Military Rule Imposed On Taipei Anti-U.S. Rioters

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Generalissimo Chang Kai-shek held this Chinese Nationalist capital under strict military rule today in the wake of violent anti-American rioting which wrecked the U. S. embassy and injured 13 Americans.

Taipei's half-million people were kept in tight check by 33,000 Nationalist troops swarming the streets, ready to put down any new eruption.

Authorities sought new leaders who turned a protest against an unpopular U. S. court-martial decision into an anti-U. S. rampage by 20,000 to 30,000 Chinese and Formosans.

Tension eased gradually today. The morning and most of the afternoon passed without disturbances.

On the Chinese mainland, the Communists launched a propaganda campaign calling the disorders proof that the people of Formosa oppose Chiang's alliance with the United States.

In extra after extra, the Communist press in British Hong Kong proclaimed in big, red type: "Chinese brothers boil over against Americans—Chinese brothers revenge long years of hate!"

Peiping radio used facilities in Formosa to "intensely their efforts to work for the Liberation" of the island.

The Chiang government has formally apologized to the United States and indicated it will pay compensation for the damage to American property.

In the long run, however, the United States apparently will end up paying at least indirectly for the damage. The fact is that Formosa has a long history of being a U. S. aid makes up the deficit.

The 9,000 Americans on the island include advisers to the Nationalist army.

They hauled down a U. S. flag and tore it to shreds. They broke windows and smashed furniture and tore up piles of classified documents.

Other rioters wrecked the U. S. information building some distance away.

Still others besieged 100 Americans in a U. S. Army communications center, but were unable to get in.

The Chinese stoned U. S. Ambassador Karl Rankin and Nationalist Foreign Minister George Yeh who were attempting to survey the damage. Yeh was hit by a stone.

The assault on the embassy was at lunchtime, when only a handful of Americans was on duty. Those caught inside took shelter in the embassy air raid shelter after seven were beaten by the mobs.

Four American servicemen and two civilian airline employees were mobbed on the streets, suffering minor injuries.

The rioters dispersed late in the day when three divisions of Nationalist troops moved into the city with armored cars.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressmen will question officials of the State and Defense departments Monday about anti-American rioting by Chinese mobs in Formosa.

Tornadoes Again Break Out Over Extensive Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Dozens of tornadoes hopped-skipped and jumped through the middle of the continent yesterday. The Weather Bureau called it the worst outbreak of twisters in recent years.

At least four persons were killed and a fifth death was attributed indirectly to the storms. Several persons were injured. Property damage ran to thousands of dollars.

Here is a rundown by states: Oklahoma—Four persons were killed when a tornado hit a rural area 6 miles south of Lawton.

A fifth death occurred when a man was struck by a heart attack while running for a storm shelter. At Wanette five persons were injured when a match, struck to light a kerosene lantern, exploded gas that had accumulated in a storm cellar.

Texas—More than 20 tornadoes raked scattered areas of the Panhandle and South Plains. At least 10 persons were injured and hundreds of homes were destroyed or damaged. The injuries occurred at Olton, where a twister ripped through the Latin-American and Negro sections, demolishing 30 homes and damaging 25. Fire Chief Tom C. Smith credited rapid tracking of the tornado with saving many lives. At Tahoka 100 homes and a large cotton complex were destroyed by a funnel that missed the business section.

Colorado-Wyoming—A government forecaster credited light rain showers with tempering the destructiveness of eight tornadoes that swirled through southeastern Wyoming and eastern Colorado. There were no injuries. Two of the twisters caused minor damage to farm buildings around Yoder, Wyo. and Pierce, Colo.

Missouri, which was lashed by deadly tornadoes earlier in the week, also had storms. No twisters were reported, but rain, hail and high winds wrecked several automobiles, uprooted trees and caused shallow flooding in the business district of Joplin last night.

Across the state, in the southeastern to the southwest, engineers reported 12 to 15 thousand acres of farm land around Kennett to be flooded today by the Little River.

High water also was a problem in Texas and Oklahoma as a result of torrential rains that accompanied storms in those states. Lawton, Okla., had more than 4 inches of rain in a short time. Six inches had fallen in Shawnee, Okla., by midnight, and Tulsa had flash flooding.

FREEING PRISONERS TOKYO (AP)—The Foreign Ministry said today Australia has pardoned three Japanese navy prisoners of World War II. The three, who had been sentenced to life imprisonment, will be released from Sugamo Prison Monday with four other Japanese pardoned earlier, the announcement said.

Only four or five trains a day run on the railroad which splits the middle of Michigan's lower peninsula from Grayling to Mackinaw City.

Construction magazine, in its current issue, says "The foresight of North Carolina highway engineers has put them two years ahead of nearby states in planning the new interstate system of controlled access expressways."

Graham said the work in progress involves 979.1 miles of construction.

Democracy Chosen As GOP Candidate SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Republican leaders in Scranton today are in the uncomfortable position of having nominated a Democrat for school director in last Tuesday's primary.

William L. Jones Jr., one of three school directors nominated, has been a registered Democrat for 15 years. William J. Powell, GOP chairman, said he knew Jones' party affiliation and had warned Republican leaders Jones was a strong candidate.

"I can't cry now," Powell said. "It was the one who called for an 'open' primary and I have to stand by it."

There is nothing in the state election laws to prevent Jones from running in November as a Republican.

Congressmen To Probe Basis Of Formosan Riots

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressmen will question officials of the State and Defense departments Monday about anti-American rioting by Chinese mobs in Formosa.

Chairman Zablocki (D-Wis.) said his House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee would seek to determine "whether our troops abroad are under proper supervision and whether steps are being taken to prevent incidents."

Zablocki yesterday described as "most unfortunate" the sacking early Friday of the U. S. embassy at Taipei and a building housing the U. S. Information Agency (USIA). Several Americans were injured.

Other congressional reaction was equally serious in tone. Senate Republican Leader Knowland (Calif.) said he was "shocked."

"Mob violence that injures American citizens and destroys American property cannot be condoned among allies, neutrals or unfriendly nations," Knowland said.

The Chiang Kai-shek government has formally apologized. U. S. authorities have demanded apology. "The United States, however, likely will wind up paying for the damage, at least indirectly. Nationalist China operates on a deficit economy and U. S. aid makes up the deficit.

The rioting was directly touched off by the court-martial acquittal of a U. S. army sergeant who killed a Chinese man he alleged was peeping into the bathroom window at the sergeant's home.

Michael Ernest was reported in "fair" condition, with head injuries and a wound caused by a slice that missed the business section.

Colorado-Wyoming—A government forecaster credited light rain showers with tempering the destructiveness of eight tornadoes that swirled through southeastern Wyoming and eastern Colorado.

Missouri, which was lashed by deadly tornadoes earlier in the week, also had storms. No twisters were reported, but rain, hail and high winds wrecked several automobiles, uprooted trees and caused shallow flooding in the business district of Joplin last night.

Knowland Raps Selective Cuts In Money Bills

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's call for authority to make selective cuts in money bills put him in fresh disagreement today with Senate Republican leaders.

Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP floor leader, said he is opposed to giving any President—including Eisenhower—the power to veto particular items in appropriations bills.

"It is my opinion that nothing short of a Constitutional amendment could clothe the President with such authority and I am against any such amendment," Knowland said in an interview.

"Any such authority would give the executive too much power. It would tend to subordinate the Congress in a way that was never intended by the Constitution."

Chairman Bridges (NH) of the Senate Republican Policy Committee said in a separate interview he has not altered his opposition to the "item veto" proposal which he has fought in the past.

Bridges and Knowland both have called for cuts in Eisenhower's $71,800,000,000 budget.

Eisenhower, in a telephone talk to a Republican rally at Trenton, N. J., said yesterday that "if the item veto existed right now, I could easily do the serious expense cutting."

The Senate Finance Committee approved the new corporate income tax allocation formula backed by Gov. Hodges as a lure for new industry.

The House Finance subcommittee completed its recommendations on the House version of the tax bill and will report to the full committee Monday morning.

A bill to permit local option elections in counties on the question of legalizing horse and dog racing was introduced in the House.

Developments yesterday included the introduction in the House of a bill designed to plug loopholes in laws regulating small loan agencies. It would give the State Banking Commission added power to keep loan agencies in line. The House and Senate received resolutions to create a 9-member commission to study public school finances, a move recommended by Gov. Hodges.

Looking back over the week, the House passed on its second reading Monday night a daylight saving time bill, but reversed itself the next day and voted against the measure by 51 to 41.

The Senate defeated by 26 to 20 another plan for reapportionment of the House and Senate membership. The measure proposed amendment of the state constitution to provide a state Senate of 100 members, one senator from each county, and a 160-member House. The bill proposed one representative for each county with the 60 additional members being allocated to larger counties.

The House Roads Committee gave an unfavorable report to an auto inspection bill. The measure, introduced by 17 to 9, had the backing of Gov. Hodges and Motor Vehicle Commissioner Ed Scheidt.

McChile, the Joint Appropriations subcommittee neared an end to its work on the budget bill for the next biennium and is due to report its recommendations to the full committee early next week.

Petition Circulating For Change In Naming Mayor; Haste Deemed Advisable

A petition is being circulated locally calling for the election of mayor separately from the other four councilmen.

The petition, addressed to Sen. Paul E. Jones, Rep. Walter Jones and Rep. Frank M. Wooten Jr., requests that legislation be passed amending the city charter as follows:

"1. The Mayor of the City of Greenville shall be elected by and from the qualified voters of the City of Greenville, who shall be the chief executive officer of the City. He shall have the same powers and duties now vested in the Mayor of the City of Greenville and shall be elected at the same time and shall hold office during the same term held by members of the City Council.

"2. Four members of the City Council shall be elected in lieu of five as provided for in the present Charter of the City of Greenville.

"3. Except for the change in the manner of electing the Mayor and except for the election of four members of the Council instead of five, the Charter of the City of Greenville shall remain the same as now provided for, and the Mayor and the Members of the Council shall have the same authority, duties and responsibilities as they have under the present Charter of the City of Greenville."

The spokesman for the group circulating the petition said it now bears over 600 names of people "from all walks of life."

The spokesman, Gilbert Peel, said: "I have been delegated to turn the petition over to Frank M. Wooten Jr. which I will do Monday morning.

"Just a personal word. This is not a new idea with me. When Plan D came up to be voted on I did vote for it but felt then as I do now that the people of Greenville were competent to elect by a direct vote their mayor and I am convinced that a great majority of them want to do so. The people elect the governor and other high state officers."

Peel said he drew up the petition at the request of others and "I have assisted as I could in obtaining signatures."

Rep. Wooten said this morning that while he had not yet received the petition "I know it's going around because someone called me and told me."

Wooten last week was seeking to determine local sentiment on the issue and he asked that interested persons contact him.

As a result of a newspaper article last Saturday, he received a number of calls.

"Nearly everyone favored election of the mayor separately," he declared.

Rep. Wooten said the legislation which he is being asked to introduce could either authorize a local election on the question or it could revise the City Charter directly. He said he had not decided as yet in which way the matter would be handled.

The petition does not ask for an election on the issue but merely calls for legislation to make the change. Wooten said before anything is done he would want to see the petition.

"I want to be sure there is a good cross section," he declared.

To be passed at this session of the State Legislature the bill would have to be introduced "not later than Thursday and preferably Wednesday," the Pitt representative declared.

Grueling Week Seen Ahead Of N.C. Lawmakers Policy Decision On Disarmament

RALEIGH (AP)—Driving toward adjournment, the General Assembly today passed several proposals this week, including a budget, another reapportionment plan and a bill to put the state on daylight saving time.

But a backlog of bills has dimmed the possibility of winding up the session on the target date of June 1.

House Speaker J. K. Doughton advised House members yesterday to rest up over the weekend because "it's going to be grueling next week."

The Senate Finance Committee held a six-hour session yesterday to put the finishing touches to the big tax bill. Chairman Nelson Woodson of Rowan said it will be reported to the Senate floor Monday night.

The House yesterday passed on third reading the 10 million dollar bond issue to finance permanent improvements. Gov. Hodges proposed it as a means of releasing money to help pay salary raises for teachers and other state employees.

Other major developments this week included a new bill calling for a state minimum wage law was introduced yesterday by Sen. R. Lee Whitmore of Henderson. His action followed earlier moves in both the House and Senate in an attempt to revive a 75-cent hourly minimum wage bill which the House Committee on Manufacturing and Labor tabled. The new bill includes all amendments adopted to the first bill, but the proposed minimum was cut from 75 to 70 cents an hour.

The Senate Finance Committee approved the new corporate income tax allocation formula backed by Gov. Hodges as a lure for new industry.

Roe Foley's new mystery novel RUN FOR YOUR LIFE

CHAPTER 31 Nora ate her breakfast and when Garry took away the tray she got up to lock the door. She was still so weak that she staggered but, by holding on to the furniture, she got back into bed, exhausted but relieved. No one could get at her. She was safe.

Her breath steadied, slowed down, her breathing regained its normal rhythm. She lay staring at the window and crimson maple leaves against a cobal, blue sky. The die was cast. She had told Hiram Foster the truth, so far as she knew it. Where he had gone she did not know but she was sure that when he returned he would have learned the thing that mattered most: whether she was sane or insane.

She dozed and woke up, dozed and woke up, each time coming back reluctantly to the fact that she was covering in bed behind locked doors, hiding from some one who wanted her. She was now in a room with a window that looked out onto the street. The room was dark, the window blind, and she was alone.

"I've devoted myself to you for years, Nora," she had said, "and you repay my sacrifice by changing your will. Not that I expect to inherit; after all, I'm twenty years older than you, but it's the inheritance I can tell you right now I'm going to speak up if the police question me. I didn't see you that day. I won't lie about it."

Nora took her head in her hands, rocking it back and forth. Why hadn't Aunt Olive seen her? Where had she been? Why was Stuart so anxious to protect her? What had she done?

Why, she realized, I'm more afraid of me than anyone. She let Garry in with the lunch tray, ate a little and sent it away. Then, when Garry had gone, she slid her legs over the side of the bed and sat up. A wave of blackness swept over her and faded again. Her body was drenched in a cold sweat from weakness. She sat quite still, waiting with a patience that had just come into being for her strength to return. I've stopped running away, she thought. Reality, here I come.

At length she stood up and walked slowly to the bathroom and ran her bath. The hot water was comforting and she was tempted to lie in it but she realized it would be enervating and she needed all her strength. As it was, she had to pull herself out on hands and knees but she refused to allow herself to surrender to weakness. When she had toweled herself briskly her skin was glowing and she felt better.

A plan was taking shape in her mind. She had to go back to the beginning to the time when the uncertainty and the unreality had begun. She pulled on warm slacks and a wool shirt. After a moment of hesitation she took Tom's crimson pullover. Her revulsion to blue was more than she could conquer. Anyhow, big as the sweater was, it was warm and the color had a brave and challenging quality she needed to bolster her spirits.

When she was dressed she unlocked the door and let herself out into the hall. She had almost reached the head of the stairs when Stuart's door opened. "Nora!" He started to take her in his arms and then checked himself, put one arm lightly around her shoulders. "Let me look at you. I've been half out of my head. Are you all right?"

"I'm fine," she said. "Aren't you supposed to be in bed?" "I couldn't stay there any longer." He tilted back her chin. "There's something different about you." "I'm tired of covering behind a locked door," she said. "I'm going out."

He shook his head. "You mustn't do that, dear. Finn wants you here. Anyhow, there's a policeman watching the place. He'd stop you." "Want to bet?" she smiled impudently. "But where do you want to go?" he asked in perplexity.

"To our picnic place," Nora said. "I've got to remember what I did that day. The policeman won't see me. I'll get out the dining room window." Stuart was watching her. "But it's two miles! You'd never be able to walk so far. Anyhow, I'm not going to let you run off by yourself after the things that have been happening. Stay here, darling."

She touched his cheek lightly. "Don't worry a' ut me. I'll be all right." He grinned. "I'll worry as much as I like," he said defiantly. "And you aren't going by yourself. If you are up to anything like that I'm going with you."

Her face brightened. "That will be much better. I'm not up to walking far and I could never get the car out of the parking lot without being seen. Anyhow, I want you with me. You take the car and I'll go through the woods on the bridge path and meet you up around the curve."

She opened the dining room window and dropped onto the lawn. Two days before at this time she had dropped out of the same window into Tom Jones' waiting arms. She pushed the thought away from her. There was too much pain in remembering his eyes, hard and watchful, when he told her that he knew her motive for lying.

Her legs were still wobbly and she moved slowly. She heard Stuart exchange a few cheerful words with the state trooper, heard the car pull out. She walked through the woods, feeling her strength come back and with it a kind of confidence she had not experienced for a long time. Some instinct told her that the answer to her perplexities lay at the spot where she and Stuart had gone for their picnic a year before. She had no idea what lay ahead. She was not even afraid that it might be bad. At least, it would be drawn to the side of the road, the motor idling. Stuart at the wheel with the sun on his light hair, his face set with worry.

He turned his head as she came out of the woods and forced a smile. "You look like a Kentucky Cardinal." "I know you prefer blue, Stuart, but somehow I can't wear it again. At least, not this time." "You're going to forget. That's for sure. And I don't care whether you wear all the colors of the rainbow." He released the brake and the car moved off. He grinned. "You're quite a little conspirator, sneaking off without anyone seeing you."

"I don't like sneaking, but they'd have stopped me." "I can't be cross with you because I'm too happy; I've got you to myself." "That," she told him, "is what you said when we started off that day last year." "But to make it like that day," Stuart said quietly, "you'd have to want to be with me. Do you think you could pretend for a little while that you still love me?"

Nora was silent for a moment. Then she said, "But that's just what I want, Stuart. I want to re-live that day." Mr. Potter delves into Stuart's past. Why did he stop studying medicine? "I always blamed Amy Chandler," he is told, "that last year it was quite an affair."

Miss Winchester, Lt. Pridgen Vows Spoken Sunday Afternoon

Mrs. Marvin Roland Pridgen

The marriage of Miss Jane Barnes Winchester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Clyde Winchester of Greenville, and Lt. Marvin Roland Pridgen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Douglas Pridgen of Smithfield, Va., took place May 19 at 4 o'clock at the Red Oak Christian Church.

Dr. H. G. Haney officiated, assisted by Clifford R. Lanman. Tiered candelabra with a background of green ferns and white gladioli in the foreground were used as the church decorations.

A program of nuptial music was furnished by Miss Betty Lane Evans, organist, and Miss Kathryn Lynn Collins, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz-length gown of candelight lace fashioned with long sleeves tapering into calli Lilly points. A two-tiered French fluster veil was attached to her Juliet cap adorned with seed pearls and sequins.

She carried a bouquet of purple throated white orchids set in a cascade bouquet of white feathered carnations.

Miss Kathryn Winchester, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her mint green princess style dress was made of Georgette taffeta with permanent pleated insets.

Marvin Douglas Pridgen served his son as best man. Ushers were Melton High of Sims and Samuel C. Winchester Jr., brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Winchester wore a baby blue silk shantung dress with a white embroidered organza yoke. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a dusty blue crepe dress with three-quarter length sleeves. She also wore a corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip Mrs. Pridgen wore a white pique sheath dress with a black yoke and black patent accessories and a white hat. Her orchid corsage was lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will make their home at 412 College Street, Kingston.

Mrs. Pridgen is a graduate of Greenville High School and is attending East Carolina College where she is studying French and music.

Lt. Pridgen is a graduate of Charles L. Coon High School, Wilson, and East Carolina College. He is now serving in the United States Air Force.

Memo To Brides

(Editor's Note: This is the eighth in a series of articles written for the world's darling—the bride.)

By ANNE SINGLETON Reflector Woman's Editor

Why doesn't somebody start a revolt against mass-production receptions—these social affairs where 1,000 guests mass to shake some hands?

For too many seasons too many guests have shivered in rain, sleet and snow, or sweltered in the sun, in queues outside town or country club doors only to be rewarded three or four hours later with a finger sandwich and a glass of champagne.

Thoughtful reception-givers—

30 Years Ago Today

Miss Margaret Fleming delightfully entertained yesterday at a bridge luncheon, in honor of Miss Hadley Woodard, of Wilson, who will be married in June. The home was profusely decorated with sweet peas, madonna lilies, larkspur and other flowers. High score was made by Miss Mary Hadley Connor. Miss Bernice Jenkins made low score and Miss Hadley was remembered with lingerie. A three-course luncheon was served.

Misses: Hadley Woodard, Mary Hadley Connor, Mary Williams of Wilson and Bernice Jenkins of Newport News.

"Plan Family Living" Says Mrs. Little

The Arles Book Club met Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Marshall Starkey.

Mrs. Kenneth Hite presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Steven Bartlett. After a short business session, Mrs. Fred Saue introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mrs. Lillie Little, Pitt County Home Demonstration Agent.

Mrs. Little's topic was "Planning Family Living."

"Family planning is important in bringing about a better way of living," Mrs. Little stated. "A well managed home is a happy home. Each family must have goals, and each member of the family must know these goals and be considered in the formulation of them. Also, each member must have his own individual goals, and the cooperation of the family to help him achieve them."

Mrs. Little listed three resources at everyone's disposal . . . "three things to spend: time, money and energy. These must be wisely planned and budgeted. Energy is the most difficult to budget. Happiness is the best stimulant to energy. Energy must be used. If it accumulates it takes the form of fat!"

Mrs. Little concluded by saying, "Two things all families should cultivate are Knowledge and Attitudes."

The hostess served a dessert before the meeting adjourned.

Massive Receptions Are Chaotic

especially when they have that day married off a daughter, sometimes see that trays of champagne are passed to that segment of the line that has already moved into the foyer. It helps to while away the next hour or two.

Have you ever calculated the exact length of time it takes guests to go through a receiving line? At an average of four a minute (provided they whip right through with no idle conversation), 240 pass through in an hour. For 1,000 guests, then, it takes a minimum of four hours.

A fashionable marriage in an event to honor. You go to it prepared to see the nicest kind of people under the most favorable circumstances. But it's inevitable, when the crowd gets out of control, that disenchantment sets in. It all becomes one big circus with people crowding around the bride and bridegroom, or elbowing their way through masses of strange faces in a room buzzing with inane conversation.

One reason for the huge receptions is that some party hosts send reception invitations to persons they don't know, or scarcely know, all to increase their own business interests or social prestige.

Receptions, whether for brides or debs, can't be the dignified functions they once were. The very format of a reception calls for an announcement in white tie and tails.

The big wedding, conducted in wholesale numbers, seldom is the dream of the young woman who's the star of the show.

Don't Hurry Baby Toilet Training

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D., AP Newsfeatures

Every mother is anxious to have her baby toilet trained. It cuts down laundry and work. But quite aside from the benefits to be gained by this reduction in an unpleasant task a great many mothers take pride in having their babies trained earlier than their friends' children. It is because of the pressure for early toilet training that we run into so many difficulties over this particular bit of education.

You cannot expect a baby to control his elimination until he is old enough to have voluntary control of the muscles involved. No one in his right mind would expect a 3-month-old baby to walk. We know those little legs fly around with quite random movements until some time around the end of the first year, then rather suddenly the baby discovers he can make them do what he wants them to do and he begins to walk the way all the other people about him walk.

In exactly the same way he would learn to use the toilet, if we just let him alone. He would discover that everyone else went to the bathroom and pretty soon he'd do the same thing.

Most families hate to wait quite this long. So they begin giving lessons on the use of the toilet. If you go easy it's quite possible to teach this important lesson a little before the child would learn it without teaching.

But don't start too early. It's much better to start late than too early. If you start before the baby can cooperate both of you get frustrated and you delay the time when the lesson is learned.

The very earliest you should start is after the baby can sit up well and strong by himself and responds to simple verbal expressions—something around the end of the first year. At about this age if your baby is one of those youngsters whose eliminations come at a regular time each day you can start. If your baby is one whose bowel movements come at unpredictable hours you must wait still longer.

Watch Schedule When you start, put him on the toilet at just about the time you know from experience he will have a movement. If you guess right tell him what a good boy he is. He will love all the fuss you make. He may be a bit vague about what it was he did that brought this lovely commotion, but in the course of time he catches on, and he will do his baby best to please you and get the nice fuss that you make about him.

Of course, he is still going to have some accidents. When he does, just clean him up, but say nothing. Don't scold, don't tell him he's bad—keep your face passive. Make very sure he gets no commotion for behavior you do not want repeated.

Parents Form Block Patrol

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Frightened and crying, two little girls came running home.

A strange man, they told their mothers, had scared them while they were walking from school.

"I got pretty mad," recalls one of the mothers, Mrs. Herman Frankel of West Los Angeles.

"There had been a lot of cases of child molestation, and a 10-year-old boy had been murdered under a pier at nearby Santa Monica."

"I had just been appointed juvenile protection chairman of the Parent-Teacher Assn. and I decided to do something about safeguarding our children."

The "something" that Mrs. Frankel and other members of the Overland Elementary School PTA did evolved into a "Block Parent" system.

"We remembered the Block Warden system of World War II," Mrs. Frankel says, "and set up our project on that pattern."

This is how it works: Carefully screened families in the school district are selected as Block Parents.

Their homes are posted as refuges for children who might become injured, lost or frightened. Placed prominently at each of these homes is a placard with the letters "B" and "P" enclosed in black and pink blocks.

Will Greenville Now Reconsider?

The treacherous Tar has claimed another of Greenville's young people.

It is the same tragic story which is repeated year after year as the summer sun bears down on this area and temperatures go into the 90s and above. It is a story which is repeated not once but more often than not several times during the summer months in this community.

Youngsters, seeking a brief respite from the summer's heat venture into the unpredictable waters of the river. The unyielding river takes a life and gives up a body.

It is the most natural thing in the world for a boy to want to go swimming on a hot summer day. More often than not if a safe place is not provided by his community, he will sooner or later venture into the unsafe streams, rivers or ponds which are available. So long as safe swimming areas are not available in a community, youngsters will turn to unsafe places. And so long as youngsters swim in unpredictable rivers, unprotected ponds, these bodies of water will claim their unwitting victims.

Three years ago Greenville's citizens considered building two new swimming pools, primarily for the use of its young people. The proposed bond issue was defeated overwhelmingly at that time by the voters of the city. The defeat of the proposed bond issues, we believe, was due primarily to the fact that only a few weeks before the referendum the U. S. Supreme Court had handed down its anti-segregation ruling for public schools. The jolt of the decision, the uncertainty as to its meaning so far as the local situation was concerned created a turmoil in every community throughout the South.

Although many questions brought about by that decision still remain unanswered, the past three years have allowed time for the clarification of many other questions in the minds of individual citizens.

Is Greenville now ready to reconsider the matter of constructing public swimming pools in the interest of protecting the lives of its young people? In the interest of affording them a safe place to swim during the summer months?

Ike's Idea Tantamount To Power-Transfer

If President Eisenhower could do some "serious cost cutting" with the power of selective veto in appropriations, he should be able to make effective recommendations to Congress on budget cuts without the additional authority.

At the moment—so far as the current budget is concerned—we see little to be gained by giving the President this additional authority he is seeking. It is evident that the budget must be cut. It is also evident to most taxpayers that both the president and members of Congress have an important responsibility in this matter.

But it seems that each time the President proposes a cut, Congress balks; and when Congress gets around to using the shears on the budget, the President howls.

As it is now Congress can set out in appropriations bills the amount of money to be spent during the coming fiscal year and the President can either accept the bills as they are or veto the entire bill with its sundry items. If the new authority were granted, final say on budget matters—for all practical purposes—would be shifted from Congress to the President. It is our frank opinion the additional authority is not needed by the president.

It is also our opinion that the President and Congress can arrive at common ground on which to cut the budget in each put the necessary effort into the task.

It's time someone in Washington did some serious cost cutting. And it should be done without shifting existing powers of the executive and legislative branches of the government.

A Week Full Of Contrast

A WEEK IN THE LIFE OF A NEWSPAPER MAN . . .

Contrary to some opinions, newspaper men are human in many respects . . . or let's say some respects in that we eat food, drink water, and breathe.

Newspapermen have feelings and are prone to feel for their fellowman . . . though again some people might argue this point.

During the past week I have witnessed human emotion to the ultimate in my opinion, and this is written to convey some of my experiences.

On Monday I was sitting at my desk staring out the window looking for something to write about when I received a phone call. A woman had just been

This traffic fatality, first in the county since the middle of February, happened about seven miles from here.

I arrived at the wreck scene, and it was one of the most morbid I have ever seen. Nobody could have lived through a crash of that nature. There was only about six inches between the steering wheel and the back of the front seat. She never knew what hit her.

I felt sorry for everyone concerned. The crowd seemed to share my feelings. She died alone with no one there who actually knew her, since she was from a faraway city.

To veer away from the sad side of life: I was over in my old stamping grounds, Williams-ton, Tuesday night and saw one of the best-pitched high school ball games I have ever witnessed.

The pitcher made the batters on the opposing team look like a Little Leaguer batting against Bob Feller. He was in complete control of the game and at one stretch struck out 14 batters in a row.

I watched six innings without seeing a ball hit out of the infield. Getting a foul tip was like hitting a home run off this boy, Gaylord Perry. He has only hurled five no-hitters this year: one a perfect game.

Major league scouts were in the stands, drooling every time he hauled back and chunked. No doubt every one of them thought he would eventually be pitching for their team.

I am sure that the opposing team's batters wished he was.

Thursday afternoon I didn't have anything to do after work so I went out to Elm Street Park to watch the Little Leaguers play.

Some New Ideas By Businessmen

Here's a round-up of new ideas, gimmicks, stunts and oddities in the world of business:

No one ever needs to be thirsty in Denver again. RCA has installed the first radio-telephone system between a brewery warehouse and a fleet of trucks.

A rug of aluminum fiber has been woven for Alcoa. It is heated by a giant electric plate buried in the floor under four inches of concrete. Electric Light & Power magazine reports. Power turned on during the cheap-rate night hours keeps the warehouse warm all day.

Contributions to a club for the purpose of defraying sickness or burial expenses of a deceased member are not deductible, the Internal Revenue Service says in a new ruling. However, an employer's contribution as a part of personnel policy, would be deductible by the firm.

A group of international organizations are writing a travel health manual to set sanitation standards for hotels, restaurants and other facilities in all parts of the world. It would make travel more pleasant for squeamish Americans.

OLD PROMOTER FINDS WAY TO DODGE U.S. COMPETITION

The Old Promoter was rambling on and on and suddenly we caught a phrase that arrested us: "So I advised him to go into the manufacture of garlic salt."

"What's that?" we demanded.

"I was saying this young fellow wanted to go into business for himself," the old one said. "I pointed out that in almost every field he would run up against government competition. The government makes paint, generates electricity, runs bowling alleys, operates a steamship service, runs air lines, competes with express companies, develops seeds, operates a savings bank, makes loans and is the biggest book and pamphlet publisher in the nation.

"But as far as I know, it does not go into the custom shaving of hogs, or the manufacture of garlic salt. The first is a messy business, so I advised him—"

"Yeah. Now we know," we said. "But we have a column to finish. Will you kindly take a cigar or two and—"

He departed.

Under an act ratified within the past week every automobile owner in North Carolina must pay an extra dollar for his license plate to finance driver training courses in the public schools.

A high percentage of the case in police and recorder courts involve violations of automobile traffic laws. Every motorist convicted must put out from $2.00 to $5.00 in cost, for items which are in no sense related to the actual cost of the trial.

NAMELESS — Sen. Bill Cobb of Burke is proud of his affiliation with the Republican party. He understands, however, that the ratio three to forty-seven Senators constitutes his group as a very definite and not politically popular minority. The other day when he asked for courtesies of the lobby to be extended three women from Charlotte, he referred to them as "members of a political party well known in this state."

Office Space Is An Urgent Need

By LYNN NISBET

CAPITOL — The need for a new legislative and executive office building is almost as urgent as the need for a modernized constitution. Actually it may be more acute, because the present capitol building is used in excess of its reasonable capacity, while many portions of the constitution are not used at all. It would seem appropriate that commissions be named to study both problems and recommend procedure to the next Legislature.

The constitution has been amended, sometimes materially more than 100 times since its adoption in 1868. The capitol building has not been changed in basic structure since it was completed in 1843. Central heating was installed instead of the open fireplaces; electric lights were substituted for oil lamps; telephone lines were run into the building, and within the past three years television cables and a passenger elevator were installed. All of these changes added to the convenience of occupants, but did not add a square foot to the available working space. To the contrary, working space was reduced by the installations of new gadgets.

Dozens of departmental office buildings have been built to take care of expanding government operations. As of now all these offices are full and there is need for still more space. The size of the rooms and the number of seats in House and Senate chambers, the capitol building space for legislative clerks and news reporters, lobby and gallery room for visitors, have remained fixed for 116 years. Meantime the population of the state multiplied five times—from 800,000 to 4,000,000, and the governmental budget grew from a few hundred thousand dollars to half a billion a year.

HISTORY — Inadequacy of the present capitol for its purposes has been recognized for three or four decades. The first real effort to relieve the situation was made around 1940, when Benson Blalock, who represented Anson county in 147 five sessions (1939 through 1954) devoted a lot of time and his own money to study of the conditions. He proposed addition of wings on the east and west sides of the present building.

That proposal as well as numerous others for changing the architectural form of the old building, brought violent protest from many quarters. It also brought some revolutionary ideas for increasing space without disturbing the surface appearance of the capitol. One suggestion was to go underground. As your reporter recalls, but cannot be sure, that was advanced by William G. Perry, architect for the Tryon Palace restoration, who had large part in the Williamsburg (Virginia) restoration project. Briefly it was to put three or four floor levels under capitol square all around the old building. Modern efficiency of artificial lighting and air conditioning makes that idea reasonable, if not feasible. Many new office buildings and factories built above ground have solid walls and depend entirely on artificial lighting and ventilation.

Now that the Legislature is not required to meet before the first week in February and four to five months session are becoming the rule, some of the fellows around the capitol are talking about amending the Vogler et al resolution to provide consideration for a "summer capitol" in the mountains. The suggestion was made facetiously but gained some serious backing for holding May and June sessions in the mountains.

COSTS — It is conceded that a vast majority of the defendants who get into criminal courts have been guilty of some violation of the law. It is further accepted as good policy that the convicted defendant should bear the costs incident to his arrest and trial. There is growing doubt whether he should be assessed so many extras for purposes other than bearing actual cost of his case.

A house committee last week approved a bill eliminating the item of costs for a jury in cases where no jury was used. There remained the charge of $2.00 in each criminal case where the defendant is convicted, enters a plea of guilty or nolo contendere, for the Law Enforcement Officers Benefit and Retirement Fund. In a great many counties there is a further charge of $1,000 or more to provide a library for lawyers practicing in the court.

Other Editors Saying-- The 4-Day Week Problem

(Dallas Morning News)

The human year can be put simply: How to work less for more money. Organized labor strives to solve it by continued pressure for fewer work hours at higher hourly pay. It works, up to a point. It is that point that will be a stumbling block.

Now comes a warning from August Hecksher in a striking forward to the Twentieth Century Fund's annual report, "Sure," says Hecksher, director of the fund, "you will have a four-day week inside of 20 years. But keep in mind that some trades and professions can not increase production as others do through automation." There's the rub. You can't have shorter hours and more pay unless you keep up production at a higher rate. It is as simple as that.

The ranks of organized labor habitually overlook the fact that a pay rise in one trade necessarily means one in others. Soon the whole thing levels off and, in purchase value, the higher dollar gets above what the lower dollar bought. It is as simple as that, too.

On the shorter week side, your dentist can not repair as many teeth in four days as in five, or your doctor see as many patients. If it takes five days to supply the world's food, you go on short rations on a four-day farm week. And you may have noticed that the plumbing always gets out of order on the Hecksher has another point that will escape the unappreciative. Not only the finance of leisure but the use of it is a problem. Since Eden's gate was closed behind Adam, man has been told to make his living by the sweat of his brow. In reality, that was a blessing, not a penalty. Man is happiest when his time is consumed in useful and agreeable toil. But the world never knows it until it is out of a job.

They Won City League Trophies

National Carbon Bowlers Take Three Of Four Awards

National Carbon bowlers made almost a clean sweep of the trophy presentations last night at the annual banquet of the City Bowling League, at Heath's Restaurant.

The Carbon club took three of the four trophies presented, including the team championship, the High Season Average, and the High for a Single Game.

The six-man Carbon team that topped the team title in the final week of play, consisted of Keith Kerr, Billy Wells, Sam Brooks, Louis Flake, George Hooks and Gene Ward.

The award for the High Season's Average went to Billy Wells, a veteran of the Carbon club and the league. Wells rolled a 166 to nab the honors.

Sam Brooks copped the High For A Single Game trophy. After the regular proceedings of the presentations, the Carbon Club presented a trophy of its own to an outstanding member, Gene Ward, for the best Three Game Series. Ward was ineligible for a league trophy, due to the fact that he joined the team midway in the season and did not participate in the required number of games.

Patterson Will Meet Hurricane In Title Bout

By JACK HAND NEW YORK (AP)—Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, the "chop 'em up" man with the double uppercut, actually is going to fight for the world heavyweight championship as Floyd Patterson makes his first defense at the Polo Grounds in New York July 29 or July 30.

Finding the challenger has been the most difficult part of this independent promotion by Emil Lence, a dress manufacturer who used to run fights at Eastern Parkway Arena in Brooklyn.

Ever since Gus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, made his impassioned personal declaration of independence from the International Boxing Club, Lence has been trying to sign Jackson, the No. 1 contender.

Through the mediation of Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, they finally got together on terms. Lippe Breidbart, Jackson's manager, agreed to 20 per cent of "everything" including gate receipts and a guaranteed TV revenue of $175,000. D'Amato will get 40 per cent for the champion.

Helfand helped iron out a last minute hitch when Breidbart finally agreed to a rematch in case Jackson won the title. The IBC, already up to its ears in a hearing on how to break up its boxing monopoly, didn't appear overly concerned. Harry Markson IBC managing director, said: "I am very glad Patterson is going to defend against a worthy challenger and I also am pleased that Lippe Breidbart is following the advice of Jim Norris (IBC president) who had urged him to take the fight."

No sooner had the match been announced than Patterson was established a 4 to 1 favorite and 7 to 5 choice to knock out the Hurricane.

U.S. Venezuela Tied 1-1 Now

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Grant Golden, shrugged off his Davis Cup defeat by an unknown Venezuelan today while he sat out the doubles match between Vic Seixas and Bernard (Tut) Bartzan and Ivo Pimentel and Ricardo Lopez.

It was Pimentel, the No. 1 player in Venezuela, but little-known outside his own country, who hammered Golden, 6-8, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 yesterday in the opening match of the U.S. - Venezuela American Zone semifinal.

That gave Venezuela a 1-0 lead, much to the chagrin of the Americans. It didn't last long, though, as the American team, led by the expert acting captain until Billy Talbert takes over, downed Lopez, 6-1, 6-0, 6-4 to even it. The grim-faced Seixas took just 50 minutes to take care of Lopez.

Golden goes against Lopez in one of the final two singles matches tomorrow while Seixas takes on Pimentel. Most of the expert opinion here takes the view that the Venezuelans have won a morale victory by taking even one match.

"I lost in a fair, square match," player. "My service was off. I broke his own service in every set, but I couldn't hold my own. I had trouble getting my first serve in."

In New York, Captain Talbert was anything but happy at Golden's defeat.

John Landy's world record in the mile run still is intact today and the 17th annual memorial Coliseum Relays came off like the 3 - ring circus it was expected to be, with these results: Merv Lincoln of Australia proved to be the best of a select cast of four sub-4-minute milers and captured the intriguing feature in a time of 4:01.0.

Half - miler Tom Courtney smashed the world 880-yard record, and in the process flattened his arch rival Arnie Sowell, with a time of 1:46.8. The University of Texas sprint relay teams broke the existing world records and approached their pending records in the 440 and 880 yard relays.

Occidental college's 4-man team set a new world record in the 2-mile relay, an event not too prominent in track and field meets. A whopping crowd of 43,955 turned out in 60-degree weather. The miracle-mile held the spotlight — until Courtney cut loose anyhow. And while Landy's record of 3:58 was not threatened, nor was the A - minute time shaved, the four runners from abroad gave the fans a great competitive race.

Lincoln won handily with a closing rush from 200 yards out that put England's Brian Hewson in second place, with a time of 4:01.4. Laszlo Tabori, Hungary's great distance man, took third in 4:01.6, and Derek Ibbotson of England, the pre - race favorite, faded to third after using up his strength setting the pace for three and a half laps. His time was 4:02.1.

America's challengers offered little competition, although Jerome Walters and Joe Villareal were in early contention. Bobby Morrow of Abilene Christian easily whipped a mediocre field in the 100 yard dash with a time of 9.4.

Cleveland Two Games Off Top After Whipping Sox

By ED WILKS The Associated Press CLEVELAND (AP)—The Indians may be the most overlooked second place team baseball has had in a long time. White the Chicago White Sox made off with the American League lead with a 10 - game unbeaten streak and the New York Yankees played night games in a plush tavern, the Indians were puss-footin' to 11 victories in 14 games, virtually unnoticed.

The Tribe finally caught the eye last night, knocking off the White Sox 4-3 to creep within two games of the lead in the opener of a four-game set at Cleveland.

Cleveland began the current ride by tripping the Yankees after the champs had won six in a row to gain first place.

Since then, the Tribe has stepped right along, with a quartet of .300 hitters in Vic Wertz (.337), Gene Woodling (.324), Roger Maris (.315) and Rocky Colavito (.311).

It was Wertz and Colavito who delivered the pay off singles as the Tribe scored twice in the seventh to win last night after trailing 3-2.

The victory kept the Indians a game ahead of the Yankees, who ended a two-game slump with an 8-1 breeze past Washington. Boston rallied to beat Baltimore 4-3 and gain a fourth place tie with Detroit, 5 1/2 games back. The Tigers were rained out at Kansas City.

In the National, Cincinnati's Redlegs held on to a two-game lead although beaten 9-6 by St. Louis. Milwaukee, whipped 5-1 at Chicago, gave up a share of second place to the Brooklyn Dodgers, who defeated the New York Giants 6-0. Philadelphia's Phillies banged four home runs to beat Pittsburgh 7-3.

Cleveland made the most of breaks for an early 2-1 lead, scoring in the first on a bases-loaded walk that chased Chicago starter Jack Harshman, and again in the fifth. The Tribe got to rookie righthander Bill Fischer with a single by Al Smith and a walk in the seventh. Wertz then singled off reliever Faul LaPalme and Colavito singled off reliever Gerry Staley.

Dick Tomanek won it, taking over when Bob Lemon pulled a thigh muscle in the seventh. Andy Carey got the Yankees rolling against winless Chuck Stobbs, now 0-9, with a two - run homer in the second—a clout that reached the left field bleachers, 430 feet from the plate. Only four hitters — Jimmy Foxx, Hank Greenberg, Joe Dimaggio and Gus Zernial—ever parked one there before. Tom Sturdivant won his third, walking seven but striking out six.

Ted Williams continued his latest hitting spree, upping his AL-leading average to .417 with three hits in four at bats for the Red Sox. His second double set off the two-run eighth that beat the Orioles, with Frank Malzone and Gene Stephens hitting the rbi singles. Jim Brideveser hit his first major league home run in the fifth for all of the Orioles' runs.

The Cardinals, who had lost five in a row, clobbered starter-loser Joe Nuxhall and four Redleg relievers for 15 hits. Larry Jackson, coming on when starter Sam Jones wrenched a knee early in the game, won it, but needed Hoyt Wilhelm's help when the Redlegs scored four in the ninth.

The Cubs won for only the second time in 11 tries at home this season with Frank Erna, a 26-year-old outfielder purchased Monday from Portland, becoming the 27th player to hit a home run in his first major league at bat.

The rookie also tripled for a total of two rbis as Warren Spahn absorbed his second defeat. Rookie Moe Drabowsky gained his second victory with a nine-hitter.

The Dodgers, who have won six of their last seven, sprung Roy Campanella loose from the bench after a five-game stay with an 0-for-14 slump and the big catcher banged his fifth and sixth home runs for four rbi in three trips. Both were off Johnny Antonelli, the loser. Carl Furillo had two singles and a home run. Don Newcombe won his fourth.

Rip Repulski, Gran Hamner, Chico Fernandez and Willie Jones homered for the Phillies and rookie Jack Sanford, who won his fifth with relief help.

Bulls Take 13-9 Win Friday

CAROLINA LEAGUE BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS How long can the Durham Bulls continue their blistering pace in the Carolina League?

That question was posed today after the Bulls defeated the Hi-Toms 13-9 in a free-hitting battle last night at Thomasville to chalk up their 13th win in the last 14 starts.

Durham spotted the Hi-Toms three runs in the first inning and then roared back with four in the second, two in the third, three in the fourth and two each in the eighth and ninth. A three-run homer by Dick Colons in the fourth was the big blow.

Winston-Salem dropped a 9-7 decision to Greensboro at Winston-Salem and fell 4 1/2 games behind the top place Durham club. Winston-Salem manager George Kissel protested in the game during a four-run Winston-Salem sixth inning. A rhabarb broke over a ground rule decision by the umpires. Kissel played the rest of the game under protest.

Danville, outfit by 11-9, struggled to a 10-7 win over Wilson to sweep their three-game series. Wilson left 12 base runners stranded compared to Danville's four.

Tonight's schedule: Hi-Toms at Greensboro, Wilson at Durham and Winston-Salem at Danville.

Jaycee, Pepsi Outfits Win In Little League

In a double-header yesterday at Elm Street Park, the Jaycees whipped the Lions, 4-2, in a North State League contest and the Pepsi-Cola trounced the Exchange Club, 11-0, in a Tar Heel encounter.

In the North State game, the Jaycees came from behind in the fourth inning to take a 2-1 lead, then added two more in the fifth to clinch it. The Lions fought back for two more in the final inning, but were unable to push across the tying run.

Vincent pitched for the winners, struck out five, gave up only five hits, and issued no walks. The Lions used Smith on the mound for four innings and then inserted Powell, who went the rest of the distance. The Jaycees rapped them for six hits.

Vincent and centerfielder Bitt Johnson were the leading hitters for the winning Jaycees, with two hits each. Other Jaycees who collected baseknocks were Roger Hardee and Mike Morton.

Powell paced the losers with three hits. Whitehurst, Kennedy and Smith added singles. Lions ..... 100 020-3 5 4 Jaycees ..... 000 220-4 6 5

The Pepsi-Cola nine scored twice in the first inning, four times in the third, four more in the fourth and once in the fifth to shatter the Exchange club 11-0 in the Tar Heel game.

J. Harper hurled for the Pepsi crew and limited the Exchange club to only two hits. The Pepsi-Cola hitters, on the other hand, whacked away for a total of 11 hits.

Johnson started on the mound for the Exchangers, went three innings and was pulled in favor of Taft. Johnson was tapped for two hits, Taft for four. Bostic came in to pitch one inning and was slugged for three more.

The Exchange club used Johnson, Taft and Bostic on the mound. Gidley and Goodson were the leading hitters for the winners with three hits each. Van Dyke

Teen-er League Begins Monday

The Greenville Teen-er League will begin play Monday night, with the State Bank-Home Builders ball game at Guy Smith Stadium under the lights.

Both clubs have released the names of their starting pitchers. For Home Builders, Coach Terry Nobles will start Merrill Bynum. Randy Bass has been selected as the starter for the State Bank, which is coached by Jack Bass.

Game time Monday night is set for 7:45 and a good turnout is expected. There is no admission for the contests.

Games will be played four nights a week for eight weeks this summer. They will be seven inning affairs played on a regulation diamond by youngsters 13, 14 and 15 years of age.

The Teen-er League organization is a national affair, with District, State, Regional and National championships. It is sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and has received wide interest in the past two seasons.

Carlton B. Garrett, State VFW Director of Youth Activities, will be on hand for the opening night ceremonies.

The other two teams in the four-team Greenville league are Guaranty Bank and College View.

Signing Of Annuals

By MARTHA JANE PIERCE
Greenville High School Reporter

Signing the green and gold annuals has been the favorite occupation of Greenville High students for the past week. The Tau was issued last Friday and has a space theme. Co-editors are Kenny Whichard and Mickie Sumrell.

Associate editors, Madelyn Coleman and Laura McArthur, worked with the editors. Other staff members were Dennis Harris, business manager; Orman Whichard, associate business manager; Angus Duff, advertising manager; and Billy Nichols, assistant advertising manager.

Nelson Dudley, art editor, and Ped Taylor, assistant art editor, were responsible for the art work in the annual. Typists were Pat Evans and Carol White.

Circulation of the annual was handled by Roy Martin, manager, and Sadie Rae Bradie, assistant literary editor.

Sports editors were Hugh Dunbar, editor, and Wayne Eidson, assistant. This year's Tau was dedicated to Miss Frances Peele Lamb, teacher of sociology and economics and North Carolina History.

William W. James, senior English teacher, is adviser to the annual staff.

As their gift to the school, the class of '57 will leave a scoreboard for the new gymnasium. Bids for the purchase are now being considered by Principal Orren E. Dowd. The gift will be presented May 31 at class and awards night.

Head of the gift committee is Nancy Ann Hoot. She is assisted by Edwin Wilkerson, class president.

On commencement night, June 8 at 8 p. m., ninety seniors will receive their diplomas. Class and awards night has been scheduled for May 31 and the commencement sermon for June 2. The glee club will sing for the graduation and the band will play. Class night will feature the history of this country in story and song.

The Rev. Conley C. Childs, pastor of the Pentecostal Holiness Church, will deliver the commencement sermon. The senior class officers will also have a part in the program.

This summer mathematics, English, and history will be offered in summer school. Summer school is held so that students can make up work they have failed, lighten their work for the next year, or allow them to graduate early.

Courses will include those in grades eight through 12; but senior English will be offered only to certain students.

The school will run from six to ten weeks depending on the subject. Each subject will cost $25.

At the opening dedication service of Camp Don Lee last Saturday, the Greenville High Band gave two concerts. The majorettes performed a twirling routine while the band accompanied them with "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Transportation to the Methodist campsite was provided by camp officials. A barbecue lunch and a swim in the camp's fresh water pool were also provided for the band.

Joanna Rooke, Lois Brown, and Cynthia Cranford took a hike to Camp Sea Gull.

JoAnne Parks will act as president of the National Honor Society for the 1957-58 school term. Godfrey Oakley is the newly-elected vice-president.

Serving as president of the Greenville council of the United Christian Youth Movement for 1957-58 will be Naomi Gibbs, junior. Other officers are Howard Garner, vice-president; Dot Davis, secretary; Charles Taft, treasurer; and JoAnne Parks, publicity chairman.

Eight Junior Homemaker's degrees were awarded May 8 to Patsy Corey, Sylvia Vincent, Lou Rogers, Mary French Hayes, Brenda Harris, Vickie Avery, Lois Tunnell and Madge Stancill.

Those who had gone a step higher were presented with a scroll symbolizing the Chapter degree. They were Margaret Harrell, Joyce Sutton, Jane Bass and Gwen Johnson, juniors.

Drivers who had deficiencies noted by safety lane inspectors may still get safety stickers for their automobiles.

Badger Johnson, chairman of the Pitt Safety Council, made the announcement this morning. Stickers have been placed in the hands of the Greenville Police Department and State Highway Patrol and are available for drivers who have made corrections of deficiencies found when their automobile or truck passed through the volunteer check lanes.

No final tabulation has been made on the number of vehicles that passed through the lanes set up here and in Ayden. Johnson stated, "The 10 Point Safety Check was very successful in both Ayden and Greenville according to reports that I have received."

He added that a final tabulation would be made sometime next week.

Fragile Cargo Under A Fender

PALMETTO, Ga. (AP)—A traveling salesman has been taking it extra easy driving along the rough country roads these days.

He's trying hard not to let a sudden bump separate him from a fragile cargo under his left front fender—a nest of wren eggs.

Pat Johnson found the nest two weeks ago. He thinks the nest beating down on the fender together with the heat from the engine has provided ample warmth for the eggs by day. The mother bird takes her place on the nest the minute Johnson returns home each day.

Johnson said he plans to make it easier on the mother wren. He's taking a trip to Florida next week—but is leaving the car parked here.

He thinks the eggs should be hatched by the time he returns.

NEW WHEEL CHAIRS—Mrs. Josephine Dees (left) presents a check to pay for two wheel chairs which were presented to the Pitt County Health Department's Orthopedic Clinic yesterday.

Dr. John Wooten (second from right) and Dr. Thomas B. Dameron, clinic directors and Miss Fisher accepted the equipment for the clinic. The chairs will be issued to patients on a loan basis. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Two wheel chairs for use by patients at the Pitt County Health Department's Orthopedic Clinic, were turned over to the Health Department yesterday by the E.A.A. Sorority of Greenville.

The chairs are to be used by patients unable to purchase wheel chairs of their own. Presentation of the collapsible chairs was made by Mrs. Josephine Dees, president of the sorority. Miss Julia Fisher accepted for the department in ceremonies which also included Dr. John Wooten and Dr. Thomas B. Dameron of the Orthopedic Clinic staff.

In making the presentation, Mrs. Dees said, "In order to purchase this equipment, the sorority sponsored a 'Wheel Chair Day' in Greenville. Citizens responded very generously and the chairs represent a community effort in the interests of better health facilities for our disabled citizens."

Applications for use of the chairs will be processed by Miss Fisher and Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Health Department director.

Hunger Strike? All A Mistake Says Prisoner

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—It was all a mistake.

Thomas E. Hinson, Charlotte jail inmate, hasn't been starving himself after all. Newsmen misunderstood him, he said, and to prove it, he ate a ham sandwich and drank a glass of milk.

Yesterday, Hinson was reported to be starving himself deliberately, saying "They'll never bring me to trial." Not so, he says now. "I'm trying to eat now," Hinson said. "I get all the food I want... but two or three spoonful and I just can't stomach any more."

Hinson, 26, is awaiting trial on 24 counts of passing worthless checks totaling about $1,600. He was arrested at his home in Dania, Fla.

Hinson collapsed Wednesday at the jail and was taken to a hospital where doctors said he was suffering from malnutrition.

Bank Holiday Of 24 Years Has A Noisy Ending

GOODRICH, Mich. (AP)—The 24-year bank holiday ended in Goodrich with a bang yesterday.

A firecracker 85-year-old Steve Hagel had set off to celebrate the day. Goodrich, a community of 500 people not far from Flint in southeastern Michigan, hasn't had a bank of its own since the late Gov. William A. Comstock closed state banks in February 1933.

Hagel owns the building where the former bank did business. For 24 years he has faithfully oiled the hinges on the vault against the eventual day of reopening.

The firecracker he set off was one he had left in a dresser drawer in 1908. He found it years later and promised not to fire it until a bank was opened again in the town.

When he got the news that the state banking commissioner had approved plans for reopening a bank, Hagel set off his firecracker in the middle of main street in front of the bank building.

Schedule Survey Of Inlet Project

SWANSBORO, N. C. (AP)—A proposal to dredge Bogue Inlet from the ocean to Swansboro to connect with the Interoceanic Waterway apparently will receive a full survey from the Corps of Engineers.

A public hearing attended by 75 persons was held here last night by Col. H. C. Rowland Jr. of Wilmington, district engineer.

He said that the proposal "appears to warrant the next major step—a full survey."

No Ducks When Season Opens

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Residents on the East Hartford block here are about convinced that ducks are smarter than people.

During duck season, not one was sighted. But now that the season had ended, 72 are enjoying a pond within 50 feet of the nearest house. The ducks ignore the curious who come right up to the water's edge.

Ran String Of Jail Sentences To Five, Friday

Allen Jones ran his string of jail sentences to five yesterday.

The Pitt County Negro, who already has sentences from recorder's courts in Pitt, Edgecombe and Johnson, picked up a new four-months term yesterday. In addition, he was ordered to start serving a six-month sentence that had been suspended in January's term of Superior Court.

Yesterday's sentence was imposed by Judge J. Paul Frizzelle after Jones was convicted of driving drunk. After passing sentence, Judge Frizzelle and the court found that Jones had violated terms of the January suspended sentence, a six-month sentence for possession of non-tax-paid whiskey, and order the suspension revoked.

Jones is presently serving a six-month term imposed in county court April 9. The length of sentences imposed by Edgecombe and Johnson county courts was not revealed yesterday, although Judge Frizzelle ordered the five individual sentences served concurrently.

The final judgment in yesterday's session of Superior Court, which adjourned a week of trials, was against Harry Newton York of Pinetops. York was found by a jury to be guilty of speeding 100 miles per hour, careless and reckless driving, failure to stop for a red light and siren, and driving under the influence.

Judge Frizzelle imposed a fine of $100 and costs on York for the speeding charge. A 12-month term was handed out on the speeding charge, but Judge Frizzelle suspended the sentence upon payment of $100 and good behavior for two years. Prayer for judgment was continued on the other two counts.

A one-week civil term of Superior Court will open Monday under Judge W. H. S. Burdway.

S. Greenville PTA Plans For Next Term

The South Greenville School P.T.A. held its final meeting of the year recently with the new president, James Teel, presiding.

The devotional period was led by Mrs. Mabel Joyner.

During the business session the P.T.A. turned over the sum of $50 to be used to aid in the payment of an electric mixer purchased by the lunch room the first of the school year.

Various committees were appointed and tentative plans were formulated for the next school term.

The attendance banner was won by Mrs. M. G. Robinson's first grade.

Mill Will Open On Partial Shift

The Greenville Mills, after a brief suspension of operation this week, will resume production on a partial scale Monday.

Vernon Howell, manager of the mill, stated this morning. He plans to open again with a partial shift Monday. Other employees will be called later in the week as production increases.

The mill closed temporarily Wednesday after having been on a three-day schedule for some time. Howell called the suspension of operation a "seasonal proposition."

He stated, "It is expected that full capacity of production will be in effect within a short period of time."

It was explained that the Chicago carpet market would be opened in approximately three weeks. As a result of the late season, Howell said, "we found it necessary to cut back in our production."

"I know of no plans to close the Greenville plant now or in the immediate future," he answered when asked about the outlook for the carpet yarn mill in this locale.

Ministers Are Introduced At Club Meeting

Rev. Ed Thornbro, minister of Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church, introduced Merrill Dunlop and Ralph McGilvra to the Exchange Club at its supper meeting last night.

The special guests are associated with Rev. Jimmy Johnson in presenting the United Crusade at Carolina College campus nightly this and next week.

Members were invited to attend "not one meeting but all of them." The purpose of these meetings is to bring the Message of the Gospel.

Dunlop played an arrangement of "What a Friend I Have in Jesus," and McGilvra sang "It is Morning in My Heart."

At the end of the meeting, final plans were made for the Marie's School of Dance Revue sponsored by the club and to be presented next Thursday and Friday nights.

Rescue Squad Takes Steps To Meet Additional Needs

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Imagine for a moment that a week made sure that they would have hundreds of feet of copper tubing available to send oxygen to state of New York last week.

Where could volunteer workers be found for the rescue operations? Where would the workers find heavy equipment, oxygen tanks and other equipment needed for the job?

Greenville's Rescue Squad has taken steps to cope with such a situation.

The squad is now contacting heavy equipment dealers to make sure drag lines, bulldozers and other earth moving equipment would be available if it is ever needed in a hurry. They are calling on expert operators of the equipment so that they will be available to run the machines. Not only that but the squad this week made plans for handling a future situation. That's the story of rescue planning—being able to cope with situations which might arise in the unforeseeable future.

The Rescue Squad has tanks of oxygen on hand but they are making sure that an unlimited supply would be available on short notice if it is ever needed for such an operation.

Additional floodlights are to be located to supplement the squad's floods if they are needed.

Thus the Rescue Squad could swing into action within a short while to attempt to save a life.

And to call the members together, Capt. Sam T. White II says, the group is working on some plan of communication by which members could be notified quickly when the squad is needed. The Rescue Squad, has already made plans for handling a future situation. That's the story of rescue planning—being able to cope with situations which might arise in the unforeseeable future.

And the 17 members of the squad meet every other Wednesday night just for that purpose. At each meeting they train in first aid, artificial respiration and with respirator equipment.

They also are trained in the use of the great amount of special equipment which is contained on the Civil Defense Rescue truck which was obtained a couple of years ago with local and federal funds.

Even with such equipment the squad finds there are always other things which could be needed in future operations. When the child fell in the well shaft in New York, rescuers found the sandy soil was caving in as they dug to the youth.

Finally they borrowed several cone shaped devices from the Atomic Energy Commission. These were pushed one through the other into the sand to avoid cave-ins and finally the boy was reached.

Noting this, Dr. White said, a letter has been sent to the Atomic Energy Commission to determine if such devices could be obtained.

But the squad members not only wait for the big disaster, they are busy with lesser operations all along.

Four of the squad members are firemen and they answer calls to traffic accidents and other ambulance calls with the squad's rescue ambulance.

Then on weekends one member of the squad stands by the Fire Station a night during the weekend. In addition the ambulance stands by at the Micro-Midget Races on Fridays with a volunteer member along.

The volunteers are called out to assist with dragging operations when calls to drownings are received.

Finally members of the squad give classes in First Aid for groups which request it.

"We consider it a part of our work in safety to instruct groups because we believe the safety conscious are less prone to accidents," Dr. White says.

All but two new members of the squad have passed the American Red Cross first aid course and five members have passed the first aid instructors course.

Members of the squad in addition to the captain, Dr. White, are: Roy Hardee, Cravan Hughes, Stewart Savage, Frank Diener, Frank Christopher, Stewart Shinn, Pete West, Graham Quinn, Russell Whichard, Jimmy Huffman, Jim Boykin, the Rev. Lyndon DeWitt, Station a night during the weekend, and Firemen Lyman Nethercutt, Dawson Nethercutt, Claude Christopher, Bob E. Anton.

STOKES STRETCHER—Cravan Hughes, Frank Diener and Jimmy Huffman carry a make-be-Neve patient in a Stokes Stretcher which is a part of the equipment on the CD Rescue truck.

OXYGEN MASK—Fireman Dawson Nethercutt straps an oxygen generating mask on Stewart Savage as the rescue squad practices with equipment on the Civil Defense rescue truck. The mask, through a chemical process, replenishes the oxygen in air breathed by the wearer.

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION—Rescue Squad Captain Dr. Sam T. White II demonstrates the proper method of administering artificial respiration for an infant during a recent class. Squad members are called upon frequently to give first aid classes for groups and organizations.

CHAIN SAW—This chain saw is electrically operated from a power generator. Cravan Hughes and Lyman Nethercutt prepare to operate the device.

RESUSITATOR—Fireman Lyman Nethercutt tries a resusitator mask on Jimmy Huffman as rescue squad members look on. Each member of the squad receives the Red Cross first aid course and five members are qualified instructors.

EQUIPMENT—Heavy jacks are included in the CD truck equipment. Stewart Savage and Capt. White demonstrate the proper use of the jacks above. Other squad members look on.

Science Closing In On Tornadoes

By LEO MARKS

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Thanks to electronics, there is reason to believe that the time is not too distant when weathermen may achieve pinpoint accuracy in forecasting and detecting tornadoes.

Experts here for the American Meteorological Society's national conference on severe local storms concluded they still have much to learn, especially about the inner mechanism of the tornado itself. Although its component parts can be listed, weighed and measured, the storm continues to be a spectacular dilemma, an awesome natural force which defies solution.

Optimistic Outlook

But there was no doubt in their conclusion, gathered from papers read to the symposium, that tornadoes are being more accurately predicted and watched each season.

For example, the forecast of the tornado that stalked residential Dallas 40 minutes last April was off only 30 miles. The general area, however, had been alerted to the possibility.

Some devices and systems of promise are already in use. Three were discussed in detail:

1. The automatic "pressure jump" system set up in the plains states. This records and tracks the sudden, mysterious upward thrusts along a line of air pressure which, under certain conditions, can spawn storms.
2. The use of sferics, short for "atmospherics," whereby lightning flashes within a violent storm cloud are counted electronically. The higher the count, the greater the chance of a tornado.
3. A combination of conventional rain-echo radar superimposed on a sferics counter tube. In this way, the storm is not only observed by radar but is triangulated from three sferics transmitter points for accurate location.

A network of "pressure jump" stations which operated in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas last year has been expanded for this storm season. William A. Hass of the U.S. Weather Bureau in Washington told the meeting.

Each station has an automatic indicator. When a jump in pressure shows, the operator telephones a central point which compares and evaluates similar reports from other stations.

These jumps, or rapid, violent rises of air, follow a low-level line of air pressure sandwiched between two layers of air of different densities. The line is approximately 100 to 200 miles long, and from five to six hours in duration.

"Sometimes it goes along without incident," Hass explained. "But under certain conditions the line can become a storm front. Then, where the right combination of weather factors in present, say over a farmer's field, a tornado forms."

The pressure jumps, he said, could indicate the possibility of a tornado, although during the Dallas twister they showed nothing indicative.

Wilbur H. Paulsen of the Air Force Cambridge Research Center at Bedford, Mass., described the radar-sferics system of tornado detection.

The present setup has sferics transmitters located at Amarillo, Tex., Texarkana, Oklahoma City and Kansas City. Each transmitter can send its pulse, or count, over ordinary telephone lines to a plotting center. There the plot on the suspected storm is taken from three of the transmitters and shown on a sferics tube which automatically counts the pulses, or lightning flashes.

Better Showing Expected

On this is superimposed the radar observation of the same storm, allowing forecasters to follow it accurately while from the sferics count they deduce whether the danger of tornado is present.

"Tests last year were not conclusive because of bugs in the equipment," Paulsen said, "but these have been corrected and this season we hope for a better showing."

Miss Jones is presently a student in the Boston University School of Education where she is working toward a doctorate in elementary education. A teaching fellowship which was granted to her for the 1956-57 term has been extended through the 1957-1958 academic year.

Membership in Pi Lambda Theta is obtained by election only and requires meeting certain high standards in scholastic achievement and educational leadership.

A graduate of East Carolina College where she obtained her bachelor's degree, Miss Jones taught for eight years in the Farmville School. She was a supervisor for the Pitt County Board of Education for seven years prior to entering Boston University.

At the baccalaureate services Sunday night, the Rev. Floyd B. Cherry, pastor of the Black Jack and Rose Hill Free Will Baptist churches, pronounced the invocation. The congregation sang "Lead On, O King Eternal" and the glee club sang "As It Began To Dawn."

The Rev. N. D. Beaman of Pleasant Hill Free Will Baptist Church delivered the sermon, after which the Junior glee club sang "Dear Land of Home" and Reverend Cherry pronounced the benediction.

Commencement exercises Monday night featured speakers from the Senior Class. Homer Hardee gave the invocation and addresses were delivered by Betty Haddock, Sandra Porter and Carlton Gray.

June Smith presented the class gift which was accepted by the 1957-1958 president of the student body, Nancy Sue Dixon.

WORLD'S LONGEST BRIDGE, the 24-mile Lake Pontchartrain Causeway north of New Orleans, is a spectacular example of new highway construction which could be used to help empty target cities ahead of attacking planes.

CIVIL DEFENSE EVACUATION would look like this with carefully controlled traffic moving one-way outbound from a threatened target city at a rate of up to 1,200 autos per hour per lane, except that cars would be carrying more people. All access to major surface streets would be controlled, traffic on cross streets banned. Reports indicate that some 33 million persons could be evacuated from 185 target areas in 1 1/2 hours by using this system. (Cameramen, Inc., Photo by Berkeley Payne)

TRUCKLOAD OF PIPE and portable pumps at a Federal Civil Defense Administration warehouse ready to move into the California flood disaster of December 1955. The 41,000-mile National System of Interstate and Defense Highways (superimposed in white) will, within 12 years, provide a grid of freeways for such trucks to speed food, and other help to attacked cities. (FCDA Photo)

ROADS TO SURVIVAL

New Interstate Highway Net to Aid CD Evacuation

A line on a drawing board today may someday save your life. That line might be one of

CIVIL DEFENSE auxiliary police will be needed in great numbers to help control traffic if warning of impending enemy attack ever forces cities to evacuate. Banning of cross traffic, and permitting one-way outbound traffic only on arterials and the great urban freeways now being built will aid these men in their thankless task. (FCDA Photo)

America's roads to survival, a part of the 41,000-mile National System of Interstate and Defense Highways that will be carefully laid out over the continent within the next 12 years.

THIS INTEGRATED $33,000,000,000 network — the world's greatest public works project — will include freeways running from the heart of major cities to the outskirts and beyond. Over these roads, the millions who live and work in cities could seek the safety of distance from a nuclear bomb blast if adequate warning of impending attack were given.

In normal times, restless Americans drive 550,000,000 miles a year in private autos. Families must also rely on cars to flee from danger in the event of civil defense emergency.

The automobile is a rolling home in an emergency, the Federal Civil Defense Administration points out. You can eat and sleep in it, keep warm and dry, receive vital instructions by radio, drive out of danger areas, and even get some shelter against blast or fallout.

EXPRESSWAYS MEET in this gigantic interchange in Detroit, a key part of the freeway system which could carry some of the Motor City's auto-riding populace to rural safety. Although civil defense studies show that COMPLETE evacuation of large cities after warning of likely attack is not generally feasible under today's warning times, a big start toward more evacuation capacity is being made in urban freeway construction under the new National Interstate Highway program. (Photo courtesy Bureau of Public Roads)

SUCCESSFUL EVACUATION of a large city would leave the downtown area a ghost town, as in this view of Portland, Ore., taken during Operation Greenlight—the largest civil defense evacuation exercise to date. The vast Interstate Highway System under construction would not only facilitate evacuation of large cities, but also would provide roads needed to supply the huge evacuee camps in outlying areas. ### New Pressures Threaten Lid On Cost Of Living

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The rise in the cost of living may be leveling off a little today. But some fires are building up that could put more steam under it months from now like the pressures that caused it to bubble over last year.

Leaders in a number of basic industries are warning that their prices should go up if they are to meet automatic wage scale hikes and funds for expansion they say they need.

Oil wages are going up now. In the next few weeks and months already negotiated wage scale boosts are coming for some or all companies in these industries: steel, auto, farm equipment, non-ferrous metals, meat packing, textile, container, electrical manufacturing, paper and aircraft.

Still others have their wage scales hitched to the cost of living index. If its rise, continues, their operating costs go up automatically.

Management holds that this makes price rises necessary. Labor leaders, however, point to large earnings of many companies and argue this shows profit margins to be high enough to absorb the rise in labor costs.

The price rise arguments are being aired here at the meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute — on both the wage hike and expansion fund requirement fronts.

Steelworkers get a raise automatically July 1. Management says that counting everything it will mean a rise in costs of more than 20 cents an hour although the unions challenge this figure.

Some companies talk of a rise in steel prices of $5 a ton, but others say that it would take $10 a ton to offset fully the rise in costs from the pay boosts of last summer and the coming one.

The steel industry's avowed plans to go on expanding to meet the demand it sees coming in the next few years also is given as a supporting reason for hiking prices.

Expansion takes money. And new steel mills cost a lot more now than did most of those now in operation. The steelmen would like to get more money for their product to help pay for the new facilities.

They are also beating the drums for higher depreciation allowances when they make out their tax returns.

The oil industry argues along similar lines. The cost of finding and producing oil goes up right along. Some think the controversial price hike of last January isn't enough to meet upcoming expenses.

It takes months usually for most of these price hikes in basic materials to hit the consumer's cost of living. But the process seems to be starting again.

COMPLETE JOB

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — Lorenzo Lente of Albuquerque decided somebody didn't want him to drive his pickup truck one day recently when he found:

Fertilizer in the gasoline tank, sand in the oil and a broken distributor.

U.S. railroads say they will spend $1.3 billion dollars on rolling stock in 1957.

Troops Hunting For Rebel Unit

HAVANA (AP) — Government troops searched rugged mountain terrain today for remnants of a 27-man rebel force that landed from a yacht in eastern Cuba.

With five of the insurgents reportedly captured, the government concentrated its hunt in the Sierra Cristal area where the remainder was believed holed up. The area has served as a refuge in the past for rebel forces hostile to President Fulgencio Batista's regime.

The army said the rebels came ashore yesterday from the yacht Corinthia out of Miami under orders of exiled ex-President Carlos Prío Socarras.

Socarras said in Miami he had nothing to do with the landing. The army quoted captured rebels as saying they were not followers of Fidel Castro, rebel leader who landed from Mexico months ago and has been operating in the eastern Cuba's mountains with a guerrilla force.

The captives were reported to have said they refused to have anything to do with Castro "because he is allied with the Communists."

Yesterday's landing was at Cabonico Bay near Mayari on the north coast of Oriente province. Castro's guerrillas have been operating in that province for several months.

Military authorities said the first two men captured wore orange arm bands bearing the letters O. A., initials of the Organization Auténtico (authentic organization), Prío's party.

The navy confiscated the yacht which was discovered aground. Col. Fermín Cowley, commander of the government pursuit force, said arms, and ammunition were found aboard the vessel.

A source close to the government said Batista had no intention of protesting to the U. S.

Will Teach At Colorado Univ.

Miss Bernadine Meyer, assistant professor of business at East Carolina College, will teach in the 1957 summer session at the University of Colorado at Boulder, Colo.

Miss Meyer will be a visiting lecturer in the School of Business during the summer. She is one of more than 140 educators from throughout the country who will teach in the university's summer session.

BARGAIN

SUMMERSEIDE, P. E. I. (AP) — Albert J. Milligan of nearby Coleman says the pocket watch he bought for 98 cents, 40 years ago, is still going strong. He produced it here the other day and said he's never had to have it repaired, although he has oiled it occasionally.
