

Another Traffic Fatality For Pitt

CAR TURNED END OVER END . . . a total loss.

DRIVER WAS THROWN OUT . . . and later died. (Reflector Photos)

Young Driver Lost Control On Curve, Dies Of Injuries

By EVERETTE PARKER, Reflector Staff Writer. The driver lost control of his automobile in a sharp curve, the vehicle overturned three times, end-over-end. Some of his personal effects were found more than 50 yards up the road from his bleeding body. He was thrown out of the automobile. Melvin Amos Byrd, 18, of Ayden, R. 2, died around midnight en route to Pitt Memorial Hospital. Pitt Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said this morning the young graduate of Ayden High School died of head and internal injuries. His death was the fifth of the year on the streets and highways of Pitt County and second in less than 48 hours. A little five-year-old Negro boy was killed Monday night when hit by an automobile while crossing the highway on the Porter Road, seven miles from Bethel. The other occupant of the automobile in last night's wreck, John Burney, was not thrown out of vehicle and escaped uninjured. Hub caps, chrome, tools, glass and other equipment were strewn more than 50 yards down the rural dirt road. Patrolman Bill Whitehurst of Ayden investigated the accident, assisted by Patrolman Dick Taylor of Grifton. Whitehurst said the 1956 vehicle was "a total loss." The accident took place approximately 13 miles southeast of Ayden in the Clay Root section. Time was fixed at around 10:50 p.m. Tire marks indicated that the driver lost control of his car while going around a curve on the dirt road. The automobile skidded approximately 50 yards before hitting a shallow ditch, having a slightly elevated bank. After hitting the ditch the vehicle turned over three times, end-over-end before coming to a halt with its rear wheels in the ditch. Byrd's body was found about three yards from the left front wheel. He was bleeding excessively when removed from the scene of the accident and died around 12:15 a. m. before reaching the hospital. The other occupant was not thrown out. He was still in the automobile when found by several passersby who happened along shortly after the accident occurred. Officers said that at no time did the car leave the road or ditch. The ditch bank prevented it from going into a nearby corn field, they added. Byrd's pocketbook was found by a bystander some distance up the road, just around the curve. The dead youngster's glasses were found in the corn field.

Coroner Rouse said this morning that no inquest would be held in the death since conclusive evidence had been obtained from his and Patrolman Whitehurst's investigation. Street-Paving Work Resumed Greenville's paving program, which stalled for a time when the asphalt plant was out of commission, is now proceeding. City Manager Leonard Bloxam said today that paving has been completed on Willow St. from Harding to Woodlawn, on Third from Elm to Oak, on Oak from Third to Fourth and on Harding from Willow to River Dr. In addition space between the newly installed curb and gutter on Fifth St. has been filled in. Curb and gutter has been installed on Atlantic Ave. to Bonner's Lane and down Bonner's Lane to Pitt St. Workers are in the process of installing curb and gutter on Ernie St. The street will be paved from Sixth to Tenth. Curb and gutter and paving will also be placed on River Dr. from Woodlawn to Harding St., Bloxam said.

U.S. Plans Cut Legation Staff At Budapest WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department is reported mapping a cut of up to 50 per cent in the 34-member U. S. legation staff in Communist Hungary. This planned slash is about what the Soviet satellite government Premier Janos Kadar demanded May 25, but the State Department told Hungary in a note released yesterday that it is not responding to the Hungarian demand. The official American position is that the Kadar regime is making it "increasingly difficult" for American diplomats in Budapest. Officials' embarrassment of visitors to the legation and arrests of some Hungarian employees of the legation.

Real Estate Improvements Upped Tax Values

Improvements to real estate in Pitt County during the past year accounted for approximately one-third of the $3.7 million increase in the county's tax valuation for 1957. Other major increases in taxable property in the county came in inventory and equipment of businesses and in motor vehicles. County Tax Supervisor Harold Allred today released a breakdown of the increased valuations in the five major categories into which property in the county is divided for tax purposes. This year's increase in tax valuation—the largest since the 1954 revaluation—sent total tax valuations of the county to a record high at $70,866,297 exclusive of the corporation excess. Tax valuation on real estate in the county increased $1,879,257 in the 1957 listings to reach a total of $50,161,158. The new figure represented an increase of approximately 3.9 percent above the real estate tax values for 1956. Percentagewise the highest increase came in inventory and equipment of businesses which jumped 13 per cent over the 1956 valuation. The listings of inventory and equipment this year increased the tax valuation by $92,795 to a new high of $8,608,943 for the category. Tax valuation of motor vehicles listed by the county increased 11.5 per cent to $5,693,792. It was an increase of $589,465 in tax value. Household furnishings listed with the county has a tax value of $5,186,395 for 1957, $275,484 over the 1956 listings. Property coming under the "all other" category showed an increased tax valuation of $41,736 to $1,216,009. Although a breakdown of the percentage of total valuation accounted for by each category is not yet available for the 1957 listings, they are not expected to vary appreciably from the 1956 figures. Based on the total tax valuation of property in Pitt County last year, real estate within the corporate limits of municipalities accounted for 37 per cent of the total tax valuation of the county. Farm real estate accounted for 30 per cent of the total valuation. Stock, equipment, furniture and fixtures of businesses accounted for eleven per cent of the total valuation. Motor vehicles accounted for seven per cent of the valuation, and household furnishings and farm equipment accounted for a like percentage. Corporation excess listings accounted for six per cent and other personal property two per cent.

'Most Expensive' N. C. General Assembly In History Adjourns

Onslow To Ask 'Disaster' Aid; Rains Damage Crops

RALEIGH (AP)—Onslow County will ask the U. S. Department of Agriculture to declare the county a "disaster area" because of damage caused to tobacco there by the recent rains. Both Carolinians are suffering from the wet weather of the past few weeks. In addition to tobacco damage, cotton boll weevils are causing serious alarm in both states. Rains which delayed spraying brought out weevils in unusual numbers. Growers are being urged to spray in spite of showers. In North Carolina Farm Agent D. A. Halsey reported yesterday that agriculture workers estimate symptoms of drowning have been found in about 3,600 acres of tobacco, approximately 45 per cent of Onslow County's crop. He estimated one-third of the crop was a total loss. Damage in other areas of the state was predicted by tobacco specialist Roy R. Bennett of North Carolina State College extension service. Rains yesterday and Sunday had caused losses in counties south and east of Raleigh, he stated. He reported damage in Sampson County but said Wilson and Pitt, two of the leading tobacco producing counties, escaped considerable loss. In Onslow, damage to tobacco was general throughout the county Halsey said. He also said 17 acres of tomatoes in Swansboro township were lost and there was considerable damage to soybeans and home gardens. Bennett said the farmers could do "very little" to salvage tobacco with symptoms of drowning. He said the full extent of damage from drowning won't become evident for several days. Meanwhile, North Carolina State College farm experts sent out a statewide boll weevil alarm today alerting cotton farmers of impending severe weevil infestation and urging immediate steps to bring the destructive insects under control. A. J. Shanklin, cotton specialist, and George Jones, entomologist, reported high rates of weevils in Piedmont and all of the eastern part of the state. Howard Clapp, Cleveland county farm agent, and J. B. Caudill, Scotland County agent, reported "extremely serious" infestations for this time of year. Shanklin and Jones said recent rainy weather "has been ideal for the spread and buildup of boll weevils. Farmers have been reluctant to apply insecticides, reasoning that it might rain again before nightfall." The two farm specialists warned farmers to begin treatments immediately and continue at frequent intervals until the infestations are under control.

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's General Assembly ended its 1957 session today. Final adjournment of the session came at 11:29 a. m. However, clocks in both Senate and House said 11 a. m. They had been stopped at that time in accordance with a resolution adopted yesterday setting it as the official time for "sine die" adjournment. Many legislators cleared their desks and headed for home yesterday after the House and Senate had disposed of a host of matters in preparation for adjournment. As far as the House and Senate were concerned, adjournment could have come yesterday. The delay was caused by work piled up in the enrolling office. Typists and proofreaders in the enrolling office have been busy trying to catch up with a mass of legislation dumped on them Saturday and Monday. There were some 120 bills sent to the office yesterday. The enrolling office work involved typing into the state's permanent records all bills passed and carefully checking them for errors. The Legislature cannot adjourn until this is done and the bills are formally ratified. RALEIGH (AP)—The 1957 North Carolina General Assembly, which came to a close today, was the "most expensive" in history and set a record in the number of bills ratified. Secretary of State Thad Eure said approximately 1,500 bills were ratified and enrolled, compared with 1,431 in 1955 and 1,385 in 1953. Final figures are not available but Eure said this was the "most expensive" legislature in history. He attributed this to legislative pay and miscellaneous costs, such as the printing of bills. The lawmakers received pay for 120 days instead of 90 days in past sessions. Their pay period ended June 5. In addition, they received an $8 daily subsistence allowance this year for the first time. Today's session marked 127 calendar days since the Legislature convened on Feb. 6. This was a Legislature that enacted a host of major proposals and said "no" to many controversial issues, including the biennial question of a statewide liquor referendum and motor vehicle inspection.

Two major issues approved were a revision in the state's corporate income tax law and a 1 per cent pay raise for school teachers, both recommended by Gov. Hodges. In addition, teachers will receive an additional 1.99 per cent raise if revenues are sufficient during the next biennium. The governor plugged hard for the change in the corporate income tax allocation formula as a means of attracting industry to the state and eliminating inequities in the tax structure. Other state employees will get an 11 per cent raise under the biennial appropriations bill which calls for record state spending of 780 million dollars during the next two fiscal years. The first major piece of legislation enacted at this session was a bill to reorganize the Highway Commission. The new Highway Commission will have seven instead of 14 commissioners. Other major legislation enacted included: Separation of the Prisons Department from the Highway Commission. A work release plan permitting misdemeanant prisoners to work at regular jobs during the day and stay behind bars at nights and on weekends. A compulsory auto liability insurance program. Measures designed to curb highway racing. A driver training program for the state's public schools. A new state Department of Administration to combine fiscal agencies. This was one of many recommendations of the Commission on Reorganization of State Government. Also enacted was a bill setting up a Department of Services to replace the state Buildings and Grounds Agency. Among the controversial proposals turned down were: legislation calling for a state minimum wage; proposals to reapportion the House and Senate membership; motor vehicle inspection, both mandatory and voluntary; bills designed to curb the activities of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People; a statewide liquor referendum; legislation to allow local option elections in counties on the question of legalizing horse and dog racing and pari mutuel betting; and a proposal to place the state on daylight saving time.

Utilities Okay Tentative Deal For Natural Gas

Greenville Utilities Commission last night approved a tentative contract with North Carolina Natural Gas for purchase of gas from that company's pipeline. Utilities Superintendent Leonard Bloxam asked for the contract approval although he told the commission that the contract is not "worth the paper it's written on" as a binding document. That's true since the rates proposed in the contract have not been approved by the State Utilities Commission, Bloxam said. The Gas company was interested in obtaining commitments from the various municipalities in this area before construction of the pipeline for bringing natural gas into the area is begun. North Carolina Natural Gas received approval for construction of the pipe line into this area. Commissioners also got a look at a miniature transformer bank, complete with high power lines, recently purchased for instructional use at the power plant. Bloxam told the commissioners that the little transformers actually work when current is applied to the outfit. The unit is to be used for safety instruction, for practice in hooking up transformer lines and to test the knowledge of those applying for positions as linemen, the superintendent told the commissioners. Commission members also heard the superintendent's report on progress of water, sewer and electric projects during last month and Business Manager Larry Brown's monthly report.

Paratrooper Dies Dangling In Skies

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP)—Medical authorities say an Iowa paratrooper suffocated during the more than three hours he dangled from a troop carrier plane over this military post yesterday. Pfc. Wayne H. Flugum, 23, Leeland, Iowa, was dead when he was cut loose from the huge C123 transport as it skimmed only inches above a runway greased with foam to cut down possible injury. During the preceding three hours, three crew members had worked valiantly to free Flugum, whose parachute became entangled in the static line left by previous jumpers during a routine airborne exercise. The medical report said he had been dead from 30 minutes to two hours before his body was landed. But the report did not say whether the trooper suffocated from being entangled in his shroud lines, or from the force of slipstream air under the plane. Flugum was about the 18th of some 36 paratroopers who jumped from the plane. The crewmen almost pulled the pleading Flugum to safety once, but the slipstream pulled him from their grasp. A jet plane tried to help by flying under the troop carrier and nudging it, dangling paratrooper with a wing tank. The idea was to nudge him from under the plane and make it easier to pull him up. However, Flugum at that time was either unconscious or dead and couldn't help himself. The three working to pull Flugum into the plane were Lt. Gordon Havlinek, Two Rivers, Wis., copilot; Sgt. Salvador Zumudio, San Antonio, Tex.; and A2C. George Nash, Koala, Kan. The pilot, Lt. Thomas Ansberry, Urbana, Ohio, kept the plane circling over the drop zone.

Street-Paving Work Resumed

Greenville's paving program, which stalled for a time when the asphalt plant was out of commission, is now proceeding. City Manager Leonard Bloxam said today that paving has been completed on Willow St. from Harding to Woodlawn, on Third from Elm to Oak, on Oak from Third to Fourth and on Harding from Willow to River Dr. In addition space between the newly installed curb and gutter on Fifth St. has been filled in. Curb and gutter has been installed on Atlantic Ave. to Bonner's Lane and down Bonner's Lane to Pitt St. Workers are in the process of installing curb and gutter on Ernie St. The street will be paved from Sixth to Tenth. Curb and gutter and paving will also be placed on River Dr. from Woodlawn to Harding St., Bloxam said.

Eisenhower Jovial Host At Breakfast

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, jovial and looking chipper after his illness, was breakfast host today to 40 House Republicans in a new move to get his bogged-down legislative program through Congress. The White House meeting marked the President's resumption of regular business engagements in the wake of the stomach upset which kept him in bed all day Monday and sharply restricted his office activities yesterday. Eisenhower's physicians have reported him "almost" recovered from the stomach distress. They attribute his brief illness to "slight overindulgence in some types of food." The purpose of the breakfast series is to put Eisenhower in closer touch with GOP Congress members and enable him to do a bit of quiet missionary work on behalf of his program. There were some immediate indications that the President still faces an uphill task in that respect, even with some members of his own party. Rep. Brown of Ohio told newsmen after the breakfast that Eisenhower discussed the administration's legislative program briefly with him, particularly a $1-billion-dollar measure to provide for school construction. "I told him," Brown related, "that Ohio is against the school bill. I said that in Ohio if we voted for that bill we would all get hung." Brown added that the conversation was in a light vein and Eisenhower laughed heartily.

Brown said he also told Eisenhower that several of those at the breakfast favored cutting the administration's $71,800,000,000 spending budget for the fiscal year starting July 1. The congressman had nothing to say about any presidential laughter over that. Eisenhower was getting back in the usual swing of things swiftly after spending an hour and 45 minutes at his desk yesterday morning. But he did decide against holding his regular weekly news conference today. A 4 p. m. medical bulletin—the last of this illness barring unforeseen developments—said he had "almost completed his recovery from a mild stomach upset." The White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, reported the President lost no weight during the illness, which first developed Sunday evening.

Mayflower Takes Tow Into Harbor

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (AP)—Mayflower II, replica of the original Pilgrim vessel, came down the last few miles into Provincetown harbor today at the end of a tow line, bashing her blunt bow into angry seas whipped up by a sou'wester of 40 knots in the gusts. Since leaving Plymouth, England, 53 days ago her Australian-born skipper, world-famed sailing master Alan Villiers, had guided her over sail over 5,000 meandering miles. The Pilgrims in the original bark required 66 days on a far more direct route, logging about 3,000 miles. However, comparisons have no application in this instance. Villiers, veteran of the last of the windjammer grain races from "Down Under" to England and no stranger to long voyages, deliberately took his awkward, chunky ship the long way around to the advantage of wind and currents of which the Pilgrims probably were in total ignorance. He shaped a course far south of the Pilgrims' track to pick up the trade winds, followed them to the West Indies and dropped Mayflower II into the northerly flowing Gulf Stream. It all paid off handsomely. Thousands of eager spectators lined the strand and sand dunes as Mayflower II rounded Race Point, tip of Cape Cod, on a fishhook shaped approach to the harbor. Bare of canvas, she rolled, tossed and wallowed in the seas. Sails were furled after the Coast Guard tug Yankton passed her a hawser. Without the steady influence of sail she engaged in preposterous gyrations. Villiers had indicated he intended to remain in the harbor less than half an hour, stating "I've got to get on to Plymouth today." To attempt Plymouth today, without a wind shift, would mean pounding along at the end of Yankton's hawser 23 miles across Cape Cod Bay. Jimmy Dorsey Dies In Hospital NEW YORK (AP)—Bandleader Jimmy Dorsey died today in Doctors Hospital. Dorsey, 53, entered the hospital about a month ago. Cause of death was not disclosed immediately. He was a brother of Tommy Dorsey, also a bandleader, who died last November. He had been under treatment for cancer. In January he was operated on for a lung growth.

In an informal ceremony of simplicity and beauty, Miss Carolyn Evans became the bride of Ronald Lee Morton in the Winterville Baptist Church at noon on Sunday, June 9.

The double ring ceremony was performed immediately following the church service with the Rev. E. G. Cole officiating.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Denyse McLawhorn, soloist, and Mrs. Roy T. Cox, organist. Miss McLawhorn sang "Because" by D'Hardelot and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

The organ music consisted of "Pans Angelicus" by Frank Schumann's "Dreaming" and McDowell's "To A Wild Rose."

The church was decorated with tall baskets of white gladioli and fern and candelabra entwined with ivy.

Ushers were Edward Evans, brother of the bride, and Vance Taylor of Bethel.

The bridal couple entered the church together. The bride selected for her wedding a light blue linen dress fashioned along princess lines and trimmed with Irish linen lace and white accessories. She wore a white orchid.

The mother of the bride wore a navy silk shantung with navy and white accessories and a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Double-Ring Ceremony Unites Geneva Ann Flake, James Lewis

Miss Geneva Ann Flake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Flake of Bell Arthur, and James Edward Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Lewis of Bell Arthur, were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony at the Arthur Christian Church June 9 at 4 p.m. with the Rev. Billy Bennett officiating.

The altar was decorated with white gladioli flanked on either side by lighted white tapers. Ivy was woven among the seven-branched candelabras. Pews were marked with white satin bows.

Music was furnished by Miss Doris Crawley, pianist, and Mrs. Billy Bennett, soloist, who sang "The Lord's Prayer," "Whither Thou Goest" and "A Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, had her cousin, Miss Yvonne Rasberry, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Linda Nichols and Miss Shirley Lewis, sister of the bridegroom.

The honor attendant wore a gown of pink taffeta with a matching tiered net skirt. She wore a headpiece covered with tiny flowers, each centered with a pearl, and carried a nosegay of purple asters. The bridesmaids wore blue dresses identical to that of the honor attendant and carried nosegays of pink gladioli.

Virgil Jones served the groom as best man. Ushers were J. S. Flake, brother of the bride, and Joe Lewis, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride wore a waltz-length dress designed by her mother and fashioned by Mrs. Inez Vandford. The bodice was white satin covered with American lace. The skirt was satin covered with tulle. A lace coat with long pointed sleeves and a standing collar covered the bodice. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a headpiece which featured orange blossoms and she carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Flake chose a street length dress of pink lace over taffeta with matching accessories and a corsage of gladioli.

The bridegroom's mother wore a blue silk dress with matching accessories and a corsage of gladioli.

Before leaving on a wedding trip to unannounced points, Mrs. Lewis changed to a green sheath dress using black patent accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid lifted from her prayer book.

Reception

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the educational department of the church. A pink and white color theme was used.

Mrs. Billy Bennett greeted guests at the door and introduced them to the receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Flake, parents of the bride, Mrs. Charlie Lewis, mother of the bridegroom, and members of the wedding party.

The table, covered with a white lace table cloth, was centered with an arrangement of mixed flowers, flanked on either side by pink candles.

Colonades were used to separate the three tiers of the cake placed at one end of the table. The white cake, decorated in pink and green, was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Gracing the opposite end of the table was the glass punch bowl containing lime ice. Matching glass dishes held nuts, mints and other bridal dainties.

Punch was served by Gray Heath. After the bride and bridegroom cut the first slice of cake it was then served by Miss Clarice Mewborn.

Guests were registered by Miss Sue Flake and Elmer Flake, sister and brother of the bride.

Goodbyes were said by Mrs. K. M. Crawford.

Cake Cutting

Immediately following the rehearsal on Saturday night, Miss Yvonne Rasberry entertained the wedding party and close friends at her home. The traditional wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Earl Flake, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Charlie Lewis, mother of the bridegroom, poured punch. Guests served themselves salted nuts and mints from a cut lace table cloth.

Local VFW Auxiliary Receives Honors At Annual Encampment

Mrs. C. B. West Jr. was elected department chaplain of the Ladies Auxiliary of North Carolina at the annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Ladies Auxiliary held in Hendersonville June 8-9.

Mrs. William Osborne of Albemarle will serve the organization as president.

The local auxiliary was awarded an engraved silver plate for its accomplishments in the flag program under which schools, business establishments and public buildings obtained flags for display on special observances. A citation of merit was received for outstanding community services rendered during the past year. The community service scrapbook submitted in the state contest won a certificate of merit.

An award was received in the youth activities division for its contribution to the Greenville High School Bus Fund. Athletic Association, Teener baseball supper and Little League activities. The auxiliary was also one of the auxiliaries meeting "all requirements and above on the state rating sheet with a score of 129%." The membership program won the second place award and citations received for its achievements in meeting membership quotas for new, reinstated and continuous members.

Mrs. J. A. Joyner Jr., president of the local auxiliary, Mrs. Ely Forrest, president of the Second District, Mrs. C. B. West Jr. and Mrs. Lottie Lewis attended the encampment as delegates.

The program included a memorial service, luncheon for the auxiliary presidents in the state, beauty contest, coronation ball, visit to the VA Hospital in Oteen, parade, banquet, dance, council meeting and business sessions.

A tea was given in honor of Mrs. Belle Myers, national junior vice-president of Kansas City, Kan., who represented the national organization. Mr. Omar Keitchum, national legislative chairman of Washington, D. C., addressed the joint session of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Ladies Auxiliary.

June 14 will be observed in our nation as Flag Day. Mrs. Kenneth Brown, chairman of the flag program, sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, is asking all business establishments and public buildings to display their flags on this date. "May We all honor its presence with assurance that it represents our liberty," she stated.

The need for a definite national emblem was realized and on June 14, 1777, Congress passed an act prescribing the flag. June 14, therefore, is the real birthday of the Flag, and this date is now designated as Flag Day. The thirteen stripes represent the original colonies and the stars represent the 48 states.

Mrs. Brown emphasized that she wished to express her appreciation to those who displayed their flags on Memorial Day. "There was a decided increase in the number of

Big Stride, Thanks To Rep. Jones

North Carolina has taken a major stride for the protection of its people in becoming the third state among the 48 to pass compulsory automobile liability insurance.

It will afford the people of the state unprecedented protection for injuries or damages sustained in motor vehicle accidents. It will mean that every vehicle registered in this state will have behind it sufficient insurance or financial responsibility to pay hospital bills or other damages of its victims.

The new law removes the loopholes and inadequacies of the old financial responsibility act in North Carolina. It affords the people of the state the kind of protection they need and should have.

While no individual can decide the fate of a bill in North Carolina's General Assembly, Rep. Walter Jones of Farmville deserves more credit than any other individual in the legislature or in the state for this new forward step by North Carolina.

Rep. Jones introduced the bill for compulsory liability insurance against heavy odds of concentrated opposition. As the bill was skillfully steered through its legislative course there were many obstacles which for a while seemed sure to spell its doom. One by one these were overcome. Even in the final minutes before the bill became law there remained formidable opposition. The bill squeaked by with only a slim margin of votes.

The bill would have died long before it concluded the legislative maze had it been directed by a less skilled legislator than Rep. Jones. It could have been killed any one of a half dozen times had its author been a man of less determination than the legislator from Farmville.

No other single piece of legislation faced more obstacles during the 1957 General Assembly and survived to be written into law. Few pieces of legislation enacted during this session will mean more to the people of North Carolina.

More than any other one man, Rep. Walter Jones is responsible for the people of North Carolina having the advantages and protection which will be provided by this compulsory automobile insurance law.

Voice Vote Has A Doubtful Side

By LYNN NISBET
CONFUSION — The confusion maintaining most of the time in the legislative session, especially on the House side, during the past week has made it difficult for the presiding officer to evaluate voice votes. It is common practice for members not to vote at all on bills in which they have no special interest — unless on a roll call or standing count.

A few foghorn "Noes" can sound louder to the presiding officer than a much larger number of quiet "Ayes." Saturday morning Speaker Doughton ruled on a controversial voice that the "Noes seem to have it." Your reporter thought so, too. But when the standing vote was called for, the count was almost eight to one in favor of the bill. On another occasion there seemed to be only a scattering noes against a full chorus of ayes. Again a standing vote was called, and showed only the three or four vote margin for the ayes.

There is no record at all of voice votes except as to results and no official record of standing votes as to members' positions. Occasionally news photographers get pictures identifying who voted and how. The journals of the House and Senate are required to show who voted for and against bills on roll calls.

Accepted practice is that on non-controversial bills the "short roll call" will be used. That means every member who voted for the last preceding bill is recorded as voting for all the bills on the short roll call. This practice leads to confusion sometimes when subsequent controversy arises and seems likely to affect the political situation of a member. Sometimes they deny having voted for a bill, only to find that the journal has recorded them as doing so.

IRREVOCABLE — The journals of the House and Senate are the most adamant and irrevocable records known to the law. The courts have repeatedly held that you cannot go behind the journal, once it has been approved. Neither can a bill be amended after it has been ratified into law. Original journal entries and text of ratified acts must go into the permanent records.

If it should be discovered later that errors have been made, a de novo action must be started with a new bill, which cannot correct or delete or replace the original, but can rectify any damage done and set the record straight.

Several years ago a resolution of appreciation was adopted for entertainment of the General Assembly at Fort Bragg. A few days later another resolution was adopted identical in every detail except for one initial of the commanding general. Both resolutions are in the journals and in the printed laws.

Another favorite device for bypassing the irrevocable status of the journals is that of stopping the clock at the time the joint sine die resolution says the General Assembly adjourned. In this instance, it is that resolution says 12 noon, Wednesday, June 12, 1957, when the Legislature adjourned in contemplation of any future court action — although the legislators may still be sweating it out at daylight Thursday.

The difference between journal clock time and the actual time of sine die adjournment sometimes has interesting side line developments. Acts that become effective upon ratification will be permitted to be done this hour fixed in the adjournment resolution, although not even adopted or ratified until some time later.

IN ORDER — Despite the immutability of the legislative journals and the irrevocability of ratified acts, procedures will be in order before the 1957 General Assembly adjourns sine die. (That is true in face of the remote possibility of adjournment before this article gets in print.) There have been reports for years sometimes presiding officers signed blank sheets upon which later the laws presumed to have been ratified were typed.

Secretary of State Thad Eure in charge of the enrolling office, has declared that nothing will be permitted to be done this time to justify such rumors. Before any act is presented for ratification into law it will have been carefully typed and proof-read and approved by the chairmen of the enrolling committees.

It is known that to accomplish that purpose responsible representatives of the Revenue Department and the Budget Bureau double-checked the big revenue and appropriations bills for two or three days before they were presented for ratification to make sure that they were exactly as the Legislature voted for them.

Public Education In A Stronger Position

Public education in this state has been placed in a much stronger position by the 15 per cent raise in teacher salaries plus the additional 1.09 per cent "bonus" for teachers made contingent on the state's revenues during the coming biennium.

Many advocates of higher salary hikes for teachers will hasten to point out that North Carolina still lags behind other states in what it pays its classroom teachers. They are right. They will also point to the fact that the salary hike approved by the legislature will still leave sufficient margin for some other states to pirate North Carolina classrooms for teachers. They are right again.

Notwithstanding these factors, however, North Carolina has taken an important step in granting the pay increase for its teachers. It brings the state closer to the national average. It narrows the discrepancies in teacher pay offered by North Carolina and other more wealthy states. It reiterates the feeling of not only the legislature but of the people of the state that North Carolina is willing and anxious to do what is within its means to afford better education for its youngsters.

The salary increase will keep in the classrooms of North Carolina many teachers who otherwise would have entered other fields or would have gone to other states to teach.

In view of estimates of the state's revenue for the coming biennium, we feel the legislature has done well by the teachers of the state. It has provided a 15 per cent salary increase without any strings attached. That is lower than recommended by the State Board of Education, but it is considerably above the figure recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission in its initial report. At the same time the legislature has told teachers of the state, "you'll get the other 1.09 per cent increase ($2.5 million dollars) at the end of the year if funds are available."

We see no cause for criticism of that action. It is a fair and reasonable compromise of the difference between the positions of the House and the Senate.

The salary increase which has been adopted represents a major effort on the part of the legislature and on the part of the people of North Carolina as a whole in behalf of public schools and their teachers.

Money Trouble For Nearly All

By ELMER ROESSNER

The United States is not the only nation suffering from monetary dropsy. Two new studies show that with a few notable exceptions — deterioration of the currency is common throughout the world.

The exceptions, as identified in the forthcoming 1957 edition of Pick's Currency Yearbook, are the Iraqi dinar, the Lebanese pound, the Cuban peso, the Panamanian balboa, the Syrian pound and the Philippine peso.

Between January, 1948, and December, 1956, the yearbook will say, the purchasing power of each of those monetary units has increased. The Iraqi dinar has increased 17 per cent, the Lebanese pound 13 per cent, and the rest from 5 to 8 per cent.

During that period, the United States dollar shrank 15 per cent. Even the Swiss franc, anchored to gold, fell off 10 per cent. Declines in other important units were: Egyptian pound, 6 per cent; West German mark, 18 per cent; the Venezuelan bolivar (with all that American money for oil), 19 per cent; the Canadian dollar, 25 per cent; Spanish peseta, 34 per cent; British pound, 34 per cent; French franc, 52 per cent, and the Argentine peso, 73 per cent.

HWAN FADES AWAY
Four units shrank more than 90 per cent: the Chilean peso, 93 per cent; the Paraguayan guarani, 96 per cent, and the Bolivian boliviano and the Korran hwan, 99 per cent.

Data from behind the Iron Curtain is scant and unreliable. Franz Pick, editor of the yearbook, observes, "the officially claimed gain of more than 50 per cent in domestic ruble purchasing power since 1948 most probably has been more than wiped out by the recent repudiation of the domestic Soviet debt."

A United Nations study shows that the cost of living rose generally in the Free World from 1950 to 1956, and has been rising since then. The cost of living in the decline in buying power are the same thing. DETERIORATION IS RAPID since 1955, the cost of living in both the U. S. and Britain has risen 4 per cent, which means that the value of the dollar and the pound have each shrunk approximately that much.

In a little more than a year, the cost of living has gone up 41 per cent in Chile, 27 per cent in Brazil, 16 per cent in Argentina, 11 per cent in Spain, 10 per cent in India and lesser amounts in most other nations of the Free World.

In many cases, of course, wages and salaries have gone up in some sort of ratio to the cost of living. The net result has been that the inflation has been a heavy tax on savings, pensions, bond ownership, credits, insurance, annuities and other fixed incomes. In other words, it is a levy on the thrifty, the aged, widows and other politically ineffective groups.

Job-Seekers, Job-Holders

In this day and time jobs are not as easily obtainable as they were a few years ago. This is not speculation . . . it is unadulterated fact.

Evidence is seen every day by the writer right here in Greenville. All one has to do is walk down the street or check by some of the local business establishments . . . you can see the difference.

A person with a job could be considered down right "lucky" in a strict sense of the word.

However . . . just because a man or woman has a family to support does not mean that a job is automatically opened. There are many additional factors to be considered.

I wonder how often a prospective job seeker takes an inventory of his attributes or assets that could be convincing to a prospective job giver.

A short time ago I came across a list of questions that all of us would do well to read and consider.

- WOULD YOU HIRE YOURSELF?
- (1) — are you a willing worker?
 - (2) — do you ever stay a few minutes over time to finish a particular task?
 - (3) — are you punctual and dependable?
 - (4) — can you keep business secrets?
 - (5) — are your job skills and

(6) — do you offer help to others when they are swamped with work?

(7) — when you make a mistake, do you admit it, rectify it, and avoid making the same mistake again?

(8) — do you observe the rules of the institution faithfully?

(9) — can you leave your personal problems at home?

(10) — can you ignore rumors and refuse to gossip?

(11) — do you keep yourself well groomed and neat?

(12) — do you wear (if female) cocktail dresses and use perfume during office hours?

(13) — do you keep your work area neat and in order?

(14) — do you spend a great deal of time in personal telephone conversations?

(15) — do you insist on a "coffee break" even when the work is greatly behind schedule?

(16) — do you use supplies and equipment the same as you would if you were paying for these?

(17) — do you take pride in every bit of work you put out?

ANOTHER POINT TO CONSIDER

I wonder how many of us talk about that kind, generous man who pays our weekly salary or

CORVALLIS, ORE., GAZETTE-TIMES: "Newspaperdom can take pride in this year's Pulitzer prize awards to newspapers. Recognition of The Oregonian for its expose of the vice and corruption involving municipal officials and officers of the Teamsters Union and the Chicago Daily News for determined and courageous public service in exposing a $2,500,000 fraud in the office of the state auditor of Illinois is recognition of one of the prime services of good journalism."

Other Editors Saying-- Inventing Words

(The Atlanta Journal)
If people are encouraged to invent things such as new and better mousetraps why shouldn't they be applauded if, perchance, they invent a new word?

Thus, on the theory that one is as praise-worthy as the other, I would like to submit a new word which possibly could fill a longfelt need.

It is, if you please, "smoose." As a verb it means to "mosey about aimlessly without objective or purpose." As a noun, a "smoose" would, naturally, be a motor car, large or small, by motor tour or on foot merely for the purpose of smoozing around.

As for derivation, it is somewhat difficult to explain just how the word was come upon. At a glance, of course, it can be seen that the first four letters of "smooth." The last five letters, if you are paying attention, spells "mouse," a large member of the deer family to be found in certain parts of Canada and the northern United States. Being unacquainted with the habits, personal or otherwise, of a moose, I must admit that his appearance as a part of my word is largely, if not entirely, coincidental.

To my ear the word "smoose" has a soft and liquid sound and one not altogether unpleasant. Thus, from the standpoint of euphony, it seems to stand up.

If accepted as a part of our language "smoose" would pose no problem for participants in spelling bees because it is spelled exactly as it sounds. In writing, by hand, it gives the penman an excellent opportunity to show his proficiency in making an "s" which, oddly enough, is one of the most difficult letters in our alphabet to write legibly.

Reverting to usage of the word; a "smoosier" is one who takes a "smoose" and, in the verb form, would be spelled "smoosely."

The Battle Over Public Opinion

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Capitol Hill is now engaged as rarely before in a battle with the White House for control of public opinion on problems normally reserved for Presidential action and guidance.

Federal finances and foreign affairs. It marks a radical change in the relationship between the two arms of the government.

Congress, and especially the Senate, has discovered that it possesses a weapon grown rusty through long disuse in recent years. The great nationally known and respected figures in the legislative body find that they enjoy as much influence on public sentiment as the occupant of the White House.

There have been many battles for public favor between the Congress and the White House in the past. But these have been conflicts over minor policies and personalities in most instances; they were only superficial trials of strength. They involved too-toe debate and defiance. They were skirmishes.

AN IMPORTANT TEST Today's controversy is entirely different. It is more serious, more subtle, more persistent. The outcome may have a lasting effect on the power of the President to control Congress through his prestige or his overhead appeals to the people.

Today's test is more important than previous jousts for other reasons. The legislators are defying President Eisenhower over the questions on which he is supposed to be an expert—appropriations for national defense and foreign aid.

Ike has accepted the challenge by taking to television, by frequent public statements and by private exhortation with Congressional recalcitrants. As of today, however, it appears that he is fighting against popular and political odds.

VETERAN, EXPERT LEGISLATORS Ike is learning that when a veteran like Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia declares for a huge budget cut, many people rely on the Senator's statements and figures. When other experts oppose the President on areas where they are recognized as authorities, they command respect and support.

The most striking demonstration at the moment is the growing demand for improved relations with Communist China—greater freedom for trade, if not actual diplomatic recognition and admission to the United Nations.

There is, of course, a deep prejudice against such a reversal of policy inside and outside the Administration. Led by Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, however, a relatively large faction of Democrats and Republicans has begun to exert pressure on public and official opinion.

STREAMLINED COUNTER PROPAGANDA They have devised and streamlined their own counter-propaganda system. They resort to radio and television on one or more of the weekly panels. They write regular letters to influential constituents, which is a fairly new development. They hold daily conferences with national correspondents or with friendly representatives from their home city and state newspapers. These regional press sessions are growing in importance and value.

Nor is this strategy unplanned and unco-ordinated. The Congressmen interested in forcing a change in Administration policy meet regularly to arrange their attack. Each is given a subject to propagandize on or off the floor, and a time for carrying out his assignment. There is no time waste or conflict or confusion.

Senator Johnson handles the work on the Democratic side, while Senator Styles Bridges, New Hampshire Republican, operates among GOP-ers. They do not always agree, but in general they line up against the White House.

PUBLIC REACTION TELLING ON ADMINISTRATION They insist that they see signs of Administration weakening as a result of public reaction to their activities. Ike has made several concessions on his budget for military and diplomatic items. There have been official suggestions of a reconsideration of our China policy. In line with Congress—aroused sentiment, there has been a stiffening of our attitude toward Moscow.

In short, the era during which aggressive Presidential figures like F.D.R. and Truman dominated Capitol Hill and the public appears to have ended. Congress is asserting itself as never before in recent years in a natural reaction and swing of the political pendulum.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

COUNT YOUR BLESSINGS
"As for clothes, the only dress I've got in the world is such an old rag that I'm ashamed to be seen with my friends." A familiar modern complaint, a good many husbands would say. Familiar, yes, but as ancient as it is modern. The words were written by a Greek author about 2100 years ago.

Feeling sorry for ourselves is as old a habit as it is new. And it was not any better for people 2100 years ago than it is today. It is a dangerous habit, too. It eats away our self-respect, and fruitlessly consumes energy that might otherwise go to alleviating whatever made us feel sorry for ourselves.

Instead of feeling sorry, why not feel glad? What are our blessings? We live in a free democracy, governed by men of our own choice. We can worship in whatever church we please. So much food is raised in our country that we have trouble disposing of it. The world's best medical care is available. Most of us will probably live at least a few years longer, and we can count on spending them in a land where opportunities for health, happiness, freedom, and even wealth are open to all.

Why be sorry? Let's be glad of the many things we have, and start out in a cheerful mood to put right whatever is bothering us.

Bouquets, No Funeral Wreath As Legislators Close Up Shop

By JEAN REILLY
The Reflector Bureau

RALEIGH — A nostalgic air of farewell prevailed the floor of the General Assembly during its final hours as Rep. George Uzzell of Rowan paid tribute to the man who upset his plans to be speaker of the House, Kemp Doughton of Alleghany.

In turn Rep. John Kerr of Warren spoke of Uzzell's cooperation with Speaker Doughton and cited the State of North Carolina as the beneficiary of his (Uzzell's) intelligence, character and wisdom.

"Not only has the whole state benefited," Kerr said, "but the House also has gained by his leadership and character."

"I have heard him say on several occasions that this is his last tour of duty at the General Assembly," Kerr said. "I hope that this is not true for we are attempting to pay our love and respects to him."

Uzzell said he had been favorably impressed with the new members he had met during the 1957 session.

"In all 12 sessions I have served," Uzzell said, "I have never known a man to preside who was any fairer, a finer gentleman and a better legislator than you, Mr. Speaker," he said addressing Doughton.

Speaker Doughton expressed his appreciation and gratitude in a deeply emotional tone.

"If we don't meet in 1959, then perhaps we will meet again later on where there are no calls for the previous question or the ayes and noes," said.

In a lighter tone, Uzzell selected what he termed the House superlatives.

To Rep. Water Jones of Pitt, he nominated the title of the Most Effective Lobbyist.

"I wouldn't have given a penny with a hole in it at any stage of the game for the passage of your automobile liability bill," he said. "But it was your diligence and work that got it passed." The title of "Widest Awake" was bestowed on Rep. Jeter Burleson of Mitchell, "who is napping right now."

Uzzell said he thought Rep. Vernon Martin of Clay should be dubbed the "Most Loquacious" because "he hasn't had anything to say on the floor during the whole session."

The man with the "Greatest Imagination," Uzzell said is the gentleman from Forsyth, Rep. Clarence Stone, and Rep. Roger Kiser of Scotland should certainly be awarded the title of the "Quietest."

Turncoat Plans To Leave China

HONG KONG (AP)—The U. S. consulate general today said American turncoat Andrew Fortuna of Ionia, Mich., is leaving Red China Saturday.

Fortuna was one of 21 U. S. soldiers captured in the Korean War who refused repatriation after the fighting stopped in 1953. Seven of the 21 previously returned to the United States and one died in Red China.

The most recent returnee was Samuel David Hawkins of Oklahoma City, who crossed into Hong Kong last Feb. 27.

The Defense Department ordered dishonorable discharges for all the turncoats Jan. 25, 1954. The Supreme Court subsequently ruled that because of this they could not be prosecuted for their actions while in the armed forces.

Fortuna told an interviewer in 1955 he had been brought up in a poverty-stricken area of Detroit.

"We often did not have enough food in the house," he said, "and I saw breadlines in the streets. In the prison camp where I had time to think I wondered and puzzled what had caused all that."

"Marxist philosophy solved my basic problems."

Fortuna probably will be on his way back to the United States a few days after his arrival here.

Wooten Disappointed By Teacher Pay Boost Level

RALEIGH—Rep. Frank M. Wooten Jr. of Pitt expressed disappointment that the 1957 General Assembly did not fix teacher salaries at a higher level and termed the compulsory automobile liability insurance bill as one having "the most far-reaching effects" of any measure passed by the legislature.

"The automobile liability insurance bill will affect every man or woman who drives a car," Wooten said.

"Another disappointment," he said, "was when a bill authorizing an appropriation to East Carolina College for the establishment of a school of nursing failed to pass."

Wooten cited the need as great and expressed the necessity of solving the problem of the shortage of nurses in hospital-shy areas of the state.

"One of the most important bills," he said, "was a measure providing for the appointment of a nine-member study commission on the problems of towns and municipalities.

"The commission will study their growth and revenue problems and their means of offering general municipal services and paying for them," he added.

Wooten said this one bill could help solve the most critical problems in municipal government and would particularly aid the state industrial expansion.

"Loyalty."

"If — you work for a man in heaven's name work for him; speak well of him and stand by the institution he represents."

"REMEMBER — an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness."

"If — you must growl, condemn, and eternally find fault, why, resign your position and when you are on the outside, damn to your heart's content, but as long as you are a part of the institution do not condemn it, if you do, the first high wind that comes along will blow you away and probably you will never know why."

Hungary Wants, And Can't Get, 5,000 Tourists

By CARL HARTMAN

BUDAPEST (AP)—Hungary would like to get as many as 5,000 American tourists this year—and the capitalist dollars that come with them.

The main obstacle is that U. S. passports are stamped "not valid for travel in Hungary." U. S. diplomats say that in the present state of U. S.-Hungarian relations they don't know if they can protect American citizens.

Bela Basso, young chief of Hungary's official Hubsz tourist agency, wants to do something about the situation.

"I can get Hungarian entry visas in two weeks for anyone who wants to come from either Canada or the United States," he says. "We have accommodations for 3,500 in sight, but we can push it up to 5,000 if necessary. A poor country, badly hit by last fall's revolt, Hungary needs foreign currency."

Hungary has plenty to see, including how a Communist government works. Budapest, the Danube, Lake Balaton, Gypsy music and peasant costumes.

The Communist authorities are eager to show the world that although some parts of the capital were heavily damaged in the fighting, the country as a whole is far from being in ruins.

"The danger that they might end up on the wrong side of the bars is one reason for the State Department's reluctance to see Americans travel in Hungary."

The possibility is slight, but it exists, under Hungarian law many Americans of Hungarian parentage are considered Hungarian citizens. Some 350 of these "dual nationals" now in Hungary are unable to leave. Several have had to serve in the Hungarian army, and at least one has been in jail.

On the other hand the Hungarians seem ready to go to considerable trouble to get American visitors to come here. It seems unlikely that if Americans did come, Hungary would risk a source of revenue by mistreating them.

Language Causes Some Headaches

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The language barrier is causing some headaches here for Navy shore patrol officers trying to keep tabs on the activities of sailors from ships of 18 nations participating in today's international naval review.

C.W.O. A. R. Lucas said many of the foreign sailors can't readily spot the importance difference between doors labeled "men" and those labeled "women."

Monster Missile Streaks Two Miles Up, Explodes; No One Said Injured

MISSILE TEST CENTER, Cape Canaveral, Fla. (AP)—A monster missile streaked two miles straight up yesterday, then exploded. Thousands of spectators were confident they had seen the Atlas take its first step toward intercontinental — and perhaps interplanetary — flight.

The test apparently miscarried. The Air Force in its terse announcement said the missile itself blew up shortly after it was launched.

An Air Force spokesman declined to say just where the huge rocket met mishap.

The Air Force and the Defense Department wouldn't say it was the Atlas. They wouldn't call it anything but "a missile," or say directly how it measured up to expectations.

However, the cigar-shaped sky-rocket was identified as the Atlas by informants whose past statements have proved 100 per cent accurate.

The Atlas was brought here a few days ago by special truck convoy from San Diego, Calif., site of its manufacture. On hand for the firing were representatives of Convair Corp. and General Electric, which built the intercontinental ballistic missile. Observers who have seen previous versions of rocket blasts said this was not like any they'd seen.

The missile rose and burst in a fireball at 2:38 p.m. Ninety disintegrated in an orange flash and a plume of black smoke.

Spectators, the nearest of them six miles from the launching site, said they saw the fireball and fragments of the rocket plunge into the Atlantic. Boats had been cleared before the firing.

There were unconfirmed reports that some fragments fell onto the minutes later an Air Force spokesman said: "A missile was fired at the Air Force missile test center's Cape Canaveral launching site today. Shortly after the launching the missile exploded. There were no casualties."

Previous firings had been announced only days afterward.

The spokesman added that "valuable information was gained as a result of the test. Extensive flight testing of rocket missiles... has been going on for some time. These tests will be continued."

As an intercontinental ballistic missile, the Atlas at peak development would have a range of 5,000 miles and a speed that would take it to Moscow in 20 minutes.

Yesterday's missile attained an estimated height of only 10,000 feet—about two miles—before it launching site itself. The site had been cleared of personnel before the mighty rocket was touched off.

Gene Plowden, Associated Press reporter who was among the on-lookers, said the first sign of the missile's takeoff was a "white smoke, billowing from the base of a launching pad, then a burst of flame that told that the missile was on its way."

"Up, up, it went like a stubby pencil. A second burst of flame flashed and black smoke hung two or three miles in the clear blue sky. A great ball of fire shot out of the smoke, moved upward a few hundred feet, then curved and spiraled off to the north-northeast, and fell into the Atlantic."

"The whole show lasted no more than a minute."

Up In The Air Over Snake Hunt

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The attorney general's office is up in the air today over the question of whether snakes can be hunted in Oklahoma without a license. The problem arose when a Baptist pastor from Glenpool, Walter Hambree, was charged by a state game ranger with hunting water moccasins. Hambree says he won't pay the fine without a trial.

Food Poisoning Struck 120 Men

HAYDEN, Ariz. (AP)—At least 120 men working on a new smelter in this central Arizona town were hospitalized today with food poisoning. The men were sent to hospitals in half a dozen surrounding towns. None were reported critically ill. Doctors traced the illness to box lunches given workers at a construction camp run by the contractor.

They Take Their Base Running Seriously

MINOR LEAGUERS—Ben James (left) and Howard Aycock were snapped by the cameraman as they perched on base in a recent game, clutching their heads in excitement. Minor Leaguers, youngsters from five to nine years old, are supervised by the Recreation Department in an organized League at Elm Street Park every afternoon. (Reflector Sports Photo).

He Called It Luck

Stan Ties National Mark

By RALPH BERNSTEIN PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The ever modest Stan Musial called it "luck" last night when he tied the National League mark for consecutive games played, but a look at the record stamps him as second only to the late Lou Gehrig as the most durable player in the history of the game.

Gehrig played in 2,130 consecutive games for the New York Yankees. Musial has been in the lineup of the St. Louis Cardinals in 2,192 of the club's 2,229 games since he joined the team some 14 years ago.

"You have to be lucky to do something like this," said Musial last night after he played in his 822nd consecutive game to tie the record set by former Pittsburgh first baseman Gus Suhr from Sept. 11, 1931, to June 4, 1937.

"I've been fortunate not to have any serious injuries that would sideline me. I go out there and play every game and the fact they have all come in succession as they have is secondary to me."

The last time Musial missed a game because he was unfit to play was in early May 1951, when the team was stricken with a flu epidemic. He was out for one game. Prior to that the only serious injury suffered by the great outfielder-first baseman came in 1944. He collided with Deb Garmes in the outfield and hurt his left knee. He reinjured the knee in 1950 diving for a ball and it has troubled him from time to time.

Statistically, Musial is now tied for fifth among the 13 players who participated in 500 or more consecutive games. Tonight he should break the deadlock with Suhr and move into fourth behind Washington's Eddie Yost, who played in 829 straight games. The top three are Gehrig, Everett Scott (1,307) and Joe Sewell (1,103).

Harris Moves Through Own Blood To Triumph

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Roy Harris, the backwoods belter, moved through his own blood to an upset decision over high ranking Willie Pastrano last night and planted himself right on the doorsteps of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

Accomplishing in two years what many fighters have tried vainly for a lifetime, Harris, the school teacher from Little Cut-And-Shoot, Tex., whipped Pastrano, the fast-moving No. 3 rated man from New Orleans, before a Texas record crowd of 10,000 that paid $46,962.50. It was Harris' twenty-first victory in 21 fights as a professional.

About the only person who disented in the screaming crowd was Angelo Dundee, manager of Pastrano, who yelled: "We won the fight, they gave it to him. Willie carried the fight."

Dundee said Harris would fight nobody else but his boy. "We got a contract to fight him again in 60 days in Miami Beach," snapped Dundee. "We want to chop him up and send him back home. This boy fights nobody but us."

The referee and the judges saw it all Harris and so did the crowd. Referee Jimmy Webb said it was 97-96 for Harris, Judge Bill Cornelius made it 98-95 and Judge Ernie Taylor voted 98-95 also.

Pastrano called Harris "effectively awkward" as a puncher but said "He's got a style all his own—like nobody I've ever fought. I couldn't seem to get to him. He'll be a good boy."

It was the first defeat for Pastrano since 1953 and his first as a heavyweight.

Harris successfully evaded Pastrano's famed lightning left and was holding a slight lead in the sixth when he ran into trouble. One of Pastrano's hooks opened an old cut over his left eye and a but in one of their frequent clashes brought a gash above Harris' hairline. Both wounds bled freely in the seventh but Roy's seconds patched him up effectively after that. The remainder of the fight belonged to Harris as Pastrano tired.

The 190-pound 6-foot footer from what is known as "The Big Thicket" in East Texas' Piney Woods, was ranked ninth by Ring Magazine and tenth by the National Boxing Assn. prior to last night's fight when he went against Pastrano as a 1-2 underdog.

Harris first gained national attention when he beat Bob Baker, then a ranking heavyweight although floored for the first time in his spotless career. Last night there were no knockdowns, nor anything approaching one, but it was a good fight.

Pastrano, the 21-year-old swifly who weighed in at 187 pounds, said he would still go through with the projected fight with Ingemar Johansson, the eighth ranking heavyweight, at Stockholm, Sweden, in August, but that Harris would come first. Pastrano has a record of 41-5-5.

Cincinnati Loses Two To Pirates; Lead By 1/2 Game

US Golf Open To Start Tomorrow

By HUGH FULLERTON JR. TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The 57th U.S. Open golf championships begin tomorrow over a tightened, rain-softened Inverness course that is substantially the same as the one where two historic Opens were decided in the past. And one certain thing about this tournament is that the professionals in the field of 162 will be playing for more money than they ever dreamed of when England's big pipe-smoking Ted Ray won the 1920 championship or when Billy Burke, using one of the first sets of modern steel-shafted clubs, beat George Von Elm in a 72-hole playoff for the 1931 title.

The USGA, which annually draws criticism from the touring professionals for "tricking up" courses for the Open, eased the pain a bit by announcing a 20 percent increase in all prize money, raising the total to $30,000. The winner on Saturday will receive $7,200—more than the entire purse in either of the previous Inverness Opens. Inverness can't be lengthened beyond its 6,919 yards. It has a par of 34-36-70 and the pros have been talking scores of around 284 or 285 being good enough to win.

They also have been talking about a wide open contest among the older pros who have dominated the open for several years and the younger ones just coming along. One group will pick Cary Middeoff, the defending champion; Ben Hogan, trying for his fifth title; Sam Snead, whose worn-out driver still is dangerous; Doug Ford, Ed Furgol, Jimmy Demaret. Others will pull out names like Dow Finsterwald, Billy Casper and Arnold Palmer.

Score Should Be Able To Resume Play By July 15

CLEVELAND (AP)—Pitcher Herb Score "should be able to resume his baseball workouts July 15," according to the specialist who has been treating the star south-paw's injured right eye.

That means it probably will be August before he will be in condition to return to the baseball wars from which he was shelved May 7 by a line drive off the bat of New York Yankee Gil McDougald.

Dr. Charles I. Thomas examined Score's injured eye yesterday afternoon for the first time in two weeks. Score had been visiting at the home of his uncle in Hagerstown, Md., and returned Monday night.

The doctor found in his testing that "Herb's condition is greatly improved, and his eye has responded well to the medication prescribed for him."

The medication, a liquid applied to the eye with a dropper and some tablets taken internally, will continue in gradually reduced amounts for another four weeks, said Dr. Thomas, "during which period he should gradually regain his strength through limited activity."

Casey Moaning About Yankee Pitching Woes

By JOE MOOSHIL. CHICAGO (AP)—New York Yankee Manager Casey Stengel, bemoaning the fate of his pitchers, claims he still has faith they'll come around to "World Series form," and then there's "Bobby Shantz too."

Stengel laid New York's recent troubles to the unexpected falling of a "strong pitching staff." But he was all aglow after his Yankees had whipped the White Sox 3-2 last night.

"They've got a pretty good ball club," said Stengel, "but we're pretty good ourselves."

Stengel blamed pitching for the Yankees' second-place position. "My pitching was so good in the World Series last fall," he said, "that I didn't know who to use. Now they've been so bad I still don't know who to use."

"But I've got confidence they'll return to World Series form, and if they don't then I'll be wrong. I can't understand it. With all the pitching I had last fall and then there's Bobby Shantz too, I should be running away with this race."

"But I can't put my good outfielders in those upper tiers and there's where the other guys have been hitting them. And you can't beat them when they're hitting them in those tiers."

New York's triumph over the Sox produced a pair of rhubarbs, both of which went against the Yankees.

In the third inning with New York ahead 2-1, Minnie Minoso of Chicago went from first to third on a wild pitch. Yankee third baseman Andy Carey argued with Umpire John Stevens that Minoso was out.

While arguing, Stevens called for the ball, constituting an automatic time out, but Minoso ran home and Carey fired to Shantz, who covered the plate and Minoso was tagged out.

The Sox took the field but Chicago Manager Al Lopez argued time was automatically out and that Minnie should return to third. Lopez' argument was upheld and the Yankees were called back to the field. Casey stormed and argued and announced he was playing the game under protest.

Sherm Lollar struck out, ending the inning with no further damage.

In the fourth inning, with the bases loaded with Yankees, Shantz bunted and when Sox pitcher Jim Wilson tossed to first for a putout, the ball struck Shantz.

But the Yankees finally won and Shantz, although he needed help from Bob Grim in the eighth, scored his seventh victory in eight decisions.

By ED WILKS. The Associated Press. Manager Birdie Tebbetts of Cincinnati's Redlegs has been saying of late:

"This is going to be some race. Any of maybe five teams could take it. And just about anybody can beat you."

And now the Pittsburgh Pirates, more of a "nobody" than most, have whipped the Redlegs two in a row—after losing 15 in a row to Cincinnati—and have trimmed Cincinnati's lead to a half game.

The five-hit pitching of Bob Purkey helped bring an 8-1 victory for the seventh place Pirates last night and left Cincinnati four percentage points ahead of Milwaukee. The Braves jumped into second place with a 7-2 job on the Brooklyn Dodgers, who slipped to fourth, 1½ games behind, with their fourth defeat in a row.

Fifth place St. Louis, only two games behind, won its seventh in a row with a 5-2 decision over the third place Philadelphia Phillies, who remained a game behind Cincinnati.

The American League race tightened a bit, with the second place New York Yankees closing within four games of Chicago by handing the White Sox their third consecutive defeat 3-2 in the opener of a three-game series. Cleveland regained third place, 6½ behind, with four home runs that beat Boston 7-6. Detroit skidded to fourth place with a 4-1 defeat by Baltimore. Rain postponed Washington at Kansas City.

Lefthander Don Gross, who had built an 8-0 streak going back to 1955 with the Redlegs, dropped, his third in a row as the Pirates took off on a 13-hit spree. The Redlegs pulled the NLs first triple play of the year, but did little else. Their run was unearned. Purkey, 5-4, walked none.

Bobby Thomson walloped his eighth career grand-slammer as the Braves broke a 1-all tie with a five-run fifth for Ray Crone's third victory. Joe Adcock also homered for the Braves, who tagged 11 hits while handing Roger Craig a third defeat. Gino Cimoli and Roy Campanella homered for the Dodgers. It was No. 237 of Campy's career, a National League record for catchers, upheld by Veteran Murry Dickson singled home the clincher in a three-run sixth that bagged it for the Cards, and gained his third consecutive victory and complete game with a seven-hitter. Curt Simmons lost it. Al Dark banged a double and three singles, and Hal Smith homered and tripled for the Redbirds, who hadn't won seven in a row since 1952.

Stan Musial was 1-for-5 in the St. Louis attack while tying Gus Suhr's National League record of playing in 822 consecutive games for the Pirates from 1931 to 1937. Musial last missed on the final day of 1951.

Mickey Mantle smacked his 16th home run in a two-run first inning and then doubled and scored the winning run on Bill Skowron's fifth-inning single against Jim Wilson before 49,411, the largest crowd in the majors so far, at Chicago. Bobby Shantz won his fifth in a row for a 7-1 record with Bob Grim's two-inning relief help.

Jim Hegan and Chico Carrasquel smacked home runs in a three-run eighth that won for the Indians, who got all but one run on homers. Rookie Roger Maris, belting his third in three consecutive at bats over two games, and Bobby Avila tagged the others. Ted Williams hit his 14th, with two on, in the first for Boston.

Jim Byburn's two-run homer, his first of the season, triggered a three-run seventh that won for the Orioles against Billy Hoelt. Connie Johnson won his fifth after giving up a first-inning homer to Charlie Maxwell.

Greensboro, W-S Notched Carolina Loop Victories

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Winston-Salem and Greensboro turned late inning rallies into victories in the Carolina League last night.

Greensboro's Patriots, trailing by 6-4, rallied for three runs in the bottom of the eighth to edge the league leading Durham Bulls 7-6 at Greensboro and sweep a two-game series.

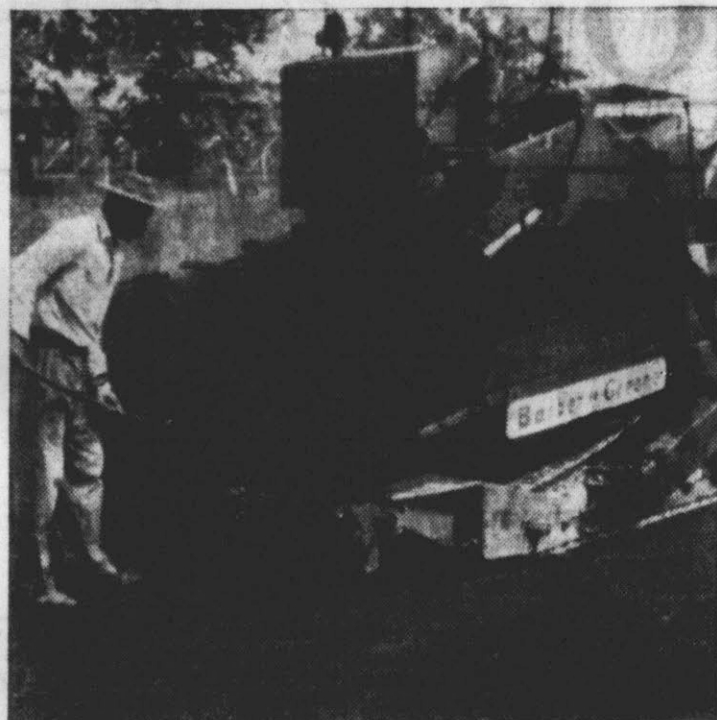

Relief pitcher Bill Graham was the victim of the rally. He walked the bases full with none out before being removed. Ted Richardson came on and with two away walked Shep Frazier to force in a one run. Then Augie Amorena singled to drive in two runs.

A ninth inning home run by Gene Oliver with two aboard gave Winston-Salem a 9-8 win over Danville at Winston-Salem. It was Oliver's second homer of the ninth and his 15th of the season. Danville had gone ahead 8-6 in the top of the ninth on a walk and two doubles.

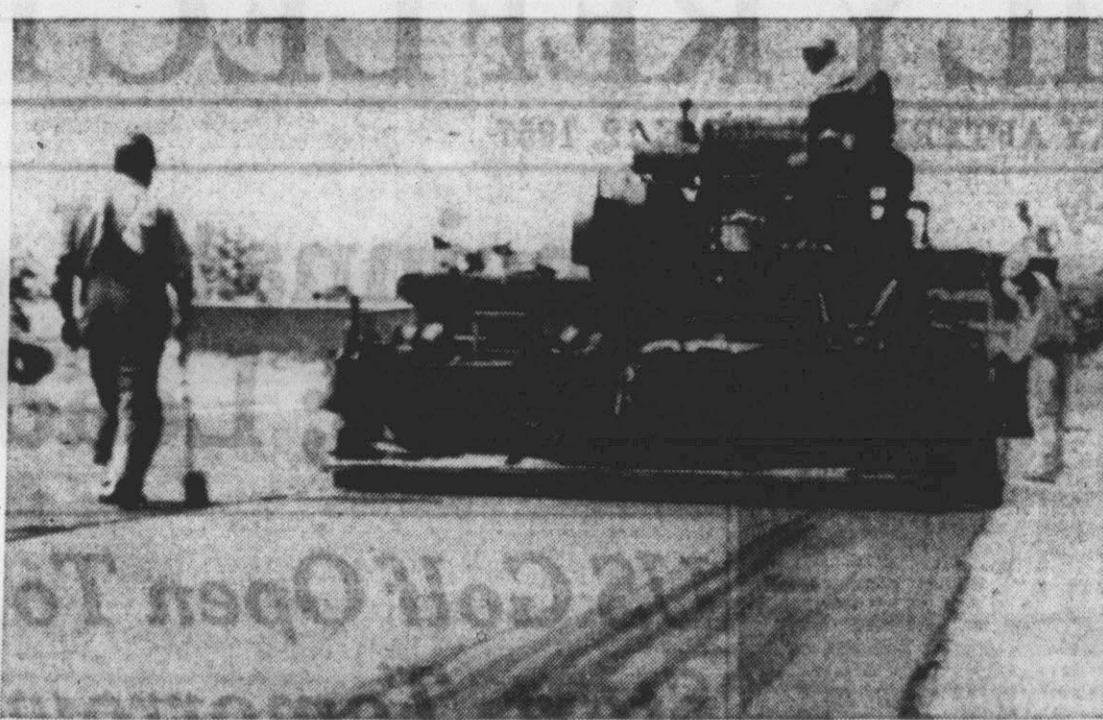

High Point Thomasville broke loose with seven runs in the seventh to wallop Wilson 12-4 at Wilson. Five of the Hi-Toms' 10 hits were sandwiched in the seventh with three errors and two walks.

Tonight's schedule: Greensboro at Winston-Salem, Wilson at Danville and Durham at Hi-Toms.

PAVING BEGINS . . . asphalt on Memorial Drive

ANOTHER LOAD . . . Truck dumps asphalt

Bypass Is Getting A Coat Of Asphalt

U. S. 13 bypass which skirts the western edge of the city is getting its first coat of asphalt.

Pavers yesterday began working from West End Circle on the east lanes of four-lane Memorial Drive. When completed the new highway will take much of the N. C. 11-U.S. 13 highway traffic off narrow Greene St. and carry it around the city.

The new road required the construction of a new Tar River Bridge and two over flow bridges. Also needed was a big reconstruction job at West End Circle. Traffic patterns were changed completely at that intersection to allow the four-lane highway to cross U. S. 264-A.

From West End Circle each of the dual lanes will be curbed and guttered to N. C. 43. From that intersection to the bridge the divided highway continues to the bridge site where the dual lanes merge into a two-lane highway.

The new bypass joins the Bethel Highway just beyond the Atlantic railroad crossing north of the city. The asphalt is being laid on crushed gravel. A portion of the curb and gutter for the west lanes of Memorial Drive has not yet been constructed. The new lanes will cross the old secondary road at places and the east lanes must be opened for traffic before work can be completed on the west lanes.

U. S. 13 was routed through Greenville only recently.

Controversy Will Die In Committee

RALEIGH (AP) — A controversial bill dealing with exemption of stored agricultural products from property taxes in several counties apparently will die in legislative committee.

This was indicated yesterday by Rep. Addison Hewlett of New Hanover, chairman of House Judiciary 2 committee. Hewlett said he felt it was too late in the session — with adjournment scheduled today — to consider such a "controversial" bill.

The Senate amended the bill Monday night and passed it. The measure would have repealed all local and state laws dealing with the exemption of stored agricultural products from ad valorem property taxes. The Senate amended deferred the effective date of the bill's provisions until April 1, 1959.

Many legislators have contended the local tax exemption acts are unconstitutional. The question likely will be studied during the next two years by the state Tax Study Commission.

Bankers Approve Savings Bonds

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's safest investment risk—U. S. Savings Bonds—still have the blessing of nearly two thirds of the country's bankers as a good way to save.

Half of them say they feel a patriotic or moral duty to go on pushing their sales for the U. S. Treasury. A third think the new higher interest rates will boost sales, which had been lagging.

These are the findings in replies of 500 bankers queried by the American Banker, daily newspaper of banking and credit. The question, however, brought some sharply worded dissents.

Many investors have been turning to other investment forms that pay higher returns—with the risks involved running all the way from small to frankly speculative.

Bankers have been selling and redeeming these bonds for the U. S. Treasury without charge.

In a sense, savings bonds are in competition with the banks who handle them, since they would like to increase the total in the savings accounts they offer. These accounts, in many commercial banks, now bring 3 per cent. In many savings banks they now bring 3 1/4 per cent. Savings and Loan association often pay higher rates than that. So do many corporate bonds and most home mortgages, while some common stocks return still more.

Higher interest rates elsewhere caused redemptions of U. S. Savings Bonds to top sales by 1 1/2 billion dollars in the period between the start of the fiscal year July 1 and the time this spring when Congress gave the Treasury power to lift the interest rates to 3 1/4 from 3 per cent.

The debate in financial circles over whether banks should go on advising customers to buy savings bonds led the paper to query the bankers.

More than 62 per cent replying say they can conscientiously recommend the bonds as a gainful investment. Some 23 per cent say they can't, and the rest gave equivocal answers.

Bankers' patriotic or moral duty to push sales is as strong today as it was in wartime, in the opinion of about half of them. Some 28 per cent think the duty has ended and the rest take no stand.

But asked whether their banks were active in pushing sales or merely passive in affording the chance to buy bonds, the bankers divided about evenly.

The higher interest rate on E and H bonds will lead to a revival in buying, a third of the bankers think. An equal number think it may have a trifling effect, and the remaining third doubt if it is high enough to do any good.

Actress Speaks In Behalf Of TV Soap Operas

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Let's turn over the witness stand today to Muriel Williams, a comely and talented actress who has a few words to say in behalf of television soap operas.

As Lydia Canfield of "Brighter Day" (CBS-TV, Monday through Friday, 4 p.m., EDT), she has had nearly two years of experience in the daytime serial field.

"As Lydia Canfield," she says, "I have a husband and have been involved in far more emotional adventures than practically any 'married' woman you can name. But each adventure in itself has not been over-dramatized or overly turgid.

"I think the reason some people criticize so-called soap opera is because they look at it once and fail to enter deeply into the story since they haven't been following it. It's like opening a book in the middle, glancing at one page, and saying, 'This stinks.' Or else someone will sit down and look at three or four serials in a row. That's like eating too much dessert all at once."

On one score Miss Williams had no argument from her inquisitor; the acting in daytime television serials has a high level of excellence.

"Portraying a character over a period of time gives an actor more chance to develop depth than in a one-shot," she says. "It also gives viewers an opportunity to evolve genuine personal reactions to the characters. There's an aura of stability, reality and continuity to the surroundings of a daytime serial."

Occasionally an actor or actress is written out of the script of a soap opera for a while. Thus Miss Williams will shortly fade from the story line of "Brighter Day" for a couple of weeks in order to play in "Anniversary Waltz" at the Sacandaga Park Theater near Groversville, N. Y.

Born in Dover, N.H., Miss Williams was married to the late Francis Hart when he was manager of the Cape Playhouse in Dennis, Mass. Since her husband's death, she has remained vice president of the Boston model agency which he founded.

Legislative Action Is Completed On Several Bills During Closing Hours

RALEIGH (AP) — Legislative action was completed on several bills yesterday as the House and Senate cleared the decks for sine die adjournment today.

A bill backed by North Carolina banks to change state law on the deposit of the state's surplus funds was enacted into law when the House agreed to Senate amendments.

Under the new law, the governor and council of state will be permitted to keep the state's surplus funds on deposit in North Carolina banks unless the interest rate on federal securities exceeds the bank interest rate by more than one-half of 1 per cent.

The old law required that the surplus funds be invested where they would earn the highest interest, whether in federal securities or state banks.

Shortly before the House enacted the bill, Gov. Hodges told his news conference that if the bill became law, "we will do the best we can with it." Hodges reiterated that he didn't think "the legislation is necessary."

A newsman wanted to know if the governor thought the bill would result in a loss of revenue to the state through lower interest rates. Hodges replied by saying the present difference between the federal rate and the bank interest rate is only one-fourth of 1 per cent and "that wouldn't mean a serious loss."

Under an amendment adopted by the Senate and agreed to by the House, banks applying for state deposits will be required to certify that they will use the funds for loans and will not reinvest them in federal securities.

Other legislative highlights included:

The Senate enacted resolutions calling for the creation of five state commissions to study problems during the next two years. These include: (1) reorganization of state government; (2) public school finance and related problems; (3) operation and licensing of nursing homes, convalescent homes, boarding homes and homes for the aged; (4) the question of adopting a uniform map law for the state; and (5) problems of municipal government.

The Senate enacted a bill to provide stricter regulation of small loan companies. The new law will give the state banking commissioner authority to subpoena witnesses and to issue orders restraining persons from illegal loan practices.

Also enacted by the Senate were bills to (1) allot $500,000 for area vocational schools in the state; (2) to increase the salaries of superior court solicitors 11 per cent and add $500 a year for their travel expense allowances; and (3) to increase the membership of the state board of conservation and development from 15 to 18.

The House enacted a resolution which calls for the setting up of a commission to study the selection of members of the University of North Carolina board of trustees. The trustees now are selected by the House and Senate in joint session.

Czechs Worried By 'Wild' Youth

VIENNA (AP)—A section of Czechoslovakia's youth is on the rampage.

A copy of the Prague newspaper Lidova Demokracie received here attacks "our Wild West problem." It is the sharpest of several recent commentaries in Prague papers on juvenile delinquency.

Lidova Demokracie assails bands of youths who arm themselves with guns and knives and go out on weekend parties.

"They are comically dressed," the paper says, "on their heads are Texas cowboy hats or American Army style overseas caps which they decorate with various ridiculous insignia. To look like real Wild Westers they stuff their trousers in high boots. They wear wide belts in which they carry knives."

"They get tanked up with alcohol, preferably rum. They call it 'petrol' or 'fuel.' Then they start fighting, assaulting anybody who remonstrates against their conduct. The more they drink the more brazen they become."

"Then they go weekending on the river banks, sleeping under the stars. Often girls take part in these excursions."

"The quiet of the night is often broken by bursts of gunfire. These armed tramps go plundering in the countryside—stealing poultry and rabbits, violating nature and threatening peaceable people."

"And after their fights and assaults, these tramps frequently leave wounded comrades or assailants lying helpless."

He said his department isn't given enough office supplies, so he cut out making the reports.

Cary Grant Says Young Actors Hide Real Self

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Why do the flashy young film actors come and go while the Cary Grants go on forever?

Cary Grant himself offers some help on this question. It came up when I asked him what he thought of the new "dirty-shirt" school of acting.

"It's the same thing I did when I was a young actor," Grant replied. "I did it and got it out of my system. These young fellows will do the same — if they're smart."

"That has happened to Marlon Brando already. He went through the itching and scratching stage in 'A Streetcar Named Desire'; I know, because I was one of the backers and I was close to it."

"But then he came to 'Guys and Dolls' and he realized that he couldn't get by with scratching and slouching. He had to hold an audience by remaining still. He found out he could do it, and this was a great realization to him."

"Actually, it isn't natural acting at all. It's a result of an inferiority complex. The actor wants to hide his real self, so he rubs his nose and scratches his backside—anything to distract the audience from seeing him as he is."

"The real stars in films — the ones who last a long time—are the ones who do an absolute minimum on the screen. They don't scratch and rub to prevent you from seeing what they are; they expose their real selves. Their own personalities are strong enough to command attention, even though they do nothing on the screen."

Some take years to develop this faculty, he remarked. Examples: Bing Crosby, Gary Cooper and especially Spencer Tracy. Others learn it early, like his costars Grace Kelly and Sophia Loren. He also said his new leading lady in "Kiss Them For Me," Susy Parker, may acquire the knack fast.

"She has great economy of movement," Grant observed. "I guess that comes from her model training."

Bridge Surveys Are Under Way

RALEIGH (AP)—Another step toward construction of bridges across the Alligator and Cape Fear Rivers has been announced by Gov. Hodges.

Traffic surveys to determine whether the bridges, long urged by coastal residents, would be justified will be made with an allocation from surplus highway funds, the governor told his news conference yesterday. If the results are favorable, other funds will be allocated to begin plans for the bridges, he added.

Hodges said both bridges, which would cost into the millions, "will be approached on a toll basis." The state at present has no toll bridges.

The Alligator River Bridge would replace a free ferry now operated from Sandy Point to East Lake. The Cape Fear Bridge would be located at Wilmington.

Highway Chairman A. H. Graham estimated the cost of the Alligator bridge at 4 to 4½ million, and the Cape Fear structure at 12 to 14 million.

Kitten Attacked Rattlesnake

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Steve Cochran credits his small kitten with saving him from a rattlesnake bite.

Cochran said he was walking through a geranium patch at his home in Coldwater Canyon when his 9-week-old kitten Terrible Tooty dashed in front of him to pounce on a four-foot rattlesnake. The snake struck the cat, knocking it over.

The actor said he went to get a gun, but the snake was gone when he came out. The cat, bitten between the eyes, was given first aid at an animal hospital. The animal will recover.

CHAPTER 10

Merle Turner had left the valley not long after I had first come here, and I remembered him well: a small man with a disproportionately large head, red-veined eyes, and eyeteeth so long and sharp they reminded you of a boar's tusks.

"I remembered something else, too. Turner and Dillingham had been good friends. Now I wondered whether they would resume their friendship if Turner came back to the valley. It would certainly add to my troubles. Turner had no use for me. I remembered why, too, for it was not a thing I'd forget.

"At the time Turner had been working for Dodson, but he got into a fight with a man who rode for Irv Costello's Skull outfit. Merle Turner killed the cowboy, and Joe Pardee decided it was Turner's fault, so Dodson fired him. I had the bad luck to run into Merle that afternoon in Carolina. He picked a fight with me, but I licked him. Before he left the country, he threatened Dodson and Joe and me. Maybe that was why he'd signed up with Mathers. He couldn't hurt Joe, but he could get at Sarah and the Box P, and Dodson and I were still here.

"How did Mathers get hold of him?" I asked Kathy.

"I don't know," she answered, "but I did hear Mathers say that he'd heard about Easter Valley from Turner."

"Wonder why Turner didn't come with Mathers this trip?"

"I can guess. I knew Turner pretty well when he was here. He's the kind who nurses a grudge and never forgets. It's taken him all this time to find a way to get even. Because he didn't know Joe was dead, he probably thought there'd be a fight, and with fifty or more men on his side he could get even with all of you."

"But if he showed up now with Mathers, one of us would get him."

"That's right," she said. "You'd better catch up with Mathers before he gets any farther. Kill him if you have to."

I went out through the back door and crossed the yard to the shed. I untied my horse and stepped up. Five minutes later I was headed down the creek toward Alton's Trading Post, the wheel tracks of Mathers' rig plain to read in the snow.

While I rode, anger grew in me as I thought about what would happen if Mathers brought fifty families to Easter Valley.

I reined up and looked back. Far across the flat the Sangre de Cristo range was a notched wall dividing our basin from the San Luis Valley on the other side. South, beyond the forks of Easter Creek, the land ran on and on until it was swallowed by a horizon made hazy by dust. It was arid country which held the King ranch and several others. As Curly King often said, no one who lived there needed to worry about having to fight for his land. Any man who sought a place to live would not invade that range.

The good land was all at this end of the valley. The Box P formed a big part of it. I was sick with the thought of losing it, because it was the only home I could remember with any sense of being long. I would not give it up. No matter who got hurt or how much blood was shed, I would not give it up.

By the time I caught up with Mathers and Romig just below Alton's I was ready to kill them on the slightest excuse.

I crowded my horse against the rig, my gun in my hand, calling, "Pull up!"

Mathers stopped at the edge of the road and looked at me. If he saw my agitation, he hid it well. He simply sat unmoving, the lines gripped in his gloved hands, a buffalo robe over his and Romig's lap. Romig was scared.

I nodded at Mathers as I holstered my gun. "I just heard you intend to fetch a bunch of colonists to the valley — about fifty of them, if the yarn I heard was right."

"It's right," Mathers said. "I'm president of the society. Romig is the treasurer. We were sent out as a committee to select a settlement site."

"Why didn't you tell us last night what your intentions were?"

"I told Mrs. Pardee. I saw no reason to tell you."

"I'm half-owner of the Box P and I'm the foreman. That ought to be reason enough."

Mathers shook his head. "You're not in sympathy with what we're trying to do. Mrs. Pardee is. I talked frankly to her, and she gave me some splendid advice. As far as the Box P is concerned, you have nothing to fear."

"The devil we haven't," I said. "You throw fifty families into the valley, and you'll be pushing up the East Fork right into our meadowland and winter range."

Mathers shook his head. "I gave my word to Mrs. Pardee." He leaned forward, gray eyes searching my face. "Beeson, I want no trouble with you or any one. Believe me. But if there is trouble, we'll handle it. We know the law, and I assure you we will do nothing that isn't legal."

I tapped the butt of my gun. "The law stops at Alton's Trading Post, Mathers. If you go ahead with this, we'll put men at the head of the canyon and shoot the first man and team that comes through it."

"And hang for it."

"Maybe, but that won't help you if you're driving the first wagon. Listen, Mathers. This isn't the place for you. It's cattle country. You'll starve if you try to farm it. It's too high and the growing season's too short. Your crops won't mature."

Mathers shook his head again. "It won't do, Beeson. You and Dodson and the rest are occupying land that belongs to the American people. Thousands of acres for cows and a handful of people when it should be the other way around."

Beeson. Mrs. Pardee says you're an intelligent and reasonable man, but you're neither intelligent nor reasonable as long as you keep trying to impersonate Joe Pardee. You can't go on being led by the dead hand of the past."

"Joe's death doesn't make any difference," I shot back. "We'll fight for what's ours. I've ridden a long ways to warn you." I jerked a hand downward. "Stay out of Easter Valley."

"I haven't said all I want to say," Mathers said. "I suppose you've never lived in a city. It's bad. Bad for kids. Bad for your health, working long hours and barely making enough to live. That's why we organized the society. We'll bring happiness and peace of mind and health to people who now see no purpose in living."

"You're good with words, Mathers," I said, "but you're only a

Conference Will Stress Improvement Of Schools

Improvement of supervision, administration, and teaching in North Carolina public schools will receive emphasis at a conference scheduled at East Carolina College Friday, June 14, according to an announcement by Dr. Woodrow Flanary of the education department, chairman.

The program will be held in the McGinnis auditorium at the college from 10 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. School administrators, supervisors, and teachers are invited to be present.

Two major topics have been announced for the morning. They are "Accomplishments of the Kellogg Foundation Program for Improvement of School Administration" and "Promising Practices in Administration, Supervision, and Teaching." An open forum will follow talks on each of these subjects and will provide opportunity for those in attendance to exchange ideas.

Dignity Saved, But Suit Lost

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — When Mrs. Mary Massara prepared to leave Orange County General Hospital she asked for her $28 black appliqued swim suit.

Attendants told her that when she was admitted as an emergency case she was wearing only a diamond ring.

Mrs. Massara remembered that she was overcome by the tide off Newport Beach, but she was sure she hadn't lost her swim suit in the process.

She appealed to Dr. Lewis Ellmore, medical director of the hospital. His investigation disclosed that she did, indeed, have her suit on when she was admitted.

dreamer, and it takes more'n dreams to keep fifty families alive. And another thing: Don't believe a word Merle Turner tells you. He's got his own ax to grind, and don't you forget it."

He studied me for a moment, then said sadly: "It happens that I trust Merle Turner. I can see you're not going to be reasonable, Beeson. If you aren't, we'll fight. Some of us will die and so will you, and for nothing. There are too many of us and too few of you, and we'll win. I have always believed that the Lord is on the side of the right. If He is, then I trust Merle Turner. I can see because we are not satisfied, as you are, to leave life as it is today. We're looking toward tomorrow, a great tomorrow designed for the welfare of people, not of cows. Good day, sir."

Ayden Jaycees Joining Crusade

AYDEN—A decision to join the Ayden Crusade for Christ, high-lighted planning at the bi-weekly meeting of the Ayden Junior Chamber of Commerce Monday night.

Jaycee participation will include attendance at the meeting by the club and their families as well as advertising the meetings through newspaper and handbill medias.

The Crusade, a two-week series of revival meetings, is currently being held at 8 p.m. each night in the Ayden High School auditorium.

President Marvin Baldrée Jr. appointed Guy Corbett to handle prisoner rehabilitation. This work is a statewide project, designed to help persons readjust to a free society after having served a term in prison.

Two dates were set for coming events. The Central Prison Variety Show will be staged on Sept. 14. July 17 is the date scheduled for a Fishing Rodeo at Bill McLawhorn's pond.

After the program schedule for the year was announced by Program Chairman Tommy Craft, the meeting was closed.

Will Take Bids On Stream Work

Bids are to be received at City Hall on June 27 at 10 a.m. for excavation of Greene Mill Run.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam said today that the right-of-way for the stream had already been cleared by city work crews. Low bidder for the job of deepening and straightening the stream will be working from Tenth St. to the river.

The contract will be so written that it can be extended to cover lesser work from Tenth St. and beyond the New Bern Highway.

Funds for the work were approved in a bond election last fall.

False Alarmist Rides To Pokey

RED BANK, N.J. (AP) — When more than 100 firemen, seven fire trucks, two ambulances and a police car answered a fire alarm, they reported finding John Williams, 51, standing by the alarm box.

"Where's the fire?" he was asked. "No fire," said Williams. "I just wanted a ride home."

Williams, who lives three blocks from the scene of the alarm, was given from 60 to 90 days of free lodging by Magistrate John V. Crowell.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK—The stock market made further progress into new high ground for 1957 in fairly active trading early this afternoon. Industrial issues set the pace in a continued recovery from the sharp break of early Monday on news of President Eisenhower's stomach upset.

Steels and motors were fairly active as their prices rose. Some oils and chemicals made good advances.

Key stocks were up from fractions to 2 points or more. There was a scattering of small losses among nonferrous metals. Some specialties slidded downward.

The continued rise of steel scrap prices, expansion plans for business in the third quarter and encouraging reports in Wall Street about the motor industry contributed to the bullish trend.

Youngstown Steel rose more than 2. Lukens Steel was another 2 point gainer. U.S. Steel and Bethlehem were up fractionally.

Amerasia was about the best of the oils, adding close to 3 points. Gulf Oil and Phillips Petroleum rose by major fractions. Gains by Sinclair, Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Shell Transport & Trading were smaller.

While the chemical division was spotty, Allied Chemical surged ahead about 3 and Du Pont rose more than a point. Union Carbide and Dow were off slightly.

Anacosta, Kennecott, American Smelting and International Nickel eased.

Woolworth dropped 1/4 to 4 1/4 on a big block of 29,300 shares. Wall Street sources had no immediate explanation for this move. Columbia Broadcasting System "A" stock also slidded 1/4, putting the price at 32 1/4 on a block of 18,900 shares, another mystery.

International Business Machines added another 5 to its high price. Baltimore and Ohio rose a point or so, outstanding minor changes in other leading rails. Chrysler rose a point as investors continued to respond to its record sales. General Motors was ahead a fraction. Douglas Aircraft added a point.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon rose 90 cents to $186.10, bettering its new 1957 high set at yesterday's close. The industrials rose $1.80, the rails 50 cents and the utilities 20 cents.

Rep. Jones Saw Victory And Defeat In Assembly

RALEIGH—Rep. Walter Jones of Pitt said that he tested the sweetness of victory, but also suffered his bitterest defeat at the hands of the 1957 General Assembly in his compulsory liability bill and a measure providing appropriations for a school of nursing at East Carolina College.

Jones and his magic wand plus a lot of hard work accomplished what certain insurance lobbyists called "the impossible" when the compulsory automobile liability bill passed both the House and Senate.

"If he works as hard for himself as he did during this session of the legislature," one of his colleagues commented, "he ought to be a millionaire."

Jones said he felt his greatest disappointment when a bill he introduced providing $170,000 in the next biennium for a school of Nursing at E.C.C. failed to pass.

"People don't realize how bad we need such a school in our section of the state," he said. "There are many girls from our area who would make fine nurses but lack the money to pay tuition."

"If I'm fortunate enough to be re-elected, that's one thing I'm going to push," he said. "Potential nurses need a school of training in our area and our sick need good nurses."

Crusade For Christ In Final Five Days

Of the five days that remain in the United Crusade for Christ at the big tent on West Greenville school grounds, each will offer a special attraction in music and message. In addition there will be special services for children of grammar school age at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning.

Dr. Jimmie Johnson announced that he would speak on a subject somewhat out of the ordinary in tonight's service: "Why Many People Go Too Far From God—Past the Point of Repentance."

Tomorrow night a musical special will be presented by Merrill Dunlop, crusade organizer—his descriptive number "The Storm." Originally scheduled for last week, it could not be given, for inclement weather necessitated holding the service elsewhere. The 15-minute presentation depicts the Bible account of the gathering storm on the Sea of Galilee. Mr. Dunlop will be assisted by the chorus choir and soloist Ralph McGilvra; he will use special lighting effects.

Using the topic "Why Doesn't God Lend A Helping Hand?" in last night's address he pointed out that God has already done so in his provision for mankind's redemption on the cross of Calvary. "All that needed to be done to make possible eternal salvation was completed when the Son of God yielded up his life on the cross—not as a martyr, but as the "Lamb of God." He was the sacrifice for our sin," Johnson declared.

"Who crucified Jesus?" he questioned. "Not just the men who drove the nails! God did it, for He so loved the world that He gave His Son. Religion did it—the organized, recognized religious entity of the day placed Him there. The government did it, for it was legally determined. Lastly, the people did it, for it was the general will expressed in their mob-cry 'Crucify Him.' Men and women should receive Christ today as their Savior as the only solution to their need," was Johnson's closing appeal.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, Henry Freeman, who passed away three years ago, May 18, 1954:

We have been sitting here thinking of you because today is "Father's Day" and we miss you so much. Gone, dear father, gone forever, and how we miss your smiling face. But you left us to remember that none on earth can take your place. A happy home we once enjoyed. And how sweet the memory still, but death has left a loneliness that the world can never fill.
