

Host Of Major Appointments By Hodges Awaited In Week Ahead

News Conferences Monday and Thursday May Include Announcements

RALEIGH (AP)—A host of appointments, including major governmental positions created by the General Assembly, may be announced next week by Gov. Hodges.

He will hold news conferences on Monday and Thursday and is expected to name many of his candidates. A number of appointments have been pending for some time while Hodges waited for the general assembly adjournment.

The governor probably will reappoint many office holders whose terms have expired, but new faces are certain to be seen in some of the top spots on Capitol Hill.

These include the Revenue Department where the state's top tax collector, revenue commissioner Eugene Shaw, has announced his resignation.

He will step down and return to private law practice in Greensboro.

The governor is expected to name a new seven-member highway commission which the General Assembly authorized to replace the present 15-member commission setup.

One of the top appointees will be a director of highways to fill the job now occupied by Highway Commission Chairman A. H. Graham, who announced several months ago he was stepping down at the end of his present term.

In the future, the Highway Commission chairman will merely preside over commission meetings while the director of highways will be the commission's top administrative officer.

Another top spot is a director for the new State Department of Administration embracing the present Budget Bureau and the Division of Purchase and Contract.

Among those whose terms are expiring is D. S. Coltrane, assistant director of the budget who heads the budget bureau.

Also to be named is a seven member state prison board created by the General Assembly to direct prison operations when it separated the prison system from the State Highway Commission.

Other top state government officials whose terms expire by July 1 include George Randall, chairman of the Board of Paroles; J. W. Beam, chairman of the Industrial Commission; three members of the State Utilities Commission, Edward H. McMahan of Brevard, Harry T. Westcott of Raleigh, and Sam Worthington of Greenville; and Burial Assn. commissioner J. Wilbur Forbes.

The governor will name eight members of the Board of Conservation and Development. The terms of five present members have expired and the General Assembly increased its membership from 15 to 18.

Other boards with vacancies include: Employment Security Commission, terms of four of seven members expiring; Ports Authority, terms of all seven members expiring; and Rural Electrification Authority where all four members are ending their terms.

Other appointments include: Five places on the Board of Elections, six on the Medical Care Commission, three each on the Hospital Board of Control and the Personnel Council, two on the Merit System Council and one each on the Veterans Commission and the State Board of Alcoholic Control and two on the State Board of Health.

In education Gov. Hodges must appoint a large number of trustees of the various state supported schools and fill two vacancies of the state board of higher education.

Ike's Foreign Aid Bill Survives Fight In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's $3,637,000,000 foreign aid bill moved on to the House today, propelled by a 57-25 Senate vote.

Every effort by bands of Democratic-led opponents to trim its totals and limit its authority to one year was smothered in a series of roll calls that kept the Senate in session almost until last midnight.

On final passage, 26 Democrats and 31 Republicans voted for the bill; 17 Democrats and 8 Republicans opposed it.

It was a rare demonstration of Republican unity on a foreign policy matter, with Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, supporting Eisenhower on every issue. He sometimes has differed with the administration on foreign policy matters.

It also was an exhibition of generalship by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), the majority leader, in keeping many reluctant Democrats in line. Both held out the possibility of cuts in a later appropriations bill to provide funds for the aid program. They reminded their colleagues that the foreign aid bill is an authorization measure, setting only ceilings and terms.

With Johnson and Knowland working in close harmony behind 89-year-old Chairman Green (D-RI) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the bill survived every test despite charges the program is loaded with "giveaways," and "waste and extravagance."

Supporters of the bill said that in arming allies and bolstering their economies, this country is protecting its own national security.

The opposition was led by Democratic Sens. Long and Ellender of Louisiana, Morse of Oregon and O'Mahoney of Wyoming. All voted "no" on final passage.

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) charged that this country is already "mortgaged to the hilt." He and seven other Republicans, Barrett (Wyo), Bricker (Ohio), Curtis (Neb), Dworshak (Idaho), Malone (Nev), Williams (Del) and Young (ND) voted against final passage.

An amendment by Ellender to slash military assistance from $1,800,000,000 to $1,300,000,000 was beaten 61-26. Another by Long to cut military assistance by 1 million was rejected, 52-33. In the only close vote, the Senate rejected 49-4 a proposal by Long to cut defense supports by 90 millions, to 710 millions.

The Senate did adopt by voice vote an amendment by Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) to require that loans from the development fund "shall be made on the basis of firm commitments" by recipient nations to make repayment and "on a finding there is a reasonable prospect of repayment."

In addition to providing $1,800,000,000 in new spending authority for military aid in the next fiscal year, the bill also contains authority for re-appropriating 500 millions in military aid funds left over from last year's appropriation.

It authorizes 800 millions for defense supports in the economic field for allies of the United States.

It also provides, for the first time, a two-year program in both these categories, with authorizations for 1 1/2 billions in military assistance and 710 millions in defense supports for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1958. This will permit the administration to include both these items in the Defense Department budget next year.

Another section authorizes a two billion dollar revolving fund to make economic development loans under a three-year program. An appropriation of 500 millions is stipulated for the first year, and authority is provided to borrow 750 millions from the Treasury for each of the succeeding two years.

Thirteen Wreck Dead Buried; No Identities Known

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—A wide, bleak grave received here today 13 plain wooden coffins with the unclaimed bodies of migrant Negro crop workers, part of the pitiful truckload of humanity that was hit by a rumbling tractor-trailer near here last week.

The 13 — including four whose names and homes still are unknown — were buried through the charity and interest of Cumberland County, which never collected a penny of tax from them, and townspeople—white and Negro — who never knew them.

They were among 20 who died in a flaming crash when a flat-bed, flat-sided truck carrying 41 crop workers pulled into the path of a tractor-trailer on U.S. 301 June 6.

All of them were not identifiable because the only man who knew them all was the driver of their truck, who also died.

The county welfare authorities ordered a "proper and decent" burial. County commissioners promised to pay any deficit in expenses.

Much of the money comes directly from the pockets of Fayetteville citizens, who contributed to Negro churches and at downtown booths set up by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Jaycees arranged for movement of the coffins from an Edgecombe County casket firm, about 100 miles away. About $500 was raised by a committee headed by Dr. Rudolph Jones, head of Fayetteville State Teachers College here.

Choirs of several Negro churches sang at the services, officiated by a number of Negro ministers, headed by the Rev. C. R. Coleman, pastor of First Baptist Church.

The crop workers, on their way from an overnight camp site at Mount Olive to pick oranges at Dunn, had home addresses in several Southern states and a few in the North. But since they made their living moving from farm to farm and many had their wives and children with them, their home ties were thin.

Soviet Inspection Offer Considered

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union's offer to admit Western inspectors if agreement is reached on a nuclear test ban was seen in Western quarters today as a major step forward in disarmament negotiations. But they pointed out many details must be clarified.

The proposal was put to the U.N. Disarmament Subcommittee yesterday by Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin. He suggested a two or three year halt to nuclear tests with an international committee under the United Nations to enforce it.

Zorin said the Soviet Union would agree to admit Western inspectors if there was agreement to the moratorium on nuclear tests.

Until now, the Soviet Union had rejected Western demands that any halt to nuclear tests be backed up by inspection. The Soviets held that the tests could be ended by a simple agreement among the H-bomb nations, Britain, Russia and the United States.

The immediate reaction from Western sources was that the Soviet proposal represented an important advance but that it needed to be thought out before its significance can be judged.

Jules Moch, French representative, told Zorin an ending of tests would be no guarantee to the halting of production of hydrogen bombs.

The Western position is that the scientific knowledge gained over the years from nuclear tests could permit the H-bomb race to continue. The West insists that inspection and enforcement apply to the production of fissionable materials as well as to test explosions.

Zorin gave no reply when asked by U.S. Delegate Harold E. Stassen if his proposal represented a change in Soviet thinking on the ending of the production of fissionable materials.

Meanwhile, the New York Herald Tribune said in a story from Washington that the Soviet proposal was not acceptable to U.S. officials because it is too long and includes only scientific inspection.

The paper said the U.S. feels "it is essential" to include air and ground disarmament policing.

The Herald Tribune said the United States will seek to sell its allies on a 10-month trial suspension of nuclear tests, provided the Soviet Union agrees to do the same.

Whedbee Named To Budget Study

Councilman W. L. Whedbee has been appointed to work with City Manager Leonard Bloxam and the mayor on the budget and financial matters, Mayor S. Eugene West announced today.

Whedbee, who served as mayor for four years, will assist in preparing the upcoming budget.

Driver Absolved Of Blame In Death Of Five-Year-Old Child

Ernest Guy Hales, driver of the vehicle that killed a young Negro boy early last Monday night, has been absolved of blame in the child's death. The action came about last night as a result of a Coroner's Jury ruling after a lengthy inquest staged in the City Courtroom. In reaching their verdict the jury stated the findings showed the death "accidental" and recommended that "no criminal action be taken against the driver."

Willie James Anderson, 5, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Monday night after being struck by the Hales vehicle as he was crossing the highway from a nearby store to his home. His mother, standing on the porch of her home, watched helplessly as her child was fatally injured.

C. D. Clark of Greenville Rt. 6, the second witness to take the stand, said he saw the accident. He stated that the child ran from behind a parked automobile on to the paved road, directly in the path of the oncoming vehicle.

The youngster was knocked approximately 35 feet down the highway when hit by the car. Pitt Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said he died from head and internal injuries.

Shortly after the accident the injured child was carried to the Bethel Clinic for treatment and transferred to Pitt Memorial Hospital. He died at 8:20.

Three witnesses were called to the stand by Coroner Rouse. Patrolman J. B. Surlless, Clark who witnessed the accident and Gladys Anderson, the mother.

The mother stated during her testimony "if he had held his brakes he would not have killed my child."

It was shown during the course of the inquest that the driver did apply his brakes and could not avoid hitting the boy.

A New Miss Greenville Is Chosen Last Evening

MISS JAMES, MISS WHICHARD, MISS RESPRESS, MISS MOYE. ... a new Miss Greenville is crowned.

Beauty Title Is Won By Miss Ronita Respress

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor

Miss Ronita Respress, a luscious ECC coed with a flair for dramatics, won the hearts of spectators and judges last night and became Miss Greenville.

The tall, shapely Miss Respress captivated the several hundred people who filled Flanagan Outdoor Theatre with a dramatic recitation from Maxwell Anderson's "Mary of Scotland."

The lovely 19-year-old miss also piled up points when she appeared on the stage in a white nylon net floor-length evening gown and then in a white swim suit trimmed in gold braid.

Sponsoring the Beauty Pageant were the local Jaycees.

Runner-Ups

A petite blonde, Miss Jeanette Moye, took the first runner-up spot in the pageant. Miss Moye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Moye of Greenville, sang a popular tune for the talent portion of the program.

Second runner-up was Miss Patsy James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie James Jr. of Stokes. She did a modern dance.

Miss Respress handled two questions thrown at her by Master of Ceremonies Dr. M. W. Aldridge with ease as she headed toward the goal of Greenville's most lovely lady.

As with each of the other seven contestants, she was not aware until she walked on the stage.

Dr. Aldridge asked the dark haired beauty if she thought a wife should work.

If she wished, to she should, was Miss Respress' reply.

"If a wife does work, the husband and wife can have the things they want and enjoy life before they are too old," she answered.

Dr. Aldridge also asked if she felt girls should enter beauty contests.

Miss Respress said they "definitely should" if they enjoy doing that type thing.

Miss Greenville received a hug

Beauty Title Is Won By Miss Ronita Respress

and a kiss from her boy friend, Gene Vann, also an East Carolina student from Goldsboro, as friends rushed on the stage to congratulate her following her coronation by Miss Linda Whichard, last year's Miss Greenville.

Vann was late arriving for the pageant. He is attending a training course in Raleigh and he drove back to Greenville after work.

Miss Respress is a sophomore at ECC. She is attending summer school and plans to attend school one more year.

"Then I think maybe I'll get married," she said with a smiling glance towards Vann.

She said she was "thrilled" in winning the coveted title of Miss Greenville. "It's just beyond all I had hoped for."

Nineteen-year-old Miss Respress weighs 126 pounds. She has brown eyes and her height is 5 feet 3 3/4 inches. Her measurements are 36-25-37.

She works part time as a secretary for a local attorney.

In high school Miss Respress was editor of the school paper. She won the Keech Cup and served as a marshal. Miss Greenville studied piano for five years and she has had two years voice training and two years dramatics. Her hobbies are swimming, reading and piano.

Her dramatic recitation was chosen especially for last night's pageant and she had not performed the part previously.

Evening Dresses, Swim Suits

Each of the seven beauties appeared first in evening dresses individually and as a group. Next they appeared in swim suits. Then each presented her three-minute talent routine.

Finally each contestant was asked the two questions by Master of Ceremonies Aldridge. None of the girls knew the questions beforehand and they were taken beyond hearing until their time came to answer.

The five judges found themselves unable to decide after the final appearance and they requested that the contestants appear a second time in swim suits.

Confiscated Guns Up For Annual Auction

Confiscated guns sold like hotcakes yesterday on the sweltering south portico of the Pitt County courthouse.

The occasion was the annual auction sale of confiscated firearms by the county. County Attorney W. W. Speight, acting as auctioneer, banged out the 12 pistols and three shotguns to the highest bidders in quick succession.

The county realized $113.50 from the sale which officials in the Clerk of Court's office termed "just average." Clerk of Court D. T. H. Be Jr. said, "We didn't have much to offer this time. Next year I think I'll wait until the Fall to have the sale."

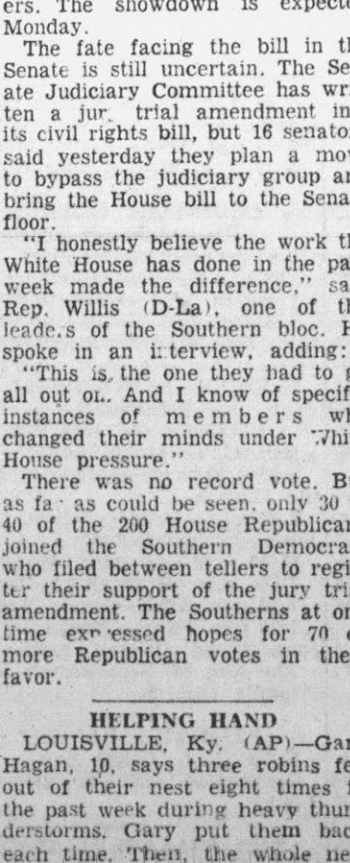

Bidding was brisk for some of the better weapons, but for others—which obviously had seen better days—a $1 bid was all Speight could muster from the crowd of 25 to 30 people who attended the sale.

Most notable weapon included by yesterday's sale was the German Luger formerly owned by Talmadge Mitchell and used in the slaying of M. R. Zachary here two years ago. A lady in the crowd, prompted by her teen-age son, bid in the pistol at $2.50, the highest price paid for a weapon at the auction. The youngster let out a joyful whoop when their last bid was not topped.

By law the county is required to hold an auction sale annually to dispose of firearms confiscated by law enforcement officers

As each day brought us closer to the middle of April, when John Mathers' colony was scheduled to reach the valley, I felt more depressed. This was the year of change; our life here would never be the same again, it seemed.

To make it worse for me, I had no one to talk to. I hadn't seen Kathy Morgan for weeks. Gene Dillingham was the same as he had been, sometimes coolly courteous, sometimes glumly sullen. I was on speaking terms with Alec Dodson and that was all, for he had made it clear more than once that I could expect no help from him or the cattlemen's association.

Curly King would listen, but he was only a kid. I was afraid to speak out to him because he might talk out of turn. Sarah Pardee was the one I should have been able to talk with, to tell her all my anxieties and fears. I couldn't even mention it to her; I didn't know what she would do, but I did know what she would think and say.

Not once during the winter had she mentioned John Mathers in my hearing, but I usually went to Carlton for the mail and I knew she had received at least two letters from St. Louis, both addressed in a clear, feminine hand.

The tension grew in me day by day until I could hardly eat, and I lay awake on my bunk more hours than I slept. I faced an impossible situation. So did Sarah. She couldn't fire me. She couldn't get rid of me, now that she had given me half the Box P. On the other hand, I couldn't live on the same ranch with her if I killed Mathers or some of his men.

I knew what must be done. I had to stop Mathers before his colony reached the valley. I kept telling myself that, but what would happen after Mathers was turned back? I didn't even try to guess. I thought only as far as the day the shots would be fired, when men would be killed. Beyond that I could not think at all. I was like a sleepwalker moving toward a wall which barred his passage.

The 14th of April came with patches of snow still lingering in the valley and on the slope above us. There was no word from Coley Alton. I think Sarah was suffering from the uncertainty as much as I was, but she wasn't able to talk about it, either.

Our eyes met briefly after supper that night. I saw the pale, drawn expression on her face as I left the house. My food lay in my stomach as if it were lead.

The fifteenth, and still no word. Then it came, on the night of the sixteenth, some time after midnight. I was awake, my thoughts plodding along the eternal treadmill, when I heard a horse outside. I had kept my gun under my pillow ever since the night Dillingham had stopped beside my bunk. I picked it up and slipped to the door and opened it. Someone was dismounting in front of the bunkhouse.

I called, "Who is it?" "Pablo. Is that you, Senor Beeson?" It was Coley Alton's Mexican boy, all right. I recognized his voice. "Yeah, it's me," I said.

were the lower slopes of the Cedar Hills. Hours later, with the first pale light of dawn touching the eastern sky, we heard the murmur of the creek, still low because the spring runoff had not started.

None of us had spoken since we left the ranch. Now Dillingham asked, "How are you figuring on handling this, Will?" "We'll stop at those rocks yonder and leave our horses," I said. "We'll circle them and stay in the brush on the other side until they show up."

"We'll burn a little powder, and maybe Mathers will decide this climate isn't good for him." "You think it'll be that easy?" "We'll find out," I answered. "I knew it would be that easy, but it would buy time. These pilgrims had come a long ways; they'd be tired and a little short on ammunition. I could cut them off before they got to the valley. He'd probably repeated what he had said and he would have described the valley, but it wasn't likely he'd told them about me and what I had said to him that day on the river below Alton's Trading Post."

Delay would disorganize them. If I could get a chance to talk to some of them, I could cut the ground out from under Mathers. They'd turn against him and go back. Maybe it wouldn't work that way, but it was the best I could do.

Dillingham said, "I've got a better idea. Will, one that'll work." "I don't want it, Gene." "You'll listen!" he said with sudden savagery. "I knew Joe Pardee better than any other man. I know how he thought and what he would have done. He'd have hit 'em at the other end of the canyon before they got started, and he'd have hit 'em hard, so hard they'd forget about coming up here."

I ignored him. Probably Joe would have done exactly what Dillingham said. With the odds fifty to three, and with Mathers warned, Joe might have fired from ambush and killed half a dozen men. He'd have cut their hearts out with that first volley. But it would have meant six dead men. Was the valley worth that big a price?

I turned to look at Gene Dillingham's tall, square shape in the saddle, shocked by the thought which had just crossed my mind. Last fall I would have tried to do what Joe would have done, but not now. I'd changed, but I wasn't sure why. Maybe it was the absence of Joe's domineering personality.

There was only one thing I could do and still be able to live with myself. I'd hold the valley without bloodshed if I could, and the way to do that was to throw a little lead close to Mathers' head as soon as he showed up. He'd turn and run if he were driving the first wagon. Any man would.

Now, as we rode in silence, I realized how much I had changed. I was Will Beeson, Box P's foreman, and I wanted to be Will Beeson, not Joe Pardee's shadow trying to make every decision as Joe would have. I was trying to protect the Box P. Sarah's ranch and mine, and that was all. But I couldn't help wondering what I'd be doing now if I hadn't changed.

"You can't hold us off! If we have to use force, we will!" is Mathers' challenge as "Gunlock" continues here Monday.

Recreational Items At Stake MILWAUKEE (AP) — Inmates at Wisconsin State Prison are rarely "put in solitary" anymore — instead they lose their radio earphones or other recreational privileges.

The system, according to Warden John Burke, is very effective. "We had a fellow who actually asked for 'solitary' instead of a 5-day loss of radio privileges," Burke said. "He didn't want to miss the weekend football games."

Another Use For Christmas Trees

McALESTER, Okla. (AP)—Grocer Ike Hutchison finally got around to clearing his storehouse of old Christmas trees and he placed them in front of his place to be hauled off. As a joke, Thelma Drumb playfully tacked up a "For Sale" sign. Along came a man who offered $4 for the lot and Hutchison, shaken by the surprise sale, finally was able to ask what they would be used for. The man said he would dump them in his lake as fish cover.

WEDDING DAY "With this ring I thee wed." Our marriage is beginning where a marriage should begin—in Church. Our hands meet across the Bible. My eyes fall to the printed page, and the verse I see there is so appropriate that I catch my breath in awe and amazement. Here is the story of a king who long ago sought for a virtuous woman and was told that her price would be far above rubies. Here are detailed the qualities that a truly virtuous woman would have—faithfulness, industry, thrift, compassion, courage, strength, honor. As I look up at my new husband, I feel a surge of humility. I make a silent pledge that these words in Proverbs will be my guide as his wife. They're a challenge, I know. A big challenge! But, with the help of the Church, I'm going to try to live up to them.

Two Local Girls Leave Sunday To Attend Annual Girls' State

By MARTHA PIERCE

Leaving Sunday for a week of study and practice of citizenship in a democracy at Girls State are two local girls, JoAnne Parks and Margaret Ann Harrell.

They are sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary to Post 39 and were chosen from the top third of the junior class on the basis of outstanding leadership, scholarship, honesty, courage, and character.

Through the combined efforts of the American Legion Auxiliaries of North Carolina, 300 girls will assemble at Woman's College of the University of North Carolina for the 18th annual Girls State.

Both JoAnne and Margaret Ann have made impressive records at Greenville High School. Highlights of JoAnne's junior year include being chosen a marshal and being tapped into the National Honor Society. This past year she has been on the high school paper staff and has served as vice-president of the National Forensic League.

Active in church work too, JoAnne is a member of Immanuel Baptist Church where she is secretary of the Baptist Training Union and president of the Young Women's Auxiliary. JoAnne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Parks of 1106 Overlook Drive.

Looking ahead to next year's full schedule, JoAnne hopes to be able to use what she learns at Girls State as president of the honor society and as chairman of the judicial committee of S.C.A.

Six Greenville Women Attend Annual Eastern Star Session

Representatives of Greenville Chapter No. 149, Order of the Eastern Star, have returned from the 52nd Annual Session of the Grand Chapter of North Carolina, O.E.S. which was held at Brogden Hall, New Hanover High School, Wilmington, from June 9 through 12.

The session was presided over by Mrs. Marise S. Conyers, Worthy Grand Matron, and Mr. Edward E. Hood, Worthy Grand Patron.

Named the Melody of Love Session by the Worthy Grand Matron, the theme "Happiness thru Loving Service" and the watchwords "A Smile, A Kind Word, and A Prayer" were used. The colors were red, white and Adah's blue and the flower, the rose—the Blossom of Love. Electa's Cup Within the Heart was highlighted in the Grand East.

More than 1,500 delegates from throughout North Carolina and many out-of-State visitors were in Wilmington for the sessions, which began with the worship and memorial service on Sunday evening at the First Baptist Church. A reception honoring the Grand Officers and Distinguished Guests followed the service.

Registration began Monday at 8 a.m. The informal opening at 7:45 p.m. on Monday was open to the public, as was the final session on Wednesday. All sessions on Tuesday and those through Wednesday, with the exception of the final session, were open to Eastern Star members only.

The session Tuesday morning marked the formal opening of the Grand Chapter. Distinguished guests were introduced and reports of Grand Officers were given. Mrs. Florence A. Plummer of Fairview Village, Pa., Most Worthy Grand Matron of the General Grand Chapter, arrived during the morning to attend the remainder of the sessions. At the afternoon session, the report of fraternal correspondence was made, and unfinished business presented to the delegates. Goldenrod Assembly, Order of the Rainbow Girls, opened the evening session with a beautiful drill and the Pot of Gold Lecture. The Order of the DeMolay was represented by Raeford W. Holland Jr. who gave the "Flower Talk" Scholarships were awarded to 14 North Carolina boys and girls for religious training.

The final session on Wednesday evening was devoted to the installation of the Grand Officers. Brogden Hall was decorated with the colors of blue and pink. The newly-elected Grand Matron honored Miss Alya Ray Taylor of Greenville Chapter No. 149, O.E.S., and Miss Louise Anchors with an invitation to join her in the Grand East for the Installation Ceremony.

Greenville Delegates

Greenville Chapter No. 149, O.E.S., was officially represented by Mrs. Martha Forrest, Worthy Matron. Other members attending the session were Mrs. Mildred Kennedy, Past Matron; Mr. Alfred Kennedy, Past Patron; Mrs. Blanche Jackson, Past Matron; Mrs. Mary Ross, Associate Matron; and Mrs. Edna Whitchard, Conductress.

Councilman's Wife Is Church Leader

ENJOYS BOOKS... especially novels, biographies.

BY ANNE SINGLETON
(Reflector Woman's Editor)

An active teen-age daughter and a recent bout with a fever haven't kept vivacious Mrs. W. L. Wheabee down.

She explains her philosophy of life simply, "I've always enjoyed a host of friends and I've always enjoyed friends."

Mrs. Wheabee is known for her outstanding work in the Eighth Street Christian Church where she is a Deaconess and also a circle leader. She has been president of the Christian Women's Fellowship of the Church and during this past winter she taught Sunday School.

Mrs. Wheabee was a Charter member of the Greenville Service League, but recently resigned because of illness.

Her deep love for books came up when she mentioned that she is a member of the Clio Book Club. "Since television came to our house, I haven't been reading as much as I would like to," she explains.

Flowers are another of her interests although she admits, "I have too much shade around my home for them."

Their home on Latham Street is set back from the street with huge trees offering plenty of shade year-round encircling the house. Family heirlooms may be seen throughout their home with traditional pieces also used.

Bridge and cooking are also a part of her busy days. She quickly notes that steak is her husband's favorite dish.

The family is a member of the Greenville Golf and Country Club and the Seashore Club at Morehead. Beach trips and water sports are enjoyed by the entire family, including their honey-colored cocker spaniel, "Fella."

A graduate of Greenville High School, Mrs. Wheabee was born in Grimsland. She is a graduate of East Carolina College and before her marriage she taught in Roanoke Rapids.

Is Your Husband A Milkstop?

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

American women are making milkstops of their men, charges black-bearded, hairy-fisted Doug Kennedy, and he, for one, is pretty upset about it.

"The thing that makes me the maddest is all this current propaganda by women's magazines picturing the American male as a bumbling creature tied to his wife's apron strings," says Kennedy, 38, ex-newspaperman, former PT boat hero and currently editor of the men's magazine True.

"I just don't believe women run the world. I don't think they control all the money, do all the spending and make all the decisions. It's all a vicious campaign designed by women to debase the male."

This 6-foot-3 American boy, who collected assorted medals for service in both the Pacific and Atlantic during World War II, feels that men are losing their derring-do these days, and he blames it all on women.

"Women are responsible for all this present frantic search for security," says he. "They're the reason why a man keeps a dead-end humdrum job with a pension rather than take a chance and do something he really wants to do. They're the ones who urge their husbands not to talk back to the boss, to be careful crossing the street and not to forget their rubbers."

"They start making over their men while walking back down the church aisle and they keep it up from then on. Their object is to hold a firm rein, stifle any adventurous urges, keep the guy's nose to the grindstone and live happily on his insurance after he works himself to death, or expires from boredom."

He thinks it's high time the man of the family asserted himself, put his feet down and started bellowing orders in the good old-fashioned way.

He himself is married to an independent-thinking former newspaperwoman who made it a condition of their marriage that she be permitted to continue her career.

Mrs. Gurganus Guest Speaker At WCTU Meeting

BETHEL—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union met in the home of Mrs. H. L. Rives Monday with the president, Mrs. R. L. Whitley, presiding.

The union theme song, "Onward Christian Soldiers," was sung in unison, followed with prayer led by Mrs. C. E. Brown, spiritual life leader. Mrs. Brown also presented the article, "What Do You Think?"

After the minutes and roll call by the secretary, Miss Athleen Rollins, Mrs. J. L. Gurganus presented the program.

Mrs. M. T. Whitehurst gave the scripture lesson from the 116th Psalm with remarks on "Our Thankfulness To God."

Mrs. Gurganus continued the further study of the book, "The Christian's Case For Abstinence."

In conclusion, the president gave a review on the constitution and by-laws of the N. C. Woman's W.C.T.U. and read two articles, "Something New" and "Two Plane Rides."

New Officers Were Elected By Women Of The Moose Thursday

New officers were elected for the coming year Thursday night at the regular meeting of Greenville Chapter 1308, Women of the Moose.

Mrs. Love Cox will fill the office of Senior Regent, heading the chapter for the coming year. Other officers include Junior Regent, Mrs. Earlene Coghill; treasurer, Mrs. Keek Koutourias; recorder, Mrs. Jo Dees; chaplain, Mrs. Elizabeth Moore. Installation will be held June 27 at the Moose Temple.

Six new members were initiated into the chapter Thursday night. Those admitted into the defending circle were Mrs. Gay Cottraine, Mrs. Elizabeth Turnage, Mrs. Cara Lee, Mrs. Marie Wallace, Mrs. Elsie Mills, Mrs. Theraline Forbes and Mrs. Agnes Hogan.

The chapter voted to purchase a portable typewriter for the recorder which would be available to any co-worker. This typewriter would be kept at the Moose Lodge at all times. Cabinets built in the ladies lounge where the chapter could keep all of its paraphernalia are planned.

Following all other business the chapter closed in ritualistic form to meet again June 27 at 8 p.m. Refreshments were served by the membership committee.

McInnis-Proctor Wedding Party Feted At Luncheon

Miss Hannah Proctor and Mr. John McInnis were honored at a luncheon given Friday by Mrs. and Mrs. Lyman Ormond, Mrs. Luther Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Foster Young at the Ormond home on E. Fifth St.

Upon arrival Miss Proctor and Mr. McInnis were presented a corsage and boutonniere by the hosts and hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Ormond greeted the guests and presented them to the bride and bridegroom.

They were received in the rear hall and invited into the garden by Mr. and Mrs. Young. Here punch was served by Mr. and Mrs. J. Knott Proctor Jr.

Receiving in the living room were Mr. and Mrs. Moore. Lunch was served to the guests by Mrs. J. Knott Proctor Sr. and Mrs. John McInnis Sr.

Centering the dining table, which was covered with an Italian outdoor cloth, was a silver epergne holding bouquets of gardenias.

White gladioli were placed on the buffet. Arrangements of mixed summer flowers were used throughout the home.

Guests included the members of the wedding party and out-of-town visitors.

30 Years Ago Today

June 15, 1927

Mrs. P. T. Anthony has returned from a visit to relatives in Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Tomorrow is Father's Day and those who are fortunate enough to still have a father with them should let him know by kind words and actions that he is loved and that his labors for his family are not unrewarded.

Dinner Party Honors Bridal Party, Guests

Summer flowers graced the home of Mrs. James Ficklen when she and her son, James Ficklen Jr., entertained the McInnis-Proctor wedding party and out-of-town guests at a dinner party last night.

Receiving at the front door were the honorees and the host and hostesses.

Upon arrival appetizers were served to the approximately 40 guests attending.

Pink and white spring flowers encircled by burning tapers centered the serving table which was covered with a white cloth.

Mrs. Otte N. Frenzel of Indianapolis and Mrs. J. T. Little served. Following the dinner, the host toasted the bridal couple with pink champagne.

Goodbyes were said by the host and hostesses.

Time For Us All To Consider Anew

It is fitting that Greenville's citizens and the city's governing board again give consideration to the matter of constructing public swimming pools here.

Like all other cities its size, Greenville needs public swimming facilities for the use of its citizens, particularly its young people. Unlike the vast majority of cities its size, Greenville has no public swimming pools.

If young people or adults want to swim they must either use private facilities (available to only a small minority of the citizenry), seek out some resort area, a swimming pool in another city, or they must resort to the treacherous Tar or some unprotected pond for a cooling dip.

Three years ago after the old swimming pool was condemned and converted into a parking lot, citizens of Greenville went to the polls to vote on a proposed bond issue for the construction of two new swimming pools. In that referendum—which came a few weeks after the Supreme Court school segregation decision—voters overwhelmingly defeated the proposal to float city bonds to build swimming pools.

That was three years ago. How do the people of Greenville feel about public swimming pools now? Are they willing now to invest public funds in swimming pools?

Sooner or later these questions should be answered. It would be well for each individual to ponder the questions for his own enlightenment.

The Greenville Chamber of Commerce has asked the City Council to consider again the possibilities for constructing swimming facilities in Greenville. The need for swimming pools is obvious, not only as recreation facilities but also for preventing unnecessary loss of life by swimming accidents in this community each year.

As was the case three years ago, unanswered questions about segregation and integration are points which must be faced squarely in this matter. They must be weighed as carefully as possible along with all other factors involved: cost of the facilities, the need for facilities, availability of land, the number of drownings which might be prevented annually if Greenville had swimming pools.

The Council should initiate a thorough study of the matter of providing swimming pools in the city. Through such a study both the Council and the citizens of Greenville will be able to determine whether it is feasible and practical for the city to undertake the construction of public swimming facilities.

Human Cargoes Prove Everybody's Problem

Trucks loaded with human cargo have popped into the headlines three times within the past week because of tragic accidents. The tragedies have shown that the hauling of people by trucks is not a problem for North Carolina alone. It is a problem for the entire nation.

In rapid succession trucks loaded with humans have been involved in horrible accidents in North Carolina, Colorado and at Ft. Campbell, Ky. Death toll in the three accidents mounted to 52, and each of the accidents ranked as one of the worst in the nation's history.

How many more lives will be sacrificed in this wholesale slaughter before necessary steps are taken to prevent the transporting of humans on trucks? How long before North Carolina and the other states will take positive steps to prevent similar accidents?

The individual states have the authority to regulate the use of trucks in transporting human cargoes. In the past, apparently, little attention has been given to the matter. In the wake of these three tragedies, however, every state should be prodded to take what action it can to safeguard the lives people who travel its highways.

For the protection of its highway facilities, every state carefully regulates the weight of cargo which is transported by trucks. Every state spends thousands upon thousands of dollars annually to see that weight regulations are complied with by trucks. Is it less important to protect the lives of humans who are being transported from one place to another in trucks?

Taxes Build Up Inflation Tide

By ELMER ROESSNER
One of the pairs of overalls in the chowder of inflation is taxes.

That's a fact that ought to be considered by those who are now talking about "wage inflation" in tones of voice that imply that organized labor is solely to blame for our kettle of inflation.

Here's one way taxes contribute to inflation: Almost everything you buy is produced and distributed by corporations. Except for the first $25, corporation management must produce a return of 6 per cent of invested capital or be thrown out of jobs by the investors. It must set prices up to the point where they will produce a return of more than 12 per cent.

Management, of course, would like to set prices up to where they would return 24, 48, or 96 per cent or more on investment. But competition tends to limit such excesses. However, since competitors also must pay similar taxes, competition is sure to level off at certain points.

Meanwhile, most of the things we buy carry several tax marks. The producer of the raw material must get a price that covers both profit and taxes. This is true even for much of our farm produce since an increasing amount is grown by corporations. The manufacturer of the finished product, the transporter, the wholesaler and the retailer must include corporate taxes in their margins. Of course, there are no corporate taxes without profits, but without profits there is no business after a while.

One of the curious hallucinations of Americans is that we are taxing corporations. There is a sort of primitive distrust of corporations among us. Corporations are impersonal, often intangible; their liabilities are limited; their operations are often difficult if not impossible to understand; they are associated with the idea of trusts and monopolies; many have engaged in nefarious practices.

So we crack 'em over the head with a 52 per cent profits tax—or think we do. Actually, the tax is paid by those who buy corporations' goods and services.

Other taxes work to push up prices and wages. When you retain a lawyer, a doctor or a house-painter, he has to add his prospective tax liability to the value of his services. The painter may have to increase his charges from 20 to 30 per cent to cover his income taxes. Professional men, usually in higher tax brackets, may have to add on an even higher rate.

Taxes operate directly on demands of organized workers. If the cost of living has gone up 4 per cent (which it has in the past year) a pay raise of 4 per cent won't keep the same food on the table because about a quarter of it will go to the government in income taxes. So the union must demand 5 or 6 per cent just to maintain the same standard of living for its members—and more if it wants an improvement.

Then the employing company must raise its prices to meet the higher labor costs—and those who are crying "wage inflation" will point a finger of shame at the unions when they should be pointing to the tax rate.

In similar ways, other Federal taxes and levies by states and their subdivisions tend to increase prices and, in turn, wage rates.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
NATURE OF TRUE RELIGION
Thomas Mann, the distinguished man of letters, has spoken of what he calls "religiosity," and he defines "religiosity" as attentiveness and obedience.

This would appear to be a quite penetrating observation on the part of this great literary man. For whatever else true and sincere religion is, it is certainly respectful attention to divine realities and obedience to divine commands.

Many people believe that they are religious simply because they belong to some church, attend religious services, and pay their dues. All these things are matters of considerable importance in the field of religion, but they are not religion itself. Religion is the attitude of soul which we maintain toward the Great Soul which dominates the whole of creation. And we are truly religious, and therefore pleasing to that Soul, when we pay respectful attention to its requirements and obey its commands without question.

If we only understood the nature of true religion, we would never have any part in persecution of any kind. There is a great deal of truth in the contention that we will have no time left to judge and criticize others if we pay proper attention to the problems of our own spiritual life.

An Eventful Week Is Over

Today hails the end of another week. A week that has been full of events for people in all walks of life in Pitt County.

This has been a disastrous period on the highways of this county. Within a 30 hour period between Monday night and Tuesday night, two people were killed in Pitt.

One was a young Negro boy, five years old, who lost his life when he made a decision to cross a rural paved road in the path of an oncoming automobile. The driver could not stop in time to save him. Late Tuesday night a young Ayden High School graduate was mangled in an accident on a rural dirt road after failing to make a curve. His friends said he "liked to drive fast."

All in all we now have five traffic deaths thus far this year. A record not to be proud of . . . five people now dead that would otherwise be living had it not been for one little mistake.

Farming would in most quarters be considered a calculated risk. This was proven in Pitt this week.

Farmers in the Ayden Township suffered extensive damage to their tobacco crops as a result of one hour of hail and high wind early Thursday morning. One hour of storm that could mean some difference in the economy in this general area before the year is over.

In an effort to get precise facts as to the time, place, extent of damage, etc., I called a number of farmers in and around Ayden. At no time was an encouraging note sounded by the men who are the backbone of our economy here.

Damages ran as high as 50 percent. One farmer reported damage, in his opinion, up to 80 percent. He added, "The tobacco left in my fields won't do me much good this year."

Certainly a pitiful note in view of the circumstances prevailing in this area.

Evidently the capers of labor leader Dave Beck, who has been on "hot coals" in Washington, have rubbed off on at least one county resident.

According to a report from a friend who requested that his name not be used, someone in Police Court in Farmville recently pleaded the Fifth Amendment.

It just goes to show you if the big boys can do it . . . the little ones can do it. Amazing this power of suggestion.

Incidentally, the Fifth Amendment plea didn't have its desired effect.

HUMAN TOO!
Was sitting at my desk yesterday afternoon when I received a call that a two-car collision had just taken place just beyond the city limits at a busy intersection.

When I got there I saw that a Rocky Mount driver had apparently gone through and hit a State Highway Patrol vehicle, doing extensive damage to the front end.

As I stood there I overheard a bystander tell his friend as a number of patrolmen were running around making an investigation, "I would rather have hit the Devil!"

Other Editors Saying-- A Real Block-Buster

(Kinston Free Press)
The historic four to two decision by the U. S. Supreme Court a few days ago, which held that the E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., has violated the anti-trust laws by its 23 per cent stock interest in General Motors Corporation, apparently is aimed more at a trend than it is an actual monopolistic practice.

Whether it will mean a virtual Pandora's Box of legal activity for the courts remains to be seen. The case has been in the courts for some eight years. The 4-2 decision with three justices abstaining is considered one of the most far-reaching ever handed down by the U. S. Supreme Court.

The majority decision holds that even by possession of the stock by another firm there is a "reasonable probability" that such stock acquisitions are likely to result in anti-trust violations. The Clayton Anti-Trust Law's Section 7—the so-called anti-merger law—is what the court has held was violated. It was enacted 43 years ago. This section forbids a company to acquire stock in another company "where the effect of such acquisition may be to substantially lessen competition . . . or to restrain commerce . . . or tend to create a monopoly."

The astute Wall Street Journal, in its comment on this far-reaching decision, said in part: "By any standard this is a revolutionary departure in the Supreme Court's interpretation of our anti-trust laws. There need no longer be proof of restraint of trade; nor proof of monopoly; nor proof even of 'Substantial lessening' of competition—in this case the two companies are not competitors. Nothing more is required than a "reasonable probability" that such effects might occur. Furthermore it is not necessary to show that any stock acquisition is in violation of the law at the time it occurred. Action can be brought a quarter of a century or more after the event if later there is a "probability" some restraint might occur. The consequences of this view on current business decisions will certainly be no less than revolutionary."

The decision certainly appears to be aimed more at checking a trend toward greater monopolies in American business than it does at any actual evils in the Du Pont—General Motors arrangement. For years now there has been a decrease in the smaller businesses and new and more far-reaching mergers among the major firms. This has been dictated more by the cost of operation and the need for more capital strength to meet competition and rising costs than to any desire to restrain trade. But the trend is unmistakable.

What will happen now in view of this revolutionary edit from the Supreme Court—will be an interesting experiment, to say the least. What makes it somewhat ironical is the fact that it should occur during a GOP business administration and not in the New Deal days of so-called "creeping socialism."

Under such a broad interpretation of the anti-trust laws one cannot help but wonder where the Court will strike next.

Eisenhower Changing His Crew

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower's conservative crew in order to enforcer has begun to drop his conservative crew in order to carry out his plan to steer the ship of state into the harbor of "modern Republicanism." He has shown a definite preference for personalities who agree with his policies more enthusiastically than the men they have supplanted.

Although Treasury Secretary Humphrey's departure is the most noteworthy and dramatic, it is not the only victim of the recasting. There have been other changes of almost equal importance, and there will be more when Congress winds up its session late in July or early in August.

The Treasury changeover, however, reflects the significance of Ike's "new look" in personnel. Robert B. Anderson, Humphrey's successor, insists that he will continue Humphrey's program of "hard money," which a Senate Committee will soon examine with a critical approach.

HUMPHREY'S SUCCESSOR But Anderson is a younger and more pliable person than the sturdy Cleveland industrialist. He will enjoy far less influence at the White House and in the Cabinet. Moreover, as a former Texas Democrat, he will undoubtedly have a broader outlook and a more sympathetic attitude toward certain interests—small bankers, small business, cattlemen, farmers, etc.—than did the Hanna magnate.

It is these groups which have suffered and complained against Humphrey's policies of tight money and high interest rates. Conversely, it is Humphrey's financial friends who have led in condemnation of Ike's huge budget and liberal legislative program.

Finally, these Texans have a fierce sense of loyalty. Even the late Jesse H. Jones, as RFC administrator, approved many questionable loans simply because "the boss"—Franklin D. Roosevelt—insisted that they be made for political or personal reasons. Speaker Sam Rayburn supported many New Deal proposals which gripped him, as did former Vice President John

Nance Garner. STATE DEPARTMENT CASUALTIES The State Department has also suffered numerous casualties within its conservative faction, while the believers in the Eisenhower philosophy have been promoted.

Arthur Larson, the author of the bible of "modern Republicanism," has been rewarded with elevation to the post of head of the overseas propaganda bureau. Harold E. Stassen still represents Ike at extremely important disarmament conferences. The man he favored over Nixon as the 1956 Vice Presidential candidate—Christian Herter—is Undersecretary of State; he is also mentioned as Secretary Dulles' possible successor.

New Assistant Secretary of State in charge of Public Affairs is Andrew H. Berding. A former newspaperman, Berding was adviser to former Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and General George C. Marshall. He served subsequently as an aide to Cordell Hull, then Secretary of State, and he was Hull's official biographer.

Champ Of The Dieters

By EDWARD S. KITCH MARKHAM, Ill. (AP)—"Diet or die."

There wasn't much else Miss Helen Gernenz could do but diet after her physician gave her that ultimatum a little more than a year ago.

She weighed 385 pounds. Her medical advisor said she would die in 10 years if she didn't stop eating so much food.

Instead of eating herself to death, she lost 191½ pounds. Today Miss Gernenz is hailed as a champion dieter of dieters.

She was named the nation's 1957 Queen of Dieters by TOPS. The organization of "Take Off Pounds Seriously" held its annual convention in Cincinnati May 25.

Helen estimates that some 2,000 members of the dieting group competed for the title. Entrants came from throughout the United States and Canada.

Although the title was based on the amount of poundage lost in a year, the TOPS group of dieters discovered Miss Gernenz was dead serious about losing pounds.

Her effort was doubly difficult because she worked in a very tempting atmosphere as a cook's helper in a restaurant.

Calory Count But she followed her doctor's orders, taking the medicine he prescribed. She was permitted 800 to 1,000 calories daily. Each morning she took a capsule aimed at curing her appetite. Three times daily she took a thyroid table prescribed by her physician.

At breakfast, Miss Gernenz, who is 32, ate a bowl of cereal with six ounces of milk—her daily allotment. Sometimes she had only toast with her milk.

For lunch, she had her main meal of the day—meat, vegetables, bread and fruit, both canned and fresh.

For dinner, she had a steak sandwich.

Her diet excluded ice cream, starchy foods and soda pop.

"That's what I missed most," she says. "But once in a while, when I get a craving for sweets, I take a little bit of it and that satisfies me. It's what the doctor advised."

Size 68 When Miss Gernenz joined TOPS a year ago last March, she wore a size 68 dress. She would add a four-inch piece of fabric on each side seam to make the dress fit her bulk.

"And that made it a size 68," she said.

"I now wears a size 20½. "I feel wonderful, especially when you can go into a store and buy your own clothes," she said. Miss Gernenz now weighs 193½ pounds. She intends to reduce until she gets down to 150.

She's determined and happy at the prospect that she'll make it. She exercises daily by riding a bicycle. Then, too, the ice box no longer holds the enchantment it once had for her appetite.

Besides, she's looking forward to a longer life and, someday, marriage.

"But I don't know when," she said.

Opinions In Brief

"Every American citizen should remember that freedom has been enjoyed by less than 5 percent of the people who have walked on this earth and that even in our own day less than 25 percent of the people of the world have any reasonable amount of freedom."—Dr. George B. Benson, Pres. Harding College, Ark.

"Eastern North Carolina, on the whole, is fortunate in its weather conditions. While there have been periods of drought and other times when more rain came than was needed, the area is generally blessed with fine, well-balanced weather. Farmers here, after taking stock of the situation in other parts of the country, can feel fortunate."—Rocky Mount Telegram.

Cincinnati Dumps Giants To Shake Losing Streak

Big Klu Gets 3 Hits And Homer To Pace Team

Ted Kluszewski has come back swinging for Cincinnati in that crazy, mixed up National League pennant race where the Redlegs have lost nine of their last 13 games but have fallen only a half-game out of first place.

Big Klu, making his second starting appearance since quitting the disabled list Wednesday, had four hits, one a two-run homer, and scored three runs last night as the Redlegs defeated the New York Giants 5-4 and jinked their losing streak at four games.

The Redlegs reclaimed second place behind the Milwaukee Braves, who skidded Philadelphia to fourth, 1½ games back, with a 10-2 victory on Warren Spahn's three-hit pitching. Brooklyn took over third, one game away, as Junior Gilliam stole home with two out in the 10th inning to beat St. Louis 2-1 and put the fifth place Cardinals 2½ games off the pace.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, riding a five-game winning streak, were belted 11-5 by Chicago's last place Cubs.

In the American League everything remained the same. The Chicago White Sox made it nine in a row over Washington, 10-4, to retain a four-game edge over the second-place New York Yankees, who thumped Kansas City 10-1. Detroit remained in third, beating Boston 5-4, and Cleveland stayed in fourth with a 7-2 decision over Baltimore.

Kluszewski belted two singles and a double in addition to his first home run of the year. Joe Nuxhall won his second, but needed Buster Freeman's relief help when the Giants, held to two hits for seven innings, scored three runs in the eighth. Willie Mays' 12th homer brought in two runs in the rally.

Hank Aaron drove in four runs for the Braves, three with his 18th home run. Two singles and an error made one Phil run unearned. The third hit off Spahn, now 7-3, was Rip Repulski's ninth-inning home run.

Two walks and a single loaded the bases for the Dodgers in the 10th, and when bonus kid Lindy McDaniel went into his windup with a 1-0 count on Roy Campanella, Gilliam let fly. Don Newcombe won it, on his 31st birthday — for his fifth victory.

The Cubs swung for 17 hits against Ron Kline, who lost his ninth, and four relievers. Ernie Banks drove in four runs, two with his eighth homer, as Dick Drott won his fifth.

Dick Donovan had the Senators in hand until the ninth, when Jim Lemon and Bob Usher homered to bring on reliever Bob Keenan — who then gave up a homer to Eddie Yost before getting the final out. Winless Chuck Stobbs lost his 11th.

Tom Sturvant won his fifth for the Yankees, giving up five of the A's eight hits to Vic Power and Bob Cerv. Five runs in the fifth put it away for the Yankees, with Mickey Mantle's 19th homer adding two more in the eighth.

Boston ripped Duke Maas for three runs in the first inning, but the righthander then put the Tigers into the lead with a two-run homer in the fifth. Harvey Kuenn's seventh-inning homer was the clincher, giving Maas a 7-3 record.

Bobby Avila's three-run homer in the seventh nailed Mike Garcia's second victory and first complete game in 12 starts. Dick Williams, traded to the Indians by Chicago, had Jim Busby earlier in the day, had three hits, one a home run. Busby was 0-for-5.

Patton, Mayer In Front Of Field In 57th US Open

By FRITZ HOWELL
TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A pair of darkhorses, amateur Billy Joe Patton and professional Dick Mayer, paced a surviving field of 53 today into the 36-hole stretch drive of the tippy-turvy 57th National Open Golf championship.

They were the only ones able to crack the Inverness Club's 6,919-yard par 70 layout. They did it with identical 70-68-138 scores to take a two-stroke edge and match the tournament half-way record set by Sam Snead in 1949.

With even par 140 were Doug Ford of Mahopac, N.Y. and Ken Venturi of San Francisco.

Billy Joe of Morganton, N.C., is hoping to become the first amateur to win the Open since Johnny Goodman did it in 1933. Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., hasn't won a tournament this year.

The first round leaders, Jimmy Demaret and Chick Harbert, failed to match their opening 68s. Demaret skidded to 73, while Harbert soared to 79 in the second round, Jimmy slipping to a fifth-place tie with Bo Winger of Odessa, Tex., at 141, and Harbert to a 21st place deadlock at 147.

At 142 was Robert De Vincenzo of Mexico City, and at 143 was Peter Thomson of Australia.

Scores of 150, ten over par, were necessary to get over the final day's play, and the cutoff caught some highly-rated talent. Among the missing were Ed Furgol, 1954 champion, and Ted Kroll, who piled up $76,000 in tournament gold last year.

Others sidelined Arnold Palmer, Lloyd Mangrum, Gene Sarazen, Mike Souchak, Dutch Harrison, Shelley Mayfield, Henry Ransom, Denny Shute, Tommy Bolt and Gardner Dickinson.

Low Worsham, the 1947 champion, stayed in play as his two-round total hit 150 on the nose. Three other former champions who qualified were Dr. Cary Middlecoff, defending king, 146, Julius Boros, 144, and Jack Pleck, 148.

Furgol, who took a huge eight on the par four 17th hole in the opening round, said after failing to qualify:

"That was the hardest blow struck around here since Dempsey knocked out Willard here almost 40 years ago."

The surviving 53, with only two beating par and two others matching it, go into the final round with an aggregate score of 356 over par for the two days of play.

In the first two rounds the talented field of 181 scored 440 birdies and two eagles—but wound up 2,179 strokes over par. In the first round, played in wind and rain, the field had 224 birdies and finished 1,063 over par.

With 36 holes to go today, and pressure on every shot, it looked as if any of a dozen or more players could win. Patton was 13th a year ago, and Mayer tied for 41st. But Venturi was eighth and Ford ninth in 1956, and either could slip in.

Ford and Venturi were the only leaders to hold their runnerup spots in the second round. Demaret and Harbert fell from in front of them, but Patton and Mayer moved around to the top. The only difference is that they are two strokes back now, instead of one.

Patton, who chats with everyone while playing, is 35 years old, sports a crew haircut and wears spectacles. Mayer, 32, looks like every girl's idea of a matinee idol.

Lions, Elks Win Little League Tilts Friday

The Elks and the Lions emerged triumphant from yesterday's Little League contests at Elm Street Park.

In North State play, the Lions and the VFW sailed into a contest that had previously been rained out. The Lions posted a thorough 6-3 victory behind pitcher Powell.

The Elks walloped the Exchange club 7-0 in a tilt that featured the one-hit pitching of Summeral and the hitting of J. G. Proctor.

Summeral had a no-hitter going until the third inning when Exchange batter Medlin punched out a single. After that hit, the losers couldn't touch Summeral.

Proctor unleashed his four-bagger in the fifth inning. At the time, the Elks already had a 2-0 lead. In that fifth frame, the winners tallied five more times to clinch the contest.

The Elks picked up a total of eight hits in the bout.

Exchange 000 000-0 1 2
Elks 200 05x-7 8 1

The VFW carried a 3-1 lead into the fifth inning of their contest with the Lions yesterday afternoon. In that fifth frame, however, the Lions exploded for five big runs to command the lead and ultimately win the game.

In that inning, Smith, Miller, Gilliam, Powell and Larkin crossed the plate for the winners. Three hits triggered the scoring.

Kenneth Allen was the losing pitcher. He was tapped for five runs.

Blalock, Allen and Calloway scored for the losers.

Bold Ruler, Gallant Man Top Choices At Belmont

Anthony-Durelle Draw Upset Tony's Chances

By DAVE DILES
DETROIT (AP) — Three different matches were mentioned in the wake of the startling 10-round draw between unknown Yvon Durelle and top-ranked Tony Anthony, but the one with the slimmest chance of coming off was the one pitting Anthony against light heavyweight champion Archie Moore.

Anthony and his manager, Ernie Braca, said before last night's nationally televised slugfest that the 27-year-old New Yorker needed an "impressive" win over the muscular French-Canadian to assure a title fight with the elusive Archie Moore.

It was the consensus opinion that Anthony, the No. 1 contender who retreated and counterpunched all the way, was fortunate to get out with a draw. Though he was credited with a sixth-round knockdown that Durelle's handlers said came from a low punch, Anthony could not flick off all the looping swings that the 27-year-old Durelle brought up from his half-crouch. "I want to fight him again," said Anthony. "Make the match right now. Where's the matchmaker?"

Braca told his fighter "I'll make the decisions." And George Gainsford, one of Anthony's handlers, halted the conversation by saying: "Anthony and Judge Malcolm House, 40-39 for Durelle. The AP had it 46-45 for Durelle. The gate take was $3,889.80.

There was talk of a rematch in Detroit. Another possibility is that Detroit's Chuck Spieser, who lost to Anthony two months ago on a third-round knockout, would be matched against Durelle.

Durelle, who weighed 176½ to Anthony's 174½, started slowly but had most of the crowd of 2,973 with him after his bull-like rushes at his taller opponent began paying off. Though he often was wild, Durelle had Anthony groggy in the second and tenth rounds from a series of looping head shots.

One of five fighting brothers and a commercial fisherman when he's not fighting, Durelle was blood-spattered from the third round on from damage to his nose and a small gash in his left eyebrow. But the pace seldom slackened and the Canadian light heavyweight champion, engaging in his third fight in 29 days, was much the stronger of the two at the finish.

It was the first draw for Anthony, who has 30 wins in 35 bouts. For Durelle, it was his second draw in 57 matches. He has won 40 of them.

Scoring was on the five-point must system for the nationally televised and broadcast (NBC) match, and it was scored this way: Referee Lou Handler, 41-41; Judge Barney Plotnik, 43-39 for Anthony; and Judge Malcolm House, 40-39 for Durelle. The AP had it 46-45 for Durelle.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bold ruler and Gallant man, not to forget five other colts of lesser stature, match strides today in one of the most talked-about horse races of the season — the 89th running of Belmont Stakes.

This is the finale of the famed triple crown series for 3-year-old thoroughbreds, and it apparently settles down to a question whether a good little horse like Gallant Man can handle a good big horse like Bold Ruler.

It also is a battle of wits and skill between two old Belmont veterans, Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons and Eddie Arcaro with Bold Ruler, and a combination, taking their first crack at the great mile and one half classic, Gallant Man's trainer, 44-year-old John Nerud, and his 26-year-old jockey, the brilliant Willie Shoemaker, are pitted against Sunny Jim, at 82 the dean of American trainers, and the 41-year-old Arcaro, premier stakes jockey. Both will be seeking their seventh Belmont.

This doesn't necessarily rule out five other fine colts.

The Greentree Stable of John Hay Whitney, U. S. ambassador to Britain, and his sister, Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, entered a pair in Cohoes and Pop Corn. Ralph Lowe, the Texas oilman, decided to enter Bold Nero to accompany Gallant Man.

The field is rounded out with French-bred Lucky Dip from the Cain Hoy Stable of Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim, sportsman, and the D. & M. Stable's Inside Tract, owned by Ray De Brino, Valatie, N.Y., caulking contractor, and Joe Martino, Hudson, N.Y., fruit grower.

Bold Ruler is from the Wheatley Stable of Mrs. Henry Canegle Phipps, New York and Palm Beach, Fla., socialite. The big dark bay son of Nasrullah was favored in the Kentucky Derby, but ran fourth as the Calumet Farm's Iron Liege nosed out Gallant Man in a controversial finish. In the Preakness, middle-jewel of the triple crown, they let Bold Ruler run his own race and he defeated Iron Liege with Inside Tract a fast closing third. Gallant Man skipped the Preakness, but easily copped the Peter Pan Handicap here June 1. Iron Liege is out with an injury.

Gallant Man, an Irish toughie, weighs around 950 pounds.

Bold Ruler is several inches taller than Gallant Man, has a great bone structure and his estimated weight is between 1,050 and 1,100 pounds.

The Belmont will be televised and broadcast nationally (CBS) from 3:30-4 p.m., EST, and with seven starters the purse would gross $14,350 with the winner netting $78,300.

To Discuss New Olympic Events

AUSTIN (AP) — The NCAA track and field rules committee will consider tomorrow the addition or substitution of four events to its schedule in line with the Olympics Games.

They had been talking about replacing the 220-yard low hurdles with the 440-yard low hurdles and the 2-mile run with the 3-mile run and adding the hop-step and jump and the 3,000-meter steeplechase. The argument was that these events are in the Olympics schedule and the United States athletes could help themselves by being able to compete in these events all the time.

Brutus Hamilton, coach of California and chairman of the rules committee, said he opposed it because it would drag out the meets and because he could see it to be of no particular help.

"We have done pretty well in these meets anyway," he commented.

The National Collegiate Track Coaches Assn. also meeting here, will wind up its session tomorrow. It is due to adopt a resolution condemning the implication that the so-called "pep pills" were used by the 4-minute milers to stimulate their feats.

The coaches were referring to a recent statement by a New York doctor. The coaches deny that any drugs are used in track.

State Bank Wins Fifth Of Season

Charles Gray pitched and hit his State Bankers to a lopsided 10-0 victory last night over the Guaranty Bankers in Teen-er league play at Guy Smith Stadium.

Gray hurled a three-hitter and slammed a long home run and two singles to pace his club to its fifth victory in six games.

Joe Moye pitched for the losers and was slugged for nine hits.

Gray fanned two and walked one. Moye compiled the same record.

State Bank rapped in three runs in the third inning to take the lead. They added two more in the fifth and five in the sixth.

Guaranty Ban's three hits were well-scattered by Gray. They came one in the second, one in the fourth and one in the sixth innings.

Tobs Bow 5-4

CAROLINA LEAGUE
Seventh inning luck wasn't quite lucky enough for Wilson last night and the Tobacconists bowed to Durham, 5-4, leaving the Bulls firmly in first place in the Carolina League.

Winston-Salem muffed a chance to gain on Durham by splitting a doubleheader with Danville. Winston-Salem won the opener, 4-2, and Danville took the finale, 4-1.

The weatherman set the stage for a doubleheader tonight for Greensboro and High Point-Thomasville when rain washed out their encounter.

Logan Fined $100 For Ball Brawl

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Johnny Logan, Milwaukee Braves' shortstop, has been fined $100 for his part in a fight with pitcher Don Drysdale of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and the peppery shortstop called the assessment "unjust."

Logan was notified of the fine last night by National League president Warren Giles who assessed Drysdale $40. The difference in fines is the sore point.

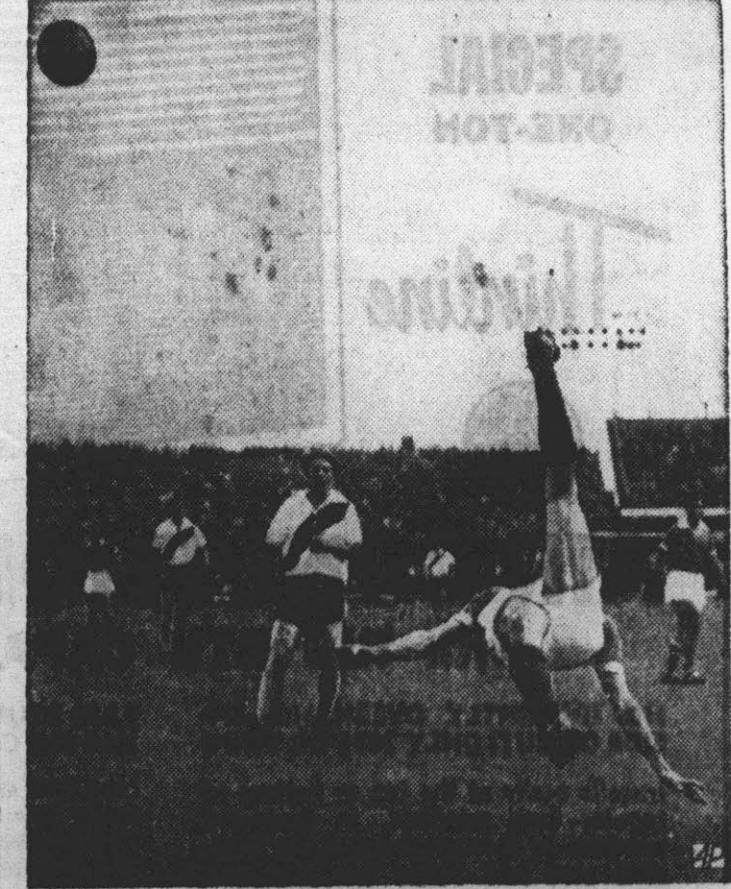

"I'm mad," Logan said. "Drysdale started the fight. He threw at me. If I get fined $100, so should he. It's unjust."

The fight took place in Brooklyn Thursday and developed into a brawl by players from both teams. Logan came out of it with a cut over one eye, while Drysdale collected lumps on his cheek.

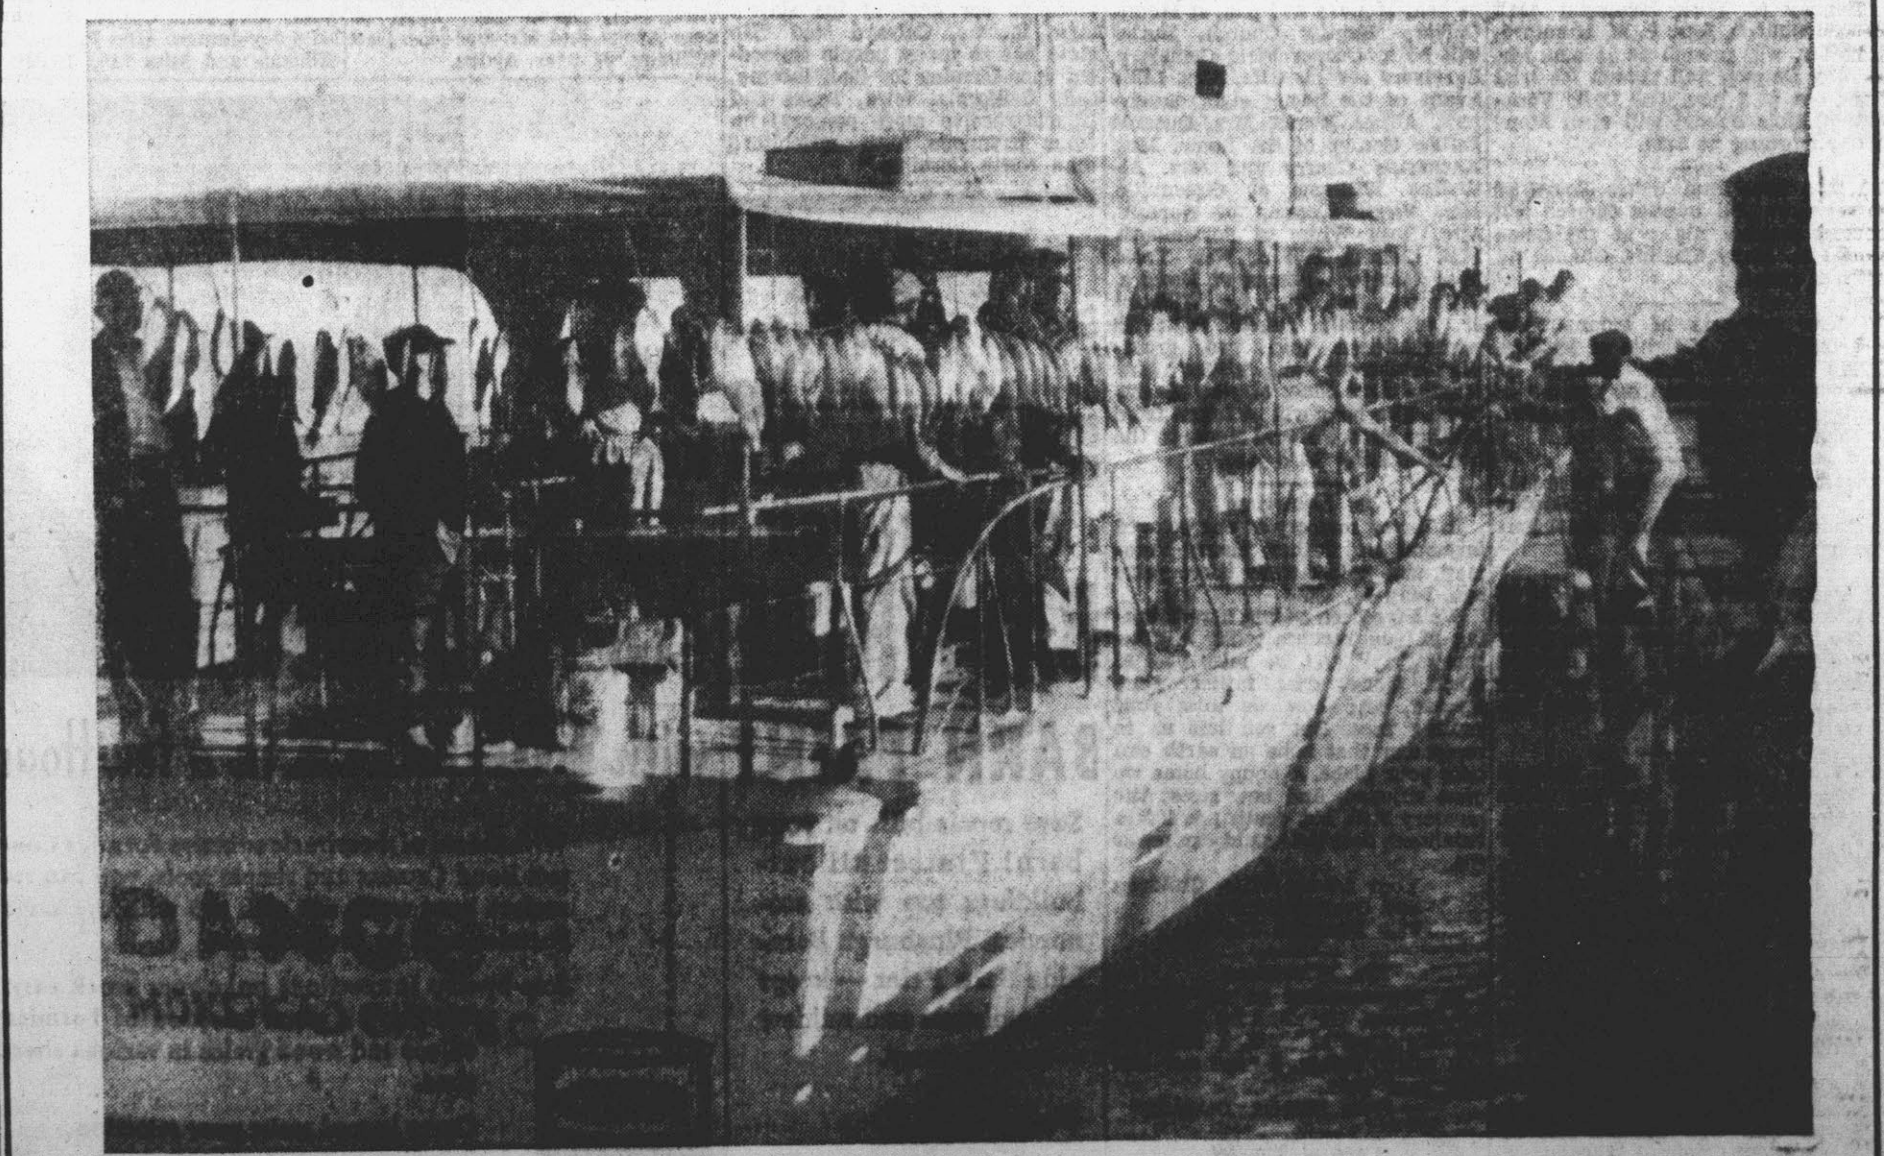

In a telegram, Giles told Logan: "Your challenging remarks were in a large measure responsible and your participation was a repetition of similar and less serious offenses in the past."

Giles references to "similar offenses" apparently was to Logan's tangle with Hal Jeffcoat of the Redlegs two weeks ago.

Rep. Jones Is Club's Speaker

Representative Walter Jones of Farmville, guest speaker at National Flag Day exercises at the Greenville Elks Lodge yesterday afternoon, recalled that the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks has been annually observing National Flag Day for over half a century.

The legislator said the American flag, more than any other national emblem, is a symbol of greater freedom in the United States than that of any other country.

Exalted Ruler Harry M. Brown presided. Others participating were: W. Face Fuller, esteemed leading knight; Julian White, Estemmed Loyal Knight; Dale R. Gidley, esteemed lecturing knight; Kenneth L. Quiggins and Tom Rowlette, chaplain, and Dr. P. R. Pickelsimer, secretary.

Kenneth R. Quiggins gave the history of the American flag and Dr. J. M. Barrett responded. W. H. Tolson was organist.

A social hour followed the program and the guests were shown over the new Elks Home.

The Rev. F. Ray Riddle Jr., minister of the Lakeview Presbyterian Church, New Orleans, La., will conduct the morning worship service Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church.

The eight-day session of Vacation Church School concluded Friday, June 14th.

The Westminster Fellowship will meet Monday evening at 5:30 in the Y-Hut on the East Carolina College campus for fellowship and fun.

The General Meeting of the Women of the Church will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in the Church Parlor.

Senior High Fellowship Conference will be held at the Presbyterian Camp on Bogue Sound June 18-24. Those attending will be: Mary Ann Bryant, Dorothy Davis, Jesse Powell, Janice Fordham and Billy James. Miss Ellen Williams will attend as a counselor.

Learned To Eat Novel Foods Visiting Japan

Miss Margaret Stevens, assistant Pitt County home demonstration agent, guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club's supper meeting last night, said she learned to eat octopus, kelp and raw fish while in Japan last year, but didn't like it.

She went to the Orient as an International Farm Youth Exchange student and lived in Japanese homes seven months under sponsorship of the federal government. She showed films of scenes in Japan and drew applause when she told of eating spaghetti with chopsticks.

Miss Stevens, a graduate of Woman's College, Greensboro, said she believes the exchange student plan is proving to be valuable in eliminating many false ideas of life in both countries. She said many Japanese young people asked her if Americans really had to work for a living.

Japan has a population of 90 million people and the average Japanese farm contains two acres, while the average American farm contains 70 acres, she said.

Kiwanian Charles P. Gaskins had charge of the program.

President Charles E. Blair announced that the Kiwanis Club will have its weekly meeting with a picnic supper at Kiwanis Park next Friday at 6:30 p.m. and that the

Declares Pitt Losing Out On An Opportunity

(Reflector Photo) KENNETH WHICHARD . . . urges social security study.

Kenneth Whichard, speaking before the Pitt County Social Security Committee, yesterday afternoon, said it is "urgent that this county wake up to responsibilities and opportunities of social security."

Special case worker for the committee, Whichard declared that the Social Security problem here "is one that involves every one in Pitt County—and it is a problem that must be looked into."

He told the group of eleven officials and visitors that the ignorance on the part of our people who are supposed to know, as much as ignorance on the part of those who have not had opportunity to know. It involves everyone, and many of our town's leading citizens are just as much in the dark as anyone.

TENANT FARMERS

Whichard, who is a full-time worker on the social security cases, stated that "I have talked to over 2,000 farmers in this county; 90% of them have never filed an income tax return, a step which is necessary to receiving social security." He told the group that scores of families—especially in the tenant farmer bracket—have virtually cheated themselves out of badly-needed money by not

"Let The Lower Lights Be Burning" by Bliss. It is believed that the quartet can be prevailed on to sing some other numbers. The quartet is composed of Ralph Sullivan, Cliff Sullivan, Tom Swain and Robert S. Moye.

Whichard's suggestions to remedy the situation was highlighted by a plan to form community groups throughout the county "to talk to members in their own areas, to their friends and neighbors about the problem." This, he pointed out, seems to be the only way to inform people throughout the county, since the committee does not have sufficient funds to employ enough special workers for the task.

Evangelist Cites Plan Opposing Biblical Goals

Dr. Jimmie Johnson told the Crusade For Christ congregation at the big tent last night that Satan has a plan and a program for this world which opposes God's program and purposes as revealed in the Bible.

"Many people seem to think the Devil is a mere evil influence," stated Johnson. "The Bible plainly declares that he is a powerful person whom God cast out of heaven when he sinned. His domain is the earth. Since that time he has tried to thwart God's plan of redemption. He has been unsuccessful in cutting off the sacred line of succession which brought Jesus into the world to be God's 'sacrifice-lamb' that taketh away the sin of the world. He knows the sure prophecies of the Bible which describe his ultimate defeat. He uses many devices to render ineffective the message of the gospel as concerns individuals. Some of them are discouragement, divisions, diversion, delusion, deceit and delay. He is even willing that people be religious as long as they do not receive Christ by faith at their Savior and Lord. Another of his strategies is to persuade men and women to compromise-to yield to questionable practices that are not in conformity with true Christianity," Johnson cautioned.

Dr. Johnson preaches tonight at 8:00 o'clock at the tent, located on the West Greenville school grounds. Final services of the crusade will be conducted tomorrow afternoon and evening. Johnson announces that his subject for the 3:30 Sunday service will be "What The Bible Teaches About The Return of Christ."

Dr. Johnson will preach Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the First Pentecostal Holiness Church. Jimmie Johnson and his team members, Ralph McGilvra, song-leader and soloist, and Merrill Dunlop, organist and pianist, will leave Greenville on Monday, following their closing evangelistic service at the tent tomorrow night. The crusade is sponsored by the Greenville Ministerial Association.

Two Deaths Due Natural Causes

Pitt Coroner Griffin H. Rouse investigated two deaths in the county this morning.

German Chick Keeter, 54, of Greenville Rt. 3 was found dead in bed this morning around 7 o'clock by his wife and son. He had been in declining health for several years, Rouse said.

Following a preliminary investigation, the coroner stated the man had been dead from six to eight hours. Keeter died from natural causes, he added.

While working in his garden this morning, Harry U. Ippock, 71, of Crimsland Rt. 1 collapsed and died instantly.

Rouse said the Calico community resident died of natural causes. Ippock collapsed at approximately 7:45.

German Keeter Dies At His Home Today

German (Chick) Keeter, 54, died at his home in Portertown near Greenville early Saturday morning. Funeral arrangements are in progress.

Mr. Keeter, a native of Virginia, lived in the Winterville community until he moved to the Portertown community 13 years ago. He was a member of Salem Methodist Church at Simpson and the Winterville Red Men. He was married to Obelia Porter of Portertown in 1927.

Surviving are his wife, two sons, James Allen Keeter of Portertown, and A. Milton Bruce Keeter of the U. S. Air Force, now stationed in England; two daughters, Mrs. Bobby Smith of near Greenville and Evonne Keeter of the home; two brothers, Herman and Jamie Keeter of Winterville; and a sister, Mrs. C. N. Nobles of Winterville.

Doesn't Know His Attacker

A 50-year-old Negro man suffered a five inch knife wound in his chest early this morning but told City Police he didn't know who attacked him.

Emmitt Irvin of 304 Boy Ave. told officers that the cutting occurred on Albemarle Ave about 4:30 a.m. The gash was inflicted across the right side of his chest. He was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Last Rites Sunday For Bozzie Ippock

Bozzie Ippock, 71, died at 7:30 Saturday morning at his home near Calico following a heart attack. Funeral services will be conducted at the Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 by the pastor, the Rev. Floyd Cherry. Burial will be in the McLawhorn family cemetery at Cox's Mill. The body will remain at the Wilkerson Funeral home and will be carried to the church one hour prior to the time of services.

Mr. Ippock spent all his life in Pitt County and was a farmer. He was a member of the Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Queenie Smith Ippock; two sons, Heber Ippock of Calico and Leslie Ippock of Erul; a daughter, Mrs. Lewis Wetherington of Calico; two grandchildren; and three sisters, Mrs. Annie Godley and Mrs. Addie Clark of Washington, and Mrs. Victoria Dixon of Bath.

Highway Patrol Car Damaged In Auto Collision

A Rocky Mount resident was charged with running a stop sign, as a result of a collision with a State Highway Patrol vehicle yesterday afternoon.

Woodrow Lamb of 717 Cedar Brook Dr., Rocky Mount, was charged. Investigating officer Dick Tayloe of Grifton identified the driver of the Patrol car as Charles P. Patton of Aurora.

The accident took place at approximately 1:30 p.m. At the time the Patrol car was proceeding through the intersection of N. C. Highway 43 and U. S. 264.

There were no personal injuries. Tayloe estimated damage to the front end of the 1956 State vehicle at $700. The 1957 vehicle driven by Lamb received $500 in damages also in the front end.

Graveside Rites For Prof. Hollar Monday

Graveside services for Prof. E. Cleveland Hollar, 72, will be held at Greenwood Cemetery Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Rev. W. M. Howard, Jr., pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Mr. Hollar died at his home at Southwest City, Missouri, early Wednesday morning.

Mr. Hollar was a former member of the History Department at East Carolina College and since his retirement in 1951 he had made his home in Southwest City, Missouri.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ruby Smith Hollar; a son Robert P. Hollar of Wilson; a daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Whitesell of High Point; a grandson, Robert P. Hollar, Jr., and two brothers; L. M. Hollar of Richmond, Mo., and Victor Hollar of Mt. Morris, Ill.

Beauty Title . . .

The judges for the contest were Clarke Stokes, Craven Hughes, Mrs. Becky Hughes, Dick Greene and Mrs. Coleen White.

As winner of the pageant, Miss Respass will receive a dress and hat outfit from Blount-Harvey's, a swim suit from Brody's, shoes from Larry's Shoe Store, sport flats from Belk Tyler's and a fitted evening gown from Saled's.

Miss Moye and Miss James received gifts from Lautares Bros.

Bill Taylor, who served as chairman of the local beauty pageant said Miss Respass will receive an all-expense paid trip to the Miss North Carolina Pageant in Burlington. Taylor said she will leave for the state pageant July 10. It is to be held July 11, 12, 13.

The pageant chairman said he was "more than pleased with the capacity crowd which turned out last night."

Others who entered the pageant were: Miss Jane Claire Berryman, Miss Joy Jordan, Miss Patricia Lee Simonds and Miss Lois Briley.

Regards Tobacco As Not 'Most Promising' Crop

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Dr. D. W. Colvard, dean of agriculture at North Carolina State College, says tobacco is important to the state's farmers "but it is not the most promising basis for future growth."

Speaking at the closing meeting of the North Carolina Production Assn. here yesterday, Colvard said there should be an expansion of livestock, vegetable and forestry.

He called them "enterprises which have promise of becoming important sources of income to supplement the income of basic crops."

Pointing out the tobacco provides 50 per cent of the state's farm income, Colvard said "No state has so many people dependent upon farming for their income. Only California, Iowa, Texas and Illinois receive more personal income payments from agriculture than North Carolina."

Funeral Monday For Melvyn A. Byrd

Funeral services for Melvyn A. Byrd, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lee Byrd of near Helen's Crossroads, will be held at the Wilkerson Chapel Monday afternoon at two o'clock by the Rev. J. W. Bunch, Pentecostal Holiness minister of Greenville.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, Henry Freeman, who passed away three years ago, May 18, 1954:

We have been sitting here thinking of you because today is "Father's Day" and we miss you so much. Gone, dear father, gone forever, and how we miss your smiling face. But you left us to remember that none on earth can take your place. A happy home we once enjoyed. And how sweet the memory still, but death has left a loneliness that the world can never fill.

Zoo For The Kids -- And Grown-Ups Too

MIKE . . . is a curious coon.

BY ANNE SINGLETON
(Reflector Woman's Editor)

Over 100 varied species of animals and fowl can be seen at Bill & Joe's Pet Shop zoo on Albemarle Avenue.

"I have always been interested in animals and I knew many adults and children who were also interested in the animal kingdom . . . so out of the blue sky, I decided to open a zoo, not only for my own interest, but for the interest of the children and grownups in Greenville and surrounding communities," explains Bill Brickhouse, co-owner.

It costs an estimated $250 a month to operate the zoo, so an admittance price of 25c per person is charged. "This money is used solely for the maintenance of the zoo and the purchase of new animals," Brickhouse mentions.

ZOO HOURS

This zoo, which opened recently, observes the following hours Monday through Saturday—9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 2 p.m.-7:30 p.m.

Already an average of 50 persons per day have visited the zoo and Brickhouse cordially invites, "The old as well as the young."

Pictured on this page are just a few of the many animals located at the zoo.

Other animals and fowl that are attractions for visitors are skunks, red squirrels, flying squirrels, fox squirrels, a red fox, dogs, parrots, Chinese Silkies, Japanese Short Legs, doves, and quail.

Tubs of fish also have their special places at the zoo.

For the children's amusement there are swings, a see-saw and ponies that can be ridden around the zoo for a nominal fee.

Brickhouse says, "These animals are not for sale, but rather, for enjoyment."

FIRE

On March 24 a fire at the Pet Shop caused the death of approximately 25 animals including a leopard and bear.

But the owners have already begun replacing the animals, and Brickhouse says, "We hope to have some lion cubs in a few months."

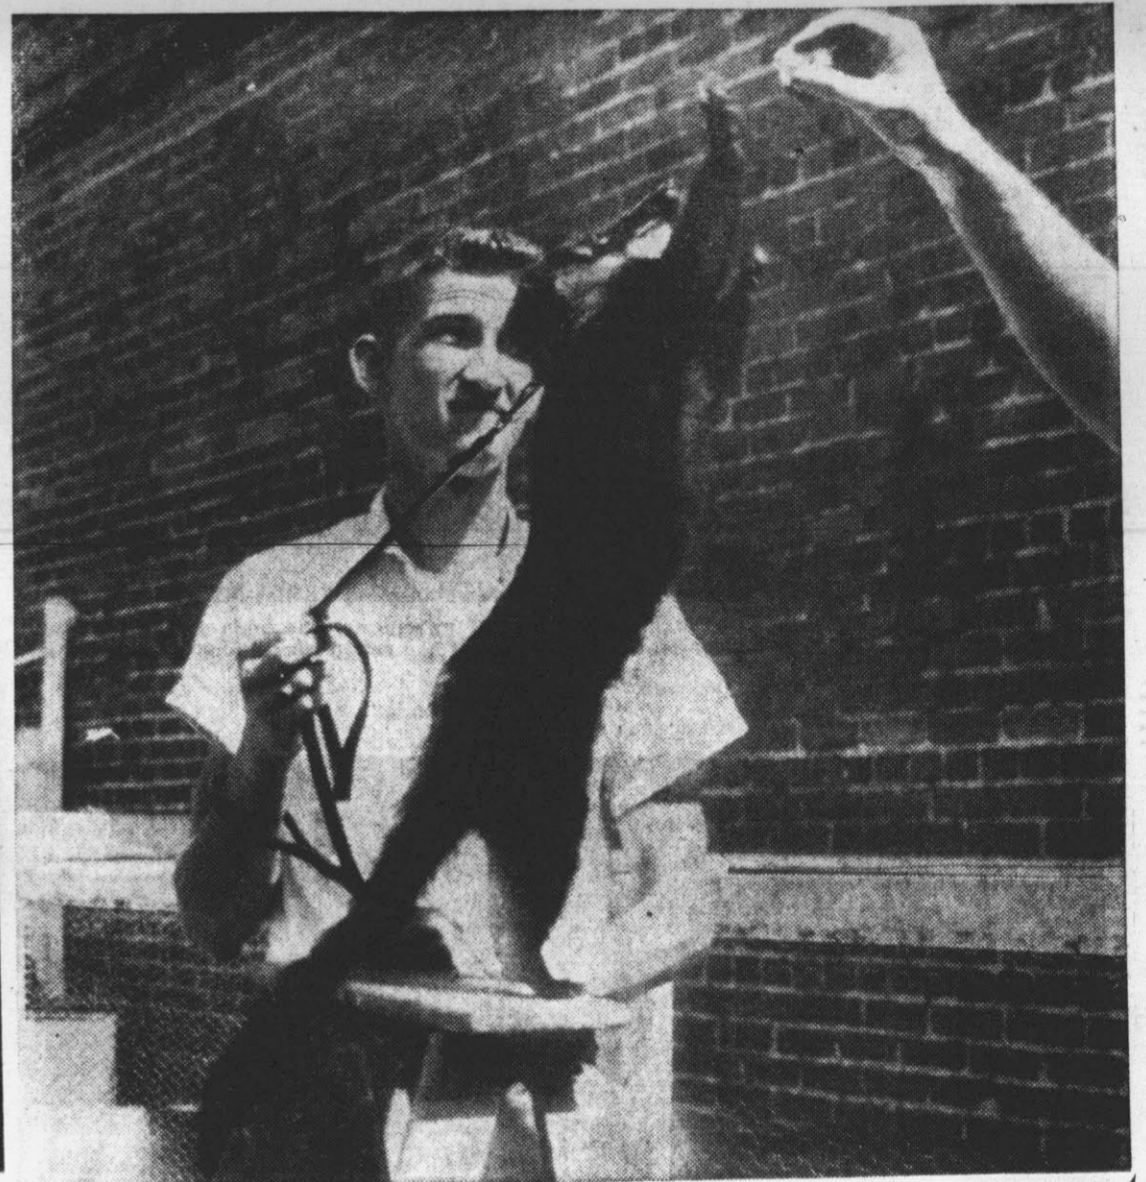

In the future, plans call for enlarging the surroundings of the zoo and adding animals.

"We would like to have enough space in order for picnic tables to be located at the zoo so that families can bring their lunch or supper with them," reflects Brickhouse, "and bridal paths for the pony riders."

Todd Compares Two Conflicts

Addressing the Exchange Club last night, Dr. Richard Todd stated that the world conflict between the East and West today is similar to the conflict between the North and South 100 years ago.

Dr. Todd, professor of history at East Carolina College, pointed out that the way of life is motivated by economic considerations. In the War Between the States, the North was heavily populated, with little land and was commercial. The South had a smaller population and contended that they needed slaves to work the large amount of land.

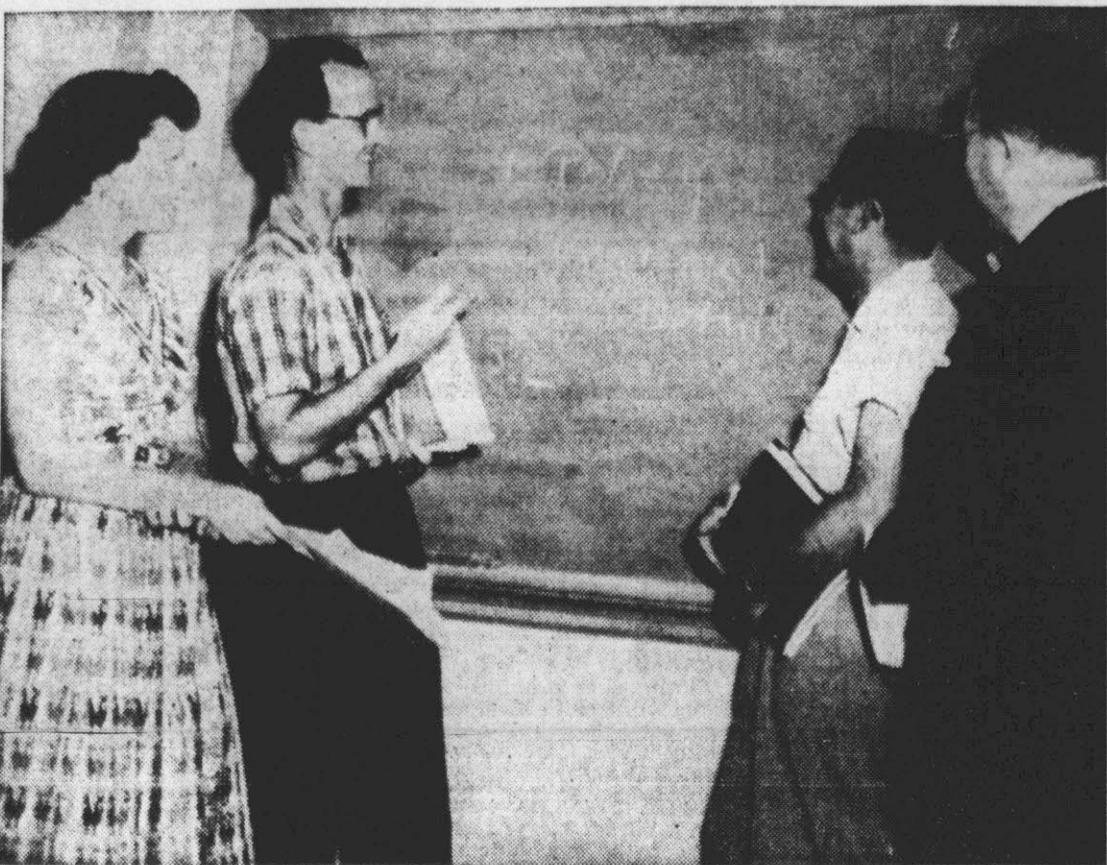

Today the West is not overly populated while the East has more people than they can support.

The speaker said "the world is looking at the way we handle our minority problems of race, creed and color. Since we are the leader of the West, we must resolve our own problems before we can resolve the problems of the world."

He pointed to the fact that 82 percent of the peoples of the world are yellow, red, brown or black. Whites are the minority group of the world. He said that in the future there may be a time that the world will want to vote and the colored races will win with ballots or bullets.

During his discussion, Dr. Todd pointed to the symbol of the Flag as a challenge to do the right thing in relations with our own people and abroad, since it stands for a land of liberty, freedom and equality.

Conclude Two Week ECC Workshop

Forty-six students at East Carolina College completed yesterday a two-week discussion of the moral and spiritual values and the question of what emphasis they should receive in public education.

Dr. John B. Bennett of the faculty, coordinator of the workshop, stated that 35 graduate students and 11 seniors participated enthusiastically in the program of the college's first workshop on this question of vital concern to teachers and students.

The course of study was sponsored by the college as a contribution to a project now being sponsored in various colleges and universities in the United States by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education. Dr. A. L. Sebaly, national coordinator of the project, came to East Carolina to organize the workshop and to participate in its opening sessions.

Dr. Clinton Prewett and Dr. Judson White of the department of psychology, speaking on "Some Problems Involved in the Teaching of Religion and Moral Values," introduced a series of seven programs, each dealing with an area of instruction in the public schools and its contacts with moral and spiritual values.

East Carolina faculty members from the departments of English, science, the social sciences, art, music, home economics, and health and physical education served as speakers in these discussions. Counseling and religion and moral values received attention from speakers from the college and the Greenville schools.

The Catholic and the Jewish points of view on the "Teaching of Values and the Public School Program" were presented by Msgr. Edward T. Gilbert, superintendent of Catholic Schools, and Rabbi F. I. Rypins of Temple Emmanuel.

War Criminals Granted Pardons

TOKYO (AP)—The United States today pardoned another Japanese convicted of World War II crimes. Three others were pardoned by Australia.

Today's releases reduced the number of war crimes prisoners held at Sugamo to 66 convicted by the United States and 5 by Australia.

The prisoner pardoned by the United States was identified as former Army Lt. Ichiro Maida, who was serving a 26-year sentence.

EXCELLENT LUNCH

SENTINEL, Okla. (AP)—Jimmy Owings was so proud of the tomato he had grown early in the season that he asked the editor of the Sentinel Leader to take a look. They visited the garden but no tomato. Then Owings discovered his wife had harvested the tomato and served it.

Trial Of Jimmy Hoffa Ordered Begin Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal judge has ordered the conspiracy-bribery trial of Teamsters union bigwig Jimmy Hoffa to go ahead on Monday. She had granted a continuance, but changed her mind.

District Judge Burnita S. Matthews apparently was irked yesterday when a young woman lawyer told her Hoffa's chief counsel probably could not be on hand for the trial date because he planned to be in London at that time.

Hoffa, Teamsters union vice-president and boss of the union's Midwest activities, was arrested here March 13 and charged with hiring a lawyer to get inside information from the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee.

The lawyer, John Cye Chesley of New York, told the Federal Bureau of Investigation and committee officials about the plan.

Hoffa reportedly had hoped to delay his trial for several months so he could run for the Teamsters presidency, or at least play a major role in the selection of a successor to the retiring president, Dave Beck.

Hyman I. Fischbach of Miami is a co-defendant with Hoffa.

Yesterday, Judge Matthews heard arguments on a motion to continue the trial. Miss Agnes Neill, an attorney for only about two years, stood in for Edward Bennett Williams, Hoffa's chief counsel, during arguments on the motion.

The principal argument for a delay was based on Williams' engagement in Federal Court in New York on behalf of gambler Frank Costello, who is seeking a new trial on tax evasion charges.

The judge reset the trial of Hoffa and Fischbach for July 15. Then she asked Miss Neill whether

As Yet No Drug For The 'Flu Bug

NEW YORK — Science as yet has no drug to stop the 'flu bug once it hits you.

Influenza is caused by a virus, just as polio is. Antibiotics, sulfas and other drugs can halt germs, but they don't touch viruses.

The best defense is a vaccine, which acts specifically against the type of 'flu virus causing an epidemic. Health authorities are getting ready for vaccination programs if the current epidemic of Asian 'flu spreads here to any serious degree.

If 'flu does strike, doctors treat the fever, the aches and pain, sore throat, coughs, and other symptoms that 'flu causes. Aspirin and other drugs can reduce fever and relieve aches.

Doctors urge alertness to complications from 'flu — pneumonias or other infections caused by bacteria which hit at the same time when 'flu patients are in weakened condition.

Antibiotics and sulfas can overcome the bacterial infections, if treated in time. If a serious epidemic hits, medical authorities generally advise using antibiotics from the outset, to prevent the serious complications. Most doctors advise staying in bed a day or two after the fever from 'flu is gone to lessen chances of germ infections.

Complications such as pneumonia were responsible for many of the 10 million deaths caused by a world-wide 'flu epidemic in 1918. 'Flu is generally a mild, short-lasting illness. But once in a while a particularly virulent or tough type of 'flu virus develops, and it can have devastating effects.

The U. N. World Health Organization says reports all indicate that the new Asian 'flu virus is causing only a mild form of influenza.

Seeks Motoring Rights In Soviet

LONDON (AP)—A British travel official is in Moscow to work out arrangements for foreign motorists to travel by their own cars in Russia.

"I've got about 100 questions to ask the Soviet," John Phillips, of the British Automobile Assn., said before leaving London.

"Before any car parties visit Russia we want to be satisfied on many subjects, including gasoline arrangements, repairs and hotel accommodations," said Phillips.

"Another important question — can motorcyclists go, with an interpreter in a side car?"

The Soviets recently agreed to the trips in principle, with two reservations:

All foreign drivers must be accompanied at all times by a Russian interpreter and a guide.

Foreign travel is limited to two roads: From Brest-Litovsk on the Polish frontier to Moscow and return, and from Moscow to Yalta in the Crimea and return.

These are about the only lengthy stretches of highway in Russia that are hard surface.

Still to be answered is whether Americans, or foreigners other than Britons, can book tours through the British Automobile Assn.

Marriage Bunco Expert 'Took' Another Victim

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Another complaint has been filed against "Brig. Gen." Frank Mills described by police as the "arrested marriage bunco man in the country."

A district attorney's spokesman said Mills has married 25 times. The new complaint, filed yesterday, charges two counts of bigamy and two of grand theft.

Bunco detectives said it was issued on the basis of statements made by Mills' two most recent wives, Virginia Dean Mills and Sarah Schultz, both of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Schultz said Mills left her in 1956 to marry another woman. She said she loaned him $600 which he never returned.

Officers said the 60-year-old Mills has posed as a brigadier general named Franklin Mills. Police records show he has served in two prisons and one jail.

PLEASE BE PATIENT
NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot reports this sign on a rural gasoline station, observed by Preston Charles:

"Buz twice for night service; then keep your shirt on while I get my pants on."
