House Stamps OK On New First Civil Rights Bill In Over Foreign Aid Money, Bill, 80 Years Is On Way To President $1 Billion Below Requests

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House today passed and sent to President Eisenhower a $3,435,810,000 foreign aid money bill. This is a billion dollars below Eisenhower's original request.

The House action cleared from Congress the last regular appropriation bill for the current fiscal year—and perhaps the most disputed one. The Senate passed the compromise measure last night, 58-19.

Major provisions of the measure include $1,340,000,000 in new military aid funds, 689 million dollars in new funds for defense supports, 225 millions in special assistance funds for the President, and 113 millions for technical assistance.

Protective Step

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House today passed, 315-0, a compromise bill aimed at preventing defense lawyers from searching freely through FBI files. This sent the measure to President Eisenhower.

The Justice Department says the legislation is needed to ward off a law enforcement emergency.

The Senate had passed the compromise 74-2 shortly after midnight. Sens. Langer (R-ND) and Kefauver (D-Tenn) voted against it.

Sen. O'Mahony (D-Wyo), Rep. Celler (D-NY) and Rep. Keating (R-NY) all agreed the compromise measure would protect FBI files in the wake of the Supreme Court's Jencks decision last June, while still safeguarding the rights of defendants.

Thurmond Talks For 24 Hours

WASHINGTON (AP)—Strom Thurmond's record word war against the Civil Rights Bill undoubtedly entrenches him strongly with the South—where he still scents the possibility of a third party.

And perhaps, under the right combination of conditions, the filibustering South Carolina senator envisions himself in 1960, as he was in 1948, the presidential nominee of a rebel Democratic faction.

If not that, Thurmond certainly won't have hurt himself with the folks back home if he tries for another Senate term in 1960. That could have been the prime motive behind his futile, marathon speech.

Thurmond held the floor for 24 hours and 19 minutes. This eclipsed the previous filibuster record of 22 hours and 26 minutes set by Sen. Morse (D-Ore) in 1955.

Shortly after Thurmond yielded the floor at 9:13 p.m. (EDT) last night, the Senate passed the Civil Rights Bill, 60-15, and sent it to President Eisenhower.

Reports have been getting around South Carolina that Gov. George Bell Timmerman Jr. is thinking of the senatorial race in 1960.

So a speech like Thurmond's, capable of arousing the affection of rank-and-file Dixie voters, could be a political insurance policy calculated to pay off in three years.

It was mostly Republicans and Northern Democrats who gave Thurmond his only moments of relief through the long hours of document reading and oratory. They interrupted occasionally with a question, or provided a break for a bit of business.

He got little help from Southern senators. Their coolness seemed to stem from a conviction that a filibuster couldn't succeed, and might antagonize civil rights supporters to the point of insisting on a tougher bill or changing Senate rules to curb filibusters.

It was a strong civil rights plank that split the Democrats in 1948. And it was Strom Thurmond, chairman of the South Carolina delegation to the national convention and a member of the Democratic National Committee, who became the States Rights candidate for President.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first civil rights bill to pass Congress in more than 80 years was on its way to President Eisenhower today.

The Senate completed congressional action on the compromise measure late last night after 39 hours of continuous session, passing it by an overwhelming 60-15 vote. The House had passed the bill last Tuesday.

The end of the months-long battle over civil rights came two hours after Sen. Thurmond (D-SC) ended a record-setting filibuster against the bill. Thurmond held the floor for 24 hours and 19 minutes. The previous record was set in 1953 by Sen. Morse (D-Ore) in an equally futile effort to defeat the submerged oil lands bill.

Thurmond's filibuster was singled-handed. Other Southerners refrained from joining in because they felt it was fruitless and might boomerang.

Final passage of the civil rights measure cleared the way for adjournment of Congress, probably today.

On the final roll call, 15 Southerners voted "no." Thirty-seven Republicans and 23 Democrats joined in support of the bill. There were many absentees.

The bill provides broad new federal enforcement powers in the field of voting rights, although it does not contain some of the far-reaching provisions originally asked by Eisenhower.

Nevertheless, its passage is an outstanding victory for Eisenhower and for members of both parties who have struggled for years to win action on civil rights.

The political repercussions are certain to be felt for a long time. The key feature of the bill is a provision giving the Justice Department authority to seek federal court injunctions to enforce the right of every citizen to vote, regardless of race or color.

In its final form, this provision was modified so that persons charged with criminal contempt for violating such injunctions would be granted a jury trial if they were tried first by a judge alone and sentenced to more than 45 days in jail or fined more than $300.

But no jury trials would be authorized in civil contempt cases stemming from voting rights injunctions. Some legislators say the bulk of court orders in voting rights cases could be enforced through civil contempt action.

Civil contempt actions are aimed at obtaining compliance with a court order. Criminal contempt is intended to punish for non-compliance.

Other provisions in the bill would: Create a six-member bipartisan commission, named by the President but with Senate confirmation, to make a broad two-year study of all civil rights problems, with specific attention to complaints of denial of voting rights. The commission would have subpoena powers.

Create a new civil rights division in the Justice Department, headed by an assistant attorney general.

Repeal an old Reconstruction era law that authorized the president to employ troops to enforce court orders in civil rights cases.

Eliminate from the federal jury law the requirement that federal court jurors be qualified under the laws of the states in which they serve. This is designed to make it certain Negroes can serve on federal juries, although there already is a law barring racial discrimination in selection of such jurors.

The bill, in its final form, also provides a fine of $1,000 or a jail term of up to a year for unauthorized disclosure of any secret proceedings of the Civil Rights Commission. But there is a stipulation that these penalties apply to commission employees, not to newsmen.

Eisenhower is considered certain to sign the bill, even though it does not give him all he asked. Republicans generally were jubilant over the final victory in the long struggle over the measure.

They noted that their side provided the bulk of the votes for a strong bill on all roll calls in both Senate and House. They argued that this could not fail to help the GOP in the future in areas where Negroes and other minorities are an important voting factor.

Democrats, on the other hand, contended that their generalship in the Senate enabled the bill to pass without an all-out Southern filibuster.

They argued, too, that it was a small band of Northern Democrats which kept the battle for civil rights going for many years during which they contended Republicans looked the other way.

City School Trustees Vote Polio Shots To Be Required

Health Center To Be Named For Walter Humbert

Pitt County's Health Department building will be named "The Walter C. Humbert Health Center" when a Mental Health Service wing is completed.

Decision to name the building for the late Dr. Humbert was made last night at a special meeting of the Pitt County Board of Health. Motion for the action was made by Dr. F. E. Lamsche of Greenville and seconded by Mayor S. Eugene West of Greenville. Other members of the board gave their unanimous approval.

Chairman B. Alton Gardner said today that, when completed, the building will be named for Dr. Humbert as "a memorial to his work in Pitt County from 1952 until his death last Thursday." The present building, located on grounds of the Pitt Memorial Hospital, was built during Dr. Humbert's tenure as health director and dedicated June 17, 1956.

The new wing, which will be built with funds provided by the 1957 North Carolina General Assembly plus locally provided funds, has been in the planning stage since last fall. It will provide 29,000 square feet of working space for the Mental Health Service which is presently located in quarters at 213 Washington Street.

The General Assembly set up an appropriation of $30,000 to be used in construction of the wing. Provided local sources would make funds available for costs above the state appropriation. At the time of his death, Dr. Humbert was attempting to raise the additional money for the project.

Dr. Humbert said shortly before his death that an estimated $10,000 to $15,000 would be necessary to supplement the state appropriation.

A health-conscious Board of Trustees of Greenville's city schools system voted last night to require all new students in the system to have polio immunizations.

The board also approved a resolution calling on the State Board of Health to make Asiatic flu vaccine available to North Carolina school teachers, and approved a school accident insurance plan for students.

The polio immunization requirement will go into effect this year. Superintendent of Schools J. H. Rose said this morning. The requirement is an outgrowth of a recommendation made by the Pitt County Board of Health and approved several weeks ago by the Pitt County Board of Education, governing body of the county's 28 rural schools.

Anticipation of a flu epidemic this fall prompted the resolution dealing with vaccinations for school teachers. National and state boards of health have already announced plans to make the vaccine available to persons in key jobs although school teachers were not included in the list.

Pilot Life Insurance Company was awarded the contract for providing accident insurance for students. The program, which involves voluntary participation, will be available for $1.50 per student. Cost of the insurance is the same as that which was available from a different company last year.

Other action by the board last night included approval of a budget for operation of a special school for trainable mentally retarded children; passage of a resolution requesting that West Fourth Street remain a dead-end street; approval of a textbook rental system for Senior High School students; approval of a supplemental fee system; and approval of a transfer list.

The special school, which is being established with local and state funds, will be conducted in a small building at Third Street School. The proposed building will be forwarded to the State Department of Public Instruction which will provide $33 per month per child in average daily attendance. The Mental Health Association has provided $200 for operation of the school during the next two months.

Applications have been filed for 14 children who will receive instruction from Mrs. Ann Dunn Ross.

The resolution dealing with West Fourth Street was passed at the request of W. H. Deavenport, supervising principal of Negro schools, who said that if the street were opened to provide a junction with the new by-pass it would create a safety hazard for children attending Eppeps School.

West Fourth Street forms the boundary line for Eppeps School property and the school's new gymnasium fronts the street.

The resolution will be forwarded to the City Council and the State Highway Commission.

The textbook rental system is one by which the city school system will rent textbooks to Senior High School students at $3.60 per student. The system will mean that students will not be required to purchase individual textbooks as they have had to do in former years.

A supplemental fee of $2.50 was approved and will be charged to each student attending the city schools. Funds derived from the fee are used to provide supplemental textbooks and supplies not furnished by the State Department of Public Instruction.

Army Believes It Has Answer To Red Missile

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army reportedly believes it has a proven answer to Russia's claimed intercontinental missile — an American missile, ready for production, that could hit key Soviet areas from advance bases.

The Army's proposed counter-weapon is the Jupiter, an intermediate range ballistic missile which soared 1,500 miles over the Atlantic Tuesday in a test flight from Cape Canaveral, Fla. Secretary of the Army Brucker labeled the Jupiter "a spectacular success."

It is understood that only the Pentagon's secrecy lid on missile developments prevents the Army from saying flatly that the Jupiter could be in production within 30 days.

Brucker said in Florida yesterday that the Soviet announcement last Monday of a successful test of a 5,000-mile missile indicated the Russians were talking of a "research test vehicle." That is a long way, he said, from "an operational vehicle."

There have been no known successful U.S. tests of an intercontinental ballistic missile.

The United States has an advantage in land bases—its own plus those in friendly hands around the world. A missile launched from Communist territory would have to travel thousands of miles to reach the United States.

Stassen Hurries Home In Disarmament Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harold E. Stassen's hurry-up flight from London signaled the opening of today of urgent top level conferences on the developing crisis in disarmament negotiations between the Western powers and Russia.

Stassen had planned to return this weekend for personal reasons and to consult with officials. He suddenly moved up his trip by 24 hours yesterday in order to reach Washington this morning for a quick meeting with Secretary of State Dulles.

Stassen, who is chief disarmament negotiator for the United States, is also expected to meet with President Eisenhower and other officials. So far as Washington authorities know, Stassen plans to get back to London in time for a meeting of the United Nations disarmament subcommittee Tuesday.

In advance of his arrival, Stassen was reported still clinging to hope that something might yet be salvaged from the five-months-old series of disarmament exchanges between Russia and the Western powers—the United States, Britain, France and Canada.

He was described as unwilling to reach a "no hope" conclusion before further talks with Soviet negotiator Valerian Zorin next week.

In London, Zorin rejected out of hand an 11-point Western disarmament package placed before him yesterday. Most of the Western plan had been presented in piecemeal fashion during the five months of talks.

Before his plane took off from London, Stassen told newsmen that delegates to the disarmament talks "are closer together now than we have been for the last 11 years."

Officials here, however, saw no reason for continuing optimism although none would rule out the possibility of some sudden shift in Soviet tactics.

Speculation at the state department tended to concern itself now with the question of what the Russians are up to in the light of the very tough line they have taken since Monday. At that time, they asserted that they had successfully tested an intercontinental missile capable of hitting a target anywhere in the world. They followed this up Tuesday with a blast at Western disarmament proposals as presented up to that time.

Yesterday, in the same vein, Zorin bluntly told Stassen and his Western colleagues that he saw nothing of value in the 11-point package, proposition for a first-step disarmament agreement.

Drainage Project Underway In South Pitt Woodland

CANAL IN FOREST AREA . . . will drain 1,000 acre tract.

Far back in the deep woods of southern Pitt County a dragline is at work cutting a drainage canal through the heart of the woodland.

As a result more than a thousand acres of wet land is expected to be made into good forest area. Six hundred and forty acres of the land is owned by John Gravelly of Ayden. The other 400 acres, which touches Creeping Swamp, is owned by John Kirkman of Eden.

The big drainage canal is being dug along the property line between the two tracts. The work is being done with the assistance of the Pitt County Soil Conservation office.

"This is fine timberland except that it is too poorly drained," Soil Conservationist Connor Eagles says of the project.

"In fact over 300 acres are devoid of pine and other trees due to too much water during the wet season. Yet it is not swamp land. It is high flat land. This is the first instance of a canal cut solely for draining woodland to improve the growth of timber in our county."

Soil dug from the canal right-of-way is being used to build a road alongside the canal which will give access to the big area for hauling out timber and firefighting.

Fire has been a problem in the tract in years past and it has been burned off several times. The roadway and canal is expected to serve as an efficient fire break.

"Half of Pitt County is in woodland," says Eagles. "There are many large areas that need some surface drainage for the best growth of timber. They also need access roads and firebreaks. Many of our farmers can profitably do as Gravelly and Kirkman are doing. They can work together in planning and carrying out good forestry practices such as drainage, where needed and fire control."

Meekins-Jones Vows Pledged

Miss Lesley Blanche Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Thomas Jones of Greenville, and Ivan Day Meekins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Gray Meekins of Elizabeth City, were united in marriage Tuesday afternoon in the Youth Chapel of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in Greenville.

The Rev. William M. Howard, pastor of the bride, performed the double-ring ceremony which was witnessed by only the immediate family and close friends.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. H. Brown Mayo, the bride's aunt, of Palkland, Mrs. J. A. Karsnak, soloist, sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Prayer Perfect."

Vows were spoken before the altar on which stood burning tapers. Seven-branched candelabras holding cathedral candles were placed on either side of the altar. To the front were baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums arranged against a background of emerald greens.

The bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a waltz-length gown of hand-clipped chastity lace and nylon tulle over bridal satin. The basque bodice of lace featured a sabrina neckline and full-length pointed sleeves. Scallop lace fashioned a peplum and encircled the sweep skirt of tulle.

Her two-tiered, finger-tip veil of French illusion was attached to an off-face tulle of pearls and iridescent sequins. She wore a single strand of cultured pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a cascade bouquet of white feathered carnations, centered with a purple-throated white orchid and showered with satin and lace streamers.

Miss Ann Brewer, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina-length Princess gown of pink crystallite over taffeta. The headdress was of an halo illusion trimmed in pink velvet. She carried a nosegay of blue carnations with cascading ribbons of blue satin.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushers were Amos Clark of New Bern, the bride's uncle, and Clark Brewer, cousin of the bride.

The mother of the bride wore a sheath dress of blue embroidered-eyelot over taffeta with accessories to match and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Meekins, the bridegroom's mother, was dressed in pink lace with matching accessories and wore an orchid corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple received in the vestibule of the church.

Mrs. Ivan Day Meekins

For a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina and Virginia, Mrs. Meekins wore a Girl Young dress of grey and black winter cotton with black velvet hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was the white orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Greenville High School and attended East Carolina College. Mr. Meekins was graduated from Elizabeth City High School and attended East Carolina College. He is now with the United States Air Force and is stationed at Seymour-Johnson Air Force Base in Golds-wedding party at a cake cutting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brewer on Colonial Avenue.

Upon arrival the bride was presented a corsage of white carnations.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Brewer. Throughout the house were arrangements of assorted summer flowers.

In the dining room the table was covered by an organdy cloth over pink satin. Centering the table was an arrangement of white heart-shaped frame of white ribbon and bells. The arrangement was flanked by three-branch candelabra entwined with ivy. The theme was carried out by cascades of ribbon and bells at each of the four corners of the table. At either end of the table were the punch bowl and the three-tiered wedding cake.

After the bridal couple cut the first slice of cake, Mrs. Leslie Jones, mother of the bride, served the cake; and Mrs. Tommie Meekins, mother of the bridegroom, served punch. Cake, lime punch, salted pecans, and assorted nuts were served.

The hostesses said goodbyes as the guests were leaving.

Wedding Breakfast
Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Meekins of Elizabeth City were hosts on Tuesday morning at the Silo Grill at a wedding breakfast honoring members of the Meekins-Jones bridal party and out-of-town guests.

The table was centered with an arrangement of pink carnations encircled with ruffled pink tulle and flanked by tall pink tapers. The bride's place was marked by a miniature bride and groom set in an arrangement of pink tulle and fern.

The bride was presented a corsage and remembered with a gift of silver.

Use Schedule, Organize, Have Suitable Tools When Cleaning

By LILLIE LITTLE Home Agent

Do you like house cleaning? If the answer is "no," maybe you need to analyze your way of doing it. It could be you are not using the right tools, maybe it is the lack of organization, or maybe it is your approach.

The average homemaker spends about one-third of her time cleaning floors, dishes, clothes, bath-tubs, etc. Therefore, she should certainly be interested in finding the best and most satisfying way of doing each job.

Time spent in cleaning can be cut if all members of the family are trained to "pick up" their personal belongings. Not only will it save the homemaker's time and energy, but it will also help family members to form habits of order and cleanliness.

One of the most important aids to making the cleaning easier is the making of a schedule — a schedule to fit your way of living. Keep after small jobs that can be done quickly if done regularly.

Convenient Storage

Suitable tools and supplies, skill in correct cleaning methods, and convenient storage of tools and supplies will do much to make housekeeping easier.

A few well cared for tools suitable to your needs are a good investment. They will greatly aid you in doing a more efficient job of house cleaning. Soap, water and clean cloths are essential materials that are available in every home. In some localities, water should be softened before used.

It is important that all equipment be kept in good repair. Brooms, brushes and mops should be thoroughly dried before storing.

Tools needed in every home for house cleaning are brooms, brushes, mops and wringer, pails, step-ladder, dust pan (long handled ones save much stooping and bending), cleaning and polishing rags, and sweeper or vacuum cleaner.

Soap, Kerosene, Floor Wax

Supplies that should be kept on hand for cleaning are soap, kerosene, floor wax, whitening and household ammonia. Other supplies which might be added are washing soda, Fuller's earth, denatured alcohol, vinegar, turpentine, linseed oil, and trisodium phosphate.

There are also many new clean-

Cleaning Closet

Every house, no matter how limited the furnishings, needs a cleaning closet for the storage of tools and supplies. Such a space is a convenience, helps to keep the house orderly, and prevents the odors of cleaning supplies from spreading.

Miss Prude, Rev. Hart Marry

AYDEN—In a candlelight setting Sunday afternoon, August 11, at four o'clock at the Free Will Baptist Church, Miss Eleanor "Trice" Prude pledged her marriage vows to the Rev. Gordon Winfred Hart of Ayden and Warsaw.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Garland Prude of Tupelo, and Mr. Hart's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Hart of Ayden.

The Rev. Luther Gibson, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony.

The altar area was centered with a large fern ball and decorated with garlands of ivy and large subburst arrangements of white gladioli and stock. Slender tapers in seven-branched candelabra completed the bridal setting.

Music was presented by Miss Patricia Winters of Tupelo, pianist, and by Ross Dowden of Nashville, Tenn., vocalist.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an exquisite gown of white chantilly lace and tulle over bridal satin. The bodice of the lace was fashioned with an off-shoulder neckline, tulle yoke, and long sleeves. The bouffant skirt, formed of layers of tulle, fell in graceful folds from the waistline to below the hips. A Juliette cap of lace with a delicate design of seed pearls held her elbow-length, double tiered veil of French illusion. Her flowers, placed on a Bible, were tuberoses and a white orchid.

Miss Barbara Nell Hart of Ayden, the bridegroom's sister, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Sara Brown of Dorsey and Miss Gloria Randle, niece of the bride, of Tupelo.

Their ballerina-length dresses of sea-mist green, embroidered Swiss organdy were worn over matching taffeta and designed with tiny puffed sleeves, round necklines and pleated tulle cummerbunds which formed bustle bows in the back. Nosegays of white Frenched carnations and tuberoses were attached to the green tulle fans that they carried.

Completing their costumes were picture hats of the tulle with butterfly bows of matching ribbon.

The flower girl, Martha Lynn McNeese, wore white nylon with a broad satin sash and carried a basket of rose petals.

Mr. Hart was attended by his father as best man. Ushers were Irvin Prude, brother of the bride, Paul McCullough and Keith Randle, her brothers-in-law, and Charles Hart of Raleigh, his brother.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Prude chose mauve lace over matching taffeta made with a heart-shaped neckline, brief sleeves, and a softly flared skirt. Mrs. Hart wore Dresden blue lace and taffeta with embroidery of rhinestone and pearls at the square neckline, short sleeves and full skirt. Both wore hats matching their dresses, long white gloves and corsages of white carnations and tuberoses.

Reception

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Paul McCullough and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Randle entertained at the McCullough home in Shady Acres with a reception honoring their sister and Mr. Hart.

A bridal motif of green and white was carried out throughout the spacious rooms thrown open to the guests. The bride's table, overlaid with embroidered sheer linen with inserts of lace, was appointed in crystal with silver candelabra holding slender white tapers and epergnettes of white blossoms.

Punch was served by the bride's cousin, Mrs. J. C. Kelley, and the tiered wedding cake was cut by Mrs. George McCullough and Mrs. Luther Gibson. Assisting were Miss Wanda Robinson, Miss Jane Witt, Miss Bonnie Pierce, Miss Key Whitaker, Miss Shirley Kelley, Miss Barbara Bratton and Mrs. James Ashburner.

After their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Hart will be at their new home in Warsaw, where he will serve as pastor of the Free Will Baptist Church. Mrs. Hart wore for traveling a navy shantung with matching accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Rehearsal Party

Immediately after the wedding rehearsal Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. William Garland Prude entertained in honor of the bridal party, members of the families and out-of-town guests.

The home of the Rev. and Mrs. Luther Gibson was the scene of the informal affair. Arrangements of late summer flowers were used throughout the reception rooms.

The refreshment table, overlaid with embroidered white linen, had as its centerpiece pastel flowers in a silver bowl flanked by pale pink candles in silver holders. Sandwiches, cookies and iced punch were served to the 30 guests.

Only a few minor recommendations were contained in the report of the Grand Jury submitted today to Judge W. C. Harris of Raleigh, presiding over the criminal term of Pitt County Superior Court. Failure of justices of the peace to report as required by law also came in for attention of the jury. "We have examined the report in the office of the Clerk of Superior Court and find that there are 28 justices of the peace in the county, and none of them have made their report in accordance with the law," the report stated.

Medicine Of The 'Atomic Age'

(Editor's note: the following editorial was prepared for the current series by the late DR. WALTER HUMBERT, Director of the Pitt County Health Department, prior to his death last week.)

The practice of medicine from the time of Hippocrates to the beginning of the twentieth century was basically interested in curative medicine. The family physician or the specialist directing their energies to the curing of the sick patient composed the greater part of the practice of medicine. At the turn of the century these men were joined by other physicians who began to seek means of preventing disease and contagion and so to curative medicine was added preventive medicine and public health.

As the years have progressed, more and more physicians have begun to realize that curing illness or preventing disease is still not the answer to the ultimate goal of medicine. It is now realized that health is a state of complete physical, mental and social well being and it is not merely the absence of disease or infirmities. Health in the true sense then is the optimum functioning of all parts of the human body.

Thus, now is added to curative and preventive medicine a new concept; that of perfective medicine. It is medicine's challenge for the future that will enable a person not only to be free from disease or disorder but will also enable every system of the body to function at its optimum for that particular person.

In plain language, medicine's role for the future as accepted by men of medicine is to permit a person not only to go through life free from disease or disorder but also to live daily under the most favorable functioning of that person's body system for their age in life. It must be realized that health as we know it today is quite variable and permits degrees independent of disease.

Physicians have long recognized that there is a wide range between health and normalcy. What is normal for one man's constitution would be excessive for another or inadequate for another. As an example, three men all age 40, all in optimum health and who all play golf, for one 18 holes of golf at one time would be the optimum exercise, for another 9 holes would be all his constitution could stand without strain, and for the third 36 holes could be called normal exercise. The same example applies for work, recreation, rest and daily caloric intake of food and liquids.

It is not enough that there is an absence of anemia in the body. It is not enough for a person's hemoglobin to be within so called normal limits—it should be at the optimum concentration for that person at that time of life. For optimum health the blood should have optimum oxygen transport capacity and that means optimum number of red blood cells with optimum concentration of hemoglobin.

As curative or therapeutic medicine relieves illness, as preventive medicine eliminates disease and disorders; then, perfective medicine, the medicine of the future, the medicine of the "Atomic Age," will perfect health.

Where The DC Crowd Is Going

By LYNN NISBET WASHINGTON — The final week of a session of the Congress is very much like the closing days of a General Assembly, only more so. The big controversies have been compromised, leaving only final votes, the rest of which is already known. Your reporter spent a couple days this week in the area of Distributed Confusion (appropriate meaning of DC) and found the North Carolina delegation on the job on orders of Speaker Sam Rayburn, except Rep. "Hap" Barden of the third district — who is not amenable to orders from any source.

casioned the plan for a major bi-continental highway for motor truck delivery of the minerals. The highway can be protected by air patrol much more effectively than ocean shipping. Rep. Carl Durham of the sixth district, as chairman of a joint committee on atomic energy, has been designated by the President to head the American delegation to an international conference in Vienna in October to consider peacetime uses of nuclear energy. He says he'd much rather stay at home, catch up with fishing and hunting and see a few football games. But he sincerely feels that diversion of atomic power from wartime destruction to peacetime industrial development is a major problem facing the whole world.

The office staffs were busily engaged in tying up some loose ends of business, clearing out files and packing such material as they and the bosses desired to carry back to North Carolina with them. Following long established custom, all the offices here will be kept open with skeleton staffs, except that of Rep. Herbert Bonner of the first district. He closes the Capitol office during congressional recess and operates from his home in the Tarheel Washington.

ASSISTANTS — The hardest working folks in the congressional office buildings are the assistants and secretaries. The senators and representatives keep in general touch with what goes on in their offices, but it is amazing how much detail the assistants take care of without bothering the boss. The congressman gets credit or blame, but perhaps ninety percent of daily routine is handled by the staff members. Here's the roll call of top aids:

Most of the members expect to spend the fall months in their home districts, but all have heavy speaking engagements. They are acutely conscious that another primary will face them early next year. Each one naturally thinks he is in pretty good shape with the home folks, but a little fence patching here and there may be in order. They will be scouting for weak places and laying plans to block opposition.

Senator Sam Ervin: Jack Spain, administrative assistant, and Harry Gatton, secretary. Senator Kerr Scott: Ben Roney, administrative assistant; Bill Cochran, secretary, and Bill Whitely, press secretary. Rep. Herbert Bonner, first district: Henry C. Oglesby, secretary. Rep. L. H. Fountain, second: Walter Pittman, secretary. Rep. Graham A. Barden, third: L. K. Alderman, secretary. Rep. Harold D. Cooley, fourth: Christine Gallagher, secretary. Rep. Ralph J. Scott, fifth: Hal Thompson, secretary. Rep. Carl T. Durham, sixth: Mrs. Margaret Graves, secretary. Rep. Alton Lennon, seventh: John K. Slear, secretary. Rep. Paul Kitchen, eighth: Miss Jane Pratt, secretary. Rep. Hugh Alexander, ninth: Percy W. Meekins, secretary. Rep. Carles R. Jonas, tenth: Almetta Mallison, secretary. Rep. Basil Whitener, eleventh: Herbert Lineberger, secretary. Rep. George Shuford, twelfth: Richard Queen, secretary.

Senator Sam Ervin expects to spend a good deal of time with the McClellan committee on government operations and racketeering. He has been so deeply engrossed with the civil rights bill he says he hasn't been able to give the other committee the attention he desires. After all his efforts on civil rights, he faces possibility of not being able to cast a vote in person on the question. His daughter is being married Saturday night, and he says he thinks he has a "civil right" to be present. If, as many people expect, a vote on the bill is set for late Saturday he will arrange a pair with another Senator.

Besides these top level aids each office has from two to five other clerical assistants who keep the boss in touch with the home folks, and vice versa. They render innumerable little, and sometimes big, services to their constituents and pay little attention to the clock — either EST or that confusing thing called Eastern Daylight Time.

Senator Kerr Scott expects to head for Haw River as soon as the Congress adjourns. He has a number of speaking engagements and, as a member of the Public Works committee, he is scheduled to go to South America in October to inspect progress on the international highway. It seems that many of the strategic minerals needed for defense are available in South America. World War II experience of heavy losses by submarine attack on shipping oc-

Horatius To The Fore, But Only As A Gesture

The Senator from South Carolina, Strom Thurmond, knew it would be a losing fight even before he started. It didn't deter him.

He had some things on his mind and a deep concern in his heart, so he talked it over.

For hour after hour he talked. The compromise Civil Rights bill and any allied topics that could be injected, was his subject.

It was a lost cause. Other lawmakers from the South had earlier let it be known they wouldn't support a talkathon, so Senator Thurmond stepped into the gap as a sort of Horatius.

Congressmen were ready to go home; some had their bags packed for adjournment that would soon be at hand. Few bothered to linger and listen to the South Carolinian. Courtesy demanded he be given the chance to talk as long as he liked.

Futile, fruitless and possibly foolish; yet one must agree the final hours of the Senate enjoyed something more in the way of drama than they would otherwise have seen.

Glumly Watch Weddings Drop

By ELMER ROESSNER Advertising men and others trying to sell merchandise are worrying over the fewer new families in America.

However, the number of births indicate a constant expansion of the market for playthings, diapers and the thousands of other things required for the 'brat age. For example, about 3,750,000 children have turned or will turn six this year. Next year the number of first-graders will rise by about 100,000. By 1960, there will be more than 4,000,000. And so it will go on and on: more toys, more schools, more bikes, more teen-age problems, more marriages, more homes, more autos, more charge accounts more everything.

In the first six months of this year, there was a total of 737,000 marriages. There were 748,000 in the first six months of 1956. The drop is 1.5 per cent. This year in June—that glorious month of Hymen—there were 188,000 marriages, compared with 201,000 in June, 1956. That's a decline of 6.5 per cent—and a drop of 13,000 in the number of prospects for new homes, furniture, appliances and rolling pins. This dip was anticipated by those who have been following national vital statistics. The number of births in 1930, mostly the result of 1929 pregnancies was 2,203,958. The annual total dipped to 2,074,402 in 1932 and it was not until 1938 they passed the 1930 mark.

These are available at field offices of the Department of Commerce. Also available are prospects for the total population and for various age groups. These run far into the future, perhaps further than the average business can count on surviving.

DEPRESSION-BABY BRIDES As a consequence now, 25 years after the depression low, the number of marriages is declining simply because there are fewer marriageable men and girls. The low number of marriages can be expected to continue for the next five or six years. Then, in the early 1960's, the youngsters born in the years of the rising number of births will be seeking mates and there will be more weddings than you can throw rice at. The number of births passed the 2,500,000 mark in 1941, the 3,000,000 mark in 1946, the 3,500,000 point in 1948, and the 4,000,000 mark in 1954.

Green peas are America's favorite frozen vegetable and kale the least popular, according to a Seabrook Farms survey. Income of field salesmen for manufacturing companies rose 4.3 per cent last year. An American Management Association survey shows Wisconsin has made it illegal for a nonresident male under 21 to buy beer unless his wife or mother is with him, although local youths can. That may be the law that makes Milwaukee look silly. Kate Smith's recording of God Bless America is out of print, reports Meramec Caverns of Missouri, which plays it as its theme tune. Columbia may soon become a rice-exporting nation. The crop has been increasing around 10 per cent a year.

Births this year have been 3.2 per cent higher than last year and the total probably will be well above 4,000,000 for the fourth consecutive year. NEW MARKETS A-BORNING The current, somewhat temporary, decline in the number of marriages seems likely to continue the slackened demand for goods needed by new families.

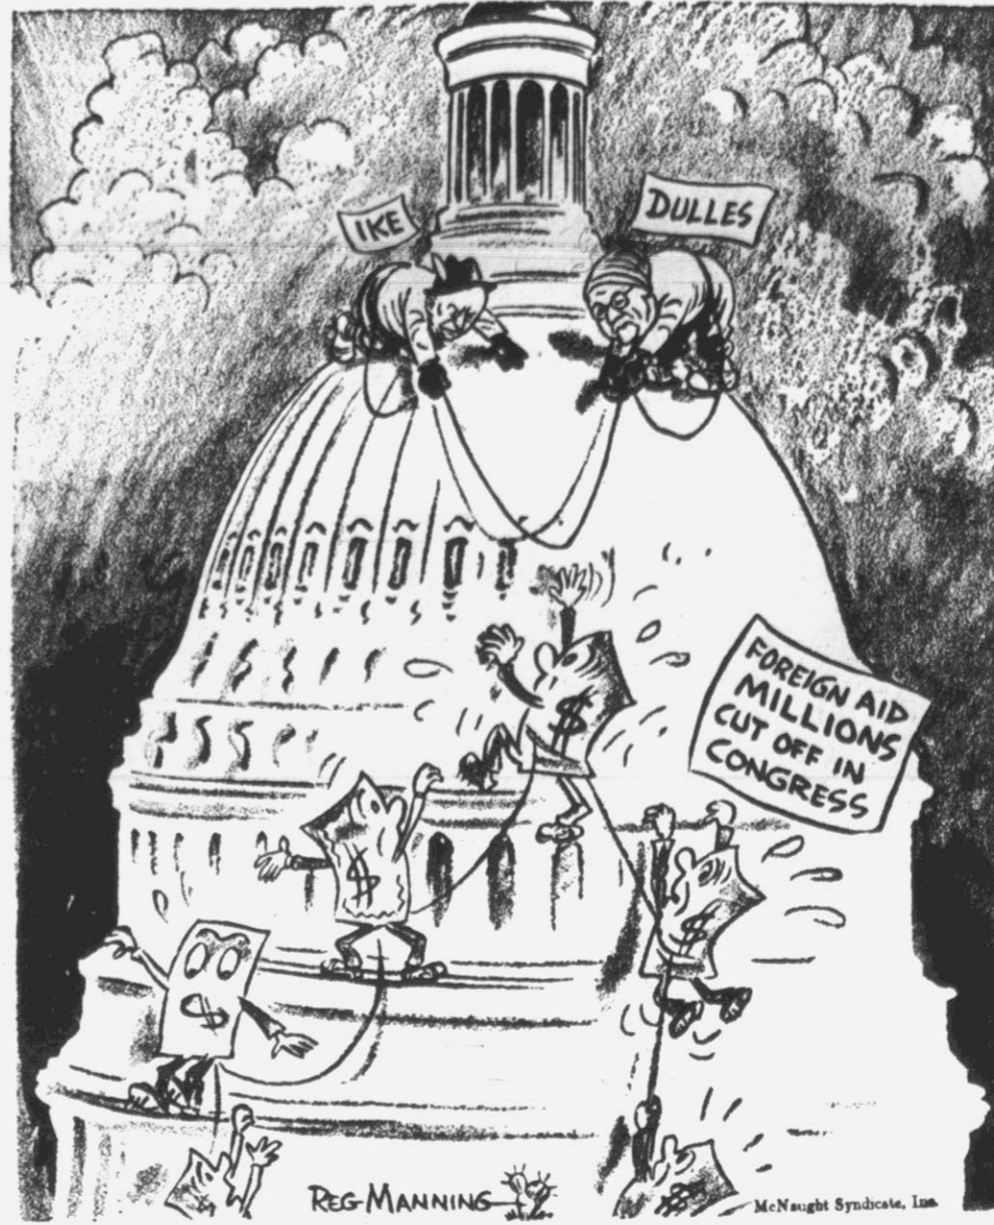

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS STRIVING FOR THE ULTIMATE One of the great religious thinkers and writers of the past fifty years has been Miguel De Unamuno the Spanish intellectual and mystic.

solate and infinite perfection, and to say to the Father, 'Father, I cannot—help Thou my impotence.' And He, acting in us, will achieve it for us. It is hard for us to get into our mind that what pleases God is not what we achieve but what we try to achieve. For a little achievement which results from much sincere effort is more pleasing in the Lord's sight than a great achievement indifferently arrived at. Our Lord loved to use the figure of the seed and the leaven — the little which becomes much because of its willingness to grow. Christ told us to be perfect, not because we ever can, but because we shall never achieve anything worth while unless we strive for the ultimate.

In one of his books, "The Tragical Sense of Life," Unamuno writes as follows: "Be ye perfect even as your Father in heaven is perfect, we are bidden, and this terrible precept—terrible because for us the infinite perfection of the Father is unattainable—must be our supreme rule of conduct. Unless a man aspires to the impossible, the possible that he achieves will be scarcely worth the trouble of achieving. It behooves us to aspire to the impossible, to the ab-

It Came With A Rush

When you sit down to read a story in the newspaper do you ever imagine what happened behind the headlines?

Sitting here, as usual, at my old faithful typewriter, incessantly puffing on a filter cigarette, I recall two hectic days last week brought about by a daring bank robbery in Oak City.

To provide a setting. As is usually the case with an afternoon newspaper, our busiest time is in the morning. During the morning hours of the day the staff's job is to get news that took place in and around Pitt County in the afternoon and night of the preceding day, and as much of the forenoon's news as possible.

find out precisely what happened. I placed a call but found out the Oak City police didn't have a phone. Not knowing whom to talk to, I called the bank. The line was busy.

Right back where I started from. By this time it was past 12 noon and we were none the better for our efforts. Deadline time had been gone for more than 30 minutes and the news editor was making frequent inquiries as to our progress.

Shortly afterwards we found out that two suspects had been picked up in Rocky Mount. Dave called but could find out little or nothing from the Police who were holding the suspects until the Sheriff could arrive from Martin County to identify them.

Other Editors Saying--- Give Voters The Credit

(Kinston Free Press) The shocking upset of the GOP in Wisconsin, where Democrat William Proxmire walloped former Governor Walter Kohler, an Eisenhower Republican, by a decisive majority of some 116,000 votes, should be credited to the intelligence of the rank and file of voters in that state. The 41-year-old Proxmire, though a comparative unknown as far as the Nation as a whole is concerned, offered a vigorous campaign and gave the voters a promise of a change. He is even now urging that unofficial returns be accepted as official by the state's leaders so he can "get to Washington and go to work." He will fill the 16-month unexpired term of the late Sen. Joe McCarthy, Republican.

I called back to Oak City a few minutes later and managed to talk to one of the bankers who was making an audit to find out how much money was gone. He could give me some information but the story was a little hazy and the thief was still at large.

Press time was drawing near and Jimmy, Dave, Alvin Taylor and myself finally managed to get a story ready for the front page. We knew something was transpiring but to save our lives nothing could be done to find out what. In all fairness to the Law we did not want to interrupt them too many times during the course of their investigation.

These are available at field offices of the Department of Commerce. Also available are prospects for the total population and for various age groups. These run far into the future, perhaps further than the average business can count on surviving. MORE GEE-WHIZ ITEMS IN BUSINESS NEWS Green peas are America's favorite frozen vegetable and kale the least popular, according to a Seabrook Farms survey. Income of field salesmen for manufacturing companies rose 4.3 per cent last year. An American Management Association survey shows Wisconsin has made it illegal for a nonresident male under 21 to buy beer unless his wife or mother is with him, although local youths can. Columbia may soon become a rice-exporting nation. The crop has been increasing around 10 per cent a year.

Thinking we might learn something else later in the afternoon for Friday's paper the presses began to roll. Before long another call was received saying the bank robber had been caught.

The presses were stopped. I got on the phone and called Oak City for the fourth time. For approximately 10 minutes I talked to an FBI Agent who gave me the details of the situation up to the time. All of us got together and re-wrote the story and made the change in a hurry in order to get the press rolling again as soon as possible. C'est fini.

I finally got a chance to look at my watch. To my astonishment it was mid-afternoon and I hadn't cashed in on my dinner date with Dave.

Anti-Hoffa Campaign Is Fizzle

By RAY TUCKER WASHINGTON — The McClellan Committee's effort to prevent the election of James R. Hoffa as the next president of the Teamsters' Union has fizzled.

If the discredited Detroit — he has been arrested 17 times and convicted three times on minor charges — is not sidetracked by the Congressional revelations, the labor leaders themselves must unseat him. So far, they have shown no heart to tangle with the burly and belligerent Hoffa.

These invisible and mechanical witnesses shattered Hoffa's aplomb and nonchalance. They tied him with a convicted extortionist who had double-crossed the unions he was supposed to represent in wage negotiations with employers. But the employment as evidence of tapped telephone wires is repugnant to union men, as well as to many other people.

McClellan finally had to close the hearings in disgust at Hoffa's repeated failure to remember details of his operations, or what Ives called his "excellent forgettery." McCLELLAN MAY YET BLOCK HOFFA'S ELECTION Due to these delays and digressions, McClellan was unable to exploit the most serious charges against Hoffa over television. They involved 48 "questionable actions," consisting largely of using union funds for personal profit. Thousands of letters to the McClellan Committee showed that it was kind of cheating which aroused the sharpest resentment against Dave Beck among union members and their wives. But the McClellan indictment, as read in his drawing monotone, was not nearly so effective as it would have been, if it had been brought out through televised questioning of a red-faced and squirming Hoffa. Moreover, it was so lengthy that only the largest, metropolitan newspapers could publish it in full. Ironically, a strike reinforcement by the teamsters prevented publication of Detroit newspapers during this period. The hearings left no doubt in the minds of unprejudiced observers that Hoffa is not qualified to head the nation's largest and most influential union, since it can make or break any strike. But they also left Hoffa with a tactical victory that may enable him to succeed Beck at the October election. McClellan, however, may make another attempt to block Hoffa's elevation at September hearings. POSSIBLE RETALIATION On September 24, the Teamsters' Union must face charges of misconduct filed against it by the Ethical Practices Committee of the AFL-CIO. Under strict interpretation of its new code, Hoffa's organization should be expelled by the Executive Committee because of his alliance with "crooks and racketeers." But Hoffa has promised to "purge" himself. Moreover, his judges' great fear is that he might retaliate against punishment by withdrawing the teamsters from the parent organization. He might also take with him powerful groups in the building trades and transportation fields. ORGANIZED LABOR COULD DISINTEGRATE INTO RIVAL CLIQUES Thus, the AFL-CIO faces its most serious crisis in its two-year history, especially as there has been no real merger at local levels. If it disciplines Hoffa and his followers in order to prove to Congress and the public that it intends to "clean house," it may signal the breakup of the "one great union." Organized labor would then disintegrate into several feuding, hostile and rival cliques — the AFL-CIO remnants, the Hoffa rebels and John L. Lewis' coal miners and allies. Such a dissolution would precipitate a dangerous crisis for industry, labor and the national economy.

Gentle Comedy Titan

By HAL BOYLE SCHROON LAKE, N.Y. (AP) —Nearing 71, Ed Wynn, a gentle titan of the show world for two generations, can still stand on the first step of a flight of stairs and bend down and touch the ground.

And his mind remains as flexible as his body and his marvelously mobile face.

Next month the American Theater Wing will pay tribute to "The Perfect Fool" in a 90-minute television show honoring his 55 years as an entertainer.

But Ed, a performer who has done everything in his fabulous career except be shot out of a cannon, is even more excited by his new rise to stardom (after many said he was through) as a dramatic actor. He plays Uncle Samson in "Majorie Morningstar," a film now being shot here at Scaroon Manor, an Adirondacks resort hotel.

Natalie Wood and Gene Kelly are also starred, but Ed, once called "one of the nine most charming people in the world," is the top favorite with the resort guests.

"People still come up and talk to me, even the kids, and I like that," he said. "I think that aloofness or a swelled head, as we used to call it—is one of the greatest dangers to youngsters who achieve a quick success. The actor, if he wants to stay successful, has to marry the public—and stay married. Getting to the top is one thing; staying at the pinnacle is the real difficulty.

"But many of the kids today feel they don't need help, and have nothing to learn. The great artists of the past often didn't have enough to eat. But they lived for posterity. Today there is too much reaching for the fast buck. A singer can make funny noises on a single record, and overnight he's a star. But he has nothing to fall back on."

"Commercialism has taken a wrong tangent in this country. What we need is to inherit from those who went before, and not simply regard them as corny. There are certain traditions we need in our lives to give us stability.

"Something has changed... people have changed. This looseness of thought... this breaking down of tradition has to be done away with quickly. If this nation is to hold true to the things that put it where it is.

"All of us have our best time when we don't realize it... in childhood.

"I've had my career, and I don't have to worry now. I made $400 a week when I was 16. I was the only American performer on the bill when the Palace, the mecca of vaudeville, opened.

"I've turned out a hundred songs, and I wrote the book, Broadway shows. But the greatest performer of my lifetime was George M. Cohan. He had versatility... He could do anything.

"Happiness is a mental attitude. I realize I could die at any moment, but I never think of the calendar. I think young... and I'll die young. But I respect my age. I don't conduct myself like a schoolboy.

"I don't have a formula for a long life, but if I did I wouldn't sell it—it'd give it away to everyone... I don't go to church... But I often pray, and I feel my prayers have been answered.

"I've always felt it was my mission in this world to make people laugh... I never pined to be Hamlet. Yet here I am at 71, age starting a whole new career—drama instead of comedy.

"Why do I go on. Because I do love the theater. I'd rather die dead on a stage before a laughing audience than die in bed with my relatives around me crying.

"My son, Keenan, tells everybody I've got a million dollars. I wonder what he'll say when he finds out all I'm leaving him is a lot of old jokes?"

Josiah: Statesman--Reformer ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture--II Kings 22:1-23:30; II Chronicles 34-35.

Josiah was eight years old when he began his reign, and he reigned for 31 years in Jerusalem.

When Josiah was 18, he sent Shaphan to the high priest, Hilkiah, telling him to give the money contributed by the people to the workmen who were repairing the temple.

When Shaphan went to the temple, the high priest, Hilkiah, gave him a book of the Lord's laws.

The Lord said he would not destroy Jerusalem while Josiah lived. When the king of Egypt attacked the king of Assyria, Josiah sided with the Assyrian king and was slain in battle.

MEMORY VERSE--Psalm 119:11.

RELEASE SATURDAY, AUG. 31, OR SUNDAY, SEPT. 1, 1957

Josiah, Statesman-Reformer

HE WALKED IN THE WAY OF THE LORD

Scripture--II Kings 22:1-23:30; II Chronicles 34-35.

FROM AMOS' stern warnings of disasters to come to his people, we turn to a different type of man, but one who, like Amos, was a noble character who "did that which was right in the sight of the Lord."

To understand the condition of Israel when a small boy named Josiah came to the throne we should recall the reign of Manasseh, who ruled for over 50 years and left the country in the lowest depths of immorality.

The lesson opens with the words, "Josiah was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned thirty and one years in Jerusalem."

the Lord what were to be the consequences of His wrath that was kindled because of the wickedness of His chosen people.

They were to tell Josiah: "Because thine heart was tender, and thou hast humbled thyself before the Lord... Behold therefore, I will gather thee unto thy fathers, and thou shalt be gathered into thy grave in peace; so that thine eyes shall not see all the evil which I will bring upon this place."

They told Josiah what the Lord had said, and he gathered all the people together and went to the house of the Lord and made a covenant before the Lord, promising to keep His commandments with all his heart and soul.

MEMORY VERSE

"Thy word have I hid in mine heart, that I might not sin against Thee."--Psalm 119:11.

and taught her son to do the same. We are not told about the first 10 years of Josiah's reign, but when he was 18 he sent Shaphan the scribe to the chief priest, Hilkiah, in the temple, telling him to count the money contributed by the people and give it to the carpenters, builders, and masons for wages and for materials to repair the edifice.

All was not evil in the city as we read, that "there was no reckoning made with them of the money that was delivered into their hand, because they dealt faithfully."

The high priest told Shaphan that he had found the book of the law of the Lord in the house of the Lord. He gave it to Shaphan, who read it, and took it to the king. Josiah read the book and tore his clothes, realizing how far his people had strayed from the Lord's laws and what the consequences of their disobedience would be.

Then the king ordered Hilkiah, Shaphan and others to inquire of the Lord.

sels that had actually been brought into the Lord's house for the worship of Baal were to be brought out and burned, and all the other vessels of Baal, wherever they were found, were to be destroyed, and the priests of Baal slain--II Kings 23:20.

The Passover which Israel was supposed to hold once every year to celebrate the passing over of the angel of death of Jewish homes in Egypt, which brought death to the children of Egyptians, had been neglected. Josiah offered a great Passover held in the 18th year of his reign. Not only the people of Jerusalem attended, but many from other places.

A powerful monarch, the king of Egypt, attacked the kingdom of Assyria. Josiah opposed the Pharaoh and, disguising himself, took part in the battle. He was struck by an arrow and badly wounded, and so he died. His body was put into a chariot and buried in Jerusalem. Jeremiah and all the people mourned for this good king.

Four Fullmers To See Action

WEST JORDAN, Utah (AP) — Four of the Fighting Fullmer family will see action in next Wednesday night's TV fight program from here—three inside the ropes and a pretty colleen at ringside.

Gene Fullmer, former middleweight champion now ranked as the No. 1 challenger, meets Chico Vejar, unranked middleweight from Stamford, Conn., in a nationally televised ABC 10-round fight at West Jordan Coliseum 9 p.m. EST.

Gene's youngest brother, Don, 18, who won his first professional bout this summer, will fight a preliminary. He's a middleweight. And Gene's 20-year-old brother, Jay, a welter, with a 5-0 record, will fight after the main event.

The colleen at ringside will be their sister, Colleen. And if the TV cameras happen to catch her, the viewers will get a demonstration of shadow boxing which will eclipse anything going on in the ring.

Local Fans Will See Plenty Of Backfield Stars

By BILLY ARNOLD, Reflector Sports Editor

About a week from now, football fans all over this Eastern North Carolina area will be hit smack in the face with the 1957 football season.

Names and jersey numbers will soon push the big league pennant races into the background and little clumps of fans will gather on Saturday mornings to gab about the game Friday night.

As always, several boys on the high school teams of the area will stand out, will be talked about, written about, and watched carefully as the season wears on.

After a brief scanning of the football horizon, several names have already popped up as probable top performers for 1957. Listed below—by virtue of coaches' opinions and past play—are some of those boys.

Backs

(An article about the linemen will follow later.) Probably the most highly touted backfield man in the immediate area for 1957 will be Ayden's Tommy Edwards, a 185-pound triple-threat fullback.

Edwards has been a standout for the Tornadoes for two full seasons and is an All-Coastal Conference performer. Farmville's Sonny Mail and Greenville's Mack Roebuck are perhaps the outstanding quarterbacks of the area.

Both boys are veterans and have been first-string duty with their respective clubs ever since they began high school. Both boys are extremely good passers, both can run and kick.

Robersonville's Brayam Anderson is cited by Coach Bob Lee as an exceptional passer and ball-handler at tailback, and will probably be outstanding for the Rams this season. Another Ram who is being primed as the best tailback in the school's history is ninth-grader Tommy Ward.

Another triple-threat tailback, Ward could break into Robersonville's starting lineup this year as a freshman. Perhaps the outstanding half-back in the area is Greenville's Robert (Hotrod) Howell, a 145-pounder. He was tagged with the Hotrod nickname by a newspaper man from a neighboring town, after watching the Greenville half-back run over his club like a well-oiled auto.

Farmville's Irving Allen also rates special attention at the half-back post. Allen is fast, light, and a shifty runner. There are undoubtedly others who have not been named who will pop up during the season as outstanding backs. These are just a few who have been mentioned by coaches, officials and various newspapers early this season.

To Concentrate On Basilio Now

NEW YORK (AP) — "Now I've got to concentrate on beating Carmen Basilio," said middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson today after scoring a decisive victory in his nine-day battle over theater-television.

The crafty, veteran fighter said his winning holdout for a money guarantee for the closed circuit telecast "has been a great strain on me. I've lost weight and I've had to take sleeping pills. Now I've got to build up my strength. I don't want to disappoint Carmen on Sept. 23."

As the Harlem dandy returned to his Greenwood Lake, N.Y., training camp he found himself an 8-5 underdog to the welterweight king from Chittanooga, N.Y., Basilio, who has maintained all along that Robinson will fight "because he won't pass up this kind of dough." Has been training steadily at Alexandria, N.Y.

Furman's Wins Coming In A 1-2-3 Series In Football

By DEL BOOTH GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Furman will bid to better this year the 1-2-3 winning order sequence on which it seems embarked in football.

Coach Homer Hobbs won one game in the first year of his three-year contract in 1955; got two victories last year; seems headed for three this year if the mathematical sequence continues.

Hobbs has the best personnel he's had in his three seasons at the Southern Conference school. Freshmen, he says, will play less than a third of the time this season, in contrast to the 1955 team on which freshmen played most of the time. Last season, the freshmen put in about half the playing time.

Hard-running Jimmy Grant and speedy Jerry Penland will provide the ball-carrying punch for Hobbs' split T style.

Steering the T will be sophomore Billy Baker, who looked very good at times last year, and Marvin Starr, a fast, 6-3 180-pounder.

Probably the strongest positions on the Furman team will be the ends, manned by Ray Siminski and Dick Pfeiffer. Both were hurt early last season, but if they get the route this year, the defensive line should be better than last year.

Tom Avery, Mac Edwards and Woody Stewart filled in well for the two injured men last year, and the competition for their places should be keen.

Charlie Linder, a very fast runner, and Hickey Horton add to the backfield potential. Ronnie Brown and Gene Head top the guard candidates, where reserve strength is weakest.

The presence of Buddy Walton and Don Markofski at tackles is the principal reason, along with the ends, for Furman to look to improved line play this season.

Better, more experienced reserve strength at most positions—halfbacks and guards are the exceptions—should mean a better offense and defense.

Hobbs ran his team wide open on offense the first two seasons, but with a better balanced, more experienced squad, he may pull in his horns and go along with the control trend in his split T. For the first time in three seasons, he may have the personnel to do some controlling.

One mark of Hobbs' teams that will be retained, he promises, is an all-out effort at all times by his players.

Only once last year did we just run out of gas, Hobbs says, and that was in the final game against Orange Bowl-bound Clemson. The schedule: Sept. 14, East Tennessee (N), 21 at Florida State (N), 28 at Villanova. Oct. 5, George Washington (N), 12 at South Carolina, 19 at Wofford (N), 26 at The Citadel (N).

Nov. 2 and 9, open, 16 Chattanooga, 22 Davidson (N), 30 Clemson.

Only Thing Certain Is Crowning Of New Champ

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — About the only thing certain in the national tennis championships which opened today on the polished turf of the West Side Tennis Club is that there will be a new champion.

Pint-sized Ken Rosewall, last year's winner, has joined Jack Kramer's pro tour. His Australian countryman, Lew Hoad, the other finalist, also is in the pro ranks.

The seeding brass thus was faced with a difficult task. Who is seed first? On the premise, probably, that the Aussies should be in there at the end, they placed the No. 1 tag on Ashley Cooper, who is supposed to inherit one of the spots on the Aussie Davis Cup team.

"Cooper has a good, respectable record," said W. Harcourt Woods, the tournament's major-domo. "After all, he is the Australian champion and was runner-up to Hoad at Wimbledon."

Cooper definitely is no Hoad or Rosewall—not yet, at least. He's an erratic bloke who has been beaten by some players who

Dupas-Busso Brawl To Be A Whirlwind Bout

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A whirlwind fight flavored with incentive is expected tonight when lightweight Johnny Busso of New York and Ralph Dupas of New Orleans meet in a 10-rounder in the Auditorium Arena.

Busso, ranked 10th among the lightweights and fresh from an upset victory over Larry Boardman, said with confidence, "I think I can stop anybody I hit right, including Dupas."

Busso has won 30 out of 34 fights, 14 of them by the knockout route. The 23-year-old fighter said he wouldn't have lost four times if he had listened to his corner.

Dupas, is ranked No. 4, will have even more incentive than Busso in view of his court fight in New Orleans to obtain a birth certificate stating he is white.

The 22-year-old New Orleans fighter indicated he is miffed at testimony saying he is a Negro and will be ready for revenge.

Dupas is expected to enter the ring a 2-1 or 2-5, favorite and will be seeking to move back to the No. 2 spot among lightweights, a place he held earlier in the summer.

The eight-round semifinal will match Dupas' younger brother, Tony, and durable Andy Mayfield of Miami.

The main event starts at 9 p.m. EST and will be televised coast to coast by NBC.

Hi-Toms Holding 2-1-2 Game Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Carolina League neared the end of the season today with the Hi-Toms holding a 2 1/2-game lead over Greensboro.

The regular season ends Monday. The Hi-Toms increased their lead last night by edging the Durham Bulls 3-2 while Greensboro was dropping a 10-3 decision to Winston-Salem.

Art Hirst was the winning pitcher for the Hi-Toms, but he had to have help in the ninth when the Bulls rallied for one run. Hirst, who had given up only two hits in eight innings, was touched for two singles in the ninth. Hirst scored the winning run in the seventh when he beat out an infield hit and came in on Eddie Logan's double.

Seven-hit pitching by Carlos Thorne and timely hitting by his mates gave Winston-Salem its win over Greensboro. The Red Birds collected 11 hits off three pitchers.

With one week of drills left before their first ball game of the season, Greenville high school griders are beginning contact work for the first time. Coach Bud Phillips, handling the GHS reins for the first time, has held the hard-knocks work down to a minimum thus far during the practice sessions and has concentrated on conditioning and signal calling.

He and assistants Milton Reece, Boley Farley and Odell Welborn have drilled the Phantoms steadily on plays since August 15, when practice began.

A total of close to 50 applicants have reported for drill since that opening date. Phillips and his staff have been working with the team twice each day and have also worked at night.

Green-White Phillips mentioned yesterday that plans are being laid for a Green-White ball game either Friday afternoon at 4:30 or Friday night at 7:30 at the College Field. The purpose of the contest is to give the squad a chance to work under game conditions and to give them a taste of contact work both on defense and offense.

With 50 boys all working for eleven starting posts, the job of picking a definite starting team has been somewhat tougher than might have been expected. Phillips has said, At the present time, none of the posts are clinched.

The Backfield Candidates for the positions are shaping up this way—and this is tentative, of course: In the backfield, Mack Roebuck, Charles Ross and Erskine Duff are competing for the quarterback slot. Roebuck, with two full seasons of play behind him seems to have the inside track, but Ross is also a veteran. Duff, the youngest of the trio is tabbed "a good-looking youngster" by Phillips. At the halfback posts, Charlie Roberts and Robert Howell, two boys who played in 1956, have been showing up well. John Boyd, Bobby Edwards, and Randy Bass add plenty of depth. Phillips expressed his satisfaction over his halfbacks and expects to play several of the above-mentioned boys.

The fullback post is a three-way battle between Norfleet Felton, Charles Stalon, and Rett Everett. All three are fast, relatively big, but inexperienced.

The Line Only four lettermen from the 1956 squad have returned to bolster the line this year. Line Coaches Welborn and Reece have had to work especially hard on fundamentals with the new candidates for the front wall.

At present, struggling for starting flanker positions are Billy Cox, Clark Noble, Reggie Johnson, Hoover Taft, David Wade, and Skip Wright. Tackle candidates are Godfrey Oakley, Kelly Barnhill, Louis Dail, Ralph Sullivan, Joey Blalock and Sonny Hodges.

Guards are Billy Brown, John Harrison, Wilber Owens and Oscar Stoneham. Albert Crawford and Coleman Ruffin are working out at center. Both boys will probably see alternative duty this season.

The Phants open their season at Goldsboro, September 7. Art Lewis has had only one losing season in seven years of coaching the West Virginia University football team. That was his first—1950—when his team won only 8 of 10 games.

Bear, Deer, Squirrel Season Opens Oct. 15

By CHESTER WALSH

The hunting season for taking bear, deer, raccoon and opossum and squirrels opens October 15. The open season for rabbits, ruffed grouse, quail, wild turkeys (gobblers) and pheasants begins November 28 (Thanksgiving Day). Red and gray foxes may be taken when there are open seasons on birds or other animals.

The open season for hunting bear begins October 15 and ends January 1. The bag limit is one a day, two in possession and two in a season.

Deer: In Pitt County from October 15 to November 1. In other counties the deer season runs from October 15 to January 1. Bag limit is one a day, one in possession and two in a season. Last year was the first time in 10 or 12 years that the Wildlife Resources Commission permitted hunting of deer in Pitt county. A spokesman for the commission stated that the deer stock in Pitt had been largely depleted by over-hunting. The present short hunting season is to permit the deer herds to increase.

Raccoon and opossum: The open season is from October 15 to February 15. The bag limit is one a day, two in possession and 20 in a season.

Rabbits: The open season is from November 28 (Thanksgiving Day) to February 10. The bag limit is five a day, 10 in possession, and 75 in a season.

Ruffed Grouse: The open season is from October 15 to February 15. The bag limit is three a day, six in possession and 50 in a season.

Pheasants (non-native): The open season is from November 28 to February 10. No shooting of pheasants in Pitt county except by special permit.

The open season for trapping fur bearing animals (mink, muskrat, opossum, otter and raccoon) is from November 15 to January 31.

'Welcome', But Unable To Bring Back Accuser

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A spokesman for Gov. Averell Harriman declared today that state agencies would welcome testimony by a Georgia writer who charged that he and other Negroes were mistreated at a camp for migrant farm labor in upstate New York.

But Charles Van Devander, Harriman's press secretary, said he had no idea how funds could be obtained to bring James H. Brunson to New York State.

Van Devander promised that all of Brunson's accusations would be investigated.

Brunson asserted in Augusta, Ga., Wednesday that itinerant workers were beaten, cheated and held in virtual peonage by white bosses at a camp near Hannibal, Oswego County. Yesterday, he offered to testify under oath before Harriman's investigative groups or appear before a grand jury in New York State.

Brunson said he would have to be subpoenaed because he lacked funds for the trip.

Van Devander said he did not believe the agencies conducting the governor's inquiry had the power of subpoena.

The State Labor Department began an investigation of Brunson's charges yesterday but ran into trouble in its first efforts to locate the camp. It said that a name and address he gave for it did not establish immediate, positive identification.

Brunson told the Augusta Chronicle that unmarried Negro women were forced to submit sexually to other Negro workers, that living quarters were rooms 8 by 10 feet shared by four persons regardless of sex and that some Negroes were paid as little as $5.49 for a 72-hour week.

Daniel A. Daley, chief labor department investigator, ordered members of his staff to check camps in Oswego County. Daley said, however, that there was no law setting a minimum pay for farm workers.

Daley said slow workers paid on a piecework basis might earn very little.

Brunson, who identified himself as a writer and a college graduate, said he was lured north by the promises of a Negro work contractor.

Originally, Brunson had said he was an independent member of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. But last night he told the Augusta newspaper he meant by that that he was not a card-carrying member of the NAACP and "even opposed most of its policies."

However, Brunson made complaints similar to those raised by the NAACP. He said that none of the workers was paid for at least a month and that their pay was reduced considerably by having to pay what he termed exorbitant prices for credit purchases at the camp commissary.

Herbert C. Hill, NAACP labor secretary, had asserted earlier that workers in some camps were forced to pay as much as 50 cents a pack for cigarettes and 40 cents for a loaf of bread.

Harriman Wednesday ordered two state committees to conduct the inquiry and report directly to him.

Arab Refugee Solution Fades

WASHINGTON (AP)—Syria's pro-Soviet moves have virtually killed the West's faint hopes of developing a new plan this year for permanent settlement of the nine-year-old Arab refugee problem.

Western diplomats have concluded that consideration of any such plan now would be useless because Syria's leftist leaders, in their present mood, would almost certainly refuse to cooperate.

The plight of some 900,000 refugees, a product of the 1948 Palestine war, is to be discussed at the United Nations General Assembly session in New York next month.

The refugees are being cared for in makeshift emergency camps, mainly in Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

A serious shortage of money already is complicating the problem. Unless more U.N. countries contribute, present funds to operate the camps will run out by January, these officials said.

The decision to postpone a permanent solution to the refugee problem is a disappointment for many State Department officials who view that problem as a major roadblock to Mid-East peace.

Earlier in the year, some officials were fairly optimistic that some new international plan could be worked out to find permanent homes for the refugees. This view was based on a feeling that Jordan, Iraq, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia might adopt a more reasonable attitude.

Informal soundings during the past few months showed, however, that Egyptian President Nasser gave no sign of wanting to solve the problem. Israeli authorities, who have consistently refused to allow the refugees to return, also stood firm in their attitude.

Claim 'Invasion' By Ten Is Ended

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—Costa Rica says the "invasion" of neighboring Nicaragua by about 10 refugee Nicaraguans bent on guerrilla warfare is over.

Costa Rican officials said all but two of the armed insurgents were captured yesterday by a detachment of 75 Costa Rican soldiers rushed to the border. The band had raided an estate in Costa Rica Monday and headed for Nicaragua.

Uniform traffic laws throughout the 48 states are being urged by the American Bar Association.

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

Never one to dodge issues, we have a continued interest in the battle for you—and everybody's—time that now is being waged between radio, TV, the movies—and reading. We were afraid that reading was going to lose out, and for a while, a few years ago, it did, to TV. But now, we're glad to report, statistics from the publishers indicate that more people are doing more reading than ever—so books and magazines will continue to be published in an ever increasing stream.

Which reminds us, speaking of TV, our weekly program over Greenville's station, WNCN-TV, will be starting on Monday, September 9, at 6:15 p.m. Just in time for dinner, and not on the 6th, as previously announced. It will be called "Look-In At Books"—and we will try to steal as little stuff from "Books and Stuff" as possible.

Saturday Review
We are always referring to the Saturday Review in very complimentary terms, since we approve of what it stands for, especially regarding its opposition to the present levels of atomic bomb testing. We mentioned its courageous campaign against this testing a few weeks back, adding that we thought it was too bad that magazines with "small circulations" like the Saturday Review had to carry the ball, and implying that we wished some of the bigger boys would help out.

We have just heard from the publisher of the Saturday Review, Mr. J. R. Comiskey, who took the trouble to write us to let us know that SR, far from being in the small circulation class, prints over 200,000 copies weekly—something we didn't know and were very glad to learn. There are now 2,123 paid subscribers in North Carolina—more than in most southern states, indicating, we hope, that Tarheel culture is climbing ever upward and onward.

Rich Southerner
We learn from his just published biography, "Baruch: My Own Story," that Bernard Baruch was born in South Carolina and has less all his life. His book describes his early years, when he made his big money in the New York Stock Exchange, in company with such other illustrious Southerners as Tom Ryan of Virginia and James B. Duke of N. C. Also described is Baruch's fabulous South Carolina plantation, Hobcaw Barony, covering 17,000 acres and with a driveway 4 1/2 miles long. Who, we wonder, walked out to the street to get the mail every morning?

Futures
Rolling off the presses for your future reading delight, here are some choice items: "The Moon By Night," by Joy Packer, the September Literary Guild selection, about a young and beautiful—what else—nurse who goes to Africa in quest of love and adventure and, of course, finds plenty. . . . "Any Number Can Play," a series of bright and piquant essays on modern life by Clifton Fadiman, which we recommend highly. . . . "The Magic Baton: Toscanini's Life for Music," the first book about the Maestro to appear since his death, by Filippo Sacchi, a detailed account of Toscanini's life, career and musical ideas.

RALLY ROUND THE FLAG, BOYS! By Max Shulman. Garden City, N.Y.: Doubleday & Co., 1957. $3.50.
What with all the disturbing news coming out of Russia about intercontinental projectiles being set off like sparklers on the 4th of July, these are especially missile-conscious days. If you want a little relief from your anxiety about what would happen if one of these missiles should happen to land in the tobacco field next door, read "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!" which is a very comical account of what happens in a respectable Connecticut town when the U.S. Army puts a Nike-launching base in its respectable midst—Nike being the G.I. term for guided missile. In case you didn't know, the author of this novel is Max Shulman, writer of many other comic tales, who lives in a Connec-teut town much like the one he depicts town much like the one he describes. Aside from what happens to Putnam's Landing, Conn., as a result of the Nike invasion, interest in the novel centers on Shulman's truly masterful bits of character delineation of the people who populate his story and the kind of lives they lead.

For example, Harry Bannerman, daily and typical commuter from Putnam's Landing to The City, writes a time table of the events of his usual day. It begins with "6:30 A.M.—Rise, shave, shower, breakfast" and ends with "12:53 A.M.—Animals finish garbage" after which at 1:10, "I sleep." In between, his timetable describes a life which most of you who read this review have a share in.

Then there is Captain Walter Hoxie, head of the Nike detachment—a typical soldier, "not angry all the time—only in peacetime." And there is his lieutenant, Guido di Maggio—no relation to Joe—and his sweetheart, Maggie Larkin, a primary grade teacher who has gone off the deep end on modern psychology, a girl you might meet any day around E.C.C.

Perhaps Shulman's best creation is Cpl. Opie Dalrymple, grand old opry singer from Oklahoma, another soldier in the Nike detachment, a guitar artist to put Elvis to shame, composer of 1000 songs, most of them beginning with "You lied to me once too often." Opie's speech and ways are worth the price of the book alone.

"Rally Round the Flag, Boys!" is not a great book, some of the characters are too lightly drawn, the plot becomes a little weak, and the ending is contrived, to say the least. But it sure is funny.

Levittown Today Back-To-Normal

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (AP) — All is quiet in Dogwood Hollow. A stranger, passing the long rows of neat little ranch style homes wouldn't know this neighborhood from a dozen others clustered along Route 13 some 25 miles northeast of Philadelphia.

He could hardly be aware that this was the scene a fortnight ago of jeering crowds and police lines, vandalism and violence. For more than a week, emotions ran riot after word spread that the first Negro family had bought a home in the Dogwood Hollow section of Levittown.

Things are "back to normal" now. On the surface, at least, there has been a quiet return to normal living.

William and Daisy Myers have been in their new home on Deepgreen Lane for nearly two weeks. He drives to work every day in nearby Trenton, N.J., without incident and Mrs. Myers has been working in the garden, after staying indoors most of the first week. They have frequent callers, both white and Negro. Baby Lydia has been with them since they moved. Two older children, both boys, are still living with friends.

"We are approaching a normal life now," Mrs. Myers said yesterday, expressing her appreciation for the "wonderful show of friendship" from people in Levittown and surrounding communities.

She was referring to the cakes and cookies and little notes of encouragement that have arrived since they moved in, and to the chip-in collection that paid for two broken picture windows.

"All quiet. Back to normal up there," is the police report. But patrol cars still cruise the area and Bristol Twp. Chief William Stewart checks out daily telephone calls from all over sprawling Levittown that "another colored family has moved in."

Another false report—but still the rumors fly.

Civic, church and labor groups in the area have openly backed the Myers family.

James Newell, a Dogwood Hollow resident and head of the Levittown Betterment Committee which seeks to oust the Myers family by any means short of violence, has called a meeting of his committee for tonight.

Nobody is quite certain where the meeting is to be held or what will be discussed but most Dogwood Hollow residents seem agreed that the Myers family is in Levittown to stay.

RECORD GOAL
NEW YORK (AP)—The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., has fixed the 1958 benevolence goal at $35,748,211, highest in the denomination's history. This sum is in addition to amounts collected by local churches.

Racket Probers Heading South

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate racketeers probers said today they will send agents into five Southern states next week for further investigation of charges and counter charges made by textile workers and textile employers.

A statement said investigators for the Senate Rackets Committee would visit North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia and Alabama after submitting progress reports on inquiries made in these states to date.

Involved are allegations of the Textile Workers Union of America and some textile mill operators have aimed at each other.

The union has alleged a corrupt antiunion conspiracy among certain employers, police and politicians. The employers have replied with allegations of misconduct by some union officials.

Kenneth O'Donnell, administrative assistant to the committee, declined to specify exactly where and when investigators Ralph Mills and Harold Ranstadt will go.

Irrigation Will Pay YOU, Too

Here is what a few of the users of Hendrix-Barnhill Irrigation Systems say:

- Dupree Bros., Belvoir
We have used our Hendrix-Barnhill irrigation system three years. It has added $300 per acre or more to our tobacco crop and doubled our cucumber yield. Irrigation is the difference between profit and loss.
- Mark & Allan Stokes, Stokestown
We used an irrigation system that we bought from Hendrix-Barnhill Co. to water tobacco during the 1957 growing season. We believe that it added more than $300 per acre to our crop and more than paid for itself this year.
- Grover Tice, Greenville
In 1951-52, my tobacco crop averaged about $450 per acre. I began irrigating in 1953 with a system purchased from Hendrix-Barnhill Co. In those five years, my tobacco has averaged more than $1000 per acre.
- Sam Malloy & E. B. Whichard, Stokes
We purchased an irrigation system from Hendrix-Barnhill Co., in June 1955. We think the use of it has been very profitable and would hate to try to farm without one.
- John H. Cherry, Stokes
I acquired an irrigation system from Hendrix-Barnhill Co. late in the growing season this year and I believe that the use of it doubled the value of my tobacco crop.
- Paul Dudley, Grifton
I bought an irrigation system from Hendrix-Barnhill Co. this summer. I believe it added $300 an acre to my crop. Since using it one season, I would hate to farm without one.

It will pay YOU to irrigate and it will pay YOU to buy your system from Hendrix-Barnhill Company

- Here are a few of the many reasons:
1. We have the best and easiest handling pipe on the market, made by us right here in Greenville. It is fully GUARANTEED.
 2. We handle Berkeley pumps. There is a Berkeley made to fit any requirement, up to 3000 gallons per minute at any pressure required.
 3. We handle Continental Red Seal Irrigation Engines—not just engines, but engines engineered and built especially for pumping water, with Tropical Radiators and Positive Roto Stellite Valves.
 4. We sell Rain Bird Sprinklers, recognized by the entire industry as the best.
 5. We handle the Webster Risomatic Couplers for riser pipe. Pull out the pipe and the water is shut off automatically.
 6. We have an experienced organization that can and will help plan and engineer your system.
 7. Best of all, we are equipped to furnish you parts and service should you need it in the years ahead. We stock repair parts for everything we sell.

Why not call on one of us, whose names are listed below? It will not obligate you in any way. We believe you will say later that "it was the wisest move I ever made." Many good farmers are saying that very thing, when referring to their HENDRIX-BARNHILL IRRIGATION SYSTEMS.

The Lonely Man

CHAPTER 5

"I can't believe that he murdered his wife," Deborah said angrily. She was as indignant as if they were speaking of an old and trusted friend. "I don't believe a word of it," she emphasized.

Ewan Monteth looked from one woman to the other. Joyce was bristling at Deborah. Assuming an air of dignity that was a prelude to throwing things. Afterwards she would hate herself and humble for days, and he wanted to spare her that. To cause a diversion he walked between the two, mumbling an apology, and crossed to a window.

"I do believe it's stopped raining," he said, doing his best to infuse interest into the trite remark.

Joyce knew her husband fully as well as he knew her. She told him brusquely not to change the subject.

"You don't believe that Garvin murdered his wife," she said icily to Deborah. "And what, may I ask, do you know about it?"

"I've met the man," said Deborah, equally icily. "I've talked to him. I can't believe—"

"He changed a flat tire for you so that makes him a sterling character," Joyce clenched her plump fists. "Oh, you're so stubborn."

She turned to her husband. "She's always been stubborn. Even since she was a child."

"If she's stubborn," said Ewan, with a sigh, "you're dogmatic."

Walking back to the fireplace, he started to fill a blackened briar pipe, spilling crumbs of tobacco down his front.

"Oh, of course! Trust you to put me in the wrong, if anyone is putting you in the wrong, it's yourself. We know that Erica Garvin was murdered—"

"Good of you to concede that much."

"What we don't know," said Ewan, striking a match, "is that Garvin did it."

"Ask anyone," snapped Joyce. "Oh, by all means," said Ewan, puffing on his pipe. "They'll all tell you the same. That Garvin's guilty." Leaning on the mantelpiece, he exhaled a cloud of smoke.

"But — is that proof?"

"Proof," repeated Joyce, as if the word was nasty. "Oh, you—you mathematician!"

"I teach mathematics for a living," said Ewan equably. "You can hardly expect me to agree with you that two and two makes six."

His tone was so amiable, his logic so exasperating that Joyce looked about her for something to throw at him.

Joyce ran to her cousin and threw both arms round her. "I'm a beast. Starting a fight before you're properly in the house. I ought to be given a shaking."

"You're a darling," said Deborah, hugging her, "but you haven't changed a bit."

The Sealyham had been standing, with ears cocked, at the living room door. Now he gave a sharp, commanding yelp and trotted forward to look up imperatively at his mistress. They heard a plaintive wailing from upstairs.

"The baby," said Joyce. "Paddy always hears him first. I believe he thinks it's his baby and he only lets us look after him."

Pressing her cheek against Deborah's for an instant, as a comrade and loving child might do, she hurried out of the room and ran upstairs with the little dog at her heels.

The three cups of coffee Ewan had poured were standing on a side table. Deborah handed one to him and took one for herself.

"Good," she said, after an appreciative sip. "But poor Joyce's will be cold."

"She likes it that way. Which is just as well, since it's the way she usually gets it." Setting his cup on the mantelpiece, Ewan ruffled his thinning yellow hair.

"You know, she's devoted to you, really."

"You don't have to explain Joyce to me. We've been rowing and making up since we were old enough to snatch each other's toys."

"You grew up together?" Ewan ran a masculine eye over her. "I wish we had." A frown clouded Deborah's lovely face. "I was always so happy with Joyce and her parents. It was the only taste of family life I had. But that was only for a week or two, three or four times a year. For the most part I was a very lonely little girl, always being scolded, living with an elderly maiden aunt who was bound and determined to 'do her duty by me.'"

"Sounds grim."

"It was. You see, my parents were only just making ends meet. I was three. Most of my relatives were only just making ends meet and this old aunt volunteered to take me. I suppose it was kind of her; but I grew up thinking that all sentences began with the word 'don't.' She had an attic, with trunks full of old clothes, where I played on rainy days. I used to dress up and pretend to be different people who'd come to call. Some of them were dull and I let them drop. The others came to call every single rainy afternoon until they were more real to me than real people."

"And that's why you became an actress?"

"It sounds so impressive — an actress," said Deborah, setting down her empty cup. "The truth is rather disillusioning. I spent three seasons in repertory, painting scenery, running errands, selling tickets, and occasionally walking on to the stage to say, 'Did you ring, Madam?' I've had two bits in pictures but you could have missed my deathless performance in either of them by stooping to tie your shoe-lace."

"But surely this London play you've been in—the one that just closed. Didn't it run for months?"

"Almost seven," agreed Deborah. "And it was like heaven to get a weekly pay check. But it was a thriller. And I played the corpse. I got stranded every evening before the curtain was up five minutes. The only line they gave me to speak was: 'You!'"

"Well, you're young. You've made a start. Why, I'll be twenty-five next birthday."

"I apologize," said Ewan solemnly. "You're not young at all. You're a broken-down old lady with her future all behind her."

She smiled, but responded in a serious tone. "In the theater, twenty-five can be old. It all depends on what you've accomplished."

She took a sip of coffee and went on. "When you're young, very young, you think you'll be someone by the time you're twenty-five. And then one day, you wake up to the fact that twenty-five is just around the corner and you're no one — no one at all."

"Perhaps round the next corner there's a producer with a nice part for you."

"That dream belongs to eighteen," said Deborah, shaking her head. "And there's another thing. I've never admitted it to anyone before but perhaps I wasn't really meant to be an actress. Perhaps I've fooled myself."

An impression Garvin had made upon her flashed across her mind.

Breakthrough By Unidentified

BALTIMORE (AP) — An unidentified workman is the first man to cross from one end to the other in the 130-million-dollar Baltimore Harbor Tunnel.

For the breakthrough yesterday, Gov. Theodore McKeldin stood on one side of the final barrier and Chairman Robert O. Bonnell of the State Roads Commission waited on the other side.

The governor wielded a torch, with some expert help, and when a panel was cut a grinning, helmeted workman stepped through the opening — just before Bonnell. No one even got his name.

PRE-PREPARED

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A tornado forecast found Civil Defense units here fully prepared. The forecast came during "Operation Alert," a Civil Defense test, with all units in action. There was no tornado.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market widened its initial gains in slow trading early this afternoon. Despite the proximity of the long Labor Day weekend, leading issues rose from fractions to around 2 points or so.

Rails bounced back after touching a new 1957 low yesterday. New York Central advanced a point of better. Santa Fe rose around a point. Illinois Central, Southern Railway and Baltimore & Ohio were up major fractions.

As the aircrafts improved, Martin Co. erased a loss and General Dynamics, aided by a bullish Wall Street report, posted a fractional gain. Douglas Aircraft remained ahead around a point and United Aircraft was up a good fraction. Amerasia rose about 3 points. General American Transportation, also the beneficiary of an encouraging report in financial circles, was another 3-point gainer. Gains of about 2 points or so were posted by Lukens Steel, Du Pont, International Paper and Royal Dutch.

Cities Service drew interest and rose around a point on news it would be the first American oil firm to take official steps to explore for oil in the Sahara Desert.

Non-Suit Motion Frees Man In Shooting Case

A motion for non-suit was allowed in a first-degree murder case heard yesterday in Superior Court.

Judge Walter Bone, presiding over the two weeks-term of court which is due to adjourn today, allowed the motion which freed Willie Gardner, 46-year-old Negro of Route 1, Grimesland. Gardner had been indicted after the August 13 death of Louis Best, a 20-year-old Negro who lived near Grimesland.

Gardner's motion for non-suit was entered by his court-appointed attorney, Milton Williamson, after Solicitor Robert D. Rouse Jr. had completed presentation of state's evidence.

Best was shot in the face after he and Gardner reportedly argued and armed themselves, according to Pitt County Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson. The shooting occurred about a mile east of Grimesland on U.S. 264 during a heavy rainstorm which deluged the area.

Gardner was subsequently held for Grand Jury action and a true bill was returned against him by the Grand Jury last week.

Other judgments returned by the court yesterday included:

John Williams, Negro, Bethel, driving under the influence, six months suspended for 12 months upon payment of $100 fine and costs, and on condition that Williams does not operate a motor vehicle during the probation period, and remains sober and good behavior.

Earl Nichols, no address listed, driving under the influence, mistrial ordered after a jury reported in open court a verdict.

Elmer Clayton Lancaster, Route 2, Greenville, aiding and abetting an escaped prisoner, jury verdict of not guilty.

John Maddox, no address listed, false pretense, nol pros.

Three Cases Of Typhoid Listed For One Family

Three cases of typhoid fever were reported today by Dr. Joseph D. Franzoni, acting director of the Pitt County Health Department.

The cases were reported in three small Negro families, all members of the same family, residing in the 300 block of Reade Street. The children are patients in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Franzoni said that persons living in the block have been directed to report to the Health Department to obtain typhoid immunization shots. The immunizations, he added, are protection of individuals who are residents of the neighborhood. The investigation of health conditions in the neighborhood is continuing, Dr. Franzoni said.

'Rough Sale' For Robersonville

ROBERSONVILLE—The Robersonville Tobacco Market held its biggest sale of the year yesterday.

Sales Supervisor Rufus Armstrong reported this morning that the market sold 368,898 for an average of $49.19. Armstrong stated that a large amount of non-descript kept the average from going above the $50 mark.

"We had what I would consider a rough sale," he said.

Today for the second consecutive day, the Martin County is the total sales volume more than likely to be larger than yesterday.

Armstrong went on to say, "Tips are selling for the high dollar this morning along with good grade leaf."

"All in all, quality seems to be picking up."

Testifies Buyer Protests Was Behind Blacklisting

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—A federal tobacco official testified yesterday that protests from buyers caused three flue-cured leaf varieties that were inferior was a major factor behind the U.S. Department of Agriculture's decision to blacklist those varieties.

Joseph R. Williams, head of the Tobacco Division of the Commodity Stabilization Service, testified that the department's decision was prompted by a fear that United States tobacco growers were hurting world market interests by placing the three varieties on the market.

The hearing concerns an injunction asked by three South Carolina tobacco growers against the government's practice of labeling with a striped ticket the "outlawed" varieties, on which government support prices have been cut in half.

Judge Ashton H. Williams recessed the hearing until next Wednesday when final oral arguments will be heard.

In their complaint three South Carolina leaf growers contended that the blacklisting of Coker 139 and 140 and Dixie Bright 244 constituted a violation of the Federal Administrative Procedures Act.

First Bales Of Cotton To Gin

BETHEL—R. E. James and tenant Charlie Moore of the Big Oak Rr. about a mile from here, brought the first two bales of cotton picked in Pitt County this year to Bethel to be ginned.

The cotton was taken to Bethel Manufacturing Co. gin. Weights of the bales were not available.

James said this year he was going to make a stronger effort than usual to get his cotton to the gin early because the premium for good cotton is larger than it has been for several years.

Two Arrested In Bootleg Hunt

ABC officers arrested two men last night on charges of possession of non-tax paid whiskey for the purpose of sale following two Side St. raids.

Arrested were Joe T. May, 39, and Roy Edward German, 49. May was charged on two separate counts of possession. Both Negroes were listed as residents of 101 S. Side St.

In the first raid ABC officers uncovered a trap in the bottom of a stove and confiscated 19 pints of illicit liquor. The liquor was reportedly found under a concealed trap door.

The search of Joe May's Oyster House also yielded two more pints of "moonshine." Officers said the bottles were found in a trap located in a table.

Shortly after the raid, May was taken to the Greenville Police Department and charged.

Later in the night officers returned to Side St. and raided a nearby building. They were said to have found another sizable quantity of whiskey. The whiskey was discovered in a hole in the ground under a metal cover concealed with dirt. Over the dirt was placed a metal cot and the cot was covered some junk.

Officers arrested German at the scene. He denied possession of the liquor, saying it belonged to May. He was charged with possession, May, in jail at the time of the second raid, was again cited for possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale.

Explode A-Bomb In Nevada Test

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—Scientists detonated an atomic device 750 feet above the Nevada desert today in what was termed a "pure test" for scientific purposes.

It flashed across the sky at 5:41 a.m. with an orange-pink fireball which lasted for only half a dozen seconds.

The shot was scheduled when unfavorable winds forced postponement of a bigger blast, "Smoky," which is to include elaborate military maneuvers.

No maneuvers were conducted in connection with today's shot, code-named "Franklin Prime," which was the 14th in the Atomic Energy Commission's current test series. There were 19 experiments connected with it.

It was detonated from a balloon anchored above the AEC's Yucca Flat test center. The AEC said that it was subnormal in power. Nominal is the equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT—or 20 kilotons.

The flash from the device was clearly seen at Las Vegas, more than 70 miles to the southeast. Newsmen were not allowed to witness the shot from the test site. They watched from an off-site mountain peak.
