Stresses Difference In Art And Artist

At last night's lecture, "Looking At Pictures," well-known artist Hobson Pittman interpreted for the audience what each artist was trying to illustrate in his particular painting.

With the use of numerous color slides, he showed the works of the old masters as well as those of the modern, contemporary artists. The first group of slides that he showed were of nudes painted by famous artists from the 14th through the 20th century.

A series of Crucifixion paintings were shown next. These works were done by painters from the 15th through the 20th century.

The third and fourth in the series were of portraits and landscapes contributed by artists from the 16th through the 20th century. The final group was a series of contemporary pictures beginning with those by Leger and continuing through Mondrian's works.

When one visits an art gallery they should look for certain features in the paintings, explained Pittman. He added, a viewer must try to "distinguish between an artist and an oil painting."

Dr. Robert Lee Humber, in introducing Pittman, said, "It wasn't simply because he has acquired fame in foreign lands through the exhibition of his paintings in London, Paris, Venice, and in other continental communities, his paintings had been sought and acquired by leading museums of this country, including the Metropolitan Museum and the Whitney Museum of New York, the Philadelphia Museum, the Carnegie Institute, the North Carolina Museum of Art, and many more.

"Notable and rare as these achievements are, the predominant and compelling appeal of his presence here tonight is that he is an eminent and worthy native son of North Carolina who has come home to be among his neighbors and friends."

Following Pittman's lecture, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, vice president of the Art Society, introduced four young students who have their paintings on exhibit at Sheppard Memorial Library.

W. H. Watson, president of the Art Society, who presided at last night's lecture, noted this morning that, "Many visitors from Tarboro, the native home of Mr. Pittman, were among the approximately 150 guests who attended the lecture."

Prior to the lecture, Pittman was honored at a small dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Blount of Rock Spring Road.

A reception sponsored by the East Carolina Art Society immediately followed the lecture at the home of Mrs. S. M. Crisp. Punch and cookies were served by Mrs. Crisp who was assisted by Mrs. Ty Wagner, Mrs. J. D. Messick, Mrs. W. I. Wooten, Mrs. Wesley Harvey, and Mrs. J. H. B. Moore.

Mrs. Pollard, Mrs. Bradsher Are Honored

Mrs. John Bradsher and Mrs. Julius Pollard were honored at dessert bridge at the home of Mrs. Louis Howe on Maple Street Monday afternoon.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Miss Nancy Howell, Miss Barbara Corbett, and Mrs. Charles Worthington.

Pink roses were used as floral decorations throughout the home. The guests were served ice cream filled meringues, mints, macarons, and coffee.

While guests played canasta and bridge the hostesses served soft drinks and nuts.

Each of the honorees received red and white carnation corsages and a piece of china in their chosen pattern as honor gifts from the hostesses.

Alcoholism, Emotional Illness Says Miss Millicent Griffith

Miss Millicent Griffith, R. N., described alcoholism as an "emotional illness" at the 1957 Nurses Institute on Alcoholism held yesterday at the East Carolina College Gymnasium.

Fifty-six nurses from Eastern North Carolina attended the second institute held in North Carolina.

Miss Griffith, who is the educational director of the Veterans Administration Hospital in Lyons, N. J., told the group that "The emotional suffering of the alcoholic is much more painful to him than any physical pain he experiences."

"He is overwhelmed with tension, anxiety, and a sense of guilt and remorse. He is faced with a feeling of helplessness and hopelessness, and needs to realize, first of all, that he can be helped."

"The alcoholic who comes to the hospital with an honest desire for help, should be approached by the nurse with sympathy and kindness, never with an attitude of condemnation or reproach. The nurse must understand and accept alcoholism as an illness, rather than a sign of moral weakness or willful stubbornness."

The speaker outlined some further tips to nurses for being more helpful to alcoholic patients under their care:

"First, the nurse should do everything possible to build the alcoholic's self-esteem and show him that she is sincerely interested in helping him get well."

"Second, she should be a good listener, allowing the alcoholic patient freedom to talk about his problems and feelings."

"Third, the nurse should not allow the alcoholic's initial lack of cooperation to make her angry and reject the patient. Instead, she must let him know that she understands his lack of cooperation and will be kind to him regardless."

"The alcoholic patient in the hospital is a challenge to nurses," Miss Griffith concluded, "and we must constantly improve our techniques for treating him."

30 Years Ago Today

Mrs. W. R. Minshew delightfully entertained at bridge last Saturday morning, honoring Miss Agnes Head of Wilmington. The living and dining rooms, in which seven tables were arranged, were beautiful with profusions of spring flowers scattered here and there.

Mezzo-Soprano, Mildred Miller Moves Audience To Bravos

By GEORGE E. PERRY

There were "Bravos" shouted at Wright Auditorium last evening, and with very good reason: the commanding performance by Mildred Miller, Metropolitan Opera mezzo-soprano, whose beauty is matched only by her voice—or whose voice is matched only by her beauty.

From the moment of her stunning and decisive entrance she was a complete triumph, vocally, historically, personally and visually. With reference to the latter, she is a beautiful example of the musical truth that sopranos, both regular and mezzo, need no longer be gigantic in scope or ungainly in stance in order to have "room for resonance."

Personally, she is a classic example of beautifully gowned radiant femininity. Historically, she dramatizes each song to just the right amount. Vocally, she possesses a full, rich, opulent, opalescent voice, which she handles with intelligent control and understanding, bringing to the fore all of its timbre and surprising flexibility.

I say surprising, for mezzos and contraltos are often apt to be vocally muscle-bound. Her vocal placement permitted tonal transcendence—emergences would be perhaps the more properly descriptive word—to be constantly on pitch which more than compensated for an occasional flared tone at the end of a phrase. Where musicianship is present, a minor flaw can easily be overlooked.

Her program began with Bach's beautiful aria, "Bist du bei mir," which contained wealth of dynamic contrast, and revealed a tonal color very much like Marian Anderson's, especially in the lower register and often in the upper when a closed vowel was sung. Haydn's "Mermaid's Song" displayed some velvet flexibility, and the two Mozart arias were classic in style without being customarily thin-toned.

She seemed to be at her best in the German Lieder group which followed. "Gretchen am Spinnrad" by Schubert brought sadness in both her face and voice, with appropriate passion at the "Ach, sein Kuss!" Her handling of this one phrase reminded one of the way Lotte Lehmann used to do this incomparable example of Lieder. "Du bist die Ruh" was quietly serene, with just the right amount of truthful confidence.

again brought echoes of Marian Anderson, and the three sections of this opus were excellently contrasted one against the other. For once Brahms sounded like Brahms. He, who loved the middle register of the human voice, would have cheered this rendition, for it did credit to his name.

It was somewhat of a surprise to see a coloratura number on a mezzo's program, but for all this, "Una voce poco fa" from Rossini's "Barber of Seville," came across beautifully. It was not coloratura in tonal color, but it was in style—flexible, florid, and the full-throated high "b" at the end brought such applause that she had to repeat the last half of the aria.

"Of the French group, "Si mes vers" and "Carnaval" were the best done, the first full of romantic sincerity, and the second excitingly varied. A group of English and American songs came next, followed by two arias from Bizet's "Carmen," which again brought "bravos" from the audience.

The beautiful encores were no less inspiringly done than the rest of the concert. She began with five Viennese waltzes, which were Viennese to the core—full of melody and the traditional lilting rhythm.

A quaint Scotch folk song followed, and the memorable evening closed most perfectly with Schubert's "Ave Maria," which seemed reminiscent of Marian Anderson for the third time.

I asked Miss Miller if I might mention this likeness to this great singer, and she informed me that she was asked to replace Miss Anderson on the Telephone Hour. I, personally, can think of no higher tribute to pay to a mezzo—than to liken her to the one whom Serge Koussevitzky called the greatest voice he'd ever heard.

Theodore Schaefer was the excellent accompanist. His support, his complete collaboration added immeasurably to the concert, and his work in "Carnaval" was especially outstanding.

To those courageous souls who shouted "bravo," I say "Thank you." An artist appreciates this kind of acknowledgement, and it is a very acceptable habit which local concert-goers need not be ashamed of demonstrating. One hears it in all major concert-halls and opera houses. Why not here?

Bethel Church Has Attendance Contest

On March 3 the Pentecostal Holiness Church of Bethel started a contest lasting eight weeks and climaxing on Easter Sunday.

This contest entitled, "Break the Record," was aimed at improving the Sunday School attendance record. The goal for the eight weeks was 1000 people, but the church went over this goal with a record of 1082 people attending with an average for each Sunday of 135.2.

Never in the history of the church has its Sunday School had such attendance. The Superintendent of the Sunday School, George Abeyounis, helped make this contest a success.

Your Best Beauty Aid: Soapsuds

By vivian BROWN
 AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor
 SOAP may have great beauty advantages for the skin, although we give it credit merely for removing dirt.
 One beauty authority believes it invaluable in keeping the skin in a fatty acid condition. Years ago he advised that he believed the proper way to wash the face is to make a lather between the hands, (no wash cloth) rubbing the suds on the face and over the body if you are in the tub. He believes in rinsing the face with the same water, not clear water, claiming that in scents named after all the sleek satin colors—red, black, white, gold.

 When you use a good soap in the tub be sure to put it back in the soap container after the bath instead of letting it soften away in the bath drainage.

Knit Their Own Smart Girls

By DOROTHY ROE
 Associated Press Women's Editor
 KNITTING NEEDLES are in fashion this spring, as women of all ages in all sections of the country discover new high-style designs for knitting.
 The vogue for bulky knits has revived interest in this oldest of the needlework skills, since heavy yarns and big needles make it possible to turn out fashionable sweaters, capes and other knit fashions in big time.
 The knit-and-purl brigade is producing all kinds of handsome knitted garments nowadays, ranging from simple stoles to ambitious suits and dresses. Short bulky capes are in high favor, for wear over practically any summer costume, and casual boxy jackets are running a close second.
 With current attention centered on fashions of the 1930's, the hip-length jerkin is back in style, and some of the most effective are turned out by the girls who attend to their knitting. These straight, casual, sleeveless sweaters may be worn with skirts or shorts, are simple to make and fun to wear. One effective pattern uses contrasting stripes of navy and white for a straight, loose jerkin which buttons down the sides and has a dashing nautical air. It is simple for even the amateur knitter, since it is made in a straight piece with an opening for the head—no complicated sleeves or curves.
 It may be made in any color combination, but navy, red or black with white are the favorites. Alternating broad and narrow stripes lend added distinction.
 For free instructions for making this jumper and also a bulky knit cape, send stamped, self-addressed envelope to: HAND KNITTING, Room 1806, 15 East 26th Street, New York, N.Y.

LATHER UP . . . For a skin like satin, she uses a soap that is French milled.
 this method will keep the skin in a fatty acid condition.
 Some women claim that soap irritates their skin and this may be true in some instances. It may be drying too, but dry skin types may still use it, providing they rinse it off and apply cream, or lotion to the skin afterwards.
 One intriguing phrase that appears in many soap ads is "French milled." What does it mean? After many phone calls to cosmeticians it was finally established by a chemist that French milled soap usually is more elegant in appearance and pleasantly scented.
 It is made like this: Instead of just taking the soap out of a kettle and stamping a name on it, French milled soap is made into chips, impregnated with color and perfume and then rolled out on rollers (made in America from French patents) and dried to take out excess moisture. It is supposed to have 25 to 33 per cent less moisture content than ordinary soaps, so should last longer.
 One new highly touted soap made in the milled manner also contains softening oil, particularly beneficial for dry skins. It contains extra glycerine which offers a protective coat against cold air that causes wrinkles and skin roughness. It is supposed to lend a real satin glow and is available

Miss Adams, Mr. Frank Married

Franks-Adams
 VANCEBORO—In a simple but impressive double-ring ceremony attended only by the family and close friends, Miss Lucille Franks and Melvin Stanley Adams were united in marriage in the parsonage of the Epworth Methodist Church here Saturday afternoon.
 The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenwood G. Franks of Rt. 2, Vanceboro, and Mr. Adams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stance Adams of Rt. 1, Chocowinity.
 The Rev. Ellis J. Bedsworth officiated.
 The bride wore a ballerina length dress of blue lace over taffeta with a matching stole, white accessories, and an orchid corsage.
 Mrs. Adams is a graduate of Farm Life School in Vanceboro and Mr. Adams attended the Chocowinity schools. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Adams will be at home in the Lane's Chapel community near Vanceboro.
 Mrs. G. L. Tucker presided during the brief business session. Members made their contributions toward the $50 high school scholarship which the club presents each year to a deserving student of the senior class.
 Strawberry shortcake was served during the refreshment hour.
 Members present were Mrs. Tucker, Mrs. J. L. Tucker, Mrs. Thurman Williams, Mrs. Gower, Mrs. Alton Chapman, Mrs. H. P. Quinerly, Mrs. R. B. Mewborn, Mrs. Cecil Cobb, and Miss Bert Johnson.

Prompted By Some Dragging Feet

Gov. Hodges' statement that local anti-pollution bills are contrary to the state's policy may satisfy some North Carolinians. It is apparent, however, that these local bills have been prompted by the state's ineffec-

They're Deciding Now On School Of Nursing

Behind its cloak of semi-secrecy the Joint Appropriations subcommittee is now doing the trimming, slashing and approving which in a large measure will determine what services and facilities will be provided for during the next biennium.

It is important during this particular period that the people of Eastern North Carolina not lose sight of their bill which would provide for a state-supported school of nursing in this area. It is important that citizens of the East keep their legislators keenly aware that the folks back home are counting heavily on the proposed school of nursing to fill one of the pressing needs in medical care for this area.

Unless the proposed school of nursing is provided for in appropriations for the coming biennium, there is little hope for the area securing the trained nurses it needs to staff its growing hospitals and clinics. There is little hope that this area will be able to attract sufficient nurses to give home care to many sick people who are not in hospitals. In short, the calibre of medical care the people of this part of the state will be able to get in the next few years depends to a great extent upon whether the proposed school is established.

Eastern North Carolina is not receiving a reasonable number of nurses being graduated from schools in other parts of the state. Certainly too few graduates of the number needed annually throughout this area.

Benefits derived from $170,000 spent for a school of nursing in the east during the coming biennium would mean immeasurably more to North Carolina than a similar amount spent for a private airplane for the Governor.

Army PX Issue Back To Schools

By ELMER ROESSNER

Whether Army Post Exchanges should sell nursery chairs (with or without commodos) and hundreds of other material but not martial items may have to be settled on the floors of Congress.

The trouble is that PX's compete with taxpaying, voting merchants in the United States. At most Army and Air Force bases, the government operates glorified discount houses. In fact, the PX's have a big edge on ordinary discount houses. They pay no taxes and, in addition, they use space and a lot of existing services at no extra cost.

During the war, PX's flourished. Merchants tolerated that competition. Some preferred to lose sales to PX's than to be ununiformed customers thereof.

After the war retailers began complaining that government competition was murder and in 1949 the Army and Air Force Exchange Service agreed with several trade associations that PX's would sell only certain items.

CHANGES DEMANDED

It must have been a fair agreement; neither side was happy with it. Retailers said they still lost too many sales to PX's; the PX service said it could not carry an assortment wide enough to satisfy men in uniform.

Recently, the PX service proposed changes in the agreement. It acted to broaden and lengthen lines, planning to add 20 kinds of juvenile furniture, including "cribs, high chairs, chests, youth beds and nursery chairs (with or without commodos)."

It wanted to add sports coats, apparel for children up to 12 years old, auto tires and batteries, sporting goods and various other lines. It also wanted to carry more expensive items in lines already handled.

Trade associations said this would put 4,000 items on PX shelves; Maj. Gen. Harlan C. Parks, head of the service, said it would add exactly 448 and no more.

Trade association reps and the brass were unable to agree after extended negotiations. The associations could not even agree among themselves. After considerable backing and forth, the associations decided to drop the entire matter into Congress' lap. CALLED BIG BUSINESS tiveness in carrying out its announced policy.

The Governor's statement came after people of Swain County demanded to know why their anti-pollution bill for the Tuckasee River was killed by the same House Committee which only a few weeks ago gave approval to an identical bill for the Neuse.

North Carolina's Stream Sanitation Committee was created in 1951 to administer a state-wide water clean-up program. Though some progress has been made in that direction in the past six years, it has been slow—too slow. Since the agency was set up, four local anti-pollution bills similar to the one which was killed last week, have been passed by the legislature.

If it has been a state policy to handle stream pollution problems without specific local legislation, someone has been missing the boat for the past few years. Quite obviously the policy, as stated by Gov. Hodges, has not been followed. Not until the Swain County bill came up a few days ago.

Now that the administration seems determined to oppose local legislation designed to clean up rivers, it certainly assumes the obligation of prodding more rapid progress toward state-wide accomplishment in anti-pollution. So far progress of the Stream Sanitation Committee has been too slow to adequately protect the streams of the state and provide for the conservation of water resources.

An effective state-wide program to clean up the streams of North Carolina would be much better than a hodgepodge of local bills pertaining to individual rivers. On the other hand, if an effective state-wide program is to be delayed so long that it is ineffective, certainly local efforts to clean up streams and rivers are better than no program at all.

Hodges' Feelings Become Clearer

By LYNN NISBET

PERSONA NON GRATA — John R. Jordan Jr. will not be named as secretary of the State Democratic Committee. When Herman Moore of Charlotte resigned a few weeks ago Jordan's name was suggested as the logical successor. He is a past president of the State Young Democratic Clubs, managed the recent Jefferson-Jackson Dinner campaign, and has worked cooperatively with State Chairman John Larkins and National Committee-man, Everett Jordan.

But Governor Hodges has let it be known he doesn't want young Jordan as secretary. This attitude is taken as further indication that the Governor is not pleased with some of Chairman Larkins' activities, since the chairman has the sole right under the plan of organization to appoint the secretary.

Moore gave as his reason for resigning that he wanted to spend more time with his family and attending to his own business. It was apparent at the time the real reason was resentment against the appointment of members of the Mecklenburg county board of elections who was displeasing to him. Chairman Larkins had recommended two names to the State Board of Elections for the Mecklenburg vacancy. The State Board appointed the "wrong man" so far as Moore was concerned. It embarrassed him to discover that although a top ranking official in the party organization, he had no more influence than that. He quit.

Party leaders are not happy about conditions in the Democratic organization. Resentment flared at a county chairman's meeting in connection with the Jefferson-Jackson dinner over the handling of patronage by the Governor and the State chairman. Later the Governor told newsmen that Larkins is not "my chairman. I inherited him."

Now the Moore resignation and the Jordan blackout adds to the uncertainty.

LOVE FEAST — The Senate took a few minutes from routine Tuesday night for a "love feast" honoring Sen. John G. Dawson of Lenoir. Sen. Luther Hamilton of Carteret advised the senators that his colleague from the seventh district had a birthday last week. He paid high tribute to the services rendered by John Dawson for half a century as member of the general Assembly and Speaker of the House of Representatives, chairman of Democratic party, distinguished lawyer and civic leader.

Sen. Dave Rose of Wayne added his praises for a neighbor who is as active at 75 as he was twenty years ago in diverse areas of leadership. He said Senator Dawson proves the accuracy of Disraeli's statement that "Men are not creatures of circumstances; circumstances are creatures of men."

And Sen. John C. McFee of Mitchell, veteran of many political wars as a Republican, whose 80 years makes him the oldest member of the General Assembly, added his tribute to the character and governmental contributions of Senator Dawson. He recalled the Democratic leader's courtesy and fairness when they were on opposing sides of issues in the early 1920's.

When Senator Hamilton began to speak, Senator Dawson was still looking over his mail. He glanced up once or twice and went back to the letters. Then he heard something that clicked, leaned over to his seat mate, Senator Spencer Bell of Mecklenburg, and said in a surprised and fairly audible whisper, "Why, he's talking about me!"

He acknowledged the tributes and indicated that while he appreciated them greatly, he did not want anybody to regard them as funeral orations. He expects to be around for a long time yet.

COMMITTEES — Sometimes by accident, sometimes by design, bills go to "funny" committees. Like the House-passed bill offered by Rep. Grace Rodenbough of Stokes to exempt stored tobacco from Advalorem taxes for one year. The Forsyth delegation is vigorously opposing the bill. When it got over to the Senate it was sent to Judiciary I, of which Sen. Calvin Graves of Forsyth is chairman. At first glance that looked like just feeding it to the lions. It developed that J-I has two or three almost identical bills affecting other counties, and logical thing was to keep them together. Rumor has it the committee is ready to approve all, or veto all. And if vetoed, effort will be made to repeal the general act under which such tax exemptions are permitted.

City extension and annexation bills logically belong in committees dealing with local government or counties, cities and towns. When the Charlotte extension bill was offered three of the four Mecklenburgers requested it be sent to a judiciary committee. The committee gave it a favorable report. Then Rep. Jack Love, who opposed the bill, moved to re-refer it to Local Government. That put it up to the Speaker and the other members to take sides in a local factional fight — which they always are reluctant to do. When the question was put it was obvious that Love had a majority, but Speaker Doughton said he was unable to decide on the voice vote. He asked the member of the law at that point, what freedom is there existent? When we must slap down one man in order to lift up another, what pride can we find in our accomplishment?

When laws are passed in an atmosphere of bitterness, then people in all ranks and of all hues tend to take sides. And both sides cannot be right. More often than not, both sides are wrong.

If the South today could be left alone to work out its own destiny, then thinking people of all races could find a far better solution, leading to greater happiness for all, than if a "forced" solution is thrust upon all people. We need to realize that fact.

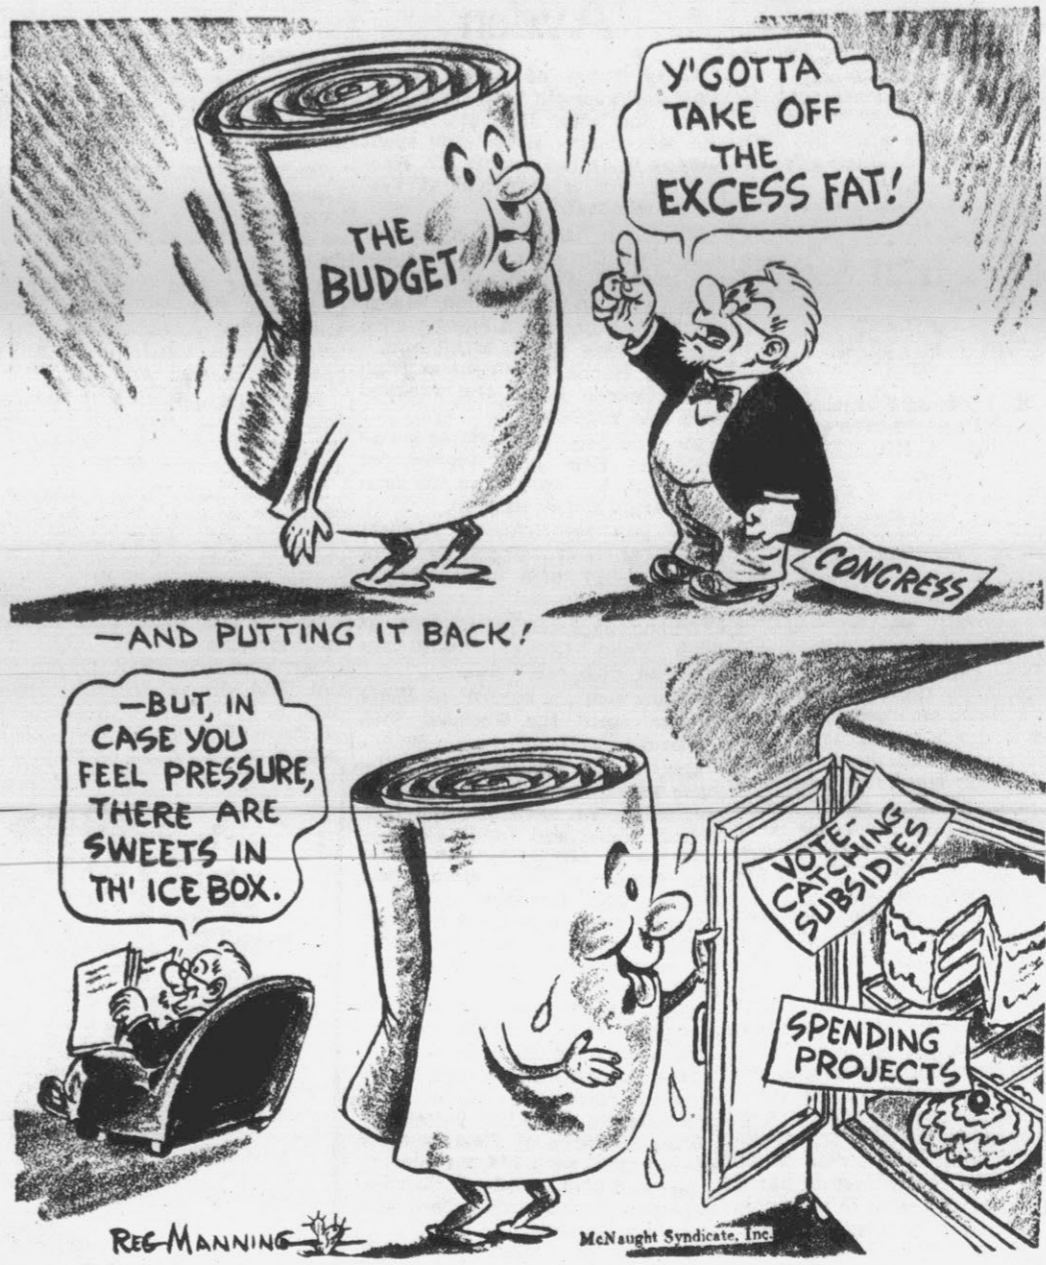

The reformers who would change our way of living through legal actions and legislative enactments ought to realize that in so many cases they, themselves, are not lily-white and pure in heart and mind.

The very ones who do so much rouble-raising about the "poor South" have problems of their own which are just as big and just as important as those they attach to us who live in the South.

It ill behooves one to fight our Southern system who himself is guilty of the very acts of discrimination on which he finds grounds for denouncing us. We in the South have made mistakes. We have done many wrongs. But we admit them. We can also point out the very sins existing in the places and among the very people who "grieve" so much for our down-trodden humanity.

If we could possibly realize a period of being left alone and could possibly realize a measure of understanding on the part of our neighbors, we'd work out our destiny in a manner which would surprise the world. Southerners are stubborn by nature. Until we get some understanding and until we can be left alone for awhile, very likely whatever gains are realized legally will continue to be losses morally.

The Novel, Rediscovered

My Fair Gwen and I have rediscovered novels.

We joined a book-of-the-month club sometime ago, not so much with the idea of extending our light reading but, rather, to acquire a trio of bonus books offered by the club. Since then we have added a pair of novels to our modest library—and enjoyed the process.

Until we joined the club our book reading had been largely confined to non-fiction. There was a time, when I was in the Army and we waiting for We Urchin to come, that we had both read a couple of novels a week. That spell ended, however, after we discovered that fusing over a baby little time for novels.

That spell ended, however, after we discovered that fusing over a baby little time for novels.

We have found, however, that novel-reading can have its pitfalls. The two we have now are the kind that are hard to put down when you start reading. It isn't so much that the plots are so fascinating but that interrupted sessions with the books makes them a bit difficult to follow.

The nicest discovery we have made, however, is that it's really very easy to ignore the television set. And whether or not we want to admit it, that one-eyed monster can disrupt an entire life if permitted to do so.

A person might wonder, though, just how much of a victory has been scored when you pick books over television. Prior to our present "literary spell" we stayed up until about 10:30 each evening watching TV. Last night I sat up until about 2 a.m. finishing one of the novels.

Seymour Johnson Air Force Base at Goldsboro will be rededicated tomorrow. An all-day program has been planned by the Air Force to make the rededication a proper and memorable occasion.

Included in the plans is a demonstration of precision flying by the Air Force's supersonic acrobatic team. That one event is worth a trip to Goldsboro by persons even remotely interested in flying.

The four-man team of experts flies new F-100C "Super Sabres". The pilots will demonstrate loops, rolls, vertical "U" turns, corkscrew rolls and other maneuvers in a close-knit diamond formation. During the demonstration, the four planes are only about five feet apart, no mean accomplishment when you consider that the planes hit speeds of 750 miles-per-hour during some of the maneuvers.

I saw the four-man team perform in 1953 at Eglin Air Force Base during an Air Force fire-power demonstration. The whole affair was remarkable but the precision flying was absolutely amazing.

It might be a good idea, too, for Pitt County citizens to make the trip to Goldsboro to see where and how Air Force money is being spent. The base is still under construction and when it is completed it's supposed to be the most modern air base in the world. There will be enough planes and men at the base when it is placed in full operation to make a decided effect on all of Eastern North Carolina.

Buster Has No Bruises

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "I have no sore spots," said Buster Keaton, who spent his rainy day money while the sun was still shining.

The deadpan comedian went up like a rocket, then down like an anchor into the waters of oblivion, where the solitary has been swim all alone with their dim memories.

But at 61 Buster has bobbed to the surface. He's chipper and back in the chips. He bought a ranch home in San Fernando Valley with $50,000 Paramount Pictures gave him for the rights to "The Buster Keaton Story," and television magnates are waving lettuce at him again.

Keaton, who was given the nickname "Buster" at the age of 6 months by Harry Houdini, was born offstage during a one-night stand made by his vaudeville parents in Piqua, Kan. He was a top performer in 1917 when he gave up a $350-a-week contract with the Shuberts to accept Fatty Arbuckle's invitation to work with him in Hollywood.

"I didn't even bother to ask what the salary was," said Keaton, a short stocky man eager to jump over any "run around." "I wasn't until payday I found out it was $40 a week."

"But I didn't mind. It was fun. The fun didn't go out of it until making movies became an expensive business."

Keaton loves to recall the free-wheeling era when he, Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd were the comedy kings of their generation.

"My salary went from $1,000 a week to $3,500 a week," he said. "In time I had my own studio, and I built a $350,000 house in Beverly Hills. We used to have weekend poker parties where a man would win or lose $50,000 in an evening and either way didn't worry. He could always make another picture."

After his plummet from fame, Keaton became a writer, and outlined comedy routines for Red Skelton and other comedians of a newer day. Then came the years when they were more memories than money, and friendly handouts were all he had to go on.

A year and a half ago Keaton lay in a hospital, near death from a ruptured throat vein, when he received the offer for his life story.

"Four days later I was out doing prat falls on a TV show," he said, his features relaxing into a rare smile.

Here's how he rates the top entertainers he has known in his lifetime:

"I have my old pets. Danny Kaye is perhaps the best all-around comedian alive today. But the guy I laughed at most was the original Joe Jackson, the tramp bicyclist."

"The greatest all-around song-and-dance man was George M. Cohan, and the greatest all-around performer was Fred Stone."

"Women? Lucille Ball is the funniest girl in the business today, but the No. 1 light comedienne of all time was Marie Dressler. No one could touch her."

The Pavement Plato observes: It is possible to admire anyone who prides himself that he never asks a favor; what's impossible is to like him.

No man who hates himself can find lasting satisfaction in all the world outside him.

I don't mind young people who don't know who Mary Pickford is. The ones who really make me feel old are those who ask, "Who was Shirley Temple?"

Loose teeth worry more people than loose morals.

The tenet problem of all the extra leisure we now enjoy is how to find a way to relax.

... and from the mails we learn: That the Thousand Islands group in the St. Lawrence River doesn't have 1,000 islands. It has 1,700 islands, according to the National Geographic Society.

Egypt and in the Hungarian uprising. HYSTERICAL FEAR OF SPAIN. RECALLED FEAR OF SPAIN. Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman, has personal reasons for backing Senator Ellender's demand. As one of two Members of Congress who served in the Spanish-American War, he recalls this country's hysterical fear of Spain's might at a time when the erstwhile ruler of the Spanish Main was only a hollow, rotting shell in every way.

Russia's behavior, as recently noted here, lends support to doubt of her power. Despite her brutal reprisals in Hungary and her series of threats to European and Middle East members of NATO, the Kremlin has whined and scolded instead of taking military action. Moscow obviously dreads the thought of present or prospective atomic encirclement. And, despite official denials, that is the current and long-range strategy at Washington.

SILENCE

It was a blessing to the followers of Jesus that on the day following the crucifixion they could stay quietly in their homes. It was the Jewish Sabbath. They could not go to their shops and fields, and a blessing it was indeed that they could not. In the quiet of their homes, they could think and weep.

So this was the end of it all. "We hoped that it was he who should redeem Israel," confessed one of the strangers whom the risen Christ met on the road to Emmaus. They had dreamed of a great kingdom and twelve thrones for the twelve disciples, and a glory that was above anything the world had ever seen. There was one consolation. Joseph of Arimathea and Nicodemus had gone to Pilate and pleaded that the body of Jesus be not cast out on a rubbish heap but given to them instead; and they had buried Him in a new tomb before sunset Friday evening.

There is something very terrible about the silence of the day which followed the crucifixion. Looking back at it now, we can see that that it was a silence during which God appeared to be restraining His wrath. But He was restraining it not preparatory to destroying those who had destroyed His Son, but preparatory to the showing forth of a glory which humanity had never seen before.

This glory was the glory of the resurrection. In the short space of thirty-six hours, hopeless despair among the disciples was transformed into delicious joy. THE LORD WAS RISEN IN DEED.

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A complete review of contradictory intelligence reports on Russia's military strength will be conducted by the Senate Appropriations Committee before it acts on the Administration's request for $444 billion, for national defense and foreign aid. Many specialists believe that it has been vastly overrated by Pentagon experts and Allen W. Dulles' overseas agents.

Pointing out that this field offers the most likely for budget and tax cuts, Senator Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana is responsible for the checkup, which will be the first of its kind since World War II. Based on information gathered on his trips throughout Russia in the last two years, Ellender told the committee at a recent secret session:

"I believe that we are getting bum intelligence information! I think that the whole question should be looked into before we proceed to expand as we are and to spend as we are!"

PERTINENT REMARKS A great deal of the Louisiana Senator's testimony was so pertinent, and so different from official data, that it was eliminated from the published reports of the hearings as "classified." But Dr. James Doolittle, Chairman of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, appears to share Ellender's views. He says:

"We would like to have more accurate information. But I would not write off the information which we have as wholly inaccurate."

In addition to data which he picked up inside Russia, and the satellite states, Ellender has talked with Communist defectors including former officers in the Soviet Army and Air Force. They will be questioned by the full committee, as will Charles E. Bohlen, who has just returned from Moscow after serving as U.S. Ambassador there for four years.

DISTURBING CONTRASTING EVIDENCE Many other Members of Congress are disturbed by contrasting evidence on the question of Russia's military might, especially as erroneous estimates have had a far-reaching and sometimes unfortunate effect on the Western Allies' foreign policies, especially the United States. Many believe that it has contributed to unjustified timidity in battling the Great Bear.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson himself has conceded his own errors in this respect. He has downgraded previous estimates of Russian strength insofar as production of big bombers, fast pursuit planes and atomic weapons are concerned. His recent order cutting output of B-52's from 20 to 15 a month resulted from discovery of his mistakes.

Moreover, there is a growing belief that Allen Dulles' Central Information Agency has not lived up to the promises and hopes held out when this country's spying agencies were unified under his control. It is felt that they were outwitted in the attack on Indo-China by Ho Chi Minh's Reds, in the invasion of Egypt and in the Hungarian uprising.

Final Tips On 'As You Like It'

Dr. Joseph A. Withey of East Carolina College, director, gives some final "how to's" to members of the cast and production staff of Shakespeare's "O s You Like It," which will open tonight at 8 p.m. in the Flanagan Sylvan Theater at the college. Lending an ear are Dr. George Cook of the college English department, the Touchstone of the comedy, and Joyce Ann Whittle of Warsaw, East Carolina student who acts as prompter. Final performance will be Friday at the same time and place. The play will be presented in two performances by East Carolina College and organization in the city of Greenville as an attraction of the Greenville Fine Arts Festival, now in progress, and of East Carolina's Golden Anniversary Programs, marking the fiftieth year since the founding of the college in 1907.

Reassure Canada That Deal Won't Hurt Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials negotiating an aid agreement with Poland are trying also to reassure Canada that the deal won't cut into Canadian wheat sales. Officials said today they are hopeful they can sign an agreement by mid-May with Polish negotiators who have been in Washington since February. The Poles came in response to the Eisenhower administration's invitation. The administration offered to lend economic aid to any country, such as Poland, which had managed to ease the yoke of Moscow domination. The United States has offered to provide 105 million dollars in U.S. aid, officials said. This would include 30 million dollars in loans for such things as mining machinery and farm implements from President Eisenhower's special contingency fund, and 75 million ernment, such as for the embassy. The conclusion of the Polish aid talks in mid-May depends partially on the passage of new surplus farm legislation by Congress providing another billion dollars. Expectations are that it will be passed quickly.

Facing Possible Advancement In Draft Category

Thirteen Pitt County residents presently classified in 3-A due to dependents will be reclassified in 1-A unless the Pitt Selective Service Board is notified in the next few days, it was learned this morning.

Those delinquent in providing needed data to the Board are: Robert Anderson, Dail Lee, Davis, Alton Ray Heath, Ellis Hunter, Jr., Ulysses Jones, Navid Winfield Jordan, Lester Daniel Latta, Luther Green Nichols, Wesley Smith, Willie C. Spell, Roosevelt Wilkes, Claude Collins Williams and Harold Lee Williams.

Mrs. Selma Rogers, Board Clerk, states that the local Selective Service Board has been unsuccessful in its attempts to locate these men. "Unless they contact us within the next few days, they will be reclassified in 1-A and ordered for immediate induction as delinquents", Mrs. Rogers stated.

The Pitt Selective Service Board declared Roosevelt Joseph and James Dixon as delinquents at a meeting Monday night. These two men will be ordered for immediate induction due to their failure to report for pre-induction examinations recently.

It has been requested that anyone knowing the whereabouts of these men contact the local Draft Board or have the delinquent report in for the necessary current information as soon as possible.

In 1956, there were 1,280 persons killed in U.S. train-car crashes.

Present Portrait

A portrait of the late A. C. Tadlock was presented to officers and directors of First Federal Savings and Loan Association Tuesday night. Mrs. Tadlock and Clarence Tugwell (right) presented the portrait for members of the family. Judge Dink James (left), president of the association, accepted it on behalf of association officers and directors. The portrait will be placed in First Federal's new building. It was painted by Mrs. T. Y. Walker of Greenville. (Reflector Staff Photo).

PTA Opens Drive For New Building

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — The North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers last night officially launched its fund drive to build a $100,000 headquarters in Raleigh.

Mrs. E. N. Howell of Swannanoa, chairman of the headquarters committee, planned to ask the PTA member in the state to give 10 cents a year for three years to go to the building fund.

The three-day convention, attended by 400 to 500 delegates, opened here Tuesday night. During a session last night the convention presented a portrait of her to Mrs. J. W. Burke of Gibsonville, who has served as executive secretary of the PTA congress for 20 years.

She plans to retire from the post when the permanent headquarters is constructed at Raleigh. For the term of her service, Mrs. Burke and her husband provided free office space and utilities for the state headquarters, located over Burke's Department Store in Gibsonville.

Mrs. Burke's grandson, 13-year-old William Fraley, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Fraley of Greensboro, unveiled the portrait.

During a routine panel discussion yesterday the full convention went on record "unanimously supporting" a teacher pay increase of 19.31 per cent.

The resolution adopted by the convention yesterday declared that a 19.31 per cent raise is the "minimum increase in compensation consistent with the objective of and obtaining and retaining good teachers for children and youth of North Carolina."

Mrs. John W. Crawford of Raleigh, president of the congress, sent telegrams about the convention's action to Gov. Hodges, Lt. Gov. Luther Barnhardt, House Speaker J. K. Doughton, Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman J. C. Eagles Jr., and House Appropriations Committee Chairman Carl Venters.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

The impact of IPEX (International Photographic Exposition), recently held in Washington, D. C., will be felt in all levels of the photo world for a long time to come. Some new items, ready in advance, were timed at the same time that they were announced and unveiled at the show. Others were advanced designs or hand-tooled models that will take months before they become available.

Like all expositions or fairs, it's interesting to browse around with eyes and ears open. You run into old friends, unusual items and miscellaneous bits of information. For instance, during a discussion of the newest fast black-and-white film which can push to astronomical speed ratings, we came to this conclusion: "You can shoot by available darkness."

I stopped more than once to watch and enjoy Jack Malon as he demonstrated the magic of color printing by using brightly tinted silks. Formerly a magician and lecturer, Jack is now an executive with Technicolor-Paville in the color division. Today, with negative-type color films and type C printing, they can do tricks with color prints and still keep within the budget of average camera fans.

And speaking of what the average camera can afford he'd better not order a Loetric Enlarger yet. Oh, it's a wonderful machine all right. It has an electronic beam which scans every portion of a negative and automatically dodges and burns in to assure perfect exposure control for a perfect print. The price for this photographic automation: $10,000. They may be cheaper by the dozen.

Not too far from the most expensive enlarger I ever saw, was an ingenious easel for printing enlargements without borders. The adjustable wedge-shaped bars which hold the paper slope up permitting the light from the enlarger to reach to the very edge. Called the Saunders Bord-R-Lee Easel, it has a yellow base for easy direct focusing instead of using an extra sheet of paper and has a non-skid rubber bottom.

In a corner, I came across a possible solution to the problem of how to display and live with your color transparencies. It's the Idealite illuminator, a decorative, two-inch-thin picture frame by which you can view, sort, retouch or display transparencies from 35 mm up to 10 X 10 inches. Masks can be had which make attractive display layouts of the smaller transparencies to fill the entire area. A special 8-watt fluorescent lamp of correct color quality provides the light source in the base. This is bounced and reflected in the shallow interior to provide even illumination throughout the plexiglass viewing surface without heat. It can be stood up as a desk easel, hung on a wall or can be adapted as a portable, illuminated drawing board for tracing or negative retouching.

As a stereo fan, I was intrigued with a new type of hand viewer which had a magazine holding 10 stereo slides for continuous viewing. New magazines, each holding 10 more slides, could be exchanged at any time. The Arrow viewer can be battery operated or converted to AC current with a rheostat control.

A new magazine devoted exclusively to 35mm photography made its debut at the show. A quarterly, Camera 35 traces its lineage through printers' ink blood lines to U.S. Camera publishers and focus another spotlight on the growing importance of the miniature camera in world photography.

Helen Hayes In First Western

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—You have Helen Hayes' own word for it that you never will see her in one of those television dramas in which the characters "not only are carzy—but unpleasantly so."

You can, however, see her tonight in her first drama with a Western setting when Playhouse 90 (CBS-TV) presents "Four Women in Black." It is a story of four Catholic nuns who brave numerous dangers to cross the desert from San Diego to Tucson in 1870 and found a hospital.

Miss Hayes, somewhat sunburned from her sojourn on location outside Tucson, is enthusiastic about tonight's drama. She is in constant demand for TV dramatic appearances, but she appears infrequently on the medium. "I never in my life have chosen a vehicle for me to show off," she said. "It's the script that counts. You never can look good in a bad script."

Miss Hayes watches television a great deal, she says, but recently she has grown restive in viewing a number of dramas "with so many characters who not only are crazy—but unpleasantly so."

She will appear in another TV drama in June and then, she says, "I think I'd better stop fiddling around and try a play." She is considering a play on which her late husband Charles MacArthur was working at the time of his death. Tentatively entitled "Mildred Penrose," it is based on Ludwig Bemelman's book "The One I Love the Best."

Sid Caesar will make his last regular weekly television appearance of the season on NBC-TV May 25. It's probable that he will appear rarely on the home screen next season.

The reason is a simple economic fact about the medium of commercial television: it has been impossible thus far to arouse any sponsor interest in his program—and there's little hope that the situation will change. The high echelons of NBC do not want to see him give up his weekly show. But they can't afford to carry Caesar's program on a sustaining basis. It is one of the most expensive on the air, costing from $10,000 to $120,000 a week. Caesar personally has a long-term contract with the network which assures him a regular income whether or not he works. But he likes to work and wants to keep up the weekly pace. Given the economic facts, however, some feel that he is perhaps suffering from overexposure on the home screen.

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fresh information which Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) said may help show who was lying was sent to the Justice Department today along with conflicting testimony of a prostitute and a deputy sheriff.

McClellan declined to give any details of the additional information, except to say it went beyond that heard publicly by the special Senate committee he is directing in a probe of improper labor-management activities.

He concluded a one-day hearing yesterday with the comment that "I'm getting a little tired of this committee being imposed on by liars." He asked "appropriate action" by the Justice Department, and said this could be a perjury indictment.

Yesterday's session was a postscript to earlier public hearings on vice and corruption in Portland, Ore., and involved the credibility of the committee's key witness in the probe, Portland racketeer James B. (Big Jim) Elkins.

Mrs. Kathleen Lucille Cooper Weeks, 25, an admitted prostitute, testified she had sworn falsely in an affidavit that Elkins was mixed up in narcotics and prostitution in Portland.

She said she did so because of threats by Deputy Sheriff George Mimielly that she would be sent to jail if she refused. She said Mimielly suggested the answers she put in the affidavit.

Mimielly then swore that this turnabout in her testimony was "the greatest hoax ever pushed onto the American public." He alleged that she changed her story under a threat from Oregon's Asst. Atty. Gen. Arthur Kaplan that she might be prosecuted for perjury. Mimielly denounced Kaplan as "a mental case."

He denied her allegations and those of Mrs. Mary Childress that he had threatened them if they refused to sign an affidavit falsely accusing Elkins. The affidavit, he said, was "their own" and no product of coaching by him.

Mrs. Childress said she had been arrested on prostitution charges "only once," in 1933.

McClellan viewed the conflict as important because Elkins has sworn that although he was involved in gambling and many other rackets, he never profited from prostitution. The committee said it has found no evidence he is a drug addict, as alleged in Mrs. Weeks' now-repudiated affidavit.

The committee, meanwhile, disclosed it is "approaching readiness" for public hearings on labor relations in Philadelphia. McClellan declined to say whether the hearings would come ahead of some of the committee plans on union affairs in New York City.

He said the Philadelphia inquiry would involve "five or six" unions including the Teamsters, and charges of labor-management collusion, misuse of union funds and violence. He did not name the other unions.

A committee member, Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.), filed a brief with the committee urging an investigation of what he called "800 acts of violence" in the never-settled United Auto Workers strike against the Kohler Co. of Kohler, Wis. He said the committee also should investigate UAW expenditures he said totaled "some 12 million dollars" to support the strike.

France has a monument erected to the memory of Cpl. James B. Gresham, of Calhoun, Ky., and the first American soldier to be killed "facing the enemy" in World War I.

Attending Conference Of ACE In California

Patricia Everton of Columbia, N. C., is representing the Association for Childhood Education of East Carolina College this week in Los Angeles, California, where she is attending the 1957 Study Conference of ACE International. A senior at the college here, she is president of the campus branch of the organization.

The theme of the conference is "That All Children May Learn." Included on the program are study groups, lectures on various phases of childhood education, visits to centers in the Los Angeles area to see children at work, and a series of exhibitions of interest to teachers and prospective teachers.

Everton is participating in the study group on "Interpreting the School Program to the Public." Miss Everton is specializing in teacher-training work at East Carolina. After her graduation she will teach during the 1957-1958 term in the primary grades of the Raleigh city schools.

In addition to her work as preident of the college ACE, Miss Everton has served as historian of the campus Student Government Association, representative of East Carolina at the 1956 Azalea Festival in Wilmington, and member of the College Choir. She has been chosen as Queen of campus May Day festivities for this year.

Graham Replies: 'Simple Gospel'

NEW YORK (AP)—A priest's admonition that Roman Catholics should not attend evangelist Billy Graham's forthcoming New York crusade has led to a statement by Graham's office here that his sermons will be "the simple gospel message as found in the Bible."

The statement yesterday was authorized by Graham at his Montreal, N. C., home where he is preparing for the six-week New York crusade starting May 15.

The Graham office statement said the evangelist's message here will be "the same message that he has always preached," and added:

"It is the message which has characterized Orthodox Christianity through the ages. The doors of the crusade will be open to all who wish to attend."

The new statement to Roman Catholics not to attend the crusade or listen to Graham's broadcasts was made by the Rev. John E. Kelly, director of the Bureau of Information of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, Washington, D. C.

The priest, writing in the current issue of Homiletic and Pastoral Review, said Graham is "a danger to the faith" for Catholics who listen to him.

Twelve Versions Of Sumac Brawl

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—The district attorney's office has made a discreet withdrawal from the affairs of Yma Sumac and her estranged husband after listening to approximately 12 versions of Tuesday's brawl between the Peruvian pair and assorted associates.

"I will issue no complaint—that's definite," said Deputy Dist. Atty. Allan H. McCurdy yesterday. "Both sides tell completely opposite stories."

The hair-pulling, face-slapping spree was touched off when Miss Sumac, accompanied by three private detectives, called on her husband, Moises Vivanco, to collect some of her belongings.

New Generation Is Carrying On

SWARTHMORE, Pa. (AP)—The show will go on tonight, thanks to an assist by one member of the theater's second generation to another.

Theodore Holm Nelson, son of actress Celeste Holm and television director Ralph Nelson, and a sophomore at Swarthmore College, was directing his play "Getting Colder" for the annual one-act play contest.

Nelson came down with appendicitis yesterday and wound up in the hospital. In stepped Judy Kazan, daughter of actor-director Elia Kazan, and also a Swarthmore student. She took over for Nelson for her first theatrical endeavor.

Miss Holm, in a telegram to her son at the hospital where he is recovering, said "Sorry I wasn't there for your opening."

Starting Course On Retirement

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A Philadelphia labor group tonight begins a course for its members on how to retire.

The Philadelphia Joint Board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers is hopeful it can help its members nearing retirement age to meet the problems—and find the pleasures—at the end of their working days.

A series of four lectures will be given at the club set up by the union and area clothing industry managements for retired workers.

Pirates Trounce Atlantic Christian By 12-4 Score

Bucs Advance To North State Top

East Carolina moved into the lead in the North State Conference baseball race by soundly trouncing the Bulldogs of Atlantic Christian College, 12-4, in Wilson yesterday afternoon.

The victory was the seventh of the season for the Pirates against two losses and advanced them into a half-game lead over the Catawba Indians for first place in the conference. Going into yesterday's game, both clubs were tied for top spot with identical 6-2 records.

Atlantic Christian jumped into an early lead, scoring two runs in the first inning on a home run by centerfielder Sutton. Craft, leadoff batter, who alternated at third base and shortstop, was on base at the time as a result of an error by third baseman Bucky Reep.

After being held scoreless through the first inning, the Pirates jumped on ACC pitchers Norville and Fulghum for six big runs in the second frame on five hits, two walks, a fielder's choice, a sacrifice and two errors.

First baseman Dean Robbins opened the inning by getting on via an error by ACC's shortstop Davis. Tommy Nance, Jerry Stewart, Gene Bowen and Harlan McPherson followed with singles. Treon, who opened the contest with a double, and Joel Long were given free passes. Reep fled out to left field with a run scoring and Berny Stevens singled.

Robbins forced a runner and Nance ended the wild inning by flying out to centerfield.

The Pirates lost little time adding three more runs in the third inning to virtually wrap up the contest. Stewart was issued a walk to open the frame and Bowen was safe on an error. After the pitcher was retired, Treon got on base on a fielder's choice. Successive singles by Long and Reep did the damage before Stevens fled out to end the scoring.

In the top of the fifth East Carolina ran the score to 11-2 on a single by Treon, a triple by Long, a walk and a fielder's choice.

The losers were able to score two runs in the bottom of the sixth on four straight singles by Sutton, Daley, Whaley and Williams and two fielder's choices.

A single run was scored by the Bucs in the eighth inning to close out the scoring for the day. ECC starter Harlan McPherson received credit for the victory. Norville was the loser for Atlantic Christian.

Gary Treon, the Pirate second baseman, was the game's leading batter, going three for five. He was followed by Joel Long, Tommy Nance and Gene Bowen, each collecting two hits apiece. Leading the ACC batters were Sutton and Hollowell with two safeties each. ECC 063 020 010-12 13 2 ACC 200 002 000-4 9 7

Play New Bern

Greenville's High School baseball team currently in second place in the Northeastern Conference with a record of 4-2 will meet New Bern here tomorrow afternoon at the new Brookgreen Field at 3:30 p.m.

Coach Boley Farley stated this morning that he expects to start either Hudson Miller or Merrill Bynum. Both are righthanders. The Phantoms have defeated New Bern, Washington, Elizabeth City and Jacksonville. Roanoke Rapids and Kinston hold victories over the locals.

Kinston's Red Devils are now in first place in the conference as a result of 7-6 win over the Phantoms Tuesday afternoon.

Tebbets' Redlegs Take 3 In Row -- Now He Can Smile

By ED WILKS The Associated Press You have to figure Birdie Tebbets finally got around to smiling at himself in the mirror when he shaved this morning.

It's been a tough first week of the season for the chubby Cincinnati manager what with his Redlegs, loaded with pennant potential and power, losing their first four games; Ted Kluszewski benched with a bad back; Frank Robinson coming up with a new sore arm; Johnny Temple giving in to a sore throat; and his pinch hitters delivering only three times in 15 at bats.

But things looked great today. The Redlegs have won three in a row.

They got their third last night, piling up seven runs in the fifth inning with one hit and nine walks for a 9-5 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

The nine walks set a National League record, finally disposing of a 47-year-old lapse by the Redlegs themselves. They set the old mark by granting St. Louis eight walks in one inning back in 1910.

The victory left Cincinnati three games back of the co-leaders — Milwaukee and Brooklyn. The Braves kept the pace with a four-home run job that beat the St. Louis Cardinals 8-7 and the Dodgers made the most of five hits to beat the New York Giants 4-3.

Philadelphia also grabbed a seven-run inning while defeating Pittsburgh 8-5 in the other NL game.

In the American, the New York Yankees beat Baltimore 3-2; Kansas City belted Cleveland with five home runs for a 17-6 breeze; and Boston nudged Washington 4-3 in 10 innings.

The Redlegs took their record walks from loser Moe Drabowski, Jackie Collum and Jim Brosnan to overhaul a 2-1 lead. Bob Thurman, subbing for Robinson, homered but it was the Cubs who showed the power with three homers.

Del Crandall put the Braves over the hump with his solo home run in the ninth off losing reliever Willard Schmidt. Milwaukee twice had scrambled from behind, scoring every run on homers — Joe Adcock's second of the year and three-run smacks by Eddie Matthews and Hank Aaron. Del Ennis helped build the early Card lead off Ray Crone with a two-run homer, but Herm Wehr's error couldn't hold it.

The Dodgers had all sorts of troubles with the Giants, but piled up three hits, a walk, sacrifice fly, error and passed ball to score all four runs in the fourth and chase rookie Curt Barclay to his second defeat.

Rookie Bob Bowman hit a two-run homer and rookie Ed Bouchee added a three-run triple in the Phillies' big sixth that beat Bob Friend, who had given just two hits for the first five frames.

Mickey Mantle's second home run of the year did the job in the eighth for reliever Bob Grim of the Yanks after Art Ditmar, in his first start as a Yankee, failed to hold on to the 2-0 lead Yogi Berra's homer supplied in the first inning.

Hector Lopez walloped a pair of home runs and drove in six runs for the A's, who got rid of Bob Lemon early in winning their third in a row.

Ted Williams' third home run of the season gave the Red Sox a 3-1 tie in the eighth, and a single by Jackie Jensen, following Billy Klaus' double, bagged it in the 10th.

Chico Caught Between First And Second

Shortstop Don Zimmer (left) of the Brooklyn Dodgers throws the ball (arrow) to catcher Roy Campanella to make the tag on Chico Fernandez of the Philadelphia Phillies in game at Jersey City, N. J. Chico dropped a single in front of Dodger right fielder Carl Furillo in the third inning. Furillo's quick throw to Campanella, covering first base, trapped Fernandez off base between first and second. In the subsequent rundown, Campanella tagged Chico out. The umpire is Shag Crawford. Brooklyn won 5-1. (AP Wirephoto).

Tourney Hinted Replay Of 1956

PINEHURST, N.C. — A replay of last year's North and South Amateur golf tournament finals was in the making as the eight survivors of yesterday's two rounds moved into quarterfinals today.

Defending champion Hillman Robbins, Air Force lieutenant from Memphis, Tenn., was top man in the upper bracket and the 1956 runnerup, Bill Hyndman of Abington, Pa., was shaping up as the sharpest golfer in the lower half.

Robbins teed off against Don Bispingshoff, 1955 champion from Winter Park, Fla., and Don Weiland of Phoenixville, Pa., met Dr. Eud Taylor of Pomona, Calif., in upper half tests.

In the lower half, Hyndman met a rugged customer in Arnold Blum, Southern Amateur champanion from Macon, Ga., and Lawrence Cook, the Wrightsville Beach, N.C., policeman with the cross-hand grip, engaged two-time champion Bill Campbell of Huntington, W.Va.

Last year Robbins took a 1-up, 36-hole struggle from Campbell for the title.

But Taylor and Blum, each playing his first North and South, could scramble the picture today and tomorrow and set up a different finals pairing this go-around.

Robbins was a sharp two-under par in his 5 and 4 afternoon victory over Ed Tutwiler of Charleston, W.Va., yesterday.

Hyndman, six under par in three matches over a sun-baked No. 2 Country Club course, breezed by formidable Jack Penrose of Miami, Fla., 3 and 2, in his third round test.

Taylor, after losing a three-hole lead with five to play, although he was one under par, outsteaded Billy Joe Patton of Morgantown, N.C., to gain a 20-hole afternoon decision. Morning tests saw Taylor scramble to a 1-up victory over Art Ruffin of Wilson, N.C., and Patton clip Dave Smith of Gastonia, N.C., 5 and 4.

Bispingshoff curled home a 25-footer for a winning par four to beat Dale Morey of Indianapolis on the 20th hole in the afternoon after Bispingshoff had won from Cobby Ware of Augusta, Ga., 3 and 2, in the morning.

Blum was two under par in his third round 5 and 4 victory over P. J. Boatwright of Pinehurst. Cook was one over as he stopped Howard Everett of Northfield, N.J., 3 and 2; Campbell was one over in his 3 and 2 conquest of Jack Penrose of Miami, Fla., and Weiland was five over as he won 1-up, from Jake Howard of Augusta, Ga., semifinalist last year.

Texans Bent On Penn Relay Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Texas University Longhorns, bent on winning three relay titles at Friday and Saturday's Penn Relays, are in town a day early to warm up.

The Texans last invaded Franklin Field 21 years ago and established a Carnival record in the quarter-mile relay which was the Texans' quartet plans to lower. The 449 Carnival record of 0:41.1 is the oldest mark on the Penn Relays' books.

Coach Clyde Littlefield, who is referee of this 63rd annual Penn Track and Field Show, will send teams after the 440, 880 and mile relay crowns, and to say he has a chance of winning all three is no exaggeration.

Wally Wilson, Ed Southern, Hollis Gaaney and Bobby Whilden will carry the baton for the Longhorns in both the quarter and half events in which this foursome already has lowered the existing world records. At the Kansas Relays last week, the quartet was clocked in 0:39.9 for the quarter and in the recent Texas Relays ran the half in 1:22.7.

The Texans appear safe in the 440 and 880, but the mile should be a humdinger as the Long Star State runners clash with Villanova University's defending champions. Texas has recorded a 3:12.8 this year and will be shot-out at Villanova's 1956 Carnival record of 3:11.9.

Kell Approaches 2,000-Hit Goal

NEW YORK (AP)—Day by day George Kell climbs steadily toward his lifetime goal of 2,000 hits in a brilliant American League career. At the latest count he was 28 hits short.

"It will mean a lot to me," said the veteran Baltimore infielder, who alternates between first base and his old third base job this spring. "Last winter I thought about retiring to the farm (in Swifton, Ark.) but I decided to give it one more whirl at least to get those 2,000 hits. They tell me I'll be the 100th player to do it, if I get that far."

Although Kell at 33 hasn't long to go in the majors, he is a cinch to hit the 2,000-mark within a month. Three yesterday brought his total to 1,972.

Manager Paul Richards had Kell back on third yesterday, playing Bob Boyd at first against a right-handed pitcher. However, he has played first a great deal to give Richards a good look at Brooks Robinson, his rookie third baseman.

Coach Resigns At Appalachian

BOONE, N.C. (AP)—Basketball Coach Francis Hoover, whose Appalachian teams won conference championships in 1948 and 1950, has resigned.

The college, announcing the resignation yesterday, said Hoover would remain at the school as an instructor in health, physical education and recreation.

Hoover's successor was not announced.

Citadel Tennis Squad Edges East Carolinians

CHARLESTON, S.C.—A scrappy Citadel tennis team edged the East Carolina's netters yesterday afternoon at Charleston, 5-4, in a return match, to snap a Pirate 5-game winning streak.

The defeat was the second of the season to the Citadel by identical 5-4 scores. Despite the loss of the last match of the 2,000-mile road trip that took the Pirates to Florida, the jaunt was the second successful one of the year. The ECC netters defeated the College of Charleston, 7-2, Stetson, 9-0 and Jacksonville Naval Air Station, 8-2, to run their winning streak to five matches going into yesterday battle with the strong Southern Conference net team.

Coach Ray Martinez stated this morning, "I am proud of the boys and the way they played on the long and tiring trip. It is certainly a tribute to the team that they won three of the four matches played."

"The Citadel team is one of the scrappiest squads we have encountered this season," the ECC net coach added.

The overall record for the season now stands at 9-3. ECC is undefeated in North State Conference play.

In losing their first match in six, the Bucs lost three singles and two of the three doubles. Another streak was broken in the loss. Billy Hollowell, a freshman from Kinston, suffered his first loss since the season's opener against Kalamazoo. He had won 10 straight.

Pirates who won were: in singles, Maurice Everette, John West and John Savage. In doubles, the Bucs were able to take only one victory by Everette and Hollowell. The dual are now undefeated in 10 matches since they began playing as a team.

In the feature match of the day, Maurice Everette edged past the Citadel's number one man, Jack Sterling, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4.

Wake Forest will meet the Pirate netters on the college courts Saturday morning at 10 a.m. in a return match. Earlier in season, East Carolina trounced the Deacons 7-2. The victory was one of their three scored by the Bucs on their first successful road jaunt of the year.

Other victims on the trip were North Carolina State of the Atlantic Coast Conference and Elon of the North State Conference.

Coach Martinez stated that the visitors have an excellent team and should have improved since the early season match.

The ECC tennis team arrived in Greenville last night around 1 a.m. to end one of the longest trips ever taken by an East Carolina College squad.

Summary: Singles: Everette (ECC) defeated Sterling, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4. John West (ECC) defeated John Dickus, 6-1, 6-1. Carl Renken (C) defeated Billy Hollowell, 8-6, 6-4. John Savage (ECC) defeated Sam Anderson, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3. Joe Kennedy (C) defeated James Blake, 6-2, 6-3. Pete Land (C) defeated Jimmie Daughtridge, 1-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Doubles: Sterling and Renken (C) defeated Savage and West, 6-4, 6-4. Everette and Hollowell (ECC) defeated Kennedy and Anderson, 7-5, 6-0. Dickus and Matthews (C) defeated Blake and Daughtridge, 1-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Eisenhower Keeping Close Watch On Crises In Jordan

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower kept a close watch today on the crisis in the Jordan government after moving to bolster young King Hussein's shaky regime against collapse and possible Communist control.

The President, mixing work and vacation at the Augusta National Golf Club, discussed the tense situation by telephone with Secretary of State Dulles yesterday.

Afterwards, they put out a statement saying they regard "the independence and integrity of Jordan as vital" to U.S. interests and world peace.

It was at once a warning against any Communist aggression in Jordan and a seeming invitation to that small Mideast nation to ask for American aid.

On the latter count, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty

Coffee Break Is Put Under Rules

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP)—An American institution of long and cherished standing has been dealt a terrible blow here. Because of public complaints, Safety Director Charles Ruddle has told his six-man street department:

1. No more coffee breaks until they've been on the job at least two hours. 2. If they take any coffee breaks at all, it'll have to be in the city garage.

And to put teeth in his order, Ruddle laid down these penalties: A week's suspension for the first offense; permanent dismissal for the second.

took pains to indicate that the chief aim when Congress recently approved Eisenhower's anti-Communist Middle East resolution could well fit the Jordan situation.

That resolution provides for granting U.S. military and economic aid to any Communist-threatened Mideast nation which asks for it. One section of the resolution, Hagerty volunteered, says:

"The United States regards as vital to the national interest and world peace the preservation of the independence and integrity of the nations of the Middle East."

This was the first time since its approval by Congress a few weeks ago that the administration has cited the Eisenhower Mideast doctrine in such a pointed way in relation to any crisis in that area.

The President's concern obviously was stirred by continuing unrest in Jordan, where two Cabinet ministers reported that Premier Hussein Khalidid's government had resigned. It had been under constant attack since it took over at King Hussein's request eight days ago.

The King blamed his country's troubles on "international communism and its followers" and said the threat would be overcome.

As for whether Jordan actually had made a request for American aid, Hagerty told a news conference late yesterday:

"Not to my knowledge."

He also was asked whether Eisenhower and Dulles had detected signs of Communist activities in connection with the Jordan dispute. Although the Communist threat has been clear all during the crisis, Hagerty's reply was:

"No, I think that would be unfair to say."

He did not elaborate on that and he said repeatedly that he could not amplify the Eisenhower-Dulles statement that they regard the independence and integrity of Jordan as vital.

"I would like to say more but I cannot," he said.

A reporter then asked whether Jordan would get U.S. aid if it makes such a request. Hagerty declined comment.

Gather Today To Dedicate Bridge

MANTEO, N.C. (AP)—Many state notables, including Gov. Hodges and members of the Legislature and Highway Commission, gathered here today for the dedication of the new William B. Umstead Bridge spanning Croatan Sound.

Four air-conditioned buses were used to transport the state's lawmakers here from Raleigh. The group spent last night at Nags Head and came to Manteo this morning for the dedication.

Following the dedication and a luncheon, the legislators were to leave for the return trip to Raleigh. En route they planned to stop at Williamston for rest and refreshments. The House and Senate will hold sessions at 8 o'clock tonight to make up for the time lost during their coastal trip.

Highway Chairman A. H. Graham and the Highway Commission members were scheduled to hold this regular meeting this afternoon in the Dare County courthouse.

The dedication precedes the opening tomorrow of the third annual Dare Coast Pirates' Jamboree. The big three-day event will begin on Hatteras Island, shift to the Dare Beach area Saturday and come to a close on Roanoke Island Sunday.

A surf fishing contest will begin the program at Hatteras. Other events include a Coast Guard lifesaving demonstration, a mammoth fish fry and a carnival and dance.

Saturday's program will feature a pirate battle and landing, a jumping frog contest and close with a ball at which the pirate king and queen will be crowned. Motor boat races will be held Saturday and Sunday.

Religious services are planned Sunday at Fort Raleigh on Roanoke Island.

Postal officials set the box in the middle of the street.

Rae Foley's new mystery novel RUN FOR YOUR LIFE

CHAPTER 5

Hazel Huger came into the living room, announcing her arrival by a loud and tactful clearing of her throat. Stuart waited a trifle stiffly for her to make the first advance. Nora found herself hating the people who had done that to him, robbed him of his trust in his fellows. Then Hazel came forward, beaming, knocking over a vase of flowers, which she paused automatically to pick up. She shook hands warmly with Stuart.

"Do you want a cocktail before dinner?" she asked, after they had exchanged greetings.

"Of course we want cocktails," Finn called from the lobby. "We've got something to celebrate tonight and we are going to do it up brown. Hello, honey, let's take a look at you. My God, you're radiant!" He put his arm around Nora and gave her a hug.

Seeing him like this, it was hard to believe that Finn was a successful trial lawyer. He was too average to be impressive. A little tuft of hair like a cock's comb withstood his efforts to subdue it and gave him an air of eccentricity, of impulse, though Finn always knew exactly what he was doing. What made him invaluable both as a lawyer and as a friend, was his confidence. Finn was not a striver to grasp at, he was a whole sturdy rat.

Now he devoted himself single-mindedly to mixing martinis at the table where Bert Huger had set out bottles, chilled glasses and ice.

"Well, what do you say, boy?" Bert remarked jovially to Stuart. He was the shorter of the two and thick set but better looking than most of the men Nora knew. When he was not sulking he had a pleasant wit.

"Nice to see you again, Bert," Stuart said.

Bert gave a guffaw. "Nice to see anyone who's not in uniform, I bet."

Hazel, who had been supervising the maids, came charging into the living room. "Bert, you've got less tact than anything human! Build up that fire and come do the carving."

Bert's eyes flickered as they always did in response to any order. Then he tossed a log negligently on the fire, winked at Stuart, and stroled out of the room. Almost immediately Olive Riddle came in with the Demings and the tutor. Olive seized Deming's arm. "Now, Charles," she said, "Stuart has been acquitted and I think it is high time we were all friends. After all, you've got to face the fact that if Nora marries him he'll be in the family."

For a moment the two men looked at each other. Then Deming held out his hand. "I seem to have made a bad mistake. You're I am extremely sorry. Shall we let bygones be bygones?"

After a hesitation that seemed endless, Stuart accepted the proffered hand. "Next time," he said coolly, "You'd better be sure that you are right."

After a hesitation that seemed endless, Stuart accepted the proffered hand. "Next time," he said

Frank, looking embarrassed, elbowed his way past his father and held out his hand to Stuart. "Congratulations," he said. "I'm delighted to see you here." He took a cocktail from Finn before Deming could intervene, raised his glass. "To you and Nora."

There was something rather pathetic about the boy's determination to break down the wall of hostility, particularly as he had the guilty but daring look of the person who knows he is transgressing and will be punished for it.

Stuart smiled and touched Nora's arm. "Wake up, Nora. This toast is for us."

"There now," Olive said, "those are the very words I heard you say at the picnic. With my very own ears," she added, as though to clinch the fact that she had heard through the usual channels. "And yet they tried to persuade me I never heard a thing, that you were two miles off, killing that girl."

Aware of the brittle silence she said, "Oh, dear, I suppose I should not have mentioned it. After all, it's over now, and high time."

"But why," Stuart said abruptly, "didn't you tell the police?"

"Well," Olive made a fluttery gesture with her hand that set the bracelets Nora had given her to jingling. "I was perfectly willing to do anything Nora wanted. But Finn wouldn't let me. He said the less talking I did the better. I must say, Finn, you can be intolerably rude at times."

Finn said quickly, "Another cocktail?"

Stuart shook his head. "One is my limit. It has been a long time since I had a drink."

Dinner passed in a blur for Nora. Hazel had put the Demings at a separate table but even so their presence was like a blight. Now and then her eyes wandered to the table where Cousin Charles was holding forth, although neither of the young men was giving him his full attention. Hazel had prudently assigned the pretty waitress to Nora's table but Frank was watching her, trying to catch her eye.

The tutor appeared to be more interested in the conversation at the other table than in his own.

After dinner, Nora abandoned all hope of having a moment alone with Stuart that night. Cousin Charles pushed back his chair and came over to their table.

"Look here, Finn, Nora tells me that the police are re-opening the case, that we've got to hang around here until they are ready to let us go."

"That's right," Finn said calmly.

"Then, as the family lawyer, I think you had better brief us tonight."

"I am Nora's lawyer," said

Five Of Eleven N.C. Cities See Car Theft Cases Drop

WASHINGTON (AP)—Five North Carolina cities reported today fewer automobiles stolen in 1956 than in 1955 although such thefts increased 16 per cent throughout the country.

Knowland Adds Tax Cut Doubts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said today he doubts there will be any tax reduction legislation in this session, even if sharp cuts are made in President Eisenhower's budget.

"It would be more prudent and sound from a fiscal basis to wait until early next year before considering tax reduction," the Republican Senate leader said in an interview.

Some Democrats in Congress, among them Speaker of the House Rayburn (D-Tex.), have been talking about a tax reduction bill this year to take effect next Jan. 1, House Republican Leader Martin (R-Mass.) also has been forecasting a tax cut next year.

Knowland said no one is asking that a tax reduction take effect earlier than next January, and added: "No responsible member of Congress is suggesting that we should reduce taxes in time of deficit that would just up the national debt."

"Personally, I would apply from two to three billion dollars a year on reduction of the national debt before any tax reduction is considered," he said.

"By waiting until next January or later, Knowland said, Congress will have five or six more months to test estimates on government income and spending.

Along that line, he said he wants to look further into Pentagon reports that defense agencies now are spending at a rate of 38 billion dollars this fiscal year, which ends June 30, or some two billions higher than had been estimated.

Pentagon officers said there had been a speedup in production of guided missiles and other new weapons.

On other subjects, Knowland said he expects some sort of civil rights legislation during this session, and there is "about a 50-50 chance" of agreement on a federal aid to education program.

The cities listing less car thefts were Asheville, Durham, High Point, Raleigh and Winston-Salem.

However, six others reported more cars stolen last year. They were Charlotte, Fayetteville, Greensboro, Kannapolis, Rocky Mount and Wilmington.

The 11 cities were included in the annual crime report released by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI).

Here is how they reported other crimes for 1956 (with similar 1955 offenses in brackets):

Asheville: Murder, 6 (5); robbery 14 (20); aggravated assault 59 (64); burglary 197 (142); thefts $50 or more $83 (203); thefts under $50 total $68 (407); auto thefts 105 (135).

Charlotte: Murder 19 (15); robbery 48 (56); aggravated assault 166 (157); burglary 302 (274); thefts $50 or more 209 (214); thefts under $50 total 769 (584); auto thefts 159 (110).

High Point: Murder 2 (3); robbery 2 (5); aggravated assault 63 (37); burglary 106 (122); thefts $50 or more 57 (68); thefts under $50 total 275 (235); auto thefts 51 (31).

Kannapolis: Murder 4 (1); robbery 1 (3); aggravated assault 98 (96); burglary 47 (40); thefts $50 or more 27 (26); thefts under $50 total 180 (100); auto thefts 19 (20).

Raleigh: Murder 2 (11); robbery 23 (12); aggravated assault 349 (324); burglary 286 (251); thefts $50 or more 204 (134); thefts under $50 total 707 (567); auto thefts 126 (99).

Rocky Mount: Murder 1 (1); robbery 3 (4); aggravated assault 96 (68); burglary 136 (167); thefts $50 or more 80 (74); thefts under $50 total 409 (277); auto thefts 40 (47).

Wilmington: Murder 4 (8); robbery 19 (17); aggravated assault 273 (274); burglary 257 (268); thefts $50 or more 146 (133); thefts under $50 total 533 (555); auto thefts 132 (111).

Winston-Salem: Murder 14 (20); robbery 35 (36); aggravated assault 292 (339); burglary 424 (476); thefts $50 or more 181 (166); thefts under $50 total 893 (673); auto thefts 110 (123).

Consumers Feel Squeeze As Cost Of Living Rises

NEW YORK (AP)—With living costs still climbing, a "price-income squeeze" is hitting many consumers today — just as the "price-cost squeeze" troubles many businessmen.

Business is in a level-off period both as to activity and profits. Consumers wonder when the leveling-off trend will extend to the cost of living.

Fortunately it hasn't yet hit total consumer income, which is running above last year — but some segments of income have been hit, notably in loss of overtime pay and in layoffs in some industries.

This is where the squeeze on consumers is occurring. It shows up in such things as slower collections on installment debts and retail charge accounts — and in sluggish sales of appliances and less than hoped for sales of new cars.

The government's cost-of-living index is now around 4 per cent higher than this time last year. Some hopes for a leveling off in the rise are seen in the wholesale commodity prices. With a few notable exceptions most commodities are selling below their peak prices.

There is a cost of production squeeze, however. Steel prices, for example, may go up in July when higher wage scales go into effect. Many finished goods also are tied to advancing wage scales.

But a number of companies are showing in their first-quarter earnings reports, now flooding in, that they have been able to hold costs down by various economies and more efficient plants.

The hope is that if wholesale commodity prices hold steady at the lower level, and if factory costs can be held down, in time the slower price rises along the line from raw materials to finished products will halt too, and retail prices level off.

But in one important segment of the cost of living — services — the climb has been pronounced and shows little signs of slowing. The cost of services — everything from medical care to TV set repairs — depend more on labor costs and increased demand than they do on raw material prices.

'Career Day' To Be Held Tuesday

FARMVILLE — A Career Day Guidance Program, sponsored by the Farmville High School Key Club, has been scheduled for Tuesday.

The program is a sequel to College Day held last fall. It will begin at 8:45 a.m. and end at 11 a.m.

Ten general fields have been set for discussion and students in Farmville High School have already indicated their first three preferences. Students will attend three 45-minute periods, changing topic discussions at the end of each period.

Individual periods have been arranged to include 30 minutes of general discussion by the leader on opportunity, advantages, disadvantages and preparations necessary for a particular career field. The other 15 minutes of each period will be used as a question-and-answer period.

General fields selected for discussion and leaders include Merchandising, T. E. Joyner Jr.; Banking, Levi Walston; Engineering, P. T. Fugate Jr.; Law, Robert D. Rouse Jr. and John B. Lewis; Medicine, Dr. John B. Mewborn; Religion, the Rev. L. C. Vereen; Farming, S. C. Winchester; Law Enforcement, Cpl. C. E. Whitfield; Business, Mrs. Cherry Easley; and Teaching, S. D. Bundy.

NO GROWL PROWL
BAY CITY, Mich. (AP)—Thieves must have been looking for a good watchdog when they broke into the Bay County dog pound. The occupants didn't so much as growl and the prowlers left empty-handed.

DUAL ATTRACTION — Both the camel and Italian screen star Sophia Loren appear to be attracted to one another during a break in the filming of a movie in the Libyan desert.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices slid off a bit early this afternoon as turnover quieted.

A new element of uncertainty was added by the order to the U.S. 6th Fleet to sail to the Eastern Mediterranean as the affairs of Jordan brought a new crisis to the Middle East.

Oils with interests in that part of the world took losses. Key stocks generally showed declines of from fractions to around a point. Activity was stronger in the steels, motors, coppers and oils than in other major divisions.

Lukens Steel, although traded briskly, had given up its wild gyrations of the past two sessions which caused Stock Exchange officials to issue rulings aimed at this fast-stepping stock. Lukens, trading ex-dividend, was up 4 1/2 at one time, but later showed a net loss of a point or so.

Bethlehem Steel and Chrysler continued active as the quarterly earnings and dividend reports on the two companies were anticipated later today. Chrysler added a good fraction to its recent gains but Bethlehem dropped a similar amount on profit-taking.

Gulf Oil, with heavy interests in the Middle East, was off around 2 at one phase but trimmed the loss slightly. Royal Dutch, similarly situated, dropped a fraction. Standard Oil (New Jersey) was down around a point and Getty Oil a fraction.

Texas Gulf Producing, however, added a point to its recent run-up. Amerasia wiped-out a 1-point loss and rose slightly. General Dynamics advanced more than a point.

General Electric was up a fraction following its prediction of higher sales. General Motors was off slightly on n.e.s. of its lower earnings.

Many leading rails were unchanged or a trifle easy. Union Pacific advanced a little. Illinois Central was off about a point.

Anacosta, Kennecott and International Nickel took slight losses. Boeing and Douglas Aircraft were up fractions. Schering dropped around 2 while Rohm & Haas continued rising, tacking on around 10 to its high price. Airlines, building materials and chemicals showed slight losses.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 30 cents to $180.50 with the industrials down 60 cents, the rails down 10 cents and the utilities unchanged.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—Hog prices mostly steady to 25 higher. Tops of 18.75 to 17.50 at Tarboro, Enfield, Bethel and Rocky Mount; 16.75 to 17.25 at Pine Level, Princeton, Blackmans Crossroads, Kinston, New Bern, Benson and Nahant; 16.50 to 17.00 at Siler City, Mount Gilead and Denton; 16.25 to 17.00 at Kenly; 17.00 at Smithfield, Newton Grove, Murfreesboro, Mount Olive, Bailey, Dunn, Clarkton and Whiteville; 16.75 at Rich Square, Fayetteville, Clinton, Lumberton, Shallotte, Mico, Elizabethtown, Wingate, Castie Hayne and Goldsboro.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets: fryers and broilers generally unchanged, farm price mostly 17 with few at 18.

Raleigh eggs steady. A large 32-34; Durham eggs steady following decline 30-33; Asheville eggs steady, A large 30-32; Charlotte eggs steady, A large 32.

of present or past in cooperating with your agency; nor have the taxpayers and farmers of Pitt County been considered. However, the commissioners wish to express to you their desire to cooperate and will alleviate the problem if you will be reasonable and permit them to do so; therefore, it is earnestly requested that the deadline of April 19, 1957 be withdrawn and the commissioners be given a reasonable time to solve the problem.

Godfrey replied on April 17 that "we do not desire to enter into any controversy over this matter since we believe that we have the same interest at heart and that is to provide the best possible service to Pitt County farmers." The letter extended the deadline to May 15.

Suez Again Before UN; Some Hope Egypt To Budge

By WILLIAM N. OATIS UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Hope was held in some quarters at the U.N. today that Egypt's plan for running the Suez Canal might still be subject to some change. Others felt President Nasser had laid down his final rules for operation of the vital Middle East waterway.

Delegates generally declined to record comment on the plan that provides complete Egyptian control over operations and toll money but calls for arbitration of disputes. Acting at the request of U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge, the Security Council scheduled a session for tomorrow on the canal issue. Lodge said the council should "take note of the situation regarding passage through the Suez Canal."

A U.S. spokesman said Lodge would report on the recent Egyptian-U.S. canal talks in Cairo and that the council debate would not close the door to future private negotiations. He said the United States does not plan a resolution calling for any council action, but that the request for the meeting does not mean the United States is in substantial agreement with Egypt.

The Egyptian canal plan was submitted to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld by Egyptian Delegate Omar Loutfi by registration as an "international instrument." Egyptian officials insisted it would have the force of an international treaty registered with the United Nations, but the declaration provided no penalties for anyone violating it.

The declaration said Egypt would: (1) maintain free and uninterrupted navigation "within the limits and in accordance with the provisions" of the 1888 Constantinople Convention; (2) collect all tolls, paying the Egyptian government 5 per cent in royalties; (3) establish a fund of 25 per cent of all tolls for canal development; (4) limit toll increases to 1 per cent a year unless negotiations with users provided for more.

The memorandum also said any dispute over canal operation regulations would be referred to a three-man group, one named by the complaining party, one by Egypt's Suez Canal Authority and the third by mutual agreement or by the head of the World Court if there is no agreement.

Three-Mile Croatian Sound Bridge Hailed By Governor

MANTEO, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Hodges said today the new William B. Umstead Bridge across Croatian Sound "marks the beginning of a new era of increased economic development" in the southern Albemarle region.

Hodges declared the three-mile long bridge, built at a cost of 2 1/2 million dollars, "means the realization of a dream the people of this area have had for more than 20 years." He said this "doorway to North Carolina's lost province" opens up the Outer Banks "and joins an already fine road network."

The governor made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery at the dedication of the bridge, named in honor of the late Gov. William B. Umstead, who allocated funds which made construction of the bridge possible.

Members of the Legislature, the State Highway Commission and other notables were here for the dedication ceremony.

The program began with the assembly of a parade on the northern end of Roanoke Island. The parade moved to the east end of the bridge, where a memorial plaque was unveiled by Merle Bradley Umstead, 14-year-old daughter of the former governor. Then, at the center of the bridge, Mrs. William B. Umstead cut a ribbon to mark the official opening of the bridge.

The parade moved across the bridge to Mann's Harbor, where the governor delivered his address. Hodges told the gathering, "It is altogether fitting and appropriate" that the bridge "should honor the memory of our late governor."

He described Umstead as "a man of simple tastes who deeply appreciate the basic values of life." Hodges said eastern North Carolina citizens "had long appealed for funds for such a bridge. Although earlier chief executives had been sympathetic to the people of the southern Albemarle region, and to their pleas for a bridge connecting the mainland with historic Roanoke Island, it was not until October, 1953 that their pleas were needed when Gov. Umstead made an initial allocation of $750,000. A second allocation of two million dollars was made in November, 1954, shortly before his death."

Construction on the bridge began September 23, 1954, and was completed last Feb. 22, "one day ahead of a 450 working-day limit," Hodges said. Six days later, a freight boat rained the bridge during a heavy storm and a section of the underpinning was damaged.

formal request for additional space came at a special meeting Jan. 31 and the commissioners have been working on the problem since that time.

With the Joyner dwelling and the Edwards building, if it is obtained, the county hopes to be able to "reshuffle" offices and give the ASC adequate space in the old hospital building.

"We feel that is the ideal place for them along with other federal agricultural agencies," he declared. "We are going to do the best we can and it looks like under present conditions we will be ready around July 1."

The repairs will cost about $50,000. Hodges said he understood the repairs will get under way in time for the heavy tourist traffic this summer.

"This bridge," Hodges told the crowd, "has been aptly described as a 'bridge to history,' since it leads to such historic and scenic points of interest as the Lost Colony, Fort Raleigh, the Elizabethan Gardens, Kill Devil Hills, the Cape Hatteras National Seashore Recreational Area, and many others." It replaces a long-time ferry system, he added.

The governor said "One of the next projects of vital importance in this area is the Alligator River bridge project which will complete the link between the coast and the other inland communities." He added, "Just at present no means are available for providing this vital link."
