Tornado Strikes Marlboro; Area Farms Also Suffer

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

FARMVILLE—A howling tornado dipped briefly at Marlboro near here late yesterday to damage several stores and houses and demolish an automobile.

High winds accompanying the summer storm also caused crop damage for miles around. In addition, houses and barns several miles away from the worst hit section were damaged by wind and rain.

Hardest hit in Marlboro was a two-story structure, Stanley Grocery. The roof was lifted from the building and carried high over utilities lines located on both sides of the road. It then sailed over a house trailer parked on the opposite side of US 258 and slammed into an unoccupied dwelling beyond.

Highway Patrolman D. L. Minshew, who was near Marlboro when the twister struck, estimated that the store roof came to rest 100 yards from the building.

The structure is owned by A. H. Cobb and the store operated by E. E. Parker of 108 Home Ave. Parker said his twin sons, Ronald and Donald, were sitting on a stack of tires in front of the store when the tornado hit. An aluminum awning, parts of an electric sign and concrete blocks fell about the two boys but they "didn't get a scratch."

Parker said he hardly knew what happened.

"In fact I had walked over and opened the door when it hit. It all happened in a matter of five seconds and it was gone. It sounded like it was hailing."

An automobile parked in front of the store was demolished by the falling debris and another car parked near the store was reported damaged.

Tommy Wainwright, who was standing in a door as the storm approached. It came from the north and seemed to veer to the north once it crossed the road, he said. The storm looked like a tornado, Wainwright said.

"It was raining and hailing and you could hardly see in front of you," he declared.

After crossing US Highway 258 the storm damaged two dwellings on the west side of the road.

Winds sent a tree crashing down on a house occupied by Mrs. Estelle Credle, Negro, of Farmville Rt. 1.

Asked how the twister appeared as it approached she replied, "I tell you the truth I don't know because I was praying to the Lord."

She said she did not believe her house was seriously damaged. The tree landed on the roof but did not break through. Several sheets of tin were blown from the porch roof.

She said it was raining heavily and "it sounded like it was hailing to me."

Tin was blown off the roof of a house next door.

A short distance down the road near the US 258 intersection with US 264, the winds twisted a wood frame unoccupied store building, bursting out one of its sides. The big section narrowly missed a nearby house.

J. E. Casey of Farmville Rt. 1 said he "heard a roaring as I was standing in the front door."

He said he went to the back door of his house just as the wind struck and "I saw the store side blow out."

Casey said he thought the section was going to strike the house.

High winds accompanying the twister whipped crops for miles around and a house on the G. B. Saulter farm near Lang's Crossroads lost its roof in the winds. Rain poured into the upstairs portion of the dwelling after the roof blew away.

Saulter said two barns were damaged and an auto parked in one of the barns received damage.

He stated that he expected considerable crop damage. A large amount of tin from the building roofs was scattered through Saulter's tobacco field. A big tree in the front yard of the dwelling was blown over.

There were also reports that tobacco barn roofs on the Robert Lee Smith farm nearby were blown away.

Today there were reports of wind and hail damage to crops about the county. In addition to the Ballards Crossroads and Marlboro sections, reports of wind and hail came from Fountain and Hudson's Crossroads near Black Jack.

A streak of hail was reported from Fountain for about two miles toward Saratoga and hail and wind were said to have struck between Fountain and Falkland.

At Hudson's Crossroads eight or ten farms were said to have been hit by wind and hail. Crop damage there ran 40 to 50 per cent.

Power lines were knocked out in sections of the wind-struck area and crews were busy during the evening restoring electrical service.

In Greenville the Utilities Commission weather station reported that 25 of an inch precipitation fell as rains hit the city around 5:30 yesterday afternoon. Highest temperature of the day was 93 degrees but the storm brought cooler weather and the thermometer fell to 74 degrees low last night.

All But Two Of City Funds Seek More Budget Money

All but two of the 14 funds included in the Pitt County budget are asking for more money to handle their 1957-1958 fiscal year activities.

That the two will get no more than they ask for is almost a certainty. Whether they, or any of the other 12, get as much as they want is questionable. Regardless of what the funds eventually receive from the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, requests from the 14 funds total $1,419,654.53.

The five-member Board of Commissioners have had the requests under study since the first of June. Much of their detailed discussion of individual items in the requests has been side-tracked by other pressing county business, but the commissioners are planning to complete their appropriations actions before the fiscal year ends on June 30.

Largest single request in the proposed budget is from the School Fund which is asking for $549,826.98. Smallest single request is from the Aid to the Blind Fund which is asking for $11,160.

The two funds which are asking for less than they received last year are the General Fund and the Dog Fund. The General Fund's request for $339,183.50 is $14,185.17 less than the 1956-1957 appropriation, but the Dog Fund's request for $13,785 is $2,580 less than its 1956-1957 appropriation.

The School Fund, which has a difference of $68,174.58 in its present funds and requests for next year, and the Debt Service Fund have the requests for largest increases. The Debt Service Fund, which got $82,310 for 1956-1957 operation, wants $130,796.82 to take care of its obligations in 1957-1958. The Debt Service request is $48,486.82 more than the present appropriation.

Other fund requests and differences in their present funds include:

County Home: $25,285.00, plus $2,590.

Outside Poor and Relief: $52,410.00, plus $2,650.

Department of Public Welfare, Administration: $73,392.23, plus $6,253.98.

Aid to Blind: $11,160.00, plus $660.

Aid to Dependent Children: $16,000, plus $870.

Aid to Permanently and Totally Disabled: $13,920.00, plus $580.

Old Age Assistance: $39,000, plus $507.53.

Health Department: $100,800, plus $6,033.

Mental Health Service: $34,195.00, plus $5,075.

Hospital Fund: $20,100.00, plus $531.

Byrd Challenges Humphrey Views Of Fiscal Health

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) today sharply challenged claims of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey that the Eisenhower administration has reduced the national debt and federal spending.

Byrd, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, led off the questioning of Humphrey, first witness in the committee's long-heralded investigation of the nation's financial condition.

The Virginian said Humphrey, in his 50-page statement yesterday, stated the administration had cut both the debt and the rate of federal spending.

The facts, Byrd declared, are that the debt has gone up almost nine billion dollars since President Eisenhower took office, and spending has increased nine billion since the low point attained by the Republican administration in fiscal 1955.

The secretary's statement said "We have reduced the government debt" and "We have reduced government expenditures."

But he finally conceded today, under Byrd's prodding, that the committee chairman was correct in stating the national debt was increased from 265 1/2 billion dollars in June 1953, to 274 1/2 billion now.

Humphrey said that "over the whole period" the debt has increased and his statement should be corrected on that point. In claiming a decrease, he said he meant that the debt now was lower than the high point of 280 1/2 billions in the Eisenhower administration and that the budget surplus in the last full fiscal year, 1956, had brought some reduction.

As to the claimed cut in federal spending, the secretary stuck by his guns.

Byrd said the administration's budget, now being considered by Congress for fiscal 1958 should be listed at $73,600,000,000 instead of the usually stated $71,800,000,000. That is because $1,800,000,000 of highway spending included in previous budgets was listed outside the 1958 totals, he said.

Humphrey conceded this, but said even so, the $73,600,000,000 figure was lower than the $74,300,000,000 of fiscal 1953, which he said was the last budget for which the Truman administration was responsible.

Byrd, however, asserted it was not fair to compare the fiscal 1953 budget with 1958.

"The Korean War still was on throughout fiscal 1953," he said. "It was a wartime budget. The fiscal 1958 budget is a peacetime budget—the highest peacetime budget in the history of the country."

Will Invite Bids On New Armory

Invitations for bids for construction of the Greenville Army Reserve Training Center will be issued this week by the Corps of Engineers.

Bids for the single-story structure will be opened in Wilmington on August 6, according to Colonel H. C. Rowland Jr., District Engineer. The 200-man building will include offices, assembly rooms and in-door storage for vehicles. Other features include grassing, grading and paving plus necessary utilities.

Colonel Rowland's announcement noted that the Greenville training center is one of three for which bids will be asked. A 100-man center will be built at Hickory and a 200-man center will be built at Albemarle. Bids for the Hickory and Albemarle projects will be opened in July.

The Greenville center will be located on property at the City-County Airport, north of Tar River. Present facilities for training activities are located at 106 Picklen Street.

The Picklen Street quarters include the headquarters of the Greenville Sub-District of the North Carolina Military District, and administrative offices for Cell 1 of the 3015th USAR Reception Center and the 392nd USAR Engineer Company.

Farmville Man New President Of ABC Ass'n

ASHEVILLE — J. W. Joyner, chairman of the Pitt County ABC Board, has been elected president of the North Carolina Association of ABC Boards.

The Farmville man was elected at the closing session of the group's 22nd annual convention yesterday. He will serve for one year and is succeeding Guy T. Ward of Winston-Salem.

Joyner was re-appointed to the Pitt County board last week at a joint meeting of the Pitt Board of County Commissioners, the County Board of Education, and the County Board of Health. He received the first of his four three-year appointments in 1948 and was named chairman of the board in 1950. He has served as chairman since that time.

Ike Declares Civil Rights Bill Is 'Moderate, Decent'

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today his civil rights program is moderate and decent and is not aimed at persecuting anyone.

Eisenhower told a news conference he is badly disappointed that some people believe the civil rights program involves an intent to disturb the rights or social order of a particular section of the country.

The bill passed the House yesterday. A boiling controversy in prospect over efforts by a Senate group of Republicans and self-styled "Liberal" Democrats to speed Senate action.

Led by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.), this group seeks to put the House bill on the Senate calendar— withholding it from the Senate Judiciary Committee where it might be sidetracked for weeks, and perhaps forever.

Eisenhower was asked whether he hopes Senate Republicans will remain in Washington throughout the summer if necessary to help break a prospective filibuster by Southern senators against the bill.

Eisenhower declined to answer that directly. He said he normally does not comment on the handling of legislation before Congress because he does not wish to interfere.

He went on to say, however, that the civil rights program he recommended to Congress was designed to be conciliatory and moderate. Not in any part of it, he said, was there any thought of persecution.

Eisenhower said when the Supreme Court unanimously decided against further segregation in the nation's schools a great many things could have happened. He said the opinion caused a great deal of stir.

It was his thought, the President added, that this was a time for moderation and for development of some plan for good will. He was badly disappointed, Eisenhower said, to see that some persons believe there was in the program an intent to disturb the established rights and social order.

Southern senators will battle vigorously against the move to put the House bill on the Senate calendar.

Big Oil Tankers Collide, Burn

BREST, France (AP)—Two big oil tankers collided and burst into flames in darkness and fog off Brittany today. Eight sailors died in the oily sea but more than 50 were rescued.

It was a ticklish job for rescue vessels picking their way gingerly through fog and fearful of explosions from the burning ships. But they managed to pick up the surviving crewmen, including 10 who were seriously hurt. Late this afternoon none was reported missing.

The French Naval Radio Station identified the vessels as the 15,000-ton tanker Stony Point, sailing under Liberian papers, and the 19,000-ton Greek tanker Ioannis. But the Greek ship was also reported to be a freighter named Joannis or Ionis.

Victory Carriers Inc., operating agents in New York for the Stony Point, said the tanker was loaded with oil en route from Sidon, Lebanon, to Antwerp and carried a crew of 40.

All reports of the disaster, some 20 miles off the tip of the Brittany peninsula, came by ship's wireless from rescue craft. The fog was so thick off the coast that aircraft couldn't locate the burning ships.

French fishing boats along the coast could not put to sea.

The first radio message alerted shore stations when the German ship Eric Reckmann came upon the burning vessels.

The two stricken craft were still burning eight hours later, apparently abandoned by their crews. The Stony Point was reported settling low in the water. The rescue ships asked for tugs, indicating that at least one of the derelicts might be towed to shore.

Gov't Prepares Girard Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government moved today to appeal an effort to upset a court ruling barring U.S. authorities from turning over GI William S. Girard to Japan for trial on manslaughter charges.

All indications pointed to a direct appeal to the Supreme Court, with hopes for a final decision before the court ends its present term next Monday.

The final decision on whether to go directly to the Supreme Court rather than going through the U.S. Court of Appeals here rested with Solicitor General J. Lee Rankin. His decision is expected today.

Appeal machinery was set in motion within an hour after U.S. Dist. Judge Joseph C. McGarraghly handed down his decision in favor of Girard yesterday afternoon.

This came in the form of a formal notice of appeal filed in District Court.

Girard's attorneys and supporters were jubilant at McGarraghly's decision. The judge ruled that to surrender the 21-year-old soldier to the Japanese would violate his constitutional rights.

The State and Defense departments had decided some time ago that Girard, a specialist third class from Ottawa, Ill., should be tried by Japanese courts on charges that he fatally shot a Japanese woman who was scavenging for scrap metal on a firing range in Japan.

Girard, who was guarding equipment on the range, has said the shooting was accidental. The woman, Mrs. Naka Sakai, was killed by an empty cartridge casing fired from a grenade launcher. Girard now is in Army custody at Camp Whittington, about 60 miles from Tokyo.

At the Pentagon, a spokesman said the Defense Department will take no action while the case is being appealed. The State Department refused comment. The incident was blown up into an international storm, and the case reached its latest stage as Japanese Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi was heading for a series of talks with high U.S. officials in Washington. Kishi was due here today.

Final outcome of the Girard case could have an important impact on American relations with Japan and with other allies with which the United States has status-of-forces agreements permitting trial of American service personnel in foreign civil courts for offenses committed while on duty.

At Camp Whittington, Girard took the news of the court decision calmly. He refused to comment. But in Streator, Ill., his mother said McGarraghly's ruling "made me very happy . . ."

Now 500,000 Phones Installed

RALEIGH (AP)—The Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. now has half a million telephones in use in North Carolina.

The first call on the 500,000th instrument was made yesterday by Gov. Hodges, who placed a call to Atlanta and talked to Ben S. Gilmer, Southern Bell president.

Hodges participated in ceremonies at the new Raleigh plant of the International Paper Co., where the 500,000th telephone is located.

The past nine years have seen Southern Bell double its number of telephones in the state. In addition, there are some 400,000 telephones in service by other companies.

Candlelight Ceremony Unites Grace Russell, Charles Allen

Mrs. Charles Durwood Allen, Jr.

In a candlelight ceremony Sunday evening in the Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church, Miss Grace Russell became the bride of Charles Durwood Allen Jr.

The Rev. E. C. Thornburg officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Jack Russell Jr. of Greenville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Flynn of Greenville.

Prior to the ceremony, a program of wedding music was presented by Miss Mable Lewis, organist, and Mrs. Joe Johnston Jr., vocalist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a candlelight satin and lace dress. Her fingertip veil was attached to a crown of orange seeded pearls and she carried a white satin lace covered prayer book with a white orchid.

Matron of honor was Mrs. David Roberson, sister of the bride. She wore an orchid nylon gown over satin and carried pink bridal roses in a cascade bouquet.

Hart-Manning Vows Said In Ayden Baptist Church Sunday

Mrs. Charles Hubert Hart

AYDEN—In the Ayden Free Will Baptist Church at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, a double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. I. J. Blackwelder uniting Miss Margie Lee Manning and Charles Hubert Hart, both of Ayden.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ernest Manning of Ayden and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Winfred Hart of Ayden.

Floor baskets of white gladioli, gypsophelia and Oregon fern interspersed with seven branched candelabra, centered with a brass altar cross flanked with a burning cathedral candle, were used as decorations. The wedding arch was entwined with greenery and gardenias, and the pews were decorated with gardenias and satin bows.

Prior to the ceremony the church organist, Mrs. Roy Turnage Jr., rendered a program of nuptial music, and Miss Barbara Griffin, soloist, sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because," and the "Wedding Prayer" as the benediction.

Given in marriage by her brother, James Earl Manning of Walsenburg, the bride wore a formal wedding gown of bow-knot Chantilly lace combined with nylon tulle over bridal satin. The basque bodice was designed with a Mandarin neckline accented by a tulle yoke. Long sleeves extended over the hands in points. The bouffant skirt featured a deep band of inserted lace, lavishly flounced with tulle. Her two-tiered fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to scalloped pillow-box of simulated pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations with spangled net centered with a purple throated white orchid.

Mrs. Clifton Davenport of Ayden was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a dress of yellow nylon tulle, featured with floor length ruffled bouffant skirt and a fitted bodice trimmed with matching velvet at the neckline. She wore a headdress of matching material and carried a bouquet of yellow roses tied with yellow ribbon.

Mrs. David C. Hardee and Mrs. James Brady, Miss Barbara Nell Hart, sister of the groom, all of Ayden, and Mrs. Graham Hudson of Greenville served as bridesmaids. They wore identical dresses of blue nylon net fashioned with full floor-length skirts and fitted bodices. Their headdresses were the same as the honor attendant's, and they carried bouquets of pink carnations tied with pastel ribbons.

Gordon Hart, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were Dr. Clifton Davenport, brother-in-law of the bride, David C. Hardee, Sydney Britt of Ayden; George Kenneth Manning of New York, brother of the bride; and Willie Bruce Powell, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, of Fort Barnwell.

The bride's mother chose a pink lace dress with white accessories and a purple orchid for her daughter's wedding.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a light blue dress with matching hat and an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony the couple and members of the wedding party received in the church vestibule.

For a trip to Southern points the bride changed to a blue silk shantung dress made sheath style with a short jacket with which she used a white hat and other accessories of black patent, and

Miss Manning, Mr. Taylor Have June Wedding

Mrs. Louis Hines Taylor

BETHEL—The marriage of Miss Anna Louise Manning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ashley Manning, to Louis Hines Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bernard Taylor, took place June 9 at the Bethel Methodist Church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Carlos Womack, pastor of the church. Palms, woodwardia ferns and baskets of white gladioli decorated the church. Wedding music was furnished by Mrs. W. R. Hummcut, organist, and Miss Loretta Bullock, classmate of the bride, vocalist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was an original fashioned by her aunt, Mrs. Raymond Sanford Whitehurst, of Norfolk, Va. The gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle over "Empress" dull mat, pure silk, satin was fashioned with a scooped neckline encrusted with iridescent sequins and pearls and long lace sleeves ending in points over the hands. The basque bodice complemented the full tulle skirt with lace peplum extending into a sweeping train. The back was finished with tiny self-covered buttons to the hip line.

Her fingertip length veil of imported illusion fell from a crown edged with tiny seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book, a gift from Mrs. Hutch Ward, aunt of the bride, topped with a white hybrid orchid and showered with lilies-of-the-valley.

Mrs. L. L. Andrews Jr. of Bethel was matron of honor for her sister. The bridesmaids were Miss Carolyn Manning, sister of the bride, and Miss Patricia Anne Carson, both of Bethel, and Miss Phyllis Nelson, niece of the bride, and Miss Janet Taylor, both of Norfolk.

They wore full length gowns of azalea pink chiffon styled with scooped necklines and short sleeves. Their pointed shirred bodices complemented their full gathered skirts. They wore crownless picture hats of azalea pink chiffon and carried cascade bouquets of mixed spring flowers. Their only ornaments were pearl earrings, gifts of the bride.

Little Miss Jeannie Whitehurst, cousin of the bride, and Miss Debbie Manning, niece of the bride, of Norfolk were flower girls. Their dresses were like the other attendants' and they carried baskets of mixed spring flowers. They wore tear drop pearl necklaces, gifts of the bride.

Jerry Bernard Taylor was best man for his son. Ushers were Clyde Ashley Manning Jr. of Buraw, Bobby Gene Manning of Summerfield, Francis Kirk Manning of Norfolk, Va., all brothers of the bride, and Vernon Paul Von Drehe, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Manning, mother of the bride, wore a powder blue lace over taffeta dress with matching accessories and a dark royal purple orchid corsage.

Mrs. Taylor, the bridegroom's mother, wore a navy blue lace over taffeta dress and a purple orchid. The mistress of ceremony was Mrs. Gideon David Overman Jr. of Norfolk.

Following the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains. Upon their return they will reside in Greenville. The bride traveled in a blue linen dress and duster with white accessories, and a white orchid corsage.

Parties

The couple was honored at a luncheon on Saturday prior to their wedding given by Mrs. L. L. Andrews Jr. and Mrs. Jesse William Carson, both of Bethel, and Mrs. P. Kirk Manning of Norfolk. The invited guests numbered 40.

Mrs. Alvin Wilson, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Floyd Wilson of Hobgood and Mrs. Raymond S. Whitehurst of Norfolk entertained at Mrs. Alvin Wilson's home at Hobgood at a cake cutting for members of the wedding party, family and friends. The house was decorated with pink gladioli and greens. The refreshments were a wedding cake with pink punch, nuts, mints, and small sandwiches. The invited guests numbered 55.

September Bride

MISS SHELBA JEAN CANNON—is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Edward Cannon of Ayden who announce the engagement of their daughter to Sam R. Gooding, son of Mrs. Floyd D. Gooding and the late Mr. Gooding of Ayden. The wedding will take place September 6.

Bride-Elect Honoree

BETHEL—Bride-elect Miss Anna Lou Manning was honored Wednesday afternoon at a tea given by Mrs. R. B. Edmondson and Mrs. Ashley Manning Jr. at the bride's home near Bethel.

Mrs. L. L. Andrews Jr. welcomed guests and directed them to the gift room. Mrs. Edmondson invited them into the dining room. An arrangement of delphinium, pink roses and feverfew in a crystal bowl flanked by crystal candelabras containing pink candles was centered on a white linen cut-work cloth.

Punch was poured by the honoree's mother, Mrs. C. A. Manning. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Ashley Manning Jr., Mrs. Jessie Carson, Mrs. J. B. Stewart, Miss Carolyn Manning, Miss Sylvia Gardner and Miss Margaret Rose Edmondson.

The hostesses presented the honoree with a corsage of gardenias and a gift of silver. Goodbyes were said to Mrs. L. L. Andrews Jr.

Misses Blanche Staton and Helen Fleming delightedly entertained on Tuesday morning in honor of Miss Elmer Andrews of Princeton. Sweetpeas and other garden flowers were used in decorations. There were four tables of Rook. High score was made by Miss Andrews, who was presented an attractive powder puff. The guest of honor prize was a dainty hand-made handkerchief. The visitor's prize, a hand-made handkerchief, went to Miss Carlyle Charles of Richmond, who is the guest of Miss Helen Burnette. Low score was made by Miss Margaret Hassell, who was given a novelty pencil. Following the game, iced drinks and sandwiches were served.

Pilot Club Plans Charter Night

The Pilot Club of Greenville voted to hold their charter night in September.

The club held its June business meeting in the Directors Room of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Co. Monday evening.

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Mallory, president, presented Miss Frances Thompson, Miss Judy Barrett and Miss Ruby Jones of the Raleigh Pilot Club. They gave the school of instruction. Miss Frances Thompson discussed the duties of the officers; Miss Ruby Jones explained the work of the committees, and Miss Judy Barrett told what Pilot meant to her.

Pilot Principles
Pilot principles are Friendship and Service. Friendship is unselfish; service is altruistic; both are basic in the building of human character and relationships. The Pilot club is a classified service organization of representative business and professional women in a community, selected for their value to society and committed to belief in and practice of these basic principles.

The July dinner meeting will be held at the home of Miss Annie Moore, 1043 W. Rock Spring Road, July 1 at 6:15 p.m.

Reception To Honor Grand Officers

A reception for Mrs. Lila R. Duke, Worthy Grand Matron, and Garrell R. Moser, Worthy Grand Patron of the Grand Chapter of North Carolina, Order of the Eastern Star, will be held at the Masonic Hall, on the Pactolus Highway, Washington, N. C., from 8 to 10 p.m. on Saturday, June 29. Members of Greenville Chapter No. 149, O.E.S., have been invited to attend.

So that the host chapter may be informed of the number who will be present, those who plan to attend are requested to call Mrs. Edna Whitchard at 5272 not later than Friday evening, June 21.

Emphasis Placed On Plain Ability

Governor Hodges has made good his promise that the new head of the North Carolina highway department would be a career engineer and the post would be removed as far as possible from politics.

In naming Willard F. Babcock to head the state's re-organized highway forces, Gov. Hodges surprised even the most seasoned political observers in the state. He chose a career engineer who has been teaching transportation engineering at N. C. State College since 1940. He chose a man who is familiar to municipalities throughout the state for his consultant work on traffic problems. He chose a man who, so far as we know, has never been associated with politics in North Carolina other than discharging the political responsibilities of an average citizen.

The new head of the revamped Highway Commission brings to his new post a vast knowledge of transportation problems and transportation engineering. His abilities have been proved many times in cities throughout this state as he worked out new plans to help them unsnarl their traffic problems.

With the appointment of Babcock, the new Highway Commission already begins to take on a new look in sharp contrast to that which it has had in the past. It places emphasis on engineering ability rather than on political prestige and places the business of building and maintaining the state's highways above the business of placing political plums in tight places.

The Reflector is pleased, if surprised, at the Governor's choice for the new director of highways of the state. Equally with the man selected for the job, we are pleased with the new look it offers in the administration of North Carolina's vast highway system.

An Inquiry Alone Will Not Provide A Cure

Senator Harry Byrd points to these hard, cold facts at the outset of "the first full-dress examination of our fiscal and monetary policies" in half a century:

1. The federal government has abandoned a pay-as-you-go fiscal basis and has made no progress in reducing the World War II debt.

2. Public, private and corporate debt has soared from 600 billion dollars to 793 billions in the last four years.

3. Taxes remained at wartime rates, with federal and local levies now taking 110 billion dollars annually, almost one-third the national income.

4. The dollar lost 47 cents of its value between 1940 and 1952, then was stable for about three years, but now has lost an additional two cents in the last year.

5. Interest on the federal debt has become so high it now takes 10 cents out of every dollar for the federal budget.

Is anybody going to do anything about these facts? Or is this nation destined to continue its freewheeling spending policies right into national bankruptcy?

The Senate Finance Committee inquiry into the matters at least serves as a starting point. But the inquiry, without positive action as an end result, will be of little help.

The cold bare facts pointed to by Sen. Byrd should be sufficient to set the American taxpayer to doing some serious thinking. They should be sufficient to prod Congress and the Administration into some positive action to rectify these alarming conditions which exist and threaten the nation's economy.

Sidelights On The Absent Boss

By JEAN REILLY

BONUS FOR THE BOSS

Most people don't realize it, but writing a column is not the soft job it is generally thought to be. For example, it's a daily affair with limited space to fill and that's it.

So with apologies to the boss, who is visiting the North Carolina Air National Guard in training at Travis Field, Ga., unaware of what's happening in his name back in the office, his real job Friday, Lucy Harris and I have cooked up a one-day vacation for him . . . that is one day, column free.

THE BOSS — It's rather quiet without the boss around, as we're certain many good employees have found out. Horseplay gets tiresome, cokes don't taste so good anymore and pretty soon we begin to talk about the missing person.

In our case, we're lucky. Lynn Nisbet, a former South Carolina boy, has become as much of a Tar Heel figure now as the late legendary Tom Bost, and of course that Yankee who adopted the Southland, Carl Goerch.

It used to be said in newspaper circles that if Mr. Bost didn't like a word he would simply make up a new one. Lynn doesn't make up words but he could certainly give Webster a few pointers.

The most descriptive story about Lynn comes from Henry Belk of Goldsboro. Belk said a school teacher once assigned her class to read every inch of The News-Argo "except Lynn Nisbet's column." The kids, of course, made a grab for the column first. "That's exactly what I wanted you to do," the teacher said. "Now you've learned something about North Carolina."

NO FLURRY — Long before I came to work for Lynn I had heard that if there was anything about North Carolina I wanted to know I could ask him. Mac White of The Raleigh Times once commented that he thought Lynn would be easy to work for "because he could teach you so much." But one of the main things he has taught is that a good reporter can be in a hurry without the flurry that so many have.

STRENGTH — Lynn is a big man physically and his inner strength is in line with his physical appearance.

On his daily walk up the street to the capitol or the state offices he is greeted all along the way. Many of the people who speak to him each day, however, don't know when they see him striding along that he is encircled in a steel cage as the result of an automobile accident.

In the afternoon when they read his column they can't imagine that it was written during a 12 hour session at the typewriter in a bolt upright position because the brace won't permit him to relax and slump down in his chair while his broken back heals.

His wife, Kathleen, and his office staff worried about him, but he didn't have time to worry about himself. He was too busy keeping the public informed and many a legislator had rather face the wrath of an irate wife than the scorn of Lynn Nisbet — either for publication or otherwise.

LEGISLATIVE SIDELIGHT — A column published under the name of Lynn Nisbet while the General Assembly is in session is almost incomplete without the paragraph or so he contributes to Legislative Sidelights, so without the boss's permission I'll do a little plagiarizing.

One of the finest talks to come out of the 1957 General Assembly was a little one line speech by Rep. Tom White of Lenoir. Legislators had expressed the opinion that there was too much embarrassment and reticence over descriptive names. For example retarded children were no longer retarded but exceptional, etc. When the Blind School asked to drop the name blind from the title, most legislators were ready to kill the bill.

"If it will make one little blind child happy when he grows up not to have blind in the title of his school then I'm for it," White said. The bill passed.

The "Gallant Fox" from Rowan, Rep. George Uzzell, who announced his retirement from the legislature may be in line for a political appointment. At least, he says, that will be the only way in the future to get him away from his home and family. Uzzell proved to be one of the shrewdest and most capable men in the legislature.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHILE THERE'S TIME TO ACT

The legend is told of a blacksmith in the middle ages who, in pride of his superior workmanship, always put a special mark on his products to distinguish his work from that of inferior competitors. With the passing of time he became a captive to an invading army and was thrown into a dungeon. Being skilled in the matter of chains and locks, he felt that there must be some weak link or some imperfection of workmanship somewhere which would enable him to slip his bonds. In the darkness he felt over his manacles and foot-irons and ran his hand along the chain. Then he cried out in dismay. He had discovered on his chains his own mark. He knew now that there could be no escape.

Most of the things that bind us in life are chains of our own forging. They have our mark on them. They were not brought upon us by circumstances. They are not the fault of someone else. They are our forging, our fault.

The temper which has become practically unworkable, the laziness out of which we apparently cannot drag ourselves, the evil images with which we have decorated the inside of our minds, the creeping dependence on alcoholic beverages — we have come to experience — these things have in many cases become real bonds, in the case of others they are gradually dragging their victim into the bondage state.

And they are of our own forging. Do something about them while there's time to act.

Empty For The Summer

A Slow-Paced Vacation

I suppose I should make some brief comments about the vacation trip My Fair Gwen, the Wee Urchin and I took last week.

We visited friends in Washington, D.C., and relatives in Williamsburg. We had a very nice trip, thank you, but it was a rather pleasant surprise to return home and discover that our absence was noted.

The trip was not a sight-seeing or tourist venture, as such. We didn't go to any of Washington's principal tourist attractions nor did we make the grand tour in Williamsburg. The three of us had anticipated a slow-paced week and that's precisely what we had.

One thing we did discover on our trip to the Washington area was that portion of the Potomac River basin known as the Great Falls of the Potomac. The falls are about ten miles outside the city and while they are not as spectacular as some other falls we have seen or heard of, they are pretty.

The muddy Potomac, which is a lazy-looking river at Washington, is a different place at the falls. It chatters and rushes through a long rocky gorge, fighting rocks carelessly strewn in its path by long-forgotten natural forces. The expression "white water" takes a new meaning as you stand high on the Virginia bank and look down into the gorge at the turbulent river.

At Williamsburg, which we have visited several times, my personal accomplishment was a first visit to the Colonial Williamsburg brick yard. Old bricks, dug, I suppose, from old foundations, are cleaned and reclaimed in the yard. They are then stacked according to size and age, to be used as they are needed in the gigantic restoration project that has made the old colonial capital one of the most popular tourist spots in the South.

The most pleasant discovery in Williamsburg, however, was not any old world charm but the thoroughly modern swimming pool at the new Williamsburg Motor House.

The heat wave followed us from Washington to Williamsburg and the pool made us forget that we brought the hot weather with us. As a matter of fact, everything about the Motor House made us forget the hot weather.

The place is fabulous. It is a part of the new $12,000,000 reception center completed and opened this year. The Motor House has about 240 rooms, all of them air conditioned, plus a comfortable lounge, cafeteria, gift shop, and, of course, the swimming pool.

First-time visitors, and even veterans of several Williamsburg visits, find the reception center a source of answers for any question about the restoration. It is staffed by folks who know their business, plus having the ability to set strangers at ease.

Wee Urchin made himself completely at home every place we went and frankly surprised us with his willingness to adapt to strange surroundings. He is, I suppose, no different from any other year-old but he still made us proud.

The Wee One was as happy to get home as My Fair Gwen and I were, but I wonder if he realizes that last week was his big excursion for the year. I hardly think he does but I wish I could accept things as he does.

For instance, his ability to take things as they come would be mighty helpful to me in the year ahead. After all, a year is a long time to wait for another vacation.

Other Editors Saying--- Disarmament Myths

(Wall Street Journal)

The disarmament optimism is bogging down in what Secretary Dulles calls "procedural complications"—a splendid bit of gobbledegook which appears to mean that some of this country's allies are perturbed because they think negotiator Stassen has been going over their heads in holding informal chats with the Soviet delegate.

So perhaps it is a good time to consider just what accomplishments, if any, it is reasonable to expect from the London talks. It is entirely possible that no "first step" or any other kind of partial disarmament will result. But if there are results, they will almost certainly be limited to steps the nations believe will not affect their own security.

For example, the United States and Russia might conceivably get together on mutual inspection for some desolate stretch of the Arctic—for the simple reason that it wouldn't mean anything. The talk about this being of value because of the short, polar route of potential aerial attack is mostly a dodge. The places where inspection would be significant are East and West Europe and the industrial centers of the United States and Russia.

Again, it might be possible to reach agreement on a modest cut—ten or fifteen percent—in conventional arms and troop strengths. Why? Because this is already the trend. With nuclear strategy in the ascendant, armed forces can get along with fewer bodies without impairing their war potential.

Thus the United States long since cut its military manpower considerably below the Korean War peak, and may cut further as more money goes into advanced weapons. The Soviet Union has pretty certainly cut its troops strength in the last few years, though it's not known how much. Britain will almost halve its armed forces without, it says, reducing firepower.

It is not even impossible that there could be agreement to halt tests of certain types of atomic bombs—if the nations were convinced it was no longer necessary to test these particular types.

But steps of this nature, it seems to us, just about exhaust the present disarmament possibilities. They are, perhaps, not to be sneezed at, since they would represent at least a start and every program has to start somewhere.

All the same, we think there is considerable danger in assuming either that such steps by themselves would make the world more peaceful or that they would necessarily be followed by "second steps" in the form of comprehensive disarmament.

Comprehensive disarmament—the kind that would drastically reduce the capacity of the United States and the Soviet Union to make war on each other — is simply not in the cards any time soon. It does not follow logically or automatically from the "first" steps that may or may not be possible now.

The only thing comprehensive disarmament could safely follow from would be a sharp change in attitude on the part of the Kremlin, which would be reflected in Russian willingness to reach acceptable agreements on such outstanding world issues as the division of Germany. Until that time, this country had better stay well-armed.

Seek To Erase 'Radical' Label

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The reason why the Rayburn-Johnson leadership on Capitol Hill refused to accept advice or guidance from the Truman-Stevenson-Harrison faction has now become clear, as Congress begins to give the finishing touches to the legislative calendar. They seek to erase the charge that the Democratic Party represents radicalism, a hangover indictment from the Roosevelt-Truman era.

President Eisenhower showed that this ghost still walks, when he rebuked critical and conservative Republicans by warning of the spending, dictatorial and antibusiness policies they would now face, if the Democratic controlled the executive branch of the government. Vice President Nixon makes sly digs in the same vein at every opportunity.

In order to banish these memories, the two Texans — Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson — have pursued extremely shrewd strategy. Sam has permitted the House to slash Ike's budget, thereby winning a reputation for economy, and to liberalize the Presidential program in minor respects.

SHREWD SAM RAYBURN But the Speaker has passed the word to his fellow-Texas to modify and soften the House handling of the Senate side. When the conflicting bills are taken up behind the closed doors of House-Senate Conference Committees to iron out differences, the powerful and skillful Sam will intervene to produce a moderate and relatively conservative product that will be satisfactory to all except extreme liberals and reactionaries.

It will not meet the demands of the Butler-Truman-Stevenson-Harrison Advisory Committee, which Rayburn and Johnson refused to join on the ground that it was interference with their prerogatives. But it will be a compromise that will prevent a dangerous and permanent split between the Northern and Southern wings of the Democratic Party. It will enable them to enter the 1958 and 1960 elections in a spirit of harmony.

NO WEAKENING OF MILITARY SERVICES Although the budget will be cut in response to bipartisan insistence, it will give Ike almost all he asks for national defense and foreign aid. Two stalwart Georgians deeply interested in the military establishment — Senator Richard Russell and Representative Carl Vinson — will tolerate no weakening of the services.

As a concession to Northern Democrats, there will be no punitive anti-labor action, despite the Dave Beck scandals. Under Rayburn-Johnson persuasion, Senator McClellan will be content with legislation for Federal regulation and publicity of union funds.

Right-to-work proposals, which forbid a closed shop, is too hot a problem for national legislators to handle, though there is a growing demand for them. But that question will be left to the states for solution in accord with local conditions.

An Old Idea Of Values

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "It seems to me that a dangerous philosophy has grown up that the world owes us a living," said Dr. John R. Bertrand, who at 42 heads one of America's most unusual educational institutions.

"We try to teach our students that it is up to a man to create his own opportunity — and that hardship need not in itself be regarded as a cause for unhappiness."

Dr. Bertrand, who last year became president of the famed Berry Schools and College near Rome, Ga., is an unusual educator himself.

After graduating from high school, he ran his father's Texas wheat farm for five years to save enough to start college. In the second World War he served 19 months as a submarine combat officer in the Southwest Pacific. Most of his fighting time he spent aboard the USS Bowfin, which torpedoed nearly 200,000 tons of Japanese shipping.

Dr. Bertrand is a tall, spare, dark-eyed man.

"Many college students in the United States today are spoiled. Things have been too easy for them," he said.

They aren't at the Berry Schools, founded in 1902 to give an education to boys and girls of the Southern highlands who could get one no other way.

The schools now have 1,000 students and a 30,000-acre campus, the largest in the nation.

No student is allowed to have a car. There is no football. The students wear uniforms to avoid social distinctions.

Every student — boy or girl — studies four days a week, spends two days at work to earn his room and board. Some 60 percent also work at the school during the summer to earn their tuition for the following year. All students attend religious services every Sunday.

The schools operate their own dairy farm, grow their own produce, market timber from their forest. Students have constructed many of the 100 buildings on the campus, even turning out the bricks themselves.

"The students also provide most of their own entertainment," said Dr. Bertrand. "We stress these things — the dignity of work, Christian living, and the importance of beauty in daily life."

This concept might sound a little stuffy to many a student who regards college as a long lark at parental expense. But some 16,000 students over the last century have proved the worth of the Berry formula.

The schools have turned out hundreds of teachers, ministers, farm experts, industrial technicians. Several graduates have become legislators and lawyers. One is a college president, another a magazine editor, a third vice president of a major Manhattan bank.

"Our graduates don't have any trouble getting located," said Dr. Bertrand, smiling. "Having had a good work background, they aren't afraid to tackle a new job just because it's hard."

Dr. Bertrand, who resigned as dean of the University of Nevada's College of Agriculture, to take up his present post, says one of the pleasantest things about it is that he rarely has a disciplinary problem.

"A student who is getting his education by the sweat of his own brow knows the value of it. He isn't in a hurry to get into trouble."

Pitt County Association of Life Underwriters have elected J. Paul Simpson of Williamston president of the organization for the coming year.

Other officers elected by the organization are W. C. Smith of Greenville, vice president, and M. Bud Lynch of Greenville, secretary and treasurer. Simpson is a general agent for Security Life and Trust Company in Williamston. Smith is a staff manager for Durham Life Insurance Co. and Lynch is a representative of Sentinel Life Insurance Co.

During the past year Simpson served the organization as its vice president and Smith served as secretary and treasurer.

Original Folk Drama By Pitt Student Staged

"Never Alone," a folk drama by a Pitt County senior at East Carolina College, was presented last night in the Flanagan Sylvan Theater on the campus, and received chief interest and attention on the opening program of the summer theater series at the college.

An audience of approximately 240 people turned out to see Mrs. Mary Oakley Dilda's one-act play of life in the tobacco-producing section of the country. A resident of Farmville, Mrs. Oakley drew upon her observation and experience in this area for the materials in her play.

The drama deals sympathetically with the tragedy of a Negro farm girl, played by Shirley Dixon of Ayden. The setting, a shelter for harvesting tobacco, was designed by Joseph Stell of Greenville. Mrs. Dilda directed her own play.

A second feature on last night's program was "A Phoenix Too Frequent" by the British playwright Christopher Fry. Carol Brooks of Brooklyn, N. C., directed the play.

Mrs. Dilda's play is the first of a series of original works by East Carolina students which will be produced this summer by those enrolled in the college's dramatic arts workshop. The plays were written in a class taught by Dr. Joseph A. Withey of the department of English and are being produced under his supervision.

Still to be presented are "Portrait of Polly" by William Register of Goldsboro and "Mr. Aycock's Marine" by James M. Ferrell of Lucama, June 25, and a religious drama "In Remembrance" by Lloyd Bray, Jr., of Greenville, July 2. Both performances will take place in the McGinnis auditorium and will be open to the public.

Officers Chosen By Association

Louis Fleming was elected Chairman of the Greenville Service Station Association at a meeting yesterday afternoon.

Others elected were: J.C. Roebuck, vice chairman and J. Ed Ricks, treasurer.

The group heard a report from J.S. Wells and Ricks on the highlights of a meeting of the directors of the North Carolina Service Station Association held in Wilson recently.

On June 26 the annual convention of the State Service Station Association will be held in Greensboro. The following local members plan to attend: J.C. Roebuck, Louis Fleming, J. Ed Ricks and J.S. Wells.

Scout Committee To Meet Monday

Erskine Duff, chairman for the Pitt Scouting District, announced today that the District Scout Committee meeting will be held Monday night, June 24.

The meeting will be held in Farmville at Bonnie's Cafe. Duff reports the meeting will commence at 7:15 p.m.

Discuss Better Teaching Plans

Approximately 120 teachers of science, meeting at East Carolina Tuesday, reaffirmed the importance of their field of study in the modern school program and discussed ways of improving instruction in the biological and the physical sciences. Dr. Grover W. Everett of the college department of science acted as chairman of the program.

Dr. Clifford B. Knight of East Carolina opened the session with a talk on "Materials and Methods of Preparing Biological Materials for Use in Science Courses." Three sets of demonstration experiments, illustrating laboratory techniques in physics, chemistry, and general science, were performed by Dr. Charles W. Reynolds, Dr. Austin Bond, and Dr. Everett, all of the East Carolina faculty.

The panel discussion centered attention on major problems of teaching high school science. These included obtaining suitable instructional materials on a limited budget, interesting the student taking required courses in science, and encouraging interest in scientific study through the annual science fairs conducted in schools of the state.

Three faculty members of Eastern North Carolina high schools who spoke on the panel and gave those present the benefit of their first-hand experience were Oia H. Forrest of the Belvoir-Falkland school, Mrs. L. Wheeler of Farmville, and Mrs. Virginia A. Barefoot of Hallsboro.

Say Indonesian Democracy Out

By JAMES WILDE
JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Prominent anti-Communist leaders declare democracy is now dead in this island nation. But none wants to be quoted for fear of going to jail.

Communist aims are opposed by the Socialist PSI and the Moslem parties, which together make up the largest political group in Indonesia. The leaders include such men as Socialist Sutan Sjahrir, former prime minister, and Mohammed Hatta, Western-minded former vice president.

But, despite their size, these parties are not so well organized as the Nationalist party, which bulks large among the supporters of President Sukarno, or the Communists.

A spokesman for the anti-Communist group said in an interview Indonesia is now being governed by a thinly disguised military dictatorship.

He declared Prime Minister Djuanda's government has no power except to carry out orders given by President Sukarno or the army chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Abdul Harris Nasution.

Sukarno is the advocate of a type of rule he calls "guided democracy." He has hand-picked a national council with veto powers over Parliament and the Cabinet. Nasution is an anti-Communist who has the backing of army idealists.

As the spokesman pictured it, Indonesia is going through a struggle between the extreme left and the extreme right.

He said support from the anti-Communist outer islands for Nasution might be expected. But he added that, even though the outer islands would fight if necessary, Indonesia hoped to avoid bloodshed at all costs.

Money Dwindles For Salk Shots

RALEIGH (AP)—Money is running out for the program of free Salk polio vaccine administered by the State Board of Health.

Dr. Fred T. Foard, director of the board's Division of Epidemiology, said yesterday enough vaccine for about 450,000 shots will be purchased before federal aid for the inoculation program ends June 30.

The supply probably will be sufficient to fill requests for shots this summer, but more than likely would run short in the event incidence of the disease should rise sharply, Dr. Foard said.

In order to continue the program next year, counties will have to provide the money or seek aid from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, he added.

Under the federal program only persons under 20 years of age and pregnant women are eligible to receive the free vaccinations at public health departments.

North Carolina received $1,872,734 in federal money for vaccine during the two-year life of the program ending June 30. In addition, the board of health received $374,548 for administration. This amount was divided among the counties on a population basis.

County health departments have given 2,648,903 shots. At least one shot in the recommended series of three was given to 64.9 per cent of the total; 55.5 per cent received two shots; and 33.3 per cent got the complete series of three.

Electric Service To Start July 1

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Roanoke Island and the town of Manteo, N. C., will start receiving electricity about July 1 from the Virginia Electric and Power Co.

VEPCO announced the date yesterday after the Manteo Town Council cleared the way by granting the power company a 30-year franchise.

The company announced in March it had arranged purchase of Roanoke Utilities Co. of Manteo, a firm with 870 customers.

Egypt Prepares To Hold Election

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt is about to take a tentative step toward democracy. But President Nasser will be able to draw back if the road ahead looks tortuous.

Elections are to be held July 3 for a National Assembly, the country's first Parliament since King Farouk dissolved the old Assembly in 1952 after rioting by street mobs.

Nasser, who was elected to a six-year term as president by 99.9 per cent of the total vote in an election June 23, 1956 (he was the only candidate), has made sure that there will be no candidates strongly opposed to his revolutionary regime.

Whether the Assembly turns out to be purely a rubber stamp body still remains to be seen. There is a little chance of effective opposition, also, if the constitution, also adopted in 1956, empowers Nasser to dissolve it and call new elections at any time.

The coming elections fulfill, at least in part, a promise the 39-year-old President made to his people to take the new Egyptian republic along the road toward constitutional parliamentary democracy.

Three hundred and fifty Assembly members are to be elected. They all must be passed on by the National Union, the only political party countenanced by the present regime. Extremist leaders under the monarchy overthrown in 1952, Communists and relatives of exiled ex-King Farouk are all disqualified.

Also ineligible are persons who have been arrested, confined to a restricted residence or put under police surveillance by the military clique headed by Nasser, which threw out Farouk.

To All Practical Purposes, High Court Making Laws

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court has become for all practical purposes the American lawmaking body in the field of civil rights and civil liberties.

Its rulings have had the effect of law in the huge vacuum left by Congress, which has passed practically no civil rights legislation in the 20th century.

The court may turn out to be President Eisenhower's most memorable monument. He has appointed four of the nine members: Chief Justice Warren and Justices Harlan, Brennan and Whitaker. He may have to name more before his term is up, if there are further deaths and retirements.

Under Warren's leadership the court has become far-reaching in its decisions on civil rights—most notably its ban on segregation in public schools—and on civil liberties.

It has been roughly criticized—particularly by Southerners—not only on segregation but for its opinions on Communists and Fifth Amendment cases.

The court has made it tougher for the government to prosecute or perhaps made it more cautious about beginning prosecutions while giving defendants more constitutional protection than they've ever enjoyed.

There is no room here to go into all the decisions of the court in the past few years in the related fields of civil rights and civil liberties.

Some of its rulings on communism have had a tremendous effect.

Monday the court threw out the convictions of 14 California Communists under the 1940 Smith Act, freeing 5 and ordering new trials for the other 9. It was under this same act the 11 top Communists were convicted several years ago.

But this decision was based on technicalities and will not necessarily interfere with the government's ability to try other Communists under other sections of the act.

A year ago the court knocked Eisenhower's federal employee security program into the bleachers. Under Eisenhower's program any government worker could be fired as a security risk.

The court said Eisenhower went too far under existing law: that only people employed in sensitive jobs could be ousted as security risks. There are other laws under which people otherwise undesirable can be fired.

Earlier this year the court threw out the conviction of a man who bought narcotics from a government agent never further identified except as "John Doe." The court said: "No more of that."

The court said if the government wants to prosecute a man, he has a right to know who the government informer was, and confront him, if doing so is relevant to his case.

On June 3 the court went further: it said that if the government does use a witness against a defendant in a criminal trial—a defendant in its secret files has information supplied by that witness against the defendant—the man on trial has a right to see that information.

This ruling has been erroneously interpreted as meaning the FBI will have to throw its files wide open. The decision is narrower than that. It's limited to written information by a witness against a particular defendant.

The purpose of the ruling was to give a defendant every opportunity to prove the witness against him has a faulty memory or is a liar.

The court has also ruled that past party Communist membership is not in itself a bar to the practice of law. It knocked out the conviction of three people who harbored a convicted and fugitive Communist leader.

The reason: FBI agents, without search warrants, raided the house and hauled away every bit of furniture.

The court also has held the Justice Department lacks authority to ban Communist activity by an alien who has been under a deportation order for six months.

The right of states to try people meaning Communists—on sedition charges was wiped out by the court, which said the federal government has sedition laws to protect the whole country. Any prosecutions will be handled in federal court.

And the court ordered a new trial for Ben Gold, formerly a top Communist, after he was convicted of lying about party membership. The reason: an FBI agent talked to members of the jury or their families about a case not related to Gold at all.

PRODUCER HOSPITALIZED

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Film producer Harry M. Warner, 75, was reported in satisfactory condition in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital today. He entered the hospital last week for treatment of what a Warner Bros. studio spokesman described as "a rundown condition."

Egypt cut her 1957 cotton crop to 33 per cent of the country's agricultural acreage, reports the International Federation of Agricultural Producers.

Zarzycki said the ideological campaign must deal "above all with the anti-Soviet attitude."

The article continued: "We notice doubts in the purposefulness of our alliance with the Soviet Union, of the importance of Soviet aid for our economy, and of Soviet support for our national interests."

Zarzycki said Communists in the army should stop living the life of "offended virgins" and either push the official line or leave the party.

CONSTIPATED?

New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloot or grips

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H stimulate it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONAD, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONAD's great moisturizing capacity, plus COLONAD's stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONAD is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.

Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAD neither gags, bloats nor grips; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions.

It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAD exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONAD, in easy-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98¢ for the 30 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2¢ per tablet.

Shantz's Win Puts Yanks Within 2½ Games Of Top

Little Bobby Picks Up Fifth Straight NY Win

By ED WILKS

Bobby Shantz, well on his way in what may be the comeback of the year in the American League, is just what Casey Stengel had him pegged for—the little guy who could knock off the big guys for his New York Yankees.

The Yankees were chest high in pitchers and confidence when they picked off Art Ditmar and Shantz from Kansas City in that February deal. Ditmar figured to be the key man—but Ol' Case wore a wink when he talked of "that little feller" with the sore arm.

Sore arm or no, Shantz had a winning lifetime record against Chicago (11-9) and Detroit (10-4). Those were the clubs most likely to give the Yankees trouble.

So now Shantz is the Yankee ace, replacing the ailing Whitey Ford. He leads the AL in percentage with an 8-1 record, and has a runner-up 1.87 earned run average.

Last night he cut the Tigers' winning string at five games with a 2-1 victory as second-place New York won its fifth in a row and edged within 2½ games of first-place Chicago, beaten 2-1 at Baltimore.

Cleveland replaced Detroit in third place, eating Boston 7-6. And Kansas City gained its first shutout victory as Ralph Terry, acquired in the most recent Yankee deal, and Virgil Trucks beat Washington 2-0.

Trades figured in the National League race too. Right-hander Ray Crone beat his ex-Milwaukee mates 5-4 with a neat relief job for the New York Giants. The Braves kept a one-game lead, however, as Pittsburgh belted St. Louis 8-1. Philadelphia gained a share of second with the Cards, defeating Chicago's Cubs 7-6.

The Brooklyn Dodgers also moved within a game of Milwaukee, three points behind the Cards and Phils, by swamping Cincinnati 7-0.

Shantz tossed a even-hitter, struck out six and walked two. Rookie second baseman Bobby Richardson drove in both runs off Billy Hoelt, who lost his fourth. The 25-year-old southpaw, a 20-game winner last year, defeated the Yankees 4-1 for his only 1957 success.

Jim Busby, acquired in a trade with Cleveland last week, was credited with both Oriole RBIs and had two of the four singles given up by loser Billy Pierce (10-4). Pierce's wild peg to second on a force-out try set up Busby's RBI single in the first inning, and Billy then walked Busby with the bases loaded in the seventh. George Zuverink won his seventh in relief.

Chico Carrasquel, Vic Wertz, Rocky Colavito and Roger Maris homered for the Indians. Jensen smacked a three-run homer in the ninth for the Red Sox. Ray Narleski saved a fourth victory for Bob Lemon, making his first start since a May 24 leg injury.

The Braves managed only three hits in Cronin's six-inning shutout job. Warren Spahn lost his fourth in a three-run Giant sixth inning.

Right-hander Art Swanson, who had worked only 24 innings since signing a bonus contract with the Pirates in 1955, had a two-hit shutout for eight innings and finished with a four-single job on the Cards for his first major league start and victory. Viridon drove in three runs with his homers, both off loser Larry Jackson.

The Phils got all their runs on Rip Rzepulski's three-run homer and rookie Harry Anderson's first major league grand-slammer. Jim Hearn won 11—his 100th in the majors, but first since last August—in relief of rookie ace Jack Sanford.

Robersonville Trips Jackson By 6-0 Score

ROBERSONVILLE — Maurice Everett and his Robersonville Tennis Club teammates thrashed Jackson, 6-0, in a recent match, here.

Everette, a junior at East Carolina College and member of the EOC North State Conference championship team, is also a two-year singles champ of the conference. His play against Jackson kept a 14-match winning streak intact.

The match consisted of four singles and two doubles events.

Robersonville's victory counted in the Roanoke Tennis Association League. The local club is defending champion of the association.

Results:

Singles:

Maurice Everett defeated Harris, 6-4, 7-5.

Walter Burgess defeated Rhodes, 3-6, 8-6, 6-3.

Claude Wilson defeated McKeller, 6-2, 6-0.

Kelly Abeyounis defeated Grant, 6-0, 6-0.

Doubles:

Wilson and Evette defeated Harris and Rhodes, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

Bob Lee and Abeyounis defeated Grant and McKeller, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1.

Blames Collapse On USSR Stalling

NEW YORK (AP)—AAU chief Dan Ferris today laid the blame for the collapse of the proposed U.S.-Russia track meet in Moscow at the doorstep of the Soviets.

"It looks to me like they might just be stalling," said Ferris, obviously angry and disappointed after months of negotiations. "I simply don't understand why they would quibble on a matter of expenses."

The Russians cabled Ferris yesterday that they could not pay the transportation of the 70-man U.S. team to Moscow and furthermore, they would not submit to being fingerprinted as "required by law of all aliens entering the United States."

BOSTON (AP)—Melvin Lloyd Parnell—the brittle Boston left-hander—was today the 20-victory season to his credit—awaited self-imposed retirement from baseball.

The best winning southpaw in Red Sox history, Parnell called the turn on himself yesterday in conference with General Manager Joe Cronin. Mel has been told by a New Orleans doctor he would not be able to pitch this year.

Injured for the fourth straight season, the 35-year-old New Orleans resident has asked Cronin to keep him on the disabled list until July 11 when he will have league competition.

At that time, he will ask to be put on the voluntary retired list.

Sideline by a preseason elbow operation, Parnell decided to end a career filled with ailments.

Herlong Says Congress Could Cause Baseball "Irreparable Injury"

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Placing baseball under antitrust laws would cause the game "serious and perhaps irreparable injury," Rep. Herlong (D-Fla.) said today.

Herlong told a House Antitrust subcommittee that minor leagues would suffer along with the majors if Congress passed a law abolishing the player reserve clause or other fixtures of the sport.

In a prepared statement, Herlong said the minors depend on "public-spirited local citizens," and major league clubs with which they have working agreements, to ease financial strains.

Nearly every club in the minors takes a "substantial loss" each year, he said.

Herlong was called to testify as the subcommittee, headed by Rep. Celler (D-NY), resume hearings into the status of professional team sports under federal antitrust laws.

The Supreme Court has held baseball is exempt from such statutes but that football is covered.

The subcommittee is studying half a dozen bills which would either declare pro sports subject or immune to antitrust jurisdiction—or cover only commercial aspects of their operation. The latter would exempt such items as the reserve clause, with which a major league club binds a player to itself or controls him in the minors.

Herlong, serving his fifth term in Congress, is a former president of the Class D Florida State League and of the Leesburg team in that circuit.

Eliminating the reserve clause, he said, "would probably dry up one important source" of small clubs' income. He referred to working agreements under which a big league team pays for the right to first option on players with a minor club.

Antitrust jurisdiction, Herlong added, might also erase "the limitation imposed on most minor leagues on players' salaries and on the number of players each team can control. With expenses increased, he said, "the prospect would be bleak, indeed."

Only two games remain on the card for the first half of Teen-er League play and places them in third place in the loop rankings for first-half play.

College View has lost all seven of its games during the half.

Moye fanned 13 batters in notching the win.

Besides his stingy pitching, the Bankers' hard hitting was a major factor in the triumph. Centerfielder Puryear clouted a home run in the second inning with a man on base to account for two quick runs. Henderson, Bennett, Johnson and Moye added hits also.

Third baseman Billy Neal James poked out two singles to become the only man in the game to collect more than one base knock.

Speight and Stocks got the hits for the College View club.

D. Batts went the full seven innings for the losers and was credited with the defeat.

Only two games remain on the card for the first half of Teen-er League play and places them in third place in the loop rankings for first-half play.

Tonight the Home Builders meet Guaranty Bank. Tomorrow night College View will go against the State Bankers.

Games begin at 7:45.

Bobo Gets Split Decision Victory

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—An over-sized Carl (Bobo) Olson looked like something of his old self last night in clubbing out a 10 round split decision over Joey Maxim of Cleveland.

Olson, former middleweight king, now managing a Vancouver, Wash., night club, weighed 187 to Maxim's 188½.

The extra weight did not seem to bother Olson. He swarmed over the clever Maxim, a former light-heavyweight champion, from opening bell to the end. Although he never had his opponent in trouble, he seemed to have things well in hand all the way.

Referee Ralph Gruman apparently did not agree with this however, giving Maxim the bout, 56 points to 54. The judges swung it to Olson's favor. Eddie Volk voted 57½ to 52½ for Olson. Judge Dick Wagner had it 56-54 for Olson.

The Associated Press card was 58-52 for Olson.

With his putting a thing of beauty, Shoemaker toured the 6,800-yard Dallas Athletic Club Country Club course with a 38-34-72. In second place was Thornton Wright Jr. of Oklahoma City, who wound up with a 75 in a driving rain, while Don Hurst, North Texas State College player, was third with 76.

After today's round the low 32 scorers will go into the final 36 holes.

There were six resting at 77. They were David Duncan of Longview, Tex.; J. C. Tharp of Corpus Christi, Tex.; Bob Glick of Dallas, Bobby Malone of Fort Worth, Robert Wilder of Baton Rouge, La., and Richard Missel of Streator, Ill.

Tied at 78 were Jack Walters of Tacoma, Wash., and Jack Butler of Atlanta.

Yank Club May Pay Fines For Brawlers

NEW YORK (AP)—Dan Topping, New York Yankee president who slapped $5,000 in fines on six Yankees last month, today was trying to save three players $400 in penalties levied by the American League.

Topping will discuss the fines with Will Harridge, American League president.

The Yankees last night refused to confirm or deny reports they planned to pay the fines.

Yankees Art Ditmar and Enos Slaughter and Billy Martin, since traded to Kansas City, were fined by Harridge after a free-for-all last Thursday in Chicago. Larry Doby and Walt Dropo of the White Sox were fined also.

Topping said after the fines were announced the players would be reimbursed. He said the Yankees didn't start the fight and "we certainly would not expect them to run when the Sox players started the brawl."

Harridge yesterday denied he had threatened to fine the Yankees $5,000 if it pays the players' fines, as reported by the New York World Telegram and Sun.

But he did say he reminded Topping of a 25-year-old league rule prohibiting a club from returning the cost of league fines to players. The league president is authorized to charge a club $5,000 for violating the rule.

It was disclosed Ditmar sent the league a check for $100 and Slaughter one for $150. Martin was fined $150.

Martin was one of five players fined $1,000 by Topping after a brawl in a New York night club. John Kucks, Yankee pitcher, also was fined $300 as a result of the episode.

The complete team: Bill Joe Patton, Morganton, N.C.; Bill Campbell, Huntington, W. Va.; Rex Baxter Jr., Amarillo, Tex.; Arnold Blum, Macon, Ga.; Joe Campbell, Knoxville, Tenn.; William Hyndman, Philadelphia, Charles Kocsis, Royal Oak, Mich.; Hillman Robbins, Memphis, Tenn.; Mason Rudolph, Clarksville, Tenn.; Dr. Frank Taylor Jr., Pomona, Calif.

The second alternate is Richard Yost of Portland, Ore., and the third is Dale Morey of Indianapolis.

Gerald Micklem of Sunningdale, England, will head the British team which, like the U.S. squad, will be automatically qualified for the National Amateur at the Com. Sept. 9-14.

Rear Admiral Arleigh A. Burke, Chief of U.S. Naval Operation, is a do-it-yourself guy. With his power tools, he built much of his own house in Virginia.

HITTING: Bobby Richardson, Yankees—Drove in both runs with a sacrifice fly and first of two singles in three trips for 2-1 victory over Tigers.

Close Race For All-Star Post

NEW YORK (AP)—A tight-three-man battle for the starting American League third base position spiced the fan voting for the All-Star game today. The game will be played in St. Louis on Tuesday, July 9.

According to the latest figures released by Commissioner Ford Frick's office, Reno Vertola, Detroit's youthful third baseman, holds 77½ vote lead over Gil McDougald of the New York Yankees. Veteran George Kell of the Baltimore Orioles is only 659 votes behind McDougald.

The National League list is headed by top vote-getting Stan Musial at first base.

NEW ORLEANS—Charley Joseph, 159, New Orleans, outpointed Spider Webb, 160, Chicago, 10.

Shoemaker Is Leading Lefthanded Linksters

DALLAS (AP)—Harry Shoemaker, the collegian from Signal Mountain, Tenn., was on his way to a repeat performance in the national left-handers golf tournament today.

The towering youngster from Florida State University, who is the defending champion, laid down a par 72 yesterday to take the lead at the end of the first round in the stroke play tournament.

Shoemaker was the only player to equal par and it gave him a 3-stroke lead to carry into the second round today.

With his putting a thing of beauty, Shoemaker toured the 6,800-yard Dallas Athletic Club Country Club course with a 38-34-72. In second place was Thornton Wright Jr. of Oklahoma City, who wound up with a 75 in a driving rain, while Don Hurst, North Texas State College player, was third with 76.

DENVER (AP)—Champion Joe Brown of Houston, Tex., 1-7 predicting a knockout victory, is an 8-5 favorite over Cuba's O. do Zulueta for their lightweight championship fight in Denver Coliseum tonight.

"I'll knock him out," said the 30-year-old champion.

Promoter Joe Dupler predicted a $35,000 gate for the first title bout here in 39 years.

For his second title defense, Brown has the option of a $25,000 guarantee or 40 per cent of the combined receipts. His Cuban challenger will get a 20 per cent cut of the melon.

The slender lightweight king appeared confident of retaining his crown despite once being held to a draw with Zulueta in Baltimore four years ago. He made his knockout prediction after the Colorado Athletic Commission ruled the boxers will wear six-ounce gloves instead of the eight-ounce mitts usually required by the state code.

Brown easily is the harder hitter of the two. He has 27 knockouts in an 11-year boxing career that shows a record of 63-14-8.

Brown won the lightweight crown last August in a 15-round decision over then champion Wallace (Bud) Smith.

Zulueta, whose left is regarded as the sharpest in the division, has stopped only six opponents in compiling a 62-27-11 record. But he never has been knocked out.

Revolutionary New Concept in Comfort

For countless summers, fresh, crisp drivers have stepped into beautiful automobiles, relaxed and happy. A few minutes later they have stepped out wilted, wind-blown, irritable.

Why? Because withering heat and dusty whistling wind have done their work.

Now, for the first time, there's a really practical, low cost way to beat the discomfort of hot, dusty, windy summer driving. Vornado . . . world's leading specialist in comfort cooling . . . proudly announces a completely new automobile air conditioner so revolutionary in design that every car owner can easily afford the wonderful benefits of air conditioning.

Hells Canyon Fight Expected Erupt In Senate Again Over New Proposal

By JOHN KAMPS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Hells Canyon fight—the nation's hottest private vs. public power row—may break out again in the Senate today.

A Hells Canyon bill was listed next on the Senate calendar after expected discussion of civil rights legislation.

Twenty-eight senators, mostly Democrats, are cosponsoring a bill to authorize a high federal dam in the Hells Canyon reach of the Snake River bordering Idaho and Oregon.

The project would flood the sites of three low dams which the Idaho Power Co. plans to build in the Columbia River tributary, with the approval of the Eisenhower administration. This and related projects authorized by the bill would cost half a billion dollars.

A similar bill was defeated in the Senate by 10 votes last year. Since then the Federal Power Commission has given Idaho Power a construction license. The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court have upheld the legality of the license, and the company has started work on one dam.

Advocates of the high dam are pinning their hopes on a dispute involving a tax writeoff privilege granted Idaho Power, and on Senate changes resulting from the November elections. The vote is expected to be extremely close.

Sponsors held little hope for this year's bill until the Office of Defense Mobilization issued "accelerated amortization" certificates to Idaho Power last April 17.

The certificates will permit the company to write off in five years, as depreciation for income tax purposes, 65 per cent of the cost of Brownlee Dam and 60 per cent of Oxbow Dam. Estimated cost of the two dams is 103 million dollars. The usual writeoff period is 20 years.

ODM said Idaho Power's larger-than-normal deductions in the first five years would be offset by smaller-than-normal deductions later. Idaho Power said it was getting only a tax deferral.

However, Democrats protested the writeoff amounted to a "subsidy" and "interest-free" loan for dams which they said were supposed to have been built at no cost to the taxpayers.

Bills have been introduced to cancel Idaho Power's writeoff and to prohibit issuance of such certificates to private utilities on a basis of defense needs.

At hearings before a Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee, witnesses estimated the writeoffs would benefit Idaho Power in the amount of 329 million dollars and that the nation would "lose" 83½ millions.

Opponents of the bill say these are gross overstatements and that a federal dam would commit the government to huge expenditures.

Yesterday, the subcommittee drew an opinion from a Library of Congress legal expert that the writeoff "seems contrary to the legislative purpose and spirit" of the law.

C. H. Kenall, ODM counsel, told the subcommittee no legal opinion on the writeoff action had been sought before the grant was made.

Predict Adverse Japan Reaction

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese officials warned today an American court decision blocking a Japanese trial for William S. Girard would menace the U.S.-Japan Mutual Security Treaty unless the U.S. Supreme Court upsets the ruling.

Justice Minister Umekichi Nakamura said the District Court ruling was "not binding" and Japan would go ahead with Girard's trial as planned.

Yuzo Kawachi, the judge assigned to preside over the trial, said, "The trial will open about the middle of August."

He acknowledged, however, that he didn't know what would happen if Japan orders Girard produced for trial while U.S. Army authorities are under orders to hold the 21-year-old soldier from Ottawa, Ill., for trial by an Army court-martial.

Supreme Court sources pointed out that if he fails to appear at the first court session, the trial cannot open. Girard now is in Army custody, confined to Camp Whittington, north of Tokyo.

Fears that Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy's injunction would damage relations between the two countries were expressed by Atty. Gen. Tosa Sabu and Minoru Tsuda, spokesman for the Justice Ministry.

«But both voiced confidence the U.S. government will do all it can to let a Japanese court try Girard. The Washington government already has filed notice of appeal to the high court.

Sato declared McGarraghy's order breached an agreement under the mutual security pact governing trial of Americans in Japan. The Japanese claim jurisdiction under the agreement to try Girard for the fatal shooting of Mrs. Naka Sakai on a U.S. firing range last January.

Justice Minister Nakamura said the court ruling was not binding because the Japan-U.S. joint committee, created by the administrative agreement between the two governments has the "final say" on the question of jurisdiction over Girard. The Joint Committee's ruling that the Japanese could try Girard had been approved by the U.S. government.

U.S. Far East Command officials declined comment, but Brig. Gen. Charles Decker, assistant judge advocate general of the Army, said the decision "will not change our course of action."

Decker was sent to Japan to look after Girard's interests. He said the soldier's defense has been prepared so that it can be used either in Japanese courts or in a court-martial.

Girard himself received word of the ruling calmly and silently at Camp Whittington. The young Army specialist smiled as Maj. Stanley Levin, his personal military legal adviser, read press reports from Washington about the case.

Girard gave a "no comment" reply to all newsmen's questions.

Formal Opening For New Market

Over $500 worth of merchandise will be given away free at the grand opening of Dot and Jean's Red and White Super Market Friday and Saturday.

Operated by Dot Fowler, Jean Allen and Van-Johnson, the new super market is located on N. Greene St.

The owners stated this morning that all persons attending the opening this weekend would receive free refreshments and would be eligible for a number of free prizes.

To be given away are a number of bags and baskets of groceries as well as an electric iron, table lamps, 50 pounds of flour, an electric hair dryer and several electric clocks.

A drawing will be staged at 7 o'clock on Saturday night. The registrants do not have to be present to win.

In addition an automatic washing machine will be given to a lucky shopper on August 3. The winning ticket is to be drawn from a box containing slips registered by customers from the grand opening date until the first of August.

To be eligible the registrant has to be over 12 years of age, the owners state.

During the grand opening, children will be given free rides on a Merry-Go-Round and free souvenirs.

The newly constructed super market will handle a full line of meats, groceries, frozen foods and produce. Plenty of parking space is available and the building is air-conditioned.

See Sales Upswing In Washers, Dryers

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The men who like to help the women with their home laundry chores look for a pickup in sales of washers and dryers this fall.

They base this hope on a recent increase in orders by distributors, doubly welcome after discouraging results in the first four months of the year.

And the appliance makers hope that a fairly widespread rise in prices for the fall lines won't wither the seedling of revival.

The makers also are counting on new versions of the washer-dryer combination to overcome some of the troubles housewives have had in washing garments made of many kinds of fibers.

The industry's bad start this year came on the heels of its biggest production year. In 1956 the home laundry business was booming. And many of its products were sold on time. Spokesmen admit now they probably overproduced.

Dealers complained that big stocks at the end of last year led to price cutting which trimmed profit margins to the vanishing point.

This year dealers and distributors have been reported living in large part on inventories. Manufacturers figure this phase is about over—hence the pickup in orders.

But in the first quarter of the year the American Home Laundry Manufacturers Assn. reported sales of washers slid 22 per cent below those of the same period in 1956, dryer sales were down 20 per cent and ironer sales down 20 per cent.

Faced with slipping sales, some of the makers nevertheless, are raising prices.

Westinghouse Electric has just upped the price of its one model now in production by 5 per cent and says some others to be introduced in the fall will be 8 per cent higher.

General Electric's fall line will be up by 4 to 7 per cent, although in April it cut the price of one combination washer-dryer by $25 at retail.

Motorists Urged Avoid Excesses

CHARLOTTE — Motorists are urged by Dick Pitts, Director of Civic Affairs, to avoid marathon driving, over-exposure to the sun and other summertime excesses on their vacations this year.

"Too many people regard a summer holiday as the signal to begin enjoying themselves with a kind of grim determination," he said. "Such immature practices as overeating, overdrinking, excessive sunbathing, and trying to drive too far in a single day serve only to nullify the benefits of vacation relaxation."

Pitts suggested that motorists plan their vacation driving schedules so that they may cover a reasonable distance each day and, at the same time, arrive at their destination rested and prepared to enjoy the recreation.

firm, Pitt County will have four Red and White super markets. The chain is the largest group of voluntary independent super markets in the world.

Others in this county are Newton's of Farmville, Harris Super Market and Colonial Heights Super Market.

The City of Greenville will accept bids for the excavation of approximately 19,153 cu. yds. of earth fill in a drainage ditch known as Green Mill Run.

These bids will be opened at 10 o'clock A. M., Monday, June 20, 1957, in the office of the City Manager.

Contractors should make a careful examination of the area. This excavation is to be accomplished with the City Engineer, Mr. C. A. Holliday, to be sure that they are aware of all conditions concerned with this project.

Along with the excavation of earth fill, the contractor will bid, also, on the removal of stumps in the excavated area. If such work is to be done with explosives, it will be necessary for the contracting organization to have sufficient liability and property damage insurance to save the City of Greenville harmless from any and all claims that may develop out of such use of explosives.

The City of Greenville will be responsible for all clearing of trees and underbrush in areas to be excavated; such work having been accomplished ahead of the contractor's examination of these properties.

Plans and estimates covering excavation of this project can be secured at the office of the City Engineer or the City Manager's office.

CHAPTER 16

When Nela Mathers was about to leave she leaned forward on her horse, her gray eyes meeting mine. "Mr. Beeson, we don't want to fight with you. Will you come to see us, please, just as soon as we're settled?"

"I expect to," I said. "You told me your father had spoken of me. What did he say?"

For the first time she seemed embarrassed. "He said you were a strong-minded young man who was so certain you were right that you would make mistakes." The smile that touched her lips lighted her entire face. "We're strong-minded too, my father and I, but we still want to be friends."

I shook my head at her. "Not if you're going to plow our grass under. No people can be friends if one is determined to destroy the other."

"We're not going to destroy you," she said sharply. "Mrs. Pardee understands. All we want is a place to live. That will be on the other side of the valley. It won't concern you in the least."

"It will concern me because you'll fail," I said. "This isn't farming country and it never will be. After you fail, some of your people will spread out. They'll want your water and our land, but if they try to take it I'll try to kill them and they'll try to kill me."

Nela looked at Sarah. "Dad's right. You can't argue with him. Good day, Mrs. Pardee."

She rode away, back down the road toward Carlton. Watching her, I felt a stirring of interest I had never felt for another woman. I sensed that she possessed the tough-fibered courage a person needed to conquer this country and live here. She would survive, I thought, when the rest had failed and moved on. I was surprised to find myself regretting that destiny had rigged the game so that she was on the other side of the fence and we could never be friends.

"Roll me back into the house, Will," Sarah said.

I had never heard her voice tremble so with emotion. When I looked at her, I saw she was crying. I wheeled her across the yard and up the ramp into the house.

"Will," she whispered, "put me on the couch."

I lifted her from the wheel chair, her hands clutching me as if afraid I would let her fall. When I placed her on the couch she gripped my arm and pulled me down beside her. She wasn't crying now. She stared at me for a long moment, and then said: "It would be no use to remind you what I've done for you. You could balance it all off with things you've done for me. That's fair enough. But I thought we understood each other. I tried to make it clear because I didn't want this to happen." She swallowed. "Why do you do it, Will?"

I couldn't sit there beside her. I pulled loose from her grip and began walking around the room, my heart pounding, my throat tightening so I couldn't swallow. I came back to her. I had to say something, had to make her understand; but the words wouldn't come. I wiped my hand across my face, and it came away wet with sweat.

"We should have talked about it before," Sarah said, "but I thought, I'd told you enough. About Joe, I mean, and . . ."

"Sarah, Joe had nothing to do with it. I'm not trying to wear his boots. We could have killed a bunch of them this morning. They were all in the open, six of them. I think Joe would have done it, but I couldn't."

"Oh, Will, I'm glad of that! But why did you?"

"Listen, Sarah," I sat down beside her again and took her hands. "I know what you've done for

'Prospecting' On Mars For Space Travel Needs

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. — Astronomers preparing for the age of space travel are prospecting for water and oxygen in Mars. The search has barely started and has yielded little in the way of results. But two researchers today expressed optimism that these two life-giving elements can be found on the red planet.

The only way of finding these elements on a planet 60 million or more miles away is by spectrography. This technique detects chemical elements by the wave length of the light they produce when lit up by the sun or some other strong source of illumination.

A possible way of finding oxygen on the planet with a spectrograph was suggested to the International Mars Committee and he would beat me until I was dead, or never able to ride again.

There was a moment of terrible silence; then Sarah understood, and she cried out. "No, Will! Get out of here, Gene!"

But Gene's challenge I could not avoid, not even for Sarah. I took off my gun belt, laid it on the couch, and walked toward the door, Dillingham backing away until he was off the porch. He did not stop until he was on the other side of the cottonwoods; then he spit on his hands, a grin distorting his thick lips as he said, "All right, Beeson. Now we'll see."

A desperate hour for Will Beeson: "I was an animal, fighting without rules, without any sense of sportsmanship or decency. I wanted to live." Continue "Gunlock" here tomorrow.

the Astronomical Society of the Pacific by Dr. Robert S. Richardson of Mt. Wilson and Palomar observatories in California.

It could be done by mounting the instrument on a rocket and sending it up above the earth's atmosphere. Dr. Richardson said. This would eliminate the problem of separating earthy oxygen and Mars oxygen in spectrograph recordings made at the earth's surface, he reported.

Dr. Audouin Dollfus of Meudon Observatory in Paris, France, said spectroscopy also offers a possible way of finding water on Mars. He suggested a balloon-borne spectrometer to get the instrument above the water vapor of the earth's atmosphere for a direct look at the atmosphere of the red planet. Mars supposedly has some water but the amount is not known.

Truck Rodeo Is Set For August

DURHAM — Truck drivers will run through their paces August 12-16 at the 1957 State Truck Rodeo at the Wilmington Airport.

The North Carolina Motor Carriers announced plans last night after a dinner meeting of the association's Safety and Personnel Council here. George M. H. Hall III, vice president, accepted the invitation to hold the rodeo at Wilmington.

J. T. Outlaw of Raleigh, executive vice president of the carriers group, was dinner speaker. The council also selected judges for today's statewide school bus drivers rodeo in Chapel Hill.

A Second Glance Shows Mao Is Hewing To Line

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

For months anti-Communists have been pouncing on bits and pieces of information as evidence that a deep doctrinal split divides Red China and the Soviet Union. Publication of the text of Mao Tze-tung's "secret speech" of last February dictates a cautious second look, to divorce realities from wishful thinking.

Apparently the text was broadcast by Peiping to dispel uneasiness in the Communist world over a possible falling apart between Moscow and Peiping.

Examination of the speech fails to turn up any evidence that Mao, in his current cheng feng rectification campaign, is violating basic Marxist-Leninist dogma. Indeed, it is a reaffirmation, in many respects, of the Communist renunciation of Stalin. The Soviet retreat from hidebound Stalinism can pave the way for a more realistic partnership between the Communist powers.

Publication of the speech will permit Communists outside Russia and China to breathe easier. Behind the cloudy talk of "contradictions" is a terrifying parade of economic troubles, forcing Peiping into realistic measures which may not sound like pure Communist doctrine.

There are dangers in applying such palliatives, and Mao tells Chinese Communists they must calm the population by using persuasion. Force will come later, if necessary.

In the Cheng Feng campaign Mao adopts an old Soviet dodge for smoking out opposition. Mao counsels Chinese Reds to "let a hundred flowers bloom, let a hundred schools of thought contend." This is much like the Soviet trick of opening up a sore point to "public discussion." It gives the opposition a chance to stick out its neck. People's Daily of Peiping, which speaks for Mao, says healthy development of the cheng feng movement depends on "our efforts to oppose and isolate" the opposition.

Soviet boss Nikita Khrushchev has said China's special problems require a special Chinese approach. He denied that U.S.S.R. has such internal contradictions. But Mao's theory as developed in the February speech seems relatively pure as dogma. The "class struggle" is going on in China just as the book requires.

There are conflicts between Moscow and Peiping. But these in the main are economic, lying in Soviet inability or unwillingness to give sufficient help to the Chinese. Politically, Mao still seems to acknowledge the Soviet leadership and attacks his problems in the same way as the post-Stalin collective leadership.

Sixty-seven years ago this month, Woodmen of the World was organized in Omaha. The Society now provides its 430,000 members some $600-million of legal reserve life insurance at cost. It has paid nearly one-half billion dollars in benefits.

This organization offers more than life insurance. Members also receive many benefits from fraternal and social activities. Outstanding is free, unlimited, health-restoring care given those afflicted with pulmonary tuberculosis in hospitals near their homes. Woodmen of the World celebrated its 67th birthday—still growing, still possessed of the vigor and ambition of youth.
