Bermuda Meeting Nears End As Signs Grow 'Wounds' Healed

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP) — President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan worked to wind up their fast-moving Bermuda conference today with evidence that the worst wounds in British-American relations had been healed and a working partnership in world affairs restored.

Eisenhower, Macmillan and a restricted group of their advisers on military defense and atomic problems. That plan was followed late yesterday when they opened the discussion of Britain's diminishing military position over the world and possible U. S. countermeasures to maintain the free world's strength against Soviet power.

Along with the other pact members, Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Pakistan, the London government has long wanted the United States to join the Baghdad pact as a full-fledged treaty member. While the move was hailed by the members of the alliance, it was certain to bring an opposite reaction from Arab states that have bitterly denounced the pact's existence.

Another sign of improved British-American understanding at the Big Two Bermuda talks came earlier in a statement from British spokesman Peter Hood and U. S. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and Egyptian President Nasser became known. On defense and security problems, Eisenhower was believed to have obtained a thorough report on Britain's planned military reductions so the United States can now analyze the political and military impact of a cutback in the defenses of the free world and decide what, if anything, it must do.

Racket Investigators Claim Union Funds 'Kept Going' To Dave Beck

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate racket investigators said today Teamsters Union cash kept going to Dave Beck even after he was promoted from the union's West Coast boss to its presidency in 1952. Robert F. Kennedy said this is one of the points that will be brought out when Beck is called to the witness stand Tuesday.

Committee investigators testified yesterday their study of union records indicates no loans to Beck. They said they found nothing to indicate he got the money or incurred any obligation, except the record of the repayment. The committee yesterday wound up, for the time being at least, its hearings on activities of Teamsters officials on the West Coast. During those hearings, which lasted four weeks, the committee heard testimony linking some West Coast officials of the union with alleged efforts to take over vice profits in Portland, Ore.

ster Union funds which he said were either lost, misappropriated, unaccounted for or questionably used. A big part of the total was the loan to Beck. The committee yesterday heard testimony behind closed doors from Paul Dorfman, secretary of a Chicago local of the Waste Handlers Union, also heard was Allen Dorfman, Paul's son and an insurance executive. McClellan gave no details of what went on in the closed hearing. Kennedy said the committee is not yet finished with Frank W. Brewster, Beck's successor as chairman of the 11-state Western Conference of Teamsters.

rowing of some $80,000 to $90,000 in Teamsters funds. But he said he paid interest. Earlier yesterday, Brewster pleaded innocent on a contempt of Congress indictment stemming from his refusal to answer questions in January at a previous investigation also headed by McClellan. From Washington, Brewster flew to St. Louis for a conference with national officers of the union's warehouse division. Also present was James R. Hoffa, another Teamsters Union vice president under indictment on charges of bribing a racketeers committee lawyer to feed him secrets from committee files. Hoffa has said he is innocent. Afterward, the warehouse division's policy committee got out a statement charging the committee with being "unjust and deceitful" in its presentation of charges against officials of the Teamsters.

Teamster Officials Brand Probe 'Unjust...Deceitful'

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Policy makers representing 450,000 members of the Teamsters Union last night assailed the Senate racket investigation as "unjust and deceitful." The charge was leveled by the 49-member Policy Committee of the Teamsters' National Warehouse Division, embracing nearly one-third of the union's 1 1/2 million members. Earlier, behind doors closed to the press, members of the committee and other leaders had heard speeches by two indicted Teamster vice presidents, James R. Hoffa and Frank W. Brewster.

as witnesses against our international union without possibility of cross examination or direct reply. It also "warned the labor movement, which to this point has remained largely silent," that other unions will not escape "smear tactics" unless, it said, steps are taken to assure "just and decent procedures" in the committee hearings. It was the strongest support yet given by union officials to labor leaders involved in the Senate probe. Union officers called the meeting a routine business session. The Post-Dispatch said, however, it learned the meeting was called "to determine what attitude should be taken toward Teamster President Dave Beck and other officers under investigation by the Senate. Brewster, chairman of the 11-state conference of Teamsters, flew here from Washington after completing testimony before the investigating committee and pleading innocent to contempt of Congress charges. Hoffa, indicted for allegedly paying an attorney to get a job with the Senate committee and then show him documents in its files, had arrived unannounced earlier in the day from Detroit. The policy committee statement scored what it called the "tendency of the national press and the general public" to prejudice guilt or innocence before all the facts are aired.

Airport Meeting In Rocky Mount

ROCKY MOUNT—A Greenville representative is attending a meeting called by the Rocky Mount Airport Commission here today. Attorney W. W. Speight, who is chairman of the Mid-East Airport Authority is attending the meeting which began at 1 p. m. Representatives from Wilson and Tarboro are also attending, it has been learned. Wilson, Tarboro, and Greenville along with Goldsboro are the largest cities which are members of the Mid-East group. Goldsboro was not reported to be represented at the meeting. The group will discuss the matter of an area airport to serve the represented cities. Rocky Mount recently received CAA approval for an airport while Mid-East was turned down on its application for an area airport.

Strike Begins

LONDON (AP)—A strike of one million workers in Britain's key heavy industries began officially at noon today. Thousands of industrial workers already had jumped the gun on the strike deadline by failing to report for work last night. The walkout started only a few hours after settlement of a menacing railroad labor dispute and announcement that a strike by 200,000 shipyard workers may soon be ended. Unions representing the industrial workers plan a progressive expansion of their walkout to close down 4,300 plants employing three million men by April 6 unless there is an intervening settlement of demands for a 10 per cent pay boost. The industrial workers now get a $36.24 weekly average wage. The massive stoppage would halt aircraft, electrical and heavy engineering production, all vital to Britain's export program. The same group of unions represents the workers in the shipyards and in the industrial plants.

Aftershock Hits San Francisco Bay Area Again; Fire Follows

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A sharp aftershock of yesterday's big earthquake series jolted San Francisco and the bay area early today. A three-alarm fire in midtown San Francisco followed on the heels of the tremor that jolted many residents out of their sleep shortly after midnight. But Asst. Fire Chief Bruno Bassi said the fire "was probably not" caused by the quake. The aftershock, followed by several less severe, hit at 12:14 a. m. Yesterday's quakes jolted San Francisco and the bay area, injuring 30 persons and causing minor but widespread damage almost impossible to assess. Chief Bassi said the first alarm today came eight minutes after the 12:14 shock was reported. He listed the cause officially as "unknown" pending an investigation later today. Fifty persons were routed and three suffered slight injuries in the fire.

bay in Berkeley — had recorded 49. Most of those were so weak their tremors couldn't be felt. The center of the quakes appeared to be in the Daly City area, populated by more than 30,000 people. The tremors extended nearly 100 miles eastward to Sacramento and 75 miles southward to Hollister, below San Jose at the base of the San Francisco peninsula. The quake originated in the San Andreas fault, San Francisco sits on the edge of the fault, which runs diagonally from the Salton Sea area of southern California through California and into the Pacific off the Oregon coast. The major quake had a Richter magnitude rating of 5.5 compared with 8.25 for the 1906 quake. The scale progresses on a logarithmic pattern, meaning that a rating of 2 is 10 times as great as 1 and 3 is 100 times as great as 1. Hence, yesterday's quake was one one-hundredth of the 1906 convulsion. But it was violent enough to alarm the entire region, and destructive enough to cause cumulative damage probably ranging into millions. In addition to minor damage to countless homes and visual road damage, several reservoirs were cracked. Schools in southern San Francisco were emptied for the day. At San Jose, 50 miles south of here, plaster fell in the old Santa Clara Courthouse. There the tremor exerted a brief but rolling movement. In Daly City, Police Chief Roland Petrocchi put into effect emergency disaster measures. The chief, at home when the quake hit, said: "The shock knocked me across the room, broke all the windows in my home and turned the refrigerator upside down." Later, after a quick inspection tour of the community, he reported: "Things are in a hell of a mess out here." Topped water heaters flooded homes. Dishes jumped from shelves and shattered. Emergency calls went out to householders to shut off gas when some gas lines snapped.

Fountain Vote Set For May 7

FOUNTAIN—Fountain's municipal election will be held May 7 in the Municipal Building. Hours will be from 6:30 a. m. until 6:30 p. m. Time and place for the election were set by Fountain Commissioners this week. The commissioners also named Willie Killebrew as registrar and A. C. Gay and L. S. Peele as judges. Candidates for mayor or commissioner will be required to file with the Town Clerk prior to 5 p. m. on April 23. Filing fees are $5 for mayor and $1 for commissioner. Killebrew has been authorized to have registration books open at the Fountain Motor Company from Saturday, April 20, through Saturday, April 27, excepting Sunday, April 21, for registration of new residents. Commissioners have ruled that persons who do not register prior to April 27 will be unable to participate in the election.

tail buildings and the great bridge spanning the Golden Gate swayed. In South San Francisco and adjacent Daly City, plate glass windows shattered and supermarket shelves spilled their contents onto floors. Slides blocked parts of State Route 1 along the ocean. That was the result of two rapid-fire heavy shocks at 11:45:20 a. m. After shocks continued throughout the afternoon and night. At 11:30 p. m., the seismograph at the University of California — across the TOKYO (AP)—A U. S. Navy destroyer plowed through choppy seas today to investigate a report of "yellow objects" as a possible clue to the fate of 67 Americans aboard a military transport that vanished Thursday off the coast of Japan. Officials conducting what was described as the greatest air-sea search in Far East history said there was no evidence that the objects were connected with the missing four-engine C-97. The big plane, on a trans-Pacific flight from California to Japan, carried yellow life rafts, yellow "Mae West" life jackets and packets of yellow dye marker. Air Force officials cautioned that the area where the objects were reported was about 100 miles south of the plane's last reported course and that yellowish seaweed often is mistaken for life jackets or rafts. The missing C-97, version of the Boeing Stratocruiser, carried 57 passengers, including a woman military dependent, and a crew of 10. The crew included two women members of the Air Force. More than 70 planes and a dozen ships have made a crisscross search of 75,000 square miles of the squall-ridden Pacific without a confirmed trace of the plane. The plane's last radio message said it was 230 miles southeast of Tokyo. There was no report of trouble. The absence of any distress signal prompted some airmen to believe the plane may have exploded in flight — a theory that was supported briefly early today.

Bill Affecting Fountain Studied

RALEIGH—A bill affecting election of commissioners for the Town of Fountain has been introduced into the General Assembly. The bill, sponsored by Representative Walter Jones and Frank Wooten of Pitt County, provides for a requirement that voters in the Town of Fountain vote for as many candidates as there are offices to be filled in town commissioner elections. The bill was referred to the House's Local Government Committee for further study. If it is passed, the bill will provide for addition of a paragraph at the end of Section 5, Chapter 259 of the Private Laws of 1953. The addition reads, "When the names of several candidates for commissioner of the Town of Fountain appear on the ballot, the elector shall cast his or her vote for as many candidates as there are offices to be filled, and where an elector votes for any number of such group candidates less than the number of offices to be filled, such ballot shall not be counted for any of the candidates for commissioner."

'Non-Essentials' Of Budget Cited

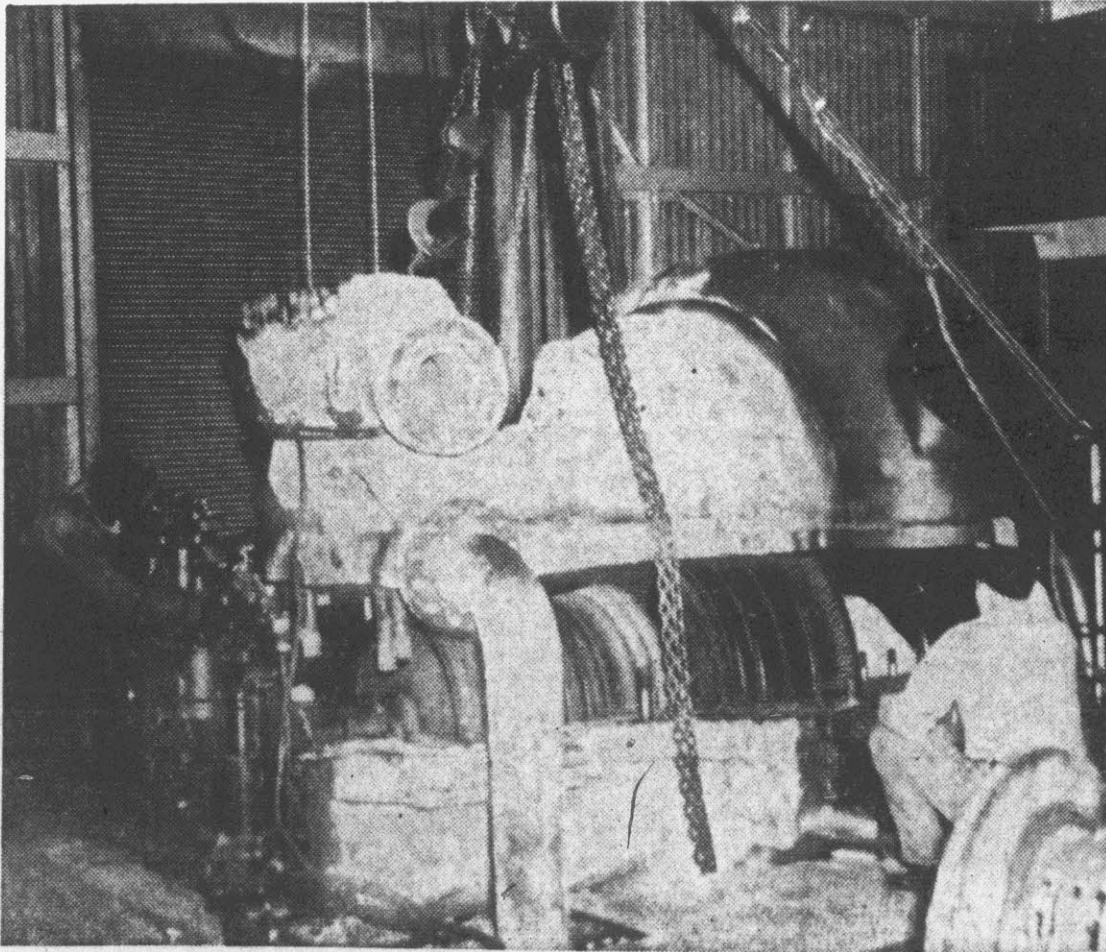

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Daily News today published a full page digest and commentary on President Eisenhower's 71 billion, 800 million dollar budget, reporting that taxpayers might consider many items "apparent non-essentials." The items were listed in a Washington dispatch by two staffers, Edwin A. Lahey and David Kraslow, who made a study of the 1,249 page federal budget. The story said "many of the items" might cause taxpayers to write congressmen "about the apparent nonessentials that seem to get loaded into the ever-growing cost of government." Some items in the budget were described in the Washington dispatch as follows: An item of $300,000 "that the Army spends to finance Sunday morning recreation for civilian members of thousands of private rifle clubs." An item for a "hearing board" which "gets $70,000 for devoting 23 days hearing cases in one year." The botanic garden greenhouses "which are being relocated in 1958 at a cost of $387,000."

"A $10 million dollar item to enable the Department of Agriculture to give trees to the states for planting." Other budget items listed by the Daily News, which backed Eisenhower for re-election but has editorially questioned the size of his budget, included: "Paying $16,500 a year to the fellow known as a doorkeeper of the House of Representatives." "State Department educational exchange activities (which) cost us only 18 million dollars in 1956. In the current year the bill will be 20 million dollars." Spending "$2,683,000 of tax money to get seasonal workers for U. S. farmers in their hour of need and the government must use $634,700 of this to see that the farmers are not cheating." The newspaper listed many other budget items and announced in a news release that it will reprint 50,000 copies of the more than 5,000 word article "for distribution by the public to congressmen and others concerned with the need for economy in federal government."

$400,000 Blaze For Henderson

HENDERSON, N. C. (AP)—A fire which gutted a warehouse filled with cotton here yesterday did damage estimated at $400,000 to the building and the cotton. J. R. Teague, office manager of the Standard Bonded Warehouse Co., said cause of the fire was not determined. About 2,800 bales of cotton stored in the warehouse either were destroyed or damaged. Teague said the cotton was insured and the warehouse property partially insured. The fire, discovered yesterday morning, burned most of the day despite a heavy rain and efforts of firemen.

Greenville Utilities Work Crews Raise 26,000-Pound Section For Inspection Of Generator

GOING UP—Utilities employees opened the newest of its three generators for inspection yesterday. The intricate job called for lifting a 13-ton section without harming hundreds of blades within. The section, shown suspended above, covers the driving portion of the generator. Steam pressure against each of the blades turns the big generating equipment located to the right out of the picture.

UNCOVERED—The steam drive portion is uncovered for the first time since the generator was installed in 1949. Its 26,000 pound cover, still suspended in air, is shown behind the machine. Workmen let the section down to the floor where it will remain while the chamber is checked. (Reflector Staff Photos).

CHECK-UP—Utilities Superintendent Leonard Bloxam takes a look at the blades which, under steam pressure drive the generator. Next week a factory specialist will check the hundreds of blades by tapping each to determine the proper sound. Placing the big cover back in place will be an even harder job since each of the blades wheels fits into its own tight chamber within the top section.

First Presbyterian Announcements
 Evangelistic Services will be conducted in the First Presbyterian Church April 7-12 by Dr. Ben Lacy Rose, a member of the Union Theological Seminary Faculty, Richmond, Virginia. Each member of the church is urged to prepare for the services.
 A Religious Census will be made by the Churches of Greenville on Sunday afternoon, March 31. It is hoped that everyone will cooperate and help in this important project.
 "The Drama of the Penitent Thief" will be the topic of the Reverend Leonard W. Topping's sermon at the Sunday morning Worship Service. The Nursery, conducted by the Women of the Church, will be cared for by members of Circle No. 5, Mrs. Floyd Simmons, Chairman.
 Sunday afternoon, 1:00, members of the Senior High Fellowship will meet at the Church and leave at 1:15 for their Spring Rally, to be held in Goldsboro at the First Presbyterian Church. The Rally will begin at 2:30 and close with supper. Young people are asked to bring box suppers.
 The pioneers will meet Sunday 6 p.m. for supper in the Fellowship Hall. The program will be "My Quiet Time." The girls and boys who wish to make their profession of faith and unite with the Church will meet at 6:00 p.m. for supper. Instruction by the Pastor will follow in the Pioneer Department.
 Rev. Russell B. Fleming will lead the second Bible Study on "The Sermon on the Mount" at the Westminster Fellowship Meeting Monday 5:30 p.m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Topping, 401 E. 9th St.

Consider...

After the bleakness of winter comes Spring. Fulfilling a promise of long ago, seasons follow one another in divinely planned succession.

All around us we see evidence that evil prevails throughout the world, but the Church gives positive assurance that God is ever present. As Spring brings new life to nature so God, through the Church, brings more abundant life to human beings.

Consider the daffodil—its freshness and beauty speak of hope. Consider the Church—its steadfast faith reaches out to undergird and strengthen mankind. God creates daffodils without our help, but intelligent cultivation makes them even more beautiful. Likewise, He depends on us to work in His Church, helping to spread its influence, to broadcast its message, to make a better world.

Let us accept this tremendous challenge and become a part of God's Church today.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Miss Barbara June Cozart, Mr. Pollard Wed

Miss Barbara June Cozart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Banks Cozart of Greenville, and Mr. Julius Fleming Pollard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Fleming Pollard of Bethel, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents Friday morning at 11 o'clock.

The Rev. Irby B. Jackson, the bride's pastor, performed the double ring ceremony.

For the wedding the living room was decorated with bridal greenery, large standards of white gladioli and cathedral candles.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Wynnette Garner, pianist, and Mrs. Moya Dail, soloist. Miss Garner's selections included "Serenade" by Schubert and "I Love Thee" by Grieg. Mrs. Dail sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte as a benediction.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length sheath of Chantilly lace with detachable overskirt of peau-de-se-taffeta, matching lace and pearl twin bandeau with imported illusion veil. With this she wore white satin slippers and wrist-length white gloves.

She carried a white prayer book centered with a white orchid and showered with Stephanotis.

Frederick Pollard, the bridegroom's brother of Bethel, was best man.

Mrs. Cozart, mother of the bride, wore a toast sheath dress of imported Douplion silk with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Pollard, the groom's mother, was dressed in a dark blue costume suit of imported Italian silk with beaded white collar and cuffs and a corsage of yellow cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. J. T. Barnhill, grandmother of the groom, wore navy blue silk with navy accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bride received her education in the Greenville city schools, Meredith College in Raleigh, and East Carolina College.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Staunton Military Academy and attended Campbell College and East Carolina College.

After a wedding trip to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Pollard will make their home in Bethel.

For traveling Mrs. Pollard changed to a Dan Millstein rose-beige costume suit with raw silk shoes and bag and an orchid corsage.

Wedding Breakfast
Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Cozart entertained at a wedding breakfast honoring Mr. and Mrs. Julius Pollard, the immediate family, and the bridal party.

The dining room was arranged with early spring flowers, featuring pink and white. The table was covered with an imported cutwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink and white snapdragons.

Mrs. Moya Dail and Miss Wynnette Garner assisted the hostess in serving a two-course breakfast.

HD Women Hold March Meeting

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. Lester Roebuck was hostess to the Home Demonstration Club at the March meeting. Mrs. Irving Roberson gave the devotional and presided over the business session.

The members discussed the annual spring tour and it was announced that Dr. Graham, county health officer, will speak at the next meeting.

Mrs. Roebuck discussed plants for the garden and Mrs. Stonewall Parker read an inspiring poem. Everyone was asked to support the Drivers' Training Program and the club was requested to assist teachers' salary increase by wiring state legislators. The district meeting will be held in Williamson on April 10, it was announced.

Following the reports by the Garden and Family Life leaders, two book reviews were given. Mrs. J. P. House, the Food and Nutrition chairman, demonstrated refreshments for simple and easy entertainment.

Her party refreshments were served with cookies and punch to the members and one guest, Mrs. Walter Roberson.

Housewarming Honors Couple

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. Robert Carson honored Mr. and Mrs. Robert James with a surprise housewarming at their newly remodeled home near Gold Point.

After a tour of the home the honoree opened many gifts. Clincholate and angel food cake, salted nuts and ice cream were served to the twenty-five guests.

Miss Jackson Is Honored At Party

GRIMESLAND — Miss Betty Jane Jackson, bride-elect, was honored on Thursday evening when Miss Jennie Outlaw and Mrs. Della Galloway entertained at the home of Mrs. C. F. Galloway.

Guests were received in rooms decorated with white gladioli and flowering peach.

Miss Jackson wore a navy and white chiffon dress and a corsage of white carnations.

At the conclusion of several progressions of hearts, Mrs. C. F. Galloway was declared high score winner with Mrs. Dan White receiving second high.

The bride-elect was led into the dining room where she was presented with a shower of gifts from the hostesses and the friends who attended.

At the refreshment hour, Mrs. Galloway and Miss Outlaw served molded ices, cake squares, salted nuts and mints.

Bridge Club Thursday Night

ROBERSONVILLE—The Thursday Night Bridge Club had perfect attendance when it met at the home of Mrs. Charles Wilson on Green Street.

Coca-Colas and fritos were enjoyed during the game.

Mrs. Robert James received the high award and Mrs. Oscar Roberson won the prize for low score. The hostess served hot coffee with a sweet course.

ORTON HOUSE is shown above. The gardens will be in bloom until April 15th. SCROLL GARDEN AT ORTON, below, is a formal garden overlooking the Cape Fear River. Approximately 500,000 individual azalea plants are on the plantation grounds. It is the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lawrence Sprunt of Wilmington. It was originally established in 1725. PLEASANT OAKS PLANTATION, at the left, is a new festival attraction. Airlie and Greenfield Lake are two favorite attractions of the azalea festival set for March 28-31. Huge live oaks covered with Spanish moss line the entrance drive to the old Brunswick County Estate. It has been improved and extensively landscaped by Mr. and Mrs. Hargrove Bellamy of Wilmington. The plantation is located between Orton Plantation and Wilmington.

Mrs. Taylor Host To HDC

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. William Warren Taylor Jr. was hostess to the Gold Point Home Demonstration Club recently.

Plans were made for the 3rd district meeting to be held in the First Christian Church in Williamson with Dr. Leo Jenkins of East Carolina College, Greenville, as guest speaker.

The members were requested to contact their representative urging him to support the Drivers' Training Course in North Carolina high schools.

Mrs. C. W. Johnson, the food and nutrition leader, demonstrated how to attractively serve party refreshments.

PTA Hears Paul Curtis

ROBERSONVILLE—The P.T.A. held its regular meeting Thursday night in the Robersonville High School auditorium.

Mrs. Earl Fleming presided. Mr. N. B. Hill, pastor of the Methodist Church, gave the invocation. A letter from the State President of the Parent-Teachers' Association was read.

Mrs. Herbert Pope introduced Mr. Paul Curtis of the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic who was formerly associated with the State Hospital in Jamestown, North Dakota. He spoke on the mental health of children. This was followed by a film, "The Angry Boy," and a discussion period.

Mrs. Cherry's class received the attendance prize.

At the close of the meeting there was a social hour in the school cafeteria where cookies, mints, salted nuts and punch were served to a large group.

Rep. Bonner Focussing Attention

Although the Congressional Committee headed by Rep. Herbert Bonner of this district has taken no concrete action on legislation it will propose to make pleasure boating safer, the committee during the past year has brought forcefully to public attention the increasing need for more attention to safety regulation for pleasure boating.

This week at the conclusion of an executive session of the Committee, Rep. Bonner announced: "While we did not expect to conclude action with regard to the adoption of a report today, I think we have made considerable progress. I confidently expect that a Committee report will be made to the House within the next two or three weeks. There was general agreement that any recommended additional legislation would be designed to clarify and simplify existing law, and advance the interest of boating safety without retarding the growth of the sport."

Any legislation recommended by the committee should stress these two points made by Congressman Bonner: 1. advance the interest of boating safety; and 2. not retard growth of interest in the sport.

Reappointment Seems To Be In Order

Within the next few months Gov. Hodges will make several appointments to important boards and commissions in connection with the state government.

Although the appointments probably will not come until after the legislature adjourns, citizens of the state should give some consideration to the positions which will be open and the men who may potentially fill them.

Sam O. Worthington of Greenville has served as a member of the State Utilities Commission since his appointment by the late Gov. Umstead. He was re-appointed to that important post by Gov. Hodges, and now his term is expired. During his tenure on the State Utilities Commission, Worthington has proved himself a capable member of that body which deals directly with the interests of the people of the state. While we have not agreed with all his decisions, we are quite frank in saying we think he has done a creditable job as a member of the Utilities Commission.

When Gov. Hodges gets around to announcing his appointments for Utilities Commission posts, we trust he will see fit to re-appoint Sam Worthington to the post he has occupied for the past several years.

Some Believe Inflation Okay

By ELMER ROESSNER
More people than you can shake a stick at think a little inflation, say 2 or 3 per cent a year, is good for the country.

The argument runs that both population and business are growing and therefore need constantly greater amounts of money to operate with. This can be done by increasing the amount of currency or the amount of credit.

Such increases tend to stimulate business. With money easy to borrow, corporations speed up the building of new plants, more people start speculative business, and the more consumers borrow to buy homes, autos, furs and other goods. All this tends to make jobs and swell profits. It also jacks up prices, but who cares?

This idea is so widespread that William McChesney Martin, Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, used the National Press Club in Washington to denounce those who believe in "creeping" inflation. "You'll have a disaster if that's the way you think," he said.

THE PRICE
Mr. Martin did not have time or opportunity to spell out reasons why constant tipping at the bar of inflation eventually puts business on the floor, nor to recount all the attendant troubles. Let's see if we can help out a bit.

Constant inflation bleeds savings. We've been having inflation even since we've had E Bonds paying 3 per cent. In almost all cases, investors got less buying power back than they gave up when they bought bonds. While the bonds were increasing at an average of 3 per cent a year, the dollar was shrinking just as fast, and those who had to pay income taxes on these ephemeral earnings were rocked again.

Other savings in banks and other institutions were similarly bled. Those who put money in cookie jars fared even worse; they got no interest to help offset the shrinkage of the dollar. The only ones who beat the game were those who put savings in stocks and real estate — but the stocks had to be sound and the real estate in line of growth.

INSURANCE SHRINK
Constant inflation shrinks the protective value of insurance. A young man who takes out enough to protect present and potential dependents may find after 25 years that the value of his policy is only half enough to meet doubled costs of education and shelter. And he may not be able to get additional insurance except at very high rates.

Constant inflation, although billed as a creator of jobs, actually provokes labor unrest. The thousands of strikes in the last 10 years, the millions of days pay lost, and the billions of dollars lost to the economy were largely caused by inflation. Workers were trying to bring up earnings to compensate for the shrinkage of the dollar — or to get a little ahead as insurance against a little more inflation. And this getting ahead, of course, helped make more inflation.

Insistent labor demands for fringe benefits — especially insurance and health benefits — suggest a lack of confidence in the inflatable dollar. Men who aren't sure that the dollars they save will keep their families in event of death, pay bills for hospitalization or tide them over when out of work, naturally try to shift responsibility to employers and to the state.

Certainly Congress should enact no legislation which will so hamper pleasure boating with regulations that the hobby of hundreds of thousands becomes a chore. At the same time the need for greater water safety on the part of pleasure boats becomes more acute with each passing year. Some action should be taken by Congress to prod water enthusiasts to taking proper precautions which will be for their own safety.

Last Night's Game Is One For The Books

If North Carolinians never see another basketball game, they can be comforted by the fact that the one they saw last night will go down in collegiate basketball history as one of the most thrilling championship games ever played.

It was a game that had everything for the spectator; thrills, suspense, the spectacular, with every participant a hero in his own right.

For years to come when conversation turns to basketball, the arm-chair strategists will call back the thriller between Frank McGuire's Tar Heels and Michigan State. They will talk about Brennan, Rosenbluth, Green and others. They will discuss with gusto the heart-stopping final seconds timeouts called by Frank McGuire.

Win or lose tonight, the Tar Heels have shown their ability in Kansas City and have made the folks back home more proud than ever of their season's record. For those who saw last night's game on television, most of today will be spent trying to get blood pressure back to normal before tonight's final battle for the NCAA crown.

Land Swapping Deals Discussed

By LYNN NISBET
LAND SWAPPING — A stranger dropping in on the House Local Government committee the other morning might have thought he was at a directors' meeting of a real estate firm. The committee approved a plan for Gastonia to sell some city property to the YWCA, since the Y had donated a much more valuable lot to the city some ten years ago.

Approval was also given to the Town of Selma to convey land to the American Legion and to the Town of Robbins to lease municipal lots to civic organizations.

Sen. Jules McMichael of Rockingham approached the question from a broader angle. His bill would authorize now and in the future any municipality in the county to trade land with each other or with the county, when the deal appeared in the public interest.

IN LIEU — There were two bills and several amendments purporting to get money from the National Forest Commission into the county treasuries in lieu of taxes, in counties where timber was sold or other revenue produced on the Federally owned lands.

A dozen or more counties are now under a general law and the pending bills would add half a dozen more. Action was held up on the bills pending study by a subcommittee of lawyers as to feasibility of making the "in lieu" payment provisions apply to any and every county which might be affected by Federal acquisition of taxpaying lands for revenue producing activities.

A statewide act on this point would protect all counties now affected, whether covered by special acts or not, as well as those in which such property might be acquired in the future.

FULL USE — Sentiment is rapidly developing in favor of full utilization of the educational facilities in North Carolina at all levels from primary grade to the University graduate school. The idea is to provide year-round employment for teachers and to utilize physical equipment for 12 months instead of the present nine.

Helen Ramsey, chairman of the Board of Higher Education, proposed that plan for colleges to the Joint Appropriations Committee last week. Rep. John Kerr of Warren introduced a bill Wednesday authorizing local administrative units to operate public schools the year-round, the extra three months to be financed from local revenue — with promise of some State aid later.

Reps. Pat Taylor of Anson, Ed Yarborough of Franklin and several others sponsored a joint resolution calling for the appointment of a commission to study the feasibility of year round operation. It has become the policy in North Carolina to have commissions study matters as important as this before seriously considering laws effectuating the ideas. That policy was followed before the university was consolidated, before the mental hospitals were combined under a central board, before the retirement system was adopted. Similar study preceded establishment of the Board of Higher Education, enactment of the Year-round Plan, and most of the government reorganization acts.

It's easy to jump to conclusion that 12 months use of buildings and 12 months employment for teachers automatically adds one-third to the efficiency of educational processes. Buildings and buses get tired, just like school teachers and other workers do. Changes are the gain in efficiency would not be as much as the 33 per cent indicated at surface glance. Certainly the plan would save a good deal of time and a good many tax dollars. Thorough study is needed as basis for intelligent appraisal of advantages.

POTPOURRI — Some of the fellows are calling Rep. Dave Clark of Lincoln "Atlas Clark" these days. They say that as chairman of the commission which proposed the State government reorganization bills and as chairman of the House committee handling them, he has "the weight of the world on his shoulders."

Restive because half a dozen bills had been carried over for further consideration, Rep. Roger Kiser of Scotland spoke up the other morning demanding action on something. "I'm getting tired of all this brain-washing talk," he said. "If we don't get rid of some of these matters either by enacting them or killing them we'll be here til harvest time."

Rep. Thomas Turner of Guilford, chairman of Local Government, was in fine fettle "other morning." "Here's a bill that deals purely — well, I don't know how purely, but solely — with one county," he quipped. Rep. Max Childers of Gaston had a "little local" prefaced with a page or so of "whereas" explanations. "Is it such a bad bill it needs all that preamble build up? he inquired. Rep. A.V. Thomas of Stanly, one of three Republicans on the committee, had a bill providing for a plumbing inspector in Stanly. "Can you assure us the inspector will be a good Democrat?" inquired the chairman. "No," replied Thomas, "but I can assure you he will inspect a lot of Democratic plumbing."

(P.S.—All three bills were given a green light by the committee.) On motion of Reps. Wilson Yarborough and John Henley of Cumberland, the General Assembly congratulated the Carolina basketball team for its excellence. (The sponsors of the resolution thought it safer to present it in City.) On motion of Rep. Byrd before the finals at Kansas City.) On motion of Rep. Byrd Satterfield of Person the Legislature also congratulated the NCEA, school teacher organization, on its one hundred years of service.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
SPIRITUAL REBIRTH
What does the new Testament mean when it declares that we must be born again?

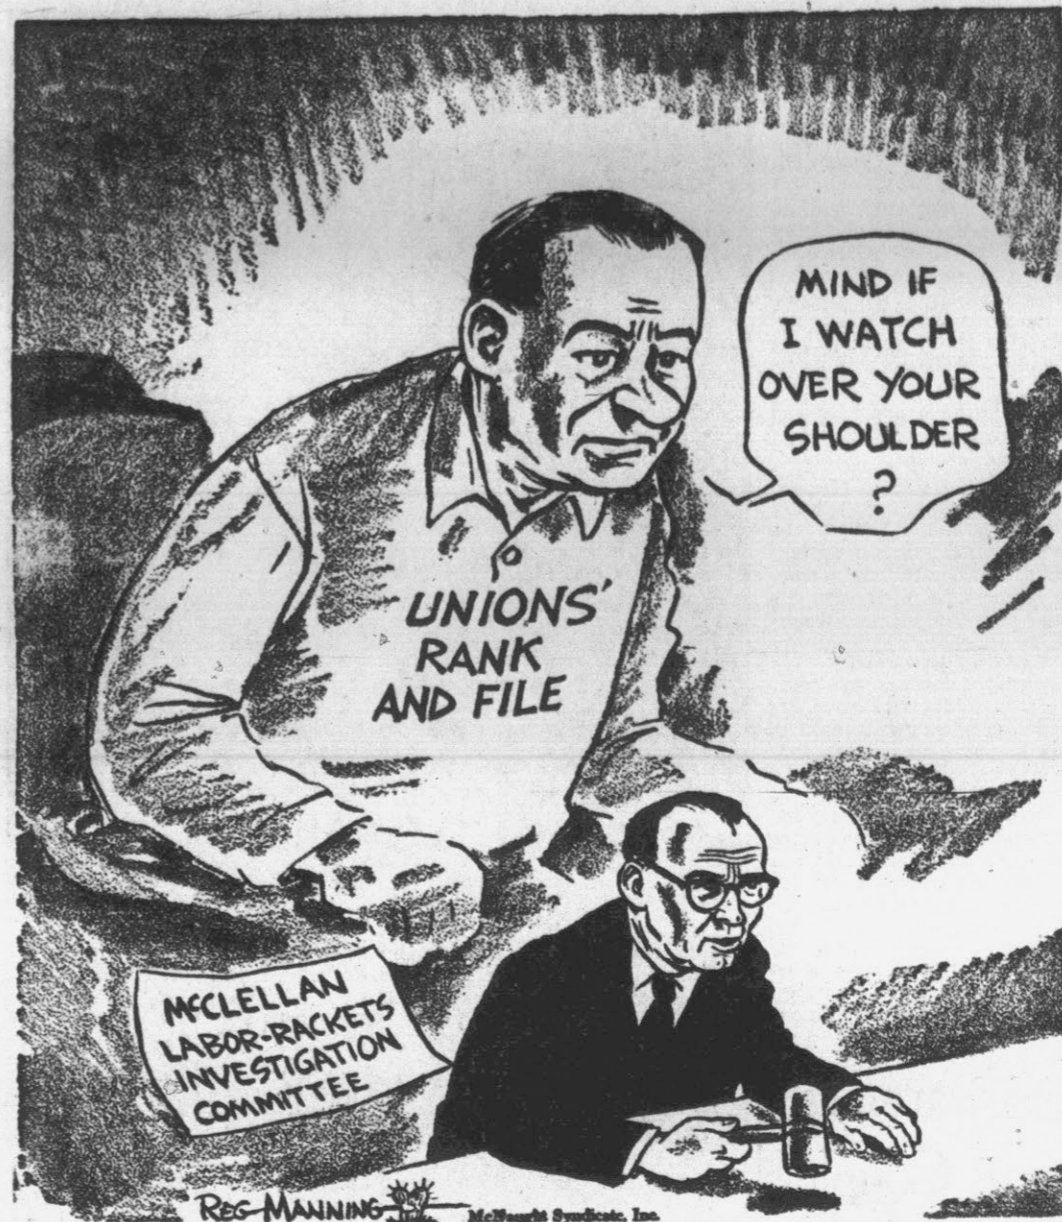

The Bible teaches that we are a combination of human and divine elements. On one side of our nature we are creatures made of the dust of the earth to which dust we shall eventually return. On the other side of our lives, we are created in the image and after the likeness of God. As physical beings, we are begotten by physical fathers. As spiritual beings, we are begotten by that Heavenly Father who rules over all the universe including the spiritual world. Just as we cannot become living, physical beings unless a physical father begets us, so our latent spiritual natures cannot have life unless they are begotten by the Heavenly Father.

Failure to realize this means that some people go through life, their spiritual natures undeveloped — in fact unborn. They live and die mere creatures. One aspect of their lives, and by far the most important aspect, is never developed. Born to be children of God, they live and die only as children of men. The eternal God is their father by they know it not.

When Jesus declared to Nicodemus that he must be born again, he was speaking through him to you and to me. Fullness of spiritual life involves spiritual rebirth.

Bits Of This And That

A man and a woman walked into the bakery the other day and ordered a birthday cake.

The clerk took the order and then asked: "How many candles?" "None," said the man.

"It's for an adult," explained the woman.

These grown-ups are crazy, man, crazy.

It seems that now in the field of electronics folks who spend their time doing such things have come up with a tube no larger than a golf ball which will count from zero to nine.

The Burrough's Corporation sent out a picture of the thing which has been dubbed the "Nixie."

Since the announcement says the Nixie is being mass-produced, I suppose it will become fashionable for everybody to own one in the future.

Most folks I know can count to nine on their fingers pretty well and have one left over. So it's hard to see why they would need a Nixie to count for them.

Oh well, we could still be cutting the grass with a sickle if someone hadn't come along and invented the lawnmower.

It's logical to assume that no home is complete with a Nixie.

Height of confusion . . . The one way portion of Cotanche St. ends at the Third St. intersection. The remaining two blocks to the north are two-way.

Yesterday a vehicle was observed headed the wrong way on the one-way portion approaching the intersection in the right lane.

What was going on across the intersection on the two-way section? A car was headed down the left lane of the street approaching the intersection. Thus the two cars, both in violation of the traffic laws, were headed directly towards each other.

Don't know what happened. I didn't stick around.

At the Jayce meeting the other night President Dave Whitchard announced that the club would enter a state award contest if no objections were heard to paying the fee.

There were no objections and the president instructed Club Treasurer John Ray Hardy to place a check in the mail.

"I sent it yesterday," Hardy replied.

President Dave allowed as how the treasurer "has confidence in you boys."

Deep Sleep Study

By JOHN B. KNOX
MEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—Do you know just when you fell asleep last night? Of course you don't.

Believe it or not — scientists worry about things like that. You and I never know exactly when we doze off. Furthermore, Tufts University psychologists will tell you that the smartest scientist in the world can't tell — even when he's watching you — the precise moment when you cease to be awake.

You might think that solving a problem like that — finding out a way to tell exactly when a person is no longer awake — would not be important to national defense. But it is. The Army's Quartermaster Corps, which conducts research into military equipment, needs to know why? To test the efficiency of sleeping bags.

Sound Sleep Important
In these days of long-range bombers and nuclear weapons, when the Arctic regions are of growing strategic importance, the alertness of one man, or a small group of men, could play a vital role in the war. Inefficient sleeping bags may cause men to be sleepy when they should be alert.

Dr. Paul D. Coleman and associates in the Tufts Institute of Applied Experimental Psychology are trying to develop equipment and a technique which the Quartermaster Corps can use to test its sleeping bags. They hope the sleeping-testing gear will detect the moment a subject falls to sleep and also show how well he sleeps during the night.

The project has the imposing name "Electroencephalographic Correlates of Sleep." In simple words, it's a study of the correlation of brain waves and sleep. All human brains generate tiny electric currents. Dr. Coleman is studying these brain waves for clues to show just when you fall asleep and evidence of how deeply you sleep.

Insulated Room
Since this is a study of sleep itself, the students who volunteer to advance science by sleeping don't sleep in sleeping bags. They relax on a special bed in a room insulated not only against sound, but also against all stray electrical currents. The little room is completely enclosed in an electrically-grounded copper mesh — because the brain currents are so tiny any stray electricity from outside could disturb readings.

Research already shows that the little wiggles in the lines traced by the brain wave recording machine become slower as the subject sinks into sleep. It also appears that there are up-and-down stages in sleeping; we seem to sleep in irregular cycles, sometimes deeply, then lightly.

In an attempt to find that elusive moment when consciousness ends and sleep begins, the psychologists have set up a loud speaker in the sleeping room. The subject holds a button attached to an electric cord. Each time he hears a sound from the speaker, he responds by pressing the button. Gradually, the responses show an increasing lag. When the responses cease entirely, the subject is clearly asleep.

The psychologists say they hope they'll find out how dreams affect sleep — but they hold out no hope of telling what the sleeper is dreaming about.

Royal Visit No Informal Affair

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — "What is all this dickering about between the White House and 10 Downing Street," asks T.G., of Danville, Va., "over whether Queen Elizabeth shall visit the Jamestown celebration of its 350th anniversary? Are her Ministers afraid that she is being used for a commercial show or something?"

Answer: If Her Majesty's advisers labored under such an impression, they were completely misinformed, and have been so assured by President Eisenhower, who undoubtedly discussed the question with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan at Bermuda.

Indeed, the invitation has been extended out of admiration for the young Queen, and in belief that her presence would contribute to improved relations between the two countries.

ROYAL VISIT NO INFORMAL AFFAIR But a royal appearance cannot be arranged quickly and informally. Her Majesty is always booked long in advance for ceremonial appearances at many important events in England and Scotland. For political and sentimental reasons, she cannot break these engagements, especially if the reason were a trip to the United States. The British man on the street, far more than the government, is still sore at us over the Suez affair.

As he suggests, it is a question of setting a mutually satisfactory date. In this connection, it is pointed out, and only semi-humorously, that the Queen might not want to appear around October time. That was the month when Lord Cornwallis surrendered to George Washington at Yorktown, only a short drive from Jamestown. British history books discuss the Revolution in as distorted a manner as ours did when I learned to "hate the Redcoats."

READERS WRITE FOR FIGURES A surprisingly large number of readers, especially members of college debating teams, have asked for the exact amounts which the United States has given to Middle East countries in the form of foreign aid. Pro and anti-Zionists have questioned statements that Israel has benefited far more than the Arabian states.

In view of this curiosity, and because it throws an important light on our Middle East Policy before the Suez Canal crisis, here are the official figures given me by the International Co-operation Administration:

MIDDLE EAST FOREIGN AID AMOUNTS In each case, there are two sets of figures. One refers to the amount allocated to the various countries, the other to the amount actually advanced and presumably spent. The period covered is from 1952 to September 30, 1956, when all aid to this area was stopped.

The totals given are in millions of dollars, although I am omitting the thousands. The first figure is the amount allocated, and the second refers to actual advances:

Israel: $257 million — $245 million; The Arab states: Egypt: $62 and $32; Saudi Arabia: $2.3 and $2.3; Jordan: $33 and $23; Lebanon, $25 and $14; Libya, 18 and $15. Allocated to all the Arab states were approximately $39 million, with approximately $38 million advanced. All of this, of course, is economic aid, not military.

Baghdad Pact members: Turkey: $561 and $436; Pakistan: $256 and $154; Iran: $271 and $225; Iraq: $10 and 8. As members of the anti-Communist Alliance, these three countries have also received military assistance, including weapons and training units. This sort of data is classified for security reasons.

In addition to the $2 for Egypt, Cairo has bought $55 million worth of farm surplus with her own currency, which we control and spend for American activities within that country.

Poultry May Help Fill Gap Left By Tobacco Cutback

By EVERETTE Parker
Reflector Staff Writer

Tobacco has been the main money crop in Eastern North Carolina and Pitt County for years. This year the farmer is faced with a 20 percent cut in tobacco acreage and the year before a 12 percent cut.

These circumstances plus the fact that various other money crops have been cut from time to time in the past several years has presented an obstacle in the road of future prosperity for the landowner and tenant alike in this area. To supplement his "wounded" income, the farmer has found it necessary to diversify. This diversification trend is rapidly gaining prominence in the field of poultry.

Poultry Value
Today, in North Carolina alone, the poultry has a gross annual value of more than $100,000,000. It purchases about $50,000,000 worth of manufactured feed a year, and hatcheries of the state produce approximately 100,000,000 chicks year-the poultry business. In light of changing conditions and economic pressures, it would assume a prominent place among the important poultry states.

Most of the expansion in the poultry business has been concentrated in Piedmont and Mountain areas where climatic conditions are more favorable to the survival and growth of the various types of birds handled. Producers in those areas have been quite successful in growing out young broilers and in maintaining laying flocks both for producing market eggs and eggs used for hatching broiler chicks and chicks for flock replacements. The hatchery business has developed into an enormous industry, and in the number of chicks hatched North Carolina ranks second in the nation, being exceeded only by Georgia.

Increases in egg production have been brought about through better breeding, feeding and management of laying hens. Although the average monthly numbers of layers on farms were about the same in 1955 as they were in 1946, the average annual rate of lay per 100 birds increased during that time from 13.231 to 18.121 this accounting for the 37 percent increase in total egg production.

Local Study
The aspect of poultry, in its various forms, is currently being studied very closely by the farmers of Eastern North Carolina. Many of those who have obtained information feel that this prospective new endeavor may hold the key to replacing lost tobacco income. Poultry is no longer being regarded purely as a sideline.

Roy S. Dearstyne, FCX Consultant and former farm expert with the State College Extension Service, stated recently, "There are any number of reasons why farm people are pointing toward poultry to help maintain the family income. They include the fact that already a high percentage of our farms have chickens and the owners are familiar to some extent at least with poultry management."

Second, expansion of operations can be made without too great a cost.
"Third, reasonable financing programs for poultry production are widespread.
"And fourth, properly developed poultry programs should fill the need of an income for each month of the year."

"These facts have been recognized increasingly in the past 10 years, since poultry keeping has advanced in a manner that is nothing short of phenomenal."

Broiler Interest
The commercial broiler industry had its beginning in this immediate section in 1956. Farmers of Martin County were the first to "the need" and begin their extensive program of diversification.

A total of eight houses with 5,000 bird capacity were built. Assuming each house produces five batches of birds per year, this would be a total of 200,000 broilers per year from these houses alone. This is a good beginning for a section where commercial broilers were unknown before.

These eight houses were built and broilers were raised in a year when broilers were the cheapest in years. The outlook for broilers for 1957 looks much better, it has been pointed out.
All broilers raised thus far have been grown on a five cents per bird guaranty. Practically no disease has been encountered and these farmers have succeeded in growing these broilers, according to reports from D.W. Brady, Assistant County Agent from Martin County.

Other farmers are showing interest in the broiler enterprise in view of the poultry processing plant being erected in Robersonville that will have a capacity of five million birds per year.
Brady stated that only a small amount of labor is required to handle a house of 5,000 broilers and a housewife can handle this. Poultry is an added income that doesn't require any cultivated land and provides the farmer with a supplementary income five times per year.

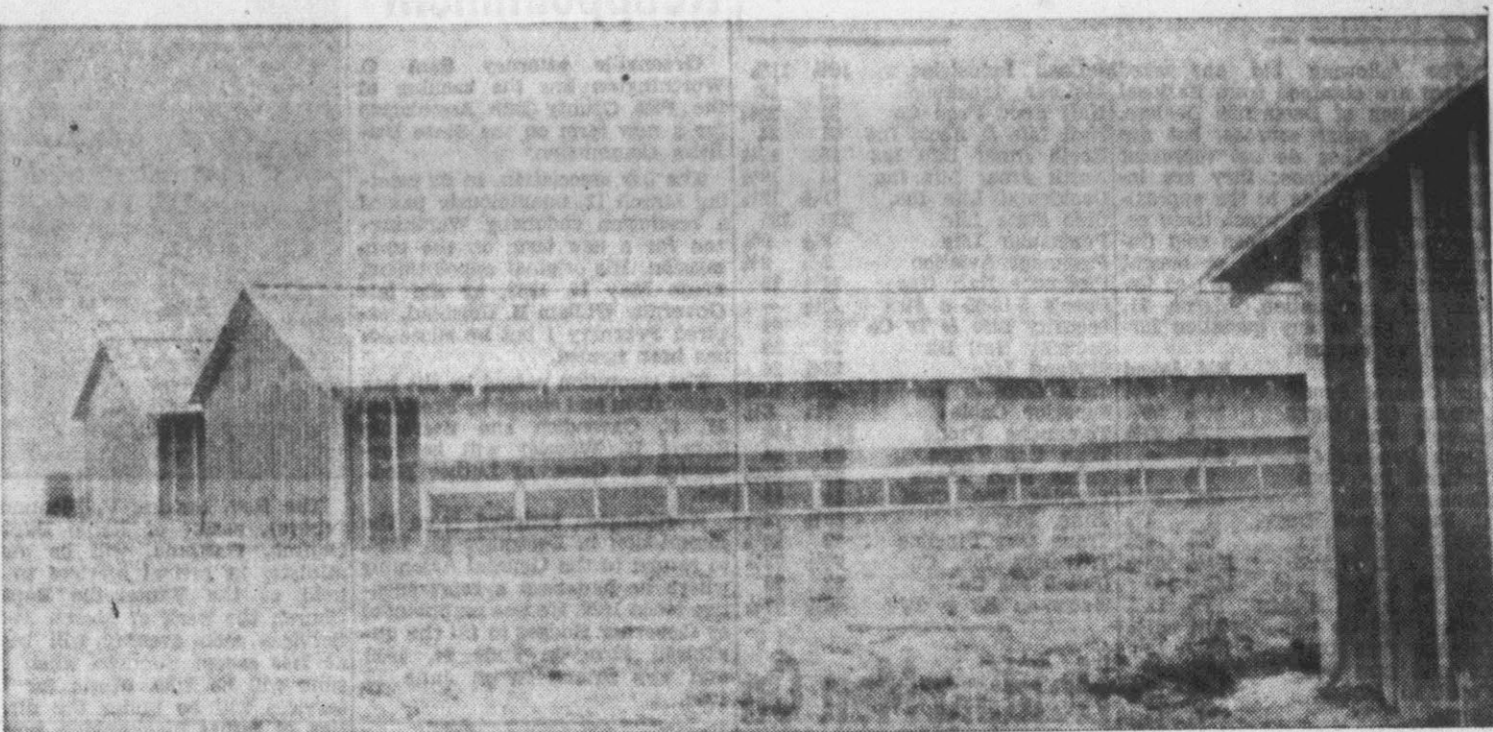

With the Robersonville processing plant getting underway, there will be no marketing problem for the farmers of Pitt County who are planning to go into the broiler raising business.

Future Outlook
In years to come if the poultry trend continues in this section, there is no question in the mind of agricultural authorities that Pitt County will be deeply engrossed in the business.

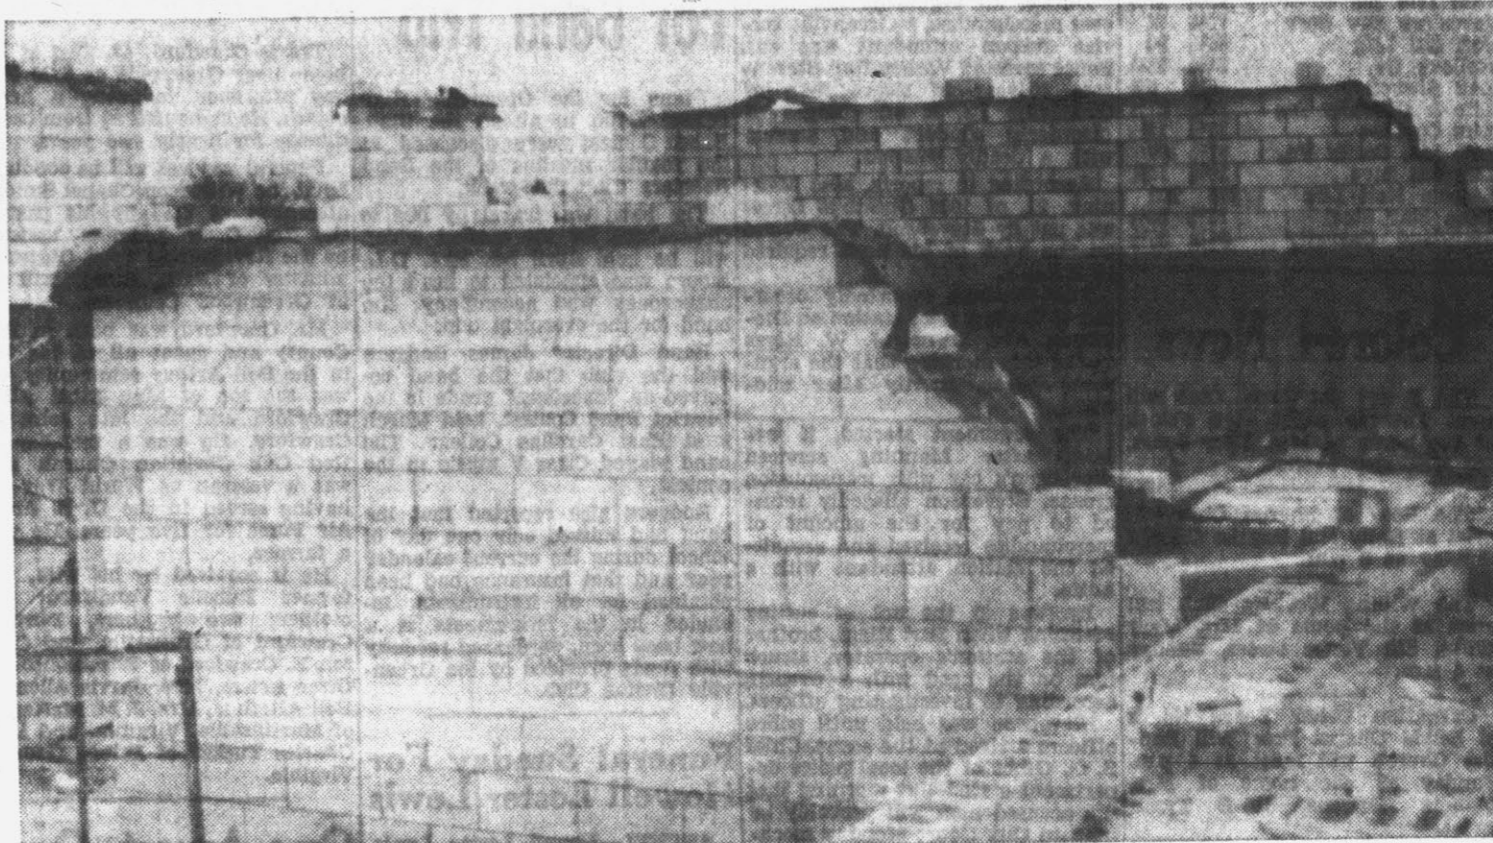

With five cents per bird guaranteed, a farmer can be assured of $1,000 for producing five 5,000 batches of broilers a year. If the price increases, and many experts feel that it will, the profits will be greater.
The need for broiler-size birds in the next 25 years will increase 80 percent above the level of production in 1952. If this area goes into broiler production, the farmer will not be intruding on the right of the large broiler areas of Georgia, Western North Carolina and several other neighboring states—it is a need that has to be filled.

Pitt County Agent S.C. Winchester stated this week that farmers, large and small, could consider broiler production as an additional source of income and that a producer with facilities for feeding four broods a year with 5,000 birds in each batch, could expect a gross income of $13,760 if broilers sell at 21½ cents per pound.
In the next 25 years, Winchester stated, the need for eggs will be 40 percent above usage today. With increased per capita income expected in all segments of the American society, more eggs per person will be consumed. He added that is another aspect that the Pitt County farmer could consider in his search for some type of diversification.

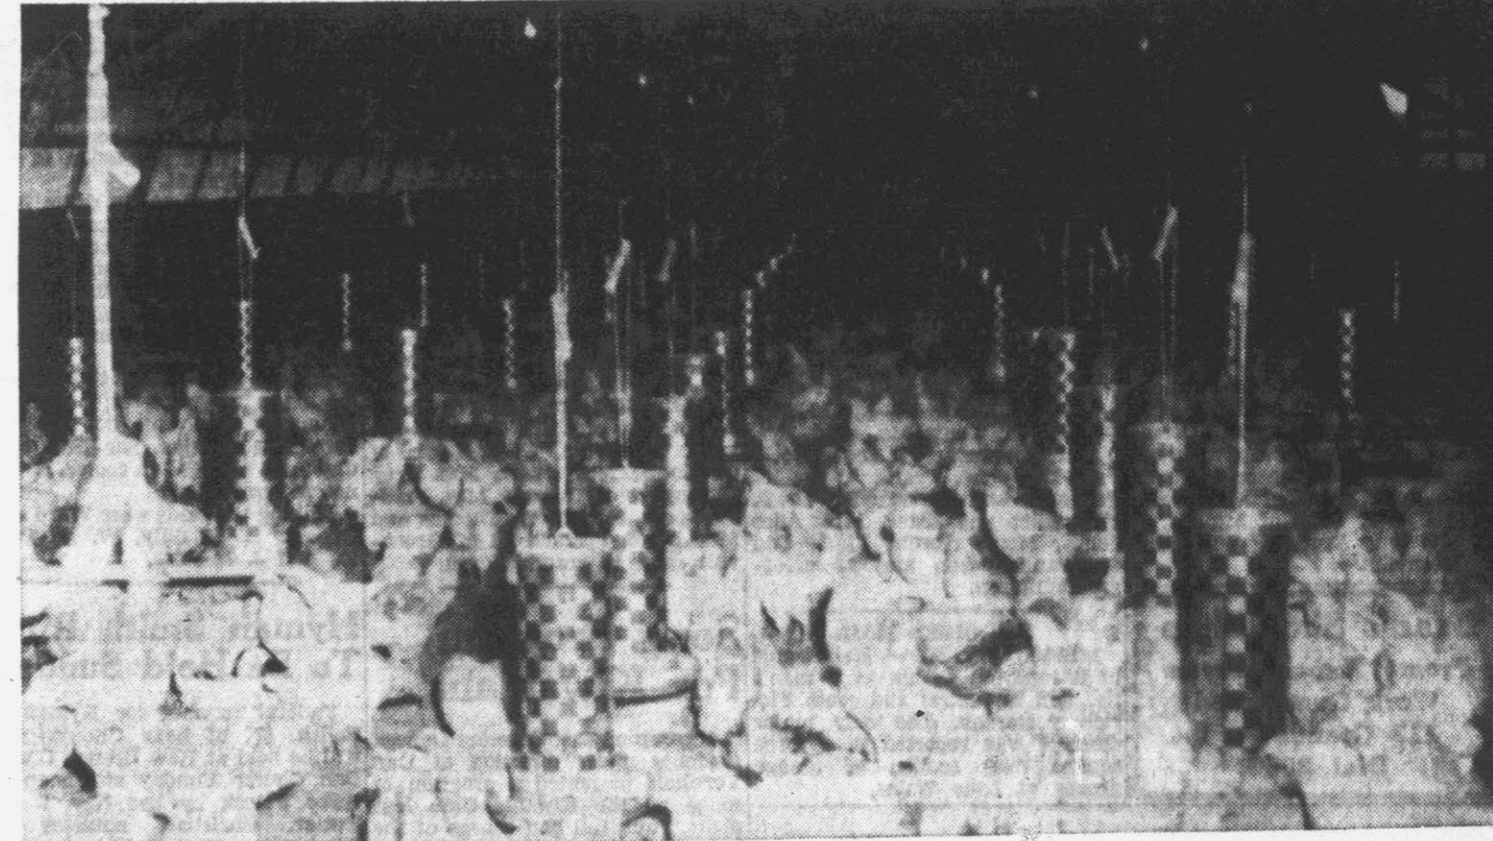

Considering the facts and the needs of the farmers of this county at the present time, it is generally felt that the future of poultry, in its various forms, will go a long way toward supplementing "wounded" incomes in the next 25 years.

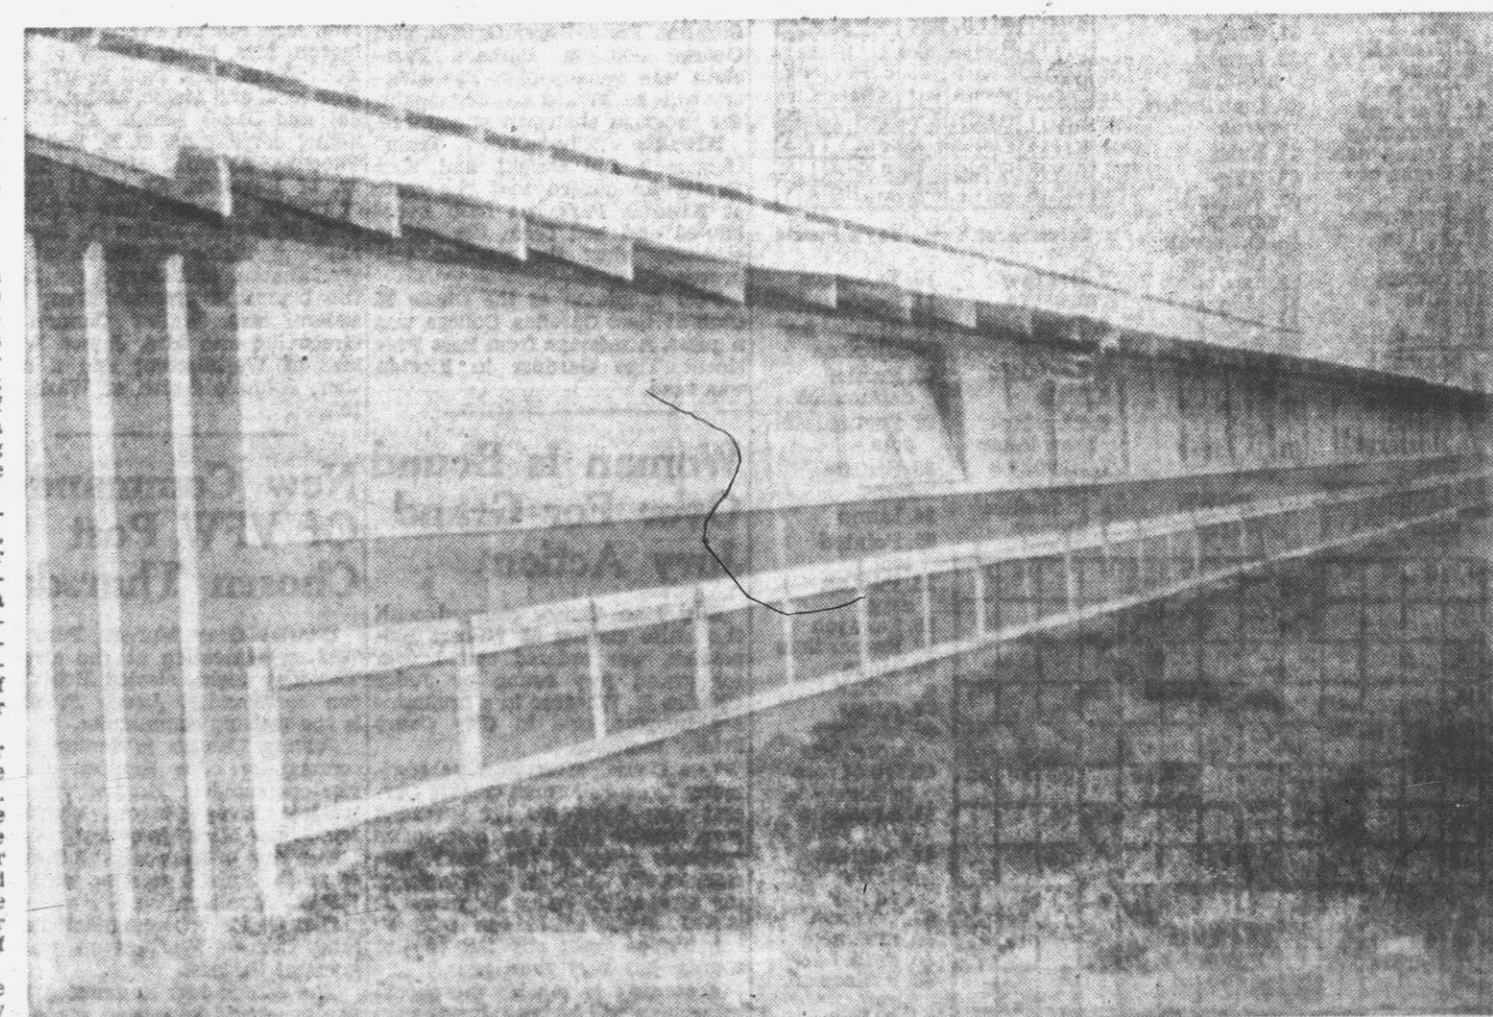

VOLUME—Poultry raising can be profitable providing the grower works on a volume basis. These three houses are located on a Martin County farm. Recently built, all three houses are now in use. The owner has already sold several 5,000 broiler batches. (Reflector Staff Photo).

PROCESSING PLANT CONSTRUCTION—The poultry processing plant in Robersonville is presently under construction and, according to corporation officials, will be finished sometime during the month of June or July. Shown above is one segment of the building. The plant will serve the poultry raisers of Eastern North Carolina and is the largest such operation East of Raleigh. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Farm Migration Probably To Induce Mechanization

By EVERETTE PARKER
Reflector Staff Writer

Under present circumstances, the farmer in Pitt County and Eastern North Carolina could face acute problems in the next 25 years.
It is unlikely, however, that these circumstances will prevail for the farmers of this locale are beginning to realize their plight and are taking major steps to prevent present trends from continuing. The "great awakening" came, in the opinion of many qualified observers, with this year's 20 percent tobacco acreage cut.

This tobacco cut has had a tremendous effect on Pitt County and Eastern North Carolina. Many tenants have found themselves without sufficient farm acreage to assure the needs of their families. This alone is causing many to seek another field of endeavor.

Population Data
National figures realized just a few weeks ago show that the population of the United States has reached 170,000,000. This figure is expected to increase by about 34 per cent by 1975, to a total of approximately 228,000,000.
The farm population has decreased from 32,101,000 in 1935 to 22,158,000 in 1955. A sizable movement trend has been in existence for sometime now but statewide attention was called to its trend because of mere necessity.

The 1950 census of agriculture shows that 43 per cent of the commercial farms in the United States had about $1,500 average money income from all sources. This report also shows that the low income farms are heavily concentrated in the South with 49 per cent of the farms, 52 per cent of the population in farm-operator households and only 27 per cent of the marketed agricultural commodities produced. Approximately one million full time farm families in the United States have too few farm resources to permit a satisfactory level of income.

Bigger Production
A farmer, in 1900 produced enough farm supplies for his family and one other family. Today a farmer is producing enough for himself and ten others in this country plus exporting enough for about eight people overseas.
Pitt Farm Agent S. C. Winchester states, "It is common knowledge that if the national economy continues as it is today, in 1975, there will be a much smaller farm labor force."

"However we have no way of telling what the future holds for the farmer in this area unless we go by the trend for the past several years and under the circumstances, this would not show, in the opinion of most authorities, conclusive figures", Winchester added.
Historical data from the U. S. Census shows the following information about the tenant trend in Pitt County: In 1890 there were 735 tenants; 1900, 2,374; 1910, 3,047; 1920, 4,252; 1925, 4,792; 1930, the high year in the history of Pitt with 5,328; 1935, 4,556; 1940, 4,151; 1945, 4,958; 1950, 4,357; and 1955, 4,110.

Tenant population, after reaching a peak in 1930, has shown a steady but not alarming decrease with the low point coming in 1955. Since 1935, the figures, despite the drop, have managed to remain above the 4,000 mark. More recent figures have not been released.

Future Trends
The Pitt County Farm Agent has said, "There is a great need in this area for processing plants to process the products of our farms and to absorb the labor that will be leaving the farms. The present trend for farm size to increase will and should continue."

"There probably will be a trend to two specific types of farms. (1) Full time farming that will require quite a lot of acreage under one management. This farm will probably be the size of 100 acres and up. (2) The part time farm, or farmer, will seek off-farm employment for a part of the year, or part time employment three to five days per week and use the farm as a subsistence income, selling relatively small amounts of products from time to time. This type of farm will probably run from three to thirty acres."

Other factors involved in the migration from the farms of Pitt will probably be increased mechanization and greater efficiency.
Mechanization
According to data taken from the U. S. Census the farmers in this county show a definite trend toward mechanization.

Tractors have made the biggest advance in numbers in Pitt. In 1940 there were only 184 owned in the county. Since that time increases were made to 490 in 1945, 1,321 in the next five years and the big jump to 2,271 in 1955.
Another big increase was shown by motor trucks. According to figures in 1940 there were 329 here. In 1945 there were 490 and a big increase in 1950 to 992. The big jump was recorded in 1955 with the farmers owning 1,451.

The trend holds true for field forage harvesters with 41, pickup hay balers, with none shown as far back as 1945, showing increases of 162 in 1950 and 205 in 1955. Corn pickers also registered a substantial increase according to the figures, jumping from 91 in 1950 to 247 five years later.
Each farm with the addition of even one of these pieces of machinery could do without that "extra" help, thereby cutting a hand that might work one or two days a week. These machinery figures have shown steady increases over the past 15 to 20 years as the farm tenant population has shown somewhat of a steady decrease. This is conclusive within itself.

Urban Growth
In the 10 year period from 1940 until 1950, Pitt County's urban population increased from 25.6 per cent to 30.8 per cent. Figures for the last six years have not been made available but several informed persons have said that the population of urban areas has increased to approximately 33 per cent. The population in the county, as depicted by recent figures, shows that the rural farm claims 1-3 of the total, as does the farm and urban areas with the urban area showing the largest increase.

In the next 25 years the farm labor situation could be an acute one if the present trend continues. With further acreage cuts, and mechanization ahead for the farmers of Pitt County, supplements will have to be found to enable the small farmer to survive.

Living In Debt, A Way Of Life

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—That living in debt is a way of life for an increasing number of Americans is official today. A government agency study group says so. And it thinks the habit will go on spreading.
This may not surprise the millions who together have 31½ billion dollars more to pay on such things as autos, furniture, home appliances and travel, and to the hordes who added about 15 billion dollars to the nation's outstanding mortgage debt total last year.

This way of life is most prevalent among younger families and among those with incomes in the middle brackets.
The study group is the statistical staff of the Federal Reserve Board, which had been asked to report on installment credit to President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers. It finds that buying goods and services on the cuff and making payments on a house over many years has become widely respectable, especially since World War II.

Families have been putting an average of 11 per cent of their spendable income into installment buying in the last two years, the group reports. It thinks this will gradually rise to 13 or 14 per cent by 1965.
Most families pay little attention to how much more this costs them in interest rates and carrying charges. The controlling concern is how much the monthly payments will be and if the family income will cover them.

For example, the average monthly payment on new cars has stayed around $80 in recent years. The rise in total auto financing has come, in addition to the number sold, in the lengthening of the period of payment. This has let installment buyers take on higher priced models.
The Federal Reserve group figures that monthly payment terms on autos and appliances have been lowered just about as far as they can be, so it thinks most of the future debt will come from the new and growing invasion of the consumer credit field by the financiers of travel, vacations and services, and by the increased emphasis on it by department and other retail stores.

Pitt Bar Backs Reappointment

Greenville attorney Sam O. Worthington has the backing of the Pitt County Bar Association for a new term on the State Utilities Commission.

The bar association, in its meeting March 12, unanimously passed a resolution endorsing Worthington for a new term on the commission. His original appointment, made May 14, 1953, by the late Governor William B. Umstead, expired February 1 but no successor has been named.

The resolution passed by the bar association and signed by President M. E. Cavendish and Secretary Robert D. Wheeler will be forwarded to Governor Luther Hodges.

The resolution passed by the commission in December 31, 1954, to return to the General Assembly where he had been a representative since 1939. He was reappointed by Governor Hodges to fill the unexpired term on June 24, 1955, and was sworn in on June 28, 1955.

Ordered To Pay
TARBORO — The State Supreme Court this week affirmed an Edgecombe Superior Court decision in which the town of Princeville was ordered to pay compensation to the widow of a police officer killed on duty two years ago.

Marvin Horton, representing Emma Andrews, widow of Princeville Police Chief Jim Jones, in March of 1955, contended that Princeville is bound by the provisions of the N. C. Workman's Compensation Act. The attorney said Andrews was an employee of Princeville and received $5 per month for policing the Negro community at night and on weekends. He said Andrews' death "arose out of and in the course of his employment with the town of Princeville."

Seeks Relection
WILSON — Mayor John Daniel Wilson has announced publicly to the Wilson American Legion Post that he will be a candidate to succeed himself for the coming term of office.

The mayor, now completing his fourth year in office, is the only candidate to declare himself for the post. Under law, the mayor has no vote in municipal affairs except to break a tie. His work is limited to presiding at board meetings and representing the city at various social functions.

Lost One
GOLDSBORO — Wayne County was one of 19 North Carolina counties which showed a loss in the number of large manufacturing plants (100 employees or more) during the period 1947-56. It was one of 14 counties which showed a net loss of plant but it was only last year that the loss occurred with the closing of Atlas Plywood Corporation.

Losses of one of one to five plants were reported from 19 counties throughout the state while 31 counties showed no gain or loss. The report, published by the UNC Institute of Government, shows that Wayne County had nine manufacturing plants in 1947 and eight at the end of 1956.

Processing Plant
GRANTHAM — Fred Hood announced Thursday night that his Grantham rabbit processing plant will begin operations on Monday of next week. The announcement came at a meeting of the fast-growing Eastern North Carolina Rabbit Breeders Association.

Hood, speaking at the meeting, stated that he will process 500 rabbits a week more than can be supplied at present by growers in the area. Lauded for taking the initiative of being the first in this area to enter the rabbit processing industry, the speaker warned the group that a quality rabbit must be produced if the rabbit industry is to flourish.

Holding Man On Knifing Charge

During an argument last night over merchandise, a Greenville service station attendant was cut. Police arrested Wesley Ray Stevenson, 25-year-old Negro man of Greenville, R. 2, on charges of disorderly conduct and assault with a deadly weapon.

According to reports, Mac Manning, 21, of 1006 Chestnut Street was cut by Stevenson. The wound on the back of his neck required 10 stitches.

The incident reportedly occurred at Riggs service station on Dickinson Ave. Owens J. W. Riggs stated this morning that the argument began shortly after midnight.

The argument started, it was said, after Manning serviced Stevenson's car with transmission grease. Stevenson allegedly refused to pay for the amount of merchandise received and assaulted the station attendant with a knife.

He was in the act of cutting Manning when Earl Riggs, brother of the station's operator, struck him on the head with a wrench, according to investigating officers.

Stevenson was held until police officers arrived at the scene. Chief S. G. Gibbs of the local police department stated this morning that the man who was probably be tried in City Court Monday morning.

There's Space In The New Telephone Building

Ultra-Modern Offices Soon Completed

TESTING BOARD—Frank Harrington, local telephone manager, is shown by the testing board which is located in the plant room on the first floor of the new Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Toll Building. Reflector Staff Writer

"We have been in a cramped, rented quarters for so long that we can now really appreciate having room to turn around," was the quick answer that local telephone manager Frank Harrington gave when asked how he liked the new, modern Carolina Telephone and Telegraph toll building located on Fifth Street.

This new, two story building will be dedicated the last of the summer, but Harrington said, "We hope to begin full operations here in June."

At the present time, only the office force are in the new toll building, as they moved from their old quarters on Cotanche Street February 4. About 80 persons will be employed when the full facilities are complete.

Electricians and workmen are still working in the plant and switchboard rooms completing the necessary wiring and installations.

Since the new building will be strictly a toll and office building, the Dickinson Avenue building will still be maintained for local service.

Value Grown

When the facilities are finished, "We will have approximately a million dollars in this new building and equipment," Harrington commented.

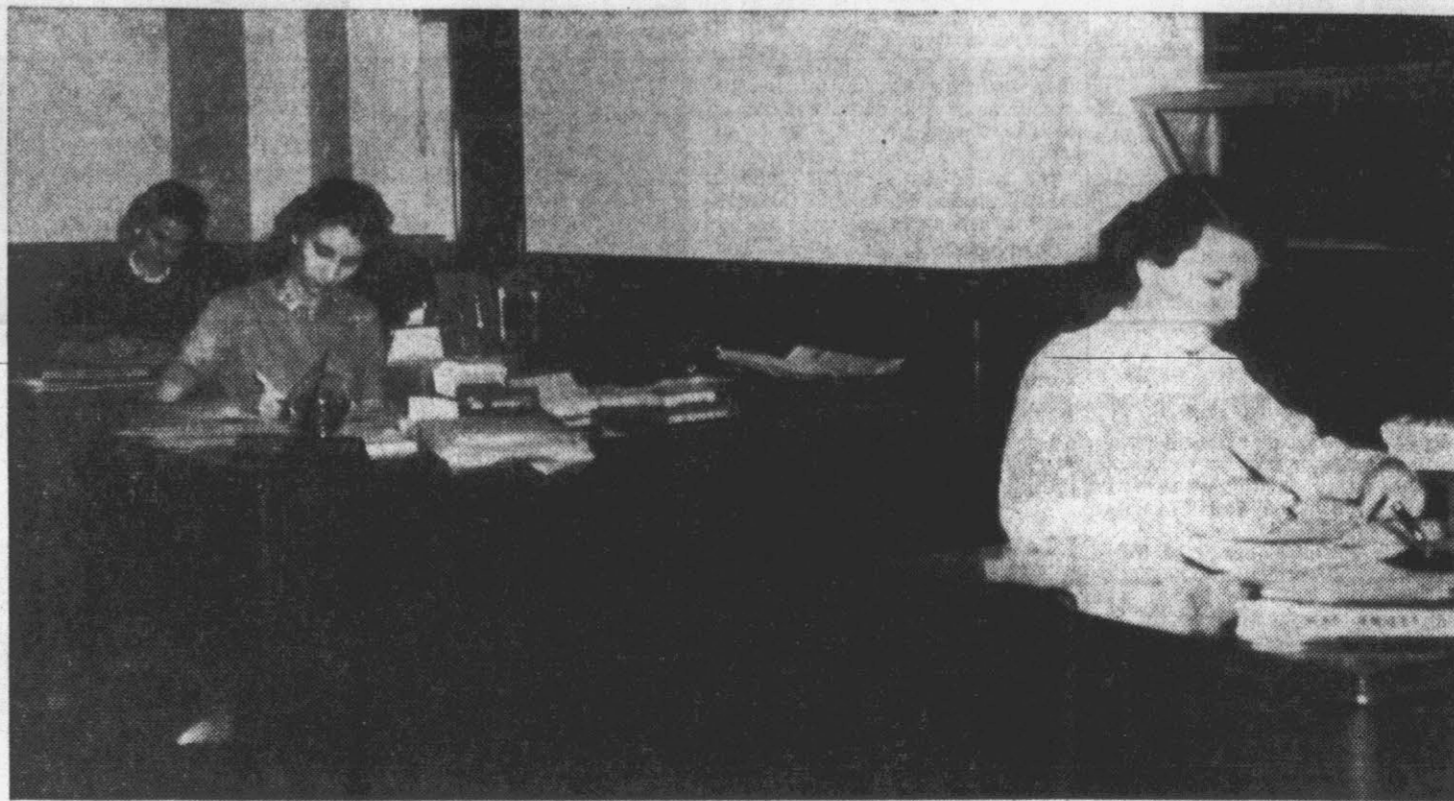

In 1946 the plant in Greenville was worth $452,000, and at the end of 1956 its value had increased to the total of $2,375,000—an increase of $1,923,000.

In 1946 the Greenville plant served 2,320 telephones and at the end of last month their service had grown to 7,225 telephones—a growth of 5,000 telephones in a ten year period.

A tour

There are 11 spacious rooms located throughout the two-story building. In the large basement come the power plant, air-conditioning, and heating units are located.

The power plant can be operated in case of an emergency to insure telephone service at all times.

Harrington's office, the commercial office where the routine paper work is carried on, and the plant room are located on the first floor. The plant room houses all of the equipment that is associated with the switchboard.

The television equipment is also located in a corner of the plant room. Here four men transfer the network T.V. programs that come in on micro-waves to WNCT and WITN television stations.

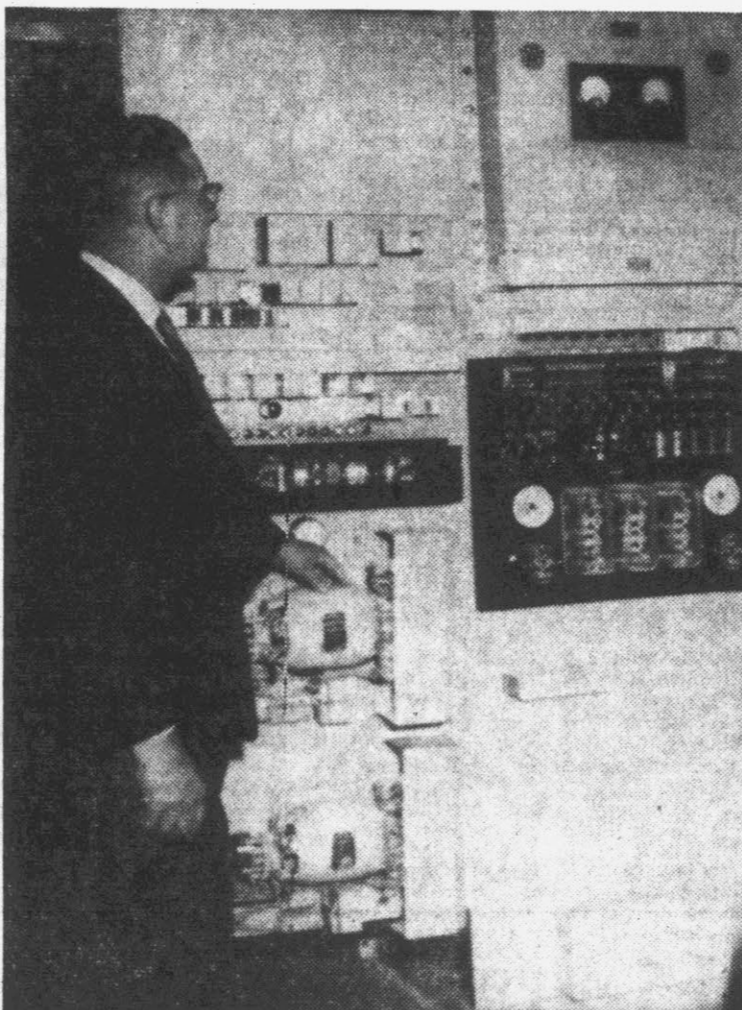

On the second floor, there is a gigantic switchboard which has 24 long distance position and a large freshment room, quiet room, and door in the foyer and here, "Custom amount of new equipment which a locker room are also on the mers can make payments until 10 p.m. and all day on Saturday calls quickly and expertly. A night depository has been and Sunday," explained Harrington.

Two classrooms, a lounge, re-placed to the right of the front ton.

MANY WIRES—At the present time members of Western Electric Company are shown working throughout the building. Harrington said it will probably be June before the building can begin full operation. R. E. Stoney is installing wires located in the plant room that will connect with the switchboard equipment on the second floor.

POWER ROOM—Frank Harrington is studying the rectifiers that charge the batteries necessary for the operation of the telephone system. The power room is located in the basement of the new building on Fifth Street.

TELEVISION SERVICE—J. P. Williamson and Mack Proctor are busy with the controls that handle all of the television network programs to WNCT and WITN. The micro-wave signal comes in to a FM Receiver which takes the T. V. off of the micro-wave and feeds it to another radio system that sends it to the T. V. stations.

SWITCHBOARD—W. R. Ellis of Western Electric Company is shown above testing cord circuits at the switchboard located on the second floor. This board has 24 long distance switchboard positions. These facilities are expected to be in operation in approximately 10 weeks.

REFRESHMENTS ANYONE?—In order to create a nappy working force, a refreshment room is also a main feature of the new building. At the present time the room is sparsely furnished, but plans call for three additional tables and chairs besides the sink, stove, and icebox combination and drink box that is already located in the room. In the above picture Floyd and Henrietta Rowe are enjoying a cup of coffee with Jean Lee.

Tar Heels Face Kansas For NCAA Crown Tonight

Kansas Given Edge Over Nation's First

By WILL GRIMSLEY
KANSAS CITY (AP)—Can Kansas and Wilt (The Slim) Chamberlain crack the 31-game winning streak and fabulous luck of North Carolina's self-termed "team of destiny"?

That question will be answered tonight when the nation's No. 1 and 2 basketball teams clash in the final of the National Collegiate (NCAA) Basketball Tournament at the Municipal Auditorium.

Kansas, although ranked second behind the unbeaten North Carolinians, rules a 3-point favorite.

A consolation contest between last night's semi final losers, Michigan State and San Francisco, precedes the championship game.

like a team of destiny all year." The experts feel the Tar Heels' luck may be stretched a bit thin when they encounter Chamberlain. The sophomore from Philadelphia can reach 12 1/2 feet on a normal jump and take 13 feet in a single stride.

However, says McGuire: "I have watched him a lot in the mountains and I don't feel he is as relaxed and smooth here as at home."

The game is a 10,000 sellout. Forty thousand ticket hunters were turned away.

Chamberlain's 32 points last night included many easy thrusts from above the basket. He hit for a better average than Rosenbluth, connecting on 12 of 22 field goals compared with 12 of 42 for the North Carolina ace.

Berrios Chases Costa For Win

North Carolina, twice within a breath of defeat, weathered three overtime periods to turn back a big, tough Michigan State team 74-70. Kansas, with the seven-foot Chamberlain dunking the ball regularly, crushed San Francisco 80-56.

Frank McGuire, coach of North Carolina, is worried about Chamberlain, the beanpole Negro who can reach within 6 inches of the rim of the basket standing flat-footed.

"This big boy frightens you, the things he can do with the ball," McGuire said.

"At any rate we are going to play him normally, and we're going into the game unafraid."

Dick Harp, Kansas Coach, said, "It will be our toughest game."

North Carolina's 6-foot-5 Lennie Rosenbluth, was the individual standout and scorer of 31 points in the nerve-jarring victory over Michigan State. Chamberlain dumped in 32 points for Kansas.

McGuire, a Brooklyn Irishman who has four Irish boys in his starting lineup, said, "We were lucky. Ordinarily, nine times out of ten we would have lost a game like this. But we've been playing

NEW YORK (AP)—Aggressive Miguel Berrios chased flat-footed Carmelo Costa out of the featherweight elimination tournament and predicted he would do the same to Hogan (Kid) Bassey if the Nigerian gets on a bicycle in their Washington fight April 26.

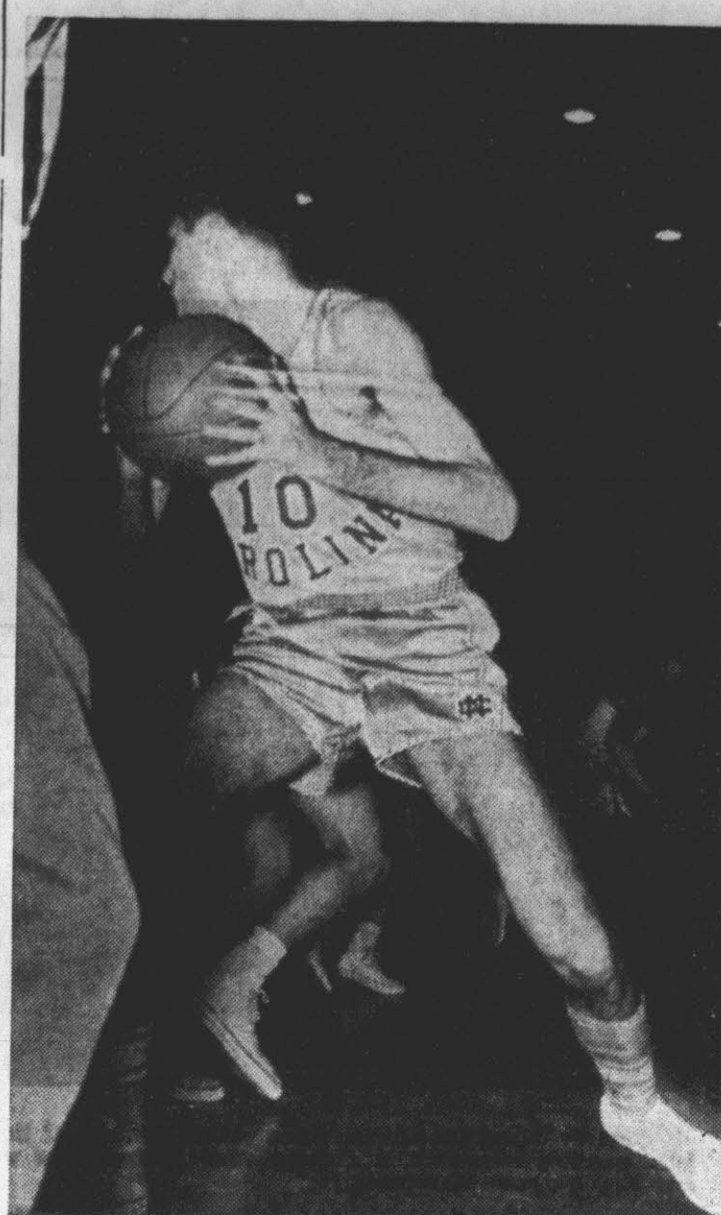

"I have never seen this Bassey but I only hope he will make a fight," said the pint-sized, 24-year-old Puerto Rican. "If he doesn't I will catch him like I caught Costa."

Mothersless when he was three months old, the lion-hearted little fellow, who stands only 5-2, vowed, "I will win the championship so that my four kids will have all the things and the education that I didn't have."

Although he was the aggressor throughout and floored Costa in the 10th round, the night's mite won only by a split decision in the televised 12-rounder at Madison Square Garden last night. The win moved Miguel into the semifinals of the tourney to decide a successor to retired featherweight champion Sandy Saddler.

The winner of the Berrios-Bassey bout will meet France's European champion, Cherif Hamia, for the title in May, probably at Syracuse, N. Y. Bassey, who never has fought in the United States, defends his British Empire 126-pound crown against Percy Lewis at Nottingham, England, April 1.

Against Kansas Tonight

HERE COMES ROSIE—North Carolina's Lennie Rosenbluth, the ball firmly clinched in his hands, is caught by the camera as he gets set to start the Carolina offensive machinery rolling. Rosenbluth and his mates topped Michigan State last night 74-70 in the semi-final rounds of the NCAA tourney at Kansas City, to earn a berth in the championship tilt tonight against Kansas. ## McGuire Punch-Drunk After Dizzy Victory

By WILL GRIMSLEY
KANSAS CITY (AP)—"I'm punch drunk, what was the final score?" North Carolina's Coach Frank McGuire inquired crazily last night after his Tar Heels had fought through three near-disastrous overtimes to defeat Michigan State in the National Basketball Tournament semifinals.

Told the final score was 74-70 and that his No. 1 team still was undefeated, the dapper Brooklyn Irishman said:

"We were lucky. Nine times out of 10 we would have lost a game like this. But something has been with us all season—and it still is."

Over in the Michigan State dressing room, Spartan Coach Fordy Anderson was not despondent but disappointed over failure of his boys to knock off the national champions.

"We had many opportunities to win," he said. "But we didn't take them. It just wasn't our night. Our name wasn't written on this one."

Then he disclosed that the team's offensive ace, Jack Quiggle, scored 20 points, played the entire game with a sprained ankle.

"Jack hurt his ankle on the first play of the game," Anderson said. "He stuck it out even though it must have pained him greatly. His play was affected, naturally, but I thought he was great."

The Michigan State coach said he doubted that Quiggle would be able to play the consolation game tonight.

McGuire praised the icy calm of his unbeaten athletes under pressure but said he felt they did not play up to their capabilities.

"I think they pressed too much," he said, "they didn't play the control game as they should have."

The North Carolina coach said Tommy Kearns, his 5-11, aggressive guard, especially was keyed up to an unusual pitch.

"I had to call Tommy aside and tell him that he had won 10 games for me this year and to just go

Aragon Free On $5,000 Bail As Appeal Pending

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Boxer Art Aragon, convicted of fixing a fight and sentenced to 1 to 5 years in prison, is at liberty today on $5,000 bond, pending an appeal.

"My heart's broken; I don't feel I can ever fight again," the "Golden Boy" of California pugilism said.

Aragon said he intended to spend his period of freedom in an effort to prove his innocence.

"I'm going to prove I'm innocent, not to try," he continued. "I'm going to prove it."

Then he burst into tears as a photographer approached him to take a picture. He turned his head as he shouted: "Don't do it; don't do it."

He was convicted this week of fixing a scheduled fight last December with boxer Dick Goldstein. The bout was scheduled for San Antonio, Tex., but wasn't held. Aragon pleaded illness shortly before he was to go on.

The District Court of Appeal will hear Aragon's petition and a ruling may not be issued for several months.

USC Footballers In Practice Play

COLUMBIA (AP)—The University of South Carolina's spring football practice was climaxed today with the playing of the intrasquad game.

Head Coach Warren Giese said last night that he was generally pleased with the way the squad has shaped up this spring.

The blocking and tackling has been "tough," Giese commented. "Long runs," he added, "have occurred with more frequency this spring than last year."

3:59 Mile

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Mervyn Lincoln became the second Australian to break the three-minute mile on home soil at Melbourne University. In a special track meet today he covered the distance in 3:59.0.

Lincoln won the event by more than 100 yards. He ran the quarter mile in 59 seconds, the half mile in 2:00.3 and the three-quarter in 3:00.

His official time was given as 3:58.9, but under international rules it will be recognized as 3:59.0.

John Landy was the other Australian miler to run under four minutes on home soil. He ran 3:58.6 on Jan. 28, 1956 and had the same time in a special race April 7, 1956.

Lincoln was fresh after his run. "I would have done better but I thought the announcement was three minutes, three seconds for the three-quarter mile. I decided to run on for the last lap and if I heard the time correctly, I might have done better," he said.

His coach, Austrian-born Franz Stampfl, coached Roger Bambister to the first four-minute mile in history.

Rain, East Carolina baseball's biggest foe of the early season, invaded College Field yesterday afternoon a few minutes before playing time of the ECC-VPI contest and stayed until dark. The game was postponed.

This afternoon, beginning at 1:30, the two teams squared off to do battle in a double-header.

It promised to be a busy afternoon for both East Carolina and the Southern Conference visitors. Neither team has played a full game yet in the early season and both Coach Jim Mallory and Coach Red Laird planned to use the originally scheduled two-day series to test their talent. It was expected that both clubs would see plenty of shifting around in order to achieve this in the one afternoon left.

Expected to start on the mound for the Bucs this afternoon was sophomore veteran Leonard Lilley, a righthander. Slated to go in from that point were another soph, Ben Baker, and a freshman, George Williams. Baker is a lefty.

Coach Mallory stated earlier that his pitchers for the second game would probably be veteran Charlie Russell, an All-Stater, and Bruce Shelley, a transfer from Campbell College. Also expected to see duty was Mack McPherson, another veteran hurler.

Laird's starters were unnamed at the time of publication.

The starting infield for the Pirates today was expected to run like this: Dean Robbins, first base; Gary Treon, second base; Jerry Stewart, shortstop; Bucky Reep, third base. Substitutes who were set to go in at any time were Wade Nixon, Jr. and Bob Lewis, both veterans.

The outfield was named by Mallory as Berny Stevens, Joel Long and Tommy Land, Senior Ray Pennington and freshmen Ted

Green Phantoms Preparing For 1957 Campaign

Baseball at Greenville high school for 1957 is at one of its highest points in many years, according to Coach Boley Farley.

With a large turnout, a host of returning veterans and a set of new uniforms, the Phantoms have been readying for their opening Northeastern Conference game of the year against New Bern, on April 2, there.

Farley stated this morning that his boys have been working out for several days now and that most of his positions are filled, at least tentatively. "We hope to schedule at least two games with non-conference clubs before the opening game with New Bern, but there is nothing definite at the present time," he added.

The Green club, which compiled a 7-7 record last year, is looking forward to a better season all around, according to Farley. The Phantom mentor said recently, "With our added experience from last year, we should play better than 500 ball this year. If our pitching holds up as well now as it did in 1956, we should be able to hold our own in the Northeastern Conference."

Greenville lost three regulars from last year's squad. First baseman Mike Riddick, shortstop Ike Riddick and second baseman Tommy Key Norris graduated. Farley has hopes of replacing the departed three with Dick Evans, Billy Cox and Arthur Andrews, respectively. The rest of the infield will be composed of Walker Lee Allen at third base.

The Phantom outfield is set with Joe Wingate, Bobby Edwards, and Charlie Smith, three veterans. Smith and Wingate were two of the club's top hitters in '56.

Greenville's biggest threat lies in the pitching department. Last year, with a green team and not much hitting power, it was the huriling of freshmen Merrill Bynum, Charlie Stator and Ronnie Finch that pulled them up to 500 ball. This year all three boys are expected back in the lineup. Hutch Miller, who played for the Phantoms in '55 as a pitcher, is also back with the club.

Farley has been putting his boys through drills and practices on fundamentals, with an emphasis on hitting and fielding early this year. Rain has hampered much of the drill, but he stated today that his team is in good condition for so early in the season.

NIT Finals To See Opposite Offenses

NEW YORK (AP)—Point-mad Bradley (210 in two games) matches his shooting accuracy against hit-and-run Memphis State today in the final of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

Bradley is rated a 6-point favorite in the nationally televised game. Temple and St. Bonaventure will meet for third place.

This is Memphis State's first appearance in the NIT.

State Coach Bob Vanatta, who built up the Bradley team he now must face since moving to Memphis last summer, says "Bradley has great depth, team speed and height. It is as good a rebounding club as there is in the country."

"We've done pretty well against more than one big club—Oklahoma City and Louisville are both bigger than Bradley, for example—but the Braves have more jumping height than the other teams we've met."

That took care of Bradley. How about MS?

"We're fundamentally a running team," said Vanatta. "We can play pattern basketball, though. If they let us run, though, we're going to run and run."

Chuck Orsborn, Bradley's assistant coach, who was Vanatta's assistant until the latter pulled up stakes, wasn't happy at the favorite's role accorded his team.

"It's tough to be the favorite," he said. "The one reason I have to feel good now is that we seem to be coming back."

"We played very good ball from early in January until the middle of February. Then we sloughed off. We weren't right until we reached the tournament. Now, I'd say we're back at our peak."

This is the sixth time Bradley has appeared in the tournament but the first since 1950 when the Braves were beaten by City College of New York in the final.

Bucs Competing Against Best Of Small Colleges

CARBONDALE, Ill.—East Carolina College's swimming team is among the favored clubs participating in the First Annual National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics swimming tournament here today.

Eight teams, including 75 swimmers, will compete in 140 events in the match. The eight teams are the best of the small college swimming crop of 1957.

Trials for the match were held early this morning and the actual competition for honors was to begin tonight.

The eight teams participating are: East Carolina, Greenville; Central Michigan; Western Illinois; Beloit; Bell State; Tennessee State; and Illinois Wesleyan.

Coach Raymond Martinez' outfit from Greenville is far and away the most impressive club entered in the event, record wise. The Buc schedule included many of the nation's top swimming clubs, with North Carolina State, North Carolina, William and Mary, VPI, VMI and Georgia the biggest names.

Martinez carried two top relay teams and backstroke Bob Sawyer as his biggest threat to the match. Sawyer, who has been defeated in his specialty only once in his college career, is hailed as one of the nation's best swimmers and is being primed for All-America honors.

North-South Play Now At Quarterfinal Point

By KEN ALYTA
PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—The field in the North and South Women's Amateur golf tournament was down to quarterfinal size here today, with such "solid" players as Anne Quast, Anne Richardson, Mary Ann Downey and Barbara McIntire still in the running, along with impressive newcomers, Mrs. Ann Casey Johnstone and Mrs. Paul Dye.

But the player catching the eye of the gallery was Cynthia Sullivan, a stocky 19-year-old from Harrisburg, Pa., who attends Coker College in Hartsville, S.C.

Miss Sullivan shot a 95 in the qualifying round to miss the cutoff point by five shots a year ago. From there she dropped in flight, play and lost both her matches.

Three days ago she lowered her medal score to 88 and has been on an upset spree ever since.

Today she faced Barbara McIntire of Toledo, Ohio, who last year was runnerup in the National Women's Open.

Miss Sullivan, a long hitter, duplicated Tiny Clifford Ann Creed of Opelousas, La., 2 and 1 in the second round, duplicating the score of her first round upset of Mary Patton Janssen of Charlottesville, Va.

The Sullivan-McIntire match headed the upper bracket pairings, which also sent Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore against Mrs. N. S. Woolworth of New Canaan, Conn.

In the upper half Mrs. Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa, who trimmed medalist Marge Burns of Greensboro, N. C., 3 and 2, met Anne Quast of Marysville, Wash., winner by the same score over Judy Bell of Wichita, Kan. Anne Richardson of Columbus, Ohio, 2 and 1 victor over Betty Kerby of Akron, Ohio, defeated Mrs. Paul Dye of Indian-

Calhoun Equals World Record

CLEVELAND (AP)—Lee Calhoun of North Carolina College tied the world indoor record last night as he won the 50-yard high hurdles in 6.1 seconds at the Cleveland Arena in the season's final indoor track meet.

The Olympic gold medalist came home a yard ahead of Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan.

Olympic stars won all the individual honors, and the one who sparkled brightest was Laszle Tabori, Hungarian refugee, who ran the two miles in 8:54.8. Tabori, who spent some of his training time at the University of North Carolina, won by almost a lap over Charley (Deacon) Jones.

Other winners included the Rev. Bob Richards, who set a meet record in the pole vault at 15 feet, 3 1/2 inches; Ron Delany, who won the mile in 4:10.4; Arnie Sowell of Pitt, winning the 1,000-yard run trophy for the third straight year; Charley Jenkins of Villanova in the 400-meter run; Ira Murchison in the 50-yard dash; and Phil Reavis of Villanova in the high jump.

Jim Beatty of North Carolina tied the mile at the three-quarter mark but fell a full 10 yards behind Delany in the last three laps.

Co-Captains For Palmetto Eleven

COLUMBIA (AP)—A pair of two-year senior lettermen, guard Nelson Weston and end Julius Derick, will be co-captains of the University of South Carolina's 1957 football team.

After they were chosen yesterday, head Coach Warren Giese complimented them on the "fine work" that both have done during this season's spring practice.

Pirates Open Season Today Against VPI Club

Chappel, Wally Cockrell and Pat Draughon are also in line for action.

Delaware Next
Following today's games, the Bucs will have a one-day rest before they will jump back into action. The University of Delaware, a Northern power, will come to College Field Monday and Tuesday afternoons for inter-sectional tilts. Delaware defeated ECC by a slim margin in 11 innings last year in an early-season game and went on to a successful season. East Carolina also carried on from there to a fine campaign, winning the North State title.

Little is known of the Yankee club at this time except that they are again expected to be loaded with plenty of hitting and pitching talent, according to Mallory. The games on Monday and Tuesday will begin at 8:00.

EAST CAROLINA INFILDE—ECC opened its 1957 baseball season today against the Southern Conference's VPI, at College Field. The starting infield for the powerful Pirates consisted of the above four boys. (Right to left) Bucky Reep, Jerry Stewart, Gary Treon and Dean Robbins and slated to be regulars throughout the year. Reep and Stewart are juniors playing their third year of ball together in the Buc infield. Treon, a sophomore, also saw some duty last year. Robbins is a former high school sensation from Lenoir. # Progressively Better Rural Health Seen

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Staff Writer

Dr. Walter C. Humbert, a man who knows the future of Pitt County's health problems as few other people know them, thinks that rural residents are in the driver's seat.

"In 20 to 25 years, the average rural resident will be healthier than the average urban resident," the Health Director says.

He bases his observation on a number of factors.

"Each year," he says, "the problem of some acute communicable disease in rural inhabitants becomes less and less a problem. We are fast getting to the point where most of the communicable diseases can be prevented, especially the communicable diseases of childhood."

"The last great communicable disease problem we have without a satisfactory immunization process is tuberculosis. There is a great deal of research in the world — there has been for a long time — trying to find an immunization process similar to that for small-pox."

"In the last few years, there have been some reports quite favorable to that type of immunization process."

Dr. Humbert has an equally optimistic outlook about the future elimination of intestinal tract diseases, respiratory troubles and mental health problems.

"In the future, with greater and more modern methods of sanitation for rural areas, the group of diseases involving the intestinal tract should be very uncommon," he thinks.

"More and more rural areas are becoming electrified and people are getting the facilities of home refrigeration for adequate stores of balanced foods throughout the year. Conditions arising from improper, inadequate and poor nutrition should be less pronounced."

"There should be a lessening of respiratory diseases in rural areas because of pure air in rural areas as compared with saturated air over cities."

"There is no essential difference in the effect of the degenerative diseases — heart conditions, arthritis, cancer, diabetes and kidney diseases — in rural and urban areas. However, both areas should have less of a problem because the progress of medical science ap-

New Pre-School Clinic Date Set

According to Mrs. R. L. Wolff, principal of Elmhurst School, the Elmhurst pre-school clinic will be held Monday, April 15, at 1:30 p.m., rather than Tuesday, April 2, as formerly announced.

On Tuesday, April 2, at 8 p.m. pre-school registration conference will be held in the school auditorium for parents of children who are to enter Elmhurst School in September 1957. At this conference parents will register their children, and be given information in regard to how they can prepare their child for a successful school experience. Parents will attend this meeting on April 2 without their children.

They may at that time secure a medical blank and have their child examined by their own family physician instead of bringing the child through the pre-school clinic. The clinic will be held on Monday, April 15, for those who desire to have their child examined by the school doctors and nurse.

The Brass and the Blue

By noon the temperature rose to staggering heights, but not a man in the command paid the slightest attention. There was a more annoying enemy to think about now. Meanwhile, First Lieutenant Schwabacker went about making quiet preparations, odd though they seemed.

Contrary to usual rules of defense, he had the wagons abandoned and the horse herd moved frequently. Using the animal herd for cover, he instructed the first and third squads to dig pits large enough to hold four men, two soldiers and two civilians to the pit. His survey revealed that a good many of the civilians were armed with the new Henry repeating rifle, or the seven-shot Spencer. He arranged them in the dug positions according to fire-power potential.

Spotted Tail lost men, but he was prepared to do that now. He had to close and there was a price to be paid, and he paid it with fifteen downed men. His next obstacle was the Spencer rifles; he had to crush that force. Driving past the first entrenchments, he met a suddenly increased fire as the Henry rifles entered the fight. This was a numbing shock; Schwabacker could see the hostile mass shudder like a wounded beast.

Dust rose in blinding clouds and gunfire rattled like dice in a wooden box. Then with a yell of bitter defeat, the Cheyennes withdrew from the field. A few braves remained behind to carry away the dead and wounded.

"Sound retreat," Schwabacker said and stood there while the "C" horn gathered his forces. He knew that he had lost men. Knew he would before the flight opened, but Finnegan's report still jarred him.

"Eleven dead and nine wounded, sir."

"How did the civilians fare, Sergeant?"

"They're missin' a few too, sir."

"Re-form the command and see that the wounded are placed in wagons," Schwabacker said, replacing his unfired pistol.

He knew a feeling of satisfaction for now he could report his mission accomplished. At least half of it was, giving Spotted Tail an order licking, Schwabacker waited while his command assembled. Waited for their verdict, positive that one would be rendered by his men. He had invited this attack and men had been killed. They could blame him. Never forgive him. From Rutledge Hughes's expression Schwabacker saw that there was one man who never would. But he didn't give a hoot about Hughes.

He watched the faces of his men as they came in.

A group of troopers stopped nearby, purposely idle. Sergeant Finnegan returned and just stood there, not saying anything. Finally one of the troopers said, "That was a darn good fight, sir."

Schwabacker turned to his own camp and Sergeant Finnegan followed. Finally he said, "I'm just a dumb Irishman who takes orders, but by God, sir, you give 'em, and this troop'll follow 'em." He grinned. Emil Schwabacker had seen him grin before, but this was different, for it went beyond pleasure. It was the grin one man gives another when he's just glad to be a friend.

Mission soundly accomplished is the verdict of Emil's troopers. But some civilians don't figure it that way, and they're making trouble for Emil. Continue "The Brass and the Blue" Monday in

Persistent Young Man Has Dream

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A young African who arrived here six years ago with 3 cents announced plans today to establish the first, all-native hospital on the Dark Continent.

He hasn't got the money. But he has overcome one obstacle after another to go through Stanford University Medical School and to win the moral support of several prominent Americans, including Dr. Ralph Bunche, U.N. undersecretary, and Chester Bowles, former U.S. economic stabilizer.

This persistent young man is Mungai Njoroga, born 30 years ago near Nairobi, Kenya, East Africa. Mungai will get his M.D. degree in June and will intern for a year. Then he will be ready to begin work on his lifetime ambition.

TV Film Will Illustrate Evils of Unbridled Power

A somber warning of the evils of unbridled government, the people must be supreme!

Representative Ralph W. Gwinn of New York, author of the Gwinn Amendment, states in the film, "There is only one way of insuring that the will of the people remains supreme in this country — by allowing a three-fourths majority of the states to amend the Constitution without the interference of the Federal government." Congressman Gwinn points out that this fact was clearly the stated intention of this nation's founding fathers as expressed in Article V of the Constitution. Calling this the major provision of the Gwinn Amendment, Representative Gwinn says that under this amendment, "whenever three-fourths of the states of the Union get together on an amendment they want, it would then become a part of the constitution — and would bind the Federal government." Gwinn adds that this amendment merely puts into black and white the principles on which this country was founded.

Lending a dramatic as well as a historical touch to the entire production are re-enactments of scenes at the Constitutional Convention in June 1787 at Philadelphia. George Washington, played by Joseph Peeples, is presented appealing to the delegates to create "a just and efficient government in which people will forever remain masters of their government." James Madison, addressing the assembled delegates warns — "Of what use will all our struggles and sacrifices be if we establish a strong centralized government, only to have that power fall into the hands of unscrupulous tyrant. No, Gentlemen, we cannot listen to counsel for a big, cen-

Film Will Tell Story Of Bible

A feature-length film on "Our Bible—How It Came To Us" will be shown at Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Produced by the American Bible Society, the film covers centuries from the formation of the Old Testament to the present.

Rev. Edward Thornburg says the public is invited.

Only male crickets will "sing a song," Mrs. Cricket won't chirp.
