Miss Grayson Waldrop of Greenville and Mrs. Joseph C. Gilbert of Havre de Grace, Md. attended their sister as maid and matron of honor.

The attendants wore gowns of champagne chiffon and carried arm bouquets of snapdragons, painted daisies and delphinium.

Dr. William M. B. Brown of Greenville was his nephew's best man. Ushers were Edwin E. Rawl Jr., Greenville, Stephen P. Millikin, Robert P. Williams and John Martin, all of Greensboro.

Mrs. Waldrop wore for her daughter's wedding a mauve chiffon dress with a small rose petal hat and matching shoes. Her corsage was green cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Watts, mother of the bridegroom, wore a Dior blue-peau de sole dress with a beaded shell hat and shoes to match the dress, and a pink cymbidium orchid corsage.

Mrs. Watts graduated from Duke University in 1935, where she was a member of the Alpha Delta Pi Sorority. She has taught for the past two years in the Frances Lacy elementary school of Raleigh.

The bridegroom graduated from N. C. State College in 1949 and was a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He is with the Mechanical Equipment Company of Charlotte.

Mrs. Hart Entertains Bridge Club Friday

AYDEN—Mrs. Clarence Hart entertained the members of her club on Friday night of last week at her home near Ayden.

At the end of play a novelty was given Mrs. Marvin McCormick for high score while a candy dish was given Mrs. Lelise Stocks for runner up. Low, a clothes sprinkler was won by Mrs. Tucker Tripp.

Reception

Immediately following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. John Herbert Waldrop entertained at a reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Watts Jr. and the wedding party.

Receiving at the front door were Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Messick and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kittrell.

In the pink room, Mrs. D. M. Clark, Mrs. Elie Tolson and Miss Elizabeth Wilson greeted the guests and presented them to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moyer and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Waldrop who presided over the guest book. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Waldrop received at the living room door.

Mrs. W. I. Wooten introduced the guests to the receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Waldrop, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Watts, Jr., Dr. W. M. B. Brown and the bride's attendants.

Arrangements of spring flowers were used throughout the home.

The stairway was entwined with southern smilax. Roses, stock, and snapdragons were featured in the hall.

Receiving throughout the house were Mr. and Mrs. John Stator, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Ormond, Miss Clara Moyer Shackell, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stator, Miss Camille Stator, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Peacock and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Montague.

In the dining room the bridal table was covered with a Battenburg lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of calla lilies, white stock and white snapdragons. Silver candelabra entwined with smilax and tied with tulle and lace wedding bells were placed at either side of the centerpiece.

Guests were served decorated bridal hostess slices of green and white, dainty petit-fours, rum cakes, cheese rings, salted nuts and mints.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie White and Dr. and Mrs. K. B. Pace served punch.

A four-tiered wedding cake of green and white surmounted by a miniature French doll graced the buffet and was later cut by the bride and groom. After the wedding cake was cut, toasts were made by the bridal party to the bride and groom.

From the dining room guests passed to the gift room and good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. J. Knott Proctor Jr.

For traveling the bride wore a gray dachon and white pique suit with matching hat and patent accessories. For her corsage she used the white orchid taken from her bouquet.

After a wedding trip to Sea Island, Georgia, the couple will be at home at 548 Overlook Street, Greensboro, N. C.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John I. Marshall, Greenville, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Duval and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Harding, Charlotte; Mr. and Mrs.

Bride Of Saturday Is Honored

Luncheon

On Friday, Miss Mary Ann Waldrop and Lawrence Watts Jr. were honored at a luncheon by Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ormond, Dr. and Mrs. K. B. Pace, Mrs. Clara Shackell, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Moyer, at the Ormond home. Those present included the bridal party, immediate families and out-of-town guests.

The rooms were decorated with arrangements of summer flowers. The dining table held an epergne filled with yellow roses in nests of tulle. On the sideboard a glass compote held a yellow arrangement of gladioli and roses.

Miss Waldrop was presented a pink nosegay and the bridegroom a boutonniere.

Mr. and Mrs. Ormond greeted the guests and introduced them to Miss Waldrop, Mr. Watts, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Watts Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Waldrop, Dr. and Mrs. Pace and Mr. and Mrs. Moyer invited the guests into the garden for punch, served by Mrs. Shackell and Mr. Bert Moyer.

Mr. Watts and Mrs. Waldrop served barbecue and salad from the dining table.

Following luncheon, each guest drew a fortune, which was read aloud to the amusement of the party.

Saturday Luncheon

As the guests arrived they were welcomed by Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Kittrell. They were then presented to the receiving line composed of Miss Waldrop, Mr. Watts, the Rev. and Mrs. Lawrence Watts, parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Waldrop, parents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. White.

Mr. and Mrs. Proctor received in the music room where the guests assembled and were served tomato juice cocktails and hors d'oeuvres.

Miss Elsie Tolson, aunt of the bridegroom, directed guests to the dining room where Mrs. Waldrop and Mrs. Watts served the guests turkey and salad from the dining room table. Miss Hannah Proctor, June bride-elect, presided over the tea table.

The dining room table had a lace cloth over green satin with a center epergne arrangement of white flowers and silver wedding bells decked with green satin bows and white mulline. Green candelabra in three branch silver candelabra completed the table arrangement.

The guests found their places at individual tables placed throughout the house and on the front porch and on the back terrace. Desserts in the shape of Greek May baskets with demitasse completed the three course meal.

The guests all reassembled in the music hall where a program of music, games and fortune telling was planned.

The bridegroom wore a white rose boutonniere and the bride elect a green cymbidium orchid corsage—the gift of the hostesses. Garden flowers were used throughout and the motif of green and white was stressed.

As the guests arrived they were greeted by the hostesses and served punch on the porch by Miss Camille Stator.

Wearing a blue silk shantung dress, Miss Waldrop was presented a white corsage of Garza mums centered with yellow to match the yellow tie on her white picture hat.

A buffet, smorgasbord luncheon was served on the porch from a table covered with a white linen cloth. A spring flower arrangement of pink, white, and green centered the table where white bridal cakes topped with pink and green were placed.

A bridal motif in pink and green encircled a massive arrangement of spring flowers on the bride's table placed in the dining room. The table covered with a white linen cloth was flanked by green candelabra nestled in green tulle. Each member of the wedding party had their places designated by wedding bell placards.

Several auxiliary tables were placed in the dining room for the other guests covered with white linen cloths and centered with spring flower arrangements.

Of focal interest were the decorative arrangements of magnolia leaves and blooms placed on the two mantels flanking the dining room.

Vacationers All, And Therapy Too

We've been reading about vacations . . . a timely topic.

Vacation-minded folk by now have either already chosen their holiday site or have narrowed their choice to two alternatives.

Aside from providing a brief period of fun in our otherwise busy, busy world, there's a psychological benefit involved which many businessmen recognize. (Some firms even insist on vacations, so this can't be just idle gossip.)

Anybody who works day in, day out, gets into a mental rut. His, or her, enthusiasm and creative outlook obviously wanes after a year of keeping a nose to the grindstone. It happens to employer and employee. This is not good.

It starts in spring. The inborn wanderlust, the restless spirit, the adventurer-in-us-all begins to stir. By late spring and early summer it is straining at the leash. The situation gets pretty desperate.

Vacation travel is a growing thing. We read that last year half of the U. S. population was on the move, and that such trips have doubled since 1941 and increased more than 20 times since the 1920s.

The idea of seeing new sights, of breathing a different kind of air, of getting away—far away—from the routine pattern of living, seizes millions upon millions of people. A week, two weeks, maybe three; whatever it may be, your average American looks forward to that brief respite from sameness in his daily living.

Automobiles account for much of his relatively new habit of travel. The great national parks, the seashores, resort centers . . . all pose an irresistible lure. But even these do not account for the full tide of America-on-the-move. Some just go for the sake of going. Anything for a change. And why not? The opportunity is there, the means at hand, and the spirit moves.

Afterwards, rested, exhausted, happy, sad . . . that old routine fits as comfortably as a pair of old shoes; but with a difference. A measure of enthusiasm and a fresh approach has been added. A quality of perception and energy thought long-gone, is regenerated. Vacations are pretty wonderful.

Might Be Good Thing To Have Available

The story of seven-year-old Benny Hooper's rescue after being entrapped 24 hours in a dry well, is by now familiar to everyone.

What might have been a simple matter of digging out the boy in short order was complicated by sandy soil, which caved in time after time during rescue operations.

Success came only when some metallic cylinders of about four feet in diameter, and of graduated sizes so one could fit inside another, were brought into use. These made it possible to dig out a rescue tunnel.

Little Benny was not the first, and will not be the last, to be buried or entrapped alive in near-unaccessible conditions. And while one could live a lifetime without encountering first-hand such a tragic occurrence, the possibility of its happening lends some basis to the thought that those metallic cylinders might be a good thing to have around.

Bit Of Refurbishing For Our Heritage

A note of welcome to the visiting evangelists who will lead the city's United Crusade for Christ during the next two weeks; and

Our best wishes, too, to the Greenville Ministerial Association which is sponsoring the program. May their efforts bear fruit.

Historically, America is a God-fearing land. Many of its early settlers were devoted men and women seeking a measure of freedom to worship God according to their lights.

Prayers accompanied the founding of the nation; and its great moments in history have always been bolstered by a dependence upon those precepts which are the guideposts of Christianity.

In a land so richly blessed, an abundance of material goods sometimes becloud the spiritual heritage which is America's greatest wealth. Then great efforts are called forth to refurbish that which is ours, but was laid aside for a more glittering bauble.

We, here, are now seeing a part of a continuing process . . . to re-inspire, to strengthen the spirituality, to add new glory to the one great heritage of America and the world.

Trends, Tips In Business Future

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here are some more business predictions, based on deductions from developing trends, sprinkled with a few advance tips:

More appliance price wars. A hot one has been waging in New York. They'll break out elsewhere because many manufacturers, stuck with large inventories, will trim wholesale prices for large orders.

A sharp rise in cigarette advertising. Manufacturers are heavily promoting a rash of new brands and, to hold their own, makers of older brands will have to step up their advertising.

Lead will sink again. This week's price drop won't be the last; curtailment of government stockpiling has cut demand more than expected and buyers are holding off to force another cut. The price of zinc, down 2 cents in two price cuts in two weeks, is also shaky for the same reason.

STEEL PICK UP, CHEAPER JUICE

Steel demand will improve. Despite recent dips, which forced shutdowns of some facilities, prospects are good for an upturn in the fall. Despite lags in orders, predicted price rises will come. The wage situation makes them inevitable.

Forten orange juice will be cheaper. Trims of half a cent a can or more will be made to help move stocks, now the highest in two years.

A peach boom is coming. Government scientists have perfected a way to preserve the delicate peach flavors previously lost in processing. They have produced a peach puree concentrate and a frozen peach nectar with a fresh-picked flavor. The process will be available to food processors and will lead to more and better peach ice cream, drinks, desserts and candies.

A mild boom in farm equipment sales. The slight upturn in farm income and prospects for good crops this year, plus the break in the drought in many areas, has laid the foundation for a rise in sales. It will be helped along by the fact that many farmers have been staving off replacements as long as practical, and by the fact that manufacturers have been adding many improvements.

GOVERNMENT SPENDING, RETAIL SALES

Government spending will rise. Despite trims of the Federal budget, total government spending during the last half of this year will go up. The highway program is moving into big-money stages and state and city spending is increasing because of higher prices and higher wages.

Retail sales will set a new mark. There was a lag during the first quarter, with department store totals 2 per cent under a year ago. But sales have been perking up since then and, with a little more advertising push, can top the record set last year.

Father's Day promotions will be heavy. In some regions and in some lines, Mother's Day sales this year were disappointing. To avoid another disappointment, many merchants are stepping up the whoop-de-do over dear old dad.

By LYNN NISBET

RESUME — Governor Luther Hodges will get a larger proportion of his legislative program enacted into law than anybody except the thought likely when the session began. That will happen despite the fact that Governor's personal popularity has declined in the past months.

The 1957 General Assembly will adjourn sometime during the week of June 10-15. Just before adjournment it is likely to adopt a resolution calling for the 1959 session to convene around January 20, pursuant to the constitutional provision permitting the Assembly to fix its convening date.

The foregoing statements are based on answers to inquiries made by the staff of the afternoon newspapers' Raleigh Bureau among 50 to 60 members of the present Legislature. The persons interviewed included Democrats and Republicans, Representatives and Senators from all sections of the state. Each was promised that he would not be quoted by name, although his opinion would be used in a summarized report.

The questions often phrased differently and sometimes split into additional items were basically three: When do you think the Legislature can adjourn? What do you personally think of the administration program? How much of it do you think will be written into law?

There was fair unanimity among answers to the first question. A few members still hope for adjournment around June 1, some fear they will be here after June 20. Most of them are confident that quitting time will come two or three days before mid-June.

There was also fair unanimity in belief that a very large part of the administration program will be enacted into law, albeit without enthusiasm on part of a majority of the legislators. At least a dozen members said they would vote for the reorganization and tax revision measures reluctantly because "there's no use to butt our heads against a stone wall."

DIVERSE — There was wide variance in expressed opinion about the soundness of the Governor's program. Many legislators found difficulty in separating the administration program from the personality of the chief executive. Each man was asked the direct question: What do you personally think of the program? The answers varied from a very blunt "It stinks," to a rather eloquent tribute which went something like this: The Governor feels that State government has grown so large it requires more of a business administration to handle it. He seems to be trying to get up that kind of policy. Most of the objection comes from people who do not understand it. It may be good politics to charge that the program gives to the rich and takes from the poor, but I think the Governor's sole purpose is to promote the industrial development. Both these men agreed that the Governor's program would be enacted with only minor changes in original bills.

They and a dozen or more others made it clear they were talking mainly about the reorganization and tax bills. They doubted passage of legislative reapportionment, liquor referendum and minimum wage measures which the Governor had endorsed but had not brought pressure to obtain.

Majority of those who said they would vote for tax revision voiced personal doubt about the wisdom of the plan offered. Repeal of the intangibles tax would be much more valuable to State development, said one man. Reducing corporation taxes by $7 million a year, means the next Legislature will have to add new taxes somewhere, said another. Even if the new tax plan does induce industry to come into the state, it will be six to ten years before real revenue can be derived. Measure, teachers and other employees will starve on the salaries now paid them, said a third.

HODGES — Statements by legislators in response to questions confirmed opinion based on information from other sources that Luther Hodges occupies a position unique in the history of Governors of North Carolina.

Almost every legislator questioned said that the Governor has lost personal popularity and official prestige during the past six months. Yet everyone said the administration program would be enacted, that he (the individual legislator) expected to vote for it, although he did not approve it in its entirety.

One man said "he flies off the handle every time you intimate opposition to his ideas." Another said "even when you disagree with him, you feel he has real justification for the position he takes, and that he is completely sincere in his efforts to develop the state." Between these extremes of opinion voiced.

The situation seems to be about this: A substantial majority of the members of the General Assembly do not like the administration tax program, but its main features will be approved by overwhelming margins. Legislators who say that Governor Hodges has lost prestige, still say that his program will be enacted more fully than that of any Governor in recent years, despite the fact they cannot identify any special pressure from downstairs, or recognize any legislator as the accepted "leader" of administration forces.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
NEED FOR COURAGE

Sometimes it seems as if the necessity for courage has almost ceased to exist in modern life.

We think of the ages when men fought monsters, of centuries when society was completely disorganized, and roving bands of marauders infested the highways. There were also the noble centuries when men fought for freedom.

Oh, to be sure, the people behind the Iron Curtain will have to win their freedom if they are ever going to have any, but here we live on this North American continent in comfortable big cities, on delightful countryside. Yes, there may be an atomic war sometime but there is not much we can do about it now. If it comes, we cannot resist it. What we shall need on that day will be not courage but the capacity to endure. We do not carry swords or pistols in our belts as our forebears did because we are not harassed by the dangers which confronted them.

But the necessity for courage is as great today as it has ever been. There are diseases over which science has gained no control and we must face the menace of such disease with equanimity. And even more in the moral realm must we be courageous. For temptation increases rather than decreases with the passing of time.

There is as much need for courage today as there has ever been. Be not afraid!

Sticks And Stones—

Seeing Less Of Liberace

NEW YORK (AP) — If you haven't seen as much of Liberace as you used to, there's a reason.

There isn't as much of him to see. History's highest paid pianist — he went from 50 cents a night to two million dollars a year — has recently lost more than 30 pounds.

His worried fans can be reassured on one thing, however: Lee's reducing diet didn't cause him to lose a single one of his famous dimples.

"My brother George and I went on a high protein diet," Liberace confided during a luncheon at the Essex House. "Nothing but meat, fish, fowl, vegetables — and fresh fruit."

"Once my stomach shrank I found that if I ate a roll simply couldn't finish a meal. George lost 20 pounds, and I dropped from 210 to 173."

The diet had one drawback. The new tiger-thin Liberace found his wardrobe, one of the most extensive and expensive in show business, unwearable.

The new Liberace also confided he has embarked on a new career — teaching.

Teaching is traditionally one of the lowest paid professions. But the Liberace brothers plan to change that in their case.

Liberace soon will establish a chain of music schools across the country to teach piano playing by a method he says is the first new one in 20 years.

"It isn't, however, one of those 'learn to play in 10 easy lessons' systems. It is a complete music course, and includes harmony, theory, music appreciation — and showmanship," he said.

Lee himself considers the prospect delightful.

"Long after I am gone," he said in that tone of extreme unctious that has made his name a byword for a certain brand of charm. "My association with the piano will live on through this course."

Some are enchanted by the Liberace brothers' charm. Some find it a bit humid and oppressive. But whether you like it or not, it is like Niagara Falls in one respect — it is always turned on full faucet, and never runs dry in public.

Sample: When asked what he would like to have time write as his epitaph, Liberace replied instantly with his wide smile: "If I have caused a few more people to smile in the world, I will not have lived in vain. I want only that the world shall be bettered because of my presence in it."

As it tipped out, Brother George asked: "Have you heard my latest album? It's the first one to feature rock 'n' roll with a violin."

"George Liberace goes teenager! But you have to keep up with the times."

Other Editors Saying --- Blow To This State

(Kinston Free Press)

The 16 House committee members who maneuvered to table and thereby kill the 75-cents-an-hour minimum wage bill in the current session of the General Assembly may have pleased a few constituents but they have done a disservice to the State as a whole.

The measure was one of the most reasonable to be advanced and it held hope for constructive action until the committee acted Thursday to kill it for this session.

For more than a year now the federal wage law specifying a one dollar minimum for all firms involved in inter-state commerce has prevailed. North Carolina is one of the states which suffers from a low per capita income, but even so many of its smaller firms could not swing the one dollar minimum wage if it were to be imposed in this inflationary period.

The 75-cents minimum measure was an Administration-backed proposal to compromise between the present low level and what appears to many to be the State's long-range needs in the wage level of its workers.

There is hope that the measure may be revived or that a new one will be advanced for action at the current session. It is obvious that the Assembly as a whole is not too happy about the committee action because it does not reflect the majority will of the group.

In a period when the State is bidding for more industry it would seem to be the ideal time to bring its wage structure more in line with the national average and those in competing states. This State cannot go forward on a low wage structure if it is to become a better balanced State.

Agriculture cannot get its fair share of the State's income unless the working people have enough money to buy its products. The same holds true for industry.

The Assembly will do well to revive the measure and to bring it forth for a roll call vote. In a matter of such far-flung importance this State cannot permit a small group to dictate a backward step in the economy of the whole commonwealth.

Evaluation Of U. S. Military Men

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — General Douglas MacArthur was "the ablest general of the last war." The head of Britain's military effort once wished that the man ousted by Truman had been chosen as our top commander instead of General George C. Marshall or Dwight D. Eisenhower.

This frank estimate of America's fighters appears in a book entitled "The Turn of the Tide," published today by Doubleday, and described by high officials here as "the finest, first-hand account of World War II" they have read. It consists of wartime letters written nightly to his wife by Field Marshal Lord Alanbrooke, who was Chief of the Imperial General Staff and Churchill's personal military adviser. They are not after-the-event memoirs.

Alanbrooke has been characterized by Marshal Montgomery, who would have "sacked" Generals Lee and Meade after Gettysburg, as "the greatest soldier-soldier, sailor, airman — produced by any country taking part in the last war." He has been decorated with more honors than any British military figure except Marlborough, Wellington and Roberts.

He masterminded the retreat which led to the successful evacuation of such a large Allied force at Dunkirk. He was to have commanded the 1944 invasion of France, but he stepped aside in favor of Ike.

BRITISHER'S ADMIRATION FOR F.D.E. Alanbrooke had great admiration for F.D.R.'s courage and vision. He found Eisenhower long on "selflessness," "charm" and "diplomacy," but short on military strategy and experience. He says that Churchill was an "exceedingly difficult person" because of his impetuosity and his too vivid imagination, but he "thanked God for the chance to work with such a genius."

He considered the late Admiral Ernest King to be the ablest member of the American Chiefs of Staff at Washington. But Marshall and King, he adds, were insistent on concentrating against the Japanese instead of the Germans, whom Roosevelt and Churchill had selected as the primary objective of defeat.

The author regarded Stalin as a tough but boorish "realist," constantly demanding a second European front and even taunting the embattled British as "cowards" on one occasion. The Russians never co-operated, never gave information on their strategy or tactics, and behaved as if the war were not an Allied affair, he says.

COMPARISON OF MARSHALL AND MACARTHUR Alanbrooke's comparison of Marshall and MacArthur (ed. note) reads as follows: "When arguing with Marshall, I could never get him to appreciate the very close connection that existed between the various German fronts. For him they might have been separate wars, a Russian war on one side, a Mediterranean war on another, and a cross-Channel one to be started as soon as possible.

"I have often wondered since the war how different matters might have been, if I had had MacArthur to deal with. From everything I saw of him, I put him down as the ablest general of the last war.

"He certainly showed a far greater strategic grasp than Marshall. I must confess, however, that Winston was no great help in handling Marshall — in fact, the reverse. Marshall had a holy fear of Winston's Balkan and Dardanelles adventures (Churchill's alternative invasion routes — Ed. note), and was always guarding against these dangers, even when they did not exist."

PRaise FOR AMERICAN ADMIRAL Alanbrooke, in praising Admiral King, said that he did not possess "the statesmanship and grandeur of character of the great Virginian." He also testifies to Marshall's magnificent work as organizer of the American Army in such a short time. It may surprise military men to learn that Marshall advocated an invasion of France as early as September, 1942.

STRATEGY According to Alanbrooke, Marshall did not appreciate the difficulties of landing on the enemy's fortified shore, or the preliminary buildup that was necessary. The attacks on North Africa, Sicily and Italy, the British insisted, were essential in order to force Hitler to divert

Include Trusts In Plans

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., — I believe in Trust Funds, for both children and grandchildren. The ideal method is to leave one half of your money in trust, and one half outright. In the case of children or grandchildren, you save an inheritance tax by leaving the money in trust for them and providing that your wife will have a life interest in the income. There are three reasons for forming such trusts: (1) For the protection of your estate; (2) for the savings of inheritance taxes; and (3) to be sure your children and grandchildren get what you want them to have. All of this will be explained to you without charge by the trust officer of any bank.

WHAT ABOUT DIVERSIFICATION?

A trust officer will properly diversify your holdings as to securities. This is also true of any money you put into Mutual Funds. Such Trust Funds, however, do not provide for diversification of management. My appeal this week is that you have several Trust Funds, each in a different bank so as to get the very best of management, as well as diversification of securities.

Trust officers are supposed to protect you against inflation. To do this they buy either convertible bonds or common stocks. Buying common stocks today, however, may be rather risky. This especially applies to the "Blue Chips," which trust officers like to buy in order to protect their own reputations. This also applies to bankers and committees who are investing Pension Funds for corporations. Few of these trustees invest with the idea of making a profit for you or your heirs, but rather with the sole purpose of providing safety and protection against possible inflation.

INVESTING FOR PROFIT

In previous weeks this column has shown how you can build $10,000 up to $1,000,000 in 25 years without borrowing any money or without buying anything on margin. This would be by investing in new industries before the bankers and the public woke up to their possibilities. To accomplish this I believe that the $10,000 should be divided into four Trust Funds of $2,500 each in order to get competition between the different Trustees. A bank does not wish to be bothered with such small Trust Funds. Hence, it will be practically impossible to get four banks to do this. This means that you must get four individuals to serve as Trustees.

These individuals should be young college instructors, — one in physics, one in chemistry, one in biology, and one in business administration. If you have a son or daughter who is in college, have him or her pick out four bright, forward-looking instructors to serve as such trustees. Otherwise, write the United Information Service, 6 Maiden Lane, New York City, which will help you. These individuals should be paid a good commission for their services, based on the results which they secure for you. This will make them more interested in serving you. Having a number of trustees will also create competition and rivalry between these four college instructors.

IMPORTANCE OF YOUTH

I advise a selection of young college instructors, rather than older professors, because the older men are usually more interested in their own reputations and have more fear of making a mistake. The Trust Agreements will, however, provide that the Trustees will not be held responsible for any losses. It will be assumed that one or two of the four trustees will lose money; but your goal will be in the total result of the four. No one person can foresee in advance

Opinions In Brief

"The total of the proposed 1958 budget — $71,800,000,000 — is a huge sum of money. It is slightly more than total Federal spending for the first 132 years of the nation's life." — Annapolis (Maryland) Capital.

troops, planes and tanks from France to those further distant fronts.

Secretary Stimson agreed with Marshall. He never approved the Mediterranean strategy, regarding it as wasteful "diversion," whereas Churchill and Alanbrooke maintained that the proper strategy was to strike first at this "soft under belly of Europe."

IKE'S WEAK POINTS Alanbrooke says that he felt "uneasy" about Ike's operations in North Africa because of his apparent lack of aggressiveness. He adds: "It must be remembered that Eisenhower had never even commanded a battalion in action when he found himself commanding a group of Armies in North Africa. No wonder he was at a loss as to what to do and allowed himself to be absorbed in the political situation at the expense of the tactical."

"I had little confidence in his having the ability to handle the military situation confronting him, and he caused me great anxiety. . . . He learnt a lot during the war, but tactics, strategy and command were never his strong points.

"Where he shone was his ability to handle Allied forces, to treat them all with the strict impartiality, and to get the very best out of an inter-Allied force. . . . In addition, Ike was blessed with a wonderful charm that carried him far; perhaps his greatest asset was a greater share of luck than most of us receive in life."

June Proposes Women Might Try TV News

By CHARLES MERCER
 NEW YORK (AP)—June Lockhart has an interesting idea.

"Why," she asks, "shouldn't there be a regular woman news commentator on television? A woman with a feeling and respect for news could give it a presentation that would interest everyone."

The next question, obviously, is why shouldn't June Lockhart try it?

She's willing — eager, in fact, to try it. An accomplished actress in the theater, movies and television, she confesses that for years a part of her heart has belonged to journalism. For three years she was a panelist on the NBC-TV news quiz show, "Who Said That?" She has written and worked for the publication "Guideposts." Last year she traveled with both presidential candidates as what she calls "a journalistic buff." She can list numerous other qualifications.

So why not give Miss Lockhart a try as a TV commentator? But perhaps, a man suggested to her the other day, a woman lacks the authoritative presence to handle a regular TV news program.

"I don't believe it," she replied. Perhaps a beautiful woman would distract an audience from concentrating on the news. Miss Lockhart, who is blonde, blue-eyed and beautiful, looked so crestfallen that the man immediately denied the validity of that argument.

Miss Lockhart has a lot of good ideas. While in New York from her California home she is trying to interest a TV network in her idea for a weekly program which would bring to life some of the details and vignettes of every-day living. A three-year-old's first exposure to kite flying, for instance. A puppy's first day at home. A bride's first day after she returns from her honeymoon.

Television certainly can use a woman with ideas as well as presence. Let's hope we see more of June Lockhart in the medium.

Await Hatching Second Egg Of Whooping Cranes

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The world's 28th whooping crane is one day old today and its parents, Jo and Crip, are waiting a second egg to pop any day.

Jo laid her first egg 32 days ago. The chick started hatching early Saturday and broke through shortly before midnight.

The second egg came three days after the first in the Audubon Park Zoo. Park Supt. George Douglass said it should hatch tomorrow or Wednesday.

The little whooper strayed from Jo and the nest only when Crip tried to lure it by dropping some food nearby.

When Jo, who hasn't eaten since Friday night, leaves the nest for water, Crip takes over.

Douglass said he and other park officials started a 24-hour watch over the whooping cranes' pen when they expected the first egg to start hatching.

Last year Jo laid two eggs. Both hatched but the first chick disappeared, apparently the victim of a rat or an owl, and the second died within 45 days of a fungus disease.

Crossed Country Under 4 Hours

MCGUIRE AIR FORCE BASE, N. J. (AP)—A F100F Super Sabre Jet yesterday flew from Palmdale, Calif., to this base in 3 hours 38 minutes to set a new unofficial transcontinental record.

An Air Force spokesman said the plane left California at 9:13 a. m., local time, and landed here at 3:51 p. m., local time.

The old unofficial record of 3 hours, 44 minutes, 53.85 seconds was established on March 9, 1955 by an F84F Jet plane flying between International Airport, Los Angeles, and Floyd Bennett Field, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The F100F fighter was piloted by Maj. Robert Risner, 32, of the Tactical Air Command, 479th Fighter Wing at George Air Force Base, Calif.

The spokesman said the plane will take off for Paris at 6 a. m., tomorrow in an effort to set an unofficial transatlantic record on the anniversary of the famous Lindbergh flight, which took place exactly 30 years ago tomorrow.

Charles Lindbergh, then 25, was the first person to fly the Atlantic alone non-stop. The 3,610-mile trip took him 33 hours 29 minutes and 20 seconds.

Judges are viewing a total of 45 films from nine countries—the Philippines, Malaysia - Singapore, Hong Kong, Indonesia, Nationalist China, Thailand, South Korea, India and Japan. Winners will be announced Friday.

Acker Wins Two Sunday To Put Cincinnati Two Ahead

By JACK HAND
The Associated Press

Tom Acker, a jumbo-sized right-hander, is the man of iron who welds Cincinnati's ordinary pitching staff into a league-leading club.

The 6-4, 215-pound pitcher who won two games in relief Sunday as the Redlegs opened up a two-game lead on Milwaukee in the national League.

Supplanting Hersch Freeman as the ace in Manager Birdie Tebbets' bullpen, Acker now owns a 5-1 win-loss record compared to a 4-3 mark for all last season.

As usual, Acker had the solid support of those muscle men who have won 17 of their last 19.

George Crowe came through with four hits in the opener, the last a single in the ninth that won the game 6-7 after Pittsburgh tied it with five in the ninth. Wally Post's eighth-inning homer won the second game for Acker 5-4 after a homer by Smokey Burgess and a pinch homer by Bob Thurman helped overcome an early Pirate lead.

Ray Katt singled in the ninth with the bases loaded to drive in two runs for New York's 6-3 victory over Milwaukee. Katt's third hit gave Johnny Antonelli the decision over Red Murff, both working on relief.

Don Newcombe, unbeaten by St. Louis since Aug. 23, 1951, made it 10 in a row over the Cardinals 10-3 with the aid of a seven-run Brooklyn Dodger attack in the ninth. Carl Furillo drove in four runs, including the tie-breaking pair in the ninth. The Philadelphia at Chicago doubleheader was rained out.

Larry Doby ran his hitting streak to 10 games, helping the Chicago White Sox widen their American League lead to two games over Cleveland and New York, tied for second. Bill Fischer, making his first start, won his second major league game with help from Paul LaPalme, topping Boston 6-2.

Mickey Mantle's seventh home run featured an 11-hit New York Yankee attack in a 6-3 decision over Cleveland for Bobby Shantz, the 31-year-old lefthander tamed the Indians until the ninth. Vic Wertz with a homer and Rocky Colavito with a homer among his four hits were Shantz' chief tormentors.

Duke Maas, Detroit's surprising young right-hander, won his sixth straight, holding Washington to five hits for a 6-1 triumph. Chuck Stobbs, a non-winner since last September 5, lost his eighth in a row this year and his 13th over a two-year span.

Tito Francona slammed two homers and George Kell hit one in Baltimore's 10-2 romp over Kansas City. Their second game was called on account of rain after 5 1/2 innings of a scoreless battle between Hector Brown of the Orioles and Rip Coleman of the A's.

Acker acquired his two victories with a minimum of effort. He took over for Brooks Lawrence in the opener after the Pirates put together three singles, a double and Bill Virdon's homer to tie the score at 7-7. Acker nailed down the final out with a strikeout and became the winner when Crowe drove in his fourth run.

In the second game, Acker was the fifth Cincinnati pitcher. He worked two innings, yielding one unearned run and grabbed the victory on Post's homer.

The Giants had some help from second baseman Danny O'Connell of Milwaukee. O'Connell fumbled a double play ball, but threw out the batter to escape an error in the ninth. After a walk to Daryl Spencer loaded the bases, Katt came through with his winning hit.

Brooklyn lashed into Cardinal pitching for eight hits in that big ninth inning after Wally Moon's two-run homer in the eighth tied the score for St. Louis.

Doby drove in two runs with a double and a 415-foot homer. In the last 10 Chicago games, the center fielder has averaged .368 with 14 hits including four doubles, four homers and 11 runs batted in. Ted Williams had two hits and leads the league at .394.

Shantz already has passed his total victories for last season with a 3-1 record for the Yanks. Colavito's homer, a walk to Chico Carrasquel and a single by George Strickland brought Johnny Kucks on in the ninth. The righthander retired the next three in order.

Maas' fine pitching enabled Detroit to move into fourth place ahead of Boston and 4 1/2 games behind Chicago. Charley Maxwell hit his fourth homer and added two singles to lead the Tiger attack.

Francona, who had been sent back to the minors at Vancouver earlier in the season, now has hit four home runs in the last four days. Billy Loes went all the way for the Orioles in the first game.

Still A Riddle Of Superiority

BALTIMORE (AP)—The answers to many riddles were at hand today as a result of Bold Ruler's victory Saturday in the Preakness, but the question of outright superiority among horse racing's 3-year-olds remained unsolved.

The answer to that one may not be certain even after the June 15 Belmont Stakes, but it should be less fuzzy.

Waiting for another crack at Bold Ruler, the Wheatley Stable star which ran off with the $65,250 winner's slice of the $113,000 Preakness pie, is Calumet Farm's Derby winner and Preakness runner-up, Iron Liege. His two-length loss Saturday was his fourth in five meetings between the pair, but it left his handlers still hopeful.

"He's still a wonderful horse," said Wendell Griffin, his groom, after the race, "but today wasn't his day."

If Iron Liege isn't enough, Calumet may also send out Barbizon, winner of the preposterously rich Garden State last summer and the 2-year-old champion of 1956.

Gen. Duke, rated by trainer Jimmy Jones and jockey Willie Hartack as Calumet's best, is still questionable for the Belmont because of the hoof injury which forced him out of the Derby and Preakness.

Others being pointed for the Belmont are D. & M. Stable's Inside Tract, the 54-to-1 shot which finished a surprising third in the Preakness, and Ralph Lowe's Gallant Man, who lost the Derby to Iron Liege by a nose in the now-famous finish misjudgment by jockey Willie Shoemaker.

Gallant Man, considered too fragile for two hard races within a fortnight, passed up the Preakness after his brilliant stretch run in the Derby.

Inside Tract was at Old Pimplico for the Preakness, though, and he and Jockey Eidon Nelson nearly stole the show.

Making up three lengths on Bold Ruler in the stretch and losing the place money to Iron Liege by only a neck, Inside Tract answered the biggest pre-race riddle of all.

Everybody at Old Hilltop had been puzzled about trainer J. V. Weipert Jr.'s decision to start the colt. He had finished second in an allowance race at Jamaica only five days earlier and had won only $15,300 in 16 previous starts.

Despite Injury, Sime Proves He Is One Of Best

R. LEIGH (AP) — Duke's flashy Dave Sime has proven that despite the injuries which kept him out of last year's Olympic games he is still one of the greatest sprinters in the world.

Sime did this in the Carolinas AAU meet here Saturday night as he swept like a shooting star past the grandstand to the finishing tape in the 100-yard dash in 9.3 seconds to tie the world's record for the third time in his brief career. No other runner has ever run the century in 9.3 more than once.

Sime, who was trained very little this spring because he was busy playing baseball, then ran the 220 dash in 20.4 seconds—off only 4 of a second from his own world record in that event.

In a way, it was a repeat act for Sime of his performance in the AAU last year when he tied the world record in the 100 and sprinted the 220 in 20.2.

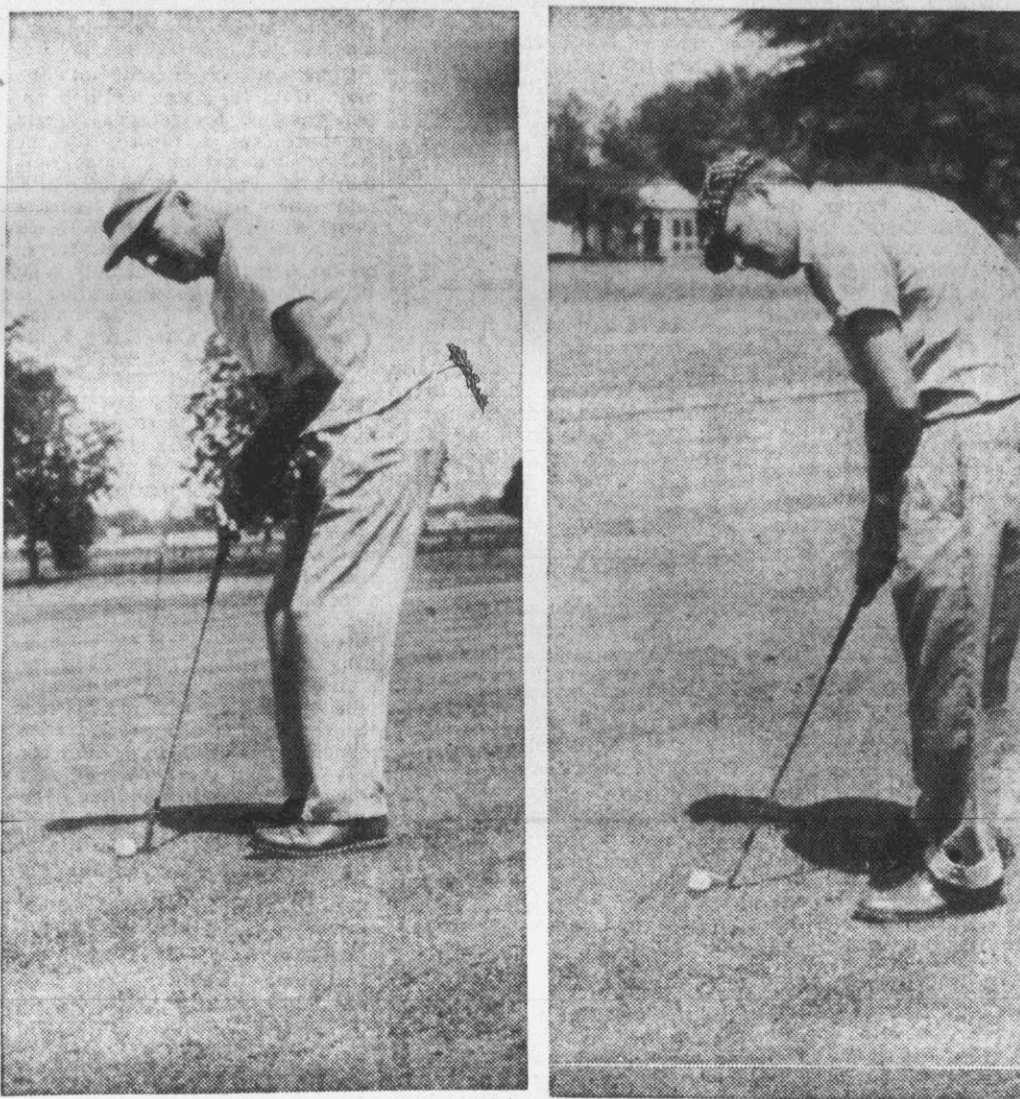

Duke track Coach Bob Chamber said his red-haired speedster has never run faster than he did Saturday night.

Winston-Salem Teachers College won the team championship with 34 1/2 points. The University of North Carolina and North Carolina College tied for second with 25. Duke had 21.

In addition to Sime's run, four meet records were broken and another tied.

Dave Scurlock of North Carolina set a record in the 800-yard run. Larry Speer broke the shot put mark. Robert Johnson of Fayetteville set a new broad jump record, and North Carolina College broke its own mile-relay record.

They Were Knocked Out Of Title Contention

ELIMINATED from the finals of the Greenville Golf and Country Club Match Play championship in play Saturday and Sunday, were Boley Farley (left) and Bob Masten, Farley, the defending champion, was topped by Erroll Webb and Masten was beaten by Donald Conley, in 36 holes this weekend. Conley and Webb will vie for the title Saturday at the Club. The public is invited to attend. (Reflector Sports Photos by Billy Arnold).

Webb, Conley Jr. To Battle For Greenville 1957 Golf Championship

By JACK EDWARDS

Don Conley Jr., N. C. State College freshman, and Erroll Webb, 1951 champion, advanced to the finals of the City Golf championship tournament in a 36-hole match which was played Saturday and yesterday.

Finals are scheduled for this weekend, but Conley will be involved in exams at State College and possibly will not get to Greenville in time. At present, the tournament committee is ruling on an alternate date if Conley's schedule will not permit play this weekend.

Webb defeated Bob Farley, last year's champion, seven and six. At the end of Saturday's play Farley was three down. Conley defeated Bob Masten, three and two, after ending the first day even.

Of the foursome Webb was the only one who was on his game during the weekend. Masten and Conley had 81's on Saturday, Farley a 76 and Webb a 74. Sunday Webb shot a 73, Conley 77, Farley 80, and Masten 81.

Webb, 46-year-old dairy manager, will be favored over Conley, 19-year-old former City junior champion. This will be Erroll's sixth trip to the finals; in 1951 he won over W. L. Allen for the championship. On other trips Reynolds May and Simon Moye topped him. In recent city tournaments he has been playing as well or better than the top golfers in Eastern Carolina.

En route to the finals, Webb won over Dick Evans, W. L. Allen Jr. and Farley. Conley eliminated Reynolds May, W. L. Allen Sr. and Masten.

Ben Harrison advanced to the first flight finals with a win over Connor Merritt. The winner of the Jim Lanier-Bill Davenport match will meet Harrison.

Sgt. J. B. Boyd of the highway patrol won over Henry Coleman to take the second flight. John Proctor is third flight champion; the Rev. Glen Haney the loser in the finals.

Fourth flight play is behind schedule. Cecil Bilbro, Dick Bagham, and Dick Heller are semifinalists, while Howard Hodges is to play Frank Hill for the fourth position.

In the fifth flight Rhett Hunnicutt won the title from his father, Reynolds May, W. L. Allen Sr. and Roy.

Elks Notch Win Over Pepsi Nine

In Tar Heel Little League ball Saturday, the Elks defeated the Pepsi-Cola club 8-3 as both teams made their debut for the season.

The game marked the second meeting of Tar Heel League teams and was the fourth Little League game of the young season.

Sumrell was the winning pitcher for the Elks and went the full six innings. He allowed the losers only four hits, struck out three, and walked none.

F. Harper began on the mound for Pepsi-Cola and was relieved in the third inning by J. Harper. The loss was chalked up to F. Harper. The Elks blasted both pitchers for a total of seven hits, including a home run.

Proctor Homers

Elks catcher Proctor served notice in the first inning that the Elks were going to be tough. He cracked a long home run with two mates on board to push his team out in front 3-0 lead. Maloney and Greene were the Elks on base at the time.

Pepsi came back in the bottom half of the initial inning to score once. F. Harper led off with a single. He scored later on a single and an error.

Three more runs went across the plate for the Elks in the second inning to virtually clinch the game for them. Moye, Elks rightfielder, connected for a single and was thrown at second on a fielder's choice as Cain went to first. Maloney was hit by a pitched ball, putting two men on base. Shortstop Hardee singled and two consecutive errors by Pepsi-Cola first baseman and second baseman allowed the three runs across.

To insure their lead, the Elks pushed through two more runs in the third frame, to account for their total of eight. Errors by the Pepsi first and third basemen put B. Moye and Cain on base. A single by Maloney loaded the bases and the Pepsi pitcher walked in two runs.

Final Pepsi Nine

There was no more scoring in the game until the sixth and final stanza. Behind 8-1, the Pepsi-Cola crew managed to produce two more scores on a hit by Dunn, and two errors.

Today's game at Elm Street Park was scheduled for 5:00 between the VFW and the Kiwanis, in the North State League.

Elon Finishes In First Place; East Carolina Second

Elon is the 1957 North State Conference baseball champion and a young Laurinburg, N. C. sophomore had a lot to do with the championship returning to the Christians after a two-year lapse.

The sophomore is Gilbert Watts. Not only did he compile an excellent 7-1 pitching record, but Watts also dispelled the old theory that hurlers can't hit by leading his team in batting with a lofty .519 mark. Watts would double in the outfield when not pitching.

Elon compiled a 12-3 mark to surpass runnerup East Carolina, the 1956 champs, who had a 9-4 mark. Catawba finished third with an 11-5 mark.

For Elon's coach, Jack Sanford, it was a championship in his first season at the helm of the Elon baseball team.

The battle for the flag went right down to the wire. The Christians didn't have a clear claim to the crown until Catawba split two makeup games last week. A 5-3 setback at the hands of Appalachian actually cost Catawba a chance for a possible tie with Elon.

Following the top three teams in the standings were Lenoir Rhyne (7-5), Guilford (6-8), Appalachian (6-9) Atlantic Christian (4-6), Western Carolina (3-10) and High Point (3-11).

Near-Tragedy Mars Virginia 500 Race

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP)—The gale "Virginia 500" stock car race ended in near tragedy here yesterday when a speeding race car leaped a retaining wall after a collision and plowed into a crowd of spectators.

An eight-year-old boy, Alvin Helsebeck, was critically injured. Two other spectators were injured seriously and hospitalized. The race driver, Billy Myers, was not hurt.

Both Myers and the Helsebeck boy are from Germantown, N.C. Ironically, the boy was the only one of the group of onlookers actually hit by the car. The other injured were hit by flying debris.

Myers was leading the $3,000 race, a highlight of the Virginia stock car race season, when he tried to lap a car driven by Tom Pistone of Chicago and the two collided.

Pistone quickly brought his car under control but Myers' car careened to the southern end of the grandstand, hurtled over and through a portion of the four-foot retaining wall, and toward the group of spectators in an area from which spectators were supposed to be barred.

The Helsebeck boy was struck in the head by the car as it leaped the wall, tearing down a 40-foot section of the wall as it went. The car screeched about 75 feet beyond the wall, and rammed through a fence, before finally coming to a stop. It had not overturned and Myers stepped out with scarcely a scratch. About 15 onlookers had been felled by the flying metal and concrete fragments as they scattered in panic.

Five persons were taken to Martinsville General Hospital, including Clyde Helsebeck of Germantown. The boy later was carried to a Roanoke, Va., hospital for brain surgery. The only victims remaining in the Martinsville hospital today were James F. Martin, 19, and Rylon Dalton, 29, both of

Wicker Ready For USA Marble Title

CONCORD, N.C. (AP) — Larry Wicker, 14-year-old High Point marbles shooter, held the state championship today with his next stop the national finals at Seattle, Wash., June 9.

Wicker defeated David Lowery of Lincolnton here Saturday night in the finals of the FW-sponsored meet which drew 45 boys from 22 cities.

The two finalists received bicycles and trophies. Each of the contestants received smaller trophies.

Miner Trapped Since Friday

LYKENS, Pa. (AP)—Weary rescue crews began clearing out side tunnels in a central Pennsylvania mine today in the desperate, all but hopeless job of trying to rescue alive a 34-year-old father of five trapped in the mine since early Friday.

There were no tapped signals from David Snyder to spur the 40-man crew, which has been working in four-hour shifts since 11:30 a. m. Friday. The last heard from him was Friday afternoon when a federal mine inspector tapped on the rocky walls. Five taps came back in reply.

Last night the rescue crews cleaned out the last debris from the coal slide in the 400-foot main shaft. The only trace of the missing man was his shirt.

The workers early today began clearing out the side tunnels, known as gangways, where it was thought Snyder might have been working.

There are five of these in the mine, but two are above the point where the slide filled up the mine. The gangways run laterally off the main shaft for about 30 feet, ending in upward slants about six feet high where the coal is being dug.

Rain, wind and chilly temperatures drove away the crowd of curious that has pressed as close to the scene as police would allow.

which of the four will "hit the jackpot." This is the principle upon which you must work if you expect to turn $10,000 into $1,000,000 in 25 years.
I am interested in having young people as Trustees for these "speculative" funds for another reason. Older men are constantly looking backward rather than forward. They want to see the audits of companies for previous years. These audits are more like autopsies. They are useful in helping a person to save his money; but are of very little use in helping him make a fortune by investing in new industries. Youth looks forward; youth is willing to take a chance; and youth is the hope of America, especially as to new developments and new industries.

I would also like to see one of these Trustees a young woman. The President of the well-known investment house, A. M. Kidder & Co., is a woman. In fact, the majority of our nation's stockholders are women.
INVESTING FOR PROFITS
This is especially important for people in high income brackets who are compelled to pay a tax of 50 per cent or more on general income but would need to pay only 25 per cent on profits from securities. Furthermore, I am not advising that all young Trust Funds be of a speculative nature specializing in new industries. If, however, you plan to leave $50,000 to some grandchild in trust, I certainly advise that $10,000 of this be left with four forward-looking trustees, leaving the remaining $40,000 in a Trust Fund with a bank, to be operated in the usual orthodox manner.

Notice Of Sale Of 1956 Real Estate Taxes City Of Greenville, North Carolina

Pursuant to Section 1715, Chapter 319 Public Laws of North Carolina, Session 1941, and by order of the City Council, I will on Monday, June 10, 1957, in front of the Courthouse door in the City of Greenville, North Carolina, expose for sale to the highest bidder for cash, the following Real Estate for delinquent taxes for the year 1956. Penalty in the amount of 3% per cent has already accumulated on these taxes and interest will continue to be charged at 6 per cent annum until taxes are paid.

"MH-30 IS TOPS IN SUCKER CONTROL"

says veteran grower

One veteran tobacco grower states, "In 25 years I've never seen anything as effective or as economical for controlling suckers as MH-30."

MH-30 is the famous Naugatuck growth retardant that eliminates repeated and costly plant-by-plant hand suckering, improves the quantity and quality of the leaf. No longer can suckers sap your finest leaves of needed nutrients. Only one MH-30 spraying by one man is required per season, compared to an average of three hand suckering. You save time... you save money... you save labor, and you get better tobacco. Product of Naugatuck Chemical Division, United States Rubber Company.

Order MH-30 from your local supplier today. Write, wire or phone us if unable to locate immediate source of supply.

Science Shrinks Piles
New Way Without Surgery
Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—
Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids
New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" This secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H® At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

Rae Foley's new mystery novel
RUN FOR YOUR LIFE

CHAPTER 26

Mr. Potter had returned to his Gramercy Park house. In the morning, he decided, he would drive back to the inn.

He stood for a moment staring at the stairway. As he did so, he found himself thinking of another stairway, of a woman pitching headlong to her death.

Abruptly, he turned and went out in the street to his car. The streets were nearly deserted at this hour except for stray taxis and the inevitable heavy trucks. On the Westside Highway, he pressed his foot down firmly on the gas pedal and with a deep-throated roar the red Jaguar leaped ahead, eating up the road. No matter how he tried to reason with himself, Mr. Potter could not argue away a growing uneasiness, an impression that haste was necessary.

This is ridiculous, he thought. Nothing can happen. But a part of his mind cried, "Hurry, hurry," and he obeyed it as he always had, overruling the admonition of his common sense and reason. His thoughts churned wildly while his hands were steady on the wheel, going over the information he had picked up during the day.

The drive seemed endless and there was no telling what might be going on at the inn. For a moment he was tempted to stop at the first house along the road and call Captain Foote, send him post-haste to the inn. And suppose, he reminded himself, the State Trooper would like to know why. Do I tell him I have a hunch, a nice attack of girlish jitters?

Where the parkway ended and Route 22 began, he had to slow down, creep through villages with sharp curves and low speed limits. Whenever the road opened he speeded up. Nothing, he told himself firmly, could possibly go wrong. After Mrs. Riddle's murder, it would be too dangerous.

Queer how Collinge had cleared out of Sardi's. The man who called himself Tom Jones had acquired a loyal friend there, but a friend who wanted no part in murder. And there was no longer any doubt that Tom Jones had some association with Candy Kendrick.

With a feeling of profound relief Mr. Potter turned in the entrance to the inn grounds and parked his car. The Connecticut State Police had gone, everything was quiet, and the building was dark. The car clock showed three-thirty. Everyone was in bed and asleep. All at once he felt embarrassed at the fear which had propelled him along the road at break-neck speed. He was wide awake now, in no mood for bed. He strolled around the inn, saw a quare of slight and looked up. Someone was still awake. He tried to remember to whom the room belonged. One of the Demings, he thought.

He let himself in quietly and crept up the stairs. It seemed to him that he made no noise but he must have been wrong about that for, as he reached the second floor, a door opened and Deming, in dressing gown and pajamas, looked out at him.

"Oh," he said flatly, "it's you."

"Having a sleepless night?" Mr. Potter asked.

Deming stared at him for a moment as though he had not grasped the other man's meaning. Then he grunted, "Feel like talking?"

"By all means."

Deming waved him to the only comfortable chair and sat on the side of the bed.

"You got out just in time," Deming said. "You stirred up the animals, trapped Frank into an admission that he knew the girl Candy. Stuart Young came back here, foaming at the mouth, and raised the devil. He got hold of Captain Foote. Now they've taken my boy to the State Police barracks for questioning."

"Foote is an honest man," Mr. Potter said. "He'll watch his step."

"How deep in was he with that girl?" Deming asked.

"I think he was genuinely in love with her," Mr. Potter said soberly, "but that it was one-sided. A number of people seem to have been in love with Candy Kendrick, not only Frank but Ives, Bert Huger and, quite possibly, Tom Jones."

"I fired Jones today," Deming said and then added sharply, "You say he knew the girl, too?"

"Must have," Mr. Potter took an envelope from his pocket and drew out the sketch he had appropriated from the portfolio of Candy's drawings. It represented a tall, dark young man dressed in eighteenth century costume, an arresting figure with its power and its grace, a memorable face with its curious mingling of devil-may-care humor and implacability. The face, like the costume, belonged to another century.

"What's this?" Deming asked.

"Don't you recognize him?"

"Of course, it's that tutor of mine. What is he supposed to be, an actor?"

"That's one of the sketches Candy made for an illustrated edition of Fielding's Tom Jones."

"I'll be darned," Deming said bleakly. "Then who is he really?"

"I haven't the remotest idea," Mr. Potter admitted. "But I think he was in love with the girl or at least, she was in love with him. She knew him well to be able to catch his basic qualities as she did. I suspect he owned the picture of Candy which was given to Nora. I think he came here, like a fool, to avenge her murder himself."

"And killed Olive by mistake?"

"I don't know. But I'm afraid we'll have to do something fairly drastic about Tom Jones. We can't have any more deaths here."

He raised his head, listened, then went to the door and eased it open.

"What is it?" Deming asked in a low tone.

"Someone moving around," Mr. Potter slipped out into the hallway and closed the door noiselessly behind him. There was no sound at all. Then he heard a door open, water running, a faint tinkle.

A crack of light gleamed under Miss Garrison's door. He pushed it open. The room was dark, the light coming from the open door of the bathroom which connected the two rooms.

The nurse, in pink pajamas, was standing in the bathroom, drying a glass. She set it on a shelf and stood looking into the other room, motionless, as though listening. Mr. Potter moved cautiously, the carpet deadening the sound of his feet. Abruptly, the nurse went into the other room, going toward the bed. Mr. Potter heard it then, the sound of stentorian breathing.

He was in Nora's bedroom now, flipped the switch at the door, came back. Garry's mouth opened to scream.

"Quiet," he said, and bent over the bed. Nora lay on her back, mouth open, breathing heavily. He shook her, yelled in her ear, "Nora! Nora!"

He turned to the nurse. "Get a

Texas House Has 45 Busy Minutes

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas House of Representatives held a busy 45-minute session recently. In formally approved resolutions, the House:

1. Wished Rep. Louis Anderson a happy birthday; 2. Congratulated the Baylor University football team on winning the Sugar Bowl game; 3. Wished Miss Wanda Gann of Waco good luck in a TV appearance; 4. Defeated a proposal that 35 cents found under the speaker's desk go to the Appropriations Committee; 5. Gave the 35 cents to Uncle Henry, the House porter; and 6. Adjourned.

BELLAIRE, Ohio (AP)—Atomic science, until now the almost exclusive domain of higher echelon physicists, will be brought out of the intellectual stratosphere next year with the introduction at Bellaire High School of a scheduled course in the subject.

Old 1914 Check Was Still Good

KANSAS CITY (AP) — On Aug. 21, 1914 Anton Haas, a Wallace County, Kans., farmer received a check for $2.16 when he returned a case and 24 empty bottles to what was then the Kansas City branch of the Pabst Brewery. A few weeks ago, Haas, now 79, was going through some old papers when he found the check. The Kansas City brewery closed in 1923 but Haas presented the check to the First National Bank of Kansas City.

Bank officials dusted off their old accounts and came up with one that credited the brewery with $66.91.

Haas got his $2.16.

Personal Stake In Finding Thief

RUPERT, Idaho (AP) — There was personal dignity as well as professional reputation at stake when law officers started hunting the burglar who cleaned out Parker's Laundry and Dry Cleaners here.

Among the loot was two pairs of trousers — one belonging to Sheriff Theo Johnson and the other to Police Chief Jake Wall.

The thief was caught at Pocatello. But neither Johnson nor Wall got their pants back.

Now from the world's most advanced refinery—

Greater AMOCO-GAS

Greater for every car... yet no increase in price!

A GAIN new-car compression ratios and their power needs have set record highs. And, again millions of motorists look to Amoco for maximum premium gasoline power without the use of lead. In response to the growing demand for America's only unleaded premium motor fuel, Amoco now announces the opening of the world's most modern, most advanced gasoline refinery at Yorktown, Virginia.

Amoco's magnificent new Yorktown refinery and new facilities at the present great Texas City refinery make possible Greater Amoco-Gas . . . the highest natural octane gasoline in history, yet available at no increase in price!

Greater Amoco-Gas is the only high-octane gasoline of its kind. Every other premium gasoline, regardless of fancy color, fancy pump or fancy name, is actually a low-octane gasoline artificially boosted to premium rating by lead. But lead doesn't burn! Instead, it leaves fouling deposits on spark plugs, pistons and valves . . . causes pre-ignition and an ever-increasing thirst for more gasoline.

That's why only clear-white, unleaded Greater Amoco-Gas guarantees longer car life . . . no lead fouling . . . greater mileage per gallon than ever before possible . . . 100% power for every car on the road!

Amoco's modern Yorktown refinery is also responsible for other famous, high quality Amoco products including American Gas — the Big Buy of all the Regulars!

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market plunged further ahead into new high ground for 1957 today. Trading was active early this afternoon.

Pivotal issues advanced from fractions to around a point. No particular leadership was shown by any division of the list.

The high-speed ticker tape fell behind for nine minutes at the start as it failed to keep pace with the weekend accumulation of orders.

A few stocks responded to corporate news or expectations with wider gains than the average. But there was no outstanding news to focus attention on shares of any particular industry.

Financial observers said that failure of the rail average to match the advance of the industrials in the march to new highs has robbed the rise of an important element of conviction. Meanwhile, leading carriers were mixed today.

Lukens Steel surged ahead another 2 points as it was boosted by hopes of an additional stock split.

Chrysler rose a major fraction and was in active demand on the report that the Army had given the firm a 100 million dollar order for tanks.

American Cyanamid forged ahead well past a point on the eve of tomorrow's directors' meeting when a proposed 100 per cent stock dividend will be considered. Du Pont was ahead another point in early trading but erased the gain as it declared its usual $1.50 dividend.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem were slightly higher but Republic Steel eased. Aside from Chrysler, motors were barely changed. In the irregular rail group, New York Central added a major fraction while Santa Fe and Southern Railroad eased.

Among aircrafts, Boeing rose around a point and United Aircraft a fraction. Douglas Aircraft lost a bit. Nonferrous metals were mixed. International Nickel advanced well over a point. Kennecott dropped a major fraction. Anacosta rose slightly.

Other gainers were International Paper, Zenith, Goodrich and Caterpillar.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 40 cents to $185.30, beating the new 1957 closing high posted on Friday. The industrials rose 50 cents, the rails 20 cents and the utilities 20 cents.

The graduation exercises were preceded by the traditional march of robed candidates for degrees, faculty members and participants in the program. The group marched from Flanagan buildings, across the campus to Wright Circle. There the double lines split as the procession wound around the circle and then moved into Wright Auditorium.

The big graduating senior class required the entire center section of Wright for seating. Parents and other guests filled the auditorium to overflowing and loudspeakers in the lobby and Student Union beneath the auditorium brought the program to relatives and guests who were unable to squeeze in the main auditorium.

President Messick presided at the ceremonies. With Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert directing, the East Carolina orchestra played Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstances" as the graduates and faculty marched into the building.

Graduates of 1957 include 100 masters of arts, 63 bachelors of arts, and 445 bachelors of science. More than 90 per cent of those receiving degrees completed their work in the field of teacher-training and are prepared for careers in education.

The Class of 1957 is predominantly North Carolinian. Among its members, 595 men and women represent 67 counties of the state. Thirteen are from states of Virginia, Mississippi, Pennsylvania and New York.

Wendell W. Smiley and Dr. James H. Stewart of the faculty headed the committee on arrangements for commencement.

Special music included selections by the East Carolina Choir under the direction of Dr. Elwood Keister. The group gave a program of religious music with Dottie Jo June Crews of Creedmoor, member of the Class of 1957, sang Mendelssohn's "Hear Ye Israel."

The Rev. W.M. Howard, Jr., of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, spoke the invocation.

ECC Grad Dies In Bomber Crash

First Lt. Johnny C. Helms, 25, a 1954 graduate of East Carolina College, was killed in an Air Force plane crash Friday.

Helms was navigator on a B-57 which was on a training mission over Camp A. P. Hill, Va. The pilot of the plane, stationed at Langley Air Force Base, Va., was also killed. The pilot was identified as Capt. Robert E. Pittman, 34, of Mount Olive, Miss.

While at East Carolina, Helms was a member of the Air Force ROTC unit; commander of the unit's Drum and Bugle Corps; secretary and president of Alpha Phi Omega leadership fraternity; business manager of Sigma Rho Phi social fraternity; vice-president of the college band; president and vice-president of the college glee club; a member of Circle K; and summer sports editor of the student newspaper, the East Carolinian. Helms was married to the former Theo Hollingsworth of Kenansville, also a graduate of East Carolina. They have one child. Other survivors include Helms' parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Helms of Route 6, Monroe.
