Cites Favorable Public Response On Budget Slash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said today he has received a "tremendously favorable" public response to his demand that Congress slash what he criticized as President Eisenhower's "incredible" spending budget.

The reaction to Goldwater's criticisms of Eisenhower in a Senate speech last week is being watched closely by Democrats as well as Republicans. As a possible indicator of the trend of Eisenhower's popularity, these returns could egg along bolder political attacks on the President.

Goldwater, former chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said in an interview he has not received a single letter disagreeing with his criticisms of Eisenhower. He said his office is "swamped" with mail from all over the country from "intelligent citizens, not crackpots," urging, he said, "Go to it."

Estimate 1,700 At Opening Night

An estimated 1,700 people attended the first 1957 performance of the Passion Play last night in Wright Auditorium.

The production will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. It is sponsored by Protestant churches in Pitt County.

Last night's audience included delegations from several Eastern North Carolina towns, including Burgaw, New Bern and Goldsboro. A spokesman for the play, which is an adaptation of the Oberammergau Passion Play, said that comments received from the audience last night indicated that the production was "well-received, especially two new scenes which were added this year."

Lloyd Bray, a student at East Carolina College, has the lead role in the Passion Play which was written by Dr. Joseph Withey of ECC and directed by Samuel Johnson. This is the fourth year the play has been presented in Greenville during the Easter season.

Dave Clark Named Law Clerk To Justice Black

David M. Clark, a senior at New York University's School of Law, has been appointed law clerk to Associate Justice Hugo L. Black of the United States Supreme Court, it was announced today by Dean Russell D. Niles. He will serve in Washington for a one-year period commencing in August.

Clark is the son of Mrs. D.M. Clark of 407 Holly Street, Greenville. His father, the late D.M. Clark, was for 20 years the public prosecutor in the Fifth Judicial District of North Carolina.

The NYU student is a graduate of Greenville High School and Wake Forest College Winston-Salem, North Carolina. At Wake Forest he was co-editor in chief of the campus newspaper, president of the literary society, and a member of the Kappa Alpha Order, social fraternity, and Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership fraternity. He received his bachelor of arts degree cum laude in 1951.

From 1951 to 1953 Clark served as an ensign aboard a United States Coast Guard destroyer in the Pacific. He holds the rank of lieutenant, junior grade, in the Coast Guard Reserve.

Clark has attended NYU on a Root-Tilden scholarship, one of 20 awarded annually by the School of Law on a nationwide competitive basis. During the 1956-57 academic year he has been managing editor of the "NYU Law Review."

Before entering law school, Clark worked as an editor with the Clark Publishing Company in Charlotte, N.C.

We're behind you." Budget-cutting talk continued to echo elsewhere in the capital too, with Senators Byrd (D-Va) and Bridges (R-NH) predicting the Senate will sustain a "major share" of the more than a billion dollars of cuts made by the House in Eisenhower's peacetime record budget requests.

Byrd reported "a new attitude" among senators in favor of economy. Bridges said his mail is running heavily in favor of cuts but people are beginning to be heard from in connection with the House reductions.

"They are the ones," he continued, "who want us to save money, but to restore the spending for projects they are interested in."

He said the Senate probably will restore some House cuts but may reduce other House figures and "I think it will balance out to the point where we will sustain a major share of the savings."

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the House Appropriations Committee said in a filmed television interview that "material sums" can be cut from defense funds without impairing national defense. He proposed to do it by cutting what he called "so much overlapping, so much duplication, so much waste."

Byrd contended the budget cuts made so far do not justify a tax reduction now, since many of them will affect only future years' spending.

Gabriel Hauge, President Eisenhower's chief economic adviser, told a television audience he does not see how enough can be cut from the budget to provide a tax cut this year.

He held out hope for a reduction sometime during Eisenhower's second term and said it should benefit "every taxpayer in America."

But Goldwater contended the present budget will be cut sharply, saying: "If the White House thinks President Eisenhower's prestige is so great that it will put over this big budget, then it's mistaken. The people are not for this kind of spending and they are showing it."

Set To OK Administration Forces Are 'Sure' Highway-Prison Separation Bill To Win Out

House Expects Prompt Action; Senate Poised To Step In, Maybe Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House was ready to approve swiftly today a bill to give the Post Office Department another 41 million dollars to restore normal mail service.

The Senate was poised to act, possibly tomorrow, thus clearing the way for Postmaster General Summerfield to call off service cutbacks begun Saturday.

Meanwhile, a second stage of Summerfield's cutback order became effective today. Mail deliveries to city business districts were limited to two days, and most post offices went on an 8 1/2-hour schedule for window service.

In advance of the House voting, Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the House Appropriations Committee said, "I expect no difficulty."

Sen. Robertson (D-Va), chairman of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee handling postal funds, said he would urge the committee to accept the 41-million-dollar figure. He said he feels that's enough to restore all postal services.

Summerfield said he will make no move to restore service until the President signs a bill giving him more money.

He has said he must have 47 millions to keep full mail service in operation during the remaining 2 1/2 months of this fiscal year. He has promised to restore all the cuts he can if he gets 41 millions.

He says the supplemental request was prompted by unforeseen costs. He attributed these to unexpected heavy mail volume, a need to open new routes to serve spreading residential areas, and a postal pay raise.

Congressional critics, including Cannon, have contended Summerfield should have lived within his regular budget of more than two billion dollars. They have accused him of violating a law designed to prevent overspending by federal agencies.

Comptroller General Joseph Campbell, head of the watchdog General Accounting Office, said the Post Office Department violated the anti-deficiency law "in moderate or heavy frost at this time, he added, would kill off such young fruit."

E. L. Harris of Candor, in the heart of the Sandhills peaches, said prospects remain for a good crop.

Temperatures last night dipped below freezing in the high places of the western North Carolina Mountains. Mount Mitchell had a low of 16. Canton, 20 miles west of Asheville, had 22, and the Asheville-Hendersonville Airport reported 26. Frost and light freezing in those areas was about the same they had been the last three nights, but that elevated area had not experienced the advance in vegetation which the Piedmont and coastal plains have.

The Raleigh Weather Bureau reported these conditions last night: Wilmington, low of 34 with heavy to moderate frost; Hickory and Elizabeth City, 33; Cherry Point 43, New Bern 30; Winston-Salem 34 with light frost; Greensboro 34 with scattered light frost, and Fayetteville 31 with very light frost.

Low temperatures ranged in the upper 30s in upper South Carolina last night, with virtually no frost visiting the great peach orchards of Spartanburg, Cherokee, York, Greenville and Anderson counties.

The weather man says tonight will bring North Carolina temperatures of 30 to 35 in the mountains.

RALEIGH (AP) — As Tar Heel lawmakers headed back to Raleigh today, administration forces were confident of reviving and passing the prisons separation bill which was dealt a setback Friday.

Sen. C. V. Henkel of Iredell, who led the move in the Senate Committee on State Government which gave the bill an unfavorable report by 5-3, was equally confident the Senate would accept the committee's majority report.

A showdown battle may come tomorrow on whether to adopt a minority report of the committee. The unfavorable report is expected to be handed in to the Senate tonight. Sen. Arthur Kirkman of Guilford, chairman of the Committee on State Government, said a minority report signed by three members will accompany the unfavorable report.

If the report is received tonight, it will be placed on the Senate calendar for action tomorrow. Lt. Gov. Luther Barnhardt, Senate president, said, "The question before that chamber would be on adoption of the minority report. If a majority favored adopting it, the bill thus would be revived and on the calendar for second reading. If a majority is lacking, it would go on the unfavorable calendar. The House approved the bill last week."

Gov. Hodges said "I am confident that with the public support behind it and the good judgment of the Senate," the bill will win in the Senate and House.

Henkel, who denied he is an anti-administration man, said "I have every reason to believe the Senate will support the committee's action."

The Iredell senator declared he votes for or against a bill depending on whether it is good or bad for the government, "regardless of who supported it." He added, "They grow them a little independent up in the Brushy Mountains."

Barnhardt and Kirkman said they felt the Senate will revive the bill and pass it. Kirkman said the minority report will be signed by Sens. Robert Morgan of Cleveland, Lunford Crew of Halifax and Ed Clark of Bladen.

Henkel issued a long prepared statement yesterday in which he said that "For all practical purposes the prisons were separated from the Highway Department in 1955. This bill can be handled in 1959 or 1961 or anytime that the general fund is ready to relieve the highway fund of the financial burden."

He said "The whole thing is a tempest in a teapot and is really a matter of no urgency or importance."

Barnhardt said he attached no significance to the move by the Henkel-led group to axe the bill. He added the opinion that administration forces are in the saddle of the Senate," the bill will win in the Senate and House.

Henkel declared that "If the general fund can and will take over the financial burden at this session of the Legislature I will vote for the bill. If it cannot, I will not vote for the bill until such time as the general fund can do so."

Henkel said that all the prisons separation bill does "is change the control of the prisons from the prison director, the prison advisory council the Highway Commission and the governor to the prison director and the proposed seven-man prison commission."

He added, "Inasmuch as the present Prison Advisory Council, the Highway Commission, the proposed new prison commission are all appointed by the governor, the actual control for all practical purposes remains exactly where it is, namely with the governor."

"It is neither sound government nor good government," Henkel stated, "to saddle the highway fund with complete support of the prison system and give it no voice in the management."

Meanwhile, chairmen of the Senate and House Appropriations committees may announce tonight or tomorrow the membership of a joint appropriations subcommittee which will trim the budget bill into shape.

A show-down date and pond twic.

The Joint Finance Committee is scheduled to wind up hearings Thursday on proposed tax changes and will get down to consideration of the tax bill for the next biennium.

RALEIGH (AP) — A search continued today for five prisoners who sawed the bars off a cell-block window and fled the Caledonia Prison Camp in Halifax County.

Prisons Director William F. Bailey identified the inmates as Luther S. Barbee, Oakboro; Claude Goodson, Burlington; Thomas L. Johnson, Fayetteville; William Charles Jones, Mecklenburg County, and Wilbur Bill Herring, Kinston.

Barley said the five prisoners had been doing construction work at the camp, which is being renovated.

Barbee was serving 5-8 years from Stanley for breaking and entering; Johnson, from Cumberland, 18 months for forgery; Goodson, 5-8 years from Caswell for breaking and entering; and Herring, sentenced from Lenoir, two years for larceny. Jones was sentenced from Mecklenburg for larceny, but his record was not immediately available, Barley said.

Pro-West Arab Leader Is Named Jordan Premier

By TOM MASTERSON AMMAN (AP) — Hussein Fakhri Khalidi, a pro-Western political leader, was named Jordan's new premier today. This was a victory for King Hussein in a six-day-old Cabinet crisis.

The seven-man cabinet includes Suleiman Nabulsi, the Leftist National Socialist party leader dismissed as premier last Wednesday.

(Dispatches from Amman are under censorship. Earlier advice reaching Damascus pictured Hussein as gaining steadily in a bold struggle to purge pro-Egyptian leaders from Jordan's army and political life. Yesterday Hussein exiled the Jordan army's pro-Egyptian chief of staff. Despite this, the major elements of the Jordan army were apparently behind the King.)

Bahjat Talhoumi, chief of the Royal Cabinet, confirmed that the new government had been formed. Tension has gripped Jordan during the past few days of the crisis. But it was generally hoped now that the country will return to normal.

The Cabinet was topheavy with independents. Besides Khalidi, the new government will have five other independents and one National Socialist.

Appointment of Nabulsi was apparently with the support of the strong National Socialist party, which controls 13 seats in Parliament.

Other members of the Cabinet are former premiers Said Mutfi and Fawzi Mukli; Suleiman Sukkar, former leader of the Jordanian Senate; Dr. Amin Madaj and Majid Abuhadi.

Khalidi's success of forming a government came as a surprise. Last official information given out earlier today said that Said Mutfi was still trying to set up a Cabinet.

Agreement apparently was reached at a top level meeting called at the palace at noon. All former premiers of Jordan, all members of the Senate and some deputies attended.

Khalidi was the first candidate asked by the Monarch to form a new government but he failed after two days and apologized to the King.

Hussein emerged from the crisis with a greater stature than ever. Khalidi is a Palestine refugee. This is important since Palestinians form more than a third of the population.

Besides Khalidi, four of the new Cabinet officers have served as premiers, some of them several times.

The Eisenhower Doctrine for the Middle East actually set off the crisis. Then it developed into a struggle for power between extremists and moderates.

In Damascus, the Jordanian Embassy issued a statement saying Hussein adheres to the "liberal Arab policy" drawn up by Hussein, King Saud of Saudi Arabia, and Presidents Nasser of Egypt and Shukri Kuwaly of Syria.

The statement said Hussein was about to end his talks with Jordanian party leaders on forming a new Cabinet. The new government ment's policy would, the statement continued, be based on the political declaration issued by the Arab leaders in Cairo on Feb. 23. The statement reaffirmed Arab neutrality in the East-West cold war, but took no public stand on Communist penetration of the Middle East or the Eisenhower Middle East Doctrine.

The embassy press statement denied what it described as "misleading rumors" of rioting and violence in Jordan, and that "dissension occurred in the Jordanian army."

Sweden Reveals Another Arrest For Espionage

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — A high official of Sweden's Atomic Energy Commission has been arrested on charges of spying for Russia.

A police spokesman said 29-year-old Robert Folke Damstedt, the commission's assistant secretary, is being held for trial on charges of atomic espionage.

Also held is Gosta T. Jakobsson, 35, a former draftsman for the Swedish navy. The case was said also to involve sale to the Soviet Union of blueprints of Sweden's newest submarines.

The disclosure added another round to the stormy exchange of spy charges and countercharges between Russia and Sweden since World War II. Last month, Sweden delivered a formal protest to the Kremlin against Soviet espionage in this traditionally neutral country. That protest was coupled with rejection of a Soviet complaint that 14 spies for Sweden had been arrested and sentenced in Russia.

Unofficial reports described the Damstedt case as the most serious in the long chain since World War II. It was learned, however, that as assistant secretary, Damstedt performed mainly administrative functions and that he was a legal expert rather than a nuclear physicist.

News of the arrest came at a time when Sweden military leaders are publicly urging the government to begin manufacturing Swedish tactical atomic weapons or buy them from the West.

Sweden is in the forefront of small nations in the atomic energy field. Top nuclear physicists here claim the country has both the scientific and technical knowledge as well as the economic resources to make her own atomic weapons.

Sweden is also engaged in experiments on harnessing thermo-nuclear (hydrogen) energy for peaceful purposes.

Sweden's atomic energy commission is the supreme organ of all Swedish atomic research and receives regular reports from all Swedish universities and nuclear laboratories.

N.C. Peach Crop Withstands Chill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS North Carolina's commercial peach crop withstood a chilly weekend but now is at its most critical period and has at least one more night to go before "it's out of the woods."

Briskly blowing winds reduced the hazard of frost Saturday and Sunday nights through the Sandhills area, where the majority of the state's commercial peach orchards are situated.

One grower explained that much of the early - crop trees have "shucked" their blooms, leaving the tiny, tender fruit exposed. A moderate or heavy frost at this time, he added, would kill off such young fruit.

E. L. Harris of Candor, in the heart of the Sandhills peaches, said prospects remain for a good crop.

Teamster Chiefs Convene Today

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The 13-member Executive Council of the conference that will determine if investigation-battered Teamsters Union gathers here today for a conference that will determine if the organization will defend itself against AFL-CIO charges of corrupt practices.

The closed-door strategy session, due to begin tomorrow, could also provide an indication whether Teamster President Dave Beck, accused by the Senate Rackets Committee of putting $320,000 of union funds to his own use, is going to remain the kingpin of the 1,350,000-member union.

The AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee has slated a May 6 hearing at which the Teamsters Union will be given an opportunity to defend itself. Should the union ignore the summons, it faces possible ouster from the national labor federation.

The 62-year-old Beck is reported to be insisting that the Teamsters snub the AFL-CIO hearing. Other members of the Executive Council are reported to be urging that the union appear at the probe.

Beck, chief target of the Senate probe, is expected to seek another five-year term at the Teamsters convention in September.

After appearing before the committee, Beck told newsmen he had borrowed some $300,000 to $400,000 in union funds over a period of years but had repaid all of it.

Long Postal Weekend Meant Pile-Up Of Mail

In view of action taken in Congress last Friday, it is generally felt that the regular schedule of Saturday postal service will be resumed by next weekend.

Greenville Postmaster J. Knott Proctor said today that no word has been given as yet but added that "something might come in later this week."

A move was made Friday by the House Appropriations Committee for an emergency appropriation of $41 million to Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield. Despite this action the residents of Greenville and surrounding rural routes did not get mail delivery service last weekend. The windows were closed on Saturday.

According to the local postmaster a tremendous amount of mail piled up in the post office over the weekend as a result of Saturday closing and curtailed delivery service. Only special delivery mail was delivered in compliance of the directive received last week.

Proctor stated this morning that "every effort is being made to get the mail out as soon as possible."

The special directive from Postmaster General Summerfield did not affect fourth-class post offices in Falkland, Chocod, Bell Arthur and Pactus. All other first, second and third class installations in the county were closed on Saturday.

Beginning this morning, the new regulations direct that the local post office limit window service to eight and one-half hours per day. The windows opened at 8:30 a.m. and are to close at 5 p.m.

Unless further notice is received additional curtailment of postal services is scheduled to go into effect. Money order service will be discontinued on April 29. In addition about as the result of a shortage in postal funds that grew out of unexpectedly large mail volume, the need to serve spreading residential areas and a postal pay increase, according to the Postmaster General. An additional appropriation of $47 million was requested to enable post offices throughout the country to continue full service until the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

Scott Urges 'Crash Program' In Agricultural Science Study

DURHAM (AP) — U.S. Sen. W. Kerr Scott (D-NC) today called for a "crash program of research in the field of agricultural chemistry and the other agricultural sciences" in order to find more industrial uses for farm products.

Scott, in a speech prepared for delivery at a luncheon honoring some 50 of the nation's outstanding young farmers, said that at present agriculture is "a sick child" but the future holds promise of opportunities "that we would not have dared dream of only a few years ago."

If the nation's population continues to increase, he said, the "abundance of today could well be the shortage of tomorrow."

in new and different ways" in industry.

Scott pointed out that last year Congress directed a study by a special citizens commission to determine what steps should be taken to increase the industrial use of farm products. This commission, he added, is expected to make its report in a few weeks and "I am very hopeful that a sound program can be evolved" from its recommendations.

Scott cited several examples of how farm products are being used in industry and recent discoveries that offer hope of expanded industrial uses in the future. He said that only a few days ago scientists had reported a new type fiber can be made from wood — from lignin, which formerly was a waste production in the production of rayon and acetate.

He said that, in the dairy industry research indicates substances of milk might be used in making explosives, plastics, adhesives, paper and cosmetics. But, he said, grains offer the greatest promise of immediate expansion of industrial use. He pointed out that rubber can be made from grain starches — and this process may become commercially feasible with development of new strains of grains.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids
New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. # Noted Artist Speaks Here April 24

Hobson Pittman, well known painter, lecturer and teacher, will present an illustrated lecture "Looking At Pictures" on April 24 in conjunction with the Fine Arts Festival being held in Greenville.

Pittman will speak in the auditorium of Joyner Memorial Library on the East Carolina campus at 8 p.m.

A native of Tarboro who now resides at Blyn Mawr, Pa., Pittman has long been recognized as one of the nation's leading artists. He has received a number of awards and his paintings are included in important museums and collections throughout the country. He has studied extensively in this country and in Europe and has recently returned from a year's study in Europe made possible through the Guggenheim Foundation of New York.

The painter's illustrated lecture in Greenville will include 25 color slides which will cover various periods of art from the late 13th century to the present. All contemporary trends will be included and discussed.

The theme of the Arts Festival this year is "The Fine Arts of Eastern North Carolina." Through the cooperation of the Milsh Art Galleries in New York, Robert Lee Humber, the State Art Museum and Lucy Cherry Crisp, eleven of Pittman's paintings will be on exhibition at the local art gallery from April 15 through April 30. Immediately following Pittman's lecture here on the 24th, a reception in his honor will be given at the home of Mrs. S. M. Crisp. The East Carolina Art Society will be host for the reception and invites all those attending the lecture to attend the reception which will follow.

The Elmhurst Garden Club met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. H. H. Radford on Elm Street with Mrs. J. H. B. Moore as speaker.

She also urged garden club members to study the types of flowers needed for good arrangements and to plan for, and grow more of the flowers needed for arrangements in their homes.

Mrs. Moore commented on the Art Festival and invited members to attend the Festival and exhibit.

Interpretive rhythms by the early grades were presented with a beautifully done square dance by the 6th graders and an "Old Chisholm Trail" number, complete with cowboys, by the boys of the 8th. Contrasting were a dainty duet, "Put Your Little Foot," by the 7th graders and an authentic looking Swiss dance by the 4th.

Deserving recognition were the boy soprano soloists, Craig Worthington and Jake Gaskins. Worthington sang "Ave Maria" and Gaskins, "Midsummer Night" and "Snowflakes."

The Barber Shop Quartet of Worthington, Mac Mackenzie, J. G. Proctor, Bobby Hardee and Tommy Brown scored with "There is a Tavern in the Town" and "Cludy."

Miss Chauncey, her accompanist, Franklin Keaton, and students gave the Arts Festival a versatile performance.

Mrs. J. J. White and her daughter, Mrs. E. E. Rawl Jr., entertained at a luncheon Thursday at the home of Mrs. Rawl. They complimented Misses Hannah Proctor, Mary Ann Waldrop and Virginia Perkins.

The guests were greeted at the front door by Miss Mattie Barnes and presented to the receiving line by the hostesses. In the line were the brides-to-be and their mothers, Mesdames J. Knott Proctor, J. H. Waldrop and Reid Perkins.

Mrs. Julian White Jr. directed the guests to the recreation room where Mrs. E. E. Rawl Sr. served tomato juice from a milk white punch bowl. Assorted hors d'oeuvres were served.

Place settings for groups of eight were found in the breakfast, living and dining rooms.

In the pine-paneled breakfast room the mothers were seated with guests. Their places were marked with white wedding bells and each wore a hostess corsage of white iris and white lace butterfly with rhinestone wings. The cloth was of green linen; the china and glassware, white milk glass. The center arrangement was of double white and yellow narcissi and white iris in milk glass.

The bride's table carried out a pink motif. Places were marked with bridal dolls. Corsages were fashioned of large pink lace handkerchiefs centered with sweetheart roses. The tablecloth was pink linen with lace insertions.

The centerpiece was an arrangement of pink snapdragons, carnations and double white narcissi in an antique crystal compote.

Bouquets of purple and white iris, pink crabapple, and white narcissus were used in the halls and living room where the third group was seated.

The luncheon course was followed with an ice course which was decorated with Japanese parasols in varied colors.

After lunch the guests assembled in the dining room where the brides participated in a "Name That Tune" contest of familiar songs of love and romance.

Virginia Perkins won the first prize, an attractive ivory compact. Consolation prizes of pastel colored pens were given Miss Proctor and Miss Waldrop.

The Red Oak Community Tour, which was held in connection with the Farmer's Day Progress Program, was a success.

A tour was made of the church sanctuary, pastor's study and educational building.

Tyson, the oldest house visited. Storage space built by Mr. Tyson was shown along with an antique glass and china collection belonging to Mrs. Tyson.

At the parsonage grounds, new shrubbery and flowers were shown.

A point of interest at the Amos Evans' home was the lake, a new fence, and the basement recreation room.

Hand-made furniture was the highlight at the L. E. Hunnington home.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kittrell showed their new home with modern kitchen and newly landscaped yard.

At the community building tour guests were served punch, open-faced sandwiches, party cakes, mints and nuts.

In preparation for the tour, community mailboxes had been painted and many had been equipped with name plates. Various homes in the vicinity had been painted.

More Buying Power Where Needed

North Carolina, obviously concerned about the salaries of school teachers and state employees, should likewise be concerned about the wages of some 91,000 other Tar Heels who will receive substantial wage increases if the proposed 75 cents an hour minimum wage becomes law in this state.

Bitter arguments have been advanced by opponents of the higher minimum wage in the state. They are substantially the same arguments which have been

Realistic Action On Highways Is Needed

Four tragic deaths caused by highway racing in less than a week should prompt the legislature to afford the Highway Patrol every reasonable means for combatting this menace to every person who takes to the road.

The House Roads Committee has given approval to the bill that would permit the Highway Patrol to begin again using unmarked patrol cars which proved so effective in patrol work and highway accident prevention until two years ago. But opposition to the bill still poses a serious threat to it on the House floor although the Senate has passed the measure.

Unmarked patrol cars proved their worth to the Highway Patrol before the sensitive 1955 legislature outlawed them. They can prove their worth again if the House will pass the legislation as the Senate has done.

We can see no cause for amendments from the floor of the House like those which were shouted down in committee consideration of the bill. There is no logical reason for limiting the use of unmarked patrol cars to a few specific tasks. There is little logic in the legislature seeking to decide what percentage of the Highway Patrol's total fleet of automobiles should be silver and black and what percentage shall be unmarked. Those decisions should be left to officials of the Highway Patrol and Department of Motor Vehicles who are charged with the responsibility of preventing violations of highway regulations, bringing to justice those who are guilty of infractions of those regulations and promoting safety on the highways of North Carolina.

Clues To Future Business Events

By ELMER ROESSNER
Clues often indicate coming business events. Among coming events we see, or think we see, are:

Federal stockpiling will be slowed. Current funds are running out and opposition to the size of the budget will bring cuts in funds for stockpiling. Note: Cutting back spending for the stockpile is anti-inflationary, just as is allowing the interest rate to rise.

Industrial production will dip. The trend to conservatism in buying for inventory is strong and growing stronger as summer vacation shutdowns near. The relation between buying for inventory and the rate of industrial production is direct. When a family decides to "live off the freezer" for a while, it buys less at the market; when a company decides to live off inventory for a while, it buys less from industrial producers.

MORE TRADING-STAMP QUESTIONS
Trading stamps will be put on the Congressional grill. A House Agricultural subcommittee headed by Victor L. Anfuso (D., N.Y.), looking into the high cost of food distribution, will eventually turn to trading stamps and to how much they boost the cost of food.

A soft drink in a pill is coming. One pill converts a glass of water into a fizzy, fruit-flavored drink. It has been worked on and tested for two years and is now reported ready for the national market.

Went prices won't rally much. Recent tornadoes and snowstorms were destructive, but did only minor damage to coming crop.

Coming retail sales figures will be misleading. Example: reports for the last seven days will show big jumps over a year ago, especially in department store sales. But the reason is that the big pre-Easter shopping week will be compared with a post-Easter week in 1956.

MEN'S FASHION PUSH
Prices of men's fall suits will average higher. Most manufacturers are broadening upper-middle-price and high-price lines, convinced that many men are ready to pay more. The conviction is based on men's greater acceptance of fashion, not only in suits but in hats (such as the flat-top and the cap), shirts, men's jewelry, etc.

There will be a blister on the boom this fall. Economists, investors and businessmen are talking themselves into it. A lowering of the interest rate then will help it become a reality. How big? So far it looks modest.

The Italian fashion influence will become stronger. What started as a minor fad has gained tremendous momentum. Men can count on more Italian shoes, ties, silk suits; women on more silks, busy fashion lines, shoes, jewelry; and both on more furnishings and furniture. Watch Italian "provincial furniture especially.

The boom in office automation will be greater than expected. Even laps in business have failed to relieve the shortage of good office workers, and firms face the alternatives of costly personnel piracy or getting machines that will do girls' work.

OLD PROMOTER PULLS LEG, GETS CIGAR JACKPOT
The Old Promoter was seeking capital for some new projects when he dropped in today. We asked what he was promoting.

"Are you interested in a whiskey bottle spout with a built-in speaker device? After an ounce is poured, the speaker says, 'When!'"

"No," we replied.
"Or a martini hypodermic? Instead of putting vermouth in the drink, you inject it into the olive."

"No."
"Nonskid spaghetti? It's hook-shaped so it won't slide off the fork."

"Here!" we said. "Have a cigar. Have two. Have a handful. But please smoke them outside. We have a column to finish."

voiced for the past two decades each time the state or federal government has considered increasing the legal minimum wage. Some businesses will be pinched if the wage hike is provided. But the much needed additional buying power this minimum state wage increase will provide for some 91,000 employed people in North Carolina should more than make up for the difference for most businesses.

North Carolina is confronted with the serious problem of increasing its per capita income. Most of its business leaders long for the day when the per capita income in North Carolina climbs near a par with that of most other states. They know it will mean more business and better business throughout the state as well as better living and higher standards for all the people.

The proposed 75 cents an hour minimum wage will provide an income boost among the Tar Heels who are most desperately in need of it—the lowest income groups.

A year ago when the federal minimum wage was raised to $1 an hour, it affected 160,000 people engaged in manufacture in this state and provided an increase of some $73 million dollars to wages paid these people. It provided a real—not superficial—boost to the entire economy of the state. The new state minimum wage law will have a similar effect.

If North Carolina is to pull itself up by its own bootstraps, it must take a realistic approach to minimum wages of the portion of its population affected only by state laws. The proposed 75 cents an hour figure now before the legislature is a realistic approach for North Carolina.

Like the federal government and the governments of many other states, North Carolina long ago adopted the principle that a floor should be placed under wages of individual workers. The problem before the lawmakers now is not one of establishing a precedent or embarking upon unknown waters. It is merely a matter of applying the adopted principle in more realistic terms in the time in which we live.

Proviso Would Affect Several

By LYNN NISBET
PERSONAL — Rep. John Kerr of Warren is sponsoring a bill to include service as a district solicitor in the cumulative time constituting eligibility for retirement under the judicial retirement act. The new provisions might later affect the retirement status of Judge Chester Morris, Clifton Moore, Walter Johnston, Malcolm Sewall and perhaps others.

It is immediately intended for the relief of Judge William Y. Bickett of Wake, who had more than 20 years service as solicitor before going on the bench three years ago. There is nothing new in writing retirement provisions to take care of personal cases. The original age-tenure and disability clauses were designed for special individuals at the time written.

Judge Luther Hamilton was responsible for two acts in different sessions, by retiring because of disability and then being reinstated for active duty under a new law. He subsequently resigned to go into private practice and is currently a member of the State Senate.

Two years ago effort to include solicitors in the judicial retirement system, which would have affected only Solicitor Ernest Tyler, failed. Early in the present session the Attorney General as included in the judicial retirement plan, fulfilling a promise made to Judge George Patton when Governor Hodges persuaded him to leave the bench and accept appointment as Attorney General.

Many of the amendments to the Teachers and State Employees Retirement system were enacted for the relief of a very few individuals. And more than half the divorce and adoption laws have been written around specific cases involving only a few individuals, although necessarily general in application.

FAR REACHING — Another instance of far-reaching legislation was intended to take care of one or two special cases is the bill introduced Friday by Rep. Frank Sneed of Mecklenburg. It would prohibit heads of departments, divisions or other employees of North Carolina governmental agencies from appearing before congressional committees to speak for or against Federal appropriations, except upon specific authorization by the Governor or the General Assembly.

Exemption of constitutional officers and certain others from the ban against such congressional testimony, still leaves a large number of high ranking officials prohibited from voluntarily appearing before congressional committees.

There is credible evidence that the idea for the bill originated in resentment at the appearance of Dr. Ellen Winston, commissioner of welfare, early last week to request an additional $15 million Federal money for welfare activities.

Until a committee analyzes the bill it cannot be determined just how it will affect the frequent appearances of representatives of the Departments of Agriculture, Education, Health, Highways, Wildlife Resources, and other agencies receiving substantial Federal aid for cooperative projects.

The new bill has some spiritual kinship to the House Resolution adopted last week, which was borrowed from Nebraska, calling upon the Congress to re-evaluate all matching fund programs and to refrain from adopting others until careful study should prove them justified. Opinion prevails among legislators that the "Nebraska resolution" was aimed primarily at some welfare fund allocations.

SPEAKERSHIP — Along about this time of the session, as the old almanacs used to say, you may expect some speculation about candidates for Speaker of the House in the next Legislature. Experienced members are wary about committing themselves so far in advance, but always there are a few who let it be known they would like to have the job and a few others who take sides early.

Under the east-west rotation plan, which has been fairly well observed, the Speakership next time goes to the East. At least six men are being talked about as likely contenders. None of them has indicated any desire to have the talk stopped.

Listed alphabetically they are Addison Hewlett of New Hanover, now serving his fourth term; Carroll R. Holmes of Perquimans, also in his fourth term; Walter Jones of Pitt, a current second term; Carl Venters of Onslow, serving a fifth consecutive term; Thomas J. White of Lenoir, a third term; and Philip Whitely of Wake, serving his fourth time.

POTPOURRI — Sen. Paul Jones of Pitt, chairman of the Senate Roads committee, noted the other day that he had a "perfect committee." Not only was there 100 per cent attendance, but the chairman insisted the membership of his group also represented one hundred per cent quality.

Rep. B. T. Falls Jr. voted against some bill in the House and occasioned considerable comment. One other veteran of about as many sessions as "Buz" has served in, said it was the first time he ever knew the Cleveland representative to vote against anything. "He votes yes nearly all the time," said this colleague. "If he's opposed to the bill he makes a motion to table it so he can vote in the affirmative."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

No, this is not a typographical error—it's the way we star a discussion on the disconcerting and agonizing fact that life is largely a matter of questions, questions, questions. Get one answered and another turns right up to take its place. It was a question when we first came into the world whether we would live or die, but the doctor gave us a resounding slap, and we started breathing—and howling. When we lie on our deathbeds, there will be questions, questions, questions regarding ourselves, our problems, our future. Never an end to it! Will there be questions in the world beyond? Nobody knows—but maybe.

Yet we shouldn't get worried and bothered about this inevitable and continuous situation. Questions make life interesting. There are certain primitive people living in far corners of the world, and many of these seem to have almost no problems. They eat the fruit of the trees, they indulge their passions, they are pleasant with one another. They live and die without apparently having learned anything or even having wanted to learn anything.

Is this happiness? Is this a type of life worthy of a child of God? Is this much different from an animal or a vegetable existence?

But what of us? Listen to the words of God: "Now we are the sons of God; and it doth not yet appear what we shall be."

Idea Girl Of Broadway

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — How would you like to fly around the earth and attend the top shows in all the world's entertainment capitals?

"We're planning such a tour right now for some time after Christmas," said Betty Murray, one of Broadway's most unusual idea girls.

"There will be plenty of people who'll want to go," Miss Murray, known as "The Show Plane Lady," is perhaps the most stagecraft woman in America. She was a varsity player on the clavichord and the obbe in college, but now she plays all her concertos on an even more lovable instrument — the cash register.

"My mother was a singer and my father was a comedian," she said, "and I yearned to do high idealistic things in the theater myself. But I found my real talent was as a promoter."

Betty came to Broadway with a headful of dreams back in 1947. She took the first job she could find — as a switchboard jockey and utility typist for a local radio station. Then she began promoting trade shows.

In 1954 the tall, slender blue-eyed girl caught the attention of Herman Shumlin, producer of "Inherit the Wind." He made her a production assistant.

"It's something like bird watching," said Betty drily. "You observe everything — and make notes."

Shortly thereafter she heard a group of producers griping about the summer lull along Broadway. She reasoned that the hinterland must be full of people who'd like to fly to a weekend in New York and fill all those empty seats.

"But many people hate to come here by themselves," she said.

"They also hate to make hotel and theater reservations. Why couldn't I set up a simple package deal to take care of them?"

She did. She found the woods were full of folks thrilled to find out that for $37.50 plus plane fare they could stay at a hotel in Manhattan, dine at Sardi's, meet theatrical celebrities at a cocktail party and attend two Broadway plays.

The first show plane proved an immediate success. Since then Betty, as founder and president of the American Theater Institute, has ferried 25,000 playgoers here by plane and bus from all parts of America, Cuba and Canada.

The idea has become a multi-million-dollar enterprise. Betty has had no difficulty getting famous Broadway producers and actors to attend her cocktail parties.

"They all realize it helps create an audience for their next play," she said.

Next month Betty will shepherd a group of 71 theater lovers on her first "International Show Plane" trip to Europe. They will attend performances in England, Paris, and Rome, meet Sir Laurence Olivier, Ingrid Bergman and Mario Lanza — and play a bit of roulette at Monte Carlo.

The round-the-world trip will follow at the end of the year. Now hailed as a new savior of the legitimate theater, Betty years to be an angel—in the Broadway meaning of the term.

"I'd like to produce a fine play, something real and artistically sincere," she said, "even if it winds up a commercial flop."

"Then, after I've got that out of my system, maybe I'll go back and take up the clavichord and obbe again."

Other Editors Saying --- Different Souths

(The Baltimore Sun)
Dr. Percy L. Julian, Negro educator and chemist, has said in a speech here that if America is to stand up before the world as a champion of freedom, it must practice what it preaches. No one who has noted how anti-American propagandists exploit the racial affairs of this country can disagree with Dr. Julian, thus far.

But he said more. He told of a Southern Negro couple who went to the Union of South Africa and returned saying that "it was just like our own Southland." Perhaps they thought so, but they could not have seen much or thought out thoroughly what they saw. For the two cases are vastly different.

Let us take some of the differences almost at random. For example, the recent victory of President Eisenhower and the Republicans in a number of big cities (including Baltimore) was attributed partly to a switch in the Negro vote. In South Africa there is no Negro vote. The vote has just been taken away from the last persons of colored ancestry, so-called the "Cape Colored" people, who have held it for generations. The vote is denied to the union's 9,000,000 Negroes and its large Indian population and in some areas of the South, buy by law.

The Supreme Court of the United States has pronounced school segregation in America illegal, and is being backed by injunctions and by the opinions of lower courts. In South Africa the government, angry over the resolve of the highest court to uphold the constitutional rights of colored people, packed the court.

Every year sees more American Negroes attending colleges formerly all-white, but South Africa is closing its leading universities to Negro students, or even persons who cannot prove pure European ancestry. White pastors are persecuted for tending Negro flocks — whereas the churches in this country are gradually integrating their congregations and parochial schools.

In great parts of South Africa no Negro may be out on the streets after 9 p.m.; no Negro may leave his home without carrying a pass; Negroes may be summarily removed from their homes. They may be denied passports to foreign countries. They may not cross provincial frontiers without permission. Had Dr. Julian's friends been South Africans they could never have traveled abroad in the first place.

Dr. Julian and the countless other people of both races who are working to improve the lot of the American Negro have a strong case. It does not need to be bolstered by dubious arguments. This country is moving — not without difficulties — toward better relations between Negro and white. South Africa is consciously and deliberately moving the other way.

Snarls Of Fear And Frustration

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Moscow's current attitude toward the West, and especially the United States is a difficult mixture of dread and unexampled hostility, according to diplomatic reports reaching Washington. Although the Reds fear our nuclear preparations and more straining encirclement moves from Britain to Korea, they cannot back up their new threats because of deteriorating conditions behind the Iron Curtain.

Its warning shrieks of possible atomic strikes against our European and Middle East Allies are considered here to be a sign of weakness rather than strength. Moscow knows the menace inherent in our plans to equip friendly nations and our overseas forces with nuclear bombs — missiles — and the planes to drop the bombs over her factories and railroads. We have proclaimed, as has England, that we are ready to wage atomic war in the belief that the mere announcement will serve as a deterrent.

We have, in addition, joined the Military Committee of the Baghdad Pact as an aftermath of the Suez Canal crisis. Our position in the Middle East has improved steadily from a military standpoint. Only such negligible countries as Jordan and Syria are now aligned with a shaky Egypt.

ALLIED REQUESTS TO U.S.
Along with England and France, Germany and Japan have asked that we supply them with nuclear weapons and with the know-how to make their own. In an emergency, these requests will be granted. We have already forwarded A bombs to our bases and fleets abroad. We will soon reinforce South Korea with our most modern devices.

It is true that Russia has a military atomic potential, and warns that she will retaliate in kind. But our experts doubt that the Soviet has as large an A and H stockpile as we possess. And although 1,500 and 3,500-mile guided missiles are several years from operational production and use, the Pentagon insists that we are not behind in this race.

MOSCOW AIMS TO SCARE SCANDINAVIAN COUNTRIES
It is again; this background that Moscow's recent warning notes to the Scandinavian nations are weighed. The Kremlin, in its growing anxiety over eventual atomic encirclement, aims to scare them out of our orbit. But the Danes, Swedes and Norwegians, although directly under the guns, reacted contemptuously.

Meanwhile, evidence accumulates of a Hungarian-like resentment and sullenness in all the satellite countries. Russian forces engaged in a European war, according to reliable reports, would have to fight enraged native populations. And, contrary to our inactivity during the Budapest uprising, the U.S. would arm them with our most modern weapons and sabotage devices.

Russia's internal economy is believed unable to sustain a war. For want of expected industrial and agricultural output, Khrushchev has had to reorganize his basic economy. He has had to decentralize planning from Moscow to the individual plants. After 40 years of central control and autocracy, he has had to admit failure on all economic fronts.

PROMISES UNFULFILLED
He has had to renege on his promises of aid to satellites and neutrals. Although Colonel Gamal Abdel Nasser indicated that Moscow would finance the Aswan dam if we backed out, not a ruble has been forthcoming for this project. Although neutralist, Burma, Ceylon and Afghanistan have now decided to accept American funds and food. They discovered that dealing with Moscow's sharp and selfish traders was disastrous.

Poland's dire need for food and machinery after 10 years of Russian occupation, as reflected in the recent Warsaw mission to Washington, demonstrated the backwardness of the Russian system and economy.

In short, the West appears to be in a stronger position vis-a-vis Russia than in several years, despite Britain's transformation of her defenses from a conventional to a pushbutton structure. Russia does not dare to seize even this opportunity to strike, knowing the American and allied capacity to retaliate from so many quarters. Those are snarls of rage rather than warlike threats echoing inside the Kremlin.

Citrus Industry Growth

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABBON PARK, Mass. — When a very small boy I remember my father driving his horse and buggy to Salem, 15 miles away, to get an orange for his very sick aunt. Those were the days when no Christmas was complete unless we found an orange in the toe of the stocking which we hung by the fireside before going to bed on Christmas Eve. I remember later one orange was given by the public school principal as a reward for having perfect attendance for the entire school year.

HOW THE ORANGE INDUSTRY HAS GROWN
In 1900 the entire State of Florida produced only 1,000,000 boxes of oranges. In 1923, when I first came to Florida, production was only 10,000,000 boxes. This year it will be 95,000,000 or 100,000,000 boxes. With babies continuing to be given orange juice as their first food and with continued heavy advertising, nothing can stop the demand for orange juice. Furthermore, there have been great improvements and developments in the industry.

When I first came to Florida winters only "whole fruit" was shipped out of the state and sold. Then, about 25 years ago, the co-operatives were developed and some orange juice was then canned. This, however, always had a little bitter taste. Some 10 years ago the "frozen concentrate" was invented. This gives exactly the same taste as the fresh juice and has greatly increased the consumption of orange juice as well as the health of the entire nation.

THE AMERICAN HABIT
Most orange juice is drunk just before breakfast. This means that the frozen concentrate must be mixed with water and thoroughly melted some ten minutes before serving. This has caused a growing demand for a new product known as "chilled" orange juice. As soon as this juice is stored and transported to the large cities of the North in refrigerated trucks at about 40 degrees temperature, so that the juice holds its perfect flavor. It is then put in paper cartons and delivered by the dairy companies along with the morning milk. As a result, the housewife can lie in bed ten minutes longer! This is taking like wild fire.

Although citrus fruits can be safely raised in only a small part of Florida, the United States, there is competition between Florida, Texas, Arizona, and especially California. The latter state, however, is growing so fast that orange groves are becoming more valuable as home sites and citrus production is decreasing.

KEEPING UP TO DATE
All of this competition results in constantly improved quality and in keeping the price within the reach of all families. Hence, with the constant growth in population, demand will continue to increase. But North America is not the only market for citrus juices. Foreign governments are also recognizing their great health value.

The English government is buying the juice in a super-concentrated non-refrigerated form, like molasses, and distributing it to its babies to supplement a small supply received from Spain, Italy, and other Mediterranean sources. To get good products, however, these countries must import phosphate and other fertilizer chemicals, most of which come from Florida close by the center of the Florida citrus industry. This gives Florida an advantage over all the world.

ARE ELSEWHERE
I, however, am not telling this story about the citrus industry just to boom Florida. I am telling it to show what a group of farmers can do by uniting in co-operatives and getting the help of research and advertising. It has fought its own battles without any limiting of acreage of government loans or surplus crops.

Why cannot the farmers of our (Continued on Page Ten)

European Auto Makers Digging In U. S. Market

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP) — European car makers sold nearly 100,000 vehicles in the U. S. market last year. That was nearly twice the number they delivered in the preceding year. They are aiming at 200,000 deliveries in this country this year. They sold 9,515 cars during January-February this year compared with 5,475 in the same period last year.

Most foreign-built cars sold here last year were small vehicles, like the German Volkswagen. It accounted for more than 50,000 of last year's deliveries. Its representatives here say the sales total would have been much greater last year had the home factories been able to ship more units to this country.

In any event, they say, Volkswagen has proved there is a sizeable U. S. market for a small, low-cost car. Indications are that some American manufacturers share this view, although they find it difficult to compete piecewise with the smaller European-made vehicles.

American Motors, with its American-built Rambler and its imported Metropolitan, has been making a strong bid for greater sales volume in this field.

None of the other car makers has so far given any indication of considering production here of smaller models to compete for the market currently dominated by Volkswagens. However, General Motors and Ford have foreign affiliates that produce smaller models and Chrysler reportedly has made a thorough study of production in European factories. It has been suggested in some quarters Chrysler may be planning to bring a small car into this country to compete in that market.

Ever since Curtiss-Wright (Aircraft) Corp. took over management of Studebaker-Packard under an advisory contract, it has been speculated a foreign-built car may be added to the S-P line. It would not necessarily be a small car, however.

Most reports in this connection have had it the car being considered by S-P management is the Mercedes-Benz, manufactured by Daimler-Benz in West Germany.

Daimler-Benz recently introduced a new Mercedes-Benz 300SL roadster model. With a six-cylinder "inclined" engine, this model uses fuel injection and a single-jointed swing-axle. The axle is said to greatly improve riding comfort at all speeds on any type of road.

Godfrey To Drop Wednesday Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Godfrey says he will drop his Wednesday night "Arthur Godfrey Show" on television after the June 26 program.

The other Godfrey shows — his morning radio program and his Monday night "Arthur Godfrey Talent Scouts" — will continue. "It's just too much work," the red-haired broadcaster said yesterday. "I want to be able to live a halfway decent life, and I haven't been able to do so with that schedule of mine."

HIS LAST DINNER
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—George L. Noble, 88, of Uvalde, Tex., a retired vice president of the Texas Co., wrote a company official that this year's Old Timers awards dinner would be his last. Posing for photographs at the dinner last night, he was stricken ill and died 40 minutes later in a hospital.

Big Week Is Behind Students At Chicod

BY IVA LOU BRUNSON

Chicod School Reporter

The week of April 1-5 was a big one for Chicod students.

The baseball team opened its season with 14-3 victory over Grifton Thursday, a good way to start the season.

On Wednesday night the Beta Club held its monthly meeting and made final plans for Teacher Appreciation Day. Flowers were prepared for each faculty member and a short skit depicting teachers at Chicod was rehearsed.

Thursday morning was the beginning of Teacher Appreciation Day. The program began with induction of new members into the Beta Club in a tapping ceremony. After the new members were inducted, there was a short explanation of the Beta Club.

The humorous side of the program, the skit about the teachers, was intended to show the teachers as they signed in each morning. Scene of the skit was the office of Principal Fodie Hodges.

Friday was a big day for everyone. The day began with East Carolina College's High School Day, attended by members of the Junior or Class. There was a Science Fair at the college and James Ed Mills of Chicod won a trip to the State Science Fair with his exhibit on "Transpiration".

Friday night included a double treat. Mrs. Bossie Mills was hostess at a party for members of the Senior Class and the Student Government Association was sponsor of a Sock Hop.

Beta Club members who attended the state convention this past weekend includes James Mills, Peggy Dixon, Mary Ida Gray, Bessie Williams, Mickey Haddock, Freddie Cox, Frances Mills, Betty Haddock and Iva Lou Brunson. Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Cozart, Miss Grace Baker and Mr. Brady.

Will Stage Musical Version Of Famous Story By Mark Twain

Dottie Jo James of Wilmington and George Knight of Rocky Mount, juniors at East Carolina, will play the leading roles in "A Connecticut Yankee," when the Rodgers and Hart operetta is presented at the college under the sponsorship of the Student Government Association.

The musical version of Mark Twain's famous story will be presented in three performances, April 30 and May 1 and 2, at 8 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium. Tunes of the days of King Arthur and touches of humor in plot and characterization, combined with experienced direction and stage management, promise that the East Carolina production will echo the success of the operetta on the professional stage.

A cast of fourteen, a thirty piece orchestra, a chorus of more than twenty men and women, and a dance group of fifteen members are now in rehearsal. "A Connecticut Yankee" will be the sixth in a series of musicals presented at East Carolina each spring since 1952. In 1956 "Oklahoma" attracted three capacity audiences from localities throughout Eastern North Carolina.

Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, director of East Carolina's music department, and Dr. Elizabeth Utterback of the English faculty are serving for the sixth season as music and drama directors, respectively. Charles E. Shearon of Durham is dance director, and Ralph Shumaker of Greer, S. C., heads the committee on arrangements.

Miss James and Mr. Knight, hit performers in "Oklahoma" last April, won high praise from audiences. This spring Mr. Knight will play Martin, the Yankee; and Miss James, "Sandy," the Demoiselle Aisance La Carteloise.

The cast includes Lloyd Bray, Jr., of Greenville and Margaret Griffin of Columbia as King Arthur and Queen Guinevere; William Speight of Roanoke Rapids as Sir Kay; W. ## Wants It Known He Is Not Dead

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Henry M. Scheer says he wants it known that reports of his death are in error.

He said his family has received more than 50 telephone calls, letters and telegrams of condolence. He is worried that his practice will dwindle because patients won't call if they think him dead. The misunderstanding arose when another Dr. Henry Scheer died recently. The death notice appeared in newspapers. That started the trouble for the living Dr. Scheer.

Scheer said some of his friends attended the funeral of the other doctor and others have stopped his wife on the street to offer sympathy.

Others who have roles in the musical are Carolyn Elam of Roxboro, Myrl Miness of Garysburg, Kenneth Killebrew of Rocky Mount, Franklin Keaton of Belhaven, and Linwood Pittman, of Rocky Mount.

Conference On Ministry To Be Held Here In May

A conference of the Ministry will be held in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Greenville on May 3 and 4. The conference will begin with dinner at 6:30 on Friday, and close after lunch on Saturday. The purpose of this conference is to attract young men high school juniors and seniors, to seriously consider the Ministry as their life vocation. The church is following the example set by many business concerns which seek to lure young men of high school age into considering their particular phase of work as their life vocation. With the speeches of the men actually in the field and an opportunity to question each on the diocese will offer the meaningfulness of the Ministry in its appeal to young men. Special conferences are held every year for the college man.

The Rt. Rev. Thomas H. Wright, bishop of the Diocese of East Carolina, of Wilmington will lead the conference and present the overall administration of the church as through the office of the bishop. Various clergymen will give ten minute talks of particular phases of the ministry, followed by a question and discussion period. Among the speakers will be Dr. Arnold Nash, professor of religion at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, who will speak on the intellectual ministry; the Rev. Bob Insko, St. Stephen's Church, Erwin, will talk on the specialized ministry of college work; the Rev. Wilfred Waterhouse, rector of St. Peter's church Washington, will speak on hospital work; the Rev. Al Livesay, St. Christopher's church, Havelock, will speak on working with the military; the Rev. Hundley Elebash, rector of St. John's Church, Wilmington on parish administration; the Rev. Henry Johnston of Holy Trinity, Fayetteville, on church school work; the Rev. Edward Sharp, rector of St. Paul's Beaufort on preaching; the Rev. Edwin Kirton, St. Mark's Church, Wilmington, on ministry and community welfare; the Rev. Bob Turner, rector of St. Andrew's by the Sea, Nags Head, on missions and the Rev. Harry Jackson, chaplain at Central Prison, Raleigh will speak on the prison ministry.

Orioles, Senators Meet In Opener For Major Leagues

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's opening day in the nation's capital, the annual occasion for dignitaries and plain everyday "kill the umpire" fans to mingle at Griffith Stadium and help get the '57 baseball season under way.

The weatherman predicted a sunny afternoon. The Baltimore Orioles and Washington Senators provide the competition, launching the 1957 season a day ahead of the other major league clubs.

Busy Card For Week Of Boxing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Garnett (Sugar) Hart, upset by Boston's Walt Byars in his last start, takes on Willie (Pineapples) Stevenson, another rugged Bostonian, in a 10-round bout at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight.

Here are the pitchers: For the Orioles, Hector Harold (Skinny) Brown, a knuckleballer hoping to give Baltimore its first opening day victory since entering the American League in 1954.

The lanky, hard-hitting Hart was a 5-1 favorite when he had his winning streak of 12 snapped by Byars at Madison Square Garden last March 8.

With the customary first baseline box set aside for the President, seats also were reserved by a distinguished collection of Supreme Court justices, Congress members, Cabinet officers and top military leaders.

The President's older brother Edgar also had a box. He was vacationing at Scottsdale, Ariz., while the Orioles trained there this spring and watched several workouts.

Richards planned to start newcomers Brooks Robinson at third base and Carl Povich in right field, while Manager Charley Dressen of the Senators assigned Lyle Luttrell, who spent most of last season at Chattanooga, to shortstop.

Ellsworth (Spider) Webb, streaking Chicago middleweight contender, is a 3-1 favorite to whip New York's tall Randy Sandy in the Wednesday night radio - television (ABC 10 p.m., EST) 10-rounder at Chicago Stadium.

Richardson (Spider) Webb, streaking Chicago middleweight contender, is a 3-1 favorite to whip New York's tall Randy Sandy in the Wednesday night radio - television (ABC 10 p.m., EST) 10-rounder at Chicago Stadium.

Veteran Holly Mims of Washington, D.C., is a slight favorite to make it two in a row over 22-year-old Jimmy Beecham of Miami at the Miami Beach Auditorium Friday night (NBC TV-Radio, 10 p.m., EST).

Heavyweight contenders Zora Foley and Bob Satterfield are featured in a couple of non-television fights. Foley, Chandler, Ariz., faces Sporty Harvey, Houston, at Yuma, Ariz., Thursday.

Coach Mallory is expected to stick with the talents of Baker and Lilley again during this two-game series with Appalachian. He is expected either to use the two above-named or George Williams and Mack McPherson.

First-place Catawba (3-0 in conference play) faces High Point, Elon and Atlantic Christian during the week. None of the foes is above fourth in the standings.

Appalachian thus far this season is untied against North State teams and will make its league debut today at College Field.

The rest of the week's schedule: Tuesday - Appalachian at East Carolina - Catawba at High Point, North Georgia at Western Carolina.

It seems that Tommy Land, the regular centerfielder at the season's opening, will be lost to the Bucs indefinitely.

Wednesday - Appalachian at Atlantic Christian, Guilford at Pfeiffer.

Coach Mallory's starting nine today is expected to feature Tink Bowen behind the plate; Dean Robbins at first base; Gary Treon at second base; Jerry Stewart at shortstop; Bucky Reep at third base; Wally Cockrell, Bermy Stevens and Joe Long in the outfield. The pitcher will be either Lilley or Shelly.

Thursday - Elon at Catawba, Friday - Atlantic Christian at Guilford, Western Carolina at Elon.

Game time today was 3:00.

GUILFORD—The East Carolina tennis team snared five singles matches here Saturday afternoon to defeat Guilford's netters, 5-2, in a regulation North State Conference battle.

Hollowell Tops. Although the Pirates own the North State singles champion in Maurice Everette, it is another Buc performer who is stealing the show in singles competition, Billy Hollowell.

Clippers Clinch Hockey Crown For Charlotte

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The Charlotte Clippers, who practically ran away with the regular season Eastern Hockey League race, finally won the 1957 championship with a decisive 7-0 win over the Philadelphia Ramblers here Saturday night.

It took the Clippers seven games to take the final series of the playoffs. The Clippers defeated the Ramblers in five games.

Herve Lalonde opened scoring for Charlotte with two goals in the first period. Neither team counted in the second, but the Clippers broke the game open with five goals during the third period.

Jim McNulty scored two points and Russ Hann, Gerry Sullivan and Doug Adam tallied once each as Charlotte wore down the defenses of Rambler goalie Ivan Wamsley.

A crowd of 7,341 turned out for the final game.

Hollowell, a freshman from Kinston, notched his sixth consecutive singles victory of the season against Guilford. He has lost only once, against Kalamazoo. Coach Ray Martinez praised Hollowell for his play against the Quakers and pointed him out as one of the most promising prospects in the loop.

Everette's quest for another North State singles title is going well also. He is undefeated in conference play and he eliminated one of his biggest obstacles Saturday when he topped Bob Atlas, Atlas and High Point's Bill Heugule were the biggest competitors last year. Only Heugule remains now.

East Carolina's overall record now stands at 5-2. They have defeated Wake Forest, N. C. State, Elon (twice) and Guilford; they have been beaten by Kalamazoo in an exhibition match and the Citadel.

Summary: Singles: Everette (ECC) defeated Atlas, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3. West (ECC) defeated Washburn, 6-4, 6-3. Hollowell (ECC) defeated Haworth, 6-0, 6-1. Savage (ECC) defeated Askins, 6-2, 6-3. Katsias (ECC) defeated Trinitie, 6-3, 6-3.

Doubles: Atlas and Washburn (Guilford) defeated West and Savage, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3. Hollowell and Askins (Guilford) defeated Blake and Katsias, 6-2, 6-2.

Rookies Helped Celtic Triumph

BOSTON (AP)—Boston savored its first world basketball championship today because of rookies Tom Heinsohn and Bill Russell and a pair of slick sophomores.

There are no better players in the National Basketball Assn. than men like Bib Cousy and Bill Sharman.

But when the chips were down the Celtics' younger set came through to nail down the team's first playoff championship in the 11-year history of the loop.

In the most exciting title series to date, Boston nipped St. Louis 125-123 in double overtime Saturday in the decisive seventh game.

Heinsohn scored 37 points, hitting on 17 of 33 field goal tries, and had 23 rebounds. Russell grabbed 32 rebounds and tallied 19 points.

Heinsohn was chosen NBA rookie of the year. Frank Ramsey, on leave from the Army, scored on a 20-foot one-handed jump shot with 72 seconds remaining in the second overtime and Jim Loscutoff put on the final touches with a free throw in the last second.

In the series, Russell got 160 rebounds and Heinsohn tallied 168 points to lead Boston in those departments.

Bucs Open 2-Day Appalachian Play

By BILLY ARNOLD, Reflector Sports Editor

Table with columns: Team, W, L, Pct. Lists standings for Catawba, East Carolina, Lenoir Rhyne, Elon, Guilford, High Point, Atlantic Christian, Western Carolina, and Appalachian.

East Carolina today opened a two-game North State series with Appalachian here at College Field.

Due to schedule conflicts, the ECC-Appalachian ball game set for Tuesday afternoon has been postponed, and will not be played until Wednesday afternoon.

For East Carolina, the number two team in the North State standings at present, the two contests will be extremely important ones. The defending loop champions are currently running behind Catawba, one game out of the top spot. Two wins over the Appalachian club could mean a lot to Coach Jim Mallory and the Pirates.

Today's battle will be the first home conference tilt of the season for the locals. A game with Atlantic Christian, scheduled for two weeks ago at College Field, was rained out. Since that time, the Pirates have taken their first road trip of the year and have come back to Greenville with a 2-1 conference record.

Lost To Elon. ECC's only loss this Spring in league competition has come at the hands of Elon there. The Bucs dropped a 6-0 decision at Burlington on the first day of their trip. From there, however, they went on to capture two victories at Western Carolina and one at High Point.

Appalachian thus far this season is untied against North State teams and will make its league debut today at College Field.

The Apps are expected to present a tough opposition to the Bucs as they try to get into the thick of the conference race in their first games.

Coach Mallory's starting nine today is expected to feature Tink Bowen behind the plate; Dean Robbins at first base; Gary Treon at second base; Jerry Stewart at shortstop; Bucky Reep at third base; Wally Cockrell, Bermy Stevens and Joe Long in the outfield. The pitcher will be either Lilley or Shelly.

East Carolina today opened a two-game North State series with Appalachian here at College Field.

Due to schedule conflicts, the ECC-Appalachian ball game set for Tuesday afternoon has been postponed, and will not be played until Wednesday afternoon.

For East Carolina, the number two team in the North State standings at present, the two contests will be extremely important ones. The defending loop champions are currently running behind Catawba, one game out of the top spot. Two wins over the Appalachian club could mean a lot to Coach Jim Mallory and the Pirates.

Scientist Foresees Time Of The 'Substitute Heart'

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

CHICAGO (AP)—A scientist foresees the day when you might have a little substitute glass-and-rubber heart placed permanently inside your chest.

It would replace your own sick heart which threatened death.

Or you might get a substitute kidney, sewed inside your abdomen, to rescue failing kidneys.

These substitute organs might have to be plugged into an electric socket to work. But they would keep you alive.

Research on such projects is beginning, and the general principles make them look feasible, says Dr. Peter F. Salisbury of Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, Los Angeles.

He took this look ahead in taking office last night as president of the American Society for Artificial Internal Organs, a three-year-old society of some 100 scientists and doctors. It is a member society of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology, holding its 41st annual meeting in Chicago this week.

Dr. Salisbury said some prototypes of first rough working models of permanent substitute hearts and kidneys are being designed. He said he spoke of them in order to stimulate more research into these opportunities.

Hundreds of human lives have already been saved by artificial heart-lung and kidney machines. But they are pretty big, and the patient is connected to them only temporarily.

The bold news prospect is of small devices permanently put inside the human body.

Dr. Salisbury said one possible design for a substitute heart is a double pump, each unit a U-shaped tube made of silicon rubber.

One pump would take blood coming to the heart from the veins and pump it through the lungs for fresh oxygen. The other would collect blood coming from the lungs and pump it through the body.

The tubes could work on an hydraulic pressure principle borrowed from milking machines. The blood would be squeezed through tubes, wide at the opening, which grow progressively smaller.

The tubes would be inside a closed chamber made of glass or plastic. The pumping action would come from forcing a liquid into and out of this chamber, to press pulslike on the tubes.

A tube would have to protrude through the chest wall to supply the pumping fluid. Electrical energy could pump it in and out. Or the patient could use a hand-pump while he walked from room to room.

Perhaps magnetic currents, from outside the chest, could be used to do the pumping with no protruding tube.

Dr. Salisbury said it would be easier to remove the ailing heart, completely replacing it with the substitute, than to try to find room inside the chest for an auxiliary pump.

C-of-C Favors Long-Range Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Chamber of Commerce recommended today a "longer range" foreign aid program calling for an appropriation of $3,600,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Its suggestions would entail a cut of about 800 million dollars in President Eisenhower's request for $4,400,000,000, a reduction far less drastic than many members of Congress are advocating.

Announce Honor Pupils For Period At Grifton

GRIFTON—A total of 148 Grifton students have been named to academic honors lists at the school for the fifth report period. Principal E. B. Bright announced today.

Forty-three of the students were given places on the school's Honor Roll making all "A" grades during the six-weeks marking period. The other 105 were placed on the Principal's List, which requires "A" grades in at least half of the academic subjects and nothing less than "B" grades on the other half.

ey, June Hudson, Delois Manning, Rosa Lee Whaley, Linwood Moore and Ray Jones.

Second grade: Gibb Chauncey, Tommy Barnes, Valerie Vanneman, Ann Moore, Lorraine January, Wayne Jackson, Clay Burch and Faye Stone.

Third grade: Douglass Haddock, Eddie Taylor, Clara Moore, Andrea Smith, Shirley Woodard, Susan Darr, Carolyn Lane, Donna Reel, Cathy Mears, Edna Nelson, Fred Isreal, Joey Patrick, Cecilia Hall and Judy Boyd.

The Chamber also recommended what it termed "suitable assistance" to neutral nations "without requiring them to ally themselves militarily with the West."

James Tanham, retired businessman and former vice president of the Texas Co., New York City, outlined the Chamber's position in testimony prepared for a special Senate committee studying the foreign aid program.

Tanham voiced endorsement of an administration proposal to separate funds for military and economic assistance.

Recommending inclusions of funds for military aid in the Defense Department's appropriation bill, he said:

"Unless the mutual security program is presented to the Congress in an entirely honest and forthright fashion, needless confusion and misunderstanding is created at home and abroad."

Tanham, speaking as chairman of a Chamber subcommittee on foreign aid, suggested:

1. Reducing allocations for military assistance to $2,017,000,000 — a saving of 433 million dollars.
2. Lopping off another 200 million from nonmilitary aid.
3. Saving another 168 millions by shifting "responsibility and accountability" for military assistance and "boosting efficiency."

Tanham told the committee:

"The National Chamber urges that the Congress authorize the foreign aid program on a longer range basis" than the present year-to-year authorizations "in the interest of efficiency and economy."

Fear Many Were Swept Into Ocean

AUQUIL, Ecuador (AP)—Officials fear many persons were swept out to sea by a flash flood which swept through the town of Jijipapa. Twelve bodies were recovered, but authorities said as many as 100 persons may have drowned.

Five feet of water poured through the town in central west Ecuador, near the Pacific coast, yesterday after a dam on the Sa Vicente River burst in the wake of torrential rains. Houses, vehicles, livestock and trees were swept into the ocean.

Three bridges and a power plant were destroyed. Jijipapa was reported without drinking water or communications. The army rushed first aid supplies, food and clothing to the town.

Galveston, Texas, terminus of the Canada-to-Gulf highway, was named in 1782 for Bernardo de Galvez, then governor of Louisiana.

Sundown Sees Passover Begin

NEW YORK (AP)—Passover begins at sundown today for Jews throughout the world.

The Festival of Freedom commemorates the Hebrew Exodus from Egypt. Orthodox and conservative Jews observe the season for eight days, and Reform Jews for seven.

The first Passover supper, or Seder, will bring Jewish families together tonight. The meal consists of foods symbolic of the time of the Exodus.

In a Passover message to American Jews, Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion of Israel said yesterday he expects as many as 120,000 Jewish refugees to enter his country this year. He urged Jews to "do everything in their power" to help the refugees.

'Comeback' For Recording King

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gene Austin, who sold more records in six years than Presley, Belafonte and Como have in a lifetime combined, is making a comeback at 56.

Austin, who even came before Rudy Vallee, dropped in town the other day to visit his daughter, actress Charlotte Austin, and plug his new record.

RCA-Victor, the company he left in 1932 at the peak of his popularity, just signed him to a recording contract—his first in 25 years. His first record, "Too Late," already is climbing toward hit status.

NBC-TV is dramatizing his life on the Sunday Night Playhouse series this coming Sunday.

From 1926 to 1932, Austin's records sold more than 86 million copies—a feat that has never been approached. His recording of "My Blue Heaven" sold seven million, generally regarded as the top all-time seller.

Yet Austin recalls how he had to overcome opposition to make "My Blue Heaven." Victor thought the hit tune was the one on the other side, now long forgotten.

When we finished that other side—even the musicians left," he said, "but I was determined to make 'My Blue Heaven.' We had a piano player (Austin himself) and I soon found a cellist.

"I had a lawyer friend who always had a yen to whistle on a record so I called him up and told him to hurry over to the studio."

Through the years some popular music critics, explaining the fabulous success of the record, have attributed it to fancy orchestration.

"It was fancy all right," Austin says. "Even the amateur whistler didn't rehearse."

His next biggest seller was "Ramona" and another was "Girl of My Dreams."

When his records started selling only a million copies—the goal of most present day singers—Austin thought he was slipping, so he retired.

Possible Answer To Old Puzzle

HONOLULU (AP)—A Honolulu doctor believes he may have solved the riddle of where the Polynesian people came from. He based his conclusions on his work in tracing the spread of the disease filariasis—peculiar to Polynesians.

Dr. David D. Bonnet says first surveys of his evidence indicate the Polynesians were once native to the area around Borneo, and then migrated eastward as far as Hawaii.

Democratic, But Also 'Be Firm'

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa. (AP)—A former school superintendent told a PTA meeting that adults are inclined to pay less attention to child-rearing than "to our pigs, chickens, fruit trees and vegetation."

"If you discipline well, you don't seem to be disciplining at all," Dr. R. G. Mowrey said.

"Be not dogmatic and autocratic, but democratic and firm," he added.

Swedish Holiday Fulfills A Dream

CHICAGO (AP)—The "fulfillment of a lifelong dream" is at hand for 57-year-old Ragnar Benson, who is picking up the tab for a $50,000 three-week holiday in Sweden with 70 relatives and friends.

The Benson party—flying in a chartered Scandinavian Airlines DC-6—was scheduled to land in Malmo, Sweden, today.

The airliner left Chicago last night amid shouts of "bon voyage" from friends and neighbors.

Benson, who immigrated from Sweden with a sister in 1911 at the age of 12, told newsmen before departing O'Hare International Airport:

"My heart is so full of the thankfulness for what the United States has done for me."

The Swedish immigrant became a bricklayer's apprentice in 1915 and now heads an 80 million dollar a year engineering firm.

Benson said the trip is his way of expressing gratitude to some of the people who helped him as a newly arrived immigrant.

About half the guests are relatives, including Benson's wife and son and the son's six children. Some 20 employees of the engineering firm, Ragnar Benson, Inc., and other friends make up the party.

The group was expected to return to Chicago May 6. While abroad, Benson's guests will be free to do as they choose. Side trips to the continent were planned by some.

One aim of the trip, Benson declared, is "to promote good will." He is taking a letter of greeting from Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley to Mayor Thomas Munk of Malmo, Sweden's third largest city.

Some 150 of Benson's relatives and friends will gather at his guests tomorrow at a banquet in Almhult, Benson's birthplace.

The Brass and the Blue

CHAPTER 32

Emil Schwabacker didn't need an adviser to tell him the temper of the Indians, for an angry muttering went up among the packed thousand. Suddenly Schwabacker felt a raw shock of fear. He was like a man who swims to the middle of the lake, then finds that he is in danger of drowning because he can't swim back. Until now, he had been confident of himself, but his confidence fled silently, leaving him on a lonely island surrounded by anger. He looked at Sergeant Finnegan and found him standing white-faced, lines of strain pulling at his cheeks.

Chief Red Cloud was speaking. "You have come into my camp without arms, pony soldier. Do you wish to die?"

"I came to speak," Schwabacker said, surprised that he had a voice. But once he had spoken control returned and he let no fear show on his face. "Must my hands be tied while I speak?"

A nod from the Sioux chief removed the ropes and Schwabacker had to stifle an overpowering impulse to rub his wrists, for the ropes left grooves in the flesh. Yet he did not, understanding without thought that a show of weakness would be fatal.

"My sergeant," he said, "must be released too."

Red Cloud wouldn't go for this; it was in his eyes. "Does the great Sioux leader fear we will escape? Do two pony soldiers frighten five hundred braves?"

When Red Cloud nodded, Schwabacker offered himself silent congratulations. Pride; that was the key to doing business. Throw them on their pride. When the ropes were removed from Finnegan, Schwabacker said, "The pony soldier has lost many men. Red Cloud. Last year you won a great victory on Lodge Trail Ridge."

"Red Cloud has many victories," the Sioux said. "There will be many more before the winter sun shines."

"And many dead braves," Schwabacker told him. "How many braves died at Fort Smith, where the Cheyennes were defeated by twenty men?"

He was touching the dynamite fuse and knew it when Red Cloud's eyes narrowed and several of the Cheyenne chiefs reared to their feet. A wave of Red Cloud's arm was enough to make them sit down again, but the anger stayed in their eyes.

Red Cloud said, "A few braves were lost."

"Red Cloud lies!" Schwabacker snapped. "Over a hundred Cheyennes were killed!" He held Spotted Tail with his eyes. "Do you lie too, Spotted Tail, who fights with honor? Do you lie to a warrior who has fought you twice?"

"Who-Fears-His-Heart speaks the truth. Many death songs were sung. The day was dark for my people."

Red Cloud did not like this admission, for it weakened his position.

Schwabacker watched the Sioux and hoped strongly that Red Cloud would upbraid the Cheyennes as cowards, but this was diplomatically impossible, unless he wanted a civil war started in his own camp.

Schwabacker spoke to Red Cloud. "I saw the battle with these eyes, Red Cloud. I saw too the defeat you suffered at the wagon boxes. Over a hundred of your warriors were lost, Red Cloud. Do I speak the truth?"

For a full minute, Red Cloud refused to speak. Then he said, "You speak the truth, pony soldier."

"Then who has lost?" Schwabacker asked. "Who has lost the most men, Red Cloud? Is not the way of peace better?"

"There will never be peace with the long knives," Red Cloud said. "To mark the paper means nothing. I have spoken before that I will never sign again."

There was no changing this man; Schwabacker realized it and gave it up. He turned to Spotted Tail. "Do you wish to lose all your braves, Spotted Tail? The defeat at Fort Smith was only the beginning. There will be others, whenever you meet the soldiers, until there are no more Cheyenne."

This was something to think about, and Schwabacker suspected that Spotted Tail had thought about it. A man could get tired of another man's rule, could grow weary of spending his strength for a cause in which he did not completely believe. Schwabacker figured it was that way with the Cheyennes. They had been reluctant from the beginning to join Red Cloud, and now after several sound defeats they were primed for peace. The only question that remained large in his mind was, could he get out of the camp alive. His only hope lay in Cheyenne protection.

Spotted Tail rose to speak. "What you say is true."

"Then I offer you peace," Schwabacker said. "In the name of the United States Government, I offer you a chance to meet with men who want peace. They wait now at Fort Laramie for you. I will take you there, Spotted Tail. You and your chiefs."

Red Cloud was on his feet, shouting. "He lies! You will die there! Once away from your warriors and he will kill you!"

Schwabacker challenged that cold glance. "I am without weapons, Red Cloud. We are alone and Spotted Tail may take as many braves as he wishes, all armed. You are the one who lies, Red Cloud. Your heart is dark and filled with war. I will speak to you no more of peace, for you do not understand."

Schwabacker deliberately turned away from the great Sioux chief and a roar of disapproval went up at this unforgivable insult. Finnegan was sweating.

Red Cloud was surrounded by his braves. The fanatical Crazy Horse leaped to his feet, ready to kill for Sioux honor, but Spotted Tail shouted one word and a deep silence fell over the camp.

Schwabacker looked around. Everywhere Cheyenne warriors true. There would never be another, regardless of who spoke for the peace commission. Spotted Tail was ready now. Ten days from now he would be less a victim of his grief.

Suddenly Emil Schwabacker was eager to get out of this camp. Time was of a sudden a very precious thing; he had so little of it to waste.

Then the rosy picture faded; a practical side of his mind made him think of General Wessels, and what he would say when he learned that an officer who had been relieved of his command had the temerity to sue for an unauthorized peace.

Since the Indians' possessions were few, they departed from the Sioux camp within an hour. The horses were returned to Schwabacker and Finnegan, and accompanied by Spotted Tail and his chiefs, they rode out. Behind them were over a hundred armed Cheyenne braves.

Finnegan spoke softly. "I'm alive, but I don't believe it."

"I wonder who will end up shooting us?" Schwabacker said, half to himself. "Spotted Tail or General Wessels' firing squad?"

Just about the last person Emil expects to see is awaiting him at Fort Laramie—a surprise for which he isn't prepared. Continue Chapter 33 here tomorrow.

Child Labor In School Hours Still Forbidden

RALEIGH — The $1.00 minimum wage and overtime requirements of the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act do not apply to workers in agriculture, but the employment of children under 16 years of age in farm work during school hours is specifically prohibited, State Labor Commissioner Frank Crane said today.

"The Fair Labor Standards Act makes it illegal to employ children under 16 years of age in agricultural work during the hours the school for the district where the children are currently living is in session," Commissioner Crane explained. "This provision does not apply, however, to the farmer's own children working on their parents' farm or to children working for a farmer selling to dealers who market exclusively within the same State."

Crane cautioned that the Act applies to a farmer whether he ships his products out of the State himself or delivers them to a warehouse or wholesaler dealer who does the actual shipping. Further, he said that growers of vegetables, fruit and other crops that are delivered to canning, processing or refining establishments within the State, have the same obligation under this law not to hire children under 16 during school hours, as have those farmers whose products move directly out of the State, if the resulting canned, processed or refined goods move in interstate commerce.

"During the fiscal 1956, Wage-Hour investigations found 4,285 children under 16 illegally employed on 1,910 farms in 40 States while school was in session," Mr. Crane said. "That means 4,285 specific violations of Federal law by the farmers involved. Almost half of these children were only 10 to 13 years of age and about a third of them were 14 and 15. They found 812 children under 10 years of age working in the fields."

"Violators face the possibility of having interstate shipment of their products halted by a Federal court order. Such an order could apply not only to the grower's raw products but also to the canneries, or processors or refiners that brought them, or to the out-of-State buyer who planned to ship them in their raw or natural state. There are criminal penalties also for willful violators."

"Farmers can easily stay within the law by having an unexpired age certificate showing the young boy or girl they hire to be at least 16. Although there are no restrictions on employment of boys and girls 16 to 18 in agriculture, they work on days when school is in session. In North Carolina, age certificates acceptable under the Wage and Hour Law are issued by the County Superintendents of Public Welfare.

Crane urged those commercial growers who may be in doubt about the application of the Fair Labor Standards Act to their operations to make inquiry at the Wage and Hour Divisions in the North Carolina Department of Labor at Raleigh.

Dr. Joseph C. Kiger To Discuss Foundation Work

Dr. Joseph C. Kiger of Chapel Hill, N.C., assistant director of the Southern Fellowships Fund, will discuss "Aid for the Southern College Student" at East Carolina College April 17. His talk will deal with what the major foundations are doing in the preparation of college teachers.

Speaking at a dinner meeting of the college chapter of the American Association of University Professors, Dr. Kiger will address members of the organization, other East Carolina faculty members, and guests from the campus and the city of Greenville. The meeting will take place at 6:30 p.m. in the college cafeteria.

Dr. Edgar W. Hirschberg, AAUP president, will preside at the dinner.

Dr. Kiger, a native of Kentucky, began his career as a teacher and held positions at Vanderbilt, the University of Alabama, and Washington University in St. Louis.

In 1952-53 he acted as director of research for the House Select Committee to Investigate Foundations, the Cox Committee. After almost a year spent in research and writing, he became a staff associate on the American Council on Education in Washington, D. C. In July 1955, he came to North Carolina as assistant director of the Southern Fellowships Fund at Chapel Hill.

Babson . . .

Central West and South do the same thing with their surplus corn, wheat, cotton, and other products? Henry Ford once said to me: "When the farmers wake up and quit crying on Uncle Sam's shoulders they can find a great use and market for their products as raw materials in industry." Agriculture needs a great leader like Henry Ford and the national advertising which the humble citrus growers of Florida are giving their products.

Dr. Kiger is the author of "Operating Principles of the Larger Foundations," published in 1954 by the Russell Sage Foundation, and of a number of book reviews and articles in professional journals. He also did a major share of research for the writing of "Sponsored Research Policy of Colleges and Universities," published by the American Council of Education in 1954.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market lost ground early this afternoon in fairly active trading. Key stocks lost from fractions to a point or so.

No particular selling pressure was apparent in any particular division. Steels, however, were traded with somewhat greater activity.

Most leading steels showed fractional losses. Profit-taking could easily account for this following the leadership they gave the market in its vigorous rise of last week. At the same time, however, there was news once more of slackening steel production.

Another easing in copper prices also dampened enthusiasm.

A wider loss among leading issues was St. Regis Paper, which dropped more than 3 points. On Friday it broke 3 1/2 on news of lower earnings and dividends.

Royal Dutch, Anaconda, and Eastern Air Lines were each off about a point. United Aircraft and Allied Chemical took losses of more than a point.

Most other leading issues kept their losses fractional.

On the brighter side, Chrysler stepped ahead another point. Philco and American Cyanamid were other gainers in about the same range. Goodyear picked up a major fraction.

U. S. Steel and Republic Steel were fractional losers while Bethlehem showed little change. Ford was down a bit and General Motors was easy.

Gulf Oil and Texas Co. took small losses. Sinclair and Standard Oil (New Jersey) showed scant change.

American Telephone was about unchanged. Other utilities showed minor fluctuations. Rails were narrowly mixed. Illinois Central and Southern Railway were on the plus side. Southern Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio eased. Du Pont, International Nickel, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, Phelps Dodge and U. S. Rubber lost ground.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 40 cents to $177.90 with the industrials down 80 cents, the rails down 20 cents and the utilities unchanged.

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Hog prices mostly steady. Tops at 16.50 to 17.50 at Rocky Mount; 16.75 to 17.25 at Kinston; New Bern, Benson and Nahant; 16.50 to 17.25 at Tarboro and Enfield; 16.25 to 17.25 at Kenly and Hillsboro; 16.50 to 17.00 at Siler City; Mount Gilgad and Denton; 17.25 at Castle Hayne; 17.00 at Smithfield, Newton Grove, Murfreesboro, Clayton, Goldsboro, Mount Olive, Bailey, Dunn, Clarkton and Whiteville; 16.75 at Shallotte, Micro, Elizabethtown, Rich Square, Fayetteville, Clinton and Lumberton.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets; fryers and broilers fully steady. A large 30-33; Durham eggs steady following advance. A large 33-36; Asheville eggs about steady. A large 28-30; Charlotte eggs steady. A large 29.

Last Rites Held For M. D. Yelverton

FOUNTAIN—M. D. Yelverton, 77, died Saturday night in the Henderson Restorium and Nursing Home at Henderson.

Funeral services were held Monday at 3 p. m. at the home in Fountain, Rev. John Davis, pastor of Fountain Baptist Church, and Rev. Philip M. Cory, pastor of Fountain Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial was in Queen Anne's Cemetery in Fountain.

Mr. Yelverton was the son of the late Wiley Wright and Virginia Lowman Yelverton. He had been in the mercantile business in Fountain over 35 years. Declining health forced him to retire in 1944. He was also engaged in farming in Edgecombe and Wilson Counties.

Surviving are his wife, Thelma Brothers Yelverton of the home; four daughters, Lucille of Fountain, Mrs. W. C. Garvey of Winston-Salem, Mrs. N. E. Henry of Thomasville, Mrs. H. M. Mercer Jr. of Walsenburg; one son, Wiley Yelverton of Fountain; one foster son, E. J. Beman of Havelock; two sisters, Mrs. F. L. Eagles of Fountain and Mrs. W. E. # Large Attendance At Boy Scout Pre-Camporee

The weather was inclement and it was cold outside but the Boy Scouts didn't seem to mind.

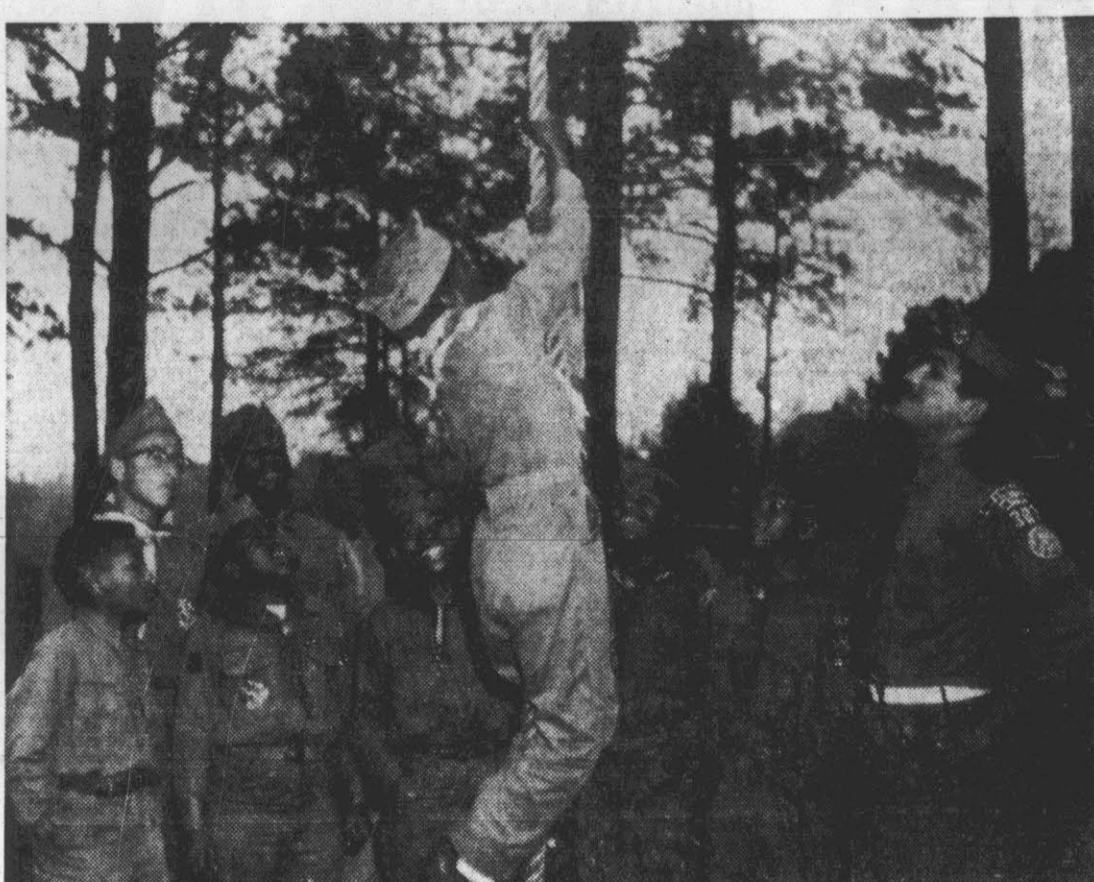

Last weekend, the Negro Pitt Scouting Division held its annual pre-camporee. The scouts set up camp on Friday afternoon for the event that terminated some 24 hours later on Saturday.

Thomas Foreman, chairman of the division's camping and activities, stated, "This camporee was one of the most successful ever staged in this district." He added that the attendance was also the largest ever recorded. There were 124 Negro scouts who attended the practice camporee.

This event was held in order that the scouts might familiarize themselves with the various phases of scouting to be employed at the East Carolina Council Negro Camporee to be held in Kinston on May 3, 4 and 5.

Attending were members of eight troops representing seven Pitt towns. They were, Troop 393 of Bethel, Troops 131 and 191 of Greenville, Troop 88 of Winterville, Troop 392 of Grifton, Troop 251 of Bell Arthur, Troop 234 of Falkland and Troop 176 of Ayden.

Scouting officials stated this pre-camporee was the first event staged on the new scout camping site located on farms owned by Charles Gaskins and Harold Forbes. The site is located approximately four miles west of Greenville on the Falkland highway.
