Flash Flood Descends On Texas Town As Straining Levee Breaks

LAMPASAS, Tex. (AP)—A flash flood smashed through this central Texas town last night, leaving 25 persons unaccounted for today by Red Cross figures. It virtually destroyed the business district and damaged 150 homes. Two persons were known to have drowned. The Red Cross hoped most of the 25 missing on its list would turn up later. The area was being searched for possible bodies. New downpours struck Lampasas and nearby areas this morning and rain still fell at a late hour. Most of the flash flood had receded, but the fresh rains brought fears of new flooding. Lampasas is about 130 miles south and slightly west of Fort Worth. It is a rich agricultural area and has 4,689 population. The flood hit when a levee broke under an estimated 7 inches of rain. Water from Sulphur Creek poured 6-foot high into the business section. Burleson Creek water joined the flood. High water also ripped at other parts of the state in a new onslaught of heavy rains. The first flood-producing rains of the spring occurred April 18, and there has been little relief since. About 30 persons have drowned in floods, 9,000 or more have evacuated their homes at one time or another, and federal agencies estimated 85 million dollars in damage was caused—and this figure is expected to go much higher. A near cloudburst closed scores of streets in Dallas last night and drove 100 families from their homes. The Waco Weather Bureau issued flash flood warnings today on the Brazos and Bosque Rivers in central Texas. Holliday Creek at Wichita Falls, in north central Texas, was being watched closely—it drove about 50 families from their homes last week. Tornadoes struck with varying amounts of damage this morning and last night in scattered parts of Texas, including Garland, near Fort Worth; Weatherford, west of Fort Worth; Crawford in north central Texas; and near Dallas and between Greenville and Commerce in east Texas, and near Big Spring in West Texas. The new round of flash floods began Saturday. Three persons drowned Saturday when their automobiles were washed off highways. Virtually no one in Lampasas has flood insurance. The area has been a drought disaster area for some time, receiving government aid. The town at one time was down to 14 loaves of bread, and the water supply was contaminated. But relief food was brought in from Killeen and Austin, and tanks brought in 30,000 gallons of safe water from Austin. The Red Cross ordered 3,000 typhoid shots delivered. No official estimate of damage was available, but it obviously would run into millions. Between 50 and 100 homes were knocked off their foundations. Some floated several blocks to new locations with virtually little damage. One hundred city blocks were flooded. Some 45 business establishments were almost 100 per cent destroyed in the hard-hit downtown section. Furniture and merchandise floated along with a tremendous pile of debris in the receding waters. As the water inched lower a scum of mud two inches thick was left to mark the flooded areas. Mrs. Lucile Allard of the Red Cross said the hardest-hit residential section was on the south side of town where many Negroes live. Army cots were set up in the First Baptist church where the Red Cross established disaster headquarters. Elderly persons and children were put to bed and a kitchen was set up to feed the homeless. Power was knocked out, telephone lines were out except for three emergency lines set up early today. Hundreds of cars were marooned on high ground for several hours waiting for U. S. Highway 281 to be opened. Military Police from Ft. Hood, Tex., were called in for emergency duty today. Ward Lowe, publisher of the Lampasas Dispatch, said one woman was missing after she was washed off a truck to which she had been clinging when the swiftly flowing waters swirled into the downtown areas. The known victim was identified as Warren Doolittle, 70, a Negro. A fire that broke out at a rambling four-story produce plant took firemen away from flood duties for several hours while they fought the blaze. They had to wade through waist deep water to get to it. Some 30 to 35 persons were trapped for a time in the downtown area. Lowe said some persons had to chop through roofs to escape. Hundreds of persons took refuge on high ground and in the main residential section on a hill. Flash floods at Dallas closed 100 streets last night and forced the evacuation of an estimated 100 families after a 5-inch cloudburst. The runoff sent the Trinity River on a new rise that was expected to hit 35 or 36 feet today, four or five feet higher than the present level. The Red Cross reopened its disaster relief shelter in Dallas that was set up during the earlier floods.

Earth Tremor Is Felt In Western North Carolina

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Earth tremors shook western North Carolina this morning but there were no reports of damage. The shocks came between 9:25 and 9:30 a.m. and were of less than five-seconds duration, according to all reports. Most persons reported feeling the shocks said they were accompanied by a rumbling sound that passed over quickly "like a wave." The U.S. Weather Bureau and the Asheville Times office received reports of the shock from Madison, Burke, McDowell, Buncombe and Henderson counties. John Felt at Marshall said he was working at a desk in the Crown Oil Co. plant on the outskirts of town when the room began shaking so violently that it threw his arm off the desk. He said an adding machine and typewriter rattled. M. T. Wright at Linville Falls reported he felt the shock at 9:25 and that other residents in that area also reported it. Mrs. Leonard Riddle of Hamburg Mountain road section near Weaverville said it felt like "my house was going to pop and crack to pieces." State Highway Patrolman R. E. Pipes at Newland said slight tremors were felt there. Dr. Gerald R. MacCarthy, professor of geology and geophysics at University of North Carolina, said the university seismograph had recorded an earthquake at 9:25 a.m. The quake, which flooded western North Carolina police and newspaper offices with telephone calls, was 160 to 175 miles from Chapel Hill, Dr. MacCarthy said. "I guess it was three to four in intensity—that's enough to scare people but not enough to do any damage," he said. Housewives in half a dozen counties reported that windows shook, chinaware danced on shelves and, in some instances, there was a rumbling sound.

Ike And Monty Critical Of Generals Lee And Meade

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—"Ike and 'Monty' say they'd have done a lot of things differently than Lee and Meade if they'd been in command at the Battle of Gettysburg. After prowling around the famed Civil War battlefield, President Eisenhower and British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery agreed both Confederate and Union commanders blundered in the 1863 engagement, and should have been fired. The two World War II commanders, who led Allied forces to victory over the Nazis, second-guessed Southern Gen. Robert E. Lee and Northern Gen. George G. Meade during Montgomery's weekend stay at the Eisenhower farm, on the edge of the battlefield. The old friends reached another parting today. Eisenhower planned to stay on at his farm through dinnertime. Montgomery, now deputy commander of NATO forces in Europe, was due back in Washington for conferences at the Pentagon. In sum, Eisenhower and Montgomery agreed both sides could have used their cavalry more effectively. That Southern forces should have tried an end run around the North's left flank, and that the charge of Gen. George Pickett's brigade into the muzzles of Yankee cannon was a grave mistake. Montgomery called that charge "monstrous." But Eisenhower wasn't joining Montgomery in pronouncing Lee a worse commander at Gettysburg than Meade. Montgomery can talk about it, Eisenhower said, but "look, I live here. I represent both the North and the South." From the South came at least one indignant protest and a defense, not only of Lee, but of Meade as well. Mrs. John L. Harper of Atlanta said the Eisenhower-Montgomery agreement that the two generals should have been "sacked" was "a very uncouth statement," Mrs. Harper is president of a women's group which has been decorating the graves of Confederate dead for more than 90 years. In Hickory, N. C., Bell I. Wiley, an Emory University historian and author, said: "If you fired them who would you replace them with? Lee was Lee, and Meade, at the time, seemed to be the best man for the job. . . ."

Over 6-Inch Rain For Raleigh Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Raleigh area continued to dry out today from a record-breaking rainfall of more than six inches during a 12-hour period Saturday. Rainfall was general throughout North Carolina Saturday and Sunday night, but amounts were considerably lighter in other areas. The heavy rains in the Raleigh area sent streams out of their banks and caused a number of residents in low-lying areas to evacuate their homes. No injuries were reported. Throughout eastern North Carolina and in many other areas the rains were expected to give a big boost to tobacco and other crops. In the Raleigh area, agriculture experts feared some damages from soil washing. Some flooding of lowlands was expected along the Neuse River as a result of the rain. Weather Bureau officials said the Neuse probably would rise two feet above flood stage. At Raleigh, Henry M. Callis, a resident of Forest Acres, a housing development on the northeast side, said at least 15 families, including his own, evacuated their homes as the waters rose. The Raleigh Emergency Rescue Squad was summoned to evacuate five women by boat from their homes in the area. Waters rose around the farmer's market and overflowed truck cabs and autos. The heavy rain was centered in the Raleigh area, the weather bureau said, with nearby Cary receiving 5 1/2 inches. Neuse received 4 1/2 inches. At Chapel Hill, 30 miles away, only 1 1/4 inches fell. Other rainfall amounts reported by the Weather Bureau included: 1.12 at Charlotte, 2.44 at McCullers, 4.1-3 at the Raleigh-Durham Airport, 2.84 at Carthage, .63 at Fayetteville, .88 at Kinston, .58 at Rocky Mount, .36 at Wilmington, .35 at Winston-Salem, .22 at Greensboro, and .91 at Hatteras.

Industrial Council Put Forth

WILSON—Farmville's Tom Willis would have eastern North Carolina towns and counties forget their sectional differences and set up an Eastern North Carolina Industrial Promotion Council. Willis, director of the Farmville Economic Council, made the proposal at the Eastern North Carolina Press Association spring meeting in Wilson Saturday. Willis also proposed that the present session of the State Legislature set up a study commission to investigate North Carolina's competition with other states for industry. After the study is made the committee should report back to the 1959 General Assembly with recommendations for some type of industry building finance plan for N.C. communities. Willis was speaking to the eastern North Carolina newspapermen at the final luncheon meeting Saturday at noon. Under Willis' plan the area Industrial Promotion Council would have an office located in eastern North Carolina and another in New York City. "The office down here to help each community prepare itself for the coming of industry," such as the preparation of brochures, etc., he declared. "The New York office to promote eastern North Carolina and to 'hunt out' industrial prospects and let them know just what we have to offer." Willis also pointed to other things needed to attract industry. "If we here in eastern North Carolina are to catch up with the other sections of the state then we must realize that we must have adequate industrial training schools, adequate airports, less insects, lower land cost, better community attitude towards industry, cleaner towns, better transportation and many other things," he told the newsmen. "I know of no organization which can do more towards this than this organization here. So I ask you sincerely to return home and let's really start an industrial program in Eastern North Carolina by supporting the governor's tax program and working in a business like manner towards acquiring industry." Willis was introduced by Jack Whichard, business manager of the Daily Reflector. The newsmen had attended sessions Friday night. Saturday morning they heard panel discussions at Atlantic Christian College. The panels were entitled "Accuracy in Reporting" and "Doctors and the Press." Ashley Futrell, publisher of the Washington Daily News, is president of the Eastern N.C. Press Association and David J. Whichard, Jr. of the Reflector is second vice-president.

Army Accepting Missiles Verdict

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's top-ranked soldier says he has bowed to an order giving the Air Force control over long-range missiles. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, the Army chief of staff, made it clear yesterday he is taking no part in an Army-Air Force squabble growing out of the order by Secretary of Defense Wilson last November. Taylor, questioned during a televised interview, said "Army spokesmen, including myself, defended before the secretary of defense last November the need for a 1,500-mile missile for the Army." "We had our day in court, we argued our case and we lost it," he said. "So far as I am concerned, that settles the issue upon that point." The Army chief said he did not try to outline his point of view to President Eisenhower. Taylor said Wilson was "a competent superior and I accepted his decision." In his November order, Wilson specified that the Army should have responsibility for missiles with ranges of 200 miles or less. At the same time, he assigned the Air Force authority over longer-range weapons. These would include the intermediate range ballistic missile (IRBM), planned to travel 1,500 miles, and the intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM), which would have a 5,000-mile range. Both the IRBM and the ICBM still are in the development stage, with the Army and Air Force competing to come up first with an operational weapon. Wilson's order permits the Army to continue its development work on the project. Sen. Symington (D - Mo) said yesterday it will be a "good many years" before the United States has an arsenal of intercontinental missiles. Symington, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and a former Air Force secretary, said Russia is "well ahead" in the race to develop an operational IRBM. He said the two nations probably are "about even" in the ICBM contest. Symington expressed his views on a separate TV program. The strength of the Army and nature of any future war were discussed in several quarters yesterday. Taylor said the new Army is "partially atomic," but that it ought to keep conventional armaments to avoid becoming "muscle bound" with atomic power. He said in response to a question that in the event of another situation like the Korean War, he would "insist" on the use of nuclear weapons. Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of NATO forces in Europe, said NATO defenses in that area are "built around" atomic weapons. He said they should be used "as necessary." Norstad said this on a televised interview filmed at his headquarters near Paris. Alfred M. Gruenther, Norstad's predecessor at NATO, said in still another TV interview that it would be the "ranked kind of wishful thinking" to believe any future war could be limited in scope.

Smith Is Elected Jaycee Director

J. B. Smith of Greenville will represent North Carolina Jaycees as a National Director of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce during the coming year. Smith, who has served as a vice president of the North Carolina Jaycee during the past year, was elected to his new post at the North Carolina Junior Chamber of Commerce annual convention in Asheville this week-end. He will serve as one of five directors from North Carolina to the USJCC. Jack Sharpe of Kannapolis was elected president of the North Carolina Junior Chamber of Commerce during the three-day convention. In addition to Smith, the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce was represented at the meeting by J. B. Kittrell, Jr., Dave Whichard, John Ray Hardy, Dan Saleed, Lester Turnage, Bill Hudson and Bob Kirkland. Representing the Ayden Junior Chamber of Commerce at the state convention were Marvin Baldree, Bill McLawhorn and Dr. Lawrence Alexander.

Chessman's Final Plea Before Tribunal Today

By PAUL M. YOST WASHINGTON (AP)—Caryl Chessman's nine-year fight to escape the San Quentin gas chamber goes before the Supreme Court for probably its last time today. Chessman, whose books on life in a prison death cell helped to finance his many appeals, has said he will give up the battle if he loses this time. The Supreme Court agreed to hear two hours of argument on whether there was fraud in the preparation of the official record of Chessman's 1948 trial. He was convicted and sentenced then on charges of kidnapping and attempted rape in a lovers' lane in Los Angeles. George T. Davis, San Francisco attorney for Chessman, contends the transcript is "prejudicially incomplete and inadequate." The trial court reporter died before he had transcribed all his notes. The job was finished by Stanley Frasier, a relative by marriage of the deputy district attorney who prosecuted Chessman. "Missing from the record, or garbled in the transcript of it," says Davis, "were sections in which it should have affirmatively appeared that Chessman was convicted in violation of fundamental constitutional rights." William M. Bennett, deputy attorney general of California, said in a reply brief that Chessman was entitled to no assistance from the Supreme Court. This litigant has been furnished hearings and reviews thus far without end," Bennett's brief said. "The hand of justice has been stayed time and again, if only to review questions already adjudicated or theories newly contrived."

Albemarle Opens Big Celebration

ALBEMARLE, N. C. (AP)—This city's week-long centennial celebration swings into high gear here today with a speech by Gov. Luther Hodges. A beauty queen, Miss Stanly, will be crowned tonight before the be-whiskered, be-bustled residents gather for the first performance of the pageant "Milestones." Albemarle, in Stanly County, is celebrating the 100th anniversary of its chartering by the North Carolina Legislature. The celebration ends Saturday. Sen. W. Kerr Scott will speak Wednesday. EMPEROR'S SON KILLED ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—The Duke of Harrar, second son of Emperor Haile Selassie, was reported killed yesterday in a car crash on a mountain road south of Addis Ababa.

Saw 1.1 Inches Of Welcome Rain

Rainfall in the Greenville area Saturday and Sunday totaled 1.10 inches. The precipitation was welcomed by farmers, some of whom had to rest tobacco plants because of the dry weather. Lowest temperature here last night was 63 and at 8 a.m. today it was 68 and rising. Tar River is at the three-foot level, normal, an observer at the Greenville Utilities Plant, stated.

Weekend Saw Rash Of Traffic Accidents

Heavy rain took its toll in traffic accidents Saturday on county highways and the streets of Greenville. A flower truck laden with flowers went out of control Saturday afternoon on Fifth Street Extension during a heavy downpour causing serious injury to its driver. Hubert Arthur, 25-year-old Negro of 404 W. 12th St., sustained a serious arm injury requiring 40 stitches as well as lacerations of the chest, forehead, right leg and back. He was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital shortly after the one-vehicle accident for treatment. This morning his condition was described as "satisfactory." According to investigating officers from the Greenville Police Department the truck turned over several times and struck a light pole, breaking it in half. The vehicle, belonging to Wilkerson Funeral Home, was estimated to be a "total loss." Officers quoted the driver as saying he was enroute to Greenville Cemetery trying to get there before a funeral procession. The investigation is incomplete. A Greenville woman was charged with failure to yield the right of way as the result of a two-car collision Saturday afternoon. Involved in the accident were Lucille Addie Rice of Box 27 East Carolina College and Norman William Anderson, a student at the college. The Rice woman was charged by investigating officers. The collision took place at the intersection of 11th and Charles Sts. at approximately 6:25 p.m. Damages were estimated at $500 to the right side of the 1956 automobile being driven by the woman. Officers estimated damages to the left front of the ECC student's car at $30. There were no personal injuries. Personal injury was reported in a wreck that took place at the intersection of N. Green St. and Mumford Rd. Saturday night at 9:50 p.m. Mrs. Chester Lee Fussell of Greenville Rt. 4 received a sprained ankle and a bruised leg. She was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital and later released. The drivers of the two were: C. L. Fussell of Greenville Rt. 4 and George Roebuck of 1213 S. Pitt St. Roebuck was charged with failure to yield the right of way. Damages to both vehicles were estimated at $550. No personal injuries were reported in a single automobile accident approximately four miles east of Greenville Saturday afternoon on U. S. Highway 264. The automobile involved was being operated by Dale Dennis Brooks of 315 E. 11th St. Damage to the 1954 vehicle was estimated at between $300 and $400 by investigating officer Pfc Bill Whitehurst of the State Highway Patrol. At the time of the wreck, 2:30 p.m., the officer stated that the highways were excessively slippery due to heavy rainfall. No charges were made. In addition, Saturday afternoon there were three other one-car accidents on Pitt highways. None of the wrecks involved personal injury or heavy property damage, a member of the Highway Patrol reported this morning.

Left The Driver In Stitches

NEAR DEATH TRAP—This 1956 panel truck loaded with flowers was nearly a death trap for its driver when it went out of control on a wet road Saturday afternoon. The driver, Hubert Arthur, suffered serious cuts about his body. Officers quoted Arthur as saying he was trying to get to a local cemetery before the funeral possession. (Reflector Staff Photo).

TIMELY REQUEST PHILADELPHIA

Disc jockey Ed Harvey, who has an early morning show, reports a doctor telephoned to ask for a three-minute record. The doctor said he didn't care what the tune was—just wanted to boil an egg.

Virginia Perkins, The Rev. Sharp Marry

The Eighth Street Christian Church was the setting of a formal candlelight ceremony on Saturday, May 11, at 8:30 in the evening when Miss Virginia King Perkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reid Perkins of Greenville, became the bride of the Rev. Charles Edward Sharp, of Beaufort, son of Mrs. Starkey Sharp Sr. and the late Mr. Sharp, of Harrellsville, N. C.

Dr. H. Glenn Haney, pastor of the bride, officiated, assisted by The Right Reverend Thomas H. Wright, Bishop of the Diocese of Eastern North Carolina, for the couple ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with beaded candelabra of cathedral tapers and festoons of smilax, forming the background for the wedding party. Preceding the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was rendered by Phillip Edwards of Rocky Mount. Mrs. Sydney Worth Dunn Jr. of Greenville sang "O Perfect Love," Bloomfield, and "O Lord Most Holy," Franz. Mrs. Ward Peacock of Chapel Hill sang "O Father, All Creating," Bach, and "The Greatest of These Is Love," Bitgood.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of candlelight satin, featuring a bertha of hand-made Rosepoint lace with drop shoulder neckline. The gown was fashioned along princess lines. The full skirt extended into a cathedral train. The bride wore the long Rosepoint hand-made Venetian lace veil which was worn by her mother 25 years ago. She carried a cascade bouquet of bride's roses, lilies-of-the-valley and white orchids. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, H. Guy of Thomasville, Ga. Mrs. Robert T. Sears of Norfolk, Va., cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Miss Eutha Sharp of Chapel Hill, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Paul Nissen Montague Jr. of Winston-Salem, Mrs. David Sabiston of Baltimore, Md., Mrs. Rowland Andrews Radford of Atlanta, Ga., Mrs. Robert H. Guy of Thomasville, Ga., Mrs. James Lucas Barnes Jr. of Wilson, and Miss Mary Ann Waldrop and Miss Margaret Fleming of Greenville.

All the attendants' gowns were in Dior's new creation of flesh chiffon with waltz length skirts. They carried arm bouquets of long stemmed American Beauty roses tied with matching satin ribbons. Little Miss Margaret Scales of Greenville, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a gown of flesh colored organdy with lace bertha and flesh velvet sash, and carried a basket of American Beauty rose buds and lilies-of-the-valley.

Charles Merrican King Jr., son of Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. King of Norfolk, Va., was ring bearer. He wore dark suit with white tie carrying a white satin pillow with the wedding band.

Jackson Sharp of Robersonville as his brother's best man. Ushers were Hunter Sharp Jr. of Ahoskie, Wayland S. Barnes of Colerain, Don Baby Edwards of Alexandria, Va., Rev. David B. Ernest of Shaker Heights, Ohio, Rev. Gordon D. Bennett of Macon, Ga., Herbert Lyman Ormond Jr., Walter Reid

Perkins Jr., and Richard Lawrence Perkins, brothers of the bride, of Greenville.

The bride's mother wore a cream sheer gown of hand-clipped Chantilly lace featuring a full back, and matching accessories. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. J. L. Perkins, wore a gown of grey lace and chiffon. Her corsage was of orchids and valley lilies.

Mrs. Sharp, mother of the bridegroom, wore an Iced blue chiffon made with matching Chantilly lace bodice and panel back, scoop neckline and push up sleeve, and matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white orchids.

Mrs. Sharp attended St. Mary's Junior College in Raleigh, graduated from East Carolina College, and taught in New Bern last year. During the past year she taught at Virginia Beach, Va. She made her debut in Raleigh in 1952.

The Rev. Mr. Sharp attended the University of North Carolina, graduated from Wake Forest College, graduated from Yale University Divinity School and took one year of special study at the Virginia Theological Seminary. He is the Rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Beaufort.

A white and green color theme was used throughout the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reid Perkins during the reception party immediately following the wedding.

Flanking the dining room table were white candles placed in five-branched candelabras with three single white candles centering the table to give a brilliant effect of mass lighting.

Epergnes filled with white and green arrangements of snapdragons, stock, baby's breath, daisies and lilies encircled the table where sandwiches and bridal dainties were served from.

Miss Jean Perkins served punch from the dining room table which was covered with an imported white linen lace and cutwork cloth.

A tray of miniature green and white bridal cakes centered the buffet which was flanked by white candles placed in silver candlestick encircled by colorful flower arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hannah greeted guests at the front door and introduced them to the receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Galbreath of Kinston, Mr. and Mrs. Reid Perkins, Mr. Sharp Sr., the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. J. L. Perkins, the bride's grandmother, and members of the wedding party.

Receiving throughout the house were The Rt. Rev. and Mrs. Thomas H. Wright, Dr. and Mrs. H. Glenn Haney, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Gaylord Sr., Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Gaylord Jr., Julian Perkins, Curtis Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Vance Perkins, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Harry Hagerty, Richard King, Mr. and Mrs. Howard King, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gaylord, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Whitehurst, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Edwards, Tom Galbreath, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Dunn Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Roebuck.

Guests left the reception through the garden where punch was served on the patio by Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Charles M. King and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Scales Jr.

Honor Bride Of Saturday... Luncheon, Dinner, Breakfast

Miss Virginia Perkins and the Rev. Edward Sharp were honored at a luncheon Friday, May 10, by Mrs. M. H. Fambrough, Miss Jane Hadley, Mrs. Jake Hadley and Mrs. Clara Shackell at the Hadley home on Evans St.

On the porch, Mrs. Herbert Hadley and Miss Mary Forbes served punch from an ice punch bowl, in which red roses had been frozen.

Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley greeted the guests at the front door and introduced them to the receiving line which was composed of the hostesses, Miss Perkins, Rev. Sharp, Mr. and Mrs. Reid Perkins and Miss Mary Ann Waldrop.

A profusion of peonies, gladioli, larkspur and roses was used throughout the spacious home.

Members of the wedding party were seated at the dining room table which was centered with an artistic arrangement of white gladioli and white roses. Auxiliary tables, in the living rooms and halls, were centered with apple green candles tied with white tulle and mock orange. A three course turkey luncheon was served to approximately sixty guests.

The bride wore an imported dotted champagne silk organdy dress with a matching hat.

The hostesses presented the honoree with gifts in her selective patterns.

Out-of-town guests for the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Tag Montague, Winston-Salem; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Guy, Thomasville, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Radford, Mrs. Aggie Sabiston and Mrs. Jimmy Barnes, Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sears, Norfolk; Mr. and Mrs. Charles King, Norfolk; Mrs. James McLeod, Florence, S. C.; Richard King, Edenton; and Mrs. Tom Galbreath, Kinston.

Dinner

Miss Virginia Perkins and Rev. Edward Sharp were honored Friday at a dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Wagner.

Upon arrival, Miss Perkins was presented a corsage of pink roses given to her by the host and hostess.

In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. Luther D. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. J. Knott Proctor Sr., Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Young, Mrs. Reid Perkins, the honoree's mother, and the honorees.

A three course dinner was served to the guests by Mrs. Tom Galbreath of Kinston, Mrs. Reid Perkins, mother of the bride, Mrs. Sydney Dunn Jr. and Mrs. W. M. Scales Jr.

Arrangements of spring flowers decorated the sun parlor where coffee and ice cream molded in the shape of fruit and flowers and mints were served by Mrs. Vance Perkins and Mrs. Harry Hagerty.

Wedding Breakfast

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gaylord Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gaylord Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gaylord, and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Scales Jr. honored the Sharp-Perkins wedding party and members of the families and out-of-town guests at a wedding breakfast held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Jr. in Brookgreen Saturday morning.

Arrangements of mixed summer flowers were placed throughout the house.

Centering the dining room table was an arrangement of pink roses, snapdragons, asters and Baby's Breath. Silver bells tied with pink satin ribbon encircled with pink sweetpeas was of focal interest on the table.

Mrs. Howard H. King and Mrs. Robert Sears of Norfolk served from the pink and silver dining room table covered with a white satin cloth from eleven o'clock until noon. Mrs. Lee Hannah and Mrs. Thomas A. Galbreath of Kinston served from noon until one o'clock.

Wedding Supper

On Saturday afternoon at five o'clock Miss Virginia Perkins and the Rev. Edward Sharp were honored at a wedding supper in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Lyman Ormond on East Fifth Street.

Hosts and hostesses for this occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Ormond; Mrs. Norman O. Warren; Dr. and Mrs. Karl B. Pace; Mr. and Mrs. J. Hampton Thomas; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Moye; Mrs. Moye Hadley, and Miss Martha Emily Moye Hadley.

Guests included the members of the wedding party, relatives of the bride and bridegroom and out-of-town guests.

They were received at the front entrance by Mr. and Mrs. Ormond and directed into the living room where arrangements of peonies in shades of pink and lavender were used. Dr. and Mrs. Karl B. Pace invited guests into the dining room.

Centering the dining table was a silver multi-branched epergne holding bouquets of yellow rosebuds and white flowers. Yellow gladiolas were placed on the buffet.

Mrs. Norman O. Warren, seated at the table which was covered with an eggshell linen Italian cutwork cloth, served frozen fruit salad. Guests served themselves a variety of accompaniments.

In the rear hall, overlooking the garden, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hampton Thomas served coffee. A profusion of spring flowers was used there.

Punch was served in the pine paneled den by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Moye, assisted by Mrs. Moye Hadley and Miss Martha Emily Moye Hadley. American Beauty roses and red Oriental Poppies decorated the den.

Miss Virginia Perkins wore a dinner gown of yellow and white printed chiffon and a corsage of white carnations presented to her by the hostesses.

BEAUTY HINTS

From... Harrell's Beauty Salon

Uncomplimentary verses used to be quoted about girls who wear glasses. Now the sunny lassie with spectacles may be the most sought-after girl of all. Modern glasses can be a pretty part of your face, not just windows over your eyes.

A soft hairdo (not too fluffy) does wonders for be-spectacled ladies. But no bangs for you—unless they're short, uneven, with a casually brushed effect. Avoid center parts... off-center lines do the most for you.

Don't slip your glasses into your purse when you go to the beauty salon. Wear them while your hair is styled, so your hairdresser can analyze the changes your particular choice of glasses make in your features. Then those skilled hands can place your part, your waves, your wispy curls in just the right places to flatter the shape of your face and the shape of your "specs."

Next time you touch up your nail polish, try this: Wipe away just a hair's breath of color from each nail tip. Polish lasts longer when the tips are free. Always extend the sides of your nails a sixteenth of an inch above your fingers... makes hands look longer and nails stay stronger.

Low forehead, round face? A short bang effect will do wonders. Some smart girls wear wings of blonde or silver hair at the temples. These, surprisingly enough, give an illusion of forehead height. Dangle earrings do interesting tricks to this facial type, too. Try them!

Shiny noses keep powdered longer this way: After you've powdered, pat just the tiniest bit of water over your nose, forehead, and other areas that take a shine quickly. Let it dry, then re-powder. Now pat away excess powder carefully with a pad of cotton.

Charter Members Of Pilot Club Invited To Dinner Friday Night

The Pilot Club of Raleigh will be hostess to a dinner meeting of the prospective pilots in Greenville on Friday evening, May 17, at the Silo Restaurant to become charter members of the new organization.

President will be Mrs. James Mallory, temporary chairman. Assisting her in making local arrangements is Mrs. Joan Warren, the temporary treasurer. Both are connected with East Carolina College. The professional and business women who have received invitations have been asked to telephone Mrs. Warren at 6480 after 5 o'clock to make their final reservations.

Pilot is an international classified civic and service club for women. In North Carolina there are 20 clubs and some 500 members. Clubs in the eastern part of the state are located in Docky Mount, Kinston, New Bern, and Tarboro. The sponsoring club for Greenville is Raleigh.

Safety For Baby

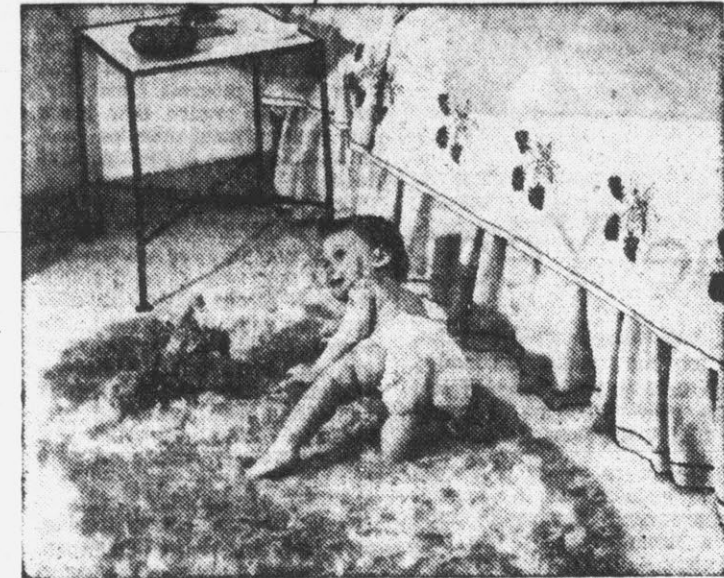

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Mothers sacrifice their children on the altar of carelessness every day. Home accidents kill more children 1 to 14 years of age than any disease, statisticians on safety tell us. One reads of a toddler stranded by a tight cap fastening in his play pen. Another child gets twisted in a venetian blind cord that has been permitted to dangle into the sleeping child's crib. Still another chokes on a ridiculously small rattle.

Most accidents to children may be controlled by exercising common sense. Why leave a hot iron where a playing child may reach it? Or why leave an iron cord dangling so that in pulling it a child may fracture his skull? Only a mother can answer these questions — putting the iron out of reach when it is unattended doesn't spare the child a serious burn.

Put yourself in a child's place for a minute. What does he see when he creeps or toddles around the floor? Articles that members of the family drop no doubt, to be "picked up later" — collar buttons, nails, pins, matches, cigarettes, forks. These are items that are dangerous in the hands of a crawler who is at the tasting stage.

What does he see when he stands up to try his legs? What can he reach? Knives, scissors, safety pins left too near counters may cause serious injury. Many a child has been scalded reaching up to a stove curiously grasping the handle of a steaming pot. Stoves are dangerous enough even with nothing on them — many electric models take a long while to cool off, showing no evidence of heat long after burners are turned off.

EASY ON THE KNEES . . . This barefoot rug is a caresse pattern of fur-like knit pile pleases any crawler.

When Junior begins to clutch at tables to propel himself around the room, be sure his underfooting is safe. Area rugs and highly polished floors can cause serious injury to the baby who is going through the "testing" stage. All rugs should be safely anchored. Rugs that may be tubbed are favorites these days especially to protect creepers from excess dust

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER
Urging United Church Women (national and state) to "defend the public schools" and to work to give the nation "the fully adequate public schools America needs," Mrs. George R. Ellison, of Washington, D. C., of the National Education Association, says in part: "The schools need friends today perhaps more than ever before. For they are threatened not only by the old forces and disbeliefs, direct or masked, but they are threatened by engulfment, by very force of numbers. When the 'war babies' first lifted the birth-rate to new heights, the statisticians said, 'It will ebb.' Now we are accepting that it will never really ebb. Already we have reached a population of 170,000,000, a number that 15 short years ago census experts thought we would not reach before the year 2,000, if ever. Thousands of teachers are wrestling with twice the number of pupils they can adequately teach. And by 1965, say our population reports, we will have 30 per cent more children in our already bulging schools and 50 per cent more in our high schools. To do the job that needs to be done, we need triple and quadruple the amounts now spent on education. The Federal Government passed a $21 billion road bill last year. All that localities, states, and the Federal Government now spend on public schools reaches scarcely half this amount. Should such a ratio not be reversed?"

Models Reveal Grooming Tips

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

IT'S THAT SHAGGY LOOK of arms and legs that can ruin an otherwise chic appearance. A woman—housewife or career girl—may be dressed to the teeth, but if she doesn't have hair removed from her arms and legs (especially now with sleeveless dresses so popular) she'll mar her appearance.

"How do models cope with this problem? Are they all hairless?" a woman inquires.

"No, they're not," answers one of the country's top model agents, Mrs. Eileen Ford, when confronted with the question.

"If a model were to neglect her beauty chores, she'd be just as shaggy as anyone else," she says. The difference is she must toe the line of fastidiousness or lose jobs. A girl can't be a glamorous fashion model and neglect her grooming routine.

The average model spends about an hour a day at home and four hours a week in a beauty salon having beauty repairs. But you don't have to do that, says Mrs. Ford, who advises, instead that you may get the same results by devoting 15 minutes a day to a grooming plan.

How? Just rotate your glamor chores. Do a little bit each day. Shampoo your hair one day, give yourself a facial the next day, a manicure and pedicure the next day, defuzz your arms and legs another day, she suggests.

There is no excuse for neglecting leg and arm routine any more. Electric razors are made especially for women these days. One even has a specially constructed head for defuzzing underarms to avoid irritation. If used to be you'd have to be a contortionist to do that properly. Now razors are feather-weight too, and available in chic colors—Princess pink, spray blue, moonlight yellow.

It's a good idea to use an electric razor when the skin is dry. Dust talcum powder over the area first to insure dryness. Then in a matter of seconds the shaver will clear away the hair. Work on a small area at a time.

Other grooming pointers passed on by Mrs. Ford include this list which she says are musts for her models:

A model must be clean from head to toe—this means a daily bath.

Her lingerie must be entirely fresh.

She must care for hands and feet.

Add lemon juice, sugar and horseradish to a white sauce and serve with meat balls or hamburgers.

feet, giving herself a manicure and pedicure at least once a week, using a medium color matching polish on both hands and feet. Chipped nail polish must be changed daily.

Professional weekly care of hair and daily personal care. Constant hair brushing. Daily creaming of skin if needed, particularly important as one passes twenty-fifth birthday. Even more important past thirty-five.

Student Division of Music Club Installs Officers Saturday

The student division of the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs held its state convention at the Woman's Club in Greenville on May 11. It was the group's third annual convention.

Registration began at 10:30 a. m., and the business session began shortly after, with Miss Nancy Wallace, state president of the student division, presiding. There was a welcome given by George Perry, state student advisor, and a response by Miss Frances Johnson, representative of the students of E. C. C. There were also greetings from Mrs. C. J. Muir, vice-president of the Southeastern Region and Mrs. Ernest Moore, immediate past president of the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs.

Reports were heard from the state student division chairmen, the district student directors, and the various club representatives. This was followed by a full report of student club activities by George Perry.

The speaker, Mrs. Harry Shonts, state president of the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs, was introduced by Miss Lucile Epperson, advisor for the Southern District. After Mrs. Shonts' message, a state of officers for the student division of North Carolina was presented by the president.

The new officers for the student division are: President—Don Griffin; Vice-president—Frank Sinclair; Secretary—Charlotte Mixon; Scrapbook Secretary—Jerry Powell. The business session adjourned for a luncheon.

Address was made by Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, director of the music department of ECC in the afternoon followed by a short musicale presented by Miss Charlotte Mixon, pianist; Miss Frances Johnson, pianist; Jerry Powell, pianist; and Talbert Himes, baritone. After the installation of the new officers by Mrs. Harry Shonts, the meeting adjourned.

Never Too Many Scholarships

Announcement of two new important scholarships open to Eppes High School graduates and another for Greenville High School graduates, is a welcome addition to the lists of scholarships open to local students.

It used to be said "you'll never get anywhere without a high school diploma." Of course, some few personalities went out and made good without that all-important symbol; but they were the exceptions which come along to plague an overly-generalized rule.

In these days (and the trend seems strengthening with passage of time) some similar tag is being applied to college studies. Not that a degree is a necessary prerequisite, but the attitude is growing that some college work, or specialized post-high school training, is more necessary than ever before.

This new valuation makes many wistful eyes turn toward those legendary Halls of Ivy. In many instances, students who would benefit most from a higher education, and whose background attests their ability to so benefit, are left out because neither they nor their families can pay the bill.

Scholarships have long been the accepted answer to this need; but we have never heard of a community overly-blessed in this field.

It's trite, but still true, that: "There's no better investment than in the training of our youth." Greenville and Pitt County are fortunate in the number of locally-offered scholarships awaiting high school students. They reflect a desire to help make that "better world", as well as a practical means toward that end.

Would that we had more.

Only A Prank, Which Seems A Good Thing

It was only a prank, for which we can all be thankful, and a small band of Australian students presumably set some sort of new "high" in their campus traditions by successfully boarding a U. S. aircraft carrier.

You may have read about it last week . . . a carrier in port, raided by a launchful of students who surprised everybody (including themselves?) by gaining the bridge and sounding "action stations" alarm.

One can well imagine the pandemonium that resulted.

The Navy shrugged it off as a manifestation of high spirits; and the account conveys the idea that the "brass" was good-natured in accepting the incident as the joke which it was intended to be. (How else could they take it? Our Aussie friends are anything but staid.)

But if a handful of pranksters could surprise a warship so completely as to gain the bridge and chalk up a "mission accomplished", what could a band of red-hot fanatics do?

We'd bet the subsequent conversation between the Skipper and the Officer of the Watch blistered paint twenty feet in all directions.

Adjournment Is Further Away

By LYNN NISBET

TIGHTER — The General Assembly of 1957 is in its 15th week. Monday is the 97th calendar day, the 83rd legislative day. Hopes for sine die adjournment short of 100 legislative days have been abandoned. When the legislators left Friday for the weekend a good many of them were fearful they would not be able to finish up before the last few days in June.

But pressure for action on important bills was tightened by home folks. Governor Hodges had several Senate leaders at the Mansion for breakfast Friday morning, and reports are he talked "turkey" to them about slowness in pushing through the administration bills. It is also known that telephone lines were kept hot with urgent requests from Raleigh to points throughout the state urging local advocates of tax proposals to put the pressure on their Representatives and Senators to "get the bills out."

This kind of pressure has effect, and some stalwarts are driving for subcommittee reports on both appropriations and revenue bills this week. They are hoping to put on enough pressure to force the full committees to adopt the subcommittee reports in three days at most. That schedule would bring the budget bills to the full General Assembly for action Wednesday or Thursday, May 22-23.

Established practice is for the House and Senate each to resolve itself into a committee of the whole for consideration of the money bills. There have been instances when the appropriations bill was approved in less than an hour and passed its required three readings in both branches the same day. Other times it has taken a week or more.

PROLONGED — There have been instances since the "permanent revenue act" was adopted in 1939 that amendments to that act have been approved by the committee of the whole in a few minutes. Prior to 1939 when the entire bill had to be written and adopted every two years there were sessions when the committee of the whole spent three to four weeks on it. In any event, after the whole committee approves it, the constitution required that any tax levying bill must be read three times on separate days in each branch. Adoption of any amendment which increases any tax levy puts the bill back on its first reading. There are historic instances of one-vote switches overnight prolonging debate on the revenue act for weeks.

The pending revenue bill more completely rewrites the whole tax laws than any since 1933. It is possible, but not probable, that floor amendments might prolong this session to record length. It is possible, but not probable, that the full membership of House and Senate will accept the committee report without material change, and enact the bill in a total of six days after it comes to the floor. That would permit ratification before May 30.

There are other important, but perhaps not necessary, matters pending which must be disposed of before the General Assembly can decently complete its work. One of the bills recommended by the government organization commission was introduced on the 78th legislative day on the session. Bills generally understood to be "administration measures" dealing with appointment of legislative representation, appointment of a commission to recommend hauling the constitution, control of marsh mosquitoes and other important items have been introduced within the past two weeks — along with other bills affecting these same matters by non-administration members.

IMPLICATION — Some legislators are more concerned about indirect and residuary effects on pending bills than about the direct mandates or prohibitions specifically set out. The concept of guilt by association is not new. It was more clearly stated in Aesop's fable about Good Dog Tray than in anything the late Senator Joe McCarthy or all the modern witch-hunters have dreamed up.

The tendency to impute guilt by implication is relatively new. The fifth amendment to the Federal constitution was adopted to protect innocent people from persecution. The plea of nolo contendere was authorized to protect innocent people who relied on the constitutional promise that every person is innocent until proven guilty. As commonly accepted, and as implied in numerous statutes and proposed laws, nolo contendere is tantamount to a plea of guilty and any citizen who seeks protection of the fifth amendment is popularly branded as a subversive.

The legal definition of prima facie evidence has been extended to make many acts heretofore entirely legal as almost conclusive evidence of criminal intent. Pending bills to permit or require the sovereign State of North Carolina to delegate its authority for eminent domain to private corporations in effect reduce the prestige of sovereignty.

However laudable the purpose of the bill which the House sent to the Senate by overwhelming vote Friday banning obscene literature from news stands, its effect is to constitute every citizen the right of censorship over what any other citizen might read.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS SEVEN-HEADED HYDRA

In this busy world we hardly get one thing done until there is something else to do. We solve a problem only to find a bigger problem confronting us. The atomic bomb brought the most horrible of modern wars to an end, but it created bigger problems than a hundred such wars would create.

There is a legend in ancient mythology of Hercules who went out to slay the seven-headed Hydra. Every time he cut off a head, another menacing head immediately grew. This was antiquity's way of saying that life is a continual string of challenges and problems. We get one thing done only to confront something else. We win one victory only

A Simple Visit Gets Red Tape Treatment

A visit by Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Phillip has apparently been "cleared" for sometime in October after months of rumors and speculation.

For some reason, visits by heads of state are not as simple as for a Smith, Brown or Green family. All kinds of interpretations might be imposed on such trivia as relations between the involved nations for the past six months and for the future six months; whether it would be embarrassing to any other visitors, whether any special significance could be read into their breakfast, luncheon and dinner menus . . . and should they wear cotton, silk, woolen or paper clothes. (Can't afford to injure anybody's feelings, you know.)

Anyway, a simple visit by two people and their entourage is made subject of prolonged secret negotiations between "third parties". Officially, the invitation hasn't even been issued; though American hospitality is straining at the leash for an opportunity to show the royal couple a good time, as well as native curiosity is aroused at the opportunity to see them.

It's a pretty sad state of affairs when a pair of nice young neighbors can't be invited over to get acquainted without a whole lot of folderol.

So much simpler to just pick up the phone, and call "Liz? Pack your bag and come on over for a long weekend. You might tell Phil to bring his golf clubs too."

Predictions On Business Front

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here are some more business predictions, based on tips, leaks, analyses and the neglected art of putting two and two together:

Larger dependency income tax deductions. Not right away, but before April 15, 1958. As some cuts become possible, Congress is sure to increase dependency deductions first because so many voters have children. But nothing will be done until 1958, an election year.

Higher paint prices. One big manufacturer has upper prices 3 per cent and others are certain to follow because of rises in costs of labor and ingredients.

A new miracle germicide. One now passing final laboratory tests is stingless, colorless and several times more powerful than iodine.

No anti-merger bill this year. The heat is off. Falling off in the number of spectacular mergers is easing pressure on Congressmen, and with so much other pressing business, action is off until 1958.

MORE TV REPAIRS, HIGHER GAS

Happy days for TV repairmen. Many viewers are holding off replacements until color is better, cheaper. Meanwhile older sets are blowing tubes and conking circuits. TV repair work may be 20 per cent higher than last year.

Stiff seasonal gas price hikes. Surpluses expected a few months ago won't materialize and, with more cars than ever on the road, summer price rises will be higher, than ever. Take it in your stride: if the Suez mess hadn't been partially settled you would pay 2 cents a gallon more.

Meat to P.T.C. It's not settled yet, but sure enough to rate a prediction that Congress will transfer control of meat packers from the Department of Agriculture to the Federal Trade Commission. The basic reason is that supermarket chains sought to escape FTC regulation on the grounds that they are meat packers, controllable only by Agriculture. Many Congressmen are miffed and will show who's boss.

The consumer price index will rise further. It's on an escalator. Successive rises for seven months have automatically increased wage rates; higher wage rates increase both costs and spending power which, working together, are boosting consumer prices higher. It will all end some day and economists shudder when they contemplate how.

POP AND MUSTARD

Peripetatic drink sales. Fruit-flavored soft drinks are being offered by some Good Humor men; if the idea clicks, those jungling bells will connote pop as well as ice cream to the insatiable generation.

Mustard with franks. Another current test: giving a squeeze tube of mustard with each pound of frankfurters. If this goes over in key markets, you'll probably find it at your own meat market.

Biggest transistor year. Despite dullness in TV and radio sales, makers of transistors are doing fine; the change-over from tubes in consumer and industrial products makes it an odds-on cinch transistor sales will set a new record this year.

A new China-trade drive. Although a nation-wide poll will show opposition to recognition of Red China, a campaign to permit freer trade with Peking is in the making. The carpet industry is interested because the U.S. produces no carpet wools, and China does. Brush manufacturers need Chinese bristles. Topper argument: Britain is expanding trade with Red China and unless we do we'll lose eminence in foreign trade.

Julie, Blonde Of The Year

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The people's choice for blonde of the Year seems to be Julie Wilson this season.

And a thousand show world comrades who know the years of struggle and failure that lie behind this tall breezy Nebraska singer are almost as proud of her success as if it were their own.

No Cinderella she. "You bump your head against every wall in the world," she mused. "You milk your own blood trying to create something new and fresh — and nothing works."

"Then suddenly everything you did that was wrong turns out to be right. You have what they're looking for, and you never are quite sure yourself what caused the change."

Julie now is a top-drawing supper club performer, making a record eighth appearance at the St. Regis. She is starred in two current movies, "The Strange One" and "This Could Be the Night."

Her fabulous 30-gown wardrobe is the envy of almost every other gal in show business. Her gowns cost from $850 to $2,000 each. She has four all-beaded gowns that took a year each to make.

But Julie, whose salary has climbed from $50 a week to $3,500, hasn't forgotten the days when a run in her nylons was a major financial catastrophe. Those were the days when, as a stagestruck teen-ager from Omaha, she ran into more blind alleys than a mouse in a maze.

"I flopped at everything I tried," she recalled. "I was a Trivedi model, but I couldn't get any work. My hips were too big. I did all right in the chorus line, but when I tried to sing, they told me I couldn't. I landed a job with a band, and in two weeks they fired me. I made two film tests, flopped both.

"There were plenty of wolves around, including one in a toupee, who promised they could make me a Broadway or movie star overnight — if I'd let them pick the night. But I wanted to make my own way, or else throw it all over, marry and have 10 kids real quick before I changed my mind again."

Julie really did have a voice. She just didn't quite know then how to use it to put a song over. And in the process of learning she had to sing in some joints where she wouldn't be seen herself as a customer.

Her low point came during a three-month attack of laryngitis, which she now feels was largely psychological.

"It really only reflected my lack of confidence in my voice," she said. "But for weeks I couldn't even talk."

The turning point came in 1948 during a last trial — in her own mind — engagement at the Mocambo in Hollywood.

"Suddenly everything was right, and I still don't know why," she said. "But from that night on I never looked back."

She starred in London in "Kiss Me Kate" and "South Pacific" then won Broadway leads in "Kismet" and "The Pajama Game."

During her stay in London, Julie quit for a full year to study acting at the Royal Academy. Despite her present star status, she spends six to eight hours a day in singing, dancing and acting lessons.

"When you quit learning," she said, "you soon quit earning."

She says she doesn't know what to answer now when kids come to her and ask, "What should I do, Julie? Mama doesn't want me to go into show business."

Julie's speckled green eyes grew reflective.

"What can I tell them?" she said. "A hundred people gave me help when I needed it. Where would any of us be without friends? But in the end you have to make up your own mind — and find your own way."

Other Editors Saying --- Flood Insurance Dilemma

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

A measure providing for a flood insurance program has been defeated in the House by a decisive margin, and that spells bad news for areas suffering from flood damage. In spite of the efforts of North Carolina Congressmen L. H. Fountain, Graham Barden and Alton Lennon, enough votes were garnered by representatives of non-flood areas to defeat this vital legislation.

Supporters of the federal flood insurance program have generally blamed its defeat on the economy drive in Congress. True, economy is necessary in government, but apparently some come under the heading of necessary spending. "The tragedy now," said Rep. Lennon, "is that there is little rebuilding going on in the flood areas because no bank or any other lending agency will put a nickel into construction for homes in these areas."

Lennon called the federal program the first real hope that this problem would be alleviated. Rep. Fountain called it "trailing legislation" and Rep. Barden said the program was an opportunity to do a valuable job of research. But Republicans bolted the leadership of Rep. Joseph Martin (R-Mass.) in an almost solid stand against it. They were supported by Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.) and Rep. Albert Thomas (D-Tex.). This must come as a surprise to Texans, who have been in the midst of one of the worst floods in Texas history, to hear that Rep. Thomas voted against a measure that could have brought a great measure of relief to flooded districts in the Lone Star State.

In reply to supporters of the measure, Chairman Cannon called the flood insurance program one that regular insurance companies would not touch. "Uncle Sam," he insisted, "would be left holding the bag." Apparently he hadn't given much thought to the thousands of homeless flood victims who will also be left holding the bag because they will have no financial assistance to rebuild their homes.

It will be difficult to justify the huge American foreign aid program, providing millions to build up economic structures of other nations, when such a large segment of our own economy has been devastated in recent months by flood and tornado. It will take years for some of our farm lands to be rehabilitated. Congress should take cognizance of this fact when it prepares to allocate more foreign aid funds. Charity still begins at home.

New Moderation By High Court

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—In recent decisions involving three extremely controversial issues—communism, organized labor and Federal expansion of power—the Supreme Court has shown a surprising spirit of moderation. Conservative Truman-Eisenhower appointees have contributed to this retreat from extreme conservatism or radicalism on these fronts.

Being only a human group of men, they had interpreted the law in the light of changing conditions at home and abroad. Among the new forces to which they have given recognition in their judgments are general disillusionment toward Russia, labor's excesses as revealed in the Beck and other investigations, and the growing threat of government competition with private industry.

SUPREME COURT NOW LEANS MORE TO CONSERVATIVE SIDE. As now organized, the Supreme Court leans more to the conservative side than it has since the Hughes associates retired from the bench. Five are regarded as middle-roads—Justices Frankfurter, Burton, Clark, Brennan and Whitaker. Three are still reckoned as of liberal persuasion—Justices Black, Douglas and Harlan.

Chief Justice Earl Warren plays the role of swing man, as so many men in his position have done through the years. The C.J.'s generally seek harmony and detest dissents. Justice Warren is a great believer in agreement. During the most acute years of the "cold war," the high tribunal cracked down on Communism, upholding Senate contempt charges against recalcitrant witnesses. It jumped on "Fifth Amendment Reds." It supported D. J. and Subversive Activities Control Board's findings that many "front" organizations were agents of Moscow. It refused to review the conviction of Alger Hiss.

HIGH TRIBUNAL'S LENIENCY. But in two recent cases involving California and New Mexico refusals to admit lawyers to the practice of law, the high tribunal showed leniency and sympathy. It held that their pre-1941 Communist associations could not be held against them, in view of their subsequent behavior.

Its ruling that Beck's Teamsters' Union was also an employer has caused great concern in labor circles. It means that if a union can be brought before the National Labor Relations Board for underpaying or mistreating its own workers, it will place them in an unfavorable light before the public. It will demonstrate that management is not the only sinner in this respect, as so many labor orators maintain. Incidentally, NLRB had ruled in favor of Beck in this controversy.

In another case involving labor-management difficulties, the Court said that corporations in a single industry may unite and consolidate for the purpose of making union agreements without violating the antitrust laws. Although it might require legislation, it

Farmers Have To Keep Up

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass.—Many farmers write to me complaining about the cost-price squeeze. They are discouraged because for them the bottom seems to have fallen out of the farm market. I sympathize with these people, but I suspect that many of them have come upon hard times because they are not farming as well as they know how. Also, many of them are not keeping abreast of new ideas and new crops.

TREND IS TOWARD MORE MECHANIZATION

Tremendous changes have taken place in farming during my lifetime. When I was a boy, horses and mules furnished practically all the power on farms. Even as recently as 1910, there was almost no mechanization on farms. In that year the total farm population was 32,076,960. By 1950 this had dwindled to 25,058,000 a decline of 21.9 per cent. Most observers estimate the present farm population to be only 20,000,000. Thus farmers and their families now account for only 11.8 per cent of our total population compared with 34.9 per cent in 1910.

I predict that machines will continue to displace men on American farms. Hence, the smaller commercial farms will be hard put to survive. However, I do not believe farmers should be despairing of the future. A good living can still be made on the farm by those who open their eyes to progress. Obviously, the trend is toward new crops and greater mechanization, and there is no sense in bucking that trend.

OVER-PRODUCTION IS A TEMPORARY PROBLEM

Right now farmers are the victims of their own unusual ability to coax record yields-per-acre from the soil. Better seed, improved fertilization and irrigation, and more efficient spreading, cultivating, and harvesting machinery have increased production. During the war our farmers rose magnificently to the challenge to provide food and feed for our allies, and now they are temporarily in trouble.

FUTURE OF AGRICULTURE

At present we are growing at least 5 per cent more farm products than we can sell. In an effort to keep our farm surpluses from becoming too burdensome, the government spends huge sums on price support programs, the soil bank, and foreign distribution schemes. All these measures have helped to some extent, but they are by no means cure-alls. I am disturbed by the fact that too many farmers take undue advantage of this government help by deliberately overproducing. However, I am firmly convinced that this over-production is a temporary problem.

RESEARCH HOLDS THE ANSWERS

Research has performed wonders for all other industries. I forecast that it will also perform wonders for agriculture. Chemistry, industry, and agriculture, working together, gave us hybrid corn and varieties of the soybean which would grow in our country. This combination sponsored the research that produced a new dwarf variety of castor bean said to yield as much as 2,700 pounds per acre if the soil is properly irrigated and fertilized with nitrogen. Also, a new combine harvester-huller has been developed which will gather tall or short castorbeans without waste. I predict a profitable future for castorbeans, with output reaching as high as 350,000 crop acres.

A stimulating flow of new research ideas has emerged from the recent annual Chemurgic Conference of the Council for Agricultural and Chemurgic Research. This organization and others like it are facing up to the real farm problem, which is not over-production but under-utilization and waste.

INDUSTRIAL USE FOR FARM PRODUCTS

We should be proud of the progress agriculture has made in our country. But there is still much to learn about soils, irrigation, and weather. Crops such as castorbeans and sesame seed will become big business before long and I forecast that other

Falling Body Of Flier Crashes In Ceiling Of Home

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—A flier's body crashed into a living room yesterday, seconds after a small airplane inexplicably fell apart over a residential section. "We were sitting there working a crossword puzzle, when suddenly it sounded like the house was blowing up. My daughter screamed and we looked around behind us, and there was the body on the floor, only five feet from us," said Fred G. Thomson, 35, owner of the house.

The dead flier was Willis Allen Wood, 21, Salem, Ore., whose light plywood plane disintegrated over southeast Portland in late afternoon. The pieces of wreckage caused no serious damage.

Wood, an Oregon State College senior, either was thrown from the plane when it began coming apart, or he jumped. He had no parachute.

The body tore a hole in Thomson's roof and smashed a chair in the living room.

Thomson was in the living room with his 9-year-old daughter Connie.

"I thought Fred's furnace had exploded," said a neighbor, I. S. McCoy.

Officials have not determined what caused the plane to disintegrate. The weather was clear and calm. Witnesses said they heard no explosion. Several agreed they heard the engine sputter, and then the wings began coming off. They also said the engine steadied again, and some said it still was going when the fuselage crashed. The plane was estimated to have been 2,000 feet up when it disintegrated.

Rae Foley's new mystery novel RUN FOR YOUR LIFE

CHAPTER 20
It was mid-afternoon when Mr. Potter reached New York and walked into the office of Candy Kendrick's agent. A tall, thin woman with rimless glasses stopped typing and gave him an unexpectedly welcoming smile.

"I'd like to see Mr. Noland for a few minutes. My name is Potter but he won't know it. Tell him I'm making inquiries about a client of his, Candida Kendrick."
The woman was startled. "But she's dead! Didn't you know?"
"Yes, I know."
She got up and went into the private office. In a moment she returned. "Mr. Noland will see you."

Frederick Noland was an energetic looking man, with a pleasant, noncommittal face. He looked up from a cluttered desk, peering over his glasses. "Are you Potter? Sit down. Now what do you want to know about Candy?"
Mr. Potter told him succinctly. "So they're going to rake up the whole business again, Candy was a swell kid, a sweet kid, and promising clients I had and just getting into her stride when she was killed. She had talent and she worked like a beaver. She was really going places. Frankly, I don't know what to tell you. I don't know anything about the murder or the setup in the nick place where she was living. She was too young to be alone; anyhow, a commercial artist can't afford to stagnate. She has to be where the jobs are, where the ideas are floating around, where the new trends are taking shape. However, Candy hadn't cared much about following trends. She was developing a style of her own and she made clients like it, even if they had definite ideas of their own."

"Did she have any family?" asked Mr. Potter.
"An uncle somewhere in Europe. That's all. Not her type at all, I imagine. A big shot of some sort."
"Did you see her letter in the paper?"
"Yes," the agent said through set teeth. "That was Candy through and through, the real quality of her. I think I could kill that guy myself if I got my hands on him."
"Who was this 'somebody' she could always turn to?"
Noland shook his head. "She didn't talk about her personal affairs, at least to me."
"Did you ever hear of any man who was interested in her?"
"Of course, there were men interested in her," Noland spoke impatiently as though Mr. Potter were not quite bright. "She was young and terribly alive and extremely pretty. But there was no one special. What are you after, exactly, that the police missed?"
"If it doesn't sound too fatuous," Mr. Potter said, "I'm after the right murderer. But so far I'm just groping. There wasn't—did she need money?"
"I don't think so. She was doing fine. More commissions than she could handle but she was fussy. She didn't take jobs she didn't like. Look, I'll show you one of her last jobs. She was to do a series of illustrated editions of the classics, the ten best English novels, that sort of thing, and only had time to finish one."
He unrolled a big Henry Fielding portfolio. "Look 'em over. Take your time. There's an out-of-town client I've got to see now. Glad to know you." He shook hands. "And good luck to you."
Mr. Potter turned over the pictures one at a time, smiling with appreciation and delight. The girl had started with the giant of them all, catching the author's zest for living, his Hogartian robustness. The pictures were filled with throbbing life and humor. He recognized the characters at a glance.
At one of the drawings Mr. Potter stared for a long time in disbelief. Then he pawed through the stuff on Noland's desk until he found an envelope and slid the drawing inside. He pocketed it and retied the tapes of the portfolio. He had learned a great deal more "Never mind, there's more to go on now. After Mrs. Riddle's death, Captain Foot of the Connecticut State Police checked with Deming on Jones' references. He was sponsored by Graham Colting, the playwright."

"The guy with three smash hits on Broadway? Nice reference for a tutor," Sam remarked.
"Very nice," Mr. Potter agreed. "I am becoming exceedingly interested in Mr. Tom Jones and I'll follow him myself."
"But he wasn't around when Candy was killed, was he?"
"I have no idea where he was," Mr. Potter said slowly. "I have no idea who he is. But I know one thing—Candy Kendrick knew him well."

than he had anticipated and there was nothing more to find out here about Candy Kendrick. Only bitter regret that so much talent and gaiety of spirit had been snuffed out.
Next, Mr. Potter checked in on his New York private investigator Sam pulled out a sheaf of old envelopes, cards and scraps of paper on which he had made random notes.
"There's nothing interesting that I can see, unless you read something into this mess I've missed. First, the woman who got herself killed, Mrs. Riddle. Heavy society. Widow. Husband was well-to-do until the depression when he dropped a lot. She has a small life income. Said to be stingy. Pulled a lot of strings to eke out her income. And she practically lived on her niece, Nora Pendleton. Anything there?"
Mr. Potter shook his head. "Charles Deming, everything on the up and up. Highly respected but not liked. Business record clean as a hound's tooth. Retired last year on a nice fat income. Frank Deming is not a chip off the old block. He concentrated on girls too much at Brown and didn't graduate. No details. Do you want more?"
"Yes, get all you can on Frank. We know now that he was acquainted with Candy and his father is worried. He has hired a man to keep the boy out of trouble, which is going to be quite a job. Also Frank's alibi for Candy's murder has blown up in his face."
"Nothing on the Hugers," Sam went on, "or the druggist or the nurse, Stuart Young—no army service because he was in medical school at Cornell, very promising, and they wanted him to finish. I haven't checked beyond that. Shall I?"
"I'll take over on Young. Did you get anything on his family background?"

Racer Crashes Through Railing Friday Night

CRACK-UP—Paul Turner, from Lucoma, was forced off the track Friday night at the local Micro Midget races, and cracked-up into the railing. He received only minor scratches and bruises. The car on the right, is being driven by Bobby Smith of Greenville. Henry Rhodes, a local boy, won the main event and two more Greenville residents, Dan Francis and John Forehan finished second and third. (Photo by Bill Taylor).

Frank Robinson New 'Big Man' Of Runaway Redlegs

By JACK HAND The Associated Press Frank Robinson, National League Rookie of the Year in 1956, has replaced ailing Ted Kluszewski as the "big man" of the runaway Redlegs from Cincinnati.

While Birdie Tebbetts' Redlegs were tying their own modern club record by winning 12 in a row, all on the road, Robinson hammered out a 12-game consecutive hitting streak.

The 21-year-old left fielder-first baseman now leads the league with a .396 average. During the 12-game span, he batted at a .452 clip.

The Reds took two more yesterday at Chicago 7-5 and 7-1. In the first game, Tebbetts started Hal Jeffcoat, relieved with Art Fowler and finally won with Raul Sanchez when Wally Post tied it up with a homer and Don Hoak singled home the winning run.

Don Gross came through with a fine four-hitter in the second game.

Robinson rapped out six hits for the day. Milwaukee kept step with Cincinnati, remaining tied for the National League lead, by whipping St. Louis twice 4-2 and 10-4. Hank Aaron hit home runs in both games.

Brooklyn broke its four-game losing streak with Johnny Podres shutting out New York 5-0 on six hits. Pittsburgh finally ended its seven-game losing string by topping Philadelphia's Robin Roberts 6-1 in the second game after bowing to Curt Simmons in the opener 6-2.

Larry Doby hit two tremendous home runs and Walt Dropo hit one for Chicago in a 5-4 victory over Detroit that left the White Sox half a game in front of the New York Yankees. Homers also did the trick for the Yanks. Andy Carey hit two and Mickey Mantle one to nail down a 4-3 decision over the Baltimore Orioles.

Mantle broke a 3-3 tie with a smash to the right field stands. Despite Tom Brewer's two-hit 10-0 shutout in the opener, the Boston Red Sox had to seven for a split with Washington when Pedro Ramos scattered seven Red Sox hits for a 6-2 triumph.

Virgil Trucks, consigned to the scrap heap by many, popped up with his fifth straight victory for Kansas City, winning over Cleveland on relief in the 9-2 opener, with the help of grand-slam homer by Hal Smith. Rocky Colavito drove in four runs, three of them on a first-inning homer, to give the Indians a split with a 7-4 second game decision for reliever Don Mossi.

At Chicago, Bill Fischer, 26-year-old White Sox rookie, won his first big league game with a fine relief job.

Bob Grim was the winner for New York in relief of Bobby Shantz, who gave up all Baltimore runs, including a homer by Gus Triandos. In the National, Lew Burdette of Milwaukee won his fourth with a six-hitter against the Cards in the opener. Manager Fred Haney started Red Murff, his ace reliever, in the second game, but Taylor Phillips was credited with the victory on relief in a game that saw Eddie Mathews and Aaron homer for the winners and Bobby Gene Smith and Don Blasingame homer for the Cards.

Duke Snider's fourth homer for Brooklyn was a 465-foot blast over the Giants' bullpen in right center that eased the way for Podres. The Dodgers knocked out Pete Burnside, the Dartmouth lefty, and scored three in the first inning.

Zeno Brown Wins Golfing Crown At Knoxville

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Appliance dealer Zeno Brown, formerly of Greenville, N. C., will wear the Southern Seniors Golf Association crown. Knoxville version, for the next year.

Brown turned in a 77 in the final round of the 36-hole tournament last week to go with his first-day 72, winning the low gross division of three strokes with a 149 over the rolling Houston Hills Country Club Course.

Brown also turned in the low net score for the tournament, 65-70-135, but rules of the association prohibit a player winning more than one title, giving the low net cup to another golfer.

Brown was formerly a resident of Greenville and was well-known in this area before moving to Knoxville.

East Carolina Track Team Wins Conference Meet; Set 3 Marks

North State Sets Blocking Trophy

SALISBURY, N.C.—The North State Conference will award a blocking trophy in honor of Gordon A. (Chubby) Kirkland, Catawba's veteran football coach who died recently.

The conference established the award here Saturday during its annual spring meeting. A vote of the football coaches will decide the winner.

In other business, the conference decided to return the annual basketball tournament to Lexington where it has been held several years.

A loss in tournament revenue was reported by Earl Ruth of Catawba, chairman of the basketball committee. The 1957 tournament netted $1,850, $500 less than 1956. Dates for the 1958 tournament were not decided, but it probably will be held a week before the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament in Raleigh.

Champions recognized were basketball, Lenoir Rhyne, tennis, High Point; and golf, Guilford.

East Carolina, which participated in only three conference meets, disputed the tennis championship, but High Point was named the winner by a 5-4 vote.

Clarence Stasavich of Lenoir Rhyne said there was no progress toward a merger with the South Carolina Little Four Conference of Presbyterian, Newberry, Erskine and Wofford.

Pfeiffer, long anxious to be a conference member, formally withdrew its application and the league voted to revive the Messick Sportsmanship Trophy in other action.

Richard Gorman

BIG HITTER—Winterville third baseman Richard Gorman clouted a homerun and a double last week to pace his club to a 16-4 win over Chocoma. Gorman's homer was a grand slam RBI for the game, scoring six RBIs for the game, scoring four times himself. (Photo by Tommy Oglesby).

Farley, Conley Advance To Semi-Final Positions

Bo Farley and Don Conley Jr. yesterday gained semi-final positions in the City Golf championship, joining Erzell Webb who defeated Dick Evans last week. The fourth semi-finalist will be determined after a match between Lucian Bryan Sr. and Bob Masten.

A crowd of 50-odd fans saw Don Conley, 19-year-old N.C. State college freshman, eliminate W. L. Allen on the 19th hole in a sudden death playoff. To stay alive, Don had to sink a 20-foot putt on 18. A beautiful chip on the 19th left him an easy putt for a birdie, while Allen missed a long one. Don is former City junior champ and Allen has been champion six times since 1942.

Bo Farley, 1956 winner, was the standout in yesterday's foursome, which also included Allen, Conley, and Bo's opponent, Mout Massey Jr. Farley closed Massey out on the 14th and scored a one-under-par 70. His drive on number 14, a 310-yard hole, was only 10 feet short of the green.

Farley will now play Erzell Webb, 1951 champion and Conley will play the winner of the Bob-

Masten-Lucian Bryan match. Bob Masten made the quarter-finals with a forfeit over Dr. M. B. Massey, another former champion. Lucian Bryan defeated Ray Masten. First flight semi-finalists are Ben Harrison, with a win over Simon Moe; Connor Merritt, who beat Ed Farley; and Jim Lanier over Bob Lang. The victor of Howard Waldrop-Bill Davenport will be the fourth semi-finalist.

Second flight finalists are Henry Coleman and Sergeant J. B. Boyd. Coleman won over Louis Clark and Boyd over Colonel L. J. Partridge.

The Rev. Glen Haney will meet John Proctor in the third flight finals. Haney defeated Troy Dodson and Proctor eked by up-and-coming Bill Clark.

Fourth flight play is behind schedule. Frank Hill is to play Howard Hodges, while Dick Badham has advanced to the semi-finals with a win over John Barnhill. Cecil Billo beat Ed Rawl and Dick Heller is to play Lacy Harrell.

In the fifth flight finals father will play son for the championship. Roy Hynnycutt will play Rhett for the title.

G-Men Play Host To Jacksonville Nine

Greenville high school's baseball team plays host to Jacksonville tomorrow night at Guy Smith Stadium in a Northeastern Conference match. Proceeds of the contest will go toward improving the ailing Phantom financial program in baseball.

A mistake in Saturday's Reflector stated that GHS would journey to Kinston this past Friday night for a loop game. The game, however, will take place in Kinston this Friday night, May 17, and will wrap up the season for the Phantoms.

Miller To Start

Hudson Miller, a lanky right-hander, is expected to start for the G-Men tomorrow night against the Cardinals. Greenville has defeated Jacksonville once earlier this season.

Greenville will be seeking their seventh victory in 11 games tomorrow night.

Bears Win

KINSTON — New Bern high school won the Northeastern Conference Golf Tournament here Friday afternoon, beating out the other six teams in the league.

Greenville's Phantoms, who defeated New Bern in a regulation Northeastern Conference match just a few days before the tournament, finished second. The Green team was composed of Wesley Topping, Louis Phelps, Buddy Murray and Lucian Bryan Jr.

Greenville played New Bern this afternoon to wrap up their season. Their regular-season record going into today's match was 6-1.

Probable starters for the Greenville club will be Dick Evans at first base; Mack Roebuck or Arthur Andrews at second base; Billy Cox at shortstop; Walker Lee Allen at third base; Joe Wingate, Charles Smith and Bobby Edwards in the outfield; Angus Duff catching.

Three of the Phantoms are currently hitting over .300. Walker Allen leads the club with a sizzling .375 average. Billy Cox is close behind with a .354 mark. Pitcher Charlie Staton is hitting at a .333 clip.

Coach Farley, commenting on the Tuesday night game, said "We hope to bring in enough money to help get our athletic program back on its feet—at least, our baseball program. We've lost money already this year and we feel that playing this night game we may be able to at least get things started."

No New Division Of High Schools

CHAPEL HILL, N.C.—The North Carolina High School Athletic Assn. will continue to operate with only three division classifications.

A proposal to add a fourth classification for the benefit of smaller schools was defeated here Saturday during the association's annual spring meeting.

Elevated to the presidency from vice president was L. Stacy Weaver, superintendent of Durham schools, Frank Mock of Kinston was named vice president. L. J. (Hap) Perry is executive secretary.

BURLINGTON—East Carolina's track team retained their North State Conference championship this season, by taking 12 first places in 15 events to total a tremendous 105 points in the conference track meet here Saturday.

The Pirates easily outdistanced Elon, the next closest team, which had only 55 points. Guilford was next with 32, and Catawba followed with 22. Lenoir Rhyne 5, and Atlantic Christian 4. Six of the nine conference teams participated in the match.

3 New Marks Three new conference records were set during the meet, all by East Carolina performers. Foster Morse broke his own mark in the two-mile run, traveling the distance in 10:16. His old mark was 10:43.7. It was the fourth time this season that Morse has broken a record in that event. Three times previously, he cracked the ECC school mark.

Dennis O'Brien, who along with Morse have gone undefeated in their events the whole season, racked up a new pole vault record for the conference by scaling 11 feet even.

The ECC relay team of Bobby Patterson, Bob Ruck, Charlie Bishop and Joe Pond swept the one-mile relay in the record time of 3:33.8, beating the old mark of 3:42.2, which was set earlier by the Pirates.

Larry Gregg, of Elon, was high point man with a total of 18. Gregg, a sophomore from Norfolk, Va., won the high jump, took second in the 120-yard high hurdles, tied for second in the 220-yard hurdles, was third in the broad jump and tied for third in the 100-yard dash.

First Places Capturing first places for East Carolina were Jim Henderson, who nabbed top positions in the 100-yard dash, the 120-high hurdles, and the 220-low hurdles; Bobby Maynard, who took first in the 220-yard dash; Bobby Patterson in the 440-yard run; Foster Morse and Cliff Buck, who tied for first in the one-mile run; Morse in the 2-mile; Eddie Dennis in the javelin; James Spight in the broad jump; O'Brien in the pole vault; Gregg, J. O. Miller, whose club has had good results in five matches this season, was pleased with the performance of his athletes and praised them for their "fine showing." He pointed out that it was clearly a team win and that most of his boys had to "double-up and compete in more than one event."

The summary: 100-yard dash: 1. Henderson (ECC); 2. Maynard (ECC); 3. Tie, Gregg (Elon) and Spight (ECC); 4. Getzinger (Guilford), T.—10.2. 220-yard dash: 1. Maynard (ECC); 2. Getzinger (Guilford); 3. Volunteers Needed For Crusade Effort

Central Committee Chairman Leonard W. Topping called today for volunteers for the twenty-five participating Churches to do the many jobs connected with the coming Crusade for Christ campaign. "Most of the workers we need have already been secured through the Pastors, but more are needed in some departments," the First Presbyterian Pastor added.

"The Crusade offers every Christian of the Greenville area an opportunity for special service in Christ's Kingdom," pastors told their congregations yesterday. Every believer was urged to "find a place in the campaign to use his talents and energies faithfully for Christ."

Tonight at 8 o'clock the first training session for Personal Workers will be held at St. James in counseling converts are asked to attend at least two of the three sessions if they wish to qualify for this service. "In Billy Graham's New York Crusade, four thousand counselors have been in possibility with the chairman. Visitation Volunteers

Next Sunday afternoon every home in Greenville will be visited by volunteers from the participating Churches. The visitors will not go into the home necessarily, but may merely hand the family visited a printed invitation to attend Crusade meetings at Wright Auditorium. The Rev. Rashie Kennedy, Grace Free Will Baptist Pastor who heads the visitation committee, said today that pastors would probably welcome volunteers from their Churches to cover the sectors of town assigned them.

Crusade Choir

The Rev. William M. Howard of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church is music chairman for the United Crusade. He announced this morning that the first rehearsal for the Crusade Choir will be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock on the stage of Wright Auditorium. Crusade Song Leader Ralph McGilvra of Grand Rapids, Michigan, will direct the Crusade Choir. The organizer of the Jimmy Johnson team is the Rev. Merrill Dunlop of Oak Park, Illinois.

"Singers are needed and we hope that numbers of young people of high school and college ages will join with older persons in volunteering for the Crusade Choir," Howard said.

Ushers

Usher Chairman Bill Drum is working with the various Churches in the formation of a corps of ushers for the Wright Auditorium services. Those interested should contact either Mr. Drumm or the Crusade office secretary, Miss Louise Jones, at 3927.

Office Workers

"Some simple folding of materials will have to be done at the Crusade office," and persons interested in this form of service are needed officials declared. The office is located in the old Daily Reflector building and volunteers for any form of service may give their names to the secretary by dialing 3927 between the hours of 9 AM and 5 PM each day.

Publicizing

"Everyone can help publicize the fact that united services will be held in Wright every night beginning Sunday," Promotion chairman Edward C. Thornburg of Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church asserted. The Pastor added, "Boost this united Church effort in personal conversation and invite everyone you know to go with you every night." Posters, folders, cards and other publicity materials are available at the Crusade office at 300 Evans Street.

A Good Freak Is Harder To Find

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — It's getting tougher and tougher to find good, commercial freaks.

That's the conclusion of Dick Best, an official of Royal American Shows, who for a good part of his 31 years in show business has been rounding up fat women, giants, elephant-skin boys, two-faced men and so forth.

Best says better pre-natal care of mothers and improved treatments for glandular disorders are resulting in fewer and fewer freaks.

FIND ANCIENT BONES

KISHINEV, U. S. S. R. (AP) — Bones of a dinosaur—an ancestor of the elephant—from eight to ten million years old have been found by a paleontological expedition near here. Scientific members of the party said removal of the bones is progressing rapidly.

big new cash crops are coming. But I want now to call special attention to the need for putting more farm products and residues to work in industry.

President Eisenhower is alert to this need. Some months ago, he appointed a Commission on Increased Industrial Use of Agricultural Products. Its report should be made public within the next month. I urge farmers to study it carefully and to follow it up with action. Over the long pull, I am bullish about farming in this country.

President Eisenhower was once coach of the Third Corps army football team.

Student Charged In Poisoning Says He's Target

PLATTE CITY, Mo. (AP) — An 18-year-old scholarship student at Park College has been charged with mixing arsenic in food eaten by a school nurse and two coeds.

"I think someone's after me," said Hubert McKinley Fulkerson Jr., of Muskogee, Okla., after his arraignment yesterday. "There is evidence pointing to me because I had access to arsenic in the chemistry laboratory."

The victims, Luella Matthews, Jon Porter and Shirley Flint, were reported in good condition at Waverly Medical Center on the campus. They became ill Thursday after eating luncheon at the center.

Mrs. Matthews is a nurse. Miss Porter is from Greenfield, Mo., and Miss Flint from Dow, Iowa.

Fulkerson was taken to Neurological Hospital in Kansas City shortly after they became ill. He was arrested yesterday and arraigned before Platte County Magistrate John Yeaman. No plea was entered and he was taken to the county jail.

Preliminary hearing was set for tomorrow to allow the 'youth's' parents time to engage an attorney.

The formal charge against Fulkerson is mingling poison with food with intent to kill or injure.

Women Forging Ahead In Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — Women are moving into the big jobs in the Soviet Union.

The Communist Party magazine "Kommunist" said women now comprise 53 per cent of all specialists with higher education, including more than ten thousand with degrees of bachelor or doctor of science.

In addition women hold 2,209 seats in the Supreme Soviet and Supreme Soviets of the various republics and more than half a million seats in local soviets (government) organizations.

Caught Trying To Get Jail Keys

ANDERSON, Tex. (AP)—Ollie B. Williams, 21, was caught trying to break into Sheriff Dick Johnson's apartment to get the jail keys so he could release two friends, the sheriff said.

Johnson said the others, Nick Bartholomew, 36, and Jerald Smith, 34, had been locked in a cell but Williams was a trusty. He tunneled through an 18-inch brick wall to escape.

Graham Crusade Is Defended, Praised

NEW YORK (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham's coming crusade in New York was defended and criticized from pulpits around the city yesterday.

Ministers in several Unitarian churches were critical. Praise came from Presbyterian, Baptist and Episcopal clergymen.

Graham's six-week campaign to save souls for Christ opens in Madison Square Garden Wednesday night. The handsome preacher worked with his 35-member staff on final plans.

A spokesman for the crusade said 250,000 reservations have been made so far for church groups from all over the country to attend.

Tomorrow night 10 churches in the metropolitan area will hold all-night prayer meetings to ask success for the crusade.

At the Unitarian Church of All Souls, the Rev. Dr. Walter Donald Kring said few persons will really be "saved" by the crusade.

"...any persons, he said, "will be in rebellion against not only the emotional excesses but the crass commercialism and padded statistics of the campaign here in New York City."

The Rev. Dr. Ralph C. Walker of the Madison Avenue Baptist Church said, on the other hand, the Graham's "gospel is so simply and directly presented that any openminded person would receive inspiration and be made aware of the presence of God."

Graham, a Baptist, arrived here Saturday. He said his single aim is to "reach the unchurched."

As for sin in New York, he said: "If New York has more sin than any other city, it is because there is more New York."

The nightly crusade in the 18,000-seat Garden will cost about $900,000. Much of the money will go for rental of the huge arena.

Earlier, a crusade spokesman said accommodations have been arranged for trainloads of Graham's followers from Washington, D. C.; Nashville, Tenn.; Louis-

Trujillo Up For 'Election' Again

CIUDAD TRUJILLO (AP)—General elections will be held Thursday in this country, but already it's a' over but the shouting.

One political party operates in the Dominican Republic. It's called the Dominican.

That means President Gen. Hector B. Trujillo and Vice President Dr. Joaquin Balaguer can look forward to five more years in their jobs.

In addition to voting for the two top offices, Dominicans also will elect 24 senators, 45 members of the Chamber of Deputies and 65 mayors and council bodies.

All candidates, from top to bottom, were chosen about two months ago at conventions of the Dominican party, to which delegates were elected.

A Workers' party put up candidates in the 1952 elections, but it was snowed under in the avalanche of ballots for those favored by the man who runs this country—Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo, commander in chief of the armed forces.

One government official explains the lack of opposition this way:

"Every Dominican would rather stay home than to not cast his ballot for the men the generalissimo wants in the government. Democracy has to be applied differently in different countries. What works in the United States might not be of any value at all here."

President Trujillo is a brother of the generalissimo.

Begin Building Satellite Station

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Work has started on a tracking station near here for the earth satellite scheduled to be launched next summer as part of the 1958-59 International Geophysical Year research.

Tom McMillan of the Navy Electronics Laboratory, project director, said concrete has been poured for foundations of eight huge antennas.

They will pick up satellite signals from a distance of 300 miles in space along a track 600 miles wide.

Tobacco yield increased by 150 lbs. per acre with MH-30

MH-30 treated Hand-suckered MH-30 treated
A typical case history of tobacco sucker control

One major tobacco grower* says that by spraying his tobacco only once with MH-30 he was able to eliminate practically all of the necessary hand suckering. He estimates he saved more than double the cost of the MH-30 by preventing damage to leaves caused by careless hand suckering. He adds: "In the three-year period in which I have used MH-30 I've increased my yield per acre an average of 150 lbs., due to an almost complete suppression of suckers. Using MH-30 is one of the most profitable practices I've tried."

Like so many other growers of flue-cured tobacco, this large producer relies on MH-30 to keep tobacco suckers from growing—without interfering with the development of the marketable leaves.

Eighth Graders Get High School Briefing

BY ANNE HARRIS
Belvoir-Falkland Reporter

Eighth graders at both Belvoir and Falkland schools were acquainted with high school procedures Thursday at Belvoir-Falkland High School's annual "Eighth-Grade Day".

Actually, the eighth graders were entertained more than the regular high school routine permits but the effect of the program was the same. Joyce Jenkins, president of the Student Council, gave the welcome and led singing of the school song.

An N. F. L. practice session was held at Belvoir School Tuesday night. Approximately 20 students from Belvoir and Greenville attended the meeting, and presented memorized pieces, poetry readings and manuscript readings. Judges for the reading were R. B. Starling, O. H. Forrest and Mrs. Mable Wilson.

Members of the Junior Class sponsored a May Dance in the high school gymnasium May 4. Individual tables, covered in pastel shades and centered with a single rose, were arranged the edge of the dance floor, which was covered by streamers suspended from the ceiling.

Approximately 100 guests were present for the dance. Chaperones were Mrs. Woodrow Wooten, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warren, Mrs. Reginald Gray, Mrs. Lou Nelson and O. H. Forrest.

Wife Drove Him Back To Jail

WESTMORELAND, N. H. (AP)—Emil Jantti, 53, kissed his wife goodbye at the gate of Cheshire County Jail last night and walked inside.

Sheriff Frank Walker said Jantti, serving 30 days for an escape last March, broke out again last Friday by walking through a fence hole he was sent to repair. Jantti spent two days in the woods and then went home to Winchester. After supper, his wife drove him back to the jail.

Part-Time Leisure Class Is Growing

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The part-time leisure class is working still another revolution in America.

Once only a few belonged to the leisure class. The first Twentieth Century revolution, mechanization, put the great majority into the class on a part time basis.

Now what people do when away from the job is booming new industries and especially services, as well as changing old ideas of what's good for the country—thus starting still another revolution.

It's also raising new problems, such as: "If we come to a four day week should there be a three day weekend or a day off in the middle of the week?"

Should we use the stepped up output of the new machines in relation to an hour's work to buy more time off for ourselves or to turn out more goods so everyone can have more glamorous gadgets?

Will still more leisure degenerate into mere idleness and luxury, as it sometimes did with the old type leisure class, often based on slavery or the drudgery of the great mass of people?

Will the urge for more leisure time end by cutting into production needs?

The problems are tackled today by August Heckscher, director of the Twentieth Century Fund, in the annual report of the non-profit foundation that studies economic and civic conditions.

Time off from the job isn't always the same thing as leisure—as most householders know. Away from the job lie the family and cultural pursuits that are likely to be another form of work.

These have profited the makers of casual clothes, of automobiles and sporting goods, of vacation resorts, of the essentials for countless hobbies. New household appliances have brought more leisure for the homemaker. So have prepared, packaged, frozen and canned foods.

Automation and mechanization can bring more luxury and leisure—an abundance of time as well as an abundance of things to buy and enjoy.

Heckscher notes that for the last 100 years two thirds of the added productivity (more output per man hour) has gone for more goods and services, one third for more free time.

This could change. The pressure now is for shorter work hours, longer vacations and earlier retirements. This could cut the rate of material growth. But it also could spur the search for new products to lure people to work more to earn more, and for new machines to cut costs—creating work orders for machinery makers.

But Heckscher warns, "A society cannot go on indefinitely expecting to get more and more by working less and less."

The arts and professions, however, are profiting from the new leisure, as are most of the service trades. Museums and concert halls report larger and different audiences from those of a generation or two ago.

Benson Reports Agriculture Now Ready For Climb

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said today agriculture is now in a position to start its "upward climb toward a more adequate share of the nation's record prosperity."

"Agriculture has a sound basis on which to build," he said. "Farmers have faith in the future."

In his annual report to President Eisenhower, Benson predicted farm income this year would climb about 5 per cent above last year's level.

He said improvement in the farm situation had been brought about by prosperity and record consumer income.

"But much more is due to the aggressive efforts of farm groups themselves to market their products," he said. "And we have aided them by a broad and enlightened program of governmental assistance."

Benson said price-depressing farm surpluses are declining. He said that in the government's surplus disposal program, flexible price supports and the soil bank land retirement program, "we have most of the basic tools we need to help agriculture in its present emergency."

This latter statement was somewhat at odds with a letter Benson sent congressional farm leaders recently declaring there was a need for greater flexibility in the price support program and for modification of production control programs if the surplus problem was to be solved for the long pull.

"Agricultural assets are at their all-time peak," the secretary reported. "Farmland values per acre are record high. More farmers, proportionately, own their own farms than ever before. Seven out of 10 own them clear; they have no mortgage debt whatsoever. I could produce many other statistics to prove that the family farm is in a strong position today."

Keith Funston, President of the New York Stock Exchange, is the son of a small town Iowa banker.

SAFETY FIRST
RUTLAND, Vt. (AP)—Rutland city officials delayed installation of 1,450 new coin boxes for their parking meters after it developed that all the boxes could be opened with a key made from a tin can. Police reported more than 200 could be opened easily by hand. The mayor expressed doubts the new coin boxes provided "maximum security."

Council: Annie Mae Spain, Library Club; Nellie Gwaltney, 4-H Club; Dillon Watson, Glee Club; Arthur Gwaltney, editor of the newspaper; and Joyce Water, treasurer of the Beta Club.

Entertainment included solos by Dillon Watson, Carolyn Hathaway and Guy Moore, and piano selections by Timmy Harris.

Principal O. H. Forrest assisted the incoming freshmen with their schedules for next year. The day's program also included visits to the classrooms, lunch and a baseball game between boys teams from Belvoir and Falkland.

One piece of behind-the-scenes work that was readily evident was the shining auditorium. Beta Club members spent the better part of the cleaning it and waxing the floor prior to the special program for the eighth graders.

Don't worry about day dreams of a modern kitchen. This is a normal female symptom brought on by a desire to provide more effectively for the family needs and aggravated by seeing the beautiful, colorful Formica surfaced kitchens in the magazines.

Just stop dreaming long enough to call us and you're well on your way to a happy, carefree future.

home near Paris. He was 71. The noted film actor and director had been ill for six months with a spinal ailment at his chateau in Maurepas, some 25 miles southwest of Paris. Death was attributed to a generalized cancer, the French News Agency reported.

He had lived in France the last eight years, since his last American movie, "Sunset Boulevard." In that film he portrayed a faithful retainer to a faded film star depicted by Gloria Swanson.

Recently he had appeared in French and Italian movies and was writing a novel and a biography.

Von Stroheim was known to audiences of World Wars I and II as a villainous German army officer but in real life he was awarded the French Legion of Honor for his services to the film art. He attempted to enlist in the French Foreign Legion at the outbreak of World War II.

A native of Austria and a graduate of the Royal Military Academy, he went to the United States in 1909, volunteered for the U. S. Cavalry when he couldn't get a job, and served three years.

Going west in 1912, he got into pictures first in 1914 and began an association with D. W. Griffith which ultimately, after World War I, took him to the top as an actor and director. His close-shaven bullet head, ramrod-stiff bulk, and monocled heavy face came to represent America's idea of the Prussian military caste.

Later he fell out of favor in Hollywood and in 1936 took a four-week offer from a French film company. In the next three years he made 20 pictures abroad. Among them was "Grand Illusion," his most notable performance.

The French government declined his bid for military service in World War II, saying his propaganda broadcasts were of more value. With the Germans approaching Paris, he returned to his adopted country—he became a U. S. citizen in 1926—and played more than a year on the stage in "Arsenic and Old Lace."

His career came full circle in 1943, when he returned to Hollywood to play Field Marshal Rommel in "Five Graves to Cairo."

NEW YORK (AP)—Oils and non-ferrous metals were the pacemakers as the stock market made further advances in fairly active trading early this afternoon. Key stocks rose from fractions to around 2 points or so. The market was higher at the start in brisk turnover and improved its gains later.

Steels were slow starters but carved out some sizable gains as the session progressed. The trend was generally higher, too, in motors, aircrafts, rubbers and building materials. Leading rails were slightly ahead on balance. The market once more was moving into new high ground. for 1957. Gains of around 2 points were made by International Nickel, Youngstown Steel, Shamrock Oil and U.S. Gypsum. Ahead well over a point were Lukens Steel, Alcoa and Gulf Oil. Du Pont marched ahead in excess of 3 points.

In the 1-point gainer class were Chrysler, U.S. Steel, Goodrich, Goodyear, Douglas Aircraft, Anacosta, American Smelting, Royal Dutch and Aluminum Ltd. Chrysler was up as it settled its dispute with the United Auto Workers. Union Carbide was about unchanged following settlement of the 15-week strike at its Linde Air Products division. Penn-Texas was up a major fraction as a trade was agreed on with Fairbanks, Morse in the fight for control of the latter's management. The latter was about unchanged.

Fractional gains were made by General Motors, American Telephone, and Standard Oil (New Jersey). Small losses were taken by Southern Railway, Eastern Airlines, Paramount, Kennecott and American Cyanamid.

Disenchanted By Life In Texas
 SAN MANUEL, Ariz. (AP) — The weekly San Manuel Miner recently printed on its front page — in boldface type and "with great pleasure" — this letter from Texas:

"I want to subscribe to the Miner. I want to live in your fair city, and loved it. I miss San Manuel and Arizona very much. Texans don't have much to brag about." The paper did not print the subscriber's name "for fear word of this may find its way to Texas and reprisals may be visited on this fine San Manuel booster."

Man Arrested In Knife-Slaying

GRIFTON — An argument resulted in death for Roy Lee Pettaway, 20-year-old Negro of Hookerton who was stabbed in Daniel's, a Grifton juke joint in Lenoir County late Saturday night.

Following an investigation conducted by two members of the Lenoir County sheriff's office and Grifton Police J. R. Parker and Herbert Adams, Milton Harris, 19-year-old Negro of Grifton, Rt. 4, was arrested on charges of murder.

Pettaway, suffering from a deep chest wound, died enroute to a Kinston hospital from excessive loss of blood. The stabbing took place between 11 and 11:30 p.m., officers said.

The death weapon was described by Chief Parker as a "Switch" knife, approximately 12 inches long.

Following the argument and stabbing, Harris left the joint and gave the knife to a bystander, Chief Parker said. He then went to his home about four miles from Grifton on the Hugo Road and sent his brother back for the death weapon. Officers found the knife buried in a plowed field near Harris' home.

Harris, taken to the Lenoir County jail in Kinston after his arrest, will be given a preliminary hearing Friday morning.

PULLING POWER — Kenneth Kenney took an ad in the Milwaukee Journal in hopes of selling his car.
 The ad paid off—the man across the street bought the car.

Deputy Cecil Crandall found the front door glass of the store broken around 5:30 a.m.
 A quantity of cigarettes and some wine were reported missing.

Will Consider Bill Barring Any Interracial Film
 COLUMBIA (AP) — A proposal to prohibit South Carolina movie houses from showing any films with interracial themes comes up for General Assembly consideration this week.

Written by the House Judiciary Committee, the legislation would enlarge the present state law against "obscene, indecent and improper" printed matter to include the words "immoral" and "motion picture."

Rep. Robert E. McNair of Allendale, committee chairman, said that through the legal definition of "immoral," the measure could extend to all movies that "violate the laws or customs of the state."

Since South Carolina is a racially segregated state, McNair pointed out, local law enforcement officials would be able to take action against theaters showing interracial movies.

The Legislature's latest move on the segregation front is in line with a bill by Rep. John Hart of Union that would have funded theater owners $5,000 for running the film "Island in the Sun." The movie deals with integration problems in the British West Indies.
