'Eating Crow' In Stand For Repeal

RALEIGH (AP)—A Robeson County legislator says he made an error in offering a bill that was enacted into law in 1955 and "I am eating crow" in calling for repeal of the act. Sen. Cudlar Moore sent up a bill yesterday to repeal the law requiring that all State Highway Patrol cars be painted silver and black. Moore said he thinks the patrol needs unmarked cars and added, "All I'm doing is trying to correct my error. Under his bill, the patrol would be permitted to use plain cars in dealing with speeders, racers and special situations. Moore said he was changing his position on the 1955 act "because of the racing that is taking place on our highways and it's impossible to catch them, to eliminate it, with black and silver cars." At the time the bill was enacted,

Near Miss

HERTFORD, N.C. (AP) — A Dornier jet fighter plane whizzed narrowly past Perquimans High School today and struck a garage across the baseball field from the school. Two civilians were badly burned in the garage, which was set afire. No school children were hurt. The Navy jet fighter went up in flames on the school yard, but the fate of the pilot was not immediately determined. Mrs. Tom Terry, whose husband operates a service station near the school, said she saw the plane hit the garage. "The force of the strike knocked one of the men in the garage across a fence," she asserted. "I don't know whether the pilot was in the plane or not," she added. "I didn't see any parachute, and I don't know whether he got out or not." The Coast Guard said the plane was an F3H Navy jet from Oceana, Va., Naval Air Station.

Eisenhower Views Appear Insecure Some UN Action Against Israel

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP) — United Nations action to impose some form of sanctions on Israel appeared almost certain today after President Eisenhower declared the U.N. must "exert pressure" to get Israeli troops out of the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba. Israel's only hope of averting a sanctions vote apparently lies in agreeing to withdraw its forces without the guarantees it has been demanding against a subsequent attack by Egypt. Arab countries, working through the U.N.'s Asian-African group, have urged sanctions. The matter now is expected to come up in the U.N. tomorrow. Eisenhower set forth the United States policy in a radio-television broadcast to the nation last night. He called this a "fateful moment" for the U.N. and its influence in world affairs, declaring that the future of the United Nations and peace in the Middle East may be at stake. After recounting a long series of efforts to get Israel to agree to withdraw its forces, Eisenhower made this assertion: "The United Nations must not fail. I believe that — in the interests of peace — the United Nations has no choice but to exert pressure upon Israel to comply with the withdrawal resolutions." But he added: "Of course, we still hope that the government of Israel will see that its best immediate and long-term interests lie in compliance with the United Nations and in placing its trust in the resolutions of the United Nations and in the declaration of the United States with reference to the future." Congressional reaction to Eisenhower's speech varied. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas expressed "regret that the administration still feels that there is no choice but to bring pressure on one side in a two-sided dispute..." and added: "I agree that Israel should withdraw but I also feel that the withdrawal should be accompanied by adequate U.N. action that will leave Israel defenseless." Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader who like Johnson has strongly opposed sanctions, said he had not heard the speech. He declined comment. Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said, "I think the President made it perfectly clear that the position of the United States does not permit support for any nation, large or small, that takes the law into its own hands."

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) commented that "as far as it went, it was a good speech." But he said it did not point out the future course of this government. What Eisenhower said about exerting pressure carried the United States position beyond any point previously made by him or Secretary of State Dulles. Both have said in general terms that the United States must support the United Nations, but neither indicated what action the United Nations should take. Officials here have recognized all along that this was the critical question. If the United States opposed sanctions the pressure from Arab countries in the U.N. to penalize Israel would probably be frustrated. If the United States called for such action by member nations probably would be voted. The President himself did not specify sanctions but other officials said that was about the only means of pressure left to the U.N. These officials said they could not predict what kind of sanctions might be considered. Eisenhower delivered his address under the handicap of what he himself called "a bad cold" and later referred to as "a very stubborn cough." But he spoke steadily without coughing during the 25-minute talk. Eisenhower took note of various senators' objections to applying sanctions against Israel without comparable action against Russia because of her conduct in Hungary. The President said bluntly that the Soviet Union because "of its size and power and by reason of its veto in the United Nations Security Council is relatively impervious" to types of sanction other than moral pressure.

London Favors Guarantee Should Israel Withdraw

LONDON (AP)—The Foreign Office said today Britain feels an Israel withdrawal from Egypt should be combined with a United Nations guarantee of freedom of passage in the Gulf of Aqaba. The statement was made in answer to a request for comment on President Eisenhower's call last night for the U.N. to "exert pressure" to get Israel to withdraw her troops from the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba. A Foreign Office spokesman read the following statement from notes at a daily news conference: "President Eisenhower spoke about the complex of the withdrawal of Israeli forces and the need for a settlement in the area. We regard all this as a combined operation and Her Majesty's government believe that the collective wisdom of the United Nations should be able to solve this."

Eisenhower's speech was widely interpreted as meaning that the United States would support sanctions if Israel ignores the United Nations. Israel occupied the Gaza Strip and points along the western shore of the Gulf of Aqaba during her invasion of Egypt — shortly before Britain and France also invaded. The Foreign Office spokesman said two United Nations resolutions, which he described as a combined operation, must be interdependent; one calling for a withdrawal to be followed up by another requiring that United Nations forces move into the vacuum caused by the withdrawal. The spokesman said Britain "considered there should not be a return to the status quo" exist-

Vote Keep 20 Percent Crop Cut

Pitt's Farm Bureau Executive Committee and farm leaders passed resolutions yesterday which favored keeping the 20 per cent flue-cured tobacco acreage reduction in effect for the 1957 crop and supporting in principle the acreage-poundage combination control. Farm Bureau President Noel Lee called the meeting because, he said, "a number of questions have been asked about these two particular things." Copies of the two resolutions will be sent to Rep. Herbert C. Bonner, Sens. Kerr Scott and Sam Ervin, Sec. of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson and to other Farm Bureau officials. The resolutions made no direct mention of a bill recently introduced in Congress by Rep. Bonner. However, Bonner's bill called for a maximum 10 per cent increase in tobacco allotments. In an announcement at the time the bill was introduced Bonner said that figures show the crop will be short this year "particularly types for foreign export. The bill would also set up machinery for a referendum on the acreage-poundage system of allotments. If the bill becomes law by April 1 the Department of Agriculture will have ample time to call a referendum and to hold it, the congressman said. Pitt Farm Bureau's resolution on acreage reduction read as follows: "The Pitt County Farm Bureau Executive Committee and farm leaders favor keeping the 20 per cent flue-cured acreage reduction in effect for the 1957 crop as announced in November of 1956 by the U.S. Department of Agriculture."

Special Meet

The Board of County Commissioners have called a special meeting for tomorrow night at 8 o'clock to name Pitt County's representatives to an area Industrial Development Commission. Commissioners will name two members to the area group's Board of Directors and one member for each of five committees. The committees have been set up for Agriculture, Industry, Public Information, Recreation, and Travel and Community Development. Nominees for the area board will be made from the 11-member Pitt County Industrial Committee, headed by Leonard Bloxam. Committee appointments will be selected from various sections of the county. Board action on the appointments is a follow-up of a request by Bloxam at the last regular meeting of the commissioners. No other business is expected to be conducted during the special meeting. The next regular meeting of the commissioners will be March 4, in the Commissioners' Room of the Court House.

Orders Ignored As Strike Ended

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's 25,000 longshoremen today refused to heed back-to-work orders of their union president. Thomas (Teddy) Gleason, general organizer for the International Longshoremen's Assn., said the men were waiting until all locals have signed contracts in ports from Maine to Virginia. Accords have been reached everywhere except Baltimore and Hampton Roads, Va. The action of the New York dockers thus made it uncertain when work will be resumed by all the 45,000 cargo handlers who struck eight days ago. At Boston, stevedores were officially supposed to resume their jobs at 8 a.m. but the actual work is expected to begin at 1 p.m., because of the necessity for giving their notice of work. Gear men, chief clerks and book men went on duty this morning. In New York, longshoremen gathered at piers before 8 a.m., giving rise at first to belief they intended to resume work. Instead, they merely began voting on the contract reached between the ILA and employers last Sunday. One outspoken local official, Harold Bowers, business agent of the union division which works the luxury liner piers along Manhattan's West Side, said his men would not return to piers until settlements are reached in Baltimore and Hampton Roads. "We won't double-cross anyone," Bowers said.

Ben-Gurion Will Formally Reply

JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier David Ben-Gurion will reply to President Eisenhower's declaration on Israel in an address tonight to the Knesset (Parliament). The announcement was made as the Cabinet discussed the Middle East crisis with Abba Eban, Israeli ambassador to the United States. He arrived by plane at 2:30 a.m. to give a first-hand report on his negotiations with U.S. officials. Israel so far has refused to withdraw from the Gaza and Aqaba areas without firm guarantees against renewal of Egyptian attacks. A Foreign Ministry spokesman confirmed that Ben-Gurion had received a personal message from President Eisenhower, calling again for Israel's withdrawal from the Gaza and Aqaba areas. He said Ben-Gurion would decide today's Cabinet meeting would decide Israel's policy.

Notes Progress In Civil Defense

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina has made steady progress in civil defense preparations against a possible enemy attack. But "no stretch of the imagination" has a state of "operational readiness" been achieved. This was pointed out yesterday by the State Civil Defense Council in an annual report to Gov. Hodges. The council reported it is making plans to evacuate Raleigh in event a hydrogen bomb attack should make it necessary to move the state government. During 1955-56, the report added, civil defense preparations and increased cooperation "improved the efficiency and number of established local units." It stated that North Carolinians no longer can question "the need to increase the capability of the state and its respective communities to combat natural disasters." The threat of total war, the report pointed out, "is sufficiently convincing and factual to warrant the speeding up of civil defense preparation." The council reported that 261 of the state's subdivisions now have civil defense directors and "are organized to some extent." Medical supplies valued at $75,000 have been obtained, the report said, and packaged in 30 kits, each designed to take care of 2,000 casualties. These are ready "for rapid transportation to any disaster section." The Greensboro - High Point area, the report added, has been classified as a "critical target area." Asheville, Charlotte, Durham, Winston-Salem, Raleigh and Wilmington are classified as "target areas." Asheville is the only one that hasn't installed an air raid warning system.

Tax Notices For 700 Non-Listers

The Pitt County Tax Department is mailing notices to 700 persons who have not listed taxes for 1957. Tax Supervisor Harold Allred said the group includes persons who listed in 1956 but who have not listed this year and, also, persons who are known to be residents of the county but who have not listed at any previous time. "If the persons to whom the notices are being sent do not list their taxes or present a satisfactory explanation by March 8, their names will be turned over to the Grand Jury for indictment," Allred said.

Winterville Bill Introduced Today

RALEIGH (AP)—Winterville's police officers will have the power to make arrests and serve papers within two miles beyond the town's corporate limits if a bill introduced into the State Legislature today is passed. The bill was introduced by Pitt Reps. Walter Jones and Frank M. Wooten. It would set the salary of the town's mayor and each member of the board of commissioners at $300 per year effective May 1. No opposition to the local legislation is expected. The bill will be referred to the Cities, Counties and Towns Committee.

South Pole Flight Marks End Of Operations

By JAMES F. TOMLINSON MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP) — Operation Deep Freeze II ended today with a farewell flight to the South Pole. A U.S. Air Force Globemaster roared off the ice runway at this antarctic base to parachute last-minute supplies to the 18 Americans, manning the scientific outpost at the bottom of the world. The flight wound up man's biggest assault on nature on this ice-bound continent. Part I of Operation Deep Freeze, which ended last January, included the establishment of main bases at McMurdo and Little America V and exploration for other scientific stations. It was described as the "biggest base building and aerial exploratory mission ever mounted in a single antarctic expedition." Operation Deep Freeze II saw the work fan out to set up and supply other bases in the snowy wastes. Operation Deep Freeze III, expected to start next October, will bring in supplies and fresh personnel to replace the men who will serve at the stations through the antarctic winter. The operations are being carried out as part of the United States' role in the International Geophysical Year program. Highlights of Operation Deep Freeze II included the first airplane landing at the South Pole, the first parachute jump to the pole and the construction of the first village there. "This has been a very happy operation," said Rear Adm.

George J. Dufek. "I couldn't be more pleased." Dufek, the silver-haired commander of the Navy task force in the antarctic, plans to fly to New Zealand tomorrow. He is scheduled to be in Washington March 15. The second year of Operation Deep Freeze closed with Dufek's task force steaming for home. Left behind at six science stations and this air base were nearly 300 scientists, technicians and Navy support personnel. They will live and work in their snow-buried huts through the long antarctic winter night. Darkness soon will cloak the continent. Temperatures will sink far below zero. Shrieking winds and stinging snow will lash the lonely outposts. At the South Pole, antarctic explorer Paul Siple and 17 other men will attempt to be the first to survive a winter there. Siple expects temperatures of 120 degrees below zero. Scientists at all the scattered bases will study weather conditions, movements and structure of ice and local phenomena as part of the IGY program. Other nations also have established antarctic bases for the scientific study. The IGY program begins officially in July and continues through December 1958. The U.S. outposts are scattered along the rim and in the heart of this ice-covered land of 500 million square miles. They are at Little America V, the South Pole, Marie Byrd Land, Cape Hallett, Clark Island on Knox coast and near Gould Bay on the Weddell Sea. Miles of snowy wastes and jagged mountains separate the bases. Some 3,000 Navy men with a dozen ships and 30 planes battled blizzards and fought through endless ice to set up the chain of bases. A squadron of the big Air Force Globemasters pitched in to drop 1,000 tons of cargo to the South Pole and Byrd stations. An Army-Navy team led by Maj. Merle Dawson of Williamsburg, Va., blazed a 643-mile trail over the ice between Little America and Marie Byrd stations. They used electrical crevasse detectors to find hidden ice pits in their path.

Key UN Debate To Begin Friday

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The General Assembly held up its showdown Middle East debate until tomorrow afternoon to await results of renewed U. S. efforts to secure Israel's withdrawal from Egypt and the Gaza Strip. The U. S. request for a 24-hour delay in the Assembly meeting was granted on the heels of authoritative reports that President Eisenhower had sent a new urgent appeal to Premier David Ben-Gurion to order Israeli troops back behind the 1949 armistice lines by nightfall. It was believed the request was carried by Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban, who arrived in Jerusalem early today to report to Ben-Gurion and the Israeli Cabinet. Eban refused to say whether he brought a note from Eisenhower or Secretary of State Dulles. The President declared in a broadcast last night that the U.N. "has no choice but to exert pressure upon Israel" to pull back her forces. This was generally interpreted as meaning the United States is ready to support U. N. sanctions. Elsewhere in the Western camp, opposition to any such action mounted. Denmark announced she would not vote for sanctions and a similar stand was expected from the other four Scandinavian countries. France was expected to fight such penalties. Canada and Australia were also opposed. Although U. S. support is necessary to make any sanctions resolution effective, two-thirds of the 80-nation Assembly — or 54 nations — must vote for the resolution to secure its adoption. The 27-nation Asian-African group has drafted a resolution calling on all U. N. members to refrain from giving Israel any economic, financial or military aid. An Arab spokesman said Lebanese Foreign Minister Charles Malik would put the resolution before the Assembly tomorrow. Israel has refused to quit the Gaza Strip and the Sharm el Sheikh area at the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba without firm guarantees against a resumption of Egyptian raids from Gaza and the Egyptian blockade of the gulf.

Some Change Seen In This Year's Employment Scene

By EVERETTE PARKER Reflector Staff Writer "The overall general employment picture has shown somewhat of a change this year," stated W. B. Dillingham, supervisor of the Pitt County Employment Security Commission office, this morning. The supervisor added, "This can be said despite the fact that there is very little difference in the number of continued and new claims for unemployment compensation this year in comparison with last year." To substantiate his statement, Dillingham stated that new claims are being filed this year by local and county people who have not filed in the last five years or who have never filed in Pitt. "In view of this development, however, there has been little call for alarm, since our figures thus far are not far ahead of 1956," he said.

figures for the week ending September 7, 1956. There were only seven new claims during the week, none of which were female. Figures show that there were 26 continued, with 10 females being listed. After the January-March period, the number of new claims and continued claims usually show a considerable decrease, many of the unemployed finding work on Pitt County farms, it was disclosed. This trend continues until the month of August. A large number of the claim applicants are employed on Greenville and Farmville tobacco markets, most of whom work in tobacco factories. During this period which usually lasts from the middle of August until the first of December, claims reach a low for the year. Shortly after the tobacco markets close, the employment commission's busiest season begins, making December and January the heaviest months for the filing of new claims by county residents.

SIGNING UP—The number of Pitt County citizens filing for unemployment compensation is usually at its peak at this time of year. Shown above are a few of the applicants for new and continued claims at the local North Carolina Employment Security Commission office. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Governor Your Slip Is Showing

If the people are going to dance, they must pay the piper.

All of us are familiar with that old saying, and it applies to almost every phase of life. Certainly it applies to the people of North Carolina as the state seeks to cope with its teacher salary problem.

We may be sure of one thing. Whatever the salary increase finally granted North Carolina's teachers by the legislature, taxpayers of the state will foot the bill.

Most taxpayers realize the 9.1 per cent salary increase for teachers proposed by Gov. Hodges is inadequate to meet the needs of the state. The 15 per cent increase seems a much more realistic figure both from the standpoint of keeping a sufficient number of teachers in public schools and from the standpoint of anticipated state revenue to defray this additional cost.

Gov. Hodges has defended the 9.1 per cent increase proposed in the budget by asserting local school units of the state should assume a larger part of the financial responsibility for teacher salaries. While it might take a portion of the financial burden off the state government, it wouldn't make much difference to the taxpayers whether funds came through the state or local governments. In either case the funds would come out of taxpayers' pockets.

It is true that 95.5 per cent of the total teachers' pay in North Carolina comes from the state and only 4.5 per cent comes from local governments. But those percentage figures should not be confused with the percentage of the total cost of public education which is defrayed by the state government and the percentage defrayed by local governments.

Should Pitt County assume a larger part of the financial responsibility for schools? According to Gov. Hodges, Pitt along with other counties should. But wait a minute. What part of the Pitt County tax dollar now goes into schools in one way or another?

Many Pitt County taxpayers may be surprised to know that of the $1 county-wide tax rate, 51.4c is earmarked for schools. On top of that taxpayers in Pitt's various townships pay anywhere from 20c to 67c per $100 valuation in special school taxes.

In Ayden township, for example, taxpayers pay 51.4c directly in the county school fund and an additional 67c into the township or district school fund. Therefore they are actually paying 49.6c per $100 valuation for support of the county government and $1.18.4 through their county taxes for the support of schools. That means 71 per cent of the tax dollar collected by the county goes for schools.

In Greenville township taxpayers pay a special school tax of 63c per $100 valuation in addition to the county-wide rate $1. per $100 of which the 51.4c goes for schools.

A similar situation exists in every school district in Pitt County, varying only in the amount of the special district school tax which is levied. In the townships of the county, the part of the tax dollar collected by the county for schools ranges from a low of 51 per cent to a high of 71 per cent.

This distribution of the local tax dollar between schools and other needs in Pitt and other counties should be seriously considered by the legislature before they follow the suggestion that a greater part of the responsibility for teacher salaries should be assumed by local government.

Furniture Calls For Check-Up

By ELMER ROESSNER
If stores want to keep furniture departments prosperous, they'd better look at incoming shipments closely, the National Retail Dry Goods Association is telling members.

Many furniture departments are less profitable than they used to be. Some aren't making money at all. One big reason is that there are so many complaints from customers. These cause service calls, returns and second deliveries.

The Association studied the situation and found manufacturers and retailers are both to blame; manufacturers don't inspect shipments carefully; stores neglect to inspect them when delivered. Only a few stores standardize inspections.

22 CHECK POINTS
In addition to systematic inspection by stores, the Association recommends the use of a standard form for notifying manufacturers of defects. The suggested form contains 22 common faults to be looked for, plus space for noting other defects.

It's an interesting list; it may be useful to all furniture dealers and their customers as well. Here it is:

1. Table leaves do not match tables in color.
2. Table leaves screwed to underside of table.
3. Table tops have porous finish.
4. Tables have warped tops.
5. Pieces rubbed—two packed together.
6. Legs broken without damage to carton.
7. Paint peeled or chipped off.
8. Visible factory burn-ins.
9. Bed rails do not match in color.
10. Base rail on 60-inch pieces sagging—no middle support.
11. Glides not installed.
12. Corner blocks inadequate.
13. Poor match of light and painted woods.
14. Brittle finish.
15. Shrinkage in core wood.
16. Swelling in core wood.
17. Bedroom pieces show open joints.
18. Glued seams are opening.
19. Poor drawer fit.
20. Drawer contour does not match frame.
21. Hardware parts missing.
22. Outer wrap paper or plastic covers no adequate.

There are many other causes for complaints, the N.R.D.G.A.

notes, but those are frequent enough to deserve space on a standard form. Other possible kicks come from poor packing in general, hardware missing from mirrors, poor quality mirrors, smashed corners, loose joints and inadequate instructions for assembly.

Another trouble retailers face is that many shoppers think that pieces and parts of pieces should be identical in grain and shade. This is quite a problem because it is difficult to tell a customer what "matching" means.

Matching woods can never be identical; they match as one lover matches his loved one. They have many things in common but there must, always, be differences. That's why wood is so wonderful for furniture: the grain, the shade and the texture of each piece differs from every other piece in the world. It is only in inferior furniture, where grain and tones are masked with paints and varnish, that every bit looks like every other bit. That's not matching in the true sense of the word.

NEWS THAT CUES BUSINESS TRENDS

Failures of retailers of apparel and accessories, dry goods and general merchandise in January were 40 per cent higher than a year ago. Dun & Bradstreet reports. For the first time, consumption of concentrated frozen orange juice declined last year. The National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers has asked the Defense Department to keep post exchanges from competing with domestic retailers. Supermarkets regard newspapers as their most important medium and spend 75 to 90 per cent of their advertising budget with them, a survey by Supermarket News indicates. The New England economy promises to continue its recent growth, reports the consulting firm of Boni, Watkins, Jason & Co. Plastic, electronic and atomic industries have helped most, the firm's study shows. Retail sales in January were 5 per cent above a year ago, Commerce Department reports.

1955'S SOFT AUTO TERMS LEAVES NO TR DE-IN VALUE
Some dealers think that one of the things slowing new car sales now is the easy terms offered in 1955.

They point out that many who bought cars in that boomiest of all markets got spectacularly soft terms. As a result, they still owe more on those cars than the cars are now worth. Their trade in equity is around zero.

Administration Forces At Bay

By LYNN NISBET
TEST — The administration forces in the House of Representatives successfully resisted the first real challenge to their dominance, but by a vote that afforded no assurance of sustained control.

The challenge came as a complete surprise when Rep. George Uzzell of Rowan offered a House Resolution directing the appropriations committee to provide money for a 15 per cent raise in teacher pay. The Uzzell resolution was careful to make it a House rather than a joint resolution or bill.

He contended that rules did not require that it be referred to committee. Speaker Doughton first ruled against him, later reversing the ruling, and permitted immediate debate and action. Round one went to Uzzell.

Followed a few minutes of hectic parliamentary maneuvering, with motions and substitute motions to refer to a committee, to suspend the rules, with final motion by Rep. Roger Kiser to table the resolution. On that motion a roll call vote was asked, and when it looked like half the members were on their feet asking for the privilege of explaining their votes, the Speaker announced that every member might exercise that privilege. Almost half of them did, taking the opportunity to make a short speech for higher teacher pay.

The final count was 58 in favor of tabling the resolution, 53 against. Nine members did not vote. Rep. Ed Gavin of Randolph voted to table, all the other Republicans voted against the motion. At least half of those who voted to table the measure voiced full purpose to support higher salaries for teachers than recommended in the budget bills, several of them for more than the 15 per cent suggested by Uzzell.

VICTORY—Considered against the background of the explanatory statements, the vote cannot be interpreted as against higher salaries. It did constitute a victory for the organization of the House, for the integrity of the committee plan, and for orderly procedure. That victory was made more certain a few minutes later when another resolution sent up by Rep. Frank Everett of Marlin directing a raise in pay of State employees other than school teachers was quickly referred to the appropriations committee before Everett could lodge a motion to suspend the rules.

PORTENT — Oldtimers confess difficulty in reading signs and portent implied in the outcome of this hassle. Two facts stand out: A very substantial majority of the House membership favors teacher pay raises substantially above the budget recommendation of 9.1 per cent, with support of a minimum 15 per cent increase indicated. A narrow majority of the membership desires to follow custom of open committee hearings before making definite commitments on appropriations or taxes, while a very substantial minority indicated willingness to bypass committee hearings in order to accomplish a specific purpose. That situation puts the House leadership on a tough spot. The vote on the Uzzell resolution clearly demonstrates that the leadership does not have safe control of the House. In fact, it is almost like the situation in Congress, where the Democratic margin is so close nobody can feel secure.

Considered in relation to the changed attitude of Governor Hodges, who told reporters the day before he was easing up on insistence for merit-rating rather than across the board pay raises, the Tuesday House vote offers encouragement, but not complete assurance, to State workers and teachers who are hoping for substantial pay raises.

Closeness of the vote and tenuous control of the leaders also suggests a prolonged session. SUGGESTIONS — Legislators are getting the usual number of suggestions from their constituents—some wise, some foolish, and most of them unheeded. Rep. George Craig of Buncombe thinks one of his friends has reduced the school problem to bare essentials. His constituent writes: "You folks in the legislature have a choice between two bills. Pass one law to provide money enough to recruit and train school teachers, or pass a law forbidding the production of any more younguns to go to school."

A veteran member of the staff of the Sir Walter Hotel observed that the school problem is few huddles and group caucuses in the hotel lobby than in prior sessions of the Legislature. He said the fellows are getting together in upstairs rooms rather than in the lobby. He wondered if that disqualifies them as lobbyists?

The budget proposal to buy an airplane for the use of the Governor and other top level State officials is proving a good decoy target for back home comment. Several mid-eastern legislators, returning from their second week-end at home, report less talk about taxes and teacher salaries than they expected, and a lot more about the airplane. It isn't suggested that the airplane item was put in the budget to divert attention from some other and larger amounts, but it seems to be serving that purpose.

Juvenile Delinquency In Hungary

By JIMMY ELLIS

Self-Admitted Laziness

Henry Belk, veteran editor of the Goldsboro News-Argus and one of the staunchest believers in our rich Coastal Plain, is shocked at the general opinion that many of our Eastern North Carolinians are lazy.

The shock is an outgrowth of realizations he has found in the last few weeks. He has made a serious inquiry into the question and finds the opinion expressed by "good people who were born and trained in other parts of the state." He also finds it "the regretfully admitted fact among many of our own people who have been searching for a way to raise our per capita income." Mr. Belk's feelings about the worth of Eastern North Carolina have been expressed in his editorial columns time and time again. Some weeks ago he charged that it was slander for a State College official to say that dairying would never be what it should until a five-day cow is perfected. After that incident, Mr. Belk says he began to go into the matter. He asked a successful farmer, presumably in Wayne County, what the farmer thought. The reply of the man who was born in the poorer Piedmont and who came to live in the Coastal Plain is well worth examining.

That farmer said, "Our work habits on the farm give opportunity for a lot of loafing we never had a chance for when I was growing up on a farm." He was raised, he told Mr. Belk, in a section that has no outstanding cash crop to match our toting bacco. His younger days were spent in a section with hilly and flinty and harsh soil, and Mr. Belk points out that harvests wrung from it are grown with difficulty.

The successful farmer in Wayne went on: "If down here we worked as hard, if we put in as many long hours and as many weeks and months of work, ours would be a land flowing with milk and honey. But what do we do here at home, for this is my home now and it is a pleasant and goodly place with kindly people? We take the easy way, the easiest way, in fact. We follow a misguided idea that we can make enough on cash crops to go to the store or the mill and there buy what we need. . . I'll have to say that we are lazy."

Those are words from a man who knows the simple truths of what he is saying. He is a man who has lived elsewhere but found a home in gentle Eastern Carolina. He is not a vicious critic of a way of life he knows nothing about. He knows that way of life because he has lived it.

Even those of us who have never lived with the soil can find the meaning in his words, for the Eastern Carolina individual with a problem has in his hands the problem of a whole section. We are dependent on each other in this day and time, the farmer on urban folk and the city dwellers on the farmers.

These are times when we have to face the fact that ideas of the "good old days" aren't good enough. We are being forced to lay aside many old ideas and take up new ones. We have to face the truth that the days of one-crop living are numbered.

All of us are becoming increasingly dependent on adoption of a new way of life. And we must become more cognizant that a new way of life means harder work for us all. There is little room in a revolution of a way of life for five-day living and laziness.

Mr. Belk says there is among many too great a tendency to live easy . . . and he knows. He has talked and lived with the fore-sighted people who know.

Other Editors Saying-- Traffic Law Problems

(Wall Street Journal)

If the police had to suspend the speed laws or other traffic regulations in order to move an ambulance or other emergency vehicle over the highway, no one would argue from this exception that the speed laws were ill-advised.

But if the police had to suspend the traffic regulations repeatedly simply to get the normal traffic flowing, then it would be fair to suspect that there was something wrong with the traffic laws. A too-restrictive speed law is not a help but a hindrance.

It has been the habit for a number of years now for our Federal tax authorities to suspend, by executive order, the normal regulations governing the amortization of plant investments in certain cases. It was found, particularly in wartime, that the regulations were unduly restrictive to capital investment. So they were lifted in order to speed emergency plants.

Under the normal application of the tax laws a piece of capital equipment would be amortized for tax purposes over, let us say, twenty years. That means taking the tax depreciation credit at the rate of only five per cent a year.

This long period of depreciation tended to discourage capital investment; the new plant might be outdated before it was written off the books. Since this effect was especially noticeable in defense plant investment, a law was passed permitting the Government to grant an exception. Whenever it wants to, the Government can let a company take a higher rate of depreciation for tax purposes. This encourages capital investment because the investor sees a chance of recovering his investment quicker.

In fact, the exceptions worked so well in spurring investment that the exception has gotten wider and bigger. It is no longer limited to strictly "war plants." It is being used frequently to speed the expansion of the heavy industries we need for normal economic growth.

That being so, you might wonder why the "speed" law is not changed for everyone. The stock answer is that faster amortization, by increasing the tax deduction in the earlier years, would cost the Treasury money.

It has not worked out that way in practice. A depreciation credit once used up is gone; thereafter the company has to pay a higher tax than if it was still depreciating the property. With rising incomes, it has actually resulted in higher taxes in a number of cases, since the lower taxes of early years were offset by higher taxes after the depreciation credit was gone.

A faster amortization might be a delay for the Treasury in getting its revenue. In the long run it is likely to make very little difference to the Treasury's revenue whether capital equipment is amortized in five years or twenty.

But in any event it is time Congress took a fresh look at the tax amortization regulations. When so many exceptions are needed to speed up some vehicles, one may wonder if antiquated laws are now slowing down the whole traffic line.

Early Israeli Rap At U.S. Embassy

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The ill luck which has dogged every Washington effort to serve as peace-maker in the Israeli-Egypt controversy and prevent possible war in the Middle East persists.

Israeli spokesmen now charge that former Representative James P. Richards, named by President Eisenhower to plan execution of the new Middle East Doctrine, is prejudiced against Tel Aviv. The South Carolinian was formerly Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. His rank in his new assignment is that of Ambassador.

He will visit the Middle East as soon as Congress has approved Ike's program. It will be his task to decide where and how money for economic improvement shall be spent. But it is now feared that the Israeli attack on him will impair his usefulness, even though it may not be well founded.

The Israelis, to the Administration's chagrin, have shown almost as much intolerance and intransigence during the current controversy as Colonel Gamal Abdel Nasser himself. For this reason, the selection of Richards may be another diplomatic mishap.

EMISSARY ACCUSED OF BEING ANTI-ISRAEL Richards is branded as frankly "anti-Israel" in a Zionist propaganda tabloid, entitled "Middle East and the West," published by the United Zionists-Revisionists of America. It says that he will receive "a warmer welcome in Cairo than in Tel Aviv."

The indictment consists of two counts. In 1956 debate over the Mutual Security Act, Representative Victor L. Anuso, Brooklyn Democrat, introduced an amendment to divide American arms evenly between Israel and the Arab states, and for the United States to guarantee Israel's borders and security against hostile action.

CRITICISM OF AMERICAN ZIONISTS Richards, who was handling the measure on the floor, opposed the amendment only on technical and procedural grounds, and was defeated. Oddly, the Anuso proposal resembles the Administration's current suggestion for resolving Middle East difficulties.

The more serious charge concerns Richards' insertion in the Congressional Record of a bitter criticism of American Zionists' activities in this country. It was delivered by Representative Omar Burleson of Texas before the American Council of Judaism. This organization opposes Zionists' politico-religious activities and propaganda on behalf of Israel.

"EMBITTERED 40,000,000 PEOPLE IN MIDDLE EAST" Referring to this movement, as well as to Roosevelt-Truman contributions to Israel's creation, Burleson said:

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That Maine is the only state in the union which adjoins only one other state.

That a honeybee can vibrate its wings 440 times a second, and that's some buzzin', cousin! That the Black Sea isn't black. It gets its name because of the dense fogs and violent storms that darken the area.

That the "monkey wrench" got its name from its inventor, Charles Moncke, a London blacksmith.

That U.S. government publications, which usually bear titles as long-winded as a marathon runner, now include a booklet that is simply called "Beer". Wonder what in the world it could be about?

That Arthur Murray says to learn to dance the cha-cha all you have to do is wave goody — without using your hands.

That sportscaster Mel Allen was so studious as a lad he entered the University of Alabama at 15.

That you are a born port if, offhand, you can think up words that rhyme with coffee, or cobra, or upward.

That the question most often asked last year by 1,400,000 visitors to the Empire State Building's observatory was, "How much does building sway in a storm?" A check by a gyroscopic shows the top of the 460,000-ton structure never moves more than 4 of an inch off center.

That some sleepless fellow in Australia has figured out his country now has 139 million sheep.

That every time pop singer Teresa Brewer comes out with a million-seller her record she also has had a child. Her present score: three hits, three children.

That it was Sophie Tucker who observed:

"From birth to age 18, a girl needs good parents. From 18 to 35, she needs good looks. From 35 to 55, she needs a good personality. From 55 on, she needs good cash."

Opinions n Brief

BAY CITY, MICH., VALLEY FARMER: . . . "Big Business" is not the predatory monster that the "Hate-Big-Business" zealots would have us believe. As a matter of fact, the weight of evidence tends to prove that "Small Business" is really helped by its big brother—that both are essential cogs in our American production machinery."

KNOXVILLE, TOWA, EXPRESS: "The big question today is not whether a lot of men try to beat the government. It is whether the government can beat you with vicious taxation, inflation, etc."

STURGEON BAY, WIS., ADVOCATE: "The future of polo is certain. Its past will be with us for some time. We must not forget those for whom the vaccine came too late."

Our country the priceless high prestige we had always enjoyed in the Middle East. . . . Tragically, this inestimable heritage of good will, built up over the years, was transformed in a few moments by our well-meaning but ill-advised action.

"What we achieved in the Middle East was to antagonize and embitter some 40,000,000 people — an important part of the vast numbers of undeveloped peoples, whose friendship and support are really the big stakes in the East-West struggle. And this bitterness to which we contributed was not missed by the Kremlin."

"The more partial we become to the Zionists and Israelis, the more the Arabs found themselves turning to the Soviet."

It is understood that a full briefing on the Richards background, and especially on these two incidents, has been forwarded to Premier Ben Gurion by the extraordinarily active Israeli Embassy staff at Washington.

Fifth Masonic District Holds Annual Meeting

The Fifth Masonic District held its annual meeting in the Ayden school cafeteria February 19. The eight Lodges comprising the Fifth District represent approximately 102 Blue Lodge members.

The invocation was delivered by J. E. Jones of Ayden. Dinner was served to 101 members before reviewing the 1956 business record.

Leon Dunn, Master of the Ayden Lodge, welcomed the guests and turned the program over to the District Deputy Grand Master Robert Martin of Bethel.

Greenville Lodges, (Crown Pt. and 284), Ayden, Farmville, Robertsonville, Gainesland, Grifton and Bethel Lodges answered the roll call. Secretaries of the respective Lodges gave their annual report.

District Deputy Grand Lecturer W. Herman Hardee of Greenville reviewed briefly some of the Masonic Code Regulations, and encouraged the Lodges to pursue the Masonic Education plan.

Grand Marshal James W. Brewer of Greenville reminded the officers of their serious obligations to each member and the community.

The Honorable William J. Bundy of Greenville, Past Grand Master, reminded about the Pitt County Lodges. He recommended a Resolution to transfer money in the Masonic Loan Fund to the Oxford Orphanage. The Loan Fund was originally designed to extend financial aid to worthy and needy students attending East Carolina College. "The Fund has been inactive for several years," he stated, "and the money can be used for Scholarships at Oxford." The Resolution was adopted.

District Deputy Grand Master Martin concluded with a note of appreciation for the cooperation given him during his tenure of office.

Plan Agenda For March Meeting

An agenda for the March 26 annual meeting of the League of Women Voters was discussed by the Greenville unit's board of Directors Tuesday night. A new president, first vice-president and secretary will be elected at the March meeting.

It was also announced at the board meeting that the Greenville unit will enter a contest being conducted by the Institute for Internal Order. A tape recording of one of the "Focus on the Future" programs sponsored by the League each Friday at 1:15 p.m. on WNCT will be entered in the contest. The contest's first prize has been announced as $400 with four other prizes of $50 each.

Legislative reapportionment will be discussed at the next unit meeting, scheduled for February 26. Mrs. Chester Walsh will be in charge of the minority report and Mrs. Robert Pomoy will lead discussion of the majority report. Recommendations from Duke University, the University of North Carolina and Wake Forest College will also be reported. The unit meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. T. W. Rouse.

Weak-Willed

NEW YORK (AP)—An Army neuro-psychiatrist says that four out of 10 Americans in Korean prisoner of war camps yielded to brainwashing techniques.

Maj. William E. Meyer, a psychiatrist with the 1st Marine Division in Korea, said weak-willed prisoners succumbed to the brainwashing within 48 hours after it began.

He said the brainwashing was designed for the physical control of prisoners and to make them distrust each other—but did not seek to make Communists of the captives. He added that fewer than 1 percent of the Americans were subjected to torture.

Drunken Child Started Action

Greenville police added to the already woeful plight of a local Negro mother by charging her with possession of non-tax paid liquor.

The story started when the "law" received a call that a young Negro boy had been admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital in an intoxicated state. According to reports, the child was carried to the hospital in serious condition by a neighbor.

It was learned at the time of the incident, that the boy's mother and father were not at home but later in the day, Mabel Moore, 26-year-old Negro of 1302 Fairfax Avenue, was notified of her child's condition and charged with possession of non-tax paid liquor.

Five other arrests were made in Pitt County in the past weekend for possession of illicit and tax paid liquor for the purpose of sale.

Bethel police officers and county ABC officers arrested Rosella Manning, Negro woman, for possession of illicit whiskey. The Bethel woman was placed under a $200 bond.

Charlie Lewis of near Bethel was also arrested by Bethel police and ABC officers over the weekend. Lewis was charged with possession of ABC whiskey for the purpose of resale and released under a $300 bond.

Walter J. Frizzell, 53-year-old Negro of Bonners Lane was arrested and charged with possession of tax paid liquor for the purpose of resale.

ABC officers arrested Ella Moore Cooper, 47-year-old Negro woman of 1209 West 5th St., on charges of possession of illicit liquor. She was released under a $300 bond.

Earlene Hardy, 45-year-old Negro woman of 502 West 12th Street, was arrested for possession of non-tax paid whiskey by ABC officers and later released on a $200 bond.

Collect $1,200 In Heart Drive

W. M. Scales Jr., fund chairman for the Pitt County Heart Fund drive, said today business firms in Greenville have contributed more than $1,200 to the campaign.

The donations were collected by Scales and County Chairman Charles Howard in two days of direct solicitation of merchants. Each business house that made a contribution was visited by Scales and Howard.

"The response has been gratifying," Scales said today. "We have not received any reports from other communities in the county but we anticipate a response equal to that by Greenville merchants who have been exceptionally generous."

The heart fund drive has been underway throughout the month and will be climaxed Sunday with door-to-door solicitations throughout the county. Sunday has been officially designated as "Heart Sunday" all over the nation.

Woman Charged In Auto Accident

A two-car collision occurred yesterday morning at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Greene Street.

Involved in the accident were Lillie Buck Haddock of 118 North Eastern Street driving a 1952 vehicle and Queenie B. Johnson, 31-year-old Negro woman of 509 Shepard Street operating a 1955 automobile. There were no personal injuries.

Investigating officers charged the Haddock woman with careless driving. Damages were estimated at $20 on the Haddock car and $130 on the Johnson car.

Panelists Named For Friday Talk

Dr. James Rooley of Grifton and Dr. T. B. Marshall of Greenville will be panel members Friday for the League of Women Voters weekly discussion of U. S. foreign affairs over WNCT. The program is telecast at 1:15 p.m. each Friday.

Mrs. Robert C. Forney will serve as moderator for the discussion. This week's program will include examination and comments on laws suggested by the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles. Particular emphasis will be placed on legislative proposals concerning mechanical inspection of motor vehicles, chemical tests for drunken drivers, drag racing and unmarked patrol cars.

HOW NOW, BLACK COW?

HAMPTON, Va. (AP)—John C. Bull reported $30 damage to his car—the result of hitting a black cow that ambled in front of it on Armistead Ave. The cow seemed only shaken up a bit and limped away from a policeman who went to check her damage.

Negro Picketing Union Pickets

DALLAS (AP)—Frank Jamison is a one-armed Negro about 60 and around him swirls a controversy which has stopped work on a $1,262,712 remodeling job at the old City Hall.

Jamison has been operating an elevator on the job for the Jansen Construction Co., getting $50 a week.

About 175 members of a construction workers union walked out yesterday and started picketing with signs which protested "payment of sub-standard wages for elevator operation."

About 200 union members were laid off at four other Jansen Company jobs in Dallas and Fort Worth.

Harry Jansen, head of the firm, said he offered to pay Jamison the union scale of $112 a week if the union would take Jamison in as a member.

"They said they did not want a colored man in the union," Jansen declared.

DEPRECIATED DONKEY

STERLING, Colo. (AP)—Automobiles and donkeys have at least one thing in common. Both depreciate in value from year to year.

Allen Yost purchased a donkey at an annual auction sale here early in 1956 for $85. A year later the donkey was auctioned off to Ralph Runge for $50. The latter price even included $2.50 for a new halter.

HAZARD, Ky. (AP)—Nurses who administered shots after the recent flood food of having at least one good laugh.

Two brothers, 4 and 5 years old, arrived for their shots. The 4-year-old asserted he was not afraid of "no old shot." But the needle brought a tear to his cheek and an adult oath from his mouth. "You're not supposed to say that—say 'thank you,'" the 5-year old said sternly. "Thank you, hell! I'm being killed," replied the 4-year old.

William Reading, Mrs. Henry Aldridge and Mrs. Milton Williamson. Tom Andrews has been named community leader for Bethel and William R. Stroud will serve in the same capacity in Ayden. Robert D. Wheeler is chairman for Grifton and is being assisted by vice-chairman Kenneth Talton.

Twenty-five per cent goes to the American Heart Association and the remaining 20 per cent is used by the North Carolina Heart Association.

Funds used locally include those allocated for support of the monthly Rheumatic Fever and Rheumatic Heart Clinic at the Pitt County Health Department.

Serving with Howard on the county committee are Dr. Walter C. Humbert, medical advisor; W.M. Scales, Jr., fund chairman; H.L. Narron, special solicitations chairman; R.L. Kirklind, publicity chairman; and Jack Marston, treasurer.

Marriages Hit An All-Time High

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Marriages in the United States increased last year, reaching an estimated total of about 1,587,000, compared with 1,542,000 in 1955, and 1,491,000 in 1954, according to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's statisticians.

These other aspects of last year's marriage record are reported: The rate of 9.4 marriages per 1,000 population (including the Armed Forces overseas), compared with the postwar low of 9.2 per 1,000 in 1954.

Most states recorded small increases in marriages. In two states, Indiana and Oklahoma, there was a pronounced upswing — almost 17 percent in Indiana, and about 11 percent in Oklahoma.

Eleven states reported a decrease, in most cases relatively small — under five percent in Nebraska and Georgia, and two percent or less in the other nine states.

In cities with at least 100,000 population, the trend was similar to that for the states — there were increases in 74 of these cities and declines in 29.

Among cities with at least 1,000,000 population, only Philadelphia reported fewer marriages than in 1955. In New York City marriages increased from 68,615 in 1955; World War II come of age.

to about 70,300 in 1956. The rise was about two percent in Detroit, and over six percent in Chicago and Los Angeles.

The statisticians predict that the annual increase is likely to be small for the balance of this decade, but that after the early 1960's, the number of marriages should rise rapidly as the large number of persons born after World War II come of age.

Modest House Victory For Economy Forces

WASHINGTON (AP)—House advocates of a cut in federal spending boasted a modest and hard-won initial victory today, but already there was talk that the Senate

Travel Survey By Census Bureau

CHARLOTTE — A continuing sample survey of the travel habits of the American people is being launched this month by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce.

This was announced by Supervisor Joseph R. Norwood of the bureau's field office in Charlotte, which will participate in the survey. The travel survey will be carried out in conjunction with the Census Bureau's monthly Current Population Survey of employment and unemployment.

Items to be covered in the travel survey include trips taken by members of the household, places visited and distances traveled, number of days away from home, methods of transportation used such as automobile, bus, train, ship or plane and the purpose of the trip such as business or pleasure. Facts collected in the survey will be used in planning and providing travel facilities and accommodations for the American public. Users of this information include airlines, bus lines, railroads, steamship lines, state and federal highway officials, local chambers of commerce, operators of hotels, motels, tourist camps, etc.

The travel questions will be asked of members of part of the households covered in the Current Population Survey which will be conducted locally and in 329 other sections of the country during the week of February 18. Current Population Survey information is collected locally by Harlowe C. Waldrop of New Bern.

Says Seat Belts Can Curb Injuries

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Automobile seat belts will reduce injury rates "as high as 60 per cent" in highway accidents, says John O. Moore, director of Cornell University's automotive crash injury research program. Moore told a Texas Safety Assn. meeting that several automobile manufacturers include engineering improvements aimed specifically at increasing "passenger" protection.

will restore some of the money. The House sustaining its Appropriations Committee, cut $80,364,000 or about 2 per cent from President Eisenhower's requests in passing yesterday a $3,884,927,000 money bill to finance the Treasury and Post Office Departments for the year starting July 1.

The bill is the first of 13 annual money measures under which Eisenhower has asked for more than 73 billion dollars of new appropriations. Some House members are seeking to cut at least five billions.

The House passed the bill by voice vote. It apportions $891,467,000 to the Treasury Department, $3,192,000,000 to the Post Office Department and $1,460,000 to the Tax Court.

Cuts included 58 million from Post Office requests and $22,364,000 from the Treasury.

The Post Office Department and postal employees protested the cuts.

Sen. Carlson (R-Kan), a member of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee which will handle the bill, told a reporter, "I believe we will be willing to restore some of the Post Office Department funds if they make a good case."

Hearings begin Wednesday. The senator said department officials already had talked to him. "They said the cuts were very serious," he reported. "For instance, they said they could not add additional rural routes or new carriers needed in growing suburban areas if the money were not restored."

After two days of debate the House defeated 177-124 an amendment to give the Post Office Department an extra 29 millions. It acted after Appropriations Committee members and others denied that the cut would cost anyone his job or cause impairment of essential services.

Miles Measured Different, Here

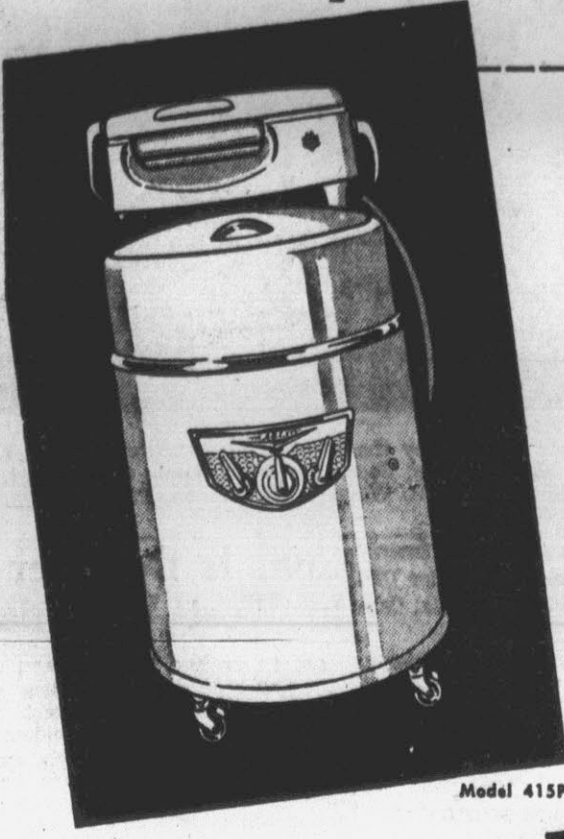

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Every schoolboy knows 5,280 feet is a mile—that is, everywhere but in Bernalillo County.

Officials compiling new property descriptions have found one "mile" that's only 4,000 feet and another that's more than 6,000 feet. They explain that surveys were made piecemeal, with different starting points, as the area grew.

They've found sections, which should be a uniform 640 acres, as small as 451 acres or as large as 800.

Crows Decide To Move Into City

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Rio Grande Valley crows apparently have decided the city offers the best opportunities. The rascals are cluttering alleys, peering into garbage cans, raiding back yard gardens, dive-bombing cats and dogs, stealing anything they can haul off and making life miserable for late-sleeping humans.

Anyone who hasn't been jolted bolt upright in bed lately by a raucous croak near the bedroom window, probably can expect it soon.

Since there are laws against blasting these noisy creatures out of the trees inside the city limits, there is nothing to do but turn over in bed and think evil thoughts.

The invaders also have taken a liking to TV aerials and perches directly over newly-polished autos.

They are interesting critters, even if they are pests. They are small cogs in a society that, in ways, puts to shame ant colonies and even humans. They have squad leaders, company commanders, and no one knows how much "brass" of division rank.

They assign individuals to guard duty and forage details—they even have some assigned to punish and non-conformists. And they have a system of calls that would make a Signal Corps man envious.

Some hunters swear that a crow knows to the foot the maximum range of every gun made. Even if local citizens were allowed to shoot them, it would be tough hunting.

Now that they are moving into the city, some people figure it is only a matter of time before they

Coal Is Deadlier In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—"King Coal," not automobiles as in most states, is deadliest in the toll of West Virginia accidents. The leading soft coal producer in the nation, West Virginia had an average of 37.8 mining deaths per month in 1956 on the basis of figures for the first 11 months—a total of about 450 for the year. Auto deaths for the year totaled 436.

ECC Loses To High Point In Two Overtimes, 93-91

Buc's Early Lead Fades In 2nd Half

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

It took High Point two overtime periods and a last-second field goal by guard Ronald Crump to whip East Carolina, 93-91, last night in the Pirates' final home match of the season.

The visiting Panthers cut down a 14-point Pirate lead to tie the score 80-80 in the last seconds of the regular 40-minute game. After five minutes of overtime, both clubs were still tied at 87-87. Crump's hook shot with :01 left in the second overtime period gave High Point a 93-91 victory.

Bucs to give them 91 points. Heugele and Beauchot tied it up with four points. With 1:24 remaining in the overtime, High Point froze the ball for one final shot. Crump hooked it in in the final moment to give the Panthers the 93-91 win. It was High Point's 10th victory in 15 loop games.

ACC Saturday
East Carolina rounds on their season Saturday night against Atlantic Christian in a North State affair. The site for the game has not been announced, but it is expected that the contest will be played at Wilson. However, that is not definite.

TIMEOUT—Three hulking Pirates come toward the bench during a timeout in last night's ECC-High Point match. Nick Nichols (15), Charlie Adams (16) and Joe Plaster (18) trot toward the sidelines. Flashy Pastrano Defeats Holman

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Willie Pastrano, cagey, fourth-ranked heavyweight from Miami and New Orleans, tied up Chicago's big Johnny Holman with lightning hooks and jabs last night to win a unanimous decision in a 10-round nationally televised bout.

The 6-3, 200-pound Holman, who has kayoed opponents for 13 of his 30 victories, just couldn't land a big one. Pastrano, 6 feet and 187½ pounds, was in and out with telling jabs that raised a welt over Holman's left eye. The eye was closed from the eighth round on.

Referee Dan Leslie and Judges Frank De Camillis and Tom Nuckles marked Pastrano down for his 21st straight win with room to spare. Leslie scored 7 rounds for Pastrano, 3 for Holman; De Camillis had it 7-2-1, and Nuckles 6-3-1. The Associated Press card read eight rounds for Pastrano with two even.

The gate was $23,587.50 from some 6,500 fans who witnessed Louisville's first nationally televised match and the first bout in the new 22,000 seat Coliseum on the Kentucky State Fairgrounds.

Jury Still Out On Aragon Case

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Welterweight Art Aragon continues to wait today for the most important decision of his career.

In a locked jury room on the eighth floor of the Hall of Justice six women and six men are deliberating whether Aragon offered Dick Goldstein $500 to throw a fight in Texas last December.

Aragon is charged with corrupt sporting practices, a felony. If convicted, he faces up to five years in prison.

Low-Dwelling Clemson Has Hope Of Glorious Wind-Up

Abandon Public Hearing Effort

RALEIGH (AP)—Because of inability to get principal witnesses, North Carolina State College has dropped its efforts to hold a public hearing in the Jackie Moreland case.

This was announced yesterday by Dr. Carey H. Bostian, college chancellor, who said he had received only one affirmative reply to his invitations to principal witnesses.

Bostian had sent letters to the principal witnesses whose names were provided to the college by the NCAA. He invited them to appear at a hearing in Louisiana on or about Feb. 23 before a committee representing the college.

Bostian made his proposal after the Atlantic Coast Conference rejected the college's request for the ACC to conduct a public hearing into the case.

The NCAA placed a 4-year probationary sentence on State for alleged violations in recruiting Moreland, a former high school star at Minden, La.

The conference held that the college was guilty on two counts of giving aid to Moreland.

Moreland, who dropped out of State recently, enrolled at Louisiana Tech.

The Clemson Tigers, only inches out of the Atlantic Coast Conference cellar, can't make this much of a season in the four regularly scheduled games they have left. But the Tigers basketball team, riding a three-game winning streak which represents half its total victories so far, would like to finish up in a blaze of something akin to glory.

Clemson is at Furman of the Southern Conference tonight in the second meeting of the South Carolina rivals. In January, the Tigers edged the Purple Paladins 80-77 in overtime, and Furman hardly was convinced the win was decisive.

The ACC team, which lost high-scoring guard Bill Yarborough right after the first Furman game—he used up his eligibility—has put together three wins and eight losses in the conference and has a 6-13 record overall. Yarborough was second highest scorer for the Tigers last season, but he never really hit his stride before bowing out this season and his loss has not shown up.

Rather, the Clemson squad has run up its three-game win streak since then, riding on the scoring of forwards Vince Yockel, Doug Hoffman and Ed Brinkley, center Gene Seay and guard Tom Cameron. The Tigers, with game totals running mostly in the 60s and 70s, have had to bank strongly on defense, too, and have lost few games by runaway scores.

Furman has a 7-5 Southern Conference record, 9-15 overall.

After tonight, Clemson has road games with South Carolina, The Citadel of the Southern Conference and Virginia. The results should give a good indication whether the Tigers will be able to sneak up behind anybody in the ACC tournament March 7-9.

In last night's only game, Wake Forest put on a dazzling show to bury visiting East Kentucky, 101-76. Every Deacon got into the game as Wake pushed its game total across the 100-point mark for the first time this season.

Jackie Murdock had 29 points to lead the Deacons, 12th ranked nationally in the AP poll. Teammates Jim Gilley had 21 points and Jack Williams 20. East Kentucky's Clayton Stivers had 19.

Wake Forest now has a 17-6 season record.

Wilt Needs Big Night To Regain Scoring Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas needs 56 points against the defensive minded Oklahoma Aggies tonight if he wants to reclaim first place in the national collegiate individual basketball scoring race.

The Still goes into tonight's game in fifth place with a 29-point average of 522 points in 18 games. South Carolina's Grady Wallace is setting the pace with a 30.4 average of 699 points in 22 outings.

Columbia's Chet Forte, the only one of the leaders in action last night, dropped to third place when Yale checked him with 24 points. Joe Gibbon of Mississippi took over the runnerup spot.

The top five:

1. Wallace, S.C.	22	699 30.41
2. Gibbon, Miss	18	528 29.33
3. Forte, Columbia	19	556 29.26

See how the regular use of Chilean Soda corrects acidity and maintains favorable pH (left). Fertilizer used at right contained no sodium.

and you'll choose CHILEAN NITRATE OF SODA

Because it's a natural fertilizer, and everybody knows a natural fertilizer is an extra good fertilizer. Extra good for crops and for the land, too; not just for today, but for the years ahead as well. Chilean Soda is a rare natural combination of nitrate nitrogen, sodium and minor elements. Its extra values distinguish it from other nitrogen fertilizers, account for its remarkable efficiency, for its beneficial effect upon soil fertility and the production of fine crops.

The effectiveness of a nitrogen fertilizer for top-dressing and side-dressing depends almost directly on the proportion of nitrate nitrogen it contains. In Chilean Soda, the nitrogen is 100 per cent fast-acting nitrate—ready to work as soon as you apply it, rain or shine. But that's not all. Chilean Soda has sodium and minor elements, too. Sodium destroys soil acidity, substitutes for potash and calcium when necessary, increases the efficiency of nitrogen and helps plants make better use of other plant foods.

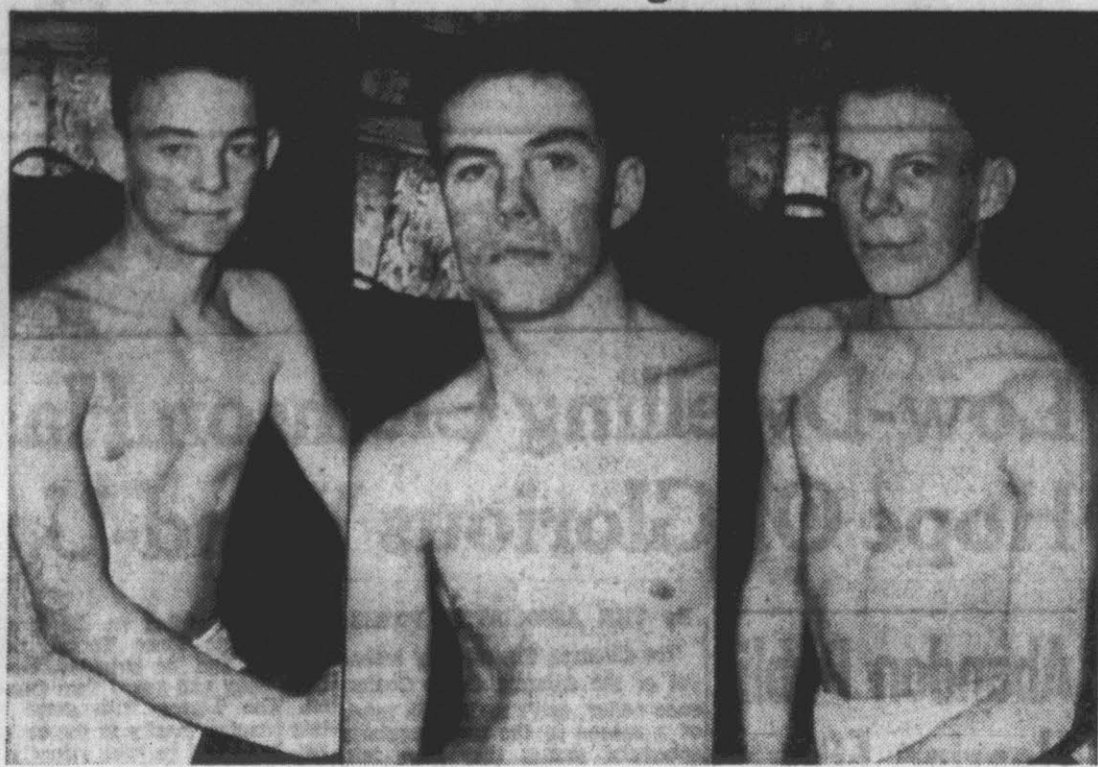

Where the soil is too acid; where potash is deficient or where the available phosphate supply is low; where the crop needs quick help; or where one or more of the minor elements is lacking, Natural Chilean Soda has no equal.

Experience, they say, is the best teacher, and 100 years of consistently satisfactory experience with Natural Chilean Soda have demonstrated that there is nothing to compare with it for your top-dressing and side-dressing requirements. If you have any questions, we urge you to try it, if only in a small way to begin with, and see the difference for yourself. You'll find it is the most economical and efficient nitrate nitrogen fertilizer you ever used.

Wrestlers Are Burlington-Bound

GHS WRESTLERS—Pete Taylor, Charlie Roberts and Louis Arthur, along with Jesse Powell (not pictured) will represent Greenville high school in the state high school wrestling meet at Burlington today and tomorrow.

GHS Wrestlers Try Skills In State Tourney

BURLINGTON—Four Greenville high school wrestlers will compete today and tomorrow in the State High School Wrestling Tournament here for top North Carolina honors.

The tournament will include 17 teams from all over the state. Only two schools represented will be from the AA Class—Greenville and New Bern. The rest will be Class AAA.

Representing GHS will be Charlie Roberts, Louis Arthur, Pete Taylor and Jesse Powell. Phantom mat coach Stan Jones stated yesterday that "our boys stand a very good chance of coming out of the state trials with some championships."

Roberts has compiled a 9-1 record thus far this season in the 136 pound bracket. Jones stated that Greenville's best chances for a state title may rest on him.

Arthur, in the 106 pound class, has worked up an 8-2 record this season in regular matches. One of his two losses was in an overweight match and his other was at the hands of Goldsboro's Hales. Hales' only loss this season also has been to Arthur. Jones pointed out that Louis was the fourth-ranked wrestler in the state last year in the 98-pound class, as a freshman.

Pete Taylor, in the 115 pound bracket, has forged out an 8-2-1 mark this year. This season he has done very well, according to Jones; his one tie came against last year's runner-up champion in the 115 pound class. One of his losses this season was an overweight match to Mike Granstaff, the Olympic Trials champion and the Virginia State champ for the past three years.

Powell, with a 4-4-1 record, will compete in the 130 pound division and is expected to garner several important points for the Phantoms.

Traveling with the four Phantom wrestlers to Burlington will be coaches Jones and Guy Lewis.

This Time, Pat Is A Spectator

LA CRESCENTA, Calif. (AP) — Pat Flaherty, 1956 Indianapolis 500-mile auto race champion, will be at the Memorial Day classic again this year — but this time as a coach and spectator.

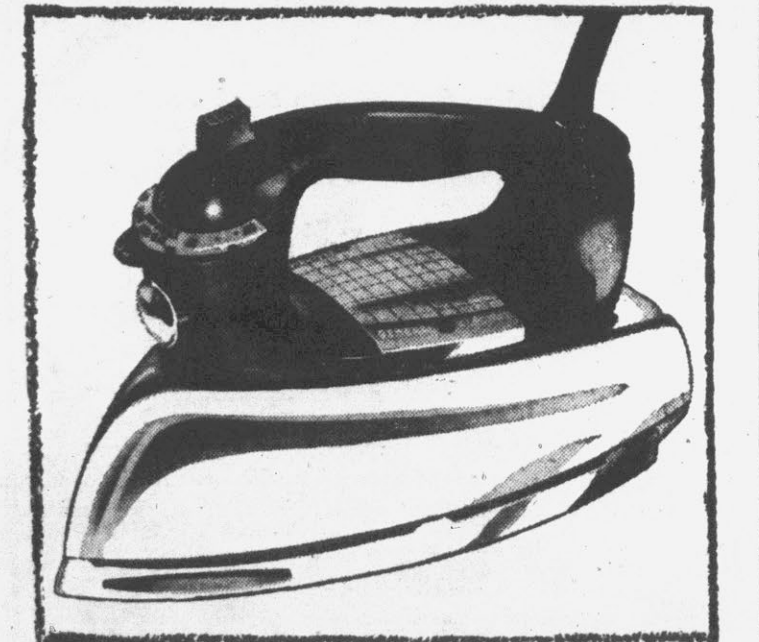

Flaherty was banged up in a dirt track race at Springfield, Ill., last August. Pat, 31-year-old racing champion and Chicago tavern owner, currently is supervising construction of a new car to be driven May 30 by Troy Ruttman, the 1952 winner. The car is being built by A. J. Watson, Glendale, Calif., mechanic who put together the last two winning Indianapolis cars. Flaherty said his role at Indianapolis will be to coach the team of Ruttman and Jud Larson. Larson, a Kansas City dirt track driver, will be piloting Pat's 1956 car. It will be Larson's first try at the 500.

Northeastern Tourney Play Opens Tonight

ACC All-Stars Include Two Of Top 10 Scorers

By CHARLES WEST Associated Press Staff Writer Two of the nation's top 10 scorers led the balloting for the Associated Press' 1957 All-Atlantic Coast Conference basketball team announced today.

Sports reporters and sportscasters of the Carolinas, Virginia, Maryland and Washington, D. C., named a six-man first team. North Carolina and Wake Forest placed two men each and South Carolina and North Carolina State one apiece.

Lennie Rosenbluth, North Carolina ace, polled 36 first-place votes and one second-place of the 37 ballots cast to become captain of the mythical squad. South Carolina's Grady Wallace drew 36 first places but was left off one ballot.

Jackie Murdock and Jack Williams of Wake Forest, Tommy Kearns of North Carolina, and John Richter of North Carolina State round out the first team. Kearns and Richter finished in a deadlock for the fifth first team berth.

Completing the top 10 were Jim Newcome of Duke, Pete Brennan of North Carolina, Bob O'Brien of Maryland and John Maglio of North Carolina State.

The sports reporters voted for a first and a second team with votes worth five and three points, respectively. Positions were not considered in the balloting. An all, 32 players got votes.

Rosenbluth made the team for his third consecutive year, the only repeater on the squad. Wallace last year was on the second team. Both Rosenbluth and Wallace have been among the nation's top 10 point-makers all season with Wallace in a three-way heat for the lead.

Before going to South Carolina two years ago from Pineville, Ky., Wallace won national scoring honors among junior colleges. The first team with age, college, class, home and height (ballot points in parentheses): Rosenbluth, 23, North Carolina, senior, Greenville, Tenn., 6-5 (183); Wallace, 22, South Carolina, senior, Mare Creek, Ky., 6-4

Ten players made honorable mention. They were: Joe Quigg, North Carolina; Bucky Allen, Duke; Ernie Wiggins, Wake Forest; Vince Yockel, Clemson; John Nacinek, Maryland; Bill Miller, Virginia; Bobby Joe Harris, Duke; Bill Yarborough, Clemson; Bob Hardy, Virginia; Ray Pericola, South Carolina; and Jim Gilley, Wake Forest.

Tonight at the East Carolina Gymnasium, the Northeastern Conference's tournament gets underway with six of the seven teams in the loop competing.

Fans in this area will get a good look at Washington, New Bern, Jacksonville, Roanoke Rapids, Elizabeth City and Greenville in the first round of tourney play. Kinston, the number one ranked club and defending conference winner, will sit tonight's trials out, having copped a bye.

Kinston, with a 10-2 conference record and a running winning streak of 30 games, is rated by most observers as the favored outfit to cop the conference crown for the second season in a row.

They are undefeated this season against all comers. The Red Devils will be watching the festivities from the stands tonight, as the rest of the clubs in the league scramble to gain a foothold in the tourney proceedings.

Washington, who pulled in in second place this season, with a 10-2 record, is generally regarded the team to face Kinston in the finals. However, past Northeastern tourneys have proven that pre-tourney rankings ultimately mean very little.

New Bern and Roanoke Rapids, the number four and seven clubs respectively, will open the night's action at 6:30. The Bears are favored to triumph tonight.

In the second game, the home-grown Greenville Phantoms will match their talents against Elizabeth City at 8:00. The G-Men downed EC twice during regular-season play and are expected to have little trouble with them tonight.

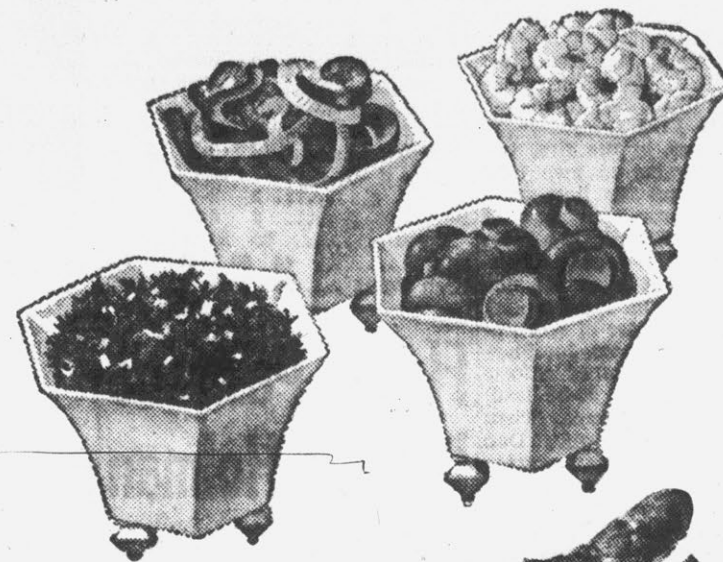

In the night's final trial Washington and Jacksonville will clash. The Pam Pack trounced the Jacksonville crew twice this season by huge margins and are again expected to walk away with a victory. The final game will begin at 9:30.

Tomorrow night, Kinston moves into action against either Greenville or Elizabeth City, depending upon which of the two teams are triumphant tonight.

Grimesland Students Plan Annual Banquet

By HAZEL MAY
Grimesland School Reporter

Elementary school students entertained at the February meeting of the PTA last Wednesday night. Regular business was conducted after the entertainment.

Cherokees May Get New School

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cherokee Indian children may get a big new central school on the Cherokee reservation in North Carolina. Testimony before a House Appropriations subcommittee made public today showed that $173,000 is being asked to pay for planning the new building, estimated to cost $2,800,000.

Jarrett B. Blythe, first principal chief, in a letter presented to the committee by Rep. Shuford (D-NC), asked that everything possible be done "to assist us in securing a new federal school plant and combination gymnasium-community center building at Cherokee."

The Beta Club was sponsor for a dance Saturday night. Proceeds went to the club's treasury. Chaplains were Mrs. Clara Carr, club advisor; Mrs. Alvah Hardee; Mrs. Elmo Heath; and Mrs. Wilma Morgan.

Moye Talks At PTA Meeting

At a recent meeting of Fleming Street School Parent-Teacher Association, Robert S. Moye of the Greenville Exchange Club spoke on "Crime Prevention Week." President Mrs. Emma Maye presided.

Discussing juvenile delinquency, the speaker urged parents to "maintain a more intimate and good will attitude toward their children and outline to them by advice and example the finer things of life and the value of good citizenship."

Mrs. L.R. Taylor spoke from a mother's standpoint. She gave a narrative history of the Parent-Teacher Association and recited some of the achievements of the Fleming Street School P.T.A. It was organized in 1940, she said.

The program opened with a robed choir, headed by Mrs. Anna Barnes, and composed of members of the Mother's Club. Mrs. S.A. Jones was accompanist and Mrs. N.W. Cherry played for the devotional, led by George L. Jenkins. Mrs. M.B. Godette is chairman of the Hospitality Committee.

Refreshments, including a large birthday cake, were served.

Chaplains Said Instituted After 'Brash' Prayers

By JEAN REILLY
The Reflector Bureau
RALEIGH — As the result of an itinerant pastor mixing a portion of politics with the prayers, both houses of the General Assembly now have permanent chaplains.

According to Chaplains E. C. Durham of the Senate and Alphonse Jordan of the House of Representatives, the idea of having a permanent minister lead those august bodies in prayer originated as the result of a few brash preachers who unhesitatingly asked the Highest Judge to raise the teachers' pay along with their prayers for guidance.

The men who now offer spiritual needs and if need be, material assistance, to some of North Carolina's most important people, are men who have in their lifetimes faced almost insurmountable personal tragedies themselves.

Thirteen-years-ago, as the victim of a tentative diagnosis of Multiple Sclerosis, Chaplain Durham, trembling, but unafraid, learned to walk for a second time.

For most people it would have been the end of a career, but the Methodist minister made plans for a fresh start in unopened fields.

A poet, who has three published volumes to his credit, he also acts as a supply pastor and visits the sick, besides his duties as chaplain.

"My people have begun to call me a 'Mytheterian,'" the chaplain said here today.

"The first because I am Methodist, but the ending because I've done so much work in the Presbyterian Church as a relief minister," Durham said.

Presiding over the spiritual needs of the House, Jordan, born with anophthalmia (undeveloped eyeballs) has adjusted his life to his blindness.

Besides his duties in the House, he is also assistant chaplain at Cary Prison Farm and operates a concession stand for the State Commission for the Blind at the Soil Testing Laboratory Building.

Mrs. Jordan, who became blind after a bout with Typhoid Fever when she was in the eighth grade, helps the minister through her own acts of charity and graciousness in the Missionary Baptist Church.

Stokes-Pactolus Pupils Visit Television Station

By ANNETTE HUDSON

Seventh graders paid a visit to the television station WTN Monday. The trip had a two-fold purpose. First to enable the students to see how TV station is operated and, second, to put in practice the things the students had learned in a unit on "Good Manners."

Before the class left on the trip, members listed and discussed things they thought not do in a public place. Accompanying the class members were Mrs. Jean Musselwhite, the teacher, and parents Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Whitehurst, Mrs. C. D. Whitehurst, Mrs. R. H. Heath and Mrs. J. T. Warren.

Juniors are hard at work planning and discussing their Junior-Senior Banquet, which is scheduled for March 22 at the Moose Lodge in Greenville. A field trip was taken Monday by a group of class members who discussed with a corator. A menu was also partially worked out which the dining hall can be de-selected by the group during the visit.

Mrs. Dorothy Taft, third-grade teacher, will leave after Friday to join her husband in Bristol, Tennessee. Miss Faye Branch of Winterville will replace her.

Next Speaker At Executives Club

Harrison Wood (above), author, traveler and former ABC commentator, will be the guest speaker of the Pitt County Executives Club when it meets Saturday evening at East Carolina College.

An author of note, his two books, "This Changing World", and "Boy, Are We Confused" were well received in literary circles and acclaimed by the critics.

Wood has addressed many state teachers' conventions, is a favorite among many of the nation's Town Halls and has addressed choice groups in Canada, Mexico and Cuba. He is a frequent traveler to Europe, knows the people there, and may comment on new moves in Europe and the rearming of West Germany.

LOOK-ALIKES
 STERLING, Colo. (AP)—Don't tell the Wilson twins, Jean and June, they don't look alike. Jean, now Mrs. Bill Busig, gave birth to a daughter. When sister June, now Mrs. Royce Hiller, visited Jean at the hospital, an attendant encountered her in the corridor and remarked: "Mrs. Busig, you're not supposed to be out of bed."

NO MORE CHANCES
 MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A woman who caught her heel in one of the inch-wide holes in a manhole cover claimed resulting injuries and sued the city. The city is taking no more chances. The latest order for 500 covers specified ones with holes only 5-8 of an inch in diameter.

KILL NEMATODES WITH EASY-TO-USE D-D SOIL FUMIGANT

Get your tobacco off to a good start this season by controlling nematodes with D-D soil fumigant.

D-D soil fumigant is an easy-to-use liquid. Apply it directly to the soil with gravity-flow or simple pressure equipment. In the ground it becomes a potent gas, killing root-knot and other harmful nematodes as it spreads. And a single treatment gives effective control for an entire season.

This season, see for yourself how a pre-plant soil treatment with D-D soil fumigant pays off in bigger yields. D-D soil fumigant is available from your local pesticide dealer.

Atomic Rockets Available Now In U. S. Air Defenses

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is prepared to use atomic explosions high in the air to blast down any attacking enemy bombers.

The Defense Department disclosed last night not only that atomic rockets have been developed for that purpose, but that they have been made available to air defense forces in this country.

The present rockets are designed for firing from jet fighter interceptors. Nuclear weapons are to be provided later for ground firing from anti-aircraft defense positions.

The department sought to minimize the possible danger from the rockets, both in storage near cities and in use high in the air.

Secretary of Defense Wilson said the weapons "provide by far the most effective form of defense against air attack." He said they can "destroy aircraft within a considerable distance from the point of burst," meaning no direct hit or near miss is necessary.

The Pentagon declined, on grounds of military security, to say either just where the weapons are stored or what they are like.

In its unprecedented disclosure of a military secret, the government sought to forestall anxiety by saying that:

1. "Elaborate precautions have been taken in the design and handling of the weapons to minimize the possibility of accident."

2. Tests made by the Atomic Energy Commission confirm that "the possibility of any nuclear explosion occurring either by impact (apparently something like a missile falling off a truck or accidentally dropping from a plane) or fire is virtually nonexistent."

3. Stored weapons don't emit dangerous radiation to persons living nearby or passing locations where weapons are located.

4. If the weapons must someday be used against enemy bombers, they would be exploded at such high altitude that people or property on the ground would not be in danger from blast, heat or radiation.

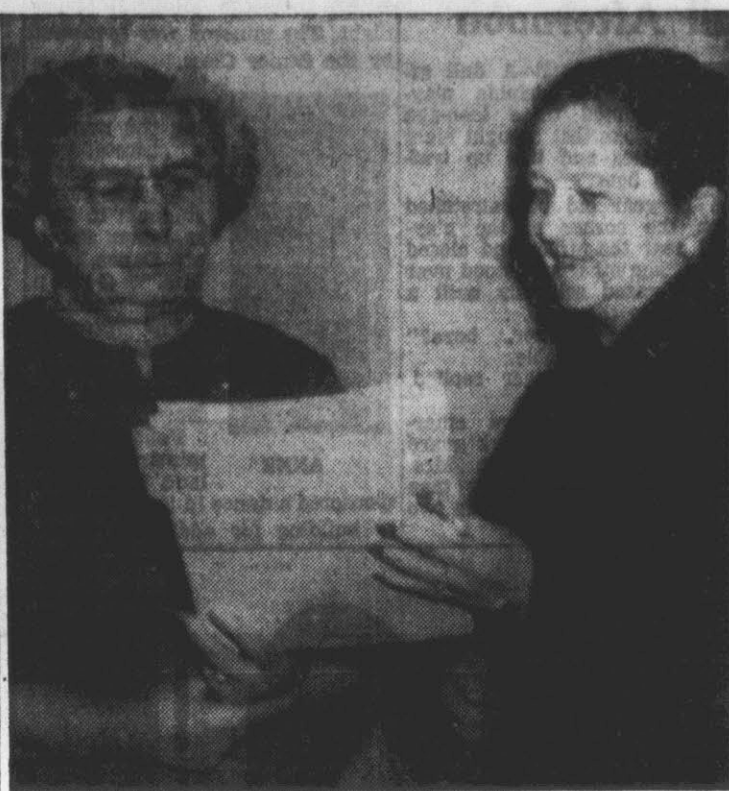

The Pentagon recalled that a high-altitude test of a nuclear explosion was made in 1955 at the Nevada Proving Grounds and that no damage or injury resulted.

In the Pentagon statement there was a hint that while the atomic rockets are now being distributed only for use in defense of the United States itself, they may be sent outside the country later for defense of perimeters or overseas bases.

The announcement said that "what further deployments into other areas will be called for is still a matter for study."

There has been speculation that the rockets referred to by Wilson are true guided missiles, developed within the past two years and not generally known.

The missile presumably is somewhat the dimensions of the warhead for an atomic artillery shell, probably between 8 and 10 inches in diameter.

Thirty-five late-afternoon, night, and Saturday classes will be taught at East Carolina during the spring quarter, beginning February 27, Vice President Leo W. Jenkins has announced.

These specially scheduled courses will continue a program initiated this year for the benefit of those who work or who for other reasons are unable to attend classes during the day and who wish to begin or complete their education in college.

Courses offered for the spring quarter include work on all levels of instruction, from beginning classes for freshmen to those for graduate students. Thirteen department of instruction will participate in the program.

Included will be work in art, business, education, English, geography, health and physical education, industrial arts, library science, mathematics, psychology, science, the social studies, and music.

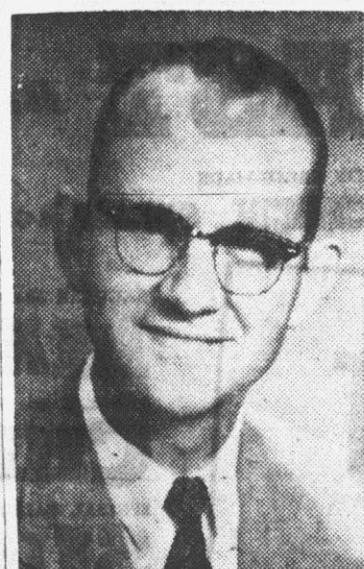

During the winter quarter this year East Carolina increased the number of late-afternoon and Saturday classes included on the college schedule and added a group of classes taught at night. Approximately 300 men and women took advantage of the opportunity to enroll as students on either the undergraduate or the graduate level.

Because of interest in the program, the specially scheduled classes will be continued each quarter in the future, according to plans. Participating students will be able to take sufficient work to complete requirements for a degree, Dr. Jenkins explained.

There will be special music and hymns each evening. A nursery will be provided for young children.

The public is invited to attend these meetings, and all men are invited to the Friday evening meeting.

To Hold Special Services Here

Rev. Henry F. Speight, Jr. (above) of Fayetteville, a former resident of Greenville, will hold special evangelistic services at 7:30 each evening February 24 through March 3 at Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church.

He will also conduct a meeting for men at the same hour this Friday evening, February 22. The theme of the meetings will be "Christ the Hope of the World."

There will be special music and hymns each evening. A nursery will be provided for young children.

The public is invited to attend these meetings, and all men are invited to the Friday evening meeting.

Sewage Volume Is 'Top Secret'

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A newsman checking on the county sewage situation asked a Camp Pendleton public information officer for the volume of sewage handled by the big Marine base. "That's classified," replied the officer. He explained it would "tend" to reveal the number of personnel at the base.

STRAY TOTEM POLE
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An 8-foot totem pole was found on a Telegraph Hill sidewalk by Police Patrolman Frank McFarland. He and three other officers loaded the 350-pound pole into a paddy wagon and took it to the Hall of Justice. Its owner is being sought.

announced to all concerned. "Tonight is our annual stunt dinner, and you have been selected to be our guests, not only for the banquet, but to stay overnight and accept the gifts which we have for you. As an earnest of what we have in mind, it is my pleasure and honor to present the little lady with this orchid."

He bowed and held out the box. The girl took it, after a glance at the young man to see if he approved. "Why," she said faintly, "thank you very much."

Mo went on to list the entertainment in store for the young people. A de luxe cabin at the motel, their car serviced, oil and gasoline supplied — and a long list of "gadgets and things to be presented at the banquet, with appropriate plugs for the donors."

"I'm Fred Reynolds," the pleasant-faced young man said. "And this is your blushing bride!" boomed Mo. "Ten miles down the road, we spotted you. Our powerful radar took up a trail of rice and rose petals."

Again the young people exchanged glances. "That's some radar you have," drawled the young woman. She was a small, slender girl, with black hair cut urchin style.

The girl was wearing a camel's hair coat over a knitted dress of dull green.

They pulled up at the hall and saw that Mo was already marshaling his guests indoors, flash guns popping.

It turned out that Julia Reynolds definitely did want to change, and within ten minutes she appeared in a smart costume of brown and gold, her orchid on her shoulder, her short hair brushed into a black satin cap. "Now," she said, "you can take my picture!"

The members and their guests crowded delightedly around the two strangers. Mo still acting as master of ceremonies.

"Isn't your tongue tired?" asked June, coming up to where Grady leaned against the wall, watching what went on.

He grinned. "Entertaining an idea," he murmured.

He stood looking at her for a long minute. She was sure a pretty girl — tonight she wore a shiny sort of white dress; it had a demure jacket held stiff, flaring skirt. There was pleased animation in her pretty face, and genuine interest. He sighed. "Tell me," he asked, "that dress, Julia, is wearing — is it rather sophisticated for a bride's trousseau?"

June turned and stood on tiptoe to look again at the guest of the evening; she "as in a group of people now going through the opened doors into the dining room. About all she could see was the back of her honor-guest's cropped hair, her bare shoulders and arms.

"It's an Indian print," she told Grady. "Copper on black — very handsome — and yes, sophisticated is the world. But brides could, suppose, have such clothes." He laughed. "My notions of such garments are rose-colored and floaty."

"I always suspected that you were a sentimentalist," June told him, laughing, and going along with him to the dining room.

The guests of honor would be seated with the club officers at the head table. Grady's committee job was just about over and done, except to read the list of gifts to be showered upon the young couple. Mo bustled up to suggest that he should sit at the head table to do this. . . . Grady demurred. The seating was all arranged; he was nearby.

"Nobody's got 'em to admit they are honeymooners," said Mo loudly. "Hey! That gives me an idea. Watch me have some fun."

The tables were set to form an extending E from the head table. Grady's committee sat at the one forming the middle prong. Now Mo could turn and by lifting his voice get the attention of their young guests. "Hey, Reynolds!" he called. "How many kids do you and the missus have?"

"Oh, now, look!" cried Reynolds, good-naturedly. B t red flamed into Julia's face and throat, a painful, hurting blush.

"Let them alone, Mo," June urged the big man.

"Only havin' fun," he excused himself.

Everyone was seated with a great scraping of chairs, and the food was brought in, hot and savory.

"That blush tied it," declared Mo. "They're honeymooners all right."

"If they're married at all," murmured Grady.

"What do you mean, Doc?" demanded Mo, leaning across the table toward him.

"Nothing, maybe," Grady seemed ready to talk to June rather than pursue the subject which he had dropped like a chunk of ice down the hole of Mo's awareness.

"But you said—"

"Oh, it was only a guess, Mo. I suppose these affairs present some risk. Unless you begin by asking for marriage certificates and identification of respectability — and we don't. At least, we didn't tonight."

Mo leaned back to look at Grady across the spread ferns and the pink carnations.

June too looked curiously at the doctor beside her. Was he serious? Or joking?

And Mo sounded upset. "Now, look here, Doc . . ."

"I know," agreed Grady. "the patrolman said he thought they were honeymooners — and we carried it on. But from the first Reynolds has denied this . . ."

"Julia has," corrected Virginia. The Lees were leaning forward too. Was their committee on dangerous grounds?

Tomorrow, in Chapter 24: "Gentlemen, we're in trouble!" Mo tells his fellow Lions.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A dull afternoon at a Philadelphia playground prompted three teen-age boys into a joke that brought eight police vehicles and tied up traffic half an hour.

One 15 year old boy stretched out on the corner of the playground near the street and closed his eyes. The other two stood over him and gazed solemnly until a car pulled to the curb.

"What's the matter, boys?" asked Mrs. Paul Noble.

"Lady," one teenager replied, "he just got shot."

Four police cars, two emergency wagons and two park guard prowl cars responded to Mrs. Noble's phone call. But by then the "shooting victim" and his two friends had disappeared.

Minstrel At School Draws Good Audience

By ANNE HARRIS
Belvoir-Falkland Reporter
A large audience attended the BFHS Dixieland Minstrel Friday night. The minstrel was sponsored by the Senior Class.

Assisting the Seniors in making the minstrel a success were other students in the high school, students in Pat-sy James' School of Dance, and Mrs. Glenn Scott, pianist.

The program included dances, jokes, poems, pantomimes and songs.

Following the minstrel, Falkland Boy Scouts sponsored a dance in the community building for additional entertainment. However, the fun didn't stop there for the Scouts. They went on an overnight camping trip after the dance.

Members of the Junior Class gave their homeroom teacher, Mrs. Lou Nelson, a surprise birthday party last Friday.

The party was a "hurry-up" affair, staged at fifth period, because Mrs. Nelson didn't let anyone know until second period that her birthday was Saturday.

BETTER DAYS
SAYRE, Pa. (AP)—When January temperatures tumbled to around zero, M. J. Hulslander turned to a desk drawer for a reminder of better days. He fished out a picture postal card given him when he was 4 years old by his father. The card was dated Jan. 7, 1907 and read: "Today's weather—68 in the shade."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market declined slightly in quiet trading early this afternoon.

Leading stocks were off from fractions to a point or so. Some selected gains were held.

The market was said by brokers to be hesitant over the newest developments regarding Israel and the entire Middle East situation. The London market showed a similar reaction.

In addition, the normal unwillingness of traders to extend their positions prior to a weekend was accentuated by the holiday tomorrow when all domestic stock exchanges will be closed for Washington's birthday.

Oils apparently were finished with their vigorous rally of the past two sessions. Steels were irregular as were rails. Motors eased slightly. Coppers were mainly lower. Aircrafts took losses.

Gulf Oil and Royal Dutch both with big interests in the Middle East, were down around a point or more.

Youngstown Steel stepped ahead around 2 points and Bethlehem Steel was up a fraction. But U.S. Steel took a major fractional loss.

General Motors, Chrysler and

Ford backed away slightly.

Douglas Aircraft lost about 2 points and United Aircraft about a point. Sante Fe, Illinois Central and Southern Railway were among losers in rails.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 20 cents to $172.40 with the industrials down 30 cents, the rails down 40 cents and the utilities unchanged.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina fryers and broilers were unsettled today, farm price mostly 17, few 18; f.o.b. plant, no sales reported.

Raleigh eggs steady, A large 34 to 37; Durlam eggs steady, A large 33 to 35; Asheville eggs steady, A large 33; Charlotte eggs steady, A large 34.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog markets today were steady to 25 lower. Tops of 16.50 to 17.00 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Pine Level, Nahant; 16.25 to 17.00 at Rocky Mount, Wingate, Tarboro, Enfield, Bethel; 16.75 at Castle Hayne; 16.50 at Clinton, Fayetteville, Micro, Elizabethtown, Clayton; Tabor City; 16.25 at Rich Square, Lumberton, Smithfield, Newton Grove, Mount Olive, Siler City, Mount Gilead, Goldsboro, Spring Hope, Clarkton, Shallotte, Kully, Bailey, Whiteville and Dunn.

No New 'Leads' In Theft From Sheriff's Office

SNOW HILL — Reports from Greene County Sheriff H. K. Cobb this morning indicate that "no new leads" have been established in the reported theft of between $1,700 and $1,800.

"There are absolutely no clues in the case right now but we are conducting a thorough investigation in an effort to close the case as soon as possible," Sheriff Cobb said. The exact amount of money missing from the County Sheriff's office has not been fixed as yet.

Upon being asked whether the FBI had been called in to assist in the investigation, Sheriff Cobb stated, "The FBI agent was here in Snow Hill the day that the theft was discovered, but has been tied up in the investigation of the $1,000 robbery case of a Greene County farmer last week that was solved at the first of this week. I expect his assistance in the very near future."

Delegates Due Start Arrivals

Some 115 delegates are expected to begin arriving here tomorrow afternoon for the Recreation Laboratory School to be held Friday through Sunday at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Greenville delegates are Miss Margaret Anne Harrell and Mrs. Adrian Brown Jr. from the host church and Miss Frances Allen from Saint James Methodist Church.

Others from this area are Miss Anne York of Ayden; Miss Betsy King, Miss Noel Lang and the Rev. LaFon C. Vereen, all of Farmville; and Jimmy Edwards of Chocoll.

Registration will begin at 3 tomorrow afternoon in the church educational building.

Following supper at 5:30 p.m., the first session will get underway under the direction of the Rev. Larry Eisenberg, leader of the school.

Later a two hour practice session will be held with delegates divided into six groups, a pattern which will be followed on Saturday.

Emphasis will be placed Friday night on "The World of Fun Folkways"; on Saturday morning, "Informal Dramatics"; and on Saturday afternoon on "Party Planning and Party Games."

New Clinic Means Help Is On Way For Speech, Hearing Handicapped

Help is on the way for children with speech and hearing handicaps.

A speech and hearing clinic for underprivileged children with speech and hearing defects will begin operations at the Pitt County Health Department in the spring. The clinic will be the first of its kind in North Carolina and one of two in the South. The other is at Memphis, Tennessee.

Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Director of the Health Department, pointed out this week the clinic will be a pilot study operation. "It is particularly necessary in this part of the state," he added, "because at the present time speech and hearing services for medically indigent children are limited to medical centers at Durham, Chapel Hill, Winston-Salem and Charlotte. It is difficult to get the children cared for at the medical centers because of the distance and additional expense. Then, too, the amount of service rendered by the medical centers is limited to the number of children their staffs can see from 100 counties in North Carolina."

The new Greenville clinic will serve residents of the Coastal Plain section of the state. It will be sponsored by the Greenville Kiwanis Club and the Pitt County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, with local administrative costs being absorbed by the sponsoring organizations. Costs for professional, diagnostic and correctional services will be borne by the North Carolina State Board of Health Service.

The clinic will be a cooperative venture, operating through the State Board of Health, the Pitt County medical and dental societies, the Health Department, East Carolina College and Pitt Memorial Hospital.

More than two years has been spent developing the idea for the clinic. The professional obstacle was recently overcome by location of a qualified physician in Greenville and a qualified speech pathologist at East Carolina College.

The qualified physician, a local eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, will head the professional staff. He will be assisted by a local pediatrician and the speech pathologist from ECC. The consulting staff will include a local dentist, a nutritionist from the State Board of Health, and the clinical psychologist from the Health Department's Mental Health Service.

Dr. Humbert will serve as administrator for the clinic and nurses and other staff members of the Health Department will be assigned as they are needed. Trained specialists in the Greenville area will also be assigned as they are needed, Dr. Humbert said.

Present plans for the clinic call for monthly meetings for diagnosis and treatment of speech and hearing defects. Patients will be screened and services will be limited to those with severe defects. The selected cases will be examined by a medical team, working with necessary consultants, and unless major surgery is required treatments will be given at the Health Department.

Facilities will be set up at the Health Department for speech and hearing therapy after medical examinations and elimination of physical defects.

Dr. Humbert pointed out that minor surgery required will be performed at Pitt Memorial Hospital by clinic staff members. Major surgery, as in cases of cleft palate or harelip, will be performed at a medical center in either Durham, Chapel Hill, Winston-Salem or Charlotte.

Work has already begun to get the clinic in operation. "We are in the process of compiling necessary records and setting up procedures," Dr. Humbert stated. "We are getting out letters to doctors and school superintendents in the Coastal Plain counties and we hope to start operation of the clinic in April."

Old Car Serves As 'Example' On Hazardous Curve

GOLDSBORO, N.C. — Farmer Albert H. Handley today explained something that has puzzled folks hereabouts for months.

A couple of years back, a car failed to make a curve in the highway bordering Handley's farm a mile north of Goldsboro. The car crashed through Handley's fence. "Pay the damage or leave the car," the farmer told the driver.

It was not the first time Handley's fence had been wrecked at this curve, and he thought it was time to put a stop to it.

It took the driver six months to raise the $20 to repair the fence. Meanwhile, the car sat behind the broken fence on Handley's land.

"When it was finally driven away and no other drivers had crashed the fence, Handley got the idea, he explained today, that maybe there was a moral there. So he got an old car, put it on the same site, and left it.

"It's still there, and no one has crashed the fence for months and months."

Seven More City Motorists Cited For Lacking Tag

Police report that seven more local citizens were arrested yesterday for no city tags, bringing the total number apprehended to 13 since February 15.

Chief S. G. Gibbs stated this morning that "An all out effort is being made to close out this matter as soon as possible."

The Greenville Police Chief added that traffic checks will be conducted at various points throughout the city and those found to be delinquent in the purchase of city tags will be cited to city court.

Despite the delinquent purchases, City Clerk H. H. Duncan released figures today showing that 4525 Greenville tags have already been bought this year. This number represent an increase of 795 tags sold over last year's total. Duncan's figures showed that 2730 tags had been sold through February 20.

Terry Sanford Asserts Budget Plan Inadequate

WINSTON-SALEM — A North Carolina Democratic leader last night criticized Gov. Hodges' proposal to give tax relief to corporations, saying that the recommended state budget "is far from adequate to meet the needs of our schools."

Terry Sanford, Fayetteville attorney and former president of North Carolina's Young Democrats, said Hodges' public education and tax programs are "wrong, perhaps dangerously wrong."

Sanford told a Wake Forest College audience that Hodges has "mistakenly concluded" that new industry is more important to the state than a sound school system. "It seems," he said, "that we are testing everything we do in North Carolina by what it will do, or fail to do for new industry."

He added that any savings in state taxes corporations might get through the reductions would largely be taken by federal taxes on corporate profits.
