

Tentative Record City Budget Set On Old Tax Rate

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor. City Councilmen last night tentatively approved a record-breaking budget which held the tax rate at $1.32.

prated in 1956 if the budget stands. Following last night's tentative approval the budget must remain open for 20 days for public inspection. Copies are kept in the City Clerk's office.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam, whose job it was to prepare the city budget for the council's tentative approval, said that several changes would be made in the city's spending methods to effect greater economy.

ened the amount was cut to $2,000. Bloxam explained to the councilmen that only a portion of the garage would be constructed this year.

1957-58 budget. That compared with $110,815 in 1956-57. Fire Department salaries were moved from $62,515 to $65,956. The salary item in Recreation Department for director, supervisor, secretary and specialists moved from $18,270 to $19,124.

Missing from the 1957-58 budget was a $2,500 item for maintenance of the city dump. Bloxam explained that the purchase of a tractor shovel with bond issue funds had eliminated the need for the maintenance item. The tractor-shovel can be used for such a purpose between other jobs, he said.

inspection. The building inspection is included for the first time this year with the employment of a full-time inspector. It will be offset by increased building inspection fees and plumbing inspection fees.

Earthquake Toll In Northern Iran Rises Over 700

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Rescue workers came across the bodies of 400 victims in two earthquake-devastated villages in northern Iran today.

County Expected Retain Tax Rate

expectations as of June 1, the commissioners would have been required to impose a 20 per cent increase in the tax rate.

The rescue workers uncovered the victims in the villages of Tighband and Sanchal. They had not been listed in previous reports.

County Auditor H. Reginald Gray said this morning, "The general feeling is that the rate will be held at $1.00."

Since that time, however, unanticipated surplus funds have been made available, departments have reduced their requests, commissioners have adjusted other aspects of the complete budget and the Sinking Fund plan has been taken under consideration.

The quakes spread death and damage over the Elburz mountain range, along the Caspian Sea's southern edge and up to the So-damage over the Elburz mountain range, along the Caspian Sea's southern edge and up to the Soviet border on both sides of the sea.

Final action on the tax rate and budget was delayed until tonight after the commissioners received a 34-member delegation Monday morning. The delegation asked the commissioners to "consider every phase of the budget and ... not increase taxes this year."

After the delegation's visit, auditor Gray was instructed to contact department heads to see if any additional fat could be trimmed from budget requests. Gray will present his report and final tabulation of budget figures tonight.

Iranian officials estimated the property loss at more than 12 1/2 million dollars.

A projected plan for use of Sinking Fund revenue opened the door Monday for holding the rate down. The Debt Service Fund, which operates with revenue from tax sources and the Sinking Fund, had been expected to require about a 12 cents levy in the overall tax rate.

Gray could not say this morning how much the various departmental requests had been reduced since they were first presented to the commissioners at their June meeting. He did say, however, "Department heads have cooperated 100 per cent in keeping their budgets as tight as possible."

President Throws Cold Water On Russell Proposal For Referendum On Civil Rights

ABC Fiscal Year Audit On Its Way

An audit of fourth-quarter activities by the Pitt County ABC Board will be completed and returned in a week or ten days, Board Chairman J. W. Joyner said yesterday.

percentage basis, were running three per cent ahead of last year. Increased costs of county-wide law enforcement activities, however, moved those expenditures for the nine-months period to 115 per cent of their total 1956-1957 fiscal year.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Eisenhower said today he doubts his civil rights program would make a good subject for a referendum even if it could be submitted to a direct vote of the people.

Beyond that, Eisenhower said he doesn't know how the question could be submitted, but suggests the entire wording of the bill would have to be put on the ballot.

bill an amendment under which it would not become effective until it had been approved by a majority of American voters. He suggested a referendum during the congressional elections next year.

The audit, together with a report of the board's activities for the nine-months period ending March 31, will include figures for all operations during the 1956-1957 fiscal year.

ABC Supervisor Clinton Elks and County Auditor H. Reginald Gray announced the figures today. Sales for this year totalled $1,337,971.00 through June 30.

Eisenhower's statement was made in response to news conference questions as to his view on a referendum proposed by Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) that the controversial civil rights bill passed by the House be submitted to a referendum.

In any event, Eisenhower said there have been court decisions on the civil rights question and a referendum could have no effect on them.

He expressed confidence that if the people became acquainted with the bill's provisions, they would defeat it "overwhelmingly."

ABC Chairman Joyner said that a copy of the fourth-quarter audit would be made available to The Daily Reflector when the audit is completed by the board's regular auditors.

June sales in the county stores this year were $86,446.75, compared with June, 1956, sales of $90,426.98. Sales during the month this year were $3,988.05 less than last year's June sales.

Russell proposed that the bill not become effective, even if approved by a majority of the nation's voters.

Eisenhower said he does not know of any constitutional provision under which such a question could be submitted to a popular vote. He said issues of this kind should be handled by responsible officials in government.

Grandmother Is Beating Victim

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) - A 41-year-old grandmother related she was beaten by a group of hooded men and women after she was told "Thou shall not commit adultery."

Mrs. Katie Carpenter, a white woman, said the thrashing was administered in the front yard of her suburban home Saturday night. She told of the incident in an interview yesterday.

Patrolmen Begin Big Holiday Alert

By EVERETT PARKER, Reflector Staff Writer. Beginning this afternoon at 6 o'clock, a 102-hour Fourth of July holiday period commences.

The last four-day Fourth of July holiday in 1950 recorded a total of 491 traffic deaths in the nation. Last year 137 persons died in motor vehicle accidents during a one-day holiday.

we take the wheel of our car. Grant us safe passage through all the perils of travel; shelter those who accompany us and protect us from harm by thy mercy! steady our hands and quicken our eye that we may never take another's life; guide us to our destination safely, confident in the knowledge that Thy blessings go with us through darkness and light ... sunshine and shower ... forever and ever, Amen."

The dispute over the municipalities' decreased shares of receipts flared last week when Greenville City Manager Leonard Bloxam wrote B. Alton Gardner, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. Bloxam told Gardner that the city was nearly $6,000 short of its expected revenue from the ABC system and wanted to know why.

According to Chairman Joyner, the ABC Board is not required to make any distribution of the law enforcement fund to municipalities. "It is a purely voluntary act on the part of the ABC Board," he said.

The beating, she said, bruised her and she has been unable to leave her bed only briefly since. She said she was called to her yard by the masked group which drove up in five or six cars. She said a woman in the group told her: "We're not going to take your word for anything. We are going to teach you a lesson."

The Patrolman handed him safety literature and said, "Please drive safely over the holidays."

This is only one of the many preventive measures being initiated by the Highway Patrol in an effort to curtail the holiday fatality rate throughout Pitt County and the other 99 counties in North Carolina.

In a reply to Bloxam, Gardner said that Pitt County's governmental functions were also short of their anticipated revenue. He pointed out that ABC sales through June 22 were off $34,513.55 from last year's sales through the same date.

According to Chairman Joyner, the ABC Board is not required to make any distribution of the law enforcement fund to municipalities. "It is a purely voluntary act on the part of the ABC Board," he said.

No one in the group was familiar, Mrs. Carpenter said, nor did she recognize anyone's voice.

Celebrating Golden Anniversary

By ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Woman's Editor

It was raining at 7:30 a.m. on July 3, 1907, when the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Cary B. Mayo took place at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Although the Mayos are celebrating their Golden Wedding Anniversary today, Mr. Mayo says, "I can remember the day we were married, just as if it were yesterday."

With a faraway look in her eye Mrs. Mayo added, "In those days only one train left Greenville so we had to get married early in the morning in order to catch the train for our wedding trip."

For their wedding trip they went to the Jamestown Exposition and took a boat trip from Jamestown to Washington.

Weddings Were Smaller
"Greenville was small then . . . everyone knew each other," explains Mrs. Mayo. "Weddings then weren't on such a large scale as they are today, although they were more elaborate as far as the bride's and bridesmaids' gowns," she notes.

Their wedding, a typical wedding of 50 years ago, cost approximately $100.

Members of their wedding party still living are Mrs. Sam White Sr. of Greenville who was the organist, Mrs. Van Stator of Greenville, a bridesmaid, and Mrs. Mary Snipes of Winston-Salem, soloist.

The couple attributes deep love for one another and a strong bond of common interests as their prescription for a long, happy married life. They both have found a rich life with their four children, five grandchildren, and love of traveling.

Crocheting and knitting are favorite pastimes of Mrs. Mayo's and for a number of years she taught piano and violin. Together the couple enjoys television, big saw puzzles—and putting in the kitchen. A friend remarked that, "Mr. Mayo does cook good steaks."

... look back on a rich life.

At Home Tonight
Tonight they will climax their anniversary with an At Home at their home on Fourth Street—the home they have lived in during the entire 50 years of their marriage.

Their children are Mrs. Elizabeth Mayo Dixon of Elizabeth City, Mrs. Rudolph Jones of Dillon, S. C., Mrs. C. B. Roe of Sioux City, Iowa, and Cary Mayo Jr. of Richmond, Va.

Three years ago Mr. Mayo retired from his position as brokerage salesman with John Blue Company.

Mrs. Mayo is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Patrick of Greenville and he is the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. P. H. Mayo of Falkland.

Keep your electric toaster, griddle, waffle iron, roaster, and other cooking appliances gleaming by wiping with a sudsy cloth as soon as cooled after each use. This will avoid trouble later in re-moving dried-on food.

'Serve To Survive' Is Theme Of Altrusa International Meet

Under the theme, "Serve to Survive," Altrusa International will launch its 1957-58 program of service, when this 40-year-old classified membership organization of some 14,000 leading executive and professional women meets in convention in New Orleans, La., at Hotel Roosevelt, July 21-25, 1957.

The Altrusa Club of this city will be one of 426 in eight countries (Bermuda, Canada, Guatemala, Great Britain, Hawaii, Mexico, Puerto Rico, United States) to plan its work in accordance with the new "Serve to Survive" program.

"Altrusa conducted a community problem poll to determine the three most urgent problems facing each of its cities," explains Miss Marjorie Lamb, Toronto, Ont., Canada, Altrusa International president. "As a result, our new two-year program directs club action on these most critical needs."

Number one problem in all cities was reported to be traffic safety. This will be dealt with through Altrusa Public Affairs committees. Next came the need to expand services for older people, and the need for youth guidance to reduce delinquency. Altrusa Vocational Information committees will act on these. A third committee in all local Altrusa Clubs, International Relations, will concentrate on promoting citizenship interest in world affairs. One way will be to cooperate with the "Decisions" program of the Foreign Policy Association.

Two Major Projects
Two major products of Altrusa

International will be evaluated at convention. One is Grants-in-Aid, in operation since 1945. This provides grants of $250 to $750 to Asian and Latin American women for graduate study in the U. S. and Canada. Some $100,000 has been awarded to 167 women thus far.

The other project, Founders Fund Vocational Aid, started in 1953, gives grants of $50 to $250 to women of all ages (older women in particular) for vocational training or other assistance to enable them to earn a living. More than 150 women have received a total of some $27,000.

Featured speaker at the Altrusa biennial convention in New Orleans will be Dr. Jose A. Mora, Washington, D. C., Secretary General of the Organization of American States. He will analyze crucial developments in the Western Hemisphere.

Altrusa will elect international officers for 1957-59 at the New Orleans convention. Mrs. John Nelson, Richmond, Va., real estate executive, now president-elect, will be installed as president at the formal banquet on July 25.

Dr. Viva Boothe, Columbus, director of the Bureau of Business Research, Ohio State University, is the sole candidate for the office of president-elect. Other candidates are:

For first vice-president: Mrs. Clyde A. Milner, professor of Psychology, Guilford College, N. C.; Mrs. Ralph S. Raymond, owner of the Hostess Service, Minneapolis, Minn.

For second vice-president: Mrs. Lawrence T. Day, Chief X-Ray Technician and Department Supervisor, Santa Barbara County General Hospital, Santa Barbara, Calif.; Dr. Loertta M. Miller, professor of Special Education, Central Washington College of Education, Ellensburg, Wash.

Varied Plans Made For Fourth Of July

Have Fun On Fourth But Skip Fireworks

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M. D.

FIREWORKS are not toys. They are dangerous explosives and should not be in the hands of children or even of inexperienced adults. Every year many children and adults suffer painful injuries or blindness because of fireworks.

A federal law passed in 1954 makes it illegal to ship fireworks into 33 states and the District of Columbia except for controlled public exhibitions. However, in spite of this law there exists a prosperous black market in bootlegged fireworks which will again spell needless tragedy for some Americans this Fourth of July.

There is one family who won't have fireworks this year. Joe Sparks would like to shout his experience from the housetops to prevent other families from suffering as he has suffered.

Last year the Sparks family planned a big celebration in their backyard for the Fourth. Joe knew where he could get the fireworks that to him meant the grand and glorious Fourth. They couldn't be bought in his state but by driving 20 miles he could reach another state where fireworks were sold. He knew he was not supposed to carry them across a state line but he felt quite sure he would never be searched. So he made the trip and put in a good supply.

He brought firecrackers, pin-wheels, Roman candles and a few skyrockets. He planned carefully. After the picnic supper the children all sat around in a circle while he placed and lighted the fireworks. All went well until almost the end. Joe lit a Roman candle and nothing happened. He left it in place and finished up with all the rest of the fireworks. Young Jackie had his eye on that roman candle that didn't go off, so when the party was about over he ran up to the apparently dead candle.

Tragic Holiday
Just as he peered down into the barrel the thing exploded right into his face. Jackie was knocked over and when his terrified father picked him up his little face was a blackened mass. He was rushed to the hospital but not all the skill of the best doctors could save Jackie's eyes. Both eyes were so badly damaged that Jackie must go through the rest of life without the blessing of sight.

Such tragedies are completely unnecessary. Good times can be had just as good without the use of dangerous explosives for amusement.

There are, of course, sparklers and other types of social Fourth of July celebrations that are safe and fun.

In addition big public displays of fireworks are beautiful to see and are managed by experienced operators who protect themselves and the spectators from injury.

In addition to the danger of such terrible tragedies as happened to Jackie Sparks, it's not too good for the children to take part in any bootlegged activity. We want our children to respect the law of the land and to obey it and not to feel it's smart to hoodwink the authorities.

Trip For Some, Home For Others

JANE BLUE . . . Off To Pamlico

BOB BILBRO . . . Going To Rest Haven

BECKY BASNIGHT . . . Be At Beach Cottage

Celebrating the Fourth of July for the teen-agers of Pitt County means many different things. For some it means a trip, others a quiet day at home. Since this Independence Day falls on a Thursday, not too many activities have been planned.

Looking at the plans of a cross-section of Pitt County teens from Greenville, Ayden, and Bethel, it seems that the hot weather has inspired more beach trips than anything else.

Making a trip to the beach will be Joe Dunn of Ayden, Frances Hooker of Ayden will also be at the beach.

Jane Blue and Becky Basnight of Greenville will be spending the Fourth at Jenny Lynn Thompson's cottage at Pamlico Beach. Thursday they plan to travel to Bethel to watch the boat races.

Mack Roebuck and Billy Boyd Cox of Greenville will also be spending a few days at Pamlico Beach, and they plan to see the boat races too.

Visiting relatives on the coast of South Carolina, Bunny Overton and Millie Overton will be staying at the beach.

Off to Florida for ten days is Judy Cullifer from Bethel. Cliff Everette Jr. of Bethel plans to spend the fourth at the beach before leaving for the Boy Scout Jamboree.

Bob Bilbro will be at Rest Haven for the holidays. Buddy Murray plans to stay home for the fourth and play golf.

Norfleet Felton, Myrtle Moon Bilbro, and Carol Wilkerson will spend this July 4 at Camp Ridgecrest. Ray Lane from Greenville will be spending July 4 at Morehead.

Will Attend CYF Meet In Missouri

AYDEN — Suzanne Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Taylor of this city, has just returned from the North Carolina Christian Youth Fellowship Commission which was held at Camp Caroline June 22-24.

Suzanne was a delegate-at-large from the Hookerton district. While there she was elected chairman of State Worship Committee for the CYP, and will leave August 12 for St. Louis, Mo. to attend the International Christian Youth Fellowship Commission.

This commission is composed of state officers throughout the nation and Canada, and it is the purpose of these youths to plan the programs to be used by the CYP groups in the Disciples of Christ denomination.

Suzanne is 17 years of age and will enter the senior class in September. She has been very active in the Christian Church.

That 'Middle Man' In The Government

In the scheme of American capitalism, the middle-man performs many valuable and vital functions in this nation's economy. In doing so he makes a small charge for his services and thus the additional cost of a product or commodity going through the hands of a middle-man is passed along to the ultimate consumer.

Don't misunderstand us. We have nothing against the middle-man in American business. He performs an essential service for both producer and customer, and he is entitled to his share of the proceeds from each sale he makes.

We point to the middle-man in business for the sole purpose of illustrating the function of the federal government in many of the government programs today.

In recent years the federal government has taken over many functions which formerly were left in the hands of local or state governments. Under conditions which used to exist the county or state government collected taxes from its people to carry out the program and administered the program itself.

Today, with Washington serving as headquarters for so many government functions, it is the federal government which collects the taxes, and then trickles the money back down through state and local governments. As the middle-man in the operation, the federal government takes a sizeable chunk of the total taxes collected to off-set the cost of administering the money.

For the purpose of illustration, we would cite a couple of examples:

People of Pitt County send tax money to Washington. In turn a part of these dollars are sent back from Washington through federal and state agencies to help defray the cost of operating the Pitt County Welfare Department. Each agency deducts from the original tax dollar from Pitt County a few cents to cover its cost of handling the money. Result: Only a small part of the dollar actually gets back to Pitt County after all the middle-men in government get through handling it.

The same thing would apply to the federal highway program, federal funds for building hospitals, operating parts of the health programs and dozens of other local and state government functions in which the federal government has recently assumed a major role.

In short, the farther a tax dollar has to travel away from home, the less its worth when it finally comes back where it started.

Taxpayers, who in the final analysis pay all the local, state and federal taxes anyway, would get more actual service in return for their tax dollars if more government functions taken over by Washington bureaucrats were handed back to the state and local levels of government.

A Broad New Horizon For All N. Carolina

Broad new horizons of progress opened in recent months for the state port at Morehead City are destined to enhance the economic position for all of North Carolina.

The most profound boost, in all probability, will be to the economy of Carteret County, but throughout the rest of North Carolina economic advantages will be realized as the facility moves up the ladder among the ports along the Atlantic Coast.

Announcement by the Holland-American Line that it will begin a regularly scheduled arrival of ships at Morehead City will result in greater flow of exports and imports through the port. Coupled with Southern Railroad's continuous overland route from the port to the major centers beyond the mountains, this latest development will make the Morehead City port much more attractive to exporters and importers. It will also make the entire area of North Carolina more attractive as a location for industrial plants which can utilize the overseas transportation facilities.

Now that Holland-American has announced it will have one ship a month call at Morehead City on a scheduled basis, other steamship lines in all probability will follow suit. The result will be that the Morehead City port will be in a much more favorable position to compete with South Carolina and Virginia ports which are attracting a considerable amount of tonnage from this state because they can afford shippers regular schedules for transportation of cargo overseas or to other American ports.

The new era which is opening for the Morehead City port offers greater opportunity for all of North Carolina. It affords the entire state another important advantage to use in selling itself as an ideal location for new industry.

The Fight Over 'Sundowners'

By ELMER ROESSNER

Today you're being let in on a secret about sundowners.

There has been a great increase in the number of television sets, radios, washers, dryers, refrigerators, freezers, air conditioners, garbage macerators and a score of other electric devices in American homes. Electric wiring and plumbing have been extended and made more complicated.

This has resulted in a great expansion of repair and maintenance businesses. Corner locations, traditionally spots for grocery stores, are now often occupied by television repair shops. Plumbers as well as bond dealers ride in long limousines today.

This vast, fast increase in these service fields has led to a corresponding rise in the number and activity of sundowners. WHAT SUNDOWNERS ARE Sundowners are one-man enterprises operating repair and service businesses after their regular daily employment—working from the end of the working day until midnight. Many sundowners work nights and some will take time off from regular employment to handle profitable jobs.

Owners of large repair and service businesses have been demanding that cities and states restrict sundowners. They have proposed laws requiring licensing, permanent places of business, regular hours of business and similar limitations.

Some of these proposals have made their sponsors appear avaricious. They have been accused of trying to use the force of law to crush competition, to ruin small business and of attempting to establish monopolies. GETTING NEAR THE SECRET.

In reply, those seeking such laws say they are simply trying to protect the public from incompetent service men. Owners of regular service establishments say they want to keep bakery salesmen, blacksmiths and sausage stuffers out of the delicate field of electronics and plumbing.

That explanation sounds phony. It is.

Owners of established businesses are trying to prevent their own employees from competing with them.

Four out of five sundowners—and this is secret—are employees of established repair and service businesses.

Many are putting in extra hours of work in honest efforts to increase their own earnings and building for the day when they can start their own full-time business.

But many, alas, are simply stealing part of their employers' businesses. When they are sent out on a service call, they say to the customer, "Next time you have trouble, call me at home. I can cut the price in half. In other cases, they hang around the office and take incoming calls, keeping some of the jobs for themselves. Sometimes they bribe order-takers in their employers' or other establishments to "short circuit" orders to them.

So employers talk about protecting the public from street car conductors pretending to be refrigeration experts. But now you know whom they really mean.

Strength For Today

BY EARL L. DOUGLASS IMPERATIVE

The Christian religion and the Jewish religion are characterized by something which causes them to stand out above all other world religions. They have a built-in ethical imperative.

No ifs, ands, or buts; certain things are right and certain things are wrong according to the standards both of the Old Testament and the New Testament. And, of course, the thing that gives this ethical imperative its power is the fact that it is divinely ordained. In fact, some things appear to be wrong only because God has forbidden them, and in like manner, some things are right because of the same divine sanction. Most right things are quite evidently right because they work to the betterment of mankind and most evil produces misery and disintegration. Hence, on a pragmatic basis, good is advantageous and evil disadvantageous. But back of this in the case of these two great religions, the divine commandment—and only the divine commandment—makes right right and wrong wrong.

Christianity is more than a mere system of ethics, but Christianity is a deadly serious about ethics. It sets standards and lives up to them.

A built-in ethical imperative—put there by the God who made all things, including moral standards.

Those Westerns And Me

Since I have appointed myself The Daily Reflector television critic, I have another gem to share with you about that most eye-straining of all luxuries.

Since my column of last week concerning the faults and funnies of those day time TV soap operas, I have been flooded with no mail. I take that to be a sign that everyone agrees with my views. So, sparked onward by your bounding enthusiasm, I submit my second critique:

CONCERNING ADULT WESTERNERS

Being an old-time fan of the movie sagebrush kings such as Gene Autry, Whip Wilson, Bob Steele and Wild Bill Elliott, I find it quite refreshing to see that television, too, has a good supply of western dramas.

Especially appealing, I think, is Gunsmoke. I find that most women viewers either love Matt Dillon, that towering US marshal with the Napoleon Haircut, or they despise him.

I once overheard a lady say that what she disliked about the show was that Dillon "is so mean to Chester and everyone on the show." That is true. Dillon is sarcastic, a little sadistic, and gets great fun out of shoving people around. It's true. That's what makes it so appealing. For once, someone has come up with a hero that doesn't strum a guitar, make love to his horse and prance around in embroidered cow clothes.

Now, on the other hand, there is Wyatt Earp. I never have been able to tolerate that little drama because of two prominent things that slam me in the face at the very beginning of each telecast: (1) Wyatt walks around in a shiny silk vest, cleanly shaven, sporting very good English and very dull dialogue. (2) That irritating song that always opens that program (Wy—at Earp... Wy—at Earp... Boom, boom, boom, boom, boom...) is just too much.

I just can't believe that the writers of that show stick as close to fact as is humanly possible.

As a result of its seasonal hurricanes along with its tourists and its sunshine. Now this is no longer the case. It appears that every piece of wind-blown devilment that is born in the upper tropics heads straight for our coast line. As a result the people have become apprehensive, hurricane conscious. Who is there that doesn't remember such unpleasant, unwanted girl-child visitors as Carol, Hazel and Ione. Of these storms Raleigh, for many years comparatively safe, has gotten its full measure of the dangerous blows. Hazel was the worst, swinging further inland than any self respecting hurricane should, and doing thousands of dollars damage here in communications disruption, uprooted trees and smashed windows.

The hurricane season is at hand; early and not welcome at all. It is comforting to know, however, that there will probably never be such a catastrophe that struck without warning at Galveston in 1900, leaving 6,000 dead from winds and tidal waves.

Some queer twist of the elements has made North Carolina vulnerable as never before, but the people along our coastline and in the inland eastern cities will feel comfort in the fact that they will know well in advance what to expect.

The weather bureau, the airplane, modern science, new gadgets have not conquered the terror of a 100-mile wind but with their warning service and hurricane bulletins, they have saved hundreds of lives.

The Air Force does its bit, which in this case is quite a job. It's powerful "Hurricane Hunter" planes ferret out the storm's location at its very start. In this way its fury and path is correctly forecast days in advance. People who live by the seaside and inland know about what is going to happen. They can be prepared when the big blow arrives.

North Carolina of recent years appears to have become a magnet for these destructive brews of the elements. At one time Florida could coast off its seasonal hurricanes along with its tourists and its sunshine. Now this is no longer the case. It appears that every piece of wind-blown devilment that is born in the upper tropics heads straight for our coast line. As a result the people have become apprehensive, hurricane conscious. Who is there that doesn't remember such unpleasant, unwanted girl-child visitors as Carol, Hazel and Ione. Of these storms Raleigh, for many years comparatively safe, has gotten its full measure of the dangerous blows. Hazel was the worst, swinging further inland than any self respecting hurricane should, and doing thousands of dollars damage here in communications disruption, uprooted trees and smashed windows.

By RAY TUCKER WASHINGTON The Byrd Money Inquiry promises to prove only that the problem of money, prosperity and depression is still as mysterious and unsolvable as it was when ancient man first abandoned barter for crude symbols of exchange, such as rare stones and primitive goods at a corner cave store.

Although the leading actors in the cast have now appeared before the Senate Finance Committee, no two agree on the cause of current high prices, or on a cure for present and prospective inflation. Almost all concede, however, that the Administration's "tight money" policy, although it is the orthodox and classical solution for the current difficulties, has not been wholly successful.

Most radical development in the investigation is the thought that the Federal Reserve System, after more than a 40-year trial through two wars and a depression, has become increasingly ineffective in stabilizing the economy. There is just too much money outside the banking system, it appears, for the FRD's control of interest rates and bank reserves to exercise any real management of money and credit.

to restrict the supply of money still further by raising the rediscount rate and demanding an increase in bank reserves.

As against both the Byrd and Humphrey schools, Edwin G. Nourse believes that prices are fixed in the "marketplace," not by the government. Truman's chief economic adviser blames inflation on both labor and management through their almost exclusive control of wages and prices. He urges restraint on all segments of the economy as a basic cure.

LABOR UNIONS' POWER The unions' power, he says, has become so irresistible that management does not dare to reject their demands, even though it means no increase in production of goods for sale. But management passes the cost of fatter envelopes on to consumers.

As a result of the escalator clauses in union contracts, which ties wages to prices, a vicious inflationary cycle results, in his opinion. Soon, almost a billion workers will get increases of four cents an hour. Assuming that they work 40 hours a week, that will mean an additional annual purchasing power of almost $100 millions. And steel prices will go up $6 a ton, meaning a parallel increase in the cost of almost $100 millions. And steel prices will go up $6 a ton, meaning a parallel increase in the cost of almost every other product.

The steel industry is usually the barometer for both wages and prices.

IDEAS OF LIBERAL AND LABOR ECONOMISTS The liberal and labor economists seem to want a persistent but gradual inflation, regarding it as a needed infusion in the stream of money. They also insist that management should absorb wage boosts by reducing profits without increasing prices. Moreover, like Nourse, they argue that industry should relieve pressure on the money market by financing expansion from reserves rather than new issues of stock and bonds.

Comics Can Be Made

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Lewis, who makes more per hour being funny than the average man does per year being serious, says any mother can raise her boy to be a comedian.

"He can at least learn to be a laugh comedian," said Jerry, "and probably make a good living just standing up and reciting off memorized jokes."

"Show business is full of such imposters," Lewis, who has just completed his first solo film, "The Delicate Delinquent," believes the public often fails to realize that humor, like love, comes in many varieties.

Leaving the field of love to those more expert, Jerry gave these views on humor: "The big difference in the field is between the taught comedian and the natural funnyman."

"The taught comedian is imitative, and has no born talent. Often he is extremely witty, but his humor comes second-hand. He generally pokes fun at others and is often cruel. At the back of his mind he is always desperately thinking, 'What'll I do next?' he has to, because most of his humor is contrived, or borrowed."

"But a born funnyman's humor is compulsive. He holds himself up to ridicule, realizing it's easier for people to laugh at someone else than it is for them to laugh at themselves. He is also more spontaneous and creative in any situation—less dependent on others for material."

Either through a sense of kindness—or a well-ingrained sense of self-preservation—Jerry declined to name the outstanding "laugh comedians" practicing the healing art of yuk merchandising today. But he had no hesitancy in reciting off a few comics, past and present, whom he regards as "natural funnymen."

"In the silent films Charlie Chaplin—the greatest ever—and Harry Langdon were outstanding," he said. "So was W. C. Fields. So are Jackie Gleason and Milton Berle. Berle is a past master."

Lewis modestly forbore saying which class he regarded himself as belonging to other than by cheerfully observing in passing, "I am a born idiot."

In 31 years, however, he has parlayed this natural defect (if it is one, as non-Lewis fans claim) into one of the highest-rewarded talents for zany tactics since mankind started paying money to be amused.

Everyone now is familiar with the trials and tribulations of all the million-dollar bank accounts lurk many a broken heart.

Jerry, who wears his heart as well as his funnybone on his sleeve, has a couple to tell, too. For example, the time when, driving through the countryside, he suddenly felt he was undergoing a heart attack—he has suffered mild ticker murmurs since his youth. Frantically he sought out the nearest doctor, beat on the door, and gasped out his fears.

"You know what happened?" asked Jerry. "The doc turned and called back to his wife, 'Mama, come here. Here's Jerry Lewis playing a trick.'"

"I had a terrible time getting him to give me a real examination. Luckily, all I had was indigestion."

Jerry learned another price comedians play when his son, Gary, then 10, came to him and said: "Daddy, do you have to make faces on television? Why can't you sell insurance or something, like other daddies?"

"Why do people laugh at you and say you're silly?" Jerry said, almost made him give up a better business. But he found a better answer this year by taking Gary behind the scenes and putting him on a TV show with him.

"When he saw that it was just a world of make-believe," recalled Jerry, "and found out that I was really somebody in the field—a guy with 30 employees and a pay-roll of nearly $750,000—he got the idea."

ble—a claim they make. Why, Hugh O'Brien doesn't even have a mustache.

Then, of course, there is the Wells Fargo program with Dale Robertson. Well, to start with, he always seems to talk as if he has a mouth full of snuff or prune juice or something. That (Continued on page five)

Mike Todd's Champagne Party Sets Staid Old London On Ear

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—One of Europe's better mass hangovers gripped hundreds of Londoners today in the bleary-eyed state of American showman Mike Todd's champagne-for-everybody party.

"Wow," shouted Todd at 4 a.m. "I knew I forgot something. I forgot aspirin and headache powder. Every guest should have been furnished with some."

As dawn broke over London, at least 500 guests were still enjoying themselves at Todd's large expense.

Aly Khan and his girl friend, French model Bettina, were riding pink and purple horses on the merry-go-round.

Sir Hartley Showcross, the stern-faced attorney general in the last Labor government, danced the rumba to one of the 16 bands.

Singer Eddie Fisher was mistaken for a waiter as he rushed a trayload of champagne to his table.

U.S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney stepped in a deep mud puddle.

And so it went.

Todd threw the party to celebrate the London premier of his movie "Around the World in 80 Days." The Duchess of Kent and her daughter, Princess Alexandra represented the royal family at the film but didn't stay for the party.

For the all-night binge, Todd bought out the Battersea amusement park — where James McNeill Whistler used to paint things other than his mother — and hauled his guests across the Thames in a fleet of ferries.

"You never know," smirked the host, "something about the party and the picture might sneak into the papers."

Sneak was hardly the word. "Wild and wonderful and brash and noisy," said the Daily Herald. "London has never seen anything like it."

"Mike Todd pulled his greatest ever stroke of ballyhoo," reported the Daily Mirror, "by turning the center of London into a fantastic Victorian carnival."

"Mad, marvelous, gaudy, supercolossal, stupendous," the Daily Sketch gushed.

The host blew his top almost as many times as the corks blew out of the giant champagne bottles he had flown over from France.

The first explosion occurred when Mrs. Todd — film star Elizabeth Taylor — had to wait for some blue-blooded guests who were late.

"Hell," shouted hubby, "she's having a baby this fall. What would you do if your wife was having a baby? Gangway!" And he rushed Liz to a seat.

Biting a white-gloved hand, the mother-to-be commented: "He worries too much about this baby. I hope it's a girl. I am sure the world is not ready for another Mike Todd yet."

Yards of crimson chiffon trailed from her sun-bronzed shoulders to the floor. Her ruby and diamond earrings and necklace glittered.

"We've got to get back to America Thursday," Liz said. "I've got to see my doctor and find out when the baby's due. At the moment I feel it might happen tonight."

But it didn't.

Special Representatives Visiting Jehovah's Witnesses In Greenville

Harry Dague and David Thomas, two Special Representatives of the Watchtower Society, are visiting the Greenville congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses this week.

They have been doing special traveling work visiting many congregations in the central and eastern part of the United States for many years. They both are graduates of the Watchtower Bible College of New York.

W. E. Manning, the Congregational Minister, said, "While here, Dague and Thomas will be helping many to get a firmer hold of the Bible." He also said, "There will be a showing of the film, 'Happiness in the New World Society,' tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Kingdom Hall located about three miles west of Greenville on the Falkland Highway."

Dague and Thomas' visit will be climaxed Sunday at 7:00 p.m. by Dague delivering the talk, "Are We Masters of Our Own Future?" Following this lecture the congregation will continue the study through the pages of the Watchtower magazine, "Ancient Israel Backslides." Then Mr. Thomas will give the concluding talk, "Optimistic in the Time of the End."

Dague will be attending the Bible Study held at Raymond Vandiford's home Thursday night at 8:00 p.m., also on Friday night at the home of W. E. Manning. There will be a Bible Study at the same time.

There will be a meeting Saturday night at 8:00 p.m. at the Kingdom Hall.

Eighteen Pups In First Litter

EL CAJON, Calif. (AP)—A one-year-old Irish setter has given birth to 18 puppies in her first litter.

Dr. Glen G. Crosbie, veterinarian, said it was the largest dog litter he ever heard of.

The mother, named Candy and owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzgerald, was trying her best to feed all the puppies. But she'll need help, Crosbie said.

Visitor Returned Home With Chip On Shoulder

LONDON (AP)—A British newsman returned from a $280 tour of the U.S. East Coast today with 90 cents in his pocket and a chip on his shoulder.

"Steak-crazed businessmen go home to Britain bragging about the efficiency of this streamlined empire," wrote Keith Waterhouse of the Daily Mirror.

"On 100 pounds—$280—you can see it from the other side of the tracks and from there it does not seem as efficient or as streamlined—and its people are not as insufferably perfect."

He went on:

"Their bus services are infuriating, unpunctual and uncomfortable. The New York tube (subway) particularly is like some annex of hell.

"Their cafes are slow, inefficient, sometimes dirty.

"Their postwar housing projects—or the two or three I have seen—are not a patch on our new towns.

"Their women are nowhere near as well dressed as ours.

"Their manners are atrocious."

Waterhouse said his trip, using only the $280 tourist allowance recently put into effect by the British treasury, took him to New York, Atlantic City, Washington, Richmond, Augusta, Orangeburg, S. C., and Lake City, Jacksonville and Miami Beach in Florida.

He said the saddest city he saw was Washington, "for Washington, with 200,000 girls in government service, is a city of lonely women."

"I sat a few nights ago in the popular Cafe of All Nations on 13th Street and watched those lonely girls who are known cruelly there as Washington's spare tires," he wrote.

"Perhaps 40 or 50 girls, all dressed up with nowhere to go, eating solitary meals, drinking solitary martinis to put some kick into a dull life, and then going home to depressing 3-pound ($14) a week rations to write to their friends about how great life is."

But Waterhouse declared the trip wasn't a total loss.

"I am relieved to find an America as wonky (tacky) as we so often find ourselves," he said. "An America of cracked cups and leaky taps and sorry-only-baked-beans-left. An America where no body has succeeded in turning out an air-conditioned, centrally heated, pushbutton human being.

"This America I like—the side-shows in the greatest show on earth."

"Hell," shouted hubby, "she's having a baby this fall. What would you do if your wife was having a baby? Gangway!" And he rushed Liz to a seat.

Biting a white-gloved hand, the mother-to-be commented: "He worries too much about this baby. I hope it's a girl. I am sure the world is not ready for another Mike Todd yet."

Yards of crimson chiffon trailed from her sun-bronzed shoulders to the floor. Her ruby and diamond earrings and necklace glittered.

"We've got to get back to America Thursday," Liz said. "I've got to see my doctor and find out when the baby's due. At the moment I feel it might happen tonight."

But it didn't.

Next, there is Broken Arrow, which features Indian Agent Tom Jeffords in a constant fight-and-make-up situation with Cochise. Frankly, I've never been able to distinguish one of their scripps from another. Seems like they have the same plot every week.

Secretly, I've always harbored a belief that Jackie Gleason would make the perfect Western Hero. Why, he'd fit the new Adult-taste trend perfectly think of it: He's too fat to get involved with the Rancher's daughter; he's too fat, too, to ride one of them slender-legged white ponies with the flowing mane (a work-horse would do better); He can't sing or dance; and with a gut like his, he'd be the fastest gun alive—he wouldn't have far to reach to his holster.

It would be the ultimate in realism.

Cincinnati Back On Top For First Time In Three Weeks

Milwaukee Loss Aided Redlegs' Jump Into First

This changeable National League baseball race gets more like the weather all the time. If you don't like the way things are going, stick around a few minutes.

There have been seven changes in the lead during the last month alone.

Cincinnati's on top now after a three-week absence, the result of an 8-6 victory over Chicago yesterday afternoon coupled with Milwaukee's 4-2 loss last night to Von McDaniel, fabulous teenager, of the St. Louis Cardinals.

But the Braves, trailing by half a game, are matched with the Redlegs in Cincinnati tonight and could move back up by winning.

St. Louis is just a game behind after 18-year-old McDaniels' fourth straight, and Brooklyn a 6-0 winner over the New York giants behind 40-year-old Sal Maglie, who is a 2 1/2-game deficit.

In the American League, the leading New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox are still two games apart after come-from-behind victories.

The Yanks beat pesky Baltimore 6-4 on Gil McDougald's two-run, 11th-inning double for Whitey Ford's second relief triumph in two days.

Chicago's 4-2 win over Detroit, 4-2 for Billy Pierce's 11th as a result of Larry Doby's three-run homer in the eighth.

Boston edged Washington 2-1 to take over third place by a .005 percentage from Cleveland, which was idle along with Kansas City.

McDaniel, signed out of high school for $50,000 six weeks ago, had a perfect game for six innings, retiring the first 18 batters, before Bill Bruton led off the seventh with a single. Three more hits produced two runs and when the youngster gave up another hit in the eighth, Hoyt Wilhelm came in from the bullpen to close out the last two innings.

Del Ennis, with a home run and double, drove in two Cardinal runs off Warren Spahn, the Milwaukee loser.

Cincinnati blew a five-run lead built by Wally Post's bases-loaded homer and trailed the Cubs 6-5 under Ed Bailey, honored to hit in the eighth. Doubles by George Crowe and Don Hoak featured the 10th-inning wrap-up, which gave Raul Sanchez the victory over Jim Brosnan, both in relief. Lee Walls hit for the single-double-triple-homer cycle; for Chicago, first in the majors in nearly three years.

Maglie, pitching for the first time since Memorial Day, fired a four-hitter at his ex-mates in recording his 24th major league shutout and his 10th second straight blanking of the Giants. Curt Barclay lost it.

The Yanks, 17-3 in their current drive, rallied twice to tie the Baltimore before McDougald's clutch hit in the 11th.

Pierce, loser of his last four, held the Tigers to five hits but trailed 2-1 to Frank Lary until Doby connected with two on in the eighth. Frank Bolling's 10th homer was the only earned run off Pierce, now 1-6.

Sammy White did Boston's clutch hitting to back up Frank Sullivan's six-hit, eight-strikeout performance against the Senators.

The tall catcher drove in the first run with a single and the winner with a sacrifice fly. Loser Camilo Pascual and Russ Kemmerer permitted only three hits to the Red Sox.

Larry Baker To Battle Gaspar Ortega Tonight

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Hard-hitting Larry Baker has much to gain and little to lose tonight when the New York and Indianapolis welterweight meets favorite Gaspar Ortega in a 10-round main event at the Miami Beach Auditorium.

Ortega, on the other hand, will be risking a possible winter chance at Carmen Basilio's welterweight title. The Mexican, ranked second in the ring ratings, seemed headed for an autumn fight with the welter champ until Basilio agreed to meet middleweight title-holder Sugar Ray Robinson in September.

Ortega has been established by oddsmakers as a 5-2 favorite over Baker. But Ortega's trainer, Whitey Bimstein, says his man expects "a tough fight."

Baker has promised to "shoot the works," Bobby Melnick, his manager, said the 26-year-old fighter, who knocked out his last three opponents, has "trained his heart out for this one."

"Larry is a hungry fighter and this is the opportunity he has been looking for."

The 21-year-old Ortega also has been training hard. His trainer says he's ready "and he's never been in a bad fight."

Baker knocked out Buddy Jackson in one round at Pat Lowry in eight in his only two 1956 fights. He flattened Ray Perez in one round in his single bout so far this year. His ring career includes 20 victories, 10 losses and three draws.

Ortega has a 40-8 career record. He beat the former champ, Tony Demarco, two out of three, and in his last fight outpointed the high-ranking Cuban contender, Isaac Logart.

The fight will be televised nationally (ABC) beginning at 9 p. m. (EST). The 10-point must system will be used in judging.

British Open Wants To Have Top US Golfers

By STERLING SLAPPEY
ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Pressure is building up to "save" the famed old British Open tournament — the oldest National championship in golf — by attracting more stars from the United States.

"And I mean the stars," said N. C. Selway, chairman of the Royal and Ancient Championship Committee today, as the tournament proper got under way. "We want at least a half-dozen of the top U.S. players every year. They are the lifeblood of the tournament."

He added that the prize money must be increased and the date changed.

There is definite hope of upping the ante — top prize is $2,800 — but all efforts to move the tournament back to September when it won't conflict with the U.S. summer circuit have failed.

Before World War II, the tournament annually drew all the top Americans.

"But since then the quality has almost gone out of the entry," said one high official sadly. "Since something must be done, it is a good bet that in the next year or two, the dates will be moved back to September."

The same official continued: "We've got to get more overseas players here or see the Open go down the drain. This is an international event, but it is ceasing to be very important. The Americans are the ones to save it."

An average of only one or two top-line U.S. players have been in the tournament in the past 10 years. This year's best is Cary Middlecoff, the golfing dentist from Memphis and runner-up in the U.S. Open.

"I missed three tournaments in the states by entering," he said. "And, frankly, I'm taking a big chance of losing a lot of money. It cost so much to come over that you have to win first money to break even."

"I thought it was worth the risk because this is a great old tournament. But you can see why most Americans don't come."

Middlecoff, who has been bothered by a cold, qualified yesterday by the narrowest of margins. He went around the Old Course in 73 for a two-day qualifying total of 148, getting in by one stroke.

Other Americans who qualified were Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, with a 141; Gene Andrews of Pacific Palisades, Calif., with a 148 and Frank D. Keck, an Air Force lieutenant from Champaign, Ill., with a 149.

The qualifiers play 18 holes today and 18 tomorrow. Then the low 50 go around the 6,996-yard par 36-72 Old Course twice on Friday.

Peter Thomson of Australia, the defending champion, qualified with a 142.

Hi-Toms' 10-3 Rout Of Bulls Important

CAROLINA LEAGUE
By The Associated Press
Changing times in the Carolina League were spotlighted last night with High Point-Thomasville's 10-3 rout of Durham.

The loss dropped the Bulls, loop champs for the season's first half, down to a tie for last place. The Hi-Toms retains a firm two-game lead on the standings for the second half to date.

In the same vein, Wilson inflicted a 11-8 punishing on Danville, and continued in third place. The Tobs' second-half rank is a refreshing change from the cellar role they played in the initial half.

Winston-Salem bobbed up from sixth to fourth with an 8-2 triumph over Greensboro. A two-hit performance by pitcher George Moton made him the hero of the Red Birds' win.

The Hi-Toms jumped to a lead big enough to win the game with a four-run outburst in the third inning. Bill Ford helped widen the margin with a three-run homer in the fifth, his ninth round-tripper of the season.

Wilson earned his victory with rallies in the final innings. Trailing 6-0 going into the eighth, the Tobs grabbed three runs in the eighth and piled on eight unearned rallies in the ninth to swamp Danville.

The games tonight: Greensboro at Winston-Salem; Wilson at Danville; Durham at High Point-Thomasville.

Maglie Ready

NEW YORK (AP)—Ancient Sal (the Barber) Maglie announced today that he was ready to take his regular pitching turn for the Brooklyn Dodgers—but out of respect for his 40 summers would Manager Walt Alston be kind enough to give him four days rest between starts?

Plagued by all sorts of miseries from back aches to sore thumbs, Maglie had gone the route only once this season before tossing a four-hitter against his old New York Giant mates last night.

Brooklyn won 6-0, but it was more than a routine victory. Alston and his brain trust were beginning to worry that perhaps they would have to go it without Maglie. He hadn't been on the mound since May 30.

Triumph Gives SB Club 3-0 Mark, League Lead

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor
State Bank's Teen-er League baseball team edged the Guaranty Bankers last night, 3-2, at Guy Smith Stadium to take a firm hold on the loop's second half lead.

The victory rounds off the State Bank record to 3-0 thus far this half. Coach Jack Bass' club also topped first half honors, losing only one game in eight.

At the present time, Guaranty Bank, with a 2-1 mark, is second in the running. College View Cleaners and Laundry has a 1-1 slate to follow in third place. Home Builders, a team that make a good showing in first half play, is now resting on bottom, not having won a single game in second half play. Their mark is 0-3.

Randy Bass, chunky righthander, went the full seven innings for State Bank last night and was credited with the 3-2 win. Bass, working with catcher Aubrey Harrison, gave up five hits, struck out six, walked three and delivered one wild pitch.

The losing pitcher was Steve Nobles. He was relieved in the sixth by Joe Moyer after the winning State Bank runs had been scored. Both Nobles and Moyer did a good job of limiting the winners on hits. State Bank tapped each of them for only one baseknock, gaining a total of two for the whole game.

Guaranty Bank hurling, however, was responsible for the State Bank win for the most part. Nobles walked seven men, including the man who scored the winning run against him. He also delivered two pass balls and two wild pitches. Moyer walked one and threw one wild pitch. They fanned nine between them.

Little Allen McArthur, peppery State Bank third baseman, collected both of his team's only hits. He singled in the fourth and the seventh innings.

Moye got three of his club's hits, all singles. Charlie Stabon, right fielder, added two singles to wind up the hitting for Guaranty Bank. A hit by Moyer in the first inning scored one GB run and Moye himself scored in the sixth on an error to complete his team's scoring.

Kroghe Andersen walked in the fifth and Bass got on on an error. Both scored on errors then to notch the first SB scores. McCArthur scored the winning run in the next frame, when Nobles unleashed three bases on balls, a wild pitch and a pass ball.

Tonight's tilt at Guy Smith will feature the Home Builders against State Bank. Game time is 7:45.

Beck Competing In USG Tourney

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Larry Beck, Kingston's golden haired boy, is going to the U.S. Golf Assn.'s national junior golf tournament as North Carolina's representative.

The 17-year-old swinger, three-time winner of the Carolina Golf Assn. junior title, will compete against more than 200 other young golfers beginning July 17 at the Manor Country Club in Washington.

Beck wheeled around the Highlands Country Club course here yesterday, turning in his usual polished performance for a one-over-par 73.

Ken Folkes of Concord won first alternate position in a playoff against Rocky Mount's Ed Justa that went 20 holes. The two tied with 78s for the regulation 18 holes.

Fourth and fifth alternate spots went to Archie Clark Jr. and Raymond Floyd both of Fayetteville with 85s.

More Work And Fewer Gadgets In Homes Advised

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Are today's housewives more like production line foremen rather than helpmates in the home? A Seventh-Day Adventist leader thinks so and last night told a regional meeting of the church group that American homes would be happier if women had fewer labor saving gadgets and did more work.

The GI's mother, Mrs. Lester McOsker, Manhasset, said her son had never been in any trouble before. "I'm worried," she said. "I can't believe a thing like this ever happened."

Said Arch O. Dart of Washington, assistant secretary of the Educational Department of the General Conference of Adventists: "The sense of personal service to husband and family largely has been lost by American women who are, for the most part, engaged in running mechanized homes like foremen in a factory as the result of labor-saving devices."

Simple Courtesy By An Absentee

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Salvaneous Eugene Laws, 29, of Graham, an honor prisoner at the county prison farm here, was supposed to take a truck from Farm 1 to Farm No. 2.

Hours later, he called from Danville, Va., to tell officials the truck was there. So it was. But Laws, who had only 16 days left to serve, was not. He hasn't been seen since.

WAYNE D. OVERHOLSER

CHAPTER 28
Nela reached the end of her string on the Sunday afternoon before we started fall roundup. The day was a cold one, too cold to be comfortable outside. The previous week had left the first frosting of snow on the peaks of the Sangre de Cristos, and I had found a skin of ice on the horse troughs each morning. The aspens on both sides of the valley were bright patches of orange, and even here, along the creek, the cottonwood and willow leaves were turning, a few falling so that they made a dry rustling under our feet.

Nela pounded the dirt with a closed fist, crying out at me: "I can't go on, Will! It isn't any way to start a marriage! By the time you get back from Leadville, there won't even be enough leaves on the brush to hide us. Are we doing this because we don't want to hurt Sarah and Dad, or because we're cowards?"

"Both, I guess," I said. "I'm a bigger coward when it comes to Sarah than anything else."
"I know," Nela said bitterly. "You always think of her first, but it's time you were thinking of yourself. And me."
She had a right to be bitter. Maybe she should have cut every tie the day we returned from Canon City. I still wasn't sure, but from Nela's tone of voice I knew we couldn't put it off any longer.

"All right," I said. "Let's go tell them now."
She looked at me to see if I meant it. "You're sure you want to?"
"No, but it's got to be done."
"What will Sarah do?"
"I don't know. She can't fire me and she can't run me off, because I'm half-owner of the ranch. And she won't go to your dad."
"He knows that," she said. "Their affair was like a firecracker that just sputtered out. I guess they never did really love each other."
"Well, we've got to face facts," I said. "Sarah won't want another woman in the house with her. Or, even if she says she's willing, she'd make it impossible for you to stay."
"I'm sure she would," Nela agreed.

"So we've got one of two things to do. We can build another house and I can go on rodding the Box P, or we can cut loose and start somewhere else."
"I'm not afraid," she said. "We'll cut loose."
I rose and helped her to her feet. I kissed her and held her for a moment, and for that moment I could not speak. I loved her too much. I was lucky, just as Ben Sawhill had said on the day we were married, to get Nela; lucky to be loved by her, and lucky that I hadn't married some other woman. But because it was hard for me to say things like that, I just held her in my arms and looked at her, hoping she could see in my eyes what was in my heart.

Nela smiled and said, "Let's go beards the lion and lioness in their den."
We walked up the slope together, her arm through mine, for now we didn't care what they saw or said. Just before we reached the house, I said: "There is one thing, I'll be gone for two or three weeks, depending on luck and weather. You'd better stay with your dad until I get back."
"Of course," she said. "I wouldn't fit on roundup very well."
We went in. Mathers was in the middle of one of his monologues. Sarah sat by the window sewing, plainly bored. There had been a time when she was impressed by him and hung on every word, but that time had been long gone. These Sunday-afternoon dinners had become habit as much as anything.

Mathers stopped, irritated by our entrance. We had not been gone as long as usual. "Get cold?" he asked.
"Yes," Nela said. "But that isn't why we came back. We have something to tell you."
Sarah laid her sewing in her lap, slung the needle through the cloth, and looked at me. I think she expected to hear we were engaged, which would still have given her time to break us up.
I said, "Nela and I were married in Canon City last month."
Sarah's face went deathly white.

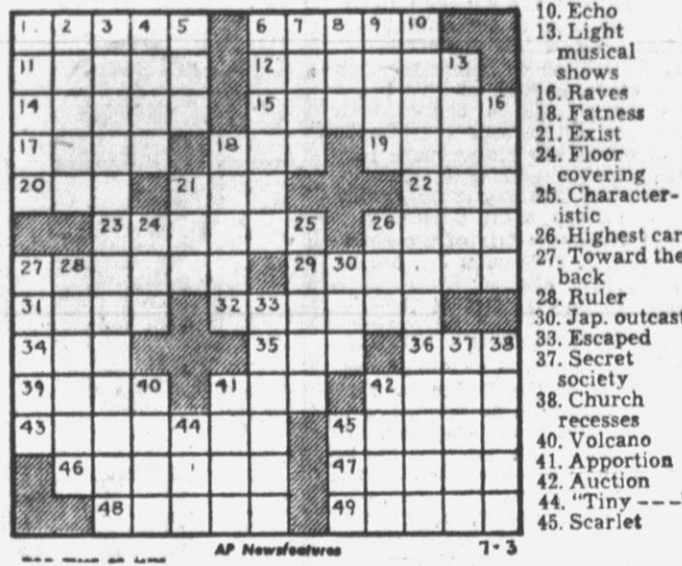

doing the talking are men who will vote to dissolve the society and divide our assets."
"I'm sorry—" I began.
"No, you're not sorry because you have been proved right, and no may is sorry in a case like that. . . . But now you are taking from me the only person who is vital to me, so I am very much alone. It will be an effort to adjust myself. As for my promise to keep my people off your range, I will keep it if I live." He glanced at the bedroom door. "However, there is a possibility you will no longer be connected with the Box P."
"I'm half-owner," I said.
"One house and two women?" He shook his head. "It would never do."
He lighted his pipe casually, and some of my old respect for him returned. Though he had admitted he was on the brink of disaster, he still retained an air of dignity and confidence. In spite of all that had happened, I found myself feeling pity for the man.

"I won't share my men with anything or anybody! You should know that by now," Sarah Pardee is going to announce. Continue "Gunlock" tomorrow.

A cry came out of her as if she were choking; then she whirled her chair around and wheeled it into the bedroom as fast as she could and slammed the door. Only then did I look at Mathers. He surprised me by crossing the room and holding out his hand.
"Congratulations," he said. "I should have foreseen this, but I didn't. I have only one thing to say. You're getting the finest girl in the world, and I hope you prove worthy of her."
"I am to," he said.
Nela kissed him then, and began to cry. "I was afraid you wouldn't feel this way," she said, and sat down and wiped her eyes. "I hate weepy women, but I guess I've been worrying about this too long."
Mathers patted her awkwardly on the head, then walked to the window and took out his pipe and began to fill it. "To tell the truth, I don't quite know how to take it. If you had said you were going to get married, I'd have had a little time to adjust myself; but now I find I already have a son-in-law, and I suppose, a grandchild on the way."
"No, but I hope you will soon," Nela said quickly.
"I knew you would want it that way," he said, "and it's right and proper. But it presents a problem, Beeson. As Nela has probably told you, I cannot help you financially. So my question is: a natural one. How will you be able to support a family?"
"I have a little money," I said.
"If I don't stay here, I'll get a job," I irritated, I added, "We never expected to live off you."
He didn't act as if he had heard me. He stared at his pipe, his face troubled, and now his thoughts seemed to turn inward. "I'll lose my housekeeper," he said. "She's a good one. Beeson, a very good one. So that makes you the winner in every field of action."
I said, "You didn't expect Nela to stay with you all her life, did you?"
"No, of course not. I wasn't thinking of that. You have called me your enemy. Unfortunately, you have been proved right in your predictions. Our crops did not mature. Perhaps it was the season, but the fact stands. Over half of our people are gone. Only the farmers are left besides me and Scott. There is talk of moving onto your range and Costello's and Brahm's. New construction at mid-year moved well over the million-dollar mark. Building Inspector George W. Gardner reported today.
New construction for the year authorized by the building inspector now totals $1,354,400.
A big month in dwelling construction during June pushed the total upward. Gardner authorized the construction of five apartment houses and 17 dwellings with a total value of $322,000.
In addition a permit was issued for S. Greenville Recreation Building valued at $17,000 bringing the total for the month to $339,000.
No charge was made for a permit for construction of Hillsdale Baptist Church which is valued at $25,000. That brought the monthly building total to $364,000.
Alterations to five structures were authorized during last month with a value of $6,700.

Five Rules In Being A Movie Millionaire

By BOB THOMAS
(Last of three articles on Hollywood Millionaires) — So you want to be a millionaire?

If you play your cards right, you have a great deal of talent and no little luck, you could make it in Hollywood. If you do, here is your code for success:
1. Avoid working for a flat salary. It is almost impossible to become a millionaire on a salary today.
Most of the rich stars are those who have formed their own companies. This allows them to be taxed on a corporate rather than personal basis. And when they dispose of their holdings, it's a capital gain. Example: The late Humphrey Bogart earned a million dollars from the sale of his Santana Productions.
If you don't form a company, at least take a percentage of the picture profits. This brings revenue over a long period.
2. Invest in oil. That's the only way to make and keep big money from an investment, thanks to the well-known depletion allowance. Ask Bob Hope and Bing Crosby; they'll tell you.
If you don't have connections for oil, put the money in real estate. You can seldom go wrong with land these days, especially in California.
3. Don't get divorced. Nothing can torpedo a fortune so fast as a broken marriage. Errol Flynn was one of Hollywood's biggest earners, but he has only recently climbed out of debt. The main reason: two expensive divorces. Alimony has kept others like Tyrone Power and Jack Webb from joining the list of Hollywood's 25 wealthiest. It is estimated that a million dollars in alimony is paid every month by filmdom's ex-husbands.
4. Live sensibly. Today's stars cannot afford to live like Harold Lloyd with his great mansion and private golf course. But a lot of them try.
Many newcomers to wealth in Hollywood come from poor backgrounds and feel they need great houses and lavish wardrobes as a symbol of achievement. They think they must "live like movie stars." That's the road to disaster.
5. Keep up your taxes. Your first fiscal obligation is to Uncle Sam, and don't forget it. Once you get behind, you may never get ahead. Ask Joe Louis.
Errol Flynn, Frank Sinatra and Orson Welles are Hollywood examples of what can happen if you lag behind in taxes. You still must pay taxes on current earnings while paying principal and interest on past ones.
Well, there you have it — the simple rules on how to make millions in Hollywood. Of course, it will help if you have the God-given talent to entertain people on a mass scale.
One thing I can't guarantee you. Happiness. The millions may bring you big houses, fast cars, beautiful wives or handsome husbands, but you won't necessarily be contented.
Take a look at the 25 richest people in Hollywood. Some of them are full of frustrations and lack anyone they can really call a friend. So maybe we're better off as we are.

Nightmares Persist For Motorist In Death Ride

Editor's note: Every fatal wreck leaves its human debris. On the eve of a long July 4 weekend, a convict, serving 7-10 years for manslaughter, tells of his nightmarish ride that ended in a fatal crash. Here is his copyrighted story from the Southern Michigan Prisoner newspaper, the Spectator. Only the writer's name is fictitious.
By JOHN TEMCLO
JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Ever drive a car from a prison cell? I do. It is not the kind of drive that makes for pleasant dreams. Instead, it is a nightmare ordeal. I've tried to break the habit. I've even been to the prison mental health clinic. But I still wake up with visions of five young faces that shared the ride, haunting me.
I'm their driver. I was three years ago. I still am.
My prison sentence is not the real punishment for my murderous, drunken drive that never ends. My prematurely white hair is only an outward sign. My limp and stiff leg don't bother me at all compared with the realization that I turned highway M12 into a concrete murder strip for five friends and neighbors.
The judge said: "A drunken driver is as dangerous to society as a drunken gunman."

Too many drinks at a party and things I took with me on that ride three years ago. There isn't any pain when two speeding cars crash head-on. The pain comes after for the survivors in horrible memories that won't go away.
Like the car I was driving home from the all-night party, the news of what happened came to me second hand.
Six of us piled into the car and headed for a highway drive-in restaurant for breakfast. It had been a gay night with all the fun that only a teen-age crowd can find dancing 'til dawn.
Goofed up with booze and benzedrine, I wheel the old car with the confidence of a drunk kept awake by "benney."
State troopers told me I drove my jalopy head-on into an oncoming transport truck. Its driver did his best to get out of my crazy path.
His effort to get out of the way may have saved his life. My drunken driving took five lives. The real punishment is the haunting memory of the gay ride turned a death ride. I can serve my prison sentence. I cannot bring back my friends.

Tito Interview Needed Additional Perspective

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—To most Western minds the big question about Yugoslavia is how independent is it as a nation?
Television is such a convincing medium that we instinctively believed President Tito would settle all untidy questions about his country when he came before the American T audience.
That he did not, wasn't a fault in the nature of television journalism but was basic to the nature of being a chief of state. A chief of state simply cannot go before an audience of millions and tip his hand too far.
Edward R. Murrow performed an enterprising job when he flew to Yugoslavia and recorded a filmed interview with Tito for a special "See It Now" program on CBS-T Sunday. Three hours of film made at Tito's retreat in the Adriatic were cut to a hour. A panel discussion of Tito's remarks followed.
To this viewer the Tito interview was one of those instances in which a daily newspaper is a necessary adjunct to a T set. Although most people wish to keep intelligently informed on foreign news, how many viewers understood what was new and significant in the interview? The panel which CBS thoughtfully provided, consisting of Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, foreign affairs editor Hamilton Fish Armstrong, William H. Lawrence of the New York Times, and CBS correspondent Richard C. Hottelet, failed to clarify much to me.
Not until I read news stories and a specialist's analysis of the interview was I able to put it in perspective.
This does not mean that the Murrow interview was a failure. The fact that Tito spoke elliptically and that the translations were slow and groping gave one a great sense of reality. You felt that you were indeed there.
It was one of those happy marriages between T and newspaper journalism. Television provided the raw material, the authentic flavor. The newspapers clarified its significance.
That was a pleasant tour when former President Harry Truman co-educted the Truman Library in Independence, Mo. He proved to be a warm and gracious host to "Let's Take A Trip" (CBS-T, Sundays). And he demonstrated that it's possible to be informative and entertaining at the same time.

Katydid's Song Known As Sign

HICKORY, N.C. (AP)—Katydids have begun their strident screechings in this area, and to old timers that is a sign.
These noises, made by stridulating organs at the bases of the front wings of the male katydid, are said by legend to precede frost by three months.

Shrewd Plea By Young Accused

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—An 18-year-old boy charged with breaking and entering was asked the traditional question by the judge at his arraignment: "How do you plead?" "I plead for probation," the boy quickly replied.

The muskrat is not a rat. He is an amphibious rodent and his legal name is "musquash."

WALL STREET
NEW YORK (N.Y.)—The stock market forged still further gains as trading became heavier early this afternoon.

A wide range of pivotal stocks stepped ahead from fractions to more than a point. Meanwhile specialties strode forward to much bigger gains.

Ignoring tomorrow's July 4 holiday and the prospects of a long weekend, the market advanced with confidence.

Aircrafts were helped by Senate passage of the defense spending bill restoring much of the funds cut by the House. Coppers were spurred by reports Chile may cut copper production 10 per cent.

Wall Street was impressed also by predictions of continued business boom with no war and depression in a poll conducted by Dun & Bradstreet.

The recovery by bonds, brokers said, lent new strength to investment type stock.

The industrials rose with few exceptions. Alchemists, steels, metals and chemicals made good gains. Oils were a bit patchy.

Du Pont was up more than 2. Gains of well over a point were made by Kennecott, Caterpillar, Northrop, United Aircraft, American Cyanamid, Allied Chemical, Goodyear and Johns-Manville.

Ahead by around a point or so were Republic Steel, Jones & Laughlin, Chrysler, U.S. Rubber, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, American Smelting, International Nickel and Westinghouse Electric.

The Associated Press average of 80 stocks at noon was up $1.90 to $184.80 with the industrials up $2.10, rails up 50 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

Threatening Blaze Subdued At Plant

FIRE EXTINGUISHED . . . in lumber company boiler building.
A fire in Garris-Evans Lumber Co. boiler building threatened to become a major blaze last night but it was extinguished by firemen before heavy damage was done.
The blaze developed in the rafters of the structure around 12:30 last night.
A red glow from the building could be seen when firemen arrived but the fire fighters, using booster lines from two high pressure trucks beat down the flames in a short time.
Two and one-half inch hose lines were stretched from a pumper to back up the two high pressure trucks. However, the lines were needed only to refill tanks on the high pressure trucks.
A spokesman for the firm this morning said damage from the fire was very minor.
Firemen remained at the scene from 12:30 to around 1:45.

Patrolmen . . .

utilized and I have given strict orders for all patrolmen to be on constant lookout for any traffic violation, large or small," Mitchell said.
"For the past several years traffic has shown a substantial increase during the Fourth of July holidays and we have reason to believe the trend will continue this year. With this thought in mind our men will be working shifts around the clock throughout the four-day period."
Mitchell offered the following hints for the holiday driver:
"Slow down to a sensible speed. 'Don't touch the wheel if you're drinking."
"Don't let the heat and the traffic get you down."
"Remember that you are carrying the most precious cargo on earth—your loved ones or friends. Drive accordingly."
"We appeal to every driver to team up with us and other law enforcement agencies in the county and state in an all out effort to prove we can celebrate American independence and a holiday without needless tragedy and bloodshed on our highways," Mitchell added.

Ayden Township Bureau Meets

AYDEN — In the Tow Hall, Monday night the Ayden Farm Bureau held a meeting to bring the farmers of the community together to discuss the principles, policies and legislative power of the Farm Bureau.
George Cox, Winterville, gave the invocation, Ralph C. Tucker, chairman of the Pitt County Farm Bureau Membership Drive, presented some plans for the drive, and introduced the speaker William E. (Bill) Little, N. C. Farm Bureau field representative. He placed the importance of the Farm Bureau before the group and explained the accomplishments of the American Farm Bureau, which had directly benefited the Pitt county farmer.
The farmers received some useful information concerning their role in Social Security program from Kenneth Whichard, special Social Security agent.
Officers for Ayden township were elected. They are president, Barrett Sumrell, Rt. 1, Ayden; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Wilber Worthington, Rt. 2, Ayden; 2nd vice-president Mrs. Heber Cannon, Rt. 1, Ayden; 3rd vice-president, Ray Garris, Rt. 1, Ayden; 4th vice-president; J. ## Board Says Racial Mixing Could Close State Parks

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP)—A warning that racial mixing in state parks could close down the recreational areas has been sounded by the North Carolina Board of Conservation and Development.
Before adjourning its two-day summer meeting here, the board yesterday adopted a report from its parks committee appealing to white and Negro citizens to continue "voluntary separation" in the use of parks.
The committee said it does not take the position "that there is any law or any administrative rule or policy which excludes Negroes from the use of certain of our state parks." However, it pointed out, separate facilities have been maintained "by tradition and understanding."
To continue this practice will "best insure the continued operation and improvement" of state parks and "will be most conducive to harmony and goodwill between all our citizens," the report asserted.
"It is our opinion that in the event operation of state park facilities results in the development of conditions unacceptable to the people of this state, there may be no recourse other than to close the facilities so affected," it added.
The board approved the report unanimously and without discussion. The parks committee said the issue arose because there have been requests in recent months "from some Negro citizens that they be permitted to use these parks customarily used by white citizens."
Southern Pines was selected as the site for the C&D Board's fall meeting, to be held Oct. 13-15. Other final actions included:
An offer from owners of Chimney Rock in Henderson County to sell the scenic attraction to the state was declined because the board said no money was available for the purchase.
The mineral resources committee's recommendation that Bear Creek Mining Co. be leased some 60,000 acres of submerged bottom lands in Beaufort and Hyde counties to prospect for phosphates was approved.
The Tar Heel congressional delegation was asked to initiate, plan and execute a long range program for state waterway projects.
The Highway Commission was requested to delay further plans for a new bridge between Morehead City and Beaufort until alternate routes have been studied.
