N. C. Racing, Betting Bill Clears House Committee

RALEIGH (AP)—Legislation to allow North Carolina counties to legalize horse and dog racing and pari-mutuel betting in "local option" elections was given a "without prejudice" report today by House Judiciary 2 Committee today. The bill will not go to the House Finance Committee. "The 'without prejudice' report means that the committee took no stand either for or against the bill. The committee voted 7 to 6 to defeat a motion by Rep. Carroll Holmes of Perquimans that the bill be given an unfavorable report. It then adopted the motion by Rep. Marcellus Buchanan of Jackson for the 'without prejudice' report by a voice vote. Buchanan said he did not want to see racing legalized in his home county of Jackson but pointed out that he had voted on a number of measures to allow towns to have local option ABC liquor elections. He said he did not want to be in the position of telling eastern North Carolina counties—particularly Currituck County and Morehead City—that they could not have legalized racing and betting if their people wanted it. Rep. Frank Sneed of Mecklenburg voiced similar sentiments. The bill would allow North Carolina's counties to hold elections on the question of legalizing horse and dog racing and pari-mutuel betting. A big delegation of ministers spoke out strongly yesterday against the proposal at a hearing before House Judiciary 2 Committee. Officials and other citizens of Currituck County and Morehead City told the committee they want their dog race tracks reopened. The tracks were closed two years ago under a state supreme court ruling. Dr. Ben F. Royal of Morehead City, former head of the race track commission at Morehead City, said the track there was "as orderly as the average football game... dance... and at least two Methodist picnics I have attended." of Raleigh agreed that the tracks were orderly, but he said: "There is such a thing as a clean, neat sterilized execution." The Currituck and Morehead City representatives said the tracks attracted tourists and that their tax rates were reduced by money from the tracks. Former Rep. Ed Johnson of Currituck said Currituck needs its dog track at Moyock reopened because of its economic advantages. Sheriff L. L. Dozier of Currituck said he had "mighty little" trouble with law violations at the track. Mayor George Dill of Morehead City told the committee his town collected $193,000 in revenues from the track there. A petition signed by some 800 citizens of Currituck favoring return of the dog racing to Moyock was presented to the committee.

Council To Meet Tomorrow

A special City Council meeting has been set for tomorrow morning beginning at 9:30. The meeting is being called to consider "general business". Two items appear on the agenda for the special meeting. The councilmen will consider bids for a recreation building at S. Greenville Park. They will also consider approval of Social Security retirement for the Police Department. The law officers recently voted in favor of coming under Social Security. Although it was not specifically mentioned in the call, the matter of election of mayor separately from the other City Councilmen is expected to be considered by the city fathers tomorrow. A petition containing more than 600 names was presented to the county's General Assembly members Monday. It called upon the representatives to introduce legislation which would amend the city charter to require election of the mayor separately from the other four councilmen. The mayor would still have the same powers and he would be a voting member of the five-man Council under the plan set forth by the petition. However, he would be elected in a separate race from the other four city fathers. If the proposed change is made in the city charter the present municipal government would deviate from the Plan D form under which the city has operated for the past four years. City Attorney R. B. Lee pointed out that the State law provides for five types city government under which municipalities can operate provided the proper form is followed. Greenville's is Plan D. Since election of mayor would not be strictly Plan D, Lee said, legislative action would be required. The State Legislature could either pass a bill which would directly amend the city charter or they could pass an enabling act to allow the change following a local election on the matter. Lee said there could be some question of "double office holding" if the mayor is elected separately under the present set-up without proper changes. To be legal the mayor would have to be elected to one office only. If he were elected mayor, he would have to be given the additional powers of a councilman. The constitution prohibits the holding of two elective offices. The petition calling for the change was presented to Rep. Frank M. Wooten Monday. He had not indicated at that time his final plans on the matter. However, he said last week that to be passed at this session a local bill should be introduced by Thursday and preferably Wednesday. Local legislation is generally passed by the General Assembly without opposition.

Dulles Suggests Posting Fewer Americans Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, speaking of anti-American rioting in Formosa, said today some better way must be found to cope with the problems of stationing large numbers of Americans in foreign countries. Dulles told a news conference the presence of thousands of Americans on the Chinese Nationalist island was in his view a cause of the rioting. One way to deal with the problem of resentment by foreigners, he said, may be to reduce American official personnel—especially military personnel—wherever possible. Dulles also made these other comments on world affairs: 1. The United States will accept for disarmament inspection any area in the world where an inspection system can be started quickly. Because of such problems as the opposition of German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Dulles said, it may not be possible to include European territory in a first stage disarmament agreement. 2. The possibility of a Big Four meeting on German unification is many months away and not something just around the corner. Dulles said he and President Eisenhower agreed with Adenauer to talk with Britain and France about having a four-power meeting on German unification after any first-stage disarmament agreement with Russia. 3. The U.S. policy of barring American newsmen from Communist China stands unchanged. Some suggestions for ways to modify the barrier have been received, Dulles said, and are being studied by Asst. Secretary of State Andrew Berding, in charge of public affairs. The secretary did not say what the suggestions are. 4. Negotiations between the United States and Allied countries, notably Britain and Japan, on ways to relax barriers to trade with Red China have apparently reached an impasse. Some announcement on the status of the talks in Paris is expected tomorrow, Dulles said. Formosa authorities appeared to be going all out to soothe ruffled American feelings. Chinese officials and private citizens called on American officials of all ranks to express regret for the violence. All insisted it did not reflect any general anti-Americanism but was a spontaneous outburst against Reynolds' acquittal that got out of hand.

Swift Senate Action Marks Revenue Bill; Expected Reach House Today

RALEIGH (AP)—The state revenue bill for the next biennium was expected to complete its swift journey through the Senate today and be sent to the House. The Senate also was expected to complete action on a House-passed bill authorizing a 10 million dollar bond issue backed by Gov. Hodges, to finance permanent improvements at state institutions. The revenue bill, embodying several revisions in the state's tax structure, won Senate approval on second reading yesterday by a 46 to 1 roll call vote. Before passing it, the Senate beat down an attempt by Iredell Sen. C. V. Henkel to delay the effective date of the administration-backed proposal to revise the corporate income tax formula. Under the new formula, the state would lose an estimated 14 million dollars during the next biennium. Hodges has said it is needed to eliminate inequities and to boost the state's industrial development campaign. It would become effective July 1. The House held up action yesterday on its version of the revenue bill. On the motion of House Finance Chairman B. T. Falls Jr. of Cleveland, the House put off consideration of the bill until tomorrow. This would give time for the Senate bill to reach the House. The House bill contains tax relief provisions for theatres, but companies, installment paper dealers and domestic life insurance companies. These provisions are not in the Senate measure. The tax relief would result in a loss of about one million dollars in revenue annually. Henkel set up two amendments in an effort to delay the starting date of the new corporate tax formula. The first amendment asked that the tax cut be delayed until Jan. 1, 1959. Unsuccessful on this, he offered another to put it off until July 1, 1958. This met the same fate. Henkel agreed the formula is needed, but argued there is no urgency in putting it into effect. "I do not believe there are any factories on wheels lined up at the Virginia border ready to roll in over night," Henkel said. He added that it would take at least a year for "even a small plant" to take advantage of the benefits of the formula. By delaying the formula until Jan. 1, 1959, he said, the state could save 10 1/2 million of the estimated revenue loss. The saving would be seven million, he stated, if it was delayed until July 1, 1958. Sen. Nelson Woodson of Rowan, Senate Finance chairman, urged his colleagues to "do this thing now. We have industries at our threshold. . . They're wanting to move." Sen. William E. Cobb of Burke also made an unsuccessful attempt to amend the bill. He proposed repeal of the 1-20th of 1 per cent tax on wholesale merchants. The $900,000 loss in revenue, it was pointed out, could be made up by delaying the tax formula until Sept. 1. Cobb declared keen competition from chain establishments has put the business lives of independent wholesalers and merchants in jeopardy. Humphrey's friends have been saying for months that he was anxious to return to the business world what was nearly his entire life for 40 years until he took the Treasury post in 1953. The Ohio industrialist gave up a $300,000 annual income when he went to work for the government at $22,500 a year. (Cabinet salaries were raised to $25,000 last year.) But his aides insist this had nothing to do with his decision to step down.

Humphrey Quits; Cabinet Post Successor Is Chosen

WASHINGTON (AP)—George M. Humphrey today resigned as secretary of the Treasury. Robert B. Anderson, former deputy secretary of defense, was picked to succeed him. Humphrey's resignation was announced by the White House through release of a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury to President Eisenhower asking to be relieved "no later than the close of the current Congressional session." At the same time, Eisenhower formally sent to the Senate a nomination of Anderson to the government's top fiscal post. Anderson, a Texas Democrat, has served as Secretary of the Navy in the Eisenhower Administration as well as Deputy Secretary of Defense. Eisenhower left the effective date of Humphrey's departure up in the air. In a letter accepting the resignation, the President told Humphrey: "There are a number of critical problems to be considered during this session" of Congress, and added: "Until the bulk of these have been satisfactorily resolved, I deeply believe that your experience and the confidence that you enjoy everywhere in government will be great assets in reaching the best answers. Consequently, the date you turn over your duties to your successor, will, within the limits indicated, be delayed somewhat by circumstances." Humphrey's decision to leave the cabinet and the choice of Anderson to succeed him were generally expected.

Offices Closing Here Tomorrow

Tomorrow—National Memorial Day—the Pitt county offices will be closed in observance of the holiday. The Greenville post office will be closed. The banks, city and Greenville utilities offices and other places will be open for business as usual.

Non-Par Banking Practice 'Safe'

RALEIGH (AP)—The House Banking Committee said "no" today to legislation aimed at the practice of "non par" banking. By a 23 to 10 vote, the committee returned thumbs down on a bill which would have prohibited big banks from continuing the practice of charging a fee for cashing checks but would have permitted small banks to continue the practice. The committee also defeated by a voice vote a measure to require banks which charge such fees to show on their check forms that they were a "non par" bank.

Would Sue For $1,500 Check

A Mount Pleasant electrician who says East Carolina College cashed a certified check he placed as a bid bond wants to go to court to recover his money. G. D. Medlin will get his day in court against the college and the State of North Carolina if the General Assembly will approve a bill introduced this week by representatives E. T. Bost Jr. of Cabarrus County and Clyde A. Shreve of Guilford County. The bill would grant Medlin permission to institute legal proceedings against the State and the college. Medlin contends that he placed a certified check in the amount of $1,500 with the treasurer of the college as a bond on sealed bid for electrical improvements at the college. The bill states that a controversy has arisen as to whether Medlin is entitled to recover his $1,500, which he claims the college retained after cashing the check. The bill is necessary since the State of North Carolina is listed as a party in the proposed action and the legislature has to grant permission before the State can be sued.

Plan Memorial Day Services

Memorial Day services will be held on the Court House lawn tomorrow morning by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the VFW Ladies Auxiliary. The program will begin at 10 o'clock with a prayer by the Rev. R. B. Crawford, president of the Greenville Ministerial Association. W. G. Leggett, superintendent of Pitt County buildings and grounds, will raise and then lower the national flag to half-mast after which Miss Rachel Steinbeck will sing the national anthem. Larry Averette, first commander of the Greenville VFW Post, will deliver a short address on the meaning of Memorial Day, and Mrs. J. A. Joyner, president of the VFW Auxiliary, will place a wreath on the memorial stone on the Court House lawn. The program will be concluded by the playing of "Taps" by Donald McArthur, a member of the Greenville High School Band. Tomorrow's program has been planned as the climax to the VFW's recent flag program. Mrs. Kenneth Brown, chairman of the flag project, said that a total of 81 sidewalk flags had been obtained by merchants and would be displayed tomorrow. In addition, 11 public buildings are expected to display the national colors.

Senate Probers Head For Study S. C. Complaint

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Rackets Committee investigators are headed South Carolina way to look into allegations by the Textile Workers Union of America that the management of certain textile mills there have employed "mean" strikebreaking tactics. Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said he was sending aides to Rock Hill, S.C., to investigate the charges and counter allegations. The union has made public a request that the committee probe so-called "mean" strikebreaking moves against striking employees last fall at the printing and Finishing Division of M. Lowenstein and Sons, Co. in Rock Hill. While McClellan mentioned only Rock Hill, other sources said that the staff investigators also have orders to look into the union's complaints against other employers in South Carolina. The union's May 17 letter, signed by John W. Edelman, its Washington representative, aimed at employers in two other South Carolina cities—Gaffney and Darlington.

Morton Named To Warehouse Office

ROCKY MOUNT—W. Z. Morton of Greenville yesterday was elected vice-president of the East Carolina Tobacco Warehousemen's Association. Lawrence House of Tarboro was named president of the association. He succeeds W. Bernard Faulkner of Rocky Mount. John Price of Tarboro will be the organization's secretary-treasurer for the coming year and Joe Eagles Jr. of Wilson was elected to represent the Eastern Belt on the Sales Committee of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association. The general tobacco situation concerning market conditions was discussed by Fred Royster, managing director of the Bright Belt Association and the group also heard from L. T. Weeks, general manager of the Flue Cured Cooperative Stabilization Corporation. The group elected the following to the board of governors: W. Lawrence House, Tarboro; Johnny Carlton, Pinetops; H. H. Harris Jr., Wilson; W. V. Morton, Greenville; Dempsey Hodges, Kinston and H. Leaman Barnhill of Williamston. Named to the board of directors were: Harold Beasey, Ahoskie; L. D. Raleigh Police Official Says Hotel Room Raid Was 'Asked'

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—A Raleigh police official said yesterday a liquor salesman asked him to raid a downtown hotel room in search for whisky allegedly intended as free gifts for state legislators. The raid, said Detective Lt. W. G. Maddrey, netted nine whisky cartons filled with booklets on ABC liquor control. Maddrey said the salesman, Fred Kelly, came to his home shortly after midnight yesterday and asked that he conduct a raid on Room 215 in the Sir Walter Hotel, the hotel which serves as headquarters for most members of the General Assembly and other legislative workers. The officer said Kelly displayed a copy of the Raleigh News & Observer which accused Kelly of putting nine cases of whisky in the hotel room. Maddrey, who was off duty and in bed when Kelly came to his house, led the raiding party which included four other officers and the manager of the hotel. The series of events started with a charge by a local minister, the Rev. Gerald C. Primm, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, that regular deliveries of free liquor to legislators were being made from Room 215. The News & Observer sent three photographers and a reporter to the hotel. They returned with pictures purportedly showing the deliveries being made to rooms registered to members of the legislature. Despite the failure to find liquor in the room, Tom Allen, chairman of the State ABC Board said Primm's charges would be attended. Meantime, Frank Sims, the registered lobbyist for the North Carolina Assn. of ABC Boards, called Primm's charges and the newspaper stories "too ridiculous for comment." Sims, who draws $10,000 a year as chairman of Mecklenburg County ABC stores, refused to comment on whether he had given any legislators liquor as a gift during the current session, and would not say whether he is paying for Room 215, registered at the hotel in the name of an A. B. Carter. Sims, said, however, he knows Kelly and has purchased liquor from him for Mecklenburg stores. "I don't consider myself on the defensive a bit about this," Sims said, "I'm laughing at it." But in Chicago, where Primm is attending sessions of the Southern Baptist Convention, other Baptist ministers applauded his action in getting the inquiry underway in Raleigh. ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—Unfavorable weather conditions have delayed for 24 hours the second atomic explosion in the United States summer series. A 10-kiloton device was exploded yesterday from a 500-foot tower to open the series. The blast's mushroom cloud rose to 35,000 feet. Safety-conscious officials said the "heavy" radioactive fall-out was within the test site, and off-site areas would receive only light, long-delay fall-out.

Judge Raps Jurors' Acquittal Of Two Women In Kidnap Trial

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Jurors who acquitted two women charged with kidnapping and attempting to murder Mrs. Ruth E. Latham drew a sharp rebuke last night from Judge John A. Hewicker. Acquitted were Mrs. Beatrice Wynn, 37, and Mrs. Lucille Whisenand, 35. "I heartily disagree with your verdict in every respect," Judge Hewicker told the six men and six women jurors, adding that "you must have had preconceived ideas before you came in here." The jury had deliberated since Thursday and had sat through 50 days of testimony and argument—the longest trial in San Diego County Criminal Court history. Defense attorneys contended Mrs. Latham's testimony was "fantastic" when she said she was kidnapped from her San Diego home Sept. 12 and buried alive under rocks in the desert. She declared she had freed herself and survived through "prayer-given" strength. This was the two women's second trial. The first jury deadlocked 7-5 for acquittal. Mrs. Wynn, a housewife who dabbled in business and politics, and Mrs. Whisenand, divorcee and U.S. Customs Service clerk, were released from the county jail where they had been held since Sept. 14. Saying they had kidnapped themselves, the two had turned up bedraggled and dirty the day after the 52-year-old Mrs. Latham disappeared. They said that they had been released at the Mexican border by three men and a woman, whom they did not know, and told to keep going. While FBI agents and police were looking into their story, Mrs. Latham was found crouching completely naked beside U. S. Highway 80 on the desert 20 miles from El Centro. Mrs. Latham, wife of investment company owner George Latham, told police that Mrs. Wynn, whom she knew, and Mrs. Whisenand, whom she identified later, had beaten her, stripped her and buried her. Mrs. Wynn, she said, had put another rock on her face when she asked: "Bea, why are you doing this to me?" The prosecution maintained that Mrs. Wynn was doing it to eliminate Mrs. Latham from a business lawsuit and thus gain a default judgment. Mrs. Wynn and the Lathams were contesting for control of a building materials company. Mrs. Wynn, who said she had invested her home and all she owned in the company, testified that Latham had threatened her.

Miss Pat Beatty, Amos Evans Marry Yesterday

A four o'clock double-ring ceremony and Amos Ray Evans with the Rev. Leonard Topping officiating at the First Presbyterian Church on May 28 united in marriage Miss Patricia Charles Beatty and Mrs. C. K. Beatty of Greenville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Evans of Greenville.

The church was decorated with long area palm fronds centered with sprays of lilies flanked by seven branched candelabra with myriads of Cathedral candles and bridal greenery. At the altar a satin covered prie dieu was placed with calla lilies fastened on the sides. The pews were marked with white satin bows and greenery.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Roland Pridden of Greenville, organist, and James Piver, soloist. Mr. Piver sang "Because," "Thine Alone" and "The Lord's Prayer" as a benediction. The traditional wedding march by Mendelssohn and the Bridal Chorus by Wagner were used.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of hand-clipped lace and tulle fashioned with a sabrina neckline, fitted bodice, and a bouffant skirt of lace and tulle over satin. Her finger-tip veil of imported illusion was attached to a coronet of iridescent sequins and pearls. She carried a showered cascade bouquet of French carnations and daisy pompons, centered with a pure white orchid tied with bridal satin.

Mrs. W. C. Whitehurst Jr. of Bethel attended her sister as matron of honor. Miss Mary Dunn Beatty, sister of the bride, and Miss Betty Lane Evans, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids.

The attendants wore identical sheath gowns of Venice lace over mint green taffeta fashioned with v-necklines, an empire bodice outlined with taffeta, and fastened with a butterfly bow in the back.

They wore matching mint green hats with double circular veils and carried bouquets of pink throated green cymbidium orchids embedded in tulle and fern and tied with moss green ribbon.

Mr. A. J. Evans served his son as best man. Ushers were Chester Don Worthington Jr. of Farmville, Jimmie Sullivan of Ahsokie, and Billie Sermons of Preston Fields. Mrs. Beatty wore for her daughter's wedding a pink silk shantung dress with a small pink and mauve hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was of purple orchids.

Mrs. Evans, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of blue lace and a small matching hat. Her corsage was of white cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Godfrey Evans, paternal grandmother, wore a gown of dusty rose lace with matching hat and white accessories.

Mrs. Evans graduated from Greenville High School and is a sophomore at East Carolina College.

Mr. Evans graduated from Greenville High School, attended East Carolina College, and was a 1957 graduate of the University of North Carolina with an A. B. degree in chemistry. He will enter the medical school at U. N. C. in September.

Immediately following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Beatty entertained at a reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Evans and the wedding party in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Magnolias, gardenias, lighted tapers, and fern were used in profusion for decoration.

The bridal table was covered with a hand-cut linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of calla lilies, Queen Anne's lace, fern and lighted tapers in crystal candelabra.

A color scheme of green and white was carried out in the refreshments, consisting of punch, bridal cakes, mints, and nuts. Miss Josephine Hendrix, Miss Sallie Beard, Miss Sarah Ewell, Miss Margaret Moye, Miss Dora Pierce, Miss Sylvia Satterthwaite, and Miss Gayle Clapp assisted in serving.

Guests were greeted at the door by the Rev. and Mrs. Leonard Topping. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rose introduced the guests to the receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Beatty, Mr. and Mrs. Amos J. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Ray Evans, and the bride's attendants.

Mrs. C. C. Hilton directed the guests to the bride's table where refreshments were served by Mrs. Sam Wright, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. J. R. Carrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Whitehurst of Bethel presided over the register and goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Beatty, aunt and uncle of the bride.

For traveling the bride wore a

Julie Clark original toast silk shantung treated with white and a matching hat. She wore white accessories and the white orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

After a wedding trip to Western North Carolina, the couple will be at home for the summer with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Evans, Hooker Road, Greenville.

Cake Cutting
Monday night Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Hunning, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Sermons, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Sullivan and Mrs. Bill Sermons entertained the Evans-Beatty wedding party at a cake cutting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hunning.

Arrangements of mixed spring flowers were used throughout the home for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Hunning greeted guests at the door and introduced them to the honorees and guests.

Centering the table was an arrangement of carnations and fern. An imported Italian linen cutwork and lace cloth covered the serving table. Crystal was used for serving. Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Forbes.

4-H Dairy Contestants Named

SENIOR WINNERS—Senior dairy product winners pause to glance at one of the posters they entered in yesterday's 4-H Club Dairy Foods Demonstration contest held at the Agriculture Building. Around-The-World Trip Takes Mrs. Starling To Ceylon

By ANNE SINGLETON Reflector Women's Editor On June 6 Mrs. Robert B. Starling will board a plane at New Bern which will take her on her first leg of a round-the-world trip to Ceylon.

She is one of nine North Carolina women scheduled to attend the Associated Country Women of the World Conference to be held in Ceylon from July 3 through 13. "I felt like walking on the clouds when I was notified that I had been chosen to represent the Home Demonstration Clubs in North Carolina at an International A. C. W. W. meeting on the opposite side of the earth. I am humbly grateful for the confidence and trust that is absorbed in such an honor," she said. Mrs. Starling will represent 18 Eastern North Carolina counties at the World Convention. Each county in North Carolina had the privilege of nominating one person to represent the Home Demonstration Clubs in their county. These names were sent to a State Committee which studied each candidate's record in Home Demonstration work, civic and community interest, and church participation. The committee then chose six women to represent the state. A few of Mrs. Starling's qualifications include a perfect attendance record for 11 years for Home Demonstration meetings and service as president of the Red Banks Club for several terms. She also served as president of the Pitt County Council, chairman of the 22nd district, and as a member of the State Publicity Committee.

This convention, which meets every three years, was scheduled to meet last November but had to be rescheduled because of world crises at that time. What is the purpose of this convention? Mrs. Starling quickly answered, "I believe wars begin in human hearts. They are caused by lack of friendship and understanding

League Of Women Voters Will Hear Mrs. Pierce, Mrs. Miller

Mrs. Newton L. Pierce, organization secretary of the League of Women Voters of the U. S., and Mrs. Max I. Miller, president of the State League, will be the guest speakers at the general meeting of the local League Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Court Room of City Hall.

Board members and the two guests will hold a dinner meeting at Quinerly Manor at 6 p.m. Mrs. Pierce joined the national staff in February 1951. Wife of the late Professor Newton L. Pierce, she has lived in Princeton, N. J. since 1937, where she had been active in many civic organizations, including membership in the League of Women Voters of Princeton, where she served on the board for several years. Previously, she had been on the staff of Northwestern University and the University of Chicago. She holds an A. B. degree from Northwestern University and has done graduate work at Northwestern and the University of Chicago. A native of Fort Wayne, Ind., Mrs. Pierce now maintains her residence in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Miller is a graduate of East Carolina College, and now lives in Greensboro.

Both women will appear on television Wednesday when they discuss the National League agenda as well as other League matters. They will appear on WNCN at 12:15 p.m. and on WITN, Washington, at 4:30 p.m.

Master Bedroom, Boy's Room Used 30 Years Ago Today

The Mount Pleasant Home Demonstration Club has recently entered a window display in the Bostick-Suggs court. A master bedroom and a boy's bedroom were the projects selected by the club. Green and white are used in the master bedroom furnished in Early American pieces. The milk glass lamps were arranged in the room to afford good lighting as well as beauty. A brass planter placed on the chest corresponds with the brass in the lamps. A high back rocker and a white spread complete the room. A touch of gold in the spread and lamps is used in the cocoa brown and aqua boy's bedroom which the club furnished with Early American pieces.

A hand painted picture with a natural frame is placed over the double bed. A pistol and a tomahawk hang over the bed, an airplane is found on the dresser, a set of drums in the corner, and a model of an old fashioned car is placed on a shelf to give the room a feeling of simplicity and livability. Marie's School of Dance will present its fifteenth annual dance recital in McGinnis Auditorium at East Carolina College at 8:00 o'clock Thursday and Friday evenings, May 30th and 31st. The recital this year is again under sponsorship of the Greenville Exchange Club with all proceeds going to its Youth Activities Fund which is administered for the sole purpose of assisting the youth of Greenville to have a better community in which to live. Tickets for the recital may be obtained from any member of the Exchange Club, from any student of the School of Dance, and at the door on the evening of performances. All children 12 years old and under will be admitted free.

Rare Instance Of Bond Rejection

Youngsters of Chicod School District are the real losers because the voters of that district have turned down a $60,000 bond issue for improvements to that school.

Results of Saturday's election mean that for a while longer they will be denied adequate facilities for pursuing their education. In a future election on the question voters of that school district may reverse Saturday's decision. Even so, youngsters who attend Chicod school will have to get along without additional facilities which school officials feel are necessary.

Saturday's election in Chicod School district marked the first time in at least 29 years that voters of a school district in Pitt County have turned thumbs down on a proposed school bond issue. And surprisingly enough the set-back for public schools in Pitt County came in a school district which has second lowest special school tax of the 14 districts in Pitt County. It came in one of the two school districts of the county which does not at the present time have any outstanding school bonds.

Though there are obvious inadequacies in Pitt County's public schools, this county's school system compares favorably with those of other counties in North Carolina. The primary reason that Pitt schools have been able to enjoy the progress they have is because the voters of Pitt in the 29 years prior to Saturday had not failed to approve bonds for school each time they were requested.

If the people of Pitt County or any of its 14 school districts now begin to withdraw their support of public schools it can only result in a deterioration of the educational advantages offered the young people of Pitt. Such a deterioration in turn would penalize the young people of this county and in the long run retard the progress in every phase of the life of the county.

An Episode That Cast Shadow Of Suspicion

There are probably more red faces in Raleigh than red noses because of the expose of weekly liquor gifts to members of North Carolina's General Assembly.

Be that as it may, there are a lot of people back home in the 100 counties of the state who are anxious to know whether their representatives have been recipients of these weekly liquor gifts. They would also be interested in knowing what other gifts may be available for members of the General Assembly who are inclined to accept them; who the gifts are from and what strings are attached to accepting them.

Attempts by Wake County ABC officers to check on the nine-case cache of liquor reportedly stored in one of the hotel rooms in Raleigh appear to us as mockery. The officers' search of the designated room came about 12 hours after the incident was followed step-by-step by newsmen, affording ample time for the gifts to be disposed of. The officers appeared in no hurry to find what they were supposed to be looking for.

The next move is up to the State ABC Board, and certainly that body should take more than a passing glance at the situation.

Legislators are men in high office in North Carolina. With the exception of the public there are no agencies or groups which can bring pressure upon them to mend their ways. At the same time members of that high body should conduct themselves above reproach and above suspicion. This liquor episode has cast a shadow of suspicion over the entire legislature although only a minority of the members may have been recipients of the gifts.

The legislature itself should make some statement regarding the incident before it adjourns. The General Assembly owes an explanation to the people of North Carolina.

Worst Of The 1957 Legislation

BY LYNN NISBET
WORST — A Senator asked your reporter the other day what he considered the worst legislation of the 1957 session. There was no ready answer. Thinking had been more in terms of good legislation. The question was passed along to a dozen or more observant citizens not in the General Assembly. There was divergence of opinion on several individual bills, but almost unanimously in criticizing the tax and wages policy.

1957 Legislature is the most unpopular in modern times. Obnoxious as was the general sales tax in 1933, it had the virtue of affording immediate relief to ad-valorem taxpayers in the counties.

WAGES — The salaries and wages situation is more confused than the tax question. First day action in rushing through 20 per cent raises for members of the Council of State and subsequent very substantial raises in pay for judges and solicitors, is hard to reconcile with a 15 per cent boost for school teachers and 10 per cent for other State workers. Even the 15 per cent and 10 per cent proposals were upped from about 10 per cent and 8 per cent in original budget recommendations. Pressure from back home forced the administration to accept the higher figures, which still fall short of the requested 19 per cent and 15 per cent.

INEQUITY — Commendable effort to correct inequities in tax levies is overshadowed by perpetration of greater inequities in wages. The average man about town finds it difficult to reconcile action giving a man now earning $10,000 a raise of $2,000 or more, while the worker who earns a total of only around $2,000 gets a maximum raise of about 12 per cent.

The same Legislature which voted pay raises for judges and solicitors, and extended the non-participating retirement benefits for these officials, so far has refused to vote a minimum wage of 75 cents and hour for industrial and commercial employees. It also has acted to reduce State appropriations for matching Federal and county money for old age and dependent children benefits under the cooperative welfare program.

EMINENT DOMAIN — Ultimate results of the casual attitude of the General Assembly toward the sovereign right of eminent domain may be more serious than any of the biennial tax, salary or appropriation bills. The urban redevelopment bill delegates to quasi-public authorities the right to take from a private owner his property if in opinion of the "authority" it is needed for general improvement of an area—even though that improvement means high monetary profit for a private business. Pending bills also would delegate eminent domain authority for impounding basins and dust coal piping lines designed for the profit of private business corporations.

CONSENSUS — Consensus of the people interviewed on the "worse" legislation of 1957 seems to be that the greater inequities occasioned by trying to correct inequities in the tax laws, and the surrender of State sovereignty in exercise of eminent domain will give the 1957 session an unenviable place in history.

Proposals to farm out the State's sovereignty in the exercise of eminent domain were put at top of the list of objectionable items by several people. A lawyer objected most to the liberalizing of the terms "prima facie evidence" and "nolo contendere" as they are commonly used in criminal courts.

A surprising number of those interviewed registered violent opposition to the bill constituting every magazine salesman and every policeman a censor of literature permitted on newsstands.

The tax and general employee and teacher salary bills have not been enacted, but the situation is sufficiently clear to justify prediction of what they will be. There is less certainty about final outcome of the minimum wage bill. Several of the eminent domain extension measure are still pending. The censorship matter is in the Senate, having passed the House by overwhelming majority.

There has been considerable criticism of the trend in all the reorganization bills to concentrate power in the Governor's office. However, these changes all fall in the area of administrative policy and do not materially affect the rights of the rank and file citizenry.

TAXES — Whatever justification there may be in the name of equity and fair dealing, and whatever the long range benefits to the State treasury, the fact remains the new tax bill reduces taxes paid by big corporations $9-$12 million a year, and adds through extended sales tax coverage some $2-$3 million to little taxpayers.

Admitting that some of the sales tax exemptions have been favorable discrimination, and that corporation taxes have been unjustly levied, and that the State should correct these inequities regardless of cost, it is still true that a great many people look upon the action as giving relief to the big fellows at expense of the little ones.

The public has not been sold on the need for issuing $10 million bonds in face of a current treasury "surplus" in excess of $60 million. Unpopularity of the tax legislation may be due entirely to inefficient public relations in selling the factual situation. Whatever the reason, the tax bill in process of enactment in the Senate has been considerable criticism of the trend in all the reorganization bills to concentrate power in the Governor's office. However, these changes all fall in the area of administrative policy and do not materially affect the rights of the rank and file citizenry.

Admitting that some of the sales tax exemptions have been favorable discrimination, and that corporation taxes have been unjustly levied, and that the State should correct these inequities regardless of cost, it is still true that a great many people look upon the action as giving relief to the big fellows at expense of the little ones.

Under it appears:
 "How Mr. R. J. saved $24,100 on his estate taxes.
 "Under his outdated Will, Mr. R. J.'s Federal estate taxes would have amounted to $59,100. Advised by his lawyer and his bank-executor, he revised his Will so as to effect a tax saving of $24,100 and give his wife the use of an additional $41,600 during her lifetime."
 "If your Will was made before 1948, considering your lawyer to review it NOW. It may be possible to reduce your estate taxes substantially."
 What goes on here?
 Why are our tax laws so rigged that Mr. R. J. can save $24,100 on his taxes and his wife can get the use of $41,600—enough to finance a string of pinball machines or open a cocktail lounge—while you, you dope, pay the full rate?

 The advertisement is by the Bankers Trust Co., a reputable institution. Other banks and trust companies have used similar advertisements. And any clever tax consultant will tell you that the possibilities mentioned are very real. Why, then, should people without access to such advertisements, without friendly banks and tax-wise advisers, pay heavier taxes than others?

 I can only take exception to the patronizing tone you have taken in your editorial entitled "Taken Out of the People's Hands." To me this title is a misnomer.
 Surely you do not think that a petition signed by 664 citizens is an act of indiscretion.
 Since when has it been dangerous to allow the people a chance to nominate and elect in open elections those whom they wish to represent them in public office?
 I can not see how procrastination can further this cause.
 Why should the voters of Greenville be denied their right, as responsible, intelligent factors to elect a special candidate for the office of mayor?

Opposition To New Taxation

BY ELMER ROESSNER
 There is a deep, charming resentment against most taxes these days. This has been shown by a number of recent public-opinion polls.

If you have doubts, step up to the next person you see and say, "Isn't it wonderful that our taxes are so low and fair?"
 Then duck.
 One of the chief points of irritation is that taxes are high. But a more important point is the fact that most people believe that the way taxes are levied is unfair.

For instance: a man getting his income from stocks pays a high rate of taxes while one getting income from state and municipal bonds pays a low rate or nothing at all. A man earning a living by the exercise of managerial talents pays a heavy tax while one with an income from oil wells gets wonderful breaks. A talented person, cashing in on a life-time of endeavor in a few years, pays a high rate; a grubby person earning as much over thirty or forty years pays very little.

 How could a clear cut election plan to elect a mayor be harmful?
 This plan would give the voters a mayor they had elected and relieve the city council of having to choose from their number a person who might not have the good will of the whole constituency.
 The manner in which you suggest unnecessary delay and ignore an honest effort to correct an abridgement of the people's rights is disquieting.
 One should be fearful when people are languish and do not care who represent them.
 Even if the ancient quotation "The voice of the people is the voice of God" not be true, by adhering to its wisdom this country owes most of its greatness.

Strength For Today
 BY EARL L. DOUGLASS
WE SHOULD NOT LOSE HOPE
 The incongruities and injustices in human life are sufficient to drive us almost to despair. There has been a war every four years in the past two centuries. One-half of the world's population never has food enough to satisfy hunger. Hundreds of millions of people the world over can not neither read nor write. Slaves are still captured in certain parts of the world and bought and sold like livestock. The powerful impose upon the weak. The rich rob the poor. The poor, in turn, often rob the rich by refusing to give an honest day's work for the wage paid.
 Sometimes we wonder what this thing called human life is all about anyway. The pages of history are red with blood. The cry of the oppressed still reaches high heaven. There are many people in the world today who are probably as evil as men have been in any age.
 And yet, this thing called human life is not only good, but divine. God has a stake in it, not only because He made man in His own image but because with all the world's evils, injustice, and folly, there are still millions who press toward the divine ideal of righteousness and justice.
 We solve our problems slowly, but we get a surprising number solved with the passing of time. It's not all discouraging.

Notes On Passing Scene

Snowball died yesterday morning.

He passed away quietly on the doll bed he had claimed as his own when he moved into the apartment next door. His death was not a surprise because Snowball had been in low spirits since Sunday night.

Snowball was a little white kitten, born with a bobbed tail and a boundless curiosity. He lived up to the tradition of kittenhood by loving and being loved by every child in the neighborhood.

He will be missed by all of us.

Tomorrow is Memorial Day, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars and their Ladies Auxiliary have planned a short service on the Court House lawn.

The brief program will include a prayer, the flag raising, the national anthem, a short talk, placement of a wreath and taps. It will be held at the site of the memorial marker to Pitt County war veterans who made the supreme sacrifice.

The program will begin at 10 o'clock. It would be good for all of us if we could take a few minutes from our work to attend the program and remember those who have unselfishly given their all to protect our American heritage.

Civil terms of Superior Court never attract the crowds that follow criminal court but some civil cases frequently have as much drama as any of the criminal trials.

Persons who are involved in the individual cases often offer good studies while the trials are dragging. There was one such instance the other day.

A small-boned girl with delicate features was in the court as a party to a lawsuit. She listened intently as attorneys on both sides went through the time-consuming process of selecting a jury.

As the questions went back and forth and prospective jurors were examined, she would stoop her shoulder length black hair occasionally but never seemed to lose interest in what was going on.

No doubt, it was her first visit to a court room. And she made the most of it to learn all she could about the process of the Superior Court.

Judge W. H. S. Burgwyn is another person who is interesting to watch.

Even when the jury was being selected, he watched everything and gave the appearance of forming his answers to every question that was asked. There was not the slightest trace of how he felt, however. He kept his mouth closed and his lips formed a narrow line across his face.

Judge Burgwyn is the picture of what I suppose I've always imagined a judge should be. He just looks like a judge.

Other Editors Saying -- Why Not Cooperate?

(Kinston Free Press)
 The two party system in the United States has long been held up as an ideal. There's little doubt theoretically at least that it is the best system under which any major government in the world operates. The practical application of the system, however, does not always produce the best results nor work to the common good. Too much partisan objectives enters in. The principal objective is often political gain which makes the welfare of the whole people a secondary consideration.

Of course in a presidential campaign it is right and proper that each party nominate and place a candidate representative of the best that the respective party can produce. The race may be a hot one. The popularity of the candidate of one party or the other may run far ahead of the general standing or strength of the party. That was the case in the last presidential election when Dwight D. Eisenhower was named for a second term.

After the election and the winning candidate is installed in office, a question which we believe is apropos, is what should be the general attitude of those of the opposing party? Should the members of Congress and the general constituency be chiefly concerned with finding the weak spots and taking partisan political advantage of them? Or on the other hand should there be a spirit of co-operation, recognizing that the man elected is the President of the United States and not simply a political leader of one party or the other.

The Free Press has frequently been amazed and concerned at the display of partisan politics, regardless of political alignments, be better for the country and for the world for that matter? Would it belittle a member of the opposite party to give due consideration and cooperation to the Chief Executive and help to work out the best solution of the intricate problems that constantly arise and are ever present? That doesn't mean, of course, that the members of the Senate and House of Representatives, who are of the opposing party to the Chief Executive, must or should agree with every plan proposed. It would be far better, however, if a sincere effort was made to analyze the proposals and plans and give wholehearted support to the best features thereof. It would certainly be far better than looking through a "peep hole," so to speak, to find fault and defeat such proposals. This may be good partisan, political strategy, but it ignores the possibility of contributing to the common good.

The Free Press recognizes that it's wading into deep water when it suggests that a Democrat cooperate with a Republican, or a Republican cooperate and work with a Democrat, but it submits that the common weal would be better served by such a policy.

Judge W. H. S. Burgwyn is another person who is interesting to watch.

Even when the jury was being selected, he watched everything and gave the appearance of forming his answers to every question that was asked. There was not the slightest trace of how he felt, however. He kept his mouth closed and his lips formed a narrow line across his face.

Judge Burgwyn is the picture of what I suppose I've always imagined a judge should be. He just looks like a judge.

Green Land Again

By HAL BOYLE
 MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Leaves from a roving reporter's notebook:

Here where God makes the weather and weather makes the man there is national news — the land is green.

After five dreadful years of drought that put a parching curse on nearly a fourth of the nation, the blessed rains have revived the earth into a new dream of Eden.

The Great Plains, sere and crisp for so long, now roll in endless waves of green so bright on a clear day it almost hurts the eye. And the drought-bowed spirit of man climbs like a morning glory.

The feeling of relief and renewed hope runs right on out to the Rockies, down through Texas to the border.

A fellow sees a small mud puddle, and chirps, "Hey, what's the name of that new lake? It wasn't here last year."
 Said E. T. Lowther of the Emporia Gazette: "Now every prospect — farm, city, business — is pleasing."

Said Arthur F. Duncan of the Kansas City Star: "Most authorities seem to agree the drought finally is broken; and if it is, those same authorities agree agriculture and business in this area are anticipating a good year. Industrial expansion in some parts of the state may forecast a trend."

Another editor, Clyde M. Reed Jr., of the Parsons Sun, even suggested it might be time to turn off the heavenly faucet: "The only danger now is too much moisture."

Amid the chorus of jubilation throughout Kansas, where historically politics and the weather are two most important topics of conversation, there has sounded one disturbing note.

The rains came during the reign of a Democratic governor, and the Republicans are mortally afraid that, come election time, the Democrats will claim they have a better pipeline to the Almighty.

The long drought dramatically called national attention to the plight of the farmer in the Midwest and Southwest.

Less well-known is the fact that the falling water table, crumbling the foundations of homes, plants and stores, caused millions of real estate damage in the towns and cities.

A man paid $20,000 for a small brick home in Kansas City less than five years ago. The drought caused the foundations of his front porch to sag, opened wide cracks in its pillars.

He called for bids to repair the damage. The bids ranged from $1,900 to $7,000.

Multiply this example by scores of thousands and you'll have some idea of the financial plight of small homeowners, many of them already mortgaged to the hilt.

Body Blow For Four Contenders

By RAY TUCKER
 WASHINGTON — Four top Democrats frequently listed as contenders for the 1960 Presidential nomination have been hurt politically and possibly seriously within the last few weeks. They make a distinguished batch of unhappy and unfortunate victims. Oddly, all four belong to the Northern and liberal faction of the Party.

A Republican legislative committee believes that Tammany "fixers" were responsible for this leniency, and are now conducting an anti-Harriman investigation. Regardless of the decision, which may have partisan undertones, it can embarrass Harriman. It tends to link him with the once disreputable Fourteenth Street organization. Moreover, several of his other commissions have been accused of playing questionable politics along Broadway and the New York waterfront.

The quartet consists of four Governors of some of our most influential states—Averell Harriman of New York, Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, George M. Leader of Pennsylvania and G. Mennen Williams of Michigan. It is known that their friends have already begun to sound out political circles.
 The wounds may not be fatal, for there will be a healing and convalescent period of three years. But their opponents and enemies, both Democratic and Republican, plan to make capital of their current disabilities for future use.

Price On Hunting, Fishing In North Carolina Is Hiked

RALEIGH (AP) — Effective Jan. 1, 1958, it'll cost more for resident licenses to hunt and fish in North Carolina.

The Senate yesterday enacted into law a bill to increase the price of hunting and fishing licenses to $4.10 each, compared with $3.10 now. A combination license will go up from $4.10 to $5.25.

Sen. James Strikeleat, Jr. of Buncombe said the license fee was necessary to pay for the Wildlife Resources Commission employees in line with the 11 per cent pay boost proposed for other state workers. Wildlife Commission salaries do not come out of the state's general fund.

Other legislative developments yesterday included:

A Senate committee gave favorable reports to bills aimed at opening records of the N.C. CP and curbing the organization's legal activity. A House committee held a public hearing on similar measures. Kelly M. Alexander, president of the North Carolina Conference of the NAACP, told the House committee such legislation would not still the "clamor for equality" in North Carolina.

The House received a bill to reform banks which charge a fee for cashing checks to label their check forms "a non-par-bank." Rep. Watts Hill Jr. of Durham was joined by other House members in offering the measure.

The House and Senate passed a resolution citing James R. Thompson, 27, of Mebane for his heroic efforts in saving the life of Shirley Holder, 14, of Durham, at Atlantic Beach on May 19. The resolution urged that he be awarded the Carnegie Medal for heroism. The House by a 54 to 42 vote killed legislation which would have licensed land survivors.

Both the House and Senate re-elected bills to authorize the issuance of revenue bonds for construction of dormitories at state-owned institutions of higher learning. The bonds would be retired with rentals from the dormitories.

The House Committee on Propositions and Grievances approved a bill to allow the calling of an election in Lee County on the question of a city or town.

The committee also approved a bill to allow Lee County voters to decide whether beer and wine sales would be legalized on the basis of off-premises consumption only.

Senate Judiciary 2 Committee killed a bill aimed at putting optometrists on a more equal footing with medical doctors who treat diseases of the eyes.

Boys Perish In Flaming Auto

CHICAGO (AP)—Two small boys perished in a parked automobile last night after an explosion of a can of gasoline set fire to the car.

The boys, Jackie McDorman, 7, and Steven Waldo, 6, had been playing with a hammer in the car, police said. Police theorized that the hammer caused a spark which ignited gasoline fumes in the car and that the flames spread to the 5-gallon can of gasoline in the rear seat.

Claims Help Is Financing Enemy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md.) said today that American aid to Yugoslavia and other Communist nations is helping finance "a gigantic Russian collective defense system."

He asked Secretary of State Dulles why Congress "would not be fully justified" in shutting off all such aid.

Senate Republican Leader William Knowland (Calif.) and others have also called for a cessation of help to Russian satellites and have protested the renewal of jet fighter shipments to Marshal Tito.

As long as satellite states remain economically sound, Butler said, the inclination for freedom on the part of their oppressed people "is blunted and the power of invulnerability of the oppressors is fortified."

He said he is "not at all satisfied" that American aid "can be effectively channeled to the peoples of the satellite nations."

He added he is convinced "it can never be accomplished through dollar loans, grants-in-aid or direct military assistance to avowed communist government officials of those countries."

He said that in the case of Yugoslavia, "it is my unqualified opinion that an economically and militarily strong and firmly entrenched Tito" as an ally of the Kremlin, is more of a menace than would "a restless Yugoslavia geographically incorporated into the vast Russian empire administered by Kremlin officials."

New Candidate For Beck's Job

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Joseph J. Diviny, top-ranking Teamsters Union leader in California, indicated last night he is a "definite" candidate for president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Diviny, 54-year-old international vice president of the union and president of the Bay Area Joint Council of Teamsters, returned from Denver and immediately began secret conferences with local Teamster leaders who are backing him for Dave Beck's job.

No Hoots, But Owls Do Screech

WILMINGTON (AP)—When owls get together to raise a family they don't give a hoot. They screech.

This is the word from Mrs. Georgiana Benner, who claims she was actually driven from her when a pair of owls nested in a nearby tree.

She appealed for relief, but the people in the know told her the birds were operating within the "law of God and nature." So she moved to her daughter's house. Nature finally started working in her favor, however. Owls stop screeching and calm down just before the eggs hatch. So, after a week, Mrs. Benner was back home.

Munich Becomes Refugee Center

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—This Bavarian capital has become a refugee center in postwar Europe. Munich's streets buzz with intrigues and schemes expressed in a dozen tongues and dialects from countries behind the Iron Curtain.

Now an effort is being made to give this jumbled refugee community a unity it has lacked so far. As a focal point for cultural and social activities, a handsome clubhouse known as Haus der Begegnung (Meeting House) is to be opened in June.

Authorities estimate that Munich shelters about 22,000 refugees from Eastern Europe, not including East Germany or Russia. There are probably many more among the thousands in the area whose status has not yet been clarified.

In the East-West struggle for loyalties, refugee morale is an important factor. For years, people working with Munich's fugitives from behind the Iron Curtain have seen the need for a community center that would give them a sense of belonging in their new home in the West.

The challenge has been taken up by an agency called Free Europe Citizens Service. A branch of the American Committee for a Free Europe, it is a little brother of Radio Free Europe.

To give its Haus der Begegnung a chance of success, FECS has established a basic rule: "No politics allowed."

The organization has taken a two-year lease on a mansion in one of Munich's finer residential districts.

An official says the purpose is to provide a comfortable center where refugees can "feel at home and pursue cultural and social activities that will enable them to preserve their national identities."

Prices Squirrel Bite At $15,000

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—A retired schoolteacher filed a $15,000 claim against the city because she was "attacked" by a squirrel in Lakeside Park.

Myrtle A. Ward's petition said the rodent sprang from behind a tree "without any warning of any kind," and before she could beat it off with a magazine, it bit her four times on the right leg and twice on the left.

Miss Ward said she was hospitalized 17 days. An autopsy showed the squirrel was not rabid.

Japanese Urge Atom Test Halt

TOKYO (AP)—Carrying banners and placards demanding "Stop Nevada tests," nearly 100 Japanese university students marched on the American Embassy today. Thirty Japanese police stood guard in the embassy driveway but there was no violence.

Subsequently five of the leaders were admitted to the building with a petition asking America to call off all further test blasts.

Cuban Rebels And Batista's Forces Clash On Three Fronts; Bombings

HAVANA (AP)—President Fulgenzio Batista's forces have admitted rebel opposition on three fronts. The government nabbed 35 plotters in central Cuba and claimed 16 casualties in the northeast.

A large part of the capital remained without electric power as a result of yesterday's underground explosion, which blacked out much of Havana's electric system. A second blast went off last night near the home of Cabinet Minister Andre Domingo Morales, but no damage was reported.

Batista issued a warning that all the dynamite his enemies could muster would not be enough to interrupt our patriotic plans to assure the people their progress and their liberties.

Batista forces clashed with insurgents yesterday near Holguin, in northeast Cuba; near Manzanillo, in the southeast; and at Cienfuegos, in the central province of Las Villas.

An army communique said the Holguin action involved a rebel group which landed at Cabonico Bay last Thursday from the Florida-based yacht Corinthia. It said there were 16 rebel casualties and the rest of the band was being pursued.

Original reports said 25 men had landed from the Corinthia and five had been captured within a few hours. The remainder were said to have been heading for the Sierra Cristal Mountains of north-east Cuba. Farmers in the area indicated the band was growing, saying they had seen more than 100 well-armed men.

The Manzanillo skirmish reportedly involved forces of insurgent leader Fidel Castro, who has been operating in the nearby Sierra Maestra range since landing from Mexico last December. The army said both sides suffered at a secret meeting and taken after a gunfight but that there were no casualties. He opined that they were preparing to move into the central Cuban mountains, emulating Castro's guerrillas.

The Cuban Electricity Co. worked furiously to restore service in Havana but said power service might not be restored until tomorrow. Authorities blamed the explosion, which occurred eight blocks from the national capitol on sabotage.

Asst. Fire Chief Sinesio Cuesta said a tunnel had been dug from an uninhabited house to an electric and gas main and dynamite placed under the electric cables. Police sought an electric company employee who reportedly had rented the house.

The explosion left about 1,000 blocks of houses without electricity. Telephones also were cut and electric pumps supplying much of the city's water could not be operated.

most of three hits to score two runs to edge by the Elks, 2-0, in a thrilling game yesterday afternoon.

Two runs in the second inning on two hits off the Elks pitcher Sumrell proved to be the margin of victory. The winning pitcher Cannon yielded only four hits in hurling the shutout.

A single by the second baseman Allen pushed across the winning run after a triple by the right fielder S. Prewett. The pitcher batted in the final run of the inning with a double.

In the bottom half of the inning the Elks had a rally going with one out as a result of a walk and a single by right fielder Bill Moyer but Cannon bore down to strike out Green and get the third out on an infield grounder.

After the disastrous second, the losing pitcher Sumrell set the Pepsi nine down in one-two-three order without allowing a batter to reach base during the last four innings, but the damage had already been done.

The batting leaders for the winners were Allen and Cannon with one hit in two times at bat. Moyer led the losers with one for two.

The victory was the second of the year for the Pepsi-Cola team. Each team now has a seasonal record of two wins and two losses.

Fans Already Jamming Gates For Speedway

By DALE BURGESS
INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Auto racing fans, already lined up for miles around Indianapolis Speedway gates today, were assured that tomorrow they'll see one of the greatest 500-mile races since Ray Harroun beat Ralph Mulford in the 1911 inaugural thriller.

Thirty-three drivers were set for the start.

Veteran drivers predicted a record of about 132 miles an hour.

Lee Wallard, who set the modern pattern of full-bore driving in the long grind, asserted, "It's the most wide-open race in history."

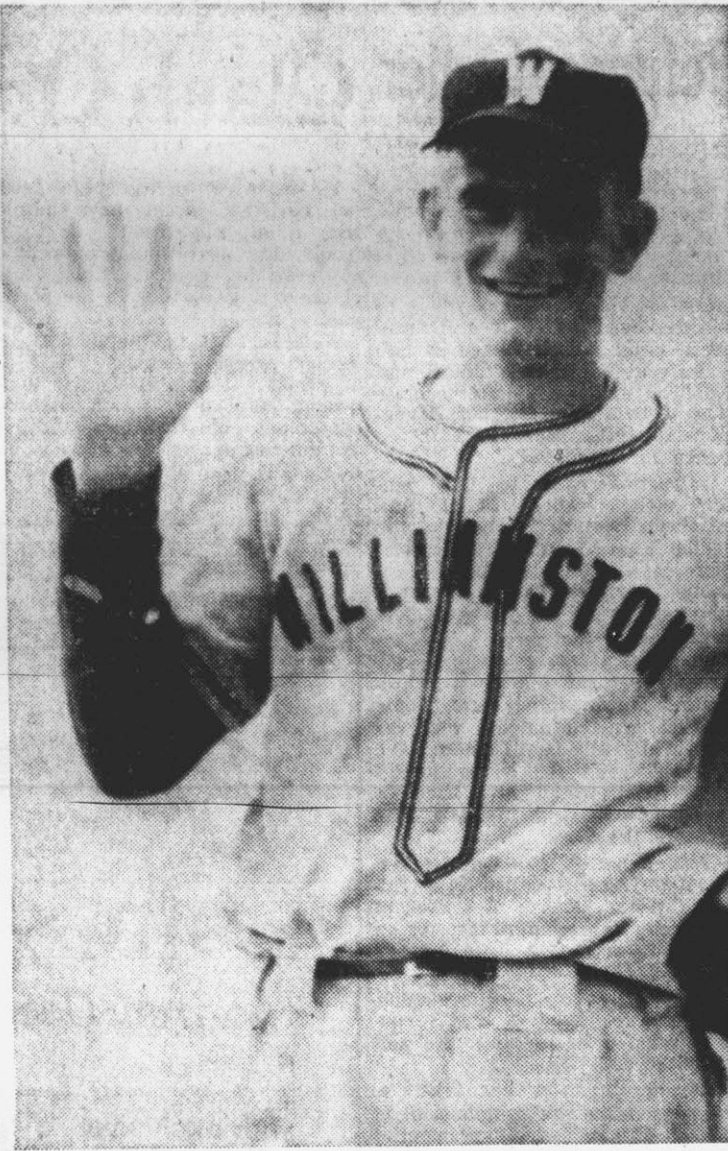

Wallard charged from the start in winning the 1951 race and wiped out the old idea of guessing the winning speed and then trying to maintain that average.

The 41st field is full of charging drivers who won't settle for anything but the lead as long as they're on the track. There are three of them in the front row—Pat O'Connor, who led 38 laps last year before his radiator burst; Eddie Sachs, a hot driver from the dirt tracks making his first Indianapolis start; and Troy Ruttman, the 1952 winner.

Last year's "500" was run without a fatality but drivers Tony Bettenhausen and Jimmy Daywalt were injured. Both recovered and will start tomorrow. Preliminary to this year's race already have claimed one life—Keith Andrews, killed May 15 in a practice run.

Maximum engine sizes were cut 10 per cent in an attempt to stop the yearly increase in speed. The reduction, or rainy, windy weather of this year's time trials, gave tomorrow's field an average qualifying speed of 141.44 m.p.h. compared with last year's record of 142.507.

Perry Hurls 13th Win Of Year

ANOTHER VICTORY—Williamston's Gaylord Perry pitched his Green Waves to a 5-2 victory last night against Wallace-Rose Hill in the first game of a three-game series to decide the Eastern Class A title. Perry gave up only three hits, fanned 15 batters in notching his 13th straight win of the year. Neither of the two W-RH runs were earned, which prolonged Perry's record of not having an earned run scored against him this season. The five fingers above indicate his five no-hitters pitched this season. (Reflector Sports Photo).

National Loop To Allow Team Shifts

Tuesday Was Just 'One Of Those Days' For Don

Guaranty Bank Wallops College View Team, 15-4

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Some days you can't make a nickel. And yesterday was one of those days for the Cincinnati Redlegs and Don Gross.

Gross, a 25-year-old left-hander, pitched one of his best games ever, walking one, striking out two and allowing just two hits. But he lost to the Milwaukee Braves 1-0—his first defeat since Sept. 8, 1955.

The Redlegs, who retained their two-game lead in the National League as the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers lost 3-2 in 11 innings at Pittsburgh, managed eight hits off Warren Spahn, but left seven runners stranded for their first defeat on the road in 16 games.

The Philadelphia Phillies, off on their biggest scoring binge since 1953, walloped the New York Giants 16-6. St. Louis defeated Chicago's Cubs 5-1.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox stayed two games in front, defeating Kansas City 3-1 while the second-place New York Yankees went 10 innings to beat Boston 8-5.

Cleveland nudged Detroit 4-3 on Eddie Robinson's two-run pinch homer in the ninth.

Gross, who had won eight since his last loss, had faced only 22 men before Bobby Thomson opened the Milwaukee eighth with a triple and came home with the clincher on a single by Frank Torre.

Spahn didn't walk a man while gaining his 38th career shutout with his fifth victory of the season.

The Dodgers missed their chance to gain ground on PeeWee Reese's throwing error at Pittsburgh. The Bucs shelled Don Newcombe, who had six consecutive complete games, with two singles and an intentional walk that filled the bases in the 11th. Then Bob Clemente greeted Clem Labine with a sharp grounder to Reese who threw high to the plate.

Officials Rule Dodgers, Giants May Move West

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO (AP)—The National League has opened the door to the Golden West for the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers.

Each of the eight baseball club officials yesterday gave approval for this procedure:

"If New York and Brooklyn request consent before Oct. 1 to relocate their franchises in San Francisco and Los Angeles, respectively, the league president is authorized to grant it."

A reported proposal that the Cincinnati Redlegs shift to New York was not considered at the league meeting.

It is not known when or if Presidents Horace Stoneham of the Giants and Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers will shout: "Westward ho!"

But it could be very tempting to do so.

There was a $39,500,000 bond issue election in Los Angeles yesterday which could provide means to build a new city-owned stadium seating 60,000 in a 600-acre plot of the Cavez-Ravine area within easy distance of the downtown district.

San Francisco has a five-million-dollar fund earmarked for a new stadium to entice the Giants.

This is in contrast to the National League's pioneering frontier of the New York area consisting of outmoded Ebbets Field of the Dodgers and the Giants' Polo Grounds—both plagued by inadequate parking facilities.

The Dodgers have a clearer path to move West than the Giants because last February they bought the Los Angeles franchise of the Pacific Coast League and all its facilities from P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs and National League vice president.

The Giants will have to dicker with the Boston Red Sox for the San Francisco franchise.

And the PCL is reported to be ready for "a fight for its life" stand against the invasion. An official of the National League, who declined to be identified, said the PCL is prepared to demand from 8 to 10 million dollars damages.

Nothing can be done about moving a franchise until Oct. 1. The specific time limit to draft minor league territory under baseball law.

Local Golf Fans To See Two Top Tilts This Week

Lennie Chosen Athlete Of Year

By JACK EDWARDS
Greenville golf teams will have a double-barrel treat this weekend: Saturday and Sunday Erroll Webb will play Don Conley Jr. for the 1957 club championship; and Sunday the eight finalists in the City Scotch tournament will vie for honors.

Twenty women golfers have signed up for the Scotch tournament, the first round of which will be played Friday. Each woman is matched with a man and on each hole both members of the team tee off. A decision is made as to which tee shot will be used; if the man's is used the woman hits the next shot, and visa-versa. From that point on, the golfers alternate each shot. Of the twenty teams, the eight coming in with the best scores Friday will play Sunday in the finals. (See entrants below).

In the club championship match, Erroll Webb, 1951 champion and six-times finalist, will be favored. Finals were scheduled for last weekend, but postponed because Don Conley was completing examinations at a N. C. State College, where he is a freshman.

Conley's last round was weekend before last, when he eliminated Bob Masten in the semi-finals. He didn't even take his golf clubs back to Raleigh. Tomorrow morning he will finish his exams and return to Greenville, perhaps in time to get in a practice round. En route to the finals, Don beat two former club champs, W. L. Allen and Reynolds May.

Webb is in Raleigh today with W. L. Allen, representing Greenville in the Eastern Carolina Golf Association individual tournament. In recent tournaments he has been playing on a level with the best golfers in Eastern Carolina.

Since the club championship tournament was started in 1940 there have been seven champions: Reynolds May (three-time winner), Dr. M. B. Massey (twice), W. L. Allen (five), Simon Moyer (twice); one-time winners: Bo Farley, Moulton Massey and Erroll Webb. All of the former champions played in the tournament with the exception of Dr. M. B. Massey, who had to forfeit because he was out of town.

Entrants in the Scotch forenoon tournament are Harriette White, Mildred Coleman, Mary Stewart James, Frances Larkin, Mervyn Warner, Louise Ficklen, Carolyn Thomas, Willie Smoot, Nettie B. Herring, Gay Waldrop, Martha Garrett, Lib Masten, Alma Underwood, Edna Fisher, Bernel Rawl, Alice Long, Louise Morton, Mary Frances Garrett, Mary Hunnicutt, Betty Lou Howard, Melba Howard, Mavis Lupton, Henrietta Badham, Myra Hodges and Rosemond Tipton.

More men have signed up for the tournament than will be matched. The tournament committee will match 20 of the following: John Howard, Bill Davenport, Percy Ashby, Jack Edwards, Lucian Bryan, Simon Moyer, Louis Clark, Ben Harrison, Troy Dodson, Hunter Keck, Tad Larkin, Willie Rogers, Ed Tipton, Billy Morton, L. S. Ficklen, Reynolds May, Fred Saue, Bob Powell, J. B. Boyd, Carl Pierce, Connor Murrill, Dwight Garrett, Herman Duncan, Tom Smoot, C. L. Lupton and the Rev. H. G. Haney.

No Decision In Shift Until End Of This Season

NEW YORK (AP)—No decision will be made on whether to shift the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants to Los Angeles and San Francisco, respectively, until the end of the current season.

That is what Walter O'Malley, president of the Dodgers, and Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants, said as they arrived early this morning at Laguardia Field from Chicago where they received league permission to move to California if they desired.

O'Malley was asked: "Is it too late to stay in Brooklyn?"

A—"It's never too late. There are always certain conditions that could change the present status."

—What can the city officials do to keep the Dodgers here?

A—"The people have been very seriously trying to get us a new ball park."

Stoneham was asked the same question about whether, "It is too late to keep the Giants in New York?"

He replied: "This thing has been kicking around a long time. Let's let it develop. We've got all summer. We've tried everything here in New York. We thought the West Side Stadium might be the thing. They spent a lot of money and time drawing up blueprints and it fell apart through no fault of the city."

—"You're not being very hopeful."

A—"With a wry smile)—There's nothing I can do about that."

Rocky Pulling On Gloves To Battle Protege

BOSTON (AP)—Rocky Marciano is going to pull on the gloves again—but only as a sparring partner for his unbeaten protege, Billy Ryan.

Rocky, the retired world heavyweight champion who had 49 consecutive professional victories to his credit, has a financial interest in Ryan.

The 21-year-old light heavyweight newcomer from Lowell has fought only slightly over 27 minutes in eight bouts including one six round decision. The seven ended in first round knockouts.

Ryan is co-managed by Marciano's trainer, Alie Colombo and Ted Coupe. Rocky holds a half interest in the kid who had a 35-0 record in amateur fights while in the Marines and who numbered a service title in Japan among his accomplishments.

"I'm wondering just how close to the top he can get," Marciano said of Ryan. "I think he'll be a good fighter. He's young and time will tell whether he will be able to hit the heavyweight division."

Four Local Boys Receive Athletic Honors At UNC

Wayne Bishop, Cleidith Oakley and Fick Arthur of Greenville and Roland Griffin of Williamston have received athletic honors at the University of North Carolina.

Bishop and Oakley, both graduates of Greenville high school, were among 66 North Carolina athletes who have been added to the roles of Monogram winners through participation in spring sports. Both earned the berths as members of the Tar Heel track team.

Arthur was one of 65 freshmen who were presented with spring sport numeral awards. He gained his award also as a trackster.

Griffin, too, was among the freshmen who received the above awards. He was a stellar baseballer this season.

The announcement of the awards was made today by Athletic Director C. P. Erickson.

Ortiz Is Favored To Beat Chiocca

CHICAGO (AP)—Carlos Ortiz, Puerto Rican lightweight from New York, is an 8-5 favorite to night to stretch his undefeated string through 24 bouts in a 10-rounder with Felix Chiocca of Paris, France.

The Chicago Stadium fight will be broadcast and televised nationally (ABC, 9 p.m. EST).

Ortiz, 20, has scored nine knockouts. He will be meeting his toughest foe to date in Chiocca, 23, who went to Paris from his native Caracas, Venezuela.

Chiocca has won 25 of 33 starts in the last three years, and is credited with five kayoes. One of his recent victories was over Teddy (Red Top) Davis.

"But you knew Mr. Young. What kind of person was he?"
The girl looked at him gravely. She had known Stuart Young quite well. They had been in the same year at medical school, had attended some of the same classes. They had both been hard workers, although he was the better student of the two.

done a bit of experimenting.
"Such as—?"
"Oh, well, there was a friend of mine who asked me to try hypnosis and see whether it would help him break his cigarette habit. There was another who wanted him to see whether he could cure his insomnia. Things like that."
"He got more and more interested. Then I began to see that his interest wasn't purely scientific. He was fascinated by the fact that he could affect behavior. That's when I realized that, used unscrupulously, hypnosis could be terribly dangerous. We argued about it a lot. Then he stopped talking about it at all. Until — it was a silly thing. One night we were going to a lecture and I said something about the fact that I should really wear a dark suit but every single thing I had was read. And he grinned. At first I thought it was a joke when he said, "Of course you wear red." Then I knew he'd made me do it. I said, "Never so long as you live are you to hypnotize me again. I won't have it." And he said, "Want to bet?"
"It was a couple of days later, just a short time before the end of term, when he dropped in. We were going to a party. He'd bought me a compact as a present and was holding" the mirror for me while I powdered my nose. He put me to sleep. I see now I could have fought it but I was in love with the man." She gave a rueful smile. "That makes a difference, you know."
"I talked to Stuart and I issued an ultimatum. I told him he wasn't fit to practice, that his use of hypnosis was unethical and could become dangerous, if not criminal. One of his little experiments had led a pre-med kid to slash his wrist. Stuart contended he simply wanted to find out how far a person would go in inflicting pain on himself. Only the wrist, got septic and the boy's arm was cut off at the elbow. He wanted to be a surgeon, too. I don't know why he kept quiet but then I don't know a whole lot about hypnosis."
"Well, I said I'd expose Stuart unless he gave up medicine. He had a fit. He said he'd worked like a dog for it, which was true. But I didn't budge and finally he knew I meant it. He was pretty sick. The bottom of things dropped out for him. I'd taken away his profession and he didn't have a cent in the world and no training for anything else."
"I had three thousand dollars I'd been saving to tide me over the lean time a doctor has in starting power I'd let him have that as long as I'd taken away his earning power I'd let him have that to give him a start toward something else."

"We were sitting on a park bench talking and arguing. Someone had left a Sunday supplement there. Stuart sat turning the pages. There was one of those sob-sister features about American heiresses. I think the idea was to prove that they were all simple souls at heart, yearning for a cottage with honeysuckle on the walls and six children to cook for."
"Anyhow, one of the girls was Nora Pendleton and the story played up the fact that she was unsophisticated and shy, that she preferred books and music to society, and that in the fall she went to an inn because no one else was there. Stuart didn't say anything but I guess he made up his mind then to meet accidentally the retiring Miss Pendleton. He left for Connecticut then."

After a long pause, Mr. Potter said, "Could you be hypnotized without knowing it?"
"Without remembering it," she said.
"But suppose some situation happened — some situation arose so that you guessed?"
"Then," Amy Chandler said grimly, "if I were Nora Pendleton I'd be darned careful not to show I'd guessed."

Some animal instinct, some elementary will for survival, sent Nora racing along the woods path, made her run for her life. Coming to the story to an exciting climax here tomorrow.

Mild-Mannered Killer Displays No Remorse Over His One-Man Mutiny

By LEONARD MILLMAN
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Naval psychiatrists tried to determine today what sent a normally mild seaman on a murderous six-hour armed mutiny yesterday aboard ship.

One officer was killed and another seriously wounded. The sudden burst of gunfire turned the attack cargo transport Uvalde into an armed camp.

Negro seaman Jimmie L. Henderson, 21, Marine City, Calif., said he killed because he was convicted of stealing a $30 watch. Apparently without remorse, he talked freely to newsmen of his resentment, his planning and the killing. Then he was taken under guard to Oak Knoll Naval Hospital in Oakland.

The bespectacled sailor slugged guard Joseph H. Veerbeek, 22, on the Uvalde at a Treasure Island dock in San Francisco Bay, seized his automatic and killed Ens. Arthur L. Morris, 26, Stow, Ohio. Morris was shot in the head as he sat on the edge of his bunk at 6:15 a.m.

"He caused all the trouble," Henderson said.

He said Morris had reported Henderson stole a watch. The Negro said he found it. Henderson was convicted at a court-martial Monday, sentenced to four months at hard labor and demoted from disbursing clerk third class to Seaman. He was confined to ship pending review of his case.

Shot three times through the stomach and arm, because "he was in the way," was Ens. Richard D. Harrison, 22, Grand Rapids, Mich., Morris' cabin mate. He was Henderson's defense counsel.

The seemingly mild-mannered killer said, "I feel like Mr. Morris needed it."

For eight months he had worked directly under Morris, who was both the ship's paymaster and legal officer.

After the shooting Henderson fled to the bridge. There for more than six hours he carried the cocked and loaded pistol in his hand while trying to make up his mind to surrender or shoot.

Watching him from the bridge, the ship's mast and the dock were more than a dozen sailors and Marines armed with riot guns or pistols.

"We could have killed him a thousand times," said the ship's master, Capt. Robert O. Beer, San Mateo, Calif. "All I would have to do was to say 'Shoot him' and he would be dead."

During the strange six-hour armed stalemate, Henderson's mother, two chaplains, the Marine commander on Treasure Island Naval Base, the captain, two Negro MP sergeants and others argued with Henderson to give up peaceably.

He finally surrendered at 12:25 p.m. on the promise he would be taken from the ship as the personal prisoner of Marine Col. E.M. Williams, and be given both civilian and naval counsel.

"He tried to kill himself," said his mother Margaret Henderson. "But I said to him, 'Don't you do that.'"

Henderson told a news conference in Treasure Island security headquarters that he planned the shooting "to kill Mr. Morris."

The ensign had found the missing watch in Henderson's locker. Henderson insisted he found the watch. But he readily admitted he knew who it belonged to and kept it for two days without attempting to return it. His only explanation was that the owner "accused me of taking it from his locker."

Tiny Victim Is Still In A Daze

GAYLORD, Mich. (AP)—A 5-year-old boy, bruised and cut, lies dazed in a hospital bed here today unaware that the tragic accident in which he was hurt has left him an orphan.

His father and mother, a brother and a sister, all were killed last Friday evening when their car was hit broadside by a freight train about 100 feet from their tiny two-room cabin.

Only young Michael Ostrander survived.

"The boy still doesn't know about his family," said an uncle, Myron C. Ostrander. "I guess I'll have to break the news to him in the next few days when the doctors give me the okay."

"He still doesn't seem to recognize anybody," the uncle said. "He hasn't asked for his mother or any of the others. He doesn't even answer when I call him by name."

The boy's continued listlessness has proved puzzling.

Doctors say Michael suffered no internal injuries, no fractures, no severe shock.

Just a bad cut where a piece of wood pierced his flesh.

The boy's father, Ernest Ostrander, 36, a sawmill worker, was taking his wife Jean, 32, his 9-year-old son David, his 7-year-old daughter Patricia and Michael to town when the accident occurred.

Michael apparently won't go begging for a home. Two close relatives say they want to adopt him. And the John Berrys family of Beatrice, Neb., wrote to offer the youngster a home.

A cousin, Myron C. Ostrander, Jr., 24, Lansing, and another uncle, John Small, Ishpeming, say they want to take the boy.

'Revenooers' Tap The Supply Line

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The "revenooers" are applying pressure on grocers in the continuing war on moonshiners.

Moonshiners use large quantities of sugar, and heretofore the grocers were asked to "sell and tell."

Now, says G. C. Kirkpatrick, supervisor in West Virginia for the Treasury Dept.'s Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division, they're being directed — not merely asked — to keep accurate records of sugar sales, on threat of criminal prosecution for failure to do so.

Truman Library Rites June 6

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt are among those expected to attend the dedication of the Truman Library July 6, former President Harry S. Truman said yesterday.

Government leaders will be among the speakers.

Asked if the White House would be represented, Truman replied: "For that answer you'll have to ask the White House. No one can speak for the man in the White House."

Truman said Chief Justice Earl Warren will give the dedicatory address.

The 14-million-dollar library building in nearby Independence, Mo., Truman's home, will be turned over to the federal government.

Busy Week For Johnson Team

The Jimmie Johnson Evangelistic Team, here conducting the United Crusade, has a busy schedule for the remainder of this week.

In addition to conducting nightly services in Austin Auditorium on the campus of East Carolina College, the team will appear before the Junior Chamber of Commerce tomorrow night at 6:30 p.m. and at a Kiwanis Club meeting Friday night also at 6:30 p.m.

Each morning at 8:45 a.m., Johnson's group appears on Television Station WNCT and on Radio Station WGTC at 9:40 a.m.

It has been announced that three members of the team will preach at morning worship services in Greenville Churches Sunday. Rev. Johnson will preach at the Memorial Baptist Church, The Rev. Merrill Dunlop is to deliver the message at Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church, with Rev. Ralph McGilvra preaching at the Grace Free Will Baptist Church.

The United Crusade meeting Sunday will be conducted in the afternoon rather than at 8 p.m., due to conflicts with High School graduation exercises in this area.

NEW YORK (AP) — Oils paced the stock market to a vigorous recovery early this afternoon. Aircrafts and steels also showed good gains but the liveliest trading was in the oil group.
 Key stocks showed plenty of gains running to a point or so while selected issues were up more than 2 points.

Prices of oil shares were spurred by the action of British Petroleum, the largest single oil producer in the Middle East, boosting the price of crude oil at Persian Gulf ports.
 British Petroleum shares were heavily traded on the American Stock Exchange where they rose more than a point.

The stock market rise today surprised Wall Street observers who expected a timid performance on the eve of the memorial Day holiday which will stretch to a four-day weekend for many in the financial community.

Gulf Oil, Royal Dutch and Amersal rose 2 points or better. Texas Co. Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Getty were ahead a point or more. Shell Transport & Trading, actively traded, was up a major fraction.
 Aircrafts continued their rally of late yesterday with gains of a point or more by Douglas, United and General Dynamics. Boeing eased.

Leading rails were ahead on average. Northern Pacific, helped by its big natural resources, added about 2 points to its recent advance. Illinois Central was up around a point. New York Central also was on the upside.
 The big steel producers hewed gains running from fractions for U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic to more than a point for Youngstown Sheet. Lukens was ahead a fraction.

Chrysler and General Motors were up fractionally. Du Pont rose more than a point. Most of the other chemicals were higher. Allied by close to a point. Union Carbide, Dow and Air Reduction made smaller gains.
 International Nickel and U. S. Gypsum were other gainers in the 1-point range.

The Associated Press average of 6; stocks at noon was up 80 cents to $183.40 with the industrials up $1.90, the rails up 60 cents and the utilities down 10 cents.

Another Milestone Reached

$1 MILLION—The little lady with the million dollar smile is Miss Linda Barringer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Barringer of Washington. The occasion is the presentation of her insurance policy by Agent Jonas B. Harrell, Washington representative of the Sentinel Life Insurance Company. Linda's policy raised the total insurance written by Sentinel to over a million dollars.

Superior Court Adjourns Early

Superior Court adjourned yesterday, ending a scheduled one-week civil term three days early. Actions approved yesterday by Judge W. H. S. Burgwyn before adjournment included a compromise in a suit asking $1,000 for the death of a horse.
 Ann Marshall Allen, through her next best friend, M. T. Allen, accepted a $300 settlement in the suit. Miss Allen's horse, a five-gaited saddle horse, was killed October 9, 1956, about two miles from Greenville on Highway 43. The suit had been entered against Jack Paris and Kenneth Leroy Johnson. The suit was compromised after a jury had been empaneled to hear it Monday afternoon. Judge Burgwyn accepted the compromise and ordered the case dismissed yesterday.

In two other suits, brought by J. J. Perkins against Walter Garrett and Hosea Allen, Judge Burgwyn ordered continuances until a court survey of the disputed real estate titles and property lines can be completed. J. M. Dresbach, registered surveyor, was appointed to make the survey for the court.

St. Paul's Episcopal Church on Thursday (Ascension Day) there will be services of Holy Communion at 7 and 10 o'clock. At the 10 o'clock celebration there will be the installation of the Woman's Auxiliary officers. Following the service there will be a coffee hour honoring the newly installed officers. Ascension Day marks the end of the great forty days following the resurrection.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mae Weatherington Warren; two sons; Jerry Warren III and James Earl Warren of the home; a daughter, Margaret Warren of the home; his father J. F. Warren, Sr. of the home; three brothers; Joe Warren of Greenville and Clarence L. and Robert J. Warren of Washington, N. C. and four sisters; Mrs. J. D. Keel of Bethel and Mrs. Guy V. Peaden, Mrs. DeWitt Landing and Mrs. Carl McGowan of Greenville.

Awards Present To Three Den Mothers

Three Den Mothers received awards, the first presented in Pitt County, last night. Recipients of the awards were Mrs. Wyatt Brown, Mrs. Hugo Williams and Mrs. Charles Cobb. The presentations were made by Scout Executive Carl Knott at the monthly meeting of Cub Scout Pack 330.

To receive this award, the Den Mothers have to serve two consecutive years in this capacity. In addition the women scouters is required to complete the basic training course for Cub Scout leadership, as well as numerous lesser requirements.

Knott stated this morning that several other Den Mothers in Cub Packs throughout the county are fulfilling requirements for the award. There are 46 Den Mothers in the Pitt Cub Scouting District. Awards were presented to the following Cub Scouts:
 Wolf: Greg Baxter, Bruce Baxter, Didi Holcombe and David Ginsberg; Golf Gold Arrow Point: Greg Baxter, Bruce Baxter, Didi Holcombe and David Ginsberg; Wolf Silver Arrow Points: David Ginsberg (2), Didi Holcombe, Jimmy Harris, Houston Tucker and Milton Hadley.

Bear: Barr Coleman; Bear Gold Arrow Point: Toby Cobb and Rex Roberts; Lion: Tom Irons and Jimmy Nethercutte; Lion Silver Arrow Point: Bill Procter; Two Year Service Star: Kenneth Williams; Two Year Den Chief Service Star: Ronnie Williams.

Kenneth Williams won the Cub Scout Contest Medal in the Pinewood Derby race staged at last night's meeting. Runner-up in the race was Barr Coleman.
 It was announced that the county-wide Pinewood Derby would be held Friday, June 7.

Funeral Thursday For J. F. Warren Jr.
 Jerry F. Warren, Jr., died at his home, near Greenville on the Bethel Highway, at 7:30 Wednesday morning following a heart attack.
 Funeral services will be held at the Wilkerson Chapel Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Rev. W. H. Willis, pastor of Parker's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.
 Mr. Warren, son of J. F. Warren, Sr., and the late Mrs. Ludie Morris Warren, was born and spent most of his life in Pitt County. He was a veteran of World War II, having served in the European theater. For the past four years he had operated a general store and filling station near Greenville.

Benson Proposes Farm Price Support Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson laid before Congress yesterday specific legislative proposals for eliminating what he has called weaknesses in the administration - endorsed flexible price support system.
 He previously had told the Senate and House Agriculture Committees that he foresees new surpluses growing out of this system as it now stands. He referred to provisions requiring the department of raise supports for wheat, corn, cotton, rice and peanuts as present surpluses decline.

The secretary said the flexible law could be amended to permit the department to set supports for these crops between zero and 90 per cent of parity, or if Congress preferred, between 60 and 90 per cent of parity. The range now is 75 to 90 per cent of parity.
 Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices charged them.

The suggested language also would eliminate provisions requiring supports to be increased as supplies decline. Instead, the department would be authorized to set supports - within whatever new range was specified by law - at levels it deemed advisable after taking market demands, prices of other farm products, the availability of funds and other factors into consideration.
 Benson said he would prefer that the range be set between zero

Last Rites Thursday For Harley Nelson

Harley Alphonso Nelson, 61, died at his home, Virginia Beach, Va., Tuesday at 6 a.m. He was born in Pitt County, son of the late Berry Nelson and Piny Ann Rebecca Overton Nelson.
