

Supply Of Atomic Warheads Abroad

By PRESTON GROVER PARIS (AP) — The United States has stockpiled atomic warheads in France, it was learned authoritatively today.

The source for this disclosure cannot be given, but it is flow solid information. Selected Allied forces in NATO are being trained in the use of equipment that would carry the warheads.

U. S. law forbids delivery of atomic warheads to other nations. However, as one expert put it, the aim of the Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe is to train the Allied forces so carefully that in the event of Russian attack all the Americans in charge of the stockpile would have to say is: "Sergeant, there's the key."

Third Day Of Talking

Brownell Willing To Appear Again For Unusual Saturday Hearing On Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Brownell faced a third straight session of questioning today on the Eisenhower administration's civil rights program.

Dulles And Eisenhower Talk Action On Israel

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles conferred with President Eisenhower today and afterward spoke of "further action which may be taken by the United States" in an effort to get Israeli troops out of Egypt.

Dulles did not say what that action may be. He added, in fact, that he and Eisenhower made "no definite decision" on that matter pending "further clarification of the position of the Israeli government."

The statement of the Israeli position, presented to Dulles by Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban late yesterday, apparently dashed Dulles' hopes that the Israelis could be induced to get their forces out of the Gaza and Aqaba areas on the basis of a simple declaration of American support for their interests in those areas.

Dulles, saying "We regret that the ambassador's reply does not seem responsive to the U. S. positions communicated to Mr. Eban last Monday." Eban said the Israelis "believe our reply expressed appreciation of American interest and was constructive in its spirit and content."

Clinic Fully Certified By Two Heart Associations

One of the regular visitors to the monthly Pitt County Rheumatic Fever Heart Clinic is 10-year-old Geraldine Farrow of Buxton, on the Outer Banks.

By JIMMY ELLIS Reflector Staff Writer In a way, Thursday was a big day for the Pitt County Rheumatic Fever Heart Clinic.

There was no celebration or other special ceremony—just the usual job of trying to improve the lives and physical conditions of about 12 children from Eastern North Carolina.

The Coastal Plain Heart Association, which includes Pitt, Martin, Halifax, Nash and Edgecombe counties, gets its funds from voluntary contributions.

Young has been assigned by Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.), chairman of the full committee and an avowed foe of civil rights measures, to assist Ervin and other opponents of the legislation.

Sen. Hennings (D-Mo.), chairman of the subcommittee, said Young would be permitted to question witnesses in his unusual role of "opposition counsel."

Most of Ervin's questioning has centered on the administration's request for authority to go into federal courts to seek injunctions or other civil remedies to protect voting rights or other civil rights.

Private citizens now may apply for injunctions to enforce their rights. However, Brownell said yesterday that in some cases this has not been done because of what he termed "economic pressures."

The federal government's civil rights enforcement power is limited by present law to criminal prosecutions.

Ervin has lambasted the proposal on grounds it provides for "government by injunction." He also has contended that its effect would be to strip away the right of trial by jury.

Long Line For The Last Day

LAST DAY LINES—Pitt County car owners are shown above crowding into the Home and Auto Supply store on 5th Street in an effort to get their 1957 automobile license plates before the deadline set up by North Carolina law yesterday.

Preliminaries Out Of The Way In State Legislature

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina General Assembly completed its first working week today, a week in which a record state budget was introduced and the first major battle shaped up.

Both the House and Senate indicated they would get down to work in a hurry as Lt. Gov. Luther Barnhardt and Speaker J. K. Doughton announced lengthy committee appointments.

The appropriations and tax bills were introduced Tuesday, paving the way for consideration of the biennial budget which calls for state spending of 79 1/2 million dollars in the next two fiscal years.

Applaud Truman Invitation To Greece, Turkey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several Senate Republicans and Democrats today applauded a reported Eisenhower administration invitation to former President Truman to attend ceremonies in Greece and Turkey next month.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith and Clifford Case, New Jersey Republicans, said they felt the move to have Truman take part in observance of the 10th anniversary of the Greek-Turkish aid program, which he inaugurated, would strengthen bipartisan cooperation on foreign policy.

An Old Advertisement Is Seen Again

ANYONE FOR SARSAPARILLA—The above sign, believed to be over three-quarters of a century old, was uncovered by workers who are constructing a new building here on Evans Street.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla must have been quite the thing sometime before the turn of the 20th century. Construction workers erecting the new First Federal Savings and Loan Association and Tadlock Insurance Building, uncovered the well-painted sign last Tuesday while clearing the old walls of the building on Evans Street that was recently torn down.

The Sarsaparilla advertisement, reputed to have been painted sometime in the late 1800's made it plain to the reader that the liquid was "good for what ailed him."

Yesterday morning upon completely clearing the plaster and cement, the remainder of the sign was uncovered. The name of M. A. Lange, Dry Goods and Clothing was revealed in addition to member when there was no store on the site to be utilized for the new building. The sign was painted by a Chicago sign painting concern and had more writing on it that could not be distinguished by the workmen who evidently had more to do than read about the "sure-cures" of another century.

Docks Strike Peace Parley Is Stalled By Union Differences

By RAY KOHN NEW YORK (AP) — Internal strife among dock union leaders has stalled negotiations aimed at settling the Northeast coast waterfront strike.

A meeting yesterday of the 110-man bargaining committee of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA) erupted into a bolt by leaders of three powerful Manhattan locals.

Ports from Portland, Maine, to Hampton Roads, Va., stand idle by the strike of 45,000 longshoremen who went out last Tuesday after expiration of an 80-day Taft-Hartley Act injunction.

Key Roll Assigned To Jones

RALEIGH (AP) — Dr. Paul E. Jones, state senator from Pitt County, will be chairman of the senate's Public Roads Committee during the 1957 General Assembly.

The committee's major job during the session will be to consider legislation calling for reorganization of the State Highway Department.

Representative Jones, who was previously appointed vice-chairman of the committee on Finance, was also named to committees on Agriculture, Banks and Banking, Commercial Fisheries, Counties, Cities and Towns, Insurance, Health, Public Utilities, Salaries and Fees, and State Government.

Representative Wooten, the freshman member of the Pitt delegation, was named to 12 committees in the House.

Former Official Dies REIMS, France (AP) — Lord Leslie Hore-Belisha, former British secretary of war and holder of other Cabinet posts, died here today after a brain hemorrhage.

Elmhurst Garden Club Hears Talk On Birds By Mrs. Wolff

"Let your children help you put up the feeder or bird house and this will eliminate the BB gun afterwards," Mrs. R. L. Wolff advised members of the Elmhurst Garden Club Thursday. Mrs. Wolff listed the feeder and house as main attractions for birds. In describing construction, she pointed out a nice feeder can be made with a cheese hoop nailed on a pole or hung in a tree. "Birds love to eat apples, peanut butter—anything that does not have sulphur in it," she told the club. "For years people wondered what happened to birds when they migrated. Did they hibernate? Did they bury themselves in mud? It wasn't until 1899 that a Dane in Germany put bands on them for identification. In 1935 it was established that birds migrate in a definite pattern," the featured speaker noted. Since 1902 there have been over ten million banded and seven hundred thousand recoveries. File cards have been made on over three million birds, she pointed out. Mrs. Wolff was introduced by Mrs. Woodrow Flannery. Mrs. James M. Grulke, president, presided over the business session when Mrs. Mitchell White, Mrs. Marvin E. Hill, Mrs. W. D. Massey and Mrs. J. W. Baker were welcomed into the club. Mrs. Durward Harris reported that club members are asked to help distribute literature and posters in the schools during "Clean-Up Week." Mrs. Joe Respass advised members that now and the first of March are the best times to plant roses. Many failures in growing them can be traced to poor plants and lax methods of planting, she declared. The meeting took place at the home of Mrs. Dave Fowler, 1205 S. Overlook Drive. During the social hour, Mrs. Fowler served sandwiches, heart-shaped cookies and cakes to the 22 members present. Next meeting of the club is scheduled for March 14 when Mrs. Thomas B. Brown will be hostess.

Witha Council Meets

Witha Council members of the Degree of Pocahontas met Tuesday night for their regular semi-monthly meeting with Pocahontas Minnie Bailey presiding. The meeting was carried out in ritualistic form. The American flag was presented and an allegiance was pledged, followed by singing the opening ode. Mrs. Bessie Worthington and Mrs. Lucy Arnold were welcomed by the council as new members. Mrs. Nina Joyner of Farmville Council was welcomed as a visitor. A letter was read from L. B. Wynne, Great Prophet of North Carolina, stating the Eastern District meeting would be held in the Red Men's Hall in Rocky Mount March 1 at 6 o'clock. A banquet at 7:30 will be followed with a dance. Mrs. Kathleen Woolard, chairman of Ways and Means, reported that the council had turned in $155.16, and thanked everyone for their grand cooperation. Several thank you notes were read. Mrs. Dora Bozeman had "Good of Order," reading Scripture and closing with a prayer. Mrs. Bettie Nobles and Mrs. Ruby Hodges had birthdays and contributed to the birthday fund. Mrs. Jettie Ross won the jackpot. After the meeting adjourned, Mrs. Kathleen Woolard and her committee invited the members into the parlors for a surprise birthday party for Keeper of Records Bettie Nobles. As she reached the door everyone sang "Happy Birthday." Mrs. Mildred Causey presented her with a red and white carnation corsage. Mrs. Dora Bozeman presented her a gift from the council, expressing the sentiments of the members for the hard work and thoughtfulness for the council. Mrs. Geneva Webb also presented Pocahontas Minnie Bailey with a Valentine corsage of red and white carnations, promising her moral support of the council. The table was covered with a white lace cloth and held an arrangement of cupid on platform, holding a vase of red and white carnations. A chain of red hearts extended around the edge of the table. At one end of the table, Mrs. Essie Barrow poured red fruit punch. The opposite end held a decorated birthday cake in Pocahontas colors, purple and white, with lighted candles. Mrs. Nobles blew out the candles and served the cake to the members, expressing her thanks and appreciation. The mantels were banked with greenery and a chain of red hearts with white tapers. A center arrangement of red and white carnations centered with a red satin covered heart was also used.

Paint, Colors Talked At Meet

James Harris conducted the third meeting for adults at Belvoir-Falkland School on February 12. He talked on the use of paint and color selection in decorating. He showed with color charts the popular colors in paint for this year and explained where various types of paint should be used in the home. After his talk the ladies asked questions concerning paint and decorating. On February 20, the fourth adult meeting in this series will be held in the Home Economics cottage. Mrs. T. H. Boykin, prominent consultant on entertaining and weddings, will talk on "Being A Charming Hostess." All interested persons are urged to be present at 8 p.m. The adult meeting for February 27 at 4:00 p.m. is especially planned for parents of teen-agers. There will be a panel of six to discuss the problems of teen-agers today and what the parents' responsibility is to his teen-ager. On March 6 at 8 o'clock the last meeting will be held with Mrs. Joe Hipp of Greenville demonstrating "How To Make Draperies." She will also discuss selection of drapery material. "We have had good attendance so far but wish that more people would take advantage of these informal discussions," noted Mrs. Dorothy Gurganus, homemaking teacher.

Legion Auxiliary Plans Card Tourney

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold a bridge and canasta tournament on Thursday evening, February 21, at 8:00 o'clock, in the north dining room of the College Cafeteria. Reservations for tables may be made by calling Mrs. L. L. Rives (3019), Mrs. James R. Worsley (2296), Mrs. J. L. Rollins (5161) and Mrs. Alfred Kennedy (5224 or 2573). Refreshments will be served and there will be attractive prizes. Those responsible for a table should bring cards and score pads, the announcement adds.

Cunningham-Moore Vows Said

The marriage of Miss Norma Ruth Moore and William Hines Cunningham was solemnized in Farmville at the Christian Church February 2 at half past four with the Rev. Z. B. T. Cox officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Addie Diddy Moore of Farmville and the bridegroom the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Booker Cunningham of Wilson. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Haywood Smith of Farmville. A chorus of twelve children from Margaret Hearne School in Wilson sang the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin and the "Wedding Prayer" by Dunlap. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, James W. Moore of Farmville. She wore a gown of ice blue satin fashioned with a high fitted neckline and bodice, with an overlay of white starella lace. The full circular skirt was straight, waltz-length in front, with fullness to the back. She wore a crown of Ceylon beads and seed pearls with a chapel-length veil of ice blue illusion net. She carried a corsage of cascaded stephanotis and a white orchid. Miss Jean Moore was her sister's maid of honor. Her afternoon-length dress was fashioned after that of the bride's in sky blue crystal satin with matching satin pumps. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Dall Laughinghouse of Greenville, also a sister of the bride, and Miss Doris Johnson of Angier. Their dresses were like that of the maid of honor in zircon blue radiant satin, and they carried bouquets of cascading pink carnations. Dan R. Morgan of Farmville was best man. Ushers were C. Booker Cunningham, III, of Wilson, Cecil Lilley Jr. of Grifton and Clyde L. Sullivan of Raleigh. After the ceremony a reception was held at the Major Benjamin May Chapter House in Farmville. For going away, Mrs. Cunningham chose a knitted dress of pink played by the city schools in Wilson. Mrs. Cunningham attended the University of North Carolina and is employed by Imperial Tobacco Company in Wilson. The bride is a graduate of East Carolina College and is now employed by the city schools in Wilson.

Mrs. William Hines Cunningham with mauve and brown accessories, with the white orchid lifted from her bridal corsage. The bride is a graduate of East Carolina College and is now employed by the city schools in Wilson.

---Or, Why Prices On Real Estate Are Rising

Population-wise, this country is mushrooming. A computer in the Commerce Department yesterday marked up a population of 170 million (estimated) for the United States, and by today the Census Bureau saw that figure increased by 7,200 more persons. In 24 hours there will be another 7,200 persons added to that figure.

You can look at such figures in several ways. From one viewpoint it means that every day we have 7,200 more mouths to feed . . . which is fine for an agriculturally minded group. Or, from a businessman's vantage, he can look to 7,200 new customers scattered broadcast over the nation each day. A motorist may look at the already traffic-clogged highway systems and grimly note "things are going to get worse before they get better".

The annual rate of population growth we enjoy is just short of three million persons . . . or about the present population of Louisiana or Kentucky. Every month there are enough new people to make up a city of 250,000, say the size of Syracuse, N. Y., or Richmond, Va.

Every eight seconds, somewhere in the country a baby is born. Every 21 seconds, someone dies. These are only average figures, of course.

Just as it is calculated that every two minutes an immigrant lands on these shores, and every 24 minutes sees departure of an emigrant.

Barring a cataclysm, we'll see a population of 200 million souls in 10 years or less.

Americans are going to be needing all those "wide open spaces". At the rate we're going, they won't be "wide open" so very much longer.

More Spent On Home Repairs?

By ELMER ROESSNER

While the number of new homes built this year is almost certain to be less than last year, the total spent for home repair and improvement may be higher. Last year a total of 1,120,200 dwelling units were started. This year most building industry leaders speak a bit wistfully about the possibility of 1,000,000 units. A unit is the residence for one family, whether a home, flat or apartment.

There will be more than a million if the government cuts interest rates. If present rates prevail, there will probably be less.

But home-improvement spending has three sturdy supporters: MONEY IS THERE

First, money for improvements appears to be more readily found than money for new homes, although interest rates are no less. Lenders prefer home-improvement loans in many instances. The security is good because the borrower has a substantial equity in the house. They are usually payable over a short term and government backing can be obtained.

Second, home-improvement skills are readily available in many communities. Where home building has slackened, both contractors and employees are eager for smaller jobs. In many areas where contractors were previously not interested in anything less than a $20,000 house, they are now willing to undertake $2,000 aspect-liftings.

Third—and this may be the most important reason of all—many of the houses built since the war are greatly in need of improvement.

That may be putting it mildly. Foundations have settled. Plaster has asserted its natural inclination to crack. Steps have separated from stoops. Termites are in the flagpoles—and if there aren't any flagpoles, they are some place else.

Billions of dollars worth of repairs are needed. On top of that, billions more worth of work should be done in those expansion attics—and what genius ever invented that name for them?

SEES $18 BILLION SPENDING. John R. Doshier, executive director of Operation Home Improvement, an industry campaign to whoop up spending therefore, estimates that $18 billion will be spent to better living quarters this year.

That would be a $3 billion rise over 1956 spending. About half of this year's total will be spent with contractors and builders, he estimates. The other half will be spent by do-it-yourselfers.

Meanwhile, families needing improvements—such as longer garages for those 1957 model cars—may do well to plan early and shop around for both money and skills.

For work to be done after the weather improves, it is a good idea to arrange financing now, first getting rates from banks, building and loan associations and other lenders.

It may be a good idea also to figure out the true interest rate on each loan offered. Giving borrowers double-talk is an accepted, even ethical, sport in these United States. Borrowers are fair game for lenders who talk about their 2 per cent interest rate, which is actually 48 per cent because the interest is levied monthly on the total instead of on the declining balance. And some of the most respected banks in the world announce 3.75 per cent rates on auto loans but get 7.5 per cent on the average of each loan per year.

Those wanting improvements may also benefit by shopping around among contractors. At this time of the year, when weather as well as interest rates slows building, they may be willing to make their best prices. But don't buy on price alone; the contractor with a reputation for satisfactory work in your neighborhood is a far better bet than the stranger who offers a fantastically low price—or offers rebates if you'll introduce him to neighbors needing work done.

pression that the situation is more serious than the facts actually indicate. In short, Brownell is seeking to make a mountain out of a mole hill in an effort to acquire for the Department of Justice much more far-reaching authority than it now has.

The attorney general has cited North Carolina as an area in which this "mass-disenfranchisement" of Negro voters is taking place. We are well aware that there may have been isolated communities in the state where a concerted effort has been made on the part of some individuals to deprive Negro citizens the right to vote. But certainly there is not indication of any "mass-disenfranchisement."

Brownell himself, under examination by Sen. Sam Ervin, Jr. could cite only three precincts among North Carolina's 7,200 that any question has arisen over the registration of Negro voters. Does that justify charges of "mass-disenfranchisement" against North Carolina?

Even in those three precincts the facts presented by Brownell leave the impression that the alleged effort to keep Negroes from registering was the work of the individual registrars rather than a general situation throughout even those local counties.

We agree with Sen. Ervin that the new power being sought by the Department of Justice in its civil rights legislation is a "drastic approach." In effect it would give the Department of Justice authority to step into any local situation and take such action as it sees fit to protect what it terms "civil rights". In Brownell's own words, the legislation would permit the federal government to step into local affairs any time it even thought "civil rights" violations were about to occur.

Brownell has utterly failed to justify his charges of "mass-disenfranchisement." Try as he might, we do not believe he will be able to justify these charges. Nevertheless, when such charges are made against North Carolina or any other state, we are grateful for men like Sen. Ervin who are not only willing but capable of standing up and fighting against this kind of unfounded bureaucratic indictment.

Official Plane Idea Isn't New

By LYNN NISBET

PLANE — The suggestion that the State should provide an airplane for the use of the Governor on somewhat the same basis as it provides the big No. 1 automobile is not new. This is the first time the item has appeared in the budget recommendations, but it was advocated eight years ago by Senator Jack Blythe of Mecklenburg.

Shortly after Senator Jack was elected to fill the seat vacated by the death of this brother Joe he proposed the purchase of a plane for the Governor. The plan did not get very far for two main reasons. It was argued that there were not enough landing strips strategically located to make intra-state use of the plane feasible, and that for outside trips regular commercial flights were adequate. For instate emergencies the Air National Guard could be called upon.

Another reason was that Governor Scott emphatically vetoed the suggestion. Some of the Governor's friends in the Legislature charged that Blythe was trying to embarrass Governor Scott by making it appear he was trying to spend too much money on his own office.

Scott was nearly so air-minded as Governor Hodges, and other conditions have changed. While the present Governor denies sponsorship of the plan he told newsmen that there are many times when a plane would be advantageous in showing prospective investors over the state. The Wildlife Resources Commission operates a plane in its law enforcement section, and the forestry division in Conservation and Development has two planes, chiefly for forest fire detection. Commercial fisheries have suggested a plane would be of great help in law enforcement work.

TRADE STAMPS — The trade premium stamp plan, diversely called a "reack" and a legitimate business stimulant, may get a going over by the Legislature.

Sen. Paul Jones of Pitt is giving thought to a different approach. Instead of outlawing the use of premium stamps, as was proposed last session, the Pitt solon would seek some profit to the state. He would require all business places using accurate records of the number and value of stamps distributed, to make periodic reports, and then would have the value of unredeemed issues escheated to the University. That is what happens now to unclaimed bank deposits, excess collections by transportation companies, and similar items for which proper individual owners cannot be located.

OLDEST MEMBERS — Sen. John C. McBee of Mitchell, who passed his 90th birthday last summer, is the oldest member of the 1957 General Assembly. Runner-up Rep. R. Bruce Etheridge of Dare, who is just two years younger, "Uncle Bruce," as he is affectionately known, holds the record for earliest service, having been a member of the House in 1903. Rep. George R. Uzzell of Rowan has more legislative time to his credit, being in his 12th term. He came first in 1931 and has been in every regular and special session since, except 1933 and 1949.

Youngest member in the entire assembly is Sen. Perry Martin of Northampton. He was 23 last June. Youngest man in the House is Rep. Dan Simpson of Burke, who will celebrate his 30th birthday next Wednesday.

The oldest Senator and the youngest Representative are Republican and the age span is more than 50 years.

SOCIAL SECURITY — The State of North Carolina will put up between $40 and $50 for each member of the General Assembly to match contributions to the Federal social security program. A like amount will be deducted from the paychecks issued to individual members. That means each legislator will get $40-$50 less in cash take home pay, but will be credited with $80-$100 on social security payments up to a total of $180— which is 4 1/2 per cent of the maximum liability of $4,200. The Senate voted on Wednesday to accept the social security plan without audible dissenting vote. The House voted on Thursday by a narrow margin in a voice vote, but no division was asked when Speaker Doughton announced the favorable vote.

Federal income tax withholdings have been deducted from legislative salary checks for many years. Because they were rated as temporary or part time employees legislators have not been under the State retirement system. This is the first session since the State retirement system and the Federal security program were integrated.

Members would have to pay the Federal security item whether or not it was deducted from their current checks. Nathan Yelton, director of the retirement system, explained that under the plan adopted the State would pay half of the amount. Even so, a good many of the Representatives apparently would rather have the pay checks a little larger and let the social security payments come from some later adjustment.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
ENTRANCES ARE PLAINLY MARKED

A few weeks ago I sat in a station waiting for the arrival of a guest. I became interested in the number of people who tried to go out to the train shed, through the exit. This door was plainly marked. There was little reason why anyone would mistake it for the entrance, but about twenty did in the brief half-hour I sat there. They would keep pushing at the doors, and then, with some evidence of frustration or chagrin would move over to the entrance doors and go out to meet the train.

Of course the thought immediately popped into my head that there are thousands of people who all the time keep wearing themselves out by trying to get into life by pushing at the doors marked "exit." They seek happiness where there is no happiness. They keep trying to go through doors to reach satisfactions, and the experience of the race for centuries had been that these doors lead not to satisfying life but to the way out so far as happiness is concerned.

For instance, there are the lazy people who think that the less they work the happier they will be. There are the haters who keep turning over injuries in their minds and getting a morbid satisfaction out of this which is the reverse of happiness. The drinkers who think that the alcohol route leads to happiness are pushing at the doors which have led no one to happiness and have meant the way out for untold millions.

Don't try to get to happiness by pushing at the exit doors. Entrances are plainly marked.

Down in Beaufort County the Sheriff's Department investigated a most unusual robbery. The other day two Pitt Sheriff Reul W. Tyson reports.

A woman who was cooking decided to go visiting. When she returned home she found her home had been entered. What was missing? A pot of collards.

Times are tough. Highway Patrol Lt. Tom Brown says that anybody who doubts those rules were in his backyard the other morning can just check with local police. It seems Greenville officers were called out to Elmhurst during the middle of day recently. The complaint: two mules running loose in the streets.

So far as I know there are no Texas born policemen on the local force but, nevertheless they accomplished their mission. The mules were taken into custody.

And that brings us to a couple more highway patrolmen, Cpl. C. E. Whitfield and Pfc James W. Boykin. The two attended the Jaycee Bosses Night banquet at the Moose Lodge the other night.

When the banquet ended the two officers found a truck mired down to the axles squarely in the middle of U. S. Highway 264. It seems the pavement had been cut for the installation of drainage tile. The hole had been filled with dirt and warning flares placed along the road, but rainy weather had tamped the fill into a mud hole.

A wrecker was required to pull the truck out and the two patrolmen spent the next hour tossing

Other Editors Saying-- Arabs, Israel And UN

(The New York Times)

The State of Israel, after enduring various ordeals during the ten years of her existence, faces this week in the U. N. the possibility of punitive measures because she will not unconditionally obey resolutions of the General Assembly calling upon her to complete her withdrawal behind the armistice demarcation lines of 1949. The United States, in consequence, faces the choice of supporting such measures, opposing them or kill them, if we wish.

President Eisenhower has concededly urged the withdrawal. State Department spokesmen were described in a Washington dispatch to this newspaper yesterday as being "both angry and frustrated" over Israel's insistence upon guarantees before pulling out.

The desired guarantees are simple. They are in line with at least one interpretation of the General Assembly's second resolution of February 1, which this country sponsored. This is that when the General Assembly said that "withdrawal by Israel must be followed by action which would assure progress toward the creation of peaceful conditions" it meant conditions differing from those that preceded the Israeli invasion of the Gaza Strip and Sinai on October 29.

The conditions then existing included an Egyptian blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba against Israeli ships and restrictions on the movements of Israeli ships and cargoes in the Suez Canal. They also included Fedayeen gangs, trained and inspired by the Egyptians, raiding into Israel out of the Gaza Strip and Sinai.

It is argued that the Israelis ought not to be rewarded for their own admittedly illegal invasion of Egyptian or Egyptian-controlled territory. Of course they should not be. But it is surely illogical to the point of nonsense to contend that the Egyptians should be rewarded for losing a war, and the Israelis punished for winning a war, in which neither side was blameless. Finally, in the interests of peace, it is neither wise nor just to remove some of the conditions making for war and leave others untouched.

We hope that when our spokesmen next express themselves, either in Washington or at the U. N., they will insist, for our own sake and for all nations' sake, not merely for the sake of Israel, that the Egyptians give guarantees to keep the peace before there is any further talk of sanctions against Israel.

The friendship of the Arab states, if that is what we are working for, is not worth while if it has to be bought by subterfuges and injustice.

bricks and stones and shoveling dirt into the hole left by the truck.

Tires squealed at the intersection of Forbes and Ninth St. for a few days recently. Motorists accustomed to traveling Ninth Street found that a "Yield Right of Way" sign had been installed at the intersection.

Within a few days motorists were relieved to find that the signs had been changed to the Forbes St. sides of the intersection. That seemed more normal.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam said the signs were installed on Ninth St. by mistake and they were meant for Forbes all along.

Now vehicles on Ninth have right-of-way. Motorists on Forbes must observe the "Yield Right of Way" signs.

Still A Child Of Moscow

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—The first question that can be fairly put to the newly reorganized American Communist party is: Whom do you think you're kidding?

All the party did at its New York convention this week was to rearrange the furniture to make itself look like a native national American party, concerned only with American welfare and no longer a Russian agent.

That's exactly what Moscow a year ago told Western Communist parties to do. The reason was simple: everywhere they had run into stone walls and their membership was dwindling.

If they could change their front they might be able to work with, and infiltrate, other groups — like labor, Socialists, liberals — which would have nothing to do with them so long as they were plainly Moscow errand boys.

Thus at the very moment of declaring itself its own man at last, the American party was following the new Russian post-Stalin line just as slavishly as it had followed Stalin while he was alive.

The Russians — after seeing what a little taste of independence had done among Polish and Hungarian Communists who had taken Moscow's advice too literally — did not want other parties to go too far.

The American Communist party didn't go too far. Since Russia's bloody intrusion in Hungary, the party's newspaper, the Daily Worker, under the editorship of John Gates, had been critical of Moscow.

The press was barred from the convention in New York. But it can be said on the best authority not a single resolution adopted at the convention was critical of Russia.

And Gates barely got himself elected to the new 11-man administrative committee which will now boss the party. The party leadership, despite some rearranging, remains the same.

Until the convention William Z. Foster had been chairman for years, just as Eugene Dennis had been secretary. They had caused dissension among rank-and-file party members by the nature of their leadership.

Under them the party had reached the edge of disaster, suffering tremendous membership losses and finding itself isolated from all other groups in American life.

As a sop to the dissatisfied, Foster and Dennis were stripped of their titles but wound up on the administrative committee to be a kind of collective leadership. That's what the Russians have. They set it up after Stalin's death.

In the past the American Communist party had attracted many intellectuals. It should have small appeal to intellectuals in the future if they have any morality.

The American party stands intellectually degraded to a degree almost unbelievable among thinking people. It had never questioned Stalin, either on his tactics, his interpretation or his murders until his successors in the Kremlin denounced him and revealed him.

Then the American Communists acted surprised. It had as one of them said at the convention, always considered that what the Russian party did was "ipso facto valid." This was a complete confession that the American Communist party had abdicated thinking.

Opinions

In Brief

"The Advertiser, of Calais, Maine, points out that in many parts of the world socialists are worried because workers prefer jobs in private industry. The private building industry in Soviet East Germany has been taking the more efficient workers away from state-owned companies. And Bolivia's experiment in government operation of the tin industry failed primarily because of low worker productivity — they worked harder for private owners than they did for the government. This is not surprising." — Industrial News Review.

Defiance Of UN Lowering Prestige

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The apparent inability of the United Nations to solve several potentially grave crises has brought the U. N.'s prestige to its lowest point. It has led to demands for dissolution or revision of the international organization because of its ineffectiveness.

Within the last few weeks, its mandates have been defied by member nations which comprise more than half of the world's population. These countries and the questions on which they deliberately flouted the U. N. are:

Russia on Hungary and the satellites generally; Britain, France and Israel in their attack on Egypt; Israel in refusing to withdraw troops from Egyptian soil; France on independence in Algeria; India in refusing to hold a plebiscite on disputed Kashmir; China, a non-member, in failing to take steps for Korean unification. In all these problems the U. N. has been helpless to enforce its demands through diplomacy or military action.

VOTING WITHIN U. N. Moreover, voting control within the U. N. has finally passed to the anti-Western, anti-Democratic and anti-colonial members. Russia can block any action in the Security Council by a simple veto. The Soviet and Afro-Asian bloc, with 36 votes, can prevent action in the General Assembly, where a two-thirds vote is required for a decision.

Sometimes, a few South American nations vote with them when questions of colonialism are involved. On several occasions, members of the American bloc and the British Commonwealth have lined up against Washington and London.

The fact is that the dominant figures within the U. N. are not President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan, but Dictator Khrushchev, Neutralist Nehru and Colonel Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt.

IMBALANCES AND INADEQUACIES There are even more serious imbalances and inadequacies in the United Nations as now constituted. The United States and Russia, with populations of 160,000,000 and 200,000,000, respectively, have the same voice and vote in the General Assembly as Iceland and Israel, with a combined population of less than 4,000,000.

But if the actions of these two tiny nations lead to war, it will be the populous and powerful countries which must make the most severe sacrifices of men and money. To put it more shockingly, 5 per cent of the world's population — Russia — can prevent 95 per cent from taking effective action in the Security Council. And 10 per cent can obtain a two-thirds majority in the General Assembly.

Finally, the controlling members — the Soviet and Afro-Asian groups — are among the world's most backward nations in every way. Where they are not mere puppets of totalitarian and hostile Moscow, they consist of countries whose peoples cannot read or write or produce. They are running and ruling the world organization.

REVIVED "SECRET DIPLOMACY" These distortions have had two results which the U. N. was supposed to eliminate from international politics. They have brought a revival of the "secret diplomacy" that has caused so many wars. The world's difficulties are no longer threshed out on the open floor of the U. N. They are handled and dickered over in the New York hotel rooms of and diplomats, with Secretary Dag Hammarskjold as the tight-lipped agent.

In his conferences with King Saud of Arabia, Crown Prince Abdul Illah of Iraq, French Foreign Minister Charles Malik of Lebanon, as with Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau — to mention only a few — Eisenhower has bypassed and short-circuited the U. N.

Another effect has been the resumption of prewar alliances and balance of power agreements such as the European free market, Eisenhower's new Middle East Doctrine, and the French plan to develop a Franco-African empire.

The U. N. may not go the way of the defunct League of Nations after its denance by Hitler, Mussolini and the Japanese war lords. But it appears to be tottering on the edge as a strong keeper of the peace. Should that come about, it would leave the United States in a noble but lonesome isolation. While we exalt international morality as supposedly exemplified by the U. N., other nations base their policies on realistic and nationalistic

Kinston Whips Phants 79-61 In Final Tilt Of Year

GHS Successful In Loss, Showed An Improvement

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor
KINSTON — Greenville high school bowed out of its 1956-57 season here last night, falling 79-61 before the undefeated Kinston Red Devils.

For the visiting Phantoms, it was a most successful loss. Last night's game, though the Devils whipped them by 18, indicated a definite improvement over the earlier meeting of the two clubs. Kinston walloped them 76-34 in Greenville, a total of 42 points.

Last night's game finished out the season for both teams, giving Kinston the Northeastern Conference regular-season crown with a 12-0 mark, and securing third place for the Phantoms with an 8-4 slate.

Coach Boley Farley had his visiting Greenies open play with a possession game, which included passing, dribbling, holding but no shooting whatever. For the first two minutes, neither team scored since Greenville was in possession. However, on fouls and steals, Kinston quickly threw in six points. They then moved it to 8-0. Greenville finally scored when Mack Roebuck dropped in a lay-up.

From that point, Kinston began to run away from the still-reluctant-to-shoot Phantoms. They had pushed the score to 17-4, then 17-6 by the end of the first period.

Coach Farley instructed his boys to come out of their shell after that. With Peanut Nunn doing a tremendous job on the backboards for the locals, Greenville began to catch up to the State Class AA champs.

Shortly after the beginning of the second period, Greenville broke open with a fast-break attack that caught the Devils flat-footed. With Roebuck, Nunn, Al Crawford, Walker Allen and Charlie Smith hitting, the Green got the score to a narrow 23-19, only four-point difference.

Kinston's Bobby Stanley, high scorer in the game with 21, began to hit on a variety of push shots then, and the devils once again moved far ahead. Elton Faeltton and Charles Lewis, forwards, also started hitting from their positions. By halftime, the score was 35-22, a 13-point advantage for the hosts.

After a brief locker-room session with Coach Amos Sexton, Kinston came back in the second half to smash all Greenville hopes for an upset. Guard Alley Hart and Stanley (6-4) took the reins of the home club and pulled away from the visitors.

Soon the Red Devils had chalked up a 49-36 lead, hitting on all six cylinders and scoring from all over the court. Stanley kept the leaders well ahead on his push from the foul circle and Faeltton began to dominate the rebound department. By the end of the third quarter, it was 59-40.

The final quarter of play was all Kinston's. Coach Farley was able to keep five fresh men in the contest throughout with his two-out system, but the wide-awake Devils seemed to get stronger as time passed. They went into a full-court press late in the game and broke up the Phant offense with a fine display of defensive ball.

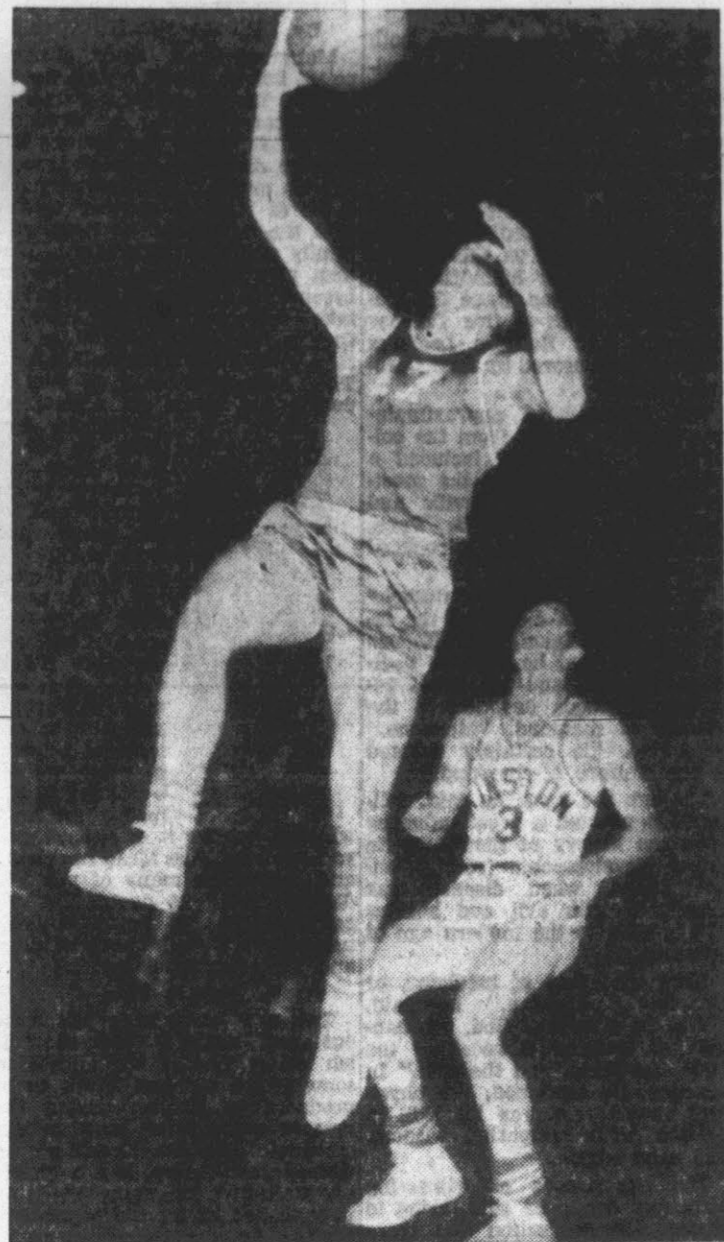

On three straight occasions, they stole the ball from the Greenville guards before they could even get it into the full court. Each steal resulted in two points for the home club.

Much of the final period was played at the foul line, with both teams getting plenty of chances to score via the foul toss. Kinston proved much the stronger club in this respect. They sank 27 of 31 tries from the foul line, which counted for most of their 18-point spread.

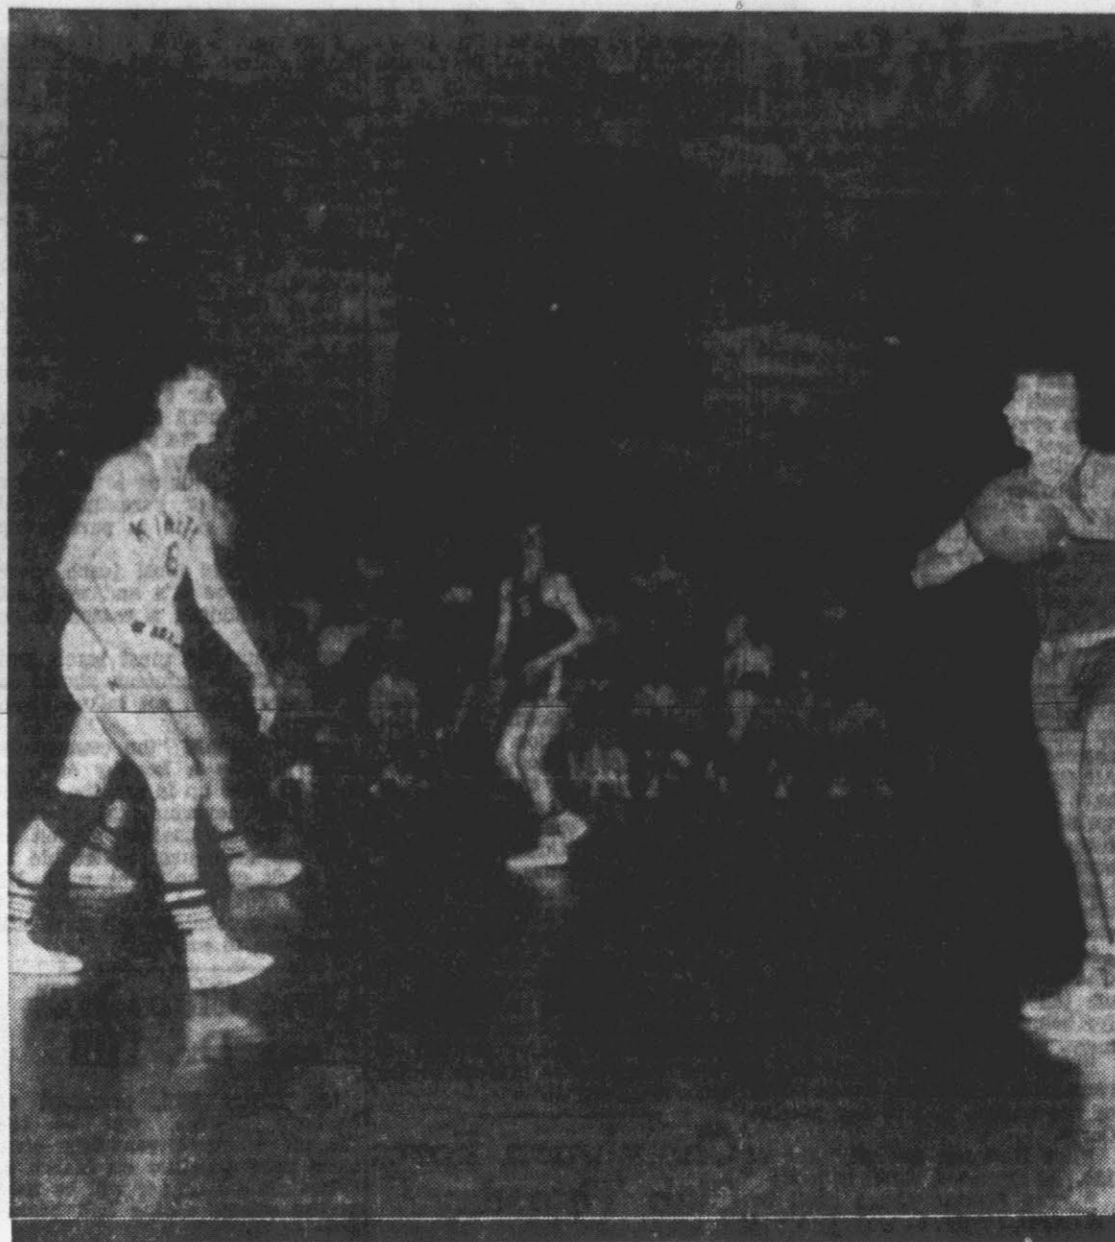

As far as shooting from the floor is concerned, Kinston hit on an even 50 per cent of their attempts. Greenville was close behind with 41 per cent.

With the season over, Greenville's 8-4 loop mark and 8-8 overall record has to go into the record book as a successful year. Last season, they were the co-champions of the Northeastern league with Kinston and held a team of GHS Greats, including All-Staters Ike Riddick and Hal Edwards. They lost their whole first string and three top reserves from that crew this season.

CHARLES SMITH SCORES—Senior forward Charlie Smith slapped in two of his total 10 points last night on the above shot, as Kinston's Alley Hart (3) looked on helplessly. Hart and Crew, however, won the game 79-61, to put the wraps on the Northeastern Conference play for this season. The Red Devils went undefeated in 12 games. Greenville finished third in the loop with an 8-4 record.

OH, WHAT TO DO, WHAT TO DO—Greenville played a possession brand of ball for the first quarter of last night's tilt at Kinston. Guard Mack Roebuck (with ball) is caught by the camera in the midst of the freeze action. He seems to be undecided about what to do with the ball. Kinston, paying no mind to the freeze tactics, quickly ran up a 17-4 lead in the opening period, forcing the Phants to open up. The game ended the season for Greenville, as well as the rest of the league.

SO HE GOT INTO THE ACT—When it became apparent that possession ball wasn't going to stop the vaunted Kinston offensive, Roebuck and his mates began hitting the nets in their own fast-break brand of play. Above, Roebuck goes high to drop one, as Kinston's Elton Faeltton defends. Roebuck added eight points to the Phantom total, but mate Wesley Hudson was high with 13. (Reflector Photos).

Michigan, Georgia To Play Despite Negro Athletes

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The University of Michigan will play its scheduled football game with the University of Georgia this fall despite the protests of three state legislators.

The school's board in control of intercollegiate athletics yesterday turned down the lawmakers' request to cancel the Oct. 5 game at Ann Arbor.

The three had asked the board to cancel the game because of Georgia's policy of barring Negroes on its athletic teams and banning interracial athletic meetings within the state. A bill is pending in the Georgia State Legislature to prohibit interracial competition by Georgia schools at home and away.

Michigan's athletic teams usually include Negroes. The Wolverines expect to have at least two Negro players, halfback Jim Pace and tackle Willie Smith, on their 1957 football squad.

State Sen. Basil W. Brown and John B. Swainson and State representative George Edwards, all Detroit Democrats, asked the cancellation. Brown and Edwards are Negroes.

East Carolina plays host to Elon's Fighting Christians tonight at Memorial Gymnasium in an important North State Conference ball game.

The Pirates, who are currently coasting on a 6-7 league record, will be seeking to improve their lot and could do much toward that end by knocking off the number two club in the conference tonight, Elon, with a 10-3 mark, as of Monday, is making a staunch bid to retain their North State title, although Lenoir Rhyne has already secured the regular-season crown.

Wallace Back On Top After 44 Point Spree

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
South Carolina's Grady Wallace was back on top today as the nation's leading scorer and because of it Virginia was back on the bottom of the Atlantic Coast Conference standings.

Wallace poured through 44 points last night as the Gamecocks whipped Virginia 97-79 in Columbia. His total gave him an average of 30.57 and pulled him from third to first in the individual scoring derby.

Chet Forte of Columbia who had led with a 30.18 average and Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain who was second at 29.94 both were inactive last night and as a result dropped down—accordingly in the standings.

The results strengthened South Carolina's hold on sixth place in the ACC at 4-7 and 12-9 over-all and dumped Virginia from seventh to last at 1-9 and 4-15 overall.

Virginia got a 25-point effort from center Herb Busch and 20 from Gerry Cooper.

Clemson had to score two free throws in the final three seconds to edge The Citadel of the Southern Conference.

JACKSONVILLE — The Northeastern Conference announced its club will go to the state matches. Last year, Kinston copped the tournament and tied Greenville for the regular-season title. They later went on to whip the Phantoms and to capture ultimately the Class AA crown for the State.

This year Kinston is again on top of the heap with a 12-0 conference record, and a 30-game winning streak overall behind them. They will receive a bye in the first round of play Thursday.

As they were released, here are the pairings for Thursday, Friday and Saturday:

General Says Cherry Point Is 'Here To Stay'

At the Greenville Kiwanis Club last night, Brig.-Gen. Edward A. Montgomery, commanding general of Cherry Point Marine Air Station and commander, Marine Corps air bases, assured his audience that "Cherry Point is here to stay."

Commander F. E. Lansche, commanding officer, Composite Command 6-26, introduced the speaker. "I am honored by your invitation to speak to you here tonight, and I am grateful for the opportunity to meet this group of distinguished citizens," the general said.

"I believe it is appropriate during this National Defense Week to discuss with you a subject of common interest to all of us at Cherry Point and to our Eastern Carolina neighbors: the probable future of the air station, its place in our national defense, and its importance to Eastern Carolina.

"Some business interests in this area have pursued a cautious policy because of uncertainty as to the permanency of the Marine Corps Air Station at Cherry Point. They have seen other military bases spring up out of the wilderness and subsequently fold up and go out of business. When this happens, hardships are suffered by civilians who have provided goods and services to those bases.

"Well, I can assure you that Cherry Point is here to stay. Let me tell you some of my reasons for being so positive in this statement.

"First of all, the air station is responsive to the long-range needs of the nation and of the Marine Corps.

"The National Security Act of 1947, as amended, states in part: "The Marine Corps shall be organized, trained, and equipped to provide fleet Marine forces of combined arms, together with supporting air components, for service with the fleet in the seizure or defense of advanced naval bases and for the conduct of such land operations as may be essential to the prosecution of a naval campaign."

"These phrases 'combined arms,' 'supporting air components,' and 'service with the fleet' give a clear indication of how the Marine air-ground team fits into the concept of American seapower.

"To carry out its mission, the air and ground components of the fleet Marine force must have facilities for training in air-ground operations and the specialized amphibious operations for which the Marine Corps is responsible by tradition and by law.

"In the case of the fleet Marine force, Atlantic, Camp Lejeune and Cherry Point provide those facilities. These two bases are not only close neighbors; they are also within a few minutes by air of the Atlantic Fleet headquarters in Norfolk. Geographically, we could hardly ask for a situation more favorable to our mission. The proximity of Cherry Point to Camp Lejeune and Norfolk facilities liaison and planning of the Second Marine Air Wing with the Second Marine Division and the Amphibious Force, Atlantic Fleet."

SBI Agent And Police Chief Heard By Club

Last night, the Greenville Exchange Club completed this year's "National Crime Prevention Week" with a program by R.W. Pope of the State Bureau of Investigation, Raleigh, and Greenville Chief of Police S.G. Gibbs.

The National Exchange Club sponsors "National Crime Prevention Week" each year and the local club participated this year by sponsoring "Go To Church Sunday" and open house at the police station and "Know Your Police-men" tags.

Pope was invited to Greenville for two days to make addresses to various groups, including assemblies at both high schools.

He is an expert on narcotics and described the facilities of the SBI which include fingerprinting, ballistics, hand writing, lie detection and chemical analysis. He described the different types of narcotics and equipment used by addicts.

Chief Gibbs discussed juvenile delinquency and presented a challenge. "Are we going to cope only with the situation today or mold our children for tomorrow?"

He said "there are four major fields in which we can help to improve delinquency: "A child's training is the main responsibility of parenthood and can only be done in partnership with God.

"Our schools must teach more than the three R's and we must give our children a reason to be good.

"Our churches must teach that the Ten Commandments should be lived every day, not talked about on Sunday."

The chief said "the community must provide a healthy environment to grow up in and the courts and other governmental agencies should be adequately staffed to help the delinquent in trouble to get back on the right road. He pointed out that delinquency is small in percentage but it is still a problem to society."

Biologist Named Representative To Science Meet

Dr. John A. Yarbrough, professor of Biology at Meredith College, has been named representative to the Junior Academy of Science conference being held at Navy Pier, Chicago, on yesterday and today, by the North Carolina Academy of Science.

This conference was arranged by the Academy Conference of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the Museum Division of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies. Under discussion are such topics as the status, organization and policies of junior academies, communications and interrelationships among junior academies and the financed programs of junior academies.

Science Fairs for junior and senior high school students, sponsored in this area by The Daily Reflector and the N. C. Academy of Science, constitute the major activity in North Carolina at present in the junior academy field.

Churchmen Form Club Thursday

At a supper meeting at Memorial Baptist Church Thursday night, the men of the congregation organized the Fisherman's club and elected officers.

The purpose of the club is to carry out a program of visitation for the church, to make every church member conscious of his responsibility as a citizen of God's Kingdom, and to promote personal witnessing for Christ.

Larry Averette was elected president; Ot. Alford, vice-president; Jack Whichard, secretary-treasurer; Cecil Harris and Don Callo-way, directors, and Rev. Percy B. Upchurch, pastor, as advisor.

The club will meet on the first Thursday of each month, and extra meetings will be called by the president when needed. All men of the church will be invited to join.

Those present in addition to the officers are Carlton Cozart, Quinn Bostic, J. D. Aman, Kenneth Mercer, H. A. Hendrix, Aubrey Taylor, C. D. Ward, Pete Caraway, Jimmy Lee, Wyatt Tucker and Norman Little.

Harry Truman To Be Grandfather

NEW YORK (AP) — The former Margaret Truman, now the wife of a New York newspaperman, expects her first baby around July.

News of her impending motherhood came yesterday from her husband, Clifton Daniel, 44, a staff member of the New York Times.

Margaret, the only child of former President Harry S. Truman, observes her 33rd birthday tomorrow.

Miss Truman and Daniel were married in Independence, Mo., Margaret's hometown, last April.

The Greenville Unitarian Fellowship will meet Sunday at 8 p.m. at the "Y" Hut on ECC Campus. There will be a discussion on the book "The Questioning Child and Religion." Coffee and doughnuts will be served at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited.

REVIVAL SERVICES TO BEGIN ON MONDAY

Revival services will begin at St. Paul Pentecostal Holiness Church Monday, February 18. Guest evangelist will be the Rev. S. L. Whichard of Robersonville. Services are scheduled for each evening at 7:30. The public is invited. The Rev. O. T. Howard is pastor of the church.

Doctor Talks On Common Goals

Medicine and religion are both concerned with fostering the welfare of mankind as a great work in common, or "community project," Dr. Donald Koonce of Wilmington said at East Carolina College Thursday night.

Dr. Koonce, president of the North Carolina Medical Society and chief surgeon on the staff of the James Walker Memorial Hospital in Wilmington, gave the second in the series of five Teacher Education and Religion Lectures now being sponsored by East Carolina College.

His audience of approximately a hundred people from the college and Pitt County included a large representation of the medical profession in Greenville and the county. Dr. Karl B. Pace, Greenville physician, introduced Dr. Koonce.

No discussion of the philosophy of medicine can disregard the influence of religion, Dr. Koonce stated. Religion, he said, is dedicated to God, and the great religious emphasis devotion to the welfare of mankind. "Medicine," he added, "is certainly devoted to the welfare of mankind."

Through the ages, he said, religion has exerted a great influence upon the history of medicine. He traced developments from primitive times, when disease was associated with evil and healing with magic, to the modern age of science.

"The true man of medicine, or complete physician," he said, "must be a man of God, one capable of treating sickness of the body, the mind, and the soul." In practice, he continued, the physician should reinforce his skill in healing with sympathy, wisdom, and sage advice.

The experiences of witnessing birth and death, he said, bring to doctors the realization that there are "questions which they cannot answer." The doctor as scientist does not believe in miracles, he explained. "But," he asked, "what is more of a miracle than life itself?"

Civic Clubs Will Hear Dr. Hill

Dr. Henry Hill, president of Peabody College, will be the speaker when Greenville's civic clubs meet together on March 8.

The annual dinner will be held in the college dining hall beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Frank Strawn, chairman of the committee for arrangements, said all service clubs have been invited to participate in the meeting.

The Lions Club is handling the program this year and Warren Aldridge, Lions president, will preside over the meeting.

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

Margaret Mead, noted anthropologist, has an article in this week's N. Y. Times magazine called "American Man in a Woman's World" in which she accuses the average American man of becoming too much of a home-body because of today's tendency to elevate the importance of home and family over that of a career. Women give up careers in order to become mothers, and men refuse to take hazardous jobs because they're risky, time-consuming and take them away from their homes. This, says Miss Mead, is bad. If people are going to accomplish anything, they have to stay away from the family some times, travel to far places, and take chances — and even though the U. S. needs good wives and good husbands, we also need men with commitments to the tasks of a world in which we are becoming the model settlers.

Whether we like it or not, a provocative idea, Miss Mead has there, and one which many of you will disagree with, no doubt. But she certainly has a point—anyway, her article is well worth reading, and we recommend it. . . .

Solitary Pole

Two new books have just come out about Joseph Conrad, the Polish writer who is the author of some of the greatest novels of the present century, at least in our opinion. "The Sea Dreamer," by Gerard Jean-Aubry, is a complete and definitive biography, based on unpublished letters and papers and written by a personal friend of Conrad. "The Mirror of Conrad," by E. H. Viskin, is an interpretation of Conrad's biography in terms of his books—it relates his experiences to his art, and of course there is a close relationship, since Conrad was a sailor during a good part of his life until he retired at 37 to start writing, and most of his books have something to do with the sea. . . .

This year marks the 100th anniversary of his birth, Dec. 3, 1857, and we hope this fact will effect a resurgence of interest in some of his masterpieces, like "Lord Jim," "Victory," "Nostromo" and "The Secret Agent"—have you read them. . . .

For Bird Lovers

"The Bird Biographies of John James Audubon," the last reprint of which came out in 1870, is being re-edited and shortened by Alice Ford as an illustrated, one-volume work, and will be issued by Macmillan Company next week. Harvard University has allowed the editor to use twelve of the original Audubon drawings as illustrations—done in watercolor and chalk, they've never been reproduced before. For artists as well as bird-watchers, we suggest this as the local scene of the day. . . .

"The Relation of Religion and Medicine" was the topic of Dr. D. D. Koonce's talk Thursday evening, one of a series being sponsored by the College's Religion in Teacher Education project. Like the first one by Prof. Kirtley Mather of Harvard, it was inspiring and enlightening, and we were glad we went to hear. The next one, "What is the Role of Religion in Personal and Family Living?" by Dr. J. D. Messick, on Thursday, the 28th, at a 6:30 dinner meeting in the North Dining Hall of E.C.C. Come if you can. . . . Today's review is by Mrs. Tom Marshall, a drama enthusiast, who comments on a recent choice of The Fireside Theatre, which you can join by writing them at Garden City, N.Y.

THE LARK, By Jean Anouilh, adapted by Lillian Hellman, New York: Fireside Theatre edition, 1956.

Any viewer lucky enough to catch the Hall of Fame production "last Sunday" will probably start with Daily News' John Chapman's Broadway review — "Jean Anouilh's THE LARK, adapted by Lillian Hellman, is a beautiful, beautiful play."

The viewer may be surprised to learn, however, that except for a very skillful cutting, the television followed the script very closely, not only in lines but in technique. The primary scene is the trial of Joan of Arc, and the bare stage, the flashbacks, the judges' desire to let Joan play out her whole story, their pathetic desire to help her change her story before she reaches them, are all in the original. Even the ending is the same. After the searing execution scene, the judges do take a hand in rearranging her life. Refusing "to let it end this way," they return to the happiest day of Joan's life, they "go back and act it out" and the curtain falls on a smiling, triumphant, a "true" Joan.

Strangely enough the effectiveness of this method comes through even on paper, and readers of the Random House version published for Fireside Theatre, will not be disappointed even if they have seen the play. With all due credit to the splendid acting and direction of the TV and Broadway productions the brilliance of this new Joan is primarily in the writing, and the reader can find it at home.

Annual Rally To Be Held Feb. 18

The Annual Spring Rally for the Sunday School Workers and members of the South Roanoke Baptist association will be held at the First Baptist Church of Washington, N.C. February 18.

Dr. Herman Ihley, Sunday School Secretary for North Carolina Baptists, will be the main speaker. His topic will be "Sunday Schools and Missions." This will tie in with the World Missions Emphasis of the Southern Baptist Convention for this year.

Dr. Ihley, though new to this state is not new to Sunday School work. A native of South Carolina, he received his doctors degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky.

He served overseas as Chaplain with the Navy, and for a while as chaplain with the Georgia National Guard, holding the rank of Major. His denominational service has taken him into the highest places of service, both in the state of Georgia and the Southern Convention.

Oil Distributors Elect Officers

Charles P. Gaskins was elected chairman of the Greenville Oil Distributors, Inc., at their meeting Thursday.

Other officers elected were Thomas E. Carawan, vice chairman, and Mrs. Cora Powell, secretary.

New members of the board of directors are W. O. Moore, Thomas E. Carawan, Charles P. Gaskins, J. G. Clark and W. L. Allen.

Retiring chairman W. L. Allen expressed his appreciation for the cooperation and help he had received throughout the year.

Queen And Duke Reunited Today

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II arrived here today for a reunion with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh. After two quiet days together, they will embark on a brief state visit in Portugal.

They had not seen each other in four months and rumors were circulating last week there was a rift between them. Buckingham Palace said the rumors were untrue.

A crowd of Portuguese and foreign dignitaries and more than 100 newsmen and photographers were at Montijo Naval Air Field as the Queen's plane arrived from London.

Child Narrowly Escapes Tragedy

A near tragedy was averted yesterday by an alert driver on East Fifth Street.

Police report that a little eight-year-old girl playing on the side of the street ran into the path of an automobile driven by B. F. Hodges of the Home Electric Co. Hodges was able to stop the car just after hitting the child, the investigating officer said.

The little girl was taken to the Medical Arts Clinic for treatment of minor injuries and was later released. No arrests were made.

Last Rites Set For Mrs. Martha Baldree

AYDEN—Mrs. Martha Baldree, 86, retired school teacher, died at Edgecombe Nursing Home in Tarboro Friday at 12:30 p.m.

Funeral services will be held at Brit's Funeral Chapel in Ayden Sunday at 3 p.m. Rev. John Goff, Christian minister, will officiate. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery in Greenville.

For the last 18 years Mrs. Baldree made her home at the home of her nephew, Mr. Lyman G. Barfield, and Mrs. Barfield in Ayden. She was educated at the Woman's College in Greensboro. She taught public school in Martin and Pitt counties for 40 years. She retired in 1939. She was a member of the Grifton Christian Church 60 years and a member of the Christian Women's Fellowship in the Ayden Christian Church a number of years.

Churches Match Big Building Boom In City

MEMORIAL BAPTIST—The Memorial Baptist Church on Greene St. has constructed a new education building since the end of World War II. The annex faces Fourth St. and connects with the sanctuary.

JARVIS MEMORIAL METHODIST—This church is now extending its sanctuary as the above photo shows. A new education building has also been constructed since the end of World War II.

EIGHTH ST. CHRISTIAN—The education building shown above was constructed at the rear of Eighth St. Christian Church. The new building was placed in use last year.

Art Linkletter Will Take Dramatic Fling

By BOB THOMAS in a breather between his multi-farious activities. "It always pays to develop another facet of your career. But I have no illusions about blossoming out as an actor. "A situation comedy show? Not on your life. When I made this film, I realized what these people with comedy shows go through. We started filming at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and didn't finish until midnight one night and 1 o'clock two nights. It was hard change of pace for me," said Art...

"I know now what a soft touch I have. I do six half-hours a week, but they're a cinch. For the House Party, I come in a short time before we go on the air and don't even put on makeup. People Are Funny is almost as easy." Art said he would like to limit himself to continuing the two programs, five or six spectaculars a year and adding a few half-hours of acting roles. That's all. He revealed that he almost jettisoned People Are Funny this season. He and producer John Guedel figured the show had just about run its course. "We had been getting a good rating, but NBC pulled us out of the Saturday at 9 spot," he remarked. "We could have had a couple of other times that weren't so good, but we said to heck with it. If nobody was going to get enthusiastic over the show, why should we continue?" But there was sponsor interest, and they were prevailed upon to do the show at 7:30 on Saturdays. And what do you know — People Are Funny started taking off the puppy and a four-year-old boy was selected. But after finding the owner they couldn't find Tracy who disappeared on the eve of his reappearance.

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor Greenville's unprecedented building boom during the years since the end of World War II has been paralleled by a big growth in the city's churches. All over the city new churches, education annexes and other such structures have been constructed during the post war years. St. James Methodist, Grace Free Will Baptist, Church of God, Seventh Day Adventist and the Christian Science Church have constructed new buildings within the city during the last 12 years. Memorial Baptist, First Presbyterian, and Eighth St. Christian Churches have constructed Education Annexes during the postwar period. Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church has built an Education annex and only recently begun work on an extension to the church sanctuary.

St. Peter's Catholic built a new, modern parochial school on E. Fourth St. when the old school was destroyed by fire. Greenville Free Will Baptist Church recently begun an addition to their building which will be used for a Sunday School section and also an extension to the church sanctuary when needed. St. Gabriel's Catholic Church on W. Fifth St. built a new parochial school and a convent on Ward St. The buildings went into use last year. The church building boom apparently hasn't ended. Constantly increasing membership is causing many local churches to study plans for further expansion of the facilities and several recently organized congregations are planning new buildings. On this page are depicted a portion of the building projects which have been undertaken in recent years.

ST. JAMES METHODIST—This new church has also been organized since the war's end. The congregation met at Third St. School until its new building was completed on Forest Circle.

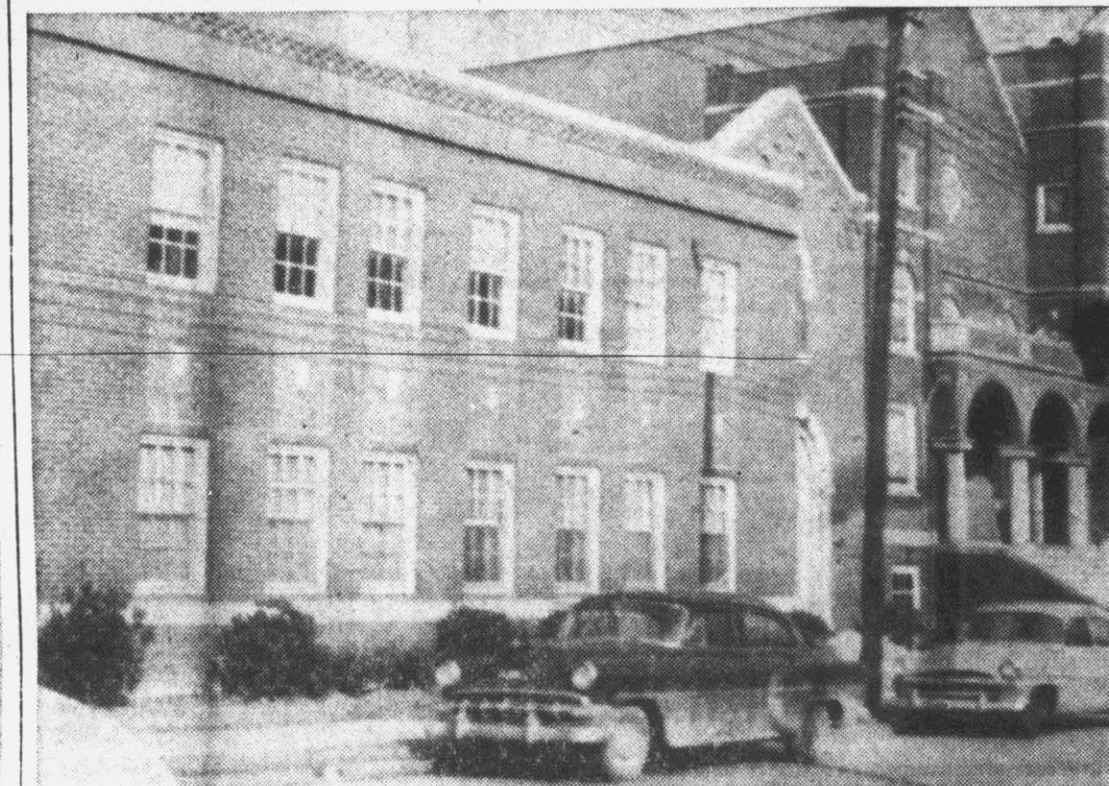

GREENVILLE FREE WILL BAPTIST—Another church building project has been started at Greenville Free Will Baptist.

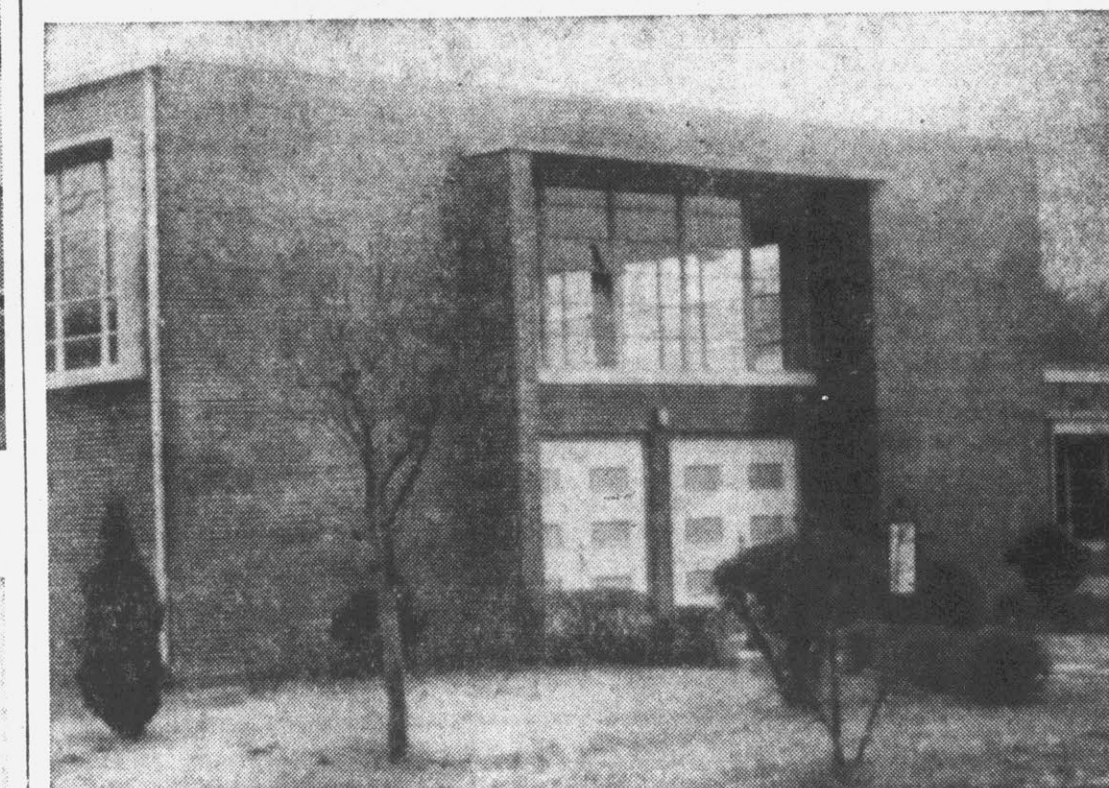

CHURCH OF GOD—The new Church of God building has only recently been placed in use on Skinner St.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST—This church has been constructed on E. Tenth St. It is located near the intersection of Fifth and Tenth Sts.

PRESBYTERIAN—A new education building was built alongside the Presbyterian Church on Fifth St. As in other churches the education annex gives additional room for Sunday School classes.

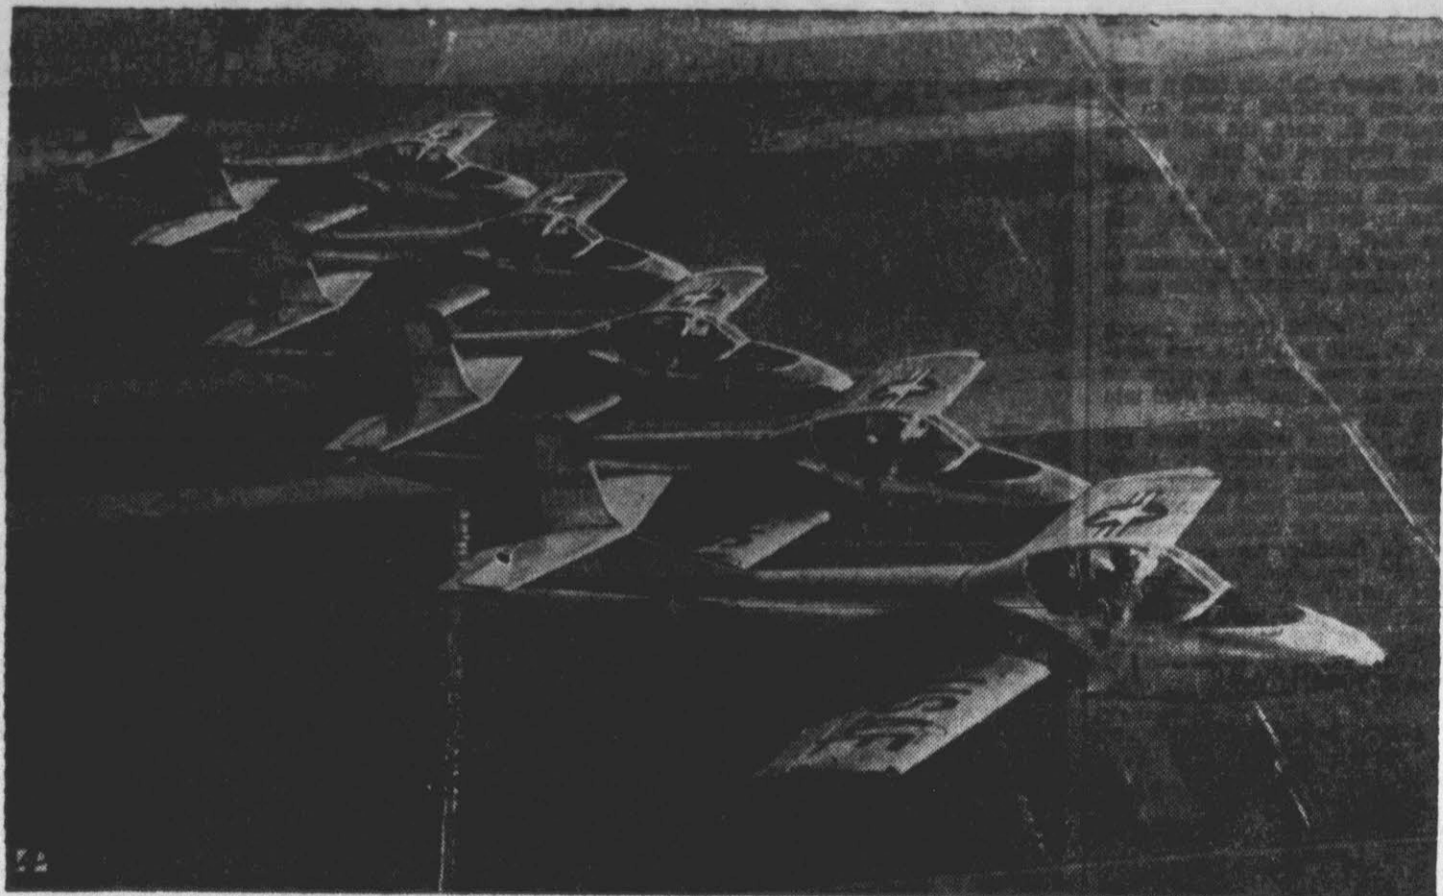

SCHOOL—St. Raphael's Parochial school was built by St. Peter's Catholic Church after fire destroyed the old school. The modern new building is located on E. Fourth St. near Greenwood Cemetery.

GRACE FREE WILL BAPTIST—This church has been organized since the end of World War II. Since that time a new building has been constructed on Watauga Ave.

NO RESPONSE TO OUR KNOCKING. WHAT DO YOU SAY? LETS GO! BRING ON THE LOG!

YEP, THIS IS THE PLACE. GAD! COULD I FORGET IT? A COMPLETE GYMNASIUM!

THE PLACE IS EMPTY, TRACY. THERE'S NOT A SOUL HERE. IT'S FUNNY! WHAT'S THAT STEPLADDER DOING THERE?

A DOOR IN THE WALL.

WHAT? IT JUST OPENS OUT TO THE PORCH ROOF? AND LOOK AT THE TRACKS.

NO TRACKS DOWN HERE EXCEPT HOLES LIKE POSTHOLES IN THE SNOW. POST-HOLES?

AND SOME DISTANCE AWAY— WELL, WHERE ARE WE GOING? ANYWHERE—JUST SO WE GET AWAY.

THAT DARN FENCE TOOK HIS CAR AWAY FROM US WHEN HE GOT MAD—THE STINKER! PIPE DOWN AND KEEP WORKING!

THIS SYSTEM IS BETTER ANYWAY! THEY'LL NEVER BE ABLE TO TRACK US KITTEN SISTERS.

HEY! TELL TRACY TO COME BACK HERE!

WHAT IS IT, SHERIFF?

Russia Replaces Britain As 2nd-Ranking Sea Power

1956: 18	25	68	67

(Each symbol = 25 for Carriers, 10 for Cruisers, 50 for Destroyers, 50 for Submarines)

By WATSON SIMS LONDON (AP) — Russia, which has never built an aircraft carrier and last laid down the keel of a battleship in 1909, has replaced Great Britain as the world's second ranking naval power.

This development, which comes as a shock to many a naval traditionalist, is conceded for the first time this year by Jane's Fighting Ships, unofficial "bible" of the world's navies.

Since the end of World War II, says Jane's in its newly published 1956-57 edition, Russia has built more submarines, more cruisers and more destroyers than all other nations combined.

Plans on warship building through Jane's, which has been keeping out the world for 59 years, shows the United States still comfortably ahead of Russia in terms of overall naval strength.

U.S. Emphasis on Atom
The United States is described as "intensely" active in the production of carrier and atomic-powered ships. Russia is even more active in building submarines and lighter surface ships, while Britain, which has not ordered a major warship since the end of World War II, has been steadily cutting back in almost all categories, as illustrated in the chart.

Great Britain's cruiser strength has "been lopped in half since 1946 while Russia jumped from eight to 30 and the United States hovered around 75. Russia now leads both the United States and Britain in submarines and has more than twice as many destroyers as Britain.

Subs Suit Red Purpose
Russia's neglect of the aircraft carrier is explained in terms of the strategy for which her fleet is designed. Her major war aim, says Jane's, would be to sever sea communications between the NATO powers and prevent Western warships and merchantmen from entering European and Asian waters.

For this purpose, the submarine is the prime weapon. The British and American navies, which are designed to assault land targets as well as enemy ships, place their greatest emphasis on the carrier.

Jane's acknowledges that information on Russian ships is difficult to get, but its reports indicate that the quality of the swiftly growing Soviet fleet is very good.

Over half of the Russian submarines are of the large or medium coast-going type, says Jane's. Much of the new construction is patterned after the German U-boats captured at the end of World War II, and many are equipped with the snorkel underwater breathing device.

Jane's does not include reports, widely published elsewhere, that Russia may have atomic-powered submarines either in operation or under construction. But it says of the new Soviet cruisers and destroyers:

"These are modern and incorporate the latest technological equipment. They are fully manned in active commission and are continually undergoing rigorous training operations, demonstrating the important position the control of the sea holds in Soviet grand strategy."

FAMILY RATES
McALESTER, Okla. (AP)—Dr. T. H. McCarley has the inside track on the Carter family.

He recently performed an appendectomy on the fourth generation of Carters. The veteran family doctor many years ago performed the first operation on Mrs. George F. Carter. Next came her daughter, granddaughter and great granddaughter.

Traffic Cases Again Dominate County Court

As usual, speeding and other traffic violations were responsible for most cases cleared from the County Court docket by Judge Dink James this week.

Notice of appeal in one of the drunken driving cases was given by a convicted defendant. James Boyd Pollard, 56-year-old white salesman of 402 Oak Street in Greenville, said he would appeal to Superior Court after receiving a fine of $100 and costs and having his driver's license revoked for 12 months.

Another charge of driving under the influence brought a 90-day suspended term for Charlie Frank, 39-year-old Negro farmer of Route 1, Stokes. The sentence was suspended upon payment of $100 and costs and revocation of Frank's driver's license for 12 months.

Seven drivers convicted of speeding were ordered to pay costs and surrender their driver's licenses to the Clerk of Superior Court for ten days. Prayer for judgment was continued and suspended upon payment of costs and surrender of licenses.

Defendants who did so included James Mack Little, Negro, 114 North Cotanche Street, Greenville; Karle Lee Buck, Chicod; William Earl Cleue, Vanceboro; Robert Terrence Grange, Cherry Point; William Arthur Hardison, Route 6, Greenville; Lester Wade Briley, Route 5, Greenville; and William Carroll DuBose, Kinston.

Bonds Forfeited
Cash bonds put up by defendants in two other speeding cases were ordered forfeited when the defendants failed to answer when called. The bonds had been put up by George Badaracco of Erie, Pa., who was charged with speeding with a truck, and Eugene Franklin Field of Norfolk, Va., who was charged with speeding 70 miles per hour. A nol proes with leave was also taken in each case by Solicitor James C. Lanier Jr.

Other traffic cases and judgments handed down included: Curtis Williams, Route 2, Greenville, speeding, $25 costs deducted and driver's license suspended ten days; John Ronald Downer, Cherry Point, speeding, $25 costs deducted, driver's license suspended 30 days; Johnnie Lee Ward Jr., Route 1, Stokes, careless and reckless driving, nol proes with leave.

Jack Howard, Bethel, careless and reckless driving and speeding, $25 and costs, driver's license suspended six months; Joel Williams Brown, 1012 West Third Street, Greenville, no operator's license, nol proes, and improper muffler, costs; Jesse Williams, Negro, Route 5, Greenville, no operator's license, 30 days suspended upon payment of $25 and costs; Gus Pettaway, Negro, no address listed, failure to stop for stop sign, hit and run, costs.

Other Cases
Other cases in which judgments were handed down included: Arthur Lee Brann, 309 Lyon Street, Greenville, carrying a concealed weapon (a pistol), $50 and costs, pistol ordered confiscated and sold according to law; Alexander Clemons, Negro, Route 6, Greenville, breaking, entering and larceny, 90 days suspended upon payment of $10 and costs, defendant also ordered to pay $1 to Henry Brown for damages and ordered not to go on the premises of Henry Brown.

James Bradley, Negro, Route 6, Greenville, breaking, entering and larceny, 12 months; James Williams, Negro, Bethel, larceny, 90 days suspended upon payment of $19.50 to Town of Bethel and costs; Thomas C. Cherry, Negro, Bethel, receiving stolen property, 90 days suspended upon payment of $19.50 to Town of Bethel and costs; Moses Harper Jr., Negro, no address listed, non-support, case dismissed because an identical action had already been tried in county court; Johnnie Lee Sheppard, Negro, no address listed, non-support, defendant found guilty of willfully refusing to comply with terms of a suspended sentence imposed on November 27, 1956, and sentence ordered put into effect unless the defendant pays $50, cost of capias and jail fees by Friday, February 15.

SHP Reports 285 Accidents In Pitt During 1956; $119,540 Damage Loss

By EVERETTE PARKER Reflector Staff Writer
Last year was a costly one for the Pitt County driver.

Figures released by the North Carolina Highway Patrol reveal that there were 285 accidents in this county in 1956, resulting in 109 injuries, 24 deaths and approximately $119,540 in property damage.

These figures do not include accidents occurring within the city limits of towns which are investigated and reported by members of that town's police department. In addition, accidents with total damage of less than $100 are not included in the property loss evaluation.

Last year's 24 fatalities number the highest in this county since records commenced to be kept by the patrol in 1938. A record of deaths by the year for Pitt is as follows: 1938—18; 1939—13; 1940—10; 1941—13; 1942—9; 1943—17; 1944—10; 1945—3; 1946—14; 1947—5; 1948—3; 1949—12; 1950—18; 1951—10; 1952—12; 1953—15; 1954—7; and 1955—18.

The months of October and November were high for number of accidents with 33 each, followed closely by December with 31. The total by months was as follows: January—16; February—20; March—20; April—19; May—19; June—22; July—25; August—23; September—24; October—33; November—33; and December—31. In 1955 the heavy accident rate also occurred in the month of November when 30 were recorded by the patrol. The total number of accidents was considerably lower than last year at 243.

As the pattern of total number of accidents increased, the number of injuries in 1956 showed an increase of 37 with 109. Injuries ran highest during the month of December, 16 being recorded. Following is a total by month: January—4; February—4; March—13; April—12; May—3; June—5; July—10; August—6; September—8; October—12; November—6; and December—16. The previous year's records indicate that both December and July were high with 11 personal injuries each.

Despite the large number of accidents and injuries, the primary problem in the minds of the Highway Patrol was the large number of fatalities on this county's streets and highways. Prior to 1956 the Pitt record was established in 1938 and 1955 with 18 being recorded.

Deaths during the months of July and December constituted nearly half of the year's total with six and five respectively. Only two months were free of fatalities.

Following is a month-by-month comparison of deaths: January—1; February—0; March—2; April—2; May—1; June—2; July—6; August—0; September—1; October—2; November—2; and December—5.

In an all out effort to cut down on the number of injuries and deaths this year, the Highway Patrol has instigated a safety program in Negro and white schools "throughout the county. Figures released show that over 17,000 children of school age have been presented the program. The indoctrination began on January 16 and terminated on February 7.

These series of lectures are the first phase of a major safety program to be conducted by the patrolmen. In addition to the schools, the film and lectures are being presented to civic clubs in towns throughout Pitt. The two other phases of the program are stricter law enforcement and closer supervision of engineering on the highways.

The highest monetary losses in 1956 were suffered during the month of December, as was the case the year before. Damages last ran up to $14,600 as compared to $12,215 in 1955. The overall figures in losses indicate an upward trend with last year's figures being slightly $18,000 over 1955 at $119,540.

Enforcements reached an all-time high in Pitt in 1956. The highway patrol states that 4,635 drivers were arrested and charged with violations of the North Carolina highway laws. These figures represent an increase of nearly 1,600 arrests over the previous year.

Senator Monroney, a former newspaperman, was elected to the House of Representatives in 1939 and served as Congressman until 1950, when he was elected to the Senate.

During the 70th Congress he was a member of the Banking and Currency Committee and also vice-chairman of the Joint Committee on the Organization of Congress.

His present committee assignment are Banking and Currency, Interstate and Foreign Commerce, Post Office, and Civil Service.

Two Lawmakers To Talk At Institute Here Mar. 7

U. S. Senator A. S. "Mike" Monroney of Oklahoma, Democrat, and Congressman Patrick Hillings of California, Republican, will speak at East Carolina College's fourth annual World Affairs Institute, Thursday March 7. John C. Metcalfe, one of this country's ace newspapermen, will act as moderator.

Four meetings during the day will present the two outstanding leaders in national affairs as chief event of the East Carolina Golden Anniversary Programs scheduled to celebrate the establishment of the college in 1907.

Plans for the day's events have been announced by Dr. George Past of the social studies department, chairman of the committee on arrangements. "Prospects for Peace" will be the theme of the institute. Programs will include a general assembly of students at 9 a. m. in the Wright building, and informal discussion session at 2 p. m. in the Y Hut, a televised program over WNCN, Channel 9, at 3:30 p. m., and a meeting including addresses and a forum at 7:30. The night meeting will be of chief interest to the public.

Property damage resulting from accidents exceeded $10,660, the report stated. Five persons, drivers and occupants of vehicles, were injured. January was an extremely good month for pedestrians, with no injuries being reported.

The most prevalent time for accidents was between the hours of 12 o'clock noon to 8 p. m.; fifteen accidents were reported during this time interval. Four accidents were reported between the hours of 8 a. m. until 12 o'clock noon and two were reported from 8 p. m. until 12 midnight. There were no accidents in the early morning hours from 12 o'clock midnight until 8 a. m.

Of the accidents occurring in Greenville, 15 took place at intersections and six at non-intersections with traffic controls being set up at the scene of six of the accidents.

It was reported that 16 of the 21 wrecks took place during daylight hours and five after dark. Chief S. G. Gibbs stated this morning that 14 arrests were made in connection with these accidents involving 19 city residents and 19 non-city residents.

Future Homemakers Hold Their Meeting

By ANNETTE HUDSON Stokes-Pactolus Reporter
Carrie Lee Whitehurst was elected parliamentarian and Annette Hudson was selected as vice-president of the Future Homemakers of America at a meeting last week.

Other business conducted during the meeting included discussion of a tea for mothers of club members but no definite date was set for such, a film on crystal making was shown and refreshments were served.

President Francis Toler presided.

Every member of the seventh grade took part in a chapel program Monday.

The program was opened with a short sketch of famous men who had birthdays in February. After the sketches, a play, "The Kindly Heart," was presented. The play was a Valentine presentation with the setting in the court room of the King and Queen of Hearts played by Van VanDyke and Phyllis Barnhill. The theme was the story of a

ANNETTE little girl from the outside world coming to find a different Valentine for her father and mother, played by Dudley Whitehurst and Linda Warren.

The stage was decorated with blue streamers, red and white hearts, and paper cupids. All costumes were red and white except the Queen's which was wine-colored.

Policy Numbers Hidden In Bible

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Annie Mae Sinksfield, who calls herself "the Reverend," came here a year ago to organize a "Spiritual Church."

Yesterday, Patrolmen R. C. Bogan and W. A. Haden dropped by to pay her a visit. When they went inside, they saw statues, religious pictures, several candles and a Bible.

Bogan picked up the Bible, flipped the pages and, he reported, dropped a wad of policy numbers.

Annie Mae's in jail now, charged with violating the city's numbers ordinance.

Hen Rode In On A Locomotive

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A hen with clipped wings rode into town on the trucks of a Southern Pacific locomotive which hooked on in Tucuman, N. M., a day and a half before.

Yard hands promptly named the hen "Boomer." She drank thirstily but ignored bread crumbs tossed to her. Then someone threw her a piece of tortilla, and she nibbled happily.

"Proves she's from Tucuman," observed engineer D. D. Beatty. "Great town for tortillas."

A railroad worker took the oil-smeared hen home as a pet for his children.
