Specialists Called As President Is Stricken By 'Upset Stomach'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is stricken with an "upset stomach."

Heart and intestinal specialists were summoned today by James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, said the move was "purely precautionary."

Harlan said for the majority that the California Supreme Court's affirmation of Chessman's conviction "upon the seriously disputed record whose accuracy petitioner has had no voice in determining cannot be allowed to stand."

Without blinking the fact that the history of this case presents a sorry chapter in the annals of delays, in the administration of criminal justice, we cannot allow that circumstance to deter us from withholding relief so clearly called for, Harlan wrote.

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Plans were to be completed today for a closed-circuit television system for Charlotte city schools.

Hagerty said the distress this time appeared to be in the stomach. It is an inflammation at the juncture of the large and small intestines, and not in the stomach region.

On that basis Hagerty said there was "no indication that this digestive upset is related in any way to the President's recent operation or to his heart attack of Sept. 24, 1955."

As a "precaution" however, the White House summoned Col. Thomas W. Mattingly, the Army heart specialist who attended Eisenhower in 1955.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, Boston heart specialist, also was called in two years ago as chief consultant, but White's office said today there had been no such call this time.

Eisenhower began complaining of stomach distress last evening. He became ill during the night. The first announcement of Eisenhower's heart attack, suffered in Denver, also mentioned an upset stomach.

The announcement of Eisenhower's illness sent the New York Stock exchange into a decline.

When the news broke about 15 minutes after the market's opening, prices were heading higher. The trend then was quickly reversed, and the ticker fell more than five minutes behind in reporting transactions from the floor.

Losses ran to more than $4 a share in some cases.

Word of Eisenhower's illness drew immediate expressions of regret and concern from the Japanese Embassy where officials were preparing for the impending official visit of Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi of Japan. Kishi is due here June 19.

Hagerty said Eisenhower's appointments for the day were canceled on the advice of Maj. Gen. Snyder.

He said Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the Walter Reed commandant and surgeon who operated on the President just a year ago yesterday, also would come to the White House later in the day.

Hagerty also described that as a precautionary step.

Hagerty called newsmen to his office at 10:15 a.m., and read this statement:

"The President had an upset stomach early this morning, apparently caused by something he ate which disagreed with him.

"Dr. Snyder recommended that the President's engagements be canceled today and that the President remain in bed.

"The President's temperature is normal as is his blood pressure. "Electrocardiogram shows no change from the many that have been made since his recent heart attack.

"There is no indication that this digestive upset is related in any way to the President's recent operation (for ileitis) or to his heart attack."

Hagerty told newsmen, in response to questions, that Eisenhower suffered during the night from nausea and that he vomited two or three times.

Responding to other questions, Hagerty said he thought the possibility that ileitis had recurred could be ruled out, Hagerty said Eisenhower's distress this time was in his stomach, rather than in the intestines.

Ileitis is an inflammation at the juncture of the large and small intestines.

The ileitis attack a year ago caused partial blockage of the lower intestines.

Doctors operated early on June 9, 1956, to relieve the obstruction. They said later they had no alternative, adding that the ailment could have been fatal unless the blockage had been eliminated.

The doctors also said then that the operation, in their opinion, actually probably increased Eisenhower's life span.

The explanation offered for this statement was that a cause for intestinal trouble had been removed.

On the evening before last year's ileitis attack, Eisenhower had attended a banquet.

In the evening, the President attended ground-breaking ceremonies for construction at American University here, and received an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Giving newsmen a chronological report on the development of the President's latest illness, Hagerty said that when he met Eisenhower last evening to go to American University, the chief executive said he felt he was developing a stomach upset.

"He used the phrase 'stomach upset,'" Hagerty reported.

Eisenhower returned to the White House a little after 10 p.m., and by that time he was in distress.

Dr. Snyder was called and arrived at the White House shortly after 10 p.m. He remained through the night and was still with Eisenhower at midnight.

Uzzell expressed the opinion that whatever a agreement is reached by the committee "it will not be unanimous."

He said "Some in the House have committed themselves to a 16.09 figure and feel morally bound to support it. They feel the money is available to pay the raise. On the other hand, the Senators feel they should stand behind a 15 per cent raise and that the money is not available."

Uzzell said some points were cleared up at the Saturday meeting, adding, "I think the group wants to do what is best for both sides. We discussed practically every kind of proposal."

If the House or Senate should decline to accept the conference report the committee could either be dissolved or instructed to bring in another report. It was dissolved another committee would be named.

In addition to Uzzell and Uzzell, other conferees include Sens. D. J. Rose of Wayne, Cutlar Moore of Robeson and J. William Copeland of Hertford and Reps. H. P. Taylor of Anson, Cloyd Philpott of Davidson and Albert Byrum of Chowan.

Cost of new construction for 1957 moved up to $890,400 in May as 13 permits for new dwellings and one for an apartment building were issued.

Building Inspector George Gardner said the new construction authorized during the month had a total valuation of $153,200. There were also four permits for alterations with a value of $3,025.

For the year through May, Gardner said he had issued permits for construction of 52 dwellings. There have also been permits for 11 commercial units with a total value of $216,700.

Permits for eight alterations have been issued. The total value of the alterations is $247,250.

At stake was the prestige and life of the first Middle East government to endorse the Eisenhower Doctrine. A government defeat would have been a big boost for President Nasser of Egypt and his leftist, pro-Soviet allies in neighboring Syria.

The Ministry of the Interior announced that government candidates, including Premier Sami Solh, won a sweeping 10 of 11 seats in Beirut.

In southern Lebanon, the other section voting Sunday, government supporters won 5 of 11 contests. Opposition and independent candidates took 3 seats each. The independents are expected to oppose the government on domestic issues but support its foreign policy, including the endorsement of the Eisenhower Doctrine.

The other 44 seats in the newly enlarged 66-seat Parliament will be filled by balloting in central and north Lebanon on the next three Sundays.

Two short but violent clashes broke out in Beirut during the voting.

Hospital authorities reported one person killed and 11 injured in one riot between two groups of Armenians, one government-backed, the other leaning left and toward Egypt. Police denied anyone was killed. No one was reported hurt in the other fracas.

The government candidates scored a clear popular majority in Beirut.

Solh was the center of the focal contest in the first day's voting. Seriously ill a month ago with lung congestion and unable to campaign actively, he was locked in a close contest for a Beirut seat with Abdullah Yafi and Seab Salam, ex-premiers favoring closer ties with Egypt and Syria.

Since Solh's Cabinet threw its weight behind the Eisenhower Doctrine, this tiny Mediterranean republic has been lambasted by Egypt and Syria for siding with the West. Yafi and Salam followed that lead and launched vitriolic attacks against the government. They demanded an alliance with Egypt and Syria.

James Cheatham, III, Evelyn Bunch Marry In Statesville

Mrs. James Theodore Cheatham, III

In sacred beauty, Miss Evelyn Brenning Bunch became the bride of James Theodore Cheatham, III, in an eight o'clock ceremony Saturday at the Broad Street Methodist Church, Statesville.

The Rev. Julian P. Lindsey, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Robert Parham Bunch of Winston-Salem, uncle of the bride, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brenning Bunch Jr. of North Center Street in Statesville.

Mr. and Mrs. James Theodore Cheatham, Jr. of Greenville are the parents of the bridegroom. The church was decorated with a variety of palms and a spiral arrangement of cathedral candles formed the background. On the altar an open Bible was placed with burning tapers in brass candelabra on either side. At the base was an arrangement of gardenias, Woodwardie and magnolia blossoms were also used in the decorations.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Harold Wilson and the Carolers' Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Russell Hanson, aunt of the bride, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Wilson.

Proceeding the ceremony the following numbers were rendered: "Souvenir," Dr. J. "Ave Maria," Bach-Gounod, "Ave Maria," Offenbach; "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," Stults. Processional music included "Grand March" (Aida), Verdi, and "Bridal Chorus" (Lohengrin), Wagner. The choir sang "O Perfect Love," Barnby; "My Hero," Straus, and "The Lord's Prayer," Malotte. Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was used as the Recessional.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of Dupioni silk designed by Henri de Chatillon of Mexico fashioned with a floor length sheath paneled in front and wrapped around with a sash that extended to form a chapel train. The bodice, with a portrait neckline, was of re-embroidered Alencon lace. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a Dupioni silk pillbox trimmed with Alencon lace matching that of her dress. She wore opera length French kid gloves and carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias.

Miss Ruth Dyeann Bunch, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of white Venetian lace over mint green tissue silk taffeta. The Empire silhouette fashioned by Kiser had a V-neckline modified by draped mint green folds with pouf bow and aerial back panels. Her headpiece, styled by Berger, of mint green nylon braid with full circular illusion veil was studded with rhinestones. She wore wrist length white gloves. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias.

Mrs. Daniel Alexander McCannless, aunt of the bride of Elberton, Georgia, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Suetette Lanier Davidson and Miss Barbara Craddock Durham of Lynchburg, Va.; Miss Louise Mann Cheatham, Greenville, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Virginia Lee Dysard, Miss Shirley Ann Redlack, and Miss Joan Whitaker Reich of Statesville. They wore identical gowns and accessories like that of the maid of honor's.

The bridegroom had as his best man his father, James Theodore Cheatham Jr.

Ushers were Paul Fulton of Walnut Cove, Richard Norfleet Hines of Edenton, Thomas Arthur Smoot II of Greenville, Claude Armstrong Plumlee of Charlotte, John O. Williams of Raleigh and Warren Parker Mann, cousin of the bridegroom, of Raleigh.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bunch wore a gown of American Beauty peau de soie and a corsage of open pink roses.

The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of pink Chantilly lace and a corsage of pink roses accompanied her outfit. For their wedding trip to Western North Carolina, the bride dressed for travel in an Italian chalk white raw silk ensemble designed by Greenwald. The narrow sleeveless sheath dress was enhanced by an Empire bodice in a point d'esprit pattern accented with chalk white pearls over turquoise. The full length coat was lined with turquoise. White accessories completed her costume.

The couple will go to San Diego, California, where the bridegroom will have a month's special duty with the navy, and will then be assigned to a two-year tour of duty of Western Sea Frontier at a Pacific Naval Station.

Mrs. Cheatham was a graduate of Salem College this year. Mr. Cheatham received his B. S. degree in Business Administration this year and was a member of Zeta Psi fraternity and the Order of Gimghouls. He has been commissioned as an Ensign in the United States Navy.

Overnight Reversal Appears Odd

The Senate is a little late with its rush job for this session designed to wipe off the books local laws by which a number of counties exempt from taxation certain agricultural produce.

The practice has been going on in North Carolina for years in a number of counties. Until the last few weeks it apparently has been considered purely a local matter if a county wanted to deny itself revenue from the ad valorem taxes on tobacco and other farm produce stored in its boundaries. Then suddenly the issue loomed before the Senate as a matter of major state importance.

It appears to us an attempt to settle by legislative action a fight between Forsyth and Stokes Counties. It also appears to us the passage of the bill to outlaw local tax exemptions would be unfair to the counties of the state which have requested and received of the legislature laws allowing them to offer tax exemptions on agricultural produce.

There can be no question that such action by either or both houses at this late date would be a complete about-face for the legislators. Some counties have allowed exemption for agricultural products for years. The current legislature has passed bills allowing four additional counties to grant such exemptions. Now, members of the Senate, apparently, would turn around and declare that all such exemptions should be abolished.

It seems illogical that a practice which this and previous legislatures have approved should overnight become a practice that needs to be outlawed. It does not seem logical that after granting four counties the privilege of offering tax exemptions on stored agricultural products, the Senate now would like to retract that action and wipe off the books the same privilege given previously to other counties.

China Trade Is Near At Hand

By ELMER ROESSNER
A "trade with China" campaign will soon become formidable in Washington. It may grow so fast that Americans may be buying and selling noncritical goods in Red China by Labor Day.

There always has been a "trade with China" movement in Washington, but until recently it has been kept under wraps. Proponents have been professional import and export dealers, plus a few organizations with surpluses that could be sold in China or requirements that could be filled there.

In fact, there always has been some American trade with China, through some hanky-panky in Hong Kong, through Czechoslovakia and other Iron Curtain countries, or through connivers in Western European nations.

Now that Great Britain has relaxed trade restrictions, and now that many other countries are following her example, the "trade with China" proponents are gaining recruits. Farmers would like new buyers for surpluses, manufacturing corporations would like to expand their markets and traders are saying, "If the British can make a pound, why can't we make a buck?"

BARRIERS LOWERED

Obviously, it will be difficult to prevent American goods from flowing to the Chinese mainland when so many of our allies are in business there. American goods can figure in trade in other ways. For example, the British may sell some of their own "pulse" or "choongum" to Peking, and replace their own stocks with American supplies. Pulse is the British term for peas, beans and lentils; choongum is the Chinese term for thin, flat sticks of sweetened and flavored chicle.

There will be a spate of high indignation in Washington, but the pro-dollar traders will quote Confucius as saying, "When locked in a steam room, relax and enjoy it." In the end, we may face the realities of trading with China and agreeing to Japanese trade terms.

If, as some senators have said, the practice of individual counties granting tax exemptions for agricultural products is harmful to the state as a whole, the matter should be carefully studied and the merits of that argument weighed against the arguments for the local laws which now exist.

The Senate in the past few days has not appeared disposed to give that kind of consideration to the question at hand.

It should not, on the spur of the moment, and at the prodding of one large county, take action that might adversely affect many smaller counties throughout the state.

Soil Bank Will Mean More Than Expected

Contrary to earlier predictions, the federal Soil Bank is going to play an appreciable part in North Carolina's farm income this year. It is going to play to the tune of almost $18 million dollars in the pockets of Tar Heel farmers.

The part North Carolina farmers will receive is only a drop in the bucket compared with the overall cost of the Soil Bank program, but it is far more than many thought farmers of this state would ever realize from the Bank.

Under Soil Bank agreements this year North Carolina farmers are taking some 298,000 acres out of crop production and diverting them to non-crop uses. According to the latest figures available, this acreage reserve will bring to more than a million acres the total of crop land on North Carolina farms which are idle.

To these "idle acres" could be added more than a million acres of unimproved open pasture land, and several million acres of marginal land and cut-over woodland that are not producing annual income for North Carolina's farmers this year; but the acreage picture indicates that Tar Heel farmers still have ample acreage in which to help themselves by producing new crops and timber which will bring cash and bolster their income.

Serious Note In Jets Mean Travel Boom

Assembly's Fun

By LYNN NISBET
LOVE FEASTS — The legislators were pretty serious, even in the monkey-shines of their love feasts. That was especially true of the Representatives. On the Senate side there was something more lively, such as mock impeachment of Governor Hodges and the presentation of a bottle opener to Chaplain E. C. Durham "with compliments of Rev. Gerald C. Primm."

The House program contained several song skits, but lacked the exchange of gifts which often have hidden meaning. There were two digressions from the usual program. Speaker Kemp Doughton, in addition to the traditional silver set and other gifts was awarded a handsomely lettered parchment scroll containing text of the resolution commending his frequent talks to visiting school children about legislative procedure, and bearing signatures of all the House members. He made it clear he appreciated that scroll more than any of the payable loot.

The newspaper, radio and television reporters covering the Legislature presented to Miss Patsy Daniels a silver bowl in appreciation for her services as special clerk assigned to aid the press room.

ROLL CALL — Speaker Doughton was taken off the spot of breaking a tie on a local liquor store bill by three late arrivals. On the bill to permit the citizens to vote on the ABC store question, unofficial tally showed 46-46.

The Speaker asked that the roll call be verified, a device frequently but not always used on controversial matters where the vote is close. While the clerk was calling the names of those recorded as voting aye and no, scouts went out and rounded up three men who their "aye votes" recorded before the result was announced. That made it 49 to 46, and everybody seemed reasonably happy except Rep. Percy Vann of Sampson who had voted "Present."

ORCHIDS — When orchids are being passed out for effective lobbying the bankers should not be overlooked. They were able to retain the non-par clearance law and to get a bill permitting the State to invest surplus or inactive funds in State banks at less interest than the money would earn if invested in other securities. They accepted an amendment to reduce the allowable spread from one percent to one-half of one percent, but reduced the ratio of loans to deposits from 50 percent to 39 percent — and then got Senate committee approval for counting investments in North Carolina State and municipal bonds as "loans" to make up the 39 per cent ratio.

COMMENDATION — Letters received from editors who made the recent air cruise of North Carolina as guests of the State and the N. C. Press Association indicate that the project paid dividends in good will. Several stories have already appeared in the home papers of the visitors affording this state favorable publicity it could not have bought at any price.

Here are some excerpts from letters:

"The North Carolina trip showed off to best advantage both the hospitality and the resources of your great state." — William J. Foote, managing editor The Hartford (Conn.) Courant.

"We all enjoyed every minute of the warm hospitality extended to us. It was stimulating as well as informative." — Louis C. Hiner Jr., Chief Washington Bureau, The Indianapolis News.

"This trip was a positive and impressive indication to me that you people are well on the way toward achieving the necessary balance between agriculture and industry." — Eugene Miller, Associate Managing Editor of Business Week. (Miller has a special feature story coming up in a few days on Governor Luther Hodges.)

"I couldn't be more impressed by your state. It was a brilliant success." — Herbert Kaufman, editor Simmons-Broadman Publishing Corp., promoters of a new travel magazine "See America."

"Thank you for perhaps the most enjoyable five days I ever spent — aside from my honeymoon." — Aubrey Graves, Washington Post-Times Herald. In a story published in his paper which featured the visit to Billmore House, Graves said:

"Travel, which is broadening, can also be mite disillusioning. Back at our breakfast table bacon and eggs seemed a little less than glamorous. This was the result of a five-sampling of 'gracious living' while traveling with fifteen other newsmen through North Carolina. . . People who imagine the Tar Heels live on collards and grills couldn't be more in error. The vittles piled before us would have shamed Les Mais d'Escoffier. . . Any further references to befoot mountaineers or cracks about North Carolina plumbing will not register with us who survived the grand tour."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
IT MUST MAKE A DIFFERENCE
The story is told of an old professor in a Scottish theological seminary who was noted for his curmudgeon ways. He was a man of few words and most of these were severe to the point of devastation. One day a student brought this teacher a sermon to read. The old man let his eyes travel up and down the pages with great deliberation and the severity of his expression indicated that he was not exactly enthralled by what he read. Finally the student got up courage enough to ask: "Will it do, Sir?" And the old man's grunted reply was: "Do what?"

There was considerable wisdom in the old teacher's query, for religion, in all its manifestations is intended to do something to us and for us. It was said of the first-century Christians that they had turned the world upside down. The day Christ was crucified there was a great earthquake. The Christian Church was born on the day of Pentecost amid the sound "as of the rushing of a mighty wind." The Christian religion is nothing more than a pleasant theory of blood and into our souls and does life unless it gets into our blood and into our souls and does something to us. It must make a difference if it's the real thing.

Religion that doesn't make a person a better parent, employer, spouse, and citizen is certainly not the Christian religion. It is a spurious something that constitutes excess baggage for anyone who tries to carry it along.

The Lion Has Shrunk

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Passport Office is preparing for a boom in foreign travel when jet transports come into full use.

The real impact isn't expected until about 1959, but Miss Frances G. Knight, who heads the Passport Office, said today she doesn't plan to be caught unprepared.

She said in an interview the nation is "entering a new age of travel and speed which is going to make it possible for almost everybody in the country to visit places and see things never dreamed about."

She predicted it won't be long before a million passports a year will be needed to handle America's travel needs.

Her office this year has issued 560,000 of the little green books. Compare that with some 202,000 just 10 years ago.

And April was the most spectacular passport month in the nation's history, with 82,000 applications filed.

Despite widespread publicity concerning cases of persons whose passport rights were challenged on security grounds, Miss

Knight said there was just one turnaround for security reasons this year.

What it all points to, Miss Knight said, is "a fantastic world of travel ahead."

She said no place in the world will be more than 20 hours away with new jet transports that travel up to 600 miles an hour. Jet transports will carry 150 passengers, compared with the 90-passenger capacity of current commercial airliners. The jets will be able to make three transatlantic trips in the time it now takes to make two, she added.

"It is estimated," said Miss Knight, "that 12 large jets could handle all of the present transatlantic air traffic."

The Passport Office of the State Department has been run by a woman for the past 29 years, Miss Knight, who took over in 1955, has been busy modernizing with both machines and decor — to keep up with the increasing pace of modern travel.

She said the Passport Office turned four million dollars into the Treasury last year and that its budget amounts to just half its receipts — "I know of no government agency that can make that claim."

She reported that "women are our best customers," taking 56 per cent of the passports issued, and that more and more older people are joining the travel crowd.

Women also provide the most headaches for the Passport Office. Somehow, she said, nail polish, cigarette burns and mutilations appear with "amazing frequency" across the year of birth on their passports. She noted that this makes the passport "null and void."

Then there was the young lady who sent in a passport photo of herself in Women's Army Corps uniform. When it was returned with a request for a photograph out of uniform, she submitted a picture of herself — in the nude.

Opinions In Brief

"If reading is to be measured by newspaper and magazine circulation and book sales, then Americans on the whole are doing a tremendous lot of reading. Overall newspaper circulation in the United States has been climbing upward. Sales of books for adults, including hardcovers and paperbacks, and books for juveniles have shown marked gains in recent years." — The Asheville Citizen.

"Whether it be in business, government, or military operations, I mistrust the principle of relying on a single genius to make all basic decisions." — James Forrestal.

"Your neighbor's vaccination won't protect you." — Dr. Jonas Salk.

"Most individuals and groups are all for economy in government, so long as it is confined to someone else's interests. When it comes home to them, they often rise up in wrath." — Industrial News Review.

"Making a turn off of a through highway from the wrong traffic lane is one of the surest routes to the repair shop or the hospital. Make right turns from the right lane, left turns from the left. There are seldom any exceptions to this rule." — Institute for Safer Living.

Other Editors Saying— Importance Of Fishing

Henderson (Ky.) Gleaner and Journal

Ladies have many erroneous ideas concerning men's leisure time activities, and we suppose the erroneous ideas will continue. Psychologists incline to the belief there is a fundamental difference between the feminine and masculine approach to many problems. They say that a woman's nervous system is different from a man's. Of course, any husband and father could have told the psychologist and psychiatrists this; but it seems more authoritative if the "is" boys run complex experiments and devise complicated charts to illustrate what everyone knows before they start.

Fishing is an apt illustration of divergent viewpoints. A woman judges fishing by the results in the creel. She doesn't understand that when Spring works along to a certain height, a man needs to go fishing. The fact that fishing requires fifty dollars worth of equipment and may result in a dollar's worth of fish is just a burden that a fisherman must carry.

Fishing isn't catching fish. Fishing is getting out of doors so that a man can feel the sun and wind and the rain on his face. It is getting off by oneself on the edge of a meadow creek; it is following a clear-water, singing brook through a quiet woodland; it is sitting in a boat on a peaceful tree-circled pond.

Fishing is the chance to get away from the pressures of office and factory; it is a time to watch the sky and clouds, and the red-winged blackbirds and the woodchuck poking in the clover patch. In behives of population, one forgets the sound of a singing stream, the serenity and faith-restoring steadfastness of friendly trees, the green of new grass, the blue of violets' faces along the brook edge and the challenge of a cock pheasant's crow from woodland edge. Fishing gives a man a chance to get caught up with himself and when he comes home, a bit tired physically but refueled in heart and mind, he knows that a day's fishing has done something for him. And of course, there is always the chance he will bring home a good one.

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — "The Government, as I understand it," writes G.H. of Waterbury, Conn., "has been giving fast tax write-offs to numerous firms since 1941 in order to help the war effort and develop national resources. Has Senator Wayne Morse ever protested against what he now calls a 'giveaway' and for which he compares President Eisenhower to Dave Beck?"

Answer: Senator Morse never raised his voice, and he raises it so often on the floor that he bores his colleagues and the members of the Press Gallery, until a fast tax write-off was given to the Idaho Power Company for construction of a power dam at Hell's Canyon. In fact, his own state has benefited from this process, and he has been only too glad to approve this method.

MORSE FOR OREGON ONLY
In Morse's state of Oregon, since 1951, eight of these quick amortization plans have been granted, these projects was connected with the Korean conflict, for they could not be finished in time to help in that war.

Senator Morse did not object to those Oregon "giveaways."

"Do you think that Russia or China," asks Mrs. K.L. of Lima, O., "will dare to provoke a war with this country and its Allies in the foreseeable future? I mean within the next 20 or 30 years."

Answer: No, I do not. I am extremely optimistic on this question, and so is every informed official at Washington, including President Eisenhower, Secretary Dulles, Admiral Radford, head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and diplomatic and military attaches abroad.

RUSSIA UNPREPARED FOR WAR
Every recent development within Russia and the satellite empire, according to our diplomatic dispatches, indicates that she is totally unprepared for a full-scale war. Hitler would have conquered Russia if it were not for the supplies which we gave Moscow, and if he had attacked in early April instead of in late June of 1941. October snow defeated Hitler!

Russia lacks everything necessary for victory in a prolonged conflict—food, steel, oil, transportation. Like Hitler, she might conquer all Western Europe, but our experts doubt if Britain would fall. And, of course, Russia cannot win without crushing the United States, industrially, militarily and economically.

ANTI-KREMLIN MOVEMENTS
The Hungarian and Polish revolts, as well as the growing differences with China, suggests that Moscow cannot rely upon her Allies or satellite peoples. An anti-Russian "resistance movement" would spring up everywhere, just as anti-Fascists sabotaged Hitler and Mussolini.

The new rulers of Russia, in diplomatic opinion, are well

Studies Mean Change

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — Skyrocketing labor costs have forced employers to resort to unprecedented technological research. This research is teaching employers that they can get on without many routine workers. Even with the present high employment level, this should sound a warning note to high school and college graduates.

PUSH BUTTONS VS. MEN
Out of electronics has come the basis for vast new developments in automation. A simple example of what I mean is the "electric eye" which opens doors at the proper moment without being actually touched by anybody. Another illustration is the record-changer and turntable on our phonographs, including the automatic stopping device. Of a more complicated nature are guided missiles that can chase and overtake an airplane without any human guidance.

This same principle of electronics is being applied today to operation of a manufacturing plant by a dozen employees, in contrast to the several hundred formerly needed. And remember that these can be women as well as men, since their chief duty will be merely to press push buttons. Labor in general is now aware of the vast extent of the changes ahead. Employers, it is true, will always need human help, but not for a great many present-day jobs. Their requirements will turn more and more toward the intelligence and judgment of graduates with a high I. Q.

NEW APPROACH TO WARFARE

Russia has always thought in terms of massed armies to overrun Europe when the time seemed ripe for an attack. However, with the Free Nations of Europe learning to use nuclear weapons, wars are swiftly moving onto a push-button basis. The great masses of Russia, China, and the Moslem nations will be only a nuisance to clutter up a battlefield under such conditions. Premier Nehru recognizes this, and that is why he is so adamant in urging neutrality. Electronics and the atom will cause tremendous changes not only in warfare, — but in education!

I envy our young people who are to graduate this month. They will have far more opportunities than we oldsters had. I wish the schools and colleges would wake up to these changes. Better pension off the professors who can teach only the orthodox old-fashioned courses, and send these courses on our young people so that they can get a degree.

I predict that the above changes will mean that young graduates will need good character more than ever before. Better training in homes, churches, and schools will be absolutely essential in this new electronic push-button age. Wise are the young people who take evening courses now to prepare them for the better jobs ahead.

The typical salesgirl is in the process of becoming obsolete. Before long she will be replaced 60 per cent by self-service counters, 15 per cent by push-button vending machines, and 25 per cent by highly paid, intelligent salesmen whose job will be to secure new customers. New qualifications are a must for the June graduates who hope to get good jobs. The field of advertising and selling is still in its infancy and marvelous opportunities exist for those willing to train properly for it.

WHAT THE CHANGES MEAN
(1) Manual and routine labor will gradually become obsolete.
(2) Those who cannot readily learn new skills will be kept on at reduced hours, but with the same take-home pay. This will boost the Do-it-yourself industries!

(3) Only the serious and intelligent employees will get raises. There will be no limit on salaries for those with the necessary character, brains, initiative, and loyalty.

(4) Our great problem will not be to raise crops, build homes, or manufacture goods, — but to get people to buy. Hence, instead of subsidizing farmers, we may eventually subsidize merchants and salesmen.

(5) I advise young men to instead of lawyers, trained outside salesmen instead of inside pencil-pushers, and after graduation to attend night school to prepare for the NEW AGE.

aware of this situation and the odds against them. According to informed belief, Khrushchev and Bulganin are too smart to subject their country to atomic destruction. That is the belief in Washington's highest sources.

STASSEN 1960 HOPE? "Does Harold Stassen," asks T.F. of Springfield, Mass., "really think that he has a chance for the Republican nomination for President in 1960? I notice that he is frequently mentioned in that connection."

Answer: Yes, the "boy wonder" from Minnesota is serious in his dreams for 1960. Having survived his anti-Nixon and pro-Herter crusade, he figures that he is indestructible. He will run as a "modern republican" of the Ike type. He hopes to beat out Vice President Nixon in seeking Eisenhower's blessing, although Ike's general behavior and record suggest that he will stand aloof from support of any candidate.

Baltimore Whips Chicago To Edge Into Sixth Position

Cincinnati Back On Top In Hectic National Race

By JACK HAND
The Associated Press
You can call them the Baltimore giant killers from now on after the job the Orioles did on the Chicago White Sox and the New York Yankees over the last two weekends.

Paul Richards' birds edged into sixth place yesterday by sweeping a pair from the league-leading White Sox to make it three out of four in the series. Only a week ago they took three out of four from the Yankees.

Billy O'Dell, a 24-year-old southpaw making his first start of the season, struck out 11 White Sox in his second-game 5-0 shutout. Homers by Tito Francona and Bob Nieman helped the Orioles' ace reliever George Zuverink win his sixth in the opener 7-5.

The second-place Yankees took advantage of some crazy baserunning and a defensive lapse to whip Detroit 5-4.

Cincinnati's determined Redlegs held Brooklyn to only one run in 18 innings while taking two from the Dodgers 3-1 and 3-0. That gave Cincinnati a 1½-game lead in the National after a one-day drop into third place.

The Dodgers and Phillies are tied for second because the Phillies lost to Chicago 7-3 and had to settle for a 4-4 tie in the second game, capped by the Sunday curfew in Philadelphia.

Milwaukee stumbled again at Pittsburgh. After winning the 11th inning first game 2-1 on Roberto Clemente's error and Johnny Logan's single, the Braves bowed to Ronnie Kline in the second game 5-3. Hank Aaron ran his home run total to 15 with one in each game.

St. Louis also edged into the thick of the race by taking two from New York. They won the first 2-1 for Vinegar Bend Mizell's first victory, and the second 10-7 for Lindy McDaniel by scoring six runs in the sixth inning when 11 men went to bat against Steve Ridzik and Johnny Antonelli.

Stan Musial hit his 12th homer and played his 821st consecutive game, only one short of the National League record set by Pittsburgh's Gus Suhr in 1937.

Boston hit seven homers in downing Kansas City twice 8-4 and 9-5. Ted Lepcio and Jimmy Piersall each hit two and Ted Williams slammed No. 13.

Cleveland settled for a split with Washington, winning the opener 7-2 on Early Wynn's six-hitter, but losing the second 7-6 when Roy Sievers of the Senators hit a two-run pinch homer in the ninth. Vic Wertz and Roger Maris each smashed two homers for the losing Tribe in that second game.

The Orioles' double victory at Chicago was costly because George Kell, veteran third baseman, was hit on the head by a pitch from Dick Donovan and suffered a possible hairline fracture.

At Detroit, Tigers Frank Bolling and Charlie Maxwell had just hit successive homers off Tom Sturdivant when a fast ball came close to Ray Boone's head. Boone and Sturdivant met halfway to the mound and exchanged three or four blows. Players from both clubs streamed onto the field for a 10-minute ruckus.

After all the fuffs, the Yanks finally won the game when Hank Bauer tried to steal second with the bases loaded and the score tied. When Earl Torgeson threw to third base, Moose Skowron dashed home, scoring on a swan dive to the plate.

Don Hoak was the big man for Cincinnati, driving in four of the six runs with a homer in each game. George Crowe also homered for the Redlegs and Gil Hodges' eighth was the only Dodger run of the day.

Hal Jefferson struck out nine Brooks and allowed only six hits in pitching his first major league shutout after Brooks Lawrence and Tom Acker teamed up in the first game.

By JOE MOOSHL
CHICAGO (AP)—Remember Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, former St. Louis Cardinal southpaw who tied National League hitters in knots a decade ago?

The Chicago White Sox do after watching Billy (Digger) O'Dell of Baltimore chop up their American League lead yesterday.

O'Dell, a 24-year-old student of the Cat, now Baltimore's pitching coach, blanked the Sox 5-0 yesterday after the Orioles had whipped Chicago 7-5 in the first game of a doubleheader. Chicago's lead over the second-place New York Yankees was cut to 4½ games.

Brecheen, who won three World Series victories over the Boston Red Sox in 1946 while hurling for the Cardinals, is simply crazy over "his kid." He has been tutoring O'Dell and predicts "he'll be one of the best pitchers in this league as soon as he develops a change of pace."

O'Dell, making his first start of the season, limited the Sox to two hits, walked 2 and struck out 11. "I wasn't worried," he said later, "because I kept getting stronger as the game wore on."

"Sure, I've copied Brecheen's style. What's wrong with that? He and Paul Richards (Baltimore manager) taught me everything I know. I never dreamed I could throw a fast ball until they got hold of me."

Richards, claiming he had saved O'Dell "for the right time," said he had been reluctant to start him because "he has a lot to learn. He still has to develop a good change-up. Two of the Sox hits came on change-ups."

O'Dell was Baltimore's first bonus choice when he signed here in 1954. He came out of service last September but hurled his first major league victory against the White Sox in September 1954 when he defeated Virgil Trucks 2-1.

Rain Stops Three Stock Car Events

Rain put the skids on three major stock car programs yesterday, and fans will have to wait until June 23 for the 250-mile NASCAR Grand National Stock Car Race at the Memphis-Arkansas, Tennessee, Speedway.

Two North Carolina events that fizzled out were reset for next Sunday. They were the NASCAR-sanctioned amateur-hobby sprints at Randleman and the 100-mile national championship convertible race at Concord.

The weekend was dry enough Saturday to permit some racing. Ned Jarrett of Newton surged ahead on the 37th lap to win the 40-lap sportsmen feature at Asheville's McCormick Field Speedway before 2,700 fans. Finishing in this order were Harold Moore of Mooresville, Dick Plemmons of Asheville, and Cecil Biddix of Asheville.

Fuel pump trouble late in the race dumped Biddix from the lead.

At Myrtle Beach, S.C., Dink Widenhouse of Concord revved his way to the top of the Sun-Fun Festival racing card at the Coastal Speedway before a crowd of 2,600. Trailing were John Miller of Kannapolis, Ralph Earnhart of Kannapolis, and Banks Simpson of Concord.

And Tom Webster scored a home town triumph at Winston-Salem's Bowman Gray Stadium, producing his second straight victory and his third win of the season on the quarter-mile track. Webster, protecting his top stock car racing point standings, finished a half lap ahead of Brown Lofin of Denton.

Harold Rush of High Point won the 20-lap feature race for amateurs.

Mecklenburg Is State AA Champ

CHARLOTTE (AP)—North Mecklenburg owned the state Class AA high school baseball championship today—thanks to a youngster who got his first and only hit of the championship series.

North Mecklenburg defeated Kinston 4-3 here Saturday in the deciding game of their best of three series.

A triple to right field by Herman Mims scoring Tommy Oehler to break a 3-3 tie in the sixth inning was the hit that did the trick. It was the first hit for Mims in the three-game series.

Marshall Barnett of North and Allen Gardner of Kinston went the distance, each parting with five hits.

Wilson's Future Is Hanging On $7,000 Thread

WILSON, N.C. (AP)—The future of the Class B Carolina League hung by a $7,000 thread today—the debt that Wilson owner L.C. (Red) Fowler owes in Kinston where his team started the season.

At a league director's meeting in Greensboro Saturday, Fowler refused to reveal what action he might take in the face of an edict by George Trautman, president of the National Assn. of Minor Leagues, that Fowler pay up the $7,000 in debts in Kinston or surrender the Wilson franchise to the league.

The debts were run up while the team was in Kinston. To save the team, it was sold to Fowler and moved to Wilson. Under professional baseball rules, a team cannot be moved leaving debts in the territory. The penalty is surrendering the franchise to the league and a five-year probation of the city involved.

"I'm not saying what I'm going to do," Fowler told the league Saturday.

Should Fowler surrender the franchise, the league will backstop with a plan from tobaccoman Penn Watson. He asked for and received permission to conduct a five-day stock sale and said he would guarantee expenses of operation during that time if no other funds were forthcoming.

At the meeting was Phio Piton, a representative from Trautman's office, and Eddie Gilliland, representative from the office of Bill Dewitt, director of a major league fund established to aid minor clubs in attendance.

Lovingood Sets New ACC Mark

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Bill Lovingood, Wake Forest's husky right-hander who topped Atlantic Coast Conference pitchers with a 4-0 record, set a new ACC record for earned runs of 0.58.

The ACC Service Bureau said here Saturday that Lovingood's record was one of three established during the season.

Maryland outfielder Howie Dare stole 31 bases and Duke hurler Dick Smallwood fanned 93 batters for the other new marks.

Shortstop Lon Bonezek of Duke with 10 doubles tied the ACC mark.

The league's second best pitcher was Dick Burton of Duke's ACC champions with a 6-1 mark. His teammate Harleigh Fatzinger, 5-1, was third.

Jim Raugh of North Carolina, Fred Russell of Virginia, 4-2; Fred Gebhardt of Maryland, 5-3; Don Saine of North Carolina, 3-2; Stan Bobb of Maryland, 6-5; Smallwood, 6-5; and Herb Buschman of Virginia, 6-5, rounded out the top 10 pitchers.

The defending champion is Larry Beck of Kinston. Play is for boys under 19.

He Stole 2nd With Bases Loaded--- Won The Game

By DAVE DILES

DETROIT (AP)—Like the winning poker players who laugh and tell funny stories while the losers grumble and yell "Deal the cards," the New York Yankees had their own private little joke today about "Bauer's beautiful boner."

Manager Jack Tighe, whose Detroit Tigers dropped a 5-4 decision yesterday when Yankee outfielder Hank Bauer tried to steal second with the bases loaded—and turned the act into the winning run, thought the whole matter was very unfunny and called Bauer's maneuver "the rock of all rocks."

And both teams were prepared to forget—they said—about the third-inning brawl that started when New York pitcher Tom Sturdivant and Tiger first baseman Ray Boone traded punches over a pitch that nearly struck Boone on the head.

There was agreement on one point. Bauer concurred with Tighe on the "rock of all rocks" statement and said it was the first time in his long career that he had run a teammate off base.

There were two out, the score was tied and the Yankees had the bases loaded in the eighth inning when Bauer lit out for second base, already occupied by Bobby Richardson. But before the Tigers could tag Richardson for the third out when he left the bag, Bill Skowron raced from third base with the deciding run.

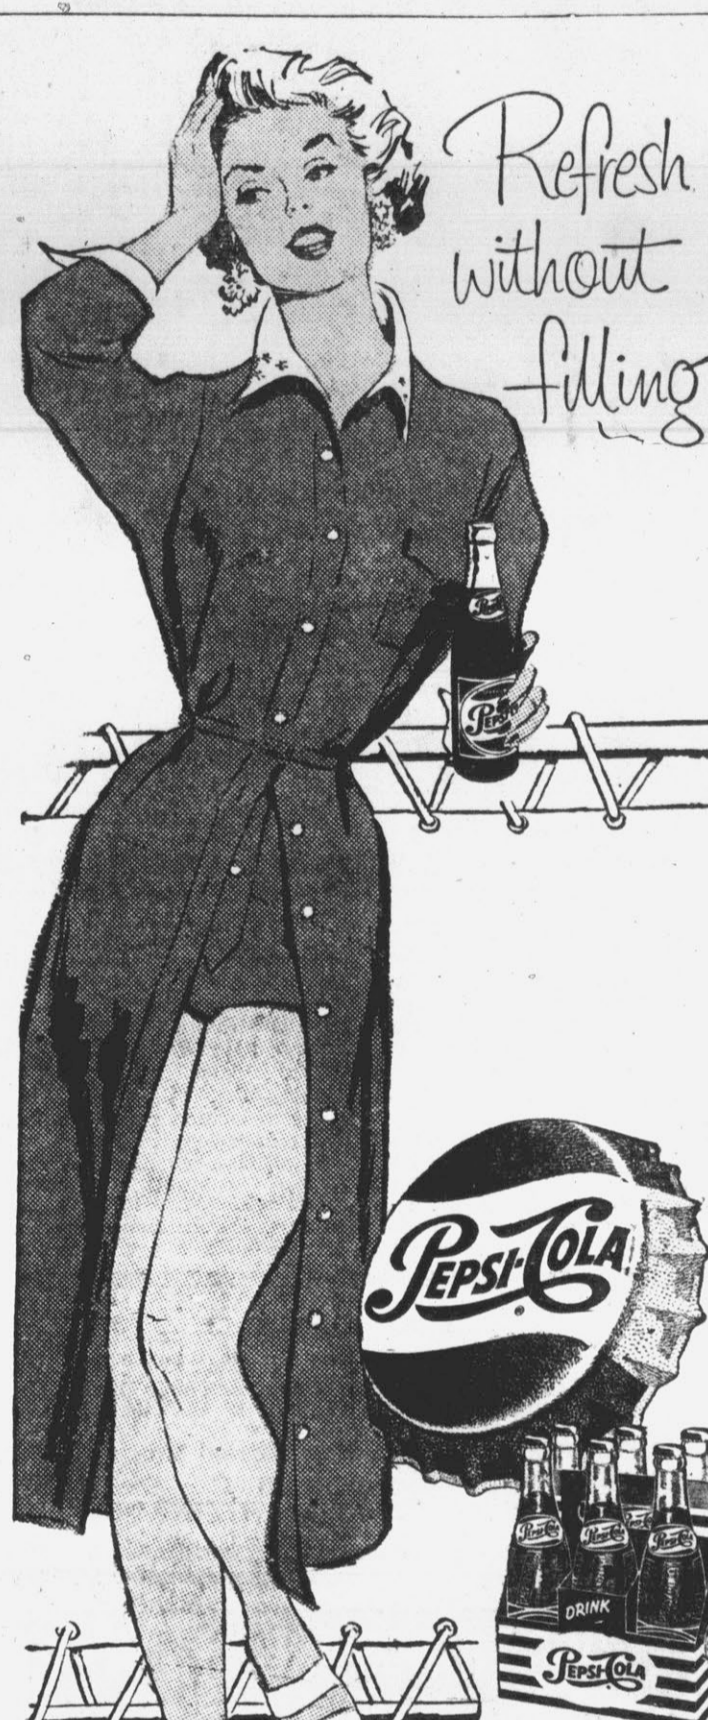

In the third inning Sturdivant's first pitch to Boone was a high inside fast ball that caromed off Ray's bat as he was trying to get out of the way.

Boone charged toward the mound and Sturdivant toward the plate. They met, traded a couple of punches and fell to the ground. Both benches emptied and it was 10 minutes before umpires could restore order. Both Boone and Sturdivant were ejected from the contest.

CHAPTER 8

Fall roundup went as smoothly as it ever had when Joe was alive. So did the drive to the pool house to Leadville. When we got back to Alton's Trading Post on the Arkansas, I left the crew and rode downriver to Canon City. I put the money from the sale of the Box P steers in the bank, keeping out the $500 Sarah wanted, and looked up Ben Sawhill.

The lawyer shook hands with me and motioned toward a chair. He asked about the drive, how the year was going financially and how I liked my job as foreman. He seemed to run out of questions. "Will, how do you feel about Sarah? Do you intend to marry her?"

I stared at him, unable to say anything for a moment. Then I said: "I ought to knock your teeth down your throat. Do you have any idea what Sarah has meant to me since I went there?"

"I apologize, Will," he said gently. "You see, I was in love with her before she married Joe. I'm still in love with her. I intend to ask her to marry me after I've waited a decent interval. The only reason I asked was to make sure what your intentions were. She's deciding you half her property. I've been wondering why, but it's her business. I've got the papers ready."

"Why didn't you marry her?" I asked. "I was poor, just starting my practice here, so I waited. Joe showed up and rushed her off her feet. They were married before I knew what was happening."

"Did Joe know about you?" Sawhill shook his head. "No. Neither did Sarah. At least I never told her. I came close to killing Joe several times. Sometimes I wish I had. He made life miserable for her in a lot of ways. He shrugged. "No use digging up old bones. Might as well wind this business up."

He handed me a pen, and I dipped it into a bottle of ink and signed my name. He leaned back in his chair, eyes narrowed. "This may turn out to be a good arrangement. I'll bring Sarah here if she'll have me, and you'll be there on the ranch to run it. You ought to get married, Will. You'd be happier."

"Get married," I said. "Just like that." "I turned toward the door. He said, "Will, I swung back as he rose and walked to me. Joe taught you a lot of things, including his way of looking at every problem in that simple, tough way he had. It fits Gene Dillingham, but it doesn't fit you. Sooner or later you'll butt heads on a question that will break you and Sarah up unless you see it her way. What will you do?"

"I don't know," I said. "I guess I'll decide when the time comes." I thought some more about what Sawhill had said as I rode home, a lot more. I wasn't a gun fighter, and I couldn't ask Gene Dillingham to do my fighting for me. But I couldn't sit still and watch our grass go under. There must be some substitute for Joe's gun.

It was dark by the time I reached the Box P and put up my horse. The only substitute I had been able to think of was the Cattlemen's Association. I'd ride over to see Alec Dodson in the morning. When I reached the bunkhouse, Curly King said: "Mrs. Pardee wants to see you right away. She's got company. I guess she wants you to meet 'em."

I changed my shirt and combed my hair. We heard Maria hammering on the triangle, announcing supper. Walking to the house, I asked Curly: "How are these visitors traveling?" "Hired a buggy in Canon City," he said.

"Where'd they come from?" "Dunno. I took care of their team and they went into the house. Been talking to Mrs. Pardee ever since."

I soon had the answer to my question. Sarah introduced me, and then we sat down at the table. The big one was John Mathers. About forty-five, I judged, a handsome man who impressed me as being honest and forthright. The other man was Al Romig, thin and dyspeptic-looking, with a yellow-skinned face and dry cough. He toyed with his food and talked very little.

I gathered that both Mathers and Romig lived in St. Louis. Mathers' wife was dead, but he had one daughter, named Nela. Romig was a bachelor.

Throughout the meal Sarah's face was flushed with excitement. When we finished eating, I would have gone back to the bunkhouse if Sarah hadn't said: "Come into the front room. Will, there are a few things we want to ask you."

Dogbone pushed her wheelchair into the other room, then left, and I threw a couple of pieces of pine on the fire. When I turned, I saw that Mathers was sitting on the couch, his legs stretched out toward the fire.

"You have a fine place, Mrs. Pardee," he said. "I can see why you wouldn't want to give it up. But there is no reason for you to."

"Of course not," she said. "Will, they want to know about the land on the other side of town. Between Carlton and Anchor."

I looked at her, then at Mathers, who was as tranquil as if he'd asked about elk hunting. I brought my gaze back to Sarah. She was tense, and worry lines scarred her forehead. I walked to the couch and looked down at Mathers.

I said: "Mister, you don't want to know about the land in Easter Valley. It's all taken. You and Romig don't have enough guns to seal an acre." I laughed. "You don't look much like farmers to me."

Romig, sitting beside Mathers, pressed harder against the back of the couch; his face got yellower than ever. But Mathers never turned a hair. He said calmly: "I didn't say we were farmers. I asked about the land. Nothing more."

"Why would you want to know about the land if you weren't figuring on farming?" "Maybe we want to own a cattle ranch."

"That's Anchor grass above town along the creek," I said. "Over their hair meadows. You'll find no open country anywhere in the valley."

"Will," Sarah said, "get the chip off your shoulder. These men are our guests."

"Yours," I said. "Not mine." "Ours. Or didn't you see Ben Sawhill?"

"I saw him. All right, our guests." I nodded at Mathers. "I'll be gone in the morning when you get up, and you'll be gone by the time I get back. Good night."

I walked out of the room. One glance at Sarah told me she was angry, as angry as I had ever seen her. Later, when we were alone, I'd hear about it, just as Joe used to. Ben Sawhill had asked me what I would do in a situation like this. I'd decide when the time came, I told him; but now the time had come, and I still didn't know.

Only Half Of Man In Public

DANVILLE, Va. (AP)—Police came on the run to find a reported break-in and found a man stuck halfway through a transom over the front door of a house. Turned out it was the man's own house so the cops put a charge of public drunkenness against him.

Judge Calvin Berry decided, however, there was a fine legal point involved since only half of the man was in public. He dismissed the charge.

Killed Children, Wife, Parents And Himself

TORONTO (AP)—Police said a 37-year-old electrician killed his wife, parents and two children yesterday because the parents and wife objected to his drinking and way of life.

After the multiple slaying James D. Sinclair rammed his car into a bridge abutment and killed himself. Friends said he was a moderate drinker.

Police said Sinclair apparently got up at 5 a.m. and took a 15-inch pipe from the cellar.

He bludgeoned his sleeping parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Sinclair Sr., his 35-year-old wife Margaret and son Ian, 7. Then he strangled his 2-year-old daughter Joy with a necktie in her crib.

After washing and changing his clothes, Sinclair left in his car. He drove west on Queen Elizabeth Highway—half a mile—turned around and headed at high speed into the concrete abutment.

Police said Sinclair left six disjointed notes, saying his wife and parents interfered with his way of life and objected to his drinking.

Considers Summoning Scientists Of World

By RELMAN MORIN
 NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Linus Pauling said today he is considering calling the scientists of all nations—Russians included—to join his appeal for an agreement to stop testing nuclear weapons.

"I should like to see the signatures of thousands of Russian scientists, of British and French scientists, of scientists of all the countries of the world, to this appeal," he said in an interview.

Pauling is a Nobel Prize-winning California biochemist.

He announced last week that 2,000 American scientists signed a stop-the-tests appeal that he wrote. It said radioactive elements, put in the air by the explosions, already are damaging human health all over the world. It added:

"As scientists we have knowledge of the dangers involved and therefore a special responsibility to make those dangers known. We deem it imperative that immediate action be taken to effect an international agreement to stop the testing of all nuclear weapons."

Pauling said he is now contemplating ways to enlist the support of scientists everywhere for this appeal.

He leaves tomorrow for a lecture tour in France.

"I have made a vow that henceforth in every lecture or address that I gave, no matter on what subject, I shall mention peace in the world," he said.

"Circumstances just forced me to write the appeal."

Pauling, 56, is a tall, spare, loose-jointed man with grey hair, searching blue eyes, and a sensitive face. He smiles frequently, breaking the intensity of his expression. While talking, he paces.

From the first nuclear explosion, he said, he has been concerned about the danger of polluting the atmosphere with radioactive material.

"There has hardly been a month since 1945 when I have not made a public statement about nuclear war," he said.

His position, summarized, is this:

1. People already are dying from the effects of fallout, radioactive particles carried by winds from the site of the explosions.
2. The physical danger increases with each added dose of radiation in the atmosphere.
3. This danger is greater than the danger of war today.
4. Therefore, for both moral and physical reasons, the three nations possessing nuclear weapons—the United States, Russia, and Britain—should agree to stop exploding them.

"It is my estimate that the bomb tests are causing now 1,000 additional deaths by leukemia (a blood disease) each year, and even more by bone cancer." The estimate, Pauling said, is based on a report on leukemia by Dr. E. D. Lewis, professor of biology at the California Institute of Technology, and on Atomic Energy Commission Reports on fallout.

"I am convinced that there will be born in future generations hundreds of thousands of feeble-minded children, with serious physical defects because of the tests that already have been made," Pauling said.

He said he does not believe there is "any significant disagreement" among scientists about the question of fallout damage.

Where is the danger level of radiation in the atmosphere?

"That is something that needs to be interpreted," he said. "Dr. (Willard) Libby of the AEC) may say, as he does, that there is no detectable damage done by bomb tests. But he does not say there is no damage done by bomb tests."

"I can't point out any single person and say he has leukemia or bone cancer because of the tests. At the present time we do not know how to distinguish between a case of leukemia or bone cancer due to the test, and a case due to some other cause."

"But a one per cent incidence in leukemia would mean more than 1,000 additional deaths by leukemia each year in the world."

As to the effects of dosing the atmosphere with more radioactive materials, Pauling's statement signed by the 2,000 scientists said:

"Each added amount of radiation causes damage to the health of human being all over the world and causes damage to the pool of human germ plasma. . . . But what about the danger of war? While it exists, can the U.S. risk a discontinuance in the weapons tests?"

"I am convinced that there will not be a nuclear war, that there never again will be a great world war," Pauling said.

He said he believed he understands the practical problems of disarmament, and does not know how to solve them. But he added that if the effort to solve them were commensurate "with the efforts now being made to perfect weapons of destruction, these problems could be solved."

Pauling heads the Division and Chemistry and Chemical Engineering at the California Institute of Technology. He has degrees and medals from many nations.

Outside the classroom, his special project is in the field of mental disease. He is attempting to apply a new concept of molecular disease to the problem of mental health.

The Paulings live in a rambling home in the foothills east of Pasadena. They have three sons and a daughter, all engaged in science or studying it.

Not Mere Dollars Are The Big Issue

By LYNN NISBET
 (The Reflector Bureau)
 RALEIGH — The difference in the total amount for school teacher salaries in the House and Senate bills is about two and a half million dollars. Reduced to individual base the difference is 77 cents a week in take-home pay for each teacher. Percentage wise it is about one-fourth of one percent of the total state budget.

Obviously that is not enough to occasion all the argument and delay in enacting the appropriations bill. The contest involves prestige and principle rather than dollars.

Many legislators in both branches had committed themselves for teacher pay at the base salary of 16.09 percent above present level, proposed by the State Board of Education as the absolute minimum for efficiency in school operation. When the Governor and the Advisory Budget Commission came up with a proposal for only 9.8 percent increase, the legislators vowed they would get more.

Later the Governor raised his proposal to 15 percent, which was the scale provided for in the revised budget bill. The Senate accepted that figure, but the House both in committee and as whole stood out for 16.09.

The matter of principle, the keeping of a pledge to constituents and to themselves, is offered by supporters of 16.09 as justification for their refusal to yield.

Perhaps a more controlling influence is the item of prestige—between the House and Senate and between the Governor and the entire General Assembly.

The same issues were involved in the revenue act, which was reduced in several respects below administration proposals. However, Governor Hodges obtained his main objective in the income tax formula. On other points of difference the House yielded some, the Senate a good deal more. Senators now contend that since they gave in on revenue, and accepted a bill that would produce less money, the House certainly should give in on their bill to spend more money.

Readiness of the General Assembly to go along with the Governor on the tax formula was due largely to the fact it was based on thorough study by a commission of able men. The same was true of the several reorganization bills, including an independent prison system. Those issues involved prestige of the study commission policy which has become well established in North Carolina.

Advocates of the 16.09 pay raise for teachers contend that it was recommended by a highly capable study commission, the constitutional State Board of Education, which also has continuing responsibility for operating the schools.

So—while there is the sizeable, but relatively small, amount of two and a half million dollars, and the principle of keeping pledges at stake, the real issue is prestige. Prestige of the House and the Senate as distinct branches of the General Assembly, prestige of the Governor who has staked a lot on this fight, and prestige of the study commission policy.

The fact that the committee which jointly studied the bills had more Representatives than Senators, and the conference group now wrestling with the problem also has more House members, is of no consequence. The final bill must have a majority in both houses before it can be enacted and one vote can make that majority in either.

Nixon Says Aid To Poland Is 'Gamble' Worth Taking

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)— Vice President Nixon describes economic aid to Poland as a "gamble worth taking."

It pits "the explosive power of freedom" against communism, he said yesterday in defending the administration's agreement to loan Poland 95 million dollars to buy U.S. farm products and mining equipment.

In a speech at Michigan State University commencement exercises, the vice president also said that if labor legislation results from the Senate rackets investigation, Congress must avoid blaming "an entire movement for the blunders and crimes of a minority." It must not "weaken or destroy unions," he said.

Nixon's stand on the loan to Poland opposes the views of Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California.

Knowland said recently such aid would tend to beef up Communist regimes in the satellite nations. "There is no question but that Poland is a Communist country," Nixon said. "But the Polish people have been displaying . . . determination to follow a course independent of the Soviet Union."

The vice president cited two alternatives. He said one would be to "drive the Polish people and government back to complete domination by Moscow in the hopes that Poland will then be an economic burden on the Soviet Union."

"If we follow this course," he said, "we are in effect saying that there is no evolutionary road to independence for a people dominated by communism and that violent revolution is their only resort if they want to be free."

He said the other alternative would be to assist Poland toward increasing independence from Russia. This would be done "with the hope that Communists in other lands will see that freedom and freedom alone brings out the best qualities in men," he said. "We do this not because we approve of communism but because we believe that the explosive power of freedom is great enough to destroy communism once it is given a chance to flourish," he said.

However, the administration is "under no illusions that our policy is certain to succeed," he told an audience of 25,000.

He said the Poles and their government still might be forced into complete subservience to the Soviet Union.

"But certainly here is a gamble worth taking," he said.

Turning to labor, Nixon said the congressional committee is doing a good job in exposing activities of union officials "who broke faith with their union membership." The "more difficult question," he said is just what legislation should result.

Nixon said "legislation of the most drastic character" would be the wrong approach.

"The aim of any legislation in this field must not be to weaken or destroy unions, but to give union members the tools they need to make all unions follow the good practices which many unions follow today," he said.

The vice president was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Missile Tracker In 'Living Color'
 WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army has a new giant telescope tracker which can follow the flight of missiles as far as 300 miles away and show them on a screen in color.

Planes, official publication of the Aircraft Industries Association, says the telescope is currently undergoing tests at a military proving ground location.

The ton and one-half instrument, which is equipped with a 400-pound lens, will be used to track and photograph high altitude meteorological balloons for their locations and altitude, to locate objects such as rockets and artillery shells, and to evaluate radar systems.

Dancers Slain By Algerian Bomb
 ALGIERS (AP)—A terrorist bomb exploded under the bandstand last night as French couples danced the cha-cha-cha in a fashionable seaside casino. It killed seven young people and wounded 83—many of them members of prominent Algerian families.

Authorities assumed the bomb was planted by Algerian nationalists, who have stepped up their campaign of bombing and killing to press their independence demands on the French government.

Arms and legs were blown from about a dozen of the 300 persons attending a tea dance at the Casino de la Corniche, a stucco building in a palm garden overlooking the sea at suburban St. Eugene.

None of the dead were over 25. Most of the casino's "Lucky Star" orchestra were killed outright. The dead, dying and wounded included young children attending the dance with their families.

The bomb, timed to go off at 7 p. m., was hidden in the concrete base of the bandstand.

French police searched the Algiers area for an Algerian steward who vanished from his job at the casino before the bomb went off. One policeman said: "This is not politics, this is murder."

Just a week ago bombs planted in three lampposts near crowded bus and street stops killed four persons and wounded 84 in Algiers.

Officials say the bombings apparently are aimed at getting a favorable settlement to the 31-month-old Algerian rebellion from whatever new French government replaces Socialist Premier Guy Mollet's caretaker regime.

WALL STREET
NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined sharply today in a heavy wave of selling on news that President Eisenhower had been stricken with an "upset stomach" and that heart and intestinal specialists were summoned.

Early this afternoon, however, some of the worst losses were trimmed as recovery movement got under way.

The high-speed ticker tape fell behind the rush of transactions for one hour and 10 minutes. At the worst, it was 14 minutes behind the pace of trading—the greatest lag since Feb. 29, 1956 when it ran 19 minutes behind on word that President Eisenhower would seek reelection.

Some stocks recovered entirely, posting gains of from fractions to a point.
Based on the decline in the average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York stock exchange dropped about 2 billion dollars as of noon.

As prices recovered partially, Amerasia halved an initial loss of around 5. Gulf Oil trimmed a point from its 4-point loss. Getty Oil changed a loss of 2 to only 1. Lukens Steel moved a bit to the upside after dropping 2. American Smelting and Allied Chemical gained about a point each.

Losses of a point or more were posted for Bethlehem Steel, U.S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, General Dynamics, Westinghouse Electric and Goodyear.

New York Shipbuilding was down around 3 and high-priced International Business Machines was off about 5, not abnormal for a stock selling above 300. Royal Dutch, moved from the downside to make a small gain.

Egyptian Diplomats Expelled By Jordan

AMMAN (AP)—The Jordan government today expelled two Egyptian diplomats on security charges. They left by plane for Cairo.

A government announcement said Foreign Minister Samir el Rifai asked the Egyptian embassy in Amman to withdraw its military attaché Maj. Fuad Hilal after he tried to enlist a Jordanian in a plot to assassinate "certain official personalities in Amman."

The announcement said the recall of Mohammed Abdul Aziz, consul general in the Jordan sector of Jerusalem, was demanded for "reasons connected with security."

Rifai earlier told a news conference Egypt had been asked to replace its representative on the joint Egyptian-Syrian-Jordanian military command for "misbehavior." Rifai did not go into details.

The Jordanian announcement was made several hours after Egypt's Middle East News Agency published a dispatch in Cairo charging that the Jordanian government "fabricated a plot aimed at involving Hilal in 'security charges. They left by plane for Cairo."

The Egyptian dispatch, from Beirut, Lebanon, claimed Hilal had been approached by an emissary—who was not identified from the Jordanian army chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Habes Majali. The report said Hilal arrested the emissary, obtained a written confession "that Majali sent him to involve Hilal in an alleged conspiracy against Jordan and the monarchy," and handed him over to the Jordanian authorities.

The Jordanian announcement told a different story. It said Hilal "personally contacted a certain Jordanian citizen and tried to induce him with all sorts of material and moral promises to undertake criminal acts aiming at assassinating certain official personalities in Amman. He also promised to provide him with the necessary weapons to carry out the crime."

The announcement said the Jordanian "immediately" contacted Jordanian military authorities and reported what the Egyptian military attaché had asked him to do and handed over the weapons he was provided with to commit the crime.

Hilal also was accused of "stirring up... other persons to commit crimes which would disturb order and security."

Relations between Jordanian King Hussein and Egyptian President Nasser have grown increasingly strained since the young king in April ousted leftist and pro-Egyptian officials who dominated the Jordanian government.

Hussein accused Egyptian propaganda agencies aiding his enemies, and the Jordanian government radio subsequently charged that the Soviet Union, Egypt and Syria had plotted to depose Hussein, King Faisal of Iraq, King Saud of Saudi Arabia and King Idriss of Libya.

Some experts estimated they might gain as many as 15 to 20, but this still would leave them far short of a majority.

The Liberals won 171 seats in the 1953 election, giving them a 94-vote majority over the combined opposition. The Conservatives took only 51.

Canada's two other major parties, the Socialist CCF (Cooperative Commonwealth Federation) and the Social Credit party, have not made much of a national effort, but both have strong regional support.

No major issues were developed during the campaign. The Liberals promised to maintain the country's prosperity. The Conservatives accused the government of encouraging inflation and of curtailing parliamentary and individual liberties. They said Canada was threatened with becoming a one-party country.

John Diefenbaker, 61, Conservative chief, wound up his first campaign as party leader with the prediction he might pull an upset like Harry Truman's retention of the presidency in 1948.

Cutting Deeper Than The House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee says it has cut 33 million dollars deeper than the House in the eight annual money bills on which it has acted.

The Senate has yet to act on four of them, and the committee itself has not yet completed work on the defense money bill, which the House cut 2 1/2 billion dollars below President Eisenhower's requests.

The Senate committee continues hearings today on requests that it restore $1,200,000,000 of the defense cuts.

In the bills it has handled to date, the committee has cut a total of $1,400,000,000 from Eisenhower's budget requests for the year starting July 1.

The Senate group has slashed five of them below the House figures, accepted the exact House total on another, and boosted two others slightly above amounts allowed by the House.

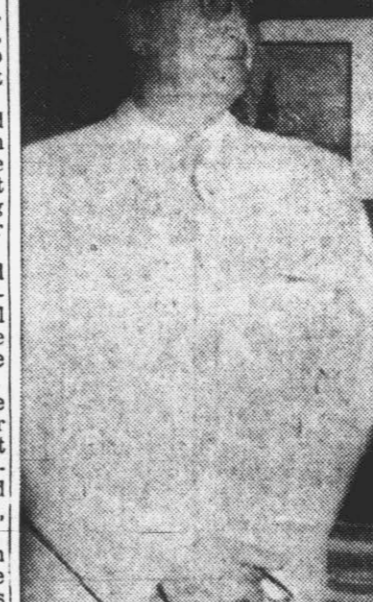

This has reversed the usual role of the Senate. For many years government agencies have successfully appealed to the Senate to replace House reductions and in most cases part of the Senate increases were upheld later in required Senate-House compromises.

Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) has called for Senate decision this week on four of the annual money bills, with indications that Appropriations Committee decisions will be upheld.

They involve more than 13 billion dollars of the President's budget requests of nearly 72 billion. They provide funds for the Departments of Agriculture, Labor and Welfare, the independent agencies and the District of Columbia.

Johnson is anxious to complete Senate action on all regular appropriations before the end of the month.

Rains Fail Deter Large Turnout For 'Crusade'

The fourth and culminating week of the United Crusade For Christ began with two well-attended services yesterday.

"Climbing To Hell" was the sermon topic for last night's service. Dr. Johnson said that, like the man drifting in a boat toward the Niagara brink, one does not have to do something to be lost; for he is already condemned, according to the Bible. "God has provided the way of salvation through the atonement of His Son on Calvary. In order to go to Hell one must literally climb over the Bible, gospel preaching, divine intervention and the love of God," he declared.

Although the heavy rain had necessitated the Saturday and Sunday afternoon services to be held elsewhere, the service last night was staged in the big tent on the West Greenville school grounds.

Johnson announced that tonight he will deliver one of his most important addresses of the entire series, entitled "The Origin and Purpose of the Human Family." This service has been delivered before scores of college assemblies, Bible conferences and in Johnson's crusades in all parts of the United States and Canada.

A Greenville Ministerial Association official announced today that an award will be given to the largest family and to the oldest and youngest mother present at the Crusade service tonight.

The evangelist received a long distance call from an old friend and former college roommate, Billy Graham, Saturday morning. Graham, himself conducting a New York evangelistic crusade, told his friend that he and his entire team were praying for its (United Crusade) success, and that countless decisions for Christ would result.
