Eighty Arrested In Mass Raid On N.C. Bootleggers

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Federal and state officers, swooping down on 11 counties in what they described as the most massive raid in North Carolina history, last night and early today arrested 80 men and women on charges of trafficking in illegal liquor.

The roundup was planned by Henry C. Severs, law enforcement officer of the Mecklenburg County ABC board, Federal Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Unit officers, U.S. marshals, state ABC officers and sheriff's deputies aided in the arrests.

$500 to $1,000 each were set. Preliminary hearings are set for others Thursday in Salisbury and for Charlotte later this week.

The arrests, which started about 7:15 p.m. Sunday, were continuing today. Only one suspect escaped.

Animated Magazine Luncheon Highlight Of Art Festival

Animated Luncheon Has Varied Program

By ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Woman's Editor

Instead of reading the "Digest of the Fine Arts of Eastern North Carolina" about 200 guests at the Animated Magazine luncheon Saturday afternoon in the college north dining hall were privileged to hear 12 featured speakers discuss one of the fine arts that they love and understand.

Based on a true magazine presentation there was a publisher, W. H. Watson; editors, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore and James D. Allison; and a business manager, Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell.

Speaking only a short period, the varied contributors discussed writing, art, drama, poetry, restoration, and the future of the Fine Arts in Eastern North Carolina.

"This is the first year that an 'Animated Magazine' program has been included in the growing Community Arts Festival events."

"Art Education in the Public Schools" was Vester M. Mulholland's topic and he stressed that more art supervisors are needed in the North Carolina school system. He added, "Art should be functional in every phase of living."

Speaking next, Robert Lee Hummer defined an art museum as a place where "Men's minds are stimulated . . . a barometer of human progress. You are welcomed to a museum to be the your spirit in culture," he continued.

"North Carolina needs more museums, for instance all through Eastern North Carolina, for children to go to locally and refresh their minds towards spiritual splendor," he added.

"There are many outstanding poets in Eastern North Carolina," pointed out author Richard Walker. He illustrated by reading "Winter" by Dr. Martha Pingel.

"A Ballad of Christmas" by Elizabeth Utterback, "April Clouds" by Thad Stem, and Lucy Cherry Crisp's "John Henry."

The pages of the magazine then turned to a lighter vein with a series of jokes by Edgar W. Hirschberg. "How do you sell a book?" he asked. "If there is a girl on the jacket of the book and no jacket on the girl—the book will sell."

Dr. John D. Messick told the group how the arts were being accentuated at East Carolina College with the basic requirements for graduation including three hour courses in art appreciation, music appreciation, and speech. "If we get the new building we have asked for, the third floor will house a complete art department," he noted.

Original Poem
Dr. Martha Pingel refreshed the group with a clever, original poem she had written for the Animated Magazine Luncheon.

Discussing television as the best media for the mass movement of art, A. Hartwell Campbell stressed that for this movement to succeed, "We need everyone's support. Television is the mirror of life."

"We can all learn to appreciate fine arts," Miss Gertrude S. Carraway said. "The historical restorations throughout the state mean living history, and people should be stimulated by how our predecessors lived." She concluded by inviting everyone to visit The Palace in New Bern.

A complete art digest includes a section on music. The College Singers under the direction of Dan E. Vornholt sang several selections for the audience.

Author Ovid W. Pierce briefly discussed Eastern North Carolina writers mentioning that "No two of them have seen the same images." He also reflected that this field should be explored more by writers in this area because of the potential material available.

Elizabeth Copeland, librarian, conducted a short quiz to test the audience's art knowledge.

Well-known dramatist Paul Green warned the group that "If we don't explore our creative life more, this nation will lie on the bonfire and communism will dominate. Only in creative life are people really alive." North Carolina has come a long ways . . .

"but we were so sorry in arts for so long we had to do something. Let us work, for this is the best time to be born," he said in closing.

The final speaker, Gilbert T. Stephenson, paused for a moment to look into the future at the possibilities for more and better art in Eastern North Carolina.

"I hope we are headed towards encouraging and inspiring our youth to one of the fine arts," he mentioned. "We must make the arts worthwhile for the fine artists so that they will want to stay in the state. Therefore, we must patronize and convince them that there is an opportunity for them here in North Carolina.

"The work that is being done by our Eastern North Carolina artists is contributing to the works being done by those in the British Commonwealth," he concluded.

"Never allow the cover to close on the fine arts," said W. H. Watson at the conclusion of the program.

Prior to the luncheon an appetizer was served by the Greenville Chapter of the American Association of University Women in the College Alumni House.

April 29, 1927

Greenville people were going to the polls today to elect a mayor and five aldermen. Voting up to the noon hour had progressed slowly. Only slight interest was being manifested in the election except in the third, fourth and fifth wards where contests actually exist. There is only one entry in the mayoralty field, that being J. Con Lanier, who was appointed sometime ago to fill the unexpired term of Mayor D. M. Clark, who retired from office to become solicitor of the Fifth Judicial District. In the third ward, R. E. Sellers, incumbent, is being opposed by P. L. Goodson, J. E. Dees, incumbent of the fifth ward, is opposed by Paul Fitzgerald. J. Key Brown is running against J. H. Boyd, incumbent of the fourth ward. Incumbents in the first and second wards where there is no contest are John Ivey Smith and J. H. Waldrop.

Social Notes

Mrs. Luther Herring, Mrs. Mabel Lacy Hall, Dr. Bessie McNeil of East Carolina College, and Mrs. J. B. Sam D. Bundy of Farmville, a past governor of the Carolinas Kiwanis District, and principal of Farmville, will be the speaker. Lieut.-Gov. of Division 7 John T. Barnhill of Greenville will install the officers.

New officers are: Paul Singleton of Plymouth, president; Eddie Dennis of Durham, vice-president; Robert Jackson of Washington, secretary, and Joe Pearce of Raleigh, secretary. Directors are: Delano Driver, Richmond, Va.; Gus Manos of Fayetteville, Edward Monroe of Woodbridge, Va., and Curtis Hendrix of Greenville.

Red Oak Club Prepares Exhibit

The Red Oak Home Demonstration Club has prepared the first of a series of eight educational exhibits in the field of home furnishings and decorations.

This contest, sponsored by Bostic-Sugg Furniture Co., will afford seven other Pitt County clubs an opportunity to display their talent in achieving a feeling of harmony and livability by skillfully combining furniture and furnishings for one or more rooms.

A committee of Red Oak Club members chose a family room and dining area for their project. The early American room is furnished with a combination of maple furniture and several traditional pieces.

The color scheme features shades of brown and green accented by gold. Lamps have been selected with the principles of good lighting in mind. Space is provided for the children in the family and their activities.

The family Bible, as well as other books, magazines and daily papers, have found its place in this area designed to meet the needs of everyday family living. The purpose of such a room in the home is to provide a place where the entire family can work, play and pray together.

Red Oak club members cordially invite the public to visit their exhibit which will remain in the window of the Bostic-Sugg Furniture Company through Friday, May 3rd.

Slipshod Performance Inexcusable

There is no more important decision made in a democratic government than the decision which voters make at the ballot box. It is the fundamental concept upon which the great structure of democratic government is built.

When elections officials don't mind their business—whether it be on a precinct, city, county or state level—they are consciously or unconsciously undermining the basic structure of their government.

A situation such as that which developed in the fourth ward of our neighboring city of Washington is inexcusable. In the town's Democratic primary one of the candidates protested the announced results of balloting in the fourth ward box. The County Board of Elections found the box contained 394 ballots while the precinct's books showed that only 376 persons had voted.

Poll holders of the precinct offered the lame excuse that voters were coming to the precinct so fast they felt that whose names were not checked off the book were given ballots.

While the Beaufort County Board of Elections has ruled out fraud in the case, it is evident the poll holders in that particular ward did a poor job of discharging the important responsibility which rested on their shoulders. There is no excuse for any public election, regardless of the offices at stake, being conducted in a slipshod manner. The several cities and towns in this area whose municipal elections are coming up in the next few weeks might learn an important lesson from the unfortunate incident in Washington. They should make sure that poll holders appointed to conduct the elections are only those who will make sure that no irregularities occur.

The Most Successful Fine Arts Festival

The curtain has come down on the twenty-second annual Community Fine Arts Festival in Greenville, leaving citizens talking about the contribution even a relatively small city can make to fine arts and their appreciation when it sets its mind to do so.

This year's Arts Festival was by far the most successful of the annual events. Broader in scope than previous Festivals, it covered more of the wide field of fine arts, attracted more attention in this community and throughout the state and brought to Greenville more notables in the fields of arts than heretofore.

Those who were responsible for the staging of this two-week Arts Festival have every reason to be proud of the Festival and what it meant to Greenville and its citizens. They should likewise be pleased with the response on the part of local people to the various functions in connection with the Festival.

Over the years the Community Arts Festival has come to mean a great deal to Greenville. It has contributed immeasurably to the community's appreciation of the fine arts. It has helped to lift the cultural level of the people of the community.

The twenty-second annual festival has met the acid test of success. It has left the people of Greenville and Eastern North Carolina looking forward with anticipation to next year and the twenty-third annual Community Fine Arts Festival in Greenville.

Another Group Of Look-Aheads

By ELMER ROESSNER Here is another consignment of business look-aheads, based on analyses of developing trends, sprinkled with a few grains of advance information. You can count on:

Many new liquor brands. Distillers are saying they may dump 50,000,000 gallons of aged whiskey because the Supreme Court has ruled it is taxable after eight years in bond. Maybe, but some will try to sell it at lower prices, using new brand names to avoid harming established brand-price relations. At the same time, distillers will push a companion case before the court and they will ask Congress for an amendment postponing taxes until after the 12th year in bond.

A fight for liquor reciprocity. While America imports lakes of whiskeys from abroad, Britain, Canada and other whiskey-making nations restrict imports to tourists and bourbon. Stung by the tax blow, American distillers will demand barriers against exports unless they can sell abroad. One big gripe: 12-year-old scotch is not taxed here until it arrives for sale, but taxes on 12-year-old domestic liquor would have to be paid four years in advance, making the retail price prohibitively high.

TIME FOR FUN A new twist to labor demands. "Lumped time" as well as higher pay will figure in many labor contracts this year and next. Instead of five 7-hour days, many unions will ask for four 8 1/2-hour days, or alternate weeks for four and five 8-hour days. Some will ask for longer vacations instead of shorter work weeks. Reason: There's not much that can be done with an extra hour a day, but a lot can be done with an extra day a week, or every other week, or a longer vacation.

A spectacular new TV tube. Soon to emerge from the laboratory is a television tube two inches thick, with the "gun" at the bottom. Mounted on top of the set, it can be viewed from either side.

Big promotions of urethane foams. This plastic, previously reported here, is now moving into volume production and offer tough competition to foam rubber in many uses.

More cellophane promotions.

too. Production of this plastic has also outstripped current demands and manufacturers can be counted on to develop and advertise new uses for it.

TINLESS TIN CANS Aluminum cans. With aluminum production steadily rising, producers have long flirted with the idea of capturing a big part of the food container market. Now they may be knocking at the door. A process has been developed whereby dollar-size slugs of the metal are formed into a seamless can body with one blow. Lids may be affixed with crimping and a sealant. Such cans would be rustproof and lighter in handling and shipping.

A campaign for TV "rights." In 32 states, organizations of radio and television enterprises are to step up demands for equal rights with the press in news coverage. Where reporters can use pencil and paper, they should have rights to use mikes and cameras, they will contend. The industry is ready to stage demonstrations to prove their pick-ups will not disturb decorum of religious services, courts, etc.

"Earthenes" in men's sportswear. The National Association of Men's Sportswear Buyers has got manufacturers together on promotions of red, black and white for fall fashions under the name of "Fire, Coal and Heat" or "earthenes" colors. It is working on a Caribbean theme for spring, 1958.

OLD PROMOTER MIGHT TRY BEER IN CANS The Old Promoter, dropping in his weekly visit today, said he was amazed because shoppers bought products for the gimmicks instead of their basic utility. We asked him for an instance.

"Shelves on the inside of refrigerator doors," he said. "They must make refrigerators more expensive to build and therefore boost the price," he declared. "I've been all over trying to buy a refrigerator without the door shelves, but I can't find one."

"What's the matter with the shelves?" we asked. "They increase the price and everytime you open a door, you swing all the food on it out into the warm room," he said. "Besides, every time I slam the door, the beer bottles bounce out."

Opinions In Brief

QUINCY, MASS. PATRIOT LEDGER: "In the final analysis, there are two types of taxes: those a person has to pay such as income and property taxes and those with which he has some freedom of choice such as automobile and cigarette taxes."

REYNOLDSVILLE, PA. STAR: "In the American system of government by law, no principle is more essential to the protection of our way of life than the principle of equality under the law. Labor unions should be required to submit to this principle, like all other American institutions. If the policy of this country is to outlaw monopoly and monopolistic practices, there is no ground for granting unions the special powers of our concentrations of economic power—special rights and dispensations."

Centralization Of Powers Seen

By LYNN NISBET

TRENDS — Next to the very obvious fact that North Carolina is getting bigger, the most noticeable trend in the current Legislature is toward centralization of governmental power.

The fact of bigness was publicized when the biennial budget was announced early in February calling for the expenditure of approximately one and a quarter billion dollars during the next two years. A little less than half of this money will come from general fund tax levies. The rest will come from Federal aid allocation, and special fund sources such as highway and agriculture.

The trend toward centralization, increasingly noticeable for half a century, has been greatly accelerated by action of the current General Assembly. If the consequences were not so potentially serious the situation in which the Legislature finds itself would be humorous, if not ludicrous. Enactment of hundreds of purely local bills at the same time a few master measures are being put on the books to fix governmental control in one office at Raleigh is an illustration of the inconsistencies of democracy.

HISTORY — First real impetus was given the central control idea with enactment of the Executive Budget Act in 1925. That was followed by bringing several agencies into the new Department of Conservation and Development in 1927. Then came assumption by the State of all road construction and maintenance in 1931, of public school administration in 1933. Consolidation of the University was effected in 1931, of mental hospitals and correctional schools in 1943. Much of the authority previously exercised by separate departments was brought under the new Department of Personnel in 1949. The 1955 Legislature transferred from the elected auditor to the budget bureau the functions of pre-audit. The 1955 session also set up the State Board of Higher Education.

EFFECT — The effect of every one of these changes was to concentrate power in the chief executive, either by diverting authority from other elective officials or by concentrating in one individual or one small board the powers which had been exercised by a larger number of appointees.

Nearly every recommendation made by the commission on organization of State Government to the present Legislature is for more concentration of power. The heart of the whole program is the new Department of Administration, the avowed purpose of which is to give the Governor more intimate contact with and control over all State agencies through an appointed Director of Administration, a sort of assistant governor with authority to act in many cases where such authority is now vested in other officers.

Another bill increases membership on the Advisory Budget Commission from six to seven, giving the Governor the right to appoint three members instead of two to serve with the money committee chairmen of the Senate and House. Last session Governor Hodges opposed increasing the commission by addition of the Lieutenant Governor, which would have made the ratio five elected to two appointed members. The extra appointment gives the Governor as director of the budget larger control over the advisory group.

PROPERTY MANAGEMENT. It has long been apparent to the students of State government that one of the chief needs was for more efficient management of property, both real and personal, owned by the State. In this instance efficiency almost necessarily involves centralized control.

Bills already enacted and pending would give to the Department of Administration much greater authority than now rests in any one place to buy and sell land, to allocate office equipment, operate motor pools and central letter writing and duplicating facilities.

By constitutional implication, if not specific language, title to all marsh and swamp lands in tracts of 2,000 acres or more is vested in the State Board of Education. Title to other lands used agricultural and forestry research, hospitals and educational institutions, game refuges and preserves, highway purposes and what have you is primarily vested in the State of North Carolina, with most deeds north secondary title in the name of one department or institution.

Presently there isn't much uniformity in procedure for the several agencies acquiring land, although none can be sole without the Governor and the Secretary of State signing the deed, upon authorization by the Council of State.

The new law makes for uniformity in acquisition and disposal of land. It also transfers substantial part of the authority which separate agencies have exercised over their (?) lands to the Governor and his appointees, chiefly the Department of Conservation and Development.

The desired purpose is more efficient use of property. The method for achieving this end is more centralized control. (This is the first of two articles on centralization of power.)

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS GOD EVER PRESENT

What do you believe about God? For most people God is an abstract idea. Even when one thinks of God in highly personalized terms, He is usually regarded as a being dwelling above the blue dome of heaven, quite apart from this world and surrounded by regal splendor.

Now, this view is not wrong — it is only incomplete. The Bible teaches that although God is apart from the world and reigning in heaven, He is nevertheless very much in the world, abiding in the hearts of millions of people who believe in Him and submit their wills to His.

To use philosophical terms, God is both transcendent and immanent. Our Lord's assurance was that He and the Father would come to the heart of the believer and make their abode there. In the closing chapters of the Book of Revelations the declaration occurs that the dwelling place of God is with man, and that He shall dwell with them and that they shall be His people, and that God himself shall be with them and be their God. The God of the Bible is a personal God. He is in heaven yet He is on earth also. His very essence comes in and mingles with the essence of mankind. His offer is to be man's continual companion.

His Heaven On Wheels

NEW YORK (AP)—Many people talk of a perfect world. Raymond Roma, a former butler, is perhaps the only one who set out to create a perfect world—inside a taxicab.

"Being in a hurry is no excuse for being either uncomfortable or impolite," says Roma, whose cab—he owns it himself—is a butler's idea of heaven on wheels.

The most unusual single step you can take in Manhattan is to get into Roma's white and jade cab.

Other Editors Saying --- Coattails & Suspenders

(Wall Street Journal)

Whether the voters are today as pleased with President Eisenhower personally as they were in November, we do not know. But we think it true that both as a man and as a political leader he remains high in the public esteem.

We can recall no other instance in which so much public criticism of an Administration's political direction has had so small an effect on the public regard for the man in the White House. If the country were voting tomorrow, there is little doubt he would still be re-elected. That is a tribute to him as a person.

But it is also a problem for the Republican party. Mr. Eisenhower is barred by the Constitution from a third term. Next time around the G.O.P. will be on its own. And as our Washington Bureau has reported, Republican leaders all over the country are groping for a way to win without Eisenhower's coattails.

This is no simple problem. But it occurs to us that as with most problems the best way to start hunting for a solution is to pose the right questions.

For a starter, the Republican politicians might ask why Mr. Eisenhower has been relatively immune from the barbs at his party and at his Administration. Then they might ask what are the policies at which the public is throwing all those barbs.

Certainly the explanation of Mr. Eisenhower's complex. It is all mixed up with his war record, his out-going personality, with public sympathy for his illness and admiration for his courage. But surely a part of it is explained by the public assessment of his character.

When the Administration brought in its record-making budget, at least the public did not have the feeling that Mr. Eisenhower himself, however misguided or mistaken, was a demagogue just deliberately hitching up his red suspenders to "tax and tax, spend and spend, and elect and elect." Without removing criticism, that softened its impact.

At the same time the public has left little doubt as to what political issues it is angry about.

The political phenomenon of the past three months no longer needs proving. The public, remarkable as it may seem, is angry about big spending and big taxes. Though people may not know exactly why, they are worried about loose fiscal policies. The catch-phrases of the New Deal, the Fair Deal and the Welfare State no longer seem to be catching the voters.

Yet whatever Mr. Eisenhower's motives, others in the party act as if they thought big spending is the key to election. And it is certainly curious — is it not? — that Mr. Eisenhower's advisers have got his Administration into political hot water precisely as they have succumbed to the demagogue's trilogy of spending, taxing and electing.

So our last question is this: If Mr. Eisenhower remains high in the public esteem because he does not act like a political demagogue, while his Administration gets into political hot water every time it acts like the Fair Deal, what do you think this ought to suggest to a practical politician?

We don't think the G.O.P. will have an easy time without Eisenhower. But somehow we don't think the "Modern Republicans" are going to get free of his coattails by hitching up their red suspenders.

Fear Of Late 1957 Slump Fading

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The Administration's earlier fears of a serious business decline in late 1957 have vanished as a result of a study of economic trends during the first quarter of the year. In fact, there is a growing belief that the present level of prosperity will hold through 1958.

There will be neither a dangerous inflation nor depressing deflation, according to the official viewpoint. To employ a technical phrase, the general movement will not be sharply up or down, but horizontal or sideways. Prices will remain high, or even go a bit higher, but a rise in personal income will enable consumption to keep pace without too much hardship or difficulty.

An extremely optimistic factor is the people's apparent confidence in the persistence of good times. They are willing to go into debt for the total of consumers' credit — installment buying and borrowing — has reached a record peak. They are spending more than they are saving, but even so, they are putting away, percentage-wise, more money than they were a year ago.

MORE SPENT FOR LIGHT GOODS As evidence of a revolutionary and significant shift in buying habits, they are spending more for light-goods and services than for durables. Their postwar supply of heavy stuff, from automobiles to household appliances and furniture, has not yet worn out enough to need replacement.

Higher wages, greater leisure time and fashion changes account for this amazing fact — namely, that more people are required to satisfy personal needs than to manufacture commodities. Money spent on sports, travel, recreation, entertainment, cosmetics, etc., and similar semi-luxuries continues to surpass all records.

Nor is it the eccentric kind of orgiastic, nightclub and wasteful spending that prevailed so recklessly in the "roaring twenties." It provides a more solid underpinning for the general economic structure. It furnishes employment for millions of serious, hard-working Americans rather than for Al Capone's bootlegging and allied theatrical enterprises from coast to coast.

AN IMPRESSIVE ANALYSIS Another important economic change is emphasized by Gabriel Hauge, President Eisenhower's chief economic adviser, as he surveys the business situation and anticipates forward prospects. His analysis has impressed industrial, business and financial leaders here and abroad.

Hauge points out that the American economic system has changed so radically in the post-war period that a setback on one or more sectors cannot have a serious or adverse effect on the overall and basic system.

While certain industries — automobile, steel, textiles, coal — may have to make temporary adjustments in output, inventories and purchases of labor and materials, meaning a slowdown in their particular area, other segments simultaneously operate at full or even greater capacity. In short, no weakening of a single stretch can force a retreat on the whole front.

Bring $$$ To Florida

By ROGER W. BABSON BABSON PARK, Fla. — Nearly every day I get letters from people asking if I would recommend locating in Florida. As I leave for the North tomorrow, I will try to answer these questions in this week's column. My answer is "No," if you are hoping to get something for nothing; but "Yes," if you are "retiring" and receive a pension check from the North each month or have sufficient income of your own.

MILD CLIMATE LURES THOUSANDS

Although lacking in a number of important natural resources, Florida has an abundance of sunshine, plenty of water, large amounts of phosphate, and sufficient limestone for cement. It can compete with California and other sections as a mecca for tourists, vacationists, and retired folk. I am told that more than 2,000 people come into Florida each week intending to settle here. Many live on pensions or annuities or income from investments, and therefore have no need to seek employment. Others do need jobs, but not all can find them today.

In my observation, it is rather difficult to get a job in Florida unless you have special skills which the state's few industries can use. However, efforts to get natural gas by pipeline from Texas are now on the verge of succeeding. I predict that parts of the state will have natural gas by the summer of 1958. When the supply of this fuel is assured, industry should move into Florida at a very rapid pace.

NEW BOOM IN REAL ESTATE

Mild climate has always been an attraction to prospective buyers of land for homes or businesses. Now that atomic energy is to be an added attraction, I forecast an even further boom in Florida real estate. The present boom will be far different from the "boom and bust" of the 1920's when sellers and buyers alike went just plain crazy. Sharp real estate operators, whose methods are questionable, cannot be eliminated entirely, but Florida does attempt to curb land and stock frauds.

I am bullish on well-located Florida homes which are already built. I do not hesitate to advise those interested to buy a house, or a lot, in an already settled community. However, I urge prospective settlers in Florida — those anxious to buy land there for investment or speculation to proceed very cautiously. Before buying lots in a new subdivision, you should first see them. Florida offers plenty of opportunity to those who are alert to its possibilities and willing to work hard to get ahead. At this time it is not a good place in which to speculate.

SHOPPING FOR INDUSTRIAL SITES

Florida's lack of oil, coal, and waterpower has been a serious handicap to the development of heavy industry. Actually, light industry has been moving into the state at an increasing rate. Many industrial concerns in the North and Middle West ask me how to go about buying land for industrial use in Florida. My first answer is to buy for cash only, and to use the same common sense they would use when buying land in their own home state. Second — buy something which they feel sure they could rent or sell profitably if they cannot use it themselves.

Florida is growing fast. Where good land in a settled community can now be bought cheap, I advise buying it. But I have a word of caution for those who are in the market anywhere for land for office buildings, factories, or apartments. Plan for much more parking space than you now feel you will ever need. The success of business ventures in any state will depend largely on ease of access and parking facilities. Provide ample parking for employees, customers, and suppliers. In less than twenty years, I predict that the present number of registered cars will be doubled.

Seek To Unravel Old Mystery Of Missing Fortune

PADUA, Italy (AP)—Thirty-five defendants were called to trial in Padua today in an effort to unravel the 12-year-old mystery of Mussolini's missing treasure, which may have helped pay the bill for postwar communism in Italy.

Top defendant in the big trial is Dante Gorreri, tough Communist partisan who was elected a deputy to Parliament while he was in jail in 1953. Charges range from murder to embezzlement.

The treasure was the multimillion-dollar fortune Benito Mussolini was trying to slip out of Italy on the night of April 26, 1945, when he fled toward Switzerland in a German truck column.

Communist partisans ambushed the column in the Lake Como region north of Milan, near Dongo. They executed Mussolini and his mistress Claretta Pettaol. But they never said a word about what happened to the fortune in gold and currency—since known as the "Dongo treasure."

The government claims the Communists unloaded the treasure from about 30 German trucks, piled it in the Dongo town hall, stood guard over it all night, and took an inventory of it behind closed doors the next morning.

Reportedly it included 143½ pounds of gold bars and several million dollars worth of British, Swiss and American currency. No official estimate of the total value has ever been announced.

The mystery of the treasure has resulted in much speculation that the Communists used it to finance the costly postwar build-up of their party, which for a time threatened to take over the Italian government.

The prosecution charges that Communist Deputy Gorreri was one of the chiefs of the band that seized the gold.

Rae Foley's new mystery novel RUN FOR YOUR LIFE

CHAPTER 8

Garry's light was on. She stood in the doorway to Nora's room, came forward on tiptoe.

"I'm awake," Nora said, her voice rasping in her sore throat, and Garry flicked on the bedside light, saw the dismantled bed, the pillow on the floor.

"Oh, dear, and I hoped you'd have a good sleep!"

"Some one was here," Nora said. "Someone tried to smother me with the pillow."

"You're crazy," the nurse said flatly, and then covered her mouth with her hand.

"I was beginning to think so myself," Nora said unexpectedly, "but it's not true. I didn't dream this, Garry, or imagine it. Someone was here. Someone wanted me to die."

The nurse stared down at her for a long moment, then her face stiffened. "Miss Pendleton, you've had another bad dream. That's all. No one was in here. No one tried to kill you." As Nora flinched she added quickly, following up her advantage, "You see how crazy you sound?"

She straightened the blankets, picked up the pillow and shook it out as though everything were normal, as though this were any night, as though the intruder had no existence and the moment of horror had never been.

"What awakened you, Garry?" Nora asked.

The nurse hesitated. "I thought something dropped." She looked around. The cloisonne jar of potpourri had fallen from the table onto the floor.

"That's what you heard," Nora told her. "Whoever it was must have knocked against the table while I was struggling and when the jar fell off he ran away for fear you'd come to investigate."

"It was blown over by the wind, that's all." The nurse glanced toward the window, which had been opened only a few inches, saw the curtains hanging motionless. She met Nora's ironic smile and went on obstinately, "Or it might have been right on the edge."

"It wasn't."

Garry's lips tightened. "It didn't happen the way you think it did."

She bent over the bed, her eyes burning into Nora's. She spoke distinctly, spacing her words. "No one was here—here." She went to the hall door and turned the key. "Now we're all locked in, safe and sound. No one can get in, I'll leave my door open. Call if you need me."

In a moment her light went out and her bed creaked as she lay down. Nora stared into the darkness, alone with fear. Either she was mad or someone had tried to kill her. But she hadn't imagined the smothering. And yet Garry hadn't believed her, as Finn hadn't believed her about the photograph, or even Stuart.

Why, there isn't anyone, Nora thought in surprise, whom I can call and say, "Please protect me. Someone wants me to die."

It was barely light when she got out of bed, dulled by her sleepless night. She heard the cuckoo clock sound six times. The maids were not yet on duty but there were coffee in the electric percolator in the kitchen.

She pulled on slacks and a blue sweater, used a lipstick lavishly on the colorless mouth. When she entered the kitchen Finn was sitting at the window, looking down at the lake.

He turned with a smile of welcome. "Hello, honey."

He poured her some coffee and refilled his own cup, his casual glance missing neither the blue shadows under her eyes nor her nervously twitching mouth. "I've always meant to ask you, why do you wear blue all the time?"

"Stuart likes it, Finn, thank heavens you are here. I've got something to tell you." The story poured out feverishly.

When she had finished, he hunted for bread and dropped it in the toaster. When it popped up he buttered it, found a plate. "Let me see you eat every bit." He refilled her cup with coffee and went to stand at the window.

She ate obediently, drank the coffee. Only then did she ask anxiously, "What do you think, Finn?"

"What did Miss Garrison think?" he parried.

"She didn't believe me," Nora said flatly. "The pillow on the floor all that—it had happened before." She told him then about the dreams.

"How long has this gone on?"

"Since Stuart's arrest last year."

"Then," said Finn, "I think we'll just forget it. An anxiety dream like that is perfectly natural. Your mind knows Stuart is safe but your emotions haven't quieted up yet. When he comes down, you two had better take a long drive by yourselves. Get away from all of us and enjoy being together."

Nora gave him a tight little smile. "That will be nice," she said politely. "But just the same there is something I want you to do for me. At once. In case—"

"In case?"

"In case," she said levelly,

"someone does want me to die." She ignored his gesture of impatience. "There aren't many possibilities here. So I want you to change my will. The way it stands now there's a bequest of twenty-five thousand to the Hegers, fifty thousand to a cancer research fund, and the rest is divided so that Stuart gets half, and Cousin Charles and Aunt Olive each have a quarter. I want you to draw up a new will. Everything to Stuart. Call it today and tell them what you are doing. Because if anyone expects to profit by my death he may as well disabuse himself of the idea."

"Let's not rush things. You are excited and confused because you haven't slept."

"I'm not in the least confused. I'm afraid."

"But look here, honey. Naturally it's all right to drop Charles out of your will. You've every justification for that. But Olive and the Hegers—"

"No one tried to smother you last night."

"Oh, for God's sake, Nora!"

"Please do as I ask you, Finn! Those are my instructions."

She turned swiftly and hurried out to the parking lot. The Cadillac hardtop she had bought a year before had not, because of her protracted illness, been driven a thousand miles. She rode slowly and aimlessly, taking secondary roads that wound through the woods, trying to solve her problem. She needed an interval in which to come to terms with the fact that she was in deadly danger and no one believed her.

Gets 3 Years To Pay For Wedding

HACKENSACK, N. J. (AP)—Park Groff has been given three years to make good on the bad checks he used to pay his daughter's wedding expenses.

Bergen County Judge Arthur J. O'Dea yesterday gave Groff a 364-day suspended jail sentence, fined him $150 and placed him on probation for three years, during which time Groff is to make restitution on three bad checks totaling $1,057.

Groff, 43, of Hawthorne and Lancaster, Pa., pleaded guilty April 2 to uttering false checks and obtaining money under false pretenses.

Last August he gave a restaurant here an $836 check to pay for his daughter's wedding reception, cashed a note for $100 and bought a wedding gown with a third for $121. All three checks bounced.

Out-Of-Staters Get The 'Jitters'

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—New York's new compulsory automobile liability insurance law is giving many visiting motorists the jitters.

Widespread reports that out-of-state drivers are being warned to stay away, because their cars may be impounded if they are unable to produce evidence of liability insurance, has brought official denial from the New York motor vehicle commissioner.

Name New Coach At Appalachian

BOONE, N. C. (AP) - Robert George Light, assistant basketball coach at Washington University in St. Louis, Mo., is the new head basketball coach at Appalachian State Teachers College. A native of University City, Mo., Light replaces resigned Francis Hoover. His appointment was announced here Saturday night. Light, a four-year regular while playing basketball at Washington, also is assistant tennis coach and a physical education teacher there. He will, besides coaching, teach in the Appalachian department of health, physical education and recreation.

ECC Netters Wallop Deacs; Playing Guilford

The powerful East Carolina tennis team continued their winning ways Saturday afternoon, dropping Wake Forest 5-4 at College Courts, in a non-conference match. Today, they play host to Guilford in a North State contest at 3:00.

The victory over Wake Forest was their second in less than a month. Earlier, the Bucs whipped the Demon Deacons 7-2, at Winston-Salem.

Expected to carry the load for the ECC club this afternoon are veterans Maurice Everette, James Blake and Mike Katsias, and newcomers John West, John Savage and Billy Hollowell.

ECC has a 4-0 conference record this far this season and are generally regarded as the potential champions of the loop for 1957.

COLLEGE SPORTS

BASEBALL: Appalachian 18, Western Carolina 4, South Carolina 4, Clemson 3, Duke 9, N.C. State 2, Atlantic Christian 5-4, High Point 1-3, Lenoir Rhyne 6, Catawba 2, Wake Forest 5, McCrary 4.

Atlantic Christian Visiting ECC Field For 'Big One'

Atlantic Christian's Bulldogs will invade College Stadium tomorrow afternoon for a North State Conference baseball game that will be a big one for East Carolina.

The Pirates, now pacing the league with an 8-2 record, have only four games remaining on their loop card and must win all four of them to finish in first place.

Coach Jim Mallory said this morning that "since Catawba and Elon plays two more games than we do, our boys have to win every game from now on to take the championship."

This strange predicament is caused by Lenoir Rhyne's refusal to play ECC due to what that college terms "distance difficulties." Every other club in the loop plays 14 games, while East Carolina plays only 12.

Coach Mallory told reporters this morning that his club is "playing them one at a time now. We don't take any one lightly—and besides, ACC always plays harder against us than anybody in the league."

Russell To Start: For the first time this season, Charlie Russell will be on the mound for the Pirates. The All-State junior has been having arm troubles all year and has been unable to dress for most of the games thus far.

"He looks good now, though," Mallory said this morning. "We worked him a little Saturday morning and he looked real good, showed a fine curve ball." Russell is a two-year veteran of the Pirate club and was greatly responsible for helping the Bucs win the North State title for the past two seasons in a row.

Tommy Land, who was stricken with glandular fever several weeks ago, will also be in uniform for the ACC match. Land was the regular centerfielder for the Pirates at the season's opening. Mallory said that it is uncertain whether the Burlington boy will see action yet.

Hitting Improved: Commenting on his team's play thus far this season, Mallory said, "Our hitting has improved a great deal and that's what has helped put us on top right now. We've been hitting better in the clutch when we have men on base—and, actually, that's what count."

"We have a long way to go before the season's over, but we're probably tougher now than we've been all season."

Rosewall Proves He's Still Trying

ATLANTA (AP)—Little Ken Rosewall of Australia is far behind Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles in their 100-match tour for the professional tennis championship, but he's still in there fighting. He proved this yesterday when he outstayed the world professional champion 2-6, 6-3, 9-7 in an exciting match watched by 3,100 persons at Alexander Memorial Coliseum. Gonzales now holds a 39-20 lead in the series.

Dixie Baseball Entries Chosen

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—The Dixie Baseball Classic here next year will pit four North Carolina teams against Lafayette, Princeton, Massachusetts and Connecticut. The tournament will be played March 31-April 2. Four first round games will be played on the home fields of Duke, North Carolina, North Carolina State and Wake Forest. The second and third rounds of the round robin event will be held here.

By ED WILKS

The Associated Press. The season is just two weeks old, but Milwaukee's determined Braves have won 9 of 10 and the rest of the National League teams, particularly Brooklyn and Cincinnati, may find out it's later than they think.

Milwaukee's record, padded with a 3-2 victory at Cincinnati yesterday that completed a three-game sweep from the Redlegs, has provided a two-game lead. Not particularly impressive? Perhaps, but Brooklyn had only a three-game lead after sweeping its first 10 games in 1955—the year the Dodgers won the pennant by 13 1/2 games.

The Braves won without a home run for the first time in four games yesterday. They did it by punting a portion of their nine hits and killing the Redlegs with four double plays.

Doubles by Billy Bruton and Del Crandall, a bunt single and a sacrifice fly wrapped up Milwaukee's fourth in a row in a two-run fourth. Red Murff nalled the victory in relief of Taylor Phillips. Tom Acker was the loser.

The second-place Dodgers fell another game behind, shut out by Pittsburgh's Bob Friend 3-0. St. Louis swept two from Chicago 6-2 and 4-0, with Lindy McDaniel, Tom Cheney and Herm Wehmeier allowing the Cubs just five hits in the double-header. Philadelphia rapped the Giants 11-2, but trailed 8-7 when a curfew suspended play in the second game after 6 1/2 innings.

Chicago's White Sox hold a one-game edge in the American after defeating Kansas City 5-3. New York Yankees stopped the Sox's winning streak at five games 3-2 on Yogi Berra's 10th inning home run.

Detroit and Cleveland split their twin bill, with the Indians winning 3-2 in 10 after the Tigers had won 2-0. Washington defeated Baltimore 7-6 in 10 innings, but lost the second game 3-2.

Friend handed the Dodgers their first 1957 shutout by leaving 11 runners stranded after giving seven hits and four walks. Roger Craig lost it.

McDaniel, backed up by Stan Musial's three RBIs on two singles and his first home run, granted the Cubs only three hits in the opener. Then Cheney and Wehmeier went to work. Cheney allowed two hits, both in the fifth, and gave way to Wehmeier, who pitched perfect ball the rest of the way.

Rookie Jack Sanford one-hit the Giants for seven innings, then left in favor of Bob Miller in a two-run eighth in the opener. The Phils, with Rip Repulski and Chico Fernandez each homering and driving in three runs, wrapped it up with seven runs in the eighth. The Giants overcame a 5-1 deficit in the nightcap with a six-run fifth—capped by Gail Harris' fourth consecutive double. It will be completed Aug. 16.

A four-run sixth inning gave the White Sox a 7-2 record. Walt Dropo slugged a two-run homer in the big frame. Jim Wilson won it with Gerry Staley's relief help after being tagged for three home runs.

The Red Sox battled back with two ninth-inning runs to tie the Yankees and shell Bob Grim, who had relieved Whitey Ford in the eighth. Don (Perfect Game) Larsen, now a reliever, won it on Berra's poke off reliever Ike DeLoock. The Yanks lost Mickey Mantle and Billy Martin in arguments with the ump's while staying 1 1/2 games behind the White Sox.

The Tigers had just one hit off Early Wynn until the ninth inning of the opener, then tagged the Cleveland right-hander for doubles by Frank Bolling and Ray Boone and a single by Charlie Maxwell. Al Aber won it after relieving rookie Don Lee in the eighth. Aber was the loser in the nightcap, however, when Jim Buesby opened the 10th with a pinch single and scored on an error by catcher Frank House. Reliever Ray Narleski was the winner.

Washington scored five runs in the sixth, helped by five walks, to come from behind in the opener, but didn't bag it until a walk and singles by Clint Courtney and Jerry Snyder followed two outs in the 10th. A triple by Dick Williams and a passed ball won the second game for Baltimore in the fourth inning.

Jesse Owens' Record Is Greg Bell' Target

By ED CORRIGAN

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The oldest world record in the track and field record book — the one that has withstood challenges for more than two decades — could fall this year.

It was on May 25, 1935, at the University of Michigan, that the great Jesse Owens startled the track world by broad jumping 26 feet 8 1/2 inches.

"I'd sure like to break it," said Greg Bell today, "but I'm not the guy who is going to say I'll do it."

Bell, a University of Indiana junior studying dentistry, could be the man to break Owens' record. The closest he has come so far was the 26-6 1/2 mark he made in the Olympics last year in Melbourne. That effort wiped out Owens' Olympic standard of 26-5 1/2.

In the Penn Relays over the weekend, Bell got off a 26-1 1/2 leap. While it did not approach his best, it was just six inches better than his mark of a year ago, an indication of his phenomenal progress.

Bell pulled an iron man stunt at the relays, winning the 100 in 9.7 and running anchor on two Indiana relay teams, neither of which won. But his efforts won him a most valuable individual award.

Villanova, with Olympic champions Ron Delany and Charlie Jenkins the standouts, won three of the eight major relays — the distance medley (10:10.7), the sprint medley (3:24.3) and the mile (3:12.7).

Texas, which set world records in both the quarter and half mile relays earlier in the season, won both its specialties, taking the 440 in 41.1 and the 880 in 1:25.4. Both were considerably off their world marks, possibly because of the sharp turns on the Franklin Field track.

Manhattan grabbed two more, the two-mile (7:39) and the four-mile (17:25.7), while Winston-Salem (N.C.) Teachers made off with the shuttle hurdle relay in 59.8.

Pointing up just what Robbins was up against, he shot a one-under 35 in the afternoon round, yet was exactly where he was after lunch—still five down. Campbell birdied the last two holes of the back nine to balance two holes he lost earlier.

Robbins won the first two on the back nine, but Campbell's magic putter stroked home a 60-footer for a birdie three on the 30th and, although he lost one more hole, the task was too much for his opponent.

erally masterful short game that carried him to victory. Campbell shot par golf for the 34 holes. His big break came in the morning round when Robbins was unable to win a hole and Campbell's par 72 for the 7,000-yard No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club had him five up. Five times Robbins lost holes when he missed the green. Campbell needed only 27 putts in the morning round to 35 for the former Memphis, Tenn., automobile salesman, now an Air Force second lieutenant.

Word from College View Cleaners and Laundry this morning stated that of the 2,000 tickets purchased Friday for the ECC-NC State baseball game, here on May 3rd, only 150 of each (adults and children) remain.

A tremendous total of 1,700 tickets have been consumed by the public over the weekend.

College View purchased the tickets for the purpose of giving them away to anyone interested in seeing the night contest. Earlier last week, the firm bought 1,200 tickets for the same purpose and that amount was consumed in less than three days. In total, 2,900 tickets have been given away since the beginning of last week.

In the words of one College View official, "I've never seen anything so terrific in all my life. The customer response has been almost unbelievable."

Baker To Start: Ben Baker, possessor of a 3-0 record for the season, has been named by Coach Jim Mallory as his starter against State. Baker, a sophomore, is a lefthander from Zebulon and has been one of the most consistent moundmen on the ECC club this season.

Pacing the club at the plate is expected to be Joel Long, who is hitting .385 and leading the team in homers with three. Dean Robbins, freshman first baseman, is expected to contribute to the hitting. He's batting .400. Tommy Nance, a regular catcher, has been shifted to the outfield to give his big bat full-time duty for the Bucs. He has two homers to his credit.

Others who will be in the starting lineup will be Gary Treon, Becky Reep, Jerry Stewart, Berme Stevens and Tink Bowen.

An Afternoon Game: The Pirates will see double duty on May 3rd. A regular North State Conference match with Catawba will be played at College Field, Friday afternoon. "It'll mean a little extra work," Coach Mallory stated recently, "but the boys are tickled to death."

The NC State contest is scheduled to begin at 8:00, Friday night, under the lights. Guy Smith Stadium, the site of the game, is now undergoing the finishing touches of a complete face-lifting job. The City and a handful of businessmen have contributed almost $6,000 to have the field improved, a new fence installed, new lights installed, and a full paint job done from top to bottom.

Trackmen To Try N. C. State Team

Coach J. O. Miller's East Carolina track team will visit Raleigh, tomorrow night, for a track meet with North Carolina State.

The Bucs will be seeking their first victory of the year. In three previous matches, they have lost two and finished second in one triangular.

Expected to pace the Pirates in the State match, which begins at 7:30, will be Injun Jim Henderson, the leading Buc hurdles and sprint man. Henderson has been the high point man for the Pirate track outfit for the past two seasons.

Poster Morse, who has broken the ECC two-mile record every time he has performed this season (3) will again work in that event. Charlie Bishop, Dennis O'Brien, Eddie Dennis, Bobby Patterson, Lee Atkinson, Bobby Maynard and Bob Ruck will also perform.

The ECC relay team of Patterson, Ruck, Atkinson and Bishop is expected to be one of the best point-getters for the locals.

Co-Captains for the 1957 aggregation, Bishop and Maynard, have been strong in their respective events all season and are expected to help pace the club against the Raleigh College.

NOW—complete in one policy... added protection for you, your wife and your children!
As do most thoughtful family men, you undoubtedly have insurance on your own life. Probably, you would also like to strengthen your Life insurance program with added protection on yourself, and also on your wife and children.
Metropolitan now has a new Family Plan which provides additional coverage for you and the eligible members of your immediate family with a single policy.
There are many advantages to a single policy for your whole family, including low premium cost... convenience of paying one premium... and simplicity of keeping records.
Here are some of its features:
For you—Permanent Life insurance with the usual cash and loan values... and with the special attraction of a reduced premium guaranteed for the first five years.
For your wife—Term insurance on her life of about one-fourth the amount of your insurance under this policy... continuing to the time you would be 85.
For your children between the ages of 14 days and 18 years—term insurance on each child until age 25. The premium is the same regardless of the number of children, and those born after the policy comes into effect will be automatically covered.
Moreover, when each child reaches age 25, he can apply for insurance on a permanent plan up to five times the amount of his insurance without medical examination. The amount of the premium for this new insurance will depend on the type of policy then selected.
In addition, if you should die, the insurance under this policy on your wife and children would continue just as if you had lived—with no more premiums to pay.
Your Metropolitan Representative will welcome the opportunity to explain all the advantages of the new Metropolitan Family Policy and show you that

Middle East Habitants Can Sense Coming Riot

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

A sudden, ominous stillness hangs over the city. Taxicabs disappear from the streets. That is the first sign. Shopkeepers begin running down from shutters over their shop windows.

The foreign colony, always in danger of violent attack, begins to put into operation its system of wardens, organized by blocks and hills.

The riot is about to begin. It can be an awesome spectacle to behold.

This is how violent political riots break out with the suddenness of a flash of lightning in a country like Jordan.

The pattern has been developing ever since the end of the Palestine war between Israel and the Arab states.

One of the most potent factors in the outbreaks of rioting is the insidious, persuasive, sonorous radio tones of Saut al Arab — the Voice of Arabs — Cairo's most effective propaganda weapon.

When the time is politically ripe for mob action, the leaders of mobs can find out any moment, from the radios in their coffee shops, just what the line for the day will be, and they will act accordingly.

As the hour approaches, the word goes out by a lightning-fast grapevine. For the equivalent of a few dollars, those politically interested in buying a riot can hire their riot leaders, the key men of the operation.

Street-corner orators appear as if from nowhere to harangue the crowds. The key rioters begin throwing a few stones at any convenient symbol of their anger. The riot is on.

Others join in just for the joy of it.

They include the young and frustrated Arabs aching for a violent binge, just to relieve their dreadful boredom. Among them are the Palestine war refugees, filled with hatred, their economic destitution leaving them little to live for.

Riot agitators circle the market places and push the rioters along like sheepdogs herding a flock. The leaders pick the targets of attack and even provide the weapons if that is to be necessary.

And when the riot is in full swing, it can be a terrible sight.

If the political rewards are attractive enough, the riot can be pushed through to a bloody conclusion which can overthrow a government, even dethrone a king.

HOBBS, N.M. (AP) — O. L. Voorhees, 45, Hobbs, was booked for leaving the scene of an accident and driving while intoxicated after a three-car accident.

He told police the reason he didn't stop when his car struck another automobile, causing it to slam into a third car, was because he didn't want to get into an argument with a woman driver in one of the cars.

Just Wanted To Avoid Argument

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Patrolman Gil Mullen thanked his lucky "star" for a narrow escape. A pistol was discharged accidentally in the police locker room during a change of shifts. The slug hit the badge on Mullen's chest. It staggered him but he escaped injury.

"It felt," he said, "like I was hit in the chest with a baseball bat."

Four steam catapults on the U.S. aircraft carrier Saratoga can launch four armed interceptors within sixty seconds.

Snack Is Costly In County Jail

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — The County jail's coffee break still costs as much as a lunch or dinner. Doughnuts and coffee furnished by the county for city jail prisoners cost 35 cents, while the County Building coffee stand sells the same at 26 cents. Sheriff C. W. Peebles says the 35 cents is a flat fee for meals no matter what time of day it is eaten.

'Disturbing Facts' Found In Drinking Habits Study

NEW YORK (AP) — Is drinking compatible with religion?

In a recent issue the Christian-Evangelist, national weekly of the Christian Churches-Disciples of Christ, looks at the facts about drinking and finds them disturbing.

It recounts the experience of a pastor in a suburban Christian church who gave his membership, under 500, a questionnaire about their drinking habits. A little less than half answered.

Fifty per cent had had a drink within the past week. As many as five drinks in the past week had been taken by 22 per cent; 9 per cent had numerous drinks. Seventy-seven per cent voted against the church going on record for total abstinence.

The Christian-Evangelist points out these percentages are probably not typical of Disciples. Between 50 to 75 per cent of Disciples call themselves abstainers, the magazine suggests. This puts them above the national average for Protestants.

According to figures released by the Yale School of Alcohol Studies, 41 per cent of Protestants abstain, 21 per cent of Catholics, 13 per cent of Jews.

The magazine says that in the face of more than 4 1/2 million alcoholics in this country, the problem of drinking should be discussed seriously in our churches.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ninety minutes of ballet is coming to television tonight.

"Producers' Showcase" (NBC-TV) will present the Royal Ballet, formerly called the Sadler's Wells Ballet, in a performance of "Cinderella." Frederick Ashton's ballet to music by Serge Prokofiev. A company of 65 has been flown here from London for the performance.

Last season "Producers' Showcase" presented the same company in "The Sleeping Beauty." That ballet was happily received by a huge viewing audience — rather to the surprise of NBC.

Clark Jones, director of television of "Cinderella," says that each of its three acts will be introduced by less than a minute of commentary. Each act of "The Sleeping Beauty" was introduced with a simple little action intended to instruct viewers not well informed on ballet.

"In doing away with that this year," he said, "we're bowing to public preference. The public reaction was that it's unnecessary."

There are some unusual problems connected with staging ballet for television.

TV Audience Will Get Background On Ballet

NEW YORK (AP) — Ninety minutes of ballet is coming to television tonight.

"Producers' Showcase" (NBC-TV) will present the Royal Ballet, formerly called the Sadler's Wells Ballet, in a performance of "Cinderella." Frederick Ashton's ballet to music by Serge Prokofiev. A company of 65 has been flown here from London for the performance.

Last season "Producers' Showcase" presented the same company in "The Sleeping Beauty." That ballet was happily received by a huge viewing audience — rather to the surprise of NBC.

Clark Jones, director of television of "Cinderella," says that each of its three acts will be introduced by less than a minute of commentary. Each act of "The Sleeping Beauty" was introduced with a simple little action intended to instruct viewers not well informed on ballet.

"In doing away with that this year," he said, "we're bowing to public preference. The public reaction was that it's unnecessary."

There are some unusual problems connected with staging ballet for television.

"There's an obligation on television to tell the story of a ballet clearly so that everyone can understand it, even though he never has seen ballet before," Jones said. "On the stage the ballet is not obligated to do this because it assumes that its audience already knows the story well."

"Another problem is the change of space — from a wide lateral stage space to television space, which is a matter of depth. Instead of thinking of the wide stage of the theater, television must think in terms of a triangle with the camera at the apex. In this way, for example, two lines of six dancers each on the stage is changed to three lines of four dancers each."

"Television can put the ballet in different areas with different effects. If we tried to duplicate the stage, it wouldn't be television. With special effects, lighting and electronics and the like, it gives a special sense of magic."

The ballet "Cinderella" follows the story line of the fairy tale. It will be interesting to compare tonight's performance of the old story with that of the recent "Cinderella" told on television in a different form — the musical.

Winterville FFA Teams Gain Win

Winterville's FFA teams were winners of the livestock judging contest held in the county yesterday for FFA teams.

Farmville's teams were second in the judging.

The first and second place teams are eligible to participate in district finals to be held in Jackson May 4.

Dairy Cattle were judged on the Charles Forbes farm and the beef cattle and swine contest was held on the A. J. Taylor farm.

Not Deterred By Nearby Police

RENNES, France (AP) — Police were busy last night checking a broken window in a jewelry shop that had just been robbed. All they could find out was the pane had been smashed by a young man on a motorcycle.

As they worked away, a young man on a motorcycle rolled up to another jewelry shop 300 feet away, smashed a window and roared away with jewelry estimated at $1,000.

Annual Pitt Negro 4-H Program Is Held Here

The annual Pitt County Negro 4-H Federation program for boys and girls, including practical demonstrations, held last week at the county and home agents' offices in Greenville.

The main features of the annual event were the team demonstrations for elimination for participation in the group and district federations to be held in May.

The Danish system of judging was used by James N. Adams, veteran instructor, Ayden High School; Grady McDonald, vocational agriculture teacher, Conetoe High School, and Mrs. Hazel Parker, home agents, Tarboro.

The following teams won blue ribbons with their electrical demonstration on "Cheap, Simple and Practical Ways to Use Electricity": For Poultry and Swine: Marvin Carmon and Fred Sanders, Winterville 4-C Club; Charlie Beckton and Amnias Smith, Ayden; Hubert Edwards and James Ward, Stokes.

The following teams won red ribbons: Edward Artis and Robert Cox, Farmville 4-H Club; Irish Patrick and Blondie Jordan, Winterville; Willie Ray Gainer and William Council, Sally Branch.

White ribbon teams were: James Brocket and Melva Woodard, Grimesland 4-H Club; Eparain Streeter and Charles Gay, Falkland; Leroy Hardy and Walter Yarell, Cherry Lane; Janie Mercer and Frank M. Harris, Fountain.

The Winterville 4-H electrical team, Marvin Carmon and Fred Sanders, won the Grand Champion award and will compete for district honors May 15.

Three 4-H teams competed with a demonstration on "Fumigating Tobacco Plant Bed with Allyl Alcohol." The following teams won blue, red and white ribbons respectively: Leon Goodin and William Holloway, Bethel 4-H Club; Linwood Leary and Charlie Moore, Grimesland; Robert Moyer and Billie Little, Grimesland.

The Bethel 4-H tobacco team won the Grand Champion award and will compete for District honors May 15.

Two 4-H teams competed with a demonstration on "Starting with Good Peanut Seed." The Grand Champion Peanut team, Anson Jordan and Eddie MacDaniels, will compete for district honors. The second place peanut team, Clarence Worsley and William Ward, was from the Stokes 4-H Club.

In the cotton demonstration elimination, "Seven Steps to Efficient Cotton Production," the Ayden 4-H Club, Leoman T. Edward and Othal Suggs, won top honors without competition and will participate in the district contest in May.

A Winterville 4-H team, Braddy Moore and Benjamin Russell, won first place without competition with a forage demonstration, "On Legume Inoculation," and will compete for district honors in May.

The following senior dairy food demonstration teams won first, second and third places, respectively, at the elimination program: Delzora Harris, Marion Andrews, Bethel 4-H club; Barbara Gray, Farmville; Louise Langley, Grimesland. The Bethel senior team will compete for honors in the District Federation. Junior winners in the dairy food demonstrations were: Amy Mills, first place, Haddock's 4-H club; Lillie Robbins, second, Winterville, Alma G. Keyes, third, Avden 4-H club.

Other 4-Hers participating in the dairy food demonstrations were: Laura Hopkins, Farmville Club; Peggy Perkins, Stokes; Ruth Winslow, Cherry Lane; Mildred Dupree, Fountain; Evon Lane, Falkland; Amy Mills, Haddock's; Walter Council, Sally Branch; Lillie Gatlin and Vivina Hawkins, Grimesland; Collin Smith and Vilena Hooks, Gritton, and Vivian Sheppard, Simpson club.

According to James M. Goode and Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart, farm and home agents, respectively, and Warren G. Barnes and Miss Helen L. Grimsley, assistant farm and home agents, "the federation program was successful and more impressive. We want to thank the high school principals and 4-H teacher leaders for their cooperation for the numerous extension program carried on from month to month."

Rode Flame-Out To Safe Landing

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—A jet F86D fighter plane flamed out just after take-off Saturday at Travis Field, but the pilot, Maj. L. P. McIntosh from Lockbourne Air Base, Columbus, Ohio, rode the plane down and escaped without injury. McIntosh's home town is Winston-Salem, N.C.

The plane was considered a loss, although parts of it were saved from the fire that threatened to engulf it by the efficient action of a crash crew from a McGee-Tyson Air Force Base, Knoxville, Tenn., squadron, also here for practice.

Maj. McIntosh is the executive officer of the 87th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron, 58th Air Division, and had just started to lead the squadron away from Travis after a month's rocketry practice off the coast here when the plane crashed.

After ascertaining that Maj. McIntosh was uninjured, the pilots of the other 20 planes took off for their home base in Columbus. Ground personnel took off a little later in a transport plane but McIntosh was remaining until an investigation could be completed by a team from Hunter Air Force Base.

The major's coolness was highly praised by the squadron's public information officer, Lt. Robert Dempsey, who also remained. He said that in the few seconds the major had, he got a chute dragging and kept his gear down, the latest recommended procedures in such cases.

Arrest Three On Liquor Charges

Pitt County ABC officers arrested three, two Negro men and a Negro woman, over the weekend on charges of possession of non-tax paid whiskey for the purpose of sale.

Thurman Lee, 28, of the Otter Creek section near Falkland, was arrested early Sunday morning and later released under a $300 bond. Officers reportedly found 17 and one-half gallons of illicit liquor in his residence.

Maybelee Armwood, 30, 1911-A McClellan Street, and George Williams, 33, 304 Boyd Avenue, were both arrested Friday night. The woman was caught with a half-gallon of non-tax paid whiskey and the man was caught with four gallons of non-tax-paid whiskey, according to ABC Officer J. M. Ward.

Bond for the two was set at $200 each. Participating in the arrests were ABC Officers Ward, H. B. Lilley, W. M. Taylor and J. L. Ross, Deputy Sheriff Cecil Crandell and Constable William Crandell of the Stokes community.

Briton Reports Klan Organizing

LONDON (AP)—Two members of Parliament say the Ku Klux Klan is organizing branches in five British cities, apparently because of recent large-scale immigration of Negroes from Jamaica and Trinidad.

Laborites Maurice Orbach and Fenner Brockway told reporters yesterday they will demand that the British government act swiftly to stamp out the anti-Negro American movement before it

Predicts Poor Will Disappear

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The poor won't get poorer during the next

10 years, says a University of Michigan professor — they're going to disappear.

Dr. Wilbur Cohen, currently a visiting professor at UCLA's School of Social Welfare, said in an interview yesterday that poverty in the United States will be abolished within the next decade.

He added, however, that it will take an organized program relying heavily on universities to do the research and turn out trained personnel to help end the poverty problem.

Stumbled Across Son, Home After Twenty Years

LONDON (AP)—Lewis Marks, 68, stumbled across a rain-soaked, unconscious man yesterday in his garden. He learned from police eight hours later it was his son Sidney, whom he had not seen in 20 years.

"I rarely go to that part of the garden, but this time I noticed a loose board in the fence and went to have a looker," said Marks, a retired vaudeville entertainer.

"He could have lain there for days with his mother and me only a few yards away knowing nothing about it. He has been unable to tell us anything as he is still very ill."

Police identified the son, 44, by papers in his wallet. They said he had been working in London recently as an auto salesman. Marks did not explain to reporters the reason for the long separation.

Hopeful Cancer Result In Small Atom-Smasher

By RENNIE TAYLOR AP Science Reporter
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Hopeful results in the treatment of deep cancer were reported today by a Stanford University radiologist.

All traces of malignancy in 48 out of 74 patients treated in a little more than a year have disappeared, Dr. Malcolm A. Bagshaw told the California Medical Assn.

It is far too early to call these results cures, because the cancers could reappear. Five to ten years free of the disease would constitute what doctors call a cure.

The initial apparent successes included a child 22 months old with cancer of the eye, one of the most common forms of malignancy in the very young. A second child with this disease also is being treated with some indications of favorable results, Dr. Bagshaw said.

Besides the 48 encouraging cases, cancers at certain sites in five other patients disappeared under this treatment but the malignancies broke out in other parts of their bodies.

Twenty-one of the 74 patients received no help from the atom smasher, Dr. Bagshaw said. These included eight who had been treated previously with conventional X-ray equipment, three who were far advanced and had no hope of great benefit, and three who could not be found later for checkups. That left only seven cases giving definite evidence of failure.

The treatment machine is a linear accelerator, which produces high-energy electrons. The electrons in turn produce the X-rays which attack the cancer. They are the same as those which come from a conventional X-ray machine except they are much more potent—six million volts compared with 200,000 or 300,000 volts.

This instrument is a small edition of a 700-million-volt machine developed by Stanford physicists for atomic research. Its rays can penetrate about three inches of flesh and bone, which means it can reach just about any point in the chest or abdomen, and can do so more effectively than conventional X rays. It was built under the direction of Prof. Edward L. Ginzton, physicist, and Dr. Henry Kaplan, radiologist.

Urge Plans For Chronically Ill

40N U VCZC dg93laes 29
ASHEVILLE (AP)—North Carolina needs to get busy planning for more adequate care of its estimated half million chronically ill persons, a survey of state health leaders showed today.

The survey was released at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Conference for Social Service. The report stated that the individuals and organizations participating in the survey recognized the fact that "the many-sided chronic illness problem in our state is serious, is increasing, and is worthy of the most careful study and planning."

The survey, conducted by the Health Committee of the conference, involved 39 executives and directors of health, welfare and voluntary organizations and units. Of 41 questionnaires sent to participants, 39 were returned.

Listed as major needs in the chronic disease field were more funds for treatment, nursing care, hospitalization, outpatient care, subsistence for the physically limited, chronic disease beds in general hospitals, chronic disease hospitals, more nursing homes, boarding houses, and home care services and facilities.

Deep - Sleep Treatment For Training Neurotics

DALLAS (AP)—A new technique of treating neurotic patients, by putting them into a deep sleep for as long as 60 days and using recordings to restore their confidence was described yesterday by a Canadian psychiatrist.

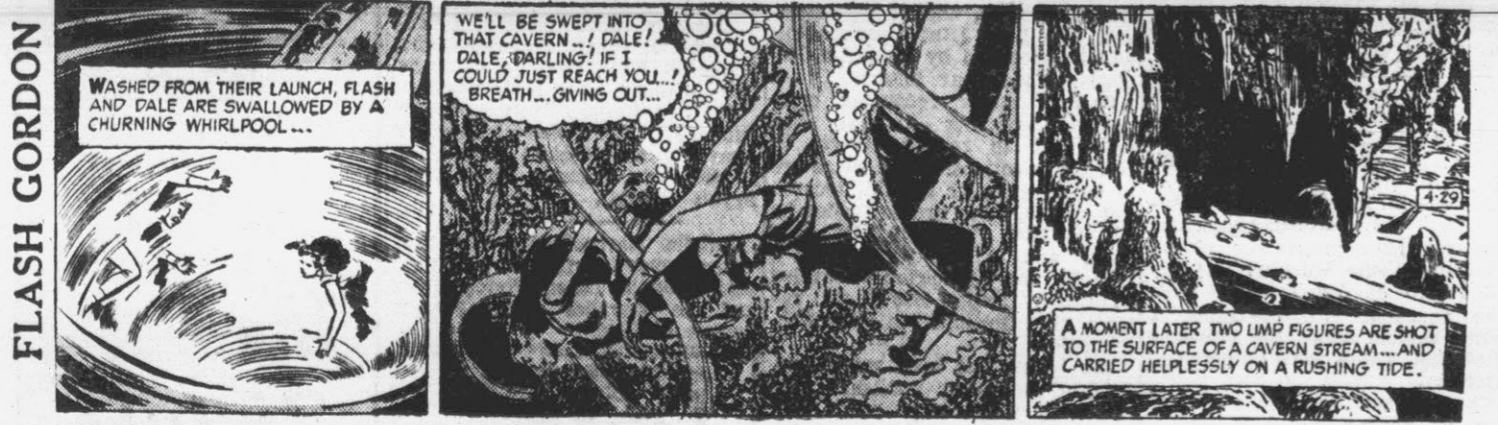

playing two or three affirmative statements over and over for 15 hours a day, perhaps for a week. Depending on the individual's needs, the recording says different things, but an example might be: "I do have confidence. I can make decisions. People do like me."

Hot Reason For Abandoning Case

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Marvin E. Williams was in court on a reckless driving charge. His car struck a city-owned tree. "How fast were you going?" asked Traffic Judge Carleton Jewett.

Hopeful Folks At Home Cooled Economy Ardor

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's advisers were represented as hoping today that 10 days with the folks at home may have cooled somewhat the economy ardor of members of Congress.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (A—NCDA)—Hog prices steady to mostly 25 lower. Tops at 16.75 to 17.25 at Pine Level, Princeton and Blackmans Crossroads; 16.50 to 17.25 at Rocky Mount, Tarboro, Enfield and Bethel; 16.25 to 17.25 at Hillsboro; 16.50 to 17.00 at Kinston, Wintgate, New Bern, Benson, Nahant, Siler City, Mount Gilead and Denton; 16.25 to 17.00 at Kenly; 17.00 at Castle Hayne, Murfreesboro and Clayton; 16.75 at Lumberton, Smithfield, Newton Grove, Shalotte, Goldsboro, Mount Olive, Bailey, Dunn, Clarkton and Whiteville; 16.50 at Rich Square, Fayetteville, Clinton, Micro and Elizabethtown.

RALEIGH (A—NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets: fryers and broilers generally unchanged, farm price mostly 17, with few at 18 and about 20 per cent at undetermined prices. Raleigh eggs steady, A large 32-34; Durham eggs steady, A large 30-33; Charlotte eggs steady, A large 32; Asheville eggs steady, A large 30-32.

NEW YORK (A—Steel)—Advanced in fairly brisk trading as the rest of the market made a quiet rise early this afternoon. Fivotal issues were up from fractions to around a point or so. There was a sprinkling of losers. Specialties, including Lukens Steel, Cooper-Bessemer and Outboard Marine made some wide moves.

U.S. Steel, on the eve of its quarterly report on earnings and dividends tomorrow, showed unusual strength, up well over a point in active turnover. Reports that buyers of steel were building up inventory to beat an expected price rise were credited by Wall Street for the better tone among steel shares. Despite mixed reports of output in the industry, steel scrap prices were reported showing firmer tendencies after a long decline.

Co. and Standard Oil (New Jersey) were a bit higher. Youngstown Sheet advanced more than a point as Bethlehem picked up about a point. Lukens Steel was up better than 3.

Outboard Marine, which has been moving widely on its latest stock split news, dropped more than 7 as its quarterly earnings were less than a year ago. Cooper-Bessemer, still affected by stock split rumors, climbed around 3.

General Motors had a spurt of active trading and was firm. Chrysler fluctuated narrowly after its 3-point rise last week. Among the leading rails, Union Pacific was up around a point, Illinois Central down about the same. Anaconda and Kennecott lost some ground. Gains of about a point or better were made by Du Pont, Dow Chemical, American Cyanamid and Westinghouse Electric.

Rash Of Wrecks Over Weekend For Greenville

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH
In Police Court last Friday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of 31 cases and the charges ranged from drunk in public places to larceny and assault with a deadly weapon.

Ray Jones, 205 Grande avenue, was found guilty of being a public nuisance, and the court gave him four months on the roads. Judge Whedbee also found him guilty of drinking and displaying an intoxicating beverage in public and gave him 30 days (concurrent); for being a vagrant four months (concurrent), and 30 days for being drunk (concurrent).

William P. King, 613 Dickinson avenue, drunk, 30 days on the roads, defendant appealed; the court found King not guilty of malicious damage of personal and public property.

Larry McLawhorn, 200 Washington street, paid costs for possession of non-tax-paid whiskey.

Drunk: Louis Adams, Rt. 2, city, city; Sylvester Vick Sr., Rt. 3, city, $20; Roosevelt Roberson, Negro, 30 days or pay costs; Robert Gaskins, 1017 W. Third street, 30 days on roads; Heber J. Whitehurst, 30 days or pay costs.

Assault with deadly weapon: Michael Le Wilson, 1700 W. Third street, transferred to Superior Court for jury trial. Leroy Tatum, Negro, 30 days on roads, appealed.

Lucy Jones, 508 McKinley avenue, following too close, prayer for judgment continued on payment of costs and she is to furnish to the prosecuting witness proof that the defendant was covered at the time of the accident with liability insurance.

Jennie Daughtry, Negro, Grimesland, larceny, six months, suspended on payment of $30, costs deducted and she was placed on probation for a year.

Will L. Gadsden, Negro, possession of non-tax paid-whiskey, 30 days, suspended on good behavior and he is not to violate any law for two years and pay $25, costs deducted.

Zeno C. Dupree, Negro, Snow Hill, failure to stop at red light, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $10. He is not to operate a motor vehicle for 90 days unless he makes restitution for property damage.

Ralph E. Elam, Negro, Winterville, paid costs for failure to yield right of way.

No probable cause was found in the case charging Joe Louis Randolph with robbery.

Peter B. Fiercello, Jacksonville, no operator's license, prayer for judgment continued and he is not to drive a motor vehicle without a license and pay costs.

Jasper Hawkins, Negro, assault on a female, 30 days, suspended on payment of costs and he is not to harm or molest Elizabeth Hawkins, pay $20 medical bill and pay court costs.

Calvin Tyson, Negro, Rt. 1, city, careless and reckless driving, 30 days, suspended and he is not to drive for 90 days, pay $25, costs deducted. He is to behave and not violate any motor vehicle law for two years.

Russell Rollins, Negro, Portsmouth, Va., failure to keep lookout, prayer for judgment continued on payment of costs and he is not to drive for 90 days unless he makes adequate restitution for property damage.

John Atkinson, Negro, 719 Fleming street, possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for sale, six months on the roads, appealed.

Margaret Spain, 2818 Hamilton street, speeding, paid costs.

Jasper E. Armwood, Negro, paid costs for improper passing and prayer for judgment was continued.

John W. Godwin, 820 Evans street, careless and reckless driving, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $25, costs deducted. The judgment provides that he is not to operate a motor vehicle on Sundays for eight weeks.

William H. Knight, Negro, Robersonville, no chauffeur's license, paid costs.

There were no personal injuries reported in a two-car collision early this morning at the intersection of Line and Myrtle Aves.

Involved in the collision were William W. Gainey of West Seventh S. and David A. Lilley of 2114 Ward St. Gainey was charged with failure to yield the right of way.

The accident occurred at 6:55 a.m. Officers estimated damages to the 1948 vehicle being operated by Gainey at $75. Damages were estimated at $150 to the left front door and fender of Lilley's automobile.

Norman Floyd Smith of 2509 Jefferson Dr. was charged with no driver's license, leaving the scene of an accident and reckless driving as the result of an accident early Sunday morning.

Investigating officers of the local police department stated today Smith was the driver of the 1956 automobile that collided into the back of a Nu-Car Carrier parked on 14th St. Preston Earl Dail of 307 East 14th St was identified as the driver of the car carrier.

The 1956 automobile suffered $700 damages to the right front and side. Only $20 damage was done to the left rear end of the trailer. The tractor was not damaged, officers said.

A collision involving three automobiles, early Saturday morning caused $1,150 damages.

Edward Louis Murphy, 33-year-old Negro of 809 Douglas Ave., was charged with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol. There were no personal injuries.

The accident took place at 1:35 a.m. on Forbes St.

Police estimated damages to Murphy's car at $500. The other vehicles were parked at the time of the collision. A 1956 automobile owned by L. M. Lester of Raeford suffered $500 damages. Another automobile parked nearby owned by Bob Gordon Daniels of Gastonia Rt 1 was damaged only slightly.

He said, "I have been fortunate in making contacts with people who have been in a position to assist me in the fundamental knowledge of the business."

The recently recorded song by The McGuire Sisters is by no means the only measure of success experienced by Nobles. Don Cornell has already recorded "Before It's Time To Say Goodnight". Roy Hamilton has two of his songs under consideration at this time, one of which is "Too Young For Love."

Another one of Nobles' songs, "The Other Man," has been recorded by Tommy Leonetti, an established singer, and Danny Lamego, a new recording artist. A recent review of the song, Cash Box stated in part, ". . . speaking of 'The Other Man,' it's an excellent coupling that could break wide open and win him (Leonetti) many new fans. It's a powerful rhythmic love tune with a sensational gimmick beat that'll have the kids hoppin'."

Several of his other songs, released in recent months, such as "Only Me," "Charlie-O," "Tell Me Who" have been billed as possible hit tunes.

Teresa Brewer now has "Careless Caresses", one of his latest, and "No Love (But Your Love)" will be recorded by Columbia Records in the near future.

Several major recording companies, including Capital and RCA, are to release several of Nobles' selections. Three songs are to be released by Herald Records this month. They are two sides by Al Savage, "Trouble On My Mind" and "A Fool Was I", and a side by the Mellotones entitled "Tonight". Nappy Brown will release "It's Goodbye" in May, Nobles said.

His talent has been recognized. Several New York publishing and recording firms have made him attractive contract offers to become an exclusive writer. "I declined each of these offers because I prefer to free lance," Nobles said.

Most of his music writing is done at home where he can be with his wife, the former Leah Bryant of Greenville, and their three children, Brenda, 10, Steven Myles, seven, and Rita Francene, four. Since returning from New York approximately three weeks ago, he has been working on nearly 20 new compositions.

"My publishers have called me several times in the past three weeks and I expect to get most of these out on my return to New York," the writer said.

What type of music is he writing?

"I am writing mostly to appeal to the teenage audience at this time whereas in a year or a couple of months the musical trend might change to the extent that this type of material will not be in demand as it is today," he said.

The writer added, "However if this be the case I will certainly make an effort to conform to the trend as it changes."

Upon his return to New York, Nobles is planning to write a full session for Linda Hopkins, an established female vocalist in the "big city." A full session, he explained, consists of four songs.

What are the essentials of being a successful writer?

Three important factors were pointed out. Nobles said, "First a writer must be able to create moods where there are no tangible moods. Second, a person must have a working knowledge of grammar and music structure. Third, it is necessary to be able to develop serious or simple expressions into an interesting story, a story that in my opinion will appeal to the public."

"To go along with these three factors," he added, "a writer must have a certain amount of luck."

Luck, talent, or whatever it is called, William Nobles is certainly on his way toward the top in the world of music.

Jury Rules No Claim By Estate

A suit that grew out of the death of a 56-year-old Negro man was ended Friday when a jury ruled that his estate had no claim against a Pitt County storekeeper.

Lucy Jordan, administratrix of the estate of Eugene Jordan, had entered a suit for $25,000 against John Wilson and Cora Wilson as a result of Jordan's death. She charged in her complaint that Wilson had assaulted the deceased on November 17, 1954, causing head injuries. She further charged that Wilson had Jordan jailed as a drunk, denying him necessary medical care.

Jordan died on November 18 enroute to Duke Hospital from Pitt Memorial Hospital. He was being transferred to Duke for treatment of a head injury.

The jury ruled that Wilson did not unlawfully assault Jordan and that Jordan's death could not have been caused by Wilson. The jury-men also said Wilson had not "negligently and wrongfully" caused Jordan to be placed in jail when he was in need of medical care.

The jury decision ended a two-weeks' civil term of Superior Court. Judge J. Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill presided over both weeks.

Prior to the jury's return Friday, Judge Frizzelle signed a judgment awarding an absolute divorce to Bobby Jean Kittrell from Alton Bryan Kittrell.

Amelia Earhart was the first woman ever to win both the United States Distinguished Flying Cross and the chevalier of the French Legion of Honor.

Annual Concert
The C. M. Eppes High School Glee Club will present its annual concert on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium.

The program will consist of selections by the approximately eighty-voiced mixed group, the girls' chorus, the boys' chorus, and several soloists. The concert is under the direction of Mrs. S. L. Davenport.

The public is invited to attend. A small admission fee will be charged and the proceeds will be used to aid the music department.
