The portrait of Mrs. Lawrence was contributed by the Falkland PTA and will hang in the school library. Rescue Workers Count 34 Dead In Wake Of Kansas City Twister

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The season's worst tornado smashed across the south edge of Kansas City at dusk last night, dealing death and destruction along an 80-mile swath in nearby Kansas and Missouri.

Rescue workers counted 34 dead. At least 200 persons were in hospitals, some seriously injured. Twenty-two were killed at Silvertown, Tex., on May 15 in the worst previous twister this year. On May 25, 1955, a tornado wiped out little Udall, Kan., 175 miles southwest of Kansas City killing 80.

Yesterday's big wind concentrated its worst destruction on Ruskin Heights and Hickman Mills, about 12 miles south of downtown Kansas City and four miles east of the Kansas-Missouri line.

Gov. James T. Blair of Missouri ordered martial law there and mobilized the 10th Engineers of the Missouri National Guard for rescue and relief work. A force of more than 2,000 moved in by daylight to search for more bodies and bring together scattered families. Most of the casualties were in Ruskin Heights and Hickman Mills. There also were dead at Ottawa and Spring Hill in Kansas and at Martin City and Lees Summit in Missouri. The Red Cross estimated 975 families affected at Ruskin Heights, with 11 dead. The tornado's path missed Harry Truman's hometown, Independence, Mo., by about 15 miles. It is east of downtown Kansas City.

An initial survey showed 50 to 60 houses destroyed in Ruskin Heights, along with a 15-story shopping center and the new two-million dollar high school. Seventeen bodies were removed from an A & P supermarket in the shopping center.

The wind leveled the Ruskin Heights shopping center as if it had been bulldozed. J. M. Kaesner, one of the first to reach it, said: "The place was filled with people who were moaning and crying. It was just as bad as if a bomb had hit out there."

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Angotti hurried their five children toward a hardware store as the storm came up.

"I had to hold Jennifer's hair to keep her from being blown out of my arms," Angotti said. Police called for all available ambulances, nurses and doctors. Collection stations were set up for the injured and they were relayed to hospitals in Kansas City, Independence, Mo., and the Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base at Grandview.

Police also appealed for mobile generators and portable flood lights to facilitate rescue work. The storm wiped out power service. The storm struck first at Ottawa, Kan., 60 miles southwest of Kansas City. A motel and restaurant were destroyed. Five big transport trucks were wrecked and several houses were wrecked. The Kansas Highway Patrol reported 22 houses destroyed or heavily damaged at Rantoul, just east of Ottawa.

At Spring Hill, Kan., half way to Kansas City, the tornado smashed the new home of Isham Davis and killed Davis, his wife and two daughters, 7 and 5. The black funnel veered slightly off its northeast course as it approached Kansas City, dipping across Grandview, Hickman Mills and Ruskin Heights about 7:45 p. m.

Kansas City radio and television stations had relayed repeated warnings from the Weather Bureau, advising residents to take shelter in basements. Arthur Buchanan, his wife and four children were among those who headed for the home of Bill Beaver in Ruskin Heights because it has a basement. "At least 50 of us were in the basement, laying on top of one another three or four deep," Buchanan said.

Stamp OK On Adding Legislators

RALEIGH (AP)—Senate Judiciary Committee today gave its blessing to a legislative reapportionment measure which would amend the state constitution so as to give North Carolina a 160-member state House of Representatives and a 100-member Senate.

The committee adopted a motion to give the measure, sponsored by Sen. Claude Currie of Durham, a favorable report on motion of Sen. Luther Hamilton of Carteret.

The motion carried by a voice vote after the committee had defeated 8 to 5 a motion by Sen. Fran Patton Cooke of Gaston to give the measure an unfavorable report.

Sen. Seavy Carroll of Cumberland offered a motion to report the measure "without prejudice"—meaning that the committee would take no stand either for or against the measure. He withdrew the motion after Chairman Calvin Graves of Forsyth said, "Let's do something about it one way or the other."

Under the measure, each county would have one member in the Senate to give that body 100 members. In the House, each county would have a representative, and the other 60 House members would be allocated among large counties on a basis of population.

Gov. Hodges had indicated he looks with favor on Currie's proposal which was introduced after other measures to amend the constitution and change the method of legislative reapportionment were defeated.

Since the bill would amend the state constitution, it must be approved by a three-fifths vote of each House of the Legislature and then submitted to the people for approval.

Await Another Weather Report

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—Observers awaited another weather report today to determine whether the much postponed first shot of the summer atomic test series will finally be set off tomorrow.

The blast was called off for the sixth straight day yesterday because of 150-mile-an-hour jet stream winds in the upper atmosphere.

Rap Rivalry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rivalry among the three branches of the armed services, the House Appropriations Committee said today, "is becoming so serious as to jeopardize and delay the rate of build-up of our military power."

The committee called on heads of the services to "substitute real unification for the present loose federation."

Its criticism of the rivalry was contained in a report accompanying the 1958 appropriation bill for the Defense Department.

"It all seems to have begun," the committee said, "with the desire on the part of each service to control the 'ultimate weapon,' the ballistic missile."

Arrest Pair For Extortion Plot

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Two Henderson men were arrested yesterday in what authorities called a $55,000 extortion plot.

The two were arrested, police said, shortly after they picked up a sack they thought contained $55,000 but which actually contained paper cut to resemble money.

They were identified as Isham Bagley, 43, and a Negro companion, Charles Haley, 32.

Arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Henry Bane of Durham, they were bound over to the next federal grand jury which convenes the fourth Monday in September.

Postal authorities would not identify the intended victim. Bane said he was a "Winston-Salem man connected with a bank."

The victim received the first of two letters about a month ago. The letter threatened that a "scandal would be exposed" unless $77,000 were paid.

A "plant" was made, using paper in a sack instead of money. The sack was not picked up. A second letter, mailed May 15, demanded $55,000.

Another "plant" was made and postal inspectors, sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen kept watch with binoculars. They also had a movie camera.

Officers said Bagley and Haley drove to the spot yesterday, just off Route 70 in Cheeks Township. The officers said Haley got out, picked up the sack, put it under his shirt and got into the car.

When they drove away, they were promptly stopped and placed under arrest.

Tribute Paid To Her 21 Years In Teaching Career

BY JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Staff Writer

FALKLAND—Mrs. Lillian Crisp Lawrence, the fifth grade teacher who is substituting for student assemblies at Falkland Elementary School, forgot to close the keyboard cover on the piano yesterday.

The oversight was forgiven, however, by students, teachers and other Falkland citizens who surprised her by dedicating a portion of the school's final assembly to the gray-haired teacher. Mrs. Lawrence is retiring from her classroom work this year.

Principal Ed Warren presented Mrs. Lawrence with a certificate from the Pitt County Board of Education and also unveiled a portrait of her which will hang in the school library. The portrait, done by a New York artist, was given to the school by the Falkland PTA which includes many former students of the 65-year-old teacher.

Woodrow Wooten, a former student at the school and vice-chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, presented Mrs. Lawrence with a television set, contributed by Falkland residents.

In making the presentations, both Warren and Wooten paid tribute to Mrs. Lawrence's "high character and personal standards which have influenced all who have come in contact with her."

Warren reviewed her record during 21 years of teaching and Wooten called attention to her work as a community leader.

Warren said that in two years at Rich Square, a year at Salisbury, three years as a county supervisor in Wayne County, and 15 years at Falkland she had taught more than 1,000 children, "always leaving the imprint of her high personal standards on them."

Wooten pointed out that she had been especially active in church work, in addition to her teaching, and told the assembly, "I know of no better Christian anywhere."

County Schools Award Diplomas To 303 Pupils

Diplomas were presented to 303 graduates in Pitt County's nine white high schools last night.

Fifty graduates were presented diplomas at Farmville, 43 at Ayden, 41 at Chicod, 34 at Belvoir-Falkland, 32 at Winterville, 28 at Bethel and Stokes-Pactolus, 24 at Grifton and 23 at Grimesland.

At Belvoir-Falkland, valedictorian Joyce Jenkins was announced as winner of the 1957 Daily Reflector Memorial Scholarship. The award, which provides $720 for four years of study at East Carolina College, was presented by John S. Whichard, Business Manager of The Daily Reflector.

The scholarship was established in memory of the late David Jordan Whichard, 1862-1922, founder of The Daily Reflector. It is designed to make possible a college education for deserving young men and women of Pitt County who could not attend college without financial assistance.

Miss Jenkins qualified for the scholarship on the basis of her high school record which included a four-year academic average of 94. She is immediate past-president of the Belvoir-Falkland Student Government Association, former vice-president of the school's chapter of the National Beta Club, and holds the Degree of Honor for work in the National Forensic League.

At East Carolina, Miss Jenkins plans to major in Science and will become a school teacher.

Selection of Miss Jenkins as winner of the scholarship was made by a committee composed of representatives from the Greenville City Schools, the Pitt County Schools and East Carolina College. The scholarship is awarded in alternate years to students in the Greenville system and the Pitt County system.

Last night's nine individual graduation exercises included student and adult speakers. Seniors delivered principal addresses at

Changes Announced In County Principalships

County Superintendent of Schools D. H. Conley today announced two changes in principalships of schools in the county system.

Ed Warren, principal of Falkland Elementary School for the past four years, will become principal of the Belvoir-Falkland School District. The new set-up will include the Falkland Elementary School and the Belvoir-Falkland School where Warren will replace O. H. Forrest who has resigned to become principal of South Edgecombe School.

Conley also announced the resignation of P. H. H. Hodges, principal of Chicod School for the past seven years. Hodges is moving to Kingston where he will become principal of Harvey Elementary School.

Warren, the new district principal at Belvoir-Falkland, taught two years at Belvoir-Falkland High School before moving to the elementary school four years ago. He received his Associate of Arts degree from Campbell Junior College, the Bachelor of Arts degree from Atlantic Christian College and the Master of Arts degree from East Carolina.

Warren is presently serving a two-year term as mayor of Falkland, a job to which he was elected last year. He is also program chairman of the Falkland Rural Club, a teacher in the Falkland Presbyterian Sunday school, a former treasurer of the Pitt County Athletic Association and a former treasurer of the Pitt County Field Day.

Warren lives in Falkland with his wife, the former Joan Braswell of Ayden. They have no children. No successor to Hodges has been

House Committee Cuts New Defense Dept. Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today cut $2,586,775,000 out of new defense department funds. It said the military threat to the free world "appears, in certain respects, to have somewhat abated."

But it cautioned against "complacency" as it recommended $33,541,225,000 in new appropriations for the Army, Navy and Air Force for the fiscal year starting July 1.

President Eisenhower had requested $36,128,000,000 for the armed services, which received $34,698,523,000 for the present year.

The 2½-billion-dollar cut amounted to seven per cent of the president's request, but $1,296,000,000 of it was what congressional circles normally describe as "phony," leaving an actual net reduction of $1,290,775,000 or less than four per cent.

The Army, for example, was allowed to use for regular activities 400 million dollars to be transferred from its stock and industrial funds. The Navy was given an extra 190 millions by similar transfers. These are revolving funds which the services use to operate their industrial and commercial type programs. Eisenhower had asked for new cash instead.

Another 516 millions of the reduction was in line with Eisenhower's recent advice to Congress that that amount could be trimmed from Army procurement and production funds because it probably would not be obligated within the year.

A 190-million-dollar cut in Navy funds was attributed to heavy unbilled balances and to new pricing policies.

A reduction of $126,741,000 was based on the assumption that the Republic of Germany would continue during the coming year to supply goods and services to United States forces at the same rate they provided them this year.

Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.), chairman of a subcommittee that drafted the bill, told newsmen the $2,586,775,000 reduction in new obligatory authority "should not be interpreted to mean that this will effect a reduction of that amount in defense spending in 1958."

Mahon noted that actual spending in 1958 will include funds appropriated in previous years but not yet spent. He emphasized that the reduction in this year's bill "eventually will have its impact on defense spending in future years."

Throughout a 100-page report accompanying the bill, the committee noted the rising costs of military items and the growing public clamor for economy in government. It scolded the services for what it said was "waste and extravagance resulting from lack of effective control throughout every stage of the procurement process."

An Evaluation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's "immediate capability or desire" to start a war appears to be lessening, the House Appropriations Committee said today.

That statement, the committee said in a report accompanying the Defense Department's 1958 appropriation bill, is based on military intelligence information which, it conceded, is "never fully accurate or adequate."

Soviet concentration on military items continues to close the gap between this country and Russia, the committee said.

"The heavy long range jet bomber production program of the U.S.S.R., now somewhat smaller than ours, is increasing. Our present estimate of the quantity of Soviet heavy bomber production has been revised downward since we considered the defense bill last year. Our estimates of our own B52 bomber production have also been adjusted downward this year," the report said.

"The Russian army is three times the size of our own and while it does not represent a threat to the continental United States, it represents a threat to Western Europe and our troops who are stationed there," it went on.

"There is a popular belief that the Soviets have practically no navy. That is not the fact."

The Soviet jet fighter aircraft inventory is probably "greater than our own and the rate of production of fighter aircraft in Russia is greater than our own," the report said.

"In the field of missiles we are in a nip and tuck race with Russia," it added.

United Crusade Changes Time And Site

PROCLAMATION—Mayor S. Eugene West signs a proclamation designating United Crusade for Christ Weeks from May 19 to June 2. Looking on is the Rev. E. C. Thornburg, chairman of publicity for the campaign. (Reflector Staff Photo).

The United Crusade for Christ meetings have been changed to Tuesday evenings and the Churches of Greenville are sponsoring the United Crusade for Christ, with Evangelist Jimmie Johnson and his team, and

"Whereas, we welcome to our city the Johnson team, and hope that their visit with us shall bring rich spiritual blessings to Greenville and Pitt County, and that the people of our City support in every way possible this religious campaign."

"Now, therefore, I, S. Eugene West, Mayor of the City of Greenville, do hereby proclaim and designate the two weeks beginning May 19, 1957 and ending June 2, 1957, as United Crusade for Christ Week for the City of Greenville."

Thornburg also said this morning that the West Greenville Church of God, R. P. Fields, pastor, was inadvertently left from a list of sponsoring churches which appeared in Saturday's Reflector.

There are 31 churches participating in the Crusade. Evangelist Jimmie Johnson is leading the Crusade. The Rev. Merrill Dunlop is organizer for the Johnson team and Ralph McGilvra is song leader-soloist.

Two Men Draw Prison Terms On Worthless Check Charges

A pair of men who bounced worthless checks around Pitt County drew prison sentences yesterday from Judge J. Paul Prizzelle, presiding at a criminal term of Superior Court which opened yesterday morning.

Rudolph Manning, convicted on 14 counts of forgery and uttering forged checks, drew ten years in Central Prison and William Allen Sawyer, who had a charge of public drunkenness tacked onto 20 counts of passing worthless checks, drew 30 days on each count with the 21 individual sentences to be served consecutively.

Manning actually drew a total of 75 years for forging 14 checks. Judge Prizzelle, in passing sentence, stipulated, however, that the ten-year sentence imposed on the first charge was to be the base sentence and the other 13 terms of five years each were to be served consecutively.

The 32-year-old Manning, whose address was listed by court officials as Maysville, was convicted of forging checks valued at $266.00 on banks in Greenville, Kingston, Washington and Bethel. According to testimony in the cases, Manning forged the names of J. E. Winslow on nine of the checks, H. P. Raspberry on two of them, W. T. Whitehurst on one, J. V. Taylor on one, and J. V. Taylor, Jr., on one.

Sawyer, 53-year-old white man whose address was listed at Route 1, Grimesland, passed 20 worthless checks through several Greenville business firms who either gave him cash or merchandise valued at $222.28.

Other judgments in yesterday's session included Roosevelt Josephs, no address listed, embezzlement, 18 to 24 months; Joseph Willard White, Bethel speeding 70 miles-per-hour, prayer for judgment continued upon payment of costs and surrender of driver's license for ten days.

Henry Arthur Baker, 1010 Ward Street, Greenville, driving under the influence, $100 and costs, to be paid on or before the August, 1957, term of Superior Court; Robert Lee Wells, Negro, no address listed, breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony, two years; Thomas Rushman Andrews, Bethel, speeding 68 miles-per-hour, $25 costs; Leslie Moore, alias James Thomas Moore, alias Head Hazelton, Ayden, larceny of an automobile, 18 months.

Kenneth Ray Wells, no address listed, no operator's license, careless and reckless driving, 30 days on charge of no operator's license, 90 days on charge of careless and reckless driving, to run consecutively, sentences suspended upon condition that the defendant does not operate a motor vehicle for five years and that he is not employed by a service station for the same period of time.

Memo to Brides

Wedding Wear: What, Where, When

(Editor's Note: This is the sixth in a series of articles written for the world's darling—the bride).

By ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Woman's Editor

Observance of traditional customs is essential for an occasion as solemn as a wedding. And this goes for traditional wedding-wear, too.

Today's weddings can be classified as formal, semi-formal and informal. These elements dictate what the bride should wear, but the bridegroom must cope with the time of day as well.

Whether it be noon, afternoon or evening, if it's a lavish affair, the bride will probably wear the traditional white light ivory dress with chapel train.

Her veil will be long and if, as is the case with most summer brides, her dress is organie with short sleeves, she should wear long glove. And she shouldn't forget to remove the stitching of the wedding ring finger of the left hand glove so that the ring can be slipped on without taking the glove off in the middle of the ceremony.

As for the bridegroom, if it's formal in the afternoon, he should appear in a cut-away, with black or gray waistcoat, ascot and cuffless striped trousers. But if it's an evening ceremony, his attire will change to white tie and tails.

The bride actually changes the wedding into a semi-formal affair by wearing a dress with short train or no train at all, and a short rather than long veil. But the bridegroom again must change his dress from an Oxford jacket in the afternoon to a midnight blue or black dinner jacket in the evening.

Finally, for the least formal wedding of all, the bride is well dressed in a pastel suit or an afternoon dress with a hat. The bridegroom can wear either an Oxford jacket or a dark business suit.

Short or long dresses are appropriate for both an afternoon or an evening wedding. Blacks and prints are not acceptable, but the mothers may wear navy blue if they choose light accessories.

meeting of the Women of the Church held in the First Presbyterian Church Parlor.

Reports were heard from the church circles and the Executive Board during the business meeting presided at by Mrs. Howard Moyer, president of the Women of the Church.

Mrs. H. H. Bryant and Mrs. W. E. Rosevears were chosen to represent the Greenville church at the Synodical Training School of the Women of the Church at Peace College in June.

Following the devotional by Mrs. Margaret Koonce, Mrs. Leonard Topping discussed the world mission projects that would be realized by the birthday offering that is now being collected in the church. This offering will go toward helping student work in Mexico and hospital and medical work in Korea, she explained.

Miss Sylvia Satterthwaite of East Carolina College illustrated Mrs. Topping's discussion with vivid drawings on a large board. Immediately following the meeting, members and guests were served punch, cakes and cookies at an annual Women of the Church birthday party observed at the time of the birthday offering.

Toddlers Go For Party Sets

THE LATEST THING in fashions for toddlers of both sexes is the party set. This consists of a floored smock top for little girls, a he-man vest or jacket for little boys, and for both, waterproof pants lined with vinyl, to make the youngest set socially acceptable.

Designers have dreamed up all sorts of festive new ideas for dressing up the baby population. Party sets for small glamor girls are of washable fine-wale cotton corduroy, silky cotton broadcloth or nylon, trimmed with tartan plaid ruffles, lace or embroidery. For little boys the pitch is Ivy League, from six months up, with striped shirts, mannish vests and tailored shorts.

Particular care has been taken to see that all fabrics used are colorfast, preshrunk and washable by machine. The most popular items require little or no ironing.

It's a great day for babies, and for mothers too, when the new easy-care fashions provided for the younger generation.

BEST-DRESSED . . . The young man wears a natty cotton vest, Ivy League striped shirt and boxer shorts lined in vinyl. Glamor girl wears party set with scalloped smock of fine-wale pink corduroy with plaid trim, lined bloomers, by Ruth Emmett.

30 Years Ago Today

May 21, 1927

For the past 48 hours Captain Charles A. Lindbergh has been the most talked of man in the world, as a result of his successful non-stop flight from New York to Paris. Capt. Lindbergh, the Flying Fool, Lucky Slim, or whatever other name you may choose to call him, has given to America and the world something to think about. The day will come when the route covered by him will be traversed regularly with passenger carrying planes and then will come the full realization that it was the intrepid Lindbergh who first pointed the way. He has not only made a hero of himself, but he has rendered to the world a service that will place his name among the immortals.

Annual Poppy Day Planned Saturday

Poppy Day will be observed here and throughout the nation on May 25, the Saturday before Memorial Day.

Crape paper poppies made by disabled veterans at Fayetteville, Durham and Salisbury will be offered on the streets and in public places throughout the day by the Greenville Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, to be worn in honor of the war dead.

More than 25,000,000 of these crape paper replicas of the Flanders Field Poppy are made each year by disabled veterans working under the direction of the American Legion Auxiliary. Contributions given in exchange for the poppies go into the Rehabilitation and Child Welfare Fund and are used for welfare of disabled veterans and needy children of veterans.

No Throwaway, But An Investment

Flying a handful of newspaper and magazine editors on a tour of North Carolina may at first sound like a hurry-up throwaway plan for good Tar-Heel money.

And it might well be, if the people who planned the affair were inclined to be casual in their selection of who would be their guests on the five-day outing.

But a look at the list of guests should convince the most economy-minded among us that the potential profit is all on our side.

The roster includes key personnel from such publications as Business Week, Coronet, Editor and Publisher, Hartford (Conn.) Courant, Indianapolis News, the Knight newspapers, National Geographic Magazine, New York Times, Newsweek, Providence (R.I.) Journal, See America Magazine, Time-Life publications, Washington Post-Times Herald and the Washington Star.

As correspondent Lynn Nisbet put it, "these names represent potent factors in national publicity."

What they are being shown is bound to have an impact on their planning for articles and feature stories many months into the future. Each is seeing potential material for eventual publication. Each has his own

Chief Asset Of Future Speaker

By LYNN NISBET

STEPPING STONE — Next to the support of the incumbent Governor, which is virtually a "sine quo non" (without which not), the chief asset of a candidate for Speaker of the House of Representatives is prior service on the advisory Budget Commission—preferably as chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

Seven of the 13 Speakers have served as chairman of the Appropriations Committee, another served as vice-chairman, and three served as heads of the Finance Committee.

Only two, Robert Grady Johnson in 1935 and Oduis M. Mull in 1941, reached the high seat without going by way of the money committee route. Johnson was chairman of the Insurance Committee in 1933 and Mull of Corporations in 1933 and Mull of Corporations in 1939. In both instances they had full support of the incumbent Governor.

Other Speakers in the past 25 years and their money committee experiences are:

1933—R.L. Harris of Person, Appropriations in 1931, 1937—R.G. Cherry of Gaston, Finance in 1935.

1939—D.L. Ward of Craven, Appropriations in 1937. (Ward won in a heated contest over Victor Bryant of Durham, Finance in 1937.)

1943—John Kerry of Warren, Appropriations in 1941.

1945—O.L. Richardson of Union, vice chairman Appropriations 1943.

1947—Thomas J. Pearsall of Nash, Appropriations 1945.

1949—Kerr Craige Ramsey of Rowan, Finance in 1947.

1951—Frank Taylor of Wayne, Appropriations 1949.

1953—E.T. Bost of Cabarrus, Finance in 1951.

1955—Larry I. Moore Jr. of Wilson, Appropriations in 1951.

1957—J. Kemp Doughton of Alleghany, Appropriations in 1935-55.

RULE — The two exceptions to money committee service in the foregoing list tend to prove the rule. In 1935 neither Harris nor Newman of New Hanover, who served as chairman of Appropriations the previous session, nor Rufus A. Doughton of Alleghany, who headed Finance, returned to the House. Doughton had served as Speaker in 1891 and as Lieutenant Governor 1893-97. (He was the father of the 1957 Speaker Kemp Doughton.)

Again in 1941 there were no immediate past money chairman in the House. John W. Caffey of Guilford, who headed appropriations in 1939, did not come back, and William E. Fenner of Nash, who headed Finance, died after his renomination but before the 1941 session convened.

The only occasions of real challenge by non-money committee men were in 1945, when George Uzzell of Rowan went to a vote against Oscar Richardson, and in 1951 when Fred Royster of particular field of interest to develop for their selective readers' interest.

North Carolina can't buy the kind of publicity all this entails. It just isn't sold. Nor should there be any inference that Tar Heels are "buying", or could "buy", favorable comment from the publications whose representatives are being taken on this aerial jaunt.

It's mostly a case of showing them what North Carolina has; and as every proud native knows, we have plenty to show that a lot of outsiders know nothing about.

Once these visitors grasp something of what North Carolina has to offer in the way of tourism, industry, education and hospitality, some "wheels" will start to turn.

We have one small regret about this undertaking: five days is not very much time to show a group of trained observers all we would like them to see. The probability is, though, that if their interest is whetted sufficiently, they'll dig out the rest for themselves.

The tour was sponsored jointly by the State of North Carolina and the N. C. Press Association. We think the undertaking was well worth while . . . both from the standpoint of North Carolina and from that of our guests.

Let's Not Be Hasty Condemning Soil Bank

To some, this may sound like heresy.

But we think that House vote to end the Soil Bank was premature and ill-considered.

Not that the Soil Bank is a "perfect solution" to agricultural problems; nor that we endorse the plan, nor that we have even formed an opinion as to whether it is "good" or "bad".

In all honesty and fairness, Secretary of Agriculture Benson's pet hasn't had enough time to prove its value or weaknesses. One growing season (during which the plan itself got off to a late start) cannot suffice to demonstrate anything. We trust the Senate will give the program one more season to show whether it needs adjusting or abolition. A little patient observation will go a long way toward finding a remedy for our farm ills; and from what we've seen, one more season of Soil Bank isn't going to wreck Agriculture, or cure it, either. Neither the problem nor the solution is made of overnight material.

One big complaint, the administration of the program, seems to have earned Southern Representatives' resentment. The point they make is that corn and grain have gotten the lion's share; cotton and tobacco, a smaller share of potential benefits out of the Soil Bank.

This is probably very true; it is also true there is more acreage devoted to those "corn and grain" crops than all the tobacco and cotton acreage in this country and Africa, put together.

Another point: Tobacco is grown on relatively small farms. To cut production here in the South, it calls for a few acres idled on each of the many thousands of individual farms.

It follows that the individual Southern farmer isn't going to get as much benefit as the man who can casually set aside a hundred acres, or five hundred acres in the middlewestern states.

This largely explains why the Southland hasn't reaped as much of the beneficial returns from the Soil Bank as has the area where big farms are the rule.

Maybe there's a commonsense solution to the feeling of inequity. We hope so.

Of one thing we are sure, and that is that no hot headed approach will solve anything. Being "agin" the Soil Bank because it was sponsored by Benson, is unreasonable; being "for" the Soil Bank because it was sponsored by Benson, is unreasonable. There isn't time nor room for bitter partisanship over agricultural programs.

More 'Sell' At Industrial Show

By ELMER ROESSNER

Because of the tight money situation, a lot more "sell" will be evident at the first National Industrial Development Exposition, which opens today in New York's Coliseum. It's a show at which communities show corporations what they have to offer as sites for new plants.

Plant and equipment spending this year is expected to reach close to $39 billion. But that's committed spending — for new plants and machinery planned a year or more ago. Spending for 1958 is not being committed as fast. Rates on borrowed capital are high, tax-free investors are favoring tax-free bonds, and many corporations are postponing decisions on new plants.

A survey by the Journal of Commerce earlier this year showed that 45 per cent of the areas surveyed showed an increase in inquiries about new plant sites; 16 reported a decrease and 39 per cent showed no change. Allowing for the normal overenthusiasm of local boosterism, that looks like something less than previous rates of expansion.

"COME LIVE WITH US!"

As a consequence, states and cities at the exposition are expected to step up efforts to convince visiting corporations executives to bring their factories to their communities. Among those in this pitching are the states of Arkansas, Illinois, Iowa, Louisiana, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, and South Dakota; Jamaica and the Bahamas; the cities of Greensboro, N.C., Toledo, O., Akron, O., Altona, Pa., Erie, Pa., Lewiston, Pa., and New York; the Huntington-Mount Union, Pa., and the Department of Commerce and Development of the University of Illinois.

Eight independent development firms, the U. S. Department of Commerce and the Small Business Administration also have arranged exhibitions. Experts on various phases will participate in a series of seminars this week.

Rising costs of transportation will be one of the frequent arguments used during the week.

Higher freight rates give great advantage to factories nearest a market. Retail trade associations are currently urging members to buy as much as possible close to their places of business in order to reduce shipping charges.

FACTORS IN LOCATIONS

Among 13 giant corporations polled by the exposition staff prior to the opening, three gave plant location as the most important point in business expansion, and three more gave it as the second most important. Ten gave financing as the first point.

That care in selecting a location for a plant is important is shown by a recent survey by Leonard C. Yaseen, a partner in the Pantus Factory Locating Service.

The ten most common and costly mistakes in locating plants, he found, are:

1. Miscalculating labor costs.
2. Inadequate labor reservoir.
3. Failure to anticipate growth.
4. Carelessness in checking site.
5. Lack of distribution knowledge.
6. Failure to predict local impact of new plant.
7. Lack of supporting facilities.
8. Misinformation on utility costs and problems.
9. Underestimating importance of taxes.
10. Incorrect cost relationship.

The states and communities at the Exposition that can give convincing evidences on the first, second, fourth, sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth points should be able to gain new factories, tight money or no.

CIVILIZATION SWEEPING THROUGH THE CONGO

The U. S. Department of Commerce has taken interest in the thirty of the Belgian Congo. A department bulletin states that the demand for beer exceeds production and is rising, and land and capital for a new brewery are available. The department adds that persons interested may contact E. R. Meherally, Congo Import Co., Leopoldville, Belgian Congo for details.

Dump Truck?

By EVERETTE PARKER Sideshow On The Range

IT HAPPENS MOST EVERY NIGHT . . .

I have made a startling discovery on the subject of saving money.

Why go to the movies to see something interesting or something funny when you can see this, in most cases . . . for nothing.

What I am trying to say is, some night if you want to save a little jack, go out to the golf driving range and miniature golf course and watch the many people hit at that little ball or put that . . . thing around, up, and into the cup (cup is a phrase common in the languages of golfers and it means that little hole in the middle of the green or thereabouts).

Believe me it's really funny.

I was out the other night trying to improve what most people would consider the worst game of golf—that an individual can shoot and saw a very interesting incident involving the two sexes.

A great big hunk of brawn (unmarried because no husband talks sweet to his wife like this cat talked to this beautiful woman) had his girl out for a few moments of relaxation.

The first thing he did was to buy a bucket of golf balls and proceed to give the member of the weaker sex a lesson on how to swing the club and meet the ball while in a relaxed position. She listened very attentively.

In a few minutes he stepped up to the tee and began to strike forcefully at the ball. The first one went to the left . . . the second to the right . . . third didn't go more than 15 yards . . . fourth almost killed a fellow ball-striker next door . . . etc.

Finally the girl, evidently disgusted at the poor showing he was making, got up and picked up a club (that is what most golfers strike at the ball with) walked up the tee and asked the husky fellow to let her try her hand.

He did.

What does she do . . . well this slender young lady knocked the ball straight down the fairway for no less than 200 yards. This was not an accident because I watched her do the same thing four or five times.

The big boy turned red and prepared himself to drive away into the night.

Now let's consider the boys who take their girls out for a little miniature golf:

To my recollection very few boys have ever beaten their girls on the course. If you doubt this take your girl or wife or even your mother-in-law out sometime. Out to the golf course I mean.

Belle Of The Bush

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — You might call Mirella Rocco, the belle of the African bush, something of a tom-boy.

"I killed my first wild pig with a spear when I was 8, and didn't wear shoes until I was 11," said the white huntress. "But it wasn't until I was 15 that I bagged an elephant."

"It was the only one I shot, and the only one I ever want to."

"I was with my younger brother. I fired and hit this elephant, and a wounded elephant is a terrible thing."

"He turned and saw us let out ear-piercing scream and charged. I looked like a battleship. I shot him again, and he still kept coming."

"At 10 feet my brother and I both put bullets into him, and he collapsed only five feet from us, breaking his big ivory tusks as he fell. Each tusk weighed 90 pounds."

"I made a bracelet out of the hair from his tail. You always do that with your first elephant. The natives say it brings you good luck."

At 25 Miss Rocco has acted as cameraman, guide and hunter on more than 15 safaris, bagged herself three lions, two leopards, three buffalo and "an endless amount" of antelope.

"They won't license me as a professional hunter because I am a woman," she said with a slight note of annoyance.

A woman, yes, but as the French say "quelle femme!" With an all-around Gal like Mirella on the Dark Continent, Tarzan must have been dumber than his ape buddies to waste his time on a pale weakling like Jane.

Mirella, daughter of an Italian rancher, is tall, bronzed, pretty. She has lion-colored eyes and a dark tangle of hair blonded on the tips by long hours in the sun.

She speaks English, Italian, French, German and three African tribal languages.

She has worked on safaris with half a dozen movie companies, and recently acted as stand-in for Donna Reed in the Columbia Pictures film, "Beyond the Law."

In one scene she had to double for Miss Reed in a hunting car attacked by a maddened rhino.

"The problem is to keep the car just ahead of the rhino," she said. "This one came to within a foot, and I could have reached out and patted him on his horn."

"I have been in a car hit by a rhino. It made a fearful dent."

"What would happen if the car stalled?"

"The rhino would roll right over you and the car, and smash you up together," said Miss Rocco matter-of-factly.

"You wouldn't have time to shoot him. I never have wanted to shoot rhinos — they are so big, dumb, ugly and silly."

Mirella lives on a 3,500-acre ranch 75 miles from Nairobi in Kenya on the shores of Lake Nivasha. They have 1,000 acres of corn and alfalfa and 600 cattle.

"One of our problems is that there are 600 hippos in the lake," she said, "and at night they come out and eat our crops. One hippo can ruin an acre of alfalfa in a single evening, and we have to have night patrols to fire at them and drive them back into the lake."

During the Mau Mau peril Mirella said she slept with a pistol under pillow for three years. Some of the 150 natives on their ranch joined the tribal uprising, including one man who had been with her father for 25 years.

"We couldn't understand it," she recalled, "for my brother, sister and I had been raised with his children. One night he led an attack on our house, and I had to fire at him."

"He escaped. I believe I wounded him. But I was glad I hadn't killed him. I'd hate to kill a man."

The problem facing Mirella's parents is how are they going to keep her down on the farm — now that she's seen Paris, London, and New York. She says she doesn't want to settle down and marry a white hunter or an African rancher.

"I don't have any targets for the moment," she said frankly.

"I'd like to have a lot of kids, but not until I get the safaris out of my blood."

Other Editors Saying -- Unfair To Women

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

This continual laugh at the good women concerning the conglomeration of items they carry in their handbag pocketbooks is unfair.

You see it all around you. Columnists on a dry day itemize what they found in their wives' purses. A sure laugh on TV or radio is that the MC to pick a woman from the audience with a big pocketbook and then reveal its contents.

But the poor ladies have not one pocket in which to carry personal effects. The men have anywhere from eight to a dozen pockets in a two-piece suit. They range all the way from the small watch pocket and the smaller change pocket to side pockets that will carry change, keys, knife, bottle opener, and identification tag.

Count the number of pockets in the men's trousers. One to the left side. One to the right side. A watch pocket in front. Two large hip pockets that will carry billfold, knife and or handkerchief.

Move on to the coat. A right hand pocket on the side with a tiny change pocket in the lining. A large left side pocket. An inside coat pocket, on the right the very thing for depositing letters which your wife gave you to mail and you forget them. Also good for totting around letters you want to reread at your convenience with a view to planning the exact shade of wording for a reply. Or good for the address

Liberals May Save Ike's Budget

By TAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A cohesive and cosmopolitan bloc of 80 "Roosevelt Democrats" may be responsible for saving President Eisenhower's domestic and foreign program from sabotage by Republican and Democratic Conservatives, if it can be saved by their support and Ike's television crusade. Frequently opposing the Rayburn - Johnson leadership, they vote almost solidly in the House for his proposed expenditures to continue and expand New Deal-Fair Deal reforms.

The group is headed by Representative Frank Thompson, Jr., a Trenton, N. J., Democrat, and it paraded its ultra-liberal "manifesto" in the Congressional Record on January 30, 1957, F.D.R.'s birthday. Its platform is pro-labor, anti-business, and it favors extensive foreign aid. It advocates large outlays for social services, health, schools, Federal relief of all kinds, and Federal development of all natural resources.

It parallels closely the legislative proposals recently advanced by the Truman - Stevenson-Harriman faction under the auspices of National Chairman Paul M. Butler's National Advisory Committee. In fact, the Thompson group virtually serves as the Butler Democrats' operating agency on Capitol Hill.

BLOC OF 80 DEMOCRATS The bloc of 80 Representatives clashes completely with the Southern Democrats' wing, and it has only one member from below the Mason and Dixon Line. In fact, Dixie spokesmen frequently refer to them as "Roosevelt radicals," a title to which they do not object.

The 80 are mainly from such metropolitan centers as New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles. Forty represent those places, and 20 come from smaller but good-sized communities. Their urban background explains their viewpoint on such issues as labor, racial questions, immigration, foreign affairs and social welfare problems.

They pitch their appeal to the municipal electorates that favor assistance and unemployment compensation — 62-2 for on public assistance grants and 74-1 for unemployment compensation.

To reduce $70,000,000 for such United Nations activities as labor, health, education, etc. — 64-2 against.

To defer payment of interest on British loan — 55-6 in favor.

For Speaker Rayburn's investigation of alleged conservative trend by independent agencies and commissions — 58-2 in favor.

For Congressional rather than Presidential commissions' investigation of the Administration's monetary policy — 70-1 in favor.

INQUIRY INTO IKE'S MONEY PROGRAM Representative Wright Patman, Texas Democrat, sponsored the demand for House-Senate inquiry into Ike's money program. Since Patman is an advocate of "easy money," Senator Harry F. Byrd quietly stepped in, and the Senate entrusted the assignment to a committee headed by the conservative Virginian

Benson Claims Surplus Disposal Not Yet Solved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson said today the government has disposed of surplus cotton only by means of "costly, temporary" programs that offer producers little for the future. He said the program for disposing of cotton, cottonseed and cotton linters "looks like a terrific success story." But the job cost the government more than $15 million dollars, he said, adding that the costs "go on so long as we retain" present cotton programs. In a talk prepared for a meeting of the National Cottonseed Products Assn., Benson called for cotton industry support for his recent plea that Congress overhaul present price support and crop control laws. The secretary was particularly critical of the flexible price support system — one which the administration endorsed in 1954 and succeeded in getting Congress to approve. "We are removing the surplus through disposal programs and the soil bank," he said. "As soon as the surplus is moved the existing formulas in the law will boost price support of cotton back toward 90 per cent of parity," he said. "Once the support is back to 90 per cent, the objective is to keep it there through controls on production." Parity is a standard for measurement to prices charged them. Farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices charged them. "Isn't this just about where we came in?" he asked. "Isn't this the basic situation that brought on our present difficulties — support at 90 per cent of parity that lost cotton markets — then production controls that tended to make permanent the loss of markets — and that reduced efficiency so that the average unit cost of producing cotton remains too high to compete in the market?" The secretary said the American people will "gladly underwrite costs of great magnitude in order to solve a problem. But I do not think," he added, "they will do so merely to carry the problem indefinitely." Any change in farm laws, he said, should permit farmers "more freedom to farm" and should move in the direction of making farm prices competitive.

Samaritan May Change His View

JULESBURG, Colo. (AP) — Good-

hearted Louis Hansen may not be so good-hearted in the future. After befriending a young married couple in Denver, Hansen purchased transportation for the new-llyweds and rented a hotel room for them in nearby Sterling. He left his luggage in Sterling and continued on to Julesburg. The next day he returned for his luggage. The couple was gone. So was Hansen's baggage. French Plea For New Suez Negotiations Seen Doomed

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Faced with lukewarm support from the United States and flat opposition from Russia, France's appeal for new Suez Canal negotiations appeared today to have little chance of success.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau went to Washington for a talk with Secretary of State Dulles before the U. N. Security Council's second meeting this afternoon on the French request. But there was no indication the United States would go all out behind the French.

Pineau told the Council yesterday France wants negotiations reopened "as soon as possible" to arrange a permanent settlement with Egypt in accord with the six principles approved by the Council last fall.

Pineau described the present operation of the canal under an Egyptian declaration issued last month as "ambiguous" and "temporary."

The French got quick support from Britain's Sir Pierson Dixon, who said the Egyptian declaration needed clarification. He added that Egypt had by no means complied with the Security Council's requirements.

Egyptian delegate Omar Loutfi told the Council Egypt's declaration is in accord with the six principles. The canal, he added, is operating and is being used by major powers.

Arkady Sobolev of Russia backed Loutfi. He declared the Suez problem was settled and said he saw no reason to continue its discussion. He charged France was making a fresh attempt to exert pressure on Egypt.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge made no immediate comment on Pineau's remarks. But a U. S. delegation source said the U. S. position remains as Lodge stated it in the Council April 26 — Egypt's plan of operation does not fully meet the six principles but should be given a trial.

If the Council's present debate should get negotiation started, the source added, "well and good." U. S. Ambassador Raymond Hare negotiated for three weeks in April with Egyptian President Nasser and Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi and the Egyptian operation plan was the best he could get.

They Laughed

LEXINGTON (AP) — Because somebody refused to get off a party-line telephone, an elderly Lexington couple lost their home and almost all their household and personal belongings.

The home of Lee Tussey, 84, and his wife burned down Saturday. There was no insurance. A neighbor saw the fire and tried to telephone an alarm, but whoever was talking would not surrender the line. Fire Chief Norman Owen was told.

The chief quoted the woman: "They just laughed when I told them it was an emergency."

Firemen, finally notified, found the house a mass of flame when they arrived. Neighbors arranged for the aged couple to live in an auto-trailer until other arrangements could be made.

There is no law against refusal to yield a telephone line in an emergency. "I don't see how we could find out who it was in this case," commented Chief Owen.

Doctors Dispute Verdict On '21'

NEW YORK (AP)—Medical expert Hank Bloomgarden broke a television quiz show deadlock with artist Jim Snodgrass last night and won $73,500. But his triumph was disputed.

Bloomgarden was declared champion on NBC-TV's "Twenty One" after he had tied with Snodgrass six times. That brought the 28-year-old medical research consultant's total winnings on the show to $126,000.

Master of ceremonies Jack Barry called Snodgrass wrong on a question dealing with human anatomy. But doctors around the country called up to say the 34-year-old New York artist was right.

Snodgrass was asked to name the five groups of bones in the backbone. He was ruled out when he gave "sacrum" for the "sacral" group. The others are lumbar, thoracic, cervical and coccyx or coccygeal.

Bloomgarden's answers were the same as the official ones prepared for the program.

The producers of the show said they will decide later on whether Snodgrass was right or wrong.

Bloomgarden has two weeks to decide whether to try for more money or settle for the $126,000.

Army Takeover Is Freely Expected In Uneasy Haiti

By LARRY ALLEN
PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—An army takeover of the Caribbean's turbulent Negro republic appears imminent.

The nation's top army officers went into an emergency meeting last night to consider assuming the governing power after Brig. Gen. Leon Cantave defied an order from the seven-man Executive Council to quit as army chief.

Defiance of the Council spread outside Port au Prince. A "Committee for Public Safety" at Cap-Haitien declared it would rule all northern Haiti until a new president is elected. The committee was believed linked with a similar rebel group at St. Marc.

Port au Prince appeared quiet but tension was high.

The newspaper Le Jour predicted the urgent conference of army leaders would result in an announcement that the military was taking over the government.

The army has 2,500 men on active duty and reserves of 3,000 in this country of 4 million persons.

Haiti has been in near-chaos repeatedly since December, when strikes and demonstrations whipped up by leading presidential candidates forced out President Paul Magloire when he tried to prolong his time as chief of state unconstitutionally. Two succeeding provisional presidents were brought down by feuding among the candidates.

Leaders among the 10 candidates got together in April long enough to set up the ruling Executive Council but split soon after. The Council now is made up mostly of supporters of two candidates—Louis Desele and Daniel Fignole.

Cantave resigned his army post April 28 after the politicians opposed his suggestion that he head a three-man military junta to rule until the elections, now scheduled for June 16. He withdrew his resignation the next day after appeals by a group of army officers.

The dispute that set Cantave and the Council against each other was put in motion Sunday, when Council members went to St. Marc in an attempt to demonstrate their authority over dissident factions there.

The rebels barred the Council from the town but Cantave was welcomed with cries of "down with the government" and "long live the army."

The St. Marc area residents have thrown up barricades of boulders, logs and sand-filled railway cars to cut off northern Haiti from Port au Prince.

The Council in a proclamation ordered Cantave to surrender his post to Police Chief Pierre Armand, charging he had failed to safeguard the lives of Council members.

SEATTLE (AP)—Two little boys who ran away from their Seattle homes for Disneyland and Mexico with thousands of dollars in cash and jewelry are home again.

Eddie Zelasky, 12, and Richard Daly, 13, were met at the Seattle-Tacoma Airport last night by their parents, police and juvenile officers. The boys were picked up early yesterday in Los Angeles when they stepped off a San Francisco bus.

Los Angeles juvenile officers put the boys aboard a Western Air Lines plane which arrived in Seattle late last night. Officials at the airport had custody of more than $3,000 in cash, 14 diamond rings, a bracelet of 20 gold pieces, and a gold watch the Los Angeles officers found stuffed in the pockets of the motorcycle jackets the boys wore.

The cash and jewelry were held by the Seattle police for release later to the owners.

Eddie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Zelasky, and Richard's father, Peter Louie Daly, were at the airport. Police turned the boys over to the parents. Then police counted the money and checked the jewelry while the boys and their parents watched.

In Los Angeles the boys said they had planned their trip for a month. Eddie said that Friday, after his father had left for the night shift in an aircraft plant and before his mother returned from the day shift, the boys broke a chest from which Eddie had seen his mother take money.

Said Eddie: "We got more than we expected."

Runaway Boys Took Cash, Too

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The city's policemen have given their new etiquette book a whirl and now, many of them say, they feel like a bath who wades ashore and finds that someone has taken his clothes.

Issued at the bidding of Police Commissioner Thomas J. Gobbons, the manual aims to refine police behavior; purify the cops' language; introduce at least a bit more patience; and improve his posture.

"Please" and "thank you" are musts in the new vocabulary from which have been expurgated all coarse phrases, withering insults, juicy hyperbole, and richly elaborate sarcasms addressed to erring motorists.

The manual, "Courteous Selective Enforcement," takes its text from Ralph Waldo Emerson: "Life is not so short but that there is always time for courtesy." Gobbons says he's going to keep drumming it at it until his men are as polite as a London Bobbie at the gates of Buckingham Palace.

The book was thrown at the cops after the commissioner's office got a flock of complaints that many policemen were too quick to make arrests at intersections, grabbing drivers for going ahead on the amber signal; and that "wholesale ticketing" was coupled with insults and rough talk generally.

Explosion Has Damaged Bow Of Small Submarine

PORTSMOUTH, N. M. (AP)—An explosion damaged about five feet of the bow of the Navy's experimental midge submarine X-1 last night. Two of the five-man crew were aboard but no one was hurt.

The X-1, designed as a harbor penetration vessel for use with underwater demolition teams, is 50 feet long, has a 7-foot beam and displaces 25 tons. With periscope down her height is only 11 feet.

The Navy did not disclose the cause of the blast, which occurred while the craft was tied alongside a barge. An announcement said there was no fire and no damage except to the bow.

The commander of the Atlantic Fleet Submarine Force was expected to order an inquiry board to conduct an investigation.

The vessel's commanding officer was identified as Lt. Kinnaird R. McKee of Gulfport, Miss. Names of the other crewmen were not disclosed.

Tried Piloting Antique Trolley

UPPER DARBY, Pa. (AP)—Two New York lads almost got into trouble here piloting an antique trolley.

The teen-agers, Kevin J. Bonner, 15, Flushing, N.Y., and Brian Gutierrez, 16, the Bronx, N.Y., are back home after a weekend of riding their favorite hobby. They belong to an electric railroad association, they told police.

The lads spent one day riding Philadelphia transportation system vehicles.

Their run-in with authorities came with a clang, a piff and a sssst at the Red Arrow Lines car barn here. An electrician heard the noises and discovered a World War I vintage trolley clanging around the yard tracks. Expertly maneuvering the old trolley were Kevin and Brian. Police put the boys onto a homeward bound bus—no trolley.

Young At Heart, But Turned Down

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Othel Baxter had his heart set on taking the rugged federal rescue school course at Olney, Md., but New Jersey Civilian Defense officials turned him down.

The course includes instruction in scaling walls and handling hysteria victims.

They admired his ambition, CD officials said, but they thought the school was for younger men. Baxter, a retired cavalry major, is 75.

Two Couples Trade Mates, Flee Public

RENO (AP)—Two couples, who changed their affections during two years of suburban activities such as Parent-Teacher Assn. meetings, swapped mates yesterday and fled from the public.

Both couples, residents of a San Francisco suburb, were divorced by the same Reno judge on the customary Nevada grounds: "extreme cruelty."

After Judge Grant Bowen had pronounced their marriages finished, Mrs. Betty Jean Schwartz, 33, and Martin Brooks, 35, slipped off to Carson City and were married by Justice of the Peace Dan Murphy.

Mrs. Betty Brooks, 35, and Dr. Frank E. Schwartz, 38, led cameramen on a chase through Reno and then doubled back and were married here by Justice of the Peace William Beemer.

Then they disappeared and their mutual lawyer, Eli Livierato, refused even to hint at where they might be.

The couples from Millbrae, 16 miles south of San Francisco, met at a dance in 1955, and continued meeting at Cub Scout sessions, P-TA meetings and at Millbrae Community Methodist Church.

Dr. Schwartz, an eye specialist, Brooks, a garden store owner, and his wife had four.

As time went on they found that Brooks and Mrs. Schwartz were sports fans, while Dr. Schwartz and Mrs. Brooks liked color photography and painting.

Pineau Meets With Dulles To Get Suez Backing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Foreign Minister Christian Pineau meets with Secretary of State Dulles today in a move to win American backing for France's Suez Canal stand.

Dulles canceled his weekly news conference in order to talk with the French foreign policy chief.

Pineau, who arrived in New York over the weekend, urged the U. N. Security Council there yesterday to arrange new negotiations with Egypt for a permanent Suez settlement. He called the present plan "ambiguous" and "temporary."

But it seemed unlikely Pineau could persuade Dulles to support any maneuver which would reopen the bitter Suez controversy with Egypt.

Dulles was reported to favor giving President Gamal Abdel Nasser a "trial period" to operate the seized waterway singlehanded, even though this arrangement falls short of principles the United Nations set last fall.

Bloxam Pitches VFW To Victory Over Kiwanis

Both Clubs Have Equal 1-1 Records In League

The VFW Little League baseballers notched their first win of the young season yesterday at Elm Street Park, defeating the Kiwanis 3-1.

The victory evened both their record and the record of their opponents. Both the Kiwanis and the VFW now have 1-1 marks in North State League play. Both teams stand one game behind the undefeated Lions.

Yesterday's encounter was a low-hitting contest which produced only four hits from each side. Both teams committed almost the same number of errors. Both pitchers issued almost the same number of walks, strikeouts.

Percy Bloxam was the winning hurler for the VFW and Harris received credit for the loss.

Bloxam fanned eight, walked five and his team committed three errors behind him. Harris struck out seven, walked six and had four errors to contend with.

VFW Lead
The VFW club scored its first run in the second inning and added two more single runs in the fifth and sixth frames. The Kiwanis finally tallied in the final inning.

The first run of the game thusly: Will Allen got on first and went all the way around on an error by the Kiwanis third baseman, a hit by Bloxam. It was 1-0. In the fifth stanza, the VFW team scored again. Dan Johnson went to first on a walk, advanced on a wild pitch and later scored on a fielder's choice. They threatened again with men on second and third before the inning was over, but Kiwanis pitcher Harris worked his way out of the hole.

Final Scores
The final runs of the game came in the sixth inning. Alec Blacklock scored for the VFW after replacing F. Stokes at third base in that inning. He collected a single, stole second, went to third on a fielder's choice and came in on a wild pitch.

D. Ross added the only Kiwanis run to the scoreboard. He came across on a fielder's choice after getting on base through an error.

Today's game will feature the Elks vs. the Moose in the Tar Heel League. Game time is 5:00.

ACC Tourney Beginning Today

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—Duke, the Atlantic Coast Conference champion, and meets George Washington, the Southern Conference titlist, here May 31 in the second game of a doubleheader which will open the first round of the NCAA District 3 baseball tournament.

The game at 3 p.m. will follow a noon opener between two teams yet to be selected.

A team from the Southeastern Conference and an at-large team remain to be chosen. Georgia Tech and Alabama, the No. 1 and 2 Southeastern teams, are not available for NCAA play. If a representative team from the conference is not available a second at-large club may be chosen, a tournament official said. Rabb said he hoped to announce the two other tournament teams within the next day or two, following a committee vote.

'Kiddie Corps' Giving Alston Contented Look

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Brooklyn's "Kiddie Corps" of pitchers is giving Manager Walter Alston that contented look.

In pre-season picking Milwaukee's Braves, with Warren Spahn, Lou Burdette and Bob Buhl, were generally acknowledged to have the best moundmen in the league. But not by Alston. He said last night as the Dodgers humbled the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-4, he had a pre-spring inkling he owned some pretty fair hurlers of his own.

Cold facts, backed by earned run averages, shows the Dodgers' pitching is the best in their circuit with a 2.99 ERA.

And it's the young twirlers, Don Drysdale, Johnny Podres and Sandy Koufax, who are shining.

"It's no surprise to me," Alston said. "I kept saying all spring that our pitching had a chance to do real well."

Drysdale, a 6-foot-5 sidarmer, notched win No. three last night. He's unbeaten.

Last week Koufax—who Frank Lane of the St. Louis Cardinals says is "faster than Herb Score"—fanned 13 Chicago Cubs and picked up his second victory. He's also unbeaten.

Johnny Podres has a 2.2 record. Both his wins were shutouts.

Koufax is 21, his ERA is 1.33; Podres is 24, his ERA is 1.95; Drysdale at 20 has an ERA of 2.10.

Ceremonies Open Coastal Baseball

Two games highlighted the opening of the Coastal Negro Little League yesterday afternoon at South Greenville Field.

The Dodgers and the Red Sox played to a 0-0 tie in the first contest of the doubleheader. The Dodgers collected only one hit while the Sox were held hitless. The Yankees racked up a 5-3 win over the Giants in the second game.

President of the League George Garrett was in charge of opening ceremonies, which included an appearance of Greenville Recreation head Gordon Goodman and others.

Garrett, in a brief statement to the "fine turnout," thanked the parents and friends who helped make the league a reality and stated that a good year of baseball is expected.

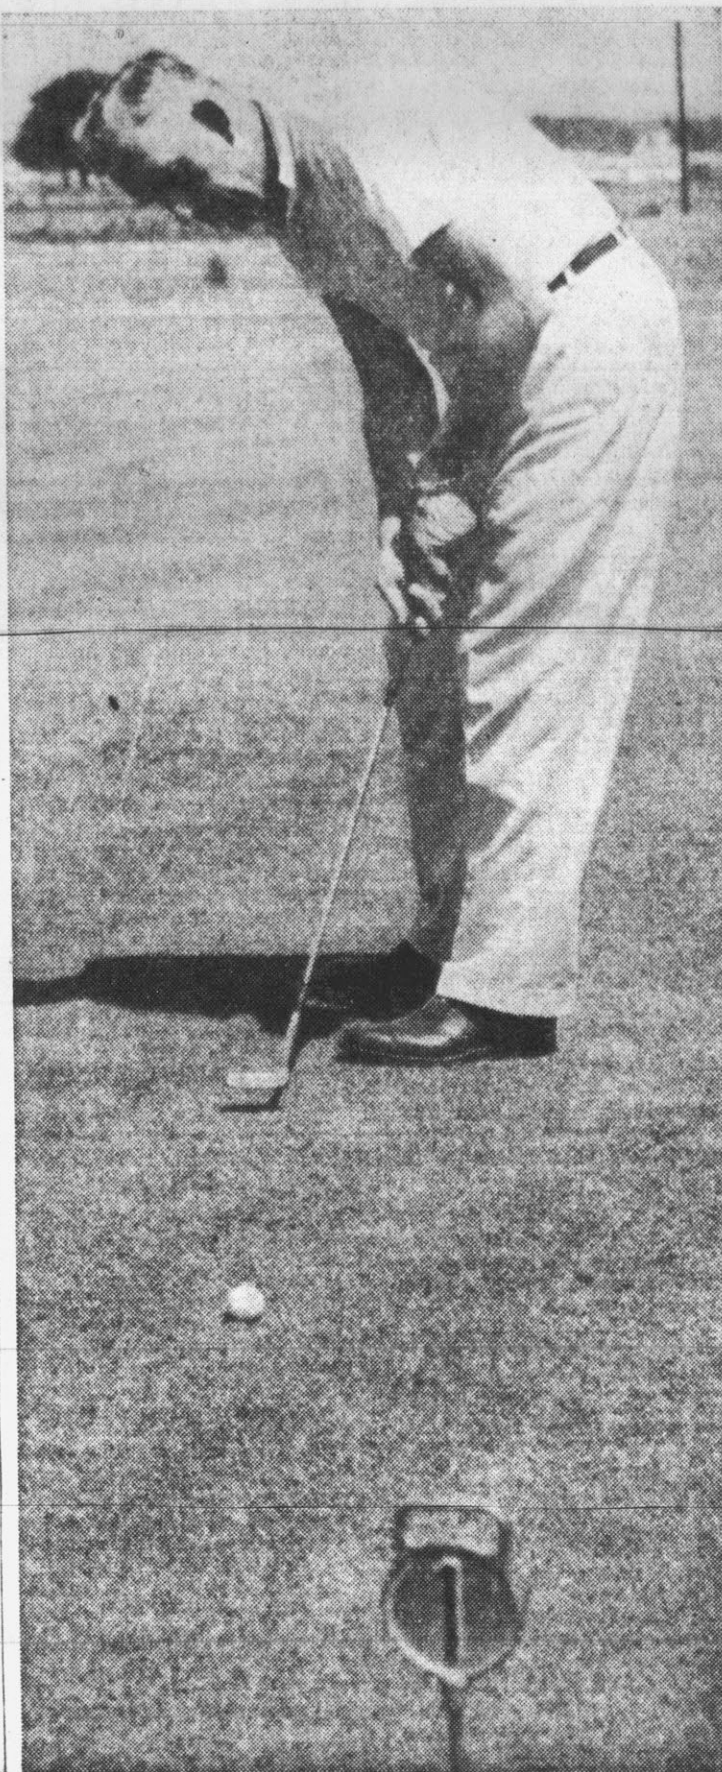

Coastal League ball will be played every day at the South Greenville park.

Golf Tournament

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP)—Amateur golfers of press, radio and television in the Carolinas will compete in their fourth annual tournament here Thursday and Friday.

A field of between 25 and 30 is expected for the event that will have 18 and 36 hole divisions and a Thursday 18-hole for the newly-formed Carolinas Golf Writers Assn. members.

Seeking Another Golf Title

ERCELL WEBB, winner of the 1951 Greenville Golf match play title, is shown above aiming for another big Number One position. Webb will clash with Donald Conley, Jr., this weekend in a 36-hole match to determine the 1957 champion. In gaining his berth in the finals, Webb defeated defending champion Boey Farley. Conley won out over Bob Masten for his finalist position. The public is invited to attend the title match Saturday and Sunday. (Reflector Sports Photo).

Heavyweight Situation Resembles Comic Opera

NEW YORK (AP)—The heavyweight situation is getting more like a comic opera every day.

The champion, Floyd Patterson, is chasing the challenger, Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, and now Archie McBride has come out of nowhere to challenge the challenger and Willie Pastrano for good measure.

Archie, a 28-year-old refrigerator machinist when he's not fighting, leaped into the limelight by decisively defeating Germany's Willi Besmanoff at St. Nicholas Arena last night.

McBride, of Trenton, N. J., hadn't won since May 11, 1955 when he outpointed Bob Satterfield. Since then he's had only three fights—with Patterson, Jimmy Slade and unbeaten Alex Miteff of Argentina—and lost them all.

Besmanoff had a winning streak of 13 snapped. The pudgy, 24-year-old German was ranked ninth among the heavyweight contenders. Willi said he had a cold and that made him weak and tired. He looked that way, dull and sluggish, in losing the unanimous decision.

A 13-5 underdog, McBride earned a 8-1-1 vote from referee Mark Conn. Judge Mike Davidowich had it 8-2 while Judge Nick Gamboli made it closer, 5-4-1. The AP card had McBride ahead, 7-2-1.

Archie's record is only a mediocre 21-12 but he's lost to the best, including two decisions to Jackson, the No. 1 contender.

"I thought I beat Jackson both times," said McBride. "I'd like to fight him next."

Government, IBC Preparing For Another Battle

NEW YORK (AP)—The International Boxing Club and the U. S. government are preparing for another head-on clash.

The IBC already has been found guilty of a monopoly in the promotion of championship fights. Now federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan is hearing arguments from both sides before deciding what penalties to inflict on the IBC.

The government held yesterday's opening session to their only solution was "dissolution and divorce," meaning that the IBC must be broken up entirely.

William J. Elkins, the department of justice attorney handling the government case, asked that a other remedy would only allow the defendants to "retain and continue to enjoy the benefits obtained through the illegal activities of the conspiracy to monopolize the boxing industry."

The IBC, apparently has not decided just what to do. It is threatening—but not promising—to get out of the boxing business entirely rather than submit to a proposed trusteeship of its capital stock, a proposal of Judge Ryan.

Both sides were grasping for signs of friendliness to their respective cases by Judge Ryan. The defendants appeared to have the best of it in the opening skirmish.

Commented Judge Ryan: "Frankly, I don't look with favor upon any decree compelling (them) to throw their stock on the open market because not only they might be penalized, but it is also possible that others, not involved in this case, would suffer substantial losses."

IBC Attorney Kenneth C. Royall former secretary of the army, said that if the government suggestion is adopted, the Garden would be eliminated as a site of championship fights. He said IBC bigwigs Jim Norris and Arthur Wirtz would get out of boxing rather than risk their $2,000,000 investment in the Garden corporation.

Detroit Worried About Star Pitcher Frank Lary

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press

Manager Jack Tighe of the Detroit Tigers was wrestling with a discomforting thought today. Is righthander Frank Lary simply a late starter or was he a one-year wonder?

Tighe, of course, hopes its former and there's plenty of evidence to support his hope. In Lary's first full season with the Tigers, in 1955, he was able to win only two of his first six decisions but wound up with a 14-15 record with a fifth place club.

Last year the strapping 5-11 Alabamian won only two of his first seven decisions and as late as July 1 his record was a lackluster 4-10. But he came on strong to win 17 of his last 20 starts, a finish as the American League's biggest winner with a 21-13 record.

The Tigers expected even bigger things from Lary this year. Instead, when Washington defeated Detroit 2-1 last night, it not only reduced the Tigers' fourth place margin over Boston to a half game but was Lary's fifth defeat against two triumphs—the identical record he had at this date a year ago.

In the only other game played in the American League, Baltimore downed Kansas City 2-0 behind the two-hit pitching of Connie Johnson to climb within percentage points of the sixth place Athletics. Rain postponed the games between Cleveland and the Yankees at New York and Chicago against the Red Sox at Boston.

In the only game, scheduled in the National League, Brooklyn thumped St. Louis 10-4 behind a three-homer barrage by Duke Snider, Sandy Amoros and Carl Furillo.

The victory was Brooklyn's fourth in succession and boosted the third place Dodgers to within a half game of Milwaukee, 2½ behind the pace-setting Cincinnati Redlegs.

Ed Fitz Gerald's pinch single with the bases loaded and one out in the bottom of the ninth scored Pete Runnels with the run that snapped Washington's five-game losing streak. Pedro Ramos held the Tigers to four hits for his third victory in five decisions.

Runnels' single set the winning rally in motion. Lary then hit Roy Sievers, Herb Plews sacrificed and Jim Lemon was purposely passed before Al Aber replaced the Tiger starter, Fitz Gerald, batting for Lou Berberet, hit a grounder which third baseman Rene Bertola stopped with a diving stab, but before he regained his feet Runnels crossed the plate.

It was a tough defeat for Lary, who has only three complete games in eight starts. Johnson was superb for Baltimore as he faced only 29 batters and set the Athletics down in order.

Foreign Aid Chief Seen Bowing Out

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Foreign Aid Administrator John B. Hollister today was reported getting ready to bow out of his job.

Hollister's expected early exit, along with the forthcoming departure from the Cabinet of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, will reduce to the vanishing point the influence of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft's followers in the Eisenhower administration's high councils.

Hollister, once Taft's law partner, was said to be preparing to step out after he formally presents the administration's $3,880,000,000 foreign aid program to Congress.

Hollister himself was not available for comment. He goes before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Thursday, following up tomorrow's appearance before that group by Secretary of State Dulles.

There has been no clear indication of President Eisenhower's choice of a successor to Hollister as head of the International Cooperation Administration.

Some Democrats in Congress in sympathy with the foreign aid program have suggested to Dulles and others they would like to see Eric Johnston be given an important role in any new aid setup.

Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Assn. of America, man and has little voice in formulating major administration policies.

Hollister is regarded by many in Congress as reflecting opposition to the whole idea of foreign aid. However, Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and assistant Democratic leader, said he thinks Hollister has been "a good soldier" in his job.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), another foreign relations committeeman, said that while Hollister might have been critical of foreign aid in the past, he now was much more in favor of it than a few of the conservative Republicans in Congress.

Hollister and Humphrey are regarded as the last remaining bulwarks of the Taft viewpoint. When they are gone, Jack Martin, who was Taft's administrative assistant, will remain as about the last link with the White House.

Martin, a presidential assistant, serves as congressional liaison.

Rescuers Reach Buried Coal Miner Too Late

LYKENS, Pa. (AP)—Some 82 hours of digging, praying and hoping ended last night when haggard rescuers found the body of David Snyder, 34-year-old coal miner who was buried last Friday 400 feet below the surface in a central Pennsylvania coal mine.

The body of the father of three children was discovered by one of eight teams of five men each that had worked since the victim was trapped by a coal slide early Friday. Snyder was working the mine with his brother, LeRoy, and Mark Spone, 65. The three owned the diggings together.

Dr. Samuel E. Herrold of Lykens, a deputy coroner, and one of the five rescuers who came upon the body, said death was caused by suffocation. The body was discovered in a

The conference opens Sunday night, May 26, and runs through June 1. Members from all churches in the two-state area are expected to attend this year's conference. An expected attendance of 3,000 is expected during the course of the one-week convocation.

Pastor De Witt will not return to Greenville until June 3.

Jugmen Jugged With Evidence

MIDDLESBORO, Ky. (AP)—While police were chasing a speeding car, they saw two half gallon jugs tossed out of the auto ahead.

What to do? Stop and pick up the evidence? Or keep after the two occupants of the fleeing vehicle?

They stopped, gathered up bits of broken glass and the paper bags in which the jugs had been carried. Back at headquarters, the officers succeeded in spooning out enough moonshine to hold as evidence. Turned out they guessed right. They came upon the fugitives an hour later, escorted them to jail, and later saw them sentenced to 60 days each.

Refugee Morale Said At New Low

NEW YORK (AP)—Morale among Hungarian refugees living in camps in Austria has "sunk to the lowest ebb", due largely to uncertainty about U.S. policy concerning their entry here, a church leader says.

The Rev. Julius Sathmayer, of Mohnton, Pa., on his return from a two-months visit to the Austrian camps, said morale among the refugees has become "very bad" with a sense of "hopelessness" among many separated families.

Legion Posts Urged To Support CD Program

RALEIGH — State Civil Defense Director Edward P. Griffin sent an appeal last week to every American Legion Post in the state to put its strength behind the effort to prepare the community to cope with disaster.

The request, directed to post commanders and distributed by N. C. Department of American Legion, carried a suggested step-by-step course of action attached. The State Director, whose combat experience included commanding the 113th Field Artillery through five major battles in Europe during World War II — as part of the 30th (Old Hickory) Division, made the following comment on his request:

"The citizens of North Carolina, as well as the citizens of other states, have been soundly advised that progress of the thermomonic age poses such a realistic threat to our continued existence, that the federal government plans to spend $37,000,000,000 this year on military defense alone. "We are further advised that no amount of military strength can guarantee full protection for the homefront — that it is the business of the states and their respective communities to render themselves as self-sustaining as possible.

"The establishment of Civil Defense boils down to improving our chances of survival.

"The North Carolina homefront preparedness status, our capability to save lives, avert panic and minimize property damage if faced with emergency — leaves much to be desired. It will continue to be inadequate as long as one community — one county or one town fails to fulfill its own obligation.

"There are members of every American Legion Post who know first-hand what happens to civilians when their homeland is stricken by enemy caused disaster. It is my feeling that those of us who have that experience are challenged to take the lead in organizing our individual communities for the best security and protection.

"American Legion advocates active support of Civil Defense at all levels by all members. What Civil Defense in North Carolina needs right now, more than anything else, is the leadership of citizens with patriotic foresight in every community, to initiate action and strengthen local organization. I believe members of the 389 posts comprising the North Carolina Department are peculiarly qualified to render the vital service that is needed.

Approximately 5,559 products, from toothpicks to ships, are made from wood.

Dissatisfaction On Soviet Farms Seen

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

Two short stories published in the Soviet Union depict inefficiency in the collective farm system and expose Communist Party policy in agriculture.

In "Levers," by Alexander Yashin, four men, all Communists and leaders of a collective farm, sit about in the oppressively dingy smoke-filled office of the farm management. They talk candidly about farm affairs and themselves.

"Nevertheless, where is truth?" asks one.

"Why should you need truth?" answers a companion. "You are a warehouse keeper now."

"Well, truth — it's necessary," replies the chairman of the farm. "Truth is what we cling to. Only I can't understand one thing again..."

The party had decreed that farm production plans should come from the farms themselves, but when he took the farm's plan to the county party chieftain it was returned three times for "corrections."

"Nothing is left of our plan," he remarks. "That's truth for you! They don't believe us."

"A Trip Back Home," by Nikolai Zhdanov deals with much the same theme. A Moscow bureaucrat returns to his native village to bury his mother. He sees poverty and inefficiency. He is told of cases of stupid mismanagement in the county as a result of orders from Moscow.

These things start to penetrate his consciousness. But he shuts them out deliberately. In a few hours time he flies back to his fat job in the capital.

The author describes him on his way back to Moscow: "With satisfaction he pictured to himself how tomorrow he would enter his warm, well-furnished office and sit down behind his desk in his armchair."

These two frank stories, typify a new trend in Soviet writing — realistic depiction of the seamy side of the Soviet system. Recent discussions show the Kremlin is fearful of this trend and the political consequences which it may have if long continued.

Three Deer Are Run Out Of Town

WEST READING, Pa. — Three deer wandered into town and butted store windows, jumped through glass doors and sailed over back yard fences before townspeople killed one and chased the other two out of town.

The buck leader of the trio was shot by Patrolman Foster Griffith after it appeared the animal had been badly wounded. The other two, both does, outran police patrol cars, sprinters and boys on bicycles, escaping into the woods.

Labor Leader Would Fine Union Meeting Absentees

WASHINGTON — A top leader said today Congress can help insure democracy and curb corruption in unions by sanctioning an effective system for fining members failing to attend union meetings.

George Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, said the Taft-Hartley law should be amended to permit discharge of an employee for non-payment of union fines as well as of union dues and initiation fees.

Harrison, an AFL-CIO vice president and a member of the Federation's Ethical Practices Committee, told a reporter he favors such legislation.

His proposal came as the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee and Executive Council met to consider several more codes of principles aimed at cleaning out union corruption.

The Executive Council, labor's highest tribunal, yesterday unanimously held Teamsters President Dave Beck "guilty as charged" as of the mass of charges developed by the Senate Rackets Committee that he misused vast sums of Teamsters Union funds.

Harrison said he was convinced, as most members of the Senate group have said they are too, that dishonesty in labor unions stems primarily from the fact too few union members attend meetings and take an interest in seeing their unions are run right. "The rank and file member of a labor union ought to be compelled to assume his responsibility to keep his union honest," Harrison said. He should be required to attend at least a minimum number of meetings every year and be fined if he doesn't."

But under the Taft-Hartley law

Christianity In Asia Is Growing

BOSTON (AP) — Christianity as a "white man's religion" in the Far East is rapidly becoming a thing of the past, says Dr. Alfred Carleton, of Boston, Mass. Dr. Carleton, head of the American Board of Commissioners of the Congregational Christian Churches, said on return from an Eastern Asia church conference that steady progress is being made in getting "the white man's coloring out of the missionary movement in the Far East" and turning it "over to the nations involved."

PSYCHOLOGY COURSE

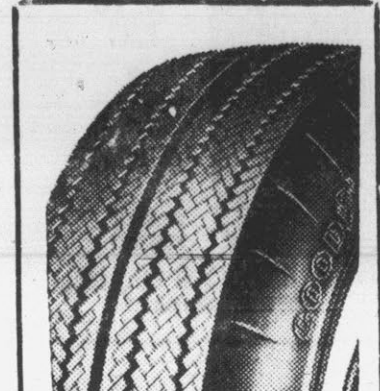

OSLO (AP) — Norwegian merchant marine officers now must take a course in how to get along with their sailors. Ship owners hope short courses in psychology will help cut down the huge turnover of crews on Norwegian vessels.

as now written, he said, unions cannot enforce such a fine system. The law says an employer can fire a worker at union request for non payment of union dues or initiation fees, but this does not cover fines.

New codes being considered by the AFL-CIO groups meeting today included (1) a set of uniform practices for handling union funds, including a requirement that major purchases be made by competitive bids; (2) standards for investment of union funds; and (3) a declaration against undemocratic union procedures.

The AFL-CIO Council also was expected to consider the cases of three unions put on notice three months ago of probable ouster from the Federation unless they cleaned up alleged corrupt practices. These unions are the allied Industrial Workers, Laundry Workers and Distillery Workers.

"I like those extras you get in an Olds!"

- ME: You mean the advanced styling, I suppose. The Accent Stripes and...
- SHE: Oh, there's more to it than that. For example, the "park" position on the Hydra-Matic Drive* makes it safer and easier to start, even on hills.
- ME: Well, Olds has a reputation for attention to details. That's one reason the value lasts.
- SHE: You can tell that someone took a lot of patience in planning and building it right. Even the two ash trays are lighted.
- ME: I'll bet the Oldsmobile engineers would love that, but I wonder how they'd feel about you not mentioning the Rocket Engine? Now there's a power plant. There's still nothing quite like a Rocket!
- SHE: That's for me too, but I look for lots of other things — like upholstery... and that glove box. It's big enough for an umbrella. I wish...

Rae Foley's new mystery novel RUN FOR YOUR LIFE

CHAPTER 27

Mr. Potter hauled Nora out of bed and tried to make her walk. She sagged forward. Someone banged on the door. "Nora, are you all right?" "Come in, Jones," said Potter. The door was flung open and Tom Jones gave an exclamation. "What's wrong with her?" "Doped to the hilt. The nurse is calling a doctor. Get a wet cloth, will you?"

Tom did not question Mr. Potter's orders. He ran into the bathroom, came back with the dripping cloth. Mr. Potter rubbed it over Nora's face and neck, flipped her face with his wet corners.

Together, the two men took the sprawling figure and began to walk her up and down the room, half carrying, half dragging her.

Garry came back. "I got the hospital. They are sending someone."

"How about that coffee?" She ran down the stairs. Nora stumbled and whimpered a little. Mr. Potter shook her. "Nora!" he said loudly in her ear.

The lax jaw closed. Her eyes fluttered open. "Whaaa—" They closed again.

"Keep her walking," Mr. Potter grunted. "Keep her awake."

They stumbled back and forth. Nora was able to move her own legs now, but reluctantly. Her eyes were closed. Now and then she whimpered a protest.

"Keep going," Mr. Potter said. They dragged her back and forth. Garry came up with a percolator and a cup of scalding black coffee.

Mr. Potter held it to Nora's lips. "It burns," she complained.

"Open your eyes. Look at me," she said. "You've got to keep awake, Nora. Drink this coffee."

"It's too hot."

But she drank it and they resumed their walk, up and down, up and down. Whenever her eyes closed she spoke to her loudly or slap her face. From time to time they paused while she drank more coffee.

The doctor came sooner than they had expected, felt her pulse, lifted her lids. Then he cleared them out, except for Garry, and got to work with a stomach pump.

Tom and Mr. Potter waited downstairs, the former white and drawn, the latter grim.

"How did you happen to go in there?" Tom asked.

"I don't know," Mr. Potter said. "I felt uneasy, that's all."

"It's as well you came back when you did. I thought you were in New York."

"I was. By the way, I had supper at Sardi's with a friend of yours. Collinge."

"Oh?"

"And I came across a picture of you."

"Really?"

Mr. Potter held it out. "Candy's work."

"I'll be darned," Tom said. "I didn't know she had used me as a model. She never told me. She must have meant it as a surprise. Ever since she first read Fielding she has called me Tom Jones. That's why I took the name."

"Don't you think," Mr. Potter said quietly, "you might as well abandon this masquerade?"

"I suppose so. My name is Kendrick, Tom Kendrick. Although there were only seven years difference in our ages, I was Candy's uncle. At the time of her murder I was in Italy on a government job. I came back as soon as I could."

"To see that the person who killed her was punished for it."

"Private vengeance is a risky business. Leave it to the police, Jones-Kenrick."

Tom laughed. "They had their chance. I figured I could do better."

Mr. Potter watched him steadily. "They might be interested in knowing just how far you'd go for revenge."

Tom returned the look without expression. "Somehow, you fail to terrify me. I'm going to finish this job."

Mr. Potter shook his head. "You were never," he said in his quiet voice, "more mistaken in your life. That's far warning. Kendrick, and after all, first you have to catch your rabbit."

"I have caught my rabbit," Tom said.

It was morning when the doctor came wearily down the stairs. The patient would recover, he said, but she was still very weak.

He yawned deeply. "A close call," he said.

"What was it?" Finn asked. The lawyer was haggard from sleeplessness and worry.

Looking around at the group of people huddled in the living room, their faces gray in the morning light, it seemed to Mr. Potter that nightmare had touched them all.

"Morphine," the doctor replied. "But how did she get it?" Stuart demanded.

The doctor shook his head. The nurse hadn't been able to account for it. She had given the patient only a mild sedative prescribed by Dr. Ruysdahl. He took a small bottle from his pocket, held it up and dropped it back again. But where the girl had got hold of morphine—

"You realize, of course," he said, "that the patient will have to be watched constantly. I'll get in touch with Dr. Ruysdahl in Boston, today. My personal recommendation would be a sanatorium where her mental condition can be studied."

led. These suicidal tendencies—He hesitated. He knew all about Nora Pendleton. "Another thing, I have no choice in the matter. This must be reported to the authorities."

"I have already," Mr. Potter put in gently, "notified the authorities."

Finn was livid. "Darned you, Potter! What right have you to interfere? Hasn't that girl suffered enough?"

"And I suggest," Mr. Potter went on, disregarding the lawyer's rage, "that you go up and sit with Nora."

"The nurse is with her."

"Exactly. Miss Garrison administered that morphine and until we know how the substitution was made, we would do well to keep the nurse out of that room."

The Stanleyville doctor looked alertly from one man to the other. "Then this is attempted murder!" he exclaimed. "What is going on here, anyhow? First Mrs. Riddle and now her niece."

"I hope you are satisfied, Potter," Finn snarled. "You and your meddling."

There was a chorus of voices as Tom, Stuart Young and Hazel Hugger all insisted on keeping guard over Nora.

"Mr. Black will handle it," Mr. Potter said. "And one thing more, I'd like to see Miss Garrison at once."

Mr. Potter puts Miss Garrison on the griddle and gets his ears burned. Read the next installment of "Run for Your Life" in this paper tomorrow.

Ava Gardner Lacks Happiness She Seeks

By BOB THOMAS

MEXICO CITY (U-P)—You come away from a talk with Ava Gardner with the impression of a woman who has gotten everything out of life but happiness.

There can be no doubt that Ava has lived. She pursues the high life strenuously. Yet it appears she would chuck the works if she could find happiness with one man.

She said something significant about her career, which might be applied to her own life: "I've always been cast as the femme fatale. That isn't me at all. What I'd really like to do is a love story."

Ava's own love life has been a tragedy. She first married Mickey Rooney, who took a studio press agent along on their honeymoon. Next came Artie Shaw, who honeymooned with Ava and a stack of books.

Her furious life with Frank Sinatra has been chronicled in millions of printed words. She marveled that it has been five years since they were married. They have been separated half that time.

Ava's latest interest is Walter Chiari, a charming Italian actor who is visiting her now. She said he is "great fun" but she doesn't plan to marry him. But then no one can tell what Ava is going to do, not even Ava.

Here are some other impressions I got from the Carolina Beauty during a long chat on "The Sun Also Rises" set:

The scandalmongers don't bother her. "I try not to read the nasty stories, but there are always some so-called friends who send them to me."

"I'd have to be eight different women to do all the things attributed to me in the scandal magazines. Sue? I'd need a platoon of lawyers. Why bother? It would just stir up more trouble."

"One story did me more good than harm. I got a flood of mail from nice people—not the usual ones who ask for pictures—who defended me. The reaction was very touching."

She is very thin. "That's always been a problem with me. I eat like a pig, but I don't put on weight."

She smokes incessantly. "I could give up drinking, but never smoking. It's not only a nervous habit, as it is with most people; I enjoy it thoroughly."

She hates Hollywood.

She loves Spain.

She still is exceptionally beautiful.

Neighbors Were Law Enforcers

RENO (U-P)—An ironic note was added today to the case file of three men arrested here for questioning about a series of burglaries after a bullet-punctured, 100-mile an hour chase.

A Reno policeman lives across the street from their rented house, a deputy sheriff is a backyard neighbor, and an FBI agent lives just up the street.

BISSETTE'S
DRUG STORE

By CHARLES BISSETTE
When is a Flash in the Hand Worth Six?

Center of interest to everyone—oldtime photographers, youngest neophyte, and even the salespeople in our store—is a brand new flashholder from Eastman Kodak. It's one of those "why-didn't-somebody-think-of-that-before" things that come along once in a while . . . and it virtually guarantees you of getting those flash shots you would once have missed.

It's called the Kodak Rotary Flashholder, and it lets you take six flash shots on a single loading. This ingenious device holds a battery of flashbulbs in a rotating holder. Two "carrier discs," each of which holds six midsize flashbulbs, come with the flashholder and can be preloaded so that all that is necessary when six pictures have been taken is to slip a new disc into the flashholder and start shooting again. With this new flashholder it's possible to shoot just about as fast as you can advance the film. Models are available for all Kodak flash cameras and for most other cameras.

So come in and see the bulbs go round yours. Bring your camera in, and we'll fit it with this amazing new Kodak Rotary flashholder.

He's a "stranger in these parts"—just passing through on his way to some distant destination.

But you wouldn't know it to look at the wonderful welcome he receives as he brings his car to a silken stop and his day's travels to an end.

For high on the hood of his motor car rides the beautiful crest of Cadillac—and hospitality just seems to follow a new Cadillac wherever it goes.

No man, you see, is ever without standing when he is in command of the "car of cars."

For it is a recognized fact that Cadillac owners—representing though they do such varying fields of endeavor and such widely separated parts of our world—also have a great deal in common.

Invariably they are people of marked personal achievement—who have won for themselves a considerable measure of respect and recognition.

In brief, the driver's seat of the Cadillac car is the traditional dwelling place of the world's leading citizens. And people everywhere have found it safe to assume that whosoever they behold at the wheel is a worthy member of this great and distinguished company.

Of course, this is but one of the satisfactions of Cadillac ownership . . . in addition to inspiring beauty, luxurious Fleetwood coachcraft, superlative performance and extraordinary value.

Have you as yet taken the wheel of a new 1957 Cadillac? If not, then you should visit your Cadillac dealer and spend an hour on the highway.

He'll be waiting for you with a "friendly welcome" of his own!

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices were lower, as the drive to new 1957 highs halted early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active.

Pivotal issues were off from fractions to around a point but no particular selling pressure was in evidence.

A good assortment of key stocks held firm or made advances.

Wall Street analysts said a resting period was to be expected in the light of the market's continuous posting of new '57 highs in the past week and a half.

The furloughing of 1,000 workers at Louisville, Ky., by General Electric, the drop in steel production last week to its low for the year and a rise in the U.S. Treasury's short-term borrowing costs after four weeks of decline were among the background factors.

The annual 10 Point Volunteer Vehicle Safety Check will commence here tomorrow afternoon with the three check lanes opening at 2 p.m.

In addition to Greenville, Ayden and Farmville have made extensive plans to conduct similar volunteer safety checks during the same period, a half day Wednesday and all day Thursday.

The Pitt County Safety Council, headed by Badger Johnson, will serve as coordinator for the volunteer activity again this year. Johnson has announced that the City Police Department and the State Highway Patrol will assist the Council.

A meeting is scheduled for tonight in the City Courtroom for the purpose of indoctrinating volunteer workers from local civic clubs who are to set up and conduct the check lanes. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The following civic clubs have been asked to have representatives present for the final briefing: the Jaycees, Jay-Cettes, Rotary Club, Lions Club, Kiwanis, Exchange, Moose Lodge, Elks, Civitan, Women of the Moose, Junior Woman's Club, Business and Professional

Congregation Agrees With Pastor's Request

The First Presbyterian Church congregation Sunday morning concurred with the pastor in his request that the Albemarle Presbytery dissolve the relationship between the congregation and the pastor.

The Rev. Leonard Topping had tendered his resignation earlier to accept another position. During the Sunday morning services Judge Dink James spoke in appreciation of the ministry of the Rev. Mr. Topping during the past nine years and eight months.

The minister will conclude his pastorate June 15. The congregation elected a committee to nominate a new minister. Serving on the committee will be: F. Badger Johnson, Jesse R. Moye, Robert L. Elks, Mrs. Fred D. Haar, Mrs. Roy A. Coburn, Bancroft F. Moseley.

Thad Braxton Dies Here Monday Night

Thad Braxton, 54, farmer, died at Pitt Memorial Hospital at 8:45 Monday night. He had been in failing health several months and critically ill for the last four days.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete. Mr. Braxton, son of the late Ernest and Trudie Hardee Braxton, spent his life in Pitt county. He was married to Sallie Buck of Pitt county in 1922, who survives with three sons, Leo Braxton of near Greenville, Claude G. Braxton of Honolulu, and Thad Braxton Jr. of Stokes; six grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. Sudie Buck of Greenville, Mrs. Alice Meekins of Norfolk, Va., and Miss Estelle Braxton of the home, and a brother, Robert Braxton of Bena, Va.

Women's Club and the Credit Women's Breakfast Club. Johnson stated this morning that results of more than two million vehicles safety-checked during the 1956 program showed 95.5 per cent, or one out of five, were in need of service attention to one or more parts affecting safe vehicle operation. In addition, reports from nine states conducting official vehicle inspection programs in 1955 showed up to 71 per cent of all vehicles inspected were rejected because one or more parts required immediate service attention.

The Pitt County Automotive Association has announced that mechanics will be at each of the three safety check lanes. Lanes will be set up near the ECC Gymnasium on 10th St., on Dickinson Avenue at the New Carolina Warehouse and at the Farmers Warehouse on the Greene St. Extension.

Mayor S. E. West has pledged full support to the program. Willie Pate is serving as vice-chairman for the safety check. W. C. Taylor Jr. has assured the Council that the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce will cooperate "to the fullest extent."

Brakes, front lights, rear lights, steering, tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers, rear view mirror and horn and all other items affecting safe vehicle operation will be checked.

The safety check lanes will be open from 2 p.m. until 6 p.m. tomorrow, and from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Thursday.

After the driver has his or her vehicle checked, and if defects are noted, a mechanic or lane worker will recommend the defect be corrected. If corrections are made and the driver returns to the lane before closing time Thursday afternoon, he will be given a sticker designating that his vehicle has been checked and is in safe driving condition.

The nationwide motor vehicle safety check is presently in full swing in this state. Several neighboring towns and counties began the program earlier this week. Over 200 cities and 95 counties throughout the nation are conducting the safety check this year.

Johnson said this morning, "This program is one that should be taken advantage of by every vehicle owner in this area. It is the sincere desire of the Pitt Safety Council that the people will lend their continued support to this project."
