UNC Trustees Promote Aycock And Blackwell To Chancellors

Two veteran members of the University of North Carolina staff have won promotions to chancellorships. The trustees of the consolidated university yesterday approved unanimously the election of William Brantley Aycock as chancellor at the university of Chapel Hill and Dr. Gordon W. Blackwell as chancellor at Woman's College.

At the same time, the trustees filed two other top-level jobs. Dr. William W. Whyburn was appointed to the newly created post of vice president for graduate studies and research for the consolidated university.

The appointments are effective July 1. Aycock, 42, of Lucama, will succeed Dr. Robert B. House who is retiring next June. Dr. Blackwell, a native of Timmonsville, S. C., will succeed Dr. W. W. Peterson, who has served as acting chancellor of Woman's College since the resignation of Dr. Edward Kidder Graham.

Aycock, professor of law at the university, is now on leave of absence while serving as visiting professor in the University of Virginia. He was formerly acting dean of the university law school. A veteran of World War II, Aycock received his bachelor's degree at State College and his master's and doctor's degrees at UNC. He first taught at UNC in 1948.

Blackwell, now director of the university's Institute for Research in Social Science and professor of sociology, came to UNC in 1941. He is a graduate of Furman University and a former head of its department of sociology. He served with the office of civil defense during World War II.

Since last February, Whyburn, 55, has been acting provost of the consolidated university. A Texas native and graduate of the University of Texas, he came to UNC in 1948 to head its mathematics department.

Shepherd, 48, of Wilmington, has served as acting business officer and treasurer of the consolidated university since last February. He was graduated from Davidson College in 1941 and came to Chapel Hill to take a post with the university business office.

Art Sold: For Over $3 Million

NEW YORK (AP)—The bulk of actor Edward G. Robinson's art collection has been sold to a New York art firm for more than three million dollars, one of the largest transactions of its kind.

C. Eo Kerr Jr., president of M. Knoedler & Co., century-old international art firm, announced yesterday that the company had bought the Robinson art.

The actual price paid for the 58 paintings and one bronze—which made up all but 14 of the Robinson art works—was not disclosed.

The paintings are predominantly impressionist and post-impressionist. Among them are works of Cezanne, Corot, Gauguin, Gericaud, Van Gogh, Matisse, Roualt, Seurat, Toulouse-Lautrec and Renoir.

Robinson, now 63, formed the collection over a 25-year period. Under California law, his collection was community property and was liquidated in the settlement resulting from his wife's divorce action.

Robinson said he could not afford to buy the share of his wife, Gladys Lloyd, a former actress.

Robinson, starring here in the Broadway play "Middle of the Night," said there was no way that "I could buy the part we had to sell. I'd put everything in pictures."

Hurry-Up Call Is Sounded In UN To Act On Israel

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The head of the 27-nation Asian-African group called on the U.N. General Assembly today to end its delay in imposing sanctions against Israel at once.

Leading off a new round of debate on the Israeli-Egyptian dispute, Jordanian Ambassador Abdel Momen Rifai told the Assembly the time for patience had passed and that action must be taken to get Israeli forces out of the Gaza Strip and the Sharm el Sheikh area, on the Gulf of Aqaba.

Rifai, current chairman of the Asian-African group, blamed foreign Zionist support for Israel's refusal to comply with earlier U.N. resolutions calling for withdrawal of her forces. He said all members of the U.N.—despite alleged Zionist pressure—have a responsibility to see that decisions of the Assembly are respected.

The debate was resumed as private efforts continued to seek for a formula for Israeli withdrawal. Many diplomats, however, are convinced that Israel's marathon talks with U.S. and U.N. officials had done little toward breaking the impasse.

Impatience grew as reports circulated that Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban had returned empty-handed from his latest trek to Jerusalem for new instructions.

A number of prominent delegates—both Western and Asian—have become annoyed at having to cool their heels while Eban held a series of consultations with Secretary of State Dulles and Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. The Middle East debate was postponed twice again yesterday while Eban conferred in Washington and at U.N. headquarters.

Arab diplomats campaigned in the U.N. corridors for support to their sanctions resolution. It calls on all U.N. members to "deny all military, economic or financial assistance and facilities" to Israel until she quits the Egyptian coast of the Gulf of Aqaba and the Gaza Strip.

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion won a 72-29 vote of confidence in the Israeli Parliament last night after making clear that Israel will not quit the Gaza Strip unless assured the Egyptians will not return. Egypt mounted repeated commando raids from the strip until Israel seized it in the October-November invasion.

Diplomats agreed approval of the Arabs' sanctions resolution still depended mainly on what stand the United States takes, since most of Israel's economic and financial aid comes from America.

In addition to the budget appropriations and revenue bills, and a number of supplementary bills to increase appropriations and reduce taxes, measures have been offered implementing more than half the recommendations of interim study commissions on the organization of State Government.

Also a re-write of the public health laws, sponsored by the State Board of Health, and dozens of amendments to welfare laws. Reorganization proposals already in hands of committees include:

Complete overhaul of the highway commission, by abolishing the division plan, reducing membership on the commission from fifteen to seven to be appointed without regard to place of residence, vesting administrative powers in a director instead of in the commission—which would become solely a policy-making body.

Establishment of a new Department of Administration, headed by an appointee of the Governor, which would take over many functions now performed by constitutional and statutory departments. It would absorb the Budget Bureau and the Division of Purchase and Contract.

The General Services Division proposed to be established in the Governor's office, replacing the Board of Public Buildings and Grounds, may be transferred to the Department of Administration by the Governor. The Governor and his appointed Director of Administration also are given authority to establish other divisions "including but not limited to: Architecture and Engineering, Property Control and Disposition, Administrative Analysis and Long Range Planning."

The director, with approval of the Governor, may also abolish any division, even those specifically authorized by the Legislature.

Bills providing for reapportionment of legislative representation, minimum wages and stream sanitation, which usually come in near the close of the session are already in hands of committee chairmen.

Scheduled for introduction this week are bills to establish an independent prison system and, implement its activities; to provide a system of family courts; to consolidate control over water resources and to modernize the building code.

"In 1950 Stalin deliberately provoked the Korean War with the intention of engaging the Americans in the Far East while he proceeded with his conquests in Europe," Floyd said he was informed.

"By the beginning of 1953, my informant said, it was apparent that the explosion was near: the preparations for war were obvious."

"All in high positions around him were convinced that Stalin was planning to go to war in the spring or summer of 1953."

"My informant drew my attention to what, he implied, was more than a coincidence, later obscured by the confusion surrounding Stalin's death."

Concerned Over Slip By NATO

British Cutback Plan To Be Given Foreign Ministers In London Today

LONDON (AP)—Foreign ministers of the seven-nation Western European Union met here today in search of a way to keep NATO's troop strength up despite economic difficulties facing them.

Britain still was determined to cut her troop commitments in West Germany despite the NATO command's fear that the proposed slash might set off a chain reaction seriously damaging to the alliance. But there were indications some sort of compromise might be worked out during the WEU sessions, expected to last two days.

Because of economic troubles, Britain is reported anxious to reduce her troops from 80,000 to 50,000 on the European mainland. The British have suggested keeping their four-divisional strength in streamlined units equipped with U.S.-granted guided missiles and dual-purpose cannon on which British-made atomic warheads can be mounted.

Britain planned to ask the other members of WEU—France, Italy, West Germany, Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg—to waive any objections to the proposed cuts. Most of the six were expected to look with understanding but not with enthusiasm on the British program.

To counter her allies' fears Britain was reported ready to keep her reductions to 25,000 men and not to start on the cuts before the end of 1957, when the West German contribution to Western defense might begin to take effect.

From Bonn came a report that the West German government has decided not to contribute to the costs of U. S., British and French troops stationed in West Germany after 1958.

Informed sources said the Bundestag Defense Committee was advised the next year will be "absolutely the last" for German contributions. A U. S. Embassy spokesman disclosed earlier that the West German Defense Ministry had been asked to continue its financial support.

The West German government has offered to pay about 175 million dollars to Britain, France and the United States for the fiscal year beginning in May.

Want to be a City Councilman? Better visit the City Clerk's office and pay your $1 filing fee by April 6.

City Clerk H. H. Duncan says that's the final day for filing for the municipal election which is slated for this year.

Voters will go to the polls Tuesday May 7 to choose five councilmen, a municipal judge and a city solicitor. Those wishing to run for office must file 30 days prior to the election and that falls on April 6.

So far, the city clerk reports, not a whisper has been heard on the political front and no one, including present office holders, has filed for the election.

But the political observers expect a livelier campaign this year than that of two years ago. In 1955 the city's five councilmen ran unopposed as did the Recorder's Court judge and the solicitor.

For all five city fathers it was the second two years term in office. The group had been elected from a field of 17 candidates in 1953. That was the first election under the city manager form of government. Prior to that a Board of Aldermen type government was used locally.

There were no change in the mayor and mayor pro-tem after the 1955 election. Both are chosen by the five elected councilmen from among themselves. Mayor W. L. Whedbee was returned to the office for a second term and Mayor Pro Tem S. Eugene West was also re-elected in 1955.

All-in-all 1955 was a quiet election year. The first of the councilmen, J. A. Collins filed for the election on March 23. Shortly thereafter Councilmen Wesley Harvey, A. C. Ruffin and West and Whedbee paid their filing fees to officially become candidates.

With voting for the unopposed slate becoming only a formality, poll holders had only 162 ballots to count as election day drew to a close.

Political talk is that things will be different this year. A real old fashion political battle is expected to be shaping up for the Council election.

Woman Impaled On Sapling For Three Hours

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A 49-year-old woman was in critical condition today after being impaled for three hours on a sharp willow sapling.

A few yards away was the house of a busy street. But Miss Louise Lohmeyer, crouched at the bottom of an embankment, could do nothing but wave weakly with one hand.

Compromise Reported By Army And National Guard

Predicts Benefits From Controversy

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges says a lot of good will come out of the controversy over the size of a proposed pay raise for teachers if it results in a public interest in schools.

The governor reiterated at his news conference yesterday that local units must shoulder more of the costs of paying teacher salaries. He emphasized he was not proposing "the state unload any of its burden."

Hodges took issues with local school support figures released by the North Carolina Education Assn., saying the report "wasn't to me a fair case."

The NCEA report indicated the state ranks high in the amount of total local support for schools. The NCEA released the report after the governor said North Carolina pays a far higher percentage of teacher salaries than neighboring states.

Hodges said he considered it "somewhat of a red herring." He explained, "I have never talked anything higher than 75 cents." A higher figure, he asserted, would be impractical.

The governor noted that 70 of the 174 school units in North Carolina pay "modest sums" to supplement local salaries. He added "practically all" units in other states have supplements.

The governor and Advisory Budget Commission recommended pay raises of only 9.1 per cent for teachers. The State Board of Education had requested nearly 20 per cent. The governor said the feeling that he and the budget commission are "against teachers" is "tragic."

Hodges said that in urging increased local support for teacher salaries, he was speaking of a "long range" program. He added, "We know it can't be settled at this Legislature."

He told newsmen he welcomes increased interest in schools "even if they are mad at me."

Meanwhile, the governor said a bill introduced by Rep. Jack Love of Mecklenburg calling for a $1 per hour state minimum wage law is not an administration measure. He explained, "I have never talked anything higher than 75 cents." A higher figure, he asserted, would be impractical.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army and National Guard today agreed on a compromise to end their dispute over active duty training for Guard recruits and a House Armed Services subcommittee gave the plan its endorsement.

Rep. Overton Brooks (D-La.) said the agreement will go to the full Armed Services Committee at its next meeting, probably next week. Approval there was virtually certain. That would end the row, since new legislation is not required.

The subcommittee which Brooks heads was understood to have approved the compromise with only one dissenting vote. In advance of his closed meeting, Brooks had announced "full agreement" between the Army and Guard on the compromise.

Indications were the group would approve. In such an event, approval by the full Armed Services Committee was taken for granted.

The heart of the agreement as Brooks outlined it is this: The National Guard would be given the rest of this year in which to recruit youths 17 to 18½ years of age with the understanding they would be required to take only 11 weeks of active duty training.

But they would have to enlist in time to complete 11 weeks training before next Jan. 1.

For new recruits over 18½ and having no prior military service, six months of active duty training would be required, corresponding to the minimum requirement in other reserve programs.

The current 11-week training program of the Air National Guard would not be affected.

The Army had pressed strongly for six months of training for everyone.

Asks Court Ruling On Literacy Test

RALEIGH (AP)—A test case looms in Federal Court on North Carolina's so-called literacy test in determining voting qualifications.

Louise Lassiter, a Negro of Northampton County, charged in a suit filed yesterday in Eastern District Court that her voting rights were violated at the Seaboard precinct last May 5.

She asked that a three-judge court issue a permanent injunction to restrain election officials from using the so-called literacy test in determining a voter's qualifications at the Seaboard precinct.

The outcome of the suit could have a statewide effect.

Helen H. Taylor of Seaboard was named as defendant in the suit, which contends that the North Carolina Constitution and the North Carolina general statutes were unconstitutional in giving a registrar the right to judge a person's literacy.

The suit charged that the Lassiter woman and "25 or more other qualified" voters were denied registration to vote "solely by application of the so-called literacy test."

The plaintiff, a resident of Northampton for more than 37 years, said she was told to read a printed copy of the State Constitution. She said she couldn't register because she "mis pronounced several words."

The suit charged that the "so-called literacy test is a treatment extended only to applicants of the plaintiff's race."

McCarthy Says 'No' To Brennan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today that William J. Brennan Jr., nominated to be a Supreme Court Justice, "has demonstrated an underlying hostility to congressional attempts to expose the Communist conspiracy."

On the basis of Brennan's record, McCarthy said, "I can only conclude that his decisions on the Supreme Court are likely to harm our efforts to fight communism."

McCarthy, the only senator who has spoken out against President Eisenhower's nomination of Brennan, made his comments in testimony prepared for the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Brennan, a Democrat and former New Jersey Supreme Court Justice, is serving under a recess appointment made last fall after the retirement of Justice Sherman Minton. Eisenhower submitted his nomination to the Senate on Jan. 14.

McCarthy said he would vote against Brennan's confirmation unless the jurist "is able to persuade me today that I am not in possession of the true facts with respect to his views."

In contrast, Sen. Clifford Case (R-N.J.) said in testimony he prepared for the committee that Brennan "is eminently qualified for service on our highest court, both by temperament and experience."

McCarthy said he had evidence that Brennan, in public speeches, had referred to congressional investigations of communism as "Salem witch-hunts" and "inquisitions" and had accused congressional investigating committees of "barbarism."

The senator said that in his opinion such views "reflect an utterly superficial understanding of the Communist threat to our liberties as well as an underlying contempt of the Congress of the United States."

Clean-Up Meet Called Tonight

The Clean Up-Paint Up Council will meet tonight at 7:30 in City Hall, Brooks Beddingfield, president of the Council announced today.

The president said that committee appointments are to be announced at tonight's meeting and general plans for the Clean Up-Paint Up campaign, which is to be held in April, will be discussed.

Capone 'Rival' Dies In Prison

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—Geo. C. (Bugs) Moran, Al Capone's chief competitor in Chicago's booze and gambling rackets in the Roaring '20s, died in the Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary yesterday of lung cancer. He was 64.

Moran's power in the Chicago underworld faded after several of his lieutenants were among the seven killed in the famous St. Valentine's Day Massacre in 1929. The mass slaying was at a garage from which he directed his mob's depredations on Chicago's North Side.

Moran was brought to Leavenworth Jan. 11 to serve five years for burglarizing the Citizens State Bank at Ansonia, Ohio, Nov. 8, 1942.

Report 19 Drill Instructors Had Been Convicted

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The Marine Corps reported today 19 of its drill instructors at the San Diego Marine Corps recruit depot have been convicted in the past 18 months on charges of mistreating recruits.

A spokesman issued the summary in response to a newsmen's inquiry.

The report showed drill instructors in some cases were accused of oppressing recruits by ordering them to do extra calisthenics. Others were convicted of putting their hands on recruits. The report did not disclose the number of cases of each type, nor did it detail the punishment imposed.

The spokesman said none of the recruits required hospital treatment.

He said such incidents have decreased in recent months. He attributed this to a closer supervision by officers and a careful screening of drill instructors.

Gov't Names Key Witness In Spy Charges Against Three

NEW YORK (AP)—Government counsel have identified Boris Morros, former Hollywood producer and music director, as a key prosecution witness for the trial here of three persons accused of spying for the Soviet Union.

Whereabouts of the Russian-born Morros have not been revealed, and his role in the case is cloaked with mystery.

There were unofficial reports that government officials are keeping him out of the way of possible harm.

Morros was named yesterday by U.S. Atty. Thomas B. Glavin Jr. as the "individual" mentioned in 14 overt acts allegedly involving the three defendants.

The overt acts in which Morros allegedly was a figure included meetings in New York, Paris, Vienna and Zurich, Switzerland, the government charges that the meetings were arranged for the exchange of data concerning the activities of the alleged spy ring.

U.S. Atty. Paul Williams declined outside the federal hearing room to tell newsmen more about Morros' role in the case.

Morros, 62, was named in the chamber of Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan at a hearing off for Jack Sobie, 53, a brush importer, and his wife Myra, 52.

The Sobies and Jacob Albam, 64, foreman for a tea and spice company, were indicted recently on charges of seeking United States defense secrets for transmission to Russia. The three were arrested by the FBI in New York City Jan. 25. They have pleaded innocent to charges of spy conspiracy over a 10-year-old period.

Mollet Said Prepared To Back Israeli Stand

WASHINGTON (AP)—French Premier Guy Mollet is reported ready to back up Israel's demands for security guarantees as he begins top-level talks today with President Eisenhower on the French-American problems.

Mollet arrived yesterday and was greeted by Secretary of State Dulles and Vice President Nixon. Eisenhower remained in the White House.

The continuing Middle East crisis is reported topping the agenda of the issues to be reviewed as they seek to warm up the chilly relations that have marred French-American ties since the invasion of Egypt.

French diplomats said Mollet believes Israel is entitled to solid assurances against Egyptian attack and shipping blockades before withdrawing its forces from the disputed Gulf of Aqaba and Gaza areas. He opposes any United Nations move to penalize Israel with economic sanctions.

Four other key problems are understood to be set for personal attention of Eisenhower and Mollet. They are:

1. France's financial difficulties—French gold and dollar reserves are reported to have dropped almost alarmingly during the past year, making it likely the French will seek outside financial support.

2. Algeria—Mollet is reported anxious to win added American backing for his program of reforms which will ease Arab demands for independence of this area from French rule.

3. Atlantic Pact strategy—Both Eisenhower and Mollet want to review European defense plans. The big problem: When can France return some of the troops now in Algeria to meet its Atlantic Pact commitments.

4. European unity—Mollet can be expected to fell of concrete moves by Western European governments in recent weeks to organize a single trade market and set up an atomic energy pool to meet Europe's mounting demands for power.

Ervin Claims Beck Eventually Will Face Music

WASHINGTON (AP)—Teamsters Union President Dave Beck "eventually" will come to testify before a special Senate committee probing alleged labor and industrial racketeering, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-NC) says.

Ervin, a member of the committee, said last night on a radio program (CBS) Capitol Cloakroom that Beck "certainly hasn't shown any alacrity about coming" before the group.

The senator answered, "Oh, yes," when asked if Beck would be subpoenaed, and said the committee eventually will get Beck to testify.

Ervin said the investigation "will expose those who are taking advantage of the labor movement to feather their own nests at the expense of labor men."

Questioned on the Middle East situation, Ervin said he did not think the U.N. should adopt sanctions against Israel because he said, more of the fault "lies at the door of Egypt."

Report Stalin's Death Halted Rush Toward Third World War

LONDON (AP)—The Daily Telegraph said today Joseph Stalin was on the verge of plunging the Soviet Union into war with the West when his death intervened in March, 1953.

David Floyd, a Telegraph reporter recently in Moscow, said he was told this by a high Communist source "who had occupied for many years positions of responsibility in the Soviet regime."

The source declared the brain hemorrhage which ended Stalin's life was caused by rage at the signing of the Balkan treaty between Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia by the independent-minded Communist, Marshal Tito.

"In 1950 Stalin deliberately provoked the Korean War with the intention of engaging the Americans in the Far East while he proceeded with his conquests in Europe," Floyd said he was informed.

"By the beginning of 1953, my informant said, it was apparent that the explosion was near: the preparations for war were obvious."

"All in high positions around him were convinced that Stalin was planning to go to war in the spring or summer of 1953."

"My informant drew my attention to what, he implied, was more than a coincidence, later obscured by the confusion surrounding Stalin's death."

"Tito signed the Balkan treaty with Greece and Turkey on Feb. 25, 1953. News of this development reached Stalin on March 1. That same night he had the stroke from which he died a few days later. My informant said it was his race at Tito's perfidy and the forming of another pact against him which brought about his death."

"My Communist friend was obviously sincere in regarding Stalin's death at that particular moment of history as a 'miracle' that saved the world from the horror of a third world war."

Wagners Entertain At Dinner Honoring Recent Bridal Pair

The George Washington birthday motif was used in decorations when Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Wagner entertained at dinner Friday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. Graham Flanagan Jr.

The honorees were married February 2 in the bride's hometown, Hammondsport, N. Y. Greeting guests at the Wagner home were Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan and the hosts.

The dining table was laid with a French lace cloth and centered with an epergne holding red, white and blue carnations interspersed with cherries and tiny American flags.

On the buffet was an orchid scene, complete with Washington and his hatchet, flanked by candelabra holding red, white and blue tapers tied with matching ribbons and topped with American flags.

Serving the buffet dinner from either end of the table were Mrs. Graham Flanagan Sr. and Mrs. John Miller of Williamston.

Assisting were Mrs. Travis Flanagan, Mrs. Edward Stuart Flanagan and Miss Patsy Flanagan. The dessert course featured individual cakes topped with American flags.

Arrangements of red and white gladioli were used throughout the house for the occasion.

Reception fetes for the bride and groom were held at the home of Mrs. A. H. Bested at their home on Oak Street.

Pink snapdragons and carnations were used in arrangements throughout the house for the occasion.

The bride's table was covered with a pink lace imported cloth and held candelabra with pink tapers entwined with ivy.

On the buffet was a massive arrangement of pink snapdragons. Mary Hofreiter, sister of the bride, and Miss Marilyn Bested assisted in serving lime punch and party delicacies.

The bridal pair will make their home in LaPorte.

A Crown, A Cup, A Pin--All These

QUEEN OF HEARTS—A crown, a loving cup and a fraternity pin, all received during the first two weeks in February, are prized possessions to Claudette Butler of Greenville, a student at Woman's College of U. N. C. She received the crown when she was chosen queen of the Mardi-Gras dinner-dance at WC on February 2. Two weeks later she was named sweetheart of the Delta chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon at the University of North Carolina. The most important possession, however, is the heart-shaped Sigma Phi Epsilon pin which she received the day after Valentine Day from Curtiss Daughtry, Smithfield. Miss Butler, a junior at WC, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Butler, 2818 Jackson Drive, Greenville.

Party Fetes Mrs. Barwick

GRIFTON—Mesdames H. L. Wethington, David Parker and Cecil Cobb entertained at the home of Mrs. Wethington Wednesday night honoring Mrs. Eugene Barwick, a bride of the winter.

The home throughout was decorated to carry out a pink and white color note. The mantel held replicas of wedding rings, bells and a miniature bridal pair. Pink gladioli and snow drops were used on a console.

In the dining room the table was overlaid with a lace cloth and held tall pink candles in silver holders. The three-tiered cake decorated in pink was at one end of the table. The cake was served with ice cream and salted nuts.

During the evening a number of party games were enjoyed. The guest of honor was presented a pink carnation corsage and a shower of gifts from the twenty guests present.

Mrs. Conrad Hart, a bride of December, was remembered with linen pillow cases.

Mr. Hall Feted At Birthday Party

GRIFTON—Mr. and Mrs. David Parker were dinner hosts Sunday at their home on McRae Street honoring Mr. Parker's uncle, Ed Hall of Mount Olive, who celebrated his seventieth birthday.

Early spring flowers were used throughout the home as decorations. After dinner the birthday cake, decorated in blue and white, was cut and served as dessert.

Social Notes

Master Robert Wayne McKinney is an appendectomy patient at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Walter Reid Perkins Jr., who has been stationed in Korea, has arrived home. He will attend the spring term at East Carolina College.

Friends of Mrs. Glenn Scott will regret to learn she is ill with virus pneumonia at her home, 1000 W. Fourth Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Stanley and Mrs. Stanley's sister, Miss Lavina Prather, spent the weekend with relatives in Charlotte and Hickory.

Bobby Bullock and Jack Taylor, who are stationed at the Naval Air Station in Jacksonville, Fla., visited their parents this past weekend. They returned to Jacksonville on Sunday.

Frank Dixon of Greenville underwent surgery at Watts Hospital February 18.

Misses Susie Pope and Olive Venetta Morrill, students at Medical College of Virginia, Richmond, spent the weekend at their respective homes. Miss Morrill had as her guest Mr. Joe Kue, also a student of the college.

Woman's Club To Meet
Mrs. D. A. Blue will present Mrs. Elsie Eagan, critic teacher at Wahl-Coates School, who will speak on public education and mental health at the Friday meeting of the Greenville Woman's Club. The meeting will be held at 3:15 p.m. at the club house.

Mrs. Tucker Gives Supper-Bridge Fete

GRIFTON—Mrs. J. L. Tucker entertained members of her contract club at supper and bridge Friday night at her home on Church Street. Decorations and refreshments were suggestive of the George Washington theme.

Three tables were arranged in the living room and on arrival a fried chicken supper was served and later cherry pie as dessert.

During the games which followed, Mrs. H. P. Quinerly and Miss Bert Johnson were high scorers.

Coffee Honors Bride

Mrs. Graham Flanagan Jr., a recent bride, was honored at a coffee hour Wednesday morning from 11 to 12 noon.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Larry James, Mrs. Erskine Duff, Miss Elizabeth Tibbatts, Mrs. W. W. Lee, Mrs. J. B. James and Mrs. Sam Northrop.

Mrs. J. B. James' home was the scene of the party and was decorated throughout with camellias, hyacinths, quince, iris and gladioli in arrangements at various points.

Greeting guests at the sun room were Mrs. O. L. Joyner and Miss Hennie Long. Mrs. Walter Harrington and Mrs. Lee Hannah directed guests to the dining room where the table was laid with a white hand-embroidered cloth from Belgium.

The centerpiece was a silver urn filled with spring flowers in shades of blues and pinks.

Fouring was Mrs. T. I. Wagner. Mrs. J. T. Cheatham Jr. and Miss Patsy Flanagan assisted in the dining room.

Corsages were presented to Mrs. Graham Flanagan Sr. and the honoree by the hostesses.

Goodbyes were said to Mrs. John Howard and Mrs. Max Joyner.

Mrs. Hart Hostess To Bridge Club

GRIFTON—Mrs. Milton Hart was hostess Wednesday night when she had as guests members of her contract club and invited players for three tables of bridge.

Decorations of spring flowers were used with emphasis on the mantel which held a brass bowl of yellow early spring flowers.

A salad course with sandwiches and coffee was served as cards were laid aside.

Mrs. W. E. Rasberry and Mrs. Glendel Tucker were high scorers in the club and Mrs. Clifton Jackson among the visitors.

Storage Area Doubles For Eye Appeal

STORAGE WITH EYE APPEAL—Always with an eye open for improvements, Mrs. B. L. Tyson of the Red Oak Community grew tired of looking at the stacks of assorted items piled high in her "spare bedroom" for lack of storage so she set out with the help of Home Agent Lillie Little to do something about it. The result: two storage closets shown above planned with definite items in mind. Mrs. Tyson did the building while Mrs. Tyson painted and planned the window treatment. He came out two feet from the wall to enclose the storage area on both sides. White nylon drapes were selected as screens to reflect the light and to make the room look larger. Photos, from left to right above show both sides of the storage areas and the final effect with drapes drawn. Spurred on by such notable success, Mrs. Tyson continued her improvement project by fashioning a modern, Hollywood bed from an old one and night stands from a discarded dressing table. The above project will be entered in the Red Oak Home Demonstration Club's competition for Pitt County Progress Program awards.

Rocky Mt. Speaker Talks To Local Garden Club

The hemerocallis, or day lily, is easy to grow and plants can be purchased from 25c to $50. Mrs. P. S. Jones of Rocky Mount told members of the Greenville Garden Club Friday.

A past president of the Rocky Mount Garden Club, Mrs. Jones told the group the hemerocallis is "close to my heart and I'd like to see them growing in all our gardens."

She pointed out the plants can be grown with ease almost anywhere at all and any time. Just dig a hole and be rewarded with the beautiful colors of the lily, she said.

Mrs. Jones showed slides from a collection of Robert Baker Wynms of State College, a member of the American Hemerocallis Society. She concluded her program with an invitation to her Rocky Mount garden where she has her own specimens bred.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Vance Perkins.

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, president, presided and called on committee chairmen for reports.

Babies Cost Down, Say Experts

By RENE CAPPON
NEW YORK (AP)—Having a baby today is not only much safer for everybody involved than it was a generation ago, but it's actually cheaper, the Health Information Foundation reports.

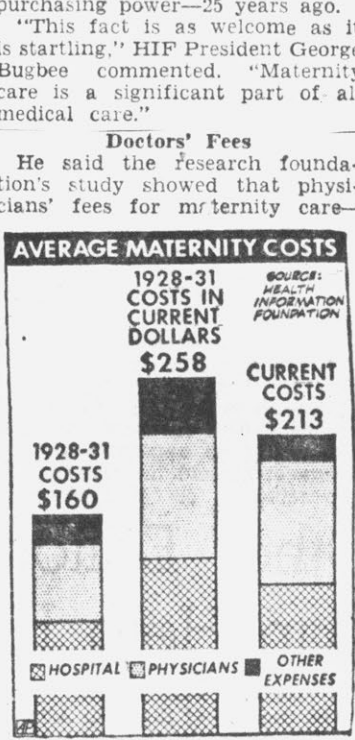

Not that you pay fewer dollars for doctor and hospital. But, HIF says, if you adjust the figures for inflation, present-day parents come out ahead financially — on paper, anyhow.

A 1930 study of maternity costs showed the average expenditure per child was $160. Translated into today's cheaper currency that would represent some $258.

Now, a recent survey places average maternity cost at $213. And that's about $45 or 18% lower than the real cost—in terms of purchasing power—25 years ago.

"This fact is as welcome as it is startling," HIF President George Bugbee commented. "Maternity care is a significant part of all medical care."

Doctors' fees
 He said the research foundation's study showed that physicians' fees for maternity care—

Lauteres Talks To Credit Club

The Credit Women's Breakfast Club held its regular meeting Saturday morning at the Olde Towne Inn. President Callie Rue Williams presided over the meeting with 22 members present.

George Lauteres, a permanent sponsor of the club, taught the second lesson of the present study course. The topic of discussion was "The Credit Bureau and Collective Service," a subject of certain interest to the girls of the organization and their employers.

"Happy Birthday" was sung to Mrs. Cora Powell and a going-away gift of a silver candleholder was presented to Mrs. Martha Kate Danford who will make her home in Jacksonville soon.

A report was given on the Spring Board Meeting held in Wilmington Feb. 16-17. Four members from the Greenville club attended. They were Mrs. Cecil Bilbro, Mrs. F. G. Copeland, Mrs. Polly Dail and Miss Marguerite Rouse.

Plans for the annual birthday party were discussed and it was decided to be held in March at the Woman's Club.

Discussion Held On Skin and Hair

The Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. E. J. Dees, president, Wednesday.

A report on the progress of the wheelchair project was given by Mrs. Dees and plans for publicity were discussed.

To begin their study program on personality, Mrs. Ruth Vincent, educational director, introduced Mrs. Carlton Joyner to lead a panel discussion on the care of the skin and hair.

Topics on styles of coiffures and application of makeup were also covered during a demonstration given by Mrs. Joyner.

Immediately following the program, Mrs. Dees served refreshments carrying out the George Washington theme.

Belvoir HD Club Holds Joint Meet

Recently members of the Belvoir Home Demonstration Club and their husbands held a joint meeting.

This joint session is observed each year when both the home and farm agents of the county are present to give a special demonstration.

Demonstration topic for this year was "Know Your Insurance."

After the demonstration, refreshments and games were enjoyed.

New Equipment For Pert Miss

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

The well-equipped glamor girl, out to get her man, would do well to have a wardrobe of accents for judicious use in various localities, says pert Jeannie Carson, who has been doing all right on American TV lately with her crisp Scottish accent.

Oh, no, I'm not really Scottish, says Jeannie. "My mother was born in Scotland, but I grew up in England. I was born on tour." Her parents were theater people.

"Their act was called 'Pop Hardy and His Two Pips.' Mother was one pip, and her partner was the other," Jeannie said.

On the London musical comedy stage, where she is a top star, Jeannie brings down the house with an American Southern accent — or an Irish brogue. In America she finds audiences vulnerable to the charm of a Scottish burr or a Cockney turn of speech.

Whatever accent she chooses, Jeannie's personal charm and wide-eyed innocence seem to lend it authenticity. You just couldn't imagine that she hadn't been raised on the moors when she is doing her Scottish act.

"Accents are a great asset to a girl," says this young actress, who made her first American TV appearance two years ago and now is a regular fixture on the living room screen. "Actually an American Southern accent is much like a British accent — only done with a drawl. Now a British accent isn't at all like a Boston accent, as so many people believe."

"Anyway, if your accent is different from that which is familiar in any region, you're bound to be noticed. It's a thing to remember."

One-Vote Margin Would Suffice

When elected officials request the people they govern to go to the polls and express their respective wishes on any issue, the officials are morally obligated to follow the wishes of their constituents.

That is one of the basic concepts of American democracy.

In a democracy elected officials derive their power from the people—the electorate. At specified intervals voters are called on by their government to go to the polls and name men for public office. At other times the governing officials may ask the people to go to the polls and express their respective wishes on various matters pertaining to government or the general welfare.

In either instance the matter in question is referred to the ultimate authority so far as government is concerned: the people. In all instances it is the moral obligation of officials to follow the will of the governed. The moral obligation imposed upon officials is equally binding whether they are forced by constitution or statute to follow the will of the voters, or whether they have called upon the voters to express their opinion at the polls.

Last summer Greenville's five Councilmen called upon the voters of this city to express at the polls their wish concerning fluoridation of the city's water supply. A total of 1,267 voters responded by going to the polls. A majority of them voted in favor of fluoridation.

Since that time the City Council has postponed several times action on the specific question whether or not to fluoridate the city's water supply. So far they have failed to follow the wish of the majority expressed in the referendum they requested.

Though the election was close and the majority by which the issue was favored by the voters small, the council has not questioned the validity of the referendum and the announced results. When the Council called on Greenville's citizens to express themselves for or against fluoridating the water supply, the majority of the voters indicated their preference for fluoridation.

In calling for a poll of opinion among Greenville citizens, councilmen (perhaps inadvertently) placed themselves in a position of referring decision to a majority voice. Certainly there would have been no other reason for ordering a straw vote. If a bond issue had been at stake, there would have been no hesitation as to the course of action had the proposal passed by a one-vote margin.

A Living Death Is Far Easier To Comprehend

A traffic victim, bedridden for two years since his accident, has made a good case for a new approach to highway safety.

Interviewed by columnist Sidney J. Harris of the Charlotte Observer, the young man put forth some thoughts more fortunate motorists may have overlooked as they have pondered their highway fate.

The whole approach to highway safety, he asserted, has been pointed toward putting into the mind of the driving public the fear of sudden death in a car. And it's having little effect.

More important, he asserts, is reminding the motorist of the fate of the highway victim which is worse than death. Being maimed for life; having to live out one's years flat of his back, a burden to himself and to his family.

Death, in its vastness, is difficult to comprehend. But a living death, withering away with a twisted, torn body, that is something we understand and respect with a shudder. The careless driver doesn't have the opportunity to choose.

All Are Hearing 'Bad' Features

By LYNN NISBET LISTENERS

Some people who are genuinely interested in and concerned about the prosperity of North Carolina along all lines are disturbed by statements from authoritative sources on both sides of the tax reform and salary raise questions.

It would make no difference if these statements were heard only by residents of North Carolina. Trouble is they are being listened to by people all over the country. It is a safe bet that promoters of the interests of other sections are keeping records and will quote the statements against North Carolina in competitive bidding for new citizens and new industry.

Take the matter of the tax reform bill sponsored by Governor Hodges and based on studies by a commission composed of able men. The Governor and his co-sponsors have made the point many times that the present tax laws are highly unfavorable to many types of industry. Some advocates have gone so far as to say that wise industrialists would not come to this state unless these tax reforms are enacted.

On the other side of the fence there are many advocates of higher salaries for school teachers who unblushingly proclaim that our school system is going to the dogs, that all the good teachers are leaving the state, and that unless a substantially larger pay increase than recommended in the budget bills is granted our schools will become second rate or less and the children will suffer very inferior opportunities.

This is somewhat like the lawyers who put into their complaints and answers every possible suggestion, although many of the items are admittedly stretched. The actual condition of industry and the schools lies somewhere between the extremes cited by partisans.

HAZARDS — This is all very fine for home consumption and may influence some votes in the General Assembly. But just suppose the tax reform bills are not enacted. What some of their supporters are now saying will be used by boosters for Tennessee or Georgia or Texas, as proof that they have a better "climate" than North Carolina.

And suppose the higher teacher pay is not granted. Then local school boards seeking to recruit new teachers will be confronted with statements by educational leaders that North Carolina is a mighty sorry place for anybody to teach school.

COMPLACENCY — There is just as much hazard in the apparent complacency of the people and satisfaction with present conditions. Else why should so much high pressure argument be required to sell the members of the General Assembly — who are responsive to public opinion — on the issues?

North Carolina right now is living in a glass house on a hill top. Business men from every quarter of the nation are watching developments in tax legislation and other factors important to industrial management. Business men, no less than professional school folks, are also watching the attitude of the people on these matters.

CLIMATE — It has been often pointed out that a major factor in choosing the site for a new business is the "climate" of the community. That climate is determined as much by popular attitude as by written statutes.

Nationally circulated trade journals have correspondents here and frequently send in special reporters to study the reaction of the people to pending legislation as thoroughly as they analyze bills introduced.

Whatever liability may attach to extravagant claims for the virtues of certain measures made by their immediate sponsors, just as much or more damage may be done by overheard casual complaints of citizens about the sorry conditions prevailing in North Carolina.

One representative of a big outfit which is locating branch plants throughout the South said perhaps more attention was given to this casual comment by private citizens than to formal statements, more or less stereotyped and expected, from official spokesmen. If the people who live here are dissatisfied with conditions it is a poor selling point to induce other people to move in.

ILLUSTRATIONS — Two instances may be cited in support of the statement that such "loose talk" has far reaching impact. It is fairly well authenticated that a big business was undecided as to whether to locate at Greensboro or at Charlotte. Just about the time decision had to be made, the hassle over the utter inadequacy of the Greensboro-High Point airport broke out. The plant went to Charlotte.

In an effort to gain Federal aid for the proposed mid-eastern airport to be located somewhere near the corner of Greene, Pitt and Wilson counties, many top ranking State officials insisted such location was essential to industrial development of the area. Now the Federal agencies have vetoed the airport location — but the area is just as eager for new industry and needs it just as much.

The administration tax reform program admittedly will be good for industrial progress. Certainly the schools need more money to do a better job. Undoubtedly North Carolina could advance farther and faster if both programs can be adopted.

Just as certainly North Carolina is not going to the dogs if they both fail of enactment.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS TEMPTATION WITH YOUR NAME ON IT

There are two kinds of temptation. The first are the temptations with which God permits us to come in contact, and which it is His will that we encounter. The second kind of temptations are the ones we get out and hunt up for ourselves.

The temptations which God allows will never by any chance get the better of us. The God who made us sees to it that we are never tempted beyond our power to resist. Look back over your life and see the temptations you missed — and you will see how good God has been to you.

But when we get out and start hunting up temptation, then we should get ready for trouble and plenty of it. There are many temptations we are in no way equipped to handle. If we leave matters in God's hands, He sees to it that we never come in contact with such temptations. But the temptations we are not intended to encounter (for us the forbidden fruit), these will kill us off in no time.

If any man thinks himself adequate to all temptations, let him take heed lest his pride involve him in ruin. So long as temptations have our names on them, well and good; but stay away from the other kind. They are not for you.

Did you ever think of some temptations as made for you that they might make you over into the image of God in which you were created? Well, ponder it for a while.

Old Pitcher Losing His Stuff?

by DON SCHLIENZ

The Biggest Killer Of All

Heart Sunday is behind us, and 150 Greenville women who devoted precious hours of a beautiful springlike day to go from door-to-door asking contributions to fight our biggest killer, wound up with an estimated $1050.

Their time was worth more than that. The diseases involved are also worth more consideration. Heart-circulatory disease has some ten million diagnosed victims in this country. Over 700,000 people die each year because of this killer.

Suppose each woman who made that generous effort last Sunday called on 20 homes... which is the understatement for today; that would involve 3,000 homes contributing $1050.

Fortunately, the Heart Sunday drive was but one facet of the over-all campaign. We're all aware that a picture of a child with rheumatic fever isn't nearly as appealing as a picture of a child in braces, or with crutches, or swathed in bandages. And heart attacks are not especially provoking of sympathy unless and until one has a close-up view. They're hard to dramatize in a manner which would rock apathy. But when they happen in your own family, one is quick to appreciate how much more research and knowledge and money is necessary to prevent needless future deaths, torment and hardship.

I received my "jolt" last October. A case of coronary thrombosis caught up with someone very close to me, and it was touch-and-go for weeks afterward. Now it's almost March, and the patient had his first few steps in the outside world yesterday when he was taken to a specialist's office for an extensive check-up. His (the patient's) months of relative inactivity are not over. It was a very near thing.

This sort of blow could financially ruin most households, and the strain is not confined to the victim alone.

In a relatively few years we have seen development of the sulfa family, penicillin, the Salk vaccine, and great strides in all the fields of medicine and surgery. The heart and its related diseases remain the big challenge. There's a great deal of knowledge to be gained, then applied.

Each. Here is how life looks to teenager Mary Ann, only a child of a steam shovel operator in a small town in the suburbs of Rochester.

"No, I don't drink or smoke. I go to a school that has about 1,400 students, from kindergarten through the 12th grade.

"There isn't a juvenile delinquent in the whole school. I never smoked marijuana, and I'm on the school yearbook staff, and I'm in the senior play, the senior chorus and like to play intramural sports. I also teach Sunday School and help my mother, who is active in 4-H Club work.

"I like to sew and knit, and my mother and I make most of my clothes. No, I don't wear dungarees to school. I don't think it's true that you can't think well in sloppy clothes, but I think if you can afford to wear neat clothes to school you should. My favorite drink is milk. Or lemonade. Or orangeade.

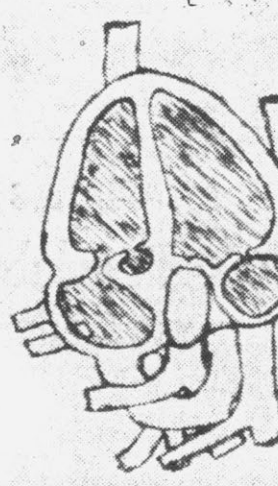

"I want to become a home economics teacher, then get married at 23 and have two or three children, and live in a middle sized town. My husband? He must be considerate and happy. Not necessarily handsome, financially secure, although not really loaded.

"Yes, I like rock 'n' roll music, but I like classical and semi-classical music better. One of my favorite composers is Tchaikovsky. No, I can't spell his name. How do you? But I know who he was.

"What do I think is wrong with groupups? Nothing's wrong with most of them.

"The teen-agers need them as a guiding hand, but sometimes groupups should also leave us alone so that we may learn to depend on ourselves in this world."

"I give you a great champion — Mary Ann!"

The learned medical men who have discovered antitoxins for diseases, namely: smallpox, whoopingcough, typhoid fever, diphtheria and countless other diseases too numerous to name are to be honored and ever lasting gratitude given to them. The medical men have these antitoxins at their command ready to administer them to who ever comes and asks for them with money or without money — they are given for the asking. But never forced on anyone. Thirst for water is a necessity to sustain life, and every person has the desire for water. No medicine or poison should be injected into water and force every one to take it because some people may need it. Others should not be forced to drink water which has been fluoridated because some medical men think it is good for some people.

Medicines and antitoxins should be taken at our own will — not be forced upon all people regardless of whether it is needed or not. If the medical men, doctors, dentists or whoever they may be think that some people need fluoride for their teeth, let the medical men advise them of the fact, but do not force on all people medicines, poisons or antitoxins because it is thought by these medical men it would be of benefit to some people.

New High Court Policy Began In '41

By RAY TUCKER WASHINGTON

It was not the Eisenhower Supreme Court which first laid down the doctrine that state laws against Communists, kidnapers, purveyors of tainted food, dope conspiracies and other offenses were invalid, if there was Federal legislation on the same subject — a decision that may cause legal and judicial chaos.

It was that of a tribunal, during Franklin D. Roosevelt's regime, consisting largely of political ideologists who had enjoyed no previous experience on the bench. The peculiar make-up of that court has, led lawyers to wonder why Chief Justice Earl Warren's tribunal followed the same reasoning in the Steve Nelson case.

The Nelson ruling aroused general indignation because it struck down Pennsylvania's anti-Communist act, and was a more spectacular affair. But the earlier holding, which invalidated Alabama's Pure Food and Drug Laws, reveals that the real responsibility rests upon the New Deal-Fair Deal jurists. ARGUED DAY AFTER PEARL HARBOR The Alabama litigation escaped general notice because it was argued on December 8, the Monday after Pearl Harbor. The decision was handed down in February, 1942, when Japanese victories in the South Pacific distracted attention from domestic matters.

Alabama authorities had seized 20,000 pounds of renovated butter from the Cloverleaf Butter Company of Birmingham. On the ground that the Federal Pure Food and Drug Act excluded state action, the firm sought an injunction against the seizure. Its petition was denied by the Federal District and Circuit Courts, in which it is probable that five or six jurists held for the state — an extreme point in the whole picture.

DISTRICT, CIRCUIT COURTS OVERRULED Despite these two decisions adverse to the butter interests, the Supreme Court agreed to review, as it said, "because of the important question of Federal law involved."

With former Justice Stanley Reed delivering the opinion, a court divided five to four overruled the two lower courts and struck down the state law. Thus, as has happened so many times, a bare majority on the Supreme Court — five men — delivered a knockout blow to state sovereignty.

The late Chief Justice Harlan Stone entered a vigorous dissent. He was joined by Justice Felix Frankfurter, the late Frank Murphy and former Justice James F. Byrnes. Here is the key and the amazing sentence in the Reed ruling:

"Where the United States exercises its power of legislation so as to conflict with a regulation of the state, either specifically or by implication, the state legislation becomes inoperative and the Federal legislation exclusive in its application."

PERTINENT DISSIDENT PAR-

AGRAM The court dismissed arguments that the Alabama law, instead of "conflicting" with the Federal legislation, shared and supplemented its power. Nor did it recognize that the always short-handed staff of Department of Agriculture inspectors could not visit the thousands of scattered food plants in order to safeguard the health.

Here is the pertinent paragraph in the Stone dissent: "The decision of the court appears to me to depart radically from the salutary principle that Congress, in enacting legislation within its constitutional authority, will not be deemed to have intended to strike down a state statute designed to protect the health and safety of the public, unless the state act, in terms or in its practical administration, conflicts with the Act of Congress, or plainly and palpably infringes its policy."

But striking down all "conflicting" anti-race laws they did — twice.

Cherry Pie Queen

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP) America's new cherry pie baking champion says it is unfair to the nation's youth to regard teen-agers as halfbacks.

She believes there are more problem children among adults. "Some grownups certainly don't behave as well as the average teen-ager," said Mary Ann Bartholomew firmly.

"The stories you hear about wild teen-agers concern only a few — a very few. Most of them will grow up to be fine citizens."

Mary Ann, blonde, poised and pretty, is a 17-year-old high school senior from Henrietta, N.Y., who won a $500 college scholarship and an electric range by winning the 25th National Cherry Pie Baking Contest over 150,000 other girl and boy contestants between the ages of 14 and 20.

She clinched the title at Chicago in a bakeoff victory over 50 other finalists. Her other rewards: A trip to New York City and Washington, D.C., and a chance to bake a pie for President Eisenhower.

Her triumph was no accident. Miss Bartholomew, who baked her first pie at 11, went into serious training last August. Since then she has baked several hundred pies, experimenting with dozens of recipes. Some of the pies her family ate, some were sold at church suppers, a few she gave to her high school principal.

Her prize-winning secrets! She put in four drops of almond flavoring to lend her pie piquancy, and instead of using either lard or vegetable shortening to make the crust, she used 1-3 cut of each.

Here is how life looks to teenager Mary Ann, only a child of a steam shovel operator in a small town in the suburbs of Rochester.

Idle Executive Is Rare Item

By ELMER ROESSNER

Three rarest things in the United States today are the whooping crane, a competent secretary looking for a job, and an unemployed $100,000,000-a-year executive.

Conservation measures may help the cranes, the birth rate will result in enough top office help in 10 to 15 years, but nothing can be done about the current executive shortage.

A survey by the American Management Association showed that "good men to fill top level management jobs are even harder to find than they were in the already tight job market of five years ago." Newsweek, in its February 25 issue, reported that the talent hunt has become so fierce that recruiting itself has become big business.

As George Spatta, president of Clark Equipment, told Newsweek, "I'm a pirate."

The A.M.A. study went into ways in which companies seek out executive talent. If you are a $100,000,000-a-year fireball looking for a world to ignite, cultivate your business contacts. They are the prime source, by a large margin, of fresh talent, corporations said.

It is followed by personal recommendations (get your friends busy), advertising (read the ads), consulting firms (look up those in your field) and commercial employment agencies (bombard them with resumes).

A few companies find unsolicited applications the best source. (So pick the company you'd like to run and tell it so.)

DANES ADOPTING U.S. CHEESE METHODS Darned clever, those Danes! The U.S. Foreign Agricultural Service reports that Danes, who have been studying American supermarkets, are now packaging sliced cheeses in air-tight cellophane wraps, and that they also are curing cheese in pilsnir, resulting in cheese without rind.

On the other hand, some mergers have resulted from one company's desire to take over another one's management team. If a corporation can't lure away a competitor's executive vp, it may be possible to buy the competitor. That gimmick sometimes has a diabolic neatness; the executive captured in the merger finds it incumbent on himself to make the entire merger pay off!

WHITHER TALENT? Of 493 companies surveyed by the A.M.A., 15 per cent said they hired few or no executives from outside their own company. 43 per cent said they fill only a tenth of their executive openings from the outside, and 42 per cent said they recruited more than a tenth.

While that is what the companies said in their questionnaires, many businessmen will simply not believe it. Almost every expanding company is "on the make" today, and if there is top executive talent available, it doesn't matter if the candidate did not start out in the firm's shipping room.

And top talent doesn't have to be "at liberty," as they say. In fact, if an able exec has a job in which he is showing how he can perform, the chances are greater that he will be proselytized by a rival.

Indict Five For Tax Violations

GREENSBORO — A Middle District Court grand jury yesterday indicted five North Carolinians on charges of violating federal tax laws.

True bills were returned against William G. Long and John G. Long, officers of Long Manufacturing Co., Tarboro; James Winfield Crew Jr. of Roanoke Rapids; Frank J. Moff of Burlington; and Herbert Leon Gundlach of Greensboro.

William Long is charged with understating his income on returns for 1950 through 1953. The government charges that he owes $27,843 more than the taxes he declared due for those years.

His brother, John Long, was alleged to owe $2,018 more in taxes for the four years.

Crew, formerly a practicing attorney who went into realty development, is accused of failure to file tax returns for 1953 and 1954. The government alleges that he had total gross income of $319,590 during the two years.

Moff is accused of filing false statements regarding gross sales and net income of the Maris Shop in Burlington in 1951-52, the alleged discrepancies amounting to $69,511 in gross sales and $20,647 in net income.

Gundlach, identified as proprietor of the "Civilian Service Bureau," allegedly failed to pay over Federal Insurance Contribution Act funds and taxes withheld from his employees' salaries from the final quarter of 1954 to the quarter ending Dec. 1, 1955. The amount involved totals $1,807.15.

Gundlach also is charged with failure to file tax returns for 1953-54, in a bill of information filed by Dist. Atty. Edwin M. Stanley.

The bill says his gross income during the two years totaled $27,326.

Lassie Returned And Left Again

MAYFIELD, Ky. — Lassie came home. But no one was there. Now she's gone.

Last November Lassie's owners, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Riley, moved from Mayfield to Houston, Tex., and took Lassie along.

Riley returned to his farm here late in November to finish the harvest. While here, he got a letter from his wife saying the dog was missing. Riley later returned to Texas.

Lassie turned up here Saturday after three months and 900 miles. Neighbors fed the dog, but yesterday she was missing again.

Lassie appeared frightened and lonely after finding no one home, they said.

Dog fanciers say Lassie is probably on her way back to Houston.

Would Identify Deadly Weapons

AUSTIN, Tex. — State Rep. Robert Hughes of Dallas wants to define more clearly just what constitutes a deadly weapon in Texas.

He has introduced a bill that would make illegal to carry: a pistol, dirk, dagger, slung shot, blackjack, hand chain, night stick, pipe stick, sword cane, spear, knuckles made of any metal, bowie knife, switch blade knife, spring blade knife, throw blade knife or any other knife with a blade 5 1/2 inches or longer sold for the purpose of offense or defense.

"Under present law," Hughes explains, "a knife with a two-foot blade is not classified as a deadly weapon unless it is a bowie knife or dirk."

'Stupendous' Inquiry Into Gangster Union Activities

WASHINGTON — Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) launches today what he termed a "stupendous" investigation of gangster infiltration of labor unions. He said it may involve 29 or more cities.

McClellan and the Special Senate Rackets Investigating Committee which he heads chose as the starting point alleged links between racketeers and some Teamster Union officials in Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore. Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said the evidence also would "touch on" affairs in Spokane, Wash.

Emphasizing the nationwide scope of the inquiry, McClellan said the committee now has investigators in Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Chicago, Scranton, Pa., Minneapolis and New York.

Town Lined Up

MOUNT AIRY, N. C. (AP) — This town of 8,000, which suffered its second school destruction by fire within a month last Friday, yesterday turned out in force to contribute to the Red Cross blood bank.

Mount Airy citizens lined up at a Red Cross bloodmobile and contributed 434 pints. Residents here said that never before had Mount Airy contributed more than 100 pints in a single day.

One child perished and about 30 pupils and teachers were burned in a fire which swept through Flat Rock elementary school. The Red Cross at that time rushed blood to hospitals for victims of the fire.

Reports from Baptist Hospital at Winston-Salem today said that four victims remained on the critical list and four on the serious list.

"We have received complaints that appear to have merit from more than 20 other cities," he said, "investigators will be sent to those cities."

The goal, McClellan said, is to "learn not only which racketeers are present in union and employer associations but also how they came to be there—who sponsored these men and who protected them . . . We must seek to find a way to seal them off permanently from the labor-management movement. Their means of entrance must be blocked."

McClellan said the committee will "give attention to problems inherent in labor-management collusion, underworld infiltration of the labor movement, misuse of union and (union) welfare funds, suppression of civil rights and liberties of union members by their leaders, of conflict of interest and the use of violence, shakedowns and extortions."

He said the investigation now embraces "the carpenters, operating engineers, Allied Industrial Workers and a number of other unions" together with some of the employers and employer groups.

He said preliminary investigations show that "in some areas criminals and their accomplices" are attempting to control both labor unions and some employer associations and through alliances with politicians to control vice and other rackets.

Kennedy told reporters the committee will devote this week and next to hearing testimony of 20 to 25 witnesses, including some gamblers and prostitutes from the Portland area, and then switch to other areas.

But he said the hearing will switch back to the Portland-Seattle problem after the return to this country of Dave Beck, teamsters president who is now touring in Europe.

Kennedy said the committee will question Beck "regarding funds of the Western Conference of Teamsters."

Kennedy has testified in a prior inquiry that some of the union's funds were used to pay "personal bills" of Beck and Frank W. Brewster, president of the Western Conference, which embraces 11 states.

McClellan said the committee will "give attention to problems inherent in labor-management collusion, underworld infiltration of the labor movement, misuse of union and (union) welfare funds, suppression of civil rights and liberties of union members by their leaders, of conflict of interest and the use of violence, shakedowns and extortions."

ABC-TV Preparing Big 1958 Schedule

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—It's early to be talking about next fall on television. But let's be early with ABC-TV, which is planning its biggest season.

When you corner Oliver Treyz, the energetic young vice president in charge of the network, he not only tells you how fast ABC is growing, he is specific about specific programs that should interest you next season. For example:

Frank Sinatra, who has signed a fat contract with the network, will make his debut as a regular television performer with a big hour-long live show Oct. 18. After the debut, Sinatra's program of music and comedy will be a half-hour on film every Friday evening.

Another star performer, singer Pat Boone, launches his first regular TV program on ABC-TV Oct. 3. Boone, who has been described as the answer to Elvis Presley, has sold six million recordings in the past two years and is the official idol of almost 3,000 youthful fan clubs.

Treyz said it has been deemed advisable to move Omnibus back an hour earlier Sunday evenings. Into its present Sunday night spot Ted Mack's Original Amateur Hour will move next season.

Walt Disney is working on some elaborate special programs for the network next season, with detailed plans still to be announced.

Another new weekly Disney production which will bow in either the first or second Thursday in October is an action film entitled "The Sign of Zoro." This program, Trezz believes, "will have the impact that Douglas Fairbanks films had in the 1920s." With the lead still to be cast, it will concern the adventures of a Robin Hood type of character on the Pacific Coast early in the 19th century.

The network will continue its emphasis on "adult" Westerns, which have proved popular this season.

Plans are in the making to re-vamp daytime programming with emphasis on programs of interest to women.

Third In Series Of Studies Held By PTA Council

The third in a series of city wide study courses sponsored by the City P. T. A. Council was held at West Greenville School Thursday night.

Mrs. Clyde Hollowell, president, presided.

"Onward Christian Soldiers" was sung by the group, led by Miss M. Polk. Mrs. Robert Crammer presented the devotion.

Mrs. Amos Evans paid tribute to the founders of the P.T.A. by discussing how it was founded and the present day goal of the organization.

Mrs. Robert Crammer presented Paul Curtis, psychiatric social worker at the Pitt County Health Clinic and Dr. Luciano L'Abate, psychologist, who after the showing of the film, "The Angry Child", led the group in discussion of the film and answered questions about the Pitt County Health Mental Clinic.

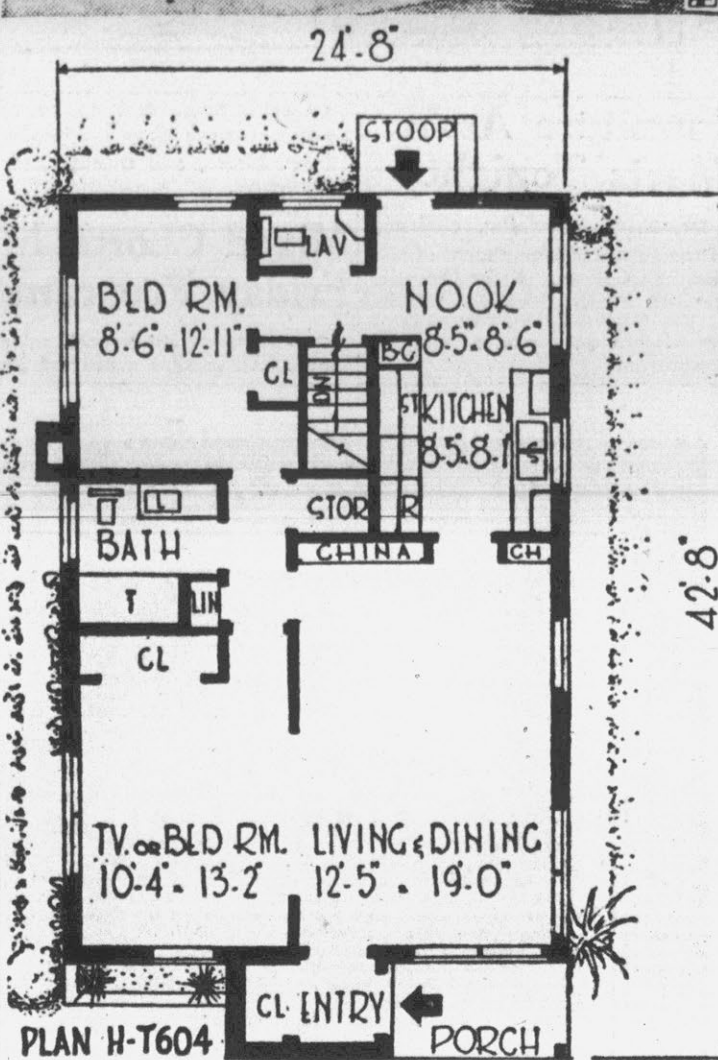

To Attend Meet At Washington

Mrs. Phyllis Martin, director of nursing at Pitt Memorial Hospital, Greenville, and Mrs. Roscoe D. McMillen of Red Springs, will represent the State Medical Auxiliary at a Second District Rural Health Conference in Washington Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

This group meeting of medical, dental, public health and other leaders in community health improvement is sponsored by the State Medical Society of North Carolina.

On May 15, 1956, an RCAF plane crash atop a home for the aged in Orleans, Ont., killed fifteen, including eleven nuns.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

A RETIREMENT HOUSE, or a home for a small family, this plan can be used when you need only one or possibly two bedrooms. It is ideally suited for a narrow lot. The house covers about 960 square feet. This is plan H-T604 by the Homograft Co., 11711 East Eight Mile Rd., East Detroit, Mich.

Talks Begin On Aid For Poland

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States begins direct economic talks with Poland today to determine whether American dollars and surplus farm products can help ease Moscow's grip on the Polish economy.

The visiting five-man Polish government delegation is led by Henryk Kotlicki, director general of the Polish Finance Ministry. He will outline his government's problem to an American group headed by Thorston V. Kalljarvi, acting deputy undersecretary of state for economic affairs.

The American delegation was reported ready to listen cautiously but sympathetically to an expected formal Polish request for surplus American wheat, corn, fats and oils as well as credit to buy coal-mining machinery.

An agreement meeting at least part of the Polish plea for aid appeared likely before the talks end in about three weeks.

Responsible authorities said the American attitude would be to emphasize as much as possible the desirability of restoring normal trade and commercial relations between the United States and Poland.

Any American aid package, they said, "would be modest" in keeping with the step-by-step policy to be pursued pending more information of Poland's economic conditions and obligations.

The talks are being undertaken at American initiative.

Founder's Day Is Observed By PTA Of Falkland

FALKLAND (AP)—PTA Founder's Day was observed by the Falkland PTA at its regular meeting last Tuesday.

Mrs. Glenn Scott directed the program, which had as its theme improving the welfare of children. Two selections by Dillon Watson and a candle-lighting ceremony were included in the program.

A PTA birthday cake and orange punch were served during the social hour. About 150 persons attended the meeting.

During the business session, three books, a Bible, Tina Lee's "Manners To Grow On", and Amy Vanderbilt's "A Complete Book of Etiquette", were presented to the school library by the PTA. The attendance prize was won by Principal Warren's seventh grade.

CAP MEETS TONIGHT

Small Jewish Community In Poland Dwindling Away

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst
The small Jewish community left in Poland after Nazi exterminations is in danger of disappearing because of mass emigration resulting from anti-Semitism.

The Jewish Institute in Warsaw says 12,000 Jews have fled from Poland in the past few months. There are 18,000 Jews still formally registered — but the total number is probably several times as large. Best estimates put the total well under 100,000, compared with a Jewish community of 3 1/2 million before World War II.

The Warsaw newspaper Zycie Warszawy, discussing the problem of anti-Semitism, reported this week that in the industrial district of Lower Silesia there are "mass applications for emigration" of Jews. The paper recounted conversations in which Jews cited instances of intolerance by other Poles.

Some Poles claim the anti-Semitic wave is receding — that Wladyslaw Gomułka, the "Nationalist" Communist leader of the country, and his supporters have been actively combating anti-Semitic tendencies for months past. Polish courts have sentenced several persons to prison for glaring anti-Semitic acts.

The other side of the picture: The active Stalinist anti-Gomułka faction among the Polish Communists is spreading anti-Semitic propaganda — trying to shift responsibility for evils of the Stalinist past from themselves to the Jews.

Between the two world wars fanatic Polish nationalists, particularly in the group called "endecja," did a great deal to stimulate anti-Semitism. When World War II came, Hitler occupied the country and set about systematic Amend Them?

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A state legislator has introduced a bill to make the Ten Commandments part of Arizona law.

Rep. L. S. Adams, a Phoenix Democrat, said:

"It is my feeling that the 20 volumes of laws on our statute books are meaningless without the Ten Commandments."

He quipped: "I think it also might be interesting to find out whether or not the Arizona Legislature could pass the Ten Commandments without some eager beaver trying to amend them."

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The chief U. S. delegate to the United Nations will be known henceforth as Henry Cabot Lodge, without the "Jr."

Associates said Lodge has decided to drop the "Jr.", which appeared on his birth certificate. He was named for his grandfather, a Massachusetts senator. His father was George Cabot Lodge.

Arraign 4 Today In Cross-Burning

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Four men face court arraignment today in an abortive attempt to plant an inflammable cross on a Negro's lawn.

Their self-proclaimed leader Fred B. Hockett, predicted "nothing will ever come" of the misdemeanor charges.

His co-defendants are J. E. Shaver, 47, James McSwiney, 45, and Frank L. Foster, 29. Hockett, 51, a carpenter, identified himself as an organizer for the Seaboard White Citizens Council headed by John Kasper, 27, of Washington. Hockett told police he took part in anti-integration activities at Clinton, Tenn., where race unrest has produced two charges of contempt of federal court against Kasper.

Hockett was given a defense fund of $100 last night at a meeting of about 50 white residents of a neighborhood into which Frank Legree, a Negro, has moved his family. Police said they arrested Hockett and three companions in the act of raising a cross on Legree's lawn Saturday.

After Legree moved into the white neighborhood a few weeks ago, a property owners group held protest meetings. During the daytime Saturday, pickets paraded in front of the Legree home with signs urging the family to leave. Legree has said he'll stay. State Atty. Richard E. Gerstein said "we don't want any trouble makers or agitators down here to help us. We'll take every legal means to convict such people they are unwanted and unwelcome here."

Second Round Of Pitt Tourney Tonight At ECC Gym

Ayden, Chicod Girls And Stokes Boys Win First Round Battles Monday

By BILLY ARNOLD Reflector Sports Editor

In the second rounds of the Pitt County Basketball Tourney at the ECC Gym tonight, the number one ranked boys and girls teams will make their first appearances.

Bethel, who zoomed to a 15-1 mark in regular-season play in Pitt basketball, will meet Stokes in the boys bracket.

In last night's competition, winners of the two girls games were Chicod and Ayden, while Stokes whipped Chicod boys.

All three games were close throughout and made for an excellent beginning for the Pitt County six-day affair.

The first game featured Chicod vs. Bethel in the girls division. Chicod won out 48-30 in the most lopsided of the three games.

It was in the fourth and final period that Bethel began to find the range. Briley, Mozingo and Cooper began to hit for the Bethel crew.

Chicod continued to sting the nets in the third quarter and whipped in a total of 15 points while Bethel could manage only six.

Sutton with 21 points. Baker netted 20 for the losers.

Tonight's Games: Farmville will meet Belvoir at 6:30; Stokes and Chicod girls will go at 8:00; Bethel will battle Stokes at 9:30.

The boxes:

Girls Game: Chicod (48) vs Bethel (30). Cates 18, Smith 18, J. Mills 6, Galloway 6, Mills 6, Stancill 6. Bethel: A. Briley 9, Simmons 5, Cooper 8, M. Mozingo 8, Thigpen 6, Bullock 6.

Chicod subs: Edwards 4, Taylor 1, Porter 1, J. Riggs, Riggs, Hardy, Bethel subs: Whitehurst, Warren, A. Mozingo, McKeel.

Score by periods: Chicod 11 14 15 8-48, Bethel 2 6 6 16-30.

Boys Game: Stokes (74) vs Chicod (65). Congleton 17, H. Briley 9, J. Briley 20, Whitehurst 8, James 2. Chicod: P. Smith 14, Baily 10, D. Smith 4, Fornes 31, Dennis 2.

Stokes subs: B. Tripp, Warren, Grey, Hardison 3. Chicod subs: Evans 2, Ayers, Shelton 2, Dixon, Mills.

Score by periods: Stokes 14 19 18 23-74, Chicod 12 24 23 6-65.

Girls Game: Farmville (38) vs Ayden (40). Gardner 12, Baker 20, Beamon 1, Little 1, Allen 1, Hobgood 1. Ayden: Sutton 21, Long 6, Sumrell 13, Rutledge 6, Gagnon 6, Baesden 6.

Farmville subs: Eason 5, Ainsley, Letchworth. Ayden subs: Payne, Worthington, Wood.

Score by periods: Farmville 15 7 8 8-38, Ayden 10 14 13 3-40.

Boys Game: In the only boys game of the night, Chicod and Stokes played a tight, nip-and-tuck contest that finally ended 74-65 in favor of Stokes.

Jimmy Fornes, 5-9 dynamo guard for Chicod's outfit, was by far the outstanding individual performer on the floor.

Hubert Warren, 55-year-old Stokes native, fainted during the intermission between the second and last games last night, at around 9:30.

The rescue squad arrived shortly and attempted to revive Warren through the use of an oxygen mask.

Dr. Fred Irons pronounced Warren dead seconds later.

The heart attack was apparently the result of the excitement of the Stokes-Chicod boys game, which ended only moments before Warren's death.

Warren's son helped his club to come from behind to win the game 74-65.

Fornes was high with 31, while Stokes had Briley with 20, Congleton with 17 and Barnhill with 15.

The final game of the night, a 40-38 win by Ayden over Farmville, was perhaps the most thrilling battle of the evening.

Farmville moved to an early lead and seemed certain to collect a victory, only to lose it in the final three minutes of play.

Farmville's Baker and Gardner did most of the scoring in the first quarter and pushed Farmville to a 15-10 lead after one period.

Ayden fought back, behind the field goals of Sutton, Sumrell and Long and took over the lead by halftime.

A 14-point second quarter gave Ayden a slight 24-22 lead at half.

In the third period, Farmville netted eight points, while Ayden moved ahead with a 13-point effort.

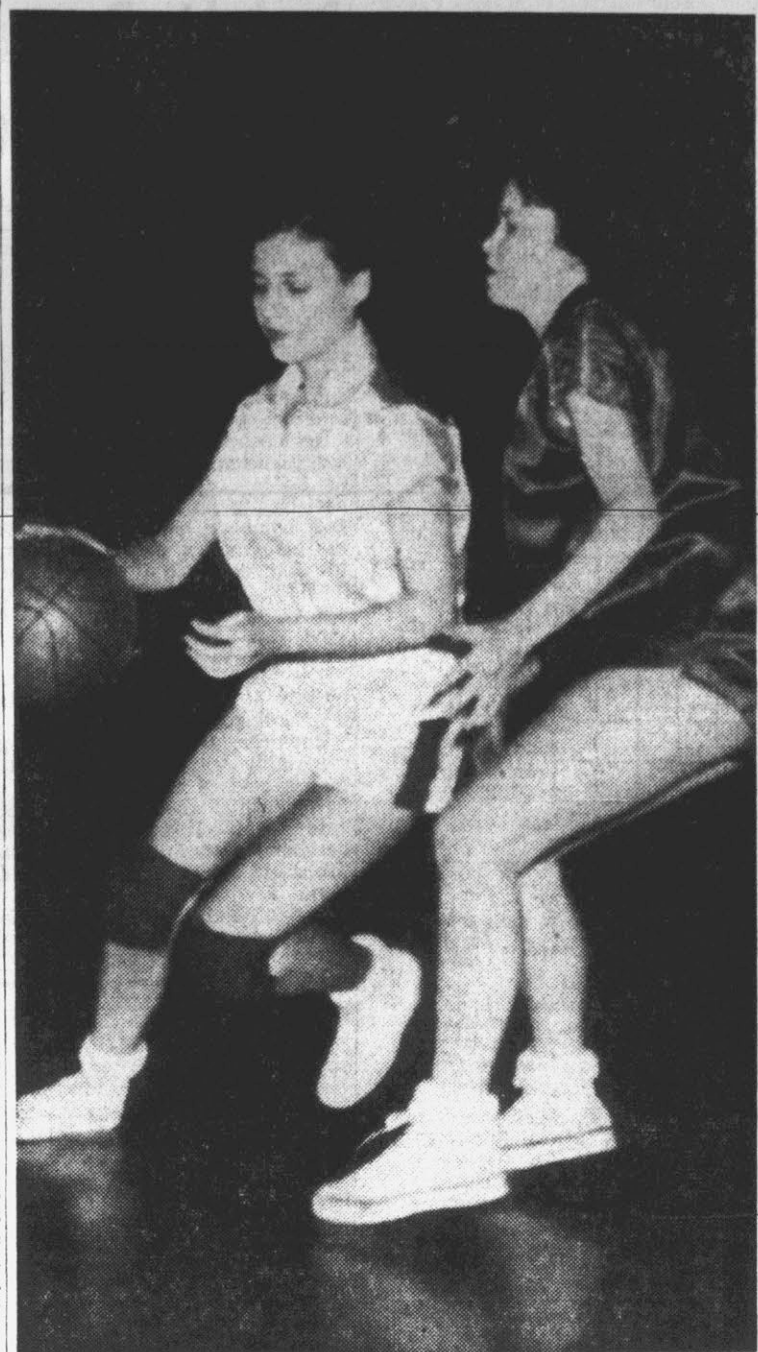

However, in the final stanza of play, Farmville continued to pour in another eight points, while Ayden was held to three.

With less than five minutes remaining, the score was tied at 30-30 and it seemed that Farmville was to move ahead.

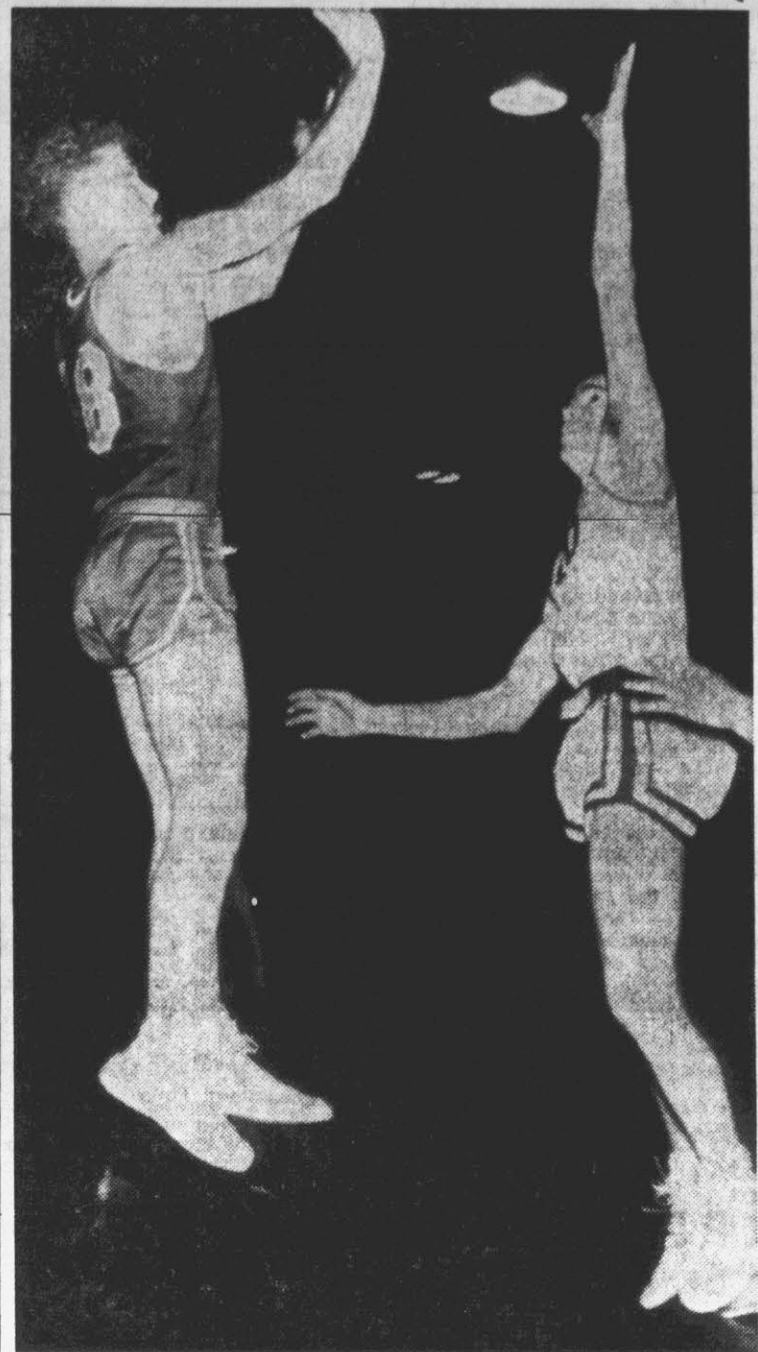

Ayden then grabbed a 36-35 lead, only to have it whittled down to 36-36.

Ayden again took the lead 38-36 and then 40-37. Farmville made a desperate try to even the score but fell just two points shy, 40-38.

High scorer for the winners was Tragedy struck during the first rounds of the Pitt County Basketball Tourney last night at the ECC Gym, as a Stokes man fell over dead from a heart attack.

Hubert Warren, 55-year-old Stokes native, fainted during the intermission between the second and last games last night, at around 9:30.

The rescue squad arrived shortly and attempted to revive Warren through the use of an oxygen mask.

German Seeking Pastrano Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Winning heavyweights being a scarce commodity these days, you couldn't fault Germany's Will Besmanoff for asking today for a crack at contender Willie Pastrano.

Willie Pastrano, 24-year-old Berliner, has captured 12 straight now. The first 11 were scored in the 175-pound class in Europe in 1956.

"I stay as a heavyweight now," said Willie who weighed 194 to Wilson's 190. "I'm very happy and excited over my first win here. I will fight better, too, because I am learning quickly the American style. You fight more here, in Germany we box more."

"I hope I can fight Pastrano. I watched him on television. He's a good boxer. I am becoming a fighter. I will fight the boxer."

Carolina Holds Firm Grip On Nation's Top Position

The rich get richer, they say, and North Carolina's talented basketball team today more than doubled its first-place margin of a week ago in the Associated Press basketball poll.

The undefeated Tar Heels (22-0 and the end not in sight) compiled 757 votes from the nation's sport writers and sportscares to 637 for second-place Kansas. Just a week ago, they had a slim 50-point margin.

When Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain and company took a 56-54 beating from Oklahoma A&M last Thursday, that undoubtedly hurt the Jayhawks. However, they did hold down second place by a comfortable margin over Kentucky, which compiled 508 votes.

The voting included games of last Saturday and was tabulated on the usual basis of 10 points for first place, 9 for second and so on.

There were several minor changes in the lineup below the Big Three. Southern Methodist, which captured its third straight Southwest Conference championship, jumped from sixth to fourth.

UCLA climbed from eighth to sixth, while Seattle dropped from fourth to fifth and Bradley slipped from fifth to seventh. Iowa State was the only club to tumble right out of the top 10. The Cyclones tumbled to 16th as a result of losing to Kansas State Saturday night.

The top 10, with first-place votes in parentheses:

- 1. North Carolina (61) 757
2. Kansas (6) 637
3. Kentucky 508
4. Southern Methodist 424
5. Seattle (6) 393
6. UCLA (1) 257
7. Bradley 153
8. Louisville (1) 141
9. Vanderbilt 134
10. Indiana 118

Supreme Court Grid Ruling Starts Talk

Hey! Look who's back in business again in college basketball. It's Forrdy Anderson — the guy who coached those great and near great teams at Bradley, then had to start from scratch when the gambling scandals scarred some of his aces.

Forrdy fiddled around in Peoria after awhile, brought the Braves back up to the finals of the 1954 NCAA championship (where they lost to LaSalle), and then took over at Michigan State. Now, in three years, he has the Spartans tied for the Big Ten lead, favored to take the championship and the NCAA major college tournament berth.

A 78-62 job on Wisconsin — the ninth conference victory in a row after three defeats — brought the Spartans to the top with Indiana last night as Michigan upset the Hoosiers 67-66. Ohio State, banned from the NCAA by conference probation, lost a chance to make it a three-way snarl by being upset at home by Illinois 79-72.

While Michigan State was moving into position for a conference crown, two other teams nailed their titles — plus automatic berths in the NCAA shindig. Kentucky, No. 3 in today's Associated Press poll, closed its Southeastern season, with a 103-85 breeze against Auburn.

Texas Western gained its first visit to the NCAA Tournament by winning the Border Conference title with a 72-69 overtime decision over New Mexico A&M. St. Louis, No. 14, closed in on

Preparing For Coming Tourney

LEXINGTON, N. C. (AP)—The field for the annual North State Conference basketball tournament opening here tomorrow night was filled out today with Catawba's 71-56 victory over Appalachian last night.

Catawba and Appalachian had ended the regular season tied for last place with 2-14 records. The playoff, with the loser eliminated from the eight-team tournament field, was held in Statesville.

Woody Helfrick pushed Catawba ahead 18-16 after 10 minutes of play and the Indians led the rest of the game. Helfrick and center Don Hunt led the scoring to grab the final tournament berth.

Catawba will play No. 2 seeded Elon Thursday at 7:30 p.m. No. 3 seeded Western Carolina will meet East Carolina in the 9:30 nightcap.

McGuire Says Pressure Is Off Tar Heels Now

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS "The pressure's off," says Coach Frank McGuire of the unbeaten North Carolina basketball team.

Although he has a lot of respect for Wake Forest, host to the nationally top-ranked Tar Heels in an Atlantic Coast Conference game tonight, McGuire says his team already has done what it most wanted to do this season — win the ACC regular season title, and cop more than 18 games. The club has a 22-0 over-all record, 12 wins in the conference.

The team long since has cinched the regular season title — the crown ultimately will go to the school which wins the ACC tournament in Raleigh next week.

The Demon Deacons, who lost 72-69 at Chapel Hill two weeks ago, will be at full strength tonight, protecting a record of nine victories against only one defeat at home. Over-all, Wake Forest is 18-6 and has a 7-5 conference record.

Four Deacon starters will be playing their last home game — guards Jackie Murdock and Ernie Wiggins, center Jim Gilley and forward Jack Williams. Williams has a 16-point per game average to lead the team, while Murdock has 15.1, Wiggins 13.3 and Gilley 13.1. Filling out the starting squad will be junior Wendell Carr.

North Carolina, on the other hand, has temporarily lost its 6-9 center, Joe Quigg, who became ill with a virus Friday. Coach McGuire said Bob Young, Danny Lotz and Ken Rosemond would be expected to fill the gap.

ELIZABETH SEIFERT'S NEW NOVEL 'Call for Doctor Barton'

By Elizabeth Seifert. Reprinted by permission of the publisher, Dodd, Mead & Co. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 27 Grady Barton sat stunned at June's frank advice that he send for his wife. He was cold, as he had not been out upon the wintry hillsides nor beside the icy lake...

With a gesture of decision, he clapped his hand against his knees, got to his feet and came across to sit beside June on the curved couch...

"I do not have a wife, June. I am not married. Oh, I wish when I first came to the Hollies—but my wife..."

He sighed. "I love you, June," he said gravely. "This afternoon, when I watched you come across the snow toward me, I felt—perhaps I can't put it into words, the way I felt about you..."

He sat for a long minute, his eyes upon the fire. Then his face tightened, and he spoke firmly, his deep voice vibrating...

"I'm afraid it does." "Up to now, they haven't had much to go on. Father has said they haven't. Kopp, I mean, and Mo. He's jealous of you and resents you, but he hasn't had anything, really to work on..."

"Yes, when the lie is known. But I had to tell you, June!" "I know. But still they'll use it as proof—that would Father call it—corroborating evidence that you can be dishonest. Oh, it's the worst thing that's happened, Grady!"

She looked at him pleadingly, her eyes filled with tears. "I know," he agreed. "I've gone around feeling like that old chap with the albatross..."

Compassionately, she touched his hand. "Even your friends, even those who have been sorry for you and have resented Kopp's vindictive action against you, some of them, Grady, will stop now and wonder a little. About your honesty..."

"But I'm not dishonest, June!" he protested. "I told a lie—but I am not dishonest!"

Neither he nor June recognized any absurdity in his claim. "No," she said slowly, "you're not, Grady. In fact you lean over backward to be honest. I remember how Father exploded that time you had Mo arrested for running into your car. He said, 'Does the guy have to be so darned honest and legal!'"

She smiled wanly at him, and he caught her hands again, his tone roughening. "June," he cried, "Tell me! Do you love me? Could you?"

She sat very still, not taking her hands away, but they became lifeless things in his grasp, and gently he released them. Then he looked so lost that impulsively she leaned her shoulder against his.

"Oh, Grady!" she cried. "I have to have a little time. I like you. I've always liked you! But love—You see, I've never thought of you as anything but a man with a wife. I've never let myself think of you as free..."

"Now I believe it wasn't ever. It didn't work. Maybe it couldn't have worked. I don't know. I thought I was trying, but, anyway—"

"It seemed that we hadn't anything in common. We didn't like or dislike the same things. We couldn't even talk happily together. Let me try. He coughed and rubbed the knuckles of his free hand across his lips. "She didn't want anything I was able to give her. For a while I thought it a matter of adjustment. She hated being a doctor's wife and taking second place to the calls of my profession..."

Tomorrow, in Chapter 28: "Are you on Mo's side—and against me?" Grady angrily demands of June.

Red Air Power Is Re-Appraised

WASHINGTON (AP)—New intelligence estimates reportedly indicate that Russia may be producing fewer long-range jet bombers than the United States.

Air Force officials were said to have furnished a new estimate of Russian bomber strength to the House Appropriations Committee during current hearings on the military budget.

Testifying at a Senate airpower investigation last May, Gen. Curtis LeMay, chief of the Strategic Air Command, said 78 eight-jet B52 bombers had been produced in this country as of that time.

Intelligence estimates then were that the Russians had turned out almost twice that number of B-50s, and that the Soviet level would increase.

The B-50 is the Russian counterpart of the B52 intercontinental jet bomber.

However, the House committee reportedly was informed recently that a revised estimate, based on fresher intelligence reports, indicates that Russian long-range bomber strength last year was probably below total B52 production.

One official familiar with information given to the House com-

Hardee Named To Post In N. C. Bankers Association

Ralph P. Hardee, Assistant Trust Officer of Guaranty Bank and Trust Company, has been named 1957 vice-chairman of Group One, North Carolina Bankers Association.

His election was announced here Friday at the 41st Annual Meeting of the group. He will serve during the year with chairman Sam T. Moore, vice-president and cashier of the Bank of Washington's West End Branch, and secretary-treasurer Ben P. Weaver Jr., cashier of Tarheel Bank and Trust Company of Winton. Hardee had served the group as secretary-treasurer during 1957.

W. H. Woolard Jr., retiring chairman, was named the group's representative to the State Executive Committee. Woolard is cashier of the Meadowbrook Branch of Guaranty Bank and Trust Company.

Group One's Executive Committee for 1957 will include Luther H. Cowan, cashier of the Aylender branch of the Bank of Ahsokie; Miss Grace Berry, cashier, East Carolina Bank, Columbia; Norman Parker, assistant cashier of the Roanoke-Chowan Bank at Roxboro; and R. B. Modlin, assistant cashier of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company of Washington.

Jesse Helms, Executive Director, North Carolina Bankers Association; Representative Walter B. Jones; and Washington attorney John Wilkinson addressed the group in its meeting at the Greenville Golf and Country Club and in the East Carolina College dining-room.

Hunts discussed a proposed five-day work week for North Carolina banks and the withdrawal of state funds from banks for investment purposes.

Jones outlined a proposed plan for compulsory liability insurance. The plan was endorsed by the bankers.

Wilkinson presented an outline of the principles and basic beliefs of George Washington.

Approximately 375 persons attended the meeting.

French Probe Extent Of Oil Find Far In Sahara Wastes

Editor's Note: Correspondent Davide' Mason hitchhiked across 150 miles of the Sahara Desert to see what the French are doing to extract oil from the parched sand dunes. He is one of the first Americans to visit the project. By DAVID MASON HASSEI MESSAOUD, Algerian Sahara — Rich, yellow-green crude oil is bubbling out of the sand dune wastes of the Algerian Sahara.

French petroleum engineers believe they have tapped several high-grade pools.

A major oil source of her own would free France of dependency on the Suez Canal.

There are two pressing considerations: Can the oil be transported economically hundreds of miles northward to Mediterranean ports? Can France hold onto Algeria, deeply torn by a nationalist revolt for nearly 28 months?

Coupled with the heavy expense of transporting drilling equipment is the human problem of man against the merciless heat, knifing sandstorms and water shortage. And the nationalist rebellion has spilled over into the desert, necessitating constant military protection.

But French skill linked with American know-how and equipment have licked most of the technical problems.

Algeria yielded promising flows of oil at three desert points last year. Gas indicating exploitable oil has been found at other locations.

The prize discovery came last August here at Hassi Messaoud, a bleak, rough desert flat, 63 miles southeast of Algiers, Hassi Messaoud is virtually isolated except by air or camelback.

Hassi Messaoud's discovery well is the deepest (10,819 feet) and its flow (52 barrels a day) the most abundant of Algerian Sahara wells.

The only living things in sight for miles around the well are an occasional stubborn desert bush or a white-kepied Foreign Legionnaire on guard at a Beau-Geste outpost. Sometimes a camel sways into sight.

New derricks are sprouting on the horizon as drillers attempt to determine the size of the pool tapped by the discovery well.

Until that is known, even the most cautious engineer will not give an estimate of Hassi Messaoud's reserves.

A discovery almost as exciting is this: water, fit for drinking, has been found at depths of only a few hundred feet. It is now being piped throughout the Hassi Messaoud field to supply crews that live in little settlements of bright-colored tents or boxlike wooden houses.

So far there is little but French capital sunk into the Sahara sands. The two biggest companies with total French capital of $77,139,000 hold exploration permits for 170,400 square miles.

American consular officials in Algiers say there is not a penny of American capital in the Sahara oil ventures.

Some French oil officials have taken at face value accusations that American oil interests are supporting the Algerian nationalists with the hope of moving in if France is driven out.

Americans seen in the Sahara are not drilling for oil, but are taking geological soundings to determine likely drilling points.

These crews, from the Independent Exploration Co., Houston, Tex., are under French contract, according to the consulate.

The oil discoveries will not be thoroughly tested and confirmed for possibly five years. Meantime the rebellion goes on and on. Perhaps the best France can hope for is a share in the rich yellow-green crude that would not color the Sahara sands but for French enterprise.

Boosters Meet, Band Donation Is Announced

The Greenville High School Band Boosters Club met last week. Bandmaster James E. Rogers presided in the absence of President Wendell Smiley.

Meeting in the high school bandroom, the club heard a report that the Women of the Moose Chapter 1308 have donated $100 for the benefit of the band.

The group, during the course of the meeting, voted to assist the sale of fruit cakes this year in support of the Civitan Club, an organization which has helped the Band Boosters in the past.

Officials stated that a Bass Horn, Bass Clarinet and three bass cases have been ordered for the band. The Bandmaster was also requested to place an order for an Oboe also to be used in the band.

Another topic brought up for discussion was the District Band contest to be held at East Carolina College on March 9. It was learned that Herbert Henderson of the University of Maryland would work with the Greenville Band in preparation for the event.

Bogged Down By 47-Cent Error

DALLAS 8P.—Action by the city council on a five million dollar contract for Love Field improvements bogged down today over a 47-cent mistake.

City manager Elgin Crull said a contract was awarded to Fien-Niken Construction Co. and L. H. Lacy Co. on Oct. 31 for $4,928,685.91.

But the accompanying resolution came out as $4,928,685.38. City fathers went through the motions to switch back to the original figure. The excess 47 cents was tossed back into reserve funds.

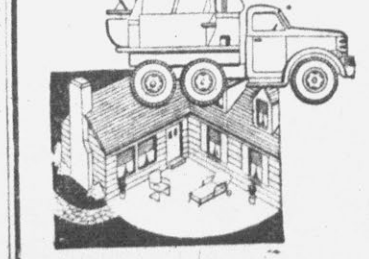

Train Hit Auto, Driver Was Out

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—William McCroskey was glad he stepped out of his automobile.

The car was hit by a Louisville & Nashville freight a few minutes later while McCroskey vainly tried to flag the train with a handkerchief.

McCroskey's car stalled on the crossing. He got out when the flashing signal lights started.

His car was demolished. McCroskey wasn't hurt.

Farmer's Winter

Farmer Brockman hauls his cart away in snow after feeding his herd in barn. They're fed on prepared rations in winter because the cows cannot graze.

Brockman's herd stays close to barns in winter. His 15 cows produce 184 quarts of milk each day.

Many persons have asked the question, "What does a farmer do in winter?" Most city folk think of the American farmer as a man who works like blazes from spring until harvest and then goes into semi-retirement.

Winter poses just as much work for the farmer. Snow and cold add new problems. Livestock must be fed with bigger helpings to keep them strong and healthy. The farmer must keep the animals' drinking tanks free of ice. Water valves must be kept workable with heat lamps. Snow-falls mean a lot of shoveling. Paths to the barns and the main road must be kept open. The repair shop is visited often. Machinery must be kept ready for the spring. There's no letup from dawn to dusk.

In the great plains states of the midwest, citadel of American agriculture, a season of sub-zero temperatures and recurring blizzards will really give the farmer a grim time.

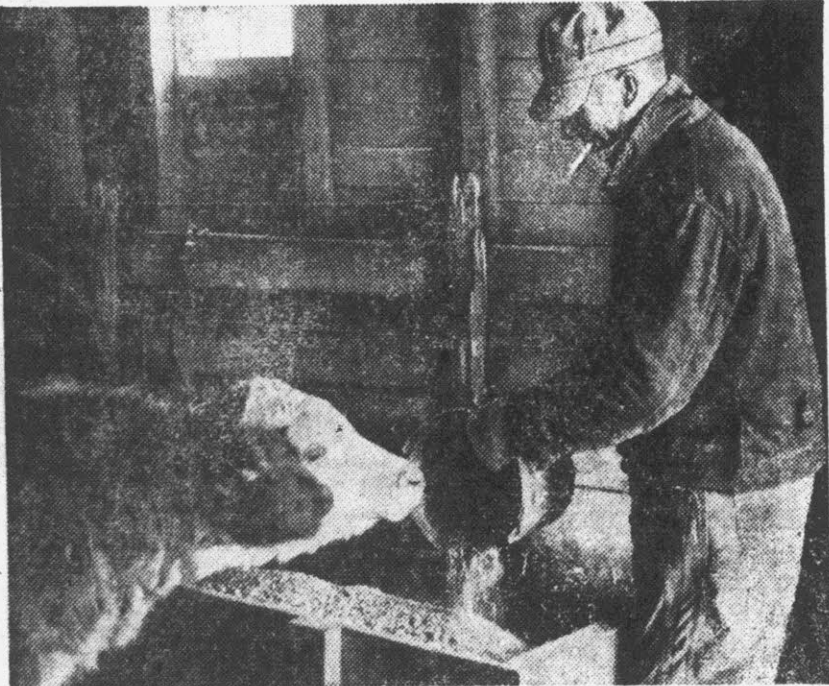

Farmer Virgil Brockman, who farms 260 acres near Marshalltown, Iowa, is an example of what a farmer does do in the wintertime.

Brockman tackles job of clearing drives with tractor equipped with chains and homemade snowplow. Storm left 12 inches of snow with much of it in three foot drifts in lee of buildings.

Brockman interrupts busy day to check depth of new fallen snow. Because drought hurt his crops in last two years he hopes spring thaws will not come too rapidly and cause snow to run off as flood water.

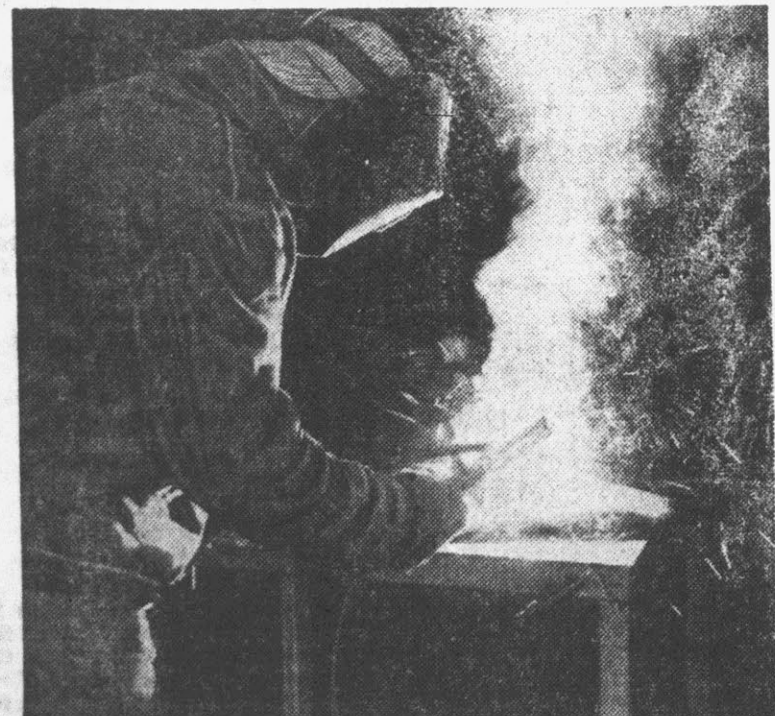

Calves must be fed well in winter because bitter cold requires additional body heat from animals. Note shaggy coat on calf. Come summer calf will once again look sleek.

Hot coffee is welcome after hours outdoors. Brockman and wife Irma find coffee and cakes hit the spot on cold winter afternoon.

Heat lamp is a must during cold winters to keep water valves workable. Brockman checks valves on his storage tank.

Getting machinery ready for spring use also must be done. In repair shop Brockman welds metal onto plow share to replace metal worn away by the soil.

Evening finds the Brockman family around television set with plenty of popcorn. They also attend high school sporting events, church socials, or neighborhood card parties during the winter evenings.

Winter also means catching up on book work, especially at income tax time. Modern day farming is big business; no longer can a farmer hope to succeed without complete business records.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market remained slightly on the up side in sluggish trading early this afternoon.

Leading industrials showed a narrowly higher trend but the rails were inclined to the minus side.

Price changes were generally from fractions to a point but some specialties made wider moves.

The market's behavior was a continuation of its caution and light turnover of last week. Hesitation was increased by the debate on Israel sanctions in the United Nations. Corporate and economic developments were of a mixed nature.

General Motors, which sank 1/4 to a new low since 1955 yesterday, improved fractionally today and Chrysler was up around a point.

High-priced International Business Machines was up 12 to 353 prior to announcement of its 21-for-1 stock split proposal. When the news hit Wall Street it lost 5 of this, then recovered 1/2. It gyrated between these levels in later trades, then showed a net loss of around 4.

Cooper-Bessemer continued its run-up, adding more than 2 points. Schering was ahead around a point.

Aside from these, however, there was little to raise eyebrows in Wall Street. Douglas Aircraft, however, tacked on a solid point and Caterpillar did about the same.

The oils were a mite backward after their selective advances of yesterday. Royal Dutch was down about a point while Gulf Oil, which strode ahead 3/4 yesterday, settled for a small fraction today. Sinclair nudged ahead. Standard Oil (New Jersey) eased. U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel and Youngstown all rose fractionally. Westinghouse Electric and General Electric were up major fractions.

Among the rails, Illinois Central and Santa Fe were easy while Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific and New York Central were steady.

Coppers, rubbers, and distillers showed mostly small plus signs. Johns-Manville was up a fraction.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 10 cents to $172.30 with the industrials up 40 cents, the rails down 10 cents and the utilities unchanged.

CHICAGO (U.S.D.A.) — Salable hogs 7,000; trade opened slow; later general market active; steady to 25 higher on butchers; most upturn on weights under 240 lb; sows steady to strong; only fair shipping outlet; No. 2-3 mixed grade lots 200-270 lb butchers predominated in receipts at 16.75-17.10; few mostly 1-2 190-230 lb 17.15-17.25; 74 head mostly No. 1 these weights sorted for grade 17.35; No. 2-3 mostly 3 290-330 lb 16.25-16.75; small lots mixed grade 180-190 lb 16.00-17.00; larger lots mixed grade 170-550 lb sows 15.00-15.75; few head No. 1-2 240-360 lb 16.00.

Missing Car Found, Damaged By Fire

BURNED AUTOMOBILE—Cpl. C. E. Whitfield of the Highway Patrol is shown above making an investigation of the burned automobile found on a rural road approximately five miles from Greenville yesterday afternoon. The 1955 vehicle was reported stolen by Marvin Ray Dixon of Greenville Rt. 3, Sunday night. (Reflector Staff Photo).

The charred remains of an automobile was found yesterday afternoon, barely resembling the 1955 Chrysler reported stolen to Greenville police on Sunday night.

Cpl. C. E. Whitfield of the Pitt County Highway Patrol investigated the incident and found the burned car to be the one stolen from Marvin Ray Dixon of Greenville Rt. 3 Sunday night. Dixon stated that the automobile was taken sometime between the hours of 9 and 12 p.m. Sunday.

The car was found approximately one-half mile from Frog Level just off Highway 264. Several residents of the surrounding area were contacted by the investigating officer and stated that they had not seen the automobile on the road shortly before midnight.

Whitfield said yesterday afternoon that the car was, in his opinion, definitely set afire and that a full scale investigation would be made on the larceny and arson angle.

The preliminary investigation was conclusive to the patrol that the fire started in the interior of the vehicle, with little damage being done to the motor. Fire completely destroyed the interior. Three of the tires were burned off the rims, the heat being so intensive that even the door handles melted off.

Rotarians Elect New Officers At Monday Meeting

F. Harding Sugg last night was elected president of the Greenville Rotary Club as the club held its annual election.

Other officers elected are Dr. E. R. Browning, vice president, Wendell Smiley, secretary, L. A. Stroud, sergeant at arms, and directors F. D. Duncan, Dr. Earl Trevathan, J. B. Kittrell Jr., and Sam B. Underwood Jr.

The new officers will take over their duties July 1.

Dr. Howard McGinnis was in charge of the Rotary program last night at which time the coming Rotary District conference and the Rotary Foundation were discussed.

The conference will be held in Goldsboro on March 7 and 8.

Claims Proposed UNC Salaries Still Inadequate

RALEIGH — Higher salary increases than recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission are needed to enable the Consolidated University of North Carolina to retain and attract faculty members.

This was asserted yesterday by University President William C. Friday in an appearance before the university trustees. The recommended salary increases, he declared, are "inadequate."

He also termed as inadequate the budget recommendations for the university libraries.

Friday told the trustees that the three units of the consolidated university "have been suffering heavy losses" of faculty members to other institutions which offer them much greater pay.

He noted that a State College member was offered $3,000 more for nine months work than he is paid here for 12 months.

Last Rites Held For Wilbur L. Lyon

AYDEN—Wilbur L. Lyon, 62, died at his home here early Monday morning.

Funeral services were held at Britt's Funeral Chapel Tuesday at 3 p.m. by his pastor, Rev. John Goff, Christian minister. Burial was in Ayden cemetery.

He was the son of the late Katie Wingate and Zeno Lyon of Greene County. He was a lifelong resident of the Ayden community and had been connected with the post office here for approximately 42 years, having retired from the postal service last July. He was a member of Ayden Masonic Lodge 498 and had served for a number of years as deacon in Ayden Christian Church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Pearl Dixon; a son, William Edward Lyon of New Bern; two daughters, Mrs. W. O. Haney of Chicago and Mrs. W. H. Myers of Dunn; three brothers, Zeno of Plymouth, Henry of North Wilkesboro and Julius Lyon of Kinston; a sister, Mrs. Raymond Gaylor of Ayden; one granddaughter.

Lower Peanut Program Support

WASHINGTON — The Agriculture Department says it will support lower prices of 1957 crop peanuts at a minimum national average of $221.40 a ton, compared with last year's support of $227.04.

The projected support figure is 82 per cent of the current parity price, and the department said the minimum figure may be adjusted upward at the start of the marketing season Aug. 1.

Hubert O. Warren Dies Monday Night

Hubert O. Warren, 56, farmer, of near Stokes, died at Memorial Gymnasium, East Carolina College in Greenville, while attending a basketball game about 9:30 Monday night after suffering a heart attack a few minutes earlier. He had been in failing health four years.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Mr. Warren, son of the late G. Nelson and Bettie Whitfield Warren, was born and spent all his life in the Stokes community, and attended the Stokes schools. He was a member of the Stokes Methodist Church and a steward at the time of his death. He was an active member of Stokes Ruritan Club.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Fannie Bett Bullock Warren; three sons, T. G. Warren of Stokes, Ronald G. Warren of the home, and H. Clinton Warren of Washington, D. C.; five daughters, Mrs. Otis L. Alexander of Greenville, Mrs. Anthony Ventre of Formosa, and Mrs. Clarence Milke, Mrs. Norman Genaro and Mrs. Robert Bergmann of Washington, D. C.; 10 grandchildren; Also surviving are two brothers, Elmer E. and W. Charlie Warren of Stokes, and three sisters, Mrs. Tillet Alexander and Mrs. Judson Whitehurst of Stokes, and Mrs. Julius Ross of Greenville.

Sen. Knowland's Daughter To Wed

OAKLAND, Calif. — The engagement of Estelle Knowland Stanford Junior and younger daughter of Sen. and Mrs. William F. Knowland, to one of University of California's great basketball stars was announced last night.

Miss Knowland's marriage is scheduled for June 22 to Bob McKen, 23, who in 1955 ended a three-year career at California as one of its greatest scoring centers of all time.

Premier Hoping To Visit U.S.

TOKYO — Nobusuke Kishi, Japan's new prime minister, says he hopes to visit the United States and Southeast Asia this spring and summer for top-level talks. U.S. officials in Washington said Kishi would be welcome when a mutually acceptable date could be arranged.

Talks in Washington probably would include a review of the security treaty Japan signed with the United States at the end of the occupation. Kishi has said the pact should be "readjusted."

Eastern Carolina News Briefs

ADOPT RESOLUTION

AHOSKIE — The Hertford County unit of the North Carolina Education Association adopted a resolution last week endorsing proposed legislation to give North Carolina public school teachers a pay raise.

According to reports the resolution is to be forwarded to Hertford County legislators and to the state NCEA headquarters. The action came after a report on the NCEA's legislative program by Principal A. Woodrow Taylor, a member of the state group's legislative committee.

TO VISIT STALLINGS

KINSTON — Air Force Commander Colonel Rafael Andrade of Ecuador was expected to visit Stallings Air Base sometime this morning.

Full honors will be accorded Col. Andrade who is on his way home from a tour which took him and his staff around the country. He was to be greeted by Serv-Air Aviation President Truman W. Miller and his staff along with USAF Group Commander Lt. Col.

YOUTH CHARGED

WILSON — A 14-year-old Wilson boy has been arrested by police for the theft of $400 in payroll money from the Purify Bakery.

Police Chief A. A. Privette said that the youth took the money "sometime over the weekend." The boy was arrested and confessed to the theft; $140 of the missing money was found on his person. It was learned today that a "majority" of the missing money has been recovered.

SUGGESTS DELAY

GOLDSBORO — Assistant City Manager L. Page Benton reported yesterday that action now on steps by Goldsboro to provide sewage disposal service to help clear up the Neuse River could be premature.

Benton recommended that the city wait until the State Stream Sanitation Commission releases its report on the classification of the Neuse before a move to construct sewage disposal facilities begins. The commission is now gathering data on the river and is expected to announce its classifications in the near future.

CONFESSES

ROCKY MOUNT — The third young Rocky Mount man involved in a series of three-state thefts turned himself in to police authorities over the weekend and has been placed in Edgecombe jail along with his two accomplices, James Davis Nelms, 20 years old, walked into the police station and turned himself in. In a brief questioning period, he admitted to taking part in the same robberies in North Carolina, West Virginia and Tennessee that his two companions had confessed to earlier last week.

Four Divorces Granted Monday

Four divorces, a mistrial and two small settlements were ordered by Judge J. Paul Frizzelle in yesterday's opening session of a two-weeks civil term of Superior Court.

The divorces, all on grounds of two years' separation, were awarded to Virginia Pierce Basnight from Thomas G. Basnight Jr.; A. C. Jackson from Geneva Jackson; Annie Jones Haddock from Autry Lee Haddock; and Gerry James Bensing from Joyce Ann Bensing.

A juror was withdrawn and a mistrial ordered by Judge Frizzelle in the case of Josephine Mills versus Jasper Mills upon motion of attorney Abilun Dunn.

The settlements were returned in cases against Clarence Elks and Carolina Dry Cleaning Company. Elks was ordered to pay $99.50, with interest from April 9, 1954, to Robert Elks and Rufus Keel, trading as Friendly Furniture Company. The dry cleaning establishment and its owner, Mrs. Lottie Little, was ordered to pay $45 to M. T. Bradshaw for a suit that was taken to the cleaners and not returned.

Garage Break-In Reported In City

A theft has been reported to Greenville police by Zeb Smith of 412 Latham Street.

Smith stated that someone broke into his garage through a sliding door and took property valued at $150. Taken was a small drill, several wrenches and a spark plug set valued at $15. A watch valued at $25 was also missing.

Local police are making an investigation.

MEADOWBROOK

Fed up with feeding a Gas Guzzler? Shocked by high car prices? Tired of hunting space to park?

Go Rambler

V-8 or 6

Intelligent buyers are making Rambler fastest-growing in sales, because only Rambler gives you the room, comfort and performance of big costly cars, with easiest parking and top economy (coast-to-coast NASCAR record, 32 miles per gallon with overdrive). It's lowest-priced of all, first in trade-in value. Fun-test a Rambler V-8 or 6.
