Wooten Evaluates Assembly Session

By JIMMY ELLIS. Representative Frank Wooten, who had a week to collect his thoughts about the four-and-a-half months of action by the 1957 General Assembly, tossed a verbal bouquet yesterday to one of his Pitt County colleagues.

REP. FRANK WOOTEN

The Greenville attorney termed Walter Jones' liability insurance law one of the most important pieces of legislation passed by the Assembly. He is equally convinced that Jones did a powerful piece of work in getting the bill enacted.

Wooten put the Jones Bill on a level with the tax formula change in consideration of importance to the State. Jones' bill will affect every automobile owner in the State and the tax formula change which is expected to cost North Carolina about $14,000,000 in the next two years, is designed to make the State more attractive to industry and industrial prospects.

One notch below the Jones Bill and the tax formula change, according to Wooten, is the Assembly's creation of authority for Governor Luther H. Hodges to establish a nine-member commission to study problems of municipalities. The commission is supposed to devote itself particularly to investigating ways and means for municipalities to have sounder financial positions, and to study methods of annexation of municipalities.

Wooten obviously was pleased by the passage of those three pieces of legislation and the work that went into their making. However, while he thought his legislative colleagues were "a group of conscientious men endeavoring to do what they thought was best for the State," Wooten wasn't pleased by all of the assembly's action.

He especially was disappointed, he says, with the Assembly's failure to provide a School of Nursing at East Carolina College, and the nursing school on the salary question for teachers.

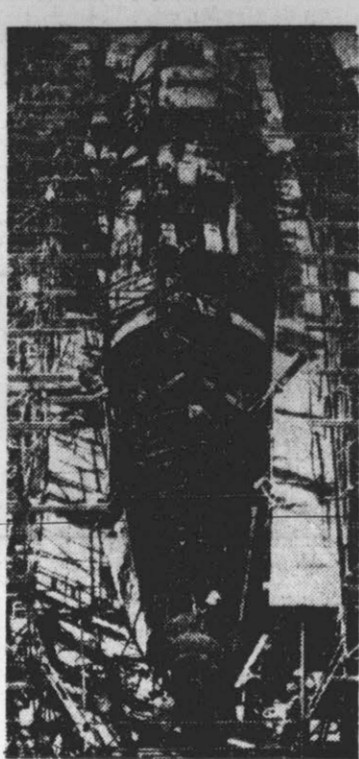

"I hope the next session will be able to provide money for the School of Nursing," Wooten says. He admits, however, that the action "will take cooperation from Piedmont and Western representatives."

Wooten believes the question of teachers' salaries, "which should have been closed by this legislature," will come up again in 1959. "The contingency bonus which could result in a 16.09 per cent raise doesn't answer the teachers' desire for an increase in salary," according to Wooten, who served his first full term in the Assembly this year.

The combination of the tax formula revision, which will cut tax revenue, and departmental appropriation increases make the question of a balanced budget in future years a hard question.

"Whether we can balance the budget, let alone continue to have surpluses, is strictly guesswork. However, we may not see the result of the changes (in the tax

Flue-Cured Tobacco Sale Dates To Be Set

Warehousemen Gather At Myrtle Beach To Map Plans For 1957 Season

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. — Announcement of the opening of market dates for auction of the 1957 tobacco crop will be made here tomorrow as tobacco warehousemen from the flue-cured producing areas gather for their 13th annual convention.

Five-flue-cured producing states, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia, are included in the Bright Belt Assn. The committee on opening dates will meet tomorrow afternoon. In recent years South Carolina marketing dates have been set by an independent association but in most instances these dates follow closely the Bright Belt group dates.

S. E. Wither, director of the Tobacco Division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service, will address the warehousemen tomorrow morning. L. T. Weeks, general manager of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corp., also will speak.

Wednesday afternoon Marvin McLain, assistant secretary of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, will head the session's speakers. An executive session for members also is planned on Wednesday to be followed by Board of Governor's luncheon.

Sees Filibuster Defeat If United

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Sen. Holland (D-Fla.) says if the administration and other liberal-minded elements join forces they can get enough Senate votes to kill a filibuster on the civil rights bill.

Holland, like most Southern senators, opposes civil rights legislation. He made his remarks yesterday in an address to a joint convention of the Florida Institute of Laundering and Cleaning and the Laundry and Cleaning Assn. of the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida, Inc.

He said civil rights legislation "could very likely" be passed but not until after "the biggest scrap there ever has been in the history of the U.S. Senate."

Scientists Claim Fallout From H-Bomb Is Curtailed

WASHINGTON — Atomic Energy scientists today told President Eisenhower this country now can produce a hydrogen bomb approximately 95 per cent free of radioactive fallout.

Three University of California physicists, visiting the President with Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission, reported the progress on producing a "clean" H-bomb.

Strauss told reporters that strides have been made since Jan. 5, when Eisenhower reported that fallout had been reduced by nine-tenths from that of earliest H-bombs.

By the time he made that statement, we had gone about half the way to ten-tenths," Strauss said. The scientists all obviously pleased to stand with Strauss as he spoke. They were Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence, Dr. Mark M. Mills and Dr. Edward Teller, all of the University of California radiation laboratory.

Harsh Weekend Storms Pound Western States

Violent weekend storms inflicted new misery and damage on rain-plagued Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas. Twenty Mexican farmers were caught in an open field yesterday near Ft. Stockton, Tex., when a vicious storm began showering them with hail stones "bigger than baseballs."

Nineteen were injured, 16 of them requiring hospitalization for head injuries. The injured were described as resembling in appearance victims of "a drunken brawl."

Early Blossoms

Cotton blossoms are making their appearance in Pitt approximately a week earlier than last year's crop.

Two reports were received from farmers in the county this morning, one farmer stating that he saw a full blossom yesterday morning. Last year the first blossom was reported on June 30.

Edgar Warren, a farmer in the Belvoir community, stated today that his crop "is the best I have ever had" at this time of the year. He added that no trouble had been encountered from the dreaded boll weevil.

"Crops in the Belvoir community are progressing well," Warren said.

Farmer B. T. Nobles of Ballards Crossroads reported he counted 24 cotton blossoms in one of his fields this morning.

would hamper progress toward producing weapons which would not harm civilian populations through fallout. The question should not be answered, the AEC chairman said, because it might hinder disarmament negotiations now in progress.

One of the arguments that has been made for a halt to weapons testing is that accumulated fallout—radioactive dust and particles drifting over the world—might rise to the point where it was causing bone cancer and effecting genetic changes.

Some experts contend there are dangers from the radioactivity already released.

But the three scientists accompanying Strauss to the White House were emphatic in stating that all the H-bomb tests to date have produced harmless and "negligible" quantities of radioactivity.

Teller said they informed the President solely about technical developments, without discussing policy questions such as discontinuance of testing or disarmament.

Explode Fifth In Nuclear Series

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. — The fifth shot of the current nuclear test series went off with a spectacular bang over Frenchman Flat at 6:30 this morning.

The blast was well above nominal in size and was the largest so far of the current series. Observers watching it through high-density goggles from 40 miles away reported it came off like a second surprise.

The fireball, as seen from the observation point used by newsmen, rose above the horizon and formed what looked like a massive cauliflower head.

The shot originally was scheduled to go off yesterday morning, but unfavorable winds forced a postponement.

The nuclear device was exploded from a balloon about 700 feet above the desert. More than 850 military observers and a number of Civil Defense officials witnessed the explosion. The military men were in trenches about 4,500 yards from Ground Zero.

The exact size of the blast was not disclosed, but the Atomic Energy Commission had said earlier that it would be above 20 kilotons, or more powerful than the bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki during World War II.

Among the active participants in today's shot were 835 pigs. Some of them were covered with material used in military clothing, which was to be examined to determine how it had been affected by radiation.

The pigs were strung out at varying distances from Ground Zero. They were to be examined in an effort to learn more about treatment of injuries resulting from heat, radiation and pressure.

Bomb shelters also were set up for testing and food was exposed to learn how it would be affected by the blast.

The scientists also, Teller said, told Eisenhower "what we hope and plan to accomplish in the coming year, if we continue to work."

He would not elaborate on the last phrase, even when asked whether the "if" meant if the tests are not discontinued.

When asked if he could state what the future holds with respect to clean nuclear weapons, Teller said: "The future is even more classified than the past."

Lawrence, asked whether he believed the weapons tests should be continued, replied, "Of course."

Strauss and the scientists conferred briefly when asked whether this country would continue to keep "dirty weapons" as well as clean ones in its arsenal, and then decided not to answer.

When asked why some distinguished scientists have sounded warnings about the buildup of radioactivity resulting from weapons testing, Lawrence replied: "I just don't understand it."

Gov. John E. Davis of North Dakota said, "I think it would be proper for the President to assist us in selecting a nominee."

Democratic governors said they do not believe any member of their party has reached a commanding position in the early tactical maneuvers.

"Just say for me," Chandler said, "that if nominated I would accept and if elected I would serve."

Drag Yarkin For Bodies Of 2 Men

WINSTON-SALEM — Squads of rescue workers searched the muddy waters of the rain-swollen Yadkin River near here this weekend for the bodies of two men.

Authorities identified the two as Elmer (Pete) Spry, 44, and Bobby Phelps, 25, both of Advance.

Spry drowned at Idol's Dam while fishing Saturday. Some time later, Phelps thought he spotted Spry's body in a whirlpool. He dived in and disappeared.

Nearly five inches of rain Saturday morning made search operations hazardous.

Japan's Premier Says Increased Trade With Red China Desirable

Kishi Adds, However, That His Country Has No Intent Of Recognizing Regime

NEW YORK — Japanese Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi said today Japan would like to increase trade with Communist China to a total of 200 million dollars a year — in peaceful goods only.

Kishi told a news conference the present trade between the two countries totals 140 million dollars, with Japanese exports comprising 60 million and imports 80 million.

Kishi said Japan at present has no intention of recognizing Communist China.

Replying to a question, he said that at the present time Japan is opposed to the admission of the Peiping government to the United Nations.

Asked to comment on the case of William Girard, Army specialist accused of shooting a Japanese woman, Kishi said merely that he thought it should be "settled between the two countries in accordance with the administrative agreement between the two countries."

The question is whether Girard shall be tried by Japanese civilian authorities or by U.S. military authorities.

He also was asked about any possible change in the status-of-forces agreement with the United States in the light of the Girard case.

"In past experience, our courts have been very fair and just," he replied. "There is no need to revise the status-of-forces agreement in any way. I feel the United States should stand by its opinion."

Kishi was asked whether he had reached an agreement with President Eisenhower on Japanese export of textiles to the United States. He said that there were no specific agreements with regard to this, but he had been assured by the President of the removal of any discriminatory obstacles against Japanese textiles.

Kishi said his U.S. visit, including talks with President Eisenhower and other government officials had "set the right direction" toward which the United States and Japan should work toward solution of their own and other world problems.

Kishi emphasized several times, smilingly, his appreciation of the reception he got yesterday among nearly 65,000 baseball fans at the Yankee Stadium. And the friendship evidenced "along the roadway."

Kishi was asked how President Eisenhower's golf compared with his. He laughed.

Through an interpreter, he then replied: "I regret to say that President Eisenhower's golf now is better than mine — but inasmuch as I am almost 10 years younger, in a year's time I might surpass him in skill."

Earlier, he said he hopes "very much" that President Eisenhower will visit his country.

Aerialist Hurt In Circus Mishap

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — A veteran circus aerialist said his pretty blonde wife must have blacked out shortly before she slipped from his grasp and plummeted 30 feet to the ground during a performance here yesterday. She suffered serious injuries.

A happy Sunday afternoon circus crowd of 5,000 watched in horror as Lill Kristensen slipped from her husband's perspiring hands. She landed in a crumpled heap on the sawdust-covered cement floor.

Hospital officials said the 28-year-old native of Denmark suffered broken pelvis, fractures of an arm and ankle, several broken ribs and possible internal injuries. Though seriously hurt, her condition was described as good.

The couple, known professionally as the Pilots, was performing on a trapeze over the center ring of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

Her husband Svend, 30, said his wife apparently became sick and blacked out.

Many A Bridesmaid Is The Next Bride

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

Many a bridesmaid has parlayed the big event into a wedding ring for herself.

That's the attitude that every budding bridesmaid should take. What could make for better man pickin' than a wedding? Or put the ushers and male guests in more of an orange-blossom frame of mind?

It's perfect time not only to snare a new man but to rekindle romantic fires in your steady flame. The idea is to look as pretty as the bride. You won't detract from her. She'll have her own special radiance and audience. But you'll want to choose your makeup and coiffure with the same special consideration as the bride.

If there are many bridal attendants, they will all be dressed alike, wearing the same design in hats, dresses and shoes. Makeup and hairdo will be your only edge, unless of course your figure is a prize winner.

Ruel, chief hair stylist for Coiffures Americana, trend setter, suggests a hairdo with a "feathered look" for this season's bridesmaids. The hair is brushed up and out from the head in wispy waves and curls. It is fuller, softer and curlier than the carefully waved hairdos popular in spring. It is a "carefully careless" hairdo. Ruel explains, an ideal bridesmaid hairdo that typifies youth and savvy. It can be set a little on the perky side, somewhat coquettish or downright flirtatious, depending on your type.

If you worry about the hairdo being suitable to your bridesmaid's hat, you can solve the problem easily. Ruel suggests you take your hat to the hairdresser with you so that your new coiffure may be coordinated to it. Then you may be sure of a charming coiffure and hat that will enhance your appearance.

When it comes to makeup, it's a good idea to take the gentle attitude. The bride surely will not make up like a burlesque queen, and she'll hardly expect her bridesmaid to detract from the wedding party by over-burdening her face with cosmetics. The prettiest makeup is the one achieved with a minimum of artificial beauty props.

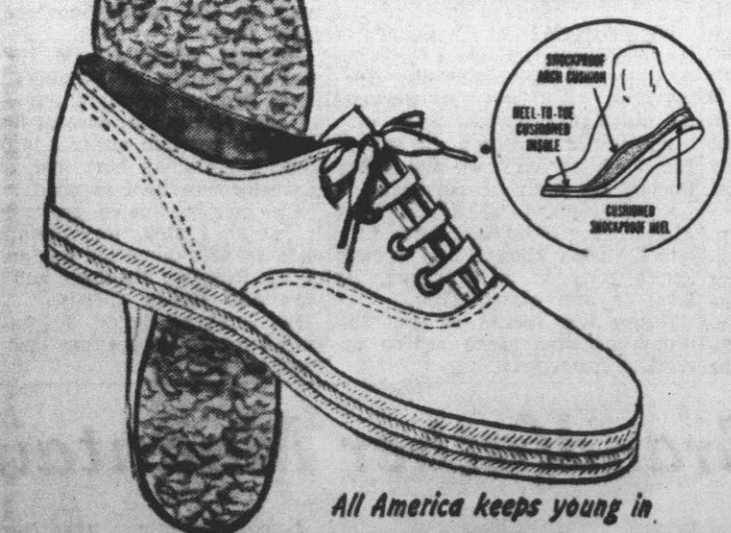

LOVELY. THE BRIDESMAID Her coiffure designed by Ruel is perfect for her hat. Her saucy hairdo is a frothy coil of flirtatious half curls.

Timely Tips On Painting

If a June bride is called upon to help her husband with painting the new apartment, she'd better be armed with some thrifty advice. These suggestions are made by a decorating consultant:

1. Get the advice of a good paint dealer or decorator to help you select proper paint colors. Estimate the amount of paint you need before spending a penny.

2. Wash walls with a good wall-cleaning powder, removing dirt, wax or polish. Rinse with clear water.

3. Move out as much furniture as possible. Push other pieces to center of the room, cover with papers or drop cloth. If painting the ceiling you might remove everything to save time in the long run.

4. Fill cracks and nail holes. Take down pictures.

5. Equip yourself with a four-inch brush or roller with pan. Get a two-inch brush for cleanup work. Mix paint thoroughly. Pour half of contents into clean container. Disposable paper buckets are good. Stir both portions well. Pour back and stir together. Read directions on paint can.

6. Don oldest clothes and begin. Paint ceilings, then walls, working toward the light to see overlapping and thin spots. Woodwork should be last. Wood trim is done with semi-gloss instead of flat paint used on walls. Keep rags handy to catch spills.

7. Dip brush in only half way, wipe one side as you withdraw it. Apply with horizontal strokes on area no larger than one square yard. Finish with vertical strokes to even coverage.

8. If you use a roller, use a brush first to frame woodwork, corners and top of wall where roller can't reach. Roll paint on the area to minimize difference in finish.

9. Wipe rims and seal paint cans after the job is done. Clean equipment.

Home Sewers Get Trimming Tips

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
THE MARK of a truly creative home seamstress is the ingenuity with which she trims her basic garments. She saves all kinds of materials to use as trimmings. A scrap of calico may be a gay appliche on a solid-color dress; a bit of ribbon may inspire a basic blouse; a piece of lace may give a custom look to a simple gown.

Local sewing center experts show you a few new tricks in trimmings.
They suggest using bias binding and rickrack braid to stitch an argyle plaid trimming on a basic jacket to wear with Bermuda shorts. The jacket is made from a standard pattern make alterations easy. The cut-all-in-one sleeve eliminates shoulder fitting problems.

To make the argyle pattern, select two colors of wide bias tape.
Get the kind often used for quilt binding—it's double-folded and slightly over an inch wide. For a jacket of soft green denim, red and yellow tape is effective. Cut strips of tape an inch and a half long and press raw edges to form equal-sided squares. Pin a double row of squares to the front sections

Trouble Is, The Public Forgets

"Not one doctor in a thousand" the American Medical Association says, would have charged a fee for helping rescue six-year-old Benny Hooper from the well at his Manorville, N. Y. home five weeks ago.

But Dr. Joseph Kris, who attended the boy while he was trapped in a well for nearly 24 hours, has sent the family a bill for $1,500. And according to the doctor the bill represents "about one-half the amount to which I am entitled."

We, frankly, concur in the opinion of AMA chairman Dr. Edwin S. Hamilton that not one doctor in a thousand would charge for his services under such circumstances. It is unfortunate, however, that Dr. Kris' action will be looked upon by millions of people as a standard procedure for physicians who are called upon for such a public service.

Most doctors we know give hundreds upon hundreds of hours each year in free medical service for which they ask no remuneration and receive no remuneration. In the highest tradition of the medical profession they place their devotion to the treatment of mankind far above material return for their services.

But when an act by a physician like that of Dr. Kris makes headlines across the nation, many people are inclined to unjustly judge all members of the medical profession by one act of one member of the profession. The public tends to forget—momentarily at least—that Dr. Kris' decision to bill the Hooper family $1,500 for his services represents the decision which would have been reached by only one doctor in very thousand. Many people jump to the erroneous and unfair decision that "all doctors are that way."

The person who does jump to such a conclusion forgets the hundreds of babies brought into the world each year in his own community for which the attending physician receives no pay for his services. He overlooks the countless hours almost every doctor sits up in the wee hours of the morning with an ailing kid or dying elderly person knowing full well that he will receive no material return for his effort.

It is true that most doctors make a good living in this day and time. But it is also true that members of the medical profession as a whole contribute more of their time gratis in the service of their fellowmen than the members of any other group of professional, business or working men.

To judge all members of the medical profession by the act of this one doctor is unthinkable. It would be just as unfair to judge all the members of any other group in the country by one act of any one of its members.

Growing Signs State Will Gain Benefits

Gov Hodges pointed happily last week to two more industrial dividends he asserts are a direct result of the revision of corporate tax laws by the recent legislature.

Reynolds Tobacco Company has announced plans for a $5 million dollar expansion program in the Winston-Salem area and Cone Mills Corp. has announced the change in corporate tax laws of North Carolina will allow the corporation to retain its corporate charter in this state.

Obviously it is just as important for North Carolina to hold the industries it has as it is for the state to attract new industries from other areas. While changes in the state's tax structure was being considered, little emphasis was placed on the advantageous affects the new law might have on domestic corporations in North Carolina. In the case of Cone Mills, however, the new law is of extreme importance. If, as in the case of Reynolds, the new law is a positive instrument in persuading corporations which already operate in this state to expand here rather than in other areas, it is likewise a powerful force for industrial development.

To some extent it will be difficult to weigh the influence the new law has in attracting new industries to North Carolina and causing existing industries in the state to expand their operations here. Yet, the three cases so far cited by Gov. Hodges leave little question that the change in tax structure already has created a more favorable climate for further industrial development in North Carolina.

In this more favorable climate, the state may reasonably expect accelerated industrial growth.

Crystal Ball In Business Outlook

By ELMER ROESSNER
A slowdown in steel operations is certain, but not significant. Anticipating a July 1 price increase, industrial buyers have been building up inventories. The price raises are a consequence of wage increases.

In addition, the July 4 weekend, plus longer summer vacations, will tend to reduce output. However, after vacations are over and present inventories are reduced, production, will perk up.

Here are other predictions, based on analyses of developing trends, leaks and advance information:

Slowdown in the highway program. Costs of everything, including engineering skills and rights-of-way as well as steel and concrete, have gone up since the program was voted. Congress now faces a choice of increasing appropriations and gas taxes, or of letting the program move more slowly than expected. The second alternate is highly probable.

MORE FOREIGN CARS
Biggest foreign car year. Sales of imported autos are climbing; first quarter sales were 34,069, twice that of the same period last year. Exotic smallsters are taking over a big part of the second-car market and this year should see a new high in sales.

More mixed juices. Blended juices, after lagging in popularity for several years, are making a strong comeback due to new flavoring mixtures and vigorous advertising. Pineapple and grapefruit, apricot and orange are gaining broad acceptance.

More three-button suits. Surveys indicate retailers are stocking three-button fall models heavily—at three or four times the rate they ordered such models for spring.

New vacation lands. The coming of jet planes, with sharp cuts in flying time, will increase the popularity of many foreign resorts and open up others to American vacationers. Jets and turbo-jets will make Havana less than four hours from New York and Paris less than eight hours from either. Meanwhile, it will make vacation trips to South Sea Islands or darkest Africa the only weapon which Congress possesses for exercising restraint over the Executive and Judiciary. In ruling that Congressional investigations must be confined to ascertaining the need for new legislation, it has left the legislators helpless to check arbitrary and inefficient bureaucrats, and to spotlight dishonesty within the government.

WORTH—WHILE CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRIES Although begun as a "fishing expedition," many Congressional inquiries have had an extremely beneficial effect, without leading to new or novel laws. This observation applies to the famous Teapot Dome and Harry Daugherty exposes, which disclosed widespread corruption in the Harding Cabinet. It took months of Senatorial digging into nonlegislative fields before the trail led to the Secretary

Opinions In Brief
"The unfortunate fact is that too many people simply do not realize that a gold standard is more than a question of an ounce of gold being worth so much in dollars and cents, it is a question of having our money tied to something tangible, something that all history has proven to be the most adaptable for measuring value."—Thurman Sensing.
"It is almost axiomatic that the greatest achievements of the intellect have come in times of leisure, when relief from the urgent necessity to earn a living gave people time to think. If, however, they do not know how to think, if they have not been taught how to sift truth from falsehood, and have not been imbued with the courage to accept the one and reject the other regardless of consequences, their leisure will almost certainly be misused or at least wasted."—(Charlotte Observer)

Who, Me?

It Pays To Read The Mail

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)— Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That the Air Force slang for a million dollars is "megabuck" and wins our vote as the most useful new word of the year.

That the balance wheel of a watch revolves at the same rate as a railway locomotive going 55 miles an hour.

That it really costs money to make money. The government says it costs 10 cents to make 100 pennies, $6 to make $500 worth of half-dollar coins.

That inflation isn't anything new in this country. During the Revolutionary War prices rose 400 per cent in two years.

That approximately 66 per cent of chronic alcoholics become sexually impotent, partly as a result of liver damage.

That the peak hour for childbirth is 5 a.m., and the ebh hour is 7 p.m.

That 98 per cent of women who develop breast cancer first discover it themselves.

That Robert Q. Lewis likes to tell the Texan who while buying a new suit, was asked if he wanted a vent in the jacket.

That it was Montaigne who observed, "There is no man so good, who, were he to submit all his thoughts and actions to the laws, would not deserve hanging ten times in his life."

That a professional entertainer whose act is built around his ability to walk a rope is called a funambulist.

That practically everyone is aware of the fact that Demosthenes, the great orator of Ancient Greece, cured himself of a stammer by speaking with pebbles in his mouth . . . but who remembers what the man said when he took the marbles out?

That according to the Fisherman magazine a fish doesn't feel pain.

That Mark Twain once visited friends and scattered cigar ashes all over the floor. Admiring members of the family then scraped up the ashes in a fruit jar and asked the author to autograph a label pasted on the jar. When I told this to my wife, she said: "I'll do the same thing for your ashes—but not your cigar ashes."

That the utilization of school plants on a continuous basis would create many problems and increase cost of operation. Busses would be required to make more trips with fewer students.

The fact that one fourth of the children of school age would be on vacation all the time would recreate a recreation problem of magnitude, the committee concluded.

In fact the objections are many and nothing of significance was found in its favor by the Los Angeles committee appointed to study the problem. And many of the cities that have tried the 12 months program later abandoned it.

The Daily Times passes this information on to the readers. For no subject is more in the minds of the people than schools. The need is tremendous, the money limited. So every avenue is being explored in an effort to solve the problems.

Results Of High Court Actions
The sensational House study of America's aviation backwardness, where Billy Mitchell was the star witness, was not inspired by any need or demand for legislation. It was undertaken to show that earthbound Generals and "battleship" Admirals were deliberately stunting and neglecting the airplane as a weapon in war.

CONGRESS' WATCHDOG AUTHORITY Under the Supreme Court ruling in favor of Faith Amendment, Communists and fellow-travelers, it is extremely doubtful whether these two healthy and necessary exposes of Executive crime and negligence could have been conducted. Unless remedied, the Supreme Court has stripped Congress of its authority to act as a watch-

Cities, Cars In Future

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — Of two things I am certain, either radical steps must be taken to head off the increasing automobile congestion in cities, or else the sale of automobiles will decline. Either a hundred billion dollars must be expended for road improvements, or else readers had better sell their General Motors stocks on the next good rise. Furthermore, I believe that instead of spending money on new turnpikes, it would be better to double the width of our ordinary two-lane roads, making four lanes with a barrier in the middle. However, this would increase the congestion in cities.

CITY LEGISLATION NEEDED
Of course, the first thing which all cities should do is to keep all trucks off streets during the busy hours, — with deliveries permitted only between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. This should be done at once in every city having a population of over 50,000. The next step would be to eliminate all parking on downtown streets. A start has been made on this; but the problem has not been tackled heroically. Parking meters are a step in the right direction, but they are not the ultimate solution.

Frankly, if I were a young man today, instead of going into the automobile business, I would purchase land for a good downtown parking lot and gradually build a chain of parking lots. It seems as if garages for parking would be a good investment if properly located. I shall watch with interest the new mechanical "pushbutton garages" and note how they "take." I understand that such an open-air four-story garage costs about $400,000. At any rate, my guess is that during the years ahead there may be more money in parking automobiles than in selling automobiles. Wise men are selling automobiles who now spend money to buy up old buildings and install parking lots. In fact, such parking lots are a city's main hope, combined with proper advertising and service for downtown retail stores. In this connection I repeat a former forecast that all new retail stores will be larger, will be confined to one floor, and that the clerks will be on roller skates.

MOTORSCOOTERS, BICYCLES, AND ROLLER SKATES

If parking on streets is eliminated, this will speed up traffic and should help the bus companies of each city. On the other hand, more traffic lights should be installed at crossroads. The speedier the traffic, the more traffic lights will be needed. The question is, how will the waits and congestion at these cross streets be eliminated? This brings me back to Sir Isaac Newton's great "basic" Law of ACTION AND REACTION.

Automobiles will only continue to grow longer for a period, after which a reaction will set in and cars will be made shorter and shorter. Shorter cars, however, will not end the congestion at street crossings. In accordance with the law of ACTION AND REACTION, when the sale of cars begins to decline, the sale of motorscooters, bicycles, and roller skates will begin to increase. Now let me give my final forecast on the solution of the traffic problem.

In most cities, awnings are now permissible for retail stores. These provide protection to pedestrians against both rain and extreme sunshine. In most cities there are miles of these awnings over the sidewalks. My forecast is that there awnings will be replaced by thoroughways for the use of motorscooters, bicycles, and perhaps foot passengers on roller skates. These thoroughways could be overhanging from the buildings just as the awnings now are; but they would be built by the city authorities and a small toll charge could be made for their use. They would be no wider than the sidewalks and would be elevated over all streets. This would enable a cyclist to go from the city line into the heart of the city without stopping for crossroads or intersections.

These elevated "throughways" would serve also as protection from rain and sun to pedestrians on the sidewalks below. They would have outlets at every building. Just inside each building would be a place to park vehicles. Cities would soon be repaid for building these elevated "throughways" by increased assessments. They would make the second stories as valuable as the first floors.

Why can't we stand on our feet and learn to say straight out what we believe and think? Why all this hedging? Why this attempt to put the burden of responsibility on others?

If you happen to be on the receiving end of "They say," stand up and fight back. It is remarkable how quickly opposition fades away when it has no real support. People who resort to innuendo, rumor, and gossip are quick to turn and flee when they are confronted by facts. The quickest way to squash a rumor is to reveal its source. Bring the rumor monger out into the open and let him give an account of himself.

But he will be hard to find. He is an elusive fellow. Those who travel under the banner on which the words "they say" are as filmy and indefinite as ghosts—but they are as dangerous as poison gas.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
AN UGLY TYRANT

"They Say."
These two words can, under certain circumstances, constitute the most cruel combination of words in all the world. People raise their brows and talk in whispers behind their hands. "They say . . ." and on and on goes the unsupported gossip, and half truths, and the miserable lies and innuendoes which tear lives and break hearts. "They say" is a terrible tyrant, a vagabond, a disorderly person, a hateful conspirator.

Why can't we stand on our feet and learn to say straight out what we believe and think? Why all this hedging? Why this attempt to put the burden of responsibility on others?

Debate Proposals For Overhauling Govm't Anti-Subversive Programs

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposals for overhauling government anti-subversive programs today won praise from some members of Congress. But there was strong criticism of a recommendation for criminal penalties for publishing "secret" information.

Coming in for praise was a bipartisan commission's proposal for a sweeping revision of the Eisenhower administration's loyalty-security program and for sealing chinks in the nation's defenses against subversion. The commission said its recommendations also are designed to offer "increased safeguards for the rights of individuals."

A target of criticism was the proposed law under which a newspaperman could be fined $10,500 and sent to prison for five years for publishing secret information. Some congressmen also assailed a commission proposal to legalize the use of wiretap evidence in court cases involving national security.

The 12-man commission, set up by Congress, made its recommendations Saturday in an 800-page report to Congress and President Eisenhower. The commission was established in 1955 to make an objective, nonpolitical study of loyalty-security problems in government service and defense industry.

The commission's chairman, Loyd Wright, told a news conference the group sought to "cure those things that have been woefully lacking" in government security programs. Wright, a Los Angeles attorney, is a former president of the American Bar Assn.

Many of the recommendations could be put into effect by Eisenhower by executive order, but the proposals dealing with "leaks" of secret information and with wiretap evidence would require legislation.

However, Senators Stennis (D-Miss.) and Cotton (R-NH), both of whom served on the commission, said there is little prospect of any action by Congress in the remaining weeks of the present session. As a practical matter, they said, too little time is left.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower felt the commission had turned in "a good report." He declined further comment.

Under commission proposals, (1) loyalty cases would be separated from those involving employees regarded as security risks only because of undesirable personal habits; (2) a limited right to confront accusers would be granted; and (3) a new agency would be created in an effort to assure improved administration of the program.

Other recommendations dealt with the industrial security program in defense plants, port and air transport security, the issuance of passports, the screening of immigrants, and the attorney general's list of subversive organizations.

The commission also proposed elimination of the "confidential" classification for government documents, leaving only "secret" and "top secret" categories.

It said dangers to national security arise from over-secrecy which it said "retards scientific and technological progress."

However, it also called for a bill to make it unlawful for "any person" who obtained "secret" or "top secret" information in atomic or other fields "to communicate" it to anyone else "not authorized to receive such information."

At present, the law bars only government employees from disclosing such information.

Chairman Celler (D-NY) of the House Judiciary Committee said that "at first blush" this and some other proposals of the commission appear to run afoul of the Constitution. He said he will insist on "thorough and protracted hearings" if these proposals reach his committee.

Chairman Moss (D-Calif.) of the House subcommittee on government information policies congratulated the commission on those recommendations which he said were "aimed at eliminating unnecessary government secrecy."

But he rapped the commission for issuing what he termed "an extreme blanket indictment of the American press."

Writing to Wright, Moss said, "The commission has called for far-reaching, punitive legislation which, weighed against admitted excessive secrecy, could result in a virtual blackout of nonsensitive information."

A strong protest was entered by V. M. Newton, managing editor of the Tampa (Fla.) Tribune. Newton also is chairman of the National Freedom of Information Committee of Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic fraternity.

Newton said the recommendation "applying to the free American press is an outrage and an insult to the free American people."

Charles A. King, president of the New York State Society of Newspaper Editors, denounced the proposal, saying the press "by and large has forged an unparalleled record of cooperation in security matters." King is managing editor of the Utica Observer-Dispatch.

Celler said he objects to the commission's plan to permit use in court of evidence obtained by telephone wiretapping in national security cases because it would require approval only of the attorney general before such evidence was obtained.

Celler said, "I would insist on a court order."

Stennis and Cotton both said they had reservations about the wiretap proposal.

However, Rep. Keating of New York, senior Republican on the Judiciary Committee, described himself as gratified by the commission's recommendation on use of wiretap evidence.

Stennis said the proposal that persons involved in loyalty cases be allowed to confront their accusers is "the greatest single recommendation" in the report.

"The casual informer or malicious gossip will no longer be able to hide under the cloak of anonymity and wreck the careers and reputations of innocent people," he said.

However, the right to cross-examination would not under the commission's recommendations, require the government to produce its undercover agents at loyalty hearings.

Cotton said he thought the proposed separation of loyalty and security cases would put an end to the controversy over what Democrats have called the "numbers game" they accused the administration of playing with the loyalty-security program.

Democrats have contended the administration, by lumping both types of cases together in their statistics on dismissals under the program, had tried to give the impression that it found a lot of subversives on the government payroll when it took office.

The commission urged establishment of an independent central

Adopt Plan For Ending Dispute

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nicaragua and Honduras have agreed to a two-step plan aimed at settling their century-old border dispute.

The Central American neighbors first will ask the World Court to decide whether a boundary line drawn by the King of Spain in 1596 is valid.

Then, if the court's ruling does not solve the dispute, the countries will submit any unsettled points to arbitration.

The agreement was obtained by Luis Quintanilla of Mexico and Eduardo Garcia of Argentina, representatives of the Organization of American States, in talks here and in Honduras over the weekend.

The OAS stepped in after border skirmishing broke out in the disputed area this spring. Several soldiers of both sides were killed before Nicaragua and Honduras agreed to a cease-fire.

In dispute is a triangular jungle area north of the Segovia River, deposits were found in neighboring territory. King Alfonso XIII of Spain had set the Segovia as the international boundary in his 1906 arbitration, but Nicaragua refused to accept the verdict.

Quintanilla said in Mexico City where he stopped en route back to his post in Washington, that if either country does not comply willingly with the World Court decision, the foreign ministers of the American states will meet to take steps to force compliance.

Ailing Trumpeter Blames His Horn

CHICAGO (AP) — Lee Collins, now a charity patient at Cook County Hospital, blames the jazz trumpet that brought him fame for his ill health and the loss of his career.

The 55-year-old Negro, rated among the best of the early jazz men, suffers from a dilated lung. Physicians say his lusty style of playing could have aggravated the condition and that he'll never play again.

Collins, who began in jazz in New Orleans before World War I, sadly agrees that he has tooted his last note.

"Maybe it came from blowing too young and too loud," he said dejectedly in his ward at the hospital yesterday.

"I think I've played my last trumpet. I'm too weak to blow any more. I don't feel good at all."

Collins' career stretched for the gin mills of New Orleans' fabled Storyville to Chicago and on to the Paris Opera House, where he collapsed from his ailment while playing in January 1955.

"My first professional job was in 1916," he recalled. "It began when Louis Armstrong and I stepped out to lead the Mardi Gras parade."

In World War I, the Navy cracked down on night clubs in New Orleans, where American jazz was born. Collins and other famous jazz musicians drifted northward after the closures.

Asked what he plans to do when he leaves the hospital, the grey-haired Collins shook his head and sighed: "I don't know. All I know is jazz."

Japanese, Uprooted During World War II, Win Acceptance On Coast

STRAW SACKS: Japanese being forced from their homes on West Coast are shown in this picture, taken in 1942, stuffing straw in sacks for use as mattresses at a reception center in Manzanar, Calif.

By FRANK WETZEL (now quietly coming to a happy ending. The happy ending can be seen in office buildings, parent-teacher organizations, on golf courses throughout the West Coast — where Americans of Japanese descent are finding a welcome unknown in the past.

Mas Satow, national director of the Japanese American Citizens League, sums it up with the flat statement that the Japanese are better off now than ever before.

Loyalty Proven
"People know us now," he says. "Before, we were untried and untested. The war gave us an opportunity to prove our loyalty."
Few people in American history have ever been presented with so trying an "opportunity." The Japanese-Americans had the privilege of demonstrating their loyalty to the United States during World War II while being uprooted from homes in parts of Washington, Oregon, California and Arizona and jammed into settlements one Supreme Court justice described as "concentration camps."

When the Japanese Navy attacked Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, a wave of bitterness against Japanese living in the United States swept the West Coast. After several preliminary restrictions, in March of 1942 the Army declared a large part of the West Coast off limits to all Japanese, aliens and citizens alike, and ordered them to leave.

The original plan simply was to force them away from the coast. But the state just inland were against permitting the Japanese to enter without supervision of the Army.

This reaction forced a change of plan. The government hurriedly created the War Relocation Authority to control the Japanese until the end of the war. Ten relocation centers were set up, ranging from Tule Lake, Calif., through Poston, Ariz., Minidoka, Idaho, Topas, Utah, and as far east as Jerome, Ark.

Severe Upheaval
Although attempts were made to safeguard their property, confusion and fears of the Japanese made fraud and cheating easy. By far the majority of the 109,650 persons of Japanese ancestry evacuated from the coast sold their property at distress prices, gave it away or stored it at their own personal expense and risk. The loss incurred due to the move has been estimated at 400 million dollars.

Some camps — all of them far from luxurious — had riots and in some anti-American militaristic organizations sprang up. Eventually thousands renounced their American citizenship.

Many Japanese who had been loyal to the United States became bitter. But most remained loyal.

Inevitably, the matter went to the Supreme Court. Citing such things as race prejudice and designs of unscrupulous competitors, the Japanese argued the evacuation was not a military necessity. The pointed to Hawaii as a far more sensitive location than the West Coast, yet on Hawaii the Japanese never were interned although they made up a far greater percentage of the population than on the mainland.

In 1944, the Supreme Court upheld the legality of the relocation saying: "We cannot by availing ourselves of the calm perspective of hindsight — now say that at that time these actions were unjustified."

Internment Untested
The legality of the internment, as distinguished from the relocation, has never been ruled upon. After a Supreme Court decision freeing one interned woman in 1944, the Army's Western Defense Command rescinded the order excluding the Japanese from the West Coast.

This order marked the beginning of a stirring comeback by the Japanese. Now it is estimated that 80 per cent have returned to their old homes.

"Where previously there was anti-Japanese feeling, now the feelings are friendly," Satow said in an interview here recently. "Our people are joining in, and being accepted by PTA and other civic organizations."

"And with the shortage of workers, new fields are open. For instance, we can't fill the demand for stenographers. They're very efficient and can almost name their own jobs."

"There is a diversity of jobs which we didn't have before. We have lawyers, doctors, dentists, engineers and school teachers. Our merchants no longer cater to a solely Japanese clientele. People of all races trade in our stores."

Congress approved in 1948 a law which permitted compensation to the Japanese for actual losses incurred during the evacuation and internment. Satow said 25 million dollars had been collected and the Japanese may get another 25 million before the law runs out.

And in 1952, with passage of the Walter - McCarran Immigration and Naturalization Act, the Issei won the right to become American citizens. Soon, Stow said, the Japanese will have a higher ratio of citizenship than any other group of foreign born.

Advises Postmen Distrust Dogs

CHICAGO (AP)—Hot weather brings out the worst in a dog and Postmaster Carl A. Schroeder yesterday warned mail carriers in his bailiwick "don't trust any of them."

"Uniforms, uniform caps and men carrying bags are of a special attraction to dogs," Schroeder cautioned. Especially untrustworthy are the "sleeper" and "sneaker" types.

The first "appears to be sleeping and doesn't pay any attention to you while you are placing letters in the mail box. After you have walked down the stairs and have forgotten all about the dog, the dog streaks down like a flash and bites you," Schroeder said.

"The worst type," he said in a staff circular, is the "sneaker." He creeps up behind a mailman, gives no warning and strikes silently and swiftly.

Schroeder also listed the house dog (usually vicious); the double crosser (you trust him, but find you shouldn't have when your back is turned); the so-called friendly dog (he's friendly only to other dogs) and the plain and simple vicious brute.

Last year, 106 mail carriers were bitten in Chicago.

Home Market Is Almost Balanced

CHICAGO (AP)—A survey by the United States Savings and Loans League composed of 6,000 savers and loan associations indicates that supply and demand of the home construction market has reached an "approximate balance."

The League forecasts a production of one million new homes in 1957.

Mantle Gets 21st Homer, Aiming For Triple Crown

Mick Leads All Batters With A .392 Average

By JACK HAND Mickey Mantle's batting splurge is the big news in the American League as the New York Yankees slugger takes dead aim at an unprecedented second straight "triple crown."

Since the start of the stormy White Sox series in Chicago two weeks ago, the switcher has been manhandling—pitching at a .500 clip.

He now leads the majors with a .392 batting average, tops both leagues with 21 home runs and trails Washington's Roy Sievers by only one run with his 51 runs batted in.

Mickey picked up 13 points yesterday with six hits in the double-header with Chicago.

Just when Dick Donovan appeared ready to become the first pitcher to shut out the Yankees this season—with a three-hitter going to the ninth inning of the second game, his defense failed him and Mantle hit one, Mickey's 21st homer into the third deck in right with two on unhinged Donovan and brought Paul LaPalme to the rescue.

The Yanks won their 10th straight 9-2 in the opener, a ninth victory for Bobby Shantz and his eighth in succession. The little lefthander was helped by a 16-hit attack against loser Billy Pierce.

Cleveland clubbed Washington pitching for a total of 31 hits, 19 in the first game, to win a pair 11-2 and 7-5 for Wynn and Mike Garcia. Gene Woodling had four hits and a walk in the opener and even pitcher Ray Narleski got his first hit of the year—a homer—in the second.

Frank Malone and Ted Williams put on a hitting show at Boston, where the Red Sox also totaled 31 hits in thumping Kansas City 10-6 and 10-1. Malone collected five hits and Williams hit his 18th and 19th homers.

Baltimore shaded Detroit 5-4 on Jim Busby's tie-breaking homer. Ray Moore had three of the Orioles' 13 hits while going the route with a six-hitter.

St. Louis clung to a one-game lead in the ever-changing National League race. The Phillies, second Saturday night, dropped to fourth by losing a pair to Milwaukee, which took over second place.

Wally Moon drove in two runs with a triple and stole home in the Cardinals' 4-3 decision over Brooklyn. Larry Jackson won his ninth with help from Hoyt Wilhelm in the ninth.

Milwaukee downed the Phils 7-6 and 7-3 for Bob Buhl and Taylor Phillips but lost the services of Joe Adcock, who will be out for six or eight weeks due to a broken ankle. Hank Aaron's single won the first game in the ninth and Bill Bruton drove in three runs with a triple and double in the second.

Cincinnati's power, sputtering in recent weeks, came through with two homers in one game and three in the other of 5-3 and 5-2 victories over Pittsburgh. George Crowe hit a homer in each game among his six hits.

The New York Giants, who have taken a new lease on life on their western tour, won their fourth straight series. They knocked off Chicago 7-5 and 5-1 by beating the Cubs' two hot shot youngsters, 20-year-old Dick Drott and 21-year-old Moe Drabowsky. Johnny Antonelli won the first game but needed help. Curt Barclay struck out eight Cubs and missed a shut-out in the second on Lee Walls' homer.

It was a rough Sunday on managers, especially in the National League. Bobby Bragan of Pittsburgh was chased for questioning a decision and so was Mayo Smith of the Phils. Freddie Hutchinson wasn't allowed to stay around long enough to see his league-leading Cardinals salt away their victory over Brooklyn. He got the heave-ho for disputing a pitch to Gino Cimoli.

Some Looking For Sox To Collapse Now

NEW YORK (P)—The cry of "Here comes the collapse" is being hurled at the Chicago White Sox again much to their annoyance.

The White Sox in the past few years have suffered several late-season slumps.

Today they headed for Boston after three lickings by New York in four vital games at Yankee Stadium.

The White Sox managed to salvage the finale yesterday 4-3 after losing the opener 9-2 of a double-header.

Leading by five games only 10 days ago, the Sox now are in second place, half a game behind the Yankees. They've dropped five of their last seven games.

One of the more outspoken players who decried the foldup accusation was Billy Pierce, ace of the Chicago pitching staff.

"I just can't understand these people who are accusing us of collapsing," said Pierce, who failed yesterday in his third bid for his 11th triumph of the season. "It's as if we're not entitled to a slump. It's all right for the other clubs to lose a few but we can't."

"It seems they're waiting for us to hit a bad spell so they can have the opportunity to say we're collapsing."

Al Lopez, who left Cleveland to take over the reins of the club this year, also ridiculed the collapse charges.

"They're utterly baseless," he said. "We've been playing good ball all year. Yes, even in recent days when we've been losing."

"Look at our defeats. Most of them have been by one run. Baltimore beat us twice by one run last week. Two of our weekend defeats by the Yankees were by one run. Is that a sign of collapse?"

Brannon Snags Sunday's Title

Tommy Brannon placed first in the Micro Midget race Sunday afternoon.

He was driving car No. 92 which is owned by Carl and Earl Simmons.

Taking second place was George Salium of Norfolk, Virginia. John Forehan of Greenville came in third.

Brannon came in first in the second heat. Driving car No. 8 owned by Zeb Harris, Johnnie Poland took first place in the first heat. The consolation race was won by John Forehan in car No. 16.

No one was injured in two wrecks that involved three cars. One car crashed through the fence and another rolled over on the track.

Records Are Set In NAAU Meets

DAYTON, Ohio (P)—Three American and 10 meet records were established last weekend as the National Amateur Athletic Union completed the hectic page of its 60th annual track and field championships here.

The most heralded clash of the meet failed to produce the anticipated result, however.

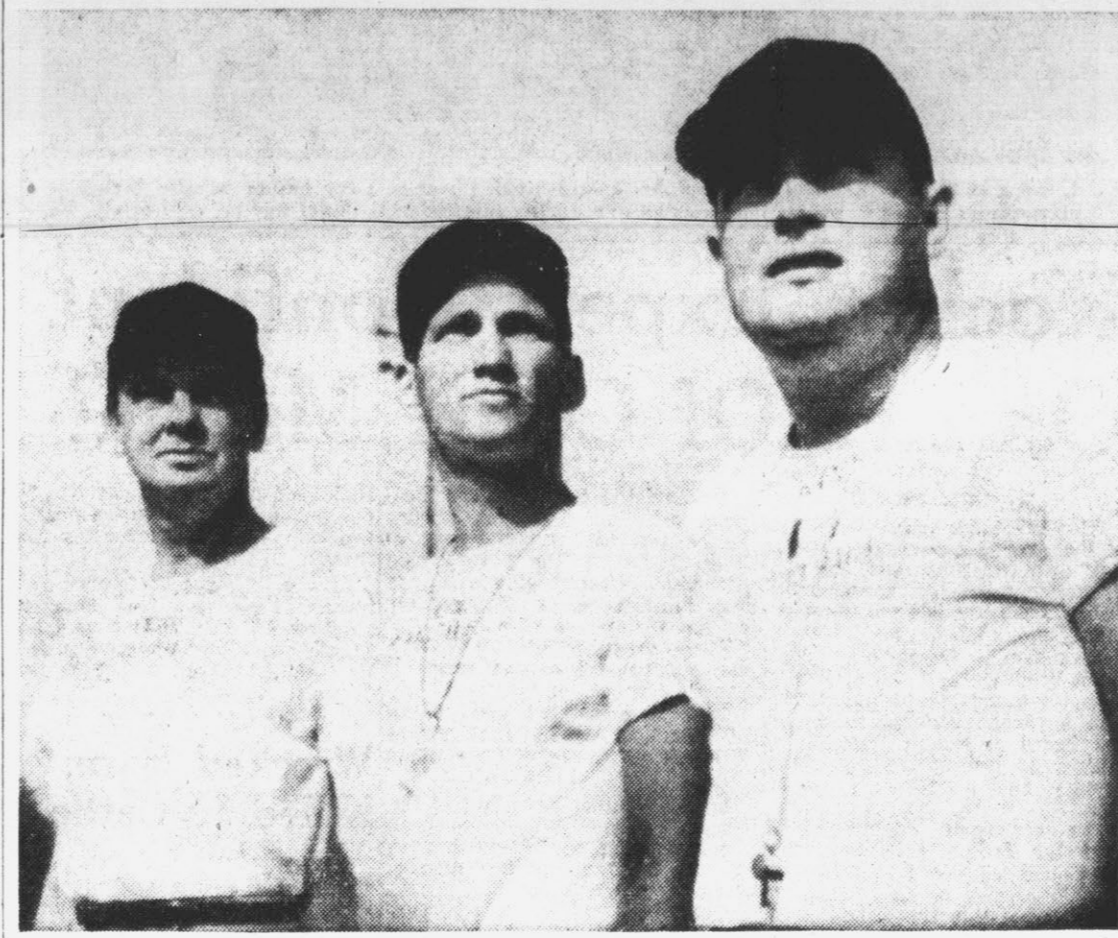

Don Bowden of California and Merv Lincoln of Australia, who have both shattered the once-invincible four-minute barrier of the mile run, failed to repeat Saturday night.

Lincoln was the winner in 4:06.1, a new meet record. Bowden could do no better than third, trailing Bob Seaman of the Southern California striders by a tenth of a second in 4:07.2.

Joe Adcock Breaks Leg In Slide; Out For 6-8 Weeks

MILWAUKEE (P)—The Milwaukee Braves' slugging first baseman, Joe Adcock, dogged by injuries the past few seasons, broke his right leg yesterday and will be lost to the club for six to eight weeks.

He was injured sliding into second base in the second inning of the nightcap of the double-header with the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Braves, with Adcock driving in two runs in the first game, swept the twin bill 7-6 and 7-3.

General Manager John Quinn said the loss of a hitter like Adcock "is bound to hurt the ball club."

"We're going to try and do something ourselves to take up the slack," he said.

It was reported the front office may attempt to purchase a player who swings a good bat and who can play the outfield as well as first base. No names were mentioned.

The 29-year-old Adcock, in and out of the lineup for nearly a month with a right knee injury, returned to action in the first game. In the second inning of the second game as the Braves pushed over three runs, Adcock slid, but didn't get up.

He was carried from the field on a stretcher and taken immediately to a hospital, where it was reported originally that he had fractured his ankle. Dr. Bruce Brewer, team physician, later described the injury as a broken leg, saying the fibula, main leg bone, was fractured about six inches above the ankle.

At the hospital, Adcock told of the injury, saying, "When my foot hit the bag I heard a snap and realized I must have broken something."

Hitting 230 with 9 homers and 32 runs batted in, Adcock will be replaced by Frank Torre, who has a .287 average, 3 homers and 12 runs batted across.

All four covered the equivalent of five consecutive Indianapolis 500 races.

Farmville Tops Winterville 9-0

WINTERVILLE (P)—Farmville's Junior League baseballers notched their fourth consecutive loop win Saturday, upsetting the first-place Winterville club, 9-0.

Ben Monk, 13, hurled a one-hitter to secure the triumph for the visitors. Walter Jones caught.

Leading the hitting for Farmville was little J. Y. Monk, who chopped out three hits, Monk blasted a triple, a double and a single. No other man on the club got more than one base knock.

Farmville's win leveled the series between the two teams. Winterville defeated the visitors earlier at Farmville.

Friday night, Farmville will play host to Grifton, the current league-leader. The 9-0 loss chalked up against Winterville Saturday knocked Winterville out of a top place tie with Grifton.

Britain Racers Win Le Mans

LE MANS, France (P)—Britain's speed, "Jags"—the big 3.5 liter Jaguars—today were celebrating another sweep of the Le Mans sport car 24-hour race of endurance over Italy's Maseratis and Ferraris.

It was a one - two - three - four sweep for the Jags, all privately entered.

Ivor Bueb and Ron Flockhart, driving a dark green Jag, hit the wire first with an unofficial record average speed of 114 miles per hour. It was a Scots team car.

Ninian Sanderson and Jan Lawrence, also handling a Scots Jag, were second. Jean Lucas and Jean Mary, a French duet, got home third and the Belgian outfit, Paul Frere and Freddy Rouselle, was fourth.

All four covered the equivalent of five consecutive Indianapolis 500 races.

Sullivan Breaks 7-7 Tie To Win 12-Inning Game

CAROLINA LEAGUE By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A 12-inning victory yesterday enabled Winston-Salem to cut the Durham Bulls' Carolina League lead to one and a half games.

A bases-loaded single by Glen Sullivan enabled Pedro Cardenal to race home with the run that gave the Redbirds the 8-7 win. Sullivan's hot shot bounced off the glove of Durham shortstop Frank Kestro.

The High Point Thomasville Hi-Toms grabbed two unearned runs in the first inning and then held on to win a 3-1 contest with Danville.

Wilson stretched its winning streak to three games in defeating Greensboro 7-4.

The Redbirds came from behind with a four-run eighth to force the game into extra innings. The Bulls had jumped to an early lead when Dick Colone blasted two homers, one with one man on in the fourth and the other with two on in the seventh.

The Danville-Danville game was a pitching duel with Jerry Kettle turning a sparkling three-hit job for the Hi-Toms. Harry Hoitsma, the losing pitcher, gave up only five hits.

Oscar Chinque also gave a fine pitching performance in fanning 12 and giving up only six hits in leading Wilson to its win over Greensboro. A home run by Dale DeSilvia helped the Wilson cause.

Games today are Greensboro at Danville, Winston-Salem at Hi-Toms and Durham at Wilson.

Action-Studded Races On Stock Car Circuit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was another action-studded weekend for stock car racing fans. Curtis Turner of Roanoke, Va., pushed his 1957 Ford to victory yesterday before 5,700 fans at the New Concord Speedway in Concord, N.C.

The NASCAR-sanctioned national championship convertible race had previously been postponed by rain on three occasions.

Turner, who edged out Bob Welborn of Greensboro, completed the 100-mile grind in 1:40.20, an average speed of 59.3 miles an hour. Welborn using a 1957 Chevrolet, who came in second.

Other finishers, in order, were: Joe Weatherly of Norfolk, Va., in a 1957 Ford; Johnny Dodson of King in a 1957 Oldsmobile; Glenn Wood of Stuart, Va., in a 1957 Ford; Ken Rush of High Point in a 1956 Mercury; Dick Beatey of Charlotte in a 1956 Ford; Whitey Norman of Winston-Salem in a 1956 Ford; Lewis Jones of Tampa, Fla., in a 1957 Chevrolet; and Bill Poor of Wheaton, Mass., in a 1957 Chevrolet.

Rain dampened yesterday's racing program at the Asheville-Weaverline Speedway near Asheville, N.C. Banjo Matthews was leading the field by two car lengths when rain halted the sportsman-amateur racing card.

Doug Cox of Greenville was in second place. The racers completed 20 of the scheduled 50 laps.

A race scheduled yesterday at Lehi, Ark., was postponed by showers. It was the second postponement for the NASCAR Grand National 200-mile race at the Memphis-Arkansas Speedway. The race was reset for July 14 by officials.

Dink Widenhouse of Concord, N.C., roared to victory in the 25-lap sportsman's feature race of Saturday night's racing program at Myrtle Beach, S. C. Johnny Miller of Creedmore, N. C., Emmett Hair of Goldsboro and Jimmy Thompson of Concord finished behind Widenhouse in that order.

A crowd estimated at 10,000 turned out in Winston-Salem Saturday night to watch Bob Welborn of Greensboro win the 150-lap convertible race. It was his fifth straight NASCAR circuit win.

Lee Petty of Randleman, N.C., finished second and Joe Weatherly of Norfolk came in third.

Featherweights Vie For Crown Today In Paris

The world featherweight title will be at stake today in Paris when Cherif Hamia, the No. 1 contender from France, meets Hogan (Kid) Bassey, the No. 2 man from Nigeria, in a 15-round match.

Sandy Saddler's retirement in January resulted in a series of elimination bouts with Hamia drawing a bye into the finals. The clever Frenchman had beaten Carmelo Costa, Ike Chestnut and Miguel Berrios on an American invasion last year.

When Bassey came to the United States and whipped Berrios in a 12-round match at Washington April 26 he moved into the finals with Hamia.

Tony DiBlase, 21-year-old welterweight from New York who is majoring in geology at New York University, meets another rugged youngster, Gale Kerwin of Valley Stream, N. Y., in a tonight's fight at St. Nicholas Arena in New York.

DiBlase's 20-month unbeaten streak of 19 bouts was snapped May 13 by Jimmy Archer at St. Nick's. Kerwin beat Rocky Randall in his only 1957 start after losing to Carlos Ortiz at St. Nick's in December.

Du Mont will telecast in some sections.

Bobby Boyd continues his campaign in the middleweight division against Rocky Castellani, once the No. 1 contender, in a 10-round TV match Wednesday at the Chicago Stadium.

The uneven career of Larry Boardman, Marlborough, Conn., reaches another turning point Friday when the fifth-ranked lightweight faces Johnny Busso of New York in a Boston radio-TV scrap.

Parents' Night

AYDEN—Norman Dail, president of the Ayden Civic Baseball League, has announced that a special "Parents' Night" would be held at the ball park Tuesday, June 25.

Special ceremonies are expected besides the regular baseball contests.

Dail requested that all parents attend.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting, Mickey Mantle, Yankees—Collected six hits in double-header split with Chicago, including his 21st home run, to boost his batting average 13 points to .392.

Pitching, Larry Jackson and Hoyt Wilhelm, Cardinals—Teamed up with six-hitter against Brooklyn at St. Louis clung to first place with 4-3 victory.

Both Clubs Win Saturday Games To Snare Lead

Victories by the Exchange and Lions club Little League teams Saturday afternoon at Elm Street park boosted both those teams into first place positions by a full-game margin.

Before Saturday's encounters, the Elks and Exchangers were tied for the top slot in the Tar Heel loop and the Jaycees and Lions were tied for first in the North State. All four clubs had identical 1-0 marks.

The weekend battles disposed of any doubt as to who the league-leaders were, however, when the Exchange Club trounced the Elks, 12-2, and the Lions edged the Jaycees, 3-1.

Exchange-Elks In the Tar Heel game, the Exchange Club blasted away for one run in the second, one in the third, two in the fourth, then exploded for eight more in the fifth.

Robby Ange hurled the win, giving up only one hit, a single by Denny Hardee in the first inning. He struck out 13 and walked seven.

Doug Sumrell was the losing pitcher. He was relieved by Tom Whitchard in the fifth, but it was too late.

Bernie Morris, Richard Taft and leftfielder Johnson slashed out three hits each to pace the Exchange batting attack. Morris connected for a grand slam home run in the fifth to start the big eight-run rally.

LIONS-JAYCEES The Lions notched their 3-1 victory in the North State game—but it took them nine innings to turn the trick.

At the end of the regular six innings, the score was tied 1-1. David Miller was pitching for the Lions and Roger Hardee was on the mound for the Jaycees.

In the seventh, both teams sent in relief workers. Bob Powell went in for the Lions, John Planagan for the Jaycees.

In the bottom of the ninth frame, the Lions burst forth with two rapid runs to grab a quick victory. Centerfielder J. T. Taff clouted a double and scored on a hit by Dan Joyner. Lee Whitehurst walked and later came in on a walk. It ended 3-1.

B. T. Johnson came in for the Jaycees in the ninth with one out and pitched the rest of the way. It was Planagan's loss however.

Joyner, Taff and Jim Gilliam led the hitters for the Lions with two hits each.

Rocket Expert Confident On Eve Of Court Martial

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — One of the Army's top rocket experts, Col. John C. Nickerson Jr., who deliberately courted a court-martial, will get one, beginning tomorrow.

Nickerson, 41-year-old West Point graduate and World War II hero, is scheduled to appear before a 10-man general court-martial board at 9 a.m. Tuesday to answer 18 charges of espionage, perjury and disobedience of orders.

The espionage charge stems from the Army's accusation that he distributed secret information to unauthorized persons which, if it had come into the hands of an enemy, could have damaged the nation's security.

No trial since the court-martial of Brig. Gen. Billy Mitchell in 1925 has involved such outright questioning of the wisdom of his superiors as this one.

Mitchell, then chief of the Army Air Corps, was found guilty of insubordination and ordered stripped of his rank, command and duties for a period of five years and put on half pay. He resigned his commission Feb. 1, 1926.

Mitchell was court-martialed for insisting on the superiority of air power over surface battleships, while Nickerson insists that to abandon the Army's long range missile program would endanger the nation.

If convicted on all 18 specifications charging violations of two sections of the uniform code of military justice, the bespectacled Nickerson could receive a 46-year prison sentence, a dishonorable discharge and a $10,000 fine.

The two-time winner of the Silver Star medal for gallantry in World War II, is primarily involved in a single-handed battle to save the Army's development of a 1,500-mile intermediate range ballistic missile (IRBM).

Last November Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson issued an order limiting the Army had in the works the Jupiter missile, which later flew 1,650 miles in 17½ minutes and which is only the reported successful flight of a ballistic missile beyond 200 miles.

In the aftermath of the Wilson order, Nickerson wrote his now famed "Comments on the Wilson Memoranda," which the Army maintains continued top secret information.

This writing, plus three subsequent documents, were distributed to editors, congressman, a newspaper columnist and industrial men.

Nickerson, supporting his argument with technical data, contended that in the race with Russia to produce an IRBM and an intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM), the Army was far ahead of the other services.

In distributing his arguments

Nickerson admittedly sought to focus public attention on the missile program — and the Army's role therein.

At a brief news conference yesterday, Nickerson said in commenting on his impending trial: "I am confident of the outcome."

He specified that he meant his own personal situation.

Wrecked Barn, Killed 39 Cattle

The resulting fire destroyed another barn and a milkshed.

OK Everything But School Aid Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Young Republican national federation has put its stamp of approval on much of President Eisenhower's legislative program, while emphatically rejecting his school aid proposals.

Winding up a three-day convention here Saturday, the organization rejected a Platform Committee recommendation favoring Eisenhower's five-year, 1½-billion-dollar school aid measure.

It urged amendment of the Taft-Hartley law to prohibit compulsory union membership.

John M. Ashbrook, 28-year-old Johnstown, Ohio, weekly newspaper publisher, was unanimously elected chairman of the federation for the next two years.

Miss Jerrie Kent, Johnson City, Tenn., an assistant to Rep. Reece (D-Tenn.), was named co-chairman.

Instead, it voted 390-23 for a substitute resolution saying: "Mindful of the inevitable connection between subsidization and control, we are unalterably opposed to federal financial aid for general public education and school construction."

In two other roll call votes, the convention voted (1) to give specific endorsement to Eisenhower's civil rights program, and (2) against giving any military assistance to Communist nations.

Though the latter vote was regarded as a move against any aid for such nations as Yugoslavia, which is getting U.S. military and economic help, the convention did give general commendation to administration foreign policy.

The group commended the administration for presenting three successive balanced budgets, but called for a continued effort to reduce federal expenditures. It said federal taxes should be reduced substantially as soon as this becomes practical.

Laying Process Went In Reverse

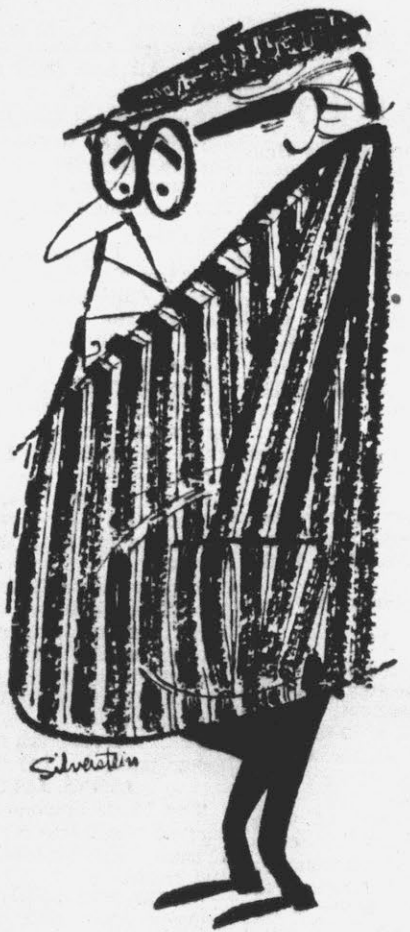

HARMONY, R. I. (AP) — A hen owned by Eugene Walker laid two eggs, one within the other.

The double egg weighed about a half pound and measured 10 inches in circumference lengthwise and eight inches around the center.

Dr. William H. Wiley, head of the University of Rhode Island poultry department, said the hen's laying process apparently went in reverse as she was ready to lay the first egg.

He said the first egg "went to the opposite end of the reproductive tract where it joined with another yolk and started the whole egg formation process all over again."

Leaves City For Camp In Brazil

John Brooks, former Greenville high school student and now a junior at the University of North Carolina, left Saturday afternoon for Brazil.

Brooks will spend eight weeks of the summer in the South American country at an ecumenical work camp at Sao Salvador. He is scheduled to return to Greenville in the last week of August.

The young Carolina student is one of 10 Americans making the journey to Sao Salvador. "I will be the only one from the South," Brooks said Saturday.

The work camp in Brazil is one of some 300 all over the world that are sponsored by the World Council of Churches. The United Student Christian Council (the American branch of the WCC) is directly responsible for Brook's trip.

Brooks told reporters Saturday that he would go to Miami on the first leg of his journey, then to Rio de Janeiro for two weeks. From there, he will be sent to Sao Salvador for three weeks. "I'm not sure where I will be sent."

Manning will give the sermon "A New Earth," Friday night. He is the assistant assembly chairman for the circuit.

End Of Trolleys After 88 Years

KANSAS CITY (AP) — No street cars ran on Kansas City streets today for the first time since 1869 — 88 years ago.

Buses replaced the trolleys on the Country Club, Dodson and Rock Hill lines yesterday, completing a conversion started several years ago.

The Kansas City Public Service Co. ran a special on the country club line for amateur photographers and nostalgic fans who specialize in last rides.

The company claims Kansas City is the birthplace of the electric streetcar taking current from an overhead wire through a trolley system. John C. Henry, a railroad telegrapher, built and ran one in December 1864 and about 16 months later established regular service.

Lock-Picking By Police Barred

DALLAS (AP) — Police here have been ordered to quit picking locks — except in an emergency.

Local locksmiths complained to city manager Elgin Crull that police often — and without charge — unlock cars for forgetful owners.

Noting the protests, police chief Carl Hanson issued a memo instructing patrolmen to refer owners locked out of their cars to a locksmith — except in "cases of emergencies or serious inconvenience."

The policemen use a small tool that slips through a vent window to open cars.

Famed Lakes Of Killarney In Hands Of A Scot, 8 Irishmen

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Lakes of Killarney are free from British control for the first time in nearly 400 years, and it took a Scotsman and eight sons of the Emerald Isle to turn the trick.

Michael Francis Doyle, a Philadelphia lawyer who helped save Irish Prime Minister James De Valera from the gallows back in 1916, disclosed over the weekend that he is one of nine new owners of the famed lakes area.

The Scotsman, J. Stuart Robertson of Miami, bought the estate last August. Doyle revealed that Robertson was also acting for the likes of himself, a trio of O'Neills, an O'Shaughnessy, a Rooney and two good men of the cloth.

The 8,000-acre estate includes the 14th century Ross Castle, St. Finian's and Muckross abbeys, part of the town of Killarney and 11 islands in the lakes. Queen Elizabeth I gave the tract to the Earl of Kenmare nearly 400 years ago. The last earl died in England in 1952, the title became extinct and the estate was put up for sale.

Doyle said the group bought the estate to preserve it as an "historical shrine" and prevent it from falling into the hands of commercial interests.

The buyers plan to vacation at the castle but the public will be free to roam the grounds as they have in the past.

Besides Doyle and Robertson, the purchasers include William F. O'Neill, Akron, Ohio, president of the General Tire and Rubber Co.; Michael O'Neill, his executive assistant and a prominent banker; Thomas F. O'Neill of New York, president of RKO Pictures, Inc.; I. A. O'Shaughnessy, president of the Globe Oil Refining Co., St. Paul, Minn.; Frank J. Rooney, president of the T. Rooney Construction Co., Miami; the Rt. Rev.

Msgr. W. J. Barry, of St. Patrick's Church, Miami Beach; and the Rev. Maurice Kissane, Hollywood, Fla.

The purchase price for the estate was reportedly about $240,000. Doyle aided De Valera by finding a baptismal certificate in the records of a New York church in 1916. Since the certificate showed the Irish leader had been born in New York, the United States asked the British to commute the death sentence imposed on De Valera for his part in the Easter Rebellion of 1916. The sentence was commuted and "Dev" was freed next year in a general amnesty.

Ancient Castle Put On Market; Wants No Rent

LONDON (AP) — The Earl of Tankerville has put his 11th century castle on the market—rent free.

"I could say that this is the best way to save the place," said his lordship. "Its condition is undoubtedly deteriorating because I can't afford to spend large sums on it."

The castle is Northumberland, about 15 miles south of the Scottish border, consists of four towers and 50 rooms.

R. C. Rose, director of Britain's Historic Buildings Bureau, says the place is in pretty good shape.

The earl is ready to throw in about 25 acres, also for free, to any responsible tenant who agrees to keep up the place, and pay the taxes of about $472 a year.

The earl inherited the castle sell the lease for 25 years. The main objection is that it's away in the wilds and requires plenty of servants and heating.

"Chillingham castle is ghost free," Rose said.

CHAPTER 20

I reached Canon City in late afternoon, left my horse in a livery stable, and went directly to Ben Sawhill's office. He seemed genuinely pleased to see me.

He held out his hand. "What brings you to town, Will?"

"I need some advice," I said. "Not legal advice, just that of a friend." I added, "At least, you're Sarah's friend."

"You're too, Will." He got his pipe out and filled it, frowning. "I'll give you all the advice you want, but if it's got anything to do with Sarah it won't be worth a hoot. You know I asked her to marry me at Christmas and she turned me down. But I'll always be in love with her. Like the faithful dog who gets kicked off the porch."

I waited until he had his pipe going, then I said, "Let's get supper at the hotel, Ben."

"Suits me," he said. "I didn't get out for dinner, I've got a case coming up tomorrow and I've had my nose in lawbooks all day."

We turned down the stairs and snaked across the street to the hotel. We didn't talk until we gave our orders, then he leaned back in his chair, nodded at me, and said, "Let's have it."

Because we were alone in one corner of the room, there was no danger we would be overheard. When I asked him if he'd heard what was going on, he shook his head.

"No. Just that there was some shooting, but it didn't stop John Mathers."

I started in, back early in the winter, and even before that, when Sarah had given me half the ranch and told me she was the senior partner. The waitress brought oyster soup, and I went on talking. Ben listened while he ate. When the girl brought our steaks and side dishes, my soup had not been touched.

Sawhill picked up his fork and looked at me. "That the story?"

"That's it," I said, and began to eat.

"What do you want advice about?"

I felt foolish. "I don't know, I said. I mean, what's done is done and we can't back up. Since you're Sarah's lawyer, I figured you ought to know what's going on." I put my spoon down.

"Ben, it's simple enough. I guess I want you to tell me I did the right thing."

"You did the only thing you could," he said.

"Well, what should I do now?" I asked. "Sometimes I think I'll go crazy, trying not to hurt Sarah and still doing what I think I've got to do."

He nodded. "Let me think it over."

After we finished eating and stepped into the street, he said: "Will, if you get into a shooting scrape trying to keep the colonists off Box P range, you can

Claims High Court Set Back U.S. By 25 Years

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP)—The president of the National Assn. of Attorneys General said Monday that decisions by the Supreme Court "have set the United States back 25 years" in its effort to control communism.

"By equating lawful politics with communism it has been suggested to America and to the world that Communists and communism are not in fact but subversive of our way of life at all," he added. "It is tragic to see such judicial undermining of national security and federal-state relations, as well as of the very foundation of a free America's right to protect itself."

Wyman spoke at the 51st annual conference of the attorneys general group. In his prepared address, he referred to Supreme Court decisions relating to the Smith Act.

The Supreme Court last week dismissed Smith Act violation charges against five defendants and ordered new trials for nine others convicted of plotting to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

He listed them as:

1. Clarification of the 10th Amendment "to protect states' reserved powers in more certain terms."
2. Giving the state "a greater voice in confirmation of appointments to the Supreme Court than now exists through the U.S. Senate."
3. Enactment of laws "designed to insulate against judicial legislation in derogation of state sovereignty."
4. Preparation of legislation "designed to undo as great a portion of these recent decisions as is possible short of constitutional amendments."

waited beside it under the cottonwoods.

When the buggy stopped, I lifted Sarah from the seat and placed her in the chair. Sarah knew where I had been, but she didn't ask what I had done or if I had seen Ben Sawhill.

"I've been to see John Mathers," she said as if there was nothing unusual about such a visit. "They're making wonderful progress, Will. They have a few cabins up and some land plowed."

My blood began to pound in my head. I wanted to scold her, to say we were going to have a hard enough time without her making it harder. But she was the senior partner. I had no business telling her where she could go and whom she could see.

"Will," Sarah turned her head to look at me. "Nela invited both of us for Sunday dinner, but she said she didn't think you'd come because you're afraid of her."

"So she thinks I'm afraid of her," I said hotly. "Well, I'll show her. I'll go."

I spent the next week wondering why I had fallen into as simple a trap as that. But maybe I hadn't fallen. Maybe I just wanted an excuse to see her again.

"Let's get another thing straight. Are you courting Sarah just to make it easy for your people to get more land?" is a question with

Walter George Now Resting In His Own Home

VIENNA, Ga. (AP)—Walter E. George, Special Ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), rested at his home here today following 12 days of hospitalization for treatment of coronary disease.

The 79-year-old former U. S. Senator from Georgia was released from Emory University Hospital at Atlanta yesterday.

Dr. Willis Hurst, George's physician, said the elder statesman's condition still is serious. He added, however, that the patient had improved sufficiently to be moved to his home.

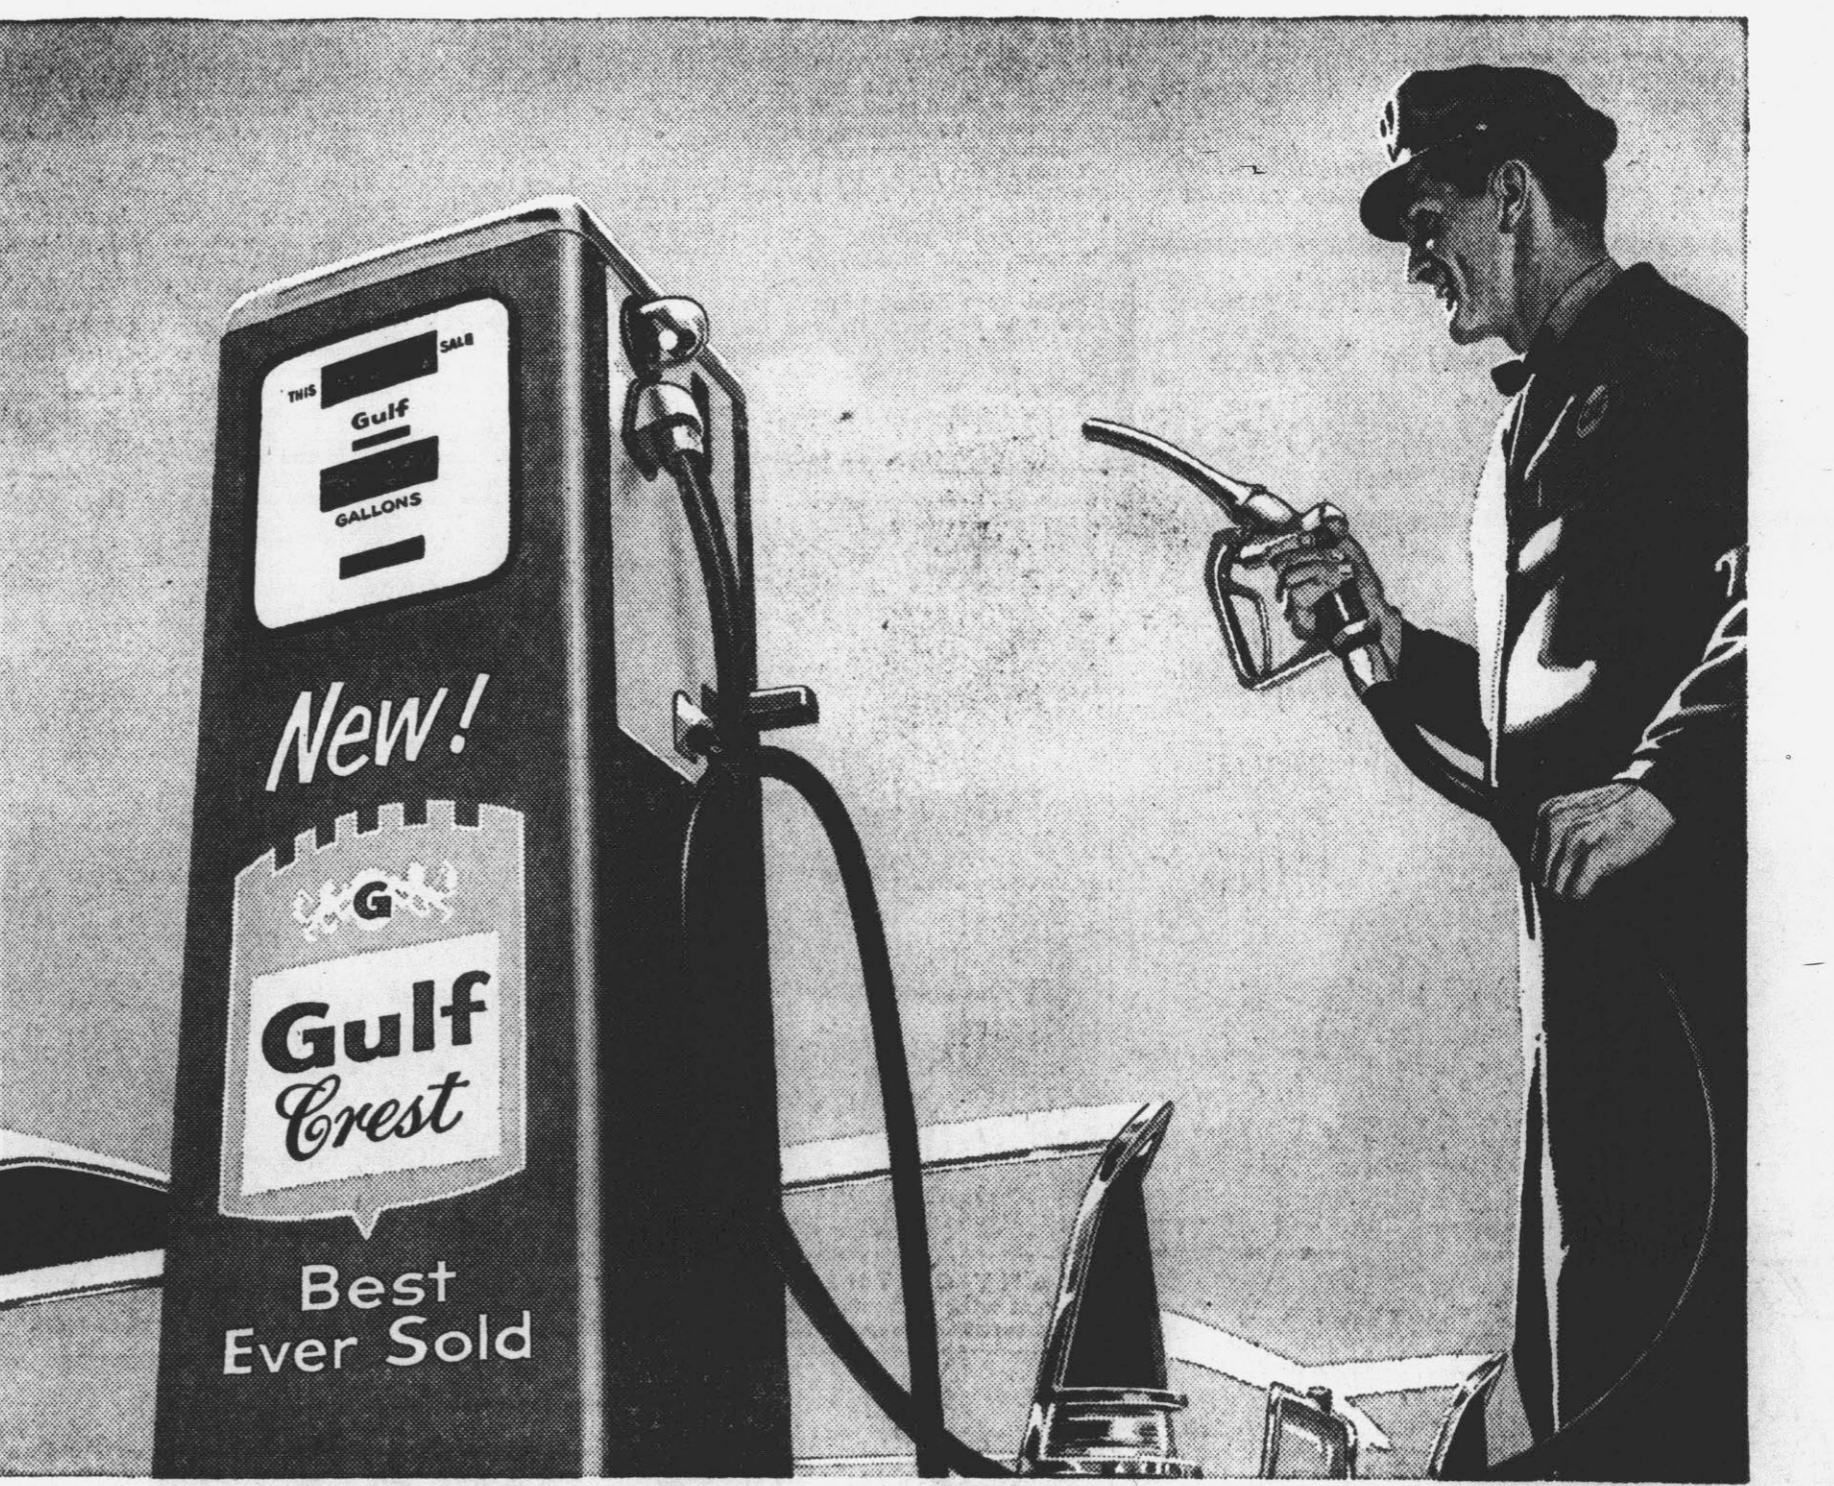

George was accompanied on the 150-mile trip by auto from Atlanta to this south central Georgia community by Mrs. George and the physician. George had expressed a desire to "get home and sit on the front porch."

No decision on George's future plans will be made for several weeks, the doctor said.

WALL STREET
NEW YORK (AP)—Chemicals and oils took the brunt of losses as the stock market resumed its fall in quiet trading early this afternoon.

Leading issues were down from fractions to around 3 points. Gainers were few and far between. The market was lower from the start as it continued last week's run of four consecutive declines. A good sprinkling of early gains was mostly gone by mid-session.

Early gains by some aircraft stocks were pretty well erased in later dealings. There was a deepening of losses in practically all major divisions of the market but no special selling pressure was evident.

Gulf Oil, one of the big firms in the international field, dropped around 4 points. Amerasia was off more than 3. Royal Dutch and Texas Co. were 1-point losers.

Du Pont fell about 2 points. Union Carbide, Allied Chemical and American Cyanamid lost a point or more.

Youngstown Sheet was down around 3. Lukens, after an early gain, took a net loss of 2 points or so. Fractional losses hit U.S. Steel and Bethlehem.

Being cancelled an early gain of around a point and Douglas Aircraft backed away slightly from a similar gain. United Aircraft dropped about 2 points. Goodrich erased an initial rise of about a point and took a similar loss.

Chrysler dipped more than a point. General Motors a major fraction. Ford was off a little.

International Nickel's loss was more than 2. Alcoa's around a point. Anaconda and American Smelting were down good fractions.

Illinois Central erased its early gain of a major fraction and eased along with most other leading rails. Santa Fe was firm. American Telephone dropped a fraction as did Goodyear and Caterpillar.

Anti-Trust Bill Gets Precedence Over Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee voted 7-5 today to temporarily lay aside civil rights legislation—already on the Senate calendar—and take up an anti-trust measure.

The action was taken at the committee's first meeting since the Senate, in an unusual move last week, voted to place the administration's House-passed civil rights bill on its calendar.

The effect of the short-cut procedure adopted by the Senate was to bypass the Judiciary Committee, where a companion measure has been bottled up by its Southern opponents.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.), chief Senate sponsor of the civil rights bill, was one of those who opposed putting it behind the meat packing measure. He told newsmen opponents will argue that the Senate shouldn't act on civil rights legislation while it is still before the committee.

Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.), the committee chairman, said after the group's closed meeting that a measure to transfer anti-trust enforcement in the meat packing industry from the Agriculture Department to the Federal Trade Commission had been moved ahead of the civil rights bill.

The bill passed by the House last week was put on the Senate calendar through an unusual parliamentary maneuver. Some supporters of civil rights legislation are none too happy about the shortcut. They have indicated they still would like the senate committee to report out a bill of its own.

The civil rights legislation has been stalled in the committee by Southern opponents since March 19, when a subcommittee approved 4-2 a measure that closely parallels the House bill.

In general, the civil rights legislation backed by the Eisenhower administration is designed to protect voting and other rights. The chief new weapon would be power for the attorney general to seek federal court injunctions against violations or threatened violations of such rights.

Because of the inaction of the Senate committee, the Republican Leader Knowland of California invoked a seldom-used Senate rule to place the House measure directly on the Senate calendar and thus bypass the Judiciary Committee.

See Negligence In Plane's Crash

PORT HARDY, B. C. (AP)—The crash of a Pacific Western Airlines plane that killed 14 of the 18 persons aboard yesterday was apparently due to a ground control block left on the tail assembly.

This was indicated in a preliminary report issued by the line's headquarters. The plane crashed as it was attempting to land a few minutes after taking off on its regularly scheduled flight to Vancouver, 190 air miles southeast.

In a statement released to the press, the airline said the pilot, Capt. Gerald W. Allen, 37, Vancouver, reported by radio immediately after taking off he was not satisfied with the feel of the plane and was returning for a checkup.

The airline statement said: "It appears from early reports that the cause of the accident was failure of some personnel to remove one of the ground control blocks which are always placed on the tail assembly."

Capt. Allen and his copilot Laurie Roland, 23, Vancouver, former Canadian Junior Open golf champion, were among those killed.

One woman, Mrs. J. Carver of Port Alice, B. C., was among the dead. Two Royal Canadian Air Force technicians were killed. The 11 other passengers killed were workers returning from a camp on Vancouver Island.

Patricia Wilson, 23, Vancouver, the stewardess, and three passengers, all Canadian citizens, escaped through the rear emergency door.

Driver Charged In 3-Car Wreck

An out-of-town driver operating his vehicle the wrong way on a one-way street was involved in a three-car accident here yesterday afternoon.

Ronald Luke Keeter of Littleton, Rt. 2 was arrested and charged with careless and reckless driving by investigating officers of the City Police Department. The collision took place at the intersection of Fourth and Cotanche Sts.

Involved in the accident in addition to Keeter was George E. Cherry of Paclous and Franklin Mitchell Johnson of 100 Rotary Ave. Damage to the three vehicles was estimated at $685.

Officers stated that Keeter's automobile was traveling "the wrong way" on Cotanche St. when struck by a 1956 vehicle operated by Cherry. Keeter's automobile then collided with a 1948 automobile driven by Johnson.

Damage to Keeter's automobile was estimated at $600. Only minor damages were sustained by the other two vehicles involved in the accident.

There were no personal injuries. The collision occurred at approximately 5:30 p.m.
