Little Leaguers Schedule Early Start For Georgia

Greenville's Little League Tar Heel All-Stars will hit the trail at 4 o'clock tomorrow morning for their trip to Rome, Ga. and a crack at the Southeastern Little League title.

Officials and fans of Greenville's Little League were busy today raising funds needed to finance the 550-mile trip for the 14 members of the North Carolina Little League champs.

He added that priority for these extra seats are being given parents of the 14 members of the All-Star team. In addition to those who travel by bus, some local fans are planning to make the trip in private autos.

FINISHING UP—This Pitt County tenant farmer is finishing up his work in the tobacco field for the season.

In Las Vegas, Nev., some 80 miles to the southeast, the glow of the bomb's fireball lit up the sky brighter than the rising sun. It was visible for 10 seconds.

Today's shot—twelfth in the current test series—came just one day after the twelfth anniversary of the 1945 bombing of Hiroshima, Japan.

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—Pacifist demonstrators who came here in an effort to halt nuclear tests—watched today as the Atomic Energy Commission fired its latest shot.

The blast had been slated for yesterday—12th anniversary of the birth of atomic warfare at Hiroshima, Japan.

Unfavorable winds arrived simultaneously with the Committee for Non-Violent Action Against Nuclear Weapons.

Plan Is Geared To Red Asia's Future

LONDON (AP)—The United States will not open all its bases to Soviet aerial inspection until the place of Asia's Red nations in Russian military plans is spelled out.

Harold E. Stassen, U.S. delegate to the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee, indicated this yesterday when Russia's Valerian Zorin made a three-point request for clarification on the air and ground inspection system proposed last week by Secretary of State Dulles.

Asked by Zorin why the plan did not cover U.S. bases in North Africa, the Middle East, Turkey and Pakistan, Stassen replied that their inclusion would have brought up "very difficult" political questions.

NEW YORK (AP)—A man described by federal officials as a Soviet Russian colonel of intelligence masquerading as a Brooklyn artist was indicted today as a spy.

The officials said the man, Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, 55, was the highest ranking Soviet national ever arrested in the United States as a spy.

They said he was a colonel in the Soviet State Security Service—corresponding to the American Central Intelligence Agency—and that he headed the service's activities in the United States.

They said his base of operations was a photographic studio across the street from the Brooklyn federal courthouse, where a grand jury returned the indictment against him.

Russian Officer Indicted As Spy

Whether this alleged attempt was successful was not indicated by the indictment.

They used radio for receiving instructions and sending information, the indictment said.

It charged that Abel conspired to activate as agents within the United States, certain members of the armed forces who were in a position to acquire information relating to the national defense of the United States.

It said Abel and the alleged conspirators hollowed out coins, pens, pencils, bolts, handkerchiefs, earrings and similar articles so they could be used as containers for the transmission of the microfilm.

They used radio for receiving instructions and sending information, the indictment said.

Abel was arrested June 21 at the Hotel Latham in New York by immigration officers as an alien residing in this country illegally.

'New Look' Is Assigned To State Highway Dept.

RALEIGH (AP)—The new look for the State Highway Dept. will include a revised policy covering right-of-way matters.

Babcock told the commission he will submit a "lengthy, complete policy" at a later meeting.

In another action before adjourning his two-day meeting, the commission unveiled a tentative timetable for offering major projects on the interstate highway system to contractors.

Mamie Reported In Fine Condition

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower continues in "fine" condition following surgery yesterday, her physician reported today.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, relayed the following statement from Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, the presidential physician:

ABC Sales Dip Below July '56

Sales in two Greenville ABC stores accounted for 55.3 per cent of the Pitt County ABC Board's total sales during July.

Figures released this morning by Supervisor Clinton Elks show that total sales in the county's nice-store system were $93,613.15.

Tyson Named To New Officers Elected By Red Cross Chapter

William F. Tyson of Stokes was elected the third member of the county's new ASC Committee yesterday afternoon.

Edwards, who is chairman of the new committee and Johnson were elected alternates last fall. They moved up to become elected ASC committee members July 26.

James S. Ficklen, Jr., tobaccoist and civic leader of Greenville, was elected new chairman of the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross at a meeting of the chapter's board on Tuesday afternoon.

In this office as head of the county Red Cross organization, Ficklen succeeds Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, East Carolina College vice president and dean of curriculum and faculty, who has served as chairman for several years.

The alternate vice chairmen are: F. Richard Atkinson, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, Mrs. Lillie Little, Dr. Stephen R. Bartlett, Jr., Mrs. James T. Little, Morris Brody, and Prof. C. M. Davenport.

Other members of the Pitt chapter named by Chairman Ficklen within the next few weeks.

Pilot Club Will Join C-of-C

The Greenville Pilot Club voted to join the Greenville Chamber of Commerce at its regular monthly meeting Monday night.

The dinner meeting was held at the home of Mrs. James B. Mallory, president, on West Wright Road.

Eleven members were present for the meeting, and the invocation was given by Mrs. Chester Walsh.

It was announced that the Club Scrap Book is being kept by Mrs. Anne W. De LaMater.

Reports were heard from the various Charter Night Committees as follows: Mrs. Chester Walsh, chairman of the invitation committee, and Mrs. Graham Jefferson, chairman of the decorations committee.

Mrs. W. W. Howell, chairman of the program committee, and Mrs. Ed Warren, chairman of the dinner arrangements committee, were unable to attend the meeting.

The importance of the next business meeting, to be held in the Directors Room of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company on August 19, was stressed, and all members were urged to attend.

Coffee Hour, Shower Given Bride-To-Be

FOUNTAIN—Miss Joyce Bell, bride-elect of August 18, was honored with a coffee hour-lingerie shower Saturday morning at the home of Mrs. Albert Bell.

After gathering on the spacious lawn, the guests were invited into the dining room for refreshments.

Covering the table was white hand-made organdy and lace banquet cloth over green. The centerpiece was a pink and white arrangement of carnations and aster.

Mocha punch was served from one end of the table by Mrs. Jimmy Bell and bridal cakes from the opposite end were served by Mrs. B. C. Bell, mother of the honoree. Guests helped themselves to nuts and party accompaniments.

The hostesses, Mrs. Jimmy Bell, Mrs. Albert Bell and Mrs. Peggy Joyner, presented the honoree with a corsage of pink carnations and a gift of silver in her chosen pattern.

Steady Date Spoils Joys Of Dancing

AP Newsfeatures
 Is steady-dating changing teenage date habits? Some observers think it is.

Young people, 'tis said, are no longer interested in the community dances they used to enjoy. And local cotillions miss the laughter of the younger set. As one parent put it:

"I asked my daughter why she didn't want to go to our fireman's ball, a regular community event, and she said there would be no fun in it, because she'd be expected to dance with her steady date all night."

A steady date queried on the remark says:

"It isn't just that you have to dance with your own steady date. It's just that there are no lone boys to make the dance more interesting. All the boys are taken."

What do young people call fun these days, and where do they go for entertainment?

One young girl, who does not date steady, answers that question.

"It doesn't pay off to be around steady daters," she says. "Five steady-dating couples get together at something they call a party, but they just sit around in five huddles—holding hands, smooching dancing occasionally to record, or listening to music dreamily. I know because I watch my sister entertain. I think it is nauseating to be so romantic."

"Is it romance?" asks an elderly-dater.

"I don't think so," she continues, answering her own question. "I dog-heeled a boy for two years like a puppy, mostly doing nothing. Now I realize the time was wasted. I wish I'd gone to more dances and parties because now I'm out of circulation."

The boy is a drip, she says, but she didn't know it until she started dating other boys.

It's too bad girls are losing interest in dances. That's the one date where a girl can shine, wear a gorgeous gown, flowers in her

Meet The Deb Who Wants To Write

Mrs. Joseph Franklin Butler of Bladenboro enjoys hearing her granddaughter . . . Bethel deb, Mary Jo Wynne, an accomplished pianist.

By ANNE SINGLETON
 Reflector Woman's Editor

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth in a series of glimpses into the lives of Pitt County debutantes.)

Mary Jo Wynne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wynne, Jr. of Bethel, has a wide range of interests, and especially enjoys classical music and Shakespearean plays.

Although she had originally planned to pursue her love for music at Salem College, a bigger ambition overshadowed her musical career—a yen to write.

"After graduation I would like to follow a journalistic career and work either on a magazine or a newspaper and travel," she said in her soft-spoken, reflective manner.

This energetic deb has already begun pursuing her future dream and now serves as Headlines Editor on the college newspaper, "The Salemite."

Mary Jo's college life has been an active one. During her freshman year she toured with the college ensemble and was a participant in the May Day Pageant. She is now serving as secretary of the Athletic Association.

Music Box Collection

This dark-haired girl with a warm smile has started a unique collection of unusual music boxes. A member of a Book Club, she enjoys reading books by Russian, English, and early American authors.

Before college Mary Jo had many pen-pals all over the world, but because her studies were time consuming, she now has only a few. One of these is a girl in London, England, who she has been corresponding with for ten years.

"My roommate is going to meet her this summer and I am anxious to hear the results of their visit," she added.

This summer besides swimming in her own pool, going to Myrtle Beach, S. C., and Ocean Ridge, Mary Jo has been reading some American literature which she will study this fall at college.

Tomorrow she will leave with her parents for an extended trip to Michigan, Canada, the New England States, and New York. While in Flint, Michigan, she will see her brother, Jack, who will be her chief marshal, graduate from the General Motors Institute.

MOTHER MAKING BALL DRESS

This Bethel debutante feels quite honored to have her mother design and make her very special ball dress and proudly shows it off.

Styled with a fitted bodice, the dress has two layers of satin covered with lace encrusted with pearls and sequines. The quite-full skirt features pleated tulle around the hemline and lace edges the sweetheart neckline.

For the second night festivities, Mary Jo will wear a deep blue chiffon dress that will complement her clear blue eyes. She plans to wear a red cocktail dress to the Governor's tea.

Besides her brother serving as chief marshal, she will have her cousin Julian Craft Smith, Jr. of Bethel and Jimmy Smith of Bethel as her marshals when she makes her bow to North Carolina Society at the 1957 Debutante Ball in September.

Owens-Carr Wed In Maryland

FOUNTAIN—Miss Jennette Marie Carr, daughter of Mrs. Daisy Carr and the late Mr. Carr of Cantonsville, Md., and Alexander L. Owens of Crownsville, Md., son of Mrs. John Henry Owens and the late Mr. Owens of Fountain, were married July 27.

The informal ceremony took place in the Salem Lutheran Church in Cantonsville.

The Rev. W. V. Newbury officiated.

Mrs. Chester Walker, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Chester Walker, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, attended Mr. Owens as best man.

A reception dance was held at the Democratic Club in Eleveon, Md. following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Owens are at home, 2114 East Pratt St., Baltimore.

A Semi-Annual Treat For Shoppers

From early morning 'til late afternoon tomorrow, Greenville stores will be humming with shoppers looking for and finding outstanding bargains in Greenville's semi-annual Dollar Day.

There'll be new faces in the throngs of shoppers in Greenville's business district; but there'll also be familiar faces of shoppers who long since found out for themselves that dollar day in Greenville is an event worth bucking crowds for.

It was more than 30 years ago that Greenville Merchants banded together for their first Dollar Day promotion. After a few trial balloons with Dollar Day bargains, local merchants and local citizens found these special trade events to their liking. For at least 29 years now Dollar Day has been a fixed, semi-annual trade event in Greenville.

Over the years Greenville's Dollar Day event has grown in scope, attracted more merchants to participate in the bargain offering and induced more shoppers from a radius of 50 or more miles to come here on Dollar Day to share in the harvest of merchandise at reduced prices. Though some sources may contradict

The Kitchen Detail Deserves Some Credit

Prison escapes, as a general rule, are rather solemn affairs.

In the first place, they represent a revolt against society and its rules, by persons who have already distinguished themselves as social malcontents. As a second point, they represent the extremes to which some persons will go in selfish desires.

There was something funny, however, about the Southern Michigan Prison inmate who failed in an escape attempt because he was too large to slip through a narrow pipe hole. One of his comrades made the trip without difficulty, but the stout prisoner got stuck in the pipe.

Southern Michigan is the world's largest walled prison. According to stories one sees occasionally, the guard detail there takes a certain and understandable pride in the small number of escapes by its inmates.

We wonder, however, if that pride suffered Sunday when the fat prisoner got stuck in the pipe and had to yell for help. We wonder, too, if the guard detail gave credit for preventing the escape to the prison's kitchen detail.

We might even carry this wondering to the extreme and ponder the possibilities of increasing the bread and potatoes fed to all prisoners. After all, a fat man does have his troubles when it comes to running.

As the one who tried Sunday night.

Inflation Hedge In Buying Home

By ELMER ROESSNER

While the rich can protect themselves against inflation by putting their wealth in good common stocks, real estate in the line of urban growth, and even gold stocks abroad, the little fellow usually has to take it on the chin.

He hasn't the swinging power to handle such investments, or even to pay for the necessary advice; and if he is on a fixed income, he simply has to stand there and take it on the chin. Better metaphor: he has to take it in the breadbasket. That's about what was said here yesterday.

But there is one sound way in which low and middle-income people can hedge if they are presently renting. That's to buy a home.

Prices are high at the moment and carrying charges are heavy. The prospects are that prices will go considerably higher eventually and that carrying charges can be reduced.

There are some sound precautions. The house ought to be desirable. No sense in moving into suburban swamps if it will take you three times as long to get to work.

The house ought to be sound, not a jerry-built structure on a soft land-fill. It usually pays to hire a competent expert to examine a house before buying it.

The house ought to be in a good neighborhood. Many people try to buy "in line of growth," that is, in an area that will be made more valuable by the expansion of a metropolitan area and extensions of its highways, parks and other facilities. It's a nice trick if you can do it, but remember that real estate men have ins at City Hall and usually know about development trends long before you can.

The best test is to ask: "Is this place in a neighborhood where I would like to bring up my children and have them rear theirs?" If the answer is yes, don't worry too much about superhighways and population trends.

YOU PAY OUT, BUT— If real estate values hold up the way they have in the last 20 years, and if you have chosen wisely, the increase in value will off-set future inflation and pay you a handsome return as well.

Of course, you'll have to pay out for upkeep and repairs. But if you are renting, you are paying for those things in your rent.

You'll have to pay taxes on your property. But you are paying taxes in your rent, for your present abode. And the landlord is getting the income tax deduction — not you!

And you'll have to pay interest at the highest rate in many years. But make sure you have a refundable mortgage, so that if the rate drops any time in the future (it will!) you can get a new mortgage at the lower rate. Meanwhile, the interest payments are deductible in calculating your — not the landlord's — income tax.

The biggest dividend of all, however, is the satisfaction of owning a little chunk of the earth, and of having a place where your own tree planting and landscaping brings you pleasure as well as profits.

our statement, Greenville's Dollar Day, in our opinion, has become one of the most successful trade promotion events in this section of the state. The tremendous success of Greenville's Dollar Day, we believe, is due primarily to the fact that over a long period of time Greenville's merchants have made a special effort to offer outstanding bargains at the Dollar Day events. Shoppers have come to recognize the genuine bargains and are anxious to take advantage of them.

Thursday promises to be another big day in Greenville—another in the long series of successful Dollar Days sponsored by local merchants.

More Than Enough Monuments On Hand

"A monument to governmental extravagance . . ." The phrase entices us.

It brings to mind a hundred pictures at once, each depicting a different method of squandering taxpayers' money. It tempts us to stop and attempt to recount the existing "monuments to governmental extravagance". How long would the list be? How high would our blood pressure go?

Better not take a chance. This latest admonition to the Air Force by Congress should not be directed to the Air Force alone. Neither should it be aimed solely at the New Air Force Academy. It might well be pointed to every agency of the federal government.

Some of our monuments to governmental extravagance are in the form of buildings and physical plants. Others, however, are in the form of programs and policies, and even entire agencies of the government.

Just for the record, the United States already has more than enough monuments to governmental extravagance. We trust Congress will see that its advice to the Air Force is also heeded by other departments and agencies of the federal government.

Reconsidering Tax Discounts

By LYNN NISBET

DISCOUNTS — The policy of discounts for prepayment of taxes and interest charges for deferred payment varies widely among the counties and municipalities in North Carolina. The Machinery Act of 1939 prescribes a schedule of discounts as follows: On payments prior to July 2, two per cent; during July, one and one-half per cent; during August and September, one per cent; during October and on November 1, one half of one per cent. Collections are at par during November and December. Beginning with January 2, interest is charged at one-half of one per cent a month until the taxes are paid.

Since 1939 that part of the Machinery Act (G.S. 105-345) has been changed by 34 local acts, affecting 22 counties and 30 or more municipalities. In some instances the discount period was shortened, in a few it was extended. The discount rate was changed as applicable in different months, but in no instance was it raised above two per cent.

Henry Lewis of the Institute of Government at the University of North Carolina, a recognized authority on property tax matters, has prepared tables showing the application of discounts in each of the units affected by the amendments.

Illustrating the continuing interest in this problem, and also the difficulty facing the research student who is seeking light on State and local taxes, every General Assembly since 1939 except that of 1941 has put two or three local patches on the statewide act. There were two amendments in 1943, four in 1945, two in 1947, three in 1949, six in 1951, eight in 1953, three in 1955 and six in 1957.

Further complications arise from the fact that in several instances the changes authorized are discretionary with the local governing bodies. That means not only the Legislative Session Laws but the minutes of county commissioners and town councils must be checked.

HISTORY — In the depression years few counties could borrow money at less than a per cent interest. It was good business to allow one-half of one per cent a month discount for prepayment of taxes, and it was necessary to charge the same rate of interest for deferred payments. Early experience was that discounts amounted to much less than interest collected. Then the differential began to narrow and recently in the state at large there has been a fair balance.

The situation now is that some local governments which can borrow from banks at much less are paying big corporate taxpayers 6 per cent interest on prepayments. Instances have been reported to taxpayers borrowing money at one-fourth of one per cent a month and collecting one-half of one per cent from the county and city. It goes without saying that majority of the discount payments are by big firms, while most of the delinquent interest is paid by the little fellows.

The fact that in 18 years less than one-fourth of the counties and less than one-tenth of the cities and towns have joined in amendments would seem to indicate general satisfaction with provisions of the 1939 statewide law.

It is a safe bet that this matter of discounts for early tax payments will be given careful attention by the continuing State tax study commission, and particularly by the newly authorized commission to study municipal financing.

WATCH POCKETS — Harry Golden, editor of the Carolina magazine, suggests that tailors quit wasting energy putting the little watch pocket in the top of men's pants.

The editor of the Greensboro Daily News enters vigorous protest. Just because Harry and a number of others have fallen for the feministic wrist watch, doesn't mean that there aren't a lot of men still partial to the pocket time piece.

Don Hall, editor of the Roanoke Rapids Herald, hasn't joined the current argument but two or three years ago he made vigorous defense of the watch pocket, and even more vigorous protest at the practice of putting it inside the pants or in a gash through the top seam, in a stead of outside just below the belt line.

Being addicted to pocket watch, your reporter strings along with Don. Not only must the watch pocket be retained, but it should be made accessible, so a fellow doesn't have to fumble around inside his pants with both hands in order to find what time it is.

The little outside conveniently placed pocket has another use for the wrist watch wearers. It's a handy place to tote a cigarette lighter, preventing the leg-straightening and body squirming necessary to dig the gadget out of the big side pants pocket.

The tailors have quit furnishing vests with suits, thus reducing by at least four the number of pockets available. They have also quit putting that little pocket in the left side of the coat, which was a favorite place to carry the old style open head matches.

Swashbucklers' Decline

Boredom is one of the most dangerous diseases known to man and one that attacks each and every one of us sooner or later.

Scientists have just begun to scrutinize boredom as a disease and they've found that it can even be deadly when prolonged.

Yet, it is something that overtakes us all. Sometimes I wonder how we don't all die of boredom when I read these swash-buckling novels and stories about olden times. I mean, whenever you read a story or see a movie nowadays, most of them are based on happenings back during the Civil War or the pirate days, or something like that long time ago.

Like what is there to do today to relieve a screaming case of boredom? Well, some people, hampered as we are by progress and society and all that, still get their share of adventure by various and dangerous means.

For instance, there is the daredevil who parks his car in a parking space and neglects to put a nickel in the parking meter. Then he leaves the car and lurks about, waiting for the police woman to arrive with her little book. He gets his kicks from the death struggle to reach the car and get away before she sticks him with one of them little tickets.

Those of lesser stamina and daring will merely race with her to the spot of the crime and deposit the nickel.

Now, the real devil-may-care adventurers of our modern time are the ones who will just park their car and leave completely, go on about their business, and leave it up to fate as to whether or not they get the ticket.

Probably twenty years from now, when they are making novels and movies about adventure, they'll base the stories on this latter breed of daredevils.

Then, of course, there are the thrill-seekers who dare to drive behind a woman driver within forty yards. These are the ones who prowl the highways or streets at night or day, in search of a woman driver. Then, when they locate one, they move in behind — driving at a fierce 20 mph — and within forty yards of her.

Pop! there goes a signal light for a left turn. Our daredevil increases his speed, closes the distance. Pop! There goes the lady's arm out the window for a right turn signal. Our daredevil hits the brakes, screeches them and honks his horn.

The object of this is to try to turn the woman's head. It's an extremely hard thing to do. I mean, to make the lady aware that she is fouling up, see? Well, it's practically impossible.

The real daredevil in this field is the kind that will take her signal to heart and just drive on, expecting the signaled turn.

Me, I expect to get my kicks and adventure out of receiving threatening letters from women drivers who read my column.

Other Editors Saying--- Everybody Wins

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

The State Board of Medical Examiners and the State Hospitals Board of Control have reached a compromise on the licensing of refugee doctors.

The state breathes a sigh of relief because the new program of curing instead of caring for in mental hospitals is to continue.

The Medical Examiners extend the time for regular licensing of the 23 foreign doctors by three years. Their first decision, reached last June, but announced only in July, was that the foreign doctors would not be allowed to continue practice beyond July of next year.

A special committee of Medical Examiners and Board of Control members will examine each of the 23 doctors concerned on his training for medicine and psychiatry.

If this examination produces information that a doctor has educational training of quality and extent of that required in this country, he will be allowed to take the regular medical examinations. To the layman in a quick learn that they had previously been barred from such examinations. To the layman a quick look, it would appear that if a candidate were able to pass the required examination he should be entitled to practice, his character and reputation being above reproach.

North Carolina has been aroused few times in recent years as it was over the harsh order from the Board of Medical Examiners. Telegrams and letters poured in in hot resentment of the action. The papers have been filled with letters on the subject. Without exception editors saw the decision as hasty. Civic organizations passed resolutions.

The extent and heat of the resentment could have generated a situation where it might have been difficult to work out a compromise. That action came to iron out the difficulties before too long helped settle the matter. Everybody wins in the compromise. The State Board of Medical Examiners has not lost too much face for itself and the profession.

Three years gives time for the qualified among the doctors. It also gives time for the Legislature to take action to insure that the hospital program will not be curtailed if a majority of the doctors converted prove in the end unable to meet licensing standards. The Legislature may have to authorize pay scales for the doctors that will meet the competition. The people will not allow the mentally ill and sick to be victimized by any short-sighted policy.

Opinions

In Brief

LAKE CITY, IOWA, GRAPHIC — The federal government owns billions of dollars worth of business that are not paying any taxes. It takes our tax dollars to keep them operating. These should be sold and applied to our public debt. . . . Six to ten billions in taxes could be saved in this manner.

KANSAS CITY, KAN., PRESS — "It is common sense that there must be a limit to the upward price spiral, else a loaf of bread will demand wheelbarrow of currency as it did in Germany after World War I."

Partial Plate Blues

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—In this civilization a middle-aged man can have many adventures.

He can float on a raft to the flowery isles of the South Pacific.

He can discover a misprint in the Long Island Rail Road timetable.

He can perhaps even find a new true love.

But—if he's 46 and got a partial plate—I'll tell you one thing he can't do. He can't chew gum and feel any younger.

Ever since I had my four upper front teeth pulled some weeks ago, envious strangers have stopped me in the street to find out what the result was.

Frankly, I feel it's the kind of thing that ought to happen to a stranger — but, please, not me again.

For the dentist replaces your lost ivorys with plastic copies that bear about the same relation to your original teeth as Benedict Arnold does to George Washington.

Your friends who have lost all of their teeth may console, "There's nothing to it. Don't worry. You'll never know the difference."

They may brag they can eat anything they want. The fact of the matter is that seven out of eight times they will order chicken a la king. They always unconsciously are saving their molars to bite a better meal. It must be that they certainly aren't using them.

A man who has 32 false teeth in inflation times you even buy false wisdom teeth—may say he can't tell the difference between his fine new bought chompers and the ones he pulled out. All I can say is that he is gifted with a remarkable lapse of memory.

Myself, I am only missing my four front upper teeth, like I said, but I'll tell you it's like a boy losing four mothers right in a row and all of 'em his.

A man with a partial plate feels like he has a mouth full of marbles but, unlike Demosthenes, this sensation doesn't encourage him to further oratory. The small new whistle in his speech, which yesterday he thought would be gone by tomorrow, is still there next week. He begins to hate the letter "S."

He has to. For if he pronounces it clearly he inadvertently whistles — that self-conscious lady passers-by are blushing and indignantly sure he is making overtures to them—which he sure ain't. Or else, if he avoids the whistle, he ends up with a lisp.

But a worse blow to the self-respect of a man with a partial plate comes when he tries to chew gum for the first time—which is usually the last time. I just finished making this effort. I started with one piece and went on, piece after piece, until I had the whole package in my mouth.

Each piece clung to the denture deeper so that finally I could no longer either whisper or lisp—I was silenced behind a silent elastic curtain. A gum gum curtain.

Let others falsely praise the virtues of false teeth. I'll tell you the truth.

A man who cannot chew gum is not free. He is a prisoner of time, and he is a prisoner forever.

Pavement proverbs for the man in the street:

Bald men deserve no particular credit for going through life without splitting hairs. With them it's simply a matter of thrift.

Security is the feeling a man with a steady job gets after talking to someone who has retired on a pension.

The most you can do for a friend is the least you can do for yourself.

Those who walk only in another footsteps run the risk of tumbling into another's grave.

If you can't build a bridge, build a footpath leading to one. Many a man gets credit for having push when all he had was pull.

Economic Survival Not Yet Won

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — In comparing the backward economy of all the Communist countries with our booming system of private enterprise, the official and unofficial experts always emphasize our enormous lead in industrial productivity.

The conventional method is to contrast the amount of hours or days which American and Russian workers must labor in order to buy a certain unit or amount of consumer goods. Whereas five hours or so will buy an excellent pair of shoes in the United States, it would take two or three days for a Moscow man to earn enough to purchase even a shoddy pair. The same system of measurement may be applied to almost every commodity in the market — housing, clothing, food, transportation, entertainment.

This economic contrast is always cited as evidence that the Communists can never match the democracies, including Europe's less industrialized states. It convinces the Pentagon that, despite Russia's concentration on heavy industry and armament, she can never defeat the Western Alliance in a war. It is regarded as a permanent deterrent to conflict.

INTERNAL DIFFICULTIES OF RED RULE Our acknowledgment of superiority in productivity lies behind the persistent belief that the Communists regimes will eventually collapse because of internal difficulties and dissatisfactions. The Polish and Hungarian revolts were precipitated by economic as well as political pressures — namely, the hunger and yearning for a happier and richer and less barren existence.

This long-range thesis underlies the Eisenhower-Dulles program of foreign aid and leadership of the anti-Communist Coalition, as the Secretary of State outlines it both on and off the record to the American public and press.

AS KREMLIN VIEWS US However, there may be a factor which offsets and neutralizes our obvious economic advantage over the Communists, and that consists of the twin horrors of taxation and inflation. They support the frequently reiterated Kremlin forecasts that the American capitalist structure will some day fall of its own weight, provided they continue to apply pressure against it.

A recent breakdown of the taxation burden on the average working-man is therefore, interesting. It was made by the Tax Foundation, Inc. of Rockefeller Center, New York City. Applying its figures to a man earning $85 a week for a 40-hour stint, it estimates that he must work 20 1/2 hours in a week to meet the needs of his family and the financial demands of the tax collectors, national, state and local.

It reveals that he labors longer to pay taxes than he does for any other item in his family budget, including food. Incidentally, at $85 a week, a man earns approximately $2.12 an hour and $4,420 a year.

BREAKDOWN OF $85-A-WEEK AMERICAN'S SPENDING According to this breakdown, Mr. American squanders 12 1/2 hours, or more than a day and a half, to pay taxes. He spends 8 1/4 hours at his machine to feed himself and his dependents. For all kinds of transportation, business and pleasure, he devotes 3 1/2 hours.

For housing he must work seven hours. He labors three hours for clothing, two hours for medical and personal care, one and three-quarter hours for recreation, and two hours for all other expenditures.

Nor is this $85-a-week man "living high on the hog." With his hourly wages approximately $2.12, here are his monthly expenditures for supporting Uncle Sam in luxury and himself in a modest way. Taxes of all kinds, $119.52; food, $89.52; housing, $59.35; transportation, $29.68; clothing, $25.44; medical and other personal care, $16.96; recreation, $14.84; all other items $16.96.

This breakdown may explain why another form of hidden debt has become almost as threatening as the national mortgage of $270-plus billions, if we should suffer another depression or even a sharp recession. The amount of consumer and installment debt owed by these harassed $85-a-week taxpayers will hit almost $40 billion by the end of 1957.

Senator Predicts Congress Okay On Inspection Plan

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) today predicted full congressional backing for the West's proposal to Russia of an international air and ground inspection system against surprise attack.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn), in a separate interview, agreed with Mansfield that Secretary of State Dulles has shown "great initiative" in working out the proposal presented last week to the five-power disarmament conference at London.

In general, the proposal would open to both air and ground inspection all of the United States, Canada and Russia and most of the remainder of Europe, as well as areas within the Arctic Circle. The aim would be to let both sides in the cold war assure themselves against surprise attack by the other.

Mansfield, a leading Democratic spokesman on foreign policy, told a reporter: "Mr. Dulles has called the Soviet bluff. It is now up to the Soviet Union to fish or cut bait. If the Soviet Union is really interested in disarmament, it can meet this challenge in the spirit in which it is offered."

"It is a great proposal and will be backed up by the Congress. That is the least Congress can do. Russia must accept or confess its principal objective is to try to find means to force us to give up our only true defense deterrent—our complex system of air bases."

Russia has not yet either accepted or rejected the inspection proposal, but asked yesterday for clarification of some points.

A Moscow radio commentator said, however, the proposal could serve nothing "except purely propaganda purposes." He said the U.S. Congress would never agree to open all this country to aerial inspection.

Sen. Gore, a member of the Joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, called the Dulles step a "bold and imaginative proposal of the kind for which we in Congress have been pleading."

"For once, we seem to have the initiative in the disarmament negotiations," Gore said, "instead of always reacting to Russian moves."

Dulles himself told a news conference he regarded the proposal, in which other Western nations joined, as possibly the most significant peace move in history. But he cautioned against overoptimism until the Russians agree on details.

He said he was confident the Russians would find the suggestion irresistible, but said that the world should not become elated over an agreement in principle lest disillusionment follow if negotiators should bog down on details.

Tot Trapped In Chimney Shaft

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — For a tense half hour yesterday, firemen took apart a portion of a home foundation.

Then they reached in and tenderly removed 3-year-old Glenda McPhee to safety from an abandoned chimney shaft which might have been a death trap.

Today, she was reported little the worse from the experience, though having suffered shock.

Earlier in the afternoon, Glenda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen McPhee, stepped into the shaft in the attic of their home and fell 18 feet between the walls of the house and into the basement, wedging tightly in an 8-by-12 inch opening.

Three companies of firemen, working with a pick, took the foundation apart brick by brick.

The firemen worked with the utmost care to avoid a collapse of bricks or otherwise injuring the girl.

Glenda was hospitalized. Doctors said her hurts were not serious.

Expects Outbreak In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia can expect a serious outbreak of Asiatic flu in the late fall or early winter, Public Health Commissioner Norman R. Ingraham warns.

"The time has come to tell Philadelphians frankly what can be expected," Ingraham said. "The sickness will be concentrated in a few weeks with a large number of persons laid up and unable to work."

Asiatic flu is a strain of influenza originating in the Orient.

Dr. Ingraham said Philadelphia has been "seeded" for an outbreak of Asiatic flu by Boy Scouts who attended the recent National Jamboree at nearby Valley Forge and visited the city.

and the makers of famous KINGSDOWN now bring you an amazing sleeping comfort discovery that may BANISH your back aches forever!

MOST BACKACHES OCCUR IN THIS SECTION OF THE SPINE

Statistics show that 86% of backaches occur in the lumbo-sacral area. As the lumbo-sacral joint forms the point of contact between flexible and fixed spinal segments, it is the most vulnerable part of the body for stress. Any strain or distortion... even from obesity (overweight), pregnancy or from sleeping on a soft mattress, can cause pain in the lower back regions of the vertebrae and, most likely, in the sacro-iliac joints. When sleeping, it is important that the hips and pelvic area rest in a near-perfect horizontal position. The new and improved KING-O-PEDIC mattress provides this type of firm support. Soft bedding can distort the spine and cause muscle fatigue which can result in any number of more serious back ailments. Why risk your health?

Based on principles recommended by orthopedic surgeons, chiropractors and doctors!

Why should you continue to put up with morning backaches? The new and improved KING-O-PEDIC mattress was created especially for people suffering from backaches caused by muscular strains due to improper sleeping posture. Only KING-O-PEDIC allows you to choose between two degrees of firmness—one side is Super Firm—the other side is Regular Firm! Either side gives your entire body the level, no-sag support needed for healthful rest without backaches! Discard your worn out or "too soft" bedding! Throw away your bed board! The remarkable KING-O-PEDIC mattress will give you the sleeping posture you should have.

The price? Not $79.50—not $69.50—it's yours for only $39.95! Twin or full! Matching box spring (for best results) at the same low price. This amazing mattress may banish your backaches forever!

Here is what ACTUAL USERS REPORT...

Greenville Wins State Little League Championship

Joyner's No-Hitter Against Charlotte Clinches The Title

Go To Georgia For Regionals This Friday

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor
FAYETTEVILLE — Left-hander Kenny Joyner pitched a 3-0 no-hitter yesterday against Charlotte to boost Greenville's Tar Heel All-Stars into the North Carolina State Little League championship.

The victory at Fort Bragg Field earned the Greenville team a post in the Regional tournament to be held at Rome, Georgia, this Friday afternoon.

Florida's champions will battle the All-Stars at 4:00 on Friday, and the winner of that game will engage the winner of the Alabama-Georgia contest on Saturday for the Regional title.

Joyner's Triumph
Joyner set down the stunned Charlotte club with seven strikeouts and allowed only six men to get on base in yesterday's game. He faced 24 batters. Two of the six got on on errors and the other four were walked. None got past second base.

The hard-throwing little left-hander received plenty of help from his mates at the plate. Greenville plunked out five hits, including a bases-empty home run by J. G. Proctor in the fourth frame. Jimmy Smith, Richard Taft, Denny Hardee and Joe Harper collected the other hits.

For Proctor, a husky leftfielder, it was his fourth home run in four games. In gaining the State title, Greenville faced Havelock, High Point, Gastonia and Charlotte. Proctor homered twice against Havelock, once against Gastonia and once yesterday against Charlotte.

Greenville Runs
Proctor's blast in the fourth gave Greenville a 1-0 lead. In the next inning, singles by Taft, Smith and Hardee accounted for two more. It ended 3-0.

Charlotte used three pitchers, Houser, Finley and Corbin. Houser was the loser.

A flock of Greenville fans attended the ball game to form the largest representation from any of the playing towns. The game attracted a huge gathering and a U. S. Army band played.

Every man on the Greenville team received a personal gift after the contest and the club was presented with a large trophy.

Money Needed
A spokesman from the Greenville Recreation Department stated this morning that the club is in need of expense money for the trip to Georgia. "We will leave Greenville probably on Thursday morning early," the spokesman said, "and we will try to charter a bus. We'll need expense money badly and any contributions will be appreciated by the team."

Any one who would like to donate should contact Scrapy Proctor or Hoover Taft. "Even if the money comes in after we leave for Georgia, it will still be needed and used," the spokesman said.

National Title?
Greenville coach Billy Dunn told reporters last night that due to the new setup of the Little League playoffs, his club could possibly win the National title in five games.

"We'll play two in Georgia and two in Louisville, Kentucky and then go to Williamsport, Pennsylvania for the World Series," he said, "that is, if we win all of them."

Wingate College Announces 1957 Football Slate

WINGATE—The Wingate College Bulldogs will begin their second season of football with a 10-game schedule this fall, according to an announcement released by head football coach George Tucker, a former ECC gridder.

Bulldog play will begin on September 14.
East Carolina College's freshmen are also on the roster.

Fourteen returning lettermen will bear the brunt of the Bulldog attack for 1957, with some help being expected from a crew of newcomers.

Jerry Carpenter of Gastonia will likely be the starting quarterback for Coach Tucker's aggregation. George Stafford, a sharp passer, will also sub at that position.

Tucker's backfield will also include Sonny Basinger, a speedy back from Concord, who starred in the recent All-Star game in Greensboro.

The schedule:
Sept. 14—Appalachian JV's, in Monroe
21—Guilford Freshmen, in Monroe
28—Gardner-Webb College, in Shelby
October 5—East Carolina Freshmen, in Concord
12—Ferrum College, in Ferrum, Va.
19—Gardner-Webb College, in Monroe
26—Chowan College, in Monroe (Homecoming)
November 2—Hargrave Military, in Chatham, Va.
9—Mars Hill College, Monroe
15 (Friday)—Citadel Freshmen, in Monroe.

All home games will begin at eight o'clock and will be played at the Monroe High School Football Field in Monroe.

SWIMMING DEMONSTRATION AT ECC—Yesterday was the final day of Coach Jack Boone's Swimming classes for local youngsters. With a gallery of parents and spectators, the youngsters demonstrated their newly-learned abilities as Coach Boone and his four assistants directed and supervised. Braves Move Back Into First In National Race

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press
Bob Rush and Ron Kline, a pair of right-handers with the National League's cellar chums, don't win very often, but when they do it sure raises hob with the pennant contenders.

Neither had won in two months, but when they got the job done last night the race had a new leader and its biggest gap between first and fifth since June 2.

Rush, Chicago Cubs' 31-year-old veteran who hadn't won since June 2, gained a 2-12 mark with a six-hitter that beat St. Louis 8-2 and ended the Cardinals' five-day stay in first place. Milwaukee's Braves moved back into the lead by half a game with a 5-4 victory over Cincinnati.

Kline, now 3-15 with Pittsburgh, junked the Pirates' losing streak at eight games with his first victory since June 9, tossing a five-hitter that beat Philadelphia 5-3 and pushed the fifth-place Phillies 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ games behind.

Third-place Brooklyn fell three games back, losing 5-0 to the New York Giants as rookie Curt Barciay gained his first shutout with five-hitter.

In the American League, the New York Yankees jumped to their largest lead yet, picking up a seven-game bulge as Bob Turley blanked Washington 4-0 on four singles while Kansas City socked the second-place Chicago White Sox 3-2. Baltimore won its fifth in a row and took over fifth place with a 2-1 decision over third-place Boston. Cleveland broke a fourth-place tie with Detroit and plunked the Tigers to sixth 5-1.

The seventh-place Cubs rapped Sad Sam Jones for two runs in the first on Walt Morry's sacrifice fly and a wild pitch. Jones, now 9-5, left in the seventh when three Cub runs made it 6-1.

Warren Spahn won his 11th for the Braves, who had only five hits but had a pair of unearned runs to stand off a two-run Cincinnati ninth. Hal Jeffcoat lost it.

The Dodgers loaded the bases with none out in the first against Barclay, but the young right-hander got out of it—starting with a strikeout of Gil Hodges, the NL grand-slam champ — and allowed only three singles the rest of the way. Bobby Thomson had three hits and drove in three runs with a pair of triples. Johnny Podres lost his second in a row.

Kline gave up a three-run homer to Harry Anderson for a 3-1 Pil lead in the fourth inning. But Gene Freese hit a two-run homer to tie it against 14-game winner Jack Sanford in the sixth. The Buc, scored two in the seventh on two singles, an error and Frank Thomas' sacrifice fly.

Hank Bauer homered to lead off the first inning for the Yankees as Chuck Stobbs lost his 15th. Turley struck his scoreless winning string at 22. Jim Lemon and Art Schult shared the Nat hits with back-to-back singles in the fourth and seventh innings as Turley took an 8-3 record.

The Red Sox managed just five hits off Ray Moore, who won his eighth, and reliever Ken Lehman. Willie Miranda drove in both Orville runs with a pair of singles. Willard Nixon lost it.

Roger Maris, Gene Woodling and Vic Wertz homered for the Tribe to hand Jim Bunning a 13-4 record with his first defeat since July 17 and only his second since June 21. Don Mossi won his eighth.

Woody Held drove in three runs, homering along with Billy Martin, as winner Alex Kellner and Virgil Trucks checked the White Sox, who out-hit the A's 10-6.

Craft Promises More Wins With More Hustle

By JOE MOOSHIL
CHICAGO (AP)—Harry Craft, Kansas City's new manager, put the Athletics on the winning track last night and promised more victories if "the boys continue to hustle."

Craft, former Cincinnati outfielder, yesterday was named manager, succeeding Lou Boudreau. Several hours later, the A's defeated the Chicago White Sox 3-2, behind the pitching of Alex Kellner and reliever Virgil Trucks and home runs by Woody Held and Billy Martin, a couple of ex-New York Yankees.

"All I ask of the boys is hustle for the 2 or 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ hours it takes to play a game," said Craft. "They were running them out tonight and played good ball. If they keep it up, we'll win our share of games."

Arnold Johnson, owner of the team, said, "It's all up to Craft whether he remains as a club manager after the 1957 season. It stands to reason that if a man gives a good showing, he'll be around another year."

"I remember Harry when he was with Cincinnati," continued Johnson. "He impressed me as a player who never gave up. I have found this to be true since he has been a coach. He'll give the club a definite lift as manager. He has the baseball know-how. He is a very determined individual and there is no doubt in my mind that he will succeed."

Boudreau has a job waiting for him with the A's. He "has been offered certain responsibilities and duties in the athletic front office," according to Johnson. Boudreau recommended Craft for the job, Johnson added.

Boudreau also gave the A's a pep talk before the game and asked them to "go all out for the new manager."

Craft, 42, said, "Lou is one of the greatest baseball men I have ever encountered. As far as I am concerned he is still in the Athletics' organization. He has been offered a good job and if he takes it, the club will be that much better off."

1. An engineer's report taken to mean a proposed new ball park for the Dodgers in Brooklyn would be economically unfeasible.
2. President Horace Stoneham's statement to stockholders that it would be in the best interest of the Giants to move out of New York.

3. Mailing of a formal but as yet undisclosed offer by San Francisco to the Giants.

The engineer's report to a special mayor's committee said it would cost $21,480,000 to build a covered stadium on one proposed site in downtown Brooklyn and $20,730,000 on an alternate site. In addition, the survey estimated complete rehabilitation of the area in Brooklyn would cost about 52 million dollars, nearly double the 30 millions approved by the State Legislature.

Walter O'Malley, Dodgers' president, refused comment on the engineer's report but in most sections it was agreed that the estimated cost would rule out any new Brooklyn park for the Dodgers, who have approval to move to Los Angeles if they request it.

Hi-Toms Maintain Lead With 6-4 Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Three runs in the seventh gave High Point-Thomasville the margin for a 6-4 win over Danville last night and maintained the Hi-Toms in their Carolina League lead.

Greensboro blanked Wilson, 2-0, to set the stage for an interesting tussle when the Patriots and the Hi-Toms open a two-game series tonight. The Hi-Toms lead by 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ games.

Meanwhile, Winston-Salem took a 4-0 decision over Durham and throw the standings in the league's lower division into a three-way tie. The Red Bird victory, sparked by Carlos Thorne's three-hit pitching, left Winston-Salem, Danville and Wilson all knotted up for fourth place in the six-team league, 9 games behind the leader.

Dallas Green allowed six Danville hits in hurling the Hi-Toms win. Don Mill was called on for relief work when Danville loaded the bases with two outs in the ninth.

Herb Benner scattered seven Wilson hits for Greensboro's triumph. It was Benner's ninth win against one loss. The Patriots collected their two runs in the first innings on two walks, a single and a double.

Third baseman Gene Davis proved an able ally for Thorne in chalking up the Winston-Salem win. He twice threw out Durham runners who had bunted. Durham is in third place, 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ games behind.

Big Posse Hunting Runaway Monkeys

NORTH WALES, Pa. (AP)—The last survivors of an army of wild monkeys, escaped from a biological laboratory, were still at large today.
The remnants of Platoon M, which numbered 49 at the start of the invasion, were gallantly holding out against superior forces. Their ranks were thinned by capture and death. The solid front had been dispersed into guerrilla forces and they were being relentlessly pursued.

The clash between animals and humans started yesterday when the 49 Rhesus monkeys escaped from the Merck, Sharp and Dohme research laboratories and swarmed through this community of 3,000 in suburban Philadelphia.
It wasn't long before calls began to bombard the police.
"I was hanging out the wash when all of a sudden this monkey comes swinging down the clothes line and..."
"It was in the kitchen. I was washing the dishes when his hairy face pops up at the window."

Social Revolution Came In Wake Of Nasser Upeaval

By WILTON WYNN
CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—In the days of King Farouk, Egyptian peasant Ahmed Shehidy was little better than a slave. Last month, under the rule of Gamal Abdel Nasser, Shehidy was elected to Parliament.

The social change coming over Egypt since the Nasser revolution is symbolized by the story of Shehidy, a little man who wears a nightgown-like native dress called a "galabiya" and makes his living farming three acres of land in the Nile Delta. He is a "fellah," or peasant, one of those masses of land-tillers who formed the basis of the enormous wealth of the small upper class in the days of Farouk.

Then Shehidy was landless. He paid a heavy rent for a little plot on the vast estates of Farouk's cousin Prince Tousson. Seventy per cent of Egyptians who owned land in those days had less than half an acre each. At the top of the social pyramid in Cairo were 1,700 landowners who held a fifth of the land in the country. Farouk's family alone owned nearly 200,000 acres, out of a total of six million cultivatable acres in the country.

Against this powerful group the little fellah was helpless. Landlords squeezed exorbitant rents out of the landless and the government demanded fantastic taxes from those who owned an acre or so.

The old landlords used to torture peasants to wring the last bit of available cash from them. A favorite trick was to hold a burning mass of rags in front of the fellah's face and then hit him in the chest. When he gasped for breath, he inhaled the flames. By that time, he was ready to surrender his last few plasters to the landlord.

The fellah slipped to just about the lowest standard of living in the world. A typical peasant house was a wretched mud structure, where the fellah's family ate and slept in the filth of donkeys, water buffaloes, goats and chickens sharing the living quarters. The fellah had an average of three diseases each, usually trachoma, dysentery and bilharzia.

When Nasser ousted Farouk, things changed. Land holdings were limited to 200 acres per family; the surplus was sold in small plots on long-term payment plans to fellahin working the land. Land rents were fixed at seven times the basic land tax. Total reduction in rents paid by peasants was estimated at 40 million Egyptian pounds yearly. (An Egyptian pound equals $2.88).

Ahmed Shehidy was one of those to benefit from Nasser's land reform law. He was handed a title deed for three acres of land which had belonged to Prince Tousson. Shehidy has 30 years to pay for the land at about 17 pounds yearly to Tousson as rent.

This year Shehidy made a daring decision. He decided to run for Parliament. With his fellow peasants promising him their votes, he entered as a candidate in the first parliamentary elections since Nasser came to power. Shehidy had to be approved as a candidate by Nasser's National Union Screening Committee. Three other candidates also were approved, one of them an under-secretary in a government ministry.

In a hot campaign, Shehidy won. On July 22, in his galabiya and turban, he took his seat in the same chamber where Farouk and his landlords once gathered in medieval splendor. Real Democracy probably still is a long way off in Egypt. But if a fellah can sit in Parliament, things must be taking a turn for the better for Egypt's common man.

Allied Officials Expect Old Line On German Unity

BERLIN (AP)—Allied officials look for a dressed-up rehash of Moscow's previous proposals on German reunification to result from Nikita Khrushchev's visit to East Germany starting today.

All signs pointed to a Russian gesture aimed at swaying West German voters. On Sept. 15 they elect a new Parliament and decide between Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, a staunch advocate of military alliance with the West, and Socialist opponents favoring greater neutrality in East-West politics.

Khrushchev, accompanied by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, is expected to make his big pitch at a special session of the East German Parliament Thursday.

The East Berlin radio quoted the East German ambassador to Moscow, Johannes Koening, as saying: "The importance of the visit of the Soviet party and government delegation will reach far beyond the borders of the East German Democratic Republic Sept. 15."

But Western diplomats doubted that the expected Soviet diplomatic gambit will be anything more than a new version of what the Kremlin has offered before.

The Russians have consistently dodged Western demands that Germany be reunified through free elections and allowed to decide its own place in the East-West setup. Instead, the Communists invariably demand that Germany's future be worked out in direct negotiations between the Bonn government and the East German regime is not representative of its people.

Western newsmen assembled from all over Europe were barred from accompanying the Khrushchev delegation on its tour of the East German provinces. They will be allowed to attend only four East Berlin functions under close Communist supervision.

Khrushchev is expected to explore ways of stamping out popular unrest, which has made East Germany one of the more unstable of the satellites.

Shaping Course For Foreign Aid Outlays

WASHINGTON (AP)—House and Senate conferees met today to shape the course and set the ceilings for foreign aid spending this fiscal year.

They will seek a compromise somewhere between the $3,617,330,000 authorized by the Senate and the $3,116,833,000 voted by the House.

Both figures are far from the $3,864,410,000 originally requested by President Eisenhower. Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) predicted a compromise figure around $3,366,250,000.

The big fight between the Senate and House conferees will come over a proposed three-year revolving fund for making low-interest loans for long-range economic projects in underdeveloped countries abroad. The Senate approved the full program, but the House voted to limit it to one year.

Both houses voted to authorize a 500-million-dollar appropriation for economic development loans this fiscal year. But the House struck out Senate-voted authority for the fund to borrow 750 millions from the Treasury for each of the succeeding two years.

The Senate voted to allow $1,800,000,000 for military aid (arms, planes and other military equipment) and 800 millions for defense supports (economic aid to help allies keep up military defense commitments) for this year. The House slashed the former to 1 1/2 billions, the latter to 600 millions. The conferees may split the difference on these items.

The Senate also authorized military aid for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1958, in the amount of 1 1/2 billions and defense support totaling 710 millions for that year to enable the Defense Department to put these items in the defense budget next fiscal year, but the House refused to go along with any two-year authorization. However, the administration has advised the conferees it would prefer not to have the second year's authorizations with any limitation on the amount. So Senate conferees probably will not argue over that one.

Rookie Cops On Dangerous Beats

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 500 student policemen marched out of classrooms and into hoodlum-haunted streets last night to join the war on juvenile crime.
The rookies pounded beats in the city's so-called hazard precincts where teen-age violence has exploded. They walked in pairs from 6 p.m. to midnight.
But the gray-clad patrolmen found little to make them reach for nightstick or pistol. The street gangs of young toughs had melted into the shadows.

"Very likely all the gangs are hiding," said a veteran police sergeant with the rookies. "All this publicity has frightened them off—for a while."
Youthful offenders have killed 22 persons this year, three in the last 12 days.

Before embarking on their emergency assignments, the 536 rookies got set-tough orders from First Deputy Police Commissioner James R. Kennedy.
"Gang violence and the unlawful use of force will not be tolerated," said Kennedy. "It will be met by force, legally applied."

Deputy Marshals Again Try Evict Aged Rancher

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—Three deputy U.S. marshals today began a second attempt to evict 82-year-old John Prather from his ranch in southern New Mexico.

The old man, who says he will die on the ranch he built 54 years ago, last night barricaded the house after federal officers returned here for a council of war. Prather's daughter, Mrs. Hart Gabar, and her husband, El Paso, Tex., last night journeyed to the ranch to talk to the old man.

The marshals, sent to the Otero County Ranch yesterday, returned to Alamogordo after having failed to carry out a government order to evict Prather.

The rancher has refused to leave the land which the Army has taken over for an extension to the huge McGregor firing range.

A writ of assistance ordering the rancher from the land was issued in U.S. District Court here yesterday. U.S. Marshal George Beach then ordered the three deputies to remove Prather from the land by force if necessary. Prather told reporters the deputies arrived at his ranch home about 1:30 p.m. and caught him unarmad and away from his house.

Three-and-a-half hours later they left.

The officers did not touch the house after federal officers repeated they would have to kill him to make him move.

Prather has turned down an Army offer of $209,000 for his holdings.

He has also spurned an offer which would let him live out his life on the property if he would sign a lease agreeing that the land would go to the military upon his death.

"I'm staying here until hell freezes over," he said.

Jury Says Heir Is Incompetent

NEW YORK (AP)—A jury has declared incompetent a 24-year-old Yale graduate who once renounced a $400,000 bequest and later decided he wanted the money.

A Surrogate's Court jury took five minutes yesterday to find that Eugene F. Suter Jr. is "incompetent and unable to care for his possession."

The action came after a former classmate told the court that Suter is "scatterbrained." Two psychiatrists called it paranoid schizophrenia. They said he thinks he can predict future events and knows what people are thinking 100 miles away.

Suter rejected the $400,000 bequest from his industrialist father in 1955 for "moral and political reasons." He was a member of the Young People's Socialist League then. He said he had "two hands and a head" to make his own way in life.

A Surrogate's Court upheld his right to spurn the money.
Suter changed his mind last September. In a court application to rescind his earlier decision, he said he was mentally and physically ill when he renounced the inheritance.

That application is awaiting further court action.
Suter's half-brother George C. Bingham of New York, and a former Yale classmate, Eugene Van Voorhis of Rochester, N. Y., applied in State Supreme Court to have Suter declared incompetent.

Yesterday's court finding must be reported to State Supreme Court Justice Francis X. Conlon. The justice may appoint a committee to handle Suter's affairs, including the $400,000.

Local Warehouses Prepare For Busy Season

FLOOR MARKERS . . . placed according to government regulations.

"We're painting like the devil," says one local warehouseman as next week's tobacco market opening date approaches.

He was referring to the annual job of preparing the big buildings for sales.

It's a job that includes balancing scales used for weighing tobacco, painting floor markers for placing of baskets, ordering office supplies, assembling a warehouse crew, and replacing and repairing of worn and lost equipment.

To insure accurate weights of the golden weed which will be sold in a few days, the State Department of Weights and Measures is checking each of the scales in local warehouses. No scales can be used for weighing tobacco until the department's stamp is placed on it.

Then the selling areas on warehouse floors have to be marked according to regulations. And the regulations provide that no baskets of tobacco should touch other baskets. Thus government graders can sample baskets from either side.

Trucks used for moving the tobacco around have to be balanced with baskets so that weights won't exceed that allowed on the scales.

There's the job of cleaning up camp rooms—which are now seldom used—and other sections of the warehouses.

Finally there's the big job of lining up personnel. Included are house operators, auctioneers, book and clip men, floor managers and assistants and weigh-men along with laborers as needed.

Tobacco will flood into the city beginning next week. When it does the warehouses will be ready for another selling season.

Auto Collision Saved Four Kids

CHELSEA, Mass. (AP)—An automobile collision yesterday saved four children from possible injury.

Richard J. Grzelczyk, 28, was at the wheel of his car when he spotted a driverless auto with four children in it rolling down a hill.

He maneuvered in front of the runaway vehicle and permitted it to strike the rear of his car, thus preventing it from smashing into a building at the bottom of the hill.

Dante Abbene, 32, said he had left his car at the curb with his children in it while he made a brief visit.

Face Problem Of Hundred Jobless

MULLINS, S.C. (AP)—The problem of a hundred persons jobless will hover over this community again next month when the tobacco market closes.

The unemployed, all sawmill workers, lost their jobs when the Schoolfield Industries closed a sawmill operation last April.

They were absorbed into the tobacco industry when the market went into high gear here.

Sam Webster Jr., president of the Chamber of Commerce, said the chamber has been searching diligently for an industry to replace the sawmill.

He said there was some hope for a limited timber operation by West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co.

"We're still looking, and we are offering everything in the book as inducements to new industry," he said.

OOOPS!

DELPHI, Ind. (AP)—A Carroll County farmer drove into town with a 1956 license plate on his car. He insisted to Delphi police that he had put on a 1957 plate. It developed that he had removed the 1956 plate, put it back on and tossed away the 1957 plate.

New Round Of Rate Hikes On Rail Freight Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has approved freight rate increases ranging from 4 to 7 per cent for the nation's railroads, effective after 15 days' notice to the public.

The new tariffs are expected to add 443 million dollars annually to freight costs, and will put freight charges about 107 per cent above the levels of June, 1946.

The increases, announced yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC), follow by only a few months a series of emergency rate boosts allowed by the agency. Those became effective about the first of this year.

Under yesterday's ICC action, Eastern and Western railroads get a 7 per cent rate hike, and Southern carriers get a 4 per cent hike. There were some exceptions noted in the order.

The earlier emergency increases amounted to 7 per cent in the East, and 5 per cent in the South and West. The net annual effect of these emergency changes was an estimated 455 million dollar increase annually in freight costs.

Thus, the over-all rate increases—yesterday's plus the emergency boosts earlier—run to 14 per cent in the East, 12 per cent in the West and 9 per cent in the South.

The over-all increased freight cost was estimated by the ICC staff at $97,800,000 a year.

The latest rate change is the 13th increase since the end of World War II, and the ICC left the door open for further advances on specific items if rail operating costs continue to rise.

In the exceptions, the commission provided for a uniform overall increase of 12 per cent on most manufactured goods, and a uniform boost of 9 per cent on grain, livestock, fresh meat and packing house products. These two rates apply in all territories.

Domestic water carriers under ICC control will be allowed to make the same increases set for railroads, the agency said.

Two Southern railroads, the Southern Railway System and the Piedmont & Northern Railroad, did not join in the petition for further rate increases after the ICC granted them and other roads in the South the emergency 5 per cent increase of last February.

Southern Railway operates the latest single rail system in Southern territory. The Piedmont is a short-line operating in the Carolinas. President Harry A. DeButts of the Southern System said at the time the further increase was sought that his company was standing aside because he believed the proposed higher rates would be a wise move from a competitive standpoint. DeButts was reported traveling in the West today and Southern officials here had no comment on yesterday's ICC action.

The ICC opinion accompanying its order yesterday took note of Southern Railway's position and asserted:

"Both the railroads and the motor carriers must face the fact that if their rates become too high, more traffic will be diverted from common carrier to private carrier transportation."

"Whether the railroads will be able to maintain the increases herein authorized will also depend to some extent upon whether the Southern Railway System will make similar increases in its freight rates and charges."

As the situation now stands, Southern, although not a petitioner for the further increases, shares in the blanket permission for further upward adjustments in the South.

CHAPTER 21

I stopped in Yucca for another cup of coffee, picked up a map and asked a few questions. The place was crazy over uranium. People were coming and going with all sorts of outfits: tents, beds, rolls, shovels, maps, compasses—all the paraphernalia of prospecting.

The best way to avoid attracting too much attention was to pose as a uranium prospector.

I found a place that rented Geiger counters and scintillators, sold pamphlets filled with instructions for locating uranium ore, telling how to stake out mining claims, and furnishing bits of advice.

I went the whole works. I bought pamphlets, rented the last Geiger counter they had, asked a lot of foolish questions and managed to get myself sufficiently oriented so I felt I could find the section of land I wanted.

As I started out, I felt certain that no one had pegged me as a defective. I was just another weekend prospector looking for uranium.

Uranium!

Suddenly something clicked in my mind. How did I know that Corning was interested in oil? I had told Bertha there was no oil up there, that when you dug down you'd come to granite and when you got down below the granite you'd find more granite. That wasn't oil country, but it was darn good uranium country. There had been a few strikes up there, and people were combing the mountains, for the most part staying away from ground that bore any evidence of private ownership.

My discreet inquiries had resulted in information that a man had lived on the section of land at one time, that there was an old cabin on it, that the tenant had gone broke trying to sink a well. He had been an old-time miner, had picked up a bunch of railroad ties cheap and using them to timber a shaft, had started sinking a deep well looking for water. When the well turned out to be a big dry hole and he'd gone broke digging it, he'd thrown up his lease and moved away.

I picked my way along a network of dirt roads over a rolling plateau country and finally came to a place which looked to be the place I wanted.

The road ran along the section line and I was able to find the section corner. I followed the road to the other section corner, checked with my compass, and had a pretty good idea of the lay of the land.

The old dilapidated cabin had been put together out of available materials and been patched with any old thing that came in handy. There were scrap lumber, pieces of corrugated iron, five-gallon tin cans that had been cut open, spread out flat and nailed into place.

A creaked door had developed a hole and the hole had been covered with canvas. The door swung lopsided on its hinges. The interior of the place smelled of pack rats and that peculiar stale odor which inevitably comes to an uninhabited cabin.

A pile of old magazines down in the corner showed where mice had been nibbling at the edges of the periodicals to get material for nests. A bunk bed against the northeast wall was still covered with the remnants of old pine boughs, now dried to the point of brittle harshness. A stove with one good leg had been propped up with bricks so that it was fairly level. A cupboard even contained the remnants of some crockery. The floor was littered with paper, broken glass, and rubbish.

I looked around the place and for some time couldn't find any indication of the well. Then I saw a mound of earth, walked over and had to answer the stereotyped inquiries: "Didn't find anything, did you? Well, you have to keep looking, but it's up here all right. If you could find it in a day we'd all be millionaires. But it's here. You never know when you're going to strike it. Well, come back any time, just prowl around up here, it won't do you any harm, and it may do you a lot of good. A fellow who's a bookkeeper been coming up here every week for the last three months made a rich strike a month ago. Guess you read about it in the paper?"

"West of here?" I asked.

"This was off to the east. But it's all around here."

"Okay," I told him, "I'll be seeing you again."

I got back in my car and returned to Banning.

You can never be sure what your neighbors may tell about you. Continue the story here tomorrow.

enough I had a feeling of claustrophobia.

I clung to the ladder, looked longingly up at the patch of blue sky, unlimbered the Geiger counter and turned it on.

The thing lit up like a pinball machine. I could hear a crackling in the earphone which sounded like machine guns.

I swung the Geiger counter back over my shoulder, gripped the rungs of the ladder and went up like a monkey, despite my weary legs.

When I finally emerged into the afternoon sunlight of the open air, I sucked in a deep lungful and found I was covered with sweat and shaking like a leaf.

I climbed back up to the raised ground and looked around. I could not see a soul.

I tugged and pulled until I had the platform back in place over the well. I went back to the car and drove back to Yucca. I returned the rented Geiger counter, got the balance of my deposit and had to answer the stereotyped inquiries: "Didn't find anything, did you? Well, you have to keep looking, but it's up here all right. If you could find it in a day we'd all be millionaires. But it's here. You never know when you're going to strike it. Medical Team Praised For 'Miracle' By Todd

NEW YORK (AP)—Showman Mike Todd says nine doctors deserve bows for a "miraculous" job in the delivery of a premature baby to his wife Elizabeth Taylor.

A 4-pound, 14-ounce daughter was born to the beautiful brunette film star through Caesarean section yesterday at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center. The baby was due in October.

Todd said Dr. Virginia Aggar "worked over the baby for 14 minutes before she holed." Dr. Aggar is a resuscitation specialist. She breathed life into the tiny infant.

"Those were the longest 14 minutes of my life," said Todd.

He issued this statement: "Liz and I are very grateful we got what we wanted most, but really the hard way. It was a miracle, thanks to the extraordinary medical genius of the lineup assembled by Dr. Dana Atchley, that this has come off.

"Mother and baby are doing well considering the precarious state of Liz in the last two weeks."

"After a series of conferences starting yesterday (Monday), it was decided at 9 a.m. by Dr. Anthony DeSopo, obstetrician; Dr. E.M. Papper, anesthetist; Dr. William Silverman, pediatrician; and Dr. John Larch, diagnostician, after consultation with Dr. Frank Stinchfield, who performed the final operation which was a complete success, and Dr. Lester Mount and Dr. Carmine Vicale, neurologists, to perform a Caesarean at 12 noon.

"Every doctor is pleased with the result and Liz and I are eternally grateful for the miraculous job they have all done."

The baby was named Elizabeth (Liza) Frances Todd.

Miss Taylor, 24, was in the hospital two days last week for what

Aid To Syria

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has promised extensive economic and technical aid to Syria under an agreement signed here last night after two weeks of negotiations.

A joint communique said Russia also would consider giving the Arab nation long-term credit. It gave no details and did not mention arms assistance or political agreements.

Arab informants in Cairo earlier this week said Russia had agreed to let Syria defer payment on Communist bloc arms purchases it has made over the past two years. They also said the economic and technical aid offer totaled 65 to 100 million dollars.

The communique said a special Soviet mission would leave for Syria soon to survey prospects for assistance on the development of railways, roads, irrigation and hydroelectric projects, industrial enterprises and research.

Refrigeration Technique For Brain Injuries

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Ten months ago, 15-year-old Richard Burgin was involved in an automobile accident. For 28 days he lay unconscious. His condition: critical because of severe head injuries. His chances: very slim. Richard isn't well yet. But he's alive. And his mother, Mrs. Marie Ree Burgin, thanks to God he is.

prolonged use of hypothermia — or "artificial hibernation" — is setting a precedent. The results are spectacular. Physicians say the normal death rate in cases similar to those being treated by hypothermia is about 75 per cent. With hypothermia, a death rate of only 25 per cent has been recorded. The process involves the dropping of the body temperature from 98.6 degrees — or normal — to 86 degrees with the help of refrigerating "blanket" and the injection of drugs. The effect on the body is to lower blood flow to the brain, reducing the need for oxygen there and slowing down all the body's processes. The swelling in an injured brain thus is lessened, lowering pressure inside the skull. The result is less damage to the brain cells. The drugs are injected to reduce the "fight" the body puts up against refrigeration. It takes the body from 2 1/2 to three hours to reach 86 degrees where the temperature is too high for heart irregularities and too low for shivering. Hypothermia is continued from three to 11 days, depending upon the specific case. Sometimes surgery precedes it, usually to relieve pressure from intercranial bleeding. A dramatic case history which illustrates the effectiveness of the process came after a 12-year-old boy fell from a 15-foot viaduct and landed on his head on a concrete street. Nine days later he responded to his name. Now he is all but normal. Doctors said of this case: "We have been unable to learn of another patient injured to this extent... who survived."

Rescue Is Easier Than 'Collecting'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — C. T. Jensen's helicopter plucked 17 persons out of the water in the Christmas week flood of 1955. Finding them, Jensen agrees, was much easier than finding somebody to foot the bill. Jensen says the Coast Guard requisitioned him and said he would be paid. He submitted a bill of $2,602.50, mostly for 28 hours of flying. He's tried the Red Cross. He's tried the federal government. Yesterday the State Board of Control turned him down. "Sometimes," Jensen told the board, "I wish I hadn't been there."

WALL STREET — The stock market turned lower in the early afternoon today after staging a rally in the first hour.

Losses ran from fractions to a point or more. There were a few small gainers.

Airlines and metals were the hardest hit, with losses running beyond a point in some fractions. Motors were off small fractions after pushing ahead a little in the morning. Steel and oil were mostly down. Rails and aircrafts were irregularly higher.

Airlines were affected by the action of the Civil Aeronautics Board rejecting a plea for a hike in domestic passenger fares. Metals digested the new cut in the price of copper. Rails were helped some by the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission of freight rate increases.

Scherer was a 2-point loser. Down more than a point were Eastern Air Lines, United Air Lines, Kennecott Copper, Anaconda, and Westinghouse.

Caterpillar, Lukens Steel, Du Pont, Gulf Oil, General Tire, General Electric, and Johns Manville declined around a point. Up fractions were Douglas Aircraft, Illinois Central, Northern Pacific and Eastman Kodak.

Stokely-Van Camp and American Smelting were off a fraction or so after announcing lower earnings. Stokely also declared a lower cash dividend.

Lawmakers Plan No Leaf Action

WASHINGTON (U)—A House Agriculture subcommittee was reported today to be planning no action concerning protests by some growers over market treatment of discount varieties of flue-cured tobacco.

Chairman Abbutt (D-Va) said that "as of now we don't plan to take any action since it was shown compliance" with the new program was "far greater than we anticipated."

The committee yesterday heard growers protest against the dept. of agriculture's identifying "outlaw" varieties at the market. They contended these varieties should be judged by the buyers on their own merits and bought or rejected by the buyers without government identification.

The government supports the "outlaw" varieties at 50 percent of the regular tobacco support level. These varieties have been described by some tobacco men as lacking in aroma and some other desired qualities.

Abbutt said the hearing showed that fewer than 1 percent of the growers planted these varieties, and that in many cases they did so inadvertently through mixture of seeds.

If there is no such inadvertent plantings next season, he added, "there will be no problem whatever."

Two Arrested By Police On Lottery Counts

CITY POLICE, continuing their crackdown on the local lottery racket, arrested two Negroes last night for possession of lottery tickets.

A search revealed small quantities of tickets in a house at 1213 W. Fifth St. The house was occupied by Andrew Clemons, 32, and Saffie Clemons, 27.

Following the search, both the man and woman were charged with possession of the tickets. They were taken into custody but later released under a $100 bond each.

The ticket books found in the Clemons residence were of the 25c and 50c variety. Each ticket had to do with a lottery based on the last two numbers of a widely circulated North Carolina newspaper's circulation figure.

Providing an individual was the holder of the winning ticket, he or she could win up to $100,000, officials said.

Investigation of the lottery racket is continuing by local police who have made a number of arrests during the past month.

Trio Charged In Robbery-Slaying

ATLANTA (U)—A grand jury has charged three young men with murder in the robbery-slaying of a Georgia Tech professor, Dr. William Knox Pursley.

True bills were returned yesterday against Andrew Joe Evans, 19, Paul F. Ardeser, 19, and Donald Gordon Little, 17.

Police said the youths had signed a statement admitting beating up the professor, a 32-year-old native of Clover, S.C., on the street early in the morning of July 19. Pursley, who died later in a hospital, also was robbed of $15.

The youths reportedly told police they did not intend to kill Pursley.

The instructor taught optics in Georgia Tech's Dept. of Physics.

Tobacco Barn Is Lost In Fire

BETHEL—Local firemen were called to the Clark farm owned by L. J. Whitehurst and Son Sunday night when a tobacco barn burned.

The barn and tobacco were destroyed along with 8,000 tobacco sticks in an adjoining shelter.

Tenants on the farm were down a nearby barn and it was not damaged. The fire occurred in the Penny Hill section.

Drama Reversed

MARBLEHEAD, Mass. (U)—In a reversal of the usual sea drama, a yachtsman yesterday rescued the Coast Guard. Mr. and Mrs. William Welch were cruising in their power boat when they spotted a small vessel aground. Pulling the vessel free with a tow line, Welch discovered it was a Coast Guard patrol boat from Gloucester.

Funeral Thursday For Mrs. L. A. Reel

Mrs. Fannie J. Reel, 85, wife of L. A. Reel, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Woodrow Boyd, 1710 S. Elm Street, at 6:45 Tuesday night. She had been critically ill for three days and in declining health for several years.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Thursday afternoon at four o'clock by the Rev. W. O. Haney, Christian minister of Kinston. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Reel spent most of her life in the Gardner's Crossroads community of Pitt County and was a member of Riverside Christian Church.

Surviving are her husband; five daughters, Mrs. Woodrow Boyd of Norfolk, Va., Mrs. Roman Buck of Vanceboro, and Miss Estelle Reel of New York; five sons, George Reel of Madison, Fla., Jim Reel of Fairbluff, Laurie Reel of Grimsland, John Reel of Morehead, and Clem Reel of Winterville; 32 grandchildren; and 38 great grandchildren.
