Pitt And Eight Communities To Get $64,239 In Intangible Taxes

County Gov't Will Get Lion's Share; Greenville To Receive $17,428

Pitt County and its eight incorporated towns will receive $64,239.66 from the state for their part intangible tax collections for the fiscal year which ended last June 30.

Figures released by the State Board of Assessment show that Pitt County ranks 18th among the 100 counties of the state in the amount distributed to counties and their municipalities.

Pitt's county government will receive the lion's share of the amount distributed in the county. The county will receive $36,945.51 as its part of intangible tax collections.

Among municipalities of the county, Greenville ranks first with a total of $17,428.22 to be received from state intangible tax collections. Farmville ranks second on the list and will receive $3,769.30.

Other towns of the county and the amounts they will receive are: Ayden, $2,426.33; Bethel, $1,365.74; Fountain, $357.17; Grifton, $1,212.20; Grimesland, $77.33; and Winterville, $658.46.

Under existing laws of the state, local governments receive 80 per cent of intangible tax collections by the state government. For the fiscal year which ended June 30, the local governments' 80 per cent of collections will amount to $5,746,332.58.

Formally Signs Full Confession

DELAND, Fla. (AP)—Donald J. Wedler today signed a statement that he killed Berlyn Sheppard, a Cleveland attorney for Dr. Samuel Sheppard reported.

William Corrigan said the 23-year-old Florida convict "willingly signed the statement in the presence of Sheriff's Deputies Howard Demott and Jack Lynady."

The attorney's belief in Wedler's story is directly opposed to conclusions of Cleveland police officials after they talked with the prisoner a week ago.

Dr. Samuel Gerber, coroner of Cuyahoga County, Ohio, and James McArthur, former chief of Cleveland detectives, said Wedler knew only as much about the sensational July 4, 1954, slaying case as he might have read in newspapers and magazines.

He knew no details, Gerber and McArthur said.

Corrigan, on the other hand, said "I think this guy did it." The lawyer who defended Dr. Sheppard in the trial which resulted in his conviction for the slaying of his wife and a life term, said:

"The confession of this man fits in with so many of the details with which we are familiar and convinces us beyond doubt that Donald Joseph Wedler is guilty of murder."

"We plan to move immediately in the State of Ohio to bring this case to a successful conclusion."

"There's nobody who can set aside a confession of this nature with all its possibilities."

How Corrigan would bring a murder charge against Wedler before a grand jury for indictment was not disclosed.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government plans to let the contract for building the first atomic-powered merchant ship early this fall and have it at sea in 1960.

Quake Quashed

This four-story apartment building collapse in Mexico City in the worst earthquake ever to hit the city. Five persons were believed trapped in the ruins of this building. Over 500 persons have been injured and 52 known dead in 50 toppled buildings in Mexico City alone. The rubble at left covers a dozen cars in parking lot. (AP Wirephoto).

Seek More Dead In Quake Rubble

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A crew of 500 men dug into the ruins of an apartment building today seeking the last victims of Sunday's earthquake.

The five-story apartment house which crumbled into a pile of concrete and dust was the worst death trap of the 50 old buildings that collapsed in the capital.

By early today 32 bodies had been pulled from the rubble and another victim had died in a hospital. This brought the number of known dead in Mexico City to 52 and the total for the country to 66.

All were Mexicans. There were unconfirmed reports that a family on the lower floor of the apartment house had been having a large party at the time of the quake. Officials believed more bodies would be found.

Eleven persons were removed alive from the building. One woman was pulled out yesterday after being pinned under a pile of wreckage for 28 hours. A mattress which fell on her had saved her. Other crews were busy demolishing dangerously damaged structures.

Reports from other sections of the country showed the only major damage from the quake was in a narrow area running south from Mexico City to the Pacific coast resort of Acapulco.

Most cities in the quake zone frequented by American tourists suffered without damage or casualties. These included Taxco, Guadalupe, Morelia, Toluca, Puebla, Oaxaca and Veracruz.

Even in Acapulco, where three persons were killed, damage was relatively minor.

Chilpancingo, capital of the state of Guerrero on the main highway to Acapulco, suffered the worst damage after Mexico City. Half the buildings in the town were ruined. Eight persons died there.

In Mexico City, 20 damaged buildings were marked for demolition. Twenty-one movie houses and five theaters were closed for inspection.

In general, major damage occurred in the downtown business area rather than in the suburban residential districts.

Utility services generally were getting back to normal throughout the quake area, although there were interruptions.

U. S. Enters Into New Atomic Pact

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has formally become a member of the International Atomic Energy Agency, an outgrowth of President Eisenhower's 1953 "atoms for peace" proposals.

Eisenhower signed the pact yesterday, enrolling this nation in the agency. His signature formally brought IAEA into being since its establishment depended on the ratification by three major atom powers.

Russia and Britain were the first two major powers to adopt the pact. The United States was the 22nd nation to ratify the plan. The Senate approved it June 18, 1957.

Estimated $50-52 Average As Border Mart Leaf Sales Begin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS An estimated average of $50 to $52 per hundred pounds was reported for the first hour of sales today on several markets of the South Carolina and Border North Carolina Belt.

The range for the bulk of sales was reported at $40 to $66. The extreme range was $8 for poorest thin nondescript to $80 for fine lemon cutters.

The Federal-State Market News Service reported that the practical top was $66.

It said demand was fairly good for good and fair lugs and fair and low primings, but not very strong for cutters.

Quality was described as somewhat better than on last year's opening sales. It included less nondescript and more good lugs and primings.

Offerings consisted mainly of low to good primings and good lugs.

Condition of the leaf was described as good and volume was described as heavy although some warehouses were not filled.

The news service said there were only a few price rejections by farmers and estimated that from 1 to 5 per cent of sales went to the Fine-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corp. under the government price support program.

Approximate price ranges for several predominating grades: Cutters—Fair lemon $66 to $67, fair orange $66 to $67, low lemon $64 to $66.

Lugs — Good lemon $63 to $66, Primings — Good lemon $62 to $64, fair lemon $52 to $62, fair orange $42 to $55, low lemon $35 to $55, low orange $35 to 45.

Best thin nondescript $18 to 25. The markets opened against a background of predicted heavy volume and higher prices than last year.

Fred S. Royster of Henderson, managing director of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn., said it looked like opening days sales would be full, nearly at capacity. However, he added that they would be light the remainder of the week.

He also predicted an opening day price between $56 and $58 per hundred pounds. The season average last year was $53.70.

The first row sold today at a Fayetteville warehouse averaged $46.85 per hundredweight for the 61 piles. Farmers appeared to be satisfied with prices, which ranged from 24 to 30 cents a pound for cheaper grades up to 60 cents a pound on top grade. Only one pile went to the government under the price support program.

Royster declared, "The condition of the crop is very good, the maturing of the crop this year is earlier and the volume will be heavier. I think the volume will begin to pick up next week."

W. P. Hedrick, tobacco marketing specialist for the North Carolina Dept. of Agriculture, concurred with Royster on the increase in prices and predicted a season's average of between $58 and $60.

Despite the predicted increase in the early sales, officials expect the sales for the entire season to be lower than last year. A 32 per cent reduction is a possibility, officials said.

Markets in South Carolina which opened today are Conway, Darlington, Dillon, Hemingway, Kings-tree, Lake City, Lamar, Loris, Mullins, Pamplico and Timmons-ville.

In North Carolina: Chadbourn, Clarkton, Fair Bluff, Fairmont, Fayetteville, Lumberton, Tabor City and Whiteville.

Two Nights Of Rioting In Chicago

South Side Now Quiet As Extra Police And Task Force Keep Watch

CHICAGO (AP)—The South Side scene of race disorders Sunday and last night was quiet today under the watch of extra policemen including an 89-man task force.

Despite a second night of flare-ups marked by violence, injuries and property damage, city officials said that tension was well in hand.

Police Commissioner Timothy O'Connor said "everything is under control."

"There is every indication that the rioting was spontaneous and not the result of any organized activity," O'Connor said.

Mayor Richard L. Daley appeared in a statement for "all right-thinking citizens to assist in making our city safe and harmonious for all."

"The rights of citizens are going to be protected by the police department," Daley said. "No one is going to be molested on our streets. Law and order will be preserved."

The technique of gentle pressure on crowds and quick clamp-downs on stand-out trouble fomenters, used in earlier disturbances, was the order of the day.

The Task Force—a special unit designed to move into any trouble spot and quell disorder—broke up a milling crowd of more than 1,000. Four parked cars reported owned by Negroes had been stoned and stones were thrown at others driven by Negroes. No injuries were reported.

Police seized 35 persons, including several white teen-agers, for questioning. Four Negroes were arrested for carrying concealed weapons.

About 200 policemen were assigned to the mixed, predominantly white district after a day of no disorders following Sunday's rioting which brought some 300 policemen to the scene.

The first outbreak of violence occurred in Calumet Park.

Last night's most serious disturbance was with a crowd concentrated on the four corners of 16th Street and Ewing intersection.

Police had to club back the crowd after seizing a teen-ager who threw an exploding firecracker under a police car.

Baby Suffocates In Parents' Bed

FARMVILLE — A six-week-old Negro baby, sleeping with his parents, died of suffocation last night "after getting tangled in the bed covers."

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse ruled the death accidental following a preliminary investigation. Rouse said that the child was discovered dead this morning around 1 o'clock.

The infant, Willis Ray Barnes, was the son of Roscoe Barnes of Farmville. After discovering the child under the bed covers Barnes called a Farmville physician who in turn called Coroner Rouse.

Rouse said the baby has apparently been dead only a short time when his parents found him.

Knowland Threatens Keep Senate Going 'All Winter'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican Leader Knowland said today his forces are determined to keep the Senate in session all winter if necessary to pass an effective civil rights bill.

After a White House conference with President Eisenhower, the California senator said he is sure that Eisenhower still opposes adding any jury trial provision to the bill.

Repeating previous statements that the coalition of Republicans and Northern Democrats which he heads will not compromise on the jury trial issue, Knowland said:

"If it is necessary to stay here all winter we are prepared to stay here all winter."

He added, however, in obvious reference to threats of a possible filibuster by Southern Democrats, that he hopes no attempt at "pure obstructionism" will be made to prevent the legislation from coming to a vote.

Knowland said, too, he is confident his side has enough votes to defeat any amendments which would require jury trials for persons accused of criminal contempt for allegedly violating court orders designed to protect voting rights.

Southerners have been disputing that claim, and there were indications that the fate of the amendment may lie with half a dozen undecided senators.

Knowland talked with reporters after he and other GOP congressional leaders held their weekly meeting with Eisenhower.

He said he expected the House would go along with the Senate bill if it is passed in its present form—that is, with no jury trial provision—even though the Senate previously knocked out a house-approved provision providing sweeping powers of enforcement in many civil rights cases. The Senate bill is primarily a right-to-vote measure.

Knowland said the House would not be likely to go along with a jury trial amendment since it specifically voted down such a provision before passing its own bill.

The addition of a jury trial amendment, Knowland said, would very likely stalemate the legislation between the Senate and House. As a result, he said, probably no civil rights bill of any kind would be adopted at this session.

Child Falls Into Well, Is Rescued

ANDERSON, S. C. (AP)—"We oughta everyone give a big cheer for God right now!" shouted someone in the crowd.

The throng roared in agreement as a weary man climbed out of a 40-foot rescue shaft holding a grimy baby in his arms.

"She's okay," he yelled.

But for four terrible hours last night, no one could be sure 17-month-old Yvonne Beasley would come out alive.

Her 3-year-old brother, Richard Davis, wept with his parents, begging for his sister to come out of the hole.

"That's all he kept saying the whole time," Mrs. J. B. Beasley said today. "He just kept crying and saying, 'I want my sister out of the hole.'"

Richard and his chubby, brown-haired, blue-eyed sister were playing in the yard yesterday evening while their mother fixed supper.

Richard came running into the house crying "Sister fell in the hole and got hurt," the 28-year-old mother said.

"I ran out, but I never thought of the old well pipe. It's away from the house and covered. I ran right past it."

"I ran into the front yard and then back again and then I heard her crying and calling, 'Mommy, mommy, mommy.'"

"I ran out in the road and tried to stop a car. We don't have any phone and there aren't any neighbors close. I ran and screamed but nobody would stop. I guess they thought it was some family fight."

"Finally, after about 20 minutes a car stopped and a woman got out and came with me. Her husband went to phone the firemen."

"We ran to the well, but I couldn't even see Yvonne. But I could hear her crying. She cried the whole time."

The Beasleys live about seven miles from town on a little road off the highway. The young mother was alone because her husband was going to a GI class at the Anderson High School. He was summoned home.

The child was wedged almost at the bottom of the narrow drill pipe of the old well. Doctors supervised piping oxygen to her while drilling experts bored a parallel well 40 feet deep and removed a section of pipe and an old bucket stuck in the pipe joint to reach her.

Mrs. Beasley said she thought some older children may have removed the covering stone.

"The man who rescued her said she just grabbed his neck and smiled and smiled," Mrs. Beasley said, her voice still trembling with strain.

"When I saw her, I could only get to her to grab her. Seemed like something was holding me back and I just couldn't get to her. They tell me I just flew at her though."

The doctors said she just had a few scratches. She was just dirty and hungry. They gave her warm milk here at the hospital."

Halsey Stricken

NEW YORK (AP)—The condition of stricken Fleet Adm. William F. Halsey (ret.) was reported unchanged today at Doctors Hospital.

The 74-year-old World War II leader in the Pacific was taken to the hospital yesterday after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage. His chances of recovery from the stroke were listed as "indefinite."

His aide, Lt. Cmdr. George Beck, said the retired admiral had a slight paralysis of speech but his limbs were unaffected.

"It will take 24 hours to determine the extent and seriousness of the attack," Beck said.

Halsey was vacationing on Fishers Island, N.Y. when he was stricken Sunday afternoon.

Halsey, the salty strategist who planned some of the Navy's greatest victories in the Pacific, had a date in Washington tomorrow in connection with his fight to save the carrier Enterprise from the scrap heap.

Halsey commanded the U. S. 3rd Fleet in the Pacific. He relinquished command of the fleet in 1945 "to make way for younger men." He retired from the Navy April 1, 1947, after 47 years service.

Dulles And U.S. Disarmament Experts Confer

LONDON (AP)—John Foster Dulles and U. S. disarmament experts locked themselves in the American Embassy today to work out detailed plans for a limited "open skies" disarmament accord with Russia.

"They plan to spend the entire morning in talks," a spokesman said as the U. S. secretaries state closed themselves with Harold Stassen and other American officials.

Stassen heads the American delegation to the five-power U. N. Disarmament subcommittee which has bogged down here after five months of negotiations.

Dulles arranged to sit in later on a strategy meeting of the four Western delegations to the talks, representing the United States, Britain, France and Canada.

Also on tap for Dulles was a meeting with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd to discuss a wide range of diplomatic issues, including the tribal uprising in Muscat and Oman.

The immediate issue in the disarmament negotiations is the forthcoming presentation of a U. S. plan for aerial inspection between Russia and the West.

Some Western observers interpreted Dulles' first statements here as an indication the West is less hopeful than before of obtaining a broader disarmament treaty at this time, and that he will attempt to salvage some sort of agreement on aerial inspection which would reduce the danger of surprise attack.

Eastern Tobacco Marts To Open On August 15

LUMBERTON, N. C. (AP)—The opening of the Eastern North Carolina tobacco markets has been set for Thursday, Aug. 15.

The new date was announced last night by P. S. Royster, managing director of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn., following a meeting here of its sales committee. The date is four days earlier than the Aug. 19 opening which was set previously.

Royster said weather conditions and the rapidly-maturing crop had made the earlier opening possible.

He added that the committee would meet again Aug. 16 to decide on opening dates for the North Carolina-Virginia Old Belt and the North Carolina Middle Belt.

School Reassignment Request Pending Before 3 N. C. Boards

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Negroes in Bryson City and Durham are asking school boards to admit their children to white schools while a Greensboro school group is asking white parents to leave their children in classes with Negro youngsters.

In Greensboro, the Gillespie Park School Parent-Teacher Assn. last night asked parents not to withdraw their children from the school which will open its doors to five Negro youngsters this fall.

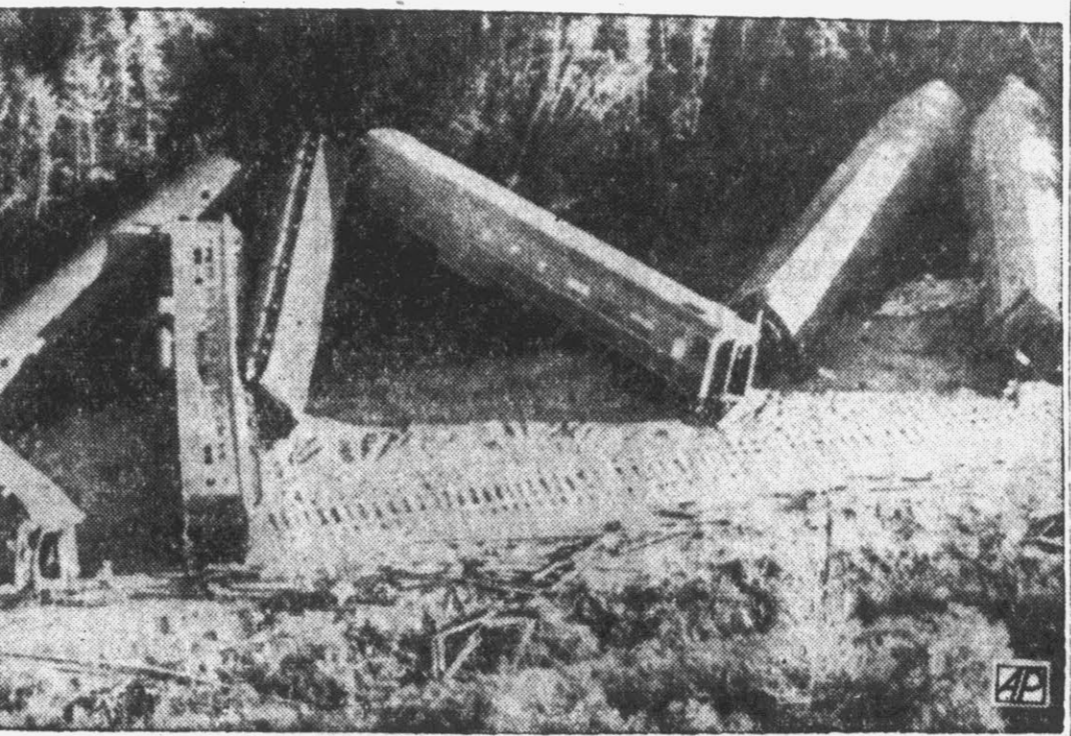

The group passed a resolution pledging support to the school and promised to try to help maintain the peace in the public schools. Several parents have already requested that their children be transferred to an all-white school.

admission were refused and told to apply again this year. In Durham, 14 Negro families took a different tack. Rather than making application for their children to be assigned to specific schools, the parents filed identical letters with the city school board asking that their children "not be assigned to a segregated school system."

C. O. Pearson, a Negro lawyer, said: "The object of the applications is to integrate the schools fully, permitting each child to go to the school in his own district."

L. W. S. Weaver, superintendent of schools, said he has received "a number of letters," but added that they have no official standing

First To Move Into New School

Principal O. E. Dowd has become the first person to set up his office in the new Junius H. Rose High School.

Dowd moved his office into the new building yesterday. He will conduct all high school business from the new office, according to Superintendent J. H. Rose. The telephone number in the new office is 7241.

Dowd's office in the old high school building has been turned over to officials of the junior high school which will be quartered in the old building.

Herbert Lee Discusses Egypt At Credit Womens Breakfast Club

Herbert Lee, local businessman and former diplomatic courier to Egypt from the United States, was the guest speaker Saturday morning at the Greenville Credit Women's Breakfast Club. President Caille Rue Williams presided over the meeting.

Lee spoke to the club of his travels as a diplomatic courier whom he also termed as a "glorified mailman" who was sent by the United States to guard over any important documents or letters while in travel or otherwise.

He highlighted Egypt as his favorite country as he told of the ancient history up to the modern Egypt of today. He explained how the kings and queens, whom he called by names, are excavated from their ancient tombs, some still well preserved in museums. He gave a brief resume of the background of some of the kings and their effect on Egypt.

He noted that although this country is relatively modern it was still very primitive in some parts. Door prizes were won by Mrs. Ruth Brady, Mrs. Jean Clark, Miss Elizabeth Deal, Mrs. Louise Wilson, Mrs. Virginia Brady, Miss Barbara Dail, Mrs. Jean Porter and Mrs. Hilda Jones.

Womer: In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

A two-fold program of action "in the face of world tension and revolution" is urged by Mrs. Frank G. Brooks, retired national president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church upon her return from a visit to Japan and Korea. In answer to the question, "What should churches do to meet the challenge of a world in which half the population of Asia in ten years changed its political status, and in which communism has gained control of millions of people within forty years?" Mrs. Brooks said: "First, the churches must recruit an ever-growing number of missionaries to carry the name of Christ to every corner of the world. Within 50 years, some of the new countries may not welcome missionaries today, in almost all, they are accepted. Second, every local church must increase its witness to Christ in its community; this witness at the grass roots is the best way to build an international community for peace based on the Gospel of Jesus."

Board Meeting Of N. C. Music Clubs Called

College Receives Recognition For Education-Religion Project

East Carolina College's participation in the nationwide Teacher Education and Religion Project sponsored by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education receives favorable attention in the quarterly "News" published by the association, Vol. III, Nos. 9 and 10.

The entire light-page issue is devoted to studies and activities conducted at the college during almost four years of work on the project. The current issue of the "News" is now being distributed throughout this country.

President John D. Messick and Vice-President Leo W. Jenkins, chairman of the project committee, contributed introductory discussions dealing with the objectives and the benefits derived on the campus from the study and its implementation on the campus.

Other articles, written by members of the Committee on Teacher Education and Religion on the campus here and other faculty members, deal with ways and means of teaching the reciprocal relationships between religion and such areas as literature, history, the arts, science, geography, and home economics.

Author-committee members pictured on the front page of the "News" are Dr. Jenkins, Dr. Besse McNeil of the home economics department; Dr. Edgar W. Hirschberg of the English department; J. O. Derrick of the science department; Dr. W. E. Marshall of the social studies department; Dr. N. M. Jorgensen of the health and physical education department; and Dr. John B. Bennett, coordinator of religious activities. Other contributors include Dr.

Wellington B. Gray of the art department, Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert of the music department, Dr. R. E. Cramer of the geography department, and Dr. P. A. Toll of the social studies department.

With Farm Women

By VIRGINIA M. NANCE

(Items this week on: Pitt, Tyrrell, New Hanover, Franklin, Stanly and Moore Counties.)

It's A Fact

A little humor mixed with philosophy was the basis of Mrs. C. M. Foster's talk to the North Carolina Sorosis' American Home Department. Mrs. Foster is president of the Sunset Park home demonstration club in New Hanover County.

In her comments on the art of homemaking she gave this recipe on "How to Cook a Husband": "Don't keep him in hot water or freeze him. Don't keep him in a stew or a pickle. When selecting don't be guided by a silvery appearance as in mackerel or a golden tint as in salmon. Don't go to the market; those bought at the door are best. Wrap in spotless linen, complete with buttons and creases. If he sputters or fizzes a bit, don't be alarmed—some do this. Just add a little sugar, pepper or vinegar, flavored with smiles and sweetened with kindness. Serve with fruit of constant devotion and the milk of human kindness and you'll find him tender and agreeable."

One word of advice she offered is "to cultivate laughter; it does away with the worry wrinkles."

Clothing Care

"Now I know why my clothes don't last and don't retain a cared-for look," declared Mrs. Durwood Cooper, Columbia, Route 2. I hadn't realized that clothing care must be a daily care."

Mrs. Cooper made these remarks after seeing a demonstration given at her club meeting in Tyrrell County, according to reports from Anne E. Davenport, home agent.

Club women, particularly, expressed delight, says Mrs. Davenport, in seeing the clothing care articles such as lint removers and various types of clothes hangers.

Pitt County News

Mrs. Alton Moore has conducted a family affair in improving her home. Her two daughters began by painting and adding accessories to their bedroom. Then, they all joined together to paint the spacious living room a cool gray and the dining room a shade of gold. The agent discussed with them the selection of drapery material. Among other things, they plan to cover a chair and purchase carpet.

The publicity leaders from each of the clubs have been busy gathering materials and preparing the Pitt Co. Publicity Book to be displayed at Farm-Home Week, Aug. 5-8. Mrs. Lucy Allen of the Red Oak Club has done an excellent job as chairman.

The agents and members of the Ballards Home Demonstration

Club are so proud that the last payment has been made on the Ballards Community building. The members used the money received as prize money in the recent Pitt County Progress Program to make this final payment.

An Asset
What Mrs. Tyree Lancaster, president of the Centerville home demonstration club in Franklin County, thought was going to be a handicap turned out to be a desirable asset.

According to Lille May B. Dean, home agent, the Lancasters have recently added a new kitchen and utility porch to their house. In trying to plan her kitchen for economy in money and steps, it seemed wise to put the sink against a bar-type partition in the middle of her kitchen, because it was in line with the water pipes in the rest of the house.

By doing this, it gave her an opportunity to look out the window toward her front yard and highway and the side entrance to her living room used by friends when they call.

Mrs. Lancaster said that at first she didn't like the idea of having the sink in the middle of the kitchen, but now she says it's located in the perfect spot for convenience.

New Lawn

The Fred Simpson family of Tyson, in Stanly County, feels they made a good investment—in time and money—as a result of consulting Mrs. Peggy B. Hill, assistant home agent.

It seems that the Simpsons needed a new lawn so they went to Mrs. Hill for suggestions. After talking it over, they had the yard pushed off and grass sowed, making a beautiful setting for their home.

Mrs. Simpson said, "You folks surely knew what you were doing when you recommended fescue for our yard. My husband's brother paid $1.00 a pound for fancy lawn grass seed and his yard doesn't look nearly as good as ours."

A Real Problem

In the Hillside community, Moore County, the cockroach was really beginning to be a problem. Reports from Ozetta P. Guye, Negro home agent, show that in many homes and their surroundings roaches were getting into everything.

As a result they got busy and found out how they could get rid of them. Mrs. Guye says the people together for a demonstration on how to cope with their problem. At the end of the demonstration Mrs. Arnetta Covington remarked that "I used chlor-dane and I certainly recommend it because it solved my problem of cockroaches!"

VFW Auxiliary Presents Flag

Mrs. J. A. Joyner Jr., president of the VFW Auxiliary, presented an American flag to W. C. James, Little League official, yesterday afternoon at the opening of the Little League Area Tournament.

During the presentation, Mrs. Joyner said, "In behalf of the VFW Auxiliary, I present this United States flag—the emblem of Liberty and Freedom. We feel that your work with the future citizens of our community is developing a love and respect for Old Glory."

"As it flies over this field may we all realize afresh that we owe a debt of gratitude to those who have lived and even died for the Red, White and Blue."

LADY SHERIFF

MARKLESVILLE, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Lucille Brown has been named California's only woman sheriff. The Alpine County supervisors appointed her to serve the unexpired term of her late husband, Orrin Brown, who held the job for 22 years. Alpine County, in the High Sierras near the Nevada border south of Lake Tahoe, has only 24 residents. Mrs. Brown named her son, Orrin Brown Jr., to serve as her deputy.

Best Possible Care Is Real Issue

It is quite possible that both the State Board of Medical Examiners and the State Board of Hospitals Control may be inclined to feel they have to save face in arriving at a settlement of the dispute which has been raging between the two state bodies for more than a month now.

If such a feeling does exist, it could influence the outcome of this issue of tremendous import to every North Carolinian.

The average North Carolina citizen, however, is not interested so much in which group wins the debate as they are in seeing that patients in state hospitals receive the best possible care and treatment to recover from their illnesses.

From Blowing Rock has come word of a possible settlement of the differences between the two groups before the matter is taken before Gov. Hodges for mediation. If they can resolve their differences without taking the matter to the governor, that will be fine. But regardless of the outcome of the dispute, it is the duty of the state's chief executive to ascertain to his own satisfaction that any decision made in reference to staffing the state's hospital is in the best interest of the patients of those hospitals.

It is the responsibility of the State Board of Medical Examiners to see that only qualified physicians are licensed to practice in North Carolina—whether they practice publicly or in state institutions. It is the responsibility of the State Board of Hospitals Control to see that state institutions are adequately staffed, both from the standpoint of the number of doctors and from the standpoint of the qualifications of those doctors.

Together, these two official boards of the state have the responsibility to see that patients in state institutions receive the best possible medical care. Neither board should lose sight of this joint responsibility as they debate their differences of opinion.

They Can't Stop U.S. Innovations

By ELMER ROESSNER
Don't light the bonfires yet, but it looks as if we've got 'em licked.

The American way of life is spreading throughout Western Europe and into Communist lands. It has spread so far, so fast and so deeply that it is too late for the Kremlin to halt it. Besides, there's no way to stop it.

You can't shoot a hot dog. Western Europe has adopted the supermarket. Now it is spreading behind the Iron Curtain.

Shortly after the end of the last war, some progressive Germans, inspired by things they had heard from G.I.'s and some self-service E.K.'s, studied the American supermarket system and tried out a few stores in West Germany. The idea caught on and now there are 1,500 self-service markets in West Germany and hundreds more in Switzerland, Holland, Great Britain and other nations.

Last year, with the assistance of the National Association of Food Chains, the U.S. Department of Commerce sponsored American merchandising exhibits in Poland and Italy.

The Poles were amazed by the array of electric appliances and frozen food. There was some Communist propaganda to the effect that these things weren't for real, but enough Poles had received letters from American relatives to know just how true low-cost appliances and frozen food are!

Now pie-in-the-sky communism looks pretty dreary to the hundreds of thousands of Poles who saw electric irons, automatic washers and frozen spinach. In Italy, despite Communist rumors that supermarkets are only for the rich, the Italians fell in love with self-service. "Supermarkets" are springing up all over Italy now.

In September, the N.A.F.C. and the U.S. Government are opening a model supermarket at the International Fair in Zagreb, Yugoslavia. Interest is already high, reports John A. Logan, president of the association. It's possible that the idea of self-service will sweep Yugoslavia the way the idea of frozen foods has won the Poles.

Meanwhile, Dr. Sidney E. Rolfe, economist for the C.I.T. Financial Corporation, reports from Europe that a consumption revolution is on and that Western Europeans want consumer credit—with low down payments and easy terms—that Americans have.

They will probably get it. For one reason, Western Europeans are eager for low-priced autos. Their governments are eager to keep expanded factories. Consumer credit seems the only lever. And if Western Europeans get it, the Eastern Europeans will want easy payments, too.

Meanwhile, American rock 'n' roll appears to have penetrated the Iron Curtain. Russian newspapers are denouncing it and there are reports of hepsiks carrying on in Moscow itself. At the same time, American soft drinks, filler tips and pinball machines are growing in popularity in Free Europe and it seems only a question of time until the Russians come up with an imitative-Koza-Koza.

The vodka boys in the Kremlin may have developed an atom bomb with a left hook and a fade-away curve, but what good is it if their subjects are clamoring for quick-frozen borscht, angel food cake mixes, prepackaged hors d'oeuvres, Gibson cocktails, coffee breaks and fringe benefits? Maybe, after all, you CAN shoot a hot dog. But you can't hit the idea behind it.

AND WHO, PRAY, PAYS FOR LABOR IN ESTIMATING?

An update New York store, annoyed because competitors were offering "free labor" for installations, took advertisements to point out that there is no such thing as free labor and the cost must be included in the selling price. So, it is urged, see us instead of our dishonest competitors! As a special inducement, it added, "No charge for estimates."

"Vitality tied in with the problem of economic expansion is the problem of foreign trade. Japan must trade to live. To Japan, her trade with the United States is of vital importance. However, one trouble with this trade is that it has always been marked by large excess imports on our side."—Prime Minister Kishi.

Relax, Friends; It's Bigger Than Anybody

Our friends in Goldsboro are becoming more and more concerned over popularity of shorts among Wayne County citizens who patronize the town's business firms.

The situation has reached such proportions that the city's Board of Aldermen has given official recognition to the "problem". The five men, however, have prudently stayed away from voicing a collective opinion.

In a survey of Goldsboro people, the Goldsboro News-Argus found that acceptance of shorts for downtown wear is rising. As a matter of fact, the newspaper observes with tongue-in-cheek solemnity that acceptance has reached "a level slightly above the knee".

That's just another way of saying that most of the folks to whom newspaper reporters talked thought Bermuda shorts were fine. Those folks drew the line at the Bermuda level, however. They don't cotton to "shorty shorts", the newspaper-opener.

We don't mean to be meddling in a problem that isn't any of our business, but it seems to us that the good people of Wayne County are just worrying themselves to death over something they ought to be enjoying.

Bermuda shorts are all the rage now. Some enterprising souls—the ones with the more shapely legs—are favoring the shorties. Fashion and fads being what they are, such is beyond the control of mere mortals—such as newspapermen, city aldermen and horror-struck old-timers.

Our advice, unsolicited as it may be, is simply for Goldsboroland folks to dismiss the idea that clothing fashions are a "problem".

Those folks should realize that such things are bigger than all of us. They ought to quit fighting, and start enjoying what they see.

Such is life . . . even in Wayne County.

Primary Races In Nine Months

By LYNN NISBET
ELECTION PLANS — Although the elections of President and Governor are more than three years off, in less than nine months the primary campaigns for nomination of members of the Congress and the General Assembly in North Carolina will be in peak.

Results of these primaries, which in most instances are tantamount to elections, will have considerable bearing upon the presidential, gubernatorial and senatorial races in 1960.

A great deal of the activity in the present Congress has been influenced by potential effect on next year's election. To even greater degree the Congress to be elected in 1958 will chart its course with an eye on 1960. The sparring will be as much for advantage in the national nomination conventions as for victory in the November voting. There are such wide cleavages in both parties that it is difficult to recognize the traditional Democratic and Republican labels.

The North Carolina Legislature is not likely to be bothered with bi-partisan troubles, but with a race for Governor and United States Senator coming up the following year, chances are that the 1959 session will have more than usual evidence of factional rivalry.

There is both similarity and contrast in national and state situations. President Eisenhower and Governor Hodges are both barred by the constitution from another term. That leaves the field wide open for other aspirants who will be seeking advantage through influencing legislation. Although respected for the positions they hold and the jobs they have done, neither Eisenhower nor Hodges has dependable loyal following among the leadership of their respective parties.

CONTRAST — Many people complain that Eisenhower is under complete domination by a small group of advisers, that he is insulated and isolated to such extent that he is not kept informed about what goes on in the country and throughout the world. Criticism of Hodges is at the other extreme — that he does not consult party leadership and ignores advice when it is volunteered. There is further and very significant differences in their situations. When Eisenhower moves out of the White House at age 71 he will have nowhere to go except into the role of elder statesman as president. When Hodges moves out of the Governor's Mansion at the end of his term he will be 63 — with opportunities beckoning from many sides. He will be two years younger than Clyde Hoey was when he went to the U. S. Senate, two years older than Harry Truman when he was elected vice-president and the same age of Dwight Eisenhower when he was elected President of the United States. For these reasons it may be expected that Governor Hodges will wield more influence over the 1959 General Assembly than will President Eisenhower over the 86th Congress.

ORGANIZATIONS — The Democratic and Republican party organizations, national and state, apparently are about as disorganized as ever in memory of presently active partisans. In Republican circles National Chairman Alcorn, as did his predecessor ex-Chairman Len Hall, and the Eisenhower administration family, are by-passing the North Carolina state chairman and national committeeman and dealing with individual party members on major patronage matters. The state Republican organization is impotent and ineffective. The state Democratic organization is relatively inactive.

DEMOCRATS — With voting strength in North Carolina approximately three to one Democratic (except for occasional deflections on the President) with membership in the General Assembly and on boards of county commissioners and court house offices approximately ten to one Democratic, it is logical and natural that North Carolinians of all parties should have major interest in Democratic political activities.

It is no secret that the only people who are happy about recent developments in that field are the Republicans who cherish the hope for a real two-party system in this state. And many Republicans confess that the conditions maintaining in their state and county organizations do not offer much inducement for Democrats to change party affiliation.

For a short time after the hassle over the Governor by-passing county Democratic committees in selecting nominees, which hassle led to almost an open break between Governor Hodges and State Chairman John Larkins, it looked like the organization was being restored. Lately the breach has widened again and most local and regional party leaders feel that the Governor is operating entirely on his own, with utter indifference to effect on the Democratic party in close counties.

Guess It's Human Nature

Relics, Past And Future

After just so many years those childhood memories get all fogged up.

An adult might remember, vaguely, some details of an incident . . . a scene . . . a person . . . that involved them at the age of three years. Some will tell you they recall something that must have made a big impression on them at the age of two years, but this is rare.

I don't know when a child's memory begins to store things that can be reliably termed "something remembered." So many recollections can be superimposed by kintfolk, telling tales over and over until they become a "memory" of something that happened in early childhood.

At family gatherings there's a lot of "do you remember when" stories that prod one into casting back into the dim reaches of the past. That "horseless carriage caravan" which visited Greenville last week probably stirred more talk and memories about the early years of the century than anything else that has come along in a long time.

One of those prized relics was being washed and cleaned at a service station, and a number of sightseers were standing around.

"You know, I had one like that," smiled one gentleman with a fringe and balding pate. The others listened. "It was around 1919, or maybe 1920. A good car in its day; there still weren't too many of them around."

A service station attendant paused in wiping some metal-work: "I've been around this thing once, and I can't remember where the gas tank is." "Under the front seat," I volunteered, and then fell back, wondering if it was his little joke for the audience around him. He just grinned in acknowledgment.

"I remember riding in something of about that vintage," said another. "The roads were mostly unpaved, just tracks; the bumps were pretty rough. Lots of times when you met somebody, one car had to move off the road for the other to pass."

And, looking backwards, I too dimly remembered riding with Granddad and the frequency of flat tires, and the stopping to remove the tire, then the rim, then the tube, and the work in finding the hole that had to be patched before the car could go on. It was quite a job. There were at least two occasions (I remembered) when we ran out of gas, and the infrequent but understanding passersby could be counted on to lend a hand.

The car had a crank, and another man who joined the group pointed to it, remarking that a lot of men had broken arms turning the motor over.

There was just one instrument on the dash of this model, an ammeter. Quite austere as compared with today's panel. It seems motorists of that era weren't concerned with how fast or how far they were going, nor engine temperatures (you could always tell if the radiator was boiling), and oil pressure, or any of the other vital data for today's chariots was of no concern.

Trying real hard, I could dig up a few memories about a car like the one before me.

Later, looking at my own 1950 model, I counted off the years on my fingers.

With good care, it seems I too could have a relic of the high-walks in another 28 years. And by golly, it's apt to work out that way, too.

Opinions In Brief

"If in the opinion of the people, the distribution or modification of the Constitutional powers be in any particular wrong, let it be corrected by an amendment in the way which the Constitution designates. . . . But let there be no change by usurpation; for though this, in one instance, may be the instrument of good, it is the customary weapon by which free governments are destroyed. . . . The precedent must always greatly overbalance in permanent evil any partial or transient benefit which the use itself can at any time yield."—George Washington.

Other Editors Saying— Learn To Say 'No'

(The Clarion-Leader And Jackson Daily News) The "yes men" in this world contribute but little to its up-building. . . . It is the "no men" who accomplish worthwhile things. . . . "No" is one of the shortest words in the English language, and one of the most meaningful. . . . "No" is the concentrated Declaration of Independence of the human soul.

Saying "no" at the proper time indicates you have courage in your heart and iron in your soul. . . . "No" is the citadel of character, and can remain impregnable forever. . . . "No" is the only path to formation. . . . If you want to quit a bad habit, no matter what it may be, you must learn to say "no" and mean it.

"No" is the steam-gauge of strength, the barometer of temperament, the infallible measure of moral force. . . . "no" has saved more women than all the knights of chivalry. . . . The girl who can say "no" and stick to it never becomes a prostitute.

The Great Economy Drive Flops

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON The great drive against the Eisenhower budget has finally foundered because so many members of Congress refuse to curtail Federal activities and expenditures, if it threatens to cost them votes in their own states and districts. They will save money only if it happens to hurt the other fellow.

It is now estimated that Congress will cut only about $2 billion out of the original $71.3 billion request. As a result of popular protests against such excessive spending last winter, there were responsible forecasts of a $5 billion reduction, which would have made possible a large-scale tax cut next year. Those hopes are now fading fast.

POLITICS PREVENTS SAVINGS Although there are many similar incidents where local and national interests collided to the detriment of economy, the Army's attempt to close down the Murphy Army General Hospital at Waltham, Mass., is typical of the way in which politics blocks savings for the taxpayers. The Pentagon maintains that the scarcity of patients warrants shutting down this installation and using it as headquarters for the Corps of Engineers. The hospital personnel outnumber the patient load by five to one, whereas the reasonable ratio is two to one. Only 30 people would be thrown out of work. There are many nearby medical centers, according to Secretary Wilson. It is estimated that annual savings would be $500,000.

Although funds for Murphy were approved by the House Appropriations Committee, they were eliminated on the floor on a point of order. The Senate Appropriations Committee refused to okay the item, although it voted to keep open a hospital at Hot Springs, Ark. on the demand of Senator John C. McClellan of that state.

Arguing reluctantly with Wilson that Murphy was not needed, Senators Kennedy and Sallonstall made no attempt to restore the funds in Senate debate. But when the bill reached the House-Senate Conference Committee, the whole House delegation from the Bay State, Republicans and Democrats, insisted that Murphy could not be spared. The anti-economy

Decade Of Gay Living

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — There are two periods in our history about which Americans are incurably romantic — the "Gay Nineties" and the "Roaring Twenties."

Time has removed from the earthly scene most of those old enough to relish the tang of the gay nineties, but millions are still alive whose youth coincided with those years of the grasshopper between the end of the first World War and the beginning of the depression — the so-called jazz age. And at the first tinkling notes of an old Irving Berlin tune, many will drop nostalgic tears in their beer.

There has been a great revival of interest in "The Jazz Age" and many of today's serious, security-minded young people are inclined to ask rather crossly, "Just what was so wonderful about it anyway?" They feel like maybe they have missed something. And any man or woman over 50 is inclined to feel they missed considerable. Just what they missed is movingly told in "The Lawless Decade," by Paul Sann, executive editor of the New York Post, and George Hornby, a big beautiful prose and pictorial sage of the uninhibited flapper.

It was the heyday of a generation which sometimes liked to call itself lost — and finally did get lost — but really merely liked to burn the candle at both ends, and live always on the edge of ecstasy.

It was a time when people tried to cure their own self-doubts by mumbing the message of Emile Coue, a French peace-of-mind salesman: "Day by day in every way I'm getting better and better." That was the national, as well as the individual credo.

"Everything is getting better and better." And things did keep getting better — until they fell apart all at once.

It was a time that believed in free love and felt sure that money could buy anything, including happiness — and most politicians. Stock jest: "We got the best judges money can buy."

It was a time of liberty and license, of great literary experiment, of personal freedom, when there were still plenty of rules — but the rules were made to be broken.

It was a time of great heroes — Gertrude Ederle, Charles Lindbergh, Jack Dempsey, Babe Ruth, Bobby Jones, Bill Tilden, Red Grange, Clarence Darrow, H. L. Menckel.

And it was a time of terrible bans, including such gangster gentry as Al (Scarface) Capone and Dutch Schultz.

There were more than 500 gangster murders during the prohibition period in Chicago alone, and Capone's beer — brothel — gambling empire reached an income of $105,000,000 in a single year. Capone told a woman reporter: "They talk about me not being on the legitimate. Why, lady, nobody's on the legit when it comes down to cases, you know that."

It was a time when the flapper tried to prove she could do anything a man could — but actually succeeded only in being the worst-dressed woman in the history of mankind.

The symbol of the jazz age was a long trumpet stuttering in a smoke-filled speakeasy. The word that describes it best is probably "excess." Movie star Pola Negri spent $3,000 for mourning weeds, it was reported, after the death of Rudolph Valentino.

It was a time when anyone who didn't plunge in Wall Street was a sissy. And it all came to an end after the October panic of 1929 started selling waves that wiped out 30 billion dollars in paper values. The depression was the hangover that followed.

Looking back on the jazz age, Scott Fitzgerald, its prose poet, summed up: "It was an age of miracles, it was an age of art, it was an age of excess, and it was an age of satire. . . . I can only cry out that I have lost my splendid miracle. Come back, come back, oh glittering and white."

Not Much Optimism Seen Over Disarmament Parley

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—If there is a London explosion it will be the disarmament talks blowing up.

The United States and Russia—while their representatives in London have talked about disarmament five months—have been building up their armaments.

This, at least, is a tribute to their suspicion of each other.

It is against this background of suspicion—and getting ready, just in case—that the talks have been held, along with Britain, France and Canada.

It hardly makes for optimism about the outcome of the talks. There isn't much.

Now Secretary of State Dulles has gone to London for a personal look although Harold Stassen, the American representative, has been keeping this government informed. Dulles made the trip on orders from President Eisenhower.

Officials here said Dulles will decide whether to continue the talks or call them off.

If for no other reason than world opinion, Dulles may want the talks to go on so long as the Russians are willing to talk or listen.

In the end, therefore, the talks may wind up in a whisper.

Stassen hasn't actually been talking about any major disarming of this country. In a speech last week Dulles made it plain this country would keep its nuclear weapons.

Stassen has been talking about early first steps to build up some mutual trust like a suspension of nuclear tests and aerial and ground inspections.

Dulles last week even talked about opening the entire continental United States to inspection if the Russians would do the same with Russia.

This is going pretty far. And it would be a long way off in the future. And when Dulles said that, he didn't know whether Congress would ever approve of a plan like that.

Any agreement with Russia—such as another Dulles proposal on starting off with inspection limited to the Arctic Circle—would be thoroughly examined by Congress.

And Congress won't be able to do a thorough job until it returns in 1958. So any agreement could hardly go into effect before sometime next year.

But Dulles—just as Stassen before him—made proposals so hedged around with conditions that the Russians may say no anyway.

For example: There could be a 10-month suspension of nuclear weapons testing. But this was tied in with agreement on an inspection system which would have to be in business before the end of the 10 months.

But the Russians have proposed an immediate and unconditional end to nuclear weapons testing for two or three years and an agreement to outlaw the use of nuclear weapons.

The United States, to prevent big surprise attacks by either big power, wants aerial and ground inspection. Russia has accepted the principle of aerial and ground inspection.

But Russia isn't clear on what kind of ground inspection. Perhaps inspectors frozen in one spot. After five months of talk the London fog is still thick.

NEW YORK (AP)—Crop-reviving rain drenched parts of the parched Northeast yesterday. But farmlands remained dry and dusty in many other areas.

Farmers hopefully read U. S. Weather Bureau predictions of more rain in the Northeastern states later this week.

A million-dollar downpour dumped more than an inch of rain on eastern Long Island. Farmers said the storm saved crops there. Heavy rain and hail also fell in Westchester and Rockland counties near New York City.

Elsewhere in New York state, heavy rains eased the drought in the northern Hudson Valley. Streams went on a rampage. Some crops were even damaged by too much water.

In Massachusetts, the State Agriculture Department reported "a lot of rain" in the central section of the state. Severe drought conditions continued in the southeastern areas, however.

Showers in New Hampshire led Gov. Lane Dwinell to lift a five-day-old ban on smoking and open fires in woodlands of five southern counties.

Light rains in parts of New Jersey did little to relieve that state's worst drought in a century.

Rotarians Hear Jamboree Story

A first-hand report on the national Boy Scout Jamboree was given Greenville Rotarians last night by the Scoutmaster of the Pitt County Boy Scout troop and a member of the troop who attended the national event.

Mark McLawhorn of Winterville, scoutmaster of the Pitt County troop at the Jamboree, told his audience, "Some 50,000 boys from every state in the Union came to find out how other boys live and how they practice Scouting." Valley Forge, Pa., scene of the jamboree, was a tent city created with "the boys in mind," McLawhorn said.

He explained that the jamboree was divided into 38 areas with 1,400 to 1,600 boys in each area. The encampment had its own medical facilities in each area, its own hospital, fire department, post office and other facilities.

Marlowe Worthington of Winterville, one of the Boy Scouts in the Pitt County troop, said the swapping of items by the Scouts was a highlight of the jamboree. Shoulder patches, he said, were among the most popular items in trading between the Scouts. He told of entertainment planned for the Scouts. TV shows originating from the jamboree, and events in which the Scouts participated.

Dr. Earl Trevathan, who also attended the jamboree, termed the event "a magnificent, inspirational sight."

Machine Works Adding To Industrial Economy In Pitt

Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of articles on industries in Pitt County.

WINTERVILLE — There were men in and around Winterville with an idea not only for making money and providing needed ser-

HIGHLY SKILLED MECHANICS ... required by Winterville industry.

PRECISION MACHINERY ... expensive but practical vice but to bring additional industry to a farming county hurt by agricultural curbs.

The idea was carefully studied. As a result the Winterville Machine Works, Inc. was founded.

This corporation formed "because of the need of new industry in this area" has shown considerable growth in its youth.

At first the new industry, located in the building being utilized by the A. G. Cox Manufacturing Co., employed two workmen on a part time basis. Since March 15, the shop has grown in proportion and now employs five skilled workers on a full time basis.

The normal work day for the precision machine work shop is eight hours. Vernon Cox, General Manager, stated the shop is remaining open from 10 to 12 hours a day in order that contracts can be filled.

Equipment in the shop is composed of lathes, vertical milling machine, horizontal milling machine, surface grinder, bandsaw, cylindrical grinder, radial drill, metalizing equipment and welding outfits.

Cox stated, "We feel we have the best equipped machine shop in eastern North Carolina."

The equipment being used by the corporation is expensive and requires highly trained personnel for its operation. Since the shop opened new equipment has been purchased and installed with expansion being inevitable.

A large portion of work thus far has been in the manufacture of new parts and equipment.

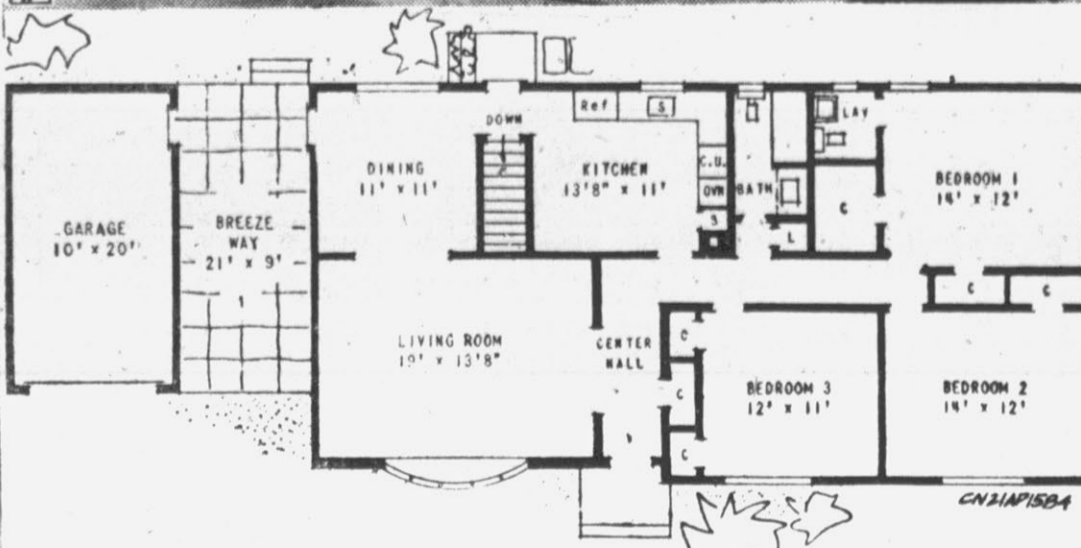

With the equipment on hand, the shop can easily do precision machine work and cylindrical and surface grinding. Cylindrical grinding can be done down to 1-10,000 of an inch.

Much emphasis is being placed on repair work. General Manager Cox states that up to 75 and 80 percent of the original cost can be saved on a sizable contract job.

Metallizing can be done for a fraction of the original cost. In this process precision machinery is used to rebuild metal onto or into a broken or worn piece of equipment.

The shop is centrally located in eastern North Carolina. Cox stated

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

A GRACIOUS living room, separated from the dining area only by a wide inviting arch, is one of the major virtues of this fine three-bedroom home. Over-all dimensions are 74' by 27', including breezeway and garage. It covers 1,458 square feet and is plan CN21AP1584 by Architect Lester Cohen, Room 75, 117 West 48th St., New York 36, N. Y.

ed this was done in order that towns and cities throughout the area might be equally served. Thus far contract work has been received from towns as much as 100 miles away.

In speaking of the relatively new industry Cox said, "Business is increasing and up to now has been beyond our expectations."

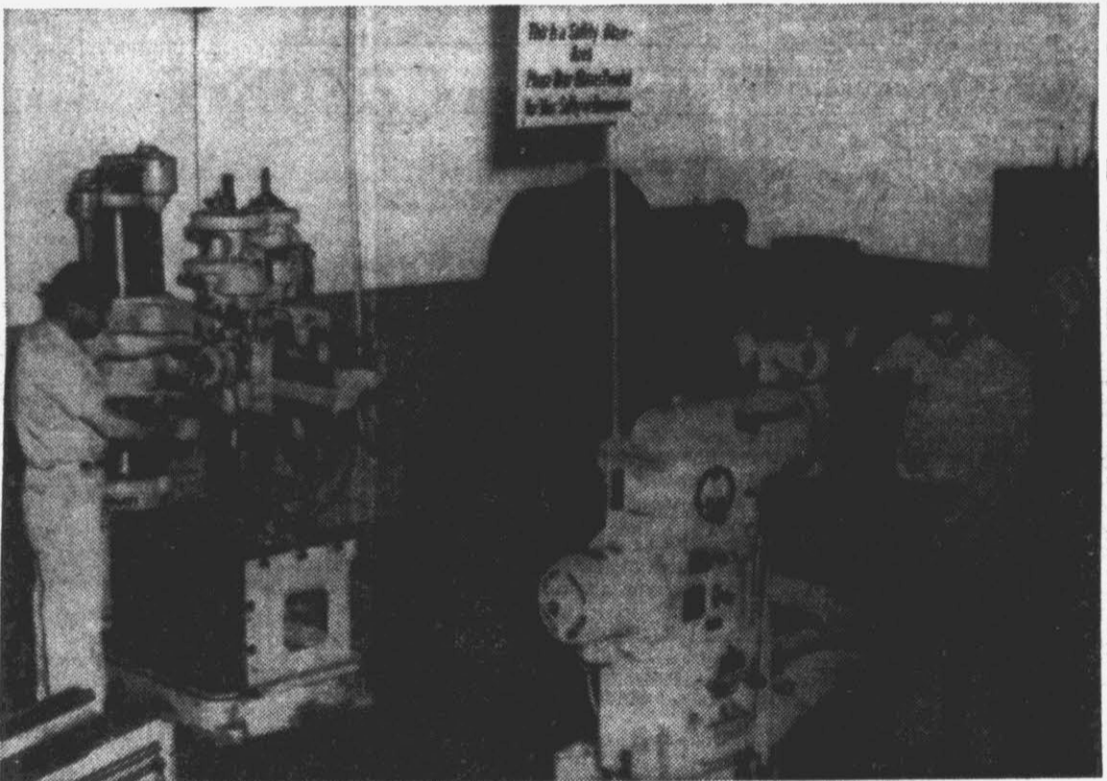

"We feel that an established machine shop will be of a decided advantage to this area since the location of new industry depends to some degree on quick and efficient equipment repair service. "The business here has just that. "As a result the shop, it is felt, will greatly enhance this area's chances of obtaining more industry in the future."

Thus far two new families have moved to Winterville, resulting from additional employment by the machine shop. Cox said the corporation is presently looking for still another man.

With future expansion and vacancies opening for additional mechanics, the shop will provide the town with added income. This to some degree will offset failures in other fields of endeavor.

At any rate Winterville residents are very optimistic about the future of their new industry.

Kindergarten Workshop At ECC Opens August 5

East Carolina College's sixth annual workshop for kindergarten teachers, scheduled for Monday, August 5, to Friday August 9, is expected to attract as participants teachers of kindergartens and of primary grades in the public schools, parents, and professional people interested in early childhood education.

Annie Mac Murray, faculty member of the college department of education and director of the East Carolina College kindergarten will head the staff of the workshop. Consultants will include a number of specialists in various areas related to the training of your children. Bobbie Pritchard and Ruth Jewell, representing the State Department of Public Instruction, will act as consultants in music. Others who will assist with the workshop are Dr. Joseph D. Franzoni, director of mental health services in the Pitt County Health Department; Dr. Earl Trevathan, Greenville pediatrician; and Dr. John Navarra of the East Carolina faculty, author of a number of textbooks and articles on science for young people.

Those completing requirements of the workshop will receive two quarters hours of college credit. Others may attend as auditors.

Topics relating to your children which will be discussed and demonstrated include music, physical and mental health, literature, and the creative arts. Emphasis will be placed also on effective ways of working with children and helpful relationships between parents and teachers.

Elizabeth Taylor Is Recuperating

NEW YORK (AP)—Showman Mike Todd says his pregnant wife, film star Elizabeth Taylor, appears to have escaped premature childbirth for the present.

"She's starting to scream at me," he said jokingly yesterday, "so I know she's feeling better."

Miss Taylor was taken to Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center last Thursday after she suffered premature labor pains. The baby is due in late October.

Todd said he was told his wife could leave the hospital in a few days.

rary disease since April. Malloy said the current crisis was brought about by an occlusion which blocked off the blood vessels nourishing the heart.

George has served as a special ambassador since retiring last January after serving 34 years in the Senate.

Walter George Critically Ailing

VIENNA, Ga. (AP)—Walter F. George, President Eisenhower's special ambassador to NATO, was reported in "very, very critical" condition last night from a coronary occlusion suffered a week ago.

Dr. J. L. Malloy, the 79-year-old former senator's hometown physician for 25 years, said George "is getting progressively weaker. He is in no pain but has difficulty breathing and has a shortness of breath. He is getting oxygen continuously. He is gradually getting weaker but it is possible even yet he may improve. The outlook for him, however, is very grave."

Malloy visited George about 10 p.m. He said Dr. J. Willis Hurst, chairman of the Emory University Medical Department of Atlanta, would be at the diplomat's side during the night.

Hurst treated George for 12 days in June while the former senator from Georgia was at Emory University Hospital. He entered the hospital June 12 for treatment of coronary atherosclerosis, or hardening of the artery that nourishes the heart. He has suffered a coro-

YER OUT!—Johnnie Reynolds, Tar Heel second baseman, is plainly called out as he digs for first base in the first inning of yesterday's Tar-Heel-North State contest at Elm Street Park. Reynolds' club came through to triumph 15-2 in the first round of the Area tourney.

WHACK!—Dixie Coltraine slams out a baseknock for the Tar Heels in the five-run second inning of the same game. Coltraine and his mates had a field day behind the pitching of Joe Harper. Every man on the club collected a hit. Wednesday, the Tar Heels will play either Tarboro or Havelock for the Area title.

Havelock, Tar Heels Win In Little League Tourney

Tourney Opens With Two Very Lopsided Contests

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

A pair of very lopsided games opened the Little League Area Tournament here yesterday afternoon at Elm Street Park.

An overflowing crowd watched Havelock trounce Morehead City 15-1 and the local Tar Heels wallop the North Staters 15-2.

Today, in the second round of play, Havelock will face Tarboro at 4:00. Greenville's Tar Heels will sit out a by today and will go to work tomorrow in the championship game.

Winner of today's game will battle the Tar Heels for the right to go to the District tournament.

Yesterday's first contest, Havelock had no trouble at all in disposing of the Morehead City club. The 15-1 score was the result of good Havelock slugging and a host of Morehead City errors.

Morehead scored their lone run in the final inning.

In the second contest, Joe Harper, the Pepsi-Cola pitching whiz who went all the way for the Tar Heels, scattered a meager handful of North State hits throughout the six innings to earn an easy 15-2 win.

Harper had plenty of backing from his Tar Heels, both at the plate and in the field. Every man on the Tar Heel club collected at least one hit in the triumph.

The North Staters started the scoring with one run in the first frame, while the Tar Heels remained scoreless. In the second, however, their opponents came back for five big runs. They struck for nine in the third inning and one in the fourth, to wind up their 15-2.

North State Coach R. B. Starling used five pitchers, all of whom were ineffective against the sharp hitting of the Tar Heels. He started with Gary Conway, then used Van Harris, Dan Johnson, Alton Clapp and Robby Powell, respectively.

Tomorrow's championship match is scheduled to begin at 4:00.

GHS Announces New Assistant Football Coach

City school officials today announced appointment of Odell L. Welborn of Burlington as an assistant football coach at Greenville High School.

Welborn, a graduate of Elon College and the University of North Carolina, will begin his duties this fall. He will serve as an assistant to Head Football Coach Bud Phillips.

In addition to his coaching, Welborn will teach General Science in the high school.

The new coach is a native of Thomasville and graduated from Thomasville High School in 1948. He was freshman coach at Elon for two years after completing requirements for an A.B. degree.

Welborn is 27 years old and is married. He and his wife do not have any children.

Coastal Leaguers Defeat Kinston

Greenville's Coastal Boys League All-Star team trounced Kinston last night in Kinston, 13-2, to wrap up their post-season activity for 1957.

The winners used four pitchers and held the host club to only one hit. Both Kinston runs were unearned.

It marked the first time in the history of the Coastal league that an All-Star team has met out-of-town opposition. The two clubs played twice and Greenville won both matches.

A spokesman for the Coastal League announced today that the barbecue that was originally planned to follow last night's game will be postponed for several days.

As soon as the barbecue planning committee reaches a decision as to a time, it will be announced in the Daily Reflector.

Still Thinks He Can Beat Floyd

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Pete Rademacher, the amateur, still thinks he'll beat professional heavyweight boxing champion, Floyd Patterson in their bout at Seattle next month.

After watching Patterson stop Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson last night, Rademacher told Nashville Tennessean Sports Editor Raymond Johnson by telephone: "I haven't changed my opinion that I can beat him. . . we saw a few things I have to work hard on."

Rademacher is in Columbus, Ga., training for his scheduled bout with Patterson in Seattle Aug. 22. The pro-amateur championship battle has been called fisticiana's most fantastic fight.

Cards Pushing For First Place

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, who has been either very good or very bad so far, looks as though he has his "comeback" in the bag as the St. Louis Cardinals continue to put the pressure on Milwaukee in that National League pennant race.

He went 11 innings to beat Cincinnati 4-3 and pitch the Cards into the lead July 5. And it was he who gave up that grand-slam home run to Gil Hodges in the wild ninth inning at Brooklyn July 18 as the Dodgers beat the Cards 11 and dumped them out of first place.

Last night, the 26-year-old lefty did all he could to help regain the lead, pitching a two-hitter, that beat Pittsburgh 4-0. It was the eighth victory—and third shut-out in 10 games for the Cards, who stayed second as Milwaukee staged a four-run ninth-inning rally.

The Dodgers' hold on third place was shaved to half a game as the Philadelphia Phillies, behind Robin Roberts' four-hitter, defeated the Chicago Cubs 6-0.

In the American, southpaw Billy Pierce won his 15th with a four-hitter as second-place Chicago whipped Baltimore, 5-0. Boston beat Cleveland 6-2 in the only other game scheduled.

Only two men reached base against Mizell, who gave up a single to Dick Groat and a double to Frank Thomas with two out in the fourth, then counted Roman Mejias among his six strikeouts to end the frame. It was the third victory of the month for Mizell, who moped into July with a 1-6 record. Now he's 4-7.

Wally Moon drove in two runs for the Cards, who managed just two runs, one unearned, off Charley (Whammy) Douglas despite seven walks in five innings from the young, one-eyed right-handed called up from Columbus American Assn. Sunday.

Expecting High Score In East-West Contest

GREENSBORO (AP)—The East and West All-Star basketball teams clash here tonight in what is expected to be a high-scoring contest.

The East team starters named by Coach Simon Terrell of Durham are Buck Hoadley and Bill Shinn of Raleigh, forwards; Bill Fenell of Wilmington, center, and Russell Hollers of Durham and Larry Lindsey of Youngsville, guards.

West Coach Tony Simeon of High Point said his starters would be Don King of Mineral Springs and Doug Albright of Greensboro, forwards; Eddie Burke of Burlington, center, and Dickie Culler of High Point and C. G. Hall of Tri-City, guards.

Headley and Lindsey are a well-known scoring combination. Hoadley averaged 20 points per game last season while Lindsey hit an astounding 28 per night.

King, Burke and Culler all averaged 20 points per game or better last year, too.

All the starters but Hall rated All-State berths last year, and he missed by a nose.

On the west bench as substitutes will be Richard Smith of Burlington, Floyd Crawford of Hickory, Tam Stafford of Salisbury, James Spence of Greensboro, Jerry Steele of Elkin and Buddy Jones of High Point.

Backing the East starters will be Alley Hart of Kinston, Roger Verhoeff of Southern Pines, Ted Telfman of Wilmington, Don Fish of Durham Northern, Bill Joyner of Dunn and Joe Markee of Durham.

East and West stand even-all in the series so far, each side having won four victories in past years.

While the cagers looked to immediate battle, the East and West All-Star football players were kicking up the scrimmage field in preparation for the grid game Friday night.

Jackson Admitted To Hospital After Fight

EAST MEADOW, N. Y. (AP)—Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, knocked by heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson last night, was rushed to a hospital early today, suffering from a urinary complaint.

His condition was described as fair at Meadowbrook hospital.

Whether the condition stemmed from blows suffered in his unsuccessful title quest was not known immediately.

His mother, Mrs. Georgia Jackson, took the boxer to the hospital by automobile at 4:30 a. m.

Jackson told hospital attendants he "felt bad."

Jackson's manager, Lippe Breidbart, told a newsman today in Manhattan he had not heard of Jackson going to a hospital.

Breidbart said Jackson and his mother, Mrs. Georgia Jackson, spent some time at Breidbart's hotel suite after the night, and the two started for the mother's home in St. Albans, Queens.

Mrs. Jackson wouldn't talk about her son's admittance to the hospital when queried at her home. She said she had seen Hurricane take "worse beatings" than he got last night.

Jackson's trainer, Whitey Binstein, said he gave Hurricane a hot bath, applied compresses to his face and put him to sleep at the hotel for a short time. He said Hurricane, his mother and other members of the family left the hotel for home about 2:30 a. m.

Hurricane "left here on his own," Binstein said at the hotel. He declared the fighter had been examined by a State Athletic Commission physician after the fight in the Polo Grounds and was pronounced O. K.

Patterson, appearing on an early morning TV show, said he had just learned of Jackson's hospitalization and would go to the bedside of the challenger at once.

Jackson's temperature was 102 when admitted, but subsided later to near normal.

Asked whether the 25-year-old fighter was mentally alert, doctors said he was under medication.

They undertook a series of chemical, X-ray and microscopic tests to pin down the exact nature of his ailment and the possible cause.

Dr. George Erickson, assistant superintendent of the hospital,

YOU CAN DIE LAUGHING By A.A. FAIR (ERLE STANLEY GARDNER)

CHAPTER 14 "My names' Donald Lam. I said, 'Here's one of my cards. Lucille Patton looked at the card. 'Who's B. Cool?'"

"Back to Los Angeles." "You're on an expense account, otherwise you wouldn't be running around here renting cars."

Fifteen minutes later we had another Manhattan. Twenty minutes later we had another Manhattan. The liquor had some effect on her and it had quite an effect on me.

"I was called in a few days ago to investigate a man by the name of Drury Wells; a client wanted to find his wife. I went to talk with Wells. Wells told me that they'd had a fight and his wife had gone away."

"I think," she said, "I have something to tell you, but I have to know a lot more about you before I start talking. The best way a girl can tell about a man is to go to dinner with him, to dance with him, and see what sort of approach he uses."

There was a juke box in the place and we did a little dancing. She was nice. I held her as close as I dared, and she flashed me a glance from time to time that did things to me.

"Anything else?" "Now we come to the hard part. Our client wouldn't pay us enough to complete the investigation. I had visions of a wife having been murdered. I called a friend on the police force and gave him the story. He went out, talked with the neighbor, came to the conclusion there'd been a murder. Wells wasn't around. The police officer put the house under twenty-four hour guard, hoping Wells would turn up."

"I think," she said, "I have something to tell you, but I have to know a lot more about you before I start talking. The best way a girl can tell about a man is to go to dinner with him, to dance with him, and see what sort of approach he uses."

An evening with Lucille almost results in Donald's being stranded at the airport. Continue "You Can Die Laughing" here tomorrow.

Advise Against Fluoroscope Use

RALEIGH (AP) - Because of the danger of radiation, North Carolina retail shoe dealers were warned today against the use of fluoroscopic (X-ray) devices in fitting shoes. Dr. William M. Peck, assistant director of the State Board of Health's Division of Epidemiology, said in a letter to the shoe dealers that "all X-radiations from fluoroscopes and X-ray equipment are harmful."

Warn Libel Trial Will Damage Reputations

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Despite a warning from the defense that "reputations of many persons will suffer if this case goes to trial," the court has turned down a proposed compromise agreement in the criminal libel case against Confidential magazine.

tendance yesterday. They included Walter Pidgeon, Corinne Calvet, Buddy Baer and Josephine Dillon, Clark Gable's first wife. Crowley explained they were called in an attempt to show their testimony that stories printed in the magazines were true. Members of the United States averages 175,000 forest fires a year.

BISSETTE'S

By CHARLES BISSETTE An "Oh, You Shouldn't Have" Surprise Lots of candles going on birthday cakes this summer. A good many weddings and anniversaries coming up, too. That means most of us will want a special gift for some close friend or relative. Take heart! You don't have to spend a lot of money for a really appreciated gift. Give a new camera that will be used for years to come. The Kodak Pony 135 Camera, for example, is a fine "miniature" that takes good color slides even on dull, overcast days. Easy to load and a cinch to use, the Pony 135 gets a "someone special" into color slides. Maybe you've always thought that movie cameras were too expensive to consider as gifts. We love to see peoples' faces when we tell them that a movie camera need not cost any more than a regular still camera. The famous Brownie Movie Camera, for example, takes movies indoor and out. Just aim and shoot to get action packed movies that are fun to show again and again. Easy on your gift budget, too. We've helped lots of people choose cameras and equipment for special gifts. Drop in soon—we'll be happy to help you, too.

A message of importance to everyone about to buy a new car: You can buy a FULLY EQUIPPED FORD with AIR CONDITIONING for less than many medium-priced cars without it! Depend upon Ford, the car that introduced the V-8 engine and other quality features to the low-price field, to bring air conditioning within reach of the average car buyer. To really appreciate this car you must drive it yourself. The fun begins when you turn your first corner. You turn it flat. No swing. No sway. Ford made this smooth, precise sports-car-type handling possible with its one-piece ride stabilizer, lower center of gravity, outboard-mounted rear springs and swept-back ball-joint front suspension. All of these working together give you a big-car ride... at the low Ford price. Before you consider any other car at any price, why not stop in and Cool Test one of our air-conditioned Fords? See if it doesn't change your ideas of just how comfortable and luxurious summer motoring can be. You'll love the life you lead in an air-conditioned Ford! *Based on comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices. YOUR LOCAL AUTHORIZED FORD DEALER

No One Injured In Two Accidents

No personal injuries were sustained in two automobile accidents on local streets yesterday. Traffic police cited two drivers for traffic violations, one on two counts, following their investigation of the two collisions. The accidents took place in less than a two hour interval. A Camp Lejeune Marine was charged with failure to stop for a red-light and no-operator's license after his 1951 vehicle crashed into the left front of another automobile at the intersection of Fifth and Green Sts. Franklin D. Harrison, 23-year-old Negro, was cited following the accident that took place at 11:30 a.m. The driver of the other vehicle, was identified as William Allen Darden, 64, of 805 E. Fourth St. Damage to both vehicles was estimated at $250. Property damage was also minor in the second accident that occurred shortly after noon yesterday. The two-car collision involved vehicles being operated by Isaac Anderson, 55-year-old Negro of 1413 W. Fifth St. and William Wright Sherrod, 30-year-old Negro of 416-B Tyson St. Sherrod was charged with operating a motor vehicle to the left of the center line. The collision took place at the intersection of Pamlico Ave. and Bonners Lane. Investigating officers estimated damage to the 1955 automobile being operated by Anderson to be $100. Damage to the 1953 pickup truck driven by Sherrod was also set at $100. The accident took place at 12:50 p.m.

First Lady Pays Visit In Denver

DENVER (U)—The nation's First Lady, Mamie Doud Eisenhower, returned to Denver yesterday, gracious and smiling and "very happy to be home." Denver area military and political leaders were at Lowry Air Force Base as the presidential plane Columbine III touched down on a Lowry runway. A moment later she eagerly asked: "Is Momma in the car?" She joined Mrs. Elvera Doud in a black limousine for the trip to the Brown Palace Hotel, where she will stay until Saturday. Thursday she will participate in ceremonies to dedicate the Mamie Doud Eisenhower Park in south Denver.

Youth Is Arrested On 'Peeping Tom' Charge

A stocky 17-year-old Negro was arrested on a "peeping tom" charge by City Police. The arrest came after the local department received a complaint late Sunday night from Maylon Edmondson who discovered the teenager peeping through his side bedroom window twice within an hour. In addition to the "peeping tom" charge Lester L. Blount of 1207-A S. Pitt St. has been charged with the carrying of a pair of prescription sunglasses and several packs of cigarettes from a parked automobile. The sun glasses, valued at $40, and cigarettes belonged to Godfrey Oakley of 1225 S. Washington St. Oakley told police the items were stolen from his automobile sometime between 11 p.m. Sunday night and 8 a.m. Monday morning. Blount, said to have been seen "hanging around" by several S. Washington St. residents in the past few weeks, was picked up shortly after Edmondson's complaint was received early Monday morning. He was charged yesterday afternoon after confessing to peeping into the Edmondson house, located at 1111 S. Washington St., and also to taking the missing items from the Oakley automobile. The first time Blount was seen looking into the window, Edmondson said that he hollered at him and he left. A short time later he came back and asked, "Are you asleep?" After this incident, the local police were called in and the Bermuda shorts clad Negro was apprehended and identified. He is presently in the City Jail awaiting trial in Municipal Court. It is the second peeping tom case in less than two weeks here.

Swift Creek Farm Bureau Hears Carl Hicks And Kenneth Whichard

Relationship of the Farm Bureau and the tobacco program was discussed by Carl T. Hicks of Swift Creek Farm Bureau last night. Hicks is president of the Stabilization Corporation, chairman of the Farm Bureau's Tobacco Committee and a director of Tobacco Associates. His discussion last night included a summary of how the Stabilization Corporation handles tobacco and a general discussion of the tobacco program in North Carolina. Also on the program was Kenneth Whichard, Pitt County Social Security caseworker. Whichard told the group that it is to the advantage of farmers to learn more about Social Security so that they can qualify for its benefits. Both speakers were introduced by Ralph C. Tucker, chairman of the Pitt County Farm Bureau's membership drive. Last night's meeting was the third this year for the Swift Creek group. Wiley Ray Hardee is president of the township bureau and vice-presidents are Benie Wilson, Truman Haddock, Glenn Wall and James Halstead. Mrs. Mattie B. Hardee is secretary-treasurer.

'Kissing Bandit' May Have Lacked Mother's Love

PASSAIC, N.J. (U) — Police say the mild-mannered youth they have dubbed the "Kissing Bandit" might have been lacking in mother's love. Stephen Greglich, 19, was charged yesterday with entering homes in his neighborhood and stealing or trying to steal kisses. Detective Capt. Victor Jaffe said Greglich was sent to an orphanage in Albany, N.Y., when he was 3. In his early teens, he worked for his stepfather in a gas station. Dr. Lloyd Morrow, a psychiatrist here, in discussing the case with Jaffe, said a yearning for mother love might have sent the youth prowling in search of his strange fulfillment. Jaffe said Greglich has confessed to seven such acts after a day and night grilling since he was picked up Saturday. Greglich faces a hearing today on the seven charges of assault and of breaking and entering.

Saved Husband And Upper Plate

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—A wife rescued her husband from drowning yesterday. She also recovered his false teeth. M. Sgt. Irvan L. Howe, 43, and his wife Marie, 41, were arguing on an Oakland pier when he suddenly jumped into 30 feet of murky bay water. Marie followed him in a graceful dive. She tucked him into a life ring bystanders tossed in, then went back under and recovered his upper plate.

New ECC Director Of Public Relations Named

Dr. Ralph F. W. Brimley, widely known throughout the state as an educator, will serve as Director of Public Relations and Foundations at East Carolina College, President John D. Messick of the college has announced. In this newly created position, Dr. Brimley will head the work of the college News Bureau and Alumni Office, organize and manage a speakers' bureau made up of college personnel, direct the extension and field service programs of the college, and carry out other duties in regard to public relations both on and off the campus. Through his office also a study of foundations interested in the advancement of education will be made.

DR. BRIMLEY

Dr. Brimley, a native of Raleigh, N. C., received his education at North Carolina State College, the University of North Carolina, and George Washington University, from which he holds the degree of doctor of education. He began his career as a teacher and school administrator in the Winston-Salem city schools, with which he was connected from 1928 to 1940. For the next seven years he was a faculty member of the department of education at Women's College of the University of North Carolina in Greensboro, where he studied and taught at George Washington University. In 1947 he became superintendent of Forsyth County schools in this state and continued in this office until 1956. For the past year he has been head of the department of education and psychology at Montreat College. Dr. Brimley's father and uncle were noted North Carolina scientists. His father, Dr. C. S. Brimley, who acted as president of the North Carolina Academy of Science and of the North Carolina Bird Club, is author of "Birds of North Carolina," "Insects of the South," and other works of scientific interest. Dr. Herbert Brimley, an uncle, was director of the State Museum. Dr. Brimley's wife is the former Louise Wood of Cleveland Township in Johnston County. They have two daughters, Mrs. Ann McNeill of Galax, Va., and Mrs. Jean Newton of Mooresville, and four grandchildren.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of an unusually light docket in Municipal Recorder's Court Monday. Only six defendants appeared before him, and the charges ranged from failure to give a signal in traffic to possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale. Eula Mae Staton, Negro, 609 Pamlico avenue, possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for sale, six months in prison, sentence to be suspended on payment of $300, costs deducted. The judgment also provides the defendant shall not possess any intoxicating liquor of any kind and she was placed on probation for three years. She gave notice of appeal to Superior Court. David Dixon, Negro, charged with driving without a license, failed to answer and a capias was issued for him. The court now pressed the case in which Lonnie E. Smith, 116 Hooker Road, was charged with being drunk. Billie V. Crenshaw, 1701 Beaumont Road, failure to yield right of way, prayer for judgment was continued on payment of costs. The judgment also provides that the defendant shall not drive a motor vehicle for seven days, and this cause was retained for further order. Marshall L. Evans Jr., 109 N. Harding street, prayer for judgment continued. Leaner Atkinson, Negro, 604 S. Alley, who was charged with being drunk and disorderly, was found guilty of disorderly conduct, and prayer for judgment was continued to the area. An inquest was set for later today.
