Present, Future N. C. Motorists Are Affected By New Legislation

Far-Reaching Impact Will Result From Measures Enacted By Assembly

By KEN BARTON RALEIGH (AP)—The 1957 General Assembly enacted far-reaching legislation affecting Tar Heel motorists—both present drivers and those of the future.

These include bills designed to curb racing on the highways, one to provide driver training for high school students and a compulsory auto insurance measure.

But Motor Vehicles Commissioner Edward Scheidt said the major legislation his department wanted was mechanical inspection of automobiles, which was turned down by the Legislature.

The most far-reaching of any of the new laws is the compulsory auto liability insurance measure which takes effect next January. At that time, all Tar Heel motorists must have a liability insurance policy or other proof of financial responsibility when they apply for their 1958 license plates.

The law is expected to affect directly more than half a million drivers who now are not carrying any type of liability insurance. The bill, one of the more controversial bills debated at the session, was introduced by Rep. Walter Jones of Pitt.

It is intended to make certain that the innocent victim of an auto accident is able to collect for the damage he suffers.

Commissioner Scheidt hailed the driver training program, which provides for behind-the-wheel driving instruction for all high school students in the state, as the most important bill passed in the field of safety legislation.

The cost of license plates will be increased $1 to provide for the program for which will be administered by the State Board of Education. Eventually, driver training courses will be given in every high school in the state.

The lawmakers were particularly concerned about legislation to provide deterrents to persons racing autos on the highways and enacted two proposals which will help the State Highway Patrol to clamp down on violators.

The General Assembly restored to the Highway Patrol the right to patrol the highways with unmarked cars, a right the 1955 General Assembly had taken away. This Legislature limited the number to 21 per cent of the total number of highway patrol cars.

A bill to provide for fine or imprisonment at the discretion of the court for those persons convicted of "pre-arranged" racing also was enacted. The new law provides for confiscation of autos used in races and sets similar penalties for persons "knowingly" allowing their cars to be used in races.

Besides killing the mechanical auto inspection measure, which never got out of committee, the General Assembly turned its back on a proposal permitting the use of scientific blood tests in determining drunken drivers, and a number of smaller bills designed (Continued On Page 16)

Shift Strategy In Foreign Aid Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Advocates of sharp cuts in the $3,637,000,000 foreign aid bill shifted strategy today as the Senate neared its first vote.

In the hope of picking up additional strength, Sen. Long (D-La.) said he would call up first an amendment to cut 90 million dollars from a proposed authorization of 800 millions for defense support.

His original plan had been to seek first a vote on a move to cut 300 million dollars from the $1,800,000,000 the foreign relations committee had voted for direct military assistance.

Long and his backers apparently felt they had a better chance to carry the smaller cut than the larger one, and that if they could put it over, they might have better prospects for the bigger slash.

The Senate leadership of both parties remained outwardly confident of keeping the sums in the bill substantially intact. Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) predicted final action by nightfall.

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.) attacked the whole program as a device to "waste more and more" millions on "nations that care nothing for us and little about blocking the Communist onslaught."

Jenner said the United States "is mortgaged to the hilt," and he added: "The debt of the United States is more than double the combined debt of 12 European nations which we are helping. If we cannot reduce our debt now, how will we finance another war?"

Revisions in the foreign aid program, he said, open the way "to the gradual shift of our foreign aid from military assistance for anti-communist nations to economic aid to the neutrals in the cold war."

Council Okays Paving Projects

Some $36,800 as the city's share of the paving bill for the coming year was approved by city fathers last night.

Await Result Of Traffic Studies

Returning two-way traffic to Pitt St. will await traffic studies to be made after the U.S. 13-N.C. 11 bypass is completed, councilmen decided last night.

A delegation of Dickinson Ave. businessmen appeared before the city fathers in behalf of the change.

Pitt St. is now one-way from Second St. to Dickinson Ave. Traffic flows to the south on the street. City Manager Leonard Bloxam pointed out that paving has begun on the new bypass which is expected to take much highway traffic off Greene St. and Dickinson Ave.

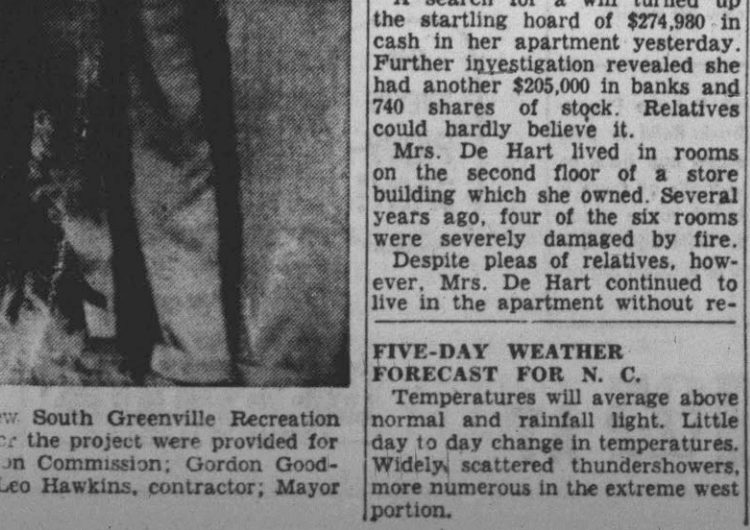

Urges Atomic Isotopes For Use Of Classrooms

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—A member of the Atomic Energy Commission said last night atomic isotopes should be available in all high school and college chemistry laboratories for experimental use by students.

Dr. Willard Libby told the College Chemistry Teachers Institute here that "radioactive isotopes ought to be an everyday experience for college science students."

He added that "we should have radioactive agents on the shelves in the ordinary chemistry laboratories so that students may be free to use these for experimental work."

Humphrey Says No Tax Cuts Possible

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey told Congress today that tax cuts cannot be voted until there is a sufficient surplus in the Treasury to pay for them.

"Such a surplus does not exist at the present time," he said. Testifying before the Senate-House Economic subcommittee, Humphrey also said the nation can look forward "to a continuing period of high prosperity for our country."

"If we are successful in properly controlling the size and spending of government, we can look forward to a continuing period of high prosperity for our country," he said.

"A major ingredient in this high prosperity is the confidence of the American people—confidence in themselves, in each other and of fundamental importance, confidence in their government."

"One thing that can destroy not only our present prosperity but even jeopardize our way of life is runaway inflation," he said. "The restraints on credit involving some increases in the cost of money and the maintenance of taxes at the present levels at least until such time as we have a substantial excess of income over expenditures, are important factors which will assist in restraining a substantial increase in the cost of living."

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP)—Fourteen soldiers were killed yesterday when a 2½-ton truck failed to make a curve and overturned on this army base. In addition to the 14 dead, nine were injured.

The big truck careened off a gravel road, straddled the steel guard rail of a bridge over Piney Fork Creek and landed in the shallow water 20 feet below. The occupants of the truck were pinned beneath the vehicle.

Major Louis A. Breaux, base public information officer, said the accident occurred at noon. Casualties were members of the 101st Airborne Battle Group of the 327th Infantry.

An H34 helicopter sped to the scene. It lifted the truck enabling removal of the bodies. The helicopter took the injured to the base hospital.

There had been intermittent showers just prior to the accident. Sgt. Eugene M. Perry, Taunton, Mass., from Bldg. Co., 326th Airborne Engineers, said he was riding along Palmyra Road which crosses over the creek.

He stated he saw a group of men coming up the banks with their eyes bloodied, saw the situation and hurried to his nearby unit for help. A call was then placed for helicopters and medical personnel.

FT. Campbell is a sprawling base where thousands of troops trained in World War II, on the border between Kentucky and Tennessee, just north of Clarksville, Tenn.

Authorities said names of the casualties, all believed to be enlisted men, would be released as soon as next of kin are told.

The 327th had been out on training tests since Monday. The accident happened in a remote section of the base, 10 to 15 miles inside its boundaries.

Seventh Entry

Miss Lois Briley, (above) daughter of Mrs. Anna Briley of 200 E. Mumford Rd. became the seventh entry in the Miss Greenville Beauty Uagant.

Miss Briley is 18 years old and a graduate of Stokes-Pactious High School. Her hobbies are swimming and basketball and for the talent portion of tonight's pageant she will talk on the career she wishes to pursue.

The blond 110-pound beauty was named home room queen of her high school class.

Councilmen Are Assigned Boards

City Councilmen found a volunteer last night. Mayor S. Eugene West announced at the Council meeting that Lester Turnage, a freshman member of the city's governing body, was willing to serve as the council's representative on both the Planning-Zoning Commission and the Recreation Commission.

The mayor explained that Turnage had agreed to serve on both city boards "in order to get more experience in the city's business."

To the Airport Commission, the mayor reappointed Councilmen J. A. Collins Sr. and E. Wesley Harvey Jr. Mayor West said the two "have served us well."

Councilman Collins was also reappointed to the Library Board on which he has served for several years.

Upon recommendation of the Recreation Commission Mayor West appointed Mrs. Wilson R. Guice, who lives on S. Dickinson Ave., and Charles R. Ross of the Meadowbrook section as members-at-large of the Recreation Commission.

He said plans for the heliport near here have been approved by the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

Harden told the council it should consider a municipal downtown heliport which he said would require an area of 100 square feet.

Frail, Parsimonious Recluse Left Fortune Under Her Bed

NEW YORK (AP)—A frail little woman of 90, who lived in a fire-damaged apartment and dined on 15-cent hotdogs, turned out today to have a fortune of nearly $500,000—and kept more than half of it under her bed.

The woman, Mrs. Emma Buhl De Hart, died three weeks ago after being found almost helpless from malnutrition and kidney and heart diseases.

Her astonishing wealth was suspected by no one although she had been a prominent business woman in Staten Island, where she lived, and was the widow of a tugboat owner.

A search for a will turned up the startling hoard of $274,980 in cash in her apartment yesterday. Further investigation revealed she had another $205,000 in banks and 740 shares of stock. Relatives could hardly believe it.

Mrs. De Hart lived in rooms on the second floor of a store building which she owned. Several years ago, four of the six rooms were severely damaged by fire.

Despite pleas of relatives, however, Mrs. De Hart continued to live in the apartment without repairing the fire damage.

The treasure trove of currency ranging from $10 to $1,000 bills was found in cardboard boxes stuffed away under a bed in one of the fire-damaged rooms. It took a police officer from noon yesterday to 2 a.m. today just to copy the serial numbers of all the bills.

Her nearest relatives are 10 nieces and nephews. When no will was found after her death, a court order was obtained for a search of the apartment.

The search was carried out yesterday by police, one of the nephews and a representative of the State Tax Commission. They found no will—just piles of money, bankbooks and stock certificates of undisclosed value.

Following the death of her husband 11 years ago, she had kept mostly to her two undamaged rooms over the store. Her daily routine was described by acquaintances as something like this:

She arose around noon, went to a nearby five-and-ten-cent store for a hotdog or hamburger, then returned home, sometimes sitting in a chair outside for a while. Then she would go upstairs and listen to the radio until she retired about 7:30 p.m.

Her husband, Samuel De Hart, was a member of a Staten Island family going back for generations.

She was related by marriage to pairing the fire damage.

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP)—One North Carolina soldier was killed and another injured in the 14-death crash of an Army truck near here yesterday.

Killed was Sp. 3. C. Ernest J. McNeill, 28, son of Mrs. Martha McNeill of Lumberton, N.C.

Among the injured was Pvt. Julius W. Clemmons, 18, brother of Barbara Ann Clemmons of Rt. 1, Tabor City.

Both were members of the 101st Airborne Division.

Five Baseballers Fined In Wake Of Chicago Brawl

CHICAGO (AP)—American League President Will Harridge today fined five players a total of $650 for their part in yesterday's free-for-all fight between the New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox.

Fines of $150 were assessed against outfielder Larry Doby of the White Sox and infielder Billy Martin and outfielder Enos Slaughter of the Yankees.

Fines of $100 each were levied against first baseman Walt Dropt of the White Sox and pitcher Art Ditmar of the Yankees.

Doby, Dropt, Martin and Slaughter were banished by umpires for the first-inning brawl which started when Doby flatted Ditmar with a left hook for a wild pitch he considered as an intended duster.

Harridge said in explaining Ditmar's fine he believed the umpires "exercised proper judgment in permitting Ditmar to remain in the game."

"He (Ditmar) was not the aggressor," Harridge continued, "but as a participant in a fight which precipitated a regrettable brawl, he is fined along with the other players."

Harridge pointed out that Doby "threw the initial punch which started the trouble."

Slaughter's $150 fine came, Harridge explained, "because he was not in the lineup, but came off the bench and engaged in a fight with Dropt."

Martin's $150 assessment came, Harridge said, because "after the umpires got the situation well in hand, he attempted to start a fresh fight with Doby and caused a new disturbance."

Harridge was a spectator at the game which was delayed 23 minutes by the free-for-all.

Tractor-Trailer And Car Crash Fatal For Two

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—An automobile and tractor-trailer truck crash on U.S. 17 in the pre-dawn hours today killed two North Carolinians and hurt another.

Chatham County Police Chief Thomas J. Mahoney listed the dead as Archie Phillips and Hugh C. Campbell of Red Springs, N.C.

John A. Varnum, driver of the car in which they were riding, was brought to Memorial Hospital in critical condition.

Phillips was 25, Varnum, 27. Campbell's age was not available. The chief said an investigation by Officers Clarence Scruggs and B. W. Fields indicated that the car crossed the center line of the coastal highway and collided with the northbound truck about 9½ miles south of here.

Mahoney identified the truck driver as B. J. Craig, 45, of Truckee, Ohio. Craig was taken up in the crash, which demolished both car and truck.

Hobbies, civic activities, and church work are all a part of Mrs. Wesley Harvey's busy schedule.

Antiques and varied colored hook rugs are found throughout the home of the Wesley Harveys on West Wright Road. Mrs. Harvey explained that, "Many of my antiques are family pieces."

Mrs. Harvey also collects antique china and copper-luster pitchers which can be seen in her living room and den.

For the past three or four years she has been making hook rugs in varied patterns for her home. Proudly Mrs. Harvey mentioned that she now has made 13 such rugs. "They are quite fascinating and I have thoroughly enjoyed making each one," she said.

Another hobby of hers is doing outwork. "During the last two years I have made a full size dinner cloth, bridge table cloths and napkin sets and pillow cases," she noted.

Working in her garden, raising African violets, and playing bridge are other interests of the wife of the mayor pro-tem.

Originally from Ayden, Mrs. Harvey has a six-year-old daughter, Mary Wesley.

At the head of her many civic interests in Greenville is her position as president of the Greenville Service League. She is also serving as secretary of the Volunteer Services Council of camps and hospitals in the Cherry Point and Camp Lejeune areas, and is a member of the East Carolina Art Society.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Harvey are members of the First Presbyterian Church of Greenville.

As one of the alternate teachers, Mrs. Harvey often teaches Sunday School. Her other church affiliation include membership in the Kate Lewis Bible Class of the church and membership in a church circle.

When asked what was the mayor pro-tem's favorite dish, the homemaker quickly answered. . . "baked pork roast".

To Remove Grass Stains

RALEIGH—Summertime is outdoor time, and the homemaker is likely to find grass, foliage, and flower stains a summer laundry problem.

These common stains can be safely removed from most washable clothing, if the treatment is suited to the fabric, according to Julius McIver, Extension Service clothing specialist.

If you know the fabric is washable, first try rubbing soap or synthetic detergent into a stain and washing the garment. Or, if a test on an inside edge of a seam or other hidden part of the garment shows alcohol won't affect the dye, sponge the stain with alcohol.

Use alcohol diluted with water on acetate fabrics. For stubborn stains, you can use a sodium perborate bleach. Sprinkle the moist stain with bleach, gently cover the garment with a solution made of one tablespoon sodium perborate per pint of water, and let it soak several hours or overnight. Use cool water for wool, silk, and Dynel, and hot water for other washable fabrics. Rinse well.

If the plant stains still are stubborn, you can use stronger sodium perborate on the stain and dip it into very hot or boiling water. Rinse well, and repeat if necessary.

Chlorine and sodium perborate bleaches generally remove the same types of stains. However, chlorine bleaches should never be used on wool, silk, blends containing these fibers, or on fabrics such as many of the new "wash and wear" cottons, that have chlorine-retentive resin finishes.

Books For Music Lovers Reviewed

By BLANCHE ZIMMERMAN

Music lovers who wish to spend the summer to catch up on their reading about music, musicians, and music appreciation, will wish to read the thumbnail book reviews prepared by Mrs. Aaron Cornwall Jr. of Winston-Salem, chairman of the N. C. Course of Study Committee for the N. C. Federation of Music Clubs.

Mrs. Cornwall has selected books from the Approved Book List of the National Federation of Music Clubs compiled by Mrs. Frederick Marin, National Education chairman, and Mrs. Ronald Dougan, National President. The compilation of reviews, which contains selections from each of the classifications, is dedicated to Mrs. Harry J. Shonts of Winston-Salem, State President.

Musical Encyclopedias

Among the musical encyclopedias Mrs. Cornwall recommends the OXFORD COMPANION TO MUSIC, a volume of 1145 pages which has over a million words of information and profuse illustrations about all branches of musical knowledge.

In the field of history she thinks are four books which she feels are very readable, authoritative, and usable. AMERICA'S MUSIC by Chase is a 16 chapter book dealing with various phases of American folk, primitive, popular, and classic music. Based on historical principals, the book discusses music made by people of the U. S. who have come from all over the world.

MUSIC THROUGHOUT THE WORLD by Cotton Bradburn is recommended as thoroughly comprehensive, informative, and enjoyable. Actually written as a course in "understanding and appreciation based on the music of many countries," the book is valuable for reference and would be a good choice for any music lover's library.

OUR AMERICAN MUSIC by Howard is a long but comprehensive volume on the history of music in our country. Mr. Howard, an authority in the music field, has turned a wealth of material into a very readable and informative book.

OUR MUSICAL HERITAGE by Sachs is another book which Mrs. Cornwall highly recommends. The book, dealing with general information written in the style of a survey, summarizes essential trends of thought and style of all periods.

Appreciation of Music

For developing appreciation of music, Mrs. Cornwall chooses the MUSIC LOVER'S HANDBOOK by Seigmester and LISTENING TO MUSIC CREATIVELY by Stringham. The HANDBOOK, which includes 24 original essays by outstanding musical figures, treats music as a big and growing art. Its range of subjects embraces the old and the new, the serious and the popular, folk songs, orchestral works, opera, dance, and radio and motion picture.

LISTENING TO MUSIC CREATIVELY covers many phases of the practical use of music such as the dance, ceremony, religious, folk and art songs, oratorio, theater, opera, and instruments.

In biography Mrs. Cornwall chooses MEN OF MUSIC by Brockway and Weinstein as outstanding. The book begins with a chapter on pre-Bach composers, and then gives individual biographical sketches of musicians which include Bach, Handel, Mozart, Gluck, Haydn, Beethoven, Weber, Rossini, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Schumann, Chopin, Berlioz, Liszt, Wagner, Verdi, Brahms, Tchaikowsky, Debussy, Sibelius, R. Strauss, and Stravinsky.

In the field of hymnology, she suggests two books as very readable and usable. THE HISTORY OF AMERICAN MUSIC by Ellwood, tells the story of church music from the time of the early Spanish colonization to the present day and describes old customs, early instruments, choral development, and composers ranging from Hopkins to Sowerby.

THE GOSPEL IN HYMNS by Bally gives the historical, religious, and social environment of out of which the different hymns grew. The book also contains 300 hymns listed in six out of 10 hymnals of the largest denominations.

Happy summer reading to all of you, and to Mrs. Cornwall, many thanks for reading, digesting, and analyzing so many books for us.

Christian Science Society

The healing and protecting power of effective prayer will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "God the Preserver of Man."

Scriptural passages will include the following from Psalms (145: 18,19): "The Lord is nigh unto all them that call upon him, to all that call upon him in truth. He will fulfill the desire of them that fear him; he also will hear their cry, and will save them."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy the following selection will be among those read (231:8): "If God heals not the sick, they are not healed, for no lesser power equals the infinite All-power; but God, Truth, Life, Love, does heal the sick through the prayer of the righteous."

The Golden Text is from Hosea (12:13): "By a prophet the Lord brought Israel out of Egypt, and by a prophet was he preserved."

Budget Director's Wife Now Budgets Both Time And Money

BUDGET DIRECTOR'S BUDGET DIRECTOR—Mrs. Percival F. Brundage, wife of the budget director, has kept a strict family budget for 39 years. Sometimes, she admits, it gets out of balance.

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—Mrs. Percival F. Brundage, wife of the director of the Bureau of the Budget, understands some of her husband's problems in trying to balance Uncle Sam's budget. She has a little budget of her own.
 "I've lived by a budget for 39 years," Amittal Brundage told me. "It hasn't always been easy to balance it. Sometimes I slip up and borrow from 'miscellaneous,' but it's the only way to live. It gives you peace of mind. You know where you're bound."
 Getting used to counting pennies and knowing each use—marked for a definite use—food, clothes, fun, savings and so on—wasn't easy at first for the youthful accountant's wife just setting up housekeeping in New Jersey back in June, 1918.
 "Like a lot of young folks, I thought budgeting sort of held you back," she explained, "but my husband kept me to it, strictly. Now I do it unconsciously. I've had to make changes now and then. Here, I have to keep a closer eye. Living costs are higher. Our income is lower. There are always extras too, we hadn't counted on."
 Brundage, who has had over-all charge of preparing the Eisenhower administration's budget for the 1958 fiscal year beginning July 1, has been working all hours, "early, late, everyday, Saturdays, Sundays, ever-constantly, with very little chance to relax," according to his wife.
 So now Amittal Brundage has two budgets—one for money, one for that even more precious commodity, time.
 It is important, she said, that everyone have time to himself. Officials have to be in public life, she admits, but they don't have to accept all invitations and they have to know enough to go home at a decent hour. They should by pass the trivial. This takes a pretty strong character, planning, and doing as you planned.

Educational TV Gets Its Chance

Results of the ambitious educational television program to be launched in North Carolina public schools in September will prove a stepping stone to more effective use of the medium of communication in education throughout the nation.

Through the efforts of television station WNCN and East Carolina College, people throughout Eastern North Carolina have been able to observe the use of television for adult education. Now, on a much larger scale, North Carolina will be able to test the advantages of television in carrying courses of study to public school classrooms as well.

It is a tribute to public schools of this state, and to the progressiveness of their administrators that the Ford Foundation has consented to help defray part of the cost of this ambitious experiment. The patterns developed in North Carolina through the experimental undertaking may well set the example which will be followed in other states throughout the nation in utilizing television in public schools.

Public schools of Greenville, Kinston, Wilson, Rocky Mount and other cities of Eastern North Carolina should investigate the possibilities of becoming part of the experimental program. If it proves a beneficial undertaking for cities in the central and Piedmont sections of North Carolina, there is no reason it should not be beneficial in the cities in the East.

President's Stomach And Today's World

Every day millions of people have a stomach ache. The world goes its merry way without so much as a "how're you feeling?"

But let the President eat something which doesn't agree with him and one would think the world's coming to an end. The stock market drops, politicians gather in quick conferences, newsmen hang around the White House grabbing every scrap of information about the President's condition, and even in foreign capitals major decisions are postponed until the stomach ache departs.

Gradually things get back to normal. Finally the world's convinced that, after all, it was just a stomach ache—the kind millions of other people have every day.

The President is the most important man in the world and it follows that his stomach is the most important stomach in the world. But aren't we over-emphasizing it?

It's a tedious world when the economy of the wealthiest nation of the world, and indeed the whole structure of international affairs hangs by the thin thread of one man's stomach ache.

Last Of The Dorseys Gone; Memory Lives

Bee-boppers and the rock 'n' rollers may be content with Elvis and his counterparts, but members of the older swing, jive and jitterbug eras are going to miss the music of the fabulous Dorsey brothers.

Tommy, the "Sentimental Gentleman of Swing," and his brother Jimmy came a long way from the Pennsylvania coal mines after they laid down their picks and shovels and took musical instruments in their hands instead.

Millions of youngsters of not too many years ago danced to their music from coast to coast. Other millions listened to their radio programs, and millions still will dig out a dusty record to sit back and enjoy the unique music of the Dorseys.

In the passing scene of American music, the Dorseys will always occupy a conspicuous niche. The very mention of their name will bring the mental picture of a trombone and saxophone, and send a familiar old tune flashing through the mind.

Just Waiting To Be Bought

By ELMER ROESSNER

If Americans want a higher standard of living, all they have to do is to go out and buy it. It's there waiting for us.

That's the opinion of A. W. Zelomek, a sort of triple-threat man in economics. He is an adviser for industrial buyers and for retail merchandisers, and a visiting professor of marketing at the University of Virginia graduate business school.

"America stepped up its productive capacity tremendously during the war," he said, "then stepped it up again to help her allies. On top of that, $275 billion worth of plant and equipment has been installed in the last ten years.

"To keep all this functioning, to maintain constantly rising prosperity and to move the standard of living higher, consumers simply have to buy more."

Mr. Zelomek is impatient with those who say we have a mature economy, or who think great efforts are necessary to keep business on top of the present plateau.

"The public is far from being overstocked," he said. "Millions of families have only one car to day. In modern living, one car to a family is no more practical than one pair of pajamas. The husband needs an auto to get to and from business, if not for use in business as well; the wife needs a car for suburban shopping, getting children to and from school, and carrying out other obligations.

"Despite the millions of houses built since the war, we are still short of housing. Most of the postwar houses have one or two bedrooms while the typical family now begins to need three or four.

"Most of the nation's refrigerators should be replaced. Only a few kitchens have central, push button controls. A good part of our kitchens should be ripped out and replaced.

RADIOS AS AN EXAMPLE

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
LIFE AND DEATH COMPARED
People sometimes have strange experiences when they get on the operating table. I heard of a woman some time ago whose heart stopped for almost a minute during an operation. She always refers now to the time she died, and she declares that life has never been exactly the same since that time.

A great writer some years ago tried to depict the outlook and emotions of Lazarus after he had lain in the grave for three days and had been restored to life by the miraculous power of Jesus Christ. Lazarus, the dead man, came back to live in a new world.

"A few years ago critics laughed at the radio industry for trying to sell second sets. Today the typical family has three or four sets; some have a set in every room. Manufacturers are selling more sets now than they were in the days when timid people were saying the market had been 'saturated.'

"The typical family is now moving toward two or more television sets, but the day will come when a set in every room will seem natural.

"Meanwhile, our per capita ownership of apparel is lagging behind income. Some segments of the industry say there is over-production and that price-cutting is the only way out.

"That's nonsense. The only solution is to persuade people to buy apparel commensurate with their income. Too many families with $10,000 incomes are buying clothing at prices and in amounts they knew when their incomes were only $5,000."

BLAME MARKETERS

The fault, Mr. Zelomek says, lies largely with marketing men. Market development has lagged behind production and technical advances.

"Business needs a better knowledge of the ways to move goods," he said. "There is a great lack of knowledge of how pricing works. Cutting prices does not automatically increase consumer sales, the way it may in industrial materials."

He took a booklet — one he had written himself — from his pocket and pointed to a chart. It showed that since 1946 the price of women's hosiery had fallen 28 per cent, but that unit sales had risen very little and were still under the 1950 rate.

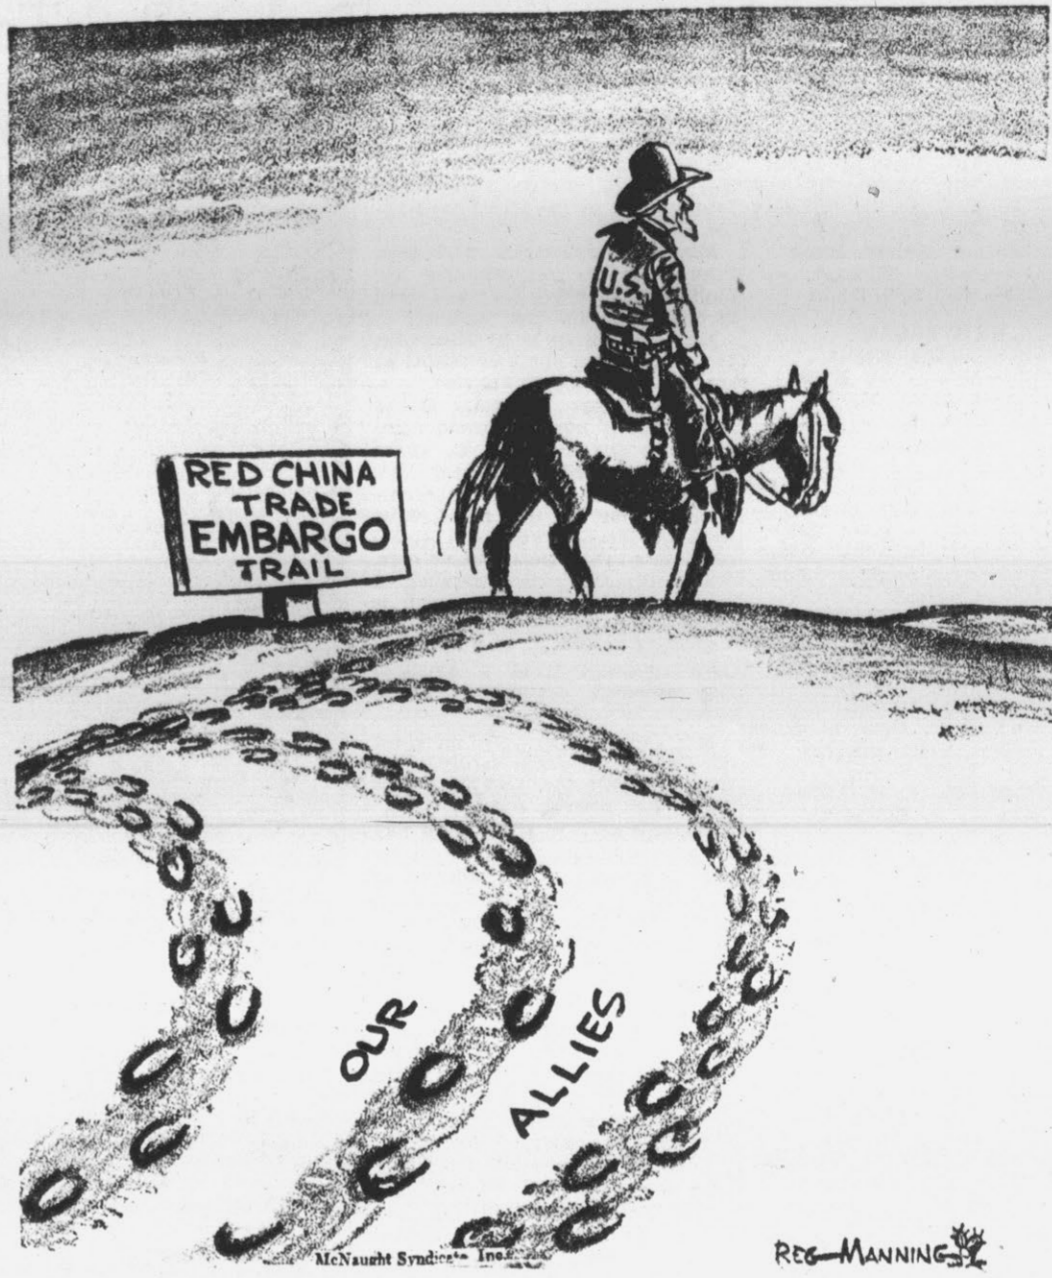

"Merchants simply have to have a greater understanding of what prices do — and what they don't do," he said.

Consumer buying can be a sustaining influence in the economy, he declared, if families' purchases and savings can each be increased as income rises.

What is the world in which we live really like? How is it different from the state that is usually termed death? Is there as great a difference between the two states as we sometimes feel? Or may it not be that one is correlative to the other. Death may fill out life. Or perhaps it may be simply a continuation of the life we are living here and now. How near are our departed loved ones to us every day? Do they look, and know, and grieve, and rejoice?

Of course, we know practically nothing about such matters, but what we do know is that living or dying, we are the Lord's. Life or death must be just different aspects of the same thing.

Lonesome Sam

by ALVIN TAYLOR

What The Public Wants

I have nothing but a great big raspberry for actors, musicians and the like who raise the roof everytime something new comes along to take a share of the money spent on TV.

I have in mind the big cash quiz shows primarily. Since the days on radio when it was considered a big thing to give away $64 to brainy contestants, actors and other show folk have yelled about the unfair competition and such.

It seems that the competition takes food out of the mouths of the legitimate show person. Instead the cash goes to some fellow who has never been heard of before and probably never will again.

With the coming of television, which does everything on a big scale anyway, there came the era of really big give-aways. Instead of $64 the shows gave away $64,000. As the thing grew even that figure was dwarfed.

So the clamor mounted. It just isn't right for such shows to exist, actors intimidated. Yet the public watched and the big money shows steadily passed their opposition in the TV ratings.

Next year more such shows are planned by the networks as they strive for the viewers time.

Personally I say if that is what the public wants, more power to them. It's time the actors and playhouse outfits realized that their only reason for being is the fact that a certain percentage of the public chooses to watch their shows. They watch because they consider the dramas entertaining.

The public also watches the give-aways because they consider them entertaining.

Thus it all boils down to the fact that the viewing public controls what appears on television. If the old line shows can't keep up with newer competition — be it quiz shows or something new that might pop up in the future — then the old line shows will just have to fall by the wayside.

Don't forget the Jaycee-sponsored Beauty Pageant to be held at Flanagan Outdoor Theatre on the college campus tonight at 8 o'clock.

Six lovely young ladies have entered the contest and from among the group will be chosen Miss Greenville. She will represent the city in the state contest in Burlington next month.

There will be no admission charge for the pageant here and Bill Taylor, chairman, says the public is invited to attend.

Other Editors Saying-- Local Air Service

(Washington Daily News)

We suppose that every community in Eastern North Carolina having airport facilities now available at New Bern, would like commercial flights in and out of the communities.

Such a desire certainly is normal for the people of any community. At the same time it is only reasonable at this time to realize that no one small community is likely to get much in the way of regular air line transportation.

Full schedules will come only to these communities which pool their resources and their efforts in such a manner that service can be given to many communities at one strategic airfield location.

Some time ago serious efforts were being made to build an airport to serve several Eastern counties. The plan was to build such an airport somewhere in the vicinity of Walsenburg. The plan apparently fizzled out because of the inability of the various communities so affected to get together in one common plan of understanding.

Now it looks as if some of the communities are taking the attitude of "going it alone." That might be the only course just now, but certainly one community in Eastern North Carolina is not going to do what several communities working in unison can do.

We read with much interest where Greenville is taking a rather new approach, if we understand correctly. The people of that community want to have air service, and to get it they want to start a new line of East-West service. And the thought might be practical if finances can be found to do the job.

Greenville is slightly more than 20 miles from Washington. Of course, we here in Beaufort county would like to have air service at our own home base. We have a fine airport, and air service might mean a great deal to us. But standing alone, the hopes of Washington getting regular air service are almost nil at the moment. If an airline could be created or one already existing start East-West flights from Washington, Greenville, Wilson, Raleigh, Greensboro, and other points on to Western Carolina communities, then such a system would help all of us.

But in the event that such a plan cannot be realized practically, then we might be smart in our own area if we tried to help Greenville with its plan. After all, in many of our cities the airports serving the cities are as much as 50 miles distant from the heart of the town.

We already have air transportation in and out of New Bern. But if we can't get service of our own here in Washington, we could be served in a real sense by the facilities now available at New Bern and with the proposed facilities at Greenville.

At least, we should think about the matter with the view in mind of helping others so that in reality we can also help ourselves.

Why Public Power Lost Ground

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON Public power enthusiasts' demand for government rather than private construction reveals of scandalous and inexcusable waste of taxpayers' money on a similar project under construction by the Interior Department's Bureau of Reclamation.

It has been brought out before the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Public Works that almost $11,000,000 of work on the Oahe Dam Project in South Dakota had to be abandoned and charged off as worthless because of faulty and footloose planning by the Bureau's engineering and legal staffs. They blundered with regard to the land and the law.

This same agency would build the Hell's Canyon system under a bill introduced by Senator Wayne L. Morse of Oregon. It would rescind the Federal Power Commission's award of this contract to the Idaho Power Company, and hand the job over to Reclamation. It has been reported favorably by a Senate Committee, and will reach the floor in a few days.

MILLIONS WRITTEN OFF AS WASTED To make matters worse, although the $11,000,000 Oahe expenditure has been written off as wasted, it will remain as a permanent charge to consumers of power and users of irrigation from every Federal public work involved in the Missouri River Basin development. This unwarranted stock will contribute to an increase in their rates forever, and a burden on taxpayers everywhere.

It is not only the people of the Oahe area who will suffer from these bureaucratic blunders. The cost in extra power and irrigation rates will apply to everybody who draws a kilowatt of electricity or a pint of water from the numerous projects built along the river and its tributaries. This will include residents of Montana, Minnesota, the two Dakotas, Kansas and Nebraska.

STARTLING FACT BROUGHT OUT Representative Ben Jensen of Iowa developed this startling fact in questioning W.A. Dexheimer, Reclamation Commissioner.

"So," said Jensen, "in the event that a project was abandoned anywhere in the Missouri Valley, you would then throw the funds that you have spent into the over-all Missouri Valley account, and it would be a charge against the entire account, and would eventually be paid for. Is that right?"

"That is right," replied Dexheimer. And a report from Interior on this question clinches the point. It says:

"The costs relating to the abandoned units are a part of the total cost of the Missouri River Basin Project."

Jensen also noted that the amount of useless construction totaled about 22 per cent of the entire cost of the Oahe Project, which is $46,610,000. Moreover, this wastefulness is a continuing operation. Whereas it amounted to only $5,274,165 a year ago, it crept upward by about $5,500,000 in the last 12 months.

OFFICIAL EXPLANATIONS Committee members were shocked when Dexheimer gave the reasons for this costly abandonment. Since the Oahe dam, power and irrigation problem has been under preparation for 13 years, they could not understand why the difficulties had not been discovered and overcome long ago. Not a Democratic member came to the Bureau's rescue.

About Erin O'Brien

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — "God waits until you are ready, then calls for you."

That is the simple faith of Erin O'Brien, a young singer who knocked for years at opportunity's door and found no one at home.

Erin got her first break in an appearance on the Arthur Godfrey show. Then Steve Allen put her on four programs. Coral Records asked her to do an album for them, and Warner Brothers signed her to a term contract.

Erin is as dramatically beautiful as a royal palm tree bending in the wind, and it is hard to see how Hollywood overlooked her for so long, particularly since she's a home town girl.

"I actually was born in Hollywood," said Erin, "but that's like being born in New York City — nobody really believes you when you tell them."

She is one of 14 children — six sons, eight daughters — of a California milkman, and she learned to sing in the family choir.

"Mama played the trombone and piano," she recalled. "And dad sang a fine baritone. He could have had a professional career himself if he hadn't had such a large family — or so Mama says."

During her search for a break that never came, Erin married Jimmy Fitzgerald, another young singer, and had two sons.

Miss O'Brien has one big goal at the moment.

"When I sing, I know why something I do is right or wrong. When I act, I don't. At the studio they think I do, but I really don't. What I'd like to do most is to study acting, because I'd rather act than sing.

All I don't want for Father's Day is four front teeth.

But come Sunday I'll be wearing four new stone ones — although at the moment I'm not sure whether I'll be wearing them in my face or my back pocket.

Other happy fathers will be proudly showing off the presents showered on them by their loyal kinfolk — rainbow neckties, dazzling robes, beach shoes, peacock sport shirts, new power lawnmowers.

"And what'll I be doing? Standing in front of the bathroom mirror, making faces at myself, and by nightfall I'll be able to ring the bell once loud and clear and say "Mississippi!"

When my dentist first proposed about a year ago to take out my four upper front teeth, I ran out of his office, figuring the guy either had delusions of grandeur or else was taking money from Moscow to sabotage the American way of life.

"Rover," said my heartless wife "every time you get an ingrown toenail you think it is a conspiracy on the part of the medical profession to destroy you."

"The dentist is really doing you a favor," she said. "Those teeth have to go, or else you could get something real serious."

"Let him do you the favor," I snarled. "These fangs have served me 40 years, and I'll not desert them now."

After 11 losing months of this war of martial nerves, I gave up and agreed to let the dentist have his fun this week.

The night before the scheduled pulling out party, Frances threw a farwail banquet for my four doomed front teeth.

I picked up a big golden ear, covered it with butter, salted and peppered it thoroughly, then took a big bite.

Crack! I suddenly felt an empty space in front of my mouth, and something popped out on the floor. It was one of my four front teeth.

There comes a time in any man's life when most of his remaining adventures are dentures. My time is now.

Joseph, a Favorite Son

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Genesis 37.

Jacob loved Joseph, son of his old age, better than his brothers. He made him a coat of many colors. The brothers were jealous and hated Joseph, and would not speak to him pleasantly.

Joseph told his brothers of two of his dreams. In one his sheaf of wheat in the field stood upright and their sheaves bowed before it. In the other, the sun, moon and stars made obeisance to him.

Jacob sent Joseph to find his brothers who were tending the flocks and herds. When they saw him coming, they plotted to kill him; Reuben persuaded them instead to cast him into a pit.

The brothers then sold Joseph to some wandering Midianite merchantmen, who drew him out of the pit. They took him to Egypt where they sold him to Potiphar.

Joseph, A Favorite Son

JACOB LOVED HIM MORE THAN HE DID HIS OTHER SONS

Scripture—Genesis 37.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

AGAIN we have the story of a discordant family, the trouble brought about because a father loved one son more than all the others.

Jacob was the inconsiderate parent and Joseph, Rachel's first son, was his father's favorite. You remember how Jacob worked for years to win Rachel for his wife, and he loved her. Joseph was also a son of Jacob's old age, and very close to him. So he had a coat of many colors made for him.

Joseph also angered his brothers by telling his father of his brother's evil doings. Naturally enough, the brothers disliked Joseph and could not speak pleasantly to him.

Joseph further angered his brothers by telling them his dreams, which always exalted himself and humiliated them. He was 17 years old at the time, and not very wise. All the pupils can understand the brothers' dislike of the younger brother, who was turned against him. Possibly they were careful not to let their father see their true feelings for their younger brother.

The brothers went to feed their father's flocks in Shechem, and Jacob sent Joseph to find them, to see how they were faring, and bring word back to him. Joseph went but couldn't find them. A man told him where he had heard them say they were going and then Joseph found them.

When they saw him coming they conspired to kill him, but Reuben, one of them, persuaded them not to do that, but to cast him into a deep pit nearby. So they stripped him of his gay coat and cast him into the pit.

A wandering tribe of Midianite merchantmen passed that way, and the brothers sold Joseph to them for 20 pieces of silver. Reuben evidently had been absent when this transaction took place. When Reuben returned he found Joseph was not in the pit, and he rent his clothes. So they took "daddy's pet," and seemed also so sure of his superiority. The first dream he told them was that he was with them in a field binding sheaves. His sheaf stood upright, and those of his brothers bowed down to it.

"And his brethren said to him, Shalt thou indeed reign over us? or shalt thou indeed have dominion over us? And they hated him yet more for his dreams and for his words."

"Can you blame them? although if such a dream was told in our day, the teller would probably be laughed at, even if the words rankled somewhat.

His next dream was even more fantastic. He said that the sun, moon and 11 stars all made obeisance to him. These dreams he told to his father who rebuked Joseph, asking "Shall I and thy mother and thy brethren indeed come to bow down ourselves to thee?"

It is too bad that Jacob did not point out to Joseph how his words and actions made his brothers of the younger brother, who was turned against him. Possibly they were careful not to let their father see their true feelings for their younger brother.

Trail Trips Offered On Shared-Expense Basis

REAL OUTDOOR LIVING: This view of Teton Range, which dominates Jackson Hole Valley and Grand Teton National Park, illustrates type of country into which Sierra Club trips will be made this summer.

By JIM THOMAS
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Looking for a rugged outdoor vacation?

You might consider one of the 28 expeditions being arranged this year by the Sierra Club into the back country of the western United States and Canada.

All the trips will be under the direction of expert campers and mountain men. They will explore campers to a wide variety of scenery in California, Oregon, Washington, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and British Columbia.

Lasting from six days to two weeks, the expeditions will include pack trips into the High Sierra and the high country of Glacier National Park and the Tetons of Wyoming, special trips for knapsackers through California and Oregon wilderness areas and Dinosaur National Monument river exploration trips out of Vernal, Utah.

Costs, worked out on a non-profit basis, range from $29 to $89—considerably below what would be possible using commercial facilities.

Shared Costs
The Sierra Club, founded by the famous naturalist, John Muir in 1892, has been sponsoring outings since 1900 and now has opened them up to non-member applicants as well as members. Information on the outings can be obtained by writing the Sierra Club, 1050 Mills Tower, San Francisco 4, Calif.

Following the tradition of its founder, the club's specialty is high country along the backbone of the Sierra Nevada and other famous Western mountain ranges. Four such trips are planned. Two of them will be in the high Sierra, one to Evolution Valley and the other to Palisade Basin. One trip will be made into the Glacier National Park mountains in Montana and one into the Tetons of Wyoming.

Most of the high trip participants hike between camps, although a few hire saddle horses. The club provides pack stock, packers, food and a commissary crew to prepare meals. Both of the Sierra trips will be made in July, while the Montana and British Columbia trips will be made in August.

Not All Strenuous
Less strenuous mountain vacations also are provided at fixed base camps in an untouched Sierra wilderness south of Yosemite National Park and in the Kings Canyon National Park, as well as the Glacier Peak Primitive Area in Washington and in the Selkirk Range of British Columbia.

Knapsackers, the elite of the mountaineers who carry on their backs all food, shelter and clothing, will rove over the Sierra, Marble Mountains and the Three-Sisters-Wallowa Primitive area in Oregon. Six special trips for the knapsackers have been arranged in July and August.

Burro trips, on which the participants walk but food and equipment is carried by burro, have been arranged for groups of individuals and for families.

PADUCAH, Ky.—Greetings from the land of Irvin Cobb, Alvin Barkley, and sliced—instead of hashed—barbecue. Not that we can forget any of these features, now that we're here. . . . The Irvin S. Cobb Hotel dominates downtown, the Alvin Barkley Memorial Motel dominates the approach to town, and the only kind of barbecue you can get is sliced (which we personally like better, with apologies to the folks at home. . . .) And just last week the Paducah Board of Commissioners proclaimed that June 23 hereafter and forevermore will be known as "Irvin S. Cobb Day," to memorialize the birthday of the Bard of Paducah, June 23, 1876. . . . And just to show you that creative talent is not yet dead here, even though Cobb is, we send herewith a sample of some poetry, written by Ruliet Elliott, who is not a professional poet, but has a far different occupation—he is Chief of the Paducah Police Department. His poem is called "Cops Are People Too":

Would you believe e'er in this world
That cops are people too?
That they have feelings and a soul;
Are human just like you?
The man you see with club and gun
And dressed in navy blue
Is working for you day and night
To make life safe for you. . . .
He's just a neighbor and a man
Full of kindness thru and thru.
He'll help you every time he can
To make your skies all blue. . . .
So please be kind in word and deed
To all the boys in blue.
And don't forget e'er in this world
That cops are people too.
We think that's pretty good for anybody, and that Chief Elliott has hit the nail on the head, as far as cops are concerned. . . .

Why a College Education?
In this season when young folks either are graduating from or thinking about going to college, we think President Dwight D. Eisenhower's Nathan Pusey of Harvard College—a northern institution of which many of you might not have heard—also hit the nail on the head when he said, in the most recent issue of "This Week" Magazine, concerning the true meaning of a college education:

"Instead of a frightening prospect of millions of young people solely concerned with a scramble for better jobs, we can look forward confidently to a challenging tomorrow when millions of young Americans turn to college because they want to realize their full capacity as human beings, to find major pleasure in learning, to live richly and responsibly, and to do their part to help create a better world. . . ."

Today's Review
We come nearer home in the following comments on a recent book of poems written by Dorothy E. Summerrow of Gastonia, N.C. Our reviewer is Dr. George Cook of the English Department at E. C.C. . . .

TEN ANGELS SWEARING, By Dorothy Edwards Summerrow. New York: Exposition Press, 1957.
"Ten Angels Swearing" is a collection of sixty sonnets written chiefly in the Shakespearean form. The title of the collection comes from something said by Lincoln, which the sonneteer quotes. The quotation is relative to a person's doing what he thinks is right, which, if it is wrong, ten angels swearing will not make right or, if it is right, ten angels swearing will but make a superfluity. The

"Stranger" With 43 Schoolgirls
HEALDTON, Okla. (AP)—Bobby Elmore didn't mind riding on a bus with 43 girls to the annual Future Homemakers of America convention at Oklahoma City.

He is a homemaker student at Healdton High School and decided to take in the convention. His 43 girl companions tabbed him a "stranger in paradise."

opening sonnet has the same title as the book, and emphasizes the superfluity of such swearing. The quotation is used again on the page with the sonnet entitled "Postscript for a President," in which the poet praises Lincoln for his stalwartness, his undeviating faithfulness to the best that he knew.

The sonnets vary in subject matter from advice proffered the poet's teen-age daughter in "For a Teen-age Daughter" to advice proffered the world of nations in "Blueprints for Understanding." From this sentence it may be deduced—and rightly—that the application or point of view moves from the personal to the impersonal, from the subjective to the objective—and back again.

The poet is sometimes the observed and observer in the single poem, as in "From a Restaurant Window," in which she cites the indifference of the well fed to the hungry of the soup line and includes herself among the pampered restaurant clientele.

A number of the sonnets are topical in that they deal with or reflect the political and world issues of the present day. Witness "Spring Travesty," which states how the sacrifice in Korea of the world's young men obscures for her, the poet, the season's newness and beauty.

Some sonnets are in a humorous vein. Possibly the best of these is "Southern-Style Cook" in which she characterizes a servant who works well but plays better. Some are just clever, such as the one that retells the laurel legend. Others are genuinely touching, as "Prayer for a New Mother." The variation in tone and intensity, then, is as great as that in subject matter.

Mrs. Summerrow handles the sonnet deftly and has shown us something of the stateliness of this form of verse. It is true that she has not written greatly in her collection, but, as in her sonnet "One Day of Glory," she has poered the continuance of the poet and his message.

Educational TV Experts Will Attend Workshop

East Carolina College's summer workshop in Educational Television, scheduled from June 17-28, will bring to the campus as lecturers and consultants more than a dozen national authorities on educational television.

The workshop will include practical experience in TV production, and analysis and discussion of educational opportunities offered by television and of techniques useful to educators in planning and broadcasting programs. Rosalind Roulston of the college faculty is director of the course of study.

National, network, and local commercial stations and their role in educational television will be the topic of sessions June 17-21.

Consultants will include Mrs. Dorothy Culbertson, New York, producer of "Geography for Decision," an NBC educational TV program; Fred Garrigus, Washington, D. C., manager of organizational services for the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters; and George Crothers, New York, director of public service broadcasts for the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Joe Ferrier of Washington, D.C., specialist in the production of film and graphic materials for network programs, will conduct a two-day discussion June 19-20 on the use of visual aids in educational television. He will be on the campus for the entire workshop program.

Representing North Carolina television organizations on programs during the week will be A. Hartwell Campbell, general manager, WNCN, Greenville; Hal Wilson, director of operations, WTN, Washington; Gomer Lesch, program director, WEMY, Greensboro; and Roger Bower, general manager, Sir Walter Television Co., WNAO, Raleigh.

Closed Circuit TV will receive emphasis on programs on June 24-28. Speakers and consultants will be specialists from departments of the Federal government and from educational organizations—now using closed circuit TV instruction.

Among those appearing on programs will be Dr. R. R. Lowdermilk of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Office of Education, Washington, D. C., and William Brish, superintendent of the Board of Education of Washington County, Md. Both have been engaged in the nationally known Hagerstown project of teaching through closed circuit TV.

Other out-of-state lecturers will be Dr. Charles J. McIntyre of Washington, D. C., chief of the Educational Television Branch, Department of Defense, Office of Armed Forces Information and Education; Evelyn Walker, coordinator of the Birmingham, Ala., Area Educational Television; Frank E. Schooley of the University of Illinois, president of National Association of Educational Broadcasters; Mrs. Mary Grubbs of Atlanta, consultant in educational television; Georgia State Department of Education; John K. Weiss of New York, assistant vice president of the Fund for the Advancement of Education; and Vernon Bronsen, director of WTHS-TV, Miami, Fla.

Earl Wynn, chairman of the department of radio, television, and motion pictures, and John Clayton, assistant professor of television, both of the University of North Carolina, will discuss experience and experiment in closed circuit TV in this state.

Tourist Finds GI French 'Out Of Step'

By HUGH MULLIGAN
PARIS (AP) — Open letter to the secretary of defense from an American in Paris —
Dear Mr. Wilson:
Thousands of old soldiers will be returning to Paris this summer to see how the old town of happy furlough memories has fared in the 13 years since the liberation.

Many of them, like myself, probably will dig through their war souvenirs for a tattered copy of Training Manual 30-602, the little French phrase book issued by what was then the War Department.

A Few Changes
It was a handy little reference work in its day, but times have changed. To preserve Franco-American relations, it might not be a bad idea if your department whipped up a new phrase book specifically designed for the ex-GI tourist.

How far can a fellow get in Paris today with sentences like "donnez du fourrage a mon cheval" (feed my horse) and "les troupes creusent-elles des tranchées?" (have the troops been digging trenches?)

You will get a better idea of what I am talking about when I tell you what happened on my first morning back in Paris after an absence of more than a dozen years.

Clutching the old phrase book, I set off boldly down the Champs Elysee from my hotel on a little shopping tour, confident that its phonetic simplicity would serve me as well in my tourist present as it did in my military past.

This phrase book, the first page reassured me. "contains all the words and expressions you are likely to need."
My destination was a little specialty shop in the Rue de Rivoli. My objective: a collapsible umbrella, a charm bracelet, some perfumed bath salts, a printed scarf and a few other trinkets requested by relatives.

Not Much Help
I accosted a blue-capped policeman for directions, but first hastily flipped through my Army language guide for some prefatory greetings. Several were suggested. Among them: ne tirez pas (don't shoot), alignez-vous (line up), planquez-vous (lie down), abritez-vous (take cover), and moutrez vous papiers (produce your identification).

All seemed a trifle curt so I settled for one far down on the list — bonjour — and threw in a dashing "victoire" for good measure.

It was always a conversational pick-me-up in the old days, but he only scowled.

I hurried to the business at hand. How to get to Rue de Rivoli? How to find a specialty shop? The table of contents failed to cover either situation. I could have asked for directions to a foxhole (trou-abri individuel), a minefield (champs de mines), a pillbox (blockhaus) and a booby trap (piège), but unfortunately none of my relatives collects foxes, mines, pills or boobies.

A high school French teacher from Ohio with a variety of handy expressions like "le crayon de ma soeur est bleu" (my sister's pencil is blue) finally directed me to the shop but again the Army guide book deserted me at the crucial moment.

Outmoded Products
No mention of collapsible umbrellas, printed scarfs or perfumed bath salts. Shopping tastes have changed drastically since the war. Then masks de gaz (gas masks), de talc a pied (foot powder), bonnets de police (garrison caps) and laxatifs (laxatives) were all the rage.

Even the grand old expression, "Le gouvernement des Etats-Unis vous palera" (the United States government will pay you), aroused suspicion and failed to evoke Gallic huzzahs as in the days of old.

You will be glad to know, Mr. Wilson, that I did manage to get the charm bracelet. It was a real find, adorned with some very unusual trinkets that most tourists never get to buy. They included une mitraileuse (machine gun), un canon lourd (heavy artillery piece) un fusil (rifle) and un fusée (rocket).

To give the Army its due, at least I fared better than the Ohio teacher. Turns out his sister hates blue pencils.

Typical Holiday Traffic Victim Between 25, 44

CHICAGO—If you are a man between 25 and 44 years old, and you drive a car, be extra careful in traffic over the Fourth of July weekend.

The National Safety Council, which is conducting a nationwide campaign to hold Fourth of July accidents to a minimum, says the typical holiday traffic victim is a male driver between 25 and 44 years old. He usually is the only one killed in the crash in which he is involved, either because he is alone or because the others were lucky enough to escape death.

The accident in which the typical holiday victim dies occurs between 6 p.m. and midnight—with the odds on 6 to 9 p.m.—on the night of the first full day of the holiday period.

The accident is most likely to occur on a rural highway or in an unincorporated area, and the chances are good that the victim has been drinking.

The typical victim is speeding when the accident occurs. It is caused by an out-of-control plunge off the road or a rending crash with another car.

A recent study by the Council of holiday traffic accidents shows that the most dangerous period for the holiday traveler is while en route to his holiday destination, rather than the trip home.

Motor vehicle accidents lead the list of Fourth of July hazards, the Council says. Drowning from swimming and fishing accidents is the second biggest risk. Other causes of death are fireworks and firearms, sunstroke and heat exhaustion, food poisoning and falls.

One hundred and fifty-eight national organizations have joined with the Council in a united effort to curb these accidents. The Fourth of July safety campaign is designed to increase public awareness of the extra holiday hazards and the extra caution needed to overcome them. It also seeks to help officials, traffic officers and safety leaders in their efforts to hold down the death toll.

Vaughn Monroe Content In Less Strenuous Work

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—Vaughn Monroe, who will serve as host of "Galaxy of Stars" (NBC-TV) tomorrow evening (9 p.m. EDT), believes that entertainers have to remember that their job is "to please people, not to show them."

Certainly that is the aim of "Galaxy of Stars" when Monroe will be host to four other top recording vocalists — Tony Martin, Julius La Rosa, Jaye P. Morgan and Georgia Gibbs. It will be an all-musical hour, also featuring jazz pianist Eddie Heywood, songstress Martha Carson, the Lane Brothers and Joe Reisman and his orchestra.

Recalling the days when he was the country's No. 1 band leader, Monroe said, "I always tried to hold in mind that my job was to please people—not to show them. It's something every entertainer has to hold in mind. Especially in the band business it's easy to get the notion that you're so great the public will have to accept and like whatever you want to play."

Just four years ago Monroe started the music world when he announced that he was dissolving his famous musical organization in order to become a single performer.

Today he says that "I still miss the boys, but I'm glad that I dissolved the band. I did it because I was bored with being on the road all the time. I wanted a chance to stay home for a while." Home is in Newton, Mass., where he lives with his wife Marion, and their two daughters, aged 13 and 16. But as a single performer Monroe has been just as busy — and perhaps busier — than when he was leading his band.

Give Stoves To Preserve Trees

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The government is giving away oil stoves to small landowners in some areas in a campaign to preserve the forests.

Forests in many places are being cut for use as firewood, although only dead wood is supposed to be used for that purpose.

Pemex, the government petroleum monopoly, donates the stoves. They are distributed by Agrarian Department officials, who explain at the same time the value of trees to agriculture.

Permission must first be obtained from the Chief of Police if dancing is planned for weddings or family parties in Alma, Quebec.

A Swinging Strike Three

Minor League Program Is Scheduled For Expansion

Recreation Department officials announced today that four new teams are being added to the Minor League Program at Elm Street Park.

This will give the local department a total of 12 teams in the age bracket below Little League play. There will be eight teams in the 7-8-9 year-old bracket and four teams in the 10-11-12-year-old bracket.

Also, being added to the Recreation Department's program, are plans for another complete Minor League for the West Greenville-Hillsdale-Village Grove area.

W. C. James, who is in charge of the over-all minor league program, said today that a schedule is being arranged for the Elm Street park leagues, that will allow games to be played both in the mornings and afternoons.

Tom Guerrieri, a senior at North Carolina State College who is currently employed by the local department, will be in charge of the new program at Guy Smith Stadium.

A meeting has been called for Monday morning at 9:00 at the stadium for all boys interested in the new program. Those who attend are asked to bring their own gloves.

The department will furnish bats and balls.

Monday night, at Guy Smith Stadium, the first All-Star softball game of the season will be held.

The morning games at Elm Street park will begin at 10:00. Afternoon contests get underway at 3:00 on the lot immediately behind the Little League playing diamond.

Spectators are welcomed and no admission is charged, of course, James pointed out.

Games stated further, "We are trying to arrange it as near like the Little Leagues as possible, so that the whole program will work right into it and the boys will be able to make the jump from one loop to the other with less difficulty."

The Graniteers, who led the Industrial League for the first half of play with an 8-1 record, will battle a team of All-Stars selected from the other three loop clubs.

At the end of the first half play early this week, Carolina Dairy finished second, Greenville Parts and Metals was third and the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph club was fourth. The All-Stars were chosen from these three outfits.

Jessie Hardy and A. D. Lincoln will manage the All-Stars. Hardy is the manager of the P&M club. Lincoln manages the Carolina T&T.

Chosen to the All-Star club are the following players: W. H. Phillips and Charles Odum, pitchers; C. W. Wall and Roy Heidenrich, catchers; Bobby Reid, Bob Howell, Bobby Flye, Johnny Foell, Matt Hall, Brownie Tripp, Mitchell White, Bob Dash and Billy Cox, infielders; D. Walker, Blaney Moye, outfield. Of course, several of the infielders are to be used as outfielders or pitchers.

Festivities are to begin at 7:30 on Monday night, with a host of field events. Prizes will be given for such events as fastest man around the bases, longest hit ball and such.

All of a sudden, one becomes aware of the fact that Frank House has been knocking the cover off the ball and has moved into permanent possession of the first string catching job for the Detroit Tigers. This is the same Frank House who collected a bonus of $72,000 from the Tigers back in 1949 but, until this year, failed to set the American League afire.

It might be that Jack Tighe, the new Detroit manager, has something to do with House's great improvement. Tighe was manager of the Flint, Mich., club with which House made his debut into organized baseball after being signed by the Tigers. He knows House, his talents and his limitations. Last winter, before he had actually assumed command of the Detroit club, Tighe expressed the feeling that he could get the best performance out of House. And House indicated that he would be happy working for Tighe again.

'House doesn't have the strongest arm in the league,' said Manager Tighe, "but he has developed a quickness in getting the ball away. It more than makes up for his inability to throw hard. He's right around that bag with every throw, and that makes a big difference. His batting has helped us

The North Carolina High School Athletic Assn. meeting here yesterday notified Myers Park of Charlotte that it has met student enrollment requirements for Class AAA competition.

Lexington, which sought a place in the Class AAA ranks, was told its enrollment placed it in the Class AA division. Lexington currently belongs to the North Piedmont Conference.

L. J. (Hap) Perry, executive secretary of the NCHSAA, was voted a $500 raise to $8,000 yearly. The group has $7,428.86 in the bank and $32,428.86 in assets.

Financial reports of the three state baseball tournaments showed the Class A series between Kernersville and Williamston cleared $625.18; the Class AA tournament between North Mecklenburg and Kinston at Charlotte cleared $10.34; and the Class AAA series at Wilmington between Greensboro and Wilmington dropped $59.75.

Next year's championship games were set. Home Builders Get Fifth Win Of The Season

Home Builders notched another Teen-er League victory last night, whipping the winless College View Cleaners club, 6-0, at Guy Smith Stadium.

Larry Roberts hurled three-hit ball for the winners, as his club backed him up both in the field and at the plate. The Home Builders punched out six hits to take the edge.

Roberts struck out six and walked the same number in his route to the victory. Opposing hurlers Batts, Saue and Hodges fanned five and walked five. Batts was charged with the loss.

For the red-hot Home Builders, it was their fifth victory of the year against only one loss, and last night's win pushed them to the top of the heap in Teen-er League play. College View has lost every one of its six contests thus far.

Three Home Builders batters collected all six of the winning team's six hits. Joyner, Starling and Roberts poled two hits each.

Home Builders scored their first run in the third inning, when shortstop Merrill Bynum stole two bases and came around on a pass ball. They tallied again in the fourth and fifth innings and then topped it off with three big runs in the sixth.

College View threatened in the fifth and sixth frames but was unable to move into a score.

Tony Anthony Battling Yvon Durelle Tonight

DETROIT (AP)—Tony Anthony, the light heavyweight ranks last year, Anthony has won 30 of 34 fights with 23 knockouts to his credit.

"We thought our net trip back to Detroit would match Tony against Archie," said Ernie Braca, Anthony's manager.

"But this youngster can't improve much in the gym so we took this fight, anyway."

Braca said Moore is due back from a European trip this first of the week. "He'll sign this time," said Braca. "He doesn't have any choice. Anyway, he'll get the money he's after because the fight will draw big in Los Angeles."

Each fighter is expected to weigh in at 175 pounds. Anthony is four inches taller than his opponent. Durelle is credited with 40 wins in 56 fights against one draw and 14 losses. One bout was called "no contest."

Jaycees Topple Lions Yesterday

The Jaycees dumped the Lions 2-0 yesterday at Little League Park, in a North State loop ball game.

Smith and Gilliam scored for the Jaycees in the first inning of play to notch the victory. They collected six hits in the process.

The Lions picked up five baseknocks but were unable to convert any of them into scores.

Larkin was the winning pitcher. Clapp lost.

Moton Puts Stop To Patriot Rise

CAROLINA LEAGUE By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Winston-Salem's George Moton applied the brakes last night to Greensboro's surge toward second place in the Carolina League.

Moton, who had to have some help in the eighth, gave up five hits as Winston-Salem handed Greensboro a 4-2 setback at Winston-Salem to snap the Patriots' win streak at five games. John Bartek and Jack Swift came on to give Moton a hand. Bartek yielded one hit. Winston-Salem got 11 hits off two pitchers.

The Durham Bulls, meanwhile, shoved across a run in the top of the ninth to edge the Hi-Toms 7-6 at Thomasville and protect their two-game margin in first place. The Bulls collected 17 hits and left 10 runners stranded. Bill Graham went the distance for Durham and gave up only five hits but seven walks caused him trouble.

CHAPTER 12
The day before Christmas, Sarah sent Curly King and me into the Cedar Hills to find a tree. We were glad to be in the saddle on this fine day. The sunlight was very sharp on the thin covering of snow and there was no wind to speak of.

if Sarah hadn't said, "Will, please stay."
So I stayed and smoked, sitting on the couch. When I glanced at Sarah, I saw that her gaze was on me, and that the smile had gone from her lips.

"Will," she said, "this is the time of year when good friends are cherished above everything else. If you have only a few, each means more than when you have hundreds. I can't tell you how grateful I am to know I can leave everything to you, and not worry."

It was a moment before I could speak. Sarah, you know...
She motioned for me to be silent. "I've got to talk, Will, and this is a good time. I've had this on my mind ever since Joe died, but I've been afraid to say it because of the way you felt about him." She hesitated, then asked, "I can say it, can't I?"

I was afraid to hear what she had to say, but I didn't have the heart to say No. I said, "Sure, go ahead," and rolled a cigarette.
"I was in love with Joe and I think he loved me when we were married," she said. "Maybe I imagined it when I married him, because it's natural for a woman to want love. Whether I didn't really understand him or whether he changed is something I'm not sure about. Well, you know how it was, but you'll still think it's terrible for me to say I was glad he was killed." She swallowed. "I was, Will, I was."

I glanced at her and looked away. She hurried on. "You never questioned Joe or what he did because you admired him, but he had one quality that made me hate him. He had to control everything. Maybe that was what made him use his gun as often as he did and made him run everything in the valley. I think he actually enjoyed having people afraid of him. That's why I'm crippled. He made me ride Prince."

I stared at her, remembering that Joe had sold Prince to Alec Dodson not long after Sarah's accident, but I had never connected the two events before. Prince was a black gelding that had been a bad actor from the day Joe broke him, and only a vicious man would have made a woman get him.

told me to put on my riding skirt. I thought we were going for a ride, but instead he brought Prince to the front of the house. When I came out, he told me to get on. I refused, and he cursed me and said he'd tie me into the saddle if I didn't try.

She was staring at me now, her eyes begging me to believe.
"He was a coward, Will. You won't believe that, but it's true. When I came to, he said if I told anybody what had happened he'd say I was a liar. I was supposed to say my mare stumbled and fell with me. I did what he said. At the time I didn't know how badly I was hurt. I was afraid of him, too."

She wiped her face with a handkerchief as she slumped against the pillow at the back of her chair. She said: "I had to tell you because it has a lot to do with the way I feel about the valley. When Joe was alive people were afraid of him. I've watched him bully people into agreeing with him. I've been in meetings when people voted his way because they didn't dare vote any other way."

I only half listened to Sarah as she went on. "Somehow I've got to make up for what Joe did. I've been a prisoner here a long time, and it will be a long time before I can change the feeling that Joe gave other people about me and the ranch. We won't fight anybody—not to keep them out of the valley, anyhow." She gripped the arms of her chair and leaned forward. "Will, I'm going to walk again. You'll see."

I got up and looked down at her. "Sarah, I'll do anything I can for you except one thing. I won't give up the Box P. Telling me about Joe didn't change that."

I walked to the front door, and just as I reached it she said, "Will," I looked back, and she said softly, "Merry Christmas, Will."

I said, "Merry Christmas," and left the house.
After I was in bed, I thought about what Sarah had said. As I thought, I began to wonder. Though I had never known Sarah to lie to me, I found it hard to believe Joe Fardee did what Sarah had said.

Split Personality Seen In Business Prospects
By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—A split personality in business shows up today in two ways:

1. The split between current conditions and future plans.
2. The split between falling manufacturing employment plus shorter work weeks in factories on the one hand and the increasing totals of over-all employment and personal incomes on the other.

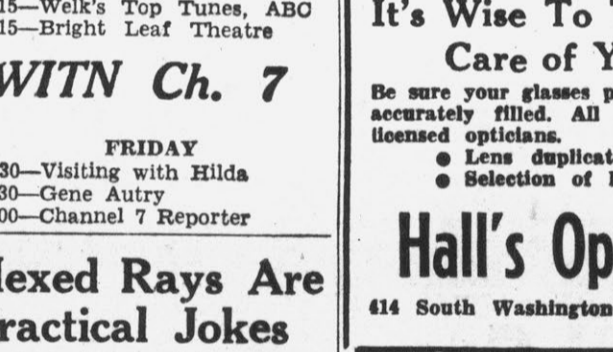

These could add up to a breather in manufacturing—without qualms as to the long-term trend—while good times continue in many other ways of making a living.

The number of workers in factories dropped by 122,000 in May, about twice the usual dip for that season, the Commerce and Labor departments report. The average factory work week declined to 39.7 hours, the shortest week since September 1954.

But are manufacturers downhearted by this slide off from boom times? Apparently not. The Department of Commerce and the Securities and Exchange Commission report that for 1957 manufacturers plan to spend more than 16 1/2 billion dollars for new plant and equipment, aimed to meet their ideas of how good business will be when the plants are finished.

City's Summer Recreation Program To Begin Monday

GOODMAN ORIENTATES STAFF . . .
... their summer work begins on Monday.

(Reflector Photos)

Nine local playgrounds, a sort of home away from home for most Greenville youngsters, are scheduled to open Monday.

Several major changes have been made this summer and, according to Recreation Director Gordon Goodman, the eight week schedule will be filled with numerous diversified activities.

Goodman stated this morning, "We are striving for closer supervision this year. As a result of this close supervision it is felt that the youngsters will get more out of our summer program."

Parks to be opened for white children Monday are: Elm Street, Third Street, Guy Smith Stadium, Hillsdale, Meadowbrook and Woodlawn. The following parks will be opened for Negro children: Eppes, Riverside and South Greenville.

This year Goodman announced that Arts and Crafts will be taught by Betty Fleming at individual parks Monday through Friday. This class was taught once a day last year at the Elm Street Park.

Parks opened last year and in past years on a part time basis,

Hillsdale, Woodlawn and Meadowbrook, will be opened each day. Hillsdale will be opened from 9 a.m. until noon while Meadowbrook and Woodlawn are to be opened to youngsters from 2:30 p.m. until 5:30 p.m.

The park schedule for white children seven through 14, Monday through Friday will be:

Elm Street 9:00-12:00, 3:00-6:00;
Elm Street athletics-9:00-12:00;
3:00-6:00; Third Street-9:00-12:00;
2:30-5:30; Guy Smith Stadium-9:00-12:00, 2:30-5:30; Hillsdale-9:00-12:00; Meadowbrook-2:30-5:30; and Woodlawn-2:30-5:30.

For white children under six years of age the following schedule has been set up:

Elm Street-Monday-Friday-9:00-12:00; Hillsdale-Wednesday-9:00-12:00; Meadowbrook-Wednesday-2:30-5:30; Guy Smith Stadium-Wednesday-2:30-5:30; Woodlawn-Wednesday-2:30-5:30; and Third Street-Monday and Wednesday-9:00-12:00.

Goodman said the parks would only be opened for youngsters of pre-school age at these specified times. If the children under six years old did come to the parks they will have to be supervised by someone other than members of the Recreation departments.

Arts and Crafts will be taught from 2:30 until 5:30 at five of Greenville's parks each week. The following days have been set up Monday-Third Street; Tuesday-Meadowbrook; Wednesday-Elm Street; Thursday-Guy Smith; and Friday-Woodlawn.

The specific breakdown for white playground personnel shows: Laura Gurganus and Pat Gurganus supervisor of children three-six at Elm Street; Sarah Ewell children seven-14 at Elm Street; Bert Weeks with athletics at Elm Street; Billy Dunn, athletics at Elm Street in the morning from 9-12; Woodlawn from 2:30-5:30;

Barbara Candar at Third Street; Tom Guerrero at Guy Smith Stadium; and Katie Phillips at Hillsdale from 9-12-Meadowbrook from 2:30-5:30.

A vast series of projects and entertainment has been set up by Recreation Department officials and includes athletic games, dual and single games, low organized games, social activities, mental games, music, arts and crafts, drama, nature study, collecting and special events.

Mrs. Laura Barrier will serve as Playground Supervisor. She stated this morning that free movies for all youngsters will be shown during the eight week period. The schedule will be announced at a later date.

Negro recreation, too, is scheduled for another big year. Three playgrounds, all under the direction of Luke Hemby, will be in operation.

They are South Greenville, Albert Hill and Mable Godette in charge; Eppes, under Cora Neelon; and Riverside supervised by Eleanor Hagen. According to the supervisors the same activities of games, crafts and general recreation set up for white playgrounds are planned.

Negro children six and under will have access to the playgrounds from 9:00 until 12:00 Monday and Wednesday, Hemby announced today.

Teenage nights will be held at Eppes on Tuesday, Friday and Saturday from 8 until 11 p.m. An adult recreation schedule will be released later.

Weekly themes for the eight week program that terminates August 10 are:

First week, June 17-1, Preparation; Second week, June 24-28, Nature; Third week, July 1-5, Independence Day and United Nations; Fourth week, July 8-12, Dramatics and Music; Fifth week, July 15-19, Indian; Sixth week, July 22-26, Safety; Seventh week, July 29-August 2, Rockets Away (Space Ships, Men from Mars, Robots); and Eighth week, August 5-9, Playdays.

Goodman stated this morning 15 members have been added to the Recreation Commission's summer program staff. Other members of the staff are: Goodman-Recreation Director; Mrs. Colleen White-Secretary; W. C. James-Athletic Director; Sam Brooks and Mrs. Brooks, Sub Teen Dance Group; Ben Beacham-Maintenance Department; and Charlie Bland-Athletic Assistant.

The opening day for the playgrounds, Monday, the Recreation Director said, will be spent in registering the youngsters and familiarizing them with the summer program.

A check doesn't have to be dated to be legal. It can also be dated February 30 and still be good.

Funeral Saturday For Sam A. Ward

Funeral services will be held at the First Baptist Church in Robersonville at 3 p.m. Saturday by the pastor, Rev. Ralph Ferguson. Burial will be in Robersonville cemetery. Active pall bearers will be members of the Board of Deacons. The body will be taken from the home to the church one hour before the service.

100 PEOPLE AT OUR DOOR OPENING MORNING 9:30 a.m.

BOSS OF THE SIXTH FLEET

QUIET HAVEN. Part of the U. S. Sixth Fleet drops anchor at an isolated island anchorage in the Mediterranean.

RIDING HIGH. The admiral rides the highline between his flagship, the heavy cruiser USS Salem, and the destroyer Goodrich for a snap inspection at sea.

Vice Admiral Charles Randall Brown is a man of many hats. He is first of all Commander of the U. S. Sixth Fleet, whose atomic capabilities form the major deterrent to communist aggression in the Middle East and southern Europe. As boss of 60 ships, he is a combination of severe taskmaster and wise counselor to 25,000 men. He is also a senior Naval aviator, who knows his carriers as well as their own commanders. At 56, he still flies 150 hours each year "to keep my hand in."

The NATO alliance provides Admiral Brown with still another role as Commander of Naval Striking and Support Forces South. His job is to provide close and distant support to land forces of Southern Europe. In still another major aspect of his duties, he is a diplomat. Rulers and top government officials of almost all Mediterranean nations have visited the gray warships of the Sixth Fleet to receive a friendly welcome from this soft voiced Alabamian who commands one of the most awesome collections of naval firepower the world has ever known.

He fastens seat belt before taking off in attack bomber with Lieutenant Commander Andy Huff of Corsicana, Tex.

THE COMMANDER. Admiral Brown wears his three-starred cap with a jaunty air, but grim seriousness lurks beneath that smile of his. Of his fleet, he says, "We have long legs and we hit hard...We are very tough."

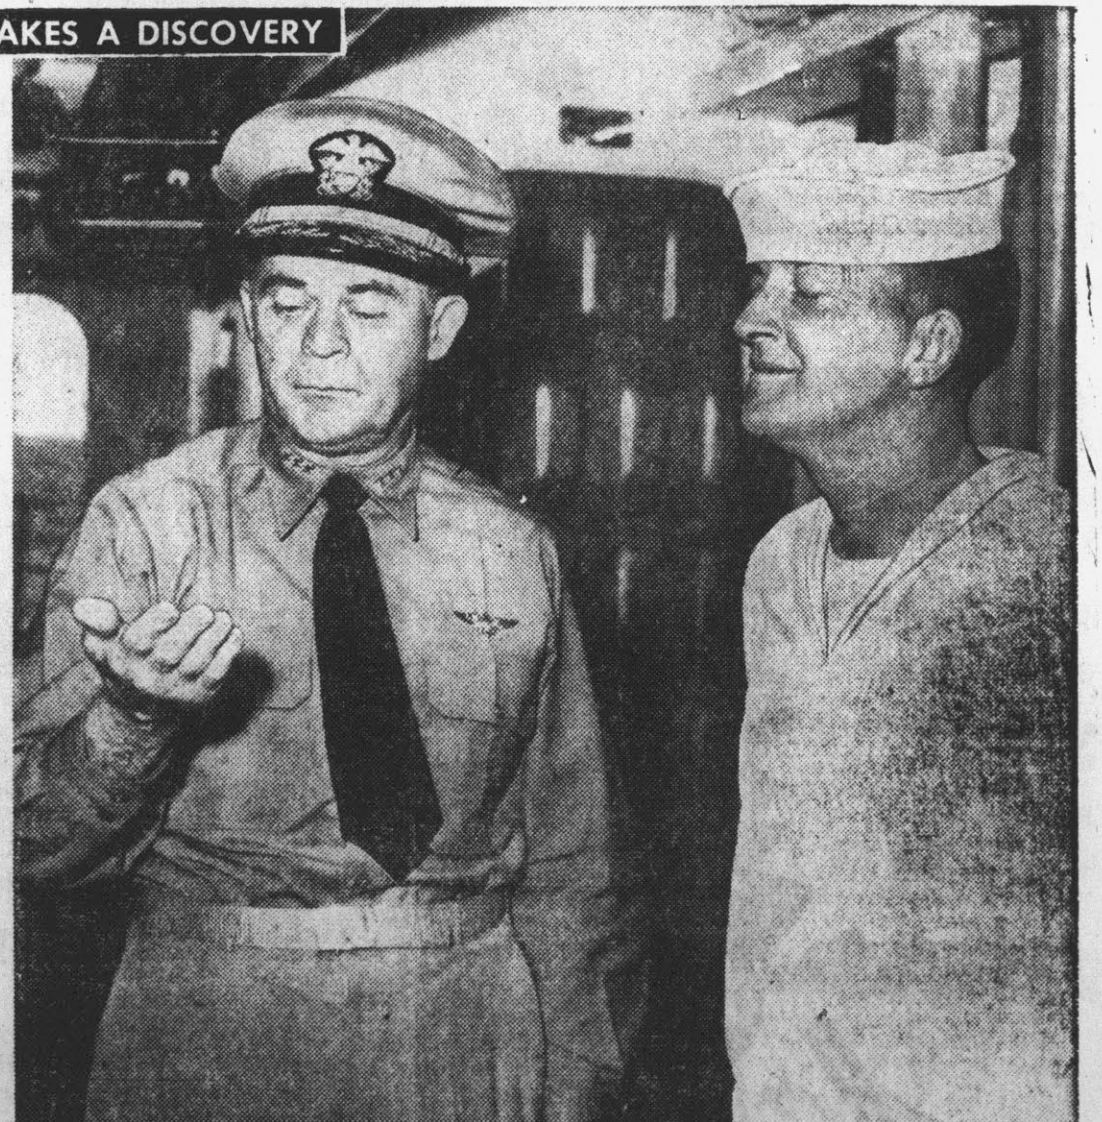

FLAGSHIP FORMALITY. The admiral welcomes President Camille Chamoun of Lebanon aboard the USS Salem for formal call.

THE ADMIRAL MAKES A DISCOVERY

Admiral Brown checks overhead pipe for dust during inspection. Boatswain's Mate First Class Claude Locke looks on, and... Ooops! Dirty fingers!

Car Struck Roof Of His House

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Joseph Petschar had a narrow escape while repairing a house roof. He was almost hit by a car. Petschar, 72, had just climbed down from the roof yesterday when there was a terrible crash. A car landed right where he had been working moments before. The auto belonged to Gilbert Chavez, 51, who had been visiting a home on a steep hillside street in back of the Petschar residence. The car started rolling down the hill. Chavez shouted for it to stop. It didn't — not until it shot off a 25-foot embankment to land on Petschar's roof. No one was injured and after the excitement was over Petschar climbed back on the roof — which needed a lot of repairing.

Mass Production Problem Arose

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Mass production was the key to the confusion of a couple of motorists. Gerald B. Junion put his key into the ignition, started the car and drove off. It was some time later that he noticed his car was a slightly different color from usual. Meanwhile Mrs. Mildred Henderson stepped into "her" car. She didn't notice the color but called police when her keys would not fit. A little police work restored the drivers, slightly shaken, to their own autos of the same make, model and similar hue. In golf, Bobby Jones is the only man to hold the American amateur and open titles, and the British amateur and open titles simultaneously.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market lapsed into irregularity early this afternoon as turnover slackened to a moderate pace.

Key stocks showed changes ranging from fractions to around a point.

After three straight days of advance to new 1957 highs, the market was due for a breathing spell, brokers said.

The market was generally higher in an active opening but after a large number of opening blocks was out of the way there was some softening of prices.

Treasury Secretary Humphrey's statement that tax cuts cannot be voted until there is a sufficient surplus brought no immediate market reaction. But prices continued to ease gently thereafter.

A feature was a delayed opening in Olin-Mathieson which dropped as much as 3 in disappointment over discounting of rumors which sent the stock soaring yesterday.

Olin-Mathieson rose 4 1/2 yesterday on rumors that its subsidiary, E. R. Squibb, had developed a new anti-cancer drug. After yesterday's close, however, Squibb said the new compound is "still in its infancy clinically."

Disappointment brought heavy offerings this morning and the stock did not open for 48 minutes while buy and sell orders were matched.

The stock was down 2 at 56 1/2 on an opening block of 18,000 shares, extended its loss to 3 in later trades, then sliced its loss to a point or so.

Revolving continued higher, adding about a point, as rumors persisted of a merger with a liquor company. Ford rose 1/2 at 56 1/2 on a block of 4,000 shares. Du Pont was up around a point and U.S. Gypsum a major fraction.

Steels held steady by a bare margin. Youngstown gained a fraction. Motors were firm. But there were a string of losses among oils, rubbers and aircrafts. Leading rails were slightly lower but Illinois Central continued to decline rather sharply on lower estimates of first half earnings. The stock was down well over a point. Southern Pacific, New York Central and Baltimore & Ohio were fractionally higher.

United Aircraft, Goodrich, Caterpillar and International Nickel were down around a point each. Allied Chemical rose a point or so.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 10 cents at $186.50 with the industrials up 40 cents, the rails down 20 cents and the utilities down 10 cents.

 Is the oldtime salvation.

Council Votes To Hire Inspector

A full-time building and plumbing inspector will be employed by the city as the result of Council action last night.

City fathers approved the hiring of the inspector at a salary of $4,400 per year upon recommendation of City Manager Leonard Bloxam.

Bloxam said the individual he had in mind seemed "very capable in handling this work." However, he said the man would be employed on a six-months trial basis.

The city manager pointed out that building inspectors are "very hard to locate and those who are established in communities are very reluctant in wanting to move."

He said the city has been searching for a building inspector for ten months.

Building inspection has been handled by Fire Chief George Gardner in the past and the plumbing inspection has been done by the Utilities Commission. Fees for the work will be sufficient to pay the full-time inspector's salary.

Trailed Him

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A lightning "fireball" chased a fleeing bather through his home yesterday and struck his wife who was cooking his birthday dinner.

Raymond E. Creek, Crestwood, said he was taking a bath when an electrical storm began. Fearing lightning, he got out and walked to the kitchen, where his wife Lillian was by the stove.

Lightning apparently struck the screen in front of the open bathroom window, he said. A fireball followed his wet footsteps into the kitchen and wrapped all around his wife.

Mrs. Creek was taken to a hospital with third-degree burns.

Red China Frees 2 Missionaries

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China today released two American Jesuit missionaries after four years of imprisonment and house arrest.

Father Charles J. McCarthy, 45, San Francisco, and Father John Alexander Houle, 42, Glendale, Calif., left the Shanghai house where they had been kept in recent months and went to the Jesuit mission headquarters in the Chinese metropolis.

Contacted by telephone from Hong Kong, Father McCarthy said he and Father Houle expected to leave Shanghai for Hong Kong in about 10 days, depending on travel facilities available.

Freeing of the two priests left six Americans still confined in Communist China, three under house arrest in Shanghai and three others believed imprisoned in the Peiping-Tientsin area. The number of Americans in Communist Chinese custody has dropped gradually from a high of 95 in 1951.

Father McCarthy reported that he and Father Houle were both in fair health.

Mass Burial For Unclaimed Dead

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Unclaimed bodies of 13 migrant Negro crop workers, who were among 20 killed near here last week in this country's worst high-way truck collision, will be given mass burial here tomorrow.

Negro ministers of Fayetteville, headed by the Rev. C. R. Edwards of the First (Negro) Baptist Church here, will officiate at 11 a.m. services, and the choirs of several Negro churches will sing.

Among the 13 bodies are four still unidentified. The crop workers, who had home addresses in several Southeastern states and some Northern states, spent most of their time traveling and working.

Their group of some 41 workers was on a flat-bed truck which pulled from a side road into the path of a potato-laden tractor-trailer on U.S. 301 near here June 6.

The driver of the workers' truck, the only one who knew the identities of all his passengers, was among the 20 killed.

Members of the Fayetteville Junior Chamber of Commerce volunteered to arrange transportation of the 13 caskets from a casket firm in Edgecombe County, about 100 miles away. The Jaycees also are accepting contributions toward the burial, and Cumberland County welfare authorities here have directed funeral homes to give the bodies "proper and decent" burial.

Some $500 also has been reported raised by a committee headed by Dr. Rudolph Jones, president of Fayetteville State Teachers College.

Miller, another high school student, also in Finland two years ago. Miss Miller loaned it to another friend last summer and the suitcase traveled to the Netherlands.

Move To Return Two Adventurers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department today ordered cut short adventurous European tour of two South Carolina college boys who entered Communist Hungary.

In a move to get them back to the United States promptly, a spokesman said, instructions have been sent to the American Embassy in Vienna to stamp the passports of Mike A. Gilbert and Warren W. Hair as valid only for return to the United States.

Gilbert, whose home is at Walterboro, S.C., and Hair, of North Augusta, ventured into Communist Hungary from Austria on May 26 and were expelled by Hungarian authorities on June 7 after two weeks of mystery as to their fate. Back in Vienna, the pair indicated they had an even more elaborate travel plan.

Within hours after they had returned to Vienna a week ago, U.S. authorities picked up their passports. Since that time, officials have been considering what action to take next.

Officials have considered not only that the Hungarian border crossing escapade was a violation of passport regulations but also

Schedule Four Final 'Crusade' Services

The climax weekend of the Crusade For Christ at the big tent on West Greenville school grounds offers four services of a special nature in which Dr. Jimmie Johnson aims to reach many of Greenville's residents who have not yet attended the four weeks' long campaign.

He will preach tonight on the topic "The Trail of the Serpent," an address in which he shows what the Bible has to say about the person, power, program and devices of the Devil.

On Sunday afternoon at 3:30 his subject will be "What the Bible Teaches About the Return of Christ."

A "Booster Band" rally for boys and girls of grammar school age will be conducted Saturday at 10 a.m. for the large crowds of children that have been in attendance at the tent services. Dr. Johnson himself has prepared some special attractions for the service as used in similar services in his other crusades, and will personally conduct the service.

Saturday night's service will put an emphasis on gospel music. Mr. Ralph McGilvra, song leader and soloist, will sing, and will feature the large chorus choir which has been filling the platform at each service. Crusade organist and pianist, Merrill Dunlop, will be presented for specialties at both instruments. Dr. Johnson will preach.

The final service of the series will be at 8 o'clock Sunday night. The United Crusade for Christ, planned originally for two weeks, the first two of which were in Austin auditorium on the college campus, was extended by vote of the sponsoring Greenville Ministerial Association. The large tent seating 1200 was then secured and moved to its present site for the two weeks' extension.

McKeon was found guilty of negligence, broken in rank and sentenced to three months' imprisonment after an unauthorized disciplinary march of a boot platoon into a Parris Island creek April 8, 1956, in which six recruits drowned.

to change traffic rules and regulations.

A request by the department for an additional 100 State Highway Patrolmen was ignored as the Appropriations Committee hunted for money to provide subsistence allowance for present patrolmen.

The General Assembly also enacted laws to make it illegal to go the wrong way on a one way highway; to legalize dual lights on autos; and to provide standards for safety belts.

It increased drivers licenses 50 cents to $2.50 to provide money for increased services by the Motor Vehicle Department.
