorcycles and a half dozen patrol cars.

About 200 persons stood on the sidewalk opposite the hotel, but he left from a garage entrance and they did not see him.

A woman in the group allegedly shouted "God help and protect the chosen people." Police asked her to leave, and, when she refused, sent her to Bellevue Hospital.

Confer On Local Legislation

Pitt County Commissioners and legislators solidified their thinking on legislative proposals for the 1957 General Assembly at a meeting last night. Commission Chairman Alton Gardner (far left) discusses the proposals, which will affect the county, with Representative Frank Wooten (second from left), Senator Paul Jones (second from right,) and Representative Walter Jones (right) at the meeting which was also attended by other commissioners. A complete review of the proposals will be carried in The Daily Reflector tomorrow and Friday. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Pitt's Three Legislators Endorse Local Measures

Local legislation proposed for the 1957 General Assembly drew endorsement of Pitt County's three legislators in a meeting of the legislators and County Commissioners last night.

The local proposals included an amendment to a General Statute regarding prepayment of taxes, an amendment regarding publication of tax rates, and an act to provide an election for authority to grant a three-cents levy for support and establishment of an industrial commission for the county.

Legislators Dr. Paul Jones, Walter Jones and Frank Wooten also endorsed a request, made by the State Board of Public Health and the Pitt County Health Department, for an appropriation of $35,000 for a Mental Health wing on the Health Department building. They gave endorsement, too, to a request that the legislature endorse the proposal to establish a collegiate School of Nursing at East Carolina College.

The meeting was an innovation suggested by the commissioners to clarify and solidify legislative proposals that will affect Pitt County. It was originally set for tomorrow night but shifted to last night when one of the legislators found a conflict in his schedule.

Demos Say U. S. Air Power Lagging; 'Undue Pessimism' Say Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats and Republicans on a special Senate subcommittee which made a sweeping investigation of the nation's airpower split squarely on party lines today in filing their report.

The three Democrats said that the United States is becoming increasingly vulnerable to sneak Russian attack and that programs to improve means of retaliation are lagging.

The two Republicans called the majority report "unduly pessimistic," and said that "our airpower and our naval strength, together with our ground forces, make us superior to the Soviet Union today."

There was no immediate comment from the Defense Department.

Meanwhile, Sen. Bridges (R-NH), told a reporter the Senate Appropriations Committee would be the final referee in questions posed by the airpower probe.

"The Appropriations Committee that provides the funds will have to make the final decisions after following up the information in the report," said Bridges, who is senior Republican on that committee.

"We have got to be sure that the military equipment which is placed on order is going to be the latest development in the science of offense and defense."

The majority report was signed by the subcommittee chairman, Sen. Symington (D-Mo), first man to serve as secretary of the Air Force, and Senators Jackson (D-Wash) and Ervin (D-NC).

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass), ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee, presented the minority report. It was concurred in by former Sen. Duff (R-Pa), who was a subcommittee member when the hearings took place from April to July last year.

The three Democrats broadly condemned Eisenhower administration policies in the airpower field. Their charges — disputed by the Republicans — included these:

Russia has more modern combat planes than the United States; the Soviets "are rapidly losing the qualitative gap" that the United States still maintains in airpower; "financial considerations have often been placed ahead of defense requirements"; the nation has too few long-range jet bombers and no program to produce a sufficient number; the nation's air base structure and its defense warning system are inadequate; and the United States is vulnerable to submarine attack, particularly with missiles.

Symington let it be known he did not believe that larger appropriations were the necessary answer to the findings in the report.

"With proper programing and administration in the Department of Defense, it would be possible to maintain air supremacy over the Soviets without jeopardizing a sound economy and without imposing additional tax burdens upon the people," the majority said.

Saltonstall's dissent said the majority report "is not sufficiently objective" because it failed to give proper weight to testimony of civilian heads of the Defense Department and because it centered on statements of certain officers while disregarding others.

The minority report said, "We can never engage in a numbers race with Russia."

"What we do want," it insisted, "are balanced land, sea and air forces which give us a visible deterrent and such power to retaliate quickly and devastatingly that no enemy would dare attack us."

Thousands Forced From Homes As Streams Flood

BARBOURVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Damages ran into the millions of dollars and thousands of persons in four states were forced from their homes by rain-swollen mountain rivers which promised new devastation today after taking at least three lives.

Emergency aid was rushed into southeastern Kentucky, where the flood gave indications of being the worst on record. The full extent of damage couldn't be learned.

The stricken area also included portions of Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia, where two persons drowned. An elderly Kentucky man also was swept away when his home crumbled into the fooodwaters.

Scores of communities were isolated in southeastern Kentucky, a coal mining region which was hard hit by high waters as recently as 1946.

Kentucky National Guard units and 200 men of the 160th Army Engineers group from Ft. Knox joined evacuation operations with boats and trucks and fed refugees from mobile kitchens.

Hardest hit in Kentucky apparently was Hazard on the Kentucky River, where flood damages were expected to exceed five million dollars. Dewey Daniel, a Hazard banker and state Republican leader, reported: "Hazard's business section completely wiped out. Four feet of water in People's Bank."

His message was relayed by the Civil Air Patrol, which surveyed flooded areas from the air as a guide to rescue operations.

More than a thousand persons fled to higher ground from their homes in such other river towns in Kentucky as Harlan, Barbourville, Pikeville, Neon and Whitesburg.

In addition to the big Kentucky and Cumberland rivers in Kentucky, the streams out of their banks included the Pound River in Virginia, the Tug and Guyahdotte in West Virginia, the Little Clinch and Powell rivers in upper east Tennessee. The Cumberland also reaches into Tennessee.

New flood warnings were raised for downstream communities.

The rivers were unleashed by a four-day deluge of rain that continued to pound some sections.

Bus and rail transportation throughout southeastern Kentucky was halted by high waters or landslides.

Electric power was cut off in many communities, leaving hospitals with only emergency power or in darkness.

Hospital, Nurses Are Still At Odds

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Trustees of the Robeson County Memorial Hospital and the majority of its nursing staff remained at odds today over working conditions and salaries at the hospital.

No statement was issued after a meeting yesterday of the trustees' executive committee and a group representing 25 nurses who have given two weeks notice of their resignations.

Meanwhile, the executive secretary of the North Carolina Nurses Assn., who acted as adviser for the nurses while they were protesting their work situation, declared she had not advised them to resign. Mrs. Marie Noel of Raleigh added, "I am completely out of it" now.

Resignation notice was given when the executive committee deferred action on the nurses' request for a 40-hour work week and a $250 monthly starting salary. The 25 nurses, who claimed to represent 40 of the 52 nurses at the hospital, reportedly had refused a $15 monthly raise offer.

A Dec. 14 statement, issued by the nurses after a meeting with representatives of the State Nurses Assn., declared that "most of the nursing staff is working overtime" because a 70-bed wing had been added to the nonprofit hospital. The trustee committee replied that 35 extra personnel were hired when the wing was opened.

Locomotive Has Ambulance Role

WILLIAMSON, W.Va. (AP)—A railroad locomotive did ambulance duty when high water blocked access to the scene of an accident yesterday.

Fred Wolford, 32, hurt in the No. 4 Mine of the Eastern Coal Corp. at Stone, Ky., seven miles south of here, was brought by locomotive to the Williamson yards and transferred by ambulance to the Williamson Memorial Medical Center, where he underwent surgery.

Will Ask State Sponsor Regional Development

CULLOWHEE, N. C. (AP) — A leader of Western North Carolina Associated Communities says the General Assembly which meets next month will be asked to sponsor regional planning on a statewide basis.

Harry E. Buchanan of Hendersonville spoke yesterday to the quarterly meeting of the communities group, which is a private, nonprofit project which provides plans for business, industrial and residential development for 11 southwestern counties.

Buchanan said the Legislature would be asked to sponsor such planning on a statewide basis, which he said would enable North Carolina to get help of the Federal Home Administration in the project.

He added that the Institute of Government of the University of North Carolina had been asked for help in drawing a regional plan for the western part of the state.

Winter Strikes An Icy Blow In Arkansas

Trees fallen under the weight of ice hamper traffic in Little Rock, Ark., after a 24-hour freezing drizzle. Some power lines also were down, adding to the hazards of motorists and pedestrians alike. Some roads were transformed into sheets of ice and workers en route to the jobs Monday morning found travel dangerous and slow. (AP Wirephoto).

Robbers Break In Highway Garage

By EVERETT PARKER
Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE — Robbers broke into the State Highway Commission garage here last night and took tools which they apparently used to crack a safe in the Pitt and Greene Electric Membership Corporation building located across the highway.

Manager of the corporation Gilbert Whitley reported this morning that approximately $100 was taken from the safe which was apparently broken open with a pick axe and sledge hammer. The intruders gained entrance to the building by climbing a rear fence and breaking in two rear doors.

The safe was in the main lobby of the building in view of the Wilson highway and the robbers moved it into the manager's office where it was opened.

Also broken open was a night deposit box, but Whitley reported that nothing was missing from the box.

A tear gas capsule was set off during the course of the robbery and one of the intruders was made ill.

Also during the night the Turnage Milling Co. office was entered here. A window was broken. However, a spokesman for the company reported nothing missing.

Farmville police assisted by Sheriff's Department deputies are conducting an investigation of the breakings.

Dies Of Burns In Gas Explosion

William Joseph Wingate Sr., 48, died in Duke Hospital in Durham at 11:40 last night.

Wingate suffered third degree burns on Jan. 21 when gas, apparently escaping from a basement hot water heater, exploded.

Injured at the same time was G. C. Wilson who also received third degree burns. Both men were transferred to Duke the day following the explosion.

The explosion occurred in the basement of a house at 304 Church St. The dwelling was owned by Wingate and occupied by Wilson.

Wingate, son of the late William Albert and Nannie Smith Wingate, was born near Ayden and spent most of his life in and near Greenville. He was employed at Garris-Evans Lumber Company about 25 years and was foreman of the planing mill.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary Carawan Wingate; a son, William Joseph Wingate Jr. of the home; three daughters, Mrs. Lester Earl Adams of Greenville and Misses Doris J. and Mary Viola Wingate of the home; four brothers, F. Ray Wingate of Hampton, Va., Edwin Wingate of Venice, Fla., and Albert E. and A. B. Wingate of Greenville, and two sisters, Mrs. H. Alfred Sawyer of Greenville and Mrs. Verner Thomas of Apalocka, Fla.

Near-Unanimous In House Voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carolinas congressmen were almost unanimous yesterday in voting against a House move to approve consideration of the Eisenhower administration's Middle East resolution under pricedure prohibiting amendments from the floor.

Only Rep. Bonner of North Carolina voted for the no-amendment rule, which was approved by the House. Two South Carolina congressmen were not recorded as voting.

Pitt Hospital Will Receive Over $6,000

Pitt Memorial Hospital will receive $6,720 from the Duke Endowment Fund.

Trustees of the fund announced appropriations yesterday of $217,540 to 77 North Carolina hospitals and $199,753.55 to 27 child caring institutions.

Pitt Memorial Administrator C. D. Ward said this morning that the funds are "always a welcome grant."

"The hospital is pleased to receive compensation for service rendered," he declared.

The money will be placed in the hospital's general fund and will be used for future general expenses.

This is the 32nd year that such assistance has been rendered through the Endowment fund since it was founded with money from the estate of the late tobacco millionaire James B. Duke.

The trustees, meeting in New York, said they will consider applications from other hospitals at their February meeting.

Hospitals receive $1 per day for each day of free care given indigent patients. Child-caring institutions are compensated at the rate of about 41 cents for each day of care given orphan and half-orphan children.

In all, 121 Carolinas hospitals received $427,956 and 40 child caring institutions received $281,344.87 for last year, making a total of $709,300.87.

Other nearby hospitals receiving funds include: Good Shepherd, New Bern, $2,782; Lenoir Memorial, Kinston, $1,556; Mercy, Wilson, $3,017; Our Community, Scotland Neck, $520; Park View, Rocky Mount, $3,550; Parrott, Kinston, $636; Roanoke Rapids, $3,458; St. Luke's, New Bern, $1,765; Taylor, Washington, $3,787; Wayne Memorial, Goldsboro, $4,777.

Three Dead As Flames Sweep 4-Room House

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C (AP)—Three persons died today and two others were critically burned as a pre-dawn fire swept a four-room frame house.

The victims were Mrs. Marie Faulkner, about 40, and her house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Cahoon, both 46, of near Spring Hope.

Hospitalized were Leslie Faulkner, 47, husband of Mrs. Faulkner, and Mrs. Patricia Cahoon Adcock, 18, of near Spring Hope, daughter of the Cahoons.

Faulkner and Mrs. Advock were suffering from critical burns and shock.

EXTENDED WEATHER FORECAST FOR N. C.

Temperatures will average 6 to 10 degrees above normal and precipitation one-half inch or less Thursday through Monday. Normal high and low temperatures for the coastal plains: 55 and 35. Somewhat warmer Friday and Sunday, otherwise little day to day temperature changes. Light precipitation expected for some sections of the state almost daily.

Corn Disease May Bring Carolinas Quarantine

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department scheduled a public hearing here today on a proposal to quarantine parts of North Carolina and South Carolina because of the occurrence there of a newly discoverd disease of corn caused by witch weed.

Witch weed is an insidious plant that destroys corn and other crops of the grass family by penetrating their roots and depriving them of nutrients and water.

The department said the weed has been discovered in localized areas in the North Carolina counties of Bladen, Columbus, Cumberland and Robeson and in the adjoining South Carolina counties of Dillon, Horry, Marion and Marlboro.

Another public hearing will be held here Thursday on a proposal to set up similar quarantines on Missouri, North Carolina and Tennessee because of the discovery in those states of the "yellow Drawf" disease of soybeans, caused by the soybean cyst nematode.

This pest is capable of causing complete destruction of a crop of soybeans. It also affects annual lespedeza and common vetch.

This disease caused by the nematode was first called yellow dwarf disease in Japan, Korea and Manchuria, where the nematode has its only known habitat outside the United States.

In this country the pest has been found, the department said, in Pemiscot County, Mo., New Hanover and Pender counties, N. C., and Lake County, Tenn.

Quarantine regulations would be designed to prevent spread of the diseases to other states. They would regulate the interstate movement of plants and materials which serve as hosts for the diseases and could require fumigation and sanitation treatments of carriers.

Rep. Alton Lennon (D-NC) said some Carolinas witnesses would be present at the witch weed hearing today.

Lennon declared last night he was "burned up" because the department had not notified him and other North Carolinians about the hearing. He said he will insist on a further hearing before the department issues any quarantine order.

Lennon said he learned that Commissioner of Agriculture L. Y. Ballentine of North Carolina was expected to attend the hearing.

The congressman said Carolinians also were not notified about the hearing Thursday on the prevalence of cyst nematodes in soybeans in New Hanover and Pender counties of North Carolina.

To Present Organ Recital

Miss Sue Dilda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ruel Dilda of Fountain, will present an organ recital Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Fountain Presbyterian Church.

Dr. L. E. Harris of Harris Conservatory of Music in Rocky Mount is her music director.

The young organist, former student of Mrs. Haywood Smith, is in her ninth year of piano music. She is a member of the junior class of Farmville High School.

Recently she has been accepted as a member of the National Pi Mu society, which entitles her to a scholarship upon graduation from high school.

The public has been invited to attend the Sunday afternoon recital.

Class Hears Devotional By Mrs. Futrell

The Wesley Philathea Class met at the home of Mrs. Van Fleming Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. K. T. Futrell, Mrs. L. C. Powell and Miss Sallie Cowell were assisting hostesses.

Mrs. Futrell gave the devotional. Her subject was "Dependence On God." She read several Bible verses on this subject. She said: "When one acknowledges total dependence on God, a new and living experience takes place in the heart, in the life of the person.

"As long as a man remains obstinate in depending on himself, he will only find painful failures that will convert him into a fugitive without rest."

Mrs. Baker, president, presided over the business session. During this time, Mrs. Wilson's report was read, which showed money, much clothing and food given to those in need during December.

Mrs. J. B. Smith read a letter from the Methodist Home for Children in Raleigh, telling something of the work done there and thanking the class for their part in this work.

Members of the class discussed and decided what would be best to do with the furnishings in the classroom until the new classroom will be ready for use.

Youth Sunday Held At Fountain Church

FOUNTAIN—The Senior High Fellowship and Pioneers of Fountain Presbyterian Church presented the worship service Sunday morning at Fountain Presbyterian Church.

Those taking part in the service were Miss Sue Dilda, organist; the Pioneer Choir; Miss Parmie Moore and John Dilda. The Rev. Philip M. Cory gave the pastoral prayer.

In the absence of Miss Carolyn Harris, Miss Marie Hope Dunn of Pinetops gave the explanation of the youth poster. Miss Gearldine Little gave the dedication prayer.

Lydia Wooten Class Meets

The Lydia Wooten Class meeting was held Monday night at 8 with Miss Eunice McGee at the Alumni House of ECC. Co-hostesses were Mesdames J. F. Merrill, H. A. Hendrix, Phil Goodson, George Staples and L. J. Partridge.

The class president, Mrs. J. L. Simmons, presided. She opened the meeting with a thought on "Reverence To God," stressing devotion to God and family.

The secretary called the roll. Twenty-six members were present.

Mrs. T. F. Smaw gave the treasurer's report and dues were collected.

Mrs. M. W. Maxwell reported on what the class did at Christmas for the family token.

It was voted by the members to buy a pew in the new church in honor of Mrs. Nettie Brogden Herring for her years of service to the class as teacher.

Announcement was made of the new Sunday School hours and assembly location effective Feb. 3.

Miss Eunice McGee entertained the group with readings.

The group sang "Happy Birthday" to Mrs. Jasper Jones and she was remembered with a gift from the president.

Mrs. Roberson Club Speaker

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. Nathan Roberson talked on Thomas Jefferson, the third president of the United States, at a meeting of the Ex Libris Club January 22.

Mrs. John Tyler was club hostess for the afternoon at her home on South Broad Street. Her home was decorated with greenery and yellow flowers for the occasion.

The speaker described Thomas Jefferson as a versatile figure. He was a states man, diplomat, farmer, lawyer, violinist, philosopher, author and architect, she said, citing examples of each.

Mrs. Roberson showed a photostatic copy of the Declaration of Independence, drafted and signed by Jefferson.

"Although he was born an aristocrat, his belief that all men are born equal was an expression of the principle on which our government is based," she told the club.

Mrs. Herbert Pope presided in the absence of Mrs. Paul Roberson.

During the social hour, the hostess served strawberry ice cream pie, salted cashew nuts and hot coffee to her guests.

The class of 1960 at the U.S. Navy Academy in Annapolis will include 273 enlisted men from Navy and Marine Corps.

Mrs. Barrett Is Clio Speaker

Mrs. Alton Barrett was guest speaker when Mrs. O. E. Dowd entertained members of the Clio Book Club January 22 at her home in Brookgreen.

Mrs. Barrett talked on Alcoholics Anonymous, depicting the philosophy and structure of this organization which had its beginning 23 years ago and today embraces a known membership of 200,000 and operates in 42 countries.

"All alcoholics are sick people and should be treated as such," the speaker said. She pointed out the organization has received outstanding recognition in many fields as well as numerous tributes from individuals.

Its structure of 12 steps by which each one strives to live is a way of life the members of this organization have found to be workable and practical, she concluded.

Upon arrival, members and guests were served a dessert course with coffee and nuts. Mrs. Dowd was assisted by Mrs. E. C. Wilkerson.

Mrs. Smith Is Hostess At Bridge

ROBERSONVILLE—The Tuesday Night Bridge Club was entertained by Mrs. Irving Smith on January 22.

The hostess greeted guests at the door and invited them into the large living room where three tables were set up for cards. After the players took their places, Mrs. Smith served chocolate pie and hot coffee. Later in the evening Coca-Colas and salted nuts were enjoyed during the games.

After the fifth progression Mrs. B. L. Stokes had the highest score. Mrs. Forrest E. Boone received the guest award and the consolation prize went to Mrs. George Ross.

Mrs. Gay Hostess To Friday Club

30 Years Ago Today

January 30, 1927

The sewing club met Friday afternoon with Miss Mary Rachel Teel at her home on Second St. Martha Jane Gates was elected secretary. A contest—who could make the best Valentine?—was very much enjoyed. Margaret Hardee was the winner and was awarded a pretty Valentine lady. The hostess served hot chocolate and cake.

With every member present, the meeting of the Round Table Club on Tuesday afternoon was indeed one of the most delightful of the year. The hostess, Mrs. J. W. Higgs, in her gracious manner made all glad to be present. Mrs. H. L. Carr presented the program. The hostess, assisted by Miss Helene Higgs, served a beautiful salad course.

Young Women's Auxiliary Meets

"Send Out The Light To America" was the program topic when the Ladies Auxiliary of Gum Swamp Free Will Baptist Church met Friday night in the home of Mrs. Frank Manning of Belvoir.

Ida Mae Lewis, Ida Whitaker and Pat James led the discussion.

The meeting was dismissed with sentence prayers. The hostess served refreshments.

Home Agent Gives Program On Better Family Planning

Home Agent Lillie Little gave the demonstration entitled "Better Family Planning" when the Falkland Home Demonstration Club met Thursday.

Mrs. Little suggested the entire family take time out to gather and decide what they want to accomplish, using the simple and thoroughly fixed planning sheets which she distributed.

A question and answer period followed.

Mrs. Frank Peaden, president, presided over the meeting held at her home, "Southwood."

She announced an invitation received by the club to attend lectures sponsored by the Heart Fund Foundation in the Rocky Mount High School. These lectures will be given by two noted heart research workers on Feb. 7 at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Peaden reported on her visit with the Ruritan Club where she explained the new farmer's day "Pitt County Progress Program." Prizes amounting to $1,200 will be awarded in May.

She announced the scout leaders, Principal Ed Warren, and Lewis Laurence have already led the scouts in the project of cleaning the vacant lot on the north side of the church. They offered further assistance in the undertaking of any future community projects, it was noted.

Mrs. Joe Gurganus announced the planting of shrubbery on the grounds of King's Crossroads Baptist Church, which will count on the community project program. Mrs. Sam Bland reported installing a bathroom.

Progress records should be turned in to Mrs. Thelma Corbett, vice president, or to Mrs. Marguerite M. Wooten, secretary, as often as possible, it was noted.

Miss Little, in giving the treasurer's report, led the club in the discussion of plans for a Bingo party to raise funds. Action was deferred until Jan. 28.

Miss Little pledged a donation of $10 to be added to the sum the club raises. Mrs. Little told the group of the county's polio indebtedness.

Announcement was made that a Social Security representative is available on the third Monday of each month to talk with persons on eligibility claims. His headquarters are located in the welfare department, old hospital building. He will be available for a six months period.

Announcement was also made of the district meeting to be held near Kinston at Wheat Swamp School April 25.

Plans were made to prepare sandwiches for the county council meeting to be held March 8.

Twelve women were present for Thursday's meeting.

Home Agent Gives Club Demonstration

"Planning family living is a family affair," said Home Agent Lillie Little when she met with the Stokes Home Demonstration Club this week.

Each member received an outline for a simple planning sheet. The big questions asked were, "Where are we now, in regard to family living, and what changes would we like and could afford?"

Eleven members answered roll call.

The hostess, Mrs. J. B. Congleton, served refreshments after the business session.

Processing Plants Are In Demand

Competition among Eastern Carolina counties for home-grown industry—particularly processing plants —is becoming keener with each passing month.

We find the situation most encouraging.

Although the talk of processing plants as a "natural" supplement to the agricultural economy of this region has been going on for years, little real progress in the way of establishing such plants has been made. To be sure we have a few. Mount Olive and Ayden have their pickles, a few seafood processing plants are springing up along the coast, and here and there throughout this region a few communities are processing foodstuffs rather than sending them out of the state for processing.

Almost over night now, it seems, almost every county in the section is giving more attention to food processing not only as a means of creating new jobs, but as a means for creating new markets for farm produce. In Robersonville construction of a poultry processing plant is underway. That means thousands of chickens will have to be produced on farms of the area if the demand of the plant for birds is to be filled.

Up in Halifax surveys are being made among farmers to determine whether vegetables can be secured in quantities sufficient to justify a frozen food plant in that area. In Wayne and Duplin Counties efforts are also being made to determine the feasibility of establishing one or more food processing plants.

The counties are competing for these plants. But they are not competing against each other. They are competing against time. Each needs the additional jobs the plants will provide. Each needs the additional farm income which will be derived from producing in quantity supplemental crops for these plants.

The broad area of Eastern North Carolina and the diversity of crops its land can produce makes it an ideal location for a large number of such plants. Almost every county in the area could support from one or two to perhaps a dozen small processing plants without the field becoming overcrowded.

The new interest in processing which is evident throughout this section suggests Eastern Carolina may now be on the threshhold of becoming the food processing center which it should be.

Wilson Sounded Off Without Finding Out

Thousands of National Guardsmen who wound up in Korea and other far-flung places during the Korean War probably had no idea they were "draft dodgers" until Secretary Wilson's uncalled-for statement this week.

The Secretary of Defense has declined an apology to members of the National Guard, but in all fairness, he owes them one.

A careful check of National Guard members across the United States will not substantiate Secretary Wilson's statement that the Guard offered a shelter from the draft and from foreign duty to youths during the Korean conflict. Thousands of Guardsmen, including those in the Greenville National Guard, were among the first to be called to active duty when the Korean conflict began. Many National Guardsmen gave their lives in Korea, and countless others spent months in the front lines of combat. Thousands more Guardsmen left their homes and families to take up arms against potential enemies of freedom in Europe and other scattered places around the world.

Draft dodgers?

Ask the kid who joined a National Guard unit after it was alerted for active duty in Korea or elsewhere. Ask the guy who faced the hordes of Chinese soldiers in Korea. Ask the Guardsman's wife who stayed at home with the children while her peace-time soldier husband was away on active duty for a couple of years.

Secretary Wilson may know what went on at General Motors during the Korean War, and he may have found out what went on at the Pentagon, but apparently he fell into his old habit of shooting off his mouth before he found out what went on in the National Guard during the Korean War.

Business With No Employees

By ELMER ROESSNER

The 1954 Census of Business, which is still being analyzed with the help of The Moron at Suitland, Md., is throwing a new light on small, go-it-alone businesses in the United States.

The Moron is an electric computing machine. While such devices are sometimes referred to as "electronic brains," they have no creative powers and do exactly and only what the operator directs. That's why Census Bureau employees have given is a less-than-respectful name.

After a proper diet of cards, tape and impulses, it disgorged the fact that there were 64,030 retail enterprises with neither store nor employees in the U.S. in 1954. There are no reasons for expecting any great change in the number since then.

These businesses are classed as "nonstore retailers," subclass "without payroll." They are in the mail order, door-to-door and vending machine fields.

BIG SEGMENT OF TRADE

When included with the nonstore retailers who do have payrolls, these firms constitute a very large segment of the distributive industries in America. All together, there were 78,508 nonstore retailers and their total sales that year were $4.5 billion.

The firms with payrolls—which of course were the large ones, probably including Spiegel, Electrolux and other storeless giants—did the bulk of this business. These 14,478 firms made sales of $3.7 billion. Roughly, 20 per cent of the firms did 80 per cent of the business.

Let's look at the no-employee companies, the 64,000 that made about $777,000,000 in sales—about $12,000 each, on the average.

Of these the far greatest number — 60,194—were in the door-to-door field, 3,118 operated merchandise vending machines, and 718 ran mail-order businesses.

The statistics do not tell just who these people are, but you've met many of them—the fellow who hustles from door to door, selling brooms and brushes on his own; the man and wife who make candy and sell it by mail; the fellow who says he is selling magazines to put himself thorough college but who is really supporting a wife and a couple of kids; the partners who sell fruits and vegetables from a wagon; the man who races around a round of cigarette vending machines, hoping desperately to find enough coins to pay for his cigarettes, for his overdue payments on the machine, and for enough to eat.

TRULY A MORON

There are others: the teacher who sells storm windows from house to house to eke out a living; the resourceful door-to-door appliance man who makes from $300 to $400 a week in commissions and spends January in Miami; the man who sells roasted peanuts or chestnuts from a cart in an effort to get enough money to go back to the Old Country to die—

There must be thousands of stories in these fields—stories of tragedy, courage, success, self-sacrifice and of the spunk that has made American business great.

But the machine at Suitland can tell none of these. All it can do is to grind out figures: 30 firms with payrolls in the door-to-door jewelry field; 12 selling shoes by mail; 111 operating milk and ice cream vending machines. Lights flash, clicks sound, figures emerge—figures, figures, figures. No romance, no drama, no stardust. Just numbers.

Truly, a moron!

Opinions In Brief

"These are the times that try men's souls. The Summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of his country; but he that stands it now, deserves the love and thanks of man and woman. Tyranny, like Hell, is not easily conquered; yet we have this consolation with us, that the harder the conflict, the more glorious the triumph. What we obtain too cheap, we esteem too lightly: 'tis dearness only that gives everything its value. Heaven knows how to put a proper price upon its goods; and it would be strange indeed if so celestial an article as Freedom should not be highly rated."—Thomas Paine.

Accord On Four Tax Bill Points

By LYNN NISBET

TAX BILL — The bill is the "thing," not the rep of the tax study commission. That statement pretty well sums up the attitude of most business men on the proposal to remodel North Carolina's antequated tax structure.

Objectives of the recommendations have been rather generally approved. A number of business and civic organizations have endorsed the principle. Some of these endorsement contained implied, if not stated, reservations on specific items pending study of the text of the implementing bills to be considered by the Legislature.

There is unanimous agreement on four basic points:

The income tax structure must be revised in the interest of fair play and to put North Carolina in better competitive position with other states in attracting new industry — especially as the tax is applied to corporations doing business in more than one state.

The Hodge-Podge privilege license schedule needs to be simplified, both for purposes of administration and equitable distribution of the tax load.

The sales and use tax sections should be rewritten to remove discrimination and loopholes.

Cities and towns must be given additional sources of revenue in order to maintain the municipal services demanded by the people.

Removal of inequities almost certainly will result in tax relief to some, substantial increase in tax liability for others. Business men individually and in group action who have endorsed the theory of fair taxation which the proposed plan seeks to achieve, at the same time are watching closely for language in the bill which might add to their taxes. Indications are they will not accept witout vigorous protest any substantial increases in their own taxes in order to offset revenue losses from adjustments elsewhere.

TEXT — The tax study commission has been working closely with the Advisory Budget Commission in preparation of the revenue bill to be submitted to the General Assembly. It will implement commission recommendations for revision of tax laws, designed also to yield sufficient money to maintain services to be provided in the biggest appropriation bill in State history.

Provisions of budget bills are the best kept secrets in State government, prior to their introduction in the Legislature. The 1957 bills are expected to hit the General Assembly on Monday or Tuesday, February 11-12. The air is full of rumors about specific items. A few of the rumors are based on logical deductions and perhaps some minor leaks of information. Most of them stem from wishful thinking, or the desire of certain people to impress the public with their inside knowledge of coming events.

BATTLE LINES — Meantime, the affected large taxpayers are getting together the most formidable battery of lobbyists since inception of the sales tax and adoption of the corporate income allocation formula in 1931 and 1933. Only major revision of tax laws since 1933 came two years ago. The effort then was to extend coverage of existing tax levies rather than venture into new fields.

It is noteworthy that the 1931, '33 and '55 sessions were five-month affairs, running from early January to late May. Proposed changes now are more far-reaching than in any of these sessions, both as to extension of coverage and inclusion of new tax sources.

Veteran observers see little basis for the optimistic prediction of a short session this year. Beginning a month later, a five month stay will run into late June. The fight on specific increases will be no less bitter because every lobbyist and every taxpayer will give lip service to the principle of the tax commission recommendations.

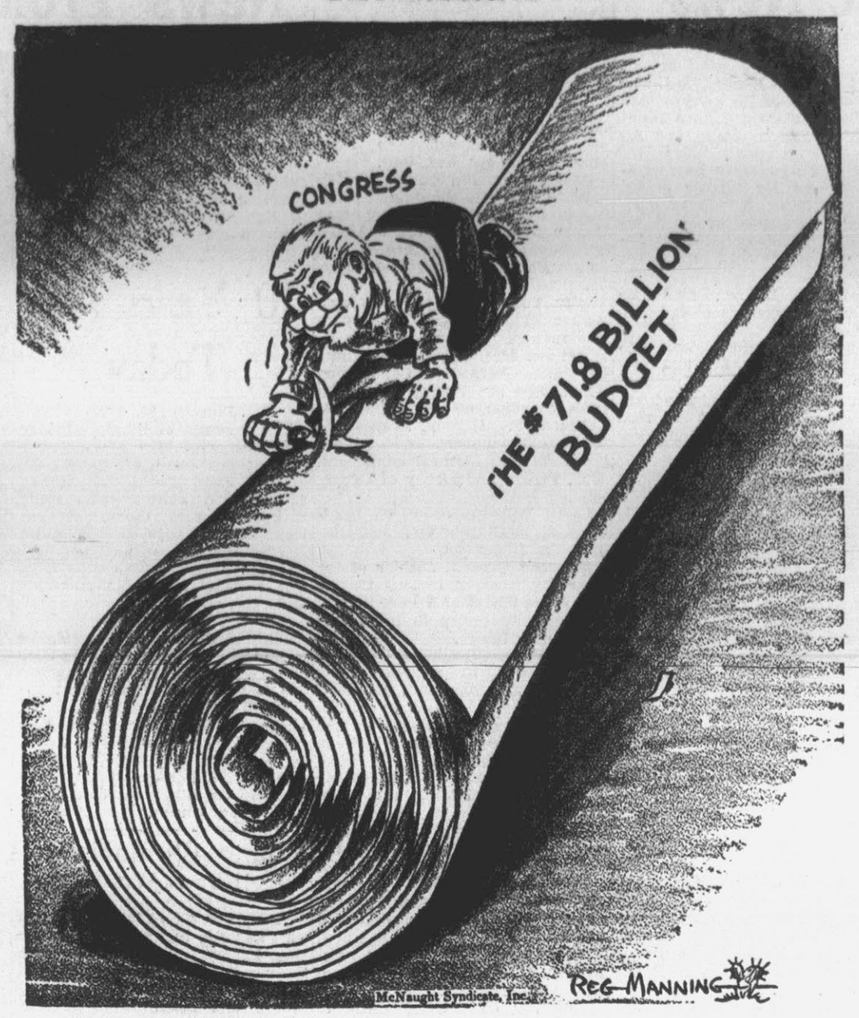

NEWSPAPER MEN — While there was understandable difference in emphasis by representatives of the business offices and editorial-news departments of newspapers, there was unanimity of purpose in all the discussions and actions taken by newspaper men at the annual N. C. Press Institute at Chapel Hill and Duke. The objective is to make North Carolina newspapers better.

Fuller coverage of news in text of stories and pictures, clearer interpretation of events in editorials, requires more money for editorial writers, photographers and reporters, and more pages of newsprint on which to portray the material. That means the advertising and circulation revenue must keep pace with demands of the news rooms.

One managing editor expressed it this way: "If cash registers don't clang, typewriters and cameras can't click, and there would be no need for cameras and typewriters without linotype machines and presses and newsboys to take to the people what editors and reporters produce."

To greater degree in North Carolina than in many other places, and this is particularly true of small dailies and non-dailies, the publisher and the editor is the same man. There is cooperation rather than conflict between the cash register, the typewriter, the linotype and the big printing press. None could survive without all the others and in North Carolina newspaper offices none dominates the field.

The Whittler

UCYM Devotional

That Estate 'Up There'

Milly Bowden is secretary of the Christian Youth Fellowship at the Eighth Street Christian Church and a representative from her fellowship to the Greenville UCYM Council. A junior at Greenville High School, she is in the mixed chorus, sings in the trio, and is a member of the Future Homemakers of America.

Scripture: Luke 12: 29—34.

"Smilin' Doc" had a fine practice among the poor. He did not have fine clothes, new cars, or half days off. And he made night calls. Before he died many said, "I'd like to have Old Doc's bank account." Five hundred people attended his funeral.

"Incredible!" these fools exclaimed when his estate was too small to warrant administration. His bank book showed a balance of $273. His list of patients was amazingly small and low fees were recorded.

In a drawer under his much-used Bible they found another record book on which he had written, "My Savings Up There." This book contained many more names than the first. After each he had scrawled a brief note. After one he had written "Bill's kids need clothes more than I need $50." Another read "They haven't any money and it's Christmas." After an item of $200 he had written, "Paid in full by the smiles and thanks of five little children."

When the doctor's spiritual estate is administered in the court of heaven, people will doubtless be asking each other, "Wouldn't you like to have Old Doc's bank account up there?"

Prayer: Almighty God, give us the will and passion to seek treasure that is eternal. Give us the love and courage to attain it. Amen.

Other Editors Saying--- Is Reform Mere Shift?

(Henderson Dispatch)

Eastern North Carolina members of the coming General Assembly are not ready to roll over and play dead — nor ignorant — in the face of the proposed State tax reform legislation to be presented to them next month. Certainly it is in order for them to know all the ins and outs of the package deal that is already in the cards.

A meeting of the eastern lawmakers was held in Kinston the other night, and everybody had a chance to speak his mind, privately or openly. According to reports, many did. And on one particular subject it can be hoped that they will stick to their initial impression.

The upcoming assessment program calls for conferring authority upon municipalities to levy an occupational tax on job holders to raise their automobile license tax to ten dollars. Presumably this would be a sort of appeasement if and when the State tosses back into the lap of cities and towns a sizeable portion of the cost of services the State government has for years been carrying.

The "permissive" levy, as it is termed, would, of course, leave the option to the municipalities to impose these burdens or not do so. But he is an optimist indeed who clings to the thought that the opportunity would not be embraced.

Here in Henderson, the automobile license fee is a flat dollar for all vehicles. That is what it has always been since the city first adopted this method of raising a few thousand dollars. Think of the amount of money that would come in if this fee were upped to ten times that amount, or around $36,000. To adopt such a tax would make enforcement more difficult and would make a lot of car owners fighting mad, and justly so.

The so-called "head tax" on all job holders would, if imposed, be the equivalent of waving a red flag before a wild bull. If successful, however, it would really bring in the cash. And along with it probably some political heads would roll. Municipal office holders would do well to bear that in mind.

Much has been said about the tax measures to be given the Legislature. There is probably abundant room for reform, but the individual will have very little to show for the relief given by the State Assembly if what happened was merely a shift of taxes from State to local sources

Somehow we cannot sell ourselves on the idea of always increasing taxes and never introducing economy measures. Too often the candidate for office speaks one language when seeking office, and then falls in line for heavier taxes and greater spending the moment he takes the oath of office.

Legislators need to inform themselves of what is contained in the proposed tax package. If it is to be merely a shifting of the burden, the present system had as well be retained. What the people want is lower taxes, not heavier loads.

The Public Forum

To the Editor:

As a member of the Elmhurst School PTA Safety Committee, I appreciated very much the prompt and decisive action of the Greenville City Council and the Norfolk and Southern Railroad in making provision for signals at the two railroad crossings near the Elmhurst School.

I think I can speak for all of us on the Committee who made the request that such action be taken, as well as for the many parents who were deeply concerned about these unmarked crossings, in extending our heartfelt thanks to the Council and to the Railroad. We were most gratified at the spirit of helpful co-operation that was displayed by all parties concerned.

Sincerely yours,
Edgar W. Hirshberg

Think Back A Bit

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP) — The teenager's high school newspaper came into the house the other day, like a bulletin from outer space.

Foreign news on page one. They have "adopted" a town in Greece and a Greek student had written back. A competent report described developments in a constitutional question. Other items reflecting a world incredibly different from your own high school world, more complicated, showing stresses and anxieties unimaginable to the teenager of a generation ago.

Think back a moment.

No shadow of war darkened American in the 1920s. War had been locked away securely, people said, by the Kellogg-Briand Pact; nations bound themselves never again to use force. Armies were small. Conferences in Washington and London had drawn the fangs of the big navies, limiting them, in theory, to purely defensive capabilities.

A "dictator" was a dusty word in the pages of ancient history few people had even heard of "genocide."

The atom? Intercontinental missiles? Buck Rogers stuff. Oh, sure, there were bombs, but not very big ones. Besides, how could anyone bomb America? The oceans were much too wide.

On another front, the future stretched ahead into reaches of dazling promise. Business was booming. The stock market, running wild, was going through the roof. Not unreasonable one way or another, a young man might hope to make — and keep — a million dollars before he was 40, which, of course, was getting pretty well along in years.

It was a serene, uncomplicated world, with cerulean skies and favorable winds.

And in a wink, it blew to bits. First the depression, then the dictators, then war in several forms.

For nearly 30 years, Americans have lived with their triple-headed spectre. Their children grew up with it. They have breathed insecurity from the knowledge of being vulnerable to unpredictable, and possibly unmanageable, forces and men.

Yet there is a brighter side to this.

The depression taught us about unbridled speculation. Adolf Hitler taught us the dangerous idiocy of dictators. Hiroshima gave us a preview of the dimensions of any future war. And the Russians have been able instructors, teaching us about subversion and infighting in a cold war.

Today few Americans assume that the oceans are still wide enough to shield them from physical harm. They know about war and the necessities for military service. They would expect to sacrifice rather than appease.

So a parent may regret that his children aren't having it quite so good in some ways as he did at their age. But he can be glad they are better equipped for a rough world than he was.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

INNER AND OUTER HARMONY

There have to be laws on the statute books to regulate our behavior but man usually rebels when these laws become too specific or too severe. We live in an age which particularly dislikes the restraint of laws. Probably all generations of humans have wanted to do what they wanted to do when they wanted to do it. But our generation is particularly given to lawlessness.

Strange as it may seem, there is a good side to all this as well as a bad side. Something within us tells us that laws written on the pages of a book are not sufficient. Law by itself is nothing. The situation is only satisfactory when the law is right, and man's response to the law prompt and willing.

This means that laws, to be effective must not only be written on the pages of books, but also in our hearts—on the fleshly tables of our hearts, as the Bible puts it. In Hebrews 10, we read that God declares that He will put His laws in men's hearts and upon their minds will He write them. When this happens, then peace and obedience ensue.

The only law that really operates is the law that we have inside our hearts and this law must correspond to laws which have come out of the experience of the race. Correspondence is the word.

Welfare State Budget Costs Soar

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The cost of this country's so-called "welfare state" has grown from less than $8 billion in 1945, which marked the end of World War II, to almost $35 billion a year in the 1958 Eisenhower budget now before Congress. Both major parties are responsible for this tremendous expanion, although the Democrats began the experiment in official humanitarianism.

In addition to these protective activities at home, the United States now maintains and finances what might be described as an "international welfare state." It consists of more than 50 nations whose freedom and progress we have guaranteed, and to which we are supplying economic, military and technical assistance.

COST OF UNCLE SAM'S GOOD SAMARITAN ROLE The direct outlay for overseas defense and welfare programs in the current budget amounts to approximately $5 billion. It is estimated that at least $15 billion of the $38 billion military bill can be charged off to our overseas forces. Thus, the total for this item comes to at least $20 billion annually.

Even figured conservatively, Uncle Sam's role as Good Samaritan in the middle of the 20th century, at home and abroad, costs him about $55 billion a year. In Herbert Hoover's time, the total Federal budget amounted to about $6 billion. That figure would barely pay the interest on the $275 billion public debt today.

SKYROCKETING COSTS The following figures show how the costs of our domestic "welfare state" have skyrocketed so pyrotechnically:

(In billions of dollars)	1945	1958
Education	$3.4	$11.0
Social Security	1.4	11.0
Veterans	.9	5.0
Health	1.0	3.8
Public Aid	1.2	4.0
Total	$7.9	$34.8

OVER-ALL FIGURES If the money which states, cities and other governmental units spend for these items is added to the Federal bill, it is estimated that the over-all cost of our "cradle to the grave" society would approach $50 billion every twelve months.

The only difference between the American and British systems, as so many Members of Congress sourly note, is that they admitted frankly to the deliberate creation of a socialized form of government.

EXPANSION OF BRITISH MODEL The significance of our imitation and expansion of the British model is that it bothers nobody except a few conservatives like Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia and Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey. But when it was begun by F. D. R. only 22 years ago — 1935 — and carried on by Harry S. Truman, it was excoriated on and off Capitol Hill.

Republicans voted almost solidly against it, predicting Federal bankruptcy. Wall Street warned that it would produce panics. Distinguished Democrats — Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis, John J. Raskob, Jouett Shouse — organized the Liberty League to rescue the nation, and regarded themselves as Paul Reveres.

But now, with Eisenhower trumpeting the "new liberal Republicanism," and Democrats sardonically welcoming the conversion, the "welfare state of America" is a fact.

Hollywood Takes Its Divorces As Routine; Factors Involved

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What's the matter with movie marriages?

You hear that question each time a new Hollywood divorce hits the news. The issue is raised more in other localities rather than here. Divorce is so much a part of Hollywood that it is taken as a matter of course.

"There appears to be more divorce because the spotlight is on people here," said a leading citizen. "I imagine there is no more divorce than there would be among any other group of persons of like income and living conditions."

There is no practical way to make a comparison. Certainly the nation's divorce rate is alarming. And certainly there are many one-marriage stars — James Stewart, Bob Hope, Burt Lancaster, Joel McCrea, Rosalind Russell, Ann Blyth, etc.

But take a look at the multiple marriages of some others:

Five — Hedy Lamarr, Clark Gable (once a widower), Gloria Swanson.

Two — Frank Sinatra, Jennifer Jones, Betty Grable, Eleanor Parker, Tyrone power, Loretta Young, Ingrid Bergman, Robert Taylor, Barbara Stanwyck, Jack Webb, Olivia DeHavilland, Terry Moore, Esther Williams, Jane Powell, Doris Day, Linda Darnell, Elizabeth Taylor (the latter two expecting to try again shortly).

One fact is evident from even an incomplete list such as the above: female stars face more jeopardy in marriage than male stars.

A leading filmland lawyer, who has handled many a top divorce, explained, "A working wife places a strain on any marriage; most husbands hold to the tradition that a woman's place is in the home.

"Living with a movie actress is extremely difficult for a man to adjust to. He must accustom himself to having his wife absent from home a great deal of the time, to having the house managed and their children reared by hired help and to seeing his wife the center of interest whenever they go out.

"The situation is even more difficult when the wife earns more than the husband. It takes an unusual man to adjust to that situation."

Psychologists, lawyers and other observers of Hollywood mores suggest other reasons who more strains are placed on filmland marriages than normal ones:

1 Actors are emotional people. Their work consists of dealing with emotions, and this often does not provide the stability for dealing with marriage. They may seek divorce in a flight of temperament, regret it later.

2 Actors are attractive people. No other class of workers has so much opportunity for extramarital dalliance.

3 When an actor and actress marry, they are inevitably in conflict with each other's career. If the husband achieves more success, the wife often resents it. If the wife becomes more famous, it is usually fatal for the marriage.

4 The advent of fame and fortune places strains on a marriage. Many film couples married during their struggling days, then found themselves thrust into the spotlight. Often stardom makes them different people, and they grow apart.

5 Stars live in a goldfish bowl. A cross word spoken in public can become a headline. Gossips are alert to report rifts, often before they happen. This can create an atmosphere of doubt and suspicion, which can be deadly for a marriage.

Group Considers One-Year Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Senate Rules Committee considers today a proposal for a yearlong investigation of alleged racketeering in labor unions and industry.

Chairman Hennings (D-Mo) said he hoped for a quick vote to recommend that the Senate approve the investigation.

Senate leaders are asking a $350,000 fund for the probe, which would be conducted by an eight-man special committee.

The resolution to authorize the investigation was introduced yesterday by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), who is expected to head the special bipartisan committee. It carries no restrictions on which senators might be chosen.

Leaders said privately they expect all eight will be chosen equally from the Senate Investigations subcommittee, which already has started hearings, and the Senate Labor Committee, which had filed a rival claim to jurisdiction over the inquiry.

Mentioned for possible posts on the special committee are McClellan as chairman, Senators McCarthy (R-Wis), Mundt (R-SD) and Ervin (D-NC) from the Investigations subcommittee, and Ives (R-NY), Purtell (R-Conn), McNamara (D-Mich), Kennedy (D-Mass), Goldwater (R-Ariz) and Thurmond (D-SC) of the Labor Committee.

The resolution would arm the committee with virtually unlimited authority to investigate "the extent to which criminal or other imporper practices or activities are, or have been, engaged in" by persons or groups "in the field of labor-management relations."

McClellan said the language is broad enough to prevent any successful challenge of the committee's authority by prospective witnesses.

Boy Held For Shooting Mother

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A 13-year-old boy was charged last night with critically wounding his mother by firing two .22 rifle shots into her head as she read a book.

Billy Blankenbaker was charged with assault with intent to commit murder. He told police he fired the shots because his 37-year-old mother refused to let him play with a switch blade knife given him by his father.

"She fussed at me and called me an ugly name," Billy told officers.

Hospital officials said Mrs. Blankenbaker was in a critical condition.

TO GIVE LIBRARY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Trustees of the Harry S. Truman Library in Independence, Mo., have voted to offer the 1½-million-dollar building, due to be completed in May, to the federal government.

More than one-third of the women working in the United States today are over 45.

Curtain Going Up On Shavian Play

Patsy Anne Baker of Greenville, director of the production of Shaw's "Pygmalion" by the East Carolina Playhouse, (left) is pictured during rehearsal as she gives some pointers to the leading lady Alice Anne Horne of Tabor City. The first of three performances of the comedy will take place tonight at 8 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium.

Shaw's popular comedy "Pygmalion," presented by the East Carolina Playhouse as a major production of the 1956-1957 term, will open tonight at 8 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium. Performances at the same time and place will follow on Thursday and Friday nights.

Patsy Ann Baker of Greenville, sophomore at the college, is student director of the play and for the past several weeks has cooperated with Dr. Joseph A. Withey, faculty consultant, in planning the production and rehearsing with the cast.

Lloyd J. Bray Jr. of Greenville shares honors with Alice Ann Horne of Tabor City in portraying the chief characters in the play. Bray has the part of Henry Higgins, professor of phonetics, who makes a wager that he can transform the cockney girl Eliza Doolittle into a lady, and does so. Miss Horne is cast as Eliza.

Both have become familiar to local audiences in previous productions on the campus. Bray played last spring the role of The Christus in the Greenville Passion Play. In productions by the East Carolina Playhouse, he has been a member of the cast of Ruth Gordon's "Years Ago," Sidney Kingsley's "Darkness at Noon," and Lindsay and Crouse's "State of the Union."

Miss Horne's most outstanding role to date was that of Lady Macbeth in the student-faculty production last spring of the Shakespearean tragedy. She was a star performer in the Playhouse production of Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" and appeared also in "State of the Union."

Pre-Registering For Quarter Is Now In Progress

Students attending East Carolina College are enrolling this week in courses to be taught during the spring quarter. During this pre-registration period, men and women who are now students at the college will consult with their faculty advisers, select their courses, and prepare their spring schedules.

The present quarter will end Saturday, February 23, at noon. A three-day period, during which classes will not meet, will give instructors an opportunity to check examination papers and to file the grades of students in the registrar's office. Final registration for both those new enrolled and those who will enter East Carolina in the spring will then be held Wednesday, February 27. Class work for spring-quarter courses will begin Thursday, February 28, at 8 a.m.

The spring quarter will include holidays extending from Saturday, April 20, at noon through Tuesday, April 23. Commencement exercises, final event of the spring quarter, are scheduled for Sunday, May 19.

Ship Explosion Kills Nine Men

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — Nine workmen were killed and 50 injured yesterday as two explosions and fire wrecked the tanker Jeanny, being refitted for emergency use in the Mideast oil crisis.

Six of the survivors were reported in critical condition.

The 10,296 government-owned tanker, newly out of mothballs, was being rushed to a Feb. 8 deadline. She was leased to the American Transport Co. to carry oil to Europe.

Austin Shean, assistant general manager of Todd Shipyards, said welders' torches may have ignited petroleum fumes in the engine and boiler rooms. An investigation may determine the cause. One other shipyard official, unidentified, said heat from the torches might have set off a reserve fuel oil tank.

Survivors said bodies were hurled against bulkheads of the two rooms and against pipes. Some corpses were battered and broken.

Many of the injured — six were in critical condition — had broken bones as well as severe burns.

The tragedy occurred in mid-afternoon at the Todd yards on the Oakland Estuary.

Although searchers said they believed there were no more bodies or survivors in the Jeanny, they worked through the night. They cut through beams and bulkheads to remove the corpses — first five, then two more and one critically injured survivor—later, two more corpses.

Twenty of the 250 workers aboard were in the ship's stern when the explosion shattered that section. Not one of that 20 escaped death or injury.

Rescuers poured after from all parts of the ship and from an adjoining vessel. About 50 were starting down a companionway when a second explosion blasted them back. Many were badly injured.

This was followed by a flash fire that fatally burned seven of the rooms.

injured in the engine and boiler

The blast caused extensive damage to the tanker's superstructure. There were no estimates of damage.

Escape Attempt Costs Inmate Two More Years

A price tag of two years was placed on a short-lived escape made by an inmate of the Greenville Prison Camp last October.

Cecil Bauguess got the extra time tacked onto two sentences he's already serving for running away from a road gang near Grifton on October 31, 1956. The new sentence was imposed by Judge J. Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill, presiding officer at a one-week criminal term of court which opened Monday.

At the time he ran, Bauguess was serving consecutive sentences of 3-to-5 and 2-to-5 years, imposed in Forsyth County for breaking, entering, larceny and receiving. The additional time will begin when he concludes his present sentences.

Other judgments handed down by Judge Frizzelle included:

Linwood Earl Dennis, driving under the influence, capias instanter isued; Thomas B. Deloh-che, speeding, $25 and costs; Clarence Pridgen, public drunkeness, nol pros; Clarence Pridgen, possesion of non-tax-paid whiskey, two years suspended upon payment of costs and condition that Pridgen remains of good behavior and does not drink any intoxicating beverages for two years.

Clarence Pridgen, public drunkeness and disorderly conduct, 30 days suspended upon payment of costs; Hubert R. Morgan, disorderly conduct, 30 days suspended upon payment of $25 and costs and good behavior for one year; Hubert R. Morgan, public drunkeness and resisting arrest, nol pros; Edgar P. Stanfield, public drunkeness and disorderly conduct, 30 days suspended upon payment of costs.

John Clark, alias John Thomas Clark, forgery and uttering a forged check, 12 months (on a second count, Clark was sentenced to 30 days, sentence to run concurrently with the 12 months sentence); James George Edwards, driving under the influence, continued; Jack Dail, embezzlement, continued; Wilbert Phillips, breaking and entering, nolo contendere, at close of state's evidence, the court directed a verdict of not guilty.

William Earl Joyner, larceny, three years; William Earl Joyner, no operator's license, prayer for judgment continued; Grady Gray Turnage, possession of non-tax-paid whiskey and transporting non-tax-paid whiskey, entered a plea of guilty to possession of non-tax-paid whiskey, 60 days suspended upon payment of costs; James T. Baker, selling automobiles without a license (two counts), six months suspended upon payment of $100 fine and costs on each count and on condition that he obtain an automobile dealer's license, a dealer's certificate and a salesman's license within ten days, allowed two weeks to pay costs (three similar charges against Baker were nol prossed by Solicitor Robert D. Rouse Jr.).

Fred Mills, worthless checks (three counts), prayer for judgment continued; Fred Mills, forgery, two years, to run concurrently with sentence imposed in October term of Beaufort County Superior Court; Lee Joyner, temporary larceny of an automobile, defendant waived the bill against him and entered a plea of guilty, prayer for judgment continued until May term.

Planning Begins For Junior-Senior Prom

By BARBARA TAYLOR
Grifton School Reporter

Junior Class members this week began forming plans for the annual Junior-Senior prom and banquet.

The class selected "Garden of Friendship" for the theme of the affair which is planned for April 26. Preparations have already begun and plans are taking shape.

BARBARA

In its meeting this week, the class also adopted class colors and a class motto. Pink and silver were adopted as class colors and the motto, "If you don't aim high, don't aim at all," was also selected.

Junior Class members also filled out applications from the North Carolina Beta Club Council last week. Filling out the applications was in preparation for the annual survey of second-semester Juniors and is an academic undertaking by the Beta Club which is a non-profit education organization.

Rules amendments were adopted by officers and advisors of the Teen-Age Club during the past week. The amendments stated that people in grades lower than the eighth could not attend the teen-age dances, held every other Saturday night, and that members must present membership cards at the door. Plans for a pre-teen club are under consideration.

High school assembly was held Friday morning with Junior Class members in charge of the program.

Lou Raye Mewborn opened the program with a scripture reading after which group singing was led by Judy Hart and Barbara Lane. The program was concluded with a film strip, "Ways to Obtain Occupations," and a talk by Principal E. B. Bright on the necessity of planning life work early.

A close race between all classes brought the polio drive to an end Friday with the freshmen leading in the high school classes. The sophomore class was runner-up in the drive. Mrs. Radford's class was winner in the elementary grades.

May Be Eligible To Take Part In Soil Bank Plan

Farmers who have allotmen: for one or more of the six basic crops which are designated by the Secretary of Agriculture for inclusion in the Acreage Reserve Program because of supply conditions are eligible to take part in the Acreage Reserve Program.

By planting less than their allotted acreage of these crops farmers will earn payments to offset any loss of net income. Payment for participation in the program will be made in the form of negotiable certificates. These payments in most cases will be based on the productivity index for the farm. Land designated for inclusion in the Acreage Reserve may not be cropped or grazed; land designated for inclusion in the Acreage Reserve will also be eligible for "cost-sharing" under the Agricultural Conservation Program will be in addition to the payment for reducing production of the allotment crop.

There are no minimum acreage limitations on the amount of land that may be entered in the program except those which are now in effect on 1957 wheat. Maximum limitations on participation in the 1957 program provide that the acreage for a particular commodity placed in the reserve shall not exceed the allotment for the commodity. Within this limitation, maximum acreages that may be originally entered in the Reserve Program, are the larger of 20 acres of corn or 30 percent of the allotment, 10 acres of cotton or 30 percent of the allotment, 3 acres of flue-cured tobacco or 30 percent of the allotment.

Indications are that farmer-interest in this program will be extremely high. Application for participation in the program will be accepted by local ASC committees on a "First come, first served" basis until the funds are exhausted. For this reason it is important that farmers who want to participate visit their local ASC Office early on the opening day of the sign-up.

Sign-up under the 1957 Acreage Reserve Program begins in all counties Friday, February 1.

Pirates Wallop Appalachian By Sizzling 86-38

Bucs Turn Game Into Three Ring Scoring Circus

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

Ranked to win over a visiting Appalachian team last night by 12 points, East Carolina turned a North State ball game into a three-ring circus, flouting the Apps by a tremendous 48 points and winning 86-38.

The Pirates' point advantage reached such a monstrous state late in the game that the crowd began to laugh loudly at the spectacle. They cheered the players on both teams and the referees and even applauded the fouls.

Coach Howard Porter played his whole bench and used substitutes quite freely during the second half of play. Scoring for the Bucs was well-rounded, with forward Freddy James grabbing high honors with 18. Charlie Adams added 15. Every man on the club scored.

Appalachian's Dave Abernathy, prolific forward, was held to one of the lowest scoring efforts of his career. He netted only seven points.

East Carolina, notably a strictly-offensive club during the past few years, turned in one of the finest defensive performances of the season last night at the local gym. James, Guy Mendenhall and Joe Plaster were especially outstanding in that department.

Close At First

At the opening of play, East Carolina was not particularly impressive against the Apps and gave no indication that they were going to take the game by such a lopsided margin.

They moved to a slow 10-7 lead after seven minutes of play and slowly built from that point. They were never behind after that.

By halftime, the home team had racked up a 35-20 lead. Already, it was evident that East Carolina was having a fairly easy time of it, but certainly no 48-point victory margin was in sight at that time.

Coach Porter's club exploded immediately after the opening of the second half. During the third period, while Appalachian could muster only six points, ECC was stinging the nets for 16. With the lineup chock full of reserves, the Pirates whipped far out in front and controlled both backboards to practically halt the Mountaineers' scoring efforts.

Reserves Tim Smothers, Marion Hales, Roy Dennis and Harold Ingram contributed to the Pirate lead by throwing in 20 points between them. Nick Nichols, who played only briefly, added nine. The defensive play of the substitutes was also just as effective as the regular five's work.

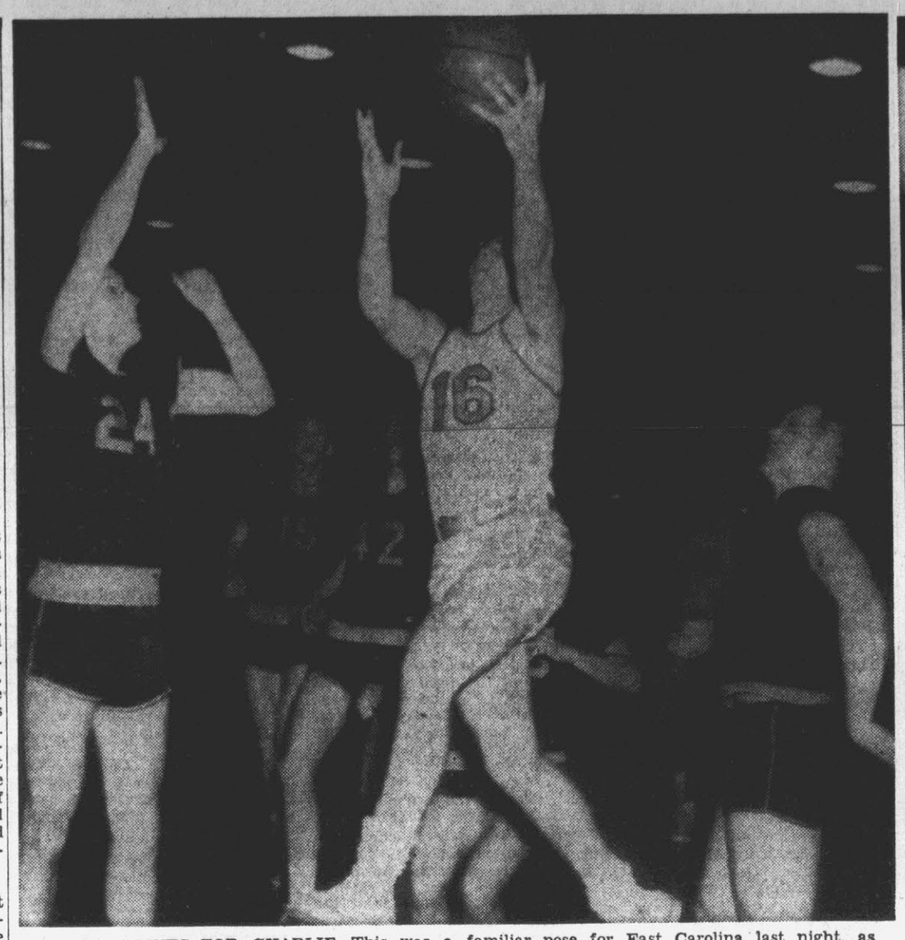

Blazing Finish

In less than eight minutes, to wrap up the game, East Carolina broke away to a blazing finish. In that short period of time, they pulverized the baskets for an amazing 35 points, while holding Appalachian to 12.

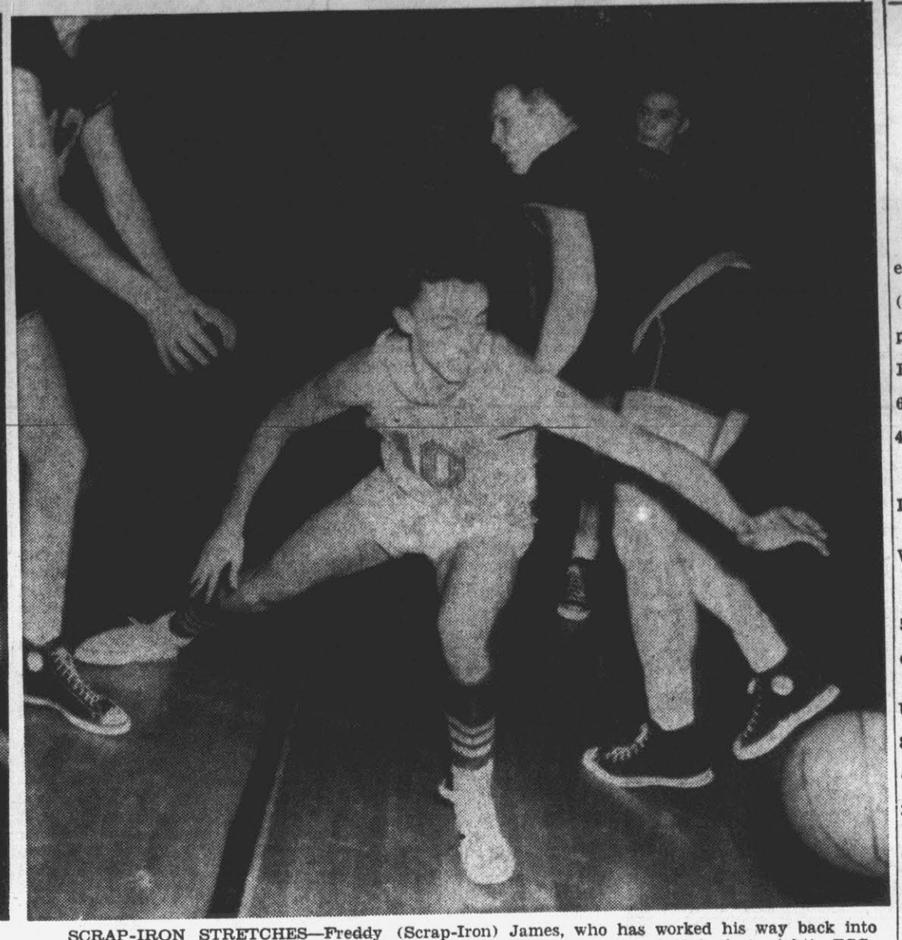

The ECC Jayvees added their eighth straight victory to their total last night in a preliminary tilt, dropping Chowan College 48-31. Waddell Solomon was high for the Bucs and both teams with 19 points.

East Carolina's next game will be played at Memorial Gymnasium Friday night against Western Carolina.

TWO POINTS FOR CHARLIE—This was a familiar pose for East Carolina last night, as they wallopped Appalachian by 48 points, 86-38. Charlie Adams, who contributed 15 points, soars through the air to dunk a lay-up, despite the efforts of Mountaineer center Bob Lyatt (24) to stop him. The win gives the Bucs a 6-5 conference mark and a 10-7 overall record. (Reflector Sports Photos by Billy Arnold).

SCRAP-IRON STRETCHES—Freddy (Scrap-Iron) James, who has worked his way back into a starting berth on the East Carolina cage team, stretches for a loose ball in last night's ECC-Appalachian game at Memorial gymnasium. James, working at a forward position, nabbed high scoring honors for the night with 18 points. East Carolina whipped the Mountaineers 86-38 in a North State Conference match.

Another $80,000 Contract Signed By Stan Musial

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Stan (The Man) Musial, signed to another $80,000 contract by the St. Louis Cardinals, says he'll sit out some games next season in a bid for his seventh National League batting title.

"A rest really does a fellow good," he said yesterday at the signing ceremony. "This consecutive game business is just something I got myself involved in."

Now that he's only 48 games short of Gus Suhr's National League consecutive game record of 822, he hates to give it up.

But once he surpasses this mark, the durable 36-year-old first baseman-outfielder plans to act his age and sit out the second games of double-headers.

"False pride kept him in the lineup," General Manager Frank Lane said. With a rest now and then, Lane thinks Stan can win the batting crown.

GHS Playing Host To Pack Tonight

Washington high school, the second - ranked Northeastern Conference club, will invade ECC's Memorial Gymnasium tonight for a loop contest with the Greenville Phantoms, currently running third in the league.

Greenville is one game behind the Pam Pack, with a 5-2 Conference mark. Washington boasts a 6-1 record.

Coach Boley Farley is expected to use his two-platoon system tonight, in an attempt to outlast the taller, rougher Pack. Washington has defeated the Phants in an earlier meeting.

A Jayvee contest will open play at 6:30 and the varsity game will begin at 8:00.

Washington is rated a 17-point favorite over the locals.

Catamounts And Top Cage Team Will Tangle Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Up in the mountains of North Carolina, at the town of Cullowhee, the Western Carolina Catamounts are dedicating a new gymnasium tonight. And how better to do it than to bring in for a game the North Carolina Tar Heels, No. 1 basketball team in the nation and leader of the Atlantic Coast Conference?

Tar Heel Coach Frank McGuire, pointing to the long examination period layoff, is careful to say that "I don't know how we will do." Western Carolina, a member of the little North State Conference, is pretty sure the visitors from the east will put on a good show, flash plenty of form but try well-manneredly to hold the score down.

For the sake of the new Paul A. Reid Gymnasium Western Carolina is dedicating, the Tar Heels better not hold it down too close. A narrow margin of loss would bring the house down. A win for the Catamounts, and the student body likely would use the new gym as the foundation for a victory bonfire.

A couple of steps down the ACC standings, Wake Forest drubbed Duke last night, 77-59, in a game that saw the Deacons never threatened. Jim Gilley wound up as high scorer for Wake Forest with 21 points and Ernie Wiggins had 16. For the Blue Devils, Bob Vernon dumped in 16 points and Bobby Joe Harris 13.

The win left Wake Forest in fourth place in the conference with a 3-2 record, but pulled Duke (4-2) down to third, behind Maryland (6-2). The Devils and the Terps will tangle tomorrow night at Durham, while Wake Forest will be host to Virginia.

North Carolina State hopped onto Virginia from the start at Portsmouth, Va. last night and never let up, emerging with an 80-63 victory. Whitey Bell led the Wolfpack with 17 points and Lou Pucillo 16 as six Stat players landed in double figures. Bobby Hardy of Virginia was high scorer for the game with 19 points, teammate Bill Miller gathering 12.

Elsewhere in the conference, Clemson Coach Press Maravich yesterday reported practice injuries to two players—Capt. Gene Seay and reserve guard Dick Yeary. Seay suffered a concussion in a fall and Yeary sustained an ankle sprain. Maravich said it is possible neither player will be able to make the two-game trip to North Carolina starting Saturday.

In the only game involving a Carolina member of the Southern Conference last night Furman's Purple Paladins spanked Wofford 89-74 in a nonconference test. Four players accounted for 78 of Furman's points — Dick Wright with 26, Byron Pinson with 20 and Steve Ross and Bob Gaines with 16 each.

Lane And Ryff Meet Again In Tonight's Bout

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Kenny Lane and Frankie Ryff, two of the nation's leading lightweights, battle tonight in a nationally televised 10-rounder with Lane in particular looking to the bout as a possible stepping stone to a title match.

"If I get by this fight with flying colors," says Lane, a southpaw from Muskegon, Mich., "I'll stand a good chance of a title shot." Lane currently is rated the No. 2 contender behind champion Joe Brown.

Lane, who won his last 10 fights and boasts an over-all 45-5 record, is an 8-5 favorite. Ryff has a 21-3 mark.

The two battled it out last Nov. 14 in Miami with Lane gaining a unanimous decision.

Managers of both fighters pronounced their boys in top shape.

Industrial Cage Games Tonight

The recreation department announced today that the first Industrial League basketball games will be played tonight at the Greenville armory.

The first game will feature the Carolina Sales against the Carolina Dairy. The second game will pit the Pepsi-Cola five against the Greenville Parts and Metal quintet.

Games will begin at 7 o'clock.

Allstate paid over
$125,000,000
in auto insurance claims in 1956!

After all, what really counts in auto insurance is how the company keeps its promise of protection. And the record of Allstate, the auto insurance company founded by Sears, speaks for itself!

Last year the Allstate Insurance Company paid over $125,000,000 to protect its policyholders. That's an average of over $10,000,000 every month! Important, too, is the fast, friendly way these claims were handled. And no wonder! Allstate's growing service organization now includes over 2,900 state licensed agents and more than 9,500 other employees conveniently located in over 1,000 offices throughout the U. S. and Canada.

Convincing proof that, whatever happens, you're in good hands with Allstate!

AFL-CIO Considers Seven Million Dollar Dixie Drive

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The AFL-CIO is reportedly considering spending seven million dollars over a three-year period to convince Southern workers they should join labor unions.

Television, radio, newspapers and billboards would be used to plug the values of union membership in an area AFL-CIO unions have found hard to organize.

At the AFL-CIO Executive Council's current winter session here, it was decided to leave more detailed plans to a public relations committee headed by a council member, President William C. Birthright of the barbers union.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, has spoken favorably of the plan. He maintains labor organizations will continue to have troubles organizing in Dixie until workers learn, he said, that unions can help improve pay and work standards and that they have no other motive.

The council's session was recessed today while members attended a closed meeting of the Committee on Political Education (COPE), the AFL-CIO political organization. A rehash of COPE's activities in the 1956 political campaign was in prospect.

Jack Kroll, codirector of COPE with James L. McDevitt, prepared to submit his resignation at the meeting. Nearly 72, Kroll said he would continue as vice president in the Cincinnati, Ohio, area for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union.

Kroll, an associate of the late Sidney Hillman from the start of the old CIO's Political Action Committee, said in an interview he was sure labor unions will play an increasingly active role in politics.

"I foresee a realignment of the nation's political fortune," Kroll said. "Some of it is happening already. Unless the Democrats let young liberal guys come up, the Republicans definitely are going to carry the South. The Democrats will have to pay that price."

Kroll became head of the former CIO-PAC on the death of Hillman in 1945 and has served as codirector of AFL-CIO political efforts since the labor merger in 1955.

Heart Program Details Readied

ROCKY MOUNT — Final program details for the third annual Heart Public Forum and Symposium of Cardio-vascular diseases for members of the medical profession were completed and announced by the Coastal Plain Heart Association today.

Both events will be presented Thursday, February 7. A Symposium on Cardiology and Cardiac Surgery beginning at two o'clock p.m. at the New Ricks Hotel, for physicians, and the evening forum for the public at eight o'clock p.m. in the Rocky Mount Senior High School Auditorium.

Featured speakers for the afternoon and evening sessions will be Dr. W. Proctor Harvey and Dr. Charles A. Hufnagel, both of the Georgetown University Medical Center and School of Medicine, Washington, D. C.

The topic for discussion at the evening public forum will be, "Reversible and Curable Forms of Heart Disease", during the presentation of which Drs. Harvey and Hufnagel will give a resume of latest progress in research, diagnosis and medical and surgical treatment of diseases of the heart and blood vessels. Spokesmen for the Coastal Plain Heart Association have emphasized the fact that this is an educational program for the lay-public, urging representative attendance from the five counties, Edgecombe, Nash, Halifax, Martin and Pitt, that constitute the Heart Association. Audience participation will be encouraged by making it possible to submit written questions to the speakers for on-the-spot answers.

County Chairmen and their wives will serve as hosts for the occasion. These will be Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Whitley of Nash; Dr. and Mrs. John Whaley of Edgecombe, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Long of Halifax; Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Howard of Pitt; and Mr. and Mrs. Don Matthews of Martin County.

Production Credit Ass'n Buys Credit Bank Stock

The Greenville Production Credit Association has subscribed to $23,350 of capital stock in the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Columbia, according to F. L. Little, Jr., secretary-treasurer.

The other 86 production credit associations in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida are making similar purchases of the capital stock in the Intermediate Credit Bank. The bank, since it was organized in 1923, has been entirely government owned.

"These purchases of stock in the Intermediate Credit Bank, together with the merger of the Production Credit Corporation of Columbia into the bank on January 1, were provided for in the Farm Credit Act of 1956," Little explained. "The Production Credit Corporation was also a wholly government owned organization," he pointed out.

"The Intermediate Credit Bank is the chief source of lending funds for this and other production credit association," Little explained. "This bank, together with 11 other similar banks in the United States, in turn, get its lending funds by selling debentures — short-term bonds — to investors without any government guarantee," he continued.

"We will also accumulate additional investments in the bank as it declares patronage refunds from its savings," Little stated. "As the investments of this and other production credit associations grow, the Government owned stock will be repaid. Eventually the bank will be wholly owned by farmers through their production credit associations.

"The production credit corporation, which has just been merged into the intermediate credit bank, provided the original capital to start all of the production credit associatons. Over the years it has also supervised and provided services to the associations. This supervision of production credit associations and services to them will now be provided by the merged institution — the Intermediate Credit Bank," Little said.

The Greenville Production Credit Association has 1,419 farmer-members. It is entirely owned by these members. Last year members borrowed $3,100,000 from the association to finance their farm operations.

Little stressed the fact that this is an historic occasion because provision has now been made for eventually making all parts of the Farm Credit System completely farmer owned. He pointed out that all the national farm loan associations have always been farmer owned. The 12 federal land banks, one of which is located in Columbia, South Carolina, have been completely owned by farmers since 1947. The Columbia Bank for Cooperatives and 12 other similar banks, started on a similar program of gradually replacing government owned stock with that owned by farmers through their cooperatives a year ago.

Farmers and their marketing and purchasing cooperatives borrowed $2.8 billion from the credit cooperatives making up the Farm Credit System during the last year.

Warnings Of Violence Adds To City Tensions

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Tension mounted in this race-conscious city today after warnings of possible violence over integration were issued following a series of bombings.

Three bombs exploded in separate sections of Beaumont Monday night, one damaging St. Michael's Orthodox Church, but there were no injuries.

The Rev. Mr. Eugene Dickey, pastor of the Highland Avenue Baptist Church, said the bombings are "just a little preview of things to come if the racial question gets any worse."

Dickey, who declined to disclose his own views on integration, yesterday urged the City Council to take a stand.

Beaumont was the scene of anti-integration picketing last September when Lamar State College of Technology opened its doors to Negroes after a federal judge ordered the school integrated. All other schools in the city are segregated.

Pickets marched on the campus at Lamar more than a week, but there was no major violence.

Since then, however, bombs have been tossed in the yards of Negroes at least twice.

Police said they had no clues in the latest bombings.

C. R. Smith, a retired used car dealer whose home was the target of one bomb Monday night, said he believes it was because he had taken "a middle of the road" stand on integration.

Smith said he believes the church was bombed by segregationists in the mistaken belief that it was the place of worship of Mayor Jimmie P. Cokinos, who ordered the picketing halted at Lamar State College.

The third bomb exploded under a truck owned by State Rep. Rufus Kilpatrick, who last week voted to send to a committee a resolution backed by the integration bloc in the Texas Legislature.

The pastor of St. Michael's, the Rev. Mr. Daniel Montgomery, said he received an anonymous phone call yesterday from a woman who told him:

"I wanted to warn you. This is no amateur run. I'm sorry we missed on Magnolia (an apparent reference to the Smith home). We wanted to get the foreigners."

The pastor has taken no public stand on integration.

Ayden Taking A Major Step In Its March Bond Vote

By EVERETT PARKER
Reflector Staff Writer

AYDEN — This Pitt County town is taking an important step toward the future.

Mayor Corey Stokes announced this week that Ayden's townspeople would vote on a bond issue on March 4 for the purpose of improving the town's presently inadequate sewer system.

The proposed project will cost initially $275,000. It has been reported that local officials have applied for a grant of $94,997.53 from the Federal government. The remainder of the cost for the project would be paid from future tax revenue. Cost for the construction of the sewage plant, main sewer lines and pumping stations will be $316,658.45.

At the present time there are between 50 and 100 houses within the city limits not being served by the present sewer system which was condemned and ordered improved by the North Carolina State Department of Health. New homes in the most exclusive sections of Ayden are lacking sufficient sewage facilities.

In several cases septic tanks can readily be seen overflowing in the yards of newly built homes. The recurrent overflowing and clogging of the mnuicipal sewer system has constituted a threat to the health of the community. Also, the residential septic tanks and pit privies now employed in several sections of the town have created unsanitary and nuisance conditions in numerous instances. Surface drainage conditions and the charater of the soil in many locations are not satisfactory for proper functioning of either septic tanks or privies, according to reports from the State Health Department.

The existing sewage system has been extended over a period of years as far as possible in all directions with only a minimum distance remaining between invert and ground elevations. This means that new houses presently being built and those to be built in the future will go lacking until another adequate sewer system can be installed.

According to reports from the construction engineers, Rivers and Rivers and Associates of Greenville, the project will take from 10 and 12 months for completion.

The new project consists of a new trickling filter sewage treatment plant providing secondary treatment designed for a population of 6,000 people. This plant will be adequate for a 10 to 15 year growth period. Also included in the engineer's plans are outfall and intercepting sewers on the North, East, South and West, including two lift stations. The town will provide mains and laterals in the areas that are not presently being served.

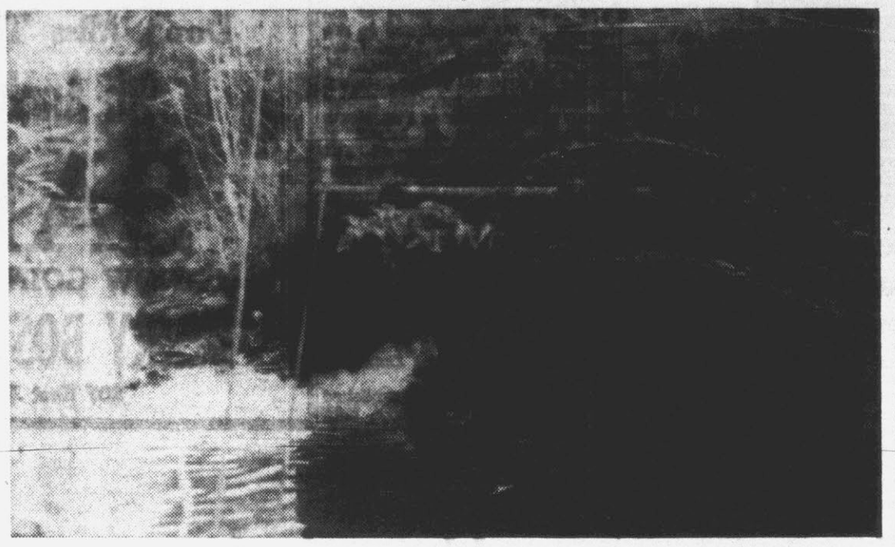

Objectionable conditions from the present system have become worse in the last few years. The sewage pipes are becoming increasingly overloaded, making it nearly impossible for facilities to be made available in some thickly populated sections and several areas proposed for future development.

The present sewerage disposal plant, built over 40 years ago, consists of a septic tank, the effluent of which is discharged into a ditch leading to Swift Creek. This tank has sufficient capacity to render efficient primary treatment for a population of only 300 people. Ayden's population now runs around 2,500.

The condition of the ditch is also aggravated by the normal low flow of water and relatively low dilution of the sewage. This ditch runs directly into Swift Creek at a point Southeast of Syden, approximately 20 miles above the Town of Vanceboro. Swift Creek empties into the Neuse River a short distance from New Bern, some 37 miles below Ayden.

OLD SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT—Mayor Corey Stokes is demonstrating to several townspeople how the old sewage disposal plant, built over 40 years ago, is susposed to be cleaned out. The present unit is located on the Jesse Cannon farm, Southeast of Ayden. Plans call for the proposed new plant to be located in the vicinity of the one now in use.

EFFLUENT—The present sewage disposal system dumps the effluent into a small stream that leads into Swift Creek with only minimum purifying treatment. This has proved to be both unsanitary and harmful to wildlife. The new plant would give sewage both primary and secondary treatment making it odorless and sanitary.

It is generally conceded that if the State Stream Sanitation committee made a study of the current situation they would also condemn the process along with the State Health Department.

The State Health Department recommended "that additions and extensions of the sewer system be constructed to adequately serve the anticipated future populations of the town and to install a new outfall sewer, new interceptor lines, sewer main extensions and sewage pumping station." It was further recommended "that a completely new sewage treatment plant be constructed with special emphasis being given the condition of and rate of flow of the receiving stream and the infiltration of ground water in the existing sewer system."

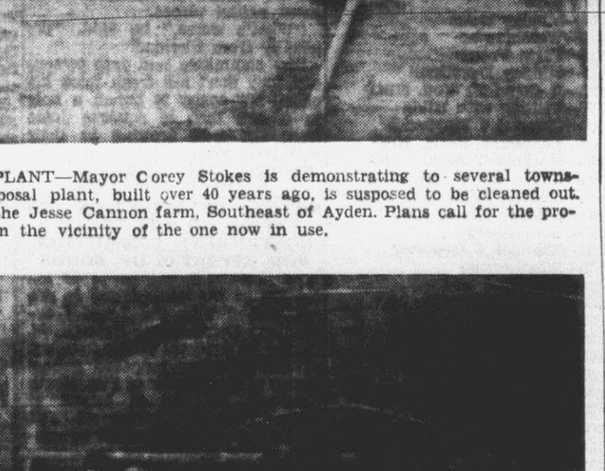

Plans are being made to extend sewage facilities on a larger scale into the Negro section of South Ayden and the new outfall setup would easily enable any new section within the city limits to be incorporated into the town's sewer system. Under the present setup which is greatly hampered due to inadequate facilities, this would be impossible, even with some improvements.

The sewage disposal plant will be located Southeast of Ayden on the Jesse Cannon farm, the only site that has been approved by the State Health Department, the State Stream Sanitation Commission and the consulting engineers. The new plant will be located near the site of the old plant and will dump the purified sewage into the same stream as does the present plant.

Mayor Stokes stated yesterday that the new plant would give sewage primary and secondary treatment and that the effluent discharged into the stream would be purified and odorless and would not polute the stream, therefore, being harmless to wildlife.

The Ayden mayor added, "The health and future economy of the town depend largely on this project which is an absolute must. We have now reached the point that the present sewage system is definitely inadequate."

An optimistic point was also mentioned by Stokes who went on to say, "Under our economy here in Ayden, there will be no reason to raise taxes in order that the bonds be supported." At the present time, Ayden has no bond indebtedness and the general opinion is that the town needs a new and up-to-date sewage system.

OVERFLOWING SEPTIC TANK—A septic tank is shown overflowing in the yard of a new house built in one of Ayden's most exclusive residential sections. Due to inadequate facilities, there are many such situations in the town during a wet or rainy season.

MAP OF PROPOSED NEW SEWER SYSTEM—The diagramed map above illustrates the proposed sewer system for the Town of Ayden. The outer circle is the approximate limit of the new system with new outfalls, interceptor lines, sewer main extensions and a sewage pumping station. Areas "A", "B" and "C" are locales that would be able to be served in addition to the town's section now having adequate sewage disposal facilities.

Six Patrolmen, Nothing To Do

CRANSTON, R.I. (AP)—Six patrolmen were on duty last night at the entrance to a strikebound bakery, scene of some violence recently — but the police had little to do.

There were no scuffles involving pickets as there has been in the past.

Only two "pickets" were on duty. Both were snowmen wearing signs reading "Unfair to Labor."

RIPPER AT WORK

CARLSBAD, N. M. (AP) — This southeastern New Mexico town has its own Jack the Ripper. Carlsbad police said 44 motorists reported their tires were slashed yesterday.

Minister Caught His Robber

DENVER (AP)—An ex-convict captured by the pastor of the church he'd robbed was convicted in District Court of grand larceny.

George Wilbur Stinson, 30, was accused of rifling a poor box of $101 at St. Philomena's Catholic Church. A parishoner who witnessed the incident alerted the Rev. Joseph O'Malley, who chased and caught Stinson a few blocks away.

Thank-You Party Given Railroad

DUBLIN, Tex. (AP) — Farmers and ranchers held a thank you party last night for railroad officials who cut freight rates on hay shipped into this drought-stricken area.

Abriculture men estimated the voluntary cut of $14 a ton on hay, plus a government subsidy, kept ranchers, farmers and dairymen in Texas from going broke.

Rabies Control And Dog Vaccination Clinics Set

The Pitt County Health Department's Rabies Control and Dog Vaccination Clinics will begin Monday.

The clinics are sponsored and conducted by the Health Department and cooperating licensed veterinarians from Pitt County. They are operated under provisions of the state's General Statutes which require that all dogs be vaccinated yearly against rabies.

Health Director Dr. Walter C. Humbert said today that all dogs four months of age or older are required to have the rabies vaccinations. "Persons can protect their families, livestock and dogs by having the dogs vaccinated," Dr. Humbert said. He added, "There will be a clinic convenient to every residence in the county and schedules have been posted. The clinics will open and close on schedule and are held by licensed veterinarians approved by the Health Department."

The schedule for next week:

Monday, February 4: 1 p.m. to 1:45, Floyd Harrell's Store; 2 to 3, J. E. Whitaker's Store; 3:15 to 5, Bethel (Police Department).

Tuesday, February 5: 1 to 1:45, Will Hardy's Store; 2 to 3, Joe Harris' Store; 3:15 to 5, Belvoir.

Wednesday, February 6: 1 to 2, Kings Crossroads; 2:15 to 3, Duprees Crossroads; 3:15 to 4, Guy Moore's Store; 4:15 to 5, Williams and Owens Store.

Thursday, February 7: 1 to 2:30, Don Evans Store; 2:45 to 3:45, Bruce; 4 to 5, Falkland.

Friday, February 8: 1 to 2:30, Bel Arthur; 2:45 to 3:45, Joyner's Crossroads; 4 to 5, Seven Pines.

Saturday, February 9: 9 to 12 a.m., Farmer's Warehouse.

Vaccination fees at the public clinics will be $1 per dog.

Foreign Policy To Be Reviewed By Panel Tonight

U.S. foreign policy and recent developments in the Middle East will be discussed by five panelists tonight at 8 o'clock in an open meeting at the City Hall.

The discussion is a portion of the "Focus on the Future" series sponsored by the League of Women Voters. The series has included efforts to clarify the U.S. position and possible future effects of current events on U.S. foreign policy.

Tonight's discussion will be by Dr. A.D. Frank, Dr. George Pasti, Jr., and Dr. James Poindexter of the East Carolina College faculty; Dr. Robert Vetter of DuPont's Kinston plant; and Herbert Lee, a former member of the U.S. Foreign Service.

Following the discussion period, panel members will answer questions from the audience.

The meeting is open to the public.

The U.S. Civil Aeronautics Administration uses 75,000 miles of full-time tlephone lines and more than 100,000 miles of teletypewriter lines in controling air traffic.

A Call for Doctor Barton

SYNOPSIS

Doctor Grady Barton, on vacation from a large hospital in Chicago, stops for gas in a small town in Wisconsin and runs into an emergency. Frank Seddens, longtime resident of the town, is stricken with a high blood pressure attack at the gas station and Grady comes to his aid. Seddens is impressed with the young doctor's ability and asks him to consider a practice in the town, which is without a doctor. Grady accepts an invitation to stay over a day for fishing and think about the offer. It is tempting—he is tired of the hospital routine and wants a general practice. Besides, his wife, Gisela, is divorcing him and he wants to "get away" and start a new life. Seddens promises to contact Grady as soon as a town meeting discusses the matter of a new doctor and a clinic.

CHAPTER 4

It was raining in Chicago. The people who came into receiving at the hospital were damp and draggled. Slickers rustled and dripped, the ambulance orderlies' ducks were mud spattered and there was the smell of wet wool throughout the tiled corridors and rooms of the receiving ward.

Dr. Barton was busy—and the medical director had just made him busier by choosing to come down for a routine "walk" through his department.

In his own good time, the director went off satisfied—Grady thought. He had asked the chief how Dr. Lattimore was shaping up.

Dr. Barton was happy to say that she was doing fine. While on medical service, Annie had had a little run-in with an attending. But, except for getting a little tired toward shift-end, the girl was doing all right in receiving. Of course, in receiving the resident was Dr. Barton, and down here one didn't have much trouble with staffs and attendings.

So now Dr. Barton could give a good report on Dr. Lattimore, and the director was relieved to get it. He went off on that pleasant note.

Which let Grady sit down at his desk for a minute and make a wry face at the police record sheets which had accumulated in his absence. His desk was strategically placed. From it he could see his whole department, and be seen by his co-workers; by the entering patients, too—and by their families who sat anxiously upon the hard benches in the waiting room.

Grady filled in the proper blanks on the record sheet and was keenly conscious of the wide-armed gesture which the "supe" made as she directed a worried young mother who carried a blanketed baby. A sick baby, Grady supposed. At the door, beyond this group, stood an orderly awaiting the next ambulance. And today Grady was sharply aware of the way this man stood, alertly interested and ready. It was perhaps the thousandth ambulance he had so awaited; Schulte was in his fifties and an old hand at City General. The ambulance arrived with a wet smacking of tires upon concrete, and the case came out.

Dr. Barton stood up; the sounds from the stretcher indicated a psycho, and Lattimore was up next to receive it. Grady stepped to the young woman-doctor's side.

"Ever present aid in time of trouble," said Annie, under her breath.

The case was a woman; her body was bound with restraining straps, she was escorted by three uniformed policemen. She chattered and screamed on a high, piercing note and endeavored to claw her hands. Grady took one of these and fastened a strap to its wrist, then fastened that strap to the cart frame. He gestured to Schulte, glanced at one of the policemen and went back to his desk. Annie took the phone and called psychopathic. Grady pulled a form from the proper desk drawer and tipped his pen toward the chair where the officer was to sit.

The morning wore on. Dr. Penn and Dr. Lattimore, the interns, worked under Dr. Barton's supervision; they did what he told them to do or what their instincts and training told them, should he be busy, as he often was.

Tragedy or humor, dull misery or violence, always papers and reports must be filled in, with the duplicates properly distributed. Morgue tags must occasionally be made out.

A lost child was brought in. A little boy with taring, hungry eyes and a too-grim mouth for three. That early morning he'd been found wandering along a dark street; the patrolman had canvassed the neighborhood without discovering his home; he was taken to the precinct station and now had been brought to City General. Grady examined the mite and asked for a photographer to take his picture. Published in the newspaper, it might locate his family—if they wanted to be located.

Poor baby. He tore at a man's heart. He was not attractive, but with love and care he could have been. All three-year-olds should be attractive. Appealing.

"I'd like to take him home and cruddle him awhile!" cried Annie Lattimore. She was a nice person, Annie. A little brisk and self-assured — as women-interns had better be!—but a nice girl withal. She'd make some lucky man a good wife. Grady had thought quite a bit about that lately. An American girl, like Annie, would very likely be the proper antidote for Gisela.

The child didn't cry; he didn't smile either. He just sat cross-legged on the table and gazed unblinkingly at the photographer. He refused all offers of toys or food.

His striped T—shirt and red boxer shorts were exchange for a hospital pajama suit, and he went off to the children's detention ward, leaving the doctors and nurses and clerks on receiving with a hollow feeling of guilt that a baby could already know so much of tragedy.

By lunchtime Grady's head was beginning to ache. Only it wasn't lunchtime in any normal sense of the word. Personnel on receiving ate when they could go no longer without a break or when, miraculously, a break came. That day, one did come near enough to one o'clock to be called lunchtime, and Grady took advantage of it. "Better come along," he said to Annie as he passed her.

She swung into step, a tall girl with short-cropped hair. She was ten years younger than Grady. They knew that the whole staff was watching them with what they considered a knowledge of something "cooking" between those two. It might be, too. Grady had often thought about marrying Annie. And of course hadn't, couldn't. Yet.

Lunch was good—he guessed. It was pot roast, with dumplings and what Annie called boiled cucumbers. They talked about cases and about Dr. Penn's good looks—and the chances that their part of the hospital would be air-conditioned during the winter.

A call came for Grady and he strode across the dining room toward a house phone which hung upon the tiled wall.

He turned back toward Annie and made gestures to her to indicate that he had a gun-shot case—forefinger to temple and crooked thumb—and went out. She ate his piece of pie as well as her own and leaned back for a cigarette, not even curious as to who had shot whom or why.

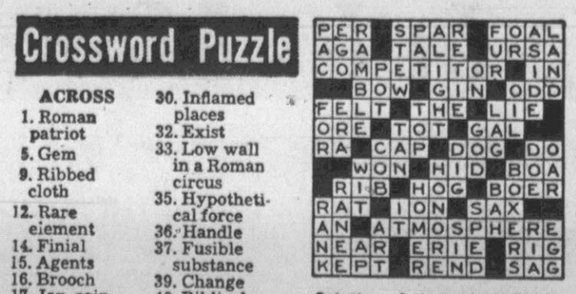

Instead she thought about Grady Barton—the big, red-headed guy!—and wished she knew a way to get through to him how swell he was. How much everyone liked him, especially Ann Lattimore.

It was, she supposed, the way of a decent man to be tight-lipped about all he had gone through—during the war, and since—but surely it would help Grady to know that his friends were behind him and ready to give him a hand up and out of his personal hole!

If that tall blonde wife of his didn't appreciate Grady Barton, there were women who did. Especially Ann Lattimore.

Sorry, But No Saddles Around

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahoma County Sheriff Bob Turner says he's sorry, indeed, but he can't fulfill the request of Margaret Pemberton, an English girl from Enfield, Middlesex.

The girl addressed a letter to the "Sheriff, Oklahoma City, North America, United States" asking for help in finding a real American saddle which she and her father will use to tame a wild pony.

"I might be able to send her a muffler from a sheriff's cruiser, or a saddle blanket for a Ford but saddles — we don't have," Turner said.

No Fresh Juice In Citrus Center

MCALLEN, Tex. (AP)—It's easier to buy fresh orange and grapefruit juice in New York than in the citrus-rich Rio Grande Valley.

Roy Robe, chairman of the McAllen Chamber of Commerce Citrus Committee, said tourists who ask for fruit juice usually are served canned or frozen juice in most eating places.

"What's worse," he said, "it's usually from Florida."

The committee said cafe owners say they don't sell fresh juice because it's easier to punch a hole in a can than to squeeze juice from the fruit growing in their own back yard.

Stock And Market Reports

Pivotal issues were ahead fractions to a point or more. There was a scattering of losers in about the same range.

The steels continued their rebound from a depressed performance during most of January. Wall Street observers said that the higher dividend by U.S. Steel provided a psychological lift for the market.

Prices were higher from the start in an active opening with gains running to 2 points or so. After the initial burst, however, turnover became sluggish and the original gains were pared.

As the session wore on, there was a radual increase in the number of minus signs but the list was still fairly well ahead on average.

In brisk turnover, U.S. Steel was up as much as ⅝ above its previous New York close but later lost all of this advance, leaving it a fraction below its closing price yesterday on the Pacific Coast where it rose following the dividend announcement.

Bethlehem Steel, which reports tomorrow on 1956 finances, was ahead 2 points early in the game but reduced the rise to a major fraction. Youngstown, however, was up well over a point. Republic stayed up by a good fraction.

Leading rails perked up in sympathy with steels. Atlantic Coast Line made a quick 1-point gain and held it stubbornly. New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Southern Railway made smaller gains.

Chrysler and Ford were slightly ahead. General Motors was firm. Studebaker-Packard eased.

Douglas Aircraft was up a bit but other major aircrafts showed little change. Among oils, Texas Co. and Sinclair nudged upward while Royal Dutch slipped a little.

Goodyear, Caterpillar and Du Pont were up about a point. American Telephone, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco and U.S. Rubber posted small gains. Kennecott Copper dropped around a point. Union Carbide was off fractionally. Socony Mobil was unchanged.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon wasup 40 cents to $176.40 with the industrials up 40 cents, the rails up 60 cents and the utilities up 20 cents.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—Hog markets were mostly steady to 25 lower today. Tops of 17.50 to 18.75 at Hillsboro; 18.00 to 18.50 at Tarboro, Enfield, Benson, Kinston; 17.75 to 18.50 at New Bern, Bethel and Rocky Mount; 17.75 to 18.25 at Pine Level, Nahunta, Smithfield, Newton Grove, Mount Olive; 18.25 at Clinton, Fayetteville, Micro, Elizabethtown; 17.50 to 18.00 at Tabor City; 18.00 at Lumberton, Rich Square and Dunn; 17.75 at Shallotte, Bailey, Spring Hope, Whiteville, Clarkton, Wingate, Siler City and Mount Gilead; 17.50 at Goldsboro.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA) North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers steady, farm price 18 to 19, mostly 19, f.o.b. plant 19½ to 20½.

Raleigh eggs steady, A large 35; Durham eggs steady, A large 34 to 36; Asheville eggs steady, A large 34; Charlotte eggs steady, A large 34.

Panel Reviews Goals Of UFE

Last week at the Association for Childhood Education, International, meeting Claude Farrell from the North Carolina Education Association led a panel composed of Senator Paul Jones, Representative Walter Jones, and Representative Frank Wooten in a discussion of the legislative program of the United Forces for Education.

Farrell made a brief statement of the goals of the United Forces for Education, and the other members of the panel voiced their opinions on the possibility of reaching these goals.

There is little likelihood of attaining these objectives, they said, inless a great many people express to their representatives their desire for such legislation.

J.H. Rose, superintendent of city schools, introduced the speakers. The meeting was held at Elmhurst School.

Prisoner Tries Seize Airliner

BALTIMORE (AP)—A bank robbery suspect tried to seize control of a crowded airborne airliner yesterday, providing a moment of drama in an otherwise routine trip for three federal prisoners.

The FBI said it was investigating the abortive escape attempt by Louis R. Arquilla, 26, one of three Bostonians being returned here from Minneapolis in connection with a $13,000 bank holdup last November.

The scuffle occurred 17,000 feet above ground when the plane was about 30 minutes out of Detroit.

Arquilla; his girl friend, Mrs. Frances Barchard, 19; and Martin F. Feeney, 41, a fugitive from Washington by automobile and indicted by a federal grand jury for the $12,958 holdup of a Fidelity-Baltimore National Bank branch last Nov. 21.

All three were taken to city jail to await arraignment. No date has been set.

Course In Radio Slated By Cubs

Charles D. Cobb, Cubmaster of Pack 330, announced today the Pack would sponsor a course in amateur radio open to all Cubs, Scouts, Explorers and the public. The course will include fundamentals of radio and code that should enable those attending to get a license for their own radio stations.

Cobb added this appeal:

"If you have an old radio set which you wish to discard, the boys in this Pack need it. For no matter what its condition they can get parts from the set which will be of value to them. Call 2698, and it will be picked up."

The first meeting of this course will be held at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock. All interested are invited.

James H. Parnell To Be Recognized As Music Composer

James H. Parnell, faculty member of the department of music at East Carolina College, will receive recognition as a composer of music for concert band at the Instrumental Conductors Conference, to be held on the campus of Mississippi Southern College, Hattiesburg, Miss. February 1-2.

The conference program includes a presentation of Mr. Parnell's "Symphony in One Movement for Concert Band." Participating bands will be the Mississippi Southern Concert Band and the 13th Army Band, with Glenn Cliff Bainum and Hugh McMillen as guest conductors.

The symphony has been previously performed by the University of Kentucky Symphonic Band and later by the Vanderbilt University Concert Band.

Mr. Parnell, a native of Louisiana, joined the East Carolina department of music last September. He is a graduate of the Cleveland, Ohio, Institute of Music and of Florida State University, from both of which he holds degrees in music. Before coming to Greenville, he taught at Bethany College in Kansas and at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn.

Fleming St. School PTA Holds Meeting

The Fleming Street School Parent-Teachers Association had a large attendance at its recent meeting, "discussed things in general for the good and welfare of the children, appointed standing committees and heard reports on playground equipment." President Mrs. Emma Maye presided. Mrs. Jessie Bell said the invocation.

The secretary read a "thank you" note from the Davis family for generous assistance at Christmas after their house burned and destroyed their belongings.

Miss S. I. Saulter announced that some of the school playground equipment has been received and some is yet to come.

The president in announcing committee chairmen requested the chairmen to name their own committeemen and committeewomen. Music committee, Mrs. E. H. Beddens and Mrs. N. W. Cherry; health and safety, Mrs. L. R. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Dotson, Mrs. L. Little and Mrs. J. M. Bell; education, Mrs. Doris B. Chance; hospitality, Mrs. M. B. The Stokes-Pactolus PTA will meet Thursday night at 7:30. County Supervisor Mrs. Edna Earle Baker will show a film and make a short talk on family life.

The baby Blue Jays took a trip to Chicod last week to play a Junior Varsity basketball game with the Hornets. Proceeds from the game were contributed to the March of Dimes. Chicod won the close game, 46-45.

Patsy James, a Senior, is giving dancing lessons to students who are interested in learning. She is holding classes in an effort to interest all students in dancing before the Junior-Senior prom and banquet in March. Patsy does her teaching in the gym and increasing numbers of students are taking part in the lessons.

After a long wait, yearbooks have finally arrived.

They came last Friday and have been distributed. This year's annual is dedicated to Mrs. Eugene Morris, English teacher and eleventh grade supervisor. The dedication announcement was made in a surprise ceremony.

Home Economics students have finally started cooking lessons on their new kitchen equipment. Use of the equipment was delayed for some time while deficiencies in the electrical system ware corrected.

Approximately 200 people had lunch in the school lunchroom Sunday. The meal was planned, prepared and served by members of the Junior Class to help meet expenses of the Junior-Senior.

New Church Is Now Member Of Conference

Maranatha Free Will Baptist Church has officially become a member of the Central Conference of Free Will Baptists.

The new church, organized last summer as the East Greenville Free Will Baptist Mission, was organized and constituted by the Central Conference's Executive Committee. Present for the ceremonies were the Rev. Henry Melvin, moderator; the Rev. J.W. Everton, assistant moderator; the Rev. C.H. Overman, secretary; and the Rev. W. Burkett Raper, president of Mount Olive Free Will Baptist Junior College.

Church officers who have been elected include the Rev. Frank Davenport, church pastor; R.G. Gregory, supply pastor; Henry C. Hagans, L.E. Anderson and Milton C. Logan, deacons; H.L. Ramsey, Wilton Evans and Joe Sutton, trustees; Mrs. Milton C. Logan, church clerk; Mrs. Joe Sutton, treasurer; and Mrs. Wilton Evans, assistant treasurer.

The new church's charter will be held open for membership until February 24. On that date, the church's first revival will be concluded by the Rev. James Earl Raper, a student at Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C.

Funeral Set Friday For Claude Haddock

Claude Haddock, 74, died suddenly at his home in the Clay Root community, after suffering a heart attack a few minutes earlier.

Rites Held Sunday For Ivy Lee Smith

ROBERSONVILLE — Ivy Lee Smith, who died suddenly January 25, was buried last Sunday. Funeral services were in Pentecostal Baptist Church at 3 p.m. Rev. Samuel Whichard officiated. Burial was in the Bethel cemetery.

Mr. Smith was a son of the late William and Claudie Sutton Smith of Pitt County. He had lived here about a year and was a member of the Bethel Baptist Church. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Alice D. Smith; one son, David Smith; two daughters, Janet and Fay of the home, and one stepdaughter, Mrs. James M. Webb of Baltimore; three sisters, Mrs. Lonnie Hardy of near Greenville, Mrs. Jessie Cox of Ayden and Mrs. Milton Griffin of Vanceboro; three brothers, Raymond Smith of Pitt county, Walter Smith of Tarboro and Labert Smith of Tarboro.

'Just Married' Sign Concealed Bootleg Cargo

WAYNESVILLE, N.C. (AP) —The car bore a "Just Married" sign, but Haywood County officers said it was just a lot of moonshine.

Sheriff Fred Y. Campbell and Highway Patrol Cpl. Pritchard Smith stopped the gaily decorated automobile yesterday on Highway 284 near Mount Sterling Gap, near the Tennessee border.

Inside the car, the officers reported, beneath a blanket and camoflauged by a row of clothes on hangers across the back seat, they found 60 gallons of nontax-paid liquor.

Campbell said Jimmy Lee Stepp, 27, and Sandra McCall, 17, both were charged with possessing and transporting the liquor. They were jailed in default of $500 and $200 bond respectively. Thomas Vance Stepp, 17, who the sheriff said was following the moonshine car, was held in default of $500 bond on a charge of aiding and abetting. All three are of Black Mountain.

Cars In Collision At Intersection

Approximately $600 damage resulted when two cars collided at the intersection of Dickinson Ave. and Pitt St. around 1:30 this morning.

Police identified the drivers as Johnnie R. Davenport Jr. of Grimesland Rt. 1 and Roy Little, Negro, of 405 Bonner's Lane.

Investigating officers Lt. H. F. Lawson and Sgt. J. B. Cannon charged Little with following too closely.

Society Votes To Increase Budget

Members of the Pitt County Society for Crippled Children and Adults last night voted to increase the organization's annual budget 90 per cent to $4,000 for the coming fiscal year.

The action came at the annual meeting of the organization following a recommendation from the budget and finance committee. Total receipts from the organization's fund-raising campaign for the fiscal year 1955-56 amounted to $2,279. The recommendation of the budget committee said the increased budget will be necessary if the organization is to meet the increasing demand for service among the people of Pitt County.

Fifteen new directors elected for two-year terms last night are: Mrs. Morris Brody, Mrs. W.M. Reading, George Wilkerson, K.T. Futrelle, W.H. Brown, J.C. Waldrop, Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, Joel Lawhon, Arthur S. Alforc, Dr. Frances V. Henry, James Taylor, J.A. Collins, Jr. and Charles Gaskins, all of Greenville, Mrs. Robert P. Wheeless of Farmville and Bill Adams of Ayden. Delton Perry of Bethel was elected to the board of directors to fill the unexpired term of Edward D. Biggs.

Activities of the organization during the past year were reviewed in several committee reports. President H. Frank Steinbeck, who presided at the meeting, praised work of the various committees, and likewise praised the Greenville Lions Club and Jay-C-Ettes for their work in sponsoring activities of the Society.

Plant Announces Wage Rates Up

It was announced today at the Kinston DuPont plant that hourly wage rates of all employes were increased effective January 28.

This adjustment in wage rates, it was stated, is in keeping with DuPont policy to maintain the employes's relative wage position as compared with rates paid for comparable work in industry.

The wage adjustment varies from 6 cents per hour to 10 cents per hour, depending upon the job classification of each employe, with the higher skilled employes receiving the largest increase.

The DuPont plant, which produces Dacron polyester fiber in staple, tow, and continuous filament form, now employs approximately 2,000 people.

Local Church Plans Hold Praise Service

A praise service will be conducted promptly at 7:30 p.m. tonight at Grace Free Will Baptist Church. The pastor, the Rev. Rashie Kennedy, will use as his subject, "The Lost Money," Luke 15:8-10.

Also scheduled for tonight at the church are the monthly church conference, which will follow the praise service, and choir meeting for study and rehearsal at the close of the business session.

The pastor has urged all members of the church to be present and to bring a staple food item or silver offering for a needy family.

Eastern Carolina News Briefs

Lose Industry

WILLIAMSTON—The Atlas Plywood Corporation's Williamston plant is closing down for an indefinite period according to reports from Plant Manager Steve Clary.

Approximately 125 workers will lose their jobs in the plant. The plant is said to have a payroll averaging between $6,000 and $7,000 weekly, excluding of large sums spent for logs, supplies, materials and other items that figure in the economy of the area.

Sentenced

WASHINGTON, N. C.—Raymond Earl Credle, 15-year-old Negro, was sentenced yesterday to serve from two to three years in the State's prison for assault on a three-year-old child with intent to rape.

Credle, who had entered a plea of guilty to the charges, will be placed in a youthful offenders camp in the event the state accepts the recommendation of the court.

Drive Successful

ROCKY MOUNT—The largest fund raising drive ever undertaken in Rocky Mount's history successfully ended Monday with the announcement that $2,029,096.87 has been pledged toward the construction of North Carolina Wesleyan College.

Coming Home

JACKSONVILLE, N. C.—The Third Battalion (reinforced), Second Marines, of Camp Lejeune, will dock at Morehead City tomorrow following a six-month tour of duty with the Sixth Fleet.

Approximately 1,000 officers and men of the third battalion will be returning home from a Mediterranean tour of duty.

First For College

RALEIGH—Two Negro students at N. C. State College have applied for dormitory rooms at the college and have been admitted to Watauga Hall, one of the institution's regular dormitories, college authorities announced Monday.

The students will share the same room in the dormitory. Both from Durham, the Negroes are freshmen in the college's School of Engineering.

Abolish Old System

WILSON—It took Wilson commissioners less than an hour Monday to abolish the city's 108-year-old system of ward government in favor of an "at large" election.

The move, voted unanimously, came as a surprise. Recommended in the change was:

1. that commissioners be elected at large for terms for four years on a staggered basis.

2. that voters be required to mark their ballots for a sufficient number of candidates to fill the expiring terms.

3. that the mayor continue to be elected by popular vote of the people for a term of two years, and

4. that all unexpired terms shall be filled by appointment of the board.

Gives Lectures Here Thursday

Dr. H. H. Bradshaw (above) will give two lectures in Greenville Thursday as a part of the series of postgraduate medical lectures sponsored by the University of North Carolina.

A talk on "The Diagnosis of Intrathoracic Lesions" will be given at 4:30 p.m., and "The Treatment of Common Intrathoracic Infections" will be described at 7:30 p.m.

Both lectures will be held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Dr. Bradshaw is a professor of surgery at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. A native of Asheville, he received his M.D. degree from Jefferson Medical College in 1927. He taught at Harvard Medical School and at Jefferson before joining the faculty of Wake Forest College. At the present time he is professor of surgery and the director of surgery of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine of Wake Forest College.

The two University of North Carolina agencies sponsoring the lecture series are the School of Medicine and the Extension Division. Co-sponsors of the Greenville lecture is the Pitt County Medical Society.
