At Least Twenty Killed In Wreck Of Big Airliner

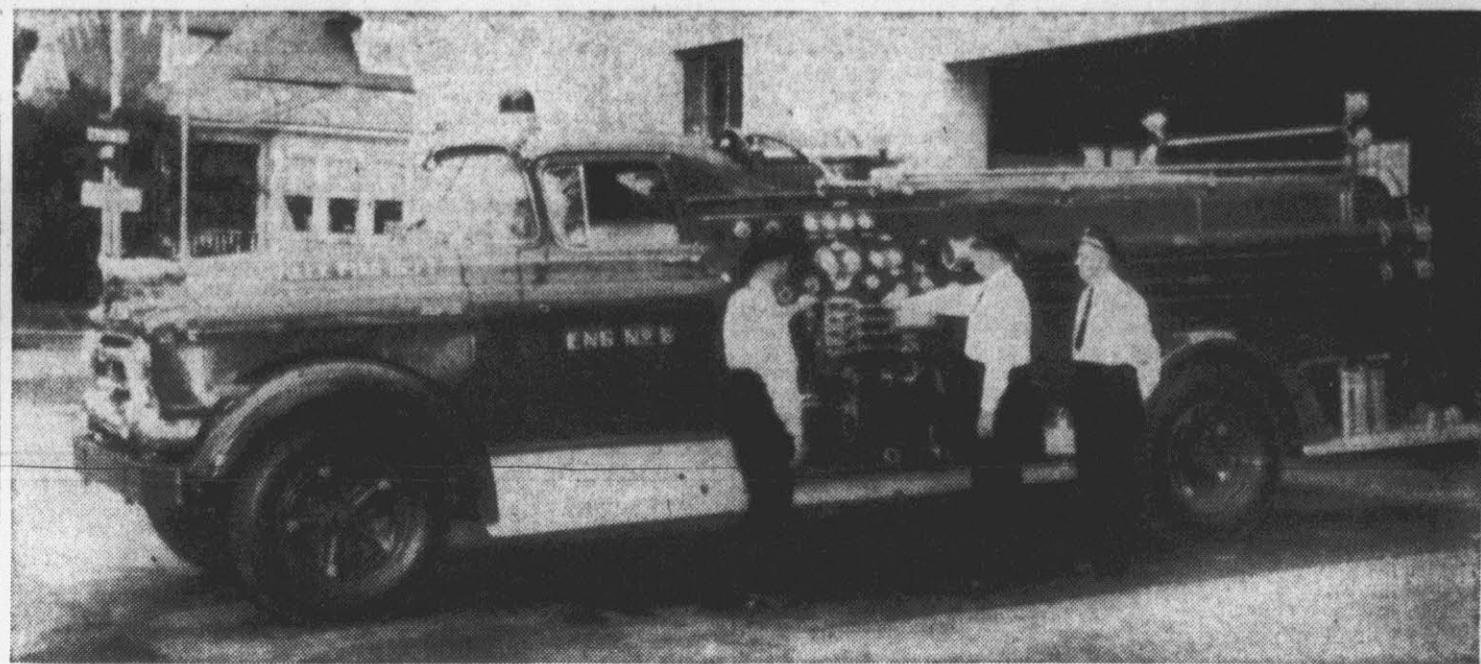

By CHARLES BANKS NEW YORK (AP) — A Miami-bound airliner crashed in a driving snowstorm last night after taking off a few moments earlier from LaGuardia Field. At least 20 persons were killed and only a handful of the others aboard escaped unhurt in the flaming tragedy.

ferred serious injuries. The heavily loaded Northeast Airlines DC6A, less than two minutes after it left the field, smashed into the ground of Rikers Island in the East River. The island, site of a city prison, is three-quarters of a mile from LaGuardia.

"The whole sky, even through the snow, was lighted. We (the prisoners) stood at the windows. We saw people tumbling out of that ship — they were all lighted, too, by the flames. We saw them and their shadows. We saw them stumble. "We saw some fall, we saw some just jump out, land on their hands and knees and then get up and run. They beat at themselves because maybe their clothes were burning. Some just ran a few feet from the plane and rolled in the snow, as if they were trying to smother the fire on their clothes."

toled of kicking a hole in the fuselage to escape. He turned towards the plane for a second and saw a child thrown at him. He caught it and ran to safety. A prison trusty told of retrieving a mother and her 18-month-old infant from foot-deep snow that covered the crash scene, a field used by the prison to raise garden vegetables. Near-blizzard conditions prevented the plane from taking off for three hours and 15 minutes. At one point, the plane was towed back into a hanger to clear the wings of ice and snow. Rolled back on the runway, it received clearance at 6 p.m. At the controls was Capt. Alva V. Marsh, 49, a veteran of 19 years with the airline. Marsh said the plane was off the ground for about a minute when it started to flatten. He fought for altitude vainly. Suddenly it heeled over sharply on its left side and plummeted earthward. Marsh and his copilot, George Basil Dixwell of Stratford, N. H., said they thought their plane struck a pole on Rikers Island. The impact of the crash tore off the plane's left wing and knocked its outboard engine from its mounting. The engine crunched into the ground, ripping off the left side of the aircraft, and burst into flames. Cause of the crash is the object of a four-pronged investigation: By the city Police and Fire Departments, the Bronx district attorney's office, in whose domain Rikers Island lies, and the Civil Aeronautics Board. Government sources said the plane was not overloaded according to the number of passengers. Such type planes have been allowed aloft with 100 persons. The crash might have turned into a far greater tragedy if the flaring airplane had veered in almost any direction other than it did. It hit one of the few sparsely settled sections of Rikers Island, narrowly missing a row of five wings of the penitentiary. A bit shorter and it would have dropped into the river. A bit longer and it would have smashed into the heavily populated Bronx borough of homes and apartment buildings.

Saud Extending Visit For Further Mid-East Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — King Saud of Saudi Arabia has decided to extend his stay in Washington, evidently for further talks with top U. S. officials on Middle Eastern problems. There was immediate speculation that some difficulties might have arisen in Saud's conferences with President Eisenhower.

The King said the meetings have been held "in an atmosphere of warm cordiality." Such an atmosphere was present last night at a dinner Saud gave for Eisenhower at a downtown hotel. Saud praised the United States for supporting the principles of the United Nations in sponsoring "peace in the world and self-determination" for peoples under colonial rule.

Specifically, Dulles told newsmen that Saud now has a much better understanding of Eisenhower's program for insulating the Middle East against Communist encroachment and building up its economic strength. A group of officials of the Reserve Officers Assn., who visited Eisenhower yesterday, told newsmen afterward that the President expressed the view to them that Egypt and Syria are closer to being willing to lean toward the West than appeared from current news from the Middle East. The reserve officials pictured Eisenhower as voicing cautious optimism about the Middle East situation after his conversations with Saud.

Dulles said American and Saudi Arabian officials would spend the next several days discussing specific issues between their two countries. These include Saud's interest in obtaining U. S. military and economic aid, and Eisenhower's desire for renewal of an agreement permitting the U. S. Air Force to use a base at Dhahran, Saudi Arabia. This base is 1,000 miles from the Soviet Union.

UN General Assembly Goes Into Special Weekend Session

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U. N. General Assembly moved into a special weekend session today to push a plan to get Israeli troops out of Egypt and maintain peace in that shaky part of the Middle East. But as the 80-nation body took up the two-part proposal there was no public sign of acceptance from either Israel or Egypt. Both nations must concur before the plan could be put in operation, even if it gets the expected Assembly support. The plan's main points are: 1. Deplores Israel's noncompliance with previous Assembly resolutions and calls for immediate withdrawal of Israeli forces behind the 1949 Palestine armistice line.

2. Requests both Israel and Egypt to observe terms of the armistice and endorses recommendations of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold for use of U. N. emergency force units to keep the peace along the demarcation line. The resolution says that after Israel pulls out of the disputed centers of Sharm El Sheikh and the Gaza Strip, observance of the armistice requires the posting of UNEF forces "on the Egyptian-Israeli demarcation line." The plan was sponsored by the United States, India, Brazil, Colombia, Indonesia, Norway and Yugoslavia. Disagreement with the United States caused Canada to withdraw from the list of sponsors. Canadian delegates said the plan should contain more specific instructions for use of U. N. forces in the disputed areas. The proposal was announced last night in an atmosphere of tension as delegates received word of a shooting clash between Israeli troops and Swedish soldiers of the UNEF. An official U. N. announcement from Cairo said the Israelis opened fire on the Swedes and the U. N. unit returned the fire. It said there were no casualties. An Israeli army spokesman said later in Jerusalem an Israeli patrol had mistakenly crossed into U. N.-held Egyptian territory and was fired on by a U. N. patrol. He said the Israelis fired back for cover and returned to their own soil.

An Israeli spokesman declared his delegation was not consulted on the resolution and said Israel's attitude remains the same. The Israelis have insisted on solid guarantees that the Gaza Strip would not become a base for Arab raiders and that Egypt would not again bar Israeli shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba. Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi was reported favorable to the plan and pledged in the Assembly yesterday to carry out the 1949 armistice. But reports from Cairo indicated the Egyptian government would not stand for UNEF occupation of its territory. There were, however, hints that Egypt might agree to UNEF's presence as an observation group.

Inadequate

RALEIGH (AP) — Approximately 146,000 students in North Carolina's public schools are attending classes in building facilities that are inadequate. This is shown in the results of an extensive survey made by the State Department of Public Instruction. At the end of the first month of this year there were 1,069,382 pupils enrolled in the schools, an increase of 19,138 over the number for the same month last year. The survey showed that 40,500 students are being taught in improvised classrooms or in overloaded classrooms. About 7,000 are attending school in a double-shift operation.

Earlier, the State Department announced that Saud had canceled plans to spend next week at the swank Greenbrier Hotel in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. The announcement said Saud would spend some additional days at Blair House, the government guest house. The King and Eisenhower are expected to meet again late next week. Today, Saud was scheduled to drive to the U. S. Naval Academy at nearby Annapolis, Md. His program included a luncheon with the midshipmen and a basketball game between Navy and Duke University. Following an Eisenhower-Saud talk at the White House yesterday, Secretary of State Dulles

Paulus Dies

VIERSEN, West Germany (AP)—Ex-Field Marshal Friedrich Paulus, the German commander who lost the battle of Stalingrad, died yesterday of a stroke in Communist East Germany. He was 66. Paulus, son Ernst Alexander, a businessman in this Rhineland city, announced the death was attributed to cerebral apoplexy. Paulus commanded Hitler's 6th army in the battle of Stalingrad. That army was annihilated by the Russians in January 1943. Since his return from Russian captivity in October 1953, Paulus had lived in a secluded villa in Dresden. About 200,000 of his soldiers were killed by Russian guns, cold or starvation in the Stalingrad defeat, which the Russians say turned the tide of World War II. Only a few thousand of the 90,000 captured survived Siberian prison camps.

Govm't Acts To Reduce Menace

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has moved to restrict aircraft tests over populous areas in the wake of a plane collision over Van Nuys, Calif. Part of the wreckage plunged into a schoolyard. The collision two days ago — involving a DC7 airliner and a jet fighter — claimed seven lives and injured 78 persons. Most of the injured were school children. Both planes were undergoing tests. These developments came yesterday amid mounting demands for federal action: Administrator James T. Pyle of the Civil Aeronautics Administration ordered his regional officials to work toward immediate establishment of "voluntary local flying areas" for test flights pending more formal action. President Eisenhower instructed Edward P. Curtis, his assistant on aviation planning, to investigate means of preventing any

Killed Father After Leather Strap Beating

SALISBURY, N. C. (AP) — An 18-year-old girl told police she killed her father with a single shot in the back yesterday after he beat her with a leather strap, then sat on her sister's head and threatened to break her leg. Mary Lou Daniels was freed last night after a coroner's jury found she acted in self defense when she fired the .22 caliber rifle at her father, Clyde Anderson Daniels, 42, as he sat on Imogene, her 17-year-old sister, in the family home at Franklin, five miles west of here. The coroner's jury, meeting only a few hours after the shooting, said it found "there was no criminal action intended and the shooting was in self defense." Mary Lou testified she had acted as a mother for her five younger sister, ranging in age from 9 to 17, after their mother left the family seven years ago. She said as her father, a part time textile worker, drove her and Imogene home from school yesterday he began arguing with them and slapped her in the face. Once they were home, she said her father got the wide leather strap with a heavy buckle on it and beat her, before he knocked Imogene to the floor, sat on her head and threatened to break her leg. The mother, Mrs. Gevevieve Daniels, was summoned from Davie County where she lives with a son. She said she left her husband and six daughters because Daniels "was hard to get along with," and that he frequently beat the children "when he didn't feel good or was mad." Sheriff Arthur Shuping of Rowan County said Mrs. Daniels returned home with her daughters after Mary Lou was freed. Dr. Richard Wright, Rowan County coroner, said Daniels was shot in the back, the bullet entering his heart.

Leaders in the upper elementary groups were the eighth graders with $50.05 and the seventh graders with $50.10. In the lower elementary groups the third graders led with $39.50. Total enrollment of pupils at Grimesland School is 392. There are 282 elementary students and 110 in high school. The funds were raised through contributions and various projects such as candy and cake selling, dances and a faculty-Ruritans-student ballgame.

It Could Happen, It Did Happen, As Forewarned

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — "It could happen here!" proclaimed an editorial in the Mountain View Register Leader yesterday in pleading for precautions against an airplane disaster. Soon after the paper appeared, an Air Force F84 jet fighter exploded and crashed into a home in this San Francisco peninsula city. The pilot, Capt. Robert S. Mulvehill, 32, from Luke Field, Ariz., was killed. Mrs. Opal Wright, 56, jumped out a window as the plane struck and fired her home. She suffered leg and hip injuries. Flaming debris damaged several nearby houses. Editor George Hall was referring to the Van Nuys, Calif. tragedy in which an airplane crashed into a school yard Thursday after a collision with a jet fighter. Seven were killed.

Credits Women, Young People

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower attributes his re-election largely to the support of women and young people. In a message read yesterday to the annual conference of the Federation of Women's Republican Clubs of New York state, Eisenhower said: "In all the sincerity that I possess, I think we owe the success of our election to the women of this country and to our young people. "The Republican party has never had such support from these two groups as in the last election."

Finally Rid Of 'Strange Voices'

PRESTWICK, Scotland (AP) — Strange voices kept hounding Alan Orr in the still of his night as he sat alone in his hotel room. He brought friends in to listen. They heard nothing but Orr, who is partly deaf, insisted he did. He said some of the voices had American accents and some of the babble included such phrases as "Roger and out." The friends smiled tolerantly. Last night Orr met a U. S. Air Force man at the hotel bar and told him the story. The American had an idea. He asked Orr for his hearing aid, plugged it in his own ear and waited. Sure enough he heard a splutter of words and "Roger and out." The hearing aid was picking up messages from the control tower at nearby Prestwick Airport. Orr said he will trade in the hearing device.

Pitt Register Of Deeds Urges Lawmakers Keep Public Records Open To Public

(This the third of a series explaining proposed legislative action endorsed by the Pitt County Board of Commissioners and the county's three members of the General Assembly. Today's article concerns proposals made by the Association of County Accountants and the Association of Registers of Deeds.) The State Association of County Accountants believes it has found a mull among North Carolina's surplus duty tax laws. And Mrs. Blair C. Wheelless, Pitt County's Register of Deeds, is certain that one proposal of her Association of Registers of Deeds offers a threat to the democratic operation of her office. The association and Mrs. Wheelless have found friends among

Pitt's commissioners and legislators. The government leaders agree with the accountants that surplus duty taxes should be placed in the General Fund. They also endorse Mrs. Wheelless' opinion that birth and death records are public records and should remain open to anyone who wants to use them. As things now stand, surplus duty taxes remaining after payment of expenses of operating a particular county's Dog Program have to remain in a Dog Damage Claim Fund. For some counties, the law has caused a useless build-up of money that could be used to advantage in other areas of county operation. Switching the surplus duty taxes is one of three legislative proposals made by the accountants. All three have been endorsed by Pitt County's Board of Commissioners and legislators after discussion of every facet of the proposals. Other proposals made by the accountants' association are authorized for Boards of Commissioners to buy from state contract suppliers at state contract prices and a consideration to combine five Welfare Department funds into one bookkeeping proposition. The contract purchase request takes into consideration that prices supplied by state contract holders have been set by competitive bidding on a state level. The accountants want to be able to buy directly from those contract holders, at state prices, supplies, materials and equipment without having to go through a process that the state purchasing agencies have already been through.

In most instances, state contract prices are lower than those offered in local competitive bidding processes. There are, also, some delays in obtaining goods needed by the counties because of local advertising requirements. There are certain disadvantages to the proposition, according to the commissioners and legislators. It would, in some cases, eliminate "local" purchases of goods—something that could affect the economy of firms throughout the state that have been supplying various county governments. The consideration to request combination of Welfare Department funds is still just a consideration. There has been no formation of a particular bill, although Pitt's commissioners and legislators think it would be a good idea from a bookkeeping point-of-view. Present laws require that funds for welfare administration, old age assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to the permanently and totally disabled, and aid to the blind be maintained as individual funds. That involves five sets of books for one department and the continued growth of welfare activities has turned the job into a major task for bookkeepers. Preliminary ideas about the combination proposition suggest that one set of books would be a more efficient operation. The proposed plan, according to its backers, would certainly maintain individual accounts for the various operations but funds would come from one source instead of five. The Association of Registers of Deeds has asked for the adoption of six proposals but one of them had run into some rather determined opposition in Pitt. The proposal which has upset Mrs. Wheelless, is one which would close certain records to persons with commercial ideas. The association has asked for an amendment to General Statute 103-94 to prohibit registers from making lists of names and addresses contained in birth and death records for commercial interests, and prohibit registers from allowing such lists to be made if they know or have reason to believe such lists will be used for commercial purposes. Mrs. Wheelless wants Pitt County to be excepted from the proposal if the General Assembly approves it. The commissioners and legislators backed her up when she explained, "Birth and death records are public records. I regard them as open to anybody who wants to look at them and I don't feel that we can honestly deny them to certain people even if those people have a commercial purpose." The association, in which Mrs. Wheelless is an active member, is disturbed by photographers, baby food organizations and similar groups making mailing lists from the public records. They feel that it makes counties participants in activities from which they should stay away. Mrs. Wheelless defends her attitude this way: "I regard myself as merely a custodian or keeper of public records. If somebody wants to come into the office and copy records for a month I believe they should be allowed to do it as long as they don't interfere with the work the office is supposed to do. The records are public records and should be kept that way." The Pitt register did not ask the commissioners and legislators to discuss or endorse other proposals ask for amendments to clarify commissioners' authority to pay premiums on blanket bonds for registers and employees; to extend coverage of official bonds to include deputies, assistants and other regular employees of registers and other county officers; to clarify authority of registers to abstract proofs required for delayed registration of births, and to provide adequate fees for such services; to make clear the distinction between the authority of assistants and deputy registers; and to provide an appropriate fee for the issuance of certified copies of birth certificates for school-age children, now required to be issued "without charge."

A Call for Doctor Barton

SYNOPSIS Doctor Grady Barton, on vacation from a large hospital in Chicago, stops for gas at the small town of Green Holly, Wisconsin, and runs into an emergency...

CHAPTER 7 Grady had not told the whole truth. Was he crazy? He sat back in his chair, overwhelmed at his reckless folly...

He was still numb with the shock of his experience when the contract was brought out of his consideration and his "John Henry" Mo Chromister called his signature...

"Are you attorney for the committee?" Grady asked him, looking up from the paper. "I'm attorney for anyone who will hire me," said Mo, laughing.

"Judge Cowan there can sit back and choose his clients, but—" Grady glanced across at the distinguished looking jurist. "Would you care to take me on?" he asked.

They were coming back to Green Holly, planning to go to the doctor's house and the clinic building. These were shown to Grady with a running comment from his companions; his future home was one of the older limestone houses...

Film On Caswell To Be Shown

The Greenville Junior Woman's Club will show a film entitled "The Caswell Story" Wednesday night at 8 at the Woman's Club.

The showing will be open to the public and all welcomed who are interested, according to the sponsors.

The film gives the inside story of Caswell Training School, state institution for the mentally retarded located in Kinston, N. C. It is a 15 minute film.

For the past several years, Caswell Training School has been a statewide project of the state Junior Woman's Clubs. They have helped provide a few pleasures for the children where tax dollars feared to tread.

Every cottage has a television set, one of which was given by the Greenville Junior Woman's Club.

The clubs have also contributed gifts at Halloween, Christmas and Easter, additional outside playground equipment, old magazines, records, Christmas cards, toys, Sunday School pamphlets and numerous other items.

It was through financial contributions of Junior Woman's Clubs from throughout the state, including the Greenville Club, that made filming of "The Caswell Story" possible.

Women Drivers Paid Tribute By Highway Patrol Lieutenant

Statistics show women are more careful drivers than men. Lt. Tom Brown of the State Highway Patrol, told members of the Greenville Women's Club at their monthly meeting yesterday.

In paying tribute to women drivers, he pointed out that of the 24 people killed on the streets and highways of Pitt County last year, only one death involved a woman driver.

Cpl. Carl Whitfield aided Lt. Brown in the afternoon's program on public affairs, safety and alcoholism by showing a film of a safety sermon by the Rev. Billy Graham.

Billy Graham, in the film, mentioned the revival of religion today but stated "We are not living our religion; we are not following the Golden Rule in our daily living and in our daily driving."

He stressed the importance of each driving "unto others as you would have others drive unto you."

Mrs. Clara Moyer Shackle, president, presided over the meeting. Mrs. J. B. Spillman, first vice president, turned the program over to Mrs. W. E. Roseware, chairman-public-affairs, who presented Lt. Brown.

The club voted to join the Junior Woman's Club in sponsoring the Safety Program and members were urged to attend a meeting in Williamston February 12 on safe driving. The North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs will be hostess for this meeting.

During the business session of yesterday's meeting, Mrs. Spillman, chairman of the nominating committee, announced the following officers for the coming year:

Miss Lelia Higgs, chairman of the Littering Committee of the Greenville Garden Club, outlined plans of her committee and it was voted that the Woman's Club join with the garden club in supporting a city-wide clean-up campaign, date of which is to be announced later.

Mrs. Galloway announced the exhibition of seven outstanding paintings at Sheppard Memorial Library during the month of February.

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore secured these paintings and Mrs. Galloway expressed the hope that each club member would take advantage of this opportunity. Daily gallery hours are from 2:30 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. on Fridays.

The Fine Arts Festival, which will be held April 24-27, was brought to the attention of club members and the support of this project in its entirety urged, in order to make this festival a success.

Mrs. M. W. Maxwell gave the treasurer's report and it was voted that $400 be applied on the debt for clubhouse repairs.

Husband-Hunting? Wear Skis

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

The best way to hunt a husband is on skis, says Fred Picard, an international authority on glamor in the snow.

"A girl can look sexier in ski clothes than in a bathing suit," says Picard, who has a unique opportunity to compare snow maidens and bathing beauties, since he lives in Sun Valley, Idaho, where girls schuss down the snowy slopes for a quick change and a plunge in the pool.

"Most men find women more intriguing if something is left to the imagination. And a beautiful girl is never more radiant than when her cheeks are glowing and her eyes sparkling from healthful outdoor exercise at 10 below."

Good-looking, athletic young men also are plentiful at ski resorts, points out Picard, who started designing ski clothes in his native Switzerland, but became an American citizen after coming to this country to assist in setting up the Swiss Pavilion at the New York World's Fair.

He now lives with his wife Andree and 11-year-old daughter Jacqueline in the original log cabin built by Sun Valley's first settler, David Ketchum.

David Ketchum, who seriously considers finding romance on the ski slopes, however, give careful thought to her outfit, says Picard. Her ski clothes must be correctly tailored, because she can easily look a mess if they are either too baggy or too tight. This designer deprecates the current trend toward skin-tight elastic ski pants, because, he says, they are likely to look merely like long underwear.

"Properly fitted ski pants should have a taut, narrow look which give a girl a slim, long-legged appearance," says he. "But if they are too tightly fitted of elasticized fabric, they may have just the opposite effect and reveal bumps and bulges which are better concealed."

The husband-hunting skier should go in for bright colors, says Picard, pointing out that a white snowscape makes the perfect background for vivid hues.

Final Approval By Voters Is Next

With Pitt's three legislators agreed on presenting the necessary bills to set up a tax-supported industrial development organization in Pitt County, there can be no doubt that the permissive legislation will be passed.

In view of that, voters of the county should begin to give serious consideration to the proposal which they will be called upon to vote on within a few months.

As a rule, matters of purely local interest are left to representatives of the particular city and county involved so far as the other members of the legislature are concerned. Since the three local representatives are agreed on the proposal which will pave the way for a county-wide industrial group in Pitt, there seems no doubt that the legislation will be passed.

The Pitt County Commissioners have given their approval to the idea of a tax-supported industrial development organization for the county in approving recommendations of their special committee, and by asking the representatives to see that the legislation is passed. Like many other citizens in Pitt, the Commissioners recognize the county's need for greater industrial development.

It should be kept in mind, however, that mere passage of the proposed permissive legislation will not assure such an organization for this county. After the legislature grants the authority for the county to levy the special tax not to exceed three cents per $100 valuation, it will be up to the people of the county to say at the ballot boxes whether they are willing to have such a tax levied.

We believe the vast majority of the people of Pitt recognize the wisdom of the proposed county-wide industrial development program. It is obvious that results in terms of new industry and more jobs in Pitt will benefit every citizen of the county. As the economic level of the people of the county is increased, the county government likewise will be better off. The estimated $18,000 annually the special tax levy would produce will be returned to the people of the county many times over by the location here of industries which will furnish greater job opportunities in the county.

A Brighter Side To The Youth 'Problem'

Today's newspapers, magazines and other periodicals carry articles after article on the problems of today's youth and measures the adult population must take to prevent the younger generation from becoming a mob of street corner hoodlums.

They show only one side of the picture. And at that only the picture of a minute part of the teenage population of the United States today.

A much more realistic picture of today's youth, their thoughts, their interests and their ideals, is being portrayed in real life this week in Greenville and other cities throughout the nation as the young people have banded together in "Youth Week" of the United Christian Youth Movement Council.

Throughout this week young people of Greenville have been devoting their spare moments to worship services, Christian recreation and visitation programs, and seeking diligently to enrich their lives spiritually. Their week of religious activities will be culminated Sunday evening in a mass worship service.

Youth Week in Greenville has grown in significance in recent years, as it has touched the lives of more and more young people. Through the efforts of these young people it has also touched the lives of countless adults.

No community, no nation need fear for the future of its youth if they are growing spiritually year by year as the young people of Greenville are doing. So long as the young people make religion a focal point of their lives as is evidenced by these young week activities, concern for their future is unwarranted.

We are proud of Greenville's young people. We are proud of the outstanding work they are doing through Youth Week and through the activities in their own churches. Year by year we see them growing not only physically, but in spiritual stature; and our hopes for the future when they assume the responsibilities of a civilized society reach new heights.

Speculation On Role Of Uzzell

By LYNN NISBET
UZZELL — There is much speculation about what role Rep. George Uzzell of Rowan will play in the upcoming General Assembly. Although younger in years than many of his colleagues, he has more years of service to his credit than any other member of the House.

Three times he has aspired to the speakership. In 1941 he withdrew the day of the caucus and nominated O. M. Mull of Cleveland. In 1945 he went to a vote showdown and lost to Oscar Richardson of Union. At time of adjournment of the last session it appeared he was well in front for the top post this year.

Then Kemp Doughton of Alleghany began to develop strength and some three weeks ago Uzzell withdrew, leaving the field clear for the mountain man. Both Speaker Mull and Richardson were inclined to be a bit vindictive. (It was in the 1941 session that the "Kennel Club" was organized by Uzzell supporters who found themselves in the dog house.) Also they had commitments to their friends. Uzzell wound up in 1941 with chairmanship of the Election Laws committee, and in 1945 with the Unemployment Compensation Committee. In other sessions he has headed more important committees — more important in public concept if not in reality.

Upcoming Speaker Doughton is less vindictive in temperament and is believed to have fewer advance commitments, although he has local supporters to consider. Uzzell conferred with him before issuing his withdrawal statement, but both insist no trade or promise was made.

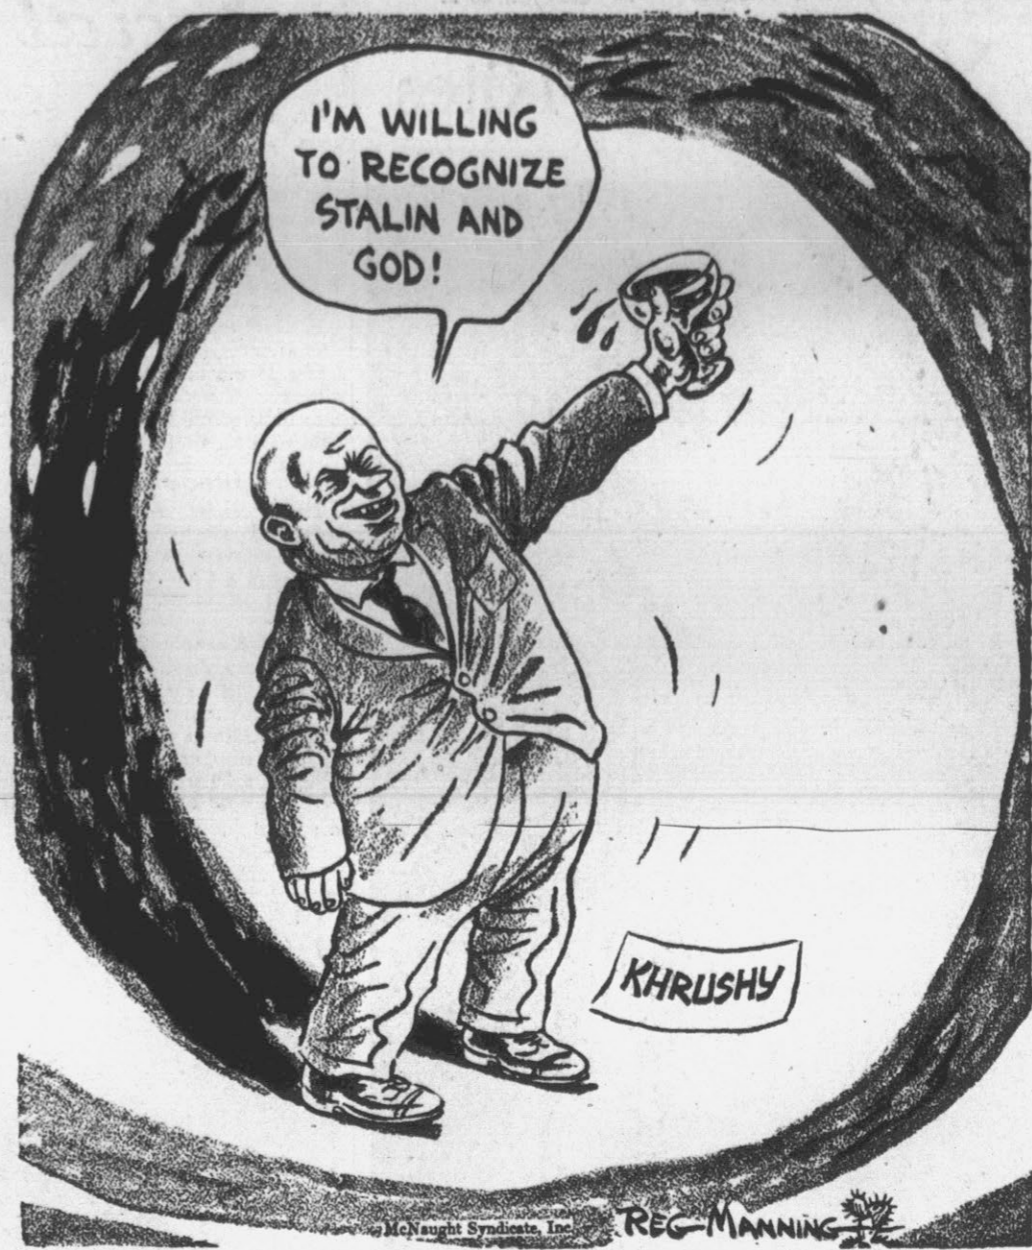

Close personal and political friends of both Doughton and Uzzell have suggested the practicability of creating a new post for the Rowan veteran, that of official parliamentary to decide questions of procedure in regular House sessions and all committee meetings.

AUTHORITY — That suggestion stems from recognition of George Uzzell as one of the most competent authorities on parliamentary procedure in the state. It is accorded added merit by the peculiar circumstances.

Kemp Doughton has a reputation for exactness and thoroughness arrived at often by deliberate thinking. There are times when snap decisions must be made by the chair without time for deliberation. Speaker Doughton will have in the House membership two former Speakers, John Kerr of Warren '43 and Gene Bost of Cabarrus '53. Both are reputedly for quick thinking and jet speed action. There is no reason to believe they will intentionally "make trouble" for the Speaker, but it is natural that each will think the way he handled problems was the correct way. There are other members who have their own ideas about parliamentary rules, which on occasion might not conform to Mr. Roberts book, the accepted authority on procedure.

It is no reflection upon the ability of Kemp Doughton as a presiding officer, but is more a tribute to his sincerity of purpose, to suggest that he might be

Talents And The Needs

Godfrey P. Oakley, Jr. is president of the Greenville council of the United Christian Youth Movement, treasurer of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Youth Fellowship, president of his sub-district, and district treasurer. A junior at Greenville high school, he is a member of the National Honor Society, citizenship chairman of the student council, and a member of the traffic committee and the National Forensic League.

Moreover it is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful. — I Corinthians 4:2.

While sitting in a new rural church, I thought of the many people who had belong to this church, who helped to make this beautiful church possible by their material gifts, and those who had actually built it. All of these people had considered their call. Unanimously these people had realized that where their talents and the world's needs crossed was their calling. There had been those who realized that where their talents and the needs of the world met was not in this rural area; therefore they migrated to urban districts to better serve their world. That tilling the soil was the calling of the remaining members meant that they could best benefit man by feeding him. By the efforts of these people the lovely church had been made possible.

To me the building itself represented a crossroads of many callings. The man who had stained the picturesque windows, the men who had cut wood, finished it, and built it into magnificent pews, the men who erected the basic structure were united in a common goal, the church sanctuary; but each had heard "above the noise of selfish strife" the calling by which each had bettered the human race.

I may not be able to become a highly skilled surgeon with the power to ease an intolerable pain; I may not be able to become the greatest minister of my time; I may not become the most useful missionary in Africa; I may not be able to build a celestial temple; but still my duty as a faithful steward is to learn where I and my God-given talents can best be placed into this world, which takes all types of people with all types of talents to make it revolve smoothly.

Where cross the crowded ways of life,
Where sound the cries of race and clan,
Above the noise of selfish strife,
We hear thy voice, O Son of Man!

— F. Mason North
Prayer: Almighty God, help me to seek out thy voice in order that I may hear my calling and be a faithful steward. Amen.

Other Editors Saying--- A World They Made

(Greensboro Daily News)
The popular picture of a scientist is a gaunt, pale figure shut in a laboratory, wearing horn-rimmed spectacles and a dirty smock, and pouring mysterious liquids from one test tube to another. He is dedicated to "pure science," to the discovery of new elements or new ways of combining old elements, to the eternal search for new ways of prolonging human life or of destroying it.

There is a certain amount of truth in this distorted picture, for scientists have been slow to accept social responsibility for the results of their discoveries. Scientists discovered the secrets of the atom, of the atomic bomb and the hydrogen bomb; but deep in their laboratories they have been slow about advising the rest of the world what to do about this newly available nuclear energy.

When Adlai Stevenson warned of the dangers of continuing H-bomb tests, the white-coated men in the nation's laboratories began to speak out. Some of them agreed with the administration that tests should not be halted. Others came out strongly calling attention to the universal danger of radiation from bombs, not only to present generations but also to future generations.

Now the scientists are once again opening the doors of their laboratories and looking out at the world they helped to make. The world of nuclear energy with its magnificent possibilities and its horrible potentials. At the recent meeting of the Council of the American Association for the Advancement of Science the nation's leading scientists voted almost unanimously "to increase its efforts to help solve the problems of society that recent scientific progress has raised."

Some of the problems which the council's "Committee on the Social Aspects of Science" pointed to were the dangers of radiation from nuclear explosions, the effects of food additives, the health hazards from fumes from industrial plants, the disposition of natural resources, the declining water table, and the potential of totally destructive warfare.

"The forces and processes now coming under human control," said the committee, "are beginning to match in size and intensity those of nature itself, and our total environment is now subject to human influence. In this situation it becomes imperative to determine that these new powers shall be used for the maximum human good, for if the benefits to be derived from them are great the possibility of harm is correspondingly serious."

In short, the scientists don't want the politicians to blow them off the face of the earth. This is a welcome and wise report from the labs. If natural scientists are going to help create "the world of tomorrow," they should also be ready to advise their brothers how to keep on living in that world.

Strength For Today

TODAY AND FOREVER
Charles Reade, the great Victorian novelist, gives in his novel "The Cloister and the Hearth" one of the most beautiful descriptions ever written of the Christian life.

Clement the monk, is addressing the princess and exclaims with triumphant confidence: "Christians live forever and love forever, but they never part. They part as the earth and sun, to meet more brightly in a little while. You and I part here for life. And what is our life? One life in the great story of the church, whose sons and daughters we are; one handful in the sand of time, one drop in the ocean of Forever—for the moment called a life. We part in

All The Many Needs

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article was written by Dr. Louise Wood Seyler, deputy superintendent of Los Angeles city schools, voted woman of the year in education for 1956 in the Associated Press women's editors' poll. In this distinguished educator outlines some of the problems that face America's public schools.

By DR. LOUISE WOOD SEYLER
Written Exclusively for
AP Newsfeatures

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS of today are faced with many problems. The fact that schools are faced with problems in nothing new, but the type of problems becomes increasingly complex. I am referring particularly to the pressure from the community for the assumption by the schools of greater and greater responsibilities. An elementary school which concerned itself only with the Three R's would be most unsatisfactory to a modern community, I am sure.

Let me explain by an example or two: Today we take for granted that we must furnish some type of health services. Today we gear our program to the education of all of the children of all of the people. This means the atypical child as well as the typical. This means the child handicapped with physical problems as well as the physically perfect child.

The pupil in high school is faced with a program of many requirements. Each of these requirements is fine in itself, but we are at present almost to the point where anything new to be introduced means a withdrawal of something being taught at present.

Many of us have seen the day when graduation from the eighth grade was the accepted thing. We are now in an era when graduation from high school is the accepted thing. This is as it should be. If the future citizens are to live successfully in a highly complex world, they must know much more in many fields than the high school graduate of 50 years ago.

Since 1900 our population has increased 100 per cent. Since 1900 our high school population has increased 1,400 per cent. With an increase like this unheard of anywhere else in the world and with the demands for schools to assume new responsibilities, educators and laymen alike need to take a long look into the crowded curriculum of today.

How can we best meet the needs of all the children? Parents are entitled to believe that their children will have the basic foundation for successful adulthood. The classroom teacher with the many pressures of daily lesson assignments and subject requirements cannot always spend as much time with the individual as he would like. Early in the educational career, counseling and guidance help must be given, so that each individual in our public schools has the time and thought of an expert in thinking through with him the requirements necessary to make him a successful adult citizen.

It is my hope that we shall never lose sight of the individual in mass education. Each child in the United States of America is entitled to as much education as his ability permits. How best to achieve this goal is the responsibility of educators and far-thinking community leaders.

No Early Repeal Of Third-Term Ban

OF NUCLEAR WEAPONS I could not understand the excitement in official circles, especially at the Pentagon, when the Commandant of Marines recently admitted that we were prepared to use atomic weapons. The same statement had been made previously by Donald Quarles, Air Force Secretary, General Alfred M. Gruenther, then head of SHAPE, and by Admiral Arthur W. Radford, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Eisenhower himself admitted it indirectly at a recent press conference. While he did not commit himself to the use of bombs which devastate a whole city or countryside, as at Hiroshima and Nagasaki, he did envisage the firing of tactical atomic ammunition against military targets. I doubt, however, if we would be able to limit these weapons as he suggests, especially in a showdown struggle with the unpredictable and unreliable Russians or Chinese.

WASHINGTON — "Is there any chance that Congress will start a movement for repeal of the Constitutional Amendment which bars a third term for a President?" asks M.H., of Pascale, N.J.

Answer: Although many resolutions to that effect have been introduced, I doubt if they will ever be submitted to the states for ratification. The bipartisan majority which supported the amendment in the first instance, and largely because of their experience with Franklin D. Roosevelt, would not want to admit that they had been wrong, or that their action had been motivated by spite toward the late President.

THAT TWO-TERM LIMIT FOR PRESIDENT I doubt, too, if it would be ratified. Recent Supreme Court decisions overriding the power and sovereignty of the states, as recently listed in this column, have sharpened the legislators' fear of the growing centralization of authority

No Tax Relief, But Other Help

By ELMER ROESSNER
It doesn't look as if small business would get much, if any, tax relief this year. That fact makes it more likely that Congress will bestow some other forms of assistance.

Various tax-aid proposals have been made. One would sharply cut taxes on the first $25,000 of corporate income. This would benefit big business as well as small, and help corporate enterprises but not proprietorships and partnerships. Another would allow faster amortization of small enterprises, which would help some but not others.

President Eisenhower, in his budget message, asked Congress to give early consideration to tax relief for small business, but only to those that involve a minimum loss of revenue. Giving small business — or anybody else — tax relief without giving up revenue is a neat trick, if anybody can figure out how to do it.

The size of the new budget also interdicts tax relief. It is politically popular to cut taxes for small business or any other group with lots of votes, but it would be politically unpopular to raise tax rates on other groups in order to benefit small enterprises. That makes it fairly certain that there won't be much tax relief.

MORE LENDING MONEY
The biggest consolation for loss of tax benefits will probably be an increase in funds for the Small Business Administration, plus an extension of its life. A Senate Banking subcommittee has recommended that the SBA be given an additional $65,000,000 for loans. Legislation to this end may be rushed through Congress because the SBA expects to run out of lending money this month.

The House Small Business subcommittee, headed by Representative Wright Patman (D., Tex.), has recommended that the SBA be made a permanent organization, independent of the White House. However, this proposal has a lower priority.

The subcommittee also thinks a Federal Small Business Bank should be set up, but this proposal would have tougher going.

Congress is likely to take favorable action on two other recommendations by Mr. Eisenhower: laws to make it easier for small corporations to issue stock, and laws to simplify tax reporting.

TO EFFECT ANTI-TRUST LAWS
Lack of tax relief may react to speed action on strengthening anti-trust laws to restrict mergers.

Several proposals have been made but the one that seems to have gained most support would require government notification before firms over certain sizes entered mergers. This would enable government agencies to determine if a proposed merger would tend to restrain trade or diminish competition before the merger took place. It has been found difficult to unscramble two merged companies.

Congress will also conduct the usual assortment of investigations to determine whether small business firms are being discriminated against in government contracts and purchasing, or in getting loans from banks.

In the latter connection, Carl E. Allen, president of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank, recently stated that more than half of the business loans at large banks are being made to small firms, and that many bankers say as a matter of policy they make special effort to accommodate their small customers. However, inability to borrow money is one of the most frequent complaints of small enterprises.

STRANGE AND CURIOUS BUSINESS NEWS ITEMS
In a long ruling (No. 57-4), the Internal Revenue Service holds that the ordinary desk pencil sharpener and a draftsman's pencil sharpener are subject to the business machines excise tax, but that pocket sharpeners and pencil lead-pointers are not.

Trinidad has ruled that poultry with its own giblets may be imported, but that giblets in bulk may not come in. . . . New York cops have started arresting merchants who accept television licenses without having first obtained a license as a secondhand dealer. . . . The National Office Management Association says three out of four companies fail to measure clerical workers' output to determine whether they are efficient. . . . The dream of seeing callers over the phone may have been moved nearer reality by the development of a new television scanning system said to work over ordinary telephone lines.

Opinions In Brief

Taxpayer's Dollar, a publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, passes on this definition of a taxpayer — " . . . a person who doesn't have to pass a Civil Service test to work for the government."

That's more than a good gag. A man with two dependents who earns $80 a week must work 49 weeks to meet his tax bill. If he has no dependents, he has to work 8.2 weeks. (Industrial News Review.)

Up in Milwaukee, federal food and drug agents have seized a quarter of a million "hazgovner" pills on the ground that they don't work. One's immediate reaction to this news, naturally, is to wonder just how the federal men arrived at their conclusion. (The Louisville Times.)

A Yugoslav In Albuquerque Has His Doubts Anybody Wants Him

By ELAINE BELLI
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — There is a young man in Albuquerque who is beginning to think no one wants him.

His name is Julian Posenel-Bill, as he prefers to be called. He entered the United States illegally in 1951 and has been fighting deportation ever since. This country, so far, has not accepted him.

Canada, from where he crossed the border, does not want him back. Yugoslavia is his native country but Julian certainly does not want to go back there.

He says his cousin is a powerful communist official in that country and has lately stated Yugoslavia will shoot him if he returns. Julian is 30, tall and rugged, with a crew cut and keen blue eyes.

He was an orphaned teen-ager and a freedom-fighter when he was captured in a German World War II prison camp. He says he remembers beatings, starvation, slaughter and horrible "medical experimentation."

"The only thing that saved me was my youth and sturdiness," he says.

After liberation, Julian hung around with the Allied forces in Africa and Europe, doing odd jobs to keep alive.

By 1948, a plan of coming to America was beginning to take form in his mind. A violent anti-Communist, he had no desire to return to Yugoslavia where "that gangster Tito had taken over."

Three years later he sneaked across the Canadian line at Buffalo, N.Y.

He had made his way to the United States by way of Army camps in Europe, steel mills and coal mines in England, and lumber camps and gold mines in Canada.

He ran from immigration authorities throughout this country, then gave up his flight in Albuquerque.

"There is no use running away all your life," he said. "There can be no peace."

Sen. Dennis Chavez of New Mexico took up his fight. He introduced a bill in Congress which would allow Julian lawful admittance to the United States.

"All I want is a chance to live freely, work at a decent job, raise a family and pay taxes like anybody else," Julian says.

Julian is an artist, a good artist. He would like to write and draw. He likes people and apparently has the makings of a salesman. Most of all though, he wants a chance. A chance to work and build a life of his own . . . a chance to breathe freely.

Religious Emphasis Week To Open At College

DR. KIRTLEY F. MATHER

REV. THOMAS R. THRASHER

WILLIAM B. RAPER

ARTHUR D. WENGER

With programs based on the theme "This Faith Our Day Demands," Religious Emphasis Week will begin at East Carolina College Sunday, February 3, and continue through Thursday, February 7.

REV. J. GLENN BLACKBURN

Five leaders in religious and educational activities will participate as speakers in a series of forums, assemblies, and informal discussion groups. Those who wish to attend programs are invited to be present by members of the Inter-Religious Council of the college, sponsor of the annual event.

Rush To Sign Up For Soil Bank

RALEIGH (AP)—If Tar Heel farmers continue the rush to sign up for the 1957 soil bank program, funds will be depleted before long in many counties.

Long waiting lines were reported in many counties yesterday as several thousand cotton, tobacco and corn growers rushed to sign their agreements under the program. ASC officials had announced that applications would be taken on a first-come, first-served basis.

In Mecklenburg, $90,000 of the county's $113,000 allocation was used up as 265 contracts were signed during the day. ASC Manager R. L. Faulkner said that if crowds are anywhere near that large Monday, "we'll run out of money before we get started."

North Carolina was allocated $25,471,600 in the "acreage reserve" portion of the program.

At Statesville, a farmer waited all night so he would be first in line. More than 100 farmers were on hand there by 5 a. m. and the crowd had increased to 400 by 7 a. m.

Long lines also were reported in Cumberland, Yadkin, Cleveland, Anson, Columbus and many other counties. Wake reported 242 contracts were signed and Guilford 212.

J. D. Godfrey, state administrative officer for Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation, said it appeared fairly certain North Carolina will use its full soil bank allocation for flue-cured tobacco and cotton.

"This is on a statewide basis," Godfrey added. "There will be some counties where the county allocation will not be used. At the end of the sign-up period, these unused funds will be transferred to their counties." He said the full state allocation for corn may not be used.

The sign-up will continue during February.

Dr. Kirtley F. Mather, professor emeritus of geology at Harvard University and internationally known scientist, author, and lecturer; the Rev. Thomas R. Thrasher, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Montgomery, Ala.; the Rev. J. Glenn Blackburn, chaplain of Wake Forest College and pastor of the Wake Forest Baptist Church, Winston-Salem; Dr. Arthur D. Wenger, president of Atlantic Christian College, Wilson; and the Rev. William Burket Raper, president of Mount Olive Junior College, will make the principal addresses of the week.

Dr. Blackburn, speaking Sunday at 7 p. m. in the Austin auditorium, and again at a general assembly Monday at 10 a. m. in the Wright auditorium, will introduce the theme of the week in talks addressed to students and guests.

Dr. Mather will discuss "Our Faith in an Age of Science" Monday at 7 p. m. in the Austin auditorium.

At a dinner meeting sponsored by the Committee on Teacher Education and Religion at the college Wednesday at 6:15 in the North Dining Hall, he will discuss "Where Science and Religion Meet." The meeting will be open to the public. With Mr. Thrasher as speaker, an assembly will follow at 8 p. m. in the Austin auditorium. Dr. Wenger will speak at the weekly noon chapel service Tuesday in the Austin auditorium.

Cadets of the college Air Force ROTC will be in charge of the program. He will also give the final address of the week "Our Faith and Personal Commitment" Thursday at 2 p. m. in the Wright auditorium.

Departments of instruction will sponsor a series of lectures by the visiting speakers Tuesday night. Students at the college will attend.

Kiwanis Aid To Scouts Praised

At the Greenville Kiwanis Club last night, Carl Knott, Pitt District Boy Scout executive, paid tribute to the Kiwanians for support of scouting in this area.

Dr. Stephen R. Bartlett, Jr. had charge of the program and President Charles E. Blair presided.

The scout executive said that in the Eastern Carolina counties there are available for scout membership 9,167 boys between 8 and 16 years of age.

East Carolina Scout Executive O. B. Roberts of Wilson spoke briefly and said he was impressed by the generous interest manifested in scouting by the Kiwanians and others. He said Kiwanis clubs sponsor 2,000 units of scouting in the United States and many scout camps and reminded that Camp Charles near Wilson, sponsored by Eastern Carolina Kiwanis clubs, is one of the best equipped he has seen. The speaker said Kiwanians support scouting by extensive manpower, money and individual efforts.

The scout executive gave a brief history of scouting from its establishment in 1910 by Sir Baden Powell of England. He said the famous Englishman while engaged in the war in South Africa was shocked by the ignorance of the average man to care for himself, dress a wound or injury or find his way about when isolated. This gave the English general inspiration to organize young boys and teach them the arts of outdoor life and the courteous way of living through scouting.

Participating in the program under direction of Pitt Executive Carl Knott were Cub Scout Pete Heller, son of Kiwanian Dick Heller; J. C. Proctor, Scout Troop 33, son of Kiwanian J. G. Proctor, and Explorer Scout Rete Everette, Post 205, son of Kiwanian Grover Everett.

In addition to participants on the program guests of the club were Miss Terry Tripp and Miss Anne Moore, Bill Beavors of West Virginia, C. H. Joyner of Farmville, Francis W. Davies and Dick Atkinson of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company.

Exchange Club Told ECC Facilities Taxed To Limit

Dr. James Tucker, dean of men at East Carolina College, guest speaker at the Greenville Exchange Club last night, said present that ECC facilities and faculty are taxed to their limit.

"Entrance examinations have been given in the past to assist in guidance and placement of students," he stated, "but this year examinations are being given early for the purpose of selecting the best qualified students for the openings that will be available for new students. It is expected that only 75 to 90 per cent of the applicants will be accepted."

"Enrollment in colleges has expanded from 2,078,000 in 1946 to 2,679,000 in 1956, and East Carolina College has expanded at a much greater rate," he pointed out.

Dr. Tucker explained that it is expected that national growth in the next 15 years will necessitate an increase in faculty strength from 200,000 to 450,000, with an

Today is Ground Hog Day and if the legendary rodent came out of his hibernation when the sun crossed the meridian today, he did not see his shadow and good weather is indicated.

Rumor has it that if the sun is shining at noon and the Ground Hog sees his shadow it is a "sign" that there will be 40 days of bad weather.

Student From India Speaks At College Y Hut

Gurdip Singh, student from India, discussed the World University Service at a meeting conducted in the Y Hut at East Carolina College Thursday night. A graduate in political science from Punjab University, she has studied in this country at the University of Georgia, from which she holds the master's degree in sociology.

The World University Service, she explained to members of the college YMCA and YWCA, is an organization with forty participating countries. Its work is directed toward meeting critical needs among college and university students wherever needs arise. It provides, she explained, both material aid and aid in intellectual and spiritual pursuits.

Miss Singh discussed conditions among students abroad, especially in Asia and Africa, and pointed out types of assistance that would benefit these people.

"Meeting needs," she said, "is not only a matter of giving. In giving, one becomes aware of our interrelationships with people everywhere."

A Little Heart Couldn't Take It

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Sara Ann Boswell was a plucky little girl whose courage was stronger than her heart.

The cute 8-year-old died on an operating table at Duke Hospital here yesterday while a team of surgeons battled vainly to patch up her heart.

Outside the room, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Taylor of Rocky Mount, and a crowd of friends and blood donors prayed.

While the girl's heart was stopped for 24 minutes, an artificial heart-lung, developed at Duke during the last year, pumped blood through her body.

Surgeons closed a hole in her heart about the size of a quarter between the chambers, opened a heart valve that had grown together and removed muscle tissue which obstructed a major blood vessel leading from the heart to the lung.

The girl's heart then was closed and it resumed beating but about 40 minutes later it began to falter. For 90 minutes the team of surgeons worked to keep the little girl's heart going, employing the heart-lung again.

After the operation, the chief of the surgical team said, "There was too much wrong with her heart. It couldn't stand the strain."

Moving Day--It Begins Early, And Lasts Long

THE CAUSE OF IT ALL—A lovely brick home built on modern, horizontal lines and situated on a lot big enough for rose and vegetable gardens was the cause of all the bother at the Joe Dudley household Monday. It is pictured above on the day of its initiation into the family circle. While sad at leaving their home on Library Street, the family anticipates meeting their new neighbors in this growing community. The house is located on Ragsdale Road.

GET IT CLEAN—If there is any secret to a successful moving operation, Mrs. Dudley believes it is to have everything spanking clean. "Everything" includes what comes out of the old house, the new that's added and the new house itself. Above Mrs. Theodore Lupton and a maid give the furniture a liberal polishing. "I guess you have to move once in awhile to get all the dirt out," Mrs. Dudley laughed. The movers were interrupted frequently by Mrs. Dudley, armed with vacuum cleaner and dust cloths.

ALL WORN OUT—Libby Dudley, left, and a friend pause a minute from the moving operation to admit they're all worn out. In the background, Mrs. Dudley continues her endless rounds of tasks. The scene above is in the Dudley's new family room for which a blue and yellow color scheme has been chosen. The rest of the rooms are white at present. Mrs. Dudley says they decided to "live in them" awhile before deciding on colors. It was just three weeks ago that the Dudleys bought the new home. Every day has been an eventful and busy one since. (Reflector Staff Photos).

PECULIAR POSE—You strike some peculiar poses when moving day comes. Above Libby Dudley, with shoes removed at mother's instructions, helps carry some of the lighter furniture and place it in its pre-designated place. Numerous visits to the new house enabled them to know where each piece of furniture would be placed. It was, then, simply a matter of getting it there on moving day.

NEIGHBORS DO HELP—"I don't know what we would have done if it hadn't been for the neighbors," Mrs. Dudley says about moving. Little Carolyn Smith, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith, lends a hand above assisted by Mr. Dudley. Friends dropped by all day to volunteer help. All was appreciated.

Old Scribblings Had A Meaning

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Kilroy wasn't in the near Eastern City of Dura-Europos in 253 A.D., but Artva, Rasnak and Apsaram were. They can prove it.

They wrote their names on the wall of a synagogue and the signatures are still there, 17 centuries later.

Archaeologist Carl H. Kjaerling tells about it in a new book published by the Yale University Press. Not accusing Artva, Rasnak and Apsaram of being mere "Kilroy was here" wall scribblers, he surmises that they were officers with the Persian army which overran Dura-Europos in 252. Apparently, says Kjaerling, they were impressed by Jewish murals in the synagogues and signed their names as a warning to soldiers not to damage them.

Dura-Europos, abandoned in 256, eventually disappeared beneath desert sands until its re-discovery in 1921.

TOMORROW AND TOMORROW—EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Dr. John Ryder, dean of engineering at Michigan State, says tomorrow's engineer must really be progressive. "He must believe that if a device works it already is obsolete," says Dr. Ryder.

Moving day!

That's what Monday was for the Joe Dudley family. It began early and lasted long.

Hours before the van appeared at 2:30 p.m., the old house at 215 Library Street had taken on a forlorn, rejected look.

Odd bits of paraphernalia — appreciated only by those who have had a moving day all their own — were scattered about over the grounds, while inside furniture, packed boxes and those precious possessions too valuable to be entrusted to movers' hands could be seen in a mishmash of confusion through half-opened door.

A Wave of Sympathy

During the actual moving operation, curious passers-by slowed their cars down to a choking speed to stare, first, then smile knowingly and wave a sympathetic hand to the busy Dudleys.

And from the immediate neighborhood friends dropped by to offer a helping hand.

Mrs. Dudley who rose that morning at 5 o'clock, took time out at intervals to sink her weary body onto one of the remaining chairs, have a cigarette and reflect on the progress.

There was a note of sadness in her voice as she talked of their Library Street home where her 15-year old daughter, Libby, had been born and they had spent so many happy years.

Garden Lured Her

It was a comfortable house, she said. The anticipation of a rose garden and a vegetable garden had really been what had lured her away from the old house, she admitted.

Located on Ragsdale Road, the new home is situated on a lot large enough to do justice to both, she said. And she had always wanted to grow her own vegetables, but had been unable to on the Library Street lot.

"I wish we could be an inspiration to young couples who are beginning to make a home," Mrs. Dudley said.

"We bought our first one with a $500 down payment almost 16 years ago. After we paid for this house, we were then in a position to consider another which offered possibilities for the garden I had dreamed of."

Sad To Part With Neighbors

"It's really sad to think of leaving all our old neighbors. But we are anticipating making new friends in a new neighborhood which is being built up."

"And then, too, there's something so wonderful about building when your heart is in it whether it's taking material to make something simple as a dress or suit or brick, wood, cement and nails and see a house go up."

For one who's moved only twice in the past twenty years, Mrs. Dudley had things organized to a remarkable degree on her moving day.

The failure of carpets to arrive in time for the new house's initiation was the only fly in her ointment that day.

Key To Success

In reflecting on the problems posed by moving, she decided the key to a successful operation was to get everything clean — the new house and everything moved from the old.

"I guess you have to move once in awhile to get all the dirt out," she quipped between frequent whirrs of the vacuum cleaner.

She spent the previous weekend getting the windows washed and all the dust removed. Before Monday, she had all the shelves lined and linens neatly stacked in place. "And I've been waxing and cleaning furniture ever since," she said.

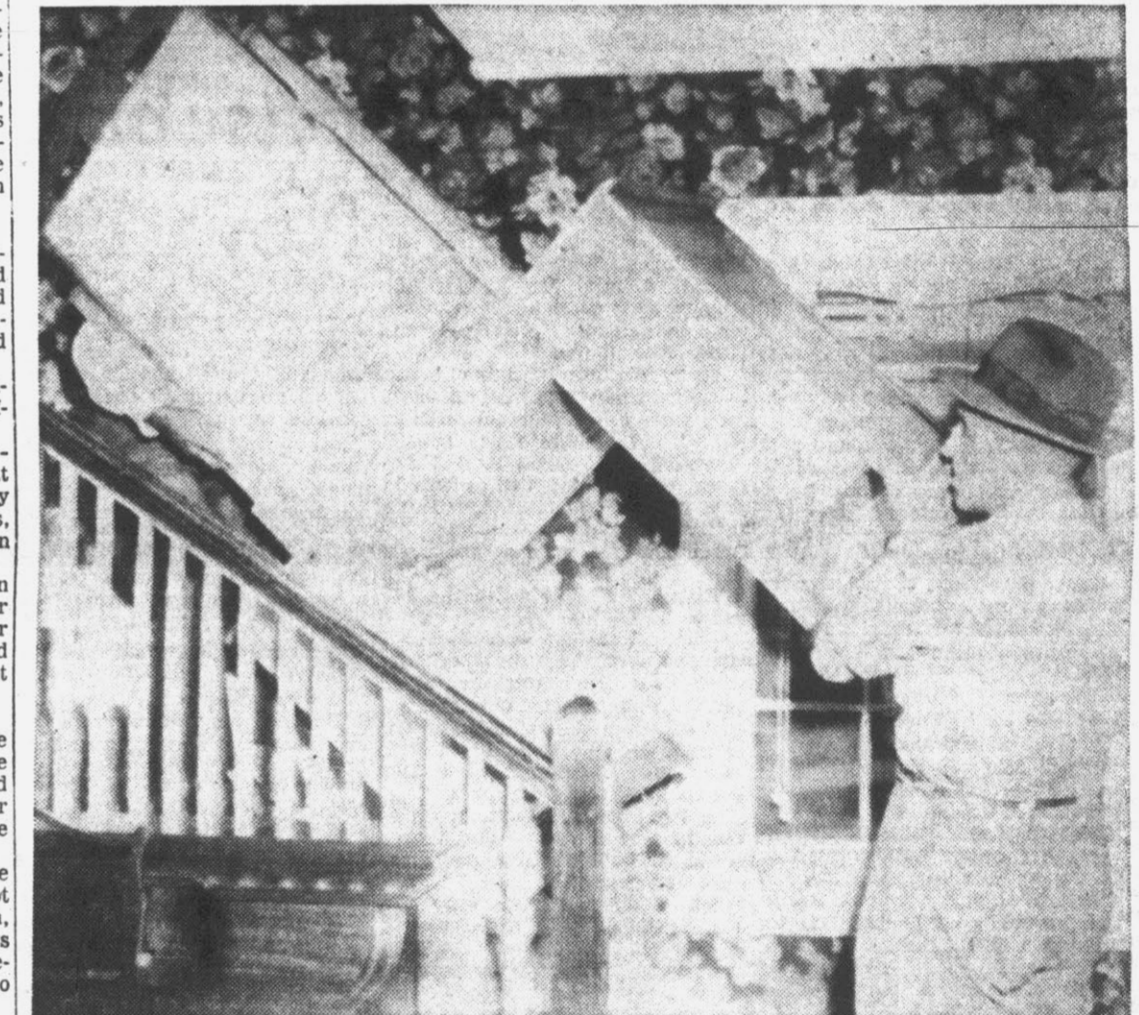

On Tuesday she planned to transfer the clothing, living room furniture and small over-looked items.

By Wednesday, she said, pictures would be hung, curtains up and their daily pattern of life returned to something like normal conditions.

Slightly Behind Schedule

A check yesterday revealed that the operation was somewhat behind schedule but looking hopeful.

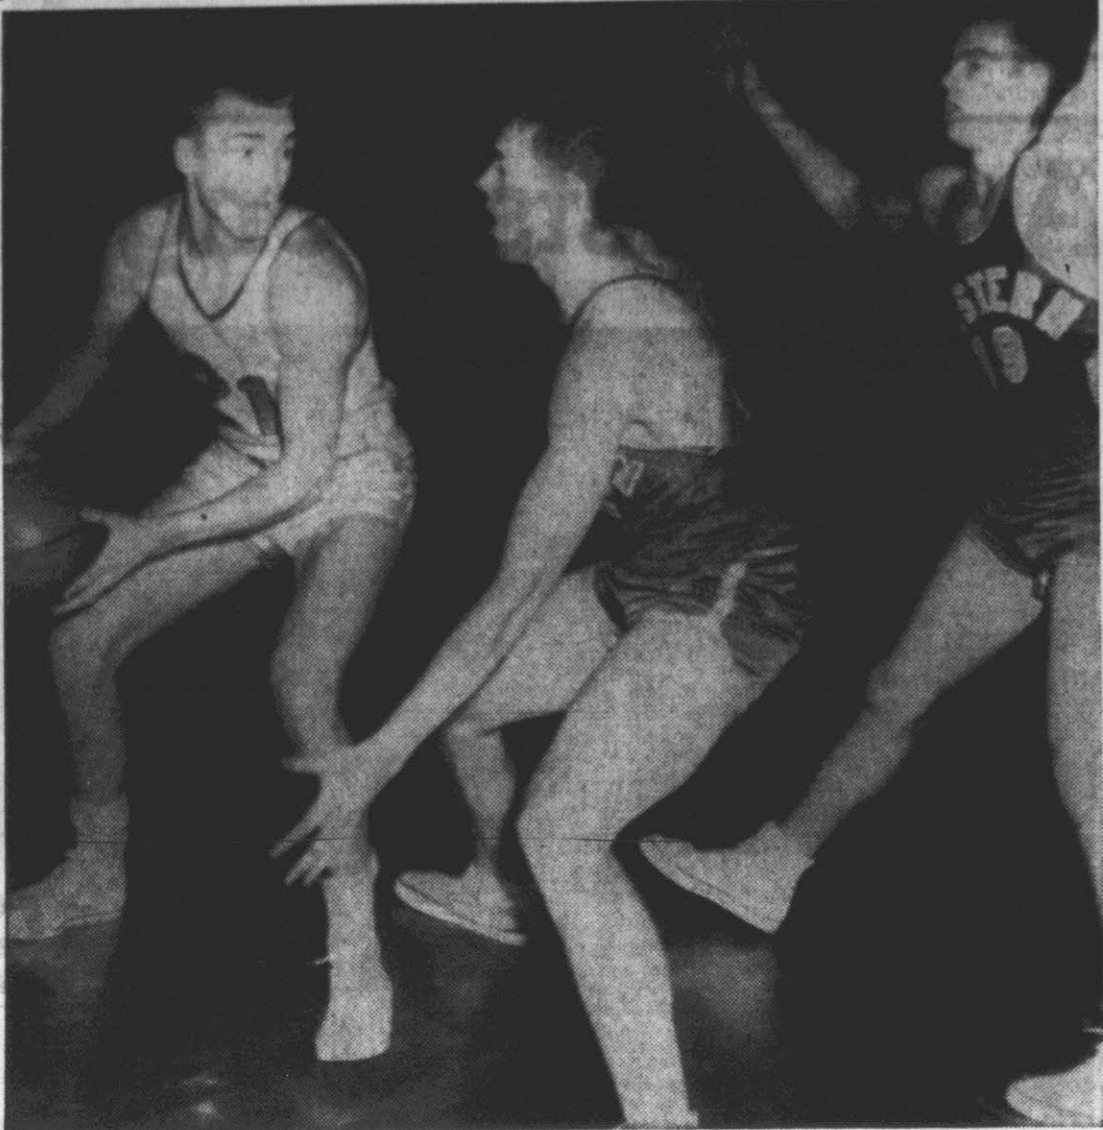

Mrs. Dudley, who is secretary to City Manager Leonard Bloxam, took a week of her vacation time to accomplish the moving operation. She says at best it's still "a mess."

EASY DOES IT—It takes a lot of muscles and patience to transport a family's belongings from one residence to the other. "Careful, there, don't scratch it," Mrs. Dudley called from the sidelines. And then there were several dust flecks which had previously escaped her eye!

WEATHER HANDICAP—The movers marched into the house at 2:30 p.m. Monday, took a quick look around and pitched in. The July-like weather occasioned many a comment and hasty mop of hankerchief as the operation proceeded. As one of the movers put it, "It ain't never too cold for this kind of job."

DOING HIS NUMBER—Don Harris, East Carolina's All-Conference forward, prepares to go into his tricky fake-and-shoot bit, as Western Carolina's Bob Ray and Harris Pryor (19) attempt to guard him. Harris made his points, but ECC was defeated 74-68 in an overtime. It marked the second time in 84 games and five years that the Bucs have been beaten in Memorial Gymnasium. The loss turns the Pirate overall record to 10-8 and the Conference mark to 5-6.

HIGH-STEPPER—Western Carolina forward Bill Bowen does a neat two-step in grabbing the rebound above. He popped in 25 points to take high scoring honors last night for the Catamounts and was the visiting club's top rebounder. With a fierce style like that above, who could get close enough to compete?

WHOOOPS The young man on the seat of his pants is East Carolina's Nick Nichols. He got that way in a scramble over a rebound. Western Carolina's Tony Migialo (18) charges on down court after the ball. Last night's action at Memorial Gymnasium was chock full of the above kind of action, with several players taking hard spills and a multitude of fouls following Nichols was high scorer for the Pirates with a total of 16 points. # Western Carolina Defeats Bucs 74-68 In Overtime

Loss Is Second At Home In Five Years

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

Western Carolina sank five field goals during an overtime period last night, to defeat the East Carolina Pirates 74-68 in a North State Conference game at Memorial Gymnasium.

For the happy Catamounts, it was the first time Western Carolina had ever whipped the Pirates in Memorial Gym, and only the second time in 54 games that the Bucs have lost there.

East Carolina, behind by as much as nine points with less than three minutes left in the regular playing session, chopped away to level the score 64-64 by the end of the game. The five-minute overtime was then declared.

First Blood

Coach Howard Porter's Buccaneers drew first blood in the early moments of the ball game and held a 36-35 halftime lead, but the advantage changed hands as many as five times within a minute and a half. With only one minute left in the second period, the Pirates grabbed a 28-27 lead. WCC came back to make it 29-28. ECC pushed it to 30-29—and so on—until the halftime buzzer halted the meager exchange of the lead at 36-35.

In the very first minutes of the second play, Western Carolina shook away from the Pirate lead with two fast field goals and a free toss before the Bucs could score. Forward Bill Bowen, who netted high scoring honors for the Catamounts with 25, paced the visitors in a rapid assault that soon made it 54-46.

Throughout the second half, the taller Catamounts controlled the backboards at both ends of the court. Rebound action during the first half had been fairly even.

Plaster Was Out

East Carolina's biggest man, 6-11 sophomore Joe Plaster, did not dress for the game due to a leg injury. The lanky Pirate regular center slipped on the cement steps of one of the school buildings earlier yesterday and caused enough damage to one knee that Coach Porter decided to bench him.

Starting in Plaster's center position was Tim Smothers, a 6-5 sophomore. Though Smothers netted 12 points, he was unable to get

Baseball Officials Offer New Player-Pension Plans

By ED WILKS

NEW YORK (AP)—Major league baseball today has a benefit-packed pension plan described by officials as unequalled anywhere.

And having met player demands for increased benefits—which include a whopping 75 per cent boost in monthly pension checks—it wouldn't be surprising if the American and National Leagues shelved a request for a raise in minimum salaries during their joint winter meeting today.

The players have asked that the present $6,000 minimum be increased to $7,500.

The sweeping advance in pension benefits was unanimously approved by the owners of the 16 major league clubs in separate meetings yesterday.

They granted a minimum monthly pension of $88 and upped the maximum monthly check to $550. The new plan, awaiting a federal tax ruling before it goes into effect April 1, also includes a 50 per cent increase in insurance benefits and new disability and hospitalization benefits.

The retirement benefits are available at age 50 to players, coaches and trainers with at least five years service, who have contributed to the plan. They also may postpone collection of the pension checks until age 60 to 65, with additional bonuses.

Here's the way the old and new benefit scales at age 50 compare:

Years of Service	New Old
5	$88 $50
10	$175 $100
20	$275 $100

A 10-year man can collect $275 a month by waiting until he's 60 to draw his benefits, and $350 a month if he waits until he's 65.

A 20-year man can collect $450 at 60, or $550 at 65.

Only the first 10 years of major league service previously were considered in pension benefits, with no provision for a delay in collecting the monthly payments.

Now a player receives $175 a month for each year up to 10, and $10 a month for each additional year up to 20.

The plan is retroactive to include those eligible under pension benefits originated in 1947.

The pension fund gets its biggest contribution from TV-radio coverage of the World Series and all-star game and from gate receipts of the latter.

The participants contribute an average of $2 a day during the playing season. The old contribution was $1.50 average a day.

Commissioner Ford Frick emphasized the new plan could be guaranteed for only five years because the fund is dependent on the TV-radio contract, a five-year pact for 16 1/2 million dollars effective this year.

Frick termed the new plan "as fine a pension plan as was ever written by any concern for any group of men."

The plan also provides for insurance benefits, based on service, ranging from $6,000 to $20,000 and in force 60 days after a player enters the majors until he begins drawing pension payments.

The same protective period is listed for total-disability benefits of $250 a month.

Other benefits over 100 per cent of the first $500 of a hospital bill, 80 per cent of anything over that amount. The plan also pays 80 per cent of all other medical bills, expiring when the participant retires.

State Seeking Revenge Over Clemson Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina State, seeking revenge for an early season defeat from Clemson, entertains the clawless Tigers in Raleigh tonight in the only Atlantic Coast Conference game on a five-game schedule for league teams.

Of the eight teams in the ACC, only Wake Forest, which racked up its seventh straight victory last night, an 81-70 drubbing of Clemson, and North Carolina, the nation's No. 1 squad with a perfect 16-0 record, are idle.

The others scheduled send Duke to Navy in an afternoon game, and George Washington at Maryland, South Carolina at Furman and Virginia at VPI in the night contests.

Wake Forest's victory, its 14th in its last 15 games, finally pulled the Deacons from the crowd and left them tied for second with Duke, both 5-2 in the conference. Overall the Deacons are 15-3.

Forward Jack Williams, with 18 points, led Wake to its easy victory. The Deacons held a 20-point halftime lead which they increased to 33 points midway of the second half when Coach Murray Greason took heart and sent in his subs.

The show stopper, however, was Clemson's Vince Yockel, a shooter delux, who canned 33 points.

It was Yockel, who scored 31 points against North Carolina State when the two played at Clemson Dec. 11, a game the Tigers captured in overtime 96-94.

Still ranked by that loss, State hopes it can bottle up Yockel in their Coliseum game. A victory would push the Wolfpack into fifth place.

The Duke - Navy game, an afternoon affair, was a question mark for Bucky Allen, the Blue Devils' ace guard who has been out sick. Duke entered the game

GHS Wins 55-53 With Final Shot

ELIZABETH CITY—A desperate basket by Walker Lee Allen, with only five seconds remaining in the game, gave Greenville high school a narrow 55-53 win over Elizabeth City here last night.

The win gives the Phantoms a 6-2 Northeastern Conference mark now and keeps alive their chances of finishing among the top clubs in the league.

Coach Boley Farley's Green Men had as much as a 22-point lead over the host Yellow Jackets midway in the third quarter, but lost ground on foul shots, rebounds and inability to hold the ball. EC's Pete Fearing tied the score in the last minute 53-53, and Allen's wild effort shot finally clinched it for the visitors.

Fearing, a chunky center, was high man for the night with 29 points. He popped in 12 points from the floor and added 17 more from the foul line. Greenville's Albert Crawford paced the winners with 12 points.

Early Green Lead

Greenville took an early lead and finished the first quarter with a 13-9 advantage. Second quarter action followed the same pattern, with Coach Farley's two-platoon system keeping a strong Phantom quiet in the game throughout the whole time. At halftime, Greenville was leading, 29-21.

It was in the second half that the Phants broke away to post their 22-point advantage over the shocked Jackets. Peanut Nunn, Mack Roebuck, Walker Allen, Steve Noble, Wesley Hudson and Bob Edwards hit well for the visitors to zoom the Green point total as high as 47 rapidly. It stood

Wins Teague Award As Top AAU Star

GREENSBORO (AP)—Lee Skidmore, a 14-year-old miss from Columbia, S.C., with a multitude of swimming championships already to her credit, is the winner of the Teague Award, emblematic of the outstanding female amateur athlete in the Carolinas for the past year.

Announcement of the Teague Award selection, sponsored by the Carolinas AAU, was made today by Oka Hester, chairman of the awards committee.

Skidmore has been active in AAU swimming since last year, tallied 106 points in the balloting of press, radio and television sports men of the Carolinas with a record 56 votes being cast. She barely edged the current holder of the Teague Award for women, Marjorie Burns of Greensboro, the Carolinas golf champion. Miss Burns had 104 points. Each girl had 16 events during the past AAU season, and she captured 51 gold medals in this competition, setting records in 45 of them. She never finished lower than third.

Ranking a close third in the balloting was Eunice Futch of Asheville, whose pitching led the Ardine Rockets to the softball championship of the Southern region and won her All-Southern honors. Miss Futch had nine first-place votes and a total of 66 points.

Two state champions followed in the voting. Jaynie Haynie of Belton, S.C., state tennis champion, gained 51 points while Nancy Phillips of Newton, state golf champion, had 40.

Others in the balloting were Penny Taliaferro of Greensboro, swimming; Virginia Bass of Anderson, S.C., softball-tennis; Phyllis Glynn of Greensboro, swimming; and Connie Gorsuch of Greensboro, golf.

The men's winner will be announced tomorrow.

Ron Delaney Set For Boston AA Hunter Mile

BOSTON (AP)—The picnic ends officially for Phil Coleman, George King and Bobby Seaman tonight when they face Olympic 1,500-meter champion Ron Delaney in the featured Hunter Mile in the Boston AA track meet.

As usual, Delaney plans to fight the field rather than the clock. So if there is to be a fast time, it behooves these three—who have divided victories in the major indoor miles to date—to give Ronnie something to run about.

Delaney actually is not ready for a really fast mile because he has been taking things easy since the Olympics. But his Villanova coach, Jumbo Jim Elliott, has decided to turn him loose a week earlier than anticipated.

If anyone is going to push Delaney, Seaman, a UCLA operative with a flashy 4:01.4 to his credit should do it.

Marry Ted Williams? Not After What He Said, Declares Model

NEW YORK (AP)—Model Nelva More has fired some verbal fast balls at baseball slugger Ted Williams, who vigorously denied reports of their impending marriage.

Miss More's stepmother, Mrs. F. An More, said Thursday that Nelva, 24, and Ted, 33, would marry "in a day or two."

Nelva, beyond saying she and the diamond star would be married, refused to discuss details.

Yesterday in Boston, Williams told newsmen: "Nothing to it, nothing to it," adding:

"You know I've been initiated into that society once before. You have heard the phrase 'Had it. Well, that's me.'"

Williams' previous marriage ended in divorce in May, 1955.

Miss More, told of Williams' reaction to the reports, said last night that Williams had proposed but that she had given no definite answer. She said she had plane reservations, which she canceled, to fly to Boston to meet Williams.

"After his comments today," said Miss More, "I am giving a definite answer. I am not going to marry him and I would not

AP Announces New Grid Trophy

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The Associated Press last night announced it will award a huge bronze trophy to future collegiate football champions, and Oklahoma quickly bid for it over the banquet table.

The new Associated Press trophy will replace the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell trophy, retired by the defending national champion Sooners.

Like the O'Donnell trophy awarded by Notre Dame, the Associated Press trophy will become the permanent possession of the team which wins the national title three times.

Ted Smith, Associated Press sports editor, announced the new trophy and told 600 cheering Oklahoma fans: "I have a feeling, a very strong feeling that I'll probably be back here next year."

Smiths was principal speaker at the banquet last night when Greg Rice, New York City, president of the Notre Dame Alumni Club, gave Oklahoma permanent possession of the O'Donnell trophy.

"This was the Sooners' third football crown in seven years and their second straight."

The AP trophy will be awarded annually to the team finishing atop the Associated Press football poll.

Jackie Moreland Drops Out Of N.C. State Today

RALEIGH (AP)—The future plans of basketball star Jackie Moreland were unknown today following the announcement that he had dropped out of North Carolina State College and was headed to his Minden, La., home.

Moreland vacated his dormitory room Thursday night. The action came as a surprise to State College officials, for the former high school flash had received a permit yesterday to register for the new semester.

Sometime ago the NCAA slapped a four-year probation sentence on State College for alleged violations in recruiting Moreland, an honor student, who was sought by a host of colleges.

His departure means that the college apparently will have to pay a $5,000 fine imposed by the ACC reverses its decision. The Atlantic Coast Conference unless ACC had declared Moreland ineligible to play at State.

The athletic publicity office at the college said Moreland had told friends he was dropping out of school, but he did not tell the athletic department he was leaving.

Everett Case, State's head basketball coach, said, "I'm very sorry he's gone and I regret losing him."

During his mid-term vacation Moreland went home, but returned to college Wednesday. He was to have completed his registration yesterday.

The ACC imposed a $5,000 fine on State in ruling that members of the athletic staff had violated recruiting regulations. The fine was to be suspended on condition that Moreland remain at State and receive the athletic scholarship which the college granted him.

Earlier this week the ACC, which is conducting its own independent investigation of the Moreland case, turned down State's request for an open hearing in the matter.

Dr. Carey Bostian, State chancellor, reiterated in a wire to Jim Weaver, ACC commissioner, "The best guarantee of finding the truth in this matter is to have all the witnesses confronting each other in an open and impartial hearing."

College officials involved have denied the charges. The NCAA said Moreland had been promised cash gifts in addition to an athletic scholarship and that a medical education had been promised to Moreland's girl friend.

Patty Leads In Havana Tourney

HAVANA (AP)—Veteran Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., took a two-stroke lead into the second round of the 54-hole Havana women's invitational golf tournament today after clipping three strokes from par on opening day.

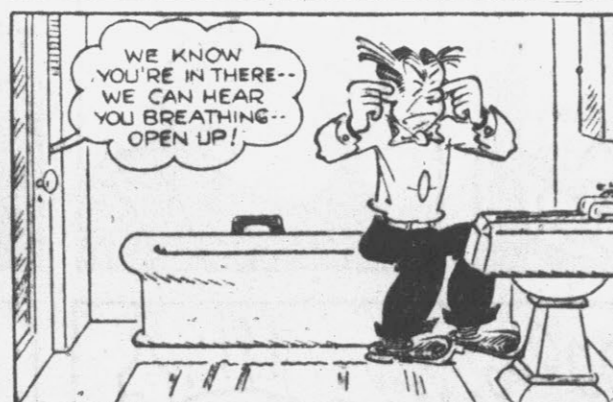

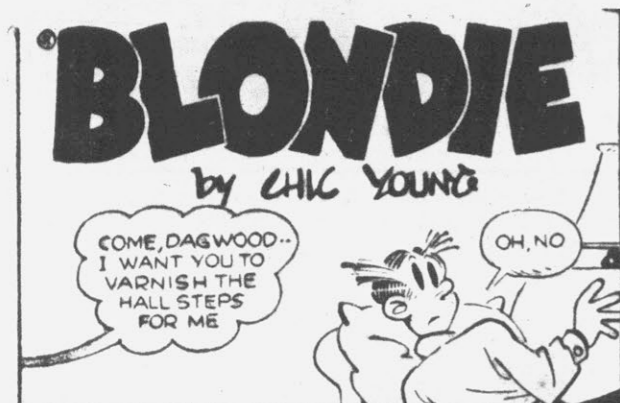

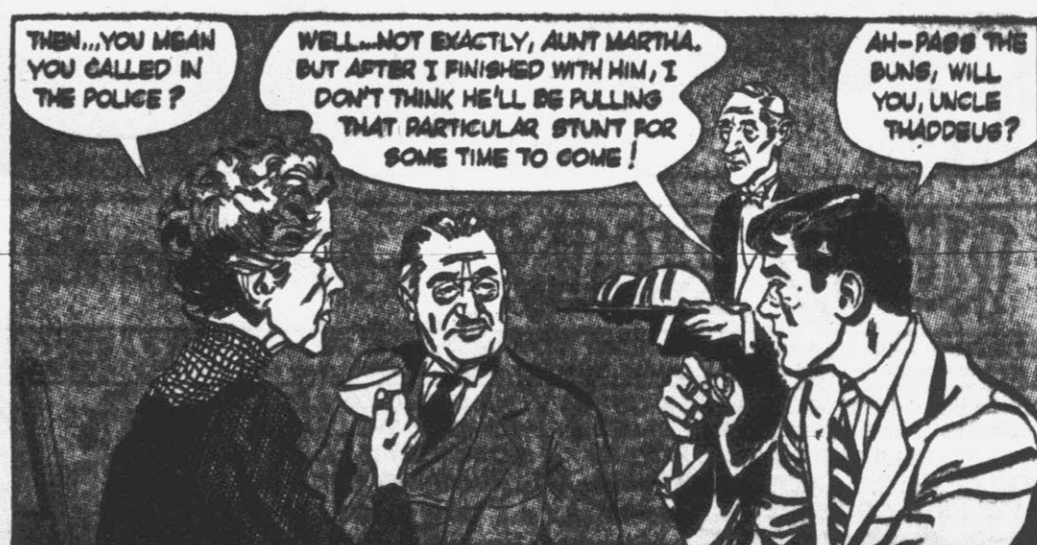

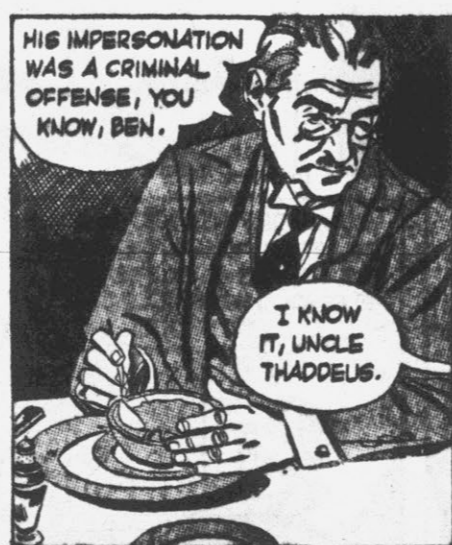

Miss Berg's 69 on the 5,767-yard course enabled her to lead a strong field of U.S. professionals, including Marlene Bauer Hagge, Delray Beach, Fla., last year's leading money winner.

Mrs. Hagge had a two-under-par 71 to share second place with Mickey Wright, San Diego, Calif. Defending Champion Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., was in fourth place with a par-equaling 72.

No Clues Seen In January As To Boom Brake

NEW YORK (AP)—Businessmen are hoping today that February will come up with the clue they waited for in vain in January.

The clue they seek is to the biggest question of the day: Is the boom topping out?

January offered a few signs that the boom is getting tired. Businessmen hope that February may prove these signs wrong. But they may have to wait till March to be sure.

A five-man group of government and private economists has just told Congress that a few small rains here and there should pull the economy as a whole a little higher this year.

Some of them put their faith in increased spending this year by the federal, state and local governments to offset the leveling off of private spending. How the taxpayers will feel about that isn't being stressed.

February could furnish a clue to the big factor: consumer spending. Merchants did pretty well with their clearance sales in January. In February consumer spending will be on a more normal basis.

Also to be watched this month is the trend in business spending for expansion of plant and new equipment. January saw a handful of the biggest corporations draw in their horns a little—a move that some stock traders were quick to consider bearish.

Announced plans call for big spending in the first half of this year on corporate expansion programs. What businessmen are wondering: Will there be still more of these announced soon? Or has the post-Korean peak been reached?

Commodity dealers have a superstition that there is usually a commodity price break in February. Often there is—but not always.

Particularly nervous right now are the prices for steel scrap and for copper. There is a strong belief in the industrial world that price trends in these, particularly in the ease of scrap, foretell the future for metal production.

There is also much uncertainty as to what kind of a year the home builders will have. Applications this month for federal guarantees on mortgages should give a clue.

Easing of the tight money situation in January led some to think that a turn had come in the big investment boom. February should be a much better test of that. The money market eases in January seasonally as businessmen repay their pre-Christmas loans and individuals pay their Christmas bills. Last month the easing seemed larger than usual.

If money stays easier this month it could indicate business thinking on expansion, on buying for inventory, even on production plans.

The trend of retail prices—as distinct from commodity prices—may get its testing this month too. Government officials say they can't be sure where retail prices are going just now.

Telephone Company Is Moving Into Its New Offices

Manager Frank Harrington of Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company has announced that the company is moving its business offices to the new building here on the corner of 5th and Pitt Streets today.

According to the telephone manager, the business offices will be open to the public Monday morning. At present workmen are working on the long distance facilities also to be located in the new building and will finish their work sometime during the month of June.

The new telephone building has been under construction since November of 1955. Company officials held a ground breaking ceremony on November 3, 1955. Harrington stated yesterday that the company will not move the local exchange from the old building on the corner of Dickerson Avenue and Washington Street after the completion of the present construction. He added that only the long distance facilities will be moved in addition to new equipment being installed.

ECC Senior Is Prize-Winner In National Essay Contest On Paine

William Grandy Whaley, Jr. of Elizabeth City, senior at East Carolina College has just received notification that he is a prize winner in the sixth annual essay contest sponsored by the Thomas Paine Foundation of New York. The competitive event was open to students of colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Whaley's essay "Thomas Paine as the Penman of the American Revolution" won him a second prize in this year's national contest and a $50 U.S. Savings Bond. The East Carolina senior became interested in the contest through his work in the Creative Writers Club at the college and in a senior-graduate course, "The American Age of Reason," taught by Dr. Martha Pingel of the department of English.

The foundation was organized in 1935 to secure for Thomas Paine, "author-hero of the American Revolution" the recognition he so richly deserves, to promulgate his social and political philosophy and help establish his humanitarian ideals.

Whaley, who became a student at East Carolina College two years ago, is specializing in the social studies and in English. Before coming to the college here, he attended the University of North Carolina and then served for two years in the U. S. Air Force.

Numbers Help Retarded Child

LAPEER, Mich. (AP)—Numbers are helping retarded children find their place in society.

It's done with the help of the abacus, an ancient Oriental counting device, and the modern day adding machine.

Some 278 children at the Lapeer State Home and Training School use the abacus and adding machine in primary arithmetic classes. Officials say the program teaches retarded youngsters how to take care of themselves and their finances so that they can step into society.

Has An Answer For Price Wars

MCLESTER, Okla. (AP)—L. B. Smith, who runs a grocery store here, found a way to get even with a competitive store which cut the price of coffee below cost.

He advertised in the paper for kids who wanted to make money that he would buy unopened cans of standard brand coffee for 94 cents.

Ernie Ford Feels Strain Of Heavy TV Schedule

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Carrying more than his "16 tons" for NBC these days is likable Ernie Ford, generally known as Tennessee.

This is a great season for singing Tennesseans (Elvis Presley, Pat Boone, etc.), and Ernie is no exception. He's been hitting it big in daytime TV for a couple of years, and last fall he made the big jump to a Thursday night show.

The result has been highly successful. Backed by the adept Walter Schumann Singers, Ernie has put forth a show that has attracted enthusiastic viewers. The ratings have been mighty good for a new show, especially one opposite the powerhouse Playhouse 90.

"I think we're hitting our stride pretty good now," Ernie opined between rehearsals. "I believe we've got a show that is good as well as commercial."

"It's a lot more commercial, than when we started out. You know how it is—you always put down a bigger milk pail than the cow can give."

If Ernie looks like a pooped peepicker these days, it's understandable. It's no small matter putting on six half-hour shows a week. He gets some respite by kinescoping his Thursday daytime show. But the schedule keeps him tied down most of the time.

That doesn't set too well with Ernie, who yearns for his ranch in Lake County of northern California. Since the nighttime show began last fall, he's been there only twice—and then for one-day visits.

"I'm not the kind of entertainer whose career means everything," he remarked. "My boys are 4 and 7 now, and that's the age when they need some attention. If they don't think much of their father at this age, they ain't going to when they grow up either."

"I'd like to cut down on the daytime show, but that presents a problem. I've got a fine relationship with the sponsors, and I'd like it to continue. I've got a loyalty to them, but I've got a loyalty to my family as well."

Scouting Goals Are Set For '57

The Pitt District Scouting Committee, at a recent meeting, adopted new goals for 1957.

New goals set by the committee for the coming year include: two deep leaders in each unit-60 units; top leaders trained-45 units; number of scout commissioners-18; rank advancements-450; number of scouts, First Class rank and above-500; number of scouts subscribing to Boys Life-650; number of new units-10; units to be lost-0; goal for total number of boys in scouting throughout the county-1250, an increase of 225 over 1956; total number of units in Pitt County-60; and total number of adults working in scouting-550, an increase of 104 over last year registered as den mothers, scoutmasters, assistants and committee members.

Carl Knott, scout field executive, announced that a total of nine new packs and troops were organized in this county in 1956 and that 219 new boys joined the rank of scouting last year. These accomplishments plus the fact that the county did not lose an organized unit last year were praised highly by Scout executive O. B. Roberts of Wilson who spoke at the meeting.

Britons Fear No Gas Price Drop

LONDON (AP)—Britons are convinced that everything that goes up may not come down—the cost of gasoline for example.

That is the basic reason thousands are buying motor cars which get 44 to 100 miles on an imperial (roughly five U.S. quarts) gallon of gasoline.

A London dealer handling the Italian Fiat 600 says: "There is nothing like a gallon of six shilling (84 cents) petrol to convert a man from a car which gets 17 miles to the gallon to one which gets 50 to 100 miles.

Gasoline rationing struck Britain Dec. 17 as the aftermath of the Suez Canal's blocking. With shortages the price and tax per gallon went up. Part of the tax may come off when the canal is cleared, but few people expect prices to drop back to the 62 cent range of pre-Suez days.

A "baby car" usually seats three. A "small" car seats four to six, has four wheels, a four cylinder engine and gets 44 to 50 miles per imperial gallon.

Production of baby cars has been a continental specialty but now several British companies are coming out with models.

British dealers sell about 800 Heinkel Cabin Cruisers a month. A three or four wheeler, the Cruiser will carry two adults and two children 100 miles on an imperial gallon. It costs $1,144 in Britain.

The British-made Austin A35 "small" car is in heavy demand. It costs $1,514 and gets 40 to 50 miles per imperial gallon.

Will Have Help In Slow Giveaway

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—A trustee who found the process of giving away a fortune too slow has legal approval to speed it up by formation of a foundation.

Walter Haas, trustee of two trust funds for the estate of Mrs. Lucie Stern, said he has given away more than two million dollars since she died in 1946. But he still has more than half a million and, under the will's terms, time is getting short for completing the distribution.

Superior Judge W. W. Jacka approved formation of the Lucie Stern Foundation. She asked that the money go to public and educational institutions.

LAST PORT—Portions of the superstructure of the old battleship U.S.S. Mississippi, veteran of two world wars, rest on dock as the craft is junked in a Baltimore shipyard.
