

Searchers Find Body In Tar River

The body of Mrs. Eva B. Scott is covered by police and fire department personnel after being taken from Tar River this morning. Mrs. Scott had been missing since yesterday afternoon. Her death was ruled as suicide by Coroner Griffin H. Rouse who examined the body shortly after it was pulled from the flooding river. (Reflector Staff Photo.)

Hobgood Woman's Death Is Ruled Suicide By Coroner

By JIMMY ELLIS Reflector Staff Writer The muddy flood waters of Tar River took their first 1957 victim yesterday and gave up the body this morning. The victim was identified by relatives as Mrs. Eva Louise Bailey Scott, 35, of 1013 Sycamore Street, Hobgood. She is survived by her husband, Ben Scott of Hobgood, and three children. Mrs. Scott's death was ruled suicide by Coroner Griffin H. Rouse. There were no marks on the body, which was fully clothed, except for one shoe. Lyman Nethercutt of the Fire Department's Rescue Squad found the body about 10:15 a.m. today. Mrs. Scott had been missing since 1 p.m. yesterday after getting out of a physician's car at the corner of Third and Washington streets. The body was found a few yards east of the foot of Pitt Street in about two feet of water. Swirling flood waters of the river had apparently pushed the body into a relatively calm spot about eight feet from shore, at the foot of a high bluff. The dead woman's coat and hand bag were found on the bluff almost directly above where the body was found. According to relatives of Mrs. Scott, she had come to Greenville yesterday to visit the Mental Health Clinic. There were two prescriptions in her hand bag from Dr. Joseph D. Franzoni, director of the clinic.

After leaving the clinic, the woman visited the offices of another physician, near Pitt Memorial Hospital. The doctor she had gone to see was not in and she accepted a ride back into town from her physician's associate. The doctor who rode Mrs. Scott back into town said she was "not a big upset" at the time. He added, "The whole conversation we had was very coherent and intelligent. She was coming back into town to visit her aunt, Mrs. Clarence Taylor, until her doctor got into his office." Mrs. Scott left the doctor's car at the corner of Third and Washington streets where, the doctor said, "she recognized where she was." The intersection is only a short distance from Mrs. Taylor's home. Mrs. Scott was not seen again until her body was found this morning. An intensive search was made by members of her family yesterday and members of the Rescue Squad were requested to search the river this morning. The body was found shortly after the search was initiated.

Urge Readiness For New Revolt

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Internal Security subcommittee said today the United Nations should have "a plan of action" ready for a predicted renewal of bloody anti-Soviet revolt in Hungary. Sen. Hruska (R-Neb.), acting subcommittee chairman, made public a letter to Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U. S. delegate to the United Nations, asking Lodge to pass the subcommittee's views to the U. N. He sent Lodge a transcript of testimony from two Hungarian refugees at a subcommittee hearing last week. Both said an anti-Communist, anti-Soviet underground in Hungary was planning a new uprising, to be launched on a greater scale than the bloody Hungarian revolution in October unless the West acts soon to help them get free from Soviet rule. One witness had identified himself as Dezso Fonyasi, an emissary from the underground Hungarian Revolutionary Council, and the other as Eugene Szeredas, vice president of the Workers Revolutionary Council.

Cairo Reports Arabia Will Buy Arms From U. S.

CAIRO (AP)—The newspaper Al-Gumhuriya said today the United States will sell Saudi Arabia 50 million dollars worth of arms under agreements reached between President Eisenhower and King Saud. A dispatch from the newspaper's Washington correspondent said officials of the two countries have completed the draft of the agreement resulting from the recent meeting of Saud and Eisenhower. The story said it covered these five major points: 1. The United States will supply Saudi Arabia with 50 million dollars worth of arms for land, sea and air defense. 2. The United States will undertake the training of Saudi Arabia's army. 3. Ten million dollars will be spent to expand the U. S. air base at Dhahran to provide facilities for commercial aircraft. 4. Saudi Arabia will pay for the U. S. arms over a five-year period. 5. Saudi Arabia will lease the Dhahran base to the United States for another five years. A joint communique summing up the Eisenhower-Saud talks was issued in Washington last Friday at the conclusion of the Saudi Arabian ruler's U. S. visit. It said the U. S. Air Force will continue using the Dhahran airfield for five more years and Saudi Arabia will get "military equipment, services and training."

Major East Coast Ports Shut Down As 45,000 Longshoremen On Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Forty-five thousand East Coast ship cargo loaders struck today, shutting down major shipping operations in the big ports from Portland, Maine to Hampton Roads, Va. The longshoremen, resuming a strike halted by presidential intervention last November, tied up scores of ships. Cargoes remained piled on docks or in the holds of vessels. The longshoremen are members of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (I.L.A.), whose contract negotiations with employers bogged down at the last moment yesterday amid optimism over settlement prospects. But the optimism turned to gloom today after the strike began. One of those who had appeared confident of an early settlement yesterday was Alexander P. Chopin, chief negotiator for the New York Shipping Assn., representing 170 shipping and stevedoring firms. As he arrived for further talks this morning, he told reporters that the late meeting last night was "very unfruitful. I am not as optimistic as it has been made to appear." Pessimism also had been voiced by Capt. William V. Bradley, I.L.A. president, on a radio program after the night session was adjourned. Said he: "I don't see any possibility for a quick get-together. It looks like it will be a knockout, dragout affair."

Obstacles to a settlement were believed to hinge largely on such items as vacations and holidays rather than wages. The walkout was the second half of a double blow which all but made New York a ghost port. It already had been staggered by a walkout of tugboat men. Adding a puzzling note to the situation was the appearance in New York of Harry Bridges, controversial leader of West Coast dock men. Bridges' union, the International Longshoremen's & Warehousemen's Union, is bargaining agent for dockers on the West Coast, Alaska and Hawaii. He told newsmen his trip here was in no way connected with negotiations of the striking I.L.A. His union had staged sympathy walkouts on the Pacific Coast when the I.L.A. tied up Atlantic and Gulf ports for nine days in November. However, he said yesterday he "resented the attempts to use the I.L.W.U. as a red herring in the I.L.A. negotiations." Bridges did not explain this reference but possibly meant that there had been speculation in some quarters his union might quit work in support of the I.L.A. He said he was here only in an effort to further a proposal that all maritime unions reach mutual termination dates for their contracts with employers. He said his union had agreed to change the expiration date of its contract from June 15 to Aug. 1 on the understanding the I.L.A. would do likewise. The I.L.A., however, said nothing on this score during the recent negotiations.

Meet To Consider U. S. 'Aggression'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. Steering Committee was summoned today to act on Russia's call for General Assembly consideration of her charges that the United States has committed global aggression. The committee must recommend to the Assembly whether it should debate the new charges. Final decision will be up to the Assembly, which now is seeking to wind up its 11th regular session. A Soviet letter from Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily Kuznetsov to Assembly President Prince Wan Waihayakon of Thailand accused the United States of aggressive actions which "create a threat to peace and security." The Russians raised these main charges: 1. The United States has outlined a new Middle East program designed to touch off "new military provocations." 2. The United States has committed aggression on a global scale by setting up military bases in Western Europe, Turkey, Iran, Japan and Okinawa that are geared for handling atomic weapons. 3. U. S. bases in France, Britain, West Germany, Italy, Turkey and Iran constitute a menace to peace.

4. The U. S. budget contains unprecedented expenses for war preparations, including new bases in Brazil, a jet base in Pakistan and Air Force bases in Formosa and West Germany. Russia in the past has voiced similar complaints of aggression by the West, particularly the United States, but they have brought no U. N. action. Already on the agenda of the U. N.'s Special Political Committee is a Soviet complaint accusing the United States of intervention in the domestic affairs of the Soviet Union and her European satellites — Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland and Romania. It also charges the Americans with subversive activities against the Soviet bloc. The political committee put that item at the bottom of its agenda. It is not expected to take it up until late this month. The latest Soviet charges came immediately on the heels of Russia's new proposals for handling the Middle East question, outlined in Moscow by Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov. The proposals call for a cooperative Big Four effort to guarantee peace in the Middle East. They include agreement on an economic development program, ending of arms shipments and abandonment of Western bases in the area. Officials of the Western Big Three considered the Soviet plan was designed to discredit President Eisenhower's policy for economic and military aid to meet the threat of Communist penetration in the Middle East. Kuznetsov's letter charged the United States had outlined a program directed at the organization of "new military provocations" in the Middle East and "aimed at the economic enslavement of the people."

Fourth Straight Failure

Greenville's Community Chest, which has been a fund-raising organization for eight local red cross agencies, will conduct no more fund-raising campaigns. The decision was made yesterday at a special meeting of the board of directors of the organization. The action by the board in effect carried out a resolution passed by the board a year ago which said the Community Chest would cease its fund-raising activities if the 1956 goal was not subscribed 100 per cent. The 1956 fund-raising campaign fell $919.16 short of the $14,875 goal. It was the fourth consecutive year that the Greenville Community Chest had failed to meet its goal for funds for its participating agencies. Officials of the eight participating Community Chest agencies will be notified by letter that the Greenville Community Chest will not conduct a fund-raising campaign during 1957. They will also be informed that funds from the 1956 campaign will be distributed to participating agencies as budgeted during the current year. Although the Community Chest will not conduct further money-raising campaigns, the board of directors yesterday did not dissolve the organization. It will continue as an agency to distribute the funds it has collected for the participating organizations. In spite of the fact that the goal of $14,875 was not reached in the 1956 campaign, percentage-wise, it was the most successful campaign conducted by the Chest in the past four years. In 1953 the campaign fell $1,571 short of the goal, in 1954 it fell $2,629 short of the goal and in 1955 it fell $2,283 short of the goal. As a result of yesterday's action by the Community Chest directors, new arrangements will have to be made for securing local funds for the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Emergency Charity Fund, white and Negro Teen Age clubs, the Community Service Fund and the Kings Daughters Charity Fund. The Greenville Community Chest was an outgrowth of fund-raising activities for several national organizations during World War I. In 1917 under the direction of S.B. Underwood, H.E. Austin, James L. Little, E.G. Flanagan and others a Greenville organization was started for raising funds for several joint enterprises that were organized nationally. In 1918 the organization included charity funds for Greenville and following World War I funds were raised for local projects for several years. During the depression years of 1931 and 1932 J.H. Waldrop, John G. Clark, J. B. Kittrell, George Clark and other Greenville leaders raised money to be used for emergency relief for providing food and fuel for poverty stricken local families. By 1934 the name Community Chest was again being used and local organizations gradually became participating agencies in the Community Chest.

Battle Lines Forming Over State Pay Hikes

RALEIGH (AP)—Legislative battle lines were being formed today for a fight over pay increases for teachers and state employees as North Carolina's General Assembly made ready for hearings on the biggest budget in state history. Appropriations and tax measures to put the billion-dollar budget into effect were introduced in the House and Senate yesterday amid talk from many legislators that it fell short of what they want in the way of pay boosts for the teachers and workers. Hearings on the appropriations and tax measures are expected to begin shortly after House and Senate presiding officers announce committee assignments for the legislators. These are expected within the next several days. The general appropriations bill introduced yesterday calls for spending of 748 million dollars during the next two years for operation of state agencies, institutions and the public schools. Another measure would provide 42 1/2 million dollars for permanent improvements at state institutions. The budget provides selective or merit pay raises for teachers averaging 9.1 and 8 per cent for other state workers in addition to their normal pay increments. But three House members offered a bill yesterday to give the teachers and other school personnel a 20 per cent boost as other lawmakers joined in a chorus that Gov. Hodges and the Advisory Budget Commission had been "a little too tight" on the salary question in preparing the proposed budget. But a top legislator who is also a member of the Advisory Budget Commission, Sen. J. C. Eagles Jr. of Wilson came back, and asked, in effect, "Where is the money coming from?" Eagles said there were four alternatives to the budget proposals: (1) eliminating the proposed permanent improvements, (2) failure to enact the tax program proposed by the governor which cuts revenue by eight million a year, (3) increasing present taxes, or (4) levying new taxes. Eagles declared that the budget commission "did the very best we could" with the money expected to be available during the next two fiscal years.

Hunt For Nurse Still Hampered

OCRAKOE, N.C. (AP)—Chappy seas forced further delay today in Coast Guardsmen's search across sprawling Pamlico Sound for a dark-haired New Jersey nurse who vanished Saturday night from a doctor's yacht anchored near here. Coast Guard and law enforcement officers said they hoped to resume the search if the sea calmed later in the day. Officers said they found several empty whisky bottles aboard the yacht from which the nurse mysteriously disappeared. Winds up to 45 miles an hour raised high seas yesterday and slowed the hunt for 33-year-old Mrs. Mary Ann Scates of Borden-town, N.J. Two Coast Guard whaleboats had to return to their station here because of the weather, and a continuing search of the shore was unavailing. Dr. James T. Dodge, 46-year-old general practitioner of Trenton, N.J., indicated yesterday he might stay several more days while the search for his nurse continues. He has theorized that Mrs. Scates might have been pitched overboard by the waves while she was alone on deck. James W. Powell, director of the SBI, said the investigation would be "at a standstill" until Mrs. Scates' body is recovered. Officers were proceeding on the assumption she was dead, he added. "Solely for the reason we have nothing to indicate to the contrary."

Demos Will Hear Senate Leader

RALEIGH (AP)—Tar Heel Democrats will gather here March 16 for their annual Jefferson - Jackson Day dinner at which Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas will be the principal speaker. In making the announcement, National Committeeman B. Everett Jordan of Saxapahaw said Herman A. Moore of Charlotte, secretary of the State Democratic Executive Committee, will serve as chairman of the dinner. Jordan urged county Democratic chairmen "to make plans immediately for a full attendance as dinner reservations will be limited to approximately 700."

Easier Penalty?

RALEIGH (AP)—Senator Paul E. Jones of Pitt said here today that he would introduce legislation relieving tax payers of stringent penalties imposed for late listings of property tax. "I have known cases," Dr. Jones said, "when the property owner was out of the county or ill and could not list his taxes by the proposed date. "In these cases I have known the tax-payer to be assessed as much as 25% of the declared value of his property. To me this is too much of a penalty to impose and especially in certain hardship cases," the senator said.

'Inaugural Ball' For The Loser

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Some 2,000 Rhode Island Republicans took part last night in an "inaugural" ball although their man for governor, Christopher Del Sesto, did not win last November. The "inaugural" ball was promised a few days before the election by Republican leaders who felt Del Sesto would beat Democratic incumbent Dennis J. Roberts.

U. S. Invites 27 Nations To Send Warships For Big Naval Show

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has invited 27 countries, not including Russia, to send warships to the first international naval review to be held in this country since 1907. The review is scheduled for next June 12 at the same place where dreadnaughts and torpedo boats from seven nations assembled for a grand review 50 years ago, the huge anchorage area of Hampton Roads, Va. This year aircraft carriers and missile cruisers — unheard of in those days — will be among the 50 U. S. Navy ships participating. A total of 80 is expected. The occasion is the 350th anniversary of the first permanent English settlement in America, at Jamestown, Va. The Pentagon said the State Department extended the invitations "on behalf of the Navy, the Virginia 350th Anniversary Commission, and the port communities of Hampton, Newport News, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Virginia Beach and Warwick." The Pentagon announcement did not list the countries. However, an announcement last night by Ben Wahman, executive director of the International Review Committee, carried the names of the invited nations. Wahman's announcement said that because the Jamestown festival is concerned primarily with this country and because it was felt it would be an "imposition to ask any nation that did not have a direct connection to go to the expense of sending ships, the list was limited to the countries of the Americas, to those countries that participated in the exploration and settlement of the Americas" — France, Western Germany, Britain, Greece, Haiti, Ireland, Italy, Mexico, Netherlands, Norway, Peru, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Turkey, Uruguay and Venezuela. Wahman listed Argentina, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Colombia, Cuba, Denmark, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, France, Western Germany, Britain, Greece, Haiti, Ireland, Italy, Mexico, Netherlands, Norway, Peru, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Turkey, Uruguay and Venezuela. Probable Tip-Off As To Committee Assignments

Supreme Court, after a stint as Attorney General. Although Venter served on the Advisory Budget Commission in Rodman's place, he has been rated as best bet for appropriations leader, and Falls was the favorite for the money-raising job. He proved himself last session as head of the subcommittee which rewrote the original revenue bill. Senate committee assignments are expected this week. It is also expected that Speaker Doughton will name the money group, if not all his committees, "not later than Friday." The new committee on State Government will rank along with Education, Public Roads and Education committees in importance, since it will handle all appropriation bills. It is probable that highway reorganization, prison separation and the new Administration Department bill may also be channeled through one of Judiciary groups.

Dr. Helms Speaks To Club On Wild Flowers Of This Section

The Lakewood Pines Garden Club heard Dr. Mary Helms of the ECO Biology Department talk on "Wild Flowers of Eastern North Carolina" at its regular meeting held at the home of Mrs. T. H. Henderson Tuesday morning.

During the business meeting, Mrs. R. P. Heller presiding, the club voted to donate $10 toward the landscaping of Sheppard Memorial Library, a project of the Greenville Garden Club.

The club also voted to contribute $5.00 for containers for the disgarder project for Pitt Memorial Hospital, sponsored by the Service League. In addition, members were asked to contribute containers from their own collections whenever possible.

It was announced that, in accordance with the motion passed at the last meeting, money has been sent for the purchase of a garden bench and one shrub for the garden of the State School for the Deaf and Blind.

Members of the club voted to cooperate fully with the Litterbug campaign, sponsored by the Greenville Garden Club and other civic and book clubs. Automobile disposal bags will be purchased as samples.

Dr. Helms, a botanist and long-time collector of wild flowers, illustrated her program with dozens of specimens of real plants and shrubs collected in Pitt County and pressed in the college laboravelopments, new roads and swamp drainage—which destroys masses of wild vegetation and she urged her listeners to protect and encourage wild flowers wherever possible.

A sewing workshop to make toys and novelties for the Spring Fair will be held at the home of Mrs. J. E. Waltz of Lakewood Drive Thursday morning, it was announced. This year the club will concentrate on inexpensive stuffed toys, children's aprons, and other items which children can buy for themselves or which will make attractive Easter gifts.

Art Museum Is Clio Club Topic

The Clio Book Club held its first meeting of the month with Mrs. Rose Fambrough, president of the club, hostess, in her home on Evans Street. The home, decorated throughout with red gladiolas, featured a Valentine motif in the dining room.

North Carolina's Art Museum was the subject of a paper given by Mrs. O. E. Dowd, who traced the history of the museum from the time the bill was introduced in 1947, proposing a million dollars of taxpayers' money be spent for a State Museum of Art, to the present, with its priceless collection of paintings, sculptures, and tapestries, housed in an air-conditioned building, formerly the State Highway Building, renovated at a cost of about $325,000.

She discussed future plans for expansion and quoted the director, Dr. Valentiner, as saying: "A collection ideally should include sculpture—Greek, Roman, Medieval, Renaissance and Baroque; decorative arts from different periods; and Near and Far Eastern art."

An attempt has been made, she said, to form a survey collection of paintings of all countries. She showed pictures of the Rembrandt exhibition on display at the Gallery in December.

Mrs. Dowd told of the persevering efforts of Robert Lee Hunter of Greenville to obtain this Art Museum for the State and said that Governor Cherry would go down in history as the first Governor of any State to inaugurate or to back such a project.

The club voted to give a contribution to the beautification of the Sheppard Memorial Library grounds and also to give five dollars to Alcoholics Anonymous.

At the conclusion of the usual business session the meeting was turned over to Miss Mamie Jenkins of the Training School, who in a brief talk explained the close relations between poetry and music—and carried on her theme by giving exquisite poems which were beautifully interpreted in the music of violin and piano by Misses Bertollet, Gorrell and Meide of the college. At the conclusion of the afternoon's program, the hostesses served a most bountiful and delicious refreshments.

Scout Council Welcomes Six

Six new members of the Pitt County Girl Scout Council were extended a special welcome by Mrs. Charles A. White, council president, at the monthly meeting held Monday night.

New members are Mrs. W. M. Reading Jr., Mrs. Charles Skinner, Mrs. A. C. Ruffin, Mrs. R. R. Ross, Mrs. Robert E. Cramer and Mrs. William Wright. Mrs. White presented a pin to each council member and urged they be worn with pride.

After the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, Mrs. White asked the secretary,

Mrs. J. H. Thomas, to write notes of thanks to Mrs. J. E. Kittrell, Mrs. George Garrett, Mrs. R. P. Heiler, Mrs. W. R. Guice and Mrs. R. E. Tunnell for their help in making the annual tea, which was held on January 27, such a success.

Mrs. J. K. Proctor, Executive Director, reported on the Scout Institute which she and Mrs. S. M. Crisp attended at Chapel Hill on February 8 and 9.

The Institute was conducted by representatives from the national Girl Scout headquarters in New York and was open to council members and professional workers from every state in the union. Both Mrs. Proctor and Mrs. Crisp found it stimulating and inspiring, she reported.

A program plan for Intermediate Scouts, whose age range is 10 to 14, was emphasized throughout the two-day institute, she noted.

After Mrs. Henry Harrell, treasurer gave a brief financial report, Mrs. Bruce Sugg Jr., chairman of the Publicity Committee, stated that Troop 45 had presented a TV program on January 26 and that Mrs. Kramer's troop would present a program in the near future. She expressed her gratitude to the Daily Reflector for the publicity given to the annual tea.

Mrs. S. M. Crisp, Juliette Lowe chairman, asked for a discussion on the type of birthday party the scouts should have this year.

In the past all the scouts in the city have celebrated together the birthday of their founder, but each year the number of scouts increases and it becomes more difficult to find a place large enough. Several suggestions were made, and it was decided to leave the final decision to the troop leaders.

Mrs. Crisp asked for volunteers to collect contributions from adult members of the Girl Scout organization. The resignation of Juliette Lowe's home in Savannah, Ga. Mrs. Skinner, Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Ruffin said that they would help.

Mrs. White announced that Mrs. Reading and Mrs. Wright have agreed to take charge of the Cook Sale, which will be held during the week of March 11.

Mrs. F. D. Duncan, chairman of the Camp Committee, stated that the committee had begun to contact staff members for next summer's camping season and that plans had been made to publicize Camp Hardee in towns outside the Pitt County Council's jurisdiction.

Clary Talks To Woman's Club

Speaker for the Fountain Woman's Club meeting February 5 was Morris Clary, principal of the South Edgecombe High School.

Speaking on "Trends in Education," Mr. Clary pointed out that America is the only country that attempts to give every child the equivalent of a high school education.

As an illustration, he cited the life of Billie Davis, the little gypsy girl, who found in the public schools system of America and its teachers the security needed.

The speaker outlined as educational trends the desire for more education, standardization of high schools, vocational training, trade schools, driver training, and college entrance examinations.

Mr. Clary was introduced by Mrs. E. B. Beasley Jr., chairman of education and club hostess for the afternoon.

Mrs. R. A. Fountain presided. Seventeen members were present.

The hostess served Russian tea, cookies and sandwiches to club members and the following guests: Mrs. Carrie Whitaker of Kernersville, Mr. and Mrs. Clary of Pine-top, Mrs. Henry Smith and Mrs. John Davis.

Heart-Mounted Hints Exchanged

ROBERSONVILLE - Members of the Homemakers Club exchanged household hints mounted on red hearts at their meeting Thursday night.

The hostess, Mrs. Marie Johnson, passed out the hearts as she greeted guests.

Mrs. Harvey Roberson presided over the meeting. Mrs. Mack Wynn called the roll.

Special guests for the meeting included Mrs. Hosea Fagan of Jamesville, Mrs. Pearl Everett and her mother, Mrs. W. E. Page.

The hostess served a salad course and a variety of Valentine candy to her guests.

Next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Roberson February 21 at 8 p.m.

Films Shown Jr. Woman's Club

The Junior Woman's Club of Greenville held a program meeting on Feb. 6, at the Woman's Club Building.

The first half of the program was presented by Lt. Tom Brown and Cpl. Carl Whitfield of the Highway Department, who showed a film on highway safety. The film was made by Evangelist Billy Graham, under the auspices of the State Highway Department.

Corporal Whitfield reported that the highway death toll in the Pitt County area in 1956 was one of the worst in the state, with 24 persons killed and many more pitifully and permanently maimed by injuries in highway accidents.

A Highway Safety Meeting on Feb. 12 in Williamston was announced and members urged to attend. The Jr. Woman's Club decided to send letters to service organizations in Greenville announcing this meeting.

The second part of the program was presented by Mrs. T. R. Jones, Chairman of the Caswell Training School Committee. She presented "The Caswell Story," a film of the Caswell Training School in Kinston which is a state project of the Jr. Woman's Clubs.

The cost of producing the film had been paid for by the Jr. Woman's Clubs. It showed the tremendous work being done at Caswell to educate the state's 3,000 mentally retarded persons to the best of their capabilities and to

Should Shed Light On The Airport

Some action should be taken by the Airport Commission to clarify the argument about lights at the City-County Airport.

Twice within the past two weeks members of the Civil Air Patrol have lighted runways with automobile lights. They did so after being unable to turn on runway lights.

In both cases, the time margin was sufficient to permit the CAP personnel to gather at the airport and line up their vehicles to permit safe landings. There might come a time, however, when that time margin does not exist.

The Airport Authority insists that the field is not a night field. It also argues that although the field is not a night field runway lights can be operated if airport personnel are given ample notice of a proposed night landing.

The CAP says the lights don't operate. The group's public information officer says that efforts were made Monday night to turn on the runway lights but they just wouldn't work.

The Airport Authority should make it a point to find out the truth of the existing situation. If the lights are in good order, they should be kept that way. If they aren't, something should be done to put them in operating condition and to see that they remain in good shape.

Despite the truth that the airport is not a night field, provisions should be made for emergencies. It is not beyond the realm of possibility that we could have a tragedy at the airport because of a misunderstanding about lights.

We have come uncomfortably close to disaster twice.

The 'Stars' Can Talk But Others Do Work

A newspaper writer has come to the defense of his wife in such a manner that ought to make every mother in the country stand up and cheer.

Tired of constant streams of advice from Hollywood mothers on how to raise children, Jack Mabley has suggested that the movie queens confine their advice to something they know more about. He wonders how long they'd last, as mothers and movie lovelies, without the aid of "a nurse, upstairs maid, downstairs maid, cook and masseuse".

Brother Mabley went a little farther. He pointed out what his own wife, with four children on her hands, has to go through in a single day—without any help. The accounting is nearly horrifying, so much so that many husbands have concluded they wouldn't trade jobs with the good wife for all the world.

The job of being a good mother to one or a half-dozen children is a hard job. It usually means about a 16-hour day that begins and ends with a struggle. It's an endless round of questions, diaper-changing, chasing, washing, cleaning, and checking. The job doesn't leave much time for attention to hair, complexion, and girlish figures.

In most cases, the job starts before the sun comes up and isn't over until long after that same sun goes down. It's a murderous pace that isn't made easier by having to put up with sequences from Hollywood dolls who palm their kids off on someone else while they visit a press agent to dream up a few gems of advice on how to make the children wonderful and themselves lovelier.

The person who has never dug ditches can't describe the work. Neither can a mother who doesn't raise her own children.

Lawmakers Are Marking Time

By LYNN NISBET UNDER CURRENTS — As the 1957 General Assembly moves into its first full week, still marking time waiting for committee assignments so it can get down to real work, there are political overtones and under currents. To some extent these currents involve personalities and factions. In the main the attitude is determination to stick with tradition, to achieve progress through orderly evolution, rather than by revolution.

It appears certain that there will be substantial revision of the tax structure and substantial reorganization of State government. It is an equally safe bet that all the recommendations of the tax study commission and the reorganization committee will not be enacted into law. Recent events in Mecklenburg county are cited as illustrative of the general statewide attitude. The Mecklenburg situation in 1957 is reminiscent of statewide conditions in 1948. The "old crowd" in Mecklenburg last year lost control of the Democratic party organization to Jack Love for the same reason. Both Scott and Love thought they had occasioned a "revolution" and that their forces would continue in control.

At state level Scott folks lost a U.S. senatorial race and a gubernatorial race. In Mecklenburg the Love forces last week lost the contest for a State Senator. Subsequently Scott won a U.S. Senatorial race and none of the Mecklenburg folks think the Love faction has been eliminated from local politics.

The point sought to be made here is that temporary victories of political factions are incidental to continue State progress, and that progress is evolutionary rather than revolutionary.

CHALLENGE — People will respond to the challenge of an educational program that has something new or different to offer, and seems to be in step with progress, where they may be indifferent toward traditional approaches. That explains the increased popular interest in two-year colleges throughout the country. Particularly the community college plan which is gaining support in North Carolina.

These are conclusions reached by Dr. H. L. Tigg after two years of study and research. A former president of St. Augustine's College in Raleigh and a member of the State Board of Education since 1949 (only Negro ever to serve on a major state-wide policy making board), Dr. Tigg has devoted his time and energies since leaving St. Augustine's to a study of popular re-

A Matter Of Defense

By EVERETTE PARKER

Safety Is Our Business

Last year in Pitt County a new all time record was made—24 DEATHS.

There is no doubt in the mind of this writer that no one is proud of this record especially the families of the ones that died so tragic a death on the highways and streets.

The highway patrol is tackling the tremendous job of trying to reduce the high fatality rate that jumped from seven in 1954 to 18 in 1955 and on to 24 last year. This major problem cannot possibly be accomplished without the support of the driver and pedestrian who for the past several years have been either thoughtless or negligent, it appears.

Last year the alert Pitt patrolmen made 4,635 arrests for violations of North Carolina traffic laws yet 24 people were killed and $119,540 worth of property was damaged. Each careless act, each violation, each death and each dollar's worth of property damage could easily have been prevented.

With countless traffic problems facing them, the patrolmen have initiated a major safety program in this county. The first phase being a school indoctrination program that commenced on January 16 and ended on February 7.

The guardians of our highways should be highly commended for their efforts in carrying out this first phase of their program. Every member of the patrol gave freely of his time and talent in an effort to teach the value of safety to over 17,000 school children in every county school. Many times these tireless men would report to a school directly from assignment in order that a student might learn to live and not die on our county's highways. Days off meant nothing as long as the program was being conducted.

In 1954 a similar program was presented to county students with successful results. During the entire year not a boy or girl was killed or seriously injured as a result of an automobile or bicycle accident. Let's hope that the 1957 safety program will be equally as successful.

People will forget! Most people will forget that is not those who now live in broken families. Families who have lost loved ones in mangled cars.

Bearing these thoughts in mind let's join together with our county law enforcement officers and make highway safety our business. After all an accident doesn't always happen to the other fellow. We had 285 around here last year.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

Blue Monday is often made blue by alcohol. But the very nature of the day also makes it blue for many people. Frequently we are more conscious of some pain or distress on Monday than on any other day of the week. We declare that we don't see how this can be. Didn't we have a whole two-day rest over the week end? We should be feeling fine, but heck...

Well one reason is that we just plain don't like getting back again to discipline. By Wednesday we've forgotten about it and are all pepped up again. The pains and distress have abated. The more likely truth is that we've got into the groove again and discipline has ceased to be as disturbing as it was. Most of us vacillate between a hatred of life's disciplines and a forgetting of them. Few of us ever get to the place where we can truly see the advantage of discipline and accept it as a necessary factor in the growth of our personality and soul.

Look at the countries where people live on overripe fruit which falls of trees and the rest of the time loaf about and indulge themselves in any way that meets their fancy and you will see the advantage of constant and firm discipline. The great nations are the nations that have had to scratch just to keep alive, and do more than that to get ahead.

Discipline! It's a blessing. Hard to see, but it is.

Other Editors Saying--- Too Many Horses

(Hertford County Herald)

When speeds, not to mention prices, of automobiles continue to rise it is time to call a halt. The excessive speeds built into modern automobiles are dangerous and deadly. If the manufacturers themselves do not assume the responsibility for the danger and death they are building into their cars, the halt must be called by government and enforced by law.

(About the mounting prices, there is already a law that eventually will cap up there—it is known as the law of supply and demand. The demand for smaller and lower priced automobiles will be recognized and met by some smart manufacturer, either in the United States or abroad.)

Supporting this contention, if not the prediction about smaller and lower priced automobiles, is the following pertinent comments from the Cleveland (N. C.) Times on some recent remarks on the subject by no less authority than the president of the N.C. State Automobile Association:

Thomas B. Watkins, president of the N. C. State Automobile Association has declared that the time has come when car makers should give serious thought to the death potential they are creating by steadily increasing the horsepower of automobiles.

Mr. Watkins's statement makes sense to us, and we endorse his call for a legal halt to the present horsepower race by auto manufacturers.

Up to this time this question has been considered a more or less untouchable subject and the motor club is acting in the interest of the motoring public in going on record as favoring a reduction of horsepower as the most logical way of reducing mounting highway fatalities.

Watkins said: "Our grandfathers would have a twenty-mule team to bring home a bushel of potatoes, and yet we give the fantastic power of the new cars, some with a ridiculous three-hundred plus horsepower, to our wives to go shopping, to our teenager children for their enjoyment and to ourselves to commute to work."

Congress members have rightly expressed growing concern over the increasing number of traffic fatalities which reached a record 40,200 last year while Senator Albert Gore of Tennessee has suggested that "the time may come when some regulation of horsepower and highway speeds may be necessary."

Fifty-five or 60 miles-per-hour speed laws do not seem too harsh but when the speedometer rises to 70 and above it takes a little longer to slow down and a matter of seconds may prevent an accident. Statistics show speed causes most fatal accidents.

The N. C. State A. A. president declared further that if automobile manufacturers won't lower the horsepower of their products on their own, for the sake of safety they should be limited by law. He proposed a gradual lowering by 50 h.p. per year until the maximum is reached.

No Real Effort On Political Spending

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — No drastic revision of the Corrupt Practices Act to prevent excessive election expenditures is anticipated at the current or future sessions of Congress: There is no serious or evident desire for such a far-reaching reform in these days of rising costs for everything.

Any limitation would amount to outright penalization of the Republican Party, in view of the fact that the nation's leading corporations and wealthiest families generally contribute most heavily to the GOP in national and state campaigns. They give only small change to the Democrats.

In their resistance to any basic alteration, the Republicans would have the support of many Southern Democrats. They frequently need generous gifts, in their contests in primaries, for a victory in them is usually tantamount to election in Dixie. And the Federal statutes do not now require reports on primary finances, although the revisionists demand such a provision in any new law.

CLEAVAGE IN CONTRIBUTIONS — The most amazing feature of 1956 political spending, and one which has generally escaped comment, is its evidence of a spectacularly sharp economic and class division among the American people. The cleavage has become even wider than it was in the bitter depression days of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Here are a few striking examples of this growing gulf between the politico-economic "haves" and "have nots."

Officers of the nation's 100 largest industrial firms gave $536,337 to the Republicans and only $6,500 to the Democrats. Owners of the 25 largest transportation companies — railroads, airlines, maritime — poured $360,982 into the Republican treasury, and shipped only $7,475 to the Stevenson-Kefauver forces.

WEALTHY FAMILIES FLOOD GOP. The 25 largest life insurance firms kicked in $186,250 and $4,500 on the same basis of Party allegiance. For the private utilities, it was $71,200 and $1,500. The great trading corporations — food, department, mail order — preferred Ike by $116,050 to $14,500.

The 12 wealthiest families — du Ponts, Field, Ford, Harriman, Lehman, Rockefeller, Vanderbilt, Mellon, Whitney, etc. — flooded the GOP with $1,040,520, as against $107,109 for the Democrats. One branch of the Lehman family and the Reynolds clan, which profited from aluminum contracts during and since World War II, accounted for most of the Democratic money.

The 38 companies engaged in atomic energy work showed such appreciation — $387,342 for Ike, $34,700 for Stevenson. So did the 100 largest military

Ghost Rental Slump

By HAL BOYLE ANDROS TOWN, Bahamas (AP) — The bottom has fallen out of the ghost rental industry here.

At the moment every ghost in the stable of Constable Boyd, who has built up a monopoly in the spook-renting field, is unemployed.

Mon, nobody seems to want to pay a fair price for one. "cheerfully grumbled the venerable constable. "They expect a ghost to work for nothing but rice and pigeon peas."

Dealing in the renting and selling of guaranteed, grade-A haunting ghosts — just the thing for "the man who has everything," — is actually merely a sideline with Constable Boyd.

But his reported power lever spectral spirits — no one knows just when he set up his ghostly employment agency — may explain why for 40 years Constable Boyd had had little trouble carrying out his official duties as a peace officer on this largest island of the Bahamas, where remnants of "black magic" still flourish.

The slender, grizzly-moustached constable, who looks like he could be either 62 or 162, has been known to fly to Nassau with natives under arrest, even for murder, without bothering to handcuff them. The prisoners realize it would be easy to overpower him. But who could whip his stable of ghosts?

A gentle, kindly old man whose mind is a reservoir of superstitious folklore handed down from the slave days, Constable Boyd plays many roles. Any tourist who tries to make a joke of the constable usually finds the laugh is turned on him.

Constable Boyd is a big man in Coakley Town, the native village that lies across Fresh Creek from Andros Town. The multimillion-dollar resort colony being built here by Dr. Axel Wenner-Gren, the Swedish industrialist.

He helps keep peace among its 350 live souls — and, of course, keeps its innumerable ghosts in line, too. He also is the postman. And on Sunday, as a lay pastor in the native Anglican Church, he preaches on his ministerial robes and preaches.

Now, about those ghosts—

"My price for renting a ghost is $28 a week, sight unseen," says Constable Boyd, "and I'll sell you a ghost outright for $1,400. But it's only fair to warn you that you can't take him with you. If you leave Andros, he will remain. He can only haunt where he's lived."

So far no one has bought a $1,400 ghost, not even an angry tourist's wife anxious to haunt her husband. Few also seem willing to pay out $28 for a full week.

But the constable resolutely refuses to lower prices or rent his ghosts for part-time work. "He feels that no conscientious ghost can do a thorough job of haunting in less than a full week. A ghost on a hurrryp one-night assignment hardly has time to gear up his ectoplasm and get into the spirit of the thing. He's rather let 'em float around and loaf."

"It doesn't cost much to keep them, moon, whether they're rented or not," he points out.

What a customer does with a ghost after he rents it — or who he has it haunt — is none of Constable Boyd's business. All he asks is that it be returned on time and in good condition.

Generally, he says, a ghost that was mean in its lifetime can be counted on to do the meanest kind of haunting.

The constable has an all-male stable of four ghosts at present. He has never had a call for a lady ghost; presumably living ladies already are doing all the feminine haunting required. The names of his ghosts are Murray, Gooney, Spence, and Richard Crotch.

"I can really give you good references for the job Crotch will do," says Constable Boyd gravely, his eyes twinkling. "He was a relative."

Labor Peace Is Still Debatable

By ELMER ROESSNER

This may go down in history as the year of great labor peace. But don't count on it.

On the surface it looks good. The major steel, auto and packer contracts run until the middle of 1958. The important railroad contracts and some of the big ones in plane manufacture won't expire until 1959. Westinghouse and General Electric contracts run until 1960 and they contain pledges of no strikes this year.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics recently found that 65 per cent of the contracts it studied run for two or more years and that 21 per cent run for three or more years.

TROUBLESOME REOPENING.

Contracts in oil and rubber industries come up for renewal this year and negotiations carry the seeds of strikes. Coal miners may reopen their contracts and the strong European demand for coal, plus higher prices for steel, may put John L. Lewis in a bargaining position he will use to the fullest.

Many long-term contracts provide for reopening. Unions will be more likely to exercise this right now that the Supreme Court has ruled a strike may not violate a contract with a reopening clause.

Lion Oil had a contract providing for reopening on 60 days notice. The union gave notice and, when differences were not settled after 60 days, struck. The case was carried to the top court, where the strike was held not to be an unfair labor practice. The court concluded that the law "permits a strike, after a 60-day notice, in the middle of a contract which authorizes a reopening on wages."

The right of the union would be an empty one without the right to strike after a 60-day notice.

COST OF LIVING A FACTOR.

Many long-term contracts provide for automatic pay increases and these are not likely to be reopened. Still others provide for increases if the cost of living goes up—which it may well do. Experience in the last quarter century shows that labor insists on pay rises at least as high as the cost of living. If their contract provides for cost-of-living boosts, workers will take it that way. If there is a reopening clause, they will use that.

But if there is no other course of relief—even without the implied encouragement of the Supreme Court—workers have consistently demanded rises commensurate with living costs. If their contracts prohibit formal strikes, wildcat strikes and slowdowns may result.

Therefore, it seems likely that best hopes of labor peace this year lie not in long-term contracts but in the possibility that the cost of living will level off or, if it doesn't, that employers will adjust scales to the increases.

OTHER LABOR PROBLEMS

The relationship between wages and the cost of living is discussed in the current letter of the First National City Bank of New York. It points out that average hourly factory earnings rose from $1 in January, 1944 to $2.05 in December, 1956.

That looks as if labor doubled its return. But, as the bank points out, because of the rise in the cost of living, hourly earnings in terms of what consumers buy rose from $1.34 an hour to $1.74.

Thus workers, fooled by inflation into thinking they had doubled their earnings, had increased them by only 30 per cent. However, as the bank adds, that's substantial.

Opinions In Brief

BANNER: "We don't want to burden you with another resolution that you may find difficult to keep. But we've made one that doesn't involve much extra effort. No extra time. We have resolved NOT to be a litterbug, as of January 1, 1957. We feel pretty good about this resolution because it's the kind that has something in it for everybody."

Keeping our highways, roadsides, parks and city streets clean ensures beautiful surroundings for everyone. That is why each and every one of us must correct the thoughtless habit of littering public and private property.

Nasser And His Plans For Egypt Still 'Mystery'

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—There is still a mystery about Egyptian President Nasser, despite all that's been written about him and all he himself has said: Just where is he taking Egypt?
He has been called an Egyptian nationalist and an anticommunist. He says he is both. He has also been called a would-be Hitler trying to line up and dominate the Arab world. He denies this.
He would also deny he is a Communist or is leading his country toward communism. Egypt has some restrictions on Communist activity, such as propaganda. But he is getting Egypt deeper in debt to the Communists outside Egypt.

His new laws "Egyptianizing" various foreign businesses in Egypt discourage foreign investments in Egypt and may so change the country's economy that no Western government would give Egypt economic aid or loans. This in turn would make Egypt even more dependent on the Communist world for help.
This picture might seem different if Nasser at the same time were setting up social programs for Egypt's 23 million people, most of them poor.
But the stories coming out of Egypt do not tell of any real, long-range thinking on Nasser's part to lift Egyptians out of their economic wretchedness.

He keeps them stirred up with hatred for the West. That can keep them distracted for only a while from the main issue of their lives: What are they going to get out of Nasser's regime?
Because of a lack of social programs or any discernible clear policy for his people—besides waving the Egyptian flag—Nasser looks more like an opportunist playing it by ear than a man with vision or programs.
Nasser has kept the Egyptians moving from excitement to sensation and back again with his tough policy all around, his seizure of the Suez Canal, and the attack on Egypt which stemmed from his conduct.

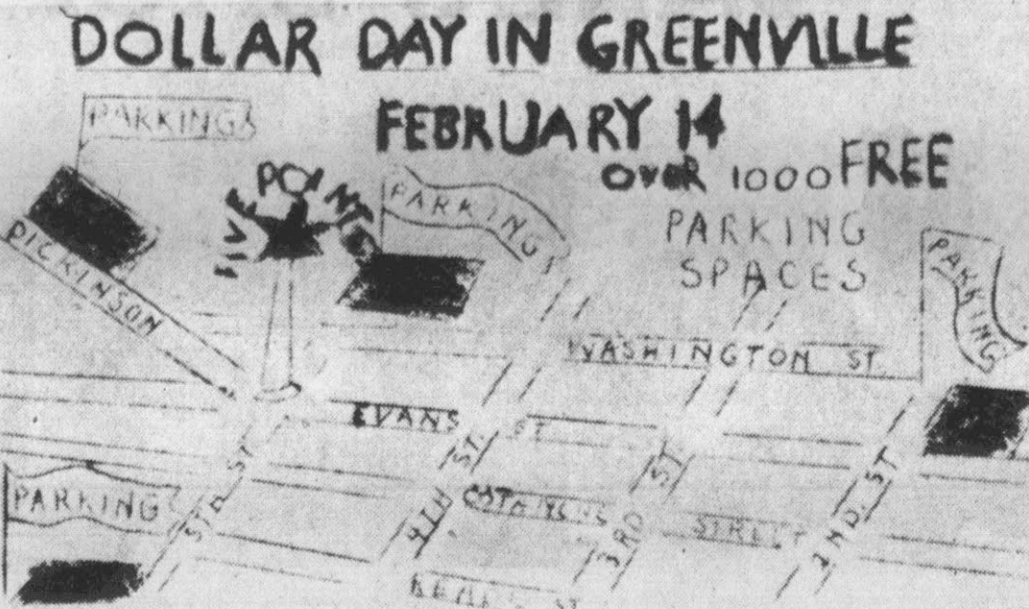

If he is just an opportunist, always looking for the main chance, he will probably be forced out of the picture, either by those around him or by a revolt, perhaps led from the left, by the Egyptian people.
Since the British-French attack on Egypt—and the United Nations' stern reaction against the attackers—Nasser has sat tight. If this country has had any serious dealings with him since then, they have not been made public. He's letting the United States and the United Nations use up their energy trying to get the Israelis out of Egypt.

When that problem is solved, or partly solved, attention will revert back to Nasser. So far he's been playing only one game: tough-guy obstinacy. He can't play it forever.
The United States, so far as can be seen, is trying to line up his Arab neighbors in friendly relations with this country. It will mean money for them from U.S. foreign aid funds.
In time, if Nasser continues his obstinate but otherwise unpredictable course, he may find himself isolated in his own Arab world. He still has some time on his side. But it can't last indefinitely.

REASON FOR HOPE
RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Virginia Transit Company, which operates in the city, carried 47 per cent fewer passengers in 1956 than 1955, but its report was encouraging. The drop was the lowest since the Korean war period and it hopes the leveling off point has been reached.
Almost 40 per cent of all radios built in the United States are designed for use in automobiles.

MARRIAGE BOOSTERS
HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—The three Meadows brothers are out to prove that marriage is no stumbling block to a college education. Berman, 25, Bill, 21, and Fred, 18, all say their grades at Marshall College have increased since they were married. Two of the wives also are going to college.

Ready To Greet 'Dollar Day' Crowds

The above diagram shows the location of the four parking lots in Greenville that will provide free parking for all of the Dollar Day shoppers. All of the parking meters in Greenville will take a vacation Thursday.

Shoppers are expected to be filling the streets of Greenville tomorrow enjoying the sales and discounts offered on Dollar Day. "We are sure to have better bargains than we have had in previous years," commented Jimmy Harris, president of the Merchants Association.
There will be over 1,000 free parking spaces as every parking meter in Greenville will have a vacation tomorrow.
This one-day semi-annual shopping event is sponsored by the Merchants Association and has become a traditional affair in the city.
All of the stores will open as usual at 9 a.m. in the morning, and the sales event will continue all day. Extra clerks have been employed by many of the stores for Dollar Day.

Court Disposed Of 133 Cases

Clerk E. Johnston Dees of the Municipal Recorder's Court shows in his report for January to City Council that 133 cases were disposed of and 107 of the defendants either pleaded guilty or were convicted.
Judge Charles H. Whedbee acquitted nine defendants; not pressed or dismissed six cases, sent eight to Superior Court and three defendants were called and failed to appear.
Disbursements for January were: City clerk (court costs), $1,064.63; Pitt county auditor (court fines), $533.70; N. C. State treasurer, $176, and Pitt County Peace Officers Association, $68.

Seven Feet Of Traffic Charges

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A legal document seven feet long details 22 traffic charges against Frederick L. Lewis, 21, as the result of one brief—but speedy—motorcycle ride.
Lewis was confronted by this impressive complaint when he appeared yesterday in West Los Angeles Traffic Court. Four policemen said they pursued Lewis at speeds up to 85 m.p.h. before he abandoned his cycle and tried to hide in roadside shrubbery.
Municipal Judge Leo Freund heard Lewis' innocent plea, then raised his bail from $23 to $500 pending a jury trial Feb. 23.

LADIES' DAY
DETROIT (AP)—Bus driver Leon Mills, the father of a newborn son, passed out candy to women passengers on his run, explaining: "I passed out two boxes of cigars to men passengers yesterday. This is ladies' day."
Modern tennis was introduced in the United States in 1874.

Wanted Dates, They Advertised

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Five enterprising University of Oklahoma students, seeking dates for a Saturday night dance, have placed an advertisement in the college newspaper.
The boys want dates with the girls who answer the following question: how many hairs are on the left front paw of a right-haired French poodle?
All co-eds answering the question must also give their names for purposes of checking pictures in the yearbook.
The boys say they are averaging about 10 calls an hour.

Phantoms Wallop Jacksonville Visitors By 76-54

Roebuck, Evans Lead In Scoring

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

Paced by Dick Evans, Mack Roebuck and Peanut Nunn, the Greenville Phantoms went on a rampage against visiting Jacksonville here last night, to rack up a stunning 76-54 victory.

Roebuck and Evans scored 16 points each and the lanky Nunn added 13 to break the back of the visiting Cardinals in Greenville's biggest effort to date this year. It was the first time this season that the G-Men had been able to check the 70-point mark.

The victory was their seventh in Northeastern Conference play, against three losses. Yesterday's Reflector was erroneous in quoting the GHS mark at 6-2. Their only losses have come at the hands of Washington (twice) and Kingston.

After a rather shaky beginning last night, Greenville moved into a substantial lead at halftime and really turned on the power in the final quarter, pumping in a prolific 32 points in that final period.

Coach Boley Farley, who had nothing but praise for his boys, used every man on his bench.

The host team opened play like a house-a-fire, pouring in six quick points before Jacksonville could score. The Cards, however, came right back to abolish that lead and moved ahead 8-6. Peanut Nunn tied the score 8-8 and the Phantoms had taken an 18-12 advantage at the end of the first quarter. They were never in trouble after Nunn's tying basket.

With Farley's starting crew of Roebuck, Edwards, Smith, Nunn and Crawford in the game throughout most of the first quarter, the Phants eased ahead on rebounding strength and a good accuracy from the floor. Toward the end of the quarter, Farley's second platoon went into the game and he then alternated them freely from that point.

His second five were made up of Hudson, Allen, Evans, Cox and Noble.

The second period of play was the closest of the game. Greenville sank 12 points, while the visitors threw in 11. Evans and Roebuck carried play for the Phantoms, scoring eight of the 12 points between them.

Roebuck, a stocky guard, paced action for the locals throughout the game with an aggressive performance. He set up the Phantoms' plays and was perhaps the busiest ballhandler of the night. Evans and Nunn, along with Noble were powerful on the boards for the winning club.

By halftime, the Phantoms had rung up a 28-23 lead. They were outplaying the Jacksonville club, but no indication of a 22-point victory was in sight at that early stage of the game.

Returning from the dressing room, Greenville's club began to build up steam in the third period. They pumped in 16 points, with Roebuck contributing six of those and Nunn, Evans, Cox, Hudson and Allen also adding. The Phants, at one point during the third quarter had a 41-34 lead. The period ended at 44-36.

It was in the final quarter that the G-Men broke away with a wild scoring attack that netted them 32 tremendous points.

The fast-break that Greenville had been working all night, finally moved into high gear and they began whipping in baskets at an almost unbelievably rapid rate.

They ripped away into a 50-36 lead, pushed it quickly to 60-48 and then to 70-48, before the Cardinals could catch their breath. On long-court passes and goal-to-goal drive-in shots, the locals scored most of their points.

Roebuck and Evans were hitting well from outside and Noble was handling the tip-ins.

With two minutes remaining in the game, Farley cleared his bench Angus Duff, a reserve forward, clicked on four straight foul tosses to wrap it up for GHS, 76-54.

The Phantoms wind up their season Friday night, at Kingston. They are rated underdogs, but in rivalry between these two schools, past records and ratings have often been no factor at all in the outcome of the games.

The Phant record is now 7-3. Jacksonville's mark is now 2-8.

Greenville JVs Rack Up Victory

Greenville high school's Jayvees topped Jacksonville 46-45 in a close one here last night, to halve their fifth win in 11 matches this year.

Greenville held a 23-21 lead at halftime, then ran their advantage up to 41-33 by the end of the third period. However, the Baby Cards came back in a rush and whittled it down to one point. A desperation shot by Jacksonville in the final moments failed to sink and Greenville's win was intact.

High scorer for the Phants was center Merrill Bynum with 18 tallies. Moye added 15, Finch 4, Ward 7, and Garner 4.

There's A Suspicion Wake Forest Might Upset UNC

There's a growing conviction among Atlantic Coast Conference teams that the No. 1 basketball squad in the country, unbeaten North Carolina, can be taken. Tonight could be the night.

Wake Forest, among the Tar Heels' most formidable opponents this season, gets its second chance tonight at Raleigh to upend its top-ranked neighbor.

The Deacons lost, 63-55, in the finals of the Dixie Classic in December. They were regarded as a hot team then. Tonight they face a North Carolina team that has had to fight its way back from the edge of defeat in its last three games. All three were with ACC teams, Maryland, Duke and Virginia.

Wake Forest, 16-4 over-all and 6-3 in the conference, will be banking on a tight defense to uphold the shooting of Jack Williams, Jackie Murdoch, Ernie Wiggins and Jim Gilley. North Carolina, now 19-0 over-all, with nine conference wins, will be fighting the Deacons — and the mounting pressure — with Lennie Rosenbluth, Pete Brennan, Joe Quigg and Tommy Kearns.

In last night's games, Clemson came from behind to down South Carolina 79-71; resurgent North Carolina State defeated Duke 79-72; and Maryland drubbed Virginia 85-64.

Grady Wallace of South Carolina scored 24 points and dropped to an unofficial average of 29.8 points per game. He was the nation's leading scorer before the game, but Kansas' Will Chamberlain got 36 points last night as his team defeated Oklahoma A&M 62-52.

Vince Yockel, with 23 points, led Clemson's attack which gave the Tigers a 44-35 halftime advantage. South Carolina took the lead again in the second half, but the Tigers came back, Yockel aided by Doug Hoffman with 19 points. Supporting Wallace was Bob McCoy, 16, and Dick Hoffman, 15 points.

N.C. State, winning its fifth straight ACC game, was in charge almost all the way against the Blue Devils. Lou Pucillo had only 12 points for the Wolfpack, but he delighted the crowd and confused Duke with his behind-the-back passes and play-making. Top scorers for State were Ken Clark, 19, Whitey Bell, 17, and John Richter with 16.

Duke guard Bobby Joe Harris had 16 points.

Maryland took over third place in the ACC from Duke as the Terps overwhelmed the Cavaliers. Nick Davis and John Nacincik had 18 points apiece for Maryland, which used reserves to finish out the game. Jerry Cooper had 19 for Virginia and Herb Busch 17.

In last night's Southern Conference action Davidson dropped an 85-75 decision to Wofford and Virginia Military Institute was defeated by Roanoke College 82-69 in nonleague affairs.

Semi Mintz scored 29 points for Davidson in a losing cause, while Ralph Lawson topped the VMI attack against Roanoke with 16 points.

Tonight's only Southern Conference game has Richmond at Furman in a battle for a first division ranking. Richmond has a 7-5 mark and can take over fourth place by winning. A victory for Furman, which is 6-4, would move the Paladins into a tie with Virginia Tech for third.

Teen-er Baseball Meeting Set For Thursday Night

A meeting of all boys interested in playing Teen-er baseball in Greenville this summer, will be held at the City Hall tomorrow night, at 7 p.m.

Boys between the ages of 13-15 are urged to be present and to bring either a parent or some adult to sponsor them at the meeting.

Carlton Garrett, State Youth and Athletic director of the V.P.W., will be present to conduct the affairs and to answer any questions concerning Teen-er ball.

At Catawba

CATWBA — East Carolina's cagers journey to Catawba tonight for an important North State Conference tilt.

Coach Howard Porter's crew will be shooting for their sixth loop victory against seven defeats. Catawba, third from the bottom in league standings, has a 2-10 record.

After Bud Smith, Three Top Contenders Waiting

By JACK HAND

MIAMI BEACH (AP)—Joe Brown is expected to brush off the challenge of ex-champ Wallace (Bud) Smith to his world lightweight title tonight and move on to a series of profitable defenses.

Italy's Dullio Loi, Kenny Lane of Muskegon, Mich., and Larry Boardman, Marlboro, Conn., are waiting in line for a shot at the 135-pound crown. The three contenders are ranked in that order by both the National Boxing Assn. and Ring magazine.

Smith, No. 4, is getting first crack at the man who took the title from him on a split decision Aug. 24 at New Orleans.

The odds are 3-1 to 4-1 on Brown, 30. Apparently the wise boxing men figure Smith at 27 has had it after losing to Boardman, Tony DeMarco and Brown in succession.

The first championship match ever held in the Miami Beach (indoor) Auditorium is expected to draw a throng of 4,000 and a gross of $20,000. The fighters get 30 per cent each of the net gate and $9,000 each from TV.

When Brown grabbed the world championship six months ago, he injured his hand in the second round. He claimed he broke it while dropping Smith twice in the 14th. The loser was saved by the bell.

According to Brown he won't let Smith get away this time. "I think I can finish him," said the champ, setting the deadline as the 10th round.

Smith claims he will be much improved both mentally and physically after settling his "domestic problems." He didn't elaborate.

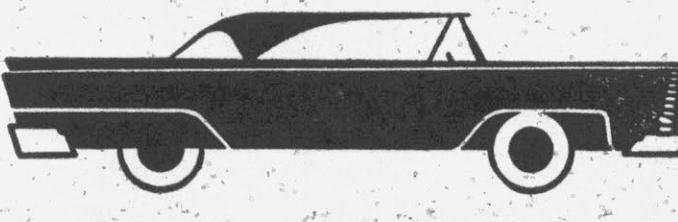

In 83 pro fights since 1946, Brown has a 59-14-8 record with two no contest bouts.

Smith has been in action 53 times since 1948 for a 32-15-6 record.

ELIZABETH SEIFERT'S NEW NOVEL
A Call for Doctor Barton

CHAPTER 16
On twelfth night, there was a party at the parish house...

"I suppose they have lots of fun."
"Yes... It was my thought that having a couple of women along might serve to mollify the lady in the case."

"Oh, it would, of course! You think of everything, Grady!"
"Oh, I do not!" he retorted comically. Then, "Would you be my guest, June?"

She hesitated, but only for a second. "I'd love to!" she said then, and warmly.
Parking before the gate in the picket fence, he walked beside June up to the lighted porch and unlocked the front door for her, remembering just in time not to bend to her for the good night kiss he would have claimed from any other girl he liked as well and whom he dated as often. But Grady must remember that he was "a married man," and June had already been generous in overlooking his status. So he shook her hand, thanked her and sighed—went down to his car and, his face grim, drove toward his empty house.

As he made the right turn from the narrow cross street on to Maple, where he lived, a low, raucous roar toward him from the left, too close, deliberately too close. There was a crunching, grating sound along the side of Grady's car, and his hand went down heavily upon his horn.

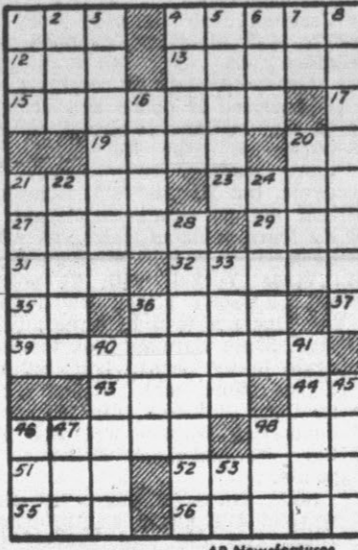

The black and white sports car was into the next block before it stopped, and then backed swiftly. Grady, who was getting out to see hastily closed the door. The big car stopped five feet away from him, bucking with the sudden application of its brakes.

Grady was quite ready for Mo Chronister when that young man came forward into the glare of his headlights. His blond hair was tousled, his overcoat flapping and he grinned foolishly. "Hurt you, Doc?" he called loudly. Mo had followed Grady's car to Cowans' had circled the block twice, while Grady was saying good-by to June, and then he had deliberately...

He'd put a deep crease into the left side of Grady's car—fifty dollars worth of damage, probably, and the doctor would perhaps be prudent to let the matter ride. Without speaking, Grady strode past Mo, unlocked the door of his clinic and turned on the lights. In full view of the street, he picked up the phone and called the police. "Oh, now, look, Doc," protested Mo, standing at the open door. "I understand that this is the advised procedure in any accident," said Grady quietly, breaking off to make his report to the man who had answered. "Do you forget I'm the l.w. my-

Midnight Ride Costs 90 Days

AYDEN — A midnight ride last Saturday night cost an Ayden man 90 days, according to reports from the highway patrol.
Jack Stokes, resident of the Ayden community was arrested by Ptl. R.E. Tayloe of the Pitt County Highway Patrol for being drunk on a public highway and for stealing a bicycle. The patrolman stated yesterday afternoon that he happened along just as Stokes was getting up or falling off his bicycle, he didn't know which.
The county man was arrested and tried in Ayden's Recorder's Court Monday afternoon. Found guilty, he was sentenced to 90 days for stealing the bicycle from in front of the theatre and 90 days for being drunk on a public highway.

Grady drove his car around to the garage and went inside to bed. Would June know, too, that Mo had deliberately...
If she didn't know, Grady was going to seem stuffy and selfrighteous in the part he would appear to play when the event was talked about. As of course it would be talked about.
For one thing, Grady had been told to appear in police court at nine the next morning. He dreaded the session while firmly intending to see the thing through. For one could not let a man so vengefully come from behind me and as that heavy car. And still, he wished the thing had not happened.
Complications are added to Doctor Barton's court troubles, as Chapter 17 continues tomorrow.

Mo, in his turn, was none of these things. He was noisy, he swaggered, he threatened, and when finally he did go with the policeman and Grady across to the clinic and breathed into the apparatus, he was also shown to be drunk.
The policeman wrote down the reading in his book and suggested that maybe Mr. Chronister had better let somebody else drive his car home.
"I can drive!" declared Mo. "Better ride along with me, sir," said the policeman.
"I think he'll go with you," said Grady. "And you can send a garage man for his car—and mine."
"Look here, Doc," said Mo, coming over to Grady—though by then his movements were not so assured. "I'll pay for your old car."
"Yes, I know you will," said the doctor, waiting for a chance to turn off the lights and close up his office again.
With threatening promises, Mo finally got into the police car to be taken home. The garage man came, surveyed the damage to Grady's car. "You can keep it to use, Doc, till I get a chance to iron it out."
"Yes," said Grady. "I only want-

Grimesland Greets Teacher To Staff

BY HAZEL MAY
Grimesland School Reporter

The Business Department at Grimesland High School has welcomed Miss Faye Newton to the school staff. Miss Newton is a native of New Bern and was graduated from New Bern High School. Her favorite sports are basketball, baseball and swimming.

Jimmy Edwards was host for the monthly meeting of the Beta Club last Thursday. Refreshments of punch, potato chips, cupcakes and candy were served to club members after a business session.

Next meeting will be held at the home of Joyce Whichard on March 7.

Weekly adult meetings have been started by the Home Economics Department under the supervision of Mrs. Julia S. Venters. Additional meetings have been scheduled for the next three Fridays from 2:30 p.m. until 3:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend the meetings.

A new flag has been placed in the gymnasium, above the door. The flag is a big one, measuring 17 feet by eight feet.

The March of Dimes drive ended January 31 with a total of $1,250 being turned in to county drive officials. Collecting the money was a hard job but students enjoyed the work.

Will Head Church Youth Program

ROBERSONVILLE—Ted Hubbert of Miami, Fla., a ministerial student at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson, has accepted the position of Youth Director in the Christian Church here.

He succeeds Miss Frances Herring, also a student at ACC, who resigned in January after working with the young people for several months.

Mr. Hubbert has had extensive experience with the church youth program. He will continue his studies and instruct the young people on weekends.

Fountain Drive Netted $318.83

FOUNTAIN—The March of Dimes in Fountain has been termed "very successful" by local chairman Mrs. Carter Smith who turned over $318.83 to county drive officials.

School basketball teams from Fountain and Arthur and the Lions and Ruritan clubs helped to put the drive over, Mrs. Smith said. She added that the 201 students at Fountain School contributed $173, the Home Demonstration club gave $30, and coin boxes and mail contributions brought in a substantial sum.

Dispute Belief Richer States Pay The Freight

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK — The belief that most federal aid is used to help the poorer states with funds taken from the richer states is challenged today in a study by the New Jersey Taxpayers Assn.

It says most of the money just makes a round trip to Washington and back to the state of origin, losing a little on the way through operating costs.

The survey is released as Congress is getting ready to debate federal aid for such things as schools and roads.

The argument on the other side is that some states and communities cannot afford to provide these things themselves because their citizens cannot bear higher taxes, having relatively lower incomes.

The New Jersey group says that last year federal aid came to more than $4 billion dollars, provided by the taxpayers of all the states.

By studying what taxpayers of each state paid into Washington and comparing it with the amount of federal aid received by each state, the association states that only 23 per cent of the over-all federal grant system was collected directly from taxpayers in the high-tax revenue producing states and spent in the lower revenue producing states. This 23 per cent was 800 million dollars.

The major share, 77 per cent, the survey says, was spent in the states whose taxpayers supplied it in the first place. This came to $2 1/2 billion dollars.

The survey shows, however, that the 23 per cent of the funds that went to states different from those of origin was supplied by 14 states.

These 14 got a little less than 1 1/2 billion dollars in various forms of federal aid, but put up about 2 1/2 billion in taxes.

The other 34 states, according to the survey, put up a little more than a billion dollars and got almost two billion.

Library Adds To Record Shelves

Sheppard Memorial Library has added 45 long-playing records to its collection started in May, 1956.

The new records, all high fidelity, are classical and include music, speech and theatre selections.

Added are symphonies, concertos, selections of orchestral and chamber music, keyboard recordings including organ numbers, vocal selections and some folk music.

The speech additions include those from the theatre, poetry and Shakespearean plays.

Sheppard Memorial Librarian Elizabeth Copeland reports the response to the new records has been "wonderful." After three days of circulation only two of the new recordings were left on the shelves, she said.

The records are available on a two-week loan basis the same as books.

The new selections represent an effort on the Library's part to establish a good basic record collection in classical music and speech. When this is achieved, an effort will be made to branch out into other types, Miss Copeland said.

To Attend Speech Association Meeting
Dr. Meredith N. Posey of East Carolina College will attend a one-day meeting of the North Carolina Speech Association to be held at Wake Forest College Saturday.

Dr. Posey is secretary-treasurer of the Association.

Plans for the annual Senior Stunt Night are in the process of being made and persons have been asked to serve on a stunt committee.

Announcement of the event, which is planned for March 8, was made by May Eason at a joint meeting last Wednesday of the Future Business Leaders of America and the Future Teachers of America. Both groups saw a movie, "To Greater Vision."

Farmville High School students are deeply grieved over the loss of a beloved classmate, Jeff Jefferson. Jeff was an active member of the Sophomore Class.

Seniors have completed work on the annual and are eagerly awaiting return of the finished product from the publishers.

Five P. H. S. Seniors have taken entrance exams for East Carolina College. They are Elizabeth Smith, Dean Allen, Marian Pickett, Hilda Owens and Patsy Phillips.

Sue Dilda visited Alice Waters of Winterville during the weekend. Sue, a member of the Junior Class, also presented her organ recital February 3 at the Fountain Presbyterian Church.

Members of the Farmville High School Glee Club will present its Popular Music Concert Thursday night at 8 o'clock in Perkins Hall at F. H. S. Among the songs which will be sung are "Young Love," "A Rose and A Baby Ruth," "Just Walking In The Rain," "Teen-Age Goodnight," "Don't Forbid Me," "Blueberry Hill," "Singing the Blues," "Heaven On Earth," "Walk Hand In Hand," "My Little Angel," "Friendly Persuasion," "Two Different Worlds" and "Love Me Tender." A admission charge of 25 cents will be made with proceeds going into a Vestment Fund.

A movie, "Better Your Health, The 4-H Way," was shown to members of the Senior 4-H Club at its regular meeting last Wednesday. Health Record Books were distributed to the members by Miss Stevens and Mr. Register who also made several announcements concerning the health project.

Horace Corbett led the group in the pledge of allegiance and Jo Anne Owens led the devotional. Gloria Joyner led group singing.

Members of the Squared Circle Club met February 6 and heard James Henry Bundy discuss plans for buying a club book. Members also discussed plans for ordering four volumes of "World Mathematics," and projects which have been proposed for the Science Fair.

Junior Class members have begun work on the Junior-Senior Banquet but they aren't having much to say about it. They're going about their planning in a very quiet fashion.

Dr. Walter C. Humbert of the Pitt County Health Department spoke to members of the Science Club, the Future Farmers of America, and Biology students last Wednesday. Dr. Humbert discussed parts of the blood, types of blood, blood transfusions, and the circulatory system.

The Ketyete Club held its regular supper meeting last week at which plans for a joint project with the Key Club were discussed and committees were appointed.

A committee for listing plays that might be presented has been appointed by the Sophomore Class. Committee members include Richard Dunn, George Thomas, Gladys Beaman and Christine Allen. The play which is selected will be presented April 12.

The Parent-Teacher Association met Thursday night in the high school auditorium. The program for the meeting was presented entirely by men.

Future Homemakers of America heard a discussion of beauty shop operation and techniques at their latest meeting. Mrs. Joyner, who operates a beauty shop in Greenville, led the discussion and demonstrated many of the newest hair styles. After the demonstration, she gave hints on different cosmetics.

U. S. Communists Claim They'll Chart Own Course

By JAMES DEVLIN
NEW YORK (AP)—The American Communist party, declaring itself no longer a Moscow satellite, set out on an independent course today with a "team" leadership.

The terms of William Z. Foster, national chairman, and Eugene Dennis, general secretary, expired automatically during the convention concluded yesterday.

The convention overwhelmingly approved a recommendation submitted by Dennis that the party leadership for the foreseeable future be taken over by a "team" of an 11-member "national administrative committee."

The party avowedly broke with the strict Kremlin line by adopting a resolution declaring that henceforth it would do its own interpreting of Marxist-Leninist principles.

Max Weiss, the party's national education chairman, who submitted the resolution, said it was an "explicit declaration of the independent and equal status of our party in relation to the world Communist movement."

This was a step akin to "Titoism" although the American Communists did not use the term.

The 298 delegates at the convention approved the resolution overwhelmingly. A spokesman said 12 or 15 voted against it in the show of hands and that about 5 did not vote.

The convention, meanwhile, decided that its general governing body, the national committee, henceforth would have 60 members instead of 15.

It elected 20 committee members at large, with the other 40 to be elected regionally at state conventions by March 31, if possible.

The 20 elected at-large delegates then selected 11 of their number to serve as the national administrative committee.

They are Foster, Dennis, John Gates, George Blake Charney, Benjamin Davis, Earl Durham, Fred Fine, James E. Jackson, Charles Loman, Sidney Stein and Dorey Wilkerson.

All reside in New York. They were chosen largely because this would permit them to meet on short notice. The convention stipulated, however, that all 20 at-large delegates be consulted on any major policy decision.

After the national administrative committee had been approved, Gates told the convention: "This is a historic convention because for the first time we have officially adopted a program of an American road to socialism along peaceful, constitutional lines."

Foster, who had opposed the changes, seconded the Dennis motion for a team leadership and said it represented "a victory for the party and not any partisan group of faction."

Doubt Wilson Is Planning Retire

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Pentagon talk today was that Charles E. Wilson may desire to stay on as secretary of defense for another year instead of quitting sometime this summer.

Wilson is resting up on a Florida vacation, saying nothing about his plans.

The possibility of a summer retirement arose Dec. 27 when newsmen asked Wilson if he expected to remain until congressional action on the 38-billion-dollar military budget was completed. That probably will come in the early summer.

His answer then was that "my present intention is to see it (the budget) through. . . . But I might change my mind, of course. . . . A man never knows what is going to happen to him these days."

Some are suggesting that Wilson may want to round out a five-year tenure. They emphasized his December comment that he might change his mind.

Wilson plans to return to Washington Saturday. Mrs. Wilson has made no secret of the fact that she would like her husband to retire and take life easy.

Talk of Wilson's possible retirement increased after he told a congressional committee that a provision in law permitting sub-draft age boys to enlist in the National Guard was "a sort of scandal during the Korean War, a draft dodging business."

Eisenhower told a subsequent White House news conference that he thought Wilson's comment "unwise."

But when Wilson and his wife left for Florida Feb. 2 they made the first part of their journey with Eisenhower aboard his plane, at his invitation. The three posed there for a happy-looking picture.

No Time To Sell Horses 'Short'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Patrolman Jack Miller's motorcycle cranked up with an explosion and then started burning.

As Miller jumped off, the blazing machine toppled under an automobile.

Up rode patrolman Ed Lawson, whose mount is a horse called Chief, to take quick charge of a hot situation. With a lariat, Lawson lassoed the burning motorcycle and pulled it from beneath the car.

When the firemen he called had smothered the fire, Lawson remarked to Miller, with some satisfaction: "This should teach you not to sell horses short."

OTHER BUSINESS

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A letter to the sheriff from Charles F. Wilken of Coachella Valley said he lost a pistol in 1942 but had been too busy to report it until 1956, when the letter was mailed.

Claim Leniency Incites Rebellion

WOONSOCKET, R. I. (AP) — A YMCA official says leniency by educators and police only make today's youth grow increasingly callow and less respectful to authority. Speaking at the Woonsocket YMCA's annual meeting, Victor H. Berger, its general secretary, suggested that legislation be sought to permit corporal punishment by educators and law enforcers as a possible cure for juvenile delinquency.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Steels, with help from aircrafts, oils, rails and other selected issues paced the stock market to a rally today.

Key stocks went ahead from fractions to 2 points or more in active turnover.

The market was snapping back after four straight daily declines featured by Monday's major break, the sharpest since October, 1955, when the market was tottering after President Eisenhower's heart attack.

Prices of many important stocks were low enough to prove tempting to buyers, Wall Street observers said, and it was the usual thing to expect a technical rally of this kind after the big losses taken recently.

No outstanding news was seen as a spark for today's rise and, in fact, some stocks advanced despite reports which normally would depress their prices.

Coppers gained despite news of some further softening in prices of the red metal. Kennecott rose around 2 and Anaconda about a point.

Though there were reports of production cutbacks in the textile industry, Burlington and Celanese were steady while Extron picked up a fraction.

Among the steels, Youngstown and Lukens advanced around 2 each. U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic Steel had rises of around a point.

In proposing to close the contract school at Stallings, the Air Force gave as one of its primary reasons the fact that the base is under Navy jurisdiction. Air Force officials said it would take close to $2 million to make necessary repairs on the base and expressed reluctance to invest in an installation on which the Navy had first claim.
