SEATO Council Opens Annual Meeting Today

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—The SEATO Council of Ministers opened its third annual meeting today to intensify the eight-nation alliance's fight against Communist political and economic subversion in Southeast Asia.

Representatives of the United States, Australia, Britain, France, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan met in the green-carpeted House of Representatives chamber of Australia's Parliament Building for the three-day conference.

The council, top policy-making body of the alliance formed in 1954, was expected to:

- 1. Recommend that member nations keep their military forces up to present strength and intensify measures to safeguard their internal security.
2. Lay plans to keep free Asian nations from linking their economies closer to the Communist bloc.
3. Initiate a multilateral cultural program to promote mutual understanding among the member nations.

Council sources said Communist tactics in the area have been shifting in the past year from a threat of armed aggression to a wide program of political, economic and other penetration.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles told the council it could "confidently conclude... that international communism is now imposed upon many of the peoples of Asia as a passing and not a permanent phase."

But Red Chinese support of Southeast and Eastern Asia, Dulles said, was a serious problem remaining in Laos, where "communism continues to support the Pathet Lao insurgents."

He reported "growing strength" in South Korea, Japan and Nationalist China, which are outside SEATO but connected with it through their collective defense treaties with the United States.

Reinstate UAW Indictments

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today reinstated, 6-3, an indictment charging that the United Automobile Workers violated federal law by paying for political television broadcasts with money from the union's general fund.

The government contended the broadcasts were in support of particular candidates for Congress and the payments thus violated a section of the Corrupt Practices Act.

Judge Frank A. Picard of Detroit ruled the payments were not within the meaning of the word "expenditures" as used in the law. He dismissed the indictment.

Appealing directly to the Supreme Court, the Justice Department asked reinstatement of the indictment and trial of its charge in the District Court.

Arabs Riot In Gaza Strip Against UN Police Force

GAZA (AP)—The battle for the Gaza Strip is still on despite the Israeli withdrawal. U.N. forces had to use tear gas and shoot in the air yesterday to disperse Arabs claiming to represent more than 1,000 civil workers employed in the strip before the Israeli invasion said they would work only if Egypt approved the civil administration set up for the strip by the U.N. Emergency Force.

The rioting stemmed from the temporary administrative setup headed by Danish Col. Carl Ingelholm as military governor.

There is strong feeling among the 310,000 residents of the strip, including some 215,000 Palestine Arab refugees, against even the appearance of international control in the strip.

About 300 Arabs stormed through the streets, waving banners and shouting for the return of Egyptian administration. When U.N. troops in vehicles herded the demonstrators down Gaza's main street and out of the center of town, the rioters began throwing stones.

The Arabs tried to smash the gates of the UNEF police headquarters. The U.N. troops, using tear gas and firing over the rioters' heads, forced them to disperse.

The clash between UNEF and the Arabs erupted while Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, UNEF commander, was in Gaza for talks with his staff on plans to transfer his headquarters from the Suez Canal zone to Gaza.

Burns, who witnessed the demonstration, was asked by newsmen whether he thought Communist tactics were used to foment the trouble. He replied: "I think so."

In Egyptian eyes, the administration UNEF has set up in Gaza goes beyond the U.N. General Assembly's resolution setting up the international force.

Burns declined to say whether the Egyptian government is demanding formally that it resume control in Gaza. He said that such questions would have to be answered at U.N. headquarters in New York.

BULLETIN CAIRO (AP)—The government announced today "Egyptian administration will take over responsibility for Gaza immediately." Gen. Hassan Abdel Latif was appointed governor of Gaza and directed to take over his duties at once.

Amin Helmy, chief Egyptian liaison officer with UNEF. The Egyptian Middle East News Agency quoted Bunche as saying UNEF's mission is temporary, that is not an occupation force, and is without governing power.

The agency reported Bunche also said UNEF would stay in the Gaza Strip and at Sharm el Sheikh on the Gulf of Aqaba only as long as it is needed. He added he did not know how long that would be.

Israeli settlers near the Gaza Strip borders were reported to have appealed to the Israeli army for increased protection. They said infiltrators had been slipping over the frontier from Gaza to steal valuable equipment.

Senate Probers Prepare To Subpoena Teamster Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate rackety investigators prepared today to subpoena Teamsters Union President Dave Beck and seize his financial records unless he agrees quickly to "be cooperative." Beck indicated he would comply with their requests before being subpoenaed.

The teamster chief returned unheralded from Europe yesterday, dodged reporters in New York, refused to be interviewed in Chicago, and flew on to his home in Seattle.

Arriving there, Beck said "I don't think so" when he was asked to answer any other questions.

Beck's Teamsters Union—the nation's biggest—has been the focus so far of a special Senate committee's search for evidence of racketeering influences in labor and industry.

For the past two weeks, the committee has received testimony that West Coast teamster officials were linked with underworld figures and some public office holders in efforts to take over vice and gambling operations in Portland, Ore. The hearings are in recess until tomorrow.

The committee has said it wants to question Beck about charges that union funds were used to pay some of his personal bills, and about the activities of some of his lieutenants.

Informed of Beck's return, Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), chairman of the rackets investigating group, told a newsman: "I just assume he (Beck) will get in touch with the committee now that he's back."

Other committee sources said a subpoena was being drafted to subpoena Beck before the committee and to seize his personal financial records if he does not agree within a day or two to "be cooperative."

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said "I hope he takes prompt steps to turn over his personal financial records to the committee. We asked for these weeks ago and he never replied."

Meantime, Portland Mayor Terry D. Schunk was due to take a lie detector test from Secret Service experts to check his denial that he once accepted a bribe. Schunk, a Democrat, agreed to take the test Friday after branding as "fantastic" testimony that in 1955, while he was sheriff of Multnomah County (Portland), he collected a $500 bribe to call off a raid on a gambling place.

The hearings are to resume Tuesday with testimony from Clyde Crosby, Teamsters Union boss in Oregon, and William M. Langley, Democratic district attorney in Multnomah County. Both are under indictment on conspiracy charges.

The committee hopes to finish this phase of its work this week, then turn to other situations. Kennedy said committee investigators now are working on a number of cases, including alleged "collusion" between some labor union officials and garbage pickup firms in the New York area.

Nervous Northeastern Pacific Rim Continues Tremble Following Quake

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Pacific's jumpy northeastern rim continued to tremble today as the result of a mighty earthquake in the Aleutian Islands Saturday.

The restless earth that sent tidal waves crashing into villages in Hawaii and Japan rumbled again at 7:20:23 p.m., Pacific Standard Time (10:20:23 p.m., EST).

The University of California seismograph at Berkeley was still registering the shock 2 1/2 hours later.

Research assistant John Denoyer said the new quake, apparently another vigorous aftershock of the Saturday quake, appeared again to be in the Aleutians.

Meanwhile, the Coast and Geodetic Survey office in Honolulu reported that Mt. Vesuvius on the Aleutian Island of Unimak was belching smoke after lying dormant for 200 years. Officials said it probably had been stirred to life by Saturday's big quake.

In Hawaii, where waves ranging from 3 to 9 feet high slammed up over the beaches Saturday along northern shores of the island, Gov. Samuel Wilder King said 154 people were left homeless in two villages on Kauai, while 4,000 others were isolated by washed-out bridges.

Unofficial damage estimates ranged up to two million dollars. No direct loss of life was reported because of early warnings, but Paul O. Beam, veteran newsman, and Sarah Park, Star-Bulletin reporter, were dead in the crash of a plane photographing the waves.

Gov. King said he was waiting full damage reports before asking federal aid, but had declared a 10-mile coastal stretch on Kauai a disaster area.

Hours after the alert had ended in Hawaii, nine-foot waves crashed into fishing villages on Hokkaido, northernmost of the main Japanese islands. Police reported one house washed away with others wrecked and more than 50 flooded.

The 3 1/2-foot wave that belatedly rolled into San Diego Bay late Saturday night yanked an 83-foot boat slip from its moorings and caused damage estimated at $5,000.

In Berkeley, seismologist Denoyer said he could not tell whether last night's aftershock, the fifth, would cause more tidal waves.

Seismologist Don Tocher said the University of California recorded another major shock for two hours this morning.

Rescue Missing Children In Boat

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A Coast Guard search plane today found two children missing in a small boat in Currituck Sound since 9:30 a.m. yesterday.

The children, apparently unharmed, were in the 16-foot boat which was sighted shortly before 9 a.m. just north of Corolla, N.C., about six miles across the sound from Morgans Landing, their point of departure.

The children are Billie Susan Johnson, 11, and Mitchell Ferebee, 12, both of Sliko, N.C.

A Coast Guard helicopter piloted by Lt. Charlie Muller dangled a rescue basket over the boat and hauled in the youngsters. They seemed to have come through the night of near-freezing temperatures in good condition.

From the helicopter they were transferred to a cabin cruiser and taken across the sound to Morgans Landing, one mile north of Currituck on the west shore of the sound.

Lt. Cmdr. Joe Weber first spotted the children from his Coast Guard plane and circled the area while summoning the helicopter.

W. C. Johnson, father of the girl, called the Coast Guard at Elizabeth City last night and reported the children missing on a boating trip to Knotts Island in the northern area of Currituck Sound.

A Coast Guard land plane and helicopter joined five surface vessels dispatched from Comstock, Kill Devil Hill, Caffees Inlet and Norfolk in the search.

Candidate Files For Bethel Office

BETHEL—C. W. Everett, local attorney, has filed as a candidate for mayor in the town's primary and election April 30 and May 7.

At present he is the only candidate for the town's highest office.

Four of the five present members of Bethel's Board of Commissioners have filed for the election. They are M. L. James, J. M. Butterworth, J. R. Cullifer and R. J. Whitehurst.

Cullifer and Whitehurst were recently elected to the board to fill unexpired terms.

Mayor R. E. Reddick has announced that he will not seek the office in the primary and election.

Reddick, a former commissioner, was elected mayor by the Board when former mayor R. L. Martin resigned. Martin was elected a county commissioner and was sworn in last January.

Bethel's primary will be held April 30 and it will be followed by the election on May 7. Polls will be open from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Deadline for filing for office is March 30 at 6 p.m. Those wanting to run for office can file with Town Clerk M. L. James.

James said this morning that books will be open for registration of new voters March 30, April 6 and April 13. The registration will be for both the primary and election.

Local sources said the only thing that has delayed an outright coup in Borneo has been a political squabble among island officials.

The Jakarta government's authority shrunk to a small remaining part of north Sumatra, tottering Borneo and Java itself.

Government sources said that if the government resigns, Sukarno might ask Sastroamidjojo to form a new Cabinet, but that the former would have to give up his defense post. The sources said government leaders would suggest that the three parties be included in the new government—the Moslem Masjumi, Sastroamidjojo's Nationalists and the Orthodox Mos-

Legislators Return To Spend-And-Tax Review

RALEIGH (AP)—Tar Heel lawmakers moved back onto the legislative scene today to prepare for another week that will see further work on the appropriations and tax bills.

The House and Senate meet tonight at 8 o'clock.

Before the week is out the administration-backed bill to reorganize the Highway Commission may complete its journey. The measure received Senate approval last week and the House Roads Committee may act on it Wednesday or Thursday. Final House action could come Thursday or Friday.

On Thursday, Senate Judiciary 1 Committee will hold a public hearing on the issue of legislative reapportionment.

The Joint Finance and Appropriations Committees, meanwhile, will resume work tomorrow on the tax and appropriations bills. Appropriations Committee is scheduled to hear budget request tomorrow of the state's mental hospitals.

The committee will hear on Wednesday from East Carolina, A.T. Western Carolina, Appalachian State Teachers and Pembroke State colleges.

During the week tax experts may wind up the job of briefing the Finance Committee on proposed changes in the state's tax structure. This would enable the committee to lay plans for holding public hearings next week.

Rep. Carl Venters of Onslow, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said yesterday he was pleased with the progress the Legislature has made. He added, however, that he doesn't look for adjournment before the first of June.

A big question to be settled on the issue of a pay raise for teachers and other state employees, Venters declared, is whether to reduce the budgets of some departments or find new sources of revenue.

Senate Judiciary 1 Committee has before it bills which would provide for legislative reapportionment. The measures, proposed by a special commission which studied the issue of reapportionment, would amend the state constitution to provide: 1) that no senator represent more than four counties, 2) that no county have more than two senators, 3) an increase in House membership from 120 to 130, and 4) creation of a legislative reapportionment commission charged with reapportioning House and Senate membership after every federal census.

The Highway Commission bill would reduce the commission's membership from 15 to 7 and aimed at creating a commission with a statewide, rather than a sectional, outlook.

Rash Of Crises Force Indonesian Gov't Quit

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The government of Indonesia, beset by a rash of bloodless rebellions and a financial crisis, has decided to resign on Wednesday, high government sources said today.

The informants said the decision was made after a meeting of the five parties which make up Premier Ali Sastroamidjojo's coalition government.

South Sumatra joined the spreading revolt Saturday. Lt. Col. Barlian, another of Indonesia's restless young army leaders, blasted the Sastroamidjojo government as being "slow" and "incompetent." The Sastroamidjojo appointed governor fled to Java, it was reported.

rebel leaders have also been uneasy about his plan to bring Communists into an all-party government.

Java, most heavily populated island in Indonesia, is infiltrated by Communists in its eastern part. West Java has been plagued by Moslem terrorists and has been under martial law since 1950.

Government sources said that if the government resigns, Sukarno might ask Sastroamidjojo to form a new Cabinet, but that the former would have to give up his defense post. There's A Ready Market For Daubings By Artistic Chimp

BALTIMORE (AP)—Betsy the chimp gone arty, continued her abstract daubings today as the market for her work picked up.

Betsy had her first public sale yesterday.

Her paintings have sold for as high as $50 each.

Zoo director Arthur Watson said there have been numerous telephone calls as well as personal inquiries about the stuff turned out by the 7-year-old chimp.

$600 to get a mate for Betsy as well as some other animals.

Betsy, who has been painting since the fall of 1953, has turned out 17 salable canvasses so far. Ten others had to be thrown away. In one big day she turned out 10 in one hour.

Watson started her on painting as a stunt and because, he said, she had natural dexterity.

Hard at it yesterday, Betsy first tasted a dab of green paint on the paper. Then she smeared some yellow paint into what looked like corn stalks. Then, with a raucous chuckle, she stood in the middle of the painting.

one Watson has labeled "Shore Birds." He says you can make out rather clearly five different birds, including a bittern, a black crown night heron, an ostrich and a bird of paradise.

The $30 check came from Dr. Vincent Vermeek Dallas, Watson said.

A Washington newsman and his wife bought another entitled "Angel of Death." Watson said the couple asked that he not name these other buyers of the arts.

Three other buyers who had purchased paintings earlier were presented with them formally yesterday as the public sale got underway. They paid $25 to $50 apiece for them.

Girl Scouts Celebrate Forty-Fifth Anniversary

This week Pitt County Girl Scouts are celebrating a birthday, the 45th anniversary of the Girl Scout organization. Joining with more than two million girls in the United States, local groups will be participating in Girl Scout Week.

Girl scouting in Pitt County has grown to a present membership of 790. Throughout the week all troops will be gathering for annual birthday parties. Because Greenville troops number 30 the council and leaders are planning individual school parties.

They have been scheduled at the following times: Elmhurst, Friday at 3:30; Third Street, Thursday at 3:30; Fleming Street, Friday at 3:30; Wahl-Coates, Wednesday at 3:30; West Greenville, Friday at 3:15.

Girl Scout Week began yesterday with Church Day, one of the seven service days to be observed throughout the week. Other days will stress these categories: home-making, citizenship, health and safety, international friendship, arts and crafts, and out-of-doors.

Be Informed And Inspire, Says Speaker

Mrs. Howard Mims, a teacher in the Greenville High School, was the speaker at the regular meeting of Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, national honor society for women educators, on Thursday evening at the St. James Methodist Church.

Mrs. Mims' topic was "What Contribution Can Women Educators Make Toward the Common Alms in International Education." Using impressions gained from a recent trip abroad, Mrs. Mims stressed the importance of being informed teachers and of teaching in such a way to inspire the youth to become real leaders of the future.

Speaker Tells Of European Trip

Miss Helen Stokes showed slides and gave a resume of her European travels at the End of the Century Club meeting held Saturday afternoon.

Descriptive accounts of the slides shown were vividly presented by Miss Stokes. Mrs. J. B. Spilman introduced the guest speaker.

Buffet Enhances St. Patrick's Day

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
BUFFET SUPPER TIME on St. Patrick's Day! What's on the menu? Start with a hearty potato chowder, in honor of Erin, and go on to baked ham and a big beautiful molded salad—green, of course—with the fresh, sweet-tart taste of grapefruit in it.

A MOLDED SALAD, with grapefruit sections and cream cheese balls, is colored green for St. Patrick's Day.

GRAPEFRUIT SALAD MOLD, NUMBER ONE

Ingredients: 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin, 1/4 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 3 1/2 cups canned unsweetened grapefruit juice, 3 cups drained fresh grapefruit sections, 1-4 cup diced pimiento, salad greens.

Method: Form cream cheese into 8 small balls; chill. Mix together the gelatin, sugar and salt in a saucepan. Add 1 cup of the grapefruit juice. Place over moderate heat, stirring occasionally, until gelatin is thoroughly dissolved. Remove from heat, add remaining 2 1/2 cups grapefruit juice. Stir in enough green food coloring to tint. Chill. Arrange a few of the grapefruit sections, cream-cheese balls and pieces of pimiento in a 5 cup ring mold to make an attractive design. Spoon in a little of the chilled gelatin and chill until almost firm. Chill remaining gelatin until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold in 1 1/2 cups grapefruit sections and remaining pimiento. Spoon into mold; chill until firm. Unmold and fill center with salad greens, remaining grapefruit sections and cream-cheese balls. Makes 8 servings.

Note: For a delicious variation, mold a small pecan or walnut half in each cream-cheese ball. Serve this salad the same day if it is made; it may stiffen too much if held overnight.

GRAPEFRUIT SALAD MOLD, NUMBER TWO

Ingredients: 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, 3 1/2 cups canned unsweetened grapefruit juice, 2 packages lime-flavored gelatin, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 3 cups drained fresh grapefruit sections, 1-4 cup diced pimiento, salad greens. Method: Form cream cheese into 8 small balls; chill. Heat 2 cups of the grapefruit juice; add to remaining gelatin until slightly thickened. Fold in 1 1/2 cups of the grapefruit sections and remaining pimiento. Spoon into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and fill center with salad greens, remaining grapefruit sections and cream-pimiento in a 5-cup ring mold to

Rates Of Growth Differ

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeatures

All through grade school Anne was one of the biggest girls in her class; she was also one of the youngest. Her birthday came late in October and she just slipped under the wire of the six-year olds admitted to first grade. She was bright and mature enough so that the fact that she was younger than most of the other children never caused any problems. In fifth grade when she was 10 Anne was a big, husky, robust girl, slightly taller and heavier than any of the other children, boys as well as girls. She was not fat, she was just big. When she was 11 and in sixth grade her appetite, always good, took a sudden upward jump and she began to grow much taller. Between Christmas and the end of the school year her dresses had to be let down three times. Everyone else in the class was growing too, of course, but Anne's growth was considerably more rapid than that of any other child in the group.

Neither of Anne's parents were unusually large. They became worried about Anne's rapid gain, especially since Anne herself was slouching over and trying not to look so tall. Anne's mother took her to the doctor to find out if she was suffering from some glandular trouble.

The doctor examined her carefully and then began pointing out, both to the child and to her mother, things neither had paid much attention to. Anne no longer had the body of a little child. She was almost a woman. She curved in at the waist and out at the hips, her breasts were budding. She had a little hair under her arms in other parts of her body. Anne, even though she was barely 11 years old, would soon be a mature woman. Then she would stop growing.

All children grow very rapidly the year before they mature and the year after, then they slow down and gain only a tiny bit more.

Anne was five feet two on her 11th birthday. The doctor said he'd make the guess that she would not be more than five feet four or five at the outside when she was fully grown. He certainly hit it right. When Anne was 18 she was five feet four and a half, average to slightly on the small side in spite of the fact that she was one of the tallest children in her group as a little girl, and for a couple of years an outstandingly big girl.

Anne matured earlier than most American girls. The average is about 13 but from 10 to 16 is quite normal. Of course not all children who are big during the elementary school years mature early and end up average size. Some are just plain big people, usually with big parents. They mature closer to the average age and end up tall people.

A child who is different from those in his group sometimes becomes worried about himself. He thinks there is something wrong that makes him a spectacle. When both child and parents thoroughly understand that a little time will iron out the differences it is easier for the family to accept a year or two of being different, and by their calm attitude reassure the child.

Undeniably, Politics Is Involved

Most folks around Capitol Hill in Raleigh are pleased that reference to political activity of State Highway employes was deleted from legislation which will set up a more streamlined Highway Department in North Carolina.

Their argument for public consumption sounds logical. They say, in effect, the Highway Commission should not be put in a category by itself with special legislation prohibiting political activity by its employes. The other—and probably more decisive argument against the restriction on political activity was the back-stage sentiment that the Democratic Party in North Carolina might be damaging itself by writing in to the new Highway Commission bill a paragraph restricting political activity by highway officials and employes.

In the East, it wouldn't make any difference. Eastern Carolina is solidly Democratic and probably will remain that way. In the Piedmont and the West it's a different matter. Party leaders apparently feel the margin already is too close to take a chance on Republicans getting their feet any farther in the door.

It is folly to say the Highway Commission has clean skirts when it comes to political activity. More than any other department or agency of the state government it has the reputation for political activity on the part of officials and employes. And we can't believe it acquired such a reputation without reason.

It is likewise folly to assume the situation will be radically altered so long as the legislature is of the same temperament indicated by its decision to delete any reference to political activity in writing the new highway laws.

But we might move a step further in this matter we'll call "political expediency" of the Democratic Party in North Carolina. Years ago the overwhelmingly Democratic legislature outlawed the absentee ballot in its party primaries in North Carolina. Party leaders agreed it was a device too easily misused when the party was naming its candidates for office. Though it has been proposed time and again, the legislature has never seen fit to remove the absentee ballot from the general elections of the state.

There is also the matter of ballot markers which are provided for in election regulations of the state. These officials served a useful purpose years ago when a large portion of the voters were unable to read. But they serve little purpose today; unless, of course, it is to protect the interest of the party which appoints election officials.

In all of these things, many legislators would willingly support needed reform measures, except for the fact their colleagues from other geographic locations say quite frankly, "hold the line, boys, we need all the ammunition we've got."

As a matter of practical politics for the Democratic Party in North Carolina, we may delay the needed reforms too long for our own good.

Magazines Are Under A Cloud

By ELMER ROESSNER

More magazines may fold. The death of Collier's and the Woman's Home Companion has frightened bankers into tightening credit in this publishing field. Those magazines that need financing may have to tighten strings, merge or fold.

One new magazine may not bring out a third issue despite sensational sell-outs of the first two. The bankers simply will not carry it until it becomes entirely self-supporting.

And here are some more predictions, based on developing trends and a smattering of inside information:

Revolt against black is brewing. It has been a fashionable color for 10 years. Fashion merchandisers think it's high time for a change. So expect stylists to emphasize other colors.

BROADER MINIMUM WAGE

Expect wage minimums to be extended. The Administration has asked Congress to put 2,500 more workers, mostly in retail trade, under the $1-an-hour minimum. There's furious opposition from merchants, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and others. Congress is being told that the minimum will put many small stores out of business, or force them to lay off workers. But in the end after many compromises, a coalition of Administration Republicans and Liberal Democrats is likely to force some kind of extension—to take in perhaps a million employees.

Easier Federal housing terms are in the cards. The Administration is opposed to lowering down-payments and interest rates on Federal Housing Administration and GI loans, but Congress shows signs of backing. A large number of bills providing various easings have been introduced and, once again, a compromise may be in order to make home financing easier for vets and, perhaps, a few others.

NO CREDIT-CONTROL PLAN COMING

The Federal Reserve is not likely to recommend credit controls now. Its comprehensive survey of consumer credit is due in a week or two. The FED is likely to view some aspects with alarm, but in general it will find that the rise in credit is not as serious as it seems in view of higher prices and higher incomes, and that there is no crisis calling for controls at the moment.

No sharp coffee rise is in sight. The end of the dock strike eased the supply situation and production outlooks are, at the moment, fair. The recent declines at retail may be followed by others soon.

Watch paper. There was a lot of paper crying at the recent convention of the American Paper and Pulp Association. Speakers said the industry needed new markets. True, production has been stepped up but demand has, too. Most grades of paper are firm in price and most users will do well to buy ahead on dips.

You'll hear more about throw-aways. The glass industry has been losing out to cans in the retail beer market, so one big manufacturer is readying a big campaign for throw-away bottles. You'll be seeing many ads in newspapers and magazines as the weather warms up.

OLD PROMOTER CAUGHT PULLING A REPEAT

There was that old gleam in the Old Promoter's eye when he walked in today. Louder than words it said he had a new idea and was looking for a bit of financing.

"This will make our fortune!" he said, putting a small bottle on the desk. "These are Insay Drops. They have a concentrated gin flavor. People who don't like vodka can put a drop or two in their glass or bottle and enjoy real gin flavor."

"That's not a new idea!" we snapped. "Gin drops are as old as prohibition. Come to think of it, when you ran that cordial shop in Chicago back in 1928, didn't you carry a line of gin drops?"

The old fellow flushed slightly, slipped the bottle back into his pocket and shuffled out.

MORE TO COME

As long as the cost of labor in relation to the cost of machinery continues to increase, Professor Melman says, plant management will be compelled to search for and develop more labor saving machines, new short cuts in production methods and more efficient use of man-power, or be compelled to increase prices.

In that, he recognizes the limitations on increased efficiency. However, he seems to think that if labor is moderate in its demands, price rises can be avoided.

However, for lack of space, probably, he does not answer the question of whether sharply increased demands would not force increased mechanization of British industry, for example, with a resulting increase in productivity and a rise in living standards. Nor does he explain why we should all not cheer for higher wages for all production workers on the theory that when managers were no longer able to raise prices to meet payrolls, they would be compelled to devise methods for greater productivity, and thereby increase the standard of living. Neither does he explain why the substitution of machines for men has led to increased employment. Maybe he's saving that for a book.

In any case, Professor Melman's article is provocative, if not completely convincing.

Fights Avoided Inside Assembly

By LYNN NISBET

PROGRESS — The 1957 General Assembly has completed four full weeks. The extent of real accomplishment during that time is largely matter of opinion. A larger number than usual of local bills have been introduced, but the record of ratifications is about the same as two years ago.

The major administration-sponsored State reorganization bills are moving along toward enactment, but in every case commitments have added material amendments.

At least two anticipated hard fights were avoided by Governor Hodges receding from his original positions. Abandonment of the merit basis for pay increases and acceptance of a higher scale than recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission obviated any real fight on that score. There will still be some scrapping about the exact percentage raise and differential between teachers and other State employes.

Opinion prevails that the early yielding of the Governor on these points will shorten the session by two or three weeks.

HIGHWAYS — The matter of highway reorganization was expected to produce one of the bitterest fights in committee and on the floor. Here again amendments accepted by sponsors of the bill took the fight out, because they deleted the most objectionable features.

As the bill passed in the Senate, and is expected to get through the House in essentially the same form, it does very little except reduce the number of highway commissioners from fourteen to seven. The engineering divisions will be continued at fourteen, with division headquarters at the same places they have been for the past four years.

OBJECTIONS — Primary objections to the original bill were that it permitted all seven commissioners to be named from one territory as the special concern of one or more commissioners; for placing final authority in the full highway commission rather than in the director, and for deleting the special reference to political activity. Also there is requirement that the highway commission hold regular meetings in three different areas of the state.

Other requirements as to accounting and auditing procedure have been put into effect by the present commission.

Actually the new bill, which was originally written to give the Director of Highways a great deal of power, now leaves him with less authority than the present law confers upon the chairman. Result of these amendments and concessions is that the widely publicized reorganization bill actually effects less change in highway management than was accomplished by Governor Umstead when he increased instead of reduced the number of division commissioners.

TAXATION — The concessions made by the administration in the teacher pay and highway reorganization matters, suggests the probability of yielding on tax reform proposals. Such yielding would avoid another fight, and enhance prospects for an earlier adjournment.

Many legislators do not understand the details of the proposed tax formula and have not had satisfactory explanations. They insist only they cannot go back home if they give the big corporations $8 million tax relief and add it to the little folks. It appears that some legislators are not willing to buckle down to study the issue, preferring just to let existing conditions continue.

SCHOOLS — Rep. E. F. Yarborough of Franklin, veteran legislator and second time chairman of the House Committee of Education, is pleasantly surprised at the situation prevailing in his committee.

There have been no controversial measures affecting basic policy of the public school system. Several bills have been or will be introduced clarifying sections of the public school laws. The only basic item in prospect will be extending obligation of the public school system to care for the non-educable children, the mentally retarded who now come between the mental hospitals and the public schools. And that will be as much a problem for the appropriations committee as for Yarborough's group.

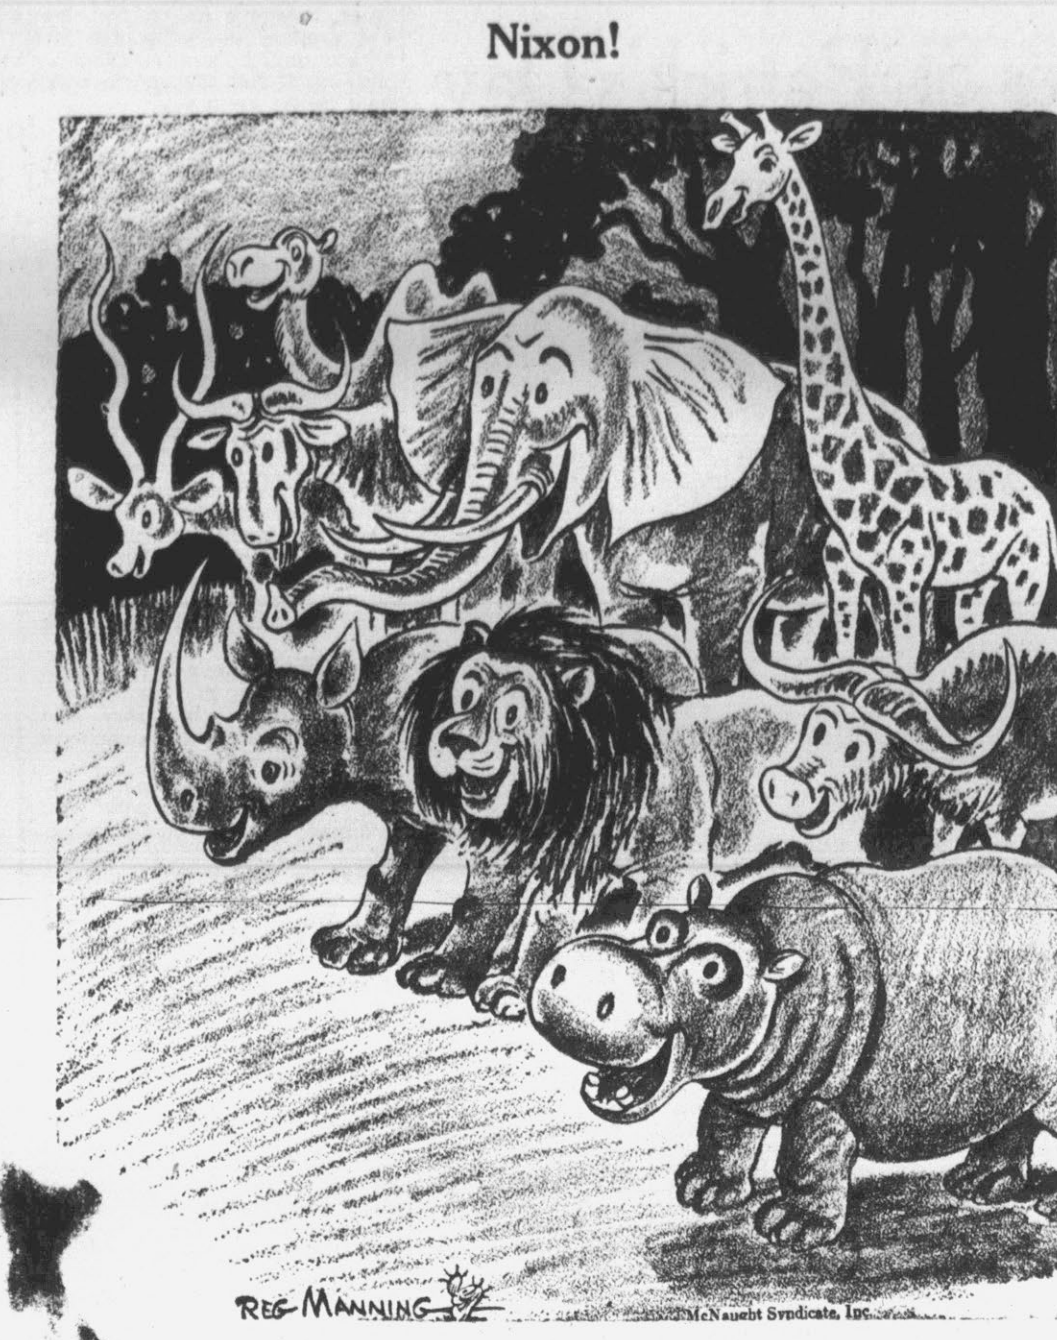

The biennial omnibus bill naming county boards of education had fewer changes by individual amendments than any similar bill in memory of oldtimers. Only two changes were suggested that were not due to typographic error, wrong initials or the death of a prospective member in some county.

"It looks like that except for salaries of teachers, the people are fairly well satisfied with the public schools," said Yarborough.

is over similar raises for packing house workers and members of non-operating railroad unions.

"Annual improvement" increases and hikes under the "escalator" clauses to keep pace with the cost of living should hold down labor unrest and avoid costly interruptions to production. And, too, improvements in industrial processes should make it possible for manufacturers to absorb at least part of the additions to production costs through deferred increases in wage rates. However, the ultimate protection against skyrocketing prices, lies, not in voluntary cooperation with Washington, but in recognition by management and labor, too, that there are limits beyond which prices cannot be raised—whatever the justification—without meeting resistance.

Automatic wage increase provisions of existing contracts are, to a great degree, cushioning the effect of cost-of-living gains for members of organized labor. They can render a service to the economic stability of the nation by not pressing now for further wage increases that would bring another round of price raises and send the spiral of inflation even higher.

Retailers' Own Check List

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Retailers nowadays seem to have two questions — where and why? If they would look at the stores where customers are going in and out all day, or follow the customers down the highways and see them going to other towns and cities, they would take a good look at their own business establishment, they would find the answer to "why."

In these days of clever advertising together with easy transportation, a customer thinks nothing of traveling miles for a good bargain.

EXAMINE YOUR STORE, YOUR STOCK, YOUR EMPLOYEES, AND YOUR ADVERTISING. Is your store neat and attractive? Can your merchandise be easily seen or is it so jumbled up that even you do not know where a specified item is? How well did you screen your employees before you hired them? Are you getting the most out of your advertising? Retailing today is very competitive; it is destined to be more so. Most retailers should wake up or go to work for some other concern.

CONDITION OF STORE

Walk into the store where the manager is too busy to stand around complaining about poor business. Notice his neatly displayed merchandise; he keeps his stock under control by periodic inventory. He knows what is not selling and therefore does not re-order blindly. Slow-selling items are displayed so as to attract attention. This man uses his "know-how" to make room for popular merchandise. He or his well-trained help know when to re-order certain items or when a line has been discontinued. His merchandise has been priced marked. This not only helps the customer, but also the manager and clerks who could not be expected to memorize the price of every item in the store.

PAY MORE MONEY TO FEWER EMPLOYEES

Mr. Manager, you would do well to screen your employees thoroughly. The question, "Can you use a cash register?" should not be sufficient. Make sure, at the beginning, that he or she will use it honestly, or you may find a small percent of your profit trickling out through the register. If you will observe your new employees closely, you will learn whether they are really interested in the work or whether the job is merely a stop-gap for them. Watch if they use your store to kill time by reading or talking to friends while waiting for pay day.

When you have thoroughly screened the applicants and found honest and efficient help, you will be able to pay such employees more money because you will need fewer clerks. Your well-paid employee is an asset to your business. From the customer's viewpoint, nothing is more irritating than to be given a discourteous or unintelligent answer. And since bad publicity travels farther and faster than good publicity, one unhappy customer can do a lot of harm. Your well-paid clerk who studies the stock and price-marks it will not let this happen.

USE MORE INTELLIGENT ADVERTISING

Advertising is very important because it has so many facets. A clean, well-arranged store with attractive window displays is good advertising — as is anything at all that causes people to mention your place favorably, such as friendly, courteous, efficient help. Material is frequently furnished with nationally advertised merchandise, but is too often ignored and put in a corner. Actually, such signs, placed to advantage, catch the eye and bring customers inside.

Do not resent the man in your line of business who is using every means of advertising. He realizes advertising is most important. Many of the ads have clever and unique ideas. You will find they have not used trickery, nor is there any "gimmick," but honest, clever "know-how." A new highway which may bypass many cities need not be a menace. It may be a booster. The retailer needs to WAKE UP.

SELECTING A LOCATION

Often the highest rent is the cheapest rent. The brightest retailer will get located as near as possible to an off-street parking lot. It also helps a small retailer to be close to a big store with a lot of customers. The best location for almost any retailer is adjoining a supermarket; the important thing is to get traffic into your store. It often pays to buy out some sleepy retailer who has a good location. If you have a good location, make a long lease; but if you have a poor location, lease only by the year.

Remember the words of our Lord, Jesus, "My heavenly father, worketh until now and I work." For 30 years he worked in a carpenter shop, and we can imagine that he was a good carpenter and a happy one. Then he went out to begin the most stupendous work humanity has ever witnessed because one end of it rested upon the earth and the other in heaven. And your work and mine has its earthly and heavenly aspects, if we only have eyes to see its true nature.

The principal factor in the life of practically everyone is the daily task to which he or she is committed. Some people drag through their work and it is distressing to see them. Because they cannot enjoy their work they can really not enjoy anything.

Our work should be one of the greatest sources of our joy. Thomas Edison once declared that he never did a day's work in his entire life—it was all play, he said. Dr. Edward Trudeau, who did much to marshal the forces of scientific medicine and treatment against the scourge of tuberculosis, wrote, "The struggle has brought me experiences and left me recollections which I would not exchange for the wealth of the Indies."

On 10 occasions, Congress has passed legislation to overcome what it regarded as the Supreme Court's misinterpretation of Federal statutes. Thus, as explanation of Southern jurists', legislators' and politicians' attitude, they think that they have good reason for not believing that the desegregation decision is sacrosanct or irrevocable.

WHAT MAY AFFECT JUDICIAL THINKING One of the unanticipated but practical byproducts that may affect judicial thinking, in the South's opinion, is New York City's current experiment in school desegregation. Similar movements are under consideration in Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit and other cities, with backing of Democratic groups.

Mayor Wagner's Board of Education has ordered a system of enforced mass migration of pupils in order to achieve a "racial balance" in the schools. It amounts to a form of racial and educational gerrymandering. The same migratory system will eventually be applied to teachers, transferring the more qualified and experienced from "good" to difficult schools and sections of the city.

In order to overcome geographical dislocations and residential limitations, colored children are transported 20 or more blocks in city-financed buses to what had been all white schools. In the past, the colored children walked only a few blocks to a school of their own. The same city crisscrossing scheme, of course, is imposed on white children.

DESEGREGATION IN NEW YORK CITY A master plan of racial and educational shifting has been prepared for the five boroughs, and will go into effect in 1959. Principal sponsors for relocation were the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Urban League, Americans for Democratic Action, civic and religious groups.

At San Francisco last year, the NAACP adopted a resolution demanding nationwide application of the Wagner program. In New York the revolutionary rearrangement was opposed by the High School Teachers' association.

Samuel M. Levenson, radio-TV humorist and Assistant Superintendent of Schools, explains the effect of the operation:

"One hundred high school in my three districts was almost entirely Negro last year, and now it's a 50-50 racial composition. In another junior high school, white students were brought in from a mile or so away to prevent it from becoming 100 per cent Negro."

HIGH TRIBUNAL MAY FACE TOUGH PROBLEM The Supreme Court will face a difficult problem if, as expected, New York's use of the Desegregation decision is challenged judicially. An extremely able judge and Hoover nominee for the Supreme Court, John J. Parker of Richmond, has said that the Warren ruling did not sanction wholesale desegregation on the Wagner pattern. In his opinion, it merely declared against discrimination.

Thus, the nine young-old men may be called upon to test the Stennis theory, that changing conditions make for changing courts.

Baked Way To Fortune

By HAL BOYLE

NORWALK, Conn. (AP) — Mrs. Margaret Rudkin, a self-baked millionaire, has a simple answer to the problem of the world's most frustrated woman — the middle-aged American housewife.

"Start your own business," she says.

"Women ought to have more courage about going into business for themselves. A woman is under no particular handicap. In some fields — the food field in particular — she has a distinct advantage."

Mrs. Rudkin, now one of the nation's best known businesswomen, became a success because 20 years ago she kneaded some dough — and kept kneading more and more of it.

Doing the unexpected has been characteristic of her all her life. As a young girl — blue-eyed, freckled-faced, red-haired — Margaret Fogarty dreamed of becoming a famous newspaperwoman.

"I wanted to become another Nelly Bly, and travel around the world writing about its wonders," she recalled.

Instead, after studying journalism and finance at Columbia University, she wound up in Wall Street selling stocks and bonds. Then a stock-broker, Henry Rudkin, sold her on another proposition — marriage.

In 1937 Mrs. Rudkin, by then installed in a big stone manor house on a 300-acre estate near here, had become just another in the legion of suburban housewives, busy caring for her husband and three sons. Her business career seemed over.

One night she baked some whole-wheat bread by an old recipe and a guest remarked, "it's so good you ought to market it."

Mrs. Rudkin went into her kitchen a few days later, got out her baby scales to weight the dough, and began baking bread. She stoted the first loaf in a basket to a grocery store, which agreed to stock it.

But the project seemed hopeless. Times were still bad. "A 20-ounce loaf of bread then was selling for a dime," said Mrs. Rudkin. "I had to charge a quarter for a 22-ounce loaf."

But her stone-ground whole-wheat bread, named after the Rudkin estate, "Pepperidge Farm," caught on quickly. She moved from the kitchen to the barn, set up machinery, hired neighbor women to help her, and by the end of the year was turning out 4,000 loaves a week.

In the last two decades Mrs. Rudkin — joined in the enterprise by her financier husband and two of her sons — has baked nearly a billion loaves, enough to provide a ham sandwich for every person on earth — if they had the ham.

Today the firm market's several kinds of bread, rolls and cookies. It has seven plants, 500 employes, world-wide distribution, and will do a business this year of over $15,000,000.

At an age when her own grandmother was content to sit in a rocker, Mrs. Rudkin, who has four grandchildren, still guides company policy, knows where practically every loaf goes. She also finds time to collect art, decorate a new estate the family has bought in Ireland, and help employees with their personal problems.

"She feels any middle-aged woman with initiative can make a success in business today."

"It is perhaps a mistake for a mother with very young children to try to combine a career and marriage — unless she is an exceptional person and has a cooperative husband," she said.

"But often, I think, it is a mistake for a middle-aged woman not to go into business for herself."

"She will find the qualities needed by a good housewife are the same as those demanded by a business in the food field. And any woman who has brought up a family of kids should know how to get along with people, and handle personnel."

"Is business life too difficult for a housewife? No, I don't think so. It takes a bit of doing, but as the old Irish saying goes, 'God broadens the back to bear the burden.' Certainly in the last 20 years he's broadened mine."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

TRUE NATURE OF OUR WORK How does your work affect you? Is it a pleasure or something that is always on your back? Does it make you watch the clock and long for the day when you can retire and be through with it?

Our work should be one of the greatest sources of our joy. Thomas Edison once declared that he never did a day's work in his entire life—it was all play, he said. Dr. Edward Trudeau, who did much to marshal the forces of scientific medicine and treatment against the scourge of tuberculosis, wrote, "The struggle has brought me experiences and left me recollections which I would not exchange for the wealth of the Indies."

On 10 occasions, Congress has passed legislation to overcome what it regarded as the Supreme Court's misinterpretation of Federal statutes. Thus, as explanation of Southern jurists', legislators' and politicians' attitude, they think that they have good reason for not believing that the desegregation decision is sacrosanct or irrevocable.

WHAT MAY AFFECT JUDICIAL THINKING One of the unanticipated but practical byproducts that may affect judicial thinking, in the South's opinion, is New York City's current experiment in school desegregation. Similar movements are under consideration in Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit and other cities, with backing of Democratic groups.

Mayor Wagner's Board of Education has ordered a system of enforced mass migration of pupils in order to achieve a "racial balance" in the schools. It amounts to a form of racial and educational gerrymandering. The same migratory system will eventually be applied to teachers, transferring the more qualified and experienced from "good" to difficult schools and sections of the city.

In order to overcome geographical dislocations and residential limitations, colored children are transported 20 or more blocks in city-financed buses to what had been all white schools. In the past, the colored children walked only a few blocks to a school of their own. The same city crisscrossing scheme, of course, is imposed on white children.

DESEGREGATION IN NEW YORK CITY A master plan of racial and educational shifting has been prepared for the five boroughs, and will go into effect in 1959. Principal sponsors for relocation were the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Urban League, Americans for Democratic Action, civic and religious groups.

At San Francisco last year, the NAACP adopted a resolution demanding nationwide application of the Wagner program. In New York the revolutionary rearrangement was opposed by the High School Teachers' association.

Samuel M. Levenson, radio-TV humorist and Assistant Superintendent of Schools, explains the effect of the operation:

"One hundred high school in my three districts was almost entirely Negro last year, and now it's a 50-50 racial composition. In another junior high school, white students were brought in from a mile or so away to prevent it from becoming 100 per cent Negro."

Opinions In Brief

CARLSBAD, N. M. CURRENT-ARGUS: "The law, which went into effect in September, 1954, makes espionage in peacetime punishable by death, as well as during wartime. . . . Conviction and sentencing of more people who would overthrow the U. S. Government, or contribute to its downfall, might deter others with the same ideas."

Doctor With Inoperable Cancer Has Word For General Practitioners

By EVERETT S. ALLEN
 NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—"Illness forces me to discontinue the practice of medicine. I regret to leave my most enjoyable work."
 It was Dr. Phillip F. Fortin, general practitioner, speaking. A fellow doctor had just confirmed his own diagnosis. He had cancer, a primary inoperable cancer of the liver.

"I have time for reflecting, for philosophizing, for placing in order those things which always require doing in anyone's busy life."
 "I also have an opportunity to extend a few encouraging remarks to the other fellow, who may now or tomorrow be experiencing something similar."
 Dr. Fortin has spent 24 of his 50 years as a general practitioner, so it is only natural that most of his reflections concern the family doctor, the general practitioner he calls "the vanishing American."

He recalls that in the initial stages of his illness he experienced certain symptoms reminiscent of the grippe. His theory: cancer may be caused by a virus. The same thoughts are being entertained in other research fields.
 Dr. Fortin feels two rules are essential for a general practitioner. One: "People don't get hurt or sick by choice, nor at the doctor's convenience. Doctors can't work union hours."
 The other: "Before you can treat patients, you have to know who they are. I sit down and talk with them, find out what makes them laugh, cry or fear."
 And, of course, he is aided in his illness by his personal philosophy, accumulated over the years. He spells it out like this: "It is not the experience of today that drives men mad. It is rather the remorse or bitterness for something that happened yesterday and the fear and apprehension of what might happen tomorrow. Let us therefore live but one day at a time."

Students Learn Taxation Data

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—High school students at nearby Gouster know the local school system uses the tax money their parents pay.
 An all-student finance committee has a voice in the control of school finances, periodically examines records, and at least once a month reconciles school funds with bank statements.

LITTLE SUCCESS
 HARRAH, Okla. (AP)—Some 350 armed men staged a huge wolf-coyote hunt after farmers reported heavy livestock losses to the animals. Their total bag: one owl and three jackrabbits.

"The future of the medical profession," he says, "rests not in the production of more doctors but in the production of more general practitioners, dedicated to the profession, who will be given full privileges in hospitals, according to their ability, training and results, with no artificial barriers."
 He believes some hospitals have erected these "artificial barriers" against the GP with regulations that require the general practitioner to call in a consultant specialist because certain arbitrarily selected circumstances exist and not necessarily because the GP feels the need of doing so.
 "At the hospital, the specialist increasingly is taking over more and more phases of patient care. But as soon as the patient leaves the hospital, or very soon after, the family doctor must take over again."
 "The family doctor knows, or should know, all of those non-medical facts which make this patient different from any other and the knowledge of which is so vital in bringing about quick and complete recovery."
 Because isotopes now being developed might conceivably assist his condition, Dr. Fortin chooses to regard himself as being on an extended vacation.
 As a physician, he naturally takes a keen interest in his own case. In recent months, he's read extensively about cancer. He's even formulating a theory about the disease.

Ayden Gains District 1 Finals; Then 'Disqualified'

Coach Appealing Technicality Rule

Ayden's Tornados, after working their way into the finals of the Class A District 1 playoffs at Williamston last week, were disqualified Saturday.

Williamston, a club beaten in the semi-finals by Ayden, went on to capture the district crown in the confusion.

Ayden was disqualified because of playing more games during the tournament week than are allowed by the high school authorities. According to reports, there is a high school law which prohibits a team from playing more than three games during the week of a playoff. Ayden battled Bethel Monday night of last week to determine which of the two teams were to represent the Pitt County Conference in the District 1 playoffs. Then Ayden went on to defeat Perquimans and Williamston in the District 1 action and was set to go into the final game—which would have made four contests that week.

For Ayden fans and players alike, it was a bitter disappointment. Ayden pulled in second in regular-season play in the conference with an 11-2 mark and was not expected to give rugged Bethel much of a battle for the Pitt County crown. But Coach Stuart Tripp's boys breezed through the tournament, topping three clubs, including Bethel. Then they downed the Bethel crew again Monday night to make it official. It was that Monday night game that caused all the trouble.

In the District 1 tourney, Ayden turned back a highly-rated Perquimans club 71-45 to establish themselves as one of the strongest teams in the Williamston playoffs. They then dropped Williamston 63-51 to work into the finals. According to comparative scores and action in the tourney, Ayden was by far the most powerful outfit enrolled in the District 1 play, and would have had a better chance than any of the others in this area to represent the District 1 in the State A playoffs.

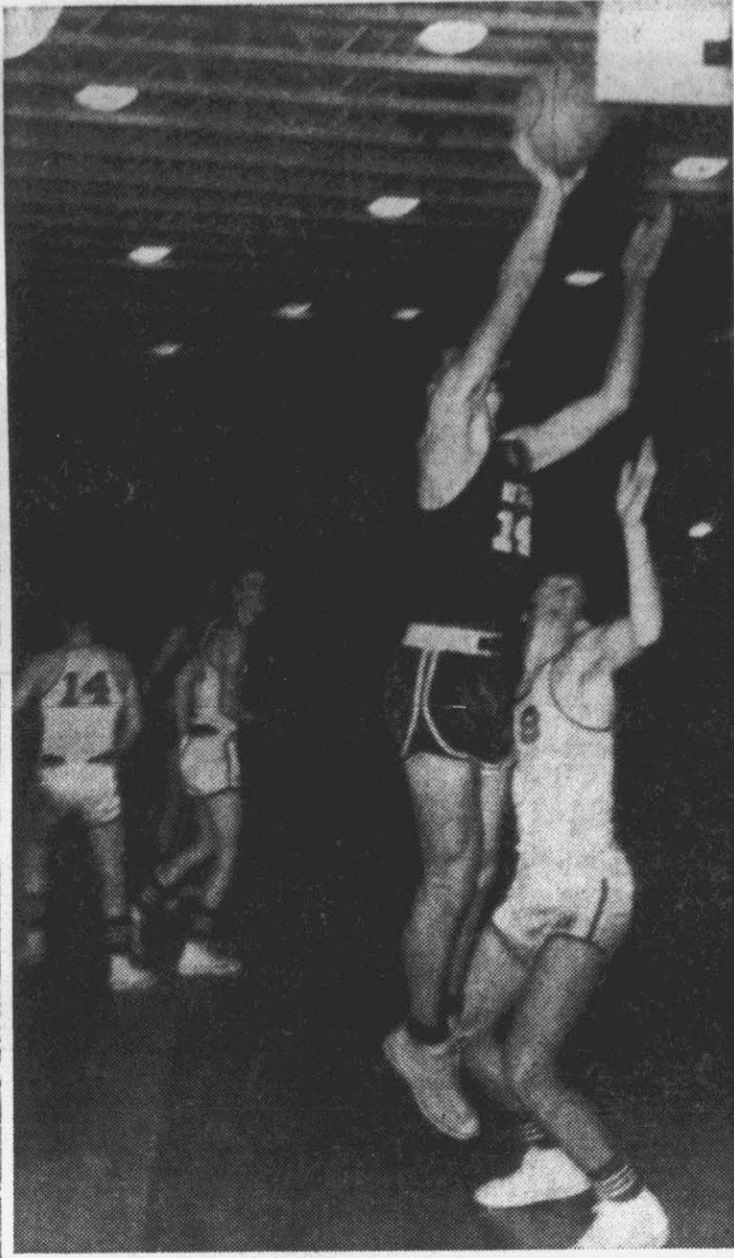

Appeal

Coach Tripp stated this morning that Ayden is "appealing to the State Committee about the disqualification." A decision from the State Committee is expected sometime today or tomorrow.

As Tripp puts it, "The District 1 committee asked us (Bethel and Ayden) to play off our tie at the end of the Pitt County Tournament to decide which team would represent our conference in the District 1 play at Williamston. Now, they disqualify us for playing that game." The same District 1 committee that requested that Monday night playoff game be played, was the one that disqualified Ayden for playing it.

"Actually," Tripp continued, "we had no choice but to play it. Besides the fact that the committee asked us to play it off, the Pitt County Conference rules state that such a tie must be played off."

Tripp closed the subject with the statement that "It seems a shame to me that a team that has already been beaten would represent the District 1 in the state playoffs."

TRIPP DUMPS ONE—Ayden's Burt Tripp (14) is shown dumping in a basket against Williamston Friday night in the District 1 playoffs at Williamston. Ayden won, 63-51, and went to the finals, but has been disqualified because of a technicality. The disqualification has been appealed by Ayden. (Photo by Dave Gagnon).

Bragan Regards Giants 'Worst Team' In Game

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Bobby Bragan said today the one team his Pittsburgh Pirates are sure to beat out is the New York Giants although they have the outstanding player in the country.

"Willie Mays in my book, is the greatest ball player in the game today and the Giants the worst team," the outspoken Pittsburgh pilot said. "I don't know about Washington, Baltimore and Kansas City, but in our league the Giants will finish eighth."

Bragan, who predicted a fourth or a fifth place finish for his own team, added:

"I don't know how the Giants can go into the race the way they are. They just barely managed to beat us out by one game last season and they haven't done anything to improve themselves. Uncle Sam took Bill White and Jackie Brandt, their two best young players, and now they've been hit hard by what happened to Bill Sarni (the Giants' first-string catcher is recovering from a heart attack)."

Shantz Shines For Three-Inning Stint

By JOHN CHANDLER
The Associated Press

Three innings isn't much to crow about, but Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees may have helped himself to some pitching help when he gambled on taking little Bobby Shantz for the Kansas City Athletics in a 13-player deal Feb. 19.

The 31-year-old left-hander, who has won only 13 ball games in the last four seasons after his great 24-7 season with the A's in Philadelphia in 1952, looked like the Shantz of old yesterday at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Bobby, who has suffered a variety of ailments, bumps, bruises and broken bones since 1952, pitched the middle three innings of the Yankees exhibition with the St. Louis Cardinals. New York won 9-6.

Pitching scoreless ball, Shantz held the Cardinal regulars to a pair of singles by Ken Boyer and Stan Musial, walked one batter and fanned two. He retired eight of the last nine.

Baltimore shut out the Chicago Cubs at Scottsdale, Ariz., 6-0, with nifty two-hit pitching by Don Ferrarese, Billy O'Dell and Mike Forticles.

The Pirates made it two straight over the Philadelphia Phillies, winning at Fort Myers, Fla., 7-4. Hank Folles got four hits, Bill Mazeroski had three, and Dick Stuart slammed a homer to account for 8 of the 13 Pittsburgh hits.

At Sarasota, Fla., big Jim Lemon's second homer in two days got the Senators off to a four-run spurge in the second inning as Washington defeated the Boston Red Sox 4-1.

Even Without Rosenbluth, UNC Is Looking To Good Season Next Year

All-Star Cagers To Give Answer

Fans interested in seeing how East Carolina College cagers might stack up against major collegiate competition might get an indirect but definite answer Wednesday night at Memorial Gymnasium.

The North Carolina State All-Stars, a group of former Big Four college performers now turned professional, will tangle with a crew of locals known as the Greenville All-Stars. But most of the Greenville club will be made up of East Carolina College basketball players—past and present.

Since the contest is to be a benefit affair, none of the East Carolina boys who still have play-

By KEN ALYTA
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—It may not have another unbeaten campaign next season, but the University of North Carolina basketball team is going to be hard to handle, even with the loss of All-America Lennie Rosenbluth.

The 6-5 New York native who now lives in Greenville, Tenn., is the only senior starter on Coach Frank McGuire's team that heads into Eastern NCAA regional play against Yale in New York tomorrow night.

Rosenbluth had a record-breaking spree climaxed by Saturday night's 95-75 victory over South Carolina in the finals of the Atlantic Coast Conference championship tournament. As the Tar Heels enhanced their position as the nation's No. 1 team by winning their 27th consecutive game, Rosenbluth pumped in 38 points to bring his three-game tournament total to 106. That was 27 over the old mark, set last year by Vic Molodet of North Carolina State.

But look at what McGuire has left to work with next season: center Joe Quigg, 6-9; guards Tommy Kearns, the "little man," a muscular 5-11, 188-pounder, and Bob Cunningham, 6-4, and forward Pete Brennan, 6-6.

All are juniors from the New York-New Jersey area. They pack weight between 190-205 pounds each, can score and do a terrific job on the boards.

In addition, McGuire has two or three members of the current freshman cast who'll be pushing the holdovers for their jobs.

"Frankly, I'd set 18 victories in the 24-game regular season as my goal," McGuire reflected last night. "I thought if we did that it would be a good year."

He noted that only eight games were won at home and seven here at the Reynolds Coliseum court of North Carolina State—one against State, three in the ACC tournament and three in the Dixie Classic.

In this, his fifth season at North Carolina since leaving St. John's, McGuire has done what he came south for. "I wanted to win the conference title—be the best at home," he explained. "That's quite an accomplishment in a conference this strong. I told the boys before the semifinal game that they had done all they could for me, that now they were playing for themselves."

South Carolina, which had cut down Duke and Maryland, the third and second-seeded teams in its first two games, couldn't get going in the finals. The Tar Heels scored the first eight points and, after leading 23-19, they ran up 23 points in a row as the Gamecocks went seven minutes without a point. That made it 50-23 at the half and sewed it up.

Again backboard strength helped turn the tide. North Carolina grabbed 61 to 45 for the opposition. In three tournament games the Tar Heels outboarded the opposition by 55. They hit 48 per cent of their basket attempts in the final as Brennan threw in 22 points and gathered in 19 rebounds. Quigg had 18 points and 15 rebounds. Rosenbluth collected 13 off the boards, and Cunningham, who McGuire says is the "guts" of the team, had seven rebounds and nine assists.

That overall ability and class was just too much for South Carolina whose chief weapon was Grady Wallace. He brought his season average to 31.24, tops among the nation's major schools, with 28 points to also break the old tournament total with 100 points. His 29-game total of 906 is a new ACC mark.

The 48,600 tournament crowd also was a new high.

Rosenbluth and Wallace were unanimous choices for the all-tournament team selected by 47 members of the Atlantic Coast Sportswriters Assn. covering the event. Rounding out the first team were Jack Williams, Wake Forest, Jackie Murdock, Wake Forest, and Pete Brennan, North Carolina.

The rest of the North Carolina starting five — Tommy Kearns, Joe Quigg and Bob Cunningham—made the second unit, along with John Nacincik of Maryland and Ray Pericola of South Carolina. The coach and player of the year in the ACC will be announced later.

Terps Dominate ACC Wrestling

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Maryland won in seven of 10 finals events of the Atlantic Coast Conference wrestling tournament Saturday for a fourth straight championship.

The Terps piled up 107 points to 52 for host Virginia. Duke had 44, North Carolina 33, North Carolina State 18 and Wake Forest 8. Clemson and South Carolina did not compete.

Duke's Harold McElhaney registered a pin in the 191-pound final to defend his title in that class.

All-American's Favor Kansans

By TED MEIER
NEW YORK (AP)—"We'll have to go with the Stilt there."

In those words little Chet Forte of Columbia and Gary Thompson of Iowa State picked the University of Kansas to win the NCAA basketball championship tournament opening this week.

The two All Americas whose teams did not qualify for the tourney referred to Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, the 7-foot sophomore who led Kansas to the Big Seven title.

Chamberlain, along with Forte and Thompson and the other two members of the 1957 All America, Lennie Rosenbluth of North Carolina's undefeated Atlantic Coast Conference champions and "Hot Rod" Hundley of West Virginia's Southern Conference champs were honored last night on Ed Sullivan's CBS nationally televised show.

They later were presented their All America certificates by the Associated Press.

Rosenbluth and Hundley, of course, felt their own teams could go all the way although they pointed out they expected a tough time tomorrow in Madison Square Garden. North Carolina is pitted against Yale of the Ivy League and West Virginia meets Canisius. If the Tar Heels and Mountaineers win Tuesday one of them is bound to be eliminated since they would meet in the next round.

Chamberlain, who scored 40 points against Colorado Saturday night, was concerned with Southern Methodist, champions of the Southwest Conference, the team Kansas first meets in the tourney. They play Friday night at Dallas.

ing time left at the school will lose their eligibility, according to game publicity chairman Ford McGowan. Four boys from the 1956-57 Pirate aggregation will participate in the game. Three of them will be back next season to work under Coach Howard Porter.

Of the four, only Don Harris was a senior this year. The other three, Guy Mendenhall, Nick Nichols and Ike Riddick played plenty of ball this year and will return again for more collegiate competition.

Also working with the Greenville club will be East Carolina's greatest former star, Sonny Russell. Many fans in this area remember Russell as the fancy-shooting young man who led East Carolina to a North State title in 1952-53 and helped launch the 50-game winning streak in Memorial Gymnasium. Russell's jersey has been retired by the school and the big number 14 will never be used by another ECC player. He is generally regarded as an all-time Pirate great.

Hal Stout and Smith Worthington, who were high school standouts, will also work with the Greenville All-Stars. Other Greenville residents on the team are Charlie Robertson, Brownie Tripp, Dan Gordon, Bobby Coggins and Gene Tripp.

The State All-Stars will bring a group of players here that will well represent the Big Four. From State College, it is reported that there will be Bobby Speight, Phil DeNardo, Vic Molodet and Ronnie Shavlik and possibly Sam Ranziro. Also performing with the team in past games have been Wake Forest's Lefty Davis and Duke's Joe Belmont.

The State group has notched 23 victories this year, including a recent 90-77 win over a group of Atlantic Christian All-Stars.

Game time Wednesday night is 8:15.

Tickets for the event are on sale at Biggs Drug Store, Beddingfield's and Kares Restaurant. They may also be obtained by calling either the ECC athletic director's office or Greenville high school.

College Opens Again Under New Leadership

ALCORN, Miss. (AP) — Alcorn A&M College opened under a new administration today to receive students seeking readmission after a weeklong boycott at the all-Negro state institution.

The new president, J. D. Boyd, reopened the dining hall and dormitories over the weekend. He was given power by the State College Board to decide which students defied a board directive to return to class. These were ordered expelled.

In doubt was the status of Clendon King, the history professor whose newspaper articles touched off the student rebellion resulting in the firing of Dr. J. R. Otis as president.

Both Boyd and H. G. Carpenter of Rolling Fork, president of the all-white State College Board, denied King had been dismissed. King, however, said at his home in Hazlehurst he didn't plan to return because Boyd had fired him effective today.

King, 36-year-old minister of the Wesley (Methodist) Chapel in Hazlehurst, wrote a series of articles in the Jackson State Times. He criticized the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People for having done nothing locally for the Southern Negro.

King, who wrote that the Negro as well as the white needed to learn tolerance, said he doubted the boycott was spontaneous and suggested NAACP "moved in and spread confusion."

Otis said Saturday he thought as many as 85 students had sought readmission. He said 489 of the 561 students had signed withdrawal slips, but a number had asked to retract the action.

In New York, NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins sent a telegram to the president of the Alcorn student council saying "we deplore" any pressure which denies King free speech on integration.

"We believe King is mistaken but under our system of government any person has a constitutional right to express his opinion on any issue," Wilkins said. "We demand this right for ourselves and we must protect it for others."

Big Dam Closes To Begin Building Power Reservoir

THE DALLES, Ore. (AP) — The huge, government-built The Dalles Dam choked off the Columbia River for 4 1/2 hours yesterday to create a reservoir that eventually will add more than a million kilowatts to the nation's power.

Gates were closed and water piled up 60 feet deep before splashing over onto spillways. More gates will be closed next weekend to make the reservoir 25 feet deeper.

Almost no one downstream noticed the mighty river was throttled, because Bonneville Dam, below The Dalles, regulated its water release to keep downstream flow normal.

Power production will begin at the 260-million-dollar dam in November. At first it will be 156,000 kilowatts. By 1960 it will reach its planned 1,092,000 kilowatts.

The potential — if other generators are added later — is 1,716,000 kilowatts. That would make it second in the nation only to Grand Coulee Dam, another in the series of government dams in the Columbia Basin. Grand Coulee produces 1,974,000 kilowatts.

Old N.C. Mines Have Ore, But Said Inadequate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The old gold mines of Union and Cabarrus counties in North Carolina contain some copper, lead and zinc — but not enough to make mining worthwhile.

That's the conclusion of A. L. Peyton, U.S. Bureau of Mines engineer at Norris, Tenn., after he sank six test shafts in northwestern Union County and southeastern Cabarrus.

Peyton said analysis of 20 samples showed deposits of less than 0.1 per cent of copper, lead and zinc.

Peyton's investigation of the old mining areas began late in 1952 and was completed in June, 1954. His report was released yesterday.

The gold mining ventures in that area of North Carolina began as early as 1760 and continued through the 1890s.

Will Be Briefed On Flood Relief

RALEIGH (AP) — Congressional action last year to provide a federal flood insurance program will be discussed at a governors' conference here Friday.

The speaker will be Albert M. Cole, administrator of Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency. Gov. Luther Hodges has invited governors of 16 Southern states to participate in the conference. It is being held to determine procedures necessary for states to qualify for the federal program.

Another speaker will be Frank J. Meistril, in charge of administration of the program. His topic will be "The Federal Flood Indemnity Act."

Airliner Bounces, Flips Over On Back In Crash Landing; 31 Escape Serious Injury

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Thirty-one persons escaped serious injury yesterday when an Eastern Airlines plane touched a Standiford Field runway, bounced 50 feet into the air, flipped over, then skidded 100 feet on its back. Only one person, William A. Brown, 61, Birmingham, Ala., was hospitalized. Six others were treated for minor cuts and bruises and released.

One passenger, Andrew F. Andler, Chicago, said the twin-engine Martin 404 came down hard, bounced and then veered toward a muddy field.

"The next thing I knew, we were upside down with a lot of runway going by in a hurry. Then we stopped. That's about all."

"The plane's fuselage was battered but intact; the left wing ripped off. Fragments were strewn over a 150-foot area. The cause was still unknown. The three crew members refused to comment and a Civil Aeronautics Board was investigating.

Capt. C. G. Chambers of Chicago, the pilot, said: "We were coming in on Runway 6. That's the way it was."

Several passengers noted what they called a steep glide before touching ground.

Said Maj. Donald Ferris, Las Vegas, Nev., an Air Force jet pilot: "The plane was lined up on a good approach at a steep approach angle."

Saturday Farce Again Displayed By Legislators

By LYNN NISBET
 The Reflector Bureau

RALEIGH — The farce of the Saturday legislative sessions was demonstrated again, when only two members showed up in the Senate and three in the House.

The House passed one little local bill and called it a day.

The Senate had no calendar action, no bills received or acted upon, but stayed in session about five minutes longer than the House.

Reason: Sen. Ed Lanier of Orange, only man on the floor of the declined to move approval of the journal because he had not read it or heard it read, and suggested approval be postponed until Monday night. Sen. James Poyner of Wake, who was presiding, ruled that approval was necessary that day.

Principal Clerk Ray Byerly read the journal in its entirety, whereupon Sen. Lanier moved for its approval as read. Lanier also made the motion to adjourn, after congratulating Governor Luther Hodges upon his 50th birthday.

At close of business Saturday the Legislature had received a total of 286 bills, 102 in the Senate and 184 in the House. This compared with 271 bills to the same period two years ago—106 in the Senate and 165 in the House.

Eleven Senate bills and 26 House bills have been enacted and ratified this year.

Police Salvage Roast In Oven

CHICAGO (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. John B. Cramer were about to sit down to dinner with friends when Mrs. Cramer remembered — she had left a roast cooking in the oven.

Cramer called police.

Sgt. James Brady dispatched two men who smashed a window to enter the locked apartment. The officers opened the oven and removed a scorched roast which was smoking heavily.

The policemen found some board, a hammer and nails and efficiently secured the shattered window opening against possible thieves.

Faces Bad Check Charges By FBI

CHARLOTTE (AP) — John Milton Lord, 37, charged by the FBI with interstate transportation of fraudulent checks, will face trial here in U.S. District Court.

Ray J. Abbatichio, special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI office, announced Saturday that Lord was arrested in Clearwater, S.C. After arraignment before a U.S. commissioner in Augusta, Ga., Lord was placed under $10,000 bond.

The FBI said Lord was charged with interstate transportation of fraudulent checks from Miami Beach, Fla., to Charlotte, and with cashing one of the checks for $859.44, drawn on the L. O. Chapman Co. here.

Lord, married and the father of four children, previously lived in Winston-Salem and Greensboro.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Second Lieutenant Emil Schwabacker was on edge. He'd had a year of inaction with the Cavalry at Fort Laramie, Wyoming. A year of waiting, a year of one dreary patrol after another. He felt pent up under the infallibly exacting, coldly reserved, First Lieutenant Temple Jocelyn. Even the thought of his fiancée, Henrietta, was not consoling, for she was back in Vermont, a painful memory.

But this patrol upon which he rode promised to be different. A company of infantry had been sent to reinforce Fort Faramie. Jocelyn's troop had been ordered to rendezvous with the company at Ryndlee's ranch. Jocelyn was keeping his counsel, as usual, but with the hostilities appearing likely at last.

CHAPTER 2

Second Lieutenant Emil Schwabacker stood silent. Then his eyes lifted to the stony face of First Lieutenant Temple Jocelyn. "Sir," said Schwabacker, "if the bugler's call attracts the hostiles, do you mean to engage them?"

"Engage them, Mr. Schwabacker? I'd like nothing better, but my orders are firm: there will be no engagement unless we are attacked." He nodded slightly for Schwabacker to join him and walked a hundred yards in advance of the halted troop. Around them were many scuffs in the earth, and when Jocelyn pointed them out, Emil Schwabacker flayed himself for not noticing them. Somehow he felt that his lack of observation was a mark against him.

"Two shod ponies, Mr. Schwabacker. Do you attach any significance to that?"

"Army mounts, sir. Probably stolen."

Jocelyn waved his hand toward the distant smudge of land and sky. "There's out there, Mr. Schwabacker, and after a year of this cat-and-mouse game, I think I'd enjoy closing with them."

"We're only in troop strength, sir. There's no telling how large a force is out . . ."

"I'm familiar with the situation," Jocelyn interrupted. "My orders

ped it in his pocket. "Return to the point, Corporal, and keep your eyes open. We've been trailing a war party all afternoon and it would be uncomfortable if we got too close."

Kykundahl went on, and when darkness began to close in, Jocelyn signal a halt and they made a cold camp. To Sergeant Finnegan he said, "Picket, please, Sean, and I think a ground rope will do. Guard mounting in fifteen minutes and there'll be no squad fires."

Finnegan wheeled to his duties. Jocelyn spoke to Lieutenant Schwabacker. "I'd like to break camp around midnight, but before I go I want some brush fires started. If you dig up the dead stuff I believe it'll burn an hour. We'll need that much time."

"Time, sir?"

"Mr. Schwabacker, remember that when an officer finds himself outnumbered, he can do one of two things: retreat or call upon his originality." His smile softened his criticism. "Perhaps you observed me picking up objects this afternoon?"

"No, sir, I did not."

From beneath his poncho, Jocelyn produced a hardwood stick eight inches long. There were forty notches cut into two sides, and when he scraped it against his belt buckle it sounded like an alarmed rattle. "Rattlesnake stick," he said. "Cheyenne, and of the Elk Warrior society, if I'm not mistaken." He turned and called to Sergeant Finnegan. When he came up, Jocelyn produced another trophy, the feathered end of a broken arrow. "Sean, you're a good man when it comes to Indians. Who does this belong to?"

Finnegan inspected the arrow, then said, "Sioux, sir."

"I picked that up less than a mile from the rattlesnake stick, and along the same line of march," Jocelyn said.

This caused a frown to corrugate Finnegan's forehead. "Cheyenne and Sioux together, sir?" He shrugged. "Possible, but up to now the Cheyenne's been stayin' out of Red Cloud's trouble."

Schwabacker stirred. "May I speak, sir?" Jocelyn nodded. "Sir, the tracks have been thinning out. The party we trail now is less than a quarter of the size it was this noon. I suspect a trick, sir."

"Ah," Jocelyn said. "Explain yourself, Mr. Schwabacker. I'm always interested in theories."

"I ought to know better. He's done this to me enough times, pulled me in so he could show up my ignorance . . . It's not the Indians habit to leave such a defined trail, sir. I'd say we were being circled, sir."

"Very commendable," Jocelyn said in a voice that told Schwabacker nothing. That was Jocelyn's way, to leave a man wondering whether he was being laughed at or congratulated. Jocelyn looked around at the bivouac. Night was a blanket and the troopers were only vague shapes beneath their ponchos. "Perhaps this patrol will prove interesting after all. Now get some rest, Mr. Schwabacker. We have a long night ride ahead of us."

Schwabacker turned away. Corporal Kykundahl had his blankets and waterproof tarp spread and Schwabacker said, "I guess I'll never be able to tell whether he's at me or not."

Kykundahl looked up quickly. "The lieutenant? He keeps his own counsel."

"It's his formality that gets me," Schwabacker said. "I'm an officer the same as he is, but he never calls me anything but 'mister.' He calls Finnegan by his first name, but I just can't get through to the man."

"Takes time, sir," Kykundahl said softly. "The lieutenant's got his problems, sir. Finnegan's been with him for years. That makes the difference."

"How long have you been with him, Corporal?"

"Five years, sir."

"That's a long time to wait for a man to shake your hand," Schwabacker said.

"Aye, sir, but it's worth it where Lieutenant Jocelyn's concerned. He's a fine officer, sir."

"I know that," Schwabacker said, impatiently trying to make his point. "But I don't know him, Corporal. If someone asked me about him, what could I say?"

"That he's a fine officer," Kykundahl said. "That's all he wants you to say now, sir. A few years back it'd have been different, but not now."

"What do you know of him?" Kykundahl shrugged. "That he was married. Had a son. His wife left him seven years ago."

"Why?"

"I wouldn't ask him, sir," Kykundahl said and went away, leaving Lieutenant Emil Schwabacker alone with his thoughts.

Bomb - Shelter System Would Cost Billions; Protect Only 60 Percent

By EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Civil Defense Administration says a nationwide system of nuclear war shelters would cost more than 32 billion dollars — and still protect only about 60 per cent of the people.

Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson told a House Appropriations subcommittee the administration is studying some shelter proposals, but added that "we should not go off carelessly on a program of that magnitude."

He said the federal government eventually "will have to take a larger hand" in civil defense, heretofore defined by law as primarily a state and local function. He said his agency will propose that Congress make the responsibility a joint federal and local one.

Peterson's testimony, given Feb. 6, was published today.

He took issue with an estimate he attributed to the Navy Radiological Laboratory that a 38-billion-dollar shelter program could save 99 per cent of the people.

"We don't think so," he said. "We think you can save approximately 60 per cent . . . We are going to lose millions of people if we have a war. . . There is no easy answer to this thing except to have peace."

He said this is so even though his agency hopes, by May 1, to have reduced to one minute the time required to flash a warning of enemy attack to every city in the United States.

"In the past I was taken up as high as 8 or 10 minutes," he said. In each case, he said, he referred to time required to alert an official warning station in each Chevy is America's "hot" car —officially!

Chevrolet Wins Coveted Manufacturers' Trophy at Daytona Beach as "best performing U. S. automobile!"

Want facts about performance? Then look at the official figures from NASCAR's* internationally famous Daytona Beach competition for stock cars. Here's what you'll find: Chevrolet, in two weeks of blistering competition, proved itself as America's Number One performance car. Nothing in the low-price field could touch it.

No other car, regardless of price, scored such a sweep. And Chevy walked away with the famous Manufacturers' Trophy, hands down!

The 1957 Chevrolet is, by all odds, the most astonishing performer ever produced in the low-price field. Best of all, this superiority isn't limited to just a few extra-cost high-performance models. Every type of Chevy—from the six-cylinder models right up to the 283-horsepower "Super Turbo-Fire" V8's, from the single-carburetor V8's with Powerglide to the stick-shift "270's"—is a championship car.

Livestock Income Hikes Receipts

RALEIGH (AP) — Although the cash return from crops fell by more than six million dollars, livestock income gained enough to place 1956 Tar Heel cash receipts from farm marketings ahead of the previous year.

The North Carolina Crop Reporting Service said yesterday that receipts from crops, livestock and livestock products totaled slightly over 950 million dollars last year. The gain over 1955 was about 1 1/2 per cent.

The return ranked North Carolina 11th in the nation, and made it a leader in the southeast.

Livestock and livestock products receipts were up $20,885,000 or a little more than 9 per cent over the previous year.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices were lower early this afternoon as steel and oil took losses.

Key issues were down from fractions to around a point. A few small gainers remained.

The market was irregular in an active opening and showed a continued mixture of gains and losses for a while as trading slowed. Then the lower tone gradually asserted itself but with no increase in turnover.

The steel decline as word came that steel orders for April delivery are below the industry's expectations. Oils with big Middle East holdings were down as the situation in that part of the world continued doubtful.

American Motors stood out on the upside following a statement by the firm's president that financier Louis E. Wolfson and his wife are now probably the biggest shareholders in the company.

American Motors surged 1 1/4% on an opening block of 20,000 shares and held most of this gain in heavy trading later.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel and Youngstown were all down fractions.

Gulf Oil dropped around 2 points in an exceptional loss. Fractional losses were taken by Royal Dutch, Texas Co. and Standard Oil (New Jersey).

United Aircraft was down around 2 points at one time but cut the loss in half. Boeing posted a small gain.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 70 cents to $172.60 with the industrials down $1.20, the rails down 70 cents and the utilities unchanged.

RALEIGH (AP — NCDA)—Hog prices steady to mostly 25 higher. Tops of 16.50 to 17.25 at Tarboro, Enfield and Bethel; 16.50 to 17.00 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Pine Level and Nahant; 16.25 to 17.00 at Winkate and Rocky Mount; 16.75 at Castle Hayne; 16.00 to 16.50 at Siler City and Mount Gilead; 16.50 at Rich Square, Fayetteville, Clinton, Micro, Lumberton, Shallotte, Clayton and Elizabethtown; 16.25 at Smithfield, Mount Olive, Newton Grove, Goldsboro, Spring Hope, Dunn, Bailey, Kenly and Tabor City.

RALEIGH (AP) North Carolina poultry markets: fryers and broilers steady following 1 cent decline, farm price 19.

Raleigh eggs steady. A large 32-35; Durham and Asheville eggs steady. A large 30-32; Charlotte eggs steady following decline, A large 29.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of 22 cases at last Friday's session of Municipal Recorder's Court, eight of them involving violations of motor vehicle and traffic laws, the other 14 cases ranging from being drunk to larceny.

The court not pressed the case in which Lester Moore, Rt. 3, city, was charged with driving drunk.

Larceny: William F. Carr, Negro, 900 N. Railroad St., six months on the road; Levi Green, Negro, 611 Cooper's Lane, 30 days on the road; James Harper, Negro, 408 Wyatt St., was found not guilty; Martha Vines, Negro, 512 W. 12th St., was found not guilty.

Elizabeth Harmon, Negro, 1207 Pitt St., vulgar and profane language, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of costs and she is to be of good behavior for six months.

Drunk: Leroy Sutton, Negro, Rt. 6, city, $20, costs deducted; Jesse L. Perkins, Negro Rt. 1, city, costs; William P. King 613 Dickinson Ave. called and he failed to answer (capias issued for him); Charlie G. Harris, Negro, County Home, drunk and public nuisance two years on roads, capias and commitment to issue at 5 p.m. March 8. Harris left town.

Mrs. Jimmy Moore, 100 N. Liberty St., worthless check (seven charges), 30 days or pay checks and costs in each case.

Daniel Early, Negro, 1105 Clark St., was found not guilty of receiving stolen property.

Gerald G. Gaskins, speeding, 30 days, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that he shall not drive a motor vehicle for 60 days, except to and from home and East Carolina College twice a day.

Amos Parker, Negro, 505-A Boyd Ave., assault on a female, 30 days, suspended on payment of costs and he is not to molest or harm Lillie Mae Hardy.

Jack Banks, Negro, Winterville, forcible trespass, 30 days, suspended on payment of costs. Assault with a deadly weapon, 30 days (consecutive), suspended on payment of $20, costs deducted, and pay $11.50 medical bill, be of good behavior and not harm or molest Mary Boyd.

The following defendants each paid $4 for not having a city license tag on cars: Mary N. Hawkins, Negro, 1504 Fleming Street; Emanuel Williams, Negro, 1301 Clark Street; Benjamin G. White, 309 E. 14th St.

Mildred Benford, Ayden, was found not guilty of driving without an operator's license.

Dorsey Sparkman, Negro, 907 Douglas Ave., prayer for judgment continued on condition that he not drive without brakes, pay costs and not operate a motor vehicle for 60 days unless he makes restitution for damage.

Heart Fund Solicitations In Pitt Total Over $3,800

Heart Fund solicitations in Pitt County this year totaled more than $3,800 according to a final report released today by Charles W. Howard, County Heart Fund Chairman, and W. M. Scales Jr., solicitations chairman for the county.

Solicitations this year topped last year's figures by approximately $2,000. During February of 1956 Heart Fund collections in Pitt totaled $1,800.

Howard and Scales this morning expressed their appreciation to all solicitors who participated in the fund-raising campaign. "This was the most successful Heart Fund campaign ever held in Pitt County," Howard said. "We feel the success of this year's campaign is due to the outstanding efforts of workers who participated in solicitations and also to the generosity with which Pitt County citizens contributed to this worthwhile undertaking."

Scales paid particular tribute to women workers in Greenville who collected $1,100 in house-to-house canvasses on Heart Sunday. Direct solicitations of Greenville business firms brought another $1,200 into the county's Heart Fund.

Among the other communities of the county Grifton was the leader with $504. "They did a magnificent job in Grifton," Scales said, and he pointed to the work of Robert Wheeler, Grifton chairman and Mrs. Richard Johnson who was head of the house-to-house canvasses in Grifton and chairman of the Grifton Heart Fund dance which netted $125.

In Ayden, where Bill Stroud was Heart Fund chairman, over $400 was collected during the campaign. The campaign in Bethel under the direction of Tom Andrews accounted for $225.

Special solicitations among doctors of the county under the leadership of Dr. Ray Minges brought in more than $200 for the Heart Fund.

Howard also expressed his appreciation to Hoyt L. Naron, chairman of the campaign in Greenville, Robert Kirkland, publicity chairman, Scales, general chairman, and the more than 50 women who served as team captains for house-to-house canvasses throughout the county.

Her Song Is Chosen

Mrs. Suelette A. Jones of Arabian Court No. 52, Daughters of Isis, recently composed the Isis National Hymn. The Imperial Court voted to officially adopt the melody at the 45th Annual Shrine Convention held in Washington, D. C. last August. Her picture appeared in the national Shriners' magazine—The Pyramid. Mrs. Jones is a native of Kinston. She holds a B. S. degree in music from Virginia State College and has had additional study in music at the University of Pennsylvania. At present she is a teacher at South Greenville School.

Driver Charged Following Wreck

Investigating police officers charged Aaron Leary, 44-year-old Negro of 305 Cadillac Street, with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol following an accident early this morning.

The accident, which took place at approximately 1 a.m. today, involved the vehicle driven by Leary and a parked automobile owned by Roy Little of Bonner Lane. There was no personal injury. Damages were estimated at $100 to the 1947 car being operated by Leary and $75 to the 1954 automobile that was legally parked when the collision occurred.

Two New Bethel Commissioners Attend Meeting

BETHEL—Two new members attended their first Board of Commissioners meeting for the first time here last week.

J. B. Cullifer and R. J. Whitehurst were elected by the commissioners at a special meeting in February to fill the unexpired terms of R. E. Reddick and F. L. Blount, Jr. Reddick became mayor when R. L. Martin resigned to be sworn in as a county commissioner and Blount resigned as town commissioner recently.

Each of the two new men will serve until the primary and election in April 30 and May 7. Both have filed as candidates for election to full terms.

The town's governing body discussed routine business at last week's regular meeting. They voted to install a fire hydrant at the Negro school.

TRYON RESTORATION
NEW BERN — The State of North Carolina has already received a total of $1,565,832.82 from the gifts and bequest of the late Mrs. James Edwin Latham, of Greensboro, for the restoration of Tryon Palace in New Bern, according to John A. Kellenberger, of Greensboro, treasurer of the Tryon Palace Commission, who was here this week for the commission committee meetings.

This large sum includes $1,412,832.82 made available for the State from Mrs. Latham's two trust funds and estate and paid directly to the State Treasurer; $125,000 worth of valuable antique furnishings for the palace; and other amounts paid out for the restoration.

PEOPLE'S SERVANT
BENSON — Serving the public, sometimes can bring on some unusual experiences. Charles O. Woodall was called upon to deliver a baby for an unidentified Negro couple of Benson Rt. 2 early Sunday morning. He was summoned after an unsuccessful attempt was made to reach a doctor in Dunn and performed the operation with the aid of an experienced but blind Negro midwife. The baby is doing fine.

HEAR TOBACCO PROBLEMS
WASHINGTON, N. C. — The Beaufort County Farm Bureau met last week and passed a resolution expressing its appreciation to Congressman Herbert C. Bonner for his "untiring efforts on behalf of farmers trying to work out at least a partial solution to our tobacco problem."

The action came at a mass meeting held in the John Small School and featured speakers from several organizations connected with the tobacco industry. The resolution was offered by Ashley B. Futrell, editor of the Washington newspaper, who spoke briefly in support of a measure offered by Bonner to help solve the tobacco problem.

PROMOTED
WASHINGTON, N. C. — Joe Eagles, president of the East Carolina Council, announces the loss of a promotion for G. E. Ashwill, better known as "Jerry." Ashwill will assume his new duties on April 1st as District Executive of Metropolitan Louisville, Ky., in the Old Kentucky Home Council.

Ashwill came to the East Carolina Council in February of 1953 and was assigned to serve the Beaufort-Hyde and Wasmarty districts. During the three years serving the Beaufort-Hyde District membership grew 195 per cent, and in the Wasmarty district over a four year period membership grew 133 per cent.

MORE!
WILSON — Pop machine bandits continued their breakins in Wilson for the third successive night. Police Chief A. A. Privette has announced. It has been learned that police now have leads to the robberies that have been occurring in Wilson County for some time now.

Dick Watson, proprietor of Dick's Electrical store, said that the breakin bandits did damage he would estimate at $300 to his store in a raid Thursday night. An attendant at the Moring and Rogers Esso service station, said that the pop machine bandit broke a back window at the place, pried open a pop machine and chewing gum machine and made away with change.

$40 MILLION MARK SEEN
GOLDSBORO — When the contract is let for the 1,500 housing units at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, total construction under contract or completed will be almost $40 million.

Corps of Engineers officials at Seymour Johnson said Saturday that construction already completed there has cost $16,797,395. The Air Force is expected to award a contract within 60 days on housing units which the lowest bidder has said will cost $21,118,000.

CONSTIPATED? New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H stimulate it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONAD, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONAD's great moisturizing capacity, plus COLONAD's stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONAD is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.

Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAD neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions.

It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAD exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONAD, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98c for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

Three-Car Wreck In Winterville Saturday Night

WINTERVILLE — A three-car collision occurred Saturday night here according to reports from Police Chief D. C. Martin.

Involved in the accident were Snodie Lee Smith of Greenville Rt. 2, Robert William Roseveare of 119 Pineview Street and David Wyatt Hardy Jr. of 11 Dickinson Avenue.

Smith, operating a 1950 vehicle, was charged with operating under the influence, careless and reckless driving and failure to stop for a stop sign by Chief Martin who investigated the collision that took place at the intersection of NC 11 and an unnamed Winterville street.

Only minor injuries were sustained. Hardy suffered minor injuries of the leg and arm and William Earl Roseveare, a passenger, received abrasions of the forehead.

The investigating officer estimated damage to the 1950 automobile driven by Roseveare at $300, with the Hardy vehicle receiving $500 damage. According to a report, the Smith car was a total loss.
