

Ike Tartly Raps Democrats And Critics In GOP

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has combined a slashing attack on the Democrats with knuckle-rapping criticism of some Republican leaders. It may put a new strain on his relations with Congress.

In some of the sharpest phrases he has used, Eisenhower yesterday labeled the Democrats as "a easy spending, paternalistic, business-baiting inflationists." He said they are "hopelessly split" as a party.

Speaking at the windup of a two-day Republican conference, he indirectly attributed to the Democrats "government by cronies," advocacy of a "rubber dollar," and support for deficit spending.

In language slightly less tart, Eisenhower said his party's leaders in Congress must lay aside their "personal preference" and assume their "special responsibility" to fight for his legislative program — including his $71,800,000,000 spending budget.

Eisenhower spoke to the GOP gathering shortly after returning from an overnight cruise aboard the giant aircraft carrier Saratoga. Elaborate Navy plans for demonstrating its atomic-age capability to the President were curtailed when planes and ships were sent off to hunt for two Navy fliers who crashed in the Atlantic. One flier was rescued, but the other died.

In what was described by many of his listeners as "a fighting speech," Eisenhower seemed to be laying the groundwork for carrying the battle to the Democrats in next year's contest for control of Congress. The President was applauded 24 times.

He gave plain notice he thinks his party's prospects in 1958 and in the 1960 presidential election will depend on the extent to which it embraces "modern Republicanism." He said the 1956 platform had charted his program.

There were few among the 1,600 party officials, members of Congress and well-wishers who doubted Eisenhower was aiming a shaft at Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California and Sen. Bridges (R-NH) when he said: "Republican leaders, whether in Congress, in the executive branch (or) in the party organization

Union President Will Get Chance

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators said today Bakers Union President James G. Cross will get a chance to answer under oath testimony linking his name with that of a convicted prostitute.

The woman, brunette Mrs. Kay Lower, 26, of Los Angeles, was identified by Los Angeles police as a convicted prostitute.

She pleaded the Fifth Amendment yesterday in refusing to tell the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee whether Cross beat her for giving another man a diamond ring, or whether Cross funneled union funds to her from Washington through his Los Angeles aides.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), the committee chairman, said Cross "will have the opportunity to comment" as a witness after the hearings resume next Thursday.

Mrs. Lower, sporting a blood-shot left eye, refused even to tell the committee whether she knows Cross. But she did say "I imagine so" when asked whether she had received union funds from Cross, a married man.

Albert Barclay, ousted office manager of Bakers Local No. 37 in Los Angeles, gave testimony about a union fund to hire "goons." He also said the international union sent $75 a week to the local for "Mrs. Cross' girl friend so to speak, Mrs. Elsie Kay Lower."

John D. Nelson, who runs Local 37 as a trustee for Cross, had some sharp exchanges with the committee as to whether union funds went to Mrs. Lower and whether union "goons" had, as

'Crusade For Christ' Is Again Extended

Decision to continue the United Crusade For Christ for one more week was announced by Dr. Jimmie Johnson at the big tent service last night.

"The circle of interest is widening, and we are reaching more and more people of the Greenville area," says Dr. Johnson. "But next week will be the final week. We will be compelled to close on Sunday, June 16th, because of other engagements."

There will be two Sunday services in the big tent. A one-hour service, announced for 3:30 p.m. will be given over almost entirely to Dr. Johnson's sermon "The

Fireman Lyman Nethercutt Charges result from fire

Woman Charged Following Fires

A woman has been charged with malicious damage to personal property and breaking and entering as a result of fires discovered in two separate rooms of a house at 1604 McClellan St. early this morning.

Police Det. R. T. Rogerson identified the woman as Hannah Dupree, 57-year-old Negro, of 807-B Clark St.

The dwelling in which the fire was found is owned by Arthur Rogers, Negro.

Firemen answered a box alarm around 1 o'clock this morning. They found fires burning on beds in two separate rooms of the house.

Fire fighters used booster ladders to extinguish the flames. The bedding was destroyed.

Det. Rogerson quoted Rogers as saying the woman came to his home last night and asked to be allowed to enter. Rogers said he did not let her in and she broke a window pane to enter the house.

Rogers left to obtain a warrant for the woman and the fires broke out while he was gone.

Rogers said the Dupree woman was an "old friend."

Warships Rally For Naval Show

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Warships of 18 countries, from frigates and destroyers to guided missile cruisers and aircraft carriers, were dropping anchor in Hampton Roads today for a mighty display of naval power next Wednesday.

The colorful event is the international naval review, planned as the capstone of Fleet Week in Virginia's 350th Jamestown anniversary celebration.

The ships will line up in a double column in Hampton Roads Wednesday, hoist flags and three review ships will sail by.

Heading the list of reviewers from this country will be Defense Secretary Wilson, designated by President Eisenhower as the chief executive's representative. Navy Secretary Thomas Gates also will be present.

A total of 27 foreign nations were invited to send ships but only 17 accepted and sent 33 ships. The largest contingent, 60 will be from the host nation, the United States.

Other nations represented include Great Britain, Italy, the Netherlands, Spain, France, Belgium, Portugal, Denmark, Norway, Turkey, Canada, Venezuela, Cuba, Uruguay, Peru, Colombia, and Dominican Republic.

Needs The Shirt Off His Back

BARABOO, Wis. (AP)—The phone rang in the office of Sauk County Sheriff James Gavin.

"Sheriff," said a woman in a town 50 miles away, "my husband's brother lives up there. The last time he was here, he borrowed my husband's shirt. My husband needs his shirt. I want you to tell his brother to bring it back."

As a feature in tonight's service Merrill Dunlop, Crusade organizer, will present a 15-minute descriptive number at the Hammond Organ, entitled "The Storm." Using evangelistic sea and storm songs, Mr. Dunlop will portray the Bible story of the storm on the Sea of Galilee, with appropriate effects of wind, rain, and thunder and added electrical lighting. Soloist Ralph McGilvra will sing "The Old Ship Zion," and the Crusade Choir will assist in the presentation singing "Master The Tempest In Raging." The service begins at 8 o'clock.

Second Coming of Christ." The 8 o'clock service will feature the entire team in a musical program preceding Jimmie Johnson's address. Team members will also speak in Sunday morning services in the following churches: Dr. Jimmie Johnson at Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church; Rev. Ralph McGilvra at Hillsdale Baptist Church; and Rev. Merrill Dunlop at Grace Free Will Baptist Church. All three services are at 11:00 a.m. In last night's service Johnson's sermon subject was "The New Look." Senate, House Conferees Named On Teacher Pay Bill

RALEIGH (AP)—Conference committees from the House and Senate were named today in an attempt to work out differences between the two bodies on teacher pay raises.

The Senate and House are in disagreement over whether to give the teachers a 15 per cent raise as recommended by Gov. Hodges and approved by the Senate or a 16.09 per cent boost voted by the House.

The two Houses deadlocked last night when the Senate refused to concur in a teacher pay amendment written by the House into the big 796 million dollar biennial appropriations bill. This necessitated appointment of a conference committee to work out a compromise.

Dozen Countries Ready To Buy Farm Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nearly a dozen countries are reported eagerly waiting for Congress to allow the Eisenhower administration to sell another billion dollars in surplus farm products for foreign currencies.

Poland, Spain and Israel are understood to be pressing the State Department for such assistance in overcoming serious food shortages.

Italy, Pakistan, Japan, India, Yugoslavia and other Asiatic and Middle East nations also are said to have made it known they want some of the U. S. farm products as soon as they become available.

Three billion dollars in such agricultural commodities including wheat, cotton, fats and oils, soybeans and dairy products, have been sold to friendly nations under special arrangement during the past 2½ years. The sales have been for local currency instead of hard dollars under the administration's program of reducing huge stocks of surplus commodities accumulated in government farm price support operations.

The House has sidetracked temporarily a bill to authorize the administration to dip into its stockpile for disposal abroad of another billion dollars of surplus products. The Senate has passed the bill.

The Polish government already has been promised 46 million dollars to cover sales of surplus wheat and cotton as soon as Congress completes action on the legislation.

The Poles signed an agreement yesterday with the United States furnishing Poland $48,900,000 worth of coal mining machinery and farm commodities. However, the administration scrapped the bottom of the barrel to find this amount.

The American embassy in Madrid has backed up Spain's request with urgent cables stressing that quick shipments are needed to avert possible famine.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) called attention to Spain's plight two weeks ago and urged the fastest possible action. But Secretary of State Dulles, while ready to assist, has decided he can do nothing until Congress completes necessary legislative action.

King Saud Pays Visit To Jordan

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Saudi Arabia's King Saud arrived today for a six-day visit with Jordan's young King Hussein aimed at strengthening the bond between the neighboring Arab countries.

The meeting of the two kings aroused fear in some quarters in Cairo that the so-called "liberated Arab front" led by President Nasser might be further endangered. President Shukri al-Khalidi of Syria, Nasser's closest ally, was in Egypt in case of need.

Saud and Hussein exchanged a warm embrace at the airport. An honor guard and high Jordanian dignitaries also were present to greet the visitor who helped Hussein in a battle to retain his throne six weeks ago.

Attempt Made To Get Beck To Quit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Three vice presidents of the Teamsters Union said the union's executive board last month tried to get Dave Beck to take a leave of absence from the presidency until his term expired.

They said Beck refused but later partly satisfied the board's demands by announcing he would not seek reelection.

The vice presidents are Joseph J. Diviny of San Francisco; William A. Lee of Chicago and Frank W. Brewster of Seattle. Brewster also is president of the western conference of Teamsters. The conference's policy committee ended a two-day session here yesterday.

LIT THE FUSE. HAVANA (AP)—Authorities said Emilio Valdes, 14-year-old school boy, found a bomb in a hospital here, took it to his home and lighted the fuse. The explosion tore three fingers from his right hand.

Durham, and hammered into the spending bill by a 68 to 32 House vote.

Eagles said House members "did not meet their responsibility" to balance expenditures for the next two fiscal years with revenue estimates. The teacher pay amendment, he added, threw the budget at least 2½ million dollars out of balance.

The Senate voted Thursday 31 to 19 to keep the teacher pay raise pegged at the 15 per cent figure recommended by Gov. Hodges.

Hill and other House supporters of the pay boost argued that revenue estimates for the next two years could be safely raised to take care of the added expense.

S. C. Students, Freed By Hungary, Lose Passports

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The U. S. consulate today took away the passports of two South Carolina college students back from an excursion into Communist Hungary.

Mike A. Gilbert of Walterboro and Warren William Hair, of North Augusta, S. C. were released by Hungarian police last midnight and returned to Austria after having been jailed incommunicado since May 26.

They are staying in a Vienna lodging arranged for them by the consulate until the State Department decides whether they should be allowed to continue their hitchhiking tour of Europe or ordered to return home.

When they emerged from their Hungarian imprisonment, the youths told reporters waiting for them at the frontier they undertook the trip "for adventure and excitement."

Consular officials were especially annoyed by a statement "We might do it again."

One official said: "These boys knew very well that what they were doing was wrong. They knew that their passports forbid travel in Hungary. They knew they also were violating Austrian border regulations."

"We want to talk to them further and try to impress them with the seriousness of their conduct. Then it will be up to the State Department to decide if they are mature enough to be trusted to travel abroad and can show the proper respect for their passports."

Austrian police this morning discharged the youths to their American custody. They probably will have to remain here three or four days until the State Department decides what to do about them.

Claims Multiple Sclerosis Finding

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The National Multiple Sclerosis Society says it is pleased by the publication of findings by a Russian-born woman scientist who says she has found the germ that causes multiple sclerosis.

Miss Rose Ichelson, gray-haired researcher at St. Luke's and Children's Hospital here, announced yesterday she has successfully isolated a live microorganism which she has "100 per cent reason to believe" is the culprit behind multiple sclerosis or "MS."

"If Miss Ichelson's report is substantiated by other workers a great stride will have been made," the society stated in New York. "If this report be found true," it said, "the first step has been made. A means of treatment must be developed, again requiring research, inasmuch as we know of no medication which alters the course of the disease."

Without a known cure, MS afflicts an estimated 300,000 persons in this country — most of them in the 30-45 age bracket, although some children also have been stricken.

Miss Ichelson said she also had developed a skin test to ascertain whether a patient is a victim of MS. The 59-year-old bacteriologist, a graduate of the Poltava Institute in Russia, has been living here since 1922. She explained that she had isolated the organism alive as long ago as 1951 and that even then she thought it was the cause of MS. Four years later she was producing the organism regularly in cultures.

Multiple sclerosis strikes at the nerves, attacking the nerve fiber covering known as the myelin and leaving scars called sclerotic patches which "short circuit" the nerve system at that point.

This causes such outward symptoms as trembling, paralysis, impaired vision, speech defects and generalized crippling. The recurrent nature of the disease, also called progressive sclerosis, leaves the victim completely helpless.

Resolution Put Before House Urging Girard Case Reversal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Haley (D-Fla.) has introduced a resolution urging the administration to reconsider its decision to allow Army Specialist 3.C. William S. Girard to be tried by Japanese authorities.

The resolution, if adopted, would not be binding. It would represent only an expression of House sentiment in the case of the 21-year-old Ottawa, Ill., soldier accused in the death of a Japanese woman. The case has aroused considerable controversy in Congress and elsewhere.

Meanwhile, townspeople in Ottawa were raising a fund in the GI's behalf, and a citizens' committee arranged to fly here Monday to protest formally the government decision to allow the soldier to be tried by the Japanese rather than before a U. S. military court.

Hill argued there has been "consistent underestimating" of revenue in the past.

Tax reductions for corporations in the revenue bill which the Senate enacted into law yesterday were cited by Rep. George Uzzell of Rowan in arguing for a further boost in teacher pay.

While it voted to up teacher salaries, the House refused, 54-42, to go along with a motion to apply "across the board" an 11 per cent pay raise for other state workers.

Defeat means the pay raises will be distributed under a formula worked out by the State Personnel Council which will give higher percentage pay raises to lower paid workers.

The students appeared in good shape and high spirits when they arrived at the Austrian border checkpoint of Nickelsdorf.

Asked if they would do it again, the answer was:

"Yes, possibly. But at the moment, we are glad to be out."

The students gave this account of their experience:

While staying at a youth hostel in the border town of Rust, they picked up information from the local residents about the pattern of minefields and barbed wire guarding the frontier.

"We learned of a strip of land where a crossing could be made without encountering any such dangers—and there we went May 26," Hair said.

Near Lake Neusiedl, about two miles inside Hungary, they were picked up by Hungarian border guards, who took them to a military camp at nearby Sopron.

The following day, they were moved to Budapest and placed in separate prison cells. They were treated relatively well and given three meals a day.

They had to undergo several interrogations by Hungarian officers who asked them about living conditions in the United States, about their families and whether they had any relatives abroad.

"Though we asked, we were given no opportunity to contact U. S. diplomatic officials in Budapest during the entire period of confinement," said Gilbert.

Miss Ichelson said she also had developed a skin test to ascertain whether a patient is a victim of MS.

CHAPTER 7

Alec Dodson was elected the new president of the Eastern Valley Cattlemen's Association...

"You're driving to Leadville to sell?" "Yes," I explained why I thought it a better market...

On our way home, Sarah said thoughtfully: "Take a leader out of a small community like this and all you get is a bunch of little men trying to be big..."

We were silent for what seemed to me a long while. Then I asked the question I had in mind the night I'd come to fetch her to the Box P for the reading of the will...

"Will," Sarah said suddenly. "I don't want you to take the attitude Joe did. I mean, to kill men to hold on to grazing land that we don't own..."

When I hesitated, she rose and came to the couch and sat beside me. "Tell me what you were going to say..."

I looked at her again, as surprised as the night she'd said I was to be foreman. She turned her face to me, smiling. I said: "You're dreaming. You can't be a leader if you don't belong..."

"I got up and walked to the door. 'I'll be all right. Sarah is giving me a half-interest in the ranch...'"

I was silent. I know I was worrying too much. About Dillingham. About the settlers who would storm into the valley in the spring now that Joe was gone...

I pulled her hands away from me. I said: "You envy and hate her. All right; go right on hating her all you want to..."

I didn't know how much difference it would make if I owned half the Pardee ranch, but I didn't like the idea. The time would come when I'd have to do what Joe had done if I took Sarah's offer...

"I left the house and rode home, thinking that Joe Pardee's death was like a sunset bringing darkness through which each of us who was left behind must feel his own way."

Summer Months Are Ideal Time For That Leisure Reading

FOR EVERYBODY . . . from college, highschool, grade school.

Host Of New Books Offered At Library

By ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Woman's Editor
How do you propose to spend your leisure time during the lazy summer afternoons?

Miss Elizabeth Copeland, librarian at Sheppard Memorial Library, offers this suggestion:

"The Library has something for everyone regardless of your interest, educational background or social background. There are phonograph records that you may borrow and a wide selection of current newspapers, magazines and books offered at the Library."

Since the next to the last day of school, there has been a constant stream of people to the Library every day. Miss Copeland mentioned that "every morning six to ten children are waiting for the Library to open."

During the summer months Sheppard Memorial Library observes the usual hours which are from 10:30 a.m.-9 p.m. daily and from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. on Saturday. The Library is not closed on Wednesday afternoons.

In the Library there are separate sections of books for children to the seventh grade reading level and a young people's section and adult section.

"Each month approximately 400 new fiction and non-fiction books are ordered to fill the reading needs of every person," explains Miss Copeland.

Yesterday 309 fiction and non-fiction books were borrowed from the library; one-third of these were non-fiction adult books.

"It is interesting to note that the non-fiction books borrowed from the Library on a typical circulation day tell an unusual story of the reading pattern of Greenville citizens," says Miss Copeland.

These books ranged in content from the arts, sciences, and the humanities down to books concerned with skills, hobbies, careers, dieting and feeding bridegrooms.

A few of the non-fiction books borrowed from the library yesterday were: "A. B. C. of Cars and Trucks," "How To Live With Your Nerves," "What Makes An Orchestra," "An Aquarium," "Guides To Straight Thinking," "Old Virginia Houses," "Facts and Theories of Psychoanalysis," "Behavior and Misbehavior," "Careers In The W.A.C., WAVES, W.A.P. Women Marines, and Spars," "Exploring Art."

"Design Of The Universe," "What Is Communism?" "One Man's Philosophy," "Why You Do What You Do," "Physics For Our Times," "Your Personal Insurance Guide," "The True Book of Animal Babies," "The Battles That Changed History," "A Guide To Early American Homes," "The Twelve Rules For Straight Things," "All Kinds of Babies and How They Grow."

"What Can You Do For High Blood Pressure?" "When Boy Dates Girl," "The Earth Beneath Us," "How To Play Better Tennis," "The Well-Fed Bridegroom," "Be Slim—Stay Slim," and "Homing Pigeons."

"Peyton's Place" is by far the most sought-after fiction book at the Library now, according to Miss Copeland.

MARIED CHOICE . . . books for all tastes.

History Of Salvation Army Speaker's Topic

Mrs. Louis Gaylord, Jr. was hostess to the Lector Club at her home in Brookgreen on May 28. Arrangements of Spring flowers and greenery were placed throughout the house.

On arrival the guests and members were served a sweet course with coffee by the hostess.

The business meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. Harold Forbes, who welcomed the guests Miss Margaret Johnston and Mrs. Bennie Lewis.

The club voted to have miscellaneous programs for the coming year with each member choosing any program she desires. A previous motion that the club have luncheon meetings next year was voted on and defeated by a majority vote. The members then drew for books and chose the dates they would be hostess for the coming year.

The President then turned the meeting over to the program leader for the afternoon, Mrs. Amos Leggett who introduced Mrs. Bennie Lewis, wife of Captain Lewis of the Salvation Army. She told the origin of the Salvation Army in 1865 in London, England.

"Founded by the Reverend William Booth, the Salvation Army spread through England and Europe and reached the United States in 1870 under the leadership of Scott Railton, the first commissioned officer in the United States," she said.

Mrs. Lewis told of the Salvation Army sponsored hospitals throughout the country and in North Carolina. She also gave a report on the Greenville organization.

"The Salvation Army in Greenville is largely supported by farmers in Pitt County who donate tobacco which is then graded and sold on the floors of some of our local warehouses," she pointed out.

At the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Lewis answered questions concerning the customs and policies of the Salvation Army.

Debt Ceiling Should Be Sufficient

If Congress sticks to its guns on slicing fat out of President Eisenhower's budget, and the administration subsequently keeps a tight line on federal spending, it should be unnecessary for a temporary increase in the national debt ceiling.

Congress has made progress toward cutting the whopping budget proposed by President Eisenhower. The President, while first calling on Congress to cut the budget and then appealing to the people when Congress did some slicing, can and should see that the national debt is kept below the legal limit of $275 billion.

Although no Treasury Department official wants to come right out to say the debt can be kept below the prescribed level, one has been quoted as saying "If Congress can hold government spending to within the limits of President Eisenhower's budget we should make it."

Certainly Congress has given every indication that federal spending during the coming fiscal year is to be considerably below the budget called for by the President. Unless there is an about face in Congress between now and the time of adjournment, the budget for the coming fiscal year will be several billion dollars lower than that called for by the Administration.

If that is the case, Congress should not entertain the possibility of granting again permission for temporarily pushing the national debt above the $275 billion mark as has been done in recent years.

In 1954 Congress boosted the temporary ceiling on the national debt to $281 billion. Similar action was taken by Congress for the fiscal year which ended last June 30. For the fiscal year which ends the last of this month, Congress has authorized a temporary increase of only three billion to $278. By the end of this month, experts say, the national debt will be down to $270 billions.

The five billion dollar spread between that figure and the permanent limit should afford ample leeway for the administration to operate during the coming year.

If both Congress and the administration exert sufficient efforts to hold down spending, it will be unnecessary for another temporary increase in the national debt ceiling.

Should Trucks Carry Their Human Cargoes?

The worst highway accident in the nation's history has set people throughout North Carolina groping for measures which might be taken to prevent a similar tragedy in this state at some future date.

Certainly the death toll, which has now reached 20, would not have been as high had the 41 persons packed into the truck been riding in some more suitable vehicle. Under similar circumstances there may have been fatalities had the vehicle carrying the workers been a bus rather than a truck; but the toll probably wouldn't have been nearly as high.

The very tragedy in itself apparently could have been avoided had the driver of the truck loaded with humans observed the warnings at the intersection.

Is it practical for North Carolina to ban the transportation of passengers on trucks?

It is unusual for as many as 41 persons to be packed into a truck. It is seldom that trucks loaded with human cargo are involved in accidents. Yet it is not unusual for trucks loaded with human cargo to be on the highways in this and other states. Hardly a day passes that throughout the state many trucks are not engaged in transporting people. Every day the practice continues North Carolina is running the risk of another tragedy similar to the one which occurred on highway 301 near Fayetteville on Thursday.

Some steps should be taken by North Carolina to reduce that risk. Even though it is too late now for the legislature to delve into the matter at this session, the Department of Motor Vehicles should carefully review its existing regulations with a view to eliminating insofar as possible another similar tragedy.

Horrible as the accident was, it can yet be used as an important stepping stone to make highway travel in North Carolina safer. It can and should be the impetus which brings about reforms that can save countless lives on the highways of this state in years to come.

No Humility By Unions' Agents

By ELMER ROESSNER
Business is nearing the peak of the annual renegotiation season. Actually, the labor contract dickering period runs from January 1 to December 31, but there is a concentration of expirations in late spring and early summer.

It was planned that way. Long ago labor leaders realized men are much more willing to strike when there are fish and balls to be caught. Even the most put-upon workingman will hesitate to walk out when there is snow on the ground and his children are expecting Christmas presents. So leaders have done their best to set contract dates around times when most men would as lief strike as work.

The prospects at the moment are for a comparatively peaceful season. There will be the usual number of demands, the regular huffing and puffing and an average number of strikes. But on the whole, a moderately peaceful year is expected.

NO HUMILITY
However, judging from hints dropped by labor leaders, management will do well to recognize these points:

1. Labor leaders are not at all cowed by the exposure of Dave Beck and others. They will not approach the bargaining table like humble little boys whose faces are smeared with jam.

2. Because this jam-dipping by a few has reflected on all officials, most negotiators will be highly sensitive. Any implications by management negotiators will be hotly resented. An eyebrow raised at the wrong moment may, in the end, cost management a few cents more per hour.

3. Labor leaders won't buy the theory that we are having a "wage inflation" and that rising labor costs are to blame for the spiral of higher prices, higher costs of living, and still higher wages. Labor has its own persuasive economists who say that isn't so and union officers and membership believe them.

4. Because these economists have told them that the boom is not growing as fast as it was, union leadership will make every effort to keep machines running.

While the leadership will not soften initial demands, it will modify them if it can be convinced that specific demands will slow down production. But leaders will have to be convinced.

5. Labor will not be denied increases covering the rise in the cost of living. The consumer's price index has been rising steadily and a commensurate pay rise will be the bedroom minimum of every union negotiating this year except, of course, those unions who have automatic cost-of-living increases provided in their contracts.

6. The continuing rise in living costs will cause more unions to demand escalator clauses in their contracts.

7. The possibility that the boom is leveling off, or that business conditions may recede in the next few years will cause many leaders to be firm in demands for a shorter work week. A growing argument: A shorter work week will spread available jobs in case of a down-turn.

8. For similar reasons, there will be more emphasis on demands for more fringe benefits.

An Alaskan dairy gives a certificate to each of its 250,000th of an oil lease with each quart of milk. Each certificate is the equivalent of 230 square feet of oil-lease land.

When Feeding Friends—

No Over-Night Decision

The two Ficklen Scholarships which have been established for students at Eppes High School are the largest awards ever created for the school's graduates.

Consequently, conditions under which they will be awarded are probably the toughest any of the school's graduates have encountered. They are not unreasonable, but simply insure that recipients will be thoroughly qualified to receive the two $800 prizes.

City Superintendent of Schools J. H. Rose listed the conditions governing the scholarships at Eppes commencement exercises Tuesday. His public reading explained the difficulty the selection committee is having in picking winners and also pointed out what would be expected of the recipients.

Other Editors Saying-- Expense Is Too High

(Dillon, S. C. Herald)
Federal grants-in-aid to the states and to local government — which are now made for all manner of purposes, running the gamut from airports to traveling libraries — are "the biggest con game in politics." And it is an ever-expanding con game, which is currently adding $5 billion a year to our federal tax bill.

That is the opinion of a man who has had considerable experience with these grants-in-aid — Alfred E. Driscoll, former governor of New Jersey. His account, written in collaboration with Charles Stevenson, appeared in a recent issue of The Reader's Digest.

Governor Driscoll defines grants-in-aid as "nothing more than our own taxes which federal bureaus distribute to states and localities for specified services, usually with the requirement that the recipients put up some matching cash." In an earlier era, the grants involved comparatively small sums of money, and most of that was earmarked for roads. Today, by contrast, they have become, in his words, "the fastest-growing gimmick in politics" and they embrace some 50 different programs.

The grants have come in for heavy attack from authoritative quarters. The Governor's Conditions first prescribe that recipients must attend North Carolina colleges. They also prescribe that characters of recipients must be above reproach and the winner must have proved by past school records that they have made the most of opportunities presented to them.

Recipients must, of course, possess sufficient mental ability to do college work. Beyond that, however, they must have ambition and it must be known to the selection committee that the winners intend to graduate from college.

Parents and guardians of recipients are involved in the scholarship by being required to keenly desire a college education for their children and pledging themselves to that end. Parents are also indirectly in-involved in the provision that recipients must be assured of enough financial help in addition to the scholarships to enable them to stay in college for four years.

The conditions do not put any barriers on the sources of the additional financial help and says that it may come from parents, friends, self-help jobs, loans, other scholarships, or other sources.

According to the conditions, colleges which the winners attend will be required to send reports of grades to Superintendent Rose. If the superintendent decides a recipient is not working, the scholarship will be withdrawn.

If a scholarship is withdrawn, the conditions provide that the unpaid portion of the scholarship can be awarded to another person from Greenville already in a North Carolina college or to a graduate of succeeding classes in Eppes High School.

A scholarship can also be withdrawn if conduct and deportment of a recipient does not meet the highest standards of the college community.

The conditions state, "It is expected and assumed that the recipients of these scholarships shall work so hard and be such ladies and gentlemen that they will bring honor to themselves and their parents, to the C. M. Eppes High School, to the City of Greenville, to the State of North Carolina, to America, and to the memory and the name of James S. Ficklen."

It is also provided that if the City Superintendent of Schools, the Principal of Eppes, and the faculty decide there is no graduate in a particular class who measures up to the requirements, the scholarship will not be awarded. In such a case, the scholarship will be retained and awarded to a qualified member of a succeeding class.

Rose told Eppes' 53 graduates Tuesday that they are all under consideration for the scholarships. He added that it would be impossible to name the winners until the selection committee has investigated all of them, and promised that the winners would be students who thoroughly deserved the awards.

Any member of the class who measures up to the prescribed conditions can rightfully feel he or she is an outstanding student. And you can bet your bottom dollar that the winners will make good adults, too.

Girls-- A Plot Is Afoot

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Get yourself a good assortment of secret weapons, girls. The male is planning to hitch you to a plow.

Time was when the lady of the house didn't even put up her own curtain rods. Go up on a ladder? Perish the thought. But how times have changed.

Nowadays any woman who can't discuss power, leverage, precision timing and automatic gear shift is just plain old-fashioned.

In just a few short years men have educated women to the mechanical age. They repair the dripping faucets. The modern kitchen resembles an airport control tower — levers, gadgets and knobs galore with the lady of the house acting as engineer.

Has a Catch
The housewife who was recognized as chief cook and bottle washer has graduated to the power engineer and field superintendent — and "... there's the rub."

The subtle trend is found in widely used ads for all available products from drills and power saws to tractors, stressing "light enough for the woman of the house to use."

A case in point is the gentleman who informed his wife he has bought a new magnesium ladder that would extend to 16 ft. "light enough," he added "for you to use." She beamed, glanced at their old wooden space rider and then suddenly mumbled, "What would I want with 16 feet of air." (She didn't know that he was thinking the house could use a coat of paint.)

Salesmen are in on the pitch too. I found myself "picking" over some lawn mowers, to use a term from the bargain basement. The industrious salesmen never once mentioned the affinity of men and lawn mowers. "It's the easiest one available for women," he said. "There's no strain. No puff. It has speed control, adjustable cutting heights, safety clutch. You can hang it up in the garage." But best of all, he said, "it is LIGHTWEIGHT."

Those are the magic words being passed from male to male and then to women, the subtlest propaganda of the age, when you notice who is reclining in the hammock on a lovely summer day.

Time for Action
What every bright homemaker needs is her own subtle retaliation. If you want to debunk the idea of woman working while man is lurking, here are some suggestions:

1. Try the "pecking away at the nerves" technique. When he suggests you use the ladder to clean the windows ask him if the disability insurance is paid up and whether the doctor is in his offices that day. Mention casually that yesterday you were dizzy and got spots before your eyes from climbing up on the kitchen step stool.

2. Ask his pocketbook — that's where it will really hurt. If nothing else works, that should. When he suggests you drill the holes in the 2x4s say resignedly something like, "Well, better make a date for a manicure now, then." One small paint job calls for a new hairdo, maybe even a permanent wave if hair is too paint splattered. Emphasize the possibility.

3. Nothing drives a man crazier than to answer the same "dumb" questions "time and again. After he tells you not to touch the power mower parts while the machine is running, bend down in front of it as if you were going to. That will bring him off the chaise longue with a spring.

Opinions In Brief

"Private power initiative has brought immense benefits too, perhaps more than most people realize. There are some 400 independent light and power companies in the United States, and they supply about 80 per cent of all the electric customers." — Daily Inter Lake, Kallispell, Montana.

Unofficially, Russia Is Enemy

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — The Navy now hold regular, frequent and secret conferences with the nation's leading scientists and shipbuilders in their preparations for an entirely new kind of fleet. For obvious reasons, it is one of the most hush-hush operations at the Capital.

Many new devices, especially in the field of underwater detection of enemy submarines, have resulted from these consultations. With large-size U-boats capable of launching planes, atomic bombs and guided missiles off our shores, this is an especially difficult nut to crack, for there are 2,500 vessels sailing the Atlantic Ocean at all times even in days of relative peace.

PECULIAR ROLE OF U.S. In revealing future Navy strategy and tactics, Admiral Arthur W. Radford, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, seemed to be directing his remarks to Representative Clarence Cannon. The veteran Missouri legislator and Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee had expressed the viewpoint that the Army and Navy would be of little use if there were another World War, and that the United States should concentrate on an Air Force second to none.

Radford, however, did admit that 50 per cent of our Navy's postwar strength consists of air power, such as carriers and plane-launching units. He expects that figure to increase rather than to decrease. The old-fashioned battleship is now only a ceremonial thing.

But the United States' peculiar and responsible role as defender of more than 50 free nations forces it to rely more heavily on a conventional fleet. In order to transport men, munitions, food, supplies to virtual dependencies from Turkey to South Korea, we need a sizable complement of transports, cargo carriers, tankers, landing craft, destroyers, minesweepers, etc.

In fact, a new type of sub may even be capable of hauling oil, but they will be extremely expensive. As the Suez blockade demonstrated, the anti-Communist world must be assured of huge quantities of this fuel in many far-off places. These underwater craft are "uneconomical to build now," but Radford added that "We are playing with designs."

RIVALRY HAS HURT REAL UNIFICATION Traces of the persistent interservice rivalry that has bedeviled real unification crept into the testimony of several seadogs. When Admiral Arleigh A. Burke, Chief of Naval Operations, was queried about the possible vulnerability of carriers, he gave the sailors' stock answer of the last 20 years.

"A mobile base on the move at sea," he said, "is infinitely harder to locate and hit with a guided missile than a fixed land base."

"Even if the missile picks up a target, it is incapable of determining whether it is a big ship, a little ship, a merchant ship, friend, foe, neutral or even an iceberg."

"But a land base cannot move. You always know where it is and what it is. It is very hard to locate, identify and hit a moving ship at sea — even a friendly one in practice. "But if a missile is just within 30 or 40 miles of a ship at sea, with some homing device; it could probably home. It varies with the kind of homing device. However, the missile would not be able to select a specific ship to home on."

TARGETS IN ENEMY AREA Burke also indicated that the Navy-Army-Air Force jurisdictional conflict over targets and objectives has not been settled. When asked what areas in Russia or Asia could not now be hit by A-3-D planes, he said:

"There are very few, air. Right in the very center there is a small area which could not be reached, but all the rest of the area could be reached. However, we would start our attack well out at sea, and we would not try to get into the center of Russia at the start."

"We would start well out at sea, where they would have the maximum amount of trouble, and we would have the least amount of opposition. We would strike the targets which are nearest the sea, and work them over until we got complete superiority, and then we would work closer into the beach."

Sanford Pacing Phillies Toward First Position

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press
The story goes that Jack Sanford had to threaten a club official with a poke in the nose to stick with the Philadelphia Phillies this spring. It seems incredible—now that the fast-balling righthander is 7-1 and tops the National League with an 87.5 percentage.

In early April, however, it almost figured that Sanford might have to put the slug on somebody to ever make the majors. He was 27 and had kicked around in the minors for seven years.

He was 1-0 last year after joining the Phillies when he left the Army late in the season—but in his last full season in organized ball he was 3-14, with Syracuse in 1954.

An incredible yarn? Sanford made it virtually preposterous last night. He three-hit the Chicago Cubs, striking out 13 for a 1-0 victory—his second consecutive shutout. It hoisted the third-place Phillies within a half-game of first place Cincinnati.

The skidding Redlegs lost their sixth in the last 10 games, beaten 6-3 by second-place Brooklyn and the three-hit pitching of Roger Craig.

Fourth-place Milwaukee moved to within two games of the lead, beating Pittsburgh 5-0. And St. Louis beat the New York Giants 5-3 in 11 innings.

In the American League, Chicago's White Sox stayed five games out front, despite a 3-2, 11-inning defeat by Baltimore, as second place New York was spilled 6-3 at Detroit. The Tigers moved into third place as Cleveland lost its fifth in a row, 11-7 to Washington.

Kansas City handed Boston a fourth consecutive loss, 6-3.

The Phillies managed only four hits off loser Dave Hillman and Turk Lown. Chico Fernandez hit a sacrifice fly in the fourth after doubles by Ed Bouchee and Rip Repulski, sandwiching a force out, and a walk had loaded the bases. Solo home runs by Rube Walker and Don Zimmer brought the Dodgers a 4-2 lead in the fourth against loser Johnny Klippstein. Craig made it good, giving up only Ed Bailey's one-out homer in the ninth.

Warren Spahn blanked the Pirates on seven singles to win his sixth. Del Crandall's two-run single bagged it in the second against Bob Purkey, but the Braves added three more in the seventh to make sure.

A two-run homer by Del Ennis, his only hit in five at bats, won for the Cards, who had been blanked by rookie Curt Barclay for four frames. Larry Jackson won his seventh (he's lost two) with Lloyd Merritt's 11th-inning relief.

Tito Francona's single brought home the run that beat Jack Harshman. George Zuverink won his fifth in relief as the White Sox blew two chances with base-running mistakes while out-hitting the Orioles 12-8.

The Tigers came from behind with four runs in the seventh to chase Don Larsen. Frank Bollinger's two-run single was the clincher for Jim Bunnings' fifth victory. The young righthander gave up Mickey Mantle's 14th home run, but closed the Yankees' winning streak at four by fanning 10.

Four runs in the eighth broke a 7-7 tie for the Senators as the Tribe lost five in a row for the first time since September, 1953. Hal Smith was 4-for-4, with a home run and two doubles, and Gus Zernial and Milt Graff each drove in two runs for the A's, who beat Willard Nixon with a four-run second inning. Wally Burnette won it.

Six In Marble Tourny Finals

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Six youngsters knuckled down to business here today in the final round of the Southern marbles tournament.

The six survivors of yesterday's opening round play in three divisions, were Joe Rusing of High Point; Wayne Hale of Bristol, Tenn.; Ralph Davis of Rankin; Larry Wicker of High Point; Kerion Ball of Salem, Va., and George Evans of Danville, Va.

Rusing, Ball and Davis were the winners in the three leagues with Hale, Wicker and Evans finishing second.

Fullmer Back Pedalled His Way Into Win

CHICAGO (AP)—Ex-middleweight champion Gene Fullmer back pedalled his way into the title picture last night by winning an unanimous decision over Ralph (Tiger) Jones at Chicago Stadium.

Fullmer, who only a month ago lost his title to Sugar Ray Robinson in the same ring, retreated through most of the 10 rounds of the nationally televised match but came on strong in the final rounds to win.

Jones, who weighed 157, was disgusted with Fullmer's plans and said in his dressing room "I told him to start fighting. That he was supposed to have been a champion and he ought to fight like he was and he kept running."

However, Fullmer's manager, Marv Jensen, said his man's strategy called for the former champion to retreat until Jones came out of his crouch.

Jensen said Fullmer, 161, would seek a third match with Robinson but added that plans for a Robinson-Carmen Basilio match this September erased the West Jordan, Utah, battler's chances this year.

Fullmer was swinging hard in the late rounds and although he was guilty of missing many of his shots, the effort was good enough for him to win.

Referee Joey White voted for Fullmer, 49-48. Judge Howard Walsh scored it 48-43 and Judge Frank Clark had it 49-44. The Associated Press saw it 46-45 for Fullmer. It attracted 2,679 fans.

Guaranty Bank Trips College View team, 6-2

Guaranty Bank defeated College View last night at Guy Smith Stadium, 6-2, in a Teen-er League contest.

The Bankers' record now stands at 2-2. The College View crowd has lost all four of their contests thus far.

Joe Moyer started on the hill for the winning Bankers and went the full seven innings. He gave only one hit and turned in one of the finest pitching performances of the Teen-er season.

Malcolm Griffith was the losing pitcher. He went the full seven innings and was clubbed for seven hits.

Moye fanned nine batters and walked seven, while Griffith struck out eight and walked only two.

Pitcher's Duel
Despite Guaranty Bank's six runs, the game was primarily a pitcher's duel. Griffith gave up his runs in the first and fifth innings and kept the lid on the Bankers throughout the other innings.

Moye allowed the College View outfit to score on two errors, a walk and one hit.

Billy James, Guaranty Bank third baseman, took hitting honors for the night with two singles. He was the only man on either team to tally more than one baseknock.

Guaranty Bank batters who collected hits besides James were Sumrell, Moye, Nobles, Brewer and Johnson.

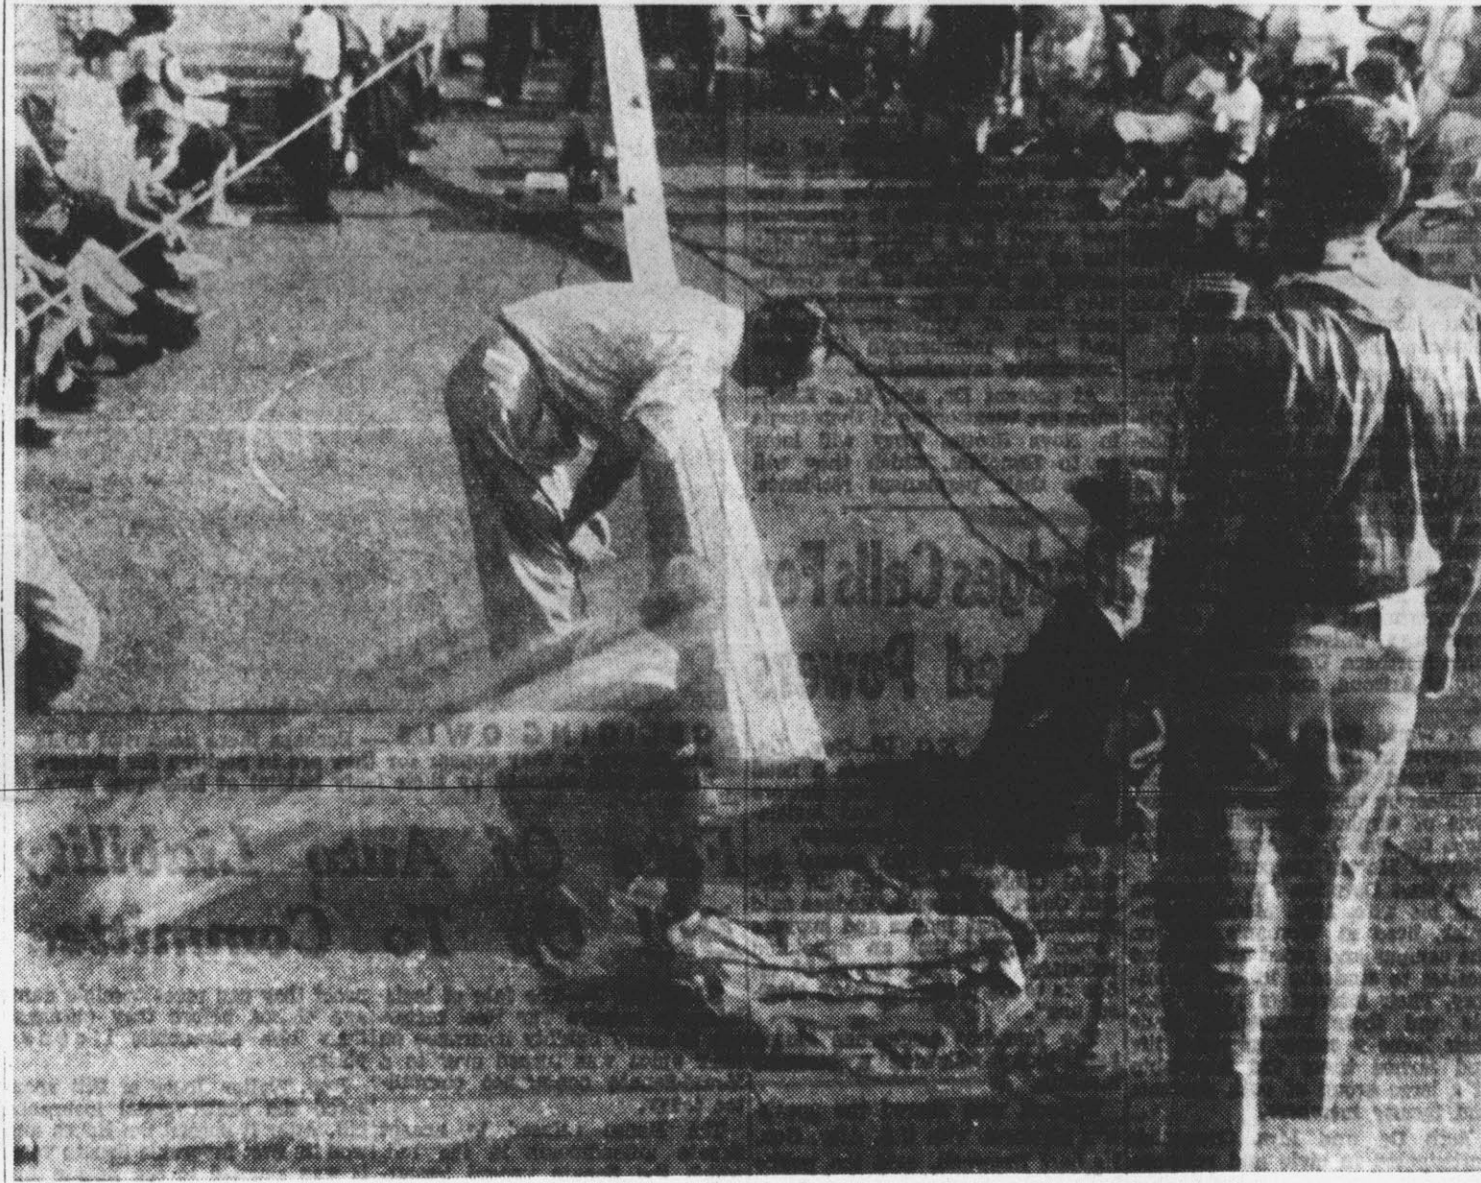

Taft made the only CV hit of the night.

The next Teen-er Game on tap is scheduled for Monday night at 7:45. It will feature the Guaranty Bank vs. the State Bank.

Hands Moore Ultimatum To Fight Or Lose His Title

DETROIT (AP)—The National Boxing Assn. says Archie Moore must defend his light heavyweight crown in a United States bout by July 7 or relinquish the title.

The ultimatum by NBA President Floyd Stevens was the latest in repeated "put it on the line or get out" orders to the ancient vagabond. But this time the NBA says it means business.

It notified Moore yesterday that he is suspended and that if he doesn't get into a U. S. fight within the month his title will be declared vacant and given to the winner of a series of elimination bouts.

The latest decree stems from Moore's failure to meet Tony Anthony of New York in a Detroit fight scheduled for last night.

Moore, in Germany on a European tour, threatened to sue the NBA for one million dollars "for attempting to deprive me of my right to make a livelihood."

"Let him sue," replied Stevens. The NBA president said Moore had agreed to fight the winner of the Anthony-Chuck Spieser bout, which he lost last April. Anthony knocked out Spieser in the third round.

Stevens said Moore told him May 4 that he would fight Anthony here if he was guaranteed $100,000.

"We're concerned with a reasonable defense of the title and Moore's promise to fight the winner of the Anthony-Spieser fight," Stevens said. "We're not interested in the money."

Stevens said, "I don't think we'd recognize a title defense in Europe against a European fighter."

Kinston, North Mecklenburg To Play For Title

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The Class AA high school baseball title will be decided here tonight when North Mecklenburg and Kinston clash in the final of their best-of-three game series.

Kinston fought its way back to a 6-5 victory here yesterday after North Mecklenburg had won Thursday's opening game.

After a see-saw battle yesterday, Kinston shortstop John Cutler slugged a double scoring Lloyd Cummings in the sixth inning with what proved to be the winning run.

Both pitchers went the distance. Winner Eddie Taylor gave up seven hits and loser Lewis Bullard nine.

Boatwright Can Still Hold His Own On Links

By KEN ALYTA
HENDERSONVILLE, N. C. (AP)—When the Carolina Golf Assn. hired 29-year-old Purvis James (P.J.) Boatwright as its executive secretary over a year ago, it removed from the active playing scene one of the South's better amateurs.

His duties in setting up and overseeing the smooth operation of the many tournaments of the organization have prevented the slender former-Georgia Tech and Wofford College student from playing much competitive golf.

But he still can hold his own with the best of them in this area as he proved yesterday by winning the Carolinas Open tournament in a three-man sudden death playoff.

P. J., a 6-3, 145-pounder who moved from Aiken, S. C., to Pinehurst when he took the CGA post, had tied at 210, three under par, with Aiken pro Orville White and Gastonia amateur Dave Smith.

They, in turn, were only one shot ahead of three others. Fayetteville amateur Bobby Harrison, at 18 a player of great potential, and pros Chuck Alexander of High Point and Joe Cheves of Morganton.

Boatwright, after taking a bogey five on the 18th hole to miss winning the title in regulation distance, matched White's par four on the first extra hole while Smith dropped out with a six as he caught a trap with his second and made a weak out. P. J. had to sink a "comeback" putt of more than five feet after going by the hole with his first putt, a tricky downhill.

He and White made fine par threes on the second and on the third Boatwright rolled in a 20-footer for a birdie three to become the only amateur aside from Billy Joe Patton to win the tournament.

Patton won it in 1951 and shared the title with Bobby Locke without a playoff the next year.

Boatwright had rounds of 70-82-68 against 69-71-70 for White and 71-70-69 for Smith.

White, who'll be 49 next month, won two Carolinas Opens, the last in 1945 in a playoff with Thurman Edwards. White had played many times with Boatwright at Aiken and P. J. credited the pro with helping him improve his game.

Durham Holding 3-Game Spread

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Durham held a fat three-game lead in the Carolina League today after beating second-place Winston-Salem, 4-2, last night.

A cool catch by pitcher Phil Regans snuffed out a Red Bird rally in the ninth to preserve the victory. Three singles loaded the bases, but Regan took catcher Al Davis' hopper to halt the threatened reversal.

Third-place Greensboro used a long triple by Don Long to take a 4-3 decision over Wilson in a 10-inning contest.

High Point-Thomasville and Danville divided a double bill, with the Hi-Toms victorious by 1-0 in the opener, and Danville the winner, 7-3, in the finale.

Although Durham picked only seven hits off Red Bird hurler George Moton, four were timely doubles. Winston-Salem batters managed nine hits off Regan, three in the final inning.

Wilson lost an edge over Greensboro when Don Gile, back in action for the Patriots for the first time in three weeks, blasted a homer in the bottom of the ninth. Long's triple gave Greensboro the margin in the overtime inning.

Hi-Toms' southpaw Art Hirsch bested Danville lefthander Larry Devita in the seven-inning opener. A six-run rally by Danville broke the second game wide open in the seventh.

Games tonight:
Winston-Salem at Wilson; Danville at Durham, Greensboro at Hi-Toms.

Ward Found Guilty, Will Be Sidelined

CHICAGO (AP)—National amateur champion Harvie Ward, found guilty of violating "rules of amateur status," was sidelined for a year by the U. S. Golf Assn. yesterday and will be unable to defend his title at Brookline, Mass., in September.

Ward, 31, was placed on probation by the U.S.G.A.'s Executive Committee after a day-long

The penalty extends through May 6, 1958, but Ward immediately applied for reinstatement as an amateur and will compete in the U. S. Open at Toledo, Ohio, next week.

Joseph Day, U.S.G.A. executive director, said Ward had accepted unauthorized expenses for participation in tournaments dating from the British amateur in May 1952 through the Colonial Open at Fort Worth, Tex., last month.

"They made the decision," Ward said. "I feel badly about it. I didn't feel I had done anything wrong and still think I didn't do anything wrong."

Day said Ward was found guilty of accepting expenses "incident to participation in golf competitions in such a manner as to infringe the rules during a period beginning May 1952 and ending May 6, 1957."

Ward is employed by Eddie Lowery, San Francisco automobile dealer, and was hired in October, 1953. Lowery, a member of the USGA Executive Committee from 1953 through 1956, recently testified he had paid Ward's expenses to the Canadian and U. S. amateur tournaments.

Eight Records Broken In NAIA

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—John Fromm of Pacific Lutheran College at Parkland, Wash., flipped the javelin 243 feet, 11 inches last year by the U. S. Golf Assn. yesterday and will be unable to defend his title at Brookline, Mass., in September.

Ward, 31, was placed on probation by the U.S.G.A.'s Executive Committee after a day-long

His toss was one of eight new NAIA marks set.

Bobby Morrow, Olympic sprint champion from Abilene Christian College in Texas, breezed to recent victories in the 100 and 200 yard dashes, and his coasting victory of 21.3 seconds in the 220 yard was good for a new meet mark.

In the 100 he won by a yard over Olan Cassell of East Tennessee State, who is expected to push the Texan in the finals tonight.

Elias Gilbert of Winston-Salem College in North Carolina set meet records in the 120-yard high hurdles (13.8 seconds) and the 220-yard lows (23.4 seconds).

Gilbert's arch rival, Olympic champion Lee Calhoun of North Carolina College, easily won his two heats.

Kent Osborne of East Tennessee State set a meet record in the 3,000-meters steeplechase.

Kernersville Wins Class A Baseball Crown

KERNERSVILLE, N. C. (AP)—The Class A high school baseball title belonged to Kernersville today after the Western division champions swept the first two games of the championship series with Williamston.

Kernersville stopped Williamston 11-1 here last night for its second win in the best of three series.

Tommy Echols won the distance for the winners parting with six hits. His mates backed him up with a 10-hit attack off three Williamston hurlers.

Four boys may compete from each town in the state whether or not it has a local Jaycee chapter. The winners get an expense-paid trip to the national tournament in Santa Monica, Calif., in July.

Two N. C. Stars May Steal Show

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A battle between two North Carolina stars is expected to steal the show here tonight in the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletic track and field championships.

Elias Gilbert of Winston-Salem (N.C.) Teachers College smashed two meet records in yesterday's qualifying. He won the first heat in the qualifying runs last night with a record breaking performance in the 120-high hurdles.

Gilbert zipped through the distance of :13.8, bettering the old record of :13.9 set by Lee Calhoun of North Carolina College in 1955.

Gilbert followed that up with a new record of :23.4 in the 220-low hurdles.

Deadline Monday For Net Tourny

GOLDSBORO, N. C. (AP)—The State Junior Chamber of Commerce issued a reminder today that the deadline is midnight Monday for entries in the state tennis tournament for boys here June 20-22.

The Jaycees said entries—from applicants under 18 years old—should be postmarked by midnight and addressed to Frank Hood, 103 Banks Ave., Goldsboro.

Four boys may compete from each town in the state whether or not it has a local Jaycee chapter. The winners get an expense-paid trip to the national tournament in Santa Monica, Calif., in July.

Dr. Walter S. Krausnick, faculty member at East Carolina since 1947, has retired, according to an announcement from the college administration. During his period of service at East Carolina, he taught physics for a short time in the department of science and then joined the department of mathematics.

A native of St. Louis, Dr. Krausnick received his undergraduate training at the University of Missouri. His degrees include the master of science from Texas A. and M., the master of arts from the University of Texas, and the doctor of philosophy from the University of Michigan. Before coming to East Carolina, he taught mainly in the field of electrical engineering at a number of colleges and universities, including Ohio Northern University, University of Arizona, and Texas A. and M. journalism. Butler was educated at East Carolina College and George Washington University. His public service includes contributions to religion, education, civic and business affairs.

S. Lee Braxton, former mayor and banker of Winterville, was honored with the degree of Doctor of Laws. Braxton was born in Pactolus, later moved to Scotland Neck and began his business career in Whiteville. He is now national director of the radio and television programs of Oral Roberts, internationally known minister of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Holland, an educator with many years of service in North Carolina, including the superintendency of Jones County Schools, and a professor at Southwestern College in Oklahoma City, said the two Tar Heels were among four persons to have honorary degrees conferred by Belin Memorial University.

Film Shown To Exchange Club

At the Greenville Exchange Club's meeting last night, Dr. John L. Watters had charge of the program, and showed a film entitled "Prescription For Life."

It depicts the many essential uses for blood and demonstrates the fact that in many cases there is no substitute for blood or its derivatives in saving life.

The physician also announced that the Bloodmobile will be in Greenville on June 14 at the Moose Temple.

President Howard Moyer, who presided, announced that the Marine School of the Dance, sponsored by the club, was a success.

Cadets Watch As Jet Explodes

GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex. (AP)—A Navy fighter, billed as the world's fastest naval plane, exploded and crashed yesterday, killing its pilot in full view of a group of visiting naval aviation cadets.

It narrowly missed heavy populated sections of the metropolitan Dallas area.

The F8U-1 Crusader took off from and made a low pass over Hensley Naval Air Station just before the explosion.

The body of the test pilot, James Buckner, 31, of Dallas, was found in shallow back waters of the swollen Trinity River. Buckner was a test pilot for Chance ought manufacturer of the F8U-1.

Hodges Calls For Defined Powers

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Luther Hodges says there is a need for clearer definition of powers between the judicial and legislative branches of government.

Speaking at the 72nd annual Judicial Conference of the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals, Hodges said yesterday that judges and lawyers "seem agreed that an appointed judiciary with long tenure of office is to be preferred to an elected one."

The four-day conference closed here today following a business meeting.

Hodges, who shared the speaker's platform with U.S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, said the public will accept appointed judges if they are "completely satisfied that the judges approached their business with the viewpoint of limiting their decisions to interpretations."

"At the same time, I believe that if the public receives the impression that judges are prone to undertake the initiative in making or administering laws, then the public will insist that judges be elected and subjected to the immediate will of the body politic."

A third speaker yesterday was Charles S. Rhyne of Washington, D.C., president-elect of the American Bar Assn. He said there is a "crying need" for an ABA federal legislative committee to help get needed judicial legislation through Congress.

Other speakers included Circuit Court Judge Simon E. Sobeloff of Baltimore and Augustine Smythe Sr. of Charleston, S.C.

Suggest Check Of Stratosphere

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U. S. Weather Bureau scientist suggests development of new type high-altitude rockets to check on radioactive matter blasted into the stratosphere by H-bombs.

Dr. Harry Wexler said more information is needed on how this radioactive "debris" behaves in the stratosphere to understand better its distribution as "fall-out."

He suggested development of a relatively inexpensive, lightweight solid-propellant rocket, "capable of carrying meteorological instruments to 200,000 feet and dropping them by parachute which can be followed by radar."

He offered the idea in a statement submitted to a Senate-Atomic Energy Subcommittee which yesterday ended hearings aimed at evaluating the radiation hazard of fallout.

Sen. Anderson (D - NM), vice chairman of the joint committee, told reporters the hearings brought out that "more research is needed" on the biologic effects of atomic radiation.

Other testimony on the final day of the hearings included these points:

1. U. S. Surgeon Gen. Leroy E. Burney said it has become necessary "to re-examine and reassess" the humanitarian use of radiation for research and healing purposes because exposure from other sources of radiation, including nuclear bomb fallout, "is on the increase."

2. Dr. Arthur R. Schuler of Lamont Geological Laboratory, Columbia University, said: "I think most scientists agree that weapons testing should be limited insofar as it is possible and consistent with national security, and indeed, if it were possible, that such testing should be completely eliminated."

The high tribunal ruled in effect Monday that the government must make available to the defense in criminal cases certain reports prepared by federal agents or dismiss the case.

Judge Frank M. Johnson, a visiting jurist from Montgomery, Ala., ruled in Atlanta that investigative files should be made available to the defense in the case of George Alvin Leonard, a druggist, on trial on charges of violating federal narcotics laws.

U. S. Dist. Atty. James Dorsey refused and Johnson dismissed the case. Attorneys said the dismissal amounted to an outright acquittal for Leonard.

Fate Of Auto Liability Bill Up To Committee

RALEIGH (AP)—The fate of legislation to require Tar Heel motorists to carry liability insurance on their autos was turned over to a House-Senate conference committee today.

The House refused to accept Senate amendments in the bill, which the Senate passed yesterday by a 24 to 21 vote.

Rep. Brantley Womble of Wake said he made the motion for a conference committee to avoid lengthy explanations and debate on the various Senate amendments. The motion was supported by Rep. Walter Jones of Pitt who introduced the bill.

An objection to $450,000 in appropriations written into the bill by the Senate was voiced by Rep. Reid Thompson of Chatham. He charged that it was an effort by the Motor Vehicles Department to "come in the back door to get new patrolmen" since a request for new patrolmen was turned down in the appropriations bill.

The compulsory auto liability insurance measure has traveled a long and rocky legislative road. If it becomes law, thousands of car owners will have to provide proof they can meet possible damage claims before they purchase their 1958 automobile license plates.

Rep. Walter Jones of Pitt sponsored the controversial insurance bill. After it passed the House and won its first favorable Senate vote, it was shunted to the Senate Appropriations Committee with an amendment for a $125,000 appropriation for administrative costs.

It came out of the committee this week, carrying an additional $200,000 appropriation for the next two fiscal years, provided the governor and Council of State find the added amount is needed.

Advocates claim the measure will bring in some $480,000 over the biennium from insurance premiums.

Vesper services will be held each Tuesday and Wednesday at the Center at 6:30 p.m. Mary Greene of Morrisville and Mary Louise Dixon of Penderlee are in charge of these programs.

The Monday forums will be followed by a supper meeting for those attending.

Navy Ship And Hollywood Cast Had Narrow Escape

HONOLULU (AP)—A Navy ship carrying a Hollywood movie cast and crew yesterday narrowly escaped what its captain said "could have been a very serious accident" when 11 depth charges exploded prematurely off its stern.

The destroyer-escort Whitehurst suffered engine room damage from the blasts which sent a wall of water more than 100 feet into the air just behind the fantail.

"It wasn't serious but we were lucky," said the skipper, Lt. Cmdr. Walter R. Smith of Los Angeles.

Actor Robert Mitchum, who plays a captain in a World War II sea battle film, "The Enemy Below," was giving firing orders when the depth charges went off 40 yards astern.

Director Dick Powell and his wife, actress June Allyson, were on the bridge when the accident occurred 18 miles off Pearl Harbor.

Smith said, "Mitchum gave the right order. But somehow our men at the ash can (depth charge) racks in the stern heard three orders to fire on their earphones. We usually fire two at a time but a whole load went up at once," Mitchum said. "I didn't know

Wrecks Produce Much Damage

Property damage amounted to approximately $1,265 in two wrecks here, one yesterday afternoon, the other early this morning.

A 36-year old woman sustained minor arm cuts in a two-car collision this morning. The accident took place at the intersection of Fourth and Ford Streets around 4:20 a.m.

Involved were: Sewood Elliott Shelby, 40-year-old Negro of 1109 Campestele Dr., in Norfolk, and Madeline Stokes Little, of 1110 W. Fourth St. Shelby was charged with failure to yield the right of way by an investigating officer of the Police Department.

Officers estimated damages to the front bumper of the Shelby vehicle at $15. The automobile being operated by Mrs. Little suffered $500 damage.

Late yesterday afternoon a collision occurred on N. Greene St. No personal injuries were reported with a 1957 automobile being operated by John H. Taylor, Jr. of Bethel crashed into the rear of an automobile yielding to a stop light. Damage to both vehicles was estimated at $750.

Police identified the driver of the other vehicle involved in the accident as Jack Ross of Greenville Rt. 1.

The accident took place at 5 p.m. No charges were preferred.

Kennedy Says 'No Aspirations'

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.) says he has no presidential or vice presidential aspirations for 1960, that the only candidacy he has in mind is for re-election next year to his seat in the Senate.

Kennedy, here to speak before the Arkansas Bar Assn., told an interviewer that the Democrats have numerous presidential prospects for the 1960 race, but he declined to single out any of them. The Republicans, he added, had only two—Vice President Nixon and Sen. Knowland of California.

In his address to the bar association, Kennedy outlined what he described as "glaring gaps" in federal law which allow corrupt union officials to misuse labor funds and property.

He said he would like to see the Motor Vehicles Department "come in the back door to get new patrolmen" since a request for new patrolmen was turned down in the appropriations bill.

Hotel Guest Stayed Longer Than He Planned; 50 Years

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "How long will you be staying?" asked the hotel clerk.
"Oh, a few days," replied Emil Arky, a young clothing salesman...

Best of all, here in North Carolina's famous Outer Banks country, you'll find your favorite fun-whether it be game fishing, hunting, sight-seeing, surf bathing, relaxing or many other pastimes that make the area America's most unusual vacationland.

Nags Head
Whatever you desire in a sea-coast vacation you will find at Nags Head. A region of history and legend, a land where history began. Fort Raleigh and Lost Colony; pirate lore and memorable shipwrecks; birthplace of aviation.

On nearby Roanoke Island, long-est-lived outdoor production, Paul Green's symphonic drama The Lost Colony, every night, except Monday, July and August. You can enjoy tramping the ever shifting, wind swept, golden Dunes of Dare. There is where you will find America's highest coastal sand dunes.

It was a sixty-seven day voyage by way of the Canary Islands and the West Indies. The little group of English people expected to find a "new world paradise" on the most sweet and fruitful soil in all the world.

As you watch this exciting historical mystery unfold, on the very spot on which it took place, you, too, will begin to sense the challenge of carving out a new life in a strange country!

Cape Hatteras
Between broad, shallow sounds and foaming ocean surf lies Cape Hatteras national Seashore Recreational Area, a thin barrier of golden sand on the windswept Outer Banks of North Carolina.

In nearly every village, and on adjoining sand ridges, are found individual trees or growing mats of the evergreen yaupon (specie of holly) beautiful at anytime of the year but at their best in mid-winter when loaded with scarlet berries. Mixed with the yaupon are the stately live Oaks which, in the past, furnished shade and wood to many generations of "Bankers."

Westward from the elbow angle of Cape Hatteras is the widest part of the Outer Banks, almost three miles across, near the village of Buxton. The Buxton Woods extend westward for more than eight miles. Fine stands of loblolly pine, American holly, and live oak cover the higher ridges and slopes. Between the ridges are marshy valleys, in some of which are attractive fresh-water ponds.

At the edge of the ponds and marshes, the forest takes on a lush subtropical quality with dense banks of ferns, shrubs, and climbing vines. The fleeting sight of a dwarfed white-tailed deer is not unusual.

Ministers Delayed First Father's Day Poison Answering Service Saves Philadelphia Lives

By DAVE BOWEN
If it didn't take ministers so long to prepare sermons, Father's Day may have been celebrated on the first rather than the third Sunday in June.

The first Sunday in June of the year 1910 was June 5, the birthday of a man named William Smart. The woman who inspired the Father's Day we observe this year on June 16 had William Smart in mind when the idea came to her that fathers, like mothers, should get special familial tribute at least once a year.

Resourceful Father
William Smart was a Civil War veteran who reared his six children alone on a farm in eastern Washington after their mother died.

The only girl among those six children grew up to become Mrs. John Bruce Dodd. The idea for Father's Day, she has said, came to her one morning as she was washing dishes.

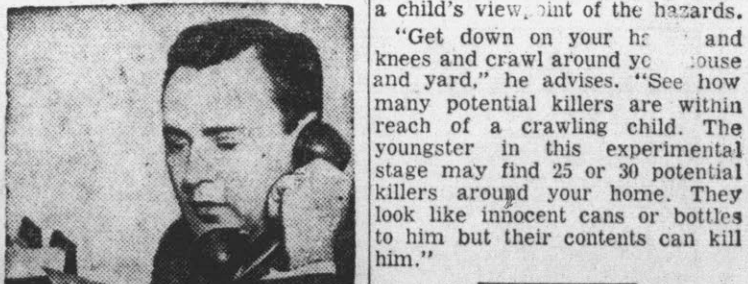

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — When a life is hanging in the balance, there's a phone number in Philadelphia that can always come up with an answer.

On an average of five times a day, the phone at this city's Poison Control Center rings and an often terrified parent implores quick instructions on what to do for a child who has swallowed laundry bleach, polish, detergent or a host of other household items.

Handy File
A card file in the office gives the best emergency antidotes for any common poisonous substance a victim is apt to have eaten or drunk.

Dr. Dixon says there is almost nothing a small child won't eat. The department has treated tots who have feasted on machine oil, rust remover, pet cleaners, matches and even the contents of vacuum cleaner bags.

TV Snack
The man was watching television and got hungry. Looking in the ice box he saw an unmarked jar he thought was peanut butter. He settled back down by the TV and he bit into his sandwich.

June 1957
The day of remembrance grew to national importance with President Woodrow Wilson having a Father's Day button pressed in the White House in 1916 and President Calvin Coolidge recommending national observance of Father's Day in 1924.

EARTH SATELLITE

Some time soon, it is hoped, the first man-made satellite in history will be whirling in space.

The launching of the satellite — Project Vanguard — will be one of America's many contributions to the International Geophysical Year, starting July 1.

Scientists the world over will follow its progress with close interest. A huge, three-stage rocket, shot up from some point in the United States, will send the satellite on its way.

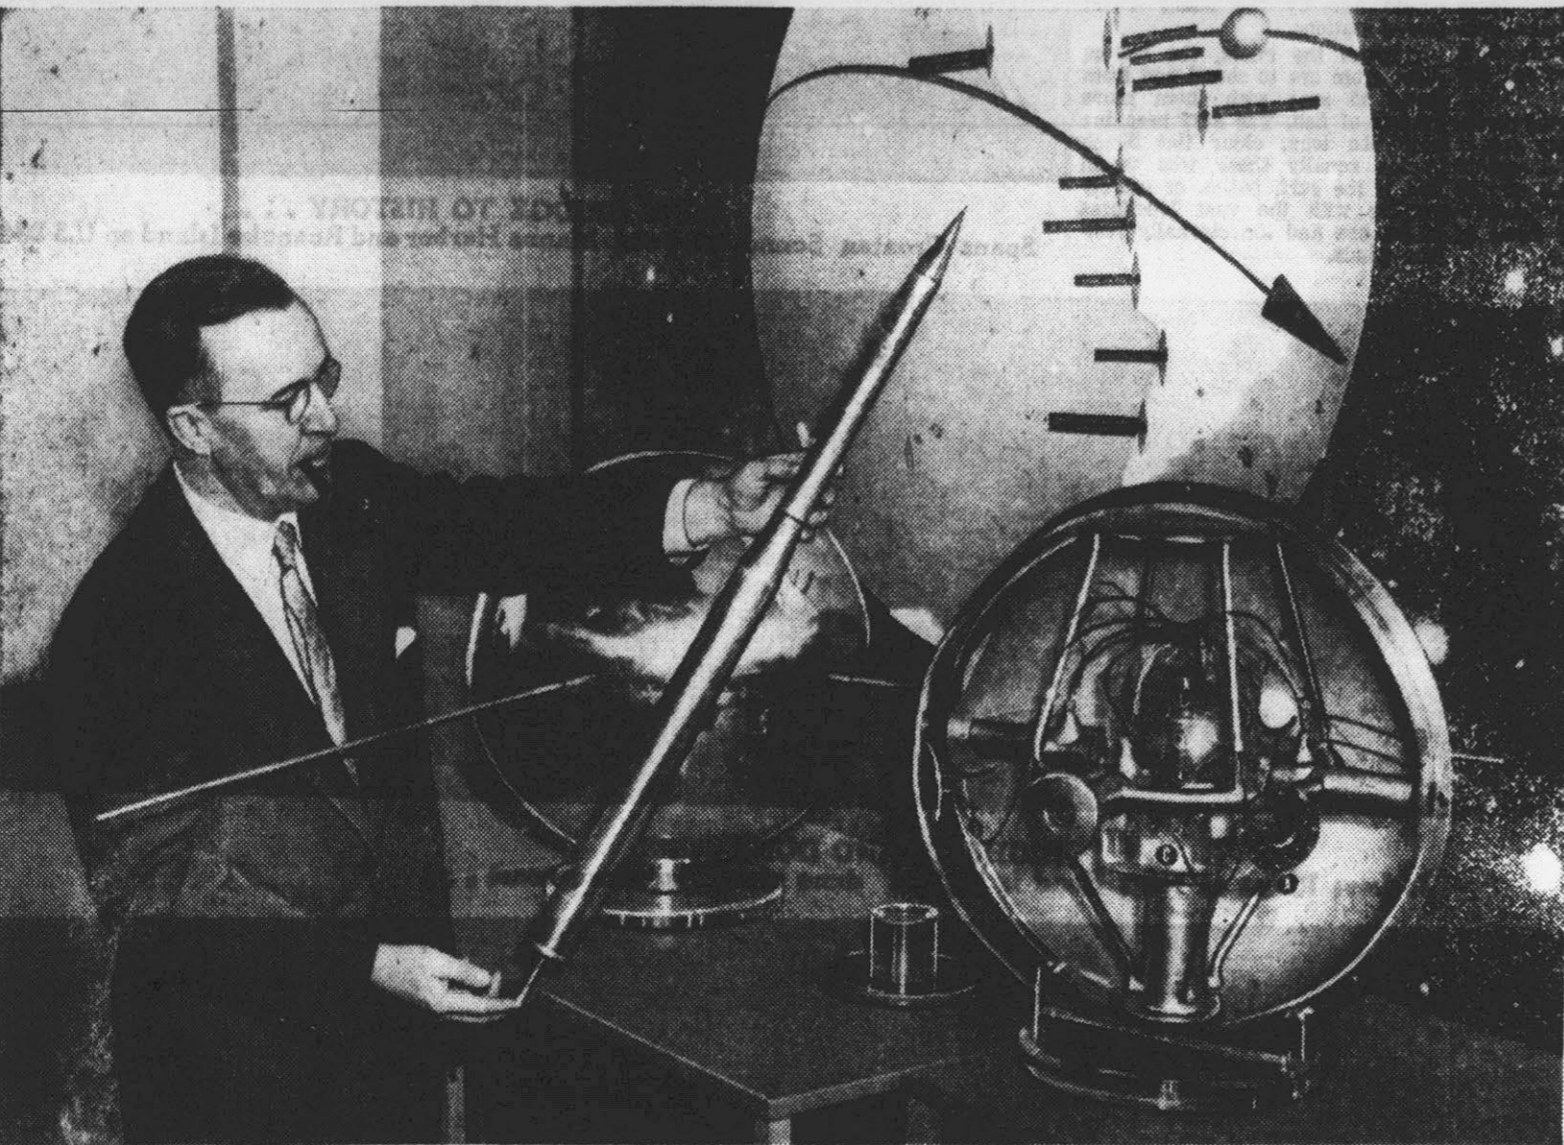

The satellite is a small metal globe. It measures 20 inches in diameter and weighs about 21 pounds, with half its weight in instruments. The third-stage rocket will fire it into space some 300 miles up where it is expected to follow an orbital path around the earth, speeding along at some 18,000 miles an hour.

Special observers the world over will arrange a "fence" of telescope sightings across the sky in an attempt to spot the missile. Batteries in the whirling globe will keep it reporting to earth for several weeks. Then the earth scientists will have to rely on their own radio wave contacts and on the observation stations.

Nobody knows how long the satellite will keep going around the earth. Guesses run from two weeks to six weeks, or far longer. It could possibly burst out of its orbit and head away from the earth; it could burn up and disintegrate as it comes back to earth. There's very little chance it might land in somebody's backyard.

Preparations for the launching are shown here.

At Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, Dr. John P. Hagen, head of Project Vanguard, holds model of rocket that will carry satellite into its orbit, the path of which is suggested in rear. At right is model of "moon."

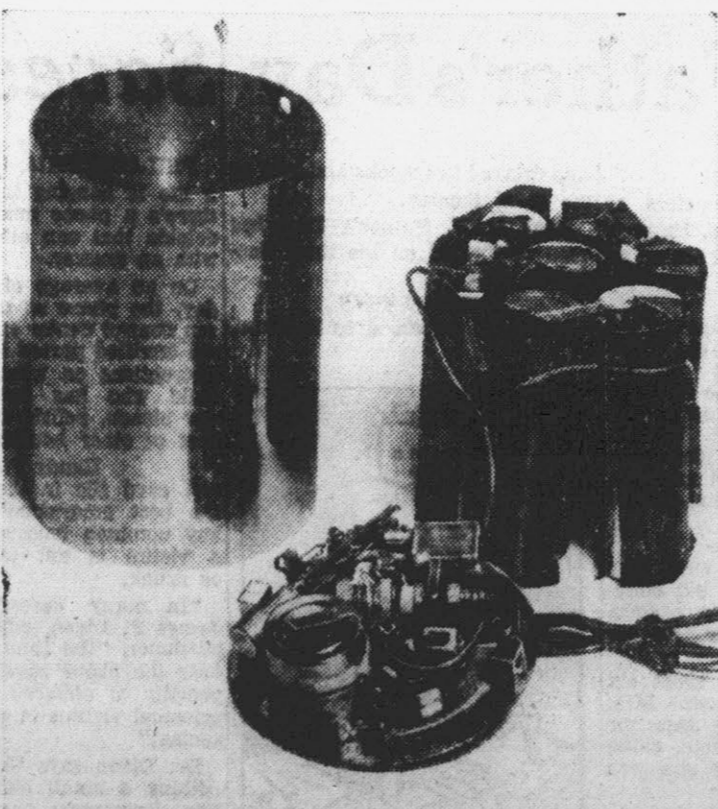

ADVENTURE INTO SPACE. Drawing shows how three-stage rocket will hurl the man-made satellite into space. It is expected to travel path some 300 miles above the earth.

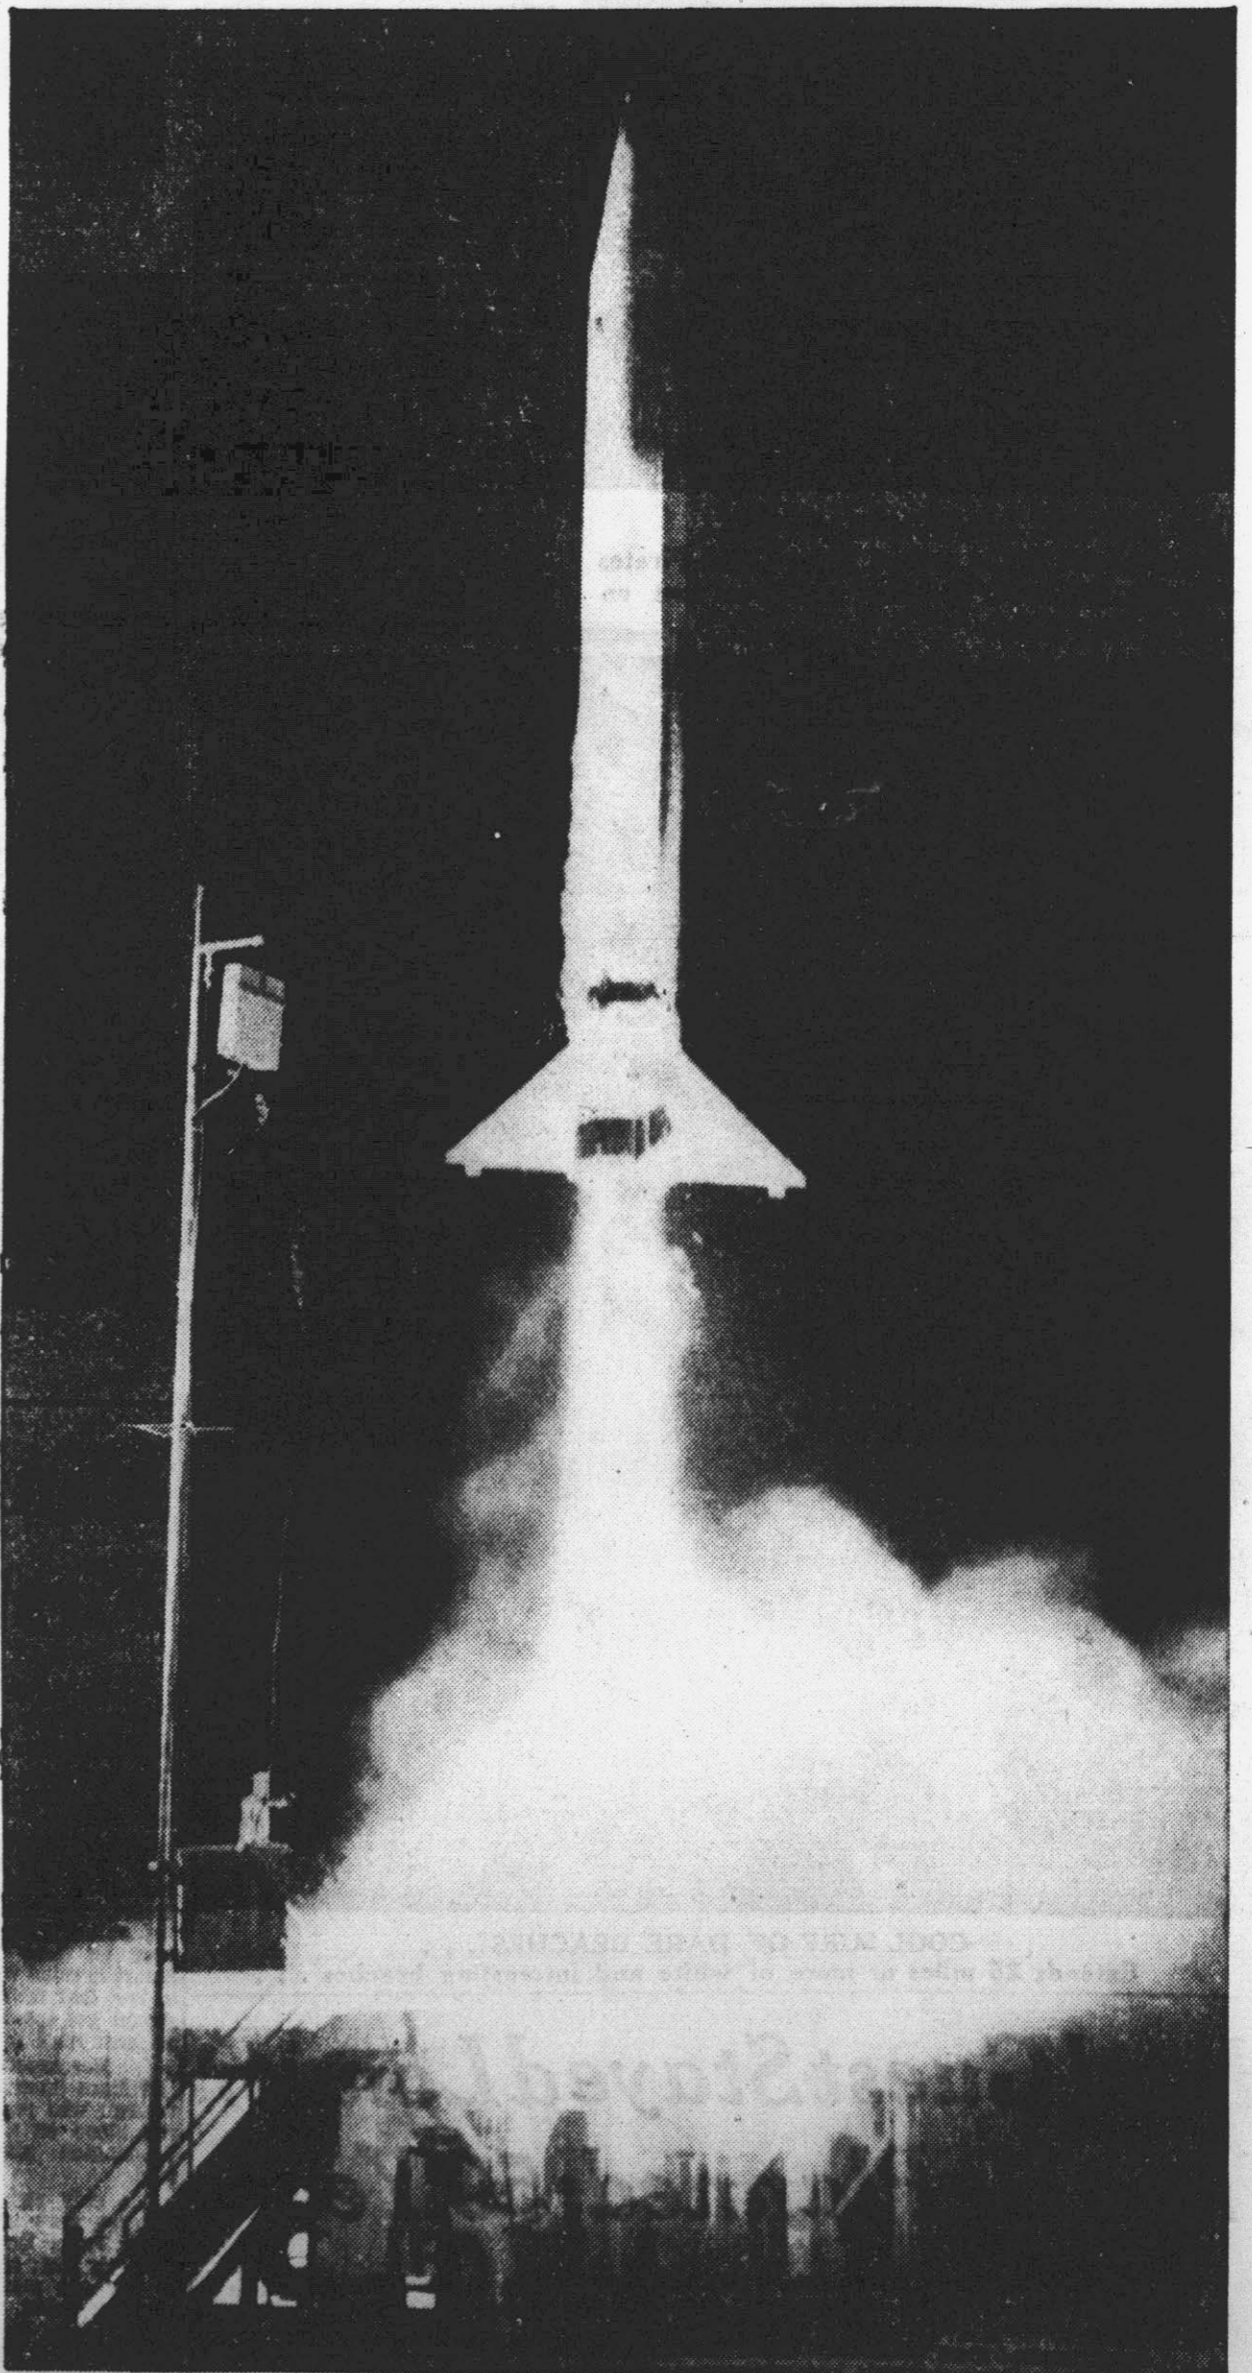

Observers who will try to spot satellite in its flight have practice session at Silver Spring, Md. There are six observers on each side of meridian mast. Manner of mounting observing telescopes can be seen.

Raymond Hotchkiss assembles earth satellite at U.S. Naval Research Laboratory in Washington. He's inserting electronic "package" into its gold plated container.

Minitrack transmitter which will send signals from satellite to tracking stations on ground. Battery pack consists of seven mercury cells.

The Viking, shown leaving its launching pad in test at Patrick Air Force Base, Cape Canaveral, Fla., will take satellite up through first stage of its flight into space.

Cites 'Poison' Of Neutralism

KARACHI (AP) — To Maj. Gen. Iskander Mirza, president of Pakistan, "neutralism is more dangerous than communism."
 "Neutralism—and some of it is aggressive neutralism—is more subtle and deludes people as to what menaces their freedom and well being," he told this correspondent.
 "Ninety per cent of the statements of neutralist leaders are against the West."
 He was obviously referring particularly to Prime Minister Nehru and other leaders of India, a neighbor Pakistan distrusts.
 "The psychology of the Pakistan people is against neutralism," Mirza said. "If Iran or Iraq or Turkey, for instance, were in trouble, the sentiment of Pakistanis would be to go to the aid."
 "The food shortage is the number one problem in Pakistan," he said. "In West Pakistan our agriculture is going downhill because it has been discovered the irrigation canal system has seepage which causes salinity in the soil and makes it sterile. Americans discovered a way to correct this through a drainage system and tube wells. Our government is now fully aware of the problem and must tackle it soon."
 "I am inclined to go slow in industrial development until the food problem is solved. We hope to solve it in three years."
 The president said his country is grateful to the United States—"but for U. S. help we would have been in the soup."
 The United States so far has given Pakistan more than a billion dollars in economic and military aid.

Eleventh Year For 'Grandma', 'Shorty'

LOUISA, Ky. (AP) — It was 11 years ago today that "Shorty" and "Grandma" Sprouse hiked 25 miles from the mountain community of Calt Creek to begin their now-famed marriage.
 Grandma, the former Mrs. Mattie Large Lyon, was 79 and Delbert "Shorty" Sprouse 18 when they were wed. Now grandma is 90 and Shorty 29 — a difference of 61 years.
 Although Grandma shrugged off the anniversary as just "another day," she says she's still satisfied with the marriage.
 She compliments her husband for his home-loving ways.
 "He never stayed away from me a night in all 11 years," Grandma said.
 But, to keep Shorty from seeming too perfect to be true, Grandma adds he does have slight faults.
 "Kin hardly git him up a-mornings to build the fire," she said, adding:
 "Hit's cold. Three quilts and two blankets and hit's cold."
 After county health officials advised Grandma she had high blood pressure, she began spending most of her time in an oversize rocking chair.
 She's given up the old pipe she loved so well but says she still liked to chew raw burley leaf occasionally.
 The biggest marital crisis Grandma and Shorty have faced came last year when fire destroyed their log cabin — the one Grandma had lived in for 75 years.
 Shorty hewed timber and built a new one, but Grandma says she isn't wholly satisfied. This in spite of electricity being made available and the donation of new household goods.
 "Hit's hair's the same," she said. "Shorty wasn't a rounder for Grandma's interview. She said he wasn't feeling well."

Germany's Navy In First Phase

KIEL, Germany (AP) — The German navy has almost concluded its first phase of reconstruction.
 Starting June 18 some 60 of the navy's 70 boats will take part in West Germany's first sea exercises in the western Baltic and off Cuxhaven. A month later, several German naval units will engage in NATO sea maneuvers.
 There are 10,000 officers and sailors in the navy. It expects to reach full strength of 25,000 men by 1960. The Germans will then have 18 squadrons of all types of smaller ships and boats, including three squadrons of fast destroyers and two submarine squadrons.
 The Anthony, first of four American destroyers to be leased to the Germans, is being taken out of moth balls. A German crew is tentatively scheduled to take her over in the fall and bring her to Germany from the United States.
 In a few weeks, the navy will put into service two submarines scuttled by German crews when the allied armies approached north Germany in World War II. Salvaged and overhauled in German shipyards, they will be used for training.
 So far the new German navy consists of several squadrons of World War II mine sweepers, mine layers, submarine chasers, R-boats and auxiliary ships.
 Turkey's military aid from the United States in the 1955-56 fiscal period amounted to 200 million dollars.

Two Girls Share Crown In National Spelling Bee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sandra Owen of Navarre, Ohio, a girl who wouldn't give up, today shared the national spelling championship with Dana Bennett of Denver, Colo., a girl who "loves" words.
 Sandra, 14, and Dana, 13, were declared co-winners after they out-spelled 65 other finalists yesterday in the 30th annual national spelling bee.
 This was the second time the bee has ended in a tie. The last time was in 1950.
 Each was awarded a first prize of $1,000 cash, a trophy cup, and a $100 bonus for a weekend visit to New York.
 Newspaper sponsors said five million youngsters competed in the gigantic spell-down across the nation this year.
 The two teenage spelling wizards stuck through 37 rounds and a list of selected words before the draw was declared by director Richard D. Peters.
 For Sandra, it was something of a comeback. She was runner-up in the national contest last year. This was Dana's first national spelling bee and she said "words are my hobby and I love it."
 The two showed the effects of the strain after some nine hours, but each was missing only when the other missed. Under the rules, a finalist must spell a missed word and then spell one more word to clinch the title.

Minority View Has Small Voice

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Expected unanimity on a routine amendment was broken suddenly in the Indiana House the other day.
 After a mumbled chorus of "ayes," Speaker George S. Diemer (R-Indianapolis) conformed to rules by asking for any opposition.
 Startled legislators heard a faint "no."
 It was 6-year-old Ann Elsnor, daughter of Rep. Edward P. Elsnor Jr. (D-Seymour). She was serving as a page for the day.

Has Analysis Of Dairy Diplomacy

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Dr. Hasrollah S. Feteri, former Iranian delegate to the United Nations and now a professor at Fairleigh Dickinson University, gave this analysis of foreign policies at a recent lecture here:
 "It is said that the United States overfeeds the cow and then forgets to milk it. The British seldom feed the cow and then milk it too often. The Russians simply eat the cow."

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "The package went glub-glub when you turned it and made a metallic rattle like a bomb," said watchman Robert Stookey when he found the parcel on the steps of Memorial Hospital. He called the police.
 Officers gingerly unwrapped the package and found a half a dozen cans of beer and an opener inside. No record was made of who got the brew.
