

Hoffa Takes Stand For Racket Probers

WASHINGTON (AP)—James R. Hoffa acknowledged today he once returned more than $7,500 to some grocers after he had been charged with extortion.

But Hoffa protested to the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee that the charge had been reduced to a misdemeanor, and contended the matter was being put in an unfair light in its presentation at the committee's hearings.

The 44-year-old Hoffa was brought to the stand as the culmination of three weeks of hearings into charges that he placed racketeers in key New York Teamsters unions posts to capture union political control of the area for Hoffa.

But Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, opening the questioning, swung first into Hoffa's background and police record.

Kennedy asked how many times Hoffa had been arrested.

"I don't know, Bob," Hoffa said. "I think it was about 17 times I was picked up. In many instances the charges were dismissed but in three of these cases there were convictions."

Kennedy said in one case the grand jury charged Hoffa with extortion in the collection of money from some grocers.

Flaring up Hoffa said this charge was later reduced to a misdemeanor.

"I'm not saying you were guilty of extortion," Kennedy told him. "You're implying it, sir," Hoffa retorted. "You're implying that I am guilty of extortion and it isn't true."

Kennedy said that anyway, as a result of the case, Hoffa returned some $7,500.

"I think really it was something more than that," Hoffa said.

Hoffa, now the odds-on man to succeed Dave Beck as president of the nation's biggest union, told the senators when he took the witness chair that he was reserving the right to refuse to answer any questions he regarded as outside the scope of their investigation.

Hoffa posed for photographers before he took the witness stand. Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) granted a request that no pictures be taken while Hoffa was undergoing questioning.

Hoffa's lawyer, George S. Fitzgerald, Detroit, said that taking pictures during testimony would divert Hoffa's attention.

Hoffa had a second lawyer with him, David Previant.

McClellan administered the usual oath to a witness, asking whether Hoffa intended to tell the truth.

"Yes, I do," Hoffa replied.

Hoffa read a formal request to the committee, asking the right to amend testimony after the hearing.

"I further reserve the right to refuse to answer any questions which relate to matters outside the scope of the committee's authority, or which do not relate to its proper legislative purpose, or which are not pertinent to the inquiry," his statement added.

McClellan, in what he termed a tentative ruling, told Hoffa that in any refusal to testify, "You will of course have to be guided by the advice of your counsel."

"If the chair and the committee rule they are pertinent, then you'll have to make the decision," McClellan continued. This sounded like a warning that Hoffa would risk possible contempt of Congress charges if he refused to answer questions the committee held to be pertinent.

McClellan ruled that testimony taken under oath could not be changed except by returning to the witness stand to make the changes under oath.

Hoffa read his statement in a firm, sharp voice.

The chubby union boss had seemed almost in a gay mood when he arrived, a little bit early, for the hearing.

Fourth Case Of Polio Disclosed

Another Pitt County child, protected by three Salk shots, has mastered a non-paralytic strain of polio.

Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Director of the Pitt County Health Department, reported the case today. The victim, the county's fourth in less than a month, is a nine-year-old white boy from Falkland.

"The child was treated in Pitt Memorial Hospital and has been released," Dr. Humbert said. "He had a complete recovery and had received three protective immunizations against paralytic strains of polio."

Pitt's first case of polio, in a seven-year-old white boy from Winterville, was reported July 24. The second was an eight-month-old Greenville white boy, a case that was reported August 3. The third victim, a ten-year old white boy from Farmville, was reported by the Health Department last Thursday.

All of the victims had received polio immunizations and all have had complete recoveries. Dr. Humbert and physicians who have attended the four children say that immunizations have prevented paralysis in each of the children.

Arabs Warned Of Dangers In Syria

WASHINGTON (AP)—American diplomats in the Middle East are trying to impress on Arab nations the danger of Syria becoming a Soviet satellite.

Officials said, without elaboration, there was evidence already that Syria's neighbors were gravely concerned.

These officials expected other Arab countries to counsel Syria's government against drifting any closer toward Kremlin domination.

U.S. officials were adding support, authorities said, to this counsel in talks with Arab diplomats in Jordan, Lebanon, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and even Egypt, which itself is closely involved with Moscow through heavy arms purchases.

Possible action by the Arab League was not ruled out. Nor was it considered beyond possibility that Egypt's president Nasser might throw his weight into the breach opened by the Communists in the Arab position against undue influence from either East or West.

Nasser has ample opportunity to do this, if he wishes to. Syria's President Shukri Kuwatyli is in Egypt to consult with Nasser and get medical attention. Kuwatyli went there just before appointing Gen. Afif Bizry, variously called pro-Communist and a confirmed pro-Communist, to head the Syrian army.

Beyond talking to Syria's neighbors, no American plan has jelled as yet for coping with probably the most determined bid yet by Moscow for the Middle East's people, oil and real estate.

British Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia yesterday declared Syria is following a pattern which may make it Russia's first Middle East satellite.

If that happens, the Communists will have succeeded where the Czars failed. The Russians already have a foothold in Egypt, thanks to Nasser's purchase of some 250 million dollars worth of Soviet arms, including submarines. Syria, too, expects to get submarines in its estimated 70-million-dollar arms deal with Russia. Afghanistan is buying about 30 million dollars worth of Communist arms and Yemen about 20 million.

Caccia made his gloomy statement yesterday after an hour-long conference with Secretary of State Dulles on Syria and other foreign policy problems.

Dulles earlier had lunched with President Eisenhower at the White House. Officials said they discussed the Syrian crisis along with House cuts in foreign aid funds and other State Department matters.

Accused Spy Hiding Out In Red Czechoslovakia

VIENNA (AP)—Mrs. Martha Dodd Stern, accused in testimony before the Un-American Activities Committee of the U. S. House of Representatives of being a Soviet spy, is hiding out in Prague, capital of Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia.

There, her husband has called the charges against her "fantastic."

This was disclosed today by a spokesman for the U. S. Embassy in Prague after talking with Westerners who encountered the husband, Alfred Stern, a former New York investment broker.

Stern denied the charges made against his wife by Boris Morros, composer and movie director who worked as a U. S. counterespionage.

Stern refused to go into details. He refused to let any Westerner see his wife or their 12-year-old son Robert, who traveled with them from Mexico City. The Sterns arrived in Prague July 21. They had faced possible extradition from Mexico to appear before a U. S. grand jury investigating espionage. They are traveling on Paraguayan passports.

Mrs. Stern is the daughter of the late William E. Dodd, one-time U. S. ambassador to Germany.

The Sterns were dodging all telephone calls from abroad. They were reported to have moved out of Prague's Alcron Hotel to a private residence.

Stern has maintained that he and his wife are not fugitives but "merely tourists." He has said they planned to visit "certain other countries" but claimed he had no itinerary.

The Communist-controlled Czechoslovak press and radio have made no mention of their presence in Prague.

The U. S. Embassy there said it could do nothing about them because they were not traveling on American passports.

Prices took a spurt on the Greenville Tobacco Market yesterday and an average of $51.26 was posted at day's end.

Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee reported that the market sold 270,082 pounds for an average of $138,448.02 Monday.

"Volume continued light as farmers are still busy preparing their tobacco for marketing," Whedbee said. "Heavier sales are expected the latter part of the week."

"Offerings continued to consist mainly of low and fair grade primings with large amounts of non-descript tobaccos."

The sales supervisor said he did not see any tags turned by farmers after yesterday's sales.

The average for the third selling day was several dollars ahead of Thursday and Friday averages.

Thursday the market sold 652,078 pounds for $312,929.90 to average $48 per hundred weight.

Friday the market weakened slightly and 274,882 pounds were sold for $131,166.06 with an average of $47.72.

Flue-Cured Stabilization Corporation's take of yesterday's sales was negligible. The tobacco price support organization took only .53 per cent of the day's sales.

Pitt Grand Jury Reorganizes With New Members, Foreman

The Pitt County Grand Jury, reorganized yesterday with nine new members and a new foreman, returned 15 true bills of indictment during the opening session of a two-week term of Superior Court.

Nine new members were placed on the jury to replace August, 1956, appointees whose terms have expired. Hoyle A. Hendrix, one of nine men who went on the jury in January, was appointed Foreman, replacing F. F. Hendrix, one of the nine men who were relieved.

New members of the Grand Jury are L. S. Brown, G. R. Gurganus, C. E. Hart, W. O. Jolly, T. B. Lupton, J. L. Nanny, Jimmie Smith, Clifton Stokes and F. G. Worsley. They will serve with hold-over jurors Carr L. Allen, Clifton Gardner, E. T. Goor, Durwood M. Harris, Hoyle A. Hendrix, Claud Joyner, Jasper H. Letchworth, N. G. Raynor and W. A. Weatherington.

Cases heard by the jury yesterday included:

James Williams Hoggard, murder; William Nathaniel Little, driving under the influence and disregarding a stop sign; Julius Smith, murder; Alphonso Wilks, breaking and entering; Willie Barrett Jr., carrying a concealed weapon and discharging fire arms; Louise Wilks, assault and robbery;

John Henry Dail, larceny and receiving.

A. D. Barnhill, alias Jake Barnhill, disposing of a dead body and larceny; Henry Barnhill, disposing of a dead body and larceny; Ada Lee Jackson, alias Ada Boyd, disposing of a dead body and larceny; James Lee Humbles, forgery and uttering a forged check; J. L. Humbles, forgery and uttering a forged check; Frank Streeter, hit-and-run; "Simp" Collins, possession of non-tax-paid whiskey and possession for the purpose of sale; and Elizabeth Cox, possession of non-tax-paid whiskey and possession for the purpose of sale.

Confession Of Slaying Retracted

Preliminary Hearing Thursday For Guy; Father Doubts Guilt

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Charles Lee Guy III, 19, charged with the shotgun slaying of his mother's sweetheart, has retracted a confession police said he signed last Friday. His father is from Dunn, N.C.

The youth was arraigned yesterday before Municipal Judge Harry J. Borde.

A preliminary hearing was set for Thursday in the same court on the accusation that he shot and killed Guy F. Roberts, 45, Los Angeles advertising executive, in a Santa Monica motel last Thursday.

Announcement of the retracted confession was made by three defense attorneys, one of whom is the young man's father, Charles Lee Guy Jr., 39, a public prosecutor from Dunn, N.C.

The father told newsmen after conferring with his son: "I don't believe the boy is guilty."

The elder Guy and the other defense counsel declared the youth signed the document after being questioned without sleep for more than 12 hours and at a time when his mother, Mrs. Nina J. Angus, 37, also was being held in connection with the shooting. She later was released.

The father, accompanied to California by his present wife, Mildred, said he hadn't seen his son for nearly 10 years.

Mrs. Angus also was present in the courtroom yesterday. Police reported she was living with Roberts in the motel where he was slain. They said she told them she and Roberts were to have been married this week.

Officers said young Guy confessed killing Roberts with a shotgun blast as he lay in bed but gave no reason for his act. Investigators said he had been drinking heavily the night before the shooting.

Claim Huks Have Election Plans

MANILA (AP)—Philippine army intelligence agents today were reported to have captured Huk documents showing rebel plans to disrupt the November presidential elections.

The Philippine News Service said the documents were seized yesterday in a clash between an army commando patrol and a Huk band in Cavite province south of Manila. The account said the rebels were en route to a meeting called by the top Huk leader Jesus Lava to discuss plans for sabotaging the elections.

Army commando patrols, meanwhile, pressed ahead with Operation Gargoyle, a new campaign against leaders of the Red-led Huk movement.

Syria To Cite U. S. As Threat To Peace

DAMASCUS (AP)—Syria today instructed its United Nations delegation to call the attention of the Security Council to a "serious threat to Middle East peace" stemming from an alleged American plot against the Syrian regime.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said Syria did not demand any specific action by the Security Council.

Relations between Syria and the United States have been sagging steadily and reached a new low with Syria's announcement that it will set up governments that will change from liberal foreign policies and join the imperialistic line.

On the basis of this accusation, Syria last week ordered three members of the U. S. Embassy staff to leave the country.

Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar blames the Eisenhower Middle East Doctrine for the poor relations between the two countries, contending the doctrine aims at destroying the independence of the Arab world and delivering it "into Zionism and imperialism."

Bitar told a news conference yesterday the U. S. program is to blame for Syria's current troubles with the United States.

"Syria has been the target of destructive activities aimed at making her accept the Eisenhower Doctrine," Bitar said. "It is already known that the main object of the conspiracy to overthrow the Syrian and Egyptian regimes is to set up governments that will change from liberal foreign policies and join the imperialistic line."

In addition to her desire to harm Syria's independent policy, Bitar declared, "the United States recently launched plans for an economic embargo against Syria. She offered to sell American wheat at prices lower than in the United States itself to several countries which usually buy Syrian wheat."

Bitar declared that countries which accepted the Eisenhower Doctrine had become "nests of intrigue and plots against Syria and Egypt."

Asked whether Syria would consider breaking relations with the United States, Bitar replied: "This question depends on the United States and steps she wants to adopt in the future."

Relations between the two countries have been near the breaking point since Syria accused the United States of plotting to overthrow the regime.

U. S. Embassy officials have labeled the Syrian charges a "complete fabrication."

Three U. S. Embassy officials were withdrawn at Syria's request and the United States pulled out its ambassador and ousted the Syrian envoy in Washington.

Compromise Bill On Atom Reactors Expected To Pass

WASHINGTON (AP)—Drafters of a Democratic program for government construction of atomic power reactors predicted today it will be approved by a reluctant House.

Most of the program, devised by the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, was included in a 352-million-dollar authorization bill approved by a conference committee late yesterday.

Most of the items in the bill are noncontroversial. They cover regular authorizations for Atomic Energy Commission construction work in the year ahead.

The compromise bill was expected to come up in the Senate first, possibly today. Approval was anticipated there.

The House two weeks ago eliminated all the reactor projects in a victory for the Eisenhower administration, which opposed them. But the program was approved in full by the Senate last Friday after forcing the issue into a Senate-House conference.

Representatives Durham (D-NC) and Hollifield (D-Calif.) members of the conference committee, predicted to newsmen that the House would not reject the proposals a second time.

Republican members of the conference committee won two concessions that sliced 37 million dollars from the original total of 389 million dollars.

The compromise bill includes these projects opposed by the administration:

1. Three million dollars for planning a natural uranium gas-cooled reactor at the AEC's plant in Idaho. This represents one of the two GOP victories in the conference committee. The Senate bill had listed 40 million dollars for building the reactor. The House had eliminated all money for the project.
2. Fifteen million dollars for construction of an experimental plutonium recycle reactor at the AEC plant in Hanford, Wash. This has been chopped out of the bill by the House.
3. Three million dollars for planning a single or dual-purpose reactor at Hanford for production of plutonium. Eventual cost of this reactor was set at about 95 million dollars. House Democrats had scored their lone victory on this item, keeping it in the bill.

The compromise bill retained an order to the AEC to build small reactors for three rural power cooperatives and a municipal power group, and to make steam available to them at a price based on that from the use of conventional fuels. This had been eliminated by the House.

The second concession won by the conference committee Republicans came on the authorization of the small reactors.

The conference committee eliminated a fifth reactor intended for consumers public power district of Nebraska, a state-owned utility. As a result, negotiations between the AEC and the Nebraska group will continue.

The small reactors the AEC would be directed to build would be located at Piqua, Ohio; Hershey, Mich.; Elk River, Minn.; and Chugach, Alaska.

Republicans had concentrated much of their fire on the proposal to build the small reactors, calling it a public vs. private power issue. Democrats described that argument as baseless.

Police Escorted Boys And Money

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—A fund to buy two new giraffes for Oklahoma City's zoo was $60 richer today after two youngsters telephoned for a police escort for their contributions. The zoo's two giraffes died last month.

The boys—Grand Lord, 10, and Kurt Austin, 7—were picked up yesterday by a police cruiser, along with a small safe and the gallon jug, loaded with pennies.

With red light blinking and siren wailing, the officers delivered the boys and their pennies to the Park Department. The boys promised: "We'll collect some more."

Gunshots Keep Intruder At Bay Until Arrested

An intruder was arrested by City Police shortly after he broke into an Evans St. residence last night.

Officers charged Earl Wilbur Williams of Greenville Rt. 3 with trespassing, breaking and entering a dwelling in the night time, damage to personal property and having a concealed weapon in his possession. He was taken into custody shortly before midnight last night and released under a $1,000 bond this morning.

The 34-year-old mechanic was quoted by officers as saying he came to Mrs. Jean Harris' apartment "to find out if she loved me." Mrs. Harris lives with Mrs. Reba Satterfield who signed three warrants following the break-in.

A small quantity of whiskey was found by Police in Williams' car parked outside of the house but officers said he was not drunk at the time he was taken into custody.

In addition a .45 caliber pistol was found in the vehicle's glove compartment. The pistol was fully loaded, one officer said.

Williams was then charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Witnesses said the man did not knock or call but came to the door and broke the front glass. He then entered the house.

Just as he entered, Mrs. Satterfield's nephew fired two shots and held him at gunpoint until the Police arrived.

Having cut himself when he broke the front door glass, officers took Williams to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment. Six stitches were required to close a cut on his right arm.

Vote To Start

DOVER, England (AP)—Twenty-five of the world's star long distance swimmers today voted in favor of starting a mass English Channel race from France to England early tomorrow morning.

The swimmers plan to enter the water off Cap Gris Nez at 6:20 GMT (9:50 p.m. EST to night). They will race 22 miles across the channel to Dover on the English south coast with 500 pounds ($1,400) going to the first man and woman across.

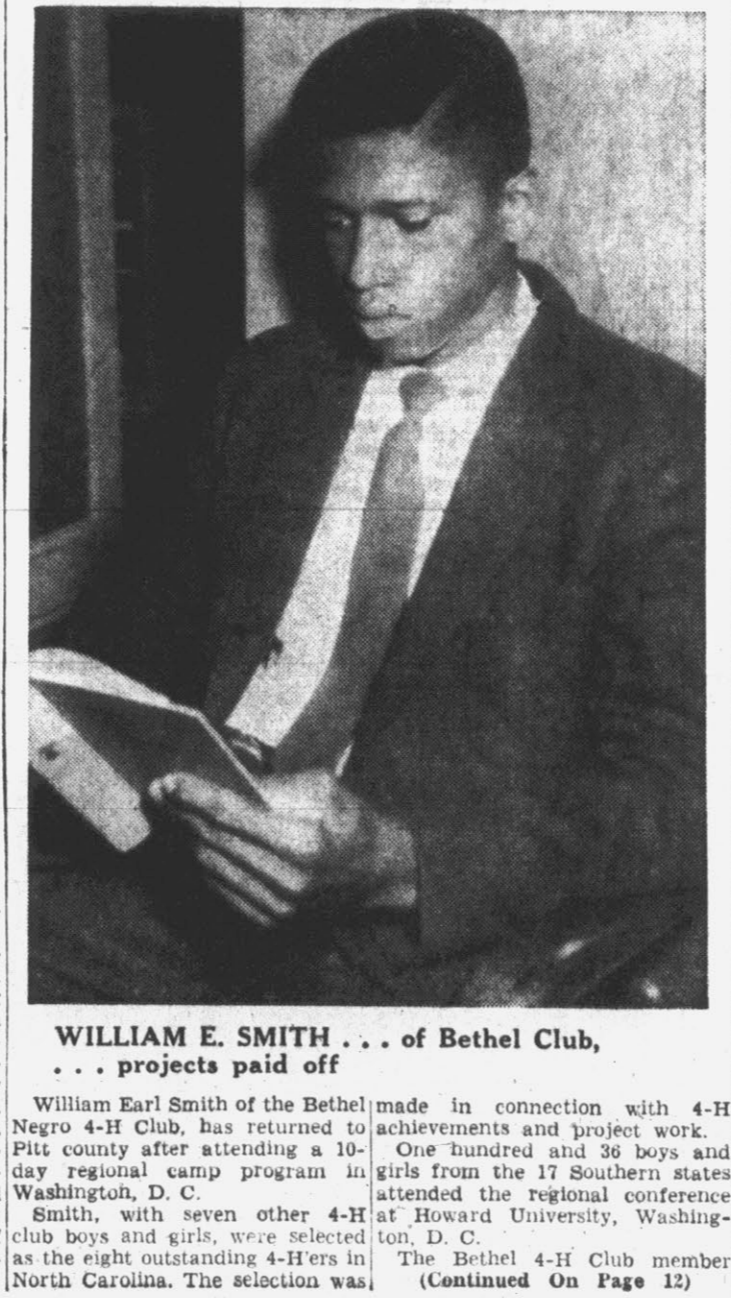

Florence Louise Burdette of Greenville, S.C. was the only American in the race.

Prison Sentences For 3 Who Abandoned Body Of Companion

Prison sentences were handed out yesterday to three Negroes who abandoned the body of a companion who died while in their company.

A. D. (Jake) Barnhill, Henry Barnhill and Ada Lee Jackson drew the sentences from Judge Walter Bone after pleading guilty to disposing of a dead body and larceny. Judge Bone is presiding over a two weeks mixed term of Superior Court.

Jake was ordered to serve not less than 18 months and not more than two years in jail. Henry received a two-to-three years term, and the woman was given six months in the Woman's Division of the state prison.

The trio was arrested July 8, shortly after the body of Mattie Belle Phillips, 49-year-old Negro of Winterville, was found on a lonely wooded path near Winterville.

Subsequent investigation by the Sheriff's Department showed that the two Barnhill men and the Jackson woman admitted picking up the dead woman on July 4. They said that she died of natural causes and that her body was removed from a car and placed on the ground.

The bills of indictment, which had been returned early yesterday by a Grand Jury, also charged each of the three defendants with larceny of a watch from the dead woman.

A. D. (Jake) Barnhill and Henry Barnhill were listed on the indictments as being residents of Route 2, Winterville. Ada Lee Jackson, listed with an alias of Ada Boyd, lived at 1717 Pitt Street, Greenville.

Balloonist Has Ringside View Of The Heavens In High Flight

Watches Spectacular Storm Below; Reached 100,000 Feet Yesterday

CROSBY, Minn. (AP)—Warmth from the rising sun sent the huge helium-filled Air Force balloon and its doctor-pilot back up toward the 100,000 foot mark early today, temporarily delaying a descent.

An Air Force flight evaluation team stationed in Minneapolis said new calculations were being drawn in an attempt to determine where Maj. David G. Simons would land the balloon and its sealed, instrument-laden gondola after a possible second altitude mark.

Maj. Simons reached an estimated 100,000 feet, about 19 miles, yesterday in his first 15-hour aloft, spending a night in the heavens he termed "indescribable."

At 8:30 a. m. the balloon drifted at 96,000 feet above Breckenridge, Minn., about 150 miles west of the Crosby, Minn., launching point. Indications were the balloon would continue to rise as the sun's warmth increased.

Maj. Simons reported the balloon dropped several thousand feet early today in turbulence created by a heavy thunder and lightning storm at 50,000 feet above Sisseton, S. D.

The balloon dropped to about 68,000 feet. Maj. Simons regained altitude by dumping ballast.

Simons described the storm to ground trackers as "a whale of a one" and spectacular to watch from above.

The pilot said he catnapped a total of about an hour. He spent most of his time observing the spectacle of night heavens ranging from deep violet to jet black, interrupted by a vivid display of the aurora borealis.

"I have a ringside view of the heavens—it is indescribable," was the terse radio message ground trackers received from Simons.

The giant polyethylene bag, 280 feet long and 200 in diameter, was launched from a 450-foot-deep mine pit here at 9:30 a.m. yesterday.

Aside from condition reports ground crews tracking the balloon said Simons' radio is used mostly for data to be used in evaluating man's chances for survival in outer space. He also is taking hundreds of pictures.

Col. J. W. McCurdy of the Air Force evaluation team on the ground said Simons had reached the estimated 100,000 feet over Detroit Lakes-Fergus Falls, Minn. last night. The previous mark for manned balloons, 96,000 feet, was set in June by Air Force Capt. Joseph Kittinger in a test run for the current project.

McCurdy said there was every reason to hope that Simons today might exceed the projected 102,000-foot goal set for the big bag as its programed 24 hours aloft.

Farmville Mart Average Rises To $47.95 Mark

FARMVILLE—The Farmville Tobacco Market pushed its three-day sales average to $47.95 yesterday.

Sales Supervisor Charles S. Edwards said the market moved 131,934 pounds of tobacco for $67,672.87 yesterday, with the day's average at $51.29 per one hundred pounds. In three sales days thus far, the market has sold 452,942 pounds for $217,179.23, an average of $47.95.

Edwards also said that the Flue-Cured Stabilization Corporation is getting only a "negligible" part of the tobacco being sold. Prices, which have risen each day since the market opened Thursday, are running well ahead of support prices, he added.

Prices on all grades were up this morning, Edwards said, indicating that today's average might hit $53 per hundred pounds.

Hendrix-Cox Vows Spoken In Raleigh Sunday

Miss Mary Alice Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Vernon Cox of Raleigh, became the bride of James Curtis Hendrix, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hoyle A. Hendrix of Greenville, Sunday afternoon.

Dr. John W. Kincheloe Jr. officiated at the double ring ceremony at the Hayes Barton Baptist Church of Raleigh.

Wedding music was rendered by James D. Ringgold, soloist, and Ray Collins, organist.

Pink and white flowers accented with pink candles, palms and other greenery were used throughout the church.

Given in marriage by her father, J. Vernon Cox, the bride wore a floor-length gown of chantilly lace over satin, designed and beaded with pearls by the bride. Her only ornament was a string of cultured pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. Her two-tiered veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of seed pearls.

She carried an old fashioned cascade bouquet of hybrid white orchids, bride's roses, fleur d'amour, and stephanotis showered with love-knotted satin streamers.

Miss Elizabeth Ann Cox, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her purple floor-length dress of nylon net had a contrasting orchid satin sash with streamers and a matching picture hat. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of shell pink asters with matching satin ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Miss Ann Anderson, Miss Carolyn Jones, Miss Patricia Buffalo of Raleigh and Miss Josephine Hendrix, sister of the bridegroom of Greenville.

They wore shell pink floor-length dresses of nylon net, picture hats and matching satin sashes and streamers. They carried semi-cascade bouquets of deep purple asters with purple ribbons.

Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Martha Dure, Miss Jane Woodard, Miss Frances Longest, Miss Nancy Howard, Miss Mary Britton, Miss Patsy Deaton, Miss Patricia James, Miss Jaynelle Goodnight, Miss E. Ann Broadway, Miss Dorothy Hulick, Miss Edna Holoman and Miss Dorothy McEwen of Raleigh.

Hoyle A. Hendrix, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were John A. Messick, Lyman Ormrod Jr., Donald J. Rose, James A. Piver Jr., Thomas M. Byrd, and Stuart Savage of Greenville.

The mother of the bride wore a pink lace applique on silk dress and a corsage of hybrid mauve orchids.

Mrs. Hendrix chose a Capri blue lace sheath dress and a purple throat orchid corsage for the wedding.

Mrs. C. H. Gorham, maternal grandmother of the bridegroom, wore a beige afternoon dress. Mrs. D. L. Hendrix, grandmother of the bridegroom, chose a lavender afternoon dress. They both wore carnation corsages.

Mrs. Hendrix is a graduate of Needham B. Broughton High School in Raleigh and will continue her education as a sophomore at East Carolina College.

Mr. Hendrix is a senior at East Carolina College and is majoring in English.

For their wedding trip to Fontana Village, Fontana, N. C., the bride wore a black linen sheath dress with a matching jacket and a black velvet hat with black patent leather accessories. Her corsage was of white orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Hendrix will make their home at 403 East Ninth St.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride on Reaves Drive with Mr. and Mrs. J. Vernon Cox as hosts.

Pink and white flowers and pink candles were placed throughout the home. The appointed table was covered with a lace cloth over pink satin and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with pink rose buds.

Mrs. James Curtis Hendrix

Out-of-town guests attending the Hendrix-Cox wedding were Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Oppelt, Mrs.

F. A. Bendall, Mrs. J. D. Messick, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Piver, Mrs. J. P. Vainright, Mrs. L. W. Herrington, Mrs. Stuart Savage, Mrs. T. M. Byrd, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Steinbeck, Miss Rachel Steinbeck and Franklin Steinbeck of Greenville.

Secretary Of Year Wants More Work

By ALLAN MERRITT
ST. LOUIS (AP)—Secretaries should be given more work and responsibilities.

That's a tip for the bosses from Mrs. Ruth Clemence of Chicago, chosen at the National Secretaries Assn. convention here as "Secretary of the Year."

"This might sound fantastic to some business executives but I've talked with the secretaries and most of them would rather carry a full work load," Mrs. Clemence said.

"A lot of bosses could utilize their secretaries better. Many of them don't realize a secretary would like to have more responsibilities."

"I know they are happiest when the office is busy. Sure, they might gripe. But it's during the slack periods that they grow restless." A trim 40-year-old brunette, Mrs. Clemence is secretary to Vice President W. F. Landes of the Bell Zoller Coal Co. of Chicago. She is a former president of the Lake Shore chapter of the secretaries association and is one of the nation's 983 certified professional secretaries.

Sound Advice
Her advice to youngsters seeking to become secretaries is to strive for a thorough grounding in fundamentals such as spelling and grammar. Many young women entering the field show an "appalling" deficiency in these essentials, she said.
"Keep going to school," she advised other secretaries. "You'll

Designer's Daughter Peeks At Fall Fashions

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

If you want the lowdown on French fashions, talk to an American college girl who has seen the Paris collections. My current source is 18-year-old Joan Simpson, a student at Bennett Junior College in Millbrook, N.Y., and the daughter of New York dress designer Adele Simpson.

Joan and her best friend Arlyn Miner of Chicago, a Wellesley student, have just returned from a grand tour of Europe, where they saw the works under the wing of Joan's mother, the small but mighty Mrs. Simpson.

"I got a completely new view of fashions from the girls," says Adele. "It was a fresh, accent-on-youth approach that did me good. They liked all the things I thought were awful, and vice versa. It was a fine way for a designer to get out of a rut."

Joan loved all the middy tops and pleated skirts, for instance, and all the sunnysack dresses. As to the new silhouette variously described as "spindle," "barrel," and "oval," Joan says:

"I'd just call them all eggs—and I think that's the best term, because they come scrambled, hard-boiled or soft."

The girls liked the short dresses, too, although some of the more extreme examples elicited the following remark from the Junior Simpson: "The models look just like cigarette girls—all they need is a tray on one hip."

Mom Simpson didn't agree about the short skirts, since she holds firmly to the belief that most women's knees look better covered, and that the skirt length is a personal matter to be decided by each woman for herself.

he meant. That's his province. A secretary can't make the decisions. There are things behind the scenes that she doesn't know about."

What about those situations where the boss gives strict orders he is not to be disturbed and his wife telephones five minutes later and demands to talk with him?

"Explain to her exactly what he said," Mrs. Clemence replied. "Then if she still insists, I don't think you could refuse."

Should a secretary always be willing to work after regular hours to help the boss handle a business emergency?

"I don't think a good secretary would mind staying on in an emergency. But I can't understand those companies where they're always working after hours. I think something's wrong. I don't think they get any more work done in the long run."

Mrs. Clemence attained the rating of a certified professional secretary in 1953 after passing a 12-hour examination covering six phases of secretaryship. The examination was initiated and is sponsored by the National Secretaries Assn.

She came to the convention here as one of 15 regional finalists for the selection of the "Secretary of the Year." The selection was made by three judges on the basis of education, experience, appearance and poise.

Mrs. Taylor Entertained

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. William Fred Taylor, the former Miss Geraldine Griffin of Beihaven, a recent bride, was complimented at a tea on Friday afternoon by Mrs. John Henry Roberson and Mrs. N. R. Roberson at the home of Mrs. Roberson on Green Street.

The entire house was thrown en-vite for the occasion. Mixed summer flowers were arranged throughout the home.

Mrs. Nathan R. Roberson greeted the guests at the door, then Mrs. J. H. Roberson introduced them to Mrs. Fred Taylor and Mrs. William P. Taylor, the guests of honor.

Mrs. Rosa Carraway invited the callers to the dining room to a table covered with a white cut-work linen cloth which was centered with a candelabra featuring burning white tapers and an epergne arrangement of white asters, petunias, feverfew and snow on the mountain. The buffet was decorated with a miniature bride and bridegroom, surrounded by ivy and flanked with candelabra.

Mrs. W. Dee Taylor of Rocky Mount poured iced punch and Mrs. Hoace Tetterton of Bethel served bridal cakes at the other end of the table. The other refreshments were ham biscuits, pickles, party crackers, mints and nuts.

Mrs. Walter Roberson, Mrs. W. Taylor Sr., Mrs. Allen Corey, Mrs. Edward Ashley Roberson and Miss Elizabeth Ann Everett assisted in serving.

Mrs. James O. Warren Jr. directed the guests to the hall where Mrs. A. P. Berrin presided at the register. Receiving in the other rooms were Mrs. Edgar Johnson, Mrs. J. W. Taylor Jr. and Mrs. Stenwall Parker.

Music was furnished throughout the afternoon by Mrs. Wiley B. Roberson.

The goodbyes were said to Mrs. B. L. Stokes.

30 Years Ago Today

August 20, 1927

Miss Mary Wall Bost was hostess at a pretty bridge party this morning in honor of Miss Ruth Buchann of Henderson, who is the guest of Miss Florence Phelps. Four tables were placed on the porch for the game. Midsummer flowers were used for decorations. On arrival of the guests Coca-Colas were served. Miss Margaret Hassell was presented an attractive score pad for high score. Miss Buchann was given silk hose. A tempting salad course was served following the game.

Here Is That Perfect Dessert

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Eight tasters gave their full approval to this Lime Souffle Cake as a perfect summer dessert. It has a delicate flavor, a puffy but substantial texture and is easy to make.

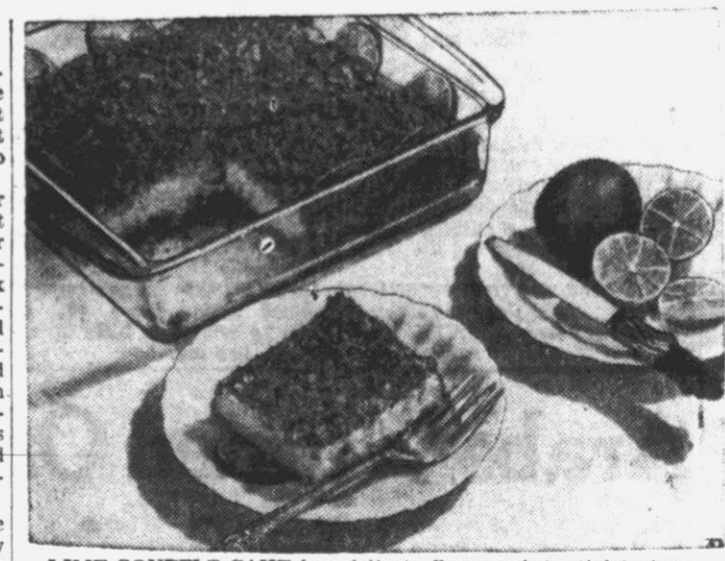

Although there is no cream or cottage cheese in this dessert, it will remind you of a light-as-air cheese cake. Three ingredients—eggs, sweetened condensed milk and fresh limes—achieve the interesting filling. The crust and topping are a combination of zwieback crumbs, sugar and melted butter or margarine along with finely chopped walnuts. We borrowed the idea of adding the nuts from a professional caterer and they add immeasurably to the dessert.

If you plan to offer this Lime Souffle Cake as a supper party dessert, you may wish to prepare it an hour and a half to two hours before it is to be served. This is practical because the dessert is baked for half an hour in a slow oven and then it is cooled in the oven (with the door closed) with the heat shut off. When it is removed at the end of the cooling period, it will be warm, high and puffy—a delight to savor. Or you can prepare the dessert well ahead and serve it cold; in this case it will shrink an inch or so in height but it will still taste delicious.

LIME SOUFFLE CAKE

Ingredients: 4 large eggs (separated), 1 can (15 ounces) sweetened condensed milk (1-1/3 cups), 1 teaspoon grated lime rind, 1-3/4 cup lime juice, 2-3/4 cup fine zwieback crumbs, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine (melted), 1-4 cup very finely chopped walnuts (packed down).
Method: Beat egg yolks in medium-sized mixing bowl with rotary beater (hand or electric) until thick and almost white in color. Add condensed milk and beat until blended. Add grated lime rind and walnuts into remaining half of lime juice and beat again until blended. With clean rotary beater, beat egg whites until stiff enough to hold a peak that stands straight up when beater is slowly withdrawn. Fold beaten egg whites into milk mixture. Mix zwieback crumbs and sugar together well; mix thoroughly with melted butter. Pat half of mixture into bottom of well-buttered pan (about 8 by 8 by 2 inches). Stir finely chopped

Mrs. Clemence, who married at 17 and is divorced, currently is taking a liberal arts course at the University of Chicago in her spare time. She has a married daughter, Mrs. Pay Hall of Peoria, Ill., who also is a secretary.

Should a secretary taking dictation from her boss correct his grammar and improve upon his wording when he seems to need such help?

"That's part of her job," said Mrs. Clemence. "Most executives are happy to have you do it, but it should be done in a tactful way. And the letter should still sound like the dictator."

Faring Well, But Could Do Better

Compared with more than a decade ago, North Carolina's General Assembly has done well by East Carolina College in the realm of appropriations for the institution.

Compared with what other degree-granting state institutions in North Carolina are getting from the General Assembly, it is evident that East Carolina College is still in need of more consideration before its appropriation on a per student basis compare favorably with that of other state supported colleges.

The most recent General Assembly appropriated a total of $14,099,893 a year of the current biennium for the twelve state supported colleges, an average of $505 per student during regular terms. The figure does not include general administration and other items, so it generally may be considered the amount appropriated is for instruction of the students.

While East Carolina College ranks third in enrollment among the twelve state colleges of North Carolina, it ranks 11th in the per student appropriation by the state, having an average of only $369 per student appropriated. For East Carolina College the per student appropriation of $308 less than the per student appropriation for the unit of the University at Chapel Hill, $271 less than the per student appropriation for Woman's College in Greensboro, and $136 less than the per student appropriation for the twelve colleges as a whole.

Significance In Economic Areas

By LYNN NISBET
GEOGRAPHY is less important in the selection of public officials. Where a man lives doesn't matter nearly so much as his attitude on matters of public policy, and his ability or willingness to learn about them. Most important of all is capacity to look at problems from a statewide viewpoint, rather than a narrow or sectional view.

For these reasons it perhaps is of little consequence that the whole industrial middle part of the state, containing two-thirds of the population and a substantial majority of revenue-producing business, does not have a member of the Utilities Commission, and has not had since the retirement of Fred Hunter of Mecklenburg several years ago.

Chairman Stanley Winborne, originally from Hertford county, has lived and worked in Raleigh long enough to be accorded to Wake county. Other commissioners are Harry Westcott of Dare, Sam Worthington of Pitt and Ed McMahan of Transylvania. The current vacancy was occasioned by recent resignation of Ralph Moody of Cherokee.

The Utilities Commission has responsibility for regulating services and establishing rates for franchise passenger bus and freight truck lines, electric power and telephone companies, railroads, gas, water and other utilities. There is nothing sectional about their functions. It is reasonable to assume that men living close to the major operations of these utilities would know more about them than outsiders. Many people who live in that part of the state between Raleigh and the Blue Ridge have expressed the hope that Governor Hodges would give them direct representation when he fills the Utilities Commission vacancy.

ABC — The Alcoholic Beverage Control system of the City of Greensboro is the second largest operating unit in the state, exceeded only by Mecklenburg county. Although the issue was voted upon and liquor stores are operated only within the city, the county of Guilford and other towns get a cut of the profits. A copy of the report made by Chairman Henry C. Liles to the major and council of Greensboro affords some interesting topics for study. The volume of liquor and dollars is bigger than in most other county and city systems, but it is presumed that the ratio is approximately the same.

During the fiscal year ending last June 30 the Greensboro stores sold $6,493,674.50 worth of bottled goods. After deducting cost of the merchandise, more than half of which represented Federal taxes, and all operating expenses, the system paid into the State treasury the sum of $648,476.80 and into the general fund treasuries of Greensboro, Guilford county and other municipalities $898,741.81.

In the six years the stores have operated total sales exceeded $36 million. About $17 million went for Federal taxes, over $3.25 million to the State of North Carolina and $3.6 million to local government units. Some $400,000 was used for law enforcement and education.

"The revenue aspects of alcoholic beverage control should always be secondary," says Chairman Liles. "It becomes of paramount concern, however, when we see millions of dollars being put to useful public purposes, that in the absence of alcoholic beverage control would be used to foster underworld activity within the City of Goldsboro."

JORDANS — The oft repeated theory that the preacher's children are the worst in the neighborhood and seldom turn out well is given the lie by the record of the Jordan family in North Carolina.

Rev. Henry Harrison Jordan, a circuit riding Methodist preacher around the turn of the century, had four boys and two girls to reach maturity.

Everett Jordan is a leading textile manufacturer, but has found time to serve as State chairman and National committee man for the Democratic party, and has made distinct contribution to good government.

Henry left the practice of dentistry to join his elder brother in textile operations, served four years as division commissioner and four as chairman of the State Highway and Public Works Commission and is currently a senator in the North Carolina General Assembly.

Frank is a prominent Methodist minister, now stationed at Thomasville, after serving other big churches and as district superintendent in the Western North Carolina conference.

Charles, educated as a lawyer, is vice president of Duke University in charge of public relations and was recently appointed on the State Board of Education.

One of the girls married Rev. George Way, who died a short time ago after many years as a Methodist preacher in South Carolina, occupying some of the biggest pulpits in that state.

The other daughter married Dr. H. C. Sprinkle, former editor of the North Carolina Christian Advocate and now editor of the World Outlook in New York, leading publication of the Methodist Church in the United States.

It is common for several members of one family to attain prominence and places of leadership in North Carolina. It is unusual that all six members of one preacher's family should achieve that goal — with no black sheep in the flock.

It is readily seen, therefore, that if the per-student appropriation for East Carolina College were on a par with the average for the entire state system of institutions of higher learning, ECC would have a budget increase of slightly more than $400,000 a year for the current biennium. Such an amount could make a tremendous difference in the institution's operations.

As we said at the outset, ECC obviously has gained favor with the legislators in the past decade so far as appropriations are concerned. It remains a fact, however, that East Carolina College is not getting more than its share of state funds when one compares its appropriations with those of other state supported colleges. We trust the legislature will consider ECC and its outstanding contribution to higher education in North Carolina even more favorably when time rolls around again for appropriations.

Opening The Doors To Frontier Of Space

It is difficult to imagine anything more thrilling than the experience of Dr. David G. Simons who set a new altitude record by riding the Air Force test balloon to an altitude of more than 19 miles.

"I have a ringside view of the heavens—it is indescribable."

Those few words by Dr. Simons spur the imagination to picture the sights the Air Force major must have witnessed from his lofty perch. The sensations he must have experienced in his flight defy attempts to describe.

For all the spectacles he witnessed, the flight must have been an extremely rigorous and exhausting experience. It must have taxed all the mental and physical strength the man could muster. And the data that has been acquired from the experiment will pave the way for other daredevils of the rim of space who will come later and set new altitude records.

We have great respect for men like Dr. Simons. Their willingness to risk their own lives for the sake of scientific experiment and discovery is a quality which few men possess; yet is an essential ingredient to scientific progress which constantly opens the doors to new frontiers.

Magazines Are Priced As Pets

By ELMER ROESSNER

Many magazine publishing properties are for sale, but few at rational prices. Bernard G. Davis, former Ziff-Davis Publishing president, has found.

Mr. Davis has been trying to buy some. Thirty years ago, on graduation from Pittsburgh University, he joined William B. Ziff's magazine publishing company, later acquiring an interest and becoming president. Mr. Ziff died in 1953 and a month ago Mr. Davis sold his interest to the widow and four children and resigned to start over again with his son Joel, 23, as his partner.

His first step was to place a want ad offering to buy magazine and similar publishing properties. So far, he's bought Mercury Publications, which publishes the Ellery Queen magazine in seven editions for seven countries.

"I haven't bought anything else," he said, "because publishers want such fantastic prices." The magazine market declined sharply after Colliers' and the Woman's Home Companion were folded. Some investors withdrew backing of publications, causing at least one to suspend and delaying the launching of several new ones. Several publishers were eager to sell at almost any price.

But, according to Mr. Davis, the market has recovered its weakness and most properties are overpriced.

LOVED LIKE CHILDREN — Publishers think of their magazines as their children," he said. "They value them in the same way parents value their offspring. Like fathers who say their sons are worth a million dollars, I think some publishers price their properties to make sure nobody will buy them."

"Some of the asking prices are outrageous. They put high prices on their subscription lists, but if you look at them closely they are not assets but liabilities. A buyer would be committed to delivering hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of magazines."

"Publishers say their magazines are worth fantastic sums because this or that can be done with them. But I can never find out why no one has done any of those things all the time the magazine has been in existence. Publishers are unrealistic about the values of other assets."

"Most prices are so high that nobody would buy them except other publishers who are screwy," Mr. Davis declared. "I'm a publisher, but not that screwy." As a consequence, Mr. Davis, instead of seeking more magazines, is working on six new products from scratch. They are still on his secret list.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
QUITE SUFFICIENT SUCCESS
Have you ever pondered the fact that the best baseball players in the business only get one hit about every three times at bat? The other times they are either struck out or fielded out. If anybody ever got a fifty per cent success or better in batting, the world would go delirious over the greatest athlete of all times.

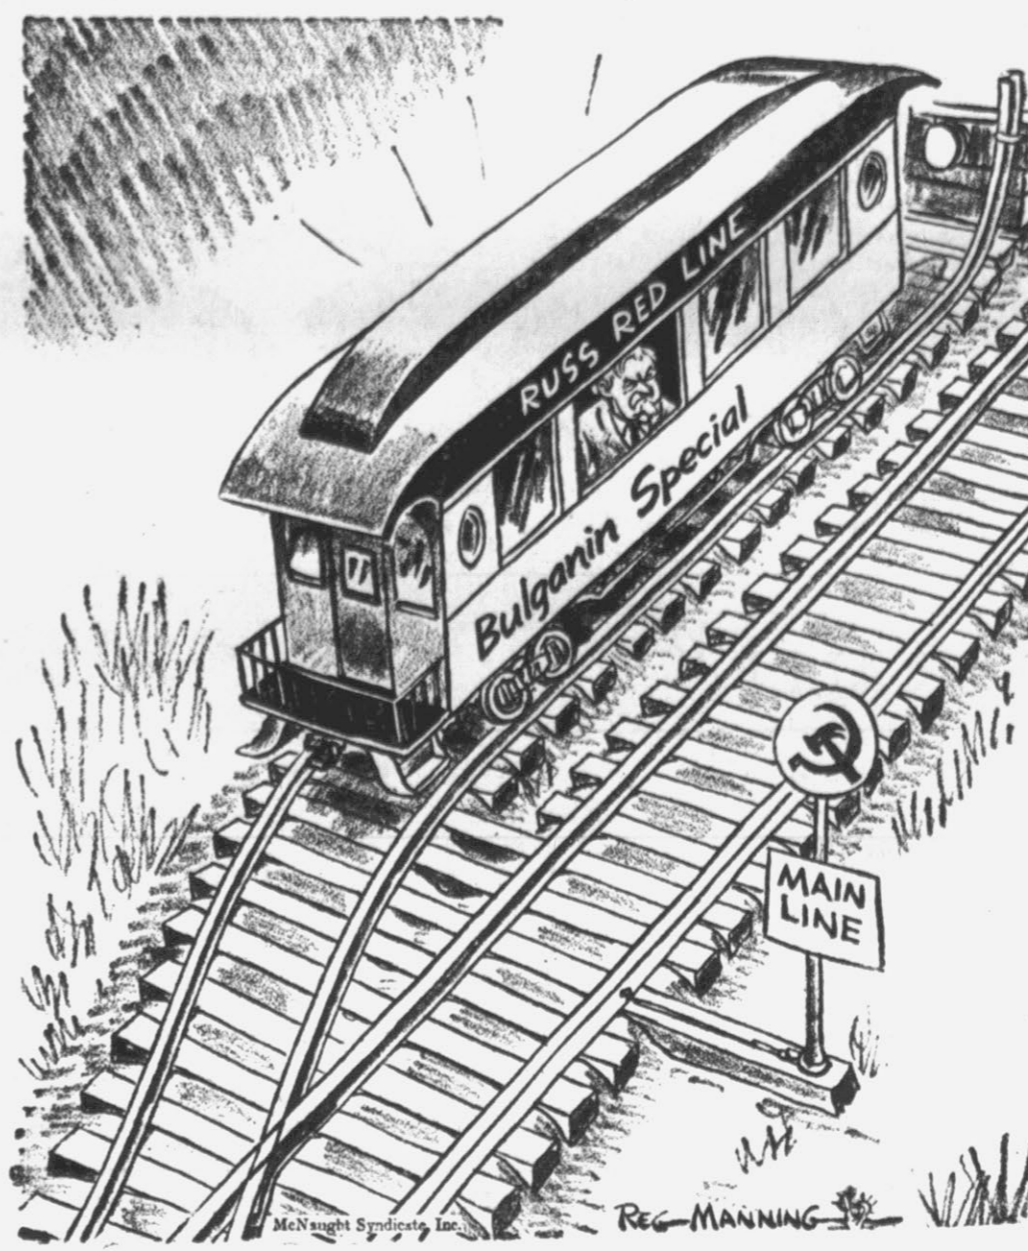

So why get discouraged and downcast because your batting average in daily success is not any better than professional baseball players. You regard yourself as a failure because you try to do things that come lines you simply cannot attain a measure of success which is satisfactory. Perhaps you take music lessons and are aware of the fact that if you practiced eight hours a day you would never emerge out of the class of the amateur. Or you may write and have manuscripts returned from the publisher from time to time. Perhaps for years you have been trying to overcome some moral weakness and have not been able to do so.

Don't give up. If you must have one hundred per cent achievement to be satisfied then rest assured you will never be satisfied. But achievement in this world will never be one hundred per cent.

Keep your eye on the ball and keep slugging. Your success will be quite sufficient.

Sidetracked

By JIMMY ELLIS

All Alone For One Week

This is the week that My Fair Gwen and the Wee Urchin have availed themselves of the generosity and good humor of friends.

They are, I presume, enjoying the sand and surf of North Carolina's coast. They will also come back, I presume, filled with tales of wonder and enjoyment that I have missed by not being with them.

There are, however, certain compensations in having to live alone for a week.

First of all, I expect to find that silence in an apartment can become deafening. Such a finding would put an end to a long, scientific quest on my part.

Second, I presume that I will discover if there is any truth to the story that dirty dishes accumulated over a five-day period don't look any worse than one day's pile-up of greasy pots, plates and silver.

As a third point, I have no doubt at all that before the week is out I'll know if an unmade bed is as comfortable as one that is stretched and smoothed each morning.

Also, I think that by next week this time I will be able to give a factual report on how many meals can be made out of half a loaf of bread, one pound of sausage, one pound of bacon, a quart of milk each day and 80 cents in cash.

I believe, too, I will have an honest answer to the eternal question of how many pairs of socks I possess. And if the number is as small as I think it is, I'll probably be able to report on the number of days that an individual can wear the same pair of socks before he is forced to change them.

Since I have experience in handling an iron and washing quick-drying clothes, I don't believe I'll have to worry about making any discoveries there. I already know that an iron, any iron, gets exceedingly heavy about the fourth time you push it across a stubborn shirt that refused to give up all the soap you put into it.

There will be, I know, an answer at the end of the week to the nagging question of reading books I've managed to collect over the years. I keep telling myself that I would read them if I had time to do so. I will have such time this week, but I wonder if I'll do it, or if I'll find that the things I keep telling myself are just excuses.

Perhaps I will also determine if the ideas I have for a couple of short stories can be worked into something satisfactory. I carry the ideas with me, call them to mind occasionally, and keep reminding myself to write them down when I get a quiet and thoughtful moment.

There are dozens of other things I expect to resolve. Some of them are serious, some not-so-serious, and others really not worthy of consideration beyond forgetting. They all come under the classification of compensation, however, and should help to fill the quiet hours I have ahead of me.

I really expect to find the answer to all of them. That is, if I can quit counting the hours until they come back.

That counting business can take up a man's time.

Opinions In Brief

JEFFERSON TOWN, KY., JEFFERSONIAN: "President Eisenhower told the Conference of Governors at Williamsburg they shouldn't pass their state problems on to the Federals in Washington. And, in majority, they seemed to agree with him. And if they passed fewer problems up to Washington he would have less difficulty in cutting the national budget. The states could obtain more tax money to care for their own needs."

AREAS THAT MAY BENEFIT FROM MILITARY CHANGE THE areas expected to benefit from the military reorientation are those building aircraft, guided missiles, electronic equipment and atomic weapons. This factor explains the advance of Michigan's rival states.

In view of the Pentagon's fluctuating plans, however, the situation is still unstable. There is plenty of time for sections threatened by the "new look" to accommodate themselves to new conditions, but it requires foresight and initiative on the part of industrial, economic and civic groups, with some help from their political friends at the Capitol.

Intermediate (1,500 miles) and intercontinental (5,000 miles) ballistic missiles may yet supplant fighter and bomber forces, forcing Texas, California and the Northwestern states to remodel in order to utilize existing facilities for manufacture of these weapons. As of today, they are only in the experimental stage.

DIMINISHING NUMBER OF DEFENSE WORKERS IN Michigan, for instance, about 219,000 full-time workers were employed solely in production for defense in March of 1953. In June of this year, that figure had fallen to 62,057.

In the 1950-1956 period, Michigan stood third among the states in the dollar value of defense contracts. For the first quarter of this year, the automobile, truck and tank capital of the country had fallen to fifth place.

Most of these plants and their suppliers are situated in the Middle West, particularly in Michigan, Illinois and Ohio. Factories in these sections have already suffered losses in defense orders, with resulting unemployment and a decline in purchasing power. They must, obviously, get into some other kind of defense work to compensate for the changes at Washington.

Areas now engaged in the production of trucks, tanks, command cars, armored and other vehicles will find that there will be a diminishing demand for their goods, which figured so heavily in transporting and servicing Pershing's and Eisenhower's millions of infantrymen in European land operation.

Most of these plants and their suppliers are situated in the Middle West, particularly in Michigan, Illinois and Ohio. Factories in these sections have already suffered losses in de-

Many plants in the New York-New Jersey area and the surrounding countryside, should boom, as well as subcontractors in the East generally.

WORK FOR SHIPYARDS The Navy's scrapping of huge battleships will produce changes along the coasts. Although 60,000-ton aircraft carriers and tankers will keep the great shipyards busy, there should be increased orders for existing and new smaller yards. The fleet of the future will need submarines and destroyers, mines and anti-mine devices, and other equipment which can be made at ports not now devoted to defense.

Two other factors will affect the future industrial setup. The first is automation and the second is the threat of atomic attack. Both will tend to disperse of industries now concentrated, a movement already well under way. This shift may help areas destined to lose munitions plants now in operation.

Dread Cigar Rival

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — One of the odd facts about those 800 creatures known as women is that they are secretly afraid of cigars.

They may deny it, but it's so. Ask the average woman who says she hates cigars what her objections to them are, and she'll reply: "Oh, they smell terrible and they make the men who smoke them look simply repulsive."

Then, assuming an air of balanced feminine tolerance which is about as unbalanced as a human being can get — she'll add:

"Now, I don't mind cigarettes, and it's a pleasure to a woman to see the fun a man gets out of a pipe. But cigars, ugh! They're nasty. I don't see why any man wants to smoke them."

And what is the real truth? The real truth is the lady is a liar. The real truth is that she doesn't hate cigars because they are messy or smell up the house — but because she is afraid of them.

And why? Because a little old cigar is a potential rival. Because, in this woman-dominated world, it is a subtle weapon by which a man can seek to regain his equal rights. Because it can give a man something a woman often can't — a feeling of serene power.

"A good cigar," wrote E. G. Bulwer-Lytton, "is as great a comfort to a man as a good cry to a woman."

Summing up the situation even better in one of the most terribly accurate lines in English literature, Rudyard Kipling said: "A woman is only a woman, but a good cigar is a smoke."

Consciously or unconsciously, most women realize these things are true. And naturally a woman secretly hates and fears the cigar that can give such a solace to her mortal prey, man. If the critter is going to get any solace in this dubious world, she believes she ought to provide it — not a cigar.

Mrs. Beeton Sets Pace For Today's Brides

By LEDGERWOOD SLOAN
AP Newsfeatures
 THE FORERUNNER of today's cookery and homemaking books was compiled by an Englishwoman less than a century ago. It is "Mrs. Beeton's Book on Household Management," little known in America, frequently revised but never out of print since 1862.

In it, Mrs. Beeton blazes the way in instructing brides how to assume the duties of wife, mother and household manager.

Her first volume contains some 4,000 recipes and 1,000 engravings. The latter aren't the mouth-watering displays seen in modern periodicals. For instance, fowl are shown on platters, feet intact and claws drooping. A calf's head has a belligerent look.

"Who has not eaten calf's head au naturel, simply boiled with the skin on, its flavour heightened by sauce just a little sharp?" writes the author.

Mrs. Beeton's sound advice to the housewife includes:

"Early rising is essential . . . if the mistress remain abed until a late hour, then the domestics . . . will invariably become sluggish . . .

"Frugality and economy are home virtues without which a household cannot prosper . . .

"Eschew a gossiping acquaintance . . .

"To be a good housewife does not necessarily imply an abandonment of proper pleasure or amusing recreation . . .

She adds that the mistress should purchase all provisions, inspect all rooms for cleanliness, each morning, devote some time to the instruction of youngsters and mend and sew until luncheon. Then calls may be made.

Mrs. Beeton was born Isabella Mary Mayson in London in 1836. She attended finishing school in Heidelberg and became a talented pianist.

After her engagement to a young publisher, Samuel Orchard Beeton, she set out to learn about household management. She became exasperated that "no good book for brides" existed.

They were married in 1855. She quickly learned her husband's printing, layout and book publishing business.

Mrs. Beeton compiled a mass of material, wrote more than 556,000 words and read the proofs on her monumental book by the time she was 26. Meanwhile, she was running a home, bearing four sons, traveling to Paris and Ireland, translating French novels and writing fashion notes.

She lists her oven temperatures as ranging from "furiously hot" to "tolerably fierce." But her recipes are given in detail. She cautions that cooking utensils must be "delicately clean."

Her recipes range from the most elaborate dishes to bread soups—crusts boiled in stock and beaten with a spoon until smooth. She notes this is a "cheap recipe, and will be found useful where extreme economy is an object."

Mrs. Beeton died in childbirth Feb. 9, 1865, at the age of 29.

Revised editions of her works are published by Ward Lock & Co., Ltd., 145 Piccadilly, London. The firm took over her husband's publishing business in 1866.

Elaborate Doll With Full Skirt Tops Cake

ROBERSONVILLE—Vickie Andrews celebrated her sixth birthday with a party Saturday afternoon at the South Broad Street home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Andrews.

The children played games on the lawn.

Cookies, ice cream, mints, iced drinks and chewing gum were served. The cake was decorated with a doll wearing an elaborate confectionery sugar dress. Her full skirt made of icing covered the top of the round cake.

When the little guests returned to the yard they played with the balloons which were given as favors.

Vickie received many nice gifts from the 40 friends who attended.

Kitchen Fever
 Improvements in one home is like a contagious disease, for it keeps spreading. Cherry home demonstration club members in Washington County have had kitchen fever, according to reports from Mrs. Frances M. Darden, home agent.

Mrs. Darden explains that Mrs. Eula Ambrose, Mrs. George Sawyer, Mrs. Laude Davenport, Mrs. Lyle Woodley, Mrs. Steve Davenport, and Miss Ida Davis, all of the Cherry community, have all built new kitchen cabinets with formica tops, bought new linoleum, and added new electrical appliances.

They all agree that their work is much easier with the added improvements and the pleasing new color combinations they've chosen.

Good As New
 Mrs. Kathleen Roach, Myers Chapel, has a platform rocker that's good as new—because she spent many hours and a few dollars to make it that way.

According to Clay County Home Agent Velma B. Moore, Mrs. Roach did a good job in reupholstering the rocker which was in need of repair.

"It was easy," said Mrs. Roach, "when I could save the original cover to use as a pattern for a new one. For less than ten dollars I have a good looking piece of furniture."

Made The Most Of It
 Lincoln County home demonstration club member Mrs. Raeford Dellinger believes in making the most of what she has.

Reports from Evelyn S. Taylor, assistant home agent, show that Mrs. Dellinger had an old pressure canner which hadn't been used in several years because some parts were worn out. She had tried to can low acid vegetables in the boiling water bath, but was, of course, unsuccessful.

Mrs. Taylor suggested to her that she compare the cost of having hers put in good working order with the cost of a new one.

She did this and was able to have the old one repaired—new handle, gauge, petcock, safety valve and gasket—for only $5.45.

HOT PEACH SUNDAE
Ingredients: 2 cups crushed peeled pitted ripe peaches, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup orange juice, salt, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, vanilla ice cream.

Method: Mix crushed peaches, sugar and orange juice together in a saucepan (about 2 quarts). Bring to a rapid boil. Simmer, uncovered, about 15 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in a dash of salt and the lemon juice. If peaches were very juicy, sauce will not be thick. Makes 1 1/2 to 2 cups.

Serve hot over vanilla ice cream. Note: You'll need 6 to 8 medium-sized peaches to make the amount of crushed fruit called for. To peel the peaches, cover with boiling water and allow to stand off heat for a few minutes; plunge into cold water and strip off skin.

Red Banks Club Has Picnic

Members of the Red Banks HD Club entertained their families and friends at a midsummer picnic at The Little Corner Park located at the end of Fourteenth St. extension on the L. S. Hardee farm.

The young group cooked hot dogs and hamburgers on the portables while the older members filled the long picnic table with all kinds of food. Ice cold lemonade and ice tea were served.

The invocation was given by R. B. Starling.

The president, Mrs. Hugh Hardee Jr., presented Mrs. R. B. Starling with a leather portfolio to keep her many notes of her recent trip around the world. "This was a gift" from the club in appreciation of her service in representing HD clubs in foreign countries.

Mrs. Starling placed a Hawaiian lei around the president's neck which was one of the many leis given to the delegates by the Home Demonstration Council. The words "Aloha from Hawaii" were on the lei.

Guests for the picnic were Mr. and Mrs. Terry Nobles and son, Mr. and Mrs. Blanton Little, Miss Margaret Stevens, Miss Lois Jones, Mrs. Maud Williams, Miss Ann Green and Miss Olivia Bland and Donald Corbett from Norfolk, Va. A former member, Mrs. Martha Forrest, was also present.

Take Manicure Step By Step

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor
 If you'd give yourself a professional manicure, never take a short-cut on work that will not show. That's the advice of a professional manicurist whose manicures are known to look lovelier longer. She recommends a simple step-by-step routine, and says a good manicure will take only a few minutes longer than a casual one.

The first job is to condition the nail surface to which polish will be applied. That's the only way you'll get a smooth polish finish.

Remove every trace of the old polish with a sterile cotton ball moistened with polish remover. Hold the cotton on the nails until the polish softens. Then wipe it from the base to the tip. Work neatly, so you will not smear polish on the skin around the nails.

When you have shaped the nails with the file and pushed back the cuticle with the wide end of the orange stick, give the nails a good scrubbing with a stiff brush and soapy water. Rub each nail vigorously with the towel when you dry your hands. The scrubbing and towel rubbing should whisk off dead cuticle that might prevent a smooth polish and cause chipping.

Buffing the nails has been revived both by those who wear polish and those who do not. It provides the smoothest base for the polish. A good buffing method is to stroke from base to tip and from tip to base. That way you'll serve to keep the polish soft, be sure to buff the entire nail. If you stroke across the nail, you are likely to buff only the raised center, the professional manicurist reminds us.

Give nail polish plenty of time to dry at room temperature. Heat at least one will be free.

Improving Space
 Margie Price, 4-H club girl, Route 2, Taylorsville, decided to be economical while improving storage space in her home, says June Goldstein, Alexander County assistant home agent.

It seems that Margie is encouraging her father to build shelves and racks on the back porch for convenience. These racks will be used to hang coats on in the winter and to store shoes and boots which have been used for outside work. There will also be a place to store the pressure canner and the garbage can.

In the future, Margie plans to paint the inside of the cabinets in the kitchen and have shelves made for additional storage space in the bathroom. All her interest in home improvement is coming from her 4-H project in home improvement.

Craven County Reports
 "I deserve at least one day off for fun and relaxation after working so hard all the year," "My whole family is looking forward to the picnic day," "This picnic will give me a chance to see the place where our 4-Hers go to camp."

These comments are some of those frequently heard throughout the county as home demonstration club women talk and make plans for the Family Day Picnic, an idea that originated at the May home demonstration council meeting.

Home Demonstration club members believe that families should plan their good times just as carefully as they plan the work that needs to be done. They all agreed that family living is much better when occasions arise when all family members are allowed to share in the fun as well as the work.

Basic Breakfast Starts The Day

RALEIGH—Teen-age girls are notorious breakfast-skippers. Surveys have found that almost 60 per cent of this age group habitually eat breakfasts that are not adequate for their physical needs.

Nor are teen-age girls the only culprits—one-third of teen-age boys and one-half of the adult population skip or skimp breakfast.

According to Jo Earp, Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist, good breakfast habits are essential for maximum efficiency for the young and old alike, both mental and physical, during the late morning hours. She points out that a basic breakfast of cereal and milk is certainly better than none at all.

The light, modern cereal and milk breakfast composed of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter, providing one-fourth of the daily caloric requirement and one-fourth of the daily protein allowance, is superior in maintaining efficiency in the late morning hours compared either to a smaller or a larger breakfast.

High school teachers have found that the most successful way to reach teen-age girls is to interest them in good eating for today's good looks and good health. Unfortunately, teen-age girls are not interested in the fact that poor eating habits during their teenage years may cause problems when they become mothers. All they are interested in is today—and today only.

Mothers can play important roles in improving breakfast eating habits. They should encourage children to get to bed in time for adequate rest so that they'll feel like getting up in the morning in time for breakfast.

Seek To Learn If Asian Flu Can Be Transmitted In Air

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter
LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP)—A big hospital building internally bathed in "black light" is the setting for an unusual experiment designed to show whether the new Asian flu can be transmitted from one person to another through the air.

Inside this building, part of the Veterans Administration hospital here, are about 140 long-term patients. So long as they are patients they will not be allowed to leave the structure, which has been equipped with a barber shop, a chapel and other features to make it virtually a fortress.

The building and its occupants, as well as other units of the VA institution, await the onset of the expected flu epidemic — which some health authorities say could affect as much as a third of the U.S. population.

The Veterans Administration disclosed the project today in announcing that the patients in the building plus the 520 employees of the entire VA unit had volunteered to play parts in the test.

The experiment is important because medical science does not know how the influenza virus moves from one human being to another. Some authorities say it travels through the air. Others say it can infect a person only by direct contact with another who harbors the disease organism.

Evidence on exactly how it is spread could be of help. It might show whether the flu organism could be stopped by a radiation barrier, or whether some degree of isolation is effective.

Black light, or ultraviolet, as it is called, is a form of radiation. It makes certain substances glow brilliantly in the dark. It can kill some kinds of germs. It can cause sunburn. Long exposure could produce injury to the eyes.

The walls of the test structure, known as Building 62, are studded with ultraviolet lamps, so aimed that their rays do not strike patients or employes directly but irradiate the air volume.

Samples of blood serum have been taken from every patient in Building 62 and in all employes of the Livermore hospital installation. These samples are being checked for the presence of Asian flu at the government's communicable disease center in Atlanta. From this the Public Health Service will know just which ones, if any, have had the Asian flu and which have not.

Urges Christians To Form 'Front'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The world's Christians were asked today to form a solid front against racial discrimination.

"There can be no (color) lines drawn where the Christian church is at work, either in missions, in mercy, or in learning," Dr. Edgar M. Carlson said in an address prepared for the Lutheran World Federation's third assembly.

He is president of Gustavus Adolphus College in St. Peter, Minn.

"There can be no basis in faith or in fact for any assumption of superiority on the part of any of God's children," he said. "The record of the more fortunate and privileged races, and in particular the white race, is compiled of sufficient injustice and oppression to give the lie to any pretense of racial superiority."

He said Christians are not far enough ahead of governments in abolishing the color line in worshipping communities.

As it is, he contended, Christianity has waited so long it may not be able to make an important contribution toward ending discrimination.

Racial problems in this country, Africa, Asia and other areas constitute an urgency that is "growing by leaps and bounds," he said.

The U.S. Supreme Court's anti-segregation rulings have been met by "patience and good judgment" on the part of most Negroes, Dr. Carlson said, "but we have reason for embarrassment and shame that certain elements among the white race have not demonstrated equal qualities."

Ranks Divided Over Prospects Of Boom In Fall

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Businessmen appear to be as divided as stock market operators and government and banking economists on the prospects for a boom this fall.

A survey of 205 industrial corporations today shows the majority of their top men still optimistic but also reveals a growing minority that now looks for a downturn in production and sales—and especially in profits.

A similar taking of the consumer pulse recently also showed uneasiness spreading among those with the final say-so as to which way the economy will go. Consumers this summer are less confident than they were last winter that good times will go on forever.

Brokers' houses have been preaching caution in a stock market making wide swings with small volume. Most people seem to have taken to the sidelines.

Financial circles gossip about what they interpret as a split in opinion among Federal Reserve system officials as to whether business is heading up or down. The gossip fastens on the New York Federal Reserve Bank's failure to follow quickly the action of other districts in hiking the discount rate. Any such hike is usually interpreted as a fear that inflation and speculative boom are in the cards. Holding to the old interest rate or lowering it is usually interpreted as a fear of deflation rather than inflation and of a business slowdown rather than a new boom.

In view of all this difference of opinion, the National Industrial Conference Board asked 205 industrial concerns how they felt business would be the rest of this year.

It reports today that the majority are optimistic, expecting new orders and dollar sales to increase, planning to boost their rates of production, and hoping for larger before-tax profits.

"Manufacturers of electrical industrial equipment, hardware, general industrial machinery, instruments, controls and apparatus nonferrous metals and office equipment are particularly cheerful," the board reports. "Producers of apparel and related products, construction materials, paper and allied products also see a bright second half."

The board—a non-profit-making organization doing research in the field of economics and business—finds more than half the 205 firms looking for larger dollar value of new orders this fall than last and a bit less than half expecting more new orders than in the first half of this year.

Better profits before taxes are anticipated by 53 per cent; smaller profits by 23 per cent; and a continuation of first half 1957 levels by 24 per cent.

NEW YORK (AP)—Jubilant fund raisers for the Episcopal Church Advance Fund drive reported topping their $1,235,000 goal by $477,399 and a cow.

Giving its all was the St. Mark's Parish, Shelby, Ohio, which reported receipt of 47 cash pledges and one Angus heifer.

Knowland Unperturbed By Knight's Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Friends say Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) is all set to accept the challenge of Gov. Goodwin J. Knight to fight it out in next year's primary for the Republican nomination for governor of California.

Knowland was outwardly unperturbed by Knight's announcement in Sacramento yesterday that he is a candidate for renomination. Knowland also registered no public reaction to Knight's blast at those who Knight said would use the state office as a "paw in the presidential contest."

"I have no comment beyond the fact that I always have assumed the governor would be a candidate for renomination," Knowland said. "There are no changes in my plans which have been previously announced."

Knowland said he was making his declaration early "to resolve any doubts concerning my intentions."

Knowland, the Senate's Republican leader, has announced he will not seek re-election. He has left open the possibility of a bid for the governorship with the statement he will announce his intentions during a speaking tour in California next month.

There remains no doubt among Knowland's associates here that he will seek to oust Knight as the party nominee. If Knowland succeeds and if he then is elected governor, he could be expected to make a strong bid for the 1969 Republican presidential nomination.

In obvious reference to this, Knight said California has two "able and distinguished men" who are potential candidates for the national nomination. The other he meant is Vice President Nixon.

Then, in a dig apparently at both of them, he said: "The governor's office of California, at this critical period, however, is far too important to the welfare of the people of this state to be allowed to become a pawn in the presidential contest."

Nixon's friends have come to the conclusion he will support Knowland against Knight, despite the fact that the vice president recognizes Knowland as a threat to his own ambitions for the GOP presidential nomination.

Knowland, who has been watching California newspaper polls closely, seems confident he can take Knight's measure in a primary battle.

Neither Mrs. Sparks nor the other driver, William Andrew Horgan, 42, Slater, Mo., was injured. Mrs. Sparks, 37, was en route to join her husband, an Army officer now stationed in Detroit. A highway patrolman charged her with careless driving and said she was on the wrong side of the road.

Greenville Gridders Open Ambitious Schedule With Goldsboro September 7th

By BILLY ARNOLD Reflector Sports Editor

While Greenville high school gridders and new Head Coach Bud Phillips are getting acquainted, the season's opener with Goldsboro is drawing nearer.

The non-conference affair, set for September 7, will open one of the most ambitious schedules in years for the Greenville eleven.

The slate includes games with four non-conference clubs, two of them away from home.

Goldsboro and Wilson, both AAA teams, will give the Phants a taste of Eastern AAA Conference competition, while games with Selma and Fuquay Springs will offer a brand "of competition" from further west.

The two AAA teams need no introduction to Greenville spectators. Both outfits field strong clubs annually and have demonstrated their power to GHS's embarrassment in the past few years.

Fuquay Springs and Selma also have become well-known to local fans during the past two seasons.

The 1957 schedule, as released by Principal O. E. Dowd yesterday, is as follows:

Sept. 7—Goldsboro, there Sept. 13—Jacksonville, here Sept. 20—Kinston, there Sept. 27—Washington, here Oct. 4—Selma, there Oct. 11—Elizabeth City, there Oct. 18—New Bern, here Oct. 25—Fuquay Springs, here Nov. 1—Wilson, here Nov. 8—Roanoke Rapids, there Coach Phillips and his assistants Milton Reece, Odell Welbourne, and Robert Youngblood have been putting the Phantom candidates through a two-a-day schedule of drills, this week, stressing condition.

The 30-35 candidates have been working in both heavy and light equipment and also have started skull sessions. Plays have been issued to each boy and scrimmage session are about ready to commence.

As yet, Phillips has made no definite selections as to what positions will be held down by whom.

ROBERT HOWELL, a half-back, is one of four returning backfield lettermen on GHS club this fall.

Most of the returning lettermen on the Green club are backs. Mack Roebuck, Bobby Edwards, Robert Howell and Robin Wilfong are the backfield returnees. Wilfong is still in Canada but is slated to return next week.

Linemen who are back from 1956's team are Billy Brown, Kelly Barnhill, Albert Crawford, Godfrey Oakley, and Albert Crawford.

Mulloy, Patty Could Revise Davis Cuppers

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—A veteran supposedly past his peak and a seasoned traveler who prefers the European tennis circuit may cause a major shakeup in the U.S. Davis Cup squad—and possibly in selection committee ideas.

Gardner Mulloy, 43, Miami, and Budge Patty, 33, Los Angeles were the top attraction today as the 77th National Doubles Championship reached the second round at Longwood.

Mulloy and Patty, who have teamed infrequently during their long careers, stunned the tennis world in winning the Wimbledon doubles championship with a four-set triumph over Australians Lew Hoad and Neale Fraser.

On the basis of that amazing victory, Mulloy and Patty were top-seeded over American and Australian Davis Cup stars in the National Doubles. They drew a first-round bye and were to meet William Goodman, Schenectady, N.Y., and John Standish, Wellesley, Mass., in their first test.

A Mulloy-Patty championship in the current tourney would virtually force the Davis Cup selection committee to try to get the pair to represent the United States for the expected Challenge Round against Australia in December.

"You don't win the Wimbledon title on a fluke," said U.S. Davis Cup captain Billy Talbot. "As you don't win the National Doubles on one either. You have to beat the best in both."

Ham Richardson, Westfield, N.J., and Vic Seixas, Philadelphia still rank as the No. 1 U.S. doubles team. They are seeded No. 3 behind Aussies Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser.

Cooper and Fraser went through the motions yesterday in defeating Greg Grant, San Marino, Calif., and Joaquin Reyes, Mexico, 6-4, 6-2, 1-6, 6-4.

Richardson overpowered Carl Noble, Danville, Ill., and Robert Potthast, Waukesha, Wis., 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

All other seeded entries in the men's and women's division advanced without difficulty to the second round.

and two linemen who can form the nucleus of the forward wall tackle. Bob Casciola and guard Dave Grubb.

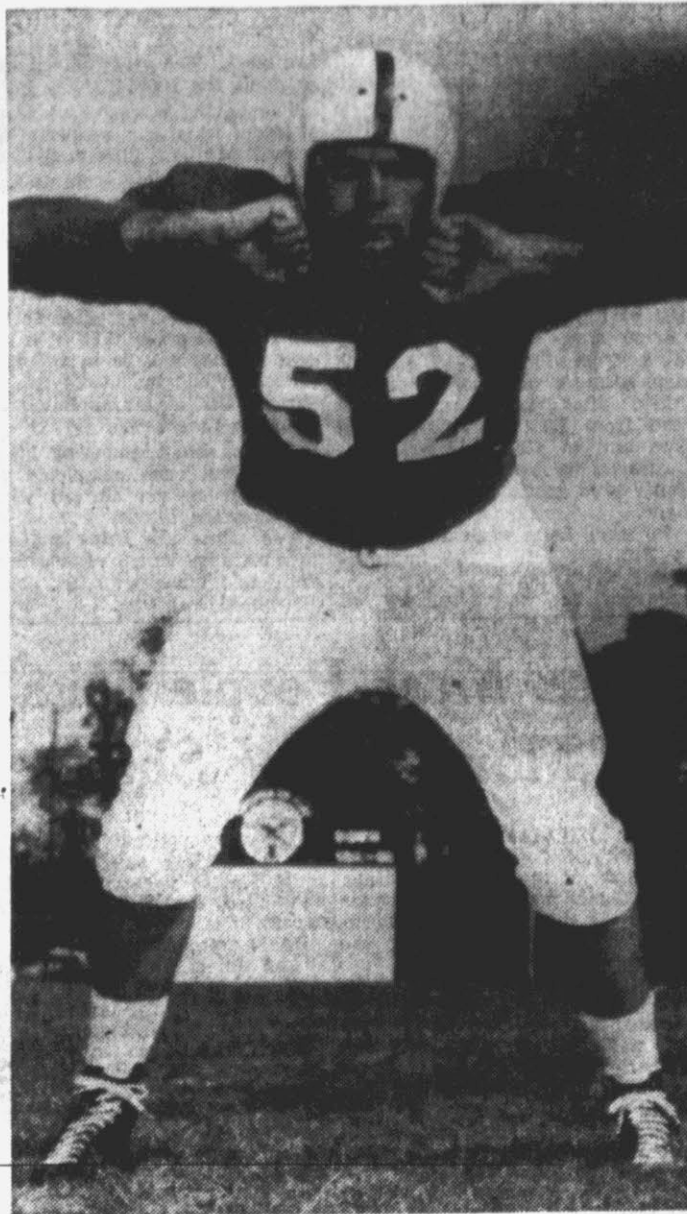

Caldwell must fill the gaps with members of last year's freshman team, which chalked up 164 points to 47 for the opposition in sweeping to six straight victories. The best of these are Bill McMillan, a wingback, and Frank Svetec, a center.

Yale lost its entire starting backfield of 1956—Al Ward, Denny McGill, Dean Loucks and Steve Ackerman—and a big hunk out of the line. The Eli won't find too many capable replacements among the sophomores.

Coach Jordan Oliver plans to bring Dick Winterbuer, a sub for the past two seasons, up to the quarterback slot and try Gene Coker and Tom Lorch, both holdovers, at full. But halfbacks are scarce and so are linemen except at end where Lanny Baird, Jack Bendexter and others give the team some strength.

Also returning are John Sapoch, 200-pound blocker and linebacker; Fred Tilly, a powerful fullback,

Potential Football Factor

QUESTION MARK—Jerry Brooks, a 6-3, 225 pound senior tackle for East Carolina College, will be a big question mark this year for the Bucs. The Rockingham native suffered a severe foot injury in 1956 requiring an operation. Should he respond to the operation, he is expected to pace the ECC forward wall.

Rematch Follows Bell-Perez Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—A bustling 10-round draw today earned Lulu Perez and Bobby Bell a return bout at St. Nicholas Arena Sept. 9.

Matchmaker Teddy Brenner signed the two little men to a 132-pound contract as a reward for their good show in the telecast fight at St. Nick's last night.

Bell, who was outweighed 135 1/2 to 128 1/2, finished strong in the last two rounds to gain the even split.

Referee Pete Della had Bell of Youngstown, Ohio, ahead 5-1. Judge Mike Davidowitch had Perez, of Brooklyn, in front 7-3.

Judge Leo Birnbaum had it even 5-5 in rounds and 4-6 in points. The AP card made it 6-4 for Perez. The draw verdict was a good one as Lulu tried in the stretch and held off. Perez also hit low several times.

Perez, a 125 underdog, billed up a big lead in the first half of the fight. He scored with sharp left hooks to the body and head and shook Bell with a right to the jaw in the second round.

Bell, a 28-year-old veteran of 73 pro fights, applied the pressure with a relentless attack in the final two rounds to gain the draw.

Milwaukee Can't Afford To Relax

By ED WILKS The Associated Press

That's a weird game of Russian roulette, with a strange twist, that Milwaukee, St. Louis and Brooklyn are playing in the National League pennant race. You're dead if you shoot a blank.

The Braves, even with a 6 1/2-game lead, can't afford to ease off. The Cardinals, in second after their worst slump in a decade, can't afford anything less than a quick winning string. And for the third-place Dodgers it's Brooklyn against the world with nobody a pushover any more.

That's the picture as the West makes its final tour through the East this season—and its last stand at the Polo Grounds, where New York's Giants are starting to pack for the trip to San Francisco.

From the record, Milwaukee and St. Louis have the edge, with the best road records in the league. The Braves are tops at 36-21 (.632). The Cards are 33-21 (.600) but are at their best in the East. St. Louis stands 21-13 (.618) in the East, while the Braves are 22-14 (.611).

The Dodgers, meanwhile, have the best home record in the league at 36-24 (.600) and are 21-14 (.600) against the Western clubs.

The Braves open their eight-game tour with their final game at Pittsburgh tonight.

The Cardinals open at the Polo Grounds with a two-nighter in a three-game set with the Giants, who have won 11 of their 14.

The Redlegs have a two-nighter at Ebbets Field tonight. The Chicago Cubs play two at Philadelphia.

If there are any die-hards left who insist the New York Yankees don't have the American League flag locked up with their 7 1/2-game lead, the champs' current Western trip ought to be the convincer. The Yanks open a three-game set at Kansas City tonight. They're 16-1 against the A's.

There was only one game in the majors yesterday and Kansas City defeated Cleveland 1-0 with a combination of long shots. Tom Gorman (3-7), who hadn't had a complete game in almost a year and hadn't pitched a shutout since 1952, beat the Indians with a four-hitter—riding in on an RBI single by Tim Thompson, who was 0-for-42, going back to July 23. Ray Narleski lost it with a five-hitter for a 9-3 record.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Kenneth Heilmann, a 41-year-old salesman from Kirkwood, Mo., usually makes his golfing mark with powerful drives. But it was a snappy iron game and good putting that put him on top today at the half-way mark in the qualifying round for the Western Amateur.

Heilmann's 70 was the only sub-par round yesterday over Old Warson Country Club's long 6,902 yards.

A stroke back at 71 were Edgar Updegraf, a 35-year-old veteran of amateur tournaments from Tucson, Ariz., Ed Brantley, the Southern Open champion from Memphis State College, and Ward Wetlaufer, national collegiate runner-up from Hamilton College in New York State.

Chick Evans, the 67-year-old Chicagoan who has won the Western eight times, had a 79.

After another 18 holes today, the low 50-plus ties—will shoot 36 holes Wednesday. The low 16 then will go into four days of match play for the championship, winding up Sunday.

Giants Look To Move In October

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The Giants, after three quarters of a century in New York, have decided to relocate their baseball franchise in San Francisco.

The official move will come sometime between Oct. 1 and Oct. 31, the specified time for any such action.

The Giants are not expected to make the 3,000-mile trek across the country alone. In all likelihood their long-time rivals, the Brooklyn Dodgers, will move to Los Angeles.

President Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers was not available for comment but an announcement regarding the Dodgers' intentions is expected sometime next week when the board of directors meets to consider a move to California.

Horace Stoneham, Giant president, declined to discuss the possibility of the Dodgers' moving, but another Giant official, who declined use of his name, said emphatically: "You can bet all the money you've got the Dodgers will be in Los Angeles next year."

A Los Angeles resident who expressed certainty of the coming of the Dodgers was Leo Durocher, onetime manager of both the Dodgers and Giants.

"I thought the Dodgers were almost a cinch to come first but it looks like the Giants have simply beaten them to the punch," Durocher said.

Stoneham's reason for recommending the transfer was poor attendance. "We had to go now," he said, "because if we had waited until our lease at the Polo Grounds expired in 1962, there probably wouldn't be a good place left to move. Another thing, if we hadn't acted as fast as we did, some other club would have beaten us to San Francisco. They made us such an attractive offer, we just couldn't turn it down."

The "attractive offer" included a 45,000-seat stadium to be built by San Francisco, at a rental of 5 per cent of the attendance, plus ownership of the concessions.

"We plan to play in the Seals Stadium next season even though I have been told the park might be ready in 1958," said Stoneham. "Even with its limited capacity (22,000), I'm certain the attendance will be well over a million. Together with a million and a half guaranteed, we will receive from our contract with Skiatron, which will telecast our home game on a pay-as-you-see basis, I can visualize a more profitable year than any we ever had in New York."

Eight of the nine members of the Board of Directors voted for the move. The lone dissenter was M. Donald Grant, a Wall Street broker who thought the Giants should remain in New York.

Lost to the minors will be San Francisco, Los Angeles and Hollywood, for sure. Probably lost will be San Diego and Sacramento. The latter's president, Fred David, says only that his club certainly will suffer.

Emil Sick says count me out on any move to have Seattle in a lower classification. He estimated his investment at two million but would be agreeable to a reasonable deal. The Rainiers of Seattle, plus Portland and Vancouver could be the only surviving PCL teams. There is talk here of a Northwest league with perhaps a Double A classification two notches below that of the present PCL. Joining such an alignment might be Spokane, Victoria and other cities in the area.

Seattle and Portland, however, have major league ambitions themselves.

McGraw's Widow Is Saddened By Move

NEW YORK (AP)—The bespectacled, grandmotherly little lady sighed today as her memories sped back over the decades.

"I guess all I have left now is memories," said Mrs. John McGraw sadly.

Mrs. McGraw is the widow of John Joseph McGraw, the Little Napoleon who ruled the New York Giants for 30 years.

Mrs. McGraw was upset when she found that the Giants Board of Directors had voted to move the franchise to San Francisco next year.

"It's one of the most tragic things that ever happened to me," she said. "I just can't imagine that I'll never again watch the Giants at the Polo Grounds. The Giants have been my life. Why, I don't know what I'll do with myself."

McGraw died in 1934. He led the Giants to 10 National League pennants and during his reign the rest of the league lived in mortal fear of them. The Giants of those days were like the New York Yankees of today.

Mrs. McGraw never forgot the club. In the intervening years, she has taken her accustomed seat near the Giants' dugout in the Polo Grounds at least three times a week during home stands.

"Old-time Giant fans know me and bring their children to talk to me," she recalled. "They want me to tell them about Mr. McGraw and his teams.

"That makes me happy because it keeps Mr. McGraw's memories alive. The children are pleased because they know they are talking to someone who knew first hand about the wonderful Giant teams of the past."

Meet Tonight In Softball Finals

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Unbeaten McLean Trucking of Winston-Salem will meet the winner of a game between Cartex Mills of Salisbury and C. C. Mangum of Raleigh tonight for the state softball championship.

Last night's games saw McLean beat City Beverage of Winston-Salem, 4-1; C. C. Mangum beat Charlotte's Stanley Drugs, 5-1, and Cartex eliminate Roanoke Rapids Romanco, 4-0.

Challenger 'Calm' On Battle Eve

SEATTLE (AP)—This is tapering-off day in the champion's camp as Floyd Patterson winds up training for a Thursday bout that Manager Gus D'Amato calls the most heavily publicized fight in 30 years.

"Not even the Dempsey-Tunney fights captured the interest of press and public as this one has," D'Amato said yesterday while Patterson was winding up his strenuous training program in Kent, Wash.

Some 20 miles away, at Issaquah, challenger Pete Rademacher planned one more session of heavy work today before breaking camp. The Olympic champion from Grandview, Wash., and Columbus, Ga., retains his air of quiet confidence as fight time nears.

Although the majority of his bouts as an amateur—he had 79 and won all but 7—were booked for three two-minute rounds, 210-pound Pete says he has no qualms over the prospect of going 13 three-minute rounds against the champion.

"I'm actually calmer now than I was before the Olympics," said the powerful challenger last night. "Then I didn't know what fighting styles I would be up against.

"But now I've watched Patterson five times on television. I know his style. I feel I'm ready to meet any type of attack the champion may select and I plan to let him set the pattern.

"Even before the fight I feel repaid," said the 28-year-old challenger who will net nary a nickel from the fracas. "The realization of a dream is payment enough. Rademacher himself proposed the fight to D'Amato, who no qualms inquired at the idea of pitting the world's amateur king against the professional champion for the first time in history.

The fact that the fight has been panned as a mismatch by ex-fighters, ring officials, a congressman and many writers has not bothered any of the principals.

The placid Patterson, refusing to consider Rademacher anything but a dangerous opponent, has stuck faithfully to a stiff training program. The champion will go into the bout weighing about 184 and, D'Amato says, in peak condition, physically and mentally.

Promoter Jack Hurley, biting back acridly at the detractors as "tools of the international boxing club" stacking up a pile of shekels from advance ticket sales. These had reached some $200,000 yesterday and most local observers were expecting a $400,000 sell-out.

That would be the total income from this fight, which will not be televised nor broadcast. Hurley will take 40 per cent and Rademacher's Georgia backers 60 per cent, which leaves them at least $10,000 short of meeting their guarantee to Patterson. Should Rademacher win, they feel they will be in position to recoup.

Girard Has Swordsman On His Defense Team

MAEBASHI, Japan (U)—A boy-looking young man with well-earned reputation as a fence will argue Japan's case against Specialist 3. C. William S. Girard in his trial on charges of shooting down a Japanese woman on a target range.

Yoshiro Konawa, 35, a soft-spoken man of 5 feet 2, is rated the most brilliant of eight young prosecutors assigned by the Justice Ministry to this rural District Court. He also is the fiercest swordsman in the province and regularly cuts down husky policemen in exhibition duels.

Konawa, apparently unconcerned about his key role in the sensational trial which opens next Monday, works on his case daily with Kaname Watanabe, 54, the chief district prosecutor.

Court observers and newsmen assigned here call Watanabe a "man of the greatest caliber" and a man headed for the summit of Japan's judiciary system. He will not appear in court, but will mastermind the prosecution.

Konawa, who was associated prosecutor in another widely publicized trial involving Americans, is well versed in international law and the complicated status of forces agreement between Japan and the United States.

Friends say he has steadfastly insisted on Japan's right to try

Girard since Mrs. Naka Sakai died on a U.S. military firing range last Jan. 30 with an empty cartridge case fired from a grenade launcher embedded in her back.

Konawa was associate prosecutor in the trial of four American soldiers involved in what became to be known internationally as the "Maebashi pinball riot." Several Japanese policemen were injured in quelling a street fight which began in a Maebashi pachinko (pinball) parlor. The soldiers were convicted and sentenced to prison terms of three to six months, but all sentences were suspended.

Unofficial reports credit Konawa with quashing plans for an appeal with this acid comment: "It was a shame that sober Japanese policemen were beaten and injured by a bunch of drunken Americans."

Watanabe, a former chief criminal prosecutor in the Tokyo higher court, was transferred to Maebashi early this year. The son of a successful Tokyo lawyer, Watanabe is tall and slender, every inch the Japanese gentleman. He looks much younger than his 54 years and loves to play baseball on the prosecutor's team here.

Debtor Seeking A Readjustment

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Charles Robinson, who operates a jewelry store, got a letter from one of his customers now in a prison in Iowa.

The customer asked if he could cut his payments from $1.50 a month. He said he was getting only $2.50 a month in the prison but wouldn't give up until he paid his entire bill of $80.

Gives Self Up For Attempted Cotsello-Slaying

NEW YORK (U)—A pudgy former boxer and small-time gambler faces arraignment today in Felony Court on a charge of attempted murder in the May 2 shooting of racketeer Frank Costello.

Vincent L. (The Chin) Gigante, 29, was charged last night, seven hours after he surrendered voluntarily at a police station. He was held overnight.

He had been sought by police because he roughly fits the description of a "fat man" placed at the scene of the assassination attempt nearly four months ago.

The shooting suspect was described as a 235- or 245-pounder, 30 to 35 years old, six feet tall, with heavy thighs and a pot belly, with what is a size 50 suit and waddles when he walks.

Gigante is 5 feet 11 and weighs 215 pounds. Costello suffered a superficial head wound in the bungled assassination attempt. Brought in to face Gigante during the questioning, Costello was described as "very cooperative" by police.

The underworld kinspin reportedly had given police no help in their search for his assailant. Whether the 67-year-old Costello identified Gigante, police would not say. Nor would they say whether five other witnesses identified him.

Deputy Inspector Fred Lussen, who questioned Gigante all afternoon, said the former boxer was uncooperative and answered no questions.

Gigante was first arrested in March 1945 on a charge of criminally receiving stolen goods. His record includes arrests for grand larceny, arson, violation of the Sullivan (antiweapons) law and gambling.

Soon after the shooting at a plush Central Park West apartment house, Gigante, a father of four, disappeared from his Greenwich Village home. Detectives staked themselves around his apartment for months.

Without notice, he appeared at the West 54th Street station around noon yesterday with his lawyer David Markowitz.

"Do you want me in the Costello case?" Gigante asked.

"We sure do," Lussen replied.

Paving Completed For Three Areas

Paving has been completed in three areas recently, City Manager Leonard Bloxam said today.

Ernul St. which runs between Tenth and Sixth has received its coat of asphalt. Curb and gutter was installed on the street earlier.

Bloxam said the street had proved a maintenance problem for the city street department. Heavy rains regularly washed gravel from Ernul into Tenth.

Another bad maintenance problem has been eliminated with the paving of Bonner's Lane. The narrow street was also paved last week from Pitt St. to Atlantic Ave. Atlantic was paved to South Alley. Thus paved streets now lead from Pitt St. to Dickinson Ave. and to Albemarle Ave.

Also an unpaved section of Atlantic was surfaced by Bonner's Lane. Bonner's Lane washed badly into Pitt St. before the improvements were made.

Paving has been installed on River Drive from Willow and Woodlawn east to Harding for two blocks. The newly-paved street parallels the river.

The paving project cost around $9,000 of which the property owners will pay half, Bloxam said.

Drainage on Vance St. is about 80 per cent complete. Only catch basins on Fourth and Fifth have to be built. That street is scheduled for paving as soon as the fill has settled, Bloxam said.

The next drainage project which the city will under take with bond issue monies will be in the Higgs section. It will include Myrtle and Skinner Sts. as far as Battle and across to Line Ave.

Bloxam said engineering for the project has been completed and "we hope to get started within the next ten days."

Also plans are being made to pave an alley which runs between Third and Washington St. behind the business houses.

Judge Had Long Wait For Cases

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (U)—George F. Hardman, police judge of suburban West Buechel for six years, will hold court for the first time Aug. 31.

The reason for the delay? West Buechel had no town marshal and therefore there were no arrests. Hence, no need for a judge.

Hugh Johnson was hired recently as town marshal and already has made a few arrests.

What Most People Miss On Morning TV Shows

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (U)—Approximately two-thirds of the nation's average TV audience never gets a chance to see the major chunk of megacycle enterprise known as the weekday morning programs.

In this company are the folks who go to work, or are off in summer camps. (Not included in the statistics are the ones who deliberately ignore the big glass eye until after dinner).

As a special service to this neglected group, here is a minute-by-minute report on what was doing on the airwaves from 7:30 a.m. to noon EDT one typical morning.

As the set warned to work, there was Ned Calmer on CBS with all sorts of news. A few minutes later "Today's" Jack Lescoule over on NBC reported the news.

At 8 a.m. the adolescent element of the audience started getting saturation attention. Calmer yielded to Capt. Kangaroo, coaxing a rooster to crow, and the just-awakened ABC channel brought Tinker Tom to the waiting moppets.

NBC, sticking with the adult customers, had Dave Garroway, fresh from vacation, interviewing an Air Force major.

Josie McCarthy then emerged on "Today" with a menu for dinner tonight.

ABC, completely dedicated to the kiddies unreeling a steady stream of animated cartoons.

A change of pace around the dial became noticeable soon after 9 a.m. A film episode of My Little Margie" descended on CBS followed by a repeat of Stu Erwin capers.

By 10 a.m., ABC was firmly involved in a Western film, the progress of which could be reliably checked by tuning a line of talk every 15 minutes.

Fred Waring, in mood of relaxed precision, moved onto CBS with vocals and violins. Just as Ariene Francis unveiled another installment of her new show for NBC.

Steadfastly spinning the dial on the viewer's kaleidoscope became a sequence of quiz shows on NBC (Jan Murray, Bill Cullen); Peter Lind Hayes trying on a series of hats in place of Arthur Godfrey on CBS.

The local Dumont station, hooked up with some other independent stations, brought in the morning's principal change of pace with on-the-spot coverage of the Senate's Labor Committee investigation.

Drs. Marshall, Keister Resign From College

Two East Carolina College professors, Dr. W. E. Marshall and Dr. Elwood J. Keister, in letters to President J. D. Messick, announced their resignations here to accept positions in other states.

Dr. Marshall, for 12 years a member of the faculty in the Social Studies department, has accepted a position as professor of political science in a Tennessee college. For a time he served as dean of men and was first director of student affairs at East Carolina.

A native of Texas, Marshall held bachelor's and master of arts degrees from the University of Texas and his Ph. D. degree from American University in Washington, D. C. He was considered an authority on American government and the United Nations.

Mrs. Marshall was a member of the faculty of the Wahi-Coates Laboratory School of East Carolina for a number of years. She and Dr. Marshall actively participated in community life and Dr. Marshall was generous in supporting civic, religious and educational projects here.

Dr. Keister, a native of Ohio, came to the East Carolina Music Department in the Fall of 1954 as instructor in voice and strings and director of choral music. His choirs established a musical reputation which was Southwide. For the past two summers he directed "The Lost Colony" symphonic choir and wrote new musical scores for the production at Roanoke Island.

Dr. Keister will become director of the choral division of the Department of Music of the University of Florida at Gainesville. He holds the bachelor of music degree from Baldwin-Wallace Conservatory of Music, the Master of Music degree from the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y., and a Doctor of Education degree from Teachers College of Columbia University. Before coming to East Carolina he was a member of the internationally famous Robert Shaw Chorale for two years. He and Mrs. Keister have a two-year-old son.

Modest War Hero Says Best In Bible

ARMED WITH THE WORD: John Crews, hero in the Battle of the Bulge, prefers to speak of Biblical bravery rather than his own. He blushed when his Sunday School class recently discovered he had won the Congressional Medal of Honor.

By RAY SHAW
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—John Crews killed 40 Germans and captured 15 more to win the Congressional Medal of Honor 12 years ago.

When the boys in the Sunday School class he teaches found out recently about his bravery, he blushed.

For 12 years he had tried to hide his past from his neighbors and fellow church members. He tried to keep out of the public's eye. Even after he won the medal and returned home from World War II, he received little publicity.

That was the way he wanted it. Crews has been trying to live down his bravery. He is quick to say he's not ashamed of it. "But it's something in the past—something that doesn't do anybody any good when you bring it up."

His class of boys at Exchange Avenue Baptist Church got the same reply other people will ask him to tell his "war" stories. "Only war stories that need to be told are in the Bible," the serious Crews declared.

Three Decorations
Printed citations of his bravery tell the story. He has three dated within 48 hours in April, 1945. One was the Medal of Honor, the others for the Bronze and Silver Stars. All were given for action in the Battle of the Bulge.

The Medal of Honor was given for knocking out two machinegun nests, killing 40 of the enemy and capturing 15 others.
The Silver Star was for taking charge of his platoon after his leader was wounded. Under Crews' command, the platoon held back

To Hear Appeals Of Reassignment

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The McDowell County Board of Education is to open hearings at Marion tonight for the first of 42 Negro children whose parents have asked reassignment to the white school at Old Fort.

Supt. Melvin Taylor said hearings for four of the families would be held tonight. The hearings for the rest are expected to continue until Saturday.

The Greensboro Board of Education is expected to consider tomorrow night the requests of parents of several children at Gillespie School to transfer to schools where there will be no Negro pupils.

Gillespie is scheduled to admit five Negro students this year. Meanwhile, a Winston-Salem man said yesterday he will not seek the transfer of his son from Reynolds High School, where a Negro girl has been assigned next year.

Fred E. Evans Jr., a member of the pro-segregation Patriots of North Carolina, said a letter he wrote to the school board was intended as an appeal of the board's action in assigning the girl, Gwendolyn Yvonne Bailey, to the school.

The school board interpreted his letter as a request for reassignment of his son and sent Evans change of assignment applications.

Evans said it was his original intention to file an appeal similar to those at Charlotte and Greensboro but he didn't know how to go about it and sent the letter to the board as a start.

At Charlotte, the parents of 20 Negro children whose applications for reassignment were twice rejected by the school board, have received letters telling them why they were turned down.

The parents appealed an earlier decision of the school board and were turned down again last week. The board yesterday sent letters to the group, including Kelly Alexander, state NAACP chairman, detailing the reasons for the rejections.

In Alexander's case, one reason set forth was that the Alexanders live only five blocks from a Negro school.

Each of the letters said the board "considered numerous factors, such as emotional, social and educational factors, the preference of a child of understanding for a particular school."

In eight cases, the board said, in effect, that the child already is assigned to the school he should attend under any normal geographical districting.

In seven cases, the board said applications failed to comply with the Pupil Assignment Act in that they requested a desegregated school rather than a specific school.

Raging Quebec Mob Sacks Office Of Union After Violent Demonstration

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (AP)—A raging mob last night ripped apart the offices of the United Steelworkers of America in this strike-torn mining community, then overturned and battered seven automobiles and a truck.

About 100 men, shrieking and leaping about wildly, tore into the union's second-floor offices on the main street of Murdochville, an isolated Gaspé Peninsula town. The sacking of the offices came shortly after 450 labor delegates from all parts of the province departed after a demonstration that ended when police broke up a stone-throwing clash between the visitors and 200 nonstrikers.

All the office furniture and equipment was heaved out of windows, and cars carrying union stickers were overturned. Tires were slashed and upholstery torn out.

The attackers, many carrying blackjacks and knives, were finally halted by a 30-man provincial police squad, rounded up and ordered to company bunkhouses. There were no arrests and no injuries. Property damage was confined to the offices and vehicles.

Six men were injured earlier in the day when the stone-throwing incident threatened to erupt into a pitched battle between nonstriking employees of Gaspé Copper Mines Ltd., and the visiting labor delegation.

The delegation was headed by top labor officials, including Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, and Gerard Picard, president of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor. They arrived here early yesterday from Quebec City and set up picket lines. Some carried placards with the slogan "The union is here to stay."

One of the principal purposes of the demonstration was to get permission for the USWA to picket during a 24-hour period. When the lines were set up a group of non-striking workers, standing on a high elevation overlooking the mine gate, began exchanging insults with the union members. Stones were thrown and six union members were injured.

The provincial police detachment ordered the nonstriking company staff back to their quarters and pushed picketers back to the company gate.

When the mob converged later on the union offices, provincial police immediately set up a guard around the house of Roger Bedard, USWA spokesman who has been directing the strike since it began March 11.

Police said they invited Bedard to leave town and offered to provide an escort. They said he answered he would remain in town "as long as there is a striker here."

The union pulled 1,000 men off the job more than five months ago, mainly to back demands for certification.

Last summer the company obtained a writ of prohibition restraining the Quebec Labor Relations Board from acting on a USWA application for certification. The matter is still before the courts. Since the union is not certified the company maintains the strike is illegal and refuses to negotiate.

Three dynamite explosions have damaged company property during the dispute. One striker died of injuries July 14, two days after a midnight explosion which caused slight damage to a waste pipe on company property. An inquest into his death was opened July 15 but postponed almost immediately. It is expected to be resumed shortly.

A 30-year-old striker, Edgard Fortin, collapsed and died at his home last night about the time the union offices were attacked. His death was attributed to a heart attack.

Greet Negro Residents With Stones And Jeers

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A Negro family moved into this all-white community under police protection yesterday. Some residents greeted his arrival with jeers and stone throwing.

"All I want to do is be a good neighbor and I hope others do the same," said William J. Myers, 34 in his new ranch-style home.

Last night, 42 state policemen were busy keeping some 250 protesting neighbors in this sprawling development of 15,000 homes pushed back two blocks from Myers' home.

Rocks were hurled and a trooper and a news photographer were struck. One man was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct.

State Police Lt. J. M. Wicker shouted over a loud-speaker: "You have struck one of my men. I will not tolerate this. I give you 10 minutes to get back to your homes."

Twenty-two troopers lined up with riot sticks and forced the crowd back. The sticks were used on one resident who Wicker said was cursing officers and resisting the police line. He was identified as Donald Walker, 34, a truck driver, of Levittown, who was fined $10 after pleading guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct.

By midnight, all but a handful of the crowd had returned to their modernistic, low-slung houses. The police force was cut to four troopers guarding the Myers home.

All was quiet at the house in the Dogwood Hollow section, where Myers moved in with his wife Daisy, 32, and one of their three children. Two other children are staying at the home of relatives.

At a news conference, Myers said, "I don't believe the demonstrations that have been held present a true picture of the feelings of the people of Levittown. All people are good of heart."

"I expected there might be some trouble when we bought this place,"

North and South Dakota got their names from the Dakota Indians. Dakota is an Indian word for "allied."

Teamster Union Dams Flow Of Milk To NYC

NEW YORK (AP)—Teamsters Union tank truck drivers went on strike last night, crippling delivery of the bulk of the metropolitan area's raw milk supply.

Employers estimated that the 1,150 striking truck drivers haul 95 per cent of the raw milk later processed for the area's 12 million customers. Union sources estimated it at 75 per cent.

The strikers haul milk in tank trucks and box trucks from upstate New York dairy farms to distribution and processing plants in the Hudson Valley area and New York City.

The strike's full effect may not be felt for two or three days since some milk already is in processing plants and many households have a supply.

Spokesmen for two dairymen's groups said milk farmers were "innocent victims" of the strike and it would cost them a million dollars daily.

The strike announcement by Thomas L. Hickey, Teamsters Union international vice president, apparently came somewhat as a surprise to the Dairy Transport Assn., representative for 20 milk delivery concerns.

Hickey is trustee of Local 770, which with its 950 members, is the largest of the four locals involved. The others are Local 602, Brooklyn; 229, Scranton, Pa.; and 182, Utica, N.Y.

The Brooklyn and Scranton locals, union sources said, were expected to follow Local 770's lead. But Rocco DePerno, president of the Utica local, said his members were "going to keep on working."

Hickey, who said he issued the strike call with the approval of Teamster President Dave Beck, said the dispute centered over wages and fringe benefits.

Negotiations broke up after union and management representatives reached an impasse. Another meeting, under the auspices of City Labor Commissioner Harold A. Felix, is scheduled today.

The Teamsters are seeking a reduction in the work week from 48 to 40 hours plus an 86½-cent hourly wage-welfare boost over a year period. The Dairy Transport Assn. has offered 50 cents over a four-year period. Pay scales now range from $1.87 to $2.07 per hour.

Dr. Roscoe P. Kandle, acting city health commissioner, said he had assurances from both union and employer representatives that the supply for hospitals and institutions would be maintained.

Beaufort Solicitor Resigns His Office

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Beaufort County commissioners meet here in special session Thursday to choose a Recorder's Court solicitor to replace J. D. Grimes Jr., who faces a murder charge.

Allen D. Swindell of Pantego, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, said he had been informed that Grimes' resignation is in the mail.

Unintentional Test Of Honesty

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Police said today an unintended test showed Providence residents are honest to a large degree.

The unintentional test began Saturday night when Gordon Reid, 26, tossed $800 in small bills from the roof of an apartment building where he is superintendent.

He admitted in court later he was under the influence of several drinks.

Traffic was tied up for some time as men, women and children scammed to collect the bills.

Residents read in the Sunday Journal that the money was not Reid's and he had no right to toss it away.

Up to last night, 35 persons had returned $600 of the money.

FOSTER MOTHER
SPRING VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Eleven-year-old Ronald Henning found an egg in a field. He put it in a can and kept it covered with warm ashes from the incinerator at his home. In five days, a duck hatched. Ronnie has added it to his collection of a squirrel, a gopher snake, a king snake and a toad.

Liz Taylor Has Left Hospital

The child, born prematurely, remained at the hospital. Miss Taylor is the wife of producer Mike Todd.

Surprise Switch For Youngsters

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In a surprise switch, 13-year-old Janet Schneider of Cincinnati is going to be on TV with Red Skelton after coming West to be on the Jerry Lewis show.

A spokesman for Skelton yesterday confirmed that the young warbler, known professionally as Janet Shay, has been signed to appear on Skelton's first four shows of the winter season.

Janet auditioned for Lewis when the comedian played a month ago in Cincinnati about a month ago. It was then, Janet reported, that Lewis told her, "Come to California and be on my TV show." She took him at his word.

But when she arrived in town, Lewis was in the East. However, a Skelton representative heard her sing and the papers were signed.

YOU CAN DIE LAUGHING

By A.A. FAIR (ERLE STANLEY GARDNER)

CHAPTER 32

Sergeant Frank Sellers jammed a foot on the starter and swept the police cruiser in a circle away from the curb.

"Where are you going now?" I asked.

"Where do you think? I'm taking Jerry here back to San Bernardino. Then I'm going home. And the next time you come along with one of your brainstorms, Lam, I'm going to..."

"You keep driving in this direction and they'll laugh you off the force. Turn around and drive out the other way toward Twenty-nine Palms."

"For what?" he asked.

"What do you think?" I asked him.

He drove on for nearly two minutes. Then the car slowed. He pulled in to the curb, turned and looked at me, studying my face in the waning light, chewing his cigar.

Jerry, the San Bernardino deputy, kept his face straight ahead. His attitude was that he didn't want any part of me or any of my ideas.

I said to Sellers, "You've got so much invested now, another hour and a half isn't going to make any difference."

Sellers thought that over for a moment. Then he started out from the curb, and suddenly whipped the car into a U-turn. He said over his shoulder to me, "I'm going all the way, pint-size, not because I think you know what you're doing, but because I'm not going to leave you any loopholes. This time you won't have a leg to stand on."

Wanda Warren tried to ease the tension in a voice that was dripping with sex. She said, "When do we eat?"

"We don't," Sellers told her, and set the speedometer needle quivering.

"Turn on the road to Twenty-nine Palms," I told Sellers.

He gave no indication that he had heard me, but swung the car to the left at the intersection, and we started climbing up through the Morongo Valley until we came to Yucca.

"We turn to the left down a ways," I told him. "Take it easy so I can keep my bearings."

It was a job finding the dirt roads after dark.

Wanda Warren slid over and took my right hand in hers. She held it as though it represented a tangible token of reassurance, squeezing it once in a while.

Luck was with me. I remembered every one of the intersections, and finally the headlights showed the little, rutted driveway going up to the dilapidated cabin.

"Turn here," I told Sellers.

He turned the car. The headlights showed the cockeyed door with the canvas patch over the hole.

"Swing your lights so they shine out back of the house," I told him. "There's a little mound of earth you want to illuminate. Wait! There it was! You went too far. Bring it back. Okay, that's it! Let's go."

I got out of the car. The others followed me. I led the way up to the wooden platform.

"We're got to lift this," I said.

Sellers reached down without a word, clamped his big hands on one corner of the heavy platform, lifted it and spun it back to one side.

"Careful you don't fall," I warned.

Sellers recoiled from the black interior that had opened up.

"Give me a hand with this, Jerry," he said. "Let's see the whole business."

We lifted the platform entirely away from the square shaft.

"You got that flashlight?" Sellers asked.

Jerry gave him the flashlight and Sellers directed it down the shaft.

"Okay," Sellers said to me, "what is it?"

"This is it," I told him.

The San Bernardino deputy leaned over the shaft, looked down thoughtfully, then tested the ladder.

"I'll go down," he said.

"Okay," Sellers told him. "It's your county."

The deputy tested the rungs on the ladder, inching his way down bit by bit, keeping his head down so that the brim of his hat shaded his eyes. Sellers played the flashlight down the shaft.

The deputy had a flashlight in his pocket, and when he got to the bottom we could see the beam playing around.

"I'm going to need that shovel," he called up.

"Coming down," Sellers said.

He fastened a light rope to the handle of the shovel, let it down the shaft until it was at the bottom.

"We heard the deputy say 'Okay,'" then heard the edge of the shovel scraping against a rock, then silence for a minute. Then suddenly Jerry called out, "I'm coming up, Sergeant."

Sellers held the beam of the flashlight. We watched the deputy coming up the ladder. Sellers caught him under the arms and helped him up as he reached the level of the desert.

"Come over here," the deputy said to Sellers.

They walked away to where their voices were only a low murmur and talked for about a minute and a half. Then Sellers came back.

"Jerry's going to stay here," he said. "We're going into Yucca."

"What is it?" Wanda Warren asked. "What's the trouble?"

"Nothing," Sellers said, and led the way toward the car. "We'll sit three in front," Sellers said. Then suddenly he turned to me and said, "Okay, pint-size, you win!"

He gripped my hand in his and the fervor of his grip showed the extent of his relief.

We drove to Yucca. It was a place where they rolled up the sidewalks when it got dark, but there was a telephone booth and Sellers put through a couple of calls.

After he had finished I said, "I've got a couple of calls to make."

He made no objection.

I called the newspaperman in Banning who had given me the break. "Ring up the San Bernardino paper," I told him. "Tell them to start covering the sheriff's office right away, and if you come up to Yucca and stick around, you'll probably get in on something."

"On what?" he asked.

"Something important."

"Worth making a trip up there at night?"

"A whale of a story," I told him.

I hung up and called the Dartmouth Hotel.

Luck was with me. Corning was in his room. I said, "This is Donald Lam. I've found Mrs. Wells."

"Yes, yes," he said. "Where are you, Lam?"

"Right at the moment I'm at a place called Yucca on the road to Twenty-nine Palms."

"What in blazes are you doing up there?"

"That's the nearest telephone."

"You say you've found Mrs. Wells?"

"Yes. She at the Aaron Bedford section of land out west of Yucca."

"The devil she is!"

"That's right."

"Now, look, Lam," Corning said. "I wasn't born yesterday. You've had this girl tied up ever since early this afternoon. Now, what's the idea of going out here in order to tell me you've found her?"

"When you get out here, I'll tell you."

"Damn it!" he sputtered. "You could have had her in my room in the hotel within twenty minutes of the time I signed that promise to give you a bonus. You—"

"Do you want to argue?" I asked.

"Or do you want to see Mrs. Wells?"

"I want to see her."

"Then haul yourself out here," I told him, and hung up.

"Corning took one look at the death-distorted features and staggered off to the outer rim of darkness." Tomorrow the story continues to a climax.

Inter-American Council Seeking Set Joint Policy

BUENOS AIRES (U.P.)—Delegates to the 20-nation Inter-American Conference put the finishing touches today on proposals they plan to present in an effort to forge an effective economic policy for the hemisphere.

The proposals were drawn up amid a growing clamor that the United States has neglected its underdeveloped southern neighbors.

The two main plans slated to make their appearance call for a general economic agreement and for an inter-American development bank. Both already have become the subject of bitter controversy.

The United States, whose delegation chief, Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson left for the United States today, was the storm center of the dispute.

Latin-American ire has been aroused by U.S. opposition to development of the bank and an economic agreement.

The bank would provide an additional source of credit for the Latin-American republics, but the United States contends there already are sufficient credit sources.

Anderson told the delegates yesterday the solution of Latin-American development needs "is not a question of additional institutions, but fuller utilization of those in being."

Anderson said work of the Export-Import Bank could be intensified to meet expanding needs.

He advised the Latin-American republics to trim their budgets as a safeguard against inflation.

Much of the controversy over a general economic agreement has been caused by U.S. amendments. Peeling the document was too controversial to have a chance of passage. Brazil has drawn up a watered-down version from which all disputed points were stricken and called for its adoption as "an instrument of basic principles."

Winning Combination

Although summer is growing short, there's still time to enjoy outdoor picnics and active fun-in-the-sun days.

Summer fun can last all year long when you make color slides of the things you do. The kids building sand castles or Dad as "chief chef" at the fireplace are fun to shoot and thrilling to show later on.

Next time you're off for the day, why not make a story in color slides—from the time you leave the house right through to the evening sunset (or later if you have flash).

We have a wonderful combination for color-slide "shooting and showing" thrills. For "shooting" it's the famous Kodak Pony 135 Camera—a fine "miniature" that takes gorgeous color slides, yet has all the controls for serious picture taking.

For "showing" it's the new Kodak 300 Projector—a slim, compact projector that shows slides big, bright and beautiful even in a small room.

Special note: Outfits like this make unusual and appreciated wedding gifts, too. Stop in and see them soon.

Jet Transport Spells Luxury For Russians

MOSCOW (AP)—The most luxurious thing in the Soviet Union is the Russian jetliner TU104.

The interior color pattern is red and pink and there are two capitalistic looking front lounges where the fortunates in this work-ers' paradise relax in flight and appear for all the world like corporation vice presidents on the way to a sales conference in Chicago.

can't hear the noise at all. Each of the 70 seats is without a safety belt. Russians don't believe in them.

The TU104 is so fast you don't have long to enjoy the comforts. The medium jet flies from Moscow to Prague every day in 2 1/2 hours. That's the same as flying from New York to Kansas City in about the time it takes to see a movie. Other TU104 routes go out of Moscow daily to Tashkent in the Uzbek Republic, to southern Russia and all the way across Siberia to Peiping.

It is the only jetliner in the world on regularly scheduled flights. Britain's original Comets were failures and the first American jets from Boeing and Douglas will not take on paying passengers for another couple of years.

This is a propaganda plum for the Russians. The pitch is skillfully done and no mention is made that the 104 is redesigned from a bomber and that it drinks jet fuel at such a prodigious rate no commercial airline in the world could afford to operate it.

Peiping Reports Calamity Losses

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China has reported that natural calamities snuffed out the lives of 15,551 persons in China in 1954 and 10,679 last year.

Writing in the Peiping People's Daily of the achievements of relief work in China, Hsiang contrasted the death tolls under Communist rule with 18,352,000 deaths from famine he said occurred between 1920 and 1936 under the Nationalist regime.

The greatest floods in China's modern history occurred in 1954. Last year more floods, drought and a destructive typhoon brought disaster to 74 million people. But Hsiang said only 44 persons died of starvation in 1954 and 578 last year, despite a bad harvest.

RALEIGH (UP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets: fryers and broilers steady, farm price 23.
Eggs: prices paid by distributors for clean, sized, 80 per cent A quality: Raleigh, firm, large 48; Charlotte, steady, large 48. Prices paid producers on graded out basis: Durham, steady, A large 47; Asheville, steady, A large 46-47, mostly 43.

WALL STREET
Bears clashed head-on as stock market prices opened today in a climactic but of dealing which delayed the high-speed ticker tape.
A slight rallying tendency in the morning was cut short by a wave of offerings which battered down prices. After the initial shock of selling, however, resistance developed and buyers rushed into the market to stem the decline.
The ticker tape was three minutes behind the pace of transactions at the height of the activity. The net result early this afternoon was a mixed price pattern with gains and losses peppering many divisions. But the average of pivotal stocks was down.
Oils, which were about the worst sufferers in yesterday's big setback when they were hurt by the news of the Communist coup in Syria, took it on the chin again today but recovered partially. Gulf Oil and Standard Oil of California cut their 2-point losses in half. Amerasia wound-up with a gain of more than a point. Royal Dutch, Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Sinclair escaped with fractional losses.
General Tire's gyrations were typical of many stocks. It fell 2 points but emerged with a net gain of about a point. Du Pont was down around a point but sliced the loss to a fraction.
Lukens Steel pared a point's loss to a fraction. Youngstown Steel was up around a point. All the major steels were off at the worst of the selling but came out of it with their prices about unchanged.
Chrysler, down a fraction after erasing an early 1-point gain, recaptured its initial advance. Aircrafts were mostly lower during the selling spate but Douglas came out ahead around a point while United was up a fraction. Union Carbide still showed a 2-point loss. Anaconda was ahead a major fraction while Kennecott was down roughly the same degree. Johns-Manville was ahead around a point. U.S. Gypsum down a point or so.

GREENSBORO (UP)—A $250,000 damage suit against the Atlantic Coast Line railroad was filed in Federal Court here yesterday by Billy J. Hull, a Forsyth County truck driver.
The suit stems from a collision of Hull's tractor-trailer and an ACL train March 28, 1956 at New Kendrick, Fla.
Hull claims negligence on the part of ACL. He contends the train was blocking a highway crossing without displaying visible warning lights that would show it was across the intersection.
Funeral Wednesday For Ed D. Bowen
AYDEN—Ed D. Bowen, 81, died at his home, Ayden Route 1, Monday morning. He had been in declining health some time.
Funeral services will be held at the home Wednesday at 3 p.m. Rev. Clifton Rice, Free Will Baptist minister of Kinston, assisted by Rev. Walter A. Nobles, Free Will Baptist minister of Winterville, will officiate. Burial will be in the Ayden Cemetery.
Mr. Bowen was a lifelong resident of the Ormondville community of Greene county. He was a farmer and before his retirement in 1948 operated a merchandise business for 40 years. His wife, Mrs. Nora Moore Bowen, died in 1948. He was the son of the late Charles and Eliza Grimsley Bowen of Greene county and was a lifelong member of the Ormondville Free Will Baptist Church.
Surviving are four sons, Harvey Bowen of the home, and Eddie, Alfred and Ralph Bowen of Ayden. Route 1, two daughters, Mrs. William Bowen and Mrs. Allen Butts of Ayden, Route 1. Eighteen grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren also survive.

Adjourning May See Postponment

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said today adjournment of Congress may be delayed until sometime next month because of the squabble over civil rights legislation.
Congressional leaders previously had talked of winding up this session no later than the end of the month.
Knowland, the Senate minority leader, expressed his views at the White House after he and other GOP congressional leaders had held their regular conference with President Eisenhower.
House republican leader Martin of Massachusetts said he is "not averse to a compromise" on civil rights so long as any such move "would strengthen the civil rights bill passed by the Senate."
Eisenhower has sharply criticized the Senate version. The bill approved by the House follows administration recommendations.
Although Martin spoke of willingness to compromise, he said in response to a question that he is not willing to accept a compromise suggested by Rep. Celler (D-NY).
The Senate added to the House bill a requirement for jury trials in all federal contempt of court cases. Eisenhower has singled out that provision for criticism, saying it would tend to weaken the civil rights bill.
Celler has proposed to limit the jury trial amendment to cases which involve voting rights.
The civil rights bill is now stalled in the House.

Plan Send Youngsters To See Major League Games

A fund-raising campaign is under way in Greenville to help send the North Carolina Little League baseball champions of 1957 on a week-end trip to Washington, D. C. to see a couple of major league baseball games and other attractions.
The local drive to honor Greenville's Little League champs began a few days ago under the direction of Dr. Leo W. Jenkins. Recreation commission officials and leaders in the city's governmental, professional and civic affairs have given support to this project.
At a meeting Monday evening, a steering committee was named to push to completion the project which will require a minimum of $600. The trip to Washington is contingent upon a date when the Washington Senators will be playing one of the American League teams in the Nation's capital on a week-end.
The trip will include meetings with members of the North Carolina congressional delegation and a few of the historical sites of interest in Washington.
Members of the local citizen's committee, named at Monday night's meeting, in addition to Dr. Jenkins are J. M. Moye, Alton Joyner, D. M. Owens, J. A. Collins, Sr., Aubrey B. Taylor, Reynolds May, W. M. Scales, Jr., Dr. J. D. Messick, Col. Edward J. Maloney, Leonard P. Bloxam, W. L. Green, John G. Proctor, Lester E. Turnage, and James W. Butler.
Details of the fund-raising effort will be announced, and a progress report given within a few days as plans become more definite.

Prize Pullets To Be Up For Sale

Some 144 Parma pullets will be offered for sale at the Pitt-4-H Poultry Show and Sale to be held on the court house lawn Thursday at 2 p.m.
The pullets will be offered by 12 4-H boys who participated in this year's Sears-Roebuck Poultry Show.
Assistant County Agent Cecil Register said the 4-Hers have used the "best practices and management needed to produce good layers."
"Anyone who is interested in obtaining some good layers for the coming year will have a good chance to pick up some top notch egg producers," Register said.
Each of the 12 participating boys received 100 chicks in February from the poultry chain. They will place 12 of the pullets in the show and sale Thursday and keep the others as their own.
Proceeds from the sale go to continue the chain next year.
Prior to the sale extension service personnel from State College will judge the birds and prize money will be awarded to the boys.

Kinston Woman Injured In Wreck

GRIPTON—A Kinston woman suffered serious injuries in a two-car collision on a rural paved road near here yesterday afternoon.
Mrs. Benjamin L. Byrd of 310 E. Lenoir Ave. sustained a broken back, a fractured arm and facial cuts when the automobile in which she was riding crashed head-on into another vehicle on the Old Rock Road.
The two occupants of the other automobile, both Negroes, suffered minor lacerations of the head. Pfc. W. E. Williams of the State Highway Patrol said. Injured were Willie Gary Chapman of Grifton, R. 1, the driver and Jasper Chapman, his brother.
Williams charged Chapman with driving on the wrong side of the road and careless and reckless driving.
He said from all indications and witnesses the car driven by the Pitt County Negro came around a curve on the wrong side of the road at a relatively high rate of speed. When the driver attempted to avoid a collision, both vehicles crashed head-on.
Byrd, driver of the second automobile, escaped injury.
The Patrolman said this morning that he estimated both vehicles to be a total loss following his investigation of the accident.

Polling Places For Farm Votes Said Unchanged

Polling places for the "Nickels for Know-How" and the cotton referendum to be held Friday will be the same as A.S.C. polling places, County Agent Sam C. Winchester said today.
In the election farmers will be deciding whether to continue a nickel-per-ton farmer contribution on all fertilizer and feed sold in the state.
The money is used for agricultural research.
If approved the "Nickels for Know-How" program will be continued for another three years.
The cotton referendum will decide on a similar program for cotton growers. The growers will be voting on a 10 cents per bale assessment on all cotton ginned in the state.
The "Nickels for Know-How" funds are collected at the manufacturers and the cotton assessment would be collected by the ginners.
Both plans require a two-thirds vote by the farmers.
Polls will open at 7 a.m. Friday and close at 6 p.m.
The polling places are: Ayden, town hall; Beaver Dam, Raymond Webb's Store; Belvoir, Turner's Grocery; Bethel, new town hall; Carolina, Stokes and Conleton Store; Chicod A. Porter's Supply; Chicod B. Grimsland town hall; Chicod W. C. Spencer's Store; Chicod D. L. C. Venter's Store; Falkland, town hall; Farmville, town hall; Fountain, town hall; Greenville, Pitt County office building; Pactolus, Satterthwaite's Store; Swift Creek A. Quinerley's Service Station; Swift Creek B. Timothy Community Building; Winterville, town hall.

Another Arrest In Liquor Raids

Pitt County law enforcement officers continued their crackdown on illegal whiskey operations by making another arrest last night.
ABC officers and Ayden Police Chief H. V. Chandler arrested Willie Green, 31-year-old Negro of 915 West Avenue, Ayden, on a charge of transporting three gallons of non-tax-paid whiskey. Officers said that Green's companion escaped during the raid, but they seized Green, the whiskey and Green's 1949 model automobile.
Green has been released under $300 bond and will be tried in Ayden Recorder's Court on September 9. He was arrested by Chief Chandler and ABC officers H. B. Lilley and W. M. Taylor.
Three other Negroes were arrested over the weekend by ABC officers and Sheriff's deputies.
Maggie Acklin, Negro, 38, of Route 6, Greenville, was arrested and charged with possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale. She was tried yesterday in Greenville Recorder's Court and fined $25, costs deducted.
James (Tank) Howell and John Lee Howard were both arrested Saturday night at Howell's residence on Route 3, Robersonville, and charged with possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for purchase.

Outstanding . . .

was selected in 1956 as N. C. state champion in meat animals and was awarded a 17-jewel watch. His other project accomplishments this year were: Exhibited one dairy animal at the Pitt County Junior Show and Pitt County Fair and won $22 in premiums. He also won $5 at the Fair with a dairy animal for the best fitted and showmanship. He won a blue ribbon with a Hampshire bear at the Fair and $10 in premiums. This year, for the first time, Smith is participating in a state 4-H tobacco judging contest.
Smith's accomplishments in 1955 were: Breeding of two cows by artificial means; exhibited his dairy animals at the Four-County Dairy Show and the County Fair and won blue ribbons and $33 in premiums; exhibited a Duroc Jersey gilt at the County Fair and show and won $20 in premiums. Exhibited Poultry Chain pullets at the County Show and County Fair and won $6.50 in premiums. He entered a one-acre plot of tobacco in the Greenville 4-H Tobacco Show and sale and won second place and $60 in premiums. The acre of tobacco sold for $1,066.48 and yielded 1,822 pounds. He grossed between $700 and $800 from his 4-H swine project. He participated the previous year in poultry judging contests.

While at the regional camp program he visited the principal sights in and near the National Capital.

Defense Plans To Unfold More Lurid Tales Blocked

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Defense plans to send a long procession of movie stars across the witness stand in the criminal libel trial of Confidential and Whisper magazines have been wiped out.
Judge Herbert V. Walker ruled yesterday that testimony could be introduced only concerning magazine stories already read into the record of the trial.
Judge Walker said this means that defense attorney Arthur J. Crowley cannot carry out his intention of calling upwards of 150 celebrities as witnesses. Crowley had said he planned to ask them if stories about them in the magazines are true.
The ruling limiting defense testimony to the articles already read to the jury came when Las Vegas, Nev., singer Mylee Anderson was called to the stand. She was asked about a Confidential story entitled "That 'Rug Party' in Mark Stevens' Office." Her testimony was stopped after she said she was the girl in the story about the actor.
2. Miss O'Hara produced her passport at a news conference to prove that she was in Europe when the theater incident was alleged to have occurred. And she increased her damage suit against Confidential over the story from one to five million dollars.
3. Daniel Ross, New York attorney who passes on stories for Confidential and Whisper, testified he did not consider the O'Hara and Dorothy Dandridge stories obscene.
4. Judge Walker refused to permit the defense to introduce testimony about lie detector tests taken by Mrs. Marjorie Meade, one of the defendants, and Craig during the weekend.

Board Gets A Report On Hutson's Tobacco Tour

A report on Tobacco Associates, Inc. Pres. J. B. Hutson's trip around the world on a flue-cured tobacco inspection by Judson H. Blount, highlighted last night's monthly meeting of the Greenville Merchants Board of Directors.
Blount, a Merchants Director of the Tobacco group, delivered a detailed report of Hutson's trip to seven foreign countries on his round-the-world trip. The president of Tobacco Associates visited Japan, Korea, the Philippines, India, Burma, Italy and Germany.
The Board conducted a discussion concerning the semi-annual Dollar Day sales event staged here on August 8. It was generally agreed upon that the Dollar Day was one of the best ever staged in Greenville.
F. Badger Johnson Jr., a member of the Finance Committee, submitted a revised charge list on credit reports. The committee, composed of Johnson, Erzell Webb and L. S. Garrett, in its report said the need has arisen for more different types of credit reports for the overall benefit of the Merchants Association members.
Director J. G. McLawhorn who attended a recent meeting of the Farmer's Day Committee, made a report to other members of the board.
He stated that this year's celebration, in his opinion, would surpass the success of the event in 1956.
The Board of Directors went on record as supporting the Farmer's Day celebration.
