MRS. FENNER ALLEN receives grand prize for Red Oak H. D. Club . . . from Jim Sutton at Awards Night program.

Red Oak Club Wins Pitt Progress Award For Second Straight Year

By EVERETTE PARKER Reflector Staff Writer For the second consecutive year, the Red Oak Home Demonstration Club has won top honors in the annual Pitt County Progress Program.

In copping the honor, the winning club amassed five first place, two second place and three third place awards. The club won $210 in prize money for placing in the 10 category contest and received the grand prize of $150 to win a total of $360.

The Red Banks Home Demonstration Club was also runner-up in the Progress Program sponsored by Greenville Farmers Day, Inc. A total of four first places, three second places and two third places were won by the Red Banks Club.

On the basis of winning $190 in prize money, judges presented the runner-up club with the $125 second place grand award. Ballards Crossroads won third place in the contest. The third place club took three second place awards, winning $115. For placing third Ballards also received a grand prize award of $100 for a total of $215.

Fourth and fifth grand prizes were awarded as was the case in the first Progress Program contest staged last year. Approximately 1,000 club members and guests witnessed presentation of awards in Wright Auditorium last night. The Awards Night program commenced at 7 p.m. following a countywide picnic held on the grounds of East Carolina College.

North Carolina Senator Kerr Scott was scheduled speaker for the event but was unable to attend due to prior commitments. The renator sent his regrets. Some 15 of the county's 22 home demonstration clubs participated in the Progress Program.

Judging for the event was done on a comparative score based on the number of club members and non-club members participating. Record books turned in by each club was judged as follows: 50 per cent for activity or accomplishment, 30 per cent for leadership and 20 per cent on narrative, pictures and news.

Cash prizes amounting to $1,290 were awarded by Jim Sutton, president of the Farmers Day, Inc. Prizes of $25, $20, $15, and $10 were presented to the first, second, third and fourth place winners in each of the ten categories. In addition $155 in attendance awards and door prizes were made.

The Belvoir Home Demonstration Club with a 100 per cent attendance won the Attendance Award, with the Fountain club winning second place with 80 per cent present. Door prizes amounting to $80 were given.

Division Winners Division winners were as follows: Accident and fire prevention: Red Oak, Ballards Crossroads, Red Banks, Simpson.

Community drives and campaigns: Red Oak, Red Banks, Ballards Crossroads, Simpson.

Rat campaign: Red Banks, Simpson, Red Oak, Renston-Nobles.

Clean up campaigns: Red Oak, Red Banks, Ballards, Sweet Gum Grove.

Beautification of churches and community buildings: Red Banks, Ballards, Red Oak, Renston-Nobles. Roadside development: Red Oak, Red Banks, Sweet Gum Grove, Timothy.

Cooperation with organized better health measures: Red Oak, Timothy, Red Banks, Simpson. (The Timothy Home Demonstration Club received a special award of $10 for installing 26 bathrooms during the year.)

Community recreational program-actual leadership: Red Banks, Red Oak, Ballards Crossroads, Sweet Gum Grove.

Beautification of homestead: Red Banks, Red Oak, Cannon's Crossroads, Ballards Crossroads.

Family food supply: Cannon's Crossroads, Ballards Crossroads, Red Oak, Littlefield.

Judging Close Judging for the various categories was extremely close, it was announced. One spokesman stated, "It was extremely surprising to note the progress made during the past year in rural Pitt County by these home demonstration clubs."

The contest year ran from June 1, 1956 until June 1 of this year. Serving as judges for the Progress Program were: Miss Lorna Lansley, Northeastern District Home Demonstration Agent of Raleigh; Mrs. Eugenia Van Landingham, Edgemont Home Demonstration Agent; and P. Badger Johnson, general manager of a local automobile agency.

Members of the Steering Committee in charge of planning and coordinating the Progress Program were: Mrs. Russell Britt, Mrs. Lucy Allen, W. T. Kyser, Conner Eagles, Mrs. Lillie Little, Miss Margaret Stevens, Jim Sutton, Claude Goodman, Sam Winchester, Clark Stokes and Ed Harris.

New home demonstration clubs which placed among the winners for the first time in the program's two-year history were: Ballards Crossroads, Sweet Gum Grove, Cannon's Crossroads, and Littlefield. President Sutton cited that much progress and improvement has been shown by these and other participating clubs during the past year.

In winning last year's top honors, the first staged by Farmers Day, Inc., Red Oak took home a total of $280. The runner-up club, Red Banks, won $230. Timothy received $160 to place third.

day that it would, in President Eisenhower's opinion, "defeat the purpose of the legislation."

Rep. Keating (NY), principal Republican handler of the bill, was more cautious. "We have a fight on our hands," he said, "but I believe we will succeed as people realize this legislation would take no rights away from anyone—but that the amendments would add something new to the law."

Chairman Celler (D-NY) of the House Judiciary Committee, one of the sponsors of the bill, predicted it will pass by the end of next week without serious amendment—"If the boys stand by and are assiduous."

House passage would send the civil rights bill to face even deeper entrenched Southern opposition in the Senate.

The House Southerners, virtually unanimous in opposition to the bill, have now used practically all the delaying tactics available, and with considerable success. Supporters had hoped for a vote in February. The Southerners can still try to dilute the bill or to load it with provisions so unpopular among its supporters that it cannot pass.

Particularly formidable to supporters of the measure, is a proposed amendment guaranteeing a jury trial to anyone accused of violating a federal court injunction issued in support of voting for other civil rights. The Senate Judiciary Committee already has voted for such an amendment.

Proponents of the legislation say the amendment would render the bill meaningless because they contend Southern juries would never convict in such cases. But a jury trial guarantee admittedly is a hard provision to vote against.

House Republican Leaders Martin of Massachusetts said a majority of GOP members would oppose the jury trial amendment. He told them at a caucus yesterday at the annual convention in San Francisco. He will be the association's 112th president.

Dr. Gunderson will succeed Dr. David B. Allman, of Atlantic City, N.J., who started his presidential year this week.

The Wisconsin doctor began practice with his father in 1922, and now operates the Gunderson Clinic with three physician brothers, Sigurd B., Alf H. and Thorolf E. Gunderson.

Forces Mobilize Over Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—House managers of civil rights legislation called on their supporters today to attend sessions faithfully so Southerners won't seize a chance to sidetrack or water down the bill.

After clearing preliminaries yesterday, the House today begins four days of formal debate on the measure. Then will come the crucial tests when the bill will be open to amendment.

SIXTEEN DEAD IN N. C. HIGHWAY COLLISION

By BRYAN HANSLIP FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A flat-bed truck filled with migrant farm laborers and a tractor-trailer slammed together in a fiery crash at a road intersection today and killed 16 persons, the State Highway Patrol reported.

The highway patrol said 21 persons were taken to hospitals of this area and 14 of them were in critical condition.

All of the laborers reportedly were Negroes.

Fire that broke out in the truck caused most of the deaths, the State Highway patrol said.

"It looked like a ball of fire," said Joe Lozak of Berwick, Pa., who said the crash in the rear-view mirror of his potato truck. "Men, women and children lying all over the highway. I think the impact killed them, not the fire."

The patrol said 41 laborers, from several states, were aboard the bus which pulled into the path of the tractor-trailer at the intersection of highway 301 and 102, nine miles north of Fayetteville, at 7:15 a.m.

"I didn't count them but one of the boys said he counted 37 (victims) at one time, all laying down, some dead and some injured, some squirming around," said W. H. Covington, operator of a country store near the road crossing.

One laborer said the workers, after camping overnight near Mt. Olive, N.C., were en route to Dunn, N.C., to harvest beans.

Gilbert Robert Peters, 25, of Rt. 2, Watwallopen, Pa., the tractor-trailer driver was slightly hurt. The flat-bed truck driver was among those killed.

Covington, who said he went to the site after "a couple of fellows came to the store to call an ambulance," added: "There was plenty of blood. Some of them (victims) were mangled all up. It was a terrible site."

The scene, about 50 miles south of Raleigh, was one of utmost confusion as the truck blazed, and ambulances sired in among patrol cars and ever-jamming traffic to pick up the victims.

The Highway Patrol reported that 10 of the injured were taken to a hospital in Dunn, 9 to Highsmith Hospital in Fayetteville and 2 to the Cape Fear Valley Hospital in Fayetteville.

Dwight Lockamy, who operates a filling station near Fayetteville, said he came on the scene while coming to work this morning.

"It was a terrible sight," he said. "You couldn't hardly step around there for being on a body under the fire, one in the cab, one lying at the right hand door, one lying at the left hand door, one lying at the left front wheel."

Lockamy said he had met five ambulances before he reached the scene. They apparently were bound for the Dunn hospital.

However, the Highsmith Hospital reported it had received eight patients, and one of these, an unknown baby had died.

The other patients were listed as: Robert Brown, hip injuries; Calvin Milton, head injuries; Frank Beard, arm and head injuries; Horace Burnett, chest and back injuries; Cleveland Taylor, lacerations, leg and hand injuries; unknown man, head injuries and a broken leg.

The hospital said all of these were Negroes.

It also listed as a patient Gilbert Peters, white, from Pennsylvania.

The Betsy Johnson Memorial Hospital at Fayetteville reported it had received 10 persons, all Negroes, and that eight of them were on the critical list. Most of the eight were suffering from fractures and were unconscious.

One of the 10, Willie Solomon, of Florence, S.C., was apparently uninjured but was being held for observation.

The others were listed as: Robert Allen Beaufort, 35, Daytona Beach, Fla.; Gustine French, 32, Georgia; Richard McCrary, 18, Macon, Ga.; Joshua Dykes, 25, Augusta, Ga.; Nathaniel Sharp, Hastings, N.J.; Bobbie Hines, 19 (girl), Fayetteville; Mirnie Hines, Fayetteville; and two unknown.

Lowlands Of 3 States Bracing For Flood Crest

DALLAS (AP)—Bottomland farmers in three states were bracing today for new crests on the flooding Red River, which already is surging at its highest level in 10 years in some areas.

But the Weather Bureau offered the prospect of a letup in the torrential rains that have caused the river to swirl out of its banks along the Texas-Oklahoma boundary and in parts of Arkansas.

Water was roaring three feet deep over the spillway at Denison Dam on sprawling Lake Texoma, largest man-made reservoir in the nation.

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers stepped up its discharge of water from the flooding lake in an effort to control the torrents of water pouring downstream. Resort areas around the lake are under water.

Army engineers announced the level reached 643.14 feet above sea level last night and was still rising. Releases were increased from 91,000 cubic feet per second to 95,000.

dent engineer Charles Solomon at Denison, Tex., said the rate of discharge may be increased to 105,000 to hold the lake at or near the present level. The Red River, carrying torrents of runoff from upstream rains in the past week, was pouring water into the lake at the rate of 107,000 cubic feet per second last night.

Thousands of acres of bottomland along the river, which forms the boundary between Texas and Oklahoma, were under water. Farmers were preparing for a crest by noon Saturday of 30 feet at Indez, Ark., some 15 miles north of Texarkana, Tex.

Civic leaders have estimated damage from the flooding has reached 25 million dollars.

The river swirled out of its banks in the Fulton and Bielop areas in Arkansas yesterday. The area is about 20 miles northeast and southeast of Texarkana, where the Red River makes a huge bend on the Arkansas-Texas line.

John Measel, Miller County, Ark., agriculture agent, said bottomland farmers were evacuating their cattle. He said standing water, although not too deep, had hurt crops.

The Weather Bureau said a low pressure area, which touched off the recent heavy precipitation in northwest Texas and southern Oklahoma, had begun to move slowly eastward at ground level. A spokesman said the movement already had caused the rains to slacken and if it continued to move eastward, the rains would taper off "at least temporarily."

Postpone Meet Of City Council

The City Council will not meet tonight as regularly scheduled. City fathers postponed the meeting until May 13.

Revised Compulsory Auto Liability Bill On 'Brink'

RALEIGH (AP)—An amended bill calling for compulsory auto liability insurance was scheduled for a third reading in the Senate today.

The bill, already passed by the House, must be returned there for concurrence in the Senate amendment if the Senate approves it.

The measure was on the verge of enactment last week when the Senate adopted an amendment which caused the bill to be sent to the Senate Appropriations Committee, where supporters feared it would die.

But, the committee approved the bill yesterday. Before doing so, it amended the measure to provide for an appropriation of $450,000 during the next biennium to administer the compulsory insurance program.

The amendment adopted last week called for an appropriation of $250,000 during the biennium to administer the program.

The committee adopted an amendment by Sen. Roy Rowe of Pender to increase the amount of the appropriation, necessary.

There were varying estimates on the cost of administering the program. Figures from the Motor Vehicles Department were that the cost to that department would be $564,000 for the biennium and $50,000 to the state insurance department.

Rowe said Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt said he "had no idea" what it would cost to administer the program.

Rowe told the committee the bill would bring in more than $450,000 a year in increased revenues through taxes on insurance premiums.

Under the bill, motorists would be required to furnish proof of financial responsibility in event of auto accidents when they went to buy their license plates each year. The proof "would be in the form of either a liability insurance policy, a financial responsibility bond, or a financial responsibility deposit."

Eisenhower Will See Navy Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower goes aboard the new 350-million-dollar supercarrier Saratoga today for a look during Atlantic maneuvers at the Navy's atomic age air and sea power.

The President, accompanied by three Cabinet officers and other top administration officials, arranged an early departure by plane for Mayport Naval Base near Jacksonville, Fla.

Eisenhower will be aboard the 60,000-ton carrier until early tomorrow afternoon, when he will go ashore at the Mayport base and fly back to Washington.

The Saratoga is planning both daylight and after-dark spectacular demonstrations for the President 60 to 100 miles off the Florida east coast.

The schedule includes an exhibition of aircraft techniques used in the firing of atomic and conventional weapons, the launching of three types of guided missiles, and a demonstration of antisubmarine warfare tactics.

The training exercises arranged for today call for concentration on offense, to show the striking power of the supercarrier and its aircraft. Tomorrow the emphasis will be on air defense.

This is the final stage of the Saratoga's "training up" for deployment soon to the Mediterranean, where she will join the U. S. 6th Fleet on patrol duty.

In the presidential party are Secretary of Defense Wilson; Secretary of State Dulles; Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey; Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; Secretary of the Navy Gates; Arthur Larson, chief of the U. S. Information Agency; Budget Director Percival Brundage; Gordon Gray, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization; Eisenhower's son John, an Army major assigned temporarily to the White House; and several White House staff members.

Joining up on the Saratoga were Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, and Rear Adm. Robert B. Pirie, commander of the Saratoga task group of warships.

Heart Victim

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—Waldo Clayton Cheek, 44, president of Skyland Life Insurance Co. and former state commissioner of insurance, died here today of a heart attack.

The Mecklenburg County Democratic leader was pronounced dead on arrival at a Charlotte hospital.

He fell on a street a half block from his office about 10 a.m.

Cheek, prominently mentioned as a possible future candidate for governor, is survived by his wife, the former Evelyn King, and a son, Neal King Cheek, a junior high school student here.

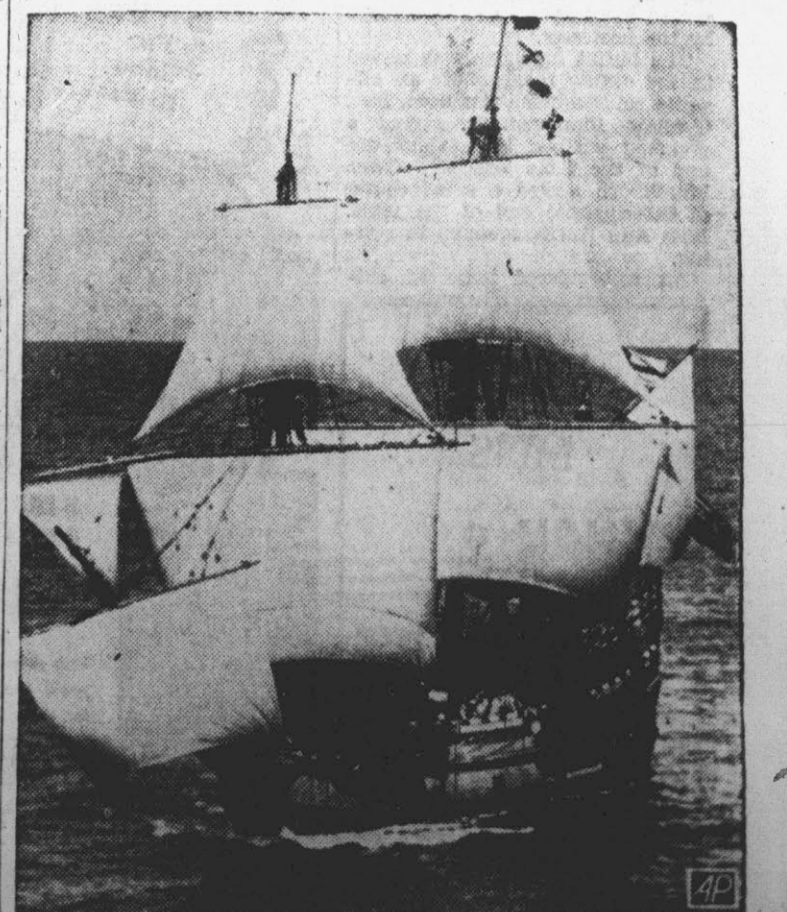

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Watermelon Comes Early This Year

Hope Alexiades, 11 months old, tries an early watermelon at Wheeling, W. Va., and finds it to her liking. Of course we don't know for certain, but it's a pretty good bet that this melon came from Florida or south Georgia. The watermelon marketing season is off to an early start this year. Mayflower II Nearing America

This picture of the Mayflower II, en route from England to Plymouth, Mass., was made from the French liner SS Antilles off Puerto Rico. Reaping the benefit of a stiff wind, the replica of the Pilgrim fathers' ship was about 200 miles southwest of Bermuda Wednesday. Commander Alan Villiers, skipper of the little sailing vessel, radioed that he was steering in a northwesterly direction and had increased the ship's speed from four to five knots an hour. Sen. Johnson Claims Bipartisan Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said today Congress is cutting President Eisenhower's budget in a "bipartisan" way and he hopes the administration doesn't "inject politics into this matter."

About 300 Republicans, representing all the states, gathered, meanwhile, for a two-day strategy conference at which the administration spending program is certain to be the principal topic.

Johnson, Senate Democratic leader, spoke out in reply to President Eisenhower's news conference reference jibe at opposition party spends.

Eisenhower said yesterday those who complain about his $71,801,000,000 budget ought to think about how much higher spending would be if budgets like that submitted by President Truman in 1953 were projected into the future.

Eisenhower said the people ought to get the "actual facts" instead of merely listening to partisan speeches.

Johnson said he couldn't find anything "partisan" about the way Congress has reduced Eisenhower's requests for new money.

"We have treated the Eisenhower budget just as we would have treated a Truman budget or a Roosevelt budget," Johnson said.

"I hope the administration doesn't inject politics into this matter."

Sen. Knowland of California, Republican leader, said in a separate interview he remains firmly convinced that the budget ought to be cut. He said he expects "quite a bit of discussion" of the matter at the Republican national conference sessions.

The conference of Republicans will talk over party finances, administration policies and strategy for the 1958 congressional campaign. Eisenhower will address the group at its closing session tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. L. W. Topping To Leave For S. C.

(Reflector Photo)

MRS. LEONARD TOPPING . . .
 . . . packing and arranging linens for trip.

BY ANNE SINGLETON
 Reflector Woman's Editor

An active leader not only in church work but in civic projects in the community, Mrs. Leonard Topping has many regrets about leaving Greenville which has been her home for approximately ten years.

"Greenville has been home to us and we have put our roots down deep and it is just like pulling our heart strings to leave," she noted.

Her husband, the Rev. Leonard Topping, has served as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church for the past ten years. He has recently resigned his pastorate here to become associate pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Spartanburg, S. C., in July.

This attractive, energetic woman has followed a busy schedule while living in Greenville. For two years she served as president of the American Home Department of the Woman's Club and on several other committees in conjunction with the club's work.

She also held the office of president of the Chatham Book Club and is a member of the Greenville Garden Club. Mrs. Topping was an active member of the Wahl-Coates and Greenville High School P. T. A.'s for several years.

A few of the offices she has held in the church are Circle Bible teacher, chairman of Spiritual Growth of the Women of the Church and for seven years she has been second vice president of the Women of the Church.

Working with the young people of the church, Mrs. Topping has been Superintendent of the Youth Division of the Sunday School.

She notes, "My greatest enjoyment and the work that has brought me real pleasure was being Adult Advisor of the Westminster Fellowship, the Presbyterian college group, which has met in my home each week for worship and supper."

Another outstanding office that she has held for the past two years is chairman of World Missions for the Women of the Church of Albemarle Presbytery, which includes 53 organized groups in Eastern North Carolina.

"One of the real joys of being a minister's wife is visiting in the homes of the members and newcomers in the city and sharing in the pastoral work with my husband," she declared.

Although the Toppings' two children, Wesley and Ruth Evelyn, have grown up in Greenville and the family has spent memorable years here, Mrs. Topping is looking forward to moving into the seven room split-level home they will live in in Spartanburg until the church can build them a manse.

They will be living out in the residential section of town, which is quite a distance from the heart of Spartanburg, she explained. "I wrote that I would have to learn to drive, so now my 16 year old son, Wesley, is teaching me to drive after all these years," she laughingly said.

All 23 years of the Toppings' church work has been served in North Carolina except for three years in Georgia.

Mrs. Topping paused a moment then said that she believes her life has been a rich one because she believes, "The greatest contribution any woman can make is to make a happy home and to be the inspiration of her husband and her children."

Mrs. Graham Flanagan Honored By Luncheon

Mrs. Graham Flanagan, III, recent bride, was honored by Mrs. A. C. Ruffin and Mrs. C. C. Skinner at a three-course luncheon yesterday given in the home of Mrs. Skinner.

Massive arrangements of mixed summer flowers were used throughout the home.

The hostesses, the honoree, and Mrs. Graham Flanagan Jr. received the 22 guests at the front door, inviting them into the den where tomato juice and hors d'oeuvres were served.

The honoree, wearing a beige silk suit with a black picture hat and black accessories, was presented a miniature orchid corsage by the hostesses.

The buffet luncheon was served in the dining room where an all-white color scheme was used. Mrs. Graham Flanagan, C. C. Skinner, a creamed seafood dish from one end of the table and Mrs. Owen Marshburn served a salad course at the opposite end of the table. Miss Ann Ruffin assisted in serving.

Mrs. Reid Perkins left this morning for Beaufort to attend a reception honoring the Rev. and Mrs. Ed Sharp.

Miss Mamie Chandler and Miss Margaret Rose Powell left Wednesday night for Lake Junaluska to attend the Leadership Training Conference of the Methodist Student Movement, June 6-13. Miss Chandler will be the adult leader of a Bible Study group and will also be the representative of the Woman's Division of Christian Service at this Conference. Miss Powell will leave on June 11 for Scarritt College, Nashville, Tenn., to attend the Training Center for the Methodist Youth Caravan and will serve as a member of a Caravan Team for six weeks this summer.

Open House

The Pactolus Baptist Church will have an open house Sunday from 4-6 p.m. to honor the Rev. and Mrs. Don Phillips, who were married May 31. Friends of the church are invited.

Dinner Party Fetes Brides, Bride-Elect

Miss Hannah Proctor, bride-elect, was honored at a buffet dinner Tuesday by Joe Taft Jr. and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Taft, at their home on East Fifth Street.

Wearing a white mum corsage given to her upon arrival by the hosts, Miss Proctor and Joe Taft Jr. greeted guests at the door.

Mr. and Mrs. Judson Blount Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Graham Flanagan Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Evans were also honor guests. Each of the recent brides received corsages of white mums.

Mixed summer flower arrangements adorned the living room, while in the dining room peonies, daisies, carnations, and baby's breath were placed. The mantel held an arrangement of gladioli.

Candles were placed throughout the home where pink was used as the predominant color.

Miss Ann Taft, sister of the host, served fruit juice cocktails before the buffet dinner was served.

Centering the auxiliary tables, placed in the living room, den, and porch was a bowl of gardenias. Mrs. J. Knott Proctor and Mrs. Hoover Taft assisted with serving the chicken dinner.

The hosts and hostess presented the honoree and honored guests with crystal and gold trim bulb vases as honor gifts.

Dr. Kathleen Stokes Participating In Roundtable Talks

Dr. Kathleen E. Stokes, faculty member of the East Carolina College department of social studies, is participating this week in Durham, June 5-8, in a round-table conference on Far Eastern Affairs. The event is sponsored by Duke University and the American Assembly, which was established by President Eisenhower.

Dr. Stokes will leave Durham July 9 for two weeks of research work at Harvard University. Her study will deal with conditions in Africa.

She is one of 45 people from the southeastern states who were invited to attend the Duke conference. With representatives of business, labor, government, and education, she will participate in discussions of "The Relationships of the United States and the Far East." A number of specialists on Far Eastern Affairs will appear as speakers on the program.

A white gladioli arrangement was placed on a serving table.

Goodbyes were said by the hostesses.

Memo To Brides

Want Big Wedding? Better Start Saving

(Editor's Note: This is the tenth in a series of articles written for the world's darling—the bride.)
 A June wedding, traditionally the fanciest as well as the most romantic, can cost quite a bit of money—and someone has to foot the bill.

About all it really takes to get married of course is a license. Most weddings, however, regardless of the date, cost so much that even though you're heading for a wedding as far ahead as June of next year, it may be a good idea for you to get started now on your financial preparations for the big event.

And these preparations should, in most cases, include a program of systematic saving.

Since wedding costs are usually shared, it's important for everyone involved to know who's responsible for what, and to have some idea of the amount of money to be set aside or saved in order to avoid any last-minute embarrassment.

The bride's family, customarily, bears the largest share of the expense. Specifically, it is responsible for the invitations and announcements; clothes for the bride, groom's ring if he is to get one (there's a trend in this direction); gifts and corsages for the bridesmaids; church expenses of organist, soloist, sexton; reception refreshments and flowers; and photographs.

The groom's family, as its contribution, takes care of the bride's ring; clothes for the groom; gifts for attendants; flowers for the bride and for both mothers and grandmothers; boutonnières for the men, marriage license; and gift for the clergyman.

While there's no limit to what can be spent on a wedding, here are a few average costs as reported by the family-finance experts of the American Bankers Association.

A "small" church wedding, limited to the immediate family, with home reception, costs the bride's family about $200, the groom's family $50.

An "average" church wedding, with reception at the church for about 150 guests, costs the bride's family about $750, the groom's $200.

The de luxe affair, with reception at hotel or country club and virtually an unlimited number of guests, will cost the bride's family at least $3000 (more, of course, if it gets very elaborate), and $500 for the groom's.

When it comes to the honeymoon, the financing of course is up to the groom, and as with the wedding, the amount spent can be as little or as much as one desires.

The bride, though, must also figure on some expenses incidental to the honeymoon—such as the cost of new luggage and special clothes she may need for travel or resort wear.

Smart couples, it should be added, carry their financial planning well beyond the wedding and honeymoon. Instead of spending all their money at once, they recognize the need of getting a good start on their savings for such things as home furnishings, appliances, down payment on a new home—and a visit from the stork!

Don't Believe Fairy Tales

By DOROTHY ROE
 AP Women's Editor

The girl who sits and waits for her one and only to come riding on a white charger—or a red sports car—and whirl her away to live happily ever after may have a long wait.

She'll do much better to revise her ideals to fit the material at hand, says Samuel G. Kings, well-known marriage counselor, in his new book "How to Win and Hold a Mate."

"Many girls believe that somewhere there exists the one, the only man with whom they can live happily," he writes. "Believing in fate, they patiently await the moment when their predestined lover will appear. This is a beautiful theory, but it doesn't square with the facts."

"The truth is that there are probably thousands of men a woman can fall in love with and live with happily ever afterward . . . Of course, there may be only one good prospect within the range of a girl's circle. In this sense there can be a 'one and only' person for her. But if she moves to a different city or enlarged her group of friends and acquaintances, her range of choice would increase."

"What actually happens is that two people have certain ideas about an ideal mate. They meet and fall in love. Once in love, each revamps the ideal to fit the other person, and then each believes he has found the 'ideal.' Kings' book includes advice on dating, how to become more popular, love after 40, in-laws, infidelity, jealousy and most other problems of love and marriage.

Kings lists as bad marriage risks the following types of men: (1) The egotist, who never can really be in love with anyone but himself; (2) The idealist, whose ideal woman could exist only in his imagination—no flesh-and-blood female could measure up; (3) The mama's boy, who marries only to get another mother.

Kings warns girls against marrying bachelors over 35. He holds that there must be something wrong with a man who has escaped matrimony that long, and even if he has no discernible vices or failings he's probably so set in his ways that he would be impossible to live with.

Mrs. Hart, Mr. Casey Bridge Club Winners

GRIFTON—Mrs. Hubert Owens was guest of honor when Mrs. David Parker entertained at bridge at her home on McRae Street.

In the living room, bouquets of petunias and hollyhocks were placed throughout the house.

Three tables were placed for bridge and during the games Mrs. Edward Hart and Don Casey were highest scorers.

Mrs. Owens, who will be leaving soon, was remembered with linen. Apple pie a la mode with coffee was served at the refreshment hour.

Mrs. Wooten Speaks On Rock Gardens

GRIFTON—The Hoe and Hope Garden Club met on Thursday night at the park community building with Mrs. John Wooten presiding during the business session.

A certificate awarded the club for the year's work and achievement by the N. C. Federation of Garden Clubs was displayed. Mrs. Wooten, outgoing president, thanked all the club members for their loyalty and cooperation during the year's work.

Mrs. Cecil Wooten of the Kinston Garden Club was guest speaker, using as her subject rock gardens and borders.

Mrs. McDonald Weatherington and Mrs. E. B. Bright were hostesses for the evening and served light refreshments.

TO RECEIVE DEGREE NEW YORK—David McKenzie Clark of 407 Holly Street, Greenville, N. C., is among the candidates for a bachelor of law degree to be presented today at New York University.

If you want delicate curls of unsweetened chocolate with which to decorate that cream pie, use a swivel-blade vegetable peeler for making them. Nice for a vanilla-and-banana, coffee or chocolate cream pie.

Pie In The Sky Angel Style

HEAVENLY EATING—This Angelwing pie is light and fluffy as a summer cloud.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
This angelwing pie was designed for mere mortals, but it's heavenly eating.

Prepare a pie shell of thin rich pastry for the crust. Then follow our directions for making the light-as-air Bavarian-type filling. Top the pie with fresh strawberries and finish with a light glaze. Add a fluff of whipped cream and some whole berries and serve for dessert at a supper party when you want to put your best foot forward.

This dessert should really be called All-Summer-Long Pie because you can substitute other seasonal fruits for the strawberries. Fresh raspberries make a delicious topping for it; so do sliced fresh peaches.

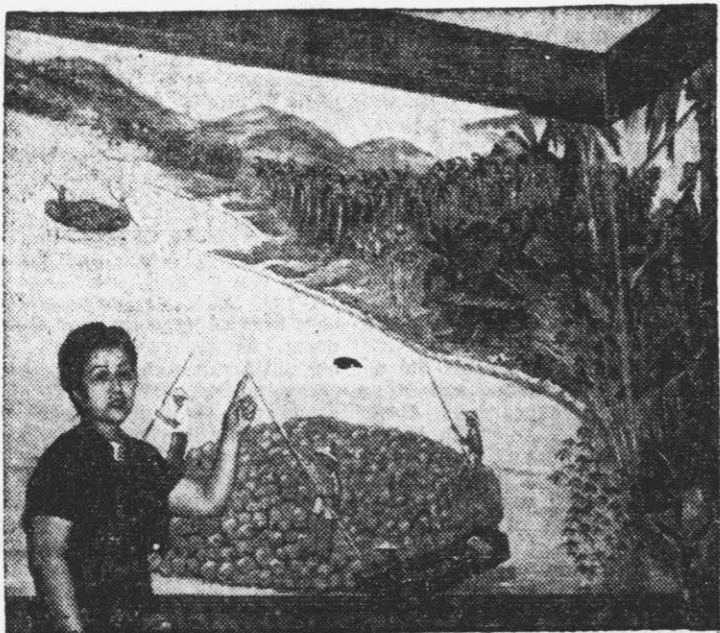

ANGELWING PIE

Ingredients: 2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin, 2 tablespoons cold water, 2-3 cup sugar, 1/2 cup water, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 egg whites, 1 cup heavy cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 9-inch baked pie shell, 3 cups sliced fresh strawberries, 1-3 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons cornstarch, 6 whole unappared strawberries.

Method: Sprinkle gelatin over the 2 tablespoons cold water in a custard cup to soften. Place cup in pan of very hot (but not boiling) water until melted. Put the 2-3 cup sugar, 1/2 cup water and lemon juice in a small saucepan—a 3-cup size is fine. Stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved; cook without stirring to soft ball stage (236 degrees on candy thermometer). Remove from heat. Add salt to egg whites and beat with rotary beater (hand or electric) until they form peaks that droop over slightly when beater is slowly withdrawn. Gradually beat in hot cooked syrup and dissolved gelatin. (If gelatin has thickened place custard cup in a small container of simmering water and stir until fairly thin again.) Beat 3-4 cup of the cream and fold into egg white mixture with the vanilla. Turn into pie shell. Chill until firm. About 2 hours before serving, mix sliced strawberries with 1-3 cup sugar; let stand at room temperature for half an hour. Drain off juice and reserve. Spread berries over top of pie. If there is not 1/2 cup of strawberry juice, add cold water to it to make that amount. Put cornstarch in a small saucepan; gradually add strawberry juice, stirring to keep smooth. Stir constantly over moderately low heat until boiling and clear. Cool slightly and spoon berries over pie. Chill until top is set. Beat remaining 1-4 cup cream (sweetened with a little confectioner's sugar if desired) and garnish the pie with it and the whole unappared berries. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Note: A quart basket of strawberries (sweetened with a little amount for this dessert).

Ambassador's Wife Does Mural For Philippine Embassy

RIVER OF MEMORY—An art student for only a little more than a year, Mrs. Carlos P. Romulo, wife of the Philippines ambassador, proudly displays the mural she painted for the newly re-decorated embassy. The scene is reminiscent of the colorful riverbanks near her former home.

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Carlos Romulo, wife of the Philippine ambassador, has taken me from top to bottom of the renovated embassy, pointing out as proudly as any woman with her own home the many changes she had brought about in the past several months.

Workmen were putting on finishing touches. Delivery men were arriving and straightaway began straightening a picture. He surveyed the nearly completed job with satisfaction.

"You are the first to see what's been done," he reminded me—and still a newspaper man at heart (he used to be an editor of the Philippines Herald)—"You have a scoop. Most everyone else in Washington will have to wait until the Fourth of July, when we have our own big annual Independence Day party."

The Philippine room, one of the outstanding features of the remodeled embassy, will be ready by then, he added. It is paneled with native wood called "dao," and leading Philippine artists have been asked to submit sketches for a huge mural depicting the country's history and culture. Another feature is a Filipino bar on the second floor across the wide reception hall from an exquisite French drawing room.

Representatives of the Baptist Student Union at East Carolina College are participating this week and next in the program offered at the Baptist Assembly at Ridgecrest in western North Carolina. Students from schools throughout the South are attending the meeting.

Nine women students make up the group from East Carolina. They are Martha Underhill, Selma; Eva; Ann Coburn, Robersonville; Mary Cauley, Fort Barnwell; Patricia Lewis, Smithfield; Beverly Riggs, Cove City; Clarice Merritt, Chapel Hill; and Sarah Upchurch, Carolyn Tripp, and Joanna Hardee, Greenville.

Never waste the brown residue that sticks to the skillet when you are cooking chicken in a small amount of fat. After the chicken pieces are removed, add a little liquid to the pan and stir and scrape (with a wooden spoon) over a low heat to dissolve the residue. Then strain and use as natural gravy, or thicken for a regular gravy or sauce.

Poor Basis For Evaluating A Bill

The questionable practice of traditional "legislative courtesy" in determining matters which affect the people of any community in North Carolina was pointed out vividly during this final week of the 1957 General Assembly.

There were really two issues at stake when the Senate killed a bill which would have allowed an election in the town of Wilkesboro on the question of legalizing ABC liquor stores. One was this thing called "legislative courtesy". The other was the matter of what has been called "home rule" for the counties and municipalities of the state.

The particular bill in question had been introduced in the House by the Republican representative from Wilkes County. In the Senate, however, the Republican Senator from Wilkes asked his colleagues to kill the bill through "legislative courtesy" to him since he was opposed to it. Members of the Senate did just that by a vote of 33 to 1.

Obviously there are factors of much more importance in the consideration of proposed legislation than "legislative courtesy". Certainly this "legislative courtesy" forms no sound basis for determining the merits of any proposal which comes before either house of the General Assembly. Members of the General Assembly are elected not only to represent the people of their own home counties, but to speak for all the people of North Carolina. Their duty is not merely to their colleagues in the legislature and the citizens in their home county, but to all the people of North Carolina.

It is indeed a dangerous thing for North Carolina for its laws to be enacted on the basis of "legislative courtesy" rather than on the basis of the merits of the individual proposals.

Equally perilous so far as the welfare of local government is concerned, is the tight rein which the legislature holds on purely local matters which should be determined locally either by elective officials or by the people themselves.

It shouldn't be necessary for the people of a city or county to have permission from the legislature to vote on a matter which is purely local in nature. It should not be necessary for counties to have to gain the approval of the legislature before they can raise salaries of certain employees and officials or take action on a hundred other routine matters which could better be handled by the local government.

North Carolina's local governments desperately needs more autonomy in determining their course in matters of purely local nature. The sooner they can throw off some of the fetters which bind them to the will of individual members of the legislature the better off they will be.

Fitting Tribute To A Life Of Dedication

It is a fitting tribute to a man who has contributed so much to Greenville's public schools that the new high school here be named the Junius H. Rose High School.

The proposal of the Board of Trustees of the Greenville City Schools to name the new high school in honor of the man who has been superintendent of the school system for more than three decades is indeed appropriate. More than any other individual in the past quarter century, Mr. Rose has been instrumental in building in Greenville a school system which compares favorably with those throughout North Carolina.

More than any other individual his life has been dedicated to providing for the young people of this community the best possible public education.

Since 1919 he has devoted his untiring efforts to the Greenville city schools. Through years of depression and prosperity, through periods of unprecedented growth, through years of increasingly complex problems of administering the affairs of public schools, Mr. Rose has afforded sound leadership for better schools in Greenville. He has coped with seemingly unresolvable problems at times to promote the welfare of the schools and thereby the welfare of the youth of this community.

The Reflector adds its hearty endorsement to the proposal that the new high school be named in honor of J. H. Rose. A more fitting name for the school could not be found. Certainly there is no person in this community who is more deserving of the honor of having the school bear his name.

Stormy Going For Retailers

By ELMER ROESSNER
Retailers, particularly operators of the smaller stores, "have been going through a stormy period which may well reach the stage of catastrophe for many of them in 1957 and 1958," Victor Lebow, eminent marketing consultant, writes in the spring issue of New York University's Journal of Retailing.

"The steady increase in the total number of retail stores has masked the precarious existence of most of them lead," Mr. Lebow states in his grim analysis.

"A retail store that opens today has only a 74 per cent chance of survival beyond its first half year of existence. Only 49 per cent can pass the two-and-one-half year mark. As for those who can expect to be in business 10 years from now, only 17 per cent will make it," MMRS. Lebow writes and, in italics, adds: "The plain fact is that the average retailer exists in an atmosphere of disaster."

CAUSE OF TROUBLE
There are many reasons cited. One reason is the fact that families with incomes above subsistence levels are moving toward the suburbs and most city retailers are unable to move with them. Meanwhile, income is not rising fast enough to keep up with the rising flood of merchandise.

Another factor is that manufacturers are increasing their domination of retailers. With advertising they control public demand and, to the extent they can under tottering "fair trade" laws, they dictate margins. A food store, the consultant points out, can carry any brands of soup it wants but it must also carry Campbell's because of the demand created by advertising; a drugstore can carry any brands of aspirin it wants, but it had better carry Bayer's too; a department store carries many makes of dresses but, if it can get it, it is almost imperative to carry the Jonathan Logan line.

Meanwhile, he points out that a small proportion of retailers are getting a larger share of business. Supermarkets, representing only 7.2 per cent of all food stores, do close to 60 per cent of total volume and superettes, less than 20 per cent of the stores in number, do 26.4 per cent of the volume. The small stores, 73.6 in number, do 26.4 per cent of the volume. The small stores, 73.6 in number, do 26.4 per cent of the volume. The small stores, 73.6 in number, do 26.4 per cent of the volume.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
AVOID THE DAY OF GRIEF
The story of Gideon found in the Book of Judges, Chapters 6 through 8, is one of the most stirring and inspiring in the Old Testament.

This Gideon ushered in a new era in the life of Hebrew tribesmen by rebelling against the idolatry to which, either through force or choice, they had submitted. In fact Gideon, the father of Gideon was one of the chief idolaters, and he had built an idol right in his own back yard and had gone all out for idolatry, forsaking the true religion of his forefathers. Gideon destroyed the idol, vindicated his family's honor, and returned his tribesmen to the worship of the one true God.

Briefly stated and applied to modern times, there are many parents today who have gone all out for idolatry. Their children are basically better than they are. Down under the skin the kids wince at liquor served in the living room and at quiet high parties which parents sometimes give. Furthermore, they despise the hypocrisy of parents who are pious on Sunday and slightly less than pious the rest of the week. And they don't like short cuts in business and white lies either.

So watch out, Mr. and Mrs. Gideon. Young Gideon and his brothers and sisters may not like the pangs of their parents and their parents' friends. You could easily be building up for yourself a day of much grief.

"Tight Money"

By EVERETTE PARKER

A Letter From Home Helps

It is a general procedure for the United States Army before a soldier gets out of service to call the individual in and try to get him to re-enlist.

Now this is practical because it takes the government a long time to teach the young raw boy that nothing else in the whole wide world matters except the service. You are supposed to think, eat, sleep and drink nothing but service.

Now this last word, drink... you know I, in my brief tenure in the army have seen many that didn't think, eat or sleep. They drank. Sitting here at my desk I think of my old First Sergeant. That old-looking man, he was at least 26, could... But this is neither here or there

As I was saying three short paragraphs ago, the service always wants a good man to stay in. I say this seriously because it costs the government a great deal of money to train men how to drink.

Well just before I was to get out... my commanding officer called me in and wanted me to re-enlist. Didn't want the old boy to feel bad, so I said I would consider his kind and generous offer. (He told me he would guarantee that I would be sent to Newfoundland for four years if I would just put my name on the dotted line.)

A short time later the writer got another call, this time to Personnel. Now this is the place where a whole bunch of Sergeants sit around, drink coffee, smoke cigarettes, laugh, talk and always have a good word for the married man whose wife has just had a baby and doesn't want to go to Korea or points as far North and South as he can be sent.

I went on up to see what the boys were doing or thinking about doing. As soon as I came in, one old Army man spied me and asked me over to his desk and called me to have a seat. "I want to talk to you real serious-like," he said.

At that time I only had about a month to go before my two-year hitch would be up. Serious? Boy, I didn't have a serious thought in my head, but nevertheless I went along with the old boy.

He said, with a tear in his old bloodshot eye, "Son I see by your records that you MIGHT be leaving us in the near future."

"Yes sir," I replied.

"Well son, I am going to give you a break, we can arrange for you to stay with us for at least another 20 or 30 years... and not only that you might get a raise in a few years," the Sergeant said, and I knew he meant it.

He went on to tell me that the world outside the service was not the way I had left it... that it was now mighty hard to get along in. (In the back of my mind I knew this was not so because I knew a lot of citizen civilians who were living like kings while I crawled on my

Rousing Fight Looms

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — It will mean a rousing — maybe an historic — court fight if angry senators make good their threat to test whether anyone has the right to use the Fifth Amendment as Dave Beck Jr. used it Tuesday.

The Constitution's Fifth Amendment says a man can't be compelled to give evidence which might incriminate him. That was Beck's excuse for refusing 130 times to answer questions by the Senate Rackets Committee.

But the way a witness — before a congressional committee or a federal grand jury — invokes the amendment to duck questions can be pretty tricky-business. The Supreme Court has given various rulings, for and against people who used this amendment, depending on how they did it.

Young Beck even went to the extent of using, the amendment to avoid saying he knew his own father, Dave Beck Sr., president of the Teamsters Union, who earlier had made a similar across-the-board use of the Fifth Amendment.

And young Beck's cousin Joseph McEvoy questioned on the same day did the same as the Becks. Incensed senators accused the cousins of misusing the amendment.

Committee Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) was so sore he said: "I think we've got to find out — and I know of no way to find out except to place it before a court — who is right in this procedure. If... the courts sustain your position, then America is in great danger."

He ordered his staff to start the machinery for a test. This would require first a congressional citation of the younger Beck for contempt. Then if indicted he'd face a court trial. If convicted he would, no doubt, go up to the Supreme Court for a ruling.

A man can't use the Fifth Amendment to avoid answering questions which might incriminate someone else. He can use it only for his own protection. That's already settled. But this is where the trouble begins.

He can't, just as it suits him, answer some questions but not others. When employing the amendment against a specific question, he must have reason to believe an answer to that specific question might lead to his undoing.

On the other hand if he answers one incriminating question, he can't then start ducking behind the amendment to avoid answering others. The Supreme Court has already ruled on that in the case of a Colorado woman.

A federal grand jury there was investigating the Communist party. She admitted she was the party treasurer and kept its records. She answered that much freely. Then she was asked to whom she had turned over the books.

She took the Fifth Amendment. She was given four months in jail for contempt. The Supreme Court upheld her conviction, ruling her first answers were incriminating. Once she started answering incriminating questions, the court said, she couldn't then start using the amendment to avoid answering others.

That was in 1951. Justice Black dissenting from the majority opinion, said this decision created a dilemma for witnesses in the future.

They might find themselves held in contempt if they invoked the amendment too soon — that is, against questions later considered nonincriminating by a court — or might lose the amendment's protection if they answered a single question.

In the case of the two Becks and McEvoy — a highly tangled affair that involves income taxes, use or misuse of union funds, perhaps conspiracies — their lawyers seemed to think the only safe course was to plead the Fifth Amendment against almost every single question.

Other Editors Saying-- National Publicity

(Wilson Times)

The six day Tarheel excursion for the out-of-state editors of leading publications proved a most successful junket. This was planned by the Governor and the N.C. Press association to publicize our state.

And the editors' reaction was what we would have predicted, that is that we have a great state, but it has not had the publicity it deserves.

The Department of Conservation and Development did a superlative job in preparing and executing the trip for the editors. The brochure to cover itinerary was complete, to the last detail. In it were interesting pictures of this state that extends from the mountains to the coast, and is as large as many European nations.

With an industry minded Governor and a Department of Conservation and Development staffed with our best talent, we can go far. Ray Erwin, feature editor of Editor and Publisher, newspapers trade journal, says this state needs wider public appreciation of its facilities, particularly in shipping, recreation and education.

Mr. Erwin thinks the state should "do all it can to introduce itself as it did on the tour." He would stress the variety vacationland and as a home for new industry of all types.

North Carolina is getting national publicity and we will get more, as time goes on. Recent articles appearing in out of state magazines and newspapers show what progress we are making in publicizing our state with its unlimited resources.

Christian Science Monitor recently carried an article on North Carolina's leadership in contemporary school design. Life is just beginning to be felt. North Carolina papers should use more material of this type. For we are on the threshold of a new era for this state. And nothing can stop its growth if we all pull together to advertise what nature has given us in such abundance.

Robert Meyer Jr., is coming out with a new travel guide, "Low Cost Trips for the Whole Family" that describes vacation attractions from the mountains to the coast.

Saturday Evening Post has a picture of the Great Smokies for its "Face of America" photo feature of April 6. Charm magazine feature spring attractions in North Carolina in its April issue, and the Lost Colony in May.

Better Homes and Gardens magazine has a feature article on the Outer Banks in the May issue. The whole North Carolina coast got a good play in the April issue of Redbook.

Parade magazine, May 5 number, also takes the Outer Banks for a travel feature. Coronet has a feature in the May issue on pony penning at Cedar Island and Cape Lookout.

NBC Monitor programs did a series on Ocracoke and the legend of Blackbeard in April and early May. American Heritage carried a feature on pirates, with beautiful color illustrations, that gave much space to North Carolina legends of famous pirates.

Among the metropolitan dailies carrying News Bureau releases in the last few weeks were the Chicago Tribune, Cincinnati Post, Cleveland Plain Dealer, Indianapolis Times, Wilmington (Del.) Journal, New York Mirror, Cincinnati Times-Star, Pittsburgh Press, New York World Telegram and Sun, Washington Daily News, Baltimore Sun, and several others.

A new book, "The Living Past of America," by Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., carries photos of historic sites and buildings of North Carolina.

The state is making national headlines. And the results are just beginning to be felt. North Carolina papers should use more material of this type. For we are on the threshold of a new era for this state. And nothing can stop its growth if we all pull together to advertise what nature has given us in such abundance.

Kremlin Watching Arms Debate

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON The Russian Embassy's most popular reading today is the House Appropriations Subcommittee's report on National Defense funds and preparations for war, especially the Navy and Air Force items. Copies rushed to the Kremlin during Harold E. Stassen's disarmament negotiations lie behind their charges that the United States is a "warmongering nation."

Every questioning Committee member and every Pentagon spokesman discussed the strength of our Army, Navy and Air Force in terms of a conflict with Russia, and possibly Communist China. All our planning for defensive or offensive war fare is predicated on a clash with those two nations. There is no other enemy in sight.

"WE CAN'T TRUST RUSSIANS" The Navy's thinking and calculations concerning such a conflict serve to explain Admiral Arthur

W. Radford's blunt and anti-Stassen statement that "We can't trust the Russians on anything." He expressed the general Pentagon viewpoint, and possibly President Eisenhower's. The two men are extremely close in their thought.

However, there is some comfort from a detailed study of the Pentagon mind. They doubt if Russia will dare provoke World War III because of the vulnerability of the Soviet land mass to NATO-ringed firing posts and atomic centers. And they fix 1970 as the first year when Russia might be able to match the Western powers on land, on the water and in the air.

Admiral Radford, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was really responsible for the new agreement under which the U.S. shall furnish Britain with secret data about our atomic-powered submarine, the Nautilus and sister ships.

RUSSIAN UNDER WATER WAR CRAFT In all this comprehensive testimony about possible war with Russia, much of which had to be "off the record," our greatest fear are Russian submarines and their mine-laying expertise. In event of a World War III, they will rely on those devices to accomplish what neither the Kaiser nor Hitler were able to do — namely, to prevent the United States from shipping fighting men, food and weapons to our European and Pacific allies.

The Russians now have 450 large and seaworthy submarines, according to our best estimates. They are equipped to launch atomic bombs and guided missiles that could hit our great manufacturing centers as far inland as Pittsburgh, provided that they can break through our shore and offshore wall of defense.

Hitler had only 57 U-boats when he brought on World War II. And yet, he almost starved and strangled Britain in the years before the United States entered the war. Churchill begged F.D.R. with tears for those 50 destroyers which we gave him in exchange for permanent bases in Canadian and Caribbean waters.

NATO ALLIES ANTI-SUBMARINE FLEET The Russian "sub threat" is admittedly serious. However, according to Pentagon testimony, the NATO allies have an anti-submarine fleet which can match the Russians'. We are providing radar and sonar detection devices to the Italians, Greeks, French and Turks in the Mediterranean.

Under the new Nautilus pact, we will strengthen our NATO friends in the North Sea. Our Sixth Fleet patrols Oriental waters, with a watchful eye on the Soviet naval base at Vladivostok.

In short, although the Russian under-water menace is serious and threatening, we have made preparations with our Allies, according to Pentagon witnesses, to bottle them up before they can sail to the open seas and harass Allied shipping.

School Library Is Moved By Pupils

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Staff Writer

Moving day in schools is usually reserved for transfer of pupils from one grade to another. It seldom involves wholesale movement of property in one building to another. Traditional expansion of school systems involves the process of using new facilities to supplement existing ones, and new facilities are usually equipped throughout with new necessary material.

Transfer of senior high school functions to Greenville's new building in Brookgreen involves many of the traditional concepts. The new building will have new fixtures in it. Everything possible is being done to make it one of the most modern, up-to-date school units in the entire state.

There is one part of the new building, however, that will contain material familiar to students who move in next September. The new library will be stocked with many of the same materials that have filled the needs of GHS students for many years.

The library materials were moved about two weeks ago. The movement was staged as if it were a military maneuver, but behind the clockwork proceedings was a lot of work.

There are about 6,000 bound volumes in the library. In addition, there is an information file of newspaper and magazine clippings; and copies of approximately 40 magazines with complete files of issues dating back to early 1950. There are, in addition to the reading materials, other objects such as book ends, various pieces of art and related materials.

Before a single piece of the material was moved from the old building, Mrs. Margaret B. Farley, librarian, grouped and numbered related articles. The small groups of materials were arranged chronologically, in the order in which they were to be placed in the new library.

Students were recruited to assist in the movement of the small groups of materials. With their assigned material, the students were picked up at the old high school, transported to the new high school and directed to the spot where the materials they carried were to be placed.

The efficiency of the procedure was proved in an hour-and-a-half period on one of the moving days. A small group of students moved 2,400 books from the old library to the new building in that period of time. At any given moment in the period, anyone of the books being moved could have been found quickly and easily.

Present plans for the old library call for it to be converted into a junior high school library. Some of the volumes moved to the old building, but the exact number depends upon how many ninth grade students will be in the new high school building, according to Mrs. Farley.

Quarters for the books moved to the new building are considerably more spacious than the old library room. In addition to the main reading room in the new building, library facilities will include a conference room, an office and an audio-visual aids room.

Brothers Planning Try Push-Button Dinners

By STANTON SAMUELSON

KANSAS CITY (AP) — If two Kansas City brothers have their way, much of your future buying will be done from push-button machines that already are delivering everything from soup to nuts.

From the Belgian Congo to San Francisco and from Sweden to Australia millions of people daily are feeding a steady stream of assorted coins into Rube Goldberg-type machines for a variety of commodities.

The Pierson brothers, E.F. and John T., got into the vending machine business in 1937 when the automatic merchandising industry was in its infancy. With borrowed capital they spawned a soft drink vending machine and peddled it to Coca-Cola. That year their net income was $54,756.

Their firm—The Vendo Co.—mushroomed during World War II on government war contracts and its prosperity continued when it returned to civilian production. Last year's volume was $42,075,745 and the Piersons confide they've only scratched the surface in automatic merchandising.

They envision people doing most of their shopping from vending machines. Customers will make purchases from equipment inside stores during regular shopping hours and from outside machines after closing time and on Sundays.

Alex Izzard, Vendo sales manager, says, "The trend in the vending business is to a full service which will provide an entire meal."

"The next step in food automation," says Robert W. Wagstaff, executive vice president of the company, "is a single machine that will serve a complete meal at the drop of a coin."

One of the most important features of such automation is the mechanical making of change, said Wagstaff. "It was a stiff problem and we worked on it a long time. We now have machines that not only take care of the change but deliver several items of food each, at different prices."

One problem still to be solved is how a machine can accept paper money and give change for it. Boley Andrews, Vendo's director of research, says a scanner now is being developed that will solve this enigma. He says it will be on the market within a year or two.

Before long I saw it was no use to argue with him so I joined him and said I knew things were hard but my father was a "big spender from the East."

Work, I told him, I had never heard of.

He finally let me go.

Now this story has no particular moral to it; but Mothers remember, if you have a son in service write him and tell him things are not so bad back home. There are still a few unmarried women and a little jack floating around.

After all, most of us still have Confederate money and it is very possible that the South will rise again sometime. If not, we will just have to join them . . . the Yankees, that is.

Anti-NAACP Legislation Passed By Home

RALEIGH (AP)—Legislation which in effect would curb legal activities of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People has moved a step toward enactment.

The House passed the bill yesterday amid a scattering of "noes" and sent it to the Senate.

Find Bones Of Hairy Mammoth

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—A 25-pound tooth, a tusk and what appear to be rib and shoulder bones of a huge beast have been dug from a shell pit by laborers taking out paving material.

The bones have been tentatively identified as those of the hairy mammoth which was a prehistoric ancestor of the elephant.

Tump Lewis Funeral Service Set Friday

Tump Lewis, 74, retired farmer, died in a Washington hospital early Thursday morning after two weeks illness.

Funeral services will be held at his home, near Vanceboro, Friday at 3 p.m. by Rev. Charles Keith, Free Will Baptist minister of Washington, assisted by Rev. Charles Dixon, Free Will Baptist minister of Chocowinity. Burial will be in Palmetto Free Will Baptist Church Cemetery, near Vanceboro.

Mr. Lewis spent his life in Craven County and he was a member of Palmetto Free Will Baptist Church.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Annie Buck Lewis; three sons, Clifton, Thomas, and Elmer Lewis, of the home; three daughters, Mrs. Ralph Gardner of Havelock and Mrs. W. M. Gaskins and Mrs. Roy Hicks of near Vanceboro; 24 grandchildren, and 19 great-grandchildren.

OPENING GATES

TOKYO (AP)—An electric push button today opened the gates of Ogochi Dam which took 19 years, 60 million dollars and 82 lives to complete. The 447-foot high dam, capable of supplying water to 1,220,000 persons daily, is on the upper reaches of the Tamagawa River in the outskirts of Tokyo.

Under the measure, stiff penalties would be fixed for the offense of barratry. This is defined as efforts by persons or corporations to stir up litigation of pay and expenses of lawsuits in which they had no direct interest.

House action followed a brief explanation by Rep. George Uzzell of Rowan. The possible effect on the NAACP was not mentioned, but NAACP officials have expressed opposition to the bill.

Meanwhile, another bill affecting the NAACP was approved by the House Corporations Committee. It would require the NAACP and similar organizations to file with the secretary of state financial records and lists of their dues-paying members. It also would require the registration of organizations whose principal purpose is to work for or against racial segregation involving public facilities.

Other developments on the legislative scene included:

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to provide for stricter regulation of small loan companies.

The Senate enacted into law a bill to authorize state-supported colleges and the University of North Carolina to issue revenue bonds to finance construction of housing facilities for students.

The House received a resolution which would create a commission to study the operation of nursing homes, convalescent homes, boarding homes and homes for the aged. The seven-member commission would report its recommendations to the 1959 Legislature. It was sent up by Rep. Clyde Shreve of Guilford and others.

The House passed a bill by Rep. Sam Whitehurst of Craven to permit county ABC boards to use part of the profits from liquor stores for a program to rehabilitate alcoholics.

The Senate Appropriations Committee approved a bill to appropriate nearly 30 million dollars during the next biennium for permanent improvements at state institutions.

The House passed and sent to the Senate bills to: (1) increase the membership of the state board of conservation and development from 15 to 18; (2) set up a teacher scholarship loan fund; (3) provide that the Department of Conservation and Development have long-range planning responsibilities for development of water resources in the state; (4) prohibit the shooting of deer in water from power boats; (5) create a western North Carolina regional planning commission.

A Senate committee defeated a bill designed to control the price retailers would charge for beer, ale and other malt beverages.

Doctor's Degree For Frank Fuller

Frank G. Fuller, faculty member of the department of education at East Carolina College, received Wednesday at George Washington University the degree of doctor of education. The degree was conferred during commencement exercises at the university.

Dr. Fuller completed his work at George Washington in the field of guidance. His dissertation, submitted as part of the requirements for the degree, deals with "Guidance Services in White Public High Schools in North Carolina." Dr. Fuller joined the East Carolina staff in 1949. At the college he has done work in guidance and has served as a faculty member of the department of education.

This Texan Thinks Big... Hasn't Too Much Height

By HUGH MULLIGAN
NEW YORK (AP) — By all psychological standards, Jerry Kent Nye should be as introverted and repressed as a collapsible opera hat.

Jerry is a circus midget — and he's from Texas. "Not just from Texas, pod'ner," he corrected, rising menacingly to his full 49 inches. "But from Houston, Texas. That makes a difference. Houston happens to be the biggest city in the biggest state."

Even a half-pint from 10-gallon country finds enormous satisfaction in dwelling on the enormity of his native state. "People say Texans brag a lot," said Jerry, "but that's just not true. I've never yet run into a Texan who truly appreciates the greatness of his home state."

"Instead of being braggarts, most Texans, when the subject of Texas comes up, get to feeling so sorry for people who don't live there that they forget to give half the facts. Just think, now, where would this country be without Texas? Think about it."

"See what I mean?" he asked after a period of silence. "We Texans take a lot of abuse, but when you get right down to it, we're a pretty close-mouthed lot."

Just then a bell summoned Jerry to duty. He put on a fire helmet and red raincoat, climbed aboard a tiny fire engine and raced off to glory.

Thousands cheered as Jerry dashed up a ladder into a burning building and rescued a television set by jumping with it into a net, ignoring its owner still screaming at the window.

Then Jerry and his fire buddies gathered around to watch a TV program as the building burned to the ground the woman was left to save herself.

Jerry performs twice a day, as a midget in the clown act with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

Three years ago, he left Texas to join the circus.

"From the time I was 16," he said, "I knew I never would get much bigger. My father is 5 feet 11, my mother 5 feet 9, and my brother, last time I saw him, was getting close to Dad's size. All through high school, I was about 3 feet 10, and my best buddy was 6 feet 6."

Even among midgets, Jerry is a towering figure. At the climax of one of the acts, he winds up hanging from the arena rafters.

"At first it scared me to go up that high," Jerry said. "I didn't like the idea too much. But then I remembered I was from Texas. And what could I do?"

Americans planning to visit Turkey no longer are required to have visas.

County Home Escapee Is Given Jail Term; Accused Assistant Appeals

A Negro woman who escaped from the County Home and the white man who allegedly assisted her were both given six-month jail sentences in County Court this week.

Esther Suggs, 20, 1802 South Pitt Street, has been committed to Woman's Prison to begin serving her six-month term. The white man, 23-year-old Elmer Clayton Lancaster, Route 2, Greenville, gave notice of appeal to Superior Court and is under bond of $200 set by Judge Dink James.

Testimony in the case showed that the woman was serving a 30-day sentence at the County Home. She was reported missing on May 20, and both she and Lancaster were later arrested by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

The warrant against Lancaster stated that he "did unlawfully and wilfully offer aid and comfort to Esther Suggs by driving said Suggs away from the Pitt County Home, knowing or having reasonable cause to believe that the woman was serving a sentence at the home."

Two defendants charged with possession and transportation of non-tax-paid whiskey were suspended sentences after being convicted.

Charlie Biggs, Negro, Route 2, Williamston, had a four-month sentence suspended upon payment of a fine of $150, costs deducted, and on condition that he does not violate any liquor laws for one year. His car was also ordered confiscated by the sheriff.

James Earl Everett, Negro, Everetts, had a 90-day sentence suspended upon payment of $50, costs deducted, and on condition that he does not violate any liquor laws for a year.

Traffic Cases
William Fred Cox Jr., Washington, N.C., was fined $25 and costs, and had his driver's license suspended for 30 days after pleading guilty to careless and reckless driving. Thomas Jefferson Powell, Route 5, Greenville, also charged with careless and reckless driving, was found not guilty.

Ronald Willoughby, Negro, 418 West Third Street, Greenville, was found not guilty of speeding, but six other defendants who entered pleas of guilty to speeding were ordered to pay costs and surrender their driver's licenses for ten days in order to have prayer for judgment continued and suspended.

The six defendants were Leslie Harris, 116 Court Drive, Greenville; Betty Stokes Sutton, Route 1, Greenville; Bobby Cole Harrington, Route 3, Greenville; John Lacey Pearson, Negro, Route 1, Stokes; Marshall Sherman Calvert, Route 1, Macclesfield; Henry Herbert Smith, Route 5, Greenville. Smith also faced a charge of operating a vehicle with an improper muffler.

Mitchell Reed Gardner, Route 2, Ayden, was found not guilty of careless and reckless driving, but he was ordered to pay costs and surrender his driver's license for 20 days on a companion charge of operating a vehicle 60 miles per hour in a 35-miles-per-hour speed zone.

William Earl Ross, Route 3, Greenville, was ordered to pay $5 and costs for speeding 63 miles per hour and failure to stop for a stop sign. He was also ordered to surrender his driver's license for 10 days.

Other traffic cases and judgments returned included: James Edward Miller, Negro, Route 1, Tarboro, following too closely, $5 and costs; Abrom Earl Little, Negro, Route 1, Stokes, no chauffeur's license and no stop light, costs; Billy Mills, Route 1, Goldsboro, no chauffeur's license (not pros) and no brakes (guilty), $5 and costs.

Earlie Dawson, Negro, Washington, N.C., no operator's license, 30 days suspended upon payment of $25 and costs; Gornzella Mitchell, Negro, Route 1, Stokes, no operator's license, $25 and costs; Marion Thomas Edwards, Greenville, no operator's license (not pros) and no brakes (guilty), $5 and costs.

Philip Avery Armstrong, Route 1, Cary, no registration plates, $5 and costs; Curtis Allen, Negro, Vanceboro, allowing his automobile to be driven with expired registration plates, continued to; Hattie Mae Rogerson, 106 North Summit Street, Greenville, no operator's license, $25 and costs.

Three defendants in speeding cases entered pleas of guilty in absentia and were fined $25, costs deducted, plus being ordered to surrender their driver's licenses for ten days. The defendants were Gordon Samuel Tyszo, Gloversville; George Alexander Stewart, High Point; and Edward William Woodhouse, Havelock.

Other judgments included: James Carr, Negro, 1615 Sheppard Street, Greenville, larceny (12 months), $25 and costs; other enjoys a swim. gauge shotgun), not guilty; Jimmy E. Dixon, no address listed, false pretense, 30 days suspended upon payment of costs and $29 for use and benefit of Maggie Moore; Levi Green, Negro, 611 Allen Alley, Greenville, assault with a deadly weapon, six months suspended and defendant placed on probation for two years upon payment of costs, $50 for medical bills of Edward Dixon, and on condition that the defendant does not possess any weapons.

CHAPTER 5
Supper was a silent meal. Afterward Dogbone wheeled Sarah's chair into the front room, then vanished into the night.

We sat in the front room with the door open, and the chirping of crickets was a steady, cheerful sound. Ben Sawhill sat at the oak table, some papers spread before him, the light from the tall knobby lamp falling across his face.

Dillingham frowned around the room, his dark face showing the struggle he was having with his temper. To make it worse, he'd said to Sarah, "Tomorrow I'll ride into Canon City and hire another hand," and she had said sharply, "I'll do the hiring, Gene."

I, Will Beeson, stood beside the fireplace, an elbow on the mantel, smoking one cigaret after another. I could not keep from staring at Sarah, but she was buried so deeply in her thoughts that she wasn't aware of it.

She never talked much about herself, but I knew she had come to Colorado with her father and mother back in the "Pike's Peak or bust" days. Like most of the others who had come that year, her father had been "busted"; but unlike most of the others, he hadn't gone back.

Her mother had died the first winter. For several years after that, Sarah had followed her father from one camp to another. After he died, she had drifted south to Pueblo, then up the Arkansas to Canon City, working in restaurants, sewing, keeping house, anything she could do to live.

When I first knew her, she had a great gift of laughter that showed in her eyes, but it slowly died; and now, as she tipped her head back and stared off in space, her gaze was deadly serious. I wondered what she was thinking about.

Kathy Morgan, maybe, I couldn't believe Sarah hated Kathy, or that she was capable of hating anyone. She was a wonderfully good person. It occurred to me that it was a good thing for my peace of mind that Joe was dead. Now I wouldn't have to choose between them.

I would have a job on the Box P as long as Sarah owned the ranch. She needed me and I needed her. Perhaps the same thought was in her mind, for suddenly she looked at me and smiled, and started to say something; but before she did we heard the rattle of a rig, and Ben Sawhill said, "There's Kathy."

Dillingham went outside and returned a moment later with Kathy Morgan. Sarah said nothing. She didn't even look at Kathy, who sat down and folded her hands on her lap.

Sawhill picked up a sheet of paper and cleared his throat. None of us moved as we waited for the lawyer to read. He cleared his throat again, and in a clear, slow voice read Joe Pardee's last will and testament.

I wasn't surprised by any part of it. Dillingham and I got $500 apiece, and Kathy $1,000. The rest of the cash, the ranch, the furniture in the house, and the stock all went to Sarah. Watching Kathy's face, I realized she had expected more.

The instant Sawhill finished, Kathy rose. "Is that all?" "That's all," "I can go?"

We nodded. For just a moment Kathy's eyes were on Sarah and Sarah's gaze was on Kathy. That was the only time they indicated they were aware of each other's presence, but neither allowed the slightest hint of her feelings to show in her face.

Kathy turned and walked out. Dillingham would have followed, but Sarah said, "Wait, Gene. Ben can see she gets started." Sawhill followed Kathy outside, and Dillingham stood there, his great legs spread, head tipped forward as he scowled at Sarah.

"The ranch is mine now," Sarah said. "I want both of you to know how it's going to be."

She hesitated, a little afraid of Dillingham, I thought. He shifted his feet, with a sour expression on his face. As long as Joe was alive, there'd never been any question of his loyalty, but now that Joe was gone Dillingham was on fire with an ambition I hadn't known he possessed.

"Joe left me the ranch," Sarah went on, "but not his way of looking at things. From now on, the Box P will be run my way, not Joe's. Or yours, Gene. My way! That's the first thing I want to make clear. The second is that Will is to be foreman. If you don't feel you can cooperate with him, Gene, saddle up and ride out. Tonight."

This was the last thing I expected. For a moment I stood there and stared at Sarah; then I heard Kathy's rig wheel out of the yard and Sawhill came in. He sensed what had happened, and stood motionless just inside the front door. There was no sound at all. Even the crickets were silent.

Dillingham's dark face turned as pale as it could. He took a long breath, then asked, "You know what you're doing, Miz Pardee?" "I know exactly what I'm doing," she said. "Let's be honest, Gene. You've never liked me, and I've never liked you because you believed in everything Joe did. Sometimes I think you are responsible for making Joe what he was."

"I'd be proud if I had been," he said, "but it don't look to me like that's the point. Beeson here ain't dry behind the ears. I know the cattle business. Miz Pardee, I'll keep the Box P going and I'll show a profit. I'll hold your grass. Now that Joe's gone, we'll have to fight for it. If you leave everything to Beeson, you'll be broke in a year."

"Don't argue with me, Gene," she said. "Make up your mind what you want to do."

He didn't answer for a moment. He looked at Sawhill, then drew the makings from his pocket and rolled a smoke, and I could see the pulse beating in his temples. He sealed the cigaret and put it into his mouth. As he reached for a match, he said, "I'll stay," wheeled, and stalked past Sawhill.

When he was gone, the lawyer said, "You're making a mistake, Sarah. You ought to fine him." "I couldn't, Ben," he said. "I'd have made an outlaw out of him if I'd let him go."

"He'll be an outlaw anyhow," Sawhill said worriedly. "He'll kill Will. Or try. He's taying on just to watch you stomp your toe."

"You're exaggerating, Ben," she said. "Anyway, I couldn't do anything else."

Sawhill shrugged. "Well, I've got to get an early start for Canon City in the morning. I'm going to bed."

He picked up the papers from the oak table, nodded at us, and went up the stairs to his room.

Sarah said, "Sit down, Will. I want to talk to you."

Invites Bids On Newspapers That Peron Seized

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Provisional President Pedro Aramburu's government has invited private bids for the purchase of newspapers seized over from deposed dictator Juan D. Peron's regime. A plan for transfer of 14 government-owned newspapers—five of them in Buenos Aires—was submitted to the government in April. A decree issued last night said bids for their purchase will be received until Aug. 31. The decree said preference will be given to bids from newsmen's cooperatives, political parties with a democratic tradition, cultural organizations with an Argentine background, and private bidders who have lived more than 10 years in the towns where the newspapers are published. Some newspapers taken over by Peron previously were returned to their owners when their titles were clear. One of the Aramburu government's first acts was to return to the Gaiña Paz family the Buenos Aires Daily La Prensa.

Five Re-Elected At FCX Meet

WINTERVILLE — A crowd estimated at more than 600 persons gathered at the Winterville High School Tuesday night for the summer membership meeting of the Pitt FCX Service.

Purpose of the meeting was to review operations of the local FCX unit and to elect an advisory board of five farmers. All present members of the board were elected to a new three-year term. They are Mark H. Smith, Route 1, Greenville; G. D. Cox, Winterville; J. V. Taylor, Bethel; and J. E. Whichard and D. M. Copeland, Greenville.

Prepare School Reassignment Appeals Soon

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Requests for reassignment of some Negro children to Charlotte white schools will be made "before the end of the week," the president of the state chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People said here last night.

Kelly Alexander said the reassignments requests will be made before the end of the week to in this district will meet soon to nominate a director to the Board of Directors of the N. C. Cotton Growers Association.

comply with the 1955 pupil assignment law. He said at a meeting of the Parents Committee on Education, a Negro group, that parents will make the requests on grounds they live closer to white schools or because they feel their child would receive a better education in white schools. Alexander said an informal discussion at the meeting showed some parents would make reassignment requests. He pointed out that representatives of the organization appeared recently before the city school board. They were assured, he added, that applications for reassignment would be received "with an open mind."

Would Repeal Tax On Stored Farm Products

RALEIGH (AP)—Laws granting tax exemptions on stored agricultural products would be wiped off the books under legislation received in the Senate yesterday.

The measure, introduced by Sen. Robert Cowen of Martin, would repeal statewide and local laws granting tax exemptions on tangible personal property.

The bill came in shortly after the Senate had enacted into law three local bills granting tax exemptions on stored agricultural products. Two other bills were near enactment. The question of constitutionality of the bills has been debated.

Sen. Calvin Graves of Forsyth objected to third reading on a bill applying to Stokes County which would exempt for one year re-dried tobacco stored in the county.

Graves declared the measure could cost Forsyth 1 1/2 million dollars annually in revenue.

He told the Senate he was "reliably informed" that the bill stemmed "from a meeting of officials of Stokes County and officials of the Reynolds Tobacco Co. of Winston-Salem, located in Forsyth.

Graves said it was an effort by the company "to pressure my county to grant similar tax relief."

A bill applying to Nash County was returned to the House for concurrence in an amendment. The measure relates to storage of re-dried tobacco for overseas shipment. The amendment would place Edgecombe under its provisions.

The bills enacted into law would: (1) permit Iredell County to exempt stored grain for one year from ad valorem taxation; (2) allow Harnett County to exempt certain stored vegetables for the year in which produced, and the following year if held by the producer or purchaser for processing; and (3) permit Johnston County to exempt all stored agricultural products.

Sen. John G. Dawson of Lenoir who voted for the bills declared that "every one would be stricken down by the state Supreme Court if one ever gets there."

Dawson, pointing out that surrounding states have some type of tax relief for stored tobacco, said "the whole tobacco industry in North Carolina will break down under it" unless similar relief is provided.

Senate Relaxes Requirements For Retirement

RALEIGH (AP)—The Senate reconsidered and enacted into law yesterday a bill to ease the requirements disabled Superior Court judges have to meet to be eligible for retirement.

When it first came up, the Senate defeated the measure by 25 to 24. Later, it was reconsidered on motion by Sen. Edwin Lanier of Orange, who voted against the bill. His motion carried 22 to 20.

Senate president Luther Barnhardt, who can vote only in case of a tie, broke a 22-22 tie and the measure passed. Under it, disabled Superior Court judges can count the time they served as solicitor towards the eight years service they must have to be eligible for disability retirement.

The name of Superior Court Judge William Y. Bickett of Raleigh was not mentioned in debate on the bill, but some legislators have said the measure was aimed at making him eligible for retirement.

ECC Workshop Will Emphasize Educational TV

Television, its values and its potentialities in education, will be discussed at a workshop to be sponsored by East Carolina College June 17-28.

Educators and authorities in the field of educational television from the major networks and from TV stations and broadcasting organizations in New York, Washington, Chicago, and elsewhere will act as consultants and speakers on the program. Rosalind Roulston, chairman of the East Carolina Radio and Television Committee, will direct the workshop.

The program has been planned to give training and experience in the use of television as a medium of instruction and is expected to be of value to parents, teachers, and others interested in the training of young people.

Station WNCN of Greenville will cooperate with East Carolina by making available its studios for observation and for the development and presentation of programs. The National Association of Broadcasters has provided a grant which will be used to bring nationally recognized authorities on educational television to the campus.

During the first week of the workshop, June 17-21, attention will be focused on local commercial stations and their educational programs.

Closed circuit television, its use and development as a medium of instruction, will receive emphasis during the second week, June 24-28. The use of television on a national scale in higher education and national support of educational television projects will also be discussed.

Those enrolled in the workshop may receive three quarter hours of college credit on the undergraduate or the graduate level. Further information may be obtained from Vice President Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina College.

No Marriage And No Calypso, Yet: Presley

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Elvis Presley, sitting on a couch with his current best girl, declared flatly that "marriage and calypso are the farthest things from my mind."

The statement on marriage came entirely unsolicited when a reporter asked him yesterday if he planned to make a calypso record now that the Caribbean rhythms are making an inroad on the rock 'n' roll craze. (He doesn't).

A few weeks ago a Mexico City newspaper reported that Presley planned to wed actress Yvonne Lime in Acapulco.

"Man, the night that report came out I was out with Anne."

He nudged pretty Anne Neyland, onetime Miss Texas. "What did we do that night, honey?"

She reminded him that they had gone to a local moviehouse.

"Man, that's right. And you should have seen the faces drop on the people when they saw me in a movie with another girl than the one I was supposed to marry in Mexico. Where do those crazy reports come from?"

He and the young actress sat in his dressing room along with a half-dozen friends with whom he went to high school in Memphis. It was lunchtime and Elvis ate what must henceforth be known as an Elvis Presley special sandwich. The concoction consisted of

Nixon Says Kremlin Plan Opens Door To Conquests

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Vice President Nixon said last night Russia's proposal for Allied and Soviet troop withdrawals in Europe would "leave the free countries of Europe at the mercy of the Communist world."

He said Russia, boss Nikita S. Khrushchev was playing "the old shell game" when he made the proposal.

Noting that the United States has always been ready "to meet the Soviet Union halfway on any reasonable basis" in disarmament talks, the vice president said: "We owe a duty to our allies and to ourselves not to be sucked into the old shell game trade of one horse for one rabbit, which is what Mr. Khrushchev offered last Sunday when he suggested that we should withdraw our forces from Europe's 3,000 miles in return for the Soviet moving theirs from the satellite countries 300 miles away."

"All this would do is to leave the free countries of Europe at the mercy of the Communist world."

Nixon made what was apparently a White House-approved reply to Khrushchev before the convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

He drew applause when he acknowledged "there has been some waste and inefficiency" in our foreign aid program, but suggested that "when we consider the tremendous stakes involved, the remedy for these difficulties and errors is to try to do a more effective job and not to give up and let the Soviet Union start taking over the world."

Such a move would "indicate not only weakening of America's determination to resist aggression, but also lack of confidence in the judgment of the President of the U. S. to the proper level of our military expenditures."

Again, there was a burst of applause as the vice president said, "Occasional waste in defense is insignificant compared with the almost limitless waste and destruction of a nuclear war."

He said passage of "the moderate civil rights bill now before Congress is one effective step we can take toward living up to our democratic ideals."

Doctors Step In, Now He Can Cry

NEW YORK (AP) — A man who couldn't cry now weeps when he eats.

He couldn't cry because disease had knocked out his tear glands. This also meant he had no normal moisture at all in his eyes. They became dry, scratched, ulcerated. He began going blind.

Surgeons stepped in. They inter-cepted a duct that brings saliva to the mouth, and switched it over to one eye. Thus providing sight-saving moisture.

But then whenever he ate, or saw food, his eyes watered just like your mouth waters when you're hungry and sit down to dinner.

"I needed a little moisture in my eye, and they gave me Lake Erie," the young man said.

The surgeons fixed this too. The disease had also knocked out the drainage duct that removes the watery fluid normally produced in a healthy eye. They gave him an artificial drainage tube into the nose.

Now he has an eye which is normally moist, but which doesn't flood so much when he sees food.

This amazing case was described today to the American Medical Assn. by Dr. James E. Bennett and Arby L. Bailey, of Crile Veterans Administration Hospital in Cleveland.

The surgeons now plan to fix his right eye, which also was dried and damaged in the same way.

The man, a Negro, 24, suffered an eye condition known as xerophthalmia, as an aftermath of a serious skin disease.

Early Training Saved A Child

MASSAPEUA, N. Y. (AP) — A 36-year-old housewife applied some prewar nurse's aid training yesterday to save a tot who fell into a canal near her Long Island home.

Mrs. Grace Ruden was working in her kitchen when Frank Pizzarelli, 3, ran in and announced breathlessly: "My brother is in the water."

The housewife raced to the canal, waded in up to her waist and pulled Patrick Pizzarelli, 1 1/2, ashore by his hair. He appeared lifeless.

The Mrs. Ruden applied her never-before-used lessons in artificial respiration. After 15 minutes the boy stirred and opened his eyes.

Terms Signers 'Well Qualified'

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The 2,000 scientists who signed a petition calling for an end to nuclear bomb tests are thoroughly qualified to speak as experts on the subject, says Dr. Linus Pauling, who prepared the document.

Pauling, a Nobel Prize winner who heads the bio-chemistry department at the California Institute of Technology, came to the defense of the signers yesterday in the face of criticism from President Eisenhower, among others.

At his press conference the President said he had noticed that "in many instances scientists that seem to be out of their own field of competence are getting into the argument" over the danger of radioactive fallout from nuclear tests.

"It is absolutely wrong to say the signers are not qualified to speak out," said Pauling. "The leading geneticists in the nation signed. Most of the signers are biologists and are just the people who do know the biological effects of radiation. Nobody in the world is more competent to speak on this question."

Nobody Doubted His Old Excuses

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — John Franklin Demastus offered a combination of old excuses yesterday when he was three minutes late for work at the State Office Building, where he operates an elevator.

It was raining and he was unable to get a taxi. So he walked out in the rain and boarded a bus. But a tire went flat, and he walked three blocks to catch another bus. That made him three minutes late.

When he got there, nobody doubted his excuses, for, said Demastus: "That's the first time I've been late in 13 years."

Has Advice On Almost Anything

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — There isn't much that Guidance Director Kenneth Marantette of Sarasota High School doesn't give advice about.

He even keeps catalogs of auto parts and accessories in his office so he can tell anxious young motorists whether or not they're getting good buys.

Bird Dog Flew Through Window

LITTLE CITY, Okla. (AP) — Jim Kline, who lives near tornado-struck Little City, said there was no question in his mind that a twister was upon him not long ago.

He said a bird dog flew through a window of his home and "I knew a tornado was hitting." He was certain, he said, that it was a bird dog.

Action From The VFW-Jaycee Little League Tilt

Elks, VFW Win Little League Tilts

Scoreboard for the VFW-Jaycee Little League Tilt. It lists scores for various teams including Lions, Jaycees, VFW, and Kiwanis, along with a North State League section.

Dan Johnson went the full six innings for his VFW club and limited the Jaycee batters to only two hits. A fit of wildness loaded the bases against him in the fourth inning, but his club got him out of the hole by tagging two runners in attempts to steal home.

A doubleheader played in a grey mist at Little League Park yesterday afternoon produced wins for the VFW and Elks.

The league-leading Moose club suffered a 7-3 setback in the second game, at the hands of the Elks. The second-place Elks blasted out for 11 tremendous hits in posting their seven runs, and disposed of two Moose pitchers, McGowan and Coltrane.

Scolding By Phil Hurt Yank Pride

CLEVELAND (AP)—The famous pride of the Yankees appears to have been hurt by a series of recent events—latest a scolding by their former shortstop Phil Rizzuto—and they've responded by winning three games in a row, bashing out 12 and 16 hits in the last two.

Florida State, Duke Place Two

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Florida State and Duke each placed two men on the NCAA all-district three baseball team announced today by district Chairman Walter Rabb of the University of North Carolina.

After Tuesday night's 7-4 victory here, old Casey Stengel said that maybe the addition of ex-Yankee Charley (King Kong) Keller to the coaching staff had helped make the Yankees act more like Yankees.

Shortstop Dick Howser and pitcher Jack Bristol were named from the Seminoles and outfielders Dave Sime and Pete Maynard from the Blue Devils by the district committee.

After last night's 13-3 pasting of the Indians, Manager Stengel may be considering finding some sort of job for Scooter Rizzuto, who dropped a few remarks in a luncheon speech yesterday that reportedly shook up the world champs.

Six other schools are represented on the first team. The all-district team is not to be confused with the all-tournament team picked by sports writers following the district playoffs at Gastonia which was won by Florida State with Duke runnerup.

The Scooter, now a sports announcer, scooted into hot water with the undergraduates at his alma mater by saying the current Yankees "have been reading too many newspapers" and "think all the other players are going to roll over and play dead."

Florida State's Howser batted .364 for the season. Bristol had a 6-1 pitching record with a 2.25 earned run average. Sime, famed as a track sprinter, batted .395, and Maynard .389.

He also had a jab for Stengel, who, he said, contributed to a hurtful cockiness by saying in spring training that this year's team was "the greatest of all time."

Two 400 hitters selected were first baseman Fred Frickie of Alabama and third baseman Doug Henley of William and Mary.

"Now he probably wishes he could eat those words," Rizzuto said at a Cleveland Jaycee luncheon honoring Bob Feller, retired Tribe strikeout king.

Others named were Al Baker, Wake Forest (.343), outfielder Johnny Gaines, Mississippi (.385), catcher Bob Kennel, N.C. State (.312), and pitcher Jim Raush, North Carolina, who had a 7-3 record with a 1.87 earned run average.

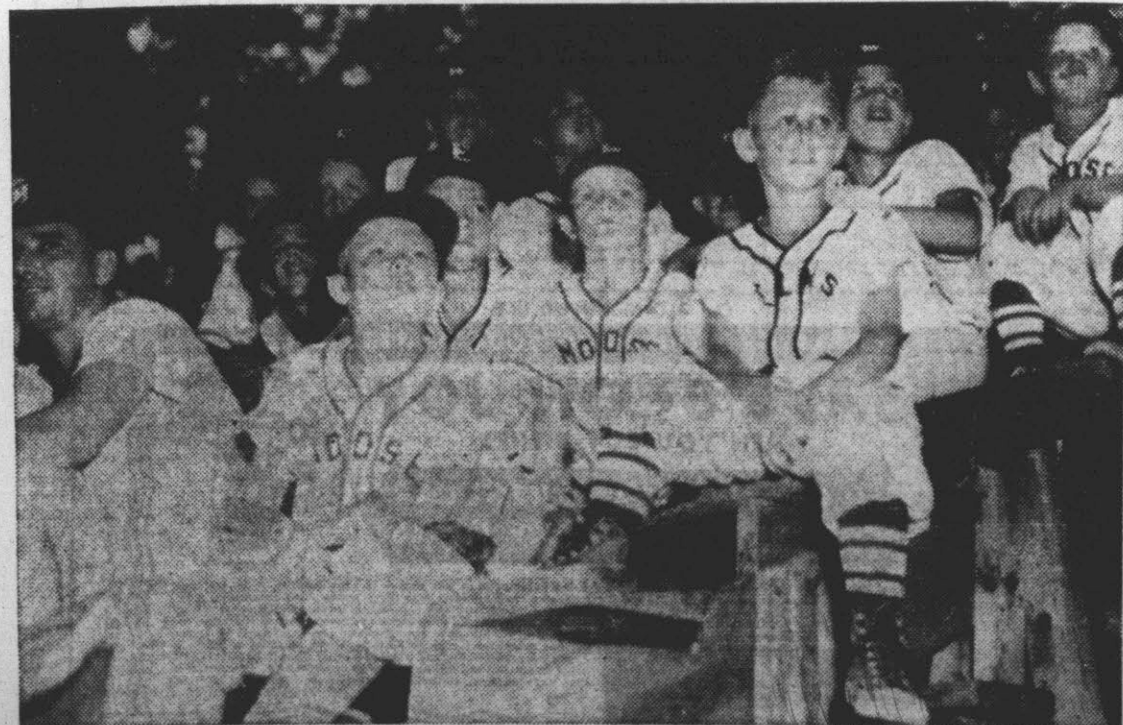

WEDNESDAY'S STARS BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS PITCHING — Don Drysdale, gained first major league shutout, with five-hit, nine-strikeout 4-0 victory over Cubs that pushed Brooklyn into second place.

The second team: Jack Phillips, Wake Forest, first base; Carlee Hendrix, Florida State, second base; Lon Bonczek, Duke, shortstop; Andrew Cockrek, Duke, third base; Rex Frederic, Auburn, Owen McCarron, Florida State, and Wendell Farleton, Georgia, outfielders; John Shappard, Florida State, catcher; Buddy Blenker, Georgia Tech, and Dick Smallwood, Duke, pitchers.

HITTING — G. I. McDougald, Yankees, hit two home runs and a single in consecutive at bats to drive in five runs and lead 13-3 victory over Indians.

Florida State will represent district three in the national tournament Omaha, Neb., next week.

Doctors Say Dope Helping Athletes

NEW YORK (AP)—Athletes and sports officials were on record today as saying they get their pep from training and physical conditioning, not from pills as stated in a resolution by delegates of the American Medical Assn.

The AMA yesterday ordered a study by its trustees into "shocking" reports of dangerous abuse of potent pep-up pills by athletes. They called for a halt to any abuses of drugs to make players superathletes.

Dr. Herbert Berger, chairman of the New York State Medical Society, said, "The recent rash of four-minute miles is no coincidence. When I was a college boy, the four-minute mile was as unlikely as flying to the moon."

His society introduced the resolution. Don Bowden, University of California miler who was the first American to break the four-minute barrier, called the statements "ridiculous and silly."

"I don't believe anything could help you run a four-minute mile except top physical condition," he said. Dr. Berger said he thinks the worst abuse is by boxing, secondly by professional and college football and other athletes, and thirdly by high school athletes.

James A. Farley Jr., of the New York State Athletic Commission said, "We have a competent and able medical staff checking fighters before and after every bout and I am convinced they could detect any violation of our rules which forbid the use of drugs before a fight."

Walt Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn., and well known track coach George Eastman of Manhattan both said they never heard of such a thing in intercollegiate athletics. Eastman said he would ask for an investigation when the college track coaches meet next week in Austin, Tex.

Explaining the medical association's move, Dr. Berger said some drug addicts may get started by taking amphetamine and other stimulants while performing in athletics. "Amphetamine is by far the most dangerous drug existing today," he said, adding that there are widespread reports it is being used throughout the country by either athletes themselves or their coaches.

Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League which televises many of its games, said, "I am just as much against indiscriminate use of pep pills as anybody else—but I never heard of their use in athletics."

The water system of the Mississippi River with its tributaries exceeds 12,000 miles.

Birdie used practically every body but the traveling secretary last night as the Redlegs beat the Philadelphia Phillies 4-2.

The ball game virtually was sewed up by pinchhitter Jerry Lynch, who clubbed out an 11th-inning triple—his first extra base hit of the year—to bat home the third and deciding run.

Graniteers, P&M Teams Win In Softball Loop

Greenville Parts and Metals and the Graniteers chalked up victories in last night's Industrial Softball League games at Guy Smith Stadium.

In the first game, the P&M club posted an 8-4 victory over the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph nine. They racked up four runs in the second inning to grab a quick lead and held onto it throughout the rest of the contest.

The second game of the night was called due to a new ruling—too much time. The Greenville Marble and Granite Works outfit raced to a 12-5 lead and the game ended that way after an hour of play.

The ruling states that "if a team should have at least a six run lead after over an hour's time of play, the game should be called and the team ahead declared the winner."

Graniteer batters smashed in four fast runs in the first inning to take the lead and scored again in the second, and sixth innings. Their sixth inning scoring saw seven runs cross the plate.

The game was halted in the sixth. First Game Charlie Odum pitched the Parts and Metals team to victory in the first game of the night and was well aided by his club's strong hitting.

W. H. Phillips Jr. hurled for the losers and received credit for the loss. Teammate E. C. Willford poled the game's only homerun.

Carolina T&T 0-4 5 1 Greenville P&M 040 002 2-8 8 1

Second Game Dan Gordon received credit for huriling the Graniteers to a 12-5 win in the second tilt of the night. He gave up only six hits.

Lloyd Williams started for Carolina Dairy but was relieved by Don Carson. Brownie Tripp also hurled a while before the game was over. Between them, they were tapped for only four hits, but the wildness of the Carolina Dairy hurlers accounted for several of the Graniteer scores.

Daughtridge Reaches Third Round Of NAIA

BEAUMONT, TEXAS—Jim Daughtridge of East Carolina College made Thursday's third round of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics National tennis championships the easy way, here, yesterday. He didn't even have to swing a racquet.

A default by Lee Ison of Oklahoma Baptist University following a first-round bye sends Daughtridge against Donald Pratt of George Pepperdine College, Los Angeles, Thursday.

Daughtridge's two teammates, John Savage and Maurice Everette did not fare so well in singles play, however. Both drew first round byes but failed to measure up in their first matches.

Everette, a Robersonville native and the No. 1 man of Coach Ray Martinez' North State Conference Champions, put up a gallant fight before bowing to Donald Holmes of Pepperdine, 13-11, 7-5. Savage took a lesson from third-seeded George Naday of host Lamar State College of Technology, 6-1, 6-2.

Today, Everette and Savage start doubles play, but they draw the roughest assignment in the field, top-seeded James Schmidt and Eugenio Saller of Lamar Tech. Schmidt, NAIA singles champion for the past two years, also is top-seeded in that division.

Ward's Case Aired

CHICAGO (AP)—The questioned come tax evasion charges that he had paid Ward's expenses to the national amateur golf champion the last two years, will be aired tomorrow by the executive committee of the U.S. Golf Assn.

Ward, an alumnus of Duke University and formerly of Tarboro, N.C., now lives in San Francisco. He will attend the meeting in person at headquarters of the Western Golf Assn. in nearby Golf, Ill.

The session is scheduled to start at 10 a.m. EST and a member of the committee who did not wish to be identified said:

"It may take an hour or it may take until the middle of the afternoon, but however long I know we will come out with the right decision."

The question of Ward's amateur standing arose a month ago when his employer, Eddie Lowry, a San Francisco auto dealer, stated to a grand jury in connection with income tax evasion charges that he had paid Ward's expenses to the national amateur golf champion the last two years, will be aired tomorrow by the executive committee of the U.S. Golf Assn.

Last month the U.S.G.A., upon request, received from Ward replies to questions posed in an effort to ascertain whether he had accepted expenses for tournaments in violation of the U.S.G.A. rules of amateur status. Ward thereby was invited to appear before the committee at its next regular meeting to amplify his replies in person.

In the meantime, there has been no disclosure—or speculation—of Ward's replies to the questions. "Ward has refused to talk for publication and rightfully so," said a committee member. "He is being given a full opportunity to state his position. And before he does, the association does not intend to make public its telegraphed questions to him and Ward's answers."

Builders Post 13-11 Victory

The hitting of Merrill Bynum and the pitching of Jody Blalock and Buster Daniels pushed the Home Builders' Teen-er League baseball team into a 13-11 victory last night, at Guy Smith Stadium.

Bynum, who played shortstop and catcher for the winners, cracked four hits, including two terrific homeruns to pace all hitters. He unleashed his four-baggers in the fourth and sixth innings. His other hits were a double and a single. He also pitched one-third of the final inning.

Blalock started on the mound for the Builders, was relieved in the sixth by Daniels. Bynum came in the final frame to put out one man. Between them, they held the winless College View club to four hits, struck out eight batters and walked 14.

Pitching for College View for the first three innings was D. Batts. He was relieved in the fourth by M. Griffith. The loss was chalked up against Griffith. They gave up 12 hits and struck out six. They walked three Home Builders batters.

College View grabbed an early lead in the game, posting four runs in the first inning. Home Builders came back to get two in the second frame. College View tallied once more in the second, while their foes went scoreless.

Tebbetts Happy About His Bench

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Manager Birdie Tebbetts, who has parlayed an assortment of baseball talent into a first-place ball club, was more than happy today about his bench.

Tebbetts long has been an outspoken believer in the school of thought that a strong bench can make or break a pennant contender. This has been especially true since his big gun—Ted Kluszewski—went on the disabled list with a bad back. Ted is due back in action next Monday.

Birdie used practically every body but the traveling secretary last night as the Redlegs beat the Philadelphia Phillies 4-2.

Arizona Teacher Selected For Women's Club's Honor

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Mrs. Elsie Lee Kahl of Phoenix, Ariz., who speaks 11 languages and is a registered nurse, was named "Teacher of the Year" today by the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Kahl was picked from among top teachers entered by women's clubs in 28 states. She is the first winner in the federation's new "Oscar for Teachers" program to honor the nation's teachers in much the same way Hollywood honors the movie stars.

Mrs. Kahl wins a citation and a flying trip to the Scandinavian countries.

Mrs. John L. Whitehurst of Baltimore, Md., chairman of the federation's Department of Education, who organized the award, said Mrs. Kahl "has for many years given herself to others."

She has taught in high schools and colleges, engaged in nursing, tutored the bedridden, and conducts a free summer school.

The subjects she has taught range from French and Latin to chemistry and physics.

Currently teaching in the Scottsdale, Ariz., high school, Mrs. Kahl is secretary-treasurer of the Teachers' Assn. in Phoenix.

She was educated at Converse College, Spartanburg, S.C.; Columbia, Temple and Nevada universities; and the University of Havana, Cuba, and the Sorbonne, France.

Second place in the contest went to Mrs. John P. Cochrane of San Antonio, Tex. She will get a one-week holiday in Orlando, Fla., donated through Mrs. Russell Carlton Boyce of Greensboro, N.C., whose husband once came in second in a contest and felt a runnerup should get some prize.

Third, fourth, and fifth places went to Miss Maude Bigham of Chester, S.C.; Mrs. Fern A. Young Marshall of Price, Utah; and Mrs. Margaret Andrea Collins, Gainesville, Ga.

Mrs. Whitehurst announced that

No Abandonment, He Was In Jail

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Walter Bola 42, in court to answer a charge of abandoning his wife, came up with this explanation yesterday: He was in jail.

He left home May 10 to visit friends at Westport, 120 miles north of here, was arrested for driving an automobile without a license and received a 25-day jail sentence.

Police Court Judge Ralph Leonard adjourned the case one month and told Bola to find a job.

DETERRENT

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvanians who invoked the Fifth Amendment to questions about subversive activities would be ineligible for unemployment compensation if a bill sent to Gov. George M. Leader today becomes law. The measure passed in the State Senate 34-8 last night.

The National Education Assn., whose president, Miss Martha Shull, was a judge of the contest, will send next year's federation Teacher of the Year on a study tour of Mexico and Central America.

The idea behind this new award, Mrs. Whitehurst explained at a news conference, was to "increase prestige of the teaching profession," interest more young people in selecting it as a career, to honor teachers who have done exceptional work, and to try to raise teacher salaries.

Mrs. Whitehurst, who has been a member of the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland for 23 years, said "You can get money for buildings, for anything, but not for faculty salaries."

Points To Girls Asking Trouble

ENGLEWOOD, N. J. (AP)—Bergen County Prosecutor Guy W. Calissi has warned that girls in "tight pants and tight sweaters" are asking for trouble.

Calissi told a meeting of the Englewood Rotary Club yesterday that girls who hang around ice cream parlors late at night are at the mercy of men who are mentally ill. He stressed the need for parents to reconsider the training of growing children.

Two 15-year-old girls have recently been killed in sex attacks in the county.

Chronic Traffic Violator Jailed

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Traffic Judge James Demopolos sentenced an 18-year-old chronic traffic law violator to spend two hours a night for the next 30 days in the emergency room of Mercy Hospital.

James Nix was brought before him with a record of nine traffic accidents and 40 driving citations. The judge also told the youth to give a pint of his blood to the Red Cross. "That will be symbolic of the blood that could have been spilled on the highway," he said.

Shaping Of Foreign Aid Bill Begins In Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee begins shaping a foreign aid bill today. There were indications the program may be cut by 750 million dollars or more.

There also were signs the committee is in a mood to deny the Eisenhower administration most of the long-range authority it has asked for military and economic assistance to free world nations. Authority now is granted on a year-to-year basis.

The administration is asking $2,865,000,000 in new foreign aid funds for the fiscal year starting July 1.

In advance of today's sessions, Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said that there is much stronger support within the committee for a long-range economic development loan fund than there is for permanent authorization for military assistance and defense support appropriations.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) whole program, agreed with Sparkman that the committee will seek language under which the proposed development fund "can be assured of continuing authority."

The administration bill would authorize 500 million dollars for such a fund for the first year, as well as authority for the fund to borrow 750 millions from the Treasury each of the next two years.

Under its language, any money not spent in any year would remain in the fund for loans in succeeding years, as would any repayments to the fund.

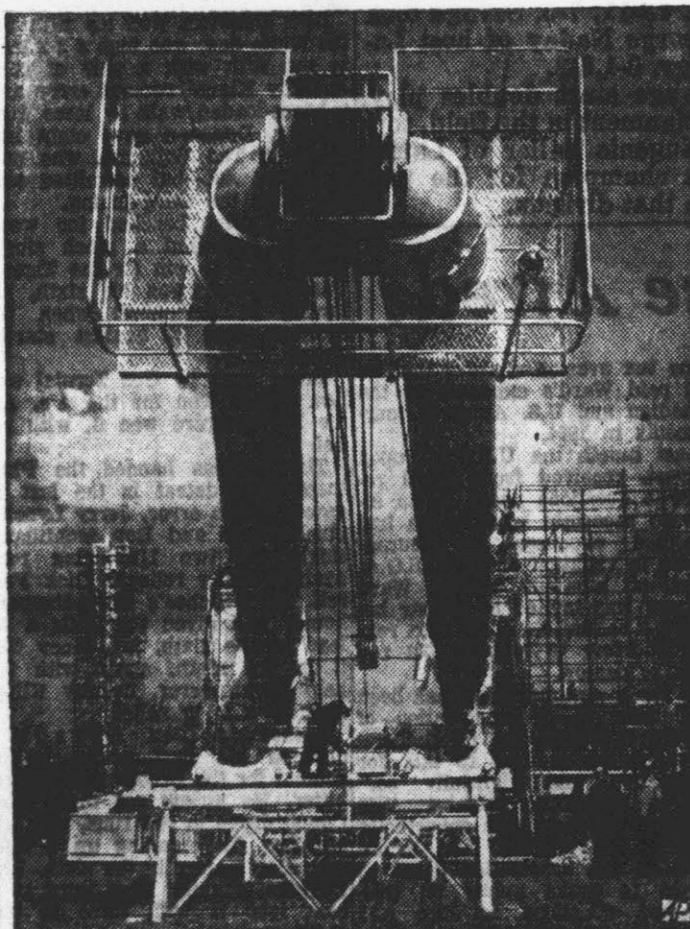

Stress Dry Run In Their School

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—The Denver Waitress and Bartender School trains only teetotalers.

"Absolutely no alcohol is permitted on the premises," says Donald Howe, the man in charge. "Smoking is forbidden, too."

"Clubs and restaurants desire personnel who are able to mix any of hundreds of fashionable concoctions quickly, adroitly and without waste," Howe explains. "We teach our classes by using bottles containing water."

The student spend the first three of about 50 class periods learning all of the trade's equipment. "Only then are they allowed to attempt their first Manhattan," Howe says.

Soldier Selects Japanese As His Defense Attorney

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP)—GI William Girard has picked a Japanese veteran of World War II war crimes trials to head his defense against charges of causing the death of a Japanese woman on a military firing range.

The Army announced today the Ottawa, Ill., soldier had selected Isuro Hayashi as his chief attorney from a list of more than 50 American and Japanese lawyers compiled by the U. S. Embassy. Girard is scheduled to be tried by a Japanese court. No date has been set.

Hayashi, defense counsel before the International Military Tribunal for the Far East from 1946-49, said he planned to meet Girard for the first time tomorrow. He told reporters he could make no announcement of defense plans yet.

"Everything about the entire case will depend upon my discussions with Girard tomorrow," he said. The Army announcement said Girard also had asked Maj. Stanley F. Levin, 49, Hollywood, Calif., to serve as his personal legal adviser. Levin is a member of the judge advocate's office of the 1st Cavalry Division.

In Ottawa, Louis Girard, brother of the accused soldier, said he had hired Earl J. Carroll, a former Air Force major who has been prominently identified with the defense of GIs overseas, to serve as defense counsel.

Carroll said in New York he would file a writ of habeas corpus in U. S. District Court in Washington today, charging the U. S. government violated Girard's constitutional rights by authorizing his trial in a Japanese court. Carroll said he would ask the court to order the Army to deliver the soldier to Washington for a hearing.

Carroll said he also plans to seek an injunction restraining the Army from turning Girard over to Japanese authorities for trial. "National interest is at stake in the outcome of this case," Carroll declared. "How can you drag a man away from his home and business, take him over to Japan and turn him over to the jurisdiction of that country's court for trial without violating his constitutional guarantees?"

Girard, an Army specialist third class, has been indicted on charges of "inflicting bodily injury causing death" of the Japanese woman, a charge similar to a manslaughter indictment in the United States. He is accused of firing an empty cartridge case from a grenade launcher and killing Mrs. Naka Sakai, 46, while she picked up scrap metal on a firing range.

The case developed into an international issue when Japanese authorities contended the soldier was not on duty when the fatality occurred and claimed Japan had the right to try him under the status-of-peace agreement with the United States.

The Army, State and Defense Departments argued Girard was on duty at the time but, after a Washington review of the case, announced Tuesday it had been agreed to turn him over to the Japanese for trial. In effect they upheld the Japanese contention that, while Girard was authorized to protect military property at the time, he was not authorized to shoot.

The action brought heated protests from some congressmen. Girard's home town and some American veterans' organizations. President Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday the case will be watched closely by U. S. lawyers and "if any possible injustice happened to that man, it would be a case that would be taken up diplomatically." He also said the Japanese "have been eminently fair" in previous cases in which American servicemen have been

Says Government Courses Needed

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gov. George M. Leader says all professional schools would do well to offer government courses for the many professional graduates who enter public service. He told La Salle College graduates last night one of his hardest jobs had been to find "enough competent people to man our key professional, technical and administrative positions." Leader suggests that technical schools teach greater "knowledge of and sensitivity to the processes and broader problems of government."

Americans use more than 70 billion pounds of paper a year.

brought before Japanese courts. The Army will pay Hayashi's fees and other expenses for handling Girard's defense.

Seeks New Trial Based On Ruling

NEW YORK (AP)—Union official James J. Matles, denaturalized in Brooklyn Federal District Court after a six-week trial, is seeking a new trial based on a Supreme Court ruling concerning withholding of pertinent information from a defendant.

Matles, 48, is director of organization for the independent United Electrical Workers. He was convicted of lying to conceal Communist activities when he became a citizen in 1934. After trial, his citizenship was revoked last March 26 by Judge Walter Bruchhausen.

In a petition yesterday, Matles based his motion on a decision of the U. S. Supreme Court, rendered last Monday in the case of Clinton E. Jencks, Southwestern labor leader. Jencks, convicted of filing a false non-Communist affidavit in violation of the Taft-Hartley Act, was granted a new trial.

The high court ruled that when government witnesses testified to matters contained in FBI reports, the reports could not be withheld from a defendant. Some of the witnesses at the Matles trial admitted they had conferred with FBI agents.

Carried Off His Packaged $400

NEWARK, Calif. (AP)—Butcher James Underwood's customer didn't get the pork chops he paid for.

Instead, Underwood told Newark police, a closing-rush customer took home a neatly wrapped package of $400 in currency. Asking police help in getting it back, Underwood explained he'd wrapped the bills to keep in his cash register overnight.

The package he took from the register next morning contained two choice chops.

SHEDDING LIGHT on darkroom procedure, columnist Irving Desfor shows Intermediate Girl Scouts a roll of film after it has been developed and fixed.

by IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Many a camera fan father has the problem of teaching the fundamentals of photography to his children or his wife. It can be done if he has the time and patience to impart information in easy stages by allotting a fixed time each week and following a planned outline.

It's a problem I faced since I have three daughters at the inevitable stage of curiosity, independence and desire to own and handle their own cameras. But what pushed me into the role of teacher was an organization much larger than my own women's auxiliary... and I was "volunteered" before I knew what I was in for.

Actually, I enjoyed the experience and perhaps others can use the outline for a six-session course that kept 14 Intermediate Girl Scouts busy and interested throughout. It was planned primarily to meet the requirements necessary for the girls to earn their Photography badge, but can be adapted to individual needs. We set up two-hour sessions for Saturday mornings, rain or shine. Each was to bring their own camera every time.

The basement of our home was the classroom. It was also the photo studio when we discussed how to take pictures and the darkroom when we took up developing and printing. The proper stage was set the night before each session so that no time was lost looking for equipment or materials. Here's how it went:

First week. General Theory: Examination of a simple camera and basic explanation of how it works. The role of a film negative; different types of films. How to clean a lens with lens tissue or never with fingers, a towel or dirty cloth.

At this first session, after the general explanation, we examined the girls' 14 cameras and saw how each performed the basic function of getting the necessary light to the negative though there were many different types and models. We showed how to load a roll of film and what happens by leaving the camera back open. It spoiled one roll but the operation was better understood.

Second week. Taking Pictures: Explanation of setting focus for distance, setting speed and setting lens diaphragm. The relationship of intensity of light to exposures; day light, flash and time. At this session, photofloods were in readiness for shooting. Then they were turned off for flash shots and finally the girls went outdoors for shooting. It was emphasized that the subjects were to be snapped in some sort of natural action.

Third week. Developing Negatives: Loading roll film tanks in the dark and developing by time and temperature in room light. The process of developing, rinsing, fixing, washing and drying negatives.

The explanation was accompanied by a practical demonstration with a roll of film.

Fourth week. Printing Negatives: by contact and by enlargement. Here the girls made contact prints with their own negatives. The effect of different grades of paper and of over and under-exposure was effectively shown by demonstration.

Fifth week. Filing: a place for negatives and prints. Photo albums and various types of negative files, including home made cardboard boxes, shown. Emphasis on the importance of dating negatives and prints and of writing names and information down when pictures are taken. For the next, final session the girls were asked to bring in a written report and any pictures they had taken.

Sixth week. Review: Summary of major points. Then the written

After 3 Years, 'Bride And Groom' Is Returning

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—Bride and Groom is coming back. After an absence of three years from the home screen, the marriage ceremony will receive a video treatment every Monday through Friday beginning July 1 over NBC-TV.

Singer Frank Parker and actor Robert Paige will serve as co-hosts of the program on which 2,340 couples were married during five years of radio and four years of television.

John Reddy, producer of the show throughout its long life, says Bride and Groom has but reports were read and the girls' photos were examined, passed around and commented on.

It was a relief when the final session was over, but I was pleased at the sustained interest shown by the girls and at the efforts that went into their written reports. Having certified that each one earned her Photography badge, I'm watching that group in the future to see if I incubated another Margaret Bourke White or Constance Bannister.

one object. "We try to give the ordinary American girl a chance to have a big wedding on television. Just like Grace Kelly and Queen Elizabeth."

The idea is simple enough: a girl marries a guy before the TV audience and they are showered with all kinds of loot—refrigerators, toasters, swimming pools, a trip here or there. The only thing they forfeit is their freedom. The hearts, flowers and boggy implicit in the program, made it a housewives' delight. There are all kinds of statistics available on the show—except the total gallons of joyful tears spilled by tired housewives in vicarious delight at attending a wedding.

On the other hand, one Long Island husband was arrested for his dissenting opinion on Bride and Groom. He grew so tired of his wife watching the program every day that he drew a 38 and scored a bull's-eye on their TV set. Not all males agreed with him, however. Inmates of San Quentin Prison voted it a daytime favorite.

Bride and Groom marriages endure, says producer Reddy. A questionnaire sent 1,100 couples married on the show "revealed that their divorce rate was less than one-tenth that of the national average."

Radioactivity Tests Regularly Made In State

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Tests for radioactivity are being made here and at Winston-Salem as part of a national program, a health official reported yesterday.

Edgar Seagle, chief industrial hygiene chemist for the city-county health department, said the semi-monthly checks are part of a general monitoring of air pollution.

The results, together with those from some 100 stations across the nation, go to the U.S. Public Health Service.

State Civil Defense Director Gen. Edward F. Griffin said Civil Defense and the State Board of Health are planning a statewide system to monitor radioactivity. Griffin said schooling of engineers and physicians is under way.

It Took A Long Time, But Peggy Is In Movies

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It took a long time—coming, but Peggy King is now facing the movie cameras.

Pretty, perky Peggy is playing a plucky airline stewardess in Bartlett-Champion's Zero Hour. It's a hefty role for the little gal and she's pleased as punch about it.

And why not? For five years she has been queen of the test stages. It started when she landed at MGM in 1952.

"It couldn't have happened at a worse time," she sighed. "The bottom was falling out of everything in Hollywood. I went to the studio every day for a year, but all I did was take lessons. Dance lessons. Vocal lessons. Drama lessons. French lessons."

"I did eight bars of a song in a party scene of 'The Bad and the Beautiful.' Otherwise, all I did tests. And tests. And tests."

le Caron the big buildup, so there was no chance for me." Peggy got married and quit her career for a year. But when the marriage didn't work out, she returned to singing. Then came that tomato sauce jingle.

"They wanted Ethel Merman to do it, but she asked for $50,000," Peggy said. "A fellow at MGM heard about it and said he knew a girl who would do it for $50."

Peggy got the job, and $85 including overtime. Out of it came a record contract and her job as George Gobel's forehead-leaning friend. The TV fame prompted interest from Paramount—and another test!

She didn't want to sign a contract and the studio had no picture for her. But—just to prove that nothing is wasted—it led to her role in "Zero Hour."

SPRING FEVER
SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—When public schools let out for spring vacation, it didn't make much difference in Mrs. Rosemary R. Pounds' third grade room at the Willard School.

Radio Hams Provide Links For Men At Pole And Home

ANTARCTIC PRESS RUN: Paul Blum, left, chairman of RAGS, and two assistants set up facsimile transmission of pictures and captions to men of Operation Deepfreeze in the Antarctic.

By BOB POWELL
SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — To 315 men at the seven United States bases in Antarctica, the name RAGS connotes a warm oasis in a frigid expanse of desolation.

The RAGS are a group of amateur radio operators in North Syracuse who tend the night watch at short-wave radio sets in the cellar of the home of their chairman, Paul Blum.

The cellar is the operational "shack" of the Radio Amateurs of Greater Syracuse. A little over a year ago Blum and his organization joined with the American Red Cross to form the Morale Message Service center. The Red Cross teletype network brings messages from across the nation to Syracuse for relay by RAGS to men in the Antarctic. Messages from the bottom of the world received by RAGS are put on the Red Cross network here for transmission to relatives.

7,000 Morale Lifters
Since their first transmission on May 1, 1956, informing a Deepfreeze sailor of the birth of a son, the RAGS have processed more than 7,000 messages to and from the men at the earth's southern extremity.

From the message service, the RAGS have expanded to break other communication barriers. In addition to the exchange of messages, they operate "Operation Facsimile," "Operation Baby," "Operation Greeting Card" and the latest, "Operation Baby Face."

On May 5, Blum and his associates became the first amateurs to successfully complete a transmission to the Antarctic of a page of pictures, comics, greeting cards and news stories.

Four days after Sugar Ray Robinson regained his middle-weight title from Gene Fullmer in Chicago, the men at Little America V saw Associated Press wirephotos of the knock-out-barrage. The McMurdo Sound base joined the picture network late in May. Men at Wilkes, Cape Adare, Ellsworth, Byrd Base, and the South Pole are not equipped to receive facsimile transmissions.

Baby Pictures Next
As an offshoot of the facsimile work, the RAGS soon will embark on "Operation Baby Face."

Whereas messages were used to notify new fathers of additional dependents, now the RAGS will insert pictures of the infants in the "Antarctic Edition" so that the papas can see their offspring.

Blum can't explain precisely why he and his cohorts get "such a kick out of the work."

"Maybe it is because we know it means so much to the men in Operation Deepfreeze," he says.

Only once have the RAGS been rebuked by their friends 8,000 miles away. That came May 7 when an AP wirephoto of a pretty young thing was marred by a necessitated code signal. The signal, in compliance with FCC regulations, resulted in a black line through the face and form of the charmer.

"We'll never forgive you Paul," the receiving operator said. "You have blackened that doll's face."

Chances are, however, that Paul and his gang will be forgiven. Even straight lines on bathing beauties look good to men living in the world's biggest icebox.

Isn't Happy Over School's Closing
RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Nearby Chesterfield County schools close tomorrow, but Marvin R. Hines Jr., 9, isn't particularly happy.

Marvin hasn't been absent a day and hasn't been tardy in the four years he's attended E. S. H. Greene Elementary School.

"I do wish we could stay just a couple more weeks, anyhow," says Marvin, who says what he likes best are "playing and recesses."

His mother, Mrs. W. C. Nelms, says she thinks a girl friend also may be a reason Marvin hates to see the school doors close.

Deposited Lost Money For Him

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — A school district truck driver got a pleasant surprise yesterday just a few minutes after he reported the loss of an envelope containing $2,350 in school funds.

The money had been deposited in the State Bank and Trust Co. Sigward Hanson, the truck driver, was told when he telephoned the school district office to report the loss.

Hanson learned about the loss of the envelope as he was parking his truck in front of the bank. An unidentified woman told him an envelope had come sailing out of the truck. Hanson, who had several envelopes containing school funds on the dashboard, winced.

He reported the loss to police. They he called the school office and was told the money had been deposited by two men. The money laden envelope, addressed to the bank, had been found by James J. O'Connor and Albert Patterson, Chicago, who delivered it to the bank and went on their way.

Pilots Presumed Dead In Collision

MOPFETT FIELD, Calif. (AP) — Two single-seat attack bombers collided while approaching an aircraft carrier during maneuvers and both pilots are believed dead, the Navy said last night.

The accident, some 400 miles west of Los Angeles, occurred Tuesday night.

Identified by the Navy as the missing pilots were Cmdr. Milton K. Dennis, 40, Los Altos, Calif., and Lt. (j.g.) John W. Thompson, 26, Sunnyvale, Calif.

Caught Without, Used A Lady's

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Vice President Nixon discovered himself without a razor as he prepared to dress for his appearance before the General Federation of Women's Clubs last night.

A Secret Service man dispatched to buy one, found Mrs. George J. Evans of Asheville, local convention chairman, ready for the emergency. She promptly produced an electric razor.

Nixon said it would do fine, even though it was a lady's razor with a pink cord.

"We Were Amazed"

Says CAR LIFE,
The Family Auto Magazine

We were amazed as we drove the Special four-door hardtop, to find that an automobile could be completely changed yet retain so much of its former appearance and character. The 1957 models have all the familiar, solid Buick virtues.

THE ABOVE brief clipping tells you worlds about the '57 Buick.

It tells you we went all out to make this car completely new—yet we didn't sacrifice a single Buick virtue.

So you still get that unmistakable Buick styling.

You still get that big-car room and comfort and that solid Buick quality.

But you also get so complete a change in the vitals of this car that the driving of it is a wondrous new experience.

You get a brilliant brand of performance that's different from anything else that goes on four wheels.

Words won't describe it. Telling you there's an all-new engine, an instant new Dynaflo,* a completely new power train—none of that will convey this news to you.

What you have to do is get in this car and drive it. Drive it around the block, through town, out on the highway. Actually feel what happens when you press the gas pedal, turn the steering wheel, touch those powerful new brakes.

Then—and not till then—will you know why folks call this "the dream car to drive."

The best advice we can give you, by far, is this: Ask your dealer for a trial run today.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special. Safety-Buzzer is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Another Look At Their Interests By Corporations

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The Du Pont-General Motors ruling by the Supreme Court could put a new aspect on the question of Big Business — already much to the fore these days.
And many another corporation today is looking into its own stock portfolio and wondering if the ruling may soon stretch to cover it, too.
In the great wave of mergers and diversification in the last few years many corporations have got large blocks of controlling interest in the stocks of others or have bought them out completely.
The result has been to make Big Business bigger — and to bring howls from Small Business which says it's hard to compete with the giants, and from those who fear big business in business no matter how it grew.
The Supreme Court ruling doesn't strike at the bigness of the two companies involved. But many business leaders feel that the size of the pair is very much in point. If, as the court holds, Du Pont controls GM, it means two of the largest industrial empires in the world are under one control.
Big Business — and many a small businessman, too — is quick to deny that mere size is dan-

New Anti-Trust Decision Hailed As Big Milestone

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP)—The government's antitrust victory over the Du Pont Co. and General Motors Corp. was heralded by some federal officials today as a "milestone" decision.
They said it may pave the way for tougher enforcement of the monopoly laws.
After close study of Monday's Supreme Court ruling in the Du Pont-GM case, government lawyers believe they have gained a potent weapon against business mergers.
More than a score of antitrust cases involving some of the largest corporations, are now pending. Many involve Section 7 of the Clayton Antitrust Act, the antitrust provision under which the court held that Du Pont must dispose of some or all of its vast GM stockholdings.
One high antitrust official said privately: "If facts in any of the pending cases are similar, the decision certainly will be cited by our attorneys in the trial of the cases."
The Federal Trade Commission is waging 15 antitrust cases. Three others have been closed with at least partial success for FTC.
An FTC study in 1955 disclosed that the rate of business mergers has risen 300 per cent since 1949. Its findings helped to stimulate the Justice Department, as well as FTC, into more vigorous enforcement of the Clayton Act.

The Justice Department now has seven merger cases pending, including the proposed joining of two leading steel corporations, Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. In another case it compelled the giant Hilton-Stattler hotel chains to sell certain properties and halt their expansion in some cities.
The view of some officials that the Supreme Court's 4-2 decision may spark a more vigorous drive was based on several factors, including these:
1. Any precedent which lays out ground rules for Section 7 cases is important. Very few court decisions—only two, some officials said—have been rendered.
2. The decision suggests that antitrust complaints can be based on events of years past. Du Pont started acquiring its 23 per cent stock interest in GM in 1917. But the court held that a Clayton Act complaint need not be started at or near the time the stock was purchased.
The proceedings may begin, it was held, whenever there is a reasonable probability that the acquisition might threaten monopoly or restraint of competition.

3. The opinion supplies a precedent for federal action against "vertical" mergers—that is, the acquisition of a supplier firm or a company customer, rather than a competitor. Usually the law has been applied against "horizontal" mergers—the elimination of a competitor by gobbling him up.
This "vertical" merger principle was at the center of the Du Pont decision. The majority wrote that Du Pont "purposely employed its stock (in GM) to pry open the General Motors market to entrench itself as the primary supplier of General Motors' requirements for automotive finishes and fabrics."
The 1956 production was 40 per cent above that of 1955. But the output of 540,000 barrels last year was just enough to meet nine days of Cuba's domestic consumption.
Ten million dollars were spent on oil exploration in 1956, compared with $7,500,000 in the preceding year. Cuban and American companies are leading the search for oil.

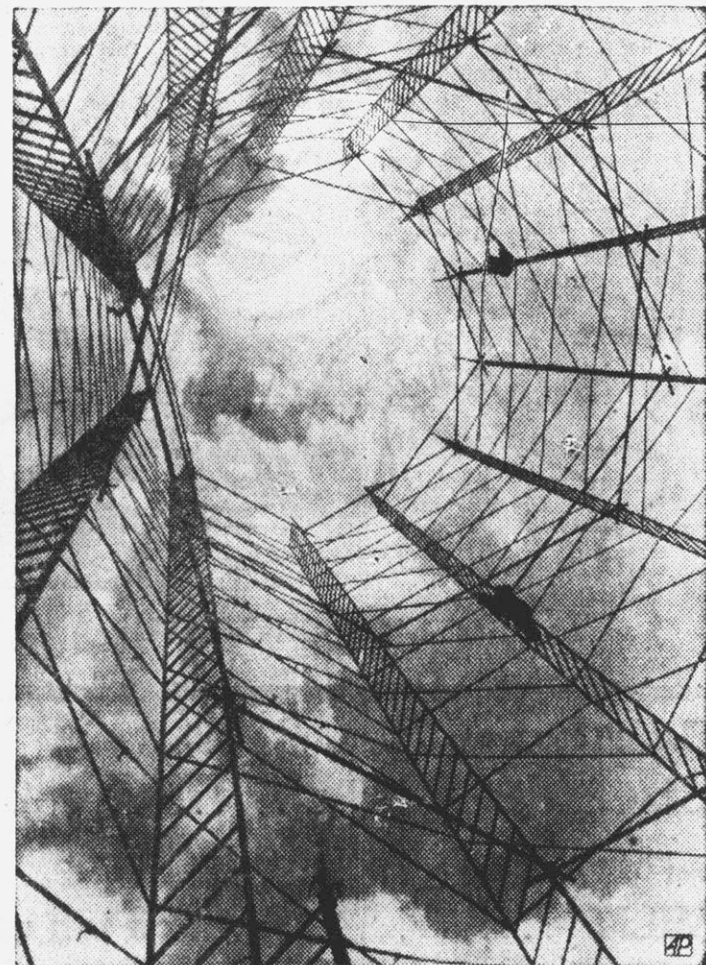

Cuban Oil Output Growing Slowly

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Cuba's infant oil industry is going ahead rapidly, but it still looks like a long time before the country can produce enough to satisfy domestic demands.

Sen. Knowland Sees No Early Red China Trade

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said today he does not expect President Eisenhower to recommend the lowering of barriers against American trade with Communist China.
In a separate interview, Sen. Bridges (R-NH) chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, said if any such proposal should materialize it would receive "harsh treatment" from Congress.
Bridges and Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, said they remain solidly opposed to any U. S. trade with Red China. This question is to be explored soon by the Democratic-controlled Senate Commerce Committee. Some Democrats have said this country ought to be "realistic" about the problem.

Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday he doesn't see as much advantage as some others do in maintaining a different standard for what U. S. allies can ship to Communist China and what they can send to Russia.
Eisenhower's observation that trade cannot be stopped—that it will go underground if it is ruled illegal—led some members of Congress to believe the administration might be about to suggest some changes in the laws under which trade with Communist China now is banned.
Knowland said he doubts any such recommendation will be forthcoming.
"I don't think Congress would agree, in any event, to the shipment of strategic materials to the Chinese Communists," he said.

Suggests Limits On A-Bomb Size

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Anderson (D-NM) suggested today the United States make a definite proposition to limit nuclear bomb tests to the equivalent of 10 million tons of TNT a year.
Anderson, vice chairman of the Senate Atomic Energy Committee, told newsmen the limit should be based on the amount of radioactive material hurled into the atmosphere by bomb blasts—not on the size of the bombs themselves.
He said he proposed an equivalent of 10 megatons because it represents a middle ground among suggestions a special atomic energy subcommittee has heard for a bomb-testing level to minimize radiation damage to present and future generations.
Anderson said the 10-megaton limit might be apportioned among the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain—the only nations which so far have developed nuclear weapons. He said there is no inspection problem since monitoring devices enable detection of testing activity from afar.
"Somebody has to make a start toward limiting these tests," Anderson said. "Nobody could hear without being disturbed the testimony we have received about the damage that could be done to persons on earth—and to thousands or millions still unborn—if the level of radiation continues to go up."

Overzealous In Pin-Up Craze

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Some boys put pin-up pictures in their school lockers but three overzealous collectors at a local junior high school decided they wanted something better than paper dolls.
A 13-year-old girl student complained to school authorities that the trio locked her up in one of their lockers.

CHECKING UP
NEW YORK (AP)—Scientists will examine canned food left in the antarctic by the Scott expedition in 1910 to determine if it is less radioactive than present-day food.
The Atomic Energy Commission will try to find out whether "background radiation"—which all food has from natural sources—has increased during the past 12 years of atomic explosions.

gerous, or that it necessarily spells monopoly or hurts competition. Most big corporations have many small business suppliers and often many small business customers — and couldn't do without either.
Businessmen argue that the very size of the industrial job to be done in a rapidly growing United States economy calls for and breeds the efficiency and coordination that Big Business alone can provide. In short, that business grew big because of the task, rather than from the urge to dominate.
Growth has been the aim of almost every American enterprise right from the start.
Counting out the banks and insurance companies, General Motors is third in size and Du Pont ninth among all nonfinancial corporations in the nation. GM's assets of 7 1/2 billion dollars are surpassed only by the Bell Telephone System and Jersey Standard Oil. After U.S. Steel, Ford, Gulf Oil and Socony Mobil comes Du Pont with 2 1/2 billion.
As profit-makers they are even more impressive. General Motors leads the nation with nearly 850 million dollars last year. The year before it topped a billion. Du Pont is fourth with 383 million. In between are Jersey Standard and the Bell System. A sizable share of Du Pont's earnings come from dividends on its GM stock holdings.
The men who run these two companies command some of the highest salaries and bonuses. Four GM officials and four Du Pont executives are included in the top 16.

U. S. - Russia No Nearer To Ending Atomic Tests

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Russia appeared to be about as far apart as ever today on the issue of calling off atomic weapons tests.

Statements made at almost the same time by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and President Eisenhower dramatized the deadlock which stands in spite of much recent optimism here about the possibility of a "first-step" disarmament agreement with the Russians in the next year or so.

Furthermore, President Eisenhower's expressed interest in riding the world of atomic weapons—judged by all available evidence—seems to be a long way from realization.

In answering questions at his news conference yesterday, Eisenhower said he would "like to allay all anxiety in the world by a total and complete ban on all testing, based upon total disarmament" in the field of nuclear weapons.

But he emphasized the requirement of an effective inspection system. He repeatedly stated that so long as there remains a chance that atomic weapons would be used in war, tests must be continued.

Early in his news conference he summarized the United States policy on testing in these words: "I have tried, and this government has tried, to make the abolition of tests a part of a general system of disarmament, controlled and inspected disarmament."

"If we can do that, we will be glad enough and very quickly to stop tests. But we do have the job of protecting the country."

At another point he said that tests could be ended as part of a first step toward disarmament only if the agreement also provided "that we were going to eliminate these things (atomic weapons) as weapons of war and there would be an inspection system that could make sure that was coming about; otherwise, you couldn't do it."

The Soviet position, which American officials say always contains a considerable element of propaganda when stated publicly, was set forth by Bulganin in a message to a meeting of the International Labor Organization at Geneva.

"The Soviet Union... is ready," he said, "to conclude an agreement on the whole problem of disarmament as well as on its particular aspects."

including an agreement on the immediate cessation of nuclear weapons tests."

He said that Russia has long sought "prohibition of atomic and hydrogen weapons." He did not emphasize as the President had done the element of inspection and policing.

In some ways the ideas expressed by Eisenhower seemed to harden the American position on testing, if they reflected any change at all.

Canada's Liberal Gov't Expected Win Re-Election

OTTAWA (AP)—The Liberal government of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent is expected to win Monday's general election by a substantial margin.

There are indications, however, that the Conservatives, led by 61-year-old John Diefenbaker, will do better than they did in 1953. Then they won only 51 of the 265 seats in the House of Commons.

Some Liberal leaders concede the Conservatives may take 15 to 20 of the 170 seats held by the government during the past four years.

The Liberals then would still have 150 seats to 115 for the combined opposition and more than twice the Conservatives'.

Political polls have pointed to Conservative gains in popular support, but not of such degree as to indicate an upheaval.

They are faced, however, by three main obstacles:

1. The personal popularity of the 75-year-old Prime Minister.

2. Unprecedented economic prosperity.

3. The influence of two other political parties—the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation (with 23 seats) and the Social Credit Party (with 15 seats)—in the West.

The main fight has been between Diefenbaker, waging his first national campaign, and veteran St. Laurent, popularly known as "Uncle Louis" because of his baby-kissing, hand-shaking campaign technique.

St. Laurent based his campaign primarily on the prosperity issue. "Let well enough alone" was his theme.

Diefenbaker retorted that only a change in government can counter Canada's spiraling inflation.

Diefenbaker charged the Liberals had become dictatorial during their 22 years in power. He said they would get worse if allowed to continue.

The Conservatives also assailed the government for its close relations with the United States. Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson defended the government's policy under a declaration that Canada under the Liberals will never be a satellite of the United States.

Half Now, Half Later, For Polish Aid Accord

WASHINGTON (AP)—Poland's aid delegation was expected today to settle its 95-million-dollar U. S. deal half now and half later rather than wait around to get it all at once.

A joint U. S.-Polish announcement to that effect may be forthcoming today.

It would wind up four months of negotiations topped off at the end by an unexpected congressional delay.

The Poles arrived in Washington last February. They came in response to public statements by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles that the United States would help any nation in its first days of economic distress after breaking away from iron-fisted domination from Moscow.

The 95-million-dollar figure was settled upon after long and exhaustive talks at the State Department.

A little more than half of this will come from available funds, including a 30-million-dollar loan from the President's special fund. The rest will come from a congressionally authorized fund to finance sales of U. S. farm surplus. New legislation extending the farm surplus fund passed the Senate without trouble, but opposition developed in the House. The measure was sidetracked there Tuesday for at least two weeks.

Besides extending the program for a year, the bill would permit use of another billion dollars to finance it. Until the added money is made available, the full amount of the Polish-American agreement cannot be met.

The Poles are anxious to get the aid flowing, particularly the 34 million dollars worth of cotton they want. For that reason they were expected to sign a partial agreement.

Besides the 34 million in U. S. cotton, the Poles were expected to get, in approximate figures, 32 million dollars in wheat, 10 million in fats and oils, 4 million in coal mining gear, 2 million in soy beans and 13 million in costs of transporting these items.

Beneath Detroit there are salt deposits, 1,130 feet deep which are estimated to be 300 million years old, says the National Geographic Society.

Rabbit Turns On A Rabbit Hunter

LANDER, Wyo. (AP)—Wyoming rabbits are so tough they aren't even afraid of dogs. Ask Queenie, a 10-year old rabbit hunter, whose owner, Sandy Jacobsen, tells this story:

When Queenie cornered a rabbit in a field near Lander, the bunny turned on the dog and clamped its teeth firmly on her nose.

As Queenie reared backward in surprise and pain, she let her balance and rolled down a hill, with the rabbit still hanging on her snout. Then the rabbit bounced away, leaving Queenie with a new respect for rabbits and hardly any enthusiasm for hunting.

Flying Fever, 2 Days Per Month

LODGE GRASS, Mont. (AP)—Harold Green operates an oil and gas business, except for two days each month when he becomes a flier.

That's when he rides a commercial airliner to Denver where he flies a jet fighter as part of the U. S. Naval Reserves. Green figures each trip to Denver costs him $85. His flight pay from the Navy is $87 a month, so he nets just $2.

Green says it's worth it. "I like to fly. I like Navy life," he said. "I spent 10 years learning to fly and I don't want to throw all that time away."

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

LARGE FAMILIES needing four bedrooms often find houses of this size scarce in the one-story ranch style. This plan not only has four bedrooms and two bathrooms, but it is arranged to keep the house and garage in less than 60 feet of width. This house can be built with or without a basement. Enlargement of the garage will provide additional storage space as well as a ground floor laundry and a place for a heating plant adjacent to the chimney. The house covers only 1,270 square feet, without garage and porch—an economical size. This is plan A-1711AP by Caleb Hornbostel & Associates, Architects' Home Plan Bureau, Box 141, Bethlehem, Conn.

Chevy's come up with the newest, sweetest, smoothest automatic drive—Turboglide. It's the first and only triple-turbine transmission!

Moves out in a single sweep of motion . . . Chevrolet with Turboglide!

Turboglide is something really new and different in automatic drives. In the first place, there's only one forward-speed position on the control panel. There's no "Low" needed.

Turboglide handles everything with the oil-smooth action of triple turbines. You travel from a standstill to top cruising speeds with never a lurch or lag to mar your motion.

When you see a steep downhill stretch ahead, you set the selector at "GR" (Grade Retarder) and Turboglide helps slow you down. Try Chevy's new, nothing-like-it automatic drive. It's optional at extra cost—and worth it.

Dogs, Like Humans, Get The Breaks

Americans have a penchant for solving problems with gadgets. As evidence we give you Dutchie, a Dachshund, whose owner built a special carriage for her so she wouldn't have to scrape bottom with her midsection while expecting pups.

And just look at the other pictures on this page! The help provided for stricken animals has at times helped humans. There have been instances in which surgical devices invented by veterinarians were later adapted to human surgery. One of these is the bone pinning apparatus designed by Dr. Otto Stader of Ardmore, Pa. Another is a metal hip joint originated by Dr. Harry Gorman of Columbus, Ohio. Plastic lenses have been inserted in dogs' eyes following cataract operations. Eye glasses, dentures, hearing aids, protective harnesses for specific ailments and devices with wheels for supporting paralyzed legs are occasionally used. No gadget is too good for the family dog!

This stray pooch is more comfortable now since he was taken to a vet and had the broken bone in his right foreleg set.

Due to this combination splint and stretcher, "Admiral Wags," a cocker spaniel, is almost fully recovered from injuries suffered when he fell. An Army veterinarian fixed him up.

Specially designed wheel cart helps Inkspot, a 4-year-old cocker spaniel, get around after he became paralyzed because of spine injury. It was made by an artificial limb manufacturer.

The metal, screw-type brace with which his broken jaw was fixed is almost as large and heavy as Big Boy, an eight-month-old chihuahua. The three-and-a-half-pounder was struck by a car.

All of Scamp's friends can come now and inscribe their names on his cast. The puppy broke his leg when he stepped into a hole. His owner, 10-year-old Diane Maze decorates it with a ribbon.

Randy, a Bedlington terrier, sits patiently as volume of his hearing aid is adjusted by his owner, Mrs. Edwin Bostwick of Port Washington, L.I., N. Y. Battery is rigged to Randy's harness.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market improved initial gains as steels and oils advanced in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Among pivotal issues the gains ran from fractions to around a point, nudging the market averages slightly ahead; but select issues not in the averages made wider gains.

Tobaccos, after early inaction, showed some gains, recovering from the impact of the American Cancer Society's adverse report of two days ago.

The steels advanced as reports came of rising prices for steel scrap in the Pittsburgh district.

The oils were up on the mixed news of higher prices in the Middle East and bigger gasoline stocks in the United States.

Du Pont advanced more than a point as there seemed no sign of immediate and drastic action arising from the Supreme Court decision against Du Pont's big stock interest in General Motors.

Amerasia and General American Oil of Texas ran ahead more than 3 points apiece. The latter stock was continuing its run-up as brokers said it was boosting its holdings in Fargo oils and other properties. Royal Dutch was up around a point. Texas Co. and Standard Oil (New Jersey) made fractional gains.

Among the steels, Jones & Laughlin made a sudden gain of better than a point, apparently spurred by a bullish Wall Street report. But gains of around a point were made also by Youngstown Sheet and U.S. Steel while Lukens held most of an early 2-point lead. Bethlehem and Republic Steel were up fractions.

Motors did not do nothing but Ford dropped a fraction. The leading rails showed scant change. Santa Fe was firm but New York Central, Pennsylvania and Southern Pacific were easier.

American Tobacco recovered, gaining around a point. Liggett & Myers rose a fraction. Reynolds tobacco "B" was about unchanged.

Aircrafts, nonferrous metals and chemicals were mixed.

Goodyear advanced around 2 and Goodrich a major fraction.

Small gains were posted by American Smelting, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Union Carbide and Radio Corp.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 30 cents to $183.50 with the industrials up 90 cents, the rails unchanged and the utilities down 10 cents.

New Type Trash Containers For City

New pole mounted trash cans are being installed by city workmen in the business area today. The trash cans will replace portable type receptacles which have been used since the city's clean-up paint up campaign during the spring.

The trash receptacles ordered by the city during the campaign but they were not available at that time. The portable type were delivered however, and they were placed on Evans St.

Clean Up-Paint up Council president, Brooks Beddingfield said the portable receptacles will be used on streets where there are no utilities poles.

Beddingfield asked citizens to make use of the trash receptacles to keep the city's streets clean.

The council president pointed out that the clean up campaign did not end with the two-week spring campaign.

"We are still working and we get calls everyday about cleaning up of lots," he declared.

Award Honorary Degree To Former Greenvilleite

The Rev. Nathan C. Brooks, Jr., formerly of Greenville, was one of five persons who received honorary degrees Monday from Wake Forest College.

He was awarded the Doctor of Divinity degree for his outstanding work in the Baptist ministry. Reverend Brooks is presently serving as pastor of the first Baptist Church of Pensacola, Fla., but has held pastorates in Bryson City, Waynesboro, Ga., Greenville, S.C., and Alexandria, La. He has also served a six-year term as director of Baptist Training Union activities in North Carolina.

The citation for Reverend Brooks read, in part: "He is a good organizer, an inspiring director in building programs and in increasing memberships. He has served churches with memberships from two to three thousand. In the present field he is constructing a magnificent plant. He is an effective preacher and a faithful shepherd who magnifies the ministry."

Reverend Brooks is the son of Mr. and Mrs. N.C. Brooks of 102 North Library Street. He attended Mars Hill College for two years and transferred to Wake Forest where he received the Bachelor of Arts degree in 1931. He was awarded the Master of Theology degree by the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky., which he attended for three years. Reverend Brooks has also done work at Union Seminary in Columbia, S.C.

Officers Of Pitt-Greene Co-Op Re-Elected At Meet

FARMVILLE—Some 2,000 members of the Pitt and Greene Electric Membership re-elected their officers for another year at the 20th anniversary meeting of the Co-op here yesterday.

J. C. Parker was re-elected president of the Co-op and E. E. Nethercutt, vice president. Seth Barrow was re-elected secretary.

The following directors were elected: J. C. Parker, Farmville Rt. 1; E. E. Nethercutt, Snow Hill Rt. 1; Seth Barrow, Farmville Rt. 1; Sam V. Tugwell, Farmville Rt. 1; Joe Edmundson, Snow Hill Rt. 3; Jarvis Harrison, Snow Hill Rt. 3; and Henry C. Tyson, Farmville Rt. 2.

The group heard William T. Crisp, executive manager and general counsel of Tarheel Electric Membership Association, say that unless the Eisenhower administration reverses its "hard money policy and tax subsidy program," America's farmers, small businessmen, and all American consumers are facing ever increasing economic woes.

He charged that "the present national administration is deliberately pursuing a monetary policy which is not only inflationary, but is unquestionably favoring the bankers and investment houses."

Crisp pointed out that "while farm profits have declined over 26 per cent since 1951, banking and loan investment profits have climbed over 46 per cent. Add to this fact that the cost of living has gone steadily up, increasing over three per cent since March, 1956, and anybody can see the damaging effects of this government policy."

Testing of prospective students for the Greenville Cooperative School began yesterday and will continue through the month of June.

The school is being organized for children who are mentally ready for first grade work but whose age prohibits their attendance at public schools. Interested parents and various departments at East Carolina College are sponsoring the school.

According to Mrs. Robert C. Forney, secretary-treasurer of the school's administrative staff, students who are thought to have greatest chances of success are those whose birthdays fall between October 15 and January 1. Some children whose birthdays fall after January 1 are admitted, however.

Entrance into the school is determined by results of the testing program which is being administered by Dr. Woodrow Flannery, Dr. Frank Fuller and Dr. Clinton Prewett of EOC's Department of Psychology. Individual tests include the Stanford-Binet IQ, audio, visual, reading adaptability and dominance tests. A $15 fee is charged for the tests.

Persons desiring information about the school have been asked to contact Dr. Frank Longino, president of the administrative staff, or Mrs. Forney.

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—The R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. has taken options on two large tracts of land near Walnut Cove in Stokes County for possible business expansion, the firm announced yesterday.

Options were taken less than two weeks after Rep. Grace Rodenough of Stokes introduced in the General Assembly a bill exempting from taxation for a year all re-dried tobacco stored in the county.

Owners of three pieces of land who signed options were State Sen. William F. Marshall of Stokes, Dr. V. L. DeHart and J.C. Craig, all of Walnut Cove.

Crisp also charged that the administration's "tax subsidy program for commercial utility companies is indefensible."

He said that through July of last year these companies, including Carolina Power and Light Co. and Virginia Electric and Power Co. had received nearly five billion dollars in subsidies through "rapid tax write-off certificates" granted by the federal Office of Defense Mobilization.

He said that two Senate committees are now investigating a 300-million dollar subsidy granted to the Idaho Power Co. for two small dams on the Snake River in Idaho. Crisp stated that "these raids by the power companies on the public treasury are unconscionable in view of their multi-million dollar advertising campaign charging other groups with not paying their fair share of taxes."

During their business session Pitt and Greene Electric's members heard reports from their officers which showed that during the past year the cooperative has built seven new miles of line and has extended service to 60 new members. The cooperative, organized in 1937, now serves a total of 3,450 members from 587 miles of rural lines in Pitt, Greene, Lenoir, Wilson and Wayne counties.

G. L. Whitley, the cooperative's manager, reported the members had increased their use of kilowatt hours from 7,500,000 in 1955 to 8,750,000 in 1956. He said the cooperative's revenues had increased $20,000 while its operating expenses had increased only $14,000 during the same period of time.

The meeting was opened with an invocation by the Rev. Edwin S. Coates, pastor of Farmville Presbyterian Church, followed by a brief welcoming address by Farmville's mayor Charles Edwards.

The following members of the cooperative served as an election committee to collect and tabulate ballots in the election of directors: R. L. Fulford, Farmville Rt. 2; K. Z. Cobb, Farmville Rt. 1; Mack E. Jones, Snow Hill Rt. 1; Alton Mewborn, Snow Hill Rt. 3; A. H. Joyner Jr., Snow Hill Rt. 2; Walter H. Murray, Snow Hill Rt. 1; W. C. Dilda, Fountain Rt. 1.

Following the business session, a program of stringed music and vocals was provided by Arthur Bowen and his Bar X boys, along with Effie Summerlin.

The Tar Heel plan range promotion which the cooperative and several dealers in its service area are sponsoring during May and June was discussed. This plan provides for free installation and free cooking current for four months.

New Model Car And Bootleg In Hands Of 'Law'

A 1957 automobile and 18 gallons of non-tax-paid whiskey were confiscated in a raid yesterday afternoon.

Pitt County ABC officers working with Federal Alcohol Tax Unit Officer Joe Fowler of New Bern made the raid in the Bell Arthur section.

In addition to confiscating the "moonshine" whiskey and new automobile, four young Negroes were arrested and charged with possession of illicit whiskey. They were: Bennie Boy Rountree, 22, of 1302 Fairfax Ave.; Calvin Tyson, 22, of Greenville Rt. 1; Jesse Ray Harris, 17, of Greenville Rt. 2; and Joseph Anderson of Greenville Rt. 1.

Officers said the automobile belonged to Rountree. The vehicle was seized by Fowler for disposition in Federal Court.

Participating in the raid were Pitt ABC Officers J. M. Ward, H. B. Lilley and J. L. Ross along with Fowler, Federal ATU Officer.
