

Three Members Of Education Board Are Today Reappointed

McCrary, Rose And Trigg Appointed By Hodges To Serve For 8-Year Terms

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Hodges today reappointed three members of the State Board of Education...

These were Barton Hayes of Lenoir, for a term expiring April 1, 1963, and Dallas Herring of Rose Hill, for a term expiring, April, 1, 1961.

McCrary, 54, a hosiery manufacturer, is a former president of the North Carolina Schools Board Assn. and for years was chairman of the Asheboro City School Board.

Rose, 45, is a lawyer, is a former mayor of Fayetteville, a former judge of the Cumberland Recorder's Court, a former member of the Cumberland Board of Education and the Fayetteville School Board.

Dr. Trigg, was appointed to the board by Gov. W. Kerr Scott in 1949 to become the first Negro member of the board.

Raid Two Stills In A Single Day

Pitt County ABC officers raided two stills in the county yesterday and caught one man in the act of setting up one of the distilleries.

According to reports from the officers, James Staton, 45-year-old Negro of Ayden Rt. 2, was arrested after being observed placing a condenser in the cooling box shortly before the raid.

Officers stated that the unit was a 100-gallon steam distillery and had never been operated.

Tornado Strikes Sanatorium In Mississippi; Patients Injured

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A tornado struck the Mississippi State Sanatorium for Tuberculars early today, injuring 50 to 75 patients.

Greenville Man's Assignment: Iran

Roy Phelps of Greenville left today on the first leg of a trip that will take him to Iran.

By JIMMY ELLIS, Reflector Staff Writer

William Roy Phelps, Jr., is a 29-year-old radio and television technician.

He has a yen for travel, an eye for a good job, a talent for languages, and an ability to ignore political and military crises over which he has no control.

He left Greenville today on the first leg of a 10,000-mile trip that will take him to a new job in Iran.

The fact that he's going to the Middle East, and particularly Iran, doesn't bother Roy Phelps.

Preparation for the work began sometime ago, after Roy was hired by International Electronic Engineering, a corporation that supplies the Army's Signal Corps with qualified civilian personnel.

His work will begin as soon as he can get situated in Iran. The length of his stay will be determined by Iranian desires and requirements for his services.

The funnel cloud which hit the tuberculosis institution at Sanatorium in south Mississippi near Jackson at about 1 a.m. concentrated its fury on the Negro infirmary housing about 200 patients.

Two other tornadoes ripped other parts of the state during the night, killing one person and injuring at least seven others.

"Fifty to 75 were injured, and three of them are in serious condition," said Dr. Henry Boswell, the superintendent.

The other tornadoes occurred in a Negro community near Sylva, Tenn., south Mississippi, where Mrs. Louis Jones, 65, was killed and three persons hurt.

The Sylva area tornado hit about 1:45 a.m. Sylva is in south Mississippi about 30 miles northwest of Laurel.

The third tornado hit the Martha and Linden plantations near Glen Allen, near Greenville.

Deputy Sheriff L. V. Vandevender said the twister there blew away about 15 homes and slightly injured four persons.

"We had to evacuate the top floor because of rain that had blown in and did damage to the walls and ceiling. Some of the patients had to be moved to the lower floors."

Dr. Boswell, who was treating injured patients from about 2 a.m. until about 8:30 a.m., said the twister "practically deroofed" the service building for the white hospital and damaged several employees' cottages.

Asked for an estimate of the loss, he said, "I should think the whole thing amounts to a quarter million dollars."

"It was a terrifying thing. About a fifth of the 200 patients in the Negro infirmary were children. Many were hurt and in pain, but I never heard a cry or whimper."

Torrential rains following the twisters caused flash floods and filled streams to a danger point. The Pearl River at Jackson was five feet above flood stage and firemen, police and volunteers worked to evacuate residents and stalled cars from inundated areas.

Majority 'For' Control Program

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — After two weeks of hearings through the Southern tobacco belt, a Senate subcommittee reported that a majority of growers favor a poundage limitation proposal.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Scott (D-NC), wound up the hearings here yesterday, in the city that tobacco built.

Sen. Talmadge (D-Ga.), subcommittee member, summed up the reaction: "Virginia, favorable; North Carolina, substantial majority for the plan; South Carolina and Georgia, divided opinion but majority favorable where plan is understood; Florida, opposed."

The proposal, offered by Sen. Scott, would limit production of tobacco on a combination acreage and poundage basis as opposed to the present acreage limitation.

Proponents argue that the proposal would cure marketing problems created by increasing yields per acre.

Twenty-six tobacco men spoke at the hearing yesterday; 12 approved the plan, five opposed it and nine gave qualified approval.

Those giving qualified approval suggested these alternatives: 1. Delay until it could be learned whether the 20 per cent cut in acreage allotments this year corrects the overproduction problem.

2. Minor modifications in the plan. 3. A program to inform growers as to all provisions of the plan before submitting it to referendum.

East Carolina awarded him a B.S. degree in Languages, with a major in Spanish. Since that time, he has learned to speak Arabic, something he picked up in 1951 and 1952 when he was government employee in Iraq.

The nature of Roy's job isn't expected to require an extensive knowledge of Persian, anyhow. He will be doing "straight technical work" with radios and can do his teaching, he believes, with demonstrations until he picks up enough of the language to do a lot of talking.

If Roy's passport is accepted as it now stands, he won't have any other languages to worry about. The passport, and its one visa (for Iran), limits him strictly to the political limits of Iran. He is not authorized to visit any other Middle East countries, including Egypt, Israel, Syria and Jordan.

The limitations don't particularly bother Roy. Except for his work, he anticipates only one other activity: Fishing in the Caspian Sea.

"You don't need a passport or an ability in languages for that," he laughs. "Fish don't read or talk."

Marine Pilot Is Killed In Crash

CHERRY POINT, N.C. (AP) — An F3J Fury jet crashed and burned four miles from this Marine Air Station yesterday, killing the pilot, 2nd Lt. Richard J. Fortuna of Fairfield, Conn.

A Marine Corps spokesman said an investigating board will probe the crash to determine the cause. The fighter crashed just after taking off on a routine training flight.

Fortuna, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley R. Fortuna of Fairfield, was attached to a fighter squadron of Marine Aircraft Group 32 here.

First Trash Receptacles Arrive — City Manager Leonard Bloxam, Clean Up-Paint Up Council President Brooks Beddingfield and Vice-President Milton Williamson look over one of 15 new trash receptacles which were placed on city streets yesterday.

Around 35 receptacles to be mounted on Utilities poles have also been ordered by the city. It is part of the two-week Clean Up-Paint Up drive now underway. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Comb Debris For Explosion Dead

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Searchers combed through the rubble today after an explosion in a fireworks warehouse hit by lightning.

Five persons were known dead and more than 400 injured. Bodies expected to find more bodies in the devastated three-mile-wide area of a shantytown at Duque de Caxias, factory town 15 miles south of Rio.

Trail Of Deadly Tornado Across Dallas

Parts of wrecked buildings, fallen trees and tangled high tension electric wires block a street in Dallas, Tex., after a tornado killed at least nine persons there late Tuesday.

General LeMay Tapped For New Air Force Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, chief of the Strategic Air Command, today was tapped to become vice chief of staff of the Air Force.

In another major appointment, the Defense Department announced that Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, now commander in chief of United Nations forces in Korea, will become vice chief of staff of the Army effective July 1.

Lemnitzer will be succeeded in the U.N. Command by Gen. George H. Decker, now deputy commander of U.S. forces in Europe.

As vice chief of the Air Force, LeMay will succeed Gen. Thomas D. White who is being promoted to chief of staff.

It is expected that LeMay will take over his new job some time after July 1.

The announcement made no mention of a successor for LeMay in the Strategic Air Command.

The deputy chief is Maj. Gen. Francis H. Griswold.

The U.S. Far East Command, which Lemnitzer has held in addition to his U.N. command, will be abolished. After July 1 its forces will come under the general direction of the commander in chief of the U.S. Pacific Fleet, present Adm. Felix Stump.

Decker will make his headquarters in Seoul, Korea. Besides the U.N. office, he will command U.S. forces in Korea and be commanding general of the 8th Army. Gen. Williston B. Palmer, now the Army's vice chief of staff, will become deputy commander of U.S. forces in Europe, succeeding Decker.

Final Candidate For Bethel Race

BETHEL — One final candidate has filed for the Board of Commissioners primary and election to be held here April 30 and May 7.

W. E. Andrews, operator of a local grocery store and market, was the last candidate to file with Town Clerk M. L. James before the deadline.

Thus eight candidates will be seeking the five seats on the town's governing body when the primary and election are held.

Four of the present commissioners are in the race. They are: M. J. James, J. M. Butterworth, J. R. Cullifer and R. J. Whitehurst.

Other candidates in addition to Andrews are: Dr. W. A. Moody, Paul E. Whitehurst and Roscoe Everette.

C. W. Everette, a Bethel attorney, is assured of election as the town's mayor. He is unopposed as a candidate for that office.

Mayor R. E. Reddick announced earlier that he would not seek the office.

County NCEA Meet Tonight Marks Century Of Progress

AYDEN — A century of progress through education will be observed tonight by more than 500 Pitt County teachers and community leaders who are expected to attend a meeting of the Pitt County unit of the North Carolina Education Association.

Tonight's meeting will feature an address by Dr. A. S. Hulbert, professor of education at Duke University, installation of 1957-1958 officers, lighting of candles on a birthday cake for the National Education Association, and presentation of 25-year service pins to qualified teachers.

Retiring President Walter C. Latham, principal of Bethel High School, will preside at the meeting, and install new officers. Officers who will be installed include president William Berry, principal of Bethel Elementary School; first vice-president E. F. Johnson, principal of Ayden High School; and second vice-president Mrs. Elsie Cherry Lewis of Stokes School. A new secretary-treasurer will be named by the president.

Board of Education Chairman J. S. Mays of Greenville will present the 25-year pins to teachers who have qualified for them. He will also lead a tribute to retired teachers who attend the meeting which will be held in the Ayden school building.

Teacher Pay Issue

RALEIGH (AP) — A request was expected to be renewed today calling on the Legislature's Joint Appropriations Committee to give priority to a decision on pay raises for school teachers.

House and Senate chairmen and vice chairmen of the joint committee were scheduled to recommend this afternoon to the committee the procedure to be followed in acting on the record billion-dollar budget for the next two fiscal years.

Sen. Luther Hamilton of Carteret, a former Superior Court judge, offered a motion yesterday to have the committee decide first on the teacher pay issue.

This was stalled when Sen. J. William Copeland of Hertford offered a motion to adjourn and the committee quickly accepted it with a shouted voice vote. Copeland also called on the committee heads to bring in recommendations of procedure to be followed on the budget.

The committee may decide to turn over to a smaller subcommittee the job of studying budget requests and making recommendations to the full committee. This has been the procedure in recent sessions.

Hamilton, declaring that teacher pay is the big issue in the public mind, told the committee, "It is perfectly apparent that we will never get anywhere unless we decide first things first." He said the teacher pay decision will have strong bearing on other budget items.

Before Hamilton offered his motion, Rep. Clifton Blue of Moore told the committee that if the amount of pay raises for teachers and state employees were decided "we almost could adopt the budget."

Sen. Ed Owens of Washington said all budget discussions come back to the teacher pay question. He added, "It's all we hear back home, and the quicker we decide it, the better off we'll be."

Gov. Hodges has agreed to support a pay increase higher than those recommended by him and the Advisory Budget Commission. However, he has not disclosed any figure. The recommended budget calls for a 9.1 per cent pay raise for teachers and 8 per cent for other state employees. The State Board of Education has recommended 19.31 per cent for teachers.

W. E. Easterling, secretary of the Local Government Commission, and S. S. Lawrence, a Wilson banker, told the committee a proposed tax to require the amortization of premium paid on tax-exempt bonds would discourage investors from investing in high premium bonds.

The state would derive little income from the proposal, they said, and the losses could result on the municipal level in higher interests on municipal bonds.

Dr. Charles E. Carroll, state superintendent of public instruction, said driver training courses are now being taught in more than 200 high schools, serving 11,000 students. This training is locally financed.

Victor S. Bryant, secretary of the Fuel Merchants Assn., and other representatives of that group appeared before the committee to oppose the increasing protests to the proposed gross receipts license tax.

Troops Keep Nervous Peace In Chile After Violent Eruptions

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Troops enforced a nervous peace in Chile's capital early today after dispersing bands of anti-inflation demonstrators and looters with machinegun fire.

At least four more persons were reported killed and hundreds rounded up in a new outbreak last night in the capital. The violent disorders have swept Santiago for two days.

A large detachment of troops routed about 150 persons from a small hill in the center of the city. The authorities said this group was a band of looters who had hidden while waiting for nightfall to cover their depredations.

Earlier the troops routed another band of demonstrators from a downtown building.

Daylight yesterday brought a resumption of the demonstrations that have plagued Chile more than a week in protest against skyrocketing living costs. Police and troops clashed repeatedly as mobs surged through the streets.

Reports of the number of casualties conflicted. Reliable non-official sources estimated at least 44 persons had been killed and from 165 to 350 injured. Property damage was put at more than two million dollars.

A state of siege was declared over the entire country Tuesday night by President Carlos Ibanez's government, but the rioters defied the emergency military law to continue their protests. Truckloads of demonstrators poured in from the outlying poorer sections of Santiago to join in yesterday.

A crowd of about 1,000 attacked police and army troops. An assault on the Pan-American Bank was turned back by gunfire. The presidential palace and other government buildings were stoned. Practically all street lights in the downtown area were broken. Traffic police booths were smashed and burned. Automobiles were damaged.

Ibanez has blamed the outbreaks on international communism and lawless groups seeking to damage the country's economy. Chile has been hit by soaring living costs since the end of World War II, and the 79-year-old Ibanez has several times decreed a state of siege to deal with strikes and disorders.

The latest wave of violence was set off by a 50 per cent increase last week in bus fares — from 2 to 3 cents.

Wedding Vows Unite Miss Allen, Mr. Kinsaul

Martha Fay Allen and Henry Clay Kinsaul were united in marriage, Friday night, March 22, at the Baptist parsonage in Farmville with the Rev. E. W. Holmes performing the single ring ceremony.

Martha Fay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lloyd Allen of Farmville, is at present a junior at Farmville High School.

Henry Clay, son of Mr. Ned V. Kinsaul of the Bell Arthur community, has served four years with the navy, two of them in Korea, and at present is a senior at Farmville High School.

After a short wedding trip the couple are making their home with his father and are to be engaged in farming.

Dr. L'Abati Is Aries Speaker

Mrs. W. Z. Morton Jr. was hostess to the Aries Book Club Tuesday at her home on Elm Street. A brief business session was conducted by the club president, Mrs. S. R. Bartlett.

Mrs. W. Z. Morton Jr., who was in charge of the evening's program, introduced Dr. L'Abati as the guest speaker.

Dr. L'Abati, clinical psychologist with the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic, had each club member answer a written questionnaire concerning parental attitudes on family life and children. Following the questionnaire was a discussion on how parental attitudes affect a child's behavior.

At the conclusion of the program, the hostess served a sweet course.

June Wedding Planned

MISS JANE BARNES WINCHESTER is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Clyde Winchester of Greenville, who announces her engagement to Lieutenant Marvin Roland Pridgen of Stallings Air Base, Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin D. Pridgen of Smithfield, Virginia. The wedding will take place June 8.

Brides-Elect Given Luncheon

Mrs. Hoover Taft's spacious home in Brookgreen was decorated with a profusion of summer flowers when she honored Misses Virginia Perkins, Hannah Proctor, and Mary Ann Waldrop, brides-elect, at a luncheon Friday.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Taft, the honorees, and their mothers, Mrs. Reid Perkins, Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, and Mrs. Herbert Waldrop in the hallway where shades of deep purple and lavender flowers were used.

Tomato juice was served by Mrs. Proctor to the guests on the porch before they were invited into the dining room by Mrs. Syd Dunn Jr. Pink was the predominant color of a floral arrangement of roses, carnations, snapdragons, and duchs iris that was placed in a crystal bowl in the center of the table covered with an imported linen cutwork cloth.

Mrs. Conley Remembers Club History

In a setting of spring flowers the members of the Round Table enjoyed their meeting with Mrs. D. H. Conley at her home on East Fifth Street.

Mrs. Daniel Taylor called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. James E. Phelps was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. Conley gave the afternoon program, "Reminiscences" of the club since it was organized in 1910. She used pictures and programs to relate much of the history of the first 25 years.

After the club constitution was read by Mrs. Royce Hunsucker, the hostess served her guests a delicious sweet course with coffee. Each plate contained a bouquet of daisies, the club flower; the refreshments were in white and gold, the club colors.

Mrs. Spilman Gives North Cape Cruise Program At Chatham

Mrs. Luther Bowling was hostess to the Chatham Book Club on Tuesday. The home was decorated with various arrangements of spring flowers which added much to the afternoon meeting.

The president greeted Miss Janet Livingston, Miss Hilda Jacobs and Mrs. J. B. Spilman as guests.

Mrs. Spilman gave a program on her North Cape Cruise of last summer. After flying to Ireland, she took a coastal steamer at Bergen, Norway for the 1200 mile trip. She described Kristiansund, Norway's opera town, the Nidaros Cathedral in Trondheim dating from 1200, her trip to the Russian border, the Lapps, the Midnight Sun and various other experiences.

A donation was voted for the Cancer Fund and members were invited to attend the Arts Festival beginning the 15th of April. A discussion on next year's programs was led by the chairman, Mrs. A. C. Ruffin.

Mrs. Bowling served a salad course with coffee and cake, assisted by Misses Jacobs and Hancock.

HDC Sponsors County Clean Up

The home demonstration clubs are sponsoring Pitt County Clean Up Week. Each community is at work seeing that highways are free of litter, dump heaps clean, mail boxes painted and repaired, yards and flower beds cleaned. Shrubs and flowers are being planted to beautify church, home and community grounds.

The project is in direct line with the Pitt County Progress program sponsored by the Farmers Day Committee.

Miss Proctor And Mr. McInnis Honored At Saturday Buffet

Miss Hannah Proctor and her fiancé, John McInnis of Chicago, Ill., were honored at a buffet supper by Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Evans and David Evans Jr. in the Evans home Saturday night.

Yellow and white spring flowers were placed throughout the house to carry out a yellow, green and white color scheme.

Guests were greeted by the hosts and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Evans and David Evans Jr. in the Evans home Saturday night.

Upon arrival Miss Hannah Proctor, Miss Perkins, and Miss Nancy

Proctor were presented white chrysanthemum corsages for the host and hostess.

Miss Ann Evans served the guests punch on the porch before they entered the dining room where the buffet supper was served. The serving table was covered with an imported yellow organdy cloth over green and centered with suspended wedding bells made of tiny yellow and white flowers. Green candles were placed at each end of the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans presented each of the brides-elect silver serving dishes.

Red Banks HDC Reports Meeting

"New Fabrics and Finishes" was the subject of Home Agent Mrs. Lillie Little's demonstration Tuesday afternoon when the Red Banks Home Demonstration Club held its regular meeting in the community building.

Mrs. R. B. Starling presided over the meeting.

Mrs. E. H. Boyd gave an inspiring devotional which she ended with a prayer.

The group decided to send cards to sick members instead of flowers while the club pays for materials used in the Eastern Pines Community Building.

The members voted to have an educational booth at the fair in the fall.

Plans were made for the regular members' supper that the ladies prepare each month.

Reports were heard from Mrs. S. B. Tucker and Mrs. Vernon Hardee.

The meeting closed with the group repeating the collect.

Following a recreational period, Mrs. George Corbett and Mrs. Magnolia Everett served refreshments.

Chowder-Potatoes, Menu Treat

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

recipe.

MARBLEHEAD CHOWDER

One 2-inch square of lean salt pork cut in cubes. Try out these small cubes of pork. Add 3 good size onions cut up coarsely. Cook but do not brown. Add 4 medium potatoes cut up in slices or cubes. Cook gently in fat for 2 or 3 minutes, then add 2 cups court bouillon and simmer gently until potatoes are done.

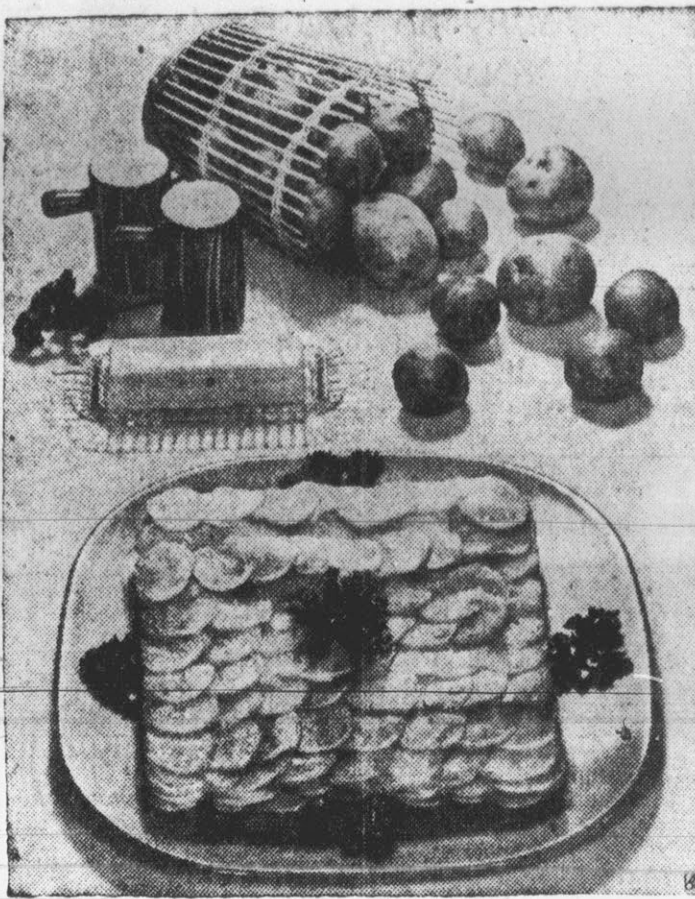

Meanwhile in chowder kettle put 1 quart of rich milk and 2 pounds of haddock fillets or similar white fish cut in chunks. Let the fish simmer in milk for 20 minutes then add the first mixture to it. Test for seasoning. Let the chowder sit over a low flame or on back of stove for an hour or more. Add 1/2 cup warm cream and 2 tablespoons butter. Pour in hot chowder bowls over hard crackers and serve.

Note—A chowder should have time to mellow. Made in the morning and served at night, or the next day, it is at its best.

COURT BOUILLON

This is called for in the recipe for Marblehead Chowder. Make it by putting the following in a kettle: 1 fish head or trimmings, 1 medium onion, 6 whole peppers, 2 celery tops, 1 carrot, 1 small handful parsley, 1 teaspoon marjoram, 1 teaspoon basil, 1 bay leaf.

Cover with cold water and cook down to half the original quantity. Add salt to taste. Cool to room temperature. Strain and store in refrigerator.

POTATOES LOOK ELEGANT when cut in uniform slices, layered and baked.

Fancy up a Lenten fish supper with a platter of pretty potatoes. Try this recipe and you won't recognize the homey spud!

For it potatoes are peeled and cut paper thin, then they are layered with butter or margarine, salt and pepper, and baked. When turned out, there are the bottom slices in orderly array; all you have to do is to sprinkle them with paprika, add a few parsley sprays, serve and listen to the applause.

Ingredients: 2 pounds small potatoes, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, pepper, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine (soft), paprika, parsley.
Method: Wash and peel potatoes. Cut into very thin crosswise slices. Dry on a towel. Place a layer of potatoes in the bottom of a buttered 8 by 8 by 2-inch baking pan in a neat design, overlapping the slices. Dust with salt, pepper and spread lightly with butter. Add a second layer and repeat until potatoes are used. Cover and bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven 50 to 60 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Unmold onto a hot serving dish. Sprinkle with paprika and garnish with parsley. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

OTHER LENTEN VEGETABLE CUES

Fresh vegetables add so much to meals of fish, eggs or cheese. Here are some team-mates.

Creamed Spinach—Use it as a stuffing for hollowed-out tomatoes and serve around a baked fish. Spoon hot creamed spinach into individual shallow baking dishes and break an egg on top. Dribble

Mrs. Worthington Receives FHA Honorary Membership

Mrs. Alma B. Worthington, Peaceful Acres, Ayden, was awarded an honorary membership in the North Carolina Association of the Future Homemakers of America at their annual convention in Raleigh on Saturday.

The organization's executive council bestows honorary memberships on four people each year in recognition of service rendered to the organization, to the home-making education program and to the general welfare of the youth in this state.

Mrs. Worthington received her education at East Carolina College, and taught in the North Carolina public schools. For the past four years she has been very active in all chapter, district and state FHA activities. She has served as a member of the Ayden school committee for six years, as P. T. A. vice president and president, and as a leader of young people in her church.

Mrs. Worthington has encouraged her daughter in FHA work and has helped her achieve future homemaking ideals.

Twelve people from the state were nominated for this honor. Mrs. Worthington was nominated by the members of the Ayden FHA chapter.

NCEA Meet

The Greenville unit of the North Carolina Education Association will present 25 year pins to 29 teachers tonight.

The unit is meeting at 6:30 in the Woman's Club.

Skits depicting various phases of the development of Greenville City Schools will be presented during the program.

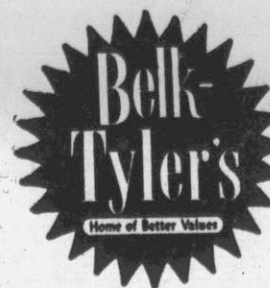

Mrs. Irma Sermons Worthington, president of the local unit, will preside.

This Summer Would Be Too Late

Chances are that somewhere in Pitt County next summer a child or an adult will be stricken by polio. When it happens, if it does, there will be countless people who remember sharply that they had intended to get Salk vaccine shots before the polio season started.

They will be unprotected against the disease. The best they will be able to do is get the initial shot then and hope they will not fall victim to the crippling, killing disease before the vaccine has time to take effect.

Atomic Age Coming Closer To 'Home'

Prospects of an atomic electric generating plant in commercial use in the Carolinas in the next five years brings closer home the realization that we are living in an atomic age.

The prospect also focuses ones attention on the constructive rather than the destructive use of the atom. Atomic power plants are being built in other parts of this country as well as in other countries of the world. Homes and businesses in other sections will be lighted and operated by atomic electricity long before homes and businesses in North Carolina.

Even so, the prospect of an atomic electric generating plant constructed by the Carolinas-Virginia Nuclear Power Associates gives the feeling that this section is keeping pace with others in capitalizing on the peaceful use of atomic power.

As the full effect of the atomic age makes itself felt on the entire economy of the nation, those sections which are keeping pace with advancement will reap the vast benefits it will bring. Other sections which have lagged behind the time in their research and adaptation of atomic energy to peaceful uses will be longer in enjoying its advantages. The target date of June 1960 for completion of the atomic electric generating plant of Carolina-Virginia Nuclear Power Associates should be encouraging to all the citizens of the three-state area.

It holds the promise that the area will be up-to-date in the use of this new-found energy of the atomic age.

Jets Will Bring Costly Troubles

By ELMER ROESSNER

The jets—and a lot of trouble—are coming. About 300 jet planes have been ordered by American and major foreign airlines. A few are being tested now. Volume deliveries will begin next year. The troubles will start sooner.

Jets need longer runways than prop planes. They need more air space. Because of their high speed, they need more and better control systems. And they are noisy.

All but a few existing airports will be obsolete when jets come in numbers. Because of the need for longer runways, most existing ports will have to be enlarged or relocated. New kinds of control systems and radar networks will be needed. The cost of all this probably will fall on taxpayers.

TURBULENCE IN VALUES
In many localities, it is either physically or financially impossible to extend present airports. But whether an airport is extended or relocated, there will be big upsets in property values. For example, port-side hotels will decrease in value if traffic from a near-by field is moved further away. And whether an airport is enlarged or relocated, homes will have to be torn down or moved and farm lands laid waste to provide the extra space. Conversely, new jet airports will increase the value of nearby sites for industry, hotels and service trades.

Jet noise is another property-value factor. William Littlewood, vice president in charge of equipment development for American Airlines, has disclosed that noise-suppressors are being developed that will make its Boeing 707's no more noisy than piston aircraft now in use. The B-707's are expected in two years. Other jet builders and government agencies are also working on the problem.

But until it is satisfactorily solved, property values will be affected.

CHILDREN TERRORIZED

The Society of Residential Appraisers recently studied the effects of jets on housing near jet fields. It found that the noise of low-flying planes caused children to cover their ears and run for shelter when planes went over, but tended to become accustomed to the noise after six months. The society also found that interruption of television reception and telephone conversations was annoying, and that vibration was sometimes believed to have caused structural damage to houses.

The society found that many homeowners in the vicinity of jet ports thought that nearness to jobs and other conveniences offset the noise nuisance, but that in areas just below approach and take-off patterns of the jets, homes fell in value and were difficult to sell.

Where jet fields are forced further away from congested areas, it will be necessary to establish helicopter services to city centers. A jet plane that saves an hour flying time will not be attractive if a traveler loses more than that getting from jet port to hotel.

However, whirlybird services from outlying airports may be an improvement over existing services in many places. Getting from many airports to downtown centers—New York and Philadelphia, to mention two—involve hour-long struggles through traffic. These helicopter services will undoubtedly need government subsidies; Federal funds will be needed to enlarge, relocate and improve jet ports; Federal, state and city funds will be needed to build access highways.

The cost will be heavy but it may be a bargain. We'll try to explain that statement tomorrow.

PROSPERITY CAUSES SHORTAGE OF MEAT
Incomes have been rising in rural Jamaica, B. W. I. One consequence: A beef shortage in Kingston, the capital. Reason: Rural residents buy beef before it gets to the city.

Pitt County's experience last summer should have been sufficiently shocking to prompt the people to make sure they are protected from polio before another season rolls around. Last summer there were 16 victims of the disease in Pitt. In the case of one child, the disease was fatal.

The county's polio vaccination program has moved forward with amazing progress since the epidemic last summer. Thousands were vaccinated against the disease during the epidemic. Since then clinics have been conducted in the schools in an effort to vaccinate children who have not been immunized against the disease. Parents have been more prone to see that their youngsters under school age receive the vaccine. Even with this effort, however, there are probably several thousand youngsters and many more adults who have not been vaccinated against polio.

This summer may be too late for these people to take advantage of the Salk vaccine. Now is the time for those who have not been vaccinated against polio to make arrangements to begin the series of shots. The vaccine literally could mean the difference between life and death.

Democrats Can Enjoy Some Security, Now

Democrats can breathe a mite easier now that they have nailed down control of the Senate with the election of a Democratic Senator from Texas.

The victory by Ralph Yarborough was an important one for the Democratic party in Texas' special senatorial election and quite obviously a bitter pill for the GOP.

It shows conclusively that although Texans have voted for President Eisenhower in the past two presidential elections, they still want Democrats to represent them in Congress. And that is a feeling that is shared by voters in many of the states which went for Eisenhower last November.

'Confusion' Can Be Very Helpful

By LYNN NISBET

PLANNED CONFUSION—The much publicized confusion that exists among legislators, especially in the Joint Finance Committee, may not be as bad as some members make out. Some of it may have been fully planned to look like confusion, when in fact it is a carefully thought out method of achieving a goal.

That is the opinion of a high level State official, who for obvious reasons declined to be quoted by name. He has watched actions of money raising groups in several sessions. It is different this time, but the experienced men are not as badly lost as they claim to be. By giving the appearance of uncertainty they induce others to pursue a course indicating their line of thought, thus discovering where opposition or support lies for the major program.

The record of the 1957 session to date would seem to justify the conclusions suggested. Despite the complete absence of recognized leadership or organized cliques, as much good legislation has been enacted as in most legislatures of comparable time. The situation, however, is fraught with danger. There is the chance that at any time some person or small group may move in and take over direction in a course not desired by those who are fostering the confusion.

Tentative ventures on part of a few members to do that have been blocked by concessions made on some of the points attacked, thus leaving the protesting with only windmills to fight. Result was that nobody could claim a complete victory, which tended to further confusion as to who had control.

DISHONEST?—The situation in the North Carolina General Assembly is analogous to that in the Congress at Washington. There are no recognizable blocs or cohesive factions. It stems from the same essential reason that occasioned breakdown in party responsibility for government put upon the individual officer. From one point of view it is good to have a President or a Governor come into office without obligations. From another view better government can be obtained by team work, frank exchange of ideas among members of the team and a sharing of credit and responsibility.

Three or four men were talking about this the other day. One of them who holds his job by executive appointment said he had noticed for several years increasing reluctance on part of politicians to take other politicians of his same group into full confidence. "That savors just a little bit of political dishonesty," he thought. "If they're on a team they ought to work with the team. That is just as important in government as in football or basketball. The tendency to glorify individual stars is not good for popular morale." Leadership implies followership. One man on a lone road is not a leader. Neither can the man at the head of the line be called a leader if he is being pushed by the folks behind, rather than have them follow him because they like the way he is going.

Accepting that definition of leadership, it is true that after two months the 1957 General Assembly has not developed any real leadership. There is a feeling among newsmen and diverse outside observers, that this week and next will determine whether any will develop, of if the session will muddle through as it has to date.

SOIL BANK—Clarence Stone of Stoneville has a solution for some of the problems of his home town. Eight terms in the General Assembly and six years on the advisory Budget Commission, added to his successful business experience in diverse activities, trained him to think of ways out of difficult situations.

Visiting in the capital city this week the former legislator said "they" are going to consolidate our school, re-route highway US-220 around the town. But we'll be all right. "We are going to put the Town of Stoneville in the soil bank."

PORPOURRI—At the opening of the Coronation Pageant for Kathryn Grayson, Queen Azalea X, at Wilmington's Brogden Hall the other night, the orchestra played Dixie and a fine looking man marched onto the stage with a Confederate battle flag. The audience of some 5,000—about 10 per cent above fire safety rating—rose and shouted applause. Bill Friday, Dr. William Clyde Friday of the record, youthful but wise president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, quipped: "They rally better now than they did in the 1860's."

An unidentified citizen was overheard to comment when he picked up a paper from the news rack on the street and noted the big headline that Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon had addressed the "waste conference" at State College. "At long last, they got Senator Morse to speak to an appropriate audience."

Presence of a bevy of doctors at J-I committee got Chairman Eugene Bost so much in the habit of addressing speakers as Doctor, when Rep. Wayland Floyd of Robeson, a lawyer member of the committee, raised his hand the chairman said: "Dr. Floyd wants to ask a question."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
SUPPORT OF THE SPIRIT
Admiral Richard E. Byrd, preparing to get under way for the most hazardous journey yet to be made to the antarctic ice cap, had some very interesting reflections to make upon the necessity for sound moral character.

"Operation Deep Freeze" said Admiral Byrd, "because of its scope and duration, will subject more men to the hazards of Antarctica, and to the particular hazards of pioneering in uncharted areas, than any previous expedition in history. To be successful and to come through safely, we shall all need the guidance and help of Providence."

"I shall be taking the Bible, along with me, and I know that I shall find it a source of comfort and strength. "I know something of what religion can mean to men in the forces, or to men in peril. It is encouraging them to maintain contact and strengthen their ties with their respective churches."

No great world leader would have thought of writing anything of that sort 50 years ago. Men are coming to realize today that we must have the grace of God or resign ourselves to the possibility of our own ruin. It is interesting that the former Dalai Lama of Tibet, who gave up his throne and left the country rather than submit to Communism, requested a Tibetan Bible as soon as he reached Tokio. Men are reaching today for the support of the Spirit.

Simple Arithmetic

'Confusion' Can Be Very Helpful

Mayor Pro-tem S. Eugene West has a preconceived plan when he becomes angry with people, objects or things.

West says he has a cellar in his home on E. Tenth St. In it, there's nothing but a stool squarely in the center of the floor.

"When I get mad at somebody, I just go down there and take a seat on the stool and tell it to the four walls," he declares.

Then when he comes out everything is all right again. Thus the councilman is able to keep a smiling countenance when he faces the public.

Police can add this one to their unusual investigation file. A woman called a few nights ago to report that she was home alone with her children and someone was trying to break in. A patrol car rushed to the scene. After a careful search they found the culprit. Wind blowing a chair on the porch of the home had created the noise. Case closed.

A portion of the trash containers ordered by the city for the Clean Up-Pain Up drive have arrived.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam said the pole mounted type are not available as yet so 15 trash receptacles which have been placed along the side walks have been received.

The pole mounted type—some 35 of them—are expected within a few weeks. Those that sit on the street will be used in places where poles are not available.

Greenville's Passion Play will be held April 14, 15 and 16. The play was originated by St. James Methodist Church and it is now sponsored by all local churches.

In years past it has played before large crowds in Wright Auditorium and it is becoming known throughout eastern North Carolina.

All this talk about Clean Up-Pain Up has given me the urge to tackle the job of cleaning out my desk again.

It's been done once this year, I know but then it's been a busy three months, so far.

On second thought, the job looks so big I think I'll just go fishing instead.

Other Editors Saying --- Opinions The Weaker Sex?

(The Charlotte Observer)
The legislature of the State of Washington is considering a bill to allow women to deduct three years from their ages when paying insurance premiums, because they live longer than men.

Dismissing for the moment a previous ruling of some tax board or other, that women should not be required to tell their age at all, it occurs to us that subtracting three and one then writing down the lower figure is just the same as telling.

Anyway, we'd favor such a bill, because it again directs public attention to the greater physical stamina and longer endurance of women. It exposes the myth of the weaker sex and shows how a so-called chivalry has required men to do all the heavy work. We've just about broken ourselves down carrying things for them, beginning with books in the fourth grade and ending with a tubful of laundry at the age of some scores, always at the risk of a session in the hospital with a slipped disc.

A woman will walk right up to a door and stop. She will stand there indefinitely acting out the fiction that she is too delicate for such strenuous exertion as turning a knob. She can't stoop to pick up a dropped handkerchief; she can't hold an umbrella over her head; she can't pull her chair up to the table. Yet every medical and physical training authority in the land says she is stronger than the man she expects will do these services for her. So, let them deduct their three years. A decade would be more appropriate.

THE NEGRO PRESS
(Charleston S.C.) News and Courier)

The Negro press deserves closer attention than it receives. In its influence on Negro communities across the nation it is capable of much good or evil. The unhappy influences that are being brought to bear on American Negroes through the Negro press were revealed recently in an article in The Carolina Times, a newspaper for Negroes published at Durham, N.C.

Writing on foreign affairs, The Times' editorial page columnist, Dr. A.H. Gordon, made the following comments that are likely to dismay many Americans irrespective of race: "Ever since the rise to power of the plutocrats, men of great wealth, who run this country by controlling its government, the liberties of the common people have been gradually disappearing. Under the leadership of the FBI, the American Gestapo, we are all becoming 'suspect'. Morally, we are unfit to lead the world. It is true that as long as we prepare for war Russia must do the same. If we stop preparing for war Russia will do so also."

Will American Negroes accept the view that the world is at the brink of war, because of American warmongering? We do not believe so. And yet such dangerous notions are spread in a Negro newspaper in North Carolina, Rochester, N. Y.)

"I am deeply concerned about the proposals of Federal power advocates for the expenditure of the taxpayer's money for the development of our water resources when local interests are willing and able to fully develop them in a comprehensive manner in keeping with the requirement of law..." (Rep. Ben F. Jensen, Iowa)

"Whatever we think of Israel's action, to compare its brief invasion of the Sinai Desert with Soviet Russia's enslavement and torture of a whole people, is like equating measles with leprosy—equating assault under provocation with unprovoked mass murder..." (statement by American Friends of the Captive Nations)

"We didn't invent the income tax. The British started using it to support their military campaigns in the late 1700s, shortly after we licked them at Yorktown and won our independence. Well, they have their revenge..." (Portland Oregonian)

"Nasser has played the family of decent nations for a bunch of patsies. If we are sucker enough to let him, he's ready to begin the whole miserable sequence of events over again. It's time to see what the world can do about such two-cent dictators..." (Democrat and Chronicle, Rochester, N. Y.)

Science Will Aid Hunters

By HAL BOYLE
MORGANVILLE, N.J., (AP)—Science has come up with all sorts of gadgets — including depth finders and radar — to help fishermen locate their finny prey.

But it has kind of neglected the fisherman's fellow hobbyist, the hunter.

Steve Lavoie, an electronics engineer whose pastime is tracking down big game in odd corners of the world, aims to correct that lack. He's working on something really new for ardent woodsmen — an automatic dog finder.

Steve is head of Lavoie Laboratories here, a firm that has developed a number of electronic instruments for the government's highly secret defense missile program.

His idea for a radio dog locator came to him on a recent hunting trip to Columbia during which two cattle-killing jaguars were bagged.

Specialty trained dogs — valued at $500 to $1,000 each — are used to track down the big elusive South American tiger, as the jaguar is often called.

A cornered jaguar, unless the hunters arrive quickly, may ambush and kill or maim a pack of 7 to 10 of these valuable dogs. Sometimes an injured dog will crawl off and become lost in the jungle.

Steve's radio aid to hunting is quite simple. It consists of a three-pound radio sending set attached to the dog's back, and a slightly heavier receiving set carried by the guide.

"A dog can carry such a set all day in the jungle," said Steve. "Our only problem is to put on an antenna that won't get him tangled in the brush. But even if it does we can quickly locate him and set him free."

Lavoie hopes to use the new equipment, still in the designing stage, in a hunt soon for a legendary big cat called the Onza in the mountains of Mexico.

"Many naturalists doubt there even is such an animal," he said. "But it is mentioned in old Spanish chronicles in Mexico City."

"It must be related to the cheetah, because it is reported to have nonretractable claws. Mexican natives swear they have found the tracks of the Onza, and we think a few still survive in the mountains."

Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Meany Staved Off A Challenger

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — George L. Meany staved off a serious threat to his reelection as AFL-CIO president by his prompt action in demanding the disciplining of Dave Beck for his alleged "theft" of union funds.

Had Meany not called for Beck's suspension and investigation because of the McClellan revelations and Beck's Fifth Amendment plea, it is understood that Walter P. Reuther would have challenged the New York man's leadership at the December convention, when present officers must account for their stewardship.

Reuther expects to head the AFL-CIO come day, but he plans to wait for Meany's retirement. However, had Meany tolerated Beck's alleged mismanagement of the organization's largest and most powerful union, it would have given the head of the United Automobile Workers an immediate and ready-made issue for the December convention. UNION CHIEFS ASSAILED BECK The energetic and ebull-ient Detroit figure could probably count on the support of several influential anti-Beck leaders. With Beck's own union absent and not voting, assuming that they will walk out at his call, Meany might not have been able to command a majority of the December delegates.

Aligned with Reuther against Meany, if the latter had not con- gruously the erring Seattle boss, would have been several sympathizers. They would have included James B. Carey, head of the Electrical Workers; David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers; and possibly David McDonald, the steel workers' boss. All assailed Beck after his first day's defiance of the McClellan-Kennedy interrogation.

TEAMSTERS' CHIEF PRO-EMPLOYER TACTICS Meany stood on the roughest spot of his career. He touched his present eminence as a Building Trades product, and that union is uniquely vulnerable to Beck's dictates. Beck can assure construction workers a victory in a strike, if he observes their picket lines and refuses to haul materials for the struck corporation.

Conversely, he can break a strike by favoring the employer over the union picketing a plant or building project. The McClellan Committee has received many complaints of Beck's pro-employer tactics in the beer and aircraft industries, and is now investigating them. It will be several weeks before the field agents have completed their check on this phase of Beck's operations.

Moreover, Beck was largely responsible for Meany's advancement in the labor movement, Teamster and Building Trade votes elected Meany as secretary-treasurer of the old AFL—before he became its president — and then the same unions helped him to become president of the merged AFL-CIO.

such bread-and-butter problems as fatter pay envelopes, shorter hours, improved working conditions, a closed shop throughout all industry. They are the practical type.

The Reuther-Carey-Dubinsky faction, in contrast, are the ideologists of labor. They preach a broader and more liberal doctrine, relying upon the Federal government, especially when it is controlled by Roosevelt-Truman Democrats, to guarantee wages and employment, welfare and pension benefits, political action, a richer life for the working masses and a general leveling of society.

Thus, the basic conflict in labor today, as pointed up by the McClellan investigation, is not between men like Meany and Beck. It is a clash between two entirely different philosophies. Meany has saved his job by moving against his old friend. But Reuther and his surging ideas are still on the march.

State Funds To Go For Bragging

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—They're not so worried about carpetbaggers down here now and the Texas House has passed a bill to make legal use of state funds for bragging.

The proposed constitutional amendment, passed 117-21 by the lower house yesterday, would allow Texas to use state funds to advertise its educational, recreational, industrial and natural advantages to people in other states. This has been going on for quite some time, however, on a sort of private enterprise basis. Why, hardly anyone doesn't know Texas is the greatest of all states. But after the Civil War, the Southern Confederacy, the state's constitutional writers were concerned over the invasion by Yankee carpetbaggers. So they included a section to ban spending of public funds "for the purpose of bringing immigrants into Texas."

The Texas Senate has passed a similar bill and if the two houses can get together on some minor points, the measure will go to the people for a vote in November 1958.

Climb 44 Flights Of Stairs To Win A Divorce

DETROIT (AP)—Love had its ups and downs—44 flights of stairs—for a bride-to-be and her fiancé. Dorothy McKenzie, 20, gets sick in elevators. Still, she had to appear at the final divorce hearing yesterday against her first husband James. The hearing was on the 19th floor of Detroit's City-County Building. She and Ernest Thompson, 24, trudged up 13 flights of stairs, found they were in the wrong wing, and plodded down to the 10th, floor where they could cross over to the other wing. At this point Dorothy gave up and said: "I'm garbed in my literary best—and ready to accept the accolades of your Miss Mellet. Shall we go?" Ernest carried her up four more flights before she recovered enough to make the last five flights on her own. Circuit Judge Frank B. Ferguson granted the uncontested divorce. Then, free to marry Saturday, Dorothy and Ernest walked down 19 flights, where Dorothy still maintained: "Elevators and I don't agree."

Fraser, a member of Parliament from Hamilton, Scotland, was surprised when invited to address the California Assembly. "We don't invite strangers to come in and talk to us at all," he said. "We reserve the chambers, very selfishly, for ourselves."

Retired Comedian, Ned Sparks, Dies Of Illness

VICTORVILLE, Calif. (AP)—Ned Sparks, whose movie trademark was a frozen scowl and half-chewed cigar, died last night of an intestinal block. He was 73. The Canadian-born comedian was admitted Tuesday night to St. Mary's Hospital of the Desert. He had been in ill health for several months and bedridden about a week. Since 1948 he had lived with his only daughter, Laura Sparks, in a rented adobe apartment at the guest ranch of Mrs. Kemper Campbell in nearby Apple Valley. There he busied himself inspecting the myriad desert flowers, taking walks and writing an autobiography of his career which began in the gold rush days of the Yukon. "He was grouchy only on the outside," said Mrs. Campbell, a long-time friend. "Inside he was warm and a favorite of the children here on the ranch." One of his last requests was to be buried in the small Victor Valley Memorial Park, in the rugged and desolate Mojave Desert. The dour-faced comedian was born Edward A. Sparkman in Guelph, Ont. At 17 he went prospecting for gold in Alaska, but failed to strike it rich. His first taste of show business came as a singer in the rough and tumble saloons of Dawson City in the Yukon. He later traveled throughout America, hitting the big time in 1913 on Broadway in the play "Little Miss Brown." A leader in the strike in 1918 which resulted in the formation of Actor's Equity, Sparks was blackballed on Broadway. He turned to Hollywood, where he became typed as a monotone-voiced sourpuss in films such as "The Big Noise," "Nothing but the Truth," "Imitation of Life" and "Gold Diggers of 1933." He retired in 1948.

First Show Of Young Emotion

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Daniel Woolridge, 14, sobbed uncontrollably when he was brought from jail yesterday for the funeral of his father, his mother, a sister and a brother. Daniel is charged with shooting them Sunday after he quarreled with his parents over going for a ride. It was his first show of emotion since he was put in jail Sunday night. An older brother and an older sister rushed to Daniel and embraced him when officers escorted him into the semicircle of four caskets containing the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Ossie Woolridge, Paul, 6, and Delores, 11. The boy is due in Juvenile Court Friday for a hearing on whether he shall be brought to trial in Criminal Court. Multitude Of States Seek Highway Safety Action

By GLENN WOLF
Associated Press Staff Writer

The nation's highways yielded 40,000 traffic fatalities in 1956 and this April finds state legislatures studying proposed legislation in at least six fields to try to reduce the number.

An Associated Press survey showed nearly two thirds of the state governments casting about for new laws to help solve the accident problem.

Action to date ranges from the recommendation stage to newly signed statutes.

Legislation includes bills or requests to enlarge state police and law enforcement agencies, set down absolute speed limits, tighten driver licensing procedures, dole out stiffer penalties for drunken drivers, institute state sponsored and financed driver education programs, install state-wide motor vehicle testing procedures, and make liability insurance compulsory.

The survey showed 29 states considering legislation to put more state police on the highways. The Washington State Legislature was considering a six-million-dollar annual budget for its state patrol.

With it, Acting Chief Roy Carlson proposed to add 159 commissioned officers to the patrol's present staff of 284.

In Illinois, fourth highest in the nation with 2,135 highway deaths last year, Gov. William G. Stratton asked for a doubling of the state police force of 600.

"Our automobiles are safer, our roads are better," he said. "Unfortunately our driving has not improved at the same pace."

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California — where a record traffic death toll of 3,805, the worst in the nation, was counted in 1956 — asked for an additional 110 highway patrolmen on an urgency basis during January. The lawmakers were considering a budget which would add 270 more.

In other states with the blood-fest pavements, the picture was similar. Texas was considering measures to add 200 more state police and increase their salaries.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York requested a 12 per cent step-up in strength of the state's 1,200-man field force. And in Michigan, Gov. G. Mennen Williams asked 96 additional patrolmen to bring their strength to 1,250.

As a further effort to slow down the race on sprawling expressways and even on two-lane strips, at least 14 legislatures mulled over plans to put sharper teeth in their speed laws.

States considering measures to write more enforceable speed laws into the books include California, Connecticut, Florida, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maine and New Mexico.

Improved highways brought new minimum speed laws in some states. Connecticut was considering one, and in Maryland, for example, anyone driving slower than is reasonable under prevailing conditions may now be arrested and charged with impeding traffic.

Seventeen states were digging deeper for solutions, perhaps at the root of the problem — the driver himself. Bills already in the legislative hopper indicated new drivers would have increasing difficulty in obtaining license and would have to exercise greater care to keep them.

Some states were raising the minimum age for drivers, some were adding manpower to their driver testing bureaus, some were debating measures to require periodic re-examination of all drivers, and still others were tightening their licensing procedures by requiring more rigid mental and physical tests for new drivers and for the aged.

A comparatively new program aimed at sidetracking the habitual offender is the point system under which a driver is given a certain number of points for each violation and conviction. When, for example, he accumulates 12 points, his license may be suspended or revoked. States using this system or considering it include Kentucky, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island and Wisconsin.

Closely allied with driver licensing is the general area of driver education. Numerous states reported effective state-sponsored programs already in operation. Another area of considerable legislative activity was found in efforts to give quicker and stiffer penalties to the drunk driver.

Half a dozen states were writing laws to require periodic inspection of all motor vehicles. A newly installed system in New York provides that if a vehicle fails the test, the owner has 10 days to get it repaired for reinspection. The vehicle registration is revoked on any found "unrepairable." State safety officials reported ample evidence that the inspection law is ridding the highways of unsafe cars.

Another newly enacted New York statute provides for compulsory auto liability insurance.

Mixed-Up Ducks Nesting In Tree

LONDON (AP)—Hyde Park's keeper of the birds reported nervously today he has a pair of crazy, mixed-up ducks on his hands. The ducks, a mallard drake and hen, are nesting with six eggs 40 feet up a tree.

Why is this crazy? It is crazy because, as all duck-lovers and most ducks know, baby ducks waddle out of the nest and go swimming before they learn to fly. That is why normal mallards nest on the ground.

The six Hyde Park babies will waddle straight into 40 feet of space.

Birdkeeper Alexander Thompson is playing it as calmly as he can.

"After all," he told a reporter, "the eggs haven't hatched yet. The immediate problem is of people who look up and see a duck nesting in a tree."

"They run to a telephone in a state of shock, and call me up and insist on my doing something about it."

"Nothing can be done about it, of course. If we were to move the nest to the ground, where it belongs, the ducks would abandon the eggs."

Casting aside as impractical the suggestion that the ducklings be equipped upon hatching with small parachutes, Thompson said hopefully: "People forget that ducklings are very light and well-covered with down. They may not fall as fast as people think. Also there is plenty of soft grass under the tree, and I have every hope that the casualty rate will be low."

Business Major Shows Flair In Piano Recital

It is a bit of the unusual for a major in the Business Department to be such a creditable pianist, and to give a Senior Recital which was enviable in many respects. But such is the case with Mack Edmondson who played last evening in Austin Auditorium, under the sponsorship of the Department of Music.

This young pianist has quite a flair for the instrument, and a technique which overshadows some of the Music Majors themselves.

Mr. Edmondson's program opened with a generous portion of Bach, for which he has a decided affinity. His touch is very appropriate to the work of this composer—articulate, clean, yet not unduly brittle. Of the three groups by Bach, the C minor Fugue was on all counts the most outstanding. It was well-voiced, dynamically controlled, and refreshingly interpreted.

Five Preludes from Op. 28 by Chopin followed, with the third in G Major demonstrating a surprisingly developed left-hand technique, the A major an awareness of singing-tone, the G minor some powerful octave work. The C minor Etude from Opus 25 was well done, despite a few notes which fell by the wayside.

The concluding group was made up of contemporary works by Ravel, Pito, Paulenc, and Chasins, and in each of these Mr. Edmondson displayed a decided knack for authentic renditions of music of this period.

Winners were: Dave Harris, Edward Lauter, Miss Lib Rogers, Mathey A. Davis, Mrs. H. B. Mayo, Miss Nancy McNeill, Van Wilson, Miss Kendall Mills, Mrs. Harvey Ward, Sr., and Mrs. Wanda Barnes.

The judges for the contest were: J. D. Messick of East Carolina College; Mrs. Cora Powell of the Greenville Merchants Association; and Willard T. Kyzer, local Chamber of Commerce.

In making the announcements the local theatre managers stated that they were extremely pleased with the response to the contest and wished to thank the participating Greenville merchants for their "fine cooperation."

Collecting Like 'Disease' To Her

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP)—When someone asks Mrs. Allen Oxley to pass the salt and pepper shakers, he'd better be ready to duck. Mrs. Oxley has 1,700 of them, collected over a period of 30 years. "I can't stop collecting now," she says, "it's like a disease. I'll have to get more cabinets."

Stars Feature 'Big Top' Opening Night

NEW YORK (AP)—An enormous red oak with a big smile, a light on his nose and a yellow rubber duck on top of his head had just gone by the small girl in the front row in Madison Square Garden last night.

The little spectator, aged 4 and named Vickie, was then asked what she liked best in the whole circus.

"Clowns," she exclaimed, and went back immediately to her lollipop and the three-ring "Greatest Show on Earth" — Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Circus, which opened its season with a benefit show for the New York Cancer Committee.

Clowns there were by the ludicrous dozen under the red and blue spotlights. There were also, listed in what might be the order of importance to the little girl in the front row:

Lions, tigers, elephants, monkeys, tumblers, high-flying trapeze swingers, tight-wire artists with parasols, beautiful women riding in silver carriages and wearing purple plumes . . . And — Gypsy Rose Lee, Vaughn Monroe, June Havoc, Lanny Ross, Xavier Cugat, and others famous in the adult world.

Actor Dan Dailey was the master of ceremonies. He and the other celebrities were present only for the benefit show.

The show, which drew an audience estimated at 12,000, had all the sparkle, color, brass and bounce associated with the 87 years of Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey history.

The high point of the evening was the "Coronation of Mother Goose," a triumphal parade of weirdly and wonderfully costumed fairy-tale figures.

Also on display at intervals in the parade were such figures as Miss Lee, of burlesque fame, and the other celebrities.

Constantly rising costs forced the circus last July to call a halt to its road trip at Pittsburgh. It has abandoned the big top and will go only to cities with arenas or ball parks to hold it.

Plan Spring Frolic To Be Held April 19

BY ANNETTE HUDSON Stokes-Factious Reporter

Junior Class members are completing plans for a spring frolic on April 19. The dance will be held in the high school gym and will begin at 8 p.m. Admission for the semi-formal affair will be 50 cents for stags and 75 cents for couples.

Senior Class members left today for Washington, D. C., on their annual Senior Trip. The group will return home Sunday.

Three carloads of freshmen and sophomore girls attended the State Future Homemakers of America convention in Raleigh last weekend.

Falkland School Sets Pre-School Clinic Friday

FALKLAND — A pre-school clinic will be held at the Falkland School tomorrow for children living in the Falkland district who will be enrolled in the first grade next fall.

Children will be examined by a physician and given required immunizations unless the shots have already been administered or plans have been made for private physicians to perform the services. Principal Ed Warren of Falkland School said today that all children who plan to enter the school for the first time next fall must attend the clinic. He also requested parents to bring a copy of the child's birth certificate to the clinic.

Children who will be six years old on or before October 15 are expected to attend the clinic.

Union Financial Reports Rarely Seen By Anyone

WASHINGTON (AP) — For a decade, most labor unions have been required to file annual financial reports with the government. In all that time only about 200 citizens have ever seen them.

Reports from some 40,000 national and local unions are promptly locked away in Labor Department vaults on receipt.

Congress seems to have planned things that way in writing the Taft-Hartley law in 1947. Many legislators now feel that was a mistake which Congress should correct quickly.

Recent disclosures by the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee of alleged misuses of large sums of union money have brought renewed interest in the problem.

Numerous legislators have recommended that (1) the Labor Department records of union financial data should be opened to everyone, and (2) Congress should enact a new law requiring similar data to be filed with the government and made public regarding multibillion-dollar welfare funds.

But 10 years ago in enacting the Taft-Hartley Act Congress thought differently. It included no provision for filing welfare fund data at all. It required unions using services of the National Labor Relations Board to file the annual union treasury statements, but made no provision for making them public.

The late Republican leader, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, said "Such reports are not open to the public any more than corporation reports are open to the public."

Taft said that in addition to union members should be permitted to see their own union's reports, and the Labor Department has allowed that. But in 10 years only 200 union members have availed themselves of the privilege.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell was inclined some time ago to Taft's notion that the union data was primarily the business of a union and its members. More recently, he has said he would like to see the data under his custody made public. He further wants power to investigate for fraudulent filing of data.

For several years now both Mitchell and President Eisenhower have been urging Congress to require disclosure of welfare fund data.

Asked For, And He Received It

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — When a would-be bandit stepped into the office of a drive-it-yourself auto firm and demanded "Let me have the stuff," attendant James McKenzie let him have a pan of water right in the face. The marauder fled, his speed perhaps the greater because the water had been intended for coffee-making and was coming to a boil when McKenzie threw it.

More than 100,000 automobiles are now being ferried across the English channel by British railway steamers annually, three times the traffic before World War 2.

Thieves See Bad Business Year

CHICAGO (AP) — Bank robbers had tough luck robbing banks in Illinois during 1956.

There were 11 bank robberies and 3 attempted robberies, says Thomas Etcheson, executive vice president of the Illinois Bankers Assn. Of the total of 30 robbers involved, 17 were captured. Of the $77,890 loot, $24,433 was recovered.

Robber Overcome By Bloodshed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A robber beat James R. Murphy, 44, into insensibility last night, but instead of fleeing stayed around until police arrived to arrest him.

"It got so bloody I couldn't stand it," police quoted Earl Floyd Miller, 39, a transient, who was booked on suspicion of robbery. "I was robbing him—that's all. Here's his watch and the $1.38 I took from him."

Murphy still was unconscious when officers arrived. He was taken to General Hospital, suffering from numerous cuts and bruises.

White House Refuses To Relax Secrecy Standards

By ED CREAGH

Marshals Named At East Carolina

Elizabeth Ann Bowman of Liberty, sophomore at East Carolina College, will act as chief marshal at the college during the 1957-1958 term. She was chosen for the position by fifteen women students elected as marshals by their fellow students.

The group of sixteen will begin their duties this spring, will serve as ushers at major college events, and will head divisions of academic processions during commencement exercises in May.

Cynthia Anne Mendenhall, recreation supervisor of the East Carolina Student Union, will be faculty advisor of the college marshals during the coming school year.

Serving with Miss Bowman will be Patricia Allman of Lebanon, Carolyn Aycock of Pantego, Barbara Davenport of Creswell, Mary Lou Dickens of Littleton, Janet Hodges of Sanford, Alice Anne Horne of Tabor City, Sylvia Jones of Kinston, Peggy Kepley of High Point, Patricia Ann Johnson of Lillington, Hilda Lowe of Gibsonville, Patricia Simonds of New Bern, Gayle Simpson of Burlington, Janet Wall of Smithfield, Martha Wilson of Winston-Salem, and Mary Lou Wyrick of Gibsonville.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has refused to withdraw an order by President Eisenhower fixing secrecy standards for government information.

Gerald D. Morgan, special counsel to the President, said in letters to two editors, made public today, that the 1953 directive gives "the minimum protection necessary to the defense interests of the nation."

Morgan was replying to a resolution adopted by the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. which urged rescinding of the order on the ground it is being invoked increasingly to withhold information to which the association contends, the public is entitled.

The Eisenhower order authorizes certain officials to classify information as top secret, or confidential, depending on the degree to which they find its disclosure would hurt national security. Another security classification, "restricted," was eliminated by the 1953 order.

APME President Frank Everly, managing editor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, voiced disappointment that Morgan made no mention of an association proposal that the President at least take steps to prevent misuses of his order.

Everly said in a letter to Morgan that the administration apparently "is unwilling to issue a clarifying directive." The APME head added that the editors therefore will make the matter "a continuing topic of discussion, editorialization and public debate." In addition, Managing Editor V. M. Newton Jr. of the Tampa Tribune wrote Morgan that he doubts if Eisenhower has been told "all the facts in this very grave matter concerning the vital interests of the American people."

Newton, who was APME president when the resolution was adopted last November, said Eisenhower undoubtedly intended his order to give "some relief from the blanket censorship order" issued by President Truman. But instead, Newton said, officials are using the Eisenhower order to bring about an opposite result.

"Withholding of public information results in public exposure eventually," Newton said. "It should be much preferable for any administration frankly to acknowledge that unfavorable publicity is inescapable occasionally rather than to compound the final result by attempting to hide the truth under artificially justified censorship."

Morgan declined comment on the views of the two editors, who released their correspondence with him after the White House said it had no objection to their doing so.

In his own letter to Newton, Morgan said the Eisenhower order reduced the number of officials with authority to withhold information and also cut down on the categories of restricted information.

Morgan went on to say Eisenhower believes his order "represents the minimum protection necessary to the defense interests of the nation" and that if the order were rescinded "defense information would have no protection whatever."

Then, in a separate letter to Everly, Morgan said the administration "seeks diligently to insure that the public is informed of the operations of government to the maximum degree consistent with national security."

ROADMASTER 75

Custom Built by Buick

NOW ON DISPLAY

A NEW CONCEPT in motoring excellence awaits your inspection in the ROADMASTER 75 just introduced.

You will see what we mean the first time you glimpse the interior.

The impeccable tailoring and taste of the rich appointments are as obvious as the comfort is opulent.

The seats, for example, they are meticulously fashioned in glove-finished fabrics of broadcloth or Nylon, with backs topped in supple, hand-buffed leather. They are thickly layered with contoured foam rubber. They are wide, deep, superbly soft.

The doors present a new standard of luxury and restfulness—fully upholstered and softly cushioned from floor line to window.

The instrument panel, below the safety cushion, is chromed from end to end. The deep-pile carpeting is backed by foam. The integral armrests are fully in keeping with the spacious grace of the car.

The complete interior is matched by the mechanical excellence that is ROADMASTER tradition.

Indeed, nowhere else among the world's fine cars can you enjoy superb performance quite like that of a ROADMASTER 75—from the instant response of its brilliant new Dynaflo, to the smooth obedience of its all-new air-cooled aluminum front brakes — newest and the finest in the fine-car field.

Insist On Best In Ambassadors

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department was on notice today that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will insist on "first-rate ambassadors in every post."

The committee yesterday approved a letter Chairman Green (D-RI) sent Secretary of State Dulles saying that this country can no longer afford to give way to "pressure" in the selection of ambassadors.

Green mentioned no specific cases, but he told Dulles his committee "has on occasions given the benefit of the doubt to nominees."

"It is generally known that presidents and secretaries of state of both political parties have been under pressure from those who feel that an ambassadorship is a reward for past service or help," Green wrote.

He did not criticize the practice of naming wealthy campaign contributors to important diplomatic posts or suggest more appointments from among career service officers.

But he did say that "special problems" arise from the fact that certain posts "are very expensive."

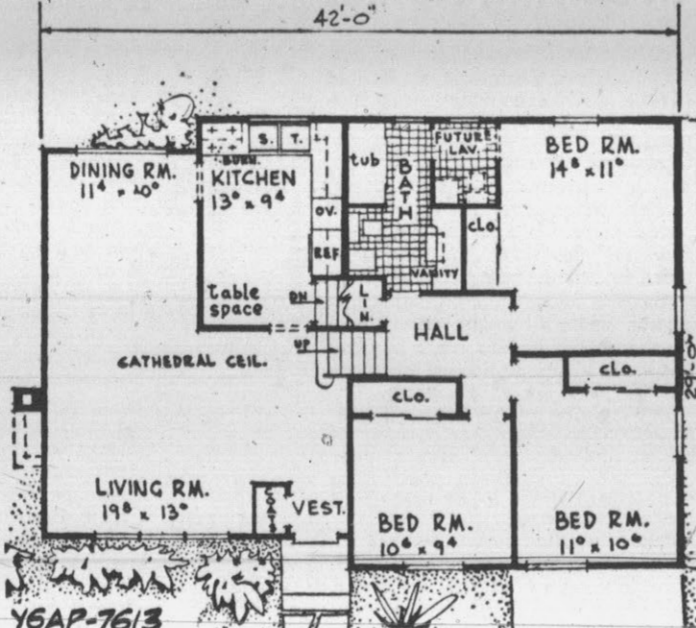

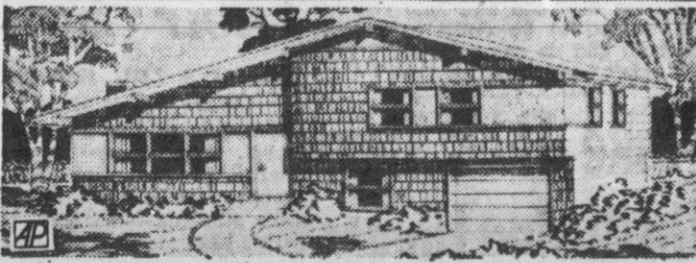

And he noted that the state department is making a study of that problem. Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) has said he will ask the Senate Appropriations Committee to consider raising the expense accounts of ambassadors at posts like London, Paris, Rome and Madrid.

The annual expense allowance of around $11,000 is so inadequate that few career ambassadors can afford to serve in the major capitals where official entertaining is costly.

Union Spokesman Is Asking For An Audit

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Carolina's Teamsters union leader A. L. Gunter of Charlotte has asked for an audit of union funds in this state in order to clear up "insinuations" about finances.

Gunter said last night he asked State AFL-CIO President Millard Barbee to audit the Teamsters funds and make the report public.

Barbee said national AFL-CIO leaders in Washington told him "it was absolutely out of their jurisdiction to set up such an audit. They said that if I wanted to do it, it would be all right." The audit would involve funds of the Charlotte, Greensboro and Asheville locals. The Columbia, S. C. local would not figure in the fund check.

Barbee said he has "no idea there is anything wrong with the Teamsters in this state." He said, however, he would name an investigating committee if Gunter wanted one.

Barbee said: "I understand that Charlotte (Police Chief) Frank N. Littlejohn has been sniping at the Teamsters for no reason." Littlejohn, who has corresponded with a Senate investigating committee about the Teamsters here, declared he is "not sniping at anybody." But he added:

"Whenever there is intimidation and interference with legitimate business, however, I'm going to be sniping. I'm against that sort of thing."

I am collecting my information at the request of a Senate committee."

National Teamsters union boss Dave Beck, who recently appeared before the Senate committee, refused to discuss his finances and his financial dealings with union funds, pleading possible self-implication.

He did acknowledge using 300,000 thousand dollars of union funds without interest and said he repaid it.

Beck appointed Gunter as a trustee of each of the North Carolina locals after the Charlotte local voted Gunter out as president and leading business agent. Gunter also holds the post of first vice president of the State AFL-CIO.

American Artists Show Religious Theme Trends

By RENE CAPPON

NEW YORK (AP)—Gifted American artists are showing increasing interest in religious themes, despite the lack of significant official support.

That's the view of Alan D. Gruskin of Manhattan's Midtown Art Gallery, which handles a number of noted artists who paint religious subjects.

In recent years such art has taken on new vitality, but relatively little thanks is due to churches, he says.

Church commissions, he noted sadly, still go all too often to imitative third-raters working in hackneyed forms producing superficial prettiness and cloying sentimentality. And as a result, much church art is under a pall of inferiority.

The Midtown, which held a big religious art exhibition a few years ago, is sending a collection of such works around the country.

The traveling show includes paintings by Fred Nagler, a prominent member of the group of American Artists who have achieved notable harmonies in interpreting the traditional motifs of faith in boldly modern manner.

Nagler employs Biblical themes. His canvases are not abstract, though he uses distortion for his effects. Critics have commended them for both technical proficiency and emotional warmth.

Coincidentally, the small, recently established Marino Gallery here currently is exhibiting works on Biblical and ritual themes. Thirty American artists are represented with 70 items—paintings, stained glass and sculpture.

The Department of Urban Church Planning of the United Lutheran Church in America will conduct a series of regional conferences to explore the manifold problems besetting big city churches. Midwestern synods will participate in a gathering at Chicago next Wednesday. The Southern conference is set for Atlanta, Ga., next Friday. Other conferences will be held on the West Coast and in Canada later this year.

Girl-Watching Could Be Costly

ELGIN, Ill. (AP)—Girl-watching sometimes can be costly.

Jacob Rodriguez lost control of his car when he took his eyes off the road to look at two girls he was passing. The vehicle went over the curb, traveled up the bank for 94 feet, then continued on its side for 205 feet before it hit a tree.

His car was demolished, and he went to the hospital with a back injury.

Just Ten Years Ago, U.S. Stepped Into Its Role Of Supporting World

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just 10 years ago this spring, America stepped into the shoes of Atlas, the strong man who holds the world on his shoulders.

The aim was to lift the non-Communist world out of reach of Russia.

Money and materials began flowing overseas in "grants," meaning gifts, and loans. Proponents of foreign aid said the great outlay was vital to the interests of the United States, not a "give-away."

A decade has passed since this began.

Today, the total American outlay depends on which set of books you examine. It is at least between 50 and 60 billion dollars. And the end is not in sight.

President Eisenhower has asked Congress for $4,400,000,000 to continue the foreign aid programs.

But today, for various reasons, many people are seriously questioning the foreign aid program. Congressmen are getting thousands of letters asking, in effect, "What did we get for all that money? When does this thing stop?"

By contrast, surveys taken recently by researchers at the University of Chicago showed a majority of people questioned approve the foreign aid programs, pretty much as they stand.

In any case, Congress is now casting up a balance sheet, reviewing the record, trying to evaluate the results of a spectacular 10 years.

Let's trace the record in outline.

Broadly speaking, the emphasis began in Western Europe, shifted to the Far East, and now to the Middle East and Africa. In form, it began primarily as economic aid and changed to military help.

The steps—

First, in March 1947, Greece and Turkey receive 400 million dollars. Armed Communists are looking down their throats.

Then the Marshall Plan. In 1948, the outlay is 5 1/2 billion. It hits a peak in the next year, $6,100,000,000.

During this period, the emphasis is on European recovery. On the theory that "poverty breeds communism," the U. S. effort is to reconstruct a shattered economy. That means rebuilding roads and communications, providing machinery and tools, "priming the pump."

1950. Fire in the sky dramatically changes the character of the American programs.

War flares in Korea. Then in Indo-China. Meanwhile, the Reds have overrun China; their enemies fall back to the island of Formosa. Most important, an atomic blast in Siberia warns that the secrets of nuclear energy no longer belong to the United States alone.

Immediately, military aid takes precedence — guns, tanks, airplanes, "hardware" — for allies and hoped-for allies.

1953. Soviet Russia, still warning and scoffing at the U.S. program, suddenly steps out with one of its own. It offers both military and economic aid. The drive appears to be aimed primarily at India and the Middle East.

The Red effort is comparatively small — about 1 1/2 billion toward the end of 1956, mainly in 30-year loans at 2 1/2 per cent, with technicians known to be working in 14 countries. But it is gaining momentum, analysts report.

Today, over half the U.S. outlay goes for "military aid." About a third is allocated to a hazy category called "defense support," which is both economic and military. The rest is given to "economic and technical" assistance.

Six nations — Korea, Formosa, Viet Nam, Pakistan, Turkey and Iran — are getting two thirds of the foreign aid funds. All but Formosa actually touch Communist territory.

That's the record. Was the money well spent?

Nobody will ever know whether Western Europe would have "gone Communist" but for American aid. Even though recovering more slowly, the people there might have chosen not to join the Reds. Who can say?

Whatever the answer, the record is clear. Western Europe today is in alliance against them. The NATO nations today pay 85 per cent of their defense costs. The United States and Canada supply the rest.

Analysts frequently cite Iran as a nation that definitely was kept out of Communist hands by American aid.

Korea and Formosa, each maintaining 20 army divisions, receive well over a billion dollars a year. Without this support, it is questionable whether, economically, they would last long.

"What's the alternative?" U. S. officials ask. "To keep that money and let the Commies have the people and the real estate?"

By no means every project has been successful. Critics charge waste and inefficiency in many places. Few people any longer think you can buy friends or allies. Did we get our money's worth?

All that exists is the record — and that can be interpreted according to different lights.

Jack Webb Portrays A Marine In New Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jack Webb is still sergeant, but he has switched his allegiance from the Los Angeles Police Department to the United States Marine Corps.

It's Sgt. Jim Moore instead of Sgt. Joe Friday for the industrious Webb, who has just finished producing, directing and starring in "The D. I." That stands for drill instructor.

Instead of the soft-spoken, monotoned police detective of television, Webb is about as noisy as he could be.

"Man, it took a lot out of me," he sighed in his sumptuous office at Mark VII Productions. "We got tape recordings of seven hours of drill commands made at Parris Island. This was boiled down to a 4 1/2-hour tape and I listened to all of it.

"Those D.I.'s really have to yell to make themselves heard. After the first few days of doing it in the picture, my belly was really sore at night from straining my diaphragm so much. One day my voice really did conk out on me, and I was afraid we'd have to suspend shooting. But fortunately it came back."

Webb has long been a man in a hurry, but his schedule on "The D. I." was a man-killer. He lost 17 pounds in 21 days of shooting.

"We had expected to have five or six months to prepare this picture," he explained. "But then the renewal for 'Dragnet' on TV came through. That meant we'd have to start making another 78 half-hour films in July.

"The picture would have to get started right away so I could go out on the road and help sell it. I wanted to go down to Parris Island and do some research, but I didn't have time for that."

Take Their Time In Buying Homes

CHICAGO (AP)—Many potential home buyers are standing off and giving more consideration to how they want to live 20 years from now.

John M. Neff, manager of a research department at Armour Research Foundation of Illinois Institute of Technology, says this attitude is responsible for the slowdown in private home construction.

Many potential home owners are giving second thought to whether they want to live in tract housing areas in which 50 to 100 or more similar units are constructed.

The volume of all types of construction last year totaled over 44 billion dollars, an increase over 1955. But residential construction in 1956 was down 8 per cent from the previous year.

Tract housing units are cheaper than individual houses, Neff said, but they don't afford as much individuality as most people want in their homes.

He says off-site fabrication of homes may put individualized single unit dwellings within the price range of the tract houses.

He doesn't expect this development to be commonplace before 1965.

Montana was admitted to the United States on Nov. 8, 1889.

WITH EASY-TO-USE D-D SOIL FUMIGANT

Clear your soil of nematodes now and get bigger—better tobacco yields at harvest. Use D-D soil fumigant.

D-D soil fumigant is an easy-to-use liquid. You can apply it directly to the soil with gravity-flow or inexpensive pressure equipment. Underground it becomes a lethal gas, killing root knot and other harmful nematodes as it spreads. Economical, too—one treatment lasts an entire season.

This season use D-D soil fumigant before you plant. It's available from your local pesticide dealer. See him today.

Over 50 Golfers Expected In Annual Medal Tourney

Over 50 golfers will crowd the green at the Greenville Golf and Country Club Saturday and Sunday to participate in the Annual Medal Play Tourney.

The 36-hole affair will be divided with 18 holes being played on each day.

Molt Massey Jr., who copped the championship in 1955 and is still regarded the defending champion, will be on hand to match his talents against the field. Others who are registered for the event are such outstanding Greenville golfers as two-time winner W. L. Allen, Ercel Webb, Reynolds May, Simon Mayo, Ben Harrison. The field is still growing as golfers continue to sign up for play.

The Medal Play tourney was originated in 1953 and was won that year and the next by W. L. Allen. Massey grabbed the spotlight in '55. Last year, the tournament was halted for repairs on the course and the construction of the new back nine holes.

Medal play works like this: winners are determined by the total number of strokes used in the 36 holes of play. This, according to some, is the staunchest test of a golfer's ability and is used now in the Masters and National Golf Open tournaments.

The eight low scorers on Saturday will be paired together in two foursomes on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m.

Trophies will be given to the winners immediately following Sunday's play. The public is cordially invited to watch on both days.

Zulueta Edges Lopes In Close Split Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)—Orlando Zulueta, getting little zest from his latest victory, nonetheless declared himself ready today to take on Joe Brown for the world's lightweight title.

Whether the Havana tapper will get his chance at the crown remains to be seen.

He captured a split decision last night from Joey Lopes of Sacramento, but was anything but devastating in triumph. And he did not convince the audience—1,287 paid—in Capitol Arena. A national audience was tuned in on television and radio (ABC).

The verdict was noisily booed, and all the cheers were accorded the loser.

Lopes banged away at Zulueta's midsection, twice drawing a warning from referee Harry Volkman. But Zulueta swung the decision with spurts of sharp punching and defenses that staved off the 26-year-old truck farmer from California in the last few rounds.

Hymie Wallman, Zulueta's manager, said he was dickering for a match with Brown at Denver in late May. He said the possibility of a substantial guarantee ought to stimulate Brown's interest.

Zulueta, meeting Lopes as a substitute for the injured Paolo Rosi, won on two cards. Volkman favored him 99-95, and Judge Beny Alperstein, 96-95. Judge Charley Buck gave Lopes a 97-94 edge.

The Associated Press also had Lopes ahead, 97-75.

The fight was scored under the "10 point must" system giving the winner of a round 10 points and the loser anywhere from 9 to zero. Orlando acknowledged afterward he "wasn't in good shape" because he'd been caught short in training after a fight in Havana 10 nights ago.

Zulueta, at 136, had a three pound weight advantage.

Top Clubs Are In Exhibition Series

The Associated Press

It's an improbable itinerary, but what likely will be the best two-team fight for the National League pennant currently is holding one-day stands in Jacksonville, San Antonio, Houston, Fort Worth, Dallas, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Wichita and Kansas City.

That's the route — termed "the Pneumonia Circuit" by Brooklyn Dodger President Walter O'Malley — to be followed by the champion Brooks and the "we'll-do-it-this-time" Milwaukee Braves as they wind their way home to start the real thing.

They looked for real in Jacksonville yesterday, wrestling through 10 innings to a 2-all tie and leaving it that way to enable the Braves to hop a commercial airliner for San Antonio. The Dodgers use their private plane for such things.

Don Newcombe, pitching for the Dodgers, was tagged for seven hits in his six frames — one a second-inning, and first-of-the-season, home run by Bobby Thomson.

Duke Opens Defense Of Its Title With 10-4 Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Atlantic Coast Conference baseball season offered a light, two-game schedule today after two league affairs and one outside game yesterday.

South Carolina, smarting from two ACC defeats in two days in North Carolina, today entertained Erskine of South Carolina's Little Four league. Maryland, also luckless yesterday, visited Georgetown.

Duke opened the defense of its conference crown yesterday with a 10-4 victory over South Carolina. North Carolina 1-1 in the ACC.

Catcher Robert Kennel and left-fielder Richard Hunter each got three-for-five to lead North Carolina State's hitting. Centerfielder Don Hafer homered for State in the eighth.

Righthander Roger Hagwood got credit for the victory and Don Saine, the loss.

Maryland had a 5-3 lead going into the ninth inning against Dartmouth only to see the Indians tie it up and then come on with another run in the 10th inning to win 6-5. Two singles and a pinch hit ter's double in the ninth tied the game for Dartmouth and a single followed by a triple in the 10th provided the victory margin.

Howie Dare homered for Maryland in the eighth.

Maryland had a 5-3 lead going into the ninth inning against Dartmouth only to see the Indians tie it up and then come on with another run in the 10th inning to win 6-5. Two singles and a pinch hit

Philadelphia clipped Boston's Red Sox 3-1 on a three-run double by winning pitcher Hadley Haddix. Cleveland pushed across nine runs in the seventh to whack the New York Giants 13-6. Pittsburgh finally scored against Kansas City, beating the A's 2-0. And the Chicago Cubs ruined Mike Fornieles' full-route show by beating Baltimore 6-3.

Southpaw Jim Davis' knuckleball gave catcher Hobie Landrith all sorts of trouble, permitting the Tigers to score the tying run in the ninth on a passed ball.

The White Sox junked Tom Sturdivant's string of 21 scoreless innings in the first frame, then wrapped up the Yanks with four in the third, capped by Landis' two-run blast.

The Phils got to Frank Sullivan in the second with a pair of singles and walk filling the bases for Haddix's drive to right-center.

Baseball Race Is Shaping Up Much Like Last Year's

By ED WILKS

NEW YORK (AP)—It looks like more of the same in the 1957 major league pennant races.

In the National League, it's Brooklyn, Milwaukee, Cincinnati and pick 'em.

In the American, only injury — not Cleveland, Chicago or Detroit — appears capable of interrupting the New York Yankees' reign.

The national league goes into its 82nd season in two weeks with an isolation booth question hanging over each of the contenders. The pennant rides with the answer.

It's a familiar and irritating question for Brooklyn's defending champions — Can the old men do it again? Specifically, can Sal Maglie come anywhere close, at 40, to the magnificent Maglie of last season? Is Roy Campanella's hand back in business? Can Pee Wee Reese, butted by injury all spring, stay in one piece at 37? Can the Dodgers get along without Jackie Robinson — and Carl Erskine, if his arm proves helpful?

For the Braves, who went to the final day of the season before losing the 1956 pennant to the Dodgers, the question is whether Manager Fred Haney's passion for positive thinking can show a profit. Has Haney, with his talk of "potential" and "hustle," convinced Milwaukee's annual runners-up they have matured as a result of last season's bitter burnout?

Cincinnati's question is more tangible — and more demanding. Can the Redlegs, who matched the one-season major league home run record with 221 last year, stay explosive enough to cover up a pitching staff that could be a dud? Can Birdie Tebbets, the National League Manager of the Year in '56, pull a little miracle? A comeback by Joe Nuxhall, a repeat year by 19-game-winner Brooks Lawrence, another fine bullpen job by Hershel Freeman and help from a "sleeper" somewhere on the pitching staff are musts.

If anything scares the Yankees it's the ever present threat of injury to Mickey Mantle, who knocked down the 1956 batting championship, home run crown, runs-batted-in title and a $60,000 salary.

But even with the league's Most Valuable Player on the bench there doesn't appear to be enough on any other club to prevent Manager Casey Stengel from grabbing his eighth pennant. The world champs likely have the Rookie of the Year in outfielder-infielder Tony Kubek to boot.

See the difference nitrate nitrogen side-dressing (left) makes on cotton. Nitrogen in Chilean Soda is 100 per cent fast-acting, efficient nitrate nitrogen.

and you'll choose CHILEAN NITRATE OF SODA

Experience, they say, is the best teacher and 100 years of consistently satisfactory experience with Chilean Nitrate of Soda have demonstrated that there is nothing to compare with it for side-dressing cotton, corn and other summer crops. It is a rare, natural combination of nitrate nitrogen, sodium and minor elements. Where the soil is too acid; where potash is deficient or where the supply of available phosphate is low; where the crop needs quick help; or where one or more of the minor elements is lacking, Natural Chilean Soda has no equal among nitrogen fertilizers.

The side-dressing effectiveness of any nitrogen fertilizer depends very largely on its content of nitrate nitrogen. The nitrogen content of Chilean Soda is 100 per cent nitrate nitrogen and this, together with its rich sodium content and minor elements, accounts for its remarkable efficiency in the field.

Sodium adds a great deal of extra value to the product. It destroys soil acidity, substitutes for potash and calcium when necessary, increases the supply of available phosphate, and helps the plant gain the utmost benefit from the nitrogen. In addition, Chilean Soda contains small amounts of needed minor elements to protect against hidden plant-food deficiencies.

If you have any question about your nitrogen side-dressing program this year, we urge you to use Chilean Nitrate, if only in a small way to begin with, so that you can see the difference for yourself. We are confident you'll find it the most economical and satisfactory nitrate nitrogen fertilizer you ever used for side-dressing your crops.

May Propose Statewide Vote On Liquor, Race Track Issues

By LYNN NISBET
The Reflector Bureau

RALEIGH — Side line conversation has it that a bill authorizing a statewide vote on the legal sale of liquor and another calling a referendum on local option authority for operating dog and horse race tracks, perhaps including automobile racing, with pari-mutuel betting, will be introduced within the next few weeks.

Chances are rated very slim for either bill to get by, largely because they represent in popular concept the extreme points of what is rather loosely called the "moderate" attitude of the people.

It is known that the Allied Church League has had a prepared bill since weeks before the Legislature convened calling for an election at state level on whether to continue the present system of local option under which any county can determine whether or not to sell whiskey legally, or to prohibit legal sale anywhere in the state.

It is also known that numerous conferences have been held in which efforts have been made to get one or more legislators to introduce the bill, and without great success up to now. If the bill comes to the floor and a recorded vote a lot of members will vote for it. But very few are willing to sponsor it because of almost certain failure.

Two versions of a race track bill have been written. One would provide a statewide election to permit any county to establish race tracks by majority vote of the people in that county, with the proceeds of the tracks subject to State supervision under a plan comparable to the ABC board. The other bill would approach the objective from the opposite direction, by authorizing a vote in one county with permission for any other county or counties to join in the program.

Those interested in this proposition are even more cagey than the liquor referendum advocates, and it will be more difficult to get a legislator to introduce the bill or bills. Legalized gambling is somewhat lower in the moral scale than legalized liquor.

Many good people who have no compunctions about playing bridge or bingo for prizes or who participate in lottery drawings for prizes at church or civic club functions, abhor the idea of pari-mutuel controlled odds at racing events.

The ABC system of selling liquor in county operated stores under supervision of a State agency is pretty strongly entrenched. It is very doubtful public sentiment will upset it for some years to come.

The public is not yet "sold" on the idea of race tracks, whether operated that way or any other, with open betting windows.

In view of this attitude, plus the fact that the State and its subsidiary units have become accustomed to millions of dollars revenue from sale of alcoholic beverages, the liquor referendum will have little chance of passage in the Legislature — and not more than an even chance of voting out legal liquor on local option basis if submitted to state wide vote. By the same line of reasoning from the opposite direction, because the people are not accustomed to legalized race track pari-mutuel betting,

Declines Parole To Aid Convicts

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP) — A young convict has refused parole from the state prison because he says he feels it is his mission to help 34 other convicts to a fair chance at a decent life.

John Corrier, sentenced for forgery, could have returned to a good job in his home town of Las Cruces two months ago. But he turned down freedom to remain behind bars and continue teaching radio and television electronics to a group of inmates.

"These men wouldn't be here if they had ever had a chance to get an education and make a decent living," Corrier said, waving a hand at his class. "If they can learn this electronics trade and get a class-B license from the Federal Communications Commission it means they will have their chance for the first time. And they won't be back here again."

"I'm one of the lucky ones," the convict-teacher added. "I've got a job waiting for me in Las Cruces. But there are more than 50 men in here right now with paroles waiting for them who can not get out because they can't find a job."

"It's pretty hopeless for them if no one is willing to help. How can a man go straight if he can't find work?"

He said he doesn't want to leave the prison until his electronics course is organized and can be carried on.

Mrs. Ann Simington said she has laid in a stock of the cheerful critters. She is asking $1.98 per cricket and the price includes a bamboo cage.

Mrs. Simington said crickets are not easily caught and that it takes a sharp eye to outwit them.

Vice President Believed To Have Ample Authority

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—It may startle you but the vice president tomorrow could declare the president unable to carry out his duties and announce himself as president.

So far the two vice presidents who had the best excuse for doing that — those who served under President Garfield, who lingered 80 days after being shot, and President Wilson, laid up for 17 months — did nothing of the kind.

But what would stop some future vice president — in a situation unimaginable now, say crisis, ambition, political conflict — from trying to get the presidency by declaring the president disabled?

The biggest single deterrent would be the power of Congress to impeach him if it thought he was trying to usurp the presidency. Nevertheless, such a try someday is possible so long as the present constitutional gap on the presidency remains.

The Constitution says:

"In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the vice president . . ."

In that sentence the Constitution does one thing, fails to do another: 1. It gives the vice president power to step into the presidency — on a contingent basis. That is, he assumes the office if the president is disabled.

2. It fails to say who decides the President is disabled. It does not say the vice president shall or shall not make the decision.

Under law, when a man is granted power on a contingent basis — and when there is no language to the contrary — the decision on when to assume that power is up to him. This was pointed out yesterday by Atty. Gen. Brownell, who told Congress:

"It is a well-established rule of law that in contingent grants of power the one to whom power is granted is to decide when the emergency has arisen. Thus the vice president is constituted the judge of the President's inability."

Brownell, representing the views of President Eisenhower, urged Congress to fill this gap in the Constitution by a constitutional amendment which he proposed. This was it:

"A vice president himself would never be able to move into the presidency by declaring the president disabled. Instead, this would be the procedure: If a president was unable to carry out his duties and was mentally alert enough to know it, he could instruct the vice president — but he'd have to do it in writing — to take over temporarily until the president recovered.

If for any reason the President was unable to carry out his duties but couldn't or wouldn't say so, the vice president could become President temporarily but only if a majority of the President's Cabinet approved in writing.

If the President never recovered the vice president, of course, would continue in the office of the presidency. But if the President recovered — and said so in writing — the vice president would have to step aside.

This was intended, among other things, to settle an old argument over this question: Is a vice president the permanent president once he takes over the duties of the presidency?

But students of the Constitution could find flaws, real or imagined, in Brownell's proposal. Because that's so, and because there is so much disagreement in Congress on what to do and how and whether anything needs to be done, it's almost certain nothing will be done.

Promotion For 13 Guardsmen

Thirteen enlisted men in Service Battery, 295th Field Artillery Battalion, have been promoted to higher ranks.

Orders promoting the men are the first the unit has been allowed to publish this year. All of the promotions became effective Monday.

American TV Films Go Global; Well Received

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—American television films are going global.

In Great Britain, 4 of the 10 top audience-rated programs during December were American packages. They were Dragnet, Assignment: Foreign Legion, The 64,000 Question (with neither a dollar nor a pound sterling sign), and Robin Hood (though filmed in England this is an American written and planned).

The export of American TV films is becoming a big business. The president of one of the most active exporting firms, Milton A. Gordon of Television Programs of America, Inc., reported the other day that in one year TPA has grossed $2,700,000 on 12 different series in as many countries.

What sort of American television filmed programs do foreign viewers enjoy most?

Gordon and Manny Reiner, in charge of TPA foreign distribution, came up with these general conclusions:

In Europe action and costume adventure series rate as the most popular. The least popular are musicals. American comedies, especially if they have any pretensions to sophistication, also are not usually popular.

In Latin America the same general patterns prevail, with especially strong resistance to any form of "drawing room" drama. The most popular single TPA program in Latin America, by the way, is Lassie, who barks in nearly every country south of the border where there is television.

Gordon pointed out that there are basic economic factors involved in the sale of American television films abroad. Every country wants to develop its own TV industry to as great an extent as possible, but in no other country are there the economic resources of the American industry.

Thus, the general difficulty of selling a series of indoor drama is based on the fact that it is easily produced in any country. But only America can produce for one only America can produce for one with panoramic backgrounds. End advance Pms April 4

New Reserve Enlistment Program Now Authorized

Major Gordon B. Berry, commanding officer of Cell 1, 3015th USAR Reception Center, today announced a new reserve enlistment program authorized by the Department of the Army.

The new program has categories for age groups 17-18½, 18½-20, and 20-25. The first group will be permitted to volunteer for eight years in the Army Reserve and take six months of active duty training within 120 days of their enlistment or after graduation from high school. After completion of the active duty training, participants will be required to attend weekly drills and summer camp with a local unit for three years. At the completion of active duty and local unit training, the participants will be transferred to the "Standby Reserve" which does not require active participation in training.

The second age group will be permitted to enlist in the reserve program for six years. The participants will also be permitted to volunteer for six months of active duty and then spend the remainder of their enlistment with a local reserve unit.

The third group can volunteer for a period of three years during which time participants will spend six months on active duty and the remainder in the Standby Reserve, providing participants had never had Army basic training.

Major Berry, in announcing the new program, said, "All young men are faced with a military obligation, and at one time or another, he will have to fulfill this duty. The new program authorizes young men to complete military obligations in a local unit after six months active duty. Further information on the new program is available at the local Army Reserve Training Center, located at 106 Ficklen Street. Regular Army personnel are on duty daily to answer questions and assist persons interested in the Reserve program.

There are now 53,000 motels throughout the country, compared with 15,000 in 1940.

Starting Water Inventory Under Group Program

RALEIGH — Forty-five of North Carolina's " Piedmont" and Coastal Plain Counties will begin conducting inventories of their water problems during April.

Under the program, which is being supervised by the State Board of Water Commissioners, all counties in the First, Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth Congressional Districts will form committees to begin work on the water problems study. The main function of the county groups will be to arrange and conduct meetings for the purpose of recording the exact nature of existing and anticipated problems.

According to W. H. Riley, executive secretary of the Board, the inventory will begin today when representatives of the seven counties in the Fourth District gather for an orientation meeting in Raleigh. These representatives will return to their counties to organize committees to carry out the inventory program.

On April 8, representatives of the 14 counties in the First District will meet in Plymouth to hear details of the program and to receive material that has been prepared to assist them with the inventory in their counties. Second District county representatives will gather in Tarboro on April 15 and representatives of the Third District counties will meet with members of the Board of Water Commissioners' staff in Trenton on April 22. The inventory will be launched in the Fifth District on April 29 with a meeting in Reidsville.

Each county is being allotted approximately one month to complete its work. Much of that time will be devoted to familiarizing the public with the purpose of the study and with the types of problems to be reported. The climax of the inventory in each county will be a public meeting at which water users will be asked to list their problems.

After completing the inventory, each county committee will forward the results to the Board of Water Commissioners for cataloguing and analysis. The reports from throughout the state will reveal which problems are strictly local, which are sectional and which are state-wide. By comparing the problems with existing water laws, the Board will be able to determine which problems are adequately covered and which are not. This knowledge, combined with information already collected relating to available water and its use, will provide a basis for both immediate and long-range conservation planning.

Grifton Seniors To Give Comedy Friday

BY BARBARA TAYLOR
Grifton School Reporter

The Senior Class will present its annual play Friday night in the school auditorium at 7:30.

This year's presentation, a three-act comedy entitled "Mama's Baby Boy", is by Charles George. Admission will be 25 cents and 50 cents.

Martha Hart, Emily Nelson, Pat Bennett, Sandy Price, Dorothy Hardison, Joyce Dudley, Brenda Rose and Phyllis Dudley attended the FHA State Convention in Raleigh last Saturday.

Phyllis and Joyce were the only Pitt County girls at the convention who received their state degrees.

The girls were accompanied by Mrs. Don Casey and Mrs. Merle Nelson.

Junior Class members will go to East Carolina College Friday to attend High School Day. The program has been designed to show the students what ECC has to offer to prospective students.

Projects designed by science students, including some Grifton students, will be on display during the day.

The GHS baseball season opened for the Bulldogs when they met the Red Shield Club of Kingston Friday. The Bulldogs won the game, 11-4, on their home field. Coach Alston Burke is directing the Bulldog baseball team.

Waitresses have been elected by the Junior Class and will serve at the Junior-Senior Banquet April 26. Girls who were chosen included Sallie Mewborn, chief, Connie Dennis, Esther Coward, Wilma Patrick, Linda Koon and Nancy Smith.

Theme of this year's banquet and prom will be "Garden of Friendship". The "Plaids" of Kingston will play for the dance.

Future Homemakers and Future Farmers held their joint banquet Friday night in the school cafeteria.

Esther Coward pronounced the invocation and the welcome was extended by Wayne Ervin. The response was given by Mrs. R. A. Nelson. Special guests recognized by Tommy Boney included Mrs. Paul Bradley, Don Casey, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Bright, and Herbert Pursles. Special music was presented by members of the glee club.

Fifty Top High School Photos To Go On Display

Fifty prize photographs, including the top winners in the Eleventh Annual National High School Photographic Awards, will be shown at East Carolina College in a two weeks' exhibition beginning April 24.

The display will be sponsored by the college department of art and will be an attraction of the annual Community Arts Festival in Greenville. Photographs will be shown in both the Joyner Library and the department of art, Austin building.

The National High School Photographic Awards, sponsored annually by the Eastman Kodak Company, is generally acknowledged as the leading teen-age photo contest in this country. It recognizes achievement in photography with more than 240 cash prizes.

Representative of the excellent photography being done by high school students throughout the United States and its territories, the exhibit includes the sixteen major winners from the 1956 competition and a selection of pictures that received honorable-mention awards.

Officers Chosen By Fraternity

Charles E. Elgin of Leesburg, Va., has been elected president of the East Carolina College chapter of the national honorary geography fraternity Gamma Theta Upsilon. With other officers of the organization, he will begin his duties this spring and serve during the coming school year.

Other officers chosen for the 1957-1958 term are Glenn C. Woodard of Oriental, vice president; Mrs. Nan Youmans of Oxford, secretary; and Ronald Sykes of Nashville, treasurer. The Beta Iota Chapter of the fraternity was organized on the campus here in 1955.

Stumped Trying 'Place' Soldier

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP)—Army officers were stumped trying to place George R. Hamann, 32, of Rawlings, Mo., and Harry Wornath, 23, of Portland, Ore., in Army jobs that utilized their civilian experience.

Hamann was a wrinkle chaser; Wornath a cracker tester. The wrinkle chaser with a hot jet on leather boots in a shoe factory) landed in the communications section as a wireman. The erstwhile bakery cracker tester got a job as a supply clerk.

Add Experience To Their Study

BARBOURSVILLE, W. Va. (AP)—Volunteer firemen took advantage of an early opportunity to impress their teacher with what they had learned in a West Virginia University extension course on firefighting.

They were listening to a lecture by Lt. Robert Myers of the Huntington Fire Dept. when the alarm sounded. After the blaze at a restaurant was extinguished, Myers said his "students" did an excellent job.

CHAPTER 23

The great gates of Fort Phil Kearny yawned wide and there was music issuing forth, followed immediately by General Wessels' colors. The entire regiment marched into view, stopped, and waited in stunned silence while the battered remnants of Lieutenant Emil Schwabacker's troop approached.

General Wessels gave an order and a Company broke ranks, running forward, hands lifted to dismount the wounded tenderly. Schwabacker was lifted off his horse and borne to the general. Wessels' face was grave as he had his look. "Get him to the hospital," he said. "On the double!"

From that moment everything became a chaotic blur to Emil Schwabacker. He hadn't even been aware that he was hit by Indian fire again! A strange officer was giving orders to Sergeant Linnahan, an ambulance came up, pulled by maniacal horses, and he was hoisted bodily into it.

He recognized one of Dr. Cove Butler's corpsmen and in that way knew that the infantry had made the post in safety. Somehow his grievous losses did not seem so futile now, the heavy responsibility of his command decision was immeasurably lightened.

The swaying ambulance carried him across the parade to the infirmary and there he was litter-carried inside. He felt an undefined shame at being handled in this manner and tried to get up, but a corpsman with little nonsense in him pushed him back.

A regimental surgeon attached to Wessels' command was assisting Butler, who wore a haggard expression. He looked around at Schwabacker who carried inside, then he smiled and came over, his bloody hands gentle as he removed Schwabacker's shirt.

"Did you make it . . . without loss, Cove?"

"Sure," Butler said in a soothing voice. "We made it, son. We made out fine and so will you."

Either always left him nauseated and he made a feeble objection when Butler dropped the cone over his face, but then the sick sweetness hit him and he no longer cared. Sounds faded and light dwindled to far-off dancing specks, then a sheet of darkness came down.

He was in bed when he came out of it, but twenty minutes passed before his sickness left him. His stomach and chest felt restricted by the thick bandage. There was another around his thigh. Someone conversed outside his small room and then Cove Butler opened the door, took one look at him and beckoned General Wessels in. From the position of the sunlight entering the room, Schwabacker knew that it was late afternoon.

Wessels moved a chair close to the bed and sat down. "How are you feeling, Lieutenant?"

"Fine, sir," Schwabacker's voice sounded strange, like a rusty hinge that hadn't been moved for years. "My command, sir . . ."

"They're all right. They're being taken care of." Wessels took a cigar from his pocket. "May I smoke?"

"Of course, sir," Schwabacker was embarrassed to have a general ask such a thing.

"I'm putting together my report," Wessels said. "I would like your account."

Schwabacker began his account at the point when he made contact with the command bivouacked on Crazy Woman's Fork. He spoke clearly, concisely, and omitted nothing, even the irregularity of relieving Captain Jocelyn of his command by force. General Wessels sat stolidly throughout the report, turning the air blue with his strong cigar. It was only when Schwabacker spoke of his decision to charge the enemy that Wessels interrupted.

"Lieutenant, it seems to me that you took quite a gamble."

"Yes, sir," Schwabacker's first thought was of the cost: in men, his unforgivable tactical blunder that would remain on his record.

Real Purr Under The Engine Hood

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The purr in Police Lt. Lee Ballard's cruiser was the real thing. He started the engine and was nearly deafened by a caterwaul. When the noise stopped, he raised the hood, found the motor fan bent and a hole in the radiator, but no cat.

Passersby said the animal had a run like fury from under the rear wheels a moment before. It cost $60 to repair the cruiser. Damage to the cat was unknown.

The Old West Is Still Kicking

TULARE, Calif. (AP) — Don't try to tell 5-year-old Allen Scott Given the West isn't still wild. Allen has been awarded $450 for injuries suffered in a stage coach run-away last summer. It seems the youth was riding in the coach with friends at a resort when something "spooked" the horses and they ran away.

The stage coach was upset and Allen ended up at the bottom of the heap.

deed of trust dated August 22, 1956, executed by Marjorie Dupree, Annie Dupree, et al. to R. B. Lee, Trustee, recorded in Book G-29 at page 57 and M-29 at page 313 in the Pitt County Registry, default having been made in the payment of the note thereby secured and the owner and holder of the note having called upon the trustee to foreclose thereon, and the bid of the successful bidder at the former sale having been raised, and an order of re-sale having been signed and entered, the undersigned trustee will, on Wednesday, the 10th day of April, 1957, at 12:00 o'clock noon at the courthouse door in Greenville, N. C. again expose to public sale to the highest bidder for cash the following described real property, to wit:

That certain lot in Greenville, N. C. situate on Douglas Street, and being Lot No. 4 in Block "I" of the Cherry View Addition as appears on that certain map of record in Map Book No. 2 at page 148 of the Pitt County Registry, the dimensions of said lot being 45 feet by 71.5 feet by 45.5 feet by 73 feet, and being the same parcel of land inherited by Annie Dupree from her father, Henry Dupree, who died September 30, 1946, and her brother, George Dupree, and inherited by Marjorie Dupree from her father, Forrest Dupree, a son of Henry Dupree, and her uncle George Dupree, son of Henry Dupree, the said Annie Dupree and Marjorie Dupree being the sole surviving heirs at law of Henry Dupree.

The successful bidder at said sale will be required to deposit with the Clerk of the Superior Court 10% of his bid at the sale pending the confirmation of the sale by the Court.

This the 25th day of March, 1957.
 R. B. LEE, Trustee

About To Give Up His Pact With The Dead

By TOM DYGDARD

DETROIT (AP)—One of the last members of an 107-year-old pact aimed at communicating with the dead says it is about time to give up.

"I've been at this for 18 years and nothing has come of it," Charles D. Noble said, "and I think I'll let it die with me." Noble will keep trying to make contact with his deceased friends—magician Howard Thurston, lawyer Clarence Darrow, explorer Carveth Wells—until he joins them in death.

But he says he will not name a "successor" to himself in the pact to try to communicate with his spirit.

The strange agreement to break the barrier between life and death—or prove it could not be done—was formed in 1850 by two magicians, Conte, a Frenchman, and Herrman the Great.

Although skeptical, they agreed that the survivor on each anniversary of the other's death would hold an object associated with the deceased. The spirit of the dead man was supposed to knock the object from his hand.

Another clause of the pact obligated the surviving member to name one or two successors.

Noble, a Detroit cement salesman of 65 who dabbles in magic as a hobby, was brought into the pact by Thurston, a boyhood friend.

The only other surviving member of the pact is Harry Blackstone the magician. Blackstone is 81 and in ill health.

Noble has gone to Chicago to seek contact with the ghost of Darrow and to Columbus, Ohio, to search for the spirit of Thurston. On the exact anniversary of the death—to the minute, if possible—Noble holds an object that meant something to the dead man—a book, a plaque, a magician's wand, a picture—and urges the soul to knock it from his hand.

"I wait a minute or two and then it is over," he said. "Nothing has ever happened."

He says he is "always a little disappointed," but admits, "I wouldn't be so happy myself if it dropped."

The long-standing experiment is far from a failure in the eyes of Noble.

"To me the fact that it hasn't worked is the salvation of the whole idea," he said. "It shows up the spiritualists who tell people they can bring a person back from the dead."

Wrote Himself Into State Job

NEW BUFFALO, Mich. (AP)—Frank A. Castelluccio, a 23-year-old law student, looked over his absentee ballot and noted no one was running for township highway commissioner.

"We can't have this," he said to himself and wrote himself in on the ballot.

Today Castelluccio, a freshman at the University of Detroit Law School, is making plans to go home next Tuesday to be sworn in as highway commission of New Buffalo Township in southwest for the job in the April 1 election.

America's Sub Fleet Grows

Launching of atomic sub Nautilus, Jan. 21, 1954.

Uncle Sam's submarine arm is putting on more muscle.

A new and powerful fleet of missile-carrying and atomic-powered underwater ships is in the works. Congress recently authorized the building of five additional nuclear subs. As the program advances, two nuclear submarines have been built, eight are building, three are contracted for and two are authorized and four are planned for in the new budget — a total of 19.

These are not all. The Navy also is developing utility submarines. It already has underwater troop and cargo carriers, and oil tankers. Rear Admiral Elton W. Grenfell, Pacific Fleet submarine commander, predicted recently that all America's offensive submarines in the future will have atomic power and guided missiles. He said the Navy at present has under construction or conversion many subs capable of launching guided missiles with atomic warheads. "The gravest threat in the world," he pointed out, "is a sub that can carry an atomic guided missile. It has stealth combined with tremendous hitting force."

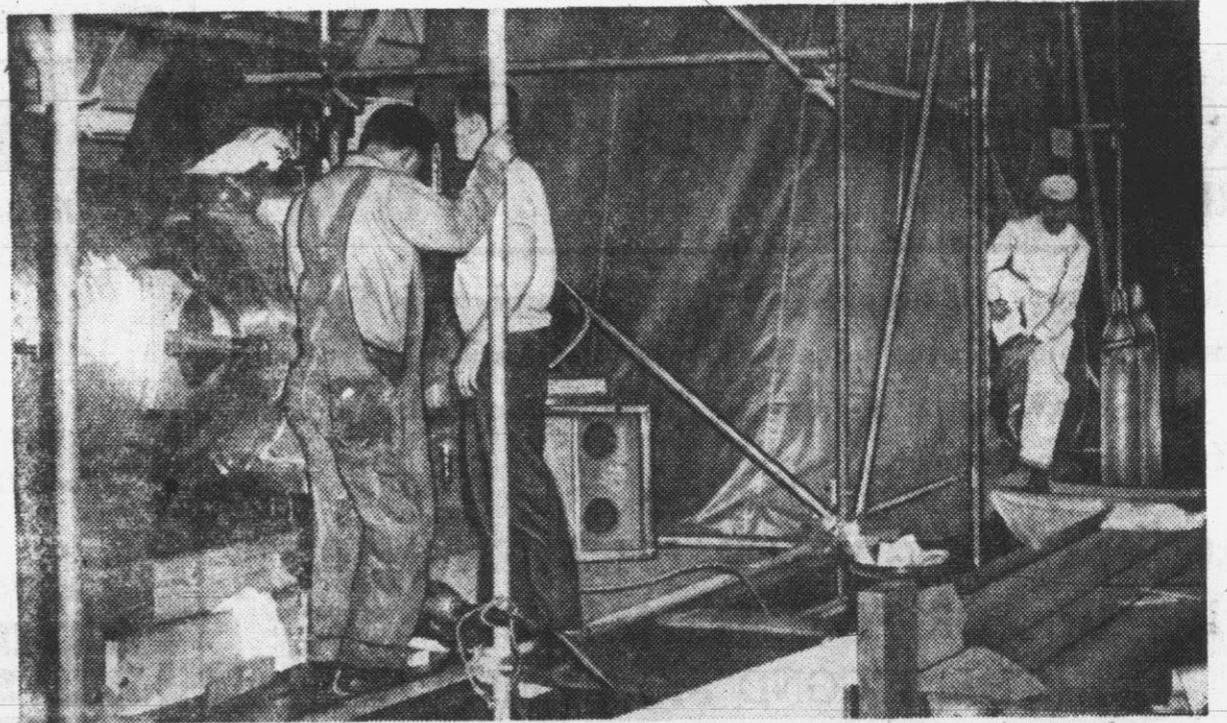

Three of these new submarines are being built at the Mare Island Navy Yard, Vallejo, Calif., where these pictures were taken. They are the Greyback, the Halibut, and the Sargo. The Greyback, a conventional sub, is being built as a missile-launching craft. The Sargo is a nuclear-powered attack submarine, a little smaller but similar in shape to the Nautilus, America's first atomic sub, and the Halibut is a nuclear and guided-missile submarine.

Wearing surgically clean clothing, pipefitter Ben Benevente enters "clean area" at navy yard.

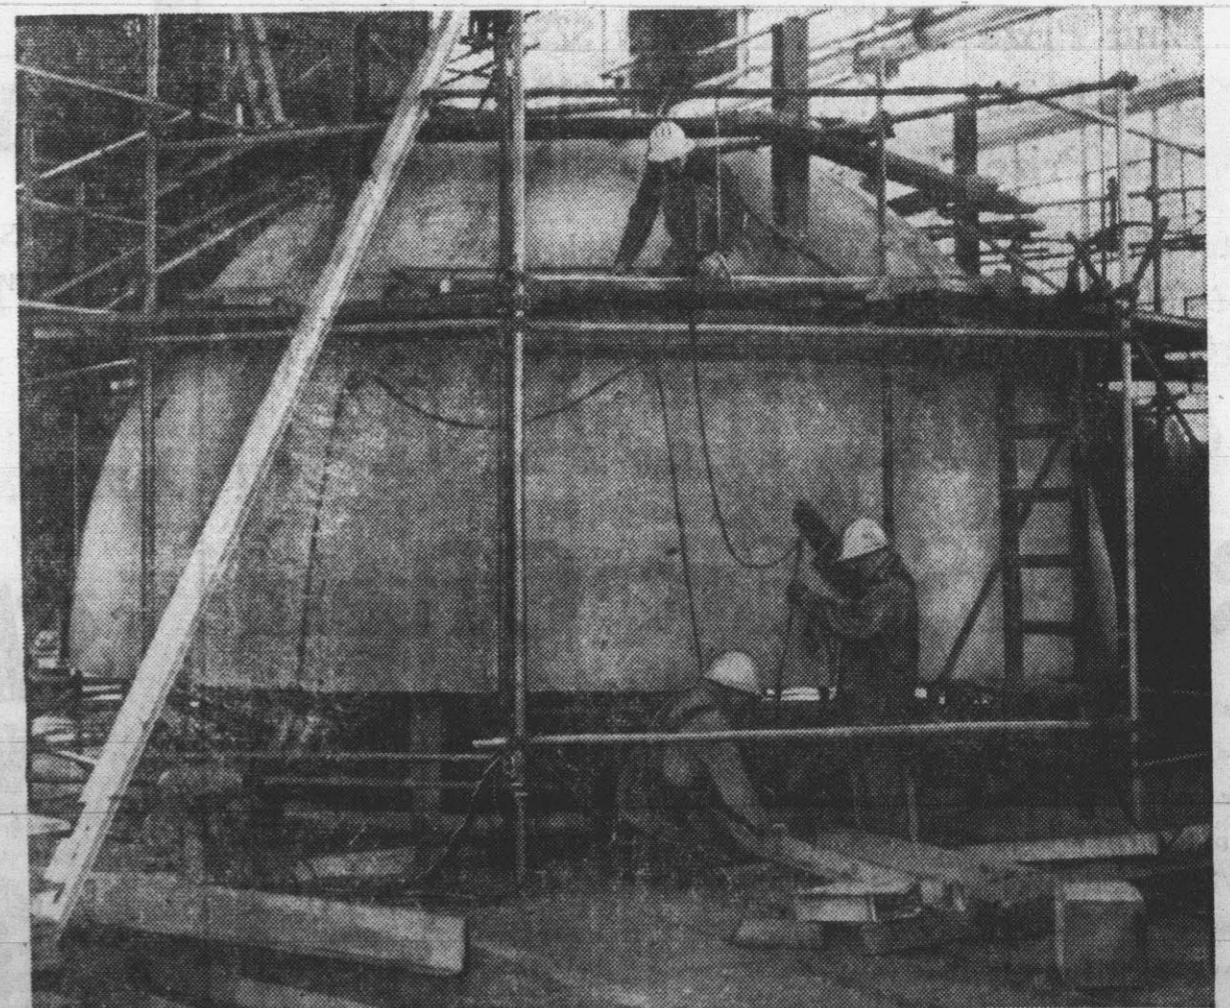

Marvin Gann, welder, and Gerald Inman, inspector, right, assemble component part of submarine inside "surgically clean" assembly tent at Mare Island Navy Yard.

White-clad workman emerges from plastic tent where parts for sub are put together. At left, two men work on other parts which will eventually be placed in tent.

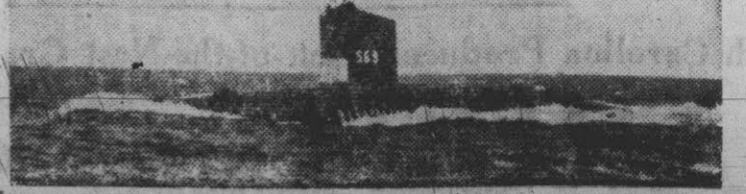

Shipfitter R. Marshall, in front, and sandblasters Jack Duncan and William Carlos work on section of submarine Greyback.

Workmen work on huge dome section which will be fitted inside the bow of the Halibut. Sub's dome will serve as arsenal for "hangar" for guided missiles.

Sharp Cutbacks In Mail Service If Sum Held Up

By MARTHA COLE
WASHINGTON (AP) - The Post Office Department appeared ready today to go through with sharp cutbacks in postal services unless it gets the 47 million dollars it says it needs for the next three months.
The cutbacks would go into effect Saturday.
A House Appropriations subcommittee recommended yesterday that the department be given 17 millions.
There were indications that even this might have rocky going in the full Appropriations Committee. Rep. Cannon (D-Mo), chairman of the full committee, accused the Post Office Department of an 11th-hour attempt "to sandbag us with threats."
The department's stand was backed by spokesmen for organizations of mailmen and postmasters, who protested that denial of the 47 millions would be "disastrous" to the mail service and to postal employees.
The Appropriations subcommittee acted yesterday after Postmaster General Sumnerfield reportedly told it he needed the extra funds to operate through June 30 because of heavier-than-expected expenses.
Sumnerfield was quoted as saying that unless he was given assurances that his department would get the 47 millions, he would have to order immediate drastic service reductions, including a halt in city and rural mail deliveries on Saturdays, and closing of post offices on Saturdays, discontinuance of money order sales and reduction of mail deliveries in city business districts to one a day.
Republicans on the nine-man subcommittee tried to get the full 47 millions, but they were outvoted by the Democratic majority, which settled on the 17-million-dollar figure. The committee Democrats contended that smaller amount was all that could be attributed to expenses the department could not have foreseen last year.
William C. Doherty, president of the National Assn. of Letter Carriers, said the 17 millions would only take care of automatic increases in salaries of postal workers. He described the situation as "disastrous and catastrophic."

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina poultry markets: fryers and broilers steady at 19.
Raleigh and Durham eggs steady, A large 30-32; Asheville eggs about steady, A large 28-30; Charlotte eggs steady, A large 29.

RALEIGH (AP—NCA) — Hog prices mostly 25 to 50 higher. Tops of 17.25 at Tarboro and Rocky Mount; 17.00 at Bethel; 16.75 to 17.75 at Kenly; 17.00 to 17.50 at Kinston, Wingate, New Bern, Benson and Nahant; 16.75 to 17.25 at Siler City and Mount Gilead; 17.00 at Castle Hayne, Shallotte, Elizabethtown, Micro, Mount Olive, Bailey, Dunn, Clarkston, Whiteville, Goldsboro, Smithfield, Newton Grove, Lumberton, Clinton, Fayetteville and Rich Square.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market ran into resistance today after two days of advancing prices. In fairly quiet dealings small gains and losses were recorded with the losses slightly outnumbering the gains in the early afternoon.

Most key stocks showed only fractional changes with rails holding a little better than the rest of the list.

Aircraft generally were ahead while motors, rubbers and airlines weakened. Chemicals, mail orders and steels were mixed.

Youngstown Steel advanced and Bethlehem held unchanged despite news the government will attempt a short cut in its suit to block merger of these companies.

Some fireworks were provided by Lukens Steel. After opening at a new high for the year, the stock fell back sharply. At one time trading had to be suspended because of a flood of sell orders. The stock lost around 6 points.

In the rail section Chesapeake and Ohio, Southern Pacific and New York Central advanced. Freight traffic in the second quarter will top the year ago figure after a first quarter lag, according to forecasts of regional shipping boards.

All major motor stocks declined fractionally as a trade publication estimated production this week will slip below the year ago figure for the first time since the Jan. 5 week. Chrysler was weakest.

Recent active and strong stocks, such as Zenith, General Dynamics and Schering, ran into profit taking and either held around the previous close or registered minor losses.

Local Delegates To Attend State Meet In Raleigh

Approximately 300 North Carolina high school students will be in Durham attending the National Honor Society State Convention April 4, 5, 6. The sessions will open this evening with a supper and entertainment in the Durham High School cafeteria following registration.

Delegates that will attend from Greenville are Miss Frances Smith, advisor, and Bill Bilbro, Jerry Howell, and Madelyn Coleman, official delegates. Grayson Waldrop is the unofficial delegate.

Friday morning the convention will begin with a general meeting of the delegates. Featured on the program will be a panel discussion on the convention's theme, "Searching for Peace," with Daniel K. Edwards, former U. S. representative to NATO, as moderator.

The afternoon program will be devoted to discussion group and committee meetings. Following the program the delegates will be taken on a tour of Duke University and will attend a reception in the ballroom of the Duke Union Building.

The Rev. Dr. James Cleland, preacher for Duke University, will be the speaker at the convention banquet which will be held Friday evening in the Washington-Duke Hotel. A dance will follow the banquet.

Election of officers for the coming year will be the highlight of the Saturday morning session which will conclude the convention.

Parents Turn Out For School Clean-Up

Yesterday many parents of Third Street School children spent the afternoon at school.

They were busy cleaning up the school yard in connection with Clean Up-Plant Up Week. Some of the various projects that they undertook were cleaning dead leaves and debris from the flower beds, clipping hedges, and removing dead limbs and poison ivy from the grounds.

Ralph Heidenreich and Willie Pate furnished dump trucks which the men used to carry dirt and remove trash. They also filled up holes by the swings and sliding board.

The parents came at the children's request. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heidenreich were chairmen of this project.

At a later date the school plans to beautify the grounds further by planting more flowers and shrubs which will be contributed by the parents.

According to Mrs. David Mosier, PTA president, the children will again invite their parents on April 10 from 3:30-5:30 to help them with the school grounds beautification program. She urged all parents to "please come and help with this clean-up project."

Underwriters To Attend Meet

Greenville and Pitt County life underwriters will attend an Eastern district meeting of the North Carolina Association of Life Underwriters in Goldsboro next Tuesday.

The meeting is the first of four district meetings to be held in North Carolina for life underwriters. Other meetings will be in Durham on April 10, Greensboro April 11, and Charlotte April 12.

The affairs are designed to give the insurance men information, new sales ideas, and stimulation and motivation.

North Carolina Commissioner of Insurance Charles F. Gold of Raleigh will be one of the featured speakers at the meeting. Other speakers will include Mrs. Crystal Starr, agent for the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company in Atlanta; Louis T. Bates, assistant agency vice-president of Gulf Life Insurance Company in Jacksonville, Florida; Tom B. McDonald, director of training for Southland Life Insurance Company in Washington, D.C.; and W. Walter Smith, agent for Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Rutherfordton.

Ed M. Hicklin of Burlington, president of the North Carolina Association of Life Underwriters, will preside at the meeting. Edwin A. Page of Goldsboro will be host chairman for the Goldsboro meeting.

Two Arrested On Larceny Charges

Two local Negroes were arrested by City Police yesterday on charges of larceny.

Arresting officers identified the two men as Louis Smith, 33, of 112A Clark St. and William Tucker, 43, of 403 Wyatt St. They were charged with the theft of two portions of two rolls of insulated copper wire valued at $146 from the Greenville Mills.

It was learned that the accused stole the wire on two separate occasions. The first portion of wire was missing about a week ago and the plant manager stated this morning that the last portion was discovered stolen over the past weekend.

The investigation was made by the Greenville Police department.

Minor Hurts In 3-Car Accident

BETHEL—No serious personal injury was reported last night in a three-car chain collision on U.S. 64 about one mile west of here.

According to reports from the investigating officer, Pfc. J. B. Surles of the State Highway Patrol, only minor bruises and cuts were sustained by the occupants of the three vehicles involved in the accident. All were treated at the Bethel Clinic.

Surles stated this morning that at the time of the accident, a stalled automobile belonging to Robert Moore, Negro who lives near here, was being pushed by hand when struck from the rear by a station wagon being operated by Mrs. David Stewart of Winterville. A car driven by a serviceman then struck the Stewart station wagon at $150, with $150 damage to the front of the serviceman's automobile. No damage was reported on the 1954 vehicle belonging to Moore.

Moore was charged with improper parking and no headlights. The patrolman estimated damage to the rear of the Stewart station wagon at $150, with $150 damage to the front of the serviceman's automobile. No damage was reported on the 1954 vehicle belonging to Moore.

The investigation was made by the Greenville Police department.

Anthony Eden Is Flying To U.S.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—Sir Anthony Eden, looking frail and tired, left by plane today for the United States and a checkup in a Boston clinic.

The former British Prime Minister apparently is suffering a recurrence of his old bile duct ailment. But he told reporters at the airport he and his wife plan to return to New Zealand after their trip to America.

Probing Possible Labor Collusion With Companies

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, says Senate probes are looking into possible labor-management collusion in the juke box and automatic coin machine field.

Kennedy said yesterday in a statement the committee was convinced there was a close link between underworld figures in control of some employer and union groups supplying and servicing vending machines in big cities across the nation.

Kennedy, here to check on the progress of the probe, said the committee would be aided by the Federal Trade Commission in tracking down any racketeering in the vending machine business.
