Syrian Military Chiefs Claim No Aggressive Ideas

DAMASCUS (AP)—Syria's two top military chiefs have returned from urgent conferences in Cairo, where they declared Syria will never attack anyone, including Israel. Brig. Aff. Bizry, leftist army commander, and Lt. Col. Abdel Hamid Serraj, army intelligence chief, came back to Damascus yesterday. There were no details here. Cairo newspapers, however, quoted them as saying Syria will not make any aggressive military move with the arms bought from the Soviet Union. There were other signs of an easing of Middle East tension over Syria. Premier Sabri Assal told reporters after another emergency meeting of the Cabinet that there was nothing new in the situation and "nothing to be worried about." Yesterday's Cabinet session was the fourth in as many days. The Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar said Serraj firmly denied charges that the Syrian army is controlled by Communists. Referring to increased U. S. arms shipments to Syria's neighbors, Serraj said: "The imperialists forget that Arab will never kill his Syrian brother." The United States early this week stepped up the arms deliveries after expressing fears over increasingly close Damascus-Moscow relations and Soviet arms shipments to Syria. Serraj said the leaders of Syria's army believe in nationalism and their unanimous aim is Arab nationalism. "I am not a Communist and there is not one single Communist officer in the whole Syrian army," Serraj added. He declared the United States divides the world into two parts—American or non-American. "You are either American and tie your country's policies and interests to those of imperialism or you are not, and this, they believe, means that you are Communist," he said. "To the Western imperialists every nationalist is a Communist and everyone who works for the interests of his country is a Russian agent." A government spokesman announced Bizry and Serraj had returned from Cairo, where they talked with President Nasser and his Egyptian army commanders. "What we will do is fight back against any attack," Bizry told the Egyptian Middle East News Agency. "We will burn the sky and the land to defend our country against Zionists or others. Bizry accused U. S. Secretary of State Dulles of waging a war of nerves against Syria. He predicted that Arab countries now getting arms from the United States will never use them against other Arab states. He also asserted the military aid Syria has received from the Soviet Union is for defense and said Russia has never asked Syria to sacrifice its independence.

Will Adjust Big Error On Taxes

RALEIGH (AP)—Plans have been laid to adjust a $281,540 error in the distribution to counties and municipalities of intangible tax collections for the past fiscal year. Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw reported yesterday that several governing bodies which were overpaid will be asked to remit the difference. In turn, he said, checks will be sent to the underpaid units as the refunds come in. In his report to the State Board of Assessment, which he serves as chairman, Shaw blamed the error on an "ill-timed" change in the process for classifying the returns. He emphasized that the error was "purely a matter of distribution" and not a question of "a shortage of money."

Cannot Nullify Laws: Truman

KANSAS CITY (AP)—"No governor can nullify the federal Constitution or the laws passed by Congress and approved by the Supreme Court under it," Harry S. Truman said yesterday. "When a governor cannot enforce these laws and decisions it is the sworn duty of the President of the United States to enforce them," he added. The former President made it clear he was referring to racial segregation laws in Arkansas, but he did not name any governor in his statement to a news conference. Truman said he volunteered the statement because he thought it should be made. He said it took a week to prepare it. During President Andrew Jackson's term, Truman recalled, South Carolina decided to nullify certain federal tariff laws. "The President informed the nullifiers that if they attempted to interfere with the enforcement of the laws of the United States, he would make a trip to South Carolina and hang all of them for treason. The nullifiers believed him, and the laws . . . stood the test." Truman issued the statement before leaving for New York to rejoin Mrs. Truman on a visit to their daughter Mrs. Clifton Daniel. He came here yesterday to help dedicate a new shopping center on the old Truman farm.

NEW YORK (AP)—A Brooklyn judge says teen-age defendants have been brazenly defying the law in Children's Court—hurling chairs and inkwells and threatening the lives of presiding justices. Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz cited examples of juvenile disrespect yesterday as he charged two grand juries on methods of dealing with youthful offenders in last year's integration disturbances at Clinton, Tenn. It also names Kasper, the Rev. John McCurio, itinerant preacher from Albuquerque, N.M., and 10 Nashville area residents as defendants. In addition, it strikes out broadly at "other persons now or hereafter in active concert with them"—that is, others who conspire with the named defendants. Judge Miller has ordered a

Nashville Police Are Armed With Court Order

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—City officials armed Nashville police today with copies of a broad federal court order prohibiting any interference with school integration here. Besides banning acts intended to keep Negroes out of racially mixed first-grade classes, the order specifically forbids boycotts of the newly integrated grammar schools. Six schools end their first week of integration today, after two days of surface calm. U. S. Dist. Judge William E. Miller issued the temporary order yesterday at the request of city and school officials. They asked for it to bolster a police get-tough policy in dealing with racial Guilford County and five of its municipalities were hardest hit by the faulty allocation. They were underpaid a total of $164,280, more than one-third the total error. Shaw's investigation resulted after Guilford County commissioners first noted something was amiss in the county's share of the intangibles tax. Shaw told the Board of Assessment he was convinced that intangible taxes "have been accurately allocated" in the past. His investigation showed, he added, "That the unfortunate erroneous report made this year resulted in what has proved to be an all-advised change in the procedures of this department about which—was not informed." The total error of $281,540 was about 5 per cent of the $5,746,332 distributed by the state to local governments. Under the law, the state retained 20 per cent of the collections and returned 80 per cent to counties and municipalities. Overpayments went to 72 counties, with the amounts ranging from $20,071.53 to Brunswick County to a few dollars in others. Underpayments went to 28 counties, with Guilford receiving the largest shortchange, $75,862.87. Among cities, 391 were either underpaid or overpaid. Most overpayments to cities ranged from $5,000 down. However, Greensboro is due $56,553 and High Point is due $29,011.

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP)—Richard L. Jones Jr., board chairman of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. Bureau of Advertising, says advertisers spent more on newspaper advertising last year than on radio, television, magazines and outdoor advertising combined. Jones, president of the News-paper Printing Corp. at Tulsa, Okla., told the board's meeting yesterday that more than $3,235,600,000 was spent on newspaper advertising last year.

Parade Will Inaugurate Scouting District Drive

A parade Saturday, Sept. 21, will inaugurate the 1957-58 fund drive for the Negro Scouts in the Pitt County Scouting District. Officially the drive will begin Monday, Sept. 23 and will terminate on Oct. 4. M. L. Bartlett has announced a quota of $1,500 for the 12-day campaign. The funds received from the Negro solicitation will be turned over to the East Carolina Council of the Boy Scouts of America. An overall quota for the Council has been set at $105,611. Both the Negro and white Scouts in the Pitt District have been asked to raise $12,000. Bartlett, County Finance Chairman, announced the lineup of community drive chairman this morning. They are: S. E. Selby of Greenville; C. M. Suzas of Fountain; Floyd Speight of Bethel; C. L. Brembley of Falkland; the Rev. H. R. Reeves of Grifton; John Ward, Jr. of Winterville; Gaston Monk of Bell Arthur; and J. W. Ormond and Robert Fleming of Ayden. Every Negro Scout in the Pitt District has been invited to participate in the parade Sept. 21. A Scouting official stated this morning, "We want a good representation from all the troops in the county in order that the people might see what they are support-

FBI Has Data

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department said today it has information of "possible significance" concerning the dynamiting of the Hattie Cotton School in Nashville, Tenn., and is turning it over to local authorities. Atty. Gen. Brownell said this is in line with the Justice Department's desire to be of all possible assistance to local authorities regarding violations of law. Brownell said the information is being turned over to Nashville authorities by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. This was the first formal announcement that FBI agents had taken a hand in investigating the blast Tuesday. The explosion wrecked the half-million-dollar school building. The dynamiting followed the admission of a Negro child to the first grade of the school. Brownell's brief announcement gave no indication as to the nature of the information developed by the FBI.

Burmese Fail To Soften Terms Of Condemnation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—An attempt by Burma to soften a new resolution condemning Russia for the bloody intervention in Hungary appeared headed for defeat today. U. S. sources said the United States and the other 36 sponsors of the resolution now before the U. N. General Assembly could not accept amendments offered by Burma yesterday. One Burmese amendment, for example, would change the word "condemns" to "deplores."

Set Public Hearing On Zoning

CITY FATHERS will hold a public hearing Oct. 17 on a Planning-Zoning Commission recommendation that two lots at the intersection of Watagua and Line Aves. and Farmville Blvd. be rezoned commercial. The Planning-Zoning Commission earlier this week recommended rezoning the property after they were told plans are in the making to construct a super market on the lots.

Mental Health Drive Directors Map Campaign

Dr. M.W. Aldridge and W.M. Scales, Jr., will serve as co-directors of the Pitt County Mental Health Association's fund drive which will open Monday. Dr. Ray Minges, president of the association, said that Aldridge and Scales will serve as over-all directors of the drive, but with particular emphasis on activities in Greenville. Tax Shortage In Raleigh Coffers

RALEIGH (AP)—A $90,000 shortage in Raleigh tax money will be turned over to the District Solicitor's office for possible criminal action. This was decided unanimously yesterday by the city council. City Manager W. H. Carper told the council that auditors uncovered the shortage during a routine examination of the books for the fiscal year ending June 30. The funds disappeared, it was noted, during the office term of Howard White, who retired June 30 after 17 years as city tax collector. Carper said White's $90,000 bond fully protects the city against any monetary loss.

Vote To Study Desegregation

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Blount County School Board last night voted unanimously to study an inter-racial group's request for a study plan for integrating schools in Maryville—Alcoa and Blount County. The request was signed by Leroy Porter, president of the Blount County Improvement Assn.

Officers Have 372 Warrants In Liquor Raids

GREENSBORO (AP)—Officers, authorized by 372 warrants against 194 persons, worked into the night last night in a five-county crackdown on illicit whisky activities. By midnight, more than 100 persons had been arrested. Names of the defendants were not available. The warrants, 41 federal and 331 state, were drawn for alleged whisky activities in Guilford, Alamance, Orange, Randolph and Rockingham counties. Federal, state, county and city officers participated in the raids after a briefing at Alcohol Beverage Control offices in Greensboro. The warrants charge illegal whisky manufacturing, transportation, wholesaling and retailing.

Gov. Faubus Takes Off Today On Flight To Presidential Meeting

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus took off today for a history-making conference with President Eisenhower on the aggravated federal-state integration problem at Little Rock. "I feel the same—hopeful," Faubus said. "I'm just going to see the President and I can't discuss the conference in advance, but I'm optimistic." The governor, accompanied by Arnold Sikes, his executive assistant, and Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.) left in a small two-motor Aero-Commander belonging to the Brown Aero Corp. of Dallas, Tex. This is the same type plane the President uses sometimes in flying from Washington to his farm in Gettysburg. W. C. White Jr., vice president and general manager of the Brown Corp., was the pilot, and Ed Moore, pilot for the corporation, was in the copilot's seat.

White said he did not know how the flight would take, because of uncertain weather, nor where the plane might land. Faubus also said he did not know where he would spend the night. He was asked whether tomorrow's meeting might be the first of a series—or whether there might be other conferences on other government levels in the attempt to solve the integration controversy in Little Rock. "I couldn't say," Faubus replied. "It's a possibility there might be others." Both the governor and Rep. Hays, intermediary between Faubus and the White House, declined to say who brought into the role of go-between. "I'd have to look at my diary," Hays said. The governor simply said he was not in a position to answer. Hays told reporters he hoped to have a preliminary private meeting, perhaps in Providence, with Sherman Adams, top presidential assistant, tonight. Faubus, however, said he did not expect to meet anyone from the White House prior to the conference with Eisenhower. He said he did not expect to stop in Washington on the way. There were such reports today, but Faubus said "if we do stop in Washington it would only be for refueling." The governor said he had not decided whether he will return to Little Rock Saturday or wait until Sunday. Hays said the Eisenhower-Faubus conference "may bring the conclusion of one phase of the problem of not only Little Rock and the South but of the nation." The reference apparently was to the general problem of race relations. Hays said also he felt it is important "to avoid any letdowns if we don't come to a solution." He did not elaborate on this point. Hays probably will join Faubus in at least some of the discussion with Eisenhower. "Both parties have to recognize, as I believe they have, that legalisms alone won't solve these problems," Hays said. "Under our Anglo-Saxon law there are certain flexibilities." Hays declined to specify what he thought these "flexibilities" might be in the struggle over integrating Central High School in Little Rock. "I have some definite ideas and I think the President and the governor have, too. "It may take several keys to open this door but if any one of them is found it will be a long step toward a solution," Hays said.

City Council Moves To Ease Traffic Problems Found In Area Of 2 Schools

Additional yellow blinker lights, restricted parking on a portion of Elm St. and a trial one-way traffic system on N. Overlook Drive and Tremont Dr. were approved to councilmen last night to alleviate traffic problems in the Junius H. Rose High School—Elmhurst School area. The traffic improvement measures were taken last night upon recommendation of City Manager Leonard Bloxam. Traffic problems have resulted in the Elm St.-14th St. area since the new high school was opened. Councilmen approved placing an additional blinker light just north of the Norfolk-Southern Railroad crossing. The light would face in a southern direction to warn traffic approaching the school. A sign beneath the light would require a 15 mile per hour speed limit while school is operating. Also approved was another light on Elm St. facing north. The light would be beyond the Brookgreen entrance to warn traffic leaving that street of the school area. City fathers also approved restricted parking for 100 feet on the east side and 100 feet on the west side of the cross walk on 14th St. at the intersection of W. Berkeley Rd. Bloxam said the areas would be designated as "Loading Zones" for children to load parents to pull into the curb and let our or pick up school children. "This will improve the safety conditions for children and loading from vehicles," Bloxam said. "Also it will allow all vehicles approaching this intersection a better view of the intersection and the movement of traffic out of W. Berkeley Rd. into 14th St. This will also allow better conditions for bicycle traffic turning north into this area." The N. Overlook Dr. and Tremont Dr. area will be made one-way on a 30-day basis as a result of council action last night. Bloxam said there were "mixed opinions" in the area concerning the move. However he said "it appears that it might be worth considering although there is some opposition to this matter."

He requested that "the city manager, and the chief of police be allowed for a period of 30 days to try one-way traffic in this area. "The movement of this one-way traffic in this period of time will be closely observed and, at the same time, it is requested that people in this area conscientiously keep us advised as to any hardships that it may be working on them in expediting traffic in this manner. If at the end of 30 days we find that problems are arising, we will further analyze the difficulty and bring an additional recommendation back to the governing body." Bloxam said a thorough study is being made of the 14th St.-Elm St. intersection. He said, "It will be necessary that we be allowed additional time to complete these studies before information can be brought before the governing body in regards to the possibilities of installing traffic lights in this area." He said recommendations will be made concerning the intersection at the October council meeting. "We are of the opinion that there is a definite need for the parents and the schools to make the children aware of the need for them to cross the streets at the intersections, where crosswalks have been supplied and not in the middle of blocks, or in areas where proper protection cannot be the council. "There is also a definite need for the high school to cooperate with the city police in supplying high school safety patrol boys, to help us expedite traffic in this area, in that it is impossible for us to man each and every corner with the police force that we have and maintain adequate police protection at all of the other school crossings in the city." Bloxam pointed out that since the seventh and eighth grades have been moved from the elementary schools safety patrols are no longer available at those schools. That means additional officers are needed at those schools, he said.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Weather Bureau was ready today to write off Hurricane Carrie as a threat to the eastern United States as the season's third tropical storm continued northward in the Atlantic. Carrie packed winds up to 110 miles per hour around the center but was expected to stay on its northward course. The Weather Bureau said, "It appears unlikely that this hurricane will endanger the coastal areas of the United States."

Recent figures show an increase of 160 Scouts. There are now 403 Scouts in 29 troops.

What Type Maple Sirup Do You Prefer?

RALEIGH — The popularity of hot pancakes and waffles will rise as chilly weather sets in. If you like yours with maple sirup, you'll be interested in some recent taste tests of different grades of this sirup, sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Maple sirups vary widely in flavor and intensity. The tests were run to see which type most people prefer. Both producers and consumers took part in three taste-panel tests.

All tasters preferred the three highest grade sirups, when they were given unmarked samples of pure maple sirups in the tests. Judges who were connected with the maple industry generally preferred the two highest grades of pure sirup.

However, groups of consumers with little experience in judging maple products usually liked the slightly more intense flavor and more amber color of the next lower grade.

In pure maple sirup, color and flavor are closely related. Very light colored sirups have a mild maple flavor and are given a higher grade. In darker sirups such flavor as caramel help to intensify the flavor of the product. These sirups have lower grades.

'Form Article Is Submitted In Is Important' Notes Speaker

Jack Whichard, advertising manager of The Daily Reflector, discussed "Publicity and Its Public Relationship" at the Publicity Chapter Night Program of the Women of the Moose, Chapter 1308, last night.

Whichard speaking on the local paper stated as for news "Our readers want something that you cannot get anywhere else." He explained the manner of construction of a news story is that the first paragraph is the lead, and therefore should contain essential information.

"The form in which an article should be submitted to the newspaper is of greatest importance; such as being typewritten, double-spaced, using only one side of the paper, and rechecking all dates, names, numbers and places for any errors," he said. "The necessity of getting articles in the news office as soon as possible is of utmost importance," Whichard mentioned.

Miss Barbara Dail, chairman of the Publicity Committee, was in charge of the meeting. Other members of the committee present were Mrs. Doris Wallace, Mrs. Hildred Darden, Senior Regent Love Cox, and Mrs. Eleanor Cox.

Membership committee chairman, Mrs. Louise Mack, announced that on Tuesday night, October 1, a bridge and canasta party would be held at the Moose Lodge.

Senior Regent Love Cox reminded the chapter of the installation of the new chapter in Williamston Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. She urged all officers and chairmen to attend.

An announcement was made that the Bloodmobile would be at the Moose Lodge Friday, October 4. Any co-workers who could offer any assistance is asked to contact Senior Regent Cox immediately.

The meeting was closed in a ritualistic form to meet again September 26 at 8 p.m. Refreshments were served following the meeting.

KITCHEN NOTES
Do you sometimes serve creamed salmon as a luncheon dish? Add lemon juice and drained capers to the cream sauce for a flip.

Plain cold canned salmon is delectable when it is served with a sauce of whipped cream seasoned with salt, white pepper, lemon juice, sugar and drained bottled or finely-grated fresh horseradish. A salad of water cress and paper-thin slices of cucumber is a "must" with this.

One-tenth of the total beef supply becomes ground beef.

Diamond Assurance

In purchasing a diamond more consideration should be given to the ASSURANCE OF VALUE IN WRITING than to the stone itself . . . for while most of us can read, few can visibly grade color, cut and clarity of diamonds.

An elaborate "mail order title," "diamond-scopes" and other such "gimmicks" are usually employed to EVADE WRITTEN ASSURANCE that the diamond itself is reputedly backed and guaranteed by a dependable company.

Purchasing a diamond WITHOUT A WRITTEN GUARANTEE OF VALUE is the same as buying a house and lot without the deed.

Before buying any diamond see our PERMANENT VALUE GUARANTEE.

Bigger Farm Incomes Are Waiting

Editor's note: The following editorial was prepared for the current series by S. C. WINCHESTER, Pitt County Agent.

Phenomenal advances have taken place in Pitt County in the past ten years, agricultural-wise.

A close look at agricultural improvement show for the period 1945 to 1955:

TOBACCO—Increased production of 19,721,163 pounds and increased income of $13,247,060.00, on 2,130 fewer acres.

CORN—126.1% increase in production from only 18.9% more acreage. Production jumped from 1,028,717 bushels to 2,326,000 bushels, while acreages increased only from 59,264 to 70,500 acres.

Value of all farm products sold jumped from $19,553,099 to $31,343,562.

Some major changes have taken place are:

Table with 2 columns: Year (1945, 1955) and Value. Rows include Horses & Mules, Farm Tractors, Farm Trucks, Automobiles, and Electrified Farm Homes.

Table with 2 columns: Year (1945, 1955) and Value. Rows include Television, Running Water, Home Freezers, Telephones, Cattle & Calves, and Value of land and building.

While the per acre production of crops and per animal production of livestock has increased substantially, there is plenty of room for improvement.

Some of these increases show:

Table with 2 columns: Year (1945, 1955) and Value. Rows include Tobacco, Corn, Cotton, Peanuts, Oats, and Dairy Cattle (DHIA).

In the main these average production figures can and should be increased substantially, some of them manifold. For example-corn on a production level of 33 bushels per acre pays the farmer a net of $6.00 per acre.

Our gross loss in tobacco income this year under 1956 will approach $9,000,000.00. There is a real challenge to growers to replace this income with improved efficiency in the production of all crops and livestock on the farm.

This nation continues to grow at a rate of 2,800 every 24 hours. Livestock production must increase in this Southeastern sector of the United States to keep meat, milk and eggs on the tables of every American.

Big News Week On Development

By LYNN NISBET

PROGRESS—This has been a big week in news about progress in the economic development of North Carolina.

DREAM PARK—The acquisition of 4,000 acres of land in the heart of North Carolina's Research Triangle and announcement of tentative plans to develop the site into a research park means that one of Governor Hodges' dreams for development of the state is materializing more rapidly than even he had dared to hope.

It means, too, that research is no longer just an indispensable handmaiden to business. Research has itself become a major industry.

The Research Triangle includes Duke University at Durham, N.C. State College at Raleigh and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

While accessible to these transportation and municipal facilities, the area is mostly wooded and suited for the quiet isolation desired by research scientists.

UNLIMITED—Ultimate possibilities of this project are limited only by the imagination. Immediate impact will be upon the surrounding communities who will benefit from the high income personnel.

Governor Hodges made it clear to the group of business men and reporters to whom he released the announcement, that this is a private enterprise project.

Investment—the project is essentially an investment venture by Robbins, somewhat on the same lines as other real estate subdivision developments.

are afforded, and will lease or sell to firms interested in setting up research laboratories. Half a dozen big outfits have manifested interest in the idea.

It is recalled that when Raymond Bryan and Willie York started development of Cameron Village at Raleigh some of their friends thought they were crazy.

Because this deal had been anticipated, it lacked the spot news value of the research park; and because the announcements came at the same time the research park got the big headline play.

The railroad is here. Enough business is here to assure profitable operation from the word go. All of the elements for further development are present.

Both projects represent private enterprise inspired by the profit motive which has built American business. Because of State-owned research facilities at Chapel Hill and Raleigh and State ownership of the railroad on which Southern is buying the lease, the taxpayers have perhaps a little more than usual hope that both projects will prove successful and profitable for the operators.

School Problem

A Real 'Star' Reporter

Every profession has its heroes.

They are individuals who are admired by their friends, respected by their enemies, and ignored by the rest of the world.

One of the heroes of the newspaper business is a balding little man who was one of the speakers at the annual News and Feature Writers Conference held last Saturday in Chapel Hill.

James E. Kilgallen is, in a sense, a reporter's reporter. He is in his 70's, but International News Service still assigns him to top stories because he can be counted on for accurate and thorough reporting that almost demands that his stories be read.

Kilgallen is the type of individual who does the same workman-like job on a day story as he would do on a story of international significance.

Strength For Today

LAND OF OPPORTUNITY

Arise—and go toward the south into the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza, which is desert.

Desert assignments! Here we are, tied down to humble jobs, placed amid surroundings where nobody could do any service of outstanding distinction.

Thus we cry in our ignorance. And God says—make some of my greatest heroes and start some of my greatest enterprises in the desert.

Money-Saving Farm Plan Dying

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON The Eisenhower-Benson hope for 1958 enactment of a new, permanent and money-saving agricultural program has been dampened, if not killed entirely, by recent political and economic developments here and abroad.

Secretary Benson's new-model farm plan has three devices for reducing the mountain of surpluses which new burden the market, and for bringing production into a better balance with consumption.

He seeks a reduction in the price support payments, which now range from 75 to 90 per cent, so as to discourage production of those commodities now in excess—mainly, wheat, corn, to-

One of the things that makes Kilgallen good is that he has never forgotten that there is an immense amount of luck involved in his work.

The talk that Kilgallen made from nearly 200 news and feature writers included anecdotes about some of the big stories he had written.

Kilgallen had been assigned to cover the court martial of Sergeant Mathew McKeon at Parris Island, a court martial that resulted from an unauthorized disciplining of young recruits at the sprawling South Carolina Marine Corps Training Depot.

The reporter, when he arrived at Parris Island, was like every other reporter there: He knew as much about the case as the Public Information Office had released. Nobody had talked to McKeon, and nobody was in a position to say what the sergeant's position was in the case.

Kilgallen, soon after arrival, was told where reporters were to be housed at Parris Island. He carried his baggage to what he had thought was the right barracks, but a young marine came up and told him he was in the wrong place.

The young marine helped Kilgallen move his luggage to the proper building, and invited Kilgallen to have supper with him and his wife.

After Kilgallen's introduction, the marine stuck out his hand and said, "My name is McKeon."

Result of the whole incident was that Kilgallen accepted the invitation to supper, wound up with a complete story of McKeon's side of the affair and "scooped" every reporter on the island with it.

Even at that, Kilgallen claims he still wonders occasionally what would have happened if he had not gone to the wrong barracks. And what would have happened if the barracks had not been next door to the Catholic chapel to which McKeon had been assigned after being released from the brig.

Queen Of Ice Cream

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Did anyone in history except Doris Day set out by railroad from Los Angeles to New York with a husband, a fine son, and only five gallons of ice cream?

Probably not. But Doris—born Doris Kappelhoff in Cincinnati—arrived here with her family intact. But most of the ice cream was gone. Her big favorite en route: Chocolate mixed with hunks of marshmallows and almonds.

Doris, a former dance band singer, now a movie actress, is a breezy girl with freckles. She has vitality, charm, and stirs an air of friendliness.

She is fun to interview, from the standpoint of a reporter who had never met her before.

It was my idea to ask her, since she seems so untroubled in a troubled world, what was her recipe on how to live better.

"You'll make me look foolish," she protested over a plate of moo goo guy pan at a Chinese restaurant. She's the kind of Chinese food eater who looks for the water chestnuts.

"I have read that lemon milk is the best thing for you—you squeeze a lemon in a glass of milk and then drink it. But personally I never have tried it," she said.

"Most people think that living is racing the clock. I don't."

"I think maybe people should live a little easier, as people seem to do in Paris. Every country has a hint to offer on how to live."

"Such as the idea of taking a nap after lunch. Or like in Japan, where they take off their shoes before they eat and rest their feet."

Doris, who is the uncrowned ice cream eating champion of Hollywood continued:

"I like to sleep 10 hours a night. In our field there are many people with insomnia who worry and worry and still have to get up at 5:30 in the morning."

"I think Frank Sinatra is right in the idea that they shouldn't start shooting until noon—but work later into the evening."

Asked why she herself is so happily vibrant, Doris said:

"I like to walk. I also exercise six or seven minutes morning and night. Some people say that it is a bore to exercise. But I have found it takes very little time—and it makes me feel good."

Doris, who says she cries more often at unexpected beauty rather than at sadness, is a reservoir of health hints.

She is frank in acknowledging she likes fine clothes but would rather wear than design them, would rather eat a good meal than cook it.

In her childhood a long illness gave her many months in which to brood or build. She made her choice and built her career from a sick bed.

Doris Day's prescription for insomnia: "Buy a cat and sleep whenever it does."

Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That one way to take off excess weight is to play the piano. . . . But you have to bang the keyboard 44 hours to lose a single pound of fat.

That the "jewels" in most watches are synthetic or semi-precious gems and are worth about 20 to 25 cents each.

That a majority of America's 50 million families spend a third of their income on food, liquor and tobacco.

That Yellowstone National Park contains more geysers than the rest of the world.

That it was Fred Allen who said, "some people spend six days a week sowing wild oats, then go to church to pray for a crop failure."

That a college education today costs up to five times what it did only 50 years ago.

That Detroit is the only major city in the United States from which one must travel south to get to Canada.

in part at least, to an anti-Administration revolt among the farmers, especially dairymen.

They figure that their income is too low, and their expenses too high, under existing conditions. Neither they nor their spokesmen on Capitol Hill will be in a mood for further cuts in support prices.

John G. Diefenbaker, the new Canadian Prime Minister, has protested publicly against our exports of foodstuffs on the ground that they hurt Canada's overseas trade. The same complaint was registered by numerous South American statesmen at the recent Buenos Aires Conference, where Uncle Sam was accused of "hogging" the world market in food and fibers.

European countries have now increased production, and no longer need our contributions.

Finally, 1958 is an election year, and Democrats have shown strength in farm districts how represented by anti-ice Republicans. Thus, there will be bipartisan resistance to Benson's demand for a permanent solution of the farm problem—for producers and consumers.

PROGRAM IN JEOPARDY But Benson's long-time and cure-all program, to be presented to Congress next year, has been placed in jeopardy overnight. The Democratic victory in the Wisconsin Senate race was due,

Ezekiel, Pastor of His People ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Ezekiel 1:1-3; 2; 24:15-18; 34.

In Babylon, where the chief men of Jerusalem were captives, Ezekiel stood by the river Chedar with other captives, when the Heavens opened, and he had a vision of God.

The Lord told Ezekiel that He had chosen him to speak to His rebellious people. A hand appeared holding a scroll in which were written "lamentations, mourning and woe."

Ezekiel was commanded not to weep or mourn if grief came, but to continue with his mission. "So I spoke to the people in the morning," He writes, "and at even my wife died."

Jehovah said that His people were like sheep without a shepherd. He would send them one, a descendant of David, Jesus Christ, the good shepherd.

MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 33:12.

RELEASE SATURDAY, SEPT. 14, OR SUNDAY, SEPT. 15, 1957

Ezekiel, Pastor of His People

HE COMFORTED THEM IN THEIR CAPTIVITY

Scripture—Ezekiel 1:1-3; 2; 24:15-18; 34.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL WHEN the prophet Ezekiel was called to his mission, the captivity of his people had begun. King Jehoiakim for nearly three years had been a tributary of Nebuchadnezzar, and when he rebelled, the captivity began. We do not know what became of Jehoiakim, but he was succeeded by his son, Jehochin, who reigned for only three months when the great deportation took place. It was at this time that Ezekiel was taken captive.

For the dead, but to go on with the work the Lord had set for him. "So I spoke unto the people in the morning," he wrote, and at even my wife died, but Ezekiel obeyed the Lord's command not to weep, but to continue his mission.

Ezekiel not only warned his people of the woes to come, but he, guided by Jehovah, was a comforter to his people, giving them words of cheer in their captivity, telling them that their God would again lead them into pleasant pastures. They were like sheep without a shepherd. God had said, "They had strayed like lost sheep." But "I will bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countries, and will bring them to their own land."

MEMORY VERSE

"Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord."—Psalm 33:12.

came to him, "Son of man, stand upon thy feet, and I will speak with thee."

"And I will set one shepherd over them, and He shall feed them, and He shall be their shepherd, even My servant David; He shall feed them, and He shall be their shepherd."

"And He said unto me, Son of man, I send thee to the children of Israel, to a rebellious nation that hath rebelled against Me; they and their children have transgressed against Me, even to this very day."

"And thou shalt speak My words unto them, whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear; for whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear, I am most rebellious."

Then a hand appeared holding a scroll on which were written "lamentations and mourning and woe." God warned Ezekiel that a great grief would come to him, but he was not to cry or mourn.

To a pastoral people like the people of Israel, the coming of a good shepherd meant that the Messiah would come to lead them as Jehovah promised and Ezekiel testified.

Mixed Reaction To Chaplin Film

LONDON (H)—The world premiere of Charlie Chaplin's new movie "A King in New York" got a mixed reception last night. The film tells of a European monarch who runs afoul of the House Committee on Un-American Activities in trying to use atomic secrets for peace. Some in the packed theater cheered the film when Chaplin turned a fire hose on the committee. Some only started to Chaplin seated in the front row of the royal circle. The Oxford was described by some critics as showing bitterness toward the United States. Chaplain himself told reporters: "The film does not say unkind things about America. But it takes the mickey out of McCarthyism and satirizes the U.S. way of life."

Visitor To China Back In London

LONDON (H)—Shelby Tucker, 22, returned yesterday from an unauthorized visit to Communist China and left his passport at the U.S. Embassy. The Oxford law student from Pass Christian, Miss., slipped into London 13 days after Red China kicked him out for refusing to show his passport. He went to China with 41 other young Americans in defiance of a State Department ban. His passport will be stamped valid only for a return to the United States but he will be allowed to continue his studies at Oxford.

U. S. Money Keeps Canadian Boom Booming

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—American money continues to flow to Canada as the big investment and industrial boom there shows little sign of slowing down. Even with the Canadian dollar at better than a four cent premium over the Yankee dollar the flood doesn't abate.

U.S. investments there take many forms. More than half of the money has been going into direct investment in resources and manufacturing, the Royal Commission on Canada's economic prospects reports. But Canadian companies have sold large amounts of securities here and their investment companies flourish. Eight Canadian portfolio investment companies formed since 1954 under U.S. and Canadian regulatory laws report that in the three years they have distributed more than 381 million dollars in securities here.

The Canadian government seems complacent about this form of regulated American investment but there has been considerable worry about the trend toward direct investment with its threat of control by American corporations over Canadian resources and industry.

The Royal commission says that non-Canadians have a dominating influence in the oil and gas industry, nickel iron ore, aluminum and asbestos industries, and in automobiles, electrical apparatus and rubber products.

The difference seems to be that the Americans are more venturesome and the Canadian investors stick more to the proven thing.

The Committee of Canadian Investment Companies reports that the assets of eight funds increased 23 per cent in the first half of this year at mid year totalled $381,417,357.

The committee reports that U.S. investors in these funds now number 105,000, a gain of 8,000 since the first of the year. The eight Canadian funds are: Canada General Fund; Keystone Fund of Canada; New York Capital Fund of Canada; Scudder Fund of Canada; Investors Group Canadian Fund; Canadian International Growth Fund; Templeton Growth Fund of Canada; and United Funds Canada.

Loot Incentive To Stay On Jobs

VIENNA (AP)—A Polish worker wrote a bitter complaint to the Communist newspaper Dziennik Polski in Krakow. "Everybody steals and everybody knows it," he said.

"The only reason we keep working for our poor wages is that a job gives us a chance to steal something from time to time."

Facts published by Communist party organs in self-criticism show a wave of thievery and corruption is sweeping Russia's East European satellites and, to a certain extent, Russia itself. People steal to keep themselves and their families alive in a threadbare economy.

The complaints have recently become so numerous that a Western embassy here has made a 25-page collection of excerpts from Communist papers titled "Corruption in East Bloc Countries."

Things have got so bad in Bulgaria for these offenses. In Czechoslovakia, the party daily Rude Pravo said thievery and corruption is so widespread that "people are accepting it as established and incontestable fact."

A dispatch of the official Polish news agency PAP reported that "last year our police caught about 2,500 directors and managers of state economic enterprises criminally cheating."

Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon bought practically all of the 1,727,888 tons of coal that India exported in 1956.

Man-Made Earthquake Slated For Wednesday

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter
NEW YORK (AP)—The earthquake A-bomb explodes next Wednesday in Nevada. Its shuddering, muffled blast will mark a new step in peaceful world cooperation for science.

This bomb will be set off 800 feet underground, in a tunnel inside a small mountain, at noon, Eastern Standard Time.

As such blasts go in the vast desert northwest of Las Vegas, this will not be a big one. But its shock waves will travel through and around the earth, probably reaching into the heart of the world.

Earthquake experts around the globe—Americans, Russians, Britons, Chinese, Australians, all nationalities—will be set to record the waves and share results, a striking scientific dividend in the International Geophysical Year.

Usual bars of secrecy were let down to inform the observers in advance. How fast the shock waves travel can tell these seismologists new facts about what the earth is like inside from thin crust to hot heavy core. The knowledge could advance the day of sometime being able to predict natural earthquakes.

This earthquake bomb meets the wish of many seismologists to use atomic power as a probe deep into the earth's interior.

Two years ago, requests were made of Washington, London and Moscow for one to four A-bombs just for earth studies. Dr. K. E. Bullen of Australia disclosed last week. He is president of the International Seismological Assn.

Shock waves from natural earthquakes are the scientists' main tool to learn the structure of our globe.

Waves sent into the earth from A-bombs and H-bombs exploded in the air have helped a bit too. But the trouble is that quake specialists never knew just when the natural quake or bomb quake waves started, so they could measure the travel speeds precisely.

Now the Atomic Energy Commission is giving a helping hand by announcing these details in advance. The underground bomb is one in a current series of Nevada tests, and undoubtedly has scientific purposes as well as military objectives.

The quake studies are a dividend for purely peaceful knowledge open to all.

The AEC said the bomb will be exploded at the end of a multi-directional 2,000-foot tunnel cut into a small mountain. It pinpointed the exact location and hour, plus or minus two minutes.

It will be a baby bomb, equal to only 1,000 to 10,000 tons of TNT. The first or nominal A-bombs packed 20,000 tons force.

Some seismologists will study the waves to learn more about the earth's core. Others are interested in the makeup of upper layers. Some will use them for clues whether certain mountains rest on the earth's crust, or send down deep iceberg-like roots.

By the present picture, the earth has a thin crust varying from 20 to 35 miles thick. Then comes the mantle of heavy hot rock, in layers, reaching down 1,800 miles. Then a molten inner core for the next 1,400 miles, and an inner core 800 miles in radius. The inner core may be molten, or it may be solid nickel and iron.

Adenauer Is Breaking U. S. Campaign Rules

By HERB ALTSCHULL
Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, campaigning for next Sunday's national elections, has been breaking many of the rules of American politicking.

His campaign train whips through hundreds of whistle-stop towns but it stops only at cities where major speeches are scheduled.

Adenauer makes the same speech over and over again. And he speaks at such length—the average is an hour and a half—that his audience invariably becomes restive.

"It's not fair to my audience to make short speeches," the Chancellor tells newsmen. "They come long distances to hear me speak and I don't want to disappoint them."

He speaks from notes penned in sprawling old German characters. He begins with an attack on communism.

"If I am defeated," he says, "it will be a victory for dialectical materialism and the beginning of the end for the Christian West."

Then he opens up on his political foes. He names them over and over again with finger-wagging irony. These men are fools and visionaries, he says—elect them at your own peril.

He also assails men in friendly nations. Socialist economic policy in Denmark, Norway and Sweden, he says, has brought sharper cost of living increases than his free enterprise economy.

Toward the end of his speech he turns to foreign policy which his main rivals the Socialists have made their biggest issue.

"We must try no experiments," he says. "We must maintain our alliance with NATO under the leadership of the United States or end up a Soviet satellite."

The question of reunification, which the Socialists call Germany's No. 1 issue, receives short shrift from Adenauer.

The Russians don't want a free, reunified Germany, he says. They want a Communist Germany and the only way to prevent this is to remain strong and allied with NATO.

Adenauer's speeches are closed affairs. If the Chancellor's party hasn't given you a ticket, you don't get in.

Back on his train, the Chancellor relaxes over a glass of wine.

Occasionally, but not often, the Chancellor shows his 81 years. His eyes are not so good as they used to be. His audiences are asked not to smoke out of deference to him.

U. S. Experts Puzzled By Russian Air Of Hostility

By HIGH M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials are trying to figure out the basic strategy behind Russia's increasingly harsh and hostile propaganda attacks on the United States.

One speculation is that the Soviet government may be deliberately recreating a period of intensified East-West tensions in an effort to assert a stronger control over its restive East European satellites.

Other possibilities involve trying to put the blame on the United States all over the world for the breakdown of the London disarmament talks, promoting expansionist Soviet designs in the Middle East and influencing the West German electorate against Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The West German elections will be held Sunday.

Whatever the basic reason, the Russians apparently are hoping it will help them in all of those situations.

The latest Moscow outburst provoked the United States into a bitter reply yesterday. The State Department accused Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko of falsifications and intemperance which it said "seem deliberately calculated to break those bridges of understanding which still sustain our hopes for peace."

Gromyko lashed out at the Western allies and the United States particularly in a press statement Tuesday. He accused this country of wrecking the disarmament negotiations, of plotting aggression against Syria and of blocking German unification.

The United States replied that Gromyko had followed in his statement "the old Molotov line which the Soviets themselves so recently condemned as hampering the promotion of world peace."

The stage has thus been set and the issues sharply drawn for a major debate between Gromyko and Secretary of State Dulles in the United Nations General Assembly, which opens in New York Tuesday.

Officials are intrigued and puzzled, however, over what the Soviet Union is trying to accomplish by its tough line.

At the outset of the London disarmament talks last March Soviet relations with the West, while not particularly good, were relatively quiet. As the talks developed many American officials, though by no means all, got the impression that the Russians were negotiating seriously.

But during the summer, the Russians began to talk tough. The disarmament talks brought increasing Soviet criticism of Western proposals, and the tone of Moscow propaganda became hostile.

A climactic point was reached last month when Moscow announced the development of an intercontinental ballistic missile and claimed that this not only rendered the United States vulnerable to attack for the first time but also outmoded the American system of foreign military bases.

In some parts of the world, notably the Middle East, reports to Washington say that the over-all effect of Soviet toughening, particularly the ICBM announcement, has been to impress people with Soviet strength and a feeling that relatively the United States may not have as much military power as they had formerly thought.

But in other parts of the world the Soviets have had to pay a price for their boast of strength and their show of belligerence. They have destroyed or distorted the image they had earlier tried to impress on world opinion—that Russia is a peace-loving state primarily concerned with promoting "peaceful coexistence."

Dave Beck Files Plea Of Innocent

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Dave Beck has told a federal judge what he hopes he can convince a jury next spring—that he is innocent of a charge of defrauding the government of $184,000 in income taxes.

The slightly nervous Teamsters Union president entered the formal plea yesterday before Federal Judge George Boldt. In it he denied charges recently returned in a seven-count indictment by a federal grand jury concerning his income for the years 1951-53.

With him in court and also entering innocent pleas to charges they conspired to aid Beck in the evasion were his son Dave Jr., a union organizer, and two other Teamster officials, Fred Verschuere Sr., Teamsters Union auditor, and Norman J. Gessert, a cousin of Mrs. Beck Sr. and a union organizer.

The four were granted permission to attend the Teamsters' international convention in Miami Sept. 30 when Beck's successor will be named.

Beck startled newsmen when asked who would be the next president of the giant union by replying: "I certainly know, but I'm not going to say."

It is expected Beck will face trial, with the others, in the spring session of the court.

Will Set French Straight On Fate Of The Indians

PARIS (AP)—The U.S. Embassy is going to set the French straight on what happened to the American Indian.

The embassy regularly receives letters from Frenchmen who say the Americans exterminated the Indians and thus have no right to criticize France for fighting the Algerian rebellion.

In reply, the next issue of Informations et Documents, a French language review published by the embassy says:

The Indian population — 846,000 in the days of Columbus — had dropped to about 300,000 by the middle of the 19th century as a result of tribal wars, drought, disease and migrations to Mexico and Canada. Today's Indian population is more than 400,000, apart from those living in paleface communities.

Optimism Is High At Richmond

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Optimism soared in the Furman and Richmond football camps today as the two Southern Conference teams put the finishing touches on preparations for their season openers tomorrow night.

Furman is at home to East Tennessee State and Richmond tackled East Carolina at Portsmouth, Va., in the 8 p.m. (EST) games that inaugurate the 1957 campaign for conference clubs.

At Richmond, Coach Ed Merrick proclaimed that his team "is in better shape for an opening game than in either of my two previous seasons."

At Richmond, Coach Ed Merrick similarly was all smiles. "The boys look like they're ready," beamed Merrick. "The spirit is the best since practice began."

Furman's practice this week convinced Hobbs a wide open attack will be his best bet against East Tennessee.

"At this stage, passing seems the best phase of our game," said the Furman coach. "If the situation permits, we'll be throwing the ball . . . Jerry Penland looks like he's ready for a good year and our running game will depend on him."

Davidson gained 579 yards for the Hurricane in 1956. Encouraging to Merrick at Richmond has been the deft performance of Jerry Landis at the questionable quarterback post. If Landis can throw as he has been throwing in practice, the Spiders might assault East Carolina principally through the air, too.

Furman and East Tennessee didn't meet last year. Richmond clouted East Carolina, 45-7, in their 1956 collision.

Light taping-off drills were on tap today for both Furman and Richmond. Each practiced lightly yesterday, concentrating on offense.

Davidson, short on quarterbacks, welcomed a new candidate yesterday—southern sophomore Duncan McEacher, who played briefly in 1956. He'll compete with Tom Redding and Charlie Benson for the starting job.

Halfbacks Ralph Anastasio and Bill McClure intercepted passes and ran for "touchdowns" in West Virginia's morning practice, indicating new how tough defensively the Mountaineers will be this season.

Dick Claypool, Mike Ennis and soph Jerry Power and Bill Smythe were standouts as George Washington put the emphasis on punting and punt returns. Defense against both running and passing drew stress at VMI.

Virginia Tech, whose poor condition worries Coach Frank Moseley, passed up a morning drill but scrimmaged lightly on offense and defense in the afternoon. Len Ruhl, Jay Sanner, Charlie Sidwell and Dave Edmunds ripped off good gains during William and Mary's scrimmage. Washington and Lee had its first full-scale scrimmage.

Pirates About As Ready As Can Be

The University of Richmond offers East Carolina its first competition of the 1957 season tomorrow night at Portsmouth—and the Bucs are "about as ready as we will be."

Coach Jack Boone, who can always see room for improvement, must nevertheless admit that his club is in pretty good shape for the fray tomorrow night.

Still concerned with a few play problems and worried about his tackle, fullback and end positions, Boone isn't predicting victory tomorrow night. "It'll be a good game, I believe," he has said.

"Our boys will play hard all the way and Richmond should know they've been in a ballgame regardless of how it ends."

Boone's boys however, not willing to stick to the old cry-and-be-careful tradition that is the standard procedure with coaches, are out for a win. General feeling among the players is that the Pirate will not only make a good showing, but that they will whip the Spiders.

At least the Coaches and players share one opinion in common: both feel that the Bucs will be in good physical condition for the contest.

Last year, in the opener several Bucs suffered injuries that kept them out most of the season.

Though Boone has not released any lineup figures, the probable first eleven will be as follows: Tommy Jones and Howard Beale at ends; Larry Howell and James Faircloth at tackles; Dick Monks and Ken Burgess at guards; Lynn Barnett at center; Ralph Zehring at quarterback; James Speight and Charlie Bishop at half backs; Bob Maynard at fullback.

Tickets for the special train that will carry students and fans from Greenville to Portsmouth, Saturday, have picked up slightly in sales.

Jim Butler, Alumni Secretary and Sports News Director who is handling the tickets, stated yesterday that "it looks as if there might be a total of 400 making the trip. We've had several calls for tickets from alumni out of town."

The train will leave Greenville at 1:30 Saturday afternoon and tickets may be bought up until 11:30 from the Alumni Building on Campus.

Covington made a halfhearted move out of the batter's box as McDevitt started his delivery. Boggs motioned time out as the ball sped toward the plate, but Covington swung and hit a potential double play grinder to Gilliam.

Boggs signaled "no play" and once again came howls of anguish from the Brooklyn side. But Covington was permitted to bat again and slammed a single to right, sending Logan to third from where he scored the winning run minutes later on Del Crandall's pinch single.

"Why did I swing? Instinct. I didn't want to take any chances," Covington said later.

"He started to mumble, but he didn't say a thing. Boggs is the one who called time," Campanella said.

Boggs ruled Covington had indeed called time out.

On Monday, September 16, George Mikan will conduct a Basketball Clinic at the East Carolina Gymnasium.

Mikan, former All-American and All-Pro player for the Minneapolis Lakers (and now the coach), will open the clinic at 8:30 p.m.

The Clinic is open to all basketball coaches and players of any school or college in Eastern North Carolina. A large turnout from this area is expected to attend. Mikan is making only three such appearances in the state.

During the Clinic, Mikan will cover every phase of the game and will talk primarily about the fundamentals. Coaches or players are free to ask questions and Mikan will supply the answers.

The tall (6-10) former star at DePaul will make use of East Carolina's basketball squad for demonstration purposes. The squad will be divided into two teams and a practice game will be held, with Mikan pointing out different phases of offense and defense.

Mikan, for several years was the National Basketball Association's leading point-maker. He was dubbed "basketball's unstoppable scorer" by most sportswriters and amassed a terrific record of points during his years with the league.

The Monday night Clinic is entirely free and is being sponsored by Larry's Shoe Store of Greenville, in cooperation with the United States Rubber Company.

Jacksonville Is Bringing Heavier Team To Stadium

Greenville high school opens its 1957 home football schedule tonight at College Stadium against a favored Jacksonville Cardinals.

The game will be the second of the young year for Coach Bud Phillips' crew and will also mark Phillips' debut as new coach so far as the home crowd is concerned.

Jacksonville, a Northeastern Conference club that will bring both plenty of weight and experience to Greenville, is favored to notch its first loop win of the year tonight. That, of course, will also give the Phantoms their first league loss of the season, too.

Outweighing the locals by approximately 55 pounds, Jacksonville is given a two-touchdown edge. The Card Coach, Andy Hewlitt, has eleven returning lettermen from his last year's squad and fields a total group of 50 grid-ders.

Hewlitt's club runs from a multiple offense, relying heavily on the single wing formation. That single wing is backed up by variations of the straight T, the Winged T and the A formations.

Under this system, Quarterback Norwood Crawford and tailback Jackie Cohen are the two boys to watch in the Card backfield.

Greenville's offensive will be directed by veteran quarterback Mack Roebuck. In last week's 25-0 loss to Goldsboro, Roebuck never actually got his team's offensive rolling. A triple-threat, he never did get his passing game started either. Coach Phillips is reportedly expecting Roebuck to pass more in tonight's tilt.

Bob Howell, a shifty halfback, will be called upon to be GHS's big running gun. A veteran, Howell is a good broken-field man and can also run with power. He will be helped by Charles Roberts and either Rett Everette or Robin Wilfong at fullback.

Rhantom lineup is expected to be led by veterans Albert Crawford, Kelly Barnhill, Billy Cox and Billy Brown — should Brown be able to play. He was injured in the Goldsboro fray and has been nursing a dislocated shoulder.

Here are the possible lineups for tonight's game, which starts at 8:00:

Lou Little Is 'Lost' In Retirement Blues

By TED SMITS
NEW YORK (AP)—Lou Little confessed today the transition from active football coaching to sideline advising and experting does not come easy.

"I feel lost," he says. "On Sept. 1, I was out playing golf and I was preoccupied. I asked myself, Why am I here? I ought to be coaching football. It isn't as easy as people think to stop after 37 years of coaching."

Little has retired after a distinguished career. He was at Columbia for 27 of his 37 years. He still loves the game. He is the permanent chairman of the Committee on Rules of the American Coaches Assn. He plans to tour the nation this fall, and he will write a series of special articles on football for The Associated Press.

Bronzed, husky voiced, he is the picture of energy and health. "I will remain active in football," he insists. "I will be as close to the game as ever. It is going to seem odd on Saturdays to be watching games as a spectator, but I always used to relax by watching professional football on Sundays, so I guess I can do it on Saturdays."

He wants to see all the varieties of football he can, but he won't promise any sweeping changes in the rules.

"We need to watch developments," he says. "Changes are bound to come as the game improves—changes not for the sake of changes, but only for improvement, or the elimination of unpleasant features."

"I believe the substitution rule will remain in principle. It will be a long time, if ever, that we would go back to free substitutions."

Too Many Stars To Pick Winner
DALLAS (AP)—There were too many hotshots in the field to pick an outstanding favorite today as 138 started the $40,000 Dallas Open but Ken Venturi or Doug Ford would appear as good a choice as any.

Venturi, winner of about $20,000 in the months of touring, was looked upon with most favor by the golfers themselves but Ford, the second leading money-winner and who has taken more tournaments this year than anybody else—four—is well on his game.

The Coastline has assigned its top photographer and reporter Jack Sistar to make the trip with the ECC students and fans O. D. Curtis, of the ACC train passenger agency, will also be present.

Butler said that the Atlantic Coastline has made the statement that this trip will be the first of its kind ever made off the ACC main line.

Tickets are still available and can be purchased from the Alumni Building at ECC. Deadline is 11:30 Saturday.

CLOSE TO THE NEWS

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Mrs. Tom Emerson, wife of the University of Oklahoma football tackle, will have the inside story on the nation's No. 1 team for her new job. She'll be sports editor next school term for the university's student newspaper.

The Sox, who whipped Boston 7-1 yesterday while the Yankees were idle, are five games behind with 16 left (two more than the Yankees have).

Only one other game was played in the majors, with Detroit defeating Washington 8-5. The Braves, who had lost five of eight, had to scrap all the way against McDevitt, 2-4. They collected eight walks, but managed hits in the fourth and ninth—scoring in each frame.

The Dodgers scored in the second off Bob Buhl, the chased the right-hander in the fourth with a single and two walks that loaded the bases.

Bob Trowbridge relieved and got out of the jam through a double play.

In the ninth, after a leadoff walk, Wes Covington hit into an apparent double play, but plate umpire Dusty Boggs ruled he had called time before the pitch. Boggs started the play over again after rejecting Dodger arguments, and Covington singled. A forfeit followed, but Crandall then slashed his single.

Trowbridge won his sixth. McDevitt finished with seven and gave the Dodgers an NL record. The Brooks' 823 strikeouts bettered their own league record of 817 set in 1953.

The White Sox rapped 14 hits, including Luis Aparicio's third home run, while right-hander Jim Wilson won his 14th—his high in an 11-year career. Wilson, the AL's shutout leader, lost a bid for his sixth whitewash job on an unearned run in the seventh. Frank Sullivan was the loser for a 13-10 record.

Ray Boone and Frank Bolling homered for the Tigers, who pocketed six of the game's 10 unearned runs. Duke Maas won his 10th with relief help while Chuck Stobbs lost his 19th.

Coach Bud Phillips and his GHS football coaching staff will be present at a football clinic for Midget footballers Saturday morning at Elm Street Park.

All boys interested in playing in the midget program this fall are asked to attend the clinic.

The boys will also get their registration cards, allowing them to play this season. The cards will be taken care of at the clinic.

After 12 months of living with "choke up" taunts, Milwaukee's Braves have proved their stuff, against their chief tormentors — Brooklyn's dethroned Dodgers.

The Braves never looked more like champs than last night. Held to only four hits by rookie Danny McDevitt, they paired 'em with walks and beat the Brooks 2-1 on Del Crandall's pinch single in the ninth.

With second-place St. Louis idle, the Braves padded their National League lead for the first time in nine days, gaining a five-game bulge with 15 to play and reducing their pennant-clinching magic number to 11.

Any combination of Braves' victories and St. Louis defeats totaling 11 starts the beer flowing in Milwaukee.

The American League should settle its pennant scrap in the next 24 hours in a two-game showdown between the New York Yankees and Chicago's second-place White Sox opening at Yankee Stadium today.

Mikan Here For Clinic Monday

On Monday, September 16, George Mikan will conduct a Basketball Clinic at the East Carolina Gymnasium.

Mikan, former All-American and All-Pro player for the Minneapolis Lakers (and now the coach), will open the clinic at 8:30 p.m.

The Clinic is open to all basketball coaches and players of any school or college in Eastern North Carolina. A large turnout from this area is expected to attend. Mikan is making only three such appearances in the state.

During the Clinic, Mikan will cover every phase of the game and will talk primarily about the fundamentals. Coaches or players are free to ask questions and Mikan will supply the answers.

The tall (6-10) former star at DePaul will make use of East Carolina's basketball squad for demonstration purposes. The squad will be divided into two teams and a practice game will be held, with Mikan pointing out different phases of offense and defense.

Mikan, for several years was the National Basketball Association's leading point-maker. He was dubbed "basketball's unstoppable scorer" by most sportswriters and amassed a terrific record of points during his years with the league.

The Monday night Clinic is entirely free and is being sponsored by Larry's Shoe Store of Greenville, in cooperation with the United States Rubber Company.

Pair Survived Daring Ride On River Rapids

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Jim Lindsey and Lou Bettis came out of the upper Rio Grande gorge alive last night after a death-defying vacation trip down its churning rapids.

"It took up five days for a trip we planned to do in three because of about 10 miles of almost constant waterfall," Lindsey said.

"We had plenty of trouble. That's about all we did have. We ran into rocks. The boats got away from us. When they got stuck, the lines attached to them would get caught in the rocks and we were able to get them back downstream."

Lindsey and Bettis are believed to be the first ever to negotiate the 45 miles of rapids from the Colorado line to a point near Taos, N. M. At least five have died trying.

For a time earlier in the week it was feared they had perished. Searchers could not spot them from the air for more than a day but they later made contact with fishermen and hikers who had gone into the wilds of the gorge and climbed out to report.

Lindsey is 32 and Bettis is 29. They are electronic engineers for Goodyear Aircraft Corp. at Phoenix. They got interested in river running after watching a television program. Since then they've braved the rapids on four rivers in Utah and Arizona.

Their boats were single planks lashed to inner tubes from truck and automobile tires.

Lindsey estimated the water was no more than 10 degrees above freezing. They were on the river from 7:30 a.m. to about 5:30 p.m. each day, with about 15 minutes out for lunch—and most of that time they were floundering in the water. They carried sleeping gear and food in waterproof bags on the rafts.

"It was rough," Lindsey said. "I'm tired."

School Suit Is Compromised

SWAN QUARTER, N.C. (AP)—A compromise decision to build a new central high school has settled a bitter controversy in Hyde County.

The compromise reached yesterday also ended a court suit brought by a group of Engelhardt citizens to thwart an order of the County Board of Education assigning their children to the Swan Quarter High School.

The new central high school will be built at a site 15 miles from Engelhardt and eight miles from Swan Quarter. Until it is finished, the Engelhardt High School will continue in operation.

"I believe, and I think the citizens will believe, that a fortunate compromise has been effected," said Judge W. H. S. Burgwyn, presiding at the trial of the school case. "After all, the first thing to observe is the ultimate welfare of the children and the people of the county."

Polish-Yugoslav Talks Continue

PULA, Yugoslavia (AP)—High-level Yugoslav-Polish talks continued today on President Tito's secluded Brioni Island near here.

The talks are designed to bring the two independently inclined Communist nations closer together.

More Than His Share Of Woes

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)—John W. Simmons, said his attorney, had had more personal troubles in the past two years than an ordinary man could bear.

L. W. Ernest Alexander said his 45-year-old client had had two cancers removed, seen a child killed in a fight, had suffered a nervous disorder that sent him to the hospital in July, and that seven of his 10 living children had been hospitalized for various reasons within the two years.

This was Simmons' background, said Alexander as he pleaded with the court for leniency, when he went to ask Mrs. Lillian Ross, 51, of North Kannapolis, if she knew the whereabouts of her son and Simmons' married daughter, who had eloped.

Simmons, who said Mrs. Ross refused to tell him, confessed to drawing a .22 pistol, he had procured the morning of Sept. 3 and emptying "as many shots as it would fire" into her. He pleaded guilty to the charge of second degree murder in Superior Court yesterday.

One witness said he heard Mrs. Ross, before she was shot, tell Simmons the missing couple was in Macon, Ga.

Judge J. A. Rousseau sentenced textile worker Simmons to 16 to 25 years. The sentence could have been as little as two years or as much as 30.

New Convert To 'Hypnotic' Birth

WAYNESVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A 21-year-old mother who gave birth here to a son while under hypnosis thinks it was a "wonderful experience."

The mother, Mrs. James Swanger, left the Haywood County Hospital yesterday, 48 hours after giving birth.

"Now that I know what it's like, I wouldn't think of having a baby any other way," she said.

Twenty minutes after the birth, her doctor said, Mrs. Swanger carried the child to the hospital nursery and handed him to a nurse. Then she announced, "I'm hungry," and ate a meal consisting of a steak, baked potato, spinach, sliced apple, desert and milk.

"She cleaned the tray," said the physician, Dr. W. O. Kearse of Canton.

Mrs. Swanger's husband is personnel director of a Canton construction firm.

Insurance Term Rule Revision Is Turned Down

RALEIGH (AP)—Insurance Commissioner Charles F. Gold has turned down a proposal for a revision of the insurance term rule.

The North Carolina Fire Insurance Rating Bureau has asked that the term rule be revised from 75 per cent of the annual rate after the first year to 85 per cent.

Gold also announced yesterday he was sending back a filing by the Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau of North Carolina for a revision of Workmen's Compensation insurance rates.

In recent years the insurance industry made it permissible under the term rule for the uninsured to pay the annual premium the first year and 75 per cent of it annually thereafter. In effect, this gives a rate reduction of 25 per cent after the first year.

The insurance companies requested that the credit after the first year be reduced from 25 to 15 per cent, the change to apply to all long term policies.

Aurora Borealis In Carolina Skies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Aurora Borealis—northern lights—spread indistinctly across Carolina skies last night.

Fayetteville, Raleigh - Durham and Charlotte airports reported they had many telephone calls last night and early today as the reddish streamers spread upward from the northern horizon.

One woman in upper South Carolina reported that she thought somebody with a flashlight was in her chicken house when she looked from her dwelling and saw a glow above a small poultry building to the north of her home.

The Charlotte Weather Bureau said this was the second time this month that the phenomenon had been observed in the Carolinas.

The last recording was on Sept. 4. One observer at the Charlotte bureau said northern lights had been observed here only about four or five times in the 20 years he had been stationed here. He said that records disclosed that one of the most distinct showings of the Aurora Borealis had been observed in this section of the nation about March of 1918.

Last night's performance of the electrical display was viewed in most parts of the nation.

The lights spread across California and generated excitement among spectators, many of whom had never seen the phenomenon before.

Such lights appear on the West Coast very infrequently.

The San Francisco Weather Bureau said it had received reports of the shimmering light curtains from half way to Hawaii and from as far south as Los Angeles.

They were "very red with white flowing streaks which gradually coalesced and disappeared," said

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—"I got who moves with a bony, coltish grace. She is light-skinned and speaks in a soft voice."

She walked to the school entrance the first day with a family friend while her father parked the car.

"There was a big crowd, but I thought they were just standing outside. We didn't have any idea they were waiting for me. They just sort of came up and started following us, calling names. It didn't really bother me."

"But when I came out, they began throwing milk cartons and cups and ice. Little pieces of ice like you get in coke. And sticks and stones too. Only one stick hit me."

"I didn't know they were spitting at first. I thought they were throwing water at me. There was a lady running along telling the kids to spit on me."

Dorothy said she wasn't afraid then, or angry.

Dorothy said she wasn't afraid then, or angry.

"They weren't hurting me. I didn't care as long as they spit on my back. Only one girl tried to spit in my face and she didn't get me."

Dorothy stayed home the next two days with a temperature of 103—"sort of a combination of tonsillitis and excitement."

The following Monday, things were better. "Two girls asked me to eat lunch with them and we sat on the lawn and talked. But some big boys started calling them 'nigger lovers' and things. So, I thought I'd better eat alone Tuesday."

Wednesday was bad, she said. "When I was at my locker in the corridor, they threw an eraser at my back. I just picked it up and went on. But at noon, someone threw the piece of tin. A sharp corner of it hit me on the head and it kind of hurt. Then some boys smashed in our car window."

Dorothy said she had had hundreds of phone calls and letters from white people who wanted to tell her how sorry they were about her difficulties.

But then, as Dorothy put it, "I have to walk by myself. There's nobody to walk with me."

 What do you do with your leisure time, these days? If you have any, that is—which most of us claim that we don't. Writers are getting increasingly concerned with this question, since it's part of the "dilemma" modern man is supposed to be getting in, more and more deeply as automation reduces the number of hours he has to spend working. . . . Clifton Fadiman, in his new and fascinating book of familiar essays, "Any Number Can Play"—implying that anybody can play as well as work—says you ought to just sit around and let your mind wander into all sorts of fascinating occupations. . . . And in "Osborn on Leisure," author-artist Robert Osborn dissects you and comes up with the idea that most people are desperately unhappy because they don't know what to do with themselves—forgetting the simple joys of the leisurely life, like quiet walks (who walks, these days—when we don't even have sidewalks?), close observation of the wonders of nature (who observes nature going through it at 70 mph?), making love (hmmmm), and quiet meals with the family (who eats quiet meals, with TV to look at and your wife to fight with?) . . .

CHAPTER 17

"So it's started again!" exclaimed Enid Sinclair, glaring at her husband and Deborah. "What do you mean?" he stammered. "You know perfectly well, Bill. A pair of slim legs, neat ankles, a pretty face. Simply can't resist them, can you?"

"My dear, I haven't an earthly idea what you're talking about," Bill replied.

"After all your tears and promises, yes," Enid said viciously, turning to Deborah and Joyce, "he weeps, sheds real tears, when he wants to convince me that he'll reform." Her eyes stabbed her bewildered husband once more. "I am talking about you and Miss Vail."

"My dear girl!" protested Bill, his jaw dropping.

"Well, really," said Joyce indignantly.

"I'd like to know exactly what you mean by that," said Deborah. Enid's voice, which had risen to a shrill pitch, now became a feline purr. "Don't be too flattered by his attentions, Miss Vail. You needn't think you're the one of interest of his life. He'll go running after the next shapely form that comes along. I expect he told you I don't understand him. The truth is, I understand him only too well."

Bill said weakly, "Enid, have you gone mad? Why, it's it's ridiculous. I've never been alone with Miss Vail for five minutes."

Deborah drew a deep breath. "If you are suggesting that there is something between your husband and me—"

"I'm not suggesting it," said Enid. "I'm saying it right out."

"Then you are mad!" retorted Deborah.

"Is that so? Then how do you explain having this?" Enid snatched up the cigarette lighter and held it out on her palm. "My husband's lighter. The one I gave him for his birthday."

People were staring, putting heads together, whispering titillating conjectures. They could not catch what was being said but it was all too evident, even to those at the far side of the cafe, that an angry scene was in progress. Enid was too furious to notice the attention being given her or to care what others thought. In any case, to Enid, a violent scene at intervals was almost a physical need, a specific for frayed nerves. It was perversely characteristic of her to throw dignity to the winds when she was annoyed and resentful and had an audience.

If she and Deborah had been alone she would have questioned the girl, almost sweetly, about the lighter, and left it at that for Deborah.

"My dear, you should have seen your face. You looked positively guilty!"

There was an uncomfortable silence, broken by Joyce saying coldly, "As guilty as Bill looks now?" Enid continued, "how did you come into possession of it?"

Bill, you absolute swine, you told me you'd lost it!"

Bill Sinclair's empty good-looking face looked suddenly guilty and afraid.

"Then it's your husband's lighter?" asked Deborah quietly.

"Yes, dear," purred Enid, "as if you didn't know. If there's nothing between you why should he give it to you?"

"He didn't," replied Deborah, enunciating very clearly. "I picked it up at Andrew Garvin's house."

"There you are, Enid," said Bill, "a shade too quickly." Another fuss over nothing. It's all very simple. I must have left it at the Garvins' last time we dropped in on them."

"It's ages since 'we' last dropped in on the Garvins," Enid persisted, "and I only gave you the lighter on the tenth of last month."

In her bitterness she did not realize the significance of what she was saying, the black suspicion she was casting on her husband. If Bill only got the lighter on the tenth and Erica was murdered on the twelfth... The implication was clear to Deborah. And to Joyce, who caught her breath sharply. And to Bill, whose forehead broke out in beads of perspiration. But not to Enid. She was too hurt and jealous to weigh her words.

"You gave me your word of honor that you'd drop Erica, but this proves you didn't. Did she give you a party for your birthday?"

An intimate little affair for two?"

"Enid," said Bill hoarsely, "for God's sake—"

And then, Enid got it. It was almost ludicrous the way her face changed, crumpling like a burst paper bag. One minute sharp with anger, the next blurred with dismay. She looked as if she were drowning, going under for the third time. If Bill was shaken and afraid, Enid was almost paralyzed.

But Enid was of strong fiber. She never quite lost her wits. With a hand that was almost steady she turned over the lighter, the silver gadget that had become an ominous thing. Surprising them all, she gave a shrill laugh.

"I had you fooled, didn't I? You really thought I was jealous. Of course, I knew all the time that this wasn't your lighter, Bill. It looks a bit like it but the shape is different."

"Oh, quite different," stammered Bill. He essayed a laugh but the result was ghastly.

"You put on quite an act," he said, but the sweat still glistened on his brow.

"I wanted to see what you would say. It was most amusing," Enid turned effervescingly to Deborah.

"My dear, you should have seen your face. You looked positively guilty!"

There was an uncomfortable silence, broken by Joyce saying coldly, "As guilty as Bill looks now?" She gathered up handbag and gloves. "We'd better be going, Deborah." She beckoned to the hovering waitress.

"Don't bother about the check, darling," said Enid. "Bill will see to it."

"I'd rather pay," said Joyce firmly.

As she and Deborah came out into welcome fresh air, Joyce said, "The spite of that woman. The high-handed insolence of her! I'll never speak to her again."

"Don't be too hard," said Deborah. "She's sorry now."

"Yes," said Joyce with a shiver, "she's sorry now. Oh, Deborah, I don't think what I can't help thinking."

"Where would one buy a lighter like this?"

Deborah had picked it up when they left.

"Probably in Edinburgh or Glasgow," Joyce replied. "Though one might find it at Moirs, the big jewellers across the street. They carry quite nice things."

Across the street at Moirs, an elderly shop assistant was courteous and helpful to Deborah. "You found the lighter, miss? And would like us to help you trace the owner, if we can? No trouble at all. I'll gladly look it up in the book."

Shortly he returned to the counter carrying an open ledger with his thumb at an entry.

"Yes, here it is. The purchase was made by Mrs. William Sinclair. A present for her husband, I believe she said at the time."

"You're sure this is the one?"

"Oh, quite sure. There can be no doubt whatever. It has our mark on it. You wouldn't notice it unless you knew exactly where to look."

"Oh, Deborah," whispered Joyce. "No Bill! It would kill Enid."

"But it was all right for it to be Andrews..." Deborah replied.

"I used to think it would be amusing to play detective, but it isn't a game when a man's life is at stake," Deborah decides, as the story continues here tomorrow.

Left Everything For Ocean Trip

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Five young men sailed toward the South Pacific yesterday on a 36-foot schooner to do what "we have always wanted."

The five, from 26 to 33, tossed aside jobs and claim to leave no girls — not even to write to. They are going "just to get away."

Crew members are Reg Blake, Fred Shepperd, Herbert Knapp, John Lewis and Bob Drude. Blake and Shepperd, who spent two years refitting the green and white craft, sailed her from British Columbia to San Francisco with the help of Herbert and two others.

The five plan to follow a 2,800-mile course to the Marquesas Islands and then leisurely go on to Tahiti, Fiji and Australia.

NEW YORK (COPPER)—Coppers continued their recovery as the stock market remained on the upside in moderate trading early this afternoon.

Gains by most key stocks were narrow and there was a sprinkling of small losers, but a few leading issues scored sizable gains, running to around 2 points.

As a whole, the market seemed to be showing indecision as a number of stocks alternately made and lost small gains.

The coppers, however, were well on the upside as they were bolstered by a firming in copper prices at the custom smelter level. Some oils and selected issues elsewhere in the list also made fair gains.

But major steel shares were barely changed. Motors showed a slight downward drift. Leading rails were unchanged to slightly higher.

Kennecott tacked on another 2 points and Anaconda was ahead well over a point. American Smelting and International Nickel were up a point or better.

Among the oils, Amerasia advanced more than a point. Gulf Oil and Sinclair major fractions. But Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Royal Dutch took losses.

International Paper was another 2-point gainer. Goodrich rose more than a point. Air reduction and Chesapeake & Ohio were up close to a point.

Smaller gains were made by U.S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Union Carbide, Du Pont, Southern Pacific and United Air Lines.

Goodyear fell about a point. General Motors, Chrysler and American Can were off fractions. Caterpillar dropped more than a point while International Harvester held to the upside narrowly.

U.S. Steel, Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet were about even. Lukens added a point. A block of 8,600 shares of National Theatres was sold at 9, up 1/4.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 20 cents to $174.00 with the industrials up 30 cents, the rails up 30 cents and utilities up 10 cents.

County Fair Manager Brings Plans Up To Date At Meeting

Pitt County Fair Association officers and press, radio and television representatives were guests of Norman Y. Chambliss, Pitt Fair Manager, at an appreciation night supper last night.

Chambliss brought those present up-to-date on progress of plans for agricultural and livestock exhibits for this year's fair.

The fair is owned and operated by the Ayden, Farmville and Greenville American Legion Posts. It will be held this year Sept. 30 through Oct. 5.

Chambliss told the group that television personality Pinky Lee and Hypnotist Joan Brandon will be featured at the fair.

He announced that the Fair Association will construct a pavilion in a space to the left of the automobile entrance to the fairgrounds. The Pinky Lee and Joan Brandon shows will be staged on the pavilion.

The Pinky Lee shows are to be staged at 5 and 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights of the fair week and the Joan Brandon shows, separate from the Pinky Lee appearance, will be staged every night at 8:30 beginning Tuesday night.

It was pointed out last night that the fair has paid out $32,500 to exhibitors in Pitt County during the past eight years. This year it will pay out to Pitt County exhibitors $3,800 in prizes.

Dr. J. D. Messick, president of East Carolina College, praised the operation of the Pitt County Fair.

He stated that in his judgment after observation of the operation for the past several years, the fair was educational and worthwhile.

Included among the guests last night were officers and members of the Executive Committee of the Pitt County Fair Association. There were also representatives from the women's division headed by Mrs. Lillian B. Little and the men's division headed by Sam C. Winchell. Heads of all departments attended including livestock, 4-H boys and girls, home economics, field crops and horticulture, vocational agriculture.

Other guests were Capt. S. H. Mitchell of the N. C. Highway Patrol; Alton Gardner, chairman of the Pitt Board of Commissioners, and Dr. Messick, along with press, radio and television representatives.

J. H. Moye Talks To Underwriters

Relationships between banking institutions and insurance companies were discussed for the Pitt County Life Underwriters Association yesterday by J. Howard Moye, vice-president and trust officer of Guaranty Bank and Trust Company.

Moye's comments were centered on "Life Insurance Trust" and the ways by which insurance agents, bank officials and attorney's work together for a single client.

Paul McMahan, chairman of the Life Underwriters Training Course, told the association that only four vacancies remain in the course which will begin in September. McMahan also announced that Ray Phillips of Washington, N.C., will be instructor for the course which will meet 26 times as a preparatory for Chartered Life Underwriter status.

Four new members and four visitors were recognized at the meeting which was presided over by President J. Paul Simpson. New members who were introduced were J.A. Butler, C.G. Forlines and Burney V. Hardee, all of Southern Life Insurance Company; and John H. Gurganus of the Life Insurance Company of Virginia. Visitors were Robert Potts, vice-president of Sentinel Life Insurance Company; and Clarence Carawan, Tommy Sharp and Ray Phillips, all of Washington, N.C.

E.E. Patrick was named assistant chairman of the association's membership drive.

Reds Offered To Buy Arabian Oil

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — A reliable informant in close touch with the Saudi Arabian oil industry said today Communist bloc countries recently made overtures to buy oil from Saudi Arabia.

The informant said Poland and Yugoslavia both recently contacted the Saudis and offered to pay dollars, if necessary. Actual purchase of oil would have to be from the Arabian American Oil Co. (Aramco), but the Communist governments apparently hoped the Saudis would use their good offices to influence Aramco to sell to them.

The reasons for these overtures are not clear. Oil men say Russia and Romania have been sending huge shipments of crude oil to Egypt. Since Egypt broke with Britain and France last fall and is consequently cramped for foreign exchange, Russia also stepped up shipments to Egypt.

The recent overtures may indicate the Communist world is getting hard pressed for oil and that shipments to Egypt have been made for purely political purposes at the expense of Russia's own satellites.

The willingness of Communist countries to pay for oil in dollars indicates they feel an urgent need of Middle East oil to supplement the Communist world's own stocks, the informant said.

On the other hand, oil men here speculate this may be the beginning of a Communist campaign to become a market for Arab oil, thereby increasing their economic ties with the Arabs. Already the Soviet bloc is buying most of Egypt's cotton and Syria's wheat.

Typhoon Strikes Philippines Tip

MANILA (AP) — Typhoon Carmen hit the northern tip of the Philippines today. Winds of 110 miles an hour and heavy seas struck the sparsely populated Batanes Islands.

The typhoon should miss Formosa and slam into the China mainland north of Hong Kong on its present course, the Manila Weather Bureau said.
