Norway's King Haakon VII, 85, Dies Early Today In Royal Palace

Crown Prince Olav Becomes New Monarch; No Coronation Is Scheduled

OSLO, Norway (AP) — King Haakon VII of Norway, an old sailor who rode out the storms of invasion to reign for more than half a century, died early today in the royal palace. He was 85 and the world's oldest reigning monarch.

The king had been growing weaker in his fight against a circulatory ailment. Death came shortly after heart trouble developed at 4:30 a.m. (10:30 p.m. EST Friday).

Crown Prince Olav, regent of the realm since his father broke a thigh bone in a fall in 1955, immediately became the new king. —Olav V.

There will be no coronation. Norway's constitution provided that Haakon was to be the last king formally crowned in coronation ceremonies in Norway.

Olav submitted a written statement to a special cabinet meeting saying he had succeeded his father.

"I promise and swear I will rule the monarchy of Norway in agreement with its constitution," the statement said.

The 54-year-old Olav must repeat the oath orally after a new Parliament is convened in January.

Olav's son, Prince Harald, received the title of crown prince upon his father's automatic ascension to the throne.

King Haakon, a stately 6-foot-11-inch former Danish prince, had been in frail health for some time. Early this week his doctors announced he was suffering from a circulatory ailment and expressed fears for his life.

A medical bulletin said the king, who had been receiving intravenous feeding because of a throat catarrh condition, slept soundly until a few minutes before his death.

Haakon, born near Copenhagen Aug. 3, 1872, was the son of King Frederick VIII and Queen Louise of Denmark. As Prince Carl, he was a 24-year-old Danish naval officer when Norway invited him to become its first modern monarch.

Although he had never aspired to be a king, he agreed to accept if the Norwegians voted for a monarchy. In the referendum in 1906 259,563 voters favored a monarchy and 69,264 opposed it.

The new king adopted an ancient Norwegian name, designating himself Haakon VII. His infant son, then Prince Alexander, was renamed Olav.

Respectful of the democratic constitution, Haakon moved quietly in the background. He provided unobtrusive leadership at cabinet sessions and handled his ceremonial duties with courtliness and dignity.

Wilson Soldier Killed In Wreck

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Albert Melton, 23-year-old soldier from Wilson, N.C., was fatally injured yesterday when a car in which he was riding crashed into a guard rail and overturned on a road north-east of here.

Melton was stationed at Fitzsimons Army Hospital. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Melton of Wilson. Melton's wife, Ernestine, lived in Pittsburgh, Calif. Three of four other Fitzsimons soldiers in the car were seriously injured.

Faubus Withdraws Guard From Little Rock School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus withdrew the National Guard from Central High School last night and President Eisenhower today called it "a necessary step in the right direction."

Faubus' action came shortly after issuance of a federal injunction commanding him to cease using troops to block school integration. His attorneys immediately began exploring avenues of legal appeal.

"As long as this order is in effect and until its certain reversal on appeal, I will comply," Faubus said.

Eisenhower, commenting at Newport, R. I., on the development in the Little Rock integration dispute, said:

"The action by the governor of Arkansas in withdrawing the detachment of Arkansas National Guard from the Little Rock high school is a necessary step in the right direction."

"I am confident that the citizens of the City of Little Rock and the State of Arkansas will welcome this opportunity to demonstrate that in their city and in their state proper orders of a United States court will be executed promptly and without disorder."

The governor, in announcing his decision to remove the troops from the school, added with justification determination that he will appeal the federal injunction.

Faubus made the statement in an appearance on a Little Rock television program last night — while the troops were pulling out. Less than an hour later, a few state troopers and one automobile carrying two Little Rock policemen were parked beside the school. But the officers said they were not ordered there. "Just happened to stop by," they said.

The Little Rock School Board said a few extra night watchmen were hired, but no policemen.

Meanwhile, people in Little Rock are anxiously awaiting Faubus' next move, and looking to Monday morning when classes resume at Central High School and the question of whether the Negroes will try to enter.

And a great legal tangle appeared in the making. Guardsmen remained on duty at the executive mansion.

In his televised address, Faubus said, "I have instructed my attorneys to exhaust every legal remedy to appeal this order."

He was referring to the ruling yesterday by U.S. District Judge Ronald N. Davies, who said Faubus had "thwarted" the plan for integration advanced by the school board and approved by two federal courts. Davies then declared:

"The petition of the United States of America . . . for a preliminary injunction against Gov. Faubus . . . and all others named in the petition is granted; and such injunction shall issue with out delay enjoining those respondents from obstructing or preventing by use of the National Guard or otherwise the attendance of Negro students at Little Rock High School."

What can Faubus do by way of appeal?

One of his attorneys, Kay Matthews, said the exact procedure is not yet decided but that the appeal probably will be directed to the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis.

That is the consensus among legal authorities here.

However, they said, it might be possible, under a rarely used method, for Faubus to go directly to the U.S. Supreme Court. They said they believe he could approach a single Supreme Court justice, who, on his own motion, might grant a temporary suspension of Davies' injunction.

Does the injunction have any force—must Faubus obey it—while an appeal is pending?

Lawyers here said "yes" to the question.

However, they said, Faubus might be granted a quick hearing in the Eighth Circuit Court on a motion to suspend Davies' injunction until they can present arguments.

Matthews, explaining the sudden exit of Faubus' four lawyers from the injunction hearing yesterday, said they did not participate in the hearings because, as they contended, the U.S. District Court has no jurisdiction over the governor of a sovereign state.

Solicitor Argues Grimes Suspected Possible 'Affair'

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Solicitor Walter Cohoon argued to a Beaufort Superior Court jury today that J. D. Grimes Jr. was guilty of second degree murder in the slaying of Haywood Paul.

Cohoon contended that Grimes was "in a suspecting mind" when he found his wife and Paul, 47-year-old farmer, lying together, half unclothed, under a tobacco barn shelter.

Cohoon said the element of suspicion made the slaying second degree murder.

If Grimes, as he was testified, did not suspect anything, Cohoon said, the verdict should be manslaughter.

Court observers believe the case will go to the jury around 5:30 this afternoon.

Attorneys were given six hours for arguments and two hours were completed yesterday. Thus the lawyers were expected to conclude their arguments during the morning session.

Judge Joseph W. Parker was expected to begin charging the jury after lunch when court convenes at 2:30. The charging of the jury is expected to consume approximately 3 hours.

Customary action in North Carolina courts would rule out the possibility of a jury verdict being returned tomorrow in the Grimes case in Beaufort County Superior Court, should the jury require that much time to reach a verdict.

A Greenville attorney said this morning that state courts ordinarily recess on Sundays and holidays, although there is no specific statute which precludes a court sitting on such days. The attorney said that the status provided for extending court business to "the next succeeding day" when the last day of such business would fall on a Sunday or holiday.

Leroy Scott, a defense attorney, told the jury this morning Grimes should not be punished for the killing because "he's suffered the tortures of a thousand hells already."

Cohoon pointed out that the state made no effort to attack the reputation of the 42-year-old lawyer. "I would have gladly testified as a character witness myself if he had requested it," he said.

However, the solicitor told the jury, men of good reputation under some particular experience have committed crimes.

Judge Parker said he would submit to the jury three possible verdicts.

Grimes' defense attorneys, who were in trial in the slaying of Chavis, a Robinson County Indian who was serving a life term for murder, are Joseph Brewer of New York City, Johnny Babson of Rockingham, Fred Day Bowman of High Point, Jacques Lee Schriener of Greensboro, Olen Montgomery, Ralph Byers and Floyd Reeves, all of Winston-Salem.

Testimony yesterday by H. D. Speight, guard in the prison hospital, supported Turcotte's contention that he stabbed Chavis in self defense.

Weekend Flight To Donate Blood

BATESBURG, S. C. (AP) — Eighteen Batesburg National Guardsmen have been lined up for a flight this weekend to Minneapolis, Minn., to donate blood to a 3-year-old girl slated for a serious heart operation.

The prospective donors will be ready with sleeves rolled up when little "Cricket" Ridgell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Nowell Ridgell, enters the surgery at the University of Minnesota Heart Hospital.

The men are standing by, waiting for word of the exact time the weekend operation will be performed.

The flight will be made in the Guard's C47 transport plane.

Orders Teamster Election Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has ordered a hearing Friday on a move by rebellious Teamsters Union members to block what they contend is an attempt to rig the election of James R. Hoffa as union president.

Federal District Judge P. Dickinson Letts yesterday ordered Hoffa, retiring union president Dave Beck and other top Teamsters officials to appear on Sept. 27 to show cause why the election of union officers should not be delayed by temporary injunction.

The hearing date is only three days before the union convention is scheduled to open in Miami Beach, Letts said. The hearing would be held Sept. 27 if the lawyer for the Teamsters members seeking to block the elections serves the court order on the union officials involved before next Wednesday.

The judge acted yesterday on a petition filed on behalf of a group of Teamsters, mostly from the New York area. The rank and file union members were represented by attorney Godfrey P. Schmidt, who told Letts that Hoffa and Beck control the convention machinery and that convention delegates were illegally hand-picked to insure Hoffa's election as union president.

Schmidt said he wants the court to appoint a referee to determine when new convention delegates have been chosen by democratic means.

See Full Airing Before Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Diplomats predicted today the bitter charges exchanged by the Soviet Union and the United States on the Middle East this week will insure a full U.N. airing of the explosive issue.

Both Secretary of State Dulles and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko asked in their opening policy speeches that the General Assembly take up the Middle East question at this year's session.

Dulles said the Assembly ought to discuss the question in terms of the 1949 essentials for peace resolution. That measure called on U.N. member states to refrain from any threat or action aimed at impairing freedom of any other state.

Gromyko called on the Assembly to condemn the "dangerous policy" he said the West is pursuing in the Middle East.

There is no specific Middle East item on the Assembly agenda and the West is reported waiting to see what develops before bringing one in. There is a chance, however, that Russia or some Arab state might bring the issue before the Assembly before the West does. Syria has said it may bring charges of aggression against the United States.

Continue Offer More Evidence In Convicts' Trial

RALEIGH (AP) — Attorneys for eight Central Prison inmates charged with first degree murder continued to present evidence today as their trial moved into its 11th day in Wake Superior Court.

Edward Turcotte, 31, of East Providence, R.I., has admitted he fatally knifed Martin Chavis at the prison July 30 but contends he did so in self defense.

Others on trial in the slaying of Chavis, a Robinson County Indian who was serving a life term for murder, are Joseph Brewer of New York City, Johnny Babson of Rockingham, Fred Day Bowman of High Point, Jacques Lee Schriener of Greensboro, Olen Montgomery, Ralph Byers and Floyd Reeves, all of Winston-Salem.

Snark Missile Takes Off On Test Flight

A Snark missile leaves its launching platform during tests by Northrop Aircraft Company which is producing the weapon at plant in Hawthorne, Calif. Rocket boosters flame brightly as the Snark heads skyward. Northrop did not disclose where the testing took place. Meanwhile, the Air Force in Washington announced its first Intercontinental Missile Squadron will be ready to operate the Snarks before the end of the year. The squadron will be manned by 500 officers and men, most of whom are now in training at the Northrop plant in California. (AP Wirephoto).

Senators Rap Reduction Of U. S. Armed Strength

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) said today the Eisenhower administration may be "placing economy ahead of our security" in reducing the strength of the armed forces.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said at the same time the Pentagon's orders to reduce military manpower by 200,000 men "would reduce our armed forces below levels approved by Congress."

"This has been done strictly by the administration without consultation with Congress," Jackson said in a telephone interview from Washington State.

The critical comments of the two Democratic senators were aimed at a new order, announced Thursday, requiring the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps to reduce their forces by another 100,000 men by next June 30. This order comes on top of a directive last July under which a 100,000-man cut must be completed by Dec. 31.

Taken together, the two cuts would lower total American armed strength to 2,600,000 men instead of the 2,800,000 authorized for the fiscal year which began last July 1.

Both Jackson and Mansfield said the administration apparently is ignoring what Congress considers to be the minimum military force necessary for national security.

Mansfield, assistant Senate Democratic leader, in a separate interview here, said the series of Pentagon economy moves will raise some questions in the new session of Congress starting next January.

"I hope the Defense Department knows what it is doing," Mansfield said. "Frankly, I am very much disturbed by this cutback in our air power. It means a reduction of from 133 to around 123 wings."

In discussing the new order Thursday, Secretary of Defense Wilson said it will mean the Air Force will have to drop at least four wings, that the Army will have to deactivate one more division and the Navy will have to take ships out of active service.

"It appears to me we are placing economy ahead of our security," Mansfield said. "In view of our worldwide commitments we will be playing with fire if we continue to disarm unilaterally."

Jackson said the economy cutbacks ignore the danger of localized or small wars.

"In the light of Soviet strength in conventional forces and the danger of localized aggression," Jackson said, "the free world needs a strong conventional capability to handle limited wars and keep them limited."

At his news conference Thursday, Wilson said he believes the United States has "gained on the Russians in relative military strength since 1953," despite manpower cuts and other economy moves. Wilson said this was because of "better weapons, including missiles."

Jackson, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said that as a justification for the manpower cuts, the acquisition of more powerful weapons "is no argument at all."

"Our strength must be viewed in relation to the strength of a potential enemy, not in a vacuum," Jackson said.

"Mr. Wilson neglected to say that the power of our new weapons is offset by new Soviet weapons," Jackson said Wilson "has not denied the possibility that the Soviets have fired one or more long range ballistic missiles."

Wilson said the Russians probably were telling the truth when they claimed last month they had tested successfully an intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM). But the defense chief said the Soviet announcement was the kind of general statement the United States could have made months ago.

He stressed a belief that the Russians do not yet have an operational missile, "but it is no comfort to us or our allies to have Russia fire even a test missile of substantial range."

"The real danger now is that the Soviets may get an operational long range ballistic missile before we do, and may have more operational missiles at any given time than we do," he said.

Jean Sibelius Dies At Age Of 91 In Helsinki

HELSINKI (AP) — Jean Sibelius, a brooding, mystical giant among the world's composers, died last night at the age of 91.

He spent many hours tramping through woodlands near his secluded home and watching the sky and clouds from his windows. Sibelius was born on Dec. 8, 1865, at Hamelina in central Finland. He began composing at the age of 10. After a fling at legal studies, he dedicated his life to music.

Judge Calls For New Haircuts

GREENSBORO (AP) — New haircuts in exchange for court leniency have been offered 13 youths here.

The 13, mostly teenagers, were charged in what police called gang warfare. Municipal Court Judge T. G. Warner told them they could expect better treatment from the court if they got rid of duck tail and hep cat hairdos.

Judge Warner continued the cases until Monday to give the lads a chance to visit the barber.

BABOON IN YARD

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. F. V. Rabel, finding a baboon picking pears in her back yard, practically telephoned the sheriff's office. Six carloads of deputies and humane officers responded to her appeal, captured the baboon, and returned it to a circus from which the animal escaped the night before.

First Confirmed Death Due To Asian Flu Reported In Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first confirmed death from Asian flu in this country was reported yesterday by the State of Missouri.

The U.S. Public Health Service estimated there have been 100,000 cases in the country to date.

Reports of new outbreaks in the United States and Canada continued to pile up.

In Puerto Rico the Health Department estimated there were 129,000 new cases of Asian flu in the territory during the week ended Sept. 14. Puerto Rico was believed nearing the peak of the outbreak.

Dr. H. M. Hardwicke of the Missouri Health Division did not identify the man believed the first confirmed fatality. The victim was stricken in California and reported to Missouri against his doctor's advice.

Southwest Texas State College at San Marcos was closed yesterday until Monday because of flu. The state health commissioner said predictions of a widespread Asian flu epidemic "appear to be materializing."

President J. G. Flowers ordered the college closed after more than 500 persons were stricken on the campus. There was no confirmation that the flu was of the Asian type.

In Colorado, more than 1,000 soldiers at Ft. Carson have been stricken with Asian flu. In Boulder, 671 students at the University of Colorado were at the infirmary with the flu.

The first cases at Ft. Carson occurred some weeks ago and laboratory confirmation that they were suffering from Asian flu was made public yesterday. At the university, laboratory tests were being made to determine if the virus is Asian flu.

Similar tests were being made in South Carolina where a respiratory infection hospitalized about half of two companies at Ft. Jackson. A total of 187 men are afflicted.

The public health service said increasing absenteeism in schools indicate spread of Asian flu in Oregon, Colorado, Mississippi and Texas. There also was industrial absenteeism in California.

In New York, the State Health Department has confirmed 146 Asian influenza cases upstate. There have been 12 cases in New York City since Aug. 7. The department is investigating the possibility that 1,162 other cases existed in the state.

Dr. Eugene Foley, chief epidemiologist of the Quebec Provincial Health Department, said "everything indicates Asian flu is active in Quebec." He said it was brought in by passengers aboard transatlantic liners.

The Lonely Man

By JAMES RONALD

CHAPTER 24

When Deborah Vail approached Scobie's converted shed, his dog raved and snarled at her, straining on the chain. It was a huge black beast, part Labrador, part mastiff, with an awesome set of teeth. His hackles were risen and the fierce teeth were bared.

Deborah said, "Good boy," soothingly, but took care to keep out of reach. The animal was not appeased. His objective seemed to be to get hold of her away from the pieces. It was reassuring to see that the links of the chain were strong. Deborah was carrying a small parcel. Opening it, she took out a piece of liver and threw it to the dog.

She had feared he might have been trained to reject food from strangers but from the way he snatched it down she surmised that he welcomed food from any source. She spoke to him again, a seductive crooning that commiserated with his loneliness and offered comfort. He quieted a little but regarded her with an unwinking stare as if speculating on the chances of getting her within reach.

While talking on and on, in a consoling murmur, he kept throwing him scraps of liver. He ate them voraciously and whined for more. When the paper was empty she made a ball of it, threw it away, and showed the dog her empty hands.

Squatting on her heels, so that their faces were on a level, she said, "Good boy. Poor old boy. Don't be afraid. I shan't hurt you." The words were ridiculous, she got well aware, for if 'good boy' got loose it would be a case of him hurting her, certainly not the other way round. Nevertheless, her sympathetic tone and obvious friendliness began to mollify the animal. He stopped straining. His lips hung down, hiding the fear-some teeth. His stubby tail began to thump against the wooden wall of the shack.

Very slowly, very steadily, Deborah put out a hand until it was close enough for the dog to smell and inspect. Now was the crucial moment. He might bite. If he bit, he might hold on. There was no saying what he might do. But Deborah all her life had felt a love of dogs and none of them had ever rejected her.

This one licked her hand.

"Good boy," she said again. "Good old Blackie-boy."

She stroked his ears, his skull, his neck, the long black back that had bristled with ferocity only a little while before. He responded to her almost feverishly, out of a long submerged but not yet extinct yearning for love.

It would not yet be safe for her to try the door. Almost certainly he would stop her in spite of their newfound friendship, for that was what he was there to do. She could not overcome training. He and instinct with a few morsels of liver and a show of affection. In any case, she noticed, the padlock was much too massive to yield to anything less than a sledge hammer.

Rising, she went to a window and peered in. There was nothing much to be seen except the stove and the table with remains of a meal, the bicycle, a chair or two, the tumbled bed and some orange crates full of tools and other odds. It would have been difficult for her to say what she had expected to accomplish by this visit, but she was not dissatisfied.

By the time she left the dog had become a friend and whined beseechingly after her.

"I'll be back, Blackie-boy," she told him. "I'll be back one day soon."

The gate was crudely fashioned from odds and ends of lumber. As she pushed on it, she glanced back and noticed a lean-to shed behind the hen run. With the idea that it might repay inspection she made her way to the shed across a waste of ragged grass and weeds. The door was fastened only with a hasp. When she dragged it open it hung at a tipsy angle from one hinge. Inside she found a heap of sacks, some bags of feed for the hens, and a few rusty tools hanging from nails driven into the cross-members. In the faint hope that something might be hidden under them she began to turn over the

REMEMBER?

Being a child isn't nearly so much fun when it's happening, as it is when you look back on it!

Somehow we remember, when we get a little older, just how much better strawberry shortcake tasted then, and how special each day seemed. We forget the scraped knees, the hurt feelings, the times when we were naughty and got punished!

Most of us belonged to some particular church in our childhood. Looking back, it often seems like it was the best church in the world. Yet... like so much of what we remember of childhood... it wasn't, really—BECAUSE ALL CHURCHES ARE WONDERFUL.

"In My Father's House Are Many Mansions." Jesus wasn't speaking of earthly houses. Yet, on earth, God has many mansions too. Your church... anybody's church... is one of them.

Go to Church this Sunday, especially if you haven't been for a while. You'll find that going to church now is a lot better than just remembering the church of your childhood.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

National Business Women's Week To Be Observed Here

By JULIA FISHER
Publicity Chairman for BPW Week

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES
The White House, Washington, D. C.

Miss Hazel Palmer, President National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs Inc.

Please give my greetings to the members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs joined in the annual observance of National Business Women's Week.

"Salute to Women Who Work" is a theme which commands the respect and appreciation of the Nation. In the last generation, the number of working women has more than doubled and they make an essential contribution to the business and professional life of our whole economy.

Your new office building is a symbol of your growing strength. Congratulations, and best wishes as you prepare to enter into its use.

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

Tomorrow, September 22, marks the beginning of National Business Women's Week.

'Car No Toy,' Says Champs

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

If you want to be a safe driver, start by enrolling in the driver education course offered by your high school, rather than learn to drive by ear.

So say a group of teen-agers who have won driving contests in the National Teen-Age Road-e-o, an effort that grew out of a Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting. This year 300,000 young people participated in communities throughout the country.

Charles Hopkins, 19, of Atlanta, Ga., the national winner, says: "Some kids never understand how dangerous a car can be until they get hurt. They'll get in a car when they're mad or not feeling too good, and then take their mood out on the car. They think that going fast will help them cool off. But instead they may wind up in a hospital. A good driving course will impress dangers on them and show them the advantage of safe driving."

"Lots of kids just think of a car as a play toy," chimed in Mary Jane Sawyer, 18, of McGeehee, Ark., a state champion. Her idea was echoed by Vivian Cox, 18, of Pueblo, Colo., also a regional winner, who says, "Young people are not mature enough to do the right thing in an emergency after they've gotten themselves in a jam by fast driving or taking a chance when passing another car."

The game of "chicken" (where two drivers drive toward each other head-on until the "chicken" gets out of the way) is all but extinct in Atlanta, according to Charles. He says, "An abandoned airport has been taken over for races and we have organized drag strips under the supervision of the police department for hot rodders, so that keeps kids from dangerous driving on public roads."

It isn't always the driver who causes an accident. "Sometimes a driver is egged on by another kid who is a passenger and who keeps taunting the driver to go a little faster," Charles says.

"Young people who take the course seem to take their driving more seriously," says Mary, who believes "women are just as capable of good driving as men although they are likely to be more emotionally upset when facing emergencies." Mary is the only one of the group who did not take a course but wishes she had done so.

Charles would like to see his driving instructor, John Crow, "get more credit for the wonderful drivers he makes. He's had winners in the Road-e-o contest each year," Charles says, "and has a natural ability to spur his pupils on to be better drivers. A man like that should be credited with saving lives," he says with fervor.

The contest starts out on a community level, then goes on to state contests, then to Washington for the finals. The youngsters who compete do not need to have taken a driving course. But it usually helps because of the involved test, join other clubs throughout the nation in observing this "Salute to Women Who Work." This year marks the 29th observance by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Week. It was first celebrated in 1928 when there were 10 million working women. There are now approximately 22 million working women in the United States.

Events in Greenville will begin with church attendance by the club members tomorrow night at the Immanuel Baptist Church. Following the church worship service, the club members will have a refreshment hour which will be held in the new home of club member Miss Mary Bell.

Several Greenville store windows—Merle Norman, Brody's and C. Heber Forbes—will be specially decorated to display merchandise and information of interest to business women throughout the week.

To Be On Television
The Greenville club has been invited to be represented on a television program over WITN at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, September 24.

Be sure to listen to spot announcements over Radio Station WCTO. These will be interesting "tidbits" of news and information.

During the week daily articles will appear in the newspaper to acquaint the citizens of Greenville and Pitt County with the purposes, objectives and activities of the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club.

As one of 3300 clubs in the 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii and the District of Columbia, the Greenville Club would like to extend an invitation to everyone to join in our "SALUTE TO WOMEN WHO WORK."

September Bride

MISS HAZEL MARIE LEWIS—is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie David Lewis of Vanceboro who announces her engagement to Bossie Elton Mills, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bossie Mills of Greenville. The wedding will take place September 28 at Black Jack.

30 Years Ago Today

September 21, 1927

A hundred or more persons from various sections of the county last night attended the regular monthly meeting of the Supper Club of the Pitt County Department of Agriculture conducted at Pierce's Schoolhouse, three miles west of Ayden. It was an annual ladies' night and a part of the gathering was composed of prominent farm women armed in behalf of improvement of rural homes.

The Greenville tobacco market sold 4,281,910 pounds of tobacco during the week just closed. The average was $18.19 per hundred pounds. The floors were cleared yesterday and congestion which has existed at the factories was said to be greatly relieved.

Club Delegate To Be At Conference

At their September meeting, the Renston-Nobles Home Demonstration Club voted to send Family Life Leader Mrs. Obed Castellone as a delegate to the Family Life Conference to be held at East Carolina College September 22-24.

During the meeting which was held in the Bethany Educational Building Wednesday, it was announced that Achievement Lay would be held November 14. Mrs. Brantley Speight, president, gave a report on the recent County Council meeting and reports were heard from the Home Beautification, Home Garden and Food Conservation leaders.

Following the demonstration given by Mrs. Lillie Little, home agent, members worked in teams selecting colors and fabrics for different rooms.

Seven members and one visitor attended.

Local N.F.L. Chapter Plays Host

By MARTHA JANE PIERCE
Reflector Teen Writer

Tuesday night the Greenville chapter of the National Forensic League was host to Kinston, Ayden and Belvoir at a practice speaking session.

Radio scripts and discussion groups were the two types of speaking judged that night. The two discussion topics were "Should A Man Be Sentenced To Prison For Drunken Driving?" and "Should America Take Steps To Cut Her Foreign Aid Drastically?"

MARTHA

The National Forensic League is a speech club that is active on the local and national levels.

It offers opportunities to students to learn to speak before groups and to improve their speaking ability. It has been an outstanding club at Greenville High School for a long time and was organized by R. B. Stirling, present advisor.

Trips to contests in Winston-Salem, Raleigh and South Carolina offer the members of the N.F.L. a chance to meet and work with many students.

Congress sessions are sponsored by the N.F.L. two or three times a year. At these congresses students present bills and resolutions that are being debated in Congress in Washington, D. C. Outstanding members of these congresses are chosen to attend the national N.F.L. congress.

At contests such as the one Tuesday night students get points for participating. The number of points they get is determined by how well they give their presentation and how many schools are present.

School Spirit
To promote school spirit, the Student Council had "Beat Kinston" cards printed for the game last night. They were sold to the students Thursday and Friday for three cents each. The Greenville fans definitely had school spirit as they cheered the Phantoms on to victory against the Red Devils.

The council also had similar cards printed to be used at the basketball and football games of all the school's close rivals.

Senior Class Officers
Ed Buchanan will be leading the senior class as president this year. Robert Howell will be vice-president. Ray Lane has been elected secretary and Kelly Barnhill, who served as treasurer for the past two years, will again serve as treasurer.

The officers were elected in a class meeting in the library Friday morning.

Slumber Party
After the game with Jacksonville last Friday night eleven freshmen girls went to a slumber party at Alvaine Bass' house. The girls present for this were Linda Gaskins, Kathryn Winchester, Margy Bryant, Alice Cannon, Betty Bryant, Betty Ann Carawan, Dorothy Sullivan, Linda Hunnings, Donna Kay Cain and Donna Lusk.

Church Will Have Family Night

The Rev. L. C. Vereen, pastor of Farmville Methodist Church, will lead the Fellowship Hour for Family Night at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Wednesday night.

Supper will be served in the Fellowship Hall from 6 to 7 p.m.

by the Woman's Society of Christian Service which sponsors the Family Night.

The program for the evening will begin at 7:00. The Rev. Vereen will lead the group in some fun songs and games and the Rev. W. M. Howard Jr. will be at the piano for the song fest. Mr. Howard and Mr. Vereen have worked together in Methodist Youth Camps and Assemblies throughout the North Carolina Conference.

The Nursery will be open for the small children while their family attends the program.

A film, "Bible On The Table," will be shown from 7:30 to 8:00. The evening's activities will close with the families singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

New Faculty Wives Honored

About 40 new faculty wives were honored when the East Carolina College Faculty Wives Club met at the home of Mrs. John Messick on Tuesday night.

When Mrs. Alton Finch, president, introduced the honored guests she also extended an invitation to them to join the club.

Mrs. Messick greeted the 100 guests and directed them to the living room and sun porch where roses, gladioli, and mixed summer flowers were used.

During the business meeting the year's activities were discussed and the purpose of the club explained to the new members.

Guests for the evening included Mrs. J. H. Rose, Mrs. Ralph Garrett, and Mrs. E. E. Rawl Sr. Refreshments were served from an appointed table in the dining room covered with a lace cloth and centered with an all-red arrangement of gladioli and roses.

Serving punch and other party dainties were Mrs. Herbert Paschal, chairman, Mrs. Percy Scott, assistant chairman, Mrs. Messick, Mrs. Thomas Halgwood, Mrs. Charles Risher, Mrs. Joe Steelman, Mrs. Herb Carter, Mrs. Fleming Moore, Mrs. Donald Hayes, Mrs. John Navarre, Mrs. Ed Hirschburg, Mrs. J. O. Derrick and Mrs. C. C. Dawson, hostesses for the evening.

Television's Impact Being Felt

By BOB THOMAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (P)—The thing that impresses you on revisiting Las Vegas is the impact of television on the American entertainment scene.

When I first came to Las Vegas a dozen years ago, the starring entertainers were the night club vets. Later the Strip hotels went all-out for movie names. Now it's TV.

Entertainers who have made their names on TV can earn top salaries here. But the remarkable change here is how TV has brought slicker, smarter entertainment.

The Tropicana is offering an original musical, scored by Gordon Jenkins and starring Vivian Blaine and Dick Shawn.

Victor Borge is presenting his offbeat comedy and unbeatable pianistic at the Sahara. He is the only person onstage during the show, a precedent in Las Vegas. Such a thing would have been impossible before Borge attracted a wide and admiring audience on TV.

Jan Peerce, a Metropolitan Opera tenor with TV exposure headlines the show at the Desert Inn. The pep audience applauds his arias with the fervor of a Met clique.

Milton Berle, Mr. Television himself, offers at El Rancho Vegas a hilarious, if somewhat racist, version of what he used to do on the home screen every Tuesday night. Spike Jones, just off a 20-week run on TV, brought his zany troupe to the Riviera and is knocking 'em dead with a devastating satire of the Hit Parade.

Nat King Cole is doing some of his TV routines at the Sands. Another TV vet, Tony Martin, is headlining at the Flamingo.

Television's detractors have long argued that the medium puts forth a great amount of mediocre and poor entertainment. It's true. But it has also presented some very good things. And the secondary result has been felt in the field of live entertainment—audiences expect more and performers try harder.

Only two of the shows appeared to owe nothing to TV. They were at the raucous Silver Slipper and the elegant Dunes, which harked back to burlesque. The stage full of bare-bosomed beauts at the Dunes had the tourists wide-eyed.

KINSTON—It's already a successful year for Greenville football Coach Bud Phillips.

His scrappy Phantoms assured him of that last night by soundly thumping the Kinston Red Devils 6-0 here at Grainger Stadium for their first Northeastern Conference win of the year.

It's always been a good season for the Phants when they trip up the Kinston club, due to the heated rivalry that has existed between the teams for many years.

The G-Men were impressive in their first victory of the year, displaying a running-passing offense that rolled easily against the heavier Devil line and a defense that held the opponents in check all night long.

Spectators' Game
Both clubs played a spectators' game all the way. Kinston used the heavy multiple offense from the T and Greenville mixed up their plays with equally effective air and ground tactics.

The first quarter gave indication that the teams were closely-matched. Defensive play dominated in that period and carried over into the other three, except for the march that gave the G-Men their score in the second period.

Greenville had the ball in the second quarter with 3:45 left in the half. Paced by the running of halfback Charles Roberts, they drove from their own 40 to the Kinston 34. In two plays they lost back to the 40. An offside penalty moved them further back to the 45.

Quarterback Mack Roebuck punted from there to the Kinston 20 and it was the Devils' ball at that point.

Kinston quarterback Gene Anderson faded to pass on the first play and Phantom tackle Kelly Barnhill broke through to nail him with a teeth-jarring tackle that resulted in a fumble.

Barnhill pounced on the ball on the Kinston 14.

Phantoms Score
Halfback Charlie Roberts hit the line for six yards to the Kinston eight. In two plays, the G-men were thrown back to the 10.
Roebuck passed then to end Steve Noble to the one yard line to set up a Phantom first down and goal to go. Roebuck bucked over on the next play for the touchdown. He also booted the extra point but it was nullified by a 15-yard personal foul penalty. A pass play from the 17 failed and it was 6-0.

In the third period, Kinston made its biggest threat of the game, but a game and outweight Phantom line stopped the Devils cold within spitting distance of the Green goal.

The Phants took the second half kickoff and began scrimmage play from their own 43. Roberts picked up yardage to the Red 35 and Robert Howell carried to the 24 in two plays. They lost the ball on downs, though Roberts worked it down to the Kinston 20.

Kinston took over and marched to their 30 before the Greensies stopped them. Larry Croome unleashed a tremendous punt from there that wound up on the Greenville 12 yard line, a 48-yard kick.

Fumble
Roebuck fumbled on the first play and Kinston's Gaylor Randolph recovered on the seven yard line. John Cutler, 200-pound Devil fullback bucked for two to the five. Bill Cook picked up three more yards. Albert Crawford, Kelly Barnhill and John Boyd broke through to nail Cutler for a three yards loss on the next play. On the fourth down, the Devils threw an incomplete pass, losing the ball on downs.

Late in the fourth quarter, Greenville had the ball on their own one yard line and Roebuck punted out to the 25. A roughness penalty gave them the ball again on the 15 and he booted it to the 45.

With 40 seconds remaining in the game, Kinston made a last bid for the TD. A pass was intercepted by Robin Wilfong on his own 25 to end the Kinston threat as the gun sounded.

Team Victory
Coach Phillips and assistant coach Milton Reese praised their ball club for "a whale of a good ball game," and said that it was certainly a team victory.

The entire Phantom defensive team played particularly well and the offensive outfit turned in its best performance of the year.

Albert Crawford, John Boyd, Kelly Barnhill, Godfrey Oakley, Billy Cox, Steve Noble, Roebuck, Bobby Edwards and Charles Ross were outstanding defensively. Wilbur Owens and Norfleet Pelton also did good work in the line.

Offensively, the Roebuck to Noble passing game was a good combination, picking up most of Greenville's air yardage. The running of Roberts was perhaps the most noted ground work. Howell, Roebuck, Robin Wilfong and Rett Everett also ran well.

Going Into Play Today, Success Is A Success

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
What's to happen from now to the end of November is anybody's guess, but going into today's action the Southern Conference's 1957 football season had been an unqualified success.

Virginia Tech's impressive 14-13 victory over Tulane and Davidson's 26-7 rout of Catawba last night gave conference teams a record of four triumphs in as many starts against non-conference opposition.

Barring ties and some startling upsets, there is no chance this perfect record can survive this week-end. But whatever comes to pass, the conference is off to its finest start in many an autumn.

Last year, for the long haul, Southern Conference teams won only 16 games against non-conference foes while losing 28 and tying four.

The results of six more games were to be written into the record books today, all but one of them pitting conference teams against outside opposition.

On the program was league champion West Virginia's debut at Morgantown against Virginia. Another afternoon skirmish found George Washington visiting William and Mary for the first 1957 conference game.

Tonight, VMI opens at Tampa, Furman is at Florida State. The Citadel entertains Newberry and Richmond is at home to Randolph-Macon.

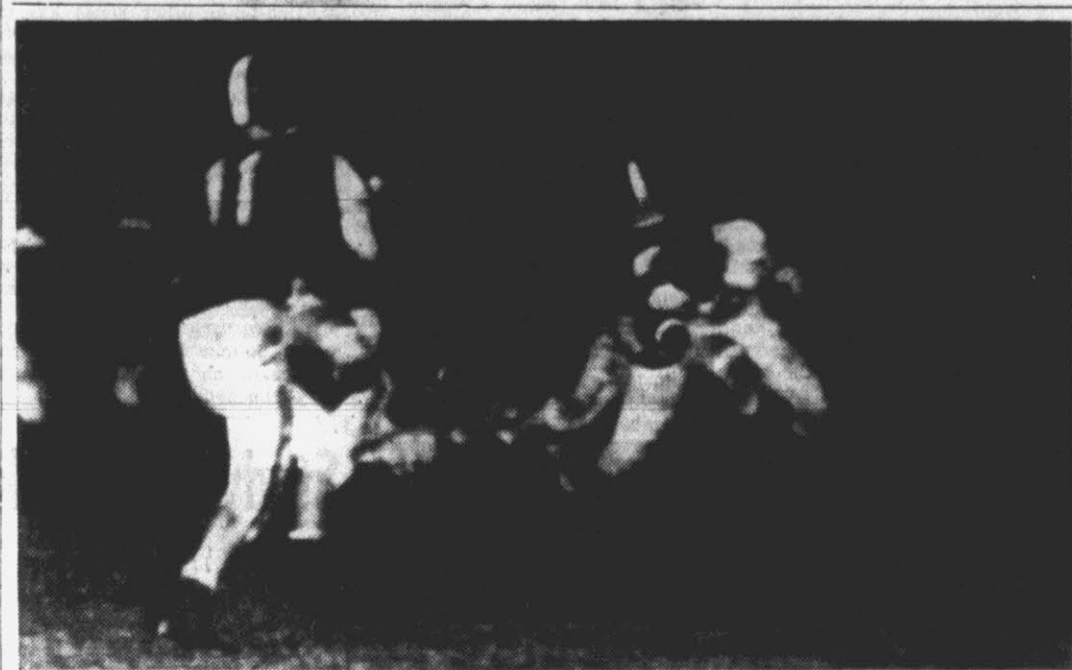

Even before West Virginia went to bat against Virginia at 12:30 p.m. (EST), the warning flags were flying at Morgantown. For last night's Virginia Tech victory over Tulane seemed to erase the last lingering doubts the Technicians are capable of giving West Virginia a stiff argument for this year's conference championship.

Dole's Wildcats Whip Catawba By 26-7 Margin

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Davidson College football coach Bill Dole was all smiles today over the impressive strength his Southern Conference Wildcats showed last night in defeating North State Conference Catawba, 26-7.

Quarterback Charlie Benson, Dole's only apparent solution to a signal-calling problem, passed for one touchdown and paved the route for two other scores. Sharp running by halfback Paul Barbee accounted for the fourth tally and bolstered the Wildcats throughout the game.

Catawba's lone score in the second quarter came when end Bob McKelvey blocked a Barbee punt and recovered it on the Wildcat one. Indian quarterback Lou Biachi bucked over for the score and Pete Stout converted.

ROBERSONVILLE TACKLERS STOP FULLBACK TOMMY EDWARDS ... Edwards scored three touchdowns to lead Ayden to 19-0 victory.

Ayden Trims Robersonville In Stunning 19-0 Contest

AYDEN—The Tornadoes of Ayden lived up to their name last night, rushing through a favored Robersonville team for a 19-0 Coastal Conference victory.

Fullback Tommy Edwards personally served the disastrous defeat to the visiting Martin County team on a silver platter by scoring all three of Ayden's touchdowns. The hard running fullback didn't fall backwards at any time during the contest.

Edwards personally gained 712 yards by rushing, 153 of which came in the first half. The only thing Robersonville could manage to do to successfully knock down all night was knock down four of his passes.

The Rams went into the contest favored heavily to rack up their third victory of the season. Ayden, smarting from a 14-13 defeat at the hands of Vanceboro last week, had ideas of their own.

After fumbling with first down on the Ayden 28 yard line, the visiting team was never in the contest. The Tornadoes scored once in each of the first two quarters and added a clincher late in the fourth period.

Ayden has now won two games and lost one. They meet Farmville's Red Devils in Farmville next Friday night while Robersonville encounters Vanceboro in Robersonville.

The favored Rams got the first break of the ball game when Ed Tommy Speller covered a fumbled punt by Halfback Clarence Mills on the Ayden 41. Wingback Shorty Gray got 15 yards on an option play to the 26 but the drive died when a RHS fumble was covered by Guard Don Bateman on the 28.

Edwards got two yards and Mills got four around Right End. A reverse netted a first down on the Ayden 40.

On the next play Edwards, running wide around his own Right End, behind good blocking, broke into the clear at the midfield strip and outran two Robersonville defenders in his race for six points. The extra point try was stopped but the Tornadoes had what they needed — the lead.

A fourth down gamble in the second period failed on an incomplete pass giving Ayden possession of the ball on their own 43 yard line.

The Tornadoes, led by the running of Edwards and Halfback Harold Washington, moved the ball to the RHS 35. Edwards made the key play of the series when he took a bad pass from center and gained 20 yards after it appeared he would be thrown for a long loss.

On the ensuing play, Edwards ran wide around Right End for 33 yards, and Ayden's second touchdown. At least seven Robersonville tacklers had their hands on him but could not hang on long enough for the whistle to blow.

Again the extra point was missed to enable the home team to leave the field at halftime with a 12-0 lead.

Robersonville, plagued with fumbles and bad passes, managed to keep Edwards and Company in check in the second half until a high pass from center gave the Tornadoes possession of the ball on the Robersonville 35 yard line.

Fullback Edwards picked up 10 yards and a first down to the RHS 25. Three plays were stopped by the Rams but Edwards passed to Worthington for a first down on the 14.

Five yards was registered by Edwards around Right End. A Backfield-in-motion penalty cost Ayden five yards but Worthington, behind good blocking, moved to the twoyard line to give the Tornadoes first and goal.

Edwards scored over center for the final touchdown. A pass was good to run the final count to 19-0.

The defeat could prove to be a costly one for Robersonville who lost the services of End Eddie Perry in the first quarter. Perry suffered a leg injury and was unable to leave the field without assistance. The extent of his injury has not been disclosed.

What a Hellzapoppin' weekend this is going to be in that National League pennant brawl! Anything goes today and tomorrow as Milwaukee's Braves shoot to pad their lead at Chicago and the scrambling St. Louis Cardinals battle to stay close at Cincinnati before opening a three-game show down at Milwaukee Monday night.

The kids are off the street now and it's officially a two-team race. Brooklyn's defending champs, last of the outsiders, have been eliminated and the Braves and Cards go to work on their last eight games.

The Cardinals, scrapping from behind for the third time in their last four victories, tied Cincinnati with a run in the ninth, then beat the Redlegs 7-5 in the 10th last night on Joe Cunningham's home run. They knew they had to do it—Milwaukee's 9-3 afternoon victory over the Cubs was up there on the Crosley Field scoreboard all the while.

The Braves, who now have won four in a row, cracked a 2-all tie with five in the seventh, then wasted no time in yanking their ace, Warren Spahn, when the Cubs managed their third hit of the game in the seventh and added a walk. Don McMahon hustled in and the righthanded reliever struck out six in the final 2-1-3 innings as Spahn became the first to win 20 in the majors this season.

With the victory, Milwaukee's magic number was reduced to "5"—any combination of five Milwaukee victories and St. Louis defeats "lays it for the Braves.

The American League race could be over officially today. The New York Yankees trimmed their magic number to "2" by defeating Boston 7-4 while the Cleveland Indians knocked off Chicago's second place White Sox 3-2 with two in the ninth. The Yankees lead by seven, with seven to go.

In the other games, Brooklyn was beaten 3-2 by Philadelphia and Baltimore blanked Washington 1-0.

The Cardinals took the lead on Del Ennis' home run in the second, but the Redlegs then chased Wilmer Mizell with four in their second and added another in the third for a 5-3 bulge before Larry Jackson, Morrie Martin and winner Billy Muffett took charge and blanked 'em on third hits over the last seven.

A pinch single by Walker Cooper gave the Cards a tie in the ninth and Cunningham, who had flied out as an eighth-inning pinch hitter, then bagged it against reliever Bill Kennedy with his ninth homer.

The Braves, who blew a 2-0 lead as the Cubs paired their two hits with errors and walks, sent 11 men to the plate in the seventh, getting the job done with five hits as Bob Rush lost his 16th.

Whitely Ford, staked to an early lead as Yogi Berra slammed a three-run homer and Hank Bauer batted in a pair, had a three-hit shutout for eight. Then Ted Williams hit a pinch home-run, his 35th, to open the ninth. Frank Malzone added an RBI single and Jackie Jensen hammered a two-run homer before Bob Glin came on to get the final out for Ford's 11th.

Righthander Dick Donovan built himself a 2-1 lead with a 410-foot homer in the seventh at Cleveland, then was handed a sixth defeat as the Tribe went to work for Don Mossi's 11th victory. Bookies Roger Maris and Dick Brown, who had paired a triple and single for a 1-1 tie in the fifth, opened with a single. A walk and Al Smith's fly tied it again and Bobby Avila's single broke it up. The other Sox run came on Earl Battey's second-inning homer.

By JACK STEVENSON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Venerable Archie Moore of the 1936 vintage winks when he says he'll fight for another 10 years, but young Tony Anthony won't say it isn't possible.

Ole Arch, who started fighting 21 years ago and may be 41 or may be 43 or perhaps older, slammed the 22-year-old Anthony without mercy last night to score a seventh round knockout and preserve his light-heavyweight title.

The champ reigned supreme in the ring at the Olympic Auditorium in giving New Yorker Tony a boxing lesson and again after the fight as he met newsmen in the confines of his dressing room.

Taking first things first, the champ says he would like to tangle with French-Canadian Yvon Durelle in a match for the 175-pound crown which he thinks will aid Uncle Sam's relations with Canada.

Anthony, on the other hand, battled a draw with Durelle and doesn't give the Canadian a chance.

Then Archie said he believes he might be of help to fat people, and probably would write a book on weight control.

Yesterday morning, as he battled to take off four ounces and make the light-heavyweight limit, he didn't have such a ready quip.

But after the fight he pointed out that his "secret Australian diet" had brought him down from more than 200 pounds in two months.

The titlist parried questions about any desire to battle for the heavyweight crown against Floyd Patterson. He lost via knockout in a fight with Patterson last Nov. 30.

Moore collected a $90,000 guarantee, including the $70,000 from national television. With a gross rate of $33,000 this left Anthony with less than $5,000 balm for his wounds under contract terms. Yet he did receive an education.

"He gave me a lesson tonight that I won't forget," Tony said in his dressing room before breaking down in sobs. "I hope nobody says anymore that I have a glass jaw."

If he had, the challenger would have gone down to stay long before the actual end. In the sixth, Moore staggered him with a right to the head and scored repeatedly with rights and left hooks. He had pulled a surprise earlier that hurt when he rammed home right hand leads.

Six seconds before the stanza ended, Moore decked the young challenger with a right and the bell rang before Tony reached his feet.

As the seventh opened, Anthony appeared to have recuperated, but Moore found him midway in the round and relentlessly slugged him with lefts and rights. Finally Tony went down and struggled to get up. Referee Mushy Callahan didn't wait but immediately declared Archie the winner by a knockout at 2:29.

Under California rules a referee can so rule instead of awarding a technical knockout.

The 172-pound Anthony won two rounds on the card of the referee and a judge but received only one from the other judge.

He didn't appear to hurt Archie, although the champ wore a mouse under his right eye from the second round on. In that stanza the challenger hit a low blow and cracked Archie after the bell, which annoyed the champion.

Syrian Officialdom Angry Over Statement By Dulles

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles' U.N. speech has aroused angry official reaction in Syria. But indications to date were that Syria and the Soviet Union are proceeding with extreme caution to prevent the situation from growing to a dangerous crisis.

Premier Sabri Assali and Foreign Minister Salah Bitar denounced Dulles' statement as a new indication of hostile U.S. intentions toward Arab countries.

In a speech to the U.N. General Assembly Thursday Dulles called on the U.N. to intervene in the Middle East, saying Soviet arms in Syria raised military dangers.

Bitar, before taking off for New York to head the Syrian U.N. delegation, demanded to know where was the great Syrian arms buildup of which Dulles spoke.

The Syrian arms buildup appears to be a long way from big enough to permit this country to launch any offensive action in any direction. Though soldiers are much in evidence here, much of their equipment still is of prewar vintage, and Syria seems to have a long way to go before replacement is complete.

Commenting on Dulles' statement, Premier Assali told the Socialist newspaper Alrai Alam the Syrian cabinet would study the speech. He said the speech contained "disturbing intentions" and differed from previous ones in which Dulles "tried to pretend he was retracting his charges against Syria."

"This new speech is the peak of a campaign of distortion against Syria and a campaign of threats against this country," Assali continued. "However, whatever the United States' intentions might be, Syria is fully determined to defend her freedom and independence under all circumstances."

The real aim of the United States, Bitar charged, is to keep the Arab world divided.

Southern Governors Go To Atlanta For Conference

ATLANTA (AP) — Early arrivals for the Southern Governors' Conference were in agreement today that segregation would be one of the top items for discussion, but in private conversations and not on the formal agenda.

The conference will get under way tomorrow evening at Sea Island, Ga., a fashionable coastal resort. However, many of the governors already are here for ground breaking ceremonies at the new Southern Regional Education Board building and to attend a football doubleheader featuring Georgia Tech and Kentucky and Georgia-Texas.

Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina, conference chairman, was an early arrival along with Govs. Frank Clement of Tennessee, Leroy Collins of Florida, T. R. McKeldin of Maryland, Raymond Gary of Oklahoma, Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia, Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia, and James E. Folsom of Alabama.

Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, storm center in the current integration crisis at Little Rock, said last night he would attend the conference.

Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana is expected in Sea Island tomorrow. It still was not known who would attend from Texas, Mississippi, and South Carolina. The governors were expected to send representatives if unable to attend themselves.

Early talks at the Biltmore Hotel, Atlanta meeting site, disclosed that the Southern governors apparently were not ready for an outright split in Democratic party ranks and formation of a new third party.

Hodges said he did not think North Carolina would favor a states rights movement. He added, however, that "There is a little more emotion now but I don't think the situation is any more serious than it has been."

Clement also could not see a split. "I still believe the Democratic party is the party of the people... While we have our differences, I think the Republican party has just as serious differences, if not more so."

Neither Clement nor Hodges would comment on a move started by South Carolina State Democratic Chairman Neville Bennett to oust national party chairman Paul M. Butler for his criticism of Faubus.

The governors also declined to comment on the latest moves at Little Rock.

ADA Spokesman Says Situation Near Disaster

NEW YORK (AP) — An official of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) said today the Little Rock school situation drifted "to the brink of disaster" and that President Eisenhower is largely to blame.

ADA national chairman Robert R. Nathan said the severity of the integration problem "can be attributed to the weakness and inaction of a President who either did not understand what was happening or could not bring himself to act."

Nathan's speech for ADA's New York State convention was prepared prior to the action last night by Gov. Orval Faubus in removing Arkansas National Guardsmen from around Central High School in Little Rock.

Faubus' action came after a federal district judge ordered him to cease blocking integration at the school. The governor claimed he posted guardsmen at Central High to prevent violence, not to block integration.

Nathan devoted much of his speech to criticizing Eisenhower's role in the Little Rock situation. "Surely the man who is the elected President of the United States must bear the greatest responsibility for allowing the situation to drift rudely into a stream of crises to the brink of disaster," Nathan said.

"His conception of the role of the presidency in a constitutional crisis seems to extend no further than the use of moralisms, clichés and platitudes."

"Instead of using the great power and prestige of his office, he has looked the other way while the constitution of the United States was being ravaged."

The ADA official suggested several possible steps the President might take concerning integration. These included taking a strong position "foreseeing behind the decisions of the federal courts," trying to rebuild bridges of communication between Negroes and whites by calling together responsible leaders of both races, and invoking "services of such federal agencies as the FBI and the office of education to make available knowledge and experience in desegregation."

The ADA describes itself as a nonpartisan political organization devoted to the principles of the New Deal and Fair Deal.

Rep. Bonner Speaks At Kiwanis Meeting

"We are facing a grave problem in our agriculture, and while the tobacco program is not altogether palatable, we must remember that tobacco is the backbone of our industry and the program should be improved — not wiped out," Congressman Herbert C. Bonner declared at the Kiwanis Club last night.

The first district congressman reported on the activities of the Congress recently adjourned. He said the rising spiral of inflation should be stopped. He discussed the budget and said that the only two items that could be cut were the armed forces (national defense) and foreign aid. As to foreign aid, he said it is of great influence if properly administered, but there are times when we wonder if the peoples of the nations being helped are not a little bit smarter than we Americans. The economy of some of the smaller nations we are helping are in better condition now than before World War II, he said.

Kiwanian Charles P. Gaskins had charge of the program and introduced Bonner. President Charles E. Blair presided.

President Blair announced that tickets are on sale for the annual Kiwanis Minstrel Show to be given next month for the benefit of the Kiwanis Club's underprivileged child program. Kiwanian J. G. (Scrappy) Proctor is chairman of the club's annual Christmas Fruit Cake Sale. Frank Steinbeck is chairman of the Kiwanis Committee to obtain donors of blood for the next visit of the Bloodmobile.

President Charles E. Blair called attention to the annual Carolinas Kiwanis District Convention in Greensboro October 6, 7 and 8.

I. B. Lake Raps Pearsall School Plan Activity

RALEIGH (AP) — Former Asst. Atty. Gen. I. Beverly Lake last night attacked the Hodges administration and the Pearsall school plan.

Lake charged that the Hodges administration, "primarily concerned with more and better tax concessions to big business, has allowed North Carolina to drift into the current of integration."

He declared that "if we do not exert ourselves strongly and quickly," the current of integration "will sweep us to disaster—to the destruction of our public schools as effective teaching instruments and the bringing to North Carolina of race hatreds and race violence."

Lake delivered his remarks in a telecast on RAL-TV here.

Lake, an outspoken critic of the U.S. Supreme Court segregation decision, commented on the action of the Charlotte, Greensboro and Winston-Salem school boards in admitting a few Negro students to white schools.

He said, "It is asserted by the advocates of this so-called moderate (Pearsall) plan for the gradual integration of our schools that the three city school boards improved North Carolina's legal position. What legal position?"

He said that "if the advocates of moderate, gradual integration mean the legal position of these three school boards has been improved, I concede that quick surrender to the NAACP makes a trip to the federal courts less likely. But in no other sense has the legal position of the Greensboro, Charlotte or Winston-Salem School Boards been improved."

He added, "Having admitted some Negro children to white schools, how are they in a stronger position to deny others similarly situated?"

Lake declared that "We cannot buy peace in our time" from the NAACP by admitting a few Negroes to white schools this year and a few more to white schools next year.

He said "the total price of such peace in our time is total integration of our schools and all other public facilities."

Congressmen In Political Mood

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With business in Washington out of the way, North Carolina congressmen are back politicking full force, attending fairs, tobacco auctions and dinners.

Rep. Alton Lennon of Wilmington visited two tobacco markets at Dunn and announced he planned to run for re-election. "I have tried the best I know how and if the people here think well about what I have done, I would like for them to help me again," Lennon said.

Lennon, the 7th District representative, said he would continue to concentrate on farm problems while he is in Congress. He said he supported programs designed to take pressure off the smaller farmers.

Rep. Hugh G. Alexander of the 9th District visited the Iredell County Fair at Statesville and had words of praise for Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas.

Alexander said Faubus' stand in the Little Rock integration controversy was "courageous," and added in his opinion the U.S. Justice Department is not "too anxious to compromise."

Alexander said he was opposed to the Civil Rights legislation and said in his opinion the legislation was "purely political."

And at Wadesboro Thursday night, Paul Kitchin of Wadesboro, the 8th District representative, said he does not expect any drastic tax reduction for years to come.

Kitchin told a Lions Club banquet that as long as the government continues to think in terms of billions and the national debt gets higher, there is no way to make tax cuts possible.

Kitchin warned that the U.S. is creeping more and more toward socialism. He said the federal government is making 151 grants-in-aid to states. These, he said, are taking away the powers of state governments and giving them to the federal government.

Study Outbreak At Ft. Jackson

COLUMBIA (AP) — A check is to be made to determine if an acute respiratory infection which has hospitalized at least 187 men at Ft. Jackson in recent days is Asian flu.

Officers announced yesterday that throat washings from some of the patients have been sent to the 3rd Army Medical Laboratory at Ft. McPherson, Ga.

The cases have been put in isolation at the fort.

The Army reported that the disease is mild. It is accompanied by head ache, muscle ache, sore throat, temperature and fatigue. Officers said temperatures become normal within 24 to 48 hours and five days.

Asian flu is similarly mild. Dr. Guyton said it would probably take about two weeks for laboratory examinations to determine if the disease is Asian flu.

A vaccine against Asian flu has been perfected, but the supply is still insufficient to meet the demand. Of the total amount to be made available through regular commercial channels, South Carolina has been earmarked for 1.4 per cent.

The army said 187 men have been hospitalized at the fort from Sept. 12 to 20.

Exchangites See Films Of Picnic

Movies of the Exchange Club's annual picnic at Bayview were shown to members of the club at last night's regular meeting.

J. S. Wells was in charge of the program and showed the picnic scenes and other movies taken along the Pamlico River site where the outing was held. Members of the club's Board of Control held a special meeting after the regular program was concluded.

J. H. Moyer presided and introduced Ray Alcock, a guest at last night's meeting.

Rammed House, Driver Ran Away

Police were searching today for an unidentified man who rammed his pick-up truck into a house and then took to his heels to desert the scene.

The truck hit a house occupied by Lula W. Fleming at 1009 Fleming Street. A brick pillar was knocked from beneath the house, but neither the house nor the truck suffered any serious damages.

Police officers W. S. Clements and James Gurganus said there were no witnesses to the accident. They added, however, that they have requested identification of the owner of the truck.

Warn Of Racketeering In Home Improvements

Investigate before you "sign up" with a painting contractor you can't find in your telephone book!

This warning to local property owners was issued by Sam Hayworth, president of the East Carolina Chapter of Painting and Decorating Contractors of America, after a meeting of the organization Thursday night in the Silo Restaurant here.

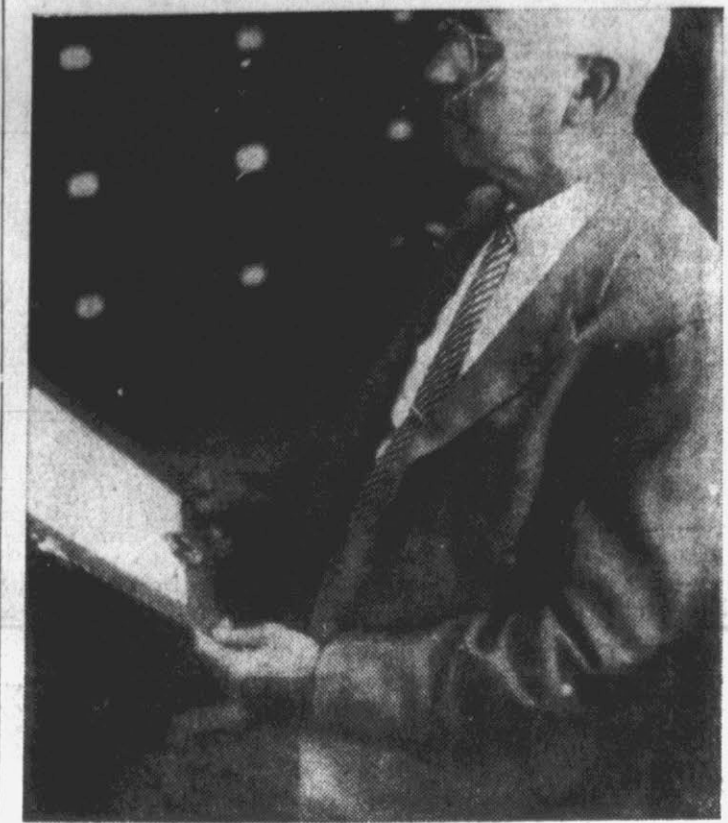

Hayworth said the national association has been studying "the unsavory facts about itinerant home improvement racketeers, still preying upon American home owners everywhere in the country after defrauding them of more than a half billion dollars last year."

Fraudulent home improvement operations have been called the No. 1 racket in the U. S. today, and there is mounting suspicion that criminal syndicates are behind it, Mr. Hayworth declared. "There are many gimmicks, but the result is always the same," Hayworth said. "One way or another, the property owner gets 'taken.' If the job is below today's costs, there's bound to be something missing in the result. If good quality materials are used, the cost may turn out to be as much as 50 per cent higher than a reputable contractor would charge."

Hayworth urged that all painting or other home-improvement approaches of this nature be reported immediately to the Chamber of Commerce, which is anxious to keep these rackets out of Rocky Mount, Wilson and Greenville.

"Don't deal with strangers on such important matters as the maintenance of your home," he advised.

Kiwanian Conley In Honor Legion

LEGION OF MERIT MEMBER CONLEY... And Certificate From Kiwanis International

Pitt County Superintendent of Schools D. H. Conley was admitted to Kiwanis International's Legion of Honor last night.

A certificate recognizing "30 years of service through an ever-changing period" and a gold, 30-year Kiwanis pin were presented to Conley by Judge Dink James. The Legion of Honor certificate, read by Judge James said Conley "... is hereby accorded distinctive recognition and the admiration and gratitude of his club, district, and Kiwanis International."

The certificate was signed by H. Park Arnold, president of Kiwanis International; O. E. Peterson, secretary of Kiwanis International; C. E. Blair, president of the Greenville Kiwanis Club; and John O. Reynolds, secretary of the Greenville Kiwanis Club.

Conley became a member of the Greenville club in 1924, but his membership was interrupted for a period of several years. He is a past-president, having served in 1939 as the local club's 19th president, and has also represented the Greenville club at Kiwanis International conventions.

Conley has been superintendent of Pitt County Schools since January 1, 1932. Prior to that, he had been a classroom teacher and principal at Winterville School for nine years.

Two Arrested In Bicycle Thefts

Police have arrested two persons on charges of larceny of bicycles. The two are Lindsey Ray Lowe, 16-year-old Negro, of Greenville Rt. 2 Box 226 and Charles Best Jr., 21, Negro of Greenville Rt. 2 Box 82.

Both will be tried in City Court. The two were arrested by Ptl. C. H. Stubbs and Ptl. John Kerr.

Charge Man In Knife Assault

Richard Bradley, 48-year-old Negro of 1615 S. Pitt St., has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

Bradley is accused of cutting Willie Morris with a butcher knife. Police said Morris received a four inch cut under the heart. He was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released.

The incident was said to have occurred around 8:45 last night.

Recreation Dept. Playschool Is Kept Very Busy

By ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Woman's Editor

During the year 144 pre-school age children attend the Greenville Recreation Department playschool at Elm Street Park without any cost to their parents.

At the present time 48 children are enrolled for this 12 week period which will terminate in December. This group is divided into equal numbers with one group meeting on Tuesday and the other on Friday mornings.

"In December, if we do not have enough applicants for the next period, we draw from our list of former playschool children," explains Mrs. Sam White, II, program supervisor.

Each mother is asked to attend playschool once during the 12 weeks and help supervise and furnish refreshments.

Reasons For Playschool-Treefold
Mrs. White explains the reason for this playschool are threefold—
"First, we felt it would afford as many pre-school age children as possible with supervised play and companionship with children their own age.

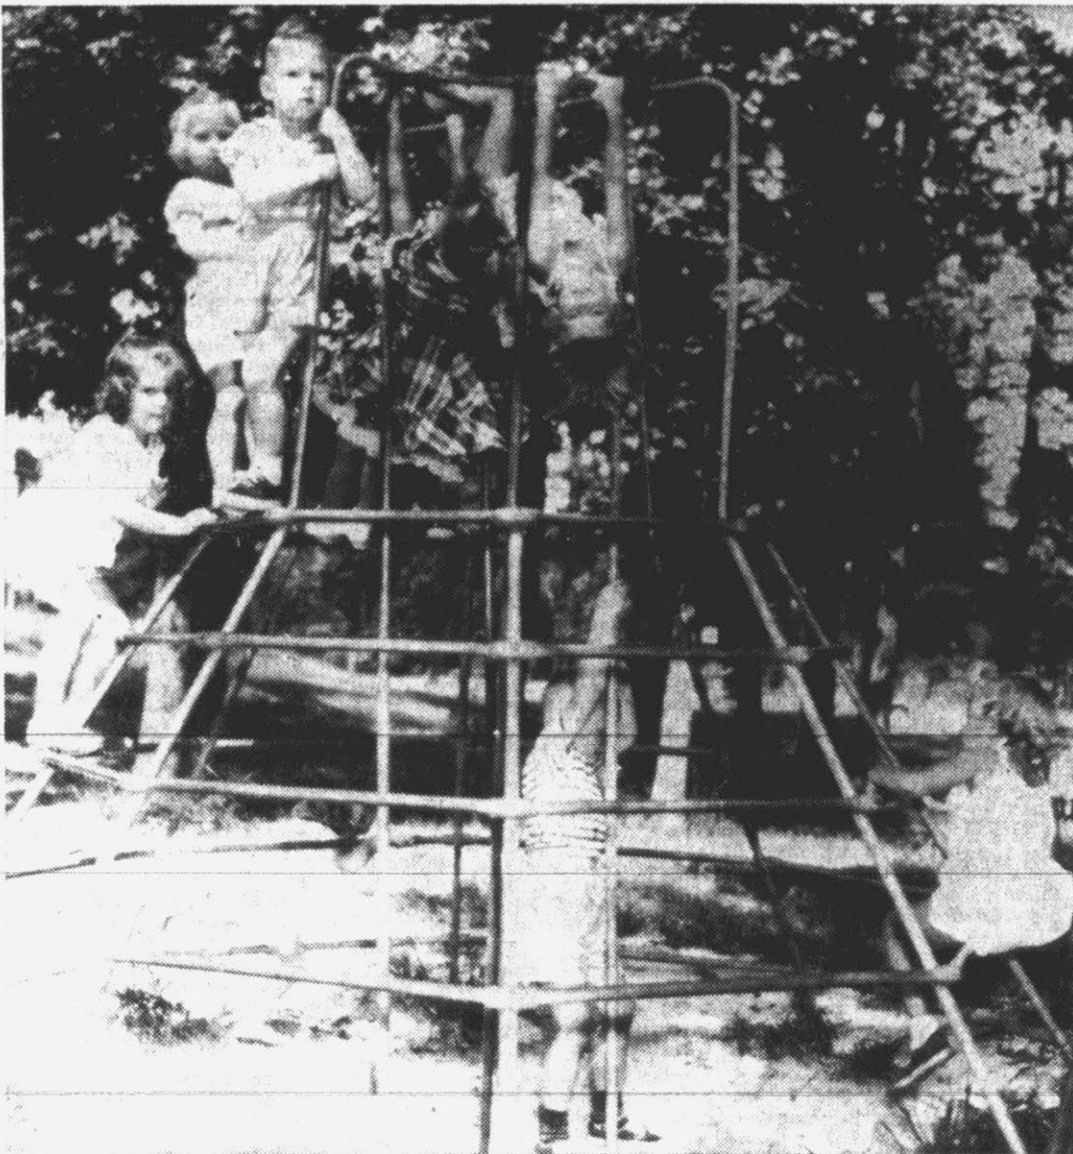

"Secondly, we started this program so that the young children would grow use to coming to the park and continue as they grow older to participate in the various activities we offer. Lastly, while the children are here the mothers have one free morning each week to themselves."

Looks Backward

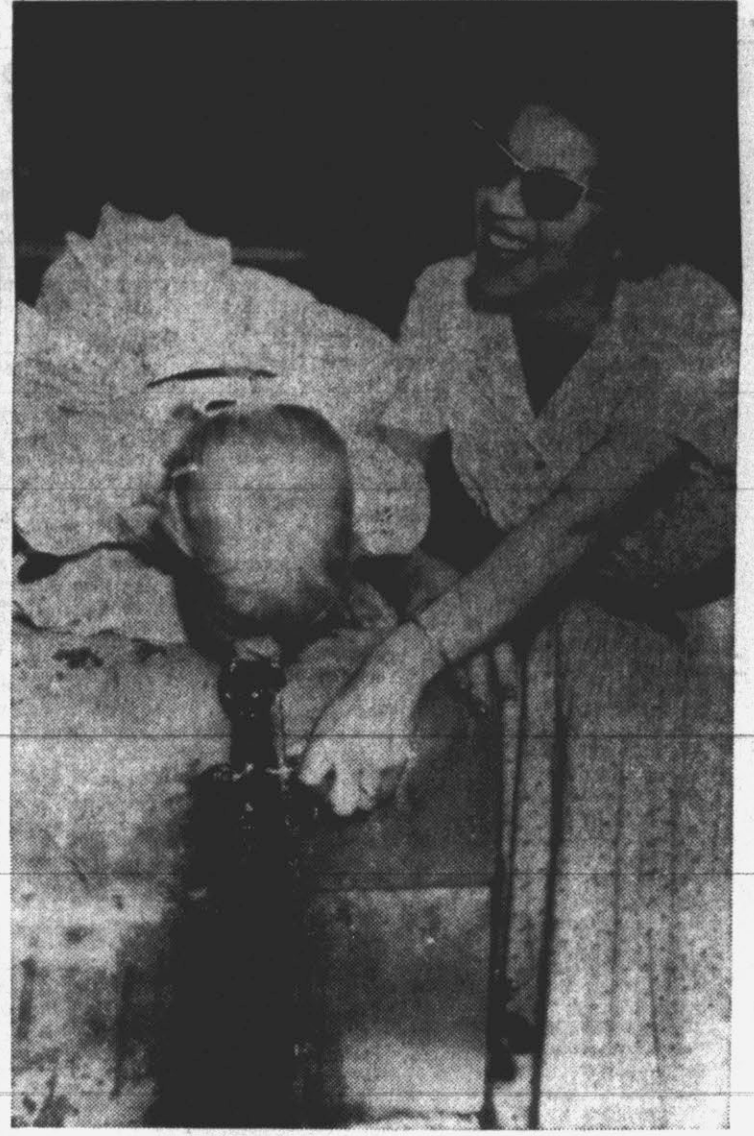

Looking backward, Mrs. White reflects on when the playschool first opened in February, 1956, with 14 children.

"At the end of five weeks we had 45 children and had to divide them into two groups like the present system," she says.

"This has been one of the most popular programs we have—this and the teen-age club," pointed out Mrs. White, who with Mrs. Gordon Goodman is at the playschool every Tuesday and Friday morning to supervise.

Many of the pre-school age children find the "Jungle Jim" an ideal place to demonstrate intricate maneuvers.

Water fountain is kept busy . . . Yvonne Bullock pauses for a drink assisted by Mrs. White.

Atomic Submarine Tests Vulnerability Of Carriers

By ELTON C. FAY

ABOARD CARRIER FORRESTAL—The nuclear submarine Nautilus is heading the U.S. Navy's mightiest carriers in a war training exercise which poses the question of flatboat vulnerability to undersea attack.

In Exercise Strikeback, biggest joint NATO naval maneuver, the atom-powered submarine is working with a force of conventional submarines against a large, high speed task force built around carriers and their antiaircraft defenses.

Sallying out from the shelter of the Firth of Clyde a few mornings ago was an allied task force of nine U.S. and British flatboats, protected and supported by a pair of battleships, several cruisers and a swarm of destroyers.

Their first objective was to race through a barrier set up by opposing Orange force across the strip of sea between Iceland and the Faeroe Islands. Manning that barrier, about 100 miles in depth, were about a score of submarines, led by Nautilus.

It was the first time Nautilus, a veteran of more than 80,000 miles of test travel, had been worked against so large and imposing an opposition.

The Navy seeks to discourage the idea that Exercise Strikeback may prove or disprove that long-range nuclear submarines threaten the carrier's security. Newsmen are assigned to Blue ships of the carrier striking force. Information on how the Nautilus and her submarine companions succeed in their attacks on the carriers comes through a public relations officer assigned to the Orange force of submarines and planes.

The point chosen for the opening phase of the 10-day operation is the place where strategists believe Russian submarines would seek to sortie out of the Barents Sea and south toward allied supply lines if a war came.

Exercise Strikeback obviously is patterned to dealing with an air force like that which Russia might have.

The Orange force consists of submarines, cruisers and land-based aviation—with no carriers. That is the picture military intelligence paints of Soviet naval and air power.

The U.S. Navy assumes that the Russians can build nuclear submarines, although there has been no evidence that such a boat is in their fleet.

An official "estimate of the Soviet submarine threat" circulated by the Navy says Russia has "an active force of 450 submarines, new and old," while production may be as much as 100 a year.

The estimate says: "The nucleus of this vast fleet is the large transoceanic submarine—a definite threat to the continental United States."

Chicod Grads In Leatherneck Co.

Two graduates of Chicod High School in Pitt County are members of a "Carolina Leatherneck Company" that is setting an outstanding record here at the Marine Corps' East Coast training center at Parris Island, S. C.

Ned Rouse and Jimmie Mills, both privates, enlisted in the company at the state capitol in Raleigh on June 26. They are more than 100 other far flung teenagers in the final two weeks of their 12-week training program here.

The company received the Depot Rifle Range Streamer for firing a 95.8 per cent accuracy while at the training center's rifle range for three weeks. The streamer is awarded to the company with the highest accuracy rating and it is held by that company until the record is bettered or until the company graduates.

After graduation during the first week of October, the company will be transferred to Camp Lejeune for four weeks of advanced infantry training.

Staff Sergeant Leroy Koonce of Fayetteville is the company's senior Drill Instructor. Koonce appeared in Greenville while the company was being recruited and received the company colors from Gov. Luther H. Hodges last May.

Christian Church Announcements
At the Eighth Street Christian Church Sunday morning the choir will sing an English traditional melody entitled "I Feel The Winds of God" and the pastor has announced to preach on the theme "The Imperative of Evangelism." Sunday school will begin at 9:45. The youth organizations will meet as follows: the Intermediate group, Chi-Rho, will meet at 5:00 o'clock; a light supper will be served by Circle No. 1 of the CWP at 6:00; the CYP and the DSP will meet for supper at 6:00 and have their programs following.

On Sunday, September 29, the Sunday school will observe Promotion Day as announced by Elbert Bennett, the superintendent. All classes through the Intermediate Department will step up one grade. On Sunday, October 6, will be Rally Day.

An interesting and most helpful Family Life Conference will be held in the Austin Auditorium of East Carolina College on September 22, 23 and 24. An open meeting will be held Monday night, September 23, from 7:30 to 8:15 when Dr. and Mrs. Harry Overstreet will conduct a colloquy on "The Home Is a Place For Maturing." Dr. Overstreet is the author of "The Mature Mind" and many others and Mrs. Overstreet is an author in her own rights. Greenville people should take advantage of the opportunity of hearing and knowing these resourceful leaders.

There will be an important meeting of those members of the Eighth Street Christian Church who have been considering the possibility of the organization of a new Christian Church in Greenville Sunday evening at 7:30 in the church. The Steering Committee will have recommendations to propose for discussion and action. All those interested are urged to come to the meeting when it will be decided as to whether or not there will be a new church.

Double Problem In Cardinal Mindszenty

BUDAPEST (AP)—Across the square from Budapest's Marx-Lenin Institute, behind the green blinds of the U.S. legation, Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty poses a problem for both the American government and Hungary's Communist regime.

For almost a year he has not left the island of U.S. soil in the heart of Budapest. The Communists have made it clear that if he does they will arrest him at the door.

The 65-year-old churchman lives in a comfortable three-room apartment designed for the U.S. Minister to Hungary.

Visitors to the legation's fourth floor, where the diplomats have their offices, sometimes catch a glimpse of a slightly bent figure in a black cassock and red skull cap. Sometimes he will nod and smile politely to a visitor he recognizes, but he does not speak. Officially he is incommunicado.

His only companions are half a dozen U.S. diplomats who take turns accompanying him on daily walks in a gloomy paved courtyard.

State Department policy is to say as little about the cardinal as possible and to permit no interviews. From what can be learned unofficially, he spends most of his time reading and writing. Every Sunday the cardinal dons his vestments and says Mass in his office-sitting room for a few Catholic employees of the legation.

Little has been allowed to leak out of what the cardinal thinks of affairs in Hungary and the world now. It is extremely rare for a non-American to be granted refuge in a U.S. legation and the Hungarian Communists are able to cite American rule books to show that it is technically a violation of American diplomatic practice to have him there at all.

Anything they could interpret as making the situation worse, from political activity on his part would be the legation's viewpoint.

He was admitted to the building on direct orders from Washington Nov. 4, 1956, with dozens of others seeking safety — mostly Americans. Russian tanks were rolling back into Budapest to crush the revolt. He risked arrest by the Russians or their Hungarian Communist allies, who consider him to be under sentence of life imprisonment.

It is believed on good authority that the cardinal does not want to leave Hungary. While he remains in Budapest he is a symbol of Catholic resistance to the Communist rulers.

Today's Alchemists Can Turn Gold Into Mercury

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Atomic scientists have achieved what the ancient alchemists tried vainly to do. They have transmuted one metallic element into another.

But today's chemists have reversed the goal of the frustrated alchemists, who struggled to find a get-rich-quick formula for changing mercury into gold.

Modern scientists have reaped a payoff proportionately more lush by turning gold into the rarest form of mercury ever produced on a commercial basis.

They transmuted a gram of pure gold powder worth about 77 cents into a gram of mercury 198 valued in the neighborhood of $3,000.

The project started when Bell & Howell of Chicago, manufacturers of photographic equipment, undertook to develop a super-sensitive measuring instrument for the armed forces.

A spokesman said the device uses light spectral lines produced by heated mercury.

Naturally occurring Mercury, composed of seven stable isotopes produces fuzzy lines when it is heated to a low and the light passes through a spectrum.

One isotope, however—mercury 198—produces fine and sharp spectral lines, permitting measurements with great precision.

Nuclear-Chicago corp. was given an order by Bell & Howell one gram of mercury 198.

The company's chemists had two avenues of approach—to attempt to isolate the isotope from the others found in naturally occurring mercury or to create it artificially by transmutation of another element. They decided the latter method was faster, simpler and less expensive.

The chemists bought 600 grams (nearly a pound and a half) of specially purified gold powder. Naturally occurring gold contains only one isotope, gold 197.

The company rented time and space in the Atomic Energy Commission's CP-5 nuclear reactor at the Argonne National Laboratory near Chicago and "cooked" the gold powder for nearly 10 months.

When it was removed, the gold was permitted to stand for an additional two months. During this interval, portions of the gold made radioactive by the bombardment of neutrons within the reactor decayed into mercury 198.

Then the powder, unchanged in appearance, was heated in a still. The volatile mercury was driven off as a vapor and condensed in a cold condenser.

If more mercury 198 is needed, the same gold can be put back into the reactor and another portion converted.

Nuclear-Chicago scientists said they believe this is the first time a non-radioactive commercial product has been made by transmutation.

Europe, Anyone?
Announcement was made to-day that U. S. Army recruiters in Greenville are accepting enlistments for the Third Infantry Division which will be assigned to Europe in the Spring of 1958.

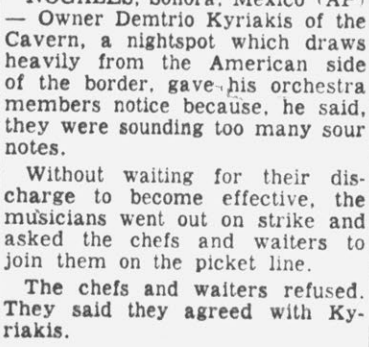

According to the announcement, men with no prior service are eligible for direct assignment to the division. Such assignments will be for the duration of the individual's enlistment.

Information about the direct assignments and other enlistment options are available from U. S. Army Recruiters in the Post Office Building. The office is open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. until noon on Saturdays. The recruiting office will be closed on September 26 and September 30, however, because of out-of-town assignments for local recruiters.

Unanimous As To Sour Notes
NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico (AP)—Owner Demetrio Kyriakis of the Cavern, a nightclub which draws heavily from the American side of the border, gave his orchestra members notice because, he said, they were sounding too many sour notes.

Without waiting for their discharge to become effective, the musicians went out on strike and asked the chefs and waiters to join them on the picket line.

The chefs and waiters refused. They said they agreed with Kyriakis.

SPORTY TOP—Douglas McLean, 13, models "chapeau" he created to win annual Dizzy Hat contest staged by the Boys Club of Washington, D. C. He used burlap, rickety and bird, chessmen and checkers.

Egypt Tightens Economic Belt; Living Costs Up

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt has tightened its belt to meet the challenge of what the government calls economic warfare waged by the West.

Egypt's economy was hit hard by events of 1956. After Gamal Abdel Nasser nationalized the Suez Canal Co. Egyptian assets of last November isolated Egypt from some of its major markets in Western Europe. American economic aid to Egypt was suspended abruptly.

As a result imports have been curtailed sharply. Increased exports to the Communist bloc have brought Egypt credits in those countries but little in the way of badly needed imports.

This has meant a sharp increase in cost of living. The peasant in upper Egypt pays more for his tea and sugar. Luxuries are disappearing from the market. Medicines are getting scarce. Commercial life has slowed to a walk. Unemployment is increasing.

In spite of all this, no one is starving. Food is abundant, and the primitive standard economy of the mass of Egypt's population is hardly affected by trade and foreign exchange statistics.

On paper, Egypt has shown an improvement in its trade balance. Minister of Commerce Mohamed Abou Nossair recently predicted a favorable trade balance of 20 million Egyptian pounds (56 million dollars) contrasting with a deficit in 1956.

This favorable turn is due largely to restriction of imports and expanded trade with Communist countries. Favorable trade balances with Communist countries won't necessarily improve Egypt's economy, however. These credits can't be transferred, and the Communist world has yet to prove it can supply Egypt's import needs adequately.

Supporters of the Nasser regime see a brighter side to the picture. Egypt should earn up to 42 million dollars in foreign exchange from the Suez Canal during the coming year. Talks with the French may open the door to resumption of trade with that country and recovery of one of Egypt's chief cotton markets.

Still No Verdict On Confidential
LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Confidential Magazine criminal libel case jury, bolstered with additional instructions, went back to work today in search of a verdict.

This was the fifth day of deliberations. The jurors returned to the courtroom yesterday afternoon and asked 13 questions of Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker.

Most of the questions involved intent of the defendants and the issue of obscenity.

The jurors asked Judge Walker if, in arriving at a verdict, they were to consider publisher Robert Harrison of Confidential and Whipsnapper and other indicted individuals who are not on trial. The judge told them that they were to consider only six defendants. They are Confidential and Whipsnapper, Publisher's Distributing Corp., Hollywood Research, Inc., and Fred and Marjorie Meade.

This was the second time that the jurors had returned to the courtroom for additional instructions since receiving the case late Monday.

Louis Johnson Today Is All For Defense Outlays

By ED CREAGH

Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP)—Guest who said this on Sept. 17, 1957:

"We must give our whole support to the national defense, cost what it may. We must announce our convictions that no price is too high to pay for the precious gift of national security."

Give up? Well, the man who said this in a speech to the American Legion at Atlantic City, N.J., this week is Louis A. Johnson, a former secretary of defense.

He is the same man who got bounced out of Harry S. Truman's Cabinet because his critics said he was pinching pennies too much.

There is no intention here to pick on Johnson because his views may have taken a 180-degree turn. The point is that times, conditions and opinions do change.

Political pressures do too, and this is something for Americans to be concerned about.

The past few years have seen backing and filling on defense policy to a degree that would have bordered on comic opera if the life of the nation hadn't been involved.

First Dwight D. Eisenhower became president and many feared that a general in the White House would want guns, guns and more guns even if the people didn't get any better.

As it turned out, Eisenhower put great stress on economy. So much so that the Democrats in Congress kept offering more defense money than Eisenhower was willing to accept. This was the pattern throughout the President's first term.

Then came the second term, and positions changed as in a game of musical chairs. The Democrats were crying out for big spending and wouldn't give the President all he asked. Complicating matters, it

Woman Ready For 5-Day Sleep
CHICAGO (AP)—A 38-year-old woman, fatigued because she's been sitting out for four hours sleep a night, plans to slumber for five days straight next week.

Impossible? Not under the power of hypnosis, believes Mrs. Fred A. Dust of nearby East Chicago, Ind., a switchboard operator and widowed mother of two.

She talked the Hypnosis Institute of Chicago into supervising the Monday-to-Saturday "hypnotic hibernation" so she can catch up "on all my lost bed time."

The institute hopes to gain some new scientific facts about sleep and relaxation as a result of the marathon nap.

Mrs. Dust came to the institute with the suggestion after her doctor advised her to take a long rest because of nervousness and restlessness.

Since she had only five days vacation coming, she figured hypnosis would be an excellent way to cram a lot of sleep into a short time.

Mrs. Dust says that since the death of her husband in an accident last year, she's been going "full steam" supporting her two children, keeping up her home and taking on a couple of outside interests.

The children, Mary Ann, 15, and Fred, 11, are all for the experiment. They'll stay with Mrs. Dust's mother during the five-day rest period.

Mrs. Dust, something of an amateur hypnotist herself, says she considers that she is an excellent subject. "I go under in seconds," she says, "and always come out perfectly relaxed."

"Somehow, life's problems always seem a little lighter afterward."

Mrs. Dust will take all her meals under hypnosis. She will undergo electrocardiograms, blood chemical tests and other examinations by a team of medical men.

"I'm expecting to get enough sleep to last me for another year of this four-hours-a-night routine I just can't seem to avoid," she said.

Bass Fingerling For Farm Ponds Issued Friday
Fifty farmers yesterday received bass fingerlings for their new farm ponds.

The fish were raised in the Hoffman Hatchery in the sandhills region by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service.

They were distributed under the supervision of the Pitt County Soil Conservation Service office.

"These 50 ponds were stocked with broom or bluegills last fall," said Pitt Soil Conservationist Connon Eagles. "Many of these farmers are fertilizing their ponds to increase production. The ponds range in size from a quarter of an acre to 25-acre pond built by Alex Allen of Farmville."

New ID Cards For Collegians
East Carolina College students are using this fall for the first time identification cards bearing their portraits along with other pertinent data and laminated to wear throughout the four-year college course. The cards are used by students for admission to campus events and for other purposes.

Approximately 1500 upperclassmen are now using the new ID cards. Since fall registration 1489 freshmen and other students have been photographed, and 350 or more additional students will have their portraits made within the next few days.

wasn't always possible for Congress to find out what he did want. So the defense budget for the next few years turns out—as so often in the past—to be a political compromise.

Meantime, the Russians claim they have a successful intercontinental missile. Eisenhower pretty much pooh-poohs the claim. This country fires off some big rockets of its own—and cancels some other rocket development for lack of money.

Total confusion? No, not total. There is a large measure of year-by-year understanding between the Pentagon and the committees of Congress which pass on military spending. Headline rows between Democrats and Republicans often obscure it, but it exists.

Is it great enough to insure an adequate defense in the future? Or is there need for Eisenhower and the Democratic leaders of Congress to get together, lay the facts on the table between them and decide without political considerations what must be done? Time is getting short.

Already, at his Newport, R.I., vacation spot the President is going over the figures for the 1958-59 budget.

Already, looking to the 1958 congressional election, the Democrats are talking about a tax cut. Are Eisenhower and the Democrats speaking the same language on national defense? It seems doubtful. The best way they could find out would be to ask each other.

RESOLUTION
At the regular meeting of the Pitt County Insurance Exchange on the 12th day of September, 1957, the following Resolution was adopted:

THAT, WHEREAS, Ernest L. Willard was a loyal and faithful member of the Pitt County Insurance Exchange and was unselfish in his devotion to the ideals, goals and ethics of the Pitt County Insurance Exchange, and took an active part in every worthwhile effort in its behalf in improving the ethics and public service of the insurance profession in Pitt County and the State; and

WHEREAS, he was a man of the highest integrity and character and, by his straightforward and unaffected devotion to his family, church, and to his profession, by his kindness and consideration for others, made life more pleasant for all who came in contact with him; and

WHEREAS, he gave his untiring service to all civic and public service projects in Greenville and Pitt County;

NOW, THEREFORE, be it RESOLVED that this RESOLUTION be passed out of respect for Ernest L. Willard and out of the deepest sympathy for his family and friends, and to express to them the gratitude for his service and devotion, and that this RESOLUTION be spread on the minutes of the Pitt County Insurance Exchange; that a copy be forwarded to the widow, Mrs. Mary S. Willard, and one to The Daily Reflector.

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

With the opening of the schools and colleges throughout the country, books are coming out about education and its problems in a continual stream. On its 100th anniversary, the National Education Association has sponsored its official history, "NEA: The First Hundred Years," written by Edgar B. Wesley, who traces the organization from its inception to its present status—the largest professional organization in the world, with a membership of over half a million teachers.

HIRSHBERG

The latest year-book of the John Dewey Society and deals with one of Education's big problems, both for the teacher and the public. "The Louisville Story" is a recent report by Omer Carmichael and Weldon James about the results of integration in the public schools of Louisville, Ky. Carmichael is Superintendent of schools there and James is an associate editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal—so the authors should know what they are talking about. "A Fourth of a Nation" is a discussion by Paul Woodring of several important issues confronting education today, and an attempt to formulate a philosophy of education that will satisfy everybody—which of course is impossible, but always worth a try.

Finn Din
Mark Twain's "Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" has been dropped from the approved public school textbook lists by the New York State Board of Education, and we for one take an extremely dim view of this action. Huck Finn has long been a classic American novel, considered by many Twain's best work both at home and abroad. The objection to it is based on his treatment of the main Negro character—who actually is the hero of the book and by far its best and most interesting figure. Maybe the critics up in New York ought to try reading the story again—it certainly does a tough job on some of the white folks who people its pages.

Sex Again
Coming in October, "The Old Farmer's Almanac Sampler" will be a selection of gems and quotations from The Old Farmer's Almanac, now in its 165th year of continuous publication. One of the sample quotes caught our eye, bookish as we are. It's from "Godfrey's Lady Book," dated about 1853:

"The perfect hostess will see to it that the works of male and female authors be properly separated on her book shelves. There proximity, unless they happen to be married, should not be tolerated." Let's take things easy up there on those shelves, Virginia Woolf and Bill Wordsworth!

Local Scene
Live drama, thrilling and real, is coming to Greenville again. The E. C. C. Playhouse will be putting on Paul Green's "The House of Conley" late in October or early November, and the Greenville Little Theatre is starting preparations for Agatha Christie's whodunit mystery that has been chilling London audiences for the past five years, "The Mousetrap." The local chapter of the A. A. U. W. will be the sponsoring organization for "Mousetrap," with benefits going toward its scholarship fund—so let's hope they trap money as well as mice.

Today's Review
ANY NUMBER CAN PLAY. By Clifton Fadiman. New York and Cleveland: The World Publishing Co., 1957.

This is the kind of book that you can open at random and find something that is quotable on any page you happen to hit. For example, concerning the sometimes forbidding subject of mathematics, Mr. Fadiman remarks on P. 145—"Just as there are no uneducable women but only inept men (an article of faith with all men and women) so we may say that there are no unmathematical minds but only nonmathematical teachers." And he concludes that most of us who hate math had the wrong kind of teachers—which could very well be true.

It isn't necessarily what Mr. Fadiman says in ANY NUMBER CAN PLAY that is so fascinating, but rather how he says it. The book is a compendium of familiar essays, a form of writing that has been dying out rapidly during the past few decades, because it is a form in which style counts more than simple content, and these days it is content—facts—that people want, not style. We hope that with this collection Mr. Fadiman has given the familiar essay a much-needed shot in the arm because for sheer reading pleasure ANY NUMBER CAN PLAY is a hard book to beat.

Here are some of the subjects the versatile essayist talks about: "Do Not Destroy These Originals!" a chapter about eccentric people, like the 16th century French humanist, Bude, who, when informed ed by his servant that his house was on fire, replied, "Go tell my mistress. You know I leave all household matters in her hands." In "Brief History of a Love Affair," Mr. Fadiman describes his encounters with the charm of wine-drinking, and concludes that the best inheritance a son can receive from his father is a generous supply of wine—"What good will 500 dull dollars do my son as compared with a thousand inherited bottles of wine, guaranteed to generate cheer and laughter and good talk long after my last swallow."

And so Mr. Fadiman goes on, discussing and playing with all kinds of ideas, dedicated as he is to the proposition that even in this agitated day and age there are plenty of people who can get just as enthused about playing with their minds as they already are about playing ball or playing the stock market. For fun, games and relaxation, take a crack at ANY NUMBER CAN PLAY.

SWANK—This cocktail ensemble of gold-plated lambskin is a shimmering sight. Creation, by Mac Douglas of Paris, was shown at International Leather Fair in Paris.

Has Short Cut To Destination

HONOLULU (AP)—Noel K. Kaal has found a fool-proof method of getting into jail—where he says he feels at home. The 56-year old unemployed laborer was released from a one-month term for refusing to pay for a meal he ate at a restaurant. Kaal walked straight to the Star Cafe and ordered beef from the menu. When the beef arrived, he announced he had no money. The proprietor offered to accept his hat for security while he went to get some money. Kaal firmly declined, and added he wouldn't move until the proprietor called for a police officer. Kaal drew 60 days.

Steverino Is Really Versatile

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There can be no doubts about Steve Allen's versatility. When he was late for an appointment, he explained he had been at the home of his ex-wife, who was ill. He had made breakfast, gotten their children off to school, cleaned up the house and had done the shopping at the supermarket.

Allen is here in his old stamping grounds for one of his Sunday night shows, which will be a preview of the new NBC TV season. Also here is his arch-rival, Ed Sullivan, and they almost came out on the same plane together. Both are staying at the Beverly Hills Hotel, but I haven't heard if the thoughtful management put them in different wings.

Is it coincidence that the rivals should be doing shows in Hollywood the same week? "I don't know," said Steve. "All I know is that we were scheduled to come out here long ago, so maybe Ed jumped on the bandwagon."

Isn't he a little bored by the constant comparing of the two shows? "Yes," he admitted. "All I'm trying to do is put on the best show possible. It's unfortunate we have to be thrown into a competitive situation all the time."

What are his current relations with Ed? "The same they have always been," he replied. "I knew him casually in New York. Once or twice I've done favors for him, replacing him on benefit shows he couldn't make."

Is he enjoying his work? "Absolutely," he said. "I'd do this show for nothing."

The nice thing about it is that I'm working with most of the same gang who did the 'Tonight' show with me. But on the 'Tonight' show I could come in a few minutes before show time and go on. It was five per cent preparation and 95 per cent ad lib. The Sunday show is the reverse."

Never one to stand still, Steve also keeps up his song writing, writing short stories, and recording. He has some smooth albums of piano playing and mood backgrounds on the market. And what does he do in his spare time? "I eat apples," he said, munching on an apple.

Sweeper-Swapper Had Explanation

GARDEN CITY, Kan. (AP)—Wayne Glacy's prize almost got away from him.

Included in a shipment of vacuum cleaners which arrived at Glacy's appliance store was a gold-finished sweeper. The machine caught the eye of a woman shopper and she bought it. Later, reading correspondence from the manufacturer, Glacy learned the cleaner had been sent to him as a prize for setting a sales record.

He got in touch with the customer and explained. She now has a new vacuum cleaner—a brown one.

TINY TRANSPORT

Man Sentenced To Brief Custody Of U.S. Marshal

BOISE, IDAHO (AP)—A federal judge yesterday ordered a man to serve his entire sentence in the custody of a U.S. marshal. It didn't take up too much of the marshal's time.

Alan R. Tendore of Pocatello, Idaho, declined to contest a charge of making false unemployment benefit claims under a federal act. U.S. Dist. Judge Chase A. Clark could have fined him $30,000 and sentenced him to three years in jail.

The judge said Tendore was supporting a family, had no prior court record, was attending college of Idaho on a scholarship and was accused of earning $3 weekly during weeks in which he drew $30 in unemployment benefits. Tendore also paid back the money when informed of the conflict of earning that much money.

Then Judge Clark handed down the sentence—five minutes. Tendore stayed with the marshal the allotted time, then went home.

FLEA INVASION
WACO, Tex. (AP)—Recent warm, humid weather brought another discomfort—fleas. Texas A&M College experts advised use of malathion dust or spray. The tough Waco fleas have built up an immunity to once effective DDT.
