

Stricken Town Is Bearing Up

Lampasas 'Died' Sunday Night, But Signs Of Resurrection Evident

By FRANK N. MANITZAS LAMPASAS, Tex. (AP)—For a town that died Sunday night under a 10-foot wall of water, Lampasas today was showing definite signs of resurrection.

Merchants and housewives were cleaning up, an employment office was set up and the town's population of nearly 5,000 was swollen by relief workers and engineers.

The relief workers were sorting out the problems and making plans to help people back on their feet. Engineers were helping straighten out the tangled town by doing such things as moving houses out of the streets.

There even was a glint of humor yesterday when the sun broke through clouds and melted them away.

"I'm going to have a special on mud packs," quipped Annette Spivey as she shoveled ooze out of her tiny beauty parlor.

Maj. Clyde Villemez, commander of the 46th Engineers Construction Battalion at nearby Ft. Hood, said, "With good weather, it still will be three weeks before we can clear the debris, open streets and put the city back into working shape."

The disaster struck about 8:45 p.m. Sunday. A levee on Sulphur Creek broke.

The wall of water swept through the town, virtually destroyed much of the business section of 86 establishments and damaged 310 homes, 33 of which were demolished. Some homes were floated blocks away.

It absolutely cleared some business houses—walls, ceilings and merchandise.

In others, the weight of water crumpled floors, dropped merchandise into water-filled basements and thereby created water-logged junk.

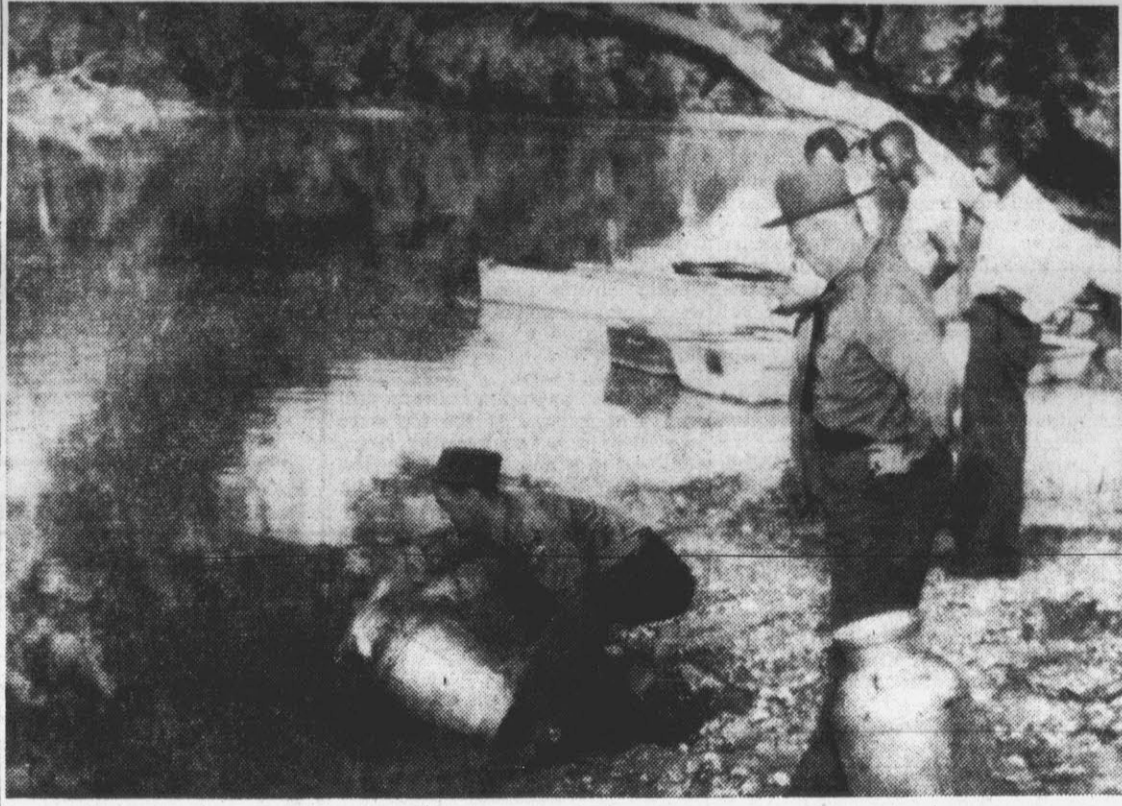

Four persons drowned or were killed when the flood struck. The Red Cross listed 25 as missing at one time, but most turned up later.

One was missing and presumed dead. Lampasas residents couldn't purchase flood insurance.

"We couldn't get it because of flood of 1936," said Romans O'Hair, cashier and vice president of the First National Bank.

Everyone who could push a broom or lift a shovel was recruited to cover everything and which only a short time ago was dust in this once-dry drought area.

Rock Fingerling For Fishermen Of Tomorrow

RELEASE FINGERLINGS—Beaufort County Wildlife Protector Louie Eaker releases Rock fingerlings at the Oyster Landing on Tar River as Pitt Protector Joe Teel looks on. Some six million Rock fingerlings were released yesterday. They came from the State hatchery in Weldon, the only Rock hatchery in the world. While there will be a heavy death toll among the fingerlings, stocking the river over the past few years has brought an increase in the number of game fish. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Thirty N.C. Solicitorial Districts Sought In Bill

RALEIGH (AP)—Thirty solicitorial districts for Superior Court solicitors would be provided in North Carolina under legislation introduced in the Senate last night.

At present, there are 21 solicitorial districts. Sen. Robert Cowen of Martin introduced a bill to provide for nine more. His proposal would make the solicitorial districts be composed of the same counties as the judicial districts.

One-county districts would be provided for Wake, Durham, Guilford, Forsyth, Mecklenburg, and Buncombe counties.

The pay of solicitors would be increased from $7,150 to $7,500 a year and they would continue to receive $1,500 a year for expenses.

In addition, solicitors holding court more than 30 weeks a year would receive an additional salary of $150 and expenses of $50 for each week over 30.

Other legislative highlights last night included:

1. The House and Senate received a resolution calling on Congress to submit to the states for ratification or rejection five proposed amendments to the federal Constitution to limit the power of the federal government.

2. The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill which would wipe off the books a 1955 act on split ticket voting.

3. The House also passed and sent to the Senate a bill which says states of optometrists in administering state health programs and shall pay them the same fees it pays ophthalmologists for the same services.

4. The Senate Finance subcommittee approved by a 5-4 vote a proposal to turn over all intangible taxes to the counties and cities except 5 per cent. This amount would be retained by the state to defray costs of collecting the taxes. At present, the state gets 20 per cent and the counties 80 per cent.

5. The house passed a senate measure approving an appropriation of $95,000 during the next biennium for the renovation of a $500,000 building given to the Gaston Technical Institute by the Firestone Rubber Co.

6. The House received legislation to implement the State Board of Education's plan for a revolving fund for the construction of self-liquidating buildings at state-supported colleges. Approximately 7 1/2 million dollars is recommended for setting up the fund. The loans would be repaid by rentals on new dormitories and various fees and charges for other facilities. Interest on the loans would not exceed 4 per cent.

The resolution calling on Congress to submit five proposed amendments to the states was introduced in the House by Rep. Carroll Holmes of Perquimans and in the Senate by Sen. Luther Hamilton and several others.

The resolution states that "the transcendent objective of these amendments is to assure the states their sovereignty which has been encroached upon by the frightening centralization in the federal government."

Driver-Training Law Is Enacted

RALEIGH (AP)—The House has enacted into law a driver training program for North Carolina's high schools.

The program will begin in September, 1958. A bill to carry out the program completed its legislative journey last night when the House concurred in a Senate amendment.

The amendment provides that the State Board of Education shall allocate to each school every year its share of driver training funds, based on the number of students eligible for driver training.

The program will be financed by an additional $1 levy on motor vehicle tags.

Rep. Tom White of Lenoir, an introducer of the bill, told the House that if a high school should not be ready to put the driver training courses in, the money would be held until the school was prepared to use it.

It is estimated the program will cost around one million dollars a year once it is in full operation. Some 1,600 vehicles are registered with the State Motor Vehicles Department.

Starting next year, the $1 increase on motor vehicle tags will be used to provide teaching personnel and the necessary number of automobiles for the program.

Recommendation To Oust Beck Is Before Teamsters

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Teamsters Union's public relations advisers were reported today to have recommended ouster of the union President Dave Beck. The recommendations were before a union committee in session today.

Tony Smith, head of the union's news bureau, said his public relations firm, Allied Public Relations Associates, has submitted a report to the union which "makes specific recommendations of what we feel is best for the union from a public relations standpoint."

Smith would not give details. But the report was understood to include a recommendation that Beck quit the helm of the 1 1/2-million member Teamsters organization.

Beck's present five-year term as Teamsters president ends later this year. He has said he will be a candidate for re-election.

The public relations recommendations were being considered by a special five-man committee of the Teamsters General Executive Board. The committee was named six weeks ago to deal with the problem of Beck's suspension as a vice president of the AFL-CIO and as a member of the AFL-CIO Executive Council.

At the Capitol, meantime, the staff of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee indicated it will bring Norman Gessert, husband of Beck's wife's niece, to Washington soon for testimony.

Gessert, sought for questioning for nearly two months, was found and served with a subpoena last night at Ellenburg, Wash. Gessert has been linked in testimony by witnesses at the Senate hearings to various financial dealings by Beck.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) told a reporter a staff investigator for the committee probably will interview Gessert as the next step before Gessert is called before a public hearing at some future date.

"We'll get them all," McClellan said of the committee's long search for other witnesses. "They'll all have their day in court before this committee."

The committee is still trying to locate Dave Beck Jr. and some others who were in on Beck's financial dealings.

An afternoon committee session was ticketed for inquiry into whether Beck gave favored treatment to trucking firms which helped get him a $200,000 personal loan.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said he expected to ask Alphonse Landa, Washington counsel for the Fruehauf Trailer Co., about a series of office memos written by Arthur Condon, another lawyer in the same firm.

Copies of Condon's memos, with Landa marked in, were given reporters yesterday after Roy Fruehauf, president of the trailer manufacturing firm, said he didn't know anything about them.

The memos related that other trucking firms involved in a 1953 New England area Teamsters strike were critical of Fruehauf, Beck and Bert Seymour, president of Associated Transport, Inc., a big New York trucking firm.

Condon is general counsel of the Independent Advisory Committee of the Trucking Industry, a trade group to promote trucking interests. Beck heads the committee and Fruehauf and Seymour are members.

Condon was Beck's lawyer at Beck's earlier appearances before the Rackets Committee but since has severed connections with him. So has former Sen. James Duff (R-Pa.), also a member of the law firm with which Condon and Landa are associated.

Condon's memo dated Aug. 11, 1955, said a letter circulated among New England truckers criticized Beck, Fruehauf and Seymour "on the grounds that the strike settlement was the result of a deal engineered by these men."

Eisenhower Firm Against Cuts In Planes, Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower was quoted today as saying he "would not want to assume any responsibility for the safety of the country" if Congress slashes his spending proposals for aircraft and guided missiles.

House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts told reporters about Eisenhower's stand after the weekly meeting between the President and GOP congressional chiefs.

Martin referred to reports that the Democratic-controlled House Appropriations Committee is considering severe cuts in the administration's request for defense funds.

"The President said he would not want to assume any responsibility for the safety of the country if cuts were made of any substantial nature in missiles and aircraft," Martin said.

Eisenhower gave the Republican leaders what amounted to a preview of the radio-TV appeal he will make to the nation at 9 p.m. EDT in defense of his $71,300,000,000 budget. The spending plans are threatened with sharp cuts by the lawmakers.

Senate GOP Leader Knowland of California told newsmen he is in full agreement with the President on the need for "maintaining muscle" in national defense so long as the Communist world remains a threat.

In advance of the White House session two Senate leaders said Eisenhower's appeal to the nation tonight may come too late to stem the economy tide in Congress.

Sens. Bridges (R-NH) and Mansfield (D-Mont) both took the view that Eisenhower has waited too long while sentiment for cuts built up.

Knowland said Eisenhower expressed belief this is "not the time for the United States or the free world to weaken their defenses."

The California senator, who has come out in favor of cutting the budget in some places, said he expects the Senate to try to restore part of the cuts made by the House in funds for the State and Justice departments and the U.S. Information Agency.

Knowland said, however, he does not expect the final appropriations to be as high as the administration requested.

As for defense spending, Knowland said the Democrats appear to have reversed their position since last year when they sought to increase military spending by a billion dollars.

Knowland said he expects efforts to restore "at least part" of the flood insurance funds which the House has knocked out completely.

Eisenhower proposed 50 million dollars for this purpose. There have been later estimates in Congress that the program could be started with only 14 million dollars. Knowland said he thinks there will be sentiment in the Senate for adopting the latter figure.

Experts Prepare For Atom Tests

By JACK LEFLER ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—Nuclear experts grappled today with final details of Thursday's blast opening the United States' sixth series of atomic tests on southern Nevada proving ground.

They are keeping a close check on the brisk winds snapping across the desert as the time for the pre-dawn detonation of a comparatively small atomic device nears.

Too high winds would cause postponement. Final decision on whether conditions are satisfactory will be made at 11 p. m. tomorrow.

The Atomic Energy Commission scientists are being extremely careful because they say they intend to make this series of tests the safest of all in the matter of radioactive fall-out.

The first detonation will be from a 700-foot tower. This is 200 feet higher than towers used in the past. Some subsequent explosions will be from balloon-supported platforms at elevations up to 2,000 feet.

These detonations at higher levels are intended to materially reduce the amount of radioactive dust sucked into the air by keeping the fire ball off the desert floor.

The Nevada Test Organization, which is handling the series of nine open shots and an undisclosed number of closed shots, put newsmen through a full day of briefing today to familiarize them with the purpose of the test. These briefings include outlines of Department of Defense participation, the function of civil defense observers and the effects of fall-out, flash and blast.

The reporters and photographers will observe and picture the 5 a. m. blast from News Kob, a promontory 11 miles from the detonating tower.

Various shots of the spring and summer series will be observed by military and civil defense representatives from North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations. Never before have U. S. atomic tests been opened so widely to foreign observers.

The AEC has announced that the purposes of this series are: "The further development of weapons for the defense of this country in the event of a nuclear attack."

"Obtaining additional information of effects of nuclear weapons for use in improving military and civil defense plans and procedures which must be maintained pending ultimate agreement on safeguarded disarmament."

Approximately 170 scouts and parents witnessed three Negro Scouts from Greenville Troop 191 receive their Eagle Award Sunday night.

The three Scouts were Donovan Phillips, David Williams, and Julius Murphy.

W. H. Davenport, East Carolina Council Negro Divisional Chairman for the 26 counties, presented the coveted awards at ceremonies in the Bethel Negro Methodist Church. Presiding at the Court of Honor was J. W. Grimes, Pitt Division Advancement Chairman. The host troop in charge of arrangements, opening and closing ceremonies was Troop 393, sponsored by the Bethel Negro School PTA.

Troop 191 won the Advancement Trophy and Troop 393 won the Attentance Trophy with 84 scouts and parents present.

LEO JENKINS new chairman

City Recreation Officers Chosen

Dr. Leo Jenkins of East Carolina College was elected chairman of the Greenville Recreation Commission at the Commission's monthly meeting last night.

Others elected last night were: Ford McGowan, vice-chairman and Mrs. L. W. Edwards, chairman of the Teenage Fund.

It was announced that three new members would be added to the Commission. One will be appointed by the City Council to fill the vacancy of A. C. Ruffin. The other two will be appointed at a special meeting of the nominating committee Friday afternoon.

As a result of a new recreation ordinance, approved by the City Council a short time ago, the number of members on the Commission will be reduced from 11 to seven. This ordinance will become effective June 1.

In addition to the election of officers for the coming year, committees were appointed to look in to the future expansion of Little League and Teen-er baseball in Greenville.

Plans were also outlined for the athletic use of Guy Smith Stadium during the school year 1957-58.

Officials Asked To Hold Down On Their Spending

RALEIGH (AP)—Heads of state departments, agencies and institutions have been told to keep a close rein on the state's purse strings the remainder of this fiscal year.

Asst. Budget Director D. S. Coltrane said yesterday budget officers and agency heads were asked to hold down on spending in order to bear out Gov. Hodges' forecast for a general fund credit balance of $64,400,000.

Coltrane said memos had been distributed advising that spending through June 30 be held "to the minimum amounts necessary for efficient operation."

Hodges estimated the $64,400,000 credit balance in recommending higher salary increases for teachers and other state employees than originally recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission.

Coltrane said the agencies were told to "carefully plan operations within a authorized allotments" of funds.

Dr. Staton Discusses Legislature Program The AAUW Sponsors

Last Monday night the American Association of University Women met at the Alumni Building of East Carolina College. Mrs. Lois Patterson, president, presided. After a short business meeting, the president turned the meeting over to the legislative chairman, Dr. Lois Staton.

At that time, she discussed first the legislative program which the AAUW supports, continued with "Strengthening the Public School System of N. C." "This Chapter believes this can best be done by granting the teachers a salary increase of 19.31 per cent," she noted.

The second point was concerned with "Family Life, Children and Youth, Strengthening Marriage Laws by Requiring Proof of Age." "Our stand is that the security of the child is of prime consideration. Too many teenagers are getting married; the law should be strengthened to require proof of adult age," Dr. Staton stressed. "On the other hand many of these offenders should not be treated as adults, actually they are children who need adult guidance."

"As far as the State Minimum Wage-Hour Law is concerned," she continued, "we believe that our economic well-being will be strengthened by requiring a minimum of 75 cents per hour for unskilled laborers, regardless of color," she added.

The last point she brought out was the separation of the Prison and State Highway Departments. "Director Bailey of the State Prison maintains that this will cost the state of North Carolina four million dollars. This chapter of the AAUW thinks that this money will be well spent in obtaining the separation of these two departments," she explained.

"In conclusion, the AAUW has a solid history of support for the federal office of education and for federal welfare programs. The AAUW on all levels—national, state, and local—stands for the improvement of the status of women through legislation for social and economic legislation bettering the lot of all citizens, and for world peace and security through international cooperation," she said.

Dr. Staton mentioned in closing that she challenged "each member to live up to this dedication."

Red Banks Club Enters Display

The Red Banks Home Demonstration Club was the third club to arrange the window display at Bostic-Sugg Furniture Store.

Mrs. Vernon Hardee, chairman of house furnishings, and her committee selected as their project a living room and a bedroom. Their selections for the living room were authentic reproductions of Victorian heirlooms of the finest Honduras mahogany with a Governor Winthrop secretary and chair. Antique velvet in dark red, green and soft pink were used for the sofa and two chairs.

All of the quaint charm and beauty of this period is expressed in these authentic reproductions. Soft pink and floral draperies and antique accessories were used to compliment the furniture. Lamps were chosen for their beauty, suitable use and correct lighting.

Good reading material can be found in the rooms on the wall. A shadow box of mahogany finish, centered with a hand-painted plate, is placed on a background of red velvet to compliment the Victorian sofa.

A color scheme of pink and white was chosen for the bedroom of solid mahogany heirloom furniture. A George Washington bedspread and antique accessories are used throughout the room. Here you will find a radio, reading material and a lamp on the bedside table. Several lamps for correct room lighting are placed in the room.

Red Banks club members invite friends and the public to visit their exhibit during this week.

Boys in this den under the den leader, Louis Reeves, are as follows: David Briley, Bobby Edwards, Pulton Hardee, Jerry Smith, Sonny Taylor, and Steven Wright.

The Daily Reflector and Pitt Theatre were hosts to the Mother's Day party held yesterday at one o'clock.

Nu Cab Taxi Company cooperated with the theatre and newspaper by furnishing free transportation to the theatre for Greenville mothers who otherwise could not attend.

Upon arrival the mothers were presented bouquets, compliments of Greenville Floral Company. After the movie, candy was presented to the following for attending all the parties that have been given over the past 15 years: Mrs. A. M. Waters, Mrs. P. E. Andrews, Mrs. A. E. Burton, Mrs. W. J. Turnage, and Mrs. S. F. Thornton.

Given candy for the largest number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren was Mrs. Ida Watson who had 27 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren. Mrs. R. E. Wilson, the youngest mother present and attending the party for the first time, was presented a box of candy.

One of the main events of the program was the awarding of a decorative cake to the oldest mother, Mrs. Mary V. Purser. Mrs. Purser is 92 years old. The cake was donated by Mrs. Morton's Bakery.

At the conclusion everyone was served ice cream donated by Carolina Dairy. Approximately 100 mothers attended the annual party.

CONSTIPATED?

New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE IT TO ACTION; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONOID, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONOID's great moisturiz-ing capacity, plus COLONOID's stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONOID is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy. Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONOID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions. It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONOID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! School Of Nursing At Crossroads

Fate of the proposal for a much-needed state-supported school of nursing for Eastern North Carolina will in all probability be decided this week by the Joint Appropriations Committee.

The decision which is made may affect the calibre of medical care available to the people of Eastern North Carolina for many years to come.

Unless the school is provided there is little promise that this section of the state can hope to have a sufficient number of nurses to staff its hospitals and afford home care for the ill. There is little hope that the number of hospital schools of nursing will increase in this area because of the critical shortage of qualified personnel to staff the hospitals and provide training for future nurses in addition to their other duties.

If the school is not provided as has been proposed, the already critical shortage of nurses in this area will become more acute in the years ahead. As more hospitals are built and others expanded, a greater number of nurses will be required in Eastern North Carolina. But how will they be provided without a school in this section to train them? Today's shortage of nurses in this area will be multiplied many times in the years to come.

A number of substitute methods have been proposed for coping with this critical shortage of nurses in Eastern North Carolina. There has been the suggestion that the $170,000 proposed for the new school during the next biennium be diverted to provide scholarships to state schools of nursing already in operation in other parts of the state. There has been the proposal that the money be used as a direct subsidy to hospital schools of nursing already in operation.

None of these alternate methods of using the funds will afford Eastern North Carolina the additional nurses it needs now and will need more acutely in the future. The state-supported school of nursing in this area will provide additional trained people to care for the sick, and will likewise be a source of personnel who later may train others in small hospital nursing schools which may grow up throughout this area. It will afford this training to young women at a price they can afford, and thus open the field of nursing to many young women of Eastern Carolina who now find it financially impossible to go to other parts of the state to attend schools of nursing. It will train nurses who will go back to their own communities to serve their people.

Eastern North Carolina must have more nurses if its people are to have adequate medical care. The General Assembly must provide funds for the proposed school of nursing in the area if the supply of new nurses is to be provided for Eastern North Carolina.

Hindsight Always Has Twenty-Twenty Vision

The storm of protest set off in the wake of comments by "Ike" and "Monty" on the Battle of Gettysburg is nothing more than might be expected when two great military leaders criticize the tactics employed by their peers of another century.

Looking over the battlefield at Gettysburg almost 100 years after the engagement of 1863, the military leaders of World War II arrived at the conclusion that both Gen. Lee and Gen. Meade blundered at Gettysburg and should have been relieved of their commands.

Hindsight is always 20-20. Foresight, more often than not, is not nearly that good. If Lee and Meade could have fought again the Battle of Gettysburg both of them probably would have done it differently and overcome some mistakes. If Eisenhower and Montgomery had to re-fight some of their battles of World War II, they would eliminate some of their blunders too.

Military leaders, like all other people, make mistakes. Some can be corrected on the spot. Others remain for the experts of a later century to pick to pieces and criticize.

Good Legislation And State Policy

By LYNN NISBET
STATE POLICY — Every once in awhile some item of really good legislation fails because it runs against State policy. Often times the policy is not clearly defined or well established as to specific subjects. It is consistent in its base, which is that the State is sovereign. That sovereignty extends to the kingly right to be inconsistent in details and to have frequent change of course.

State policy is that the General Assembly may not enact any special or local laws respecting the establishment of courts inferior to the Superior court or relating to the pay of jurors. Yet the statute books are full of laws that violate the spirit if not the letter of this constitutional provision.

State policy as set out in the constitution forbids special local acts relating to ferries or bridges and non-navigable streams. An act was passed two years ago dealing with the sanitation of Haw River by special designation. Some weeks ago an act passed the current session doing about the same thing to the Neuse river. But when effort was made to clean up the Tuckaseegee, State officials opposed it on the ground it was contrary to State policy as administered by the Stream Sanitation Commission.

The area affected by the Tuckaseegee bill is much smaller, more local, than that involved in the Haw and Neuse projects. The principle is essentially the same. All three were special bills affecting non-navigable streams. In face of prohibition against special acts extending the time for assessment of taxes, there have been a dozen or more bills this year authorizing specific counties to extend the time for the revaluation of property as required by general laws.

The most consistent thing about State policy on local legislation is its consistency.

DAMAGE CLAIMS — As a sovereign the State of North Carolina cannot be sued by one of its citizens without its consent, nor by another State or a foreign citizen except in Federal courts. It is also contrary to State policy to pay individual damages for property loss or personal injury by special legislative act.

There are general provisions for authorizing claims to be filed with the Industrial Commission under the Torts Claims Act. It then becomes the duty of the commission to determine how much if any damages should be paid. Also there are provisions for adjudicating property damage claims under general law, but none for legislative settlement of individual claims. A bill is now in the mill to make it much easier to recover from the highway commission for damages done by diverted water, by blanket consent to be sued in any court from JP up.

A good deal of publicity has been given the case of Seavy Cain, who asked $5,000 for serious injuries to himself, his wife and his mother, when he ran into an open ditch resulting from a heavy rain. The Industrial Commission decided that the State had no legal liability under the Torts act. A special bill was introduced to pay damages anyway. The committee gave it unfavorably report, on the ground that however meritorious the particular claim might be, to enact such a private law would completely destroy the effectiveness of the Torts Claims Act and violate State policy. It was not so much the merit or lack of it in the claim as the authority of precedent that led to turning it down.

Majority of the laws affecting appeals and transfer of cases in divorce, adoption, retirement, appeals and transfer of cases in court, are written to take care of individuals in particular situations. But they are phrased to make them apply to every other similar condition, and therefore are general rather than special local acts.

CAMPUS — During the inauguration ceremonies for President William Friday of the Consolidated University, Governor Hodges, President Friday and former President Frank Graham and Gordon Gray, several times referred to the "university of all the people."

Supporting that concept the historical pamphlet distributed to visitors portrayed the "campus" of the university on a double page map of North Carolina. Along with the main units at Chapel Hill, Greensboro and Raleigh, this map showed centers of activity in 28 counties—from Dare to Macon, from Beaufort Harbor to the top of Mount Mitchell. These centers include agriculture and biological research stations, art and drama schools, technical training institutes and other activities.

In addition to the direct personal contact between faculty members and people in the 35 centers owned or operated by the University, extension courses offered at all three main units put some facilities at every mail box in the state. Each of the 100 county seats has an office for a county farm and home agent representing the Agriculture Extension Service, a co-operative venture of State College and U.S. and N.C. Departments of Agriculture.

While the real value of some of the extension courses and research projects has been openly questioned, they are offered to citizens of North Carolina. Friday, Graham and Hodges were not just making words when they referred to the Consolidated University as the "university of the people."

An End To That Bland Flavor?

By ELMER ROESSNER
A preference for blandness dominates taste in America today, spoke J. Gordon Lippincott, nationally famous industrial and packaging designer.

And having spoken it, he promptly hedged the statement. Americans are showing signs of getting away from blandness, he added, and in that departure lie many opportunities for new products.

Mr. Lippincott's observations were made in connection with the first packaging research conference which the firm of Lippincott and Margulies is sponsoring in New York later this month. He is concerned about the mass taste because consumer packages must cater to it.

"I have tasted some wonderful soups in food laboratories," he said, "but you'll never find them on the shelves or in the freezer cabinets of the supermarkets. They have too much flavor. A specialty store might be able to sell an exotically flavored soup, but the chains must appeal to the lowest common denominator which, sadly, is blandness."

BLAND BREAD, PIZZAS
"The mass market demands bland bread sausages, bland vegetables. The mass market insists on bland movies, bland television shows. A Broadway show may deal with a daring theme, but not the mass media. They have to be bland."

"Wait a minute!" we said, trying not to be bland to his dissertation. "How about the fact that supermarkets have added pizza mixes and Chinese specialties?"

"The pizzas are bland pizzas," he said, "and the Chinese foods are bland. Even the chili con carne you find on supermarket shelves is bland."

"Check!" I said.
"Check!" said Ned Armstrong, who is promoting the packaging conference.

BLANDNESS THROUGH LIFE
"This desire for blandness extends far beyond the markets," said Mr. Lippincott. "The masses of Americans want to live in bland neighborhoods — quiet places where the people next door don't shout or throw noisy parties."

"The mass wants bland jobs. They want to work for big, safe corporations rather than with small, exciting companies that might make a million or go broke next week. The other day an 18-year-old girl, right out of stenography school, applied for a job. Her first question was, 'What is your pension plan?'"

The blandness, he said, also extends to the production of such products as cigarettes and soaps. Manufacturers emphasize their products are mild and gentle, and kind to the hands or throat, whatever the case may be. Furs and underwear must caress the user, not merely keep them warm, he added. Even liquors are advertised as "soothing" and some records as "Smooth."

"However, the very fact that supermarkets will dare to offer pizzas is an indication that the American mass taste is being broadened and that the public — at least a significant minority — is eager to experiment," Mr. Lippincott said. "The mass market demands bland coffee. But one roaster has brought out a sterner, more vigorous blend and, in so doing, has pre-empted a small but profitable section of the market."

"As American taste broadens — and it is broadening — there will be many opportunities for many new products appealing to the minority that wants to get away from eternal blandness."

Mr. Lippincott is a tall, gangling business executive with a smile that tempted your reporter, unbland and impudent, to ask on a wild guess, "And why were you kicked out of Yale?"

"It was Columbia and I wasn't kicked out of it, but the faculty disapproved of my running off to Europe with a jazz band for two months when I should have been bonding for my master's."

DISC JOCKEYS CAN ENTERTAIN, SAYS GOVERNMENT
When a disc jockey broadcasts from a restaurant, the cabaret tax applied if the patrons, as well as the radio audience, are entertained, the Internal Revenue Service has ruled. But if the platter spinner is off in a corner and bothering nobody, the tax does not seem to apply.

Back To His Anvil

By JOHN BECKLER
MALIBU, Calif. (AP)—On a huge blackened anvil in a drafty garage, sculptor Bernard Rosenthal is hammering out his future. An artist who works with heat and fire, he saw his past and the familiar shape of the present destroyed in the swirling flames that swept over Malibu last December.

The redwood-and-glass house and his wife, Halina, built on top of a hill looking out over the Pacific ocean is gone.

The studio in which he forged and welded the massive figures that have placed him in the front rank of American sculptors is gone.

The 43-year-old Chicago-born artist's abstract, symbolic figures are highly prized by architects as adornments to their contemporary structures, and by museum directors, critics and private collectors across the land. But others have been known to dissent.

Kindles Uproar
Perhaps best known is his 14-foot family group at the entrance to the strikingly designed police building in Los Angeles. It kindled a dispute in the city council, where such phrases as "we're people, not grasshoppers," and "send this thing to Russia," echoed for months.

The furor died when the laughter of the outside world filtered into the legislative chamber and when the statue was installed. The public found, as Rosenthal had said, that it was designed as part of the building, not as a park monument. It went with the building, enhanced it, and public acceptance has now grown to public approval.

Rosenthal received $10,000 for the police statue and $7,500 for the 15-foot sunburst mounted in the main lobby of the Beverly Hilton Hotel.

Among his other commissions is a 30-foot high group of African tribal figures entitled "Gold Coast," mounted on a swank Chicago apartment building.

For his exhibitions, which have been held in many of the major art museums and galleries in the country, he makes smaller, individual pieces.

Rosenthal works in the fashion of a blacksmith, heating his rich metals to softness and then shaping them. Some of his works take as long as two years to complete. The hilltop home he and his wife designed, which his friends judged to be equally a work of art, was nine years in the making.

They had only about 15 minutes to evacuate their burning place and were able to save only a few, oddly assorted things—shirts, a teapot, an old family Bible, a few books.

Many Works Lost
Rosenthal, who was working on sculpture for a show scheduled to open in New York in April, spent most of the few minutes they had juggling the finished and unfinished pieces of safety.

Many of his works, including two huge, prize-winning figures, were ruined. One that came through the fire intact was stolen in the looting that followed the blaze—along with 700 pounds of brass.

His New York show has been postponed until November and he is hard at work again, in the garage studio adjoining the house he rented.

Despite the loss of so many of his works, including all his wood carvings—the field in which he worked before turning to metal—Rosenthal is undismayed.

"I don't regret the things we lost," he said recently. "I've always felt I have so much ahead. What I miss most are my tools. I had some of those hammers 25 years."

Curiosity Still Unsated

by ALVIN TAYLOR

Ever so often I have occasion to enter the new telephone building on W. Fifth St.

After a couple of trips I became conscious of a little metal door on the right just outside the entrance.

What, I asked myself, would be behind that little metal door. Oh, well, I said. It's none of my business and I'm sure the phone company wouldn't appreciate me looking in the thing.

So I went on my way.

But such a thing is not easy to forget. The next trip to the building I caught sight of the thing out of the corner of my eye.

Why not look? A devilish little voice asked.

No, no, I said. It's none of my business why the telephone company saw fit to put a little metal door just outside the entrance.

I tore myself away and moved on inside.

This continued for several visits and each time that little voice became more insistent. Likewise each time it became more difficult to refrain from opening that door.

Finally on my last visit to the building that same little devilish voice appeared again urging me to look in that door.

Get thee away, I replied. It's not my business.

But, alas, on the way out it got me. I could no longer ignore the little voice. I rushed over to the metal door, grabbed the handle and yanked the door open!

What was inside? Nothing. Just an empty metal box built into the wall.

It's been a long time since I attended an old fashion church dinner but Sunday I had the pleasure of doing just that.

The ladies of Hollywood Presbyterian Church on the New Bern Highway had prepared enough food for a multitude and I was lucky enough to have been invited.

The big feed was a part of the church's 14th anniversary program and, though it wasn't planned that way, happily it fell on Mother's Day.

Each of the ladies had prepared generous amounts of food. They spread it along picnic tables located alongside the neat brick rural church and everyone helped themselves.

Don't know whose it was but that was a scrumptious piece — well, two pieces — of chicken I ate, and that deviled egg — oops four of them, was out of this world. Too, the helping of potato salad — maybe it was two helpings — was mighty good, too.

You can't beat that slice of chocolate cake — lost count here — that I had.

Changing the subject I notice I've picked up a few pounds. Just can't see why I'm gaining weight.

Other Editors Saying --- As We See Each Other

(Washington Daily News)

The average Western European might look upon the average American as a man apt to be flighty, uncultured, and even crude to a certain extent.

At the same time the average American European as ailing, lazy, impractical, and ungrateful.

It all depends upon the point of view. We understand that in the world's social scale of today, incomes take on more importance than the positions being filled. For example, the American clerk will make far more money than the European clerk. The American clerk might make as much as the supervisor in Europe. Then instead of clerks associating with clerks, the American clerk would have a tendency under normal conditions to associate with the European supervisor. But the European is very class conscious, and he resents such an affront.

The average European might see in the average American a man who can make a lot of money because he has unlimited opportunities at his fingertips. At the same time the American will point to the fact that in Europe there are many natural resources, high educational opportunities, great culture, and yet the hand is always out to Uncle Sam for a little help. It is then that the American asks "If you are so smart, why aren't you rich?"

The American than looks toward the laborer of Europe and says, "He is irresponsible." Then he goes into a tirade about production, practical living, and the like.

What neither of us seems to consider is this matter of heritage. Neither do we consider customs which have been handed down from generation to generation. What means a great deal to an American seems all too often to mean very little to the European. And each of us fails to understand the thinking of the other. And it seems that neither of us is really willing to be as tolerant toward the other as world conditions would dictate.

Social conditions are different. Americans tend to irk the Europeans through our "hale-well-me!" tactics. Europeans tend to be more reserved, and cling to a class consciousness based on heritage.

What does it all add up to? The answer seems rather simple on the surface. It adds up to a continual misunderstanding of the true purposes of life in each area.

There seems to be one thing on which Europeans and Americans agree emphatically. American leaders agree that we should keep giving away our tax dollars to countries of Europe. And European countries agree that they should keep right on accepting our dollars and even begging for them. So there is general agreement in the higher circles on that point.

What we seem to need is a realization that we need each other in all matters pertaining to world problems and world conditions. It should be a position of mutual understanding. And the emphasis should be on accord between us. We need to forget petty differences in matters which are of the surface variety.

More For The American Dollar

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—The cost of living is not much higher today than it was before World War II, in view of the time and money-saving devices that have lifted American standards to undreamed-of levels. These gains can be measured in actual dollars and cents, according to government experts on human living. They disagree entirely with the slide-rule economists who warn of a depression that "will curl your hair."

They hope that the House Agriculture Subcommittee, which is headed by Representative Victor L. Anfuso, the Brooklyn farmer, will include these factors in its current investigation of living costs. The picture, and that, a dark and distorted canvas.

FAMILIES NOW GETTING MORE FOR THEIR MONEY
According to this theory, it is not only the customers' demand for grocery parking lots, trading stamps and luxuriously packaged goods that have boosted all retail prices.

American families are getting more for their money on every product they buy, from vegetables to television sets and automobiles. They actually save money in the long run, when the advantages in human comfort, leisure, health and enjoyment are weighed against their investment in living.

It will require a more authoritative body than a Congressional Committee to study and explore all the implications of the post-war revolution in living costs and standards.

Chairman Anfuso should call as witnesses some of the unknown and minor officials from Agriculture, Commerce, the Public Health Service and the Bureau of Standards. If he wishes to present a true balance sheet of American life today.

EXAMPLES OF REVOLUTION IN LIVING However, a few examples will suffice to explain and even to itemize this theory:

An electric icebox, for instance, costs about $400, as against $50 for the old-fashioned wooden thing of long ago. But the operational cost will run about $1 a month instead of $8 to $12 for melting ice. And there is no comparison between the service rendered—ice cubes versus icebergs.

With the modern equipment, however, the housewife can buy prepared foods of all kinds, obtaining them at bargain sales and preserving them in her freezer. She can prepare meals in minutes instead of hours. Instead of a winter diet of foot foods—potatoes, turnips, beets, carrots—which will have lost their vitamin content from long storage, a family enjoys the finest and freshest of nutritious vegetables every month in the year.

Both greater leisure and possible longevity, two of life's most valuable assets, result. Other contributions to ease and enrichment of living are all the other seemingly expensive household appliances—electric vacuum cleaners, washing machines, mechanical dishwashers.

ALMOST MAIDLESS ECONOMY. Thanks to these gadgets, the United States has become almost finger out of the education pie."

WEST BRANCH, IOWA, TIMES: "From the 'WHAT'S NEW DEPT.' Ready-to-eat meat that you can warm for serving without a stove or fire; pull a tab on the box and a chemical heats it up."

Opinions In Brief

RIVERTON, WYO., RANGER: "The states and the local school districts are doing a much better job building schools than the Federal government ever thought they could. . . . We have the wherewithal, the knowledge, the local control over our American schools. Let's keep Washington's a maidless economy. And maids now earn from $30 to $40 a week at Washington for an eight-hour day. Their salary, allowing for other costs, exceeds in a year the investment in all these maid-saving devices. And that is without allowance for the value of a housewife's time!

Television and radio sets come high for their initial cost, although they last for several years. But the money saved in 12 months on free home viewing of World Series and Bowl Games, the best of actors and actresses, operatic stars, educational and travel films more than balances the expenditure. Broadway has been brought to Main Street.

Automobiles are costly. But the shift to pleasant and healthful suburban living makes them a relatively inexpensive form of transportation. Without them, there could be no eight-hour day or five-day week, or the extended vacations which contribute so much to national unity.

These are only a few of the actual dollars-and-cents benefits of the economic revolution which no mere Congressional inquiry can measure.

May Clear Billy Mitchell's Name

WASHINGTON (AP) — Billy Mitchell's name may yet be cleared — by the separate Air Force on behalf of which the Army convicted him of insubordination. The Air Force announced last night that the former Army brigadier general, who died 21 years ago, will be given a retrial this week of the charges against him. The closed hearing will be before the Air Force Board for Correction of Military Records. The board's recommendation would go to Secretary of the Air Force James H. Douglas, who would have authority, if he chose, to toss out the court-martial conviction returned by nine Army generals in 1925.

After serving as Air Force commander during World War I, Mitchell spoke out sharply, and publicly, in the postwar years, charging incompetency and inefficiency in the Army and Navy air services. Among other things, he called for a separate air force, which was established after World War II.

But at the time he was arguing, most military men disagreed with his views. He was charged and convicted not for the views he held but for advocating them publicly.

After his conviction on insubordination charges, he chose to resign rather than be suspended from his Army rank.

A formal request for a review was filed by Mitchell's son William Mitchell Jr. The son presumably will appear before the board to plead in his father's behalf.

A spokesman said the board also could consider any errors of record, and the emotional climate of the period in which Mitchell was tried.

Sees Life-Span Over 125 Years

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Edward L. Bortz, former president of the American Medical Assn., believes man in the future may attain a life-span of 125 to 150 years.

Saying that many doctors "shun the aged," he called on medical science to "energetically promote the health potentials" of such persons.

Bortz, chief of the medical services of the Lankenau Hospital, Philadelphia, predicted a "fantastic future" in which medical science will discover the barriers to healthy aging and overcome many of the present problems of tissue death.

Leonard L. Charles, 25, Sandra was arrested May 3 with four other persons in a raid on a Hollywood apartment.

She told newsmen she dropped concert work in 1952 and turned to jobs in night clubs and on television. She said she purchased the codeine on a prescription and was using it to keep her weight down.

Housewife Tried Keep The Money

DALLAS (AP)—Deliveryman Joe Cicero dropped off some groceries at a home while on his way to the bank with a $250 deposit. Police were called after he discovered he had tucked the bank bag in the grocery order and the housewife refused to return the money.

Detectives found the bank bag stuffed with the money, in a backyard hutch between two gray rabbits. The housewife was arrested on a charge of theft.

Family Sticking To Police Career

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Gramkes are a family of cops. Sgt. Joseph B. Gramke, with 30 years on the Cincinnati police force, is the head man. Then follows his two sons, Patrolmen Ralph Gramke and Joseph Gramke, with six and nine years' service respectively.

Gerald R. Gramke, another son, hopes to be with pop and his brothers soon. He began a 15-week training period at the Police Academy recently.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT
 We, the members of the Ellington Bible Class of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church wish to pay tribute to our recently deceased fellow-member and friend, J. Carroll Waldrop.

For the past twenty-four years he was a faithful and loyal member of our class, having at one time served as President. At the time of his passing away he was the Secretary.

Last Voyage For A Former Queen

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—There was a bit of sadness when the SS Matsonia left here on her last voyage.

Once queen of the Pacific tourist trade, the Matsonia carried thousands of troops in two world wars before being berthed with the idle fleet in the James River.

The last voyage was to Baltimore where the Bethlehem Steel Corp. will junk her.

But enroute she passed at her birthplace, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, a new Matsonia under construction. The new ship will have room for 761 first class passengers when she enters the Hawaiian service June 11.

From Concerts To Court Case

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Hollywood Bowl as a concert violinist at the age of 6, Carnegie Hall for her New York debut at 7, and in court on a narcotics charge at 24.

That's the story of pretty Sandy Moore Mazelle, who must appear in Superior Court May 27 to answer a charge of giving a codeine preparation to her escort, Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church had an important place in the life of Mr. Waldrop. He was regular in attendance, faithfully, quietly and efficiently doing whatever task was set before him. He was always in place each Sunday morning as an Usher.

Ellington Bible Class has lost a faithful member, a good friend, whose loyalty, tireless efforts and years of willing service will ever be treasured by those whose privilege it was to know him through the years. Truly it can be said of him that he was a "Christian Gentleman."

Therefore, we, the members of the Ellington Bible Class of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church of Greenville, North Carolina do hereby present the following resolutions:

First, that our class has lost a faithful and devoted member and that in his passing the membership has lost a loving and helpful friend;

Second, that we extend our heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved family and commend them to our Heavenly Father, who can give them comfort in their great sorrow and loss;

Third, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family; to the North Carolina Christian Advocate; to the Daily Reflector and a copy be placed in the official minutes of the Ellington Bible Class.

Mercury sets the pace at 1957 Indianapolis 500-mile race

...sets the pace in size and style

sets a record for low-cost luxury

The choice of Mercury to pace the Indianapolis Classic dramatizes the fact that The Big M is the new yardstick of your money's worth.

In size, Mercury brings you the biggest size increase in the industry—more room and comfort in every important dimension.

In styling, only Mercury offers you Dream-Car Design. Here's completely different styling, shared with no other car.

In ride, only Mercury offers you Floating Ride—the most effective combination of bump-smothering features ever put between you and the road.

In performance, Mercury leads with the highest standard compression in its field, highest torque for regular production engines.

Yet never has so much bigness and luxury cost so little! The Big M is priced an easy step above the low-priced three. No wonder Mercury is setting the pace everywhere for style, size, performance, luxury—and value! Why not stop in at our showroom today?

G-Men Play Final Home Game Tonight At Stadium

Hudson Miller, veteran right-hander on the Greenville high school baseball team, will knuckle down to the task of facing Jacksonville's Cardinals tonight at Guy Smith Stadium.

It will be the final home game of the year for the Phantoms and a regularly-scheduled Northeastern Conference contest. Friday night, the G-Men will journey to Kinston for the last game of the year with the league-leading Red Devils.

Miller, who was a regular with the Phantoms two years ago but who did not play this past season, has already defeated the Jacksonville nine once this year. He hurled a 5-4 win over the Cards at Jacksonville.

In that earlier contest, Coach Boley Farley had to relieve Miller in the fifth inning. Tonight, in case relief work is needed, Farley will have Charles Staton and Ronnie Finch ready.

Tickets At Gate
Tickets for the game will be sold at the gate and play will begin at 8:00. Proceeds from the encounter are to be used toward improving the grim baseball situation at the high school. Greenville's baseball situation has been financially bad for some years and this year, after securing new uniforms and equipment, funds are again exhausted.

The Phantoms are in debt, mostly due to the fact that no admission is charged to their baseball games. Contests heretofore have been played at Brookgreen Field. Tonight's game will be "the first time in over 10 years that we've charged admission for a game," according to Farley.

With a 6-4 record in Northeastern Conference play and their earlier 5-4 victory over Jacksonville, the Phantoms are expected to have a slight edge tonight. Jacksonville's club, in the stage of rebuilding, is an unpredictable unit that is capable of winning or losing tonight. Cardinal pitching has not been particularly strong this year, but occasional flashes of powerful hitting has made them a threat.

Expected to start for Greenville are Dick Evans or Joe Moyer at first base; Mack Roebuck at second base; Billy Cox at shortstop; Walker Lee Allen at third base; Joe Wingate, Bobby Edwards and Charles Smith in the outfield; Angus Duff behind the plate.

Braves Hunt For Needed Hitters

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The question most asked in this baseball hotbed is how long can the Milwaukee Braves remain strong pennant contenders with four leftfielders who have a combined batting average of .163?

Chuck Tanner, the current tenant in the position, is hitting .192. Bobby Thomson, before he was benched, had a mark of .156. Wes Covington and Andy Pafko, used mainly as pinch hitters, each is hitting .143.

Asked whether he had any trade nibbles during his just concluded 18-day road trip, General Manager John Quinn replied:

"I think I talked with everybody, but there is nothing brewing. There's still time. The trading deadline is June 15."

"When you look over the list of right-handed-hitting left fielders," he said, "not many are available. At least not the ones you'd like. They're just not for trade."

Quinn said Frank Thomas of Pittsburgh, Willie Mays of New York, Rip Repulski, of Philadelphia and Del Ennis of St. Louis were in this category. Thomas often was mentioned in trade rumors involving the Braves, especially last winter.

Quinn was asked if he thought the Braves' flag chances would be in jeopardy if they didn't come up with at least a 280 hitter in the position and he answered:

"Sometimes a player's batting average doesn't mean everything. He must hit in important runs for you to have value. Those are the things you have to evaluate. Some are better with men on base. . ."

Dressen Accepts Front Office Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—Talkative Charley Dressen would have voiced several versions of "crazy" to describe anyone who might have predicted eight days ago that he'd soon be off the diamond and in a front office baseball job.

But that's just where he is—as assistant to the president of the Washington Senators.

The 58-year-old Dressen accepted the post yesterday under a contract extending through 1959 at an undisclosed salary.

Dressen's willingness to move upstairs surprised some who thought he'd rebel at the thought of shedding a uniform after 33-plus seasons as player, coach and manager. And Dressen wouldn't say he has stepped into the business side of the game permanently.

However, he appeared his usual cheerful self in telling reporters he believes he can do the last place Senators "a lot of good" in the new capacity.

Club president Calvin Griffith, who fired Dressen as field manager one week ago today, said the chubby little veteran would spend his time "searching for players throughout the United States."

Dressen will lack the power of a general manager, and Griffith and new manager Cookie Lavagetto will have to stamp approval on any deal he works out. But it will be up to Dressen to scare up talent for the club that hasn't breathed first division air at the end of any season since 1956.

Dressen will concentrate on other major league teams and those in the higher minor classifications. He'll also negotiate with prospective traders.

Greenville's Heavy Hitter

WALKER LEE ALLEN, senior third baseman for Greenville high school's baseballers, is hitting a hefty 375 to pace his club at bat. Allen and his mates will tangle with Jacksonville tonight under the lights at Guy Smith Stadium in their final home game of the season. Greenville is currently in second place in the Northeastern Conference race with a 6-4 mark. Above, he waits his turn at bat in a recent game. (Reflector Sports Photo by Billy Arnold).

Lavagetto Enjoys Second Straight Win By Senators

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press

Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto, the major leagues' newest and least envied manager, was enjoying his biggest winning streak today — two in a row with the cellar-warming Washington Senators.

That's quite an achievement for a fellow who took over a team in the midst of a 10-game losing streak only last week.

The Senators won the rubber of their three-game series from the Red Sox 5-3 last night. It was the only game played in the majors. Big Ted Abernathy and little Herbie Plews led the Senators to victory. The 215-pound, 6-4 pitcher, permitted only four hits and struck out four in posting his first victory after three defeats this season. The 5-10, 150-pound Plews rapped a double and two singles and drove in two runs to lead the eight-hit attack against loser Willard Nixon and two relievers.

After yielding a home run to Billy Klaus, the second man he faced, Abernathy surrendered only one hit—Dick Gernert's infield single off his leg in the fourth—until Boston broke through for two hits and two runs.

The victory gave Lavagetto a record of 3-3 since he succeeded Chuck Dressen May 7. That's a spectacular pace compared with the team's 4-16 mark under Dressen.

In contrast to last night, a full schedule was in prospect today with six of the eight games to be played under the lights. Most of the attention will be focused on Cincinnati, where the Redlegs will try to extend their winning streak to 13 straight. Philadelphia and rookie Don Cardwell (2-0) offer the opposition.

Warren Hacker (3-1) has been named by Manager Birdie Tebbets.

The Milwaukee Braves, tied for the National League lead with Cincinnati, will be host to Brooklyn tonight.

Pittsburgh plays at Chicago and New York at St. Louis.

First place also will be at stake in the American League. The Chicago White Sox, leading New York by half a game, go into Washington while the Yankees are hosts to Kansas City. Cleveland, a game and a half behind the pace, are guests of Baltimore while Detroit visits Boston.

Snead Practices On Home Course For Next Tourney

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Sam Snead was out on his home course yesterday, "scrapin' around" as the Slamper often calls it.

His practice round of 64 on the par-70 Old White course was just three strokes over the competitive record of 61 set by Ed (Porky) Oliver in the 1952 $10,000 White Sulphur Open.

Two other golfers warming up for the annual tournament opening here Thursday shot sub-par golf. Identical 69s were carded by Ben Hogan and Henry Cotton, former three-time British Open champion.

Snead shot a 60 here in 1950 but not in tournament play.

Oliver is defending champion in this year's tournament, now called the Sam Snead Festival. The new name was announced yesterday to commemorate Snead's years as pro at the Greenbrier.

Begin Play

1957 play in the Greenville Little League begins tomorrow afternoon at Elm Street Park, where the VFW and the Lions tangle in a North State League tilt.

Ceremonies will take place immediately before the ball game and a dinner (plate-lunch style) will also be on tap for the afternoon's activities. Money earned by the chicken dinner will go toward financing the League's this summer.

The Exchange Club and the Moose team will meet Thursday afternoon in the first game of the Tar Heel League. Game time is set for 5:00.

Expect End To Open Road Race

ROME (AP)—The probability loomed today that all open road automobile racing — including the Mille Miglia, "the race of blood and 7,000 curves" — would be prohibited in Italy. A mounting wave of indignation was sweeping the country.

Politicians, newspapers and the man in the street still were talking about the tragic accident in Sunday's Mille Miglia which took 13 lives and brought the toll of the race to 29 dead and 30 injured in two years.

While the Italian government studied what action to take, the annual Sardinian International Trophy Race, scheduled for May 26, was called off.

In Sunday's race, Spanish sportsman Alfonso De Portago, who has spent his life flirting with death, was killed along with Edmund Nelson, his American copilot, when their Ferrari blew a tire and smashed into a crowd, injuring 10 persons fatally. They were in third place at the time.

Another driver was killed in a separate accident.

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Wilson, veteran righthander of the Chicago White Sox, and Clem Labine, Brooklyn's ace reliever, hold the major leagues' earned run lead after four weeks of the 1957 baseball season.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press showed today that Wilson paces the American League with a 1.32 average. He has yielded only five earned runs in 34 innings while winning three games and losing one. Jim has pitched two shutouts, against Kansas City and Boston.

Wilson, 35, finished with a 4.23 era last season when he compiled a 13-14 record. He also has worked for Boston, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Baltimore in the American league and Boston and Milwaukee in the National. With Milwaukee on June 12, 1954 he had a no-hit, no-run game against the Phillies.

Labine has appeared in 11 games, all in relief. He tops the National League with a 1.86 era on six earned runs in 29 frames. Clem has won two games, lost none and saved three others.

Johnny Podres, also of the Dodgers, is runnerup to Labine with a 1.95 earned run mark. The 24-year-old lefthander, who spent last season in the Navy, has yielded eight earned runs in 37 frames and compiled a 2-2 won-lost record. Both of his victories were shutouts.

Dr. Carl Adams Retiring From Staff Of College

Dr. Carl L. Adams, director of the department of psychology at East Carolina College and a member of the faculty since 1924, will retire as a member of the college staff in June, according to an announcement by the college administration.

As an expression of appreciation of his work at the college, faculty members of his department entertained at a dinner in his honor Friday night. The occasion also served as a celebration of Dr. Adams' birthday on Saturday.

Guests included members of the department of education at the college, of which Dr. Adams served as director for a number of years. Mrs. Adams, husbands and wives of the staff members who were present and others. Dr. Hazel Taylor, director of testing at East Carolina, acted as mistress of ceremonies.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, vice president and dean of instruction of the college, expressed to Dr. Adams the appreciation of the college administration for his "long and valuable service to East Carolina College and for his outstanding contributions to the development of the institution."

Other speakers of the occasion included Dr. Clinton Prewett, Dr. Judson White, and Dr. Hubert Hayes of the faculty.

Dr. Taylor announced that as a years, Mrs. Adams, husbands and wives of the staff members and of the high esteem in which he is held by his colleagues a loan fund has been begun by those who have been closely associated with him in the psychology department. The fund will be called the Carl L. Adams Loan Fund and will be used in future for the benefit of students at East Carolina College, particularly those specializing in childhood education.

Dr. Adams has been a faculty member at East Carolina for the past thirty-three years. During this period he served for a time as director of both the education and the psychology departments and for the past eight years he has headed the department of psychology.

DR. CARL ADAMS

As a member of the college staff, Dr. Adams has served on many committees of the faculty. He was first chairman of the High School Day committee and for several years headed the Athletics committee. He is now a member of the Policies committee, made up of heads of departments and members of the college administration.

According to present plans, Dr. Adams will continue his connection with East Carolina as director of the newly organized Child Care Clinic.

Find Wreckage Of Lost Airliner

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—Ground parties today will attempt to reach the area near the summit of 7,970-foot Mt. Slesse, 70 miles east of here where part of the wreckage of a Trans-Canada Air Line North Star was found yesterday.

The plane is the one which carried 62 persons to their deaths in a raging snow storm last Dec. 9. The disaster was the worst commercial air accident in Canadian history.

A portion of the wreckage of the big plane was found by two Vancouver mountain climbers who took a wrong turn in heavy clouds as they were scaling Mt. Slesse. Later yesterday air searchers sighted the wreckage.

Robby Wells, a veteran pilot of Cascade Aircraft Co., Chilliwack, B. C., reported flying within 50 feet of the wreck. He said the big North Star plane which carried its 59 passengers and 3 crew members to their deaths struck 50 feet from the summit of the mountain.

The North Star had taken off from Vancouver on its eastbound flight but the pilot radioed he was turning back 100 miles east of Vancouver because of engine trouble. Nothing was heard from the plane after that message.

Wells said the plane probably had been forced lower than the pilot realized by the storm.

'Cheap Divorce' Will Be Expensive

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Veda Ann Borg, who testified last week that her husband told her he didn't care how she got a divorce, so long as it was cheap, got one yesterday. And it wasn't cheap.

The husband she shed was director Andrew McLaglen, 37, son of actor Victor McLaglen.

Judge Burnett Wolfson confirmed a settlement that will give the 37-year-old actress $4,042 to complete payments on her new home, plus $390 in alimony, plus $100 a month for support of their 2-year-old son, plus 15 per cent of his earnings over $1,400 a month—to be paid into a trust fund for the child—plus 15 per cent of any gifts or inheritances, also to be paid into the trust fund.

Dr. Alfred Burger To Speak At Chemical Society's Ladies Night

Dr. Alfred Burger, Professor of Chemistry at the University of Virginia, will speak at the annual Ladies Night Meeting of the Eastern North Carolina Section of the American Chemical Society.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. on May 15, in the Library at East Carolina College. Dinner will be served to members and guests at 6:30 p.m. in the college cafeteria.

Dr. Burger will speak on the Chemotherapy of Leukemia and Cancer. He will give an account of the methods used in chemotherapy of neoplastic diseases, and of the successes, failures and problems in these researches.

Dr. Burger was born and educated in Vienna, Austria, receiving his Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Vienna. After his graduation he was associated with the Hoffman-La-Roche Company in Germany. In 1929 he joined the staff of the Drug Addition Laboratory at the University of Virginia as a Research Associate and in 1938 he was appointed Professor of Chemistry at the University of Virginia. His principal field of research has been medicinal chemistry. In addition to numerous journal articles, he is also the author of a textbook, "Medicinal Chemistry."

The business meeting will feature the installation of the chairman-elect, Dr. Robert E. Kitson, who will receive the gavel from retiring chairman, Dr. John V. Flanagan.

The Twin Cities Chorus, of St. Paul-Minneapolis, recently asked if anyone would donate a piano. They were given an upright weighing 1,100 pounds. The donor confessed he couldn't fit the piano through the front door of his new home.

College Geography Dept. Rates High In Enrollment

East Carolina College ties with the University of Washington for third place among the nation's colleges and universities in number of students enrolled in courses in geography during the 1956-57 school year, according to the Directory of College Geography in the United States, a recent 1957 publication.

A total of 2350 students were members of classes taught in the ECC department of geography during this period. This is approximately 350 greater than reported during the year 1955-56, when ECC ranked fifth in the nation.

East Carolina's total is exceeded only by Ohio State, with 4747 students, and the University of California at Los Angeles, with 3919 students. The local department is primarily for undergraduates, while the larger universities have extensive graduate programs.

Here in North Carolina the local department is followed in number of geography students by North Carolina College at Durham, with 1661, and Appalachian State Teachers College, with 874. Of the 54 colleges and universities reporting in North Carolina, geography is taught in 47. The State of North Carolina ranked sixth in the nation in the number of geography students in institutions of higher learning.

The East Carolina department of geography is developing rapidly its undergraduate program, according to Dr. P. W. Picklesimer, director. In addition to new equipment and a broader offering in courses, the department's staff has

Homemade Boats Strand Sixteen

TIMMINS, Ont. (AP)—Sixteen persons who set out to test two homemade boats have been returned to Timmins after spending a night marooned on an island in Lake Kenogami.

The boats swamped in shallow water, but the men, women and children aboard managed to drag them to the island.

A search began Sunday night when the wife of one of the expedition members called the police. The boats were found on the island, 15 miles from Timmins, yesterday.

SERVED BY CAROLINA TELEPHONE

A ringing example of the increasing importance of rapid, dependable telephone service is reflected by Wilson's 105 per cent gain in telephones during the past ten years. In 1946, Wilson had 3,718 telephones. Today Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company is serving Wilson with fast and reliable service with more than 7,700 telephones.

In meeting the demand for expanded service, Carolina Telephone has increased its investment for plant and central office facilities in Wilson from $571,681.00 in 1946 to $2,412,248.00 in 1956... an investment increase of 322 per cent during the ten year period. Aside from capital investment, the telephone company's annual payroll in Wilson approximates $250,000.00.

Responsible for the operation of the telephone company's intricate automatic dial equipment, switchboards, lines, plant and commercial office in Wilson are some 90 members of the Carolina Telephone service team. They, along with approximately 2,000 other members of the telephone company family throughout Eastern Carolina have but one purpose: to build efficient and appreciated telephone service at the lowest possible cost.

AMMONIUM NITRATE FERTILIZER 33.5% NITROGEN

SAVES YOU ALMOST 1/3

AMMO-NITE—with 33.5% Nitrogen—contains more than twice as much N as 16% Nitrogen materials. So by using "hard-working" AMMO-NITE, and liming occasionally, at a small cost, you get a better fertilizer that saves you money and work! See how you save in the chart below.

Based on a use of 2,000 lbs. of actual Nitrogen, here's a cost comparison example of AMMO-NITE (33.5%) and 16% Nitrogens.

	For 2,000 lbs. actual N you need	Cost	YOU SAVE
16% Nitrogen	12,496 lbs.	$374.88 (@ $60 ton)*
AMMO-NITE (33.5% Nitrogen)	5,968 lbs.	$262.56 (@ $88 ton)*	$112.32

Rae Foley's new mystery novel RUN FOR YOUR LIFE

CHAPTER 21

Dr. Evans leaned back in a worn leather chair and beamed at Mr. Potter. "Just what have you come for, young man? Gunshot wound? Your fingertips removed painlessly, perhaps?"

Mr. Potter grinned at him and explained what he wanted.

Dr. Evans took off his glasses and polished them thoughtfully. "You do," he remarked, "get yourself mixed up in the darnedest things. Who is the Pendleton girl's physician? Do you happen to know?"

"A Boston man, Dr. Jonas Ruyssdahl. He was worried enough to fly down in the night to see that Nora was kept quiet."

"Ruyssdahl. I know him. He was one of my students when I was teaching at Cornell. He is only forty now but right at the top of his field. Jonas was always a very fast man on his feet."

"What is his field?"

"Nervous disorders." After a moment Dr. Evans said, "Well, that's what you've been driving at, isn't it?"

Mr. Potter was not happy. "I suppose it is. Do you think you could find out something on Nora's medical history from him?"

"It's highly improbable," Dr. Evans admitted. "It would require a lot of tact and finesse."

"But!"

Dr. Evans twinkled at him. "Well, Ruyssdahl is one of those ambitious guys. I was just thinking—" He got up and lumbered across the room to his desk. He looked through some letters, brought one back to Mr. Potter, whose eyebrows shot up in astonishment when he saw the crest.

"Royalty, no less."

Dr. Evans nodded. "This is hush-hush, of course. He's coming here for treatment. The papers mustn't get a rumor, not a hint. This," he tapped the letter, "is very flattering and all that, but I'm retiring the first of the year. Oh, I may do more teaching but no more practice. And this would be a long process. I was just thinking that Ruyssdahl would give a lot to have him

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

"What's his real name?" Collinge grinned. "I'm afraid he's not a very convincing tutor."

"How did he persuade a man of your reputation to write that reference?"

"He said it was for a gag. That's all I know."

"Who is he, Collinge?"

"He's an old friend. A real nice guy. This sort of thing doesn't sound like him but I was willing to go along. That's all I can tell you."

"What's his real profession?" Collinge shook his head.

Mr. Potter said slowly, "This is not a play. It is a murder case. Yesterday, there was one murder to solve; tonight, there are two. Two dead women. One of a handful of people killed them both, and right there, slap up in the middle of the picture, stands a man who is using a false name and a false profession, a man who knew both women."

"I don't know what in blazes you're talking about," Collinge admitted frankly. "But don't be afraid of boring me. You are leading up to a good first-act curtain."

"A third-act curtain," Mr. Potter said grimly.

Collinge laughed. "Let's cut it out, shall we? Why do you really want to know about Tom?"

"That's really why."

Some of the amusement faded out of the playwright's face. "You mean he is actually tied up with murder? Don't be ridiculous. Who was killed, anyhow?"

"The last one — so far," Mr. Potter said ominously, "was a Mrs. Olive Riddle."

"Never heard of her."

"The other was a commercial artist named Candida Kendrick."

Collinge had lifted a forkful of chicken Tetrazzini but he put it back on his plate, his eyes never leaving Mr. Potter's face. "Oh hell," he said softly. He pushed back his chair. "Excuse me a moment."

Sitting with his back to the room Mr. Potter did not know where Collinge had gone. But when a quarter of an hour had passed, he knew that he was not coming back.

Nora's nurse, Garry, has a confession to make. Continue "Run for Your Life" in this newspaper tomorrow.

Mr. Potter settled down for a club sandwich and a bottle of ale. The young playwright devoted himself to his meal, casting quick, appraising glances at Mr. Potter.

Collinge said abruptly, "I gathered from your telephone call you are checking up on my reference for Tom Jones. What's wrong? Is he in trouble?"

"I hope not. Let's quit sparring with one another, shall we? This isn't a game, you know."

"You might give me a hint. Tom's a good guy. I don't know what he's up to but I certainly don't intend to foul him up."

Little Helper To The Rescue

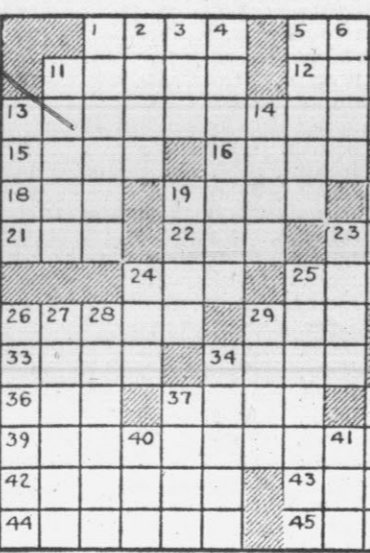

MCALISTER, OKLA. (AP) — Three-year-old Chris Long, clad only in her nightgown and barefooted, dashed through a rainstorm into a shop and asked for aid.

"I've locked my mother in a closet and can't get her out," she cried.

Mrs. Herbert Aston, a clerk, rushed to the house. Sure enough, Mrs. Shirley Long was trapped in the closet.

Listener Notes Weather Talk Is Pretty Boring

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (P)—What do people talk about in elevators? The weather, and it gets pretty boring, says Harry Sciotti, Municipal Building elevator operator.

Nobody is original in their discourses on weather, he says. So yesterday he produced this chart of things people said in his elevator in one day and how many times it was said:

"Boy, it's hot."—14 times.

"Pretty warm"—11 times.
"We're sweating it out today."—2 times.
"Good day for the beach."—22 times.
"We sure need rain."—13 times.
"Hottest day of the year."—6 times.
"It's the humidity."—5 times.
"I can hardly breathe."—2 times.

The Strife is Over, the Battle Won

To many parents, friends and relatives, next month means graduation.

We mention this at this particular time because a camera makes an ideal graduation gift—and one that will be especially appreciated if you present it before graduation. That way your son, daughter, or young friend can record special events that occur before the Big Day.

And whether your graduate is just finishing grammar school, high school, or college, we have a gift camera that's "just right" for him. For the younger set, a Brownie Hawkeye Flash Outfit gives a thrilling start on a lifetime hobby. It comes complete with Hawkeye Camera, Flashboard, flashbulbs, batteries and film.

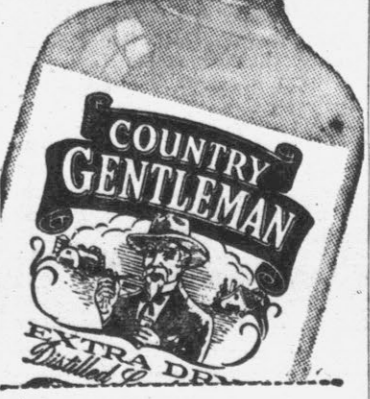

For the high or college grad, we suggest you consider the Kodak Signet 40 Camera. Here is a precision miniature with a fine f3.5 lens that takes professional quality color slides. Comes complete with 2-reflector flash system.

We have a complete line of cameras and outfits that make memorable graduation gifts for all ages. We'd be happy to make suggestions and help you select a gift camera, so stop in and see us soon.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices turned irregular in heavy trading early this afternoon. A strong upsurge at the start was accompanied by a late ticker tape which fell behind by five minutes in reporting the initial wave of buying.

Renewed interest in the market was reported by Wall Street observers following yesterday's action when the previous 1957 highs in various averages were smashed.

The averages were depressed by a good number of stocks selling ex-dividend. Overall, plenty of strength was shown as key stocks rose fractions to a point or more. Declines were posted in about the same range.

Missouri Pacific rose around a point as its annual meeting was held to expect higher revenues this year. U.S. Hoffman Machinery advanced a point or so as a top-level reorganization of the firm was announced. Boeing was in active demand and up more than a point on reports that the Air Force will place limited production orders for Boeing's anti-aircraft guided missile.

Bath Iron works added around 2. U.S. Rubber and Olin Mathieson more than a point each.

St. Joseph Lead dropped around 2. Gulf Oil about 4. Losses of a point or so were taken by Southern Railway, Johns-Manville and United Aircraft.

United Cigar-Whelan rose 3/4 to 6 on two blocks of 5,000 shares. High-priced International Business Machines showed a net loss of around 3 after an early rise. Western Maryland Railway was up around a point. U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Du Pont and American Telephone were fractionally higher.

Among the plants visited were the Westinghouse plant in Raleigh. With the information obtained the committee plans to contact industries in the city and county to determine the interest in making the needed products.

Bloxam also expressed the opinion that the progress made toward getting natural gas would act as a stimulus for industrial development.

Bloxam reported that the Industrial Committee's sub-committee is working with the Merchants' Association to make plans for display of "Made in Greenville" products in City Hall.

T. J. Williams Dies Early Today

GRIFTON — Thurman J. Williams, prominent Pitt County businessman, died at 12:20 a.m. today after suffering a heart attack a short time earlier. He was 52.

Mr. Williams was chairman of the Board of Trustees of Pitt County Memorial Hospital and headed the firm of J. R. Harvey and Company of Grifton.

A native of Lenoir County, he was the son of Mrs. Alice Stroud Williams and the late Brown Williams. He attended Kinston High School and was a graduate of Wake Forest College.

Following graduation from Wake Forest College, Mr. Williams was associated with the Quaker Oats Company of Chicago. He came to Grifton in 1941. He was a Mason, a Lion, a charter member of the Grifton Golf and Country Club and vice-chairman of the Grifton Industrial Committee. He was a member of the Grifton Christian Church of which he was a deacon.

Mr. Williams was also a member of the board of directors of the Kinston Cooperative Warehouse and had served as a director of the Atlantic and East Carolina Railroad.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jean Harvey Williams; his mother; three brothers, Milton G. Williams, Dr. L. E. Williams, both of Kinston, and Col. Leslie B. Williams of Annapolis, Md.; two sisters, Mrs. Herbert Branton of Kinston and Mrs. John Harris of Wilkesboro, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon from the Grifton Christian Church by the Rev. Joseph L. Roberson, pastor of the church.

C-of-C Board Is Told Newcomers Party Is Ready

Plans are complete for the Newcomers Party to be held at the Moose Lodge tomorrow night, James L. Harris, Jr., chairman of the Steering Committee told the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors last night.

The party will begin at 7:30 and last until around 9:30. Harris reported that 168 new families have moved into Greenville since last year's party and all have been invited to attend.

Some 100 newcomers are expected at the party. Harris said this morning that, while a number of newcomers have not advised the committee as to whether they will attend or not, all will be welcomed tomorrow night.

Leonard Bloxam, chairman of the Chamber's Industrial Committee, reported that members of the committee had visited industries in the state in an effort to determine what products can be made in Greenville to be used by other industries in the state.

Among the plants visited were the Westinghouse plant in Raleigh. With the information obtained the committee plans to contact industries in the city and county to determine the interest in making the needed products.

Bloxam also expressed the opinion that the progress made toward getting natural gas would act as a stimulus for industrial development.

Bloxam reported that the Industrial Committee's sub-committee is working with the Merchants' Association to make plans for display of "Made in Greenville" products in City Hall.

Woman Shot In Leg, Husband Is Arrested Here

A 47-year-old Negro woman, Mrs. Annie Dupree Palmer, was shot in the leg yesterday afternoon at her home here at 701 Douglas Ave.

Investigating officers from the Greenville Police Department arrested her husband, Jana Palmer, 55, on charges with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill. The shooting allegedly followed an argument between the two.

The wound was inflicted just above the right knee. Officers stated the weapon was a .44 calibre pistol.

The woman was treated shortly after the incident at the Medical Arts Clinic.

In Memoriam

In memory of Mrs. Hattie Smith, who departed this life April 26, 1956. "A house alone can't make a home; it needs a mother's touch; a mother's smile, her gentle ways—that always mean so much; the kind of understanding that you've always given mother to make our home a happy home from one day to another."

Consider Own Corporation

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP) — A group of South Carolina tobacco farmers has scheduled a meeting here Saturday to consider setting up its own stabilization corporation.

A separate stabilization corporation to administer price support programs on flue-cured tobacco in the state has been mentioned at several small farm meetings.

Supporters say it would be the answer to more representation for state tobacco problems than is now given by the five-state stabilization board which administers the federal price support program.

Dies In Morrisville

Mrs. Thomas Smaw left yesterday for Morrisville due to the death of her mother, Mrs. Ida Barbee. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon.

EC Grads To Hear Hodges At Commencement Rites

East Carolina College's 48th commencement, a two-day observance, will begin Saturday, May 18, with the annual meeting on the campus of alumni holding their spring business meeting and 1957 class reunions and will continue Sunday with graduation exercises at which Governor Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina will speak.

Exercises this spring will be held during the observance of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the college in 1907 and will thus be of special interest to alumni and other friends of the institution.

Governor Hodges will deliver the commencement address Sunday morning at 11 a.m. in the Wright auditorium. President John D. Messick of East Carolina will confer degrees upon 611 seniors and graduate students who completed their work at the college during the 1956-1957 term.

Candidates for degrees include 101 for the master's degree; 63 for the A.B., or liberal arts degree; and 447 for the B.S., or degree for those taking courses preparing them for careers in education.

Final plans for alumni day Saturday, have been announced by James W. Butler, alumni secretary at East Carolina.

Class reunions, with graduates of 1912 as honor guests on the occasion of their 45th anniversary, will bring members of ten classes together for meetings at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon. These groups include the classes of 1912, 1917, 1922, 1927, 1932, 1937, 1942, 1947, 1952, and 1956.

The recipient of the annual Alumni Award to an Outstanding Graduate of East Carolina will be announced Saturday morning at a business meeting scheduled for 10:15. Dr. Charles W. Reynolds, director of the department of science at the college, will confer the award.

Other events of the day include a luncheon at 12:15 in the North Dining Hall; a tea honoring faculty members, alumni, and members of the class of 1957 at 3 p.m. in the Alumni-Faculty building; a concert by the East Carolina Concert Band at 4 p.m. in the Paganan Sylvan Theater; and a reception by faculty members of the department of music and the Women's Chorus at 8 p.m. in the Austin auditorium.

WINTERVILLE—Fifty-two Negro teachers of Pitt County were awarded service pins—representing 25 years and more of service in the teaching profession at the recent annual banquet in their honor.

The banquet was served in a setting of gold and green with tables decorated with roses and fern to 150 teachers. Mr. F. H. Mebane was toastmaster.

Rev. L. A. Williams pronounced the invocation and Mr. J. W. Maye, president of the local association welcomed the guests. Pitt County Supt. of School D. H. Conley of Greenville paid tribute to the teachers "for the high type of service" and distributed the service pins.

Mrs. Salina Lang, who is retiring, was given a plaque in addition to the service pin.

Participating on the program were Miss M. Lou Dupree, soloist, and Mrs. A. E. Jackson, who recited a poem in honor of deceased teachers. Brief remarks were made by Mr. T. C. Worthington of Ayden, Mr. E. W. Fleming of Grifton, and Mr. A. S. Alfred, Miss H. Jordan expressed appreciation for the group.

As the group sang, "Now the Day Is Over," Miss Mary Jane Williams extinguished the 25 lighted candles. A dance followed the banquet.

Special Prayers For Crusade's Success Planned At Church

St. James Methodist Church will hold a special half-hour prayer service for the United Crusade for Christ on Wednesday night at 7:30. Minister J. Malloy Owen said the meeting was being called in cooperation with Crusade Central Committee Chairman Leonard W. Topping, who requested that all Churches have prayer services for the Crusade this week.

"Unless we pray we have no reason to believe that God is going to bless us in this great effort," Owen asserted. "I am sure that thousands of Greenville area Christians have been praying for this Crusade, but there is also a need for us to assemble ourselves together in our Churches to pray together for the blessing of God upon the meetings." Owen added, "Wright Auditorium is the site of the two-weeks series of evangelistic services to be led here by Evangelist Jimmie Johnson beginning Sunday. Salvation Army Capt. Bennie T. Lewis, prayer chairman of the Crusade, has directed the distribution of several thousand "prayer pledge cards" in Pitt County. Many persons have mailed their cards to Crusade headquarters promising to pray daily. Some special prayer groups have been reported as organized to pray for the Crusade.

Chicod Student Social Whirl Steps Up Pace

BY IVA LOU BRUNSON Chicod School Reporter

Chicod student groups have held many parties and banquets recently.

F. A. boys started the social whirl April 26 with their annual banquet. Highlight of the affair was barbecued chicken, cooked by the boys and served by members of the Future Homemakers of America. The F. H. A. girls also furnished entertainment.

The annual May Day program was presented May 1 under direction of Mrs. Frances Madry, music teacher. The May Court was composed of honor students in the high school and entertainment was furnished by students in the elementary grades.

A "Moonlight and Roses" theme was used by Juniors at the Junior-Senior banquet May 3. Seniors got into the whirl on May 5 with a tea in honor of their parents.

Since that time, the Seniors have been busy. Katie Buck celebrated her birthday last week with a party at the school. On Friday, the

Mrs. Curtis Owens Dies Early Today

FARMVILLE — Mrs. Essie Gay Owens, 46, wife of Curtis Owens, died suddenly at her home, Route 1, Fountain, at 5:15 a.m. Tuesday. She had been in declining health some time.

Funeral arrangements were not complete.

She was the daughter of Lela O. Gay and the late Benjamin F. Gay of Fountain and had been a member of Aspen Grove Free Will Baptist Church over 10 years.

Surviving in addition to her husband and father are two daughters, Mrs. Marvin Langley, Rt. 1, Fountain and Miss Hilda Fay Owens of the home; two sons, Edward Curtis Owens of Fountain and Guy F. Owens of Nashville, Tenn.; one sister, Mrs. Clifton Galloway of Wilson. Also surviving are five brothers, Lloyd, Tony, Lester and Daniel Gay, Rt. 1, Fountain, and Allen Gay of Norfolk, Va., and two grandchildren.

Growth Of Retailers In Pitt Noted By Speaker

Thompson Greenwood, executive secretary of the North Carolina Merchants Association, pointed out to Greenville Rotarians last night that the number of retail merchants in Pitt County have more than doubled in the past 13 years.

Greenwood, who was introduced by Judson H. Blount, asserted that retail merchants throughout North Carolina are constantly seeking to bring the public better items at lower prices. He added that the change in the public's ability to obtain thousands of items during the past 25 years has been due largely to the efforts of retail merchants.

While the number of retail merchants has grown rapidly, the speaker said, the number of retail businesses which close or change hands each month has likewise increased sharply. For more than four years, he said, an average of 1,600 retail firms each month in North Carolina either go out of business or change hands.

Greenwood paid tribute to Blount for his efforts in behalf of the North Carolina Merchants Association over a period of years. He also praised the Greenville Merchants Association and its secretary Mrs. Cora Powell, terming the local Association one of the few well rounded Merchants Associations in the Eastern part of North Carolina.
