

Congressional Leaders Report Ike Cut Down Foreign Aid Sum

Projected $4.4 Billion Program Being Reduced To $3,880,000,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders reported today that President Eisenhower is scaling down the administration's projected $4,400,000,000 foreign aid program to $3,880,000,000.

Leaders of both parties gave newsmen the revised figure after they had conferred with Eisenhower at the White House for about 9 minutes. They said $2,800,000,000 will be sought for military assistance and $1,080,000,000 for economic aid.

The bulk of the economic assistance would be offered in the form of long-term low interest loans.

A reduction in the foreign aid request was forecast by the President April 18. He told Congress then that new spending authority for military assistance could be reduced by 50 million dollars.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee said the President made "a strong appeal" against any further reduction of the foreign aid program and on behalf of the administration's total $71,800,000,000 budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Eisenhower was said to have repeated pretty much what he told a news conference yesterday—that there can be no major spending cuts until world tension eases.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said Eisenhower's defense of his foreign aid program and the budget generally was "inspiring."

In advance of the White House discussion, Johnson had said the Democrats will not "play politics" with the administration's foreign aid program.

"We are going to prudently review that program and all of the other items in his spending budget and cut out every dime of it that is nonessential," said Johnson, the Senate Democratic leader.

"However, we want to maintain the security of the country just as much as the President does and we are not going to play politics on this issue."

Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday the money that goes into foreign aid, State Department and information service activities is aimed at easing world tensions. He reiterated his belief there can be no "real cuts" in federal spending until such tensions are reduced.

Federal School Aid Bill Sharply Pruned

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Education Committee approved today a freshly pruned $1.2-billion-dollar program of federal aid to the states for school construction.

The vote was 20-9. Backers hoped that the reduced amount would lessen opposition to the bill in Congress. It calls for a five-year program of 300 million dollars a year in grants, to be matched by the states, to help build needed classrooms.

Recognizing the talk of economy in Washington these days, the committee voted 23-3 yesterday to cut 500 million dollars off the two-billion-dollar program recommended by a subcommittee.

Rep. Bailey (D-WVa.), chairman of that subcommittee, told a reporter he had no doubt that the cut in the bill "helped it at the White House" and bettered its chances in Congress.

Bailey said he went along with the cut "in order to preserve harmony and go out on the floor with a united front."

He called the measure a "real, bipartisan" compromise. The administration had asked for a four-year program of 325 million dollars a year of grants in aid—a total of $1,300,000,000.

A bill by Rep. Kelley (D-Pa.) generally called the Democrats' bill, called for a six-year program of 600 million a year—a total of $3,600,000,000.

The administration had asked that distribution be on the basis of need; Kelley's bill was on the basis of school age population.

The committee bill, which will bear Kelley's name, would distribute the funds half on the basis of school age population and half on the basis of need.

The measure also would authorize 750 million dollars in federal funds for purchase of school construction bonds from local districts unable to find markets at reasonable interest rates. It would authorize further 150 million dollars for state school financing agencies to help assure payment of their obligations.

Backers were wary of making flat predictions of House passage. Bailey said he was "inclined to think" the bill would pass the House.

Talk of economy, dangers of federal control and segregation in the classrooms are expected to be debated on the floor.

Pay Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson has ordered pay boosts for 350,000 enlisted specialists. But they may not start getting the added cash until the first of next year.

Officials said it would take several months for the Army, Navy and Air Force to decide which of their technicians are eligible for pay increases ranging from $12 to $50 a month. The boosts would be limited to about 15 per cent of enlisted strength.

Wilson signed the pay increase order yesterday after receiving formally the report of a committee he had named to study the military pay structure.

The committee, headed by President Ralph Cordiner of the General Electric Co., also proposed a general overhaul of the military pay system with a view to weeding out the less capable personnel and encouraging the better men to remain in service.

Wilson took no action on this proposal, but said study of major recommendations of the Cordiner report would continue.

The Senate Rackets Committee today put into evidence an interoffice communication of the Anheuser-Busch Co. describing Dave Beck Jr. as "an overgrown spoiled boy."

Young Beck at the time was a Budweiser beer distributor in Seattle.

Dwight D. Ingamells, attorney for Anheuser-Busch of St. Louis, testified the only inference he could draw was that the firm gave young Beck the beer distribution rights because of the influence of his father, Teamsters President Dave Beck.

The Senate committee has charged the elder Beck with taking some $320,000 of Teamsters Union funds for his personal benefit and with misusing his position as Teamsters boss for his own financial benefit.

In a hearing yesterday, the committee developed that the Teamsters' president helped establish Dave Jr. in the beer and whisky distributing business in the state of Washington and Alaska when young Beck left the armed services in 1946.

Taking up the story today, the investigators pressed a line that appeared to be directed toward the question of whether pressures were exerted on the St. Louis brewing company.

Ingamells identified a series of telegrams and interoffice memos from Anheuser-Busch files.

In one of them, Jay R. Rideout, writing from Seattle to another Anheuser-Busch official, Earl H. Memory, said "I'm beginning to realize what you meant when you said Dave Beck Jr. was an overgrown spoiled boy."

This memo went on to relate how Beck had arranged for squads of motorcycle police to escort a Budweiser parade through Seattle to publicize the return of that brand of beer to the city after World War II.

Other witnesses have told how Beck Sr. arranged with Anheuser-Busch to get the Budweiser distributorship for the K & L beer and whisky distributing enterprises after young Beck acquired stock in the firm.

The Anheuser-Busch documents placed in evidence told at one point how Beck Sr. and Beck Jr. had periodic arguments with Irving J. Levine, a major owner of the K & L distributorship.

Levine was quoted in one of the Anheuser-Busch memos as saying he protested to the Becks against an arrangement whereby young Beck was to get 5 cents a case, up to $1,000 a month, on all beer handled by the K & L company.

The memo went on to say that Levine protested, Beck Sr. insisted that young Beck get $1,000 a month, plus 5 cents a case.

Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) asked Ingamells why Anheuser-Busch had "favored" the Becks.

Ingamells said he couldn't say because he never handled the situation between the company and the Becks.

Kennedy said it appeared to be a reasonable inference that Beck got the distributorship for young Beck because of the elder Beck's influence as a union boss. It was pointed out most of Anheuser-Busch employees are Teamsters members.

Ingamells said "I'm sure that entered into it," referring to the elder Beck's union position.

After Ingamells identified a dozen or so letters and memos critical of Beck because of the elder Beck's influence as a union boss, it was pointed out most of Anheuser-Busch employees are Teamsters members.

Housing Credit Bill Heads For Approval Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House headed toward passage today of a new housing credit bill expected to provide for lower down payments on FHA-financed homes.

House members squabbled over adding disputed provisions for special veterans preferences, but rival Republican and Democratic housing proposals both provided for a cross-the-board easing of down payment terms under Federal Housing Administration requirements.

Prospective purchasers of homes in the moderate to higher priced bracket would get a better break under the GOP-backed bill than under either Democratic or administration proposals.

The GOP measure, sponsored by Rep. Talle (R-Iowa), would cut by more than half the down payments now required for homes in the $10,000 to $16,000 loan class.

On a $16,000 loan, for example, the present $2,200 down payment would be reduced to $1,000.

The bill sent to the House by the Democratic majority of the House Banking Committee calls for a $1,600 down payment in the same price bracket, but with veterans required to pay only half this and other down payment amounts required of nonveterans.

For both, the interest rate plus FHA insurance would be 5 1/2 per cent instead of the maximum 4 1/2 per cent now allowed on GI loans.

This and other provisions for veterans home buying assistance stirred up the main dispute over new housing legislation.

Inclusion of a special veterans program in the FHA was opposed by Republicans and most members of the Veterans Affairs Committee, including Democrats.

Fighting transfer of GI housing provisions from the Veterans Administration to the FHA, they contended it would be a "disservice" to veterans and "an ill-conceived idea" which would cost GIs higher interest charges.

On the other hand, Rep. Rains (D-Ala.), sponsor of the Democratic bill, contended that Republican proposals were "concocted to appeal to all sorts of special interest groups" but helped neither buyers nor builders.

Rep. Ashley (D-Ohio) said, "It is a question of the veteran getting a home at 5 1/2 per cent or getting no home at all at 4 1/2 per cent."

That 'Phantom' Strikes Again

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The phantom struck again yesterday at the David Lowrance home here.

The family found, wrapped comfortably in a paper bag on their front porch, a baby bird—a smelly one—and the fourth such present to the Lowrances within the past week or so.

The Lowrances gave the latest arrival to naturalists, as they had done with two of the others. This time the naturalists, who had suggested the babies were buzzards, decided all of them were barn owls.

In any case, the Lowrances pointed out, the babies needed baths when they were delivered.

looked for some other career.

There is a story that some friends heard him singing "O Sole Mio" while bathing and suggested he try a vocal career.

His father took him to Bologna. A voice teacher there turned him down (the maestro claimed his mind later and gave Pinza lessons) but with the help of the mayor, the hopeful youth got a scholarship to study music at the university. He studied there two years, working at carpentering and as a railroad brakeman to eke out an income.

His career as a singer began in Bellini's opera "Norma" with a small company at Soncino, near Milan. The year was 1914—and almost immediately Pinza found himself drafted for war duty. He spent the next five years in uniform, emerging as a captain of artillery.

He never thought of singing as a life work until 18—an age when most opera fledglings have amassed a decade of sober study.

He had little training, could scarcely read a note—yet flawlessly sang 78 operatic roles to critical acclaim in the world's music capitals.

He rarely practiced, gave his voice no special care. But he also exhibited none of the opera star's customary temperament and tantrums.

After 25 years atop the opera world, he successfully made a difficult transition into popular music and became a matinee idol of Broadway musical comedy.

As a matter of fact, his name wasn't even Ezio.

The seventh child (the only one to live beyond infancy) of a poor couple, he was born in Rome May 13, 1892.

His father, a carpenter from Ravenna, wanted to name the boy for his brother Ezio. But the parish priest, horrified that it had been the name of a pagan general who persecuted early Christians, insisted the babe be baptized Fortunato instead. But everyone always called him Ezio.

Soon after Ezio's birth, the family returned to Ravenna, an ancient city on the Adriatic of medieval mood with the look of an operatic set.

Rackets Probers Delving Into Suspected Favors By Firm To Dave Beck's Son

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rackets Committee today put into evidence an interoffice communication of the Anheuser-Busch Co. describing Dave Beck Jr. as "an overgrown spoiled boy."

State Asked Pay For Fire Claims

RALEIGH (AP)—The Legislature's Joint Appropriations Committee has been asked to approve an appropriation of $59,000 to cover claims of eight students injured in a Surry County school fire.

Rep. Joe Fowler Jr. of Surry told the committee yesterday the state has a "moral and indirect legal responsibility" to help the children. Fire swept through the Flat Rock School last February, taking the lives of one pupil and a teacher. Eight children suffered burns.

Fowler said these children were medically indigent. Because of inability to prove the cause of the fire, Fowler said it would be impossible to collect the money through the courts. He added that since there was a state law compelling the children to attend school, there was a responsibility on the part of the state to make good on the claims.

Surry school officials said one child would have to return to the hospital several times for skin grafting and the total bill would be more than $22,000 before the medical care is completed.

The committee held hearings on more than 20 supplemental bills requesting appropriations. These were turned over to the Joint Appropriations subcommittee, which resumed its work today.

Other major appropriation requests to come before the committee included: $170,000 to set up a nursing school at East Carolina College "to meet the needs of hospitals in that area"; $185,000 to erect an administration building at Western Carolina College; $125,000 to provide polio vaccine shots for indigent patients between 20 and 40 years old; $2,289,000 to provide clerical assistance for public school principals; and $25,000 to erect a diagnostic laboratory in Cleveland County.

Requests for nearly $200,000 for various historical sites and memorials also were presented. These included: $28,000 for the Alamance Battleground; $24,000 for the Town Creek Indian mound in Montgomery; $30,000 to establish an historic site at the Battle of Bentonville in Johnston; $33,950 to restore the birthplace of Gov. Charles B. Aycock in Wayne; $30,000 to restore colonial Bath; and $20,000 to establish scholarships in memory of Stonewall Jackson.

Reported in "very critical" condition in Meigs Hospital was Ruby McCoy, 37. Marshall McCoy, wife, Ruth Ann Halley, 8, daughter of the Halley's was reported in "critical" condition.

The Highway Patrol said the Halley's and McCoy's were in a station wagon driven by George Halley, Smith was driving south and pulled out to pass a car driven by Hubert Boyd Fulton, 48, of Rt. 1, Cheshire. The patrol said Smith's car, apparently traveling at a high rate of speed, hit the station wagon head-on. The two cars then collided with Fulton's auto but Fulton was unhurt.

The patrol said Smith was racing a second unidentified auto.

Put Some Light On Situation

RIDGEFIELD, N. J. (AP)—An 18-year-old motorist offered an illuminating explanation in Municipal Court here last night for having a passenger perched on a front fender of his moving car.

D. A. Abbatiello said his headlights had blown and that the outdoor passenger was holding two flashlights in his hands.

Magistrate Martin J. Commins was not impressed. He fined the youth for careless driving.

Mother's Day Party Monday

Hospital Day Set For May 13

Mrs. Wesley Harvey, president, presided at the Greenville Service League's monthly meeting Monday at Elm Street Park.

Membership chairman Mrs. George Lautares presented the new provisional members who are: Mrs. Robert Wilfong, Mrs. Clay Burnett, Mrs. Leonard Bloxam, Mrs. Ledyard Ross, Mrs. John Farley, Mrs. Michael Luskin, Mrs. A. C. Tadlock, Mrs. R. L. Goodin, Mrs. Frank Longino, Mrs. Pera Ashby and Mrs. N. C. Pierce.

Welcoming the new members, Mrs. Lautares said, "To you, the new provisional members of the Service League of Greenville, on behalf of all the League members, a very sincere welcome." Mrs. Longino responded to the welcome.

Mrs. Ed Parkinson, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Richard Stokes who gave a brief history of the Service League and the great need it fills in a community.

Mrs. Parkinson stated that the recent bake sales were successful and that a bridge tournament would be held on May 16 at the home of Mrs. C. W. Howard Sr. from 9:30-12 noon.

It was announced that layettes were delivered to twins by the layette chairman, and a hospital bed and crutches by the lending chest chairman. Emergency charity chairman Mrs. West answered five calls during last month.

Mrs. James T. Little reported that the Coffee Shop was doing very well and that Hospital Day would be observed on May 13.

Mrs. Shotwell stated that the Hospital Committee had made 100 tray favors for Easter and helped decorate tables for the nurses. Three patients were helped by the Hospital Bed Fund during last month; two are being helped currently.

The last visit of the Bloodmobile was most satisfactory announced Mrs. Wade, and she thanked all workers. The Bloodmobile will return on June 14 to the Moose Lodge.

The nominating committee presented the names of Mrs. Milo Smith, treasurer, Mrs. C. C. Hilton, secretary, and Mrs. Bob Lang, corresponding secretary. They were unanimously accepted.

During the business session, the League voted to send one girl to Girl Scout Camp this summer and it was announced that a luncheon will be held May 22 at 11:30 a.m. at the Episcopal Church.

It was decided to invite several ladies from Roanoke Rapids who are planning to start a coffee shop in the hospital there patterned after the one at Pitt Memorial Hospital to the annual meeting.

Eighth Grade Visits Raleigh

Observe Memorial Day
The Daughters of the Confederacy will observe Memorial Day Friday, May 10. The exercises will be held at the high school at 11:45 a.m. J. H. Rose will have charge of the program, assisted by the high school band and glee club. The daughters will place flowers on the monument on the Court House Square and on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

Miss William, Mr. Elam Marry

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Williams of Greenville announce the marriage of their daughter, Evelyn Ann, to Mr. Jerry Andre Elam of Alexandria, Va.

Mrs. Elam is a second year student at the University of Virginia School of Nursing. Mr. Elam is a fourth year student in the Engineering School at the University of Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Elam visited West Virginia on their honeymoon. They will continue their studies at the University for the coming year and plan to make their home in Florida after graduation.

White Shrine Have Meeting

The Greenville White Shrine held their regular meeting Wednesday night at the Masonic Temple. In the absence of the worthy high priestess, Margaret Elks, Sojourner Lela Belle Hoell, past worthy high priestess, and Bob Russ, watchman of shepherds, presided.

The meeting was opened in ritualistic form and the American Flag presented, and allegiance pledged. A short business meeting was held, and thank you notes were read from several sojourners for flowers and gifts.

After the meeting closed, refreshments were served by the refreshment committee, Mesdames Lela Hoell, Marie Clark, Helen Lewis, Beulah Staples, Louise Wells, Oia Dale Wilson and Martha Forrest, in the Fred Stokes dining room. The refreshment table was decorated with an arrangement of roses and larkspur.

30 Years Ago Today

May 9, 1927

The Ladies of the Round Table held a very enjoyable meeting at the home of Mrs. J. E. Winslow Tuesday afternoon. After a brief business session and the exchange of books, the literary program was announced. Mrs. W. C. Vincent presented an interesting and instructive paper on "The Honey Bee." According to the tales of ancient mythology, the art of beekeeping is undoubtedly the oldest craft under the sun, and the honey bee the most highly specialized of living species of animal life. After the discussion of current events a social time was enjoyed during which the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Jesse Moye, served a salad course.

Births

Shepard

The Shepards' first child was born on the 29th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Butler.

Westbrook
Born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Luther Westbrook, 510 Park Ave., Ayden, a daughter, Martha Victoria, May 8 at Pitt Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Westbrook is the former Miss Martha Branch of Greenville.

Sutton
Born to Mr. and Mrs. William Ivy Sutton, 208 West Ave., Ayden, a daughter, Jenny Ruth, May 8 at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Miss Sara Lee Won Fellowship

Miss Sara Lee of Greenville, a senior at Meredith College, recently won a fellowship valued at $1,450 for graduate study at Duke University. She will be studying for her masters of arts in teaching at the Durham University next year.

The award was granted to her on the basis of her past record and recommendations with the stipulation that she will do her practice teaching in Charlotte.

Miss Lee is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh B. Lee of Greenville. She is majoring in history at Meredith and will enroll this summer in the relatively new teaching fellowship program at Duke.

Mrs. Whitehurst Won High Score

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor entertained the bridge club Wednesday evening at her home on Grimes Street.

The living room, where the two tables were set for cards, was decorated with roses and verbena arranged with other spring flowers.

When the scores were added, Mrs. Glenn Whitehurst was high and Mrs. Eugene Roberson received the second prize.

Coca-Colas and salted nuts were served during the play and a sweet course was served later.

During the business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. A. C. Turnage, the club went on record as desiring that the district meeting be in October instead of September as it has been in the past.

Mrs. Turnage read an invitation from the Washington Garden Club to attend the Flower Show to be held there on May 8. She announced that the State Garden Club Convention will be held in Winston-Salem May 14-16.

All were invited into the dining room for refreshments. Mrs. A. C. Turnage served punch. Flower arrangements of peonies, roses, iris, larkspur and lilies were placed throughout the spacious home.

Mrs. J. R. Bennett and Mrs. W. J. Whitehurst of Rocky Mount were guest speakers. They discussed flower arrangements using the arrangements exhibited for constructive criticism and praise in their discourse. They reworked some arrangements to show better balance, dominance and symmetry. Flower shows promote a higher standard in the art of arranging plant materials and in growing better plants, they noted.

Mrs. Bennett holds a life membership in the Garden Club and is chairman of the Model Mile in Roadside Development. Her love and interest in every phase of Garden Club work has extended over a period of many years. She is a member of Gov. Hodges' committee on the anti-litter campaign. # Voters Confused By The Set-Up

There were two things pointed up vividly Tuesday as voters of Greenville went to the polls to elect local officials.

1. In spite of the fact that the 2,421 voters who cast ballots constituted a record number for a city election here, they represented only approximately 36 per cent of the estimated total number of registered voters in the city.

2. A large number of voters were confused over where they were supposed to cast their ballots because of the difference in voting places for municipal elections and those for county, state and federal elections. Many would-be voters found themselves ineligible to cast ballots because they were not registered on the city's books although they are registered on the county's books.

Solution to the first of these problems—the small percentage of registered voters who participated in the election—must be left to the people of the city. Greenville, will not have 50, 60 or 70 per cent of its registered voters participating in elections until the people themselves make up their minds they will shoulder the important responsibility of casting their ballots every time the polls open. As a greater percentage of the eligible voters evidence their interest in voting the calibre of local government will continue to improve.

The other problem—that of conflicting registration books and voting places for city and county elections—can be handled by a joint effort on the part of city and county officials. If a citizen of Greenville could register one time and know he was registered for any regular election, whether it be city, county, state or national, a good part of the confusion would be removed. If he knew he was always supposed to vote at a certain place, regardless of the type of election, more people would be participating in elections on all levels.

We realize there are difficult problems involved in setting up one set of registration books for the people of Greenville to be used in all elections. We realize also there are difficult problems involved in establishing set voting places to be used by the people of Greenville in all elections.

Nevertheless, these problems can and should be overcome. City officials and county officials as well as county election officials should in the next year work out a joint plan whereby the people of Greenville can have one set of registration books and one set of polling places for all elections.

Until such a plan is effected the confusion over registration and voting places in Greenville will continue in both city and county elections.

Eastern N.C. Loses One Of Its Leaders

Roy Parker, Sr. of Ahoskie, veteran newspaper publisher, will be sorely missed by the newspaper profession of this state as well as in the legislative halls in Raleigh.

His sudden death this week robs Eastern North Carolina of one of its true leaders. It deprives the newspaper profession of North Carolina of one of its best-loved and most respected members.

The Roanoke-Chowan region of North Carolina, where he was born, reared, and devoted his life to improving the lot of its people, is a much better place for his efforts. The people of that area will attest to his achievements, not for personal gain, but for the betterment of the area.

Though he was handicapped by poor health for the past decade, Roy Parker found time and energy to contribute more than the ordinary man to improving the newspaper profession and the printing industry in North Carolina. In addition to his demanding duties as a weekly newspaper publisher, he was an associate member of the faculty of the School of Journalism at the University of North Carolina, lecturing for future newspaper men and women. At Chowan College in Murfreesboro there is the school of printing which bears his name because of his tireless efforts to establish it. Since its establishment a few years ago the Roy Parker School of Printing at Chowan College has afforded scores of young people of North Carolina training not available elsewhere in this state and has equipped them to take up positions in the newspaper industry in North Carolina.

Beneath his quiet, unhurried manner there burned a fierce, driving force dedicated to the growth and development of North Carolina and its Roanoke-Chowan region. North Carolina grows stronger and greater because of the dedicated lives of men like Roy Parker.

Little Activity By Home-Buyers

By ELMER ROESSNER

It may be that home-buyers are on strike. Builders started work on 213,000 dwelling units during the first three months of this year. That's the slowest start since 1949 and, at that rate, considerably less than a million new units will be built this year. April figures, due in a few days, are not expected to make much change in the prospects.

Funny, there were 205,000 marriages in January and February, an increase of 5,000 in number over the preceding year, although about even with the 1949 rate. The population is higher than it has ever been, the number of employed is near the seasonal record, and personal income never was as large. But builders are starting fewer houses because people are not buying them as fast. Why?

THE MONEY PROBLEM
One reason you hear is that money is "tight." Maybe it is. But the National Association of Real Estate Boards says that since the Federal Housing Administration established a 5 per cent interest rate on insured mortgages, an increase in funds has resulted. The new FHA mortgages, the Association re-insures.

Meanwhile, the nation's savings and loan associations will pour in at least $10.6 billion into the home mortgage market this year, more than twice as much as was made available in the record-breaking year of 1950, according to Norman Strunk, executive vice president of the U.S.

Savings and Loan League. There's the puzzle: More families needing homes, more income to pay for homes, more money for mortgages—and still home building lags. Starts in the first three months of this year were about 80,000 less than in the wonderful year of 1950. Why?

Now it's not possible to identify the 80,000 families that might have bought a home this year but didn't, and even if it were, it would take more time than is available to ask each one why. RATE RISE SMALL
There is one other factor: the interest rate. A year or so ago, a home-buyer could get a mortgage at around 4.5 per cent or, if he shopped around and had a fat down payment, 4.5 per cent or less. Now he must pay more: 5 per cent with discounts and other trimmings that bring it up to 5.5 per cent.

The rise from 4.5 to 5.5 per cent seems like a big jump—more than fifth. But in dollars and cents, it amounts to very little. If a family paid $4,000 down on a $19,000 house, the balance would be $15,000. Since the mortgage would be amortized, the average balance would be $7,500. The difference between 4.5 and 5.5 per cent interest on this would be only $75 a year, or $6.25 a month.

Since families need homes and have the money to pay for them, there must be some reason why they aren't buying. Unless they want to stagnate for the rest of the year, builders had better find out why.

Burning A Barn To Kill A Rat?

By LYNN NISBET

FAR REACHING The bill sent up this week by Rep. J. I. Satterfield of Person and others requiring certain "corporations" to file reports of membership rosters, income and expenditures, is a far reaching measure. It would require all corporations the avowed purpose of which is to advance or suppress, promote or restrict the employment or right of suffrage of any person or persons because of color, race, religion or national origin, to make annual detailed reports to the Secretary of State.

Admittedly aimed at curbing activities of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the bill cannot be limited to that group. It certainly will include the American Hellenic Educational and Protective Association, popularly known as AHEPA, the objective of which is to further the interest of persons of Greek origin or descent. It probably will include the Cherokee Association, the primary purpose of which is to promote employment and improve condition of Cherokee Indians in North Carolina. It might be interpreted to cover numerous religious organizations, Catholic, Jewish and Protestant, whose avowed purpose is to promote the interests of the members of a specific denomination, "because of religion."

There is possibility that the sponsors of this legislation may be burning down a barn in order to kill a rat. It is similar to other bills designed to censor reading material to fit the ideas of a few people.

Since laws cannot be enacted applicable only to one group which is not per se illegal, they must be couched in general terms. That means a lot of good people may be hurt and a lot of good services blocked in order to eliminate one which is objectionable to a few persons.

INTENT—Another instance of a proposed law going a long way is the bill by Rep. L.H. Ross of Beaufort putting "equipment or materials, designed or intended" for use in the manufacturing of liquor in the same category as illegal liquor itself for the confiscation of vehicles transporting the equipment or materials. Sugar, concentrated lye, even stable manure, as well as oil drums and copper piping, are commonly used in moonshine operations. They have numerous entirely legal uses. Only the person purchasing or hauling them can know what is his "intent" as to their use, until he has been apprehended in the act of unlawful usage.

Without questioning the laudable "intent" of their colleagues to make it harder for moonshiners to do business, members of the committee considering the bill didn't think very much of giving law enforcement officers the right to seize property on basis of their own belief as to what use might be made of it.

In discussing another bill some days ago which would have possession of any objects or material that might be used in gambling evidence of intent to so use it, it was pointed out that possession of a newspaper with a stock market quotations would be against the law if the bill were enacted.

UNTRUBLED—Admitting that the condition is not too good, Governor Hodges told newsmen that he is greatly concerned about the current rate of unemployment in North Carolina. He noted that 5 per cent of the working force in the state is drawing unemployment compensation, as compared with 3.9 per cent in the nation. This is a rise of 28 per cent over last year. Employment offices report 23 applicants for every available job. The Governor's lack of worry stems from his confidence that the General Assembly will revise the revenue act so as to attract enough new industry to provide jobs for thousands more people in a few years.

EVIDENCE—There is some evidence to support the optimism, although the developments may be delayed beyond the period of helping the current jobless.

The Governor reported that he had received a number of phone calls from northern industrialists asking about progress of the revenue legislation. It is known that a group visited him the other day and almost promised to locate two or three plants in North Carolina—if the tax laws are amended satisfactorily. It is further known that chambers of commerce in four or five Eastern communities are "sitting on" inquiries about sites and facilities for industrial plants—when and if.

GOVERNORS—Prospects are that a majority of the 48 State Governors will visit North Carolina this summer. The National Governors Conference was set up at the conference held at Sagamore Hotel in supper New York in 1954, when then Governor William B. Umstead declined election to executive committee in favor of Governor Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia.

So that Governor Stanley could move up to the chairmanship in 1956-57, it was contemplated then that Governors Stanley and Umstead would work together on getting the conference to the Jamestown-Williamsburg-Yorktown area, and that the program would include a tour of Kill Devil Hills, Roanoke Island and Hatteras Seashore Park. The program as finally worked out has more of Virginia, less of North Carolina than was anticipated, but Governor Hodges has officially invited the Governors to visit the North Carolina section after the business meeting is over. Their main meeting will be at the site of the first permanent English settlement in America, and the Carolina visit will cover the place where Sir Walter Raleigh attempted to plant a colony 25 years before Jamestown was settled.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

CRACKPOT
The crackpot is a pathetic figure. Usually he has laid hold of a good idea, but the idea is twisted in his mind, and he is twisted in his personality. A hundred years ago there were a lot of people who believed that the slaves should be freed. Some of these people were crackpots. They had a good idea. Their moral reasoning was sound, but their convictions got twisted up in their twisted minds and the result was fanaticism.

There was a lawyer in Springfield, Illinois, however, who along with millions of his fellow countrymen, believed that slavery should be abolished. But he had a well-balanced mind and thought along a straight line. His name was Abraham Lincoln. All crackpots kept after him, urging abolition before the country was ready for it. After Lincoln's death, these people set themselves to punishing the southerners, and thus wrote a tragic and disgraceful page of American history.

So we come back to where we started. The crackpot has a twisted mind, and behind it is a twisted personality. His ideas finally, have to be implemented have a profound respect for truth and who try honestly to fulfill its requirements. The crackpot is often a good man with a good idea but with a twisted mind also. He hurts the causes he tries to serve.

Things One Encounters

THINGS SEEN, HEARD AND READ . . .

East Carolina students seem to be working overtime to complete some sort of project. Coming into Greenville the other day, I saw two students walking along the side of the road with a pillow case wrapped around a sort of hollow contraption. Their prey seemed to be a bunch of disinterested insects . . . doomed to end up in a display before some critical science professor at the college.

Anyway as I got closer to them I could see the blood in their eyes.

One of these dedicated four-yearers finally caught a petite but almost too small for the human eye and seemed to be as happy as if he had discovered the Hope Diamond on a rock pile or a black Orchid in a briar patch.

I finally got around to reading the Sunday edition of the New York Times night before last. Following are several humorous incidents compiled by W.E. Farbsstein that appeared in the newspaper's magazine:

"A Los Angeles woman got a divorce when a witness testified that her husband had said she was 'such a good wife he just couldn't stand it.'"

"An ardent Republican in Los Angeles discovered that somebody had taught his parakeet to say 'I'm a Democrat.'"

"A Washington woman who had kept on appealing her $14 traffic fine was finally stopped by the United States Supreme Court.

When a bandit entered a shop in Springfield, Ohio, and handed the proprietress a note reading, "This is a hold-up," she handed it back, explaining she couldn't read. The bandit stalked out in disgust."

Haven't been able to find the exact location of the person doing the talking nor the person listening but here is a conversation that took place in a local bank a short time ago.

A woman walked into the bank and slowly made her way to the teller's window.

Teller: "May I help you?"

Woman: "Yes I want to purchase a savings bond."

Teller: "What denomination?"

The woman stepped back in a startled way but finally timidly answered "Baptist."

Anyway as I got closer to them I could see the blood in their eyes.

Other Editors Saying --- The Highwaymen

(Wall Street Journal)

Imagine that while you are walking down the street a hold-up sticks a gun in your ribs and demands that you hand over your money.

We suppose it could be argued that you shouldn't comply. After all, if you do hand over your money you become an accessory to a crime. You are paying a bribe to a lawless man for the privilege of walking the public thoroughfare unharmed. And by thus allowing him to make crime pay are encouraging him to try again on the next passer-by and possibly encouraging others to follow in his footsteps.

Nevertheless, we suspect you would see some merit in not being too metaphysical about any moral question. Especially so if the policeman nearby chose to look the other way while the highwayman was extracting your purse.

Anyway, it's something to reflect upon while down in Washington Senators and others are raising just such fine ethical questions about people who have yielded to the demands of certain labor leaders that they hand over their money—or else.

Extortion by racketeers under the banner of labor unions is no longer a secret. A Senate investigating committee has uncovered a good many men masquerading as upstanding leaders of labor who got rich that way.

No one has been bold enough to defend this practice. But lately a number of people have discovered what they consider an equally terrible thing. Somebody, obviously, has been paying these extortionists. And what about those wicked people?

Walter Reuther, for example is outraged that the "bribe payers" have not gone to jail. The other day Senators McNamara and Kennedy put one of the extortion victims through quite a moralistic inquisition. Said Senator Kennedy: "The fact is you were paying them (the labor leaders) a bribe."

The witness agreed that he did. But nobody pays bribes just for the sake of paying. Where they have been paid to labor leaders they have been paid because the alternative was being forced out of business altogether; the labor leader, like the gunman, can enforce his demands.

In many places harassed businessmen have appealed to authority without success. In some instances already uncovered there is strong suggestion that the policemen were in cahoots with the hold-up men. In others the authorities were merely unwilling—or unable—to do anything about it.

It's not a very pleasant picture, all right. What is being unfolded is a story of the breakdown of law and order, even where there has been no conviction. Politically anyone who is a "union leader" has been untouchable. It is not surprising that this situation has been made-to-order for the unscrupulous, or that men faced with the choice of business survival or yielding their purses have themselves connived, or at the least surrendered.

But somehow not the least unpleasant part of this picture is the effort to obscure it by heaping indignation upon the morals of the victims.

Perhaps the passengers in the stagecoach of old were not helping matters by meekly yielding up their purses. But when the citizens of the West got aroused about law and order, it was the highwaymen they hung.

High Confidence In Demo Ranks

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—A surprising spirit of confidence permeated Democratic leaders at their recent gathering here, when they discussed 1958-1960 political prospects and possible candidates for the next Presidential contest. Like certain conservative Republicans, they have recovered from the earlier fears of the Eisenhower popularity and personality.

Before presenting a detailed analysis of their attitudes and expectations, there are several extremely significant conclusions which they reached with amazing harmony and agreement. This report on them is based on private and off-the-record talks rather than on public statements or time-serving speeches made for general consumption.

GAINS EXPECTED BY DEMOCRATS (1) The Democrats expect to gain about 30 House and six Senate seats in next year's Congressional clash, strengthening their hold on Congress and enabling them to frame a platform for 1960. They anticipate the defeat of many Republicans in the large cities, in the Middle West and in the Far West. (2) With President Eisenhower no longer an asset, they figure that they have at least a 50-50 chance to recapture the White House. They look for smashing majorities in metropolitan areas which decide the outcome in electorally important commonwealths. They feel certain that the southern and border states will return to the fold.

(3) They plan to seek national endorsement on an ultra-liberal platform insofar as social welfare, educational and labor issues are concerned. They feel that Ike's "modern Republicanism," whether rejected or accepted by the GOP's controlling faction in 1960, will force them to flank the opposition from the left.

LEADING 1960 OPPOSITION CANDIDATES (4) The leading candidates today appear to be Governor G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri and Senate Minority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. Sentiment for Senator Kennedy was strong and widespread, although many fear that he may still be—and look—too youthful. His ability however, is not denied.

There was not a whisper of talk about Adlai E. Stevenson or Senator Estes Kefauver, who composed the 1956 ticket. Like Dewey on the Republican side, Stevenson is admired and liked, but not wanted as a candidate. They think—and hope—that Kefauver will see the futility of his dedicated but dull pilgrimage toward the White House.

(5) The Democrats are convinced that Vice President Nixon will be the opposing nominee, with Senator William F. Knowland as an outside possibility. They profess no fear of either Californian, especially as they look for a collision between the Eisenhower-Nixon and the Knowland-Bridges factions—the "moderns" versus conservative wheel-horses.

BIG CITY VOTERS RELIED UPON It is on the cities of more than 500,000 population, where F.D.R. and Truman ran so well, that the Democrats rely for 1960 rehabilitation. Here are their reasons: Labor will not vote for any Republican except Ike, in their opinion. The colored people are complaining about the Administration's failure to implement the Supreme Court's desegregation decision and its Civil Rights pledges, even though it delay on Capitol Hill has been due largely to Democrats' filibustering.

The Administration's Middle East policies, it is believed, has alienated more of the so-called "Jewish vote." Congressional and White House mail, as well as speeches by Zionist advocates, fore-shadow their shift to the Democrats.

REASONS GIVEN FOR SHIFT FROM REPUBLICANS The Eisenhower-Dulles failure to follow up their 1952 "liberation" pledges has antagonized Polish, German, Scandinavian and other minorities. Other basic issues listed as pro-Democratic are the succession of unsolved foreign crises, grinding taxes, the high cost of living and discontent on the farms.

But when all is said and predicted, the Democrats' chief source of encouragement and cheer is the anti-third term amendment, which the Republicans sponsored and pushed in order to get revenge on Franklin D. Roosevelt and his New Deal. Thus, F.D.R. is still an invisible force and influence in American politics!

Artist Back To Paints

By HAL ROYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"Hollywood ruined me," said Harry Lachman, a famous painter who became a film director and now at 71 has returned to his brush and easel.

Never heard of Harry Lachman?

Well, he was a pioneer, impressionist whose works hang in half a dozen leading museums and won him the French Legion of Honor. Opera singer Mary Garden once bought one of his paintings with a $3,000 check she had just received for singing "Aida." Endorsing the check to Lachman she said, "Art for art!"

Remember "Baby Take a Bow," the picture that springboarded Shirley Temple to stardom? Lachman directed it.

Actually, Lachman, a slender, wry witted man with a fabulous memory, has had five successful careers—as an illustrator, photographer, impressionist painter, movie director and businessman. Born in La Salle, Ill., and orphaned at 4, he never attended an art school in his life.

"But at 19 I was a magazine illustrator selling covers to the Saturday Evening Post and Cosmopolitan," he recalled.

Then he switched to the still camera and became one of Chicago's top photographers of children. One of his best portraits was a sensitive, faceless child named Dickie Loeb, later to grow up and become the partner of Nathan Leopold in an infamous murder.

Soon after, Lachman went to Paris where he painted for 18 memorable years as a contemporary of Monet, Renoir, Matisse, Rodin and Modigliani.

Modigliani, slowly starving and soon to die by his own hand, mistook Lachman for a tourist at their first meeting, offered to paint his portrait for one franc.

"At that time he was even giving his paintings away for hair-cuts," said Lachman grimly. "Now they are priceless."

Lachman sold 45 of the 55 paintings at his first one-man show, including two Luxembourg Museum.

He accepted an invitation by director Rex Ingram to help make "Marie Nostrum," then became a director himself.

"Then I am taken to Hollywood, and I am ruined," he said ruefully. "I made a really great picture with Spencer Tracy called 'Face in the Sky.' The critics said it was 'an artistic gem,' a 'frivolous thing to say about a picture then.'"

Lachman then became a successful novelty manufacturer. Last year he took up painting again at the urging of Armand Hammer, a Manhattan art gallery owner, and Mrs. Grace Robinson, former wife of Edward G. Robinson, movie actor.

Lachman, who has an exhibit now at the Hammer Gallery, is exuberant because he feels he has regained his old mastery of the brush.

"It was a mistake ever to give it up," he mused. "The films were not worth it. I lost 30 years out of my life."

You meet at least one at every cocktail party.

I mean the pest, the man who suddenly wheels through the smoke fog, halts before you, thrusts his face to within an inch of your nose tip, and then, fixing you with glittering eye, demands loudly, "Remember me?"

And I also mean the female of the species, the wandering lady gypsy moth who flutters up to everybody at the party, and makes a parlor game of cooing to each: "Bet you can't tell me my name."

Why should a fellow who loves his fellow men in most circumstances do this? He can't tell the strange man from John Foster Dulles. And who, confronted unexpectedly by a strange, Martini-burdened lady, can immediately recall her name, which is probably something like Ramona Schnoddteltenglosser?

The unfair thing is that it is the one questioned, not the questioner, who is put on the spot. (Continued On Page 14)

Luncheon, Banquet, Reception Highlights Of State Convention

RECEPTION—Dr. John D. Messick, center, is shown welcoming guests to the Reception and Musicales which was held in his home on Fifth Street last night in honor of the National and State officers attending the State Federation of Music Clubs Convention. The Greenville Music Club was host for the event. (Reflector Staff Photos by Anne Singleton).

50 states, district, and local members of the Music Club. Following Mrs. James' welcome, a program of musical selections was heard by the group.

Mezzo-soprano Mrs. Gladys White, accompanied by George E. Perry, sang "To You" by Strauss and "The Silver Ring" by Chailate. Violinist, Mrs. Frances Ubanks Hilburn, played "Meditations From 'Thais'" by Massenet, and "Introdu" by Desplantes. She was accompanied by Miss Jane Winchester.

Mrs. Clifton J. Muir, vice-president of the Southeastern region, complimented the North Carolina Music Club by saying that the State Club is, "A highly organized group that carries music to every corner of the State."

Welcomes were heard from Mrs. Honigman, national board member, and Mrs. Harry J. Shonts, president of the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs.

An Executive Board Meeting followed the luncheon. Mrs. Harry J. Shonts, presided.

It was announced that A.J. Fletcher of Raleigh, National Chairman of Grass Roots Opera, had been awarded a President's Citation from the National Federation of Music Clubs. "In recognition of his contributions devotedly rendered to the course of opera... who, through the 634 performances of opera in English since the first one in 1950, has added to the artistic and material welfare of young musicians and thereby to cherished goals of the National Federation of Music Clubs."

Last night the delegates attended the Federation Dinner held at the Moose Hall where they heard a message from the National President, Mrs. Ronald A. Dougan read to them by Mrs. A.J. Fletcher, Chaplain.

Mrs. Maurice Honigman, national board member, introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Dr. Charles Hubbard who discussed "Music and the New Leisure."

"North Carolina was the first state in the nation to recognize recreation planning as a function of state government... today 55 cities and some 60 industries in North Carolina have organized recreation programs for their citizens and employees and families," Hubbard pointed out.

Adding, "In all these programs music plays a major role. It is used for expression, to feel with our hearts, and to speak out of the depths, even the power of music is used to drive sinners to the altar."

He concluded, "Music is a means of growing and there is no barriers of language in music."

Soloist, Ann Campbell of Elizabeth City, was accompanied by Rodney Trueblood, Northeastern District Director.

During the banquet was the dedication of the official convention program to Mrs. G. Ernest Moore, immediate past president of the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs by George Perry. She responded with heartfelt thanks to the honor.

A reception and musicale held in the home of Dr. and Mrs. J.D. Messick was given by the Greenville Music Club at 8:30 last night.

Mrs. K.N. Cuthbert is general chairman for this event which was one of the convention highlights.

Mrs. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, chairman of reception committee greeted guests at door. Mrs. Dink James and Dr. and Mrs. Messick and honored guests in line.

Mrs. T.E. Hooker invited guests into the Dining Room where Miss Agnes Fullilove and Mrs. Move Dail poured punch. The table was decorated with a floral arrangement of greenery and roses fashioned in the shape of a "M" in lyre. Guests helped themselves to cookies, cheese biscuits, mints, and nuts.

Miss Eunice McGee, Mrs. John Karsmak, Miss Mildred Southwick, and Miss Elizabeth Walker assisted in the dining room. Mrs. J.H.B. Moore, Mrs. Closs Hearne, Dr. and Mrs. Toll were invited guests into the Den and Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Walter received in the reception hall. Mrs. H.A. Hendrix and Mrs. Ann Byrd invited guests into the living room where Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert and Mrs. Charles A. White were hosts. Mrs. Ann Dee La Marter and Mrs. Howard Bodkin were hostesses assisting with the musicale which was held in the living room where the mantel was decorated with a floral arrangement and musical motif.

Throughout the house arrangements of iris, roses, and spring flowers were placed.

During the music program, Paul Hickfang, basso, rendered several selections accompanied by Dr. Robert Carter. "Trio in D minor, op. 32" by Arensky was presented by Dr. Carter, pianist, Don Hayes, violinist, and Miss Jan Lovette, cellist.

White Breakfast
This morning delegates met for a White Breakfast at the First Presbyterian Church followed by registration and general business sessions at the church.

Reports from the various state officers and national representatives were heard. Departmental chairman presented their reports before a musical program was heard. Mrs. J.B. Alderman gave a report of the director of districts and a report of the district directors followed by a luncheon at the Woman's Club.

Mrs. Gordon Scott presented the District Extension Award and Mrs. I.M. Meekins called attention to the outstanding clubs.

Other business that was discussed this afternoon was the installation of district directors and the presentation of awards. Workshops were conducted during the remainder of the afternoon.

This three day convention, attended by over one hundred delegates, is having their first convention in Greenville this year. Mrs. Dink James noted, "We are honored to be selected as a convention site by this club in its 41st year."

OAS To Offer Plan In Dispute

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Honduras and Nicaragua were to get a plan from the Organization of American States today providing for withdrawal of troops from their disputed border areas within four days.

The border region was reported quiet yesterday as the OAS peace team drafted the withdrawal plan and checked reports of border incidents said to have occurred Monday.

The OAS peace mission was to go from Tegucigalpa to Managua to continue talks on the withdrawal proposals. It was expected that a four-day truce, which expires today, would be extended since it was not believed the talks on troop withdrawals could be completed today.

U.S. Lt. Col. Frank Brinn made an OAS-directed inspection trip to the town of Los Manos, where Honduran charged Nicaraguan troops had laid down a mortar barrage Tuesday. He reported he found no shell fragments, bullet holes or other "obvious evidence" of attack.

In Managua, Col. Anastasio Somoza Jr., Nicaraguan army chief, charged that Honduran irregulars were looting ranches in the border regions. He said Nicaragua now has only police stationed at border points, but asserted his government would make full use of its army for defense if necessary.

The OAS mission also is trying to determine which country has the best claim to the disputed area.

ted alfalfa aphid, a pest that does millions of dollars damage annually to the forage crop.

The sweeper harvests parasite enemies of the aphid and speeds their distribution to aphid-infested areas.

It was devised by Everett J. Dietrick, a biological control specialist at the University of California's Citrus Experiment Station here.

For the last two years the station has been carrying on a program of importing and colonizing wasps which attack the aphid. Primarily because of the collection problem, it took a crew of four men all of last season to spread 50 million parasites over limited areas.

Social Studies Pupils Predicted Election Results

FARMVILLE — Social Studies students at Farmville High School struck paydirt in a straw vote prior to Tuesday's municipal elections.

The students' straw vote accurately predicted outcomes of the mayoralty race and the first six places on the commissioners' ticket. The straw vote was conducted in Sam Stell's Social Studies classes and included all of his students.

The students predicted that incumbent Charles S. Edwards would defeat O. G. Spell in the mayor's race. They also predicted that Glenn Newton, Bernice B. Turnage, John D. Dixon, W. C. (Lum) Wooten and Frank K. Allen would win places on the five-member town board and that W. E. (Will) Joyner would take sixth place.

Student Art Show Is On Display At Library

Work in various media by 57 men and women enrolled in art classes at East Carolina College is now on display in the Joyner Memorial Library on the campus.

The show is the first in recent years to display comprehensively the work of students taking courses in the college department of art, according to Dr. Wellington Gray, director of the art department. Plans for the future are that the exhibition will be staged annually, he states. William Persick, faculty member of the department, planned and executed the 1957 Student Art Show.

The exhibition will continue through May 18 and will be open to the public Monday through Saturday from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m. and Sunday from noon until 5 p.m.

On display are 110 pieces of work done by 57 students in classes taught by Dr. Gray, Mr. Persick, John Gordon and Francis Lee Neel, faculty members of the department of art. Included are examples of painting, drawing, figure drawing, graphics, advertising, crafts, textiles, ceramics, sculpture, and primary and grammar grade art.

Two of the student artists were honored by having their work selected for inclusion in the permanent student collection at the college. This collection is used for instructional and exhibition purposes in the department of art. "Nude," oil painting by Nancy Lilly of Miami, Fla., and "Pelican," cast plaster by Henry Wheeler of Walstonburg, are the works chosen this spring.

Unemployment In China's Cities

HONG KONG (AP)—Communist China's major cities, already suffering from unemployment, are becoming clogged with farm laborers seeking jobs.

Newspapers from the Communist mainland give this picture: Peasants poured into the cities in wholesale lots from outlying areas after last year's droughts, floods and typhoons.

In Shanghai, Canton and Tsingtao city councils have issued orders to send the farmers home before farm production suffers.

The population of Shanghai, biggest city on the mainland, soared to 6,800,000 early this year, an increase of 700,000 in six months.

Tsingtao, a Yellow Sea port of about a million, forbids farmers permanent jobs and refuses residence permits and food coupons to new arrivals.

Some 30,000 "have blindly infiltrated" Canton, a city of some 1 1/2 million 60 miles northwest of Hong Kong.

The 6,000 stations on British railways in addition to servicing trains, also have high competition prizes for gardens, window boxes and lawns which surround the stations.

To The Citizens Of Greenville . . .

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to the people of Greenville for their votes and support in the recent election. I love the ones who did not vote for me as much as those who did. I have no ill feeling toward anyone because of the outcome of the election.

Speed Limit On Tar River Sought

RALEIGH—The General Assembly has been given an opportunity to ease the bobbing corks and troubled minds of Tar River fishermen who are being disturbed by mechanically powered boats.

Representative Frank Wooten has introduced a bill calling for control of operation and speed of boats on portions of the river within Pitt County. The bill, which is under study by the House's Judiciary II Committee, would make careless and reckless boating, and speeding in excess of ten miles-per-hour, misdemeanors.

The speeding provisions do not pertain to "regularly scheduled and advertised races" in any waters more than one-half mile in width. The racing exemption would be valid, however, only if a permit for holding such speed events is obtained from the Clerk of Superior or Court of Pitt County not less than five days prior to the scheduled events.

Punishments for convictions of improper handling of boats, including speeding, is left to the discretion of courts, under terms of the bill.

The careless and reckless boating provisions of the bill are interpreted as operating "a motor boat, power boat, boat propelled by an outboard motor or other power . . . carelessly and heedlessly in willful or wanton disregard of the rights of safety of others, or without due caution and circumspection and at a speed or in a manner so as to endanger or be likely to endanger any person or property . . ."

True, Women's Feet Are Bigger

CHICAGO (AP) — Women's feet are getting bigger, says a shoe fitting expert.

Louis Liebson, stylist for a firm which opened its 300th store in a neighborhood shopping center, said in the past 15 years women's average size has jumped from a 6B to a 7B.

He says the increase in a woman's foot size is due to the fact that lately women have preferred a proper fit rather than a snug one.

Southern Lumber Jill Is Also A Campus Belle

Her School Tuition Grows on Trees . . . Pretty Cortez James hitches horse to start hauling posts. She uses money for college.

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — Cortez James, a comely Southern belle, is an expert logger. She will complete her freshman year at Arkansas State Teachers College this spring, and then the 18-year-old brunette will get to work in the 110 acres of forest on her dad's mountain farm. It is located in Montgomery County near Big Fork, Ark., where she peeled her first fence posts to pay for a new dress when she was 6. Cortez's father, Albert James, says he has always encouraged his two daughters and his son, James, to understand forest practices that yield posts, pulpwood and sawlogs. James is in Tulsa, Okla., attending night law school while working for an oil company during the day. The eldest daughter, Capitola, was aided through college by sister Cortez, and now teaches at Marshall High School.

During the summer months, the Jameses are busy in the woods. Cortez netted $452 last year by felling and peeling pines for fence posts. She helped log 4,600 trees and won first-place last year in the Arkansas 4-H forestry projects earning her a trip to the 4-H Club Congress in Chicago sponsored by the American Forest Products Industries, the agency that administers the Keep America Green campaign.

Since she was eight years old, Cortez has paid for her education and 4-H club activities with money received from forest products. She works in the school cafeteria.

She eventually might follow her older sister by teaching school. But she aims first to make a trip to Europe as an International Foreign Youth Exchange Student.

Holstein Locked Horns With Car

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Bossy the cow has been having a rough time. And so has her owner.

Last November the Holstein locked horns with a car. Bossy wasn't seriously injured, but she did damage the car a little.

A Circuit Court jury decided it was all Bossy's fault for breaking a state law by roaming the highway unattended.

Owner Lawrence Richeson was ordered to pay $200 damages to the car's owner.

Farmville Board Gives Initial OK To 2 Franchises At Monthly Meet

FARMVILLE — Farmville commissioners gave first-reading approval to a pair of franchises and pledged their support to the National Guard during their regular monthly meeting Tuesday night.

A 30-year franchise which would permit Carolina Power and Light Company to use city streets to get power lines to an industrial site was approved after first reading despite opposition by commissioner W. C. Wooten. Wooten objected to the 30-year period called for in the franchise but his colleagues overruled him in voting to permit the company to string lines from a substation to the site of the new flakeboard plant.

North Carolina Natural Gas Corporation's request for a 20-year franchise in Farmville passed unanimously.

Both franchises require two readings before the commissioners. Approval is expected to be granted to both at the June meeting of the board.

The commissioners gave their blessing and pledged to support a membership campaign for the National Guard unit in order to qualify it for state and federal funds to construct an armory. Jack McDavid, commanding officer of the unit, told the commissioners that Farmville was "in immediate line for a new armory" but that the unit would have to increase its strength by about 20 men by June 1.

The commissioners appropriated $7,500 for the armory in the town's 1956-1957 budget. Pitt County also made a $7,500 appropriation.

A contract for auditing the town's fiscal records was awarded to Williams and Wall, certified public accountants of Raleigh. The audit is for the period July 1, 1956, through June 30, 1957.

Commissioners adjourned the meeting early because of municipal elections but will resume tomorrow at 5 p.m. Expected to be discussed tomorrow are personnel for summer operation of the municipal swimming pool, and construction of lighting facilities at the Farmville Elementary School. Officials of the Farmville Little League have requested that lights be erected at the playground to permit night baseball games for the league.

Crowds Attend Farming Display

More than a 1000 persons attended the all day showing of "What's New in Farming" conducted yesterday by Hendrix-Barnhill Co., Inc., a local farm equipment firm.

On display were various types of farm machinery including an irrigation system, tractors, spraying equipment, tobacco harvesters, corn shellers and combines. Many new ideas and farm methods were demonstrated to the visitors.

The purpose of the show was to acquaint the farmers of Pitt and surrounding counties with the latest methods of land preparation, the application of new chemical fertilizers in addition to demonstrating irrigation and its future benefits.

Eight factory representatives from concerns supplying farm equipment to Hendrix-Barnhill were present to demonstrate their equipment to the crowds coming in throughout the day. Also on display was several pieces of farm equipment assembled at the Hendrix-Barnhill machine shop here.

Farmers as far away as Wilson and Battleboro attended the showing, a representative from the local farm equipment concern reported this morning. The site of the display was located on U. S. Highway 264A on the crop-dusting airstrip.

John T. Barnhill stated yesterday afternoon, "We are extremely pleased with the response given our showing by the farmers of Pitt and surrounding counties."

Rae Foley's new mystery novel RUN FOR YOUR LIFE

CHAPTER 17

Tom Jones, clad only in pajama pants shot down the stairs, pulling himself to a halt a step above the motionless body of Olive Riddle.

"Is she—"

Mr. Potter looked up, nodded. "She's dead. I think her neck is broken."

There was a choked cry and Stuart Young, in pajamas and robe, his hair tousled, hurried down the stairs. "Nora! Nora! Let me see, Jones. Call a doctor! Let me—"

"His voice broke off." Mrs. Riddle—

"From her room Nora called. 'What is it? What happened?'"

Frank Deming, in trousers and undershirt, was followed by Garry, wearing a silk dress of a hideous orange, and Finn, apparently clad only in a pair of trousers. And last of all came Deming, in pajamas and robe.

The first outbreak of excited and horrified questions was followed by silence as they looked down at the crumpled figure.

Stuart broke it. "We'd better get her up to her room and call a doctor. Jones, will you lend me a hand?"

"She's dead," Mr. Potter said. "We can't move her until the police come."

Garry brushed past the others, who moved aside silently to make room for her. She bent over Olive Riddle. At length she looked at Mr. Potter. "She dead, all right."

The lawyer rubbed his hands over his face. "Are you sure, Miss

Finn took a quick look around. "Whom do you mean?"

"Ives. He was around all evening. With you, I believe, Miss Garrison."

"There was hatred in her eyes. 'Mr. Ives called on me earlier but he left at ten-thirty.'"

"Odd. He should be home by now. I tried to reach his apartment but there was no answer."

"I don't see why you're checking on him. Why would he—do anything to Mrs. Riddle?"

"I have no idea," Mr. Potter said tranquilly. "Huger, you had better get some coffee going."

"And step on it," Finn said. "We swayed on his feet, he added, "I'll give you a hand."

"Potter," Finn said, "let Huger tend to the coffee. Stay here, will you, until I get dressed. See that nothing is disturbed."

In a few moments the lobby was empty save for Mr. Potter and the body at the foot of the stairs. He looked down at it somberly, recalling the sounds he had heard as she was descending the stairs. Not for a moment did he believe that she had tripped. She had been pushed. But had she been killed as Olive Riddle or as Nora Pendleton?

Soon Hazel Huger came slowly out of the living room, steadied by Garry's arm, as Finn hurried downstairs. In response to the lawyer's inquiry she nodded apathetically. She was all right. While Finn pulled the telephone across the counter so that he could keep an eye on the stairway, Mr. Potter drifted after Hazel, who skirted the body with out a glance at it and went into the kitchen.

Mr. Potter, putting around kept close to the door, catching fragments of Finn's telephone conversation.

"... a plane in an hour. A taxi can pick you up... I realize it's inconvenient... assistant take over for a day or... few hours may be all that is needed... Of course it's urgent. You should know if... Fine!"

He slammed down the telephone and Mr. Potter, leaving the silent Huger alone in the kitchen, went back to join him. The lawyer, hands in his pockets, was staring down at Olive. "With those heels and that trailing skirt she could have tripped on the stairs."

He looked at Mr. Potter and didn't like what he saw. "I hope you aren't trying to throw a monkey wrench into this business. That crack you made about Ives—"

He paused for a moment as though measuring an opponent. "As Nora's attorney, I suggest that you leave things in my hands. I've heard of your exploits, Potter, and frankly I don't care for them."

"I have no respect for murder," Mr. Potter said. "You and I both know, beyond any doubt, that Olive Riddle was deliberately and brutally murdered. There is someone here who is much to dangerous to be at large."

There comes a tap on Nora's door and her heart thuds. She is afraid to open it. Afraid to know who is waiting in the hall. Continue Chapter 18 of "Run for Your Life" here tomorrow.

GHS Tracksters At Raleigh Tomorrow

READYING FOR SECTIONALS—Coach Guy Lewis is preparing his Greenville high school tracksters for the North Carolina High School sectional meet at Raleigh tomorrow. The Phantoms, winners of the Northeastern Conference for the second straight season, are expected to make a good showing in the Raleigh meet. All of the outstanding track teams in the eastern section of the state will be represented in the meet. (Reflector Sports Photo by Billy Arnold).

ECC Track Team Favored To Cop North State Meet

Coach J. O. Miller's East Carolina track team will journey to Burlington Saturday to compete in the North State Conference track meet.

The Pirates, defending champions, are regarded the favorites in pre-match speculation, although Elon and Guilford are expected to offer some stiff competition. All the teams in the Conference, with the possible exception of Western Carolina and Appalachian, will be represented. Usually, those two clubs are unable to take part in the meet due to travel difficulties.

East Carolina holds most of the North State Conference track records at the present time, and most of the boys who set those marks are still on the Buc team. Jim Henderson, who holds the NS marks for the high hurdles, the 100 and 220 yard dashes, will be back for another shot at more records. He was the meet's high point man last year.

Foster Morse, crack two-miler, will return to defend his record in that event. In the four times that he has competed in that event this year, Morse has snapped the ECC school record three times. Morse will also double up for this meet and run in the one-mile, something he has not done before. Morse and little Dennis O'Brien, a pole vaulter, are the only two men on the ECC club who have gone undefeated in their respective events throughout this season.

Both are expected to take top positions in those events Saturday.

The Pirate mile relay team of Charlie Bishop, Bob Ruck, Joe Pond and Bobby Patterson is another record holder in the NS meet. They are expected to bring home another title in that event Saturday. Coach Miller has not yet named the mile relay team and said that there was a possibility that an alternate may be used for one of the boys named above. James Speight, Henderson and Bobby Maynard will carry the ECC hopes of snatching the 100 yard dash honors, usually one of the most interesting races of the meet. Maynard, by the way, also holds the North State mark for low hurdles and will be competing in that bracket, too. Cliff Buck will work with teammate Morse in the mile run.

Coach Miller said this morning that his club has shown steady improvement throughout the year, but declined to make a statement about the outcome of the NS meet, other than the fact that Elon and Guilford have appeared strong and

Middlecoff Has Hot 7-Under-Par Practice Round

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Veteran Cary Middlecoff looms as a favorite in the $20,000 third annual Hot Springs Open golf tournament after a sizzling 7-under-par 65 practice round yesterday.

The PGA-sanctioned tournament began today with 122 shooters, including 25 amateurs.

Bo Winger, who captured the event in 1955, fired a 71 yesterday. Lloyd Mangrum shot a 5-under-par 67.

In amateur practice yesterday, Roy Moore Jr. of Memphis shot a 68, the same score as his low qualifying round Monday.

Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., won with 272 last year and will try again.

Notables missing from this year's lineup included Doug Ford, winner of the Masters last month, and Gene Littler.

Among other well-known golfers here were Jimmy Demaret, George Bayer, Mike Souchak, Ed Furgol, Peter Thomson, Julius Boros, Bob Toski, Dick Mayer, Art Wall Jr., and Bob Rosburg.

Bucs Face Tough Foe In Loop-Leading Elon

Ted Williams Collects 3 Homers Against Chisox

By JOE REICHLER The Associated Press Love him, despise him... cheer him, boo him... but no real baseball fan can ignore Ted Williams... nor the fact that "The Kid," after 18 years, is still "Mr. Big" of the Boston Red Sox.

Williams has been the heart and soul of the Red Sox attack ever since he joined them in 1939. But not since 1946, when he led the team to its only pennant in 38 years—and won the league's most valuable player award to boot—has he demonstrated his importance to the Sox cause as he has this season.

Yesterday was a typical example when Ted smashed three home runs and drove in all the runs as the Red Sox trounced the Chicago White Sox 4-1 for their fourth straight. The victory boosted Boston to within 11 percentage points of second and only a half game from the American League leading New York Yankees who dropped a 10-4 decision to Cleveland.

Ted's value to the Red Sox is best illustrated by the team's record. In the 16 games that Williams has appeared in the lineup, the team has won 11. In the four he did not, the team lost three.

Another red hot team, the Cincinnati Reds, stretched their winning streak to nine with a 7-6 triumph over Brooklyn. A grand-slam homer by sizzling Don Hoak and a pair of four-baggers by substitute first baseman George Crowe furnished all the runs and gave the Reds their first Eastern sweep since the pennant winning 1940 team.

The Reds' second straight in Ebbets Field zoomed them into second place, a half game behind the front-running Milwaukee Braves who bowed 2-1 to the Philadelphia Phillies. Rookie Don Cardwell was responsible for the Braves' third straight loss with a seven-hitter.

The St. Louis Cardinals pounded four New York pitchers for 19 hits to defeat Johnny Antonelli and the Giants 13-4 while the Chicago Cubs pushed Pittsburgh deeper into the National League basement with a 7-1 victory over the Pirates.

Cleveland battered four Yankee pitchers for 13 hits for their second straight success against the world champions. Early Wynn, supped by three-run homers off the bats of Vic Wertz and Gene Woodling and a two-run blast by rookie Roger Maris, earned his third victory.

Detroit inflicted the tenth straight loss upon Washington, drubbing the Senators 11-3 for its sixth success in the last seven games. Baltimore shellacked Kansas City 11-2 behind a 13-hit attack that included home runs by Billy Gardner and Gus Triandos.

Williams' explosive bat coupled with Frank Sullivan's four-hitter contrived to end the fifth straight defeat upon the White Sox. Chicago pitchers were able to retire Williams only once to end his streak of reaching base 11 successive times, five on hits and six on walks.

Hoak's grand slammer, in the eighth, came off loser Don Newcombe, and snapped a 3-3 tie with Brooklyn. The victory went to Warren Hacker, who had lost eight straight times to the Dodgers since July 19, 1954.

By BILLY ARNOLD Reflector Sports Editor Elon's league-leading Christians, who will meet East Carolina's defending North State champions here Friday night at Guy Smith Stadium, knocked off Guilford yesterday 9-5.

The Pirates, who possess a 9-3 record, can only hope to get back into the North State race if Elon loses two ball games. Their win yesterday puts the Elon aggregation way out in front with an 12-2 mark. They have two games left on their schedule. Only if they lose them both can ECC make another bid for the title.

Coach Jim Mallory's crew can help their own cause Friday night. In the only other meeting between the two clubs this year, Elon posted a decisive 6-0 victory over the Bucs at Burlington. Since that time, however, the Pirates have picked up six more victories—including a 5-4 win over N. C. State. They have lost only two since that first ECC-Elon match.

Hitting Improved Responsible for a huge part of the Bucs' success since that early 6-0 loss, has been the improved hitting of the Mallory-men. Several Bucs are now hitting well over 300. Joel Long, a husky sophomore outfielder, is batting at a .385 average and has four home runs and 20 RBIs to his credit.

Mallory has stated that his club is "hitting better in the clutch than at any time earlier this year. And that's what counts." Buc pitching has also been an invaluable factor. Ben Baker, a solid left-hander, who trounced State, has perhaps been the most impressive, strapping up three wins and no losses thus far. Mack McPherson, Bruce Shelby, Leonard Lilley and George Williams have all done their share of the mound work.

Williams To Pitch Williams, a fireball artist from Shawboro, is in his first season of collegiate ball this year and has come through well with a 2-0 record thus far. He is a righthander. The entire gate for the night contest has been bought out by the College View Cleaners and Laundry, a local firm, which is giving them away to all who ask for them. The local Jaycees also have a hand in the promotion and tickets may be obtained by contacting any member.

Proceeds from the contest will go toward the ECC baseball scholarship fund and toward helping to finance the Jaycees Little League baseball team.

Game time tomorrow night is set for 8:00.

Hornsby Advises Gil 'Forget It'

CHICAGO (AP)—Rogers Hornsby, one of baseball's immortals, had some advice today for Gil McDougald, the New York Yankee whose drive felled Cleveland's ace pitcher Herb Score.

"I had McDougald in 1950 when I managed Beaumont (Texas League) and he is a very fine lad," Hornsby said in an interview. "I know he feels badly about the Score accident—but that was exactly what it was, an accident and Gil must accept it as such."

"He should not let it disturb his playing. I've hit players with batted balls and I've been hit myself plenty of times. It may shake you up but you can't let it get you down. You certainly don't mean to hit anybody—it's an accident, just like walking out in the street and getting run over."

"Gil is improving as a player every year and is off to a fine start this time. He must remember that such an accident could happen to anybody. He shouldn't let it interfere with his playing."

Bobo Olson Out Of Retirement As Light-Heavy

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Carl (Bob) Olson, the ex-middleweight champion who retired last year after being knocked out in three successive bouts, plans a comeback.

That was disclosed today by Sid Flaherty, who was manager of Olson when the fighter retired. When Flaherty announced Olson's retirement he said it was for the fighter's own good.

"He has told me he intends to fight again, whether I manage him or not," Flaherty said. "If he does come back, it will be in this area, and he will fight as a light-heavyweight. Right now he weighs 185 pounds."

Flaherty said Olson had decided recently to take a physical examination, and when he passed it, made up his mind to return to the ring.

more outfielder, is batting at a .385 average and has four home runs and 20 RBIs to his credit. Second baseman Gary Treon, first baseman Dean Robbins and outfielder Tommy Nance are also whacking better than 300. Nance has walloped three homers.

Phant Baseballers Play Final Foe Tuesday Night

Greenville high school's final baseball game of the season, a match with Jacksonville, will be played Tuesday night at Guy Smith Stadium.

Coach Boley Farley, who made the announcement, stated today that "this game will be played at night so that we can bring in some money for the high school baseball program, which is already in debt from this year's play."

It is an old story for GHS. The baseball program, according to Greenville school officials, has been in pitiful financial shape for some years. "This game," Farley added, "will be the first baseball game we've charged admission for in over 10 years."

The Phant met Roanoke Rapids this afternoon at Guy Smith Stadium. It was their 10th game of the season and the Phantoms were shooting for their sixth win.

Friday night, the local will journey to Kingston for a night game against the league-leaders. Kingston, which has already posted one win over GHS, is currently ahead of the field with a 9-0 mark.

Game time for the Tuesday night affair at Guy Smith has been set for 8:00. Coach Farley said today, "I'll probably start Hudson Miller on the mound against the Cardinals."

Herb Score Waits Out The Hours To Learn If His Baseball Career Ended

CLEVELAND (AP)—In a darkened hospital room without visitors pitcher Herb Score waited out the hours today. He knew he would have some sight in his injured right eye. But would it be enough to continue a brilliant baseball career?

Thousands of baseball fans everywhere hope and pray with him. Phone calls about him light up the Lakeside Hospital switchboard every few seconds. Telegrams and mail are flooding in to the Cleveland Indians' strike-out king.

Tell everyone thanks, the south-paw says.

The waiting will go on through today and at least part of tomorrow, Dr. Charles Thomas, eye specialist, has indicated. Extensive bleeding started Tuesday night when a liner from New York Yankee Gil McDougald's bat felled Score. That hemorrhaging has to stop before the tell-tale examination can be made.

There was guarded optimism in Dr. Thomas' reports last night that the 23-year-old pitcher has "improved," and the specialist indicated there would be some sight—the amount doubtful.

"The eye will be saved," Dr. Thomas said. "It is beginning to clear up. I can't tell yet the full extent of the damage."

"There is no brain injury," the doctor said.

While Score himself has admitted to considerable pain, he maintained a cheerful, bantering attitude with teammates and newsmen who talked with him before a ban was put on visiting to give him more rest. He is putting much faith in prayer.

To his mother, Mrs. Ann Score in Lake Worth, Fla., he sent word asking her not to make the trip to Cleveland. Mrs. Score, who reared the pitcher, a devout Catholic, said she was content to stay home and continue the prayers in which she and some neighbors spent most of Tuesday night.

Sharing in her concern was McDougald, who felt so downcast he said at first that he might quit baseball. Said Mrs. Score:

"It certainly wasn't his fault, and I'm sure everything will come out all right."

Through General Manager Hank Greenberg, Score sent McDougald this message:

"Tell him that it's just part of the game. It wasn't his fault. I don't hold any grudge or ill feeling at all."

Williams Finds Never Too Old To Learn Lesson

CHICAGO (AP)—Ted Williams, going on 39, isn't too old to learn a lesson.

"I learned one yesterday in the sixth inning," said the Boston slugger who smashed three homers and batted in all the Red Sox runs in their 4-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

"As I recall, Bob Keegan had a count of 3-2 on me when I swung—and it was a bad ball. If I hadn't gone for it I would have walked."

Williams hit the pitch high to left field where Minnie Minoso caught it.

It ended Williams' string of homers.

He slammed one Tuesday night in the ninth inning with a man aboard that boosted Boston to a 4-3 decision over Chicago. In his first two times up yesterday, and the bases empty, he also parked the ball into the stands.

Then he fled out, but got on the beam again in the eighth inning with his third homer of the game, which also scored Billy Klaus who had singled.

The production gave Williams nine circuit smashes for the season, a figure he didn't reach last year until July 26. He wound up 1956 with a total of 24. Williams now has 427 for his career.

When he fled out it broke a streak of reaching base 11 straight times and five successive hits.

Only once before has the "splendid splinter" poled as many as three homers in one game. The other time was on July 14, 1946, in the first game of a doubleheader at Boston. In the nightcap, Manager Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians introduced the "Williams shift" that still is used against Ted by every club in the league.

Measured by Babe Ruth's record homer collection of 60 in 1927, Williams is well ahead of the bambino's pace. Ruth didn't hit his ninth that year until the New York Yankees' 29th game on May 17.

NEW BERN — Early this week, the Greenville high school golfers defeated New Bern 9½-8½ here in a Northeastern Conference match—the last before the NEAC tournament, which will be held in Kinston this Friday.

Low man for the Phantom linksters was Louis Phelps, Medalist for the match however was New Bern's George Smith with a 71. Other Greenville boys who participated were Buddy Murray, Wesley Topping and Lucian Bryan Jr.

Going into the tourney Friday Greenville will take a 6-1 record. Against all the teams in the Northeastern Conference, the G-Men have bowed only to Washington. They toppled a strong Kinston team twice, Elizabeth City twice, and New Bern once. They split with Washington.

One more match will remain on the Phantom card after the tournament, a match with New Bern, here next Monday.

Favored in the big NEAC tournament Friday is the New Bern club. Though the Phantoms have posted a victory over the Bears, they are still generally regarded the strongest club in the loop by most observers. Greenville is expected to follow at second and is given a good chance of finishing first, since their 9½-8½ win this week.

Another 'Stilt' In Texas Sought By 14 Schools

CONROE, Tex. (AP)—Two Wilt the Stilts on one team? Could be. Kansas, where Wilt Chamberlain is the star of the basketball team, is after a 17-year-old Negro boy named Warnell Jones who may be taller than Wilt before he stops growing.

Jones, a senior at the All-Negro Booker T. Washington High School in Conroe, stands 6 feet 11 with ease and is being sought by no less than 14 colleges and universities. The reason is obvious: He scored 628 points in 20 games for an average of 31.4 last season.

He's been doing that all through high school, however, and the interest in him was not recently born. Some of his games as a high school sophomore attracted college scouts.

Press Ass'n To Convene Friday

WILSON, N.C. (AP)—Industry and education will be the key subjects in the program of the Eastern North Carolina Press Assn. when it holds its spring meeting here tomorrow and Saturday.

Education and the similarity between the work of colleges and newspapers will be discussed by Dr. Arthur D. Wenger, new president of Atlantic Christian College, at a Friday night banquet.

Thomas A. Willis of Farmville, who has played a key role in helping two eastern North Carolina communities obtain large industries, will discuss industrial development at a Saturday luncheon.

The convention, drawing delegates from papers between Raleigh and Manteo, Laurinburg and Roanoke Rapids, will be presided over by Ashley B. Putrell, publisher of the Washington Daily News, association president.

Serving as co-hosts will be the Wilson Daily Times and Atlantic Christian College. Saturday morning's session will be held at the college, where there will be two panel discussions. The first will feature Al G. Dickson of the Wilmington Star-News as moderator. The second will have Sam Ragan, of the Raleigh News & Observer, as moderator. Panelists will be Gene Price of the Goldsboro News-Argus, Jim Wilson of the Wilmington Star-News, Vernon Striess of the Rocky Mount Telegram, Dr. Donald Koode of Wilmington, immediate past president of the North Carolina Medical Society; Dr. John Mewborn, president of the North Carolina Academy of General Practice; Henry Dennis, publisher of the Henderson Dispatch; Thomas J. Lassiter, publisher of the Smithfield Herald; and Roy Carter, member of the University of North Carolina Journalism faculty.

A horse and automobile collided recently near Knoxville, Tenn. The car was completely demolished. The horse's jaw had a slight fracture, nothing serious.

Arrest Three For Larceny

Three teen-agers from Baltimore have been arrested for larceny of an electric razor, a camera and a portable radio from a home on N. C. 43 west of Greenville.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson identified the three as Charles Hammond, 16, Jerold Parlow, 16, and Ursell Ellis, 17, all Negroes.

The sheriff said the three are accused of entering the home of Arthur Evans around 10 o'clock this morning. Evans called the sheriff's department and the three were arrested by Deputies Loyd Manning and N. H. Byrd around 10:30.

The trio will be tried in County Court.

"SPARE THAT STRIKE" shot the hard way—in the path of the bowling ball and pins—by Sgt. Dick Johnson, a paratrooper at Ft. Bragg, N. C. This won an award in the 1957 Army Times photo contest.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures
Natural, dyed-in-the-wool photographers are those who visualize a picture and then disregard the risks incurred to achieve it. Hazards, and over-coming them, are the normal stock-in-trade of press photographers and we take for granted the pictures we see in our daily newspapers of disasters, fires and other dangerous situations.

Amateur photo fans take risks also and sometimes manage to get into fantastic positions or situations in order to make a particular shot.

Such a camera fan is Sgt. Dick Johnson of the Army airborne infantry. He wanted to get a bowling action picture from a different viewpoint. First he set up two home-built speedlights, one focused on the pins and the other on the bowlers. Then he removed the backstop from the rear of the alley so he could crouch there and shoot when the ball hit the pins.

Gets Hit
Sure, he got hit also when he didn't jump out of the way fast enough . . . several times. But it didn't harm the camera a bit! He held it high and safe.

The reward for the effort, ingenuity and bruises?

One of the prizes in a photo contest sponsored by the weekly newspapers circulating among service personnel throughout the world: The Army Times, The Navy Times and the Air Force Times. Unfortunately, it wasn't one of the major prizes. It was exhibited in Washington, D. C. along with 52 other prizewinners during the International Photo Exposition. Now they will make a tour of military installations around the world for further exhibition.

man bowlit pin was just one example of taking pictures the hard way. He tried another off-beat technique. He carried his Rolleiflex camera in shooting position during a parachute jump. He shot the whole roll, a dozen pictures, of fellow paratroopers floating down before he hit the ground. He selected one of the series to enter in the same contest and it, too, won an award.

Potent Hobby
Photography in our armed forces is still a potent hobby as evidenced by the flood of entries in the Army Times contest. Limited to members of the military services, their immediate dependents and to civilian employees of the Defense Department, more than 15,000 pictures and color slides were received from U.S. bases around the globe.

They were judged by a panel of newspaper and magazine photographers and editors headed by as distinguished a judge as you are likely to find—Associate Justice William O. Douglas of the United States Supreme Court.

A noted amateur photographer himself, the jurist invariably carried several cameras on his extensive travels in recent years. The reports and books he wrote about his trips are all illustrated with his own photos.

It is interesting to note that even in uniform the amateur fans take their photography seriously. In the information that came with their entries, most of them reveal that they regard darkroom work as an important part of making their pictures. In many cases they had to do their own work because of the uncertainty or inability to find competent commercial processing work, especially overseas.

A good many managed to become military photographers and had access to official darkrooms. Others used darkrooms set up for hobbyists at service clubs or built their own facilities. All in all, slightly more than 85 percent of the winners in the Army Times contest did their own processing and enlarging.

Costello, The Victim, Is In Jail; His Assailant Is Free

By ARTHUR W. EVERETT
 NEW YORK (AP)—At about 10:55 p. m. last Thursday, racketeer Frank Costello's skull was lightly creased by an assassin's bullet. Although Costello is one of the nation's most notorious underworld figures, there was no evidence that at that moment he was any less law-abiding than his eight million fellow New Yorkers. And yet, today, a week later, Costello, who was set upon, is behind bars. And the thug who shot him is free.

It was an unexpected denouement in the life of the man the underworld knows as "Uncle Frank"—a man whose swarthy face is seamed like a waffle iron and whose taste in fine clothes is offset by a rasping voice that still pronounces coin as "kern."

Last Thursday was a quiet day in the life of the 66-year-old racketeer, who came here as a boy from his native Italy. At noon Costello spent some time with gambler Frank Erickson and racketeer Little Augie Pisano in a favorite hangout, the Hotel Later, Costello spent three hours in the Hotel Biltmore's Turkish bath.

In the evening Costello and his wife were dinner guests of Al Miniaci, a cigar and juke box machine man, at L'Aiglon restaurant on the East Side. Others in the party included Generoso Pope, owner of a weekly newspaper; his wife, John J. Miller, a columnist for Pope's paper, and Philip Kennedy, manager of a modeling agency.

Later, the party moved to the nearby Monsignore restaurant. Costello left shortly before 11 p. m. to take a telephone call at home from his Washington lawyer.

Costello left a cab and entered 115 Central Park West, where he has an apartment. As he did so, he heard what sounded like a firecracker and felt a moistness above one ear.

He said he did not hear the gunman nor see him as the thug fled out of the building after the single shot and escaped in a black sedan. Costello's head wound proved trivial.

"I'm sure it was a punk," Costello said, "who wanted to be feared by saying he was the one who shot the boss. I'm not the boss... I'm out of action."

But police called Costello a liar and Chief of Detectives James B. Leggett declared:

"He recognized the gunman or he knows why someone wanted to kill him. But he's not telling us."

More than 60 detectives were thrown into a hunt for a gunman. A police guard was placed on Costello.

There was speculation that the police would never get the assassin alive. It was assumed that Costello's trigger-quick cohorts might get to him first.

The district attorney's office gave the police a hand by putting Costello before a grand jury Tuesday. When the racketeer refused to answer questions, he was sent to the workhouse for 30 days for contempt.

Out of these proceedings came an intriguing facet of the investi-

ation. In a pocket of Costello's jacket after he was shot, police found a note which read:

"Gross casino wins as of 4-26-57 $651,234. Casino wins less markers $434,695. Slot wins $62,844. Markers $153,745. Mike $150 per week. Jake $100 per week. L $30,000. H 9,000."

The note apparently had something to do with a big gambling operation. "Markers" are the gambling term for IOU's. "Slot" could mean slot machines, in which Costello long has been interested. "Casino" could refer to a gambling center—or it could be a private code word for almost anything.

The note seemed to contradict Costello's claim that he is out of the racket. Police think that if they can decipher it, they may have a clue in the assassination attempt.

Just To Avoid Any Undue Risk

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—A confiscated moonshine still was set up at the Richmond Police Academy. But Federal Authorities declined to run the risk of letting some rookie cop run off a batch in his spare time. Federal Alcohol tax agents insisted on puncturing the cooker vat at several places—just to make certain.

Baby Buzzer Is Mother-Waker

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—A baby specialist here reported that a cause of considerable anxiety among mothers with faulty hearing is that they won't be awakened by baby's crying during the night. The specialist—a woman—suggested a solution and Medical College Research Laboratories produced a gadget to waken the deaf mothers.

It's an electronic device that converts the slightest sound from the baby's crib into vibrations which the mothers receive from an instrument under her bed pillow. A Service Club which sponsored the development lends the device on request.

Determined To Have Some Quiet

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—When Long Beach wants quiet it intends to have it, by legislation if necessary.

The City Council has proposed curbs on 14 types of noise between 11 p. m. and 7 a. m. For example, it exempts vehicle noises, but cracks down on loud playing of phonographs, radios and television sets. There may be no yelling or shouting on the streets between these hours, and the ordinance draft says, there must be "no barking of dogs or singing of birds."

This undoubtedly would put a crimp in the birds' early morning activities, and it is bringing wrinkles to the brow of City Atty. James T. Starr, who has been asked to advise the council if the ordinance is enforceable.

Food Supplies In Haiti Dwindling

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Haiti is in a bad way and many of the country's four million citizens are subsisting mainly on a meatless soup made with wild pineapple, as the basic ingredient.

Millions of dollars worth of food gifts sent from the United States have not been sufficient to ease the demand for food in rural areas. The price of rice and beans, top staple foods, jumped 20 per cent in two weeks.

Five months of political crisis and sporadic political strikes, plus poor growing conditions, have intensified the situation.

President Maurice Telemaque of the National Bank of Haiti says the government owes the bank 18 million dollars.

"The government will have to cut down on its spending very sharply," he told this reporter. "That's the only solution to prevent financial collapse. The National Bank of Haiti is unable to help the government further financially."

Asked about frequent reports that the government treasury is about empty, Telemaque said he had no figures "but there's not

Girl-Pinching Is Also Frowned On

BOSTON (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals has ruled that a man can be fired for calling the boss names, fighting with a fellow employe and playfully pinching one of the girls at a Christmas party.

The court yesterday affirmed the judgment of the federal court of Puerto Rico, which ruled there was no breach of contract when the Long Construction Co. of San Juan fired Robert E. Johnson, Indianapolis, in January, 1948.

Johnson had sought $150,000 in damages.

Testimony was introduced that Johnson called the boss names, fought with another worker and pinched a girl at an office Christmas party in 1947. He was fired for that.

Tinder-Dry Area In Northeast Is Fire-Menaced

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Forest fires continued today to threaten parched woodlands of the nation's northeast area.

In Michigan, fire fighters kept an anxious eye on the state's tinder-dry sections after a winning fight over one of the worst timber blazes in years.

Thirty new fires broke out in New York state yesterday. Before that, the state's monthlong dry spell spawned nearly 350 blazes.

Massachusetts declared a state of emergency and Maine clamped restrictions on its forests last night as fires gutted thousands of woodland acres in those states, New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut and New Jersey.

In Michigan, a 750-acre fire in the big Huron National Forest near Lake Huron was brought under control last night after a full half-day's battle by 400 persons.

In Maine a wind-whipped blaze roared through 3,200 acres of forest in Jackman last night. The fire isolated a sporting camp owner and his wife, but forestry officials expected to get them out.

A fire raging through Manchester, Mass., woodlands, threatening fashionable residences, appeared under control last night. Manchester is about 20 miles north of Boston.

Several homes were destroyed in the Plymouth-Carver area in southeastern Massachusetts.

In New York State, three houses and a barn were destroyed. A woman pleaded guilty to violating Gov. Averell Harriman's forest-closing order and was fined $75.

For a time yesterday the Wurtsmith Air Force Base at Oscoda, Mich., lay in the path of flaming timberland.

U. S. About Ready To Resume Tito Arms Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is reported about ready to resume military aid, including jet planes, to Yugoslavia after banning any weapons shipments for nearly a year. A top-level decision to end the existing embargo is understood to be near, subject to President Eisenhower's final approval.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland (Calif.), a vigorous foe of major military aid to Yugoslavia, is reported to have been advised by administration leaders that they are sympathetically considering such a move.

Under the ruling now taking shape, however, Yugoslavia would not get the full backlog of about 300 American jet fighters previously earmarked for delivery.

The Yugoslavs would receive an undisclosed number of them, a few at a time, over a period of several years. Shipments of American tanks, howitzers and other heavy military hardware would be renewed pretty much according to previous delivery schedules.

Under congressional pressure, the administration banned all military aid to Yugoslavia last Aug. 15, mainly because of suspicion that Marshal Tito might be patching up his eight-year-old quarrel with Moscow.

Congress itself banned use of new foreign aid funds for major military aid to the Yugoslavs, but did not make the ban apply to items previously approved but not delivered.

On Oct. 15, President Eisenhower decided to resume full economic aid to the hard-pressed Yugoslavs, but continued the ban on military assistance except for small quantities of small parts needed for equipment previously supplied.

Authorities said Marshal Tito's policies now show he intends to remain independent of Kremlin domination.

Hooked Rug Tells History Of Farm

MAQUOKETA, Iowa. (AP) — The hooked rug runners which cover the stairway risers in the farm home of Oscar Skott near here are made up of pictures which show highlights of the farm's history.

Skott's sister, Mrs. Margaret Siders of Maquoketa, made the pictorial rug and the story it tells begins with settlement on the farm by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Skott, in 1866.

Other pictures show the original farmhouse, its successor, the rock garden begun in 1871, coming of electricity to the farm in 1922.

Big Rain Causes Long Dry Spell

FRANKLIN, Ky. (AP) — When week-long rains hit Simpson County, they left Noble Lanier's livestock faced with a long dry spell.

His 1 1/2 acre pond sprang a leak during the downpour and disappeared, the result of a cave-in deep in the soggy underground. All that had remained in the pond, where water had been available for more than 50 years, was 15-feet of mud. Lanier later plugged the leak in hopes future rains might create a new pond — if the bottom doesn't drop out again.

President George Washington received an honorary degree in 1790 from Brown University in Rhode Island.

encing the administration in its aid ban was Tito's surprise flight to Russia last August for highly confidential talks with Soviet leaders. This aroused suspicion that the Yugoslavs and Russians might end the bitter differences which caused Tito to split with the Kremlin in 1948.

Sewer Water Drinkable If Well Cleaned, Says Expert

WATER EXPERT: John Clark, specialist in sanitary engineering at New Mexico A&M, is working on a project to reclaim pure water from sewage.

By STEVE LOWELL
LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP)—An engineering professor says the time may come when Americans will use reclaimed sewer water for domestic purposes.

"Water is neither created nor destroyed, nor is it changed in form; it merely becomes dirty and all we have to do is wash it," says John Clark.

The New Mexico A&M professor, a specialist in sanitary engineering, says industry "has proved that it is economical in certain instances" to use treated sewer water, and only psychological barriers keep it from being a source of water for ordinary home use.

"Our psychological attitudes regarding sewage water for personal use will have to be overcome if we are to be space travelers or live for a while on a satellite circling the earth," he says.

"It seems improbable that we will be able to carry along the huge amounts of water necessary to our persons on a trip lasting days, months or even years.

"In the absence of other available supplies, it might be necessary to treat and re-use the same water many times."

Industry does not have the psychological barrier, however, and Clark says it "will readily take" the reclaimed water.

As for domestic use, he says one thing that would help knock down the psychological barrier would be a time lag.

"Then a person wouldn't have the feeling of drinking the same water for dinner that he had for breakfast.

"One method for providing a time lag would be lagooning for a month or so. The lagoon could be a natural lake or reservoir or series of park ponds. These bodies of water should have a maximum of beauty and recreational use. Public contact with this water would go a long way to prove that it is just like any other water and may be a lot cleaner than some."

A long as it is properly treated between each use, Clark maintains the same water can be used over and over again.

Although admitting that the psychological barrier to using "washed" sewage water for drinking purposes is so high the system is not likely to be adopted in the near future, Clark nevertheless points out the barrier is illogical.

Another Fight On Postal Funds Again Shapes Up

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Another big fight over Post Office Department funds was brewing on Capitol Hill today, with renewed cuts in postal services a possibility starting July 1.

Postmaster General Summerfield told Congress yesterday such cuts probably will have to be made unless the lawmakers give him 70 to 90 million dollars more in fiscal 1958 than was asked in President Eisenhower's budget.

This statement was made to a Senate Appropriations subcommittee just before it voted to restore 32 million dollars of the 58 millions sliced by the House from the 3 1/4 billion dollars requested for the postal agency in 1958.

On the House side, meanwhile, the Post Office Committee considered rate increases for newspapers and magazines as part of a bill to reduce the postal deficit.

But a boost in rates would not affect the request for bigger appropriations. Congress fixes the ceiling on Post Office expenditures, and the department cannot spend directly the money it takes in.

Summerfield said that he would need full restoration of the 58 million in addition to the 70 to 90 million in extra funds. He said a "phenomenal increase" in mail volume in recent weeks makes the additional request necessary, and added that apparently the flood of mail would continue.

The action of the subcommittee was expected to be upheld by the full Senate Appropriations Committee today.

The subcommittee voted a total of $3,917,000,000 in the bill—$3-

Right Source Of Noise Complaint

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A noise prowl car drove up at 11 p.m. to a fashionable residence where a teenage party was in progress. "We've had a complaint about the kids making too much noise," an officer told the man of the house.

"I know," he said. "I'm the one who complained."

Natural gas is now the sixth largest industry in the U.S.

Water Problems Will Be Aired

Four broad categories of water problems will be given special attention when the Pitt County Water Problems Committee holds its county-wide inventory meeting at the County Court house in Greenville tonight at 8 p.m.

Sam C. Winchester, chairman of the committee, said today that every type of water problem existing in the county should fall into one of the categories.

The four classes, Winchester said, include (1) water shortages, (2) water excesses resulting from stream overflow, high water tables, improper drainage and other similar conditions, (3) inadequate water supplies resulting from increased use by industry, municipalities, agriculture and other water users, and (4) conflicts between water users resulting from too much or too little water.

The chairman further explained that for purposes of the inventory the problems will be broken down into even more specific categories, based on the physical location of the water. This will help water users in reporting problems and will also facilitate appraisal of the problems by the State Board of Water Commissioners.

These classifications will include diffused surface water (water that is flowing over the land and has not yet reached a natural reservoir or watercourse), streams, lakes and natural watercourses (water that has reached its natural reservoir or watercourse), and ground water (water that is under the surface of the earth in the water table, or subterranean streams).

"Of course," Winchester said, "there may be a few unusual problems that aren't covered, but we will have a miscellaneous category to take care of them. The important thing is that every person in the county realizes that if a problem exists, we want to know about it. And they only way we will know about it is for them to come to the meeting and report it."

Customers in a hamburger stand in Baltimore have their orders served on a model train which runs on a track that circles just inside the dining counter. The train, controlled by an order clerk, stops before each diner with the raw, medium or well done hamburger, as ordered.

Gas Stored Underground In Caverns Dug In Salt Domes

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP)—Some of nature's little-known but marvelous creations helped keep people warm this winter.

The wonders are the great salt domes that bulge up like mushrooms to within a few hundred feet of the surface.

The solid domes, found over the years by oil drillers, were of only geological interest until recently. Then someone hit on the idea of digging into the salt to create a cheaply built reservoir.

The best way to do this was to allow water to dig. So shafts were sunk into the domes, water introduced to dissolve the salt, the water then pumped out.

This plan created great underground caverns with solid salt walls that will hold a variety of liquids.

Fifteen miles west of here, Freestone Underground Storage Corp. had six million gallons of liquefied petroleum tucked away in man-made cavities in the top of Butler salt dome when the winter fuel rush began.

Liquefied petroleum is also known as bottled gas. It is used for home heating systems in areas unserved by gas utilities.

The Butler dome is one of the largest and most accessible in the East Texas area, pushing up to within 350 feet of the surface. It's flat top covers an estimated 1,200 acres.

Freestone Underground Storage Corp. has drilled three wells into the Butler dome, the last completed last year.

The third well was washed with fresh water for two months and has a storage capacity of 200,000 gallons. After the winter rush for fuel, the cavity will be washed again and made larger.

Salt is not dissolved by liquefied petroleum and gas liquids do not seep into the salt beyond recovery range.

"The only losses we have had," Newman said, "are losses that go with any ordinary handling operation. We can get back almost every drop we put into the holes."

The underground storage facility was developed for less than one fifth the amount that a ground-level steel storage tank would have cost, Newman said.

New Turbulence For Colombians After 'Election'

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—More turbulence appeared in prospect today for Colombia after the reelection of President Gustavo Rojas Pinilla by the government-picked Constituent Assembly.

Ignoring widespread demands for a popular election, the assembly voted 76-1 last night to give Rojas another four-year term beginning in August 1958.

Violent protest demonstrations led by students and business strikes have kept the country in an uproar since Friday. Troops and armored cars guarded the capitol as the assembly met.

The assembly, which Rojas named to rewrite the constitution, voted two days earlier to suspend constitutional articles requiring popular election of the chief executive and forbidding a president to succeed himself. Rojas took power in a military coup in 1953.

Before and after the assembly meeting, police broke up several scattered demonstrations with tear gas. Reports reached Bogota that from 15 to 50 persons were killed and more than 100 injured Tuesday in anti-Rojas riots in Cali, 185 miles southwest of here. Unconfirmed reports said police used bayonets and gunfire against the crowd.

Five persons were officially reported killed in Bogota and Cali over the weekend.

About 1,000 poorly dressed Bogota demonstrators took to the streets before the assembly meeting and demanded the reopening of all banks and industries.

The government radio claimed "some agitators are coercing stores to oblige them to close" but declared police "will guarantee property with force."

Another broadcast said banks that participated in the business strike would be punished by having the interest rates on their deposits reduced.

The time is now 4:36 a.m. (29) Colombia gal 2 1941qy a9 There was a meeting of the bankers, businessmen and manufacturers who have led the strike intended to back down. There were food shortages in Bogota as shops remained closed through a second day.

Only banks operated by the government were open. A list of closed commercial establishments made public by the government showed at least 30,000 employees were affected in this city of 325,000 population.

Bogota and Cali were under military rule. Loud-speaker trucks toured the streets calling on merchants to open their stores.

Rojas blames the unrest on a conflict between labor and employers. He said he would stand by labor. Leaders of a dozen important unions in Bogota have announced their support for him.

University students have been at the front of the street demonstrations against the government. Hundreds are under arrest.

The army commandant yesterday ordered hundreds of students who belong to the reserve into active military service. He warned that those who failed to answer the call would be subject to up to two years imprisonment — and double that if there are disorders.

Rojas apparently still had the support of the army and a faction of the Conservative party. Both the Conservatives and Liberals—Colombia's two traditional parties—backed Rojas' seizure of the government in 1953 from the constitutional regime of President Laureano Gomez, but resisted his plans to continue in office.

Many Chuck Roasts For Sunday Dinners

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Chuck roast will be served on many an American dinner table this Sunday, judging from the upcoming "specials" at the nation's supermarkets and neighborhood grocery stores.

After some weeks of attractive prices, the more expensive cuts of beef such as steaks and rib roasts have gotten too expensive to go on the bargain lists. So the stores turn to chuck roast and such items as ground beef and short ribs.

Other stores are turning to chicken and turkey, both of which are in abundant supply. Leg of lamb also will be a featured item in many stores.

Pork prices, already up over last year, are expected to go even higher, due to skimpier supplies of pig meat. Farmers were so discouraged by low pork prices late in 1955 they sharply curtailed production and the output is still low.

The trend should be reversed late this year, however, since steadily rising prices encouraged farmers to send more pigs to market.

Over the long run, meat men are trying to build up demand for pork by getting farmers to breed pigs with more red meat and less unwanted fat. They're trying to turn around figures which show Americans ate only 66.3 pounds of pork per capita in 1956 compared with 78.5 pounds per capita in 1944.

Spinach from nearby fields, turnips and carrots from storage crops and Maine potatoes from last fall's bumper crop are vegetables in the outstanding buy category, produce men say.

Onions, beets, asparagus and green beans—all from new crops—are rated as good buys, although the beans are said to have a wide range of quality and condition. New red and white varieties of potatoes from Florida, and Idaho's popular russet bakers, also are good buys.

Other items to look for are new green and yellow squash, sweet corn, iceberg lettuce and new green cabbage. Eggplant, broccoli and cucumbers are higher this week, along with chicory, escarole and other "greens." Rhubarb, enjoying its fairly brief moment of glory, is an outstanding buy at most fruit counters. Home economists point out the long red stalks can be used alone or combined with other fruits to add a fresh, tart flavor and eye appeal to any meal. They suggest rhubarb sauce, shortcake, pie, sherbert, punch and rhubarb crisp to vary the menu from the familiar stewed rhubarb.

Valencia oranges, grapefruit and lemons from Florida, navel oranges and lemons from California, Cuban pineapples and Puerto Rican coconuts also are rated as good fruit buys. Apples, pears, strawberries and the first California cherries of the season are in the moderate price range.

Find 2 Guilty Of False Social Security Claims

Magistrate Luther D. Moore at a trial in Greenville last Saturday found two defendants guilty of violating the North Carolina Employment Security Laws. Claims Deputy C. A. Dees of New Bern prosecuted the cases.

Arnold Taft, Jr., Negro, 601 Pitt street, Greenville, was found guilty of failure to report work done and wages earned while filing his claim for unemployment insurance in March, 1957. Magistrate Moore taxed him with $9.50 court costs and continued prayer for judgment.

Testimony was that Taft worked 34 hours from March 27 through April 10 and received credit of $32 on his store account, but reported only $5.75 when filing claims covering these dates. As soon as the judgment becomes final, Taft will be required to refund $16 to the Employment Security Commission and he will not be allowed to file further claims until April 4, 1958.

Mary N. Wade, 44, Negro, 618 S. Clark street, failure to report work and earnings in full while filing for unemployment insurance. Magistrate Moore taxed her with $9.50 court costs and continued prayer for judgment.

Testimony was that the defendant worked a short time on or about March 19, 1957 and on March 22 accepted a household article in return, but failed to report on her claim that she had done the work mentioned above or that she had received any article of a money value. When the judgment becomes final the defendant will be required to refund $10 to the commission and she will be barred from filing further unemployment insurance claims before March 19, 1958.

The bill would amend the administration's refugee program by admitting on parole 5,000 "escapees" who have fled from areas other than Communist or Communist-dominated countries. The 5,000 figure would be deducted from the 68,000 total proposed by the administration for admission from Communist areas.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Clifford Case (R-NJ) said today the State Department has approved his bill proposing to admit to the United States on a parole basis "a reasonable number" of Jewish refugees from Egypt.

"I applaud the department's strong endorsement of the purposes of this bill," Case said in a statement announcing introduction of the measure.

The bill would amend the administration's refugee program by admitting on parole 5,000 "escapees" who have fled from areas other than Communist or Communist-dominated countries. Choral club, "Come Thou Almighty King," congregation, benediction by Rev. W. H. Moore and Recessional, "March from Athalia."

Class and Awards Night, May 15, at 8 p.m.

Graduation exercises, May 17, at 8 p.m.

The public is invited to attend all commencement exercises.

Tornado-Proofed At Little Cost

ANN ARBOR, MICH. (AP)—A University of Michigan researcher says tornado-proof houses can be built for between $30 and $350 above initial construction costs.

George W. Reynolds of the University's engineering research institute has been studying tornado scenes since 1949. "Houses can be built to survive most, if not all, such storms," he said. "I have yet to see a single case in which a house bolted to its foundation was destroyed. This is not conclusive proof, of course, but it is suggestive."

Reynolds said adequate internal bracing and proper air vents also would cut down damage.

PRICE SURPRISE

- and hit of the year to Drive!

WE SURE STARTED something when we began showing this price level in our ads.

That opened the eyes of thousands of people to the fact that you can buy a big and beautiful new Buick for hardly more than the price of a smaller car.

But the biggest surprise was yet to come: The discovery of a new kind of driving.

For in this completely changed Buick you have performance, ride, braking and handling like never before.

You boss a new and mighty V8 engine that sends a thrill of pure pleasure right up your spine. It has the "power-pack" built right in—and you don't pay a cent extra for it.

You command instant response from a spectacular new Dynaflo* of such absolute smoothness and split-second obedience that you must try it to believe its wonders.

You have a new surety of control from the powerful new brakes, the precision-balanced new steering, the all-new, full-length torque-tube drive, the new "nested" ride and superb new roadability and the new low center of gravity.

The total experience is something you've never felt before in any other car—even former Buicks.

So go try it. Try the dream car to drive—that's priced to be a dream of a buy. See your Buick dealer today.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Gains by steels, rails and some oils pushed the stock market past its 1957 closing high in brisk trading early this afternoon.

Key issues were up from fractions to a point generally with some gains stretching to around 3.

It was the second time in a week that the market had penetrated the 1957 high in mid-session. When it did so last Thursday it failed to hold its gains at the close.

The pace of trading today was livelier than yesterday when the market's closing average equaled the '57 high.

Some of today's earlier gains, however, were moderated and market analysts said that the area of supply represented by the year's highs still remains a formidable obstacle.

U.S. Steel and Bethlehem advanced fractionally while Youngstown Sheet was up around a point. Lukens clipped a fraction from an early gain of around a point and Eastern Stainless Steel, which advanced 4 yesterday, cut in half its initial gain of a point.

Chrysler, experiencing new labor difficulties, was ahead at the start then fell about a point. General Motors was steady.

Illinois Central retained a rise of around a point. Baltimore & Ohio rose a fraction. Pennsylvania Railroad and Southern Pacific were steady.

General Tire recouped more than a point of its setback yesterday. General Precision rose well over a point in a sudden burst of active trading. Raytheon, which eased on a big opening block, showed a net fractional gain later.

Aircrafts were higher, with gains of a point or better by Martin and Douglas. United Aircraft and Boeing were up fractions.

Goodrich and Caterpillar each advanced more than a point. Gulf Oil added around 3. Texas Co. and Royal Dutch rose fractions but Standard Oil (New Jersey) eased.

American Telephone dropped a fraction. Coppers and chemicals were narrowly mixed. Motion picture shares were firm.

RALEIGH — (NCDA)—Hog

prices mostly steady to 50 higher. ## Fellowship Club Has Annual Meet

AYDEN — Some 200 persons gathered at Camp Contentment near here yesterday for the annual meeting of the John Pearce Fellowship Club.

Congressman Herbert Bonner, president of the club, presided over yesterday's meeting.

He recognized county and municipal officials present for the annual dinner meeting of the fellowship club.

The group yesterday elected Paul Davenport of Pactolus as its president for the coming year. Henry Oglesby was named vice president. A. F. Rowe was elected secretary-treasurer with R. H. Worthington assistant secretary-treasurer.

The fellowship club was organized about 35 years ago and each year political figures are numerous at the outing.

The group began gathering yesterday morning and meeting continued throughout the day.

Dean Hudson To Play For Moose Lodge Dance

Dean Hudson, "The Moon Over Miami Man," and his orchestra will spotlight the annual private Greenville Moose Lodge dance here tomorrow night.

Ell Bloom, chairman of the Moose Entertainment Committee, announced this morning that all the tickets for the dance have been sold. This private dance for members of the Moose is staged once annually. Approximately 250 people are expected to attend.

It was also announced by the Entertainment chairman that all green receipts will be checked at the door. The dance will last from 9 p.m. until midnight.

Bloom stated, "We feel that Dean Hudson and his orchestra will provide the best in entertainment and are extremely pleased to have this talented group for our annual dance."

Surprise Presentation During Awards Day

BAND AWARD—George Cannon (left) received the John Philip Sousa Award yesterday in the annual Awards and Recognition Day at Farmville High School. Band Director William Glasgow presented the award to George whose name will be engraved on the plaque held by Glasgow. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Social Studies teacher Sam Stell leaves the stage after receiving a surprise gift from the Key and Keyette clubs at Farmville High School. Stell was presented with a watch in appreciation of his services to the two clubs. (Reflector Staff Photo).

FARMVILLE — A surprise presentation to faculty member Sam Stell high-lighted Farmville High School's annual Awards and Recognition Day here yesterday.

Stell, a member of the high school's Social Studies Department, received a watch from members of the Key and Keyette Clubs in appreciation for his work with the two student groups. Stell has resigned his position on the faculty and will enter Duke University this summer to begin work on a Ph. D.

The awards program is a supplement to the school annual commencement awards program. Principal Sam D. Bundy, master of ceremonies for yesterday's events, pointed out that the special program permits public recognition of achievements in various high school activities.

Bundy and directors of various student activities made the presentations.

Girls basketball awards, made by Coach Sam Stell, included trophies to seniors Mae Eason, Jewel Gardner and Geraldine Little. Pins, presented in lieu of second or third monograms, were given to Gladys Beamon, Faye Heath, Betsy Carol Ann Hodges, Billy Eason, Wade Mills, Horace Corbett, Cecil Tyson and Elbert Mayo.

Library assistants who received recognition included Dean Allen, Mavis Hardee, Beth Baker, Marion Pickett, Wanda Bell, Patricia Cobb and Betty Sue Dail.

Beth Baker was given special recognition for her selection as Miss Future Teacher in Farmville and Patsy Phillips was commended for her work as a class treasurer. May Eason and Gail Bailey were also commended for their work in soliciting advertisements for the high school annual.

Dean Allen's selection as winner of the DAR Good Citizen Award was also recognized. Tribute was paid to Marian Pickett, Editor-in-chief of the annual; Dean Allen, assistant editor; and staff members May Eason, Carolyn Harris, Hilda Owens, Elizabeth Smith, Jean Owens, Zarelda Walston, Patsy Phillips, Gail Bailey, Sylvia Shackelford and Geraldine Little.

Commendations for work on the high school newspaper, "News 'n' Views", were given to Hilda Owens, news reporter, and Geraldine Little, chief typist.

Home Economics awards went to Betty Sue Baker, county FHA vice-president for 1957-1958, and to Yvonne Harris and Gladys Beamon who qualified for Junior Home-maker Awards.
