Rev. Cole Addresses BSU Executive Council

The Executive Council of the Baptist Student Union . . . met yesterday afternoon at Elm Street Park for informal discussion groups.

Last night and this morning the Executive Council of the Baptist Student Union heard the Rev. Harold Cole, newly elected Executive State Secretary of the Baptist Student Union Department of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina.

Some of the state-wide and south-wide projects he discussed this morning were LISTEN, The International Students Retreat to be held November 28-December 1 in Williamsburg, Va., the State B.S.U. fall convention which will meet November 1-3 at the First Baptist Church in Durham, and other projects.

The 25 Baptist student officers, pastors of local Baptist churches, and B.S.U. advisors convened at the Baptist Student Center Sunday for the three day meeting to discuss the forthcoming projects and state-wide plans of B.S.U.

Furs For Everyone This Year

BUDGET SWANK . . . This handsome casual coat is made of spotted Labrador hair seal, double-breasted and styled for petite figures.

AP Newsfeatures
There's something about a fur coat that makes women dream and scheme. A woman who doesn't have one is likely to feel underprivileged, and a woman who does enjoys a fine sense of well-being and pride.

Time was when furs were for the privileged few, but times have changed. Today there's a handsome fur coat to fit every budget, thanks to recent advances in the techniques of fur breeding, manufacture and design. Says J. George Greenberg, executive manager of the Associated Fur Manufacturers: "There are no 'neglected furs' any more. The industry is making history with new processes which put luxury furs within reach of everybody."

FUR POLO COAT . . . Here's a coat that looks like a million for a penny-bank price. It's white sheared rabbit, processed to look like bleached beaver and styled with the precise tailoring that lends distinction to fur or fabric. Roomy, casual and smart, it is styled for the petite woman.

You don't have to wear mink to be pampered this year. New budget-priced fur coats include such pelts as: muskrat dyed to look like Alaska seal; American broadtail, soft and silky as the expensive Russian variety; Persian lamb in improved new light-weight lustrous varieties; sheared raccoon, sheared fox and even rabbit dyed to look like anything from chinchilla to ermine.

For the college girl there are gay new dyed furs in all colors of the rainbow, employing such furs as mole, muskrat, broadtail and rabbit. New processes make them soft, light-weight, long-wearing and handsome. New styles run to simple lines, such as back-belted polo coats and understated Chesterfields, as well as many varieties of the jacket, from bolero to cardigan.

Four Hostesses Entertain Martha Emily Hadley

Mrs. Dink James, Miss Elizabeth James, Miss Agnes Fullilove and Mrs. Ficklen Arthur entertained Miss Martha Emily Moyer Hadley at the home of Mrs. Arthur Monday morning from 11 until noon.

Miss Hadley, wearing a brown fall cotton and matching accessories, was presented a white mum corsage upon arrival by the hostesses.

The guests were greeted at the door by the hostesses, Miss Hadley and Mrs. Moyer Hadley, mother of the honoree, and were invited into the dining room where Mrs. Novella Williams served iced drinks.

From a table covered with an imported linen cloth and centered with a crystal centerpiece holding white mums and candles, guests served themselves to assorted party sandwiches, salted nuts, cookies, cheese straws and other party dainties. Mrs. Frederick Brooks and Mrs. Joe Moyer assisted in the dining room.

How About A Shop-As-You Save Party?

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Want to give a party that is painless on the pocketbook? Try the shop-as-you-save party. All you do is make up a party menu, buy items that fall into that groove whenever you have a little extra money. When you have enough food, then you party.

The trick requires a freezer or freezer compartment of the refrigerator. That way corn chowder, beef stew, spaghetti, meat pies or anything that strikes your fancy may be frozen for your shindig that is in the offing.

One college belle has even used this method for entertaining her friends at school. She freezes favorite cookies and snacks, then her mother mails them to her when she is away at school and planning a dormitory party. She makes up batches of favorite cheese and meat spreads, candies and cookies that will be thawed out by the time they arrive at their destination. (Candy takes about two hours to thaw.)

Here is a menu one practical teen-ager used recently for a freezer party: Snacks, hamburgers on toasted buns, pickles, spaghetti with tomato sauce, ice cream and cookies. These make good eating for hungry Jacks or dainty eating Jills.

You can extend the hamburgers with bread crumbs, wrapping them individually in plastic film, wax paper or foil, and then packing them in the square waxed freezing containers that will not take up too much space in the freezer.

It's a good idea to undercook spaghetti slightly so that when it is heated up for serving it will not get mushy. A tangy sauce may be made with canned tomatoes, onions, celery and chopped green peppers. If you decide to make a spaghetti and meat ball dish you can still do so at the last moment by rolling the defrosted hamburgers into small meat balls, browning them and adding them to the spaghetti before you serve it. (This is a good idea particularly if you do not have enough hamburger to go ahead with your spaghetti on the bun idea. Spaghetti and meat balls makes a good, filling dish.)

When planning a party on this shop-as-you-save basis, buy your soft drinks as you go along too. Put them in the cellar or other out-of-sight place until the day of the party.

Here is a good freezer-tested candy recipe for peanut and raisin clusters. Take 1/2 pound semi-sweet chocolate and grate it coarsely. Place it in the upper part of a double boiler over water. Stir until melted. Add 1 cup unsalted shelled peanuts and 1/2 cup seedless raisins. Blend. Spoon on to wax paper, shape into small rings. Allow to cool. Place in layers in containers.

PARTY TRICK . . . Freeze snacks and cookies in containers that may be shipped off to dormitory parties.

Guest Editorial

A Religious Need Of Greenville

Editor's note: The following editorial was prepared by the REV. R. B. CRAWFORD, President of the Greenville Ministerial Association, for the current series.

When one considers the needs of a community from a religious standpoint, many different things or projects present themselves to be considered. However, one of the greatest needs in our community is that our people find a restful faith in God. Only as we recognize the works and will of our Heavenly Father can this need be supplied. Even though Greenville is a progressive and growing community, there is evidence that we are a tired, restless and ever seeking community. With a restful faith in the Heavenly Father we would be able to hear Jesus say, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest . . . and ye shall find rest unto your souls" (Matthew 11:28,29).

The Psalmist showed a restful faith in God in the Twenty-Third Psalm. He declared, "The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; he leadeth me beside the still waters." The Lord states in Ezekiel that the flock is His, and that He will feed the flock, and cause the flock to lie down with restful faith in Him. "I will feed my flock, and I will cause them to lie down, saith the Lord God" (Ezekiel 34:15).

Our community as a flock of sheep may need feeding; we may need to be delivered out of the hand of enemies; we may need to be brought back to the fold; but to lie down to trust in our Heavenly Father we must do that for ourselves. As the sheep lie down individually and enjoy the abundant provisions of the shepherd, in the same way we must individually rest our faith in the Lord Jesus who said, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly. I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth His life for the sheep (John 10:10,11).

Some practical ways by which the members of our community may come to rest their faith in God are here suggested:

First: That parents have family worship and a time of counsel with its members, also that public worship be a vital and regular part of their family life.

Second: That pastors of the church congregations plan services for mid week prayer services and Sunday night services so families and individuals will have a place to worship.

Third: That all persons of all professions, vocations, and occupations see the Lord Jesus Christ as their guide and director. Jesus Christ is the Great Counselor, Teacher, Carpenter, Sower, Reaper, and Great Physician. One example of the love for mankind was expressed at the 106th annual meeting of the American Medical Association in New York City, when Dr. D. B. Allman, its president said, "It is only natural for the person who is ill to expect sympathy and compassion along with all that modern science can offer. Physicians today realize more than ever that their responsibility is to minister not only to the human body and its ills, but also to hearts, minds, and emotions. Physicians help prolong mortal beings but only God can confer immortality". So should it be in all our community life "for we are laborers together with God" (1 Cor. 3:9).

Fourth: That in our community we believe and live these words from the preamble to the Declaration of Independence. "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness". It is the business of our community to help those of our community to have life, liberty, and happiness.

Fifth: We today also have the promise that God made to Joshua that ours can be a prosperous and successful community. Joshua 1:8 "This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth; but thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein: for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt have good success."

If these suggestions are followed, we can have that restful growing faith in God, which is foremost among the religious needs for our community.

Some Hope For Hoffa Election

By ELMER ROESSNER

There is a small minority of businessmen who would like to see James R. Hoffa be elected head of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. They would also like Johnny Dioguardi to squirm out of his present trouble with the government. They are happy about other labor leaders and labor gangsters who declined to answer questions on the ground that they might incriminate themselves.

These businessmen are not the small group who like to buy sweetheart contracts from crooked union leaders, or who like the idea of saving money by making cash payments to labor officials. Instead, they are reasonably honest heads of corporations who would like to see labor unions under rigid government control.

There are proposals of long standing to put unions under Federal regulations in much the same way corporations are disciplined. While the National Labor Relations Board and the courts have some measure of control over union practices, unions are subject to nothing like the antitrust laws. And in many fields unions have a tighter monopoly industry.

SUSPICION INCREASING
In recent years, demands for tighter restrictions on unions have been growing and they have received considerable interest, if not enthusiastic support, in Congress. And some businessmen believe that if the Hoffas, Dioguardis and other "exposed" leaders continue to flourish, Congress may be induced to enact restrictive legislation.

However, time and the public's capacity to forget are against these businessmen. The Democratic majority in the present Congress would undoubtedly block any such move. The alliances between Democratic and labor politicians is far too strong—and too important to the party—to allow anything seeming to be "antilabor" to pass, even if such legislation would tend to protect honest working men against predatory leaders.

CHANGE OVER A YEAR AWAY
The complexion of the Congress cannot be changed before the elections in November, 1958, and even then the new Congress will not take office until 1959. But if the Senatorial election in Wisconsin is indicative, it will be difficult for the Republicans to regain control of Congress.

And even if they do, unless new scandals are uncovered, public support for restrictive legislation for labor may be entirely lacking. The appearance of Mr. Hoffa before the McClellan committee may, at this moment, seem unforgettable, but the details will be pretty dim by 1959. If you doubt that statement, try to recall some of the details of the previous labor exposé, in which large chunks of money from insurance and welfare funds was found to have moved into the pockets of some curious friends of labor. And by 1959 your memory—and that of millions of voters—will be just as vague about Hoffa, Dioguardi, etc.

NEWS THAT CUES BUSINESS TRENDS

Seventy-four manufacturers dealing with drugstores have extended the period in which they will allow discounts for cash, the National Retail Dry Goods Association reports. Many give discounts if bills are paid in 30 days, instead of 10 days as used to be the rule. . . . Sales of shoes to youngsters is being boosted by the increase in dancing lessons. Boot & Shoe Reporter says. . . . Fire losses jumped to $77,814,000 in July, topping July in both 1956 and 1955, the National Board of Fire Underwriters found. . . . More discount houses are going in for advertising and the E. J. Korvette organization, opening a new unit at Springfield, Pa., used 42 pages of newspaper advertising last week. . . . Independent hardware stores had the best July since 1952, the National Retail Hardware Association says. Sales were 4.5 per cent ahead of last year.

NOR HUSBANDS WHO LEAD A DOG'S LIFE

While the New Animal Insurance Co. of America will insure pedigree dogs' lives up to $5,000 each, it won't insure postmen against being bitten by pedigree or other dogs. Nor will it insure owners against postmen's damage suits.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

A GREEK MYTH STREAMLINED
There is a Greek myth about a figure named Sisyphus, who rolled a heavy stone to the top of a hill only to have it roll down again; and the whole labor start anew.

The myth of Sisyphus is the Greek way of declaring that much of our lives consists of doing the same thing over and over again. We have duties every day which are like the duties of yesterday. So many of these duties have to be repeated, until we become bored to death with the monotony of it all. Mrs. Sisyphus has to keep on washing dishes three times a day. Dr. Sisyphus has to go listen to the same complaints and ills and make his hospital rounds every day, whether he wants to or not. The Reverend Mr. Sisyphus has to roll a stone through the week to the hilltop of Sunday; that night it rolls down to the bottom, and he begins the same labor over again.

There is a way to beat this game. Keep up your enthusiasm by trying to intersperse your tasks with variety.

There is another way to beat the game. As a child I heard Russell Conwell give his lecture on "The Laughing Volcano." The audience roared, and so did Conwell. He had learned the great secret of enjoying what he had to do.

Falling Apart

By JIMMY ELLIS

The Occasional Struggle

As a general rule, writing these columns is a labor of love.

The columns offer a relief from the normal demands of newspaper work. They permit the writer, at his discretion, to wallow in the insignificant, dwell at some length on the ridiculous, and cogitate on the trivial.

If he so chooses, the writer can take up a crusade, remember the finer points of another individual, or give vent to some creative thoughts.

I suppose that the outstanding virtue is that the columns allow an individual to think subjectively, instead of objectively. It is difficult to describe how much that means at times, especially after having had to be concerned with strictly objective methods of writing.

Despite all these virtues, the columns also have a habit of becoming a pain in the neck.

There is always the matter of time creeping up on you. That brings with it pressure, and under pressure the virtues seem to fade practically out of sight.

There are times when the insignificant becomes too much so, the ridiculous becomes absurd and trivia works itself around to being genuine nothingness. There are also times when crusades are conspicuous by their absence, friends don't want you commenting on their finer points, and creative thoughts go in the other direction.

Subjectivity, too, has a way of making itself obnoxious. There are limits, even in columns, to how much of his personal feelings a writer can put into a newspaper.

All of these shortcomings, fortunately, seldom come at the same time. But, even when they come in pairs (or worse) the column-writing chore can become a personal and near-violent struggle between writer and ideas.

The struggle, however, is what makes the column a labor of love. I would think that struggles are needed from time to time to prove the worth of a thing—even columns.

Now that I've gotten those points off my chest, I suppose it is in order to extend my sympathies to school students.

I am not sorry to see them back in school (actually, I wish I were still eligible for high school attendance). However, I do have a genuine sympathy for the suffering they must be enduring in hot classrooms.

As was expected, hot weather returned to the county over the weekend—just as county schools were preparing to begin full schedules. And is there anything hotter than a classroom in September?

Speaking of hot weather, is there any law against freight trains being parked across roads for what seems to be an interminable length of time?

And, as a further question, do trains park across roads and block traffic in cold weather, or do engineers wait until the sun is bearing down strong enough to turn automobiles into motorized brick kilns?

Opinions In Brief
"Our State Department has failed to acknowledge the basic principles it always upheld until now: Freedom of information is not a one-way street; government shouldn't control the efforts of our press to report the news abroad or at home. Any attempt to embrace the affirmative side of these two statements, which the State Department has done for the last year, makes our press and reporters unwilling tools of government and its foreign policy." Editor & Publisher.

"The answer is that they are still finding plenty of tenants," said Glickman. "There is no reason for the program to stop. I know of several deals, now being negotiated and not yet announced, for another $100,000,000 in construction in the Park-Fifth Avenues area.

"Manhattan — and other cities — will grow larger, not smaller. There are plenty of people in the suburbs who want to come back to the cities — if buildings can be put up for them."

Dulles disciplined Israel when, in retaliation for border raids and killing of her citizens, she tried to drive the Egyptians back from the boundary lines. But from Wilson Administration sent General Pershing into Mexico when Villa was committing similar depredations against American citizens.

This is in no sense an attempt to criticize broad American foreign policy. But, in view of the new Sino-American butterness which Dulles has caused, it is an effort to explain that his actions and attitude have resulted in distrustful Allies and wavering neutrals.

The Color Is Red

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Every American has had, at one time or another, a weekend ambition "to paint the town red."

Nobody but Louis J. Glickman, however, has seriously set out to erect a vermillion colored skyscraper in the heart of Manhattan.

His proposal to tear down historic Carnegie Hall, which he bought for five million dollars, and replace it with a bright red 44-story, 34 million dollar office building has caught the public fancy.

People want to know who Glickman is, and why he wants to put up a tower that will look like an oversized Bloody Mary.

"Oh, I just happened to be wearing a red tie the day I closed the deal," Glickman jokes casually when asked this question. Then getting serious, he explains:

"Color is getting to play such an important part in our lives, in everything from refrigerators to automobiles, that I thought a vermillion building would relieve some of the drabness of Manhattan—and give the town a shot in the arm."

The venture is typical of Glickman, whose formula for success is imagination mixed with prudent daring.

Glickman, one of the nation's leading real estate syndicate operators, wasn't born with a silver spoon in his mouth — it was a property deed. Shortly after graduating from college he became a partner of his father, Pinous Glickman, a famous builder.

"This automatically made me a paper millionaire — until the depression," he recalled.

Since the end of World War II Glickman has closed deals totaling more than half a billion dollars.

"He goes around the country buying buildings like bunches of bananas," one real estate editor wrote of him.

Glickman, now 52, will even close a deal while playing golf or riding horseback, his favorite sports. He is known in the trade as a "romancer," a man who can take a piece of rundown property and improve it so that it will return more revenue.

"To be successful in real estate you have to be optimistic—a bull," said Glickman, who is as self-confident as an elephant in a flea circus.

Unlike many civic pessimists who feel that the flight to the suburbs will turn many American cities into business cemeteries, Glickman feels downtown urban areas are making a strong comeback in cities that have undertaken modernization programs.

"The trouble is we are just beginning now to do the kind of planned building we should have begun 50 years ago," he remarked. "But the flight of business to the suburbs is over."

"Business firms have found that they can't get and hold the kind of help they want in the suburbs. They can find it only in the city."

Some critics believe that Manhattan has overbuilt in a post-war construction program of new office and apartment buildings approaching the billion dollar mark.

"The answer is that they are still finding plenty of tenants," said Glickman. "There is no reason for the program to stop. I know of several deals, now being negotiated and not yet announced, for another $100,000,000 in construction in the Park-Fifth Avenues area.

"Manhattan — and other cities — will grow larger, not smaller. There are plenty of people in the suburbs who want to come back to the cities — if buildings can be put up for them."

A Fiasco And Foreign Viewpoint

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The fiasco attending Secretary John Foster Dulles' grudging and belated effort to obtain the entry of 24 American correspondents and broadcasters into Red China illustrates most vividly why he is generally disliked abroad by the politicians and populace, and why this resentment is directed against American foreign policy.

Dulles' proposals, which Peiping, has rejected brusquely, exemplified baldly his attitude. Under pressure from the American press, he agreed to abandon his boycott, as he explained publicly, so that this country, including the Administration, might have more exact knowledge about conditions in Communist China.

At the same time, he attached the condition that no Chinese newspapermen could enjoy the same privileges in the United States. He must have — or should have — realized that Mao Tse-tung would regard this as an insulting, one-sided deal.

There are suggestions that Dulles deliberately imposed this provision because he expected that it would result in rejection of his offer.

Nevertheless, it may be helpful, especially for Secretary Dulles, to put ourselves in the other fellows' shoes, including Russian as well as Anglo-French boots.

OUT ANTI-COMMUNIST ALLIANCE
Under the Truman and Eisenhower Administrations, we have built up anti-Communist alliances along the borders of the Soviet and satellite countries. We have trained their armies, furnished them with weapons, and supported their economies. Our Sixth Fleet maneuvers off the coast of Africa, the Balkans and the Middle East.

Mao Tse-tung, in fact, has compared our virtual occupation of Formosa, together with the Seventh Fleet's operations in the Formosa Strait, to an enemy's landing on Long Island, and to the appearance of a foreign armada in New York Harbor.

Granting that the aggressive actions of Russia and China justify this self-defense precaution, we cannot complain, if the victims of this policy resent it, and take steps to challenge it. GRIEVANCES VOICED BY

LONDON, PARIS London and Paris, our stoutest Allies, voice similar grievances in their parliaments and press.

Although the Suez Canal is vital to their interests, Dulles condemned their attempt to prevent Nasser from blocking passage of their ships. But we have announced that we would take similar action, if an enemy menaced passage of our vessels through the Panama Canal.

Dulles disciplined Israel when, in retaliation for border raids and killing of her citizens, she tried to drive the Egyptians back from the boundary lines. But from Wilson Administration sent General Pershing into Mexico when Villa was committing similar depredations against American citizens.

This is in no sense an attempt to criticize broad American foreign policy. But, in view of the new Sino-American butterness which Dulles has caused, it is an effort to explain that his actions and attitude have resulted in distrustful Allies and wavering neutrals.

Monique Brings French Charm

FRENCH EXCHANGE STUDENT VISITS IN ROBERSONVILLE
... sings for supper—with Dick and Helen Matthews.

By EVERETTE PARKER
Reflector Staff Writer

ROBERSONVILLE—A normally quiet street is normally quiet again.

A personable French exchange student, Miss Monique Fournie, has come and gone.

Green Street is none the worse for her short but pleasant visit with Dick and Helen Matthews. That is with the exception of the fact very few of the local couple's neighbors have had a chance to turn on their radios and television sets.

Miss Monique met the young Robersonville married couple while the three were serving as counselors at Meadow Lark Camp for youngsters in Massachusetts earlier this summer.

The trio arrived from the camp early last week.

Shortly after getting back home and going through all the usual formalities of speaking to everyone they hadn't seen for sometime, the Matthews sat down and began to reel off song after song. Miss Fournie played something that looked like an overgrown banjo while the trio presented their concert to all those who would happen by to see and hear them.

The talented French woman came down for three or four days and during the time she was in Robersonville, made many friends among the townspeople. Over and over Dick, Helen and she sang their unusual songs to attentive ears.

Everyone came back for more.

In real life Miss Fournie is actually a registered anesthetist and has studied ophthalmology while at the Pennsylvania university.

Ophthalmology—that means the study of the eyes and its various diseases.

Women: In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

Women will play an important role in the administrative work of the "United Church of Christ," created recently through a merger of the General Council of the Congregational Christian Churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church. The new denomination's "Basis of Union" not only provides that men and women "enjoy the same rights and privileges" in the Church, but that "at least one-third of the members of the national administrative bodies be women."

Women will be admitted to the office of elder and deacon in the Reformed Church in the Netherlands, according to action taken by its General Synod. However, a special "dispensation" in each individual case will be necessary to admit women into the full ministry of the church.

United Church Women—an arm of the National Council of Churches—has called on Protestant women throughout the country to press for reform of "unfair" congressional investigation committee practices and for U. S. participation in the United Nations atomic energy agency. The U. S. policy makers urged their constituency to support the stepped-up administration foreign economic aid program and help speed new legislation to aid refugees. They also endorsed features of bills pending in Congress that would give federal government leadership to combating juvenile delinquency.

Within the Church of England, women preachers are permitted, by recent law to both preach and conduct prayer services, morning and evening. If the bishop permits them. But they may not be ordained, and may not conduct the rites of holy communion, marriage or burial. Within the Church, however, there is an increasingly large group of both men and women working actively for full clerical rights for qualified women. The Anglican Bishop of Plymouth, England, preaching recently in New York City, noted that while he could see no logical or spiritual reason to ban women from the full ministry, he believed the Church as a whole would have "considerable hesitation in supporting so great a break with tradition at this time." Many of the "free churches of Great Britain now ordain women as ministers—generally, it is said, because of the shortage of qualified men.

When a table is not a table, it could be a sofa!

That's exactly what a table turned out to be in the new Junior H. Rose High School Home Economics Department, when its legs were sawed off and a cushion was made from a single bed mattress. It is bright red and comfortable, too.

This is not the only thing that the Future Homemakers in Greenville are doing. They are covering chairs and refinishing furniture for the living room of the department.

This is one of their projects for the year, among others decided upon last week at an executive council meeting and while they worked.

Gail Stancill, Madge Stancill and Lois Tunnell helped put the Foods Laboratory in order for the coming year, while Ann Moore and Camilla Henderson with the help of Gail and Mrs. Rebecca Smith, homemaking teacher, began the painting and covering the mattress. Jane Bass and Nina Ahryn Oakes removed the old finish from a chest of drawers.

Others at the planning meeting were Gwen Johnson, leader, Katherine Raynor, Carol Tadlock, Sylvia Vincent, Helen Overton, Patry Jones, and Carol Gaskins, all FHA members.

Some of the activities for the year are a booth at the Pitt County Fair, acquainting ninth grade girls with high school, and helping with the District FHA Rally to be held at East Carolina College October 25.

ORANGE CREAM

Ingredients: 3 egg yolks, 1/2 cup sugar, juice of 1 large orange, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 1 cup heavy cream (whipped), 1/2 cup slivered blanched toasted almonds.

Method: Beat egg yolks and sugar together thoroughly; beat in orange juice—there should be 1-3 to 1 1/2 cup. Cook and stir constantly over hot, not boiling, water until mixture thickens—about 15 minutes. Stir in grated orange rind; cool. Beat cream until stiff and fold into custard mixture. Makes about 3 cups. Spoon over slices of angelfood cake and sprinkle with almonds. Or turn into serving bowl and sprinkle with nuts if cake is cut and served at table.

Round Table Demands Dramatic Treatment

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

The round dining table has emerged from the Victorian era into the sleek modern interiors of today. Young married couples search the attics for Grandma's round walnut table with its pedestal base and give it the place of honor in their living-dining area.

Contemporary furniture designers are turning out lighter versions of the round table, with tapering, brass-tipped legs. The silhouette is the same, however, whether the table is old or new. And the bright mood of modern dinner parties demands table settings that are gay, unusual and imaginative.

Local sewing center experts suggest making a round tablecloth, to fall to the floor in graceful swirls. Select a multi-colored stripe for gaiety, such as one new fabric designed in decorator widths by Schiaparelli. Even if you're not a whiz at geometry, you'll find a round tablecloth easy to make if you follow these simple instructions:

First find center of table and run tape measure from center over edge to a point about one inch from the floor. This will give you the radius of your circle.

Cut a strip of fabric twice as long as the radius measurement, plus two inches for hem allowance. Lay strip across table so it falls to the floor on either side. Cut two more strips of fabric of equal length. Each strip should be wide enough so that the length and width of the fabric are equal when all three strips are laid out together.

Pin selvages together, matching stripes. Stitch seams. Press open. The resulting cloth should be a large square, all sides equal. Lay fabric flat on floor. Fold fabric in half lengthwise. Find center of folded line. Tie piece of string to thumbtack, and insert tack at center part of fold. Measure off length of string equal to radius measurement and tie chalk to other end of string. Use string as compass and draw a half circle on fabric with chalk. Cut, allowing an inch extra all around.

A round tablecloth does not require a deep hem and is most effective with a narrow one. A satin stitch is easy and attractive.

TABLE FASHION . . . Round tablecloth is made of multi-stripe fabric designed by Schiaparelli for dining swank.

If you own one of the new slant-needle automatic sewing machines or an automatic zigzag attachment. With the machine set for a wide bight and close satin stitch, simply zigzag around chalked outline. Cut away excess fabric.

Make linen napkins in assorted colors to match the stripes. Plain white plates are best when the

Braves Clinch Pennant With Twin Labor Day Wins

By ED WILKS

The Associated Press

Labor Day spelled the end of hard labor for the Milwaukee Braves in their run for the National League pennant. But it revived a suspicion that the New York Yankees will have to work overtime for the American League flag.

The Braves just about nailed their first title since 1948 (when they were a Boston bunch) with a rollicking 22-10 and 4-0 sweep of the Chicago Cubs. That produced an 8½-game lead again, as Cincinnati spilled second-place St. Louis twice, 10-5 and 3-1 in 10 innings.

Third-place Brooklyn skidded nine games back, losing a pair to Philadelphia 10-4 and 7-4.

The Braves, playing at a .588 pace (10-7) since breaking up the 10-game winning streak, can lead at 500 without too much worry through their remaining 24 games.

But the Yankees, who should have wrapped up their third consecutive pennant with a three-game sweep against second-place Chicago last week, now find themselves with only a 4½-game edge after losing a pair at Baltimore. They blew a six-run lead in an 8-7, 11-inning defeat, and then dropped a 6-1 decision as Connie Johnson hit the AL season high with 14 strikeouts.

The White Sox muffed a chance to nick another game from the Yankee lead by losing 5-4 at Detroit after beating the Tigers 8-2 for Billy Pierce's 18th victory, tops in the majors.

Yankee Mickey Mantle also lost ground in the twin bill, going 1-for-7 and dropping four points to .373. That cost him the bat lead, Boston's Ted Williams, in bed with a cold as Boston swept Washington 7-1 and 8-7, regained the lead with his static 376.

The New York Giants swept Pittsburgh 11-5 and 4-3 in the other NL twin bill and Cleveland clubbed Kansas City 8-0 and 6-3 in the other AL action.

If the Braves have a worry, it could be Lew Burdette. The big right-hander (14-7) hasn't gone the distance or gained a decision in three tries. He failed to make it even with a 13-3 lead in the opener as Ernie Johnson relieved in the third and mopped up for his seventh victory.

Southern Bob Trowbridge gave the pitching a boost in the nightcap with a three-hitter.

Wes Covington, matching Hank Aaron's six RBIs in the opener, drove in eight runs for the day, homering along with Ed Mathews in the first game and socking a two-run triple in the nightcap. In all, the Braves had 26 hits in the opener, a season high in the majors.

Frank Torre scored six Milwaukee runs in the first game, tying the major league record.

The Redlegs cracked three home runs in the opener, then took the nightcap on Frank Robinson's two-run homer that broke up a seven-inning shutout duel between Don Gross and Larry Jackson.

Home runs by Ed Bailey and Bob Thurman, who had four RBIs, powered the Reds to five runs in the first game second, chasing rookie whiz Von McDaniel while Hal Jeffcoat went all the way with a 13-hitter. Ken Boyer and Irv Neron homered for the Cards.

Gus Hamner drove in six runs and Ed Bouchee collected five hits for the Phils, who battered five Dodger pitchers for 31 safeties in the twin bill. Duke Snider homered in both games for the Braves.

Warren Hacker won the opener with his first complete game since 1936. Jim Hearn took the nightcap in relief of Roger Craig and Danny McDevitt were the losers.

Billy Gardner's RBI single won the opener for the Orioles after George Kell, who had seven RBIs for the day, had tied it with a two-run single in the ninth. Bob Grim was the loser with Ken Lehman the winner, both in relief.

Frank Lary won his fifth in a row for the Tigers in the nightcap, backed up by homers from Al Kaline, Harvey Kuenn and Reno Bertoia. Dick Donovan lost it. The Sox scored four in the first in the opener, three on Minnie Minoso's homer, but Pierce needed Gerry Staley's relief in the sixth despite a 7-1 lead.

Eight-inning home runs by Jimmy Piersall and Sammy White hauled the Red Sox from behind in the nightcap with George Susce's ninth-inning relief saving Murray Wall's first victory. Piersall also homered in the opener as Frank Sullivan won his 12th with a six-hitter.

Mike Garcia blanked the A's with a five-hitter, his first shutout in a year. Woody Held had three of the Kansas City hits. Bobby Avila rapped a two-run homer in the first off Ned Garver.

United Nations Handicap Could Be The Best

By ORLO ROBERTSON

The $100,000 United Nations Handicap at Atlantic City Sept. 14 could well be the race of the year with Round Table and Gallant Man, leading candidates for the 3-year-old title, matching strides against a hand-picked field of older horses.

Round Table, winner of seven straight races after beating Kentucky Derby winner Iron Liege by four lengths in last Saturday's American Derby at Washington Park, will be in the mile-and-three-sixteenths race over the grass. Owner Travis Kerr of Oklahoma City and trainer Willie Moller have advised Atlantic City officials the colt will be flown to the New Jersey track tomorrow.

Ralph Lowe, owner of Gallant Man, has an invitation in hand for his little Irish-bred campaigner, who beat Round Table in the Kentucky Derby while losing by a nose to Iron Liege and then walloped Bold Ruler in the Belmont Stakes. Lowe has not indicated whether he'll accept the invitation.

Should both go in the United Nations, Gallant Man will carry 119 pounds and Round Table 118. Among the older horses whose owners have accepted invitations to start in the U.N. are C. V. Whitney's Career Boy, winner of the 1956 running; Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Hoop Band; Alfred Vanderbilt's Find, who finished second to Mrs. Rice's Pucker Up in the $117,400 Washington Park Handicap yesterday; the Cedar Farm's Our Dance; and either Mister Gus or Porterhouse from the Llangollen Farm of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lunn.

Pucker Up, a 4-year-old filly, might have been in line for an invitation off her three-length triumph over Find Labor Day. But rules of the race prevent an owner from having more than one representative.

Mrs. Rice's filly, ridden by Willie Shoemaker for his third straight Washington Park Handicap victory, picked up $90,800 for her trip of 1 minute, 34 4-5 seconds over the grass course. She paid $12,200 for $2.

The Washington Park Handicap was the richest race on the national card Labor Day as 257,141 fans turned out at 11 tracks and wagered $16,645,048.

At Belmont Park, where the largest crowd of 50,833 wagered the most money of $3,673,165, the $29,650 Fall Highweight Handicap was won by Itoke from Harry Isaac's Brookfield Farms of Baltimore. The 4-year-old colt stepped the 6 furlongs down the Widener straightaway course in 1:09 2-5, earned $20,600 and paid $10 for $2.

By BILLY ARNOLD

With about two weeks in which to whip up an East Carolina football team to meet the University of Richmond at Portsmouth, Va., the Buc coaching staff hasn't been sparing the horses.

Yesterday, the opening day of drills, the 51 candidates hit the ECC practice field at 9:30 and again at 3:00 in full dress.

After a handful of varied warm-up exercises (by the way, they're warming up in 95 degree weather) Coach Jack Boone and his aides put the gridders through light contact drills.

Each of the coaches stationed themselves at a point on the field and worked a special exercise with one group. The groups then moved from one coach to the next, from one exercise to the next. All got a taste of the same. There were tackling, blocking, passing, running, and fast maneuver drills.

Coaches Boone, Jim Mallory, Earl Smith, Frank Madigan and Bill McDonald had the gridders going at top speed throughout each workout. Dick Cherry is also helping.

End Bucky Dennis, a 6-4, 225-pound import from Portsmouth was heard to comment that he lost 10 pounds during the Monday morning workout. Hoss Howell topped him with 13.

Speaking of pounds, we've figured up that the East Carolina team, as a whole, weighs 8,455 pounds. And that isn't complete. We don't have the weights of seven of the newcomers.

The word from Coach Boone in pre-season interviews is that "We're practically having to start from scratch with this club" and "We should have a real good ball club in the next two or three years."

This kind of talk is prompted by the fact that Boone lost 27 men from his 1956 squad, including 18 lettermen.

But most of the spectators and the just plain curious who were hanging around the Pirate practice field Monday were gaping open-mouthed at this group that Boone is going to start from scratch with.

Take a look at this roster—and this includes only lettermen.

Racing's Wild Man Wins Darlington 500 Prizes

By DEL BOOTH

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP)—A brilliant, steady performance by one of the wild men of stock car racing won the tragedy-marked eighth annual Southern 500 here yesterday.

Speedy Thompson of Monroe, N.C., went home with the top take of $13,450 and a new race record of 101.1 miles per hour in his pocket.

Death rode the rails to the horror of the estimated crowd of 70,000 when a three-car pile-up on the 28th lap of the six-hour grind proved fatal to Bobby Myers, 33, of Winston-Salem, N.C.

His death was the first in the eight-year history of the event.

Thompson, who qualified at a fast 117.8, kept his Chevrolet in contention all the way from starting seventh in a field of 50. He took over shortly after Glenn (Fireball) Roberts of Daytona Beach, Fla., wrecked out by hitting the spinning car of Parnelli Jones of Torrance, Calif., on the 102nd lap.

The Monroe speedster, who has a reputation for keeping the gas pedal on the floor regardless of track conditions, took a full pit stop shortly before the 180th lap, and Curtis Turner of Roanoke, Va., last year's winner at 95.16 m.p.h., stepped into the lead.

When Turner pitted on lap 211, Thompson got it back and held it except briefly at the 280th lap mark in the 364-lap grind. Lee Petty of Randleman, N.C., held it for several laps at that point.

Turner was edging up toward the lead again on the 233rd lap when he and Petty bumped sides in the third turn. Turner spun out, wrecked, got his car back in running order after an 18 lap pit stop, but was out of contention, finishing 11th. Petty blew a tire shortly after taking the lead and was out of the race.

Thompson held on steadily from there, his pit stops taking only five minutes and 52 seconds.

Cotton Owens of Spartanburg, S.C., starting on the pole, finished second for $5,850 in a Pontiac. His six pit stops for seven minutes loss was the difference for him.

Coming in third in a Ford after five pit stops that took 9 minutes and 25 seconds was Marvin Panch of Gardena, Calif., for $3,775 of the $53,000 purse. He started 33rd.

Panch held his second place in the national championship point standings of the sanctioning National Assn. for Stock Car Auto Racing at 7,936 points.

Holding first place in points for a season-end share in a percentage of all race purses of the year was Buck Baker of Charlotte, N.C., who finished fourth, from starting 9th, for $1,975 in a Chevrolet. Baker, the 1953 winner here, now has 8,320 championship points.

Jim Reed of Peekskill, N.Y., was fifth for $1,500 in a Ford that was out of the top five until the final dozen laps after getting up among the leaders briefly at the 50th lap from his start at 12th.

The paved 1½-mile oval had a track temperature of 140 degrees in the near 100-degree heat, and it told on tires and cars.

Mechanical failures sent many cars to the pits. Spins into the rail and several minor collisions had the caution flag out half a dozen times.

The crash in which Bobby Myers was killed came on the 28th lap when Tony Flock of Atlanta, 1952 winner, went into a spin on the third turn. Myers piled directly into him and flipped over into the path of Paul Goldsmith of St. Clair Shores, Mich.

Odds On GHS-Goldsboro In Big State Of Change

GOLDSBORO — Odds on the Greenville-Goldsboro high school football game here this Friday night are in a constant state of change.

While always favoring the AAA club over the AA club by some slight margin, oddsmakers are beginning to get nervous about this particular game. Folks at Goldsboro aren't looking for one of their better seasons.

The Quakes, under new Coach W. D. McRoy, are having troubles of all kinds. With only five lettermen back from their 1956 squad—three of which are playing new positions — the team is suffering from lack of depth and experience.

As if that weren't enough, starting quarterback Jerry Ellis sprained an ankle last week that could bother him later on this season. McRoy had eight veterans returning at the opening of drills, but lost three of them before practice could even get underway good.

Norris Jeffrey, Bill Garfield, and

Colton Carraway, letterman line men, dropped off the squad for various unavailing reasons.

Back to form the nucleus of the '57 eleven are Ellis, and Jimmy Eason in the backfield, Bill Mason, Benny Ward, and Walter Wiggins in the line.

Ellis is a 155-pound senior who can pass, run and kick. Eason runs at right half and weighs 180 pounds.

Wiggins, a 185-pound senior at guard, is perhaps the team's most outstanding individual player. Ward is a 175-pound tackle. Mason, at 170, was shifted from quarterback to an end post.

The rest of the probable starting lineup runs thusly: Bobby O'Daniel, 170, end; Joe McLawhorn, 175, tackle; Boyd Davis, 160, center; Jimmy Eason 160, guard; Donny Fredericks, 155, halfback; Phil Ellis, 185, fullback.

But in the Greenville camp, things are uncertain, too.

Under new Coach Bud Phillips, the Phantoms are beginning anew and will field one of the lightest clubs in its history. The average team weight will run at about a tad beneath 140 pounds.

While Phillips will have eight lettermen in the probable starting lineup, only five of those were actual starters last season.

The Phantom backfield will be pretty well off with a possible three lettermen regulars returning. Mack Roebuck, at quarterback, Charlie Roberts at left half, and Bob (Hotrod) Howell, at right half, give the GHS backfield plenty of experience.

In the line, the returning regulars are Billy Brown, guard; Billy Cox, end, and Kelly Barnhill, tackle. Others who saw duty last year who will be back are Godfrey Oakley, Albert Crawford, and Wilber Owens.

The thing that makes the odds-making so difficult about this approaching contest is that the new coaches aren't talking about their clubs and it is anybody's guess what the new mentors can come up with. Oddsmakers in both towns aren't too optimistic. But they could be wrong.

Possible Starting Backs

Fites Last Nite

NEW YORK — Jerry Luedee, 168½, New Haven, Conn., stopped Freddie Mack, 170, Brooklyn, 8.

TUJANA, MEXICO—Art Aragon, 152, Los Angeles, outpointed Alfredo Cota, 147, La Paz, Mexico, 10.

Farmville Elects Athletic Heads, Cheerleaders

FARMVILLE—The Athletic Association officers of Farmville high school were elected by the school August 30.

Elected were George Cannon, president; Johnny Dixon, vice president; Sandra Wooten, secretary; Sonny Mall, treasurer; Beth Wainwright and Bill Jones, reporters. Cheerleaders were also chosen. They were Linda Mewborn, head cheerleader; Jenny Purdue, Sandra Phillips, Betty Sue Baker, Sandra Wooten, Faye Baker, Beth Baker, Kay Allen and Betsy King.

Correction

An error in yesterday's story concerning the special train to the Richmond-ECC game in Portsmouth, stated that the train would leave Greenville at 1:30 a.m.

The train will leave the Atlantic Coast Line station here at 1:30 p.m. instead.

CONSTIPATED?

New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gas, bloating or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrust" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it to action; to a normal urge to purge. And, of all laxatives, only COLONOID, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONOID's great moisturizing capacity, plus COLONOID's stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONOID is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy. Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONOID neither gags, bloats nor grips; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions. It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONOID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Use COLONOID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98c for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

CHAPTER 8

Deborah glimpsed an opening between buildings, a cobbled lane running through to the next street. It was close to the scene of activity but only a few stragglers were milling about at the mouth of the lane.

Disengaging the gear lever, she revved the car engine furiously and at the same time pressed the horn, setting up a racket that made those nearest her jump with alarm. She guided the nose of the car into the lane, jammed on the brakes, and left the engine running. Jumping out she scrambled up on the fender, raising herself until she could see into the core of the mob.

Seeing Andrew hemmed in there, she waved frantically until she caught his eye. His expression, as recognition dawned, was one of almost ludicrous disbelief.

"Over here," she shouted.

He had been unable to clear a way for himself but now that Deborah was involved, he put a shoulder between the two nearest men and propelled himself through. The action was so sudden and violent that he reached the edge of the crowd before the people were aware that he was gone.

"You little fool," he exclaimed on reaching the car, "get away from here."

Jumping down from the fender, Deborah flung herself into the driver's seat and beckoned to him to follow. She saw the mingled emotions reflected on his face: a reluctance to run away; an unwillingness to involve her; a resentment of the mob that made him hush to lash out at the nearest gaping face. There wasn't time to stand there and argue with himself. Deborah shouted at him angrily and he crashed in beside her. Before he could close the door she drove ahead, into the lane. She raced the car over the cobblestones to the other. There she braked violently, almost throwing her head up against the windshield, and looked right and left before turning into the next street. The pavements here were all but deserted. None of the few pedestrians troubled to glance their way. They drove a hundred yards in silence.

"I suppose I ought to thank you," said Andrew Garvin at last, "but I'm too angry with you for taking such a chance."

"I was afraid the crowd might get out of hand."

"My car's not far from here. If you don't mind dropping me at it."

"No, I don't mind," said Deborah quietly.

It was deflating, after her desperate effort, to hear him giving directions as casually as if she were a taxi driver. A few streets away, she brought her car to a stop behind his Jaguar. Someone had taken the trouble to daub the hood and windshield with mud. Andrew got out and turned to look at Deborah through a window.

"I'm a surly brute," he said. "Please forgive me. I—I'm not myself."

"If people did to me what they were doing to you, I wouldn't be myself."

"That's just the point. You ought to have kept out of it. People will talk."

"Do you think I care what they say?"

Andrew regarded her seriously. "I read once about an African native who took refuge in a tree from a wounded buffalo. He tied himself on so that the beast could not dislodge him when it huffed the tree with its skull. He was just high enough to be beyond reach of its horns. But his feet were dangling. He could not bring them up, and the beast started licking them with its tongue. The tongue was like a rasp and in a few hours it stripped the flesh and sinews from his feet and ankles, right down to the bare bones. By the time help came he had bled to death."

"What a horrible story."

"Human tongues are like that," said Andrew. "With their malice and lies they'll strip you to the bone. Well, I'll be on my way. It'll do you no good to be seen talking to me."

"I'd like to ask a question. About something that's none of my business."

Andrew studied her. "Fire away," he said.

"I suppose I'm giving you one more jab, asking about the—the crime. But I would like to know who found the—the—"

"The body? Well, that's an innocuous question, compared with some I've had to answer. My wife was found by her maid about five o'clock in the afternoon. I came home about twenty minutes later, to a house and garden swarming with police."

"But, if you had a maid, how could the murder go undetected for hours? Surely she heard something?"

"The maid was in Dumfries all day. My wife sent her on an errand by the early morning bus."

"Oh."

"I spent the day painting near Old Knowe Farm. At least," he made a face—"that's my story. The first time the police questioned me they listened gravely and seemed to believe me. The second time, about twenty-four hours later, they had developed a certain scepticism."

He brought out a pipe. His strong restless fingers toyed with it while he talked.

"For a week they kept hauling me in at intervals. A few minor points needed clarifying, they said. And then they confronted me with the written statements of three witnesses. The dear old lady who lives at the bend of the road near my house, the attendant at the garage where I buy petrol, and the farmer's son from Old Knowe."

"The old lady had seen me arriving home about the time of the murder. The garage attendant had sold me petrol on my way home. The farmer's son, mending dikes all day near the spot where I claimed to be, was quite sure I was nowhere in sight. So, you see, I'm not only a murderer. I'm a liar."

"If they are to be believed," said Deborah. Her intent gray eyes searched his face. "Why did they lie?"

"You say it as if you were quite sure they did lie."

"Well, didn't they?"

"I don't know why they lied. If it was one person it could be an honest mistake. Three honest mistakes are a bit hard to swallow."

"What happened to the maid?" asked Deborah, remembering the dust and disorder of his house.

"Annie Manson? Her mother whisked her home the evening. To a small holding on the Edinburgh Road."

A baker's van was nearing. At sight of them, the driver slowed to a crawl. His mouth fell open as he craned his neck to stare. Andrew straightened up. His expression became rigid and impersonal. He spoke a curt word, made a stiff gesture, as if Deborah had stopped only to ask a direction. Turning, he walked quickly to his car and drove off.

By CHARLES BISSETTE

3 R's Send-Off

Back-to-school time this week! And here's a back-to-school idea that will delight some favorite youngster of yours.

Why not give a camera to start the school year off with a bang? The fun of taking pictures lasts through a lifetime. When you get the kids started early they'll have a picture record of all the happy times they've had from school days on.

Here are a couple of gift suggestions. The new Brownie Starflex will delight the young-at-heart no matter what age they are. The big viewfinder lets them see the whole picture just as it will look later. And this fits-in-the-hand little snapshooter takes COLOR SLIDES, too. Just a flick of a lever to "Color" and it's ready to make slides or color snaps. Now the kids can know the fun of having their slides shown right along with the grownups. Best of all, the Starflex is easy to give—costs little.

Another gift suggestion in the same line is the Brownie Starflash. It's the same basic camera, but comes with a flashholder built right in the top for quick, easy flash shots any time. Takes color slides, too (as well as color and black-and-white snaps).

Lots of people have come to us for gift suggestions, and we're delighted to help them pick out just the right thing. Drop in this week and we'll help you select the right gift camera.

WORTH IT?

TULSA (AP)—Stealing a kiss cost George Frederick Williams a $20 fine. Tulsa police said Williams, 30, crawled through a hotel room transom and planted a kiss on the cheek of a teenaged girl.

This is the EDSEL

"Tomorrow a remarkable new automobile joins the Ford family of fine cars"

There has never been a car like the Edsel. It is a magnificent automobile. Behind it lie all the resources of Ford Motor Company, all of the experience and engineering skill. The results: The Edsel is powered by the newest V-8 engines in the industry—the Edsel 400 and the Edsel 475. Specifications: 400 and 475 foot-pounds of torque; 303 and 345 horsepower; 10.5 to 1 compression ratio.

The Edsel's big, safer brakes do not need periodic tightening.

They adjust themselves automatically in the course of your day-to-day driving.

The Edsel shifts itself. With Teletouch Drive, you just touch a button on the steering wheel hub. Teletouch Drive does the rest—smoothly, surely, electrically.

The Edsel's list of available new features includes contour seats; a warning light that flashes when you exceed your pre-set speed limit; another that flashes when oil is one quart low; a release that lets you open the luggage compartment from the driver's seat. There are many things that make the Edsel different from any other car you have driven. More exciting, more sure, more safe.

What does an Edsel cost? Prices range from just above the lowest to just below the highest. You can afford an Edsel. And you can choose from four series, 18 models.

Stop in soon at your Edsel Dealer to see and drive the newest car in the world: the Edsel.

Now you can see and drive the

TV Audiences Offered Close-Up Of Legal Trials

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's newest programming stunt is a double careful of work for ad-lib veteran Jim McKay.

"Toughest job I ever had," he cheerfully vows, taking off the headphones. "All that gabble in one ear, all those performers in the other."

McKay is anchor man on "The Verdict is Yours," the Columbia network's attempt to shake up the afternoon format and entice housewives away from all those soap operas.

"The Verdict" bowed in yesterday. The basic idea is to submit legal trials to viewers in unheated format. From the director down, no one will know when a case begins how many days it will take, what will happen next on camera, or what the solution will be.

Actors are being used only for the parts of plaintiff and defendant. Real-life lawyers will be the attorneys, barristers or retired jurists the judges. The jurors are to be picked from the opening day studio audience.

"They will have to agree to come back daily until the case is finished," warns McKay. "and they will be paid just about what real life jurors get. We don't want to spoil them."

McKay, who is 35 and has been doing CBS news and sports programs since 1950, has the chore of pulling together all the vagrant elements and providing the continuity.

Circumstances Altered Case In Careless Charge

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Pedro Garcia appeared before Municipal Court Magistrate Fred J.

Mack on a charge of careless driving.

Garcia gave this explanation: While he was driving his automobile, he saw a black widow spider weaving a web from his car's sun visor on the driver's side of the vehicle. The spider was at eye level.

Pedro swung at the spider. His aim was good but not his punch. The black widow wound up in Garcia's shirt.

That's where the careless driving came in. Garcia forgot about his role at the steering wheel, set out in search of the spider. The car rammed into the rear of another vehicle, parked on the street.

Mack allowed that Garcia's action was understandable, dismissed the charge.

All-Out Effort By Underground

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — The Soviet Union and Germany's Communists are waging a big underground campaign to defeat Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in West Germany's Sept. 15 election.

From a special headquarters in Soviet-ruled East Berlin, Red agents, propaganda and funds are pouring across the frontier into West Germany. Former functionaries of the banned Communist party in West Germany are working with the East German agitators.

Officials of the German FBI here give this account: Nikita Khrushchev in his visit to East Germany called on West German voters to oust Adenauer. The Central Committee of the East German Communist party was informed that the Reds should support all forces opposing Adenauer's bid for a third term.

Masses of propaganda portraying the 81-year-old Chancellor as a warmonger, a new Hitler and a traitor to the German people are being smuggled across the long, loosely guarded Iron Curtain.

Fifteen million handbills are being distributed in big cities by West German Communists. They receive 60-100 marks ($14.30 to $24) a month for their work.

These fanatic Reds and members of the outlawed Communist youth organization are also writing letters to 50,000 families in an effort to stir up unrest.

Well-trained East German agents are moving into the country to herd West German Reds to the polls on election day. Fourteen were grabbed in one day but many others get through.

Street Survey Order Was Error

MOUNTLAKE TERRACE, Wash. (AP) — The city fathers may have made a mistake in ordering a street survey.

They wanted to see whether any residents had built on city property. An engineer found the paving meanders back and forth and the city fire hall is mostly on the right-of-way.

WALL STREET — NEW YORK (AP) — Post Labor Day uncertainty reigned on the stock market early this afternoon with prices mixed and trading slow.

Caution prevailed as traders and investors waited for business conditions and the market to show signs of developing a new trend at this traditional turning point.

Key stocks were up or down from fractions to around a point. Coppers, after early firmness, lost ground on news of further cuts in the price of copper.

Rails were down from the start. Stocks were mixed despite reports of upturning steel orders for the 1958 auto models. Motors were slightly lower or unchanged.

Most major aircrafts were steady. Oils were irregular, as were chemicals.

After a generally higher opening with trading fairly active, the price pattern became spotty and trading slowed to a rate lower than on Friday.

Among the rails, Hudson & Manhattan Railroad was a downside feature on news of a reorganization plan which would exclude both preferred and common shareholders. H&M preferred dipped around 3 points while the common was off more than a point.

Illinois Central and Baltimore & Ohio were down around a point each.

Phelps Dodge was ahead a fraction in early trading but fell around a point after it announced an immediate price cut of 1½ cents a pound for copper. Kennecott was off a major fraction after it, too, announced a price cut. International Nickel dropped a major fraction. Anaconda declined slightly.

Douglas Aircraft was up around a point. Boeing and United Aircraft were firm. Royal Dutch rose a point or so and Texas Co. a fraction while Gulf Oil, Amstar and Sinclair dipped.

U. S. Steel was off around a point and Bethlehem a fraction. Youngstown Sheet and Lukens Steel were up fractions. Chrysler and General Motors took fractional losses. Goodyear, Caterpillar, Air Reduction and Westinghouse Electric were higher. Du Pont, International Paper, Sears Roebuck and American Smelting were lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 40 cents to $175.30 with the industrials down 60 cents, the rails down 70 cents and the utilities unchanged.

APPROVED PARKING AREAS—Parking areas approved for students and teachers at the Junius H. Rose High School include a parking lot on the Northeast corner of the campus, on Elm Street in front of the school and on 14th Street on the southern edge of the campus. Parking in front of the school and on 14th Street is to be parallel parking, according to Principal O. E. Dowd and Police Chief S. G. Gibbs.

Some Heckling Over Integrating

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Negro and white children attend the same public school classes in North Carolina today for the first time in history.

Some parents gathered anxiously to observe the proceedings and there were "a few hecklers" as five Negro children entered the Gillespie Elementary and Junior High School at Greensboro.

Chief of Police Paul Calhoun quieted the hecklers by scolding them off the school grounds. Newsman identified one of the hecklers as C. A. Webster who was designated as temporary chairman of a White Citizens Council formed at Greensboro over the weekend by pro-segregationist John Kasper.

The Gillespie school principal's secretary said the five Negro children did not appear nervous as they entered the school. She said the white children "just accepted" them and "everyone went in quietly."

Another Negro child is scheduled to enter a Greensboro high school when classes start tomorrow.

Shallow Water Diving Victim

Victor E. Wells, 110 Longmeadow Road, suffered serious injury to his neck Sunday when he dove from a boat into shallow water in Pamlico River below Washington. He was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Information from witnesses to the near-tragedy said Wells dove from J. D. Hice's boat to where Tom Rowlette and Jimmy Roebuck were swimming and he was disabled when his head struck bottom. A physician examined Wells near the scene of the accident and friends brought the injured man to Greenville.

Wells is an employee of Person-Garrett Tobacco Company.

Shares Of Stock Go To Winners

Eight National Biscuit Company salesmen were awarded shares of the company's common stock for achieving sales increases during Nabisco's recent nationwide contest.

Winners were: M. W. Sutton, Wilson; C. M. Mason, Morehead City; W. R. Howard, New Bern; North Carolina, P. H. Heydenreich, Tarboro; North Carolina Beach, received two shares of stock; M. E. White, Greenville; D. H. Jackson, Washington; J. W. Tyson, Kinston; H. R. Jordan, Rocky Mount, each received one share of stock.

E. D. Griffith, manager, made the awards and he said that the incentive contest was based on increased sales of Nabisco products during three one-month periods, this year, as compared with sales results for the same period in 1956. He added that the company has awarded over 3,300 shares to winning salesmen throughout the country in a program costing over $150,000.

Scientists Of Fifty Nations Meet To Report Global Study

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

AP Science Reporter

TORONTO (AP) — Top scientists from 50 nations today began reporting first results of a unique physical examination of Mother Earth.

The head-to-toe checkup is the International Geophysical Year which began July 1 and lasts 18 months.

Dr. K. N. Ramanathan of India called it a greater scientific effort than creation of the first atomic bomb. He declared IGY's "potentialities for the unification of mankind are infinitely greater."

Dr. Ramanathan, director of the Physical Research Laboratory at Ahmedabad, India, is president of the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics, one of the large scientific organizations sponsoring the IGY.

IGY bands scientists from 64 countries in intensive, cooperative studies, sharing all they learn of all physical aspects of the planet we live on—from its molten heart to the vital mysteries of space.

In their two-week meeting here, the members of the IUGG will report plans and progress in most of the major IGY studies. These include weather, earthquakes and the earth's interior, the atmosphere, natural and man-made radioactivity, magnetism, ocean depths and currents and tides, the earth's water balance, more exact knowledge of the size and shape of the earth, and its volcanic fevers.

There will be reports on new studies of the age of the earth—whether the earth is warming up, whether continents have drifted apart or the poles have "wandered" in times past with vast effects on climate.

The scientists will describe explorations of the arctic and antarctic.

Eisenhower Calm Over Soviet Missile Claim

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, commenting on Russia's intercontinental missile claims, said today more testing of such weapons is a long way from production.

Eisenhower made the statement in a news conference when asked whether he could give the American people any information on the status of this country's efforts to develop an intercontinental ballistic missile—ICBM.

The questioner asked for comment in the light of the Soviet Union's announcement last week that it had successfully tested such a weapon.

Eisenhower replied that anything he said had to be within the framework of national security. He went on to say that careful reading of the Russian announcement marked it more for its own purposes, he said.

Eisenhower said that in the past the Russians have been something less than completely reliable, and added that on this occasion he saw no reason for placing more credence than usual in the Soviet announcement.

As for this country's progress in that field, the President actually said nothing about the status of work. He did say many millions of dollars have been spent within the capacity of available scientific knowledge and what he called the whole missile program.

The missile program has the highest priority, he said, but added that it will be a long time before a long-range missile is the best means of delivering explosive power.

Eisenhower told a news conference he estimates Congress cut government spending this year by only a billion dollars or so.

He said it might be possible to reduce taxes next year if further savings can be made—if, he added, some unforeseen ways of reducing expenditures can be found.

Eisenhower said he is not much inclined to modify a previous statement that he is tremendously disappointed in Congress' performance.

He said he regards inflation as

Agree To Carry On London Parley

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP) — The four Western powers decided today to continue disarmament negotiations with Russia as long as there is any possibility the Soviets will show serious intent to help end the world arms race.

But it was expected generally that the talks in the subcommittee of the U. N. Disarmament Commission are in their last week here.

Delegates of the United States, Britain, France and Canada coordinated their policy at a conference which took into account Soviet criticism of the Western package plan for a first-stage disarmament pact.

The first reaction from the Soviet delegate, Valerian Zorin, to the 11-point Western proposal was taken to mean that Moscow will not accept it as a basis for agreement.

The five-power Disarmament subcommittee, which resumed its London sessions March 18, has mixed down in an East-West split over the banning of nuclear weapons, a halt in production of such weapons and inspections to enforce any agreement.

The impasse was pointed up in a letter, made public today, from Prime Minister Macmillan to Soviet Premier Bulganin urging some real progress in the disarmament talks.

Macmillan went over the head of Valerian Zorin, Soviet delegate to the subcommittee, to call for a favorable consideration of Western proposals. He said the West was not discouraged by Zorin's recent rejection of the plan put forward by the United States, Canada, France and Britain, the Western nations on the subcommittee.

The Western plan called for reduction of conventional armaments and curtailment of nuclear weapons production, including a two-year halt in tests of such arms, and territorial inspection by land and air of atomic nations.

Zorin's rejection last week contended the plan contained nothing of genuine value and declared the Russians consider the five-month-old parley deadlocked.

The Soviet delegate accused the West of preparing for a new war and said the Western disarmament proposals were based on conditions that nullified the possibility of agreement. Zorin renewed Moscow's offer for a first-stage disarmament agreement on Soviet terms. They include a pledge to renounce for all time the use of nuclear weapons, an immediate halt to nuclear weapon tests, a 15 per cent cut in all defense spending, elimination of foreign military bases and a cutback of foreign forces in East and West Europe.

Macmillan told Bulganin the Western proposals were "an important contribution, both practical and imaginative, toward agreement between us."

"I earnestly trust that they will have your favorable consideration," the Prime Minister said. "You have but to say the word and real progress is assured."

Macmillan's letter was the latest exchange in the irregular correspondence he has carried on with Bulganin since early this year.

U. S. Disarmament delegate Harold Stassen, flying back to London after the weekend conferences in Washington, said he was neither optimistic nor pessimistic about the disarmament negotiations.

"We just keep on trying in the interest of avoiding a nuclear war," Stassen said just before leaving New York. "The mutual interest in avoiding a modern war is so large that we feel we should be patient and persistent in these negotiations."

He declined to comment on the prospects of the talks being broken off.

City System. He will also be required to make periodic inspections of the 11 tearaches in the county school system.

Harris was hired to be Greenville constable after the commissioners considered applications from him and from Linwood E. Tripp, also of Greenville. The new constable, who will work on a fee basis, is a former member of the Greenville Police Department, a World War II veteran, and a farmer. He is 37 years old, married, and the father of two children.

The supplementary contract read into the record for Hollowell was actually approved during the early part of the present fiscal year. Under the terms of the contract, he will receive $500 from the county for his work in helping to determine and settle shortages in the county's Tax Department last fall.

Wright, who is advertising manager of The State, was awarded a contract for a $200 advertisement after explaining the magazine's plan to devote its October 5 edition to Pitt County. The advertisement accepted by the county is for a full-page spread in the special edition.

Other business this morning included acceptance of a road petition, drawing three jury lists, acceptance of bids for coal for county buildings, and agreement to rent a vacant office in the Edwards Building.

The road petition, which was forwarded to the State Highway Commission, calls for hard-surfacing a 15-mile stretch of road in Carolina Township. The road is known as the Post Oak Road and the petition notes that it has seven houses, a church, a mail route and a school bus route on it.

Jury lists which were drawn were for the October 7 mixed term of Superior Court, the October 21 civil term of Superior Court, and the October 28 mixed term of Superior Court.

W. C. Clark of Greenville was awarded a contract for supplying coal to the county after he placed bids of $13.75 per ton for stoker coal and $13.75 for egg coal. One other bid, from Bell's Coal and Oil Company of Greenville, offered to supply the coal for $13.75 per ton for stoker coal and $13.85 per ton for egg coal.

Judge Charles Whedbee of Greenville Recorder's Court was offered office space in the Edwards Building at $52.50 per month and agreement to vacate on 30-days notice. Whedbee's request for the space was presented to the commissioners by County Attorney W. W. Speight.

The commissioners also noted receipt of an application from Dr. Loren Wallin of High Point for the vacant Health Director's position in the Health Department.

The commissioners were scheduled to resume their meeting after lunch. Today's meeting was originally scheduled to be held yesterday, but was postponed because of the Labor Day holiday.

School Lines Form As City Students Begin Another Term

STUDENTS STREAM INTO NEW SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL
... As Classes Began For 4,300 City School Students

Planned, Orderly First Day

Greenville's schools, including the new million-dollar J. H. Rose High School, opened for business today.

An estimated 4,300 students were enrolled in the city system's six white schools and three Negro schools. Largest enrollments were reported at the senior high school and at C. M. Eppes School.

The opening went off in good fashion. Superintendent J. H. Rose said, "We have not had an opportunity to make preliminary tabulations of enrollments, nor have we had an opportunity to adjust crowded classrooms. Those things will be worked out, however, with a minimum of difficulty because the opening was a well-planned operation."

No hitches were reported by city policemen who directed traffic at the new high school where a special parking plan was put into effect for teachers and students. At least 115 cars, by actual count, were parked in special areas near the building but police said the drivers were prepared for the new situation.

Senior high school students, in addition to the parking innovation, also had an opportunity to cash in on a fashion regulation approved last week by the staff and faculty of the school. Many of them showed up in Bermuda shorts — and claimed an unusual comfort by being able to do so.

Wearing of the abbreviated attire was approved on an experimental basis.

Hodges Says Irresponsible Actions Now Unnecessary

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina communities will make the decisions on school segregation problems and they should do so "in an orderly and lawful manner," Gov. Hodges declared last night.

He repeated his belief that "mixing the races in our public schools is bad for both races" and endangers the school system. However, he said laws of the state have placed responsibility on the local level.

Speaking against the background of integration moves in three Tar Heel cities, Hodges asserted that laws under the Pearsall plan make it unnecessary for citizens "to resort to irresponsible actions to make their wishes felt."

He added, "North Carolinians do not like lawlessness. We have no place in our state for Ku Klux Klan. We want no outside agitators, Negro or white, meddling in our affairs."

The governor's first extended comment on recent developments in the school segregation picture was part of a major "report to the people" address delivered at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Associated Press Broadcasters. It was carried across the state by radio and television.

Earlier yesterday, the first Negro children to attend classes with whites in a North Carolina public school entered a Greensboro school. Further integration moves are scheduled at Charlotte today and in Winston-Salem tomorrow.

Hodges renewed support of his proposal, made two years ago, that North Carolina meet the segregation issue through a program of "voluntary separate school attendance." He also echoed "the firm conviction that any substantial mixing of the races in our schools would result in the destruction of the public school system."

While he said he is "fully convinced" the majority of both white and Negro Tar Heels favor separate school attendance, Hodges posed a series of questions for the "few Negro citizens" who he said have refused to go along.

"Do not they know that the plight of the Negro is worse in many of the areas which have so-called integrated schools, than it is in the South? Do they not know that court decisions cannot make or re-make a society?"

"Where are the Negro leaders of wisdom and courage to tell their people these things? Have they none?" he asked.

Hodges pointed out that the Pearsall plan was approved by a majority of better than 82 per cent in a Sept. 8, 1956, vote on constitutional amendments. He said it permits people in any locality to suspend school operations by a majority vote and also makes available tuition grants to private schools for parents who object to mixed public schools when no other public school is available.

Hodges recalled what he termed "a tragic mistake" the U. S. Supreme Court decision against school segregation. However, he said, "I must recognize, and our Legislature and our people have recognized" that the court "has the final word in the interpretation of our federal Constitution."

The governor declined to take any position on the integration decisions of the Greensboro, Charlotte and Winston-Salem school boards. He said he had been told he should have "publicly commended" the boards, and also that he had not "properly exercised my influence" to prevent the decisions. "Some have suggested that I, as governor, should have the personal authority to close the public schools of the state so as to prevent any mixing of the races to whatever extent degree," he added.

It was his position, he repeated, that "North Carolina has placed this problem of assignment of school children completely in the hands of the communities of the state."

His far-flung talk also touched on the income tax allocation formula for corporations. He said it was a "constructive" action which "has already made an impact in the world of industry and business."

Problems in the fine-cured tobacco industry, he said, must be worked out without placing in jeopardy "our tobacco support program." He declared, "It is tragic to see so many small tobacco farmers caught in the middle—hampered by acreage reduction, drought conditions, increased costs, and the controversy about mixed tobacco varieties."

Special School Given Approval

Approval was given yesterday to a special school for mentally retarded children.

City Superintendent of Schools J. H. Rose said today that the school and its operating budget had been approved by the State Department of Public Instruction. The school, which will open Monday, will be operated in the field house on the Third Street School campus and will be directed by Mrs. Ann Dunn Ross.

Students from throughout the county will be eligible to attend the school which will be supported with state and local funds. The 1957 General Assembly appropriated funds for state contributions and local contributions will come from city and county administrative units and from the Pitt County Mental Health Association.

BUDDY MURRAY AND BERMUDAS
... A New Look For High School Students

County Board Turns To Personnel And Building

Plans for new buildings and personnel for existing ones occupied the Pitt County Board of Education during its regular monthly meeting yesterday.

Contracts for six teachers were approved, treasurers and lunchroom managers were appointed, student assignments were okayed, and final plans for construction at three schools were reviewed and endorsed.

Teachers whose contracts were approved included Mrs. Virginia Odell Mills Monk, Nichols School; Oia Ray McLawhorn, Chicod School; Mrs. Davanna Beatrice Bullock, H. B. Sugg School; Mrs. Sadie Savage Briley, Bethel Union School; Frances Carolyn Hawkins, Bethel Union School; and Gloria B. Allen Dagg, Stokes School. In addition to having her contract approved, Mrs. Monk was given a 20-day leave of absence which is subject to renewal at 20-day intervals. Mrs. Monk has been a patient at Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill.

School treasurers who were appointed included:

Negro schools: Sallie Branch School, Thelma G. Grant; Falkland, Mrs. Mamie C. German; Bethel, Miss Minnie M. Allen; Stokes, Mrs. L. K. Simpson; Cherry Lane, Miss L. Taylor; Pitt County Training School, Mrs. Margaret King; Simpson, Hattie C. Laws; Grifton, Mrs. Martha J. Move; Ayden, J. B. Brown; Winterville, Miss Mae D. Ricks; Hadlock, Mrs. R. H. Gregory; Warren's Chapel, M. B. Atkins; Nichols, Mattie L. Dupree; Farmville, Mrs. Bessie M. Chance; and Fountain, Ellen Blount Gorham.

White schools: Belvoir, Mrs. Dorothy B. Hardy; Falkland, Mrs. Kay Phillips; Bethel, Donald Thompson; Stokes, Mrs. Betty Frances Warren; Pactolus, Mrs. Martha B. Alcorn; Grimesland, Mrs. Clara Carr; Chicod, Barbara Sutton McLawhorn; Grifton, Hazel Rumbley; Ayden, Mrs. Guya Clark; Winterville, Miss Mayis Brown; Arthur, Mrs. Faye Adcock; Farmville, Beatrice Player Aycock; and Fountain, Geneva W. Phillips.

Lunchroom managers who were approved included: Belvoir, Mrs. Dixie L. Dupree; Falkland, Mrs. Emma Mayo; Bethel, Mrs. L. E. Bantall; Stokes, Mrs. Ethel Clark; Pactolus, Mrs. Beulah Gurganus; Grimesland, Mrs. John Lewis; Chicod, Mrs. Clyde Skanley; Grifton, Julia Mahler; Ayden, Mrs. Nina Satterwaite; Winterville, Mrs. Virginia Jackson; Arthur, Mrs. Inez Vandford; Farmville, Mrs. L. E. Flowers; and Fountain, Mrs. Martha Bundy.

Final plans for construction which were approved were for a classroom addition at Robinson Union School, a gymnasium-auditorium at South Ayden School, and for a gymnasium at Grifton School.

The board also reviewed a report on the audit of special local school funds. The report, prepared

Taunts, Jeers Missiles Greet Negro Student At Charlotte; Boy Arrested

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Charlotte, Sept. 4 (AP)—A band of white students and spectators attacked a 15-year-old Negro girl with rocks and sticks today as she left a Charlotte High School after registering as the first student of her race there.

The girl, Dorothy Geraldine Counts, was walking along a street headed homeward with the crowd behind her as she was struck lightly with a thrown stick. She was not injured.

Police arrested a white youth and took him to headquarters. It was not known immediately whether he was a student or spectator. His name was not immediately made known.

Earlier, a taunting group had followed her up to the school entrance as doors were opened for students to register.

As she emerged after the brief registration session followed by class assignments, she said she had anticipated the reception she got from some students. But she added she expected the attitude of jeering students would pass off in about a week.

She reported that while seated in the school auditorium a white girl turned to her and said "I'm glad you're here." She said she heard another girl tell a friend, "She seems pretty nice." She said the white girls sat closely about her.

As she left, several in a small crowd, called out "Nigger, go home."

During her stay inside the school, she said, there were no incidents there.

The girl was the only Negro assigned to the Harding school, but there were three others scheduled to start classes today at previously all-white public schools in Charlotte.

At Central High School, Gustavus Allen Roberts, 16, received a few catcalls from spectators outside as he entered the school building with his father. But there was no unusual reaction from students and teachers there.

Students and other persons in automobiles blocked the streets around Harding High for several minutes. The Counts girl arrived by automobile and got out about a block away from the school, then made her way into the building. City policemen were in the area.

Girvaud Lillie Roberts, 12-year-old sister of the Central High Negro student, also received a few jeers when she entered Piedmont Junior High School, but otherwise her reception was calm.

Roberts and his father arrived at Central just before school started and there were few students present.

Outside, a group of about 25 youths, not Central students, hooted the boy and his father as they arrived, but their taunts were not especially severe.

Another Negro student, 12-year-old Dolores Maxine Huntley, was scheduled to start classes today at previously all-white Alexander Graham Junior High School, but did not show up. School officials said her mother telephoned to say that she had decided not to send the child today. The officials said the implication was that the girl would start her 7th grade classes later this week at the Alexander Graham School.

Roberts, greeted at the Central door by Principal Ed Sanders, walked alone, except for newsmen and photographers, to his home.

There he was met by Irv Edelman, his homeroom teacher and the school's basketball coach.

White students filled up seats on both sides of the Negro youth.

Roberts said he was not nervous. "I want to do well in my school work," he said, "go to the University of California at Los Angeles and be an engineer." He is in the 11th grade.

Five Negro children, without fuss except for a small group of white hecklers, began classes yesterday at Gillespie Park Elementary and Junior High School in Greensboro. Another was scheduled to enroll today at Greensboro Senior High School.

"Police routed a small band of hecklers from the Gillespie school, one of them temporary chairman of a White Citizens Council formed at Greensboro Saturday by segregationist John Kasper."

Tomorrow at Winston-Salem, one Negro child is scheduled to enter a white school.

Nat'l Guardsmen Block Little Rock Desegregation

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — National Guardsmen, following orders of Gov. Orval Faubus, today forcibly prevented racial desegregation of Little Rock Central High School. The soldiers turned back a total of nine Negroes who tried to enter the 2,900-pupil all-white school.

A crowd of some 300 whites milled about in front of the school shouting such phrases as "Nigger go back where you belong" but the whites made no attempt to harm the Negroes.

Maj. Gen. Sherman T. Clinger, Arkansas adjutant general, said the guardsmen, all whites, were acting on the governor's orders.

"Gov. Faubus has declared Central High off limits to Negroes," Clinger told newsmen.

An unaccompanied 15-year-old Negro girl made the first attempt to cross a line of about 200 soldiers standing shoulder to shoulder. As she repeatedly attempted to pass through the formation, an armed guardsman stepped forward and silently turned her back.

She was followed a few minutes later by a Negro boy, also 15, who walked up to the guardsmen but made no attempt to pass.

The Negroes were led by a well-dressed white man, who could not immediately be identified.

The crowd of whites, which doubled in size almost at the instant the Negro girl appeared, was noisy and abusive in its language compared to the quiet, orderly crowd of 500 which gathered in front of the high school yesterday.

Faubus has maintained that the National Guard was not called out Monday night to maintain segregation at the school but only to keep "peace and order."

However, the Little Rock School Board interpreted the move as a block to integration and temporarily called off its federal court-approved gradual desegregation plan which had been scheduled to become effective with school opening yesterday.

Last night, Federal Judge Ronald Davies for the second time since Friday directed the board to proceed with integration at Central High.

The Negro girl, who identified herself as Elizabeth Echford, was engulfed by whites as she attempted to pass through the guardsmen. They shouted "Nigger go back where you belong" and "Nigger go back to Africa." One muttered, "let her go, she's being paid for it."

There were no attempts to harm the Negro girl.

Moments later a Negro boy, who said he was Terrance Roberts, 15, walked up to the guardsmen and stood quietly, making no attempt to pass.

A white youth lunged at him and a guardsman reacted quickly. The soldier grabbed the white youth, searched him for weapons and thrust him back into the milling crowd.

Farther down the line, seven Negro students accompanied by a few Negro adults, asked a National Guard officer to allow them in the school. Passage was again denied.

The Negro girl, who refused to answer newsmen's questions except to identify herself, sat on a bench across the street from the school. After soldiers had dispersed a crowd of 50 whites who had gathered about her, she sobbed briefly.

The crowd became aroused when a white woman approached the girl in a friendly manner. The white woman and the Negro girl boarded a bus together. The other Negroes also left about 30 minutes after they had arrived and classes, containing only white students, began inside Central High.

The Justice Department in Washington indicated it looked on the Little Rock situation as serious.

International Narcotics Smuggling Ring Broken

NEW YORK (AP) — A giant international narcotics smuggling and distribution ring was reported smashed today with the opening in federal court of a sealed indictment naming 46 defendants and 16 conspirators.

A roundup of scores of persons in the New York City area already had been reported.

Head of the gigantic operation was Harry Stromberg, 54, who was the ring's "over-all director" for more than 25 years, according to a government spokesman.

The dope syndicate imported heroin, cocaine and opium from France and other countries, and on at least one occasion it smuggled in about 50 pounds of pure heroin valued on the illicit market at $3,500,000, according to U. S. Atty. Paul W. Williams.

The indictment was returned Aug. 28, sealed and opened today in the chambers of U. S. Dist. Judge Edward Weinfeld.

The ring used many "underhanded" methods in its operations and an untold number of customs inspectors were "corrupted" by it in agreeing to facilitate the smuggling of narcotics through New York, Williams declared.

Destroy Still In Morning Raid

Pitt County ABC officers destroyed a still in an early morning raid today.

Located in the Bethel Township, the 60-gallon drum still was not in operation at the time of the raid, officers said. In addition to the drum-type still, a 60-gallon cooler and 275 gallons of mash were found and destroyed.

Participating in the 1 a.m. raid were J. M. Ward, H. B. Lilley, W. M. Taylor, J. L. Ross and Jack Russell.

Flames Damaged Attic Of Home

Fire caused considerable damage in the attic of a home on Pitt St. around noon today.

The dwelling was occupied by Cleveland Earl Stevenson, Negro of 1108 B. Pitt St.

Firemen said the blaze might have been caused from a chimney leading from a cook stove.

High pressure hoses from two trucks were used in extinguishing the flames. There was some water damage in the lower portion of the house.

The dwelling is owned by P. L. Goodson.

Nearly $3 Millions In Loans By Corporation

RALEIGH (AP) — Loans of nearly three million dollars approved by the Business Development Corp. of North Carolina have played a part in maintaining or creating jobs for 3,893 Tar Heel workers.

This report was given yesterday by H. Powell Jenkins, the corporation's executive vice president, in a speech to the Raleigh Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Jenkins said one result of the loans has been to assist in maintaining employment for at least 1,485 people and to create an additional 2,408 new jobs. He pointed out this is "an average of one and one-third direct jobs for each $1,000 of loan."

The corporation, promoted by Gov. Hodges as a boost for small industries, began active operations a year ago last April. It was created by the 1955 General Assembly.

Loans approved have totaled $2,834,465 and have ranged from $2,000 to $300,000, Jenkins reported. While the corporation feels sure each local will be repaid, he added, "in every case a loan had been refused in normal lending channels, for the principal reason that repayment would require too long a period of time."

In reviewing the loans, Jenkins said 57 per cent would be used for aid in construction of new industrial plants and expansion of existing ones; 26 per cent for machinery and equipment; 13 per cent for working capital; and 4 per cent for payment of existing indebtedness.

Kennedy Takes Personal Charge

DETROIT (AP)—James R. Hoffa, chief inquisitor in the U. S. Senate Rackets Committee investigation of Robert F. Kennedy — was in Detroit today taking personal charge of a probe in Hoffa's home city.

He was noncommittal except to indicate Hoffa's financial affairs would be a part of his work.

Monster-Hunt In Cooler Weather

YEMASSEE, S. C. (AP)—Residents of this lowland area are planning a monster hunt come cool weather.

The reported monster screams like a woman, is yellowish brown with a bushy tail, is about five feet long and four feet tall.

Is it a lion? A panther? A myth? Except for the bushy tail, it could be a panther. It first was reported a year ago, but a hunt was fruitless.

The hot weather now has too many rattlesnakes out in this low lying area. When cool weather sends them into hiding, hunters in the area plan to take out after the monster.
