

Fair and somewhat cooler tonight. Thursday mostly sunny and warm and less humid.

City To Receive Extra $7,500 From Utilities

The city will receive an additional $7,500 from the Utilities Commission during the coming fiscal year as an "emergency" turn-over.

Clark, Martin and W. H. Woolard voted in favor of the motion. Dr. K. B. Pace had left before the discussion began and the fifth commission member, Reynolds May, was not present last night.

Water Runs On 102° Day

Greenville citizens used more water yesterday than they had ever used in any prior 24-hour period. They had reason to do so. They were sitting in the middle of what was probably North Carolina's hottest spot.

push out a "boiling mass" of warm air that caused temperatures to climb above 100 degrees in several parts of the two Carolinas. Rated behind Greenville in the temperature reading were Elizabeth City and New Bern.

Russel Reports Eisenhower Not Against Amending Of Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said after a conference with President Eisenhower today that Eisenhower's "mind is not closed to amendments which would clarify" the administration's civil rights bill.

After that session administration backers said Eisenhower held to his original view that the proposal is "moderate" and desirable. Nevertheless sponsors of the legislation were hinting today at possible future compromises.

At a news conference a week ago Eisenhower repeated that he felt the bill was a moderate, decent one. But he also said there were some parts of the measure which he did not understand.

of the measure which Russell feels go "far beyond the objectives" set forth by the President at news conferences and on other occasions.

Europe's Nine-Day Heat Wave Eases

ROME (AP)—Cool winds, clouds and showers took the sting today out of a blistering nine-day European heat wave that has killed at least 380 persons—most of them in sun-baked Italy.

said it would only be a brief respite. The recorded Italian heat deaths—many of them old persons living in rest homes in Venice, Milan and Padua—stood at 181.

Scores Evicted By Flash Floods

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Flash floods hit the Topeka area early today driving scores of persons from their homes, including Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark Gray, former treasurer of the United States, and her husband Andrew.

At Abilene, 80 miles west of Topeka, a cloudburst dumped an estimated 10 inches of rain on a single farm and sent water rushing across U. S. 40 so suddenly that it swept five passing cars into a ditch.

Pledge Czechs No Repeat Of 'Rift'

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev promised Czechoslovakia today that the split in the Communist bloc which imperialism attempted in Hungary will never happen.

Khrushchev's purge of his rivals in the Kremlin leadership, saying the Soviet party's Central Committee meeting which took the action last month "showed the world how crazy and hopeless are all attempts to weaken our unity or to change our Leninist policies."

Three Injured In Auto Wreck

NEW BERN—A 50-year-old man and two young girls, all listed as residents of Greenville, were injured near here last night when their automobile failed to make a curve.

Walker is leading Cumberland County dry forces in a campaign for referendums to halt ABC liquor sales in Cumberland County and to ban beer and wine sales in Fayetteville.

Failed Establish Cause Of Death

An autopsy performed on the body of Mattie Bell Phillips, Negro woman of Winterville failed to establish the cause of death. Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said this morning.

Would Provide For Return Of Investigators

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-Sc.) has proposed an amendment to the Civil Rights Bill which would "provide for home ward shipment of deceased members and employees of the President's Civil Rights Commission at federal expense."

Orange, Lemon Colored Leaf On Equal Basis

RALEIGH (AP)—When tobacco farmers sell their flue-cured leaf this year, they will find price supports on their orange-colored leaf grade, on a parity with lemon-colored leaf for the first time.

rates for leaf grades are being increased. Substantial increases, as high as $12 per hundredweight, are being registered from some straight leaf grades.

Two Stills Are Raided, Razed In Pactolus Area

Illegal liquor-manufacturing operations in Pactolus Township were given another setback early today by Pitt County ABC officers.

The New York Times said diplomatic reports indicate Bulgarians also may be on the way out.

Seek Alternates For Kasper Jury

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Attorneys attempting to pick four alternate jurors for the Clinton integration trial ran into close community ties and strong convictions on segregation today and quickly excused four jury candidates.

They were W. M. Murphy, a farmer; Mrs. Margie M. Day, Harriam household; and Mrs. Nola Fesler, Sunbright.

Suburb Lucky As Jet Crashes Into Only Vacant Lot Around

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—Luck was with the residents of a heavily populated district of this suburb of Los Angeles when a pilotless Navy jet bomber came streaking out of the skies.

P. C. Durup, 36, Northridge, Calif., was taken from his hilltop landing spot in a litter and placed in Glendale Memorial Hospital.

Arrest Follows Tip By His Wife

STATESVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A 43-year-old Mooresville Negro has been arrested on a murder charge on a tip his wife gave officers in connection with an 18-month-old case.

Officers and a detail of prisoners uncovered the victim's skeleton in a big sawdust pile yesterday in following through on the woman's information.

Paid More For Income Taxes

GREENSBORO (AP)—North Carolinians paid federal income taxes totaling $1,727,516,940.40 for the fiscal year ending June 30, the Internal Revenue Service reports.

Tar Heel Beauties Gather For Selecting Miss North Carolina

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Tar Heel's prettiest girls gathered here today with fun and fanfare for the opening tomorrow of the annual Miss North Carolina beauty contest.

The annual beauty pageant parade will come Friday afternoon when the girls will ride to the city park for an hour of picture taking.

The judging will continue Friday night with the new Miss North Carolina to be crowned Saturday night.

Chapman Shows Latest Efforts

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—Cell Chapman, high priestess of all-out glamor, says every woman can be a Cleopatra this winter, and to prove it shows a dazzling collection of cocktail and evening gowns with calculated allure.

Cell today showed her prize shocker — black crepe cocktail sheath, cunningly fitted and draped, with long, tight sleeves and a neckline slashed to the waist, bordered in discreet jewels and laced, so that, as Cell explained, "you can let your conscience be your guide." Laced up tight, the dress can be as demure as a Sunday school costume. With the laces loosened it can provide sensational exposure.

"This has its own built-in bra," explains Mrs. Chapman, "so you don't need to worry about a thing."

On the same theme is a companion piece, also in slithery black crepe, deftly draped, only this one is high in front, low in back, and cut out over the ribs. At first glance it looks discreet. At second glance—oh my!

Pauline Trigere also provided top fashion news today by bringing back high, crushed collars for the first time in a generation, and showing them on evening gowns, of all things. An example is a brown chiffon dinner dress with long sleeves and a crushed collar to the chin. This brought spontaneous applause from editors viewing the collection, and is designed for wide popularity among women who want to hide crepe necks.

Trigere also shows tube-jacket suits, smooth and easy, the jackets almost tunic length, but relaxed and unfitted. One-piece dresses are in the "laissez faire" silhouette — with no waistline at all.

The annual Farm Home Week is scheduled at State College, August 5 — 8, 1957.

An Anniversary For The Aerial Age

Imagine what the world would be like today without airplanes crossing the Atlantic many times a day to transport passengers from one side of the world to the other in a matter of hours?

Without the trans-Atlantic flights many international businesses would find their operations slowed

Decorator Pills Here? Man The Barricades

Decorator colors are all right for homes, automobiles, offices, furniture and a host of other things, we suppose. But when the experts start talking of the day when little pills on drug store shelves come in "decorator" colors, it poses a serious threat to the peace of the American home and the average family budget.

Little pills have become a part of daily life in American homes. For the most part they are neatly tucked away in the medicine cabinet or deposited in the pocketbook of the lady of the house. No one seems to pay much attention to their color. White, blue, red, pink, or pastels, it makes little difference what color the pill is. Any color matches the glass of water which goes with it.

But if this thing of decorator colors for little pills catches hold, its going to make a big difference. Instead of one bottle of five dollar pills for a particular medicinal purpose, we can see the day when the little lady will have to buy a new bottle of pills to match each new dress, each Easter hat, each new party ensemble. Many, many bottles of little pills—each a different, delicate shade, mind you—will be just as essential to her wardrobe as the variety of hats, shoes, gloves and pounds of costume jewelry.

If we aren't careful, men, there'll be another item in the family budget next year—little pills in decorator colors. The old standard of pink pills for pale people just isn't good enough in the modern way of life.

Big Manpower Problem Ahead

By ELMER ROESSNER
America faces grave manpower problems during the next 20 years.

The nation will have plenty of husky, eager but untrained bodies. But the shortage of talented and skilled persons may be much more serious than many now realize.

There is already a shortage of top executive talent and it threatens to worsen. Despite reports to the contrary, there has been no easing of the supply of engineers. Now a lack of skilled craftsmen is developing and this situation also will get worse during the next two decades.

There are three causes for this prospective trouble: 1. The rapid automation of both production and office work is requiring constantly more trained and skilled personnel.

BIRTH RATE A FACTOR

2. The enormous defense establishment is requiring constantly more trained personnel, especially in the atomic and guided missile fields, and more executive talent. While it is true that the Defense Department now has great difficulty in holding its better men in competition with private industry, eventually it will have to be given the right to reward desirable men adequately or suffer deterioration.

3. The low birth rate in the 1930's means that there will be fewer persons moving into their prime productive years in the next two decades. Meanwhile, because of the high number of births since the war, there will be a vastly greater number of young people needing support, education, jobs and direction.

This variance in the birth rates, almost incredibly low for a decade and the early years of the war and then almost incredibly high since the later years of the war, is the most important cause of coming manpower problems. It is worsened by the fact that medical advances are prolonging the lives of those of us who are now middle-aged.

Between 1960 and 1980, the "thin" segment of the population will be between 25 and 40, while the segments below and above will be unprecedentedly large. Thus the nation will need more skilled leaders and lead men when the available material will be low in supply.

EXECUTIVE JOBS UNFILLED

The National Industrial Conference Board reports that hundreds of top executive positions remain unfilled because the right people cannot be found. Furthermore, its studies show that relatively few companies have adopted systematic approaches to solve the growing problem. Many companies are just waiting for the right man to come along, the Board said. A few, however, have programs for spotting talent among the juniors and their training them for responsibility.

The study developed an amazing fact: of 62 corporation presidents questioned, 5 per cent said nepotism, seniority, politics and other miscellaneous methods were used to fill executive positions.

The National Bureau of Economic Research last week published a study by David M. Blank and George J. Stigler in which it was concluded that "the popular notion of a severe shortage of engineers loses some of its validity." The researchers found that the supply of engineers has grown faster than demand, and that engineering salaries have drifted downward in relation to salaries of other workers.

The same day Dr. Blank's and Professor Stigler's report was announced, one New York newspaper published 12 standard columns of "engineers wanted" classified advertisements.

Whether or not there is more of a shortage than the researchers found, it's fairly certain that there will be critical scarcities over the next 20 years.

MORE CURIOSITIES IN THE BUSINESS NEWS

A chair with seat and back of transparent plastic has been produced experimentally by a Chicago manufacturer. The base and legs are of brass. "The customer has definitely indicated his preference for well-packaged goods, even at the higher price," Alvin Schaitgen, hardware store manager, told the Missouri Valley group of the Folding Paper Box Association. Advertisements looking like legal documents often frighten more customers than they attract. However, a Chicago appliance store sent "subpoenas" to 4,000 customers ordering them to appear at a home show sale, and more than 10,000 came.

to a snail's pace. Exchange of information and conferences between officials of many governments would be few and far between. The whole aspect of international relations would take on an entirely different appearance.

Strange as it seems, this fast air age, and its importance of international affairs has come about in just two short decades.

Twenty years ago this month fledgling airlines were beginning survey flights across the Atlantic to determine whether regularly scheduled flights between the United States and Europe were practical. It took the 32-passenger flying boat of Pan American World Airways 28 hours to make the trans-Atlantic flight 20 years ago. Today, with the Atlantic being crossed 60 times a day by airlines of 15 different nations, it takes less than half the time.

In this day when round-the-world air travel is accepted as fundamental to daily living, it seems almost incredible that 20 years ago there was no such thing as regular trans-Atlantic air schedule. To travel from the United States to Europe and back meant at least two weeks on the high seas, to say nothing of the time it took to get from a port to some inland point. Today countries on opposite sides of the globe are only days, rather than weeks, apart via scheduled flights of airlines.

The 20th anniversary of Trans-Atlantic flights of commercial airlines went by unnoticed last week. The date deserves recognition as the inauguration of a phase of transportation which has revolutionized the lives of millions of people around the globe.

New Philosophy Is Taking Shape

By LYNN NISBET

PATTERN — The major appointments and on-record statements by Governor Luther Hodges disclose a definite pattern of political philosophy. It is a pattern new to North Carolina, as might be expected from a man catapulted from virtual political obscurity into position of State and National leadership within the short period of five years.

Coming to the office of Governor by chance in the middle of the term for which the late William Umstead had been elected, early actions of Governor Hodges supported his statements that he would maintain the Umstead program in organization and personnel. Implication was that when he came into office "on his own" some radical action might be expected. The changes which have been made since the last election have been material, but they have been subtle rather than radical. Their total effect is to take a different route to the same destination instead of choosing a different goal.

With a background as a business executive, Governor Hodges has had more to say about efficient organization of government than any chief executive since McLean. He insists that the State of North Carolina should be operated like a big business corporation. He has emphasized the mechanics of government, sometimes almost to the exclusion of human and political elements.

This concept overlooks an important distinction, inherent in the traditions of the State. The primary objective of private business is to earn a profit; the sole function of government is to render service.

DIVIDENDS — Stockholders in non-government corporations are voluntary investors and can sell their stock if they do not like the management or are dissatisfied with dividends. Citizens cannot sell their stock in the State, and can be forced by the courts to pay taxes levied against them. Their dividends are not in cash but in such intangibles as education, health, police protection and other social services. Every citizen-stockholder has a more intimate relationship with his government than any individual stockholder in private enterprise.

Another distinction is that in private business dividends are paid only to the voluntary investors on basis of their cash investment. Major part of government service dividends go to children and others who, in the nature of things, cannot pay their proportionate share of the cost. That is why in government human and political considerations some times must be given precedence over efficient business administration.

MORALE — It takes more stockholders — more employees and more money to operate a service organization than a profit business of comparable size. The service dividends are less tangible, more difficult to compute. It logically follows that the intangible spirit called "morale" is more important — both for the stockholders who cannot sell out and for the employees who are mainly responsible for earning the dividends.

Due largely to conditions beyond control of anybody in North Carolina morale of the citizen-stockholders is not high. They are affected by world-wide uncertainty. Judging by news stories and economic surveys, the situation is better in this state than in many other sections.

More disturbing is the evidence that among the approximate 65,000 State employees in public schools, agencies, departments and institutions, morale is lower than it has been in many years.

REASON — Whether justified or not, they feel less assurance of tenure in the jobs they hold and consequently less complete loyalty to the program outlined by administrative leadership. It is easy to discern a trend away from the cooperative family relationship to management-labor problems which trouble business. Outstanding illustration of that trend is the attitude of State employees toward the Personnel Department. That department was sponsored by the employees and for several years it was regarded as their friend at court. After the hassle over method of applying pay raises during the recent Legislature, the Personnel Department is now regarded solely as an agent of management.

TEMPORARY — This attitude on part of employees and the doubts felt by many citizens as to effects of highway and other reorganization policies, as well as the revised tax program, are the inevitable consequences of the increased emphasis on business in government. They would follow any radical variation from established practice. Oldtimers know that previous periods of low morale have been only temporary. Innovations resented at the time have proven beneficial and have become the tradition which many people do not want to disturb now. Governor Hodges is superbly confident that history will repeat in this instance, and that within a short time the State of North Carolina will be in better economic and social condition than ever before.

BOTH OR NOTHING

Modern man wants to get rid of heaven.

Strange, isn't it, that he leaves himself and us in this position of painful imbalance. For it would appear reasonable that if there is no hell, there is no heaven. If we have a heaven, we must have a hell, and if we have a hell we must have a heaven.

Why? Because if God is a righteous God, He must be just and justice must operate throughout the whole of his creation. It is all very well to talk about the reward of doing good but now about the reward of doing evil? A just God will certainly reward righteousness, but he ceases to be a just God unless he punishes unrighteousness. We cannot have it both ways. We cannot have our cake and eat it. We must throw the whole idea of reward out of our thinking—we cannot throw out just half of it. Good rewarded means evil punished. The one balances the other.

Man, by thinking, cannot get hell out of the area of reality in which he lives. The reason he storms so against the whole idea of divine punishment is because he knows deep in his heart that it is ethically sound—ethically necessary.

No heaven without hell. No hell without heaven. Both or nothing.

Worse Than A Hurricane

Eastern North Carolinians, as a general rule, are rather firm in their conviction that hurricanes are about the worst acts of nature that a man encounters.

We have some pretty good examples to back us up. For instance, no one can deny the destructiveness of Hazel, Connie and Diane — all fearsome spectacles in our Coastal Plain.

At least one Pitt Countyman, however, is convinced now that there can be worse things than hurricanes. Last week, Roy Phelps lived through an earthquake.

Roy is the Greenville radio man who is in Iran teaching Iranian soldiers how to use modern communications equipment. He works with a military (U. S. Army) advisory group with headquarters in Teheran, capital city of Iran.

His reference to "worse things than hurricanes" was made in comments about the big earthquake that rocked Iran last week. Roy was not in the middle of it, but he was less than 60 miles from where he is stationed.

A letter received yesterday had this to say:

"The center of the Earthquake was about 60 miles from here, centered in the city of Babol. It struck at exactly 4:14 a.m. July 2 (two days before the letter was written).

"Although we had a fairly heavy tremor here (in Teheran), the consequences were not real. The tremor here lasted 20 seconds, and rattled the windows and three dishes around.

"The BBC and the Pakistani radio report over 700 dead and 50,000 homeless. This is a conservative estimate. The local Teheran papers estimate over 1,000 dead, 5,000 missing and 10,000 injured."

Roy's letter goes on to comment that the area involved in the earthquake is "very mountainous" and that most of the inhabitants live in mud houses. He says several entire villages were completely destroyed and that he has seen pictures taken in the earthquake area showing rubble in places where several hundred people lived.

In addition to the earthquake destruction itself, new dangers have cropped up for people in the stricken area. Roy adds, "The biggest problem they have now is lack of drinking water. Those people depend on water from the mountains (snow melting at the peaks) but the earthquake diverted their supply."

To make the situation worse, according to Roy, railroads are out and communication is nil in the disaster zone.

As if that were not enough, the earthquake came at a critical time because an influenza epidemic is sweeping Iran.

On top of all the problems, the Greenville man still likes his work and the country.

"The people are nice to us," he says, "and it seems that the anti-Americanism... has disappeared."

The earthquake, however, is another matter. One is enough for a lifetime, according to Roy, especially if it's like the one he rode out last week.

Other Editors Saying-- Deficiency In The Law

(Greensboro Daily News)

The traffic accident on the Albemarle Sound trestle in which two trainmen lost their lives has revealed a surprising gap in responsibility for inspecting railroad bridges.

Neither the State Utilities Commission nor the Interstate Commerce Commission is charged with general inspections of such structures. The I.C.C. is presently investigating the tragedy but only as a railroad accident that happened to occur on a bridge.

This is an astonishing deficiency in the law which ought to be corrected at the state or federal level. Somehow railroads should be made to maintain safe tracks whether they go over roadbeds or trestles.

Norfolk Southern officials' claim to ignorance of danger on the Albemarle Sound bridge rings false. The structure was completed in 1912, a time when little was known about safety precautions. Timber in the construction, for example, was not even creosoted.

Certainly the trainmen who crossed the trestle daily were under no illusions about its condition. "I've always been afraid of that bridge," said a fireman who survived the ordeal. He said it "always has vibrated badly" when a train passes over it, and he predicted "four or five years ago this would happen."

The railroad company's attention was drawn to the bridge by the State Utilities Commission a year ago. At that time a state inspector in the course of making a different kind of report noticed the condition of the bridge and stated that repairs were needed. His recommendations were forwarded to the railroad.

Apparently no action was taken.

Reports by the I. C. C. and the railroad in time will reveal what caused the unfortunate Albemarle Sound accident. But already evidence points to lack of concern for safety by the railroad and calls for assumption of inspection responsibility by some government agency.

EVERYONE HAS A STAKE

(The Atlanta Constitution)
Inflation-weary Americans will breathe a little easier following the announcement that upward pressures on the cost of living might weaken this year. The prediction by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and its chief economist, Dr. Emerson P. Schmidt, is for price increases but at a slower rate than for the past several years.

Let us hope that Dr. Schmidt is right. Let us also hope that members of the U. S. Chamber itself have seen the dangers inherent in continued wage-price spirals which aggravate inflation. Thus far in 1957 most large corporations are reporting record profits and business in general is good. As a further restraint to inflation, perhaps some of those corporations will decide to give the consumers a break by lowering prices at the expense of ever-greater profits.

Perhaps, too, labor will become aware of the threat to its gains from continued rises in the cost of living and will forego some of its wage demands which help to cause them. Inflation is many-sided. All of us must realize that if unchecked it eventually would destroy the economy. That is why everyone — businessmen, wage earners and the consuming public — must use common sense and restraint to contain it.

Demonstration Of U.S. Might

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON The current reorganization and regrouping of American military, naval and air forces throughout the world, especially in the Far Pacific, results from top secret decisions made at the recent three-day conference of leading Army, Navy and Air Marine Base. Now it can be told without violating security regulations.

It was decided there that the United States would stage such a worldwide demonstration of strength and readiness that it would disabuse both Russian and Chinese Communists of any thought of offensive action against the most exposed outposts of the free world.

The danger spots pin-pointed were South Korea, Formosa, Southeast Asia and the Middle East. Besides arranging to place all our Pacific forces under the single command of Admiral Felix B. Stump, and to rearm South Korea units with modern weapons, it was decided to strengthen the Seventh Fleet off Formosa and the Sixth Fleet, now patrolling Eastern Mediterranean waters.

Russia, China and their satellites are now lined completely by the most powerful and awe-inspiring land, water, air and atomic armadas.

GRÖMYKO'S COMPLAINT

Only a few weeks ago, Andrei Gromyko, Deputy Foreign Minister, called a special press conference—the first of its kind in several years—to complain bitterly against this encirclement. He referred specifically to General Lauris Norstad's testimony before a Congressional Committee that his NATO American and Allied forces could devastate Russia with atomic bombardments.

The Kremlin and Mao Tse-tung also protested the Quantic decision to rearm United Nations troops in South Korea with post-war jet planes, tanks, communications equipment, artillery, machine guns, rifles, etc. Still a third objection was made when he ordered the Sixth Fleet to the Middle East, to gesture against Communist-Egyptian attacks on King Hussein in Jordan.

MOSCOW, PEIPING MAY PROTEST In view of Moscow's demonstrated concern over this closing of the ring, it is expected that the Kremlin and Mao will protest against the build-up of our Far Pacific defenses under Admiral Stump. They cannot blink the fact that Stump will command almost 2,000,000 American and Allied sailors, soldiers and airmen from the Aleutians to Australia.

Finally, the Pentagon has just assigned one of its most expert submarine strategists to command of the Western Naval District, which extends from the Pacific Coast to the Rockies. Far is Vice Admiral George Russell of Chevy Chase, Md., and Middleburg, Va. The Russians recently dispatched several subs through the Suez Canal for reinforcement of their flotilla based on Vladivostok.

Designed to influence London talks despite Gromyko's jibes, this worldwide mobilization has its peaceful aspects. Besides being planned as a war preventive, it is designed to influence the London disarmament talks.

This demonstration of strength and readiness, Washington hopes, may convince the Communists, including China, that it would be wise to show greater willingness to reduce both conventional and atomic forces and weapons.

Happy Just Living

By HAL BOYLE
NEAR MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Here lives a man who can whip inflation by the only possible way.

He doesn't buy much. He rarely spends in public. He lives by a personal standard above the changing dollar.

"This is no stunt with me," said Bert Garner, a tall, bent intellectual who at the age of 71 points out he can and does at times exist at the rate of 15 cents a day—or less.

He hand grinds corn and soybeans, puts in a little chocolate or powdered milk, and makes a meal of it and says he is satisfied. Bert can still climb 25 to 30 miles a day through the Great Smoky Mountains. "I prefer simple ways," he says.

To understand Bert you have to know him a bit. He doesn't fit any pigeonhole you know. He never will. If he found out he did, he would change.

Bert has studied at a number of universities across the country. He worked in all kinds of wandering jobs. He spent about a dozen years with the U.S. immigration people.

He lives now all alone in a woodland building of his choice. It is a two-room cabin he built 37 years ago. It is in the area where his ancestors arrived some 200 years ago—or nearly.

Bert is slender, white-haired, widely read, and cheerfully proud that his way of life isn't for the family man.

He has a major criticism of civilization as most of us know about it—and, on occasion, complain about it.

"They're in a rat race, trying to keep up with the Joneses. Sometimes I feel that it is a good thing some people work so hard.

"Our education system doesn't prepare people for the right kind of leisure. You can work, or you can live. I like to live."

Bert himself, who is interested in such momentous questions as the distribution of snakes in the 50-acre wilderness in which he built his cabin, also knows that to a disciple of nature and considered incidence there can be no spare time.

So long as a bud burgeons, a bloom flowers, he is alert to the changing moods of nature, which, if nature be not his god, yet often in petaled splendor and bright-winged farewell, is many times his consolation.

The woodchuck is his neighbor. At the moment seven skunks live under and out of his cabin.

"We get along fine," he said. "They come out at the whippoorwill's dusk, and go back at the whippoorwill's dawn. I tell people I live in Paradise. I do."

Bert has worked in New York and Philadelphia, studied on the West Coast. But either a greatness or weakness is his being as always brought him home to his woodland cabin near the hills of his birth. He figures he has held a job only 20 of his 71 years, and some of those 20 years were wasted.

In an era of creeping inflation the area of his desire enlarges none. He berries along the mountain trail red his palate and his path.

His home has no plumbing, no electric lights, no radio, no television, no telephone. His utility bill—two gallons of kerosene to light him lamps—is 38 cents a year.

"No man raising a family could live as I do," he said, and when asked why was the main virtue of his unusual way of life, he replied: "Freedom."

Bert says he has lived in depression times for as little as $15 a year, and today can live comfortably—the woods have their bright-free diet adventures—for $100 a year, and spend at least $40 of this amount on books, newspapers, and magazines. Outside of common sense, his major vice is reading.

"Many people don't know what to do with leisure or old age," said Bert.

"I have received life to its lowest common denominator. It doesn't cost much to live and think.

"If everyone lived like I do, civilization probably would go kerflooie.

"Well maybe it wouldn't be a bad idea to start it all over again from scratch!"

Withla Council Selects Moore To Pocahontas; Others Elected

Withla Council members of the Degree of Pocahontas held their semi-monthly meeting last night at the Woman's Club. Mrs. Minnie Bailey presided over the meeting. The officers were seated by the Guards by a march. After the American flag was presented and allegiance pledged, the Opening Ode was sung.

The following Great Chiefs were welcomed and recognized: Mrs. Martha Crummy, Great Pocahontas of North Carolina; Mrs. Faye Sawyer, Great Keeper of Records; Mrs. Gladys Crisp, Great Minne-laha of Washington, and Mrs. Lillian Catelet, Great Color Guard and a member of Winterville Council. They were escorted and seated to the right of the Pocahontas and made talks.

Other visitors included Mrs. Doris Caton of Ayden Council, Mrs. Nina Joyner of Farmville Council, Mrs. Pearl Robinson, Mrs. Ethel Lee Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Vincent of Winterville Council, and Mrs. Gladys Wynne, Past Great Pocahontas of North Carolina from Washington. "Resolutions of Respect" was sent to Mrs. Ora Mobley for the loss of her father.

Mrs. Jennie Stokes gave a report of the Auditing Committee.

Mrs. Laura Barrow of the recreation department has asked members of the Degree of Pocahontas and Redmen to dress in regalia and perform at one of the school grounds so that the children may learn more about Indians.

An invitation was read from Washington Council inviting the members to attend the Raising of Chiefs Friday night, July 12. A letter from Great Inchoonoe Carl Linke was read.

Retiring Pocahontas Minnie Bailey urged the officers to support the incoming Pocahontas in every way possible. She thanked her officers as she presented each with handkerchiefs.

Mrs. Lissie Harris, Past Council Deputy, assisted by Mrs. Bettie Nobles, Past Great Pocahontas of North Carolina, installed the following officers:

Rachel Moore, Pocahontas; Mrs. Minnie Bailey, Prophetess; Mrs. Maycie Culbreth, Wenonah; Mrs. Theima Vincent, Powhatan; Mrs. Bettie Nobles, Keeper of Records; Mrs. Carrie Jones, Collector of

Mrs. Rachel Moore . . . new Pocahontas . . .

Wampum; Mrs. Dora Boseman, Keeper of Wampum; Mrs. Bruce Hemby, 1st Scout; Mrs. Inez Barefoot, 2nd Scout; Mrs. Hildred Darden, 1st Warrior; Mrs. Pauline Ross, 2nd Warrior; Mrs. Ruby Brewer, 3rd Warrior; Mrs. Geneva Webb, 4th Warrior.

Other officers are: Mrs. Mildred Causey, 1st Runner; Miss Jeanette Bright, 2nd Runner; Mrs. Agnes Landing, 1st Councilor; Mrs. Lucy McGowan, 2nd Councilor; Mrs. Melba Manning, Guard of Honor; Miss Jean Bright, Guard of Forest; Miss Bessie Nobles, pianist; Mrs. Kathleen Woolard, reporter; Miss Jean Bright, trustee. Each officer was presented a mixed color gladioli corsage.

Pocahontas, Mrs. Moore, in her acceptance speech asked for support and cooperation to make her term of office successful.

Mrs. Minnie Bailey was presented a Past Pocahontas pin and certificate. Her officers presented her a piece of lingerie.

"Good of Order" was given by Mrs. Stella Joyce. The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer.

After the meeting adjourned, the members and visitors were served refreshments in the dining room by Mrs. Inez Barefoot, Mrs. Melba Manning and Miss Jeannette Bright.

The table held a lace cloth with an arrangement of yellow gladioli with yellow tapers. Mixed summer flowers were placed throughout the club house.

Go With Boys Enjoy Sports

AP Newsfeatures

Are you a hot house flower? If you are—it may hinder your popularity. That's the theory of some young girls who've noticed their dates are fewer than usual this year.

"The girls in our set who are popular," says one hothouse type, "are the ones who keep up with the boys—hiking, swimming, horse back riding, tennis, golf, badminton. It wasn't that way until recently."

You don't have to be a tomboy to be a good sport. The idea is to be vivacious, not boisterous. 'Tis true that some young moderns do not like to exercise.

Fear may present a problem, but it is not insurmountable. There are girls who are scared of the water and have never even tried to swim. A good teacher can change this. Local organizations and private clubs have swimming courses. A lifeguard is another good bet. He may be hired (or charmed) to teach you on his off time. Shy types could take lessons early in the morning or in the evening until they get up courage to go it with the crowds.

Laziness is no excuse for begging off from summer fun. A girl who doesn't like to stir herself or make small efforts in her own behalf may be suffering from malnutrition, a common affliction of teenage dieters. Undernourished types should increase calories until they wake up some morning with a yen to conquer those wide open spaces.

Languid types are definitely not popular this season. It may be true that a boy will invite you out for a nice relaxing sail, but he'll want you on deck if things get stormy. A girl who prefers to hover in an emergency is a dead pigeon for a future sailing date.

Your femininity doesn't need to be overshadowed if you pursue a sport. Tennis is a graceful game for a girl. Golf may be taken at your own pace, not with beads of perspiration dotting the brow. Horseback riding, the sport of queens, may be just the sport for a girl who is a nature lover.

Bicycling, too, is a delightful pastime. It gives a girl an opportunity to wear chic shorts, attractive blouses, trim shoes. It is fun for one or a group. The modern American bicycle may be loaded with all sorts of accessories to please the hot-rod crowd.

It's a good idea to remember if you meet a new beau and he is the outdoor type to make an effort to go along with him and enjoy the sport—fishing, shooting or whatever. If you give it a whirl and do not enjoy it, an understanding date will at least give you E for effort. But nobody loves a kill-joy.

Modern Homemakers Prefer Furniture With Traditional Styling, Contemporary Design

MODERN SETTLE . . . Made of maple with red cedar lining, this cedar chest and bench was copied from Colonial settle.

AP Newsfeatures

Homemakers who prefer furnishings with traditional roots are not disappointed in what designers are creating these days. Most contemporary furniture borrows from the past. It may be the silhouette, then again it may be a fabric pattern—or perhaps the unit as a whole will be a true reproduction of furniture long-since relegated to the antique world.

Among examples of this trend shown at the summer Furniture Market in Chicago is an exact reproduction of a 165-year-old cradle originally made in New York of cherry wood. It is recommended for use as a cradle (now that rocking the baby is back in style), planter or a wood box.

Lovers of the antique settle may spare themselves the trouble of rooting out antique shops and auctions. A combination cedar chest and bench, ideal for front hall or that certain spot in a colonial living room, is made of maple and cedar lined.

Sullivan And Allen Caught In Rat Race

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—This is to be a piece about Steve Allen and Ed Sullivan, but first I want to explain that I didn't catch much of their programs Sunday evening.

I was over at ABC-TV watching Gary Grant, Victor McLaglen and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. in a 1939 movie, "Gunga Din." I'd like to write a piece about it too, but there isn't much to say except that it has the jingle-jangle and bang-bang and hairbreadth Harry escapes that appeal to adolescent males of all ages.

While watching and listening to "Gunga Din" on one set I had the other set switching between Sullivan and Allen without the sound track on. Cutting my eyes to the silent set occasionally, I noticed something interesting.

Steve Allen and Ed Sullivan are two of the tiredst looking men I've seen in this hot summer. Both need long vacations. But reliable sources say that neither thinks he dares take a vacation for fear the other will capture the entire audience.

It's an unhappy state of affairs and it couldn't happen to two nicer guys. There have been many reports about their taking personal cracks at each other, but in talking with each of them at various times I've heard only pleasant things about the other.

In an excellent interview with Mike Wallace on ABC-TV Sunday, Allen demonstrated to my mind an interesting consistency. The opinions he expressed to Wallace were in general the same that he expressed to me in an interview several months ago: He's cool about this so-called war; he figures he can earn a living in many ways besides knocking himself out on a Sunday evening TV program.

Aside from being nice guys and looking tired, Allen and Sullivan have little in common temperamentally. Ornithologically speaking, Allen looks like a contented owl while Sullivan reminds you of a hungry jay fighting for a piece of suet. The analogy is deceptive in light of the facts, however: Allen has beaten Sullivan's rating only five times and so Sullivan should feel at ease. It shows how misleading a simile can be.

The big problem, as Allen hinted to Wallace, is to obtain guests who appeal to the widest possible audience. For it seems that a large segment of the viewing audience is conditioned to watching a variety show on Sunday evenings. There seems to be lots of room for two variety shows. There also is plenty of room for movies like "Gunga Din."

Hodges Avers Vehicle Top Film Producers Baffled By Public Inspections Will Help

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Motor vehicle inspection is a direct means of preventing accidents, Gov. Hodges said here last night.

The governor spoke at a banquet marking the beginning of the Cumberland County safety-check program. Hodges told the group that the need for motor vehicles inspection "is a matter of cold facts, and you in Cumberland County and Fayetteville are doing something about it."

The governor explained how motor vehicle inspections fits into the safety campaign picture. He said that "of the 49,240 reported traffic accidents that occurred in North Carolina last year, mechanical defects were reported in 11 per cent of these accidents." Of the 960 fatal accidents, in which 1,108 persons were killed, mechanical defects were noted in 12 per cent of the accidents.

Hodges declared, "It now takes multiple deaths in a motor vehicle collision to make the front page of most newspapers."

He noted the recent highway accident in Cumberland County in which more than 20 migrant farm workers were killed. He said, "While this ghastly event captured newspaper headlines for a day or two, the average reader tended to shake his head in dismay and say 'Too bad.' It was an 'accident.'"

"If these victims had died through other forms of violence," the governor added, "there would have been an immediate outcry for corrective action."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is reported planning to send several Army officers and technicians to Jordan to determine whether more military aid is needed.

King Hussein is understood to have made it known he would welcome some American weapons to strengthen the Jordan Legion in the face of continuing pressure from Egypt and Syria.

The U. S. government already made available 10 million dollars from military aid funds plus 20 million dollars in economic assistance.

Much of the money was expected to be used for salaries and expenses of Jordan officers and men. Limited weapons shipments are believed also required.

The Eisenhower administration, while anxious to support Hussein, will move cautiously in providing aid. Authorities do not want to rush matters lest it open Hussein up to extremists' charges that he is "selling out" to the American government.

Raps Restrictive Pentagon Order

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Moss (D-Calif.), head of a House Government Information subcommittee, today called "unrealistic" a Pentagon directive restricting information on the Air Force guided missile program.

Moss told a reporter the Air Force has a good case in trying to get the directive changed because, he said, it "appears to do more harm to the Air Force guided missile program" than it contributes to security.

Brig. Gen. Arno H. Luehman, director of the Air Force Office of Information Services, told the subcommittee yesterday that he believed progress on the missile program had reached the point "where maybe we ought to tell a little more about it."

Luehman said his office was concerned over what he called "erroneous impressions" that the Air Force is making little progress in its missile program, and was considering asking Air Force Secretary James H. Douglas to take the matter up with Secretary of Defense Wilson.

Luehman said the Air Force now operates under a memorandum from the office of Murray Snyder, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, which permits the Air Force to say only whether a test firing has occurred, whether there was an accident, and if so, whether there were casualties.

Moss said the subcommittee planned to call Snyder in later for questioning.

Nesting 'Gator Holds Up Funds

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—If the alligator eggs ever hatch, the "Penguins" fund can get back on a bookkeeping basis at Grandon Park Zoo.

Money was needed to build a penguin house. So an alligator named Junior was appointed treasurer, and 200 visitors were invited to toss coins into his pool. They did so, to the tune of $331.40 at last count.

The last count was two weeks ago, before Junior's mate laid a nestful of eggs. Since then, she won't let zookeepers in to pick up the contributions.

Snake Credited In Fatal Wreck

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—An Oklahoma City woman was killed last night in a car-pickup truck collision near here, and the highway patrol said a snake apparently caused the accident.

Killed was Mrs. Gladys Alberta Siemp, 37.

Trooper Cy Killian said he found a dead snake in the Siemp car. When she discovered it, she apparently lost control, he said.

Winners Announced In Saieed Store Contest

Raymond Barber of 209 E. Fourth St. was the winner of a four-piece bedroom suite first prize in Saieed's sales promotion contest.

Admits Robbing Wreck Victim

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Warren Young faces a larceny charge in Dade County today after police said he admitted taking $103 from the pocketbook of a woman injured in an auto wreck.

Mrs. Ronald Byerly, 20, was injured when her auto struck a tree last Friday. Her daughter Debbie, 7 weeks, was killed.

Investigator Richard Gladwell quoted Young as saying: "I was going to give it back, but I've been upset and haven't been sleeping at night. I just didn't get around to it."

Taxes Collected On Burned House

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—From now on, instructions are for the Coral Gables Fire Department to advise tax assessors when a house burns down.

City Clerk L. W. Robinson said the Fire Department was so advised after the City Council discovered that it owed Mrs. Amanda Gibson a $72.73 refund for taxes paid on a house which burned down in 1949.

There was no explanation as to why she paid the taxes.

American League Wins All-Star Game By 6-5 Score

Some Attribute Win To Breaks, Stengel Luck

By JOE REICHLER ST. LOUIS (AP)—Chicago's Minnie Minoso and Detroit's Jim Bunning and Al Kaline were stung today as the 1957 All-Star Game heroes...

Each side scored three times in the ninth inning. A fine throw and catch by Minoso preserved the American's second triumph in the last eight years and Stengel's second success in seven All-Star games...

The crowd of 30,693 witnessed splendid pitching by young Bunning, Baltimore's Billy Loes and Milwaukee's Lew Burdette, and fine fielding and timely hitting by Kaline and Minoso...

Why did National League Manager Walter Alton decide to let Milwaukee's Eddie Mathews swing away in the ninth inning? The potential tying runs were on second and first, and with nobody out, strategy cried for a bunt.

Why didn't Cincinnati's Gus Bell stop at second on Chicago Cub Ernie Banks' one-out run-scoring single in the ninth which cut the American's lead to 6-5? Bell tried to advance to third and was an easy out on Minoso's throw to Boston's Frank Malzone.

Why didn't Cincinnati's Frank Robinson, who had opened the National's fifth with a single, run to second on Mathews' apparent line drive hit to right field? Instead, Robinson retreated after going halfway and was thrown out at second by Kaline, who made a one-handed stab of the ball on the first bounce.

Alton, who used all but four of his 25 players, defended his own action and that of his players in a forthright manner. "I thought about having Mathews bunt," he said. "But Eddie has good power and is a left-handed pull hitter. With that short right field porch an inviting target I wanted to give him a chance to hit that long one for us."

Left-hander Don Mossi of Cleveland, summoned out of the bullpen to relieve Chicago's Billy Pierce, got Mathews on a called third strike. Banks followed with a single which would have tied the score had Eddie advanced the two runners.

"Had I known Eddie would strike out and Banks would hit that single," the skipper of the Brooklyn Dodgers said with a smile. "I would have had Mathews bunt."

Ironically, the best pitcher of the day was Bunning, whom Casey nominated to start only because Cleveland's Early Wynn, his original choice, had been used Sunday.

Bunning hurled three perfect innings, retiring nine batters in succession as Stengel's crew built up a 2-0 lead against Philadelphia's Curt Simmons.

Curt also kept the National League slugger from scoring during the next three innings while the American League's increased their lead to 3-0 in the sixth after Burdette had stopped them in the third, fourth and fifth.

It was while Wynn was on the mound that the National League first scored. Singles by New York's Willie Mays and Cincinnati's Ed Bailey and a pinch hit double by Bell reduced the AL's lead to 3-2 in the seventh.

Pierce halted the rally but he was shelled from the mound in the ninth after the American League had opened up a 6-2 margin with three ninth-inning runs—only one earned—against Clem Labine of Brooklyn. Kaline drove in two and scored the other.

A walk to Stan Musial, May's triple and a wild pitch produced two NL runs with nobody out. When pinch hitter Hank Foiles of Pittsburgh singled and Bell walked, Mossi took over and struck out Mathews.

And so the American League won its 14th game to 10 for the National League in All-Star competition.

Yankees, Cards Could Wrap Up Pennants At This Point

By ED WILKS

The season's half over and this could be it for the St. Louis Cardinals in that National League taffy pull, where everybody's been too busy trying to keep up to ever get ahead.

Manager Fred Hutchinson's Redbirds, the best road club in the league, are in position to take charge. They carry a five-game winning streak and a 2 1/2-game claim on first place against the sixth-place New York Giants tomorrow, opening a 13-game swing through the East.

Second-place Milwaukee opens its Eastern tour at Pittsburgh in the only game scheduled tonight. Tomorrow night, third-place Philadelphia, 3 1/2 games behind, is home to Chicago's last-place Cubs, with fourth-place Cincinnati, three percentage points back of the Phillies, at Brooklyn. The Brooks are five games behind in fifth—their first second division standing at the halfway point since 1948.

In the American League, the New York Yankees head into the West for 12 games with the idea of locking up the race for good. The Yanks, also 2 1/2 games ahead, open at Kansas City tomorrow night.

The second-place White Sox are home to Washington tomorrow night, with Baltimore at Cleveland in a two-night twin bill and Boston at Detroit for a day game.

Only the Cardinals and Milwaukee have won more than they've lost in the last month among the NL contenders. St. Louis was 20-10, the Braves 16-13, Philadelphia was 14-15, with Cincinnati in first place by a game a month ago—and Brooklyn both 13-16.

While only 20-2 at home after sweeping four from Cincinnati last weekend to grab first place from the Redlegs, the Cardinals are 26-11 on the road, with a 17-6 record in the East. Milwaukee and Cincinnati are only 13-10 in the Eastern parks.

Hi-Toms Rout Durham By Runaway 9-2 Score

CAROLINA LEAGUE By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A 21 mound battle suddenly turned into a runaway 9-2 victory last night as the Carolina League-leading Hi-Toms showed the young Durham Bulls a thing or two.

Durham righthander Phil Regan had a 2-1 lead going into the eighth inning in a pitchers battle with Jerry Kettle. Then the Hi-Toms got two runners on and scored twice when Durham shortstop Frank Kostro threw Ed Logan's double play grounder away at second. The Hi-Toms wound up with a third run and added five more in the ninth.

Kettle retired for a pinch hitter before the Hi-Toms forged ahead, and the decision went to Charlie Brown.

Meanwhile, Winston-Salem blanked Wilson 7-0 behind the six-hit pitching of Glenn Crabie. Home runs by Gene Oliver and Jack Trol featured Winston-Salem's 12-hit attack.

Greensboro put down a Danville uprising in the ninth to beat the Leafs, 4-2. Danville got two runners on via singles in the ninth, but relief pitcher Bill Lore struck out the following batter and got the next one to hit into a game-ending double play.

Fighters Seek Ratings Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Chebo Hernandez and Willie Vaughn, a couple of 24-year-old middleweights hoping to crash the boxing rating column of their division, meet tonight at Chicago Stadium.

Hernandez and Vaughn battled to two 10-round draws before Hernandez scored a two-round knockout over his opponent three years ago.

Since then, Vaughn, who fights out of Los Angeles, has gained a lot of experience. "He won't get a chance to land with a knockout punch this time," said Willie. "I've gained experience fighting Joey Giardello, Charlie Josephs and Bobby Boyd since we met the last time."

Vaughn takes a 33-14-4 record into the battle. Hernandez, who hails from Juarez, Mexico, has won 38, lost 12 and has had 4 draws. Twenty-five of his victories have been by knockouts. He has defeated Jorge Castro and stopped Len Duncan and Dick Kelly this year.

Vaughn, who banks more on boxing skill than power, was an early 8-5 favorite. GREENFIELD, Mass. (AP)—John Lenihan, 69, was struck by his own car yesterday. He had stopped at a soft drink stand on a highway and got out, when his car moved forward and pinned him against a building. Lenihan suffered internal and back injuries.

Seixas And Hard Triumphant In Western Tourney

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Top-seeded Vic Seixas and Darlene Hard, just returned from the Wimbledon all-England tournament, scored easy victories yesterday over their initial opponents in the Western Open tennis tournament.

Seixas, 33, seemed somewhat rusty when he started against Cuba's Manuel Garcia, but he warmed up and eliminated his opponent, 6-2, 6-3. The 21-year-old Montebello, Calif., girl ousted Milwaukee's Katie Meyer, 6-0, 6-1.

Second-seeded Karol Fageros, Miami, Fla., who arrived from England with Seixas and Miss Hard late Monday night, was unable to compete yesterday because her equipment trunk had been misplaced enroute. She was scheduled to begin competition this noon against unranked Barbara Mueller of Milwaukee.

The Miami girl and Miss Hard were picked as a team for the start of the doubles late this afternoon, while Seixas and Sammy Giammalva, the third-seeded entry from Houston, Tex., will pool their abilities in the start of the men's doubles.

Giammalva trounced Bob Pott-hast of Waukesha, Wis., 6-2, 6-3 yesterday. Second-seeded Bernard Bartzten of Dallas beat Dave Nelson of Chicago, 6-0, 6-2, while Barry MacKay, the fourth-seeded National collegiate singles champion from Michigan, whipped John Capell of Montgomery, Ala., 6-3, 6-1.

A casualty was eight-seeded Eddie Sledge of Dallas, who was banished by Dave Herum of St. Petersburg, Fla., 6-4, 6-4.

Mrs. Barbara Scofield Davidson of Milwaukee, a former Wimbledon competitor and No. 4 seed in the Western, lost by default to Susan Hodgeman of Kalamazoo, Mich. Mrs. Davidson was forced to retire with a pain in her side after the first game, won by Miss Hodgeman.

Bass Hurls No-Hit, No-Run, 3-0 Game

Randy Bass, hard-throwing State Bank righthander, turned in a no-hit, no-run ball game last night to down the College View Cleaners team, 3-0, at Guy Smith Stadium.

The victory boosted State Bank's mark to 4-1 and put an abrupt end to College View's three-game winning streak of late.

Bass struck out seven batters and walked only three in racking up his no-hitter. It marked the second time this season that a no-hitter has been pitched in Teen-er League play. Merrill Bynum of the Home Builders did that trick earlier this season against State Bank but still wound up the loser.

Bass himself was the leading hitter in the game, as well as the top pitcher. He slammed out three singles for four trips to the plate and also scored two of his club's three runs for the night.

Opposing hurler Malcolm Griffith was rapped for eight hits by State Bank. Conway, Harrison, McArthur and Fountain got the other baseknocks for the winners. College View . . . 000 000 0-0 0 5 State Bank . . . 100 020 0-3 8 2

ECC Ace To Be Working Against 15 Top Players

By BILLY ARNOLD Reflector Sports Editor ROBERSONVILLE (AP)—Eastern North Carolina's most outstanding tennis performers will gather together Friday, Saturday, and Sunday of this week for the Second Annual Robersonville Invitational Tennis Tourney here.

Maurice Everette, representing the Robersonville Tennis Club, is the defending champion and will be on hand to battle all comers for the second straight season. Everette, a rising senior at East Carolina College, has been the North State Conference Singles King for the past two years and the Number One man on the ECC Conference Championship club.

Tournament Chairman Bob Lee announced this morning that play will be on the Robersonville net courts.

Thus far, a total of 16 entrants have registered for the matches, including some of the top tennis talent in this area of North Carolina.

Everette, the defending champ, is top-seeded. Holding second place in the seedings, is Joe Burk of Enfield. Third is Walter Conner of Rich Square. Fourth is Walter Burgess of Robersonville.

Pairings for Friday, July 12, are as follows: 1:00—M. Everette (Robersonville) vs. J. Dunn (Ayden), Burk (Enfield) vs. Edwards (Ayden). 2:00—Conner (Rich Square) vs. K. Dunn (Ayden), Burgess (Robersonville) vs. Little (Ayden). 3:00—Norfleet (Roxobel) vs. Murch (Robersonville), Abeyounis (Bethel) vs. Burk (Enfield). 4:00—Chalker (Georgia) vs. Wilson (Robersonville), Browning (Rich Square) vs. N. Money For Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Brown (R-Ohio) says it wasn't cricket to spend American tax-payers money to send former major league pitcher Lou Brissie to Australia to teach baseball.

The State Department, which authorized Brissie's trip, said the mission was made to Australia as a result of requests from that country for help in learning to play baseball.

Brissie, in Greenville, S.C., yesterday, said, "I don't presume to speak for the State Department but in my personal opinion, the trip was justified."

"If Mr. Brown doesn't think it was right, I would be happy to correspond with him on it. I would be happy to sit down and tell him what I did every minute of the trip," he said. In criticizing Brissie's mission, Rep. Brown had contended that cricket, not baseball, was Australia's national game.

Hopes 'Temporary' Reaction In Shakeup

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said today that Russia's suddenly stiffened attitude against a disarmament agreement may be only "a temporary reaction" from the Moscow shakeup.

He said a State Department expert will be questioned tomorrow by the Senate Disarmament subcommittee heads "on this and other developments in the London negotiations."

Humphrey, who receives secret State Department reports on the disarmament negotiations, told a reporter: "I personally believe the shakeup in the Soviet Union will not worsen chances for at least a limited disarmament agreement and might conceivably improve them."

Humphrey's stand, which he described as "cautiously optimistic," echoed somewhat similar sentiments expressed in London after a second look at Soviet negotiator Valerian Zorin's reply to a U.S. proposal for a 10-month ban on nuclear weapons tests.

Zorin called some parts of the U.S. plan "fictitious," and others "a waste of time."

Democratic Fund Drives Fail To Swell Treasury

WASHINGTON (AP)—Four Democratic fund-raising drives this year have brought in "barely enough" to pay for normal operations of the party's national committee, Chairman Paul M. Butler said today.

Butler said in an interview, however, that he expects drives in the last four months of the year to bring in enough to meet weekly payrolls.

A special plan will have to be devised to reduce the committee's two-month-old deficit of $660,000, he said.

Committee Treasurer Matthew McCloskey is considering two proposals: (1) ask 6,500 Democrats to give $100 each; or (2) ask 650 Democrats to guarantee to raise $1,000 each.

"We are not discouraged," Butler said. "Although from time to time we are worried about meeting our payroll, we somehow have managed to do it. Now we are trying to get a little ahead to pay our creditors."

Butler said the committee expects to announce this week appointment of a deputy chairman for political organization and later the selection of six regional representatives to work toward the same end. All will be permanent, paid officials.

Two more fund-raising projects are coming up, one a new one called a "sustaining membership" drive. Democrats will be asked to contribute on a regular annual, semiannual or monthly basis, for which they will receive a party membership card and a year's subscription to the party's magazine, Democratic Digest.

The other drive, set for Oct. 11-12, is called "Dollars for Democrats." Party workers will make door-to-door solicitations for small donations.

Russians Insist Again On Unconditional Test Halt

LONDON (AP)—The Russians insisted again last night on unconditional suspension of nuclear weapons tests for at least two years as the first step toward a disarmament agreement.

Moscow radio reiterated the demand in a broadcast supporting the stand of Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin in the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee sessions being held here.

A Moscow commentator said: "A thread has been found that might get the whole tag (over disarmament) put right. I mean the Soviet proposal on a stop to nuclear weapons tests."

The West has insisted that a ban on nuclear weapons tests must be accompanied by an effective inspection and control plan and a halt to the manufacture of fissionable materials for military use. The United States has suggested halting H-bomb tests for 10 months, provided those conditions are met.

The Moscow broadcast said the drafting of a control system would be "pointless... without acceptance by the powers of an undertaking to stop nuclear tests."

Claims Resolution Threatens Security

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. said today the Bow resolution to end foreign trials of GIs "threatens the very security of the United States and the free world."

There were reports, meanwhile, that Democratic chiefs who earlier had approved quick House consideration of the measure by Rep. Bow (R-Ohio) are now calling for a slower approach. They originally wanted to get it out of the way so it wouldn't be attached as an amendment to the foreign aid bill.

The House Rules Committee, which can clear a bill for fast House action or delay it, arranged after postponing a similar hearing set for yesterday.

The resolution would order the President to seek revision or denounce the status-of-forces agreements, so as to allow U.S. jurisdiction over all offenses committed by GIs overseas. Bow says a serviceman sent abroad should not be deprived of his constitutional rights.

Under the status-of-forces agreements, countries in which U.S. troops are stationed are recognized as having authority to try them for some offenses, usually those committed off duty.

Martin's reference to a threat to security was based on the administration contention that denunciation of the status-of-forces agreements would cause other countries to end their agreements for the stationing of American troops on their soil.

The House Republican leader, who discussed the subject with President Eisenhower yesterday, described the chief executive as "strongly opposed" to the resolution.

There has been heavy congressional sentiment for the measure in the furor over the case of Army Specialist 3C William S. Girard, charged with the fatal shooting of a Japanese woman scavenger on the Army firing range in Japan.

Plans Row Boat Around Superior

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP)—A retired New York engineer has left here in a specially equipped boat which he plans to row around the 2,400-mile Lake Superior shoreline.

Michael G. Corson said he was making the long row to "show the world that a 71-year-old man with a good mind and strong body should not be tossed on the scrap heap."

Corson's craft carries a geiger counter, barometer, microscopes and other scientific apparatus with which he plans to check formations along the lake shore for valuable minerals.

Directors Appointed For 2 New State Hospitals

RALEIGH (AP)—Appointment of directors of training and education for two new training schools for the feeble-minded were approved yesterday by the State Hospitals Board of Control.

William Waters, principal of the academic school at the Caswell Training School, will serve as director of training, and education for the training school under construction at Goldsboro. Hal Goode, connected with the Charlotte public schools, will have a similar directorship in the school being built at Butler.

The board hopes to have the Goldsboro school in operation within the next few months and the Butler school in operation by the end of the year, according to Dr. James W. Murdock, superintendent of the state hospitals system.

Facilities under construction at 40 miles south of Mexico City. It is sometimes moderately active, but has not erupted to a damaging extent since 1540.

Car Repair Job Is All Mixed Up

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—Wakefield Wilkerson took his automobile (Car No. 1) to a company for repairs. The company loaned him another vehicle (Car No. 2) to drive in the meantime.

Then Wilkerson, in Car 2, stopped at another place of business and left the key in the ignition. When he came out Car 2 was gone but across the street sat another car No. 3 of similar appearance.

Seems a complete motor overhaul had been ordered for Car 3 but a mechanic picked up Car 2.

When the mixup was unmixed, Car 1 was getting its repairs, Car 2's motor was out and torn down, and Car 3 still needed a motor overhaul.

By VERN HAUGLAND
 PORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The Air Force unveiled its first super-sonic atom bomber, the Convair B-58 Hustler, today. The plane's top speed remained a secret.

It's a surprisingly small needle-nose, delta-wing craft with four powerful jet engines. It carries a crew of three. The length is 95 feet and wing span 55 feet.

"As of right now the B-58 is the fastest jet bomber in the world," said Lt. Gen. C. S. Irvine, Air Force deputy chief of staff for materiel.

"The Hustler represents one of the most significant forward steps in the history of military aviation — and through it we are made aware of some mighty possibilities."

Frank W. Davis, chief engineer at Fort Worth for Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp., put it this way: "The magnitude of advance in the B-58 is best emphasized by the fact that it provides a greater increment in top speed advantage over the latest operational B-52 than that bomber provided over the Wright brothers airplane."

Since the newest operational jet bomber, the eight-engine Boeing B-52, flies a good 600 miles an hour faster than the Wright airplane of half a century ago, Davis' remark would indicate that the B-58 hurtles along at more than 1,200 miles an hour or close to twice the speed of sound.

At that speed only about three U.S. fighters could keep up with the B-58 — the Lockheed F104, Mc-Donnell F101 and Chance Vought F8U.

Perhaps the most unusual feature of the B-58, in outward appearance, is the long, slim, disposable "pod" — a tank streamlined to a point at each end — suspended underneath the airplane.

August C. Eisenhart, Convair vice president and manager of the Fort Worth plant, said the pod could be a devastating bomb, a battery of cameras or electronic countermeasures, equipment to nullify enemy detection radar.

"The large pod under the plane allows the B-58 to return home clean without the waste volume contained in an empty bomb bay and without the waste weight and volume contained in an empty fuel tank," Davis explained.

Strategy Holds Key To Survival Of Hells Canyon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Survival of Hells Canyon Dam legislation — symbol of a great political and power fight — depended today on parliamentary strategy.

House Interior Committee Democrats, anxious to get a Senate-passed bill through the House, planned to pit strategy against voting strength in an effort to keep alive chances for a big federal dam in the Snake River at the Idaho-Oregon border.

Republicans, counting on help from two Southern Democrats, claimed enough strength to kill the authorization legislation.

The proposed federal project would flood the sites of three smaller dams being built by the Idaho Power Co. with the Eisenhower administration's blessing.

Aware that the value of Hells Canyon as a political weapon will fade if the Democratic-controlled Congress does not submit a bill for it almost certain presidential veto, the Democrats were pinning their hopes on these possibilities:

1. A boycott to prevent any committee action today, which would require the absence of 16 of the committee's 31 members and result in the lack of the necessary quorum.
2. Persuasion of Representatives Haley (D-Fla.) and Shuford (D-NC) to go along with the Democratic majority on a "procedural" motion to defer immediate consideration of Hells Canyon bills. This would give proponents a chance to try some votes.

Democrats outnumber Republicans on the committee 17-14. However, Haley and Shuford voted with 13 Republicans on an Interior subcommittee motion last week. The subcommittee voted 15-12 to strike the enacting clause from a Hells Canyon bill sponsored by Rep. Post (D-Idaho) and refer the measure to the full committee. The Senate-passed bill, similar to Mrs. Frost's measure, has not yet been acted on by either the full committee or the subcommittee.

Regular Voter Becomes Citizen

CHICAGO (AP) — William C. Marchant, 35, who cast his first ballot in a presidential election for William Jennings Bryan in 1896, became a United States citizen yesterday.

Marchant, it was disclosed, voted in many other elections until 1940, when he learned he was not a citizen. He had believed that service in the Illinois National Guard from 1890 to 1893 made him a citizen.

His parents had brought him to Chicago from London as a child in 1879 but his father neglected to have the family naturalized.

Fire Department Disturbs Reader

PATERSON, N. J. (AP) — A tenant burning the midnight oil in his apartment was rudely awakened by the arrival of three fire engines and a hook and ladder truck.

The tenant, Cristno Cepeda, told firemen he was reading by candlelight near the window. A passer-by had called the fire department to report a "blaze" in the Cepeda apartment.

WAYNE D. OVERHOLSER

CHAPTER 33

Ordinarily Delaney would have locked the store and gone home hours ago, but he was still there when I reached town, proof that he was anxious to make any kind of sale and get out of the valley. I stomped snow from my boots before I went in.

He had scrawled the words of a simple agreement stating that I would buy his store and house for $3,000, possession to be given and payment to be made within ten days. I signed it and handed it back.

"Got another copy, Will," he said. "One for both of us."

I signed it, too, and folded it and slipped it into my pocket, thinking gloomily that I had been a fool, that after the beating Mathers had taken he would leave the valley, leaving me with a store on my hands.

At the sound of a shot I alerted. For a moment I wasn't sure where it came from, but Delaney seemed to know. He said smugly: "I hope they plug each other."

I grabbed his fat shoulder and shook him. "Who are you talking about?"

"Dillingham and Kathy Moran."

I went out of the store on the run, untied my horse, and swung into the saddle. This was the finish. I don't know why I was so sure. Just a feeling, maybe. But it made sense. Dillingham and Turner had been working on this scheme all summer. Now Turner was dead and his friends had been cleaned off Box P range. Dillingham would be wild, but he should be after me, not Kathy.

When I reached her house I saw that the front door was open, lamp-light blurred by the whirling snow. I ran to the house, and when I made the step up to the porch I saw Kathy lying in the center of her front room.

I went in, slamming the door, and knelt beside her. She was alive, her pulse strong and regular. Blood had trickled down her forehead and dried, making a brown stain above her left eye. It wasn't a bullet wound; she'd been knocked out by a blow.

I carried her to the couch. She was beginning to stir. When I turned toward the kitchen door, I became aware of the shambles the house had become. Dillingham had taken an ax and smashed holes in the floor and the wall. Chairs were upended, drawers jerked out and emptied. The upholstery on the back of the couch had been ripped by a knife.

I found a dishcloth in the kitchen and wet it at the pump. The same thing had happened there. Even the pantry had been emptied: supplies and broken dishes were scattered all over the kitchen floor. I returned to the front room, where, sitting down beside Kathy, I began to wipe her face, all the while trying to figure out what had hit Dillingham. He was a bully who probably got pleasure out of sheer destruction, but why at Kathy's?

She came out of it within a minute or so.

"Did he hit you with a gun barrel?" I asked her.

"Yes, I tried to kill him but I missed. Before I could shoot again, he cracked me. That's all I remember." She licked her lips and felt her head. "Get me a drink, Will. There's a bottle in the pantry if he didn't take it."

I found it, and a cup that wasn't broken, went back into the front room, and poured her a drink. She sat up long enough to get it down, then fell back, clutching the top of her head.

"What was he after, Kathy?"

She opened her eyes to look at me, her right hand still holding her head. "You don't know, do you, Will? You really don't know. That Dillingham. You can fight something that's in the open, can't you? Like Turner and his club-busters. You cleaned 'em off Box P range sicker'n a whistle, but you didn't know you'd turn Dillingham into a wild man. You don't savvy anybody who waits, and waits, do you? Me and Dillingham were good waiters, for a while. I wanted him to wait some more, but he wouldn't. Had to rob me, and get out, but I'll get him. I'll get him if I chase him to the end of the earth!"

"What was he after, Kathy?" I asked again.

"Money. What else would make him do a thing like this?" She swore for a full minute. "I had better a $4,000 laid away. Didn't know then what I was saving for, but I knew after Joe cashed in. He was gonna leave me all his money, and what'd I get. A thousand dollars!"

She sat up, cursing again as pain racked her. Even after what had happened tonight, she seemed to hate Sarah far more than she hated Gene Dillingham. She jabbed a forefinger at me.

"You can buy respectability. That's what I was saving for. Had the money right here in the house, and Gene knew it. After you killed Turner, he was bound to pull out of the valley. Wanted me to go with him, but I wouldn't. I was going to stay here and bust your widow friend. I'd have hired some gunslungers to do the job — not plow pushers like Secore and Troy and Runyan. We aimed to get you, Will, you and Thurston and the King kid. Run off her cattle. White her down till she'd be glad to sell. I was going to buy the Box P, and then I'd live up there in the house where Joe lived and I'd lord it over the valley just like they used to when Joe was alive."

She shut her eyes again. I sat there staring at her, thinking that the last time I had seen her I had sensed she was evil; but I hadn't realized how virulent her hatred for Sarah was, how much she had changed in the year since Joe was killed.

I rose. Whatever sympathy I'd had for her in the past was gone. She'd leave the valley. I'd see to it that she did.

She went on. "Gene hunted till he found the money. That's when I tried to kill him. We figured it out a long time ago. I was gonna buy the Box P and he was gonna run it for me, and people'd look up to us just like they used to. Now he'll kill her and he'll go 'way with my money."

I grabbed Kathy by both shoulders and shook her until she cursed me and put her hand to her head again. I yelled: "Where's Dillingham? Did he go to the Box P?"

"Sure he went to the Box P, n' you're too late to stop him. He'll kill her 'n' then he'll kill you. Think he'll forget she made you former 'stead of him? Not Gene. No, sir."

I didn't wait to hear any more. I ran across the snow-covered yard and swung into the saddle once more, the wind still blasting across the valley, fat snowflakes pelting me as I put my tired horse up the road to the Box P. Kathy Morgan's words were going through my mind in an endless burning refrain: "Sure he went to the Box P, and you're too late to stop him." She could have told me that at first, but instead she'd talked, holding me there so that Dillingham would have more time.

Something inside kept telling me to ride, ride. All I knew was that it was cold and that it was an effort to stay in the saddle.

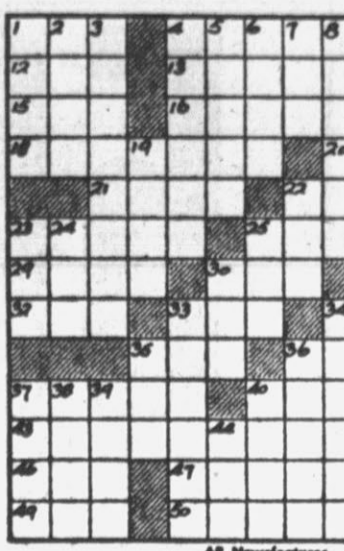

My horse stopped. Instinct made me dismount. I knew I could not stand there motionless, so I began stirring around and waving my arms, and a moment later I stumbled into the corral gate.

The bunkhouse windows were dark, and when I opened the door the room seemed as cold as the driving snow outside.

I went toward the house, guided by a faint glow of light that was hardly anything at all when I first saw it, so hard was it snowing. But it was enough, and I was fully aware of what lay ahead. I must kill Gene Dillingham or he would kill me. The waiting was over, and yet, knowing that I made a stupid mistake for which there was no excuse...

Optimists Undeterred By Metal Industries' Slump

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Dull days in the metal industries aren't fazing the optimists.

They predict today that steel should see a marked revival this month. The battered copper industry talks of getting supply and demand back on speaking terms before the summer is gone. Only in the zinc and lead industries do the optimists look wistfully to a much later date.

Steel's problems are mostly domestic. Copper's plight is a worldwide one with U.S. producers caught in a bind. Lead and zinc men feel their current troubles are due to government action, or lack of it.

In all the industries there is growing belief that their customers are about to come to the rescue.

A return to conspicuous health in the metal industries would boost confidence throughout the economy.

Steel men report that orders are picking up, chiefly from auto and the appliance makers.

Steel's plight isn't very severe any way, and its distribution among the various companies is notably irregular. Some are still producing near capacity while others are far below that.

Those who make large structural shapes, heavy plates, oil pipes mostly have full order books.

Makers of sheet steel have been the worst hit by the recent let-down. And they are the ones who today are reporting the most heartening news.

Customer resistance to the new higher prices hasn't shown up yet.

partly perhaps because many of the users haven't been ordering ahead during the days they are closing up shop for mass vacations. It may be fall before steel users test out their ability to pass along part or all of the new costs in the form of higher prices on consumer goods.

Copper's plight is different. Its worst phases are worldwide. It seems to stem from two things: (1) the price was forced up so high (45 cents a pound) that when possible users of copper turned to substitutes; and (2) production around the world was speeded up.

The result was a growing supply and a shrinking demand. When supply topped demand the price began skidding. But supply kept piling up. With the price here now around 29 cents, efforts are being made to bring world output into line. Some of the British companies are cutting back in Africa. Some of the U.S. companies have trimmed output a bit, mainly by cutting back to a five-day week.

Reports from Chile tell of talk of cutting production there by 10 per cent in the American-owned mines.

Belmont Native Prepares To Try Channel Swim

BELMONT, N.C. (AP)—Reggie Huffstetter, 23-year-old Belmont fireman and endurance swimmer, made today a world-wide announcement that his pupil will train in England for about three weeks before trying the Channel, about a 19-mile swim in rough water at its narrowest point.

Both men have obtained leaves of absence from their firemen's duties.

Two weeks ago Huffstetter swam about 14 1/2 miles in the Catawba River from the Buster Boyd Bridge on the state line to the Wilkinson Boulevard Bridge near here. It took him 15 1/2 hours, and en route he was sick four times.

Heaffer said the Channel attempt will be strictly an endurance test and that Huffstetter will not try to set any speed record.

The name of the Dominican Republic, in the West Indies, is evolved from Saint Dominic, patron saint of the father of Columbus.

Prophet Warns He's On The Way

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A self-styled barefoot prophet from South Africa notified the Little Rock City Council that he will show up at City Hall the night of Nov. 4.

Daniel du Toit, in a letter mailed from Dover, England, said he has walked 24,000 miles in sackcloth and bare feet to preach salvation.

He added that in the past five years he has lived without "a single penny money." The city clerk's office paid 6 cents due on the letter.

"You can buy respectability. That's what I was saving for. Had the money right here in the house, and Gene knew it. After you killed Turner, he was bound to pull out of the valley. Wanted me to go with him, but I wouldn't. I was going to stay here and bust your widow friend. I'd have hired some gunslungers to do the job — not plow pushers like Secore and Troy and Runyan. We aimed to get you, Will, you and Thurston and the King kid. Run off her cattle. White her down till she'd be glad to sell. I was going to buy the Box P, and then I'd live up there in

"Dillingham stood as motionless as if he and the gun were carved out of granite. I did the only thing I could—" Continue Will Beeson's story tomorrow.

GOOD TURN FATAL
WINNEMUCCA, Nev. (AP)—Edward L. Ralston, 70, Redding, Calif., dropped dead as he was changing a flat tire on his car. Authorities said he apparently suffered a heart attack. Ralston was changing the tire because his companion, William Ferguson, 71, suffers from heart trouble.

DUET FOR STRINGS OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) When George and Shirley Woodall got married and set up housekeeping, they faced more than the normal amount of problems.

Both play the bass fiddle. They had to move out all the furniture so they could rehearse together.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK (NCA)— Chemicals, some oils and selected issues advanced early this afternoon as the stock market remained irregular although with a tendency to the upside.

Key stocks fluctuated from fractions to a point in fairly active trading. Lukens Steel was delayed an hour in opening as a large volume of sell orders accumulated on apparent disappointment over the firm's failure to do more than declare an 80 cent extra dividend and its regular quarterly. The stock went down sharply but recovered part of its loss.

Lukens was down 9/16 at 108 on its opening block of 11,000 shares but clipped 2 points off its loss in later dealings.

Olin - Mathieson backed away somewhat from an early 1-point gain on its announcement that it was opening the first plant producing a new high - energy aviation fuel. U.S. Borax, producer of boron, on which the new fuel is based, expanded its initial gain of 2 points to around 4. It was boosted also by rumors of an impending merger with a big chemical firm.

Monsanto was up around a point and in active demand. American Cyanamid also was a 1-point gainer. Union Carbide, Allied Chemical and Dow were other chemicals on the upside.

List Industries was off 1/4 at 94 on a block of 10,000 shares but later moved fractionally to the upside. Getty Oil rose around a point. Standard Oil of Indiana eased following news of its plans for a multi-million dollar expansion.

Johnson & Johnson raced ahead more than 4. International Nickel dropped about 2 as its decline continued.

Losers included United Aircraft, Youngstown Sheet, Anaconda, Southern Pacific and Good-year. International Telephone advanced more than a point in brisk turnover. Kennecott, U.S. Steel, Chrysler, General Electric, U.S. Gypsum and Johns-Manville rose.

Israeli, Syrian Forces In Clash

JERUSALEM (AP)— Truce officials pressed an investigation today into a 10-hour border clash between Israeli and Syrian forces which finally halted after the U.N. had put out four cease-fire calls.

Israeli sources said a shepherd was killed and seven Israeli police wounded in the exchange of rifle, machine-gun and mortar fire. A Syrian army spokesman in Damascus said two Arab women and two children were wounded.

U.S. Marine Col. Byron W. Leary, acting U.N. truce chief, hastened to Damascus for talks with Syrian officials.

Leary, who put out the repeated cease-fire orders, conferred with Walter Eytan, Israeli Foreign Ministry director general, shortly after the shooting stopped at 10:45 p.m.

The Foreign Office said Eytan "expressed the Israel government's serious concern regarding the recent chain of Syrian attacks which were climaxed today."

Israel and Syria blamed each other for starting the latest skirmish and for ignoring the cease-fires.

Israel accused Syrian forces of opening fire on the Godot settlement and on Israeli vehicles traveling north to the Sea of Galilee.

A Syrian spokesman in Damascus charged an Israeli force "supported by armored vehicles attacked a Syrian outpost."

Stole Dad's Car, Goes To Prison

DURHAM (AP)— Stanley Wilson Critcher, 16, of Durham, today began serving a prison sentence of three to five years for stealing his father's car.

The stoutly-built youth, already under three-year probation in a charge of storebreaking and larceny, pleaded guilty yesterday in Superior Court to taking his father's car June 27 and driving to Manning, S.C.

Detective T. A. Hicks told Judge Clifton L. Moore that the youth's family told him they "had done everything they could to straighten him out" and that "maybe he needs to be taught a lesson."

Report Rain For Crops Is Needed

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's crops need more rain.

This was pointed out yesterday in a crop summary by the North Carolina Crop Reporting Service. The agency said crops were in good condition last week but were in need of rain.

The drought-stricken northeastern part of the state continues to be "very dry," the report showed.

Good progress was made last week in the cultivation and harvest of crops. Corn and tobacco are practically "laid by" in the Coastal Plain section, where harvest of small grain has been virtually completed.

Library Project Hinges On Vote

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—Voters in Gaston County will decide Saturday whether a five-cent tax is to be imposed for the construction of five branch libraries in five Gaston towns.

If the issue is approved, $250,000 will be spent on branch libraries in Belmont, Bessemer City, Mount Holly, Dallas and Cherryville. In addition, the central library building in Gastonia will be expanded.

A North Carolina Supreme Court decision brought about the election. It ruled that ad valorem tax money cannot be used for the support of libraries without the authority of the people.

Graveside Rites For Infant Daughter

Wanda Kay Rawls, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alonza Rawls of Robersonville, died Tuesday afternoon at six o'clock.

Graveside services were held at the Robersonville Cemetery Wednesday at 2 p.m. by Rev. Sam Whichard, pastor of Robersonville Pentecostal Holiness Church. Surviving are her parents; the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ben Rawls, and the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Lee, all of Beargrass.

Local Man Invited To Be Guest At Reunion

Sherman C. Parks of Greenville, has been invited to be a guest of honor at a reunion of his wartime comrades in Philadelphia July 18-20.

The invitation reads as follows: "The organization sponsoring the meeting, of which Parks was a member, is Company K, 109th Infantry, a unit which was cited for its action in Normandy, Belgium, the Hurtgen Forest, its successful, but costly smash into the Siegfried Line at Senger's, its tenacious holding tactics during the Battle of the Bulge, when it was almost completely decimated, and its drive through the snow-banked Vosges Mountains into Colmar, France, where, along with another company of the same regiment, it broke the German defenses and was the first company to enter the city which it liberated in the name of the First French Army."

"Parks was one of only three survivors of all of the company's campaigns—the rest being either killed, captured or seriously wounded. Parks, who was many times commended for his gallantry and devotion to duty, attained one of the army's most remarkable records in his rapid promotions due to his exemplary conduct under fire and his outstanding qualities of leadership."

Parks was inducted into the Army at Fort Bragg in 1943. He was promoted from private first class to master sergeant and served 23 months with Company K, 15 months of the time as master sergeant. He was offered a field promotion to second lieutenant but declined it. He was mustered out of the service in 1945 and resumed his position as manager of Rem-freew Printing Company in Greenville.

Parks was a member of the N. C. State Guard before World War II and the National Guard after the war. Currently, he is chief warrant officer of the 3015th Reception Station, Greenville, U. S. Army Reserve.

He plans to attend the reunion in Philadelphia.

Field Meetings Slated Thursday

Four tobacco demonstration field meetings will be held Thursday at various points in the eastern section allowing growers to observe varieties of tobacco.

The field meetings are being conducted by the Coker Pedigreed Seed Co.

Farmers attending will observe both old and new varieties of tobacco including new disease resistant experimental lines of seed which the seed firm is considering offering for planting next season.

Dr. C. H. Rogers, who is in charge of the tobacco breeding work, will be present to discuss the tobacco breeding program and the characteristics of the new lines which are being considered for release.

The meetings are to be held in the following locations: 9:30 a.m., Grady Farm, Wayne County near Seven Springs, located one-half mile west of N. C. 111 and N. C. 55 crossroads; 11:30 a.m., Pete Byrd farm one-half mile west of Bullock's School which is three miles south of Bailey.

12:30 p.m., lunch will be served on Bullock's School grounds near Byrd farm; 2 p.m., J. W. Bone farm, at Sandy's Crossroads one mile north of Bone's store and five miles south of Nashville on N. C. 58; 4 p.m., Bennie Ray Gup-ton farm one mile east of Center-ville on N. C. 561.

For best flavor, milk should be cooled promptly after milking.
