U. S. Proposals Unheeded, Israel Is Left To UN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States virtually washed its hands today of efforts outside the United Nations to win Israeli withdrawal from disputed Middle East territories. After an all-out weekend try which the White House said brought no agreement, President Eisenhower bluntly told Israel it now has "the maximum assurance that it can reasonably expect at this juncture, or that can be reconciled with fairness to others."

Sales Tax On Food Has No Backing By Hodges

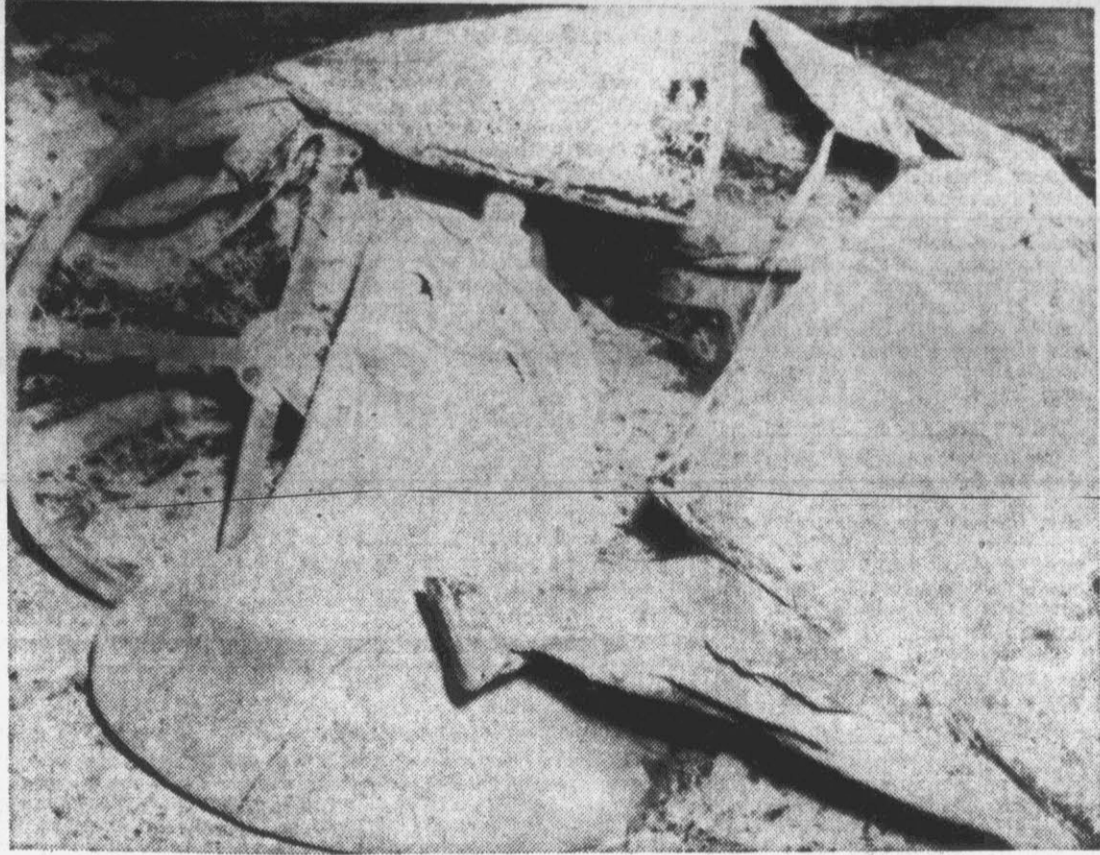

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges made it clear today he is opposed to suggestions that the sales tax be applied on food as a means of raising revenues for greater pay increases for teachers and state employees. "It would be folly," the governor told his news conference to place the sales tax on food.

Prince's Cut...Spring Style?

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

This is the season for a royal hairdo, hairdressers say, and though many a coiffure has been copied from royalty in the past, none has ever been so simple as the Prince Charlie cut, making its debut for spring. Anybody who has seen the hairdo of Madam Pompadour and of Marie Antoinette in history books knows these widely copied coils were not easy to arrange. Certainly it was not a do-it-yourself project.

The Prince Charlie style may be worn by any young girl, its creator, M. Ruel, believes. He emphasizes, however, that "variations of it be determined by the shape of the face or the occasion."

There are several versions of the coiffure. The authentic Prince Charlie is a hairdo with bangs that sweep clear across the forehead from left to right. There is a straight bang style with fluffy sides, and another with a sharp part across the crown forming a demure Victorian style.

Full grown, luxurious bangs qualify for a Prince Charlie style. Ruel, stylist for Coiffures Americana, a trend-setting group of 50 salons across the country, predicts short hair will be popular this spring, perfect for shaping and tapering a Prince Charlie style. Ruel uses these as a variation of the wiz cut, popular short hair styles of past season, explaining: "Bang coiffures give the perfect forehead interest for spring hat styles which feature deep crowns and brims turned off the face. A hairdo and off-the-face hat, however, call for a fluid-skin look, free of blemishes, silky eyebrows, cleaned of straggly hairs, to form that hand-box appearance. If you choose this hairdo, it must be kept neat and smoothly brushed. The tousled look may appear becoming to the casual type, but the average young girl needs a chic, shining appearance to maintain that schoolgirl charm, avoiding a tomboy look. You can do it with the Prince Charlie style.

PRINCE CHARLIE CUT features low bangs swept almost to the eyebrows, in the manner of the little prince. Hair swept away from the face at the side.

The Arbor Day, which was sponsored by the PTA of Falkland High School recently for beautifying of the school grounds, was one of the most successful community enterprises ever carried on in the Falkland community. A planting day committee composed of Mrs. Sellers M. Crisp, chairman, Dr. Jenness Morrill, Mrs. J. F. Parker, David T. House, principal of the school, David T. House and Dr. S. M. Crisp of Greenville made plans for the day. The five acre campus on which the building is situated provided ample space for the use of an extensive and wide variety of plants native to the locality, borders of crepe myrtle, crab apple, poplar, dogwood and cedar trees being used to outline the boundaries of the campus. An Arbor Day program was given at the PTA meeting on Thursday night. The entire day on Friday was given over to the actual work of planting which was done by men and women of the community.

Realizing the scope of the task, they are now asking the cooperation of all organizations in the city. Special representatives from the various clubs have been invited to tomorrow night's meeting but a spokesman for the club pointed out this morning that the public is invited and needed also. Elevator service to the City Hall is available for those unable to climb stairs by the Police Department entrance.

Mrs. Batchelor Tells Of Cruise

Mrs. Ed. Batchelor was hostess to the End of the Century Book Club Tuesday at one o'clock with Mrs. Noel Hardy of Winston-Salem as guest.

At a short business session following lunch, Mrs. James L. Fleming paid tribute to Mrs. W. A. Bowen for her untiring work as first "librarian" in Greenville.

Mrs. Fleming spoke with great feeling when she said, "Without Mrs. Bowen the library might never have become all that it is now."

The club voted to give the Memorial Gardens on the grounds of Sheppard Memorial Library the needed stone benches.

Mrs. Batchelor's Christmas cruise to Rio de Janeiro and the West Indies was the topic for her talk. "Rather than being overrated," Mrs. Batchelor said, "the pictures and articles you see about these places are greatly underrated."

"The Indies are richer in color than pictures can show and Rio is exotic. In describing the beauties of the moonlit beach at Rio from one of the glass penthouses there, the only word I can use is fabulous," she went on to say.

Among Mrs. Batchelor's souvenirs were trays inlaid with wings of cerulean blue butterflies, semi-precious stones mined in South America, dolls from Port-au-Prince wearing voodoo hats and filigreed silver bracelets.

Wanted: Girl Engineers

WINDSOR LOCKS, Conn. (AP) men. Wanted: more women engineers. College girls in search of careers would do well to consider the slide-rule, says Rose Worobel, a pioneer of 14 years standing in the Hamilton Standard Division of United Aircraft Corp. here.

It was a rough road in the beginning, says Rose, but today's girl engineers will find the way smoothed for them with a prospect of equal opportunities with

"When women first went into industry as engineers, we had to do a better job than the men, and even cater to them a bit," says Rose. "Now women are accepted as a matter of course, and the future holds great opportunities."

Miss Worobel started her engineering career in 1943, after graduation from Bates College and a six-month course at Penn State University. At this time women were getting their first chance to break into the engineering ranks, because of the shortage of male engineers during the war.

She now holds down the important post of technical supervisor, coordinating work and conducting performance calculations on propellers, as well as working on designs for propeller blades. She works closely with some 50 men engineers daily on ideas for equipment for tomorrow's airplanes.

At present Rose is midway through a three-year night course at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute's Graduate School to earn her master's degree in engineering.

Womer: In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

Dr. Georgia Harkness, noted American theologian, and faculty member of the Pacific School of Religion, California, is spending a sabbatical year as professor of Christianity at Japan International Christian University, Tokyo. Speaking of the problem of placing educated young people in jobs in Japan's acute economy, Miss Harkness says: "In the United States where jobs are plentiful, there is no particular problem for bright young college graduates. Indeed, the problem is often which job to take! In Japan it is very different. There are stiff competitive examinations for such jobs as are open in business or industry, with as many as 50 to 1,000 competitors for each opening. (The average, I am told, is 100 to 1.) Dr. Yuasa, the beloved and able president of ICU, has made many contacts whereby our students will be permitted to take these examinations. We are counting on them to measure up well with the graduates of the government universities and all others in Japan."

About 150 Methodist college students—both young women and young men—will give volunteer Christian service this coming summer in eight missionary service projects at home and abroad. The projects, including work camps and community service programs, are under the joint auspices of the Methodist Movement, national organization of Methodist college students, and the Methodist boards of Missions and Education. Announcement of the projects was made by the Rev. R. Claude Singleton, New York, director of student work for the Board of Missions. The young persons will undertake a variety of activities, ranging from carpentry to child care and from teaching food canning to leading worship services. Five of the projects will be new this year, one will be an enlargement of a project begun in 1955, and two will be continuations of projects held for the last several years. The new work camps will be in Hawaii, in Cincinnati, Ohio, and near San Marcos, Tex.; Calcutta, India, and Prakes, Ky. A combination work camp and travel seminar in Europe has been expanded from 25 to 50 students and will be the largest of the eight projects. Former work camps to be held again this year are in Cuba and Mexico.

CONSTIPATED?

New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrift" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels water from your body.

To regain normal regularity, too dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONAD, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONAD's great moisturizing capacity, plus COLONAD's stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONAD is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy. Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAD neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions.

It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAD exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONAD, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98¢ for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2¢ per tablet.

Tobacco Crop Shortage Possible

Flue-cured tobacco growers have a major stake in the Congressional bill introduced by Rep. Herbert Bonner which would authorize a 10 per cent increase in 1957 tobacco acreage allotments.

Figures cited by Rep. Bonner on the floor of the House in support of his bill offer serious food for thought not only among members of Congress, but likewise among residents of the flue-cured tobacco areas.

Rep. Bonner says the 20 per cent reduction in allotments authorized by the Secretary of Agriculture, plus subsequent developments in the tobacco picture, will reduce the 1957 crop at least 35 per cent below that of the 1956 crop. It would mean that in 1957 tobacco growers will produce a crop which is about 300 million pounds short of the annual disappearance of tobacco in domestic and foreign consumption.

The acreage reduction for 1957 ordered last December by the Secretary of Agriculture takes 20 per cent of tobacco acreage out of production. Experts estimate the backlisting of certain high-yielding varieties of tobacco by the price support program for this year, and the resulting switch by farmers to other varieties, will cut poundage another 10 per cent in the 1957 crop. On top of that about six per cent of the 1957 tobacco allotment is going into the Soil Bank—considerably more than initially was estimated. Those factors in themselves point to a production reduction of 35 per cent or more for this year. Intangible factors such as growing conditions this season and toll of tobacco diseases because of greater use of non-resistant varieties, could cut the crop even further.

Should the 1957 crop be 300 million pounds less than the demand for tobacco, it is quite obvious that many foreign purchasers of American flue-cured tobacco will have to look elsewhere for their supply next year. Normally one-third of the total flue-cured crop goes into export channels. It has been difficult in recent years for this country to maintain its share of the world market in tobacco. If a portion of the world market is lost because of a seriously short crop, it will be extremely difficult to gain these foreign buyers back in future years.

If foreign buyers are forced to turn to Rhodesia,

India and other countries for tobacco because it is not available in the United States, they may be lost forever as consumers of American flue-cured leaf. Such an eventuality would be a serious blow to local tobacco growers.

The situation facing flue-cured tobacco this year is not unlike that which faced the burley belts in 1956. In the case of the burley, crop last year, action was taken similar to that which Rep. Bonner is proposing for the flue-cured crop for this year. And during the past selling season, the average price of tobacco on the burley markets reached the highest point in its history.

Rep. Bonner's bill deserves careful and serious consideration not only by members of Congress and the Department of Agriculture, but also by growers throughout the flue-cured belt.

Concern As To Morehead Port

By LYNN NISBET
PORTS — Legislators from the middle eastern counties and some upstate business men have voiced concern over recommendations of the budget Bureau that some 90 percent of the $15 million proposed for ports development should be spent at Wilmington, only a million and a third dollars at Morehead City.

Their concern is not because of the rivalry between the two ocean ports operated by the State authority, or the complete ignoring of development of other lesser ports on inland waters. It had to do with what effect the relegation of Morehead City to a second rate port might have on pending negotiations for the Southern Railroad to take over the Atlantic & North Carolina line from Goldsboro to Morehead City.

about High Point College raising the salaries of instructional personnel by approximately 20 per cent and increasing retirement benefits for college employees. That news item has significance because the chairman of the High Point College board of trustees is Holt McPherson. McPherson was recently named by Governor Hodges as chairman of the Citizens Committee for Better Schools. He also managed the successful election campaign for the Pearsall plan amendment last summer.

The school and other State employees are saying that if the big folks get 20 percent, faculty members of the Methodist college get 21 percent, and convict laborers 12 percent raises, the 9 and 8 percent figures proposed for them looks more than ever out of balance.

BAIT — The friends of the schools also are pointing out that good public schools and colleges constitute the most attractive bait for industrialists. The tax concessions made to corporations will not have much attractive value if the changes in revenue acts make it necessary to lower the standards of education. In fact, say the educators, one of the handicaps in bringing in new industry is the scarcity of technically trained personnel.

TIGHTER — The "market" for new industry is getting tighter. The Federal hard money policy is having some effect. Oldtimers are pointing parallels between stock market gyrations now and conditions that prevailed just before the great depression a quarter century ago. Ex-president Herbert Hoover adverted to that situation the other day.

The impetus given a few months ago to activity of local chambers of commerce and industrial development councils is losing some of its force. Business men are tightening up a bit on their contributions to civic promotion, and chambers of commerce generally are finding it more difficult to raise their expanded budgets. Experienced operators in this area are not surprised. They know that too often when concrete results are not forthcoming within a few weeks or months there is a noticeable cooling off of enthusiasm.

These conditions enhance significance of the conference scheduled to be held in Raleigh next Wednesday, February 20. At that time Governor Hodges and others will outline progress made during the past few months and point to the need for greater effort in the future.

Then came the news story

Other Editors Saying-- From Coast To Coast

(Richmond Times-Dispatch)
All Smith's wit is remembered, among other things, for his admonition to young politicians feeling their oats: "When you're leading a parade, look around now and then to make sure it hasn't turned up a side street."

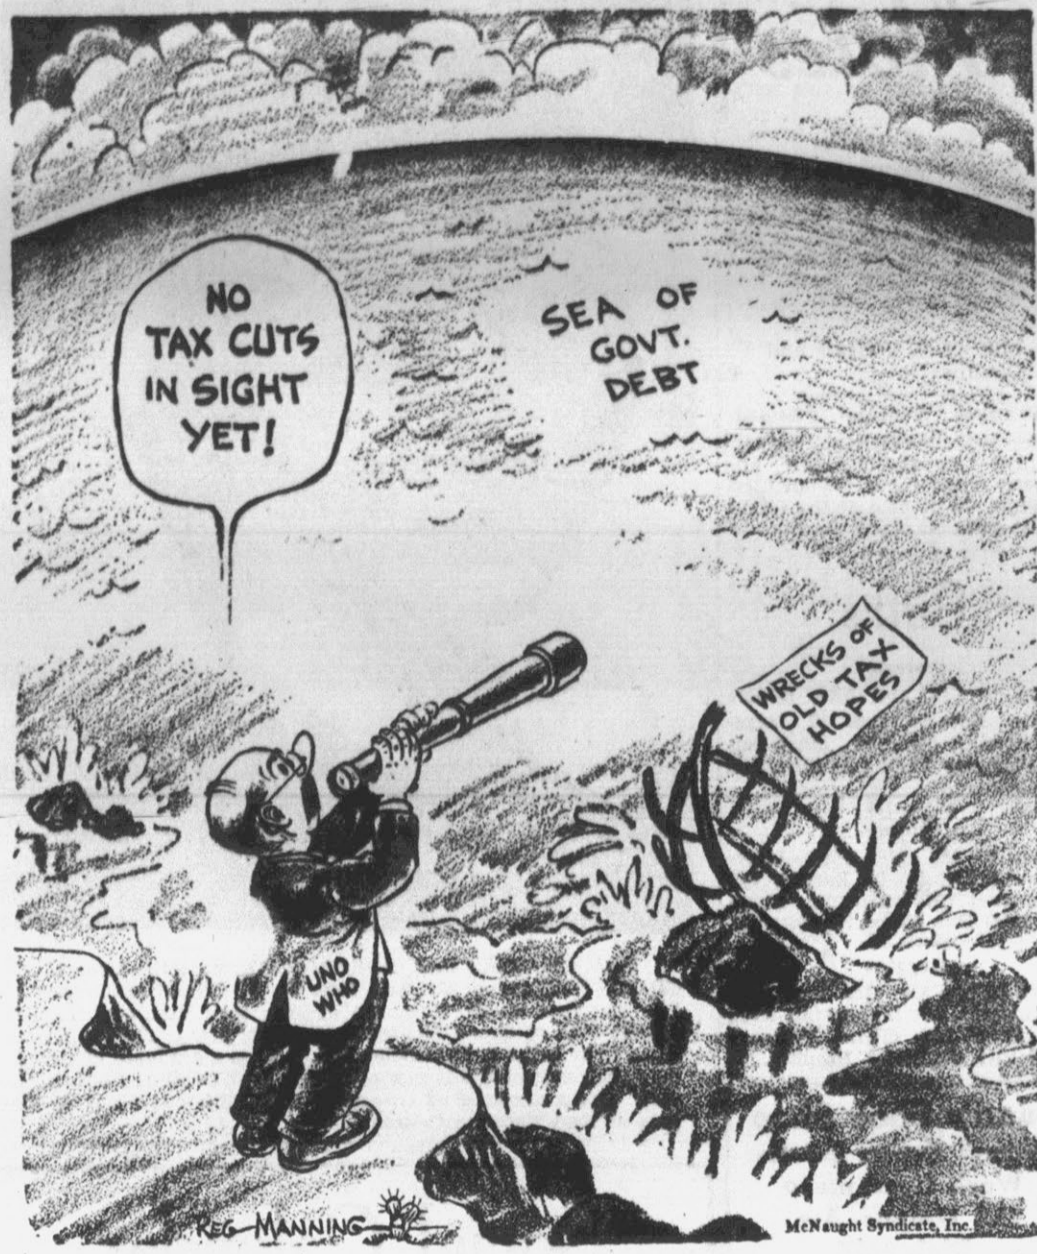

The advice is as sound now as it was when he gave it. Tax-and-spend addicts in Congress are beginning to find that out. Now that there are signs of a let-down in the business boom, the shoe is beginning to pinch. "The people" (for whom campaign orators expressed such profound affection), are no longer as willing to provide—without question—needless tax billions to be frittered away on non-essential expenditures including "economic aid to 36 nations."

Even run-up-to-the-hill congressmen, who, up to now, considered a presidential "budget" something to be adopted as it (or added to) are suddenly talking about budget-cutting—as though they meant it.

Senator Byrd's annual protests against profligate spending, perennially filed under "voice in the wilderness" during the boom years, are beginning to bear fruit. Two other statesmen not afraid to swim against the current of the spending deluge have followed his lead: Senator Knowland of California, and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

Knowland wants to trim $2,000,000,000 (that's 2,000 millions) of adipose tissue from Mr. Eisenhower's overstuffed budget. Senator Byrd would cut deeper than that. He says we can amputate a $5,000,000,000 chunk, without in the least endangering the life of the patient.

Ships That Never Come In

By Roger W. Babson

Lagging By Independents

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — I am concerned about the fate of the independent retailer in today's highly competitive markets. He is not keeping pace with chain store operators who spend large sums of money on new equipment, new lighting, intensive advertising and promotion.

Independent merchants must pay just as much as the large chain operators for advertising space in newspapers and magazines. Often they must pay more proportionately for goods they stock because they cannot buy in such large quantities as the chains. Also, independent retailers are faced with increasing demands for higher employee wages and greater fringe benefits after these concessions are obtained initially by employees of big stores. Too many independent retailers have already succumbed to these pressures.

These chains have helped mightily, however, in bringing down the total cost of distribution. Their savings in buying, in window dressing and display, they share with their customers. They have made and are making a great contribution to the betterment of the American way of life.

The independent merchant who prefers waiting on customers to waiting for his turn at golf has little to worry about. There always will be a demand for this personal attention on the part of certain customers. They are willing to pay for this personal attention as well as for credit and delivery. Of course, the independent merchant must be willing to advertise and secure a good location with plenty of show windows, always kept attractive. To believe, however, that he is destined to be pushed out of business by department stores or chain stores or mail order houses is a mistaken idea.

Retailers can further be helped by the plans of the UNITED INFORMATION SERVICE, with headquarters at 6 Maiden Lane, New York City. This service enables consumers to learn quickly (any time between 6:00 a.m. and midnight) where they can get any desired merchandise. This shortens the time between the consumer's reading of an advertisement and his getting into a retail store. Cutting this time in half has the effect of doubling retail sales. Furthermore, it enables a group of merchants to save the expense of keeping open evenings by co-operating to concentrate evening inquiries through one channel.

The rapid rise of our country to a position of world power and the simultaneous expansion of our industrial economy give ample evidence that we can produce above and beyond our needs. The war needs of ourselves and our allies provided a challenge in production. Wealth in abundance, in the form of goods and services, we have learned to produce.

However, we have been practically standing still in distribution, except for the development of the chain "5 and 10" variety stores, the chain supermarkets, and the chain drug stores. There, however, is much more to be done.

In addition to making plans for easier and cheaper movement of our production into our own domestic consumer channels, I forecast that we will also take steps to sell more American-made products abroad. These products are urgently needed in many parts of the world where disease is rampant because of food and other deficiencies. However, no plan has yet succeeded which would make surplus in some nations available to needy people in other nations, without upsetting the economic balance between individual countries or groups of countries.

We must help solve the problem of the growing imbalance between the "have and the have-not" nations. Communism has made great strides in Europe, Asia, and Africa largely because Soviet leaders have been so successful in pointing to the "selfish and wasteful" living standards in the U.S. American movies shown abroad are largely responsible for this. Positive steps toward solving the problem of international distribution would thereby remove the great grievance upon which Communism feeds.

Opinions In Brief

(The Washington News)
It is good to see the North Carolina legislature considering ways and means to help mentally retarded children.

There are many children in North Carolina today who are above the level of what is normally considered mentally incapable children but below the standards set for normal children. They can't keep up in regular school classes, but they are not basic mental cases.

We have been doing much for the mentally afflicted who are unable to learn. But for the slow learners and the ones who are merely retarded, we have done little. Yet these slow children give us a responsibility which we have not faced up to as yet.

If we make some arrangements to train these children and to give them a better opportunity in life, it would surely be money well spent and it would represent a definite forward step. We hope the movement continues to successful conclusion. And we believe that most North Carolinians feel that same way.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
HOW ABOUT YOUR ANGER?
Years ago I heard a child say: "Anger is dust and ashes." The wisdom of this youngster has always stuck in my mind.

Anger, of course, can sometimes operate as a divine gift. It is intended so to be. It is the emotional reaction with which we are equipped which makes us burst forth into furious protest when something mean, understood, dishonest, or unjust is done. Jesus had anger and plenty of it. We have a number of pictures of the Son of God aflame with anger, which would terrify us if it suddenly flared up so vehemently in our own lives.

But anger is usually not a noble passion. It is more often than not our spiteful reaction over not getting our own way. If people disagree with us we can work up a mighty and "righteous indignation" over their stupid regard of facts. It's hard for us to remain calm when someone lies about us; even harder still is to remain calm when someone lies about us and our abilities.

When our motives are unjustly questioned we become angry; when the questioning is just, we become mad (insane). Just examine your anger the next time it flares up. Don't you just love to roll your hatred for someone, or some policy or opinion, under your tongue? Don't you?

From Arab To German Parleys

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower must turn now from conferences with Arabian royalty to discuss West Germany's difficult position with leading members of the Bonn Republic Government. In addition to the fact that the pro-West Adenauer regime faces an election next fall, the German Chancellor has become concerned over seemingly adverse developments at home and abroad.

Although the 81-year-old statesman cannot make the journey himself, he will be represented at White House talks by Theodor Heuss, president of West Germany, and by Heinrich von Brentano, Foreign Minister and believed to be Adenauer's heir apparent. They are due here early in March. In May, NATO's ministerial council will hold a meeting in Bonn, and Secretary Dulles hopes to attend.

UNINVITED WEST GERMAN COMING HERE
To add interest to the American-German discussions, Adenauer's prospective opponent in the fall contest will be in this country at the same time he is Erich Ollenhauer, leader of the Social Democrats. He has come to the United States without official invitation, planning to tour the country, but he hopes to see Eisenhower and Dulles before his return.

It will be difficult for the White House to refuse to invite him in, for he may be Adenauer's successor some day. But official recognition would strengthen him in his opposition to the aged Chancellor. Ollenhauer, although not bitterly anti-West, opposes a close West German tie-up with the democracies because, in his opinion, it prevents reunification of the shattered land. And that is the most popular issue with the voters, even though it may mean certain concessions to Russia.

Ike and Dulles, in view of these developments, want to ascertain where Germany stands now in the international tug-of-war. Recognizing Moscow's strategy and wiles, there is official suspicion that the Kremlin may hold out a carrot to Bonn in an attempt to disassociate the Adenauer or a successor government from the West.

Adenauer himself recently said that he thought there may soon be a "turning point within Russia," meaning that Moscow may relax its restrictions on the satellites, including East Germany. It would be difficult for the Chancellor to refuse such an offer and remain in office.

As evidence of Washington's worry, Eisenhower replaced retiring ambassador James G. Conant with David K. E. Bruce, former Ambassador to France under Truman. In that post, Bruce had many friendly relations with present German leaders. His appointment may also be a hedge against Ollenhauer's possible election to the Chancellery, for Conant had to observe diplomatic amenities by shunning any contact with the Social Democrats.

On his part, Chancellor Adenauer had many qualms over the policies and the military strength of the West, including America's attitude toward Central Europe's difficulties. He saw the Western Alliance, to which he has linked

Joe College Today

By HAL BOYLE
CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—Joe College today is a great guy. Don't let anyone tell you he's just a spoiled retired teenager who thinks life is simply one long grand ride or golden roller skates.

I came out here to teach Joe College something, but the real result, I feel, is that I have learned a lot from him. There is nothing like a visit to a modern campus to make an old grad feel young and immature. It is the custom at Southern Illinois University here to bring a working newspaperman in periodically to talk to the student journalists. The victim is known as the Elijah Lovejoy memorial lecturer.

Lovejoy, an early abolitionist, was an editor who was shot to death by a mob in Alton, Ill., in 1837. Just why they brought me here I am not sure, unless it was to prove — 120 years late — that the mob shot the wrong newspaperman.

Twenty-five years have galloped into the stall of oblivion since I was graduated from the University of Missouri. On the way here I wondered whether college life had changed much.

At first sight I felt sure it hadn't. The corduroy trousers and sweater shirts still looked as unpressed as in the days when I wore them.

But after three days of almost continuous ball sessions with the lords and ladies of this campus, I found a number of differences.

For one thing, some 10 per cent of the 6,000 students here are married. When I was in college and a student learned he was to become a father, he generally left town. Now he is called into the dean's office, congratulated and handed a cigar.

Typical of the young married couples are Bill and Marcia Spacy. They live in a trailer and have two small children.

Bill, who is an Army veteran, is studying to be a photographer. He has a scholarship and also a part-time job.

A few weeks after Marcia had her second child last summer, she enrolled for the regular fall term in the school of education. She is a straight "A" student, and that means "awesome."

"We have our problems," said Bill. "But this is the best way to live."

All the Joe Colleges I met seemed to have one quality in common: an optimistic confidence that life would turn out well with them.

How different Joe College was in 1932. We were smart-alec and cynical, because in that depression time we felt the world had small use for us.

We tried to make a joke of it and called ourselves, "the unemployables." We weren't members of "the lost generation."

That was a few years before us. We were of the "get lost" generation. We felt unsure, doubtful of ourselves, unwanted in a job-hungry universe.

I remarked on this to a former classmate who recalls those times as well as I do — Dr. Howard R. Long, now chairman of the department of journalism here.

"It's true these kids are less aimless and cynical than we were," he agreed. "They are more sure of what they want because they feel more sure that they can get what they want."

"That's one reason why they're so willing to get married young. We used to dream of being big shots. Few of these kids do. They don't have boundless ambition, but they have faith in the future."

"They feel the world's their oyster, whether it's served to them on a platter or not. Most of them are quite willing to work. The main thing is they feel there is a place waiting for them when they leave college."

Maybe youth should always feel troubled and insecure and feed only for a while on impossible dreams. Maybe Joe College today feels too secure and will find he has been living in a fool's paradise.

But I hope not. It is wonderful to see young people happy in the present and confident of the future. Isn't that really how we'd all like to be?

I had half a mind to enroll as a freshman myself — and start all over again.

Elon Cagers Defeat East Carolina By Score Of 66-52

Locals Will Meet Pfeiffer Tonight

Elon choked off a second-half rally by East Carolina here Saturday night to take a 66-52 North State Conference victory and solidify their chances of going into the conference tournament as the number two team.

The victory was the eleventh in a row for the Christians and pushed their conference record to 11-3, good enough for at least a second-place tie in the conference standings. East Carolina is in sixth place with a 6-8 conference record and 12-10 overall.

Elon pulled out all the stops Saturday night to hold down the Pirates' second-half surge after enjoying a 21-point lead at the half. Nick Nichols sparked the final pressure play by the Pirates, who cut the margin to 12 points on two occasions but were never able to get any closer.

Pfeiffer Tonight

East Carolina winds up its action this week, opening a final three-game stand tonight in Memorial Gym against non-conference Pfeiffer. Tonight's game will be the second of the year between the two teams and East Carolina will be a slight favorite by virtue of an 86-80 win in the first meeting.

In Saturday night's game, the Christians began pulling away after the first five minutes of play. East Carolina held a 5-4 lead after three minutes but Elon's Dee Atkinson scored on two free throws and Jim Crump got a jump shot score that pushed the score to 8-5 after four and a half minutes. From then on, the visitors poured it on to run up their big half-time lead.

Nichols hit five consecutive shots from the floor after the half to spark East Carolina's rally. After his second shot, the Christians started dropping two men off on him but he continued to lead the play.

After Nichols had closed the gap to 60-46 with 5:10 left in the game, Elon went into a control game and neither team scored for three minutes. That was the point where on the East Carolina rally was broken and the Christians wrapped up the victory.

Crump, a senior guard, led both teams in scoring with 22 points for Elon. He was followed by center Ed Juratic with 19 and Atkinson with 18, 14 of them in the first ten minutes of action when Elon was building up its big lead.

Nichols, with 18, was the only East Carolinian who hit consistently enough to wind up in the double figures. Guard Charlie Adams, with nine points, was the second man in ECC's scoring column.

After tonight's game with Pfeiffer, the Pirates will lay off until Wednesday night when they wind up their home schedule against High Point. A Saturday game with Atlantic Christian will close the regular season. The site for the Welterweight Champion Carmen Basilio and ex-titleholder Johnny Saxton have it out for the third and probably last time in Cleveland Friday night with the champ a 3-1 favorite to win the "rubber" bout.

Basilio, 29, regained his crown from the fast moving Saxton on a decisive ninth round technical knockout at Syracuse, N.Y., Sept. 12. The ex-Marine from Chittenango, N.Y., gave Saxton a real shelling when Johnny tried to slug it out with his harder hitting rival.

Saxton, 26, a New Yorker, had won the title from Basilio in their first fight at Chicago March 14 on a disputed 15-round decision.

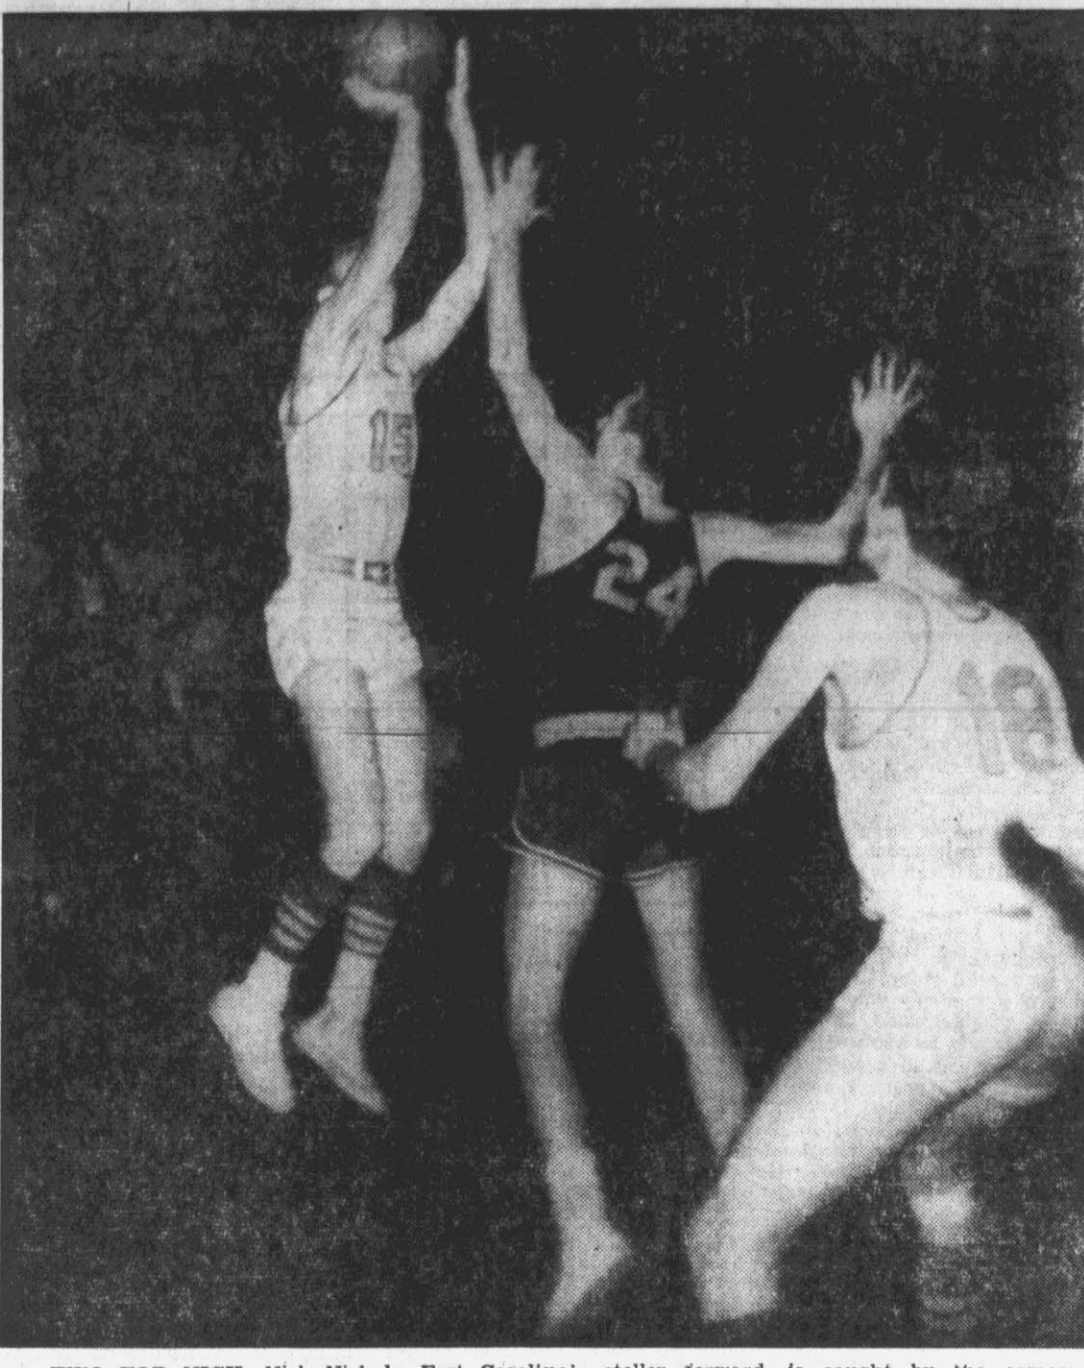

Basilio has scored 23 knockouts in 68 fights. His won-lost-draw record is 49-12-7. Saxton has a 53-5-2 record, including 21 knockouts.

The bout will be broadcast and telecast (NBC 10 p.m., EST) coast to coast. The Cleveland area will be blacked out of the telecast.

Little League Meet Scheduled

Greenville's recreation department announced today that a meeting of all boys interested in playing Little League baseball this summer will be held at 7 p.m. Monday, at the City Hall.

All boys are urged to come and bring their parents.

TWO FOR NICK—Nick Nichols, East Carolina's stellar forward, is caught by the camera as he goes high over the head of Elon's Frank DeRita (24), to dump two points in Saturday night's game at ECC Gymnasium. Nichols hit for five consecutive jump shots like the above in one stretch of the game. Elon won, however, 66-52. The Pirates play host to Pfeiffer tonight at the local gym. Phants Preparing For Conference Tournament Here

Greenville's Phantoms began drills today in preparation for the coming Northeastern Conference tournament which gets underway Thursday night at the ECC gymnasium.

Coach Boley Farley's club, which finished third in the regular-season Northeastern rankings with an 8-4 mark, is slated to battle Elizabeth City at 8:00 Thursday night.

Early morning drills are expected to be the thing for the Green cagers between now and Thursday evening. Coach Farley has added the morning drills to his regular afternoon workouts, in order to improve ball-handling and play-making.

GHS's four losses against conference competition have put them in the bracket with the rest of the league, marked "underdogs" to the powerful Kinston Red Devils. Though an 8-4 record is not bad at all, considering the rest of the Northeastern records and considering the fact that the Phantoms were not generally expected to win even half of their games, it is not good enough to put much of a scare into Kinston.

Kinston finished the season undefeated, winning 12 consecutive Northeastern games and chalking up a 30-game winning streak, which extends all the way back to last season's finals. They are rated to walk away with the tourney title, as they did last year, and are even expected by some to capture the State Class AA title again, as last year.

Only Washington, which finished second in loop competition with a 10-2 mark, is expected to really give Kinston competition. However, league records are altogether discounted when the tourney begins and the only hold-over from the regular-season play is the fact that Kinston, the top team, receives a bye in the tournament's first night of action.

As things stand now, the tourney will be played as follows:
On Friday night, the New Bern and Roanoke Rapids will tangle in the 6:30 match. Greenville and Elizabeth City will meet in the 8:00 trial. Washington and Jacksonville will battle in the 9:30 game.

On Friday night, the New Bern-Roanoke Rapids winner will meet the Washington-Jacksonville winner at 7:30. The Greenville-Elizabeth City winner will tangle with Kinston in the 9:00 game.

On Saturday night, the consolation game will get underway at 7:30, between the Friday night losers, while the Friday night winners will scrap for title honors at 9:00.

Western Carolina, High Point And ACC In Final Scramble

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Now that Lenoir Rhyne has clinched the top spot in the North State Conference basketball race and Elon is assured of at least a tie for second place, attention turned today to the mad scramble among Western Carolina, High Point and Atlantic Christian.

Lenoir Rhyne whipped Catawba 87-66 Saturday night for its 14th victory against no defeats in the conference, good for the top seed-berth in the annual tournament opening at Lexington Feb. 27. The Bears dropped their opening game, but since have swept 19 straight.

Elon pounded East Carolina 66-52 Saturday night leaving the Christians with an 11-3 conference record, good for at least a second place tie. Overall they are 21-3 and have won their last 11 games.

The Christians have two games scheduled this week, against Lenoir Rhyne Thursday and Guilford Saturday. Against the Quakers, now tied for seventh in the standings, Elon apparently stands its best chance of clinching second place.

Western Carolina is third at 10-5, High Point is fourth at 9-5, and Atlantic Christian is fifth at 9-6. WCC and High Point both helped their causes Saturday, WCC by beating Guilford 80-63 and High Point with its 89-59 win over Appalachian.

The Catamounts have only one game scheduled this week, against last place Appalachian Wednesday. High Point faces two league foes during the week, East Carolina on Wednesday and Lenoir Rhyne Saturday. Atlantic Christian's only league game is Saturday with East Carolina.

Should the season end with any of these clubs tied for one of the seeded spots, a draw will be held in Greensboro Sunday when the league's representatives meet to make the tournament pairings.

Only eight of the nine league teams play in the tournament which means the bottom team is left out. Appalachian is last at 13, but Catawba and Guilford tied at 2-12 for seventh are little better off. These two meet Tuesday night and the winner would get a boost away from the cellar. Catawba also meets Appalachian Saturday night.

The sixth place club is East Carolina at 6-8 which opens the week tonight hosting Pfeiffer. Eight of the week's 11 games are league contests.

Dale Long OKs Contract Terms

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Joe L. Brown, general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, says his regular first baseman, Dale Long, has agreed to 1957 contract terms.

Last season Long set a major league record by hitting home runs in eight consecutive games.

Long earlier returned an unsigned contract and said he was holding out for $20,000. Brown did not disclose terms of the agreement.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (U)—The stock market was irregular early this afternoon after profit-taking reduced early gains.

Pivotal stocks fluctuated from fractions to around a point. A few gains beyond this range remained. Trading was active.

The market opened higher as it extended the rising movement which existed at the close Friday when prices were continuing a sharp rebound from the break early in the past week.

Today's gains, however, were trimmed as traders took profits on substantial gains from last week's lows in leading issues.

Major steels erased their initial gains and were either slightly lower or about unchanged. Chrysler and Ford were the only motor stocks to cling to the upside. Leading rails still remained ahead but by a narrow margin. Nonferrous metals and aircrafts were mixed.

Kennecott, although it joined in the latest copper price cut, was ahead more than a point but this constituted a retreat from an early gain of close to 3. Anaconda dipped a point.

Aluminum Ltd. and Union Carbide were up about 2 points each. Lukens Steel wiped out an initial rise of around 2 and was about unchanged. Bethlehem Steel eased after an early fractional rise. U. S. Steel was down a major fraction.

Glenn L. Martin was ahead a bit and United Aircraft gained a major fraction. But Boeing was off a full point. Douglas Aircraft and General Dynamics were down fractions.

Illinois Central and Atlantic Coast Line trimmed initial gains of about a point to a fraction. Southern Railway was off. Small advances were retained by Santa Fe and Southern Pacific.

Gulf Oil dropped a major fraction while other leading oil shares showed scant price movement.

Other small gains were shown by American Telephone, Radio Corp., Zenith, International Paper and American Tobacco.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 30 cents to $172.80 with the industrials up 40 cents, the rails up 20 cents and the utilities unchanged.

RALEIGH (U)—(NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers about steady, farm price 17 to 18, f.o.b. plants 18 3/4. Raleigh eggs steady, A large 35-38; Durham eggs steady, A large 33-35; Charlotte eggs steady, A large 34; Asheville eggs steady, A large 33.

Teenage Questions To Be Discussed By Homemaking Class
"Living With the Teenagers" will be the first unit of discussion when the adult homemaking class of C. M. Eppes High School in Greenville begins its program for this season.

With the use of films, group discussions and lectures, an interesting program has been planned that would help to develop better understanding of teenagers.

This study group will meet for the first time tonight at 7:30 in the homemaking cottage of Eppes High School. A film, "The Meaning of Adolescents," designed to show changes that occur during adolescence, will be shown.

All parents and interested persons are invited. Mrs. Erma C. Staplefoote is homemaking instructor at the school.
