Free World Strength Changing Russian View

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House, moving toward consideration of a $3,242,333,000 foreign aid authorization today, was told Russia's "lesser emphasis on violence" is due only to free world strength.

Chairman Gordon (D-III) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee said in a speech prepared for opening debate on the bill: "The current shifts in the Kremlin mean new faces, but we have no basis whatever for any hope that the old Communist threat has been removed."

And he said the present Soviet leadership showed in Hungary it is still willing to use military force to gain its ends.

Gordon made a strong plea for approval of the measure without major change and floor managers of both parties predicted it would be passed that way.

The measure is "dangerous," he said in a prepared speech, because it "is the almost complete abdication of congressional con-

rol. . . It is unnecessary because the pipelines are already jammed with far more foreign aid funds than administrators can find places to spend."

Postponed Blast Finally Set Off With New Look

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—"Diablo," the nuclear dud of two weeks ago, burst with a stunning purple hue over the Nevada desert at 4:30 a.m. today.

The explosion was the seventh of the current summer test series.

The blossom atop the cloud was surrounded by a fluorescent purple color which began to fade about a minute after the blast.

The stem supporting the blossom also had a new look. It was not straight, as most have been in previous shots, but bulged a little at the bottom.

The cloud from the blast rose swiftly to about 30,000 feet. The portion above 15,000 feet then began heading toward southeastern Utah.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the air mass probably would switch directions later and head for Wyoming.

The portion of the cloud below 15,000 feet dispersed rapidly.

The blast was roughly one-half as powerful as the atomic bombs dropped on Japan during World War II.

"Diablo" originally was scheduled to be detonated June 27, then was postponed a day. On June 28, the bomb failed to fire because of a power failure.

Several other postponements were made before the device was exploded this morning from a 500-foot steel tower.

Newsmen watched the explosion from News Nob, about 14 miles from Ground Zero. They felt a moderate shock wave.

Eight hundred military observers, 102 of them Canadians, watched the explosion from trenches about 4,400 yards from Ground Zero.

Two thousand feet from Ground Zero, a group of technicians were stationed in an underground shelter equipped with devices to measure radioactivity.

There were no troop maneuvers in connection with today's shot but about 40 aircraft were aloft on crew indoctrination and cloud tracking missions.

The Atomic Energy Commission had said the blast was not expected to produce any appreciable fallout outside the firing range.

At San Francisco, observers reported the blast produced an orange-yellow glow in the sky.

At Bridgeport, Calif., 350 miles from Las Vegas, Sheriff Cecil Thornton reported that he saw the glow from the blast clearly and that the subsequent shock wave shook his house.

Compromises On Civil Rights Bill Lauded By Democratic Leader

Ike Takes Charge In H-Bomb Alert

NEWSPOINT. Operation Alert (AP)—President Eisenhower flew by helicopter to a secret "command post" today to help top officials test the nation's ability to recover from a mythical H-bomb attack.

Eisenhower's small blue and white "whirlybird" put down at 9:12 a.m. in a clearing in a hilltop area after a flight from his farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

The command post to which he flew is within 200 miles of Washington, D.C., but its exact location is a secret.

As he alighted, Eisenhower smiled broadly and was greeted by Gordon Gray, chief of the Office of Defense Mobilization, and Lewis W. Berry, acting director of the Federal Civil Defense Administration.

Gray and Berry are running this 4th annual nationwide drill.

"By golly, you sure have a good morning," the President remarked to Gray.

Squinting into the bright sun, Eisenhower reported that the helicopter flight was "the smoothest ride I ever had in my life."

Eisenhower Friday became the first President ever to ride a helicopter when he led a simulated mass exodus from America's cities as mock air raid sirens screamed.

In theory 166 H-bombs were dropped on 155 targets in the United States and its territories.

Eisenhower was "evacuated" directly from the White House.

Today the clock was jumped hypothetically to 15 days after the attack. Purpose of this phase of the drill, to last until Friday, is to determine how a government-in-hiding would bring order out of chaos.

Only one H-bomb strike was supposed to have occurred. Presumably the United States hit back with such massive retaliation that the "enemy" itself was reeling and unable to launch another attack.

Eisenhower came here to assess mock recovery efforts. With him were his Army, Navy and Air Force aides and his national security aide, Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster.

The President arranged to fly back to Washington by helicopter, landing on the White House lawn, after a brief inspection tour.

The command post is the secret relocation center from which top officials of the Office of Defense Mobilization and the Federal Civil Defense Administration have been supervising the tests.

In the calendar of Operation Alert, today was July 27—fifteen days after the hypothetical attack.

The problem: How does a government-in-hiding apply freezes and controls on a war-staggered economy?

More than 5,000 government workers in 30 agencies who normally report to offices in Washington transferred their activities instead to about 80 relocation centers, starting a week of the kind of work they would face if the attack had been real.

It was a day in which civil defense officials hoped to discover the full extent of their success in coping with the simulated devastation wreaked by the "bombs" and the supposed aftermath of radioactive fallout.

They said today their surveys indicated that "the nation had suffered no knockout blow" in Friday's massive make-believe assault.

It rained on parched Pitt County yesterday but the precipitation was not nearly enough for wilting crops.

The Greenville Utilities weather station reported 13 of an inch of rain fell on Greenville during the day.

County Agent Sam C. Winchester reported that the Bell Arthur, Falkland and Belvoir sections got a "right nice little shower."

"However, none of the sections I have heard from got as much rain as they needed," he declared.

In the Pactolus area which has been particularly dry this year there was just enough rain fall "to settle the dust," the farm agent said. "There was nothing like a sufficient amount."

The temperature yesterday was 101 degrees, just a little below the record 102.5 degrees of last Tuesday.

Rain brought a big drop in the temperature, however, and the low last night was 76 degrees.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic Leader Johnson of Texas told the Senate today the compromise proposals advanced since the civil rights debate began are "the reaction of thinking men who realize great issues must be met with reason instead of blind dogma."

Johnson described last week's debate as some of the "finest" in the Senate's history.

"When the debate began," he said, "there was widespread belief that the Senate was shocked and handuffed. It was thought that we could do nothing but accept the bill without crossing a 'T' or dotting an 'I' or reject it altogether."

The Senate, he said, "has demonstrated that it is not in a strait jacket, but can act according to its convictions as to the course that serves the national interest."

Several of the compromise suggestions are aimed at eliminating or modifying the controversial Section 3 of the bill.

But Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) told reporters the administration would oppose striking out the section entirely.

Section 3 would permit the attorney general to obtain federal court injunctions against violations, or threatened violations of voting and other civil rights.

Some senators have suggested limiting the authority under this section to protection of voting rights.

Sen. Ervin (D-NC) told reporters he thought there was a "good chance" the bill could be reduced "to what its supporters have been advertising it to be — namely a voting rights bill."

Knowland, a leader of the civil rights proponents, said he was not prepared to discuss any changes in the bill until the Senate votes tomorrow on his motion to make it the pending order of business.

Knowland said he hoped that once this vote is taken, the Senate could proceed to vote on a motion by Sen. Morse (D-Ore) to refer the bill to the Judiciary Committee with instructions to report it back to the floor within two weeks.

He said clarifications of Section 3 might be considered but that the administration would not be disposed to striking the whole section from the bill.

Technically, the debate thus far has been on Knowland's motion. A vote on it is assured tomorrow, and even all-out foes of the bill concede the motion will carry.

The Senate has agreed to call the roll of those present at 4 p.m. tomorrow, and then allow not more than two hours debate before voting.

Johnson told the Senate it seems "very likely" the opposing sides will not take that much time after the roll call, and that a vote by 5 p.m. is possible.

CD Nuclear Test Termed Success

RALEIGH (AP)—The Civil Defense test on nuclear attacks ended last night with State CD Director Edward F. Griffin terming it "The best one we've ever had."

Speaking of North Carolina's participation in the national drill, "Operation Alert 1957," Griffin asserted the state activity was "very satisfactory," and that state Civil Defense workers "learned a great amount about an emergency of this kind."

The mock test began Friday with the theoretical explosion of a nuclear bomb in the Greensboro area. About 30 state civil defense workers mobilized forces to deal with this attack and other simulated problems around-the-clock until 11 p.m. yesterday.

Among other problems that the forces had to handle were: fallout dangers in various areas of the state from nuclear explosions in Greensboro and outside the state; sabotage along the coast; and the hypothetical movement of persons from the danger areas.

State and federal agencies participated along with the Civil Defense staff in meeting the problems confronting the headquarters staff.

Harold Clutz Wilkinson, 38, of Rt. 1, Maiden, died of injuries suffered when his car ran off the Lincoln-Lenox - Startown road and turned over three times.

Bobby Junior Wells of Teachey died when he was struck by an auto on a rural road north of Wallace. The Highway Patrol said the driver failed to stop.

Twenty-nine year old John David Brooks of Sanford was killed when he lost control of his car on a state highway a few miles from Sanford.

George Marshall, 68, of Newport was killed in a two-car accident on a rural paved road about a half-mile from Bogue in Carteret County.

In Charlotte a Negro, Allen C. Dawkins, died in a hospital of stab wounds. Police said his wife, Beulah Mae Dawkins, admitted stabbing him on the front porch of their home during a quarrel.

A boating accident at Badin Lake near Albemarle resulted in the drowning of Guy Williams, about 40, of Winston-Salem. Williams reportedly fell from a small motorboat.

A 4-year-old Louisburg youth, Arthur H. Fleming Jr., drowned while swimming in a pond 10 miles west of Louisburg. He was the son of Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Fleming.

A 14-year-old Negro boy, Freeman Jones of Rt. 1, Garner, drowned in a pond near Garner.

Later, Britain said the enrollment rose again to approximately 750.

He said Kasper came to see him during the week of Aug. 27, when school opened.

"What did he say?" Crawford asked.

"Kasper asked me what I was going to do with regard to getting the Negroes out of Clinton High School, and I said we weren't going to do anything about it. I said we were under a court order to enroll them," Britain replied.

"Did he say anything else?" Britain replied.

"He stated to me that other people in other places had not obeyed the law on enrolling Negroes. I said they were not under court orders to do so as we were."

"Kasper then said, 'what are you going to do yourself?'" Britain said.

"I said I had three choices. I could obey the court order, disobey, or resign. I said I intended to obey."

"He finally said he'd get me out of school before the term was over if I didn't get those Negroes out."

Durham College Student Wins 'Miss N.C.' Title

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—The next step on a star-studded road to possible fame and fortune for pretty brunette from Durham, Elaine Herndon, is the Miss America Pageant at Atlantic City, N.J.

The striking young beauty, who wants to be a school teacher, won the Miss North Carolina pageant here Saturday night in competition with a field of 48 lovely girls.

Not one to shy away from photographers, she was right on the job yesterday morning posing for the Carolina Press Photographers Assn., which just happened to have a meeting scheduled here concurrently with the pageant.

The daughter of a Durham Insurance executive, she will receive a trip to Atlantic City for the Miss America contest, a $1,000 scholarship and several other gifts.

The selection of the Durham beauty came as no great surprise. She was the pageant's first double winner, having taken the bathing suit competition by showing off a sleek black number very ably with her 35-23-35 figure.

Miss Herndon also won the talent division of the state pageant. She used a comic song and dance routine in that contest.

Joan Melton of Albemarle, the retiring Miss North Carolina, was on hand to crown her successor. Miss Melton is to be married to Robert Grubbs of Winston-Salem, a member of the cast of the outdoor drama "Horn in the West."

Among those attending the crowning was the current Miss America, South Carolina's Marian McKnight of Manning.

Second place went to Catherine Cameron Church, Miss Henderson; and third place to Jimi Elizabeth McDaniell of Kinston. Rounding out the top five were Betty Jean Goodwin of Winston-Salem and Linda Lee Kinlaw of Fairmount.

The pageant was sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Jaycee officials called it the most successful of three such pageants they have sponsored since 1951.

Clinton Jury Hears Tales Of Mob Threats And Terror

By REILMAN MORIN KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A jury today heard a story of threats, tension and terror after Negro students were admitted to the high school in the little Tennessee highland town of Clinton last fall.

"We had more concentrated internal trouble than that at any other period of year," David J. Brittain, 41, principal of the school, testified in Federal Court.

"Why did you close the school, Dec. 4?" asked U.S. Dist. Atty. John C. Crawford Jr.

The battery of defense lawyers rose as a man shouting objections. They were overruled and Brittain replied: "There had been so many actions, and the tension was so great I figured that was the safest policy."

Prior to Brittain's appearance, U.S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor dismissed charges of criminal contempt against Mrs. Zella Lou Nelson, 19. She is expecting a child in September and the court acted on a statement about her condition sent by a Clinton physician.

Mrs. Nelson was one of 15 Clinton area residents on trial along with Northern segregationist John Kasper for alleged criminal contempt of court. They are accused of violating a federal injunction banning interference with court-ordered integration of Clinton High School.

Britain, a thin-faced intense man testified in a low even voice. The courtroom again was packed. Many Negroes were among the spectators.

Tobacco Warehousemen Told To Have Tickets

The Flue Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation, Raleigh, has sent the following letter to all Eastern, Middle and Old Belt warehousemen:

"I have been instructed by Commodity Credit Corporation officials not to execute a contract with any warehouse until it has submitted proof that it has tobacco basket tickets with which to clear up distinguish the full support from the limited support variety. This being the case, before we can execute a contract with your warehouse (s), it will be necessary that you bring to this meeting two copies of the printed warehouse basket ticket with the orange colored stripes printed vertically on the center of the ticket. We cannot accept colored penciled marked copies of basket tickets.

"Due to the congestion that has already been experienced with the printers regarding the tickets to be printed with the orange colored stripes, we thought it might be helpful to you to let you know what our position is on the matter in ample time for you to have the copies of the tickets available at the meeting in your belt prior to the opening of the markets.

"Another letter will be sent to you, advising you of the date and place for the belt meeting prior to the opening of the markets in your area when such meeting has been arranged by the officials of your belt association."

The letter was signed by General Manager L. T. Weeks.

"Club Unity" Was Topic Of Meeting

President Callie Rue Williams presided over the meeting of Greenville Credit Women's Breakfast Club held Saturday morning at the Olde Towne Inn.

The new state project, "Club Unity," was the main discussion of the meeting. Copies of the club's monthly News Letter were distributed and copies of Concord and Raleigh Clubs' News Letters read for information.

Reports on attendance contest for first month showed that Group II, under leadership of Mrs. Virginia Brady and Mrs. Lillian Earl Hawkins, scored more points than Group I headed by Mrs. Jean Clark and Mrs. Catherine Stokes.

On July 10 members enjoyed an evening of fellowship at picnic held at the home of Mrs. Cora Powell. Among guests present were four members of the Rocky Mount Club, Miss Barbara Griffin of Ayden, Mrs. Rubelle Crawford and Mrs. Edna Branch, former club members, and F. G. Required equipment for a family vacation by automobile is a supply of the right kind of toys for the small fry—special toys planned for just such occasions, that can keep a child quiet and entertained for long periods in a confined space. Here is some advice from an expert, Gilbert C. Southwick, a leading manufacturer of educational toys.

1. Have a reserve supply of toys, but give the children only one or two at a time.
2. Be sure each child's favorite old toy is included.
3. Choose toys that will enable the youngsters to play by themselves, without disturbing the driver. Picture books and coloring cards rate high in this category.

4. Try to find one toy that will give the child a feeling of participation in the motor trip. A new one is a magnetic take-apart traffic signal, that enables a child to play traffic cop.

DON'T take along such toys as drums and horns, flying objects such as balloons and toy airplanes, toys with sharp edges or small loose parts or story books with fine print, difficult to read in a moving car.

American women will shine this winter in clothes that reach a new high in luxury of fabric, richness of color and lavish use of fur trimmings.

New York designers previewing fall fashions show a variety of costumes for all occasions, ranging the gamut from understated simplicity for daytime to breathtaking elegance for evening.

Most of the news of the fall collections lies in their varied and handsome fabrics, their bold use of color and the luxury furs that trim everything from suits to evening gowns.

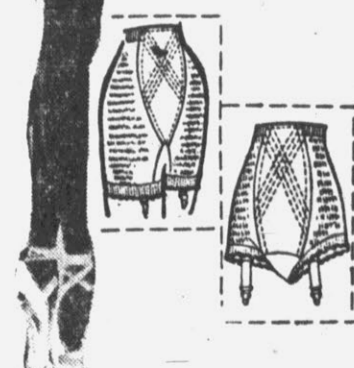

The daytime silhouette is almost uniformly slender, but with more ease of fit, more walking room in skirts, a general feeling of relaxation. Suit jackets are casually unfitted, sometimes barely hipbone length, sometimes coming well below the hips, but never nipped at the waist or tightly fitted at any point.

Tip For The Hamburger Addict

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Even the most fervent of hamburger addicts have been known to welcome that perennial dish prepared a new way. So whether you cook your summer burgers indoors or out, here's a suggestion.

MUSHROOMBURGERS with shoestring potatoes and broiled tomatoes makes a novel but tasty supper

We are of the school of thought that believes a hamburger should be charred on the outside, pink and juicy inside. To achieve this state, we cook the hamburgers as rapidly as possible in the beginning, then turn down the heat to let the inside change gradually from blue-red to rose-pink. If you're using your kitchen range, a heavy iron skillet will be fine for this method.

MUSHROOMBURGERS
Ingredients: 1/2 pound mushrooms, 1 small onion, 1-4 cup butter or margarine, 1 1/2 pounds ground lean beef, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 3 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce.
Method: Rinse mushrooms in cold water and dry on a towel; slice very thin. Peel and chop onion fine. Melt butter in a skillet (9 or 10 inches) and add mushrooms and onion. Cook over moderately low heat, stirring often, until wilted—about 10 minutes. Mix ground beef with cooked mushrooms and onion, salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Shape into 6 patties. Cook to desired doneness. Makes 6 servings.

Note: Canned shoestring potatoes make a good accompaniment for these mushroomburgers; be sure to heat the potatoes before serving. Pan-fried or broiled tomato halves will also be attractive with the burgers. You might like to try seasoning the tomatoes with a little sugar and curry powder.

Paris Shop Windows Prepared To Trap The Unwary Tourists

By NADEANE WALKER
PARIS (AP)—Paris shop windows are being dressed up for the summer tourists. The French strive to be as famous for alluring window display as they are for food and fashions.

But not everything that tempts is a solid bargain, and it's a wise tourist who knows the specialties that are really worth buying.

Perfumes and liquors are probably the best buys, simply because they cost a lot more at home. France is the world's biggest and best manufacturer of perfumes, but stick to the well-known names in shopping, and smell your way. Shops love to spray you with every scent in the house, until you smell like a mixed bouquet. Customs permit only one bottle of a kind, remember.

Gloves are good (they start at about $4), but watch out for cheaper ones which may dye the wearer's hands. In fact, never assume anything is color-fast in France unless it's guaranteed to be. Beautiful silk scarves, a classic gift from Paris, are often a blurred ruin after one dip in the basin. Attractive costume jewelry is more expensive than its American equivalent, and the gilt is more likely to tarnish.

American visitors say that handbags are a bargain. One delighted shopper declared that she would have paid at least $50 in New York for a sizable calf bag, leather lined and handstitched, which she found for $17 in a small department store here. The department stores, incidentally, are increasingly style-conscious and well worth visiting, but they are not cheap by comparison. Besides the biggest one, Printemps and Galleries LaFayette near the Opera, one of the best for women's gifts and accessories is Francks, Rue de Passy. It carries the best of the ready-made fashions and has a good hat department. Primavera, a department of Printemps, specializes in the most modern and novel small home furnishings and decorations, such as hand-painted door-knobs, ashtrays, vases.

Even men usually like shopping Seine bookstalls for old prints, maps or books. These are well-picked over, so don't expect to turn up any old masters or first editions. You can still buy original prints of famous artists such as Dufy and Matisse at Left Bank print shops along the Rue de l'Universite, but where these cost a few hundred francs after the war, they now start at several thousand.

Beauty At Wheel

LADY CHAUFFEUR . . . Ideal for perspiring hands is deodorant talcum containing hexachlorophene, germ chaser.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor
It isn't easy to stay perfectly groomed when you are the family chauffeur, especially in summer. Every inch of the body is perspiring, making one uncomfortable.

Light clothes should be worn even on short driving trips, and one must at least start out cool if one would maintain the cool look. Sun glasses should be worn to help avoid eye strain, causing further discomfort. Some women like to wear a straw hat or cap on the theory that they feel cooler with a head covering.

One good soothing preparation to carry in the car is a deodorant talcum powder. One containing hexachlorophene, the bacteria killer, is especially effective. It may be rubbed over perspiring hands, arms, and even under arms in a jiffy. It is ideal also to rub on hands before a game of tennis, badminton or golf and to sprinkle into sneakers. If the occasion permits, it may be shaken into the girdle to ease stickiness and prevent chafing.

Car manufacturers are making such a terrific bid for women's approval of their product, that they might consider doing a re-designing job of the dashboard to supply the lady chauffeur with more space for a car grooming kit. The glove compartment is scarcely big enough for gloves and a few maps, let alone beauty props that Mom might need in an emergency.

She'd like to have a convenient spot for cleansing tissues, and if the manufacturer doesn't think that is important, let him glance through the rear window of cars along the road—a familiar sight is that every other one carries

Area Should Be Its Own Food Basket

The rich farming area of Eastern North Carolina can, if it will, produce in abundant supply for all its people practically everything one would want to eat. But each week, into this rich farming region rolls ton after ton of meat, poultry, vegetables and fruits from other parts of North Carolina and other states to entice the customer in the local supermarkets.

In our neighboring town of Washington the Chamber of Commerce is setting up a program it hopes will dispell the general feeling that foodstuffs have to come from somewhere else to be worthwhile. As the first phase of the program, the Washington Chamber of Commerce is launching a campaign to encourage Beaufort County people to buy Beaufort County eggs.

If the program is successful, it will mean greater production of eggs in Beaufort County, a ready market for them, fresh eggs from home for the customer in the store, and a supplemental income for the farmer. It will also open the door for subsequent campaigns to promote other foods that can be produced in Beaufort County.

In this age of specialization, few areas can expect or desire to be self-sufficient. At the same time any given area can pull itself up by its own bootstraps by producing at home items for which there is a ready market at home.

It wasn't too many years ago that Pitt County imported large quantities of milk every year to be consumed here. Now Pitt County is producing its own milk and at some seasons of the year has milk to export as well.

Pitt County can produce chickens and eggs as well

Neither Side Completely Right

By LYNN NISBET

BOTH RIGHT — Neither of the sides in the several pending controversies over pupil assignment in the public schools and the consolidation of Presbyterian colleges can maintain title to all the right and justice involved. In nearly all of these instances, as has been the case in most public school consolidations, both sides are right. In fact, it often seems that the twilight zone is bigger than either daylight or dark.

Rival factions on the board of trustees of Flora McDonald College at Red Springs are now in court for judicial determination of whether that college will be abandoned as a church supported institution and its functions integrated into a proposed new consolidated four-year Presbyterian "university" at Laurinburg.

Peace College at Raleigh, with more than a century of distinguished service as an independent two-year college, is also slated to go into the consolidation. Peace is not in the courts, but real effort is being made to maintain the integrity of the college.

Sponsors of the big university idea, which has been several times approved by the North Carolina synod and the several presbyteries having control of the colleges, emphasize the greater educational opportunities afforded by a large school with its auxiliary laboratory and library facilities. The most zealous alumnae seeking to maintain the separate schools do not question the accuracy of that claim, but they contend that any advantage is more than offset by accessibility of the smaller colleges to students, the lower cost involved, and the tremendous cultural influence of the colleges on the communities where they have existed for a hundred years or more. Advocates of the consolidation do not attempt to deny the merits of that claim.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS — The matters involved in the Flora McDonald and Peace College situation are of primary concern for Presbyterians, just as relocation of Wake Forest at Winston-Salem was primarily a problem for Baptists. Because of the vital place non-tax and church related colleges have in the total educational scheme, all of the people are interested.

Court challenge of the way the 1955 pupil assignment act is being applied in Edgecombe and Hyde counties is a matter of direct concern to every family in North Carolina. The 1955 act, which became the basis for 1956 special session legislation, transferred authority to assign and transport pupils from the State Board of Education to the several county boards. Its admitted objective was to prevent mass as any other place. Yet a large percentage of the poultry and eggs sold in stores throughout the county are shipped in from other areas of North Carolina.

Pitt County is producing fine beef cattle, yet many customers are overlooking the premium local beef for the Western variety when they go to the stores.

The list could go on and on, but these examples illustrate the point. Pitt County has at home a ready-made market for things it could produce on its fertile soil if it would. It will take a two-fold campaign to educate the consumers to purchase home-grown rather than imported foodstuffs, and to educate farmers to produce such products in sufficient quantities. Nevertheless the economic advantages which could be gained from such a situation would be worth the effort.

Officials Reflect Credit To County

Election of five Pitt County men to executive positions in their state organizations is a positive reflection of the general esteem in which the county and its people is held.

Sheriff Ruel Tyson has been elected President of the North Carolina Sheriff's Association for the coming year. Leroy Barnes will hold a similar post for the next two years with the North Carolina Negro Volunteer Fireman's Association.

J. Vance Perkins, elected to the first vice-presidency of the State Association of County Commissioners, is scheduled to become president of the group next year. County Auditor H. Reginald Gray is second vice-president of the County Accountants' Association and is scheduled to move up to the presidency of the group in 1959.

J. M. Ward, chief of the county's ABC law enforcement officers, has been re-elected to the State ABC Law Enforcement Officers Association's second vice-presidency. The positions to which the five men have been elected are not honorary posts. Each of the jobs requires a man who is an active, willing and progressive-minded individual. It is a tribute to each of them that they should be held in such high esteem by their contemporaries.

It is no less a tribute to Pitt County that it should have such men on its payrolls and in its organizations. It is an indication that the people in this county have chosen wisely the men they would have lead them here at home.

Predictions On Business Trends

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here is another series of predictions based, as usual, on analyses of developing business trends, deductions and a few whispers from insiders:

Money will get tighter. Companies with fall-winter construction production and selling spurges will be going to market for financing in the next six weeks. While tightening money may be tough on many enterprises, it will probably make it unnecessary for the Federal Reserve to take further interest-lifting steps at this time.

A new plastics boom is in the making. Manufacturers of appliances and housewares feel they can't pass the new steel rise on the consumers because of price resistance that has been developing in many places. So they are taking new looks at possibilities of substituting plastics for metal and that in turn can boost demand for plastics.

TURBULENCE IN THE FILTER FIELD
A new filter fanfare is coming. The new Kent filter and the recent Readers' Digest damaging report on filters is causing most manufacturers to worry about theirs. Some will soon rush new filters to market; others will launch advertising campaigns to convince all that their filters filter.

Tax-empt bond interest rates will rise. Much of the money available for these securities — usually funds of high-bracket investors trying to escape taxes — has been blotted up; industrial borrowers are competing for what's left with higher interest rates. Many states and subdivisions will postpone borrowing — if they can!

Manufacturers will trim furniture prices. The Chicago furniture show did not live up to expectations and the current Newport show is even more disappointing. As inventories mount, manufacturers will lower prices, urging retailers to use the difference for promotions.

The Supreme Court will get another insurance case. One U. S. District Court has ruled that money paid in advance for premiums may be deducted by cash-basis taxpayers in the year paid; another holds the payment must be pro-rated over the life of the policy. It looks as if Gov. War-

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE CLOUD
We live in the greatest age of human history, but an age replete with many dangers.

Probably our greatest danger arises from a new type of political philosophy which has laid hold on a vast section of the world and has influenced, in some measure, the whole world. This type of thinking form, of course, is Communism. Marx, Lenin, and Stalin have in the last 100 years subjected the world to more danger than imperial Germany in the first World War and Hitler in the second.

The danger of Communism is primarily its complete lack of moral principle. Adherents of this faith scoff at those moral ren's boys will have to settle the matter.

FUR MEN SEE PROSPERITY
It will be a good year for furs. One reason is that personal income is continuing high. Another, perhaps more important, is that the county is moving toward a new peak in the fur cycle.

A BIG jump in cement prices is coming. Facing rising costs and a sharply rising demand, manufacturers face the necessity of a price hike. But a rise now would look as if the industry were trying to take advantage of the highway program. So it is holding back, insisting that it be forced to make increases — which is what the current strike will do.

Machine tool makers face a dip. Sales have been off recently and aren't likely to pick up materially until a lot of current industrial construction is completed, and defense orders, recently held down, rise again.

You'll see more foreign cars. Americans bought 100,000 last year and are on their way to 200,000 this year. Most manufacturers, sure that the mass market is not yet ready for large-scale operations in the teeny field, are making tie-ups with foreign producers.

OLD PROMOTER COMMENTS REPERTIZED HEREWITH
"I see by my favorite journal of commerce that the American Trading & Production Corp. announces it will jumboize a tanker," the Old Promoter remarked as he settled his beefy underside into the visitor's chair today.

"Of course, the original Jumbo, Phineas Barnum's elephant, weighed only six and a half tons, which would amount to a small tanker," he went on. "But I'm really afraid this looks like the beginning of another wave of 'ize' words. Store can be expected to slashize prices of things that aren't slashizing. And people who get tired will vacatinize themselves. Suburban trains will be late-ize by hot boxes, I suppose, and my Uncle Henry will be bourbonizing himself every night as usual."

The old one saw I was taking notes. He laughed. "Now I suppose you'll columnize my remarks!" he said.

We did.

State Of Franklin Reborn

By HAL BOYLE

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) — Few Americans today are familiar with a bizarre period on the frontier when Franklin, the "Lost State," almost became the 14th star in the U. S. flag.

It is told here nightly to thousands of tourists who attend "Chucky Jack," an outdoor drama written by Kermit Hunter, one of the most successful authors of this type of pioneer sagas.

These dramas, which afford a painless way to learn history while cooling off under the stars, are spreading in popularity throughout America, and "Chucky Jack" is among the best.

The cast of 92 unites the talents of Broadway professionals, college drama students, and local residents. The role of Thomas Jefferson, for example, is played by Richard Bunting, chef and manager of the New Gatlinburg Inn restaurant, who formerly was a Broadway dancer.

"Chucky Jack" is built around the fabled exploits of John Sevier, a frontiersman who became known as the "Father of Tennessee."

Less well-known nationally than other sons of "the Volunteer State" such as Davy Crockett, Andrew Jackson and Sam Houston, he is a regional hero here and played a key role in the America's early westward expansion.

A veteran of King's Mountain and other Revolutionary War engagements, Sevier fought 32 battles with the Cherokee and Creek Indians to open for settlement the lands beyond the Great Smoky Mountains.

Angered at lack of what he considered proper military support in these campaigns from the North Carolina Legislature, Sevier joined the settlers in a revolt to set up the State of Franklin. He became its first governor.

This colorful experiment in pioneer self-rule lasted from 1785 to 1788, when the State of Franklin collapsed in a state of chaos. Sevier was charged with treason by North Carolina, but later served in its Legislature, the national Congress, and became the first governor of Tennessee, when it was admitted to the Union as the 16th state. He engaged in a bitter personal feud with Andrew Jackson, and died in 1815 at the age of 70.

While it lasted, the short-lived State of Franklin fought hard to preserve its dignity as a legal body.

The courts, under Sevier, dealt stern justice.

Here is the ruling against a man convicted as a horse thief: "It is therefore ordered that the said Elias Pybroune be confined in the public pillory one hour; that he have both his ears nailed to the pillory and severed from his head; that he receive at the public whipping post 39 lashes well laid on; and be branded on the right cheek with the letter 'H' and on the left cheek with the letter 'T'."

Today you'll find very few horse thieves in Tennessee, the state "Chucky Jack" did so much to found.

Labor Supply Short

By ROBERT W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — Like it or not, labor is a commodity depending on supply and demand. Labor unions can raise wages temporarily just as a dam can raise the height of a stream. But the dam does not destroy the water; sooner or later the water flows over the dam, or the stream dries up.

LET US LOOK AT BIRTH RATES
During the thirties, birth rates in the U. S. had been running about 17 per thousand. Just before World War II, in 1938, the birth rate was 17.6 per thousand, and in 1943 it was 21.5. Then it began to fall, and slipped lower through the rest of the war years. This was accompanied by a scarcity of men due to the draft, with a surplus of women workers. While normal manufacturing was greatly curtailed, the war created an excessive demand for labor for war industries. Therefore, labor adjusted itself fairly well.

The war had two closings, but the boys began to return from Europe in May 1945 and babies began to arrive in 1946. This means that the postwar crop of babies is now under twelve years of age. The birth rate is now running around 24.2 per thousand and the schools are becoming crowded, especially in the elementary grades. As the women who went to work during the war become older, they are dropping out of the job market. This accounts in part for the shortage of labor, the increased wages, and the inefficiency of much of the labor. Every employer complains about it, but I see nothing that can now be done.

WHAT ABOUT THE OUTLOOK?
As the oldest of this postwar crop of babies is now under twelve years of age, no relief can be expected (without a severe business depression) for at least five years. The situation is being tinkered with still further by minimum wage and other labor legislation. In the meantime, business is prosperous and production is close to an all-time high. This means that the supply of labor is low and the demand for labor is abnormally high. I repeat that — barring a business depression — I see no relief until after 1960.

LABOR-SAVING MACHINERY
As a result of the above conditions, there is constant demand for labor-saving machinery of all kinds. This especially applies to all forms of office labor-saving devices. We hear much talk about automation, that is the running of a factory or office automatically with very few employees; but this is for some time in the future. Changing to automation is both a slow and an expensive process and requires considerable capital investment.

The most practical means of bridging the next five years is to take greater care in the selection of employees and to treat them well. There seems to be a natural average wage for given work in a given community. There is no use attempting to buck this wage during the next five years and little point in arguing as to the efficiency of the worker. Wages, however, are not all that workers have, and self-respect. They like reasonable hours, good clothes, and a comfortable place to work. Furthermore, the location of the plant or office often demands the expense of an automobile.

ADVICE TO JUNE GRADUATES
Just now the new graduates are "sitting in the driver's seat." It will be fairly easy for most of them. However, many of them will be paid more than they are worth. This is no reason for them to be careless or to think that their job is secure. They will be watched most carefully, with the idea of a big weeding out after 1960.

Every reader should remember that the labor cycle is constantly revolving, — the same as the stock market cycle, the money rate cycle, and the housing cycle. Many June graduates who now find it easy to get jobs will be out of jobs or be "sitting on the tailboard of the cart" in about five years. Therefore pay

Other Editors Saying-- Opinions In Brief

(Greensboro Daily News)

The Ladies Home Journal and other contemporary tranquilizers for the domestic life have written sweet essays on the conduct and care of the 2½-year-old when new baby comes home, but all to no avail.

Parents of new babies must simply bear up under the strain and take it on the chin. From the first moment there is a clear feeling of relief, extreme relief, in the breast of the fledgling; she knows she is being pushed from the nest; she is curiously disturbed.

Flo had been shown and told, in sessions unending, of her family's love. That was clear. But from the grand excitement of new baby's homecoming (complete with a dozen neighborhood children swarming through the house) to the frequent midnight wailing sessions, she was assailed by alarming discomfiture and ill ease.

Whenever new baby cried, even the slightest yell, Flo was on her feet, leaving messy modeling clay or romping on the green, to go dashing to "new baby's" room.

"Bobby's crying," she would say, poking her fingers through the sides of the crib and patting, even savagely hitting, baby's head.

Or let new baby appear for exhibition before visitors, and another scene was inevitable. Flo would fling her toys around, hop in Daddy's lap, join new baby with Mother or, worse yet, yell for her own bottle, now suddenly of overwhelming interest. Even Flo's crying mimicked new baby's, and when called on to "love" the intruder, her caresses became bear hugs.

So off to Grandmother's Flo went, gladly fleeing the house. There in two weeks she was Queen of the Domain, ruler of the surveyed. Oh, happy day. Then came time for return. Daddy drove down to pick her up. How glad she seemed to come back. "Where's Jane?" asked Daddy in a familiar game.

"Right there," replied Flo pointing to her older sister. "Where's Mary?" "Right there." "Where's Flo?" "Right here," Flo said, pointing to herself. "And where's the new baby?" "Right here," said Flo, pointing again to herself. And how right she was.

And how right she was.

And how right she was.

And how right she was.

And how right she was.

"The handicapped usually have two qualities that overcome their handicaps — courage and character." — The Dallas Morning News.

"Equitable tax laws are one of the best inducements any state can offer prospective industries. Expensive, high pressure publicity campaigns can never compete with tax attractions when an industry is looking for a location." — (Industrial News Review)

"Technology is minimizing the threat of eventual starvation which has concerned many since Malthus expounded his gloomy theory." — (Portland, Oregonian)

"The choice is whether the peaceful uses of atomic energy are to be developed in the framework of the competitive economic system — and thus benefit from the rapid expansion and cost-cutting incentives — or whether the atomic energy industry is to lapse back into the embrace of government, with all that is entailed in so doing. Government and industry must work hand in hand." — (Lewis L. Strauss)

"I should like to say to my distinguished friend from Boston that at his age I would have been a member of the Boston Tea Party. I am sure, and I am not so sure that I would not be today, even though a little older."

Senator Dirksen is 61. Senator Kennedy only 40.

The Kennedy resolution on Algeria will probably be pigeonholed. His Indo-China proposal was defeated by a 64-19 vote. It was opposed even by former Senator George of Georgia, then the Democrats' authority on foreign affairs.

Then, as now with respect to Algeria, President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles were working quietly for a grant of independence to Indo-China colonies by France.

HOW FAR CAN U.S. GO There are two schools of thought on this important question of the use of United States influence, pressure and prestige to obtain independence for peoples still suffering from colonial rule.

President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles take the position that this country cannot support such movements openly and aggressively. According to them, it might antagonize our major Allies, disrupting both NATO, the United Nations and other anti-Communist alliances. They also insist that they are working quietly and diplomatically to this end.

FURNISH SOVIET WITH SUBTLE PROPAGANDA On the other hand, problems arising from "colonialism" and "imperialism" furnish Moscow with its most subtle propaganda. They may lead to future wars, as they did in Egypt a year ago, and previously in Indo-China and Korea.

Since the United States finances the Western Alliance at heavy cost, and spends perhaps more than $36 billion a year on a worldwide protective military establishment, it is argued that we should have a voice in trying to eliminate or ameliorate situations that would provoke another World War.

If we must pay the bill in treasure and lives, according to this viewpoint, we have every right to keep it as low as possible. We should not be required to wage or finance wars precipitated by other nations' mistakes.

Vocabulary Changes Slowly For Nation's Businessmen

By SAM DAWSON
 NEW YORK (AP) — Businessmen don't change the words they use quite as fast as teen-agers. But change they do. And an old timer is lost today if he isn't hep.

Remember when "business cycle" meant boom and bust? Those words make the squeamish squirm today. Now we say "adjustment" if it's our business, and maybe "rolling readjustment" if it's the other fellows.

Once we talked only of "supply and demand" as setting the price of goods and the price of labor. Now the economists, especially the political ones, talk about "administered prices" set by management regardless of supply and demand, a kind of "administered wages" as contracted for without regard for the productivity of the labor or for the demand for the products to be made.

Or the disciple of semanticists speaks of "managed economy" where domestic or international politics call for high output and high prices for commodities for which the demand may be meager and falling.

Once upon a time people got out of bed and stock prices skidded. But the market analyst today often calls this a "technical correction," or even "preparing the base for a new rise."

People now living can remember when Americans weren't disturbed by hearing their way of life called "capitalism." But right after the war all the better orators in business dropped that phrase and took up "free enterprise" instead. Of late the more fashionable term in the executive suites is "people's capitalism."

The latest thing, however, is "motivation." This means polling the citizenry as to why they do or don't buy something. You may think it is because you have the money or don't, like the product or don't, need it or don't.

But that's only the way you talk when you're conscious. The motivation pollsters dig your subconscious. Like as not something you haven't thought about in years makes you buy one product and not another — might go way back to the time your mother spanked you for getting into the pink cookie jar. Get it? You don't like pink packages.

Maybe your father chewed his pencil figuring out his "profit and loss" statement. Your son talks about a "cost-price squeeze on the profit margin" and "product cost accounting."

A "net loss" used to be a real tragedy which you tried to hide from your wife as long as you could, or until the neighbors told her. Now it may help on next year's taxes (or last year's) or even make you look so glamorous someone will buy your business.

All very wonderful in this age of "profitless prosperity."

Walt Kelley's Watch In Hock Shop Again

By PATRICK McNUITY
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Don't ask Walt Kelley what time it is. He has hocked his watch—again.

For eight years Kelley has been knocking on the door of Hollywood's big time, and perhaps, in some ways, he is typical of the film industry's corps of budding but not blooming actors.

Remember him in these supporting roles?

The fellow who won Terry Moore in "Come Back Little Sheba."

One of "Marty's" girlie-book reading buddies.

A frightened dogface in "Men at War."

The subway straphanger who picked up the girl in "Bachelor Party."

Not an impressive list of credits, but Kelley—35 and no starry-eyed youngster—continues to keep plugging.

The question is—why?

Well on the fringe of the Hollywood glitter, Kelley lives in a $45-a-month gardener's cottage on a Beverly Hills estate.

The finance company is threatening a flanking movement on his partially unpaid-for 1956 convertible.

And a $150, one-day television stint has been his only job in more than two months.

He sees Hollywood as a cold-blooded bazaar where the big names get the fat parts and the unknowns battle uphill all the way.

Yet, as a competent actor, Kelley is aware that a slim line, indeed, separates him from the Tab Hunters, the Rock Hudsons and the Anthony Perkins. A good part, a nod from the right producer — and Kelley's gardener's cottage could turn overnight into Cinderella's coach and horses.

But Kelley, also intelligent, realizes that the outlook for hitting the jackpot—especially after eight years—is slim and getting slimmer.

A personable fellow, Kelley seems quite capable of donning an Ivy League suit and making a comfortable living in a more prosaic but better-paid field.

Why not, asked a newsmen. Kelly thought a moment, then replied: "Why, I suppose it's because I'm an actor."

 rents, as well as June graduates, should realize that the present labor situation will not continue unless their "darling" makes good. The present "honeymoon" will continue for a few years more. But it will surely be followed by a period when employers will "clean house," trim down their personnel, and keep only the most efficient. This applies to both men and women.

Life Settles At Scout Jamboree After Weekend

By BILL ALEXANDER
 VALLEY FORGE (AP) — Texas boys swapped horned toads for hard coal lumps from Pennsylvania. Scouts from the far northern reaches of the country piled into the camp site of the Panama Canal Zone to look with fascination upon an eight-foot snake. A boy from Denmark, with a touch of awe, wondered whether a Scout from Peru could produce a shrunken head.

Thus life in this Boy Scout Jamboree City covering 1,500 acres and lodging nearly 55,000 lads and leaders is getting back to normal today after a memorable weekend.

Yesterday, after religious services by various denominations, the Scouts entertained a multitude of relatives and friends. Thousands came from neighboring states.

Scout officials and state police estimated that more than 30,000 toured the camp yesterday.

Today it will be back to swapping, to the overtures that so often lead to fast friendships, to hikes and trips to historical and other exhibits.

One of the most elaborate and interesting of these is a conservation display set up by Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey with the assistance of three federal agencies.

As the Scouts approach the area, their curiosity is aroused by the beckoning wand of "Conservo," a giant wooden magician. In the tent, Conservo himself, in the person of one of the staff Scouts, explains the interdependence of soil and water conservation with that of plants and forestry, fish and wildlife.

Then the Scouts are taken on a tour of realistic exhibits where experts in various fields explain the need for conservation and its effect on their daily lives no matter where they may live.

Deer and other wild life are seen in their natural habitat.

The forest rangers conduct one of the most popular exhibits.

Forest fires are "set," sighted and reported by radio from three towers situated some distance apart, tracked and "extinguished."

ASC Announces Qualifications For Tobacco Support Price

The ASC today announced that excess tobacco acreage disposed of under the following conditions will qualify the final harvested acreage for price support:

A. Full Excess Acreage Disposed of Prior to Harvest. Where all the excess acreage is disposed of and request to certify disposition was made within the 10-day period and the Harvested acreage will be eligible for a within quota marketing card and price support.

B. A Part of Excess Acreage Disposed of Prior to Harvest. Where only a part of the excess acreage is disposed of prior to harvest the farm will be eligible for a within quota marketing card and price support. Provided (1) The request for witnessing disposition is filed within the 10-day period. (2) The full excess acreage is disposed of in the field and (3) the proper amount of harvested tobacco is disposed of. The percentage for determining amount of harvested tobacco to be disposed of will be based on the acreage from which some tobacco was harvested. The percentage will be applied to each pulling of tobacco.

C. Harvest From All Excess Acreage Prior to Disposition. Where some tobacco has been harvested from the entire excess acreage the farm will be eligible for a within quota marketing card and price support: Provided (1) The request for witnessing disposition is filed within the 10-day period, (2) the full excess acreage is disposed of in the field and

(3) the proper amount of harvested tobacco is disposed of. The amount of harvested tobacco to be disposed of shall be determined by applying the percent of excess to each pulling of tobacco. The provisions of items B and C above are based on the interpretation that the word "measured" as used in Handbook (4-TB), Paragraph 41

(Revised 6-18-57) means "witnessing when request is timely filed," and applies without regard to whether or not tobacco was harvested after receipt of notice.

REQUEST FOR WITNESSING DISPOSITION AFTER 10-DAY PERIOD
 Where request for witnessing disposition is filed after expiration of the 10-day period the excess may be disposed of in the field and from harvested tobacco, if harvesting has begun, and the farm will be issued a "zero percent" excess marketing card, unless the farm is eligible for consideration as provided for in 1957 Letter PG-31.

REQUEST FOR REMEASUREMENT AFTER 10-DAY PERIOD
 Remeasurement of tobacco will not be permitted in any case where request for remeasurement is filed after expiration of 10-calendar day period from date of excess notice, except where approved by this office under the provisions of 1957 Letter PG-31.

Abbott, Costello Team Broken Up

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bud Abbott and Lou Costello—the funnymen who broke up audiences with the classic and confounding discussion of "who's on first?"—have broken up themselves.

Costello, the rolly-poly part-faller of the famous comedy team, said yesterday that straight man Abbott has settled down on a ranch near Santa Barbara and decided not to do any more work for awhile.

There was no fight involved in the breakup, Lou said. It's just that Abbott is getting along—he's 61 now, 10 years older than Lou—and wants to get out of the act and spend his time developing a stable of thoroughbred horses.

Costello said a renewal of the old partnership would be "up to Abbott," but there appears little possibility of such a development.

With Abbott out, Lou is through as a team man.

"Oh, I might try and work with Dean Martin," he quipped, but he would want no other partner.

There was actually no formal announcement of the split. A newsmen noticed that Costello had been doing a lot of solo jobs recently and asked him about it.

"It's funny," Costello said, "but I was seen as a single by millions of people on . . . national TV shows, and you're the first one who's asked me why. I guess after 20 years no one would believe that Abbott and Costello have split up."

On Costello's agenda as a single are the lead role in a movie based on the life of the late New York Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, more night club appearances, and the emcee's part on a new TV quiz show.

The term of "frank" as applied to free mail is derived from the French coin "franc," which means free.

Chaplin's Son Winds Up In Tank

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Police say Charles Chaplin Jr. topped off a swimming pool party by winding up in the tank—the drunk tank.

Officers said they answered a call yesterday from an apartment where a swimming party was in progress. Police said the 32-year-old son of the noted comedian was locked in one of the apartments with an irate husband, Robert Focht, waiting outside.

"I'm waiting for Chaplin to come out and when he does I'm going to thrash him because of some remarks about my wife," officers quoted Focht.

Chaplin, described by officers as very cooperative, was led off to the safety of the Lincoln Heights jail, where he was booked on a drunk charge. He later posted $20 for his release and was to appear in court today.

Shopkeeper Ends Robbery Attempt With Loud Yells

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Anthony Perry, 69, thinks he has found a way to prevent holdups at his confectionery store. He just starts yelling.

Perry, who has been robbed three times in recent years, says "I work hard for my money and I get sick of these guys trying to come in here and steal it."

Saturday night "two tall young beanpoles" walked into his store wearing handkerchiefs on their faces and carrying guns.

Perry dropped to the floor behind the counter and began yelling.

"You could hear me all over town," he said later. "I hollered for help and I hollered for these guys to get out. One of them tried to stick his gun over the counter which was so filled with potato chips and pretzel bags he couldn't see me. Pretty soon I guess they got scared too, and they ran away without taking anything."

Phillies Climb To Within 1/2-Game Of National Lead

Phils Have Won Four Twin Bills To Make Leap

The Phillies are trying for the National League jackpot by playing "double or nothing" with the rest of the league. By winning four double-headers in the last 10 days, the 50-1 shots of opening day now are only half a game off the pace.

Snapping a losing streak July 1, the Phils have won 11 of their last 13.

Curt Simmons and Jim Hearn handed the pitching yesterday as the usually light-hitting Phils hit five home runs and beat St. Louis twice 6-2 and 11-4. Von McDaniel, the 18-year-old $50,000 bonus baby, suffered his first major league defeat in the opener. Larry Jackson, the Cards' top winner, lost the second.

Brooklyn dropped Milwaukee to third place, one game behind St. Louis, when Gil Hodges hit a two-run homer in the ninth for a 4-2 victory after successive doubles by Frank Torre and Andy Pafko had given the Braves a tie-breaker run in the top of the ninth. Cincinnati snapped its seven-game losing streak, slugging Pittsburgh twice 9-6 and 12-4. New York outlasted Chicago 8-6 in 12 innings, winning on Willie Mays' two-run homer after Whitey Lockman's second home run of the day had tied the game in the ninth.

Just when the American League appeared on the verge of becoming a race once more, the New York Yankees turned on a six-run rally to get an even break in Chicago.

The Yankees bounced back from a 4-0 deficit to a 6-4 second-game victory on a grand slam homer by pinch hitter Bill Skowron. Billy Pierce's fine five-hit pitching had won the first for Chicago 3-1. Despite two home runs by Ted Williams, who displaced the Yanks Mickey Mantle as the American League leader with 25, the Boston Red Sox lost two to Cleveland. Joe Altobelli's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded won the first for Bob Lemon 3-2 and the Indians clobbered Boston pitching for 20 hits to take the second 17-4 for Stan Pfitz.

Detroit prepared for the Yanks' victory by knocking off Baltimore twice 10-2 and 7-6 in 10 innings. Billy Hoelt hit two homers and pitched a seven-hitter in the first game and the second was won by Red Wilson's single after a damaging error by Jim Brideweser, Baltimore shortstop.

Kansas City split a double with Washington in 10th inning heat. Jimmie's timely hitting helped Washington take the opener 4-1 for Camilo Pascual but the A's cut loose with a 17-hit barrage, including two homers by Irv Noren, in an 11-3 second-game romp.

The Phillies showed little respect for McDaniel, raking him for five runs and five hits before he left for a pinch hitter after four innings. Rip Repulski turned on his old Card mates with a three-run homer in the first inning. Ed Bouchee also homered for the Phils.

Everette, Other Top-Seeded Players Win In Tournament

ROBERSONVILLE—Top-seeded defending champion Maurice Everette won the Robersonville Invitational Tennis Tournament, singles here, Sunday afternoon, defeating Joe Burt, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

Burt was second-seeded. Burt and Walter Conner, top-seeded in the doubles, also claimed that title, stopping Maurice and Ned Everette, 6-6, 6-3, 7-5, in a downpour that threatened to halt the match.

In the only other division of play, the Veteran's bracket, finalist Kelly Abeyounis and Tom Nordest were rained out. Abeyounis won the first set, 7-5, and the second set was tied at the time of the postponement.

The two will meet Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 to finish the match for the title.

Going into the singles quarter-finals on Saturday afternoon, Maurice Everette downed Ken Chalker 6-2, 8-6; Conner topped Sherwood Roberson, 6-4, 9-7; Joe Burt defeated J. W. Browning, 6-1, 6-1; Walter Burgess downed Tom Nordest, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2.

The semi-finals saw Everette topple Conner, 6-0, 6-3 and Burt down Burgess, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3. That pitted Everette and Burt together in Sunday's finals.

Tourney Chairman Bob Lee stated this morning that the tournament was a "fine success," and told reporters that there was "wonderful participation and nice attendance."

He commented specifically on the fact that "the seedings were almost perfect. Everette was first-seeded and Burt was second-seeded in the singles. And they played for the championship."

"The same was true of the doubles. Burt and Conner were first-seeded and they won out over the Everettes for the title." The Everettes, Ned and Maurice, were second-seeded.

Lee, commenting on the fact that those entrants played "courageous tennis and showed a lot of fight." Lee prophesied that the tourney would continue to grow, as it has this year.

Sponsoring the play this year were the H&H Gas Company, the A. O. Roberson Company and the Robersonville Jaycees. They also furnished the trophies for the winners.

All-Stars To Battle Durham Outfit Tonight

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—The Durham Bulls face the Carolina League All-Stars here tonight in the annual All-Star game.

Durham plays host to the team, picked from the other five clubs in the league, having gained the right to meet the All-Stars by winning the first half of the league's split season. It marks the first time in its 13-year history in the Class B circuit that Durham has played host to this game.

The league players voted on the All-Star lineup, which includes a powerful defense team and the league's top five pitchers.

The game is scheduled for 8 p.m. with a pre-game home run contest planned at 7:15 p.m. Leading sluggers who will participate in the contest are Fred Van Dusen of the Hi-Toms, Gene Oliver of Winston-Salem, Dick Colone of Durham, and Bob Perry and Ino Rodriguez, both of Danville.

Other pre-game entertainment also is planned including an appearance by Bill Biedose of Winston-Salem and his "Crazy Auto Act."

Durham Manager Bobby Mavis has tentatively plans to rotate David Reed, Phil Regan and Jim Raugh in the pitching assignments. He added, "I'll use my whole staff if it takes that to win it."

Mavis said, "We are anxiously looking forward to this game, and you can bet your life we will make every effort to win it."

The All-Star lineup of 16 players has six from High Point-Thomasville, five from Danville, three from Winston-Salem, two from Greensboro and one from Wilson. The manager of the All-Stars is George Kissell of Winston-Salem, whose team finished second during the first half of the season. The All-Stars haven't lost since they were beaten by Danville in 1949 by a 4-2 score. They won last year at Wilson, 4-2.

Frenchman To Battle Rugged Rory Calhoun

By MURRAY ROSE The Associated Press

FRANCIS's Germinal Ballarin, who didn't get a chance to show more than his luxuriant mustache in his successful U.S. debut July 1, is certain to be put to the test Friday night when he bumps into husky aggressive Rory Calhoun in the Syracuse War Memorial Auditorium. Calhoun is favored.

The 27-year-old Frenchman, holder of a decision over former welterweight king Kid Gavilan, outpointed roundout Bob Provizal at New York's St. Nicholas Arena two weeks ago. Provizal did more running and sidestepping than anything else. It took Ballarin, a willing workman, half the fight to catch up to his opponent.

Ballarin won't have to go looking for Calhoun. The 22-year-old White Plains, N.Y., middleweight contender usually charges out swinging. Calhoun's last fight was a slambang 10-round draw in the same War Memorial Auditorium with Joey Giambra. Rory's record is 27-2-1, including 15 kayos. Ballarin's record is 43-6-4, including 21 knockouts.

The 10-rounder will be broadcast and telecast (NBC 9 p.m. EST) coast-to-coast.

Joey Giardello, another middleweight contender, is the big choice to whip game Chico Vejar, the actor-fighter from Stamford, Conn., in the Wednesday night television (ABC 9 p.m. EST) headliner at the Louisville, Ky., Fair Grounds.

Unbeaten in his last 10 fights, Giardello, 27, Philadelphia, has a 70-13-5 record with 27 kayos. Vejar's record is 37-10-2, including 34 kayos.

Tommy Salem of Cleveland and Frankie Ippolito, a couple of lightweights seeking to get back in the winning column, clash in the Monday night television (Dumont 9:30 p.m. EST) feature at New York's St. Nicholas Arena. Salem's record is 33-8-1, Ippolito's 19-3-1.

Gibson Seeking First U. S. Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHICAGO (AP)—Althea Gibson of New York City, the newly crowned Wimbledon champion, seeks her first major U.S. tennis title when the National Clay Courts Tournament opens today.

Miss Gibson, seeded No. 1, is a strong favorite to capture the title in the week-long tournament which opens Sunday. She was defeated in the semifinals last year by Shirley Fry, last year's Wimbledon champion.

Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., will seek his second straight title in the men's division. Flam also won in 1950 and is top seeded.

Behind him are Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, winner in 1953; Bernard Bartzan, the 1954 champion from Dallas; and Sam Giammalva, the power hitter from Houston.

Ranked behind Miss Gibson in the women's division are Darlene Hard, Wimbledon runner-up from Montebello, Calif.; Karol Fageros, Miami; and Lois Felix, Meriden, Conn.

Philly Manager Doesn't Know What Happened

By RALPH BERNSTEIN PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Last spring the experts were saying the Philadelphia Phillies would be lucky to finish fifth.

Now the season is rounding the turn for the run into the stretch. And who is in second place, half a game from the crest?

The Phillies! How this team of shreds and patches got there is one of the major surprises of the year in sports.

Manager Mayo Smith frankly says he doesn't know.

General Manager Roy Hamey, tongue in cheek, says: "I like to believe that we'll keep it up." But he's making no predictions.

As for the players, they say they simply live in the present and keep hustling.

Take a look at this club, which by tonight could be in first place. Not a 300 hitter in the starting lineup. In fact, not even a .290 pouter man.

The Phils' hitherto star pitcher, Robin Roberts, is having the worst season of his career, and the club's longest pitcher—and unaccountably so.

How then are they doing it? Perhaps yesterday's doubleheader victory over the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals supplies some of the answers.

The Phillies, in winning their fourth straight double-header, got 17 runs in all, on 19 hits. That's getting the most out of your attack. Again and again, that's what happens. Not long ago the Phils got only one hit off Milwaukee's Lew Burdette and beat him 1-0.

What's more, the club has been getting mileage out of a couple of veteran pitchers other teams gave up on. Pitcher-poor Cincinnati asked waivers on Warren Hacker. The Phils grabbed him. Hacker saved a couple of games in relief, then won two starting assignments one against Brooklyn.

Jim Hearn was bought from the New York Giants. He has won four and lost one and been a strong arm in relief. He won yesterday's second game 11-4.

SHAPING UP

With only two games remaining on the schedule for the Greenville Little League, the Kiwanis Club and the Moose Club are leading their leagues respectively.

The Kiwanis have a 6-2 mark in the North State competition, which virtually clinches the second-half title for them. The Lions, with a 4-4 mark, are the next closest rivals.

Unofficially, then, this means that a playoff will be in order to select the over-all North State League champions. The winner of the first half, the Lions, must meet the second-half winners, the Kiwanis, to determine the champs.

In the Tar Heel look, the Moose Club, having took the first-half title earlier, is also leading in second-half play. Their mark is standing at 5-3 at present.

Van Harris stole the show Saturday afternoon at the Little League double header at Elm Street Park.

The sharp-throwing Kiwanis hurler chalked up a no-hit, no-run ballgame against the Lions to capture the second-half North State League championship for his team.

With only two games remaining on the second half schedule, the Kiwanis Club holds a 6-2 mark. The Lions, winner of the first-half title, have a 4-4 mark which leaves them out in the cold for this half.

Harris breezed through the six innings, keeping the Lions in check, while his own club racked up three runs within the first three innings. It ended 3-0.

In the second game, the Exchange club edged the Elks, 4-2, to move into a deadlock with that team for second place in the Tar Heel Circuit.

Robby Ange turned in a three-hit performance for the winners to take credit for the victory. Frank Moyer was the loser.

HARRIS' WIN Harris' triumph in the first game was derived from an excellent mound performance. He fanned four batters and walked only two. He hit one batter with a pitched ball. Other than the walks and the one hit batter, he moved smoothly, not allowing the Lions to threaten a single time.

The Kiwanis scored their first runs in the second inning. Gene Hemby went to first on an error and Harris followed with a single.

Hemby scored on a hit by Lee Ross and Harris came around on a fielder's choice.

Garry Conroy scored the final Kiwanis run in the third on a hit by Harris.

ANGE OUTSTANDING Robby Ange, hurling for the Exchange Club in the second game, made it a "pitcher's day" completely when he stopped the Elks 4-2.

He struck out 10 Elk batters and walked two, to chalk up an impressive win. Frank Moyer, the loser, fanned four and walked six.

Both teams tallied only three hits. Berrie Morris got two of those for the winners. Dick Taft got the other one. For the Elks, J. G. Proctor picked up one and Denton Hardee collected two.

Split-T, Single Wing On Aug. 3rd

GREENSBORO (AP)—A generous dose of the split-T and single wing offenses loom for the 9th annual battle of North Carolina's high school football stars here Aug. 3.

The Senior High Stadium game will follow by three nights the annual battle of the state's top high school basketball performers.

On the East football coaching staff Clyde Walker of Raleigh, has utilized the split-T with great success, and Thell Overman of Wallace has piled up many victories with a single wing.

The same situation holds for the West. Shu Carlton of Gastonia uses the split-T, but the other coach, Valdes's Burton Barger relies on the single wing.

The director of the two games, Bob Jaieson, last week mailed notices to 70 North Carolina high school athletes to start limbering up.

Billy Graham Considering Extending Crusade Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham's New York crusade may be extended for two or three weeks beyond its scheduled closing date, next Saturday night. Graham, who preached to a crowd of 19,200 at Madison Square Garden last night, announced that a decision on extension will be made later in the week. This would be the second extension. When the crusade started May 15, the schedule called for a June 30 windup. Requests for a longer schedule were so numerous...

now, the closing date is next Saturday. The Graham family had planned a vacation. However, I am ready to answer the call. Graham was preceded by Roger Hull, chairman of the New York executive committee for the crusade. Hull asked the audience: "Would you like to support and have the meetings continue?" He asked that those who wanted an extension stand. Nearly everyone stood, and there were cries of approval. Total attendance at the Madison Square Garden meetings has reached 1,038,700. Last night's 331 "decisions for Christ" raised the total to 32,593. There was a roar of approval last night when Graham in a brief statement before the sermon said: "There is a possibility of our crusade being here for another two or three weeks. As far as I know...
