$1,000,000 Spur Urged For Oil Hunt

RALEIGH (AP)—A legislator set out today to spur the search for oil in North Carolina by proposing that the state offer a million dollars to the person, firm or corporation who drills the first producing oil well in the state.

Even if approved by the Legislature and the people, chances of the state having to pay the million-dollar reward seem dim. Many attempts have been made to locate oil in North Carolina, all in vain.

Believe Phantom Sniper Captured

'Final' Fluoridation Decision Slated March 14 By Councilmen

A final decision on fluoridating the city's water supply will be made by City Councilmen on March 14.

Dr. Norton told the councilmen last night that studies have been conducted in cities both with natural fluoridation and with artificially fluoridated water supplies.

Dr. Norton said that studies have been conducted in cities both with natural fluoridation and with artificially fluoridated water supplies.

Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Pitt County's health director, pointed out that Ayden, Fountain and Falkland now have 9-10 parts per million of fluoride in their water supply naturally.

Prepare Replies To Soviet Offer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A Soviet proposal for foreign ministers instead of lower-level delegates to hold the next round of U.N. disarmament talks today awaited official replies from the United States, Britain, Canada and France.

But another observed that it would take the subject away from the experts that know it best.

Dr. Aldridge requested action on the matter at last night's meeting and he asked that members of the board approved fluoridation.

Progress Program Discussed By Club Committee Chairmen

Plans for the Pitt County Progress Program were discussed last Friday evening when the four chairmen of the Red Oak Home Demonstration Club met.

The program will come to a close April 30. Chairmen have been asked to submit their reports by March 1.

All women in the Red Oak Club have been divided into four groups. Chairmen and their committee members are Mrs. J. T. Manning Jr., chairman, group 1; Mrs. C. W. Bright, Mrs. H. H. May, Mrs. Billy May, Miss Ella V. May, Mrs. Milton May, Mrs. Joe Joyner Sr. and Mrs. Thurman Page.

Group 2, Mrs. James Allen, chairman, Mrs. H. R. Allen, Mrs. Joe Sutton, Mrs. Lena Manning, Mrs. Doc Smith, Mrs. Lizzie Vandford and Mrs. Thurston Wynne.
Group 3, Mrs. Amos Evans, chairman, Mrs. F. L. Allen Sr., Mrs. Ada Evans, Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Sr. and Mrs. Loretta Lanman.
Group 4, Mrs. Leon Tyson, chairman, Mrs. James Allen, Mrs. Charles Jackson, Mrs. John Crawford, Mrs. Mary Stocks and Mrs. Scott Heath.

Ten members of the club have reported they observed "Plant-A-Tree Day" last fall.
The month of February has been set as "Plant-A-Tree Month" this spring for the club. Every citizen has been urged to participate. While the dogwood has been selected by the committees, they point out that any tree will be acceptable.

Mrs. Lelsie Stocks Fetes Club Members
AYDEN—At her home on Terrace Dr. Wednesday night, Mrs. Lelsie Stocks entertained for her bridge club.
At the conclusion of the game Mrs. Joe Tripp received costume jewelry for high, while a similar prize was given Mrs. Bonnie McCormick for runnerup. Low, a novelty ash tray, was won by Mrs. Wilbur Dunn.
A sweet course was served by the hostess to Mesdames Tripp, McCormick, Dunn, "Mac" Edwards, Tucker Tripp, Chester Hart, Raymond Cox and Curt Cavalier.

The Red Oak Club has urged every citizen to take part in the Progress Program.

It is being sponsored by the Farmer's Day Committee of Greenville for the benefit of rural Pitt County citizens.

Mrs. Carroll Talks To Club

When the Delphian Book Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jack Minges, the guest speaker was Mrs. Ellen Carroll, supervisor of Greenville City Schools.

After a brief business session conducted by Mrs. John Howard, the hostess served coffee and homemade cake. The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Carroll who spoke on the education of young children.

Mrs. Carroll feels that parents and teachers should cooperate with each other. First, a mother should look at her own child and know it is different—unlike all other children.
Children cannot be compared with one another. Every child is a bundle of specifics and not a generality, she told the club.
The speaker discussed the teaching of phonetics in the first grade. All children cannot be taught to read this way, she said. In order to get words some must see, hear or feel them.
Children should not be pushed into school too early. Sometimes they cannot grasp everything that is put to them. Mrs. Carroll stated that a child's first year in school is the most important one.

After Mrs. Carroll finished her talk there was a question and answer session.
Fine Arts Dept. To Meet
The Fine Arts Department of the Woman's Club will meet Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. W. C. Harris. Mrs. J. H. Corey will be assisting hostess. Program will be given by Mrs. Jesse Moyer.

Congressional Club Welcomes Capital Newcomers At Party

WASHINGTON—One of the finest of the many welcoming parties for newcomers to Congress and their wives is the traditional homey open house given by the Congressional Club. Here the newly elected congressmen have a chance to meet old hands and get acquainted with each other.

The club, set up by act of Congress in 1908, is made up of wives of incumbent lawmakers. One of its main objectives is to make folks feel at home. Wives of new members always are asked to join.
Throughout the congressional year the club is a beehive of activity with morning study groups, bridge classes, Red Cross work, luncheons, teas, parties for children and receptions, including one for the President and First Lady.

After the 1957 open house, newcomers were met at the door by members and their husbands and each was pinned with a white tag saying "hello" and bearing their names and home town.
Among the old-timers who put in an appearance were Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) and House Minority Leader Joe Martin (R-Mass). Rep. Frances Bolton (R-Ohio), sun-tanned and rested after seven weeks at her Palm Beach, Fla. home; bubbly Rep. Frank Boykin (D-Ala) and his wife; Judge Homer Ferguson of the U. S. Court of Military Appeals and former Republican senator from Michigan, and Mrs. Ferguson; and Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, widow of the late senator from Illinois, were also on hand.

Among those wearing the round white tags were Rep. E. F. Byrne (R-Ill), his wife, and his pretty daughter, Pat, who is working in his office; the brilliant India-born Rep. D. S. Saund (D-Calif) and his friendly, soft-voiced wife; and young Reps. Edwin H. May (R-Conn), Donald Tewes (R-Wis), F. M. Coffin (D-Maine) and their attractive wives.
Most of the new members and a great many of the old timers dropped in on the 4 to 6 p.m. club affair. In fact, Congress could easily have claimed a quorum.

30 Years Ago Today
February 8, 1927
D. G. Coy of Charlotte, field manager for the Salvation Army, is in the city in the interest of establishing a permanent post of the Salvation Army here. For sometime past this city has been under the Kinston Post.
A very enjoyable meeting of the Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. Ed Harvey Thursday afternoon. The meeting opened by reading Edgar Guest's poem on "The Package of Seed." Mrs. Austin read this in her usual attractive manner. A plant exchange was planned. This will be one of the greatest privileges in that line that the people of Greenville have ever experienced.

Miss Brunson Awarded Title
Miss Iva Lou Brunson has been named Homemakers of Tomorrow at Chicod School.
She received the highest score in a written examination on homemaking knowledge and attitudes administered December 4 to senior girls in the graduating class.
As school winner, she will be entered in competition for the state title and will also be considered for the runnerup award in this state.
The national winner will be named May 2.

Shower Fetes Bridal Couple

Mrs. Luther Stanley, Mrs. Curley Moore and Mrs. James J. Edwards entertained at a shower for Mr. and Mrs. Otis Stokes, recent bridal pair, in the Chicod Lunch-room Saturday night.
About 125 guests were present for the party.
After several contests, Bingo was enjoyed.
Punch, nuts, mints and cookies were served with Mrs. Jesse Jones and Mrs. James Mills assisting in serving.

World Missions Night's Topic

A devotional entitled "Our Goal" and a world missions program highlighted the Tuesday night meeting of the Ballards Presbyterian Women of the Church.

The devotional led by Mrs. Preston Elks was a study of Jesus' missions and taken from the books of Matthew and Luke.
Mrs. John Flanagan gave the program on world missions, listing needs for missionaries. She pointed out that the Presbyterian Church now has missionaries in Africa, Mexico, Brazil, Ecuador, Belgium Congo, Japan, Korea, Taiwan, Iraq and Portugal.

A special offering was taken for this cause.
Announcement was made for a family night supper on the theme of world missions scheduled for 6:30 p.m. February 28 at the church.
For the social hour, the hostess, Mrs. Preston Lloyd, served sandwiches, nuts, cookies, candy and cold drinks.

BARGAIN PRICE
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A 19-year-old youth got a special bargain in Traffic Court — but not much of one. When Alton Cunningham pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge, Judge M. D. Elston fined him $75. "I haven't got but $74, your honor," Cunningham said, and the judge shaved a dollar from the fine.
Nice baste for a ham: apricot preserves mixed with an equal amount of orange juice.

During this hour, the group worked on baby blankets to be sent to the foreign mission fields.

'Safety Fair' Proposal Is Considered

'Safety Fairs are an excellent way to make a community aware of accident preventions. The safety demonstrations help persons to see and watch and thus draw their attention and interest,' pointed out Miss Nettie Day, safety expert, who was the guest speaker at the Pitt Co. Safety Council meeting. Although still in the planning stage, there was discussion at yesterday's meeting as to staging such a safety fair in Greenville this fall. Safety exhibits concerning safety on the farm, highway, home, and in industry would be main features of this fair. Every safety-conscious individual and firm in Pitt County could contribute to this educational project. 'Pitt County is the second county in North Carolina to have a Safety Council,' Miss Day observed. She further pointed out that this is a big step toward combating the appalling total of accidents. 'Environment and You' 'Accidents don't just happen—they are caused; thus they can be prevented.' The two main causes of accidents are the environment (for instance the weather) and the human being (you and me). These two factors cause 99 per cent of accidents today, she told the group. Another phrase of accident prevention that Midd Day discussed was the home.

'We think of the home as the safest place on earth; yet, look at the number of people killed in the home and on the home premises,' she said. It is easy to eliminate home hazards like the torn carpet, but it is another matter to change the individual. 'Education would help—but not just learning what to do and not to do,' she warned.

Dr. Walter Humbert secured the speaker from the Raleigh Board of Health, Accident Prevention Section, and introduced her to the council.

Lee Folger Jr. presented a brief resume of the study made by the Governor to improve the state highway safety program. Some of the changes would include a scientific test for drunk driving, unmarked patrol cars, and the revision of several out of date laws now in existence.

The council gave their unanimous support to this program. D.H. Conley mentioned the excellent job the highway patrolmen have been doing in conducting safety programs for Pitt County school children.

Future Plans Before the meeting adjourned F. Badger Johnson looked briefly ahead at tentative plans of the Council for 1957.

He suggested a complete demonstration of water safety to be given at the ECC gym by the college swimming team. An industrial safety program is also under consideration by the council. He called the group's attention to the third annual safety vehicle check to be given in Pitt County in May. At the present time the Safety Council has 30 firms or organizations and 46 individuals as charter members.

how do YOU measure the worth of electricity?
By electricity's cost? If that's your measure, you'll see that electric rates are low... and the more electricity you use, the lower the price.
By what electricity does? Again you're getting a lot. It cooks, cleans and washes clothes. It heats water, and freezes foods. It washes dishes... lights your home... does dozens of other chores.
However you measure its worth, electricity is a bargain—a bargain in better living!

What If We Kill The Prized Goose?

For Eastern North Carolina tobacco price supports and the Stabilization Corporation have been the goose which laid the golden egg.

What happens if we kill the goose? Most people with a recollection of yesterday and a view to tomorrow are determined that this goose which has put millions upon millions of dollars into the economy of this region shall not be killed. Agricultural leaders, however, have issued repeated warnings that not only can the goose be killed, but that the terrific load Stabilization has been required to shoulder in the past few years is threatening to end the goose's life.

These leaders have also warned that continued over production of flue cured tobacco can cause the crop to be knocked down under the 90 per cent support the crop has enjoyed. In recent years changes in demands for types of tobacco have complicated the problem. What was considered choice tobacco a few years ago is not now in top demand. The demand for lighter tobacco has given way to a growing demand for heavier tobacco with more flavor and aroma.

While the support program has tended to delay immediate effects of the old law of supply and demand, it is quite clear that sooner or later this law must apply to tobacco just as it applies to other farm crops and commodities. Production of too much tobacco or the wrong kinds of tobacco cannot continue indefinitely without causing serious economic repercussions in tobacco areas.

In order to maintain their hold on foreign markets, growers must produce the kind of tobacco which these foreign buyers need and cannot obtain elsewhere at lower prices. In order to realize the highest return for their efforts, growers must also seek to produce the kind of tobacco which domestic purchasers want and need.

Unless tobacco growers in Pitt and other counties throughout the flue-cured region are determined to produce the quantity and quality tobacco which is in demand, we may suddenly find that the goose which has laid the golden egg in tobacco land has been killed. Unless the Department of Agriculture and other departments of the federal government helps the Stabilization Corporation dispose of the mounting surplus of less desirable tobacco now on hand the goose's life span may be shortened.

Legislators Set New Level For State Pay

Can teachers and other state employees expect the same consideration from the General Assembly which was accorded members of the Council of State Wednesday with 20 per cent salary increases?

Few North Carolinians will seriously contend that their state officials are over-paid even with the pay increase granted members of the Council of State. At the same time, the vast majority of the people of North Carolina recognize the vital need of putting salaries of teachers and other state employees nearer the par paid by other states.

It is apparent that a good many members of the legislature were not quite sure of the percentage increase in salaries they were giving members of the Council of State when the bills were whisked through the Senate and House on the opening day of this 1957 session. Most members apparently thought the salary increase was nearer the 15 per cent figure than the 20 per cent which it actually was.

The question now is, can teachers and other state employees expect a 20 per cent salary increase this year?

By its own action the legislature has set this new target figure for teachers and state employees. Prior to Wednesday's action in the legislature the general consensus was that most efforts would be directed toward securing a minimum 10 per cent pay hike for those two groups. Even that increase seemed tied—as it still is—to the state's ability to raise sufficient revenue to off-set the additional appropriation.

The manner in which the pay increase for members of the Council of State was handled by the legislature was both hasty and ill-considered. We trust it is not indicative of the consideration which will be given other matters of importance during this session. We trust too that members of the legislature are prepared to make every effort to provide an adequate salary increase to teachers and other state employees who still wait for action.

That Minority Voice In Unions

By ELMER ROESSNER
Union members do not always agree with their officers nor with actions taken by the union itself, a newly announced study shows.

The study was conducted by the Union Services Research Laboratory of the University of Minnesota. In all, 1,251 members of 13 unions and 100 nonunion members were questioned. The results appear in the latest issue of Personnel, published by the American Management Association.

More than four of five union members agreed their union protected them from favoritism and obtained better wages and working conditions. But on most other questions members were not so enthusiastic, and in most cases they had more doubts about typical union policies than their officers did.

ATTITUDES VARY
Those questioned were given certain statements and asked to agree, disagree or indicate they were undecided.

To the statement that workers should not have to join a union to hold a job, 51 per cent disagreed, 38 per cent agreed and 12 per cent were undecided. However, only 16 per cent of the officers agreed; 77 per cent disagreed.

The rank and file was equally divided as to whether the best man should be kept on a job regardless of seniority, although officers strongly disagreed.

With the statement that the union should have something to say about whom the employer hires, 57 per cent of the rank and file disagreed, although only 36 per cent of the officers disagreed.

WANT TO BE CURBED
Twenty-one per cent of the rank and file and 10 per cent of the officers agreed there should be more laws controlling the power of labor unions—surely a surprisingly large minority. Only 7 per cent of the rank and file thought their union dues were too low, but 31 per cent of the officers thought that was the case.

To the statement, "We give our delegates too much money to spend when they go to conventions," 17 per cent agreed, 37 per cent dissented and 46 per cent were undecided. And while the 16 per cent of the officers (who are also frequently delegates) agreed, only 19 per cent were undecided and a hefty 63 per cent indicated that money was not being wasted.

DOUBT ON UNITY
One of the most significant questions was: "In case of strike, I'm sure we'd stick together." The answers in percentages: Officers: 72 agreed, 11 Disagreed, 16 were undecided. Rank & File: 67 agreed, 10 Disagreed and 23 were undecided.

If the question was "loaded," it was surely loaded on the side of union unity, but doubters constitute a sizable minority. Other questions turned up some interesting facts of members' minds: While 90 per cent of the officers thought they were doing a good job, only 73 per cent of the members agreed; 58 per cent of the officers thought they were chosen because they were "real leaders," while only 55 per cent of the rank and file had that idea.

To the statement that it is practically impossible to elect different officers in the national union, 16 per cent of the rank and file agreed, 36 per cent disagreed and 48 per cent were undecided. Among officers, 21 per cent agreed, 51 per cent disagreed and 28 per cent were undecided.

In general, the answers indicate that members do not blindly accept their leaders' dictums and maintain a democratic right to make their own decisions.

Hodges, Scott On 2 Platforms

By LYNN NISBET
CONFLICT—Governor Luther Hodges and Senator Kerr Scott will be speaking from different platforms in Raleigh at the same time next Monday night.

When the North Carolina Bankers Association and North Carolina State College months ago arranged the third annual Farm Credit Conference for the second week in February and invited Senator Scott to speak on Monday night and Rep. Harold Cooley to introduce him, they had no idea Governor Hodges would be delivering his biennial message to the 1957 General Assembly at the same hour.

Both events are to be staged in State owned buildings. The Governor will address the joint session in the hall of the House in the ancient capitol, while the Senator and the Representative in Congress will appear on the stage in the Union building on State College campus.

This juxtaposition of prominent speakers would not attract attention, except for the fact that many people believe Governor Hodges aspires to unseat Senator Scott in 1960—and the Senator has other ideas about that. Any factional political significance that might attach to the situation is discounted by two facts: First, the Senator's date was made long before the time of the Governor's speech was fixed; and, if it was a political move the bankers would hardly be found backing Scott against Hodges.

Even so, and despite the different approaches—Scott largely at national and Hodges at State level—the politically-minded will be more interested in the comments of both than if they were not speaking at the same time. DOUGHTON—When James Kemp Doughton of Allegheny took the oath as Speaker of the 1957 House of Representatives he was following in the 66-year old footsteps of his distinguished father. The late Rufus A. Doughton took the gavel as Speaker of the House in 1891. He went on to become Lieutenant Governor in 1893. Subsequently he returned to membership in the House, and was chairman of the finance committee more times than any man in history. After taking time out to serve as Commissioner of Revenue and chairman of the Highway Commission, he came back to the House in 1933 and headed the finance committee that originated the tax structure which has remained basically the same ever since.

The Speaker's distinguished uncle, the late Robert L. Doughton, served for 42 years in the Congress and gained national recognition as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee that raised taxes to finance the way out of the depression, World War II and the Korean war. Less well known to the present generation and to the country at large than his younger brother, Old Man Rise contributed more to the State of North Carolina than did the Congressman.

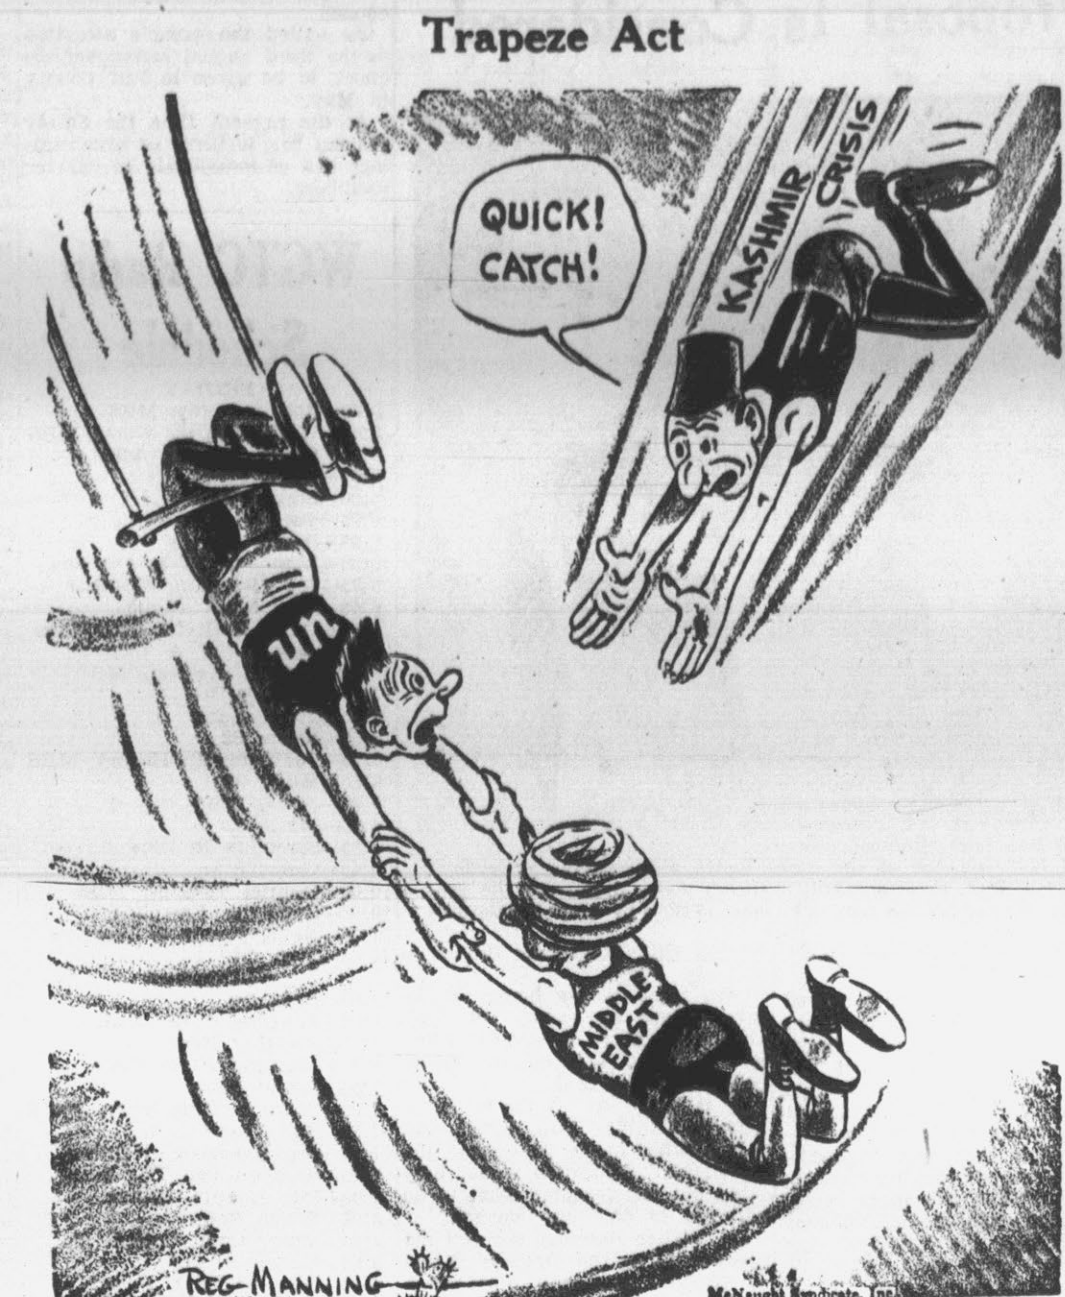

The present Speaker began his political activity too late to emulate the achievement records of his famous kinsmen. At 72 he is unusually active and gives promise of being around in public service a long time.

CUT AWAY—The military designates nearly all its projects as "operations." Like "Operation Manhattan" for the atom bomb experiments. When the sergeant-clerk in the 30th Division National Guard Headquarters was asked to make up a file on the inauguration exercises, he had visions of forked tail coats and quite logically labeled the file "Operation Cut-away."

McBEE Among the oldest members of the General Assembly, if not the oldest, is Senator John C. McBee of Mitchell county, one of the three Republicans in the Senate. Appointed by Governor Cameron Morrison as a member of the first really active State highway commission 36 years ago, his main interest is still good roads.

There was a State highway commission as far back as 1913 when Governor Locke Craig was in office, and Governor Walter Bickett in 1919 brought Frank Page to the chairmanship. But the first time any State money of consequence was available for highways was in 1921 when a $50 million bond issue was authorized. The reason Cameron Morrison appointed McBee to the first effective commission was because the state required that ratio of Republican representation.

MARCHING SOLDIERS—When soldiers go into battle action they march nonchalantly through fire and flood, bramble patches and rough rocks, and into the mouths of flaming guns. When they parade for display the object is to look pretty rather than to get somewhere in spite of hell. So it is that a little thing a pedestrian traffic island on Fayetteville street required the inaugural parade to stick to one side of the thoroughfare rather than march down the middle.

Serenades In The Night

By DON SCHLIENZ
If there is ever a poll as to the most mournful noise in the night, make mine the love song of two forlorn felines as they wail their amorous theme under a star-speckled sky.

Normally a cat is content with an occasional chirrup, or plaintive "meow-w-w" at the screen door... begging for entry. And once in a great while you'll see a lonesome stray wandering aimlessly and giving forth with intermittent loud calls for attention. But when the old love-bug bites, cats aren't content with ordinary vocalizing.

Their voices range from a low-pitched drooping note to a high, quavering minor key; and the octaves in between are filled with a host of eerie sounds that come in unpredictable sequence. The result, to human eardrums, is nerve-shattering.

Would-be sleepers (human, that is) face a double hazard, however, because these moans and soaring wails are strictly due material; if it takes two to tango, it also takes two cats to make music together. There are no soloists; and the combined vocal offering rubs nerves raw on both sides.

Combine the sounds of a police car siren, a crying baby, an exuberant beginner on the oboe, and selected bits of a soundtrack from an old Tarzan movie: mix well, and you roughly approach the love-lick song of Tom and Tabby.

Our feline version of Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald usually choose to snore well after ordinary people have gone to bed—and the irate householder may not see his unwelcome guests at first or even second glance because they choose shadowy places for their nocturnal rendezvous. But perseverance will prevail, and with diligence the searcher can shoe them away, as well he must, for cats apparently are willing to while away hours at a stretch in musical dalliance.

This preoccupation with caterwauling is not accident. There was a preview of spring in these parts last Monday, and two enraptured cats sang their songs near my window long after the time for sleep.

There was a preview of spring in these parts last Monday, and two enraptured cats sang their songs near my window long after the time for sleep.

To cats it was probably a thing of beauty. To me, no. To each his own, I always say.

Other Editors Saying--- Problem Of Secrecy

(Chattanooga News-Free Press)
There seems to be a growing conviction throughout the country that the degree of secrecy which treated juvenile crime has been treated is not wise and perhaps tends to encourage youthful criminality where, in certain cases, some proper publicity might deter it.

This is a difficult problem. There is good reason for the names and offenses of youngsters who make a slip to be kept secret if secrecy can prevent an offender's being branded as a criminal by society and if there are no more offenses. But there are some youngsters who take advantage of the secrecy provision and the generally mild treatment that juvenile courts deal out, and run wild with a whole chain of law violations which they know will be kept secret and not be seriously punished.

In an attempt to face up to this problem, New York State's Temporary Commission on the Courts has recommended amendments to the Youth Court Law which would allow inspection and publication of records of arrest, crime charged and disposition of cases within a three-month period following arrest, and would make discretionary with the judge in youth court proceedings whether they should be private.

Down in Georgia, the Legislature is considering a bill designed to remove the shield of secrecy from youthful violators of traffic laws at the time of a second offense.

Some other states make juvenile crime records readily available, with the cooperation of newspapers which conscientiously seek to avoid damaging use of juvenile court records.

The widespread consideration of this problem and the various approaches made toward solution or improvement of the handling of the cases of juvenile offenders is indication of growing realization that secrecy can be a handicap.

Opinions In Brief

ONIDA, S. D., WATCHMAN: "We think the example of some members of the Hungarian Olympic team is refusing to go home, and willing to give up their homes, their country, their friendships and kinships, is the most dramatic proof possible of the emptiness of Communism."

'Final Desecration' Of Historic Acre

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Final desecration of the most historic acre of land in the United States is assured as a result of the Administration's decision to build a $30,000,000 office structure housing almost 4,000 workers along Lafayette Square in the District of Columbia.

Lafayette Square, a leafy and forested park fronting the White House, ranks in beauty and legend with the Place de la Concorde in Paris, St. James Park and Trafalgar Square in London, the ancient Forum in Rome and the Agora in Athens. American figures as famous as Napoleon, Nelson, Caesar and Socrates once walked this rich acre of earth.

For years there have been suggestions that Lafayette Square be restored to its original state in the manner that the Rockefeller family have remade Williamsburg, Va., to its colonial likeness. But commerce and government have invaded this sacred place. Restoration proposals have come to nothing, and now an unromantic Uncle Sam will wipe out its last links with the nation's birth and growth. HISTORIC PERSONALITIES LIVED HERE On one corner of this fabulous acre-of-land, Daniel Webster wrote his bristling replies to Hayne and Calhoun, which did so much to glorify and to preserve the Union. Across the street stood the residence of Banker W. W. Corcoran, who helped to finance the hard-pressed Union in the Civil War and gave Washington its first great art gallery before "Andy" Mellon outdid him.

Down the same street—H—lived Lincoln's private secretary, John Hay, in a house which was subsequently inhabited by Judah Benjamin, one of the Confederacy's ablest and kindest leaders and Cabinet members. Next door lived Henry Adams, author of the classic "Education of Henry Adams," and a member of the great Bay State Adams tribe, which gave us two Presidents.

On the corner now occupied by the Veterans Administration building stood the old Arlington Hotel. Perhaps the most important political hostility in the United States, it has housed, wined and dined visiting royalty, some of our greatest Presidents and every military hero since George Washington's day.

Catty-cornered from this site stands the balcony and vivid dwelling where Dolley Madison entertained, and whence she fled in her nightgown to escape a midnight fire.

Next door was the house where one of John Wilkes Booth's co-conspirators tried to kill Edwin Stanton, Lincoln's Secretary of War. In this same house lived the man who brought the first mule to the United States. And here resided Chief Justice Taney, whose Dred Scott decision helped to precipitate the Civil War. FAMOUS SCANDAL RESULTED IN TRAGEDY On this Square, too, the "incredible Siekles" murdered in cold blood Philip Barton Key, son of the author of "The Star Spangled Banner." The victim of the shooting had been too friendly, according to court evidence, with the Tammany General's young and beautiful wife. Siekles was acquitted, but his wife was condemned and shunned by Washington society.

Across the Square, on Jackson Place, Teddy Roosevelt and his rambunctious brood dwell in

Young Chess Genius

NEW YORK (AP)—A quiet group huddled around a table in the corner of the Marshall Chess Club, watching an almost unbelievable game.

The players were Donald Byrne, a chess master, and Bobby Fischer, a 13-year-old Brooklyn schoolboy playing in his first major tournament.

Time and again—with bold, surprising moves—Bobby outfoxed his more experienced opponent.

"Impossible," whispered one of the onlookers. "Byrne is losing to a 13-year-old nobody."

"Mate," said this "nobody," and the game was over. Bobby had earned his first victory in the Lessing J. Rosenwald Trophy Tournament.

Chess Review magazine called it the "game of the century—a stunning masterpiece of combination play performed by a boy of 13 against a formidable opponent, matching the finest on record in the history of chess prodigies."

Bobby didn't win the Rosenwald tournament—the trophy went to Sammy Reshevsky, the ranking U.S. player—but the crew-cut youngster who would rather play chess than eat established himself as a young man to watch.

New York chess enthusiasts have recognized Bobby's ability for several years.

Hans Kmoch, secretary-manager of the Manhattan Chess Club, says:

"For his age, I don't think there is any better chess player in the world. He is a genuine prodigy and one of the best players in our club."

Bobby appears embarrassed by all the attention he has drawn since he defeated Byrne.

"I just made the moves I thought were best," he says modestly. "I was just lucky."

Where did he learn the game? "My sister taught me when I was 5," he says. "She was 12 and didn't know too much about the game, but she told me where and how to move the pieces. I liked it and have been playing it ever since."

Does he want to continue playing the game and perhaps become one of the great players? "I could play chess all my life," he answers shyly. "I like tournaments and would like to play in a lot of them. As for being great, I don't know about that."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
WHY IS TO BLAME?
Recently I read a book in which the writer took the position that every man is his own devil. We are self-entitled, he claims. We create our own hell, and live in it.

Regardless of whether one would go that far or not, certainly it is true that most of the evil and unhappiness of our lives is of our own making. Let us not try to blame it on heredity or environment—let us put the blame where it belongs, namely on ourselves, in the realm of our own selfishness and willfulness. We bedevil ourselves and then complain about how hard the world is on us. We try to grab everything we can lay our hands on and when we get a sharp rap across the knuckles, we set up a wail and say there is no justice in the world.

We can avoid most of the evils of life if we will. Most temptations never come very near to us and we can start running if they do. The truth is that most of us don't want to start running. We live within the little orbit of our own selfish desires.

Robert Louis Stevenson once wrote, "Into every part and corner of our life, to lose oneself is to be the gainer; to forget oneself is to be happy."

We spend most of our lives trying to find happiness and few people find it.

Warning and Invitation of Jesus

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 11-12.

When John, in prison, heard the wonders that Jesus wrought, he sent two of his disciples to ask Him, "Art Thou He who should come, or do we look for another?"

When the men questioned Jesus He said, "Go and show John again those things which you hear and see: the blind receive sight, the lame walk, lepers are cleansed, and the dead are raised."

On a Sabbath Jesus and His disciples walked through a corn field. The disciples, hungry, plucked ears and ate. The Pharisees, seeing this, complained that they did that which was unlawful.

Seeing a man with a withered hand in the synagogue, Pharisees asked if it was lawful to heal on the Sabbath. Jesus healed the hand.

MEMORY VERSE—Matthew 11:28-29.

Warning and Invitation of Jesus

CHRIST CAN GIVE US REST IF WE TRUST HIM

—Scripture—Matthew 11-12.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

JOHN the Baptist, in his prison, hearing of the wonders Jesus wrought, wondered if this man really was the Christ whose coming he had prophesied, or an imposter. He called two of his disciples and sent them to question Jesus, and to bring him their report.

Jesus answered them: "Go and show John again those things which ye do hear and see: the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached to them."

After the men returned to John, Jesus spoke words of high praise to the multitudes, saying: "Verily I say unto you, among them that are born of women there hath not arisen a greater than John the Baptist." He also called John a prophet "and more than a prophet. For this is he of whom it is written, Behold, I send My messenger before Thy Father; neither knoweth any man the Father, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal Him."

"Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn of Me; for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest unto your souls."

How many a weary and troubled person—even little children—have repeated those sublime words and turned to Christ for help, finding rest and peace thereby.

On a Sabbath day Jesus and His disciples walked through a corn field. Those with Jesus were hungry and plucked ears of corn and ate them. The Pharisees who seem often to have been present, watching Him and hoping to accuse Him, said it was not lawful to pick the grain on the Sabbath. Jesus said the Son of man was Lord even of the Sabbath, and reminded them that David had eaten the temple bread when he face, which shall prepare the way before Thee."

Then Christ deplored the generation's disbelief and rejection of Him. "John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, He hath a devil. The Son of man came eating and drinking, and they say, Behold a man gluttonous, and a winebibber, a friend of publicans and sinners," Jesus said.

Then He upbraided the cities where most of His miracles were performed, because they did not repent of their sins, saying that if His mighty works had been done in Tyre and Sidon, the people there would have repented in sackcloth and ashes, and He warned them of a terrible fate in store for them.

Jesus prayed: "I thank Thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because Thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes."

All things came to Him from His Father, said Jesus, "and no man knoweth the Son but the Father, and He whom the Father will, whom He desireth to whomsoever He will, whom He desireth to whomsoever He will, whom He desireth to whomsoever He will."

and those with him needed food. In the synagogue on the Sabbath Christ saw a man with a withered hand and He was asked if it was lawful to heal on the Sabbath. Jesus healed the man's hand, reminding His accusers that if one of their sheep fell into a pit on a Sabbath, the owner would rescue it, "Wherefore it is lawful to do well on the Sabbath days."

As Jesus taught and healed all who came to Him, He was told that His mother and brothers wanted to speak with Him. "Who is My mother? and who are My brethren?" asked Jesus, and, stretching forth His hand toward His disciples, He said, "Behold My mother and My brethren; for whosoever shall do the will of My Father which is in heaven, the same is My brother, and sister, and mother."

While this lesson may seem a little difficult for younger children, I am sure the teacher can make it interesting and find a helpful lesson for them after carefully reading the scripture assigned to us.

THE WIDTH YOU FARM

can cut your costs

Now that Allis-Chalmers has cracked the weight barrier on mounted implements, you can spread your farming width to cut your costs.

Big, tandem disc harrows 10-foot and 12 1/2-foot wide operate like fully-mounted discs while working... ride on rubber elsewhere. You can cut up to 8 feet wider each round, reducing field time and travel distance accordingly. The time you save may be the difference that saves your crop.

Let us show you the new Allis-Chalmers Big-Capacity disc harrows with transport wheels. It's your way to wider farming at lower cost.

Atlantic Christian Cagers Topple Pirates By 76-67

Visitors Cash In On Free Throws

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Editor

A long dry spell ended for Atlantic Christian College last night. The Bulldogs sent a basketball team to Greenville that won in the East Carolina College gym.

It was a clear-cut victory, 76-67, and the first one of the Bulldogs have taken in ECC's Memorial Gym. As a matter of fact, there aren't any records around to show when the Bulldogs have won on East Carolina's home grounds before last night.

Although they were out-shot from the floor, Atlantic Christian's players cashed in from the free throw line to lay claim to the Buckets and an important North State Conference victory. The Bulldogs sank 28 out of 30 attempts from the free throw line to win.

Tow-headed Billy Widgeon, a senior from Newport, was the man who ruined the Pirates, hitting 15 straight shots from the free throw line and taking scoring honors with 29 points. Big John Marley, the tallest college player in the state at seven feet, came in second in the scoring race with 21 points.

The game was a fairly close one but Atlantic Christian led consistently after 13 minutes and 14 seconds of the first half. Widgeon dropped in a pair of free throws at that point to break an 18-18 tie.

Six Tie Scores

Prior to the time Widgeon started his successful trips to the free throw line, the game had seen six tie scores and the lead had changed hands six times. After Widgeon's free throw parade, the Pirates came to within one point two minutes later (24-23) with 5:14 remaining in the half but they could never get the lead again.

East Carolina made two serious threats to cut out the Bulldogs in the second half.

The first of the threats came with 13:13 remaining when Joe Plaster cut the margin to 51-47. The Bulldogs ran their lead back to ten points pretty quickly when Widgeon, Jack Underwood and

Howie Johnson Leads At Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Talkative Howie Johnson, a happy-go-lucky newcomer who licked a heart condition to play golf, led a tightly bunched field into the second round of the $15,000 Tucson Open today.

"Boy, I played good," he gloated over yesterday's 6-under-par 64 on the 6,434-yard El Rio course. "It's the first time I've ever led a pro tournament. I like it."

"I have a good time on the course. I talk all the time. It keeps me loose."

Johnson has had health problems since he was a youngster in St. Paul, Minn. Rheumatic fever damaged his heart, but he was able to play for the University of Minnesota golf team. Then heart trouble put him back in the hospital while he was in the Air Force during World War II.

"I wasn't doing well after I went home to St. Paul so I moved to Houston nine years ago," he said. "Now I'm fine. The doctor said I could play golf so long as my heart doesn't bother me. It doesn't."

Johnson came in late to edge Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, and Joe Zakarian of Modesto, Calif., by one stroke.

Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y., one of the strong favorites, was one of a group of five starting today with 66s.

Coach Porter Is 'Hung' In Effigy

East Carolina College's basketball coach, Howard Porter, was hanged in effigy after last night's 76-67 loss to Atlantic Christian College.

A stuffed dummy, with an "Ivy League" cap pulled low over heavily penciled eyebrows and a cigar in its mouth, was suspended from a tree outside the college's dining hall. A sign reading "Smiley Howard Strategic Porter" was on the dummy.

The effigy was cut down shortly before 9 a.m. It was reportedly put in place sometime during the night by students upset over East Carolina's first home loss to arch-rival Atlantic Christian in many years.

East Carolina's basketball team has a 10-9 record this year.

Girls' Athletic Ass'n Will Form

ROBBINS, N.C. (AP) — A North Carolina High School Girls Athletic Assn. will be organized here March 15 prior to the first All-Star East-West girls basketball game scheduled the following night.

Bob Lee of Aberdeen was named temporary chairman yesterday at a preliminary meeting. He said coaches of all girls' sports were urged to contact him in Aberdeen.

Spring Grid Drills To Begin In ACC

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spring football drills begin tomorrow at two of the eight Atlantic Coast Conference schools and four others will be hard at it within 10 more days.

North Carolina and Duke are the early birds. They will be followed on Saturday of next week by North Carolina State and Wake Forest. Two days later, on Feb. 18, Clemson and South Carolina will launch their workouts.

The "northern" members of the circuit are waiting for what they hope will be warmer weather to start their drills. Virginia begins work on Feb. 25 and Maryland on March 11.

Most schools will have five workouts a week for four weeks, with an intrasquad game winding up the work.

Coach Jim Tatum had set Feb. 2 as the starting date for North Carolina drills, but delayed it a week in the hope of more favorable weather. However, week-long rains haven't improved the conditions and Tatum plans to go ahead. He looks for 90 candidates to answer the call.

Duke's Bill Murray, also confronted with a problem of a rain-soaked field, left open the possibility of delaying the start of work until Tuesday if the weather continues unfavorable.

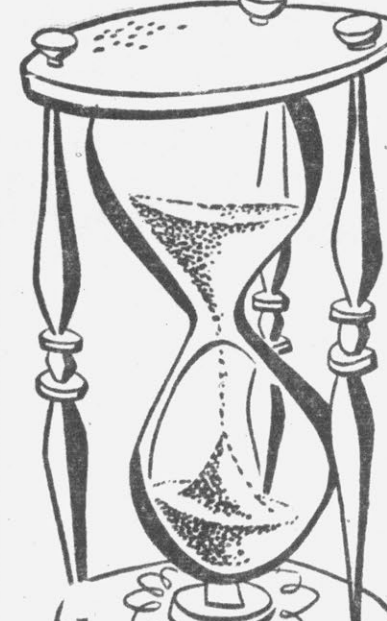

Murray has invited 70 players to take part in the drills. The list includes 25 lettermen and 20 prospects from last fall's freshman forces.

Although there have been several changes on the coaching staffs in the conference, all the head men are back on the job. A year ago there were five head coaches preparing for new assignments.

East Carolina's powerful swimming team trounced the visiting Duke University varsity tankers yesterday afternoon, in Memorial Pool, 75-11.

The victory was the seventh of the season for Coach Ray Martinez' ECC squad. They have lost three and tied one with the University of Georgia. With two matches left on their 1956-57 schedule, the Bucs have already posted their finest season yet in the three years that swimming has been at East Carolina. Among their opponents this year have been such nationally-recognized teams as VMI, Southern Conference champions, North Carolina, ACC champions and fifth-ranked in the nation, Washington and Lee, VPI, South Carolina, Wake Forest, Duke and Georgia.

A Clean Sweep

East Carolina's alert mermen made a clean sweep of the match, taking every first place event in the 10-event affair, and claiming all but one second place.

Duke Coach Jack Persons was stripped of almost every honor, but did manage to pull down 11 points on minor places.

Jim Meads and Harold McKee captured two firsts each for East Carolina to lead the club. Meads took top positions in the 100 yard freestyle and the 50 yard freestyle and also swam in the winning 400 yard freestyle relay quartet. McKee nabbed his firsts in the 440 yard freestyle and the 220 yard freestyle.

Bob Sawyer, ECC's top candidate for national All-America honors, snared his usual first place in the 200 yard backstroke event, with a flying time of 2:21. Sawyer has been defeated in this event only once this year. That loss was to North Carolina All-America Charlie Krepp, who nosed out the ECC star by only five-tenths of a second.

Other Firsts

Other first places recorded by East Carolinians, were awarded to Jack Koebberling in the 200 yard breaststroke, Dick Oliver in the 200 yard butterfly, and Ken Midette in diving.

Coach Martinez' crew piled up a tremendous amount of points in second place victories. They took every second place in the match, with the exception of the 200 yard backstroke. Duke's Eisey nabbed that position.

Scoring for the Bucs in seconds, were Williamson, Wilkerson, Gartman, Oliver and Dwyer. Mike Williamson and Steve Wilkerson took two second places each.

Biggest Victory

The triumph over Duke yesterday afternoon was East Carolina's most devastating victory of the season. Just last week they trampled Wake Forest 53-23 and VPI 58-33 on the road, breaking a host of records in the process. With each match, it seems, the Pirates have shown definite and steady improvement.

On Monday, Coach Martinez and his boys will travel to Chapel Hill to engage in the North Carolina Collegiate Championships, which will feature some of the South's strongest clubs.

On February 15, Wake Forest will journey to Memorial Pool for the Pirates' final match of the season.

The summary:

40-yard medley relay — ECC (Sawyer, Koebberling, Gartman, Denton). 1:17.2; 220 freestyle — McGee (ECC), Williamson (ECC), Auston (D). 2:28.3; 50-yard freestyle — Meads (ECC), Wilkerson (ECC), Hugg (D). 24.8; 200 butterfly — Oliver (ECC), Dartmouth (ECC), Hopphe (D). 2:38.8. Diving — Midgett (ECC), 217. Dwyer (ECC), Jones (D); 100 freestyle — Meads (ECC), Wilkerson (ECC), Farmer (D). 56.4; 200 backstroke — Sawyer (ECC), Eisey

(D), Thompson (D), 2:21.1; 440 freestyle — McKee (ECC), Williamson (ECC), Lovejoy (D), 4:13.3; 200 breaststroke — Koebberling (ECC), Oliver (ECC), Pickens (D). 2:24.4; 400 freestyle relay — ECC (Meads, Denton, Sawyer, McKee), 3:42.3.

Roanoke Rapids' At GHS Tonight

Roanoke Rapids invades the GHS gymnasium tonight, rated 18-point underdogs to the Greenville Phantoms.

In the second Northeastern Conference meeting of these two clubs, Coach Boley Farley's third-place G-Men are expected to rack up their sixth loop win of the season against only two losses.

Farley's club trounced the Yellow Jackets 59-44 earlier at Roanoke Rapids.

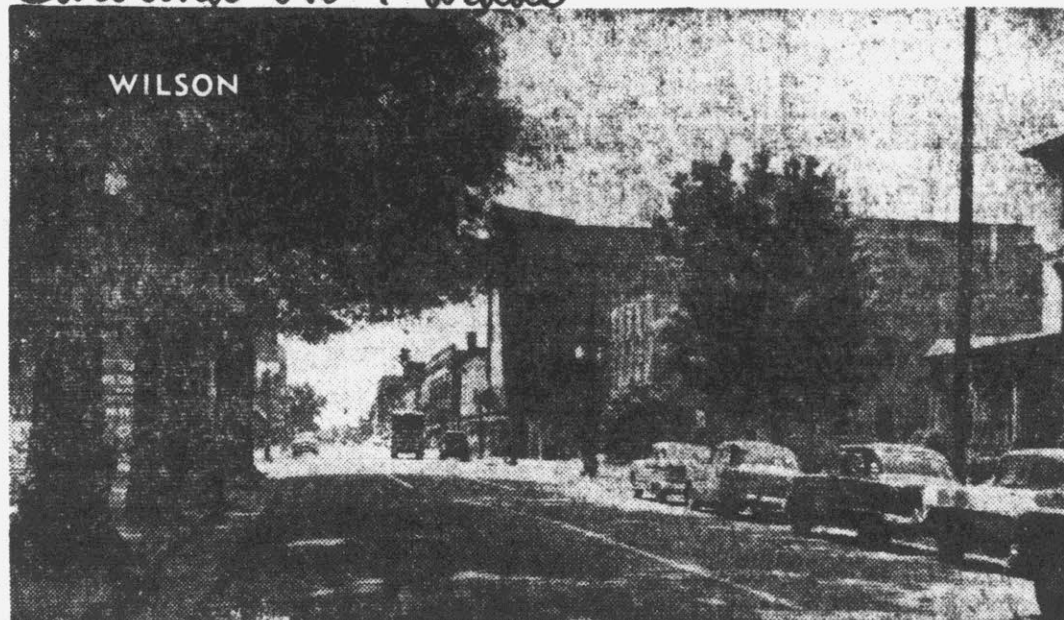

Whether or not Farley will have his team running from the fast-break or possession formations, is not known. That he will continue to employ the two-plateau system that has been so effective this season, is certain.

Expected to handle starting positions tonight are Mack Roebuck and Bobby Edwards at guards; Peanut Nunn and Charlie Smith at forwards and Albert Crawfords at center. The alternating quintet will be composed of Wesley Hudson and Walker Allen at guards; Billy Cox and Dick Evans at forwards and Steve Noble at center.

A jayvee contest is slated for 6:30, with the varsity game beginning at 8:00.

A ringing example of the increasing importance of rapid, dependable telephone service is reflected by Wilson's 105 per cent gain in telephones during the past ten years. In 1946, Wilson had 3,718 telephones. Today Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company is serving Wilson with fast and reliable service with more than 7,700 telephones.

In meeting the demand for expanded service, Carolina Telephone has increased its investment for plant and central office facilities in Wilson from $571,681.00 in 1946 to $2,412,248.00 in 1956 . . . an investment increase of 322 per cent during the ten year period. Aside from capital investment, the telephone company's annual payroll in Wilson approximates $250,000.00.

Responsible for the operation of the telephone company's intricate automatic dial equipment, switchboards, lines, plant and commercial office in Wilson are some 90 members of the Carolina Telephone service team. They, along with approximately 2,000 other members of the telephone company family throughout Eastern Carolina have but one purpose: to build efficient and appreciated telephone service at the lowest possible cost.

Rep. Jones . . .

and he intends to support legislation which would permit local units to run their own affairs. "We have to decentralize government," Jones says, "and the best way to do it is give local officials the authority to settle local affairs. It's better that way because folks in a particular county know best what's for the common good of that county and will act accordingly."

Jones, as a legislator, believes strongly in following local opinion and legal provisions in legislative procedure. He cites, for instance, the cry being made for reapportionment of representation in the General Assembly. Under the proposed reapportionment plan, Pitt County would stand to lose one of its two representatives and possibly its senator.

"My reaction to the proposal is this: We are operating under the constitution; therefore, it is out of order and inconsistent to even talk about reapportionment at this time," Jones says. "The constitution says the legislature shall reapportion itself after each national census and that reapportionment shall remain until after the next national census," Jones explains. "I don't feel we can accurately consider the 1950 census in 1957."

"I would, however, vote for reapportionment in 1961 (the first legislative session after the next national census) for the same reason I won't support it now." Local opinion will figure strongly in Jones' final votes on adjusting tax laws, something that has been recommended by the Tax Study Commission.

No "Package Deal" "I will not accept a 'package deal' from the tax people and won't agree to blindly support all the proposals. I have talked to many people in the county about various aspects of the proposals and will make decisions after hearing discussions in the General Assembly."

Tied in with Jones' general ideas on tax issues will be a final decision on salary increases for school teachers and other state employees. He feels that any increase in salaries are going to mean increases in revenue.

"There isn't much question about raising salaries except to ask 'how much?' and I'll certainly do everything I can to help find enough revenue to raise wages of state employees and teachers," Jones says. He explains further that he felt the requested ten per cent raise was "an absolute minimum."

In addition to salary increases, a couple of other revenue requests are pretty close to Jones' heart. He thinks both of them — obtaining funds to build a home for Pitt's Mental Health Service and setting up a collegiate nursing school at East Carolina — have a good chance of passing. Jones believes the $35,000 request to build a wing on the Health Department building for the Mental Health Service has an especially good chance of passing. "I see no sensible argument for our county to have to support something that serves 22 counties. The measure should pass."

particularly from Eastern North Carolina legislators. Other measures that Jones will have to contend with before the legislature adjourns is a proposal to reorganize the State Highway Commission, another to divorce the prison department from the highway commission, and several that will affect the State Highway Patrol and other agencies of the Department of Motor Vehicles. He believes separation of the highway commission and the prison department is long overdue and gives "a blanket endorsement" to the idea. He isn't so sure about the reorganization of the highway commission, however. "The idea is generally good but I want to hear the discussions before I make up my mind. It is a desirable situation, however," he says. He isn't too sure, either, about the wisdom of giving the Highway Patrol permission to use unmarked cars. He wants to be convinced it would be a major asset for the patrol to have such vehicles. He feels the same way about using chemical tests in drunken driving situations. He wants to be sure that they are authentic and reliable before he'll give them any support. Jones is not committing himself on the idea of mechanical inspections for vehicles but he has already established a clear-cut position on the question of compulsory liability insurance for automobile owners. He will introduce a bill calling for such insurance.

ELIZABETH SEIFERT'S NEW NOVEL A Call for Doctor Barton

SYNOPSIS
Doctor Grady Barton, on vacation from a large hospital in Chicago, stops for gas at the small town of Green Holly, Wisconsin, and runs into an emergency. Frank Seddens, long-time resident of the town, is stricken with a high blood pressure attack at the station and Grady comes to his aid. Seddens is impressed with the young doctor's ability and asks him to consider a practice in the town, which is without a doctor. It is a tempting offer — Grady is tired of the hospital routine and wants a general practice. Besides, his wife, Gisela, is divoring him and he wants to "get away" and start a new life. Grady returns to Chicago and his job as an admissions physician. He is unhappy with the duty because of the amount of paper work involved. After a few days, Grady receives from Seddens an invitation to be interviewed by the town committee. At the meeting at the Seddens home, a prejudiced, aggressive man called Kopp says that the doctor of their choice should be a settled man with a family. Grady replies hastily: "I am married." He accepts the position offered him and starts practicing in his new office. At a dinner party Grady meets June Cowan, a lovely girl who had made a strong impression in his mind when he had seen her on his first visit to Green Holly. Grady thereafter manages to meet her often when she is walking her dog, Candy. But the dog makes a poor chaperone against town gossip.

CHAPTER 12
Grady Barton was busy, he was happy, he was content. Pearl Broni gave him a few hours each day, and he was doing well domestically and professionally. His first important case, little Judy Nolan, had come along fine. It was a break, he knew, that this early case should have turned out so dramatically well. It made people talk about him, perhaps with an exaggeration of his ability; but that exaggeration would temper with time, and it was a good thing with which to start his work. People liked to dramatize a doctor's ability, his skill. They wanted excessive powers for the man to whom they would trust their lives.

Meanwhile he was liked, too, and could like his neighbors, in turn. He tried to serve them in many ways. He conducted health examinations at the schools, he started a well-baby clinic to be held once a month. He did the usual thing in advising the children's parents, in coaxing them. Before the PTA, he gave a talk on the value of proper diet. In general, the results of these efforts were encouraging, and he was happy about them.

He had, in six weeks, become a popular man; he was frequently invited out, not only by his initial group of friends among those on the committee which had brought him to the Hollies, but by others whom he came to know. Holly Neighbors had a rather gay set of young married people, and he was often included in their parties. Miss Nellie still kept him under her wing, and he ate a meal at their house about once a week. He had other invitations of varihome, pick up June, then go on with her for her girl friend, Virginia Spencer, and Virginia's fiancé, Henry Preston, whom Grady also knew through the Lions. After choir practice, the foursome would have a snack at Payne's drugstore or in one of the girls' homes. It was a pleasant arrangement.

Mo Chronister couldn't carry a tune in a bucket. He said so himself. He didn't go to church very often either.

The new doctor did. People approved of that.

The week before Christmas, June found that Grady was not planning to spend Christmas with his wife. When she had asked him, and he had answered somewhat grimly, "No, I don't think I'll try that," she smilingly invited him to eat Christmas dinner with her and the judge. And Grady gladly accepted.

Kremlin Moves To Incite Hate Of West In Army

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Kremlin appears to be seriously concerned at the state of morale in the Soviet army. A campaign has been under way for several weeks to intensify Communist political work in the armed forces.

This is part of a general drive against ferment and discontent that developed out of last year's "de-Stalinization" campaign, the events in Poland and Hungary, and the general atmosphere of the post-Stalin era.

The steam being put behind the effort in the armed forces seems to indicate that the Soviet leadership considers it a weak spot on the psychological front. "Ideological work in the ranks must become militantly offensive," declared Lt. Gen. F. A. Dudovsky, director of the Political Bureau of the Moscow Military District, at a conference in Moscow last month.

Nice Day, For Boy With Cake

SUNLAND, Calif. (AP) — "Nice day," said the little boy who was sitting on the doorstep, eating a piece of cake, when Mrs. Evelyn Way came home.

"Nice day," Mrs. Way agreed. Then she went inside. She found: Eighty-eight dollars was missing from her purse.

A freshly baked cake was missing from her kitchen. Her dog was locked in the bathroom, eating a piece of cake with which he evidently had been lured there yesterday afternoon.

Too late Mrs. Way remembered the doorstep. . . . The little boy was gone.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK—A wave of selling drove already lower stock market prices down to a critical point early this afternoon.

Leading stocks dropped fractions to around 2 points in a sinking spell but prices held there as pressure eased.

Wall Street observers have been expecting a valid "test" of this low point on the average, which has held on several occasions during the past year or so.

Whether the market would rally from this, as it has before, or penetrate the barrier to reach lower ground from which to advance, was the question.

Of significance was the fact that General Motors, the "biggest" stock on the exchange, dropped below 40 for the first time since this stock was split 3-for-1 in 1955. Its decline, however, was only fractional and the stock was selling ex-dividend which would automatically call for a lower price.

New lows were also reached by Union Carbide, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Textron and Burlington Industries among many others.

Caterpillar and International Nickel were down 2 or more.

Losses of around a point or so were taken by Boeing, Douglas and United Aircraft, General Dynamics, Kennecott Copper, Baltimore & Ohio, Standard Oil (New Jersey) and United Airlines.

The decline was general, affecting all major divisions.

Chrysler opened firm despite an 80 per cent drop in its earnings in 1956 from 1955. The earnings report had apparently been well discounted by the market. During the sinking spell it lost a fraction.

tion but later recovered. Burlington Industries and Textron were lower following pessimistic statements from these companies on dividend prospects.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down $1.10 to $172.00 with the industrials down $1.80, the rails down $1.00 and the utilities down 20 cents.

Crime Prevention Week Is Designated

DISTRIBUTE CARDS—Scouts tomorrow will distribute cards door-to-door urging citizens to go to church Sunday as a part of the observance of Nation Crime Prevention Week. Above (left to right) Scouts Fred Baker, Cliff Fleming and Jimmy Newman place a card on a front door. The boys are members of Troop 386 which is sponsored by St. Paul's Episcopal Church. The week of February 10-16 has been designated National Crime Prevention Week by the National Exchange Club and the program is backed by Exchange Clubs throughout the United States.

Sunday February 10 has been set as GO-TO-CHURCH Sunday and through the cooperation of the Boy Scouts in Greenville 5,000 cards will be placed in the front doors of homes in the city urging the residents to attend church Sunday. Ministers of the city have been furnished facts regarding crime in the United States and have been asked to bring this to the attention of their congregations and tell what can be done about it.

During the coming week the Exchange Club of Greenville will have special programs at three Parent Teachers meetings. At high school assemblies at Greenville High School and Eppes High School a representative of the State Bureau of Investigation is scheduled to talk.

A proclamation has been signed by Mayor W.L. Whedbee asking the citizens of Greenville to cooperate "in order to fight the source of crime and protect our homes and people."

With the cooperation of Chief of Police S.G. Gibbs an "open house" will be held at the Greenville Police Department on Wednesday February 13 from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and from 1:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., at which time members of the department will have on display the equipment of the department and arms removed from persons taken into custody. During the week all of the members of the Police Department will wear "Know Your Policeman" tags and the Exchange Club urges everyone in the city to become better acquainted with the members of the department.

Exchanges have placed window posters in business establishments to remind, the community of Crime Prevention Week. The club has arranged for special radio and television programs during the week.

Members of the special committee of the local club are Luther Moore, Harold Holcombe, David W. Hardee, Carl Wade, R.S. Moyer, Jake Hadley, H.T. Patterson, Ed Harris, Herbert Lee, Jack Wallace and Ed Parkinson.

More Than 500 Cub Scouts And Parents Attend Event

Over 500 Cub Scouts and their parents celebrated the 47th anniversary of scouting at a Pitt District "Blue and Gold" banquet at the Greenville Moose Temple Thursday night.

James B. Mallory, Pitt District chairman, presided. He said this was the largest "Scout Week" banquet ever held in the district.

Cub Pack 9, Immanuel Baptist Church, Floyd Warren, scoutmaster, won the attendance trophy. They had almost 400 per cent attendance, Mallory stated.

The following Cub packs were represented: No. 9, Immanuel Church; No. 205, Memorial Baptist Church; No. 385, St. James Methodist; and No. 330, Jarvis Memorial Methodist, all of Greenville; No. 15, Rotary Club of Bethel; No. 25, Rotary Club of Farmville; No. 200, Winterville Christian Church; No. 34, Ayden Rotary Club; and No. 374, Fountain Lions Club.

Erskine Duff, Pitt District chairman, made the welcoming address and introduced special guests, including O. B. Roberts, Scout executive of East Carolina Council Boy Scouts of America.

John Behr, Pitt District Scout commissioner, recognized all Cub packs and leaders present.

Dr. Keith Holmes, Pitt District training chairman, led in group singing while playing an electrical guitar.

Charlie Briggs and Hal V. Stout, East Carolina College students, presented a skit on "What It Was—Was Football."

Rev. Stanley Howard, Baptist minister from Tarboro, functioned as a cartoonist and gave a ventriloquist skit, using his little man, "Handy Andy."

Carl Knott, Pitt District Scout executive, recognized all Cub Scouts who will become 11 years old this year and transfer to Boy Scouting troops. He led the closing ceremony for the "Blue and Gold," which was, everyone repeating the Cub Scout promise.
