"Miss Greenville" Will Appear In Two Morehead City Parades

By ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Woman's Editor
During the next few days "Miss Greenville"—Ronita Respass—will be a busy girl actively participating in many of the phases of the Morehead City Centennial celebration.

Her agenda will include riding in the Water Parade Wednesday night and appearing Saturday in the Jubilee Street Parade—the largest parade in Morehead City's history.

Greenville's attractive dark-haired queen mentions, "I'm really looking forward to representing Greenville and seeing some of the girls I met at the 'Miss North Carolina Beauty Pageant.'"

Ronita leaves in the morning at the request of "Miss Morehead" who wrote her a month ago inviting her to come and join in the fun.

Upon arrival, Ronita will prepare to appear in the Water Parade and then be off to a square and round dance party that night where she plans to wear a full-skirted green cotton dress.

Thursday she will wear a red sheath dress to the Morehead City High School Band concert and that night she will be presented to the audience at the Little Theatre production. Open house will be held in many of the homes in Morehead that evening. She is looking forward to the "Fish Fry of the Century" Friday where there will be a table 100 yards long. Her schedule that evening calls for a Moonlight Boat Ride.

Saturday is the big day highlighted with the Jubilee Street Parade with Mr. Morehead as Honorary Parade Marshal. "Miss Greenville" will be wearing a white bathing suit in the parade.

Climaxing the fun-packed four days will be the Centennial Ball Saturday night. For this occasion she chooses a white lace cocktail dress which will accent her even tan.

While in Morehead, Ronita will stay at the Atlantic Beach Hotel as a guest of the city.

"MISS GREENVILLE" . . . leaves for Morehead City Celebration.

Plastic Rooster Holds Toys

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
Despairing mothers often wonder if their small fry ever will learn to put their toys away. They can learn—with the help of a little psychology. Simply make a rooster toy bag to hang on the foot of the crib. Constructed along the lines of a shoebag, it's easy to make and teaches children that it's fun to slip toys into its pockets.

Make the engaging rooster bag of sturdy, fabric-backed vinyl plastic, bright yellow for the body, gay orange for pockets, beak, comb and beady triangular eye. Trim the latter in plastic tape in a contrasting color—maybe red or blue.

Here's how to make it, according to directions from the experts at your local sewing center. Cut yellow plastic fabric in a fat "L" shape, with bottom measurement 21½ inches, height on left side 25 inches and on right side 13 inches. The top of the head measures 14 inches across.

For top row of pockets, cut a strip of orange plastic fabric 36 inches long and about four inches wide. Measure into three equal sections and mark with transparent tape. Never use pins when sewing on plastic, as they leave holes. Use transparent tape to divide top section of rooster into thirds. Match tape markers and stitch strip to rooster. Stitch ends down. Fold pockets so middle one measures four inches across and the two end pockets five inches across. Stitch on fold lines.

The two bottom rows have five pockets each, with the bottom row bigger and deeper than the other, to accommodate large toys. Follow same technique for other pockets. The eyes, beak and comb are cut from the orange plastic and stitched to the head of the rooster. A double thickness will help keep the comb and beak from going limp.

Plastic tape makes a neat edging. The bag could be made of fabric, but the plastic is easy to keep clean with a swipe of a sudsy

ROOSTER TOY BAG . . . Make it in plastic.

When stitching on plastic, remember to use a fine needle and light tension on your sewing machine. Baste and mark with transparent tape. Hang the rooster on the foot of the crib and you'll find that youngsters learn to put their toys to bed and like it.

Senators Lacked For Facts

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate fight on civil rights has been long on wind and short on facts.

For four weeks the senators split legal hairs and congratulated one another on their high-level handling of the civil rights bill.

On some of the biggest issues the senators—on both sides—were badly informed.

For example: On the number of Negroes registered to vote in the South they had no official information; on the number of Negroes serving on federal juries in the South they had no information until the last moment.

And on one basic bill of information the Justice Department—which was pushing the bill for the Eisenhower administration—fell flat on its face.

Last February the Senate Judiciary Committee asked the department for statistics going back to 1940 on all the civil rights complaints it had received and what happened to them.

The department answered (1) it didn't have sufficient records and (2) it couldn't get together the records it had in time to be included in the printed hearings of the committee before which Atty. Gen. Brownell had testified.

Take Negro voting in the South: There were no official records available on the number of would-be Negro voters registered in the South as a whole. The Southern Regional Council, a private organization, had made a Southwide survey of this in 1956.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) put the council's figures in the Congressional Record. Southerners challenged them. The council, with headquarters in Atlanta, is made up of Negroes and whites to promote racial cooperation.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC), insinuating the council was left-wing, offered as proof that the council's figures couldn't be right this statement: Nobody in South Carolina knows how many Negroes were registered in 1956.

Why? Because until a law was passed this spring, registering would-be voters by race was neither practiced nor required.

At the start of the debate this writer—hoping to check official Southern registration figures state by state to check against the council's—called the office of Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), captain of the Southern anti-civil-rights fight.

His office had neither figures for Georgia nor those for the South as a whole.

The Democratic and Republican national committees, with headquarters in Washington, might be expected to be a primary source of information on voter registration, including Negroes, throughout the country.

This writer called both committees, asking the figures on Southern Negro registration. Both committees said the only figures they had on this were from the Southern Regional Council.

On the number of Negroes serving on federal juries in the South: There is no doubt some serve on those juries, but far fewer on state juries. How many serve on federal juries? And how many Negroes serve in proportion to the number of whites on federal juries? Nobody knows.

Supporters of an amendment to let Negroes serve on federal juries in the South—by bypassing state laws which might discriminate against them—at the last minute wired federal judges in the South for information.

Twenty-three answers were received. They were not announced in the Senate until a few hours—and in some cases a few minutes—before the vote on the amendment. Only one of the 23 judges gave figures. He said about 18 to 20 per cent of his jurors are Negroes.

The rest—with three exceptions—simply said Negroes serve or serve regularly. The three said a proportionate number of Negroes—compared with whites—serve.

The lack of this kind of information—about an amendment which was intended to remedy a situation on which no one had facts—was illustrated neatly by Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.), long-time foe of civil rights legislation.

He insisted Negroes serve in most of Mississippi's counties. Sen. Carroll (D-Colo.) asked him: How many counties? Eastland didn't know. Carroll asked him what percentage of Mississippi Negroes serve on juries. Eastland said: "I do not have any idea."

Cobalt, Canada, has a sidewalk "paved with silver." In truth, it is a sidewalk in which some silver ore was tossed into the wet concrete.

No 'Victory' For The South Alone

Senator Russell of Georgia and those who have rallied round him to fight the vicious civil rights legislation proposed by the Eisenhower administration have succeeded in preventing the passage of so-called civil rights legislation which would place in jeopardy more of the rights of individuals than it would guarantee.

It must be gratifying not only to the people of the South, but to those throughout the nation that the civil rights bill now before the Senate is one which keeps within reason the authority granted officials to enforce the rights of individual citizens. It is a bill which provides for the protection of voting rights of citizens without affording an appointed official the authority to arbitrarily deny the rights of some citizens in protecting the rights of others.

While Southern senators formed the solid core of opposition to the administration's civil rights measure, it cannot be said that opposition from these Southern Senators kept the administration's civil rights measure from passing. Indeed, the issues at stake were much more broad than just a regional dispute between the South and the rest of the country.

The issues involved were fundamental to the civil rights of all citizens of the nation. Senators from the North, East and West, as well as those from the South recognized the unprecedented and dangerous powers which the initial bill proposed to vest in the hands of the Attorney General. They recognized the fact that such a bill, proposed under the pretense of protecting individual civil rights, would actually set the stage for denying by administrative decree the rights of individual citizens.

They were determined the bill in its original form would not be written into law. In spite of all the pressure the administration, the President himself and his specifically appointed spokesmen could muster, these senators from all parts of the nation stood by their convictions. To them, every American citizen owes a debt of gratitude for preventing the passage of legislation which could have and would have made individual rights subject to the whims of the Attorney General, armed with almost unlimited power.

While proponents of the civil rights measure sought to make it appear necessary for the protection of civil rights, the majority of the Senate, as recent votes verify, saw it in its true perspective and would have no part in passing it in its original form.

These last few days of the Senate action have indeed been days of victory for the protection of the rights of individual American citizens.

Not Much Isolation For Area Epidemics

The Surgeon General's expectations the U. S. will see a large outbreak of Asian influenza this fall or winter, calls to mind Americans are no longer completely quarantined from human, plant or animal diseases that may erupt in other parts of the world.

Oceans today seem less of an obstacle to the spread of germs or virus . . . rather, it would appear, they offer swift avenues for possible delivery of distant plagues.

The airways too provide for "express" delivery as planes arrive every hour from the Middle East, the Far East, Africa, South and Central America, Europe and even the polar regions.

The growing rapidity of movement for people and cargoes over the earth has brought with it the growing hazard of spreading diseases. Routine measures of safeguarding public health constantly are improving, but with each decade the problem becomes increasingly difficult.

It is no longer fantasy to suggest that health conditions in Leopoldville, Taipei, Cairo, Tehran, Sao Paulo and Nome are of vital concern to Americans.

The head of the Public Health Service said there had been about 11,000 cases of Asian flu in this country, all of them mild. Cold weather is expected to trigger a large outbreak.

Textbook About N.C. Tax Laws

By LYNN NISBET

TAXES—The impact of State and local taxes levied on corporations and individuals in North Carolina is set forth in laymen language in a recent publication of the Department of Conservation and Development. Text of the booklet was prepared by the Department of Tax Research, after consultation with budget, finance and other State departments, and members of the study commission which formulated the 1957 State tax laws.

Intended primarily for use in the current campaign for industrial development in the state, the little blue-backed book might well be used as a text in high school and college classes in economics and government. While recognizing that each corporation has its own special problems, and each community has its own method of appraisal and rate of ad valorem levy, the little book offers in the smallest possible package a general concept of the State and local tax "package" payable in North Carolina.

CORPORATIONS—Every corporation doing business in North Carolina must pay a charter or domestication fee of 40 cents per $1,000 authorized capital stock, with a minimum of $40. That fee is paid only once.

Each corporation also must pay an annual franchise tax ranging from a minimum of $10 up, based on a formula of interest only to the companies liable for the tax.

Every corporation doing business in North Carolina also must pay 6 per cent tax on its "taxable income." The little book makes no reference to recent changes in the law, but sets out the tax liability under the 1957 act.

Change in the income tax liability formula for corporations was the heart of the program sponsored by Governor Hodges to attract new business to the state. Net effect of the revised formula was to relieve corporations doing business in other states of $7-10 million a year income taxes, by levying only on income earned in North Carolina.

A significant paragraph in the booklet reads: "In recognition of the fact that there is no perfect formula, North Carolina in 1953 created a tax review board to deal with unique corporate situations in regard to allocation. For protection of the taxpayer proceedings before this administrative board are on a confidential basis."

The review board is wholly ex-officio, consisting of the State

Treasurer, the chairman of the Utilities Commission, the Commissioner of Revenue and the Director of Tax Research.

There is detailed explanation of the intangibles and general sales taxes as applicable to corporations. Principal differences are that many purchases by business organizations are at the wholesale rate of 1-20th of one percent while most individual purchases require payment of the 3 per cent sales tax; and corporations get credit (or deduction) on their franchise taxes for whatever intangible tax they pay on bank deposits.

Except for these differentials the applications of State taxes is about the same on corporations, because of specific exemptions and a graduated scale of tax rates. To greater degree than in most states, the new revenue laws in North Carolina treat corporations as individuals when it comes tax paying time.

LOCAL—The widest variance in tax levies occurs at local level, counties and municipalities. The State collects no ad valorem taxes. Major part of local government revenue comes from that source, although there are some local privilege license fees. Local taxes generally are lower than in most states because major responsibility for roads and schools rests upon the State.

Except for public utilities properties, which are valued by a State Board of Assessments, taxable valuation of real property is the sole responsibility of county commissioners. The assessment values range from 20 per cent to 70 per cent of true value, and county tax rates vary from 62 cents to $2.00 per $100 valuation. The little book says that the average tax value is probably not more than 40 per cent of true market price, and the "weighted average" of the tax rate is about 1.09.

This wide variance in percentage of valuation and local tax rate makes it extremely difficult to present a statewide "tax package" to interested outsiders. Further complications occur in the overlapping of municipal and county tax levies.

The little book makes it clear that while North Carolina has general tax laws of statewide application, as to franchise, income and property taxes, the impact of these taxes on any corporation depends to considerable extent on individual peculiarities in corporate structure and specific location of the business.

Puzzle About Wives

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the subjects husbands like to discuss is the odd behavior of their wives.

This is particularly true around this time of year, when the New York Yankees have as usual taken a commanding lead in the American League, and there is very little else to talk about anyway.

The other evening I was attending an informal kitchen caucus of husbands at a party, when one suddenly volunteered:

"The thing I can't understand about my wife is why she likes to get up and prow around the house at night after everyone else is asleep."

There was a moment's silence, then every other husband present exclaimed in a surprised chorus:

"Does your wife do that, too?" Well, apparently all wives are prowling insomniacs. Each husband testified that, scores of times in his marital career, he had awakened to find his better half padding around the premises all alone.

What do the wives do after they get up? Here are a few replies the husbands made:

"My wife stares down at me mutters, 'How can you sleep so peacefully, you big oaf?'" and then goes into the living room, curls up on the sofa and watches the late late show."

"Mine fixes herself some hot milk, then reads last week's newspapers."

"Mine goes to the bathroom, and washes her hair."

"Mine just goes to the bathroom."

"Mine walks around from room to room in the dark, like Lady Macbeth. Really eerie."

"Mine repairs the air conditioner—whether it needs it or not."

"Mine just gets out a picture of us on our wedding day—and yawns at it."

"Mine likes to fix windows. If they're open she closes them. If they are closed, she opens them."

"I'm not sure what my wife does. One I got up and told her, and she turned around in the dark and said, 'What are you doing up? You'll wake the baby. Go back to bed. If I want your company, I'll ask for it.' So I went back to bed."

The question then arose as to why the average wife can't sleep eight hours without getting up to make at least one midnight or predawn patrol of the house. All the husbands agreed it wasn't because of illness.

"My wife says it's because there was too much garlic in the salad," said one.

"My wife just says she's restless," observed another and several husbands remarked their wives had made the same excuse.

"You know why I think they can't sleep at night?" offered one young hen-pecked husband. "It's because their conscience is bothering them—for all the mean things they said to us the day before."

Could this really be possible? The husbands looked at each other in wild surmise.

"Nonsense!" broke in a time-worn old husband, wise in the ways of wives.

"It isn't insomnia—and it isn't their conscience. Did you ever stay home and watch how wives operate? They work half an hour, then flop on a couch and nap for 15 minutes."

"Then they get up and go to the grocery store, and come home and nap for 15 minutes. Then they get up and dust the furniture for half an hour, then flop on the couch for another quick quarter hour of shut-eye. So it goes all day long."

"By nightfall they've put in a 12-hour day, all right, just like they brag. But one third of the time—four full hours—they spend taking naps. No wonder they complain they can't sleep at night, and get up and prow the house."

Well, wives? We pause for reply.

Only Rich Have Inflation Hedge

By ELMER ROESSNER

A reader writes that I have alarmed him by saying the purchasing power of the American dollar will continue to fall.

That makes two of us, at least. Then he asks what he can do to protect himself against further decline. "I have only a small income," he writes, "and I do not want to cut down on eating or clothes wearing."

At the moment there has been a swirl of statements and opinions in Washington and elsewhere that inflationary pressures have weakened and that no further decline in the value of the dollar is immediate.

The cost of living rose in July, as figures will show when totaled, and it will probably rise this month, too. A new wave of wage rises and price rises has begun. Higher costs of living higher industrial prices and higher wages simply mean a decline in the value of the dollar. And that's inflation.

PROBLEM OF HEDGING—Next time you see a newspaper or magazine story saying "no more inflation" or words to that effect, cut it out and put it in your wallet. Then when your grocer tells you prices have gone up, pull the clipping and show it to him. Then you can both laugh and laugh!

Back to the question—If your income comes from a private pension, an annuity or from insurance payments, there's nothing you can do about it. You can just take grim satisfaction in the fact that you are one of the little fellows who are paying for the inflationary fireworks show. If your income is from Social Security, about the only thing you can do is to join the clamor for higher benefits, which seem sure to come eventually.

If your income comes from bonds or savings, you aren't so bad off if you are getting current interest rates. Banks and savings and loan associations have been raising their dividend upward of 3 per cent with security is available today. If you are not getting at least that much, look around. Such interest more than offsets the depreciation of your capital.

STOCKS AND REAL ESTATE—If your income comes from good stocks and sound real estate, don't worry. Common stocks and real estate generally move in price in the same direction as the purchasing power of the dollar. They also increase with industrial, population and other economic growth factors.

FREDONIA, N. Y., CENSOR: "Mao-Tse-tung is now reported to have admitted that 800,000 people were liquidated by his regime up to 1954. The news seems cold in print. But it should be dwelled upon. . . . How many regimes in all history have executed as many as 800,000 human beings?"

This question was once asked of Jesus: "Are there few that are saved? And He said unto them, Strive to enter into the straight gate: for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in and shall not be able."

Many people in recent generations have asked the same question: "Am I saved? Are the members of my family or my friends saved? Are there many people in my community who will be listed among the saved?"

We should note that our Lord did not give a definite answer to the question but said simply: "Strive to enter in at the straight gate."

Observations At Random

Literary note:

I have completed "Peyton Place" . . . the new best-seller by Grace Metalious. It is a book that is easy to read; fairly interesting; and overflowing with sex.

It is not, however, The Great American Novel. Now that I have that out of the way, I'll leave other literary comment to Dr. Ed Hirshberg. And I'll ask the good doctor to forgive me for moving onto property and into comment that is properly his.

A thought that usually comes to me about once a month is one wondering why more people don't visit meetings of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

The meetings are open to the public, the commissioners handle public affairs, and they welcome visitors to their meetings. About the only persons who ever show up, however, are those with some sort of axe to grind.

It would, no doubt, be quite an experience for some folks to drop in on the meetings.

These cool nights are reminders that football season is less than a month away. Practice for the high school team will start next week, and the college players will get into the act September 1.

Football will be welcome—if for no other reason than the cool days it brings with it. It will also offer those of us who are not baseball fans an exciting spectator sport.

The looking-forward-to-football feeling, however, also brings the casual thought that if football comes, basketball can't be far behind.

Thoughts of football also bring to mind a wondering if College Stadium has recovered yet from the visit of the Horseless Carriage Caravan two weeks ago.

Four of us who went to see the old cars expressed amazement at the time that the football field would have been opened wide to the 66 old cars and the crowds that came to see them.

After all, we figured, the field had been pampered and guarded all summer long—and then opened to the caravan only a month before football practice began.

I don't suppose any lasting damage was done to the field, but it would be bad to have an ECC halfback stumble in one of the stake holes dug for convenience of the caravan.

Progress report on Wee Wee: That Boy now has a nice set of teeth, with more on the way, and handles himself very nicely in the walking department. He tries to talk, but is usually unsuccessful in doing anything more than jabbering.

He has, however, mastered one word: cookie. He has also perfected a finger-pointing gesture to use with the word.

The combination works to his advantage, too, even with hard-hearted parents who once said they didn't want him to realize there were such things as cookies.

ROSEBURG, ORE., NEWS-REVIEW: "The Hells Canyon project has become an exceptionally good political propaganda vehicle. . . . This issue has been played out of all proportion to its economic factors. . . . Although the differences between the proposed construction plans are of comparatively minor importance, the project puts the principles of public and private power in direct opposition to one another. . . ."

So many still flaming political coals as Brownell. GRUDGE AGAINST ATTORNEY GENERAL: The rarely mentioned but deeply felt grudge against the A.G. in both political and legal circles is that he commended the appointment of Earl Warren as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. Brownell made a special trip to California to ascertain Warren's views and attitudes, and he was so satisfied that he submitted no other name to Eisenhower.

The Warren tribunal's recent decisions have been questioned and criticized by the American Bar Association at its London session, by the Association of State Attorneys General and by numerous law enforcement agencies, from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover down to the lowliest town constable.

But Brownell refuses to voice an opinion for whatever influence it might have on the high court, although that is his privilege. POORLY PREPARED BRIEFS.

Other Editors Saying--- 'Low Cost' Housing

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

In one of his well publicized remarks the late Franklin D. Roosevelt spoke feelingly of the third of the population he said was "ill-housed" and otherwise shabbily treated in the depression era.

He never explained how he knew that exactly 33 1-3 per cent of the people didn't have proper homes. He didn't even say where he drew the line between proper housing and sub-standard housing. Indoor toilets and running water once made the difference.

But nowadays the yardstick is price, and some rather fantastic ideas are current as the housing industry calls on the government to do something about sagging sales of homes.

It now appears that the administration will not be in a great hurry to implement the reduced down payments permissible under the housing law just enacted by Congress. As long as prices for labor and materials are still rising the administration reasonably feels that lower down payments on government-backed home loans would be inflationary.

The anticipated howls are now forthcoming from the housing industry. Held forth is the prospect of a dire shortage of "low cost" housing by the first of the year. What's especially interesting about this purported imminent shortage is the type of housing that's now considered "low cost." The "low cost" homes, the builders say, will not be available next year range in price from $10,000 to $20,000. The shortage is envisioned unless the government reduces FHA down payments to the authorized all-time low figure and thereby makes it possible for more families to get their feet in the doors of these "low cost" $20,000 homes.

If a $20,000 house is now in the "low cost" category the people and even the politicians will have to revise their thinking about what constitutes privilege. There must be a lot of underprivileged people around if "low cost" homes run up to $20,000 in price and anything under $10,000 is unmentionable.

By the new definition millions of families are living in sub-standard quarters. Perhaps if Franklin D. Roosevelt were still alive he would now say that two-thirds of the people were "ill-housed."

What isn't clear about the supposedly imminent shortage of "low cost" housing is how it possibly could develop when so few families have enough income to afford even a measly $20,000 house. The National Housing Conference figures it would require more than $190 a month to pay mortgage principal and interest, taxes, insurance and utility bills on a $20,000 house.

Consider other rising family expenses that would call for an annual income of more than $11,000. Fewer than 5 per cent of the families in the country have that much income.

By RAY TUCKER WASHINGTON Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., will be given the major blame—or credit—by foes and friends of the Civil Rights Bill, if Congress fails to pass it in a year.

Peaches Need Few Trimmings

It's Peach Time in Carolina! This year the supply is plentiful and delicious. A luscious fresh peach needs few trimmings.

Ripe sliced peaches with a bit of sugar and plenty of rich cream make about the best dish imaginable from the standpoint of taste and ease of preparation. The fresh peach season seems to fly by and it seems almost inconceivable that anyone would tire of peaches and cream three times a day; and eat-in "out of hand" for between meal snacks.

Just in case you should desire a change take your choice of peaches and ice cream or peach ice cream, peach pies, puddings, shortcakes, salads, and the various ways they may be used. By all means don't forget to freeze or conserve peaches for the months when the fresh ones aren't available.

For a few ideas of ways to use peaches you might try the following:

PEACH GINGER FRAPPE
3-4 cup sliced peaches
Sugar
1 pint peach or vanilla ice cream
Ginger ale

Mash peaches with a fork and add sugar to taste. Place in 6 glasses and add the ice cream. Fill glasses with ginger ale. 6 servings.

PEACH & BERRY COTTAGE RING
1 pkg. lemon-flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water

3-4 cup cold water
1 cup berries
8 to 10 peach slices
Lettuce
Cottage Cheese
Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add cold water; chill until syrupy; then spoon a little into bottom of ring mold. Stir in berries. Spoon remaining gelatin over top. Tuck in-ring of sliced peaches around edge. Chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce or other greens. Fill center with cottage cheese. 6 generous servings.

BAKED PEACHES
6 fresh peaches
2 tablespoons butter
1-4 cup brown sugar
Cream
Peel peaches, cut in halves and remove pits. Place in a baking dish with cut sides up. Dot with butter and sprinkle with sugar. Bake in a hot oven (400 deg. F.) for 15 to 20 minutes. Serve warm with cream, or ice cream. 6 servings.

IGY Scientists Today Take Cues From Their Own World Calendar

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter
We are living under a special world calendar.

It runs into January of 1959 and is studded with special days which could bring prizes of great new discoveries.

The calendar is that of the International Geophysical Year, the mammoth cooperative effort by 10,000 scientists of 61 nations to solve mysteries of the world we live in. IGY extends from July 1, 1957, to Dec. 31, 1958.

It finds scientists fanned out over oceans, mountains, plains, islands, and snows of the South Pole, the frozen reaches of the Arctic.

With old and new instruments, they are making intensive studies of weather, the sun, cosmic rays, the ionosphere or electrified layer of air above us, magnetism, earthquakes, gravity, glaciers and oceans.

Key Is Cooperation
The key to IGY is cooperation. Scientists in one country can gain only a partial understanding of weather, or world-wide effects of cosmic rays, or changes in magnetism or other forces.

But by making nearly simultaneous observations around the world, and then sharing all they learn, they can in effect take world-wide "pictures" of the earth and the forces affecting our globe and our lives.

That is where the IGY calendar comes in. It provides special dates for special, intensified studies. There are three ways of doing this.

One is through "regular world days," three to four each month, selected in advance. Some come at the new moon — a favorable time for observing the aurora or Northern or Southern Lights, the mysterious faint airglow around the earth, and meteors. Others fall at times of unusual annual showers of meteors.

On world days, scientists will usually fire rockets which reach very high into the air to probe weather, temperature, ionosphere, and other phenomena.

Two Eclipses
Two world days come at times of eclipses of the sun — Oct. 23, 1957, and Oct. 12, 1958. Scientists of several nations will join in special observations in the eclipse paths.

Selected in advance, also, are 10-day World Meteorological Intervals. There are six coinciding with the seasons — fall, winter, spring and summer — during IGY.

These will be times of special efforts to study weather and the upper atmosphere.

Thirdly are unpredictable Special World Intervals, called when the sun bursts forth with tremendous flares or activity. These solar explosions have vast effects on the ionosphere, cosmic ray showers, magnetism, the aurora.

Scientists keeping steady watch on the sun will issue alerts when the sun will issue alerts when the sun undergoes unusual pro-technics. A world-wide warning system studies until the sun goes back to will flash word to scientists around the world for intensified studies until the sun goes back to more normal activity.

Bids To Soothe Cuban Feelings

HAVANA (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith called at the Foreign Ministry yesterday in an effort to smooth official feelings ruffled by his criticism of police action in Santiago de Cuba.

A ministry spokesman said he had reassured Minister of State Gonzalo Gueil that the United States "will not intervene politically" in Cuban affairs.

"The friendship between our nations was emphasized, as well as traditional historic ties," the spokesman added.

Smith drew sharp words from Cuban newspapers and officials last week for his criticism of the dousing with fire hoses of a women's anti-government rally. The rally was staged while Smith was visiting Santiago de Cuba.

The State Department subsequently announced that the United States is adhering to its "traditional policy of nonintervention" in Cuba's current political strife and called for a full report from Smith of the Santiago incident.

Akron Code Is For Motherhood

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—In Akron it is against the law to desert "expectant female dogs."

This little used provision of the Municipal Code came to light recently when an Akron man, Howard L. White, moved to a nearby trailer camp.

Dog Warden Cornelius Yarman charged White with animal desertion for failing to take with him his black fox terrier who, Yarman said, "is an expectant female."

Youth Charged In Jail Escape

BRISTOL, Va. (AP)—Eugene Dillard, 20, of Bristol, Va. was arrested yesterday and charged with aiding in the escape of six prisoners from the city jail, bringing to three the number arrested in connection with the escape.

Apprehended previously were Dillard's 19-year-old wife, who was bound over to the grand jury at a hearing yesterday, and a 15-year-old boy whose hearing was scheduled today.

Dogs And Mouse Bit The Mailmen

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fifty-three dogs and one mouse bit Miami postmen last year.

Rain Made Him Richer By $13

PARIS, Ky. (AP) — Dollars not pennies from heaven made a teenager here $13 richer.
 Standing near a church for shelter, Jimmy Caywood, 15, spied a ball of wet paper at the mouth of a downspout. He picked it up and found it was a wad of 13 one dollar bills, apparently washed out of pipe by the rain.

 Police were unable to find the owner and returned the money to Caywood.

Deny Differences On Budget System

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both the White House and Secretary of Defense Wilson have denied reports that Wilson and President Eisenhower disagree on a proposed new budget system.

"There is no difference of opinion whatsoever," Wilson said in a statement yesterday.

"Definitely misinterpretations," said White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, commenting on newspaper accounts which said Wilson's views conflicted with Eisenhower's.

The reported difference was over a budget change bill, recommended by the Hoover Commission and supported by Eisenhower. It would provide for year-to-year appropriations by Congress for federal departments, even though some of their major projects would require money in more than one year.

Two days ago, a House Appropriations subcommittee made public a transcript of some Wilson testimony in a secret session July 1. It quoted him as saying, "I do not believe in partial financing."

In his statement yesterday, Wilson said of his subcommittee testimony: "The subject matter under discussion at the time was the so-called partial financing of procurement. I made only one passing reference to the accrued annual expenditure proposal."

Under that proposal, departments would be given only contract authority for projects extending beyond one year. They would get the cash for such programs, and the appropriations are carried over from year to year.

Wilson said his department is studying means of applying the

Conditioned To Dried-Up Lake

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—When it finally rained hard here, it was too much for a flock of 38 geese at the Chillicothe Indian School.

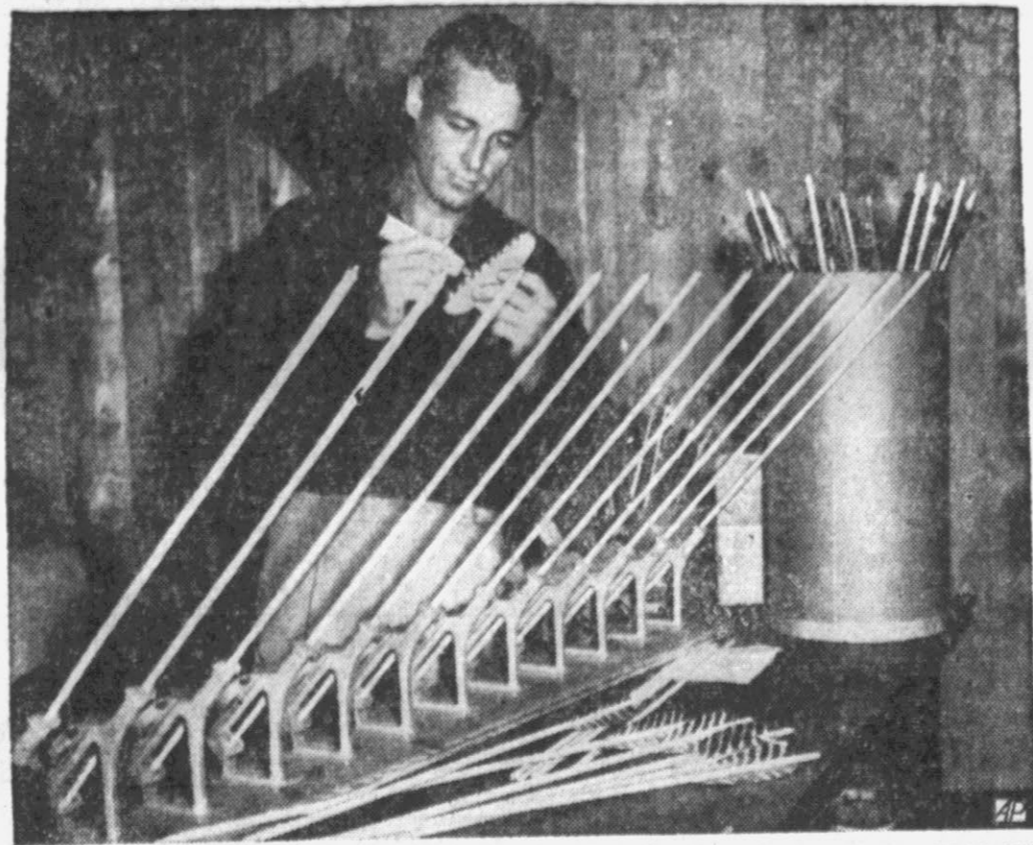

The fowl were accustomed to the drought-stricken lake-bed which has been dry. When it began to fill up with rainwater, the geese didn't know what was happening and ran for the dry bank.

Concrete Mixer Was His Loot

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Circuit Judge William J. Kirby sentenced James Hicks and Raymond Terry to one-year suspended terms when observed:

"I've seen everything now."

The charge: stealing a concrete mixer from a warehouse.

BULLETS TO ARROWS — Guy Madison, whose archery hobby contrasts with his TV role of gun-slinging Wild Bill Hickok, prepares feather for arrow shaft in Hollywood workshop.

Governor Addresses Highway Meeting

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges told members of the State Highway Commission yesterday, as they assembled here for a two-day meeting, that "We are launching... a new era in highway administration in North Carolina."

He also asserted that the purpose of proposed secondary road construction standards, under consideration at the meeting, is to "give the average citizen an equal chance with anyone else to get this road improved or paved if it meets statewide standards, and the money is available."

The governor addressed the new seven-member commission at an extended session, called so that the commissioners could become acquainted with the work of the department.

Highway Director W. F. Babcock announced the promotion of Cameron Waddell Lee from division highway engineer to the new post of assistant highway director.

The 42-year-old Asheville native has been an engineer of the 14th Highway Division at Sylva since October, 1955. His salary in the new post will be $12,000.

Lee joined the commission in 1955 as a roadman on construction work in the Waynesville office and later served as junior resident en-

Two Differences In Twin Sisters

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash. (AP)—There are two notable differences in Port Townsend's twin Foy sisters.

1. Cecile Annette is valedictorian of her 1957 high school graduating class and Yvonne Marie is salutatorian.

2. Cecile has a straight "A" record for four years. Yvonne has one lonely, miserable "B" to mar her record.

Otherwise the 17-year-old twins are like the proverbial peas in a pod. Both were named after the Dionne quintuplets, on whose birthday anniversary they were born in 1939. They plan to go to different colleges.

YOU CAN DIE LAUGHING
By A.A. FAIR (ERLE STANLEY GARDNER)

CHAPTER 20
I went over to where I'd left the agency heap and drove down to the sheriff's office. A deputy who was friendly to me put the call through to Texas and I traced the license number on Corning's car. It was his car all right. He lived in San Antonio. The deputy called the sheriff in San Antonio. He knew Corning. Corning was a fast trader. He had made a fortune out of getting options on oil property. He was considered a ruthless fighter, a bad man to cross, and had the reputation of being just about as slick as they come.

by his widow, that all of the property in Texas was given to the widow, that there was a fifteen-thousand-dollar bequest and a section of land in San Bernardino County that was left to his niece, Yvonne Clymer.

A little scouting around had disclosed that Yvonne Clymer had lived in Burbank but was not Mrs. Drury Wells. The girl had phoned a friend they were going to Banning to live. The editor thought it would make a good local-interest story. He'd telephoned a Banning correspondent to look into it. The Banning correspondent had reported that Mrs. Wells was easy on the eyes. So they'd decided to send out a photographer and make a short feature with plenty of cheese-cake.

I got the name of the correspondent in Banning and drove out there. It was getting dark by the time I pulled in. I hunted the guy up and bought him a drink.

He remembered the case very well. He'd gone to Wells and had been the first to give him the news. Mrs. Wells had been on a trip visiting relatives but was about due home. Wells said he'd phone her and get her back. He took the correspondent's number and said he'd telephone as soon as she got back home. The next morning he'd telephoned and—

"The next morning?" I asked.

"That's right, the next morning."

"Not that night?"

"She was somewhere in Sacramento. She flew right back," he explained.

"I see. So he telephoned you and you went out there?"

"That's right."

"And then what happened?"

"As soon as I saw this babe, I knew she'd make swell copy. So I telephoned the desk in San Bernardino to see how far they wanted me to go. The editor said it'd be good for a feature, and he was sending out a reporter and photographer. He said the art would make the story — cheese-cake."

"Did you feel sore he sent out another man?"

"No. It showed the editor thought I'd dug up a good story. This is sideline with me. I do some free lancing. I'm working for a steady job."

"Do you know anything about the property?"

"Hell, no. I couldn't build up any reader-enthusiasm over a section of land out in the desert, but I knew I could sure get reader-enthusiasm over the equipment this Mrs. Wells had."

"Can you give me the address of the place they were living?"

"It's in that article," he said. "You have a copy of that, haven't you?"

"That's right."

"It's a rented house," he said. "They hadn't been there very long. I didn't find out too much about Wells. I imagine he's a drifter and just between you and me, Lam, I wouldn't be surprised if there was something phony about the wedding ceremony."

"What makes you say that?"

"Oh, just the way you get impressions when you interview people. A certain atmosphere of domesticity was lacking, and this babe— Hell, I don't know. I just got an impression. You know how those things go."

"All I was after was the story of the local housewife who had inherited fifteen thousand smackeroos and a section of land from a rich Texas relative. It would have been an average story if she'd been homely and had toilworn hands and unpaid bills. When I saw Mrs. Wells, I knew the babe's legs would make it a swell story. They made it okay."

"You didn't talk with any of the neighbors, or anything?"

"No. I got the facts and lined up the story. The leg photos were what made it interesting. Now tell me, what is all the shooting about?"

"I said, 'I'm interested in trying to find Mrs. Wells."

"Why?"

"There are some documents that should be signed."

"The Wellises are in Los Angeles someplace," he said. "What's the angle on the documents? Anything that would make me a story?"

"Somebody wants to make an offer on the property."

"Why?"

"I shrugged my shoulders.

"Now, look," he said, "let me know if any sale goes through, or if you find out anything more. We always like to get a followup on these local stories. That country up around Yucca is hotter than a stove lid right now. It seems like half of Los Angeles is moving up there."

"Okay," I told him. "I'll let you know if we get anything of great interest. Thanks for the buggy ride."

"Somebody must be awfully damned anxious to buy that property," he said thoughtfully.

"I don't think so," I told him.

"Somebody might be awfully anxious to steal it, but I don't think anybody wants to pay very much of a price for it."

"Anyhow, you're trying to find her?"

"That's right."

"That might make a story."

"Not now, it wouldn't. It might later on."

"If I hold off publishing anything now, you'll give me anything that comes up later on?"

"That's a deal," I told him. "provided there's any release to the press, I'll give you the inside track."

"Okay," he told me. "That'll help."

I spent Saturday night in a motel in Banning. No one knew where I was.

The mountain air was cold and dry and clear. The motel was back a block from the highway. I went to sleep listening to the muted sound of traffic from the main highway — huge trucks roaring their way up the pass from the Imperial Valley, and in the background the high-pitched whine of speeding automobiles. I woke up to a crisp, clear Sunday morning. I dressed, shaved, went to a restaurant, had amber coffee and cream, a thick slice of ham and a couple of eggs. I finished up with an extra order of toast and another cup of coffee, then got in the agency car, glided down the highway to the turn-off to Twenty-nine Palms and was soon climbing the winding grade which lifted me up above the pass onto a plateau well covered with weird Joshua trees, huge straggly shapes which thrust grotesque arms up into the deep blue of the sky.

I had been worried and tense the night before. Now I had a feeling of calm relaxation and the assurance that things would come out all right. The mountain air had done its work.

Observers Think Another Kremlin Shakeup Coming

By WARREN ROGERS JR.
WASHINGTON (AP)—Diplomatic officials speculated today that new jobs may be in the offing for Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov. The speculation about another Kremlin shakeup was inspired by the circumstances surrounding party boss Nikita Khrushchev's rendezvous in Romania Thursday and Friday with Yugoslav President Tito.

Bulganin missed those talks—believed to have dealt with prime satellite political topics—and also was omitted from the list of officials joining Khrushchev in a scheduled visit this week to East Germany. Speculating on new Kremlin moves is an uncertain business at best, diplomatic officials conceded, but they hazarded guesses that:

1. Bulganin, noticeably shrinking in prominence since Khrushchev thwarted an attack on his leadership last June, might be kicked upstairs to the presidency. This powerless post now is held by the aging Klement Voroshilov.
2. Zhukov, President Eisenhower's World War II comrade in arms, might succeed Bulganin as premier, giving Khrushchev a chance to cash in on Zhukov, making official a general belief that Zhukov now rates second only to Khrushchev in Russian power. But there has been speculation abroad that the premiership might go instead to Anastas Mikoyan, the deputy premier and economic expert named to accompany

Navy Band Goes Native; Beats Out Rhythm On Old Oil Drums

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—What may be the first "All American" steel band will make its North American debut at Chicago before the year is out. That is the word from the 10th Naval District here, where a group of United States sailors have mastered the peculiar art of making music from steel oil drums. It all started when somebody found out that putting dents of different sizes in the top of a 55-gallon drum, you could get several different notes out of one drum. By trial and error, Trinidadians found that by using the whole drum a deep bass was achieved; that by cutting it in various lengths the range of the notes could be changed.

Progress was continuous—and today the "ping pong drum"—which carries the melody—has a range of 24 notes. The range of a complete set of drums covers four octaves. Last February, Rear Adm. Daniel V. Gallery, commandant of the 10th Naval District here, visited Trinidad at carnival time. He was so taken by the music of the steel drums he ordered a set. When the drums were ready, he ordered the Navy's band here to go to Trinidad for a week and learn to play them. Even though many thought a week would not be enough, the boys did well. Upon their return, they began appearing at Navy benefits and charity affairs outside the base. They have been a howling success. Now they are about ready to go to the States, probably to Chicago, but the date has not been fixed. The band plays all kinds of music, from the West Indian calypso to slow "boleros" and foxtrots. Even "From the Halls of Montezuma" has been played by the band to a calypso-like rhythm. Leader of the band is Chief Musician Charles A. Roepert of Butler, Pa. He plays the "ping pong drum" which carries the tune. He sees "a great possibility that steel bands will increase not only in Puerto Rico, but also on the mainland." "Lots of people will be sold on the idea," he says. "It's fun to play the steel drums. The music is popular and the instruments are inexpensive and easy to make. It's a natural for high school bands."

Khrushchev to East Germany. The State Department yesterday declined comment on such speculation. Bulganin is widely reported to have sided with deposed Soviet leaders Georgi Malenkov and V. M. Molotov during the fateful Central Committee struggle last June 22-29. Ever since, he has taken a conspicuous back seat. Soviet spokesmen in East Berlin denied Bulganin was staying home from East Germany because of illness. They said Mikoyan was going along because economic matters would be discussed and he is an economic expert. But in denying that Bulganin was ill, the spokesmen neither confirmed nor denied that he was on the skids politically. Moscow radio said Bulganin, along with Khrushchev, Zhukov and other Soviet leaders, attended the reception given yesterday by a visiting Syrian dignitary. He also was present with them at a World Youth Festival party in the Kremlin last night.

Cold-Blooded Idea Confirmed
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—An Internal Revenue Service agent volunteered to donate blood to a hospitalized friend, and a nurse's suspicions were confirmed. Finding the agent's temperature two degrees below normal, she refused his offer, declaring: "I always knew those tax collectors are cold-blooded."
CATS QUARANTINED
HAMLET, N.C. (AP)—There'll be no yowling on the back fences here for three months, Richmond County Health Officer Julian Harris has put all the cats in town under 90-day quarantine since a survey under stry kitten died of what the state laboratory diagnosed as rabies. Norfolk expects to have a government television network in operation by 1960.

Okay Pan-Am Highway Link
PANAMA (AP)—The Pan-American Highway Congress last night approved preliminary plans for the last major, 100-million-dollar link in the hemispheric thoroughfare. The United States is expected to foot two thirds of the bill. The committee approved an engineering report saying it was feasible to span the 465 miles of jungle between Panama and Colombia. Then it adopted a formula for the financing of preconstruction surveys. The formula is expected to be applied also to construction costs. It was estimated that a survey for the Panama portion of the route will take 14 months and cost about $1,400,000. Additional surveys must be made on the Colombian side before the final route can be recommended. The financing plan calls for the United States to contribute two thirds, Panama and Colombia two ninths and the other Latin-American countries the other ninth.

Long Journey Back And Forth
AUGUSTA, Ky. (AP)—Robert Workman doesn't mind spending eight hours a day on his job—it's the trip back and forth that hurts. He lives 55 miles from his office. For three years, he has been starting his day by rowing across the Ohio river to the Ohio side, where he is picked up by a car-pool driver. Tristan de Cunha is a small group of volcanic islands in the South Atlantic, having a population of 165.

Getting It Back Piece By Piece
LAKE WALES, Fla. (AP)—Donald E. Jones is getting his stolen motor scooter back piece by piece. It was taken several months ago by two youngsters who dismantled it and sold the parts. Every now and then the sheriff's office finds another piece of it and returns it to Jones. The American Bible Society has distributed more than 40 million volumes of the Holy Scriptures to men in the U. S. Armed Services.

Tar Heels Meet Charlotte For State Championship

Greenville Club Whips Gastonia 5-4 In Opener

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor
FAYETTEVILLE — Greenville's Tar Heel Little Leaguers and Charlotte battled this afternoon at 4:00 for the State Little League baseball crown and the right to advance to the Southern Regionals at Rome, Ga., next week.

Yesterday, at Fort Bragg Field, both teams won out in the first round of the playoff. Greenville dropped Gastonia 5-4 and Charlotte trimmed Shelby 10-2.

The spit-and-leather Tar Heels, playing determined baseball all the way, overcame a three-run Gastonia lead to record their victory. A home run blast by J. G. Proctor won it.

Gastonia ran up three rapid runs in the first inning against Greenville pitcher Joe Harper. Coach Charlie Bland relieved Harper in favor of Denny Hardee, who quipped the first in the first frame. Proctor's big blast came in base and pushed it to 5-3 in Greenville's favor. The Tar Heels had picked up two runs in the bottom of the first.

Three Hits
Gastonia picked up only three hits during the game. All three baseknocks were charged against Harper in the first frame. Hardee didn't allow a hit and struck out eight batters in claiming the victory.

The Gastonia club tallied one final time in the sixth inning. The run was unearned and was scored on an error.

Greenville picked up two runs in the bottom half of the first inning when Kenny Joyner and Hardee scored. Joyner got on on a single and Hardee walked.

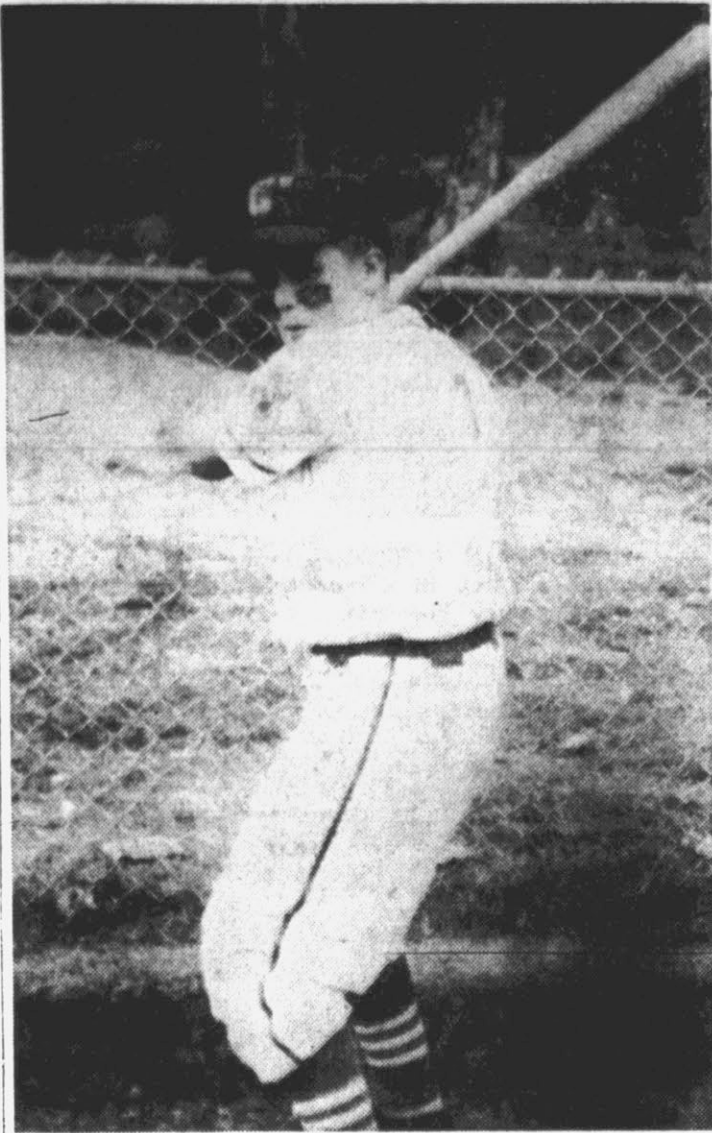

The Big One
In the third inning, Johnnie Reynolds went to first on an error by the pitcher. Hardee walked again to put two men on base. Proctor, the husky leftfielder, then unleashed his out-of-the-park drive.

Hardee, after being given the lead, held onto it, allowing only the run in the bottom of the sixth. Greenville batters slammed out five hits in winning the ball game. Johnnie Reynolds was the only one to get more than one knock. Joyner, Proctor and Jimmy Smith got the others.

Today's Game
Though Coaches Charlie Bland and Billy Dunn have not yet named their starting pitcher for today's contest, they have four hurlers from which to choose. Ken Joyner, Robby Ange, Frank Harper and Bernie Morris are all listed on the Tar Heel roster as pitchers.

A crowd of approximately 75 fans from Greenville attended the game to form a rousing cheering section for the Tar Heel aggregation.

Coastal Action

The Coastal Boys Little Leaguers will wind up their 1957 baseball season Wednesday night at 7:30, when they tangle with the Pactolus All-Stars at South Greenville Park.
Refreshments are to be served to all after the game, according to Coastal League President George Garrett.

Chicago Could Be End Of The Line For Lou Boudreau

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Like Bobby Bragan of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Lou Boudreau may find Chicago is the end of the line in his job as a major league manager.

Boudreau will send his floundering Kansas City Athletics against the Chicago White Sox tonight in the opener of a three-game series in the Windy City.

It was there that the Pirates gave Bragan the heave-ho during a series with the Chicago Cubs last week.

Only a sharp transformation of the Athletics into a fiery, winning ball club against the Sox can relieve the pressure on the personable 40-year-old Boudreau, according to rumors here.
The team lost 12 of 14 games on its road trip—the last seven in a row—and acts as if it is living on tranquilizer pills.
McGuff who travels with the team, wrote the club is "understandably in a disorganized state" as a result of rumors about Boudreau.

He said, "The club appears to be bordering on a complete collapse."

Arnold Johnson, Athletics president, is back at his home in Chicago and has promised a decision on Boudreau this week. Parke Carroll, vice president and business manager, made an unscheduled trip to Chicago to join the club last night.

Carroll says confusion on the club has caused the players to tighten up.

One Man Show

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Bobby Ivey of Greenville, S.C. put on a one-man show last night in the National Boys baseball tournament by leading his team to a 9-7 victory over Pittsburgh.

Ivey blasted out a double and single and knocked in six runs. Sunday Ivey pitched his team to a 4-1 two-hit victory over Joliet, Ill.

Joliet was knocked out of the double elimination tourney last night when Springfield, Ill., rallied for four runs in the sixth inning, and a 5-4 victory. Joliet was leading 4-1 when Springfield put on its splurge on three walks, an error and hits by Bucky Stufflebeam, Harry Becker and Jack Gardner.

Durham, N. C.—The Duke University football team of 1957 represents 14 states and the District of Columbia. North Carolina is the leading state with 34 players, with Pennsylvania second with 11. Other states are: Virginia 6, Ohio 3, Delaware 2, West Virginia 2, District of Columbia 2, Indiana 2, New York, Georgia, Illinois, Texas, Minnesota, South Carolina, and Florida 1 each.

Swansboro Downs CP Team

JACKSONVILLE — Swansboro defeated the Coastal Plain Little Leaguers here yesterday in the opening day of the District Seven Little League tournament. The score was 5-4.

Coastal Plain's club, composed of boys from Winterville, Grifton, and Vanceboro, fell behind in the first inning. Swansboro scored a run on an error to jump into a 1-0 lead. Coastal Plain tallied twice in the second, but fell behind again when the Swansboro club scored in the fifth and seventh.

John Pate was the winning Swansboro hurler, going the full distance and giving up only five hits. Ernest Lofter was the loser.

Hitting for the Coastal Plain club were Hobgood, Barwick, Miller and McLawhorn.

Durham, N. C.—Bob Cox, head freshman coach at Duke, was a former Duke grid star in the 30's. Halfback Cox led the 1933 team in scoring with 11 touchdowns.

With 8 Weeks Left, Cards Have A Half-Game Lead

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press
With less than eight weeks remaining, that bustling National League pennant race may have a strange windup. The honored home advantage may prove to be like Jonah and the whale—it ain't necessarily so.

St. Louis, in first place by half a game, has more games remaining on the road (29) than at home (22). But the Cards are tops in the league with a 30-18 road mark for a .625 percentage.

Second-place Milwaukee has 25 left at home, 25 left on the road—but it shouldn't matter either way. The Braves are exactly the same at home (31-21) as away.

Brooklyn's third-place Dodgers are best at home with a 31-20 record and play 26 of their remaining 50 at Ebbets Field. But that home bulge is padded with a 16-4 record against the tallenders and the remaining 26 games in Ebbets are split evenly among contenders and the three-team second division.

Cincinnati splits its remaining 50 at home and away, with a 30-22 record at Crosley Field and a 28-24 mark abroad. Philadelphia has 26 remaining at home, 23 away, but the Phillies have been only slightly better in Connie Mack Stadium (23-23) than on the road (29-25).

The Dodgers added to their "get fat" trick against the Little Three with a 5-2 victory over the New York Giants last night in the only NL game scheduled. Cleveland ended the New York Yankees' winning streak at eight games with a 7-2 decision in the only American League contest.

The Brooks, now 2 1/2 games out of first, broke a 2-2 tie with a fifth-inning run that scored without a hit, then added two more in the seventh to overcome Willie Mays' one-man show for the Giants. The Dodgers couldn't stop Mays, who had four hits including his 25th homer good for two runs, until they had to.

Mays came up with two out and two on in the ninth. Clem Labine relieved Don Drysdale and nailed Willie on an infield grounder.

Ray Crone lost it, with the Brooks taking the lead as Junior Gilliam walked stole second and moved around on a long fly, and Elmer Vale's infield chopper.

Mike Garcia, who hadn't beaten the Yankees since Aug. 3, 1955, got the job done for the Indians with a nine-hitter. He walked six, but left 11 runners on base and was backed up by Gene Wood-Creed, 18-year-old Opelousas, La., ling's homer and a bases-loaded single that drove in five runs. Don Larsen lost it to remain winless against Cleveland in his career.

Top Golfers Ready For World Tournament

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO (AP)—Virtually all the top-name golf pros were girding themselves today for the start of the game's richest event—the $101,200 "World" championship.

While they waited for practice rounds on the Tam O'Shanter course where the battle for a $50,000 first prize and $50,000 exhibition tour contract begins a 72-hole grind Thursday, talk centered on Gene Littler.

Littler's course record-matching 63 yesterday all but rubbed out the fact that Roberto de Vicenzo won the All American title.

It was Littler's last-round effort that drew the applause, and not De Vicenzo's final 70 which gave the hefty Argentine, now a club pro in Mexico City, a 72-hole tally of 273 — 15 under par — and the $3,500 first prize.

Littler's final round, equaling Lloyd Mangrum's mark set in 1948, ballooned him to second place with 277, worth $2,900.

Sam Snead was third with 278. Then followed Paul Harney with 279 and Art Wall Jr., Dow Finsterwald, Fred Hawkins and Bob Rosburg at 281.

Littler would have won a $10,000 prize for breaking the tourney mark if he eagled the last hole. Probably with thoughts of Lew Worsham's feat of 1953, when he eagled the 18th to win the "World" crown with the last shot in the field, Littler pulled out a wedge.

He was 120 yards away. The shot was near perfect. It hit in front of the pin and skidded to a stop 2 1/2 feet beyond. He was down with a burdie 3.

"But where I really lost the record was on the sixth hole," said Littler, who has won the Tournament of Champions in Las Vegas three years in a row. "On the 445-yard sixth hole, a wedge shot hit the pin and stopped eight inches away. I got a par 4, but if the pin had been out, I'd have gone in."

The other All American winners: Men's amateur — Crooner Don Cherry with 295 for a one-stroke margin over Howard Everitt, Northfield, N.J., salesman.

Women's pro — Patty Berg for the fifth time with 302, a two-stroke edge over Jackie Pung in winning the $1,500 top prize. Women amateurs — Clifford Ann Creed, 18-year-old Opelousas, La., player with 320 for a 12-stroke bulge over Lois Drafke of Chicago and Sandra Clifford, Mexico City, against Cleveland in his career.

Referee May Be Sole Judge Now

NORTH BEND, Wash. (AP)—The Washington State Athletic Commission today decided to leave the verdict in the Pete Rademacher-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title fight Aug. 22 in the sole hands of the referee.

Dr. Charles P. Larson of Tacoma, commission chairman, said there would be no judges for the scheduled 15-round bout at near Seattle between Patterson, the young punch-for-pay champion, and Rademacher, the Olympic titlist.

Larson said the name of the referee would be announced within a few days. Larson said six nationally-known figures were under consideration.

All-Stars Ready For Contest

Plenty Of Quarterback Talent For Schoolboys

CHICAGO (AP) — There'll be no shortage of quarterback talent with the College All-Stars this year.

Coach Curly Lambeau, with a vivid recollection of what happened when the Stars were dumped by Cleveland 26-0 last year, has four of the nation's best quarterbacks ready for the New York Giants Friday night at Soldier Field. They are Paul Hornung of Notre Dame, John Brodie of Stanford, Len Dawson of Purdue and Jim Harris, who directed Oklahoma to the national collegiate title.

Last year the All-Stars started fast with All America Earl Morrall of Michigan State as quarterback. Morrall had the collegians marching towards the Cleveland goal when he was injured and taken out of the game.

After that, the Stars were unable to put together a serious offensive threat and Cleveland coasted to victory.

Two years ago when the Stars defeated Cleveland, 30-27, it was largely the leadership of quarterback Ralph Guglielmi of Notre Dame who inspired the triumph.

If the Stars are to beat the Giants—current 10-point favorites—either Hornung, Dawson, Brodie or Harris will have to turn in a professional job. All have the capabilities and an indication of their potential is the fact that all but Harris were first choice picks in the National Football League draft.

TIME AND TITHE. DURANGO, Colo. (AP) — During the early 1890s, there was a church here that was maintained largely by cattle rustlers, bank robbers, and roustabouts.

Everyone liked the minister, and on the wall of the principal gambling casino there was a box which bore this legend: "Don't forget Parson Hoge."

The casino's patrons contributed generously.

The novel, "Gone With the Wind," has been translated into thirty languages, more than "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Dodgers May Be Moving To Stop Willie Mays' Slugging

By DON WEISS
BROOKLYN (AP) — There's no truth to the rumor the Dodgers are getting away from Ebbets Field solely to rob Willie Mays of his favorite home run target.

Solely, no. Partially? Maybe. Willie's hit 177 home runs during his brilliant career with the New York Giants and 26 have banged into the red-painted seats beyond the cozy Ebbets Field walls while Brooklyn pitchers glared in disgust.

The spectacular Giant center fielder put on one of his more prolific shows last night, getting his 26th Ebbets Field homer and three singles.

Only in his last time at bat did he fail to hit safely and it hurt his evening. With two out in the ninth and two on base, Willie swung from the heels for the homer that would tie the score. He managed to hit an easy infield bouncer that ended the game.

"I never can hit homers when I go for one," he said disgustedly in the dressing room. "And I was really shooting the works that one time. I never hit a home run yet that I was trying to hit."

No one is going to blame Mays too much, however. He's on his own late season streak and not only Brooklyn pitchers have been victimized.

In his last 11 games, he has hit at a 408 pace with 22 hits in 47 at bats. He's clouted 8 home runs, 6 in his last five games, and has driven in 12 runs.

Bowden, Uncle Sam's First 3-Minute Man, Seeks Records

By JACK STEVENSON
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Uncle Sam's first son to run the mile in less than four minutes figures to reach his prime about the time of the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome.

Lanky Don Bowden of the University of California qualified for the U. S. Olympic team in the 1,500 meters, or metric mile, for 1956, but illness ruined his chances.

His aims in running the mile are to beat John Landy's record of 3:58 and come up with a good showing in the next Olympics.

Bowden is 20, stands 6-feet-3 and weighs about 160. He says, "It's proven that distance runners don't reach a peak until they're about 25. So I figure I have another four or five years to run."

He'd like a chance to run on European tracks such as the one at Turku, Finland, where Landy set his mark in 1954. Bowden's time of 3:58.7 was just seven-tenths of a second off the record on a balmy night at Stockton, Calif.

Bowden's one big effort came without prior announcement. Most had expected the long striding pre-law student to run the 800 the night he came up with his great mile.

"I planned to run a four-minute pace as long as I could," says the runner. "After three laps I felt great and I just hoped I could push it, and I was able to."

Bowden and his coach, Brutus Hamilton, had prepared quietly for the assault on the four-minute mile. At Stockton they figured they'd have the necessary weather and track conditions.

Hamilton, who coached another great U. S. miler, Glenn Cunningham, while at Kansas, brought Bowden along slowly after injuries and, after qualifying for the Olympic team, was hit by mononucleosis, a blood ailment.

This season Bowden concentrated on the half-mile, which he prefers to the mile. He won the Pacific Coast Conference championship in 1:47.8, fourth best half-mile in track annals.

"I feel I'm not strong enough to run several fast miles yet," he says. "Next year I'll do it more often."

Don says he never has measured his long stride and hasn't yet the experience to pace himself exactly.

"But I know pretty well, how fast I'm going," he admits. "That was proven when he ran the laps at Stockton in 59.7 seconds, 61.1, 59.8 and 58.1. A faster second lap and he might have beaten Landy's 3:58."

Two Submarines Collide At Sea

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Atlantic Fleet submarines collided at sea early today. The vessels were damaged slightly but the crews escaped injury, the Navy reported.

Squadron 6 at Norfolk, Va. The vessels are headed for New London under their own power. The Navy said the submarines were engaged in routine submerged operations when they collided at 4:39 a. m. about 100 miles south of New London. The commanders of both vessels reported "only minor damage and no injuries to personnel." The Navy said that an investigation will be conducted.

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newfeatures

Funny situation I got into the other day at a photo gathering. Unknowingly, I had started chatting with a couple of skin diving fanatics and before I knew it they had submerged me in talk of underwater equipment, optics and the great world of new subject matter for photography.

Personally I like it up here in the fresh air and sunshine. Who needs new worlds to conquer when the present surfaces of the picture possibilities have barely been scratched? But the start of another summer season spotlights the fast growing sport of skin diving all over the country and, as more people go underwater, they're taking more cameras with them.

Now meet skin diving specialist, Elgin Ciampi, who started in Bermuda in 1943. The following year, Uncle Sam considerably stationed his Army unit in Hawaii where he could pursue his underwater life. As a former president of his high school camera club, he began to think of photography in relation to his new hobby. In time they merged and, along with writing, the underwater world became a career. Late last year his first book was published by Barnes, "Underwater Guide to Marine Life." Recently the Standard Camera Corporation published in pamphlet form his "Photography Underwater." Take it under, Ciampi!

"You can begin your underwater experiences in a pool, lake or any convenient body of water, with swim fins and goggles," Ciampi said. "The most inexpensive underwater housing for a camera is a flexible, plastic gadget called a Volit camera bag. It'll hold a box Brownie or a small movie camera. You operate the controls by squeezing the plastic and holding the regular knobs or levers. It may seem clumsy at first but with practice you can take pictures. It is important to tighten all the connections properly to avoid water leakage, especially at greater depths.

"In outdoor pools, with the sun shining, the exposure underwater is up to five feet down is the same as in air. With a box camera in the plastic bag you can get pictures with the slower or fine grain films.

"Indoor pools present more of a lighting problem. If they have a skylight, then you can use the fast pan films and shoot when the sun is overhead or shining brightly. Otherwise you can arrange photofloods along the pool edge aimed at a small area and confine your underwater shooting to that spot.

"The four basic rules for beginners are: 1. Don't move the camera. Swim to your position and stop for actual shooting. If you're shooting some one else, have them glide slowly toward you to minimize movement. 2. Shoot close. Light disperses rapidly underwater and you have to be within six to eight feet to make clear pictures. 3. Use backlighting. It adds interest and contrast which you need in underwater shots. 4. Don't shoot down. Underwater subjects taken from a higher angle look flat and seem to lack depth.

"When you get beyond the beginner's stage, there's quite a selection of underwater equipment. . . . All too expensive," I muttered. . . . "but as more people go into it, the prices will come down. "Or you can make your own underwater housing out of rigid sheet plastic. It's just a plastic box with watertight edges to hold a camera and perhaps an exposure meter. The simplest one needs two gadgets to operate the trigger mechanism and the winding mechanism. These gadgets are "7" ring seals which can be had from aqualing centers in New York and California. They are watertight connections which permit a quarter-inch shaft to operate the controls.

"I prefer a 35mm camera because everything is more compact. It takes a larger film load and you can use a wide angle, short focus lens to get everything as sharp as possible without refocusing for every shot. When you can add a rapid sequence spring motor to the camera you have the advantages of automatic film transport and instant action shooting. For the best viewing underwater, I'd recommend the reflex type camera. In 35mm, the single lens reflex type eliminates parallax errors because you see exactly what you are going to get."

Museum Piece Is Largest Yet

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Officials of the Air Force Museum at Dayton lay claim to what they believe is the "largest museum piece in the world."

You can go to the museum now and gaze at the old giant. It's the Air Force's oldest B-36, which has come to rest here permanently. The hefty 179-ton bomber has joined other historic craft in the museum's ever-growing outdoor display.

The plane was the second B-36 built for the Air Force. It had 1,500 hours of flight before being flown here in February from Ramey Air Force Base in Puerto Rico. The first B-36 was dismantled.

Student Police Guard Against Teen-Age Crime

NEW YORK (AP)—The city's 600 student policemen start pounding beats tonight on shadowy streets where youth crime is most likely to erupt.

The emergency move was ordered yesterday after a hastily called meeting of city and state officials. They met to plan a counterattack against a recent rash of juvenile crime.

There have been three killings and a series of beatings and brawls involving teen-agers in the past 11 days.

The young rookies will be armed with nightsticks and pistols. Each rookie's beat will be linked with two others manned by experienced patrolmen.

The rookies are going into battle in such potentially dangerous areas as the Red Hook section of Brooklyn and Washington Heights. They will walk their beats from 6 to 12 p.m.—the critical hours for teen-age violence.

The rookies are probationary patrolmen enrolled at the police academy. They were sworn in last June 23.

The city's 23,000-man regular police force are under a special order alerting them against outbreaks of juvenile crime. Teams of detectives have been assigned to areas where youth gangsterism occurred recently.

The department also ordered a special watch on taverns that may be selling liquor or beer to youths under 18.

The meeting of city and state officials brought together Gov. Averell Harriman's State Youth Commission, the City Youth Board and Police Department youth crime experts.

After the meeting, William R. Peet, executive secretary to Mayor Robert F. Wagner, made the announcement about the rookie patrolmen.

He added, however: "This does not mean that more police is the specific for eliminating juvenile crime."

"The responsibility for keeping kids out of trouble goes back to the parents," Peet said. "They should know where their children are, especially at night. Although we are doing all we can, the problem will never be solved until parents realize their responsibilities."

The mayor's secretary disclosed there were 29 deaths from juvenile violence in the city in 1956. The count so far this year is 22.

Inductee Ready, But Not Wanted

DES MOINES (AP)—Big Jim Smith wishes the Army would make up its mind how tall he is. The induction station said he was 6 feet 5 1/2 inches and thus eligible for the draft. So he quit his job, shipped his family's effects home to Peoria, Ill., sold his car and reported to Chicago for a draft physical.

The draft board measured him at 6 feet, 6 1/4 inches—too tall for induction. The Army's limit is 6-6. He was not inducted.

In 1956 the freshman class in engineering in United States universities was 77,000.

Pro-Communists Gain In Naha, Okinawa Elections

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—The increased City Council backing won by Naha's pro-Communist mayor in Sunday's elections is not expected to diminish U.S. opposition toward him or speed up release of American aid funds.

U.S. Gen. James E. Moore, U.S. high commissioner for this strategic military base, made that clear today in a news conference statement on the showing by supporters of Mayor Kamejro Senaga.

"It would be a mistake for U.S. officials to take any steps which indicate a softening of its attitude toward Senaga and his supporters," Moore said.

The commissioner also indicated that the Army would make no effort to speed the release of U.S. reconstruction funds frozen by the Bank of the Ryukyus since shortly after Senaga was elected mayor of the Okinawacapital on Christmas Day.

Complete but unofficial returns from Sunday's Council elections showed Senaga's supporters won 12 of 30 seats, double the number they held previously. Conservative anti-Senaga forces won 17 seats and one went to an independent. Senaga needed 11 seats to block a no-confidence vote which would have forced him to resign.

Senaga dissolved the old Council and called new elections after a no-confidence vote against him June 18. A second vote of no confidence, which requires a two-thirds majority, would have forced him from office.

Shutaro Chinen, administration chairman of the Anti-Senaga League, said his group will seek some other way to oust the mayor before his term ends in 1960. But he held out little hope of success.

The latest to be charged are James C. Boling, 28; Jack Bentley, 24, both of Greenville; and B. F. Davis, 57, of near Travelers Rest.

Each is accused of conspiring to commit assault and battery with intent to kill.

Assault and battery charges also were brought against the three arrested earlier.

Fund Increase

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's general fund showed increased collections for July of $364,737 over July of last year, Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw reported yesterday.

In his report to Gov. Hodges, Shaw said increases in income and franchise tax collections had made up for a drop in sales tax revenues.

The total collections in the general fund for July were $14,919,596.

Sales tax collections dropped $271,999 from July a year ago to $4,098,091. The franchise tax collections showed a 13.8 per cent increase, a gain of $441,795. The total was $3,643,430, Shaw said.

He added that the income tax amounted to $2,205,681 for a gain of $265,669 or 13.69 per cent over a year ago.

May Find Liquor In Dry Red River

PARIS, Tex. (AP)—Dry Red River County may have a rare liquor cache in its own back yard, if a local legend is true.

Heavy rains this spring altered the course of the Red River. A fisherman, Benny Budgett, following the new course, recently uncovered the mast of a large, long-buried boat.

District Clerk Eugene Bowers recalled that a boat loaded with 200 barrels of whiskey, according to the legend, sank near there in 1855. At that time it was common practice for cotton boats to carry many items of cargo although navigation ended on the river about 1876.

Police Realize Sailor's Dream

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Jimmy Whyte of Fife, Scotland, a sailor on the British aircraft carrier Ark Royal, realized his ambition on the visit of his ship to this port.

Jimmy wanted to ride in an American police car with the lights flashing and sirens screaming. On his first night ashore he told police about it. He rode with two officers, S.C. Cherry and E.W. Parr. He liked it and they liked him, so Jimmy spent every night of his four-night liberty with them in the police car.

Convict Describes His White Hunter Of Africa Is 22 Years As A Fugitive An Amateur Psychologist

BY THOMAS DYCARD
 JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — About dusk on a December day in 1934 Roy Hunkins boarded a bus in downtown Jackson and rode to Chicago.

He changed buses at Chicago and rode to Kansas City.

There, in a strange city, he got a room under the name Harry E. Bennett. He got a job as a farm laborer. Later he worked as a wrapper in a shipping department, as a carpenter, as a ditch foreman over 15 men, as a maintenance man in an office building, and as a door-to-door campaigner in a gubernatorial campaign.

He married and after 11 years was divorced. Then he married again. That marriage ended in a separation. He fathered a child by his second wife.

Harry E. Bennett, laborer, husband, father, was Roy Hunkins, an escaped convict.

For 22 years and five months he was a successful fugitive.

that I was an escapee," he said, "until my little boy was born two years ago."

Hunkins was intent on getting custody of his son when his second wife left him, but he discovered he would have to go to court to do it. After 22 years, "I finally found something I wanted to do and couldn't do it because I was a con."

He claims he returned to Kalamazoo to give himself up and square his record.

Eddy Moments

Life on the outside had its edgy moments for Hunkins-Bennett.

Twice he almost ran into men he had known in prison.

"I saw them on the street and ducked," he said. "They didn't see me."

Minor brushes with the law—traffic tickets mostly—rolled off his back. Nobody asked for a birth certificate. His Social Security card, in the name of Harry E. Bennett, was one of the first issued. When he was asked about military service, he replied that he never had been in the service.

"One thing that bothered me," he said, "was guys . . . a neighbor or somebody I worked with . . . talking about some crime they had read in the paper. They would always say, 'What do you think about that?' or 'Do you think they'll catch him?'"

"I always wanted to ask them, 'What makes you think I'd know?'"

"Those kind of questions were rapping right at my front door."

On the outside Hunkins built three houses. The first he sold to get a bigger one. The second went to his wife when she divorced him. The third was sold because his wife didn't like it.

The future, which 30 years ago looked like alternate periods of violence and the drabness of prison for Roy Hunkins, is doubtful. He wants to return to Kalamazoo, get a job barbering, and build himself another house.

"Coming home at night and eating a good meal and sitting down in front of the television, maybe with a beer or two—that's hard to beat."

BY E.A. JONES
 KAMPALA, Uganda (AP)—Noticing the quivering shoulders of the lady from Boston, the professional hunter moved up beside her from his usual place a half pace behind.

The crash of the lady's gun was followed a split-second later by that of the hunter.

The elephant squealed once, sagged to its knees and rolled over. "Congratulations," said the hunter. "Right through the heart."

Fortunately the lady did not enquire whose bullet found the mark.

All Shapes and Sizes

More and more American big-game hunters are coming to Uganda," says Emmanuel Fangoudis—the white hunter who has almost a monopoly of them. "They come in all shapes and sizes but we try to make sure they go home satisfied."

Some have lots of time and money. They want a luxury caravan—safari through the bush and are prepared to pay the nearly $300 a day it costs. Some are in a hurry. They want to rush to Africa and knock off as much game in as short a time as possible.

These have to be blinkered a little for their own good. Usually it would be possible, operating from Fangoudis' camp in the game plains near the Congo border, to shoot an elephant in the morning, an elend or some other antelope in the afternoon and a buffalo any time you like. But this type of carnage leaves the hunter nervous and physically exhausted and strangely dissatisfied.

There are many ways in which an over-keen sportsman can be prevented from seeing too much game too quickly and many reasons to advance why he should not shoot everything he sees. Yet he is always left with the impression that it is he who is running the safari. Emmanuel is a psychologist as well as one of the most experienced hunters in Africa. "Mind you," he says. "I don't do what some hunters do—stretch out the safari, by leading clients away from where I know the game is."

"Sometimes I wish I could find the immortal courage to do it. A man takes much more pride in an elephant he has 'tracked down' for a couple of days than in one he knocks over half an hour from camp. He isn't to know the hunter could have led him straight to it at any time during those two days."

Game Dying Out

Despite the fact that big game is fast dying out, the Uganda government does not object to visiting sportsmen.

"A properly-organized hunting safari makes little inroad on the herds," says Game Warden T.R. Owen. "It is the disturbance cause by badly organized parties, which prevents the game from breeding, that does the damage."

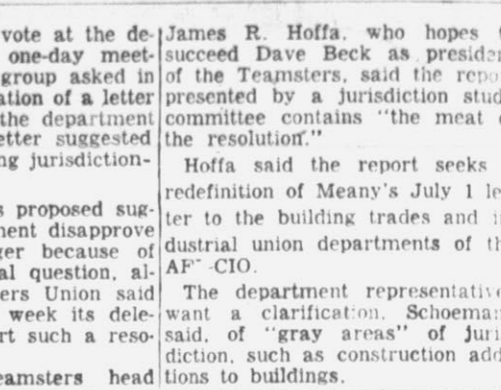

Besides, organized parties help to stop poachers, who take a far greater toll than license holders. There have been several instances of licensed hunters chasing poaching parties out of the game areas."

Big-game hunting is a useful source of revenue to the country, too, quite apart from the cost of the licenses.

It is not a poor man's hobby. There is the white hunter's fee and guns, ammunition, tents, porters and transport to be hired. Even the hunter who is prepared to 'rough it,' shooting his own meat for the pot, pays about $2,200 for a month's safari.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

By FAGALY and SHORTEN

Told No One

During that time he told no one that he was Roy Hunkins, who had walked away from Southern Michigan State Prison while a trusty, serving 10 to 20 years for armed robbery.

He had served five years and had 2 1/2 years to go for parole.

He told no one that before his escape he had served time—a total of about 17 of his 32 years—for car theft, larceny, desertion from the Army, parole violation, and other offenses.

Then, because of his tangled family life, he started to travel. His journey led to his home town of Kalamazoo, Mich., where he wanted to visit a cousin. Somebody recognized him.

Now he is No. A-93371, finishing a term for armed robbery.

Prison officials are checking his record on the outside the last 22 1/2 years. If it is clean, he probably will get out in a few months. He now is 61.

"It never bothered me much to see me."

Minor brushes with the law—traffic tickets mostly—rolled off his back. Nobody asked for a birth certificate. His Social Security card, in the name of Harry E. Bennett, was one of the first issued. When he was asked about military service, he replied that he never had been in the service.

"I always wanted to ask them, 'What makes you think I'd know?'"

"Coming home at night and eating a good meal and sitting down in front of the television, maybe with a beer or two—that's hard to beat."

BIG TARGET: This bull elephant, sensing danger, was hit first at 70 yards but charged to within 20 yards of the hunting party before two more bullets brought him crashing down.

Union Dispute Is Left To Meany

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department has handed the problem of solving jurisdictional disputes in the building trades back to George Meany, president of the merged union.

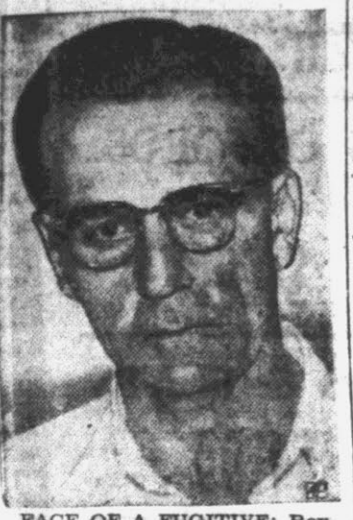

By a unanimous vote at the department's special one-day meeting yesterday, the group asked in effect for a clarification of a letter sent by Meany to the department last July 1. The letter suggested a formula for solving jurisdictional problems.

No resolution was proposed suggesting the department disapprove the AFL-CIO merger because of the old jurisdictional question, although the Teamsters Union, said in Washington last week its delegation would support such a resolution today.

But Midwest Teamsters head James R. Hoffa, who hopes to succeed Dave Beck as president of the Teamsters, said the report presented by a jurisdiction study committee contains "the meat of the resolution."

Hoffa said the report seeks a redefinition of Meany's July 1 letter to the building trades and industrial union departments of the AFL-CIO.

The department representatives want a clarification, Schoemann said, of "gray areas" of jurisdiction, such as construction additions to buildings.

FACE OF A FUGITIVE: Roy Hunkins, who spent 22 of his 61 years as a fugitive from Southern Michigan State Prison.

Yep, Elephant In Her Backyard

ENID, Okla. (AP) — Police decided to pacify Mrs. Russell Britton when she reported an elephant and some horses romping around in her back yard.

An officer reluctantly went to investigate, and discovered Mrs. Britton wasn't fooling.

The animals were there all right. They were from an animal act and the owners had stopped and turned them loose while cleaning their pens.

Further Reliance On Russian Help

CAIRO (AP) — Western diplomats in Cairo consider Syria has increased its dependence on the Soviet Union as a result of Russia's reported agreement to offer the Arab country technical and economic aid and to let Syria postpone paying for the arms it is buying from the Red bloc.

Arab informants said yesterday the agreements were reached in Moscow talks between Syrian Defense Minister Khaied el Azem, Army Chief of Staff Gen. Tewfik Nizam el Din and Soviet officials. The Soviet aid offer was reported at 200 to 300 million Syrian pounds (69 to 100 million dollars).

Syrian government circles were said to regard the Soviet moves as a victory for Syria. Cairo diplomatic sources felt it meant a further swing toward the Soviet camp by President Nasser's closest ally.

Following Egypt's lead, Syria has bought arms from Communist bloc nations over the past two years and now appears to have outstripped Egypt in the lean toward the left.

Not Much Left Out Of $1 Million 'Take'

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — How does a million dollars feel? Harry Belafonte ought to know. The onetime janitor, now the hottest attraction in show business, will earn more than that in 1957. I asked him how it felt.

"I can't feel it," he replied before going out before a packed house at the Greek Theater, "because I never see it. Most of it disappears to the government, expenses, etc. Out of the million, I maybe get only $100,000." With a backward glance at his poor days, he had to laugh at himself: "Only $100,000!"

The dough is a comfort, he admitted, but it hasn't changed his life.

"I'm no happier than I was when I was earning $350 a week," he commented. "That bought me all the things I needed."

"I don't throw my money around. I have only an apartment in New York. I still own just one car. Artistically, I'm still doing the kind of work I want to do, with no compromises. And my friends are the same ones I've had for years."

But the difference now is power. He has the power to reach the widest audience imaginable—the first of his race to do so. He feels deeply the responsibility that goes with such power.

For instance, tonight he is appearing on Nat King Cole's NBC television show. He will receive a couple of hundred dollars and donate that to charity. Belafonte is able to draw $40,000 for a guest appearance.

He explained: "When I found out that Nat was trying to break down the resistance to sponsoring a TV show starring a Negro, I told him I'd be glad to go on with him. I said I'd do anything on the show he wanted me to."

Belafonte is making another gesture in playing New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel for five weeks starting next month. He could earn much more elsewhere. But he is returning because the hotel booked him as the first Negro to play the Waldorf.

Belafonte admitted that the acceptance of himself as a performer gets him in places where other Negroes are barred. But he is willing to be the trailblazer in hopes that others may follow.

"For instance, when they tried to hang the 'matinee idol' tag on me, my reaction was that it meant the acceptance of me by a vast audience," he commented. "That is significant: That 4,407 people out there tonight will accept me as an individual and a performer."

He plans to reach an even wider audience in the future. He is now negotiating a three-picture deal with 20th Century-Fox. I asked if he were limited in what he could do on the screen because he is a Negro.

"Five years ago, I might have been," he said, "but not now. There's nothing I can't do on the screen. Producers realize I can be a draw. If there were any doubts, they were dispelled by the financial success of 'Island in the Sun'—which I still say is a stinking picture."

Team Work Took Out An Appendix

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—An entire squadron of Navy destroyer escorts participated in making an emergency appendectomy in rough weather at sea a success.

Several contributed hospital corpsmen to assist. The USS Spangler sent two cans of ether. Other ships helped with equipment. All, including the men, were transferred by line to the USS Alvin C. Cockrell.

The surgery was performed by Lt. Demetrios Halikis, medical officer, sent by boat from the USS George.

William R. Brown, member of the Cockrell crew, was the patient. He and all others got a "well done" for success of the operation.

Freckles Make Her Famous..Hates'em

By GUSTAV SVENSSON
STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — This is the story of Freckles with the titian hair, who used to be told that she got her tan through a tea strainer.

"Some of them are too big to have gone through a sieve though," said a Swedish dermatologist who took the pains of counting a total of 21,719 freckles, excepting Bikini areas.

"Statistics," he said, "are scant, but it looks like a world record. Anyhow I doubt if so many freckles were ever combined with such beauty."

Harriet (Freckles) Asp is a slender, long-legged art student who hates freckles. Chances are she will make color-movie viewers love them.

The photographer who first spotted Freckles made 120 pictures of her in two days. It took Sweden's biggest movie makers, the SF Corp., no more than five minutes to give her a screen test. Color magazines in Sweden and abroad are getting Freckles-minded at an astounding rate.

Most of her 23 years, she lived under the impact of her brilliant colors.

"When I met my first boy friend," said Harriet, "I turned the inside of my arms towards him so he wouldn't see all those freckles."

"I scrubbed them with scouring powder. I wanted to peel myself like a potato. Sometimes I wished I were dead."

"I scratched off some of the larger ones on my nose. I hoped they would be gone when the scratches healed. But there they were again."

"I thought I might tan myself in the sun until I became one big freckle. But it only added thousands of new freckles and gave them all a darker shade."

"I prayed that a miracle would rid me of my freckles. I even thought of secluding myself from the outside world. I wanted to become a nun."

She's still not happy about them.

Adlai Stevenson Ends Long Tour

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai Stevenson returned today from a three-month trip abroad the said he was most impressed by the effects of the Marshall plan in Europe.

He said also he had "great hope for Africa, especially the central part."

The 1952 and 1956 Democratic presidential nominee, a lawyer, visited both continents on legal business. He said he would remain in New York until Saturday.

At the end of the brief news conference, he met for the first time a cousin, Suzanne Cribfield, 22, of Larchmont, N.Y., a receptionist at the airport for the U.S. Immigration Service.

She said Stevenson is a first cousin of her grandmother, Mrs. Helen Stevenson Cribfield, of Sedgwick, Greensboro, N.C., and formerly of Bloomington, Ill.

"I am delighted to see you," Stevenson told the young woman. He asked her about their relatives.

Walked Rails Throughout Line

ENNIS, Tex. (AP) — Not all railroaders ride.
E. C. Oates, 70, retiring Southern Pacific engineer, estimates he's walked every foot of the line's tracks from North to South Texas. He supervised track laying and repair during 35 years with the railroad.

Tried Rag Weed For Smoking

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Police smelled clothes burning in the station house and hurriedly made an investigation.
They found a prisoner in the jail block, who had no tobacco, rolling his own — with rolled up rags.

Four standard U. S. Army weapons, including the BAR (Browning Automatic Rifle), carbine and 45 calibre pistol, may be replaced by a recently developed seven-pound rifle that fires up to 750 shots a minute.

Singapore Will Be Near-Orphan In Months Ahead

By MURRAY FROMSON

SINGAPORE (AP)—This island of nearly 1 1/2 million people, once known as the "Crossroads of Asia," becomes something of an orphan this month when neighboring Malaya wins its independence.

Since the early 19th century, when this onetime mangrove swamp became one of Asia's largest trading posts, Singapore has been closely tied to the adjoining Malayan mainland. Although governed separately, the two territories maintained strong economic ties.

Now, with independence around the corner for Malaya, the colony of Singapore is anxious to make those bonds permanent. The Malays, who will be the biggest minority in their own country, oppose union of Singapore and Malaya for two prime reasons: 1. Bringing Singapore's 1 1/2 million Chinese into the federation would push the Malays down to No. 2 spot.

2. Malay leaders recognize a strong Communist influence in Singapore. Extreme leftist groups control some of the key unions and have an effective weapon in the large body of Chinese school students whose loyalties seem to be tied to Red China. The Malays feel they are going to have enough trouble combatting the jungle guerrillas who have been fighting their government for years without taking on this added headache. British officials point out, however, that for Malaya to sever economic ties with Singapore would be like cutting off a right arm. About 77 per cent of Malaya's trade now hinges on Singapore's banking and port facilities. Singapore has one of the world's

Probers Ask Impounding Of Steelworkers' Votes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rackets Committee reportedly has asked all locals of the United Steelworkers to impound ballots used in President David J. McDonald's re-election six months ago.

Letters have been written by committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy to the union's more than 2,500 locals, it was learned, asking that the ballots be preserved beyond the Aug. 12 date fixed in the union's constitution as the time they could be destroyed.

McDonald, who won the election by an announced margin of nearly 2-1, issued a public statement several months ago pledging full cooperation in any investigation the committee might undertake.

Donald Rarick, his opponent, a steelworker from McKeesport, Pa., claimed when the union election results were announced there had been "irregularities."

He contended McDonald had used union funds in campaigning against him, but McDonald denied this.

Rarick and a group of fellow USW members have conferred here with Committee Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) and Senator Mundt (R-SD), another committee member. McClellan said the committee eventually will get around to investigating Rarick's complaints.

The union reportedly provided to Kennedy a mailing list of all its locals, but union sources said they will balk at any attempt by the McClellan committee to recount the ballots.

Took A Shine To Sales Tax Idea

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A 10-year-old girl in Fort Smith, Ark., apparently was impressed by Gov. Orval Faubus' appeal for a 16-million-dollar increase in the state sales tax.

She sent the governor a letter saying she had shined her father's shoes, charged him 10 cents plus a cent tax. She enclosed the penny.

YOUTH GATHERING Sees Red Bosses

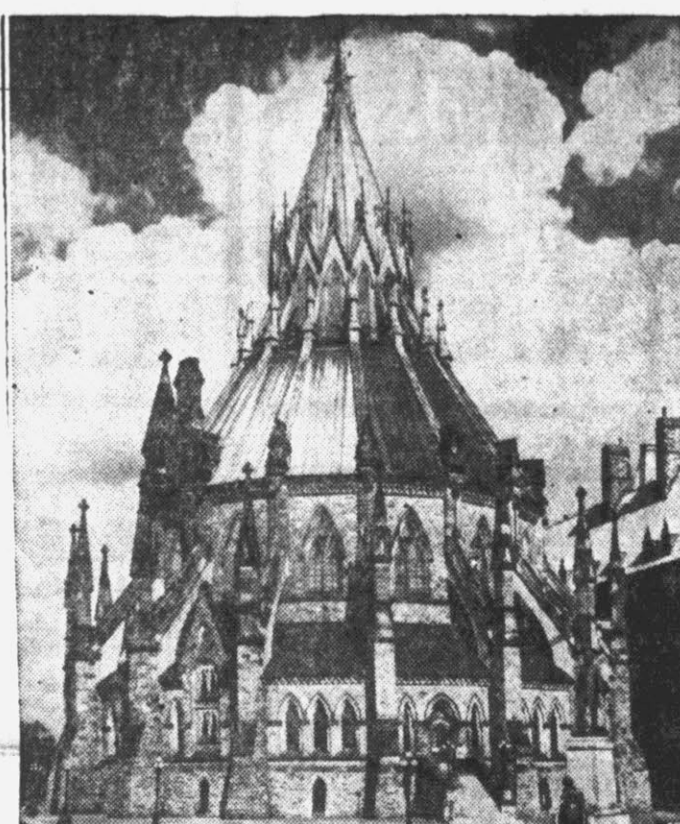

MOSCOW (AP)—The Kremlin's top brass turned out for a World Youth Festival party in the Kremlin last night and Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev again grabbed most of the limelight.

Shouts of "Khrushchev, Khrushchev!" and "Friendship, friendship!" rose repeatedly from the crowd.

The party leader broke up his enthusiastic audience when he directed to Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov a stage whisper that boomed over the public address system: "Friendship is friendship, but we got to eat."

Seated with Khrushchev and Zhukov at a long table set among the trees were Premier Bulganin and other members of the Communist party's new Presidium. The Soviet officials all pitched in at waving to the crowd, clapping their hands and exchanging toasts.

Most Western ambassadors did not attend the party.

direction. State flags also were at half staff. George died in his sleep Sunday at the white frame house in this south central Georgia town of 2,000 where he had been battling a heart ailment for many weeks.

A delegation of congressmen, an ambassador and a governor joined with hundreds of Georgia friends at the brief interment service.

The tenant farmer's son who spent 34 years in the Senate and became special ambassador to NATO was eulogized as "a great and good man . . . who loved truth."

Those were the words of the Rev. L. C. Cutts during the simple funeral services in the red brick First Baptist Church.

He said George had "tremendous courage that led him to be afraid of nothing except to be wrong."

Cutts based his message on the Old Testament, Micah 6:8, which says in part: "He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good. And what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

"That passage aptly describes Sen. George," said the pastor. He was a man with "integrity of character, sympathy of heart and an appreciation of the spiritual measure of life."

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U. S. ambassador to the United Nations, was present as President Eisenhower's personal representative. Flags were flown at half staff on all government buildings and on naval vessels at Eisenhower's.

TENT SHOW

Customers line up at main entrance ticket windows.

Musical comedy performed inside a gaily striped carnival tent in Lambertville, N. J., eight summers ago has touched off a boom in summertime entertainment. Twenty such shows are now playing to capacity crowds in the east and middle west.

Known as Musicarnival, the tent shows are "the greatest thing to hit show business in 30 years," according to one of the most successful producers, John L. Price, Jr., of Cleveland.

Cleveland's Musicarnival, pictured here, set up tent in 1953. It is one of the country's largest. This season the tent, which seats 1900, was sold out for 20 performances before the first show, "Pajama Game," opened. When the tent is folded with the final showing of "Damn Yankees," an estimated 200,000 persons will have visited the theater-in-the-round.

Show people themselves are the biggest boosters of the theater under canvas. Prior to the tent shows, a singer's summer was limited to some work on the regular "straw hat" circuit — the summer show under roof. For many, the off-season meant unemployment. Now, they get pay and valuable experience while playing in the hinterland tents.

Director Michael Pollack (rear) watches Beverly Sills and Bill Chapman rehearsing for "Tosca."

Marilyne Munro, New York City, and Marcia O'Brien, Indianapolis, Ind., of "Pajama Game" chorus make up before performance.

Patrons eat at outdoor tables near tent before attending show.

Producer John Price bids Musicarnival patron good night. He dresses in costume of whatever show is playing.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was slightly lower in the early afternoon today in quiet trading.

Phelps Dodge Corp., one of the Big Three copper producers, cut its price for copper by 1/2 cent a pound to 28 1/2 cents.

The cut had little impact on metal shares. In fact, Phelps Dodge rose 1/4 and Anaconda was steady. Kennecott was off more than a point before the news came and remained down about the same amount.

Oils, chemicals, aircrafts and rails were mostly lower. Metals, motors, steels and utilities were irregular.

A postscript has shown up on those "Keep North Carolina Green" signs about the state.

Along with the keep the state green signs someone in the State Highway Department with a poetic turn of mind has added "And Clean".

One of the original signs, which have stood along North Carolina highways for some time, and its new addition is posted along N. C. 903 a couple miles east of Stokes.

Funeral Set For Lloyd Bray, Sr.

Lloyd J. Bray Sr., 56, died suddenly at his office at East Carolina College, Monday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, after suffering a heart attack.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Funeral Home Chapel Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, with the Rev. W. M. Howard, minister of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, in charge. Following the services in Greenville, the body will be taken to Charlotte where funeral and burial services will be conducted from the McEwen Funeral Home. Interment will be in Elmwood cemetery in Charlotte.

Mr. Bray was born in Old Trap, in Camden County, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elihu Bray. Following his graduation from Elon College and graduate study at the University of Virginia, for five years Mr. Bray was a member of the faculty at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. He was editor of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation magazine and headed the Westinghouse central library in Pittsburgh, Pa., for 15 years, before coming to East Carolina College. While at Westinghouse, he received the silver "W" the firm's highest achievement award.

Since 1947, Mr. Bray had been a member of the staff at East Carolina College where he was manager of student stores, and at the time of his death was Director of the College Union in addition to the stores' management.

He was first married to Miss Jennie Gunter of Gastonia who died in 1939. Surviving this union is his only son, Lloyd Jones Bray Jr. of Greenville, who is now on an overseas mission with the World Council of Churches and was in France at the time of his father's sudden death.

Also surviving are the widow, Mrs. Elsie Weimer Bray, a native of Pittsburgh, to whom he was married in 1942; a step-daughter, Miss Marilyn Henaghan of Pittsburgh; two sisters, Mrs. L. S. Wiggins and Mrs. B. F. Elison and one nephew, Lloyd W. Overcash, all of Charlotte.

Mr. Bray was a member of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church and was a member of its board of stewards. He also was a member of Delta Sigma Phi, a national professional fraternity.

Raleigh School Board Studies Negro Appeal

RALEIGH (AP) — The Raleigh School Board met today to consider the only application before it in which a Negro student has applied to take an all-white school.

The board expected to take final action on the application of Joseph Hiram Holt Jr., who is requesting admission to Nesham Broughton High School. The application was made in June by his parents.

If the board approves, it will be the fourth board in the state to take such action this summer.

Boards at Winston-Salem, Charlotte and Greensboro have admitted a total of 12 Negroes to all-white schools.

The McDowell County Board of Education yesterday turned down the application of 62 Negroes seeking admission to the white school at Old Fort. The board stated the transfer forms weren't proper and weren't routed through the correct channels.

The pupils were seeking transfer from a Negro school they attended in Marion, 13 miles from their homes.

The Raleigh board has requested that the Holt attend the session for questioning. But the boy's father said he didn't plan to appear. "It's the school board's business," he stated. "It's up to them to make the decision."

"I don't think it is necessary to be questioned by the board," he added. "Other applicants for transfer haven't been brought in for questioning."

School board action on the Holt application has been postponed twice because the full membership of the board was not present. However, at its last meeting, the board voted to dispose of the matter today regardless of the number of members in attendance.

Two Drownings In Flash Flood

LAS VEGAS, N. M. (AP)—A minister and his young daughter drowned in the flash flood which swept the Las Vegas area early yesterday after 2.79 inches of rain fell in the mountains to the north.

The victims were the Rev. Emil LaPorte, 41-year-old pastor of the Southwest Bible Fellowship in Las Vegas, and his 10-year-old daughter, Laura.

LaPorte was driving near Sapello, a small community north of Las Vegas, when the surging water tossed his car off the road into a gully.

Sheriff Bob Martinez said damage appeared lighter than was expected. About 25 persons were evacuated from their homes in Las Gallinas Canyon, 17 miles north of Las Vegas. A dozen to 18 families were evacuated from low spots along the Gallinas River south of town.

The Gallinas stayed within its banks through Las Vegas, a town of about 14,000 in north-central New Mexico. Only light rain fell here.

The mountain downpour burst the dams on three small lakes upstream and their 90 million gallons of water coursed down the Gallinas.

Mrs. Dorothy Tejada told officers her family drove across the river north of town, and it was only a trickle but two minutes after they heard a roar and water surged two to three feet deep in some of the houses along its banks.

Will Open Bids August 21 For New ECC Dorm

Time elements stated by bidders will take into consideration when the general construction contract is awarded, Duncan said.

Demand, Prices For Leaf Go Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Prices were up $1 to $3 a hundred pounds on South Carolina and Border North Carolina flue-cured tobacco markets yesterday, the opening of the second week of the 1957 season.

Both demand and prices strengthened and the quality of offerings was better.

A sharp decrease in the percentage of nondescript was reported. Primings continued predominant. Volume ranged from light to heavy.

Gross sales last week totaled 21,874,236 pounds averaging $53.26 a hundred.

Meanwhile, the Columbus County, N.C. Farm Bureau last night called for the closing of tobacco markets for a week to increase the prices.

In telegrams to Sen. Scott (D-NC), Rep. Lennon (D-NC) and Joe R. Williams, director of the Commodity Stabilization Service, Tobacco Division, U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, the bureau asked for a closing of markets "or other drastic measures."

The bureau said that the season average on Georgia markets through Aug. 2 was $56.41 a hundred pounds, while Carolina border belt average to date is only $53.70.

Border belt tobacco traditionally has sold higher than Georgia-Florida leaf because it is tied, while Georgia-Florida tobacco is sold loose.

The market has been weakening steadily since Thursday, and there were only a few offerings holding unchanged. Poor to fair leaf and nondescript were the principal offerings.
