Bike Rider Had Narrow Escape

INJURED BOY'S BICYCLE—A young Wahl Coates school student suffered only minor injuries when his bicycle was struck and run over by an automobile yesterday afternoon on Elm Street. The impact was so great that a handle bar grip was knocked off one of the handles. (Photo by Everett Parker).

Young Bicyclist Struck By Auto; Minor Injuries

An 11-year-old boy narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon when an automobile struck his bicycle on Elm Street. Steve Partridge, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. L. J. Partridge of 307 S. Library St., suffered only minor abrasions of the arm. The young boy was struck from behind by an automobile driven by Mrs. Ella Proctor Galloway of 1007 E. Third St. as he prepared to cross the street to Elm Street Park.

He was transferred to Pitt Memorial Hospital shortly after the accident by the Greenville Rescue Truck. After being treated he was released later in the afternoon. The injured boy stated that he was riding his bicycle on the right side of Elm Street and was preparing to cross the road leading to the Elm Street Park when he was struck by the automobile. He said that he did not know "that anything was coming."

Mrs. Galloway told the investigating officer from the Greenville Police Department that she could not stop in time to avoid hitting the bicycle. The automobile struck the back of the bicycle and threw the boy a short distance down the pavement before running over the wheel. No charges were made by the investigating police officer.

There was no damage to the 1955 automobile. The bicycle was damaged slightly. Two-Car Collision No personal injuries were sustained in a two-car collision at the intersection of Roosevelt and Douglas Avenues yesterday afternoon.

No charges were made by investigating officers. Damage to the two vehicles totaled $300, according to reports. Involved in the accident was a 1950 one-half ton truck driven by James Morris Teel, 27-year-old Negro of 210 Moore St., and a 1951 automobile being operated by Mary H. Whitehurst, 34-year-old Negro woman. The collision occurred around 4 o'clock.

Train Tied By Piece Of Rope

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — A piece of rope literally held together a three-car New Haven Railroad train as it limped from Providence to New London, Conn., 55 minutes late yesterday. A broken power cable between the second and third cars disabled the train. Fireman Russell R. Hannon rode between the cars holding the ends of the cable together for several miles. In East Greenwich some heavy cord was obtained and the cable was tied together until the train reached New London.

Second Disaster Area For Texas

DALLAS — A new disaster area was declared on the lower Sabine as the flooding river surged downstream at record heights today, threatening to inundate the second time in four years the small community of Deweyville.

The 1,000 residents of the Newton County town, 10 miles north of Orange, Tex., were standing by to evacuate if necessary. The town was hit by a flood in 1953. Heavy cloudbursts soaked the Trinity River watershed in north central Texas, causing flash floods in the Dallas area. A new flood warning was issued for the Trinity as it began a rapid rise.

The rains spread over much of the eastern half of the state in varying amounts, but except for the Sabine and Trinity, the flood threat was easing along other rivers, but water was still high. On the upper Sabine, several hundred oil wells in the petroleum-rich Gladewater area were flooded and shut down as high water crept out around the southwestern edge of town. Officials said, however, they thought the peak crest was passed.

Possibly two drownings were blamed on high waters, making a total of at least 16 since the heavy rains began causing flooding in Texas two weeks ago. Delmer Lee Luke, 17, Burk Burnett, and his horse drowned while swimming in rain-swollen Paradise Creek near Vernon. Ronnie Wyatt, 16, Longview, disappeared while fishing in flood waters of the Sabine south of Longview.

More than 9,000 persons have been forced to flee before rising waters. State disaster headquarters estimate now that more than 35,000 acres of land are flooded. Officials designated the entire area of Newton County as a disaster area after mapping plans for full-scale evacuation of Deweyville.

The river crested at 14.37 feet last night and was expected to reach 15.5 feet today and 16.3 feet tomorrow. John W. Simmons, executive vice president and general manager of the Sabine River Authority, said there was no immediate threat to the city of Orange. "We're just sweating it out as long as we can," said Claude Villamez, 46, a Gulf Oil Co. employee at Deweyville.

More than 2 1/2 inches of rain soaked Dallas last night, flooding at least 34 streets in low-lying underpasses. More than 150 persons had to be evacuated for temporary shelter when the hard rain flooded a small section in East Dallas.

Referendum Bill Expected To Die

RALEIGH — If the action of past recent legislatures is an indication, a statewide liquor referendum bill will be killed with an unfavorable report when a House committee votes on it. Wet and dry forces delivered arguments for and against the bill at a public hearing yesterday before the House Committee on Propositions and Grievances. Committee Chairman Dwight I. Uhn of Cabarrus said after the hearing the committee would vote on the measure at a later meeting.

In sharp contrast to previous years, only about 30 persons attended the committee hearing. Dry forces banked their case on a huge stack of petitions urging a statewide vote on the liquor issue. The petitions bore 233,716 names. A measure before the House committee calls for a statewide vote in the next general election on the liquor question. A dry victory in such an election would ban the sale of liquor, beer and wine throughout the state. A wet victory would bring the sale of all three beverages in every county in the state.

Recent mass liquor raids in wet Mecklenburg and several surrounding dry counties were cited by both sides in presenting their arguments. tags each year, would be required to offer proof of financial responsibility in one of three ways: (1) A liability insurance policy, (2) a financial responsibility bond, or (3) a financial responsibility deposit. The House removed an amendment it had tacked on the bill the day before. The amendment provided that damage settlements of over $200 made within 60 days of an accident would not be binding unless the person making the settlement had the advice of counsel.

Other legislative highlights yesterday included: 1. The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill to set up a real estate licensing board to license and regulate real estate brokers and salesmen. The vote was 41 to 5. 2. The Senate received a resolution calling for creation of a 15-member commission to study and recommend changes in the state constitution. Sen. Claude Currie of Durham was joined by several others in offering the resolution. 3. Rep. Frank Wooten of Pitt sponsored a bill to provide for the creation of forest districts. Under the measure, landowners could band together to improve their forests. 4. The Senate debated and delayed action for a week on a bill which would allow sterilization of women who give birth to two or more illegitimate children. Sen. Ed. Owens of Washington declared

U.S. Assures Allies That 1957 Defense Plans Will Be Fulfilled

Reveal Debate On Vulnerability Of Naval Task Force

By ELTON C. FAY WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Air Force Donald Quarles says that a single hydrogen-headed guided bomb launched by a plane could knock out a naval task force. And Air Gen. Nathan Twining claims that high-level attack by a single squadron of heavy or medium jet bombers dropping nuclear bombs could produce the same result. Publication today of testimony by top Pentagon leaders before a House Appropriations subcommittee revealed that committee questioning stirred the Air Force and Navy into renewed argument about the vulnerability of carrier task forces.

Charles Thomas, until recently secretary of the Navy, and Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, testified that a carrier force would be difficult to locate in the open sea. Even if it were located, they said, the missile and countermissile defenses of the force would give it a high degree of protection from attacking planes.

The testimony was given in January and February — some time before Quarles was named deputy secretary of defense and Twining was chosen chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Quarles said that if bombers with an air-to-surface guided missile having a 50-to-100-mile range approached a carrier task force, "I do not know of anything that could be done to prevent that missile, if it were armed with a megaton warhead, from knocking out a carrier task force, depending on how the force was deployed." When Twining was asked how ships maneuvering could be attacked, he replied: "With bombers using atomic weapons." How close would the bombs need to come? "A couple of miles. A 'near miss' works in this case. You can miss them quite a ways and still sink them or put them out of commission."

Burke said the use of radar by reconnaissance planes would give away the attempted attack and that the enemy would sustain "terrific damage" from the aircraft and missile defenses of the task force. The Navy also received support from two other powerful quarters — Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, present JCS chairman. When Chairman Mahon (D-Tex.) asked about the defense Department's recommendation for a $10 or $14 million dollar appropriation for an atomic carrier, Wilson replied that "we thought it was the right thing to do," and added: "You may say that a big carrier is a good target. But what about an air base?"

Radford insisted that "the problem of finding a carrier striking force is still going to be difficult." BONN, Germany — The United States assured its Atlantic allies today it intends to carry out 1957 defense plans in full. Secretary of State Dulles told the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization he was conveying to them the personal decision of President Eisenhower, as given Dulles before he left Washington. Dulles said Eisenhower instructed him to tell the NATO Council that no changes are contemplated in American plans as disclosed to NATO last December. This means the United States will not follow the recent example of Britain, which is cutting its forces in Europe and will reduce its armed forces by 50 per cent in the next five years. The NATO ministers opened a three-day session with a brief public meeting at Bad Godesberg, followed by a closed session at the West German Foreign Ministry. Dulles spoke at the closed session and his statements were reported by persons who attended. Dulles referred to fears that Britain's decision might touch off a chain reaction among the other NATO allies. He said this was not so in the case of the United States, although his country, like Britain, is placing increased reliance on the deterrent powers of atomic weapons. Dulles said Russia is in the midst of a propaganda campaign to prevent the West from improving its defensive position. "It would be folly to weaken our defenses only on the basis of Soviet promises," Dulles was quoted as saying. He said there must be adequate control and inspection to verify and check the fulfillment of Russian disarmament promises. "The speaker at the opening session was West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who challenged the Soviet Union to match West Germany's pledges of 1954 not to produce atomic, bacteriological or chemical weapons, and to accept strict and permanent control of all armaments. "I am convinced that every nation would follow the Russian example and the danger of atomic war would be a thing of the past," Adenauer told the opening session of a three-day meeting of the NATO Council of Foreign Ministers. But Adenauer said that in contrast to West Germany's pledges in the 1954 Western European Union treaty, the Soviets have blocked every Western disarmament proposal by refusing control and inspection of armaments. Adenauer also asserted that recent Russian warnings to NATO members and their allies about the dangers of nuclear warfare overlook the simple fact that "such war can be unleashed only by Soviet attack."

West Germany, he said, is ready to make its full contribution to the NATO defense shield. That shield, said Adenauer, under present conditions offers the best hope of avoiding "the apocalyptic fate of modern war." Citing criticism that NATO's forces are inadequate to deal with the Soviet Union's immense military power, Adenauer said NATO's forces assuredly are inadequate for waging a war of aggression.

Atom-Powered Plane Program Is Cut Back

WASHINGTON — The Air Force was disclosed today to have cut by nearly two-thirds the funds earmarked for development work next year on an atomic plane. Testimony by Pentagon officials before a House Military Appropriations subcommittee disclosed the original figure of 500 to 600 million dollars had been pared to 213 millions. The testimony, given in secret some time ago, was made public today.

Donald Quarles, then Air Force secretary, testified that by a higher annual expenditure than now planned it might have been possible to build a simple "flying reactor" without too much regard to its military usefulness "at some earlier date." "We abandoned that program on the ground it was a luxury we could not afford," he said. "It would not contribute to our military potential and therefore we would not attempt to do it."

What the Air Force wants, said Quarles, is a nuclear-powered bomber of "unlimited range, high altitude and supersonic speed over the target." Dr. Clifford Furnas, then assistant secretary of the defense for research and development, told the subcommittee that "we are quite a long way from having an atomic-powered airplane and if the Russians have anything on it, I would be quite surprised, but I have no evidence on that at all."

Rep. Sikes (D-Fla.) said, "It seems to me we may be dragging our heels in the development of atomic powered ships and planes," adding that "perhaps I am just impatient." An example of other technical complexities with which the Air Force is wrestling appeared in testimony by Maj. B. A. Schriever, chief of ballistic missile development. The defense problem is becoming so intricate that the Air Force has begun exploration of an anti-anti-ballistic missile—a weapon to operate against a weapon operating against a ballistic missile.

Will Close Down Stallings School

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Air Force Quarles announced today that the primary flying school program will be discontinued on June 30 at Stallings Air Force Base, Kinston, N.C., and at the Marana Base near Tucson, Ariz. Quarles, in a letter to members of Congress, said study has determined that the pilot training program can support only seven of the nine programs at Air Force bases after July 1. His letter, made public by Rep. Fountain (D-NC), stated that the primary consideration is expenditure of public funds. He wrote that Kinston is one of the least expensive schools now in operation but that about two million dollars would be needed to bring it up to operational standards.

Warns Russians 'Just Waiting'

ROCK HILL, S.C. — The Russians are waiting for the United States to have another depression before launching World War III, says Associated Press veteran foreign correspondent Eddy Gilmore. Speaking to Winthrop College students here last night, Gilmore said "Russia would start World War III immediately if their leaders believed they could crush us." Gilmore advised the U.S. not to overrate Russia. He reminded the students that the men in the Kremlin are clowns—not fools.

Over 30 Dead In Transport Crash

BLACKBUSHE, England — A crippled military transport plane crashed in flames last night after a desperate attempt to return here for an emergency landing. Thirty-three of 35 persons aboard died. The twin-engine Viking was carrying military personnel and their families to Libya. Officials said the dead included one woman and two children. Also aboard were 25 British soldiers, 2 War Department civilian workers and a crew of 5. Three soldiers and the pilot were taken alive from the flaming wreckage and rushed to a hospital. One soldier and the pilot died later. The other two soldiers were badly burned. The plane had just left the Blackbushe airfield for Lyon, France, its first stop, when a radioed appeal was made for permission to return for an emergency landing. The pilot was circling the field to get lined up with a runway when one engine exploded. The plane crashed near a highway, ripped through a row of 60 trees and burst into flames. It went down two miles from the runway.

Pinza Suffers Another Attack

STAMFORD, Conn. — Ezio Pinza, 64, has suffered another heart attack — his third since August. The operatic basso and Broadway star was stricken in his home Tuesday. His wife said he is under oxygen "on and off" at home. He was not taken to a hospital. Mrs. Pinza said last night he was improving. Pinza suffered his first attack in Italy last August. He had another attack in December.

Picks Tar Heel As Ambassador

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower today nominated career diplomat Wilson C. Flake of Polkton, N.C., as the first U.S. ambassador to the new African republic of Ghana. Flake, 51, now is counselor at the U.S. Embassy in Rome. Previously he served as counselor at Pretoria, South Africa, and as executive director of the State Department's bureau of Far Eastern affairs. He has been in the diplomatic service since 1929.

Building Need Seen For Growing Rescue Squad

Dick Greene, chairman of a Moose Lodge committee appointed to investigate ways to finance such a building, called on various persons interested in the project to point up the need for such a building. Those in attendance learned: (1) that Greenville's main fire station is extremely cramped for space due to the addition of rescue equipment; (2) that an addition could be constructed alongside the main station which would solve the space problem; (3) that such a building could be built for $8,000 or $9,000. Fire Chief George Gardner passed around a photo to the group which illustrated the crowded conditions at the main station. One fire truck, he pointed out is parked behind a rescue ambulance. Auto Liability Bill Gaining Ground

RALEIGH — Legislation calling for compulsory auto liability insurance appears to be gaining momentum in its progress through the General Assembly. Forces behind the bill showed more strength yesterday as the House approved it on third reading and sent it to the Senate. Opponents contended that a big increase in insurance rates would result from the measure. However, the bill's sponsor, Rep. Walter Jones of Pitt declared that "if I had any idea this would raise insurance rates I would be against this measure."

The bill would compel motorists to buy liability insurance to insure payment of claims resulting from auto accidents. Motorists, when buying their auto license tags each year, would be required to offer proof of financial responsibility in one of three ways: (1) A liability insurance policy, (2) a financial responsibility bond, or (3) a financial responsibility deposit. The House removed an amendment it had tacked on the bill the day before. The amendment provided that damage settlements of over $200 made within 60 days of an accident would not be binding unless the person making the settlement had the advice of counsel.

Other legislative highlights yesterday included: 1. The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill to set up a real estate licensing board to license and regulate real estate brokers and salesmen. The vote was 41 to 5. 2. The Senate received a resolution calling for creation of a 15-member commission to study and recommend changes in the state constitution. Sen. Claude Currie of Durham was joined by several others in offering the resolution. 3. Rep. Frank Wooten of Pitt sponsored a bill to provide for the creation of forest districts. Under the measure, landowners could band together to improve their forests. 4. The Senate debated and delayed action for a week on a bill which would allow sterilization of women who give birth to two or more illegitimate children. Sen. Ed. Owens of Washington declared during the debate that he was "very much afraid" of the bill. He added, "We are dealing with human beings not beasts in the field." 5. The House Roads Committee held a hearing but did not vote on a bill providing for a motor vehicle mechanical inspection law. 6. The Senate enacted into law a bill to allow persons convicted of two or more offenses of drunk driving to get their licenses back sooner than the old law has allowed—if they have been of good behavior. 7. The House elections committee put its approval on a measure which would largely restore a 1955 law on the counting of "mixed ticket" ballots in elections.

Mrs. Paul Franklin Thomas, Jr.

Miss Sylvia Ann Clark of Bath and Greenville and Paul Franklin Thomas Jr. of Jacksonville, N. C. and Greenville were married Saturday afternoon in a private ceremony in the home of Mrs. Lela J. Carson, with whom the bride has made her home for the past three years.

The Rev. J. W. Butler performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Clark of Bath and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Thomas Sr. of Jacksonville, formerly of Norfolk, Va. and Raleigh.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length white nylon net dress and matching accessories. Her only flower was a white orchid worn on her shoulder.

The groom had his father as his best man.

For the wedding trip the bride chose a navy blue suit.

Mrs. Thomas, a graduate of Bath High School, had commercial courses and has been employed by the DuPont Company in Kinston. After service with the U. S. Navy Sixth Fleet, Mr. Thomas has continued his college education and is now a business education major in the junior class at East Carolina College.

After their wedding trip, the couple will reside at 406 1/2 Harding Street.

Origin of Term "Wedding"

It is interesting to learn that the word wedding originated in olden days when a prospective bridegroom bartered domestic animals, money or goods—collectively known as a "wed"—for a wife.

Brides-Elect Are Honored

On Tuesday morning Miss Virginia Perkins, Miss Mary Ann Waldrop, and Miss Hannah Proctor, brides-elect, were honored at a Coca-Cola party by Mrs. Howard Moye, Mrs. J. H. Harrell, Mrs. R. G. Lang, and Mrs. M. P. Hoot in the home of Mrs. Hoot on East Fifth Street.

Approximately eighty friends of the honorees were greeted at the door by Mrs. Hoot. The receiving line was composed of Mrs. Moye, Mrs. Harrell, and Mrs. Lang, the honorees, and the mothers of the honorees, Mrs. Reid Perkins, Mrs. J. H. Waldrop, and Mrs. Knott Proctor.

As guests moved from the receiving line, they were greeted by Mrs. S. M. Crisp at the far end of the living room. In the den, they were received by Mrs. David Evans and Mrs. Kenneth Cuthbert. Mrs. J. P. Arthur extended a welcome in the hall and Mrs. Wm. S. Corbett Jr. invited guests into the dining room.

Refreshments were served from the dining table covered with a fresh pink imported cutwork cloth, centered with an antique crystal epergne that was filled with pink rosebuds, lavender sweetpeas, petite white verbena, and lilies-of-the-valley fringed with ruffled pink net. Mrs. Lee Hannah served diced fresh fruit in punch cups from a crystal punch bowl, and Mrs. Ed Waldrop poured green party punch over the fruit.

Mrs. J. Knott Proctor Jr. assisted at a side serving table while Mrs. Cliff Edwards and Miss Rachel Lang assisted in the dining room serving guests. Tinged green cucumber and cheese sandwiches in the shape of a bell with a tiny white ribbon bow, date and cheese pastry rolls, pinwheel sausage biscuits, assorted party cookies. Others helping during the party were Mrs. Lindsay Wilkerson, Mrs. Tyson Bibbro, and Mrs. Reynolds May.

Mrs. Walter Harrington directed guests from the dining room into the recreation room or porch where they were greeted by Mrs. J. L. Winstead and Mrs. F. W. A. Mills.

On the piano in the living room was a tall arrangement of pink peonies, roses, and pink dyed pyracantha placed in a crystal compote. Focal interest was on a table arrangement of large pink roses and draped pink gladiolas. The mantel held a low grouping of lavender iris and pink roses. The den displayed two arrangements, one of white peonies and dark red Sweet William, and another of large shaded pink and yellow roses and iris. In the hall there was a two-tier arrangement of solid red roses. The mantel in the recreation room featured shells filled overflowing with yellow bell and white yellow-centered narcissi and yellow pansies, centered with a miniature bride and groom.

Goodbyes were said by Mrs. John D. Messick. The hostesses pre-

Invitation Etiquette

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of articles written for the bride, her fiancé, parents and members of the party who want all the information they can get on making their wedding a big success.)

By ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Woman's Editor
Rare indeed is the gate crasher at a wedding.

Most people these days attend weddings and particularly receptions—only by invitation but invited they must be.

There are, however, a few basic principles to be remembered in issuing invitations.

The invitation itself may be engraved or handwritten, depending upon the number of guests and the formality of the occasion.

Fold the wedding invitation with the engraving inside and inserted in the inner envelope with the folded edge down. The front of the inner envelope, when placed in the outer one, faces the flap. When the wedding is at home, on the invitation—it's taken for granted guests will remain to wish the newlyweds happiness and sip a cup of punch. A church wedding and reception, however, require separate invitations.

The reception invitation should let its recipients know some reply is expected and where it can be sent.

After sending the invitations, the gifts will begin to arrive. Writing thank-you notes comes easier before the wedding than after. Besides, it's possible to feel more genuinely grateful for dishes that haven't yet been broken.

Invite close friends to a tea or cocktail party a few days before the wedding if you want to show them the wedding gifts and the reception isn't being held at home.

Door Is Left Open For Top Aides

The Senate contributed to building better government in North Carolina by killing the bill of Sen. Avery Hightower which would have restricted the governor in appointing former legislators to state posts.

By its same action the Senate refuted the charges that Gov. Hodges has been exerting "undue influence" on the legislature in the interest of the program he has laid before that body and the people of North Carolina.

Although the people of North Carolina do not want to see any governor rule the legislature with an iron hand, neither do the people of the state expect their governor to sit back and take no sides in legislative matters. They want and expect the chief executive of North Carolina to play a major role in shaping the policies of the state during his tenure of office. If he declines to do that, even though it sometimes means bringing upon the legislature all the pressure his high office can muster, he is not discharging the duties of governor in the way the people of North Carolina want him to do.

Hightower's bill quite clearly was pointed toward preventing the chief executive from rewarding faithful members of the legislature with appointments to various posts immediately after a legislative session. While it may have prevented the governor from "paying-off" with appointments some members of the legislature, it would have likewise eliminated from appointment to public office some of the most capable political leaders the state has.

Members of the legislature for the most part of capable men. They have at their fingertips first hand information of the problems which confront the various state agencies and the intent of the legislature in passing laws which govern the operation of these agencies. To make a legislator ineligible for appointment to an office by the governor until two years after his term in the General Assembly expired would deprive the state of experienced, informed and capable leadership which it needs in offices of responsibility.

The disadvantages of the bill so far as the welfare of the state as a whole is concerned, would certainly outweigh any good which might be accomplished by limiting the governor's power to return favors to legislators who have helped him with his administration program.

The Reflector is grateful that the Senate had the wisdom to kill this bill which would have done the state of North Carolina a grave injustice.

Compulsory Liability Law Fills Big Need

The Senate should follow the example set by the House yesterday in providing the people of North Carolina more protection with a compulsory liability law for automobiles.

Rep. Walter Jones' compulsory liability insurance bill has faced an uphill battle since it was introduced early in the session. As members of the House have given careful attention to the provisions of the bill and have heard arguments for and against it, they have recognized its important merits. They have recognized the fact that the financial responsibility act passed by a previous legislature fails to afford the people of the state the protection they need. This new compulsory liability insurance bill, as amended, fills the gaps left by the earlier law and at the same time does not penalize the safe driver with abnormally high insurance rates.

The fate of the bill now hangs with the Senate. We trust members of that body will recognize the merits of Rep. Jones' bill as their counterparts in the House did after careful examination of its provisions.

It is only right that owners of automobiles on the highway of the state give proof of financial responsibility to meet damage claims before they receive a license for their vehicle. Under the bill as passed by the House this financial responsibility proof could consist of 1. a liability insurance policy; 2. a financial responsibility bond; or 3. a financial responsibility cash deposit.

The Senate should give this compulsory liability insurance bill its quick approval so the bill may be written into law for the protection of millions of North Carolinians on the highways of this state every day.

Minimum Wage Bill In House

By LYNN NISBET

MINIMUM WAGE — The wage bill has a better than even chance to pass the House of Representatives. It passed the Senate last week on a roll call vote 43-4, was called back for a clarifying amendment and passed again Monday night without a dissenting voice.

Now in the House it is expected to have less margin but enough votes to assure enactment into law.

There has been almost complete reversal of sentiment among merchants and other types of business within the past two years. Last session there was vigorous opposition from several groups which this year offered tentative support. Two main reasons are given for this changed attitude. First, is the improving economy, the beneficial effect of the higher Federal minimum wage and more willing acceptance of governmental regulation of business.

Secondly, and much more influential, is the aid rendered supporters of the bill by the fight for larger increases in school teacher pay. The relationship between the two issues is not apparent at casual surface glance, but is readily understood by looking a little deeper into the situation.

Many legislators have expressed surprise at the back home grass roots support for the Board of Education teacher pay schedule. It was found among organizations of bankers, manufacturers, merchants and professional societies. Personal letters and group resolutions were forwarded by big taxpayers to the Legislature in behalf of higher pay for teachers. Spokesmen for these same groups appeared before legislative committees advocating 15 to 20 per cent raises.

This back home strength was sufficient to influence Governor Hodges to raise his recommendation from 9.1 per cent increase to a 15 per cent raise.

CONSISTENCY — The business men who so strongly pleaded for an adequate pay scale for teachers could not consistently oppose a minimum wage of 75 cents an hour for labor. Many of them supported it, and most of the others kept quiet.

The school teachers and their friends unwittingly, but not unwillingly, contributed more to the favorable attitude on minimum wages than all the lobbying by labor unions and do-gooder groups.

TOO FAR — Sponsors of a bill to permit the use of electric shock for killing catfish in about a 50-mile stretch of the Cape Fear were so certain the shock wouldn't harm other fish, they went too far in offering "relief." The bill provided that if a survey by the Commercial Fisheries Division showed that other fish were being harmed the C&D Board could declare the law "null and void." A House Judiciary Committee wasn't going to let any department repeal a legislative act. So a mountain man,

Rep. A. E. Leak of Madison, got the bill amended to provide that the C&D folks could "adopt suitable regulations." Same end result, but implies no right of repeal for an act of the General Assembly.

The same committee, which previously had declined to extend the secret jurisdiction of domestic relations courts, balked at one provision in a land surveyor license bill which would have permitted "private reprimand" for a first offense against regulations of the examining board. A board spokesman said he had no objection to deleting the word "private."

Some thought the grandfather clauses in these bills go too far. Their purpose is to protect existing laws and to perpetuate the inefficiency by continuously moving up the effective dates. "If we don't move them up," said Rep. L. H. Ross of Beaufort, "they'll be great-grandfather clauses."

POTPOURRI — Rep. Wayland Floyd of Robeson, doing some research on a bill about optometrists, discovered that the North Carolina statutes place some restriction on activities of nearly all professions except medical doctors, dentists, nurses, pharmacists and other practitioners have their operations restricted by law. The medical doctors are limited only by what is called "accepted methods."

Rep. E. T. Bost of Cabarrus is a former Speaker of the House and a recognized authority on parliamentary procedure. He is also chairman of Judiciary I committee this session. When Rep. Clyde Shreve of Guilford had some question about the propriety of a motion made by Rep. Wayland Floyd of Robeson, he prefaced the question with the statement: "I am reluctant to talk about war in the presence of Hannibal, but I think we are getting balked up."

A number of bills have come to the legislative mill from the Judicial Council. There was one about courts inferior to the Superior Court granting divorces, on basis of notice by publication only. Problem appeared to have arisen over changes some months ago that the Nash county recorder's court was granting too many divorces when one party had not been served notice of the action except by publication in a probably obscure or small circulation newspaper. John Robinson, spokesman for the Judicial Council, said it was first thought that these inferior courts should be prohibited from granting divorces under any conditions, "but we did not think that bill would pass." The committee decided that if the bill was offered just because it might be enacted into law, not because it was good legislation, it might well go into the discard. The committee then further voiced opinion that if conditions are bad in some communities they ought to clean up their own backyards and not impose unfair restrictions all over the state. Motion for an unfavorable report carried by unanimous vote.

Just Don't Fall Asleep, Bud

Smoke, But Not A Fire

A small group of evening strollers gathered in front of Stelen's store on Evans St. Tuesday evening. They were peering intently through the plate glass front.

Within a short while a man hurried up to the store accompanied by an officer. He pointed inside and the officer ran down the street.

"What did he say?" one of the group asked.

"He said it looked like it was on fire to him," another replied.

Sure enough, a thick smoke hung in the store. In fact a lighted display in the rear could hardly be seen from the front. Members of the group agreed that where there was smoke there was fire.

"It's a lot thicker now than when I arrived," one declared.

The solemn group waited for the sound of fire truck sirens. Minutes passed. Finally the officer appeared from the building from which he had called the fire department.

This time he was not hurrying and he was smiling.

Just as he arrived back at the scene a station wagon pulled up.

Ivy Coward, local exterminator, got out.

"Did you fumigate this building?" the officer asked.

"Yes, I did," Coward answered.

The embarrassed crowd quickly dispersed.

It seems that Coward had the job of clearing the new store of wasps which had become a problem.

Using a fogging machine he filled the building just after it closed for the day.

Coward said he notified the fire department just in case someone did call to report a fire. They, of course, told the officer when he phoned.

The fog, incidentally would kill all the wasps in the store without all the harm merchandise or fixtures. It gradually finds its way out and the store would be ready for use the next day, Coward said.

Driver's licenses have become a precious item to the modern day driver.

A man was convicted on a traffic charge in Judge Charles Whedbee's city court the other day. The judge sentenced him to 30 days on the roads suspended on payment of $15 costs and he was not to drive for 90 days.

"Could I drive after serving the 30 day sentence?" the convicted man asked.

Judge Whedbee told him that he could.

"I believe I'd rather take the sentence," he told the judge.

The court obliged.

ALTOONA, PA. MIRROR: "A doctor contends that people will be shorter in the next hundred years. Aw—maybe they'll reduce taxes before then."

FRANKLIN, IND. REPUBLICAN: "Profits are the economy's insurance policy against maladjustment and failure. They are no idle plaything but a vital reservoir to be tapped with great care, for the sake of both a business enterprise and the country it helps to sustain."

HIGHLAND, ILL. NEWS LEADER: "In these days a depression would be a period when people do without what their parents never had."

Poison In Your Cup?

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — If you suspect someone is putting poison in your evening yogurt, cheer up.

It may not be, as your friends insist, a delusion. You might be right.

Dr. Theodore C. Osius, writing on the historic art of poisoning in the University of Michigan's "Medical Bulletin," says: "It is estimated that 50 per cent of murders are unsolved each year, and it may be that secret poisoning is even now taking more frequent than is generally believed."

The reason for the popularity of poison as a murder weapon through all the ages of man is put succinctly by Dr. Osius.

"Even when poisoning cases come to trial, the medicolegal problems make it difficult to reach a clear verdict," he says.

An early knowledge of poisons is a hallmark of almost any civilization; indeed, it is a test of civilization.

Dr. Osius points out that Menes the first Pharaoh — 3,000 B.C. — was familiar not only with mineral poisons but also vegetable poisons.

Poison has at times been used as an instrument of government policy from the heyday of the ancient Greeks to Nazi Germany.

During the 16th and 17th centuries in Venice, the government even officially recorded its poison victims, the reasons they were assassinated, and the fees paid.

"One specialist in murder, John of Ragusa, offered a selection of poisons and proposed victims," writes Dr. Osius.

"Five hundred ducats was his price for a great Sultan, 150 for the King of Spain, 60 for the Duke of Milan, 50 for the Marquis of Mantua, and 100 for the Pope."

But he makes clear that the art of administering poisons has always been one field in which women have enjoyed equal rights. Often the female of the species has been far deadlier than the male.

For example, a gal named Locustia was official poisoner in ordinary to the Emperor Nero, who even provided her with slaves to experiment on. She repaid him nobly by helping him bump off his stepbrother, his mother and his wives.

But the queen of all lady poisoners was Tofanna, a Renaissance vixen in Naples, who numbered among her 600 victims two Popes and a large number of socially prominent husbands whose only crime was that they bored their wives.

A real creative girl, Tofanna's favorite poison was a cosmetic. Rub a little on your skin after shaving, boys, and — hello undertaker!

Somebody with political pull finally got annoyed at her fun-loving, girlish pranks, so they stretched her on the rack until she confessed, then strangled her.

Her nearest male rival in modern times was Landru, the French "Bluebeard," who obtained the life savings of 283 women by posing as a well-to-do widower. He abandoned some of his victims, poisoned others.

Oddly, since they practice the subtlest method of murder, poisoners are notoriously conservative about the poisons they rely on. They are rarely adventurous.

"Unusual poisons are the exception," concludes Dr. Osius on a note of disapproval. "Throughout history the poisoner has used the same drugs, and methods and has continued to make the same mistakes as his predecessors."

Elmer's Law In The Price Field

By ELMER ROESSNER

Looking over a newly arrived assortment of groceries the other day, I picked up one package, saw the price and exclaimed, "Wow! One dollar a pound for balogna!"

"You're crazy," said my wife. "She was right, of course, the fancy package, with the bologna peeking at me and blushing through a cellophane window, was marked: '5 ounces — 31 cents.' That made the price per pound only 99.2 cents.

This started me thinking about the entire phenomenon of inflation, prices and human reactions and eventually I came up with Elmer's Law.

It is this: "When prices first start to spiral, people tend to re-examine their wants and revise their patterns of buying. But repeated price rises destroy buyers' abilities to evaluate, and resistance to higher prices diminishes."

HOW IT APPLIES

I recall a large number of things our family no longer buys because some price rise jolted us in to re-examining our own demand. A magazine raised its price moderately and we decided it wasn't even worth what we had been paying for it. We haven't had smoked turkey or filet mignon for years. After price rises we decided we had been paying too much for these delicacies, especially since there were others we liked better. There's a beverage, too, we never buy now because a price boost helped us realize we had been buying swank, not taste.

You can probably recall many things you used to buy that you don't buy any more because a price hike made you stop and ask, "Say, is this really worth what we've been paying for it?"

The law applies in industry, has been substituted for copper too. For instance, aluminum has been substituted for copper as the red metal's price went up and up. Elsewhere, components have been simplified — sometimes resulting in improvements — as costs rose.

THEN, LATER—

Remember the first time you visited a country with a different currency? And how for the first few days you carefully translated prices in pounds, francs or lira into dollars and cents? And then how you gave up, except for major purchases? And then how you realized you were giving flower girls the equivalent of four bites, and waiters three-dollar tips?

Almost everybody has gone through that experience. And that's what a lot of us are doing now under the impact of this strange new currency we are using — the 51-cent dollar.

Follow a shopper through a market. Most of them are fairly price-wise in some departments, but outside of those sections, they seem confused. Of two brands of canned peas, identical in quality, they may choose the one that costs 2 cents more. Or the one with the brightest label. Or the one easiest to reach.

Of several brands of canned coffee, with taste differences of one-hundredth of 1 per cent, they buy one because they like the color of the can, or because they saw an advertisement for it the night before.

Tests show shoppers usually buy beef by redness — although the marbled kinds are usually better — rather than by price. And some women will refuse to buy because it is 69 cents a pound and purchase canned tuna instead — at 80 cents a pound.

FREEDOM TO CRITICIZE

One of the finest things about our country is the fact that every public issue is required to pass through a period of vigorous discussion. The idea of having an opposition party, always challenging the majority, is one of the finest factors in modern democratic liberty. We should be thrilled every time we read how those with whom we differ, politically assail our position and attempt to demolish it. Out of such discussion will come a clearer perception of what the truth really is.

Communism calls its stooges together and hands them a slate of candidates and a list of measures which a few men have decided are necessary, and then there is a big shout, and applause of what they call "the true democratic principles," all of which, of course is arrant nonsense.

But political debate sometimes degenerates into bitterness. When men stop discussing principles and begin assailing personalities, then the fat is in the fire for sure. No good ever comes out of bitterness, but all liberty is guarded and preserved by continuous discussion. The spectacle of legislators shaking their fists at each other and threatening violence is unbecoming when it occurs, which fortunately is very seldom. But angry and spirited protest against what a legislator thinks is a wrong policy or principle is wholesome and is destined to bring good results.

Liberty depends for its continuance upon discussion.

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Dave Beck's union pals are chortling over the outcome of the recent election for presidency of the powerful United Steel Workers' Union, when David McDonald's opponent, a little-known mill operator, showed surprising strength. He got 223,000 votes for 404,000 for McDonald.

This rebellion against an entrenched official will not avail Beck in the Teamsters' Union president's trial before the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee on May 6 and 20, when he is asked to explain his personal use of $320,000 of union funds. But he thinks that it amounts to a vote of confidence in him and his management.

His reaction is interesting. In fact, it may be prophetic as to his future role, if he should be kicked out of the AFL-CIO organization. It suggests that he may be able to withdraw his 1,400,000 Teamsters' Union, if it is ousted by the parent body, and remain the head of it.

STEEL UNION HEAD NOT AS POPULAR AS BECK Unlike Beck, Gompers, Green, the Lewises and brothers and Philip Murray, McDonald can scarcely be said to have risen from the ranks. He spent only a year or so as a factory worker. For that reason, as the election results showed, he does not command the loyalty that Beck does.

In contrast to the pudgy and stocky Beck, McDonald is a tall, handsome and theatrical individual. He has often been called a "stock company John L. Lewis," which is a reflection on McDonald rather than on the Shakespearean figure.

As a matter of fact, McDonald at one time toyed with the idea of becoming an actor. He studied drama, dancing and the movies. He had also dreams of becoming a Hollywood motion picture director.

McDONALD'S START He worked only one year as a factory hand, earning 22 cents an hour. He worked for a short period as a switchboard operator at $30 a month. When Philip Murray, then a United Mine Workers' officer, advertised for a secretary at $225 a month in 1923, McDonald applied for and got the job.

He admits that he had no absorbing interest in the labor movement. He simply wanted more money. He was for years only a messenger boy for the soft-spoken but dictatorial Murray. When the latter died, McDonald took over almost automatically.

His presidential salary is $50,000 a year. He wears expensive clothes and lives well. He stays at the best hotels, although not in the $122-a-day suites that Beck prefers. He has seats well up front at prizefights, baseball games and theaters. He looks more like a corporation or bank president than a union leader.

And he favors co-operation between labor and management.

NOT A PAL OF WORKERS But the huge protest vote against McDonald shows that he is not regarded as a pal by the man in the shop. His opponent was virtually unknown to the steel union's membership. McDonald expected at least a 90 per cent endorsement, but he obtained less than 50 per cent. And, of course, he had all the power of the national and local unions behind him — speeches, literature, political meetings, influence, etc.

Why does Beck regard the anti-McDonald revolt as important to him? Why does it strengthen the Teamsters' president in the defiance of the McClellan Committee and the ethical practitioners of the AFL-CIO?

Simply because, in Beck's opinion, it shows that the rank and file are behind him. Unlike McDonald, Beck came up the hard way, using the same methods of advancement that have been exposed by the Senate investigators. He has fought on the front lines of labor-management strife since the early '20's, long before F.D.R. and Truman landed labor leaders in the seats of the mighty and the luxurious.

Stokes—The brick masons arrived in Stokes today and began work. Little Miss Dorothy Roberson, having made the highest score in the first grade, was given the honorary privilege of laying the first brick. Miss Roberson has made the honor roll each month and has passed the standardized reading test for the first and second grades. Stokes will probably have the nicest building and the best school in Pitt County another year.

'Raising Demon' Reviewed At Clio Book Club

Mrs. James Moye entertained the members of the Clio Book Club on Tuesday at her home in College Court.

A short business meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Dirk James. A letter was read from the Pitt County Historical Society asking for new members.
Mrs. Moye introduced Mrs. W. S. Bost who gave the program for the afternoon. She reviewed the book "Raising Demons" by Shirley Jackson who also wrote "Life Among the Savages" that charmed 'households with its brittle wit and its contrasting tenderness.

In these new domestic reminiscences, the author carries on the affectionate, hilarious, sophisticated tale of dubious equilibrium in the face of four children and oddly assorted dogs and cats. With deftness and charm Miss Jackson uses her great talent to picture the rich and varied day-to-day living of an unusual but not really so different American family.

A salad course was served by Mrs. Moye, assisted by Miss Jane Hadley and Mrs. Jake Hadley.
Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. W. T. Smith, Mrs. R. L. Goodin, Mrs. W. P. Fuller and Mrs. C. W. Harvey.

Mrs. Pollard Feted At Coffee

BETHEL—Mrs. R. H. Staton and Miss Camille Staton honored Mrs. Julie Pollard on Tuesday at a coffee hour.

Greeting the 45 guests at the door were Miss Staton and Mrs. Staton. They introduced them to Mrs. Pollard, Mrs. W. B. Cozart, mother of the bride, and Mrs. F. F. Pollard.

Mrs. Walter C. Whitehurst invited guests into the dining room where Miss Harriet Pollard served the coffee au-lait. The guests served themselves to French pastries stuffed with chicken salad, aspic rounds, avocado dip, cheese tidbits, fudge squares and split lemon tarts. The hot sausage pinwheels were passed to each of the guests.

The dining room table was covered with a linen cut-work cloth centered with a tiered arrangement of white lilacs, pink roses and lilies of the valley. The buffet featured an arrangement of crab, apple blossoms and azaleas placed in a silver bowl. Spring flowers were used throughout the house.
Mrs. Leighton Blount Jr., Mrs. Alton Carson and Miss Olive Jones assisted the hostesses during the party.

dedication of Camp Don Lee, at Arapahoe, on Saturday, May 18. It was noted that funds are needed for new equipment for the camp. Several members of the class donated a lounge chair and six folding chairs.

Mrs. Baker appointed Mrs. Scoville and Miss Jennie Congleton on a nominating committee to select next year's officers.

For weight-watchers: before-dinner nibble of carrot and celery sticks with a dusting of seasoning salt.

Mrs. Weaver Has Tuesday Bridge Club

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. Geneva Weaver entertained the Tuesday Night Bridge Club (April 23) at her home on Railroad Street. For this occasion spring flowers were used throughout the house. Ice cream pie and peanuts were served to the eight players.

After the fifth progression, Mrs. Sherwood L. Roberson won the first award and Mrs. Mayo Little received the consolation prize.

Wesley Philathea Class Has Meet

On Monday afternoon the Wesley Philathea Class met with Mrs. Gladys Scoville. Mrs. Cora Powell, Mrs. W. D. Bailey and Mrs. Harry Joyner were assisting hostesses.

Mrs. Harry Joyner gave the devotional, a prayer, and a selection, "The Value of Friendship." She closed with a poem, "Now This I Like."

Mrs. Baker presided over the business session. Mrs. J. B. Smith read a letter from the Methodist Home for Children, thanking the class for contributing to the support of a 16-year-old orphan boy, Danny Joe Futch.

Miss Jennie Congleton read a letter from Mr. Ed Parkinson stating that there will be the

Sing To Child Says Speaker

Mrs. Herbert Paschal was hostess to the Delphian Book Club Tuesday afternoon at her home on Rock Spring Road.

Arrangements of roses, peonies, tulips and poppies were placed throughout the house.
The president, Mrs. John Howard, called the meeting to order and extended a welcome to the guests: Mrs. Morris Brody, Mrs. Jake Stauffer, Mrs. Phil Moore, and Mrs. Joseph Steelman.

After a brief business meeting, the hostess invited the members and guests into her dining room where party sandwiches, tea cakes, mints, nuts, and punch were served.

Mrs. Paschal then introduced the guest speaker, Miss Beatrice Chauncey, faculty member of the music department of East Carolina College. Miss Chauncey's topic was "Music for Pre-School children."

She stressed the point that musical training should begin at infancy and that all mothers, whether talented or not should sing to their children.

Little Miss Carrie Rogers, age three, helped Miss Chauncey illustrate how musical training can begin at home. They demonstrated Marjorie Day's "See Saw" with rhythmic movements as they sang. They also showed the uses of a record player and an Auto harp. Miss Chauncey brought out the fact that some children's records are vocalized in a lower key than most children can sing. She believes that children should have an opportunity to listen to music in higher keys as well. She also stated that children's songs do not have to be short, since many children easily imitate and memorize music heard on radio and television.

In closing, the speaker said, "Provide your children with as many and varied experiences in music as you can through records, musical instruments, and dancing."

Chief Rackets Investigator Is Working On Twelve-Hour Day

By JAMES C. MUNN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Whenever Carmine Bellino manages to work less than 12 hours a day as chief investigator for the Senate Rackets Committee, he thinks he's had it "soft."

But the "soft" days for the 51-year-old Bellino, a native of Elizabeth, N. J., are few and far between.

Bellino, a former FBI man, was mainly responsible for assembling and giving some meaning to the mass of figures on which Dave Beck and other officials of the Teamsters Union were questioned at public hearings.

Bellino is an accountant by profession. That answers, in part, the way in which he and his associates got to the bottom of the Teamster financial mess.

"All you need to have," Bellino says, "is a lot of patience and willingness to dig."

One of the rare times when he can relax, he says, is when he gets out on the Potomac River for a Sunday afternoon of motor boating.

Hobbies? Bellino laughs. "With seven kids . . ." he begins his reply. His three sons and four daughters range in age from 3 to 18 years.

Bellino is philosophical about the demands of his job.

"I really enjoy the work—except when you have to meet a deadline," he says. "Then it's just plain drudgery."

As to the over-all activities of the committee, Bellino thinks a year's steady work "will barely scratch the surface" of what's going on—and sometimes shouldn't—in the labor movement.

He agrees, however, with committee members who think enough has been uncovered to give the Senate a start on legislation designed to correct evils that now exist in some unions.

Bellino joined the FBI in 1934 and served in the New York City office until he resigned in 1945.

After working for the old Reconstruction Finance Corp., and the former War Assets Administration, he established his own accounting office in Washington with a branch in Elizabeth.

While maintaining his own office (he still does), he has served variously on the staffs of numerous congressional committees in both the Senate and House.

Hodges To Speak At Inauguration

WILSON, N. C. (AP)—Gov. Hodges will be the principal speaker at the inauguration here tomorrow of Dr. Daniel Wenger as eighth president of Atlantic Christian College.

Inaugural ceremonies on the college's center campus are expected to attract about 2,000 persons.

Dr. Millard P. Burt of Raleigh, president of the Atlantic Christian College Alumni Assn., and assistant director of the North Carolina Prisons Department, will preside. Others to take part in the program include John D. Larkins Jr., Trenton, chairman of the North Carolina Democratic Executive Committee; Dr. Harlie L. Smith, Indianapolis, Ind., president of the Board of Higher Education of the Christian Churches; Dr. Herbert Herring, vice president of Duke University; Dr. Charles F. Carroll, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Dr. Elford Morgan, Dean of Converse College, Spartanburg, S. C.

Dr. Wenger, a native of Idaho, came to ACC last Sept. 1, from Texas Christian University where he was director of special promotions. He succeeds Dr. Travis A. White, who left ACC to become president of Midwestern University.

Dr. Wenger has previously been a member of the staff at ACC. He left the college in 1952, to go to Texas Christian University after serving as ACC's assistant to the president under Dr. D. Ray Lindsey who was then the president of the college.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Houck. Another active chapter is at the back yard cellar of Mr. and Mrs. Avery.

"We have one of the few cellars in the neighborhood and all you have to do to get in is to stomp on the door," said Avery.

Avery said his cellar could accommodate up to 40 or 50 people. "Of course they couldn't sit down, but who wants to sit during a storm," he said.

There are more than half a dozen families who open their underground shelters to neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Heatly said they don't mind the cellar trips too much.

"It's the only time I get to visit my neighbors," said one working woman.

'Dry' Town Has 'Wet' Financing

NORTHROP, Minn. (AP)—Only 157 persons live in this southern Minnesota community, but its municipal liquor store grossed $318,507 last year, with a net profit of more than $55,000.

The village is just five miles from Fairmont, a dry town of 8,193 population.

Burglars Dined, Then Took Cash

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Hungry burglars ate and stole at the home of the Joseph Danning family.

After making themselves at consumed four eggs, some bacon, they took $407 in cash and $20 home in the kitchen the burglars toast and coffee. When they left worth of clothing.

To The Taxpayers of Greenville:

Dear Friends:

I have lived in Greenville for 37 years and I believe I can be of great help to you, the taxpayers.

When I came to Greenville it was a small town. For the last 15 years it has grown to be a large city, and naturally being in the plumbing business my business has grown with it. I am familiar with all the utilities, water sewer and gas lines; also the new annexes and streets. I am owner of the Electric Suppliers which is managed by my son-in-law, Frank Strawn, and I am a plumbing and heating contractor and work around 12 hours every day. I would say that I am a successful business man which both of our local banks will acknowledge. I would say that a large majority of the taxpayers of Greenville know me and if you don't, ask your next door neighbor or your pastor or call your banker, he will know me. Having been here for 37 years and having grown with the city, I feel from the experience I have had, that I should offer my services to the taxpayers. My work is spread all over town, and having to look after my work naturally makes it easy for me to see just what is going on, and I see so many things that should be done for you, the taxpayer.

I am an active member of the Memorial Baptist Church and I am on the Board of Trustees of Chowan College, a Mason and a Shriner, having both Scottish Rite and York Rite ways.

I have always been conservative, but I believe in having everything you need if you are able. It has always been my motto to give as much for just as little as possible. So I am asking you, the taxpayer, when you go to the polls to vote for 5 good business men, to give me your support. If I am elected, I will do everything in my power to give the taxpayer full value for every tax dollar you pay.

Be sure you are registered and vote in the city election to be held on May 7th.

Thank you very much.

Field Day Event Marks May Day

GRIMESLAND—Myrtle Pamler was crowned May Queen and Coach Robert E. Youngblood's Eighth Grade won first place in a Field Day program as Grimesland School revived its May Day program yesterday.
 Principal James E. Hudson crowned Miss Palmer to open the May Day program, the first the school has had in several years. Barbara Rouse served as Maid of Honor, and Barbara Mills and Peggy Arnold were attendants.

 The field day program, which included events for boys and girls in the eighth through twelfth grades, was held after the coronation. Coach Youngblood's class scored 32 points to win first place. Mrs. Julia Stokes Venters' eleventh grade was second with 26 points, one more than Mrs. Clara Robinson Carr's ninth grade.
 Prior to the field events, students of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades performed a Maypole Dance in honor of the Queen and her court.
 Others who participated in the coronation were Debbie Jackson

Wore A Uniform Before His Time

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—Someday Richard A. Peavy will be old enough to wear a U.S. army sergeant's uniform, but right now in only 16.

Officers had a hunch when they saw him wearing it that he wasn't, so they checked and discovered that young Peavy was wearing his soldier brother's uniform, who, at the moment, was in the guardhouse at Fort Sheridan.
 More than 52,000 Americans were injured in car-bicycle mishaps in 1956.

GHS Athletes Again Take Conference Track Crown

Sugar Ray KOs Fullmer In 5th

By JERRY LISKA CHICAGO (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, who pumps his own fountain of youth with two deadly fists, today was headed for the greatest payoff of his miraculous ring career—a mid-July bout with welterweight champ Carmen Basilio.

Robinson, celebrating his 37th birthday tomorrow, was the marvel of the fistie realm after his fifth-round knockout last night of middleweight champion Gene Fullmer to become the first man ever to win the 160-pound title four times.

Mallory Priming Baker To Pitch Against State

BEN BAKER, a lefty sophomore from Zebulon, will get the nod from East Carolina coach Jim Mallory tomorrow night, when NC State invades Greenville's Guy Smith Stadium under the lights.

Ben Baker is being primed for mound duty tomorrow night, when East Carolina meets North Carolina State's baseballers under the lights at re-vamped Guy Smith Stadium.

Greenville high school captured the Northeastern Conference track title for the second successive season, winning out over five conference clubs yesterday at Guy Smith Stadium.

Herb Score Appears Good For 9 Strikeouts A Game

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press
Young Herb Score, Cleveland's sensational strikeout artist, appears primed to average at least nine strikeouts a game for the third consecutive season.

No other pitcher has had such an average in one season. In 1955, as a rookie, Score averaged 9.53 strikeouts. In '56, it was 9.59. Now he is striking out batters faster than ever—10 a game.

The 23-year-old southpaw fanned a dozen in 6 1-3 innings yesterday before he was routed by Washington in the seventh but Cleveland fought back to nip the Senators 7-6.

The high-flying Chicago White Sox continued at full steam, rolling over Baltimore 9-3, increasing their first-place lead over runner-up Boston to two games. The Red Sox, who had won six of seven on foreign soil, dropped a 7-5 decision in Kansas City. The New York Yankees whipped Detroit 7-4.

Milwaukee's Braves snapped back after Tuesday night's shut-out loss, defeating the New York Giants 5-1 in 10 innings to retain their one-game margin over Brooklyn. The Dodgers trounced Chicago 7-2 behind the seven-hit pitching of young Don Drysdale.

St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh 9-2 to take sole possession of third place. Wally Post singled in two runs in the top of the 16th inning to give the Cincinnati Redlegs an 8-6 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

A single by Vic Wertz, scoring two of Cleveland's three runs in the seventh, gave the Indians their come-from-behind victory. In the upper half of the inning, Washington routed Score after he had held the Senators to one hit.

Don Mossi relieved Herb and Milt Bolling greeted him with a three-run homer to give the Senators a temporary 6-4 lead. Ray Narleski, in relief, picked up his third victory without defeat.

Minnie Minozo drove across four runs with a double, two singles and a sacrifice fly for the White Sox to help Jack Harshman gain his third triumph without a defeat.

Tony Kubek, the Yankees' brilliant rookie prospect, and Tommy Byrne, the veteran left-hander, teamed up to beat Detroit. Kubek hit his first major league home run, contributed two singles and scored twice. Byrne, an old

Pirates Trounce Marine Netters
East Carolina's tennis team trounced the Cherry Point Marines 6-3 here yesterday afternoon for their 11th victory of the season.

Coach Raymond Martinez used his entire squad against the visiting Marines. ECC took four of the six singles events and two of the three doubles.

Winning singles for the Bucs were Maurice Everette, John West, Billy Hollowell and James Daughtridge. Doubles winners for the Pirates were Everette and Hollowell, West and Blake.

Mike Katsias, a regular, was unable to play. Atlantic Christian College netters visit the Bucs this afternoon at 3:00 for a North State conference tilt.

Summary:
Everette (ECC) defeated Bowes, 7-5, 1-8, 7-5; West (ECC) defeated Hoffman, 6-1, 6-1; Hollowell (ECC) defeated Degenare, 7-5, 6-0; Uthlaut (Cherry Point) defeated Blake, 6-4, 6-2; Daughtridge (ECC) defeated Larenz, 6-0, 6-1; Sturn (Cherry Point) defeated Smith, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Tiger nemesis, yielded but two hits in 4 2-3 runless relief innings to gain his first triumph.

Virgil Trucks, turned reliefer at 38, earned his third success for Kansas City without a defeat, limiting the Red Sox to two hits in 6 2-3 scoreless innings. Gus Zernial and Harry Simpson drove in five runs between them for the winners. Each had a home run and a single. Ted Williams hit his fifth homer for Boston.

Tenth-inning home runs by Frank Torre and Bobby Thomson following a leadoff triple by Danny O'Connell and a single by Hank Aaron broke a 1-1 tie for Milwaukee's triumph over the Giants. Warren Spahn won his fourth without defeat.

Roy Campanell and Gil Hodges each drove in two runs to help Drysdale become the first Brooklyn pitcher to win two games. The Cardinals pelted four Pitt-

Seixas Facing Tennis Hopeful
DURHAM (AP)—The nation's No. 1 and No. 15 ranked amateur tennis players planned to meet in an exhibition match here today, sponsored by the Duke Student Union.

The match pitted Vic Seixas, the nation's leading amateur, against Allen Morris, former Presbyterian College star now considered a top Davis Cup prospect.

After a singles match, Seixas and Morris teamed up for a doubles exhibition against Don Romhill and Leaf Beck of the Duke tennis team.

Her Hole-in-One; But He Will Pay
RYE, N. Y. (AP)—Mrs. Edward LeMaire scored a hole-in-one at the Apawamis Golf Club yesterday, but chances are Mr. LeMaire will remember it just as long as she does.

Mrs. LeMaire scored the ace with a No. 3 wood on the par 3, 150-yard 16th hole in a women's tournament—and was so overjoyed she ordered a bottle of champagne for each of the other 70 golfers in the field when she returned to the club house.

She also sent her husband a bouquet of flowers. Why the flowers? Simple. "Somebody," explained Mrs. LeMaire, "is going to have to pay the champagne bill."

Queen Anne, in 1707, united England and Scotland.

burgh pitchers with 12 hits, half of them for extra bases. Walker Cooper slammed a two-run pinch hit homer and Stan Musial walked two doubles.

Poor base running killed off what may have been a big eighth inning for Philadelphia and forced the game into seven overtime innings. The first six Philadelphia batters reached base in the eighth but only two scored.

Post's game-winning hit followed singles by Roy McMillan and Smoky Burgess and made Warren Hacker, the sixth Redlegs pitcher, the winner and Dick Farrell, third Philly hurler, the loser.

Carmen Basilio Says He's Eager To Fight 'Sugar'
CHICAGO (AP)—Carmen Basilio, the rugged welterweight champion, is eager to fight Sugar Ray Robinson.

He saw Robinson regain the middleweight title with a thunderbolt punch to Gene Fullmer's chin last night.

But he got up and talked with a reporter. "I thought Robinson fought a smart fight," he said. "Naturally, I was pulling for Robinson to win. If I have a chance to fight the guy, it means a big pay day for me, too."

He'll have his chance. Plans already are in the making for a Robinson-Basilio match in the middle of July in Yankee Stadium—amid predictions that the gate will approach a million dollars.

track records were cracked during the match. Foster Morse, who has broken the Pirate two-mile mark each time he has run this year (3) failed to do so again last night by two-tenths of a second. But others made up for it.

Joe Holmes set new school records in the discus and shot put. Charlie Bishop set a new record in the 440 dash.

Morse and pole vaulter Dennis O'Brien continued to go undefeated this season, by taking victories in their respective events.

The victory over the Wolfpack was a revenge win. Last year, State topped the Pirates by almost an identical score, beating them by 12 points. ECC's 71-59 tally Tuesday was 12 points also.

Try This Tomato Surprise!
Scoop out inside of a plump tomato. Then sprinkle the inside with a thin layer of Sterling Salt. Invert tomato shell and drain. Salt draws out the excess moisture, leaves shell firm. Fill with cottage cheese, or mixed cottage cheese and sour cream. Garnish and serve. You add extra zest and sparkle to any dish with Sterling Salt's pure, snow-white "sparks of flavor." East Carolina Honor Students Of Second Quarter Announced

Three lists of students at East Carolina who have received official recognition from the college because of their excellent records in academic work during the second quarter of the present school year have been announced. Included on the lists are the names of 620 students, of whom 227 are men and 393 are women.

Thirty-four students who made the grade of 1 on each subject taken, the highest mark given at the college, received top honors for scholastic achievement is an "All I's" List. The Dean's List and the Honor Roll include the names of students whose work was considered worthy of special mention and commendation.

The Dean's List, issued by Vice President and Dean of Instruction Leo W. Jenkins of the college, is composed of undergraduates who made at least two and one half quality points per credit hour on all work taken, with no grade below three. These students did superior academic work.

The Honor Roll, prepared by Registrar Orval L. Phillips and his staff, is composed of undergraduates who made at least two quality points per credit hour on all work taken, with no grade below three. The work completed by those students was well above average.

Pitt County is represented on the honors lists as follows:

Paymaster Was Sorely Missed

WITH 6TH FLEET MARINES. In Beirut (U.P.)—Of the 489 officers and men left behind when the U. S. 6th Fleet sailed to the Middle East a week ago, the most sadly missed by far was Lt. (j.g.) John Webster.

Webster, 23, Wray, Colo., is paymaster of the attack transport Olmsted. And because of his absence the Olmsted's 350 crewmen and 700 Marines were not paid when the amphibious force was granted liberty in Beirut during the fleet's flag-showing mission.

Webster was on leave and missed the boat when the Olmsted departed suddenly from Rapallo, Italy. A chorus of good-natured hoots and jeers greeted him yesterday when he finally rejoined the ship.

Considering that many of the men had lively liberties in Rapallo, their cash on hand was mighty low. The Olmsted's gobs and Marines went ashore, but they weren't able to haggle with the Beirut merchants on equal terms with their freshly paid mates from other ships.

Just before Webster arrived with the last of the stragglers left behind in France and Italy, the Olmsted's supply officer came to the men's rescue by advancing their pay from the ship's funds. His rescue operation left only 25 cents in the supply officer's safe.

New Officers Of Pactolus PTA Are Installed

PACTOLUS—New officers for the Pactolus School PTA were installed recently at the club's last meeting of the school year.

D. R. House was installed as president for the 1957-1958 school year. He will serve with Mrs. Bruce Hart, vice-president; Jimmy Whichard, recording secretary; Mrs. Minnie J. Stancil, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Mack Ray Haddock, treasurer.

Principal Eugene Morris announced to the teachers and parents that the Rev. Arnold Pope of Stokes would be speaker at Eighth Grade graduation exercises May 17. Morris also announced completion of a grounds improvement project which has included planting shrubbery on the school grounds.

Inspection Day For AFROTC

A United States Air Force Inspection Team from Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Ala., arrived on the East Carolina College campus today to perform the annual inspection of the college Air Force ROTC Cadet Corps and Detachment. Members are Col. Samuel L. Crosthwait, Lt. Col. Wm. Dolan, and Major Herron.

The Inspection Team was briefed on the activities and functions of the Cadet Corps by Cadet Lt. Col. Ralph L. Chason of Rocky Mount, Cadet Group Commander, and his staff. The Air Force officers visited classrooms during normal classroom instruction, and observed and participated in a parade and review of the AFROTC Corps.

Thomas Blanchard, who lived in the 1860's, invented a machine that made 500 tacks a minute and counted them automatically.

Rae Foley's new mystery novel RUN FOR YOUR LIFE

CHAPTER 11

Mr. Potter drew his red Jaguar up behind a car with the insignia of the State Police and walked into the restaurant. The whole first floor of Martha's Kitchen had been turned into a huge dining room.

A spare man of forty with military bearing and a bronzed face pushed back his chair at one of the tables.

"Are you Potter?" He looked faintly surprised.

"Nice of you to meet me, Captain Foote."

"In one way and another I've heard a good deal about you."

"The State Trooper grinned. "Lieutenant O'Toole says you're quite a guy."

"Shall we order so we can get down to business? I don't want to take too much of your time."

Captain Foote laughed. "You don't order here. You take what Martha brings you and thank the Lord."

She brought great bowls of steaming homemade soup and plates of cinnamon rolls hot from the oven, followed by a king-size platter of fried chicken.

The two men settled down to clear away the food. At length the policeman pushed back his chair and moved his belt a notch. "I do it every time," he sighed.

"Take Martha to New York and she'd make a fortune."

"Take Martha to New York and I'll lock you up personally."

Foote warned him. He lighted a cigarette, taking quick, speculative glances at Mr. Potter. "Well," he said at length, "what's your interest in the Kendrick murder?"

"I hardly know," Mr. Potter admitted.

When he did not amplify the statement, the Trooper said, "We are re-opening the case, of course."

"What do you think of it?" Captain Foote thought about it. "I was never happy about the case against Young."

"Why not?"

"He wasn't scared enough," Foote explained. "I don't mean he wasn't plenty worried. Be a fool if he weren't. But he had a kind of inner confidence that couldn't be shaken and it wasn't faked. He knew he'd be cleared eventually. I felt that all along. But the trouble was that the evidence all led to him. And then — there wasn't anyone else." He pressed out his cigarette. "Sometimes it helps to talk it out. Clears your own mind. You see things you might miss otherwise."

For a moment he was silent, marshaling his facts. On the third of October, a year before, a couple of kids wandered through the woods and came down to the private lake at the Hugers' inn to fish. One of them caught his hook on something and investigated. That was at five o'clock. He let out a yell. His hook was caught in Candy Kendrick's shirt and it created considerable prejudice. Young is an attractive looking guy and the three women on the jury had been giving him mighty soft looks. But they hardened up a lot when they heard the letter." He stowed it with his other papers.

Within a few hours of the finding of the girl's body Howard Ives had been picked up for questioning. When he was informed of her death he broke down and cried, but he swore that he had not killed her.

Mr. Potter raised his eyebrows in a mute question and Foote nodded. "I was inclined to believe him. I still believe that he was really in love with the girl but it wasn't mutual."

"What about his alibi?"

"He had rented a horse from Huger and gone riding. Took a spill on the hill going down to the lake and tore some ligaments in his knee. He claimed he'd been hurt about four o'clock and that he'd been lying there all that time. If Young hadn't turned up as a suspect, I think I've would have had a rough time."

Nab Shoplifter With The Goods

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Austin Ashton Jr., 37, was taken into court on a shoplifting charge. There his topcoat was flipped open, revealing a pair of spacious pink bloomers strapped around him.

Two store officials testified that Ashton was poking two suits (men's, price $70 apiece) into the bloomers when he was spotted. The magistrate held him on $5,000 bail for court action.

Meet Challenge Of Big Audience Appeal

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK — Television's problem of attracting huge audiences to expensive shows is pretty evident in this season's fad for adult Westerns and adapted fantasy. For real commercial success, a show must appeal to the entire family, from Junior to Grandma, a large and frequently impossible age span.

There's something for everybody in them. In the Westerns, the kids still have horses, gunplay and fights. Their elders get a little change from the kidnapped rancher's daughter and the stolen land in a buildup of psychological tensions (psycopathic villains have been very big in all types of TV this year).

Fairy tales have been a different dish. "Peter Pan" was a televised Broadway show written expressly and adroitly to hold an adult audience with sly humor to cut the shimsy-poo. "Jack and the Beanstalk" had dancing, pleasant music and was, as they say, "motivated" to make some sense out of Jack who, in the original version, was not only a thief and murderer but apparently a dope as well.

Since the fabulous success of Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Cinderella" (it's too soon to get a report on the audience of the Royal Ballet version) it's a cinch that plot hungry producers are searching the archives for more fairy tales.

Mother Goose, source of "Cinderella," has scarcely been touched yet — the Royal Ballet did its version of "Sleeping Beauty," but televised dance is something else again. This one has what the trade calls a "thin story line" for musical show treatment.

But there's plenty of plot — not to mention thrills — in "Little Red Riding Hood" and "Bluebeard."

A Romanian crew ran the drill which began turning near Jawalamukhi, a hill town in the Himalayan foothills.

All officials warned against over optimism. It is only a test well. India's production is less than three million barrels a year, a drop in the world's oil bucket. India spends 750 million rupees (almost 158 million dollars) in foreign exchange each year for petroleum products.

American and British oil companies cooperated in a program to train technicians. Experts from Romania, Soviet Russia, the United States, Britain, Canada and West Germany have given help. The Soviet Union drew up the oil exploration program to fit India's second five-year plan. Three Russian crews, with Russian drilling rigs, will start work soon.

Tenth wedding anniversary is naturally, "the tin anniversary."

Case 'Closed' In Trunk Of Auto

MONROE, Wis. (AP) — Sheriffs deputies went into action when an excited motorist reported seeing a man "force a woman into the trunk of a car, close the lid and drive away."

Officers found the car at a local garage and ordered the owner to open the trunk. Inside was a garage mechanic trying to locate the source of a squeak for the owner.

The motorist who called police apparently had mistaken the mechanic's long shop coat for a woman's topcoat.

Two Special Exhibits Of Art To Open Friday

RALEIGH — The public is invited to preview two special exhibitions which open at the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, May 3 at 8:00 p.m. Fifty paintings by Dutch, German, Flemish and Italian masters of the 16th and 17th centuries will be shown in the "Private Collection of the Hammer Brothers."

Outstanding works by Peter Paul Rubens, Frans Hals and Anton Van Dyck are included. The collection of old masters was assembled by three brothers, Armand, Harry and Victor Hammer of New York City who have selected choice paintings for their private holdings from those which were sold through their gallery. It is their intention that this collection will some day be presented to a museum and none of the works will be returned to the art market.

The public will be privileged to see such outstanding master works as, "The Laughing Fisherboy," by Frans Hals, a work which has been included in many international exhibitions, two fine examples of portraiture by Van Dyck, and an outstanding figure work by Rubens, works by Pieter De Hooch and others round out this important exhibition. A catalogue by Museum Director, W. R. Valentiner, will be available for sale.

The second exhibition features paintings, sculpture, lithographs, prints and etchings by important masters such as Manet, Daumier, Braque, Picasso, and American 20th century artists Stuart Davis, Ben Shahn, and Robert Andrew Parker and others as well as a group of Italian, English and German contemporary artists. This project will be titled, "The Art Rental Gallery," and its purpose is to permit budding collectors to acquire original works of art by artist of our own time.

The gallery procedure will be to exhibit the works for a two week period, during which time reservations either for a two month rental or outright purchase can be made. After a $1.00 registration fee is paid, to cover the cost of insurance and assembling, the collector will be permitted to rent a work at a cost based upon approximately 2 per cent of sales price. Rental fees will range from $2.50 to $17.50 and sales prices from $25. to $750. The art rental gallery will provide an interesting opportunity for those who have always wanted to own an original work of art, to live with it for a two month trial period on a rental basis. The rental fee will be deducted from the sales price should it be purchased.

Both of these exhibitions will be previewed by Art Society members and the public on Friday evening, at 8:00 p.m.

New Assault Conviction Brings Second Road Term

Conviction on a second assault charge sent a Bethel Negro to jail this week with two four-months road terms, one of which had been suspended since December.

The sentences, which are to run concurrently, were imposed on Robert Hines by County Recorder's Court Judge Dink James. Both were given after conviction on charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

Hines had been convicted in December of assaulting Tom Perkins with a knife and a pistol but Judge James suspended the four-month term on condition that Hines pay court costs, a pro rata portion of $60 medical expenses incurred by Perkins, and good behavior for one year.

When Hines came up Tuesday on a charge of using a pocket knife in an assault case, Judge James ruled that Hines had "willfully violated terms of his suspended sentence" and ordered it placed in effect. In addition, Hines got four months on the second conviction, plus being ordered to pay $4 to the Bethel Clinic.

Other judgments returned by Judge James included:

Will Brown Jr., Negro, Bethel, assault with a deadly weapon inflicting serious injury not resulting in death, 90 days suspended upon payment of $8 to the Bethel Clinic and remain of good behavior for one year.

Ezekiel Little, Negro, Simpson, assault with a deadly weapon, six months suspended upon payment of costs and $133.50 to be distributed to physician, hospital and prosecuting witness; Robert White, Negro, no address listed, assault

Couldn't Stand Russian Border

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A European woman won a Miami divorce yesterday because, she said, she could not keep her American-born husband in this country and away from the Russian border.

Circuit Judge Harold R. Vann signed the decree for Mrs. Aime Deitchmann and restored her Estonian name of Aime Prost.

She testified that Robert A Deitchmann, formerly of Rochelle Park and Summit, N. J., compelled her to follow him back to Europe twice after they were married at Wurzburg April 29, 1949, although she "cannot endure being that close to the Russians."

She said she has such deep-seated horror and unhappy memories of Estonia and Germany that she suffers stomach cramps and cannot eat in Europe. The condition grows worse as she nears Russian border towns, she added.

She had to return to the United States alone last year, she said, when her husband persisted in moving from Verdun, France, to Wurzburg, Germany, "less than 60 miles from the Russian border."

Heard Bad Part, Then Fainted

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Richard Corbett, 29, Lafayette, pleaded guilty to writing a fraudulent $2 check and stood to hear Circuit Judge Paul D. Ewan pronounce sentence.

"Not less than one year nor more than 10 years in the State Reformatory . . ."
Corbett fainted.
After he was revived, Corbett learned the judge finished with: ". . . sentence suspended."

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT Allene Mabrey, Widow of Simon Peter Mabrey, deceased Plaintiff

vs. All Unknown Heirs of Simon Peter Mabrey, deceased, and All Unknown Persons who are or may be interested as Heirs, Devisees, Grantees, Assignees, Assignees, Lienors, Trustees or otherwise claiming an interest in the land of Simon Peter Mabrey, deceased, Defendants

TO: All unknown heirs of Simon Peter Mabrey, deceased, and all unknown persons claiming an interest in and to the land of the said deceased person, heirs, devisees, grantors, grantees, assignees, lienors, trustees or otherwise: TAKE NOTICE

That a pleading seeking relief against you has been filed in the above entitled action.

That the nature of relief being sought is as follows: For a declaratory judgment asking the court to order, adjudge, and decree, that Allene Mabrey, widow of Simon Peter Mabrey, deceased, is the only living and surviving heir of her deceased husband, and as against all persons claiming an interest in the land of her deceased husband of which she is requesting that the Court ORDER, ADJUDGE and DECREE that she is the only living and surviving heir of her deceased husband, under GS 29-1, rule 8.

You are required to make defense to such pleading not later than the 14th day of June, 1957, and upon your failure to do so the party seeking service against you will apply to the court for the relief sought.

This 23rd day of April, 1957. H. L. LEWIS JR. Asst. Clerk, Superior Court, Pitt County, North Carolina Richard Powell, Atty. Apr. 25 May 2-9-16

COMPARE

See how the extra value in Chilean Soda makes an extra good crop of corn. Chilean is a natural combination of nitrate nitrogen, sodium and minor elements.

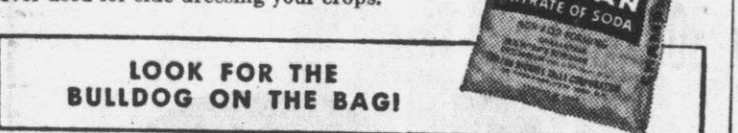

and you'll choose CHILEAN NITRATE OF SODA

One hundred years of consistently satisfactory experience with Chilean Nitrate of Soda have demonstrated that there is nothing to compare with it for side-dressing corn, cotton and other summer crops. It is a rare, natural combination of nitrate nitrogen, sodium and minor elements. Where the soil is too acid; where potash is deficient or where the supply of available phosphate is low; where the crop needs quick help; or where one or more of the minor elements is lacking, Natural Chilean Soda has no equal among nitrogen fertilizers.

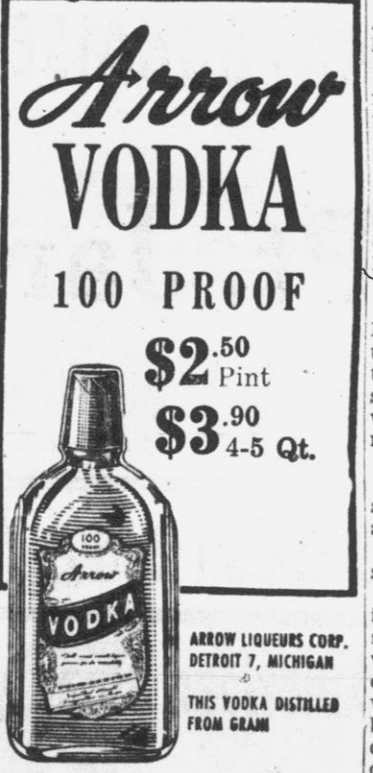

The side-dressing effectiveness of any nitrogen fertilizer depends very largely on its content of nitrate nitrogen. The nitrogen content of Chilean Soda is 100 per cent nitrate nitrogen and this, together with its rich sodium content and minor elements, accounts for its remarkable efficiency and consistently superior performance in the field.

Sodium adds a great deal of extra value to the product. It destroys soil acidity, substitutes for potash and calcium when necessary, increases the supply of available phosphate, and helps the plant gain the utmost benefit from the nitrogen. In addition, Chilean Soda contains small amounts of needed minor elements which help to protect against hidden plant-food deficiencies.

If you have any question about your nitrogen side-dressing for corn, we urge you to use Chilean Nitrate, if only in a small way to begin with, so that you can see the difference for yourself. We are confident you'll find it the most economical and satisfactory nitrate nitrogen fertilizer you ever used for side-dressing your crops.

NEW YORK (AP)—Oils and steels led the stock market to a good advance in active trading early this afternoon.

Key issues rose from fractions to 2 or 3 points. The oils continued outstanding leaders as they were yesterday with trading heavy in this group. The steel advance was fair but nothing sensational.

The rise in the oils, according to Wall Street sources, was due to elimination of major uncertainty about the Middle East situation as it stands currently and also to a number of improved earnings statements from oil companies.

Various oil stocks were also stimulated by rumors of possible mergers.

Some chemicals also did well. Rails made enough small advances to move the group up along with the industrials but not so widely.

The market on average was again moving close to its 1957 high reached in January. Standard Oil (New Jersey) rose more than a point as its quarterly earnings and dividends were reported. But the stock backed away slightly from this gain as the world's leading oil company announced it was paying its usual quarterly dividend of 55 cents.

Amerada advanced around 3 points, Gulf Oil more than 2, Kerr-McGee, Royal Dutch, Sinclair and Royal Dutch around a point or Bethlehem Steel, which has been the most active stock for the past seven sessions, was up around a point as was Youngstown Sheet. U. S. Steel rose a major fraction. Lukens Steel dropped more than a point.

Among the chemicals, Du Pont and American Cyanamid were each up beyond a point. Union Carbide and Dow rose close to a point while Air Reduction dropped a fraction.

New York Central, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific scored fractional gains.

General Motors and Chrysler went ahead a bit. High-priced International Business Machines added another 7, Schering rose around 2 and Caterpillar about 3.

Other gainers were Boeing, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Telephone, U. S. Gypsum and Johns-Manville.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 80 cents to $181.70 with the industrials up $1.40, the rails up 60 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Teen-Age Road-e-o To Be Held Here On Sunday

The Teen-Age Road-e-o, which tests the driving skills of young drivers, will be held in front of Memorial gym on the college campus Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Frank Diener, chairman of the Jaycee sponsored Road-e-o, said that contestants for the annual event will come from schools in Greenville and various sections of the county.

The candidates were chosen for the Greenville event as a result of the scores on written test given in each of the schools.

Sunday's test will be primarily an exhibition of driving skills of the teen-agers. Courses will be set up on which the drivers must show their ability to handle the automobiles which will be provided.

Included are a course of backing, the serpentine course, parallel parking and stopping at a given line. The written tests in the schools were open to any driver who will not be 20 years old before August. They could not have had a moving traffic violation within six months and they could not be professional drivers.

Winner of first place in the Road-e-o will receive 50 gallons of gas. To the second place winner will go a case of oil and the winner of third place will receive a wash and grease job.

The prizes are being given by the Pure Oil Co. Winners of local contests will be eligible to participate in the State Road-e-o.

The Road-e-o is sponsored by the Jaycees, Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., American Trucking Association, Inc., Chrysler Corp. and the Pure Oil Co.

Mapping Agencies Seen By Cartography Class

Fifteen East Carolina students in the cartography class of Dr. H. E. Cramer are in Washington, D. C. this week for a two-day visit Thursday and Friday to Government agencies where positions are available for geography graduates, and to show new students the type of work they would be doing as Government employees.

Accompanied by Dr. Cramer, the group includes in its plans an all-day group tour of Army Map Service, part of the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, and probably the largest mapping agency in the world. In addition to one of the largest map libraries in the world, the students will see a plastic relief model shop, and a large training school for newly employed cartographers.

Other trips will take the East Carolina group to Geographic Society; the Office of Area Development in the Department of Commerce; the Map Division at the Library of Congress; the Bureau of Census, which is now recruiting geographers for work on the 1960 census; and the U. S. Hydrographic Office of the Navy Department.

During their Washington trip, the students are learning of career opportunities offered by the Government to those trained in geog-

Army Discloses Weapons Shift

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon has reported two major weapons changes. It announced the Army's adoption of a new rifle, and confirmed reports U. S. forces have an eight-inch atomic artillery shell.

The Army said yesterday it has formally adopted the new T44 rifle, developed by Army Ordnance, to replace four shoulder weapons—the Garand M1 rifle, the Browning automatic rifle (BAR), the 30-caliber carbine and the M3 submachinegun.

The T44 uses 7.62mm ammunition, the standard adopted for NATO troops. The cartridges are shorter and lighter than the 30-caliber ammunition used in the M1.

The rifle has been tested over the last two years, and money for its production will be asked for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1958.

The Defense Department disclosure that eight-inch atomic shells are in existence came in response to inquiries by reporters over the past several years.

The department also said the Army has both eight-inch guns and eight-inch howitzers capable of firing the nuclear ammunition.

About two years ago, the Army was reported seeking a lighter weapon than the 280mm atomic cannon. This gun, like the eight-inch weapons, can fire either conventional or atomic shells.

The 280mm cannon and its tractor weigh 85 tons, compared with 35 tons for the eight-inch cannon and its carriage. The eight-inch howitzer is reported to have a range nearly equal to the 20-mile range reported for the 280mm piece.

cert Friday at 8 p.m. Mrs. June Carson will direct the band and Mrs. Alma Buck is glee club director. No admission will be charged and the public is invited to attend.

'Nightmare' Had A Happy Ending

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP)—Mrs. James P. Joyce's dream of a vacation tour through Ireland turned into a nightmare... a nightmare with a happy ending.

Her original dream was coming true in a big way in March, a year ago, as she and her husband rode — sightseeing — through Ireland.

Then an auto crash, Mrs. Joyce was hospitalized with a shattered arm and leg.

A tall, pretty girl came to Mrs. Joyce from St. Vincent Hospital, Dublin, to care for her as she convalesced in a hotel. Elisabeth Mayer had left Hungary after the war with her parents, who were now in West Germany. She was helping them with her earnings.

Mrs. Joyce wrote her 28-year-old son Jimmy in Japan about the tall, pretty girl. She said she had agreed to come to America to care for her.

Jimmy's out of the Army now and in the insurance business like his dad.

And a tall, pretty nurse at Holyoke Hospital, named Elisabeth Mayer, has stopped worrying about visa renewals. She has something better—a diamond engagement ring from Jimmy.

Last Rites Held For G. B. Stencil Today

Funeral services for George Ben Stencil, 49, were held at the Wilkerson Chapel Thursday afternoon at 2:30 by Rev. Robert B. Crawford, Pastor of Greenville Free Will Baptist Church. Burial was in the Pollard family cemetery near Crisp.

Mr. Stencil was accidentally electrocuted early Tuesday morning in Norfolk, Virginia, when he came in contact with a high tension wire.
