MOREHEAD CENTENNIAL—The mid week waterfront parade was held in Morehead last night. The parade featured luxurious cruisers, gaily decorated floats, beauty queens and celebrities. A fireworks display followed. The week long celebration continues through Saturday.

Senate's Version Of Civil Rights Bill Goes To House

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 72-18 Senate vote returned the civil rights bill to the House today amid reports President Eisenhower will call Congress back in November unless he gets a measure he feels he can sign. The Senate's jury trial version of the bill was roundly condemned by civil rights advocates, but they helped supply the votes for the historic passage of the measure last night. It is the first of its kind approved by the Senate in more than 80 years. The fate of the bill was uncertain in the House, which passed a measure much broader in scope and more stringent in enforcement provisions by a 286-126 vote June 18. But some House members who had spoken out most bitterly against the Senate changes were starting to talk more of compromises, expressing hope they still could salvage a bill they could consider worthwhile. Because of the uncertainties, Senate Republican Leader Knowledge of California told a reporter it was "too early to say" whether a special civil rights session might be called in November. Other senators said Knowledge had told the Senate Republican Policy Committee in a closed meeting that a special session is a definite possibility if the Senate's version of the bill is not amended to conform more nearly to Eisenhower's wishes. Either the House or a Senate-House conference committee could make the changes, but in either case the Senate would have to approve later. Eisenhower declined at his news conference yesterday to shed any light on a possible veto. But responsible administration officials have said he will reject the measure if the jury trial provision inserted by the Senate is not revised. Any such veto would be likely to be accompanied by the announcement that Congress will be called back to Washington this fall, these officials said. A special session call would be likely also, they added, if Congress decided not to act finally in this session. No Republican senators voted against passage of the bill when the roll was called last night after nearly five weeks of debate. The 18 Democrats who voted against it were all Southerners except for Sen. Morse of Oregon. Morse said he could not bring himself to vote "for a civil rights bill which bears little more than the title." Calling it an odoriferous corpse, he said it "raises hopes and expectations which will not be satisfied." Five senators from Southern states, all Democrats, voted for passage. They were Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader; Yarborough

Win Or Lose, Big Welcome Home Is Planned For Young Baseballers

Champion Little Leaguers Leave At Early Hour

Greenville's North Carolina Little League champions set sail for Rome, Georgia, early this morning aboard a Carolina Coach bus. The 14 youngsters, Coaches Charlie Bland and Billy Dunn, and 25 parents left Greenville this morning at 4:00 after a big send-off by a small gathering of early-risers and well-wishers. Several cars also left at the same time, following the bus south. The Little Leaguers left town with intentions of staying in Rome for several days—and returning to Greenville with the Regional Little League title beneath their belts. Rome is playing host to the Regionals, which will include the state champions from North Carolina, Florida, Georgia and Alabama. Greenville's club, representing this state, is slated to meet Florida at 4:00 Friday afternoon. Should they win the Friday contest, they will meet the winner of the Georgia-Alabama contest for the Regional crown on Saturday afternoon. The youngsters just copped the state championship at Fayetteville Wednesday, beating out Gastonia and Charlotte in the process. Winner of the Regional tourney will then advance to the semifinals at Louisville, Kentucky. Greenville's championship outfit is an All-Star team chosen from the Elks, Exchange, Moose and Pepsi-Cola teams in the local Tar Heel league. They are listed below: Pepsi-Cola — Elwood Goodson, Joe Harper, Frank Harper, Moose — Kenneth Joyner, Dixie Coltraine and Jimmy Smith. Exchange — Robby Ange, Bernie Morris, Johnnie Reynolds, Richard Taft. Elks — Joe McKay, J. G. Proctor, Denny Hardee and Bill Green.

With Greenville's Championship Little League team on its way to Rome, Ga. for the regional playoffs, arrangements were being made here today for a gigantic "welcome home" celebration for the team when it returns late Sunday afternoon. "We want at least 2,000 people to welcome these boys home Sunday afternoon if they win the regional playoffs in Rome," W. M. Scales, Jr., chairman of the arrangements committee said this morning. "If the Greenville team doesn't win the regional playoffs, we want at least 3,000 people on hand to welcome them home and show them the people of their home town are proud of them, win or lose."

Scales said the "welcome home" celebration for the Little League team will be held at Elm Street Park. Arrangements he said, are being made for an official escort to meet the bus before it arrives in Greenville and to escort the bus and players to the Elm Street park for the celebration. For members of the Little League team which won the state championship Tuesday, the welcome home celebration will come as a complete surprise. Scales said they will not be informed of preparations being made here for the celebration. Scales also suggested that local citizens send telegrams to the team prior to their first game tomorrow afternoon, wishing them luck and telling them the people at home are pulling for them. "Those kids are 550 miles from home," he declared, "and it will be a tremendous boost to their morale if they know the people in Greenville are thinking about them and pulling for them." Telegrams can be sent to the Greenville Little League team care of the Southeastern Regional Little League Tournament, Rome, Ga. The 14 members of the Greenville Tar Heel All-Stars and some 25 parents and fans left here at 4 o'clock this morning by special bus. They are expected to arrive in Rome late this afternoon and will meet the Florida champs in their first game at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Soviet Colonel Arraigned On Charges Of Espionage

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — A thin, balding alien, accused of being a top-ranking Soviet spy who specialized in atomic and military secrets, was held here today for return to New York, where he quietly posed as an artist for nine years.

Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, 55, a colonel of Russian intelligence, was arraigned here yesterday on espionage charges returned in a federal grand jury indictment in Brooklyn. He is the highest ranking Red agent ever accused of spying for Russia in this country.

Abel, who entered the United States from Canada in 1948, was being held for deportation in the nearby McAllen (Tex.) Detention Camp for Aliens when the indictment was returned yesterday. He had been held only as an illegal alien under the name of Emil R. Goldfus, an alias he assumed while working as an obscure photographic artist in Brooklyn. The government claimed in the event of war, Abel was set up in Brooklyn to receive sabotage instructions from Moscow. Abel apparently was linked to a Kremlin master spy who was involved in the first big espionage scandal after World War II. Four Russians were named as conspirators with Abel, but not as defendants. They included Val G. Pavlov, who headed a Russian secret police network based in the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa, Canada. It was broken up in 1945 after the arrest of atomic-traitor Dr. Alan Nunn May. Developments in the Canadian spy case led to the later arrests of Dr. Klaus Fuchs in England and Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, executed atomic spies. Abel was brought here under heavy guard from the detention camp for arraignment before U.S. Commissioner J. C. Hall. He was handcuffed to two FBI agents who hustled him past a crowd of spectators, photographers and newsmen. Two other officers stood guard. At the hearing he readily signed a waiver allowing his return to New York, possibly today, to face the charges. Exposure of the spy plot reportedly resulted from Reino Hayhanen's defection to the West. He was named as a coconspirator in the Abel indictment and appeared yesterday before the grand jury. Hayhanen was described as a trained Red espionage agent who spent six years in the United States. After his return to Europe, he was said to have sought haven in the West. He was flown to New York for the grand jury hearing. Government agents learned of his alleged spy activities later, during which time he had been ordered deported. Found in his room at the Hotel Latham were cryptic notes, codes and the birth certificate of Emil R. Goldfus, a Manhattan infant who died in 1922. His activities as listed by the government followed the fictional spy pattern—microfilmed secrets transmitted to Russia in hollowed-out coins, pencils, bolts, cuff links and ear rings.

Again Named To Railroad Board

Judson H. Blount of Greenville has been nominated for reappointment as Chairman of the Board of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad. Blount, who has been chairman since 1946, was nominated for reappointment by Governor Luther H. Hodges. Governor Hodges makes the nominations for the State of North Carolina, majority stockholder in the line which runs from Goldsboro to Morehead City. The Board of Directors of the railroad will meet in Morehead City tomorrow morning to act on Governor Hodges' nominations. Blount has been chairman of the railroad's Board of Directors since 1946. He had served as president of the line in 1945 and has been a member of the Board of Directors longer than any other person, according to G. Paul LaRogue of Kinston, secretary-treasurer of the line. Blount has also been a member of the railroad's Executive Committee since 1945. LaRogue said. In addition to Blount's nomination as Chairman of the Board, Governor Hodges also nominated M. G. Mann of Raleigh as president, LaRogue as secretary-treasurer and John Pritchard of Wind-

Pleasure Boat Burned, Sank

NEW BERN, N. C. (AP)—Coast Guard boats and an airplane searched the Neuse River near here today for further traces of a pleasure boat that burned and sank yesterday. It was not known whether any persons were aboard the boat when it sank. Authorities reported that an automobile belonging to Keith Garner, radio technician of Kinston, was found parked near the Coast Guard station at James City near here.

Limping In

HONOLULU (AP) — An Air Force C97 with 65 passengers today was limping back to Hawaii with two of its four engines out. The Air Force said the plane may be forced to ditch in the Pacific. The Air Force said the pilot radioed that he had enough fuel to remain airborne for five hours and four minutes. The Air Force said the pilot indicated he could make the trip within five hours, landing at Hilo with dry tanks. Air-sea rescue personnel, however, expressed doubt whether the gas supply would hold out.

Two-State Meet On Blacklisting

DILLON, S. C.—South Carolina farmers, stirred up by the current tobacco variety issue, have decided to join the farmers in N. C. in their fight against the U. S. Department of Agriculture and its "black listing" decision.

Big Agenda For Council Tonight

Parking will take a portion of council time tonight when city fathers hold their August meeting in City Hall at 8 o'clock.

A spokesman for a group of Palmetto growers told the Daily Reflector by telephone yesterday afternoon that a two-state meeting has been set up in Lumberton tomorrow night for the purpose of challenging the legality of the Department's decision to segregate tobacco varieties on the warehouse floors. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. It was disclosed that the Lumberton meeting is being arranged in an effort to seek an injunction against the U. S. Department of Agriculture in the enforcement of its decision against Coker 139 and 140 and Dixie Bright 244. At the present time the three varieties are given a striped ticket when placed on the warehouse floor for sale. The spokesman stated the more than 200 farmers in his state that have either admitted or been accused of having planted one of these varieties are seeking to sell their tobacco on a free auction regardless of variety. To date most of them have not received a marketing card of any kind. "It is time the farmers in both states get together in their legal fight for some sort of relief," he said. "The policing tactics of our tobacco fields now being employed are working a hardship on many innocent blue-cured tobacco growers in both states."

Tonight's agenda lists additional parking facilities on Dickinson Ave. as an item of business. Also coming up is a discussion of leases on parking lots. A public hearing on annexation of property in the Meadowbrook section is scheduled for the meeting.

There will be a recommendation for changes in traffic at Eighth and Dickinson Ave. The council will discuss plans for additional recreation facilities and they will hear recommendations for changes in the cost fees of City Recorder's Court. Other business scheduled for tonight: collection of city taxes, adoption of street name in Royce Jones subdivision, new ordinance concerning removal of weeds from vacant lots, appointment of members to Negro library board, investment of Workmen's Compensation Insurance Monies.

Dollar-Day Shoppers Came Early For Bargains

Two women shoppers were standing outside the store window looking at the pretty merchandise. "You know I wish they would have sales like this more often," one said. The other nodded in agreement as she continued to look at "marked-down" items in the decorated window. Both of the women came to town "to take advantage" of Greenville merchants who have pooled their efforts to stage another Dollar Day. Actually they were not by themselves. Hundreds of shoppers, mostly women looking for a bargain, could readily be seen on local streets and in stores today. Most of these bargain seekers evidently were successful. Under their arm were neatly wrapped packages. Some were seen carrying shopping bags crammed with everything from a piece of cloth material to a metal wastebasket. To go along with the bargains and free parking offered for the shopper, the weatherman obliged with excellent weather. One merchant laughingly stated that this came as a result of an official proclamation issued by the Merchants Association earlier this week to the weather bureau. Looking down Evans Street early this morning not a parking space was available to the shopper who came down "late" for the special semi-annual sales event. Long before the business establishments opened their doors all parking spaces on the downtown streets and parking lots were filled, with some of the out-of-town visitors stopping their vehicles "way on down" the street. No one seemed to mind. Long lines of automobiles waited for every spot light on the downtown streets. Traffic was heavy, both on the streets and sidewalks. Another merchant said he had never seen such a steady flow of shoppers. "They have been coming in strong since 9 o'clock this morning."

"The people are really here!" Larry Averette, chairman of the Merchants Association's Trade Promotion Committee, said, "It looks like the biggest and best Dollar Day ever staged in Greenville."

SHOPPERS WAIT FOR THE STORES TO OPEN THIS MORNING . . . Dollar Day is termed to be "the best yet!"

Drama Of Terror By Young Escapee

SMITHFIELD, N. C. (AP)—A wild try for freedom has landed James E. Woods, a 17-year-old convict, in Johnston County Jail facing charges ranging from prison escape to kidnapping. The pint-sized fugitive set off a drama of terror yesterday afternoon when he exchanged gunshots with a barricaded farm family, then commandeered a car and driver for a getaway attempt. Otis Narron, the driver for Woods' flight toward South Carolina, attracted the attention of officers near Laurinburg after a nightmare ride of some 90 miles. Woods and three others were wounded slightly in the shooting which preceded the flight. The injured were R. R. Narron, 63, whose blast from a shotgun nicked Woods; his niece, Miss Mavis Boykin, 45; and his first cousin, Mrs. Willie O. Narron, about 53. They were treated at Johnston County Memorial Hospital, but all had been released today except Miss Boykin. However, her condition was not serious. Woods, a native of King's Mountain, had entered the nearby home of the Willie O. Narrons where he picked up a shotgun. When the couple returned at noon from work in the fields, he took them to a car but it broke down a short distance from the house. Then he approached the home of R. R. Narron, but was met by closed doors. Otis Narron, the nephew of R. R. Narron, drove up after the exchange of shotgun blasts and Woods took over the car with Narron as driver. The unwilling chauffeur made his escape when a wreck scene near Laurinburg forced the car to slow down. He yelled to officers and shoved to the floorboard the barrel of the shotgun held by Woods, Scotland County deputy sheriff

B. P. Lytch said Woods admitted he had escaped from the Franklin County prison camp on Tuesday night and "he told us he shot some folks before he got here."

Otis Narron, Lytch added, related that he never looked for officers so much in his life and couldn't find one.

Narron had failed to slip a signal to a service station attendant only a short distance from his home. When Woods ordered a stop to purchase gas, Narron winked at Will Hinton, the station operator, but Hinton failed to notice anything unusual.

State Prisons Director W. F. Bailey said he was surprised at the desperado role played by Woods, a slight 5-6 youth. "He had given us no trouble at all," Bailey said.

Woods, an honor grade prisoner, walked off from the Franklin County camp after finishing his evening duties in the kitchen. It was his third escape since he entered prison in July, 1956, to serve 2 to 3 years for breaking, entering and larceny.

In addition, Woods had sentences of 12 months for auto larceny and two years for assault with a deadly weapon and carrying a concealed weapon, and sentences of 6 months and 18 months to 4 years for his previous escapes.

Kings Mountain police said today that Woods has a record of arrests dating from October, 1951, when he was 11 years old. Officers said his name appeared on their arrest books every year since that date except when he was confined to juvenile authorities.

Kings Mountain police said the offenses listed in the arrest book included breaking and entering, larceny, damage to city property and auto theft.

Miss James Wears String Of Pearls, Gift Of Mr. Perkins

AYDEN—A ceremony Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church near Winterville united in marriage Miss Rubelle James, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lee James of Ayden, and James Wesley Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Perkins of Pink Hill. The Rev. Henry Melvin officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Floor baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums and palms interspersed with candelabras holding burning tapers were used in decorating the church chancel.

Given in marriage by her brother, the Rev. Howard James of Charleston, S. C., the bride wore a ballerina length gown of Chantilly-type lace and tulle over bridal satin. The lace bodice, fashioned along princess lines, was accented with points in center front and back, and a circular scalloped neckline and long sheath sleeves ending in points over the hands.

Her full bouffant three tiered skirt was highlighted with a pointed lace pepum. The two-tier fingertip veil of illusion fell from a matching tulle crown edged with pearl trimmed petals. She carried a white satin prayer book topped with a purple throated white orchid. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace, a gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Earl Deal of Winterville was matron of honor. She wore a ballerina dress of Nile green organza over taffeta which was fashioned with a fitted bodice and short full sleeves and a wide sash. She used matching mittens and headdress and carried an arm basket of Better Times red roses.

Perkins served his son as best man, and the ushers were Jackie Perkins of Pink Hill, brother of the bridegroom, Linwood Stroud of Pink Hill, Earl Deal and Paul Braxton of Winterville.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Paul

Braxton, organist of Winterville, presented a program of nuptial music, and Mrs. Howard James, soloist of Charleston, S. C., sister-in-law of the bride, sang "Through The Years" and "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction.

The bride, a graduate of Atlantic Christian College in Wilson and East Carolina College in Greenville, will be a member of the faculty of the N. W. School in Kingston this year.

The bridegroom attended East Carolina College in Greenville and is employed at the Globe Hardware Company in Greenville.

For her niece's wedding, Mrs. J. W. James of Ayden chose a navy blue dress with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a street length dress of Robinson egg blue imported Chantilly lace with a matching velvet hat and accessories. She also wore a corsage of red roses.

For traveling, Mrs. Perkins changed to a light blue silk dress with navy accessories and wore the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

After the wedding the couple will be at home in Ayden.

Meet The Deb With Future Plans

Mary Anne Manning, Bethel deb, looks over wardrobe . . . with her mother, Mrs. William Harvey Manning.

By ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Woman's Editor

(Editor's Note: This is the sixth in a series of glimpses into the lives of Pitt County Debutantes.)

Although a popular miss with the lads, Mary Anne Manning mentions, "I've never gone steady because I think you miss too much out of life."

A graduate of Peace College, this Bethel debutante plans to obtain a degree in physical therapy from the University of North Carolina . . . and then work several years before marriage.

"I chose this career because I love to work with children," explains this trim, vivacious daughter of Mrs. William Harvey Manning and the late Mr. Manning.

Her cousin, Battle Moore Robertson of Clayton, will be her chief marshal. Bill Stevens a cousin from Willow Springs and John Hager of Irvington, New York, will be Mary Anne's marshals.

Debutante Weekend Wardrobe

Embroidered with iridescent sequins and pearls, her quite full ball dress will be made of peau-de-sole. Fashioned along princess lines, her gown which has a portrait neckline will complement her peaches and cream complexion.

While in New York on a buying trip for her store, Mary Anne's aunt from Clayton purchased the ball dress and a full-skirted black velvet cocktail dress which this season's deb will wear to the Governor's tea Saturday afternoon.

For the second night festivities, Mary Anne plans to wear a mint green satin and tulle gown which will highlight her sparkling hazel eyes.

She has been relaxing and pursuing one of her interests—swimming this summer. Her deep, even tan bespeaks the countless hours she has spent in the sun.

Bridge, Tennis, Reading, Music

An avid bridge player, this friendly deb enjoys reading novels, playing tennis and listening to classical music. She was a piano and dancing student when she was younger and notes, "I still enjoy dancing."

What is her weakness? She quickly confesses that she can't resist matchable skirts and sweaters, especially in her favorite shades of green and brown.

A sports enthusiast, she played basketball and tennis at college and was secretary of the Athletic Council. Her college days at Peace were quite full of extra-curricular activities. Besides being a staff member on the college annual, she served on various campus improvement committees.

"Pet peeve? I guess the only thing I don't like is studying too much," she said with a quick smile.

Following the ceremony, the Rev. and Mrs. Howard James entertained the wedding party and guests at a reception given in the Education Building of the church.

Mrs. Henry Melvin greeted the guests and presented them to the receiving line composed of the members of the wedding party and the parents of the couple. Mrs. Marvin McCormick directed the guests to the bride's table which was covered with a pink linen cloth centered with a matching floral arrangement and candles.

Mrs. Elwood Davenport poured punch and Mrs. Russell Little served the bridal cake. They were assisted in serving salted nuts and mints by Mrs. Leslie James, Mrs. W. J. Coward and Mrs. Ford Lawson.

Miss Betty Britt Perkins, sister of the bridegroom, presided over the bride's register and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Langston heard the goodbyes.

Fourth Birthday Party

GRIFTON—Little Miss Decorah Phillips was feted on her fourth birthday Tuesday afternoon when her mother, Mrs. Mark Phillips, entertained at an outdoor party.

The fifteen young guests enjoyed games on the back lawn. Supper was served from an appointed table centered with the birthday cake decorated in white with the lighted candles.

Mrs. W. E. Rasberry, Mrs. Walter Murphy and Mrs. L. A. Butler assisted in the entertaining and serving.

Ideas, Help, Interest Needed To Make Celebration A Success

At a dinner meeting of the Pitt County Historical Society at the Corderia Restaurant in Greenville Thursday night Sam D. Hundy of Farmville gave the invocation.

Frank E. Brooks presided over the business session. Judge Dink James explained the objectives of the Pitt County Historical Commission enacted during the last days of the legislative session, one of which is to celebrate the 200th anniversary of Pitt County in 1960.

He stated that ideas and interest and help of every person in the whole county—from every town, hamlet and crossroads—are needed to make the celebration a memorable occasion and then called on members present for suggestions.

Greenville To Celebrate 200th Anniversary

D. L. Corbett, of Raleigh, a native of Pitt County and a member of this society, head of the Division of Publications for the State Department of Archives and History and Managing Editor of the North Carolina Historical Review, discussed celebrations in other towns. Mr. Corbett said, "It would give the people a desire and chance to preserve relics and family records; an opportunity to tell about East Carolina College; it would teach the children to take more interest in the history of the county—that all the people should take part and it should be Homecoming Week for former residents."

L. P. Brewster mentioned, "It would be a wonderful way to preserve the records of Pitt County for future generations—that a progression celebration, from one town to another, might bring the interest of more people. He and Dr. Howard B. Clay said the faculty of the college would cooperate one hundred percent."

Mayor Charles S. Edwards and the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce pledged the cooperation of Farmville.

Mr. Chester Walsh suggested favors and told of some of the events taking place in Morehead during its 100th anniversary and about their favors.

Dr. Martha Pingel Wolfe said, "A pageant and a history would give something concrete to work for."

1907 Items

J. L. Jackson expressed the hope that teachers would interest students in Pitt County history and in the celebration and that a museum will be started soon. He had on display some bags of R. J. R. smoking tobacco and some tickets issued for cold drinks given when he attended the State Bankers Association in Winston-Salem in 1907.

A color scheme of pink and white was used throughout the home. Of special interest was the mantel which was decorated with wedding bells and miniature dolls to represent the bride and her attendants.

As the guests arrived, they were greeted by the hostess and the honoree. After games had been played the 52 guests were invited into the dining room where refreshments were served from an appointed table covered with a handmade cutwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink snapdragons and pink candles.

Mrs. Cletus Jackson, mother of the bride-elect, poured punch and Mrs. J. T. Manning, Sr., mother of the prospective bridegroom, served bridal cakes. The guests served themselves nuts and mints.

The honoree was presented with a sweetheart, rose corsage and a gift of china in her chosen pattern.

S.C. Beauty Queen Now Congressman's Wife

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Rep. Ross Bass (D-Tenn.) is used to having folks take a second look at his glamorous wife, Avanel.

She was "Miss Greenville," (South Carolina) when he met her in 1945 while she was visiting friends in Alexandria, La., where he was stationed in the Air Force.

GLAMOR TIMES TWO—Mrs. Avanel Bass, lovely wife of the Democratic representative from Tennessee is doubly glamorous when posed at a mirror. She was a model before she married the congressman in 1946.

"She's a former model," folks whisper to the uninitiated. "She's a very bright girl, too," they add, as if surprised.

Avanel says she's always taken aback when photographers ask her to pose "like a model." She's been so busy being a congressional wife, she says she never gives her earlier profession a thought.

"I never was the much bally-hooded cover girl type," she confides. "I pose mostly for ads for perfumes, cosmetics, vacuum cleaners and mattresses. I'm a much better office worker than a model anyway."

Proving the extent of her ability, she has been working full time on her husband's staff since coming to Washington, and she loves it.

"I read all the papers from our district, four dailies and 24 weeklies," she explained. "I keep all his appointments and answer the phone. I like to take visiting constituents to the Capitol. I guess I'm what you'd call his general flunkie."

When her husband resigned as Pulaski, Tenn., postmaster after six years, she helped him campaign for Congress. He dictated and re-read all his speeches to her. Sometimes she filled in for him when he had conflicting engagements.

"We lived out of a suitcase," she said. "It was fun and very interesting. I think all wives should be active. The constituents like to get to know their congressman's wife. They always seem especially pleased to find the wife in his office when they visit Capitol Hill."

Avanel says she's "not much of a party girl," and wouldn't have time for the hectic round of socializing in Washington if she were. Most of her time is spent in her husband's office. She has to get going early with her "homework."

"We're out of the house by 7 most mornings," she explained, "before that I have to cook breakfast, do the dishes and make the beds. Most days we're in the office until 8 p.m."

Best Wishes Go With Our Champs

Best wishes of Greenville citizens go with the local Little League team tomorrow which competes in the Southeastern Regional playoffs for the regional crown.

With the North Carolina championship safely tucked under their belt, it is our hope that Greenville team can go all the way to come out on top of the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa. But win or lose, Greenville can be proud of its Little League team which reigns as the best in North Carolina. Local citizens can be proud of the fact that the Tar Heel All-Stars have the opportunity to represent North Carolina in the regional event at Rome, Ga.

Little League baseball is not new to Greenville. Neither is the regional playoff which attracts teams from several states. But this year is the first in which a Greenville Little League team has copped the state championship. On two occasions Greenville was host to the Little League Regional playoffs, and in one of those years the team which won the series in Greenville went on to win the Little League World Series.

Though local Little League teams could have used much more public support than they have had in the past several years, we can be thankful for the fans and parents of the teams who have contributed so much to Little League baseball here. It has afforded good training in sportsmanship for hundreds of boys in the past several years. It has given them an opportunity to learn team play and to develop their natural baseball abilities.

The team which represents Greenville and North Carolina in the regional play in Rome, Ga. has proved itself in local, district and state competition. From the results of the games, it has been apparent that members of the Greenville championship team have played at their very best in every game. They have given it all they had.

Whatever the outcome of the regional play at Rome, the Tar Heel All-Stars owe apologies to no one. We wish for them victory; but they deserve the praises of their home town in victory or defeat.

Taking Peek At 'Sucker Bait'

By ELMER ROESSNER
Borax furniture dealers, already smarting from a recent expose in a national magazine, are about to get a kick in the pants from Congress.

A tough subcommittee of the House Governmental Operations Committee is planning public inquiry into deceptive pricing and other practices. The investigation may include clothing and other industries that use phony prices and other sucker traps.

The subcommittee has shown it is not afraid of big business in its present investigation of the relation between cigarettes and cancer. It plans to hold hearings on pricing after the current inquiry and its investigators are now gathering evidence.

"Borax," by the way, is a term applied to overpriced furniture, usually shoddy pieces in overdone imitations of good styles. There are several theories about the origin of the word, none conclusive. A popular theory is that it refers to the idea that buyers are "cleaned" of their money, since borax is a cleansing agent. A more plausible theory is that it derives from the German "Borg," meaning credit, since easy payments are useful in selling overpriced furniture.

HOW PHONY PRICING WORKS
Fictitious pricing has long been the target of many campaigns by Better Business Bureaus, civic organizations, consumer groups and trade publications. But it is such a smooth way of separating a trusting soul from his money that the practice persists.

A retailer can buy a dinette set for $40, put his own $149 price tag on it and give a shopper "the buy of his life" by cutting that price in half. But many customers would suspect that the $149 price was not the real one.

However, there are a few manufacturers who will help retailers pretend that $149 is the regular price. They will give the dealer displays on which the set is pictured and priced at $149; they will supply printed strips with that price, for pasting on the table; some manufacturers will even advertise the set and the price over their names in periodicals.

Men's suits of the kind that usually sell for $39.50 sometimes carry manufacturers' price tags pricing them at $59.50 to enable retailers to offer bargains—sometimes at $49.50.

THE GREAT PERFUME STINK

A few seasons ago a new perfume was advertised in a national magazine at $20 a bottle. Reprints of the ad and displays of the perfume were shown in gyp stores which offered males "special buys" at $12 a bottle. By almost any standard the perfume was worth no more than $5 and retailers could have made a profit at that price.

It was a charming, million-dollar swindle. Nobody went to jail.

Manufacturers have imprinted similarly fictitious prices on cutlery, housewares, textiles and other goods.

There is one unfair aspect to the investigation. The great majority of furniture manufacturers and dealers, and businessmen of all other fields under scrutiny are honest. Much of the details of exposure must come from businessmen who are opposed to slick and shady practices.

NOTE: If you have any useful facts on fictitious pricing, you may send them to Representative John A. Blatnik, House Office Building, The Minnesota Democrat is chairman of the committee.

MORE WHAT-DO-YOU KNOW! ITEMS IN THE BUSINESS NEWS

Californians buy more no-doze tablets per person than residents of any other state, Grove Laboratories reports. It's probably the climate.

Lewyt, offering new vacuum cleaners for best uses of old ones, has received hundreds of entries, including one from a Detroit dentist who uses the motor to spin his grinder.

Fifty-eight electronics manufacturers and jobbers failed in the year ended April 30, the National Credit Office reports. That's the highest number in six years.

A Kokomo, Ind., department store air-conditioned part of its sidewalk area, keeping it 20 degrees cooler than the surrounding area, Carrier reports. While it's the first time an open sidewalk was so cooled, a glass-enclosed shopping promenade in San Antonio is air-conditioned the year round.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
DURING TEEN-AGE

A speaker addressing teen-age boys in a Sunday School began his address by saying, "I notice some of the older boys in this department are almost a foot taller than the boys here in the front row. But most of that growth, of course, is below the ears. What I am interested in is knowing how much you have grown above the ears."

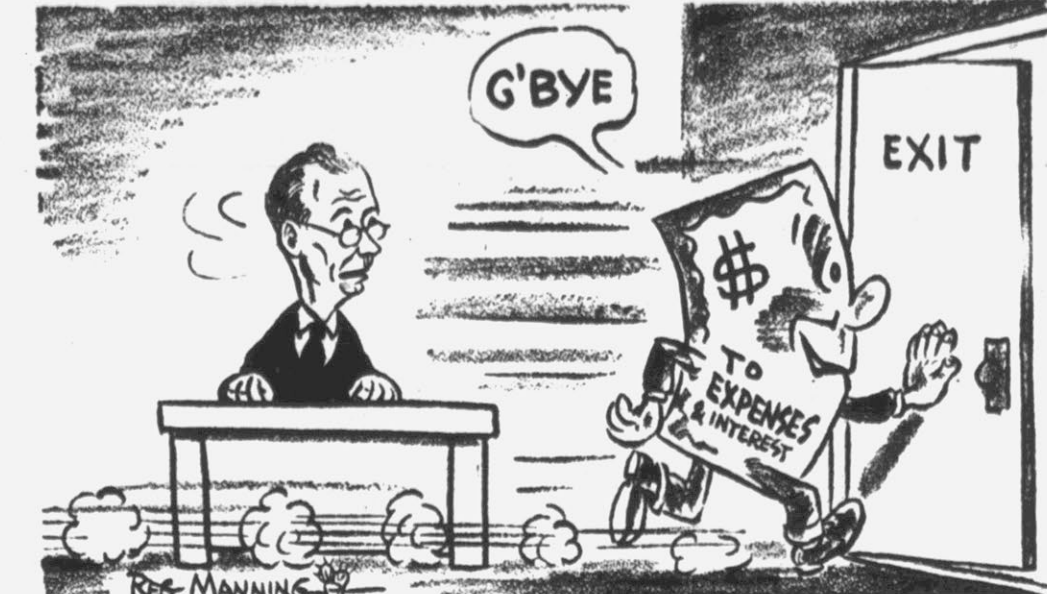

And that, of course, is a matter of real importance. How much are our youngsters growing above the ears? There are some people who have little capacity for book learning but great skill in the realm of the practical. Edison and Ford were both of that variety. Once in a while a person encounters a genius like Leonardo da Vinci, Benjamin Franklin or Albert Einstein. But these are few and far between, and probably most geniuses never accomplish anything but tear themselves to pieces in frustration.

The matter of greatest consequence in education is not how much book learning a man has but how much wisdom he has. Wisdom with book learning constitutes stupendous achievement.

In that case a person has had a real growth above the ears. In this growth let it never be forgotten that the spiritual element is the most important. Brains without character produce villainy. Energy without moral restraint spreads devastation far and wide.

Just Passing Through

by ALVIN TAYLOR

After A Week, All Shook

I'm all shook up after a week of viewing that real gone bopping at Atlantic Beach's Pavilion. That, of course, means I'm just back from a vacation at the beach.

A long-time landlubber can conclude only that people just don't act normal once they hit the beaches. Folks of all ages don't Burmudas, even for trips into Burrehead, (I joined 'em) and many of the younger set can spend hours on the dance floors going bad to the tune of "Messed Up" etc. (I didn't join 'em).

In line with that abnormal behavior, how else can you explain the cute blonde calmly riding the Merr-G-Round and penning a letter. Inspiration? Maybe it was just something to write about.

Then there are those fanatics who remain out on the fishing piers all night long. The poor fish never gets a break these days. Or how about that couple who stood smooching in the surf as the waves washed about their feet in the dark of night. My only concern is whether they had stood there on dry land until the tide came in. Lovers are so oblivious of time, you know.

The beach is a mad, merry place but after a week of it, man, I'm all shook up.

Greenville has' become known as the "Hang it on the line" market in the eastern section of North Carolina.

The tricky advertising phrase originated with Tobacco Market Sales Supervisor W.L. Whedbee.

On television programs for the past few years Whedbee has exhibited individual hands of tobacco representing high sales of the day.

As he finishes with each of the hands Whedbee "hangs that one on the line." The tobacco is draped over a cord for the viewers to see.

The phrase got started by accident, so the sales supervisor says. Prior to one of his early programs Whedbee was attempting to devise a way of displaying the tobacco. He tried a table but the angle wasn't right for the television camera. When the table was tilted to provide a better view, the tobacco slid off.

"I told some of the folks if I just had a piece of string or rope I could hang the tobacco on it in full view of a camera," Whedbee recalls.

"A patrolman who was at the station preparing to present 'Safety Tips' said he had a piece of crabbing line in his car. The line was obtained, strung up in the studio and "hang it on the line" was born on that night's program.

Opinions In Brief
CANTON, PA., INDEPENDENT - SENTINEL: "To all those students graduating from either high school or college... we say, without qualification, that the United States is still the land of opportunity. It is true that taxes are higher than they were a few decades ago, but it is also true that jobs are more plentiful, and earning power much greater."

HARMONY, MINN., NEWS: "To train children at home, it's necessary for both the parents and children to spend some time there."

Other Editors Saying-- The Unhatched Chickens

(Wall Street Journal)
There are a lot of red faces at New York's City Hall over the way the recent census turned out. For not only is New York going to lose its place as the world's second largest city, it's going to lose some useful dollars as well.

What happened was this: The City Fathers thought New York was growing by leaps and bounds so they asked Uncle Sam to run a special U.S. census. The reason for the census was that the more people, the more "aid" the city would receive from the state; state law grants the city $6.75 per resident and based on the 1950 U.S. census of 7,891,957 population New York City has been receiving $53,270,709 annually from state tax revenues.

The census was duly run at a cost of $1.5 million to the city, but the City Fathers will be lucky if it doesn't cost them even more in the end, because the census showed that instead of increasing, the city's population had dropped substantially since the 1950 census. If New York State were to insist the city certify the census, the city will lose not only the $1.5 million spent on the count and the $1.4 million annually it hoped to gain by proving it was bigger, but around another $3 million between now and the 1960 census. There is already some muttering elsewhere in the state that the city asked for the census and ought to be held to it because it doesn't deserve "aid" for people who aren't there.

But the blame for this mix-up ought not to be placed on the census takers, or even on New York City for counting unhatched citizens. The blame properly lies with the system of "aid" which makes one political subdivision dependent on a bigger one all the way up to Washington.

People in Gotham must help support the state; but the city's attempt to squeeze some extra dollars out of the state is only another indication of what happens under a system by which people in one place send money to another place and call what they get back "aid." For example, one survey shows that the people of New York City supply 60 per cent of New York State taxes while receiving but 49 per cent of state "aid."

If it's any comfort to the City Fathers, what they might be in danger of losing to the state is a pittance compared to what both the state and the city lose every year to the Federal Government, which began this concept of send-it-to-us-and-we'll-send-some-back proposition in the first place.

Right now there are 97 Federal "aid" programs, and a recent Tax Foundation report shows that for every $1 the people of New York State receive from Washington for "aid," the people of New York State send to Washington $1.82.

The real trouble lies in the mirage of "aid" that has been created to soften objections to bigger and bigger Federal spending. Since there is a limit to the amount of money that can be wrung out of the taxpayer who must support local, state and Federal governments, it follows that both New York and every other city and state could have more tax money available if Washington spent less on "aid." And only Congress can hatch that chicken.

Two Senators, One Destination

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON Two relatively young and solemn members of the United States Senate are grimly seeking the Republican and Democratic Presidential nominations in 1960, although they have not announced or proclaimed their ambition, publicly or privately. But their colleagues on the Senate floor and observers in the Press Gallery, who have come to know the White House symptoms, agree that the two have a common political date and destination.

The two men, of course, are Senator William F. Knowland, Minority Leader of the Senate, and Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts. Both are dedicated men, who take their jobs and problems with unusual seriousness. They are two of the hardest working men on Capitol Hill. Luckily, they are wealthy, and can afford to finance research and writing staffs unavailable to many House and Senate members.

Should the two oppose each other in 1960, it will be an exciting political drama. It will be ancient Massachusetts against comparatively young and blossoming California, with the varied interests of these two sections in combat. It will be, perhaps, the first Presidential contest involving two millionaire families. It will be a struggle between two aristocratic urbanites.

KNOWLAND'S EARNEST ACTIVITY For a man who has announced that he will not run for re-election, Senator Knowland is showing more interest and performing more actively than should be expected of a politician fed up with public life and service. He has been more earnest in obtaining a strong Civil Rights Bill than President Eisenhower or any member of the White House entourage, including Vice President Nixon.

Senator Knowland, quite obviously, is using his position on Capitol Hill in his latter year in office to strengthen himself nationally. Although he has opposed President Eisenhower on several foreign issues, he has generally supported the Administration on domestic matters. He has an excellent record in that respect.

SENATOR SEEMS EAGER FOR 1960 NOMINATION In handling the Administration's legislative program, especially the Civil Rights Bill, Knowland has overshadowed a prospective opponent for the 1960 nomination, Vice President Nixon, a fellow Californian. The Senator has also put another obstacle in his path to the White House in the shade—namely, Governor "Goody" Knight of California.

Make no mistake about it, "Bill" Knowland wants that 1960 nomination, and it may be difficult to deny it to him, providing he runs and wins as Governor of California in the interim.

KENNEDY NOW LEADS DEMOCRATS' field largely because of a lack of serious opposition. Senator Kennedy is conceded to lead the field on the Democratic side. Such as astute and well-traveled individual as James A. Farley,

Some Of This & That

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. housewife is becoming more and more electric—or at least electricity-minded.

Did you know that about one out of every 10 American women now uses an electric shaver?

This electrifying survey of knowledge was disclosed in a survey which also found that 96.2 per cent of modern homes now have radios and 81 per cent have television sets. In most families, however, father still has to mix his drinks and do the dishes by hand. Some 94.3 per cent of our homes are without blenders and 94.3 per cent have no automatic dishwasher.

A German zoologist set out with typical Teutonic thoroughness to learn that the elephant, which has a 13-pound brain (slightly larger than that of the average Harvard freshman) does forget—but, by and large, appears to have a pretty fair memory.

He found that one female elephant, when presented again with 18 pairs of cards she had learned before but hadn't viewed for a full year, had a recognition rating ranging from 73 to 100 per cent in 500 trials. The zoologist thought that was pretty good.

Crusade for Freedom relays the story of the Romanian Communist who died and went to hell. When he arrived at the entrance, he was surprised to find two doors.

On one door was the notice, "Communist hell," and on the other, "Capitalist hell."

"Which do you choose?" he was asked.

"The Communist hell, of course," he replied. "There is bound to be a fuel shortage!"

The Bordeaux section of France, noted for its wine, is busting its buttons in pride because a survey found it had, proportionate to its population, the largest number of centenarians in the country.

In one parish alone—St. Julien—500 couples had been wed 50 years or more.

Marie Roubert, who was 104, cheered the wine producers by attributing her longevity to the fact that for over a century her diet had included red wine.

Jean Mansard, at 99, who already had nine children, married a girl of 18, who in due time bore the proud man his 10th offspring.

When he and his wife travel, A. D. Brinkerhoff of Bloomfield, N. J., likes to note down in his diary any odd or humorous signs they encounter.

Here is his favorite, posted in a tavern in rural Arizona:

EGGS 3 cents.
Services of rooster 3 cents.
Wear and tear on hen 4 cents.
Total price 10 cents.

Speaking of hens, Mrs. Martha Creset of New York City has written us about asking her daughter, Sandy, then 7 years old, "Which came first, the chicken or the egg?"

"Oh, I know the answer to that," replied the child. "The hen first."

"How do you figure that?" inquired the mother.

Her daughter giggled. "I can imagine God making a chicken—but can you imagine God laying an egg?"

And the Pavement Plato scrawls:

A man too small to laugh at himself usually also isn't big enough to feel sorry for anyone else.

One of the greatest arguments against a shorter work week is that it will force people to worry more on their own time.

Any man bold enough to marry a shrew to tame her is a sure bet to leave a young widow.

No sudden hurricane can create as much havoc in a community as the small steady wind of gossip.

Those who are most afraid of the dark are those who look most deeply within themselves.

Nothing upsets our own sense of values more than to meet a poor man who insists he is happy. We can't help wondering what his real angle is.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED SINCE "AL" SMITH'S DAY However, times have changed. Senator Kennedy has none of the delightful insults that hurt "Al," such as the brown derby, the East Side accent and the Tammany cigar.

Anyway, despite the many hurdles in the Presidential race, and despite the personal and political vicissitudes which the next three years may bring, the politicians' tentative 1960 race is Knowland versus Kennedy.

Chain Of British Scientific Posts Seek Verdict On The 'Clean' H-Bomb

LONDON (AP)—A chain of scientific stations stretching across thousands of miles of ocean may hold the key to Britain's future defenses and either settle or further agitate a worldwide controversy.

The stations consist of fallout collectors and air sampling devices to check for radioactivity. They stretch from Christmas Island to Australia, with Pacific island posts at Penrhyn, Canton, Noumea, Rangiroa, Papeete, Funafuti and Nandi and the cities of Adelaide and Brisbane.

Their purpose: to provide a final verdict as to whether the three hydrogen bombs the British exploded at Christmas Island in May and June were "clean" or "dirty."

If the bombs prove to have been clean—as British scientists hope and believe—the hydrogen bomb can be called something more than an instrument of mass destruction, suitable only for use on distant enemy targets.

It can be termed a tactical weapon, suitable for use even over this nation's own territory against enemy bombers and missiles and on the battlefield.

A verdict of clean could influence a worldwide debate whether the testing of nuclear weapons will affect the health of present and future generations.

And such a verdict could influence the U.N. disarmament talks in London, at which Russia and four Western nations are discussing whether and how a suspension of all nuclear tests could be enforced.

If a clean bomb could be exploded with little or no fallout, any suspension of tests would become infinitely more difficult to enforce.

The final answer on the British tests will not be known for months and possibly years. The products of the three explosions were released into the stratosphere and will come down over wide areas of the world over a long period of time. Already, however, the government and leading British scientists have released a number of what they called encouraging preliminary reports.

After each of the explosions Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told the House of Commons that the fallout had been negligible.

Other reports came from experts on the scene at Christmas Island. Air Commodore Denis Wilson, an eminent radiologist, flew through the mushroom cloud of the second bomb an hour after it was exploded. Wilson said there was no immediate fallout whatever. Dr. W. R. Cook, scientific director of the test expedition, said the fallout was comparatively negligible.

Both said however, that there could be no immediate answer as to whether the bombs were truly clean.

Laurel-Hardy Team Part Of A Legend

By HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The face of Hollywood changed some with the death of Oliver (Babe) Hardy and we old-timers who covered Movie-land in the heyday of Laurel and Hardy are saddened.

Both the 300-pound Hardy, who died yesterday, and his shy, slim, hand-wringing partner, Stan Laurel, have been ill for a long time and absent from the movie lots. But we who found them interesting off-screen as well as funny on it held hopes, probably false, that they would come back.

They both talked frequently of a television series, after their quarter-century-old films reached a new generation on TV. They said they saw a new life, new glory, new fortunes. At least they talked of these things, but in their hearts they must have known they never could reach the peak again.

Both were sensitive, intelligent men, despite the buffonery that catapulted them to stardom. In money matters, they were as unwise as most actors of the old days. They worked together for a dozen low-tax years, spending money as if it grew on trees, before they formed a corporation with a vice president to counter-sign checks.

Laurel told me in 1940 that "we haven't been so smart financially. We used to invest and then think about it." He and Babe dropped a wad in gold mines and oil wells.

Alimony was an expensive luxury too. Hardy was married three times, Laurel seven times—to four different wives. In 1938, Stan said he was insolvent—"too much alimony." It is not a matter of record, but knowing Laurel and Hardy I can well believe that Hardy supported Laurel during this period.

They were teamed accidentally. Stan, who came here from England with a troupe starring Charlie Chaplin, became a script writer for Hal Roach. Babe, long-time stage actor of no outstanding fame, drifted to Hollywood. He was playing a comedy heavy in a Roach two-reeler. An actor hired as a butler became ill and Laurel took his place. Roach, who could pick talent, saw the skinny guy as perfect foil for the fat one. And Laurel and Hardy became a team.

Laurel and Hardy were distinguished because, unlike other comedy teams, they never had a feud. They were separated once by contractual troubles, not of their own doing, and the pictures they made apart were dismal flops. In 1949 Babe played a few character roles because Stan was too ill to work "and I need the money." But his salary went to the L&H Corp., and ailing Stan shared in his partner's pay.

Stan said yesterday when he heard about Babe: "That's the end of the history of Laurel and Hardy."

But some of us never will forget their finger-in-the-eye and brick-on-the-foot humor.

No More Lies, And Means It

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Leon Gage Ennis, the "queen for a day" in the Miss Universe beauty contest, apparently meant it when she promised to tell no more falsehoods.

The tall Maryland beauty lost her U.S.A. title at Long Beach, Calif., last month when pageant officials discovered she was married and the mother of two children.

"I'm never going to tell another lie," she reaffirmed yesterday at the Tropicana Hotel, one of Las Vegas' biggest gambling casinos, where she is rehearsing for a

Sept. 4 night club debut.

Testing, a newsman asked how she felt about gambling.

"I don't believe in gambling," Miss Gage replied. And, while a casino press agent shuddered, she added: "That's a good way to go bankrupt."

After 7 Sets, Twins Are 'Routine' To Dad

PINE RIDGE, S.D. — Birth and Geraldine, 11; Joyce and James, 10; Theresa and Timothy, 9; Elizabeth, 7; Corliss and Colleen, 5; Walter and Raymond, 3; and Oliver, 2.

Robert, 13, first of the Big Crow twins whose sister died, has been adopted by another family.

Mrs. Big Crow, 34, conceded that the tiny cabin sometimes gets pretty crowded. But not all the 15 children are at home all the time. Eight are in school and the older ones usually spend quite a bit of time "just visiting around" with relatives or neighbors.

"It wasn't any surprise; the doctor said it probably would be doubles again," said Mrs. Marcella Big Crow. "You sort of get used to it after a while."

Big Crow, a temporarily unemployed farmhand, was philosophical about Tuesday's arrival of the new twins, who round out a family of 15 children.

He was concerned most about finding room for them in the two-room shack where the family lives at the edge of the Pine Ridge Indian reservation.

Altogether, Mrs. Big Crow has had 18 children but three, including a girl twin, have died. The newest arrivals, as yet an unnamed boy and girl, join Gerald

Pre-School Child Gets Attention Of Workshop

Preparations of the pre-school child for his educational experiences in public schools is topic of a series of discussions by educational and medical authorities at the 1957 Kindergarten Workshop at East Carolina College this week.

Nearly 100 kindergarten teachers attending the workshop were welcomed to the campus by President J. D. Messick at the opening session Monday, and the courses offered were outlined by Miss Annie Mae Murray, kindergarten teacher in the Wahl-Coates Laboratory School at ECC, who is directing the workshop.

Miss Bobbie Pritchard, Miss Patsy Montague and Homer Laster of the Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh, have discussed methods and relations between the kindergarten and the public schools. Others who will talk on the workshop program this week are Dr. John G. Navarra of the East Carolina College Science Department; Dr. G. Earl Trevaathan, Greenville pediatrician; and Dr. Joseph D. Franzoni, consultant in special education and mental hygiene, also of Greenville.

The mid-year dinner meeting of the North Carolina Kindergarten Association will be held Thursday evening, and new officers of the association will be nominated and elected. A large number of the kindergarten teachers enrolled for college credit. The workshop will continue through Friday afternoon.

Champs' Hour Of Triumph

Members of the Greenville Little League All-Stars signify their hearty approval as Major General John Bowen, commanding officer of the 82nd Airborne Division, presents the state championship trophy to their captain, Kenny Joyner while manager Charlie Bland looks pretty happy about the whole thing too. Joyner pitched a no-hitter to lead his team to victory. (U. S. Army Photo Sgt. Betty J. Farmer).

Pandemonium reigns in front of the Greenville Little League All-Stars dugout moments after they captured the state championship from Charlotte in a 3-0 no-hitter by Kenny Joyner at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. (Photo by Sgt. Betty Farmer).

They All Have Praise For Veteran Red Schoendienst

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Birdie Tebbets, whose lackluster Cincinnati Redlegs lost their 10th game in 12 starts against Milwaukee last night, says Red Schoendienst is "the difference" on the National League leading Braves.

"This is the best balanced ball club Milwaukee has had since I've been in the league," the Redlegs' skipper said after the Braves' 12-2 walkaway, "and Schoendienst is the difference."

Tebbetts is not alone in his estimation of the veteran second baseman's worth to the Braves. Schoendienst's teammates and opposing players, like the Dodgers' Peeewe Reese, also pulled out the stops when talking about Red.

The Braves acquired the 34-year-old infielder, who always seems to be in the right place at the right time, from the Giants on June 15, the major league's trading deadline. To get him they gave up Bobby Thomson, Danny O'Connell and Ray Crone.

So far, the deal shapes up as probably the best engineered by John Quinn, the Braves' general manager.

In 46 games in a Milwaukee uniform, the freckle faced native of Germantown, Ill., has batted .317—five points higher than his overall average for the entire season. He has committed only two errors in 289 chances for a fielding percentage of .993. Overall, Red is the best fielding second baseman in the league with an average of .989.

Live Putter Put Ball Into Cup

DES MOINES (AP) — Just in case you might not believe this story — two ministers vouch for it.

They were playing golf. One of them chipped to the green. A ground squirrel darted across the green and pounced on the ball. The little animal sat up, looked around, and then, with its nose nudged the ball into the cup.

League-Leaders Play Stand-Off

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The chance for a decisive move in the Carolina League race between Greensboro and High Point-Thomasville ended in a draw last night.

A doubleheader for the clubs, ranked one-two in standings, gave the Hi-Toms a 5-2 win in the opener and the Patriots a 12-6 victory in the nightcap. The results left the Hi-Toms still 2½ games in the lead.

Elsewhere, Wilson raked up a 9-1 triumph over Winston-Salem, and Durham revived itself to polish off Danville, 10-2.

Pitcher Alex Gordy was the hero in Wilson's win over Winston-Salem, a stormy affair that saw Red Birds manager George Kissell and catcher Gene Oliver ejected. The umpires also cleared the Winston-Salem bench of players in the sixth inning.

Gordy allowed seven hits and struck out 10. He also batted in four of Wilson's nine runs. It was the season's eighth victory against two defeats for the righthander.

Al Dwyer and Dick Colone combined talents for Durham's victory over Danville. Dwyer's effective pitching held Danville to five hits, while Colone contributed a grand slam home run in the sixth.

The schedule tonight repeats last night's games: Greensboro at High Point-Thomasville; Danville at Durham and Winston-Salem at Wilson.

Shelby Host To Legion Tourney

SHELBY, N.C. (AP) — Shelby will play host and represent North Carolina in the Regio 4 American Legion junior baseball tournament scheduled to start here Aug. 21.

The Shelby juniors swept the state championship in four straight games, finishing with a 10-4 drubbing of Cumberland County here last night.

In addition to Shelby, champs from Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee will participate in the double elimination regionals. Shelby scored four runs in the second inning last night and then clinched things when Jerry Greene homered with one on in the third, not to move either way. Patrolman Shelby 0-12 202 00x-10-14-3 Koonec, Edge (6) and Piland; Hoover and O'Shields.

Rademacher Is 'Deadly Serious'

SEATTLE (AP)—Former farmboy Pete Rademacher, deadly serious about his Aug. 22 outing with Floyd Patterson, settled down to an austere training schedule today after a first public workout that labeled his boxing ring long suit is strength rather than speed.

Some of Rademacher's friends from his Yakima Valley home area were among the 190 persons who paid admissions to watch the former Olympic heavyweight champion—box three practice rounds, punch the bag and run through calisthenics.

Sparring partner Clarence Hinant, faster than Rademacher, got in some stinging jabs but Pete crowded the other fighter into the ropes where he tossed some hard lefts and rights.

Rademacher went two rounds with Hinant and one with Johnny Regan of Yakima, Wash. and Detroit.

"Spectators were fairly agreed that Pete didn't look like an amateur," the Post-Intelligencer reported.

Rademacher now has boxed 70 rounds and will have gone about 150 before he meets world champion Patterson in the 15-round match here Aug. 22.

WEDNESDAY'S STARS By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS PITCHING

Jim Wilson, White Sox—gained fifth shutout, tops in American League, and 12th victory with two-hitter in 7-0 decision over Athletics.

BATTING Wes Covington, Braves—Hammered two home runs and hit a sacrifice fly, drove in four runs, and scored four in perfect 2-for-2 night in 12-2 victory over Redlegs.

CHICAGO (AP) — They open the starting gate today for golf's gold rush, sending 100 men pros into frantic competition for shares of the $101,200 "World" championship at Tam O'Shanter.

Winner of the 72-hole struggle ending Sunday will receive $50,000 in cash plus a $50,000 exhibition contract. The champion virtually becomes the year's leading money winner with just this one victory.

Ted Kroll, the 1956 winner with a 15-under-par 273, thinks it will take about 277 to cash in this time. "I had to finish with a 66 to win," he said. "It probably will take another such final round to get as low as 273. I don't think it will be done this time. Just ask who would settle right now for a 277 and you will find plenty of them."

There isn't a pro in the field who would attempt to handicap the tournament for the record. If you seek a favorite, you will get a list of at least eight names.

Those most frequently mentioned are five comparative youngsters — Gene Littler, whose course-record-matching 63 in the last round of the All American Monday boosted him to runner-up spot; Dow Finsterwald, the PGA's second leading money winner; Fred Hawkins, who took second in the "World" last year; and Bill Casper and Paul Harney, both with their games at a peak.

Sam Snead, leading money winner Doug Ford with $39,856, and Roberto de Vicenzo head the list of more seasoned contenders. De Vicenzo, the strapping South American who registers out of Mexico City, won the All American sideshow and $3,500 with 273. But only once before has an All American winner also taken the "World" title. Lloyd Mangrum did it in 1948.

Among the women pros, Patty Berg will try for her fourth "World" title after winning the All American for the fifth time — a feat matched only by the late Babe Zaharias.

Conley Keeps Milwaukee Pressing In Pennant Race

By ED WILKS The Associated Press Gene Conley, who last spring figured "to have myself the best season of my major league career," then went winless for two months, has found the touch again. He's keeping the pennant-pressing Milwaukee Braves perking in the National League Pennant race.

The big right-hander helped the Braves pad their lead to 1½ games last night, winning for the seventh time in his last eight decisions with a seven-hitter that beat fourth-place Cincinnati 12-2.

The Braves have won 10 of their last 12 in a battle with St. Louis for the top spot, and Conley, now 7-3, has claimed four of the victories—the top contribution from Milwaukee's pitching staff.

Milwaukee edged farther ahead as the seventh-place Chicago Cubs, socked second-place St. Louis for the second night in a row, this time 5-1.

Third-place Brooklyn fell four games behind, losing 8-5 as the New York Giants scored five in the ninth and handed Don Newcombe his fourth consecutive defeat. Newk, who led the majors with a 27-7 record last season, made a spitting gesture toward the booing fans at Jersey City's Roosevelt Stadium as he walked off, still burning from Hank Sauer's pinch-hit three-run homer that triggered the uprising.

In the American League, Washington scored three in the ninth and beat New York 3-2. Chicago's second-place White Sox whipped Kansas City 7-0 on Jim Wilson's two-hitter. Boston defeated Baltimore 5-2 in 11 innings as Ted Williams hiked his batting average to .389 again. Detroit banged Cleveland 4-1.

Conley, a 26-year-old giant (he stands 6-8), who had a 14-9 rookie year in '54, was 11-7 in '55 then had shoulder troubles and an 8-9 record last season, was 0-4 before he beat Brooklyn in relief June 26. Since then, he's beaten New York three times, Cincinnati twice, and has added another over the Dodgers. Three were in relief.

The big guy, taking the mound shortly after his wife had given birth to their third child, breezed last night. The Braves backed him up with 15 hits off starter-loser Brooks Lawrence and 2- for 2, hammering his 11th and 12th home runs and adding a sacrifice fly for four runs batted in. He also scored four.

Rookie right-hander Dick Drott allowed only five singles, but needed Dick Littlefield's relief help to win his 10th for the Cubs. Littlefield came on in the eighth, with the bases loaded and one out—and got pinch-hitter Walker Cooper to hit into a double play.

Walt Moryn, Bob Speake and Dale Long hit solo home runs for Chicago, with Speake cracking a 1-1 tie against loser Herm Wehmer in the fourth inning.

Newcombe, shackled with 10 defeats for the first time since his sophomore season of 1950 when he was 19-11, hasn't had a complete game or victory since he won his ninth July 12 against Cincinnati in Jersey City, Brooklyn's home-away-from-home. After the game he said he was "too damn mad to remember" whether he actually spat at the fans. Roy Campanella, with four singles in four at bats, drove in three Dodger runs. Marv Grissom won it.

The Nats, who didn't have a hit for six innings and only two singles after eight, got to Tom Sturdivant when Roy Sievers hit a pinch single to open the ninth and Eddie Yost followed with a home run. Two singles, a sacrifice and Art Schult's sacrifice fly scored the clincher. Hank Bauer homered in the first for the Yanks and Mickey Mantle hit his 30th home run in the ninth. Bud Byerly won it in relief.

Williams, 2-for-5, including a two-run first-inning double, singled with two out in the Red Sox's three-run 11th, then scored the deciding run as Connie Johnson sat on the ground squawking over Umpire Ed Hurley's call at first base. Hurley ruled Johnson had failed to touch the bag after taking a toss from first baseman Bobby Boyd, who had fielded Mickey Vernon's grounder. Frank Sullivan won his 10th with a six-hitter.

Wilson, a 35-year-old right-hander who tops the A.L. with five shutouts, gained his second over the A's, giving up only a leadoff double to Billy Hunter and a fourth-inning single to Irv Noren. The White Sox wrapped it up against starter Maury McDermott with a six-run third inning on four walks, a hit batter and only three hits.

Billy Hoelt, now 4-6 after last season's 30 victories, fanned 10, walked none and had the Indians shut out on one hit for six innings. The Tigers locked it up with a three-run first inning against John Gray.

Conley, a 26-year-old giant (he stands 6-8), who had a 14-9 rookie year in '54, was 11-7 in '55 then had shoulder troubles and an 8-9 record last season, was 0-4 before he beat Brooklyn in relief June 26. Since then, he's beaten New York three times, Cincinnati twice, and has added another over the Dodgers. Three were in relief.

The big guy, taking the mound shortly after his wife had given birth to their third child, breezed last night. Rookie right-hander Dick Drott allowed only five singles, but needed Dick Littlefield's relief help to win his 10th for the Cubs. Littlefield came on in the eighth, with the bases loaded and one out—and got pinch-hitter Walker Cooper to hit into a double play.

Walt Moryn, Bob Speake and Dale Long hit solo home runs for Chicago, with Speake cracking a 1-1 tie against loser Herm Wehmer in the fourth inning.

Newcombe, shackled with 10 defeats for the first time since his sophomore season of 1950 when he was 19-11, hasn't had a complete game or victory since he won his ninth July 12 against Cincinnati in Jersey City, Brooklyn's home-away-from-home. Phone Company Takes Up Huge Financial Program

TARBORO—The largest financial undertaking in the history of Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company was completed on August 1 when the company offered and sold $14,000,000 principal amount of thirty year 4 3/4 per cent debentures. Proceeds from the issue will be applied to reduce the company's outstanding short-term bank loans.

The order of the North Carolina Utilities Commission authorizing the financing summarized the company's progress since the end of World War II.

Pointing out that postwar demand for telephone service in the 41-county territory served by the company has been the greatest in the company's history, the order stated that since the end of the war, Carolina company telephones in service have increased from 55,914 stations at December 31, 1946 to 147,953 telephones at the end of May 1957.

The increased demand for service and the growth of the company, with improvements to its plant and facilities, have been the direct cause of the greatest construction activities in the history of the company. The 1956 gross additions to telephone plant exceeded any previous 12 months' period and resulted in the largest telephone gain in the company's history.

The accelerated construction program is being continued during 1957 and the telephone gain for the first five months this year was 4,074. With emphasis on rural development, more than 8,900 telephones classified as rural have been gained during 1956 and the first five months of the current year.

In Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company's construction and improvement program, gross additions to telephone plant for the period extending from January 1, 1947 to May 31, 1957 have approximated $77,652,960. If present demands for service continue, the company expects that expenditures for total telephone plant and facilities will approximate $6,000,000 in the remainder of 1957.

Placement of the company's debenture issue was handled by Kidder, Peabody & Company, Inc. of New York and involved sixteen purchasers. This, the fourth debenture issue, raises the total outstanding funded debt of the company to $28,000,000.

Beat Big Odds As Key Fit Car

DETROIT (AP)—The odds against a key to one car fitting another auto are roughly 600-to-1, but Charles Wood beat the odds.

Wood borrowed his brother-in-law Richard Maser's car. "That's not my car," the auto was of the same make and year as Maser's but differently colored.

The brothers-in-law went to police who turned them over to Mary Gadawski. It turned out Miss Gadawski had parked her car in the same lot as Wood. The key to her car was a duplicate of the one to Maser's car.

Too Surprised To Catch Ball

NORTH WALES, Pa. (AP)—Hoping to scare a monkey down from a tree, police chief Benjamin Cairns of upper Gwynedd Township, threw a baseball at him.

The monkey, however, made a perfect catch and fired the ball back. Chief Cairns says he was too surprised to grab the return toss. The monkey escaped.

He was one of 49 Rhesus monkeys who got loose from a research laboratory here Tuesday. Eleven are still at large.

Says Marketing Techniques Lag

Marketing techniques are lagging behind production methods, an advertising consultant declared in an address to East Carolina College Business Education students this week.

W. D. Ratchford, of the advertising department of the Carolina Power and Light Company, Raleigh, discussing methods and media of advertising, told the seminar on advertising that automation places an increasingly heavy load on advertising, consequently there is need of more men trained in marketing techniques rather than the technicalities of production.

The speaker, formerly on the staff of the New York Daily News, said that it does not pay to advertise unless the advertiser does his job right, but that good advertising does "attract attention, arouse interest, create desire, inspire confidence, and move a action."

This address in the Business Education's course on advertising was one of a series of talks presented to the class by persons actively engaged in advertising.

Prof. W. W. Howell, conducting the course, said other discussions feature the versatility in advertising techniques through use of newspapers, radio, and television.

Didn't Panic

ARCATA, Calif. (AP)—A little boy who didn't panic although imprisoned 15 feet down in the darkness of a dry well clutched a looped rope and was pulled out safely yesterday on the fourth try.

Three other times, just as firemen got 3 1/2-year-old Michael Swenson near the surface, he lost his grip and fell back, pulling sand down on him.

His anxious mother, Mrs. Dale Swenson, gasped: "I was more frightened than Mike was."

Mike fell feet first into the eight-inch-wide hole on the farm of T. F. Aultman, who had drilled the well in sandy soil yesterday and covered it. Children removed the cover.

Mike's cries attracted his mother. He was pulled out 30 minutes later.

A doctor said he was in good condition except for nausea, caused by swallowing sand.

Arcata is near Humboldt Bay in northern California.

Pleasant 'Bang' From Generosity

GEORGETOWN, Ky. (AP)—A man named Cannon got a pleasant bang out of his neighbors' generosity.

J. W. Cannon's barn burned two weeks ago, destroying a lot of equipment.

Cannon said yesterday some of his neighbors talked him into going to a stockyard with them. When he returned, a new tractor was sitting in his garage.

"When you read so much about the bad things going on in the world, sometimes you forget all about the good," he said. "To have neighbors like I have is really something to make a fellow think twice."

YOU CAN DIE LAUGHING
By A.A. FAIR (ERLE STANLEY GARDNER)

CHAPTER 22
Back in Banning I went to the house where Drury Wells had been living and looked over the neighborhood.
The house on the east was vacant and had a "For Sale" sign out in front. The one on the west was inhabited. I rang the bell. A big-boned, heavy-set woman in her fifties came lumbering to the door.
I gave her my best smile. "My name is Lam," I said. "I'm making some inquiries about real estate. Do you know anything about the house that's for sale two doors down the street?"
"All I know is it's for sale. Some people named Smith lived there. A real estate agent has it listed. His telephone number is on the sign."
"I know," I said, "but I thought it might be difficult to get in touch with him on Sunday."
"I think you could catch him," she said. "Sunday's a good day for real estate."
"Thank you," I said. "Now, about the house right next door, what do you know about that?"
"It's for rent, furnished."
"Do you know the names of the people who lived there last?"
"Wells," she said.
"Could I talk with you about them?"
A man's voice from inside the house called out. "Who is it, Amanda?"
"Someone talking about property," she called back.
I gave her my best smile and said, "May I have your name?"
"Mrs. Oscar Boswell."
I said, "I'd like to find out something about Mr. and Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Boswell."
Her face was wooden. "They only lived there a short time. She inherited some money."
"Amanda!" the man's voice called out in sharp warning.

"I'm coming," she said, and started to swing the door shut.
I said, "Just a minute, Mrs. Boswell. I may as well tell you, I'm a detective."
"Oh," she said.
I heard the sound of squeaky shoes and Oscar Boswell, who was five years older, a head shorter, and fifty pounds lighter than his wife, came down the corridor.
"What's this about the police?" he asked.
I gave him my best smile. "How do you do, Mr. Boswell. My name is Lam, Donald Lam." I extended my hand and pushed past Mrs. Boswell to shake hands with him. That got me inside the house. I talked fast. "I'm not a police detective, Mr. Boswell, I'm a private investigator. I'm trying to find out something about the history of the neighborhood and the background of the people who lived next door."
"Why?" he asked.
I smiled. "Oh, I don't know why. We have a client who wants the information, that's all. I assume it's in connection with the property the people next door inherited. All I want is information."
"We don't talk about neighbors," he said.
He was a frightened little man, around five foot four with a gray, mousy appearance, a drooping, gray mustache, a bald head with a fringe of white hair around the ears. He was wearing reading glasses, which he had pulled down on his nose so he could see me over the tops of the rims.
"Good heavens, Mr. Boswell!" I said. "I'm not interested in gossip! I'm simply getting facts." I turned to Mrs. Boswell. "You knew about Mrs. Wells inheriting property?"
"I read it in the paper."
"Had you been acquainted with her before that?"
"They'd only moved in a few days before."
"You'd met her?"
"Not face to face. I'd seen her around the yard."
"You didn't go over to pay a neighborly call?"
"I was going to do it, but I wanted to let her get settled first."
"Then this inheritance came to her before they got settled?"
"She went away before the inheritance."
"Where did she go?" I asked.
"To Sacramento."
"Amanda!" Oscar Boswell said firmly, and then suddenly broke into a flood of German. I could follow enough of it to know he was telling her not to say anything else.
A smile at her and said, "Well, now that's the information I'd like to get, Mrs. Boswell. What about when she left?"
Again her husband broke into German.
I turned to him and said sternly. "Before you tell your wife what not to say, you should make certain that the person she's talking with doesn't understand German. Now then, you've put yourself in a very questionable position. You're trying to suppress information."
"No, no, no," he said. "We're not suppressing anything. We just want to keep out of it."
I fixed my eyes on him and repeated, "You're suppressing information. You're trying to get your wife to suppress information."
"No, no! We don't know anything. She only has guessed something. It is nothing she should tell."
"That," I said, "is exactly the thing I'm after."
I turned back to Mrs. Boswell. "Tell me about the fight they had and the thing that led up to her leaving the house."
She exchanged glances with her husband.

"Otherwise," I said firmly, "I will have to report that you are suppressing information, and you know that can be rather serious."
"Nobody has to talk if he doesn't want to," Oscar Boswell said. "Not in this country."
"About some things, no. About some things, yes." I made a stab in the dark, pointed my finger at Mrs. Boswell and said, "You thought there'd been a fight and she'd been hurt, didn't you?"
Her husband started to say something to her, and then abruptly broke off.
"You'd better tell me about it," I said.
"She doesn't know anything," her husband interposed nervously. "Just she heard a fight, that's all."
"At night," I said.
"At night, yes," he admitted.
"And the next day Mrs. Wells was gone?"
"Well, so what? She went to visit relatives."
"How do you know she went to visit relatives?"
"Her husband said so."
"Who did he tell that to?"
"He told it to me."
"You asked where his wife was?"
"No, no, not crude like that! I just hinted."
"Why?"
"Well, because Amanda was nervous, that's why."
"Sure, she was nervous," I said. "You thought that he'd hurt her, didn't you? Did you hear the sound of a blow, Mrs. Boswell?"
"No, no," her husband said. "Not the sound of a blow. Well, anyway, she can't swear to it."
"And then," I said, "Wells started up his car and drove off, didn't he?"
"Well, so what's wrong with that?" Boswell asked. "A man's got a right to go and come as he pleases. This is a free country, ain't it?"
"That depends," I told him, "on your definition of freedom."
She had her suitcase all packed. He said no. She said yes. Then there a funny kind of fight, Donald learns as "You Can Die Laughing" continues here tomorrow.

Bloodmobile To Call In Ayden

AYDEN — Preparations are being made for the visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile on August 21 and to meet the quota of 110 pints.
Public Health Committee Chairman Dr. Clifton Davenport said an intensive appeal is being made for blood donors to maintain the standard blood bank.
The Ayden Woman's Club, headed by Mrs. Janice Whitaker, is providing voluntary clerical catering and nursing volunteers. In addition, members of the club are assisting in procuring blood donors. They will man booths in the business district on Saturdays to solicit pledge for donations to the blood bank.
Mrs. Mazella Burney, well known school teacher, whose life was saved by a blood transfusion after she suffered an unexpected hemorrhage during a dangerous operation, heads the workers soliciting blood donations from the colored people of the community. Her son-in-law, James Henry Braxton, is assisting her.
Dr. Davenport said: "I ask the people of Ayden and vicinity to take this problem seriously and join with the Jaycees in their effort to preserve our blood program. Show up at the Community Building on Wednesday, August 21, and give some blood. This is the answer to our problem—there is no other."

Shark Occupied Telephone Booth

WEST LOOE, England (AP) — A woman complained to the telephone company yesterday that a shark was monopolizing the public phone booth near her house.
This sounded fishy, but a trouble-shooter was sent to investigate.
He found that the booth was indeed occupied by a shark—a five-footer well along in rigor mortis. Police speculated a visiting fisherman had mislaid it.

The population of Macapa, a province in Northern Brazil, has increased more than 1,000 per cent since manganese was discovered there 25 years ago.

County Court Is Dominated By Traffic Cases

Violations of traffic laws, particularly speeding, accounted for all but two cases cleared Tuesday from the docket of County Recorder's Court.

Judgments were returned in 15 traffic cases called by Solicitor J.C. Lanier, Jr., and tried before Judge Dink James. The two cases which did not involve traffic violations were against Effie Mae Austin, Negro, Route 2, Ayden, charged with possession of non-tax-paid whiskey and possession for the purpose of sale; and John Carmon, Negro, Route 1, Winterville, charged with failure to have a medical examination, a violation of General Statute 130-255.1.

The Austin woman was given a 90-day sentence which was suspended upon payment of $25 and costs, and on condition she does not violate any liquor laws for two years. Prayer for judgment was continued in Carmon's case.

Five defendants charged with speeding entered pleas of guilty in a bench trial and each was fined $25, costs deducted, and ordered to surrender their driver's license for ten days. Persons who were involved in the cases were Thomas Raymond Supulski, Cherry Point; Berry Lane Anderson, Washington, D.C.; Ellen Lewis Sellers, Baltimore; Charlie Yarborough, Negro, Pinetops; and Henry Abbott Callaway, Durham.

Prayer for judgment was continued and suspended for two defendants who entered pleas of guilty to speeding. The two, John Spencer Chapman, Grifton, and William Thomas Owens, Cherry Point, were ordered to pay costs and surrender their driver's licenses for ten days.

Other speeding cases included Fred Blanchard Chestnut, 702 West Fifth Street, Greenville, speeding 65 miles-per-hour and failure to stop for a stop sign, prayer for judgment continued and suspended upon payment of $5 and

No Showings of Pickford Movies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mary Pickford is all for letting sleeping dogs—and old silent movies—lie. America's sweetheart of the silent screen era told a press conference yesterday:

"I don't think I'll ever let my old pictures be shown on television. We were watching them at Pickfair once when Lionel Barrymore was alive and everyone began to laugh at our funny clothes. There were tears in Lionel's eyes."

NEW YORK (U)—The stock market was mixed in sluggish trading in the early afternoon today.

The market was having a hard time deciding which way to go. It started higher, continuing yesterday's good advance, moved to the downside in early trading, then became irregular.

Changes in either direction ranged from fractions to about a point.

Volume was running behind yesterday's 2,460,000 shares.

Steels, oils and motors were mixed, although oils showed some higher tendencies. Aircraft went up a shade, while rails and metals tended lower.

The Senate subcommittee's hearing on the recent steel price increase appeared to have little impact on the steel company stocks. Lukens was up about a point, with U. S. Steel and Bethlehem ahead fractions. Youngstown declined about a point and Republic a fraction.

Amerasia lost more than 2 points. Among the other oils, Gulf, Royal Dutch and Standard Oil (New Jersey) were up a shade. United Aircraft, Douglas, American Smelting and Ford were small gainers.

Anacosta joined other big copper producers in cutting the price of the red metal by 1/2 of a cent. The copper firm's stock started a wide higher, moved down a point, then cut its loss to a fraction.

Down fractions were General Motors, Goodrich, Boeing, RCA, Kennecott, International Nickel, General Electric, Rayonier, Union Pacific, Illinois Central, Baltimore & Ohio, and Johns Manville.

Order Codifying Of Ordinances

FARMVILLE—Farmville's Board of commissioners Tuesday night authorized attorney Dan Jones to proceed with codification of town ordinances.

Jones had been given the job last October but moved from Farmville last fall to become clerk of the Town of Rairmont. He recently returned to Farmville and the Codification project was resumed.

The board also authorized its Street Committee to begin a study of safety hazards in Farmville. The committee was instructed to record holes in sidewalks and streets, and tree limbs that will require trimming in the study. The committee was also given authority to proceed with correction of the hazards on a merit basis.

Property owners on Bynum Drive requested that the street be opened up so that sewer lines now being placed could be run through the area. No action was taken on the request which was referred to a committee for further study.

Town Clerk C. M. Paylor was instructed to pay Dr. Paul E. Jones $15 for six loads of topsoil removed from Dr. Jones' property during work on the town's sewer lines. Dr. Jones requested payment in a letter to the board.

Mayor Charles S. Edwards presided over the meeting which was also attended by commissioners W. C. Wooten, B. B. Turnage and John O. Dixon.

Khrushchev Warns U.S. Of Hydrogen Rocket Threat

BERLIN (U)—Russian Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev today warned that the explosion of war over Germany would bring the United States under the threat of attack from hydrogen rockets.

Khrushchev told a special session of the East German parliament the Western powers are trying to turn West Germany into a war base and are creating "an extremely serious situation."

"They want to use the German people as cannon fodder in their plans to conquer the world," the Red chieflain declared.

The speech parroted numerous other blasts from Khrushchev, Soviet spokesman, and Soviet propaganda organs. Presumably this time it was intended to scare West German voters, who, on Sept. 16, elect a new parliament and decide whether to retain the government of staunchly pro-Western, anti-Communist Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Before Khrushchev spoke, East German Premier Otto Grotewohl restated his regime's endorsement of the long-standing Soviet proposal for the withdrawal of Russian and Western troops from German soil.

"Warning" that modern warfare could lead to the devastation of densely populated areas, Khrushchev declared: "This (destructive power) should be kept in mind by statesmen of England, France and other countries whose areas would be in range of atomic and hydrogen weapons in case military operations start."

"Statesman of the United States should also think about it as in our time, where rocket developments are rapid, distances cannot save any country from the effects of atomic and hydrogen weapons."

The Russian added that "all these people must think about this who refuse to follow a peaceful policy and refuse to join in a disarmament agreement."

Khrushchev fired his broadside on the second day of his week's visit with a high-level Kremlin delegation to the restive satellite.

The Russian charged the Western powers want "to have a reunified Germany which would be an obedient tool of their aggressive plans."

Khrushchev also lambasted Adenauer but insisted that Russia "has not and will not mix in the Sept. 15 elections in the Federal Republic."

Khrushchev, despite his anti-Stalinist talk in Moscow during the past year, gave East Germany's Stalinist regime a comradely pat on the back last night.

Playgrounds To Close Tomorrow

Greenville playgrounds are scheduled to close tomorrow.

Supervisor Mrs. Laura Barrier has announced that field day events and picnics will be staged as special attractions on the closing day.

Beginning at 9 a. m., Hillsdale, Third Street, Guy Smith, Riverside, South Greenville and Elm Street will have various types of races and relays, followed by quiet games in which all age groups will be able to participate.

Two of the playgrounds, Meadowbrook and Woodlawn, which have been operating this summer on a half day schedule are staging their field day events this afternoon.

All children who are planning to attend the playground closing events tomorrow are requested to bring a picnic lunch. The lunch will be served on the grounds at 12 noon.

Mrs. Barrier stated, "We have had a very successful summer at our playgrounds and sincerely hope the eight-week period has been a profitable one for the children of Greenville."

She added that parents and friends of the youngsters participating in the closing exercises are cordially invited to attend.

Betsy, Ross, with a snip of her scissors, convinced George Washington that a five-pointed star would look better than a six-pointed star on the American flag.

Cite 3 More On Lottery Counts

The lottery crackdown here continues.

City police arrested two Negroes this morning and one yesterday shortly after lunch on charges of possession of lottery tickets.

A search this morning revealed a sizable quantity of the illicit tickets at 216 Boyd Ave. The tickets were found in a room occupied by Jackson Atkinson, 51, and Annie Brady, 70.

The two were identified to be mother and son by officers following their arrest. Both were charged with possession of lottery tickets.

A Negro woman, Johnnie Mae Jones of 607 Howell St. was cited for lottery ticket possession yesterday.

She was cited when a search of her home by police officers disclosed a number of the tickets.

Taken into custody, the woman was later released under a $100 bond.

Arrest 'Peeping Tom' Suspect

Police have arrested another Greenville man on "peeping tom" charges.

After receiving a complaint last night officers picked up Matthew Green, 43-year-old Negro of 1303 W. Fourth St. At the time he was in the vicinity of a house he was alleged to have been seen peeping into.

Green was identified by Robert Brautley of 310 Paris Dr. as the man he discovered looking in his window. Brautley signed a warrant charging the middle-aged man with "peeping."
