Ship On Fire At Sea, 56 Aboard Rescued

The Swedish motorship La Plata lists badly and burns amidships off the coast of central Brazil. All 56 persons aboard were rescued by passing ships. The vessel was bound from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, from Stockholm, Sweden, with a cargo of newsprint. Fire broke out aboard the ship Sunday. Supreme Court Says Serviceman Girard May Be Tried By Japan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today authorized U. S. authorities to turn over GI William S. Girard to Japan for trial. Chief Justice Warren read the high tribunal's unsigned per curiam—for the court-opinion. At the end of the opinion, the court said: "There is every reason to believe that trial of U. S. Army Specialist 3C. William S. Girard in the Japanese courts will be conducted with the utmost fairness." The decision was a major victory for the administration, which has contended that refusal to turn Girard over to the Japanese would be a grave threat to America's security. The administration argument was that if the agreement under which Americans overseas may be tried by foreign courts for off-duty acts were canceled, U. S. forces would have to come home. The decision was a setback for forces in Congress which contend the U. S. Constitution covers GIs overseas and they must have its full protection. "United States troops are stationed in many countries as part of our own national defense and to help strengthen the free world struggle against communist imperialism," the opinion today said. "The matter of jurisdiction in cases of offenses against the laws of host countries, whether by our servicemen abroad or by servicemen of other countries in the United States, is dealt with by mutual agreements. "In the operation of this system in Japan there has been the greatest measure of mutual trust and cooperation. "Since the present arrangement became effective in October 1953, Japan, in the overwhelming majority of the cases in which it had primary right to try American personnel, has waived that right in favor of U. S. action." The opinion expressed confidence that U. S. authorities "will see that all evidence is available" to Girard and his counsel for the Japanese trial, "and will render every proper assistance to him and his counsel in protection of his rights." Girard is accused of the Japanese equivalent of manslaughter in the death of a woman on a firing range. The woman, Mrs. Naka Sakai, was shot in the back last Jan. 30 on a firing range used by both U. S. and Japanese soldiers. Japanese civilians in the area salvaged scrap metal and were allowed to farm on parts of the range when it was not in use. Japanese authorities charged that Girard enticed the woman to come forward and that he shot her with an empty cartridge case fired from the grenade launcher of his rifle. Girard denied enticement and contended the shooting was an accident.

Small N. C. Tobacco Crop Expected See High Prices

RALEIGH (AP) — A tobacco official has predicted that North Carolina's 1957 flue-cured tobacco crop, which is expected to be the smallest since 1943, will result in considerably higher prices. Fred S. Royster of Henderson, managing director of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn., forecast last night that the price average for the entire five-state flue-cured area will be above $60 per hundred pounds. This compares with $51.60 last year. The North Carolina Crop Reporting Service said yesterday that based on reports from growers as of July 1, the Tar Heel flue-cured crop would be 652,600,000 pounds. This is a decline of 308,895,000 pounds or 32 per cent from last year. This would be the smallest crop since 1943 when 942,200,000 pounds were produced. The national production was forecast at 962,965,000 pounds, also down 32 per cent from 1956. Royster said the national figure "too optimistic as far as Georgia and Florida is concerned." He added it is "too high" even if the crop gets the most favorable weather conditions. The forecast for the North Carolina crop, Royster said, should hold true if weather conditions are good. Royster stated that as of now his prediction would be for a national crop of not more than 900 million pounds, down 37 per cent from last year. He said the short crop "will decidedly" stimulate buyer interest in the large stocks of tobacco held under loan by the Flue-Cured Stabilization Corp. The stocks total some 609 million pounds. So far this year, stabilization sales have been extremely light. The Crop Reporting Service said lower prospective yields per acre, reduced acreage allotments and participation in the soil bank program were major factors directly responsible for the decrease in production this year. The agency's report stated that "lower prospective average yields per acre are attributed to weather conditions being less favorable than last year and to the planting of varieties which normally yield less than other varieties planted rather extensively in 1955 and 1956." The North Carolina flue-cured acreage for harvest is estimated at 442,000 acres, the lowest since 1921 when 415,000 acres were harvested. An average yield of 1,478 pounds per acre is forecast, 185 pounds less than the record yield last year of 1,661 pounds per acre. The North Carolina burley tobacco production was forecast at 19,200,000 pounds from 9,600 acres for an average yield of 2,000 pounds per acre. This compares with 17,390,000 pounds last year from 9,400 acres and an average yield of 1,850 pounds. Flue-cured production in North Carolina's Middle and Old Belts was estimated at 233,750,000 pounds, down 32.5 per cent. The average yield was forecast at 1,375 pounds. In the Eastern belt, the poundage was placed at 336,350,000 pounds, down 32.2 per cent. The average yield is set at 1,550 pounds. North Carolina production in the border belt is expected to total 82 1/2 million pounds and the average yield 1,500 pounds.

Leaf Crop Yield At 14-Year Low

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharply reflecting new control measures, the government's flue-cured tobacco forecast yesterday placed the crop yield at its lowest point in 14 years and acreage the lowest in 25 years. Fred S. Royster of Henderson, N.C., managing director of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn., predicted that the smaller crop will raise average prices to above $60 a hundredweight compared with $51.60 last year. Extensive rains in Georgia cut back crop expectations there but the Carolinas' Border Belt appeared off to a good start. The Agriculture Department forecast the flue-cured production this year at 963 million pounds, 32 per cent below last year. Flue-cured acreage totaled 661,600 acres, down 24 per cent from last year. Including burley and the limited amount of Turkish tobacco grown, the government's overall estimate of tobacco crop yields this year totaled 1,661,000,000 pounds, the smallest crop since 1943 and a fourth down from last year. The total tobacco acreage was 1,128,300,000 acres, down 17 per cent from last year and the smallest since 1908. The burley crop estimate was the second lowest of a decade, 490 million pounds. Burley acreage came to 306,400 acres, about 3,000 acres less than last year. Here is the estimated flue-cured production by states: Type 11 — Virginia, 90,450,000 pounds North Carolina, 233,750,000. Type 12 — Eastern North Carolina, 336,350,000. Type 13 — North Carolina, 82,500,000, South Carolina, 120,900,000. Type 14 — Georgia, 83,475,000; Florida, 15,120,000; Alabama, 420,000. Royster said the government forecast of 963 million pounds of flue-cured is too high. He added that as if now his prediction would be for a national crop of not more than 900 million pounds.

'Compromise' On Civil Rights Bill Not Yet In Wind

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said today talk of a possible compromise in the Senate on the civil rights controversy is "both premature and inaccurate." Republican sponsors, however, moved toward narrowing the enforcement provisions of the bill—backed by the Eisenhower administration and already passed by the House—to the single field of protecting Negro and minority voting rights. Such a move would be designed to meet the objections of Southerners that the current bill would permit the attorney general to use troops if he thought it necessary to enforce racial integration in schools and other public places. Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) said he is drafting an amendment to limit the enforcement provisions to the protection of voting rights. Sens. Clifford Case (R-NJ) and Kuchel (R-Calif.) said in separate interviews they support that idea in principle. The Senate convened an hour and a half ahead of its usual starting time in this fourth day of debate on a Republican move to call the bill formally before the Senate. Johnson did not rule out the possibility of compromise, although he told the Senate he knows of no current efforts in that direction "nor do I consider the study of this bill as being intended for compromise purposes." "This discussion arises, in my opinion, because the debate has been conducted on a high plane, free of rancor and bitterness," Johnson said. "Senators are debating the issues—and the debate should be studied carefully. "There is no way to predict the outcome at the present time. There is quite some distance to go before the end result even begins to take shape. "But that is not surprising. The issue is deeply emotional and cannot be settled in a few hours or even a few days." Sen. McNamara (D-Mich.), supporting the bill, told the Senate he had sent President Eisenhower a telegram expressing alarm at reports that Eisenhower might consider amendments to the House-passed bill. Both Republican Leader Knowland of California and Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said after separate conferences with Eisenhower this week that the President had not ruled out the possibility of some amendments. Knowland spoke of "clarifying" changes. Knowland is acting as floor manager for the bill; Russell is quarterback of Dixie forces fighting it. McNamara said he had sent Eisenhower a telegram reading in part: "I am deeply disturbed by the flood of reports that you and your

Play Grim Game Of Catastrophic Nuclear Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Enemy" bombers will dump imaginary nuclear destruction on scores of American cities tomorrow in a grim game of "let's pretend."

The mock catastrophe will signal the opening of Operation Alert 1957, the fourth nationwide civil defense training exercise. The idea is to prepare citizens and government officials alike for conditions of nuclear war. It will include simulated relief, rescue and evacuation programs, federal government operation in the field, and all-out retaliation on the "enemy." Sometime during the seven-day period, a fleet of 14 helicopters will whisk President Eisenhower and his staff to an emergency White House, location undisclosed. Eisenhower is expected to spend only one day or less inspecting his hideaway and its operation, then return to Washington. The cities to be blasted with the mock hydrogen and atomic bombs will not be informed of their fate until just before the exercise. Rescue, relief and evacuation efforts will occupy the first three days. On Monday, some 7,500 government workers will fan out to 30-odd secret relocation centers in half a dozen eastern states. From these the work of reconstruction and retaliation will be conducted for four days. The first period of operations will primarily involve local and state civil defense groups and the Federal Civil Defense Administration. Light Agenda As City Councilmen Meet Tonight

Report Beatings By Armed Group

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Two young Negro men who reportedly were kidnaped by a group of armed white men returned home early today. One said they were taken into the woods and beaten with rubber hoses. Harold Cunningham, 19, said he and Henry Silent, 21, were driven to a wooded area and beaten after being questioned about where they were "two Saturdays ago." "I don't know what they were talking about," Cunningham said. "Henry and I were working together for a paper company two Saturdays ago." Two girls who dated the men last night said they were stopped by the white men after the Negro couples had driven into a white drive-in ice cream stand, and then left because it was too crowded. The two girls, Loretta Washington, 17, and Ailene Brown, 23, were questioned extensively by police last night. They reported the alleged kidnaping occurred shortly after 9 p. m. They gave this account: They were followed by two automobiles, which forced their car to stop in a section of North Birmingham, about a mile from the downtown business district. Four white men were in each car, and they had "some pistols." The men forced the Negro youths to get into the cars, one in each, leaving the girls standing by a fence. Cunningham said he didn't know where the men took him because they forced him to get down on the floor of a car. One of the men told him and Silent, "One of you is going to talk before you leave." The white men also threatened first to hang and then shoot them, according to Cunningham. He and Silent escaped when all except one of the men went back to the cars. Cunningham estimated that he and Silent walked about 12 miles to a bus stop and then rode into town. As soon as the cars had driven away with the boys, the girls said they notified police. Police said they lacked an adequate description of the men and the two automobiles in which they were last seen.

Aga Khan Dies In Geneva Home

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The Aga Khan III, a wealthy potentate to whom 20 million Ismaili Moslems paid spiritual homage, died today. He was 79. A glamorous figure on the international scene for many years, the Aga Khan succumbed to a sudden weakening of the heart during the night. He had been suffering from heart disease since 1952. He was known as a sportsman with an ardent interest in race horses, a devotee of luxurious living, and a man with an eye for a beautiful woman. But he was also interested in affairs of state—and once served as president of the League of Nations. He once expressed his love of material pleasures in these words: "Have fun, it's later than you think." But of his devotion to his Moslem faith: "Each Friday, like every good Moslem, I spend an hour in meditation and prayer. That is my most beautiful hour." Prince Aly Khan, 46, has generally been regarded as the heir-apparent, but some doubt recently was expressed as to whether he or Prince Sadruddin, 24, the Aga's Harvard-educated younger son, would be named. The Aga was said to have been disturbed about Aly's playboy activities. Aly is the former husband of Hollywood actress Rita Hayworth.

All Sliced Up In Knife Duel, But Still Are Friends

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Two Negroes fought to a bloody standoff in a toe-to-toe knife fight that hospitalized both of them, but they still insist they're friends. Now, the good feeling between the two will have a full year to ripen further. Judge W. E. Shive sentenced them to the road for 12 months. The friends are L. A. Holland, 27, and David Robinson, 34. They came into court sporting knife scars under their ears plus evidence of lacerations in various other places. Both insisted there was "nothing to the affair." "He's paying his bill and I'm paying mine, and we are still friends," one asserted, and the other agreed. The fight started after Robinson followed Holland home and they "had some words."

'Flying Saucer' Is Stray Balloon

BOSTON (AP) — The Air Force today answered the question of what it was that floated lazily across New England skies last night. The Air Force research center at nearby Bedford identified the object, which earlier had been described variously as a "flying saucer" and a "satellite"—as one of their weather balloons, launched at Vernalis, Calif. The balloon, which appeared at dusk at an estimated 100,000 feet, prompted hundreds of curious to telephone newspapers seeking answers as to what it really was.

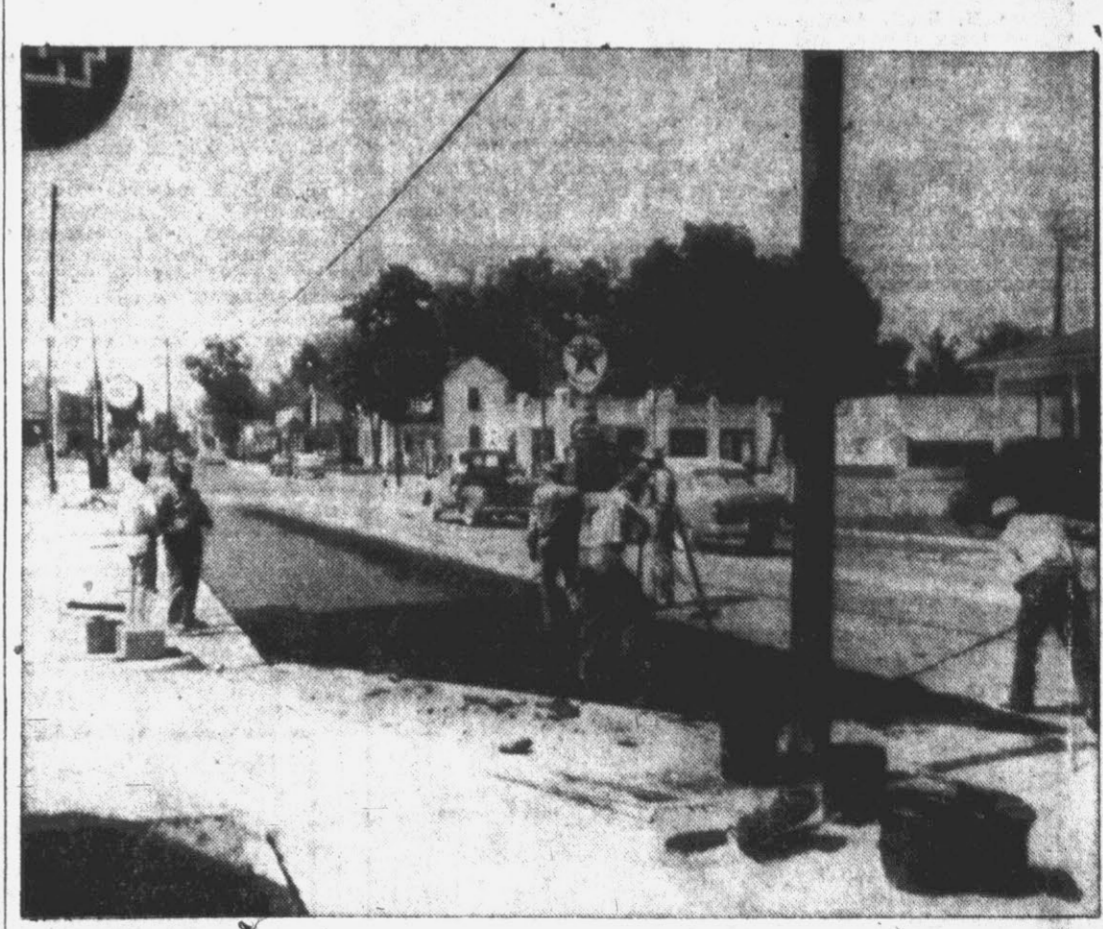

Loses Tobacco As Barn Burns

Some 940 sticks of tobacco went up in flames yesterday afternoon when a tobacco barn burned on the J. C. Galloway farm at Galloway's Crossroads. The Greenville firemen were called to the scene shortly after noon.

Khrushchev Labels Clean H-Bomb Talk As 'Stupid'

PRAGUE (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev today labeled President Eisenhower's talk about a clean H-bomb "a stupid thing." Speaking to workers at the Stalinal metalurgical plant, he said he gave broad approval for the development of communism according to "national peculiarities" and indicated he would hold an early meeting with President Tito in an effort to heal finally the Kremlin's rift with Yugoslavia. "President Eisenhower is a talented man of great principles," said Khrushchev. "But look at what a stupid thing he says when he says there is a clean hydrogen bomb. How can you have a clean bomb to do dirty things? It means the destruction of children and women. What a contradiction. They call dirty things clean." President Eisenhower told a news conference on June 26 that scientists had told him that, given four or five years more of experimentation, they can turn out a hydrogen bomb "absolutely clean" of radioactive fallout—meaning one that can be used to knock out a military target without endangering innocent bystanders far away. Speaking directly to Yugoslav journalists at the meeting, Khrushchev said "Don't write what I am saying now because when I meet comrades Tito, Kadej and Rankovic, I will tell them myself." His statement was the first confirmation that Khrushchev and Tito may be planning a resumption of last year's conferences in the Crimea. Yugoslav Vice President Edvard Kadej and Yugoslav Communist leader Alexander Rankovic are now "vacationing" in the Soviet Union. LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio says none of the deposed Kremlin leaders is being persecuted. It made that declaration in announcing that Georgi Malenkov is being hustled off to run a power plant 1,600 miles from Moscow and the other ousted leaders are getting other unspecified jobs. The broadcast last night also asserted that the appointment of the former Premier as manager of the hydroelectric station at Ust Kamenogorsk is proof that the Soviet system is democratic. But observers pointed out that Malenkov—target of the most serious accusations of the top four purged leaders—would be unable to offer much opposition to Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev in Ust Kamenogorsk even if he should try. It's about as remote a spot as there is in the Soviet Union. The broadcast did not give the nature of the new assignments for V. M. Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich and Dmitri Shepilov, who were ousted from their Kremlin posts along with Malenkov for "antiparty activities." It said only that they had been given other work. Malenkov's new job, the broadcast said, "makes it clear that the myths being spread by some of the western journalists about the persecution of the members of the antiparty group are merely intended to defame the democratic Soviet system and the Central Committee of the Communist party." Khrushchev and Soviet Premier Bulganin, meanwhile, continued their talks with Communist leaders in Czechoslovakia. Although there have been reports that Bulganin at one point sided with Malenkov and the others against Khrushchev in the struggle for power within the Kremlin, the Premier gave Khrushchev full credit yesterday "for discovering and destroying the antiparty" faction. "In the Soviet Union, our party and our people support and recognize the decision against the antiparty group and the action taken against them," Bulganin declared in a speech to the Czechs. It was his first public comment on the recent shakeup.

Streets Widened At Their Intersection

AT TENTH AND EVANS STS. ... Streets are widened. Plans are to set up the intersection so that a lane will be provided for right turns and through traffic and another for left turns. Traffic lights at the intersection have been removed from utility poles and hung in the center as a four-way light. Bloxam said plans are in the making for similar changes at Tenth and Cotanche Sts. located that the motorist could not have a good view of the traffic signals in all directions. Property for widening of the street was given by owners of a service station recently constructed at the corner. Bloxam said plans are in the making for similar changes at Tenth and Cotanche Sts.

Advance Planning Will Give Ideal Picnics

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Make your picnic a real safari. Then you'll be sure to have everything from matches to bottle opener when you get to the outing grounds. The most frustrating experience is to get away from civilization for a day outdoors and then find you can't have a cool drink unless you bite off the top of the bottle.

It's a good idea to make a list of what is to be taken and give every picnicker, family or friend, the responsibility of bringing certain things.

Equipment Man
Dad can take charge of the equipment. He'll be starting the fire anyway. Let him organize the portable barbecue (or bricks and grill if he prefers). He may not be able to find wood on the spur of the moment so it's a good idea to have charcoal lighter to help the fire along, so have that set to go, too.

Dad should also make sure the cooler is filled with ice cubes and the car ice box, if one is used, clean and ready to hold milk, soda, sandwiches, potato salad or what have you.

READY-SET-GO PICNIC . . . Remember the bottle opener, can opener, salt. Charcoal is aluminum foil-wrapped for dryness.

utensils, salt and pepper shakers (don't forget to fill them), paper plates and napkins. If the meal is to be a soggy one, plastic plates are a good investment for the future. Cups and plates of melamine ware are inexpensive and may be used at home also. The ready-set basket should hold bottle opener, can opener, matches.

Scout-Type Pot
If coffee or another hot drink is to be served, the old-fashioned boy scout type coffee pot is ideal. (But don't forget to bring the coffee.)

A colorful oil cloth may be used as a table covering or on the ground. If things spill on it, they may be easily wiped up. It's a good idea to bring along an empty can or a pitcher for lugging water for drinking or tidying up.

It's also a good idea to have a plan for younger members of the family — some sort of outdoor game. Swimming will cool off hot little bodies, so it is wonderful if it can be combined with picnicking. Adults may enjoy lounging under the shade of a tree sipping cool refreshments and swapping stories, but you can't expect the kids to sit and twiddle their thumbs.

Long-Stemmed American Roses 30 Years Ago Used In Estevez's Collection Today

AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Luis Estevez, the young Cuban designer who has skyrocketed to a top place in the American fashion scene, believes in the long-stemmed American Beauty, and takes her as the theme of his fall and winter collection, shown today to the visiting fashion press.

American Beauty roses bloom throughout the collection, ranging from one perfect rose as an accent to a simple dinner dress to a whole riot of blossoms on a cut-velvet evening gown.

Next to roses, hemlines are the Estevez enthusiasm this fall, and they are infinitely varied to give seductive impact to a glimpse of a well-turned knee, revealed in an evening gown sweeping the floor in back, cut daringly high in front. With these up-in-front hemlines, Estevez models wear dyed-to-match shoes and stockings, emphasizing the one-color look so prominent in fall fashions.

Another variation of the hemline is seen in short evening gowns with floor-length side panels, and by set-in godets giving a rippling back effect on cocktail dresses.

There are side-wrapped skirts with dipped back and cut-away front hemlines, in tailored wool daytime dresses and suits, as well as in satin cocktail gowns.

Estevez also is interested in daring necklines, and slashes them to the waist, front or back, in after-dark dresses. When the slash is in front the dress has a built-in bra. Some dresses have nude midriffs accented by king-size buckles. Others have deep cow-back necklines.

The Estevez uneven hemlines seem to presage a return of shorter skirts, for this Latin designer believes pretty girls should show their legs.

Jay-C-Ettes At Meeting

The Greenville Jay-Cettes met for their regular dinner meeting last night at the Woman's Club, with Mrs. M. W. Aldridge, president, presiding.

A committee headed by Mrs. Phil Moore was appointed for a fund raising sale of candy in the fall. Serving on this committee with Mrs. Moore are: Mrs. W. M. Seales, Mrs. Max Joyner, Mrs. James Hudson, and Mrs. George Coffman.

Mrs. Pete West reported that the party for the crippled children at their camp will be held on Wednesday, July 24. All members were urged to attend.

Plans for inviting representatives from other clubs in this district to attend a panel discussion at a meeting of the Greenville Jay-Cettes were discussed and postponed for consideration at the next meeting.

Mrs. Frank Diener Jr. and Mrs. James Boykin will serve at the clinic this month.

Mrs. Walter Whitehurst was welcomed back into the club as a member.

The Auxiliary to the American Legion held a very enjoyable meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. K. B. Pace, in College View, with Mrs. Pace and Mrs. J. B. Kittrell. At this time delegates were appointed to go to Washington for the State Convention of the American Legion and Auxiliary, which is to be held

Mrs. Coolidge To Be Buried

PLYMOUTH, Vt. (AP)—The ashes of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, widow of the former President, will be buried tomorrow in a grave next to those of her husband and their son, who died at the age of 16 while the Coolidges occupied the White House.

Mrs. Coolidge died Monday at her home in Northampton, Mass. Her grave and that of her husband and son are but a quarter of a mile away from the home-stand where Col. John Coolidge administered the oath of the presidency to his son on the night of Aug. 2, 1923.

A simple funeral service lasting 17 minutes were held yesterday at Edward Congregational Church, Northampton, with the Rev. Richard Linde, pastor, officiating.

Some 300 relatives, friends and state and city officials attended the services at the old, red brick church.

There was no eulogy — as there was none when Coolidge's funeral was held in Northampton Jan. 7, 1933.

The Rev. Mr. Linde read a poem during the services which was written by Mrs. Coolidge on the fifth anniversary of the death of her son.

It read in part:
"And when you went before,
"You left the gates of heaven ajar,
"That I might glimpse approaching from afar,
"The glories of His grace."
Mrs. Coolidge's body was taken to Springfield, Mass., for cremation after the services.

A PRACTICAL WAY TO KEEP WALLS CLEAN

Children love to draw. And where better than on a clean wall? Here's an ingenious way to deter a diaper da Vinci.

Attach a self-adhesive blackboard to the headboard of his bed, give him a piece of chalk, and let him scribble. He will amuse himself, stay out of mischief, and build up strength by relaxing on his mattress—a surface designed to give him proper body support.

May Seek Annuling Child Bride's Vows

MUNFORD, Tenn. (AP)—An 11-year-old child bride was home with her parents today and her father says he may seek an annulment.

Jesse H. Scott, 44-year-old divorced truck driver, and Portia Virginia Johnson were wed last May 2 at Senatobia, Miss. The bride returned to her parents' home after the ceremony, went to live with Scott June 30, then went back to her parents last Saturday.

Scott said Portia's father, Leroy Johnson, objected to the marriage but her mother didn't.

Henpecked Need Not Apply For Job

By PATRICIA SMITH
The Arizona Republic

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Wanted: fifteen policemen. Henpecked husbands need not apply.

So says Capt. Dan Warren, administrative assistant to the Phoenix police chief. Warren interviews prospective cops in the city's recruiting drive to beef up the force.

He wants to make sure that a man's wedding ring is on his hand and not through his nose.

"For example," Warren explained, "We'll ask him why he came to Arizona. Maybe he'll say, 'Because my wife wanted to move here.'"

"We'll ask him why he left his last job. Maybe he'll say, 'Because my wife wanted me to quit.' We try a few more times before we come to the conclusion the guy won't do a thing without his wife's permission, so we reject him."

The little woman can turn into a monster, Capt. Warren said.

they were served refreshments from an appointed table. It was centered with the pink and green birthday cake with the seven lighted candles. Ice cream and iced drinks were served with the cake as refreshments.

Beat Heat With Iced Coffee

SUMMER DUET—Crisp brown sugar cookies and a glass of iced coffee make a cooling combination for the dog days ahead.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

These crisp brown-sugar cookies, along with a glass of iced coffee, are a wonderful pickup about four o'clock on a warm summer afternoon.

For those who like their beverage strong and not-too-sugary, there's something satisfying about these sweet, extra-crunchy tidbits for an occasional snack. Their pecan trim gives them a certain tang.

PECAN PENNIES
Ingredients: 2 cups sifted cake flour, 1-8 teaspoon baking soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3-4 cup shortening, 1 1/2 cups dark brown sugar (firmly packed), 1 egg, 1-4 cup finely chopped pecans, small pecan halves.
Method: Sift together the cake flour, baking soda and salt. Cream shortening and brown sugar; beat in egg thoroughly. Add sifted dry ingredients and chopped pecans and mix in with a spoon. If dough is too soft to shape with hands refrigerate until firm or overnight. Or roll at once into small balls, each about 1/2-inch wide. Place about 1 1/2 inches apart on very lightly greased baking sheets.

press a whole small pecan half on top of each cookie. Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven 8 to 12 minutes. Remove from oven and allow to stand a minute or two before removing to cooling racks with spatula. When cold store in tightly covered container. Makes about 100 cookies.
Note: About 1-1 1/4 cups pecan halves will be needed for this recipe.

ICED COFFEE
When we brew ourselves a pot of good strong hot coffee in the morning, we often make an extra amount for use in that late-morning or noontime glass of the iced beverage. If this appeals to you, pour the extra coffee into a glass jar, cover tightly and refrigerate until ready to use.
You can, of course, make iced coffee from instant coffee. Double the amount of the coffee powder you usually use for a cup of the hot beverage, diluting it with a little water. (Read the label of the instant coffee to find out whether the brand you are using needs hot or cold water.) Add ice cubes and cold water and stir well.

Weaknesses Come In Handy

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

You never know when a weakness will come in handy.
Take Barbara Olsan, for instance. Like many women, she has a weakness for shopping. Always has. Loves to wonder through the stores and price things. Buys things just for the fun of it. You know how it is. Men are always complaining about this feminine trait.

But Barbara, a casual blonde from Rochester, has built a highly successful career on this compulsion. For more than 10 years she has been doing the shopping for TV giveaway shows. And she's so good at her job that nowadays she is one of the bigwigs of the business, currently production manager for the TV panel show "The Price Is Right," in which members of the audience bid on an astounding variety of merchandise — the one whose bid is closest to the correct price wins the article.

"We've given away everything from a live pony to a summer cottage complete with furniture on the show," says Barbara, "and all of it has to be right there on the stage when the show goes on the air. Sometimes it's a little difficult — like the time we had to get a 50-foot cruiser through the doors and into the studio."
Can you imagine anything more fun for any woman than to be required to go on a $2,500 to $3,000 shopping spree every day? Well, that has been Barbara's assignment for years. Of late, since she has become a big executive, she doesn't have time to do the actual buying herself very often, and this a blow. But she still checks the price of every item on the show, and every once in a while goes on a shopping orgy, just to keep her hand in.

SNAPSHOT PIN-UP BOARD
Snapshot bulletin boards make good family or recreation room conversation pieces and at the same time give you a chance to share your snapshots with the family and friends who'll be interested in seeing what you've been shooting lately.

Change the exhibit each time you get a new set of snapshots, but keep your favorites up as long as you like. This isn't a substitute for an album, but it is a good way to enjoy pictures before putting them away for safekeeping.

Ed E. Rawl, Jr. Host Kiwanis

Ed E. Rawl Jr. was host at dinner at his cottage on Pamlico River last night to the Greenville Kiwanis Club officers and directors and committee chairmen for their monthly business meeting. President Charles E. Blair presided.

Those present in addition to President Blair and Director Rawl were: Secretary John O. Reynolds, W. O. (Bill) Moore, Vice-President J. D. (Dixie) McGlothlin, W. Riley Cox, Julian White, Robert L. Elks, W. S. Corbett, Charles P. Gaskins, J. G. Proctor, Past Presidents Charles V. Wilkerson and J. Ed Waldrop and Lt.-Gov. John T. Barnhill and Chester Walsh, chairman public relations.

Capt. Sam T. White and Lt. Charles Craven of the Greenville Volunteer Rescue Squad will display and demonstrate rescue equipment at the Kiwanis Club supper meeting tonight at 6:30. Dr. Howard H. Gradis will have charge of the program, it was announced.

Beauty Queens Practice Poise For First Round Of Pageant

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Anxious beauty queens practice how to be poised and lovely here today with the first round of the Miss North Carolina beauty pageant scheduled tonight.

The 48 shapely girls will be judged in bathing suits, evening dresses and talent. The preliminary judging will come tonight, tomorrow night and Saturday afternoon with the all-important finals Saturday night.

Each girl and her chaperon was met at the city limits yesterday by a motorcycle policeman who escorted them with sirens shrilling full blast to the pageant headquarters. The girls then registered and were assigned rooms in private homes where they will stay during the pageant.

All connected with the pageant, except the judges, were treated to an informal dinner at the Alameda Country Club last night. The judges, who must base their final selection on beauty of face, beauty of figure, pose and personality and talent, will get their first look at the girls tonight. The current Miss North Carolina, Joan Melton of Albemarle, was on hand in Greensboro yesterday to greet Marian Ann McKnight, the reigning Miss America from Manning, S.C. The two beauties then came to Burlington in a motorcade.

To the winner will go a trip to the Miss America contest in Atlantic City, N.J. She also will receive a $1,000 scholarship, a trophy and other gifts.

There was one last minute change in the lineup yesterday after Miss Kannapolis, Carolyn Ruth Phillips, announced she was abandoning her crown in favor of marriage July 21 to Pvt. Joseph W. Dowless, a childhood sweetheart who soon will go overseas.

Barbara Ann Safriet, the runner-up in the Miss Kannapolis contest, was named her successor.

Carolyn Ruth said she didn't mind giving up her choice. "It was happiness against just one beauty contest," she declared.

Vegetables For Young Folk

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeatures

Do you make a big effort to see to it that your children eat vegetables? Vegetables are an important part of a good diet and it is worth the worry to get them inside the youngsters.

But are the vegetables you serve the valuable nutritional items they should be?
Vegetables are good sources of vitamins and minerals. Most of them contribute roughage which is necessary for human internal workings. Some vegetables have good protein although vegetables are not our main source of protein. Many vegetables are good sources of carbohydrate. But the vitamins and minerals are vegetables' greatest claim to fame.

Vitamins are delicate substances, it's easy to destroy them in cooking and minerals can all too readily be removed from the table.

Cook 'em Right
It's a waste to spend time and effort in getting no-account vegetables down the gullets of reluctant children.

Let's make sure that every last vitamin and mineral nature puts into our vegetables gets into our children.

Cook vegetables as little as possible. The longer you cook them the more vitamins you destroy. Cook them in as little water as you can. Try to come out even with the water, so that when the vegetable is tender enough to eat, all the water has been absorbed into the vegetable. If any water is left over, don't throw it away. This left over vegetable water contains a lot of the vitamins of the original vegetables. Have a jar into which you drain left over water, and use it for making soup or gravy.

To cook vegetables and not have water to drain off requires covered pots. A pressure cooker is ideal.

Save Those Vitamins
The vitamins in vegetables are destroyed more quickly in an alkaline solution than in an acid one. For this reason never add soda to vegetables. Soda does often keep the color greener but the pretty color is at the expense of the truly valuable vitamins. A tablespoonful of vinegar or lemon juice in a pot of vegetables will keep the solution acid and preserve the vitamins. The slight taste of the vinegar disappears in the cooking.

The minerals in vegetables are usually near the outside surface, especially in root vegetables like potatoes, carrots, beets, parsnips. Wash these vegetables thoroughly but do not peel them before cooking unless you are making a stew.

Playwright Tennessee Williams, whose prize winning plays and films have been censored by religious authorities, was born in an Episcopal rectory of Columbus, Miss. His grandfather was a minister.

stew. Take off just as thin a layer as you possibly can, the less you take off the less you lose. With potatoes use the skin as often as possible, the skin of a baked potato is good eating, especially if you bake the potato rapidly and the skin is crisp.

Serve Attractively
After you have prepared vegetables for cooking use them right away. Do not let them stand around in a basin of water for hours before cooking. The water dissolves the precious vitamins and minerals.

Frozen vegetables will usually cook in the moisture in the package without the addition of more water. Use a covered pot.

If Not Understood, It's Dangerous

If the President and Congress do not understand the full meaning of proposed legislation, for the sake of the nation they had better leave such bills in the pigeon holes until they either understand them or substitute measures which they do understand.

Such apparently is the case with the civil rights measure now before the Senate. The President has said quite frankly the civil rights measure which his administration is pushing "contains certain phases I don't completely understand." Among members of the Senate there are almost as many interpretations of the various parts of the bill as there are members in that law-making body.

On top of this confusion there is also the consideration which must be given to interpretation of any law if it ever comes before the Supreme Court. In recent years law-makers who drafted and enacted legislation have been flabbergasted by interpretations given those laws by the highest court of the land.

Most members of Congress agree that the measure which is being pushed reaches far beyond application only to cases dealing with alleged denial of individual rights to vote. The President has asserted his objective in urging passage of the legislation is "to prevent anybody illegally from interfering with any individual's right to vote." Republican Sen. Watkins of Utah, a sponsor of the measure, declared there is "no question" that the bill could be used to enforce civil rights other than voting rights.

In the words of Sen. Ervin of North Carolina, "the attorney general could bring suits for 1,000 different purposes other than to establish voting rights." For all the comments and views on the measure, it is quite clear that it is far-reaching measure which will give unprecedented power to the office of the Attorney General. No one, apparently, is sure just how much power it would vest in that office so far as protecting the rights of individuals. It is quite possible that the Attorney General's office would have the power not only to protect civil rights of individuals, but just as realistically would have the authority to destroy other rights of other individuals.

The bill in its present form does not limit the power it would afford the Attorney General in cases where individual rights are involved. Under the measure individuals accused of violating injunctions secured by the Attorney General's office could be convicted and jailed for contempt by a federal judge without so much as a jury trial.

Certainly the Senate would be unwise to pass the measure until and unless there is some manner in which it can evaluate the potential of the power it would afford the Attorney General's office and the effects it might have on individual rights.

An Anachronism For This Enlightened Age

There are contrasts in this modern 20th Century America.

A fortress of religion, scientific achievement and social revolution; a land where the word "progress" is so over-used that it's taken for granted; a protector of individual liberties and rights; a productive society whose time is increasingly available for multiple diversions; a people deeply conscious of the need, and hunger for more education; and amidst it all, an occasional outcrop of "voodoo", black magic and superstitions.

How these latter anachronisms fit into the picture of modern America is not clear, but the confession of a New Jersey farm worker confirms the fact that black magic cultists are far from extinct.

Police found his living quarters stocked with books on the subject. He was arrested for the nine-month-old murder of a boy "to get a skull".

The relationship between the horrendous acquisition of a human skull and the preparation of a "love potion" (his avowed purpose) is matched only by the incompatible thought of black magic existing in this America of 1957.

Sketch Future Super Markets

By ELMER ROESSNER

Traffic congestion in supermarkets is second only to that on the highways. A recent survey showed that two of housewives' most frequent complaints centered around congestion in aisles and at check-out counters.

But supermarkets have solved so many other problems and made such progress that they will swiftly solve their traffic problem, according to Paul Sayres, leading food broker, who collects facts about supermarkets the way other men collect stamps.

Stores today feature such improvements as automatic, electric-eye doors, terrazzo floors, immense parking areas, streamlined facades, photo murals and artificial daylight. One Western chain he observed, features nursery playrooms, elaborate snack shops and customer lounges.

At the checking counters, a machine will scan magnetic price markings on each article and calculate the total bill in less time than it takes a housewife to open her purse. Then a conveyor belt will deliver the purchases automatically to the shopper's car.

Perhaps the most unusual service Mr. Sayres observed was that of a Southern chain, which put $200,000 in 6 per cent bonds on sale to raise money for its real estate subsidiary. The issue was sold out in 36 hours, he added.

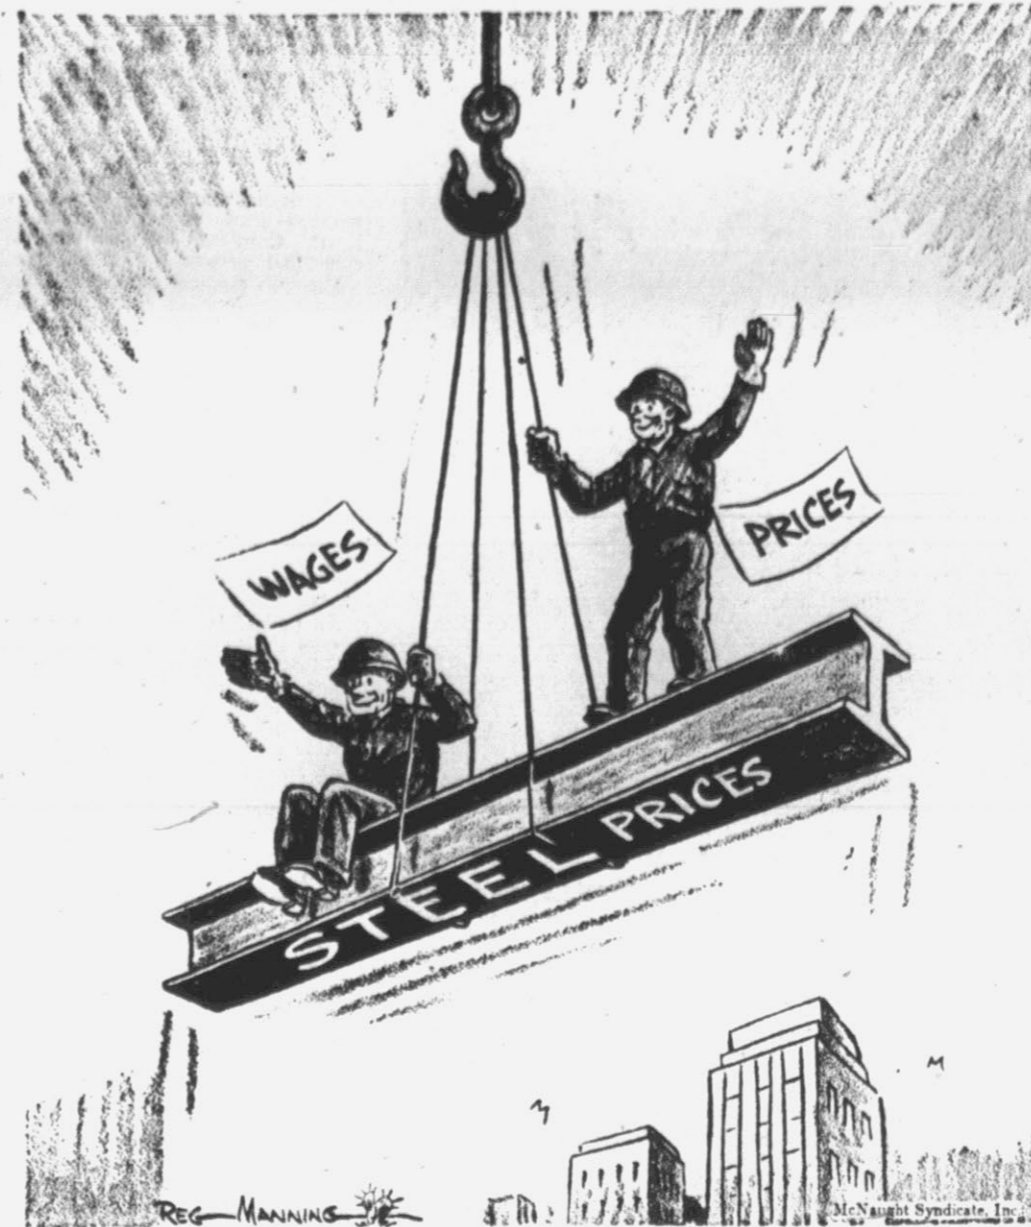

An Arizona supermarket operator installed a high fidelity unit with speakers throughout the store. He said it increased sales as much as 50 per cent.

According to his information, about 80 per cent of the nation's supermarkets are air conditioned; 57 per cent distribute recipes; 56 per cent furnish music; 21 per cent have rest rooms; 20 per cent have kiddie corners; 18 per cent have delivery service; 17 per cent have parcel pick-up stations; and 2 per cent have hostesses.

Riding Up With It

By BILLY ARNOLD

Labels' For Everything

You know, it's funny the way the American public likes to put labels on people and professions. It is strictly an American form of behavior, probably emanating from the habit we have of trying to do things quickly with as little effort as possible.

For instance, when the word policeman is sounded, people usually get a vivid picture of a huge, jolly Irish cop in their minds. I don't know why he had to be Irish. But that's how it goes.

The mention of musician usually brings forth visions of a long, gaunt individual with too much hair and dreamy eyes. In the same manner, all boxers have to be big burly fellows with flat noses and a habit of speaking out of the side of their mouths.

Now, when one speaks of a newspaper reporter what kind of image is conjured up? Well, I have looked into it. I studied movie versions and talked to a lot of people. They seem to indicate that all newspapermen are crude, sarcastic individuals who wear open-throated white shirts with dangling half-knotted ties and a felt hat that is either always on the very front or the very back of their head.

The newspaperman is also an utterly lazy person who finds it extremely hard to stand or sit in an upright position. He is one who characteristically must shove his chair against the wall, lean back perilously, and place his feet on the nearest desk, wastebasket or whatever is available.

Any member of the fourth estate is out of character if he is ever caught without a cigarette dangling from one corner of his mouth. Likewise, he must have the inevitable pencil crooked behind one ear. More than likely, he is a young man (between 24 and 44) who talks very fast and in clipped, bitten-off words.

Of course, the newspaperman is a man of many vices, too. His is a profession that is notorious for harboring men who consume enormous quantities of liquor, frequent the town's shadiest haunts, and have an average of two brays a week.

Well, I want to dispel this mental image right now. I mean, it just isn't true. Look at the Daily Reflector.

Half of our reporters are women—none of whom wear ties, have brays, or admit to being between 24 and 44. They are all 16 years old, of course.

Now, the male reporters in our organization—Jimmy Ellis, Alvin Taylor, Everett Parker, Colonel Chester Walsh—

Well...they're all completely well, almost...Oh, well, let them defend themselves. I can't tell a lie.

Playing For Big Stakes

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON (AP) In the 20th Century the Democratic and Republican parties — no matter what their campaign promises — have never passed a civil rights bill through Congress.

Republicans are trying it now in face of a Senate filibuster by Southern Democrats. If they win, some political careers may be affected. And Republicans hope for future election victories — based on expectation of a grateful Northern Negro vote — go up.

Presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower have helped eliminate racial discrimination — by executive order. But Democrats' promises of action on a civil rights bill through Congress have been a political joke.

They couldn't as a party, make good. Southern Democrats may always there to block the way with a filibuster. Any filibuster could have been broken if enough Northern and Western Democrats and Republicans were willing to team up to do it. It never happened.

The outnumbered Republicans can't do it now unless enough of them, plus enough Northern and Western Democrats, join forces. That remains to be seen. Despite present excitement, passage of a civil rights bill now is far from a fact.

There is political irony in the present situation. In Congress, where they are the minority party, the Republicans are leading the way. Sen. Knowland of California, Senate Republican leader, is captain on the civil rights side.

He can get only political good out of this. He is leaving the Senate next year and may seek the Republican presidential nomination in 1960. He can expect Northern Negroes, if he should get the nomination, to remember him as a man who fought for civil rights.

On the other hand the Senate's Democratic leader, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, is on a hot spot. He's a Southerner. But he's a man who also may have presidential ambitions in 1960.

If he votes against this civil rights bill his chances of heading the Democratic ticket diminish, if they're not wrecked. If he doesn't oppose it in some way — if only by trying to get the bill softened by amendments — he may hurt himself in Texas. He's been staying pretty much in the background.

And right beside Knowland stands Vice President Nixon, who at the moment might seem to have the inside track for the Republican nomination three years from now. For that matter, most of the Republicans are standing with Knowland.

They are therefore carrying through on campaign promises — although vague in the Republican 1956 platform — and on Eisenhower's program. The President in his State of the Union message last Jan. 10 called for passage of this civil rights bill.

The Democratic 1956 platform on civil rights was weak by comparison. It was a time when the rest of the party didn't want to give the Southerners an excuse to vote for Eisenhower. But both parties had their eyes on the South that year.

Neither party's platform was willing to go so far as to say it endorsed the Supreme Court ban on public school segregation.

If the Republicans can win passage of a meaningful civil rights bill, they can hope for a strong Negro vote in the large industrial centers of the North.

It might be enough to let them regain control of Congress in the 1958 elections and retain control of Congress in the 1960 elections and retain the presidency and Congress in 1960.

The Roosevelt-Truman grip on the Negro vote has slipped since Eisenhower entered the White House. After the 1956 elections, The Associated Press reported Nov. 9: "In nearly all the great Northern centers of Negro population there was a definite trend away from the Democratic ticket although not enough to give Eisenhower a majority in any major area of Negro registration."

This trend was characterized at the time by James L. Hicks, managing editor of Harlem's largest newspaper, the Amsterdam News, as a divorce from the Democrats rather than a marriage to the Republicans.

Possible Effect On Activities

By LYNN NISBET

POLICY — The recent General Assembly made no specific changes in the duties and responsibilities of the advisory budget commission. Legislation transferring the Budget Bureau and the Division of Purchase and Contract from the Governor's office and integrating them into the new Department of Administration may have considerable effect upon advisory commission activities.

Closer administrative control over detail in government operation will relieve the commission in dealing with numerous individual items of routine business, and permit it to give full attention to major policy decisions. Practices which have developed through the years have burdened the budget bureau and the advisory commission with detail administrative decisions which properly should be the responsibility of department heads.

It was this situation that led the reorganization study commission to recommend, and the General Assembly to establish, a Department of Administration designed to co-ordinate administrative functions as entirely separate and distinct from policy-making responsibility. The supreme policy-making agency is the General Assembly. The chief administrative and executive officer is the Governor. The advisory budget commission is the connecting link in all fiscal matters, having quasi-executive-legislative authority, but only at secondary level. The new plan contemplates that the advisory commission will determine policy within the board outlines of legislation, and will have substantial influence on general administration with respect for the inherent authority vested in department heads for the efficient operation of their respective agencies.

The personnel of the presently constituted advisory budget commission seems admirably qualified to do the job required of it.

BUDGETERS — Four of the six members of the commission have had previous service in that capacity and the other two have legislative experience. For the first time in years the entire commission holds membership in the current Legislature.

Appointment of Kemp Doughton by Governor Hodges assures the continuing counsel of a man who had large hand in formulating the budgets for the 1955-57 and 1957-59 biennium as chairman of the House appropriations committee, and who served as Speaker during the recent session. The Governor's other appointees are William Copeland of Hertford, now in his third term as senator from the first district.

By reason of their reappointment as Chairmen of the appropriations and finance committee in the Senate, Senators Joe Eagles of Wilson and Nelson Woodson of Rowan remain on the commission — in the same capacity as for the past two years. Carl Venters of Onslow served on the commission since resignation of W.B. Rowman soon after the 1955 Legislature, helped to prepare the current budget and piloted the huge appropriation bill through the House.

William F. Womble of Forsyth, designated by Speaker Doughton as chairman of the finance committee replacing B.T. Falls Jr., who resigned to take the job as solicitor of the 16th district, is the only budgeteer who will have to give up something to take the post. The conflict of interest will necessitate his resigning from the State Board of Higher Education. That board presents the budgets for all the tax supported colleges and the commission must pass upon them.

POTPOURRI — The State Board of Education seems to be getting along all right, but some watch out for "charley horse" trouble. Four of its thirteen members are named Charles: Charles Carroll, Charles Jordan, Charles McCrary and Charles Rose.

Ellis Canady, State electrical inspector, was talking the other day about cooperation of contractors and local building inspectors. Most of them, he said, appear eager to comply with State rules and regulations. Trouble is that just about the time they become acquainted with one set of rules the Legislature makes some changes. "It's sort of like the old farmer said about his steers," said Canady. "You have to knock their horns off to get 'em started, and pull out their tails to get 'em stopped."

Strollers along Fayetteville Street in Raleigh were interested the other day in a fellow who apparently was trying to figure out what type of tobacco went into the cigar he had in his hand. He seemed to be studying it intently through a small reading glass. What the fellow actually was doing was saving a match, by focusing the sunlight on the cigar tip through the reading glass. Soon as the cigar began to smolder the man stuck it in his mouth, dropped the glass in his pocket and proceeded about his business in a cloud of smoke.

A story in the New York Herald Tribune tells about a stepped up newspaper advertising campaign in behalf of television. As reported in the current bulletin of the retail section of the American Newspaper Publishers Association advertising bureau, the "sailing TV industry is rolling out its heavy artillery in an attempt to turn 1957 into a good sales year" for new set models. Instead of being dangerous competition to newspaper advertising, as some publishers feared a few years back, both radio and television are good customers for newspaper advertising.

AMAZING CIRCUMSTANCE One of the most astounding circumstances in the career of Jesus of Nazareth was that, surrounded by groups of very learned men, Jesus selected not a single educated man as follower and helper. Instead, he chose fishermen and others who toiled with their hands.

Claim Stand Is Misrepresented

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — It is not only Northern politicians and jurists striving to enforce school segregation who provoke and irritate Southern opponents of this social revolution below the Mason and Dixon Line. They feel that the North "misrepresents" their position in almost every propaganda media — the newspapers, magazines, books, radio, television, etc.

Opinions In Brief

SAC CITY, IOWA, SUN: "We talk about federal aid and we seem to believe that the government can hand out grants without reservation, to any group that requests it. We seem to fail to realize that before the government can provide aid to the hundreds and hundreds of groups who are asking for it, that the money must be forthcoming from someone, and that someone is Mr. Average Taxpayer."

Southern spokesmen complain in particular against the North's persistent contention that opponents of integration are encouraging or practicing "violent and illegal" methods. In this connection, they resent especially the emphasis which Northern organizations, particularly television, give to sensational and discredited trouble-makers like John Kasper, Ace Carter and Eldon Lee Edwards, Grand Dragon of the repudiated Ku Klux Klan. DISTURBING MEDIUMS TO SOUTHERN Northern newspapers, radio and television programs, according to denunciations on Capitol Hill and elsewhere, feature these disturbing and provocative figures, creating the general impression that they are representative of the Southern opposition.

Dynamite, Dragline Cut New Channel For Stream

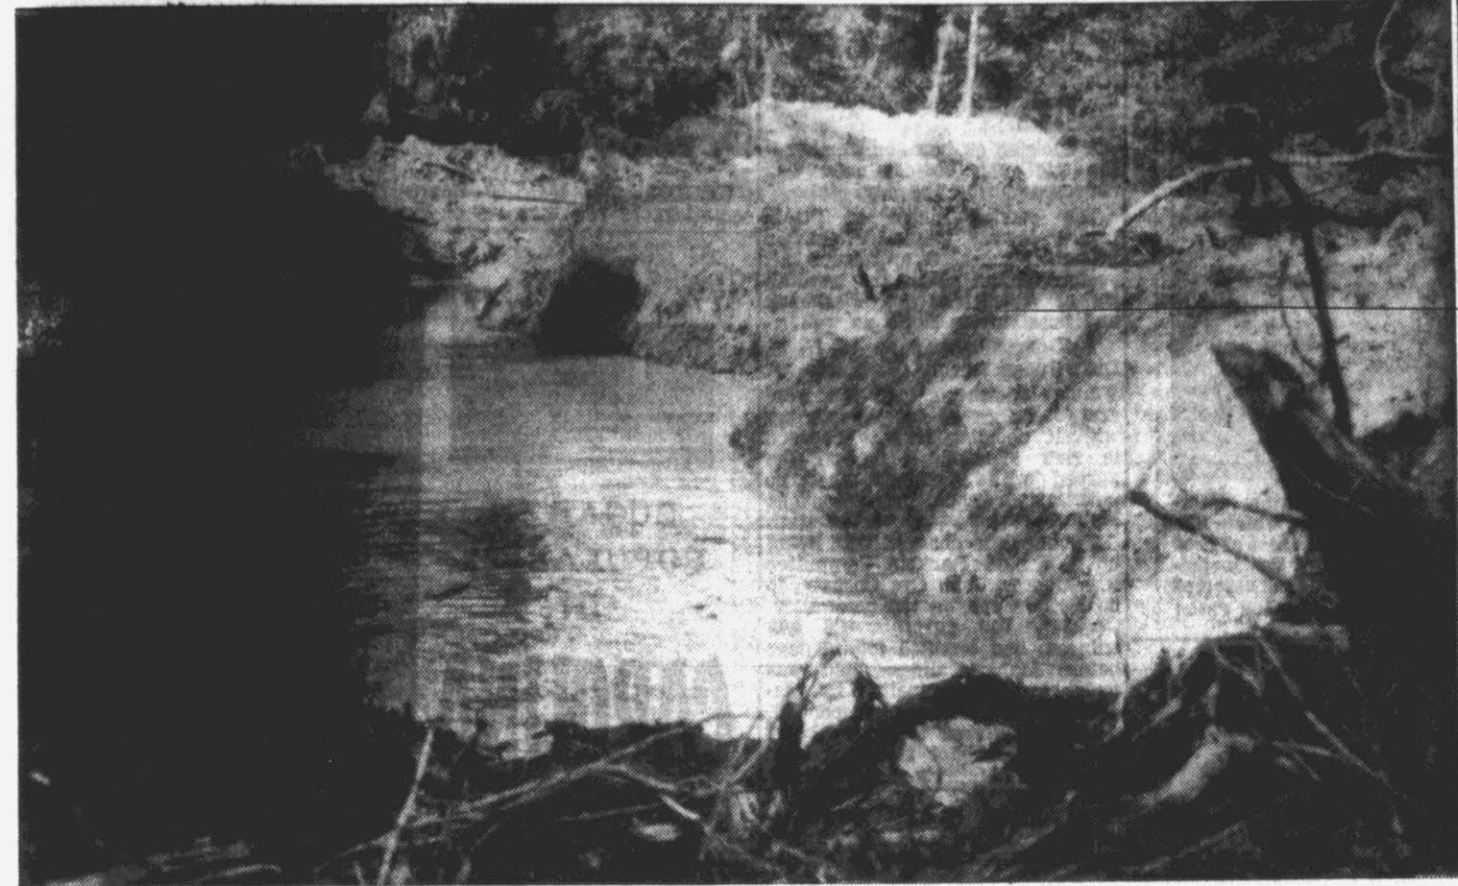

DRAGLINE AT WORK

... machinery cuts a new channel

STUMPS BLASTED

... Dynamite is used to remove stumps

BROAD NEW STREAM BED

... Digging begins on Greene Mill Run

Residents of the east Greenville area may have been startled by a number of rumbling explosions during the past few days.

If they have been there's no cause for alarm. Work has begun on cutting a new channel for troublesome Greene Mill Run and blasters have been at work dynamiting stumps left along the stream's right-of-way.

Following behind the blasters and working from Greene Mill Run's mouth on the Tar is a drag line which is in the process of cutting the new bed for the stream.

Sharp bends are being eliminated and at points the old winding run bed will be eliminated for hundreds of yards with a new straight section to take its place.

In addition the drag line will clean and deepen the portions of the stream bed which will still be used. City officials expect the work to largely eliminate flooding in various sections of the city.

The run has exceeded its banks during hurricanes that struck this section over the past three years and at other times during heavy rains.

At one time the swirling waters washed away a portion of the Kiwanis train road bed at Elm St. Park. It has also flooded houses along its path.

Some $16,000 was voted in a bond issue to accomplish the work.

Career Break Befalls A New Face In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD — One of the best career breaks since Marilyn Monroe's debut in "The Asphalt Jungle" has befallen 21-year-old Ruta Lee.

Ruta — it's a Lithuanian name and her own — has a meaty role in "Witness For the Prosecution," a part so fat that producer Arthur Hornblow believes that it will do for her what "The Asphalt Jungle" did for Marilyn.

It was Hornblow who picked the then-unknown blonde and cast her as Louis Calhern's girl friend in the small role that touched off the most fabulous career in recent movie history.

Hornblow said he was looking for the Monroe quality in casting "Witness."

By one of those coincidences of fate that often spawn stars, Hornblow and Ruta happened to pick the same night to attend Frank Sinatra's recent engagement at the Mocambo.

"I got there late," says Hornblow, "and the place was so crowded that I was seated behind Frank. I could hear him but couldn't see him. All I could see was a dazzling blonde. For better than an hour I watched her reaction to Sinatra. At the end of the show, I had decided that this was the girl. I didn't even know whether she was an actress or not."

Ruta was an actress and a good one. She had been in such movies as "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" and "Funny Face," but she is no longer a blonde. Marlene Dietrich also is in the movie and had prior claim in the blonde department. So now Ruta is a dazzling brunette.

Arthur also wanted to change her name but she rebelled, and it will remain Ruta.

"I know it will come out Ruth in print, it always does. And the wags will suggest that I change my last name to Baga or All Evil or Wakening. But it's my name and there's not another one like it..."

CINCINNATI (AP) — A "high-ball" is a better remedy for nervous tension than the new tranquilizer drugs, a Cincinnati psychiatrist says.

Dr. Warren Richards warns that self-medication with the new drugs can be harmful and asserts that a moderate amount of alcohol is preferable for temporary relief from nervous tension and anxiety.

He Started Wet And Ended Wet

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The fire department said Paul Protzman turned up the heat in his apartment to dry some clothes.

The heat touched off an automatic fire sprinkler. Protzman's clothes got all wet again and the water leaked down through another apartment into a photography studio and a beauty shop.

Youngsters need plenty of space and entertainment on auto trips.

Town Remembers Big Poker Game

MIDNIGHT, Miss. (AP) — This small town in Mississippi's agricultural Delta was named for the hour it was won in a poker game.

Around the turn of the century, pioneer land owners would take time out from clearing the land and relax over a poker game.

One of the land owners bet and lost all of his cleared land the game broke up. The new owner glanced at his watch and announced he would name his land "Midnight."

AN EASY WINNER

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond Jr. emerged an easy winner in the Democratic primary race for governor, defeating Howard H. Carville by a ratio of almost five to one. Almond will face State Sen. Ted Dalton in the November elections.

COMPLETE HOSPITAL designed by the Federal Civil Defense Administration to supplement existing hospitals in case of attack is shown in the display above, minus only its generators and most of its 300 cots. The hospital would occupy about 15,000 square feet for ideal operation, but in the more crowded display above, the following major segments may be seen: (1) Admitting center, where patients are assigned to various parts of the hospital for treatment. (2) Portable X-ray, with its own generator and special process for 60-second development of photographic plates. (3) Simulated ward, which would be much larger and accommodate 200 patients at a time in actual practice. (4) Operating room, complete with lights powered by a generator. (5) Laboratory for blood typing and other elementary medical tasks. (6) Pharmacy and supply section. (7) Sterilizing room, including autoclaves operating on liquid fuel. (FCDA Photo)

Stockpile of Mercy

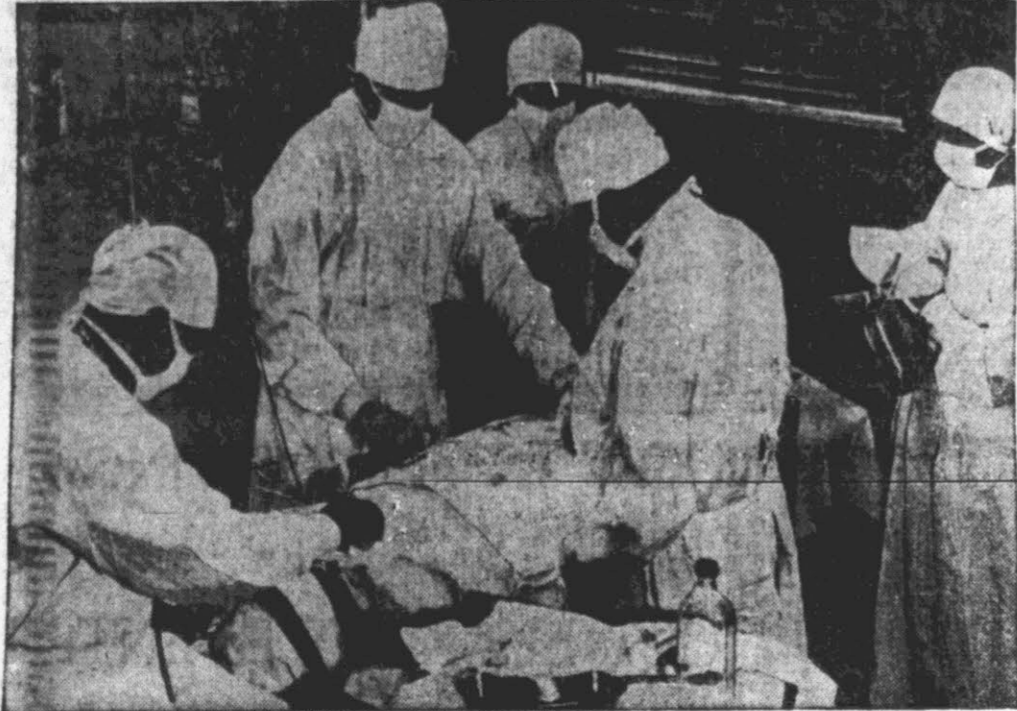

LABORERS MOVE equipment from a Federal Civil Defense Administration emergency hospital into a school, similar to other pre-selected sites which would be utilized in outlying areas after an attack had blasted major target cities. The self-contained hospital can be unloaded from trucks and be in operation in five hours. These units are strategically stockpiled near most of the nation's critical target areas. (Providence, R. I., Journal-Bulletin Photo)

Store Emergency FCDA Hospitals

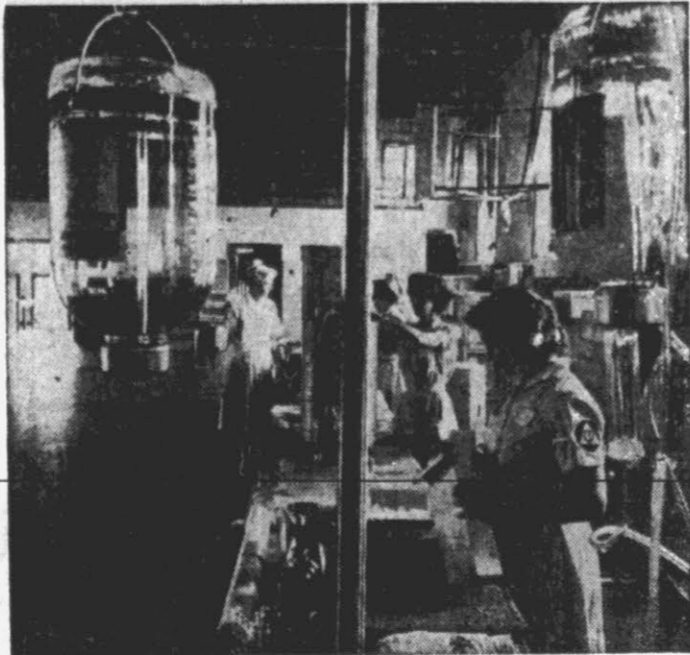

Packed away without fanfare in strategically-placed warehouses around the nation is the Federal Civil Defense Administration's mercy stockpile, which some day may spell life or death for millions of people. It consists of 200 of FCDA's self-contained emergency hospitals in the federal stockpile, plus 76 others owned by the States. FCDA has ordered an additional 731 hospitals, and the States six. Set up in outlying schools, churches and other buildings, the hospitals would provide working facilities for doctors and nurses evacuated from the 1,800 regular hospitals in critical target areas. The $22,500 emergency hospital, complete with X-ray and operating room equipment, 2 generators, 200 cots and supplies, can be loaded in two large vans, and be in use 5 hours after arrival.

EMERGENCY HOSPITAL 15-kilowatt generator for operating room lights and power equipment is loaded at a Federal Civil Defense Administration warehouse onto two trucks. In attack situations, an entire self-sufficient 13 1/4-ton hospital of 288 items in 439 containers could be moved by a single large truck to a school, church or other suitable building which was reasonably undamaged. (FCDA Photo)

SURGERY can be carried on in comparatively primitive surroundings by using the facilities of 15-kilowatt generator, while the instruments would be sterilized in bottle-gas-heated autoclaves, or gaseous hospital during attacks. The operating pressure cookers. (FCDA Photo)

SUPPLY AREA of a Federal Civil Defense Administration emergency hospital is shown set up in a school or gymnasium which, like churches and auditoriums, would have the 15,000 square feet of floor space needed for the hospital. Illness Clouds Trial Of Labor Boss, Attorney

WASHINGTON (AP)—A lawyer's illness clouded today the course of the four-week bribery conspiracy trial of Midwest labor boss James R. Hoffa and Atty. Hyman I. Fischbach. A decision on how—or whether—the trial can be continued was expected during the day. The sudden illness of Fischbach's lawyer Daniel P. Maher brought the case to an abrupt halt yesterday and raised the possibility of a mistrial for Fischbach and possibly for Hoffa as well. The decision was up to U. S. Dist. Judge Burnita S. Matthews. Judge Matthews held four separate sessions of court yesterday without deciding how to proceed in view of Maher's illness. She agreed with Fischbach that no new lawyer could fairly replace Maher at this stage of the trial. Fischbach is charged with lining up a Senate Rackets Committee investigator, John C. Cheasty, to be Hoffa's spy on the committee. Cheasty, the government's key witness, had testified for 10 days before Maher's illness, and was under cross-examination by Maher when the trial was suspended. Maher suffered a sudden heart ailment, Fischbach said it was an attack, but Maher's doctor said it was more like "an extremely rapid pulse." A government-selected physician said Maher had suffered no heart damage but did need rest.

suffered no heart damage but did need rest.

It appeared it would be at least a week before he could return and, with the jury being locked up between court sessions, it was considered unlikely Judge Matthews would continue proceedings that long.

Fischbach was under instructions to consult other counsel and report whether he wants his case severed from Hoffa's and tried separately later. There was some question whether Hoffa could be tried alone on a conspiracy indictment. A mistrial for either defendant would mean he could be tried later.

Methodists May Develop Center

HENDERSON, N. C. (AP)—Representatives of two districts of the Representatives of the Raleigh and Rocky Mount districts inspected a proposed site six miles north of Henderson between Satterwhite Point and Meekins Landing. The site already has been leased.

Lawyer Had One Client Too Many

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Attorney John H. Gately found himself in a "most unusual situation" in a court case here. He had one client too many. Gately, a bit red faced, told Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane he didn't realize his clients were on opposite sides of the same accident. The judge permitted Gately to withdraw.

New Jersey Home Plays Grudging Host To Tenodera Sinensis

By RONALD AUTRY
VERONA, N. J. (AP)—The insect age has arrived at our house. Every parent of a 9-year-old will understand.

he said sternly. "It's against the law in New Jersey to kill praying mantises. They're good for gardens."

Grudging Permission
He asked permission to take the thing home. Permission was granted, grudgingly.
Four days passed. Collector's mother opened his closet to find it full of insects. They had hatched in the absent-minded collector's pocket.

The insects were brown, a half-inch long, quick and crawly, mean-looking—in short, baby mantises, less popularly known as tenodera sinensis. Mother summoned reinforcements. Collector arrived at full speed.

For a moment, mother and son faced each other — she accusingly; he proudly.
"I knew I could do it," he cried. Mother set to work to drive the insects out the window.
"Help!"
"Help me," she pleaded, flailing at the bugs hopping about her.
"Careful," he replied in alarm. "You'll hurt them."
Suddenly, a cry of dismay.
"You killed one. I'm going to call a policeman. It's against the law to kill them."
The insects won. Those who wanted to go out went. Those who liked it better inside stayed.
Yes, we still have the praying mantises with us.

Man Is Charged With Break-In

Police last night arrested Alphonso Wilks, Negro of Greenville, on a charge of breaking and entering after police reported finding him in the Negro Elks Lodge.

Sgt. J. B. Cannon and Pli. T. A. Briley investigated at the Elks Lodge on Bonner's Lane after a window was reported broken in the building around 12:30 this morning.

The two officers reported they found Wilks under a table in the lodge. They said he admitted breaking the window.

Wilks was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of a small cut on his hand and then jailed on the breaking and entering charge.

Camera News

A BOAT RIDE for camera fans provides fresh air, marine atmosphere and unusual skyline angles. Here's Jeanne Silbert's view of the U. N. building in Manhattan on the VSP 1956 Tugboat Cruise.

By IRVING DESFOR AP Newsfeatures

There are many reasons why photo field trips by camera groups are successful. There's bound to be a lot of fun and safety when a group shares a common interest on a public date. There's also a lot of communal skill and know-how that can be parceled out so that everyone benefits. This is especially advantageous to beginners because it serves as a practical short-cut to valuable experience.

Then again it cheaper for individuals when expenses are pooled by many. Props and models may be had that one person or a couple couldn't afford. Often, too, a group will be granted privileges and command special considerations that a single camera fan could never achieve.

Now if you add to all these advantages the pleasures of a boat trip with its prospect of off-beat marine pictures, then you'd have an idea of what's in store for camera fans in the New York City area shortly. And it's an idea that can be adapted to almost every section of the country with a few local modifications.

First, there's the Volunteer Service Photographers' Sixth Annual Tugboat Cruise on May 25th. This yearly harbinger of Spring, is the first mass call to the photographic outdoors for Eastern photo fans. About 250 camera-toting passengers will be focusing on the Battery when the tug leaves Pier 1.

The first port of call will be the largest privately owned ship repair yard in New York harbor, Todd shipyards.

When the camera cruisers re-board their tug, they will steam up the East River and their target will be the famous New York skyline.

All proceeds from this trip further a worthy cause, the VSP's hospital rehabilitation programs through photography.

The second camera cruise will take place one week later, June 1st, rain or shine, when a Hudson River steamer embarks on a ten-hour voyage with an estimated two thousand camera fans, families and friends.

At the helm of this camera crew will be Don Langer, writer of a photographic column for one of New York City's Sunday newspapers. This is the latest of his efforts to provide "Fun with Photography" sessions for Eastern camera fans.

Previously he had persuaded the New York City Ballet to stage a series of rehearsals for a photo audience. Then he engineered a train ride to capture autumn colors at their loveliest. Next he arranged a shooting session of professional wrestlers in action at a television studio.

Now Langer has combined some of his previous attractions, added a few new gimmicks tossed them all aboard the "Hudson Bell" in the certainty that camera fans will flock to a see-worthy venture.

After a trip down the bay to focus on the Statue of Liberty and the New York skyline, the steamship will return and pause under the George Washington Bridge for down-under views. The trip will resume with a well known recreation point, Bear Mountain, as the destination. Before and after a two-hour stop, there will be ample opportunity to shoot a ballet troupe in action, professional wrestlers in inaction, some Broadway and TV personalities in reaction or listen to several photographic experts expound on their favorite topics.

So if it's a boat trip you're after, haul these blueprints down to your local camera club chairman and head for the nearest patch of water. The reaction from the fans should be: "Have camera... will travel."

Lawmaker Tells Editors 'Time To Shout Foul'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rep. Moss (D-Calif.) told newspaper editors today it is time to shout "foul" because "you have been indicted without evidence" by secrecy-minded government officials.

Moss, chairman of the House Government Information Subcommittee, referred to a Pentagon study group and to the security commission headed by Loyd Wright in a speech prepared for the American Society of Newspaper Editors' convention.

Moss said the two government groups favored strong legislation applicable to newsmen printing "leaked" information harmful to national security. But he said his subcommittee found no proof of allegations that such practices occurred.

To illustrate how far he said the "climate of censorship" has spread, Moss told an incident he had just come across in Washington.

He said the editor of a military publication asked the Defense Department's Office of Security Review for "clearance" of a review of a book by Confederate Lt. Gen. Richard Taylor published 78 years ago.

He said that editor, whom he did not name, informed the subcommittee he wanted Pentagon clearance because "the book is critical of the Reconstruction period which in return is critical of our government," and "I deemed it advisable to protect both the reviewer and myself by having it sent through security review."

Moss said the Pentagon study group headed by former Asst. Secretary of Defense Coolidge and the Wright commission both found too free a use of the secrecy stamp in government.

Although both groups proposed stiff legislation applicable to newsmen printing secrets, Moss added, neither group sought much information from persons other than the same "security experts" who he said overused the secret stamps.

"It is time that you people who edit the nation's newspapers shout 'foul,'" he said.

"You have been indicted without evidence. Unless you protest vigorously you are in danger of being convicted on the same flimsy grounds."

Prison Inmates To Get Pay Hike

LANSING, Mich. — Michigan prison inmates may get a pay hike soon — their first "since Herbert Hoover's time."

Corrections Director Gus Harrison told the State Corrections Commission yesterday that prison pay ranges from 5 cents a day for unskilled workers to 70 cents a day for skilled labor.

The inmates use the money they earn to buy cigarettes and other personal items. Harrison said 10 prisoners staged a sitdown strike recently to protest a 2-cent increase in the state tax on cigarettes.

The commission ordered prison wages reviewed after Harrison told them they "haven't been altered since almost Herbert Hoover's time."

Vacation Delays Legal Action

DANBURY, N.C. (AP) — What action to be taken in the night escapes from the Stokes County prison camp apparently will stay up in the air until Solicitor Joe Bill Neal ends his vacation.

Neal, Stokes County solicitor, was to have conferred with State Bureau of Investigation officials concerning their findings in the case involving unauthorized trips to Winston-Salem at night by prisoners.

Camp Supt. C. T. Christian said yesterday Neal was expected back from his vacation next week. "I'm not going to go over his head to take action. He's running this thing," Christian declared.

Officers said previously three guards and two civilians also were involved.

LAST TOLL SUNBURY, Pa. (AP) — J. Harry Kreitzer collected the last toll on the Sunbury-Shamokin Dam bridge 50 years after he took the first one in 1907.

Kreitzer became a toll collector again at 77 just for the ceremony after which tolls were ended on the span crossing the Susquehanna River.

Glad To Oblige Reluctant Owner

BALTIMORE (AP) — Irving A. Kolker, who wouldn't cut grass without a notice from the police, has received his notice — and a $25 fine.

Kolker was given a suspended fine of $15 last year for the same offense—failing to cut and clean the empty lot he owns in North Baltimore.

Kolker has promised to cut the lot after last year's trial, but said last month he had to have an official notice. He told the same thing to Patrolman Stephen J. Culatta of the sanitation squad, who was glad to oblige.

Court Hearing Features Trustees vs. Trustees

RED SPRINGS, N.C. (P)—Flora Macdonald College trustees will be opposing Flora Macdonald trustees when a show cause action is heard in Robeson Superior Court next Monday.

In a special meeting yesterday, the majority of trustees agreed to fight a restraining order brought against them by four other trustees.

The majority issued a statement after the meeting. They said "the board views with great regret the concern the action of a small minority of the board, which brings the agencies of the Presbyterian Church before the civil court."

They were referring to Dr. C. T. Johnson and Mrs. Mary McEachern of Red Springs. Mrs. Raymond Adams of Chapel Hill and H. D. Jones of Graham. The four got a restraining order to prevent the merger of Flora Macdonald College into the consolidated Presbyterian college at Laurinburg.

The statement added that "the program of higher education of the Synod of North Carolina has had for a period of several years the most careful study by a group of outstanding educators and by a commission of ministers and laymen representatives of the entire synod."

Japanese Lawyer Advises Girard Obtain More Help

MAEBASHI, Japan (P)—A Japanese lawyer acting for U.S. Army Specialist 3.C. William Girard recommended today that Girard hire two more Japanese lawyers to defend him against a manslaughter charge in a Japanese court.

"This is a stiff trial, and the defense should be strong," said Isuro Hayashi.

Hayashi met with court officials here to man trial procedure, but would not disclose details of the talks.

Hayashi still is listed on Maebashi court records as lawyer for Girard, the 21-year-old Illinois soldier charged with causing the death of a Japanese woman on a firing range Jan. 30.

Girard said earlier he had fired Hayashi, but dismissal notice was not filed with the court as prescribed in Japanese law. Hayashi said he would not quit until he was sure "it is Girard's own wish" that he drop the case. Girard's brother Louis in the United States told William to fire Hayashi.

Court officials in Maebashi today reiterated their determination to try Girard regardless of which way the U.S. Supreme Court rules on jurisdiction over the airman.

"We have set the trial date for mid-August. Girard has been indicted here and he will be tried here," said a court spokesman.

State Police In, Local Cops Quit

HUBBARDSTOWN, Mass. (P)—State police today patrolled this town of 1,162 population after the resignation of the police chief and the entire force of three men left the town without police protection.

Police Chief Howard Taylor and his three patrolmen mailed their resignations to the Board of Selectmen Tuesday.

He said he and the other three officers resigned because of trouble with "hot-rodgers," drivers of jalopies.

Taylor accused some parents of not cooperating with him in the enforcement of regulations pertaining to "hot-rodgers."

MIAMI, Fla. (P)—Charles Sash, 32, was arrested for speeding while hurrying to Municipal Court for a hearing on another speeding charge.

Stassen Set To Give Elaboration

LONDON (P)—Harold E. Stassen prepared to tell the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee today more about the U.S. proposal for beginning a partial disarmament treaty with a 10-month suspension of nuclear weapons tests.

U. S. informants said the chief American delegate promised the new statement at yesterday's subcommittee session but gave no hint whether the United States would be willing to extend the suspension period.

The Soviet Union has insisted on a halt of at least two years in weapons tests, but the U. S. sources said the Russians invited new discussions on the American proposal.

Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin was said to have asked Stassen to elaborate on the plan, adding, "Perhaps you can convince us."

Some Western officials saw Zorin's request as a hopeful sign that implied willingness to negotiate. Last Monday Zorin had devoted most of a long speech to criticism and rejection of the Western position.

Union Officials Will Face Trial

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (P)—Four Teamsters union officials face trial in Mayor's Court here Monday in two separate cases.

A non-union truck driver of the Holly Farms Poultry Co. charged that H. E. Sommes-of-Wilkesboro, Salem and Clyde Smithers, a striking driver at Holly Farms, both union organizers, threatened his life.

The nonunion driver, James Marley, swore out a peace warrant against the pair July 5. He said they accosted him in a drive-in restaurant and threatened to kill him and harm his family because he continued to work at the struck poultry company plant in Wilkesboro.

Vice President George W. Carter of Local 391, Teamsters union in Winston-Salem, and Torrence E. Correll, an organizer for Local 71, Teamsters union in Charlotte, were charged with drunkenness.

Carter, Correll and a Wilkesboro woman, Mrs. Sylvia Combs, were arrested here on the night of July 4 in an automobile. Police Chief Zeno Walsh said he saw the car run three red lights.

He said he stopped the car and found several paper cups partially filled with whisky. He said he had to forcibly remove the woman and when he did a bottle of whisky concealed on her person spilled.

Chief Walsh charged Carter with driving under the influence of alcohol. Mrs. Combs with public drunkenness.

Correll recently was released from jail after having been convicted in Charlotte of assault with a deadly weapon in a labor dispute.

Kiwanis, Elks Pull Twin Upsets In Little Loop

Moose, Lions Suffer Losses In Twin Bill

Two big upsets took place yesterday afternoon in Little League action. The Lions and the Moose, constant league-leaders in their respective loops, both got booted in a doubleheader at Elm Street Park.

Little Denn Hardee hurled his Elks to a lopsided 10-0 rout of the Moose Club in the Tar Heel League contest. Hardee peeled off the Moose batters with ease, racking up a one-hitter that would have been a no-hitter had not Mike Cavendish punched out a single in the final half of the final inning.

Besides doing all the mound work for the Elks, Hardee whacked out a home run in the second inning to start his team on the rally that netted them 10 runs. Ned Cain and Bill Green were also leading hitters in the Elk victory.

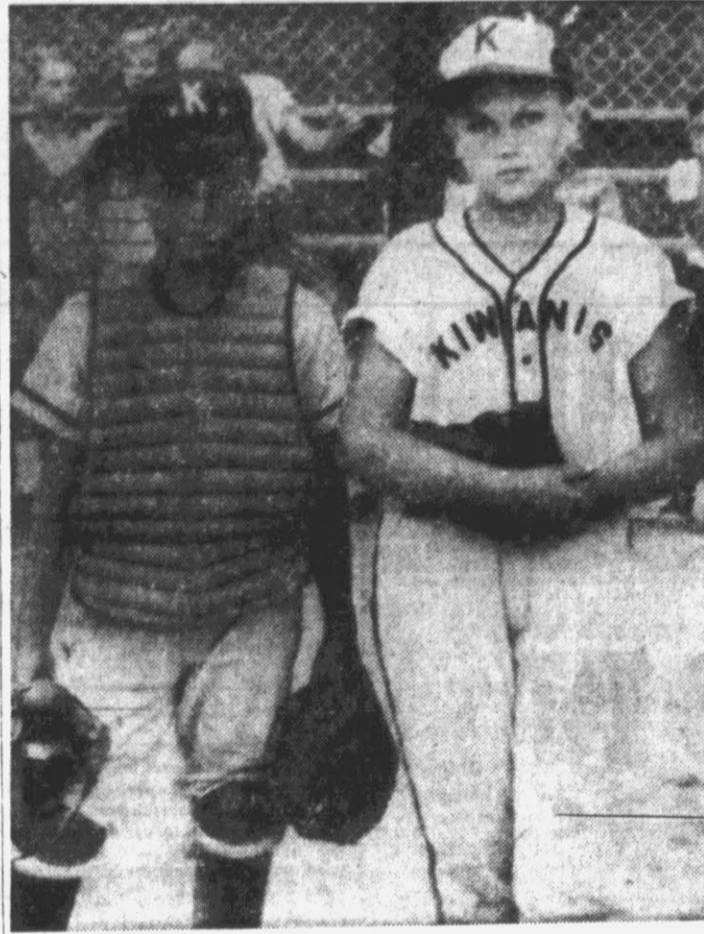

Kiwanis Win, 2-1 In the North State League action, the Kiwanis Club jumped to an early 2-1 lead in the first inning and held on to that score for the full playing time. Garry Conway pitched for the winners and gave up only four hits. Ernest Larkin hurled for the Lions. He gave up nine baseknocks.

Gene Hemby, Kiwanis catcher, led the batting for both clubs, collecting a double and two singles. Scheduled for this afternoon is a game between the North State Jaycees and the VFW. Game time is set for 5:00.

Semipro Tourney Unfolding Soon ROXBORO, N.C. (AP)—The annual North Carolina semipro baseball tournament will open here next Wednesday with a series of double-headers.

State Commissioner Oka Hester of Greensboro and tournament director Harold Clayton of Timberlake said the first round action will last four days. The tournament winner represents North Carolina in the national playoffs.

Pirates Win On Purkey's Talent

By ED WILKS The Associated Press Young Bob Purkey, Pittsburgh's chubby-faced right-hander, looks as though he may be following in the footsteps of teammate Bob Friend, the Pirate ace who gave the pennant contenders all sorts of troubles two years ago while leading the National League in earned run averages.

Friend, a bit battered these days, was the guy who almost owned Brooklyn's champs in '55. He was 14-9 that season for the last-place Bucs, with a 9-5 mark against the first division, while finishing with a 2.84 ERA.

At the moment, Purkey is 9-7 and leads the league with a 2.70 ERA, gaining his second victory over Milwaukee 5-2 last night. It was the only game scheduled in either league.

Purkey stopped the Braves with a six-hitter, striking out seven and walking two. A single by Red Schoendienst came ahead of Ed Mathews' 18th home run in the first inning, but Purkey then kept the Braves in check while the Pirates battled back against Bob Buhl.

Bob Skinner hit a two-run homer and Gene Baker bagged it with a three-run single. Purkey, a Pittsburgh kid who spent most of last season in the minors after wrenching a knee in the spring training, has picked up seven of his 1957 victories against the NL's five-team first division. He's beaten Brooklyn three times, Cincinnati twice. Only St. Louis has given him trouble, beating him twice in two decisions.

The Pirates, handed Buhl his fifth defeat in 14 decision when a walk, Dick Groat's single and an error by Frank Torre loaded the bases with two out in the sixth. With the runners on the move, Baker then lined a 3-2 pitch through short to junk a 2-2 tie.

New York Giving Gibson Ticker Tape Reception

By WILL GRIMSLEY NEW YORK (AP)—New York today gave its greatest accolade—a ticker tape parade up Broadway—to Althea Gibson, the 29-year-old Negro girl who rose from Harlem's teeming sidewalks to become the world's foremost woman tennis player.

She won the Wimbledon title, tennis' biggest prize—Saturday in England. She is the first of her race, man or woman, to capture a singles championship in the 90-year-old event.

It was the climax of a long struggle for the once-scrawny, long-legged girl who learned her tennis with paddles on New York sidewalks and who often became so discouraged she wanted to quit.

Althea was born in 1927 in Silver, S.C. When she was 1, her parents brought her to New York with her brother and three sisters. Her father took a job in Harlem as a garage mechanic.

A good athlete who could beat most of the boys in the neighborhood at baseball, basketball and table tennis, Althea learned her strokes by hitting a rubber ball against a brick wall with a crude wooden paddle.

She was 15 when a play-street supervisor, Buddy Walker, became impressed with her manish way of socking the ball. He introduced her to the Cosmopolitan Tennis Club, which has an interracial membership, where she became a protegee of Fred Johnson, a one-armed tennis professional.

She also was instructed by Sydney Llewellyn, a Harlem taxicab driver who was a self-taught, part-time pro. Her natural ability manifested itself quickly.

Two Negro physicians interested in tennis, Dr. H. A. Eaton of Williston, N.C., and Dr. R. W. Johnson of Lynchburg, Va., became interested in her. Dr. Eaton invited her to live with his family and finish her high school work—which had been interrupted—in Williston.

In 1949 Althea received a scholarship at Florida A&M. She already was an established player in the Negro tournament ranks but little known otherwise.

Robersonville Tourney Gets Underway Friday

ROBERSONVILLE — Tomorrow afternoon at 1:00, the second annual Robersonville Invitational Tennis Tournament will get underway, with 16 entrants trying for the title.

Maurice Everett, muscular East Carolina College senior, a native of Robersonville, is the reigning king at the present time.

Tournament Chairman Bob Lee stated today that the tourney is being sponsored this year by A. O. Roberson and Company and the H & H Gas Company along with the newly-founded Robersonville Jaycees.

Lee also defined the purpose of the Invitational Tourney by saying that it has been established "to promote good will and foster better relations between the people of our community and the people of neighboring towns of Eastern Carolina."

Represented in the tourney are several towns of Eastern North Carolina, and at least one out-of-stater is also registered. Ken Craiker, of Georgia, a student and member of the ECC net team this season, is in the pairings. Other towns represented are Ayden, Rich Square, Roxobel, Bethel and Enfield.

Due to what Lee terms "the generosity of the hosts and sponsors," the entry fee for the play has been minimized. The three organizations who are acting sponsors are also furnishing trophies and handling the other expenses of the tourney.

A new division has been added to the regular tournament play this season: the veterans division for men over 36 years of age. Reports from Robersonville indicate that much interest has been shown toward this addition.

Play will begin tomorrow afternoon at 1:00 on the Robersonville tennis courts and the tourney will extend through Sunday.

Bragan Claims His Righthander Is Scientific

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS PITTSBURGH (AP)—Bobby Bragan, happy over the modest four-game winning streak of his young Pittsburgh Pirates, said today his star right-hand pitcher Bob Purkey "is a real scientific pitcher—not a thrower."

After watching Purkey beat the second-place Milwaukee Braves 5-2 last night on a six-hitter, Bragan declared: "You know, always trying for the corner of the plate. Now, he's throwing that strike ball with better control and he gets ahead of most of the batters. He doesn't overpower them. He has a tricky knuckleball and some other fine pitches. That boy has a real future."

Purkey's record speaks for itself. He has an earned run average of 2.70, tops in the National League. In 110 1-3 innings he's given up only 22 walks and has had 33 strikeouts.

He's pitched five complete games in 12 starts and has hurled one shutout, that against the Giants. Two of his nine victories have come in relief and he's specialized in beating the pennant contenders. He's defeated Milwaukee twice, Brooklyn three times and Cincinnati twice. His other victories have been over the Giants.

One of the three homers he has given up was hit by Eddie Mathews in the first inning last night and it gave the Braves a 2-0 lead. An inside-the-park two-run homer in the fourth and Gene Baker sewed up Purkey's victory with a three-run single in the sixth.

Teams For Near And Far Arrive For Tournament By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS GREENSBORO (AP)—Teams from as far north as Massachusetts and as far south as the Panama Canal Zone arrived here today for the second annual Eastern Invitational age group swimming championships.

The competition begins tomorrow with 301 swimmers entered. They represent 24 teams and four unattached groups.

First team to arrive yesterday was the Watchung Lake Club of Glen Rock, N.J., 13 girls coached by Mrs. Catherine Meyers, a member of the 1956 Olympic committee.

Ingram Homers Thrice To Pace Undefeated Leaders

Industrial Softballers had a hitting good time last night at Guy Smith Stadium, as the Graniteers whipped Greenville Paris and Metal, 16-2, and Carolina Dairy trounced Carolina Telephone and Telegraph, 20-4.

In the first game, Dan Gordan hurled his undefeated Graniteers to victory. Gordan, a lanky right-hander, has pitched every game his team has played this season and has not lost yet.

Gordan, however, was not the golden boy for the Graniteers last night. Harold Ingram, sweeney second baseman, clouted three home runs and a single to grab most of the honors.

Ingram blasted one over the rightfield fence in the first inning, one over the scoreboard in leftfield in the fourth, and one almost out of sight in centerfield in the fifth. The centerfield smash traveled to the cinder track of the stadium, some 380 feet away.

He Riddick, another Graniteer, also collected a home run. The winners rapped P&M pitcher Charles Odum for a total of 13 hits.

Dairy Wins The second ball game, featuring the Carolina Dairy and Carolina Telephone and Telegraph, started at 9:15 and was called at 10:30 due to the time element and the fact that the Dairy had a 20-4 lead.

Brantley hurled for the winners and gave up only five hits. The loser was Eatman, who was slugged for 22 baseknocks.

For three innings, the game rolled along at an even clip, with the Dairy holding a slim 2-2 lead. In the fifth, however, the Dairy hitters blasted away for six quick hits and brought in five runs to start a rally. Roy Heidenrich, Dairy centerfielder, unleashed a home run in the sixth with two on base to begin another rally.

20-Game Losers

NEW YORK (AP)—There may be more 20-game losers than 20-game winners among major league pitchers this season.

Only seven pitchers had 10 or more victories as the campaign entered its second half today. They are Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox (12-6), Early Wynn of Cleveland (11-10), Jim Bunning of Detroit (10-2) in the American League and Larry Jackson of St. Louis (10-4), Jack Sanford of Philadelphia (10-2), and Ruben Gomez of the New York Giants (10-7) in the National.

Only Pierce and Wynn from among this group were 20-game winners in 1956. Seven others in last year's select category are unlikely to make the grade.

Al McGuire Will Coach Belmont Abbey Net Team BELMONT, N.C. (AP)—North Carolinians, delighted with the first basketball McGuire they got from Brooklyn's St. John's University, will get another next year.

Belmont Abbey College yesterday announced the employment of Al McGuire as head basketball coach. McGuire comes from Dartmouth where he was freshman coach and varsity assistant. He will assume his duties here in September.

Dave Reed Carving Mound Reputation

CAROLINA LEAGUE David Reed, a young Durham pitcher, is on his way to carving quite a niche as a strikeout artist in the Carolina League.

He fanned 13 last night and handcuffed the Hi-Toms on six hits as Durham gained a 5-2 win at home. It was Reed's 11th win of the season.

The victory was Durham's fifth against 11 losses in the second half of the season. Reed has accounted for three of the wins by striking out 15, 11 and 13, respectively. The Bulls banged out 11 hits, with Al Paschal getting three for three.

The Danville Leafs defeated Greensboro 5-3 at Greensboro to snap a three-game Patriot winning streak. Two newcomers, Gil Bassetti and Sal Ferrara, figured prominently in the win. Bassetti, who had previously worked only nine innings in the Carolina League, pitched a six-hitter. Ferrara, just sent down to replace first baseman Al Milley, banged out five straight singles.

Action Hot And Heavy In Open

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Hot and heavy action continued on all fronts of the 35th annual North Carolina Open tennis championships today with the veterans keeping a close eye on the youngsters.

Singles and doubles action was set in the men's, junior and veterans divisions and in the women's singles.

Les Longshore of Knoxville, Tenn., the No. 1 seed in the men's singles, was paired against southpaw Norman Jarrard of Chapel Hill.

Longshore, meanwhile, was keeping an out for a couple of hard-playing youngsters in the men's division, Ned Neely of Atlanta and Tommy Ricks, 17-year-old sensation from Durham.

About 'Hurricane'

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y. (AP)—"What makes Hurricane Jackson the toughest contender around is that you can never tell what he's going to do," said heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson today.

"And how can you tell what he's going to do when he doesn't know himself," chimed in Manager Gus D'Amato.

The manager and his protegee were stung up Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, the eccentric, tireless, rock-jawed challenger who meets Patterson in a 15-round title fight at the Polo Grounds July 29.

Willie Vaughn Looking For More Like Hernandez

CHICAGO (AP)—A new hard-punching Willie Vaughn looked around for bouts with top middleweight contenders today after his TKO victory over rugged Mexican middleweight Chebo Hernandez.

Vaughn, who has made a big mark as a boxer than a slugger, unleashed a blistering two-fisted assault to batter Hernandez into helplessness in 2:19 of the seventh round of their scheduled 10-round nationally televised bout last night.

Vaughn went in for the kill in the sixth and seventh rounds after shaking off jolting punches to the head and indiscretion that had him hanging on in the fifth.

Another early arrival was the Vesper Boat Club team of Philadelphia, coached by Mrs. Mary Freeman Kelly, sister-in-law of former movie actress Grace Kelly. Mrs. Kelly did not make the trip. Meet officials scheduled 30 heats for trials tomorrow morning and expected to require six hours to run them off. The finalists begin competition tomorrow night at 9 o'clock and continue Saturday.

Teams For Near And Far Arrive For Tournament

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS GREENSBORO (AP)—Teams from as far north as Massachusetts and as far south as the Panama Canal Zone arrived here today for the second annual Eastern Invitational age group swimming championships.

The competition begins tomorrow with 301 swimmers entered. They represent 24 teams and four unattached groups.

First team to arrive yesterday was the Watchung Lake Club of Glen Rock, N.J., 13 girls coached by Mrs. Catherine Meyers, a member of the 1956 Olympic committee.

Reunification Hopes Kept Alive By E. German Exodus

By WARREN ROGERS JR.
HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — The German who can no longer live under communism in the East and slips across to the West is keeping warm the hope of eventual German reunification.

Nearly every day airplanes from Berlin, where freedom is just a subway ride from East to West, bring what the West Germans call "new settlers."

They are not a happy sight:

mothers with hastily packed shopping baskets and infants smelling in need of a bath; a middle-aged man who is beginning to have second thoughts about the impulse which sent him fleeing from his family; a thumb-sucking little girl whose hair should be combed.

But they quicken the heartbeat of the prosperous and well-fed West Germans who see them arrive at the airport and get herded into trucks for the ride to the reception center.

"But for the grace of God, there go I," said one West German who watched it. "How long must this go on?"

It has been going on since the Russians clamped an Iron Curtain on their occupation zone in Germany after World War II. In 12 years nearly 2,800,000 Germans have fled the Soviet zone and the Soviet sector of Berlin, settling in the West.

Berlin is the easiest place to jump because there is considerable back-and-forth traffic. But it is an island in the Soviet zone of Germany. That is why refugees are flown out.

A visit to Berlin nowadays does not provide the contrast between East and West living conditions that it once did.

The West Berliners, to be sure, are a chic lot by comparison with those of the East. The Westerners laugh a lot more and their side-walk cafes, like their clothes and cars, are brighter and gayer. But the Easterners, despite their bent heads and grim faces, appear busy and productive.

The reason for the changed look may lie in what happened June 17, 1953. That was the date of the Berlin uprising, when the people threw rocks at Red army tanks years before the Hungarian revolt and the Polish riots. The Reds have since eased their yoke in East Berlin.

"The Communists don't want to help friends and relatives in the East. And where would that put the North Atlantic Treaty nations? Would they join with Germany in a war against Russia?"

It is a catastrophic thought to people rebuilding their country from the rubble of World War II. And there is the practical side of reunification. What happens to the prosperous West German economy if it suddenly is weighted down with the lagging economy of the East?

Some West Germans, comfortable in their new apartments and with deutschemarks clinking in their pockets, shrink from the idea of cutting back their living standards.

Flying To Paris To Discuss Case Of Indicted Spies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Asst. U. S. Atty. Gen. William F. Tompkins said last night he will fly to Paris next week to discuss the case of George and Jane Zlatovskis, who seek asylum in France from a U.S. accusation of spying for the Kremlin.

Tompkins said he hopes to have personal discussions with "appropriate French authorities" that may open the way to extradition of the couple.

Zlatovskis, Russian-born former lieutenant in U. S. Army Intelligence, claimed he and his wife had been given asylum in Paris today official sources said there is no chance France will grant asylum to the Zlatovskis.

But it was not clear whether the French government would take measures to deport the couple, or how it might do so.

U.S. officials have said the French government is under no obligation to extradite the couple under existing treaties. These do not provide extradition for political offenses, officials said.

But Tompkins is expected to explore the possibility that France can find a way to turn the couple over to this country on the grounds there is nothing in the treaties to prevent such action.

A French official was quoted in Paris as saying that the right of asylum cannot "be granted to a citizen of the United States because the internal situation of that country in no way justifies voluntary emigration."

The Interior Ministry said Zlatovskis arrived in Paris in 1949 to study under the GI Bill of Rights and automatically was granted a residence permit which is still valid.

Federal Judge Thomas F. Murphy has signed bench warrants in New York for the apprehension of the Zlatovskis.

FAILED TWICE
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Witnesses said a 27-year-old workman tried to commit suicide twice yesterday, leaping first in front of a bus and seconds later in the path of a streetcar. Both efforts failed but the man lost a leg.

Three Methods Used In Car-Use Compensation

RALEIGH — "Have car — will travel" is a prime requisite for countless salesmen of the nation today in this nation on wheels, but some employers are finding it difficult to determine just how and how much they should be compensated.

To compensate employees who use their cars on company business, several methods for computing the allowance are used, depending on the circumstances, such as if the vehicle is used constantly or occasionally, in cities or rural areas, or if it is driven in an area where operating costs are higher than average.

Here are three methods of compensation generally used, as reported by the Carolina Motor Club:

Probably most common is a flat mileage allowance of so many cents a mile. During the post-war years, most companies raised the reimbursement rate. Today, the prevailing rate is 8 cents a mile — up one cent from two years ago.

Latest rates paid by companies, according to the Dartnell Corporation, a Chicago management consulting firm, which makes annual surveys of automobile operation compensation: 5 per cent of the companies surveyed pay 6 cents a mile; 2 per cent 6½ cents a mile; 31 per cent 7 cents a mile; 6 per cent 7½ cents a mile; 44 per cent 8 cents a mile; 1 per cent 8½ cents a mile; 6 per cent 9 cents a mile, and 5 per cent 10 cents a mile.

The principal advantage of the flat mileage allowance system is its simplicity. It is readily understood by the car owner and involves a minimum of bookkeeping and office control. Big disadvantage is that it frequently results in overpayment or under-payment compared to actual costs.

A compensation schedule based on the number of miles driven a week and the type of driving has also been developed by the Dartnell Corporation. It more accurately reflects operating costs, but it can be applied only to cars operated more or less constantly on company business.

Rates vary for cars operated in moderate-sized communities and in country service over hard-surfaced roads; cars operated in cities of over 500,000 population; cars operated under some unusual conditions, as in mountainous areas or in areas where local gasoline taxes are considerably above the national average.

Taking the first category, cars driven 25 miles a week, or 13,000 miles a year, receive an allowance of $2.71 a week; for 100 miles weekly, $3.47 a week, and so on.

The R.E. Runzheimer Corporation has developed a schedule of automobile allowances based on the factors that make up normal operating costs — both fixed and variable. The averages are: $1.74 a day ($635 yearly) to cover fixed costs, such as depreciation, license and registration, property damage and liability, and fire and theft insurance; plus 3.69 cents a mile for gas, oil, tires, and maintenance. For mileage in excess of 18,000 annually, an additional depreciation allowance of $11.72 a thousand should be added to the fixed costs.

Need Refresher Course On Milk

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The ladies of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau have discovered that too many children think milk comes from bottles.

They've announced a campaign to do something about it. The organization is distributing posters of a "Good Health Giant," who explains it really comes from cows. And besides the children who do the best coloring job on the posters will be eligible for prizes at county fairs next summer.

DOGS RESTRAINED
DALLAS (AP)—Postal officials say the city's leash law has really helped muzzle unfriendly pooches. Postmen reported eight dog bites in June, compared with 24 in the same month last year.

Molotov, Once Hailed As Disciple And Student Of Lenin, Now Ruined

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Who was the most "tireless fighter for the peace and security of Soviet peoples and workers of all countries?"

He is the same man who tried to "block measures to relax international tension and consolidate world peace."

Who was a "true student and disciple of the great Lenin... a great theoretician of the party... merciless enemy in his struggle with antiparty elements?"

He is the same man who led an "antiparty group" in "direct opposition to the wise Leninist policy."

The praise for Vyacheslav Mikhailovich Molotov was printed in the 1954 edition of the Soviet Encyclopedia. The denunciation was in the statement last week purging him from communism's top ranks.

Molotov at 67 emerges as a grotesquely tragicomic figure, Lenin once described him as the "best filing clerk in Russia." He wound up with a super-bookkeeper's job, and has lost even that.

For the most of three violent decades, Molotov was Stalin's voice. He symbolized Russian distrust and suspicion of the outside. For 10 years he waddled through the patterns of the cold war.

The last of the real Old Bolsheviks now finds himself destroyed. He was the one man remaining in the Soviet hierarchy who could say he worked closely with Lenin—but he has become officially "anti-Leninist." The upstarts he watched unconcernedly through years of purge and plotting at last have overwhelmed him.

Old "Kamenny Zad (Stone Bottom)" they called Molotov for his reputation as a tough negotiator in world politics.

Winston Churchill once described him as a man of outstanding ability, cold and ruthless, whose "cannonball head, slab face verbal adroitness and imperturbable demeanor" cast a pall over postwar efforts to achieve a real peace.

Himself accustomed to being browbeaten by Stalin, Molotov to his subordinates was a tireless driver.

He considered himself the faithful servant of Stalin, and stood by the dictator through peril and triumph in a succession of frightfully bloody years.

"I have no desire other than to be a real disciple of Lenin," Molotov once said. "I received my schooling under the direct guidance of the best disciple of Lenin, Comrade Stalin. I am proud of this."

He was born the son of a middle class clerk named Scriabin in a Vyatka province village in 1890. At 16 he was a member of the Bolsheviks. By 19 he was a veteran of czarist imprisonments and escapes. A coeditor with Stalin of Pravda before the Revolution of 1917, he was to become one of Stalin's "young men."

At 34 Molotov was in the rarefied atmosphere of the Politburo, helping his boss in the Trotsky purge. By 1930 he was Stalin's choice for premier. In 1939 he took on the added job of foreign commissar.

Molotov's wife Paulina Zemchushchina-Karpovskaya, a Ukrainian Jew whom he met in 1912, became commissar of cosmetics and then commissar of the fish industry. The Molotovs have two daughters, Svetlana and Sonya, the latter adopted.

Georgi Malenkov, now in the same boat as Molotov, was instrumental in getting Mrs. Molotov fired from her jobs before the war. Stalin, in his latter days of paranoid suspicion, sent Molotov's wife to a prison camp. She returned after the dictator died.

Though Stalin evidently turned on him, Molotov remained faithful to Stalinism. But in the unending struggle for power, this stony man turned weak. He could not keep pace with the plotting. The last remaining Lenin co-worker in the hierarchy, he was humiliated by being forced to confess errors in interpreting Leninism. To assuage Tito to Yugoslavia, he was fired as foreign minister.

They gave him a job as minister of state control—a super-bookkeeper presiding over the accounts of government operation. Today he is in Nikita Khrushchev's debit column, and a poor insurance risk.

His Miniature Car A 'Hybrid'

HURDSFIELD, N.D. (AP)—When you ask Robert Weisz about the make of that foreign-looking miniature car he's driving, it takes him a while to explain.

Weisz made it himself—from parts of eight old cars and a tractor —at his farm home three miles south of here. It's powered by 1½-horsepower washing machine engine and will do up to 25 miles an hour.

Used Hearse Is Now Dead Issue

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Kappa Sigma fraternity boys sold the used hearse they bought as a cheap means of transportation.

"It's not that we're superstitious," said James Wilhelm of Tacoma, Wash., at Southern Methodist University. "We need the money."

Only one of the girls they took to games and dances in the hearse objected.

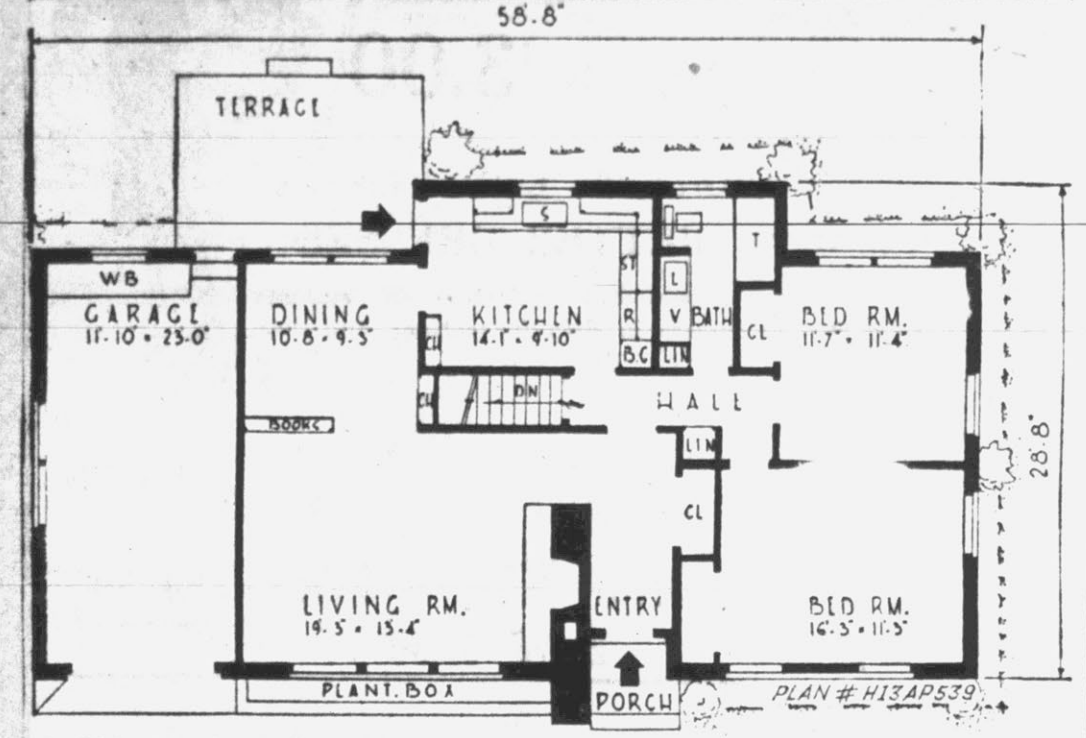

"She said she wouldn't be caught dead in it," Wilhelm said.

FELL IN, DROWNED

SOQUEL, Calif. (AP)—An 18-month-old baby drowned in 2½ inches of water. Mrs. Virginia Brown told firemen she left her daughter Janice in a high chair while she checked a washing machine. When she returned the baby was face down in the bathtub.

Thomas Jefferson was first a Republican, then Democrat.

Notable Presentation In Public Affairs Program

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—"Look Up and Live," the excellent CBS-TV public affairs program appearing Sunday mornings (10:30 a.m., EDT) is presenting a series, entitled "The Seeking Years," that explores the problems of young men and women on the threshold of maturity.

Last Sunday in "A Thing of Beauty" by Howard Rodman, three young Broadway actresses—Diana Van der Vlis, Sarah Marshall and Bryary Lee—played superbly the roles of three competitors in a college beauty contest launched by three boys. The girls ranged from the seemingly least beautiful to the seemingly most beautiful.

The excellent impressionistic staging that marks "Look Up and Live" was ideally suited to and thoughtfully playing on the ages-old idea of what constitutes beauty. While this little morality play naturally could not ignore the truth that beauty is of the mind or soul rather than the flesh, it avoided the old cliches far more ably than has many a publicized nighttime TV drama.

Next Sunday "The Seeking Years" will examine juvenile delinquency. The following two Sundays will deal with racial relations between teen-agers. It is with regret one hears that some southern television stations have refused to show the last two programs of the series.

Combining the finest artful qualities of the television medium with the sincerity that marks the devout and intelligent of all faiths, "The Seeking Years" brings to the home screen the essence of modern religious thought and emotion.

Knows Secret Of 4-Leaf Clover

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Mrs. Harry Huffman says she's found the secret of growing four-leaf clovers.

"If you let four-leaf clover turn to seed, the seed just produces three-leaf clovers," Mrs. Huffman claims. "However, if you pick the blossoms, the plants spread their roots and up come new four-leaf plants."

She has a bed of four-leaf clovers about 15 feet long.

Painful Proof Pistol Works

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—A stranger approached James L. Spow and asked if he wanted to buy a .22 caliber pistol.

"Does it work?" asked Spow, as the stranger handed over the gun.

The pistol discharged, sending Spow to the Hospital with a bullet wound in the leg.

Claim Progress In Beating Smog

LOS ANGELES (AP)—This metropolitan giant of the West today can claim substantial progress in its nine-year battle against the smog which had threatened to strangle it.

The Los Angeles Air Pollution Control District said the smog-producing elements of industry and rubbish incineration have been largely controlled or will be, upon completion of programs now nearing conclusion.

This, said the annual report of control officer S. Smith Griswold, leaves only the automobile exhaust as a major source of smog. And auto exhaust, said the APCD, will be a critical problem for at least another four years.

Cost of the antismog battle since it was launched in 1948 was estimated at $72,770,000 in the report, issued yesterday. Industry has invested 50 millions in devices to control smoke and fumes. The APCD has spent $10,320,000 on its control program. Research expenditures by other agencies amount to $12,450,000.

Has the amount of smog actually been reduced?

There has not been a smog alert so far this year. At this time last year there had been three. There were 10 alerts in 1956, compared with 15 in 1955.

An alert is called when the amount of ozone in the air reaches .50 part per million parts of air. The ozone content is considered a measure of air pollution.

The APCD said there have been fewer days of heavy eye irritation below alert level this year than in 1956.

House Hearing Soon On Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's foreign aid bill goes today before the House Rules Committee, which has yet to act on a move to end foreign trials of GIs.

In advance of the hearing, Chairman Gordon (D-Ill.) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee took issue with the reported Democratic leadership decision to stall a disputed bill by Rep. Bow (R-Ohio). The bill seeks to do away with trials of U.S. servicemen in the courts of countries in which they are stationed.

"I want to get it out" for a House vote, Gordon said of the Bow bill. "It's been footbalting around here quite some time."

But Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio), an opponent of the bill, said in a separate interview he now believes it likely that the rules group will clear the foreign aid bill without acting first, if at all, on Bow's measure.

That could set up the foreign aid bill as the center of a House fight over whether to end foreign trials of GIs.

Rarely have two major foreign affairs bills converted on the Rules Committee at the same time and with such entangling effects on each other.

Eisenhower says his foreign aid bill is a vital link in America's security system. The Bow resolution, the administration says, could break up that security system by forcing withdrawal of U.S. troops from other countries.

But Bow says if the House doesn't get a chance to vote on his resolution first, he will try to tack it on the aid bill. And with the clamor heavy against the proposed Japanese trial of Army Specialist S.C. William S. Girard, House sentiment is reported strong for passing the Bow bill.

Yesterday the Rules Committee held a second day of hearings on the Bow resolution after an eight-day layoff. It took no action. Vorys said he expects the group to clear the aid bill for House consideration Monday.

More Gunfire By Israeli, Syrians

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP) — An Israeli army spokesman said Syrian positions fired rifles and machine guns today on Israel's Gonen settlement, but that no one was hurt.

Gonen, on the west bank of the Jordan River in eastern upper Galilee, was the center of a 10-hour border skirmish Tuesday.

The army spokesman said the shooting today lasted only 15 minutes. Israeli sources reported "feverish military activity and troop movements" yesterday on the Syrian side of the armistice line. Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion and Gen. Moshe Dayan, army chief of staff, visited settlements near the Syrian border.

The Tel Aviv newspaper Maariv blamed Moscow propaganda broadcasts in Arabic and Soviet bloc arms shipments to Syria for causing the border flareup Tuesday. The Israelis said one Israeli civilian was killed and seven policemen wounded in the shooting Tuesday. The Syrians said two Arab women and two children were wounded.

William Baxter, American charge d'affaires, expressed hope to the Israel Foreign Ministry that Israel "would do everything to keep her border quiet." Israeli sources said the ministry told Baxter, as well as British and French diplomats, that Israel shares a hope for border peace but feels the Syrian attacks were wholly unprovoked.

The Israeli delegate to the United Nations, Mordecai Kidron, said in New York he had asked the U.N. "to take a firm line with the Syrian government and request them in strong terms to desist" from attacks.

In Damascus, the Syrian government radio charged that Israel was guilty of anti-Arab aggression in the border clash. It said the Israelis defied U.N. cease-fire orders and then falsely accused Syria of disregarding them.

CHAPTER 34

Some things a man never forgets; some scenes are so deeply burned into his consciousness by the white-hot iron of danger that they linger in his memory until his death. So it was now. Gene Dillingham stood in the middle of the room, his 45 in his hand, the same gun he had laid on the porch the day I, Will Beeson, fought him.

Sarah Pardee sat in the wheel chair behind Dillingham, her face pale, her hands gripping the arms of her chair, but in the quick glance I gave her I saw she wasn't panicky, and that gave me hope.

All I could think of to say was, "Well, Gene, I haven't seen you for a long time."

I stomped snow from my boots; I took off my hat and heat it against my legs, then threw it on the couch. It was all the bravado I could muster, but it was enough to impress Dillingham.

"By God, you're a cool one!" he said.

"Cool!" I said. "I'm cold. It must be twenty below outside."

I took off my coat and tossed it after the hat. Still Dillingham stood motionless as if he and the gun were carved out of granite. I was doing the only thing I could. If I ignored the gun in his hand, there was a chance he would get rattled, a chance Sarah could produce a miracle, a chance if either Maria or Dogbone was alive and free one of them could do something. But once I provoked him into action, there was no chance at all.

He stood there looking at me, the cocked gun lined on my belly. The sheer unexpectedness of my behavior left him confused and uncertain.

Then Sarah said the wrong thing: "Don't be facetious, Will. He's here to murder us. He said that you'd be along before morning, and that he'd wait that long for you if he had to."

Dillingham said: "Yeah, I've been waitin'. Take off you gun belt and lay it on the table slow."

I obeyed him. "Kathy's all right," I said as calmly as I could. "She tells me you got away with more than $4,000."

"That ain't all," Dillingham said with satisfaction. "Me'n Turner done purk well with Anchor cows this summer." He motioned me back from the table. "I'm goin' away a rich man, Beeson. I'm gonna be as big on some other range as Joe Pardee was on this one. That's why I'm cleanin' the widow out. Joe always had some dinero on hand, I reckon she has, too. Where is it?"

For the first time I felt that I had a chance; he presented me with the handle I'd been looking for. "When you find it, will you kill us, Gene?" I asked. "Is that the way we stand? Is it?"

He nodded, his heavy lips pressed together tightly.

"Why should I tell you?" I said. "You can get it quick and easy," he said. "Or slow and hard." He motioned with his left hand toward Sarah's wheel chair. "You've always been sweet on her. If you want to save her some misery, you better talk up."

Dillingham was looking intently at me, paying no attention to Sarah. To him I was the one who represented possible danger, not a paralyzed woman in a wheel chair, and in his judgment I was the one who would lead him to Sarah's money.

"She's got a little, Gene," I said. "I'd find it for you if I knew you'd keep your word."

I had trouble keeping my voice steady. Sarah had stepped out of her chair and was walking toward the desk set against the far wall. I had to keep my eyes on Dillingham, had to keep him looking at me.

I caught little more than a blur from the edge of my vision, but I saw enough to shock me almost as much as Dillingham would have been shocked if he had seen her. She moved with the grace and speed of a woman who had been walking all the time, not with the labored, painful effort I had seen just before she had fallen that day weeks ago.

Dillingham said: "Maybe you don't know I'm gonna keep my word, but if you're smart you'll take a chance I will."

He started to turn his head. I said quickly: "Gene, if I have to beg for my life, I will."

"Getting down on your knees ain't gonna do you no good," he said. "I'm done waitin'. Where is it?"

Sarah was at the desk pulling the top drawer open. I said: "In the couch, Sarah ripped a seam open."

"All right, all right." He pulled a knife out of his pocket and tossed it on the couch. "Slice it open and give it to me. If you got a run over there you're tryin' to get your hands on, you're a soner."

I didn't want to go to the couch. If I did, I'd be ten feet farther from the table than I was now, ten feet that would cost me seconds. Sarah was fumbling in the drawer. Sweat poured out of me and dripped down my body.

Dillingham laughed. "Come on, come on!"

I shook my head at him. "Use your head, Gene. There isn't much money. Just the $500 I brought from Canon City."

"Drop your gun, Gene!" Sarah's voice did not come from where she had been sitting in her wheel chair. She had moved a good twenty feet. He must have been aware of that at once, for he remained motionless a second or so, too surprised to turn. When he did, I lunged toward the table.

She fired, and I heard him yell in pain, heard his gun-strike the floor; then I grabbed my holster in one hand and my gun in the other and yanked it free. When I got my eyes on Dillingham, he was bending over, reaching for his 45 with his left hand. I shot him. He fell, and I fired again.

I went to him and turned him over with my boot. He was dead. I laid my gun on the table, and swung around to face Sarah, who was walking toward me. She clutched a small single-shot pistol in her right hand, a gun she had used for target shooting before she'd had her accident.

"I shot him in the hand; I shot him in the hand and made him drop his gun!" she said shrilly. "I couldn't make myself kill him, Will. I couldn't!"

She was near me, then, her arms reaching for me, and I caught her as she started to fall. She whimpered: "The cooler, Will! He locked Maria and Dogbone in there."

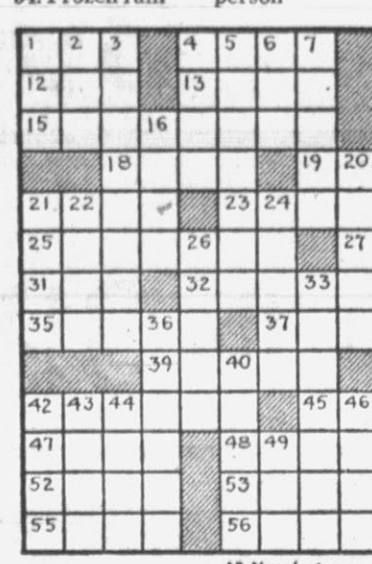

She faintly, her head rolling sideways grotesquely. I laid her on the couch and ran through the kitchen to the heavy saw-dust-filled door that opened into the cooler. Maria rushed out, screaming something in Spanish.

Dogbone lay on the floor on his back. I picked him up and felt his head. He'd been knocked cold just as Kathy Morgan had been. I carried him into a bedroom. When I went into the front room, Maria was on her knees beside the couch, talking to Sarah in Spanish.

I told Maria to take care of both of them. Then I put on my coat and hat, dragging Dillingham's body behind me, went back into the barn. I searched him and found a money belt buckled around his middle just as I had found a piece of canvas, went to the bunk-

Inflation Or Not, The Dollar Now Buys Less

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — A retired couple find they must scrimp to live — although their nestegg once promised ease, even luxury. — A factory worker or an office worker finds his pay check pleasantly fatter than 10 years ago — and then is surprised and dismayed when his bills for the same goods and services climb out of sight.

These are aspects of what goes by the name of inflation — more money around but its purchasing power dwindling.

Some feel better off under inflation, but those who save for a rainy day, those who want to build new homes, factories or schools, fear that what we have now may grow into chronic inflation and become the big bad wolf of our age.

Economists and politicians are squabbling over whether what we are seeing today is really "inflation" at all or a wage-price spiral that is just one of the consequences of past inflation.

Here are some definitions of classic inflation, of hidden inflation, of creeping inflation, of wage push, demand-pull, and profit-push inflation.

Classic inflation is the kind we had during World War II when new money and credit was created in great quantities to finance the defense effort, while output of consumer goods was cut sharply. It resulted in too much money and too few goods. To keep prices from rising sharply the government tried direct controls on wages and prices.

Hidden inflation is when prices aren't changed but the quality or size of a product deteriorates — the 5-cent candy bar goes pycmy.

Creeping inflation is a term coined to describe what has been happening the last year or so — prices go up a nickel or a dime at a time first on one thing and then on another, so that the purchasing power of a dollar dwindles in terms of purchasing power of the 1940s, or "100-cent" dollar, the 1956 dollar bought only 50.5 cents worth and today's buys only 49.8 cents worth.

Wage-push inflation is what management calls the present situation where, it says, rising wages are pushing costs, and hence prices, always higher.

Profit-push inflation is what labor officials call the same situation. They say the urge to pile up record profits, rather than hold

Little 'Gunmen' Ready For Draw

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — There's gonna be a gun fight in Santa Fe Sunday.

The sheriff will be there with a posse, but he won't lift a trigger finger to stop it.

No one will.

The site of the fight will be the rodeo arena in Santa Fe — in the heart of Billy the Kid's old stomping grounds.

There won't be real bullets in the six-guns. The participants will all be under 12, and they won't really be shooting at each other, just against each other.

It started when two California youngsters, Eric and Lars Henderson, 11 and 9, appeared on a television show demonstrating some new cap pistols.

They were touted as among the fastest on the draw, and the Santa Fe youngsters, naturally feeling that their and Billy the Kid's reputations were attacked — challenged Eric and Lars to prove their fast draws.

Twenty Santa Fe gunslingers vied for the right to battle it out with the Henderson boys, with Janice Nicholson, 12, and Bill Reust, 10, emerging on top.

Two finalists from here and Eric and Lars will compete against the stop watch in four categories — fast draw, fast draw and fan one, fast draw and fan five and twirling and gun tricks.

The contest will come on the last day of the four-day Santa Fe Rodeo.

Janice and Bill each can draw in two tenths of a second — almost too fast to see. They can draw and fan one shot in three tenths of a second, and draw and fan five in one second flat.

City Rivalry Is Familiar Story

By LYNN NISBET

RALEIGH — Following big annexation programs Charlotte still has more people, but Greensboro has the largest incorporated area of all the cities in the Carolinas.

The chambers of commerce and newspapers in the two cities are having a great time substantiating claims as the biggest city.

Such rivalry is not new. Old-timers recall that prior to the 1910 census Charlotte and Greensboro each claimed first place. They were popularly known then as the "Queen City" and the "Gate City," nicknames which were generally abandoned when the communities attained real city size.

As your reporter recalls the incident, Charlotte had just extended corporate limits. When the census report showed Charlotte substantially ahead in population, Greensboro papers publicized the fact (?) that more cotton was grown within the corporate limits of Charlotte than in all of 30 counties in North Carolina.

That must have hit a sensitive spot, because the Charlotte-papers came back with a nursery lubbaby: "Hush, little Greensboro, don't you cry; You'll be a city by and by."

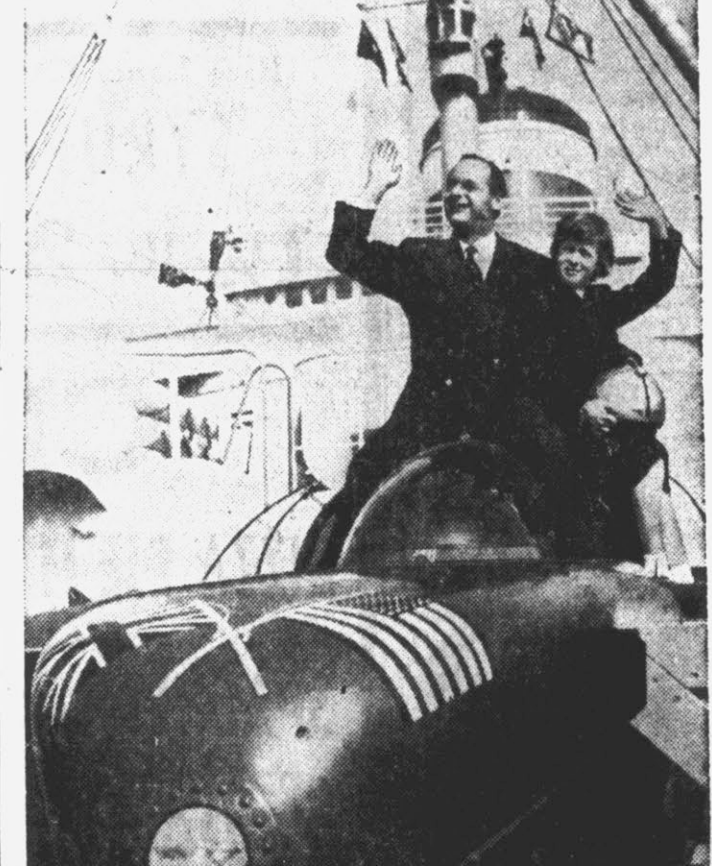

That same year the Atlanta and Richmond newspapers made a widely publicized wager of a hat on result of the census count. Atlanta showed up a heck of a little bigger, and the Richmond paid off. It had a huge stove-pipe style hat made of tin or some light metal, pasted on its thousands of newspaper clippings about the water, loaded it on a flat car and sent it freight prepaid to Atlanta. The trip took about three weeks, because of station stops for exhibiting the hat. When it arrived in the Georgia metropolis the Journal cleared out the first floor lobby and displayed the hat for several months.

TARZAN TREED ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—Authorities arrested a young jungle-type burglar. He was a 14-year-old boy picked up for looting food and clothing stores of about $600 worth of staples and supplies. Police said the boy cached the goods in tree huts and caves where he apparently intended to live the life of Tarzan.

Methodists Plan For Birthday Celebration

NARRON BERRY OWEN SMITH
Rev. J. Malloy Owen and the newly-elected officers of St. James Methodist church congregate to plan for a Friday afternoon picnic at Elm Street Park, which will celebrate the Church's fifth birthday. Absent from the meeting was Howard L. Hodges who is also an officer.

All Present, But The Defendant

GASTONIA, N.C.—The only person missing from the trial was the prisoner. Judge, solicitor, clerk and an array of witnesses were all in place when it was discovered that the defendant, Fletcher Smith was missing. The call went out to the jail to have the prisoner brought in. An hour passed. Then, Ernest Dow, a professional bondsman, volunteered to see if he could find the missing man. Dow returned moments later with the news that Campbell had been sent down for trial the day before and had not come back to jail. Solicitor Oscar Mason Jr. explained that things like this rarely happen and added that the witnesses would be notified when the missing prisoner was found. With that court adjourned. Three minutes later Campbell was found—in a cell in the county jail. The clerk said a trusty had mistaken another prisoner for Campbell, another prisoner who had been allowed to go his own way. Prisoners awaiting trial in City Court are held in the County Jail and are not taken back and forth to the City Hall courtroom by city police.

Criminal Courts Will Undergo Special Analysis

CHARLOTTE (P)—North Carolina's criminal courts next month will be subjected to "a careful analysis" for the first time in 100 years. The research project, to be carried out by investigators supervised by State Sen. J. Spencer Bell of Charlotte, calls for reports to be submitted in September to the North Carolina Bar Assn. Court Study Committee. Thirty-two counties will be covered. Bell, who is chairman of the committee, said his group will study the report and then suggest legislation on court reform. He said, "It has been 100 years since the criminal courts were subjected to a careful analysis." Bell added that Gov. Hodges suggested the study and that "the congestion of criminal court dockets was one of the main reasons for calling for the research work."

Runaway Tanker Kills Its Driver

SHELBY, N.C.—Listen Carter, 53-year-old Lumberton truck driver, wheeled his big gasoline tanker into a grill near here today to buy himself some cigars. As proprietor Blaine Carpenter prepared to fill the order, he said Carter suddenly dashed out of the grill. His tanker was rolling into Highway 74. With Carter in pursuit, the tanker crossed the highway, jumped

FBI Document Is Given Defense

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Federal Judge Robert L. Taylor handed the defense counsel today the copy of the oral statement R. G. Crossno, Clinton school board official, made to the FBI. Taylor said, however, that this ruling did not mean that the defense would get all the FBI documents in the Clinton segregation cases. The defense demanded the oral statement summary, having obtained yesterday Crossno's signed statement which was in FBI files. At that time, the oral summary given to FBI was kept by Taylor. Chief defense spokesman Robert L. Dobbs, Memphis, demanded at the outset of the session the oral summary. U. S. Dist. Atty. John C. Crawford Jr. fought to prevent the document from reaching the defense. "No such statement could be used to impeach this witness," he said. "He hasn't seen the report compiled by the FBI. He has had no opportunity to approve it." Dobbs retorted that he assumed Crossno to be an honest witness. "It wouldn't occur to me that he would tell the FBI one story at one time and another at another time," he said. The defense attorney said he assumed the FBI summary was a factual report of what Crossno had told the FBI agent. Taylor, addressing himself to the court stenographer, said the record should show that the oral summary was in his possession since Wednesday afternoon. He said that he had studied it. "It is the opinion of the court that the defense is entitled to see this statement," the judge declared. Taylor's decision came as defense attorneys in the Clinton segregation trial renewed their requests for complete access to the formerly secret files of the FBI. The lawyers said they want to know exactly what the files contain regarding the 16 accused men and women. The request was based on a recent Supreme Court ruling in the Jencks case, allowing defendants in criminal cases, under certain circumstances, to see FBI files which heretofore had been secret.

Nantucket Island, Mass., has a population of 3,500 people. Nevertheless, there are 4,100 bicycles on the island. Any questions?

On-The-Spot Probe Of Improper Beer Sales

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C.—The director of the State ABC Board's Malt Beverage Division has begun an on-the-spot investigation into charges that several places here permitted sale of beer to minors. Director Ronald Hocutt will be assisted in the probe by Claire Taylor, supervising beer inspector for eastern North Carolina. Fayetteville police issued warrants yesterday charging several eating places and two grocery stores with permitting sale of beer to minors. The warrants came after three ministers brought complaints to the police. The ministers also complained to the State ABC Board in Raleigh, which issued citations—with one or two exceptions—against the same operators. The board charged eight beer retailers with permitting sale to minors and another with allowing an intoxicated person to loiter around his place. It set a hearing on the charges for July 25. A hearing on the warrants also was set for July 25 in Recorder's Court. State ABC Chairman Tom Allen issued the citations against the beer retailers after conferring with the three ministers, headed by the Rev. James Walker, an evangelist who is leading a campaign by Cumberland dry forces. The other ministers are the Rev. M. J. Davis and the Rev. Wade Bunch. The Cumberland dry forces are seeking elections on the question of limiting ABC liquor sales in Cumberland and banning beer and wine sales in Fayetteville.

Members Polled On Fund-Raising

Some 37.01 per cent of the Chamber of Commerce's membership prefers a one-time contribution plan to include as many as possible of local various civic agencies. That was reported to the Chamber's Board of Directors by David J. Wichard, chairman of the organization's Civic Affairs Committee. The group sent letters to 362 Chamber members and received replies from 161 or 44.8 per cent of the membership. Only 7.46 per cent of the members indicated they preferred the present system of each civic agency conducting its own fund-raising campaign each year. J. H. Moye and B. B. Drum were appointed to the board of directors of Farmers' Day Inc., as the Chamber's two representatives. The board authorized the purchase of equipment and the making of photo slides for publicity and advertising purposes. Also authorized was the publication of a new city map and the construction of a display case for a "Made In Greenville" exhibit to be set up in City Hall.

Illicit Liquor Operations Said Among Biggest

SMITHFIELD, N.C.—Illicit liquor operations last year on land owned or controlled by Johnston County merchant Percy Flowers are among the most extensive in the entire nation, according to officials of the Federal Alcohol Tax Unit. C. S. Nicholson of Charlotte, supervisor of ATU agents in North Carolina, and his assistant, Fred A. Mercer, released figures yesterday showing that in the fiscal year ended last June 30, ATU agents had seized stills with an aggregate mash capacity of 196,595 gallons on land owned by or controlled by Flowers. Flowers faces trial in Federal Court in Raleigh next week on income tax evasion charges, and a hearing at Sanford July 24 on the question of whether his store will be permanently padlocked. And Solicitor W. J. Hooks said liquor charges against Flowers will be presented to the Johnston County Grand Jury on Aug. 19. The Spaniards who accompanied Columbus on his fourth voyage gave Costa Rica, or "rich coast," its name when they saw Indians there wearing gold ornaments.

Serves Mission During Summer

Robert W. Carswell (above) is in Greenville this summer as student supply pastor for the Greenville Mission of the United Lutheran Church. Carswell will be a Senior next year at the Lutheran Southern Theological Seminary in Columbia, S. C. He is a native of Lincolnton, N. C. and a graduate of Lenoir-Rhyne College in Hickory. Carswell and his wife, the former Elizabeth Cromer of Hickory, are making their home at 406 Rotary Street. Sunday school and church services for the mission are being conducted during the summer at Clark's Funeral Home, 1206 Dickinson Avenue. Sunday school starts at 9 a.m. and church services begin at 10 a.m. each Sunday.
