Long-Time Employee Retires

MISS ROSA AND CHAIRMAN GARDNER
... At Retirement Ceremony Yesterday.

Miss Exum Won't Report For Work Monday Morning

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Staff Writer

For the first time since the spring of 1918, Miss Rosa Exum isn't planning to report for work Monday morning.

The long-time Pitt County employee retired from her job in the County Auditor's office yesterday. She had planned to slip quietly away from her desk at luncheon, but her friends in the Court House wouldn't let her.

A going-away party, in her honor, was held in the Commissioners' Room shortly before noon, and when it was over "Miss Rosa" knew she would not soon be forgotten.

Even without the party, it would be difficult to forget the woman who has served with six county auditors and held the job herself for a two-year period. B. Alton Gardner, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, told her as much during a brief formal ceremony that kicked off the party.

Gardner, on behalf of other county officials and employees, presented Miss Rosa with a certificate of appreciation, and a check for an extra month's salary. He also made brief comments about her work which has spanned the terms of auditors J. L. Wooten, C. C. Compeze, J. T. Clifton, J. H. Coward, A. T. Powell and H. R. Gray.

The chairman also remembered that Miss Rosa had held the top auditing job herself from March 31, 1947, until August 15, 1949. She took the top job after the death of J. H. Coward and held it until A. T. Powell was hired.

Miss Rosa's plans for retirement are to "keep house, rest and sew" in the Greenville home where she lives with two sisters. She has been offered a couple of jobs to help fill her spare moments, but she isn't decided yet about what to do with them.

Although state retirement records credit her with retirement time since July 1, 1919, Miss Rosa put in nearly a year with the county before then. She recalled yesterday that she went to work for the county in the spring of 1918 after she had quit a teaching job to take care of members of her family who had been struck down during the flu epidemic of that year.

The certificate presented to her by Chairman Gardner read, "This is to certify that the undersigned chairman of the Board of Commis-

Curtain Rings Down On Congress Lawmakers Are Streaming Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's lawmakers were streaming home today to get the verdict on their 1957 labors, and rest up for what probably will be a rough session when they reassemble Jan. 7, 1958.

The first session of the 85th Congress closed down late yesterday with a historic civil rights bill passed but with much of President Eisenhower's program put over until next year.

Final adjournment came at 3:57 p.m. (EDT) in the House and 4:22 p.m. (EDT) in the Senate after the longest legislative session since 1951 during the Korean War.

Eisenhower last week expressed himself as "tremendously disappointed" in the labors of this first congressional session of his second term.

But the weary senators and representatives could look back on an eight-month session that began with enactment of the Eisenhower-Mideast doctrine and was climaxed by passage of the first civil rights bill in more than 80 years.

In their 1958 election year session, they will be faced with a wide variety of major problems, many of them postponed from this year.

These will include tax relief, extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act, natural gas regulation, control of union welfare and pension funds, liberalization of the social security laws, farm relief, and extension of the public housing program.

Democratic leaders disagreed with Eisenhower's expression of disappointment.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said he believed on reflection the President "will find that the record of this Congress was as fine as any he can recall and that it passed more substantial bills than the first session during his first administration.

House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts called it "one of the greatest congresses this country has ever had."

But Senate GOP Leader Knowland of California said the Congress had left untouched much of the Eisenhower program, even though the President won an overwhelming endorsement at the polls last November.

The 1957 session rang with cries of economy and budget-cutting, touched off last January by the President's submission of a record peacetime spending budget of $71,800,000,000.

The economy drive flattered a bit as the session dragged on but then the administration itself took over with some sharp whacks at its own spending plans in the last months. These hit particularly at proposed outlays of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Congress ended up whacking a total of $4,900,000,000 off Eisenhower's appropriations requests, the largest reduction of any year since 1953.

Another theme sounded for the past seven months developed out of the steady upward trend in interest rates and the cost of living.

Democrats bitterly attacked what they called administration tight money policies, saying they contributed to the inflation.

Republicans charged that Democratic remedies would make the inflation worse, and insisted that the continued business boom showed their economic policies generally were sound.

The session was lengthened by the month of Senate debate on the bitterly disputed civil rights bill, plus two weeks of deadlock in the house once the Senate sent the measure back there.

But in the end this bill, in weaker form than the administration desired, was sent on to the White House without the Southern filibuster in the Senate that long has threatened any legislation in this field.

Although there was no organized filibuster, Sen. Thurmond (D-SC) set a new record for extended Senate speeches, speaking for 24 hours and 19 minutes — beginning last Wednesday — against the bill. The speech resulted in several senators pledging a new effort next January to make it easier to limit debate.

Passage of the civil rights measure was regarded as the No. 1 accomplishment of the session, with several lawmakers arguing it was a reasonably strong bill despite the amendments in the Senate.

One of these stripped from the bill a section providing for federal injunctions to enforce a wide variety of civil rights, leaving in the bill this power only for voting rights.

Another of the amendments softened the voting rights section by providing for jury trials in criminal contempt cases growing out of it.

The final deadlock on the bill was broken when leaders of both parties in both branches agreed on a modification of the jury trial amendment so that judges could try even the criminal contempt voting rights cases without juries if only minor punishment were involved.

The other chief provisions left intact in the bill set up a new civil rights division on the Justice Department and established a six-member commission with subpoena powers to make a two-year study of civil rights violations.

Other principal accomplishments of the session:

Passage of the Eisenhower doctrine resolution, authorizing the President to act to prevent Communist domination of any nation

Molotov Sidelined By Soviet

Minor Diplomatic Post Given One-Time Top Foreign Affairs Man

MOSCOW (AP) — V. M. Molotov, who won international prominence as chief of all Soviet diplomats, was named today to the minor diplomatic post of ambassador to Outer Mongolia.

The government announcement of the new job for the former premier and foreign minister was the second assignment of a lesser in the recent Kremlin shakeup by Nikita Khrushchev. The Soviet Communist party chief earlier sent former Premier Georgi Malenkov off to run a power station in remote Kazakhstan, just west of Mongolia.

Molotov's appointment was announced here by the government newspaper Izvestia.

As ambassador to the Mongolian People's Republic, Molotov technically will handle Russian foreign relations with a nation of somewhat more than a million people. A majority of the population are tent-dwelling horsemen, little advanced from the days when Genghis Khan set forth from Mongolia to scourge the civilized world.

At 67, Molotov is reported in poor health. He is one of the few remaining old Bolshevik companions of Stalin. His record includes the premier's post from 1930 to 1941 and foreign minister most of the time from 1939 to 1953.

After Stalin died in 1953, Molotov began to slip from power. He was minister of state control when the July turnover came.

Diplomats in London regarded Molotov's assignment as a political job aimed at keeping him away from Moscow contacts. The job was considered as having little importance since diplomatic relations between Russia and Outer Mongolia are a mere formality.

Bermulas Okay

Senior high school students who are worried about hot weather during the early days of the 1957-1958 school term can relax.

They'll be permitted to wear Bermula shorts to classes if they desire to do so.

Principal O. E. Dowd said today that the administration and faculty of the new Junius H. Rose High School had decided to permit students to wear the knee-length shorts for at least the first month of the term. He emphasized, however, that the permission is on a trial basis.

If the trial period works out satisfactorily, Dowd said, there is a good chance the regulation might be made permanent.

Complain Corn Surplus Dumped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two North Carolina representatives have complained that government-owned corn surpluses are being dumped into the market and hindering prices just as the corn harvest is ready for marketing.

Rep. Cooley (D-NC), who is chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said here yesterday that he was calling upon Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson to stop "this destruction of the farmers' price by dumping government corn."

In a telegram to Benson, Cooley pointed out that the price support law intended for the government not to move government-owned stocks of any commodity onto the market at times that would depress farm marketings.

Meanwhile, a similar appeal came from Rep. Bonner (D-NC). He told Benson some areas in North Carolina, where the corn harvest is under way, prices have dipped as much as 35 to 50 cents per bushel.

Hasty Rejection By Russia Seen Propaganda Blunder

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some well-informed U.S. officials now are saying privately that Russia blundered in hastily turning down the Western proposal this week for a first stage disarmament plan.

That view is related to the belief in official quarters that the disarmament issue now is caught up in the first round of an all-out propaganda fight, with a principal question being that of blame for the breakdown of negotiations at London.

Although the London talks have not actually ended, some officials here believe the point of breakdown has been reached.

Some authorities here believe that even though all major points of the Western package proposition were known to the Russians it would have been much smarter for Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin to receive the plan quietly and promise full consideration.

Officials suggest the possibility that the Russians may be preoccupied at the moment with some propaganda purpose other than developing a basis for an argument over who is to blame for the stalemate situation in London.

One speculation is that with their announcement last Monday of a successful intercontinental

All Wanted Get In 'Last Word'

By ED CREAUGH

WASHINGTON (AP) — Serving in Congress must be something like marriage. You always want the last word but you seldom get it.

Here were members of both houses aching to adjourn yesterday. There was much frenzied squinting at wristwatches, much pre-adjournment dashing for planes and trains. So why not just ring the go-home bell and quit for the year?

Speechmaking, son, speechmaking.

Take Rep. Christopher (D-Mo). He said he couldn't let the session die without 60 seconds worth of remarks about farm problems. Trouble was, the Republicans kept interrupting. So—

Fifteen minutes later he was still talking. He said, among other things, that the Democrats had never been guilty of a giveaway program for farmers. Whoops of merriment went up from the fast-emptying GOP seats.

"Go ahead, laugh," Christopher taunted. The Republicans accepted his invitation.

In the Senate, likewise.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) wanted the soy bean producers of America to know he was sorry he couldn't make their recent convention.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), whose investigations have made him the scourge of racketeers and thieves, looked as if he'd like to speak, too. Somebody had stolen his chair.

Speechmaking honors went, hands down, to another Democrat

Federal, County, City Offices To Observe Holiday

City, county and federal offices will be closed Monday in observance of Labor Day.

The County Commissioners and County Board of Education, usually scheduled to meet on the first Sunday of the month, postponed their meeting one day. Both bodies will meet Tuesday morning.

Postmaster J. Knott Proctor said there will be no service in the local post office Monday. All service windows will be closed and there will be no delivery on either rural or city routes.

Parcel post, special delivery and perishable parcels will be delivered as usual. There is a stamp vending machine in the post office lobby for those who require stamps.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam said both Utilities and city offices are to be closed Monday.

Sell Battle Site For $50,000

SMITHFIELD, N. C. (AP) — The site of a bloody Civil War battle has been purchased for $50,000.

Property on which the battle of Bentonville was fought in Johnston County was transferred to the state yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Dunn. The 51-acre site is located about 18 miles south of here.

Plans Completed For Opening New High School

Plans have been completed for opening Greenville's new Junius H. Rose High School Wednesday, Principal O. E. Dowd said today.

Students assigned to the school are to report to the building at 8:50 Wednesday morning and will go to classrooms at 9:40. Half-day schedules will be maintained Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, with full schedules to go into operation September 9.

When the full schedules go into operation, Dowd said, students will be required to remain on the school grounds throughout the school day. No one will be permitted to go home for lunch, the principal added, since the cafeteria will also open September 9 and will be available for use by students who wish to purchase lunches or who bring them from home.

Included in regulations affecting operation of the school is a traffic system which will require registration of student vehicles.

Dowd said that students who drive automobiles to the schools will be asked to register the car, giving the make, license number and owner. Identification decals will be issued for the cars, he added.

Police Chief S. G. Gibbs and Principal Dowd completed yesterday a survey of parking spaces available for use by students and announced that students and teachers will be permitted to park cars in the parking lot on Elm

Scholarship Fund Given To East Carolina College

East Carolina College has just made up of the superintendent of received from an anonymous source a fund of $14,000, to be used for selected the high school graduate scholarships for seven students who will receive the $500 scholarship this fall. Criteria included the Carolina. Choice of recipients has student's academic standing in the past and need of financial assistance in getting an education.

Those from the seven counties to whom scholarships have been awarded are: Pitt, Janie Stancill; Rollins, Bethel; Beaufort, Frances; Ruth Davis, Patego; Martin, Marie Biggs, Williamston; Cono; Washington, Lois Jacquin; Harrison, Plymouth; Chowan, Leigh Dobson, Edenton; and Pasquotank, Patricia Ann White, Elizabeth City.

Formica Plant Project On Schedule

FARMVILLE — Construction of American Cyanamid Corporation's Formica Division flakeboard plant here is proceeding "on schedule," but engineers on the project are keeping their fingers crossed for continued good weather.

"A break in the weather," according to Cyanamid's resident engineer, Mel Rosch, "would put us in good shape. We are presently working on foundations and foundation walls for the main production building and the warehouse, and if we can get all of our below-ground-level work completed before wet weather sets in we'll be able to proceed without difficulty."

All foundations are in place for the main production building, a structure that will be 420 feet by 100 feet when completed. The warehouse, which will measure 240 feet by 100 feet, is at about the same stage of development.

Foundation walls for the main buildings and warehouse are about one-third complete and should be 100 per cent complete in about two weeks, Rosch said.

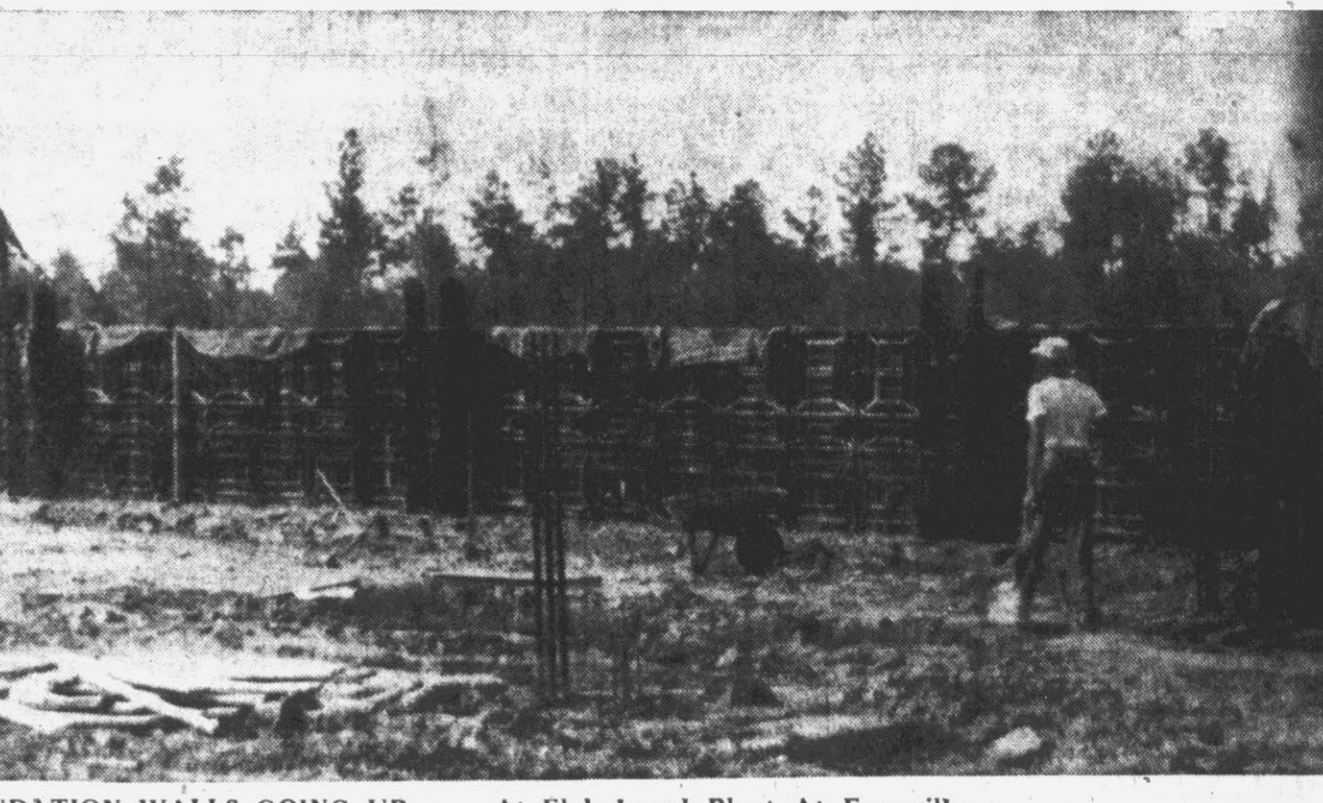

In addition, contractors are pouring culverts for railroad sidings and present plans call for the two sidings (Norfolk-Southern and East Carolina railroads) to be completed by the end of September. The warehouse, which will be used for storage of heavy equipment until the equipment can be put in place in production buildings, is scheduled for completion at that time, also.

Robert H. Plinnix of Gastonia holds the general construction contract for the multi-million dollar project. Rosch said today that during the past week, Plinnix and other contractors have averaged about 50 men per day on the job.

In addition to the general construction work, Carolina Power and Light Company is installing primary power lines and is expected to complete the hook-ups this weekend.

The plant, when completed, is scheduled to produce about 40,000,000 square feet of flakeboard per year. Flakeboard is a high-quality particle board developed by American Cyanamid and its Formica Division.

If the construction schedule is met, the plant will go into operation during the first quarter of 1958, according to Tom Canning, plant manager.

The Lonely Man

CHAPTER 6

This is what I want, thought Deborah, appreciating the restful ease and domestic tranquility of the room. A home of one's own.

But a home is nothing without someone to share it. And there was the snag, Deborah had enjoyed mild flirtations with a number of personable young men but none of them had touched her heart. Most of them were in the theatre, like herself, and a girl is a fool to marry an actor. She starts married life with a rival for every actor is in love with himself.

You ought to have a cat to sit before the fire," she remarked. "Our dog Paddy, won't have one," replied Ewan, choosing a fresh pipe from the rack at his elbow. "We got him a kitten as a present from the people two doors away but he carried it back in his mouth by the scruff of the neck and deposited it on their doorstep."

Paddy came downstairs slowly, looking back from almost every step at his mistress, his alert eyes cautioning her to be careful of the bundle in her arms.

With ill-concealed pride, Joyce put her baby son into Deborah's arms and the women exclaimed over him fondly while Ewan looked on.

Joyce kissed her cousin's cheek and said, "It's going to be grand having you. I'm going to make you stay a long time."

All the while Joyce talked she was appraising Deborah without seeming to do so. She's pale, she thought, but it suits her. It goes with the medieval pageboy cap of dusky hair. If I were an artist I'd go mad trying to capture on canvas the delicate texture of her skin.

An artist. The thought brought a certain artist to mind. Joyce's mouth, normally shaped for laughter, tightened determinedly.

Andrew Garvin was also in Deborah's mind.

"Darlings," she said, trying to speak casually, "let's not get all excited, but I do want to know—"

Joyce was silent and disapproving. Ewan looked up and said, "I wondered when that was coming. It's no use, Joyce. You can talk about a dozen other topics but the same thought is in all our minds. Deborah wants to know about Andrew Garvin. I'd better tell her."

Leaning back thoughtfully, he said, "I've known Andrew since we were boys. We grew up in Garnock and went to school together. I always thought him an odd chap. Moody. A bit difficult to know."

"Andrew is a good artist. At least, I think he is. Don't know much about it but his work appeals to me. It was common knowledge that he didn't make much money as an artist. And then he won some big prize. I don't know the details but a thousand pounds went with it. He went off to London for the presentation and when he came back, a month or so later, he brought Ewan a lovely, lazy, social-climber with red hair, expensive clothes and questionable morals," declared Joyce.

"There you have the verdict of the good ladies of Garnock," said Ewan pleasantly. "The men were of somewhat different opinion."

"Whether it's Mayfair or Garnock," said Joyce, "it isn't the men who decide who's accepted and who isn't. It's their wives. And the women of the County set, the titled and wealthy lot, just wouldn't have her."

"However, that's not the point," said Ewan. "Life in Garnock was pretty dull for Erica with only people like us for company and some of us a bit cool. Goodness knows why she married Andrew in the first place."

"Because she thought he'd win a thousand-pound prize every month," said Joyce.

"Well, that dream didn't last. She found herself with barely enough to live on, snubbed by the people she was used to impress. She made up for it by flirting with every presentable male and running up bills that Andrew couldn't pay."

"A flirtation is a flirtation," said Joyce. "Hers were affairs."

"In a small town like this," said Ewan, "everyone takes notice of what everyone else does, of course. It was all over the district that Erica entertained male callers when her husband was out.

"A few weeks ago she was found, late one afternoon, dead in her bed, beaten on the head with a blunt instrument. The police estimated that Erica was killed about one in the afternoon, although the body was found in pajamas."

"And made up to the nines," added Joyce.

"The police never found the weapon," said Ewan, "although they made tests of every possible object in the house and searched the surrounding fields for weeks. As far as the maid could remember, nothing that conceivably could have been used to kill Erica was missing from the house. The significance of that is that if the murderer brought the weapon in with him, the crime was almost certainly premeditated."

"The first person the police questioned was the husband," said Joyce, "and they've questioned him for hours several times since. Naturally, he hated her, for all she did to him."

Deborah had a fleeting thought: who can say what another being can forgive?

"He claims to have been painting all that day," Joyce continued. "On a hill near the farm. But the farmer's boy says he definitely wasn't there. He was seen on his way home shortly before the murder and even entering the house."

"I'm told they found blood on his jacket. The only mystery is why he isn't under lock and key, awaiting trial. He went off two weeks ago and everyone thought he'd got away for good. I don't see why the police let him walk about free."

Deborah's fingers trembled as she took out a cigarette and put it between her lips. From a pocket she brought a lighter. When she triggered it she realized it was not hers.

"Mr. Garvin's lighter! I must have put it in my pocket by mistake."

"A psychologist," said Ewan teasingly, "would call that proof that you wanted an excuse for seeing him again."

"Well, she isn't going to see him again," said Joyce forcefully. "I'll wrap it up and post it back to him."

Paddy was whining to be let out. Deborah went to open the door for him. She looked up, startled to find a police inspector in uniform standing in the threshold.

"Joyce!" she called.

"I told you we'd let the top floor," said her cousin, "as she came out to the hall. 'This is our tenant, David Gray, Inspector, this is my cousin, Miss Vall.'"

The inspector was a tall, solid man of about thirty, with a serious expression. Nodding briefly, he walked past them and started up the stairs.

"I hear Andrew Garvin is back," said Joyce.

The inspector paused with a hand on the banister.

"We're keeping an eye on him," he replied.

This casual utterance irritated Deborah intensely.

Christian Science Announcements

Man's responsibility for demonstrating divine healing power will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Christ Jesus."

Readings from the King James Version of the Bible will include the account in Luke of Jesus' healing of Peter's mother-in-law (4:39): "And he stood over her, and rebuked the fever; and it left her; and immediately she arose and ministered unto them."

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (25:22-26): "Though demonstrating his control over sin and disease, the great Teacher by no means relieved others from giving the requisite proofs of their own piety. He worked for their guidance, that they might demonstrate this power as he did and understand its divine Principle."

Bradley-Cahoon Marriage Solemnized

Miss Frances Glenn Cahoon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Glenn Cahoon of Greenville, became the bride of Cary Everett Bradley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cary P. Bradley of Sanford, in a private ceremony Friday evening at 8:00. The candlelight ceremony was solemnized before an improvised altar in the home of the bride's father, Dr. H. Glenn Haney. Only members of the two immediate families were present. The living room was decorated with baskets of white gladioli and carnations, and seven branch candelabra held burning tapers. The mantel was centered with an all-white arrangement of carnations in a silver container flanked by blue lace centerpieces holding white candles. Clematis and English Ivy completed the altar arrangements.

Prior to the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Zack Thompson of Sanford, sister of the bridegroom. Selections rendered were "The Evening Star" by Wagner and "Through the Years" by Vincent Youman. During the ceremony Schubert's "Ave Maria" was played softly. The traditional wedding march by Lohengrin was used for the processional.

The Rev. H. G. Haney officiated in the double ring ceremony. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz length dress of ice blue lace over taffeta with a matching cloche hat trimmed with white seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book topped with a cattleya orchid. Mrs. Cahoon wore for her daughter's wedding a silk shantung dress of Dior blue with lighter blue accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a navy blue lace dress and her corsage was of pink carnations. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley left for a trip through the western part of North Carolina. For traveling the bride wore a two piece emerald green ensemble with a black velvet hat and black patent accessories. Her shoulder corsage was a white orchid.

Mrs. Bradley attended the Greenville City Schools and is now a senior at East Carolina College where she is a member of the Eta Chi Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary education fraternity.

Mr. Bradley attended Campbell College and after serving two years in the United States Army, graduated from East Carolina College in Business Education. When the couple return from their wedding trip, Mrs. Bradley will complete her education at East Carolina College and in November the couple will be at home in Sanford.

December Wedding Planned

MISS SHIRLEY ANNE NEWTON—is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Redmond Rennie Newton. She will announce her engagement to Charles Cedric Davis, son of Mrs. George W. Davis of Farmville and the late Mr. Davis. The wedding will take place December 8.

Miss Gaylord, Mr. Batts Vows Spoken; To Live In Greenville

ROPER — The Rev. Edward Spruill officiated at the marriage of Miss Rebecca Dean Gaylord, daughter of Mrs. W. V. Gaylord and the late Mr. Gaylord of Roper, to Leslie Davis Batts of Greenville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Batts of Magnolia, last night at 7 o'clock at St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

Wedding music was furnished by Miss Myrtle Peacock, organist, and Miss Kay Gaylord, soloist.

Given in marriage by her uncle, James C. Smith, the bride had her sister, Miss Diane Gaylord of Roper, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Judy Gaylord of Roper, Miss Jane Ross Bass of Greenville, and Miss Novella White of Norfolk, Va.

Miss Barbara McNeil of Warsaw and Miss Sue Gaylord of Roper were junior bridesmaids.

Garland Brown of Magnolia was best man. Ushers were Maurice Toier of Princeton, Harry Morris of Goldsboro, and Frank Chinn of Wilmington.

The mother of the bride chose a blue nylon dress with a white cymbidium orchid corsage and the bridegroom's aunt wore a pink and white cymbidium orchid corsage.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride.

After a wedding trip to Fontana Village, the couple will make their home at 201 N. Woodlawn Avenue, Greenville.

Mrs. Batts is a senior at East Carolina College where she is majoring in Home Economics.

Mr. Batts has received a B. A. degree from Campbell College and a B. S. degree in science from East Carolina College.

Deb Doings

During this last week before the ball, local debutantes are going around and around on a merry-go-round of parties.

At Raleigh Party
Nelson Blount, Greenville deb, had quite a busy schedule last week. After attending the coffee hour given by Mrs. Hoover Taft here Wednesday morning, she was off to Raleigh and a series of events there.

Thursday a luncheon was given at the Hotel Sir Walter honoring Cleves Daniels—and Nelson was there. Then this popular deb was seen again at a coffee hour in Raleigh yesterday morning honoring Cleves again. And as a Spanish Sororista she was at the colorful Masquerade Ball last night. Where do these debbs get their bountiful energy?

Balloons, Masks
Another face spied among the crowd at the Ball last night was that of former Greenville deb Lou Cheatham. The ballroom ceiling of the Carolina Country Club was overlaid with a canopy of balloons and two facing walls were lined with giant colored paper masks to set the mood for the masked party.

Executive Council Of BSU To Meet

Some of the earliest arrivals of the students of East Carolina College will be the Executive Council of the Baptist Student Union.

This council, composed of approximately 25 Baptist students, will convene at the Baptist Student Center Sunday, September 1, to begin a three day pre-school planning retreat.

Rev. Harold Cole, newly elected Executive State Secretary of the Baptist Student Union Department of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina, will address the group on Monday evening, and on Tuesday morning when he will discuss with the group some of the State wide plans of the B.S.U.

He came to the Baptist Student Union of North Carolina from the First Baptist Church of Auburn, Ala. He was a former State Baptist Student Union Executive Secretary of South Carolina.

Patricia Dunn, president of the local B.S.U., and a rising senior from Raleigh, will preside at the various sessions of the event. The theme, "Putting Faith Into Action," will be developed through discussions and worship periods as well as the speeches.

Emphasis On Inspiration, Planning
It has its emphasis upon inspiration, and planning for an effective ministry to approximately 1200 Baptist students of East Carolina College through the local Baptist churches and at the Baptist Student Center.

A fellowship supper awaits the early arrivals on the lawn of the Center on East Eighth Street and precedes the evening services in the local Baptist churches. Afterwards the group convenes again at the Center to discuss plans for the Baptist Training Union with Mary Cauley of Dover, BTU president of Memorial Baptist Church, presiding. This is followed by a discussion on recreational activities led by Jerry McDaniel of Fayetteville, social vice president.

Rev. Upchurch To Speak
On the following morning the group will hear Rev. Percy Upchurch, local minister, speak on "Faith to Act." Following this, the group will discuss plans proposed by Joseph Pearce of Raleigh, Barbara Purden of Roxobel, and Patricia Jackson of St. Pauls, who are Sunday school presidents at Immanuel Baptist Church.

Along with this discussion, Julia Kendall of Fayetteville, Arnette Turnage of Smithfield, Jane Berryman of Greenville, and Jean Slaughter of Blanch, who are Sunday school presidents at Memorial Baptist Church, will present plans to the group in the remainder of the session, the following chairmen of standing committees will discuss their plans with those present: Margarette Wiggs of Selma, poster chairman, Joan Woody of Roxboro, visual aids, and Wade Parker of Charlotte, extension.

Elizabeth Merritt of Clinton, treasurer, will also present plans.

Hear Council Members' Plans
Following a picnic lunch at the Kiwanis Park on Elm Street, the group will hear the following council members' plans: Nell Ward of Nakina, LISTEN chairman, Carolyn Tripp of Greenville, enrollment vice president, and Jean Hargett of New Bern, corresponding secretary.

Ruth Lassiter, interim director of the Baptist Student Union, will speak on the subject "Why Put Faith Into Action." Miss Lassiter, an East Carolina graduate, replaces Miss Gloria Blanton, who is at Duke University for a year of graduate study.

After the Monday evening address, "A BSU in Action" by Rev. Harold Cole, the group will discuss plans with the following council members: Janet Wall of Smithfield, supper chairman; Silvia Long of Elm City, music chairman; Onda Black, host of the Baptist Student Center; Helen Marshbourne of Spring Hope, hostess of the Center, and Ann Pruden of Roxobel, devotional vice president.

On Tuesday the program includes Rev. Irby Jackson, local minister, who will lead the group in worship. Coleman Gentry, forum leader from Burlington, will discuss with the council his plans for the year. The retreat concludes with the special forum for freshmen and transfers featuring the film "Spirit of BSU" beginning at 5:15 and followed by a dutch supper at the Student Center.

Winterville FHA Meet To Plan Projects

The officers of the Winterville Future Homemakers held their first meeting of the year in the Home Economics cottage Wednesday morning to plan their activities for this school year.

A calendar for the year's activities was made and many suggestions for making money for the main event of the year, the Mother-Daughter banquet, were given. The officers decided that each member is to sell 10 worth of materials to help finance the chapter activities.

An FHA bulletin board was on display. This bulletin board was made by Sandra Hunsucker, president of the Winterville chapter.

The Winterville chapter has adopted the plan of the Pitt County FHA Federation and this year has the following officers: President, Sandra Hunsucker; vice-president, Shirley Churchill; secretary, Elizabeth Carroll; treasurer, Betty Ann Hardy; reporter, Mary Ann Worthington; historian, Joyce Jackson; assistant historians, Joyce Jackson, Joyce Jones; bar-banquetarian, Daphne Little; song leader, Barbara Evans; pianist, Irma Sue Worthington; photographer, Ramona Nobles.

After the meeting the girls went to the home of their adviser, Miss Alva Ray Taylor, for lunch.

Miss Edwards, Rev. Harris Wed

STANTONSBURG — The Stantonburg Methodist Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Nancy Karen Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Edwards of Stantonburg, to the Rev. Robert Gentry Harris Jr. of Ayden, now of Greer's Chapel, Linwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris of Ayden.

The double ring ceremony took place yesterday at 4:00 o'clock with the Rev. Robert Eason officiating.

The church was decorated with palms, ferns, cathedral candles and floor baskets filled with white flowers. Burning tapers and magnolia leaves were used in the windows.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Jack Wilkerson, organist, presented the wedding nuptials, Miss Eva Louise Shelton, violinist, rendered "I Love Thee" and Mr. Wilbur Jackson, soloist of Ayden and High Point College, sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "Whither Thou Goest" was used for the benediction. The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of chantilly lace and nylon tulle over bridal satin. The fitted bodice of chantilly lace with self covered buttons down the back had long fitted sleeves ending in a calla point. The scalloped neckline was embroidered with seed pearls. The bouffant skirt of scalloped chantilly lace panels and panels of tiers of nylon tulle ruffles over bridal satin ended in a short sweep.

Her two tiered finger-tip veil of silk illusion was attached to a shell of chantilly lace and nylon pleated tulle, topped with a beaded crown of seed pearls and sequins. A teardrop pearl accentuated the center of the shell.

She carried a white prayer book covered with white lace, an orchid and lilies-of-the-valley, showered with white satin streamers.

A string of pearls, gift of the bridegroom, was the bride's only ornament.

The maid of honor, Miss Betty Bynum of Stantonburg and Queen's College, cousin of the bride, wore a waltz-length gown of light blue chiffon accented with darker blue chiffon, over taffeta. She had matching mitts, head-dress and shoes. She carried a cascade bouquet of rubum lilies, red roses and matching ribbon.

Junior bridesmaids were Miss Joan Edwards of Stantonburg, sister of the bride, and Miss Andrea Harris of Ayden, sister of the bridegroom. They wore light blue chiffon dresses identical to that of the maid of honor.

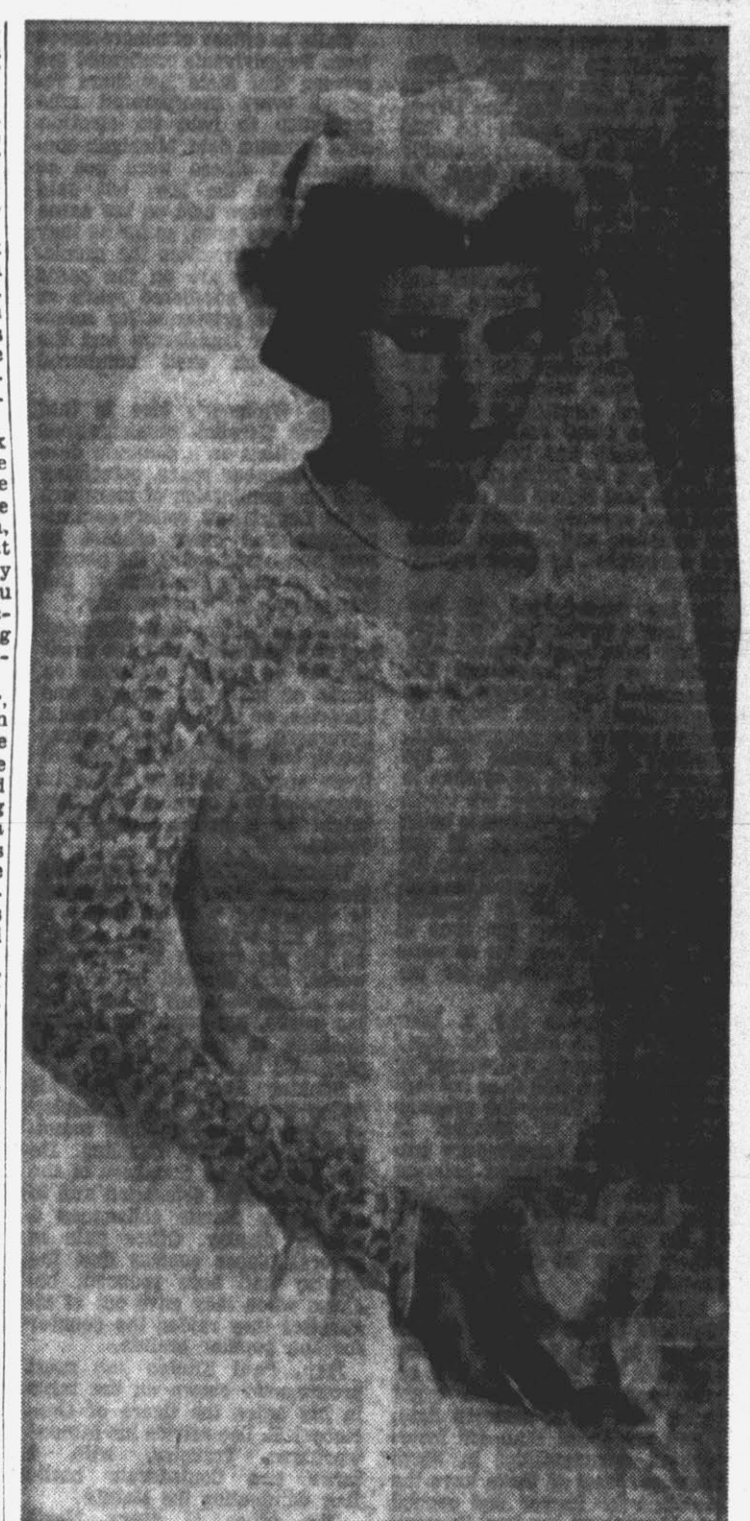

Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Ann Thompson, Miss Linda Whitely, Miss Frances Wooten, Miss Sally Dawson, Miss Mary Darden and Miss Frances Edmundson, all of Stantonburg. Each carried a single long stem red rose.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushers were Kenneth Harris, brother of the bridegroom, Bud Allen, uncle of the bridegroom, of Ayden, Irwin Pope and Don Jenkins of Stantonburg.

The bride's mother wore a rose lace dress over taffeta and matching accessories with an orchid corsage.

The bridegroom's mother chose light blue lace over taffeta with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride chose a beige embroidered cotton satin sheath with dark brown velvet cummerbund and matching jacket trimmed with velvet. She chose a velvet belt, matching lizard shoes and bag and the white orchid from her prayer book to complete her ensemble.

Mrs. Robert Gentry Harris, Jr.

wood. The bridal couple with their parents received in the vestibule, after which they left for their wedding trip. They will be at home at Greer's Chapel, Linwood after September 5.

Rehearsal Party
Following the wedding rehearsal about 65 attended the affair.

Family Life Council To Hold Tenth Annual Conference Here

The Tenth Annual Family Life Conference of the North Carolina Family Life Council will take place at East Carolina College September 22-24.

Harry Allen Overstreet and Bonaro W. Overstreet, nationally known authors, lecturers, and leaders in the fields of human relations and mental health, will appear in a series of discussions to be presented as major attractions of the state-wide meeting.

Plans for the conference began at East Carolina College Thursday. Headed by Mrs. Sam B. Underwood Jr. of Greenville as chairman, a committee from the campus and the city are now making local arrangements for the meeting.

General Sessions, Group Meeting
"Making Family Life Make Sense" will provide the theme of seven general sessions and a number of informal group meetings during the conference. The committee preparing the program includes Dr. Bessie McNeil, director of the East Carolina home economics department, chairman; Dr. John B. Bennett of Brevard College; Mrs. John Overton of Greenville; and the Rev. Marvin Vickwood of Kinston.

The Overstreets will be featured speakers on programs September 23 and 24. A popular lecture team, they will use in their lectures the "Overstreet Colloquy," an informal platform conversation.

"The Mature Mind," Dr. Harry A. Overstreet's most widely read works, was a Book-of-the-Month selection and a national best-seller for more than two years. Mrs. Overstreet is author of "How To Think About Ourselves," "Understanding Fear," and other books.

Together they have written a number of popular works, including "The Mind Alive" and "The Mind Goes Forth." Their syndicated column, "Making Life Make Sense," appears weekly in some 25 papers throughout the nation.

Ethel Nash of Chapel Hill, president of the North Carolina Family Life Council; Edwin Preston of the Department of Public Welfare, Raleigh, president-elect; and Corinne G. English, family life specialist in Extension, Raleigh, second vice-president, will preside at major sessions during the conference.

Guest Editorial

Our College, Today And Tomorrow

(Editor's note: This, the second in a series of guest editorials, has been written by Dr. JOHN D. MESSICK, President of East Carolina College.)

It is always a privilege to be given an opportunity to say anything in behalf of East Carolina College and I am, therefore, happy to accept the invitation of the Daily Reflector to share in its editorial page.

The growth of the college has been phenomenal since 1946 when there were 1056 enrolled on the campus and 826 included in both terms of summer school, with no extension work given at that time.

In 1956-57, enrollment on the campus had increased to 3693 in the regular year, with 2811 in the two summer sessions and 1081 in extension.

The physical plant has been expanded considerably during the same period; $5,842,879.00 has been spent for permanent improvements. In addition to that, $1,425,250.00 has been borrowed from the Federal Government with which to build a dormitory to house 512 men; bids for this dormitory which will include a cafeteria and recreation rooms were opened on August 21.

The 1957 General Assembly appropriated $1,475,250 with which to construct a classroom building, an annex to the music building, an annex to the administration building, another cafeteria wing, and an amount to make it possible to increase the facilities of the power plant and for expansion for the departments of science, industrial arts, home economics and others. Architects are now working on these plans. The 1957 General Assembly also set up a Revolving Fund, $750,000 of which has been set aside for the college to borrow to build a dormitory for 300 women.

Advocate Of An Earlier Primary

By LYNN NISBET

PRIMARIES — Rep. Alton Lennon of the seventh district thinks the North Carolina Democratic primary should be held much later in the year, probably in August instead of May. He points out that the real fall campaign for the general election doesn't begin until after the national conventions have nominated candidates for President and Vice President in years when they are to be elected, and in "off years" the practice is about the same. Therefore the need for a wide spread between primary and general election is not obvious. The other reason for an early primary has been argued as the need for primary re-arrangements to heal before the election. That need appears in only a very few counties, and Lennon thinks it is outweighed by other considerations.

He has participated in two hotly fought primaries. One during his tenure as Senator and another against incumbent Representative Erial Carlyle in his congressional district. These primaries require the congressman, whether in the senate or the House, to spend a lot of time in North Carolina during the weeks when national legislation is being shaped in Washington. If the member of Congress stays on the job at the national capital his constituents say he is ignoring them. If he spends the time in the state, he misses out on some of the major planning for national legislation.

Another reason for a later primary is the effect the early nomination has on a Governor or a congressman who does not succeed himself. Since the primary is tantamount to election in North Carolina, the situation facing outgoing governors between June and January is pathetic. They have all the responsibility of the office, but most of its honors go to the incoming chief executive.

MUNICIPAL — Rep. Basil Whitener of the eleventh district concurs in Rep. Lennon's opinion and adds the suggestion that all town and city elections ought to be held on a common date. There are more than 400 incorporated municipalities in North Carolina. Most of them have the elections for mayor and council or aldermen on the first Tuesday in May. But numerous special charter provisions fix election dates from early April to late June. In most communities the newly elected officials take over immediately. In some they assume office on July 1, traditional beginning of the fiscal year.

Calls to offices of congressmen from Pennsylvania confirmed the opinion that State law there requires every incorporated municipality to hold its election on a common date. Michigan congressional offices were not so sure about the law, but said elections were held on the same day in every town, so far as they knew. In both states the municipal elections are on the same date in odd numbered years as the regular primaries for members of the Legislature and the Congress on even numbered years.

Rep. Whitener's idea is that if North Carolina municipalities had elections on a common date in odd numbered years, coinciding with the nomination of members of the Legislature, county commissioners and other officers in even numbered years, the people would be more conscious of the importance of "election day."

Neither Lennon nor Whitener had any comment about the great number of special elections on bonds or taxes for schools and libraries, or for sale of alcoholic beverages. From other sources comes the idea that if more of these special elections could be channeled to a common date there might be a better turn out of voters.

DECORATIONS — Rep. Carl Durham's office in Washington is decorated with an array of pipes and walking sticks collected on his travels all over the world, and donated by friends. He seldom uses any of the walking sticks, but often has serious decision to make as to which pipe will be smoked next.

Senator Kerr Scott has his office decorated with a display of every tobacco product manufactured in North Carolina. He has given to all members of the North Carolina delegation and to all of his Senate colleagues a similar display. Office gals in several places confess that the display had been reduced, because when they gave out of cigarettes they raided the counter for the popular brands.

Rep. Paul Kitchin has most prominently shown on the table in his office the figure of Gen. Robert E. Lee astride his famous warhorse, Traveler, with a large size Confederate battle flag dominating the statue. The office of every North Carolina congressman displays pictures of Tarheel scenes, mostly of mountains or coastal areas. And in every office is a picture of the North Carolina capitol building, universally recognized as a symbol of the stability of the State.

This, just as the men's dormitory, which will be built with Federal funds, would have to be amortized by student rentals. The Board of Trustees has not yet decided that it will accept this loan.

While the student body and physical plant have been enlarging, the number and quality of faculty members have kept pace. The report from the Governor's Commission on Higher Education gives East Carolina as having the largest percentage of faculty members with the doctor's degree of any of the state-supported colleges or the University. Thirty-six additional faculty members and two librarians are being added to the staff this fall. These include a Director of Graduate Studies and a Director of Public Relations and Foundations.

The operational cost of the college last year was $2,450,151.82, with $1,033,025.00 being appropriated by the State and $1,417,126.82 coming from students.

While everything else has been increasing, so have student fees. These amount to $108.00 a quarter for a dormitory student and $65.00 for a day student. It costs an out-of-state student an additional $61.00 a quarter. In addition to these fees, it is estimated that books cost about $15.00 a quarter and board, which is cafeteria style, anywhere from $75.00 to $150.00 a quarter, depending on appetite! Therefore, the total cost to an in-state student who lives on campus could vary from an estimated $600.00 to $800.00 a year.

The curriculum at the college is very broad. One may select a major in primary or elementary education, or in art, business education, English, French or Spanish, geography, health and physical education, home economics, industrial arts, library science, mathematics, music, social studies and science; and may secure the master's degree in most of these areas. Pre-medical, pre-dental, pre-legal, and other basic courses are offered.

The geography department ranks with Michigan State as having the third greatest number of students enrolled on any college or university in the country.

What of the future? An agency from New York, employed by the Budget Bureau, recently made a study of the potential growth of East Carolina College which stated that by 1965 there should be approximately 5,800 students enrolled. A minimum estimated to care for that many students beyond existing facilities and money already appropriated would be approximately $12,350,000. This would make possible an additional classroom building, expansion of the library, the Student Union, an additional health and physical education building including a gymnasium, dormitories to take care of the expected 2,000 students above present enrollment, and an additional power plant, improvement of grounds and athletic fields. More land, of course, would be necessary for expansion of the campus, and $500,000 is needed to purchase books.

A school of nursing, of agriculture, and of technical training are necessities, but the decision concerning them rests with State Board of Higher Education.

'Core' Of U.S. Is Edging West

By ELMER ROESSNER

The core of the United States today is an irregular area running from Portland, Me., to Richmond, Va. In a quarter-moon section of the country is a quarter of its population, about a third of its industry and almost half of its wealth.

The greatest concentration is in the part between Bridgeport and Baltimore. That part has probably fewer deer and more smokestacks than any comparable section of the U.S.A.

A friend moved out of a community near the Delaware River. "Damnedest target area in the world," he explained.

All this may change. In another quarter of a century the core of America may be on the western side of the Rockies. Denver may be the political capital — a compromise site between the East and West.

THE WESTWARD TIDE — The western states, especially the three Pacific Coast states, have shown consistent growth in industry and population in recent years.

There is a belief prevalent that the Southwest — Texas, New Mexico and Arizona — have been the fastest growing areas since the end of the war. This is probably a yarn put in circulation by Texans.

The Southwest has grown remarkably. New industries have spread like Jimson weed. The population of these three states has risen from 7,446,000 according to the 1940 census, to 10,558,000, according to the July 1, 1957, population estimates by the Census Bureau.

But in that same period, the population of California alone increased from 10,586,000 to 12,961,000. "I can see those letters from Texans now. They'll say, "One Texan is worth two Californians any day, you rat!"

GROWTH TO COME — The greatest growth of the West may lie ahead. A new Census study indicates that the population of the three Pacific States will be between 23,799,000 and 28,072,000 by 1970.

The population of the three Southwestern States will be between 13,292,000 and 13,680,000 at that time. All projections put the population of Texas under 12,000,000 in 1970. (I can see the second wave of letters from Texans. "Sure, son," they'll say, "we'll just be moving over to take in California too.")

A confirming sidelight: F. W. Dodge Corp. reports that California was the leading state in construction contracts during the first half of this year; that with $2.2 billion in contracts it accounted for 13 per cent of the national total. New York was second and Illinois third.

The Pacific Coast, with 28,000,000 population will not, of course, be the most populous section of the country by 1970. But if the rate of growth continues, some time after that year the western slope will be the core.

WHAT TO DO — Under these circumstances, long-range planning for almost any business should include consideration of branches, sales offices and assembly plants in the West — operations which eventually may become the headquarters.

The purchase of land in the West — if it can be obtained at reasonable prices, a doubtful condition — ought to be the perfect hedge against future inflation. The rise in population, construction and business makes purchases odds-on to increase in value.

There is one reservation to the Western boom: Many areas are approaching limits of their water resources. Even the Northwest, with its abundant fresh water, has met regional shortages. Southern California has had recurring problems. Dams and irrigation systems may eventually solve the shortages. Meanwhile, for companies and persons planning to trek westward, no long look ahead should be without a sidelong glance at the water supply in the favored region.

TOSSES BARBED DART INTO MOTIVATION RESEARCH — In criticizing those who think psychological themes can make people buy advertised products against their better judgment, Allyn Schilling, National Distillers vice president, told a recent business meeting:

"I have too much respect for the human mind to believe that human beings can be taught to react like a seal to a piece of fish."

"The director of a museum in the Adirondack Mountains of New York State wants to buy or borrow a mountain-top. He plans to slice off the tip of an Adirondack peak for exhibit in the museum so that frustrated mountaineers can get a kick out of looking at the genuine article."

It's a novel idea all right, but may not prove popular. Looking at a mountain-top under these circumstances is something akin to viewing Cape Cod sand in an hour-glass. The thrill just isn't there. —New Bedford Standard-Times.

Miss H. Will Help You

Dear Miss Heartbleed:

Twenty years ago I married a man who was nice and had a dog. Since then, we have had no children so he has insisted on buying more dogs. I love him very much and don't want to lose him but the dogs are ruining my furniture. What should I do?

Mrs. B. W. of BlackJack Dear Mrs. B.W.: You are evidently a very intelligent person and love your husband very much.

Dear Miss Heartbleed: I am very much in love with a kindly old man who is 59 years old. I am only 13, but I know my love is real. He says he loves me and will gladly divorce his wife and marry me if I say so. I am helpless to a million dollar tobacco fortune but I know he doesn't want my money. What should I do?

Prudence of Ballards Crossroads Dear Prudence: I know your love is real. However, I would think seriously about it.

Dear Miss Heartbleed: My husband says it is sinful to watch television on Sunday mornings during church hour. But he forces me to watch and then tells me I'm going to hell. What should I do?

Evelyn Eyestrain of Froglevel Dear Evelyn: The wages of sin is death. Close your eyes.

Dear Miss Heartbleed:

Me and my boyfriend have been going steady for 31 years and we love each other very much, but he says he can't marry me yet because he has ingrowing toenails which keep him from holding a job. What should we do?

Miss K.T. of Beargrass Dear Miss K.T.: I know you must love each other very much. Perhaps your boyfriend's toenail trouble is all in his head. Make him get a haircut.

Other Editors Saying--- Future Of A. And E.C.

(Goldsboro News-Argus) Will the Southern Railway System acquire the Atlantic and North Carolina railway? Or will the Southern find that its acquisition of a third interest in the Atlantic and East Carolina Railway is sufficient for its purposes?

These questions should be answered by the end of this year. Eastern North Carolina business men for some months now have sought the answers with eagerness. Governor Hodges has been quoted as saying that he had written the Southern on several occasions to urge that the line from Goldsboro to the port city of Morehead City be made a part of the Southern.

The reader may understand more quickly if explanations are made. The Atlantic and North Carolina railway is the corporation which owns the 96-mile line. The state has a majority interest of the stock of this corporation. The Atlantic and East Carolina Railway is the corporation which leases and operates the line.

Many months ago the Southern petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval to acquire the line. The Southern also sought to acquire the 35-mile government-built line from Havelock to Jacksonville. This line connects with the A. and E. C. at Havelock. It joins the

Eisenhower Partly Responsible

By RAY TUCKER WASHINGTON — "Who was really responsible," inquires J.L. of Bridgeport, Conn., "for the legislative record set by this Congress which led President Eisenhower to say that he was 'deeply disappointed'?"

Answer: There is enough blame for everybody, including President Eisenhower. If he had tried to exercise his influence more than he did, he would have obtained many more of the measures which he asked Congress to pass. Besides assuming a passive attitude, he wiggled and wobbled on such questions as the budget, foreign aid, military appropriations, civil rights and the school construction bill.

President CAN SWAY CONGRESS MEMBERS WITH SOFT OR HARSH WORDS. Nor is it sufficient for the President to explain that he does not believe in browbeating the legislative branch, as his immediate predecessors tried to do. The man in the White House can sway members of the House and Senate with soft as well as harsh methods. Ike made small effort in that direction, although he did intervene on behalf of bills less important than those I have mentioned.

Another factor is that he did not have the solid Republican membership behind him. If he had backed him more generally, he would have obtained almost all of his program. But numerous conservative members thought that many parts of it were too "New Dealish." They trimmed and tailored their votes to suit their constituents rather than the White House.

SACKCLOTH UPON THE FLESH — When the people of Samaria under the pressures of siege were reduced to starvation and some were practicing cannibalism, Joram, their king, tore his royal garments in grief as he beheld the misery and degradation of his people. Through the torn garments of the grief-stricken king, the people saw that he was wearing a mantle of sackcloth within upon his flesh. It was the badge of grief, the mourning garment always worn by those who were experiencing sorrow. Unbeknown to his people, Joram was wearing it beneath his royal garment as a secret sign to his own heart of his grief over the plight of his people.

election, it was incumbent upon the Rayburn-Johnson leadership to advance a positive program of their own. They could not continue to "me too" Eisenhower, even though he has stolen most of their liberal ammunition and thunder.

"Almost every newspaper reports," writes T.K. of Danville, Va., "says that the battle over civil rights was really a bid for the colored vote. Is that true? And which Party do you think will benefit most from the outcome?"

Answer: Yes, it is true. There were, of course, perhaps a score of Senators who were sincere in their belief that the Negroes vote should be safeguarded by Federal law and intervention. Many wanted to extend this protection to other rights, as they saw it, such as segregated schools and public places.

STRUGGLE MAINLY FOR COLORED VOTE But in the main, it was a struggle for the extremely important colored bloc of voters, which F.D.R. shifted from the Abraham Lincoln homestead

Laying Hens Helped

By ROBERT D. LEWIS TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Humpty-Dumpty was born several years too soon.

Had he lived in this frenetic age of tranquilizers and antibiotics, he would never have needed all the King's horses and men to try and put him back together again.

Reason: He probably would not have broken in his great fall.

Tranquilizers and antibiotics, widely used by humans, have now been fed to livestock and poultry. As a result, scientists at the Charles Pfizer Co. agricultural experiment farm near Terre Haute in western Indiana have improved on one of nature's most perfect packages — the egg shell.

The results are astonishing—20 per cent tougher egg shells which means less breakage from the nest to the pantry, and more money for the farmer. Economists believe it may also mean cheaper eggs for the consumer's frying pan.

But the antibiotic doesn't work on the egg alone, it also makes happier hens. Happy hens lay more eggs, which again means more money for the farmer and cheaper eggs for the consumer.

Pfizer scientists admit their work still is in its early stages, but testimonials obtained by colleges support the claim that the antibiotics makes happier hens.

One poultry man, Oscar Wallin of Pequot Lakes, Minn., said antibiotics made his hens "so happy they sang all night." He also reported his flock doubled its egg production within 10 days.

In one recent telephone check of 72 farmers in the midwest, 50 said antibiotics increased egg production. 19 said it did not, and three did not know. Other flock owners have reported increases of as much as 50 per cent within two weeks after the drug was used.

Pfizer scientists say they believe hens given an antibiotic could be "coaxed" into laying about 25 per cent more eggs on the average. This would mean an extra case of eggs each month from a flock of 100 hens. They also estimate the drug has already added about 1 1/2 million dollars to the farmers' incomes.

The antibiotic has also been fed to livestock. Again the results were astonishing. Steers and lambs gained weight faster, and their feed more efficiently, and graded out better when slaughtered.

And when a tranquilizer was added to the antibiotic, the results were even better.

The scientists believe that drugs may be part of the answer to the diminishing farm population, enabling fewer farmers to produce more and better products for the American dining table.

Strength For Today

Noble souls always wear sackcloth within upon their flesh, as they behold human suffering. Florence Nightingale's agony over the suffering of British soldiers in the Crimean War led her to undertake a crusade of compassion, to which England today points with pride. Jane Addams' solicitude for the poor in a great city urged her to pour out her life in a self-forgetting service. Albert Schweitzer, one of the most gifted of men, lives in the jungle of Africa, bereft of everything and everybody he loves, that he may heal the poor black man for whom his heart bleeds.

Like Joram, King of Israel, such people wear sackcloth within upon their flesh.

Reassigned To Local Pastorate

The Rev. C. C. Cribb, minister of the First Pentecostal Holiness Church of Greenville since September 1, 1935, has been re-assigned the pastorate of the local congregation for another year. He will be the pastor at both Sunday morning and evening services this week to begin his third year as a Greenville pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Cribb was elected to the Board of Examiners of the North Carolina Conference at the 1937 annual conference in Falcon which ended last Sunday evening. Last year he served as president of the Greenville Ministerial Association. During his pastorate in this city, the congregation has increased in membership and an effective program of religious education has been developed.

School Athletic Needs Cited For Exchangeites

Needs of the athletic program at the Greenville Junior School and Junius H. Rose High School were cited at the Exchange Club last night where the program was devoted to the activities of the High School Booster Club.

Badger Johnson of the Booster Club introduced Coaches Boley Farley and Milton Reece. Johnson presented in a mimeograph form a statement from Boosters Club President Ford McGowan showing the tentative budget of the athletic program for the High Schools of $12,000 for 6 sports. Johnson then went on to explain the various items in the budget and the part being played by the Boosters Club. He called attention to the rounded program of athletics with teams playing football, basketball, track, baseball, wrestling, and golf. Boley Farley spoke and reminded the club that in most towns where there is college football, as is the case in Greenville, an extra push is needed to boost the program of high school athletics. He told of the increased coaching staff and the benefits which will result because in the past the staff has been so limited there was no opportunity to work with the younger boys; that now the program can begin to pick up and great benefits should result in future years.

Milton Reece, coaching the line at Junius H. Rose High School, told the Exchangeites 50 to 55 football suits had been issued to boys from the ninth through the twelfth grades. He mentioned there were 5 or 6 lettermen returning, but stated that "no position on the team is 'nailed down' yet." He brought out there were only 8 seniors on the squad which makes for a young team. He thought the team had developed very fast this year and discussed some of the players calling the club's attention to the need for more tackles and urged the members to let them know of boys that would make good tackles. Reece also brought out the possibility of a very good Junior Varsity this year. In closing his remarks he said the team showed a great deal of interest and were eager to go; that the boys had been asking daily when they would have some scrimmage. A question was asked as to what could be done by those desiring to secure Boosters Club membership but have received the tickets from the High School office, and whether or not the High School tickets should be returned? In such cases, it was brought out, the patron should send in his check for $10.00 and ask that his name be transferred from the High School mailing list to the Boosters Club mailing list. The additional cost of Boosters Club membership would be $4.00 over and above the season ticket price, but the need for the enlargement of the athletic program was cited as reason for the difference in the price of the tickets and the membership. J. H. Worthington was a guest at the meeting.

Assignments Due During Assembly

Students who have been assigned to the Junior High School for the 1937-1938 school year will be assigned to homes during an assembly Wednesday morning. The assembly, which will launch the new term, will begin at 8:40 a. m. in the Junior High School auditorium. Students who are expected to be present are seventh and eighth grade pupils in the city's white school system. Principal Robert Youngblood said today the school will operate on a half-day schedule through next Friday. Full schedules will begin September 9.

Executive Board of W.S.C.S. The Executive Board of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church will meet Monday, September 2, at 10 a. m. in the church kitchen. The Kitchen Committee and all Local Church Activities Chairmen are asked to meet with the Executive Board at this time as Mr. Dean of Raleigh will be present and explain the use of the new kitchen equipment. This is an important meeting and every member is expected to be present.

Regain Contact With Iwo Jima

TOKYO (P)—Radio contact was re-established tonight with the American outpost of Iwo Jima, battered by 100-mile-an-hour winds of Typhoon Bess after a silence of more than 23 hours. Army officials here said they have no idea of the extent of damage, if any, on the tiny island. They said they did not believe anyone was injured. A spokesman said radio contact was broken last night as part of normal procedure to button down the island in preparation for the brunt of the storm.

To Give Sermon

Dr. Cecil W. Robbins, president of Louisiana College, Louisburg, North Carolina, will speak at Saint James Methodist Church, Sunday for the 11:00 Worship Service. His sermon topic will be "Stir Up God's Gift."

State Expects Savings In New Policy On Car-Selling

RALEIGH (P)—The state expects to save about $200,000 a year under a new policy of selling its cars after they have been used 18 months. The new policy, adopted yesterday by Gov. Hodges and the Advisory Budget Commission, covers all state-owned passenger cars except those used by the highway patrol. In the past the cars have been sold to the highest bidder after they had been driven 50,000 miles or were three years old. "We feel we can save $200,000 a year by this change," said State Budget Officer D. S. Coltrane. Meanwhile, the commission approved a project calling for the construction of a $2,822,000 gymnasium at North Carolina State College. Half of the money for the project was appropriated by the 1937 Legislature. The other half is expected to come from the state's revolving fund, Coltrane said. The Legislature appropriated nearly seven million dollars to set up a fund to make loans to state-supported educational institutions for self-liquidating projects.

The commission discussed but took no action on the interest rate to be charged for the loans. Coltrane said the commission felt that the institutions should borrow the money from the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency instead of the state "in view of the favorable rates being offered at present by the federal agency." In other actions, the commission recommended that $33,000 be allocated from the contingency and emergency fund for additional faculty at A&T College in Greensboro. Approved four salary increases. The pay of Dr. J. S. Dorton, state fair manager, was boosted from $8,118 to $8,838 annually. The presidents of Fayetteville State Teachers College and Elizabeth City State Teachers College were given pay increases of $250—from $8,500 to $8,750. The salary of Dr. Eugene Brown, director of public assistance for the State Welfare Department, was set at $9,207, compared with $8,991 he has been receiving.

Christian Church Announcements

Dr. H. G. Haney, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church, has returned from his vacation and will preach Sunday morning on the theme "Our Most Sacred Heritage." The special music for the morning will be a solo by Mrs. H. L. Carter, organist-director. The board of officers of the church will meet Tuesday night, September 2, at 7:30 with R. S. Moye, chairman, presiding. Several important items for consideration will be presented, such as the Protestant Kindergarten, distinctive colored bulletins for the year, an evangelistic meeting this fall etc. Regular meetings of several members interested in the organization of a new church have been held this summer. The group has invited Dr. Ross Allen, State Secretary of Christian Churches of North Carolina, to be present on Sunday evening, September 8, at 7:30 in the church. Since many people have been out of the city this summer and have not been in touch with this movement, they are now reminded of this meeting which will be held on Sunday evening, September 8. The Circles of the Christian Women's Fellowship will meet as follows: No. 1, with Mrs. T. E. Hooker, 3:30 p. m., September 2. No. 2, with Mrs. Paul Ricks, 3:30 p. m., September 9. Rising Demand For Birds Ahead

By EVERETTE PARKER
Reflector Staff Writer

ROBERSONVILLE—The wheels of progress have been meshed in this industry-minded Martin County town.

The meshing came with the Austin Farms, Inc. poultry processing plant that began operating here on Monday.

With the processing plant's operation came a general feeling of optimism among the townspeople who previously looked to the future with a sort of pessimism.

A short time ago it was not uncommon to hear farmers talking nothing but tobacco and a wounded farm income. Now anywhere along Main Street or in local stores, the general conversation usually centers around the raising of chickens.

Less than a year ago, poultry growing on an individual large scale was nonexistent around here. A recent census revealed that over 300,000 chickens are being grown within a five-mile radius of Robersonville.

Today chicken raising is fast becoming a visible means of income for the farmer in Martin County. The skeptical farmer who only wanted to grow what his father and forefathers grew before him has been shown that money can be made in the poultry-growing business.

Already farmers have grown 5,000 birds and marketed the batch for almost unheard of profits.

The word is spreading and construction of poultry houses can be seen along any highway or rural dirt road leading from Robersonville. Where a frown on the farmer's face was, a smile now exists.

Since construction on the Robersonville plant began, three feed mills have been built and expansion has taken place in still another. A chicken hatchery has been built and will be ready for use within a short period of time.

New families have moved to town.

It is common knowledge that poultry raising and poultry processing is fast becoming big business in eastern North Carolina.

Austin Williams, Manager of the plant, states, "I am very enthusiastic about the prospects of poultry raising in this area. In time I feel this section could well be the leading poultry area in North Carolina."

Many leading authorities feel that the plant, only one of its kind east of Raleigh, has made Robersonville a trading center for eastern poultry raisers.

At the present time the plant is working approximately 90 employees and expects to employ even more as the need arises.

Through the first four days this week, the plant processed over 32,000 birds. Capacity for the machines is 7,200 chickens an hour or 120 a minute.

Operating at capacity, the plant could process in the neighborhood of 195 million a year. Williams stated this unbelievable quantity of poultry could be sold on the present market for slightly over 147 million dollars.

The manager of Austin Farms, Inc. has proven in a short period of time that he has an exceptional knowledge of chicken processing. He has been in the business since first opening a small plant in Wendell over 15 years ago.

Robersonville's plant can process more birds in one day than Williams' small plant in Wendell could in a week.

Actual construction of the $400,000 plant, which began in January has not been completed. Only minor repairs and some contract work remain. According to Williams this is scheduled to be finished in the next two or three weeks.

If a stranger came to this Martin County town and wanted to indulge in conversation with almost any one he would only have to say one word.

Spahn Hurls Milwaukee To 9-5 Win Over Cincinnati

Could Be His Eighth Season With 20 Wins

Mantle Climbs In Batting Race With 3-4

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Warren Spahn, an old hand at 36, and Jack Sanford, a rookie at 23, are a step closer to completing a pair of proud pitching projects now that they've bagged the National League lead with 17 victories apiece.

Spahn, Milwaukee's steady southpaw who claimed the 220th success of a 13-year career with a 9-5 decision at Cincinnati last night, can become the second major league lefty ever to win 20 or more eight times.

And Sanford, a righthander who spent seven years in the minors before coming up with Philadelphia, is within range of becoming the first rookie to win 20 in the NL since 1947 after beating Pittsburgh 4-3.

Spahn won his seventh in a row, but needed relief help as the Braves retained their seven-game lead. Brooklyn held on with a 10-0 job on the New York Giants behind Don Drysdale's three-hitter. Third-place St. Louis stayed 7½ back with a 2-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs, who had won six straight from the Cards.

In the American League, the hitting race between leader Ted Williams of Boston and New York's Mickey Mantle narrowed to one point.

Williams, marking his 39th birthday, was 1-for-5, losing two points for a .377 average as the Red Sox ripped Baltimore 8-1. Mantle, playing despite bum legs, was 3-for-4 and took the home run lead with his 34th while picking up three points and closing to .376 as the Yankees lost to last-place Washington 4-2.

The Yankees retained their 6½-game edge over second-place Chicago, however, as Kansas City tripped the White Sox and Bob (No-Hit) Keegan 3-1.

Cleveland closed within four percentage points of fourth-place Detroit with a 6-5, 10-inning victory over the Tigers in the other AL game.

Spahn, already the leading 20-game winner among NL southpaws, can match the modern (1900) high set by Lefty Grove in the American League with the old Philadelphia Athletics and Red Sox. Eddie Plank, another onetime A's great, is the only other left-hander to have won 20 in seven seasons.

Spahn had the help of four home runs, by Eddie Mathews, Carl Sawatski, Frank Torre and Wes Covington, in beating the Redlegs for the seventh straight time (six this year), but left in the seventh after giving up eight of Cincinnati's nine hits. Don McMahon, Bob Trowbridge and Taylor Phillips worked in relief before the Redlegs, now 2-15 against the Braves, finally gave in with the bases loaded in the ninth.

Sanford, who has lost five while Spahn has lost eight, beat the Pirates with an eight-hitter in the pursuit of a rookie-year 20 wins, last achieved by Larry Jansen of the New York Giants. The Phils completed their scoring in three innings, with Gran Hamner driving in two runs, then left it to Sanford.

Drysdale, the Dodgers' top winner, allowed only singles and runs in the last 13 in order while winning his 14th and fourth shut-out. The Dodgers had 12 hits, including homers by Gil Hodges, Charlie Neal and Carl Furillo. Neal's three-run shot sealed an 11th defeat for Giant ace Ruben Gomez in the second.

Southpaw Wilmer Mizell won his sixth for the Cards, fanning 11 that sent the Cubs to a league strikeout record with 812. They had set the old mark with 806 in 1955. (The major league mark was set by Washington last year with 877). Rookie Moe Drabowsky struck out nine, but lost his 13th on two singles and Del Ennis' sacrifice fly in the ninth.

Williams, moved to tears by a pre-game birthday party by fans in Baltimore, got his hit on his last at bat—an infield single on a close play. The Red Sox scored five in the sixth, two on Jackie Jensen's home run, as Bob Porterfield won his fourth with a six-hitter.

Festive Mood At Darlington Now

U.S. Brass Glad Kramer Isn't Lurking About

By ED CORRIGAN
FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—The menacing shadow of Jack Kramer—the fiercest checkbook-is-not-around every corner of the current national tennis championships which went into the second session of a 10-day stand at the West Side Tennis Club today.

Kramer isn't even on the scene and for that the U.S. tennis brass is thankful. No, sir, no worries about any of their golden boys turning professional this year. Kramer has his tour all lined up.

But there are other worries. Sometime between now and next Saturday, they have to decide on a Davis Cup team to take down to Australia for the challenge round in December—if the U.S. reaches the challenge round.

In recent years, there hasn't been too much trouble—Tony Trabert, Ham Richardson, Herbie Flam, Vic Seixas. The names usually were the same.

This time around, though, the story will be different. The big wigs will make their annual appeal to Dick Savitt to play on the cup team. He, no doubt will give them his usual answer: "No."

Then there is Budge Patty, the 33-year-old blaster who spends most of his time in Paris these days and has ignored the pleadings of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn., to play the summer circuit here—until this year.

Patty, they say, would like to make the trip down under, but he wants to be assured that he'll play and not go along as a second-stringer.

Then 43-year-old Gardner Mulloy, a top player for many years, thinks he and Patty are the only pair capable of licking Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser.

Richardson? Well, even if he is picked, he says he'll refuse to go to Australia without his wife and the USLTA won't pay wives' expenses. Seixas, for whom this is old stuff, hasn't had much to say on the subject yet. But he will. He's an outspoken fellow.

Patty's Handicap Is No Handicap

Patty Ryan, 12-year-old freckle-faced bundle of energy is the only girl Little Leaguer in Columbus, Ohio, and she plays with one hand. Born without a left hand, Patty pitches, plays first base and bats 300 for her team. "Her adjustment has been perfect," Patty's mother says. (AP Wirephoto).

US Amateur Golfers Lead Britain By One Point In Walker Play

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—America's worried amateur golf aces, leading by only one point going into the final round, wondered today whether the British slipped a slick-talking diplomat into their Walker Cup entourage.

The team that was supposed to be here just for experience—the widely advertised opinion of Britain's well wishers — found itself today in the strongest mid-match position the British squad has occupied in the last 25 years.

This was the judgement of captain Gerald Micklem of Great Britain after his spunky young squad won one Scotch foursome match, tied another and dropped a pair at drenched Minnikahda course.

The 2-1 lead was considerably less than the Americans were supposed to carry into today's eight singles matches. The odds, however, were still heavily with the United States despite a growing suspicion that the British were laying in ambush by talking about the future.

The American casualties in the opening round were Arnold Blum of Macon, Ga., and balding Chuck Kocsis of Detroit, who fell 1-up to British Amateur champion Reid Jack and Douglas Sewell, the working class member of the British team.

The British got a no-point tie out of the match between their Alec Shepperson and Guy Wolstenholme and Tennesseans Hillman Robbins and Mason Rudolph.

But Billy Joe Patton of Morgantown, N.C., teamed with 21-year-old Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex., for a stagger-home 2-and-1 victory over Britain's Joe Carr and Dr. Frank Deighton, while Dr. Frank (Bud) Taylor of Pomona, Calif., and Bill Campbell of Huntington, W.Va., downed Philip Scratton and 20-year-old Alan Bussell, 4-and-3.

Favored Ones Still In Action

GREENSBORO (AP)—The men's singles of the North Carolina closed tennis tournament were down to the quarterfinals here today with the three top seeded players still going strong.

The pairings today sent No. 1 seeded Sam Daniel of Leaksville against Jack Warmath of Greensboro; No. 2 seeded Del Sylvia of Raleigh against Allen Stand of Greensboro; No. 3 seeded Herb Browne of Statesville against Dr. Fred West of Raleigh; and Ed Hudgins of Greensboro against Tom Holder of Charlotte.

Holder, staged yesterday's big upset with a 6-2, 5-7, 6-3 victory over Lacy Keesler of Charlotte, the No. 4 seeded player.

West Virginia, Virginia Tech Rated The Best

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—On the Southern Conference football calendar for 1957, there's a big red circle around the date: Sept. 28. The season will scarcely have begun, but on that afternoon at Morgantown, W.Va., the conference championship might well be decided in a game between West Virginia and Virginia Tech.

Barring the emergence of a darkhorse, these two teams seem likely to lord it over the 10-college conference from start to finish. Each has ambitions for national ranking. Each, too, has problems.

West Virginia, conference champion the last four years and winner of 21 consecutive league games, has impressive experience and its deepest line strength since Coach Art Lewis came to Morgantown in 1950. Ten seniors and one junior form the starting team. In guards Chuck Howley and Joe Nicely, a pair of mobile 220-pounders, the Mountaineers boast a pair of All-America candidates in the three-deep line.

But the matter of moving the ball gives Lewis pause. Outside fullback Larry Krutko, whose 594 yards led the conference rushers last fall, the West Virginia backfield hasn't a star of proven stature. Lewis has hope that Mickey Trimarki will develop into a terror at quarterback, but halfbacks are in exceedingly short supply.

At Virginia Tech, Coach Frank Moseley has fast-moving backs to spare. And such is the depth at quarterback that not even All-Conference choice Jimmy Lugar is sure of his job. But in the interior line—at tackle, at guard, perhaps at center—depth must be supplied by newcomers.

"We'll have a fine first-string line, but there are not enough of them for us to beat the big boys," says Moseley. His showpiece in the line is a 6-2 sophomore, end Carroll Dale, and 6-4 tackle Jim Burks.

George Washington could be the team to challenge West Virginia and Virginia Tech for the title if such a team turns up. Coach Bo Sherman's Colonials lost only one game (to West Virginia) last season and went to the Sun Bowl. But graduation robbed them of reserves and Sherman is having to rebuild his second unit virtually from scratch.

"We may be all right by the middle of the season," says Sherman—and it's in mid-season, Oct. 18, that GW plays West Virginia. Sherman is high on his first team, whose stars are southpaw quarterback Ray Looney and halfback Mike Somers.

The conference's most improved teams look like William and Mary and Virginia Military Institute.

W&M, under new Coach Mill Drever, should be a vast improvement over the 1956 team that finished with nine defeats and a tie. The Indians have lots of weight up front, headed by center Bill Rush, and a great halfback in Charlie Sidwell.

VMI, 3-6-1 last year when freshmen bore the brunt of the heavy work, will have another potent attack built around passer Duke Johnston, fullback Sam Woolwine and a covey of speedy halfbacks. A year of experience, better line depth and a lighter schedule favor the Keydets.

Richmond, The Citadel, Davidson and Furman expect to have improved teams but it would be a surprise if any of the four made much headway in challenging West Virginia and Virginia Tech.

Arriving Here This Sunday

LARRY HOWELL and the rest of his East Carolina football teammates will arrive in Greenville Sunday afternoon to begin season drills on Monday. Howell is the 6-5, 245-pound tackle from Monroe who is expected to pace ECC line play.

New Coaches To Make Debuts In Sept. 7 Contest

The Greenville-Goldsboro high school football game of September 7 will be a closely-watched one because it will mark the debut of two new coaches in this area.

Fans, school officials, and neighboring opponents will have their eyes open that Friday night to find out what those two new coaches will mean to them. Both Greenville's Northeastern Conference foes and Goldsboro's Eastern AAA Conference enemies will be especially interested.

Of course, the outcome of that game—or any of the other games this season—will not depend solely on the new coaches. Entering into the picture will be such factors as team depth, experience, weight, speed, and the schedule.

And it seems that, at this point, both new coaches are making their debut with plenty of troubles on that score.

Greenville's Green Greenville's Bud Phillips, who took over the Phantom reins when Guy Lewis resigned, will present a team September 7 that is relatively green, very light, and quite young.

Though a total of almost 50 boys have reported for 1957 drills, words from the Phantom cap has it that depth is a major problem for Phillips.

A glance at Phillips' probable starting lineup shows that eight lettermen will hold positions—but only five of those were regulars last season.

An unofficial listing of the probable line's weights shows that the club's forward wall will average a shade less than 150 pounds—which is extremely light for a high school team.

Quake Weak Reports from Goldsboro tell that Coach W. D. McRoy Jr. is having a fitful of trouble along those same lines.

Since the 1957 practices began, he has lost three of his last year's regulars, Norris Jeffrey, Bill Garfield, and Colton Carraway, all three lettermen linemen, will be missing.

That leaves McRoy with only five lettermen on the squad—and three of those will be working at new positions this fall.

In the backfield, Jerry Ellis will return at quarterback and Jimmy Eaton will be back at his fullback slot. Benny Ward, 175, Walter Wiggins, 185, and Bill Mason, 170, will be returning lettermen.

Further word from Goldsboro says that the 1957 club will be one of their lightest in years and one of the most inexperienced. The Quake line will average 171 pounds.

Murray Says ACC Clubs Could End Up First Or Last

RALEIGH (AP)—Football Coach Bill Murray of Duke says "there are eight strong teams" in the Atlantic Coast Conference this season "and all could finish anywhere from first to last."

Murray told the Raleigh Kiwanis Club yesterday that "any prediction now of the outcome would be little more than 'gossip.'"

Murray joined Coaches Jim Tatum of North Carolina, Earle Edwards of North Carolina State and Athletic Director Bill Gibson of Wake Forest in predicting that the ACC race will be the best balanced in its history.

Noting that Duke has been picked as the top ACC team, Murray said, "If we live up to our pre-season ranking, Duke will be most fortunate."

Tatum indicated the Tar Heels will be improved this year. He said, "We're not as deep at tackle as I would like with the heavy schedule we have. We have three tacklers who can play big league football—we need more."

Edwards said "We have some good players, but I don't know if we have enough."

Gibson said the Wake Forest coaches "are not too pessimistic," but he added "We expect big things from Preacher Parker." A New Bern sophomore, young Parker was outstanding in winter practice and may take over the quarterback spot.

UNC Will Have Enthusiasm

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The University of North Carolina's football team will start the 1957 season with plenty of enthusiasm behind it.

More than 600 people gathered in the Tin Can here last night to give the squad the biggest pre-season welcome in history.

The 68-man squad, shy four players, was welcomed by Chancellor William Aycock before sitting down to a barbecue chicken dinner.

The players received physicals today, posed for photographers this afternoon, and begin their practice Monday morning.

Coach Jim Tatum observed, "If our football team has the spirit you people have shown here tonight, we will do all right."

The squad last year lost eight of 10 games and then had the two victories taken away because of an ineligible player.

Myers Wins 30-Lap Stock Race
RANDLEMAN, N.C. (AP)—Bobby Myers of Winston-Salem took the lead on the ninth lap and went on to win a 30-lap feature for sportsmen stock cars here last night.
Second went to Perk Brown of Leaksville followed by Ned Jarrett of Newton, Carl Burris of Leaksville and Bobby Waddell of North Wilkesboro.

Boxers Want To Fight Again
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Ralph Dupas and Johnny Bussio, two ranking lightweights, pounded each other savagely for 10 rounds last night and each said at the finish he wanted to fight again—Dupas for the championship and Bussio to get revenge for losing a close decision.
Dupas, native of New Orleans, ranks near the top among lightweights and wants a crack at the crown now won by Joe Brown, a fellow townsman.
Bussio, a tough New Yorker, apparently was as strong at the finish as he was when he stepped into the ring. He stood dejectedly when the decision was announced and handlers immediately announced he wanted to fight Dupas again—in Madison Square Garden.

Umpire A Casualty
Umpire Vin Smith, felled by a foul tip while calling balls and strikes in Brooklyn-Chicago game in Ebbets Field, is treated in Dodger dressing room, by Dr. Andres Rodriguez, Dodger physician as pitcher Sandy Koufax looks on. Smith fell when struck by foul off bat of Gil Hodges of Brooklyn. (AP Wirephoto).

DICK TRACY

CRIMESTOPPERS TEXTBOOK
REMOVE ALL ACCUMULATED RUBBISH. IT CONSTITUTES A FIRE HAZARD AND INVITES FIREBUGS AND ARSONISTS.

I BROUGHT THE GUN HERE IN THE TRUNK OF A RENTED CAR—WRAPPED IN A BLANKET.
I HELD IT AGAINST THE POST LIKE THIS.

AT THE BEE FARM THE MIDGETS WIFE RE-ENACTS THE CRIME.
NOW SHOW US HOW YOU GOT THE AUNT.

AND YOU BRACED THE GUN AGAINST THIS CLOTHESLINE POST EACH TIME YOU FIRED—RIGHT?
YES, I WASN'T STRONG ENOUGH TO ABSORB THE GUN'S RECOIL.

THE CLIPSO BOYS ABUSED MY HUSBAND—THEY UNDERPAID HIM—AND THEN THEY KILLED HIM! THAT'S WHY I DID IT.

AS FOR THE AUNT—WELL, SHE CAME OUT OF THE HOUSE AND SAW ME—I HAD TO DO IT.

I THINK THAT WRAPS IT UP, BOYS. SEE THAT THE D. A. GETS COPIES OF THOSE PICTURES.

HOW DOES IT FEEL, MR. PLENTY, TO BE RELIEVED OF THE PRESSURE?
DO YOU INTEND TO GO BACK TO SEE CARDUEY AGAIN, MR. PLENTY?

CARDUEY IS BEING HELD IN HER HOME TOWN JAIL FOR FIRING THAT SHOT AT MR. TRACY. I DON'T KNOW WHAT I'LL DO ABOUT HER.

MEANWHILE, AT HEADQUARTERS AN ENTIRELY DIFFERENT SUBJECT IS BEING DISCUSSED.
YES, JUNIOR, I NEVER SAW YOU FELLOWS LOOK SO SHARP.
THANKS, SAM? WE GUYS ARE DRESSING RIGHT THESE DAYS.

YOU MEAN NO MORE MONKEY SUITS OF TIGHT PANTS, SWEAT SHIRTS AND MOTORCYCLE BOOTS?
NO, SIR! THEY'RE A LAUGH—INFANT STUFF. THE REGULAR GUYS ARE DRESSING UP.

WE FIGURE IF YOU'RE GOING TO BE A JERK, YOU DRESS LIKE A JERK. AS FOR US—WE'RE MEN—AND WE WANT TO DRESS LIKE MEN.

FELLOWS, YOU'VE GOT SOMETHING THERE! I NOTICE IN MANY OF OUR CRIMINAL CASES THE BOYS INVOLVED ARE SLOPPILY DRESSED.

SURE, I REMEMBER HOW FLATTOP, JR. AND JOE PERIOD DRESSED.
WHERE'S TRACY? WE WANTED TO TELL HIM ABOUT IT.
HE'S WINDING UP THE CLIPSO BROTHERS' CASE. HE'LL BE HERE IN A FEW MINUTES. BOY! THIS COULD SPREAD!

RUSTY RILEY

by FRANK GODWIN

IT HAS BEEN A PLEASURE AND A DISTINCTLY NOVEL EXPERIENCE HAVING YOU AND YOUR COMPANY HERE...

MR. ANSON ASKED ME TO GIVE YOU THIS CHECK, MADE OUT TO YOUR FAVORITE CHARITY. BUT THERE'S ONE OTHER MATTER...

...WE THINK RUSTY AND HIS HORSE ARE A FIND FOR PICTURES... WE'D LIKE TO TAKE HIM TO HOLLYWOOD WITH US!

WELL, I'D HATE TO LOSE HIM... BUT IT MUST BE HIS DECISION!

A LITTLE LATER... YOU MEAN YOU'RE TURNING DOWN MY OFFER TO PUT YOU IN PICTURES?

CONSIDER IT CAREFULLY, RUSTY... YOU MIGHT BECOME A STAR LIKE SONNY DAY.

YES, SIR... THAT'S WHAT I'M AFRAID OF!

GEE, RUSTY, IT'S SWEET OF YOU TO FORGIVE HELEN AND ME FOR THE SILLY WAY WE ACTED!

FORGET IT, PATTY... LET'S GO FOR A RIDE!

RUSTY! LOOK!

JEEPERS! I'M SURE GOIN' TO ENTER MORNING STAR IN THAT!

COMING.

ANOTHER NOTE FROM BUBBLES! OH, THAT POOR GIRL! SHE'S SO MADLY IN LOVE WITH ME!

GOSH! I WISH I UNDERSTOOD WOMEN LIKE YOU DO, KILLER.

IT'S EASY, KID. JUST LEARN A FEW SIMPLE RULES.

FIRST OF ALL, A GIRL LIKES A REAL HONEST-TO-GOODNESS MAN! THAT'S WHY I WEAR ELEVATOR SHOES AND EXTRA PADDING IN MY SHOULDERS.

BRING HER GIFTS... CANDY!

SHOW HER THE TOWN... THE BRIGHT LIGHTS!

PSYCHOLOGICALLY, GIRLS ARE ALL LOOKING FOR A "FATHER SUBSTITUTE" — SO TREAT 'EM LIKE A FATHER!

DANGEROUS DAN MCGREW

THEN ROMANCE HER--- READ HER POETRY!

A GIRL NAMED BUBBLES IS HERE IN HER CONVERTIBLE, KILLER.

LET HER WAIT A WHILE

GOSH!

KILLER! H'LO, BUBBLES

GEE! I WISH I UNDERSTOOD GIRLS LIKE HE DOES!

Magicians Hold Convention In Michigan Town

NILES, Mich. (AP) — By now a blonde suspended in air or a brunette seemingly sliced in half on Main Street probably wouldn't cause a ripple of excitement in this southwestern Michigan city of 13,000.

flight amateur magicians. His firm is the host in Niles. Almost 300 modern sorcerers have gathered for the week long show. Opening sessions were devoted strictly to the trade. The public got in the act yesterday when D'Letta, an escape artist, was shackled, placed in a sealed wooden box and lowered into the murky St. Joseph River. Naturally he escaped.

The ranks also include the "semi-pros," the experts who have other occupations but whose talents are in demand for special appearances. Among these are Dr. "U-No-

Me" Walters, a Lafayette, Ind., dentist who helps relieve the pain of drilling for cavities in young patients with sleight of hand. Another is Charles Toepke of San Francisco, who traveled for 20 years as a beer salesman and credits a well-filled bag of tricks with much of his success. At least a dozen magicians at the convention are ordained ministers. The Rev. Kenneth Turner of Joplin, Mo., says he uses a trick handkerchief in the pulpit to demonstrate the conversion from black sin to white salvation.

Bonded Fortune In City's Assets

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The city of Grand Rapids found itself the owner of a Czarist Russian government bond when it took over the assets of an old cemetery in 1949. City officials figured it was worthless. Then Treasurer Simon J. DeBoer heard the U. S. government was liquidating American assets of the pre-revolution Russian regime. DeBoer filed a claim and received $1,000, the face value of the bond. He also hopes to collect $981 interest.

Tourists Keep Consulates Busy

ROME (AP)—Visit the American consulate in Rome, Paris, or London and you'll see people with problems—tourists in trouble. Some 250,000 American tourists are expected to move through Rome this year. Their problems keep eight officers plus secretaries working full time at the U.S. consulate.

A dozen other U.S. posts around Europe have similar setups. A young man came into confess that he had "overextended" himself.

"I was sure there would be a check waiting for me in Rome from dad," said the youth.

The consulate gave him a small emergency loan.

Sometimes the tourist may need a couple of hundred dollars to pay for air or sea passage.

"The money I planned to use for my passage home was stolen from me, and I have no one in the states who can send me more," a young girl informed the consulate.

Helping tourists through financial troubles or replacing lost passports represents only a part of the consulate job.

Over a recent two-day period in Rome three American tourists died. The consulate arranged to have their bodies prepared for shipment back to the United States. Six times in the last year American visitors to Rome have been stricken with mental disorders. The consulate arranged to get them home.

Felt Obligation To Nat'l Debt

LAMAR, Colo. (AP)—Uncle Sam's huge national debt worried Arthur E. Lamper, who died recently at 72.

His will, filed for probate yesterday, gives the government all his U.S. investment bonds.

The retired American Sugar Co. executive said in his will: "I feel a moral obligation for my share of the debt of the United States and this bequest of bonds will in some measure take care of my share of the debt as well as my mother's."

The bequest was estimated at between $5,000 and $10,000.

Great volcanic eruptions throw so much fine dust into the air that "spectacular" sunsets follow for months afterwards.

New Styling Looms In New 'Hit Parade'

By WILLIAM GLOVER
 NEW YORK (AP)—That hardy airwave perennial, "Your Hit Parade," is ready to unveil a new look—and some new sound.

"I think you'll find a lot of subtle change," grins Don Walker, the new band leader, in preview summary.

The show's major talent overhaul unveils Sept. 7 in color telecast over the NBC network at 10:30 p.m. EDT.

Four new spotlight singers and a new slant on the music are the chief elements of the show's biggest shakeup since the program hit TV in 1950. Prior to that it rolled up 15 years on radio.

"Previously there was a reworking of the format every three years or so," explains one of the show's staff. "The TV model, however, hasn't changed until now."

The basic aim, Walker points out, is to get the wrong notion, "is still the same. We'll be playing the top tunes."

Walker, 46, a veteran composer and arranger involved in 76 Broadway shows in 22 years, discloses, however, that the band will no longer play the seven most popular ditties in imitation of the best-selling record version.

"Records have been getting loaded with more and more gimmicks," he says, "and it's impossible to imitate them in a studio."

"The kids who play the tunes spot any goofs, and the rest of the public is apt to find the arrangements over-special."

As they take off on the Labor Day weekend that traditionally marks the end of the summer siesta, businessmen also have been afraid many industries, maybe that the fall season will see industry and trade starting to upgrade again.

They base this largely on the record high personal incomes and consumer spending that after all are their biggest props. These have continued unaffected by the summer slowdown in industrial output.

Some are wondering if the announcement of the Russian intercontinental missile may change the direction of defense spending in this country. In recent weeks the government has ordered a cut-back in the rate, trying to hold the federal debt within its legal limit. A change in the arms race could affect many industries.

It is this new uncertainty will muddle the industrial scene after Labor Day, at least one other uncertainty is in its final days. Congress will soon adjourn and business can tote up the effects of congressional deeds of omission and commission.

Prices and wages continue to rise and probably will keep on going so after Labor Day. It's a momentum that dies down slowly—the contrary it tends to feed on itself.

For many factory workers higher wage rates are being offset by the drop in hours worked or by the decline in factory jobs.

Hopes for more jobs after Labor Day are built around the slowly rising steel output rate from its July low, on hopes for increased auto production after the upcoming slowdown for model changes, and the perhaps wishful thinking, apart from developments that the consumers will flock back to the stores this fall.

Hopes for a pickup in home building due to the new mortgage terms seem to have been put off till next spring.

At summer's end (for business purposes) the Department of Commerce notes that "business activity has shown little change since midyear, apart from developments of a seasonal nature." It cites sustained high levels of employment and volume of total output, together with continuing gradual rises in prices and incomes.

The post Labor Day period will test in particular three recent trends that businessmen have been watching closely: inventory buildup, a drop in new orders, and the slightly longer time customers take to pay their bills.

Expect Re-Elect Hammarskjold

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Security Council will meet next week to recommend another five-year term for Dag Hammarskjold as U.N. secretary general.

A unanimous vote is expected both in the 11-nation Council and later in the 81-nation General Assembly.

Hammarskjold's term does not end until next April 10, but delegates have agreed they should act as early as possible to assure him of five more years in the top U.N. post.

A former Swedish minister of state, he was elected secretary general after a stormy period during which Soviet bloc delegates refused to recognize his predecessor, Trygve Lie.

Despite his active role in some of the big political controversies, he has received very little personal criticism. The only notable instance was Israel's allegation that some of his actions were pro-Egyptian in the Middle East crisis last fall.

Hammarskjold is 52. His job pays $40,000 a year plus allowances of $15,000—all tax free. But Hammarskjold does not have to work for a living. He lives simply, for one thing, and he has a private income.

Sister Mary Aquinas averaged 325 miles an hour in her T33 jet trainer flight with Air Force Maj. Chester A. Biedul, Detroit. She took over the controls part of the time from Madison, Wis., to McGuire. A science teacher at Holy Family College, Manitowoc, Wis., she came to New Jersey to give a lecture.

"Ever since I heard they invented a jet engine, I've wanted to ride in this kind of plane," said Sister Mary, who hails from Zanesville, Ohio. "If I ever felt good about being a science teacher, it was while I was up there close to God as I could get and knowing it was an application of some of the scientific principles we teach that made such a flight possible."

Nun's Jet Flight Feels N. Korean Threat Now Less

SEATTLE (AP)—Gen. George H. Decker, commander of U.S. and U.N. forces in Korea, said today the danger of Communist aggression from North Korea "has likely lessened."

Decker attributed the lessened Red threat to the recent move to Seoul of his command and the U.N. command decision to nullify the armistice ban on introduction of modern weapons into Korea.

Estimated 420 To Die Of Holiday Traffic Mishaps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Millions of Americans make plans today for the summer's last weekend holiday and the nation's highways were expected to be jammed with motorists through Labor Day.

The National Safety Council has estimated that 420 persons will be killed in traffic accidents during the 78-hour holiday period from 6 p.m. (local time) today to midnight Monday.

The traffic toll for last year's three-day Labor Day holiday was 435, one of the highest in several years. In addition, there were 4 drownings, and 72 deaths in miscellaneous accidents for an overall total of 506.

The Council urged motorists to take extra care to meet the increased holiday hazards. During this year's 4-day Memorial Day holiday and 4-day Independence Day holiday traffic deaths were no greater than during a non-holiday period of similar length, the council said. The tolls were 412 for the Memorial Day period and 426 for the Independence Day period.

'Solidarity House' Is Pride And Joy Of UAW

DETROIT (AP)—"And this house, which is high, shall be an astonishment to everyone that passeth by it."

The United Auto Workers Union proudly quotes this verse from Chronicles II to describe Solidarity House, its international headquarters on the Detroit River.

Built six years ago at a cost of 1 1/2 million dollars, Solidarity House is an ultra-modern structure of glass, aluminum, steel, brick and stone. An addition, costing 1 1/2 million is nearing completion.

Solidarity House symbolizes the growth of the 1 1/2 million-member union.

It is only a beginning UAW President Walter P. Reuther is planning to develop Solidarity House into the "labor university of the future."

The UAW is big business. The union has a net worth of about 35 million dollars and liquid assets of more than 26 million. It meets a $300,000 monthly payroll.

The building houses more than 50 departments and councils. There are departments for education, research, political action, citizenship, retired workers.

From a radio studio broadcasts are made twice a day, timed to reach workers going to and returning from work. The UAW broadcasts from 44 stations in cities where the union has a sizable membership.

A research department and a library provide union leaders information needed for speeches or contract negotiations. On the UAW staff are economists and lawyers.

Solidarity House is expanding.

Rising Steel Output Gives Lift To Business Hopes

French Announce 'Smashing' Blow

ALGIERS (AP)—French authorities claim they have dealt the Nationalist rebels a smashing blow in the Algiers area.

French military and security spokesmen told a news conference last night the Algiers regional command of the Algerian National Liberation Front (FLN) had been broken up and what is left of it now has to operate from nearby Tunisia.

The spokesmen said rebel attacks in Algiers this month dropped to six, compared with 120 last August.

Mississippi Has Oldest Magnolia

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (AP)—The United States' largest magnolia tree stands beside a marsh off the Escatawpa River just north of Pascagoula.

Authority for the claim is the American Forestry Assn.

The tree is 51 feet tall, has a crown spread of more than 90 feet and the trunk is 12 1/2 feet around at its largest point. Paul M. Myers, owner of the tree, counted 9,000 blossoms on it one year.

No one knows exactly how old it is but one 90-year-old Pascagoula resident remembers the tree "being just about like it is now" when she was a little girl.

Holiday Weekend Toll In N. C. Is Worst In Years

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 23 persons were reported killed by violence in North Carolina as the long Labor Day holiday weekend shaped up as one of the most deadly in recent years.

A rural collision near Rocky Mount killed a Brooklyn woman, Mrs. Virginia C. Chin, and Edward Lewis of Rocky Mount.

Police feared the toll would amount higher as thousands of families poured home today and tonight from the beaches and mountains.

Eleven people died in traffic last year during the long weekend. A rural collision near Rocky Mount killed a Brooklyn woman.

Six-year-old Ronda Elder of Winston-Salem was the first victim of the weekend. She was killed when she ran in front of a car near her home.

A 25-year-old Indian, Jackie Lowery, was fatally shot near Red Springs.

In Raleigh, Herman Gillis, 20, of Garner was shot to death in an argument at an inn.

A head-on collision killed Robert J. Morris, 33, of Denton whose car spun out of control near West End.

A Pope Air Force Base airman, Harold R. Whitaker, 18, died when his auto left a dead end street and plunged into a creek near Sanford.

James Anthony McGrady, 32, of Asheville was fatally injured when a speeding car flipped over on a rural paved road about nine miles northeast of his home.

Thad Hill Jr., 35, of Baltimore, Md., died when a car apparently ran over him as he was lying on a rural paved road near Scotland Neck.

A pedestrian, Charles Franklin Canipe, 61, of Lexington, was killed when he walked into the path of a car near Thomasville.

Floyd Farner, 23, of Patterson, N.C., died when a car hit a pole on a rural paved road east of Whiteville.

A freak accident killed a three-year-old Asheville boy in front of his grandmother's home in Canton.

The child, Joseph Emanuel Shipman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Richard Shipman, left the family dinner table early and apparently climbed into the car parked outside.

The horn blowing and discovered the car in flames. Joseph's body was found on the rear seat.

Police speculated that the fire started in faulty wiring or that possibly the boy was playing with matches.

Mrs. Bertha Lee Morrow, 29, was found beaten to death in the bedroom of her Charlotte home yesterday. Police charged her husband, Cletis, 33, with suspicion of murder.

Oscar Person Monzingo, 49, retired Army sergeant, was shot to death Friday night in the Peachland community near Wadesboro.

Clyde Wright, 66, was held on a murder charge without privilege of bond.

'By Mistake'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A teenage girl was killed by mistake, police reported, when members of her own gang opened up with a hail of gunfire as she rode by them in a car early today.

Investigators said 18-year-old Emille Guzman was hit in the head by a bullet as she was riding with several other members of the "Little Quarters" gang.

Two other bullets and a blast of shotgun pellets also hit the auto, but none of the other occupants was hurt.

Sixteen youths were arrested. Six were booked on suspicion of murder and the others were released.

Investigators said the shots were fired by several youths standing outside a house where a beer party was in progress.

Officers said they apparently thought the occupants of a passing car were members of a rival gang.

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—An excursion train carrying 600 Roman Catholics home from a beach outing was derailed last night and railway authorities said 150 persons were killed.

Authorities said more than 400 were injured. Hospitals in Kingston were filled to overflowing.

A call went out to all doctors and nurses in Jamaica for help. The accident occurred about 11 p.m. near the village of Kendal, 60 miles west of Kingston near the center of the island.

The train was derailed on a grade. The cause was not known immediately.

The dead and injured were members of the Holy Name Society and their wives and children.

The Roman Catholic organization had sponsored the excursion to Montego Bay on the north coast of the island. There were three priests aboard.

Two were Jamaicans and the other was Father Charles Eberle of Somerville, Mass., who has lived here for 20 years. None of the priests was injured.

The special train was wrecked about half a mile from Kendal while en route to Kingston.

Jamaican Railroad Wreck Fatal To 150 People; Over 400 Injured

Reports said that the engine somehow became uncoupled from the 12 coaches. The coaches then began to overturn.

In all 10 coaches were derailed. Kendal, the highest point on the Kingston-Montego bay line, has an elevation of about 2,000 feet.

Presumably the grade was steep and this caused the coaches to overturn when they became uncoupled.

It was the worst wreck in the island's history and the second worst in all the history of world railroading.

The worst previous accident on Jamaica occurred at Balaclava in August 1938 when 80 persons were killed. Balaclava is about 15 miles northwest of Kendal.

The worst U.S. train disaster killed 101 July 9, 1918, at Nashville, Tenn.

The worst worst railway disaster occurred near Balvano, Italy. Deadly fumes from a locomotive in a railway tunnel killed 521 persons March 2, 1944.

Other major railway disasters were near Rio de Janeiro, when 119 were killed and 250 injured in March 1952; and at Middlesex, England, where 111 were killed and 200 injured in October 1952.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Earle E. Partridge said today it is possible to intercept an enemy intercontinental ballistic missile with another missile, "and we have got to get along with building such a system . . . as quickly as possible."

Partridge, commander in chief of the North American air defense system, made the statement in a copyrighted interview in the weekly magazine U.S. News & World Report.

News dispatches from Moscow on Aug. 26, a few days after the interview took place, announced Russian claims of successful ICBM tests. The ICBM is designed to travel 5,000 miles or more.

Partridge indicated that construction of an anti-missile missile is still in the planning stage.

Asked if his command would have a defense for ICBMs when they are developed, Partridge replied: "It is possible to build one—the scientists tell us. . . This stretches my imagination, but that's what they say can be done. And we have got to get along with building such a system, and do it as quickly as possible."

In another interview, Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said the real danger is not that Russia will develop a workable ICBM sooner than the United States, but that the Soviets will produce them faster.

Jackson, chairman of a Senate House subcommittee on nuclear weapons, said the United States and Russia probably are running neck and neck in the race to perfect an ICBM. He declined to say whether this country has successfully tested one.

He said Russia probably leads the United States in developing the 1,500-mile intermediate range missile but "not by a great margin," and there is danger of losing the production race in both ICBMs and IRBMs.

The answer to this, Jackson said, is to permit the armed forces to order production of more missiles per month "so that they will be available at an earlier date for military application."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Improvement in Eastern North Carolina Tobacco Market prices is being predicted by Agriculture Department officials according to Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D-NC).

In a statement to the Raleigh News and Observer's news bureau here, Cooley said the officials are "confidently predicting an improvement" as the better grades of tobacco appear.

A leveling off of the price differential between the Eastern market and the Carolinas Border Belt on lower grades also is expected by the officials.

Cooley reported he had had several conferences with the department since he and other members of the House Agriculture Committee visited Wilson and Rocky Mount markets Aug. 20.

He added that it is unfortunate that the government is continuing its sale of government owned tobacco during the tobacco marketing season. The tobacco sold from government stocks is in direct competition with that of the producers, he asserted.

The congressman added that he was unable to obtain assurances from the department that it would change this policy.

Interceptor Rocket Said 'Possible'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Earle E. Partridge said today it is possible to intercept an enemy intercontinental ballistic missile with another missile, "and we have got to get along with building such a system . . . as quickly as possible."

Partridge, commander in chief of the North American air defense system, made the statement in a copyrighted interview in the weekly magazine U.S. News & World Report.

News dispatches from Moscow on Aug. 26, a few days after the interview took place, announced Russian claims of successful ICBM tests. The ICBM is designed to travel 5,000 miles or more.

Partridge indicated that construction of an anti-missile missile is still in the planning stage.

Asked if his command would have a defense for ICBMs when they are developed, Partridge replied: "It is possible to build one—the scientists tell us. . . This stretches my imagination, but that's what they say can be done. And we have got to get along with building such a system, and do it as quickly as possible."

In another interview, Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said the real danger is not that Russia will develop a workable ICBM sooner than the United States, but that the Soviets will produce them faster.

Jackson, chairman of a Senate House subcommittee on nuclear weapons, said the United States and Russia probably are running neck and neck in the race to perfect an ICBM. He declined to say whether this country has successfully tested one.

He said Russia probably leads the United States in developing the 1,500-mile intermediate range missile but "not by a great margin," and there is danger of losing the production race in both ICBMs and IRBMs.

The answer to this, Jackson said, is to permit the armed forces to order production of more missiles per month "so that they will be available at an earlier date for military application."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Improvement in Eastern North Carolina Tobacco Market prices is being predicted by Agriculture Department officials according to Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D-NC).

In a statement to the Raleigh News and Observer's news bureau here, Cooley said the officials are "confidently predicting an improvement" as the better grades of tobacco appear.

A leveling off of the price differential between the Eastern market and the Carolinas Border Belt on lower grades also is expected by the officials.

Cooley reported he had had several conferences with the department since he and other members of the House Agriculture Committee visited Wilson and Rocky Mount markets Aug. 20.

He added that it is unfortunate that the government is continuing its sale of government owned tobacco during the tobacco marketing season. The tobacco sold from government stocks is in direct competition with that of the producers, he asserted.

The congressman added that he was unable to obtain assurances from the department that it would change this policy.

Hail Progress Of American Labor

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's workers enjoyed a Labor Day holiday today while their leaders in government and unions saluted their accomplishments.

President Eisenhower, sounding a note of deep appreciation, said, "It is fitting that we pause to pay tribute to the skill and strength of our working men and women. In their hands and minds is the power of our growth and the promise of continuing achievement."

Both Eisenhower and Secretary of Labor Mitchell, in formal statements yesterday, noted that employment is at the highest point in history.

Mitchell said: "Our free enterprise system, driven by the talents, energies and skills of our people, has produced the greatest and most widely shared prosperity in our history."

Sen. Ives (R-NY) referred to testimony before the Senate Rackets Committee, of which he is vice chairman, and cautioned that activities of shady characters in organized labor could bring on punitive legislation from Congress next year.

Ives said most labor leaders are honest men, but he added that "the activities of a relative handful of crooks, hoodlums and men of flexible morals who have attached themselves to the labor movement threaten to give all labor a bad name."

He suggested that labor union members take a more active interest in the affairs of their organizations.

AFL-CIO President George Meany talked of a different kind of congressional investigation—a full-scale probe of "the whole price-profit-wage relationship as it affects the cost of living."

Such a study, he said, could help bring about an effective and intelligent program to combat inflation.

He took issue with those who he said have tried to blame labor unions for price increases because of their demands for higher wages. In some cases, he said, production improvements offset higher wage rates while in others "employers have raised prices far beyond their increased labor costs."

Contending high wage rates are justified, he said that "before there can be mass production, there must be the power of mass consumption, made possible by high union wage standards and working conditions."

Philip M. Talbot, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said in another weekend statement that "our heritage of recognizing the dignity of all kinds of labor has, in large part, made possible our almost classless society and bestowed upon us our multiple economic blessings."

CONWAY, S.C. (AP)—Four persons were killed today when a Virginia automobile collided with a car carrying a Myrtle Beach family at a highway intersection near here, the State Highway Patrol reported.

Patrolman Frank Cox said the accident happened at the junction of U.S. 501 and State Route 16. He added that the driver of the Virginia car was dead, but he could not give further identification or details on the accident.

Confederate Veteran Wm. Lundy Dies; Only 2 Left

CRESTVIEW, Fla. (AP)—William Lundy was proud of his Civil War. He died last night in Duluth, Minn.

In addition to Charlie, Lundy is survived by three daughters and five sons.

"Uncle Bill" was fairly active almost to the time of his death. Only a short time ago he was able to get around by hitching a wooden sawhorse ahead of him.

His eyesight, he frequently boasted, was so sharp he could shoot a squirrel out of a tree with a shotgun.

Honors were piled upon "Uncle" Lundy's Confederate background although he served only in the Home Guard and never took a shot at a Yankee soldier.

Asked by the Chamber of Commerce during his last few days if they could fly his large Confederate flag from a pole outside his home, he declined to allow his beloved Stars and Bars to leave his bedroom wall where it was on proud display.

"I want it where I can see it," the aged rebel, almost bedfast at the time, said.

He was lonely during his last years although visitors by the score found their way down the dusty road to the small white cottage where he and his son lived.

He tried to fight off his loneliness by sitting on the front porch and summoning almost every passer-by to stop and chat with him.

But when he was asked how it felt to be almost the last survivor of the gray-clad hosts of the Confederacy, his faded eyes would fill with mist and he would say, "It's lonesome, lonesome."

present on Wednesday night—a "Bill" in recent years. At the time of his death he was looking forward to being the guest of honor at a park dedication to be held here soon.

A special general's uniform of his beloved Confederate gray was being made for him to wear at the ceremonies.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new military services construction bill signed over the weekend by President Eisenhower provides for 39 1/2 million dollars worth of new projects at Carolinas bases.

The total includes $5,728,000 with which to begin construction of a new Navy seaplane facility at Harvey Point, near Hertford, at the confluence of Perquimans River and Albemarle Sound.

It also includes $9,991,000 for construction toward the rehabilitation of Seymour Johnson Air Force Base at Goldsboro. This base, already occupied by units of the Troop Carrier and Tactical Air Commands, will be considerably expanded beyond what it was during World War II.

The bill authorizing the construction carries no money, merely authorization. But a separate appropriations bill passed by Congress provides money for a large part of the work authorized.

Under congressional procedure, such construction programs must be authorized before appropriations may be made. Authorizations not appropriated for this year may be carried over for possible appropriations next year.

Thus while authorization and appropriation bills overlap they do not necessarily coincide.

Here are the projects authorized for the Carolinas:

North Carolina—Army, Ft. Bragg, $1,051,000; Navy, Cherry Point Marine Air Station, $6,503,000; Hertford (Harvey Point) Naval Seaplane Facility, $5,728,000; New River (Jacksonville) Marine Corps Air Facility, $39,000; Camp Lejeune Marine Base, $2,372,000; Air Force, Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, Goldsboro, $9,991,000.

South Carolina—Army, Charleston Transportation Depot, $306,000; Ft. Jackson, $2,500,000; Navy, Beaufort Marine Auxiliary Air Station, $2,632,000; Parris Island Marine Recruit Depot, $2,643,000; Air Force, Charleston AFB, $2,216,000; Donaldson AFB, Greenville, $1,287,000; Myrtle Beach AFB, $1,204,000; Shaw AFB, Sumter, $1,184,000.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has confirmed 15 nominations by President Eisenhower for postmasterships in North Carolina.

They are: Ruth A. Farrior, Calypso; William T. Stokes III, Graham; Annie B. Smith, Guilford; Calvin Turner Draper, Jackson; Grady S. Tucker, Locust; Mary R. Tillman, Lowell; Steven Andrew Gaydek, Maury.

James J. Lee Jr., Mebane; Jake H. Wright Jr., Middlesex; James H. Canipe, Morven; William K. Delbridge, Norlina; Lola A. Woody, Saxapahaw; Alice H. Graves, Seagrave; Robert W. Sharpe, Sharnburg, and Robert W. Loflin, Trinity.

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP)—Foreign Minister Golda Meir today expressed the government's "extreme anxiety over the ever increasing Soviet arms deliveries to Syria."

Answering questions by a newsman at a luncheon given in her honor by the Foreign Press Assn. in Israel, Mrs. Meir said: "There is no doubt that together with these arms Russian personnel are coming to Syria and special kinds of technicians."

"We are worried because we know these arms are in the hands of neighbors whose declared policy it is to destroy Israel."

Highway Toll At Predicted Rate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents killed Americans at a rate expected to exceed a prediction of 420 highway fatalities for the Labor Day weekend as the three-day holiday neared its close today.

The five-an-hour toll was expected to quicken during what safety experts termed "the dangerous hours" of Labor Day evening. Those were the hours when summer vacationers, weekend travelers, and the millions enjoying a day's outing form the home-bound traffic rush.

The death toll is tragically following the figures used in making advance estimates, said Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council. "The worst is still to come with the home-bound rush of highway travelers. There will be a fearful last minute crush."

The council had estimated a death toll of 420 for the 78-hour period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight tonight (local time).

Dearborn said unless the trend changes the final toll will be close to the council's prediction.

The count in the first 33 hours of the holiday period showed about 150 fatalities. In the next 24 hours, however, the total was more than 150.

During last year's three-day Labor Day holiday there were 435 traffic deaths. Nonholiday test survey made by The Associated Press during a recent 78-hour weekend showed 378 auto fatalities. The record traffic toll for Labor Day was 461 for a three-day period in 1951.

One of the worst accidents during the holiday occurred yesterday near Effingham, in southern Illinois. Five persons burned to death when their car plunged into a ditch and burst into flames.

Report To The People Opens Busy Schedule

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges opens a busy week tomorrow night with a "Report to the People" broadcast.

His speech will be delivered at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Associated Press Broadcasters to be held here. The governor has stated he will deal with public schools and the racial situation.

Gov. Hodges will hold office hours Wednesday and Thursday and probably attend sessions of the State Highway Commission meeting here then. The governor will hold a press conference at 4 p.m. Thursday and at 8 p.m. Friday will speak at a meeting of the State Employees Assn. in Durham. He will return to Raleigh later that evening for an appearance at the debutante ball.

Morros Expects Russia To Have Military Regime

WASHINGTON (AP)—Counterspy Boris Morros says he expects a military dictatorship headed by Marshal Georgi Zhukov to take control in Russia within the next eight months.

His prediction that Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev would be replaced was made in testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, which made it public during the weekend.

Morros, whose 12 years of spy activity were disclosed only recently, cited Zhukov's rise to a top party post in addition to his job as Soviet minister of defense and said it indicated to him that Russia is rapidly becoming a military dictatorship.

He was quoted also as testifying that separate Russian spy organizations have now been consolidated into one permeating under the Red Army directly responsible to Zhukov.

The congressman added that he was unable to obtain assurances from the department that it would change this policy.

Only Lukewarm Response To Kasper's Tirades

CHARLOTTE (AP)—John Kasper, who makes his living preaching white supremacy, came to Charlotte yesterday after speaking Saturday in Winston-Salem and Greensboro.

In Winston-Salem he was greeted by hoots and jeers from a crowd of about 200, both white and Negro.

Here — and in Greensboro — crowds of about 300 persons listened in silence as the 27-year-old Kasper preached his doctrine of white supremacy.

white citizen's councils in the three cities to oppose integration of the schools. In each city, he met with a small group to form a council.

Kasper, his cowlick sticking to his perspiring forehead, exhorted his sweltering Charlotte audience to do something about what he called the "crisis in Charlotte."

His speech here followed the pattern of those in Winston-Salem and Greensboro.

He denounced the school boards, Gov. Hodges, the Supreme Court, the NAACP, newspapers, and preachers "who preach the brotherhood of man." He put evangelist Billy Graham among the latter group. Kasper said Graham "left here a white man but he's coming back a nigger-lover."

His words brought a spattering of applause from the whites at times.

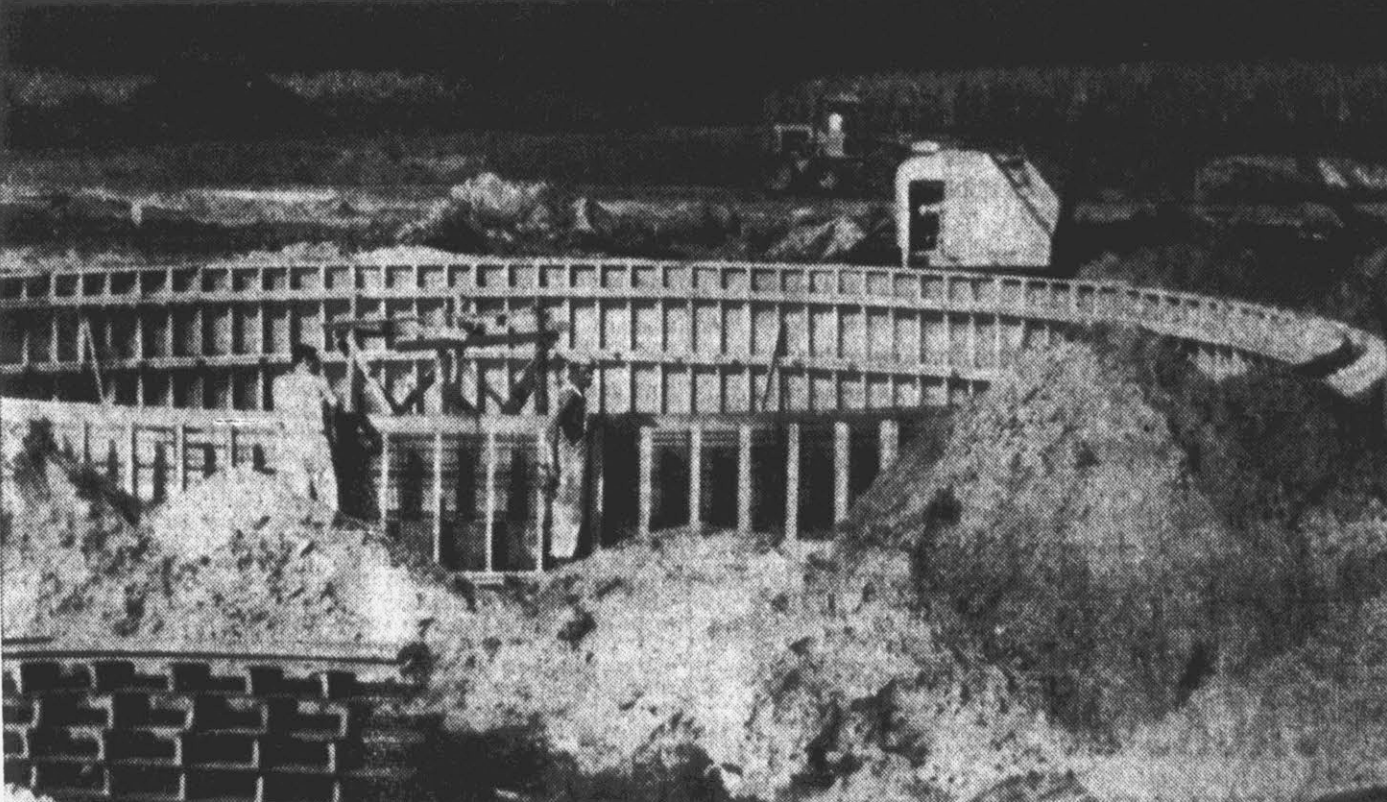

He drew applause at one point when he said: "We ain't all equal. . . God just didn't give the nigger the same brains—He didn't give them the same outlook—He didn't give them the same anything."

At Winston-Salem Saturday, he told his jeering audience: "We want to see that the boys and girls don't go into that school (Reynolds High School, where one Negro pupil has been assigned) as long as that nigger's there. Let 'em try to run the schools without any white students in school."

He left Charlotte for Greenville, but said he planned to return to North Carolina after the middle of the month.

His tirade completed, Kasper talked to newsmen briefly. Asked about his own record of attending mixed social functions and dancing with Negro girls, Kasper said he was "trying to learn something about them."

Signs of Progress At Farmville Plant

TRICKLING FILTER—The Trickling filter section of the Town of Farmville's new sewerage disposal plant is nearing completion on the plant site Northeast of the town. Also under construction are a primary clarifier and a sludge digester. A target date of April 1, 1958 has been set for completion of the plant which is being constructed with local and federal funds.
