GIs Escort 9 Negro Pupils Into Little Rock School

Two Men Injured As Paratroops Push Spectators Back; No Incidents; Some Students Leaving School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—One white man was clubbed and another stabbed with a bayonet in a clash with paratroopers who guarded the entrance of nine Negroes to Central High School today.

The clashes came after six Negro girls and three boys walked calmly under armed escort into the previously all-white school to attend classes.

A spectator identified as Paul Downs of Springfield, Ark., was stabbed in the arm by a bayonet when he apparently was slow in following orders to move on.

Soldiers said C. E. Blake, 46-year-old railroad employe, tried to grab a paratrooper's rifle. The soldier quickly reversed his hold on the rifle in combat fashion and the butt struck Blake over the eye.

He fell to the street. The incident occurred while troops were moving whites back from the school street.

There were no catcalls and no incidents as the students walked into the school encircled by soldiers with fixed bayonets.

Their entrance today in the calm atmosphere contrasted with the bloody riot that followed their attempt to enter Monday.

A number of whites came out of the 2,000-pupil Central High as the Negroes entered. The sign-out room, where students get permission to leave school, was reported full of white children waiting to check out.

A cheer went up as the station wagon carrying the Negro children cleared the barricades and stopped. The cheer came from a few Negroes watching from afar.

Inside the school, Gen. Edwin A. Walker, commander of the troops, told the students "I intend to use all means necessary to prevent any interference with the execution of the school board's plan" for integration.

He told the white students "you have nothing to fear from the soldiers" but added "this is what I have been ordered to do, and I intend to carry out my orders."

The entrance of the Negro students today contrasted strangely with their attempt Monday. Today the few spectators kept scattered by the paratroopers said nothing. Monday they screamed, cursed and fought.

Later the school said six Negro boys and girls entered the building to attend classes they've been trying to enter since Sept. 3.

The school said six Negro girls and three Negro boys entered the building to attend classes they've been trying toe nter since Sept. 3.

Earlier the tough paratroopers pointed stubby bayonets at clusters of white men and women today to keep a crowd from congregating at the school before Negro students arrived.

The troops made no threatening gestures. They simply lowered their bayonets and moved the clusters of people away.

Maj. James Meyers of San Antonio, Tex., told the few spectators "You are instructed again to return to your homes peacefully. Disperse and return to your homes."

The 350 battle-ready troopers were deployed to skirmish lines about the sprawling school.

Maj. Louis Breault said 1,000 men would be on duty at the school before the day is over.

Negro troops that rolled in with the convoy last night were not at the school and Capt. James A. Smith said "Gen. Walker is not ready to say how they will be used."

In his talk to the students Gen. Walker said Supt. Virgil Blossom had asked him to speak to them.

"One last word about my soldiers," he said. "They are here because they have been ordered to be here. They are seasoned, well-trained soldiers, many of them combat soldiers."

The troops, he said, would maintain "a peaceful atmosphere in the school and in the vicinity."

He cautioned that loitering, assembling in large groups and "otherwise making it difficult for them to perform their duties" may bring orders from the troops for them to disperse.

He pleaded with the white students for cooperation.

Loud Blast In Night Is Unsolved

A mystery rumble and concussion that struck portions of Pitt County early last night remained just as much of a mystery today.

Law enforcement officers were at a loss to explain the blast which shook houses, rattled windows, and assaulted ears. Officials at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, near Goldsboro, also disclaimed any knowledge of the blast which struck about 6:15 last night.

Reports this morning indicated that concussion from the blast was centered in the Greenville-Ayden-Farmville area. Reports were also made of hearing blast noises in the Eastern areas of the county.

No damage was reported from any point in the county, although the area apparently most affected by the concussion had a general shaking of structures and rattling of windows.

Police Chief S. G. Gibbs and Pitt County Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson reported this morning that their investigations have failed to disclose any clues to the blast's source. Captain Gerald Holland, Base Information Officer at Seymour Johnson, added that a check of the installation's aircraft showed that none of them were in operation at the time the blast was reported.

Early speculation was that the noise and concussion had been caused by aircraft cracking through the sound barrier, a process that produces an explosion known as a "sonic boom". However, no aircraft were observed immediately following the incident and Captain Holland said that Seymour Johnson's Base Operations Office could not report any planes in this area at the time.

Chief Gibbs said that his department received between 25 and 30 telephone calls last night, with the callers seeking information about the blast. The department's preliminary investigation included a check with the Washington Police Department which reported that the Beaufort County town had not received either noise or concussion.

A Greenville man, Larry Bryan, said he heard the noise while fishing on the Tar River about eight miles East of Greenville. He said, however, that he did not feel any concussion at the time.

Bryan said that the blast seemed to come from an area West of Pactolus, although other reports from the Greenville area stated that the blast was apparently centered somewhere Southwest of Greenville.

Captain Holland said the Air Force Base had not received reports of the blast from any other areas in Eastern North Carolina. He added that pilots assigned to the field are under orders not to crack the sound barrier while on routine training flights.

Hoffa Indicted

NEW YORK (AP)—James R. Hoffa, vice president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, was indicted today on five counts or perjury by a federal rackets grand jury.

The indictment charged that the 44-year-old union leader, a candidate for the presidency of the Teamsters to succeed Dave Beck, lied to the grand jury, during its probe into alleged wiretapping of Teamster headquarters in Detroit.

The grand jury also indicted Benjamin Franklin Collins, secretary-treasurer of Local 299, which is headed by Hoffa. It accused him of 12 counts of perjury in connection with the same investigation.

President Says Action Taken To Curb Mob Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower says he ordered federal troops into Little Rock, Ark., because "mob rule cannot be allowed to override the decisions of the court."

In a hastily scheduled radio-TV address to the nation, he appealed to the American people last night to unite in understanding that he had no choice but to dispatch the troops.

"Unless the President did so," he declared, "anarchy would result."

And he emphasized that the troops are there "solely for the purpose of preventing interference with the orders of the court" which directed the admission of nine Negroes to Little Rock's Central High School.

Eisenhower said he personally knows that "the overwhelming majority of the people in the South—including those of Arkansas and Little Rock—are of good will, united in their efforts to preserve and respect the law even when they disagree with it."

But he said at another point that "certain misguided persons, many of them imported into Little Rock by agitators, have insisted upon defying the law and have sought to bring it into disrepute."

In other nations, he said, "our enemies are gloating over this incident" and seeking to undermine the nation's prestige and influence around the globe.

He told why he flew from his Newport, R.I., vacation headquarters to the White House — "the house of Lincoln, of Jackson and of Wilson"—to explain the action.

"I felt that . . . my words would more clearly convey both the sadness I feel in the action I was compelled today to take and the firmness with which I intend to pursue this course until the orders of the federal court at Little Rock can be executed without unlawful interference."

Today he scheduled a return flight to Newport.

As he spoke last night 1,000 paratroopers flew to Little Rock. The 9,900-member Arkansas National Guard prepared for its first day under Eisenhower's orders federalizing it.

Their mission: to make sure by force of numbers of arms, if necessary, that "demagogic extremists, disorderly mobs" do not again prevent the seating of Negro children in the high school.

Eisenhower deplored the beatings and riots Monday, and the lack of sufficient action by local and state authorities to prevent them.

Gone was the Eisenhower who told a news conference last July 17 that he could not imagine circumstances requiring federal troops to enforce a court order because "common sense of America will never require it."

The Communist press wasted no time in affirming his reference to gloating enemies. In cartoons and editorials, Rome's L'Unita and Paris' L'Humanite raked Eisenhower with the same line: he acted with too little too late.

Demo Governors Of South Seek Save States Rights

SEA ISLAND, Ga. (AP)—Southern Democratic governors, alarmed by the historic movement of federal troops into Little Rock, Ark., sought means today of preserving states' rights.

The governors found scant comfort in the assurance by President Eisenhower in his televised speech last night that the presence of federal soldiers in the Arkansas capital would turn out to be advantageous and that the bayonets are not there to force integration.

Several possible courses of action were topics of immediate discussion by the heads of states in the last outpost of legal racial segregation.

Of the three Republicans attending the Southern Governors' Conference, two endorsed Eisenhower's stand and his action in sending armed federal troops into Little Rock. The third declined to comment.

The Democrats gave serious consideration to proposals by Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee that they name a committee to meet with the President and discuss the Arkansas situation.

They also considered a proposal by Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina that they adopt a resolution asking the President to leave the maintenance of law and order in Arkansas up to Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas as it "is considered to be the primary responsibility of the governor."

Gov. J. Caleb Boggs, a Delaware Republican, is chairman of the Resolutions Committee, which would act on the two proposals. He declined to comment on the President's address and had no comment on Clement's and Hodges' plans.

Another Republican on the Resolutions Committee, Gov. Theodore McKeldin of Maryland, said he would not approve any resolution "which even suggests the possibility of President Eisenhower's improper or unwarranted exercise of federal power."

The third Republican among the Southerners, Gov. Cecil Underwood of West Virginia, said he was unalterably opposed to the resolutions.

Clement made his proposal after, he said, losing sleep over the situation the night before. He suggested that a committee of Southern governors call upon the President and "submit at the conference table those things that would be resolved in the streets of Little Rock, or any other American city, by guns and bayonets. Surely a pencil, a piece of paper and a good heart can do more good than a gun and bayonet."

The human element cannot be ignored, Clement declared. "While the people of the South do not sympathize with 'mob rule,' neither do they want to face bayonets in the hands of fellow Americans," Clement added.

Informed of Clement's proposal, Hodges said it merited careful consideration and he then revealed a plan of his own.

Hodges said he had called the White House and urged that Faubus be given another opportunity to maintain law and order. His proposal is two-fold:

That the President notify Faubus "that the maintenance of law and order in that state, as in all states, is considered to be the primary responsibility of the governor and that the federal government will not attempt to exercise federal responsibility so long as state and local authorities are able properly to perform this function.

That the governor of Arkansas "act promptly, consistent with the law of the land, to restore peace and order" in Little Rock.

Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia declared he thought the Southern governors "should take immediate and positive action in requesting the President to leave the police power and the providing of domestic tranquility in the states to the duly elected governors of the states."

Subdivision Plat Has Boat Lagoon

A motor boat launching lagoon would be constructed between N. Elm St. and Eastern St. if preliminary plat plans presented to the Planning-Zoning Commission last night are carried out.

The lagoon, which would open into the river, appeared as a part of a residential subdivision plat which received the commission's preliminary approval.

To be known as the Johnson Heights Addition, the subdivision would be developed by the Willis D. Johnson heirs, the commission was told by City Manager Leonard Bloxam.

A section was set aside bordering the river which would be a park area and include the boating lagoon, he said.

The commission approved the preliminary plat. However, they entered a suggestion that residential lots be made larger even though they conform to the subdivision ordinance minimum size requirements.

Commissioners approved a recommendation of City Manager Bloxam and City Engineer C. A. Holiday that street profiles showing the original center lines and other data be included with maps of new subdivisions.

Bloxam said that the city is finding it must resurvey whole areas in older subdivisions when curb and gutter is installed.

In some instances it is found that the streets are too high and it becomes necessary to remove the pavement originally installed, lower the street and repace after curb and gutter are in place.

He said the city has run into the problem in Village Grove and Englewood. Elm St. in Elmhurst is above the lots in the area. The street will eventually have to be lowered to correct the situation, he said.

The board recommended approval.

Final action on the subdivision ordinance change must come from the City Council.

A final plat of Evanston, a subdivision to be opened on N.C. 43 behind Sheraton Place, was presented to the commission. However, the city engineer pointed out that lot lines had not actually been staked off. The developers were advised to stage off the portion which is presently planned for opening and to bring back a map of that section for approval.

City Manager Bloxam told the board that an additional street opening had been planned for College Court Addition to tie in with an existing street. The commission had approved the plat at a recent meeting.

Finally the commission recommended a public hearing on a request that lots in Village Grove facing Farmville Blvd. be rezoned as commercial area.

The request was made as a result of plans to re-zone other nearby lots at the intersection of Farmville Blvd., Watauga and Line Aves. A public hearing on that is now being advertised.

Southern Leaders Strike Out At Presidential Act

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Most Southern officials hit hard at President Eisenhower's decision to use federal troops to enforce school integration in Little Rock while Northerners backed his action as necessary to preserve law and order.

"Federal force must be used in this situation to put down force," said Adlai Stevenson, twice beaten by Eisenhower for the presidency. Stevenson termed the Little Rock situation a national disaster, but he said the President had no choice. He said Gov. Orval Faubus behaved irresponsibly in using the Arkansas National Guard to thwart integration.

A Southern governor, A. B. Chandler of Kentucky, agreed that Eisenhower had no choice. Chandler, an avowed candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960 said, "We can't have anarchy and mob rule."

Sen. Olin Johnston (D-SC) talked of armed resistance.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York said the President had "contributed to the making of the present situation" in Little Rock by not taking strong action at the outset of the school crisis.

"Any trouble we have from now on can be laid at the door of the President's complacency and policy of appeasement of Gov. Faubus while this crisis was developing," the New York Democrat added.

"This sort of totalitarian rule may put Negro children into the white schools of Little Rock, but it will have a calamitous effect on race relations and the cause of national unity," Russell declared.

At Sea Island, Ga., where Southern governors are in conference, Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee proposed a committee of seven governors from the conference to confer immediately with Eisenhower to seek a solution to the school problem without recourse to federal troops. Some of his colleagues welcomed the suggestion, but Gov. Theodore McKeldin of Maryland said he was opposed to the idea.

McKeldin defended Eisenhower's action as necessary and he was joined by Gov. Cecil Underwood of West Virginia. Both are Republicans.

Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina, conference chairman, proposed a compromise under which the President would not use federal force "so long as state and local authorities are able properly to perform this function."

Faubus, who returned yesterday to Little Rock from Sea Island, said state authority would have settled the integration problem in the Arkansas capital without violence if the President had left "law and order to us."

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) agreed with Russell that the action was "without authority of law." He said, "It may precipitate more trouble than it will prevent."

Governors Marvin Griffin of Georgia and James Folsom of Alabama called the action political. Griffin charged that Eisenhower "is a captive of the Republican political strategists, who are more interested in the minority Negro vote than the welfare of the people."

Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut and Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn) agreed that the President did the right thing.

Say High Court Must Reverse Convictions Of Two Commies

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department says two Smith Act convictions must be reversed in view of a recent Supreme Court ruling that defendants must have access to pertinent government files in certain cases.

The two men involved are Claude M. Lightfoot, a Chicago Negro who served as executive secretary of the Illinois Communist party, and Junius I. Scales Communist leader in Tennessee and the Carolinas.

In a memorandum yesterday to the Supreme Court the department said the two cases involved the same government records issue decided in the Jencks case.

Lightfoot was sentenced to five years in prison and fined $5,000. Scales got a six-year sentence. The Supreme Court heard arguments on their appeals last November, but on June 3 it set rearguments for Oct. 14.

It was also on June 3 that the court ordered a new trial for Clinton E. Jencks, a former labor official convicted of filing a false non-Communist affidavit. The court said Jencks should have been given access to FBI reports made by undercover agents who testified against him at his trial.

Congress last month passed a bill to let trial judges decide what parts of a government document, if any, should be shown a defendant.

The Justice Department said presumably any new trials for Scales and Lightfoot would be governed by provisions of the new act.

Crashing Bomber Strikes Residential Area; 4 Die

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Four persons were killed yesterday when a crippled B26 bomber, attempting to land with one of its two engines out, plummeted to earth a mile short of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base and crashed into a surburban housing development.

Authorities said the Air Force bomber destroyed one home, tore sections off four more, and started fires in two others. Debris from the wreckage injured one person.

Killed were the plane's pilot, Maj. James E. Melancon, 36, San Antonio, Tex.; his copilot, Capt. Wilho R. Heikkinen, 31, Ramsey, Mich.; and two occupants of the demolished house, Mrs. Mildred VanZant, about 40, and her brother Joseph Feisler, about 53.

Wright-Patterson officials said the propeller-driven plane developed engine trouble immediately after takeoff and was granted permission to return to the base. The aircraft approached the field from the southeast, authorities said, but during its descent, had to veer sharply to avoid hitting a high steel tower.

At an altitude of 70 feet, the B26's landing gear tangled in a high tension wire and the plane plunged into the housing development on Dayton's East Side.

The house "just seemed to lift off its foundation into the air," she said. "I saw the landing gear from the plane hit the garage and the garage collapsed. Within seconds the house was consumed by flames."

BETHEL—A fire of unknown origin destroyed a farm house in the Bethel Township last night.

The Bethel Fire Department answered the call shortly after the fire was discovered but could not save the single-story structure. Firemen report the house was located on the T. A. Whitfield farm about two and one-half miles from Bethel.

The structure was a total loss, they said.

The youngster was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by the Greenville Rescue Truck. According to reports he sustained only minor injuries.

He told officers that he ran out into the street in front of Cannon's vehicle. No charges were made by investigating officers.

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Tests were under way today to determine whether or not a rising number of influenza cases in Mecklenburg County were of the Asian variety. At least 48 cases were reported since last week.

City and County Health Officer Dr. M. B. Bethel of Charlotte said two-to-three weeks were required to determine if the cases were Asian flu. Priliminary reports on two county cases, he said, indicated Asian flu.

Mrs. Abeyounis Named President

BETHEL—The W. A. of the Bethel Pentecostal Holiness Church met in the home of Mrs. William Griffen Monday with Mrs. Griffen and Mrs. Jack Stocks as joint hostesses.

The topic of the program was a discussion of Foreign Missions.

During the business discussion it was decided the group would try to raise funds to purchase an electric sewing machine for the Falcon Orphanage.

A special mission service has been planned and it was announced that former pastor and now missionary to Costa Rica, Rev. John B. Parker, would be here for services October 10-13.

The pastor, Rev. Wiley Clark, took charge of election of officers for the conference year. The following were elected: Mrs. George Abeyounis, president; Mrs. Major James, vice-president; Mrs. James D. Nicholson, secretary-treasurer; and Miss Athaleen Rollins, assistant secretary and treasurer. Two members, Mrs. William Griffen and Miss Mary Rollins, were chosen to serve as board members. Mrs. Wiley Clark and Mrs. Major James were elected to serve on the Benevolence Committee.

Mrs. R. D. Whitley was remembered by the group as she was celebrating her 71st birthday.

A social hour followed when Mrs. Griffen and Mrs. Stocks served chicken salad, crackers, potato chips, cupcakes, pickle strips and fruit punch.

Celebrates Sixth Birthday

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. Lindsay Warren honored her daughter Patricia Wednesday afternoon with a party to celebrate her sixth birthday at their home on West Second Street.

Alonzo Roberson won the prize for pinning the tail on the donkey. After a play period the children were invited into the dining room where potato chips, chewing gum, ice cream and cake were served to the 35 guests. Each boy and girl received party favors before the goodbyes were said.

League To Discuss National Loyalty, Security Program

Different phases of the National Loyalty and Security program will be presented by nine people at the League of Women Voters general meeting tonight at 8 o'clock.

The meeting will take place at the home of Mrs. M. P. Bailey. Mrs. Robert Forney will discuss "Water Conservation," and Mrs. R. P. Rogers will give a resume of state legislative action in the last General Assembly. The education program will be discussed by Mrs. Michael Luskin.

Homecoming At Hickory Grove

BETHEL—The Hickory Grove Free Will Baptist Church was filled last Sunday with old and new members and their friends who came for their regular Homecoming.

The Rev. Willis Wilson, pastor, delivered the sermon, followed by prayer and songs. After the benediction a picnic dinner was served.

The Unnerving Side Of Economies

It's difficult to calmly appraise military manpower reductions and other cutbacks (in the name of economy) in defense spendings as decreed by the administration in Washington.

The actions leave one either with a growing dread of what it implies, or a sense of uncertainty as to how far it will all go.

The most recent order by the Secretary of Defense, according to Wilson, means the Air Force wlil have to drop at least four wings; the Army will have to deactivate one more division, the Navy will have to take ships out of active service.

Last July there was another such cutback ordered, which called for the armed forces to trim 100,000 men from their ranks. The new directive will lower total American armed strength from the 2,800,000 authorized for the fiscal year, to 2,600,000.

Such valued installations as early warning radar posts are also to be idled, and there's just no telling how much money for research and real "hardware" has been withdrawn.

We know full well that a government which fails to live within its budget is toying with disaster; but we also are aware that in these times too a country which fails to keep its defenses strong just isn't going to have to worry about future balanced budgets.

America's military and civilian leadership would have a big headache on their hands if they had to be prepared for just "one kind" of conflict. As it is, they have an even harder problem in being ready to wage that "atomic-missile-futuristic" kind of war as well as the "conventional" type. They aren't holding down those jobs to lose or earn a "draw", they've got to win, if . . . .

Cutting down on the forces that have that double chore is one of those "calculated risks" people talk about.

It's a risk that few like to contemplate.

When Ordinary Folk Become A Raging Mob

We don't like mobs.

We don't like mobs because their spirit erases decency, respect for law, respect for humans, respect for rights.

Mobs are inherently violent, they inspire violence and hate and rage and chaos. According to the mob code it is fitting and proper to physically assault anyone who doesn't agree with the mob, looks as if he or she doesn't agree with the mob, or stands in the way of a mob. A minister, a woman, a child, a law-enforcer, anyone can be their target . . . the old rules of right and wrong don't apply.

It is the nature of mobs to overshadow the good sense and law-abiding nature of the multitudes who are around them, and a whole community is smeared by the brush of mob rule.

Inflamed passions of the mob even contaminate the young, and encourage them to do likewise . . . an evil thing, spawning future wrongs.

Yet these selfsame creations of explosive violence are comprised of ordinary human beings, presumably God-fearing and ordinarily law-abiding, who can look at the distorted picture of a mob and say in disbelief,

"Who, me?".

Report On N.C. Superior Courts

By LYNN NISBET

COURTS — Bert Montague, administrative assistant to Chief Justice Wallace Winborne, has compiled a report on activities of the Superior Courts throughout the state during the fiscal year which ended June 30. He prefaces the report, first ever prepared for general circulation, with a brief summary of the Superior Court system. Some excerpts:

"The Superior Court is the trial court of general jurisdiction in North Carolina. The Constitution provides that there shall be a Superior Court in each of the 100 counties at least twice in each year. A schedule of courts for the various counties is established by the General Assembly. The counties are grouped into thirty judicial districts. The composition of the districts varies from seven counties contained in each of two of the districts to one county contained in each of six of the districts. A regular judge elected for an eight year term resides in each district. An additional resident judge is provided for the eighteenth district and for the twenty-sixth district. The thirty judicial districts are grouped into four judicial divisions. Each resident judge presides for a period of six months in the courts of each district within his division successively so that during a four year period he will hold court in all the districts in his division.

"Some districts have more regular court scheduled than the regular presiding judge can hold. Further, there is a provision for the calling of special terms where needed. Primarily to take care of these situations, four special judges are provided. They are appointed by the Governor, generally to a four year term, and serve in any county within the State, upon assignment by the Chief Justice.

"In addition to the regular provision for emergency judges. These are judges who have retired following the completion of a specified number of years service as a judge. They are subject to assignment by the Chief Justice to hold terms of court in any county in the state.

"The state is divided into 21 solicitorial districts. With two exceptions (the 17th judicial and 21st solicitorial, and the 30th judicial and 20th solicitorial), they do not coincide with judicial districts. A solicitor elected to a four year term is provided for each solicitorial district."

Montague points out that prior to 1951 judges were assigned and special terms of court ordered by the Governor. Pursuant to constitutional amendment ratified in 1950, the Chief Justice now has that authority. However, it is noted that the Chief Justice is not in fact the administrative head of the court system in North Carolina. He has been power only with respect to Sugranted only specific limited perior Courts.

STATISTICS —Eighty-two special terms of court were ordered during the year, and 28 scheduled terms were canceled, upon showing of need or lack of it for courts. The increased number of judges and greater effort on part of solicitors resulted in reducing the backlog of pending cases by 1,626 during the year. In view of the fact that 45,177 new cases reached the dockets, that is not a bad showing.

Most notable progress was made in disposing of criminal cases. The time is approaching, suggests Montague, that every person charged with crime can get his day in court within six months. The serious backlog is in civil cases. The report notes that more than 20 per cent of the 16,674 civil cases carried over are in two counties (1858 in Mecklenburg and 1667 in Wake.)

Montague, offers no explanation, but it seems obvious that one reason for the heavy load in Wake is that most actions involving appeals from rulings of State administrative agencies based in Raleigh are filed in Wake county. Mecklenburg is not only the largest county but many business firms operating throughout the state have their main offices in Charlotte.

It is noted that criminal cases are scheduled for trial by the solicitor, whereas civil calendars are prepared by the county bar association. Montague notes that most local bar groups have shown willingness to cooperate in clearing calendars, but suggests that further effort along this line is necessary.

COURT DAYS — In the state at large there were 7,050 days of court scheduled last year. The record shows 5,455½ days held for an average rating of 77.4 per cent.

By districts the 10th, comprising only Wake county with William Bickett resident judge judge heads the "efficiency" list, with 300 days scheduled and 280 held, 93.3 per cent. The 30th district, comprising Cherokee, Clay, Graham, Haywood, Jackson, Macon and Swain, with Dan K. Moore resident heads the "efficiency" list, with 300 days scheduled and 280 held, 93.3 per cent. The ties Caswell led with 25 days scheduled, 27 held, for 108 percent. Graham was at the bottom with 30 days scheduled, five held, for 16.7 per cent.

With respect to all these statistics, Montague observes: "It is perhaps best not attempt an evaluation and interpretation of the statistics since we do not have comparable figures for prior years to use as a yardstick in judging progress."

Billboard People Fighting Back

By ELMER ROESSNER

The outdoor advertising business is fighting back.

Few legitimate industries have been kicked around as much as the billboard business. The industry began getting egg-sized sumps more than half a century ago when club women, a little afraid of tackling the social problems of the day began denouncing billboards as something worse than cigarets and almost as bad as demon rum.

There are some suspicions that the clubwomen were urged on by magazine publishers who feared that billboards would get too large a share of the thin advertising revenues of the age.

Agitation has continued over the years. Efforts to tax and prohibit billboards have been made in almost every state. Bills in Congress would have kept billboards far from the new Federal highways. The bills did not pass before adjournment and outdoor advertising companies are hopeful that they will be forgotten next year.

SWAYING PUBLIC OPINION

Meanwhile, to gain public cupport on the intellectual level, the industry is whipping up interest in a touring exhibition of early American advertising posters. The exhibition is sponsored by American Heritage magazine and the American Federation of Arts, but beating the drums, magna cum very loud, is the Outdoor Advertising Association of America.

The exhibit of old posters, drawn from a great private collection, opened in Detroit and will appear in twenty more cities in the next two years.

"Outdoor advertising is as much a part of the American scene as the automobile and the corner drugstore, and has just as much right to exist," said Harley B. Markham, chairman of the OAAA. "We regard our displays as business installations, as much so as a garage or store or other type of business."

The billboard, in fact, is one of the oldest types of advertising, almost as old as the town crier. One of the earliest examples is the "Cock and Bull" sign before an English tavern. From that it developed into the poster and then into the modern billboard.

WHY IT'S PICKED ON

Part of the billboard industry's troubles are inherited. Early and unrestricted practitioners affronted esthetic senses by smearing advertisings signs on the most impressive works of God. A billboard artist did not paint an advertising sign on the Rock of Gibralter, but it is probable that some of them had it in mind.

Billboards, in competitive battles with other advertising media, have been at a disadvantage. Recent studies indicate that the best wordage on a billboard, for maximum impact, should be seven words or less. Other media may use thousands of words to denounce billboards; billboard proponents have only seven words or less for an effective reply. What can they say? "A billboard looks good like billboards should"?

The industry has some good answers to some of the more common criticisms. They do not constitute a traffic hazard, the industry insists, with evidence to support it. No traffic authority of stature has blamed them for the rise in accidents; many say that by keeping drivers alert they actually reduce them. There are many places where a billboard warns of a turn in the road long before a state sign.

And to the common criticism that billboards deface the country-side, the industry has the incontestible answer: Eighty-five per cent of all billboards are in urban areas.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

FACING LIFE WITH COURAGE

There was once a young man graduated from college with honors and later from professional school with the same high standing. But he had always imagined himself an invalid. He could not eat with his classmates, and wherever he went he had to have special dishes, fit only for an invalid, prepared for him. After practicing his profession for a few years, he retired to his large estate. Physicians from all over the country examined him and pronounced him perfectly healthy in every respect. Yet he has never done a man-size job. He has gone through life with a spoon in one hand and a package of bicarbonate of soda in the other. He was rich enough to be an invalid, so he took full advantage of his opportunity.

The same year this "invalid" entered college, a classmate of his was stricken with infantile paralysis. He lived more than ten years and was never able to move a muscle of his body. But he carried on a brisk insurance business from his bed and made his home a social center for the young people of his community. When he died, his village mourned the loss of one of its most helpful citizens.

Sickness is a dreadful reality in this sorrowful world, and imaginary invalidism is dreadful also. Some people are sick because they can afford to be so. They either have plenty of money or have some sacrificial relative who is willing to fetch and carry for them. In contrast, we see the heroic souls who take affliction in their stride and make a success of life in spite of it.

This Year's Rope Trick

By JIMMY ELLIS

--And Who Is This Hymie?

My "Sit Down And Think About Music Week," observed last week, was an overwhelming personal success.

It was a period in which I rediscovered the pleasures of thinking about music. It was, as intended, a leisurely, relaxing sort of seven-day period.

However, the success was not so overwhelming for some of my friends. In fact, I am personally disturbed, even in the face of such personal triumph, in the worry I have apparently caused some of my musically inclined friends.

Their worry stems from inclusion of the late great Hymie Sharpiro in the list of musical giants I announced would be given "rather calm and semi-serious consideration" during the week.

They all want to know, "Who is this Hymie?"

Well, first of all, Hymie was a fellow who came up from depressing circumstances to become one of the more progressive Progressive Jazzists. His early life was marked by adverse circumstances: Born in a depression, raised during a great war, and matured in the face of history's greatest cold war.

His parents, poor but honest, did all they could for him. His empty lunch box was always painted, his ragged handerchiefs were clean, and he had money for a haircut when the boys on the docks would let his daddy work.

Hymie was not especially bright, but he worked hard. He took his education in the public schools, learned during his out-of-school hours to be wary of draft boards, and signed up for a four-year hitch in the Air Force when he graduated from high school.

The boy "found" himself in the Air Force. He was assigned to a radar unit and discovered, quite by accident, that radar units could play tunes when they were used in a manner not necessarily approved by regulations.

Hymie's theory was that certain calculated manipulations of the sending and receiving portions of his radar set could produce a new sound. He flunked all of the radar alert exercises, but he became a giant in the radar music field.

As a matter of fact, his fame in the Air Force became so widespread that he was assigned to a major general's staff for the sole purpose of playing his radar for the general. He was offered a commission as a second lieutenan if he would re-enlist, but he refused the offer since he already knew what it was like to be poor.

Back in civilian life, he hooked up with a Progressive Jazz outfit that created a place for him. He worked the night club circuit with the group, using a commercial radar unit during the numbers.

His single responsibility was not playing radar music, however, but simply keeping track of the band's progress up and down the music scales. He went into action only if the band got close to the melody of the song they happened to be playing (a disastrous thing in the life of a jazz group).

Hymie did well.

His group became known as one of the outstanding jazz organizations on the strength of his work in keeping them away from any recognizable melody. The group, and Hymie, was famous for never playing within two notes of the accepted version of any popular song.

The success Hymie found, however, was his downfall. He got careless, and the word got out that Hymie and his group occasionally played songs in the proper key.

The big blast came at the Newport Jazz Festival when Hymie got carried away with playing before 10,000 people. He turned off his set, waved to his friends and sat back with his feet on the drummer's spare tom-tom.

Without Hymie, the band was lost. They played three bars of "South Rampart Street Parade," and everybody recognized it.

Poor Hymie was stoned fatally in the riot that followed.

Other Editors Saying--- Tar Heels Stick

(Washington Daily News)

People of North Carolina have a tenacious quality of sticking. In fact, the name "Tar Heels" was given North Carolinians in battle when our men chose to stick to their positions.

Governor Luther Hodges is quoted as saying "if a hassle over civil rights causes some Southern states to walk out of the Democratic party in 1960, North Carolina won't go along. Then the governor added, "I think North Carolina will stick with the Democratic party."

We feel sure that inwardly most Tar Heels want to stick with the Democratic party. They make no bones about that feeling. They have an inherent love and affection for the Democratic party.

While we too, feel that Tar Heels will stick with the party, what we are wondering is this. Will the party stick by the Tar Heels? When we seek to answer that question, we run into many difficulties. In the light of the expected fight over civil rights, one normally might expect the Democratic party not to stick by the position of the North Carolinians. In that event we have a picture of a state stroup sticking by a party which is doing little to stick by the particular group. Of course, the Republican party will offer the Southern groups nothing. So it is not a choice between two parties. It is more of an effort to make one party in the image Southerners feel it ought to bear.

We have no way now of knowing just how bitter the civil rights hassle will become in 1960. The road we are now travelling gives us promise that a bitter fight will prevail at that time. There is no way to salve the wounds of Southern members and satisfy the whims of Northern liberals. It can't be done with satisfaction to all concerned. We can't play up to Southern Democrats and appeal to Northern liberals with the same platform. It just can't be done. However, history has taught us that the Democratic party is made of many divergent elements. We are a party of compromise. If we walk out of the Democratic party in 1960, then we ought to think about what we will lose and weigh it in the light of what we stand to gain. We stand to lose much prestige in congress. With Democrats in power many of the important congressional chairmanships are in the hands of Southern Democrats. That factor is important to the South. If we lose those chairmanships because we turn our backs on our party, we might lose far more than we'll gain. After all, we really have nowhere to go if we leave our party. The Democrats want to hold the South for what the South can do for it. The Republicans seem to court the South, but they do not make serious love to the South.

If Southerners can stay in the Democratic party and salvage any measure of favor, then we'll be better off that way than we will in leaving the party. We will have a choice to make. We are satisfied of that. The handwriting is already on the wall. The choice won't be an easy one. But it could be a disastrious one.

It is our feeling too, that Tar Heels will stick. We didn't get that name for nothing.

Can't Look Away

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower has doffed his Homburg hat and reluctantly put on again Gen. Ike's old garrison cap.

But this doesn't necessarily mean he's going to make Little Rock, Ark., a beachhead for the U. S. Marines, drop the U. S. 82nd Airborne Division on it or pincer and envelop it with the U. S. 2nd Armored Division and the U.S. 1st Infantry Division.

A lot of people in those outfits come from Arkansas.

But the President's angry reactions to events in that troubled state do sternly imply he is ready, willing and able to assume a role more aggressive than any he has assumed since he was victorious commander of the Western Allied forces against Germany.

This is a man who commanded millions of men in a war against an outside enemy, and was most effective in creating unity to win that war. He has been stirred to anger, never to panic.

A man who has been a victorious general and is presently commander in chief of the armed forces of the United States cannot indefinitely sit idly by when his chain of command is challenged. Nor can a corporal.

Thus President Eisenhower, the statesman-politician, might want to look the other way when a state governor calls out the National Guard on a controversial day, but Gen. Eisenhower, both as soldier and president, is by oath committed to the federal duty.

Ike, the golfing president, became again the general, when he issued a statement — which, to those who knew Eisenhower in war, is an order of the day:

"I will use the full power of the United States, including whatever force may be necessary, to prevent any obstruction of the law and to carry out the orders of the federal court."

To those who think of Eisenhower as a complaint president, it may be pertinent to point out that the foregoing statement is the promise of a general, not unaccustomed to violence, not unused to challenge, not strange to trial, not foreign to victory.

"I will use the full power of the United States," he said, "including whatever force may be necessary to prevent any obstruction of the law and to carry out the orders of the federal court."

This is Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, President of the United States, speaking.

All the troops he needs, he commands where they live — the loyal people of Arkansas.

The best way to calm a family is within the family, within a town the town, within a state the state, within a nation the nation.

As President Eisenhower knows — as Gen. Eisenhower will probably prove.

Inflation Threat Is Number One

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON President Eisenhower has finally decided that continuing inflation constitutes the most serious threat to the nation's economy and to the Republican Party's success in the 1958-1960 elections.

The dangerous depreciation of money values, including wages, pensions and investment income, overshadows—in fact, underlies—such politically superficial issues as the cold war, racial integration, labor corrucption, the farm revolt, national defense, etc. In essence, all these national and international difficulties boil down to the future value of the dollar, which has reached an all-time low in terms of purchasing power and financial security.

Private political research by GOP agents reveals that inflation—in short, excessively high living costs—is the principal worry of the American people, from Wall Street to the humblest home. The grave questions listed above do—and must—disturb the White House, the State Department and the Pentagon.

IKE'S NATIONAL ECONOMIC STAFF It is for these reasons that, in the face of considerable opposition inside and outside White House circles, Eisenhower has organized this country's first National Economic Staff. It consists of the head of the Federal Reserve System, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers and Eisenhower's personal assistant on economic matters.

This is the first time that the government's experts in this field have been consolidated for an attack on problems of money, credit, public and private spending and all their combined effect on the economy. Too often in the past especially the Treasury and the Federal Reserce, they have been at loggerheads. They have never before combined their talents and resources.

PRESIDENTIAL ACTION FORCED Several untoward developments have forced the Presidential hand and action.

Eisenhower first sought to check the upward spiral by exhortation. He called publicly for "economic statemanship" on the part of management and labor. Although he spoke with characteristic caution, he beseeched them to show restraint in new wage demands and in profit-taking. There was no noticeable response.

He vetoed bills for salary increases for Federal and postal employes on the ground that they were "inflationary," although it was politically dangerous. Despite th Russian menace he ordered a deep cut in defense spending. He refused to support Walter P. Reuther's proposal for a four-day work week.

He talked privately with bankers and industrialists on the danger of inflation, as has Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson. It is expected that his National Economic Staff will engage in a round of off-the-record conferences with the leaders of management and labor on this subject.

EARLIER WHITE HOUSE MOVES FUTILE All these White House moves, however, proved futile. Personal income has hit a record high of $347.3 billion a year. There is almost full employment. Retail sales are booming, with people increasing their mountain of debt by billions a year. Prices and profits remain steady except in a few lines. The unions will cite these factors as reason for wage boosts in forthcoming negotiations. The strife and rivalry within the house of labor will impel each chieftain to outdo the other in gaining fatter pay envelopes for this followers.

Despite the "tight money" policy, funds are plentiful for sound borrowers, large and small. Sales of 1957 cars at giveaway prices are being financed by this kind of credit. Even home construction and industrial expansion have sagged only slightly.

Although dragging at times, stock prices have held up in the face of doestic and foreign difficulties in an amazing way. Small investors, buying on the new instalment plan or through investment trusts, are largely responsible for this steadiness.

TIME FOR GOVERNMENT TO INTERVENE In short, although everybody is worried about inflation, nobody seems to be doing anything to check its evil effects. Which is why President Eisenhower and his politico-economic advisers decided that the time had arrived for the government to intervene more actively than at any period since the formation of the Federal Reserve System in 1914.

BPWC Recognizes Miss Clark

By JULIA FISHER
Publicity Chairman for BPW Week

The Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club salutes another woman who works.

Miss Camille Clark, dietitian at East Carolina College for the past several years, was chosen the Outstanding Club Member for 1956-57.

She was chosen for this honor because of her excellent attendance record at club meetings, her outstanding record of participation in club activities and her leadership in religious and civic projects.

For the past several years the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club has honored an outstanding member at the May meeting. This person is chosen by the club officers, who are not eligible for the award, from the nominations and data presented by the membership. Nominations are made on the basis of their record of attendance, leadership and participation of club and community activities.

With this honor goes the privilege of keeping the silver cup for one year. The cup has the names of all the club members who have been awarded this honor. A personal gift, usually a Business and Professional Women's Club Emblem, is also awarded the outstanding member.

Miss Clark is a native of Eastern North Carolina and a graduate of East Carolina College. Although she is busy many hours of the day planning and serving meals to faculty and students at the college, she finds time for many other things.

She is active in the college affairs, having served as treasurer of the State Alumni Association of East Carolina College. She is also active in the Episcopal Church. Miss Clark is a good representative of business and professional women.

The Sports Reflector

By BILLY ARNOLD

These seems to be no interest at all in the possibility of bringing organized baseball back to Greenville.

A group of Atlantic Coast Conference and North State Conference baseball coaches have come up with a plan to have amateur baseball—featuring the top college baseballers in the state—in Greenville, New Bern, Kinston, Tarboro, Rocky Mount and-or other places.

Actually, the towns are indefinite—as the whole plan is at present—but the plan is to organize a league that will allow the college boys to play organized ball in the summer and also offer the interested towns a league of top-notch action.

The plan, as we understand it, is also to combat the temptation for college baseballers to go professional.

Under such an arrangement, the boys can play plenty of baseball during the summer, play against their own kind, and offer a good program to the fans of this area at the same time. And the temptation to turn pro will be somewhat averted.

A meeting is being held in Kinston on September 30 at the Fairfield Recreation Center at 6:30 to discuss the possibility of such a program. Coaches or representatives from the ACC and the North State conference will be present, along with any and all others interested.

The meeting will be a dutch lunch affair and anyone who is interested in the plan is invited to attend.

ECC baseball Coaches Jim Mallory and Earl Smith are supposed to head a group of Greenville people interested in the plan. Those interested should contact either of them at East Carolina.

Experts Opine Sugar Ray Won't Hang Up His Gloves

NEW YORK (AP)—Was Sugar Ray Robinson serious when he said he was thinking of hanging up his gloves for good?

No, according to most expert opinion.

Robinson threatened to retire after Carmen Basilio lifted his middleweight title Monday night, but most insiders agreed he would try to regain the crown.

They point out that Sugar Ray is a man of tremendous pride, and he dearly wanted to beat Basilio and retire as the champion.

Now, having lost the title three times, he wants to give it one more try. If he can beat Basilio in a return, he'll call it quits. He's 37, and can't go on forever.

Basilio is perfectly willing to go through with the return. The contracts stated that it was to be held in 90 days, but that is purely legal terminology. Because of taxes, neither fighter would want to make it again this year.

It probably will be held sometime between February and June. There is talk of holding it either in Miami or New York if it takes place in February or in Chicago if it goes outdoors in June.

The promoting International Boxing Club lost about $100.000 on the Monday bout, and a Basilio-Robinson return is really the only remaining big money bout left to put on.

Davidson Is Rated 2 TD Favorite Over ECC Eleven

Davidson's Wildcats invade East Carolina College Stadium Saturday night in the role of two-touchdown favorites over the Pirates.

Coach Jack Boone, whose Bucs made a disappointing showing against Richmond in their opener two weeks ago, has been working steadily since that time to have his club in good shape this weekend.

Boone and his assistants spent last week concentrating on fundamentals and conditioning and have started off this week with drills on special offense and defense for Davidson.

Several Bucs received bruises and bumps in the Richmond contest, but are expected to be ready for the Davidson match. Only two boys have been named by the coaches as injured enough to miss play Saturday. They are Jerry Brooks and Bubba Mathews.

Favored

Davidson assumes the favorite role for several reasons: Mainly, Coach Bill Dole's crew showed plenty of muscles last week in drubbing Catawba 26-7. The "quarterback problems" that Dole bemoaned throughout the pre-season were evidently solved by game time last week.

Pirate coaches, who were enthusiastic though not optimistic before the Richmond game, are approaching the tilt with the Wildcats somewhat cautiously. They have warned their boys of the strength of Davidson and have gotten good reaction from the squad.

Workouts thus far this week have been good ones, with plenty of hustle ad spirit from the Bucs.

The game will mark the second meeting this season against a Southern Conference team for the Pirates and will be their first home contest.

Sooners Heavily Voted As Top Team In Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Oklahoma Sooners, whose decisive opening victory over Pittsburgh supported the preseason balloting that nominated them as the nation's No. 1 college football team of 1957, can't lose this week.

After reaching the heights to smash Pitt, regarded as the East's best, 26-0, Oklahoma has an idle Saturday before meeting its first Big Eight rival Iowa State.

Meanwhile, the sports writers and broadcasters, who picked Oklahoma first in the preseason Associated Press ranking poll, reiterated their belief by voting the Sooners the No. 1 rank in the first weekly poll after the start of the season.

The results of Saturday's games brought several changes in the preseason ranking order. Of 74 writers and broadcasters participating in this week's poll, 65 voted Oklahoma first; 4 put Michigan State on top; 2 voted for Duke and single first-place votes went to Navy, Minnesota and Iowa.

In the point scoring on the usual 10-9-8 etc. basis, it was Oklahoma 720, Texas A&M 460, Georgia Tech 374 and Michigan State 354. Completing this week's first 10 were Navy, Minnesota, Duke, Tennesse, Oregon State and Michigan.

The top 10 with first-place votes in parentheses:

1.	Oklahoma (65)	720
2.	Texas A&M	460
3.	Georgia Tech	374
4.	Michigan State (4)	354
5.	Navy (1)	297
6.	Minnesota (1)	275
7.	Duke (2)	249
8.	Tennessee	247
9.	Oregon State	223
10.	Michigan	190

The second 10:

11.	Baylor	169
12.	Iowa (1)	127
13.	Texas	60
14.	Houston	53
15.	Southern Methodist	35
16.	Pittsburgh

Could Upset His Plans For Title

DETROIT (AP) — German heavyweight Willi Besmanoff has the advantage in height and reach and a chance to upset Yvon Durelle's title plans when the two meet tonight in a 10-rounder at Detroit's Olympia Stadium.

But Durelle, a busy fighter who has had six victories in 1957 and a draw with Tony Anthony, may be the next light heavyweight to challenge Archie Moore for the championship if he can record a decisive victory over Besmanoff.

The German boxer, whose biggest win in this country is a decision over heavyweight Bob Baker, will weigh about 188 pounds. He is 5-feet-11 and will have about three inches over Durelle.

Aaron Powers Braves To Second Victory Over St. Louis Cards

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

If streak-hitter Hank Aaron can keep his big bat boomin' it may be "Katie bar the door!" when the Milwaukee Braves and New York Yankees, the power clubs of the majors, start swinging in the World Series next week.

Hammerin's Henry, who hits in spurts but remains dangerous any time he comes to the plate, is on a whale of a ride at the moment, batting .415 with four home runs and 12 RBIs in a 10-game streak. It's no coincidence that his streak overlaps the eight-game streak that brought Milwaukee the National League flag.

It was Aaron's two-run homer in the 11th that nailed the pennant in Monday's 4-2 victory over St. Louis, and it was his first major league grand-slam home run that made last night's 6-1 decision over the second place Cardinals a cinch.

It was Aaron's 44th home run of the year, third in three days, and kept him in the major league lead while southpaw Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's probable choice for the World Series opener a week from today, won his 21st. With the pennant decided, the rest of the NL clubs scrambled for the leftovers last night. Brooklyn's Dodgers, playing what probably was their last game in Ebbets Field, nailed no worse than a share of third with a 2-0 victory over Pittsburgh. Cincinnati clinched fourth and stayed in contention for a third-place tie by beating Chicago's Cubs 4-3 and 11-9 in a twi-night pair.

Philadelphia's fifth-place Phillies defeated the New York Giants 5-0.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox outlasted Kansas City's Athletics, the club that killed their flag bid Monday, 7-6. Ted Williams' 38th home run gave Boston a 2-1 edge over Washington in the only other game scheduled.

Aaron's big homer came in the first after a pair of singles and a walk off right-hander Sad Sam Jones, who didn't finish the frame.

Spahn cracked the Cards again with a five-hitter, giving up the run in the third when Stan Musial doubled and Del Ennis singled.

Rookie southpaw Danny McDevitt gained his second shutout with a five-single job on the Pirates. He struck out nine for a 7-4 record. Bennie Daniels, a right-hander making his first major league appearance, was the loser.

Bob Thurman was 4-for-7 and drove in four runs for the Redlegs in their sweep while Wally Post homered in both games. Thurman's single broke a 3-all tie in the first-game fourth and his two-run homer triggered a clinching three-run nightcap fifth.

Curt Simmons won his 12th with a four-hitter for the Phils with Hank Sauer and Valmy Thomas splitting the Giants' singles. Bob Bowman's two-run single settled it against rookie Curt Barclay in the first.

Willie Mays, hoisted into the Giant leadoff spot in an effort to gain ground on Musial for the bat title, had three trips and lost a point .333. Musial, 1-for-2, stayed at .349.

Willians' homer came in the fourth for a 2-0 lead over Hal Griggs while Frank Sullivan won his 14th with a five-hitter.

Griggs stopped Williams' string of 16 trips without being retired when Ted grounded out in the first. Williams was 1-for-3, losing a point but still 19 points ahead of Yankee Mickey Mantle for the AL bat crown at .384 to .365.

Earl Battey was 3-for-4 and drove in two runs with a homer as lefty Don Rudolph won his first for the White Sox. Wally Burnette was the loser.

Dodgers Demoan Leaving Brooklyn

By ED CORRIGAN

BROOKLYN (AP) — Ebbets Field looked the same as always today. The admission price signs still were hanging. The flags of the eight National League teams still wafted in the Flatbush breeze. Even the tarpaulin was spread across the infield.

There was one big difference, though.

It was a ghost ball park. Barring an unforeseen miracle, the Brooklyn Dodgers never will play there again. Only the official signing of contracts stood between them and moving to Los Angeles next year.

To a man, Brooks were sad at the thought of leaving the little sandbox.

"It's an eerie feeling," said Duke Snider.

Said Manager Walt Alston: "When I came here, I heard that this was a tough town, that the fans could get on you. But they treated me good. I'm slow making friends but when I make them I hate to leave them."

"Gosh, I hope last night's game wasn't our last one in Brooklyn," said catcher Roy Campanella.

"I'm afraid it was the last game in Brooklyn," observed outfielder Carl Furillo sadly. "This is a sorry bunch to have to leave here. It is a good town."

Captain Pee Wee Reese, the senior Brook in point of service, shook his head and said: "I don't think any ballplayer anywhere ever had better treatment that I have in Brooklyn. It's tough."

Organist Gladys Gooding kept up a running selection of sentimental songs and when the ball game was over, she played Auld Lang Syne.

Area Football Fans Have Their Choice On Weekend

Fans in this area will have a wide choice of good football games this weekend, with all of the county's high school teams playing more or less locally.

The card runs like this:

Washington at Greenville
Ayden at Farmville
Vanceboro at Robersonville
Wilson at Eppes

Washington, which has won one and lost one in Northeastern Conference play, will battle Greenville, which has the same record. The Pam-Pack is rated one touchdown better than Coach Bud Phillips' G-Men.

Phillips, nowever, isn't perturbed by odds. His club has already made nervous wrecks of the predictors. They made a good showing against Jacksonville two weeks ago and whipped Kinston 6-0 last week. His team has improved vastly with each game and working hard in drill for the coming one.

Washington defeated New Bern 25-7 in its opener for one of the big upsets of the season, then bowed 20-6 last week to Elizabeth City.

Coastal Conference

The Coastal Conference, thrown into confusion when Ayden bumped league-favorites Robersonville 19-0 last week, will feature two top-notch tilts this weekend.

Robersonville, itching to get back into the picture, plays host to Vanceboro. Nobody has any idea how this one will turn out because Vanceboro is the club that dumped Ayden 7-6 two weeks ago. It should be close.

Ayden will be seeking its second loop victory Friday night at Farmville. The Tornadoes, given a new prestige after their 19-0 tripping of Robersonville, are given a slight edge over the Red Devils. But, then, who can predict the outcome of any Ayden-Farmville game?

Eppes Here

Eppes high school, after bowing to Rocky Mount in its opener last week, will be seeking to break into the win column Friday at Guy Smith Stadium.

A AAA-Conference club, Wilson, will be the Bulldogs' opponents at Guy Smith.

Eppes, in the rebuilding stage this season, is rated the underdog.

The Lonely Man

By JAMES RONALD

CHAPTER 27

On an afternoon of bright sunshine, Andrew Garvin sat on a stool placed in a niche on a hillside with a breathtaking view of the sea. He took a long look at the scene, photographing it mentally, then added a series of bold stokes to the canvas set on an easel before him. Of late his technique had become less meticulous, more spare and ruthless; it had also become stronger. He was using color more challengeingly. Those who had not liked his work in the past would like his present work less; but those who had seen promise before might now see fulfillment.

In the fervor of creation he forgot the hurts and loneliness that had become his lot. Whether he was happy or miserable seemed utterly unimportant compared with the tremendous factor of self-expression. They could do with him as they chose; slight him, spurn him, drive him out, and none of it would matter as long as he could paint. He thought of Van Gogh, accepting confinement in the madhouse, living only for the pictures he produced between attacks of frenzy. The frenzies and the fears were nothing; the exultation of creation was all.

Deborah saw Andrew when she came over the brow of the hill, having plodded through fields with a small wicker basket. So deep in concentration was he that she felt qualms about disturbing him. It seemed unfair to intrude when he so obviously wanted, and needed, to be alone. After all, but for that garrulous woman in the cafe the other morning, she would not have know where to find him.

Her jaw tightened. She would not turn back now. She was going to have matters out with him, once and for all. That was the decision she had reached after lying awake half the night, thinking, conjecturing, and no qualms were going to make her change her mind.

It was unfair that she should take the risks and bear the burden of exonerating him when he did nothing on his own behalf. He had warned her of the dangers and urged her not to meddle, but he ought to realize that when you have a tiger by the tail you cannot let go.

It surprised her to sum up all she had learned. The pieces were all there. It only remained for a hand to reach out for the odd piece which, set in place, would reveal the murder. Andrew's hand, not hers. It was time for him to take over.

Deborah was prepared for him to look unwelcoming at first sight of her. She was agreeably surprised to see his face lightening spontaneously. Andrew rose, stretched himself instinctively to relieve cramped muscles, and came to help her with the basket. He did not ask how she had found him. All week he had been plagued by sight-seers and picnickers, and they would spread word of his whereabouts all over town.

"Food in the basket?" he asked.

"A cold chickens, rolls, and a bottle of wine."

"Let's start on it now," he said. "I'm ravenous."

"I was in two minds about disturbing you," Deborah said.

"That's all right. I've done all I can. I don't mean that it's finished. I've reached a point where I must wait for fresh insight. No, don't look. It hasn't anything to say yet."

He spread his raincoat to be sat on and they lunched together, enjoyed the food, the sunshine and the view in a carefree insistence on the moment that thrust past and future alike into nothingness. They could have been any two people picnicking on a hillside. Instead of the serious discussion she had intended he made her tell him all about herself. She found, to her delight, that he was one of the rare people she could talk to and know her work and aspirations to be understood.

There were so many inevitable gaps and reticences, things that could only be left unsaid, and it took a sympathetic, comprehending listener to fill them in. Tell most people that you were on the stage and they wanted to know what glamorous stars you had met; but it was the technique of acting, the creative process, that interested Andrew Garvin as it interested her. Only too well he understood her doubts and misgivings over her own ability; weren't those hesitations and feelings of uncertainty his own as well: And the glorious uplife of knowing that you had been born to do; he had felt that also.

"I must paint you," he told her. "Not now. When I know you better. When I can see you as clearly in my mind when you are absent as I see you with my eyes when you are there, then I'll be able to do you justice."

He was examining her with the eyes of a painter. The eyes that see the bones and sinews under the flesh. Her slim body was beautifully formed. There were lines and curves so perfect that he doubted his ability to impress them on canvas. Her face was interesting, attractive in an intense fashion, rather than beautiful; her hair and skin were exquisite.

"It's not only because you're lovely that I want to paint you. It's rather more than that. There's an indefinable quality about you that intrigues me." He was still studying her. "Your nose is too long . . . did you know?"

"I know my face isn't large enough. Stage stars always have large faces."

"It's a sweet face," said Andrew Garvin, "even if the proportions aren't quite right."

Bending forward, he kissed her. The touch of his lips sent a vibrant tingling through her. She wanted the moment to go on and on. It was of a sweetness such as she had never know. Andrew drew back and she saw his face becoming withdrawn and haunted once more. They had been two ordinary people enjoying a carefree afternoon; but that was only make-believe. He was remembering the curse that was on him, setting him apart from other men.

She wanted him to kiss her again. She wanted to know whether the second kiss would affect her as much, or less, or more.

Suddenly he scrambled up and was staring eastward, toward the summit of a neighboring hill. Before she could collect herself, he started running in that direction over the uneven ground. Looking after him in bewilderment, Deborah saw Inspector Gray perched high up on the adjacent hill. Perhaps he was spying on them. Deborah could sympathize with Andrew's sudden anger. On a day like this, in a spot like this, it was intolerable to be watched like something under a microscope.

Andrew was now only a few yards from the police inspector. She heard him shouting furiously as he ran, the wrathful challenging shout of one who had been goaded beyond endourance. The inspector came to his feet and awaited Andrew in a stance more aggressive than placatory. Deborah could not catch a word but the men's attitudes and gestures were eloquent.

They were going to fight. It seemed a collision was inevitable.

It looked as if they meant to kill each other. Deborah winced and covered her eyes, unable to bear the sight any longer. — Continue the story tomorrow.

Rehabilitated 118 Handicapped

A total of 115 physically and mentally handicapped men and women were rehabilitated last year in Pitt County, W. H. Brown of the North Carolina Vocational Rehabilitation Service said today.

An additional 23 handicapped persons have completed rehabilitation programs and are available for jobs, Brown added. Rehabilitation service the handicapped individuals have received includes training for a broad variety of employment fields, he said.

The occasion for Brown's statement is National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, which will be observed during the week of October 6-12.

Purpose of the special week, Brown said, is to point up the fact that handicapped people can succeed in any job within their physical and mental capacities if they have been properly prepared.

"Marked progress also is being made," Brown added, "in providing specific rehabilitation services through the North Carolina Vocational Rehabilitation program. The program provides medical services, artificial limbs and other appliances, job training, guidance, placement and other services necessary to make a disabled person employable.

"An estimated 20 of those rehabilitated last year in Pitt County were receiving public assistance estimated at $800 per year," Brown said. "This has been stopped through re-employment at an estimated cost of $2,000—paid just once—for their rehabilitation."

Judge Used His 'Profitable' Pen

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pietro Pugliano and his 18-year-old wife were arraigned yesterday on charges of passing about $3,000 worth of bad checks.

As magistrate E. N. Johnson was about to sign a legal form, his pen went dry. Pugliano smiled and handed his pen to the magistrate.

"Here judge, try this, it made a lot of money for me," he said.

Johnson did just that and held Pugliano and his wife for court.

Labor Sentence For Actor's Son

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Ronnie Burns, actor son of George Burns and Gracie Allen, has been sentenced to spend two Saturdays doing "manual labor" for the Beverly Hills police chief.

Burns, 22, was given the sentence in Municipal Court yesterday as a condition of a 10-day jail term. He also was given one year's summary probation. Burns was sentenced for speeding 85 m.p.h. in a sports car in a 25-mile zone here.

Delivery Of Vaccine To Depend On Supply

RALEIGH (AP) — The supply situation apparently will determine when deliveries begin on upwards of 30,000 doses of Asian flu vaccine on order for state institutions and agencies.

The State Division of Purchase and Contract reported yesterday that some deliveries have been promised for October or November, if supplies are adequate.

Dr. John Hamilton, director of the State Laboratory of Hygiene, said he expects the vaccine will be rather readily available later this fall. North Carolina has been allocated 2.6 per cent of vaccine produced for civilian consumption.

A first distribution under this policy released some 58,000 doses of vaccine in this state on Sept. 13 and a second allocation was made on Sept. 20.

The state has agreed to purchase vaccine for free administration to words of the state, including TB and mental hospital patients and inmates of prisons. If employes of state wish to have the vaccine they must pay for it themselves but many of them will be able to obtain it for the contract price.

North Carolina State College, the University of North Carolina and Appalachian State Teachers College plan to make the vaccine available to students, with costs taken from regular student medical fees.

Bill Henderson, purchase and contract director, said the state has a contract under which it can purchase vaccine against Asian flu at about 31 cents per dose. A vaccine to protect against Asian flu and three other strains will cost about 49 cents per dose, he added.

Wanted 90-Day Sentence In Jail

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A Marine Corps sergeant surprised a municipal judge when he told him he preferred a 90-day sentence rather than 30 days.

Sgt. Richard K. Battershell, 27, Camp Pendleton, Calif., was ordered to serve 30 days for cashing five forged checks totaling $625. He told Municipal Judge Beach Vasey "If I serve 90 days I'll receive a bad conduct discharge from the Marines without a court-martial.

With a 30-day sentence, however, the Marines could court-martial him and make him serve additional time in a military prison, Battershell explained.

Doors Barred To Red China Again

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — the U.N. General Assembly has barred the door to Red China for another year over bitter opposition from India and the Soviet bloc.

The Assembly voted last night in favor of a U.S. resolution to shelve the seating issue for the current session.

The vote was 47 in favor, 27 against and 7 abstentions—virtually the same lineup that defeated Peiping's bid for a U.N. seat last year.

With the perennial Chinese question out of the way, the Assembly resumes its general debate.

India spearheaded the Peiping campaign with a proposal to place the issue on the Assembly agenda for formal debate. While failing, India succeeded in getting plenty of debate on the record—the main thing the U. S. resolution sought to avoid.

Several Scandinavian countries supported the effort to stage a China debate. So did Ireland, although it condemned Peiping for aggressive policies.

Advocates of seating red China actually picked up three votes over last year, when their bid was defeated 47-24 with 8 abstentions. They were Ireland and Morocco, who voted in 1956 to shelve the question, and Ghana, a new U.N. member.

U.S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge declared that the United States does not oppose seating Red China because of its political beliefs, but because the Communist regime was not "peaceloving."

Russia's Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko declared that the U.N. could not bar Red China a seat just because "the United States does not happen to like the way of life" there.

Theologist Sees Conservatism

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Today's young people are far more conservative than their elders in their attitude toward sex, says a California theologian.

"It isn't that today's college-age generation is against the mass exploitation of sex," said Dr. Robert Elliott Fitch. "They are indifferent to it."

Fitch, dean of the Pacific School of Religion, Berkeley, Calif., told a luncheon meeting yesterday that the "lurid age," which began in youthful revolt following World War I, is drawing to a close.

The dean had a final word, however.

"It is ridiculous to speak of the fall of sex. It just can't happen," he said.

"Sex is here to stay."

Police Release 2 of 9 Held For Friday Slaying

WILMINGTON (AP) — Police here have released two of nine persons for investigation since the Friday night slaying of Charles E. Sullivan at a roadside night spot.

Sullivan, 23, died of a .22 caliber gunshot wound suffered in a parking lot melee after an incident involving his wife.

New Hanover County Sheriff Marvin B. Register said he released Antonio N. Mascolo, 20, and Thomas W. Price, 18, yesterday. The two, both Marines, were turned over to Camp Lejeune authorities, Register said.

Of the seven still held for investigation, six are Marines and the other recently was discharged from the Marine Corps. No formal charges have been filed, the sheriff said.

Officers earlier identified them as

Francis N. Platzke, 19, the ex-Marine; and Marines Hugh Paul Faust, 18; Paul Joseph Dunn, 20; Bobby L. Mullins, 19; Leon L. Moyer, 18; William T. Powell, 18; and Dwight Hill, 20.

In addition, the sheriff said Marine authorities are questioning other personnel at Camp Lejeune.

Register said the fracas began after someone accidentally struck Mrs. Sullivan as her husband escorted her to a restroom outside the combination restaurant-night club on the Wrightsville Beach Road.

Apologies were exchanged, the sheriff said, but Sullivan subsequently struck one man in the face. During an ensuing fracas Sullivan took his .22 caliber rifle from his car and used it as a club, the sheriff said.

Medical Examiner L. B. Mason said Sullivan died of a bullet wound in the head. The victim had been beaten, Mason added.

Hoffa Fighting Hard For Post

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—In the face of new attacks from the Senate Rackets Comvittee, Detroit Teamster boss James R. Hoffa campaigned virtually around the clock today to succeed retiring President Dave Beck of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Hoffa, heir-apparent to the top post in the sprawling transportation union with more than a million members, ignored latest developments in Washington.

There the committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) yesterday heard testimony of business agents of Hoffa's Midwest Teamster group were required to make loans of from $1,000 to $3,000 to their boss.

One of the announced candidates who is opposing Hoffa, Teamster Vice President Thomas L. Hickey of New York, set up campaign headquarters in one of the hotels on Miami Beach.

Hoffa has opened his headquarters in the oceanside resort hotel which has been taken over as convention headquarters by the Teamsters.

Peter J. Hoban of Chicago, campaign manager for Thomas J. Haggerty, another of Hoffa's rivals for the presidency, said he will appear before the Credentials Committee today to challenge delegates from 105 locals in trusteeship.

THEY STOOD UP

SALEM, N.H. (AP)—Third grade teacher Mrs. Gertrude Rushton urged pupils to bring their musical instruments to class for a demonstration. Mark L. 8, produced a tissue paper covered-comb. When he began his solo, the class stood and listened with rapt attention. His selection: "The Star Spangled Banner."

Meeting A Man Important To Your Future

This is a scene that is often repeated in our Trust Department quarters. A man and wife stop in to talk with a Trust Officer.

Imagine for a moment that you have just arrived for that first visit. Our Trust Officer puts you at ease. And then you talk together in an informal way about your holdings . . . and about the future of your family. So many things come out in conversation that might otherwise be missed!

We can promise you this-as your estate plan develops, you will experience an inner feeling of real satisfaction.

But estate planning is only part of this story. As corporate executor-trustee, we will be on hand years from now to "follow through" in the interests of your family.

You'll discover a human side to our Trust Department the moment you step inside our quarters. Why not come in now, with your attorney, for that first visit.

Portrait Presented At Meet Of Falkland PTA

FALKLAND—Presentation of a portrait of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sellers Mark Crisp, local community and church leaders for many years, highlighted the first meeting of the Falkland Parent-Teachers Association September 18.

The portrait was donated by friends in the community and will be hung in the school library. Presentation was made by District Principal E. N. Warren.

The meeting's business included planning for a PTA-sponsored supper October 11. Warren introduced the new faculty members, Virginius Haymes, Falkland School principal and eighth grade teacher, and Mrs. Ann Stokes, seventh grade teacher.

Principal Haymes' eighth grade won the attendance prize, and Mrs. Lonnie Belle Turner won the door prize.

The devotional was conducted by Mrs. Carson Baker, who stressed the strengthening of family life through love.

After the meeting adjourned, parents were invited to visit their children's classrooms. Refreshments were served in the library by Mrs. Frank Corbett, Mrs. Eddie Strickland, Mrs. Florence Norville and Mrs. Walter Smith.

The portrait of Mr. and Mrs. Crisp was presented in commemoration of the couple's leadership in local school activities since making their home in Falkland in 1902. Crisp served as school committeeman from the time he moved to Falkland until his death in 1926. He saw the local school grow from a one-room, one-teacher school, through the two-teacher phase, until the consolidation which brought about the beginning of the present school building at Falkland.

Mrs. Crisp was a president of the Falkland PTA, and was in office at the time the grounds for the present building were laid out and landscaped. At her request, her son, the late Dr. S. S. Crisp of Greenville, drew up the plans for the landscaping.

Crisp was engaged in the mercantile business and farming. He had served as a Pitt County Commissioner and was an elder in the Falkland Presbyterian Church at the time of his death.

Plans Appeal To Supreme Court

Notice of appeal to the North Carolina Supreme Court was given yesterday after a civil action was nonsuited in Pitt County Superior Court.

R. G. Jackson entered the appeal notice after his action against Copeland Supply Company and Nathaniel Hill was non-suited. Judge Walter J. Bone allowed the defendants' motion for non-suit on grounds that Jackson's evidence failed to make a prima facie case in the action.

Jackson is seeking to recover $1,500 from the Kinston firm and its agent, Hill, as a result of an automobile accident in Kinston on December 29, 1955. The firm and Hill, in a counterclaim, are seeking to recover $11,525 from Jackson as a result of the same accident.

Boy Charged In Robbery Case

A September 15 robbery that netted $43 was cleared yesterday, according to Pitt County Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson, when a 12-year-old white boy was charged with the crime.

The youth will receive a hearing from Juvenile Judge D. T. House Jr. on a charge of entering the home of Mrs. H. A. McLawhorn near Winterville and taking $43. The youth was charged yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Tyson, Winterville Police Chief Curtis Martin and Jim Buck of Winterville.

Firemen stated the family living in the single-story structure lost all of their furniture and clothing in the fire. Most of the damage was confined to the interior of the house, located on the Addie McCotter farm, two miles north of Grifton on N. C. Highway 11.

The fire was said to have started around a chimney. No report of insurance was disclosed.

Amazon women, who lived in primitive days in the region of the Caspian Sea, permitted only female children to survive.

Traffic Mishaps See Two Injured In County

Two accidents involving personal injury took place on Pitt County highways last night within a one-hour period.

A 50-year-old Winterville man suffered serious facial cuts when he lost control of his automobile on a curve. Earlier in the night a young boy received a broken arm and other injuries in an auto-bicycle mishap on a rural paved road near Grimesland.

Lyman Haddock of Winterville Rt. 1 was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital and transferred to Duke Hospital in Durham shortly after his vehicle plowed through a wooded area off the old Tar Road last night.

Haddock, suffering serious facial injuries, was transferred to the local hospital by the Greenville Rescue Squad. His condition was described as "serious but not critical."

Pfc. Bill Whitehurst of the State Highway Patrol stated Haddock's vehicle left a curve and traveled 360 feet across a ditch and into a nearby woods. The investigating officer said a large tree finally stopped the automobile.

The single-car accident took place around 8:30 p.m. approximately six miles from Greenville.

Whitehurst said his investigation has not been completed.

Larry Ray Elks of Grimesland Rt. 1 suffered a broken arm and lacerations and abrasions of the body when an automobile struck the bicycle on which he was riding early last night.

The 12-year-old boy was said to have been unconscious when transferred to a Washington hospital. His condition was reported to be "fair" this morning.

According to witnesses the youngster ran directly into the path of the oncoming automobile driven by James Jasper Smith of Grimesland Rt. 1. The accident took place at 7:30 in front of a store between Galloway's Cross Roads and Grimesland.

Whitehurst, who also investigated this accident, said no charges had been preferred against Smith. The Highway Patrolman stated his investigation was incomplete.
