Many Books For Outdoor Cook

OUTDOOR COOKING DISPLAY... arranged by Mrs. Cally Mann covers a wide variety of subjects.

A well-balanced selection of books on outdoor cooking have been arranged in an attractive display by assistant librarian Mrs. Sally Mann at Sheppard Memorial Library.
Keeping pace with the interest of Pitt County readers these books cover a wide range of topics from "The Complete Book of Outdoor Cookery" to "How To Build Outdoor Fireplaces and Furniture."

A few other books that are included in this display are "Book of Salads," "The 20 Minute Cook Book," "Buffet Cook Book," "Patios, Terraces, Barbecues, Outdoor Fireplaces," "N. C. and Old Salem Cookery," "Serve It Buffet," "The New Cook It In A Casserole," and "Better Homes and Garden Barbecue Book."

Miss Elizabeth Copeland, librarian, invites interested persons to visit this display at the library.

5. Use your tongs to turn lean meats and poultry every three to five minutes. A fork pierces the meat and lets juices escape.

6. The meat is cooking when juices appear on the uncooked surface and when fat on the edge of the meat sputters.

7. After a steak has been seared for two or three minutes, and the meat placed at three inches above the fire, the timetable for a two-inch steak is: rare—10 to 15 minutes per side; medium—15 to 20 minutes.

Meat May Be Good-But Watch Fire, Too

MODERN FIREMAKER... Expert outdoor cook Peggy Weir and daughter, Heath, of Louisville, Ky., make a fire the easy way, using charcoal briquets in grill lined with heavy foil.

By EDWARD S. KITCH
It requires more than a barbecue recipe book to cook outdoors these days.

Many a good steak has been ruined by outdoor cooks who pay more attention to the cut of meat and the marinade than the fire.

One of the nation's largest distributors of barbecuing equipment received so many questions on "How to Cook Outdoors" that it prepared a booklet by the same name. The company says its new book takes the guesswork out of barbecuing and leaves nothing unanswered.

Presently, sales in spit barbecue units are booming, and there is a growing interest in smoking equipment. This is because there's a wider variety of food which can be cooked successfully on this type of equipment.

You now can cook rolled and standing rib roast, whole hams, chickens, turkey, wild game, whole fish and other seafood.

Now, as any merit-badge Boy Scout can tell you, it is very important to start the fire early and allow time for the charcoal briquets to be completely covered with gray ash. The time runs from 30 to 45 minutes.

But before you start the fire, a bed of stones or gravel in the fire bowl is recommended as the first step. This layer protects the pan, permits better circulation of air around the fuel and retains and reflects heat as well as absorbs fat dripping. The bed of stones should be from one-half to three-quarters of an inch in depth. A new and easy way to start a fire is to use foil packaged briquets, which avoid muss and fuss, and line the grill with heavy duty aluminum foil, which speeds up cooking, gives even heat distribution and eliminates the messy job of cleaning ashes and grease off the bottom of the grill.

If you use loose briquets, they should be placed in a mound about 10 inches in diameter and five inches high. Extra briquets should be placed on the gravel near the fire to warm them before using as needed later.

Once you've touched a match to the fuel, please refrain from adding liquid starting fuel to the smudge because the resulting blast may put you in a hospital. Fanning the fire with a folded newspaper is a safer remedy for a slow-starting fire.

The book recommends charcoal briquets because they give off very little smoke and odor and give the true, much-sought-after charcoal flavor. Other fuels, such as soft wood charcoals, fail to produce steady heat, burn either too fast or too slow and have a high resin content which imparts an undesirable taste to delicately flavored foods.

Another outstanding display that may be seen at the library is one on the Jamestown Festival. An historical map of Jamestown and various books on the history and growth of the settlement can be seen.

You'll need fire tongs, shovel and barbecue mitts. The fire tongs can be used to arrange briquets in the fire and handle foil-wrapped packages of food. The shovel can be used for gravel and knocking off ashes from the briquets. The mitt is to protect your hands.

Here are further suggestions for better barbecuing:
1. Have the fire slightly larger than the area covered by food.
2. Keep briquets free from ash.
3. The grill should be about three inches above the fire.
4. Rub grill with fat or cooking oil.

Bone To Pick? Try Spareribs

CHOICE PICKINGS: Barbecued spareribs cooked outdoors and topped off with a tangy sauce.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
BARBECUED SPARERIBS
COMING UP! Taste that tangy sauce while you pick a rib up in your fingers and eat the good meat right away from the bone.

These spareribs are cooked outdoors by a special method that keeps them from overbrowning and drying out. First the ribs are browned on both sides on the grill over a moderate fire, and then cooked in a pan made from two thicknesses of heavy duty aluminum foil.

That moderate fire for the browning is important and you can achieve it if you space the charcoal briquets one inch apart. Some briquets come in a foil package and they can be shaken out, then lifted and spaced with tongs. If the brozes are brisk while the spareribs are roasting in their improvised pan, place a sheet of foil over the top of the pan to hold in the heat.

BARBECUED SPARERIBS
Ingredients: 2 racks (4 to 5 pounds) fresh pork spareribs, salt, pepper, Barbecue Sauce.

Method: Sprinkle spareribs with salt and pepper and brown on grill over moderate fire, turning them once or twice. Prepare pan from double thickness of heavy duty aluminum foil to fit spareribs, by turning up edges of the foil 1/2 inches all around. Mitre corners so pan will be secure. As soon as spareribs have browned, transfer them to the foil pan and spoon over about 1 cupful of barbecue sauce. Place the pan on the center of the grill and continue cooking for about 1 1/2 hours longer. Baste with the sauce occasionally. To serve, transfer foil pan with spareribs to platter. Ribs separate easily when cut with sharp knife. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

BARBECUE SAUCE
Ingredients: 1/2 cup honey, 2-3 cup soy sauce, 2-3 cup catsup, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1/2 teaspoon tabasco, 1 clove garlic (crushed), 1 cup orange juice, 1 cup wine vinegar.

Next time you broil flank steak, try serving it with a zippy mustard sauce.

Sees Lessening Of Duplication

By LYNN NISBET
WATER CONTROL — Dr. Roy Norton, executive secretary of the State Board of Health, says he thinks that legislation by the 1957 General Assembly will go a long way toward removing duplication of responsibilities for regulation of water resources.

RETIREMENT — Of 23 inquiries from out of state about places to live in North Carolina, 12 specifically mentioned they wanted to retire, and more than half the others indicated that purpose.

SECURITY — Upwards of 3,000 Tarheel unformed law enforcement officers came under Federal social security last Monday.

WORKING — While the aggregate resources of all banks chartered by the State of North Carolina declined more than $48 million during the past year, a substantially larger part of the $1,790,689,870 making up current resources is at work.

gone further to express the hope that Kasper will not carry out his announced intention to come to North Carolina in an attempt to organize efforts to block action taken recently by the school boards of Greensboro, Winston-Salem and Charlotte.

While there are differences of opinion in North Carolina over the matter of integration in public schools, and while there are extremists on both sides of the issue who would cause trouble if they could, the vast majority of Tar Heels are firmly convinced the issues can be resolved satisfactorily without the violence and mob action instigated by Kasper in Clinton, Tennessee.

The better North Carolina can insulate itself from radicals and trouble-makers on both sides of this important issue, the better it will be able to resolve the issues amicably. Citizens of the state have shown their ability to meet the problems involved without violence, without stirring racial hatred.

If Kasper or any of his kind—whether segregationist extremists or integration extremists—come to North Carolina in an effort to tell the people of this state how to run their own affairs, they should be avoided like the plague. For indeed, such men are a plague on society.

Another Look At The Future

By ELMER ROESSNER
Here is another group of predictions, based on nothing more than analyses of developing trends:

There's a roadblock ahead for import curbs. High Canadian officials have hinted that there may be retaliation if the U.S. restricts importation of Canadian zinc, lead and oil or raises new barriers to Canadian grain.

A late fall highway boom will spark the economy. The Federal highway program is dragging its feet right now. But despite other uncertainties, many states have already signed contracts or advertised for bids.

CAN-OPENERS FOR CHRISTMAS
A boomlet in automatic can-openers is coming. Four big manufacturers recently brought out electric models and many dealers think they will be the bright new sensation for fall.

There will be plenty of lemons, at slightly cheaper prices. The California crop is up 2,000,000 boxes over last year. Grocers and bartenders are being urged to push the fruit.

Show sales will rise this fall. The trend to the tapered top will cause many women to replace their present shoes.

That aluminum price rise may be small. There's a wage increase coming in the industry, but demand has fallen off. Some of the big companies have been hinting of a price jump but Quaker State is urging the industry to sell harder instead of raising prices.

All metals face a weaker market in the fourth quarter. That includes aluminum. Government stock-pile buying is scheduled to be cut back in the October-December period.

EGG PRICES TO JUMP
The seasonal rise in egg prices will be sharp. Poultry raisers, suffering losses from low prices, have cut their hatchings of pullets and flocks are getting smaller.

Simply 'I Like You'

DENVER (AP)—It's only four days old but the I Like You Club, started by a 7-year-old blonde from Illinois, is really rolling.

Colorado's Gov. Steve McNichols is a member. The founder, Kay Cash of Burnt Prairie, Ill., signed him up on a visit to Denver over the weekend.

Kay started the club last week at Boulder, where her mother is a summer student at University of Colorado.

"The purpose is to make friends," Kay said. "The rules are: Like each other, keep your card, don't lie and don't come to meetings if you are sick."

Filibusters Old And New

WASHINGTON (AP)—At 11:40 a.m. on April 24, 1953, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon rose in the Senate and obtained permission to speak.

Television prices may rise. Sales have been lagging but despite that, the 1958 models may carry higher tags. It's simply a matter of higher costs of materials and labor.

OLD PROMOTER SPOTS AN ECONOMIC PARADOX
There was a glint in the Old Promoter's eye when he walked in today. He was swinging his cane, which he does only when he feels very cocky.

"I am amused by a curious contradiction in character," he said. "What you tell me why people who shout the most about the decline in the value of the dollar are the same ones who scream the loudest about paying those dollars in taxes? I'd think they would be happy to get rid of them."

"That's an odd point," he said. "Do you have someone in mind?"
"Well, a lot of people do it," he said. "Including you!"

IN THE BUSINESS NEWS
After its label was redesigned, sales of a beer increased 21 per cent. Here's a new index: folding paper boxes. The Folding Paper Box Association reports that on a basis of increased sales in the field, supermarket sales of nonfood items have increased 126.6 per cent in the last 10 years.

THE TROUBLE IS THAT THE ESTIMATES OF INCOME AND OUTGO HAVE NOT WORKED OUT. On the other hand, the actuaries under-estimated income from Social Security taxes; they don't know why income hasn't come up to expectations despite a continuing boom. On the other, outgo has been higher than anticipated.

About Their Towns

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — During the past month many towns and cities have held high school graduations. These young people have been taught the answers to almost every question except the economics of the place in which they live.

REGARDING EMPTY STORES
QUESTION NO. 1. Why do we find empty stores on our business streets? ANSWER: Because more money is going out of the community than is coming into it. This can be corrected only by the citizens producing more and selling more than they are buying.

REASONS FOR UNEMPLOYMENT
QUESTION NO. 2. Why are good people out of work at times? ANSWER: Because these people have not been trained to produce or render more than one service. Perhaps too many young people have been trained for white-collar jobs.

REASON FOR TIGHT MONEY
QUESTION NO. 3. Why is it so difficult to borrow money from local banks? ANSWER: Because too many citizens are sending money to New York to be put into stocks. Instead of investing it at home, this might have been a wise thing to do in the 1930's when stocks were selling so low.

WHAT ABOUT SHOPPING CENTERS?
QUESTION NO. 4. Is your community being hurt by a new shopping center? ANSWER: There is no use of merchants griping, or complaining, about new shopping centers. Price-cutting on the part of local retailers will not solve the problem.

WHAT ABOUT TAXES?
QUESTION NO. 5. Why are local taxes so high? ANSWER: First let me say that the taxes of most communities have not gone up any more than have wages or commodities. Most town and city governments are doing the best they can to keep taxes down; but they cannot buck the tide of population and the demand for conveniences.

QUESTION NO. 6. Do you believe in Turnpike Bonds? ANSWER: The simplest method of avoiding Federal and State taxes is to buy turnpike bonds. Issues carrying 3 1/2 per cent coupons can now be purchased in the 70's and 80's and should be perfect safe and free from all Federal and State taxes.

QUESTION NO. 7. Why are local taxes so high? ANSWER: First let me say that the taxes of most communities have not gone up any more than have wages or commodities. Most town and city governments are doing the best they can to keep taxes down; but they cannot buck the tide of population and the demand for conveniences.

QUESTION NO. 8. Why are local taxes so high? ANSWER: First let me say that the taxes of most communities have not gone up any more than have wages or commodities. Most town and city governments are doing the best they can to keep taxes down; but they cannot buck the tide of population and the demand for conveniences.

QUESTION NO. 9. Why are local taxes so high? ANSWER: First let me say that the taxes of most communities have not gone up any more than have wages or commodities. Most town and city governments are doing the best they can to keep taxes down; but they cannot buck the tide of population and the demand for conveniences.

QUESTION NO. 10. Why are local taxes so high? ANSWER: First let me say that the taxes of most communities have not gone up any more than have wages or commodities. Most town and city governments are doing the best they can to keep taxes down; but they cannot buck the tide of population and the demand for conveniences.

QUESTION NO. 11. Why are local taxes so high? ANSWER: First let me say that the taxes of most communities have not gone up any more than have wages or commodities. Most town and city governments are doing the best they can to keep taxes down; but they cannot buck the tide of population and the demand for conveniences.

QUESTION NO. 12. Why are local taxes so high? ANSWER: First let me say that the taxes of most communities have not gone up any more than have wages or commodities. Most town and city governments are doing the best they can to keep taxes down; but they cannot buck the tide of population and the demand for conveniences.

QUESTION NO. 13. Why are local taxes so high? ANSWER: First let me say that the taxes of most communities have not gone up any more than have wages or commodities. Most town and city governments are doing the best they can to keep taxes down; but they cannot buck the tide of population and the demand for conveniences.

QUESTION NO. 14. Why are local taxes so high? ANSWER: First let me say that the taxes of most communities have not gone up any more than have wages or commodities. Most town and city governments are doing the best they can to keep taxes down; but they cannot buck the tide of population and the demand for conveniences.

QUESTION NO. 15. Why are local taxes so high? ANSWER: First let me say that the taxes of most communities have not gone up any more than have wages or commodities. Most town and city governments are doing the best they can to keep taxes down; but they cannot buck the tide of population and the demand for conveniences.

QUESTION NO. 16. Why are local taxes so high? ANSWER: First let me say that the taxes of most communities have not gone up any more than have wages or commodities. Most town and city governments are doing the best they can to keep taxes down; but they cannot buck the tide of population and the demand for conveniences.

QUESTION NO. 17. Why are local taxes so high? ANSWER: First let me say that the taxes of most communities have not gone up any more than have wages or commodities. Most town and city governments are doing the best they can to keep taxes down; but they cannot buck the tide of population and the demand for conveniences.

QUESTION NO. 18. Why are local taxes so high? ANSWER: First let me say that the taxes of most communities have not gone up any more than have wages or commodities. Most town and city governments are doing the best they can to keep taxes down; but they cannot buck the tide of population and the demand for conveniences.

QUESTION NO. 19. Why are local taxes so high? ANSWER: First let me say that the taxes of most communities have not gone up any more than have wages or commodities. Most town and city governments are doing the best they can to keep taxes down; but they cannot buck the tide of population and the demand for conveniences.

Plain Or Filter Tip?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Social Security system is heading into the red for the first time in its history, Mr. Karmin reported from Washington recently.

This year the system will dole out more than it takes in from those insured, though investment income will keep the overall revenues in the black. But by 1959 there may be an actual deficit unless the Social Security taxes are raised, with benefits outrunning income by $1 billion.

The trouble is that the estimates of income and outgo have not worked out. On the other hand, the actuaries under-estimated income from Social Security taxes; they don't know why income hasn't come up to expectations despite a continuing boom.

So once again we see actual events tripping up the best laid plans of man. And note that this is particularly true of the plans that are made by governments. Such a plan is continually subject to political pressures for "liberalization"—pressures which may not be justified by the economics of the system itself.

This is not to say that it may not be socially desirable for farmers to be covered or for women to be able to draw benefits at a lower age. But once the "liberalization" begins, it immediately becomes almost impossible to stop the trend, no matter what the economic logic may be.

"Inequities" also exist. For example, dentists and osteopaths are covered, but doctors are not. This "liberalization" problem is bound to continue until all segments of the population are covered, at least for benefits. Yet there is "no danger" to the fund, in the view of the chief Social Security actuary, who believes the higher tax slated for 1960 will again bring a surplus.

He may very well be right. But we don't envy any statistician who must include in his calculations the most imponderable of all "x" quantities—what a politician will do with the people's money next.

'X' In Social Security

Opinions In Brief
The theory that big business is destroying small business just isn't borne out by the facts.

"The number of small business firms (those with less than 100 employees) has reached a record high in this country. A tabulation based on the latest available figures shows that there are 4,200,000 of these firms an increase of 750,000 in the past 10 years.

If the trend continues, as is expected, the number will swell to 5,700,000 by 1976.

"The main problem faced by small business isn't big business. It is a tax system which penalizes successes and hampers growth." (Industrial News Review).

"We in China... have used force to deal with enemies of the people. The total number of those who were liquidated by our security forces numbers 800,000. This is the figure up to 1954." —Mao Tse-tung.

JOE LOUIS HOFFA'S FRIEND
Hoffa's lawyer, who represented Dave Beck before the McClellan-Kennedy investigation, got eight colored people on the Hoffa jury. Somebody arranged to have Joe Louis, former heavyweight champion and an extremely popular figure with white and colored people, even though he owes the Treasury several hundred thousand dollars, to appear in the courtroom twice.

LOUIS explained to reporters, who published his remark, that "I was visiting my good friend, Jimmy Hoffa."

Perhaps a colored citizen cannot get a fair trial below the Mason and Dixon Line. I don't know, and neither does anybody else. But it appears that a notorious labor leader can get too fair a trial above the Mason and Dixon Line!

ANSWER: Yes, it is so. And the fact leads directly to the heart of the problem involved in the controversy over the Civil Rights Bill. The Northern "liberals," Republicans and Democrats, demand juryless trials because they maintain that a colored person cannot get a fair trial below 12 white men or women considering his plight.

Wholesale Death, Disaster Summary

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A head-on collision on a sunny Texas highway... a fiery smash-up near a New York summer resort... a capsized boat on Puget Sound... a car in a muddy Virginia pond... plane crashes in Florida and Maine.

So went the grim story of wholesale death and multiple disaster across the nation over the weekend. Thirty-six men, women and children died. Whole families were wiped out.

The worst accident came on a straight stretch of highway near Kenedy, Tex., on a sunny Saturday afternoon. A head-on collision of two cars claimed nine lives. The dead included five members of a single family.

An outing on the wind-whipped waters of Puget Sound in Washington turned to tragedy for two Seattle families Saturday. Four adults and four children drowned when their small outboard motorboat capsized off Oak Harbor.

Six more persons drowned near Fredericksburg, Va., yesterday when their car veered off the highway and plunged into the muddy waters of a roadside millpond. They ranged in age from 7 to 53. One occupant of the car escaped.

Six young people perished in a flaming, two-car crash early yesterday near the summer resort of Sylvan Beach, N.Y. The dead included three members of one family. A 19-year-old girl was the only survivor.

Four persons died yesterday when their private plane plummeted into woods on the Eglin Air Force Base reservation about 40 miles east of Pensacola, Fla.

Argentine Moderates Leading In Vote Count

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A victory for moderate Democratic parties over supporters of ousted dictator Juan Peron and radical candidates appeared in mounting election returns today.

Peronists mustered only about 20 per cent of the vote counted so far in yesterday's balloting for a constituent assembly to revise Argentina's constitution.

The downed dictator boasted from his Caracas exile a few days ago that 75 per cent of this nation's 19 million people support him. They were ordered to blank their ballots in this first national election since military forces ousted Peron.

The total of blank votes seemed likely to surpass a million but fall far short of the five million for which Peron supporters campaigned.

Left-wing nationalist Arturo Frondizi, leader of the antireform Radical party, and his candidates apparently also were pulling about 20 per cent of the vote for his supporters. Frondizi sought to lure Peron backers into his own camp by imitating the onetime strong man's ultranationalist arguments.

Moderate parties supporting Provisional President Pedro Aramburu piled up a lead that was expected to assure them comfortable control of the assembly when it meets Sept. 1.

With more than half the expected seven million votes counted, pro-Aramburu parties led by the People's Radical party of Ricardo Balbin held a commanding lead for at least 27 assembly seats. Frondizi supporters were ahead in 10 places for the 205-delegate assembly.

Of 3,826,511 ballots counted, 823,292 were blank and 821,872 went to Frondizi backers. Another 90,387 for the neo-Peronist Federal Union gave a total of 345,567 votes less than the 2,086,639 counted for groups supporting the government.

The People's Radicals had 1,000,623 votes, Christian Democrats 214,261, Socialists 327,434 and minor parties 454,271. The Communists already had 89,450, about what they polled in the last election three years ago, and seemed sure to go higher.

Winter raked the country with icy winds, snow and cold rain on election day, helping to keep an estimated 20 per cent of the voters away from the polls. Some of the stay-at-homes were undoubtedly Peronists boycotting the vote, however.

The election generally went off peacefully. Bombs exploded in a sugar mill chapel at Tucuman shortly after Mass but no injuries were reported.

The voting brought Argentina to a crucial crossroad in Aramburu's campaign to restore the foundations of democracy after a decade of Peron dictatorship. The revolutionaries who felled Peron threw out his 1949 constitution and reinstated the charter of 1853.

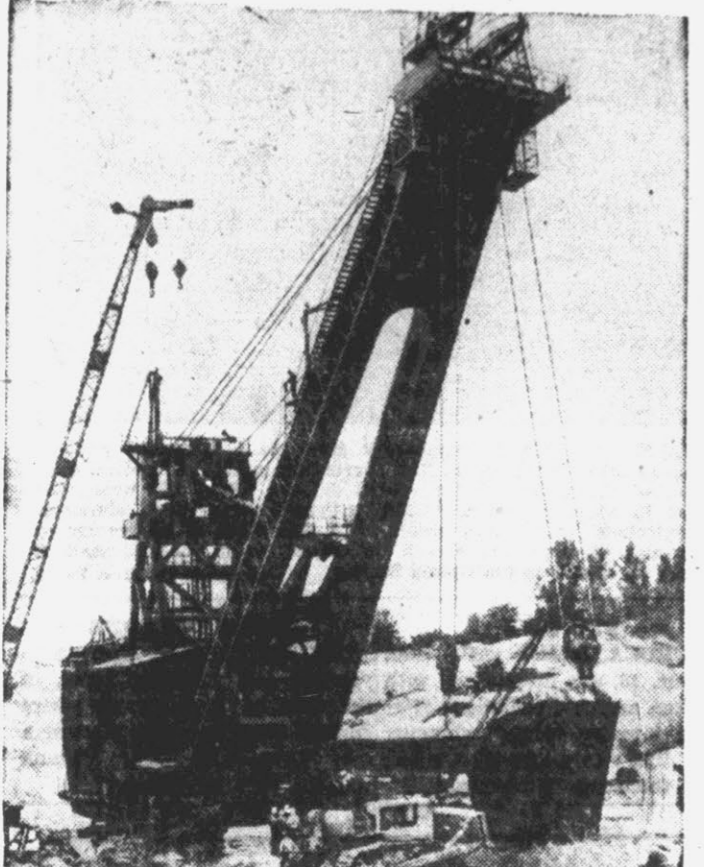

Frondizi said his forces, if they won control of the assembly, would dissolve it as soon as it met and call for immediate election of a new president and Congress. Aramburu has promised to hold a presidential election next Feb. 23.

Banker Takes Own Life After $22,600 Shortage

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A banker stole at least $22,600 then shot himself and set fire to the bank records yesterday in a vain attempt to hide his deed, the FBI said.

Authorities lodged embezzlement and arson charges against Norman an Artsdalen, 41, of suburban Springfield, as he lay in St. Agnes Hospital being treated for a superficial gunshot wound of the shoulder.

Van Artsdalen, manager of the Marconi Savings and Loan Assn. in South Philadelphia, was found crawling from the bank yesterday morning by a passer-by who saw smoke pouring from the institution.

Van Artsdalen told investigators he went to the bank to work on some end-of-the-month statements. He was quoted as saying he was coming up basement stairs in the bank when he was slugged on the head and lost consciousness. When he awoke he saw fire in the vault, crawled to a window and dropped out onto the street. He said he didn't know he had been shot until doctors discovered it.

Carl E. Hennrich, agent in charge of the FBI office here, said Van Artsdalen went to the bank Saturday night and removed the money from a vault. He then wrapped it in a package and brought it to the home of friends, Hennrich said, telling them it was a surprise for his wife and asking them to keep it over the weekend.

Hennrich said $22,600 had been recovered and that another $6,000 was missing and may have been burned in the vault fire. In the vault, investigators found a .22-caliber pistol, partly melted by fire, from which one shot had been fired.

Trial By Judge Or Jury Has Become Big Senate Issue

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—This week's Senate fight on civil rights involves voting rights. But the argument is on whether a person charged with contempt of court should be tried by a judge or a jury.

This is an ABC on it. The civil rights bill proposes that when someone interferes with individuals' voting rights, the attorney general can ask a federal judge to issue an order to stop it. The person disobeying can be charged with civil contempt or criminal contempt.

Roughly, this is the difference: Charging a man with civil contempt is intended not to punish him but to make him comply with the court order while there is still time.

The criminal contempt charge based on willful disobedience is intended to bring punishment after it is too late to comply.

Say Registrar Jones stalls on obeying a court order to register 100 Negroes. The attorney general tells the judge. Election day is still weeks away. The Negroes could still vote if Jones registered them.

The judge tries Jones for civil contempt and, finding him guilty, slaps him in jail for an indefinite period. Jones can get out as soon as he says he will obey the court order and register the Negroes.

But say Jones has stalled until after election day and that the attorney general then tells the judge. It's too late for the Negroes to vote now. The judge tries Jones now for criminal contempt.

If he finds Jones guilty, he sends him to jail with a definite sentence. Jones now can't get out by saying he'll comply. It's too late for compliance. The election is over. Jones is simply being jailed as a punishment for disobeying.

But there's a point that should not be overlooked here: Say that Jones — with election day still weeks away — was jailed for civil contempt to make him obey the order while there are weeks still time.

But suppose Jones, determined not to let the Negroes register, sits it out in jail until after election day, when it would be too late to register them, thus clearly refusing to obey the court.

The judge will have to release him after election day but — he can now try Jones all over again, this time on a charge of criminal contempt, to punish him for disobeying. This time he would give him a definite jail term.

Southerners and their non-Southern supporters argue that a jury trial in a criminal action is so sacred that it must be guaranteed and preserved.

So they protest against the bill, demanding that it be amended to provide a jury trial — and not trial by judge alone — when a man is charged with criminal contempt.

They don't argue for a jury trial in civil contempt.

But trial by judge in contempt cases is not new. There are 28 federal laws permitting it. There is some variation under state laws on whether — in criminal contempt — a man should be tried by judge or by jury.

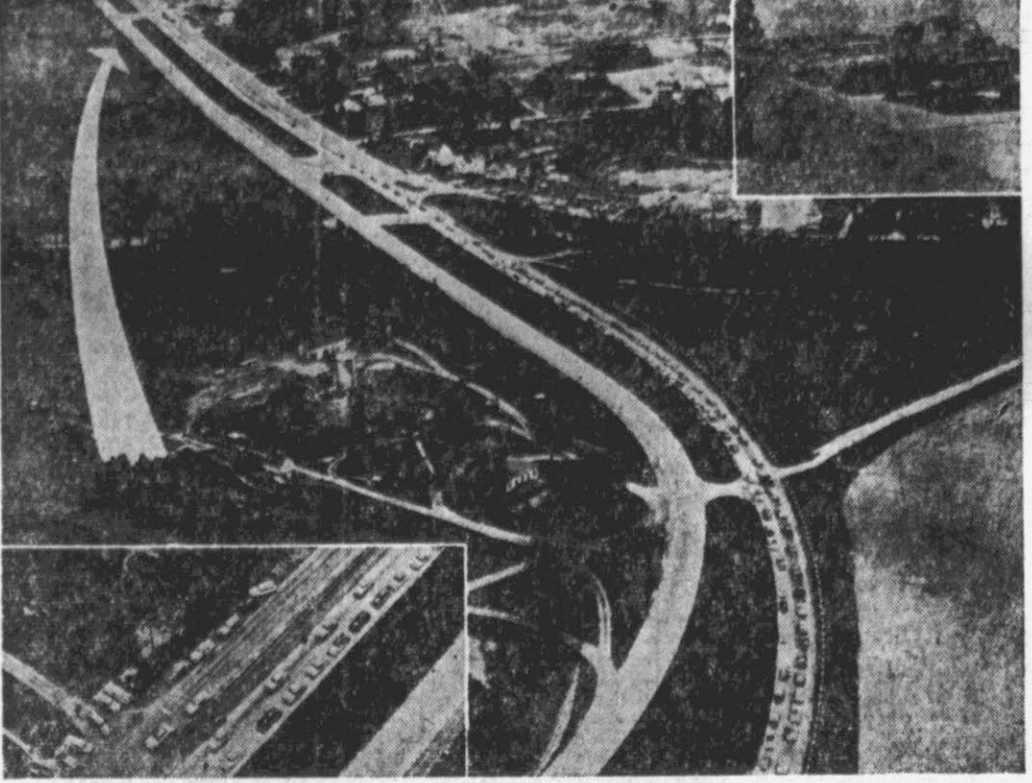

The bill's supporters contend that a judge in voting rights cases should be able to try by himself and without a jury for both civil and criminal contempt. And for this reason:

The bill's purpose is to protect people's voting rights, not just to punish someone. Therefore its primary purpose is remedial and not punitive. But the judge should have the power, to strengthen the authority of his order, to punish anyone disobeying him.

The bill's supporters argue further:

If a voting registrar reflects the attitude of his community — in not wanting Negroes to vote — he could disobey a court order until election is over, knowing he faces criminal contempt charges, but hoping a jury of his neighbors will acquit him.

He couldn't have such hope — and therefore such incentive to disobedience — if he faced a trial by the judge alone.

Time To Order Tree Seedlings

S. C. Winchester, Pitt County Agent, urged all farmers today who plan to order forest tree seedlings to get their orders in right away.

Last planting season, he stated, many landowners failed to get tree seedlings because they did not order them early enough. The seedling supply was limited, and most of the trees had been ordered before the first of November.

This year the Forestry Department is urging growers to get orders in immediately.

Based on present production estimates, the N. C. Division of Forestry expects to have about 75,000,000 seedlings available from their four nurseries. These figures are preliminary estimates and could be changed by losses to insects, diseases, or storms. The present supply shapes up as follows:

Loblolly Pine: Plentiful. An estimated 65,000,000 seedlings available.

Slash pine: About 4,000,000 seedlings available. This is double last year's supply.

Shortleaf pine: Between 750,000 and 1,000,000 seedlings available.

White pine: Short, but better than last year. Approximately 5,000,000 seedlings available.

Red Cedar: Short, but more than double last year's production. About 750,000 seedlings available. Last year the supply was all ordered by early September, and anyone desiring trees this year should order soon.

Seedlings from the state nurseries will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis. Application blanks are available at the County Agents Office in Greenville, N. C.

Binghamton Evacuates 1,500 People in Pace-Setting Test

In a Sunday "outing" with a serious purpose, 1,500 residents of Binghamton, N. Y., traveled 28 miles from their homes to tiny Deposit, N. Y., in one of the largest civil defense evacuation exercises ever held.

The test, involving 372 autos and a special train, was symbolic of the survival effort which millions of Americans would make in a real emergency to put miles between themselves and threatened nuclear attack.

"EVAC 12"—code name of the exercise involving Binghamton's 12th ward—included two sets of motorists in the four-hour test. When the alarm sounded, the first group of 500 persons simulated panic by driving on the evacuation highway helter-skelter in uncontrolled movement.

Shortly afterward, the first of some 250 cars began moving out of a checkpoint on Route 17 in controlled groups of 14 cars each for the trip to Deposit.

Lt. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner, who observed the test along with New York's Lt. Gov. George B. DeLuca, said that "probably for safety's sake under disaster conditions, we would do better with the small, controlled grouping of cars."

Aboard the special train were 64 simulated patients of an emergency hospital, and 46 youngsters "displaced" or "lost" in the confusion of potential attack.

Evacuees were assigned for visits to the homes of Deposit residents when they arrived, just as might be necessary on a longer-term basis after a real attack.

After a dinner, served under improvised conditions, they returned home with a "well done" from pleased civil defense officials and the knowledge that they were better prepared for the real thing if it ever comes.

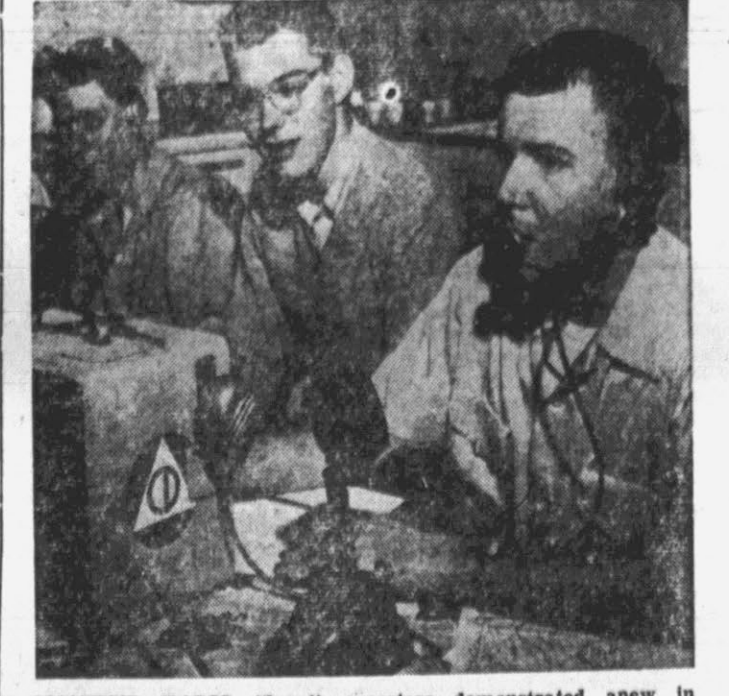

CONGRATULATIONS to the more than 1,000 workers in "Evac 12," Binghamton, N. Y.'s recent evacuation exercise, were given by Lt. Gov. George B. DeLuca (right), and New York State Civil Defense Director Lt. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner at a press conference following the huge test. Crediting three local civil defense directors for execution of the state-devised plan, General Huebner concluded from the favorable and serious public response to the test that "its value will be immense not only to the 16,000,000 people of New York State but to the entire nation." # Patterson Is A 5-1 Favorite Over Jackson Tonight

Hurricane Still Thinks He's A Cinch To Win

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson is a solid 5-1 favorite to whip tireless Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson in their 15-round title fight at the Polo Grounds tonight but the eccentric challenger thinks he's a cinch to win.

"I'm gonna chop him up," says Jackson. "I only wish the fight could be to a finish with the man standing at the end being the winner."

If it was an alley brawl without any officials Jackson certainly would rate a better chance. But over the 15-round distance, Tommy's chances appear as slim as the odds against him. The odds are 8-5 that Patterson, 22, making the first defense of the crown he won by flattening Archie Moore last Nov. 30 in five rounds, will stop Jackson in their return bout.

Patterson won his way to the Moore shot and the title by gaining a split decision in 12 rounds at Madison Square Garden June 8, 1956. He broke a bone in his right hand in the fifth round but rocked Jackson repeatedly with volleys of lefts and rights to the head.

The pick here is Patterson on a technical knockout within 10 rounds.

Always a fast puncher, Floyd has been concentrating on power in his workouts for Jackson. Instead of jumping around the ring, the champion has been setting his feet and concentrating on thumping wallops to the body and head.

At first Floyd expressed doubt that the 6-2 1/2, 194 pound Jackson could be knocked out. Later, he said he thought he might be able to do the job.

"I'm going to fight him more," said Patterson, who fought in spurts the first time because of his injured mitt. "If the opportunity comes for a knockout I'm going to go for it. If it goes the limit, I'm confident I'll win anyway. I know he has plenty of endurance but no matter what pace he sets I know I can more than match it."

There has been hardly any wadding on the bout and there hasn't been any great rush to the box office for dress manufacturer Emil Lence's first promotion of a heavyweight title fight—the first such by an independent promoter since the International Boxing Club stepped into the fight picture in 1949.

Just the same Lence is confident that with a break in the weather he can gross $350,000. This plus the $175,000 for the radio-television rights could assure the tiny promoter of a smash success. The prospects, however, indicate a crowd of 25,000 and a gate of $250,000. That could put Lence in the black.

Patterson has been guaranteed $175,000 against 40 per cent of the gate and radio-TV money. Jackson collects 20 per cent.

The only time the durable Jackson ever was stopped was by Nino Valdes on three knockdowns in one round on July 14, 1954.

Patterson's record is 31-1 including 22 knockouts. His only loss was a disputed eight-round decision to Joey Maxim, the former light heavyweight king, in June 1954. He broke into the pro ranks in 1952 after winning the Olympic 165-pound title at Helsinki, Finland.

Secret Pitch Is Hard To Keep Secret

MILWAUKEE — Keeping a secret in baseball is nigh on the impossible, especially if the secret is a so-called new pitch that is served up to the plate regularly.

The latest pitcher to try to keep a "new" pitch to himself is Gene Conley, Milwaukee's 6-8 right-hander whose improved showing has been a boom to the National League-leading Braves.

"I have a new pitch," Conley said after turning back the New York Giants 5-3 to earn the Braves a split in a twin bill, and keep them in first place. "But what it is I'm not saying. These guys up here are smart enough to find out for themselves what it is."

A sinker? Maybe. A slider? Probably, say three of the Giants who faced him, ex-Brave Bobby Thomson, Ray Jablonski and Wes Westrum.

Conley himself has referred to it as a "nickel curve that breaks the other way" or "a pitch I use in double play situations and for round balls."

Whatever it is, Conley credits it with giving him a new lease on Manager Fred Haney's starting rotation, a position he surrendered earlier this season after losing his first four decisions.

Since then he has won five of six decisions, including three victories over the Giants in 10 days. His control, heretofore a somewhat shaky one, has improved to the point where he has surrendered only three walks in the last 29 innings he has pitched. His worst record now is 5-5.

Little League Area Tournament Beginning In Greenville Today

Greenville will play host to the Area Little League tournament for the next three days, starting this afternoon at 3:00.

Ceremonies were slated to open the playoffs at 2:00 this afternoon and at three a contest between Havelock and Morehead City was scheduled.

At 5:00, the Greenville Tar Heel Loop All-Stars were set to battle the Greenville North State League All-Stars.

Tarboro, the fifth team entered in the tourney, received a bye for first round action.

W. C. James, official of the local Recreation Department and currently working with the play-off committee, stated this week that a big crowd is expected to witness the games.

Each of the five teams will bring a 14-man squad to Greenville for the tournament. Greenville's All-Stars are listed below:

NORTH STATE:
Bobby Smith, David Miller, Jehue Taff, Ernest Larkin, Robert Powell (Lions); Kenneth Allen, William Allen, Dan Johnson, William Williams, Roger Hardee, William Johnston, Alton Clapp (Jaycees); Garry Conway, Van Harris, Gene Hamby (Kiwanis).

TAR HEEL:
Kenneth Joyner, Dixie Coltraine, Jimmy Smith (Moose); Joseph McCoy, J. G. Proctor, Denly Hardee, Bill Green (Elks); Robby Ange, Bernie Morris, Johnnie Reynolds, Richard Taft (Exchange); Elwood Goodson, Joe Harper, Frank Harper (Pepsi-Cola).

A new flag is to be presented to the Little Leaguers at the 2:00 ceremonies, it is reported and other festivities are to take place.

Tuesday's action will feature one game, a contest between Tarboro and the winner of the Havelock-Morehead City bout. Gametime is 4:00 for that match.

On Wednesday, at 4:00, the winner of the Tar Heel-North State tilt will battle the winner of the Tuesday game for the area championship.

Winner of the Area tourney will then go to the State Tournament and may progress ultimately to the National title at Pennsylvania.

Teams Defeated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The number one and two teams in the Carolina League both lost yesterday as the Greensboro Patriots missed a chance to tie up the race.

Greensboro came close as it went into the ninth inning leading. But a four-run rally by Winston-Salem set the Patriots down, 7-5. Meanwhile, the league-leading Hit-Toms dropped a 4-2 ball game with Wilson. Durham defeated Danville 7-2.

Gene Oliver slammed a three-run homer in the ninth to lead the Red Birds to their victory and spoil Greensboro's bid for a first-place tie.

Wilson grabbed three runs in the second inning and the rally produced enough for the win. Jim Hall's double opened the rally. Singles by Dick Miller and Don Porter and an infield hit accounted for the runs.

Indiana Coach Suspended By Conference

CHICAGO — Phil Dickens, Indiana University's new football coach, who has yet to make a Big Ten appearance, was suspended for one year by the Western Conference yesterday for financial assistance irregularities.

The action followed a special meeting of faculty representatives and was the first penalty handed down under terms of the Big Ten's new financial aid program adopted last February.

Dickens, a tailback at the University of Tennessee from 1933 to 1937, had a 40-16-7 mark in six years at Wofford College in Spartanburg, S.C., before posting a 29-10-2 mark in four years at Wyoming.

Dickens was signed to a $15,000 a year four-year contract with Indiana and was promised full backing from the school in his efforts to restore winning football. The Hoosiers haven't had a winning season since 1947.

K. L. (Tug) Wilson, Big Ten commissioner who led the investigation, said reports that Dickens had made offers of financial assistance to various prospective athletes in excess of aid permissible under league rules forced the probe.

The move means that Dickens, who led Wyoming to an undefeated season in 1956 and then replaced Bernie Crammins at Indiana, will not be able to coach the Hoosiers for one year. The Big Ten made Indiana's membership in the conference conditional upon Dickens' suspension.

Herman B Wells, Indiana University president, said the school would comply with the order by suspending Dickens effective Aug. 5.

The faculty representatives' statement said:

"The specific allegations against Coach Dickens were that, in interviewing certain prospective athletes, he had stated Indiana University would provide assistance in the amount of board, room, books, tuition and fees, and a sum of money per month for incidental expenses.

"Conference regulations permit aid only on the basis of computed need, and in no event in excess of the costs of board, room, books, tuition and fees."

Dickens released a statement through the faculty representatives which indicated his staff would carry on through the 1957 football season.

"I can say in good conscience that if I was in violation of the rules in statements attributed to me I was not aware of it nor did I intend to violate the rules," said Dickens. "The conference action is a severe blow to me personally. But I regret even more so its effects upon the university, which I wish only to serve and which I hope to serve well in the future."

Von Happy Over One-Hit Victory

ST. LOUIS — "This game meant more to me than any other I've won."

Von McDaniel, the amazing St. Louis Cardinal rookie pitcher just two months out of high school, was talking about his fifth major league victory, a one-hit 4-0 shutout yesterday over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"I had been hit hard recently and I wanted to prove to myself and to everyone else I wasn't just lucky," the raw-boned Oklahoma told newsmen.

McDaniel proved his point. He had a near-perfect game. Only one man reached base—Gene Baker with a two-out double in the second inning.

Von had lost two straight games—the last one a 7-0 shutout by Vern Law and the Pirates nine days before. Law was the loser yesterday.

"A comeback at the age of 18," cracked Cardinal publicity man Jim Toomey.

The tall right-hander worked all week with pitching coach Al Hollingsworth and Manager Fred Hutchinson.

"He's essentially a breaking-ball pitcher and was throwing too many fast balls in those defeats," Hollingsworth said.

They also worked with Von to turn his hip in delivering the ball to get more of his body behind the pitch. Hutch said the boy had been pitching too much like a "dart thrower" recently.

Von said the change helped his stamina and made his pitches harder to follow. He used only 99 pitches in the game and went to a three-ball count on only three hitters.

McDaniel said the pitch Baker hit was a "good pitch—a slider." The drive dropped in the left field corner, about four feet fair.

Hutchinson was elated because he now feels he can count on Von, now 5-2, as a starting pitcher. Sam Jones is bothered with a recurring stiff arm and the Cards have moved to put veteran Murry Dickson on the disabled list.

The good burghers of Milwaukee likely will concede the Cardinals have a beauty in Von McDaniel. But if they're beckoning to their own Gene Conley today with their widest grins of the year, who can say they don't have a point?

Almost buried beneath 18-year-old Von's brilliant one-hitter yesterday that touched off St. Louis' double-header sweep of Pittsburgh was another big game from Conley that kept the Braves in first place in that torrid National League scramble.

In a month, the 6-8 right-hander, a native Oklahoman like McDaniel, has worked back to the form that made him one of the league's roughest a few seasons ago. It was his fifth victory in his last six decisions.

With McDaniel's one-hit masterpiece winning the first game 4-0 and Joe Cunningham's 11th-inning homer the second 9-8, the Cardinals chopped Milwaukee's lead to half a game. The Braves had lost the opener to ex-mate Johnny Antonelli's six-hitter 2-0.

Brooklyn, with Johnny Podres winning his ninth, beat Cincinnati 7-2 to move within 1 1/2 games of the top and drop the Redlegs 2 1/2 games behind Milwaukee in a fourth-place tie with Philadelphia. The Phils had a happy day in Chicago, topping the Cubs 3-2 for Curt Simmons' 10th and 7-1 as rookie ace Jack Sanford won his 14th against three losses with a six-hitter.

Chicago's second-place White Sox moved up to within 3 1/2 games of the front-running New York Yankees in the American League, defeating Baltimore 4-3 while the Yanks settled for a draw in a 7 1/2-hour double-header with Detroit. Lou Sleater's clutch relief saved the first for the Tigers 6-5, but Bill Skowron's run-scoring triple off a weary Billy Hoft beat Detroit in a 15-inning nightcap.

Ted Williams, his bat mark up to .376, slammed his 29th homer, a double and two singles to lead a Boston comeback that beat Cleveland; and Kansas City won twice from Washington, 6-2 and 3-2 in 11 innings.

Paul Foytack won his 12th in the opener for the Tigers at New York, thanks to 2 1-3 hitless innings of relief from Sleater. Hoft went all 14 1-3 innings of the nightcap, losing when Skowron's triple followed a walk to Mickey Mantle with one out in the 15th. Bob Grim won in relief.

Bill Fischer's tidy relief pitching and Larry Doby's two RBIs featured the White Sox victory.

With Williams blasting away to win for George Susce over Don Mossi, Cleveland's Vic Wertz and Rocky Colavito wasted a big day at the plate. Each slammed two home runs. Wertz driving in five runs and Colavito three.

Hal Smith's single scored Hee Lopez with the A's deciding run in the nightcap at Washington after Alex Kellner had pitched a five-hitter and helped himself with a homer in the first game.

Long-hitting Mickey put together four sub-par rounds of 70-74-70-70—284—the best competitive scoring of her career—and made them stand up for a three-stroke margin over another youngster, runner-up 20-year-old Wiffi Smith of St. Clair, Mich.

YOU CAN DIE LAUGHING
By A.A. FAIR (ERLE STANLEY GARDNER)

CHAPTER 13

"Does Drury ever come to see the children?" I asked Mrs. Ambler.
Her lips came together in a grim line. "He comes to see the children just often enough to keep things all stirred up. He's hoping that someday Estelle won't let him see them and then he'll use that as grounds for a charge of mental cruelty—not that it will do him any good. Estelle has so much on him he can't ever get a divorce, although he probably doesn't know about it. You should see some of the letters my daughter found in his things, letters from a dozen different women, the most brazen, absolutely awful letters—I don't know how women can write letters like that."

"Drury always asked them to write," Estelle said tonelessly. "It saved his ego and flattered his vanity."
"In case he should show up to see the children," I said, "don't mention the fact that I was here. I'd like to conduct my investigations as quietly as possible."

"That's all right, Mr. Lam," Mrs. Ambler said. "Estelle understands."
Estelle gave me a limp hand and a wan smile. Mrs. Ambler followed me to the door. "It's a horrible thing when a girl's life is ruined this way," she said. "Estelle lives in dread of hearing that the children's father has gone to prison. If he'd only stay away from them, Estelle could tell the children that he was dead. Then people wouldn't know about him."
"I'll keep things as quiet as I can at my end," I told her, and went back to sit in my rented car and do a little thinking.

I got hold of a city directory and looked under the Pattons to see if I could find a Lucille Patton. Luck was with me; she was listed with a street address and a telephone number.
I drove around to the address. It was a small apartment house. The manager told me that Lucille Patton worked at one of the state offices. She didn't know which one. She said Miss Patton was nearly always home around five-fifteen. The manager was a garrulous woman, dying for someone to talk to. I had some time to kill so I sat around and chatted. Finally, when I brought the subject of conversation back to Lucille, she was wide open.

Lucille had been there for about five years, living in the one apartment. She was steady-going and respectable, but a good scout. Everybody seemed to like her. She was very reticent about her family, but apparently had never married. She was five feet three inches, around a hundred and ten, a very striking brunette with black hair, dark eyebrows and lashes, and gray eyes.
The manager, a woman about forty-five, thought Lucille was not more than twenty-six or twenty-seven. She said Lucille was a good-natured girl who had lots of friends, and yet had the knack of keeping her own business affairs to herself. She had a good job and steady pay.
Then the manager tried pumping me, wanting to know what I did and what my interest was in Lucille.

"I told her I'd been friendly in the east with a fellow who had known Lucille when he was living in Sacramento. He told me if I ever got out there to be sure and give Lucille a ring, he'd said she was a perfect lady but nice company and never grouchy, always cheerful."
"That's Lucille, all right," the manager agreed.
I got away from the manager about a quarter to five. She offered to introduce me to Lucille if I'd wait, but I didn't want it that way. I drove my rented car down to the corner, found a place to park near the curb, opened the car door, got out on the sidewalk and waited.

"I had no trouble recognizing Lucille Patton from the description I had when she came along the street. I raised my hat.
"Miss Patton?"
She paused and gave me one of those looks. Her eyes started with my face, went down to my shoes, came back up to my face.
"Well?" she asked.
"I want to talk with you."
She moved slightly away from me. "About what?"
"About Drury Wells."
Her face was completely blank. "And your uncle, Aaron Bedford. It might be well for you to have certain information."

That did it. She was starting to walk away, but she caught herself midstep. Her eyes, cool, gray and watchful, sparred with mine. "Official, personal, or curious?" she asked.
"Let's say a combination of all three. I'm a detective."
"Let's see your credentials."
"Private," I said.
"Oh," she said, and again moved slightly away.
"Perhaps," I told her. "I can keep the official inquiry under control if we can talk personally."
"Listen," she said. "I'm not going to carry on a conversation on the street corner. I'm not going to get in that car with you, so there's no use holding the door so invitingly open. If you're holding any cards, start putting the aces on the table. Then if I want to look at the rest of the hand, I'll let you know."
I said, "Your uncle, Aaron Bedford, owned a section of land in San Bernardino County. He died and left the whole piece to Yvonne Clymer."
"Well?"
"Yvonne Clymer claims to be married to Drury Wells. If there's a marriage, it's bigamous. There are lots of bigamous marriages." "Don't you want to protect Yvonne?"
"Why should I?"
"She's your cousin, isn't she?"
"We're related, but I've never seen her in my life."
"Okay," I told her. "I give up. I'm making an investigation and I'm in a jam. I need all the information I can get. I think you might help."
"In what way are you in a jam?" she asked.
"It's a long story."
"How did you spot me?" she asked.
"I went to your place. I got acquainted with the manager. She described you to me."
"I don't strike up street-corner conversations with strangers—no matter what the bait."
"Want me to go to the house and have the manager introduce me?" She offered to do that.
"That wouldn't help. She only knows you because you introduced yourself to her. I know you that well."
I said, "Here's the key to the automobile. Would you like to sit behind the steering wheel? I'll sit on the right-hand side. You'll be behind the wheel. In that way no one's going to kidnap you."
Suddenly she laughed and said, "I have an idea you're a nice boy. I believe you're more afraid of me than I am of you."
"Well," I told her. "I thought you'd want some assurance."
"Give me the key."
I handed it to her.
"Move over."
I moved over and she slid through the door and in behind the wheel. I got in beside her and closed the door.
She fitted the key to the lock in the car, turned it once to make certain it worked, then locked the ignition, opened her purse and dropped the key inside.
"All right," she said, "tell me the rest of it."
"I think you're going to take me to dinner, and you may as well call me Lucille." Donald Lam is told. Continue the story here tomorrow.

TALENT HUNT
SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Spokane's "courageous week" got off to a slow start. Four officers scanned the downtown area the first day to cite "the courteous driver of the day." They reported they couldn't find anyone to qualify.
Since 1913 the Woolworth Building (60 stories) has been one of New York City's most famed skyscrapers. Today there are only five skyscrapers higher on Manhattan.

RELIC FIND
LAWTON, Okla. (AP)—Workers digging in a gravel pit near here struck something hard. Examination turned up a huge tooth, believed to be a mastodon tusk, almost eight feet long. It was in one piece but crooked when pulled from the gravel pit.

New 'Beat' For City Patrolman

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—Albert F. Arbogast, Sr. was a city police patrolman with nine years of service on May 1. A month later he was the pastor of three rural Methodist Churches in Malden, Quarryville, and Palenville.
The Kingston native said he long had wanted to be a minister. After his appointment to the police force in 1948, he resumed interrupted church work and study.
On May 1 he received his preacher's license, and shortly afterward his appointment.
The Rev. and Mrs. Arbogast have two sons, Albert Jr., 16, and William 3rd, 15.

About 59 per cent of the total population of the United States are church members, says a 1956 Century Fund report.

Marines Have Gone, And Budapest Is Now Quieter

BUDAPEST (AP) — Communist Budapest is a duller town today. The U.S. Marines have gone. There were only nine of them, but they did a lot to make this capital a gay place. They were guards at the U.S. Legation. Working in a Communist country, they never wore uniform except at diplomatic parties. Last summer and early fall the Marines had a good time in Budapest. That was a period of thaw, when Hungary seemed to be moving toward greater freedom. The natural gaiety of the citizens of Budapest, plus their interest in things American, suited the Marines just fine. They became major importers of American sheet music and records. They gave a lot of both to jazz-starved Hungarian orchestras. And of course they taught the "Marine Hymn" to anyone who would learn it. Their favorite spot was the Piac in Aranykez-Uta, the Poppy in Golden Hand Street. It's a smoky little place with an unusual noisy orchestra and no room to dance. There the Marines could practice their meager Hungarian on sympathetic hostesses and pretend to like the apricot brandy. During last fall's fighting the Marines got a sniff of powder, but they were in no spot to fight back. Two of them were standing on the balcony of their apartment one day, watching some Russian tanks maneuver. The machine-gunner fired a burst that cost Uncle Sam a new decorating job on the apartment, but did no other damage. The Marines dropped to their bellies and made for the cellar. After the revolution came a rule against more than three dates with any one Hungarian girl. These such dates were banned altogether. The idea was to protect the girls from the attentions of the Hungarian secret police.
