Faubus Refuses To Be Witness In Federal Court

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Orval Faubus today refused to appear as a witness in a federal court case involving four anti-integration acts passed by the 1957 Arkansas Legislature.

His rejection of a subpoena—on the ground that as chief executive of the state the federal court could not compel his appearance—gave a clue to his possible course of action tomorrow when he is scheduled to appear in the same court as a defendant in the government's petition for an injunction to prevent him from interfering further with integration at Little Rock Central High School.

National Guard troops, at the direction of Faubus, have kept Negro students from entering the school.

An attorney for 10 Negro ministers who are challenging constitutionality of the Arkansas laws attempting to halt or delay integration had obtained issuance of a subpoena for Faubus.

The governor was to have appeared before the three-judge court at 10 a .m.

The governor sent this letter to H Grady Miller, clerk of the U.S. District Court here:

"The U. S. marshal had delivered to me a subpoena to appear in your court Thursday morning, Sept. 19, at 10 a. m. to testify as a witness for the plaintiff in the case of Roland Smith et al vs. State Sovereignty Commission et al.

"While I have the utmost respect for your court and its valid processes, I must point out that almost from the very beginning of our republic it has been uniformly held that the chief executive is not compelled to comply with a subpoena unless he chooses to do so. In this particular case because of the obvious ulterior motive of those who obtained the subpoena, I do not choose to comply with it. I would thank you to so advise the court. The tendered witness fee of $4 is herewith returned."

A court attache explained that the attorney who obtained the subpoena had gone through the formality of tendering Faubus one day's witness fee. Any witness may refuse to appear, if he wishes unless he receives a day's witness fee and mileage, the court official said.

Dulles Asks UN To Act In Middle East

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles called on the U. N. today to intervene in the Middle East situation. He said Soviet arms in Syria pose "a growing military danger" to Turkey.

The secretary of state in a major policy speech told the 82-nation General Assembly "the United Nations may not be able by any material power it can muster to tranquilize the scene." But he declared it must exert its full influence to end Soviet efforts to dominate the Middle East.

Dulles said the Communists appear to be engaging in acts aimed at impairing the freedom and independence of certain Middle East nations.

"Also," he said, "we believe that these Soviet acts may, perhaps unwittingly, lead the recipients of Soviet arms into acts of direct aggression."

"Those who feel an abnormal sense of power as a result of the recent putting into their hands of large amounts of Soviet bloc arms, are being incited by violent propaganda," he added. "That is risky business."

Dulles charged Russian acts in the Middle East were in violation of an Assembly resolution adopted in 1945 calling upon every nation to refrain from any threats or acts aimed at impairing the integrity of any state.

He said the situation called not only for individual and collective vigilance on the part of all free nations but, when there is "such a situation as now exists in the Middle East, this General Assembly ought at least to consider it and discuss it."

He said the United States would reserve the right in the light of these discussions to introduce concrete proposals.

Referring specifically to the situation in Syria he declared:

"This Soviet Communist effort has made the most progress in Syria, where Soviet bloc arms were exultantly received and where political power has increasingly been taken over by those who depend upon Moscow. True patriots have been driven from positions of power by arrests or intimidation.

"One consequence of this is that Turkey now faces growing military danger from the major buildup of Soviet arms in Syria on its southern border, a buildup concerted with Soviet military power on Turkey's northern border.

"Last week the Soviet Union sought to intimidate Turkey from making internal dispositions of its security forces to protect against a possible Soviet pincer movement."

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will have his say before the Assembly tomorrow.

Military Manpower Cut Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson today ordered an additional cut of 100,000 men in the armed services as promptly as possible but no later than next June 30.

This slash comes atop a similar reduction, ordered on July 16 and to be achieved by the end of December.

The two cuts, totaling 200,000 will reduce uniformed manpower to 2,600,000 by the end of June.

The over-all strength authorized in the original defense budget for the current fiscal year was 2,800,000.

With some cuts already made, actual military strength on Aug. 31 was 2,789,700. Thus the armed forces must slash strength by 189,700 men to reduce the Aug. 31 total to the new, lower goal set by Wilson.

The apportioned cuts from the original 2,800,000 authorized strength are divided in this fashion: Army 100,000, Navy 30,000, Air Force 50,000 and Marine Corps 20,000.

Wilson gave the Marine Corps a little extra time to make its cut. Corps strength now stands at 199,500. It will be permitted to have 188,000 at the end of next June but must trim to 180,000 soon thereafter.

For the other services, the plan contemplates these goals for June 30:

Army now 990,000, droping to 900,000; Navy now 678,000, dropping to 645,000; Air Force now 922,20; dropping to 875,00.

Wilson said in an announcement that the latest manpower slash had been approved by President Eisenhower, and was being announced at this time because the services are now preparing their strength figures for the fiscal 1959 defense budget that will be submitted to the Congress in anuary.

The Defense Department said the manpower cuts will save about a billion dollars starting next July 1.

Claims 'Common Cold' Vaccine

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 34-year-old Johns Hopkins scientist has developed a vaccine which he said tests showed was highly effective against a major common cold virus.

Dr. Winston H. Price of the School of Hygiene and Public Health said he has:

1—Isolated the first "true" virus of the common cold—one responsible for 30 per cent of the cases he has studied for two years.

2—Developed a vaccine which, in controlled tests on more than 400 persons, prevented colds caused by the "JH virus" in 80 per cent of the cases.

The possibility of mass-producing the vaccine is very good, Dr. Price indicated, although he begged off answering any questions about commercial production.

"I know nothing about that at all," he said. "I'm a medical researcher. I will make nothing out of this whatsoever."

But he said the JH virus has been sent to other laboratories and they have been able to cultivate it using the methods developed here.

Immunity is produced from two shots, the second following the first by four weeks, Dr. Price said. He could not say how long the immunity would last.

He said the vaccine was made from killed JH virus and had produced no symptoms, discomfort or side effects.

Reaction of the medical world was as cautious as it was scarce. Most researchers and virus experts declined comment until they have seen Dr. Price's scientific report.

Because common colds are caused by an unknown number of viruses, Dr. Price emphasized that his vaccine cannot be expected to be effective against all of them.

The first report of the vaccine came last night in a Baltimore Sun copyright story by science reporter Weldon Wallace and was later confirmed by Dr. Price.

Eight large groups of volunteers from boys training schools took part in the experiments conducted by Dr. Price, director of the Division of Medical Ecology of the Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public health.

The vaccine was tested in an epidemic which occurred normally.

In one group of 100 boys, 50 were injected with the vaccine, 25 were given a saline solution which produces no effects, and 25 were given a preparation from killed monkey kidney tisue — the medium in which the virus was grown.

An outbreak of the colds from the JH virus occurred five weeks later, Dr. Price said, and 11 boys out of the 25 who received the saline solution caught colds. Twelve of the 25 who got the monkey tissue preparation also caught colds. But only 3 of the 50 who received the Price vaccine developed cold symptoms.

Eight times as many children dveloped colds among those who had not received the vaccine than among those who did.

The JH virus was grown and the preventive was prepared by techniques similar to those used in developing Salk polio vaccine and older vaccines of other types.

Report Progress In Phone Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Progress was reported today in the negotiations seeking to settle the nationwide strike of 23,800 telephone exchange equipment installers.

Walter A. Maggiolo, a member of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said "Some encouraging progress has been made" in efforts to settle the contract dispute.

Maggiolo made the announcement at 2:30 a.m. as negotiations between the Western Electric Co. and the striking Communications Workers of America (CWA) recessed until 10 a.m.

The mediator had been meeting with both sides in almost continuous sessions since 10:30 yesterday.

Maggiolo said that at today's resumed session he would meet only with A. D. Billotte, chief negotiator for Western Electric, and Joseph C. Dunne, chief negotiator for the CWA. Maggiolo met only with these top negotiators yesterday.

Full negotiating committees for both sides will be close at hand today to function in case the situation calls for it, the mediator said.

The installers have been on strike since Monday in 44 states and the District of Columbia. The strike has not affected Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Montana where local companies maintain their own equipment.

Western Electric, manufacturing arm of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., and the union have been deadlocked over wages and other issues.

Organize Effort For Addition To Health Building

Preliminary plans were mapped last night to raise approximately $15,000 in local funds needed to assure construction of a Mental Health wing at the Pitt County Health Department building.

Rep. Walter B. Jones of Farmville was named chairman of the organization to raise the necessary local funds. Dr. M. T. Frizzelle of Ayden was named vice chairman; Mrs. Helen C. McArthur of Greenville, secretary and David J. Whichard II of Greenville, treasurer.

Through the efforts of Rep. Jones, Sen. Paul E. Jones and Rep. Frank M. Wooten, the 1957 General Assembly appropriated $30,000 to be used by the Pitt County Board of Commissioners for construction of a mental health wing at the local health center. The only stipulation in the legislative appropriation is that sufficient additional local funds be secured to construct the proposed facility.

Dr. Joseph D. Franzoni, director of the Pitt County Mental Health Service and acting director of the county's health department, said latest estimates indicate the proposed facility will cost approximately $45,000 — $15,000 more than appropriated by the legislature. Plans for the new mental health wing have been drawn and work can begin as soon as the additional money is available.

Rep. Jones told the group last night, "I am sure all of us here are confident this additional sum of money can be raised and are determined to see that it is. The matter for us to decide is how best the project can be carried out."

The chairman was instructed to appoint a steering committee to work out plans for securing the necessary $15,000 in additional funds.

Kasper Is Freed, Leaves Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—As attendance at Nashville's five integrated grammar schools climbed back to normal, John Kasper ended his one-week stay in jail and left Nashville yesterday.

A White Citizens Council associate of Kasper, Lee Foster of Knoxville, Tenn., provided the $2,500 bail.

Kasper's Nashville attorney Montague Ross said the roving segregationist would stay out of town until Nov. 18, the date for his trial here on a charge of inciting to riot.

Short Leaf Crop Having Its Effect

A short tobacco crop has apparently had its effect on the employment situation in this area.

Jobs for Pitt residents are not as plentiful now as they were a year ago. W. B. Dillingham, manager of the Employment Security Commission office, states, "Generally our employment is not as good this year."

A sharp increase has been shown in the number of new and continued claims—those carried over from week to week. For the week ending Sept. 13, the Commission had 12 new claims for unemployment compensation, two of which were female, and 86 continued claims. Of this number, 31 were listed as female.

At the end of Sept. 14, the corresponding week last year, the Commission had three new claims and 32 continued claims. This number included 10 female.

To further exemplify circumstances Dillingham compared figures for August of 1956 and 1957.

On Aug. 31, 1956, the Commission had 15 new claims and 283 continued claims as compared to 68 new claims and 521 continued claims during the month of August this year.

Job Applications

The ESC office received only 68 new applications for jobs in August 1956 as compared against 173 this year for the corresponding 31-day period. Dillingham explained that new applications indicate the applicants previously have never filed for a job.

At the end of August last year the Commission has 668 applications for jobs on active file. This year the number increased 274 applications to 942.

A total of 294 men and women were placed in non-agricultural work in August, 1956. During August the Commission placed 302.

The big decrease in placements was shown in agriculture. In August of last year the Employment Commission placed 2,410 men and women in farm work. During last month only 1,114 were placed in agricultural employment .

Dillingham attributed the sharp decrease to a short tobacco crop. "After all," he said, "tobacco is Pitt's primary industry."

As a result of the tobacco shortage jobs vacancies on the tobacco markets have been fewer this year. The processing factories are not hiring as many men and women either.'

Missile Center Steps Up Tests

MISSILE TEST CENTER, Cape Canaveral, Fla. (AP)—A missile believed to be one of the smaller types blasted off from this top-secret launching base at 9:46 a.m. today and disappeared quickly into a gray cloud bank.

Taking off in a low arc, the rocket streaked away very fast and was out of sight in seconds. After it vanished, two balls of fire which may have been booster shots were seen falling into the Atlantic.

Newsmen viewed the firing from three miles away, through a misty rain.

This has been an active week of missile testing here. Yesterday, a red and white missile believed to be the now superseded Navaho was fired with Asst. Defense Secretary Donald A. Quarles as a witness.

The needle-nosed projectile soared southeastward over the Atlantic after a fiery takeoff. Newsmen who watched the launching said it appeared to be successful.

Work on the Navajo, a guided missile with a 5,000-mile range, was halted a month ago on the ground it was not so far advanced as the Snark.

The Air Force, however, planned to keep on firing the Navajos it had on hand for test purposes.

Quarles was here on what the Defense Department called a busman's holiday.

Bank Of England Hikes Interest In Inflation War

LONDON (AP)—The Bank of England today raised its interest rate to 7 per cent—highest in 36 years—in an attempt to stop inflation and prevent devaluation of the pound sterling. The effect will be stern belt-tightening throughout Britain. The rate has been 5 per cent.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Peter Thorneycroft issued a statement saying the government intends to maintain the existing exchange rate parity at $2.80 to the pound.

Virtually every financial institution in the country, from neighborhood branch banks to great private concerns, will now almost automatically increase interest rates correspondingly. This will mean less money will be available for ordinary spending. The government hopes thus to reduce imports, divert more industrial products into export markets, and rebuild the country's sagging gold and dollar reserves.

THAMESVILLE, Ont. (AP)—This southwestern Ontario community of 1,100 mobilized to avert a disaster today after a speeding train knifed into a transport truck and dumped tons of death-dealing cyanide at its doorstep.

Workers, many of them volunteers and aware of possible danger to themselves, sought to get rid of the lethal mass before wind or rain could spread its menace throughout the town.

At daybreak Police Chief Robert Letts said the picture was improving.

Provincial police, civil defense workers, army reserve units and residents pitched in to work in the area. A state of emergency was declared.

Shortly before midnight, a tractor-trailer owned by the Truck Transport Co. Ltd., of Dearborn, Mich., was sliced in two at the crossing by a Canadian National Railways passenger train bound from Toronto to Windsor.

Pieces of the truck and its cargo of cyanide pellets were scattered over a quarter-mile area. Truck driver J. C. Sluder of Wayne, Mich., was taken to a hospital at Chatham, 17 miles southwest of here, for treatment for slight shoulder cuts. Nobody else was injured.

Chief Letts said police, acting on the advice of a chemist from the Dow Chemical Co. at Sarnia, ordered the poisonous debris—two and three feet deep in spots—shoveled into barrels and trucked away to be buried.

There were warnings that rain could turn the cyanide dust in the atmosphere into a lethal mist.

The Weather Bureau in Toronto forecast light rain for the area this afternoon. Winds would be about 15 miles an hour.

Lime was spread over the debris to neutralize the effects of the cyanide.

An early proposal to hose down the littered tracks was vetoed on the grounds the poison might find its way through sewers to the Thames River, contaminating the water supply of Chatham.

After burial was decreed the only safe disposal method, the volunteer crews went to work.

"They were warned of the possible danger," Chief Letts said, "but they went right at it. We've got about 100 men on the scene now and the situation, as far as it can be, seems under control."

Police reinforcements, medical aid and ambulances were either on the scene or within immediate call should the situation worsen, he said.

The poison pellets, in 100-and 200-pound kegs, were made at Du Pont of Buffalo, N.Y. and consigned to Detroit. The cyanide is used in steel smelting.

Potassium cyanide, another form, is used in gas chamber executions. The cyanide is dropped into acid, creating fatal fumes.

The crash, at the crossing of the railroad and Highway 2, a main route from London, Ont., to Windsor and Detroit, sheared off a high-voltage power pole and left this community of 1,100 in darkness.

The train later continued on its run.

The train went more than a mile after the crash before rolling to a stop, its air brakes damaged by the impact.

Dan, Roanoke Crests Diminish

RALEIGH (AP) — Flood threats were diminishing today in the Dan and Roanoke basins as rains which fell since yesterday there were much lighter than during the two previous days.

The upper portions of the Dan and Roanoke rivers and their tributaries have been flooding lowlands in North Carolina and Virginia as a result of recent rains.

The U.S. Weather Bureau reported today that the Dan River had crested and was now receding. The Roanoke crested Tuesday night. The rains are much lighter than they have been the past two days, the Weather Bureau stated, with amounts averaging a little under a half inch on the Dan River.

The Dan River crested at 12 feet but was down 11.2 feet at 8 a.m. today. Flood stage is 11 feet.

On the Upper Roanoke area, the Roanoke River was back within its banks as far down as Altavista. At Randolph the stage this morning was about 22 feet, two feet above the banks. However, flooding was not serious there according to the Weather Bureau.

Down stream, it noted, the waters will be contained by the John H. Kerr Dam. On the Tar, Neuse and Cape Fear rivers, all amounts of rainfall since yesterday were reported generally less than half an inch and no flooding on these streams is in prospect at present.

Bringing Six Adopted Kids To Make A Home

YOKOHAMA, Japan (AP) —An unmarried San Francisco woman with a yen for kids is going home with six of them this month — all adopted.

"I've been waiting since 1954 for a special bill from Congress and now we're going back to raise chickens and kids," Jean Fuller, an Army civilian employe, said today.

Miss Fuller and the children, of mixed American and Japanese blood, plan to arrive at San Francisco airport Sept. 29 or 30 on a chartered military flight.

The four girls and two boys range from 14 months to 10 years. They were adopted a few at a time from Our Lady of Lourdes, a Catholic orphanage.

"I just like children," said the tall, bespectacled 36-year-old woman. "When I found out that under Japanese and California law I could adopt them, I adopted them."

CONFER IN TOKYO

TOKYO (AP) — Undersecretary of State Christian A. Herter conferred with Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi today. The subject of their talks was not disclosed. The undersecretary will end his Far East tour and leave for the United States tomorrow.

'Completely Went Out Of My Mind', Says Grimes On Stand

By BRYAN HAISLIP

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — J. D. Grimes Jr., lawyer and member of a prominent family, told a jury here today that "I completely went out of my mind" when he caught his wife having sexual relations with a farmer.

Grimes was the first witness at his trial on second degree murder charges. He pleaded innocent because of temporary insanity.

In a voice which threatened to break under strain, Grimes described the discovery of his wife and Haywood Paul under a tobacco barn shelter, approximately 200 feet from the Grimes home.

Grimes said he was aroused from sleep by his two youngest children on the night of Aug. 16 and discovered his wife missing from the house.

He said after looking around the grounds he heard a "mumbled voice" and walked under the tobacco barn shelter.

"I saw my wife and Haywood Paul lying on the ground on what I later discovered was a raincoat," he said.

Grimes said he fired his pistol when Paul started to rise to his feet.

"I don't know how many times or what happened until some time later when my wife ran and grabbed me," he sstated.

Grimes said the discovery "completely drove me out of my mind. . . I was horrified, stunned by what I had seen. I feel like I went crazy."

After calling an ambulance and notifying police, Grimes said he returned to the barn shelter and covered wounds in Paul's chest with pieces of torn dishcloth. He said he was not aware whether Paul was dead and "I wanted to do what I could to help him."

Judge Joseph W. Parker upheld objections of Solicitor Walter Cahoon and refused to allow Grimes to testify as to statements made by Mrs. Grimes, 39-year-old mother of five, who has not yet appeared in court.

Mrs. Paul, widow of the slain man, listened from a front row seat. She bowed her head and wiped her eyes with her fingers while Grimes told of the killing.

Under questioning from defense attorney W. B. Carter, Grimes reviewed in detail events of the night. He said he had retired before his wife and that he was awakened by his seven-year-old daughter, Olivia, and a few moments later three-year-old Alden began to fret.

While getting a bottle of milk the child had dropped from his crib, Grimes said he became aware his wife was not in the bedroom. Still dressed in his underwear, Grimes said he took his pistol, a 32-calber foreign made automatic.

He carried the weapon, he said, "Because I usually take it with me when I go outside at night."

The home was described as located in an isolated area surrounded by trees with no other houses nearby.

The tobacco barn was inside a fence surrounding the Grimes home, but was one Paul had use of under a lease with Grimes' father.

Selection of an all-male jury was completed last night at 6:45 in Beaufort Superior Court. The jurors, all of whom are married, were placed in the custody of a special officer for the night.

In questioning prospective jurors, defense attorneys had made a point of asking if they were married.

Two points that figured strongly in the selection of the jury were the "unwritten law" and the question of "temporary insanity."

Defense attorneys have admitted that Grimes killed Paul, but they tendered a plea of innocent on the grounds of temporary insanity.

Mrs. Grimes, an attractive brunette and mother of five children, was not present yesterday when the trial opened. The defense has said there is a possibility she might take the stand.

Under the plea of temporary insanity, the defense presents its case first. This reverses the normal procedure.

District Solicitor Walter Cahoon asked would-be jurors if they believed a man "has the right to shoot and kill another man with whom he finds his wife having sexual intercourse."

Several said they did adhere to this "unwritten law" and were promptly dismissed.

Defense attorneys, in their line of questioning, asked prospective jurors, summoned from Nash County, if they thought it possible for a man to temporarily lose his reason if he found his wife in such a predicament.

This hypothetical question was asked throughout the task of selecting the jury. Defense attorneys emphasized that the question embraced "a hypothetical set of facts" and not necessarily actual fact.

John Wilkinson, one of Grimes five lawyers, asked the would-be jurymen this question:

"If the evidence disclosed that the defendant has been married 20 years and that he loved and trusted his wife, and if it should further disclose he suddenly came upon his wife on the ground, almost naked, lying on a raincoat, and lying next to her, facing her, the deceased with no shirt on, his pants open. . . and if the defendant then shot and killed the deceased, in such an event do you believe the scene could cause the defendant to temporarily lose his reason?"

Suspected Polio Case Taken To Duke Hospital

A Belvoir child with suspected polio was taken to Duke Hospital by the Rescue ambulance last night as squad members stood by with a portable iron lung.

The three-year-old Negro child, identified by the Fire Department as Barry Davis, was placed in the polio ward at the Durham hospital where tests are being made to determine whether the disease is polio.

A local physician who attended the child said the youngster definitely had encephalitis (inflammation of the brain) and doctors suspect polio. He said the condition was affecting his breathing and swallowing. For that reason it was felt the portable iron lung should accompany the child in case breathing stopped altogether.

Rescue squad members said the boy's condition remained about the same during the entire trip and it was not necessary to use the lung.

The local physician said he talked to doctors at Duke this morning and Barry's condition is about the same today. He said tests are being made to confirm the exact nature of the disease.

Fireman Lyman Nethercutt, who made the trip along with rescue squad members Stewart Savage and Roy Hardee, said no difficulty was encountered during the trip. The iron lung was set up ready for immediate use if the boy had needed it during the trip, Nethercutt said.

The ambulance left Greenville at 11:00 p.m. and returned here at 5:20 this morning.

Fire Chief George Gardner pointed out that the iron lung used by the rescue squad is the only one in the county.

He noted that the lung was donated by the Moose Lodge.

Mrs. Messick Fetes Five Recent Brides

Five recent brides were entertained yesterday afternoon by Mrs. John Messick at a tea given at her home on East Fifth Street.

Honored at the party were Mrs. Judson Blount Jr., Mrs. Curtis Hendrix, Mrs. Dwight Garrett, Mrs. Ed Sharp of Beaufort, and Mrs. Graham Flanagan Jr.

Upon arrival each of the brides was presented a corsage by the hostess for the occasion.

Mrs. K. B. Pace greeted the 100 guests and Mrs. R. M. Garrett introduced each guest to the receiving line composed of Mrs. Messick and the recent brides.

Floral arrangements of red and white gladioli were placed in the living room and massive arrangements of mixed flowers graced the sun porch.

Receiving throughout the house were Mrs. Reid Perkins, Mrs. Hoyle Hendrix and Mrs. Graham Flanagan Sr.

Guests were directed into the dining room to an appointed table covered with an organdy cloth over pink satin and centered with a silver epergne filled with an all-pink arrangement of roses and chrysanthemums. Featured at one end of the table was a fruit tray.

Mrs. J. H. Blount Sr. and Mrs. J. V. Cox served the decorative cakes, punch, mints and nuts assisted by Miss Liz Cox, Miss Pat Buffalo, Miss Dot McQuin, Miss Jo Hendrix, Mrs. H. L. Hodges Jr. and Mrs. A. D. Frank.

Out-of-town guests attending the party were Mrs. Buffalo and Mrs. Hollaman of Raleigh and Mrs. Allen of Kinston. Mrs. Ralph Garrett Jr. said the goodbyes.

Social Notes

Mrs. A. B. McKeel Jr. and two children of Norfolk are visiting her mother, Mrs. Rosa Brown. Lt.-Cmdr. McKeel recently reported as communications officer aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Boston, now participating in NATO exercise "Strikeback."

West Greenville P.T.A. To Meet

West Greenville P.T.A. is to meet at the school auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock. Mr. J. H. Rose, superintendent of Greenville Schools, will greet the teachers and parents. Mr. Grey, a student at East Carolina, will give the devotion. A reception, honoring the teachers, will follow at the close of the meeting.

Masonic Notice

There will be an Emergent Communication of Crown Point Lodge No. 708, A.F.&A.M., at the Masonic Temple, West 5th Street, Friday, Sept. 20 at 7:30 p.m. Work in the Master Mason Degree. All Master Masons are invited to attend.

Was Married

Mrs. Donald Ray Fountain is the former Miss Suzanne Kramer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Kramer of Wilmington. Her marriage to Donald Ray Fountain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo G. Fountain of Wilmington was solemnized September 12 in Wilmington. The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Staton of Summitt St., Greenville.

WCTU Hears The Rev. De Witt

On September 13, Miss Alice Dail and Mrs. Lela Carson were hostesses to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union at the Nurse's Home which was decorated with fall flowers.

Called to order by the president, Mrs. Helene Higgs Kirkpatrick, the meeting opened with a hymn, "Blest Be The Tie." Mrs. Allen Baker led in prayer.

The Rev. J. L. De Witt gave the devotional, giving strong warning against social drinking, drunkenness that has caused kingdoms to fall. Rev. De Witt stated that total abstinence is the only answer.

During the business session plans were discussed to place books and literature in public places.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was as follows: Mrs. Allen Baker, president; Mrs. Charles Rumley, vice-president; Mrs. Gladys Scoville, secretary; Mrs. J. N. Williams, corresponding secretary-treasurer; Mrs. H. L. Andrews, director of flower, mission and relief work, and Miss Jennie Congleton, spiritual life.

Mrs. Allen Baker was elected delegate to the State Convention which will convene at the Main Street Methodist Church, High Point, October 9.

Prayer was led by Mrs. Scoville, after which refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Bride-To-Be Of December

MISS ANN FOUNTAIN HARRIS—is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Roderic Harris of Fountain who announce her engagement to Frederick Fernando Pollard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Fleming Pollard of Bethel. The wedding will take place in December.

Dr. Schindler Offers Hints For Making Marriage Success

Today's Women
By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

What is wrong with women?

Well, says Dr. John A. Schindler, co-founder of the famous Monroe Clinic at Monroe, Wis., and author of the best-selling book, "How to Live 365 Days a Year," the principal thing wrong with women is marriage.

Dr. Schindler has just written a new book, "Woman's Guide to Better Living," in which he says that the bulk of medical practice in the United States is concerned with emotionally induced illness (E.I.I.). Three out of four of these emotionally upset patients in every doctor's office, he says, are women. Moreover, most of them are married women.

Now the good doctor doesn't suggest that we should become a nation of spinsters and bachelors, but he, being of an inquiring turn of mind, began probing for the answer to a highly important question—why do so many married women blow their tops?

The reason, he now states, is that wives and mothers have been handed the greatest and most difficult of all possible jobs—that of managing a marriage and raising a successful family. This, says he, is a job that requires the highest abilities, talents and training — and many women just aren't equal to the job.

Adequate training is not available, personal weakness is great, problems are legion — and so many women survey their lives along about midway in a marriage and all of a sudden start picking the roses off the wallpaper.

Physically, says the doctor, women are much tougher than men. Mentally they're on a par with men, also. It's just in the emotional department that they are likely to crack up.

Dr. Schindler has some prescriptions to help women make a success of their monumental job.

Woman's best medicine, he says is a sense of humor.

His advice to women is—grow up. And he offers the following qualifications for a mature woman:

1. A sense of humor and a pleasant disposition.
2. Ability to make the best of any situation.
3. Unselfishness.
4. Confidence in yourself.
5. Control of your temper.
6. Tenderness and affection.
7. Satisfaction in work and responsibility.
8. The ability to mix common sense and fancy.
9. Ability to make sex a happy part of life.

For Tea Party Set

Having a tea party for a crowd? Serve tiny assorted tea sandwiches with small wedges of stuffed celery, green and black olives and salted almonds. Sweet offerings should be tiny frosted cupcakes or fancy cookies that can be eaten out of hand.

If you're buying fresh snap beans, check to see if they "snap" rather than bend. If beans bend, they're too long off the vine and too old for tasty eating.

Home Ec. Teachers Hear Mrs. Mabel Hall

Mrs. Mabel Hall, district supervisor of Home Economics, presented the program when the Pitt County Home Economics Teachers held their regular monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon in the Stokes-Pactolus Home Economics Department.

Mrs. Hall's topic was "Reports and Reporting." She stressed the importance of more detailed reports in order for them to be of value to the teacher, her administrators, and successors. "Reports also serve as a guide in showing student progress in various phases of the homemaking program," she added.

"It is of utmost importance that all reports be kept up to date and be self-explained," she added.

Progress made on exhibit booths for the Pitt County Fair was discussed. Five booths will include subjects on the various phases of homemaking and one will be designated for the Future Homemakers of America.

Present for the meeting were Mrs. Jewel Venters, Grimesland; Mrs. Hazel G. Tripp, Belvoir-Falkland; Mrs. Sarah Perkins, Stokes-Pactolus; Mrs. Hilda Carson, Bethel; Mrs. Jo Ross, Ayden; Miss Elsie Seago, Farmville; Mrs. Pauline Mooney, Chicod; Mrs. Eunice Casey, Grifton; and Mrs. Audrey Page, Mrs. Mabel Hall, Mrs. Rebecca Smith and two students from Greenville.

Light refreshments were served by Mrs. Sarah Perkins, hostess.

Mrs. Joe Gay, hostess for the meeting, served refreshments to the members and one guest present.

Save cartons from cottage cheese along with their covers; wash and dry before storing. They're great to use for pouring off fat or drippings to be discarded.

30 Years Ago Today

September 19, 1927

The farmer who raised enough to feed his family and his livestock, in addition to his cotton and tobacco crops, is not the one who is now worrying so much about the elow prices. The sooner farmers of this section begin to look to raising supplies for their own needs the sooner they will gain the goal of independence.

Miss Elizabeth Higgs left today for New York, where she will resume study at Columbia University.

Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm Thompson returned yesterday from a visit with relatives in Kentucky.

Misses Hennie and Anna Long have returned from a visit in Winston-Salem.

Corned Beef Has Leftover Uses

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

There's good news for folks who enjoy hearty corned beef. More and more food markets over the country have supplies of this flavorsome meat on hand because it is now being packed, by both local and national firms, in vacuum-sealed plastic bags. The beef is cured right in the bag and the wrapping shrinks to fit the meat, so that the result is a convenient package you can carry home and store in your refrigerator.

Here's how to cook the corned beef for a "boiled dinner" and use the leftover meat in easy-to-prepare corned-beef hash.

BOILED CORNED BEEF DINNER

Slit and remove the plastic bag covering a three- to four-pound beef brisket. Follow package directions for cooking or use this method. Cover the corned beef with water, bring to boil and simmer 10 minutes; pour off water. Barely cover with fresh water and add a small bay leaf and half a dozen peppercorns. Bring to a boil; simmer about 50 minutes per pound. About 45 minutes before the beef is cooked, add 6 medium-sized potatoes that have been pared and halved and 6 small whole pared carrots; continue simmering beef and vegetables. About 15 minutes before beef is cooked, add a small green cabbage that has been cut into 6 wedges. Remove beef and vegetables to a deep hot platter. Slice beef across the grain.

OVEN-BAKED CORNED BEEF HASH

Trim visible fat from left-over corned beef and chop medium-fine to make 2 cups. Mix lightly with 2 cups chopped cooked potatoes, 1 tablespoon finely grated onion (pulp and juice), salt and pepper to taste and ½ cup light or heavy cream. Butter generously a shallow baking pan or a skillet with a heat-resistant handle and fill with the mixture. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 20 minutes. Remove from oven; make deep depressions in the hash with the back of a large spoon. Into each, drop an egg. Sprinkle eggs with a light film of fine dry bread crumbs mixed with melted butter—a teaspoon of the crumbs will need a teaspoon of butter. Return to moderate oven and bake 20 minutes longer. Serve with chili sauce.

HEARTY HASH: Corned beef, now being packaged in vacuum-sealed plastic bags, has many uses as a leftover. A favorite is corned beef hash with dropped egg.

CORNED BEEF LEFTOVERS

Leftover sliced cooked corned beef makes a delicious sandwich when it is coupled with shredded green cabbage mixed with French dressing.

Ground leftover cooked corned beef may be mixed with grated cheddar cheese and a little mayonnaise and sweet pickle relish or finely chopped pimiento-stuffed olives. Use this as a spread for crackers to be served with tomato juice; or use as a filling for grilled sandwiches.

This strips of cooked corned beef plus strips of Swiss cheese make a tossed green salad hearty enough for a main dish for lunch.

Chopped cooked corned beef may be moistened with a little well-seasoned white sauce or chili sauce and used as a filling for turnovers made from pie dough.

The chopped corned beef may be used along with rice as a filling for stuffed green peppers or scooped-out whole tomatoes that are to be baked.

Today's Menu

FAMILY DINNER

Cook extra potatoes and use them this good and nutritious way.

Meat Loaf with Bacon Strips
Baked Creamed Potatoes
Broiled Tomatoes Snap Beans
Bread Tray
Frosted Cake Beverage

BAKED CREAMED POTATOES

Ingredients: 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, 3 cups diced cooked pared potatoes, salt, pepper, 1-4 pound thinly-sliced cheddar cheese.

Method: Melt butter in a 1- or 1½-quart saucepan over low heat; blend in flour thoroughly. Add milk all at once; cook and stir constantly over moderately low heat until thickened and bubbly. Mix lightly with diced potatoes in a 1½-quart shallow baking dish, adding salt and pepper to taste. Arrange the thin slices of cheese over the top. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven until cheese melts—20 to 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Ann Everette Named President 4-H Club

FOUNTAIN — The Fountain Junior 4-H Club held its first meeting Friday, September 13, when officers were elected.

They are as follows: Ann Staton Everette, president; Jimmy Dilda, vice president; Linda Baker, secretary-treasurer; Charles Phillips, reporter; and song leaders, Lou Oakley, Edna Beasley, Bennett Dilda.

Miss Margaret Stevens and Cecil Register talked to the group about the pledge, the motto and the emblem.

Serve Buffet

Add crushed pineapple (drained) and a little orange juice and rind, along with butter or margarine, to riced cooked sweet potatoes. Spoon the potato mixture into scooped out orange halves and heat in the oven. Nice for a buffet party.

When there's a little ground coffee left over, don't mix it with your new supply.

'All Go To The Laundry Together'

Tennessee's Gov. Frank Clement spoke the sentiments of millions of citizens in Southern States when he declared in a television interview that he resents the implication that race relations are wholly a Southern problem.

As much as any other single factor, we believe, law abiding citizens of Southern States resent the widespread opinion in some areas of the nation that this is an area of racial violence, an area in which Negroes still live as indentured servants to the whites, and an area in which individual rights and respectibility are reserved only for people whose skin is white.

The people of Southern States resent the fact that a large segment of the nation's press emphasizes racial tensions and isolated bursts of violence in the South while taking as a matter of course similar and more serious incidents of racial violence in Northern areas.

To a great extent, we believe, the mistaken impression carried by many people outside the South is attributable to segments of the press and to politicians who either intentionally or through ignorance convey erroneous word pictures those in their respective spheres of influence.

To be sure the South is not without its racial problems brought about by the Supreme Court decision against segregated public schools. At the same time, fair minded people should recognize that in the Northern part of the country also, racial disturbance has been just as great if not greater over the past decade than has been the case in the South.

Segregation of races, economic groups and people of various creeds is not solely a characteristic of the South. It is characteristic of all parts of the nation, every community, every metropolis, every state to a greater or lesser degree. None is wholly without blemish.

Yet the South has become the whipping boy for the racial issue. It has become the prime target of the federal administration, the federal courts and even segments of Congress. It has become a prime target for racists of both extremes, and for would be do-gooders who are quite willing to overlook problems of equal severity in their home communities to tell people one or two thousand miles away how to solve their own domestic troubles.

Resentment is only a natural reaction of a victim of such circumstances.

Gov. Clement summed up the feeling of the vast majority of Southerners with his terse assertion, "If we are going to wash the dirty linen, let's lay aside hypocrisy and all go to the laundry together."

Career Men And State Officials

By LYNN NISBET

CAREER MEN — Recent resignations, by request, of two relatively high ranking officials after long years of service with the State occasioned a good deal of discussion about how these incidents might affect the morale of the rank and file of State workers. Much of the talk hinges upon definitions and the distinction between "career employees" and "officials."

It is the generally accepted rule that holders of jobs classified as to duties and salaries by the Personnel Department are employees. If they continue in State service for a long time, especially through two or more administrations, they are regarded as "career employees." Persons in policy-making positions, whose appointment, assignment of duties and compensation are dependent upon the Governor and the department head are commonly called "officials."

Often there is distinction without real difference. The officials generally have more authority, draw higher pay and are not subject to routine regulation of the Personnel Department. They are subject, however to the hazards and vagaries of chance in political changes at top administrative level.

If these definitions are accepted, it follows that both James Powell and Ben Eaton were "officials" rather than "career employees." Powell had been with SBI for 18 years, and moved up some eight years ago to the official post as director of that agency. Eaton had been with the Department of Revenue for 15 years, assistant commissioner for most of that time. When they accepted appointment to these places they knew the hazards involved. Impact of the hazards should not distrub career employees. Especially since there are dozens of revenue department employees with longer tenure who have not been bothered by the coming and going of Governors or Commissioners of Revenue.

JONAS — Every time a group of North Carolina Democrats get together to talk party politics the conversation inevitably gets around to the 10th district and Republican incumbent Congressman Charles Raper Jonas. He is serving his third term in the Congress, first Republican to be elected to that body more than one time from North Carolina in 50 years.

Democrats in and out of the district hope he will not run again, because they think they will have a much better chance to recapture the seat from any other candidate. It has been suggested that Jonas may be first in line for the fourth Federal district judgeship if, as is expected, another judge is provided for this State.

Federal law prohibits appointment of a member of the Congress to an office which was created by the Congress in which he served. So the hopeful argument goes that Jonas will not offer for re-election next year, that the 86th Congress—of which he will not be a member will create the new judgeship, and that he will be appointed before the Eisenhower administration goes out in January, 1961.

"That's a lot of poppy-cock," said a Democratic veteran of many political battles in Western North Carolina. "The Republicans think more of their seat in the Congress than they do of Charlie Jonas — or a Federal Judgeship. If Jonas doesn't run again it will be solely for personal reasons and his own decision. There will be no trade on part of Republican party officials involved.

"Jonas knows that. He also knows that the party leaders could not deliver even if they made the agreement. They can't even get together on a replacement for Judge Johnson J. Hayes in the middle district.

"Anyway," he added, "there's a chance the Democrats will have sufficient control of the Senate to block confirmation and either or both judges might be Democrats appointed by the Democratic President who will succeed Eisenhower."

WOMEN — Politicians, Democrats, Republicans and mugwumps, in their public speeches always pay tribute to the potency of the women at the ballot box. After the 1952 and 1956 elections Democratic speakers, almost with one accord, blamed Eisenhower victory on the votes of the women — wives, mothers and sisters of men in the armed services — who fell for the glamour of a great general who could there-after keep their menfolks out of war. The speakers were eloquent in oratorical praise of the women, their devotion to family and country, with definite over and under tones of regret they had been misled by false propaganda and military millionery.

What happened after the speeches? Nothing at all, except the same attitude of the men going ahead with plans for party organization traditional lines, largely ignoring the women.

Take, for illustration, that regional party conference scheduled by Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler at Raleigh this week. The party plan of organization calls for equal representation of men and women on national, state and local committees. Among the 60-odd attendants at the regional conference there were just about a dozen women. Late in the afternoon a number of the men were encountered lolling around the hotel lobby. When the men were asked if the conference was over, the almost universal reply was: "No, but the women are talking now, and I wanted a breath of air."

Inescapable conclusion was that the men thought it was time wasted to bother with women — until election day. Which might just possibly be one reason the Democrats have not done so good on election days in recent years.

Spirit Of Austerity Was Never Like This

Just a few days ago our small glow of satisfaction was snubbed out; it was like this:

A comfortably-filled manila envelope from the Public Information Office of the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg carried a news release about an economy drive.

"The Division is initiating a drive to plug up the small leaks in efficiency and economy", the story read, "an un-needed electric light, a water tap carelessly left running."

And included therein was a quote by Major General John Bowen, Division Commander, who pointed out "We are entering a period of extreme austerity."

This sort of thing we like to read about, and that glow of satisfaction was not inspired by the thought that our armed forces would be doing without the things they needed, but were getting down to bedrock on the idea of a penny saved is a penny earned, and just plain thriftiness.

Then we opened another manila envelope, measuring 10 x 14½ inches (big enough to hold a folded copy of the Declaration of Independence, the Magna Carta, Divisional Orders of the Day, and two portrait photos of the Public Information Officer).

By George, it had none of those things within!

The sole contents comprised a 16-line dispatch about personnel getting Asian flu vaccine.

We looked at that big envelope, then at the little piece of paper. It just didn't add up to austerity.

Good Prospects For Rest Of '57

By ELMER ROESSNER

As of today, business prospects for the remainder of the year are good.

Back-to-school sales were good in most communities. The fall pickup is starting with fine vigor. New auto models, plus a new entrant in the field, promise a rise in new car sales. Appliance-radio-television sales seem to be snapping out of earlier languor. Early orders reflect retailers' confidence that holiday sales will at least equal those of last year.

Capital spending for new plants and equipment during the last quarter of the year are estimated at $37.17 billion, at annual rates. That's a slight dip from the third quarter, but above the first two quarters. The Defense budget has been trimmed slightly, but the guided missile scare will undoubtedly cause the Defense Department to advance spending, trusting the next session of Congress to make it up.

IMMEDIATE OUTLOOK BRIGHT

All that adds up to brisk business between now and the end of the year. It will be sweetened, as always, by the rise in postal and department store payrolls.

It leaves the question: What then?

It is, of course, too early for firm answers.

However, as of today, there are few reasons for expecting a further rise in the boon. In fact, the situation looks like one in which the economy will level off.

One of the reasons is that the effects of tighter money will, at last, be felt.

The trend of spending for new plants and equipment is significant. The dip in the last quarter of this year appeared to be caused by the difficulty and cost of raising funds for expansion. Many corporations have postponed spending for this reason. In fact, higher interest rates were intended to bring about just such a situation.

HOUSING? AUTOS? HIGHWAYS?

There seems to be no reason for expecting home construction to snap out of current doldrums. The number of new housing starts has been slowed by tight money and rising prices. As of today, there is no reason to expect a change in either factor.

The auto sales situation is in doubt. Surely, the impact of the new models will carry over into early 1958. But higher sales during the rest of the coming year may require easier credit, and bankers are warning dealers against extending time payments.

While winter weather will slow down the Federal highway program, even more annoying delays will grow out of the necessity of recalculating much of the work. Costs are rising sharply. While the New York section of the New England Thruway is not part of the project, the costs are typical of what the Federal program is up against. The original estimate was $60,000,000. Now it is $96,164,000. Some of the rise is due to added features but most to higher costs. The Federal program, too, faces pressure for added features as well as of higher costs.

Defense spending will continue high or rise higher. However, there are budgetary limits. Retail sales will depend largely on employment, which may dip: payrolls, which may rise under contracts, and public psychology, which can't be forecast.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT THEN?

Many years ago the English periodical "Punch" published a famous cartoon. It showed Bismarck, after he had been dismissed as Prime Minister by the young Kaiser Wilhelm, leaving the vessel of which the Kaiser was now the captain. The cartoon was entitled "Dropping the Pilot."

Historians are beginning to tell us that our present world situation resembles several situations in past history that have preceded a widespread collapse of cultures. One of these historians, Arnold Toynbee, points out the fact that spiritual decline is one of the great causes of the wreck of nations. This suggests the question to us—"Have we dropped the Pilot?" May it not be that we are in the state we are at present because of a shocking decline in the spiritual life of our people?

What is juvenile delinquency but a disease arising out of bad homes? What are bad homes but unspiritual homes? Are we not all aware of the fact that if, for one day, nations and groups within nations would adopt the principles of Jesus Christ in the settlement of their disputes, most of our problems would vanish over night?

Nations today are not Christian, regardless of what they may be nominally; neither are labor and capital groups; neither are schools and colleges. Unfortunately, the church is often too much like the world to please the God it professes to serve. We need to watch lest in our folly we drop the Pilot.

Works Both Ways

By JIMMY ELLIS

This, My Special Week

As a general rule, I am not a fan of giving special names to weeks.

I usually prefer the old-fashioned method of referring to them as "the first week in September," or "the fourth week in January," and so forth. I do not offer my personal sanction to such titles as "National Hot Dog Week," "East Pizza Pie And Get Sick Week," and so forth.

However, and I must emphasize that this is an exception, I have indulged myself and made this a special week. For those of you who care to join me, it is "Sit Down And Think About Music Week."

Participation in observance of this occasion does not involve physical, gastronomical or intellectual accomplishments beyond the ordinary. It is intended to be a leisurely, relaxing sort of seven-day period.

What I have in mind is a rather calm and semi-serious consideration of Bach, Bartok, Duke Ellington, the late great Hymie Shapiro, and that cat who wrote "Bolero." If there is time, I will include other musicians.

I propose to consider, also, such things as fugues, movements, passages, minuets, jam sessions, school songs, and the "da, da, da, daaaa . . ." section that opens Beethoven's Fifth Symphony.

To be perfectly honest about this whole business, my sudden interest in music doesn't spring from a deep-seated love of music itself. Rather, this interest is purposely designed as an escape proposition from the frustrations that are piling up in the portion of my life usually reserved for sports.

I love sports. I enjoy baseball, get a big charge out of football, completely lose my head over basketball, and even find a sort of vicarious thrill in watching children shoot marbles.

In addition, I find a degree of pleasure in keeping up with the races for the major league batting championships and I like to remember the day I saw Mickey Mantle play against the Boston Red Sox.

Despite all this affection for sports, this week is producing just too much. The major league pennant races are getting to be almost more than I can stand. George Mikan was here for a basketball clinic Monday night, and I am facing the prospect of having two football games to watch on television this weekend.

That, to me, is just too much of a good thing. I have quietly resolved to listen to no more baseball games and to give only cursory attention to the weekend's televised football program. I also studiously ignored Mikan's basketball clinic at the college Monday.

The change of pace is already casting new light into my life. I know, for instance, what a drummer means when he says he's going to play a ratamacue or a paradiddle.

There are other things I expect to learn, or to recall from my younger days as a member of the Walnut Street School Rhythm Band. I expect to get around to all of them, too, because I'm really divorcing myself from sports this week.

I'm glad, however, that the special week ends Saturday at noon. I want to be able to listen to the band music at the State-Carolina football game with a clean conscience.

High Crime In Our Society

(Hertford County Herald)

Governors of southern states —or any other for that matter —are prone to listen to the mob too much. Such was the fate of Governor Orval Faubus, now well-known by all and sundry.

So, you have to have some sympathy for them when they turn aside from the best of reason and make strange sounds for the benefit of the howling crowd. That is why Orval cannot be condemned too strongly. He was simply following an instinct that is built into most politicians. The best manage to control the instinct, but few are completely free from the use thereof, conditions and circumstances being right.

But when a Governor, or any other political officeholder joins the mob, that is gross perversity of our democratic process and we are in grave danger of seeing our house pulled in over us.

Which leads up to saying, Governor Marvin Griffin of the fair state of Georgia takes the prize for being a much bigger menace to our way of life than even John Kasper, the rabble-rouser par excellence who, thank the Lord, has no political office from which to toss his filth.

The reason for this: News accounts say that Orval's surrender to the instinct came after Marvin crossed the border into Arkansas from Georgia and made a rabble-rousing speech to a mob. He practically invited the crowd to take up arms. Until then, Arkansas was approaching the Decision of May 17 with commendable reason and good will. After that, the dark shadows fell and Orval, who wants to keep his job, decided to toss in with the mob.

For a politician who no doubt goes about his own state loudly mouthing about "state's rights" and the sovereignty of same, Griffin was acting the hypocrite in even going into Arkansas. But much worse, he was perverting the very strength of a democratic society. That is what happens when a man elected to office speaks words designed to tear down the sanctity of civil law which he—and all like him—are sworn on the altar of God to support.

When men, especially "men" gathered together in mobs, declare themselves sufficient unto themselves in a democratic society it means the basis of that society is crumbling. The law is supreme, must be. Beyond it there is nothing but the gun and the knife and the inhuman scramble. For a political officeholder to advocate contempt for the law is the highest crime in our society and ought to be punished with the same righteous fervor as the traitor to the country who betrays us to the external enemy.

Tale Of A Cat & Dog

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Everyone has his favorite cat-and-dog story, and mine is the tale of Felicia and Scrapper.

Scrapper was a friendly but tough Airedale who bossed everything on four feet in the suburban neighborhood where he dwelt. He did, that is, until the lady of the house accepted as a gift a full-grown Siamese cat name Felicia.

"You're making a mistake," warned the master of the house. "You know Scrapper can't stand cats. He'll make mincemeat of Felicia in five minutes."

"We'll see," replied the lady of the house serenely.

Scrapper was across the yard when Felicia arrived. At sight of her he let out a high, excited yelp. Then, a cavalryman at heart, he charged.

Felicia, staring at him silently with Mediterranean eyes, waited calmly, a citadel in fur. When Scrapper was within reach, she biffed him on the nose twice with her left paw, and followed with three deadly rights.

The next instant she was on his back, ranking his head and neck with razor claws. The next instant she was under him, raking his belly with all deliberate speed.

Scrapper, bleeding, drew off in surprise from this feline tornado. He had learned the tactical error of Pickett at Gettysburg.

He wasn't afraid. There was no room in his lion heart for fear. But he knew he had to find another way. He had to catch Felicia off guard.

So he began to stalk her, methodically, inexorably, hate in his canine soul. This cat had wounded his terrier pride. She must pay if it took a lifetime.

He stalked her by day and by night. He stalked her on a seven-day-a-week schedule, winter and summer, and he never took a holiday. And he never caught Felicia off guard, never reached that "moment of truth" when he could move in and finish her off.

After three years of this war of nerves, Felicia, who up until then had enjoyed it as a game, apparently decided the time had come to end it. On a Sunday she walked to the edge of the yard, which bordered a busy highway. She stared at the traffic thoughtfully for a long time, and then turned and gazed thoughtfully at Scrapper, who was warily watching her.

Felicia, her mind made up, waited for a break in the traffic, then leisurely crossed the highway. She paused, looked back at Scrapper, then slowly and deliberately lay down in the grass, and rolled over—as if asleep.

Tempted beyond caution, Scrapper raced madly out on the highway. There was a screeching of brakes—a yelp, then stillness.

The master of the house, who had been a spectator to the scene, rushed out and picked up Scrapper. The dog bit his hand gently, looked around wildly for Felicia, then his taut body relaxed in eternal languor.

"That cat deliberately lured him to his destruction," the master of the house said later.

"Perhaps," said the lady of the house, who, despite her sorrow over Scrapper, couldn't restrain a small feeling of womanly pride in Felicia.

The kids buried Scrapper in the back yard with full military honors and the beating of a tin pail drum. They tossed bright yellow dandelions in his grave and two big steak bones, and over it erected a cross made from an orange crate and wrote on it this epitaph:

"To the Scrapper, a brave dog."

On warm afternoons Felicia used to like to lie on the grave, scratch in the dirt and sun herself lazily. One afternoon, two years later, the children found her there, calmly dead. So far as any one could discover she was a victim of old age, lack of exercise, and gout.

They buried her next to the Scrapper after another grand mournful funeral and inscribed this epitaph, composed by the lady of the house: "To Felicia, a smart cat."

Behind-The-Scenes Union Rivalry

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Walter P. Reuther is the main man behind the movement to expel the Beck-Hoffa Teamsters' Union from the AFL-CIO organization. In fact, he is suspected by labor colleagues of supplying damaging evidence to the McClellan Committee. His antipathy is credited to his ambition to succeed George L. Meany as head of the parent body.

Although they have no special affection for the head of the Automobile Workers' Union—in fact, they dislike him and resent his aspirations in the labor and political field — David J. McDonald of the steelworkers and James B. Carey of the Electrical Union sympathize with Reuther's prejudice toward the teamsters' heirarchy. These are three of the most powerful units in the AFL-CIO.

BREAD-AND-BUTTER PROBLEMS OF UNION LEADERS. It is not only the scandalous practices of Beck and Hoffa, as revealed by the McClellan Committee, which influence Reuther, McDonald and Carey, all of whom would like to succeed Meany. The three know that the Teamsters' Union's delegates, if controlled by Beck or Hoffa, will never vote for them to head the AFL-CIO.

There is also the serious, bread-and-butter problem of jurisdictional disputes and rivalries, which have prevented the AFL-CIO from becoming a real and operation merger at lower and local levels. It is not a united body of workmen. It is only a paper and headline coalition.

The teamsters insist on the right to organize the maintenance men — and there are many thousands of them in the automobile, steel and electrical industries — which employ Hoffa-Beck truck drivers.

Another group resentful of this demand are the Building Trades' Union, which naturally has to rely on Hoffa-Beck drivers for normal operations, and especially in support of a strike on a specific job.

But the four anti-Hoffa groups insist on the industrial union idea advanced by John L. Lewis when he organized the CIO. That is, that workers in an automobile, steel, electrical or building trades plant or industry should be affiliated with those respective unions, not with the teamsters.

POWER AND POLITICS Thus, there are four powerful and dominating unions which have a selfish and political reason for expelling the offending teamsters at the forthcoming AFL-CIO convention.

It was only after he had consulted with Reuther, McDonald, Carey and building trades' officials that Meany issued his recent anti-Hoffa blast. It has been interpreted as a warning that Hoffa's election, as well as generous pensions to the discredited Beck, will result in expulsion.

DREAD PROSPECT OF BEING OUTLAWED Faced with this array of AFL-CIO enemies, even Hoffa and Beck dread the prospect of being outlawed as the day of decision nears. They do not want to be branded as greedy, untrustworthy labor leaders by their own colleagues, and to be deprived of the legal rights and privileges granted them by Roosevelt - Truman legislation.

Moreover, they do not want to be blamed for giving inevitable impetus to Federal or state enactment of right-to-work laws, which bar the absolute closed shop. Eighteen states have enacted such statutes, and Chairman McClellan favors incorporation of such a provision in the Taft-Hartley Act.

RAMIFICATIONS OF POSSIBLE EXPULSION FROM AFL-CIO—Finally, what would be the teamsters' situation, if they are expelled?

(1) They would be deprived of their legislative rights, depending on the Eisenhower-Brownell-Mitchell reaction to severance from the AFL-CIO. Incidentally, that poses a nice legal problem for the Administration.

(2) The parent organization could form its own teamsters' union. Many Hoffa-Beck units might welcome such a chance to escape current and crooked clutches.

(3) Although there has been speculation that John L. Lewis, original founder of the CIO, might team up with an outlawed teamsters' group, it can be said on reliable authority that such an alliance is extremely remote. John L. is too wise to assume such a liability at his age. Altogether, it appears that dark days lie ahead for Hoffa and Beck. Their sins have ensnared them at last, and Senator McClellan has not yet finished with their union treasury depredations.

Soviet Warships Calling On Syria

LONDON (AP)—Two Soviet warships sailed for Syria today on a "friendship" mission, taking a course that could bring them close to the U.S. 6th Fleet in the eastern Mediterranean.

Moscow radio announced last night that the cruiser Zhdanov and the destroyer Svobodny are heading for the Syrian port of Latakia at the invitation of the leftist government of Syria.

The Syrian government only last week charged U.S. warships made a provocative approach toward the Syrian coast. The U.S. Navy denied this.

The Soviet visit appeared to be a move to build Russian influence in the Mediterranean and bolster the Damascus regime.

It also appeared obvious the move was designed to counteract the 6th Fleet's cruise in the eastern Mediterranean. The U.S. fleet moved into the area after leftist army officers extended their control in Syria last month. The U.S. warships called at pro-Western Lebanon.

The Soviet vessels headed for Syria after a six-day visit to the Yugoslav port of Split.

Their movement is part of a pattern of increased Soviet naval activity in the Mediterranean and elsewhere during the past few months.

Meanwhile, Jordan showed continued nervousness over the intentions of Syria with its new Soviet-supplied arms.

The Jordanian Cabinet met last night in Amman and framed a reply to a Syrian note. The Syrian government had asked if Jordan feared recent developments in Syria, as the United States had implied.

The contents of Jordan's note were not announced immediately. But the Cabinet meeting came close behind a Jordanian government broadcast saying "devils of communism" in Syria had "drawn up a plan and are now preparing to attack sister states."

Slow Justice Is Just By-Passed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two businessmen, Steve Goss and Danny Powlitz, went to court for assignment of a case awaiting trial for two years. After four hours they hadn't been called.

Finally Goss, suing for $500 he claimed Powlitz owed from a business deal, walked over and said: "Let's settle this the easy way."

That was okay by Powlitz, who suggested "double or nothing."

The flipped a coin. Goss called heads but it came up tails.

Goss left emptyhanded, with this philosophical observation: "He probably would have won in court anyway."

N. C. Has Most Negro Students

By LYNN NISBET

RALEIGH—Figures contained in a New York Times story on the progress of desegregation in the 17 states affected by the Supreme Court decision show that North Carolina has more Negro school children than any other state, more total children than any state except Texas.

On percentage basis the District of Columbia has the heaviest margin of Negro children in schools, with Mississippi and South Carolina poor second and third.

As reported by the Times the total and Negro school population is as follows:

District of Columbia. Total 108,481; Negro 73,723, about 67%.

Mississippi: Total 541,938; Negro 268,216, about 49%.

South Carolina: Total 563,244; Negro 243,574, about 43%.

Louisiana: Total 600,000; Negro 225,000, about 37½%.

Alabama: Total 745,000; Negro 273,800, about 36 1-4%.

Georgia: Total 942,000; Negro 297,292, about 30½%.

North Carolina: Total 1,025,463; Negro 301,161, about 30%.

Virginia: Total 751,013; Negro 184,417, about 24½%.

Arkansas: Total 418,700; Negro 102,000, about 24%.

Florida: Total 760,177; Negro 165,957, about 22%.

Maryland: Total 507,137; Negro 109,720, about 21½%.

Delaware: Total 65,315; Negro 11,411, about 17%.

Tennessee: Total 754,945; Negro 128,164, about 17%.

Missouri: Total 744,500; Negro 67,000, about 9%.

Oklahoma: Total 527,195; Negro 37,367, about 7%.

Kentucky: Total 744,500; Negro 38,358, about 6½%.

West Virginia: Total 457,807; Negro 23,806, about 5 1-4%.

Wives Expected To Weep Again

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The University of Wisconsin, in conjunction with federal and Idaho state agricultural experts, has released two new onion hybrids, named Golden Beauty and Bronze Perfection.

Housewives, like poets, are expected to weep as usual over Beauty and Perfection.

Plowmen Of 14 Nations Compete For Top Title

PEEBLES, Ohio (AP) —Twenty-seven men from 14 nations pitted skill and machinery against the tricky soil of Ohio's hill-dotted Adams County today in the start of a two-day test to pick the best plowman in the world.

This match is the big one in the annual World Conservation Exposition and plowing Contest, being held in the United States for the first time in its five-year history.

From it will emerge two champions.

One will be the man who accumulates the most points for the way his tractor and plowshares turn over the earth in two half-acre plots, one of stubble and the other of sod.

The other is a cinch to be the plow, unchallenged as the basic tool of agriculture from the time a primitive human first scratched at the earth with a pointed stick, to today's age of mechanization.

In the Ohio state and national contests preceding the world matches, the divisions were level land and contour. However, contour plowing is not a factor in the world event because the foreign entrants have little occasion to use it at home.

Another difference is in the time allotted to the competitors. With the same half-acre plot, the state and national limits ranged from 33 minutes to 74 minutes, depending upon the number and size of the plow bottoms.

In the world contest the time allotment is 2½ hours for stubble plowing; three hours for sod plowing.

Lawrence Goettemoeller, Celina, Ohio, one of the two American contestants, qualified in the national level land matches last year for the 1957 world event here.

He repeated yesterday as national level land champion, thereby becoming eligible for the 1958 world contest. His world teammate this year is John C. Daniels of Mulberry Grove, Ill., a national winner in 1956.

Duane Mootz of Hillsboro, Ohio, won the national contour contest yesterday and also qualified for the 1958 world matches.

New Trial Won By Ex-Student

RALEIGH (AP)—A former student convicted in Orange County of stealing examination papers at the University of North Carolina has won a new trial.

The State Supreme Court ordered the new trial yesterday for Herbert G. Andrews Jr., of Durham, who had received a one to two year sentence.

Andrews was accused of breaking into the administrative offices of the university at Chapel Hill during the summer of 1956 and taking mimeographed examination papers.

The court ruled that trial Judge Raymond Mallard erred in his charge to the jury regarding the nature of felonious breaking and entering.

Brewers' Exhibit Appeal Denied

RALEIGH (AP)—The State ABC Board rejected a request yesterday that the brewing industry be permitted to have "exhibitional exhibits" at fairs in North Carolina.

The board noted that it could not allow beer exhibits unless it also allowed those on wine and whiskey. A. G. Calamos, division manager for the National Brewing Co. of Baltimore, requested permission to display an exhibit "showing ingredients used and the process of making beer."

Pinky Lee Will Be Wed 'Again'

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Comic Pinky Lee — a believer in short engagements and long marriages — plans to remarry his wife of 25 years.

Lee, 43, and his wife Beatrice (Bebe), 40, said they will celebrate their anniversary today in a wedding ceremony performed by Beverly Hills Municipal Judge Charles J. Griffin.

They recalled that they married in Brooklyn, N.Y., Sept. 19, 1932, just three days after they met for the first time. They have two children, Morgan, 22, and Patti, 17.

Plan Camporee On Fair Grounds

Over 250 Scouts representing 21 Pitt County Boy Scout Troops are expected to participate in a fall Camporee to be staged Friday and Saturday on the American Legion Fair Grounds.

Jim Mallory, Camping and Activities Chairman for the Pitt District, announced this morning that the Camporee is scheduled from 4 p.m. Friday until 4 p.m. Saturday. The Camporee, entitled "Rank A Scout—Camp Out," is being held with special emphasis being placed on advancement in rank, mainly Second and First Class.

On Saturday afternoon, the U. S. Soil Conservations Service and the North Carolina Forestry Department will give demonstrations.

Highlighting the event will be a Court of Honor Friday night. Also scheduled are skits, wrestling demonstration by a professional and recognition of new Scouts recruited during the recent round-up.

Mallory stated that Cub Scouts in uniform with their Den Mothers, Cubmasters, or parents are welcomed and especially invited to visi tthe Camporee Saturday.

Dropped Bible, So Back To Jail

HOLDREGE, Neb. (AP) — Roy Kirby, 18, says he probably wouldn't have been back in jail if he hadn't dropped his Bible.

Kirby, who escaped from jail at nearby Minden, told officers he tried to catch a freight train out of town but he couldn't get a good hold on the train because of the Bible and a bundle he was carrying.

He said when the Bible and bundle fell, he was thrown to the ground and he decided to give up the whole thing. He turned himself in a little while later.

Soviet Opens Propaganda Campaign Of Missile Boast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia appears to have launched an all-out propaganda campaign to publicize its boast that new Soviet rockets can now destroy the United States and its allies.

Moscow's aim seems to be to convince the world it is an invincible military giant now that it has announced a claim to the world's first intercontinental missile.

U.S. officials have confirmed the test-firing of such missiles by Russia, but have expressed doubt that any are in production or available for operational use.

American officials who keep a constant check on Soviet propaganda said the campaign is remarkable because of its intensity. In one 72-hour period checked, they said, Radio Moscow featured this military boast some 80 times.

Soviet home broadcasts also are hitting this them hard, as are Soviet newspapers and magazines.

Nearly all quote liberally from remarks by Soviet Air Marshal Konstantin A. Vershinin, commander in chief of the Soviet air force. Vershinin first laid down the line in an interview featured prominently in Pravda 12 days ago.

Vershinin said major American and Western cities now could be blasted successfully with hydrogen bombs delivered by long and intermediate range rockets as well as by aircraft and submarines. He said the United States alone might suffer 50 million casualties in such an assault.

Authorities studying Radio Moscow's broadcasts have come up with these tentative conclusions about the publicity campaign:

1. The major reason behind it is a desire to simply boast and exult over Russia's success in apparently beating the United States to the punch in perfecting the guided missile.

2. At the same time Russia is seeking to frighten America's European allies into believing they are now exposed militarily despite their American alliances and Atlantic Pact defenses. The Kremlin undoubtedly hopes this will cause Europeans to pressure the United States either into withdrawing forces from Europe or agreeing to Soviet terms for an East-West disarmament agreement.

3. Home broadcasts undoubtedly are aimed at reassuring the Russian people of the superiority of the Communist system in developing means for protecting them against any surprise attack from the capitalist war-mongering powers.

No responsible American authority studying the campaign believes it foreshadows any rash military move by the Soviet Union. The definite impression remains that Kremlin leaders are seeking to avoid such a war now, even limited military operations in the Middle East.

FDR Biography Suggests A Third Party Was In Wind

By JOHN A. HARRIS

WASHINGTON (AP)—A biographer of Franklin D. Roosevelt indicates F.D.R. and Republican Wendell Willkie might have run together on a third party ticket in 1948 had the two men lived until that time.

Rexford G. Tugwell, a member of the original Roosevelt brain trust, reports that Roosevelt approached Willkie on the subject of a third party in mid-1944, through an intermediary.

Willkie was willing to join in the effort, Tugwell said in a new biography of Roosevelt, but wanted to wait until after the 1944 election. Willkie died Oct. 8, 1944, a few days before the voting. Roosevelt died April 12, 1945.

Tugwell's bulky biography, "The Democratic Roosevelt," was published yesterday by Doubleday & Co.

The book tells of a conference in 1932 at which Roosevelt described Gen. Douglas MacArthur and the late Huey Long of Louisiana as Zthe two most dangerous men in the country." MacArthur was Army chief of staff at the time.

Tugwell said Roosevelt made that comment in discussing a possible "rightest threat" to the country. Tugwell continues in his book:

"There was latent, he thought, not far below the uneasy surface of our disputed society, an impulse among a good many 'strong' men, men used to having their way, mostly industrialists who directed affairs without being questioned, a feeling that democracy had run its course and that the totalitarians had grasped the necessities of the time. . .

"What was lacking was the familiar figure—the man on horseback—to give it realism. . ."

Tugwell said he himself quit the New Deal after 3½ years because some politicians thought he was a burden to the party. Tugwell later rejoined the administration as governor of Puerto Rico in 1941. The 66-year-old author now lives in Greenbelt, Md.

It was Samuel Rosenman, another early Roosevelt adviser, Tugwell said, who approached Willkie on the subject of a new party effort. Roosevelt looked on Willkie as a possible partner because, Tugwell says, Republican liberals recognized him as their leader.

Discussing the possibility of a third party, the author said Roosevelt was tired of compromising with conservatives in his own party of progressives.

Tugwell said he is convinced Roosevelt might have run as a Progressive in 1940 if war had not threatened.

Platypus Gone, Feared Dead

NEW YORK (AP)—The Bronx Zoo says Penelope, its missing duck-billed platypus, is probaby dead.

Dr. Leonalrd J. Goss, acting director of the zoo, yesterday called off the hunt for the two-pound, reluctant lover.

The zoo people don't know exactly how Penelope escaped.

They believe she scrambled out of her burrow and over a high wire fence July 26.

Cecil, her intended mate, lingers on in the platypusary into which he and Penelope moved after a trip from their native Australia. He hasn't betrayed much sense of loss, but they never got along anyway.

Cecil had been indifferent to her but unexpectedly showed some interest in July. It was too late. Pnelope couldn't stand him.

For weeks the zoo men combed the 252-acre grounds.

Just Wondered If 'Buddy' Safe

LAKE GENEVA, Wis. (AP) — "You haven't dragged anything out of the lake lately?" a young man asked at police headquarters.

"Such as?" the patrolman asked.

"As a guy," the youth replied.

It seems the young man and his buddy were swimming at a Lake Geneva pier. They agreed to race under the pier and see who could get to the other side first.

The first young man, on reaching the other side, didn't see his friend. He left the beach and went up town. About three hours later he wondered if something could have happened, so he went to the station. Officers rushed out to investigate.

They found the buddy sleeping on the pier.

Faithful To A Mother's Trust

CLARKSDALE, Miss. (AP) — When fire broke out in the garage of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Haaga Jr. of Clarksdale, their beautiful collie dog could easily have escaped.

But her nine puppies, only four weeks old and still relatively helpless, were also in the garage. The mother dog, unwilling to desert the puppies, perished with them in the flames.

Sentence Suspended In Forcible Trespass Case

A plea of guilty to forceful trespassing by Earl Fisher, local appliance dealer charged with breaking and entering, was accepted by Judge Charles H. Whedbee in City Court Monday.

Fisher was charged with breaking and entering in a warrant signed by James Lee Ross. Ross' warrant stated the appliance dealer entered his home while both he and his wife were away and removed a television set.

The defendant did not deny entering the residence and removing the television set but maintained he had a work order for repairs.

Judge Whedbee gave Fisher a 30-day road sentence suspended on the stipulation that he immediately return the television set to Ross' residence and pay a $25 fine, costs deducted.

During the course of the lengthy case, Fisher presented a work order as evidence, saying he received a telephone call requesting that the set be picked up. Ross denied on the stand that he made the call.

Ross, a painter by profession, said he locked the door to his residence before he and his wife left Saturday afternoon, Aug. 3. It was brought out that the door could be unlocked "without much trouble" by reaching in through a broken pane, during Ross' testimony.

The appliance dealer stated the door to the Ross residence was not locked when he went to pick up the television set.

The prosecuting witness said he had placed $673 in a metal fishing tackle box in back of the set sometime before it was removed. Fisher told the court that no money was found in the set before or after it was taken to his repair shop.

Fisher was not charged in connection with the money's alleged disappearance.

Other cases were:

Joseph E. Williams, Rt. 3, city, carrying concealed weapon, 90 days, suspended on payment of $50 and costs. He is to be of good behavior for two years, and his pistol was ordered confiscated to be sold according to law.

For damage to personal property, 30 days (consecutive), to be suspended if he makes restitution for all damage caused at the residence of Mrs. R. Satterfield. He is to remain of good behavior and not violate any law and remain away from the premises of Mrs. Reba Satterfield and not harm or molest her and pay court costs.

For trespass the court gave Williams 30 days (consecutive), and he is to remain away from the premises of Mrs. R. Satterfield. He is not to harm or molest her or McDonald Manning for two years and pay court costs.

The court found no probable cause on the charge of breaking and entering.

Norman F. Smith, 2509 Jefferson Drive, leaving the scene of an accident, six months, suspended on good behavior. He is not to operate or assist in operation of an automobile for two years and pay $50, costs deducted.

Smith was found not guilty of careless and reckless driving.

The court found him guilty of driving without an operator's license and gave him 30 days (consecutive) suspended on payment of court costs.

Sophie Fleming, Negro, 1115-B Clark street, possession of non-tax paid whiskey, 90 days in jail, suspended on payment of $50, costs deducted. The court placed her on probation for two years and she is not to possess any alcoholic liquor.

Robert Sutton, Rt. 1, city, disorderly conduct, 30 days, suspended on condition that he not visit the National Guard Armory in Greenville for 12 months and pay $25, costs deducted.

Drunk: Sylvester Vick, Rt. 1, city, (two cases), failed to appear and an instanter capias was issued for him. Milton Evans, Rt. 3, city, costs; Columbus Rome, Negro, Stokes, $15; Jesse Ray Tripp, Rt. 2, city, (and disorderly), 30 days, suspended on payment of costs; Tom McLawhorn, Negro, Rt. 1, city, 30 days or $15; Gray Hardy, Bethel, 30 days or $15.

Fagan Grimes, Jr., Negro, New street, assault with a deadly weapon, 60 days.

A. L. Garris, Ayden, failure to stop at a stop sign, costs.

Speeding: Joseph Anderson, Rt. 1, city, 30 days, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted, and he is not to drive for three weeks. William B. White, Negro, Rt. 5, city, 30 days, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted and he is not to drive for two weeks.

Failure to yield right of way: Joshua L. Ross, 505 West Third street, costs. Hattie McLawhorn, Rt. 1, city, failure to yield right of way, nol prossed.

Hubert J. Moye, 308 Tarboro street, no operator's license, paid $5.

Cecil Reddick, 110 N. Holly street, driving after license revoked, nine months, suspended on payment of $300 and costs. The court recommended that his driver's license be permanently revoked. For driving drunk, the court fined Reddick $200 and costs and recommended that his driver's license be permanently revoked.

Bruce Reddick, Negro, 307 E. First street, assault on a female, 30 days, suspended on pyament of $25, costs deducted, and he is not to harm the prosecuting witness. Reddick was found not guilty of driving after his license was revoked.

Jesse Ray Tripp, Rt. 2, city, forcible trespass, 30 days (consecutive), suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. He is not to visit the premises of Robert Williams for two years.

Charles L. Greeson, Graham, N. C., worthless check, 30 days on the roads.

Norman F. Smith, 2509 Jefferson Drive, driving after license was revoked, two years (consecutive), suspended on payment of $300 and costs. He is not to operate or assist in the operation of a motor vehicle for two years. Also, he is to remain of good behavior for two years and not violate any law. He was placed on probation for five years.

Rufus Stancil, Negro, 402 Bonner Lane, assault on a female, 60 days, suspended on condition that he not harm or molest his wife and pay $25 court costs, deducted.

Selznick Cites Trouble In Filming His Latest

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Back from his hectic filming of "A Farewell to Arms" in Italy, David O. Selznick says it was his most difficult production—but not the most temperamental.

Tops in temperament, he remarked, was "Gone With The Wind." This despite reports from Italy of his feud with director John Huston and others.

Propaganda, said the producer. "There were a lot of false reports printed about the picture because two segments of the press hated me," Selznick declared. "The Communist press hated me because I wouldn't use any Communist labor on the picture. And the Fascist, Neo-Fascist and Monarchist press hated me because they thought the story reflected ill on the government's conduct of World War I."

What about his blowup with Huston?

"That happened before the picture began," Selznick explained. "As Ben Hecht commented, it was the case of two Caesars and one Alp.

"I thought I could work with Huston, and I believe he honestly felt he could work with me. But it turned out that he couldn't fulfill the conditions as outlined in his contract and in several conversations with me.

"Actually, I don't think John is the kind of a director who can work with a producer. The producers he has had have pretty much given him the rein. I don't work that way."

Selznick admitted that he has never had more production troubles on a picture before. The reason, he said: Italy's lack of movie making know-how.

"Our production facilities are far superior in Hollywood," he said. "But the picture also would have cost a great deal more if we made it here. And there are things which you just couldn't duplicate here. Not just the scenery, which is great, but the authentic look of the extras. The feeling of Italy even seeps into the interiors."

Argentine Troops Alerted As Labor Troubles Mount

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Thousands of workers announced sympathy strikes today in support of a walkout by public and private telephone and cable company employes, and troops kept watch as Argentina's labor troubles mounted.

Amateur radio listeners in Santiago, Chile, heard reports that a revolt had broken out against President Pedro Aramburu, but this report was denied here. One political leader who saw President Aaramburu said he was concerned about the labor troubles but chuckled at reports of military difficulties.

The communications strike cut reports from the provinces here to a trickle.

Soldiers and sailors took over cable and telephone offices yesterday and evicted employes who had been staging two weeks of stay-in and go-slow strikes for higher wages.

Most labor syndicates in La Plata, capital of Buenos Aires province, decided to begin progressive work stoppages in sympathy. The sympathy strikes were to begin today with one-hour walkouts and increase in length each day.

Office workers here voted a 12-hour sympathy strike and metallurgical workers ordered a 15-minute stoppage.

A government spokesman denied rumors published abroad that the army had demanded Aramburu and his Cabinet resign.

The government took armed action against the communications workers after rounding up 100 union leaders and charging them with inciting other workers to strike. Among those held were 20 women.

After the roundup of the leaders, the unions of telephone and telegraph workers called for a general strike. They said the strike will continue until the leaders are released.

Government broadcasts appealed to retired telegraph operators to take jobs on an emergency basis. High officials in the private cable companies handled essential messages.

The government and unions went into negotiations to try to settle the general strike.

The government, however, took the position the sitdowns and slowdowns were illegal. It withdrew recognition of employes' representatives named to negotiate a settlement.

Telephone workers are asking a monthly raise of 700 pesos ($18.90). Telegraph workers want a 1,000-peso ($27 raise). The government, in a battle to halt inflation, opposes wage boosts.

Ghana Mission For A&T Dean

GREENSBORO (AP)—Dr. William E. Reed, dean of A & T College's School of Agriculture, has been granted a two-year leave of absence from the college in order to head an agriculture development project in Africa.

Reed will direct a project in Ghana, West Africa, designed to help that nation develop its land and agriculture resources.

Funeral Friday For Burles C. Manning

Mr. Burles C. Manning, 48, died suddenly at his home, 202 E. 10th Street, in Greenville at 5:30 Wednesday afternoon following an apparent heart attack. He had been in declining health for the past eighteen years.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Friday afternoon at four o'clock by his pastor, the Rev. W. M. Howard, Jr., and burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Manning, son of Mrs. Lucy Manning Whitehurst of Bethel, and the late W. Jasper Manning, was born and reared in the Bethel Community and attended the Bethel Schools. He was married to Miss Mildred Brown of Bethel in 1928 and they had made their home in Greenville since 1939. He was a retired farmer and bookkeeper. He was a member of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Surviving are his wife; two daughters: Mrs. John R. Postas of the home and Mrs. John D. Bradsher of Norfolk, Virginia; one grandchild; his mother; a brother, W. D. (Tom) Manning of Mullins, South Carolina; and a sister, Mrs. E. F. Johnson of Ayden.

Benjamin H. Owens Dies Of Heart Attack

FOUNTAIN—Benjamin Harrison Owens, 68, husband of Mrs. Thelma Owens, died suddenly at 7:30 a.m. today of a heart attack. Funeral arrangements were incomplete pending arrival of a daughter.

Mr. Owens was a merchant and farmer over 25 years. He was a member of the Ruritan Club and Presbyterian Church and was on the board of deacons at the time of his death. He was a son of the late Robert and Martha Owens of Fountain.

Surviving in addition to his wife are one daughter, Miss Wilma Grace Owens, Langley Field, Va.; one brother, Willie Owens of Stantonsburg, and one sister, Mrs. Johnny Woodard of Durham.

Asian Flu Gains Ground Abroad And In America

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Asian flu continued to spread today in Europe, England, the United States and Canada. In England 14 recent deaths in one town have been attributed to the virus.

Outbreaks also have occurred in Portugal, Cyprus, Italy and the Netherlands.

In this country some 65,000 cases have been reported, an increase of about 15,000 since the U.S. Public Service's last previous estimate Sept. 12. Further outbreaks have been reported in New York, Texas, Mississippi, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Florida and Oklahoma.

Twelve counties in Mississippi have been described as nearing the epidemic stage. School-age children appear to be the hardest hit to date, with many schools being closed.

In the English town of Sheffield, Deputy Medical officer C. H. Shaw, commenting on 14 deaths believed caused by the Asian flu, said: "There is little doubt that some of the cases started with flu and turned to pneumonia."

Of the total of 19 deaths in England blamed on the flu, four children were among the victims.

However, Health Ministry officials in London said through a spokesman: "Asian flu is much milder than the ordinary type. This outbreak has reached epidemic proportions only in certain areas, not sufficient to warrant wholesale use of antiflu vaccine."

In the Netherlands, the spread of Asian flu in the southern mining area cut coal production 17 per cent. Many cases were appearing in Rotterdam, The Hague and Amsterdam. To date, few deaths have been reported.

In Lisbon, Portugal, more than 4,000 of 20,000 troops on NATO maneuvers have been stricken. The military operation is proceeding according to schedule.

Asian flu also hit 20,000 Italian servicemen, although some 16,000 of those already have returned to duty. Three deaths were reported, but the fatalities were described as complications not necessarily related to the flu epidemic.

A wave of flu cases has been reported in Canada but only a few of them were identified as victims of the Asian type.

In the United States, the Public Health Service goal of eight million antiflu vaccine shots by mid-September has fallen short. Thus far, only 5,430,442 doses have been released.

Robersonville & Ayden Can Decide Loop Title Friday

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

Ayden and Robersonville clash this Friday night in what may be the tell-tale game of the season for the Coastal Conference.

The game at Ayden will bring together last year's conference champions with the team that is rated to run away with the title in 1957.

Robersonville, with two lopsided wins under their belts and a growing reputation to live up to, is favored by most observers to win. Others, however, knowing the uncertainty of a football game when played between close rivals such as Robersonville and Ayden, will not give odds.

Preview?

Most do agree that if any team in the Coastal Conference can give the mighty Rams a defeat, it will be the Tornadoes. Coach Stuart Tripp's club won the championship in '56, barely nosing out Robersonville. Tripp lost a lot of boys via graduation and in other ways but still has a fine team built around Tommy Edwards and a few other returnees.

Robersonville, under Bob Lee, has given signs of being the most powerful club in this section. The Rams' single wing and multiple offense, paced by Brayam Anderson and Mike Roberson has swept easily over Rich Square (26-0) and Contentnea (32-6). The latter was a conference tilt.

Ayden's only conference game thus far was a 14-13 loss to Vanceboro.

Dark Horse

Farmville, which has shown up surprisingly well in early season play, may be the dark horse in the league. The Red Devils were edged 7-6 by La Grange in their opener but came back to slaughter Nashville 40-12 in their second encounter. Perhaps the Devils are pointing for Robersonville.

Little is known of Vanceboro's club, except the fact that they downed Ayden. Vanceboro is working under a new coach and is still considered in the building stage.

Benvenue, too, is something of a mystery thus far. In a pre-season tabulation of a sort, conference coaches in this area selected Benvenue as a probable threat to all of the clubs in the league, but nothing in particular is known about the Rocky Mount team.

Contentnea is not regarded as a serious contender to the league title after the 32-6 shellacking last week by the Rams.

So it appears now that the big question is who can stop the Robersonville team from running away with all the league honors?

This Friday night may offer something of an answer.

The Ayden-Robersonville game will be the only ball game in the county this weekend. Greenville journeys to Kinston for a AA contest. Farmville will be at Morehead City.

Game time is set for 8:00 at the Ayden Field. A large crowd is anticipated.

Steelers Trade Former Deacon

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A former Wake Forest College football star, 240-pound tackle Bob Gaona, has been traded to the professional Philadelphia Eagles by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

General manager Vince McNally of the Eagles announced the trade yesterday. The Eagles acquired Gaona, an Ambridge, Pa., native, in exchange for a 1958 college draft choice.

McNally said Gaona probably would make his first Eagles appearance in Sunday's exhibition game against the San Francisco Forty-Niners.

Three No-Hit Softball Games

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Three no-hit games were pitched yesterday in the men's world softball tournament here.

All came in the losers bracket, where teams are placed after losing a previous game

Montreal eliminated Vancouver, Wash., 4-0; Canton, N.C., knocked Farmington, N.M., from the tourney in a 1-0 game, and Bossier City, La., ousted Cleveland, 3-0.

Ray Thinks Of Public Opinion

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y. (AP) With the big fight only four days off, Sugar Ray Robinson is more concerned about world opinion than Carmen Basilio.

"If I am successful, do you think it will prove I made a successful comeback?" the middleweight champ asked newsmen yesterday out at his cabin-in-the-sky training camp.

"If I win, do you think they'll say it wasn't because Basilio wasn't a good opponent but because I was pretty good myself?"

Robinson sounded supremely confident of his ability to handle the welterweight king in their Sept. 23 middleweight title bout at Yankee Stadium. He still has a chip on his shoulder because he doesn't think his comeback has been recognized as a supreme accomplishment.

"Why do you think you have to prove your comeback again?" he was asked. "Who doesn't think it was a success?"

Harold (Killer) Johnson, once a co-manager but now listed as an associate, answered for the boss man. "When the awards were given out after the Bobo Olson fight," he said, "nobody gave anything to Sugar Ray Robinson."

Robinson wasn't inclined to press the point when it was pointed out that he never did bother to pick up a handsome award from Ring Magazine.

Azalea Open May Lose Its Support

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Officials of Wilmington's Azalea Open golf tournament, faced with possible withdrawal of Professional Golfers Assn. sponsorship, will confer with the PGA's tournament manager sometime this month.

Hamilton Hicks, president of the co-sponsoring Wilmington Athletic Assn., said he expects a visit soon from Ed Carter, tournament bureau manager of the PGA.

Hicks said the PGA is considering a Miami Beach, Fla., tournament for the late March dates the Azalea Open has had for the last nine years.

The Miami Beach proposed tournament will offer a $25,000 purse, compared to the $12,500 the Azalea Open offers. Hicks said his group has told the PGA it would raise the purse to $15,000 but no higher.

Dodgers Hurl Cards Back, Braves Go Up

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

The Brooklyn Dodgers aren't going anywhere, except maybe Los Angeles, but they were in on the National League pennant fight almost to the end.

After grabbing two of three from Milwaukee last week, the Dodgers took a last belt at second-place St Louis last night, skidding the Cardinals four games behind with a 6-1 decision while the "choke up" Braves won their third in a row with an 8-2 job on the New York Giants.

The Braves now have a magic number of six. Any combination of six Milwaukee victories and St. Louis defeats will give them the pennant. Both Milwaukee and St. Louis have nine games left. They meet in a three-game series opening at Milwaukee Monday.

In the American, the New York Yankees reduced their magic number to four, defeating Detroit 4-3. They have a 6½-game lead with eight to play. Chicago's second-place White Sox have 11 left after defeating Baltimore 7-5.

Cincinnati defeated Pittsburgh 2-1 and the Chicago Cubs clipped Philadelphia 6-4 as Robin Roberts lost his 21st in the other NL games. Kansas City beat Boston 2-1 and Cleveland whipped Washington 8-3 in the AL.

Right-hander Lew Burdette, going the distance for only the second time in seven starts, tossed a four-hitter for the Braves.

Willie Mays socked his 35th home run, but the Giants were long dead by then. A four-run fifth put it away as southpaw Johnny Antonelli — facing nine right-handed batters in the starting lineup — reached his career high in defeats with 17.

The Cardinals, who had won five straight, handed the Dodgers four unearned runs, but Charlie Neal's two-run 12th homer had settled it in the third. Don Drysdale, Brooklyn's young ace, won his 16th with relief help in the ninth, blanking the Cards until Wally Moon parked his 24th homer in the eight. Lindy McDaniel wss the loser.

Yogi Berra did it for the Yankees, driving in all four runs with his 21st and 22nd home runs. Sal Maglie won his second, but needed Bob Turley's relief in the eighth. Duke Maas was the loser.

Jim Landis drilled a two-run single in the first and Ron Jackson slammed a three-run homer in a five-run fifth for the White Sox. Jim Wilson won his 15th. Young Don Ferrarese wss the loser.

The Red Sox made it 1-0 on Jim Piersall's leadoff home run—but then were blanked on six hits by Tom Gorman, who won his fifth. Two runs in the fourth, on three singles and Bob Martyn's fly, handed Frank Sullivan his 11th defeat.

Ted Williams walked as a pinch-hitter for Boston, retaining a .377 average while Yankee Mickey Mantle was 1-for-4 and slipped a point to .365.

Rookie Dick Drott became the first Cub to win 15 since Warren Hacker did it in 1952. Ernie Banks regained the major league home run lead with No. 42. Harry Anderson tied the Phils rookie home run record, set by Del Ennis in 1946, with his 17th.

Smoky Burgess' single won it for the Redlegs in the ninth. Brooks Lawrence, whose RBI single junked a three-hit shutout by loser R.G. Smith in the seventh, won his 16th.

Mike Garcia won his 12th for the Indians while Billy Harrell hit a three-run double in a five-run fifth that clinched it.

Turner Decisions Akins In Upset

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —Gil Turner, the hustle guy from Philadelphia, was high up in the welterweight picture again and looking for a title shot today after his upset victory over lethargic Virgil Akins.

"If Carmen Basilio beats Ray Robinson for the middleweight title Monday night, then we'll have to be in any elimination tournament for the welterweight title," said George Katz, Turner's manager. "Akins was ranked second by Ring and third by the NBA, so that means we have to be in there."

"However, if Robinson wins, Herman Taylor, who hopes to get his promoting license in Philadelphia, is ready to offer Basilio $75,000 to defend his welter title against Turner in Philadelphia," added Karz.

Turner's decision victory over Akins in their telecast 10-rounder last night was his third straight. He had beaten middleweight Yama Bahama and Del Flanagan previously.

Referee Joey Mangold, the only official, awarded the verdict to Gil on a 5-4-1 score in rounds. Turner had to win the last round, according to Mangold's card, and he did that in typical storming fashion.

Strong at 151 pounds, Turner kept the pressure on his flurry-fighting, 149 - pound opponent throughout.

Dodgers Irked By Delayed Decisions

NEW YORK (AP)—"Straws in the wind indicate the Dodgers are going to Los Angeles."

So said a Brooklyn club official after having been informed of New York City's Board of Estimate's announcement after a two-hour session late yesterday that it had nothing to announce.

The board had been called for an emergency session, a day in advance of its regular meeting, to reconsider a new proposal presented by millionaire Nelson Rockefeller to Mayor Robert Wagner and Walter O'Malley, president of the Dodgers, designed to prevent the club from pulling up stakes and going west.

The club official, who asked not to be identified, was obviously nettled by the board's failure to come to a decision.

"While Los Angeles comes through with firm offers, this city continues to hold emergency meetings — and continues to do nothing," he said.

There is still a chance the nine-man board might come to a decision at today's meeting, although that, too, was doubtful in view of Mayor Wagner's description of yesterday's session as "an exploratory discussion."

The details of Rockefeller's latest plan were not disclosed, but the proposal presumably was a further development of his earlier offer of financial aid toward condemnation of land in the downtown Brooklyn area designed by O'Malley for a new Dodger stadium.

The New York Daily News reported Rockefeller had offered to put up three million dollars to buy the land O'Malley is after. The paper said it was understood Rockefeller would lease the land to the Dodgers for 20 years with the city given a repurchase option if O'Malley did not buy the land during that period.

Rockefeller conceded his new plan was prompted by the latest Los Angeles bid, offering the Dodgers 300 acres of land in the Chavez Ravine in exchange for their ball park in Los Angeles, plus other concessions.

Earlier warned he was prepared to accept the Los Angeles offer unless New York could make a more attractive proposal.

Earlier O'Malley warned he was prepared to accept the Los Angeles offer unless New York could make a more attractive proposal.

O'Malley, who repeatedly has expressed his willingness to invest his own money in a stadium if the land were made available to him at an "attractive" price, insisted that the amount of money had no bearing on the main issue.

ACC Teams Taper Off For Opening Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After three weeks of leather cracking leather and flesh smacking flesh, Atlantic Coast Conference football camps grow quiet today as coaches taper off for Saturday's opening games.

Most of the ACC coaches, except Wake Forest's Paul Amen who has an additional week's respite before entering the football wars, held their final rough practice yesterday.

North Carolina Coach Jim Tatum, who in two seasons as Tar Heel mentor (1942 and 1956) lost twice to North Carolina State, again took the Tar Heels into a closed stadium for final contact work yesterday. Tatum stressed pass defense in preparation for his third meeting with State. "We know we face a big task in stopping State's passing and also in handling the two fine (State) ends, John Collar and Bob Pepe," Tatum said after the drill.

Meanwhile at State, Coach Earle Edwards sent the Wolfpack through a two-hour session in the rain. Defense, punt returns, and offensive blocking came in for Edwards' attention. He pronounced the squad in good physical condition.

"You will have to be on your toes and play hard all the way to win," Duke Coach Bill Murray told the Blue Devils, last year's 7-0 loss to South Carolina figuring prominently in his talk to the squad. He cautioned against over-optimism during a workout which stressed timing of plays.

Coach Warren Giese at South Carolina staged a two-hour drill yesterday. He divided the practice time about equally between offense and defense. After the workout, Giese praised halfback Carroll McClain and quarterback Stan Spears.

Frank Howard, the Clemson coach who qualifies nearly every prediction he makes, after a scrimmage session yesterday commented: "We still aren't hitting hard enough and we're going to have to have more drive, but all in all, the boys look like they want to have a good season." Clemson meets its tradition opening foe, Presbyterian, Saturday.

The Virginia Cavaliers worked a speedup schedule yesterday as Coach Ben Martin tried to compensate for time lost to rain. The Cavaliers meet West Virginia Saturday, the first game on a tough schedule. The squad will fly to Morgantown, W.Va., for the game.

Wake Forest, which will open against Florida Sept. 28, yesterday worked on defense against Florida plays run by reserves and freshmen. Coach Amen had his full 44-man squad out for the workout, the first time in more than a week. Three players — halfback Larry Brooks and Tom Crowder and end Henry Martin—came off the Deacons' injured list.

Plan Intramural Athletic Program At ECC Tonight

All male students interested in touch football and other intermural sports at East Carolina are urged to attend a very important meeting in the college Gym tonight at 6:30 p.m.

The purpose of this meeting is to familiarize all interested persons with the intermural program planned for the 1957-58 college year.

Touch football plans are already underway for the fall quarter. There will be two leagues comprising EC touch football. One league will be the Fraternal League while the other will be the Organizational League. Games will be played each Monday and Wednesday evenings. A point system has been devised and will be discussed at the meeting. Thus far ten teams have entered but more are encouraged to enter.

Anyone desiring to enter a team in touch football play should have a list of team members ready to hand in at the meeting tonight. Deadline for entry will be Saturday night.

Anyone desiring information who cannot attend the meeting tonight may call the Director of Intermural Sports, Harry Archer Jr., at 2702.

Archer and Intermural Council President Tom Edison have asked all to attend this meeting that are interested, especially freshmen. Football will make up most of the intermural play during this fall but there will be basketball and softball later on during the college year.

Last year the league champion touch football team represented East Carolina in a game with the University of North Carolina touch squad. In addition to extra activities such as this, there will be tournaments and trophies awarded to teams possessing the most points for league and tournament play.

Teamsters Given Choice: Get Rid Of Hoffa Breed, Or Leave AFL-CIO

WASHINGTON (AP)—An AFL-CIO committee in effect gave the giant Teamsters Union a choice today between getting rid of James R. Hoffa and other leaders it labeled as corrupt or being ousted from the federation.

That is the purport of an AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee report finding formally that the Teamsters Union is corruptly dominated. The report named Hoffa, Dave Beck, Frank Brewster and others as being responsible.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council, which meets in New York next week, still must act on the report and prescribe the terms of any penalty. But that is regarded as a formality. The decision is up to the Teamsters: a thorough clean-up, or seemingly certain ouster from the AFL-CIO family of unions.

This is no meaningless penalty. It would mean Teamsters officials everywhere would have to forfeit positions of prominence in key state and local labor echelons. It also would mean ostracism and all-out warfare with practically all the rest of organized labor—a fight that could be bloody and could endure for many years.

What effect this will have on the 44-year-old Hoffa's ambitions to take over the teamsters presidency from Dave Beck will depend on how delegates react at the Teamsters convention. It starts Sept. 30 at Miami Beach, Fla. Hoffa, like Brewster, is now a union vice president.

Three other union officials are opposing Hoffa for election to the presidency and one of them, Thomas J. Haggerty of Chicago, announced he will start tomorrow a campaign swing through the East. He plans to visit Washington, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Detroit in the course of a speaking tour.

In LaSalle, Ill., a union local president said he has asked the union's convention officials to "kick out the controlled vote" of nearly 700 locals operating under trusteeship of the international union.

Barney Matual, president of LaSalle Local 46 and a supporter of Haggerty, said the locals in trusteeship are automatically committed to support Hoffa. Without their vote, he said, Hoffa would lose.

The AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee report was formally released by AFL-CIO headquarters here after portions of it had become known.

It said Hoffa, Beck and Brewster, the union's West Coast boss, as well as other Teamsters officials were guilty of misusing Teamsters funds and powers.

The committee's findings implied that expulsion of the Teamsters would follow not only election of Hoffa as the union's president but even his retention in the union in any capacity.

The report said that Beck, whose personal use of Teamsters funds initially sparked the AFL-CIO action against his union, had misused more than $370,000 of union money and had brought the entire labor movement into disrepute.

The AFL-CIO committee spoke even more sharply of Hoffa. It said the list of Hoffa's friends and proteges in labor "reads like a rogue's gallery—the arrest records of these people cover everything from highway robbery to murder.

"We do not accept Hoffa's explanation that these associations (with hoodlums) were an attempt to rehabilitate juvenile delinquents," the report said, adding it was incredible that Hoffa, with his long experience in labor, could have been so gullible as to be taken in by Johnny Dio, the New York racketeer with whom Hoffa closely cooperated. The committee said it was well known to everyone else in labor that Dio was a crook.

Hoffa, like Beck and Brewster, the committee said, used union funds to satisfy his personal whims. Hoffa's claims that he didn't know what he was doing or wasn't aware that it was wrong, particularly in accepting loans from employers, the AFL-CIO committee said, demonstrates Hoffa's "insensitivity to the most elementary principles of trade union morality."

Urges Support Of Air Reserve

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Gov. Hodges says that when personnel are discharged from the Air Force they should be encouraged to enter the reserve "Not only for patriotic reasons but financial ones as well."

If this is done, Hodges declared, the investment in training of Air Force personnel will not be lost.

Hodges spoke yesterday at dedication ceremonies of a new Air Force Reserve Center here.

The governor said "Employers and business leaders can make a material contribution to our national security by giving wholehearted support" to the reserve program.

"By support," he added, "We mean looking with favor and understanding upon the members of the Air Force Reserve and its activities here in Charlotte and wherever reserve activities are being carried on. We mean encouraging members of your family, your neighbors and friends who have Air Force experience to take an active part in the local reserve program."

Earlier, the governor spoke at a kickoff luncheon for a new Industrial Advisory Council formed to seek more industries for the Charlotte area. He said that so far this year some 235 industrial projects have been announced in North Carolina. These inwolve either new plants or expansions of present plans, he added.

Another 'Finer Farms' Contest

RALEIGH — Carolina Power & Light Company's 1957-58 Finer Farms contest gets underway in October, Ned Champion of Raleigh, contest director, said today that 51 counties in North Carolina and 12 in South Carolina in which CP&L serves are elegible to compete for cash prizes totaling $2,800.

Plans are now being made by Soil Conservation community groups to hold meetings in October. Booklets outlining contest rules and awards were mailed to 213 local conservation supervisors this week.

CP&L offers awards to community conservation committees, county boards of conservation supervisors, and individual supervisors for outstanding work in soil and water conservation. Credit is given for new conservation practices and improvement of existing practices.

In the 1956-57 contest, which ended August, over half a million acres of Carolina farmland were judged.

The contest is administered locally by conservation supervisors, work unit conservationists and other farm agencies, with CP&L cooperation and sponsorship.

Meat Bargains For Weekend Shoppers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Meat prices are a bit lower this week as supermarket meat experts offer a wide variety of "specials" designed to catch the housewife's eye.

Total meat supplies this year are expected by federal seers to run about 3 per cent below last year's record volume. This week, however, pork chops are 4 to 6 cents lower in many sections and sirloin steaks are as much as 10 cents a pound cheaper in a smaller number of places. Leg of lamb is 2 cents cheaper in a few places.

Hams, chickens and various cuts of roast beef will be the most frequent feature items in the nation's chain and neighborhood stores. You can get a special on anything in beef from chopped chuck right up to porterhouse steak by shopping around, while most of the hams are the popular smoked variety. Items like oyster stew, calf's liver and smoked tongue also are featured in some places, although not widely advertised.

Coffee-lovers who exulted at last week's 4 to 6-cent reductions may get some more good news soon, thanks to a bumper Brazilian crop which may top last year's by 40 per cent when it starts coming in next month. A further decline of as much as 8 to 10 cents a pound by the end of the year is expected by some.

Cauliflower, onions, potatoes, cucumbers and green peppers head the list of vegetable buys this week, market men say, with supplies still available from nearby fields in most sections of the country.

Carrots and celery are among the vegetables which are figured to be substantially scarcer than in 1956, although so far they are moderately priced. Carrots are even a shade lower than last week.

Other good vegetable buys are available in snap beans, brussels sprouts, cabbage, egg plant, squash, tomatoes and sweet potatoes. Sweet corn is on the way out in most places, and therefore growing more expensive.

Steadily-increasing supplies are easing the prices of assorted varieties of apples, with the fall harvest just getting into full swing.

Grapes also are a good buy for the bargain - minded housewife. Pears show a higher tendency and peaches, too, are growing more expensive as supplies dwindle. Cantaloupes and honeydews head the melon list, while watermelons finally are more expensive after a strong summer.

Another sure sign of fall in the markets — first cranberries of the season in scattered areas.

SEATO Leaders Talk In Bangkok Despite Coup

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Military advisers of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization met here today despite this week's coup that toppled pro-Western Premier P. Pibulsonggram.

"The conference program will be the same, only the hosts will be different," said a spokesman for Marshal Sarit Thanarat, armed forces chief who seized power Monday.

Although rumored to be anti-SEATO, Sarit had declared he would continue Thailand's close cooperation with the anti-Communist alliance and said he wanted to keep SEATO's permanent headquarters in Bangkok.

Conference delegates included Adm. Felix Stump, U.S. Pacific Fleet commander.

King Phumiphon Aduldet last night put a legal okay on Sarit's assumption of control, naming the marshal military custodian of Bangkok. The order said Sarit would serve in that position until a new cabinet is named. There was no indication when that step might be taken.

The King also dissolved the old Parliament and appointed 123 bew representatives. They will serve until new elections are held within three months.

Recommendations from Sarit's ruling military junta determined the King's selections. About 90 per cent of the new appointees are believed to be holdovers from the last Parliament. The old Assembly had 283 members, of whom 160 were elected.

Sarit, meanwhile, sought in army radio broadcasts to persuade Pibulsonggram, premier for 10 years, to return to Bangkok.

Pibulsonggram left the capital Monday night after Sarit ordered tanks and troops out in Bangkok. He now is said to be on an island off southeast Thailand.

It was reported he was undecided whether to return to the capital or seek political asylum in Cambodia.

Ship In Danger After Typhoon

HONOLULU (AP)—The typhoon-crippled Liberian freighter Cygnet headed due east today, hoping to avoid another storm.

The ship, listing at 15 degrees and in danger of foundering yesterday, was righted when the fuel tanks were ballasted. It was damaged by Typhoon Della midway between Japan and Hawaii.

The Coast Guard cutter Bering Strait is accompanying it to Japan.

The ship's bridge was nearly demolished and the foredeck slightly buckled by the storm.

ROYAL DIVORCE FINAL

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The divorce of King Hussein of Jordan and Queen Dina is final, her friends report. Friends said Dina's family is incensed because the young King never has announced the divorce. With her status in doubt, she cannot resume her teaching career, they said.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDREW C. LANG
AP Newsfeatures

When a door refuses to open and close properly, the first thing nearly every home owner does is run for a plane, a file or sandpaper.

Actually, removing any wood from a door to get it back into working order should be a last-resort operation. Most of the time, the sticking or binding is caused by one or more loose hinges.

The hinges should be checked by opening and closing the door at varying degrees of speed, observing whether there is any hinge movement. This will have to be done carefully, since the hinges, at first glance, may appear to be solidly attached to the door and the jamb. But often it takes only the tiniest fraction of an inch movement — as little as a 32nd of an inch — to throw the door out of line.

Screwdriver Test

If no hinge movement is noticed, use a screwdriver to test whether every screw in each hinge is tightened securely. If a screw goes in all the way, yet does not seem to be gripping firmly, it means that the screw hole has become enlarged. A temporary cure is to use a slightly larger screw yet one which fits into the opening in the hinge. The better way to handle this problem is to remove all the screws from that particular hinge and fill the holes with wood putty, plastic wood or a wooden plug. When the filler has hardened (not necessary if a plug is used), the hinge and screws are replaced in their original positions.

Should all the screws be seated firmly, a shim may be the answer. A shim, in this case, is merely a piece of cardboard placed under the hinge leaf which is attached to the door jamb. If the door binds at the top, remove the screws from the top hinge leaf, place the cardboard under it and replace the screws. The screws thus will go through the cardboard before going into the wood. If the door binds at the bottom, use the shim under the bottom hinge leaf attached to the jamb. In either of these cases, a little experimenting may be necessary, such as a thicker piece of cardboard or two pieces of cardboard instead of one. Or you may find that the shim should be very small, just enough to fit under the edge of the hinge leaf without the screws going through the cardboard.

Hinges Outlast Doors

None of this will work if one or more of the hinges is defective. Usually, a hinge will last as long or longer than the door itself, but a replacement must be made when the hinge is cracked or bent. An excellent way to avoid future strain on a door that is used often is to add a third hinge, midway between the other two. If the hinges are of the conventional butt type, the third hinge will have to be set into mortises in the door and the jamb just as the others are. You can do this without taking down the door, using a chisel and mallet to cut out the mortises. In purchasing a third hinge, get one of the same size and type as the top and bottom hinges.

When you are absolutely certain that loose hinges are not causing the trouble, then you will have to plane, file or sand the part of the door that is sticking. Do this a little at a time, since the tendency is to take off too much wood and leave an unsightly gap. And be sure that the area worked on is repainted or revarnished. One of the main causes of a warping door is that paint or varnish is not applied to the edges and ends. That's where the moisture takes its toll — and that's where the finishing material is most important.

DEFENSE PACT

LONDON (AP) — Britain and newly independent Malaya have announced a defense agreement allowing British military forces to be based in the Southeast Asia nation. Malaya retains the right to veto any British military action to be launched from the bases.

Legionaires Ask Half-Billion In Annual Pensions

By JAMES DEVLIN

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The American Legion, closing its 39th annual convention today, is asking Congress for almost half a billion dollars a year in pensions for needy or disabled veterans.

The Legion refused in two hours of debate yesterday to consider proposals calling for pensions for all veterans at the age of 65.

It approved a resolution providing that a veteran of World War I, II or Korea be deemed totally disabled when he reaches 65 — provided his income is less than $1,400 yearly if single or $2,700 yearly if married.

Those under 65 would get the pension only if totally disabled.

The proposal of the 2,800,000-member organization also would increase present disability payments up to $14.55 monthly.

It would increase monthly rates of $66.15, $78.75 and $135.45 for various categories of disability to $75, $90 and $150 respectively.

The Pennsylvania delegation introduced the resolution. It was approved unanimously by the convention's Rehabilitation Committee. The convention threw down attempts to amend it to make the disability age 60 years.

Legion sources said present disability payments would cost the government $666,468,962 next year and that if the new plan is approved by Congress it would cost an additional $487,597,208.

They said the proposed plan would make about 350,000 additional veterans eligible to collect benefits.

Rep. Durham Says Hopes High For International Atom Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Durham (N-NC) said today he has "high hopes" for International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) which holds its first meeting in Vienna Oct. 1.

Durham, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, heads a congressional delegation which will take part in the Vienna sessions. He and two other members of the delegation are sailing from New York today on the liner United States.

The agency was formed to carry out proposals President Eisenhower put forth in his Atoms-For-Peace speech to the United Nations in 1953.

Durham, interviewed before leaving for New York, said he believed the new organization had great possibilities in the field of nuclear weapons control as well as in peaceful uses of the atom.

"I wouldn't be going to this meeting if I didn't think we'd get somewhere by sitting around a table and talking common sense," he said. "We must do something to stop this weapons race. We've tried hard and failed so far. But we've got to keep working at it until we succeed."

The agency, which 82 nations have joined, is concerned principally with a sharing plan under which the atomic "have" nations will make available nuclear materials to "have-not" countries for their economic development.

But Durham said he was convinced that progress in this field would bring more cooperation and understanding also in the area of atomic disarmament.

The North Carolinian said also he was hopeful Rep. Sterling Cole (R-NY) will be elected as first director-general of the agency.

Cole, a member of the House for 22 years, has served on the Atomic Energy Committee since it was created. He was its chairman in 1953 and 1954. Cole also will attend the Vienna meeting.

Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, is expected to head the American delegation to the Vienna meeting, although this has not yet been announced by the White House.

Principal congressional advisers, besides Durham and Cole, will be Sens. Pastore (D-RI) and Hickenlooper (R-Ia). Other members of the joint committee going in an advisory capacity are Reps. Holifield (D-Calif), Price (D - Ill), Dempsey (D-NM) and Van Zant (R-Pa), and Sen. Gore (D-Tenn). This means that half of the committee will be represented.

N. C. Building Permits In Period See Some Decline

RALEIGH (AP)—Building permits issued in 30 principal cities and towns showed a drop of nearly 15 per cent in the first eight months of 1957 as compared with the same period last year. Permits for new construction issued this year through Aug. 31 totaled about 95¼ million dollars.

Issuance of building permits also were down in August as compared with August of 1956. They totaled nearly 13 million dollars in comparison with about 14¾ million in August a year ago.

By individual cities, building permit totals for August included: Asheville $268,574, Burlington $531,807, Charlotte $2,251,911, Concord $378,550, Durham $484,879, Fayetteville $230,535, Gastonia $674,275, Goldsboro $109,700, Greensboro $1,173,388, Greenville $264,750, Henderson $150,835, Hickory $314,135, High Point $338,189, Lexington $67,100, New Bern $29,650, Raleigh $636,911, Rocky Mount $196,071, Salisbury $375,675, Shelby $87,950, Wilmington $158,205, Wilson $258,800, Winston - Salem $2,426,975.

'The Government Can Go To Hell', Says Satchmo

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP)—"It's getting almost so bad a colored man hasn't any country," says trumpet player Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong.

Armstrong, here for a concert, said he was dropping plans for a government-backed trip to Russia "because the way they are treating my people in the South, the government can go to hell."

Armstrong said President Eisenhower is "two-faced" and has "no guts," and was letting Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus "run the country." He said Faubus was "an uneducated plow boy."

The Negro trumpet player, shown the published copy of a Grand Forks Herald interview in which he made those remarks, said "that's just fine. Don't take nothing out of that story. That's just what I said and still say."

After reading the article yesterday he wrote the word "solid" at the bottom and attached his signature.

Armstrong said that use of National Guardsmen to prevent school integration at Little Rock was "a publicity stunt led by the greatest of all publicity hounds." He added that such things could affect relations with other countries.

"The people over there ask me what's wrong with my country, what am I supposed to say?" he queried. He added that if he should go to Russia, he would travel on his own.

"But don't get me wrong," he told a Grand Forks Herald reporter, "the South is full of intelligent white people, it's bad the lower class people who make all the noise, though."

In Washington, the State Department had no comment. But officials said Soviet propagandists undoubtedly would seize upon Armstrong's words because the Reds already have been pounding away at integration troubles as indicative of American intolerance toward Negroes.

One spokesman, noting Armstrong's remark he might visit Russia on his own, said the Russians probably would be quick to extend him an invitation for such a trip as a propaganda measure.

A tour under government sponsorship had been discussed for some time and State Department officials earlier had expressed themselves as delighted over Armstrong's promise to "fracture them cats" behind the Iron Curtain.

From the vacation White House at Newport, R.I., James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, declined comment.

Radio Programs Widely Carried

Several radio programs originating in East Carolina College's FM Station WWWS are now being broadcast simultaneously over the facilities of WGTC of Greenville and WHED of Washington. Recorded programs from the college studios are presented over eight stations covering the area from Elkin to Elizabeth City. Music, drama, news and discussions of educational interest are featured.

"High School Highlights," prepared by students in the Greenville High School, may be heard from 8 to 8:30 p.m. each Monday over WWWS and WGTC of Greenville.

"Music of the World" is now being broadcast from the college station and presented simultaneously by WHED of Washington. The program, broadcast every day from 2 to 4 p.m., is made up of selections from the classic composers.

Other programs originating in the college studios and carried also over the facilities of WHED are a half-hour of drama sponsored by the East Carolina Playhouse at 6:30 p.m. Monday, music and college news from 6:30 to 7 p.m. Wednesday, and a varied two-hour presentation from 6:30 to 8:30 Thursday.

Recorded programs produced at East Carolina are now scheduled regularly by stations in Elkin, Burlington, Elizabeth City, Marion, New Bern, Raleigh, Williamston, and Greenville.

ECC Plans Historical Pageant For The Spring

East Carolina began this week preparations for staging in the spring a pageant "East Carolina's Spade" based on the themes of the growth of the college from its beginning in 1907 to the present and to the expansion of its services to North Carolina. Both afternoon and night performances will be given May 4.

The title was suggested by the opening scene, in which Gov. Thomas J. Jarvis breaks ground for the construction of the first building on the campus, a dormitory now called Jarvis Hall in his honor. The spade for this ceremony, has been kept at the college through the years and used as other buildings have been begun.

In the pageant it becomes a symbol of the development of East Carolina through the years. Emma L. Hooper, faculty member of the department of English, wrote the pageant.

Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, head of the department of music, will act as director of the production. Associate directors will be Dr. Joseph A. Withey, Claude L. Garren, and Dr. James D. Allison of the department of English, and George E. Perry of the department of music. Several students will also be appointed as assistant directors.

The pageant will include drama, music, and dancing. It will be elaborately costumed and staged.

The cast will be composed of students, faculty members, alumni, and others who have contributed to the development of the college. All departments of instruction, the Student Government Association, and the other student organizations will participate in making arrangements for the present "East Carolina's Spade."

Golden Jubilee For Film-Makers

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Fifty years ago a Chicago movie company came to Los Angeles for location scenes on "The Count of Monte Cristo," starring the late Hobart Posworth.

Southern California so impressed the film's producer, the late William N. (Col. Billy) Selig, that he moved his polyscope company here from Chicago.

It marked the beginning of California's motion picture industry.

Now an industry spokesman announces that Hollywood's golden jubilee will be celebrated beginning Oct. 17. Celebrities will take off that day in a chartered plane on a nationwide tour, which will end in New York Nov. 8.

Recover Stolen Wooden Indian

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police here have recovered their first stolen wooden Indian.

The life-sized redwood carving was stolen last March 15 from a warehouse.

Two detectives spotted it in an antique shop here yesterday. It will be returned to the owner, Thomas Blisard, after police complete their investigation.

Flies New Plane At 1,500 MPH

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—After flying Convair's delta-winged B58 at speeds up to 1,500 m.p.h. Lt. Gen. C. S. Irvine said yesterday it "will fill an important place in our family of weapons."

Irvine, Air Force deputy chief of staff for materiel, gave the appraisal on completing a two-hour test hop in the needle-nosed jet bomber. He accompanied Convair test pilot B. A. Erickson on a dogleg course around the nation.

Ed Wynn Feels He Need Not Be Afraid Any More

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed Wynn is pretty sure he needn't be afraid any more.

"The one fear of my life was to die in oblivion," muses the little man who has been making show business headlines for 55 years.

Now very much television's man of the moment, Wynn wants others to use the moral of his story.

"Never give up," explains Ed. "The most important line I ever learned in my career was given me by Elbert Hubbard—'The only way to stay out of the Down and Out Club is never send in an application for membership.'"

Wynn, who pioneered a number of firsts in theater, radio and TV, gets the VIP treatment tonight in an hour-long "Command Appearance" over the NBC-TV network.

In it a company of performers including Rod Alexander, Steve Allen, Mimi Benzell, Janet Blair, Billie Burke, Jill Corey, Alfred Drake, Oscar Hammerstein II, Beatrice Lillie, Bambi Linn, Jack Palance, Rudy Vallee and Ed's son, Keenan, will gather round to salute the one-time "Perfect Fool."

Although highly appreciative of the "cute idea" of this spot enterprise devised by the American Theatre Wing, Wynn takes a long-range look to make history important to others.

"I've reached some kind of pinnacle that I can't understand," comments the man who began to emerge from theatrical eclipse two years ago.

"I don't like the word comeback or hiatus—the plain truth is that for a while there I couldn't get a job.

"Keenan convinced me that my funny clothes era was over. Now I've put that all away—400 coats and 800 hats.

"What I'm trying to do is have two complete careers in one lifetime—an extraordinary thing.

"I want to play dramatic roles for as long as they want me. For 54 years I played a suppositious character. Now I'm playing human beings. That's a difficult transition."

"My daily prayer," he said, "is to be spared to accomplish this thing."

Billion Beetles Infesting Town

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—An estimated billion brown beetles blown in from the northwest on an evening breeze infested this border city.

City officials issued calls for entomologists to help identify and wipe out the insects.

Foliage was not attacked by the beetles. They took more of a fancy to ice cream stands.

The Lonely Man

CHAPTER 22

"Going home, Miss Vail?" David Gray asked.

Deborah said, "Yes," rather stiffly to the police inspector. It would be foolish to go out of her way merely to snub the man, especially since he seemed impervious to snubs. He fell into step with her.

"I hear you've been seeing quite a lot of Andrew Garvin," he said.

"Is that your affair?" Deborah said tartly.

"An artist. An outcast. A combination that might well appeal to a girl's imagination."

Deborah colored with annoyance. He sounded patronizing.

"You speak as if I were a silly schoolgirl."

"That's not the way I see you."

"I don't care how you see me!" said Deborah angrily.

"It seems we can never meet without clashing. Why is that?"

Deborah said forcefully, "Because you're stubborn, hidebound, blind—"

"Stupid?" he suggested, with a twinkle in his eye.

She could not help laughing. He said approvingly, "That's better." They strolled along together. The air was still, hushed, as if the night held its breath.

"Who made him an outcast?" Deborah said suddenly.

"You're going to say it was me."

"Well, wasn't it? You're a policeman. You ought not to be blinded by prejudice. You should look for the truth."

"And what is the truth?" asked David Gray amiably.

"I don't know; I'm not sure; but it's there if you dig for it. I'm only a girl, as you pointed out, with neither credentials nor authority to back me up, but already I've found out that at least three of your witnesses against him either lied or are mistaken."

"It's a wise witnesses have," said David Gray. "Their eyes or their memories play tricks. Most of them want to tell the truth but what a man calls the truth is generally what he chooses to believe, not what he knows for certain. In my job you have to sift facts from fancy. Often it isn't easy."

Now was the time to tell him all she had found out about Bill Sinclair. Why did she hesitate?

"I could make out as strong a case against several men in Garnock," she said, temporizing, "as you can against Andrew Garvin."

"No doubt. But we police are not quite blind, nor asleep. We've investagted several suspects rather closely. Believe me, we're still at it."

"And then, there's that man, Scobie. He knows something."

"What he knows he won't tell. Scobie's a close-mouthed scoundrel." The police inspector scrowled. "I'd give a year's pay to get the goods on him! We've had him before the bench a dozen times. Maiming a sheep to get revenge on a farmer; malicious wounding, breaking and entering; poaching. All sorts of charges. Insufficient evidence every time. It's baffling to a policeman to be up against a crook who has no friends. Most criminals have a few pals with whom they're free and easy, to whom they boast of the clever job they've just pulled off. Time after time, it's the crook who gives himself away because his tongue wags too freely in convivial company. Not Scobie. The man hasn't a friend or casual pal in the world, and what he knows stays bottled up in his ugly skull."

"The whole town knows that you're having Andrew Garvin watched. In the eyes of the town that makes him guilty."

"Do you expect me to announce publicly that I haven't accused him?"

"It's unfair to leave him with the burden of suspicion."

"There may be a reason for that. Perhaps it's to make the real murderer think he's thrown us off the track. Or perhaps we're sure it's Garvin and hoping he'll do something to give himself away. After all, he almost killed his wife once before. It was at a party and she was too interested in another man."

"He probably gave her the good shaking she deserved. Wouldn't you?"

"Perhaps I would," said Inspector Gray. They walked along in silence for a while. "Don't go flying off the handle," he said. "I've got a word of advice for you."

"To mind my own business, I expect?"

"That's about it. You know, of course — all the world knows — that British policemen don't carry revolvers."

"It's common knowledge," said Deborah impatiently.

"What isn't so generally known is that a few revolvers are kept at every police station for issue to policemen sent on especially dangerous errands. The regulations are strict: the danger has to be great before a firearm is issued. Well, Miss Vail, I'll tell you this: if I were sending a man to arrest the murder to Erica Garvin, I'd see that he went armed."

Deborah winced, struck again by the brutality of the murder.

"You knew her," she remarked.

David Gray understood what she meant. "I met her several times," he replied.

"Did you like her?"

"It wasn't as simple as that. You didn't just like her or not like her. The impact went deeper. I could say she was beautiful. That wouldn't be the half of it. I couldn't be with her and sum her up dispassionately. No man could, if he had blood in his veins. When you thought of her you got all tangled up emotionally."

"You were in love with her."

"Was I? With another man's wife?"

"The Chief Constable wouldn't have approved?" said Deborah scornfully.

"Blast the Chief Constable," said David Gray. "A man has principles." He eyed her quizzically. "You wouldn't be trying to make me out as a suspect?"

"You have a little sports car. You wear tweed jackets."

"You've been listening to Old Mrs. Craw. An important point to remember about the old lady is that she's asleep at her window as often as she's awake. More than one man could have come to call at the Garvin house while she was dozing. It happens she saw one man. We think it was Garvin."

"You knew Erica," she persisted. "I think you fell for her. And as Hector MacInch pointed out, you're a presentable bachelor."

"And likely to remain one for long enough. I have my future to think of, Miss Vail."

"You needn't make the point so earnestly. I have no designs on you."

"There's only one answer to that."

He took her in his arms and kissed her. It was a warm, full-lipped, expert kiss. But a wondering expression came into his eyes and he kissed her again, more gently.

Deborah averted her head, turning her lips away.

"Didn't mean much to you, did it?" he said in a tone of pique, releasing her.

"Not much," said Deborah. "Was it supposed to?"

"Funny, it meant a lot more to me than I'd have expected."

For the moment he was not as self-assured as usual but Deborah felt no tolerance for him. How like the man, she thought. How very like him, to grab a girl and kiss her on the confident assumption that she would enjoy it.

The truth of the adage, "Those who look for trouble usually find it," is confirmed for Deborah. Continue James Ronald's new novel here tomorrow. A blackmailer is ready to strike.

The name of ragweed, which caused so much discomfort to hay fever sufferers, is ironically derived from the Greek ambrosia, meaning food for the gods.

Savory Smoke In Firemen's Job

RUSTBURG, Va. (AP) — The firemen were almost overcome by hunger, but they saved 50 hams.

The fire started when a rafter broke in F. W. Merryman's smokehouse. Some of the 150 hams plunged into the fire over which they were being smoked. The aroma was delicious but the fat was in the fire and it blazed. The 50 hams saved were in an adjoining smokehouse and were the property of Ed Evans, Rustburg's high school basketball coach.

Songs Of A Nation Might Be Good Signpost, But Look Here

By ED CREAGH
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Give me the making of the songs of a nation," a wise man once said, "and I care not who makes its laws."

(Andrew Fletcher, 1655-1716, in case you happen to be caught on a quiz program.)

What he seems to have meant is that the songs people sing tell more about them than all the laws on the statute books.

Fletcher lived before the juke box age, lucky fellow. Wonder what he's make of the American people if he were exposed to today's popular songs?

The "top 10," according to the amusement industry weekly Variety, are in order of popularity: "Tammy," "Diana," "Around the World," "Fascination," "Gonna Sit Right Down and Write Myself a Letter," "Honeycomb," "Rainbow," "White Silver Sands," "It's Not for Me to Say," "In the Middle of an Island."

This writer ran out of dimes before investigating all of these, but there does seem to be a trend:

If it's true that songs mirror the souls of people better than laws do, then Americans are more interested in love and foreign travel than in, say, civil rights or the other issues that furrow the brows of our legislators.

This will come as no surprise to Tin Pan Alley. Maybe Congress suspects it from time to time too. The members keep it pretty quiet if they do though. They tend to keep the beat at funeral tempo. No rock 'n' roll for Capitol Hill.

Getting back to the top 10, now: "Tammy," a catchy tune, seems to be concerned with young love, and who's against that?

"Around the World?" Well, that's about a guy who wouldn't settle for the girl next door. He had to search all around the world, like a congressman on an expense account.

"Gonna Sit Right Down and Write Myself a Letter." This is quite possible the silliest one since Tin Pan Alley was a country lane. The girl won't write to the boy so he writes to himself and forges her name. What a jerk.

Likewise: "It's Not for Me to Say." This clown can't say whether the girl loves him or not. It doesn't seem to have occurred to him to ask her. Or better yet tell her.

He could, of course, be the dreamer type, like the boy who writes himself letters. In which case he'd be right at home on that "Middle of An Island" record. With the monkeys and the palm trees. Honest, that's how the song goes. Another dime down the drain, in the interest of trying to understand 20th century America.

It's not quite as bad as it sounds, though. The "top 10" list is culled from the dimes and dollars fed into the juke boxes and record shops by teen-age girls, for the most part. And the teen-agers do not yet run the country. They simply run the parents who do run the country.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—Hog prices mostly steady. Tops of 18.75 to 19.50 at Bethel; 18.50 to 19.50 at Tarboro and Enfield; 18.50 to 19.25 at Rocky Mount; 18.25 to 18.75 at Kinston, Siler City, New Bern, Benson, Lillington, Nahunta, Angier and Albertson; 18.50 at Castle Hayne, Pine Level, Blackman's Crossroads, Clayton, Elizabethtown, Micro, Clinton and Fayetteville; 18.25 at Rich Square and Lumberton; 18.00 at Smithfield, Newton Grove, Dunn, Clarkton, Whiteville, Bailey, Denton, Mount Olive and Goldsboro.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers unchanged to 1 cent lower, farm price 17 to 18, mostly 18.

Eggs—prices paid by distributors for clean, sized, minimum 80 per cent A quality: Raleigh and Charlotte steady, large 51; Durham steady, large 47. Prices paid producers on graded out basis, Asheville about steady, A large 49-50, mostly 49.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock Market partly recovered from a morning sell-off and turned mixed early this afternoon.

Price changes were small in all key divisions with only a few isolated exceptions. Activity continued at the slow pace of recent sessions.

Tobaccos scored the widest gains as a group. Aircrafts also forged ahead. Chemicals and utilities were mostly higher. Steels and rails declined while metals and oils were mixed.

The sharp upturn in the Bank of England's interest rate and Secretary of State Dulles' call for the UN to intervene in the Middle East situation created some uncertainty but caused no aggressive selling.

Aviation and missile stocks displayed a little strength. Reports military men were considering ordering quick production of a 1,500 mile range missile helped this sector.

Chrysler, which produces the intermediate range "Jupiter" missile, gained a point. Douglas, working on the "Thor," managed only a small advance.

Northrop jumped a major fraction. Boeing and United Aircraft were slightly ahead. North American Aviation was unchanged.

Tobacco stocks repeated yesterday's favorable performance, led by Reynolds Tobacco "B", up more than a point. Lorillard was active at a point gain. Government figures show people are burning up a lot of cigarettes.

After dropping about 3 points, Zenith cut its loss in half. While the Federal Communications Commission authorized pay-as-you-see television tests, it did not specify use of any particular system such as Zenith's "Phonevision."

Paramount Pictures, involved in pay television through international telemeter, lost nearly a point. RCA and Motorola gained while Philco was unchanged.

Some sulphur issues continued under pressure following yesterday's price cut by Texas Gulf Sulphur. Jefferson Lake Sulphur lost more than a point. But Texas Gulf was unchanged.

In the railroad group Baltimore and Ohio dropped around a point on a disappointing August income report. Illinois Central eased.

Seaboard Oil again featured the oils, rising more than 2 points. Royal Dutch and Standard Oil (New Jersey) declined. Bethlehem, U.S. Steel and Republic lost fractions in the steel group.

At noon the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was 10 cents lower at $173.10 with the industrials off 10 cents, rails off 40 cents and utilities up 20 cents.

'Esther' Becomes Three-State Rain

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The rainy remains of tropical storm Esther splattered toward Tennessee today, leaving flooded portions of three states in its path from the Gulf of Mexico.

The Weather Bureau said the northern portions of Alabama, Mississippi and east and central Tennessee could expect rain up to 5 inches today.

In an advisory at 5 a. m. the Weather Bureau said the remnants of the storm were centered in west central Mississippi near Greenwood, and were expected to continue to move northward at about 15 m.p.h.

Highest winds registered as the storm moved inland were 64 miles per hour early yesterday at New Orleans.

Two boys drowned in rain-swollen canals in New Orleans.

Buras, about 50 miles southeast of New Orleans, was pelted with 13.36 inches of rain in 24 hours. New Orleans got almost 7 inches and Biloxi, Miss., got 8.

George Fish, U. S. meteorologist at Jackson, Miss., said there may be serious flooding in Mississippi with the biggest problem from the Leaf and Pascagoula rivers.

The Mississippi Gulf Coast appeared to have received the heaviest damage. Winds and rains knocked down utility poles and television antennas.

In some parts of Plaquemines Parish (county) south of New Orleans, water was waist deep.

Threats of flooding also came from high tides along the Mississippi and Alabama coasts.

Thousands evacuated the marshlands along the Louisiana coast and moved into Red Cross and civil defense shelters. The evacuation was hastened by memory of Hurricane Audrey, which struck the Louisiana coast June 27 and left 532 missing or dead in the Cameron area near the Texas border.

Although Cameron residents evacuated, the storm bypassed the area when it veered to the east.

Meanwhile, Hurricane Carrie was reported still carrying winds of 85 miles an hour, with the storm center located about 700 miles east northeast of Bermuda.

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Washington said Carrie was moving to the east at a speed of about 18 miles an hour, and was expected to switch to an east-southeast direction for several hours.

One of the earliest snowstorms in years hit the northern Rockies and with th snow came a rapid drop in temperatures. Highest readings in some Montana cities yesterday, around freezing, were about 36 degrees below the seasonal normal.

A foot of snow was reported at Helena, the capital city, one of the largest on record for the date.

The cold air moved into North Dakota and Minnesota, with temperatures dipping into the 30s. Light snow fell in sections of North Dakota.

'Lone Wolf' Repute For Young Scientist

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. Winston H. Price, the young Johns Hopkins medical researcher who claims to have developed a successful vaccine for the common cold, is looked upon as a lone wolf by some of his colleagues.

At 34, he already has won considerable recognition for his study of viruses.

A stocky, handsome man of medium height and gray-blond hair, Dr. Price is outgoing and affable when talking about his work. But an attempt to bring his personal life or accomplishments into the picture makes him shy, retiring and adamant.

He is married and lives in a comfortable, tastefully furnished North Baltimore apartment.

He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1942 at the age of 19 and received his Ph. D. in general physiology from Princeton seven years later.

His name in "American men of Science" is followed by more than a dozen lines listing his various positions and associations since.

He joined the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Science in 1946 as a special investigator and rose in six years to an associate professor and research associate in epidemiology.

In 1953, he was a consultant to the Department of Defense on virus and rickettsial diseases — such as typhus, Rocky Mountain spotted fever and trench fever.

He served on the committee on reservoirs and vectors of disease of the national research council in 1954, the same year he won the Theobold Smith Award, presented annually to the scientist who shows unusual ability for original research in the field of medical science.

Last spring, in cooperation with another scientist, Dr. Price reported development of an experimental vaccine which is effective in preventing several forms of encephalitis or sleeping sickness.

Colleagues describe him as a dedicated scientist and something of a lone wolf, working diligently on his own theories until he has proved or disproved thm.

Packhouse Burns, Tobacco Is Lost

Some 2,000 sticks of tobacco went up in smoke as a packhouse burned on a farm about five miles west of Greenville on U.S. 264 last night.

Living on the farm was Claudell McRoy. Frank M. Wooten was listed as owner. Firemen reported that the building was beyond saving when they arrived.

A truck was dispatched around 12:55 a.m. and it returned at 2 a.m.

Shortly after 9 o'clock last night firemen answered a call to the home of Bob Greene at 416 E. Ninth St. A television set shorted out.

Jaycees To Hear Jeff B. Wilson

A trucking industry official, Jeff B. Wilson of Raleigh, will speak to the Greenville Jaycees at a regular meeting of the club tonight at 6:30.

The club meets at the Rotary building.

Program chairman is J. B. Kittrell Jr., who will introduce the speaker.

President Jim Boykin will preside.

Clear 2 Cases On Court Docket

Two cases were cleared yesterday from the civil docket of Pitt County Superior Court when a voluntary non-suit was taken in one case and an out-of-court settlement was announced in the other.

Dunn Building Supply, which had entered a suit against Heber Green and wife, Jessie D. Adkins Green, Frank M. Wooten Jr., trustee, and Eastern Tar River Credit Union, took the voluntary nonsuit. According to the complaint filed in the case, the building supply company was originally seeking $428.41 for building materials furnished to the defendant.

The out-of-court settlement was announced in a suit brought by P. L. Goodson and wife, Hortense H. Goodson, against C. E. Fleming. In the original suit, Goodson and his wife sought to recover a total of $2,910 from Fleming. The money, according to the complaint, was due under terms of a lease and for damages the complaint alleged was inflicted on the leased property.

In a counter-suit, Fleming had sought to recover $2,000 from Goodson and his wife.

Buys Registered Guernsey Bull

PETERBOROUGH, N. H.—Roscoe Barnhill of Greenville has purchased the registered Guernsey bull, Allan ManorHera Leader, according to the American Guernsey Cattle Club.

The bull was purchased from A. C. Mims of Rocky Mount. The dam is Caumsett Indian Leda and the sire, Quail Roost Hilda's Maxim.

Await Ruling On Non-Suit Motion For One Convict

RALEIGH (AP) — Superior Court Judge C. W. Hall was expected to rule today on a motion for nonsuit in the case of one of nine Central Prison convicts charged with killing another prisoner.

Attorneys for the nine prisoners entered motions for non-suits yesterday. Judge Hall denied either of them, but reserved a ruling in the case of James Gregory of Mobile, Ala.

The motions came after the state had wound up its presentation of evidence in the eight-day trial.

The defendants are charged with first degree murder in the knifing of Martin Chavis, a Robeson County Indian who was serving life for murder. The slaying took place at a weather shed in the prison yard July 30.

Rivalry in the operation of two drug rings at the prison was disclosed in testimony yesterday. Carl Vaughn, 24, serving three to five years for involuntary manslaughter, told the jury in Wake Superior Court that he sold drugs to Chavis.

According to testimony, Chavis had previously bought drugs from Edward Turcotte, 31, of East Providence, R.I. Turcotte and Joseph Brewer of New York City have been identified by witnesses as the men who wielded the knife in the attack on Chavis.

Another witness, Carl Shoaf, testified that Curcotte once asked him to come into the drug racket with Turcotte, but he refused.

He said that a few days before the fatal knifing, Turcotte "told me to quit trying to take over his business."

While he and Turcotte was talking, Shoaf said, Johnny Babson of Rockingham came to the door of the cell and "slipped Turcotte a shive." In convict language, a "shive" is a knife.

Shoaf said he got off the bed and told Turcotte, "It looks like you fixing to do me in." He added that Chavis then came to the call "and broke up the play."

Shoaf told the court that he (Shoaf) was then knocked unconscious.

Vaughn testified he obtained the drug pills from the dispensary in the Prison Administration Building. The pills were compounded for asthma and gave the prisoners an effect of heavy drowsiness or "a jag."

In addition to Turcotte, Brewer, Gregory and Babson, others indicted in the killing were Jacque Lee Schneider of Greensboro, Fred Day Bowmen of High Point, Olen Montgomery, Ralph Douglas Byers and Floyd Reeves, all of Winston-Salem

Dr. Haar Named To Heart Board

Dr. Frederick B. Haar of Greenville has been elected to the Board of Directors of the Coastal Plain Heart Association.

He will fill the unexpired term of the late Dr. Walter C. Humbert of Greenville and will serve until May when the general membership of the five-county association meets to elect new directors. He is the second Greenville man to become a member of the board, joining Charles Howard who is presently serving a term that will expire in 1959.

Dr. Haar is also chairman of the Heart Committee of the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society.

At the board meeting during which Dr. Haar was elected, S. B. Kittrell of Pinetops, chairman of the board and president of the association, announced that high tribute had been paid to the late Dr. Humbert, "in recognition of his distinguished services to the board and the association's work during the past two years." The context of the tribute was recorded in the minutes of the meeting and a letter of recognition sent to the Humbert family.

SALVAGERS KILLED

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP) — Ammunition exploded in a U.S. Liberty ship sunk in the Allied landings 15 years ago, killing nine salvage workers. A diver working on hulk 60 feet below the surface apparently touched off the blast.

Farm Bureau Drive Netted Nearly 1,000 In First Week

Farm Bureau's membership drive netted nearly 1,000 members during the first week, Ralph C. Tucker, chairman of the drive announced today.

Through Tuesday, Tucker said 958 members had been signed up in the county's 15 townships.

The Quota Is 4,500

"I was quite impressed with the number of members that have been turned in," Tucker said. "I think the great majority of farmers are realizing that we need an organized voice to speak for the farmers."

Tucker urged every farmer to pay his membership fee. The fees can be paid to township officers or they can be mailed to Pitt County Farm Bureau P. O. Box 726. Dues can also be mailed directly to Ralph C. Tucker at P. O. Box 401.

The drive chairman said the next report meeting for whites will be held Sept. 26. Negro solicitors are asked to report by Sept. 25. Negro solicitors may report to the Farm Bureau office or to Negro County Agent James Goode.

Of the townships reporting Farmville township has the largest number of members in the drive. With a quota of 525 that township has written 307 new members so far.

Belvoir Township has the lowest number. With a quota of 185, only one member has been written.

The county's townships with quota first and the number of members written second follow:

Arthur, 220, 38; Ayden, 440, 69; Belvoir, 185, 1; Bethel, 400, 95; Carolina, 350, 57; Chicod, 290, 28; Falkland, 275, 64; Farmville, 525, 307; Fountain, 185, 32; Greenville, 300, 74; Grifton, 255, 24; Grimesland, 200, 6; Pactolus, 250, 10; Swift Creek, 250, 83; Winterville, 375, 70.

The bald eagle, the American national emblem, is decreasing in population. Today they are most numerous in Florida and Alaska.

Prisoner Of Red China Lectures U. S. Youths

SHANGHAI (AP) — An American businessman-prisoner in Red China today lectured young American tourists for "breaking United States law."

Hugh Remond of Yonkers, N. Y. who has been sentenced to life on charges of spying, told the tourists he felt they were violating American law by coming to Red China in defiance of State Department passport regulations. The Americans were delegates to the Moscow Youth Congress who accepted invitations to visit this country.

Redmond, whose White Russian wife is in Milwaukee, Wis., told the Americans he had been badly treated at first and had lost all his teeth from beriberi. In the last year, however, he has been treated better, he said. Recently he has lived in a house separate from the city prison and has a private room. He can use the well-guarded grounds.

The news he receives, he added, was one-sided reports from the Chinese news agency. If U. S. Secretary of State Dulles was the "goon" he is made out to be by this agency, he said, he would have been kicked out of Washington long ago.

He said his health was not bad, but that he now has trouble remembering things. He declared, however, he had not worked for the Central Intelligence Agency, as charged by Red China, and that his sentence might be eased if the United States recognized the Peiping regime.

Redmond was arrested in 1951 but was not sentenced until 1954. The authorities charged at the time he was the "chief American spy" in China.

He was visited by 9 of the 39 youth delegates still in Red China.

Report Tobacco Yesterday Had $56.44 Average

ROBERSONVILLE — Robersonville's Tobacco Market sold 186,752 pounds of tobacco yesterday for $105,514.26, averaging $56.44.

Sales Supervisor Rufus Armstrong stated this morning that the average is a high for the season thus far. "The sale was relatively small but tobacco is selling as high and higher in some instances today," Armstrong added.

"We have a block sale today and anticipate the same for tomorrow. The tobacco is coming right now for both Friday's sales."

This year Robersonville has sold 6,106,746 pounds for $3,149,714.92 for an average of $51.58. Armstrong said he felt the market would reach the six and one-half million mark at the end of today's sales. "For the season we have set a 10 million pounds or over goal and feel like we've got a good chance to reach it," he said.

New Attorney Is Admitted To Bar

Maurice Alexander Biggs, Jr., a former resident of Greenville, was admitted to the North Carolina Bar this morning in ceremonies held in the Pitt County Superior Court.

He was sworn in as an attorney by his father-in-law, Judge Walter J. Bone, of Nashville. Judge Bone is presiding at a two-weeks civil term of Superior Court being held here.

Biggs will become a member of the staff of the Institute of Government in Chapel Hill where he and his wife, the former Barbara Bone, now live. His wife, at one time, was a member of the faculty at Chicod School.

The new attorney is a graduate of the Wake Forest College Law School and passed the examination of the North Carolina Board of Law Examiners in August.

Greenville attorney Kenneth G. Hite presented Biggs to the court. Biggs' acceptance by the court permits him to practice in all courts in North Carolina.

A SPARK DID IT

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. David C. Paisley reported a fire which destroyed their barn and milk house was started by a spark caused when their son David hammered a nail. The spark landed in some loose hay.
