

Black Jack Farmer Ends Harvest

LONGIE MILLS . . . last of tobacco crop is harvested.

BLACK JACK—While other Pitt farmers were still worrying about rain for their parched tobacco, Lonnie Mills of near Black Jack completed harvesting of his crop yesterday.

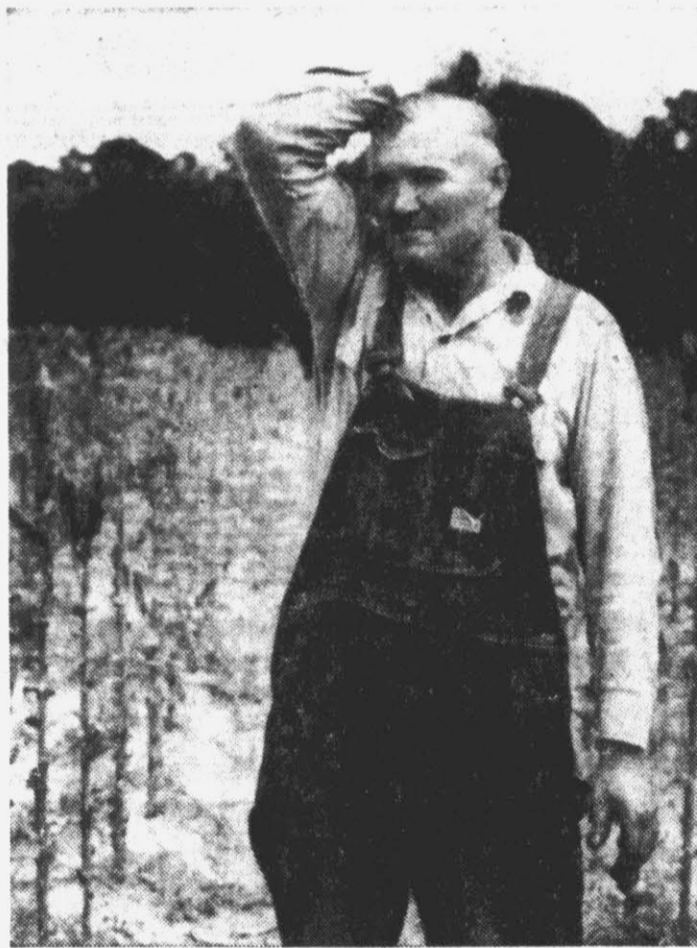

A good two weeks ahead of the normal harvesting season, Mills cleared his tobacco stalks, only three months after transplanting.

He set out his tobacco on April 16 and began pulling his first lugs on June 22. Mills planted four acres of Oxford 181.

"I'd call this a medium crop," he said. "It isn't real good or bad."

We're pulling it all as we go," Mills declared yesterday as tobacco workers entered the fields for the last time this year.

He figures he will average 800 sticks to the acre.

At Annual Training Course

No Dummy

GOLDSBORO (AP) — The dummy whammy didn't make dummies out of all the motorists.

State Highway Patrolman J. F. Allsbrook reported to his superiors here that when one of the cables on his radar-operated speed checker broke, he left it set up on the highway to discourage speeders until he could repair it the next day.

The broken cable ran to his parked car. But somebody figured out that Allsbrook wasn't around. When the trooper arrived on the scene the next day, all of the cables were gone.

Eisenhower Says He Can't Imagine Troop Use To Enforce Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he cannot imagine circumstances which would induce him to send federal troops to enforce civil rights—including school integration.

Eisenhower's comments were made under questioning at a news conference. He renewed his statement of last night that he wants four objectives met in any civil rights bill the Senate finally passes.

Ike Thinks Wilson-Zhukov Meeting Might Be Useful

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today a meeting of Russia's Marshal Zhukov and Secretary of Defense Wilson might prove useful.

Those objectives include enforcement, without jury trial, of voting rights and similar enforcement of "other" civil rights.

Want New Look At Military Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three members of the Senate Armed Services Committee said today they want to take a closer look at a Pentagon order for a 100,000-man reduction in the armed forces authorized strength of 2,800,000.

In today's meeting with newsmen, Eisenhower was pressed on the question of whether he favors allowing the attorney general on his own motion to go into court for enforcement of integration in schools.

Georgia Markets Expect Full Sales

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A quick survey of Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco today on the eve of the market opening indicated that perhaps never before has so large a part of the crop been brought in from the fields so early.

The news conference was held as the Senate moved into an all-out fight on the bill, after voting late yesterday to take up the legislation.

Eisenhower said some persons had told him that the section of the bill which authorizes injunctive action to enforce civil rights in general—Section 3—might involve great dangers.

Defense Wins Point

ATOMIC STOCKPILE—As Secretary of State Dulles did yesterday, Eisenhower said this country is considering the possibility of putting a stockpile of atomic weapons at the disposal of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Defense Wins Point In Segregation Trial

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Defense attorneys in the Clinton segregation trial succeeded in blocking temporarily today the testimony of a mail carrier after a long legal wrangle.

His testimony, it was reported, would show that northern segregationist John Kasper received his mail at the home of Clyde Cook.

This was part of proposed evidence in the U. S. government's contention that Kasper and 14 Tennesseans conspired together to violate a federal injunction banning interference with integration at Clinton High School last fall.

Kasper, Cook and the other defendants are on trial for contempt of court for alleged violation of the injunction.

The mail carrier was Hobart C. Burroughs of Clinton.

He first was called to the stand yesterday. The defense objected to his testimony on the ground that postal regulations give a confidential nature to mail deliveries.

U. S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor asked both defense and government attorneys to cite some precedents, and law, covering this point.

Today U. S. Dist. Atty. John C. Crawford Jr. quoted portions of the Postal Manual which said the court had authority to order postal employees to testify.

The defense argued, however, citing another passage of the Postal Manual, that such disclosure is at the discretion of the head of the Post Office Department. "I can order the witness to testify," Taylor said. "What disturbs me is whether I should—whether it would weaken the Post Office Department."

The judge said that he is deeply concerned about protecting the privacy of American citizens.

Kasper's lawyer, J. Benjamin Simmons, Washington, D. C., pointed to the court that some of Kasper's mail has come addressed to Judge Taylor.

"And I've gotten some of mine addressed to the clerk of this court," Simmons said.

"Would anybody suppose that Mr. Kasper and I are in a conspiracy with the court?"

"What I am yearning for is some kind of law—something from the textbooks," Taylor said.

The judge, ruling that Burroughs should not be called to the stand immediately, asked Crawford to keep the mail carrier as his last witness.

Crawford said he had received a telegram from the chief inspector of the Post Office Department in Washington that Burroughs should comply with whatever ruling Taylor made regarding his testimony.

The telegram said in part: "If directed by the court to proceed with testimony, after directing attention to prohibition against disclosure of information regarding addresses of patrons, mail matter, etc., he should obey."

MORGAN HUSTED BEH. . . All smiles after reorganization last night.

Oldest Troop Active Again

The Boy Scout troop with the record of being the oldest with continuous registration in Pitt has again "joined the fold."

Troop 36, sponsored by the Greenville American Legion Post 59, was reorganized three months ago after a brief period of inactivity and received recognition last night from Pitt Scouting Commissioner John Behr.

Behr commented, "The Legion has done an excellent job of sponsoring scouting over the years and it is felt your wholehearted efforts will continue in this new registration."

Sherman Husted, Vice-Commander, received a certificate on behalf of the American Legion for its 23 consecutive years of registration with the Boy Scouts of America.

Georgia Markets Expect Full Sales

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A quick survey of Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco today on the eve of the market opening indicated that perhaps never before has so large a part of the crop been brought in from the fields so early.

The farmers labored with redoubled energy to get their tobacco ready and on the warehouse floors for the start of sales tomorrow at 23 Georgia and 5 Florida auction centers. Hauling to market by truck, tractors and even by horse or mule-drawn wagons will continue through the night.

Most of the belt's 133 warehouses expect ample tobacco for full first day sales despite the early opening and the small crop. They also anticipate a season of quick, orderly sales winding up at a near-record early date.

The opening lacks just three days of equalling 1954's record early date of July 15. It is seven days ahead of last season and three ahead of 1955.

By government estimate, the belt's yield of some 100 million pounds is off 35 per cent from last season and the smallest since 1943. A 20 per cent acreage slash in all flue-cured areas and further reduction through operation of the soil bank has raised hopes of record or near-record prices.

Whether the season average will equal or surpass 1953's record of $51.09 a hundred pounds remains to be seen. Nearly everywhere, though, looks for very high prices for quality tobacco and good prices for the lower grades.

DISARMAMENT—He said he is dead set against recessing the current London disarmament talks on the basis of anyone there being tired or discouraged. He said there are sometimes good reasons for a recess so that representatives of the various countries can consult with their governments, but no excuse whatever for getting discouraged.

MANPOWER—The President also said there is no connection between the disarmament talks and yesterday's Pentagon announcement that U. S. armed forces will be cut by 100,000 men by the end of this year.

Discussing the projected manpower reduction, Eisenhower said both he and Secretary Wilson believe the United States at present is a little stronger in manpower than is necessary. Just precisely how much, he said, is not yet clear.

MIDDLE EAST—Asked for comment on the shipment of Soviet arms to some Middle East countries, particularly Egypt and Syria, Eisenhower said such shipments by Russia cannot possibly contribute to peace. The effect, he went on, will be just the opposite.

ATOMIC STOCKPILE—As Secretary of State Dulles did yesterday, Eisenhower said this country is considering the possibility of putting a stockpile of atomic weapons at the disposal of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

He said further, however, that there is no specific program on that at this time.

A reporter suggested that such a program might be logical in the light of current disarmament talks. Eisenhower disagreed, saying NATO was created to help our allies defend themselves—and that the means and methods of doing so should be made available to them.

15 Girls Still Running For Miss U.S.A. Crown

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Fifteen of the prettiest girls in America still were in the running today in the contest to pick the United States' representative in the Miss Universe contest.

The beautiful survivors of the first night's competition will parade their charms before the judges again tonight. The winner will become Miss U.S.A., who will then take her place in a field of 33 of the fairest of this and many other lands.

Chosen from among 44 American entrants after appearing before the judges, first in evening gowns then in bathing suits, were: Miss Arkansas, Helen Elizabeth Garrutt, 19, West Memphis; Miss California, Peggy Jacobson, 18, Downey; Miss Illinois, Marianne Gaba, 18, Chicago; Miss Iowa, Judith Ann Hall, 20, Council Bluffs; Miss Maryland, Leona A. Gage, 21, Glen Burnie; Miss Massachusetts, Sandra Ramsey, 19, Haverhill; Miss Nebraska, Carolyn McGirr, 18, Sidney. Miss Nevada, Joan Adams, 23, Las Vegas; Miss New York, Samantha Peckey, 21, New York City; Miss Ohio, Kathryn Gabriel, 20, Cleveland; Miss South Carolina, Jean Spotts, 20, Newberry; Miss Texas, Gloria Hunt, 20, Corpus Christi; Miss Utah, Charlotte Sheffield, 20, Salt Lake City; Miss Washington, Diana Schaffer, 16, Bellevue; Miss West Virginia, Ruth Marie Parr, 18, Saint Albans.

Their selection brought to an abrupt end the sense of fun and happy anticipation that marks the opening days of the international beauty contest. There were tears and downcast faces among the 29 girls eliminated in the opening round, and most of them made haste to leave the auditorium as crowds of photographers and well-wishers pressed close to the happy winners.

With Farm Women

By VIRGINIA M. NANCE
(Items this week on: Lincoln, Surry, Bertie, Robeson, and Caswell Counties.)

MAKING WORK EASIER
Home Management leaders in Lincoln County's Home demonstration clubs have been studying recently ways to make their housekeeping easier, according to Ainslee Alexander, home agent.

After they listed "short cuts" that leaders had found in housecleaning to make it easier, they were ready to pass on these suggestions to other club members through demonstrations in club meetings.

Mrs. Franklin Hautz, Boger City club, said after giving the demonstration, "Since I gave that demonstration I have been all the more step and motion conscious. It's helped me a great deal to make my own housecleaning easier."

HOME NURSING
One of the goals of the Rural Development program in Bertie County is to improve the health of rural people. In order that she might be trained to teach a course in home nursing to community women, Mrs. Lina Peele, member of the Lewiston-Woodville home demonstration club, attended a home nursing school in Okraoke recently.

According to Lenore Crouser, Bertie home agent, Mrs. Peele was the county's representative to attend the school conducted by Ann Hawfield, American Red Cross representative.

SOME GROUNDS IMPROVEMENT
A desire to improve her home grounds and a 4-H project go hand in hand for Surania Jones, Pembroke 4-H member, according to Mrs. Helen Sampson, Robeson assistant home agent.

Eurania says, "To watch plants grow, bloom, and furnish shade in a yard that was once as had as a rock is the most rewarding part of my 4-H project. Even though we are tenant people I feel that the job I've had from my project has no rethan repaid me for my efforts. Never again can I say that you have to have a green thumb to grow plants. All it takes is interest and following State College's recommended practices."

COMMUNITY BUILDINGS
"Many home demonstration clubs in Surry County are growing too large to meet in homes," says Charlotte Bridewell, home agent, "and that's why, along with other reasons, many of the communities have turned to the community building idea."

Miss Bridewell reports that the Salem Fork club has a beautiful modern club house built through the efforts of club members and their families.

Franklin home demonstration club contributed greatly to their community building by completely furnishing the kitchen and by helping the Ruritan Club meet many of the monthly payments.

River Drive club helped to build a meeting place and recreational room at Whitaker's Chapel in their community, where they now hold their monthly meetings and recreation. They felt they couldn't afford to build a complete new building but by aiding in the construction of this addition to the chapel they have all the room needed and for as long as it's needed. They are now in the process of a fund raising campaign to further furnish the room.

The Banner Grove club will soon be enjoying their new building, which Mrs. Bridewell adds, they, along with their husbands, have constructed.

MORE MILK IN DIET
Caswell County's Negro home demonstration club women have found a recipe that enables them to get more milk in their diets with fewer complaints from the family.

Helen M. Payne says that the recipe for cheese cake has been tried in almost every home in the county. Six Trinity Branch club women since their meeting had made cheese cakes for their families. One club member, Mrs. Lelia Williamson, said, "My husband didn't know what it was, and when I told him it was cheese cake and that I'd made the cheese, he couldn't believe it. Now he says that the hogs won't be getting as much milk as they have been."

American Women Have Become Name And Designer Conscious

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Bathing suits are big business, as evidenced by the high-powered designers now getting into the sun-and-surf act.

It is a recent trend of the times that American women have become name-designer-conscious, and take as much pride in the labels in their swim suits as in those in their evening gowns.

Nettie Rosenstein is the most recent arrival in the swimwear couture lineup, having discovered that a swimsuit is as basic a part of the average woman's wardrobe as the indispensable little black dress for which this designer is famous.

Mrs. Rosenstein's swimwear designs, however, have no hint of the understated restraint of her discreet dress creations. When she turns her designing eye toward the surf, this noted dressmaker throws off all inhibitions and shoots the works on allure. Her theory is that a lady should be discreet in the drawing room, but daring on the beach.

That's why you may see a 1957 bathing beauty in a gold-lame swimsuit that fits like a second skin, in a perky creation of candy-striped can-can ruffles or in a startling creation of white fishnet over flesh-colored jersey.

Rivalry runs high along our rich beaches this season, as such designers as Hubert de Givenchy, Christian Dior, Schiaparelli and Nettie Rosenstein all get in the swim. And the competition is not only in the designs but also in the presentations. At present Mrs. Rosenstein holds the showmanship lead, after unveiling her latest swimwear collection amid icicles and snow peaks, beside a heated outdoor pool in Sun Valley, Idaho.

A CHILD-PROTECTOR

A clever device has been patented which protects children against kidnapers. The apparatus, built into a mattress, sets off an alarm if the child is removed from the bed while the machine is on. The parents, of course, know how to disconnect the mechanism before lifting Junior up. It seems that nowadays there is no safer or more comfortable place for an infant than his crib. He can play there unattended and take his energy-restoring naps on the spot.

SUN AND ICE... This brave model reaches for an icicle beside a heated outdoor pool in Sun Valley. She is wearing Nettie Rosenstein's Can-Can ruffled swimsuit.

Air Service Cycle Has Run Its Course

Eastern North Carolina's futile quest for adequate air service has run a complete cycle during the past decade. Now the area is launching itself on what appears to be the second round of the same futile cycle.

In 10 years of inter-community competition for air service the area has yet to learn that the answer to its lack of adequate air transportation is joint rather than individual effort.

Immediately following World War II Greenville, Kinston, Rocky Mount, Goldsboro and Wilson, like cities in other parts of the state, all set their caps to get commercial air service at their individual airports. In a short time it became apparent that none of the cities could expect the calibre air service it wanted and needed so long as the cities competed with each other for every possible flight.

Gradually air-minded leaders in Eastern North Carolina came to realize that the answer to adequate air service was an area rather than a community problem. They set about to provide an answer through a centrally-located airport supported jointly by several cities and counties. Things went well until petty jealousies on the part of some people threw the whole plan into a cocked hat. The ambitious, yet realistic plan known as the Eastern Carolina Airport Authority died an untimely death.

For a couple of years things rocked along with little effort being made toward promoting air service for the area. Then a new program for a joint air facility was launched by a group of cities and counties under the name of Mid-East Carolina Airport Authority. Things looked encouraging until Rocky Mount, one of the leaders in initial efforts for an area air facility, announced it would not participate in the joint effort. Rather it would build a new municipal airport of its own, seeking CAA financial support and air service of its own. Kinston, with some commercial air service, withheld support from the joint effort, reluctant to give up the service it had for an area facility.

Then the CAA, which had spoken in favor of area air facilities and encouraged their development, dealt the death blow to Mid-East by earmarking funds for the single-city Rocky Mount airport rather than the Mid-East area airport.

In recent months Rocky Mount and Wilson have made overtures to each other about joining hands in an effort to build a two-city airport, but these negotiations now apparently have reached an impasse with the Wilson City Council appointing its own Airport Authority with instructions to seek air service for Wilson.

For all its efforts toward getting adequate air service, Eastern North Carolina appears back where it was a decade ago. Efforts for united action having failed, the individual cities and counties are back to the dog-eat-dog days in which each vies with the other for commercial air service. And while the fight goes on in the backyard of Eastern North Carolina, other areas of the state are moving ahead by gaining better air schedules and better air service. The better air service is increasing their industrial development.

Twice within five years Eastern North Carolina communities have struggled up the mountain of progress almost within grasp of a joint air facility, only to be pulled back into the abyss by petty community jealousies.

Now the cycle is beginning anew.

What Prompts Voters To Go To The Polls?

By BILLY ARNOLD

Which is more important annexing additional property into the corporate limits of a city or electing public officials charged with the responsibility of running the city's business?

Citizens of Charlotte apparently think the former is more important. At least some 3,000 more Charlotte voters went to the polls Monday to vote on annexing 32 additional square miles than went to the polls to elect city officials last spring.

For whatever other implications the recent Charlotte referendum may have in North Carolina, it points up one thing. When folks are stirred up about something, they'll go to the polls to express themselves. In too many instances where the important matter of electing public officials is concerned, voters take a passive attitude.

On far too numerous occasions the importance of the issue at stake in a local election is not accurately reflected by the number of voters who go to the polls.

Modern Business In Contest Era

By ELMER ROESSNER

This may go down in business history as the era of merchandising contests. Never before have there been so many manufacturers offering prizes to retailers, their department heads and salespeople in sales competitions.

One manufacturer may offer prizes to the dealers who sell the most Little Waz eggplant peelers; another may offer prizes to the department store buyer who moves the largest gallonage of Heaven Scent perfume, and still another may reward the salesgirl who gets rid of the most Cremling Puffe mattresses.

The most popular prizes are trips, by plane or ship. There have been so many of them that the natives of some West Indian isles think the United States is a nation of appliance sellers. Come to think of it, it is.

DOUBTS ARISING

The contest craze has reached the point where many retailers are taking a long, second look at it. A flight to Paris for the two-dozen retailers selling the largest number of Brand X air conditioners looks pretty attractive, especially if all the rest of the contestants get a consolation prize.

However, a little figuring may convince some dealers that if the manufacturer can afford such trips, he can equally well afford to lower his own price. After that, it will appear that the losers, in lower profits, are helping to pay for the trip of the winners. Then there is another consideration: the value of the trip is taxable as income. When enough dealers lose their enthusiasm, the number of these contests will fall off.

Many retailers also are taking a new look at contests offering prizes to their department heads, buyers or salespeople. There has always been some opposition to such contests. Many merchants feel that they tend to make employees work for the manufacturers instead of for the store that pays them.

LOYALTY "DIVERTED"

In a bulletin to members, the National Retail Dry Goods Association says, "Generally store policy is opposed to manufacturers' sales contests which provide lavish rewards for buyers. Management believes that the buyer's function is to stimulate sales at a profit and that his reward is his salary and possible bonus. Lavish contest prizes serve consciously to divert the buyer's loyalty from store to manufacturer."

"Aware of this criticism, some manufacturers, who wish to continue such contests, leave it up to the buyer to secure top management's approval. In such instances top management is put in the position of denying something to the buyer which ought never to have been offered. It is the considered opinion of prominent store heads that these ever more lavish selling contests with ever more extravagant prizes should all be discontinued. If there is that much allowance for such shindigs, let it be reflected in the lower costs of goods, they say."

MANUFACTURERS' SIDE

It should be noted, in fairness, that the manufacturers have a plausible argument for contests. A manufacturer may reason thusly: "During August, I expect to sell 100,000 hi-fi electric fans, with a net profit of $150,000. But with a raffle-dazzle contest, I could double sales and increase profits by more than $150,000 because there would be no increase in overhead. So I can afford to spend $50,000 or $100,000 on a contest and still make a very pretty increase in the net."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

FIRM FOUNDATIONS

Jesus ended his Sermon on the Mount by speaking about foundations. He declared that whoever heard his words and obeyed them was like a man who built his house upon the rock, and whosoever heard and disobeyed was like a man who built his house upon the sand.

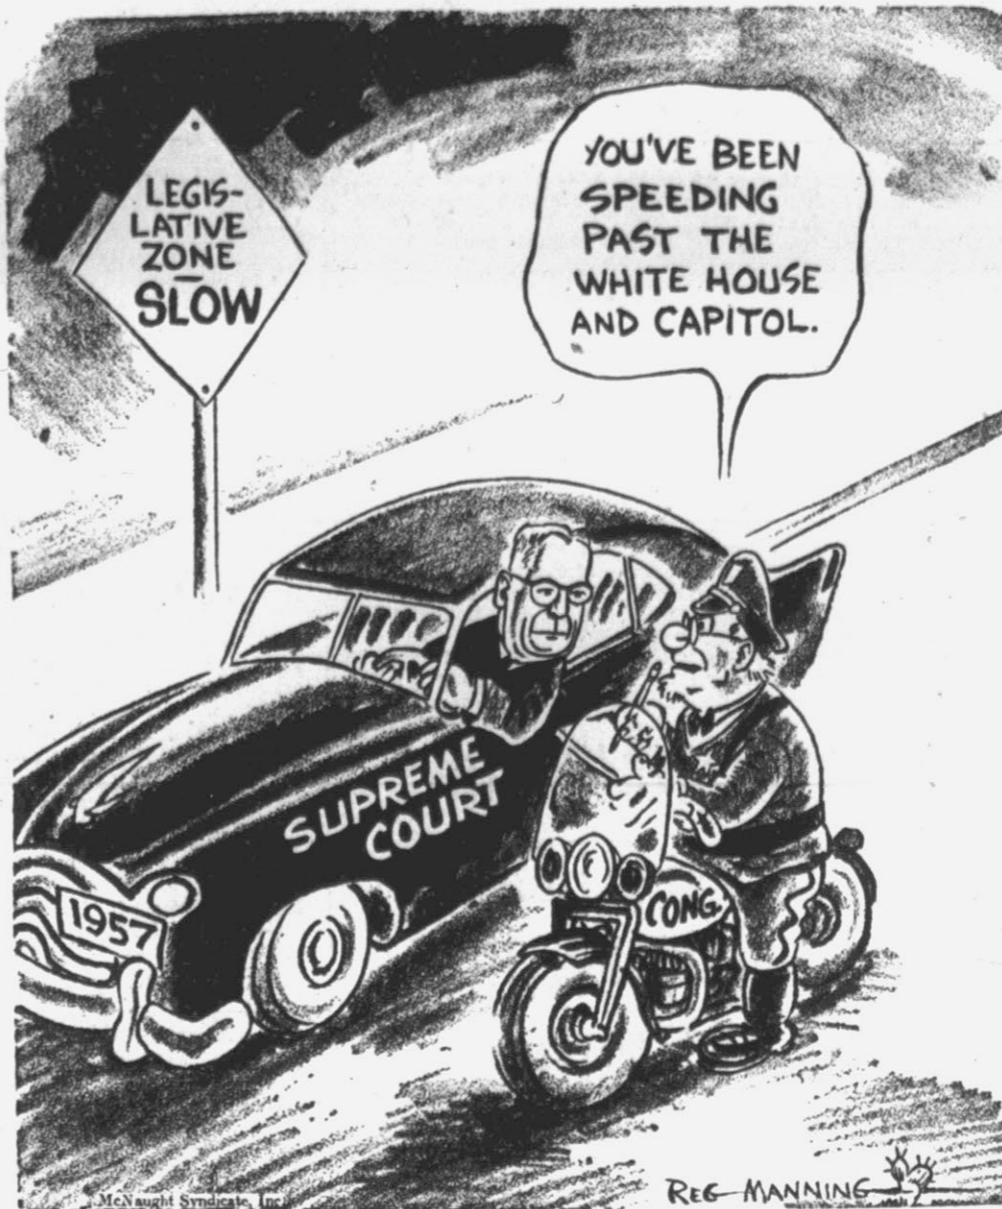

For there is rock foundation under this universe of ours—that we can be sure. Every builder will tell you that when he goes down so far into the ground, he encounters rock. And if he does not encounter it, he must take some very decisive and desperate measures to make his house safe and steady by underpinning. We cannot build houses on air or sand. Superstructures must rise from foundations, and foundations must rest upon a substantial rock layer beneath.

Not only in the physical world but in the mental and spiritual also there is rock foundation underlying everything. There are certain intellectual verities upon which all reasoning must be built. There are moral truths upon which the life of individuals and nations must rest. If we try to build otherwise, we build to our ruin.

Get well settled in your mind what these fundamentals are. Build on them and on nothing else. There are established facts and verities throughout the universe and on these we must build.

The Judge And The Cop

By BILLY ARNOLD

An Easy Way To Be Loved

Everyone likes to be loved and wanted and thought of as an intelligent, reliable person. It is not only serves to boost one's morale and ego, it is an invaluable aid in business and professional life to be well thought of.

Well, I have gained a secret toward that end, which I feel compelled to reveal here, for the general good of our readers. In my many years of work and travel and association with people from the various corners of the country, I have come upon a truth that can change one's life.

This truth, this maxim, this golden rule which I hold can change failure into success and can assure one of happiness that might otherwise never be found. I tell it to you, now, out of the goodness of my heart.

It is a simple rule, as are all profound rules. Yet in it lies untold wealth in wisdom. Here it is:

Whenever you meet and old friend or whenever you are introduced to a stranger, you should have in the back of your mind, several profound quotes to pour forth.

For instance, if you meet a stranger and you begin to talk, the conversation will always get around to some problem—either political, or local or the weather, or something. If you would wish to impress that person, you should level your eyes solemnly, thoughtfully and say, "Well, that's one of those things you never know about until you find out."

There. He will be swept off his feet.

Statements like the one above will be invaluable in forming the impression in other's minds that you are a wise man, a genius. You see, you can't be contradicted; no one can argue with your logic.

Another special remark that you might make can be made in the following situation: If someone asks your opinion on some important matter, you might level your eyes solemnly, thoughtfully, and say, "Well, yes and no. There are grave matters at stake, here."

It works for me all the time. And people think well of me. Other sayings which you might enrich yourself with are listed below:

"Well, yes. It is a nice day. But you never can tell."

"I agree. I agree, wholeheartedly—but—" (this one is left dangling in the air.)

"Well, some people are of that school of thought. I happen to be indistinct on that matter, myself." (this one fools everybody. I made up the word indistinct. It serves to make them think they're ignorant.)

"Ummmmmm..." (this when served with leveled eyes and a solemn, thoughtful expression, is very good. Doctors and dentists use this one all the time.)

Other Editors Saying-- One Can't Just Run Away

Opinions In Brief

(Tampa Morning Tribune) A reader with a pleasant voice but a sharp complaint called yesterday and said there is too much bad news in the newspaper.

Why, she asked, do the newspapers feature "bad" news these days like the big atomic bomb test, divorces, the probe of personal habits and morals of various individuals and automobile accidents? She added that the press should "accentuate the positive and eliminate the negative."

The answer is that newspapers do not make news; they merely publish it. And news itself is neither good nor bad; it is simply an account of what has happened.

A certain amount of individual judgment, to be sure, goes into the decision as to what is news and how it should be reported or played down. It is also true that, through mechanical limitations such as headlines, conflicts sometimes are overemphasized or taken out of perspective.

But it is only through public knowledge that "bad" conditions can be met or eliminated. Robberies in our homes, assaults on our streets and accidents on our highways would be no less menacing and dangerous if they were not reported; in fact, the threat to an unwary public would increase.

Many individuals have observed that this is not a very pleasant or peaceful world we live in. But we would only be kidding ourselves if we tried to run away from it.

THINK

(The Charlotte Observer) A Chicago hypnotist (hypnotatapist?) maintains in straight-faced candor that man can "think" himself cool in the middle of a heat wave.

Through self-hypnosis, that is, a guy who's melting away can start dreaming dreams of a snowstorm and sooner than not he's freezing.

Well, maybe. We cast no stones at the powers of self-delusion, having been, in our time, self-deluded. But if man can think himself cool in summer, warm in winter, tepid in autumn, he can think himself healthy on the brink of the grave and rich on the way to the poorhouse.

For a while yet we'll just keep placing our trust in honest endeavor, medical science, and air conditioning.

Robinson... singled out gasoline filling stations for special commendation 'because they have demonstrated the effectiveness of a continuing, industry-wide campaign of fire prevention.' So here's hats off to our own fire-preventing filling station operators. They set a good example for all of us to follow."

NEWS: "A newspaper has by its very nature accepted a public trust that it will print impartially all of the news worthy of publication without fear or favor. What it considers news, and how it is presented is part of this public trust and is based in large measure upon the attitudes and tastes of the locale and times."

PHARR, Texas, PRESS: "To pay off the national debt in one year would take almost the entire income of everyone in the nation. The per capita debt stands at $1,613.38 while the nation's per capita income is only $1,935."

How To Live Longer

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—One of the great goals of science today is to make man live longer.

Some people even entertain the fond hope a way will be found to permit them to clutter up the world forever.

Rare indeed does a scientist such as Enrico Greppi of Italy arise to sound a note of caution to these would-be seekers after eternal life.

Addressing an international convention in Rome on the problems of gerontology, Greppi said:

"Old age is a fate we must accept. We gerontologists must not be asked to bring along a theory on how to achieve new youth. It would be undignified and morally wrong."

There is a great common sense in this observation. And to tell the truth, science, for all its victories in enabling man to live out his normal span, has done little really to extend that span.

There may come a time when some magic pep pills will enable us to run a four-minute mile at the age of 100, suffer the pangs of a new-found puppy love at 150, and retain some kind of wheezy breath in us until we are 499.

But inevitably, be it at 70 or at 570, the pep pills will wear out, and so will we. Then we shall die, as all before us have done, foolishly hoping for an impossible fountain of youth.

Actually, when—in our right senses, most of us calmly accept death as a fact of life and realize that after a fullness of years it comes as a releasing boon, not a punishment.

But, for those who egotistically aspire to live forever, is there no answer? Why, of course there is.

The trick is for them to live so that life seems like it is going to go on forever. After all, as we know, age and time are really only relative. We are as young as we feel. A moment or a day or a year can seem long or short, depending on how we feel.

Here are a few tips on how to make your life seem endless.

1. Marry a woman who prides herself in never getting anywhere on time. Every night you take her out, as you sit on the sofa waiting while she dresses, you can live several lifetimes.

2. Don't take a job that is fresh, exciting or challenging. Pick one that is dull, routine and safe. The deeper in a rut you get, the longer it will take every day to crawl by.

3. Borrow money. Buy everything on the installment plan. Remember, a man in debt can't afford to die.

4. Avoid friends, make all the enemies you can. Friends have a habit of dying young, and leaving you mournful. But enemies spur you on with a desire to outlive them.

5. Engage in all the lawsuits you can. A man who is always suing everybody is looking for justice, and you know how long it takes to get justice in this world.

6. Be afraid of everything you can. Every minute of fear seems like an eternity. The brave man dies but once. Be a coward and you can live through a thousand deaths.

7. Do something wrong every day to build up your sense of guilt. There's nothing like a guilty feeling to make each day longer.

8. Avoid joy, seek boredom. Time always weighs heaviest with the bored, but a boy having fun is so busy he hardly realizes he's living.

Anyone who conscientiously follows these rules is bound to come as close to a feeling of personal immortality as human nature allows. He may not live forever, but he will have the feeling his dreary existence is endless, and his life will seem 10 times as long as life does to the fellow who fritters it away enjoying himself.

Democrats Have Definite Pattern

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A definite and down-to-earth pattern has emerged in the Democrats' concerted attack on the Administration's foreign policies. It differs in kind and degree from previous parliamentary analyses of this country's position in the world today and in the long tomorrow.

This strategy, opposition critics have abandoned high-flow and technical oratory that reads well in the Congressional Record, but rarely causes a ripple of curbstone reaction of emotion. They are pitching their questions — and their answers — to the man on the street and to the housewife in her kitchen.

On all the grave foreign problems confronting the United States — Russia, the Middle East, North Africa, China, the satellites' relations with Moscow, national defense and curtailment of atom bomb tests — they are asking the very questions which trouble average Americans. They are advancing alterations and shifts of emphasis which come naturally to the minds of millions untutored in high affairs of state, but who must pay the bill in taxes or tragedy.

EFFECTIVE POLITICAL PROPAGANDA It is, perhaps, the most direct and practical example of effective political publicity since the late "Charley" Michelson and John J. Raskob "poured it on" Herbert Hoover in depression days.

It is also significant that these new-style propagandists happen to include many of the men prominently mentioned as Democratic candidates for Presidential or Vice Presidential recognition in 1960 — Senators Kennedy of Massachusetts, Humphrey of Minnesota, Johnson of Texas, Symington of Missouri and Senator Douglas of Illinois.

Senator Kennedy, for instance, has demanded use of American influence to settle the Franco-Algerian crisis, which may yet furnish the Communists with a beachhead in North Africa. He will soon ask for a more reasonable policy in trying to wean Poland and other satellites from the Kremlin's embrace.

Leader Johnson heads a group which proposes a similar approach to Red China, or at least an attempt to gain a trade advantage. It also opposes Secretary Dulles' refusal to permit American newspapermen to enter that country, and report facts which we — or he — cannot obtain under the current boycott.

Senator Humphrey suggests a greater effort to compose Arab-Israeli differences, especially the basic refugee question. He points out, and everybody admits, that there can be no final settlement in this Communist-infiltrated area until ancient enmities are eliminated. For economic improvement, he advocates an internationally financed Marshall Plan and T.V.A.

CAUTIOUS SUGGESTIONS The Democrats generally urge a more persistent attempt to work out a live-and-let-live with Russia and China, especially since the latest "purge." Since vinegar has failed to heal old and mutual wounds, they recommend a tentative application of diplomatic molasses.

These suggestions, all of which are made cautiously rather than dogmatically, echo the thoughts and the language of millions of Americans, who have become doubtful of Dulles' policy of omniscient and stand-offish rigidity. Since the U.S. must fight and pay for wars arising from these disputes, they see no reason why President Eisenhower should not throw his weight and prestige around the world more forcefully and effectively.

They wonder, as do their Democratic spokesmen on Capitol Hill, why the U.S. should not intervene to persuade our debtors and dependents, from London to Tel Aviv and other Middle East capitals, to eliminate the causes of future conflicts.

In short, the Democrats now believe that the American people have substituted a hard-boiled attitude for the sentimentality that was partially responsible for our present international predicament. The widespread support of reductions in money for foreign aid and national (international) defense indicate that they may have struck a popular and human chord.

Proposed Civil Rights Legislation In For Rough Time From Senators

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—This is an ABC on the civil rights bill, backed by the Eisenhower administration and despised by Southern Democrats. In the Senate they'll fight it for weeks.

They'll try to soften it with amendments. But Sen. Russell (D-Ga) has said the goal is to kill it. Sen. Ervin (D-NC) has said: "It can't be patched up enough to make it palatable."

It has four sections, each of which is in for a rough going-over.

No. 1 would set up a six-man commission to study civil rights problems for two years. It seems to give the commission an almost unlimited field. The commission could subpoena records and witnesses—although only in the states where witnesses live.

Refusal to obey the subpoena could land a man in jail. The President would appoint the commission. The commission would appoint a staff director, who would really run the show and who could accept volunteer investigators.

The Senate would have final say—by approval or disapproval—on the commission members. Russell wants the Senate to have final say on the staff director too. This would give Southerners a voice in picking him.

And Russell wants no volunteer investigators. He said he wants to avoid trouble from "long-haired or short-haired reformers."

No. 2 would create a new assistant attorney general to preside over a new civil rights division in the Justice Department. Now there is only a civil rights section in the criminal division.

No. 3 is an extremely wide-ranging piece of legislation. Southerners storm over this, want it knocked out entirely. It would give the attorney general brand new powers in the civil rights field. No one yet has listed all the civil rights situations into which he could step under No. 3. Atty. Gen. Brownell himself has said he could use it to back up the Supreme Court's ban on public school segregation.

It would amend several old laws—going back to 1861 and 1871—on civil rights. Now, under those laws, an individual whose civil rights are violated can sue for damages and ask a federal judge for an injunction.

Tacking No. 3 onto those old laws would mean that the attorney general, without waiting for an individual to act, could ask a federal judge for an injunction to stop civil rights violations in a variety of fields.

Anyone disobeying the order could be tried by the judge himself—without a jury—and sent to jail for contempt of court.

Another old law on the books—passed to support those laws of 1861 and 1871—authorizes the President to call out the troops to back up a court order.

Thus Section 3 — by amending those old laws to which the calling-out-the-troops-law now applies—would give the President authority to call out the troops to back up a court order issued under No. 3 of this bill.

No. 4 would let the attorney general get a court order to stop anyone from interfering with an individual's voting rights. Again, as under No. 3, disobedience would bring trial by a judge, without a jury, and possibly a jail term.

Southerners protest that in such a case a man should get a jury trial. Brownell has said there's nothing new about trial by judge without a jury for contempt of court. He has cited 8 laws under which this can be done.

The bill's supporters argue that action is faster through trial by judge. For example: A voting registrar ordered to stop interfering with a Negro's efforts to vote could, if he disobeyed, be tried by judge before election. Thus a Negro would still have time to vote.

But a trial by jury in such cases would probably come after an election, still leaving the Negro voteless. And the bill's supporters question whether a Southern jury would convict a registrar in such a case.

Capacity Crowd Hears Sermon On Salvation

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Graham told a capacity audience of 19,200 at Madison Square Garden last night that he—like anyone else—cannot bring about his own salvation.

"Jesus Christ is the savior," the evangelist said. "God by His mercy and death on the cross has saved us—if you'll let Him."

The filled arena, bringing total attendance of Graham's New York crusade to 1,055,200, forced Garden attendants to deny admission to another 2,500 persons waiting outside. Graham spoke a few words to the assembly prior to his sermon.

At Graham's call, 530 persons came forward to make "decisions for Christ," bringing the over-all total of such decisions to 33,122. One elderly man fainted as he walked to make a "decision," and was revived by a doctor and crusade attendants.

Graham announced that the crusade executive committee would meet Friday to decide whether to extend the revival past its scheduled closing date on Saturday. No decision was made at yesterday's committee meeting, the evangelist reported. He said the committee would "pray for divine guidance" before reaching a final decision.

Since the crusade started May 15, Graham said, "the spirit of God is moving like a river in this city. It's not me, Billy Graham. It's Jesus Christ."

Graham chose Mark 10:46 as his text. It related to a blind beggar, Bartimaeus, who had his sight restored after declaring absolute faith in Jesus Christ.

Man has two sets of eyes, spiritual and visual, the evangelist said. People who do not declare themselves for God are "as blind as that man in the Bible," he said.

National Scout Jamboree Is Big Maker Of Memories

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM
VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP)—What a maker of memories is this fourth National Boy Scout Jamboree!

Long after the speeches and the panoramic scenes have blurred, the boys will remember with poignant clarity the warm, intimate episodes, the glints and gleams of comedy, the sudden and grateful expansion of casual acquaintance into friendship that endures beyond the encampment.

On a broad canvas, Jamboree City will be memorable as perhaps the only community of some 15,000 persons in which no one feels the need for happiness pills. The happiness is built right in.

Getting down to vignettes: Can't you imagine Jack Davis, 17-year-old Scout from South Webster, Ohio, telling his grandchild, in the far future, of how he almost kept a puppy in camp. Jack got a pup named Venus in a trade. Then the health and sanitation supervisors found out, and because certain kinds of pets are not allowed, Jack was told he'd better do an outside swap for something socially acceptable here.

But Jack already was too fond of his pup for that. He telephoned his parents, asking if he might ship home a favorite bit of barter. They said yes. They'll probably be surprised, as Jack didn't say what he was sending.

Texas seldom get their come-uppance, but there's an instance of it on record here now.

Some of the boys from the Lone Star State smuggled fireworks into camp against the rules. They traded the fireworks and thought that was the end of the matter. But that night the receivers of the explosives lighted them, pitched them back into the Texas tents, and took off. After quiet was restored, the camp leader read the riot act to the ebullient Texans.

Canal Zone Scouts will be sorry to see the end of the jamboree, for many reasons. One of them is the eight-foot boa constrictor the Scouts brought along. The big snake has been a winner for drawing the crowds. It is about the only object in camp not up for swapping.

"Trade our mascot?" said one of the boys. "Not unless somebody offered the state of Idaho." Too bad boys can't take the boa back home. Just too much to cope with both ways. The Scouts will donate it to the Philadelphia Zoo.

On long winter nights many years hence aging Scouts will recall the recollection of their ingenuity in making musical instruments out of the oddest materials. Such as a kind of tally-ho horn fashioned from a bathtub hose and spray with reed mouthpiece attached. Or a ram's horn transformed into a species of puccolo. Or a you-n-a-m-e-it, put together with a strip of bamboo and a common, everyday tin funnel.

Two New TV Programs Launched On Sunday

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—On Sunday the French Republic celebrated Bastille Day and CBS Radio celebrated with two new and entertaining network programs. They are a panel quiz, "Sez Who?" (7 p.m. EDT) and "The Stan Freberg Show" (7:30 p.m.).

"Sez Who?" is blessed with Henry Morgan as moderator and a panel consisting of Gypsy Rose Lee, Joey Adams and John Henry Faulk. The panel listens to a recorded voice of someone either living or dead and then tries to guess who it is.

After all the elaborate gimmicks you see in TV quiz shows, it doesn't sound like much, does it? Well, it's so simple that it's refreshing for a change. No that there seemed anything simple about identifying the voices heard on Sunday: Enrico Caruso singing "Over There" during World War I; Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig engaged in banter that didn't mention baseball; Bobby Breen singing in the heyday of his boyhood popularity; and Marilyn Monroe singing. The panel identified all except Miss Monroe.

"Sez Who?" is not a great program, but it's a gay one. If the wit occasionally grows a trifle forced, it is at least wit. Morgan and the panelists are adept at the mild insult, a pleasant medium of conversational exchange that is all too rare on television.

Stan Freberg's feature on Sunday was a musical take-off on Las Vegas involving a booking war between Hotel El Sodom and Rancho Gomorrah. Among the features the managers obtained were an eight week run for the 1960 Presidential inauguration and the Suez Canal brought over in sections.

Or, as Freberg intoned, "A new Near East crisis was assembled in the Suez Room." If these kinds of mental antics appeal to you then you'll like this program. Perhaps the Sunday night feature was prolonged a bit. Florence Chadwick trying to swim the length of the new pool and failing became rather monotonous.

Nevertheless, it's mighty refreshing to hear radio satirizing with the fine dispatch that Freberg displays.

This department plans to be listening next Sunday when Freberg promises to interview the

Bishop Speaks To Methodists

LAKE JUNALUSKA, N.C. (AP)—The church must be inclusive, not exclusive, and we must strive to see all people as God sees them.

Thus last night did Methodist Bishop Roy H. Short of Nashville, Tenn., urge an estimated 500 Methodist ministers to pay more attention to the "lost sheep of our generation."

Bishop Short spoke at a South-wide conference of Methodist ministers which continues through Friday. The ministers represent the nine states of the church's Southeastern Jurisdiction.

"The lost sheep of today," the bishop said, "are the unwanted, the unloved, the disinherited, the one-talent people."

He added, "Just as the pioneer Methodist circuit-rider carried the Gospel to the frontiers of America, so must we extend the church to the neglected sections of every city, town and crossroads."

There, the bishop said, is where the "lost sheep" are located, "in the deteriorating sections of every large city, every town and through out the countryside."

PORTLAND, Ore. — The head of the Teamsters Union in Oregon was acquitted last night of a charge of conspiracy to accept a bribe while serving on a Portland city commission.

Thus ended the latest major trial stemming from Portland's lengthy vice investigation.

Clyde C. Crosby dropped his head on his chest when the verdict was announced, closed his eyes momentarily and then flashed a broad grin at the jury.

The State Circuit Court jury of seven women and five men deliberated 2 hours and 48 minutes before returning the unanimous verdict of not guilty. The jury took only one vote.

Two locals rejected approval of the proposed settlement formula made to union officials by Francis A. O'Neill, National Mediation Board chairman.

Fallout Reaches Highest Points

SALT LAKE CITY — Radioactive fallout from Monday's atomic explosion in Nevada soared to a new high of 7,090 micro-microcuries of beta radiation yesterday.

The generally considered safety level over a 24-hour period is 1,000 micro-microcuries.

The Utah Health Department, which obtained the readings from air samples taken on the roof of the state capitol building here, said the fallout could be considered safe because of the short period of time.

By 1:30 p.m. the reading had dropped to 3,000 and continued downward.

26 Carpenters Walk Off Project

BURLINGTON, N.C. — Demanding safer working conditions and higher pay, 26 carpenters walked off their jobs at the expansion project of the Western Electric plant here yesterday.

The carpenters, members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, AFL-CIO, struck against the H. L. Coble Construction Co. of Greensboro.

The construction firm's public relations director said, however, that work was proceeding as usual. The spokesman, Joseph G. Hamrick, said "only a small number of carpenters" struck.

The Coble firm is general contractor for the 2 million dollar plant expansion.

Union spokesman T. L. Carlton of Winston-Salem said the unsafe conditions included littered working area, inadequate safety railings and inexperienced crane workers.

He said the union had asked the company to begin collective bargaining procedures for higher wages. The company claimed, however, the union did not represent the majority of the carpenters.

Moose Whip Exchange 10-1 To Clinch Season Title

Williams, 39, Snatches Homerun Lead From Mick

By ED WILKS You have to figure Thumpla' Ted Williams as the biggest boon to the aged since Bernarr Mac-Padden celebrated his 84th birthday with a parachute jump. The Boston Red Sox slugger will be 39 next month, an old man in baseball, but he's giving the kids a fit in the American League, wrestling the home run lead from Mickey Mantle and closing within one point of the Mick in the batting battle. Williams has hit 25 home runs and is batting .360. Mantle, the 25-year-old New York Yankee center fielder who last year became the first triple crown winner since Williams did it in 1947, has hit 24 home runs and is batting .361. The Thumper was at it again last night, belting his 26th homer in 90-degree heat at Kansas City to trigger a three-run ninth that beat the A's 4-3. Mantle, complaining of feeling tired, was 0-for-3, but walked and scored the winning run in a 10-4, 10-inning victory at Detroit that padded the Yankees' lead to four games over Chicago. The White Sox were beaten 3-1 by Baltimore. Cleveland made it five in a row with a 9-3 job on Washington in the National. Philadelphia held first place despite a 6-2 defeat by Milwaukee as Brooklyn beat second-place St. Louis 7-5. Cincinnati lost 6-1 at New York, with Redleg slugger Frank Robinson suffering a concussion when beamed by Ruben Gomez. Pittsburgh's Pirates took two from Chicago, winning 3-4 on Frank Thomas' home run in the completion of a June 16 suspended game, and then taking a regulation game 5-3 as Thomas rapped a two-run double in a three-run seventh after Bob Rush had one-hit 'em 'til then. Williams was 1-for-2 last night and put Virgil Trucks, who had an eight-inning four-hitter, on the ropes. A walk and Jackie Jensen's 12th homer followed to nail it. Ike Delock won it in relief, although tagged for Woody Held's second home run of the game in the ninth. The Yankees blew a 4-1 lead in the ninth before Tommy Byrne came on to end the Tiger rally by striking out Charlie Maxwell. Byrne hit a three-run homer to cap the six-run 10th off loser Paul Foytack and Al Aber. Early Wynn, another 37-year-old took the major league strikeout lead at 117 with seven while winning his 12th by limiting Washington to eight hits. Vic Wertz drove in three Tribe runs with a home run and single. The Orioles won it on Billy Goodman's two-run homer in the eighth inning. The Braves pulled with a half game of the Phils, one point back of the Cardinals, as Warren Spahn won his 10th with a six-hitter. The Phils had the bases loaded in the ninth when Andy Pafko made a diving snare of Richie Ashburn's sinking liner to end it. Hank Aaron's 29th homer came in the first with a man on against loser Harvey Haddix and the Braves' slugger reclaimed the NL bat lead at 348 with a 3-for-3 night while Cardinal Stan Musial fell to .343 with 1-for-4. Duke Snider's 20th home run, with a man on, triggered a four-run fifth that bagged it for the Brooks, who scored twice in the fourth on Wally Moon's throwing error. Carl Erskine won it in relief of rookie Danny McDewitt.

MERRILL BYNUM . . . Greenville Mound Ace.

No-Hit Ace To Appear In State Tourney Here

By BILLY ARNOLD Reflector Sports Editor When North Carolina's best Teen-er League teams congregate in Greenville next week for the State Teen-er Tourney, a 15-year-old local boy is a good bet to steal the show. At any rate, it is suspected that college scouts will have their eye on Merrill Bynum, a young right-hander on the Greenville All-Star squad. Through he's only been pitching five years, Bynum has compiled a string of hurling feats that have made him well-known among baseball circles, even at such a tender age. Seven No-Hitters Within the span of those five years as a pitcher, Bynum has racked up seven no-hit ballgames. He has also picked up eight one-hitters along the way. The 6-1, 192-pound junior at Greenville high school started his baseball career with the Elks Club team in the Local Little League program in 1951. It wasn't until 1953, however, that he saw duty as a moundsman. In '53, he turned down the Exchange Club with a no-hitter. The following year, he did the magic trick against the same club. In 1954, while pitching for the North State League All-Stars, he threw another no-hitter against the Tar-Heels in an Area Tourney contest. In 1956, playing with the Home Builders in the Old Pony League, Bynum chalked up two consecutive no-hit victories against the College View and Guaranty Bank teams. This season, he has done it again. Twice. In the opening game of the year, he hurled no-hit ball against the State Bankers (and lost, believe it or not), then snatched a no-hit, no-run triumph from the College View team. IN HIGH SCHOOL Bynum's one-hitters are also spread out over the same period. He threw three against Little League teams, three against Pony League teams (including the Raleigh All-Stars in the State Tourney), and two against high school clubs. The high school one-hitters were against Washington and Roanoke Rapids in 1956, when Bynum was making headlines as a freshman ace for Coach Bo Farley's Green Phantoms. Merrill is no mean hitter, either. He is currently tied for the Teen-er League homerun batting title. He has collected three. Most of his pitching success is attributed to his fastball and "not getting frustrated when you get behind in a game." He admits he is primarily a fastballer, but throws an occasional knuckle ball or curve. Though the starting pitchers have not been named for Greenville in the opening rounds of the State Tourney, it is almost certain that Merrill Bynum will be a cog in the starting lineup somewhere. After all, he's played every position on the team.

Moose Team Raises Havoc After Triumph

CLUB ALSO RAISES . . . Mike Cavendish, winning hurler.

Moose Copped Both Half Crowns To Sweep League

The Moose club clinched the Tar-Heel Little League season title yesterday afternoon at Elm Street Park with a decisive 10-1 victory over the Exchange club. Mike Cavendish, who relieved Kenny Joyner on the mound for the Moose, was the winning pitcher. The triumph clinched the second-half championship for that club. They had already won the first-half title, therefore the season crown is automatically theirs. A North State League game was also played yesterday, although it took a backseat to the Moose triumph. The Lions, winners of the first-half title in their respective league, topped the Jaycees 7-3. The victory, however, was not good enough to put them back in the second-half race. The Kiwanis club sewed that up earlier. Taylor and Larkin hurled for the winners, Hardee and Clapp lost. In the Moose victory, Kenny Joyner was the leading man with the bat, collecting a total of three hits for four trips to the plate. He also scored twice. Other Moose who got hits were Aycock, Coltraine, Smith, Forbes, Jones, and Webb. Hitting for the losers were Van Dyke, Taft, Reynolds, and Sumrell. Leading hitters for the Lions in their victory were Gilliam, Miller, Kennedy, Powell, Larkin and Holcomb. The Jaycees' two hits were made by Flanagan and Morton.

Predicts Major Leagues For Four New Cities Soon

By EDMOND LE BRETON WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Price (D-Ill.) predicted today that major league baseball will be played in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Miami and Houston within 5 to 10 years. Price, in testimony prepared for the House Antitrust subcommittee resuming sports hearings today, said his "own personal idea" is that the two major leagues eventually will expand from 8 to 10 clubs each and the four cities he named will benefit. The Illinois congressman, a former sports editor, offered some comfort also to New York, now fearing possible loss of the Dodgers to Los Angeles and the Giants to San Francisco. "It cannot be thought seriously that the great city of New York would long remain with a single major league baseball team (the Yankees)," he said. "Any more than it can be thought that Los Angeles and San Francisco, to say nothing of Minneapolis and other cities, will much longer remain without any major league clubs." The subcommittee is considering legislation to fix the status of professional sports under the antitrust laws. Price said it would be "a serious mistake . . . to adopt any law, or to encourage the federal courts to reach decisions, that would treat organized baseball merely as a business." Price told the subcommittee that on the whole there isn't too much wrong with the game. "It seems obvious that some method should be devised by which cities should not be threatened and harassed by the menaces of club owners that, unless such and such is done, they will move elsewhere," he said.

Former Duke Star Head Coach At Military Academy

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Eric (The Red) Tipton, Duke University football star of the 1930s, has been named head baseball coach for the U.S. Military Academy here. For 14 years after graduating from Duke in 1939, Tipton played professional baseball and served as backfield coach of the William and Mary College football team. In 1953 he became head baseball coach at the school, as well as continuing as backfield coach.

Tourney Nearing, Little Leaguers To Have Play Off

With the Little League Area Tourney nearing, teams in the North State Little League are still struggling to determine who shall represent Greenville. The tournament, which will include five teams from this Eastern North Carolina area, has slots for two All-Star teams from Greenville: a representative of the Tar Heel loop, and one from the North State circuit. But there are complications. Greenville's leagues are divided into two half season programs. Champions are selected, in both leagues, for the first half of play and for the second half of play. Should one team win both half titles, then it is automatically the season champion. But, should two different teams win half titles, a playoff is called for. Since yesterday, the Tar Heel League has been sewed up by the Moose. In first half play, the Moose edged the opponents in the last day of play to squeak into the championship. They defeated the Exchange Club 10-1 yesterday to clinch the season crown. The North State circuit, however, is another matter. The Lions, winner of the first half title, are two games behind the Kiwanis Club in the recent standings, with no chance to catch them. The Kiwanis have practically clinched the second half title. Therefore, a playoff between those two clubs will have to decide the season champion. It will be two-out-of-three series, beginning tomorrow.

Gonzales Says He's Proving His Point This Week

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — "I've always said the pros could beat the best amateurs in the world," said professional tennis champion Pancho Gonzales today, "but a lot of people laughed at me. I think we are proving it this week." Big Pancho, who has temporarily put aside his money feud with promoter Jack Kramer, was referring to the going over he gave Ken Rosewall and Pancho Segura's victory over Tony Trabert in yesterday's matches in Kramer's Tournament of Champions. A couple of years ago, Trabert was regarded as perhaps the top amateur in the world. Then he joined the pros and Gonzales slaughtered him in their world tour. Last winter, it was Rosewall who turned pro right after the Davis Cup matches and he became Gonzales' sacrificial lamb. And yesterday, just to make it emphatic, Gonzales whipped Rosewall, 6-2, 8-6, 6-4, while Segura outlasted Trabert 6-4, 7-5, 9-11, 4-6, 7-5. "The pros go onto the court with more confidence," said Gonzales, who joined the pay-for-play troupe in 1949. "If you have one big fault in your game, you'll lose on the pro circuit." As for Lew Hoad, Rosewall's Davis Cup partner, who signed with Kramer for a guaranteed $125,000 for two years, Gonzales said he was reserving his decision. "He sure seems like he's determined," said Big Pancho. "He may beat me, but I think I can lick him." They play Sunday.

Pros Sign ECC Baseballers

Three East Carolina baseball players, a freshman and two sophomores, have signed contracts with professional baseball clubs. Dean Robbins, Joel Long and Garry Treon, all three with several years of college eligibility, still ahead of them, signed the contracts early this summer. It is reported that all three signed for the minimum $10,000. The three youngsters signed the contracts with the understanding that they will finish their college education, at the expense of the pro clubs. Robbins, a lanky 6-4 freshman who compiled a .741 slugging average for four years of high school ball before coming to ECC, was snapped up by the Boston Red Sox. He was first baseman and one of the leading hitters on the Pirate club that finished third in the North State loop this season. Treon, a Virginia import who worked at second base for Coach Jim Mallory's East Carolina club this spring, signed with the St. Louis Cardinals. The New York Giants signed Long. The husky sophomore, an outfielder, blossomed as the team's top homerun hitter this season, and was one of the league's top prospects. Assistant Baseball Coach Earl Smith stated yesterday that "The Coach (Mallory) and I wish all three of the boys the best of luck. They are all fine youngsters and fine ball players." Mallory was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

State, Guaranty Bankers Win In Teen-er League

The last two nights of Teen-er league baseball at Guy Smith Stadium, have produced some odd ball games.

Monday night Home Builders' Ed Smoot pitched a no-hit ball game against the State Bankers and lost a 1-0 decision.

Tuesday night the Guaranty Bankers dropped the College Viewers 6-2. In that game, both teams combined collected only seven hits.

The Monday night affair saw the winning run against Smoot come in on an error. Randy Bass was the winning hurler for State Bank. He pitched two-hit ball.

Tuesday night's game saw Steve Noble blast his fourth home run of the season with two men on base to clinch a 6-2 victory for his Guaranty Bank team.

Clark Brewer was the winning pitcher, and he allowed only two baseknocks. Rick Saue pitched for the losers.

Only two more games remain in the loop now. Tomorrow night Home Builders will face the Guaranty Bankers. Friday night State Bank and College View will square off to finish the season.

Following the league's closing, the Teen-er League All-Stars will begin prep for the State Tourney which will be held here, starting July 24.

Yankees Smile In Triumph Over Sox

The reason for these broad grins in the New York Yankees' dressing room at Chicago was a 6-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox and it all happened in the ninth inning. Left to right are Billy Skowron who hit a grand slam homer in the ninth; Yogi Berra, who caught both games of a doubleheader, and Tommy Byrne, relief pitcher from Wake Forest, N. C., who hit a homerun and took credit for the victory. (AP Wirephoto).

Sam Has His New Driver At Last

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Sam Snead has a brand new driver for the PGA championship starting today. The result would make the other 127 players shudder — if they really believed Sam would use it.

For some 20 years Sam has been wedded to a battered, old fashioned driver he obtained from Henry Picard. Joe Wolfe, who does the repair work, claims the only resemblance to the original club is in Sam's mind.

But Snead has won three PGA championships with it. The players feel sure that he'll go right back to it when they start playing for keeps.

The new driver is a modern streamlined model with a stiffer shaft and greater loft. In practice with it, Snead hasn't missed a fairway.

There will be 64 first-round matches run off over the 6,773-yard, par 36-35-71 Miami Valley course. Double rounds of 18-hole matches are scheduled tomorrow and Friday, then the semi-finals and final will be over the 38-hole route.

The winner will get $8,000, a new high for this tournament, and the runnerup $5,000.

Defending Champion Jackie Burke started off against the host professional at the Miami Valley Golf Club, Gene Marchi, in the first round of the all-match play tournament. He's in a rugged quarter of the draw with Open champion Dick Mayer, Ted Kroll, runnerup last year, and ex-champions Chandler Harper, Denny Shute and Jimmy Turnesa.

Manager Wants To Know What's With His Cards?

By JOE REICHLER

BROOKLYN (AP) — What's happened to the St. Louis Cardinals? If anyone knows, kindly explain it to Fred Hutchinson, the team's bewildered manager.

Just a week ago the Redbirds were flying high with five straight victories, which included a sweep of four games from Cincinnati, and appeared safely in first place in the National League with a fat three-game lead.

Today the Redbirds were barely holding on to second, only half a game ahead of the fourth-place Brooklyn Dodgers and in grave danger of falling into the second division. They have lost five of their last six games.

"How can you figure this game?" gloomily asked Hutchinson last night after the Cards had succumbed to the Dodgers 7-5. "The longer you're in it the more puzzling this game gets."

"Just a week ago we looked like world beaters. Everything was going great. The boys were hitting and fielding and running the bases like real champions. And the pitchers were keeping pace with the rest of the club."

"But something happened to us in the East. We don't look like the same ball club. I don't know whether to blame the All-Star lay-off but right after that our hitting bogged down and the pitching turned completely sour. I suppose a manager must expect such things but this has been so sudden and so unexpectedly."

Yesterday's game was the only one of the last four in which the Cards were actually in the game. They had a chance until the very end when Alvin Dark, representing the final out, hit into a game-ending force play. The Cards had a 2-0 lead going into the fourth but the Dodgers tied the score in their half and opened up a 6-2 lead with four big ones in the fifth against Lindy McDaniel and Willard Schmidt.

Patterson Says Knockout Isn't Important Now

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — Floyd Patterson looked up quickly when a man asked if he thought he needed to knock out Hurricane Jackson July 29 to prove himself to the public.

"It's not important now. It's just important that I win and keep on winning," he said slowly with the poise of a man who knows no doubts.

The 22-year-old heavyweight champion of the world has just completed a rugged five-round sparring session in which he seemed to be punching harder than ever.

Just outside, Cus D'Amato, his manager, was wagging his grey crew cut and telling the world that Floyd was training for a 15-round fight. "If the opportunity comes for a knockout," said Cus, "Floyd will be ready."

Earlier, D'Amato had been talking about this rematch with Jackson. "We'd rather fight Rocky Marciano (the retired unbeaten champ)," said Cus. "If we knock out Marciano we get the credit. Jackson is just as tough in my mind and, if we beat him again, we still won't get the credit. We'll have to keep it up over an extended time."

Patterson didn't want to discuss Marciano or anybody else. "Right now my mind is set on Jackson," he said. "That's all I want to think about. I want to satisfy Jackson."

GUARANTEED

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Police vice squad officers seized a unique hot water bottle described by its owner as a "guaranteed pain killer." Authorities said the bottle was full of orn whisky. Anna Marie Davis, 35, paid a $40 fine for possession of whisky and vagrancy.

Hit By Ball For 8th Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Robinson, Cincinnati's All-Star leftfielder who had the dubious honor of being hit by a pitched ball more times than any other National League batter last year, was in the hospital today recovering from being hit for the eighth time this season.

"There is no question in mind but that Robinson is thrown at," said Manager Birdie Tebbets last night after his 21-year-old slugger right after his 21-year-old slugger Ruben Gomez fast ball in the eighth inning of the game with the New York Giants.

"I caught long enough to know the difference between a deliberate knoekdown pitch and a brush fast pitch," Robinson was hit 20 times last year.

The ball hit Robinson above the left ear, split his protective helmet and rolled into the Giant dugout as the league's 1956 Rookie of the Year crumpled to the ground. He was carried on a stretcher into the clubhouse where an examination showed no sign of fracture. Robinson was coherent and conscious as he was taken to a hospital as a precautionary measure.

Both Battlers Need A Victory

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Joey Giardello and Chico Vejar, who meet tonight in a nationally televised, scheduled 10-round fight, have one thing in common. They both need the win, and need it badly.

Giardello, ranked No. 3 among the middleweights, wants a shot at the championship. A loss could imperil his chances.

Vejar could be almost through in the ring if he loses this one. He has lost two important fights this year.

The fight will be televised over ABC at 9 p.m. (EST). Giardello, a 25-year-old product of Brooklyn, is a 4-1 favorite. He says he will use the fast-stating, fast-punching technique against Vejar, hoping to finish him in the early rounds.

The 25-year-old Vejar acknowledges he no longer is a one-punch fighter. But he says his stamina and endurance are better, indicating his hopes for a long fight.

Of the two, Vejar owns the most impressive record — 75-10-2. Giardello's is 68-13-5.

Bob Perry's Homerun Gives Danville A Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Danville roared to an 8-3 victory over High Point-Thomasville, the Carolina League leaders, last night on a powerful home run blow by Bob Perry.

With three mates on base, Perry smacked the ball out of the park in a rousing fifth inning rally.

Runnerup Greensboro remained 2½ games behind with a 3-2 decision over Wilson. And with pitcher George Moton in top form, Winston-Salem blanked Durham, 6-0.

After John Kennedy started the Hi-Toms scoring with a solo homer in the second frame, but then the league leaders fell behind. Two more runs were scored in a seventh inning rally that loaded the bases. But with only one out, reliever Frank Funk kept Danville in command by retiring the next two batters on strikes.

The Greensboro win was the seventh of the season against no losses for lefty Herb Benner. He got able support from reliever Bill Lore, who came on in the eighth with two men on base.

Moton held Durham to five scattered hits in as many innings. Winston-Salem's scoring was featured by Gene Oliver's 20th home run of the season, good for two runs in the first, and a solo homer by Bill Kunkle in the third.

The games tonight repeat last night's play: High Point-Thomasville at Danville; Durham at Winston-Salem; and Wilson at Greensboro.

No Domestic Publicity For Actress Terry Moore

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD — Terry Moore says there'll never be a publicity picture on her peeling potatoes, sweeping the floor or cuddling kiddies by the fireplace.

"I feel that the less people know about your private life, the more glamorous you are," she feels. Domestic-type publicity may be good for June Allyson or Debbie Reynolds because it goes with their screen roles, Terry continued.

"The boys who go to movies look at me romantically. That's why they don't want to see me sitting around the hearth with kids."

As for posing in an apron like an ever-faithful-wife— "I don't play that kind of part. I play sirens. I'm a natural blonde . . . blue eyes, fresh scrubbed look. Don't drink or smoke — in private life or pictures.

"A sexy tomboy, an outdoor girl. The kind of girl a guy dares to take home to mother. Yes, I'm a wholesome sexpot—you can say that, I think that's my main appeal.

"I don't think domesticity can be glamorous for Terry Moore, though it can be for others."

Miss Moore, glamorous as could be for her role as a girl-about-town in "Peyton Place," wouldn't talk much, about her shaky marriage.

She has dropped her divorce suit against Panama businessman Eugene McGrath pending a talk with him after she finishes the picture. She said, "I think we'll work things out."

Terry recalled that the marriages of Frank Sinatra and Van Johnson out their fan mail. "But they built it back up as fine actors."

The best publicity, she opined, is "good parts. I don't think scandal is good publicity for me, because I play wholesome parts. Nor is domesticity good either."

Nation's Leading Business Firms Pouring Good News

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK — Some of the nation's leading business firms are pouring forth good news this week about profits. It helps take industrialists' and stock traders' minds off the summer slump and the dreaded profit margin squeeze from rising operating costs.

Profit gains are far from uniform, but they are being reported by some of the top companies in the oil, steel, chemical, aircraft and electronics industries, and by big retail and utility companies and most banks.

Increased sales volume is reported by most of these. Some say profits went up even when output dipped, because they'd increased plant efficiency. Further underscoring the still dominant optimism of industry are reports from companies whose sales and earnings may be down but whose plans for expansion go right on piling up.

For industry as a whole, the Federal Reserve Board notes that in June over-all industrial output remained at the same level as in April and May and topped the like month in 1956 by two percentage points.

Some of the reports of gains in net profit after taxes so far this year compared with last follow:

The nation's third and fourth largest steel makers report gains. Republic Steel officials say first-half profits will top those of a year ago. Jones & Laughlin says net income in the April, May and June increased over the first three months of the year by 7.3 per cent, although its production of steel fell off a bit. Officials credit increased efficiency with making the difference.

Jersey Standard Oil officials say both the six-month and the second-quarter earnings are better than a year ago. Net income for the industry's largest firm is up an estimated 15 per cent.

Du Pont, largest in the chemical industry, reports first-half sales up 7 per cent and net income up 7.2 per cent over a year ago.

General Electric, largest in its field, in its first-half statement shows its earnings running 13.2 per cent ahead of a year ago, despite the failure of a spring boost in sales of consumer durable goods to develop on schedule.

Douglas Aircraft reports a 30 per cent rise in profits this year. Detroit Edison reports gains in both income and revenue.

331 Near Collisions Posted By Pilots

WASHINGTON — Pilots reported 331 near collisions between aircraft in the first three months of this year, the Civil Aeronautics Board says.

In 71 of the near misses, the planes came within 100 feet of colliding. In 144 cases, they passed within 500 feet.

California had the most near crashes — 61. Florida and Texas had 26 each; Washington, 15; Illinois and Oklahoma, 14; Maryland, 13; Arizona, 11; and New Jersey and New Mexico, 10.

Art Association In Brush Fight

LIVERMORE, Calif. — The Livermore Art Assn. doesn't just argue over opposing theories of painting. It fights with brushes.

Six women members recently tackled the drab wall of the association's rented building. In big time the wall was abloom with gaudy yucca plants, cacti and prickly pears.

The association president, Dr. James Paul Wesley, a theoretical physicist, took one look and "foamed at the mouth," he reported.

The yuccas, he shuddered, were a sickly yellow, the cacti a bilious green; the lines were bad, the taste poor.

He recruited another male member, Ray Gighofer. They speedily covered the ladies' proud handwork with brown paint.

The women, far from defeated, washed off the brown paint and tenderly restored the desert scene.

"At least he recognized that the design included cacti and yuccas," remarked Mrs. Alice Corbett, chairman of the Decorations and Party Committee.

"I quit," said Dr. Wesley, writing his resignation.

Missing Child Exposure Victim

BRIDGEPORT, Calif. — The body of 2-year-old David Allen Scott was brought to this mountain community late yesterday after the youngster—dead of exposure and exhaustion—was found at the 8,500-foot level of Eagles Peak.

The boy strayed Saturday from the Sierra campsite of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott of San Diego.

The body, clad only in a T-shirt, red, white and blue socks and one shoe, was found among boulders on the steep slope. He had climbed an incredible 3,000 feet higher than the camp, losing his other little red canvas shoe and his brown play trousers along the way.

Undersheriff Jack Gardner said the child apparently died Saturday night.

Intensive Search Fails To Locate Missing Aircraft

TAIPEI — An intensive air, sea and ground search today failed to turn up any trace of a U.S. Air Force C47 missing with 16 persons aboard, all military personnel.

Radio contact with the plane was broken Tuesday night as it neared the end of a journey to Taipei from Clark Field, in the Philippines.

U. S. Air Force headquarters on Taipei said Wednesday afternoon—more than 20 hours after the plane vanished—there was nothing to substantiate Chinese police reports that it had crashed in the mountains between Taipei and the Formosa Strait.

The police earlier said they had heard an explosion and seen flames Tuesday night on Mt. Chiaopeng.

The missing C47 was attached to the U.S. air task force in Formosa. It was returning to Taipei on what headquarters said was a routine administrative support flight.

WHAT IS HAPPENING
Donald Lam and Bertha Cool, the doughty pair of private detectives whose exploits were recounted in "Beware the Curves," "Double or Quits" and a dozen other enormously popular novels, are embarked on a new case. Donald, the narrator of the story, arrives at the Cool & Lam office to find his partner in profane mood. She fears Donald's hardness may have cost them a big fee, because a prospective client, Lawton Corning, was disappointed by his finding a woman in charge of the agency. Bertha's explosion is halted by the reappearance of Corning, who restates his problem to Donald. Corning says he wants a woman, Mrs. Drury Wells, traced. This is a witch in the assignment he discussed with Bertha on his first visit. "You told me it was an old deal," Bertha reminds him, without changing Corning's mind. Lam smooths Bertha's ruffled feelings and hears the rest of Corning's story: Drury Wells believes his wife Yvonne, ran off with another man. A neighbor of the Wellises, Mrs. Frances Raleigh, thinks she was murdered . . .

CHAPTER 3
Number 1638 Frostmere Road was a white bungalow that needed a job of face lifting. It was too big for a dollhouse, too small for a comfortable residence, but the lines were rather pretentious. It would have looked well in the classified-ad section, one of those places that could be described as "two bedrooms, bath, kitchen, living room, dining room, service porch, surrounded by mountains." I knew the type of house - bedrooms were so small you could put twin beds against the walls and barely have parking space for a pair of slippers in between. The theoretical line of demarcation between the living room and the dining room would be all but infinitesimal; in practice there wouldn't be any. The kitchen would be about the size of a kitchen in a house trailer.

Drury Wells answered my ring. He was a pale-eyed, tall, drooping, slow-moving, slow-talking. He was about thirty-five. He wore a faded blue shirt, patched overalls, and thick-soled shoes cut on an Army last. He didn't seem to give a damn about his personal appearance. In fact, he didn't seem to give a damn about anything. "Hello," he said, "what can I do for you?"

"Come on in," he said. "Sit down. Smoke if you want." He led the way into the doll-house living room. The one up-holstered chair in the room might have been stuffed with gunny sacks or a cement base. He gave me that chair and drew up a straight-backed chair.

"You didn't hear her cooking breakfast?"
"No. She must have been pussyfooting around the kitchen."
"You didn't smell the coffee?"
"No."
"How many clothes did she take with her? Did she clean out her closet?"
"Nope."
"Do you know her clothes well enough to know what's missing?"
"Nope."
"How about relatives?" I asked.
"Does your wife have any relatives she could have gone to?"
"I can't tell. We don't go in much for family. I don't like in-laws. She had an uncle. He left her some property when he died. That was only a week or so ago. I don't know if she has any other relatives and I don't care."
"Where did you get married?"
"S'pose I ask the questions for a while. Why do you want to see my wife?"

"I want to talk with her."
"What about?"
"About why she left."
"I'd like to see her, too," he admitted, "but I don't want to see her bad enough to have a lot of strangers messing around in my business. You got a cigarette?"
I gave him a cigarette.
"Do you have a job?" I asked.
"I run the place. I'm getting ready to put in a garden."
"Well, what is your occupation? How do you get by?"
"I mind my own business, and both ends seem to meet all right."
"Did anybody see your wife leave?"
"I don't know."
"What about the neighbors?"
"One of them's all right. The other one's a yackity-yak."
"Who's the yackity-yak?"
He jerked his thumb toward the house on the west. "Woman fair."

"Uh-huh."
"Her husband there?"
"He works."
"He's not a yackity-yak?" I asked.
"He doesn't ever have a chance to get a word in edgewise!"
"You wouldn't mind if I talked with Mrs. Raleigh?"
"It's a free country."
"I may talk with her."
"Okay."
"You're staying on here?"
"I'll give her a week, then to hell with her!"
"You mean you wouldn't jake her back after that?"
"That's right."
"Suppose she's suffering from amnesia and can't remember where her home is?"
"I can get amnesia, too, and not remember her."
"You're not very co-operative," I told him.
"What do you want for free?" he asked. "You told me you wanted to see my wife. I told you I did, too. I told you all about how she happened to leave, and that's all I know."

Game Warden Pleads Innocent

NEWLAND, N. C. (AP) - A former game warden has testified that he and the man he is charged with slaying were on the "outs" for several years after he served him with a citation for hunting and fishing without a license.

J. Wall Ellis, 64, took the witness stand here yesterday in his third trial for slaying Charlie Young, 47, the night of April 6, 1954.

Twice-convicted of manslaughter in the slaying, Ellis each time won a new trial on State Supreme Court appeals.

He pleaded innocent yesterday to manslaughter charges, but admitted shooting the Bakersville man and claimed self defense.

Ellis, a former Mitchell County game warden, told the court that Young ignored his warning and advanced on him with a rock. Three witnesses testified they saw Young move toward Ellis with the rock.

At his first trial in December, 1954, Ellis was sentenced to 4-7 years in jail, but the State Supreme Court granted a new trial on the grounds that the judge erred in his charge to the jury.

The second trial ended in July, 1955, with Ellis' conviction and the same prison sentence. The Supreme Court held, however, that testimony from a witness concerning Ellis' character should not have been admitted.

FAIR TRADE

ROCKY FORD, Colo. (AP) - Farmers in this area famous for its watermelons have been asked to plant an extra acre or two this year for the Arkansas Valley Fair.

Sept. 5, Ted Ryan, secretary-manager of the fair association, estimates 25,000 tons of watermelons will be given away at this year's house on the west. "Woman fair."

Heavy Infestation From Boll Weevils

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The boll weevil, destroyer of cotton, has moved in on the Carolinas crop, agriculture officials said today.

Severe infestation has been found in Dillon and Marlboro counties in South Carolina, and just across the state line, in Richmond and Scotland counties in North Carolina.

Appraisals of the situation came today from officials of both states. "It's now or never" for poisoning operations to rout the beetles, said Entomologist W. C. Nettles at Clemson College, S.C. "We're not crying wolf."

Infestation is "two or three times as serious as last year," said George D. Jones at North Carolina State College Extension Service in Raleigh. This is especially so, he added, in counties bordering South Carolina.

Farmers were urged to make quick use of recommended sprays, but at Dillon, S.C., County Farm

Agent Herman Livingston said, "Our farmers are beginning to think the weevils have worked up an immunity from our present insecticides." He added that "Some of our farmers are using methyl parathion, a more deadly poison than the usual chlorinated hydrocarbons, because the situation's so bad."

At Clemson, Nettles said tests are being made in a Florence, S.C. laboratory on cotton affected by an insecticide-resistant weevil. "It's the worst infestation in half a dozen years," said Marlboro County Farm Agent E. C. Abrams at Bennettsville, S.C.

Dillon County has about 18,000 acres in cotton, Marlboro 28,000.

Across the border, farm agents in Richmond and Scotland counties in North Carolina reported high infestations by first generation weevils.

"I'd say the situation's much worse than last year," said J. B.

Cudill at Laurinburg. He suggested that the wet weather in June may have helped the pests thrive.

At Rockingham, N.C., Richmond County Agent John R. Falson pointed out that a mild winter also probably helped carry over large numbers of weevils.

At N. C. State, Jones said no insecticide-resistant weevils have been found in North Carolina. He urged growers to continue using the insecticide program recommended by his department.

WALL STREET
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated in moderate trading early this afternoon after two days of failure to match the historic highs of 1956.

Key stocks were down from fractions to around a point or so. Aircrafts and a number of selected issues resisted the general trend, posting sizable gains.

Motors were fairly firm. But steels, nonferrous metals, rails, most oils and chemical were on the downside.

The aircrafts continued to retrace some of their recent losses. Boeing, Douglas and United were all up by around a point or so.

General Tire resumed its rise, adding around 2 as its rocket-making subsidiary, Aerojet General, made strides in over the counter dealings.

Parke, Davis was another 2-point gainer, boosted by excellent earnings. Raytheon was up a major fraction following announcement of a new device, the "space-caster" which combines the operating advantages of the vacuum tube with the compactness of the transistor.

National Biscuit rose about a point while Revlon lost a point in continued decline from recent gains.

Fractional losses were the rule for U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet, while Lukens dropped around a point. Losses of around a point or so were taken by Kennecott, American Cyanamid and Johns-Manville.

Du Pont dropped more than a point. American Telephone was off a fraction.

As rails backed away from their recent advances, Atlantic Coast Line was off a point or more. Other leading carriers dropped fractions. Although most oils were

Flowers Trial Gets Evidence

RALEIGH (AP) — Government lawyers put new evidence in the record today as a federal court jury continued to hear the trial of J. Percy Flowers on income tax evasion charges.

As a part of efforts to establish the net worth of the Johnston County merchant and farmer, U.S. Dist. Atty. Julian Gaskill told the court yesterday that Flowers paid off a $800 bet on a football game in 1948.

Flowers smiled as Gaskill related that the wager with David Oettinger of Wilson was paid off with two checks and cash.

The tax evasion charges cover the years 1948, 1949, and 1950 and involve $18,600. Flowers also faces a civil action by the Revenue Service for taxes amounting to $285,000, allegedly evaded in 1944, 1950. His wife, Mrs. Delma W. Flowers, is a co-defendant.

Defense lawyers attempted to show that Flowers was acting for other persons in some of the transactions brought out by the prosecution.

After Clemon H. Johnson of Zebulon testified that he sold Flowers seven fox hounds for $875 in 1948, defense attorney Albert Corbett asked if Flowers bought the dogs for a man from Texas.

Johnson said Flowers was accompanied by a man identified as a Texan, but he said he made the deal with Flowers.

A number of other government witnesses testified, and government lawyers read into the record lengthy copies of motor vehicle registrations and deeds.

Tests Ordered For Confessor

DELAND, Fla. (AP) — A lie detector expert is en route here from California to test Donald J. Wedler's confession to a crime similar to the slaying of Mrs. Samuel Sheppard at Cleveland in July, 1954.

Sheriff Rodney Thurstby wired approval for himself and the county jail prisoner after he was contacted by the Court of Last Resort from Hollywood, Calif., for permission to conduct the tests.

The call was from Herman Lewis, a representative of the non-profit organization headed by Erle Stanley Gardner, mystery writer.

The group, consisting of nine nationally known criminologists, offered to send Alex Gregory, a lie detector expert to check the statement made by Wedler Monday night.

Authorities here and in Cleveland are skeptical of Wedler's statement and say there were discrepancies between his account and the facts in the Sheppard slaying.

Wedler said he was ransacking a bedroom in a Cleveland home in early July, 1954, when a woman stirred and he hit her two or three times with an iron pipe, ran into a man on the stairs and also hit him on his way out of the house.

Cleveland authorities say Mrs. Sheppard was hit 35 times, her room was ransacked and Sheppard, her husband who is serving life for her killing, claimed he

Nation's Speed Champ Says Flying Is 'Fun'

NEW YORK (AP) — A freckle-faced Marine major who has "a lot of fun flying" is the nation's new transcontinental speed king.

Maj. John Glenn Jr., Washington, D.C., shot across the country in a Navy jet plane yesterday in a record-breaking 3 hours, 23 minutes and 44 seconds.

"Everything was smooth as silk," he said.

Glenn, 36, a red-haired combat veteran with a boxer's build, hit a top speed of over 1,000 m.p.h. "Flying at 1,000 miles an hour you don't feel speed as much as you do driving 70 miles an hour on the highway," he said. "Speed is just something you read on the dials."

Glenn jockeyed his swept-wing P8U1 Chance-Vought Crusader at an average unofficial speed of 726 m.p.h., faster than the speed of sound. He covered 2,460 miles on the flight from Los Alamitos, Calif., Naval Air Station to Brookly's Floyd Bennett Field.

The bid cross-country record was 3 hours, 44 minutes and 53.83 seconds set by an Air Force pilot last March.

Glenn flashed a wide grin after he pulled off his golden helmet and climbed down from the cockpit of his silver plane. His wife Ann and their children, David, 11, and Lynn, 10, were the first to greet him.

Glenn reached into his tan flight coveralls and pulled out souvenirs for the children.

"Here's your superonic knife, Dave, and here's your superonic kitten, Lynn."

David had given his father his Boy Scout knife and Lynn had given him a little gold Siamese cat charm.

"The kids wanted something superonic to remember the flight," Glenn explained.

Glenn, a former New Concord, Ohio, resident, is a veteran of World War II and the Korean War. He has three Distinguished Flying Crosses and 17 Air Medals.

He said he would like to try the transcontinental flight "all over again tomorrow."

"It's a real kick," he said. "Anybody would like to try something like this."

Atlas Wooten Elected Falkland Bureau Prexy

FALKLAND — Atlas Wooten, Greenville, R. I. 4 was elected president of the Falkland Township Farm Bureau at an organizational meeting last night.

Elected vice presidents of the organization were Marvin Deans, Macesfield; W. J. Moore, Falkland; Howard Garris, Greenville R. 4; Levy Wooten, Fountain R. 1; Secretary-treasurer is E. N. Warren of Falkland.

The group heard A. C. Edwards, farm leader from Greene County, discuss the work on Farm Bureau.

He held the group that a strong Farm Bureau is needed in this area. There is a substantial membership in the south, he said, but the Midwest is much stronger and can outvote the south on important issues.

Also heard last night was Kenneth Whichard, special Social Security representative, who told how Social Security affects every American farmer.

He pointed out that it is important for farmers to come under Social Security under the time limit set.

Farm economy needs a shot in the arm he declared, but the people need to know just "how wonderful our farm economy is."

Edwards said he recently took a trip to Mexico and farmers there are 100 years behind the United States "but they can catch up in much less time than that."

Edwards was introduced by Ralph Tucker, membership drive chairman for this year, who presided over the meeting.
