Hurricane Death Estimates Grow

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—Workmen probing the debris of hurricane and wave-stricken Cameron today uncovered many additional bodies, sending unofficial estimates of the final death toll upward once again.

A growing threat of pestilence spurred the mass burial of unidentified bodies. Last night's humid air in temporary morgues here echoed the soft chant of spirituals as many Negroes besought a final moment with their dead.

The Lake Charles American Press said the toll would run between 400 and 500, probably about 450, basing its estimate on the rapid discovery of more victims during a systematic check of the surrounding marsh.

Peaden-Whitehurst Vows Spoken In Conetoe

The marriage of Miss Polly Owens Whitehurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Moses Whitehurst of Conetoe, and Willis Ray Peaden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Franklin Peaden of Falkland, was solemnized Sunday, June 16, at 5 p.m. in the Conetoe Methodist Church with the Rev. Vance Lewis officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The nuptial music was presented by Miss Hilda Tedder, organist, and Wilbur Harris, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length wedding gown of French chantilly lace and nylon tulle over candlelight satin. The basque bodice was designed with a sabrina neckline accented by flower motifs embroidered with seed pearls and iridescents with long sleeves tapering to calla points over the wrists. The bouffant skirt featured cascading front ruffles alternating in lace, and fan pleated tulle, highlighted by an overlay of lace, edged with a fan pleated tulle ruffle, that extended into a chapel length train.

Her two tiered finger tip veil on French illusion was attached to a scalloped crown of fan pleated tulle outlined with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of white roses, lilies-of-the-valley and white orchids.

Mrs. Johnny Williams of Farmville, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a floor length dress with a fitted bodice featuring tulle ruffles and topped with a soft crushed tulle stole. Her bouffant skirt of tulle over taffeta was accented with ruffles and she had a taffeta cummerbund. Her headdress was a matching bandeau with a circular veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of pastel color flowers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Brenda Sutton of Fountain, cousin of the bride, Miss Marlene Clark, and Mrs. William Watson of Tarboro, and Mrs. John Evans of Weldon. Their dresses were identical to that of the honor attendant's in French blue. They carried colonial bouquets of pastel colored flowers.

Miss Nancy Snowden of Alexandria, Va. was flower girl. She wore a floor length dress of white imported organza over taffeta trimmed with French val lace. A bandeau of lace was in her hair and she carried a basket of pastel colored flowers.

The bridegroom had as best man his father, Willis F. Peaden. Ushers were: Bennie R. Whitehurst of Conetoe, brother of the bride, Emmet Peaden of Falkland, brother of the bridegroom, and Edward Roberson and Earl Roberson of Conetoe.

The bride's mother wore a mauve lace and silk organza dress with a corsage of white roses.

The bridegroom's mother wore a blue chiffon and lace dress complemented with a corsage of pink roses.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Belvoir-Falkland High School and is employed by Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company of New Bern.

The bride is a graduate of Tarboro High School and attended East Carolina College in Greenville. She is employed at the Security National Bank in Tarboro.

Immediately after the wedding, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home at Conetoe. For the wedding trip to Western North Carolina the bride wore a beige linen sheath dress with orange accessories and an orchid corsage.

Dedication, Picnic Held In Stokes Sunday

PICNIC LUNCH SERVED . . . on the lawn of the Stokes High School Sunday.

NEW SANCTUARY DEDICATED . . . by the Rev. Walter Ball and the Rev. Arnold Pope.

Amid the historic litanies and prayers of the church, the new Sanctuary of the Stokes Methodist Church was dedicated on Sunday, June 30.

This past year the people of Stokes Church have bought new pews and chancel furniture, refinished the floors, erected a new ceiling, bought a new heating plant and purchased a new rug. The materials for the new ceiling were donated by William Stokes and the rug was given by the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Presiding over the dedication of the remodeled sanctuary was the Rev. Walter Ball, district superintendent of the Rocky Mount district of the Methodist Church. He was assisted by the Rev. Arnold Pope, pastor of the church.

Immediately following the dedication of the church, three young people—Mike Clark, J. D. Joyner and Larry MacKeel—were received into the church. The Rev. Mr. Ball read the Scripture and led in prayer, after which the Rev. Mr. Pope administered the Sacrament of Holy Baptism.

In a surprise announcement, the members of the church presented a set of new candlesticks and vases for the church altar in appreciation of the four years of service that the Rev. Mr. Pope has rendered as their pastor.

In his last sermon as pastor of the Stokes Charge, the Rev. Mr. Pope recalled the text of the first sermon that he preached four years ago: "For I long to come among you, that I may impart unto you some spiritual gift, to the end that you may be established." He then exhorted his hearers to remain established—to stand firm in the faith. He pointed out that doing so must not be regarded as a burden, but their faith should always be a source of joy. He added, however, that joy cannot be found apart from love. His closing words were taken from the first letter of John: "Little children, love one another." Following his declaration that there is no symbol of love in the Christian faith greater than the Lord's Supper, the Rev. Mr. Ball and the Rev. Mr. Pope combined in celebrating this Sacrament.

Following the conclusion of the services a picnic lunch was served on the lawn of the Stokes High School. After dinner was over the assembly moved to the yard of the Methodist parsonage which was then dedicated. The Rev. Mr. Ball and the Rev. Mr. Pope presided at this service also. The parsonage was built three years ago, but according to church law it could not be formally dedicated until the debt incurred in its construction was paid off.

Play By Bray To Be Presented

"In Remembrance," a one-act play by Lloyd Bray Jr. of Greenville, will be presented Tuesday at 8 p. m. in McGinnis auditorium as the final original play produced by the Dramatic Arts workshop for this season under the direction of Dr. J. A. Withey.

The surrealistic school of painting has been a source of ideas for stage setting for this "old-fashioned home" of the future, perhaps about 1980.

A modification of the Flash Gordon clothing and of the clothing worn by citizens of a "police state" is used in costuming the cast, which is predominately household servants concerned actively with serving supper to "the man upstairs," and occupied subjectively with the "state of the nation" and such influences as science, government, industry and military power.

Into this situation the author has projected a subtle but persistent intrusion of spiritual awareness. In the foreseeable future certain forces in contemporary society become magnified in importance to the detriment of Christian values.

Tom Swain of Greenville and Warwick, Va., Joe Stell of Greenville, Ellis Nelson and Bill Register of Goldsboro are cast to exemplify the almost reverent confidence in government, science and power as major operative forces.

Walt Sutton of Fayetteville, graduate student, portrays the butler, who vaguely remembers reading a Book about a great man and about the sinful men who gambled for his clothes.

The peddler, played by Dr. George Cooke, who goes from light banter into his philosophy and affirms, "Whatever has happened that has left its imprint will happen again." And it does.

The supporting cast includes three women students: Carol Brooks, in a familiar characterization from the "forgotten book"; Mary O. Dilda, whose play "Never Alone" was produced earlier; and Roberta Blalack, who plays a contrast to her part in James Ferrell's "Mr. Aycock's Marine." She may be remembered as Rosalind in "As You Like It" along with Dr. Cooke who played Touchstone.

Coleman Gentry Jr. of Burlington is a supper guest and Dr. Withey is a policeman.

In this series of five plays, four original plays were by students: Mary O. Dilda of Farmville, William Register of Goldsboro, James Ferrell of Lucama, and Lloyd Bray Jr. of Greenville.

Taking part in production were graduate and undergraduate students and E.C.C. faculty. Teachers doing graduate work include J. Al Williams, Revs. Ritch of Raleigh, Mrs. Betty Fitch of Burghaw, Mrs. Bessie H. Smith of Wilson, Walt Sutton of Fayetteville, and Mrs. Myrtle Manning Pritchard of Elizabeth City.

The author of "In Remembrance," Lloyd Jones Bray Jr., graduated in May and is now in Europe. His plans include a visit to Oberammergau, Bavaria, the site of the original Passion Play, in which he has played the lead as it was produced in Greenville.

This one-act play will follow a talent show under the supervision of Cynthia Mendenhall and the Student Union Committee.

Will We Repeat An Old, Old Story?

A screech of tires, the shattering of glass and the crunching of steel; the agonizing wailing of maimed humans and the silent forms scattered around the wreckage.

These have become as much a part of the traditional July 4th holiday as flags, picnics, fireworks and parades. Reports of the staggering death toll on the highways regularly demand larger headlines than addresses by the nation's leaders commemorating Independence Day.

The most dreadful part of the July 4th carnage is that it is all so unnecessary. A careless moment, a thoughtless act by a motorist and the result is death and injuries. It happens not once but literally thousands of times each July 4. And most motorists are convinced it always happens to the other fellow—until it is too late.

Next Thursday, as on every other July 4th, millions of Americans will be on the move. Cars will jam the highways leading to beaches and other resort areas. Impatient drivers will be hurrying to their destination for the holiday, or driving like madmen to get back home as the holiday ends. It's not enough to watch one's own driving habits under such conditions. It is absolutely necessary for safety's sake to keep a careful eye on the driving of the other fellow.

In recent years the July 4th holiday has brought tragic highway tolls in Pitt County as well as the rest of the nation. This year, unless drivers exercise more care for their own safety and that of their passengers, the old, tragic story will be repeated again.

Every driver takes not only his own life, but the lives of others in his hands when he ventures upon the highways during the holiday. It is a responsibility which demands the most careful adherence to highway safety regulations by every driver.

Model For Any Town Wanting An Industry

"Farmville's treatment of us would be a model for any town wanting to secure industry."

Those words by Curville J. Robinson, chief project engineer for the American Cyanamid Corporation, constitute commendation of the highest kind for the people of Farmville, their willingness to cooperate with new industry and their active interest in attracting new industry for their community.

The tribute speaks highly for those who have taken the lead in Farmville's efforts to promote industrial development. It is likewise a tribute to the entire citizenry of the community who have created an industrial-conscious atmosphere so vital to the attraction of new manufacturing plants.

Every city and town in Eastern North Carolina could take a lesson from Farmville's outstanding work in industrial development which has led to the location of the new Flakeboard plant there. Every community might carefully-examine its own attitude toward new industry in comparison to the attitude toward industrial growth which is so evident in Farmville. Each community might also compare its efforts toward industrial development with those efforts which have been put forth by the people of Farmville.

According to one of industry's leaders in locating new plants, we have a model to follow right here in Pitt County. Would it not be wise for other communities to examine the model closely and endeavor to follow it?

Forecasts For Business World

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here is another column of business forecasts, based as usual on an analysis of developing trends, reinforced with inquiries, research and a few advanced tips. You can look for:

A sharp rise in all advertising. There was a 3 per cent increase during the first four months of this year, according to the Printers' Ink index. In coming months personal income is scheduled to rise and, since sales have been lagging in many lines, manufacturers are certain to turn up the advertising heat.

A record boating year. The growing interest in boating, plus the present income situation, will make this the best year so far for the sale of small boats, powered and nonpowered, and of outdoor motors.

More "buy apples" promotions. Apple growers are in a spot. There's a record carryover of 3,000,000 cases of canned apple products from last year and another big crop on the way. Can manufacturers, food editors, the National Association of Food Chains, independent grocers, government agencies and others are pitching in to help boost sales and avert disaster.

Discounts for prepayments. The shortage of money is causing many credit sellers, utilities, insurance companies and others to consider bonuses for prepayment of debts. One insurance company is now offering 3 1/2 per cent compounded annually on pre-paid premiums and invites payments up to 10 years in advance.

Bargains in frozen foods. Although frozen food stocks are about the same as they were a year ago, there are some heavy imbalances. Stocks of vegetables are 50 per cent higher and orange concentrates slightly up. Prices will be trimmed to move top-heavy inventories.

More variable annuity agitation. As long as the threat of inflation hangs over the nation, many persons will want variable annuity insurance policies, payments from which would rise with inflation and fall with deflation. And as long as people are eager to buy them, insurers are ready to sell them and will fight for the right to put them on the market. Incidentally, the Wisconsin legislature is approving the variable annuity principle in civil service retirement funds.

BANK EARNINGS UP. Big bank earnings reports. Some new records may be set when banks report next week on earnings for the first half of this year. The higher interest rate has been swelling the take. However, many banks have suffered paper losses on the decline in selling price of their government bonds.

A sharp rise in Canadian wild-cattling. The world is hungry for new oil sources, especially in stable-governed countries and a few recent strikes will turn wild-cattling's attention to Canada. There are, probably many rich, untapped fields, the profitable American market is nearby, and there's no danger of Arabs starting to shoot.

A new high-tariff drive. As wages rise, more industries will demand protection against foreign imports. Demand is building up especially high in the copper, lead and zinc mining industries and both Congress and the Administration will be under heavy pressure to discourage imports.

OLD PROMOTER FINDS SLEEP PILLS REALLY WORK. We complimented the Old Promoter today on his health.

"I'm getting plenty of sleep nights, despite the hot weather," he explained. "It's those new, nonhabit-forming sleep pills, especially high in the copper, lead and zinc mining industries and both Congress and the Administration will be under heavy pressure to discourage imports."

Opinions In Brief

MALTA, MONTANA, NEWS: A thick, brown envelope arrived in this office from the army's Corps of Engineers. Believing that the enclosed message must be a subject of urgency we hastened to tear open the envelope and peruse the contents.

"Inside the envelope was a booklet of 50 mimeographed, letter-size pages. The title of the pamphlet: 'Specifications for Installation of Floor Tiles in Temporary Residences.' It makes us just a little teary-eyed to think that the taxpayers' money is being spent on such unnecessary paperwork."

STOCKTON, KAN., RECORD: "Ever since J. Edgar Hoover announced a few months ago that he was of the opinion that the names of juvenile offenders should be publicized, there has been considerable argument pro and con in the press of this country. More and more the pendulum seems to be swinging to Mr. Hoover's idea."

Highways Play Big Govm't Role

By LYNN NISBET

HIGHWAYS—The North Carolina Highway and Public Works Commission has awarded contracts within the past four and a half years for nearly $200 million worth of new construction. This amount does not include preliminary engineering and planning costs nor acquisition of rights of way.

During the same period the State has spent another $150 million on highway maintenance and upkeep. Approximately 80 per cent of the contracted construction was on primary highways, about 20 per cent on secondary roads. Something like 90 per cent of the maintenance cost was on the secondary system.

The average citizen is more interested in the accessibility and usability of public roads, the number of miles of improved highways, than in the dollar cost. In four years the State has added 2,388 miles to the secondary system and has paved 4,903 miles.

On January 1, 1953, the secondary system contained 55,558 miles of which 19,104 miles or 34 per cent of the total mileage was paved. On January 1, 1957, the total mileage was 57,946 of which 23,862 miles or 41 per cent had some type of pavement.

A significant sentence in the report made by Chairman Graham to the commission at its final meeting was: "The location of this paving has been so selected that while it covers only 41 per cent of the system length, it serves 80 per cent of the total rural travel on the system; and some 97 per cent of the rural people of North Carolina now live on or without one mile of paved roads or highways."

PRIMARY—While the secondary roads have been maintained and extended, chief concern of the commission for the past four years has been to restore the system of primary highways. These main routes bearing identifying numbers had been largely neglected since 1931. The great depression and World War II prevented doing anything much for highways. Then the Scott regime devoted almost full attention to secondary roads.

Although primary system, including 714 miles of interstate highways, represents only 11,114 miles (less than one-fifth the total of secondary roads) it carries about 69 per cent of all rural traffic. These roads were well built a quarter century ago and their trouble is obsolescence rather than deterioration.

Since January 1953, the commission has contracted for $109 million work on this system, mostly for widening, relocation, by-passes, reducing grades and curves. These improvements have gone a long way toward restoring the prestige of North Carolina as a good roads state. A required feature of the Federal Interstate System and an important element in other primary highway engineering is the controlled access policy. This has also contributed to free movement of traffic and to substantial reduction of traffic accidents.

Up to now 72 miles of four-lane highways have been activated on the interstate system, another 65 miles have been completed and 170 miles are under construction or let to contract on state highways. When completed these projects will represent more than 300 miles of four-lane controlled access highways.

STATEWIDE—Although some of the criticism of the highway commission has been that its members were concerned about local projects rather than a state-wide concept, the record shows that highway improvements have been equitably distributed all over, from Ocracoke to the Cherokee Indian territory.

Cities and towns which have benefited from construction of by-passes range from Columbia in Tyrrell county to Franklin in Macon county. Express ways have relieved traffic congestion in the big centers like Charlotte, Greensboro, Raleigh and Winston-Salem. The new bridge over Croatan Sound and new roads into Fontana Village and the mountain lake country have made the east and west extremities of the state accessible to travelers.

A policy of uniform signs, including center-lining in white and yellow standard railroad crossing signs and hazard warnings has been put into effect. Traffic safety is a prime consideration in these markings, but the convenience of the traveler has been served in mile posts and directional signs. A small item but of tremendous help to strangers on the road are the signs noting that this is US-1 North or South. Also the new policy of extending route numbers into towns and cities and for several miles before the routes split off from a main road has contributed to the pleasure and safety of travel.

It is still true, as the late Frank Page said some 35 years ago, "It is harder to get lost in North Carolina than to find your way in some other states."

UNFINISHED—Col. William T. Joyner, who takes over as highway chairman this week, will and W. F. Babcock, who becomes the first Director of Highways, attended the final meeting of the outgoing commission at which the foregoing reports were made. They were made acutely conscious of the fact that despite great accomplishment, the job of building and maintaining highways in North Carolina is definitely unfinished business.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

I have just returned from a funeral. A forty-eight year old woman had died of cancer leaving a husband and two children. The congregation sang a hymn: "Whatever God ordains is right, His gracious will abideth."

That God's will is always right and that it abideth forever lies at the basis of every true believer's faith. But that God ordains cancer—No. The Bible teaches no such thing. God looked upon His original creation and it was very good. Man was given the opportunity to live, freely and fully under God's obedience. He could eat of all the tree of the Garden save the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, but the one thing he wanted was to know the nature of good and evil, and he gorged himself with the fruit of that tree. Hence disobedience, hence expulsion from the Garden, hence suffering—every pain and sorrow that disobedience of God's will produces.

Disease is not of God; it is of the devil. It is the grimly necessary accompaniment of man's fallen state. When God's will is triumphant and man is stored in his original perfection, then there will be no disease. But until then because God wills it but because the disobedience of mankind renders it necessary—cancer, crime, treachery, war, hell on earth.

But don't blame God. That is blasphemy.

Bob Hope, Teller Of Jokes

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Hope, the comedian's Croesus, believes he probably has told more jokes than any other man in history.

He's been skipping them out past his ski-slope nose at the rate of better than 10,000 a year for the last quarter century. "I figure I've told at least a quarter million jokes," he said, "and if you count repeat jokes, that is jokes told over and over to different audiences while on tour, the number would go into the millions."

"I doubt if anyone else has told more," he said, adding with a grin, "who else has had the chance?"

When you look over the field, the candidates are few. Can any other gag man match his combined experience in vaudeville, radio and television, movies—

50—and on tour? He still travels 25,000 to 50,000 miles annually, and in a two-year period during World War II he racked up 450,000 miles entertaining U. S. servicemen.

Fans need never fear that Hope will run out of jokes. The Mississippi river is more likely to go dry. Although he is known as one of the best ad libbers in the business, Bob also is as methodical as a clock. He has perhaps the finest individual humor library of anyone in the show world. It runs to about 80 file cabinets.

"I have a complete script of practically every show I was ever on," he said, "plus all the material written for them which, for one reason or another, was crowded out at the time."

Once he had 12 writers and three secretaries at work building up his laugh library. "It must contain at least between three and four million jokes," he remarked.

Many times he has gone to his library to help out fellow entertainers in desperate need for fresh material.

"I'm glad to help them," said Bob, "particularly if they're doing a show for charity I believe in."

The stern anxieties of comedy that have driven many present day funny men to psychoanalysis leave Hope untroubled.

"I'm not a couch myself," he said, "and I'm not sad—just disgustingly normal. "Every comedian is an individual, but television—the problem of trying to be funny every week—can drive anyone to the couch."

"It gives a man the feeling he's in a rut. It takes a lot of work sometimes to get rid of that feeling. I think the best answer is to change—to try something different."

Hope feels he escaped the danger of rut-rust by starring in "Beau James," the life story of former Mayor Jimmy Walker.

"It was more of a straight dramatic role. One problem I had was that the mayor was a skinny guy. I had to lose 15 pounds. I did it on a diet of lamb chops, fruit salad and yogurt."

Tension causes many casualties in show business as well as in every other industry, and Bob has his own recipe to avoid it.

"There is very little tension when you're doing something you really know. What will really make you blow up is to try to do something for the first time at the last moment. The answer is to be prepared—and avoid emergencies."

Hope is a multimillion dollar property himself and, like the good businessman he is, he takes care of his physical as well as financial assets.

"My grandfather died a month short of his 100th birthday," said Bob. "He believed in moderation—and I'll be happy to match his record."

"I play golf—a little oftener than President Eisenhower, and a little better—and I take bending exercises twice a day. I also like to get a massage every day if I can. Nothing is more relaxing."

What defeats most people in life and keeps them from success?

"Over-eating," said Hope, "and marrying the wrong girl."

Science On The Farms

By ROGER W. BARSON

NEW BOSTON, N.H.—For several years a member of my organization has been attending the annual Chermurgic Conferences in the Central West. These meetings are to help farmers market their crops for industrial purposes and not merely for food. People will always be able to spend money on food, shelter, and luxuries, but a rich person can eat no more than a poor person and probably not as much. However, the percentage of fruits and green vegetables consumed increases considerably more than the demand for wheat, corn, potatoes, and other staples. Progress along chermurgic lines will increase the value of much farm property.

ATOMIC WONDERS
Atomic wonders may revolutionize farming. There is much discussion in newspapers today about the dangers of "fall-out" after the explosion of a hydrogen bomb. It is feared that these "fall-outs" may result in the birth of babies with two heads or with some other deformity. This would be very unfortunate for people, and might also affect cattle and fowl; but atomic farming may be a worthwhile new development in the case of agricultural products.

The spraying of fruit and other trees to kill destructive insects may be entirely changed. Instead of being sprayed as at present, they will be sprayed with electrical rays. This will enable the birds to come back again. These birds will soon kill off insects and enable the chermurgic cycle to progress as God intended.

THE GIBBERELLIN WONDERS
Some years ago the Japanese noticed that some plants which joined a plant with a certain fungus had a remarkable growth. This was found amongst the rice plants especially. Later this fungus was reduced to an acid and used in the ratio of 0.1 to 10 parts per million parts of solution (usually potassium salts and water). Exhibitions are reported where you can almost see the plant grow from hour to hour. The rays are fairly cheap and—although not used by the Food and Drug Administration—yet they may revolutionize fertilizers. Instead of mixing chemicals with the soil, the seeds, sprouts, and leaves of the plant are sprayed.

Experiments show that this spraying results in taller forest trees, better yields for pulpwood and improved fiber crops, such as cotton. Gibberellins also lengthen the stems of flowers, hasten development of transplants, and reduce the work of farmers and gardeners.

IMPROVING PASTURE LANDS AND LENGTHENING SEASONS

Gibberellins make grass greener in pastures. In Florida, where ten acres are now needed to pasture cattle, only three acres may be needed with the use of Gibberellins. Texas cattle may be fattened in their native pastures instead of being sent to Kansas or other Central States for fattening. It is rumored that Gibberellins may reduce the price of the best steaks to one half their present price. In fact, the entire price structure of cattle, hogs, and other grass-fed animals may be revolutionized.

But this is not all that the Gibberellins can do. They may make the raising of fruit, corn, and other products which are subject to frosts a safer business by extending the growing season.

PRICE OF FARM LAND
Although these developments discussed above may hold down the price of farm products, they could easily increase the price of farm land. Don't be too quick to sell your farm land. This especially applies to small farms near cities where the land could be divided up for residential properties.

Also, remember that the new highway systems to be built by the government may elongate cities. That is, instead of a city being 5 miles square as the average city is today, it will be one-half mile wide on each side of the new highway and 10 miles long.

Shifts That May Ease Cold War

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—A slow and subtle shift of international balances and relationships that may mark an easing of "cold war" tension has been noted and reported by diplomats here and abroad within the last few weeks. The world is still divided into two warring camps, but there is a blurring of belligerency.

The United States has pursued a more active and aggressive course in the Middle East and in South Korea without provoking hostilities or even threats of extreme action. Washington has been encouraged to challenge Nassar and to rearm South Korea by the Egyptian dictator's quarrels with his Arab allies, and by China's admitted internal disturbances.

DRAWING TROOP WITHDRAWAL
Although withdrawing ground troops from Japan, they will be balanced by a more rapid buildup of that nation's military establishment, and by modernization of South Korea's weapons, including jet planes. And on Okinawa we have a sizeable store of A-bombs for a major emergency. The Eisenhower policy in the Middle East has begun to pay off. Nassar's pro-Russian policies have antagonized all the Arabian nations except poverty-stricken Syria. Secretary Dulles has finally proclaimed publicly that we regard the Gulf of Aqaba as "international waters," thereby providing Israel with an accessible port at Elath.

In short, Washington now considers that Nassar has been down-graded and quarantined. His purchase of Russian submarines is looked upon as a desperate attempt to rekindle a waning spirit of nationalism. He had to do something sensational, like the seizure of the Suez Canal, for domestic conditions are going from bad to worse at Cairo.

WARSHIPS OF TWO GREAT POWERS
Moscow also felt called upon to stage a spectacular show, and did so by sending several warships into Eastern Mediterranean waters and through the Suez Canal. The Communists lost prestige when they stood helpless while President Eisenhower despatched the Sixth Fleet to prevent an anti-West coup in Jordan. The London Express has characterized this gesture as a "brilliant and daring stroke."

Other important changes reflect an improvement in our position. To the surprise of Ike and Dulles, the Kremlin shows more concern than ever before in making a start toward atomic disarmament, even accepting our demand for "inspections." Russia did not protest against our financial aid to Poland and Yugoslavia. In return, we have agreed not to tamper with the members of the Warsaw Pact, which is the Reds' offset to NATO.

In a sense, the postwar balance of power is creaking. Although professing ideological allegiance to international communism, China and Poland are traveling their own road to Socialism, and they are the most powerful nations in the Russian orbit. Other satellite countries indicate that they would like to break away from Moscow's monolithic control.

Our own Allies betray restlessness toward their tie-up with the United States. Britain and France invaded Egypt without advance notice when they disagreed with Washington's original approach to the Middle East dispute. Britain reduced her armed forces without consulting us, and France has withdrawn her NATO complement.

Together with West Germany and Japan, they insisted upon increased trade with Red China. Western Europe and England act on the assumption that there will be no major war.

A JOLT FOR RUSSIA
The United Nations Committee's condemnation of the suppression of the Hungarian revolt was a serious blow to the Kremlin. With such neutralist and uncommitted nations as Tunisia and Ceylon agreeing to the report of atrocities, it has damaged the Communists in Africa and Asia. Even Nehru was shocked.

On balance, it seems that the American position vis-a-vis Russia has been strengthened, and that Khrushchev and Bulganin know it. They don't trust their own people enough to report this series of setbacks to their grandiose schemes.

The High Living On Low Incomes, An Absurdity

By CHARLES MERCER
 NEW YORK (AP)—I didn't think I'd be eating crow so soon, but I'm glad to hear that Jackie Gleason's "Honeymooners" are returning to television as re-runs. I'm longing to see that dreary cold-water flat with its sooty fire escape and sleazy furniture. The high living on low incomes that we've been seeing on television recently has finally worn me down.

Did you know that the average American family income is $27,500? According to television it is. According to the comedies about cute young couples and nicely balanced families, according to the

An Old Marxist Devil, Revisionism, Rampant

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
 AP Foreign News Analyst

An ancient Marxist devil—called revisionism—has risen again to threaten the already shaky Soviet leadership of the Communist world.

In the conception of orthodox Soviet Communists, revisionism is the sin of attempting without prior Kremlin approval to introduce innovations in the official dogma of Soviet Marxism-Leninism.

It is nothing new. There have been revisionists ever since the Bolshevik revolution. The Soviet Union under Stalin, as the dominating Communist power, could deal with them. If they were inside the Communist realm they were physically liquidated. Outside the Soviet empire they were booted out of Communist parties and tarred with Soviet slander.

The present revisionism cannot be dealt with so summarily.

One of the chief revisionists is the Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung. He expounds the theory that contradictions can exist between the leader and the masses.

The Polish leader Wladyslaw Gomulka is preaching a doctrine of "socialist humanism." He has introduced some startling new practices into his Communist regime's relations with the church and the peasantry.

President Tito of Yugoslavia, though he denies the title, is the exponent par excellence of "national communism." This asserts the right of a Communist country to maintain independence from

Rules Bookmaker Suicide Victim

PLEASANTON, Calif. (AP)—Paul (Bouquet) Cohn, colorful former San Francisco Bay area bookmaker and tavern operator, was found dead in a tool shed at his plush country place yesterday, a hunting rifle bullet in his heart.

His wife Dorothy found the body upon returning home from driving her maid to church. She said the 53-year-old horse owner was slumped in a chair with a 30.06 rifle between his legs.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Munn said it was "a definite suicide."

Cohn had retired to his Oakmead farm to breed stock after a series of skirmishes with the State Liquor Board which resulted in his selling his San Francisco cigar stores and taverns.

Unity Theme Stressed At Kinston Convention

This Sunday 35 delegates of the local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses heard a speaker at their convention in Kinston, warn that the present trend in world conditions "can lead only to greater fragmentation and destruction by God in His war of Armageddon," in talking on the subject "Removing the Barriers Dividing Mankind."

More than 600 persons from North Carolina Circuit No. 1 heard David Thomas, Watchtower representative, make reference to the saying of Jesus that "a house divided against itself cannot stand."

Willis E. Manning, local minister, stated: "Thomas informed the group that unity is mandatory now and to survive God's destruction man must turn to 'love' as a guiding force in his problems." He said Thomas referred to the 1953 New York convention of the Witnesses, attended by more than 165,000 persons from some 97 lands, as "real living proof of the practicableness of the provision of God to remove the barriers dividing mankind."

The present trend in world conditions, Thomas said, "is as though great forces are trying to pull man apart and build barriers to prevent any unity to save it."

The three-day seminar closed with talks by H. N. Dague, circuit supervisor, on the subject "Faithful Stewards of Divine Interests," and Thomas on the subject "Tell the Good News of Salvation."

Little Damage For Pitt Crops

Crop damage from Fridays wind storms about the county is, apparently not heavy.

County Agent S. C. Winchester said there was very little corn and tobacco blown over.

"Leaves broken off tobacco is about the only damage I have heard of," the farm agent declared. And that was "more around Greenville and south and west of Greenville."

The rain which accompanied the storms was "needed badly." However, he noted there are sections of the county which didn't get any precipitation.

"Pactolus and below are very very dry and Stokes I understand could use some more rain."

"The rains helped, but with the exception of isolated small spots the entire county could use some rain immediately to good advantage."

There have been no reports of hail with the storms. Hail damage has been light in the county so far this year.

Yankees In First Place, But Red Sox Threatening

Boston Virtually In 3rd Place Now

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press
The New York Yankees were back in first place today but a new threat has risen in the American League pennant race in the person of the Boston Red Sox.

gald doubled with one out in the eighth for the first hit off the 21-year-old right-hander.
Pinch hitter Joe Collins walked, then Simpson drove in the tying and winning runs.

Williams rapped a double and single in addition to his 20th home run and drove in three runs.
Jensen contributed a grand-slam homer and double while Malone rapped a single and triple, driving in two runs.

Mathews' 16th home run, with a runner on base in the 13th, gave Milwaukee its sixth straight victory.
The Braves won the opener with a five-run eighth that snapped a 2-2 tie.

Brooks Lawrence turned in a six-hitter for his ninth victory in Cincinnati's 6-1 triumph over Philadelphia, then came back to snuff out a Philly rally in the ninth as the Redlegs also won the second game 6-2.

Pinch Homerun Secures Victory
A ninth inning pinch hit home run gave Greensboro a 6-5 victory over the Durham Bulls in Carolina League play yesterday.

Brooklyn established a record in reverse when 27 Dodgers struck out as they were held to a split of their double-header with the Chicago Cubs.
After Chicago had won the opener 3-2, in 11 innings, young Danny McDevitt hurled a five-hitter for his third victory, in Brooklyn's 5-1 triumph.

Antinelli hit his round tripper off rookie Alvin Dycker, scoring Bob Fidler ahead of him.
His blow off a three-run homer by Dick Colone while pitch Durham in front 5-4 in the seventh.

By DAVE DILES
DETROIT (AP)—Determined Doug Ford, a crusty veteran of playoff pressure, today had the elusive Western Open golf title that he booted away just a year ago.

The $5,000 top prize that goes with it brought Ford's earnings for the year to $35,000, twice as high as those of any other professional.

Ford won the 54th Western Open Championship yesterday, overcoming the playoff jinx that deprived him of the title last year.
It took a dramatic finish on the final hole for the 34-year-old Mahopac, N.Y., swinger to muscle into a four-way sudden death playoff, and a steady performance in the tension-packed extra hole duel to win it.

The Masters champion beat down the challenges of big George Bayer, Gene Littler and Billy Maxwell after the four tied with 279s at the end of the regulation 72 holes.

Littler, the 1953 national amateur champion from Singing Hills, Calif., and Maxwell, 1951 amateur titlist from Odessa, Tex., departed early, each going over par on the first hole while Bayer and Ford managed par. Ford and Bayer halved No. 2 and Ford won the big money when Bayer, whose wild drive on the third hole struck a spectator, failed to make par.

Ford was three strokes ahead of the field with but three holes to play last year at San Francisco when he blew up and went over par on each of the three holes. That left him in a four-way tie for the lead and burly Mike Fetchick won the 18-hole playoff.

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Plans for a drag racing strip were announced here yesterday by promoters.
They said, "Our main interest is to get drag racing off the highways and onto an organized track where it belongs."

The strip is planned at a small airport between here and Blank Mountain.
Gene Sluder, owner of the Asheville-Weaverdale Speedway, and Wayne Waldrop, speed equipment and used car dealer, said construction of the quarter-mile track will begin immediately.

State Highway Patrol Lt. H. C. Johnson commented, "The Highway Patrol does not condone, sanction or favor drag racing in any shape, form or fashion, because it only leads to trouble."
Sluder said he felt that drag racing has "caught on to the extent that boys will race somewhere, so why not provide a safe place for them to compete, rather than let it continue on the open road?"

Saturday Play Was Spectacular

Kinston Youngster Wins Derby Honors

KINSTON—Ronnie Hayes, 12, of Kinston, finished first in the 12th Annual Soap Box Derby Series, outlasting a field of 104 entrants, yesterday afternoon.
Hayes, the Class B (ages 11-12) winner, won two of three final heats to defeat Class A (ages 12-13-14) winner George Gaskins. Gaskins is also a Kinston boy.

Robert Moore and Billy Horne, Dunn, of 1802 East 6th Street, was a near-casualty during one of the earlier races. A tennis net, enforced by a steel cable, was set up one and a half blocks past the finish line to stop any racers whose brakes did not hold. Dunn's brakes gave away and he crashed through the net, hurting his neck on the steel cable.
A doctor examined the youngster and treated him for a bad rope burn but stated he was not hurt badly.
Hayes, the Kinston winner, will now be sent to Akron, Ohio, for the National Soap Box Derby races.

Bitter Tennis War Still In Progress

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—It is a bitter tennis war between the United States and Australia.
Any day now, the Aussies expect Roy Emerson and Mal Anderson to break out and become top liners. They're eager teenagers, just waiting for the first stringers to make one slip.
Behind Seixas and Flam, there is Hamilton Richardson, perhaps the most talented U.S. player. But he's lacking in competition because of his studies at Oxford. He was knocked out in the first round here.
Then there is Mike Green of Miami. He reached the round of 16, but looked like a raw recruit when he went up against Cooper.
Sam Giammalva and Bob Perry showed up last year, didn't do much, and didn't even put in an appearance this time around.
Among the women, however, the title appears almost certain to stay in the ranks of the Yanks. Althea Gibson of New York has played well and remains the top choice. If she falters, four-time winner Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., is ready to step in.
No women's singles wre scheduled today.

NORTH STATE LEAGUE
Jaycees ... 2 2
VFW ... 0 3

Saturday's contests at Little League Park were two of the most spectacular of the season and resulted in giving the Moose and Lions clubs secure first place positions in their respective leagues.

In the first game, a North State encounter, the Jaycees and the VFW battled to a 6-6 tie in six innings—but the game ended 6-0 in favor of the Jaycees. In the second game, the Moose erupted for an 18-0 blast over the Exchange club to take over first place completely.

The 6-6 tilt that started the day's activities was reduced to 6-0 in favor of the Jaycees due to an infraction of the rules. Kyle Highsmith, VFW pitcher, pitched more than six innings during the game—which is against Little League regulations—and the contest was immediately protested by the Jaycees. The score was changed to 6-0 by the game officials and play was stopped.

Mike Cavendish hurled two-hit ball for the Moose and his teammates contributed 15 hits to speed their club to an 18-0 rout of the Exchange Club in the second game. The victory broke a deadlock for first place, since both teams had 2-1 marks beforehand.

PROTEST
The Jaycees-VFW protested game was a victory for Roger Hardee and Bill Johnston. Hardee went the first six-innings and gave up six runs and eight hits. Observing the six-inning rule, the Jaycees managers relieved him in the seventh with Johnston. The VFW managers overlooked the rule. It cost them the ball game.

The winners picked up only four hits in the contest.
18-0 ROUT
Mike Cavendish's 18-0 hurling job over the Exchange club would sound like more of a hitting feat than a pitching feat at first glance. But the fact that Cavendish turned in a two-hitter answers for that.

He was tapped for a single by Kenneth Brown and a double by Richard Taft to mark the clean slate.
Cavendish's club, however, walked Exchange pitchers Johnson and Brown for 15 baseknocks. Brown started off and went three innings. He was clubbed for four hits. Johnson, who followed, was tapped for 11.

Kenneth Joyner, Moose center-fielder, clouted a homer in a third inning to post the only four-bagger.

French Fighter Making US Debut

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Germinal Ballarin, the latest of a long line of French middleweights to come to America, makes his U.S. debut tonight at New York's St. Nicholas Arena against Bob Provizzi of Freeland, Pa.

The bearded Frenchman beat Kid Gavilan, former welter champ, over a year ago in Paris, but lost a decision to Charles Huwez, high-ranked Parisian middleweight, in his last start, March 4. His record shows he can hit, with 23 knockout victories in his career totals of 42-6-4.

Provizzi has only two knockouts in 37 starts and owns a 21-11-5 record. His most important accomplishment recently was lasting 10 rounds against Sugar Ray Robinson in a non title match last November at New Haven, Conn. In 1957, Provizzi lost to Chico Vejar and defeated Tony Baldoni.

The bout will be seen in some sections on TV.
Gaspar Ortega, who appeared to be headed for a welter title match with Carmen Basilio until the Basilio-Robinson match finally was "made" for September, boxes Larry Baker of Indianapolis and New York on the Wednesday show at Miami Beach, Fla.

The Mexican, who beat Tony DeMarco, the former champion, in two of three starts, will be heavily favored over Baker, who has knocked out his last three opponents. Ortega's most recent start was a May 10 decision over Isaac Logart, another high ranking 147-pounder.

AAU Titles Are Now In The Book

KINSTON, N.C. (AP)—The North Carolina AAU open swimming and diving championships were in the books today along with four national records and six new meet marks.

The two-day event closed here Saturday with two national marks and two meet marks.
The big record buster came in the national junior men's 200-meter outdoor freestyle when five of the six swimmers broke the old mark of 2:22.2.

Dave McIntyre of the North Carolina Athletic Club won to establish a new record of 2:16.4. Tony Shiffman of the North Carolina AC was second at 2:16.4, followed by Bill Zentgraf of the Pittsburgh YMCA, 2:16.8; Charlie Krepp of the North Carolina AC, 2:16.9, and Dick Faden of the North Carolina AC, 2:22.1.

A second national record trial for his age group (14) was held from Billy Lundy, who set a new national record in the 100-meter butterfly of 1:08.3. In a national record trial in the boys 200-meter individual medley Friday, Lundy also set a new mark of 2:35.5. Lundy swam alone in both trials.

Huge Solar Flare Causes Magnetic Storms, Radio Blackouts Awaited

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Scientists of many countries concentrated today on studying the effects of a major explosion on the sun which coincided nicely with the opening of the International Geophysical Year.

IGY is a cooperative scientific effort by 62 nations — including Russia and most of her satellites — to glean new information about the earth, its oceans, its atmosphere and the sun which strongly affects life on the planet. About 10,000 scientists are participating in the 18-month studies, opening officially today.

Practical benefits such as better weather forecasting, improved communications and navigation are hoped for as a result of the pooled research.

The solar flare—a giant geyser of solar particles and radiation streaming out probably hundreds of thousands of miles from the sun's surface—reached the earth yesterday in the form of magnetic storms in the high atmosphere.

Such high-altitude storms, which sometimes disrupt radio and telegraph communications, are "as tempestuous as hurricanes are in weather disturbances," said a special bulletin from American IGY headquarters.

Radio blackouts were expected to occur in many places throughout the world before nightfall today.

"Aircraft and ships at sea dependent on radio navigation and communication have been alerted to take precautionary measures in view of the impending radio blackout," said the IGY announcement.

Already, the phenomenon has caused brilliant displays of the aurora — Northern and Southern lights — at high altitudes in the Northern and Southern hemispheres.

Solar flares of varying intensity occur periodically on the sun — reaching maximum intensity in 11-year cycles, as do sun spots.

In fact, the 18-month IGY was timed to conform with the peak of the current 11-year cycle of solar activity.

Actually, the flare erupted three days ago, but its effects were not noted until early yesterday.

Russian scientists at Moscow were the first to report it. They flashed word to IGY communications centers all over the world, including the IGY world warning agency at Ft. Belvoir, Va.

The word was passed promptly along to scientists at 2,000 IGY stations from the arctic to the antarctic, alerting them to intensify their observations and measurements.

Studies of the sun are just one phase of the concentrated scientific study.

Among several nations planning rocket firings, Russia reportedly is working on a project to shoot dogs in rockets up to 125 miles and have them parachute to earth in a new appraisal of the rigors of space travel.

Both Russia and the United States plan to send aloft earth satellites to learn more information about outer space.

John P. Hagen, director of the U.S. satellite program, said in a radio-TV interview the date for the first U.S. launching probably will be determined in about a month.

Most of the difficulties with the satellites and their launching rockets have been ironed out, he said, but telescopes for tracing the satellites are not now expected to be ready until next spring.

President Eisenhower, in a message wishing good luck to the scientific adventures of our time, said that while scientists say they cannot possibly anticipate all of the valuable scientific knowledge that will result from their efforts, "they believe that many of the facts thus acquired will give us new understanding and new power over the forces of nature."

"As I see it, however," the President added, "the most important result of the International Geophysical Year is the demonstration of the ability of people of all nations to work together harmoniously for the common good. I hope this can become common practice in other fields of human endeavor."

Distribute Sum At Nat'l Carbon

A cash distribution of $74,752 under an employee savings plan in which the Company adds as much as 30 per cent of the employees' savings was made today to 165 employees of the Greenville plant of National Carbon Company.

The employees saved $57,514 of their own money through this plan during the last two years and the Company added $17,138. Throughout the country employees of Union Carbide Corporation received $54,105,556. National Carbon Company is a division of Union Carbide.

Under this plan, employees set aside up to 7 1/2 per cent of their earnings and the Company adds 10, 20, or 30 per cent to this depending on whether the employee has one, two, or three or more years of company service.

The plan contains provisions for short-term savings and long-range investments or a combination of both. This flexibility, which is one of the outstanding features of the plan, permits employees to set aside cash for a distribution every two years and also provides the choice of long-range investment in either U. S. Savings Bonds or Union Carbide stock. Savings plans were made available to Union Carbide employees as early as 1935.

Okay Continued Yugoslavia Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—A provision to allow continued U.S. aid to Yugoslavia has been approved by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

This was reported by a committee spokesman today as the House group gathered for a closed session to act on President Eisenhower's $3,865,000,000 foreign aid request.

The committee voted Friday to cut 600 million dollars from the Eisenhower program for the coming 12-month period, a slash 400 million dollars deeper than that approved by the Senate. It also turned down most of long-term aid authority the President sought.

Not announced at the time was committee approval of various provisions of the bill just as they had passed the Senate. One of these provisions, the committee spokesman said, is that which permits continued assistance to Communist Yugoslavia provided the President "continuously" finds this to be in the interest of U.S. security and keeps congressional committees informed of the aid sent.

T. N. T., the explosive, is an abbreviation of trinitrotoluene.

Hurricane-Stricken Town Is Declared Uninhabitable

By STANLEY MEISLER
 LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—Fifth and the threat of disease may keep thousands of Cameron refugees from their hurricane-wrecked city for weeks, perhaps months.

Dr. G. Vasquez, public health officer for the area, has declared Cameron uninhabitable. The Red Cross does not want anyone to return for a while.

"Every disease is a threat if the people return now," Don Stout of Atlanta, Ga., director of Red Cross operations since Hurricane Audrey, said today.

The streets of the city are cluttered with debris, muck and mud. There is no fresh water. There is no sewer system.

Stout listed these threats to the people of Cameron if they return:

1. Lack of good water could cause an epidemic of typhoid.
  2. Broken glass and nails jutting from debris could cause deep cuts and an eventual outbreak of tetanus.
  3. Pools of stagnant water soon will attract hordes of mosquitoes, posing the threat of malaria.
  4. The lack of power and refrigeration would mean spoiled food and poisoning.
  5. The run-down physical condition of refugees, if they return now, would make them susceptible to almost any disease caused by germs and viruses.
  6. Water in the streets have brought poisonous snakes, especially water moccasins.
- "Anything to eat, breathe or drink poses a threat to Cameron," said Harry Martin, national director of public information for the Red Cross in Washington.
- Stout explained that the Red Cross has not set up a permanent shelter in Cameron because it does not want refugees to feel they can live in this town with safety.
- Stout said Cameron would have to be cleaned, the water would have to recede entirely, fresh water sources would have to be opened and a sewer system would have to be put in before Cameron could be livable again. This may take three weeks and, said Stout, it may take longer.
- Once the area is made livable, the job of rebuilding begins. Stout said one tentative plan is to allow men to return and rebuild their homes while the women and children stay in Lake Charles shelters.

Anniversary Day For Eisenhowers

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
 GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower are observing their 41st wedding anniversary today at their country home on the edge of this quiet town.

"It's a home which nestles in peaceful green fields where in the early hours 34 years ago today the forces of Meade and Lee — North against South — first clashed in the tide-turning Civil War battle of Gettysburg.

Last night the President and the First Lady went to the Gettysburg High School auditorium for a ceremony commemorating the men of the Blue and the Grey who died in that agonizing three-day battle.

There they heard Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, tell a capacity audience of about 1,500 that the hope for secure peace "burns as warmly in our hearts today" as it did in 1863.

Taylor said that in this nuclear age, the possibility of a general atomic war is lessening. But he added local limited aggression by Communist forces poses "an increasingly serious threat to world peace."

After Taylor's speech, the President and his wife stood at their front row seats and smiled broadly when the master of ceremonies, Gettysburg's Burgess (Mayor) William G. Weaver, told the crowd: "I think it fitting to give the bride and groom of 41 years a big hand at this time."

The audience cut loose with a warm ovation for the Eisenhowers.

For the President and the First Lady today is a day of personal memories of their marriage in Denver in 1916, just a year after Eisenhower's graduation from West Point as a second lieutenant.

Nickerson Plans Continue Fight

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Col. John C. Nickerson Jr., under fine and reprimand for misuse of secret defense data, says he will "continue the fight within the armed forces" in behalf of the Army's missile program.

The 41-year-old officer, who pleaded guilty before a court-martial board on 15 counts of leaking secret information, said last night "I will speak my opinions wherever I can."

He also said he has no intention of resigning his Army commission.

Nickerson was fined $1,500, officially reprimanded and suspended from rank for a year by the 10-man board Saturday at the end of a five-day trial.

The sentence is subject to review by 3rd Army headquarters in Atlanta, the Department of the Army and Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson.

In a telephone interview from his residence at nearby Huntsville Arsenal, Nickerson said the sentence will be appealed.

"We'll wait to see what comes out of 3rd Army," he said, "then we'll exhaust all legal remedies as far as appeal is concerned."

Although stating he was "jubilant" over the outcome of the court-martial, the West Point graduate said he expects to "transfer from the Redstone Arsenal," where much of the Army's ballistic missile research has been done.

He said he would continue his fight for the missile program "regardless of where it has to be done." The fight, he said, will be carried on through articles and books. He said he would submit his writings for top security clearance.

"I have no definite plan for my writings" now. That will take time.

The charges against Nickerson grew out of his efforts to effect a reversal of an order by the secretary of defense, Wilson's order assigned development and use of an intermediate range ballistic missile to the Air Force.

Robert Young, star of "Father Knows Best" and many movies, once resigned as a building and loan collector to become a newspaper reporter.

Girard Granted Wedding Permit

CAMP WHITTINGTON, Japan (AP)—The U.S. Army today granted Specialist William Girard permission to marry his Japanese fiancée. The young soldier tentatively set Friday as the date for the wedding.

Final approval was granted by 1st Cavalry Division Headquarters, said Maj. Stanley Levin, legal adviser to the 21-year-old Ottawa, Ill., soldier.

"We're tentatively setting the ceremony for 3 o'clock Friday," Levin said. "Girard is quite happy about it."

Girard and Miss Haru (Candy) Sueyama will wed in the white clapboard chapel, at Camp Whittington, 40 miles north of Tokyo, where Girard is under Army restriction.

Girard planned to marry Candy in March before he became the center of an international controversy over foreign criminal trials of U.S. servicemen.

The U.S. Supreme Court is expected to rule this month whether the Army can hand Girard over for Japanese trial for the Jan. 30 fatal shooting of a woman scrap metal collector on a U.S. firing range.

Levin said the religious ceremony will follow official processing by U.S. consular officials, who will go to the camp from Tokyo.

The marriage, as yet to be cleared by Japanese officials, American servicemen marrying in Japan are required to register the marriage with Japanese town officials and then have the papers witnessed by the U.S. consul.

A Methodist Army chaplain, Maj. Harry C. Rickard of Winchester, Va., said earlier he would perform the religious ceremony if the Army approved of the marriage. Girard frequently attends Protestant services in the Army chapel.

CHAPTER 26
Nela and I were married in the pleasant, friendly front room of Ben Sawhill's house. We had a good supper afterward, and for his hospitality I was forever indebted to Ben Sawhill.

Ben got out the champagne, filled three glasses, and gave one to Nela and one to me. He held his up, his face very grave, as he said: "This happy occasion calls for a toast. Not just one that you think of off the cuff, but one you'll remember as long as you live. Do you want to hear it?"

"Of course we do," Nela said. "Not a legal one, Ben," I said. He laughed. "This one didn't come from Blackstone. It's from the heart of Ben Sawhill." He cleared his throat. "To love and marriage, to happiness that only love and marriage can bring to us, and to a long and happy life for Mr. and Mrs. William Beeson."

We touched glasses, and once more I thought of him and Sarah and I couldn't help wondering if he would have been any happier if he had married her. We drank, Nela close to crying; and when Ben left, a little later, she kissed him on the cheek, while he swallowed as if something was wrong with his throat, and looked past her at me.

"Lucky man, Will," he said. "You're a lucky man." He went out and closed the door. There was no sound in the room but the ticking of the clock on the mantle. We looked at each other, both of us suddenly faked with shyness. Then Nela came to me and hugged me.

"I know we're going to have a good life together," she said. She stepped back. "Give me a few minutes, Will. I'll call when I'm ready." She took the lamp and disappeared into the bedroom. I stood there waiting, hearing her moving about in the other room. Presently she called, "All right, Will." When I went into the bedroom, I saw that she was in bed, her hair a dark mass against the pillow. I stood there awkwardly.

"Blow out the lamp, Will," Nela said. When I turned to look at her, I saw that she was laughing at me. Then the full impact of the step we had taken that day struck me. She was my wife. No one could stop us now. Not Sarah. Not John Mathers. And for a while, as I held Nela, the world held only Nela and me.

In the morning I built a fire and Nela cooked breakfast. After we finished eating, I sat at the table smoking while she did the dishes; then she sat down across from me. There was much about Sarah I had not told Nela, but I told her now because we had to come to a decision sometime between now and tomorrow when we returned to the valley. I told my wife that Sarah had stood upright beside her chair, that she had walked a little, and that she had told me not to get too fond of Nela. I put out my hands in a gesture of futility. "Nela, what can I do?" Nela listened closely, her forehead furrowed in thought. As I looked at her, I was so stirred by my feeling for her that I could not say a single word. It was first love, but it was real love such as I had never known existed. There would never be anything else like it, like last night and this morning and the few hours we still had together.

Suddenly I found words. "We just can't be separated! If Sarah and your dad won't take us together, we'll leave." "Oh, darling," she reached out and took my hands. "That's what I want too, but we can't. We've got to do the right thing now or we'll be plagued by our mistake the rest of our lives. No matter what happens, you can't forget your debt to Sarah, and I can't forget that John Mathers is my father."

"Then what can we do?" "We've got to go along for a while just as we are," she said. "I guess I'm a coward, but I just can't quite bring myself to tell Dad yet. After all, we did act pretty fast." "I was a coward too, as far as Sarah was concerned. All right, perhaps there'll be a better time," I said.

"Will," she squeezed my hands. "I don't want you to get mad at me, but I'd like to tell you something I think about Sarah. It's not anything I can prove; but because I'm a woman and Sarah is a woman I think I know something about her that you would never think of." "Go ahead," I said.

"I think she's been able to walk for a long time." Absolute disbelief must have come into my eyes, for Nela added quickly: "Will, let me finish. I've watched her when she didn't think anyone was looking. The way she moves her legs makes me think they're not paralyzed. And the bottoms of her soles are worn. I know you've said she's been taking a few steps, but I noticed her shoes almost immediately." "Slim evidence," I said.

"But remember, Sawhill told you the doctor said there was nothing physically wrong with her. He said she could walk if she had to." "I pulled my hands from Nela's and walked to the back door. I stood there trembling, thinking that if what Nela said was true, Sarah was a different woman than I had thought for eight years, a woman who had hidden herself from all of us.

"It's crazy!" I said. "She wouldn't exile herself to a wheel chair for four years." "She might," Nela said. "We don't know she told you the truth about her accident. Will, she's a terribly possessive woman; she must have a person's love completely centered on her. Like Dog-bone's. And Maria's. She wants yours. That's why she doesn't want you to love me. I'm her rival, and she's known it for a long time. But she doesn't love you the way I do. Maybe her love is like a mother's. Or a sister's. I don't know. All I know is that she doesn't want to share your love with anyone else." I turned, hot words on my tongue, but I didn't say them. Nela was hurrying on. "Joe Pardee must have been a very strong character. So is Sarah. What happened when they got married was bound to happen. Each of them tried to remake the other, or at least prove to be the stronger. Perhaps, because Joe won, Sarah had this accident on purpose." "Nela, of all the wild—" "Wait, Will, I'm still not done. What you haven't thought about is that a crippled person in a wheel chair has everyone's sympathy. Like Sawhill's. And Dad's. When Dad came home last fall that's all he could talk about. How, though Sarah was an invalid, she was still a beautiful woman who had not let her condition break her spirit." I didn't say that what Nela thought was crazy now. I'd had the same feeling many times: A broken body but not a broken spirit. It could be true. Maybe Sarah had driven Joe away; but all the time she was punishing him, and had never let him forget it. But if she was that possessive, she was cruel, and evil, and somehow I couldn't believe it of her. "I don't know," I said. "Even if what you think is true, I can't walk off and leave her. Anyway, half the ranch is mine." "I know you can't leave her." She rose and came to me. "Darling, you don't hate me for what I've said? It's something we've got to face just as we have to face all he could talk about. How, though Sarah was an invalid, she was still a beautiful woman who had not

Adenauer OKs Inspection Plan For West Germany

DORTMUND, Germany (AP)—Denying that his government is obstructing a big-power disarmament agreement, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer gave unqualified endorsement yesterday to U.S. Russian inspection of West Germany's defenses.

Adenauer spelled out his stand in an address to 30,000 persons here at the opening of his Christian Democratic party's campaign for the September general elections.

The Chancellor rejected suggestions his government had been hindering conclusion of a limited, "first-step" agreement at the London conference of the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee.

"I declare explicitly that we are ready to give every possible support to controlled disarmament in the fields of atomic and conventional weapons," he said.

"We are prepared," he added, "to agree to the inspection of German territory."

Some sources have suggested that Adenauer's regime had been hindering conclusion of an arms pact for fear an inspection zone across Europe might harden the line dividing Germany.

"We... have not been obstructive on the question of an inspection zone of European territories," he said.

He said that during his visit to Washington in May, he had given complete approval when Secretary of State Dulles outlined details of the American disarmament proposals now being disclosed by stages.

U. S. arms expert Harold E. Stassen briefed the NATO Allies in Paris over the weekend on the latest phase of the U.S. proposals in advance of presentation to the Soviet Union.

NATO sources said a new formula is being worked out to quieten German fears about permanent division of the country. Under this plan, the entire aerial inspection area in both Russia and the West would be treated as one entity with no line bisecting Germany.

In backing disarmament, Adenauer said, his government assumed that "the causes of various tensions will be abolished."

"This especially applies to the..."

Bombs exploded in Havana and other cities. Three tobacco warehouses were burned at Pinar del Rio. A band of youths in Camaguey forced a radio announcer at pistol point to read anti-government proclamations.

A battle between Castro's rebels and government troops was reported 23 miles northwest of Santiago. A communique put out by army headquarters in Havana made no mention of casualties. It was said here the rebels attacked an army patrol car, killing two soldiers, and that troops later killed seven of the rebels.

Funeral Held For David A. Wingate

AYDEN—David Adolph Wingate, 70, died Saturday in the N. C. Cancer Institute at Lumberton.

Funeral services were held at the Britt Funeral chapel here Monday at 3 p.m., conducted by the Rev. J. M. Flowers, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Havelock. Burial was in the family cemetery near Ayden.

Mr. Wingate was a son of the late Joyner and Nancy McLawhorn Wingate of Pitt County. He was married to the former Ella Peed who preceded him in death. He was a member of Rountree Christian Church, and for a few years had made his home with a daughter, Mrs. Vernon Stocks of Havelock.

Survivors include five sons, Verrol of New Bern, Harvey of Greenville, D. A. Jr., of Cherry Point, Sherman of Portsmouth, Va., and Sherwood of the Army, stationed at El Paso, Tex.; a daughter, Mrs. Dean Sandin of Havelock; four sisters, Mrs. Fannie Dail, Mrs. Maggie Jackson, both of Ayden, Mrs. Alice Vandiford of Greenville, and Mrs. Beaula Jones of Farmville; 22 grandchildren; two great-grandchildren.

Saunders' report was made at the State Board of Conservation and Development convened here for its annual two-day summer session. Gov. Hodges was presiding.

"It is our belief," Saunders said, that "with the change in the allocation formula, coupled with a real working program on the local level by the communities themselves," and the advantages the state has to offer that within the next year this growth could take place.

Saunders said that "on the strength" of the revision of the state's corporate tax structure two plants, Allied-Kennecott Titanium Corp. and R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., have announced new plants and expansions with investments totalling approximately 75 million dollars.

Saunders also said that with the addition of three new members of the board "we hope we can accelerate the processing and packaging of food products and the tourist program of our state."

Announced investments in new plants for North Carolina during the first six months of 1957 almost doubled those for the corresponding period in 1956, A. H. Grant, chief development engineer, said in his report to the board.

The total investments for new plants and expansions in the state for the first half of the year was $58,926,000, he said.
